Special 'War' Planned For Holiday

JUST A FEW . . . These officers, part of the Patrol in Pitt County, are just a small cog in the wheel of safety which will be turning through the efforts of the Highway Patrol and local law enforcement agencies over the Fourth of July holiday.

The fight against death and destruction on North Carolina highways is a continuing battle and over the Fourth of July holiday, the State Highway Patrol will be waging a special war against law violators in an effort to make the holiday the safest one on record.

Recognizing that safety on the highways of the state cannot be accomplished without the full cooperation of the motoring public, Patrol officials have asked that drivers cooperate with the holiday safety program.

Two line patrols have been scheduled in the county also, according to the officer. These patrols, set up on heavily traveled highways will be patrolled constantly by one officer, who will constantly patrol the 10-mile-long sections for his entire tour of duty.

Cpl. Thomas explained that "whenever traffic laws are enforced and obeyed mishaps and deaths go down" indicating that drivers who "add five or 10 miles an hour to the speed limit, sneak through stop signs or fail to signal for turns" as well as other law violators are asking for trouble.

The troop commander urged those making long trips to leave early and be alert in the expected heavy traffic and suggested drivers stop every 100 miles for a coffee break. He explained that by stopping periodically "get out and stretch," a driver is more alert.

In Pitt County, Cpl. J. G. Thomas said all officers will be working over the holiday period and special emphasis has been placed on certain hazardous moving violations.

"Legal driving takes very little extra effort and is certainly a whole lot safer," Thomas emphasized, requesting the cooperation of every motorist in Pitt in making this a safe holiday period.

Dr. Best pointed out that he has been operating the program since the beginning almost "singlehanded" and that support is needed if it is to continue.

Included in the list of violations Patrolmen will be especially watchful for are driving on the wrong side of the road, failure to yield the right of way, following too closely and speeding, as well as the drinking driver.

The enforcement body will use all equipments at its disposal, including unmarked patrol vehicles and electrical speed checking devices. Dummy speed watch tubes, in addition to the "real thing" will be placed on the highways, Cpl. Thomas noted.

The council's main objective over the years, according to Dr. Best, is to curb illegitimacy, juvenile delinquency and general maladjustment among Negroes.

So far the program has proven useful in the county as Dr. Best noted that the illegitimate Negro births in Pitt County have dropped by about 140 a year since the program began in 1956. In 1961 there were 245 illegitimate births among Negroes in the county.

Serious Damage For Pitt Weed

Some of Pitt County's tobacco crop suffered serious damage from the weekend storm, though the damage may not be as widespread as first thought, county agents indicated today.

Beaufort, Jones, Craven, Pender and Onslow counties suffered extensive water damage. Though Pitt County also was damaged, the losses there are believed slighter, officials said.

Sam J. Weeks, tobacco specialist with the Pitt farm agent's office, said he believes considerable damage has occurred, especially in poorly drained spots in the fields.

As for other crops, Farm Agent C. J. Goodman said today he doesn't feel the corn, peanuts and soybeans are going to be damaged a great deal.

He visited sections of the county at Belvoir, Falkland and Fountain yesterday and said the situation there is not as bad as he had anticipated. Rainfall in some areas was lighter than in others.

Reid Smith, key field man for the Federal Crop Insurance office here, said he had received three reports early this morning of damaged tobacco in the Black Jack area.

Preliminary surveys of Eastern North Carolina farmland, made by Federal Crop Insurance officials, indicated that Martin, Pitt's rainfall varied during the two rainy days of Friday and Saturday, with four and a half inches recorded in Greenville and an estimated eight or nine inches in the Grifton area.

The assistant noted that a lot of cash had been received due to the recent heavy rains. He said that some varieties of tobacco suffered more than others.

Temperatures were mild, with the day's low recorded at 70 degrees.

Goodman also requested that $300 be added to the agricultural agent's budget for the coming year for travel expenses of a poultry specialist.

The weather forecast is for continued mild today and Tuesday with partly cloudy and chance of scattered showers on Tuesday, mostly in the mountains.

In the only other budget matter this morning the commissioners answered a request by the forestry service for an additional $1,400 to take care of the purchase of new trucks.

Soblen Future Hazy After Suicide Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spy Robert A. Soblen is not in very good shape and his return to the United States is not expected soon, a Justice Department official said today.

be prevented by Soblen's condition.

The department earlier had said Soblen was expected to be flown shortly to this country from a British hospital, where he was taken Sunday after attempting suicide on a plane bound from Israel to New York.

Other sources said Soblen was out of danger though still too weak to travel. He lost two pints of blood. Promptly administered blood transfusions restored a measure of his strength.

Soblen suffers from leukemia—cancer of the blood—and doctors said last August he had less than a year to live.

Soblen, accompanied by a U.S. marshal, made his suicide attempt aboard an El Al Airlines Boeing 707 over the English Channel as the big jet approached London for a routine stop.

The Lithuanian-born doctor was rushed to Hillingdon Hospital where Scotland Yard detectives stood guard over his room.

A British Home Office spokesman made clear that Soblen, who was deported Sunday from Israel, would not be allowed to stay in Britain.

"As soon as Dr. Soblen is fit enough to travel, he will have to leave the country," the spokesman said.

Soblen forfeited $100,000 bail and fled from the United States last week after losing an appeal against the life sentence given him for spying for the Soviet Union during World War II. He was traced to Tel Aviv, Israeli authorities expelled him on the grounds that he entered the country on false documents—the Canadian passport of his late brother.

Soblen was secretly banded aboard an Israeli airliner at Lydda Airport Sunday morning for Athens and transferred there to a chartered El Al airliner returning 152 Americans from vacations in Israel.

Newsmen in Rocher Noir saw movements of Moslem troops on the highways nearby. The troops said they were members of the local force, which consists principally of 60,000 men who served in the French Army. They were formed into special units to assume Security during Algeria's transitional period.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Welfare Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff's resignation from the Cabinet is expected to be on President Kennedy's desk within the next two weeks.

Ribicoff is an avowed candidate for the Senate nomination. He is opposed by U.S. Rep. Frank Kosciuszko, who has threatened to challenge Ribicoff in a primary.

For traveling, the bride wore a dress of blue Schiffli embroidery on white Dacron, with white accessories and orchids lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained Friday night at a cake cutting and reception at the Sir Walter Hotel given by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sharpe and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wright of Raleigh, after the wedding rehearsal.

After the ceremony, the couple motored to Miami, where they will sail July 9 to Nassau in the honeymoon suite of the Cruise Ship SS Bahama Star of the Eastern Steamship Corp. Upon their return from the wedding trip, they will be at home at 2601 Ramsey Road in the new Brentwood Development of Raleigh, July 23rd.

WINSTON-SALEM — Miss Martha Elizabeth Tyler and Ronald Webster Leonard were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon, June 27.

Convertible Owners Typed

EVANSTON, Ill. (WNS) — Professor Ralph Westfall of Northwestern University reports owners of convertible autos are "more active, more vigorous, more impulsive, more dominant and more sociable" than either standard or compact car owners. They are also, he said, "less stable and less reflective." Dr. Westfall found no personality differences between owners of Fords and of Chevrolets.

Recognition For A Positive Step

Increasing support behind the idea of a CAB investigation of the feasibility of a true regional airport for this section of Eastern North Carolina is evidence that Greenville is not by itself in seeking such a goal.

It is also clear-cut that Gov. Sanford, in supporting the call for such an investigation, is acting in the best interest of the section as a whole and not seeking to promote the interest of any individual community against any other community.

Support for the regional airport investigation has come in recent days from Greene, Edgecombe and Martin Counties, Tarboro, Williamston, Washington and other cities and towns within the area.

This support dispels the contention made by some other communities that Greenville is merely trying to block air service to their communities in order to get local air service for itself.

It also dispels any possible criticism of Gov. Sanford for supporting the call for an investigation of a possible regional facility to serve a broad section of Eastern Carolina with a much higher calibre of air service than could possibly be obtained through fragmentary service at purely local airports in the area.

The Reflector commends Gov. Sanford on his farsighted view in the interest of the area as a whole reflected by his support of the proposed investigation. All of Eastern Carolina recognizes the need for better commercial air service in this area if the economic potential of the area is to move forward with the speed it should. The proposed investigation of the possibility of a regional facility will be a constructive instrument in attaining the common goal of better air service of higher calibre in which all of the communities of the area are intensely interested.

In every way, the proposed investigation would be a positive rather than a negative step in the interest of better commercial air service in this region. It is deserving of the support it has already received and the additional support that will be forthcoming as more communities acknowledge the merits of such an investigation.

Charles Gold's Death Severe Loss To State

North Carolina's late Insurance Commissioner, Charles F. Gold, rendered an important and significant service to the people of the state during the period in which he served in his office.

The death of Commissioner Gold deprives North Carolina of one of its most capable and conscientious public servants.

During the nine years he held the post of Commissioner of Insurance, Charles Gold was a militant protector of the public interests and did not go hesitate to bat for the people of the state when he felt their interests were at stake in insurance matters. In difficult matters such as automobile insurance rates, drastic readjustments in storm insurance along the coast, hospitalization coverage for older people, Commissioner Gold left no doubt that he was dedicated to being fair, but firm where the interest of the public was at stake.

He served the people of North Carolina well, and the record of his achievement in office has stood the people in good stead.

Sweden Re-emphasizes Foreign 'Loan' Policy

The American taxpayers should find some reassurance in the fact that the kingdom of Sweden retired its Marshall Plan loans from the United States 21 years ahead of schedule with a payment of more than $16 billion last week.

For the most part the American people have seen their government dollars flow to other nations like a great river of gold in loans and aid of various kinds over the past few decades. In some instances the debts have been renounced by recipients after their period of dire need was passed. In other instances the repayment schedules have been delayed, part of the indebtedness cancelled and payments otherwise avoided for one reason or another.

These and other factors brought about the popular opinion that many of the loans were in reality not loans that the nations would honor with repayments, but rather gifts that would be taken without regard for repaying the debt.

Sweden, which is not a large or wealthy nation by many of today's standards in the world, has taken the obligation seriously and has repaid the loans out of the recovery which they made possible in its economic progress. It is a shining example of what a nation can do to discharge its financial obligations if its people and its government have the desire to do so.

Predicting Next U.S. Recession

By RALPH ROBEY
Ewan Clague, the highly regarded commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, was reported as having predicted in a speech in Atlantic City that we would have the next recession start in 1963. Seldom has anything caused more furor within the ranks of the Administration. Secretary of Labor Goldberg apparently was outraged and telephoned Clague immediately. The upshot was that the commissioner issued another statement explaining that he was not making a prediction, but merely pointing out that if one applies the average of the post-war recoveries to this period it would indicate a downturn in 1963.

Presumably that settled the Clague episode, but it does not answer the basic question of when we shall have the next recession.

At the moment this is a sluggish recovery, and it is getting more and more difficult to find significant favorable business news. Automobile sales are holding up remarkably well and the industry is convinced that this will be the second best year since the war.

Housing starts also continue to advance. In May the nonfarm

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
STRENGTH
We all realize the necessity of coming to God in hours of weakness and distress. What we fail to realize, however, is that life is never complete unless we bring our strength and power to God as well as our weakness and our problems. If we fly to God only in the hour of trouble, then we are far from being faithful servants.

Over And Out

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

It's Not Good Etiquette

Copyright, 1962, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It seems that persons regard it as obligatory that when they write letters, one should immediately drop everything and reply. Bill Buckley, a good fellow, wrote to me, asking why I have no enthusiasm for Dr. Fred Schwarz. When I got around to it, I replied as I chose, still being a free person. Bill, however, got all excited and wrote a piece on my wickedness in not replying to him.

Now, it seems that my good friend, Gene Lyons, wrote to me about Schwarz and he also wrote to Arnold Forster of the Anti-Defamation League. I have not replied to this letter of Gene's. I often reply to letters by calling the person on the telephone. It is a habit. According to the "National Review" Forster also has not replied to Gene. I do not know anything about Forster's letter habits. Maybe he replies rapidly or in due course. Maybe he regards the Schwarz matter as too insignificant.

