

Area Sprayed By High Octane Fuel Freighter, Gasoline Barges Collide; All Safe As Fuel Explodes Into Fiery Inferno

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The freighter Christiana smashed into a string of gasoline-laden barges in the Houston Ship Channel today turning the water into a blazing inferno as the volatile fuel exploded in sheets of flame.

Two American tourists, the captain's wife and 3-year-old daughter, and 27 officers and crewmen scrambled into the ship's lifeboats and fled through the fiery waters. State police said they had no reports of serious injuries.

The collision occurred about 12:30 a.m. just south of a highway tunnel between the suburbs of Baytown and La Porte, which is 30 miles southeast of Houston. The Christiana, a 372-foot craft of Liberian registry owned by Christiana Shipping Co. of Bermuda, was outbound toward Port Arthur, Tex., when it struck the barges being pushed by the tugboat Barbara Waxler.

One barge was empty but the other two bore 30,000 barrels of high octane gasoline which exploded, spraying fire across the chilly waters of Upper Galveston Bay.

Help was close by because rescue units along the heavily industrialized waterway were still dealing with an explosion and fire that broke out two hours earlier and 12 miles upstream at a Shell Chemical Co. plant. Four men were hurt, one critically, in that unrelated mishap.

Well after dawn another fire broke out on one of the gasoline barges. Traffic controllers on the ship channel would not hazard a guess as to when traffic would resume.

Tourists aboard the freighter were Mr. and Mrs. Heber M. Gingedich of York, Pa. They went aboard the Christiana with their car a week ago in Honduras. They planned to debark at New Orleans and drive home.

"I had just gone to my bunk," said Mrs. Gingedich, 62, who was watching the twinkling lights of refineries glide past her cabin window. "They looked just like cities."

While she watched, W.L. Nix, a guard at the channel tunnel, heard the Christiana and the tug hooting at one another. Then they hit.

"I looked out just as everything went up in flames," Nix said.

Five minutes later the first explosion rattled Baytown windows, and in 10 minutes another echoed.

Gingerich, 67, a retired bricklayer, said, "I woke up of my own accord. I just got awake and saw a ball of flame out on the water."

He and his wife joined the ship's all-Greek crew of 28 on deck and entered a lifeboat.

The master of the vessel, Capt. Pete Panagiotou, 41, stayed aboard with the channel pilot sending his wife and daughter Nicole in a lifeboat to safety on a cold and barren jetty.

Fire Alarms Damaged

Greenville residents should not depend on the city's fire alarm system but instead should report all fires by telephone until further notice.

Chief J. L. Jones said today that the fire alarm system suffered damage during last week's ice storm and, although repairs are being made as quickly as possible, it should not be considered reliable for reporting fires.

He said fires should be reported by telephoning 752-3116, the departments emergency telephone number, until further notice.

The city fire alarm system includes 35½ miles of wire connecting 117 alarm boxes with the central fire station. Chief Jones said that much of the wire was knocked down as a result of the storm.

New PO For Bath Will Fit Early Style

With a little nudge from history determining its design, the oldest incorporated town in North Carolina — Bath — is getting a new post office.

Atlanta Regional Director C. Banks Gladden announced today that the new $17,000 facility has been designed very closely in architectural style with Bath's famous restored Palmer-Marsh House which was built about 1744.

Final plans for construction of the building have been completed, Mr. Gladden said, with Mrs. Louise W. Keech, of Route 1, Pinetown, North Carolina, agreeing to build and lease it to the Post Office Department. The new facility will almost double present quarters and should be completed or ready for occupancy by July 1.

Design of Bath's new post office involved months of careful planning and coordination between postal officials and two North Carolina groups interested in promoting and preserving the state's historical sites.

Hunt Woman For Robbing Branch Bank

SHARPSBURG, N.C. (AP) — Police looking for a woman who robbed a branch bank in Sharpsburg Monday of $14,050 concentrated their search today on a wooded area joining the town.

FBI agents found a leather jacket in the area Monday night and two tellers in the bank identified it as the one the woman wore.

Agents said the woman probably is a resident of the Sharpsburg area.

Dressed like a man in checked cap, leather jacket and long pants, she entered five minutes before the 1 p.m. closing time for lunch. She pointed a pistol at two women employees and escaped with the cash after leaving them bound and gagged.

The bank, the Sharpsburg Branch of the People's Bank Trust Co., faces on U.S. 301, five miles south of Rocky Mount. The previous bank robbery this year was in Raleigh.

In Quakes' Wake

Sicily's Death Toll From Earthquake Still Climbs

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — The casualty toll in Sicily's catastrophic earthquake moves steadily up today as new tremors spread more panic through the devastated western tip of the Mediterranean's largest island.

The unofficial toll rose to more than 300 dead, nearly 1,500 persons missing and more than 1,500 injured. Officials said with that many missing, the final death toll might be 500 to 1,000.

As new waves of undulating shocks toppled ruined walls in shattered communities, a growing army of rescue workers fought against the clock in a desperate search for buried survivors still alive under the ruins.

Gigantic bonfires lit up the snowy fields and vineyards where thousands of refugees spent the night in the open. Families salvaged chairs and tables from the rubble of their villages, eating bread and milk brought by rescue workers and reliving the catastrophe before dawn Monday.

Tens of thousands of survivors of the island's worst earthquake in 60 years spent the freezing night out of doors, wrapped in all the clothes they could find and in blankets rushed in by rescue teams. Several more tremors rolled through the area during the night, convincing the survivors of the desirability of remaining outside.

Even in the two largest cities of western Sicily, Palermo and Trapani, where there was no serious damage, hundreds bedded down in cars and tents.

The havoc Monday evoked memories of the terrible earthquake of 1908 that crumpled the city of Messina and took 75,000 lives.

The greatest blow Monday was the collapse of an emergency hospital at Montevago. About 200 persons were believed killed in the wreckage. Another 100 persons were reported missing at Montevago.

Gibellina, with 7,000 inhabitants, was totally destroyed and so was the smaller town of Salaparuta. The major part of eight other towns was badly damaged.

The stricken area was a triangle whose corners are the towns of Salemi, Poggioreale and Santa Margherita di Belice. It is considered a Mafia stronghold.

To Visit Japan Despite Rioting

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise may be delayed a day or two, but she will definitely visit Japan this week, informed sources said today.

With leftist students gathering at Sasebo by the hundreds to demonstrate against the Enterprise's visit, a Japanese government spokesman said earlier there was a chance the 75,000-ton ship might postpone her visit. Other sources said later in the day the ship, originally expected Thursday, may be delayed until Friday or Saturday but definitely will come.

Evangelist Founder Of Bob Jones Univ. Dies

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Dr. Bob Jones Sr., internationally known evangelist and founder of Bob Jones University at Greenville, died Tuesday morning after several years of declining health.

The 84-year-old minister was one of the last "old-time" evangelists.

Jones considered his greatest contribution to the cause of Christianity the founding of the school which bears his name.

It is in its 41st year as one of the largest fundamental Christian schools in the world with an enrollment of almost 4,000.

Jones has been vocal in the fundamental-vs.-liberal issues in the Christian ranks, and opposed what he considered compromise in present-day evangelism in which evangelists work under the sponsorship of liberal ministers.

