Lawmen Are Still Hunting Bank Bandit

Lawmen are still searching for a large Negro man who robbed the West End Circle office of State Bank and Trust Company last week of $7,567.

FBI SKETCH OF ROBBER

sketched a picture of the robber from descriptions given by witnesses.

Kenneth Whichard, manager of the bank's Circle office and the only person on duty at the bank at the time it was robbed, described the hold-up artist as being about 35 years old, over six feet tall, and weighing between 225 and 250 pounds.

Whichard told investigators the man entered the bank, then pulled a gun and asked for the money.

The manager said he hesitated and the Negro vaulted over the counter.

After stuffing money from a safe and a drawer into what appeared to be a pillow case, the man jumped over the counter again and ran out the front door.

The bandit fled in a truck stolen from the National Cash Register Co., located across the street from the bank. The truck was found later parked in the parking lot of West End Circle Shopping Center about two blocks from the bank.

Lawson said investigators are checking several suspects in the case at the present time.

President Has Quiet Evening With Friends

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson marked the arrival of 1968 with prayers for peace and the White House said he spent a quiet New Year's Eve with his wife and close friends.

He had no special New Year's Day statement. But he joined in a prayer for peace at Sunday year-end services in a small Roman Catholic Church near the ranch.

The president took a brief holiday from year-end business that he has taken with him to his ranch.

He started the new year, though, by summoning members of the White House press to the ranch for a morning meeting.

Aides said he might have some announcement to make on the domestic scene.

The only bill the President signed as 1967 rolled away sounded a happy note. It ended a 15 per cent duty on the import of bagpipes and parts into America.

Except for the press gathering, the Texas White House listed no official New Year's Day activities for the chief executive, who has spent the past six days at his ranch. He is expected to stay in Texas perhaps another two weeks.

While Johnson remained at home, his two daughters and their husbands were off welcoming the new year at Red River Lodge, a winter ski resort in northern New Mexico. Luci and Patrick Nugent started their skiing holiday several days ago and were joined by newlyweds Lynda and Marine Capt. Charles Robb on Saturday.

The young Nugents left their 6-month-old son, Patrick Lyndon, at the ranch with the grandparents and his nurse.

Dr. Christian Barnard, who led the surgical team that performed Louis Washkansky's heart transplant at Groote Schuur Hospital, arrived in Johannesburg today from Britain and the United States and said: "I am ready to transplant a second heart today or as soon as a suitable heart can be obtained."

The next patient, 58-year-old Dr. Philip Blaiberg, was described as "dangerously ill" at Groote Schuur from a coronary thrombosis.

Barnard was asked in London if he was more confident of Blaiberg's chances for survival than he was of Washkansky's. The 44-year-old surgeon replied: "I think the main thing is that—the main difference will be that we will have more confidence now in that we are not going into the unknown. We are going where we have been before."

It came out that Blaiberg took care of Washkansky's teeth while Washkansky was in a training camp during World War II. Leon Galatis, 51, an engineering representative who trained with Washkansky, told the Sunday Express—Blaiberg said earlier that original union demands would cost $1.1 billion over the two-year contract period.

Branch NAACP, and by the Rev. O. J. Rooks, executive secretary and chairman of the housing committee for the unit, listed five specific objections to the Housing Authority's administration.

The letter charged: "The projected plan for low rent housing projects has been carefully designed to perpetuate racial segregation."

Doctors Wait For A Heart For Transplant

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The diseased heart of a Cape Town dentist, who could be the world's third heart transplant patient, worsened as doctors waited today for a donor heart.

Dr. Christian Barnard, who led the surgical team that performed Louis Washkansky's heart transplant at Groote Schuur Hospital, arrived in Johannesburg today from Britain and the United States and said: "I am ready to transplant a second heart today or as soon as a suitable heart can be obtained."

The next patient, 58-year-old Dr. Philip Blaiberg, was described as "dangerously ill" at Groote Schuur from a coronary thrombosis.

We are going where we have been before."

"The housing authority's membership has been so constructed that the lone Negro voice either cannot or will not champion the cause of Greenville's minority group;

"Applications of Negro prospective tenants for occupancy for units presently available and controlled by the Housing Authority are reviewed and approved by the Greenville Police Department."

It calls on the Authority "to cease and desist from selling the property on Roundtree Street that was purchased from white people at exorbitant prices to be sold to Negroes for the purpose of perpetuating segregation in the general area."

"The letter also petitioned for 'redress of grievances' and outlined steps "to right the wrongs listed above."

South Vietnamese And Reds Repeatedly Clash

Vietnam Truce Period Only 'Slightly Less Dangerous'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. forces weathered the first 24 hours of the allied-called New Year's truce without losing a single GI killed by this morning despite at least 66 "incidents" and 96 Communists killed during the stand-down.

The number of incidents and rising casualty rate among the enemy and South Vietnamese government troops—with whom the Reds clashed with in most of the incidents—showed the truce period was only slightly less deadly than the usual everyday war.

The Viet Cong suffered 60 men killed, including a company commander, when they tossed 250 rounds of rocket fire at a Mekong Delta camp run by South Vietnamese marines, then followed up with three determined ground assaults.

Nineteen government marines were killed and 47 were wounded in the clash 58 miles south of Saigon, one of the earliest and fiercest breaches of the 36-hour allied truce.

The South Vietnamese reported that a U.S. fleetship was unable to get permission from U.S. headquarters to turn its fast-firing guns on the Viet Cong assaulting the camp. The U.S. Command in Saigon declined to comment but said the incident was being investigated. There were six U.S. advisers with the South Vietnamese, and they radioed for air support when the VC struck.

A spokesman for the government marines said it had been assumed that when it asked air support from U.S. aircraft, such support would be granted.

Despite the lack of air support, the marines chased the wily Viet Cong into the nearby swampland and broke the back of their final assault before dawn today.

U.S. headquarters said the New Year's Day war communique covering the first 24 hours of the truce showed that all 66 incidents were provoked by the Communists. Casualties were given as follows: 98 Communists killed, 21 South Vietnamese soldiers killed and 61 wounded, 15 Americans wounded, 5 South Vietnamese civilians killed and 1 wounded.

Several fierce fights also were reported in the hours just before the allied truce began at 5 a.m. EST Sunday, among them one in which the Communists lost 111 men.

That action took place in the sensitive northern provinces bordering the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam. A South Vietnamese force jumped a Communist unit in Quang Ngai province and quickly put them to flight, hardly losing a man, headquarters said.

The U.S. Command reported that 14 American troops were wounded and seven Viet Cong killed in seven cease-fire clashes termed "significant"—meaning casualties occurred. Seven U.S. soldiers were hit as they patrolled in Hau Nghia province between Saigon and the Cambodian border. The U.S. patrol killed three of the enemy attackers.

Near normal fighting continued until about the start of the allied truce at 5 a.m. EST Sunday, the command announced, despite a Viet Cong-proclaimed ceasefire supposed to have begun at 1 a.m. Saturday.

In the worst violation of their own truce, enemy guerrillas ambushed and shattered a U.S. armored column trundling along 37 miles east of Saigon.

Nine Americans died in the ambush and 29 were wounded, the command said.

An enemy force estimated at about 300 cut loose on the column from dark undergrowth along a road as the armored troops passed through rubber country in pre-dawn darkness.

Russian-made grenades came lobbing in at the U.S. tanks and a hail of machine-gun fire was directed at GIs trying to take cover.

Confirmation

PARIS (AP) — Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk confirmed today that his government "would only protest against both sides" if U.S. and Viet Cong forces were to clash in uninhabited regions of Cambodia from across the South Vietnamese frontier. But he contended any deep U.S. penetration in Cambodia could lead to a "general conflict."

Sihanouk, repeating statements he made last week, said in a radio interview:

"We would not risk the lives of our troops in a fight which would be limited to Vietnamese infiltrated in Cambodia without our knowledge and Americans who would come to pull them out."

"But if, in the name of the right of hot pursuit . . . the American Army or its ally penetrated in areas inhabited by Cambodians or even by peaceful Vietnamese whom we must protect, then we would resist with all our means," he said.

The interview was broadcast by the French radio station Europe No. 1.