According to the "National Review": "In its June 5 and June 19 issues, National Review commented on the attempt to smear Dr. Fred Schwarz in conjunction with his first public activities in New York City, and on the role which Arnold Forster and the Anti-Defamation League have played in that defamatory operation."

If Dr. Schwarz was, as Bill Buckley says, "ameared," it would be interesting to see some evidence of that. For instance I believe that an alien should mind his own business about the United States. I have for decades objected to and resisted Russian interference in American affairs. I have written about British and German interference in our affairs.

Dr. Schwarz is an Australian. He is not an American citizen. Therefore, before I can pay the slightest heed to his discussion of an American problem, I want to know why, if he lives here, earns his living here, works here, and only visits Australia occasionally, he does not become an American citizen.

When Dr. Schwarz came to New York, he advertised his operation as "The Christian Anti-Communism Crusade." No one can object to that. Surely many are Christians and it is a worthy cause to be an anti-Communist. But why remain an Australian and work in the United States and raise money in the United States and not become an American citizen?

Furthermore, why drop the name "Christian Anti-Communism Crusade" in New York? That is a good name, why not use it? Perhaps it was suggested that in New York, one must be more interdenominational. Well, that is not a bad argument. And yet, if one wants to be denominational, why not? To abolish denominations opportunistically is like the Supreme Court's attempt to abolish God.

Gene Lyons, who is a Senior Editor of the Reader's Digest and a truly well-informed person on Communism and Russia, said in his letter to Arnold Forster: "I have found nothing that would even remotely justify the implications of the 'thumbs down' by the ADL. I can only suppose, therefore, that you know something about him that nobody else seems to know. I do believe, both as a Jew and as a journalist, that you ought to share the information with me."

In an interview with a radio commentator Dr. Schwarz said: "Well, this (The Greater New York School of Anti-Communism) is not a function of the Christian Anti-Communism Crusade; but they won't let me get away from it. They — this is — a non-political, non-sectarian, anti-Communism rally; and we're anxious and eager to have full cooperation of everyone on a basis of complete equality in this. We believe in cooperation and competition. And this is the area of complete cooperation."

Now, it would seem that in sponsoring his meeting at Madison Square Garden on June 28, Schwarz claimed exemption for admission tax on tickets on the grounds that the School was an activity of the Crusade. The tax exemption was granted. But for the same statement, he made contradictory claims as indicated above. This I do not understand. Perhaps Lyons or Schwarz can explain that.

Aztecs Started It All

By JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — When the Spaniards blew into town in 150, the Aztecs had a tremendous palace on the site where the National Palace of Mexico now stands.

Apparently, it was quite a house, covering several city blocks. Mr. Hernan Cortes wrote a letter to King Charles V of Spain and told him all about it. "Emperor Moctezuma travels first class, sire," Mr. Cortes wrote. "You should see the spread he lives in. Twenty doors open to the street and the banging during a wind storm must be fearful. The walls are made of marble and the ceilings are finely carved wood. One of the party halls will take 3,000 people. And in the upper story, thirty knights could hold a tourney. It pains me to say this, King, but our fatherland has nothing to equal this pad in size or quality."

I did not personally read the letter but historians who did claim this is the information Mr. Cortes passed along.

Later on, when the Spaniards and Aztecs got into a discussion about the real estate, Mr. Cortes had his men fire a good many cannon balls at the city.

And it looked like a junk yard when they got through. The Aztecs said it was a pretty sad way to run a country. The Spaniards said they were right and rounded up all the volunteers in sight to build a new town.

Mr. Cortes apologized for knocking down the fine old palace and to make up for it, he let the Aztecs build another. It turned out so well, although smaller than Mr. Moctezuma's building, that he wrote the King and asked for a title to the new palace.

The King sent Mr. Cortes a deed and best wishes. That was the beginning of the history of today's Palacio Nacional.

After Mr. Cortes passed on to his reward, King Philippe II bought the palace from the Cortes family and turned it over to the government of New Spain.

An assortment of viceroys lived there and everybody added a wing or a couple of rooms. There was a bull ring inside the place and each Friday, the blue bloods gathered to watch a few rounds of bull stabbing.

In 1624, the civilians got upset at the government and set fire to the palace. In 1692, they became nervous again about a food shortage and put the torch to what was left.

Padre Diego de Valverde drew up a set of plans and shortly after, the new palace was inaugurated. It is the basis of the present building.

European finery was shipped over to complete the decoration job and the population developed a more serene attitude toward their fine new structure. From there on, everyone seems to have had a hand in the national architecture. The whole government moved into the palace after the Spaniards were chased out.

In 1847, Gen. Winfield Scott came down with his U. S. troops and ventilated the place with his cannon. The Mexican stone masons union said "here we go again," and got out their tools.

President Herrera tidied up things in 1850. President Santa Anna and Benito Juarez added touches of their own. Mr. Porfirio Diaz ducked out with the national treasury after the revolutionaries beat up the palace early in this century. And President Venustiano Carranza called in the tired old masons to patch up the damage.

After considerable rebuilding, a third story was added and Mexico settled down with its present historical structure. Mr. Diego Rivera was called in to paint the history of the country in a series of murals on the walls. It is spectacular but was not finished.

But the National Palace became a source of great pride to Mexicans. Loaded with history and tradition, its elegant salons are filled with aristocratic old furniture and massive chandeliers. Walls are lined with portraits of stern looking viceroys, patriots and presidents.

And nobody has fired even one shot at the palace in more than 40 years.

Other Editors Saying... Kennedy's Policy Altered

(Richmond News Leader)

Campaign promises are just campaign promises, thank goodness. At his news conference Wednesday, President Kennedy announced that he was not going to hold himself to the 1960 campaign debate in which he said that Quemoy and Matsu were outside the defense perimeter of Formosa. Now that the defense of the islands is up for a second round after four years, his program is the same as President Eisenhower's: we will defend Quemoy and Matsu, if, and, but, and under some circumstances.

On paper, at least, the islands are particularly vulnerable. They lie 130 and 110 miles from Formosa, and 150 miles apart. Quemoy has 50 square miles, Matsu 4 square miles. The islands are home for 54,000 people. Most important, they are only three or four miles from the coast of Fukien Province, where the Chinese Communists have been massing troops for the past few weeks.

But the idea of abandoning the islands is indefensible. The islands symbolize the intent of the Peking government to invade Formosa. Practically, they provide a base even now for intelligence and infiltration. Their possession in Nationalist hands pins down thousands of Red troops who might make trouble elsewhere. China is now in the greatest ferment since we forced Chiang Kai-shek to accept the Communists into the coalition government that led to disaster. If a rebellion were to erupt on the mainland, Chiang must be in a position to rush in and support the patriots. The free world must not be paralyzed by another Hungary.

At this moment, reliable reports say that Chiang is dropping food packages and propaganda leaflets in areas of starvation. Hope is only four miles away. Withdrawal from Quemoy and Matsu would place hope not in Formosa, 110 miles away, but at the infinite and unbridgeable distance of despair.

The Kennedy-Eisenhower plan for the offshore islands throws in a whopping reservation: Quemoy and Matsu will be defended "if there were an attack which was part of an attack on Formosa." We can't think of an attack on the two strongholds which would not be an attack on Formosa; but we bet the State Department can, and we bet that Peking can. The plan offers a little reassurance, but it tempts Peking to announce a limited war, and it leaves the U.S. with a semantic door open for retreat, if victory seems at the moment inconceivable.

The President made it clear that he has no intention of giving Chiang permission to invade Fukien. "The power arrangements in this area (Quemoy and Matsu) are defensive," he said, in response to a specific question. At the moment they are defensive, and Chiang's already large garrisons there are not increasing. Should the situation on the mainland change, and insurrection break out against the Red taskmasters, the small islands of Quemoy and Matsu can be Chiang's fulcrum for a long lever reaching to Peking.

'Sour Grapes' Stalling Tourism

By ELMER ROESSNER

It was predicted here that the United States government's campaign to attract foreign tourists would not produce many travelers nor much foreign spending. Nothing since then has upset this prediction. As the summer tourist season gets under way, the incoming planes and boats carry few foreign tourists but many Americans who have spent heavily abroad in advance of the season.

Now comes Ernest Dichter, president of the Institute for Motivational Research, with a study on why tourists aren't stampeding over here.

His study, based on long, probing interviews with 200 persons in Western Europe, showed that it is utterly impossible to convince foreigners that it is inexpensive to travel in the U. S. But deeper reasons are keeping people away, Dr. Dichter found. SOUR GRAPES COMPLEX One is what he called the "sour grapes complex." Foreign travelers are simply jealous of our standard of living.

They feel the same as an American does who visits a relative with a nicer home and an apparently larger income; they say, "even if I could afford it I wouldn't want to live the way he does."

Another reason is "frustrated love." All travelers dream of a far-off land where everything is perfect and so do many travelers coming here. Then when they find everything isn't perfect here "unrequited love does not stop with frustration but often goes on to aggression."

A third reason is the "shock of self-confrontation." Europeans, who are developing fast, see in America what their countries may be like a decade or a generation from now, and they don't like what they see.

A fourth reason lies in the fact that America can't be typed. Foreigners keep asking, "What is America really like?" and when they discover there is no pal answer, say the country is confusing.

A fifth reason is America's relative self-sufficiency, which does not exist in European countries, and American consciousness of this superiority. This image, encountered everywhere, "especially among U. S. customs officials," causes travelers to stay away.

WHAT TO DO Dr. Dichter suggests five steps to be undertaken before an effective campaign:

1. Admit our own faults before they can be discovered by others.
2. Praise the wonderful qualities of guests; let them know their forefathers contributed to the building of the country.
3. Make it clear to the emotion-hungry traveler that his paradise does not exist, and that his advice and judgment will be welcomed by Americans.
4. Make the foreigner feel that by looking at America and seeing himself in the future, he will also achieve individuality and gain a broader understanding of the peoples of the world.

5. Help the foreigner to classify America by pointing out there is American food, American friendliness and an American democratic feeling. "American history might be explained as the only revolution that has truly succeeded."

And, as Dr. Dichter did not find necessary to point out, it might help to make it cheaper for foreigners to travel in the U. S. A.

WORLD'S FIRST NO-COFFEE STEWARDESSES

The world's first helicopter stewardesses take to the air today when New York Airways introduces 25-passenger craft on its routes between New York and New Jersey airports. But the stewardesses will serve no coffee, tea or milk. The runs are too short for that so all they can do is to point out landmarks and answer questions.

Two Financial Market Mysteries May Offer Reciprocal Solutions

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The financial markets have a couple of mysteries to ponder this holiday week. The solutions might be: They explain each other.

The first is growing evidence that higher money and higher interest rates may be sought even though the business recovery seems to be running out of steam. That is just opposite from the way federal money markets anxious to see the economy grow are expected to act.

The second mystery is why the nation's gold stock hasn't diminished in six weeks. During that time there has been increasing talk abroad about the potential weakness of the dollar (even of eventual devaluation), a rising speculative demand for gold in preference to dollars, and the apparent buildup of dollars in European central banks. In more normal times these would lead to a renewed outflow of gold from the U.S. Treasury.

Many students of financial whodunits think the two mysteries are connected this way: European bankers appear to be acting under an accord reached several months ago to protect the dollar from any such speculative onslaughts.

And the U.S. money managers, in turn, could be heading European advice that way to lessen outside pressure on the dollar is to raise interest rates here. This helps to keep investment money at home instead of going overseas to add to the pile of dollars available for exchange for U.S. Treasury gold.

But what the financial observers would like to know—and are never told in advance—is whether the current tightening of money reserves is a prelude to stiffer measures to raise interest rates.

For the banks themselves this would mean better profit prospects. They have raised the rates they pay on savings accounts, but haven't been able to hike the charges to lenders.

For borrowers, whether business firms or consumers, higher interest charges might mean second thoughts on going into debt to buy goods or equipment or finance business ventures.

But still another aspect of the financial puzzle: Could this reluctance be overcome by tax cuts or by increased government spending that promised more orders, more output, more jobs?