Born Oct. 30, 1883, in Dale County, Ala., Jones' home was a small farm at Brannon Stand, near Dothan, Ala. He was the 11th of 12 children born to William Alexander and Georgia Creel.

The educator-evangelist has preached for more than 70 years, having begun to hold revival meetings at the age of 13. He was formally licensed to preach in the Methodist Church before he was 15.

He was the only living person selected for "the Christian Hall of Fame," which opened in Canton, Ohio, in 1966.

He is survived by his wife, Mady Gaston Stollenwerk Jones; his son, three grandchildren, Dr. Bob Jones III, BJU vice president; Jon, captain in the U.S. Army stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Mrs. Gerald Jordan (Joy) of Columbus, Ind. and two great grandchildren, Bob Jones IV and Roxane Jones.

Believe Laotian Force Fleeing Red Advance

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Two thousand Laotian government troops are believed to have fled before advancing Communist forces in the strategic Nam Bac valley in northern Laos, government sources said today.

No report has been received from the three government battalions since Sunday, when the government ordered the village of Nam Bac and its airstrip abandoned.

Some of the government troops have straggled into the Royal Laotian capital, Luang Prabang, which was mortared by the Communists Sunday night. It is 50 miles south of Nam Bac.

A general and two colonels were sent north to assess the situation.

Nam Bac, which government forces captured from the Pathet Lao in July 1966, had been under heavy artillery attack for several weeks.

Meanwhile, the government gave a further report on a Communist air attack last Friday. It had reported earlier that two Communist planes were shot down.

A government communique said four North Vietnamese AN2 Colt biplanes bombed and strafed a village of the Meo tribe at Muong Yut, killing four civilians and wounding many others. It said machine gun and rifle fire brought down two of the planes well within Laotian territory.

One plane was destroyed and the other contained three bodies, two in North Vietnamese uniform and one mutilated beyond recognition, the communique said. A map found in the plane was in Vietnamese, it added.

More Progress Being Made On Storm Repairs

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Workers are continuing to make progress toward restoring electric and telephone service to area residents although it is a "time consuming task," according to Greenville Utilities Commission director Leonard Bloxam.

This morning, Bloxam said there were 43 trucks, including line, bucket and regular service trucks, working in the county with more than 160 men, trying to get downed lines and poles replaced and service restored to the commission's customers.

Bloxam said two more contract crews came in late last night—one from Georgia and one from Tennessee.

Five crews from a Goldsboro contract firm—including 13 trucks and 60 men — are working here as well as four trucks and 15 men from Charlotte, and two trucks and eight men from a Richmond, Va., contractor.

Noting that almost everyone has power now where downed poles are not involved, Bloxam said, "Having to set poles now . . . is taking twice as long to get power restored."

Current was restored yesterday to all county schools, and to all dairies except two in the Kinston area where eight trucks and 30 men were working this morning, according to the utilities director.

Included in major problem areas now, Bloxam outlined, is a section along the Tar Road, the St. John's areas from Stokes to St. Johns, and the Worthington's Cross Roads area, as well as the Big Oak section and an area to the "right and left of Ballards Cross Roads." In one section to the left of Ballards, Bloxam reported there was nothing left standing—only two or three poles.

The Renston area, from Frog Level back to the Ayden Highway is also included, he noted, in the problem area.

Flu, Pneumonia Deaths Exceed Expectations

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The number of deaths from influenza and pneumonia is exceeding expectations, the National Communicable Disease center reports.

Nationwide deaths due to the respiratory diseases came to 797 for the week ending Jan. 6, 1968, the federal agency said Monday. This represents 216 more deaths than predicted.

The rising death toll comes chiefly from the Middle Atlantic region, but sharp increases also were noted in the South Atlantic, West North Central, New England and West South Central areas.

The CDC's weekly morbidity and mortality report said the Middle Atlantic region as a whole has experienced two consecutive weeks of excess mortality.

Stockholders Of State Bank Told Past Year 'Gratifying'

The year 1967 was a gratifying one, J. T. Marston Jr., president, reported to the stockholders at their annual meeting held today.

Earnings on 22,250 shares of capital stock showed an increase of better than nine percent, from $3.75 to $4.10 per share, said Marston, despite increased payments of salaries and interest. Profits of $91,000.00 after taxes resulted in an 11 percent return on invested capital at the beginning of the year. Book value of stock at year-end was $40.76 per share. Deposits totalled $17,221,000.00 compared with $15,861,000.00 at December 31, 1966; considered by Marston as satisfactory in view of the chaotic conditions prevailing during the tobacco marketing season and generally in this predominately agricultural economy.

Pitt County, said Marston, was the bank's contribution to the local economy through the payment of over $800,000.00 in salaries, interest paid depositors, and for services and supplies.

Marston expressed cautious optimism for the national economy in 1968, but pointed out the precarious situation faced by farmers in producing salable varieties and types of tobacco in a changing demand environment, decrease in corn and bean prices, and the spiraling cost of production. "Our farmers," said Marston, "are caught between a production cost squeeze and inflated cost of living increases. Unless something is done, they face more serious trouble in 1968."

Stockholders re-elected the following directors: M. W. Aldridge, A. R. Barrett, W. S. Bost, Charles W. Howard Jr., John T. Marston Jr., John F. Minges, K. B. Pace, Brantley Speight, B. B. Sugg Jr., A. J. White Jr.

Tom R. Andrews, M. K. Blount, L. Hodges Jr., J. B. Kittrell Jr., Reynolds May, Ray D. Minges, W. M. Scales, Jr., B. B. Sugg Sr., Ercell Webb, W. W. Wooten.

Following the stockholders meeting, the directors elected the following officers: J. T. Marston Jr., president; M. K. Blount, vice president; J. Curtis Hendrix, vice president; V. M. Forrest, cashier; W. A. Ross Jr., assistant vice president; J. Warren Whitehurst, assistant vice president; Eleanor S. Boyd, assistant cashier; Margaret E. Purvis, assistant cashier; Leslie L. Turnage, assistant cashier; B. B. Sugg Jr., senior vice president and trust officer; Jack E. Stoughton, vice president and trust officer; Nancy W. Warren, assistant trust officer.

New Austerity Unfolded For British People

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced today the withdrawal of all British armed forces from the Far East and the Persian Gulf by the end of 1971.

Unfolding his austerity program before the House of Commons, he also announced a campaign to slash benefits in social welfare.

Although the intention is to leave the Far East by 1971, Wilson said his government was prepared to continue aiding Britain's Commonwealth partners in Southeast Asia through a "joint air defense system for Malaysia and Singapore." Britain will also train personnel to operate the system.

Wilson announced cancellation of a contract to purchase 50 American F111 swing-wing bombers at a cost of $1.02 billion.

The prime minister was grim faced as he rose in the House of Commons to announce details of the Labor government's drive to make Britain solvent.

Princess Margaret was in the gallery sitting near Wilson's wife.

The prime minister said Britain's future foreign role will have to depend on its ability to pay.

"We have to come to terms with our role in the world," Wilson declared.

He told the House Britain will retain its bases in Europe from which forces can be deployed overseas in time of conflict.

The prime minister said Britain's F111 cancellation will mean a saving to this country of $960 million even when penalty costs for cancellation are taken into consideration.