Expert Believes Disorders 'Built In'

Rioting Said Already In The Cards For This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rioting in 1968 is already woven into the fabric of American society and probably can't be avoided, an employment expert has told the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders.

"We ought to be thinking about how to stop the riots of 1972 because I doubt if there is much of anything that anybody can do about the riots of 1968, they are pretty much already built in," said Garth L. Mangum, an economics professor at George Washington University.

His testimony, at a closed commission session, was released by the panel over the weekend.

Mangum said outside of jobs subsidized by the government through the Neighborhood Youth Corps or the Civil Service there is no evidence "there has been one more person employed than there would otherwise have been."

"We have gone through a long series of gimmicky programs," he said, "because of our impatience for instant success" in creating summer jobs to keep the lid on slum neighborhoods.

Another witness, Paul Bullock of the University of California, declared: "A truly frightening fact confronts us in the low-income ghetto of the urban North: The civil rights measures at both federal and state levels have had no impact whatsoever and have been almost totally irrelevant."

It is obvious, Bullock asserted, "that racial discrimination is the ultimate source of our difficulties."

Eli Ginzburg, economics professor at Columbia University, said there are fewer jobs available than the number of people looking for work—despite some arguments to the contrary. This has resulted in the raising of artificial employment standards by all employers including the government, he said, and automatically hurt chances for increasing Negro employment.

The commission also released a summary of a report by Arthur Ross, commissioner of labor statistics, detailing labor conditions in the nation's 20 largest metropolitan areas.

Ross said statistics show it is twice as hard for nonwhites to find work as whites; 15 of the large urban areas account for a third of total U.S. employment and 40 per cent of total nonwhite joblessness; nonwhites make up 14 per cent of the 25.15 million civilian workers in the 15 areas but represent 27 per cent of total unemployment.

The 11-man advisory commission was set up after last summer's riots and asked to find causes and suggest cures for civil disorders. Its final report is expected no later than March 1.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The diplomatic corps, in recognition of King Constantine's absence from his throne, snubbed the ruling Greek junta today at its New Year's religious service.

Only one military attaché, a member of the Nationalist Chinese Embassy staff, made an appearance. He was personally invited by the head of the general staff, Gen. Odysseus Angelis.

Bitter cold weather ushered in the new year in most of the nation today with the mercury plunging to record lows in much of the Midwest.

Travelers warnings of severe weather were posted in the Northwest and Northeast. Morning travelers were alerted across much of the South as snow mixed with sleet and freezing rain fell from Tennessee to Texas.

Quintuplets In Australia Are Named Today

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Mrs. Roger Braham named her two-day-old quintuplets today—Annabel, Caroline, Faith, Geoffrey and Richard—then got up from her bed for the first time since their birth, took a shower and had her hair set by nurses.

Dr. Grantley Stable, who slept at the hospital Sunday night in case of complications, reported the babies in satisfactory condition and the mother doing well.

The children's father, a 37-year-old country lawyer who weds his wife, Patricia, 36, have four other children including a set of twins, said she "is very good" and "we are both thrilled." Braham spent most of Sunday sipping champagne and chain-smoking cigarettes.

No one except the hospital staff is being allowed to see the quintuplets, and officials said they would be several days before outsiders could visit them. Only close relatives are permitted to enter Mrs. Braham's room for the next few days.

The quintuplets had their first meal Sunday—mixture of water and glucose, before going on milk today from the mother's "bank" at Brisbane Women's Hospital.

Although the babies are said to weigh about three pounds each, they will not be put on scales until Wednesday because their doctors believe too much movement is bad for them. For the next 10 days the quintuplets will stay in special cribs, kept at 97 degrees.

Mrs. Braham took no fertility drugs before the first of the five were born 5:12 a.m. Saturday, six weeks premature. The first was Annabel Dorothy, then Richard Gligson, Faith Elizabeth, Caroline Jean and Geoffrey Roger.

If there are no complications, Dr. Stable said, the quintuplets will leave the hospital in six to eight weeks.

Many Celebrating As Clock Struck Twelve

The new year 1968 found many celebrating its arrival as the clock struck 12:00 last night.

Many stood amid confetti and streamers, counting down the last few seconds of 1967. Others attended watch night services at local churches or saw the old year end quietly in their homes.

Several hundred attended parties at the Greenville Moose Lodge, the Country Club, the Candlewick Inn and the Fiddler's III last night.

Others celebrated earlier at parties at the Ruins Saturday night and a combination Christmas-New Year's party at the Greenville Elks Lodge Friday night.

Watchnight services at the Jarvis Memorial Church, Phillip Baptist Church, St. James' Methodist Church, Phillip Christian Church and the Selvia Chapel Church and a special Christmas tree-New Year's bonfire at the St. James Church were other celebrations of the new year.

Most stores and the city, county and federal offices were closed for the day. All will be open Jan. 2.

Weather for the last day of 1967 was rainy and cold, with the low temperatures of 30 degrees recorded, the highest being 43 degrees.

The slight drizzle and sprinkling of the rain left .18 of an inch of precipitation in the city.

As the new year came in, Greenville Utilities reported temperatures of 42 degrees at 12:00 last night. The temperature had fallen by 8:00 a.m. today to 38 degrees.

The river level is still slightly rising, recorded at 10.3 feet this morning.

Woe To The Car That Trespasses

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — One of the most prized winter possessions for motorists in the Northeast is a carefully shoveled out parking place—and woe to the man who trespasses on it.

John Sullivan reported to police Sunday that a man wielding an ax had smashed all the windows and the tail-lights in his car.

The map claimed that the car had been parked in the space he had shoveled out for his car, Sullivan said.

NAACP Objects To Housing Authority's Administration

The Pitt County branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has sent members of the Greenville Housing Authority a letter protesting "the woeful lack of genuine concern for the full inclusion of all minority citizens in the exercise of their greatest potentials, their skills, and the pursuit of the good life."

The letter, signed by the Rev. B. B. Felder, president of the United Pitt County

Branch NAACP, and by the Rev. O. J. Rooks, executive secretary and chairman of the housing committee for the unit, listed five specific objections to the Housing Authority's administration.

The letter charged: "The projected plan for low rent housing projects has been carefully designed to perpetuate racial segregation."

"The housing authority's membership has been so constructed that the lone Negro voice either cannot or will not champion the cause of Greenville's minority group;

"Applications of Negro prospective tenants for occupancy for units presently available and controlled by the Housing Authority are reviewed and approved by the Greenville Police Department."

It calls on the Authority "to cease and desist from selling the property on Roundtree Street that was purchased from white people at exorbitant prices to be sold to Negroes for the purpose of perpetuating segregation in the general area."

"The letter also petitioned for 'redress of grievances' and outlined steps "to right the wrongs listed above."

Among the points included: "To cease from turning a neighborhood in which a housing project is to be developed into a racially intact neighborhood.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Sandra, is a college freshman. We bought her a car to get to and from campus, but Sandra maintains it with her earnings as a part time waitress. Sandra is usually short of funds for clothes, so when she appeared recently in an especially fetching outfit, I commented on it.

She said Dick, her boy friend, had given it to her. They are not engaged, and I take a dim view of a boy buying clothes for my daughter. I feel that the only female for whom a man buys clothes is his wife, daughter or mistress.

Yesterday my wife informed me that Sandra had blown $90 on a matched set of golf clubs for Dick's Christmas present. I nearly turned purple. My wife urged me to let her handle it. She intends to tell Sandra the next time she asks for something that the money is more urgently needed elsewhere. True.

I am fearful that if I remain silent, I'll develop an ulcer. And if experience is any criterion, at Christmas there will be a $5-blouse for Mother and a pair of socks for Dad under the tree from Sandra. What do you and your readers think about this?

FRUSTRATED FATHER
DEAR FATHER: You have two separate problems: A daughter who has accepted an inappropriate gift from her boy friend. For this, you have every right to disapprove and to show your disapproval. But if you r daughter wishes to "blow" her hard-earned money on a gift for Dick, it's her money, and her privilege, and when she's broke, it will also be her problem.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law, who is very bullheaded and bossy, told me that she was going to give Lisa, our 11-year-old daughter, an electric shaver for Christmas.