There are other factors cited in Wall Street for the apparent tightening of money and credit by the Federal Reserve so that the banks' free reserves for lending are the lowest since October 1960—and the talk that the Fed may raise the interest charge on funds it lends to banks.

One factor is the prospect of increasing federal deficits which will add to the money supply, offsetting the Fed's tightening measure. Another is the growth in savings accounts, also adding to the funds the banks could lend.

McLendon Vows Fight To Wire

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The chairman of the State Board of Higher Education has promised to fight to the last ditch a proposed reorganization of the board.

Maj. L. P. McLendon of Greensboro rejected a compromise adopted this weekend by two committees of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School.

The full commission meets here Friday to act on the reorganization proposal.

McLendon said he would oppose it before the full commission, and carry the fight to Gov. Sanford and the 1963 General Assembly, if necessary.

State Sen. John R. Jordan of Wake said the compromise was worked out to meet objections Mc-

Leondon had raised.

Originally, the two committees of the commission adopted a plan to expand board membership from 9 to 15, to give seats to presidents of both state-supported and private colleges, and to strip the board of much of its authority over the public institutions.

Jordan's compromise called for an 11-member board, composed of six laymen, one member of the State Board of Education, and three other public college administrators. The board would be left with its authority to allocate and coordinate educational functions of the colleges, and to make recommendations on budgets.

McLendon had suggested an advisory council, non-voting role for college administrators, and asked that the board's powers be strengthened rather than trimmed.

A few months ago, McLendon, who is chairman of one of the two commission committees, voted for the original reorganization plan. Later, he reversed his stand. He said he had been ill at the time, and failed to understand the import of the proposal.

Driver Charged In Collision

James Eldred Payne, 41, of 206 Paris Ave. was charged with reckless driving early Sunday morning following investigation of a collision on U.S. 264A West of Greenville.

Trooper Howard Winslow said the Payne vehicle crashed into the rear of a car, parked changing a tire beside the roadway. Owner of the parked vehicle was identified as James Elmar Tyson, 39-year-old Negro of 1001 B. South Evans St.

Damage to the Payne vehicle was set at $800 while an estimated $300 damage was done to the Tyson car.

Four persons were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for minor injuries and released. The crash occurred about two miles from Greenville about 1:25 a.m.

Sadness And Gladness Go With 2-Day Visit

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—Sadness and Gladness mingle in a German Couple's two-week visit to North Carolina which starts today.

Sadness because the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Quint of Frankfort-on-Main, will visit the grave of their 23-year-old daughter, Mrs. Ray Alexander Wilson, the wife of an American soldier.

Gladness because they will be able to see for the first time her three motherless daughters, and because the trip has been made possible by citizens of this area who raised $2,000.

Mrs. Wilson and her father-in-law, John Marshall Wilson, were shot to death last year by a neighbor, Ralph Nesbitt Cook, 25, who has since been declared mentally incompetent. Cook, an unemployed furniture worker, lured them from their farm home five miles southeast of here with the plea that they give him a ride in their car to visit his sick relative.

The Quint's daughter married Ray Alexander Wilson while he was stationed at a base near their home. The newly married Wilsons later went to Texas where their three daughters were born. The children are Jacquelyn, now 17 months old; Barbara, 3, and Henrietta, 4, who are living with their paternal grandmother.

The children's father, now an Army sergeant, was stationed in Korea, at the time of the slayings. He is now based in Louisiana, and is to be discharged soon. When he went to Korea, his wife and the children came to live with his parents.

The Quints are to arrive in Charlotte by plane shortly after 4 p.m. EST today, and be met by Morganton and Burke County civic officials, who will escort them to Morganton.

Mayor H. L. Riddle of Morganton says, "There have been so many offers to entertain the couple that we simply didn't find time for them all."

Area Airport Support Urged

Sen. Robert Lee Humber urged the support of area air service, a produce market and the county's industrial school in speaking to the Exchange Club Friday night.

Sen. Humber spoke on North Carolina's responsibility to her heritage.

Unless one is aware of his past history, one feels little responsibility for the future, the senator stated.

North Carolina's history dates back to 30 years before the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock.

With such a long and rich heritage, the people of this area should be working to uphold this heritage through support of better air travel through an area airport, a produce market to bolster agriculture, and the county's industrial school to train those not interested in college and to attract industry, he declared.

Program chairman Ed Parkinson introduced the senator. Vice President Bruce Koonce presided over the meeting in the absence of Pres. John Behr.

Old Fashioned Fourth Planned

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Roanoke parents here decided it is time its children quit asking the question: "What does the Fourth of July mean?"

Two neighborhoods have banded together to state an old fashioned Fourth of July celebration for their children.

What started out as a joke has now become a more serious effort. Unofficially the group calls itself The Society for the Promotion and Presentation of Oldtime Fourth of July Celebrations.

The movement gained momentum the last several weeks and now parents on Wright Road and Royan Road have even come up with a printed program of events.

There will be a parade followed by some old-fashioned oratory by husbands and fathers during the Founding Fathers.

The audience will sit in a grandstand and afterward there will be foot races, a pie eating contest, a swimming meet, and a picnic.

Greece has the sixty largest merchant fleet in the world, according to Lloyd's Register.

2 Nations Born Amidst Conflict

USUMBURA, Burundi (AP)—Two new African nations, the Republic of Rwanda and Kingdom of Burundi, were born Sunday against a backdrop of tribal conflict that could turn the former U.N. trust territory into another Congo.

Independence ceremonies were held in Usumbura and Kigali, capitals of the territories which have been administered by Belgium as Ruanda and Urundi.

Leaders in both cities warned of possible future violence from the ancient animosity between the tall Watutsi and the more numerous Bahutu they once enslaved. It is feared that this may break out again after Belgian troops leave.

The two nations, with combined populations of five million and an area totaling about 20,000 square miles, start out with little money in their treasuries and few resources to sustain them.

President Kennedy sent congratulations to both nations and expressed U.S. willingness to work with them in the cause of freedom and peace.

The new nations received quick recognition from the Communist side.

Suggests Estes Case Firings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson says Undersecretary Charles Murphy and four other Agriculture Department officials should be fired for granting favors to Billie Sol Estes.

Wilson also expressed his view on a television program that Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman should resign for lack of prompt action in the Estes scandal.

An Agriculture Department spokesman declined comment.

Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, a member of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, appeared on the program as defender of the Agriculture Department. He said his committee, which resumes its hearings in the Estes case Thursday, has found no evidence of favors from Estes to persons still in the Agriculture Department.

Estes, a Pecos, Tex., financier, is under state and federal fraud charges involving about $22 million in mortgages of fertilizer tanks which the FBI has said do not exist. Manipulations of his cotton acreage allotment and his storage of government grain also are under state and federal investigation.

Wilson, who has spent three months on the Estes inquiry, said: "I don't think there is an question as all that he built an empire on favors, largely in the Department of Agriculture."

The favors included, he said, approval of the cotton allotment deals which he contended were known in Washington before charges were brought against Estes. He also listed movement of government grain to Estes elevators from the Midwest, and failure to increase from $700,000 to a million dollars the bond on grain Estes stored for the government.

Wilson said Murphy should be fired along with Horace Godfrey, administrator of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Services (ASCS) John C. Bagwell, Agriculture Department general counsel; Joseph A. Moss, director of the ASCS cotton division; and Tom Miller, ASCS Southwest area director.

Biggest Shot Of Series Set

By CLAUDE BURGETT HONOLULU (AP)—The United States will make a third try at exploding its biggest and highest atmospheric nuclear shot of the current Pacific series on Wednesday night, the Fourth of July, above Johnston Island.

A spokesman for Joint Task Force 8, which is conducting the tests at Johnston and British-owned Christmas Island, said the blast is scheduled between 4 a.m. Thursday and 7:30 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Washington reports have indicated the explosion will bring the Pacific series near conclusion. The reports said the series is about 85 per cent completed.

The test comes within the two or three months mentioned by President Kennedy in March when he announced the decision to resume nuclear testing. The series, tagged Operation Dominic, began April 25.

President Signs Debt Limit Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has signed into law bills raising the public debt limit to $308 billion and extending for three years his authority to curb trade with unfriendly nations.

The administration had requested an $8-billion increase in the debt ceiling in order to give the Treasury sufficient flexibility to finance government operations during the fiscal year that began Sunday.

The new ceiling is temporary and due to revert to $300 billion next June 30. If there is an unbalanced budget this fiscal year, there could be an attempt to raise the ceiling further.

The Export Control Act extends presidential authority in effect since 1949 and adds new provisions designed to strengthen the government's hand in its efforts to keep Communist countries from getting vital goods from the United States or its allies.

JFK's Smashing Triumph Boosts Alliance Hopes

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's hopes for success of his Alliance for Progress were buoyed today by his second personal diplomatic venture into Latin America—a smashing triumph in Mexico City.

Millions of Mexicans in gay fiesta spirit poured into the squares and esplanades of their capital and packed the streets to cheer the President and Mrs. Kennedy on their weekend visit.

That outpouring of humanity, which all but engulfed the presidential bubble-top limousine as it inched its way Sunday from Mexico's most famous shrine, the basilica of Our Lady of Guadalupe, alone marked the trip a success.

Kennedy's Alliance for Progress in Latin America, a multibillion-dollar international aid program spearheaded by the United States, is keyed to "peaceful revolution" to benefit the little people of the hemisphere. He obviously is working on the theory that loans and grants aren't enough, that the job can't be done without enthusiasm of both governments and people.

From that standpoint the President and First Lady scored heavily on their trip to Venezuela and

2 New Staffers To Boost ECC Drama Program

East Carolina College's program in drama will receive a new impetus when Edgar A. Loessin, Jr., of Terafly, N.J., left the faculty in September at the beginning of the 1962-1963 academic year. Both have extensive backgrounds of training and experience in the drama.

Loessin will become director of the East Carolina Playhouse, student theater organization which presents each year a series of plays. Sneden will act as technical director of the organization. As members of the Department of English, they will conduct classes in drama and in play production.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina, Loessin held a Kay Xyzer Scholarship there for two years. He received the Master of Fine Arts Degree in directing from Yale University. In the New York theater from 1958 to 1961 his work included posts as production stage manager of "Show Girl" and "Lend An Ear," and in Actor's Studio productions. During this period he also held a Ford Foundation Grant as director-observer to Harold Clurman for "Sweet Love Remembered" starring Margaret Sullivan.

In summer stock companies he has acted as director of productions of the Hilltop Theatre, Lutherville, Md., and the Strawhat Theatre, Owings Mills, Md. He has also served as director of six outdoor dramas, including "Unto These Hills" and "Honor in the West"; and the three seasons he was assistant director of "Unto These Hills."

Sneden holds both the B.A. and the M.A. degrees in dramatic art from the University of North Carolina, where he acted as a graduate assistant in drama. He was director of drama and instructor in English at Lenoir-Rhyne College in 1960-1961 and at Davidson College in 1961-1962.

As actor and staff member he has participated in such productions as "The Lost Colony," "The Stephen Foster Story," and "Unto These Hills" and has been connected with the Arrow Rock, Mo., Lyceum repertory theater. He is a member of Pi Beta Kappa, of the Order of the Golden Fleece at the University of North Carolina, and of a number of professional organizations in the field of drama.

Speaker Bureau Offered By Tercentenary Body

RALEIGH—Establishment of a speakers' bureau is announced today by the administrative office of the Carolina Charter Tercentenary Commission, the State organization planning North Carolina's 300th anniversary celebration.

Program chairmen can obtain the service of the bureau by writing to Speakers' Bureau, Charter Commission, Box 1881, Raleigh, N. C.

The administrative staff of the commission will attempt to fill requests for speakers with commissioners or members of committees engaged in planning Tercentenary projects.

Requests for speakers should state the nature of the organization, expected attendance, exact time and location of the meeting, and the time allotted for the speaker. The Charter Commission must have at least 30 days advance notice of requirements for speakers.

Damage Survey Begins In Wake Of Heavy Rains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Surveys begin today to size up the crop damage left by a week-end deluge that dropped as much as 10 inches of rain over portions of eastern North Carolina.

