

Eleven Utilities Crews Work 'Round The Clock

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Eleven utilities crews have been working around the clock in an effort to restore electric service to Greenville Utilities Commission customers.

An estimated 1,000 customers remained without power at mid-morning Friday, utilities director Leonard Bloxam said. Of these, about 200 were inside the Greenville city limits while 800 were rural residents, Bloxam added.

Thursday about 2,000 of the commission's 14,000 customers were without power.

The utilities head said crews are concentrating their efforts on getting main lines up in order to restore service to as many people as possible.

He said "the odds and ends" would be taken care of. He said he hopes all electrical services can be restored this weekend.

"The biggest problem," Bloxam reported, "is you put a line up and then it goes down somewhere else."

The 80 utilities men that are working, he explained, will be able to accomplish more if the weather warms up and some of the ice disappears.

"We are still fighting ice," Bloxam explained. "We are hoping for rising temperatures to get the ice out of the trees."

He explained that the major cause of power failure has been ice-covered tree limbs breaking and falling into power lines, breaking them down.

The utilities water construction crews are helping with the power problem, Bloxam said.

"We are using the water crews and our big pole trailer," he explained, "and delivering poles to sites where poles are broken."

The water people are untangling the wire so all the linemen will have to do is dig the holes, set the poles and put the wires back up.

In addition to the local utilities employees, Bloxam said a contract line crew from Goldsboro and a tree trimming crew are working with the commission in trying to get the power restored.

Crews yesterday were working in temperatures which ranged from a high of 32 to a 20-degree low at midnight.

Temperatures this morning, according to the Utilities Commission weather station stood at 15 degrees at 8 a.m.

The wind gauge was frozen, however precipitation up to midnight last night was recorded at 52 of an inch. The Tar River level was 7.3 feet.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company Manager Linwood Langley said the company has received over 500 reports of drops (lines from pole to buildings) being knocked down by falling limbs and ice. Restoration work, he said, is underway.

In addition to four local construction crews, Langley reported that a crew from Durham and a crew from Emporia, Va., are working toward restoration of long distance service. He explained that about 70 toll-line poles are down in Pitt County.

Langley said no new service installations will be made during the emergency. "Our efforts will be directed toward repair and restoration of service which is out."

However, he added, that it will probably be next week before all telephone service is restored.

East Carolina University was without power yesterday from 3:30 p.m. until 8 o'clock last night. The library and the switchboard are open, but all other buildings are closed. Classes are scheduled to resume Monday at 8 a.m.

Greenville streets and sidewalks are covered with ice and Public Works Department crews were busy this morning putting sand and salt on them. Director of Public Works C. K. Beatty said.

Beatty said his men are also trying to clear tree limbs from streets and sidewalks.

Garbage was not picked up yesterday, he indicated and will not be picked up today. Beatty said trash and garbage will have to wait until things thaw a little.

According to City Manager

Harry Hagerty, a number of persons secured water from the city's two fire substations.

Emergency water points were established at the West End Fire Station at the intersection of Chestnut and Skinner Streets, and at the East Greenville Fire Department, on Brownlea Drive at the 14th Street intersection to provide water for people who are without water due to lack of electric power.

The city manager also noted that two people took advantage of a refugee center established at the Elm Street gymnasium last night.

Hagerty said depending upon the situation tonight, public buildings may again be utilized as shelters. He reported information about available open buildings can be obtained by calling the Police or Fire Departments.

The State Highway Commission reported this morning that all highways are iced but open. Officials also reported that in some places power lines and trees are across the roads, but are being removed as fast as possible.

Sam J. Weeks, agricultural extension agent, said this morning he had received no calls from farmers concerning problems with feeding livestock or any other problems that might be caused by freezing conditions.

$1 Million Grant For Shore Drive Redevelopment

A $1 million grant to the Greenville Redevelopment Commission has been approved by the Housing and Urban Development Department, Congressman Walter Jones has announced.

The grant represents additional funds for the 67-acre project. The money will cover amendments to the project.

Included is the north half of court house block, the junior high school property and some areas in the ravine along the eastern boundary of the project.

The grant will also allow the Redevelopment Commission to proceed with awarding of bids for a retaining wall and esplanade along the river bank. Blythe Bros. Construction Co. of Charlotte was low bidder for the retaining wall. The firm has extended its bid pending approval of the grant. The latest extension of the bid was until Feb. 1.

The additional grant also extends for one more year the execution phase of the project. This additional time will be utilized to acquire the junior high school and other properties, carry out the construction of the retaining wall and other work.

The amendment extends the boundaries of the project on the eastern side from the river to Fifth Streets with the acquisition of the junior high school property. The property will be purchased from the city schools. Contracts for construction of a new junior high on Greenville Boulevard were let this week.

The old junior high will be demolished and East Carolina University has expressed an interest in acquiring the property.

The retaining wall along the river, which will be constructed with the funds just approved, is considered one of the highlights of the project. It will be high enough to raise the flood plain in the area north of First Street. In addition a wide concrete walkway will be constructed above the metal retaining wall.

Items Needed

The Salvation Army needs blankets and bed linens, Capt. Wayne McHargue reported today.

There is also a need for heavy coats, boots and other cold weather clothing.

The items may be taken by the Salvation Army Citadel anytime over the next several days.

Peking Says Border Area Was Raided

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Peking charged today that three "U.S.-right wing Laotian" planes bombed a Communist Chinese border area last Sunday in a provocation of war against China.

A Chinese-language broadcast, monitored here, said many Chinese were killed or wounded and property damage was heavy.

The broadcast said the Miao Chai area of Yunnan Province, bordering northern Laos, was hit with more than 20 bombs and rockets.

By "U.S.-right wing Laotian" planes, the Chinese apparently meant the American-built T28s that are flown by the Laotian government's air force.

Arrest Pair After Bank Break-In

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP)—Two men were arrested early today shortly after a break-in at the Bank of Banner Elk. Officers said a preliminary check indicated no money was taken.

Avery County Sheriff Ernest Turbyfill said those arrested were booked as Terry L. Adkins and John Glenn Mann, both 21 and both of Cincinnati, Ohio. Both were jailed at Newland.

The sheriff said Adkins was arrested in a car seven miles west of Banner Elk and charged with possession of a concealed weapon, a .45-caliber pistol. The sheriff said Mann was charged with possession of burglary tools and breaking and entering after he emerged from the bank.

Highway Patrolman Sam Atkinson of Banner Elk said he made the arrests after being alerted about 2:30 a.m. by telephone by banker James Shoemaker that the establishment was being entered. Shoemaker lives near the bank.

Sheriff Turbyfill said the men had a suitcase containing about $200 wrapped in a pillow slip. He said a window was broken to gain entry to the bank.

Trooper Atkinson said an unsuccessful attempt was made last week to enter the bank.

Two Tar Heels Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Defense Thursday released the identities of two North Carolina servicemen who have been killed in action recently in Vietnam.

They were Marine Lance Cpl. James Joseph, son of Mrs. Geraldine Green of Greensboro; and Army Spec. 4 Hubert Royster Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Royster Sr., of Rt. 5, Oxford.

Cut Own Pay On Taking Office

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Mayor Fred W. Mills, who took office here Monday, cut his salary as the first official act of the term. The mayor said he can only earn $1,680 a year without risking Social Security penalties. The decrease was from $200 to $140 a month.

Electrical Repairmen Are Sent In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several thousand North Carolina families continued without heat and electricity for a second day today as a small army of workers labored to repair power lines broken by an ice storm.

Sub-freezing temperatures and hazardous driving and working conditions hampered more than 2,000 repairmen—some sent into the state from Richmond, Va., Washington, D.C., and Columbia, S.C.

Some progress was being made toward restoring normal conditions.

Jack Haden, district manager for Virginia Electric Power Co. at Williamston, said at mid-morning:

"As of now we have about 1,800 customers still without service, but these are in scattered areas of northeastern North Carolina. We'll have everybody back on the lines by 2 p.m."

Hayden said that at one time late Thursday about 20,000 Vepco customers were without electricity in an area from Battleboro in Nash County to Elizabeth City, the Outer Banks and the entire Albemarle area.

To meet the emergency, Vepco called in work crews from South Boston, Hampton, Petersburg, Richmond, and Virginia Beach, in Virginia. The districts own work force was put on a 24-hour emergency basis.

Much of the city of Greenville still was without electric service at late morning. Hayden said Greenville operates its own distributing system, but purchases its electricity from Vepco.