I asked her to please give the child something else because we didn't want her to start shaving her legs just yet. Then this sister-in-law said, "Well, it's time you did, because the kid looks like a gorilla."

I ignored the remark, but sure enough, came Christmas and Lisa received an electric shaver from this aunt. Now Lisa is begging us to let her start shaving her legs. Now what should we do?

LISA'S MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Ask Lisa to put the electric shaver away for a while. And don't let her bring it out unless you want to see the fur fly.
DEAR ABBY: Congratulations for advising "SPEECHLESS" (the woman whose doctor made improper advances to her one afternoon in his office) to find another doctor.

The doctor was apparently going thru this middle-age thing in men that they refuse to recognize, but in women it's called "menopause."
Had the patient been less mature she might have felt drawn to him and broken up not only her marriage, but his as well. This happened to me. My doctor - husband walked out on me after 20 years of marriage. He also "fell in love" with a patient. I don't know who initiated this romance, but it doesn't matter now. I gave him the divorce he asked for and he subsequently married a patient. (Perhaps the same one, perhaps another.) I used to think I was the only one discarded along the way. Eleven years later I have discovered that we number in the millions. Sincerely,

DISCARDED IN SAN FRANCISCO
CONFIDENTIAL TO IRVING: You have a "gelt" complex. Forget about your money and maybe your friends will.

Why Not Look Your Best?

By AP NEWSFEATURES
A 27-year-old fashion photographer named Barbara Johns Waterston believes that too many young women these days equate attractiveness with superficiality.
"Perhaps it's because they think attractiveness is something to be saved to impress others," says Barbara, the author of "Pull Yourself Together or, How To Look Marvelous on Next to Nothing" (a Signet paperback).
Barbara thinks that looking your best is like making a public statement: "I care about myself and I want the world to care about me." She says artifice doesn't cloak, it enhances.
From her own experience in working with fashion models who don't always have the most classic features, Barbara advises.

"Learn to change the things you can." For example, use eye-liner to change the shape of too small eyes by rounding them. "Learn to like the things you can't change," such as a long frame or prominent chin.
Women should surprise and charm, but they should also have something worthwhile to say, she says in "Pull Yourself Together." People have subconsciously harbored the idea that femininity is synonymous with submissiveness. If a man needs an unassertive woman so that he can be aggressive, that's all right. But if he's really self-confident a girl is going to be in trouble with that submissive philosophy.
Barbara, who is married to Broadway actor Sam Waterston, offers these hints to women who would like to improve their image and their femininity.

rior designer's touch, purchase some gummed back paper in a coordinated stripe, and use it to line the inside of the closet doors.
6. Surround yourself with beauty. Don't save it along with the wedding silver. The beautiful touch can be fresh flowers, a bevy of bright cotton pillows on a couch, the good china in daily use or an elegant pin that you wear with everything.

Nancy Reagan Is Among Best Coiffured Women

By CATHARINE BREWSTER
NEW YORK (WNS) — The Ten Best Coiffured Women have just been announced and Nancy Reagan, wife of California's Governor Ronald Reagan, was a bit surprised to find herself among the ten chosen by the Helene Curtis Guild of Professional Beauticians.

"But I don't change my hair that much!" she said. "I've always done my hair the way my husband likes it, short and curly. Any changes I've made over the years, he's had the say."

Actually, Nancy Reagan wasn't as far off the mark as she thought. Among this year's Ten Best Coiffured were five famous wives who all said much the same thing.

Mrs. Robert Stack reported that her husband, the well-known actor, hates hair that looks like a balloon. He says, "Hair should never intrude on a woman's face. It should add to her beauty. Rosemary is a real beauty, and she looks good in almost any hair style, but I like her in a classic, curly hair-do best."

Most men seem to have disliked the puffed-up hair styles which are now dying out in favor of curly coiffures. Leslie Uggams, the singer and Broadway star, said of her husband, stockbroker Grahame Pratt, "He's an amateur who knows nothing about hair styles, but he knows just how he likes me to look. He thinks curls are great."

On the other hand, best-tressed Polly Bergen's husband is Hollywood talent agent Freddie Fields, whose job makes him a keen judge of what looks best on a woman. "My husband is as knowledgeable about a hair style as I am," commented Miss Bergen.

She recalled a time she asked him to comment on a television appearance she'd just made. "Freddie told me my bangs were too short and were making my nose look too long. I took his advice and let them grow. He was right. My nose did look shorter!"

Anne Douglas is a nonprofessional wife whose husband, Kirk Douglas, has starred on an international scale with beauties of many countries. He has definite opinions about what's flattering for his wife, and he knows that the hair style is the single most important factor in a woman's appearance.

"I change my hair styles a lot, but I always listen to his opinion," said Anne Douglas. "My hair stylist is very important to me, but he's the second man in my life. My husband's word comes first."

If Anne changes her hair style, Nancy Reagan proves that a woman can also change very little and still look right. Viewers of TV's late shows can catch her occasionally in some of the movies she made before 1952, when she was a young socialite trying the Hollywood circuit.

Her hair then was styled not much different from what it is today, short and casual. It suited her fresh good looks then, and it does now. Her present life in the political spotlight makes such a coiffure practical as well. She's often on a day-long routine that begins with an official breakfast and ends with an evening affair.

For evening she may add a couple of small hairpieces for a more formal look, but that is all the attention her hair style needs. Her stylist, Julius of Los Angeles, who also coifs another winner, Irene Dunne, says that curls are capable of endless variety. In Mrs. Reagan's case they are more like soft, broken waves, with wisp ends.

PERMANENT PRESS, THANKS TO FORTREL®

This smoothness, this whiteness, this luxury feel. You've never owned a sheet like it! A blend of 50% Fortrel® polyester with 50% fine cotton. Won't wrinkle or rumple or crease. Even after a good night's sleep (or a tossing and turning one). By actual test, long wear is part of the nature of the weave, and no ironing is the extra that pays you a dependable bonus — wash after wash. Use them, wash them — again and again. They stay flower-fresh as the day they were made, and yet you never iron them!

'Just Close Your Eyes, And Run'

A favorite bit of advice to visitors here recently has been to avoid driving through Five Points.

"If you can't avoid it, just close your eyes and run," the advice goes.

It has been some months now since a truck knocked over the ancient pillar in the middle of the intersection and put the stop lights out of commission.

Temporary poles were set — one in the street — and lights were hung to control traffic, after a fashion.

City officials have assured us that a more permanent installation is to be made and we think it is time to deliver on the promise.

Even seasoned local drivers still have trouble figuring out just when and where to go at this, the city's busiest intersection. For pedestrians, the situation is near hopeless. Since the traffic lights are not visible to pedestrians it is impossible to determine when the stream of traffic will begin moving.

It should not be that only the brave can venture into the Five Points area. The streets, sidewalks and crosswalks should be safe for all our citizens, whether timid or courageous.

We recognize that it requires some time to design and obtain equipment for the permanent traffic control system. However, in this case we believe it would be in the public interest if the city would hurry it along.

Moore Pointed To Milestones

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Professor Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Many milestones, some of them important and significant, are reported in a wide-ranging annual, year-end review of state governmental activities during 1967 arranged by Gov. Dan K. Moore.

For one thing, the population of North Carolina passed the five million mark during the past year and this in itself brought a corresponding demand for more state services.

Increased activity and strengthening of programs and services was reported by virtually all of 35 different state agencies and departments participating in the governor's unique, experimental "report to the people" on the eve of the holiday weekend.

es, more construction, more utility services. And he said the strength and vitality of the private economy is reflected in the operating programs of 160 state agencies, departments and institutions.

The 1967 General Assembly, Moore said, "enacted into law a program of service to the people unsurpassed in the history of North Carolina."

Budget and Revenue

Moore called attention to a record $2.7 billion biennial budget for 1967-69 which, he said, "is being utilized for services which benefit in numerous ways every North Carolina family."

The state budget is financed largely by taxes, especially income, sales and gasoline taxes and State Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton said in his report that revenue collections had held up well during the year. General Fund collections were up 8.8 per cent to approximately $624 million and Highway Fund collections — $202 million were up 7.43 per cent.