State Director Julian E. Mann of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. said he planned to go to New Bern to begin an on-the-spot check.

The six counties which apparently suffered most, he said, were Martin, Beaufort, Craven, Jones, Onslow, and Pender. While he declined to place any money estimate on the damage, Mann said "From what I hear it's going to be mighty bad."

Farmers watched the weather to learn the effect of the excessive rains on tobacco, at the peak of growth and described as one of the best crops in years. Cloudy skies and moderate temperature would help the crop recover. Hot sunshine would increase the damage.

"I can't say that the damage will be," Mann said, "but I do know we are insuring a total of 3,400 persons' crops for a total of $7 million."

Extension tobacco specialist Roy Bennett of North Carolina State College suggested additional fertilizer to help the tobacco crop. The amount, he said, should depend on the crop's size and stage of maturity.

Blown-over plants should be righted, and the tops broken and suckers removed, he said. Surface water should be drained as quickly as possible.

Dozen Deaths On NC Hiways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 12 persons died by violence in North Carolina over the weekend, almost all in highway accidents.

And the North Carolina Motor Club predicts that four more will die on the Highways over the Fourth of July, in the 30 hours from 6 p.m. Tuesday until midnight Wednesday.

Among the weekend highway victims was Mrs. Bessie Johnson Land, 80, Chadbourne church and civic worker, and an aunt of the man for whom Seymour Johnson Air Force Base near Goldsboro is named. She was fatally injured when her car was in collision with another in Chadbourne.

Other traffic victims: R. B. Moore, 24, of Rt. 3, Wilkesboro; Steward D. Perkins, 25, of Rt. 2, Columbia, N.C.; Gerald J. Keane, 21, of Clifton, N.J.; 1st Lt. William O. Hamblin of Cambridge, Md., when a car overturned at Camp Lejeune; Roland Eugene Knox, 22, of Rt. 1, Oak City; Howard Junior Hamby, 17, of Rt. 2, Ronda.

Miss Mary Link, 61, and her nephew, Henry Alford Stalon, 50, both of Rt. 1, Garland; Ernestine Jeannette Bain, 18, and Diane Lyles, of Radford, Va.; Orley Johnson, 13, of Beaufort, was shot and killed Sunday. A cousin, Leamon Sharpe, 22, was charged with manslaughter.

30 Cows Living In Cool Luxury

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Thirty cows on a farm near here are probably the luckiest in the nation. They're living in air conditioned luxury—all to test whether their milk and butterfat production can be kept high through the hot summer months.

For comparison purposes, the rest of the farm's cows—probably jealously—are living and being milked under normal conditions in another part of the barn.

Ten years of research at Ohio State University found that a dairy cow produces the most milk at temperatures from 30 to 75 degrees. When the mercury climbs above that "bossy" begins to produce less and less.

Farmville Gets Share Of Grant

FARMVILLE—Part of $84,225 in federal funds channeled through North Carolina's Department of Conservation & Development are slated to go into planning work here immediately.

Farmville Town Clerk Harold M. Alire said $3,000 from C & D is being used "to prepare the way for adequate planning material" as a guide for future growth of the town. Funds were supplied to C&D through the federal Urban Renewal Administration which announced last week the $84,000 grant earmarked for 11 Tar Heel cities and Dare County.

In addition to Farmville, the cities are Burlington, Canton, Hendersonville, Hot Springs, Mount Holly, Murfreesboro, New Bern, Roseboro and Salem.

Farmville's Town Board previously entered into a contract with C&D's Eastern Planning Office in Kinston to conduct the study here. Last week's announcement of the URA grant to C&D means the work can get underway.

The Town Commissioners voted to put up $2,000 to finance a portion of the two-year project. Town appropriations of $1,000 will be used for the work this and next fiscal years.

Alire said the project would include base maps of Farmville and the surrounding area "which we believe will become urbanized within the next 20 years." Also in the package is a provision for a base map of Farmville's present business district showing all lots, blocks and streets.

Available data and map on sewer, water and electrical systems will be provided for study and use by the commissioners and by Farmville's Planning Board in analyzing projects for the future.

A special feature of the contract, Alire said, calls for aid in revision of the town's 16-year-old zoning ordinance that has become outmoded by new types of construction not defined in the ordinance.

Also, during the course of the two-year project, C&D personnel in the Kinston office will be available to advise and assist town officials in planning and zoning problems.

Dear Mr. Whichard

When I returned last week from trust administration school at Brevard, I found that my boss had written me a letter which he used as a bank advertisement in your paper.

I will probably be fired for this, but there are a few things I have on my mind, too. I enjoy my work, and I want our bank to continue to grow, which is the reason for this letter.

However, there is one thing I want to dispose of first of all—marriage. He advises me (in an ad, no less!) to marry for money, remember the 1954 Revenue Act, keep an eye on the N. C. Statutes on intestacy, and watch out for the Marital Deduction. But he didn't take his own advice. His wife told me all she had when they were married was a good job and 750 Octagon soap wrappers. Now, she simply has a job with no pay. Anyway, if he will just let me take care of planning my own Estate, I believe I can handle the part about the noble Estate of Matrimony.

Now, to get down to brass tacks, I don't know that I really understand some of the ads my boss writes. I have to type them, and frankly, sometimes it's a wonder to me the stockholders don't complain.

For example, there's one subject I think he overdoes. He is always making a point—first one way, then another—that ours is a friendly little corn bread and black-eyed peas hometown independent bank. The way he tells it you might expect to see a cracker barrel in the lobby, instead of a modern and beautifully designed interior, colorful draperies, soft fluorescent lighting, and a background of refreshing mood music.

Then he goes on and on about the hospitable relaxed atmosphere, people standing around swapping yarns and trading gossip—the door to the President's office always open. The way he tells it, you'd expect to see Mr. Marston in the President's office wearing red gulluses—held on by a safety pin—and smoking a corn-cob pipe. Honestly, when I read the ads, sometimes I get so exasperated!

I think his point is well taken—up to a point, that is. It certainly is a friendly place. People do enjoy coming here. They seem to appreciate the home-owned angle, too. And I know it seems to mean a lot to our customers to be able to walk right in and get an answer on a loan in just a minute or two.

It seems to me, though, that our ads ought to be pitched on a more realistic level. Actually, behind the easy, friendly atmosphere is about $10,000,000.00 being managed with skill, precision and a calculating eye by trained, experienced people, using all the modern facilities of our scientific age.

Why not point out the modern electronic bookkeeping system we have on the second floor? How about hammering home the services we provide: installment loans, crop loans, farm loans, farm management, daily interest, 4% time deposit certificates for a year, lock boxes, trust and estate administration, drive-in facilities, mail deposit services—in fact every service any bank can provide.

Other banks come out with beautiful color ads showing a rosy-red apple or a crimson water melon, with a little red slice pulled out to indicate daily interest. Do we? No! The only color ad we ever had was one showing deposits doubling during the past few years. Most of our ads are in a dull black and white, though.

Do we ever come out with an attractive ad in blue like other banks, telling about complete bank services? No! And yet we've added over 600 new accounts in the past six months. Why don't we tell people about it, in technicolor, I mean.

Do we ever come out with a picture of a happy couple driving away on vacation with a borrow-now-pay-later loan? No! We seem to specialize in "folksy" ads. But our installment loan department is as busy as can be!

Well, it's about time for our July 4th advertisement on Independence. Goodness knows what he'll come up with for that advertisement.

Now being independent is important. You may have noticed the flag we fly on Five Points every day. Freedom is important. Our bank has that freedom. It enables our officers and directors of this community to serve this area the way they think it ought to be done.

But independence, freedom, hospitality and all the rest are not enough. That's why our bank is on the ball every day all the way to provide every service a bank can, and I think we ought to advertise it. Don't you?

New Lutheran Church Faces Open Door

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

DETROIT (AP)—A fresh ecclesiastical venture was in progress today under a gold-and-white banner bearing the cross.

The emblem is that of the newly merged Lutheran Church in America, which has concluded its constituting convention here.

"God's hand has led us on our way but not to our destination," the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Baughman, of Gettysburg, Pa., said at a closing service Sunday.

Ahead, he said, the new church faces an open door to new accomplishment and greater victory in the midst of modern influences challenging spiritual truth.

In four swift-paced days of legislation and ceremony, culminating six years of planning, the new church set its organizational machinery in motion.

Its constitution sets this objective: "This church lives to be the instrument of the Holy Spirit in obedience to the commission of its Lord."

As for the effect of the four-denomination merger, embracing a total of 3,186,310 Lutherans, the Rev. Dr. E. E. Ryden, Minneapolis, a veteran Lutheran editor, said: "It will make the church an increasingly dominant force not only in the evangelization of America, but also in influencing its thinking and in shaping its ideals."

In its final weekend business sessions, the convention adopted an overall budget of $58,641,332 for the 1963-64 biennium.

Delegates authorized church participation in various ecumenical organizations of interdenominational cooperation.

These include the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches, embracing most major Protestant and Orthodox bodies, and the Lutheran World Federation, including 50 million of the world's 70 million Lutherans.

The convention also voted unanimously to join in negotiations for setting up a new inter-Lutheran agency in America.

Similar action had been taken earlier at a convention in Cleveland by the 2,600,000-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which in the past has stood aloof from such associations.

The increasing solidarity among Lutherans was dramatically symbolized by an unusual appearance at the convention here Saturday by the Rev. Dr. John W. Belmon, of St. Louis, retiring president of the Missouri Synod. He came to congratulate the new church.

The projected inter-Lutheran agency also would include the 2,300,000-member American Lutheran Church, a 1960 merger. Altogether, the three Lutheran bodies have more than 8 million members.

Activities establishing the new church closed with a festive Sunday afternoon "service of thanksgiving," including the installation of the church's three principal officers. They are The Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, New York, president; the Rev. Dr. Malvin

H. Lundeen, Minneapolis, secretary, and Edmund F. Wagner, a New York banker, treasurer.

The church will have headquarters in New York, with division offices in Philadelphia, Chicago and Minneapolis. Its 6,172 congregations are being organized in 30 regional synods. It has 6,499 clergymen, 23 colleges and 13 seminaries.

COUNTING 'PAPER PENNIES'—Members of the Kappa Alpha Order at East Carolina College, giving enthusiastic support to the paper penny drive at the college, brought their collections of empty Liggett and Myers cigarette brands to 19,200. At a penny each, paid by the tobacco company, KA effort netted $192 for the James S. Ficklen Memorial Stadium fund at the college. Pictured in the midst of their work in the drive are (left to right) KA's Bob Raines of Raleigh and Billy Goodwin and Tommy Mallison of Greenville.

Extra Danger Sign Applied To Independence Day Celebration

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP)—National Safety Council experts have hung the "extra danger" sign on the Independence Day celebration.

It's a one-day holiday. On such brief occasions motorists cover more ground in less time than in longer periods.

"There's an extreme amount of 'pushing' type of travel and night driving," said Bob Andrieff. "That makes it more hazardous."

Andrieff and the council's chief statistician, Gene Miller, recently studied past performances, estimated mileage, checked previous holidays and examined current trends in motor vehicle fatalities.

They figured that between 110 and 150 Americans could lose their lives in traffic accidents in the 30-hour period that begins at 6 p.m. Tuesday and will end at midnight Wednesday.

For years the prophets came up with a single preholiday figure. Sometimes it was almost on the nose. For instance they predicted 240 deaths on streets and highways in the two-day observance of Memorial Day, 1953. The actual toll was 241.

But a check back through a 14-year, 70-holiday span showed that single-figure predictions missed the actual totals by an average of 41 deaths, or 12 per cent.

Council statisticians now reckon how many may die if motorists are sober and careful and how many may perish if they aren't.

In between the two figures lies the musty area of human behavior — which, they said, isn't predictable.

Records demonstrate that more people are killed in traffic during holiday periods than at other times. During the last five Independence Day celebrations traffic fatalities averaged between 4.2 and 5.7 per hour. In a nonholiday period in July they average 2.3 per hour.

The council is a nonprofit organization that has been working 49 years to help reduce accidents of all kinds. It gathers and distributes information about accidents and ways to prevent them.