"Our lines are operative into Greenville," Hayden said, "the trouble is within the city and there isn't much we can do about it."

One Braved Cold To Go To Court

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Out of 100 defendants scheduled for Mecklenburg County Recorder's Court Thursday, only one man braved icy streets and freezing temperatures to go to court.

James Rufus Pitts, 33, was charged with littering Interstate 85—by throwing a paper bag of pickled pig's feet on the highway.

He was released. Judge Howard B. Arbuckle said: "I figured that anybody who would come to court on that kind of charge on that kind of day deserved to go free."

Eight Streets For Sledding

The City Street Department has announced that eight Greenville streets will be closed until further notice for sledding.

They are: Second St. from Summit to Reid; entrance of Brookgreen off Elm; Crestwood St. in Elmhurst; Third St. from Pitt to entrance of the Street Department; Rotary Ave. from First to Third St.; Sulgrave Road in Stratford; S. Wright Road off East Wright Road; Maple St. from Fifth to Sixth St.

Other Area Towns May Be Faring Even Worse

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Other towns in Pitt and surrounding counties may be faring worse than Greenville as ice over the past two days has disrupted electrical service to them.

A portable generator was brought in from Camp Lejeune to provide power to operate water pumps in Winterville.

Mayor Walter Dail said the town's 75,000 gallon storage tank ran dry about 4 p.m. yesterday and no current was available with which to operate the pumps to fill the tank.

The tank supplies all water for fire-fighting as well as domestic and commercial use in Winterville.

Dail said the generator, a 30 kw, three-phase unit, was secured through Civil Defense and arrived about 11 o'clock last night. It was placed in service about 12:30 a.m. today.

Dail said the main pump motor was burned out prior to the arrival of the generator and a smaller pump is being used. The small pump produces only 190 gallons of water per minute, according to Dail.

He emphasized that the town has no water reserve as yet and cautioned citizens to use as little water as possible.

He expressed the fear that in the event a fire were to erupt, there would not be enough water reserve to control a blaze.

About two-thirds of the power in Farmville was restored by mid-morning Friday, according to Police, who reported a number of persons spent the night at the National Guard Armory there that was opened to accept persons who had no heat.

Fountain was reported without water Thursday but telephone communications to that community today were out and it could not be determined if water service has been restored.

In Greene County all electric service supplied to residents by REA was reported out, while about 30 per cent of customers supplied by Carolina Power and Light Co. were without service.

In Greene County 927 school children were reported out of school on the last day of school, Wednesday, due, school officials said, to flu and weather.

In Ayden, power was still off in some sections of town this morning.

Regional Medical Center Is Urgently Needed: Jenkins

"A true regional medical center is desperately needed" in Eastern North Carolina, according to East Carolina University President Leo W. Jenkins.

Jenkins, in a prepared statement yesterday, said ECU is "vitaly interested in any rational program that will lead to meeting the health needs of Eastern North Carolina."

Jenkins cited an availability of competent physicians, both specialists and generalists, already in practice here.

"Greenville is known as a medical center because of these doctors, many of whom have located here because of the progressive, forward-looking attitudes of our citizens and East Carolina University.

"In the past three years, 14 new physicians have located in Greenville," Jenkins said.

Jenkins said the physicians represent many sub-specialties and added, "It is not unfair to think that ECU had some influence in their decision to locate here."

Jenkins said the recently established Institute of Life Sciences and Community Health was created here as one phase of ECU's participation in helping fulfill the need for a regional medical center.

"We plan to work closely with the state planning bodies . . . to coordinate our programs and goals with those in the rest of the state. In this way, we can do our part in this very complex task of improving health care in the entire state.

"A true regional medical center is desperately needed in the east. This includes a large, modern, regional hospital with all of the facilities and technical personnel required to operate such a complex institution."

"ECU, through its newly-acquired institute, is in a position to educate the people needed to perform as members of the modern health team."

Jenkins concluded, "We must not let up in our fight for better medical care for all of our great state."

Designer Cassini Shows Low Priced High Styles

HAIR-RAISING FASHION — Wearing a wig, designer Oleg Cassini joins a model on the runway for a dance to the rock music at the American Designer series spring preview in New York yesterday. NEW YORK (AP) — Up to now the only daddies who could afford to keep the swinging young things in style have been the sugar daddies.

One of the paradoxes today is that the only women who can really do justice to the thinny minifashions are the young who tend to be slim of purse, as well as slim figuratively.

And high styles—hemlines and otherwise—tend to be highly expensive.

While not many American designers seem to be defending the woman with wide girth and small purse, Oleg Cassini did frug to the microphone Thursday to defend the beautiful but impoverished young.

His program of low priced high style was a part of the American Designer series, a weeklong preview of spring collections.

Nothing was as elegant or understated as the gowns made for Mrs. John F. Kennedy when Cassini was her official White House couturier. But nothing carried the Kennedy kind of a price in the new young collection.

Cassini was so happy about the matter that every now and then he raced to the runway to writhe to the rock music with a pretty young model.

By contrast in price the earlier program featured Christian Dior of New York with quietly pretty clothes that cost a pretty penny.

Col. Carty Is Seira Speaker

"How to Make Your Christian Belief Work" was the topic of the talk given by Col. Douglas F. Carty, guest speaker, for the Seira Book Club.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. John O. Reynolds Tuesday night.

Col. Carty quoted from "The Living Gospels" illustrating the power of the Holy Spirit as shown in the Book of Acts and John.

Col. Carty, who was introduced by Mrs. Jack Derrick, is professor of Air Science and commander of the R.O.T.C. unit at ECU with 25 years of service. He is also a teacher of the Men's Bible Class at St. James Methodist Church.

The hostess served a dessert course preceding the meeting, which was conducted by the president, Mrs. Stephen Bartlett.

Other guests included Mrs. Ed. J. Carter and Mrs. Ward Snarr.

Dr. Lois Staton To Speak To WSCS Monday

An East Carolina University School of Education professor is scheduled to speak to the General Meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Monday, Jan. 15.

Dr. Staton will outline life as a pilgrimage and point out that "as Christians, one would live acceptably and beautifully in order to glorify God."

She will be introduced by Mrs. William E. Hudson, Vice President of the Christian Service and program chairman. Mrs. Joseph Taft Jr. will give the spiritual life.

A native of Pitt County, Dr. Staton was awarded the AB degree from Flora Macdonald College, the MA degree from East Carolina University, the MA degree from Columbia University and the PhD degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She is the author of a number of published works in both state journals and pamphlets.

She Likes Being Single At 57 Calendar

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Where does everyone get the silly idea that if a woman isn't married she is a lonely, miserable sex-starved creature?

I am 57 years old, could easily pass for 45, and I don't know a married woman I'd trade places with. I have four boy friends going at once, have a good-paying position, a home of my own, trade my car every other year, and I can do what I please with my own money.

I don't have to eat my heart out over a cheating husband, and I wouldn't have one around again on a full time basis for anything in the world. I am single by choice after having been married long enough to know what it's like. I like it better this way.

BORN FREE
DEAR BORN: I'll bet your boy friends like it better, too.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 26 years. During this time my mother has stolen several petty items from my home. They have not amounted to very much—certainly not enough to make a fuss about, but it has been very difficult for me to remain silent when I see them in her home.

The latest item, however, is a dinner ring my husband gave me for my 25th wedding anniversary. If I still had it I would wear it only on special occasions, but my mother never takes it off her finger. Every time I see her wearing my ring it makes me sick and nervous.

How can she be so heartless? My husband says that I am "nuts"—that I should ask my mother for my ring, but I just cannot bring myself to say the words. Can you tell me what to do? I hate scenes and trouble.

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: My dear mother cannot possibly be of sound mind to steal a ring from you and wear it constantly in your presence. If you don't get your mother to a doctor and investigate her mental condition, your husband will have just cause to be concerned about your own.

DEAR ABBY: You recently had a letter in your column from a service man who complained because he didn't get any mail. One very important question: Did he WRITE to anybody? My own case: My boy friend (fiance) called me collect last MAY from Massachusetts, where he was in an army school. He said he was being shipped out the following day and would write to me as soon as he had an address where I could write to him.

In JUNE he sent me a postcard from Athens, Greece. He said he was having a "great" time and was on his way to Ethiopia. (Still no address where I could write to him.)