At the same time, the legislature voted tax relief totaling $23.3 million during 1967-69 and North Carolina was one of only three states to reduce taxes. Twenty-five other states increased their taxes during the year, Clayton said.

Progress Reported

The governor, his aides and administration department heads cited numerous marks of progress. Among them:

—Expansion and enrichment of the public school program and the commuter community college system.

—Continued emphasis on higher education; creation of system of regional universities. Record capital improvements program.

—Expansion of work by the department of Mental Health with special attention on mental retardation, services for mentally retarded children and adults, treatment of alcoholics and vocational rehabilitation.

—Seven hospital projects providing 472 additional beds, three mental health centers, more psychiatric treatment facilities, public health centers totaling more than $25 million.

—Strengthening of public welfare and assistance programs with an increase in average assistance payments, along with a reduction of more than 1,100 people on public assistance rolls through rehabilitation efforts.

Gift Is A Major Boost To ECU Foundation

A gift of property valued at some $200,000 to the East Carolina University Foundation is a major boost to this young foundation established a short time ago to provide supplemental funds for enriching the program of East Carolina University.

Made possible by Greenville businessman S. Reynolds May, the gift of two apartment buildings will in future years provide substantial financial resources and revenues for the Foundation and for its activities in connection with the University. It makes the ECU Foundation a substantial organization now, boosting considerably the initial gift of property to the Foundation by the people of Dare County.

Mr. May deserves the commendation and appreciation of all of those interested in the continued development and enrichment of ECU and its programs. By his generous gesture, he has provided a means by which the ECU Foundation may move forward with its plans, and in the years ahead fulfill the goal of enrichment of the programs which will serve the needs of the people of this area and this state.

A Transforming Of Controversy

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the American political system to transform controversial new legislation into broadly accepted programs was demonstrated anew by congressional action on the federal aid-to-education and antipoverty programs.

In the areas of Social Security, civil rights, welfare and labor relations, proposals that at one time seemed dangerously radical to a large part of the population are securely enshrined in the law books. It could be happening again.

Just a few years ago the opposition to a federal school bill was so intense President John F. Kennedy had to abandon any hope of getting one passed. But the 90th Congress recently gave overwhelming approval to a bill extending the program through 1970 at a total authorization of $9.3 billion.

The antipoverty bill has touched off some of the fiercest fights in Congress during the last three years. But this year it won a two-year extension by a solid bipartisan vote and appears firmly established on the national scene.

The capacity of the body politic to absorb ideas it once resisted is largely a matter of timing and leadership. It was President Johnson who supplied the leadership that launched the antipoverty and school bills, but it was Congress that put them through the fires of controversy and tempered the opposition.

Both bills were originally passed by the 89th Congress, which Johnson called, "My Congress." With their huge majority, Democrats not only had no need of Republican support, they pointedly shunned it, preferring to drive the Republicans into an opposition role in the belief it would damage the GOP in urban areas.

It may have been smart politics, but as a legislative procedure it produced a sharp partisan division that jeopardized both programs in the much more closely matched 90th Congress, particularly in the House.

The administration made no concessions to the changed conditions in the House and early in the session both programs appeared on their way to being severely mangled. Convinced that the administration was out of touch with the House and the nation, key Democrats on the Education and Labor Committee forced through the changes that smoothed the road to passage for both measures.

In each case the keys to broadened support were amendments increasing the role of state and local authorities in the programs and weakening the federal government's role.

The resulting legislation was far from satisfactory to many of its warmest supporters.

"If the antipoverty bill is hailed as a victory," noted the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, "it is because the worst things Congress was generally expected to do to the poverty program were somehow avoided."

"As America has moved from pioneering austerity to sophisticated affluence, from the simplicities of rugged individualism to the complexities and problems of an overpopulated urban society, one of the casualties has been old-fashioned patriotism."—Tempe (Ariz.) News.

"How much more grievous are the consequences of anger than the causes of it."—Marcus Aurelius.

"Where law ends, tyranny begins."—William Pitt.

ART BUCHWALD

Economic Story Of 1968

WASHINGTON — It is not too early to make a report on the economy for 1968. We are grateful to Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Grim Economic Institute for providing us with the information that could be of such great value to all Americans.

"Professor, how do you see 1968, economically speaking, that is?"

"I see it as another great gun-and-butter year, with possibly the thrust a little more toward guns than butter."

"Is this bad?"

"Well, in a gun-and-butter economy, you always like to have an even balance between the two, but it's hard to maintain, particularly in a society that consumes so much oleomargarine."

ART BUCHWALD

Other Editors Saying Hat Poised For Toss

(Wilson Times)

The January 3 itinerary announced by U. S. Rep. James Gardner of Rocky Mount in connection with his political plans is viewed by most observers as almost positive indication he will run for governor.

Gardner will start the day with a news conference in Raleigh, then hop by plane to Wilmington for a rally. Other stops are scheduled at Greensboro, Asheville and Gastonia, and the day will climax with a rally in the first-term congressman's hometown.

This mountains-to-shore tour is pretty strong evidence the freshman congressman has his eye on the governorship or the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Sam Ervin of Morganton.

Gardner could throw the crystal gazers a curve, but speculation has centered on a try for the governor's mansion and the congressman came pretty close to confirming this Dec. 15 at a "Gardner for Governor Dinner" here.

After predicting election of a Republican governor in 1968, Gardner said "we are going to see things happen in this state we never dreamed of..." and added, "I would like to be a part of it."

Gardner's strategy in coupling his announcement with a far-flung tour represents something of a departure from political custom. Usually a political hopeful discloses his plans at a location designed to obtain maximum exposure from news media and lets it go at that.

If the Rocky Mount congressman does announce his candidacy for governor, he will be pitted against John Sticklely of Charlotte in a primary.

The support of dissident Democrat voters was the key to Gardner's 1966 upset victory over congressional veteran Harold Cooley, but in running for governor the Rocky Mount representative first would have to get by fellow Republican Sticklely.

In a contest with Sticklely, Gardner would not have this backing unless there is a tremendous upsurge in pro-Gardner voter registrations or party switching.

Sticklely is believed to hold a substantial edge in the state's Republican stronghold and this may explain in part Gardner's grueling kickoff schedule.

"What can we expect if the pendulum swings in that direction?"

"An inflationary spiral followed by a wage and price merry-go-round which will eventually lead to a roller coaster ride ending on a Ferris wheel cycle of high interest rates."

"Would this stem the tide?" I asked.

"It depends on how many ripples you have in the waves of the economy. Some unemployment may wash over the sands of counter-production, but it's the undertow that we have to worry about."

"Could the body of our economy be hurt?"

"I think it may become bruised and sprained, but I don't see any fractures or contusions. Of course, I'm not a doctor."

"Do you see growth in the gross national product?"

"There could be growth, depending on what kind of fertilizer the Administration uses. We have to cultivate production, but at the same time we have to get at the weeds of inflation. This can be done by either spraying the economy with new investment, or cutting off the water to the American dollar."

"But doesn't this put pressure on the system?"

The Calendar And '68 Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

The calendar will not be overly kind to business in the coming year.

One benefit will be a fairly late Easter, which will give merchants ample time to promote apparel, and the late date offers hope of pleasant weather for fashion parades on Easter Sunday.

Ash Wednesday will fall on Feb. 28 and Easter on April 14. The dates were Feb. 8 and March 26 in 1967, almost three weeks earlier. The earliest Easter can come is on March 22; the latest, April 23.

The traditional summer vacation season will be only 61 days in 1968. It was 66 days in 1967. Vacationing got an early start in 1967 on Saturday, July 1, with many people not waiting until Tuesday, the Fourth. In addition, Labor Day falls on Sept. 2 in 1968 and fell on Sept. 4 in 1967.

This will cut into returns to summer resorts, travel agencies, transportation companies and the thousands of other businesses that profit from vacationers. On the other hand, the earlier Labor Day will get back-to-school promotions started early.

Shorter Holiday Shopping Season

The Christmas shopping season, from Thanksgiving Day up until the big holiday, will have only 22 shopping days in 1968. There were 26 shopping days in 1966 and 1967. Thanksgiving Day is late in 1968, falling on Nov. 28. It fell on Nov. 23 in 1967.