His announcement of the cancellation brought cheers from Labor benches in the House.

In his 10 years with the Patrol, Cpl. Chapman has served on many special assignments, including riot duty in New Bern, Hertford and Williamston; and "Project Impact" in Fayetteville in 1962. He was one of two patrolmen to demonstrate the Highway Patrol airplane to the N. C. General Assembly early in 1967.

W. K. CHAPMAN

He has taught law and legal terminology in various Highway Patrol Schools throughout the state and has served as an instructor for the Coastal Plain Law Enforcement Academy.

Uses 'Stock Answer'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: In reply to the rude ones who ask others how old they are, I have had a stock answer for years. I simply say, "I'm over 21." It's true. I'm WAY over 21.

'57' IN SAN DIEGO
DEAR ABBY: My daughter wrote a letter to you, but she didn't mail it. I found it on her desk. Everything she wrote was true, but she left out a few very important facts. Here is her letter:

"Dear Abby,
 I am a 16-year-old girl "in trouble," and my mother refuses to let me get married. The boy I'm going with is 19 and wants to marry me. We've gone together for seven months. My mother THINKS she is going to send me to a home for unwed mothers and get me to give the baby up, but she is altogether mistaken and I have told her so.

CARES?
 Abby, I think you ought to know that my daughter is not yet 16. The boy is married, but not living with his wife. He says he will get a quick divorce and marry my daughter, but in my eyes he will make a very poor husband.

I want her to go to a home for unwed mothers and give her baby up, but she doesn't want to.

Abby, is it such a terrible thing for a girl to give her baby to a family who can give it all the advantages if the girl is not equipped to care for it?
 I married at 16, had a family right away, and had to raise my children alone as my husband walked out on me. No one knows how rough this kind of life can be unless she has gone thru it.

I wouldn't wish it on my worst enemy let alone my own daughter. I want her to finish high school, go on to college, and meet a nice man who will marry her and give her a better life than I have had.

She's pretty and intelligent and could easily do it if she doesn't spoil everything now. She has already made one mistake. How can I keep her from making two?

HER MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: First, I don't think it is so "terrible" to give a baby up for adoption if the mother is not "equipped" to care for it. (By "equipped" I don't mean with material things—I refer to a good home with two parents who love each other and have a solid marriage.)

A 19-year-old married boy who has "gone with" a girl who is not yet 16, and has gotten her pregnant, is not my idea of a very promising husband. Even if he were to get a "quick divorce" and marry the girl, it would offer no real solution.

If your daughter is wise,

WASHINGTON (AP) — The money message from Capitol Hill to the White House as Congress reassembled wasn't changed from last year: President Johnson must cut spending if he wants a tax hike.

There was little official action Monday with the launching of the second session of the 90th Congress but there was talk domestic spending must be cut. It came from Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen and Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee.

Johnson's proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, submitted to Congress last year, is still in Mills' tax-writing committee. The Arkansas Democrat said it will stay there until he sees the President's new budget, due for presentation before Jan. 29.

Mills said his committee will challenge any increases over the current fiscal year's domestic spending. He said a spending hike of $10 billion to $12 billion would violate his precondition for backing a tax hike—that spending be held at current levels or cut back on anything except Vietnam-related projects or fixed outlays such as interest on the government debt.

But he wouldn't pinpoint for newsmen just how much of a hike he would tolerate.

"A $10 billion to $12 billion increase in spending would just equal what the surtax would yield," Mills said. "Imposing a surtax under those circumstances doesn't give any assurance that the time will ever come when we don't need it."

Dirksen said it is time to delay or "stretch out" already authorized spending on some domestic programs. He cited the multibillion-dollar space program as an example.

Bow, who led a successful $4.1 billion economy drive last year, said the House GOP goal for spending cuts this year—with Vietnam projects excepted—may range from $8 billion to $13 billion.

He said in an interview Republicans would try to hold the spending total to about $137 billion in the administrative portion of the budget.

Bow said if reports are true the administrative budget may range from $145 billion to $150 billion, it will indicate Johnson "is not going to take the initiative in cutting spending."

Although spending was a key issue on the first day of the session, the House took time to authorize pay increases for administrative assistants to top congressional leaders.

This action allows the assistants to get the same pay hikes voted by Congress last year for other federal workers at the similar salary range of $26,000 to $28,000.

In other opening-day congressional developments:

—Sources said that while Johnson's package of tax revision proposals may reach Congress this spring, it's unlikely there will be a push for passage until next year at the earliest.

—Speaker John W. McCormack urged Congress to try to adjourn by Aug. 1, guaranteeing members sufficient time to campaign for the fall elections.

—The Senate adjourned until the President's State-of-the-Union message Wednesday night. On Thursday it launches debate that members say could develop into a filibuster on a civil rights bill to protect Negroes and civil rights workers from racially motivated violence.

—Some 3,000 women came to Washington to tell Congress they want the Vietnam war stopped. They were led by former Rep. Jeannette Rankin, 87, of Montana. Miss Rankin was the only member of Congress to vote against America's entry into both World War I and World War II.

Drive-In Movie Beer Permit Given Approval

DURHAM (AP) — The State Board of Alcoholic Control has issued North Carolina's first beer permit to a drive-in theater.

The board approved the permit for William Frank Lemmond Jr., operator of the Fox Drive-In Theater in Charlotte, which specializes in "girly shows."

Ten Charlotte residents, including the chief of police, had to give Lemmond character references before the permit was approved.

Twice before he has tried to obtain permission to sell beer, and both times he failed because of his "court record and reputation."

After a 12-month fight and a session in Wake Superior Court appealing his application and its denial, the board agreed to grant its permission.

Streetcleaners Wear Mini-Skirts

LONDON (WNS) — The Hitchin District Council is now hiring teen-age girls as streetcleaners. It pays them $20 a week for part-time work, and supplies them with brightly painted brooms, shovels and carts to complement their mini-skirts. "The job was wearing the first few days, but now people are getting our message and not dirtying the streets," reported pretty streetcleaner Caroline Mitchell, 17.

Luncheon Given Delphian Club

Mrs. Wesley Johnston and Mrs. Charles Moye were co-hostesses to the Delphian Book Club last week at the home of Mrs. Moye.

After a three-course luncheon was served, Mrs. Moye showed the film version of the poem "Morning on the Lievre" by Archibald Lampman.

The purpose of the film was to explore the world of a poet's imagination by rediscovering the places and scenes described in this 19th century lyric poem, places still unchanged in the Laurentian country of Quebec.

The Lievre is a woodland river which flows for 200 hundred miles through southwestern Quebec.

In the poem, the poet describes the effects of sunlight, shadows and mist on the river at dawn.

Mrs. Riley Cox, Mrs. Bob Powell and Mrs. James Kleinert were guests for the afternoon.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Park University Motel, College Park, Md.

The bride and bridegroom are employed by the Department of Defense, Fort Meade, Md.

Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will reside in Hyattsville, Md.

More Needs Than We Have Dollars

Before present school construction needs are met by either the Pitt County or the Greenville school administrative units, each of these divisions is likely to face the problem of more needs than dollars to meet them.

Greenville already has moved forward with its new construction program with the opening of a new elementary school last fall and the awarding of contracts for a new junior high school within the past few days. The county school unit is moving forward with its new construction program, having authorized this month the preparation of preliminary plans for the first of several consolidated high schools to be built.