In AUGUST he wrote from Ethiopia saying he had been there for two months and it wasn't bad at all. This time he included an address, so I answered his letter right away and I haven't heard from him since. He complained in his letter that nobody had written to him. (I wonder where he expected them to address their letters?) He isn't in a war zone, and he is not suffering any hardships because he writes that he is living in a bungalow and is teaching at the university at night. What do you think of this?

DISGUSTED
DEAR DISGUSTED: I think your fiance is lazy, inconsiderate, and something less than gung ho about you. And unless he can explain his long silence, shower him with indifference.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Probably Reflects Public Thinking

It would not be surprising if public sentiment concerning construction of the new Aycock Junior High School does not closely correspond to the split vote by which the Greenville Board of Education has decided to go ahead with a much-reduced facility in a negotiated contract with the original low bidder.

Those two Board of Education members who dissented from the action favored calling for new bids on the revised building plans rather than negotiating with the low bidder. The other three members voting favored going ahead on the negotiated basis.

Frankly, we are of the opinion Greenville and its school system would be better off in the long run had new bids been taken.

There would have been some more delay before construction could have begun on the new building. It would have taken a little longer before the much needed Junior High would be ready to accept students.

On the other hand, it is not likely that the delay would have been more than a month or two, and it probably would have made little difference in the time the school was actually ready for use. With all the changes which have been made, dropping off classrooms, changing construction which will have to be added anyway before the school can be used, taking off the auditorium, the project is considerably different from the one on which bids were originally taken.

In addition to the $1,736,000 in negotiated contracts that have been awarded on the building, additional thousands will have to come from somewhere before the building is ready for use. The project, by the time it is ready for occupancy, probably will run in the neighborhood of a half million dollars more than the $1.4 million the Board of Education had initially budgeted.

Be that as it may, the decision has been made and construction on the new junior high will begin within a few weeks.

As Greenville's Board of Education moves forward in meeting other construction needs of the city school system, we trust they will carefully guard against the pitfalls which have cropped up in this junior high project.

All The Signs Of Politicking

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — The multi-colored signs and banners are going up. The first political bumper stickers of 1968 are being attached.

Campaign managers are being named and campaign headquarters organized, and a flood of political mail already is flowing out of Raleigh daily.

Publicity and advertising campaigns are being planned and put in motion on behalf of the various candidates. All told, it is estimated this will amount to a $1 million business—perhaps more—across the state this Spring.

quarters in Charlotte.

Two Democrats, J. Melville Broughton Jr. and Robert W. Scott, have headquarters in the same downtown Raleigh hotel, the Sir Walter. Rep. James C. (Jim) Gardner has maintained a headquarters for his congressional office in downtown Raleigh for months and has aides working from other offices as well. Broughton forces have rented additional space for mailing rooms.

Each headquarters contains offices for the candidate, the campaign manager and other top campaign aides, space for the publicity staff and typing and secretarial staff.

All this, of course, is a necessary campaign expense of substantial proportions. Usually, however, headquarters expense is less than the campaign advertising budget and the candidates' travel expenses.

Much Estimating

Exactly how much a candidate spends on a political campaign is supposed to be reported to the Secretary of State within a period of time following the election.

These reports are filed according to law, but most observers agree they reflect only a part of actual campaign expenditures—those actually incurred by the candidate and his headquarters. Doubtless these are a great deal more spent on behalf of candidates throughout his formal or informal organization.

Thus realistic campaign spending figures are hard to come by. There is a great deal of estimating and guessing.

For example, it has to be guessed about the amount spent by Republican Rep. Gardner on the occasion of his formal announcement as a candidate for governor. He began the day with a breakfast for between 100 and 200 supporters in Raleigh. He held a news conference in the hotel's big ballroom. Then he conducted a 14 hour barnstorming tour of six cities across the state aboard rented airplanes including lunches, rallies and finally a barbecue spread at the final stop in Rocky Mount.

Our Gratitude For Repair Crews' Work

In weather conditions such as Pitt County experienced yesterday, there are always inconveniences and hardships as streets and highways glaze over, electric service is disrupted, telephone lines go out, and most business and service operations are below their normal level.

Under such conditions things would be much worse but for the dedicated work of those people who brave the elements to try to restore services of all kinds to as near their normal level as possible. During the freezing rain storm Wednesday night and Thursday, utilities and telephone crews worked steadily putting disrupted service back into operation as quickly as possible. Some sections, to be sure, were without electricity and other services for considerable periods of time. But the situation would have been far worse had it not been for the dedicated work of repair crews.

Highways and streets were slick in many places, but they would have been much worse had not maintenance crews been on the job spreading sand and salt in an effort to reduce hazardous driving conditions as much as possible.

To all those people who worked long and hard to minimize the inconveniences caused by the unusual weather these past few days, we express our sincere gratitude.

What Political Speakers Mean

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Since this is an election year, now is a good time to run through a little drill in double talk.

Double talk, of course, is the art of saying one thing while meaning something else. It is a saving grace in any social situation, and valuable in all seasons, but in an election year it is positively indispensable.

For the beginning student, here is a small primer of political double talk phrases that will become only too familiar during the months of campaigning that lie ahead. Each phrase is followed by its literal translation.

"My gifted opponent"—The bum I'm running against.

"Naturally, every man is entitled to his own honest opinion." — So why should I listen to yours?

"I find the tremendous response to the announcement of my candidacy profoundly gratifying."—Mother phoned and said she'd vote for me, no matter whether anybody else did.

"Jim, to win public support you have to go out and meet the people, shake hands, ring doorbells."—We don't have enough dough in the campaign kitty to buy you television time.

"And now, friends, I'd like to have you meet the brave little woman who has stood faithfully by my side through 30 years of life's storm and sunshine."—Yes my wife sure picked a steady meal ticket when she married me.

"Everyone knows I have taken an unqualified position about the situation in Vietnam." (Continued On Page 5)

Over 3,500 persons have been vaccinated for smallpox in Pitt County since the present epidemic was first reported, according to report made public this morning by Dr. W. E. Futrell, director of the county health department. Over 1,000 of these vaccinations have been made since last Thursday, the report indicated. About 250 were made yesterday. Thirty-one cases of smallpox have been reported in the county since Jan. 1st, bringing the total number of cases to 101.

Apartment Houses Needed

Housing facilities to take care of the ever increasing number of newcomers to our city seems to us to be one of the city's greatest needs at this time. Almost daily persons come to our office with the sad message that they have looked the town over and can find no place to live. There is an overgrowing demand for small houses or apartments and we believe that the building of two or three of these modern apartment houses here by citizens who are in a position to do so would not only prove a good investment, but would be rendering a great public service to the community as well.

NEW YORK (AP) — This business year could be called the year of the salesman, for consumer reluctance very likely will test the wits of American salesmanship. Order takers will be in real trouble in 1968.

For many months now business expectations have often been more romantic than realistic. Though gains have been made in many retail areas, these gains have been disappointingly small. Some industrial sales have been disappointing also.

Increasingly there is heard the complaint that seven years of prosperity and seller markets

Peace Breakout Curbed

WASHINGTON — Washington had its biggest peace scare last week, and the tremors are still being felt throughout the Capital.

North Vietnam indicated that it would be willing to meet for negotiations if the United States would stop the bombing. The peace-feeler, for what it was worth, caught the White House and State Department flat-footed with all their bombers on the ground. But as soon as the peace overture was judged to be a serious one, orders were sent out to bomb Haiphong and any targets close to the Chinese borders.

What effect this has had on the North Vietnamese has yet to be discerned, but if nothing else, it has served notice on the Communists that if they're going to start talking peace, they're going to have to answer for it.

This is not the first time that the North Vietnamese have launched a vicious peace offensive. But it is by far the most publicized one, and the feeling here is that its strategy was to embarrass the President who has said he will go anywhere, any time to talk peace.

It also put Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the spot, as he has said the United States has been trying to make peace, but it can't do it if the other side doesn't answer the telephone.

If the other side starts answering the telephone, the pressure by the peace hawks in the United States may be so great that the President will have to do something to show that the United States is not just all talk, and we're going to fight for peace if we have to.

Dr. Sanua's research, drawing figures from a wide number of studies, indicate that the extent of interfaith marriages has increased steadily for more than two decades, and is expected to continue rising.

At present, he says, available statistics indicate an estimated "50 per cent of Catholics marry outside their faith. The percentage for Protestants seems to be about as high. For the Jewish group, it is approximately 17 per cent."

This constitutes a dramatic upswing, he commented, although no precise comparative figures are available for past periods. But a quarter century ago, he added, such a marriage could set neighbors talking.