In the coming year Christmas will be on a Wednesday, leaving two full days for last-minute shopping.

Holidays will split many weeks in 1968 and merchants will moan, because split weeks slow down sales. When a holiday falls in midweek, many people take the days off preceding or following the holiday. This may be good for resort hotels and motels, but hard on merchants.

Extra Payday Months

The four months with five Fridays, the most common paydays, will be March, May, August and November. The last will probably add a fillip to Christmas shopping. Many retailers will plan special sales appeals in those months, especially since the fifth payday is so close to end-of-the-month monthly paydays.

The more important Jewish holidays will be Purim, starting at sundown Wednesday, March 13; Passover, starting at sundown Friday, April 12; Rosh Hashanah marking the start of the year 5729 at sundown, Sunday, Sept. 22; Yom Kippur, starting at sundown, Tuesday, Oct. 1; Succoth, starting at sundown, Sunday, Oct. 6, and Chanukah, starting at sundown Sunday, Oct. 15.

St. Patrick's Day, March 17, will be on a Sunday, a fine day for marching.

St. Patrick's Day, March 17, will be on a Sunday, a fine day for marching.

Wednesday, New Year's Day, Lincoln's Birthday, Labor Day and Veterans Day fall on Mondays, and Columbus Day falls on a Saturday, causing no problems for retailers.

However, Washington's Birthday falls on a Thursday; Memorial Day on a Thursday; July 4 on a Thursday; Thanksgiving, as always, on a Thursday; and Christmas on a Wednesday. New Year's Day, 1969, will also be on a

The system can probably stop a certain amount of pressure, providing the input is not greater than the output. The problem here, of course, is heat. We can't let the economy overheat, yet it cools off for a period of time, it might be difficult to start stoking up the fires again. I think here we have to think in terms of durable goods, if we think of anything at all.

"Prof. Applebaum, is there any possibility of cushioning the economy without falling off the precipice?"

"It depends on how soft the economy gets. I don't think the government can sit on business, even though it doesn't hurt to give it a kick once in a while."

"Then from what you say, if spending continues unabated all signs lead to another spiral which, in turn, could lead to the absence of economic euphoria and possibly an upward thrust with some strain, but not necessarily a clean break with the patterns of 1967."

Prof. Applebaum said, "Are you a wise guy, or something?"

"No sir. I was trying to get this all in perspective."

"I believe what I said was quite clear. You have a perverse economy, with relatively pessimistic monetary inversions, leading to starts and stops which could or could not set into motion a boom or bust, depending on how many people go to sports stores and buy guns, as opposed to how many people go to grocery stores and buy butter."

Car Damaged By Fire Yesterday

Greenville firemen received two calls Sunday, one to a car fire and the second, a false alarm.

Firemen said they were called to 409 West Fifth St. at 2 p.m. when a car struck a utility pole and caught fire.

Officers said moderate fire damage resulted to the vehicle. Box 152 at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt Streets was sounded for the fire.

The second call came at 4:15 p.m. when Box 23 at the intersection of Fifth and Evans Streets was sounded.

Fire officers reported that call was a false alarm.

Safety Council Meets Thursday

The Pitt County Safety Council will hold its monthly meeting Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The program for the meeting has been arranged by Greenville Utilities Commission director Leonard P. Bloxam.

The meeting is open to all firms, organizations and individuals interested in safety and all interested persons are invited to attend the lunch meeting.

Car Ran Into A Utility Pole

Jimmy Williams, 36-year-old Negro of 707 Fleming St. was charged with operating under the influence following investigation of a 2 p.m. mishap on Fifth Street, 100 feet west of the Pitt Street intersection.

Investigators said the Williams auto collided with a utility pole, causing an estimated $100 damage to the pole. No estimate of damage to the Williams vehicle was made by investigators.

The game lacrosse is derived from an American Indian game called "baggataway."

Packers Keep NFL Crown In 13-Below Weather

HOW THE PACKERS KEPT WARM — In subzero temperatures the Green Bay bench is protected by lean-to type structure which has numerous heat-blowing devices atop it during Sunday's championship game. (AP Wirephoto)

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Sports Writer
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The glacial Green Bay Packers have maintained their icy grip upon the National Football League crown for a third straight year. And they used a red hot finish to do it.

The temperature was -13 at the start Sunday and Dallas was minus four points at the finish after the coldest afternoon in history of NFL championship play.

Quarterback Bart Starr won it with 13 seconds left by following guard Jerry Kramer's blocking for a touchdown from the one-yard line that gave the Packers a 21-17 victory.

"I didn't feel that cold," said Packer Coach Vince Lombardi, who became the first man since the NFL adopted a playoff system in 1933 to guide a team to three consecutive titles. "I didn't feel it at all."

The victory thrust the Packers into the Super Bowl against Oakland, the American Football League king. That game will be played in sunny Miami, Fla., Jan. 14.

The weather was bitter, and the Cowboys were bitter about the weather. "We were all suffering out there, and it got worse as the game went on," said Coach Tom Landry, whose Cowboys lost in the final seconds to Green Bay in warm Dallas a year ago.

"Minus 13 — it just isn't a test of football," said Dallas quarterback Don Meredith.

"It was just bitter," admitted Starr, who at times seemed utterly immobilized by the cold. He fell under the Cowboy pass rush eight times during the afternoon. The Packers got to Meredith just once.

The Packers, at first seemingly oblivious to the cold — a record for Dec. 31 even in Green Bay — drove to a 14-0 lead on two Starr passes to Boyd Dowler. The first, from eight yards out, capped a drive from the Green Bay 18 helped along by two costly penalties against Dallas.

The second came from the 43 as the Cowboys defense worried about rookie sensation Travis Williams, who had just been inserted in the lineup.

But Starr soon became almost immobilized in the withering cold and stood helplessly by as Willie Townes stripped him of the ball at the Packer seven. George Andrie scooped it up and raced for a touchdown.

Dallas added a 21 yard Danny Villanueva field goal after Willie Wood fumbled a punt at the 17.

"The Cowboys pulled ahead on the first play of the final period when Dan Reeves teamed with Lance Rentzel on a 50 yard option pass play. "We just fell asleep on that one," said Lombardi.

Middies Won Some Big Ones

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Navy's football team gave up 253 points in 1967 and scored only 205 points, but the Midshipmen won some big games.

The Naval Academy eleven opened by beating Penn State 23-22, took Syracuse 27-14 in its fourth game and upset Army by 19-14. The Middies won five, lost four and tied one.

Southern Conference Cagers Get Back To Family Games This Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
After a 12-day siege of holiday tournaments, interspersed with a few regularly scheduled games with outsiders, Southern Conference basketball teams get back to family feuding this week.

One of the first league encounters sends West Virginia's Mountaineers, tied with Davidson's Wildcats for the lead against Virginia Military Institute's Keydets at Beckley, W. Va., Wednesday night.

The Mountaineers trounced the Keydets 77-57 in the last pre-Christmas conference game.

This one is listed as VMI's "home" game, which leads Keydet coach Gary McPherson to observe:

"It's a heckuva note when you come out on the court and thousands of 'home' fans are cheering for the visitors. The only way we know we're the home team in a game like this is because we wear the white uniforms and are on the home side of the scoreboard."

Despite the 1-3 conference record and 2-5 over-all mark the Keydets will take into the encounter, McPherson says he doesn't think "anyone can take us lightly, and I know we aren't out of the conference race yet."

All league teams will be idle tonight, but three have dates Tuesday night against outside opposition, headlined by Davidson's invasion of Duke. The Citadel is host to Florida State and William and Mary to Jacksonville.

Davidson wound up a disastrous tournament week for conference outfits Saturday night, bowing 80-67 to ninth-ranked Vanderbilt in the finals of the Sugar Bowl tournament. It was the second defeat of the eighth-ranked Wildcats in 10 starts, and both were by Vanderbilt.

Rod Knowles had 20 points and Mike Maloy 18 for Davidson, but Vanderbilt led most of the way as Tom Hagan hit for 26 points and Bo Wyanandt for 23. The Commodores are 9-1.