In the case of Greenville's junior high school, contracts for revised plans for the building will run $300,000 dollars more than initially budgeted by the Board of Education in its long range plans. Additional funds will be required to equip the new building. One long-range result of this, of course, will be that all the construction planned from funds presently in view will not be possible if costs consistently run higher than anticipated in the capital outlay planning.

Pitt County, as it begins to construct the new consolidated high schools called for in its long range plans, may likewise find that its capital outlay funds are not sufficient to build all the schools which were anticipated when the funds were secured.

The county and city school administrative units now have a common source for capital funds so far as bond issues are concerned. When the $7.9 million bond issue was approved in Pitt County some 18 months ago, the old system of district bonds was abandoned. In the future school bonds will be on a county-wide basis.

It is increasingly evident even now that the capital outlay funds available to the Greenville and Pitt County school administrative units will not be sufficient to meet the construction called for in planning done over the past few years. Within a very few years citizens of Greenville and Pitt County will be faced with the alternatives of approving another major bond issue for schools or allowing urgently needed construction programs to gather dust for lack of funds.

Neither the county administrative unit nor the city administrative unit has yet spent the funds available to it from the recent bond issue. Even so, it is not too early for citizens to begin thinking in terms of meeting the need for additional capital outlay funds when it presents itself. In the meantime, those responsible for the two school administrative units must continue to exercise every effort to see that the greatest possible value is received for each capital outlay dollar spent from the funds now available.

Very Uncertain Political Year

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — As it opens this is perhaps the most uncertain political year in this century.

First, there are the not unusual, strictly political uncertainties: It seems sure but is not positive President Johnson will seek re-election; right now it's anybody's guess who the Republican candidate will be.

Then there's the problem which provides an uncertainty at the start of every presidential election year: How good a job will Congress do?

Since this is a Democratic-run Congress, a good record will help Johnson or any Democrat running in his place. A bad one would be a monkey on the party's back.

But then there are two extraordinarily unusual uncertainties which may be the deciding factors in the elections: The Vietnam war and Negro riots.

If Johnson could bring the war to a satisfactory end before the election, it might be all he'd need to win. If he war drags on, there's no predicting the effect on him.

More Negro riots, and probably worse than in 1967, look likely if only because no great steps have been taken to prevent them. One of them might even occur during the Democratic convention in Chicago next August.

Public reaction to the riots, and what Johnson does or fails to do about them, will inevitably be reflected in next November's voting.

Only one president in this century, Franklin D. Roosevelt, sought re-election in the midst of a war. At that time this was no handicap to him. The country was totally dedicated to crushing fascism.

There was no war when President Harry S. Truman ran the first time in 1948 and was elected. But the Korean war was two years old, with no end in sight, when he had to decide about running a second time in 1952. By then he was under heavy criticism about Korea.

So far in these early days of the 1968 election year, Johnson hasn't said yes or no about trying again. That's not unusual. It was a lot later than this in 1952 when Truman decided he wouldn't make a second try.

He didn't announce his non-candidacy until March 29, 1952, which was 18 days after he lost the New Hampshire primary to a fellow Democrat, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

In a way Kefauver was to Truman — but in a much stronger way — what another Democrat, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, is to Johnson now. Kefauver really wanted to be president. The same can't be said about McCarthy. There's a fog over his intentions and has been since last Nov. 30 when he said he would go into some presidential primaries.

It certainly isn't clear whether, if he did weli in the primaries, he would go on to try for the Democratic nomination. He almost certainly has no chance for it.

Right now his purpose seems to be to put enough pressure on Johnson to make him soften his Vietnam policy. But if this doesn't work, what will he do?

If U. S. policy in Vietnam remains unchanged, McCarthy has said, he'll carry his challenge all the way to a battle for the nomination. But for a man going to all this trouble he seems to have a languid view of his chances. "If not me, then someone," he has said.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
A MUSICIAN'S TESTIMONY

Chancing to lunch, one day, with a world-famous musician and orchestra leader, our talk soon drifted to religion. He told me his own story.

"I was born a Roman Catholic. At twelve years of age I broke with the Church and became an atheist.

"But one day in a Western town where I was leading a concert I had some hours alone in a hotel room. So I picked up the Bible that was there; and as I read I took out a red pencil and began to underscore the words of Jesus.

"They were so beautiful, so noble, and in such wonderful setting, that they took strange hold of me."

That sensitive-souled musician, that lover of the beautiful, found new meaning and power in the words of the Master. He did not know, as he wielded his red pencil, that there is such a thing as a Red Letter New Testament. Yet he felt that the words of Jesus glowed red, and were instinct with life.

There are many profitable forms of Bible study; but none equal to the frequent conning of the very words of Jesus himself. In a strange, unique way they are words of life.

The Most Basic Skill

Let me come back to Jeanne Chall's china-breaking, idol-smashing, myth-debunking book on the teaching of reading, for this is important. It is a heap more important than anything Lindsay said to Javits or Kenyatta said to Humphrey, or who's scoring what in the winter polling leagues.

Mrs. Chall is a professor in Harvard's Graduate School of Education, with a lifetime of experience behind her as a specialist in the techniques of teaching children how to read. Her book is the result of a massive three-year study, financed by a Carnegie grant.

Unlike Rudolph Flesch and Arther Trace, who are regarded as mavericks or lepers, Mrs. Chall is a certified member of the educational establishment. Hers is not a "popular" book; it is a work of solid scholarship. School boards, school superintendents, textbook publishers and textbook committees cannot possibly ignore "Learning to Read: The Great Debate."

Every person who has raised a child since 1930, or been through the schools himself, knows what the "great debate" is all about. It involves the controversy that has raged between the advocates of "look-say," on the one hand, and the advocates of old-fashioned phonics on the other, in the teaching of reading. The fight has engaged thousands of teachers and hundreds of thousands of parents; it has involved half a billion dollars in textbook sales; it has provoked bitter, rancorous arguments across the nation. And for most of these past 37 years, apostles of the "look-say" or "whole word" method have been in command.

At the heart of the dispute is the most basic of all skills: reading. The child who fails to master reading is a lost child. If he stumbles on the hard words; or loses comprehension of the printed word, he is fatally handicapped. He sees instructions through a fog; he misses the riches that great literature has to offer him; he cannot spell confidently or write easily. He becomes, in a very real sense, an illiterate. And the searing truth—which Mrs. Chall is too restrained to spell out bluntly—is that "look-say" has created such illiterates by the millions.

Parents in California, as one example, have learned this to their sorrow. Statewide tests in 1966 disclosed an appalling picture: California children, reared on the "look-say" method, scored far below the national average in reading skills. Additional tests in 1967 confirmed the dismal fact. In Los Angeles, first graders averaged the seventh percentile — that is, only 6 per cent of the first graders in the lower. Last week, the Los Angeles Board of Education at last came to its senses, and voted $140,000 to launch a crash program of phonics in the first three grades.

It is unfair to single out the Los Angeles board. By Mrs. Chall's estimate, 80 per cent of America's public school children, since the early Thirties, have been subjected to a predominantly "look-say" method of instruction. Laymen who serve on school boards have been ill-equipped to argue with the experts, the professionals, the textbook salesmen. There was always a vague impression that "research" proved that phonics was inferior to "whole word recognition." One of Mrs. Chall's most important findings is that the research "proved" no such thing; properly interpreted, the research proved just the opposite.