"It was unusual," he said in an interview. But not anymore. He said he doubted if the friendlier interreligious climate has stimulated the trend, adding that the main cause lies in the dissolving of old national-ethnic lines, bringing Americans into generally "homogenized groups."

However, he notes, the proportion of intermarriages rises sharply in areas where one group is a small minority, in the midst of another overwhelmingly predominant group.

For example, the percentage of Catholic marriages to Protestants are much higher in the South, where Protestantism strongly predominates, while the Protestant intermarriage ratio rises steeply in heavily Catholic cities.

Similarly, Jewish intermarriages go up to 45 to 70 per cent in small cities and rural areas, where they are small minorities.

Dr. Sanua's report, entitled "Marriage Counseling: Psychology-Ideology," was edited by Dr. H. L. Silverman, of Seton Hall University, and issued by Charles Thomas publishers, of Springfield, Ill.

While this should usually stop the peace talk, if the Communists still persist, then President Johnson, with the backing of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, has the authority to put the peace-feelers to rest once and for all.

It may also be said that the North Vietnamese have their own contingency plan in case the United States accepted the

In fairness to all concerned, the Wake County Commissioners must make a complete investigation of the matter in which Wake Treasurer E. Lee Murray has paid $6,360.48 to Franklin County for unexplained disbursements made while he held the post of Franklin County accountant.

In a letter to the Franklin County commissioners, Murray wrote: "This difference is disputed and I deny any personal responsibility for it. However, the affairs of this office were my responsibility during the period covered by the audit. You have previously received $561.34 of the difference, leaving a balance of $5,799.14. This is herewith enclosed, upon the condition that these funds will be refunded to me by Franklin if in the future it should be found that no difference existed."

Murray was Franklin County accountant from March, 1957, to December 1, 1966 when he resigned to become Wake County Treasurer at $9,000 a year.

Franklin County officials have turned information in the case over to Solicitor W. G. Ransdell, Jr. In response to a reporter's questions, Ransdell said he couldn't make a statement "one way or the other right now" as to whether he planned to take any action in the matter. Chairman Hal Trentman of the Wake County Commissioners said yesterday that he hasn't discussed Murray's status with the other six Wake commissioners and "would prefer not to comment at this time."

This case must not be left in such a status of limbo. Murray, while protesting his innocence, has made a refund of the amount of money involved, admitting that the responsibility of the office was his. He is now holding a matter of financial trust in Wake County, and in fairness to him as well as to the people of the county, the commissioners should insist that the solicitor dig to the very bottom of the case. The commissioners also should do their own digging.

Such a mark on the record of a high county official must be either completely removed or completely explained.

"The consumer has found his voice and has started to use it," said Betty Furness, the President's special assistant for consumer affairs, in a talk this week.

"This voice is going to sound in other directions now," she said. "Not only has the consumer found his voice, he is also sharpening his memory."

Fortunately for the Administration, there are many safeguards against a sneak peace attack by the Communists.

At any time that a peace-feeler is launched by North Vietnam, the word is immediately passed to the peace room in the bowels of the White House, where it is studied by military experts. If it sounds like a legitimate peace talk offer, and not just a rumor started by the French, orders are sent out to all commanders to go on orange alert, which means to bomb Hanoi and Haiphong.

If the peace offers still continue, despite the bombing, then Dean Rusk is authorized to call a press conference to say the United States is seeking "clarification" of the offer. While seeking clarification, unit commanders in the field are authorized to attack any targets that still are on the "off limits" list.

While this should usually stop the peace talk, if the Communists still persist, then President Johnson, with the backing of the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, has the authority to put the peace-feelers to rest once and for all.

Cross Church Lines

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Interfaith marriages, once a rarity in past periods of ethnic and religious aloofness in America, have become a common pattern. And a new study shows the proportion of them still is rising. Religious analysts see both advantages and disadvantages in the trend.

"All studies show that the intermarried have a high risk of divorce," says Dr. Victor D. Sanua, associate professor of psychology at New York's Yeshiva University, and author of a broad survey of the practice.

However, he adds, this drawback is noticeable chiefly in cases when one party lacks any firm religious commitment, rather than because of a clash between differing religious beliefs.

On the positive side, a recent Catholic-Presbyterian conference concluded that a marriage between a Catholic and Protestant can be a useful contribution toward a fuller grasp of unity in the Christian faith.

"If two people of differing faiths can live together in deep love and understanding, then we have something pointing to the great church of the 'future,'" said a conference spokesman, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry G. J. Beck, of Lyndhurst, N.J.

Children in mixed marriages, he added, should "become familiar with both traditions" of the parents, and while being reared clearly in one of them, should "be given a real reverence" for the other.

Dr. Sanua's research, drawing figures from a wide number of studies, indicate that the extent of interfaith marriages has increased steadily for more than two decades, and is expected to continue rising.

Soviet Moves To Undermine Bowles' Mission

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Chester Bowles ended his visit to Cambodia today as the Soviet Union moved rapidly to oppose any agreement he and Prince Norodom Sihanouk might have reached to restrict the use of Cambodian territory by the Vietnamese Communists.

Bowles, sent to Phnom Penh by President Johnson, told newsmen as he left for New Delhi that he was "very satisfied with the successful talks."

It was believed in Phnom Penh that Sihanouk agreed for the three-nation International Control Commission to keep a closer watch on the border between Cambodia and South Vietnam. But Cambodian sources reported that Soviet Ambassador Sergei Koudriavtsev and M. Mylicki, the head of the Polish delegation to the ICC, had called on Sihanouk to express their opposition to a U.S. offer of two helicopters to assist the commission in border watching.

The two Communist representatives said their governments opposed the offer because the United States did not sign the 1954 Geneva agreements which got the French out of Indochina and set up the control commission.

Sihanouk had said earlier that he was favorable to the American offer but acceptance was up to the commission's three members—India, Canada and Poland—and the two cochairmen of the Geneva conference—Britain and the Soviet Union.

The Soviet ambassador also informed Sihanouk that his government agreed to new military aid for Cambodia, including 50 trucks.

All reports from Phnom Penh told of pleasant and cordial relations between Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, and Bowles during the four-day visit. But at the same time Sihanouk's foreign minister, Prince Norodom Phourissara, was attacking U.S. actions in Vietnam and in effect rejecting American charges that North Vietnamese troops use Cambodia as a highway to South Vietnam and a refuge when pressed too hard by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops.

Cambodian officials reported that Bowles assured the prince that the United States intends to respect the neutrality and territorial integrity of Cambodia and has no intention of launching any attacks against the country. The U.S. Army's chief of staff, Gen. Harold K. Johnson, said in a speech in Chicago Thursday that he opposes sending U.S. troops or planes after Communist forces that flee into Cambodia. But he said he approves of pursuit by fire—shoot- ing at the retreating enemy even if they are over the border.

The Cambodian Foreign minister's anti-American statements were made at the conclusion of talks in Hanoi with North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh. Radio Phnom Penh denied there was any connection between the simultaneous visits of Prince Phourissara to Hanoi and Bowles to Phnom Penh.

Favor School Boards' Fiscal Independence

RALEIGH (AP) — A subcommittee of the Governor's Study Commission on Public Schools will recommend that North Carolina school boards be given fiscal independence "to get them out from under the county commissioners."

Dr. Herbert Wey, assistant dean of the School of Education at the University of Miami, proposed the recommendation Thursday at a joint meeting of members from the commission's committees on finance and organization.

Wey, former director of graduate studies at Appalachian State University, is serving as a consultant to the Governor's Study Commission.

He said local school boards must be given the power to levy their own taxes "if you're going to have a quality education program in this state."

North Carolina is in the minority of states that have not given school boards the authority to levy taxes, Wey said.

Other recommendations resulting from Thursday's subcommittee meeting will favor schools being kept open year-round and at night for fuller utilization both by students and adults.

"The only area where we've done this is the gym, which is sometimes kept open at night for boys to come in and play basketball," said Jerome H. Melton, associate director of the commission. "What's wrong with the science lab the agriculture center and the library being open to the community?" Another recommendation will ask that the state abolish city school administrative units and that county units be set up. Small counties would be encouraged to merge their administrative units with neighboring counties.

Wey told the group no administrative unit could operate efficiently with less than 3,000 students.

Bedroom Clack Has New Status

NEW YORK (UPI)—Of the estimated 25 million clocks purchased in 1966 in the United States, 15 million were bedroom clocks, a watch company's researchers report. And of those 15 million bedroom clocks, 5 million were bought as gifts. Only in the past five years, the researchers assert, have clocks achieved "popular gift status."