George Washington finally won for the first time in 10 games, the Colonials edging Montana 67-65 for third place in the Evansville, Ind., Invitational as Garland Pinkston scored 20 points.

A 20-point performance by Charlie Alford led East Carolina to a 67-65 decision over East Tennessee, but Furman's Paladins were routed 78-53 by Clemson in the third-place game in the Poinsettia Classic.

Big Ten Trailed Against Rivals

CHICAGO (AP) — For the second straight season Big Ten football teams showed 12 victories and 17 defeats against non-conference opponents. But in 1966 there also was a tie, the memorable 10-10 deadlock between Michigan State and Notre Dame.

The Big Ten is not permitted to "red shirt," which means holding out a sophomore. Most outside teams are permitted to hold a player back for one season.

Duke Getting Chance To Advance In Rating

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This week promises to be a big one for Atlantic Coast Conference basketball—especially for Duke.

The Blue Devils, shut out of the nationally ranked top ten for all season, this week get what may well be their best chance to gain national recognition. They play two nationally ranked teams.

Wednesday night, Davidson plays at Duke. Friday, the Blue Devils play at North Carolina. Last week North Carolina was ranked fifth nationally, and Davidson eighth.

The Davidson game has another significance for Duke. Their series terminated a few years ago after Davidson Coach Lefty Driesell had some uncomplimentary things to say about Duke. Wednesday's game is the first since the differences have been resolved.

In weekend ACC action, North Carolina's "Mr. Big," Larry Miller, carried the Tar Heels to the Far West Basketball Classic championship in Portland, Ore., Saturday night and captured a title of his own—the tournament's Most Valuable Player. North Carolina defeated Oregon State 68-61.

The tournament play gives the Tar Heels a record of seven wins and one loss, and should enhance their fifth-place ranking in the Associated Press national poll. One of their victims was 7th ranked Utah in a semi-final game.

Duke routed Wake Forest 103-76 in a non-conference tilt Saturday night.

North Carolina State lost 62-56 to Georgia in the championship game of the Triangle Classic tournament in Raleigh Friday night.

Clemson defeated Furman in the consolation game of the Poinsettia Classic at Greenville, N.C., Saturday night.

This week's schedule:

Tuesday: Atlantic Christian at N.C. STATE

Wednesday: Davidson at Duke; Maryland at South Carolina; Wake Forest at North Carolina; Richmond at Virginia;

Thursday: Furman at Clemson; South Carolina at

Clemson; Duke at North Carolina; Maryland at N.C. State;

Virginia Tech at Virginia; VMI at Wake Forest.

Had Plenty To Cheer About

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Roy VanNess, Trenton State College director of athletics, had much to cheer about this fall.

The president of the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference divided his spare time cheering for the Trenton State soccer team and the Rutgers football team.

His son Dave was a goalie for Trenton State's soccer team while Dave's twin brother Bruce played quarterback as a sophomore.

CHICAGO (AP) — When Indiana, Purdue and Minnesota finished in a three-way tie for the Big Ten football title it marked the fifth triple tie in the history of the conference.

In 1931 Michigan, Northwestern and Purdue tied. Other triple ties were among Illinois, Michigan and Purdue in 1918;

Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin in 1906 and Michigan, Minnesota and Northwestern in 1903.

College Cage Rankings Slated For Revisions

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The national college basketball rankings are in for a major revision in the wake of the annual holiday tournament whirl—five of the Top Ten teams suffered defeats—but UCLA and Houston don't figure to be involved.

The awesome Bruins and challenging Cougars continued their methodical march toward a climactic showdown in the Houston Astrodome Jan. 20, defending national champion UCLA bowling over three opponents en route to the Los Angeles Classic championship and Houston beating three others on the way to the Rainbow Classic title in Honolulu.

But third-ranked Indiana lost twice, No. 4 Tennessee and No. 7 Utah had 2-1 records for the week, No. 8 Davidson split a pair and No. 10 Boston College was 1-2 in the Holiday Festival in New York.

Among the host of challengers for spots in the select list are Oklahoma City, New Mexico, Nebraska and perhaps Temple, all tournament winners. Columbia, winner of the Holiday Festival in New York, is an extreme darkhorse.

UCLA, with Lew Alcindor, Lynn Shackleford and Mike Warren doing the heavy work, stormed over Wyoming 104-71 Saturday in the title game of the Los Angeles Classic.

The Bruins earlier had beaten Minnesota 95-55 and St. Louis 108-67 in running their unbeaten string to 42 straight. Alcindor, the tourney most valuable player for the second straight year, scored 20 points in the title game, Shackleford had 24 and Warren 16. UCLA outscored the Cowboys 52-17 over one stretch.

Houston, now 13-0 for the season, beat Bradley 69-52 and Marquette 77-65 before edging North Texas State 45-43 in the Rainbow Classic final. All American Elvin Hayes was named MVP.

No. 5 North Carolina won the Far West Tournament in Portland, Ore., taking Oregon 68-61 in the final game. Larry Miller, the MVP, scored 33 points in the title match.

Ninth-ranked Vanderbilt beat No. 8 Davidson 80-67 in winning the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans. Tom Hagan had 26 points and Bo Wyenandt 23 for Vandy.

Kentucky, No. 6, beat Notre Dame 81-73 in a non-tourney game.

Third-ranked Indiana lost twice in the All Sport Tournament at Dallas, which ended Friday, Tennessee was a first round victim in the Los Angeles Classic, Utah lost to North Carolina in the semifinals of the Far West tourney and Boston College was beaten twice in New York, the last time 60-57 by Louisville in the game for third place.

Columbia beat St. John's, N.Y., 60-55 for the title in the New York tournament. Jim McMillian scored 25 points in the title game and was named the tourney MVP.

Temple won the Quaker City

Tournament in Philadelphia, beating St. Francis, Pa. 83-77, while Nebraska took the Big Eight tourney in Kansas City by defeating Kansas State 66-62.

Oklahoma City, now 8-0, beat Brigham Young 91-88 for the title in the All-College tourney in Oklahoma City. Rich Travis scored 45 points for the winners.

New Mexico, now 10-0, won its own Lobo Invitational in Albuquerque Friday.

Detroit won its Motor City tourney, whipping Niagara 102-91 in the title game.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Raiders are the American Football League's 1967 champions after a convincing 40-7 demolition of Houston's Cinderella Oilers. Now it's the Raiders' turn to try on the glass slipper.

Oakland figures to be the underdog when they play Green Bay at the Super Bowl in Miami, Fla., Jan. 14, but the Packers don't scare this club.

"This team has come a long way with confidence," said Oakland coach John Rauch. "And we'll go into the game against Green Bay with confidence."

He'll also bring along Hewritt Dixon and Pete Banaszak, who stole the rushing show from Houston's Hoyle Granger in the title game Sunday.

Dixon pounded out 144 yards in 21 carries including a 69-yard touchdown sprint at the start of the second period that opened things up for the Raiders. Banaszak gained 116 in 15 attempts.

Granger, the AFL's second leading regular-season rusher with 1,194 yards, managed only 14 yards net in 14 carries against the Raiders. "They stopped our running game, and that was the key," said Houston coach Wally Lemm.

George Blanda, the 40-year-old veteran, who was cut loose by the Oilers before the season started, kicked four field goals and accounted for .16 points — both championship game records.

But it was a field goal that Blanda didn't kick that hurt the Oilers most. That was in the final seconds of the first half when an Oakland drive stalled at the Houston 18.

On fourth down, the Raiders lined up for a field goal with quarterback Daryle Lamonica crouching to hold the ball for Blanda. But when Jim Otto snapped it, Lamonica snatched the ball, rolled out to his right and lofted an 18-yard scoring pass to Dave Kocorek.

"That was the icing on the cake," said Rauch. "The play was in our game plan and I almost used it earlier. Probably the best decision I made all day was to wait and use it when we did."

That sent the Raiders into the dressing room with a 17-0 halftime edge and the momentum going their way.

"Our error on that fake field goal was as important as the fumble on the second half kickoff," said Lemm.