Their self-congratulatory beliefs naive about the power realities of the Deep South. By and large, Deep South delegations going to Chicago will be led by essentially the same men who have always controlled them: nominal Democrats who, in recent years have done little for the national ticket in their states. The token Negroes they will bring along will be wealthy undertakers, safe professional men, and state-employed college deans — the "Uncle Toms" despised even by moderate civil rights leaders.

The Mississippi delegation, for instance, will surely be controlled by Senator James O. Eastland, the state's most powerful politician. Whether or not Governor John Bell Williams leads the delegation as Eastland desires it will be kept out of the hands of the bi-racial moderates. It will contain Negroes but not the two most important non-extremist Negro leaders in the state, Aaron Henry and Charles Evers.

All this is painfully clear to the bi-racial group which painstakingly is trying to build a loyalist Democratic party in Mississippi: Greenville newspaper editor Hodding Carter III of the YDs, Claude Ramsey of the state AFL-CIO, and the NAACP's Henry and Evers. At Jackson they will lay plans to fight for control at the precinct conventions in May, the first step toward control of the state convention.

Fight Hasn't Ended

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although a self-satisfied Democratic National Committee session in Chicago this week thought it had at long last solved the tormenting puzzle of Negro convention delegates from the Deep South, a strategy meeting Sunday (Jan. 14) in Jackson, Miss. will prove the fight is not nearly over.

The two Mississippi groups trying to cut a bit-racial path between white supremacy and black power — the state NAACP and the Young Democrats — meet at Jackson's Heidelberg Hotel Sunday to plot a course that will be ended only at the Democratic National Convention at Chicago in August.

Their goal is to send a Mississippi delegation to Chicago containing not just any Negroes but bona fide Negro leaders not in lock to the state's white establishment. Since no such delegation can be elected through the regular party processes, another Mississippi seating fight will be waged in Chicago. What's more, it could be as inflammatory as the bitter battle of the 1964 Atlantic City convention.

This is precisely what the White House and the Democratic National Committee for three years have been trying to avoid through a special subcommittee headed by Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey. At a perfunctory 20-minute meeting in Chicago last Sunday (Jan. 7), the Hughes subcommittee issued its plan, which in effect, requires every state delegation to contain Negro members.

Long conditioned to this requirement, Southern members of the National Committee were most conciliatory. Over cocktails, they assured their Northern colleagues that they would bow to the inevitable and bring racially integrated delegations to Chicago.

As the National Committee meeting adjourned on Monday, Chairman John Bailey and the committeemen were congratulating themselves on so easy a settlement of the impossible.

N.C. Press Is Very Political

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector, Raleigh Bureau RALEIGH — In few if any other states does the press endeavor to furnish such detailed, day by day coverage of its politics as does North Carolina.

This is a fact widely acknowledged and recognized throughout the U. S. newspaper industry both by executive, working newspapermen and press critics, especially in light of recent comparisons.

Overall, North Carolina newspapers rank very high in this respect — in detailed political coverage and massive doses of editorial criticism. The North Carolina press keeps its political candidates, its hopefuls and political developments under a microscope.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

According to critics, North Carolina's newspapers generally are more aware of and more responsive to local and state politics than most in the nation.

Raised Eyebrows

There are raised eyebrows and expressions of surprise in these cold-eyed newspaper circles about the vast amount of day-by-day political reporting and editorial comment which appears in the North Carolina newspapers.

Editors and reporters who come to North Carolina from other states are amazed — and challenged — by the emphasis on political reporting.

They ask, is North Carolina politics really worth all this space and attention?

After a while, most agree that it is. They begin to ask for and demand even more.

Political Discussions
It reaches the point that politics and political discussion dominates conversation even at press meetings. A case in point is the forthcoming Mid-Winter Institute of the N. C. Press Association at Chapel Hill Jan. 18-20.

A highlight of this session will be the appearance of four announced candidates for governor of North Carolina on the same platform. This part of the NCPA program has been arranged by the Associated Dailies group headed by J. A. Sharpe of the Robesonian of Lumberton, N. C.

The candidates who are scheduled to be present are J. Melville Broughton Jr. of Raleigh and Robert W. (Bob) Scott of Haw River, Democrats, and John L. (Jack) Stickle of Charlotte and James C. (Jim) Gardner of Rocky Mount, the Republican contenders.

Introduce Themselves
The four principal candidates not only will introduce themselves to the assembled editors and publishers but will answer questions during the session.

At least this is the format. Four years ago a similar program was arranged but one of the candidates declined to appear. The arrangements this time promise to be more successful and one of the more important early campaign confrontations appears in prospect.

Garrison Sees Assassination Plot 'Through A Looking Glass'

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Back when big Jim Garrison's Kennedy assassination probe was new he said: "The key to the whole case is through the looking glass. Black is white, white is black."

The cryptic Alice in Wonderland allusion puzzled many at the time. But it proved to be an accurate description. A year later, it still applies.

About the only thing the Warren Commission and Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison agree on is the date of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, slain in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

In the conflicting versions, black often does become white—if you take that to mean that opposite conclusions are drawn from the same circumstances.

Now Garrison's controversial case—with its reverse English approach to one of the century's great crimes—is due to be tested in court, under legal rules of evidence.

F. Irving Dymond, a defense lawyer for Clay L. Shaw, said the Orleans Parish County Criminal District Court trial is tentatively set for Feb. 13.

The charge against Shaw, which he emphatically denies, is conspiring to murder the president.

Shaw is 54, a tall lean, wealthy, well-tailored businessman with craggy features. His silvery hair lies flat in tight, precise waves. He was an Army major in World War II. He says he hasn't the faintest idea why Garrison accused him of plotting to kill Kennedy.

"The defense will not seek a continuance," Dymond said. "Of course, we will have a few motions to make before the trial."

The motions, Dymond added, may include a request for a change in venue. If granted this would switch the trial to some other Louisiana judicial district. Garrison, however, could remain as prosecutor.

Shaw was the first to be charged in Garrison's probe. Arrested March 1, 1967, he has been free under $10,000 bond and it is not unusual to see him enjoying an evening out at one of the city's plush restaurants.

The 46-year-old, 6-foot-6 district attorney packs a small pistol under his coat and has a political reputation as a fast draw with a sweeping statement. He snapped back at his critics with gusto.

"The involvement of high officials of the U.S. government in the affair becomes more and more apparent," he says.

Among other things, Garrison said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover was warned five days in advance that an assassination attempt would be made in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963. And he repeatedly accused President Johnson of having "actively concealed evidence about the murder of his predecessor"—a reference to the secret label on some aspects of the investigation.

White House spokesmen shrug off the statements.

There was no comment from the FBI—or from another frequent Garrison target, the Central Intelligence Agency, which he accused of covering up evidence.

Garrison bases his case on his contention that the assassination was a devious conspiracy involving several men—and that the conspiracy originated in New Orleans.

This runs counter to the official report of the Warren Commission which investigated the assassination. It says former New Orleans resident Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, shot the president. But the commission said it had found no evidence that Oswald was part of any conspiracy.