Jewelers attributed this new status of the bedroom clock to its popularity as a wedding present, say researchers for Bulova's Caravelle division.

Will TV Kill Pro Sports?

IN THE OLD DAYS

In Aunt Miranda's day there was no question about whether you went to church on Sunday. You didn't stay home because it was raining or snowing, or because you had a slight headache. You went—by horse-drawn wagons or carriages—a much harder trek than it is today.

Maybe because it was harder, people appreciated it more. Maybe in that era of pre-modern conveniences people had a better sense of values. They seemed to know, at any rate, what was really important.

Of course, the church is just as necessary today as it was in Aunt Miranda's day. Certainly the complexities of our present generation make life's problems seem increasingly abundant. Hadn't we better go to church next Sunday—and see for ourselves?

Phantoms Set To Meet New Bern

Rose High School's Phantoms entertain New Bern High School here tonight, and the Phants will be looking for their first victory on their home court this year.

The Phantoms, 2-4 in the conference have won both of their games away, against Havelock and West Carteret. They have also lost on the road to Roanoke Rapids. At home they have dropped decisions to Tarboro, Washington and Kinston.

After playing four straight unbeaten teams, beating one and scoring two, the Phants get a different picture with New Bern. The Bears, in six conference starts have split even, 3-3, and occupy fifth place.

The Phants, with the exception of their conference opener and the game Tuesday against Roanoke Rapids, have never been out of the game they've played in.

Only two Phantoms are averaging in double figures, Ricky Tonn and Billy Taylor. Tonn leads the team with a 12.4 mark, while Taylor is close behind at 11.7. Both hit for 14 points in the last game.

While the Bears have not played to expectations they can still not be counted out as an easy victory for the Phants. After such a rough schedule as they have had in the past four games, a let-down would be easy to come by, and a loss could send the Phants fortunes plunging.

Clemson Falls To Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The standings of the Atlantic Coast Conference have solidified this week and show four teams progressing — two forward and two backwards—and four teams in the middle of it all.

North Carolina—first in the league and No. 3 in the nation—stands at 3-0 in the ACC. Hanging hungrily behind is North Carolina State, with a 3-1 conference mark—the one loss at the hands of the Tar Heels.

Then in rapid succession come Duke, 2-1; South Carolina, 3-2; Virginia, 2-2; and Wake Forest, 2-3.

Bringing up the rear — and from a distance—are Maryland, 1-5, and Clemson, 0-3.

Clemson dug its grave slightly deeper Thursday night with a 95-92 trimming at the hands of Virginia. The Cavaliers calmly sank four foul shots in the final 39 seconds to steal the victory in Clemson's gym.

Six players scored 20 points or more in the free-shooting contest. George Zatezalo of the Tigers and Virginia's Tony Kinn led the parade with 27 points each.

Conference teams take the day off today, with no scheduled games. But the standings are in for another scrambling Saturday.

The action starts Saturday afternoon when third-place Duke travels to College Park to meet the Maryland Terrapins.

Bert Waterman of Ypsilanti, Mich., is in his first season as Yale's wrestling coach.

BUCS HOST GENERALS — East Carolina's Pirates will host Washington & Lee Saturday at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum, and reserve Robert Lindfelt is among those slated to see action. Lindfelt is a 6-5, 205-pound junior from Camp Lejeune, and has seen considerable action this year.

Maravich Pours In 52 To Lead LSU Over Tulane

By ET SCHUYLER JR.,

Associated Press Sports Writer

Ron Draper and Pete Maravich both faced pressure foul situations. Both came through.

Drake's Draper was at the foul line for two free throws with one second left and the Crusaders tied 74-74 with Wichita State Thursday night.

He missed the first one but made the second, and Drake won its 11th game in 13 starts.

It was the other side of the coin for Louisiana State's Maravich, who played most of the second half against Tulane facing disqualification because he had committed four fouls.

But this didn't seem to greatly impair the helter-skelter style of the nation's leading major-college scorer. He poured in 52 points as LSU beat Tulane 100-91 at New Orleans to boost its record to 9-3. Maravich has scored 540 points in those 12 games for a 45.8 average.

Draper got the two chances to score his 14th point of the night at Des Moines, Iowa, when Drake's Al Williams stole the ball with 38 seconds remaining. Willie McCarter led Drake scorers with 18 points. Warren Armstrong got 22 for Wichita, whose leading scorer, Ron Washington, fouled out after scoring just nine points.

The St. Louis at Dayton game also was decided by a foul shot. This one was made by Bob Hooper with 20 seconds left for a 57-56 Dayton victory. Don May, who tied the game at 56-56 with 3:14 left, scored 21 points and tied his own Dayton record of 28 rebounds. Rich Niemann paced St. Louis with 18 points.

None of The Associated Press Top Ten played Thursday night.

And only top-ranked UCLA is scheduled to see action tonight, against California.

In another Thursday night game, Kentucky Wesleyan, the No. 2 small college team, lost its second straight game, 63-62 to Southern Illinois at Owensboro, Ky.

Fouls Spoil Spider Effort

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surprising Richmond's effort to march onward and upward in basketball these days is being foiled by opponents who march repeatedly to the foul line and plunk the ball in the hoop with uncanny accuracy.

Only last Tuesday night, the Spiders outshot Southern Conference rival VMI from the floor but took it on the chin, 91-85, when the Keydets cashed in 37 of 38 free throws.

Coach Louie Mills hoped that was all a mistake, but Thursday night he found out it wasn't.

This time Richmond outshot highly favored Virginia Tech, an independent, from the field—and all to no avail.

Tech wasn't quite so deadly as VMI while whipping the Spiders 80-71, hitting 26 of 33 free throw opportunities. But in the last 48 seconds the Techmen hit eight in a row after Richmond closed within four at 74-70.

The defeat of Richmond, now 6-6 over-all, marked the only action Thursday night for Southern Conference teams. There'll be even less activity tonight, for no teams play while awaiting a four-game Saturday program.

Pirates Play Host To Washington & Lee Five

East Carolina University, barring unforeseen problems, will play host to Washington & Lee University Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. It will be the first home game for the Bucs in two weeks.

They will be coming off a three-game road trip that saw them take two victories, 71-68 in four overtimes at George Washington, and a 71-70 squeaker over William & Mary in Williamsburg. The lone loss was a 59-58 defeat at Furman, when a last-second shot refused to drop.

In all three games, senior forward Vince Colbert was the big man for the Pirates, as his average climbed above the 15-point mark. Colbert, however, sat out most of the second half at William & Mary after collecting his second, third, fourth and fifth fouls in less than 2:30 after leading the Bucs to a 14-point lead.

The series also saw the marked improvement in the play of reserve Richard Kier, who played a key role in both victories.

The Bucs would like to wrap up another victory Saturday night, which would bring their "second season" record to 4-1, since the end of the Christmas holidays.

Washington & Lee should provide good competition for the Pirates. The Generals have a good record and will field a big team, ranging from 6-1 to 6-7 in the starting lineup.

Quarterbacking the team is John Carrere, a 6-1 junior guard. He's joined in the backcourt by the only senior in the starting lineup, 6-2 Jody Kline.

The three big men alternate in the post position. They are all sophomores, 6-6 Mel Cartwright, 6-7 Mike Neer, and 6-6 Mal Wesselink.

Neer appears to be the top rebounder on the club, while Wesselink is probably their best shooter.

The Pirates are still led in scoring by junior Earl Thompson, but he is beginning to be pressed by senior center Charlie Alford and Colbert. Guard Tom Miller and forward Jim Modlin round out the Buc starting five, all averaging in double figures.

There will be no freshman game this weekend.

Following Saturday's date with the Generals, the Pirates swing back on the road for another three-game series. Monday, they face the Bulldogs of The Citadel, and next Saturday they travel to Raleigh to meet tough N.C. State.

The following Monday, January 2, the Bucs meet East Tennessee then return home on Wednesday, January 24, to meet George Washington.

High School Night

High School Night will be observed Saturday night as East Carolina University entertains Washington & Lee at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

All high school students will be admitted for the special price of 50 cents. Regular tickets remain $2.50.

Virginia Tech Now In Tourney

Virginia Tech has become the sixth team to enter the East Carolina University holiday basketball tournament scheduled for next December.