That was when Ken Kerock recovered Zeke Moore's bobble on the Houston 30. Dixon and Banaszak tore through the Oilers' line and Lamonica finally plunged in for the score.

The lead stretched to 30-0 before the Oilers scored, and by that time the Raiders were thinking about Miami and the Packers.

"We have a lot of pride on this team," said Lamonica. "And we'll be up for them."

For the Oilers, Sunday's loss ended their rags-to-riches season. They had finished 3-11 and last in the East in 1966 before rebounding to 9-4-1 and the division title this season.

Winning was worth more than $6,000 per man for the Raiders—an AFL title game record. Each losing Oiler received just over $5,000.

Chinese Calendar Starts 'Year Of The Monkey'

VIET NAM NEW YEAR . . . Jane E. Romita tries on hat. Held up to the light the wording Happy New Year shows up.

By BETTY CASEY

"Ring out the year of the Goat, ring in the year of the Monkey."

This could be an appropriate New Year's greeting in Vietnam this year, for the Vietnamese observe the Chinese Lunar calendar which follows a twelve year cycle, with each year named after one of the animals of the Zodiac.

The Chinese calendar, adopted by the Vietnamese and most of the Far Eastern countries, begins in 2637 B.C. in the 61st year of the Rat through the years of the Buffalo, Tiger, Hare (or Cat), Dragon, Snake, Horse, Goat, Monkey, Cock (or Chicken), Dog and the Pig, then back to the Rat. 1967 was the year of the Goat, 1968 is designated the year of the Monkey.

The Vietnamese celebration of the first day of the lunar New Year is called Tet. It continues, despite the ravaging war sweeping the country, to be the most important of their traditional festivals. Since time immemorial, it has been observed throughout the country by all the people—scholars, gentry and commoners, rich and poor alike.

Games and amusements, always accompanied by exploding firecrackers, differ according to wealth and social status but the meaning of Tet remains the same: To recall the Past and prepare for the Future.

Tet has also become a symbol of hope for Peace. Five times a truce, including the holiday time of Tet, has been observed by the fighting men of many countries who brave the sweltering heat of the jungles to stand in battle against the invaders of South Vietnam, with the hope of an ensuing negotiated settlement of differences in the tiny, Asian country.

Although Tet is primarily a religious and family affair, the general atmosphere of festivity is most exciting. Preparations begin many days in advance. A month in advance, the markets in cities and villages are ringed as if by magic by a multicolored belt of small shops made of light mats and cardboard and decorated with flowers and fancy lanterns and presents to be exchanged.

They even make their conical shaped hats of translucent bleached rice straw with the message, "Happy New Year", written of course in Vietnamese, visible through the weaving of a strong light is shone through the hat. They also send Tet greeting cards, much like our Christmas cards.

On the twenty-third day of the twelfth month, a bamboo pole, five to six yards high, is put up in front of each Vietnamese house. Near the top is hung a bamboo circle to which are attached paper gold bars, a paper carp fish and tablets of clay. The carp, according to a popular legend, can transform itself into a dragon to serve as mount for the God of the Hearth in his trip to Heaven, where he goes for seven days to report to the Jade Emperor on the family's activities during the year.

His absence symbolizes the death of nature during the winter and his return brings its rejuvenation and renewal. Tet is thus considered a critical date which interrupts the continuity of time and puts its rhythm into the life of men and things.

At the end of the year, at midnight, the Vietnamese celebrate. The celebration is quite different from say, Times Square in New York where masses of people jam the streets to roar in the New Year. Nor is it like Japan where people climb heights to wait for the New Year sun to rise. In Vietnam, everybody remains at home and participates in silent ceremonies. The whole family assembles around a huge censer of fragrant incense smoke. With spring flowers around them and a cloud of smoke overhead, they remain deep in thought.

They think of their ancestors who fought to create and preserve their homeland. They think of dear friends and relatives who are far away. Sometimes tears appear in their eyes: they are ashamed of some misdeeds. Often, very ceremoniously, a writer begins the first few lines of a poem—for the Vietnamese love gentle poetry.

At the same time, the whole family is to welcome the returning Spirit of the Home. A week before the Spirit they believe, had left home for the Court of the Jade Emperor. He had been given ritual offerings: three paper carp fish and three live carp fish which were supposed to carry him up into the sky. (Symbolically, carp can do this because of the strength with which they are able to swim upstream during the mating season.)

At midnight every house explodes firecrackers to welcome the return of the Spirit of Home and the New Year.

An American government employee who recently served in Hue, Vietnam tells this story.

In observance of the curfew imposed on the city of Hue, he returned to his quarters from a small American get-together at eleven o'clock through quiet, deserted streets. At midnight the noise of exploding firecrackers was deafening.

Vietnamese guards at the American installation for which he was responsible, not having any firecrackers, shot off their guns in celebration, scaring the Filipino, third-country-national technicians on duty at the installation half out of their wits. They thought it was an attack.

In response to the loud explosions, the military compound was automatically alerted. After a while, when the explanations had been made, the American guards decided to join the fun (and also to let it be known that they were on the alert in case any Viet Cong decided to try anything) under cover of the celebration) by banging away themselves.

On the "Head Day" of the year, as the Vietnamese call the first day of the New Year, they visit the shrines, washing each other happiness. A great number of people go to the pagodas and churches to pray to Buddha and God for peace. They bring home branches of fresh plants as a "symbol of Happiness."

Within the limits of wartime restrictions, the Vietnamese still enjoy other amusements which, when possible, they share with the foreign friends in their country.

Amusements such as cock-fights, bird-fights, cards and chess, as well as regional folk dances (unicorn dances, lantern dances, flower dances or straw-hat dances) and usually a feast featuring exotic fish and rice dishes seasoned by pepperhot fish sauce called "nuc-momh."

It is an honor to be invited to a Vietnamese home during the Tet season. Many Americans have enjoyed this hospitality and have exchanged gifts with their friends in Vietnam.

Tet, the Vietnamese New Year does not coincide with our new year, nor does it come at the same time each year. We use the Gregorian calendar which compensates for the uneven number of days in a year by making months of different lengths and using the short leap year to compensate every four years.

The Chinese calendar divides the year into twelve equal months of 29½ days and adds a thirteenth month every year to even things up.

Tet, the Vietnamese feast of the first day of the year, is a "mobile" feast, since it corresponds with the new moon and is placed halfway between the winter solstice and the Springinox. It usually falls in early February.

Our calendar year of 1968 will be known as the year of the Monkey in Vietnam. It will be the year 4605 by the Chinese lunar calendar. Will Tet this year fulfill the hope of peace and understanding? Let us hope so.

Swine Management Hints

Now is the time to do some real planning for swine production. Ask yourself questions about your program. If you cannot come up with a satisfactory answer, then seek the desired information from a reliable source. It may be wise to write your questions on paper for future reference. For example, Do I make a profit in my enterprise in 1967? Should I expand my herd? Could I afford a new farrowing house or feeder pen? Should I feed my pigs to market, or sell feeder pigs? It will be impossible to answer these questions without first having a complete set of records, and concerning your record keeping program ask yourself these questions: Are my records usable records? Do I know the cost-production of my swine operation? Have I talked with the county agricultural agent about the IBM record program that is available to swine producers? Am I producing the type of hog that the market demands? Most slaughter houses will make a cut-out on your hogs when requested by the producer. Some breeds of hogs will produce a higher percent of lean cuts than other breeds when careful selection and certified mating is carried out. This is also true for the rate of gain and litter size. This is only a part of a necessary management program in swine production. There is no substitute for cleanliness; disease and parasite prevention and control; preventing drafts on young pigs; feeding a balanced ration of good quality and of right amount; correct administration of iron shots, vaccines, etc.