Its income in 1961 was $5,806,637.

The sources: dues from 9,107 members — individuals, schools, local and state safety councils, city and state governments, insurance, industrial, transportation and construction concerns, railroads, labor unions and trade associations. Sales of materials and services. And contributions from the Automotive Safety Foundation, the Insurance Institute and scores of companies.

EC Board Appoints '62-63 Term Editors

The East Carolina Publications Board has announced appointment of editors of student publications at the college for the 1962-1963 academic year.

Walter C. Faulkner, senior from Henderson, was re-elected to the top position on the yearbook, the "Buccaneer." Prior to serving the 1962 edition as editor, he was campus life editor and then associate editor.

An active member of Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity, Faulkner was recently the recipient of the "Deltasig of the Year" and the "Outstanding Publications Member" awards. In addition, he was selected to appear in the 1962 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Editor of the "Rebel" for 1961-1962, Junius D. Grimes III, of Washington, N.C., was re-named to the editorship of the campus literary magazine staff. This re-appointment was made following his work as editor in raising the literary standards of the publication and in making it one of the leading college magazines in the South. An honor student, Grimes is a senior majoring in English.

William Griffin of Jacksonville has won the top post of the summer school newspaper, the "East Carolinian," and has been named to the same post for the regular session, following the resignation of Imogene Peace of Norfolk, Va. A rising junior, Griffin worked with the student newspaper as a columnist-reporter and as campus editor, prior to his being named editor.

The fourth post as editor was given to Tony R. Bowen, a freshman from Goldsboro, at a meeting of the Board during the Winter Quarter. This position is filled early so that work may be completed on the student handbook, "The Key," in time for distribution in early September.

59 Students Enrolled In Arts, Crafts Workshops

Fifty-nine students interested in the teaching of art in the elementary grades are participating June 25-July 6 in a workshop in arts and crafts at East Carolina College.

The program is presented with the purpose of giving helpful and practical ideas and techniques which are of value to teachers of young children. The workshop includes instruction in printing techniques, weaving, enameling, and the effective use of no-cost or inexpensive materials in arts and crafts.

Dr. Wellington B. Gray, director of the East Carolina Department of Art, is director of the workshop. Thomas E. Mims of the college art faculty is assisting Dr. Gray in conducting the program of instruction.

The workshop is presented on the senior-graduate level. Those completing requirements will receive three quarter hours of college credit.

Among those enrolled are Aletha Brickhouse, Greenville; Aileen Briley, Greenville; Margaret Ann Faulkner, Ayden; Sheilah Helen Guthrie, Greenville; Martha T. Moore, Greenville; Maxine R. Perkins, Greenville; Margaret Richardson, Greenville; Willette B. Rollins, Bethel; Catherine Williams, Greenville.

Carpenters Out, Sinatra Opens

LAKE TAHOE, Nev. (AP)—Frank Sinatra, with ex-fiancee Juliet Prowse at ringside, opened his Cal-Neva Lodge for the season—after million-dollar renovations so recent the carpenters were still nailing right up to showtime.

Miss Prowse flew in Sunday night in Sinatra's private plane with restaurateur Mike Romanoff, actors David Janssen and Richard Conte and other Hollywoodians.

Sinatra and Miss Prowse called off their engagement earlier this year. Now she and Sinatra are dating again on what they call a friendly basis.

Groundbreaking For Embassy

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Grant Stockdale broke ground Sunday for the new U.S. embassy to be built at Ballsbridge, a few miles from the center of Dublin.

20-Year Veterans Still Rarin' To Go

In minor sports the swimming team won the NAIA championship in 1957 and 1959. However, ECC was the only conference school with a swimming team. The track team won the North State title in 1956 and '58 and the tennis squad has come out on top for the last seven years.

Los Angeles Does Not Appear Much Like Angels

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer If the Angels are wearing their halos at a slightly jaunty, rakish angle, and if their smiles are more devil-may-care than angelic these days — well, there's pretty good reason for it.

Milwaukee edged Chicago 1-0. The Angels' affair with the Yankees was a bit on the stormy side, involving a full-blown ruckus and some unholy language in each game.

Oerter Eager For Re-Match

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—"I can't wait to meet that Russian."

That was the succinct challenge hurled today by two-time Olympic champion Al Oerter as America's track forces, flushed by an overwhelming weekend triumph over Poland, looked ahead to the important July 21-22 dual with Russia at Palo Alto, Calif.
Oerter, who wasn't even supposed to be in the Polish-USA dual—which resulted in a 131-81 conquest of the outclassed Poles—hurled the discus a world-record smashing 204 feet, 10 1/2 inches at ancient Stag Field Sunday.

In the Russian dual, the 6-foot, 4.255-pound Oerter, former U. of Kansas star, collides with touted Vladimír Trusevny, who on June 4 whirled the discus 202-2 1/2. That even shaded Oerter's great 202-2 throw in the National AAU meet at Walnut, Calif., June 25.
Oerter, who arrived in Chicago Saturday night after earlier in the week reporting he would be unable to compete against the Poles because of a training injury—got off his great toss on his second of his six tries. The doomed listed world mark is 199-2 1/2, set by the USA's Jay Silvester last year in Belgium.
Oerter's spotlight-stealing performance dominated the USA's crushing of the Poles by a margin of 15 firsts in the 20 events contested.

The American men ran one-two in no fewer than 10 events and yielded only the 5,000-meter, javelin, hop-step-and-jump, 200-meter dash and 3,000-meter steeplechase titles to the Poles. Each country had two entries in the 20 events.
The 50-point margin was the greatest in three dual meet contests by the Americans, who won in Warsaw 115-97 in 1958 and 121-91 last year.

The Polish women, however, scored their third successive triumph over the Americans, 61-45, although the USA girls took four of the 10 events and had one lass set an American 800-meter record.

Leah Bennett, Baltimore girl who attends the University of Hawaii, took third in the 800 meter, with a 2:12.8 clocking, which broke the existing top mark for the distance by a U.S. citizen of 2:14.4.

Says Racer Struck Rut

LANGHORNE, Pa. (AP)—An official of the United States Auto Club said today the death of race driver Hugh Randall in the 100-mile National Championship Race for Indianapolis ears resulted when his car hit a rut in the dirt track.

Randall, 28, of Louisville, Ky., a relative newcomer to USAC sanctioned events, was killed Sunday when his car flipped over several times on the 59th lap. The accident marked defending national champion A. J. Foyt's second straight victory in the race. It was the second fatal accident on the second turn of the circular mile Langhorne Speedway in three years.

Commenting on the tragedy, Thomas J. Nicholson, Eastern Zone supervisor for the USAC and chief steward for the race, said:

"The fellow just got running a little too hard and hit a rut. He lost control of the car. It turned end-over-end and went from nose to tail about four to six times.
"This is a hazard of the sport, one of the uncontrollable hazards. You're just not supposed to hit the ruts."

Race Promoter's Condition 'Fair'

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Auto racing promoter Alvin Hawkins, struck by a car during a race at Bowman Gray Stadium here Saturday night, is reported in fair condition.

Doctors say his recovery will require several weeks.

Hawkins, 47, was standing near the pits when a car driven by Dick Montgomery of Mocksville entered the escape chute and went out of control. Hawkins was knocked beneath a parked car, and the race car then hit the parked car and ran over Hawkins.

The promoter suffered multiple fractures of the right leg and severe cuts of the right arm.

Cupit Won't Get Lazy Ever Again

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Jacky Cupit, the new Western Open golf champion, says he never again will get lazy.

"It happened to me last fall when I had reached the first 20 money winners on the PGA circuit," said the 24-year Texan from Longview. "I went home for two months, quitting the tour because I just got lazy."

"The layoff just about wrecked my swing. When I got back on the tour I was hooking everything. My brother, Buster (one of five brothers who are professionals) finally discovered that I had unknowingly developed a strong right hand."

"I corrected it and gradually got back into the groove. I had my swing just right for this tournament. It had to be on such a demanding course as Medinah No. 3. But I'll never get lazy again, you can bet on that."
The 5-9, 190-pound Cupit won the Canadian Open in 1961 and was voted Rookie of the Year after finishing 18th on the money list with $22,813. This year his best finish was a tie for 10th in the Houston Classic before mastering Medinah's tree-hemmed par 36-33—71 with rounds of 69-70-71-71-281.

It earned him first money of $11,000, boosting him from 48th on the winning list to 14th with a total of $18,507.
Billy Casper made a great closing stab for the title with a closing 67 that included nine one-putts. He finished at 283 for second place and $5,500.

Gary Player, who shared the 54-hole lead with Cupit with 3-under-par 210, rocketed to a closing 76. With him at 286 was Fred Hawkins with a final 70.

Al Geiberger and Julius Boros had 287. Arnold Palmer, breaking par for the first time with a 69, posted 288. Next at 291 was National Open champion Jack Nicklaus and four others. Nicklaus wound up with a 75, his poorest round of the meet.

Colts Stage Puzzling Fail-To-Score Display

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Baseball Question: How can a player fail to score from second base on a triple? The Houston Colts furnished the answer Sunday.

The incident occurred in the seventh inning in what turned out to be the Houston's only strong inning against the Cincinnati Reds, who coasted to a 6-1 victory.

Houston trailed by five runs as Bob Aspromonte opened the inning with an infield hit. After Don Buddin struck out, Bob Cerv came through with a pinch single. Aspromonte moved to third and Cerv to second as Frank Robinson bobbled the ball in right field.

That brought up Al Spangier, and he sent a line drive screaming into the right field corner for a certain three-bagger, which is what the official scorer called it.

Seebeck, Burns S. C. Net Champs

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Sally Seebeck of Charleston and Bobby Burns of Columbia are the new South Carolina Open tennis champions.

They won the main singles crowns in finals of the annual tournament here Sunday.
Miss Seebeck also was on the winning mixed doubles team — with Burns — and women's doubles — with Betty Jo Braselton of Atlanta.

Norm Jarrard of Durham, N.C., and John Foster of Atlanta won the men's doubles against Sam Daniel of Columbia and Tommy Wyche of Greenville, 12-10, 4-6, 6-4.

Woody Cleveland of Columbia beat Clint Belsor of Columbia, 6-1, 6-2, for the junior singles title. Pete Parrott of Greenville and Sam Smithman of Spartanburg won the junior doubles earlier in the tourney.

Burns won his title with a 6-3, 6-3 defeat of Jim Morse of New Orleans. Miss Seebeck won her title by downing Miss Braselton, 6-1, 6-2.

In the women's doubles, Miss Seebeck and Miss Braselton won 6-1, 6-4, against Judy Cronwell and Janie Hantz of Greenville.

In the mixed doubles, Burns and Miss Seebeck beat Foster and Miss Braselton, 6-4, 6-4.

Aspromonte scored Houston's first run easily, but Cerv, hesitating as he rounded third base, was thrown out at home as he lunged for the plate.

"There was a mix-up in signs," explained Manager Harry Craft. "Billy Goodman (the next batter) thought the umpire called a foul ball, and he flashed the sign for Cerv to hold up. Anyway, it was something like that."

Cerv had little to say. "I'd rather not say anything," he said. "It was just one of those things. I should've slid."

Miss Hanks and Linda Yeomans of Stanford defeated Tory Fretz of Occidental (Calif.) College and Alice Chrysler of Jersey City, N.Y., and the University of Arizona for the doubles title, 9-11, 6-4, 6-3.

Joby Hawn Is CC Commissioner

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The commissioner's office of the Carolina Conference will be established here, and Joby Hawn will become the conference's first full-time commissioner Sept. 1.

The conference approved establishment of a commissioner's office at its May meeting and authorized a committee to employ Hawn.

Hawn, now recreation director and personnel aid at Hanes Knitting Co. here, is quitting that job to take over as commissioner.

He said he will continue to serve as supervisor of football officials for the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Hemingway Image Difficult To Pinpoint

Editor's Note—It's been a year since Ernest Hemingway left, leaving behind the dual image of a man the world thought it knew, but didn't. The tourists, by the dozens, come to gaze at his grave. But his real image abides amongst his friends, who don't talk much but who know the truth about a great writer.