The VPI team joins Baylor of the Southwest Conference, Cornell of the Ivy League, Delaware of the Mid-Atlantic Conference, Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference, and William & Mary of the Southern Conference.

"The addition of Virginia Tech to our field adds to the growing prestige of the tournament," Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of East Carolina said.

With the addition of one other outstanding team to complete the field, I think our first tournament will rank with any in the country. We have a wide range of geographical representation and every team entered expects to have an outstanding team next year."

Coach Tom Quinn, who has acted as chairman of the selection committee, said there are several outstanding teams involved in consideration for the final spot in the tournament. "I feel we have been extremely fortunate in lining up the competition we have for the tournament because many of the tournaments have their fields line up two and three years in advance.

"I'm very happy to get VPI. They expect to have one of their better teams in 1968-69."

Dr. Jenkins said the four-man committee which is judging the contest to name the tournament is now in its second phase in reducing the number of contest entries.

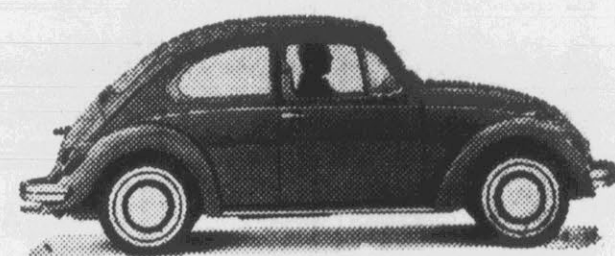

"The list is now down to 20 proposed names, and we hope to have a consensus on the name for the tournament within a few days," Dr. Jenkins said. The winner of the contest will get a $100 check from East Carolina's president.

Volkswagen introduces the automatic stick shift.

After 10 these many years our humble little bug has gone automatic. Gone is the clutch. Gone is the wifely whine, "It's cute, but I can't drive it." Gone is an era of Volkswagendom. Sniff! And in its place? A Volkswagen you can drive all over town without shifting. Only on the highway do you shift. Once. (This is an economy move. Which, after all, is still the name of the game.) But you do have a choice in the matter: you can drive it the easy way (described above). Or you can start out in low and take it through the gears like a regular stick shift. The automatic stick shift is an option: you pay a little more. But you do a little less.

Billie Jean King Top Girl Athlete

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Billie Jean King, the bouncy, outspoken housewife who reestablished America's supremacy in women's tennis, beat out golf queen Kathy Whitworth and figure skating champion Peggy Fleming in being named the Female Athlete of the Year for 1967 to day.

In a vote of 372 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press poll, Mrs. King, from Long Beach, Calif., drew 196 first-place votes and 854 points.

Miss Whitworth, the leading female athlete in 1965 and 1966, had 70 first-place votes and 523 points while the 18-year-old Miss Fleming was third with 43 votes for No. 1 and 392 points. The points were awarded on a basis of three for a first-place vote, two for second and one for third.

Canada's Nancy Greene, the sensation of the skiing season, placed fourth followed by 15-year-old Debbie Meyer, the world's outstanding freestyle swimmer.

Mrs. King, using a new-fangled steel racket, won the Wimbledon and U.S. championships, and clearly gained the No. 1 spot in the world rankings. In both tournaments, she won the singles title by defeating Ann Haydon Jones of Britain in the finals, 6-8, 6-4 at Wimbledon and 11-9, 6-4 at Forest Hills.

Kauffman New KC Baseball Club Owner

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Ewing Kauffman, Kansas City's new baseball owner, already has a timetable for his club—a board of directors within a week, an executive vice president not long after, a first division club in five years and an American League pennant in eight years.

It's the sort of ambitious plan you would expect from the man who last year received the Horatio Alger Award. He started his $130 million drug firm in the basement of his home 18 years ago. The league's owners put the city's 1969 expansion franchise in his hands here Thursday.

Kauffman said he has talked to "three or four top men who want to be executive vice president of the club."

Time Worries Oakland Coach

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Now that John Rauch has the weatherman on his side, he's become a clockwatcher.

The Oakland coach is concerned that his Raiders might not have enough time to properly prepare for Sunday's Super Bowl date with the Green Bay Packers.

The Raiders worked for 90 minutes in bright sunshine Thursday, a distinct change from the driving rainstorm they practice in the day before.

"This is more like the kind of weather I expected," said Rauch, enjoying the shirtsleeve climate.

"Our problem now is having enough time to get all our work completed. Preparing for a team like the Packers isn't the easiest thing in the world to do," Rauch continued. "The rain didn't help."

Oakland ran through a spirited, tough practice Wednesday but it was necessarily limited by the storm. "We got the most out of it we could in view of the conditions," said Rauch.

Thursday's sunshine was a welcome change and the Raiders ran through their final full drill in pads.

"We'll taper off from now on," said Rauch.

Meanwhile, at Fort Lauderdale, the Packers drilled for an hour in their best workout yet.

"The sluggishness was gone," said Coach Vince Lombardi. "It was a real fine workout. We'll go for an hour again Friday and then maybe 10 or 15 minutes on Saturday."

Lombardi activated Dick Capp, a rookie linebacker and tight end, for Sunday's game. Capp, who played in two of Green Bay's 14 regular season games, thus qualifies for a cut of the Super Bowl payoff. He'll get just over $2,000 if the Packers win and a little more than $1,000 if they lose.

A full winning share, of course, is worth $15,000 per man with losers collecting $7,500 each. At those prices, neither coach sees any problem in getting his team up for the game.

"I'm no psychiatrist," laughed Rauch. "You can't help being impressed with Green Bay. You know you're playing the best. I've never believed in being awed by a team. I've always felt that you have a chance to win any game you play."

"We're loose and we'll go into the game that way," the Oakland coach concluded.

The Raiders might be expected to get up for the game but what about the Packers, who've won so often and for so long?

Lombardi just smiled.

"If a man makes a million dollars," the Packer boss said, "he wants to make two million. We'll be up."

Hyde Looking For Wins In This Year's Races

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Harry Hyde came South two years ago with a three-year project tacked to his tool kit: Win big in the world's richest circuit for stock car racing.

If the time table is on schedule, and it very well could be, Hyde should see his cars in victory circle for the first time this year. If he does, it would be a success story to match any in recent motor racing history.

"We've been a shoestring independent for two years now," says Hyde, a 42-year-old, 5-foot-6 Louisville, Ky., mechanic who wears steel-rimmed glasses and a brush haircut. "Now we're going to get some factory help and a chance to put our operation into high gear."

Hyde's owner, insurance executive Nord W. Krauskopf of Indianapolis, recently signed a 1968 contract with Dodge. Hyde will be head mechanic and crew chief and veteran Bobby Isaac will be the regular driver.

The team expects to compete in all of the big money events, plus others that will be selected on a race-by-race basis. Two Ray Nichols-engineered cars will be available. There are no plans yet to go for the NASCAR driving and manufacturer's titles.

Hyde spent 21 years as a mechanic-car builder on northern racing circuits before crossing the Mason and Dixon line. His cars won the UMS, open modified championship in 1959 and 1962 and before that two 500-lap ARCA titles at Louisville and Huntington, W. Va., in the late 1950s. He also won several independent track titles.

He hooked up with Krauskopf, an ex-racer, at the start of the 1966 season. Krauskopf had some sage advice.

"Nord warned me that breaking into NASCAR competition was a three-year project," Hyde said. "The first year for mistakes, the second year for corrections, and the third for winning. Son 1968 should be our year."

Hyde's cars entered nine GN races in 1966 and finished only one. "We spent most of our time getting used to the longer, faster tracks," Hyde recalls.

The 1967 season was the "year of corrections." Running two cars, one of them a battered 1965 model, and with Isaac and Charlie Grotzback as the drivers, the team consistently finished in the top 10 in the big events, including second and fourth in the $100,000-plus National 500 at Charlotte.

"Top ten and top five finishes are nice," says Hyde. "They help pay the bills and they show you've got consistency. But winning is all that really counts."

In Isaac, together with Sam McQuagg, who'll drive the No. 2 car in some of the richer events, Hyde and Krauskopf have two of the most experienced drivers in NASCAR. Isaac had operated just outside the circle of greatness for several

Buc Runners In Two Meets

Coach Bill Carson is carrying a select contingent of indoor track men to the National Indoor meet in Washington Friday and then goes on to compete in the Chesterfield Invitational at Richmond.

A mile and two-mile relay team will compete at Washington against such teams as Duke, Mt. St. Mary's, West Virginia, and West Chester.

Ken Voss is also scheduled to enter the mile.