The Worry Clinic People Do Not Flee Pleasure, Joy, Love

Arthur's tragic case is one of almost 25,000 each year! So never be an accessory to it by failing to offer deserved praise. Be sure your case is a words buoy up the morale of your companions instead of tearing down their ego. Join the "Compliment Club" and spread sunshine instead of gloom!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE E-549: Arthur K., aged 37, was an editor. He was an old friend of Mrs. Crane and me. And he was one of the first editors to launch this "Worry Clinic" column. Late one afternoon he stopped at my office in Chicago while I was at the hospital. He told my secretary that he just happened to be in town and thought he would drop in for a visit. She informed him that I would return by 5 P.M., so he said he would call back at that hour. It was close to 5 o'clock when I reached my office, so she told me about Arthur's visit and that he said he'd see me around 5. But he didn't show up at 5 or 5:30. I waited till 6:30 and finally decided he must have headed back to his home town. Which he did, alas! For he put a revolver bullet through his head later that night after he had reached his home town! Mrs. Crane and I were both unhappy and I grieved doubly because I am positive that I could have stopped his suicide if only I had been in my office when he first called. But I didn't know he was coming to Chicago and my secretary didn't dream that Arthur

Arrest Two On Assault Charges

Two men were charged with assault with a deadly weapon following investigation of two separate incidents early today. Chief H. F. Lawson said police charged Kelly Barnhill, 54-year-old Negro of 1216 Battle St. following a cutting incident at the Cavalier Club shortly after midnight. Officers said Barnhill allegedly cut Willie C. Station, 28-year-old Negro of 602 Bancroft St. on the arm and nose with a knife. Chief Lawson said Izell Hines, 40-year-old Negro of 1618 South Greene St. was charged following an alleged shooting incident about 3:30 a.m. Hines, police reported, allegedly fired a shot at Theodore Peppers of 913 Imperial St. as Peppers was in front of a 702 Roosevelt Ave. residence. Investigation of the cases is continuing, the police chief noted.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AKJ2 ♥AJ9 ♠J93 ♣73

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—You have a good sound opening bid facing a partner who has opened the bidding and jumped. You should, therefore, entertain notions of a slam since a good fit has been established. You may temporize, if you choose, by bidding three spades to describe a good suit and then follow up with a vigorous jump in hearts, depending upon the temperament of your partner.

Q. 2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ5 ♥52 ♠A63 ♣10954

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 1NT Pass
3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. A return to partner's major suit is clearly indicated for you are just as pleased with hearts as you are with diamonds, having three of each. If partner takes still further vigorous action you may be inclined to show the ace of diamonds for you have a near maximum no trump response of nine points.

Q. 3—Neither-vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ8 ♥9853 ♠632 ♣KJ10

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♠ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—One no trump. While it is our policy to respond with major suit when partner has made his take-out double, we regard this case as exceptional. It is an evenly balanced hand, well suited for no trump with a double spade stopper, and we prefer to let our future rest in that direction.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠Q843 ♥K10852 ♠10993 ♣Q

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1♥ Dble. Pass
1♥ 1♠ 2♥ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With hearts supported on both sides we would not be too quick to double the opposition for penalties, particularly with seven cards in the suits partner has bid. A single raise to two spades is, therefore, our choice.

Q. 5—Neither-vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠AK5 ♥742 ♠AQ10853 ♣Q

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ 1♥ 1♠ 1♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. Had partner's response come in the absence of an intervening bid, we would lean slightly toward a two diamond bid; but, in view of the fact that he made a free bid, the two spade call is clearly indicated.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠AKJ95 ♥J4 ♠A97 ♣A104

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♠ Pass Pass 2♣ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Discretion calls for a pass. With a partner who has announced possession of practically nothing, it is futile to carry on the fight. You cannot hope to win more than six tricks in your own hand so that, with a partner who may hold a complete blank, it is foolhardy to bid for eight tricks.

Q. 7—As South vulnerable, you hold:
♠A5 ♥AJ1075 ♠Q94 ♣AQ8

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♥ Pass
2NT Pass 4NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Six no trump. Partner's bid should not be construed as Blackwood in this case, but should be taken as a direct raise of your no trump bid. Partner is in effect asking if you have something more than the 16 high card points which you have promised. Inasmuch as your hand contains 17 high card points, a good five card suit, and a fit with partner, you should accept the invitation.

Q. 8—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠A1052 ♥42 ♠Q1064 ♣K107

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♥ 2♦ Pass 3♦
Pass 4♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. Partner evidently has a good distributional hand with which he did not choose to double. It is reasonable to suppose that your minor suit holdings solidify his two five card suits.

Obituaries

Sexauer Sets Up Traveling Show

KINSTON — Donald Sexauer, associate professor and chairman of the Department of Printmaking in the School of Arts at East Carolina University, has organized a traveling exhibit known as the East Carolina Print Group which will be featured this month at the Kinston Art Center.

The exhibit contains the work of students, faculty and alumni of the Department of Printmaking at ECU. The prints display a great variety of mixed media techniques, woodcuts, intaglio, lithograph, collograph, serigraph and others. A total of 24 prints will be exhibited and 18 of these will be for sale.

Most of the alumni exhibiting are former students of Sexauer and are teaching in various universities, colleges and public schools throughout the country.

Sexauer and his group will be honored at a reception Sunday, Jan. 7, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. at the Art Center. The exhibit will remain at the Center through Jan. 26.

First Accident Of The New Year

Greenville's first traffic collision for 1968 occurred at 1:30 a.m. today at the intersection of Evans and 14th Streets.

Investigating officers reported vehicles driven by Betty Jane Wilkes, 24, of 306 White St. and William Townes Boyd, 23, of Springfield, Va., collided at the intersection, causing an estimated $200 damage to the Wilkes vehicle and an estimated $70 damage to the Boyd vehicle.

Police charged Boyd with disobeying a stop signal.

No injuries were reported.

Oil Heater Fire Threat Controlled

FARMVILLE—Fire threatened here early yesterday when an oil heater flared dangerously in a dwelling owned by Mary Frijelle on 203 Williams St.

The 10:30 fire was quickly controlled by the firemen who were called to the dwelling.

Officials reported that the firemen reached the dwelling in time to extinguish the blaze in the heater before it had time to cause damage.

It is not known whether the building was covered by insurance.

Cruel Hoaxers In Thailand, Too

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—The Royal Thai navy is investigating phone calls to relatives of Thai navy personnel serving in Vietnam falsely reporting they had become casualties.

The Bangkok Post said navy wives and relatives were receiving mail carrying similar messages.

Start '68 With A False Alarm

The first call of the new year for Greenville firemen was a false alarm, officers reported.

Firemen responded to the intersection of Church and Allen Streets about 12:55 a.m. today when Box 425 was turned in.

Officers said no fire was found and the call was listed as "false."

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big pay boosts may be in store next year for the vice president, cabinet members, congressmen and Supreme Court justices if a new executive-salary commission follows the suggestions of a presidential committee.

The committee recommended that the vice president's salary be increased from $43,000 to $60,000 annually and that the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court receive $60,000 instead of his present $40,000.

Other salary hike recommendations were: associated Supreme Court justices from $39,500 to $50,000; Cabinet members, from $35,000 to $55,000; members of Congress, $30,000 to $45,000.

The committee report has not been acted on. But in the recently passed federal postal rate and pay bill Congress provided for an executive salary commission to be appointed every four years.

Salaries recommended by the commission would become effective early in 1969 unless either the House or Senate rejects them by majority vote.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prosperous corn grower who once gave Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev a guided tour of his Iowa farm has been cited by U.S. officials for sparking a program which increased substantially the food production of Salvador in Central America.

The farmer, Roswell Garst of Coon Rapids, visited Salvador in 1964 and helped convince that nation and the Agency for International Development (AID) to cooperate in a controlled experimental food production program.

At the time Salvador was importing about $30 million worth of food and feed a year. "But in 1967," AID said, "Salvador became a rice exporter and in 1968 she plans to become a corn exporter too."

"Private business in Salvador... agreed to contribute the seed, fertilizer and insecticides for the experiment AID said. "What happened was unprecedented in Central America—doubling and quadrupling of per acre production."

"Our experience proves beyond doubt," AID said, "that Salvador, a republic of 8,061 square miles, can produce all the food and feed requirements for at least five times its present population of three million people."

Vending Machine Found Looted

FARMVILLE—A coin machine was discovered broken into here yesterday by a patrolman on his regular walking beat.

The discovery, on South Main St. at a local laundromat, was made at 3:58 p.m.

The amount taken has not been determined by police officials.

Investigation of the case is continuing.