By WILLIAM BEBOUT
KETCHUM, Idaho (AP)—For

50 cents the man who drives the village cab will show you where the world said goodby to Ernest Hemingway. He won't take you to an impressive man-made memorial to the lusty giant of American Literature. There is none. He will show you only a plain slab of marble bearing the author's name. Those who knew the writer here will tell you the jagged Sawtooth

Mountains which rise sharply from the valley floor are his memorial. And who can say these rugged peaks are not symbolic of all that was Hemingway? If you stay longer than you planned, don't be concerned—there's no meter on the cab, and the driver, who once hunted rabbits with Hemingway, will not hurry you. Across the big Wood River, now gorged by runoff from the melting snow, is the hunting lodge where Hemingway died just a year ago July 2. It was a quiet, cool Sunday morning; a day to relax, fish, golf and swim. Nobody paid much attention to the cars which sped over the dusty warm springs road to the house on the hillside. Hours later, the world was told that Ernest Miller Hemingway, famed author of prize-winning volumes about death and violence, had himself died violently. Mary Hemingway, the writer's beloved "Miss Mary," had found her husband, sprawled in a foyer off the living room, a double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun across his legs. Both barrels had been fired into his head.

Dr. Saviers took a book from a shelf above his desk. It was a biography of Hemingway, published after his death. "It's trash. This is where it belongs," he said angrily throwing it into the wastebasket. "Those who served him dinner, hunted with him or chattered with him on the street echoed Dr. Saviers' view of the author. But the thousands who visit his grave in the tiny village cemetery will remember the legend of Hemingway the tough guy."

Court's Ruling On Prayer Gets Mixed Comment Sun.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The U.S. Supreme Court decision banning official prayers in public schools evoked both dissent and praise in Sabbath sermons. One minister called it "proper, fair and correct" while another ascribed to the court a philosophy that "seeks to quarantine religion."

Some churchmen said a larger reason for alarm were predictions that the ruling may lead to elimination of all Bible reading and religious observances from the public schools.

The Rev. Dr. John M. Krumm, Columbia University chaplain, said the prediction "justifiably causes alarm to churchmen who would regard an education from which all references to the role of religion in the formation of our history and culture had been removed as a distorted and inadequate education."

Some took the middle ground. Among them was the Rev. Dr. Charles D. Kean of the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany of Washington D.C., who said the court's ruling was "neither a great victory for religious liberty nor an attack upon their religious traditions of our country."

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence L. Durgin, preaching at the Broadway Congregational church in New York City, told worshippers the court's ruling "deserves general applause."

"In many cases," he added, "individuals and churches are in complete disagreement with each other on the whole matter, and many of the opinions have been formed without studying the problem objectively."

Statue symbols: Bellhops at the Hotel Edison here wear a star on their uniform for every five years of service. The only five-star general is Manager Joseph J. Van who started as a bag totter.

The Rev. Dr. Albert P. Shirkey of Mount Vernon Place Methodist church in Washington D.C. said the court's decision could lead to complete secularization of America's national life.

"Where reverence for God is lost, loss of reverence for man follows," he said. "This has been clearly exemplified in Russia."

History lesson: James Madison was the only U.S. president who faced enemy gunfire and actively served as commander-in-chief while in office. On Aug. 25, 1814, he personally directed the defense of a battery in a vain attempt to keep the British from entering the nation's capital.

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence L. Durgin, preaching at the Broadway Congregational church in New York City, told worshippers the court's ruling "deserves general applause."

Dr. Shirkey reminded worshippers, however, that "we must at all times abide by the decisions of the Supreme Court." He recommended a period of silent prayer in public schools in which each individual "can speak to God in his own fashion."

Worth remembering: "There's never a favorable wind if you don't know what direction you're going."

Dr. E. S. James, editor of the Baptist Standard and a Southern Baptist leader, called the court's decision "proper, fair and correct," adding the school prayer "could not hurt anyone."

Prosperity gauge: It has been found that holders of credit cards generally buy a more expensive grade of gasoline than those who pay with folding money. And they are more likely to say, "fill 'er up."

Richard Cardinal Cushing, speaking at Gloucester, Mass., in the annual blessing of the fishing fleet, said the decision "broke the hearts of millions and millions of people who live in captive nations behind the Iron and Bamboo curtains, whose only hope is in God and our own beloved country."

Trading stamps seem to be slowly taking the place of cash. Some 40 million U.S. families now collect them.

As a people we are developing a passion for privacy. At least 400,000 telephone subscribers have asked for unlisted numbers.

Odd things to be grateful for: Poker, which originated in the South, was played by both the boys in Blue and those in Gray during the Civil War. And quickly became one of the nation's favorite card games after the war ended.

Etiquette: In the smart set you now say "hello" when you are introduced, and it supposedly marks you as one of the common herd if you say "pleased to meet you." But a nod, a pleasant smile and a firm handshake will get you by in any company that's worth being in.

Onward and upward with the ladies: There are now more than 300 women veterinarians in America.

Our quotable notables: "The difference between us and our neighbor is that we don't tell half of what we know while he doesn't know half of what he tells."—George D. Prentice.

Know your language: Can you think of another word besides "queue" that sounds the same after you remove its last four letters?

The price of keeping pets: The average dog's board bill is reportedly $50 a year, that of a cat $65. But a lady we know who has a great dane says the big fellow costs her a buck a day to keep in chow.

Notice on a Washington bureau-

Status symbols: Bellhops at the Hotel Edison here wear a star on their uniform for every five years of service. The only five-star general is Manager Joseph J. Van who started as a bag totter.

Six Saw Free From Death Row

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Six condemned murderers saved their way out of the cells on San Quentin prison's death row early today, clubbed two guards and held them hostage for three hours before surrendering meekly after prison officials lobbed tear gas into the cell block.

The guards were hospitalized with head injuries after their release.

Associate Warden Dale B. Frady, in an interview outside the prison gate after the six had meekly surrendered and returned to their cells, said the men had sawed through their bars over a period of time and disguised the cuts.

Frady said the hack saw, they had somehow smuggled into the row was found after their surrender.

Five cons sawed out of their cell and the sixth was freed by the others who smashed the lock on his cell door after they freed themselves.

Frady said today's break went this way: Shortly after 1 a. m., one of the cons jammed a toilet. Guard C. L. Deatrick went to see what was wrong. As he returned to the cell area, he was struck from behind with a sawed off bar.

The other guard, Sgt. R. E. Kardell was in the death row office at the end of the block. The convicts used Deatrick's keys to get into the office.

Sgt. Kardell gave this account of the abortive attempt to make the first break from death row in the history of the prison:

"They took me hostage first. I was just coming out of my office on the death row floor to see why my gun man (Deatrick) was not at his station."

"I missed him. That was approximately 12:20 a. m. Just outside my office door I ran into Manuel Chavez, who had a loaded revolver.

"He told me: 'this is it. You are going to do what I tell you to, or get killed.'"

"He told me to get down on the floor. While I was down there I tried to get close to him and grapple with him. He rapped me on the head with his pistol.

Kardell, 47, wore a large white patch on the left side of his head above his ear as he gave the interview in Warden Fred Dickson's office.

1,000 Marines Leave Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand. (AP)—The United States is pulling 1,000 Marines out of Thailand because of "general lessening of tension" along the Laotian border. Another 1,200 Marines and 3,000 Army troops are remaining.

The U. S. Defense Department announced the withdrawal Sunday and said President Kennedy had authorized it. The announcement said more Marines might be withdrawn soon, depending on the situation.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman said the Leathernecks "will still be in a position to move back quickly if necessary." They were rushed to Thailand from units of the U. S. 7th Fleet in the western Pacific. Vice Adm. William Schoch, the fleet commander, said they would rejoin the fleet units in the Philippines, Okinawa and Guam.

The U. S. task force was rushed to Thailand in mid-May after the Red rebels in Laos broke a cease-fire and advanced nearly to the border of Thailand.

The Communist guerrillas did not press their offensive, however, and 11 days ago the three political factions in Laos reached an agreement and formed a coalition government under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

The kingdom of Nepal will complete her first five-year development program in July, and has drawn up a more ambitious second five-year program. Nepal's economy is 80 per cent dependent on foreign aid.

Broken Dam Left No Immediate Emergency

OXFORD, N. C. (AP)—A broken dam that drained Oxford's municipal water supply left the town with no immediate emergency, Mayor C. T. Jordan Jr. said today.

Mayor Jordan said the town has an alternate source of water—an intake on the Tar River—which it used before Lake Devin was built as a municipal water supply.

"We are still in business," the mayor said. "We have adequate water and we are doing all right."

Meanwhile, the mayor said, plans are being made to repair the dam at Lake Devin which broke Sunday.

The two water tank was filled Sunday night, soon after the breakage in the earth and concrete dam at Devin Lake was reported.

"That's all the water we have. It may last a couple of days," said Police Officer T. H. Johnson.

There were no reports of property or lives threatened by the broken dam.

Doctor Strike Accompanying Compulsory Medical Insurance

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—A strike by most of Saskatchewan's 700 private doctors swept this province of 925,000 people today as the Socialist provincial government launched the first big compulsory medical insurance plan in North America.

Charging that the plans opens the door to government control over their profession, doctors took off on vacation or quit the province to practice elsewhere.

Most doctors' offices and clinics were closed for the Dominion Day holiday today, but many displayed signs saying they would remain shut. Physicians said they would not give medical advice by telephone and would make house calls only in dire emergencies.

The government medical plan—and the doctors' strike—took effect Sunday.

Free emergency treatment was provided by about 240 volunteer doctors at 34 of the province's 120 hospitals, but officials warned they may be unable to extend this service beyond two weeks.

Authorities began moving emergency and chronic cases to the 34 hospitals. The hospitals said they were busy but were not overloaded. One fatality, an infant, was reported.

Ten-month-old Carl Derhousoff, believed suffering from meningitis, died Sunday night en route from his home in Usherville to an emergency treatment center in Yorkton, 75 miles away.

The provincial government said it would call on some of the 110 doctors in the public health service if they were needed to help in the emergency.

The Medical Care Commission set up to administer the new inurance plan began bringing in doctors from outside the province to staff hospitals and to serve in communities where local doctors have walked out.

Four doctors arrived from Britain. More are expected.

The dispute has been raging for 30 months over the plan, which is financed by taxes and personal premiums.

The program, modeled after Britain's national health service, provides for all medical services except drugs, dental work, eye classes, diagnosis and treatment of cancer, and hospitalization.

Hospital costs are covered under a separate government plan. Cancer treatment is provided by the province's cancer clinic.

All Saskatchewan residents except those covered by federal medical plans must register for the provincial medical care plan. Premiums are $12 a year for a single person and $24 for families.

These will pay only part of the estimated $21 million annual cost of the plan. A 5 per cent sales tax and other taxes will supply the rest.

A $25 fine is the penalty for failure to register or pay premiums.

The government claims the doctors oppose the plan because it limits the fees they can charge patients covered by the program.

However, the fees set by the law are the same as those paid under single person and $24 for families, two doctor-operated medical insurance plans. The doctors say they ask only that the plan not be compulsory.

Road Sign Case Begins Again; Jones Absentee

RALEIGH (AP)—The drawn-out trial of highway sign influence peddling charges resumes today, with one of the defense lawyers hospitalized.

The other attorneys for the defense in the case are expected to announce whether they will seek a mistrial because of the absence of Jesse Jones.

The 65-year-old Kinston attorney representing Kidd Brewer of Raleigh, was stricken in Wake Superior Court Friday afternoon. He was rushed to Rex Hospital. The attack was described as a cerebral hemorrhage.

The hospital reported Jones in fair condition Sunday night.

Four other lawyers are representing Brewer, a Raleigh businessman who served as an agent for highway sign firms.