The Pirate trackmen will be in select company, including Bob Seagrin, the world record holder in the pole vault; Earl McCullough, record holder in the high hurdles; Gred Wallace, joining holder of the world record in the 60 yard dash; and O. J. Simpson, All-American footballer from California who will compete in the sprints.

A large number of the entries in the Washington meet are Olympic hopefuls.

In the Chesterfield Invitational, Dennis Moody will compete in the shot, Jim Cargill in the 50 yard high hurdles, Bill Frisbey, and Wayne Murschell in the 50-yard dash, Peter Moe in the high jump, Ken Voss in the mile, Randy Martin in the 2 mile, and Don Jayroe in the half mile. A two-mile relay team composed of Voss, Charles Hudson, David Beavers, and Don Jayroe will also compete.

"We're taking 11 boys to the meet, and this is the largest number ever invited from East Carolina," Coach Carson said. "It's most encouraging to have this many of our boys recognized for such a select meet."

Super Bowl Belongs To GB

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — With all due respect to young Daryle Lamonia and his 30 touchdown passes that led Oakland to its first American Football League title, Sunday's Super Bowl game belongs to Bart Starr and the proven old pros from Green Bay.

In the last go round of a long, long season, the old hand-pickers have to go the Packers to make it two in a row for the National Football League over the AFL champs. Let's take a shot at the score:

Green Bay 31, Oakland 16.

If it's close, 40-year-old George Blanda and his ability to kick the long field goal could mean an upset victory for the two-touchdown underdogs from Oakland. But that would mean that Oakland must be able to clamp down on Starr and his wide receivers—Boyd Dowler and Carroll Dale—while cracking the stubborn Packer defense.

Oakland does not appear to have the man-for-man talent of the Kansas City Chiefs, who fell before the Packers last year 35-10. Still, the Raiders must have a better over-all team because they marched through the AFL with a 13-1 record and beat Kansas City twice, 23-21 and 44-22.

Johnny Rauch's Raiders led the league in total defense and rushing defense and were first in scoring with 468 points. Their offense was third in average yardage, both running and passing.

Green Bay was ninth in the NFL in total offense, second in running and 11th in passing. It was first in total defense, 13th (an amazing figure) in running defense and first in pass defense.

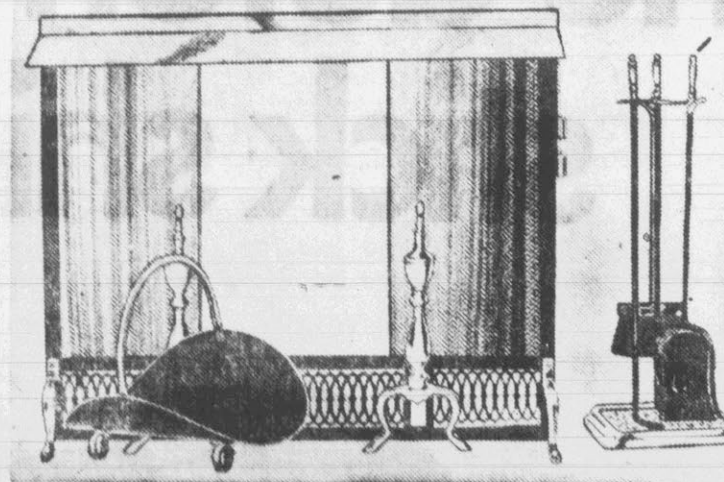

Although the Packers allowed an average of 137 yards per game on running during the regular season, they gave up but 11 touchdowns on the ground and 13 in the air for a total of 24. The Raiders, who scored 58 touchdowns to 39 for Green Bay, yielded 29 in all, 11 on runs and 18 on passes.

But all of this presupposes that the competition is equal, and the figures do not back that up. The Packers did win the first Super Bowl and the NFL did take 13 of 16 pre-season exhibitions.

Starr, a 33-year-old veteran of 12 pro seasons, has been here before. He proved his cool once again on that frigid New Year's Eve in Green Bay when he sneaked home from the one for the winner with 13 seconds to go. Although he was below par in early season and was intercepted nine times in the first two games, he closed strong.

Starr is a past master at probing a defense and finding the holes. If the deep defense shuts off Dowler and Dale, he will go to Donny Anderson and Chuck Mercein.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Supermarket shoppers will need carts with computers to keep up with the phenomenal increase in products offered for sale. There are now more than 100,000 different items to choose from on supermarket shelves throughout the United States, according to statistics reported by speedata Inc. Since 1945, the number of different items in the average store has more than doubled from about 3,000 to 7,500.

strictor. Among the puzzles to be unraveled are:

1. What is the source of a huge circular stream of radiation particles that travels around the globe 10,000 to 20,000 miles above the equator within the outer Van Allen belt? Called an "extraterrestrial ring current," the stream acts like a huge loop of electrically charged wire and is believed to be a major cause of magnetic storms, communications blackouts and the northern lights.

2. How do portions and electrons flowing from storms on the sun enter the Van Allen belts?

3. What is the connection between "whistlers"—lightning-created radio waves that send a shrill sound through space—and the movement of particles within the belts?

Some answers may be learned next spring when the Injun 5 satellite is launched into orbit. It currently is being built by Van Allen and his associates at the State University of Iowa's Physics Research Center here.

Injun 5's instruments will be more sophisticated than any of the more than 20 satellite devices that Van Allen's team has sent into space.

They will, Van Allen said, "be a considerable improvement over the simple Geiger counter we had in Explorer 1."

It was 10 years ago, on Jan. 31, 1958, that Explorer 1 soared into orbit as America's first satellite. Van Allen's Geiger counter discovered that the earth is surrounded by a band of intense radiation, trapped by the earth's magnetic field.

Before then, scientists generally believed that the earth's atmosphere merely merged with interplanetary space at an altitude of about 600 miles.

To learn as much as possible about this mysterious find, Van Allen's Iowa group, working with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has rocketed instruments into space at every opportunity.

Van Allen concluded that it is really dozens of smaller bands all within one big radiation region extending from about 300 to 50,000 miles above the earth. There are two major zones: the relatively stable inner belt and the outer belt which is extremely time-varying and dependent upon the solar wind—a great cloud of radiation flowing through space," Van Allen said. "They're a vastly complex physical system. We thought at first that magnetic fields were the dominant force. But now we feel the generation of electric fields is important in the generation of electrons and protons in the belts."

When the belts first were discovered, it was felt they would pose a serious danger to astronaut flights. But Van Allen's investigations have shown that spacemen can travel safely through them as long as they don't linger in the heavy concentration of radiation in the lower section some 400 miles above the earth.

Van Allen today leaves the design and assembly of satellite instruments mainly to his associates at Iowa, with physics students helping. Sensors aboard Injun 5 are the responsibility of three young Iowa professors who learned under Van Allen—Drs. Donald Gurnett, Louis A. Frank and S. M. Krimigis.

Gurnett said that it is difficult to detect low energy particles which constitute 90 per cent of the radiation in the belts. Until recently, he said instruments were unable to locate them. But gradually, Iowa sensors have counted lower energy particles and Injun 5 should be able to record most of them.

He said the satellite should provide the clearest picture yet of the processes at work within the belts and also help determine whether the whistling radio waves accelerate particles.

The whistling waves are created by flashes of lightning near the earth. They travel upward into the belts and emit shrill tones as they race at various frequencies along the magnetic lines of force.

North Carolina Law requires owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space to three or more house trailers or mobile homes, to file with the Tax Supervisor a full and complete list of all owners, together with the total number of house trailers or mobile homes owned by each on January 1. This list must be submitted each year during the month of January.

Owners or operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of the tax and a penalty of $250.00.

ALL PERSONS MUST HAVE THEIR SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS AT TIME OF LISTING.

The Worry Clinic Jointly Striving For Marriage 'Insurance'

Jim Tuverson shows how television now joins with journalism to help solve the sexual problems that threaten to undermine happy homes. Scientific "question and answer" programs offer far better insurance for happy marriage than promiscuity binges, nurtured by the "pill."

By GOERGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE E-559: Jim Tuverson is the talented director of the famous "Contact" show on WBZ-TV at Boston.

Recently he telephoned, asking that I come to Boston to participate in a Sunday night one-hour TV discussion of sex problems.

In these very popular "Contact" formats, the listeners can phone their questions as the show is progressing and have them answered on the air.