Other examples of Garrison's black versus white include:

In the commission view, Oswald was motivated by, among other factors, a sore ego, hostility toward society and a commitment to Marxism and communism. Not so, says Garrison. He says Oswald was anti-Communist, a CIA agent and was set up as a "patsy" by other conspirators who found out he was an undercover man.

Garrison lists Jack Ruby, the Dallas strip joint owner who killed Oswald in a Dallas police station, as a conspirator. The commission said it found "no sign of any conduct" which suggests that he was involved in the assassination.

And so it goes.

A conspiracy charge similar to the one against Shaw was filed Dec. 20 against Edgar Eugene Bradley, 49, of North Hollywood, Calif. It differs in that it does not name any of the "others" in the alleged conspiracy.

Bradley said he will fight extradition from California. "This man is either being highly paid to do this or he's off his rocker," he said.

Garrison has kept the activities of his investigators secret as much as possible. When public accounting of expenditures gave hints of their operation, he turned to private sources for money.

A group of businessmen formed Truth and Consequences of New Orleans, Inc., and chipped in to form an operating fund. Co-chairman Joseph M. Rault Jr., a wealthy oil man, said the secretive organization remains unchanged, despite the growing controversy.

"Our position is the same as it was at the start," he said. "We supply the money for the investigation. We leave the rest to the courts."

Durham Orders Ordinance Study

DURHAM (AP) — The City Council has ordered the city attorney to study the possibility of an ordinance prohibiting the bringing of strikebreakers into Durham in the American Tobacco Co. strike.

However, the council refused Monday night at a meeting attended by 700 members of the Tobacco Workers International Union to pass immediately a "citizens job protection" ordinance proposed by the union. But it did schedule a special meeting for Wednesday night to consider the ordinance, which would make it unlawful for "any person to offer himself for employment in place of employees involved in a labor dispute" or to actually take such a job.

The company has refused comment on a union statement that it planned to import strikebreakers. The council decided to ask the company not to do so.

Workers of American Tobacco Co. plants in Durham and Reidsville, N. C., Richmond, Va., and Louisville, Ky., have been striking since Jan. 1 over wage, cost-of-living, and work load clauses in a new contract.

Richmond has been the scene of company and union negotiations. A federal mediator recessed talks last Wednesday after reporting no progress. A new meeting date has not yet been set.

Set Preparatory Meet At ECU For Science Fair

About 115 science teachers from 23 counties in Northeastern North Carolina are expected to attend a Science Fair meeting at East Carolina University Saturday, Jan. 20.

Sponsored by ECU, the program begins at 9:30 a.m. with coffee and registration and will continue until about 12:30 p.m. in Room 209 of the Flanagan Building.

Counties scheduled to be represented include Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington, Wayne and Wilson.

Four featured speakers of the morning are Dr. Frank W. Elller, ECU professor, "The History of Science Fairs;" Dr. Thomas Reynolds, Duke University, "The Value of Science Fairs to Science Education;" Mrs. Estelle McClees, Grainger High School, Kinston, "State Science Fairs;" and Henry Shannon, N.C. State University at Raleigh, "International Science Fairs."

James D. Nicholson of the ECU science faculty said the upcoming program is in behalf of the Northeastern District Science Fair scheduled here March 22, preliminary to the annual State Science Fair in Raleigh later in the spring.

Nicholson, director of the Northeastern Science Fair, says he hopes the Saturday meeting "will help us toward a banner year for show of excellence in science projects throughout our area of the state."

Invite Gov. To 'Obscene Movie'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Spiro T. Agnew and his staff have been invited to see what was called an obscene movie.

The invitation was extended Monday by the Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors. The board has been under fire from legislators and the governor as being archaic and rendered useless by Supreme Court rulings.

An aide to the governor said he doubted that Agnew would attend.

More Formal Restraint On Economy Now Seen

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — More formal wage and price restraints than persuasion, as presently used, now seem imminent as part of the Johnson administration's broad plan to shape up the nation's strong but undisciplined economy.

Ever since late 1966, when the guideposts that tied wage and price increases to productivity were battered, there has been speculation that restraints were coming. Now there is evidence to add to the speculation.

First, the inflationary experience of 1967 is something the administration, consumers, workers and businessmen cannot afford to see worsen—or even to be repeated.

Last year an upward spiral whirled through the economy as workers sought higher wages to beat the rising cost of living and business sought higher prices to offset the higher cost of doing business.

Nobody gained very much from this. It was a treadmill and everyone knew it. Getting off was another thing; all those in-involved felt helpless to change such a force as inflation and so they stayed on and ran and ran.

"Nobody benefits from a wage-price spiral," Johnson told businessmen about a month ago. "Labor knows that it does not. You know that business does not. And surely the American people do not."

"Yet business says it is labor's responsibility to break the spiral, and labor says it is yours. I say it is everyone's responsibility. It is the responsibility of government, of labor and of business."

But, if business and labor cannot cooperate, then of necessity the government must assert itself. Lately the Johnson administration has turned very active in economics. It is abandoning persuasion.

The administration has now begun moving decisively to protect the dollar in the international arena with forceful restraints on American spending. This new decisiveness provides additional evidence for action at home also.

It is inconceivable, for example, that Johnson should take direct action to support the dollar internationally, as he has, without also trying to strengthen the dollar at home, where much of the weakness originates.

One of the chief causes of the gold outflow, for example, is that domestic inflation is pushing up the prices American companies must ask in selling their products abroad. If they cannot complete the payments deficit worsens.

More evidence that the administration will act to restrain the spiral of inflation comes from public statements by its officials. If action is to be taken on these statements then January, when the economic messages are being prepared, is the time.

The form in which these restraints may appear is impossible to forecast, although Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President John F. Kennedy, suggested a wage-price board.

Heller now speaks from Minneapolis but his voice is still heard loudly in Washington and throughout the country.

Heller's board would be independent, thus relieving the Council of Economic Advisers of responsibility for administering prices and wages. And since the board would consist of private citizens, it would enable the administration to sidestep much criticism.

Two College Executives In Bid For Dr. Carroll's Post

RALEIGH (AP)—Two college executives have announced they are candidates to succeed Dr. Charles F. Carroll, who next January will step down as North Carolina superintendent of education after 16 years in the post.

They are Dr. Raymond A. Stone, president of Sandhills Community College at Southern Pines, and State Rep. William D. Harrill, Rutherford County Democrat who is dean of men at Southwood College in Salisbury.

Carroll, 67, announced Monday he would not seek reelection in November. He did not endorse anyone for his successor.

He said he had no plans after he leaves office, "but in the next 12 months I will be as active as ever. I shall cross each and every bridge after that as I come to them."

Carroll is the first member of the Council of State to decide against running again. Four others have filed for reelection.

They are Agriculture Commissioner James Graham, Auditor Henry Bridges, Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, and Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton.

Oregon Man Active Again After Using This Pile Treatment

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Eugene, Oregon Mr. Chuck Gray of Eugene states: "Thanks a billion for Preparation H. Until Preparation H, I had almost run the gamut of preparations. But with Preparation H, I'm active again."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

At the very best, the YD-NAACP-labor coalition can control no more than 15 percent of the county delegations at the state Democratic convention early this summer. Insufficient to elect a single delegate to Chicago.