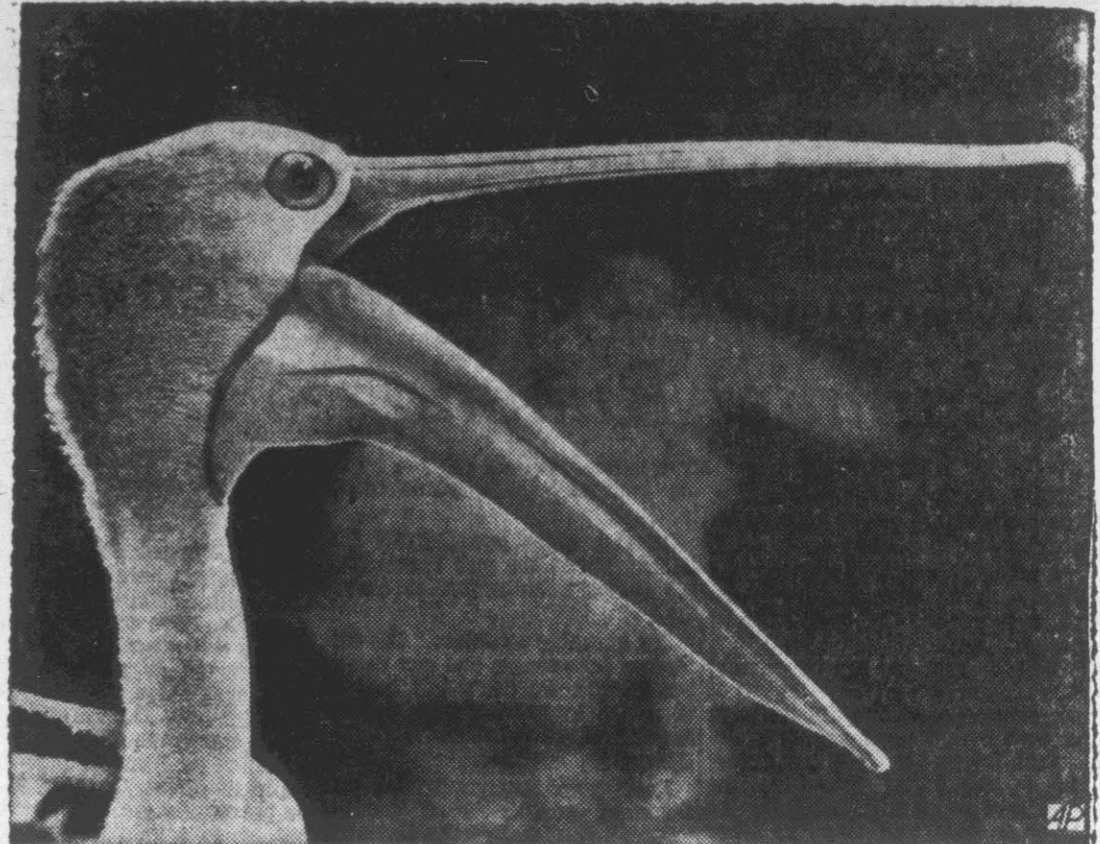

The other defendants are Robert A. Burch, former highway engineer; his son, Robert M. Burch; Pfaff & Kendall, and Traffic and Street Sign Co., both Newark, N. J. concerns; and three New Jersey men who worked for the two companies, George Masefield, Walter Schoenfeldt, and Martin J. Hamilton.

The state contends that the elder Burch was influenced to prepare specifications for highway sign projects which favored the products of the two companies.

Almost 100,000,000 people read a daily newspaper every day in the U.S.* And that audience remains very constant. There's no "summer slump" in newspapers, no peak listening or viewing hours, no special moment when you must nail down an audience or miss out completely. The daily newspaper sells around the clock. # TEACHING JOHNNY TO SWIM

SERIES FOUR

Changing directions while swimming is another safety skill Johnny will need to know. To change directions while swimming on the front, he needs only to reach an arm in the new direction and look toward this extended arm. While swimming on his back, he should tilt his head in the direction he wants to go and stroke hard with the opposite hand.

Turning over in the water is another skill Johnny should learn. The upper picture shows the procedure in turning from front to back. He should lower one shoulder and turn his head in the opposite direction, with the arms under water. To turn from back to front, shown in the lower picture, he should lower one shoulder, turning his head in the same direction. Have him start swimming the human stroke as soon as the turn from back to front is completed.

To teach Johnny to enter the water properly by jumping, line him up on the swimming pool deck where the water is chest deep. Have him jump in, strike the bottom, push off in an upward and forward motion, and immediately begin to swim the human stroke.

Congress, in its role as city council for Washington, holds the purse strings for the city's welfare program — and for all other operations of the district's government as well.

The House called this week for an overhaul of the program. It did so when it passed a $290.1 million appropriation bill for the district. The demand was made in a committee report which the House adopted.

In debate on the bill, Rep. William H. Natcher, D-Ky., floor manager for the measure, said findings of cheating in a sampling of 280 welfare cases constituted "a shocking and adequate warning" that the national capital needs "a new or adjusted public welfare program."

Rep. James A. Haley, D-Fla., told the House "heads should roll" for relief payments to ineligible families.

The appropriation, as approved by the House, denies funds for relief for such families. The House Appropriations Committee, in its report, criticized "elasticity" of cost estimates for relief of families of the unemployed, saying the estimates represented "poor planning."

Walter N. Tobriner, chairman of the board of commissioners, called the House cuts a matter of "deep concern."

The House approved addition of 10 investigators to the city's welfare staff to expedite a policing of the relief rolls.

The committee report said an investigation made by the district's welfare department found that roughly 66 per cent of the cases of aid to dependent children were ineligible.

"In all fairness to the taxpayers of the city, immediate steps must be taken to clear the rolls of ineligible recipients," the report

The House also denied funds for other proposals made by the district commissioners, including a training for work program and day-care for children of mothers now on relief to encourage the mothers to get jobs.

The Washington Star editorially agreed with the committee's criticism but added that the welfare problem not only is the district's "most serious problem" but also "the most difficult to solve."

More Congressional Pressure On D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress is putting mounting pressure on the District of Columbia to overhaul its public welfare program. A House committee has reported that the program is the national capital's "most serious problem."

Similar criticism had come previously from the Senate side, chiefly from Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on appropriations for the district.

The Washington Post had not yet commented on the House action.

The investigation which uncovered cases of welfare payments to ineligible recipients was made by the district welfare department's staff at the urging of Sen. Byrd of West Virginia. Most of these cases involved households containing an employable man.

Figures for March, the latest available, showed 32,575 persons on the district's relief rolls.

The district asked an appropriation of $23,193,700 for its public welfare program in the year starting July 1. The House allowed $21,856,000, which is $454,910 over the appropriation for the current year.

Rains and warm humid conditions throughout the state over recent weeks have all crops and especially cotton on the go, 60 go. Observations made in some of the areas that were extremely dry a couple weeks ago, show fast growth and development of the cotton plants.

Some areas, however, are showing some adverse results due to excess moisture. In many fields, especially in lighter soils, cotton is beginning to show a slight yellowing or paling of the leaves that indicate a leaching of fertilizer from the upper layers of soil. If the rains continue in an excess condition in these areas a repeat performance of last year's mineral depleted crop can result.

Last year, however, many farmers recognized the danger in time and came in with 30-40 lbs. of nitrogen to save the crop from starvation and went on to make a fair yield of cotton.

According to research data on fertilizer leaching under tobacco and studies made pertaining to the fact that the maximum uptake of nitrogen occurs in cotton during boll formation, it is reasonable to assume that nitrogen replaced after leaching in late season is absolutely safe and should be done in order to produce maximum yield.

A guide to extra sidedressing can be obtained from Extension Folder No. 212. This publication is a guide for replacing nitrogen and potash leached in tobacco fields. These same principles will apply to cotton and other crops although the amounts may vary according to the crop.

Assume fertilization at planting as 500 lbs. 5-10-10 (25 lbs. N) and 25 lbs. of N sidedressed (Total 50 lbs. N)
2. Assume 3 inches of rainfall in a 4 or 5 day period, 2 inches soaked into the soil, 1 inch was absorbed by the top 12 inches of soil, 1 inch soaked below the more active root zone.
3. Try sidedressing extra nitrogen and potash on the basis of the amount of water soaking through the active root zone. Total amounts of water passing through the active root zone: for 1 inch of water use 0.2 of N from planting through 3rd week of fruiting; for 2 inches of water use 0.3 of N from planting through 3rd week of fruiting; for 3 inches of water use .5 to .75 of N from planting through 3rd week of fruiting.

Note: With 50 lbs. N, this would be .2 equal 10 lbs. of nitrogen (N) per acre; .5 to .75 equals 25 to 37 lbs.

Another problem the recent rains are presenting is heavy weed infestation which induces the evil of deep cultivation. This could be almost fatal to many prospective two-bale fields because it is a known fact that deep cultivation, especially during the pre-bloom period of heavy root development, can result in a large decrease of blooming and early bolls set and, needless to say, in reduced total yield.

There are three things now left to do that must be done to get that two-bale-per-acre crop ready to harvest. These are: A good job of insect control, proper amounts and timing of sidedress, and shallow cultivation. All three are highly important and deserve proper planning and execution.

If you would like a copy of Extension Folder No. 212, please contact the County Agricultural Agent's Office.

Phone Demand Is Insatiable
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University research foundation bulletin says that statistics on the growth of telephone service suggest that the demand for more and better communication by voice is almost insatiable. The bulletin said the world now has about 142 million instruments, 52 percent of them in the United States. The U. S. S. R. where the telephone directory is a secret, has about 4.3 million.

Each year field days are held at different tobacco research stations throughout the state. This year a field day will not be held at the Lower Coastal Plain Tobacco Research Station which is located in Pitt County. The nearest field meeting will be held at the Upper Coastal Plain Research Station near Rocky Mount. This station is located 8 miles Southeast of Rocky Mount. This meeting will be held Thursday, July 5, beginning at 9:00 a.m. and will last approximately three hours.

A very interesting program has been planned for tobacco farmers, farm leaders and others interested in tobacco in Pitt County and other counties in this area of eastern North Carolina.

This will be a good opportunity to observe some of the experimental work being conducted for the benefit of the tobacco farmers. The tour of the demonstration and experimental plots will begin at 9:15 a.m. at which time research and Extension personnel from N. C. State College will discuss with those present: 1. Old and new varieties and promising lines. 2. Brown spot studies. 3. Development of new varieties. 4. Variety x nematode interaction. 5. Crop rotation. 6. Subsurface tillage and 7. Fertilizer placement.

After the tour of the different plots is completed, a demonstration will be given showing the use of mechanical harvesting and tying equipment.

The program outlined above should be beneficial to most, if not all, farmers in the county. Circle July 5 on your calendar and begin making plans to attend this field day. I believe you will be glad you did.

25-Year-Old Amelia Earhart Case Remains Yet An Unsolved Mystery

By M. A. RAISER

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Twenty-five years ago today Amelia Earhart vanished in the mid-Pacific.

From that day to this, the mystery of exactly what befell America's most famous woman flier and her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, has intrigued the minds of many men, with no positive answer ever reached.

The famous aviatrix had left Lae, New Guinea, on the last laps of a daring 27,000-mile flight around the world. The date was July 2, 1937.

Only three stops remained: tiny Howland Island, Honolulu, then a triumphant landing at Oakland, her lucky city.

The plane was an $80,000 twin-engine Lockheed 10 low-wing monoplane, top speed 205 miles an hour. It was well stocked with food and survival equipment.

She was flying at 1,000 feet over the vast Pacific. Navigator Noonan scanned his instruments, expecting to sight Howland Island momentarily.

At that very moment, the Coast Guard cutter Itasca was making a black smoke plume at the island to guide the fliers to a safe landing.

On voice radio, Miss Earhart called the Itasca: "Gas is running low." "Been unable to reach you by radio." "We are circling but cannot see you."

Then silence. At a thousand feet altitude, she must have been many miles from Howland Island, or she would have seen the Itasca's black smoke plume.

Her position might have been fixed had she used dot-dash radio. A vast search by U.S. Navy ships and planes, aided by Japanese ships, failed to turn up a single clue to the fliers' fate—not one scrap of flotsam, no evidence of any sort.

Nor has anything tangible been found in the ensuing quarter-century. Amelia Earhart and her navigator vanished as if they and their plane had never existed.