This frank discussion of sexual matters was really pioneered in this column, starting in 1935. Through the years I have warned against promiscuity and unwed pregnancy, arguing that schools should properly instruct youth in sexual matters.

But I was called a "radical" and older publishers even cancelled this column merely because I had used such generalities as "erotic calories."

One publisher in Wisconsin called me an "immoral influence" just because I said, "Most divorces start in the bedroom."

Although I didn't elaborate on that point at all, he felt that I was too frank to have my column appearing in his "family" newspaper!

Yet a recent Lutaner advertisement that ran coast to coast started out with this challenging sentence:

"Half of all teen-age brides are pregnant at the altar!"

Which means that 50 percent of the teen-age weddings are probably of the "shotgun" variety.

That explains in part another shocking modern fact, namely, that half (50 percent) of all teen-age marriages end in divorce before the 5th wedding anniversary!

Colleges have suddenly gone berserk over sexual freedom and thus are officially permitting coeds to be entertained in the bedrooms of male students!

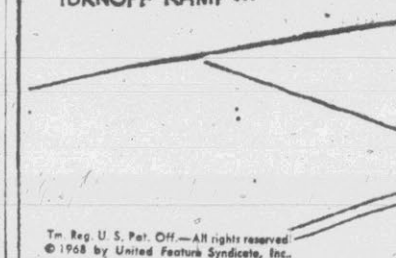

And some psychiatrists have had the temerity to advocate publicly promiscuous sexual relations even among high schoolers.

They argue that such sexual freedom will prepare young people for happier marriage later on.

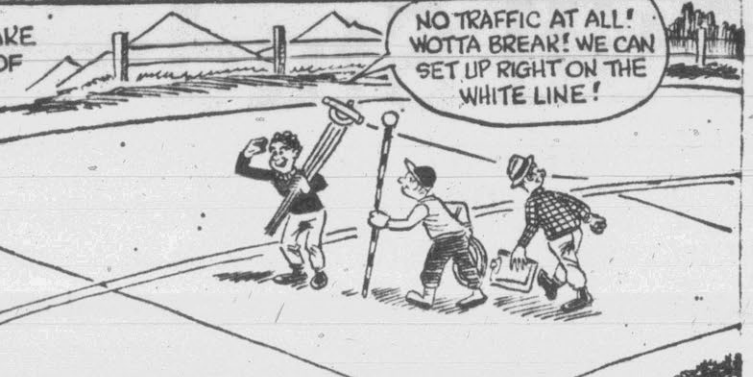

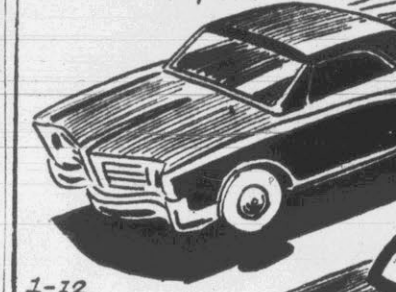

Malarky! That is untrue! This modern version of the old idea about "sowing wild oats," leads to the same disastrous results, namely, zooming venereal disease, plus unwed motherhood, and the dissipation of the idealism that should attach to

Japanese Take To Sandwiches

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rice is nice but you can't beat wheat. That's the food news from Japan where, 10 years ago, sandwiches were almost unknown. According to Bunge Corporation, exporter of farm commodities, 55 per cent of Japan's wheat supply now comes from the United States. The burgeoning bread boom has made ham on white as Japanese as sukiyaki.

Sale Of Vodka In U.S. Booming

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vodka, from a humble beginning of a total of 430,000 cases sold in the United States in 1951, has boomed to an annual sales level of 12 million cases, according to a trade source.

From 1955 to 1966, vodka showed a sales increase of 397 per cent, while all other

Violent Peaceniks Curse, Fight While Rusk Talks

By BERNARD HURWITZ
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With violence erupting between antiwar pickets and police outside, Secretary of State Dean Rusk spoke of an elusive peace in a foreign policy speech Thursday night.

Cursing, bottle-throwing brick-hurling pickets were massed across the street more than an hour before Rusk's appearance before 1,500 members of the Commonwealth Club and World Affairs Council.

Rusk was whisked inside without seeing the 500 or so demonstrators who were swept away by a wedge of police officers holding night sticks in front of them. Fifty were arrested, many carried or dragged to patrol wagons. Police used an eye-smarting, gagging spray chemical to disperse the disorderly group, which continued to reform in smaller units for several hours.

Some officers were hit by missiles from the crowd and one woman was struck on the head by a brick. Cars and the hotel were splattered with bags of red paint.

Helmeted police were bantering with each other until several bottles shattered against the hotel entrance and some cars, including a police cruiser, then came the order to clear the area.

Patrol wagons moved in, police reinforcements fell into line and the demonstrators were sent reeling down the block, some running down a steep hill, others seeking refuge in nearby Grace Cathedral.

Rusk delivered an informal speech on U.S. policy as the demonstrators shrieked and milled about outside.

His speech centered on Vietnam and the Middle East, but also touched on the balance of payments problem, the Presdent's tax program, free speech and 1967 accomplishments.

"It's too late in history to pursue a policy based on total hostility across the board," Rusk declared. He said, "There will be no lessons drawn from World War III. There will not be enough left, Carelessness can be fatal."

"Building of the peace must be our principal preoccupation," he continued, "and it is the overriding test for everything we do in our relations with other nations."

Just over $1,100 property damage was reported by Greenville police in four traffic mishaps they investigated yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 4:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Elm and Fifth Streets which involved cars driven by William Townes Boyd, 23, of Springfield, Va., and John William Piver Jr., 44, of 1115 South Overlook Dr.

Officers set damage to the Piver car at $150 while damage to the Townes auto was placed at $450. No charges were made.

Both drivers involved in a 2:25 collision on 10th Street, 500 feet East of College Hill Drive were charged with failing to see their intended movement could be made in safety.

Officers identified the operators as Lester Moore, 55, of Route 4, Greenville and Martha Dawn Klein, 21, of Kenley. Damage to the Moore car was set at $100 while damage to the Klein auto was placed at $50.

James Douglas Glass, 21, of Greensboro was charged with following too closely in an 11 p.m. collision at the 10th and Elm Streets intersection.

Police said the Glass car collided with a vehicle operated by Don Granville Waddell, 20, of Route 1, Newport, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Waddell car and about $150 damage to the Glass vehicle.

No charges were placed in a 1:55 p.m. collision, police reported, that involved cars driven by William Elijah Hudson, 44, of 1709 Knowlwood Dr. and Alex Bryan Hill, 67 of West End Trailer Park, and a parked car owned by Harold Whitford Wetherington, of New Bern.

Damage to the Wetherington car was set at $110 while no damage estimates were given for the other two vehicles.

No charges were placed.

Advices Cut-Off Of State Funds

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina auditor Henry Bridges says irregularities occurred in student aid programs at Elizabeth City State College during the past fiscal year and he recommends state matching funds be cut off.

Bridges said state aid should be stopped until "corrective action" is taken to eliminate the irregularities uncovered in a recent audit.

The report came one day after Dr. Walter N. Ridley announced he is resigning as president of the predominantly Negro college. He has held the post since 1958.

An earlier audit of the school's accounts resulted in the dismissal of the business manager, K. R. Jeffries, in 1966. That report said Ridley was responsible for the irregularities.

The student aid programs questioned by Bridges Thursday include the National Defense Education Act loan fund, the Economic Opportunity grants, and the college work-study program. Bridges said support for the programs comes largely from federal funds, but some state money is involved.

He said "serious deficiencies" occurred in the work-study program which allows needy students to earn money by holding jobs on campus while going to school. The irregularities included reports of forged time cards, Bridges said.

Federal auditors have directed the school to repay more than $1,600 for various violations, including payments for excessive hours, unauthorized work and payments to ineligible students, Bridges said.

The Economic Opportunity grants fund showed a $6,250.55 deficiency and $375 in payments to three persons enrolled in the school, Bridges said. His report also showed that the college bookstore lost $2,400 last year.

Beat Assailant With A Poker

GARDNER, Colo. (AP) — A man pulled a knife and told Mrs. Leda Dietz and her ranch foreman: "I am going to kill you two."

Mrs. Dietz and the foreman, Bill Niehl, 67, wound up in the hospital for treatment of cuts.

The assailant wound up running from the ranch house after the 81-year-old Mrs. Dietz pounded him on the head with a steel poker.

Police, who said they could find no reason for the attack, held Julian Cerda, 54, gardner, on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.