The moderates' tentative plan, then, is to propose unpalatable resolutions to the state convention—supporting the Johnson-Humphrey ticket, endorsing the 1964 and 1965 Civil Rights Acts. When these are rejected, the moderate delegates will bolt, set up their own rump convention, and send a rival delegation to Chicago.

Pirates Edged By The Citadel; Rose Is Beaten

Another Squeaker, 59-57, For Bucs

CHARLESTON, S.C.—For the second time in little more than a week, East Carolina University's basketball team lost a Southern Conference basketball game Monday night when it appeared they had gained the upperhand in a comeback.

This time, the Pirates were the victims of The Citadel, which had led by as much as seven points at one juncture, but had to get a clutch shooting performance from John DeBrosse in the last three and a half minutes to escape with a 59-57 decision.

The win was the seventh against six defeats for The Citadel and evened the Cadet record at 2-2 in the conference. For East Carolina, which had won three of its last four, the season total is now 4-7 overall and 2-4 in the conference.

DeBrosse, who had scored 12 points in the first half to lead The Citadel to a 33-30 advantage at intermission, had been stopped with but two points until 3:35 was left in the game and the score tied at 53-all. From here, he hit the last three baskets made by The Citadel, the final one coming with 1:15 left in the game to provide the final margin.

The Pirates had three more chances to tie it or go ahead as The Citadel lost the ball on a bad pass, on a mis-handled ball on an inbounds play and once when the Pirates applied the pressure and produced a force out.

The final chance for East Carolina came with 16 seconds left when Greg Connor of The Cadets let the ball bounce off his foot out of bounds. The Cadets worked it in to Jim Modlin in the circle for the shot that could have tied the game and sent it into overtime, but the little jumper was short and that was their last chance.

DeBrosse was the game's leading scorer with 20 points, two more than East Carolina's Earl Thompson, who got warmed up in the second half and made two long jumpers after the score was locked at 53-all while DeBrosse was getting his three goals.

Charles Alford, who was the big gun for East Carolina in the first half, had 14 points and Modlin finished with 10. Doug Bridges was the second leading scorer for The Citadel with 12 points and Tee Hooper, the only player to foul out of the game, had 10.

East Carolina had a decided edge in the shooting percentages, but it was on the boards that the statistics told the story. While The Citadel was pulling down 34 rebounds, East Carolina got but 19.

Hooper and Al Kroboth of the Cadets, who had 11 and 6 respectively, lacked but two matching the entire output of the Pirates off the boards with Alford's seven high for the night.

After getting the first basket to take a 2-0 lead, East Carolina rapidly fell behind by as much as seven points, the margin reaching that stage as the score rose to 14-7.

At this point, the Bucs worked methodically and all but refused to make mistakes on the floor until the score moved to 22-15.

Then Modlin, Vince Colbert, Thompson and Modlin scored in succession to give the Pirates the lead at 23-22. After it was tied at 24-24, The Citadel moved out front by one, but with six minutes remaining in the first half, Alford hit to make it 26-25 for the Pirates.

From there, Hooper, DeBrosse and Willie Taylor, a sophomore from Kinston, N.C., scored in succession for a five-point lead and after Thompson and Connor matched baskets, Alford put one to make the margin, 33-30, at halftime.

The pace of the game, which had not been heated in the first half, was even slower as the second 20 minutes began. More than two minutes passed before either team scored a basket.

With almost four gone, Alford hit and two minutes later, after neither team had scored, Colbert put one in to tie the score at 38-all.

Things continued to rock along in this fashion after Richard Kier's free throw nudged East Carolina in front at 39-38, but the Pirates could never get more than two in front.

With 7:21 left, Thompson converted a pair of free throws on a one-and-one situation to tie it at 49-all, but within the next minute, Bridges and Hooper hit one each to give The Citadel a four-point lead.

Modlin and Miller came right back and in 30 seconds had it tied again at 53-all. That's when DeBrosse came back into the picture. He and Thompson matched baskets to send it to 57-all and then DeBrosse popped in a turn-around jumper that eventually proved the difference.

The score was tied no less than seven times and the lead changed hands on eight different occasions.

The Bucs now return home to prepare for Saturday night's encounter with N.C. State in Raleigh.

Baron Wins, Just One Away From Catching All-Time Victory Leader

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats have clawed their way back into the rough-and-tumble Southeastern Conference basketball race.

Ahead for the Baron is a long trip down the country road—and what shapes up as the biggest scuffle in his 38-year Bluegrass reign.

Kentucky, shunted from fourth to eighth place in The Associated Press ratings this week after a 96-78 road loss to Florida, rebounded Monday night by thrashing Georgia 104-73 in a bruising SEC game.

The victory gave the Wildcats a 10-2 season record and a 4-1 mark in conference play. Moreover, it was Rupp's 770th coaching triumph—one short of the all-time NCAA record held by ex-Kansas wizard Phog Allen.

Rupp figures to catch Allen when Kentucky visits Auburn Saturday. But the magic 772nd victory could prove particularly elusive.

The Wildcats' next stops on a four-game road trip will be Knoxville, Tenn., where powerful Tennessee has rolled up 31 consecutive home-court victories, and Baton Rouge, La., where the Maravich family appears to have a dynasty in the making, at Louisiana State. "We've got 12 or 13 more games to go—and the road can be rough," Rupp said after torrid shooting by Thad Jaracz and sophomore Mike Casey swept the Wildcats to a surprisingly easy verdict over Georgia.

Fourth-ranked Tennessee remained unbeaten in the SEC and ran its over-all record to 10-1 with a 67-52 romp over visiting Florida and No. 9 Vanderbilt, only other nationally ranked team in action Monday night, topped Auburn 74-65 on the losers' floor for a 12-3 season mark.

Jaracz canned 12 of 16 field goal attempts and Casey 13 of 21 while totaling 25 and 29 points, respectively, in a rough game marked by an injury to one player and the ejection of another.

Kentucky soph Dan Issel was helped from the floor after being spilled by the Bulldogs' Ray Jeffords while driving for the basket. Minutes later, on a Georgia fast break, Jim Lemaster of Kentucky whacked Jeffords and was tossed out of the game.

Bob Lienhaard, 6-foot-11 Georgia ceter, paced the visitors with 29 points—hitting 23 in the second half. "We played a little basketball trimmed the Commodores' lead tonight," Rupp said. "I'd have settled for a one-point win. This game had me worried."

Tennessee's Tom Boerwinkle outscored Florida's Neal Walk 27-16 in a battle of 7-foot pivots and the Vols' 1-3-1 defense limited the tall Gators to four field goals in the second half.

Boerwinkle put in 21 points in the first half before getting into foul trouble. Walk, who brought a 27-point average into the game, got 13 before intermission but managed only three free throws thereafter.

Bob Bundy, a surprise starter at center, led Vanderbilt past the Tigers with 22 points and nine rebounds. Auburn rallied from a 36-23 halftime deficit and to four points with 25 seconds to play. But Bundy and Ken Campbell broke loose for the wrap-up baskets.

The Big Eight Conference produced a pair of tight finishes, Kansas State nipping Colorado 57-56 in overtime and Missouri upending Kansas 67-66. Clemson edged Maryland 94-93 in a double overtime Atlantic Coast Conference struggle.