Miss Earhart, often called "Lady Lindy" because of her facial resemblance to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of transatlantic solo fame, was born at Atkinson, Kan., July 24, 1896.

She sojourned in Los Angeles when she was 20. She was a passenger when William Stutz and Louis Gordon flew the Atlantic June 17, 1928.

Her husband, the late George Palmer Putnam, a New York publisher, encouraged her flying career.

She sojourned the Atlantic May 20-21, 1932. On Jan. 11-12, 1935, she flew from Honolulu to Oakland.

Noonan, 44, made the first Pan American World Airways survey flight to Honolulu in 1935.

After the fliers vanished over the Pacific, a memorial—Amelia Earhartlight—was erected on Howland Island.

During World War II the Japanese shot the top off the lighthouse. At the base of the wrecked structure is a simple plaque: Amelia Earhart 1937.

It is a brooding reminder of the mystery and again brings up questions on this 25th anniversary.

Was Miss Earhart on a secret espionage mission for the United States government?

This belief was expressed by the late Dr. M. L. Brittan, president of Georgia Institute of Technology, a civilian guest on the battleship Colorado, which vainly searched for the missing fliers.

Dr. Brittan during the war said he thought the Japanese had captured Miss Earhart and either made her a prisoner or executed her to prevent disclosure that they were fortifying various islands in the Pacific.

"I believe there was an understanding on the part of some government officials with Miss Earhart that she have a look, if possible, at the Japanese-mandated islands," he declared.

There was no comment from the U.S. government. The Japanese denied knowledge of the fliers' fate.

Did the famous "Lady Lindy" become the mysterious "whitely lady of Salpan?"

This theory is held by radio newsman Fred Goerner of KCBS at San Francisco, who made two trips to Salpan Island. He dived in the harbor and recovered an airplane engine generator. It was Japanese and not from Miss Earhart's plane. Bones and teeth taken from a grave were those of natives.

Goerner said 19 Saipanese relatives "a white man and woman fliers, arrived at Tanopag Harbor in 1937. The women later died of dysentery. The man was executed."

Salpan, in the Marianas, is a long, long way from Howland, and in the wrong direction.

Miss Earhart was due at Howland at 7 a.m. July 2.

"She was flying right into the rising sun," recalled Dr. David J. Zaugs, 54, medical officer in charge of the Merchant Marine Hospital in San Francisco, who was on Howland.

He said she might have missed the island entirely, and men on Howland and the Itasca were unable to fix her position by triangulation because she persisted in using voice radio.

"I think she just went into the drink," Dr. Zaugs concluded.

Paul Mantz, a stunt and movie flier, was Miss Earhart's technical adviser. Now 58, he operates a flying service at Santa Monica, Calif.

Asked whether he could recall whether Miss Earhart was on a secret mission, he replied: "I won't say yes or no. It makes a man think — it was so long ago. I've speculated about what happened to her. Maybe she landed and disappeared. Maybe she's still alive."

Before Miss Earhart took off on her last flight, her husband asked her why she wanted to fly around the world.

"Because I want to," she replied. "Afterwards it will be fun to grow old."

'Worked' Slowly Away From Job

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Walter Snow figures Leipsic, Ohio, is a nice place to live—so nice, in fact, that he spends seven hours each day commuting to and from his job at the Dayton Air Force Depot 110 miles from Leipsic.

He admits it is a gruelling pace, but Snow worked up to it gradually. From 1943 to 1947 he worked in Lima, 35 miles from Leipsic. From 1947 to 1955 it was Toledo, 45 miles away. Then in 1955 he went to Shelby, 86 miles from his hometown. He hit the 110-mile peak in 1958 when he joined the Dayton depot.

New Treatment Cures Lockjaw

CHICAGO HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP)—Ralph Douma, a 72-year-old farmer, left St. James Hospital Sunday, apparently fully recovered from acute lockjaw after 32 days of treatment which included emergency oxygen administration in a pressure chamber.

The successful treatment, using a decompression chamber, was believed to have been a medical first in the United States. Acute lockjaw, or tetanus, is almost always quickly fatal.

Camille Varriale, 3, of Timley Park, another acute tetanus victim, is still in the hospital after undergoing treatment similar to that given Douma.

1961 Donations Top $1 Billion

NEW YORK (AP)—Contributions to American colleges and universities totaled more than $1 billion last year, with Yale and Harvard topping the list. The Council for Financial Aid to Education reported Sunday that Yale received gifts of more than $42 million for the 1961-62 year, while Harvard received $40 million.

Safe-Cracking Turns To Arson

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—Safe-crackers blasted open the Belva Coal Co. office safe Saturday night, but found only a few dollars. So, reported police, they set fire to the office building. Pete Franklin, office manager for the firm, estimated damage at $12,000.

Survey Reveals Romance Trends

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP)—That sparkling college coed who moons over the poetry books or stares enraptured at the movie screen isn't as romantically inclined as her male counterpart.

According to a survey completed by Denison University sociologist Dr. Dwight Dean, freshmen men were found to be more emotional than freshmen women.

The study also concluded that college men and women whose dads' occupation were relatively low in status were found to be more romantically inclined than those whose fathers had a high status occupation.

LAST CHANCE VALLEY

BY WILLIAM HEUMAN

CHAPTER 7

"If you're broke and looking for a job, we can always use men at Ajax," Nell Farrington told Thorpe McAfee and Jim Varney.

"We're obliged," Thorpe murmured.

"Stop in any time," Farrington smiled.

As the two were about to move on, he said, "How is Miss O'Hara doing?"

"A couple of dogs came out last night," Thorpe told him quietly, "to bushwhack her. Both of them are dead now."

Farrington frowned. "I've been warning her to come into town," he said. "I've tried to buy her place at a good price, but she's a pretty stubborn girl. I imagine you've noticed that."

Jim Varney said with a grin, "We've noticed it."

"Did she know who the men were?" Farrington asked.

Thorpe shook his head. "She figured they were sent out from Piedmont by somebody who wanted her claim real badly."

"I want her claim real badly," Farrington said, "as badly as anyone else, I suppose." He paused and then went on, "I've even offered to marry her in order to get the claim. If anybody had a good reason to send out those killers, it would be me."

Charlie Moran laughed boisterously. "You keep telling people things like that, Mr. Farrington," he grinned, "an' soon they're gonna believe it."

Thorpe and Jim left Ajax yard a few minutes later, and as they walked under the arch, Varney said, "We heading straight for the Birdcage, Thorpe?"

Thorpe pointed to a frame house down the street, which had a signboard: "Boarders Taken."

"We look like a pair of scarecrows," he said to Varney. "Let's get ourselves some clothing, and a gun for you. We've got plenty of time to visit the Birdcage."

"I don't like to wait too long,"

Varney murmured, "but maybe you're right."

They were able to secure a room at the boarding house, and then they headed up the street to a dry goods store. They stepped inside, purchased new outfits, and changed in the rear of the store, discarding all the old clothing.

There was a gun shop directly opposite the dry goods store, and they crossed over. Varney purchased a Smith & Wesson .44 and a .38.

They left the store together and walked up the street in the direction of the Birdcage Saloon. "We can look in from the outside first," Varney suggested.

"I'll take Hoagland," Thorpe told him, "no matter where he is."

"You figure they'll go for their guns?" Varney asked.

"Have to," Thorpe said dryly, "or they'll be dead, anyway."

They stepped on the porch of the saloon, keeping back from the batwing doors and looking in over the top. The Birdcage was quite filled, with only occasional empty spaces along the bar. All of the card tables were occupied, and there were four bartenders sweating in the heat behind the bar.

Thorpe spotted Ben Lacey chatting with another man at the far end of the bar near the cash register.

Lacey was a short, stocky man, powerfully built, with fuzzy hair and pale blue eyes. His nose was broken across the bridge. He had almost no neck, his round head sitting squarely upon his broad shoulders.

Varney shook his head. "Two floors to this building," he murmured. "Jope could be on the top floor."

Thorpe had noticed the stairway with the green carpeting leading to the upper floor of the building. The windows were open above them, and they could hear a keno man calling his numbers in a monotonous voice. Occasion-

Senate Beginning Debate On Controversial Care Bill

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate begins debate today on one of the most controversial issues of the 1962 session—health care for the aged financed under the Social Security System.

Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota told a reporter he was confident a bipartisan proposal to establish such a system would clear the Senate by the end of the week, despite a Fourth of July break Wednesday.

Sponsors claimed a good margin for the health program and said a number of Republicans would vote for it. However, many Democrats remain opposed to Social Security financing.

Even if the measure clears the Senate it would face rough days ahead. The House Ways and Means Committee has refused to act on the administration measure for more than a year and obstacles to House action would be formidable.

The House has arranged to pass an atomic energy authorization bill today or Tuesday, then adjourn for the holiday Wednesday with no business scheduled for the rest of the week.

A compromise sugar act extension bill, passed by the House Saturday, also comes up in the Senate today. The measure may be cleared for President Kennedy's signature by nightfall.

The Social Security health plan will be offered by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., as an amendment to a House-passed bill amending the public assistance law.

Democratic leaders are anxious not to delay the House bill for long because a number of its provisions extend programs which expired Saturday midnight, the end of fiscal 1962.

Anderson's proposal, worked out after prolonged negotiation with five Republican senators who

Old 5th Ave. Bus Back Into Groove

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A former Fifth Avenue bus from New York, vintage 1925, is one of the attractions this year at Six Flags Over Texas, a recreation spot between Dallas and Fort Worth.

The 67-seat bus, which has a top speed of 44 miles an hour and sets three and a half miles to the gallon, was purchased from a Houston collector who had procured it from a Hollywood movie studio.

The bus will be used as a shuttle between the 110-acre Six Flags Park and Six Flags Inn.

Time Record Set By Jet Airliner

MANILA (AP)—Philippine Airlines said Saturday its new DC8-50 jet airliner "Sampaguita" established a record of 14 hours and 55 minutes for the flight from San Francisco to Manila via Honolulu. The scheduled time was 15 hours and 15 minutes, PAL said.

Vice President Emmanuel Pelaez and Manila Mayor Antonio Villegas were aboard the flight Friday. No one was at the airport to welcome them back since the plane came in almost two hours ahead of schedule.

News from Wachovia about an important service for parents sending children to college:

THE WACHOVIA COLLEGE ASSURED PLAN

The Wachovia College Assured Plan, or CAP, helps you provide a college education for your children—easily, safely, flexibly. CAP lets you spread college expenses over a period of years, removing the financial strain of large quarterly or semester payments. Here's how CAP works:

- You select your CAP monthly payments. Your convenient CAP payments remain the same each month. Payments are spread over a period of at least two years longer than the time your child is actually in school, thereby avoiding large individual payments.
- You receive valuable insurance protection. Your CAP program is fully insured. In the event of death or total and permanent disability of the sponsor, CAP furnishes the funds to complete your child's education.
- CAP provides for a complete education. CAP can be used for up to four years of preparatory school, college or graduate school. If at any time you require additional funds, you may supplement your CAP program.
- CAP is private. Not even the school is aware of your participation in CAP. Your CAP arrangements are strictly confidential.

—Take your choice of two CAP programs. Use the CAP Loan Program if your child is now in college or will be ready to start college within the next 12 months. Use the CAP Savings Program if your child will be starting to school several years from now or if you prefer the savings approach to meeting college costs.

—CAP sends you the money for college expenses. Just before the start of each semester or quarter, CAP mails you a check which can range from $166 to $1,250, depending on the amount you want for college expenses and on the CAP program you choose.

Emergency Meal Nets Big Blowout

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—With determination, and a lot of electrical sockets, you can cook dinner for six without a stove.

After Robert and Jean Zeh moved into a new apartment, they invited four friends to dinner. The guests arrived, but the new electric stove didn't.

The hostess plunked a chicken into an electric skillet and plugged it into the outlet in the bedroom. Over in the den, her husband baked potatoes in a dutch oven.

The broccoll went into the coffee pot and was cooked in the hall. Soft rolls were heated in utensils connected to other plugs.

When everything was ready, the food was served by candlelight. The heavy load had blown a fuse.