Washington State trounced Oregon 85-66 and Washington-Trimmer Oregon State 68-56 in Pacific 8 Conference games; East Tennessee surprised Murray's Ohio Valley Conference leaders 74-67; Xavier, Ohio topped Detroit 84-81 and South Dakota stung Creighton 90-82.

Clemson Edges Past Maryland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Zatezalo's 35 points in Clemson's 94-93 victory in double overtime against Maryland has given the sophomore the best basketball scoring average in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

He is averaging 25.1 in nine games, and has displaced Larry Miller of nationally third-ranked North Carolina, who is averaging 24.3 in 12 games.

Zatezalo, 5-foot-11, threw in nine goals, and was successful on all his 17 free throws, the last two winning the game, as Clemson moved up into seventh place and sank the Terps into the cellar.

It was the only game of the night involving an ACC team in this examination - abbreviated week. There is only one game tomorrow night, Navy at Maryland, and then the teams are idle until Saturday night when North Carolina State is home to East Carolina and Clemson is at Virginia.

Clemson is 1-4 in the league and 2-7 in all games. Maryland is 1-6 and 3-9.

In other ACC statistical departments, Steve Vandenberg of Duke leads field goal shooting with 69 of 106 for .651; Joe Kennedy of Duke is tops in free throw shooting with a cool .919 average; and Duke leads team scoring with an average of 87.7 points per game.

Bears Pull Away In Second Half

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School stayed up with New Bern for the first half, but the Bears pulled away in the final half to gain a 52-42 victory in a Northeastern Conference contest last night.

The game has originally been scheduled for Friday night, but was moved to Monday because of bad weather.

The two teams played a close game for the first 16 minutes, but the Bears used the third period to pull out by seven points, and were never in any trouble after that.

Rose got the opening lead on a basket by Mike Harrington in the first 30 seconds. But New Bern tied it up as Don Lamar hit and then took the lead at 4-2 on a basket by Pat McGuinness. Rose tied it again at 4-4 and 6-6 on shots by Ricky Tonn and Billy Taylor, but McGuinness hit two straight to make it 10-6 with 3:02 left in the period.

After holding a 12-8 lead, Harrington hit on two straight, the last with one second left, to tie the game 12-12 at the end of the quarter.

Rose then took the lead as Tonn hit as the second period opened. After New Bern tied it up again, Harrington hit on a free throw for a 15-14 lead. Bill Pate hit from the floor to make it 17-14, but again, New Bern rebounded on a free throw and a basket by Lamar to tie it up, 17-17.

Rose regained the lead as Pate made good, and then the Phants shot out by six as Billy Taylor struck twice, making it 23-17 with 3:09 left. But then the Phants ran out of steam, going three minutes before hitting again.

In that time, the Bears didn't go cold and came roaring back. Scott Davenport and Albert Weatherly hit to cut the lead to two and then Davenport hit two more quickly to tie it up and send New Bern ahead at 25-23 with 17 seconds left.

Rose finally connected as Mike Joyner made two foul shots with seven seconds left, but a buzzer shot by O. A. Adams left New Bern with a 27-25 lead at the half.

The Bears quickly scored as the second half opened. McGuinness hit for a four point lead, and then the Bears ran into trouble. From that margin, the Phants came back to take the lead again. Tonn cut the lead to two and a free throw by Harrington made it just one. Joyner then hit to put Rose ahead at 32-31 with 2:59 left. But then, the Phants went cold again, getting no one single point the rest of the period.

Davenport gave the lead back to New Bern and then hit again for a 35-32 lead. Chuck Mohr and Ray Dunn hit in the closing seconds of the period to work up a seven point margin at 39-32 as the quarter ended.

Rose tried to rally as the period opened, cutting the lead back to three at 41-38, but the Bears had momentum, and continued to pull away. After moving it by seven at 45-38, they used the foul line to keep ahead, hitting five in a row to hold an eight point lead. The final 10-point margin came on a final-second shot by Davenport.

Davenport and McGuinness each had 14, while Lamar had 10 for New Bern.

Taylor and Harrington had 10 each to lead Rose.

In the junior varsity game, New Bern made it a sweep with a 60-48 victory. Again, the two teams stuck close together in the first half, but New Bern pulled away as the second half got underway.

The Bear Cubs worked up a 14-12 lead at the end of the first period, and after allowing Rose to hold the lead twice in the second frame, they led 27-23 at the half.

In the third period, New Bern pulled away to lead by 43-34, and then outscored the Phants, 17-14 in the final period for the win.

Brad Sneed led New Bern with 12 points, while Frank King had 11 and Bobby Marshburn had 10.

For Rose, Ray Pezzko had 16 and Josh Weeks had 12.

The Phants, off tonight because of exams, return to action on Friday, playing host to East Carteret.

Vols Gaining On Carolina

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no way of telling whether UCLA or Houston will win Saturday night's big game between the unbeaten college basketball giants in the Houston Astrodome. But it's an open secret that the Bruins are considered the superior team by most experts.

UCLA maintained a commanding lead in The Associated Press' latest weekly poll. The Bruins collected 32 first-place votes and 347 points in the balloting by a national panel of 35 sports writers and broadcasters.

Houston drew only three votes for the top position and 317 points, the latter on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, nine for second, eight for third, etc. The balloting was based on games through last Saturday.

The Bruins, who have won 46 games in a row, including 12 this season, play the University of Portland, Ore., at home Thursday night before their important meeting on the Cougars' court.

In last week's games, the Bruins beat California 94-64 and Stanford 75-63. Houston lifted its record to 16-0 by trouncing West Texas State, 90-53. The Cougars are idle until Saturday.

While the two top teams held their positions, there was some shifting among the other clubs in the first 10.

North Carolina, victorious over North Carolina State and Clemson last week, remained in the No. 3 spot.

However, Tennessee, Utah and New Mexico all gained ground. Tennessee moved up one notch to fourth after downing Vanderbilt and Georgia. Utah, winner over Arizona State and Arizona, also advanced one place to fifth. New Mexico, 14-0 after defeating Wyoming 81-65, rushed up from ninth to sixth.

St. Bonaventure, unbeaten in 12 games, remained in seventh place. The Bonnies beat DePaul 77-67 in their only outing last week.

Kentucky, upset by Florida, fell four places to eighth while Vanderbilt's loss to Tennessee dropped the Commodores one spot to No. 9. Columbia's Lions, 94-68 winners over Colgate for a 10-3 mark, are 10th, the same position they occupied a week ago.

Williams Leads Southern Scoring

West Virginia's Ron Williams is the top individual scorer in Southern Conference basketball at the halfway point of an SEC season which thus far has produced precious few prodigious pointmakers.

A 30-point explosion in WVU's 89-86 overtime upset of Davidson last Saturday elevated Williams into the scoring lead, boosting his per-game average to 22.5 points. He has scored 271 in 12 games.

William and Mary sophomore Bob Sherwood, with a 22.4 average, and VMI's John Kemper, at 20.9, are the only other players in the Southern with averages as high as 20 points.

Statistics released today by the SC Service Bureau show Dick Esleeck of Furman, 19.5, and his teammate, Don Webster, 19.3, flirting with 20-point averages. WIM's Ron Panneton is next at 19.0.

VMI's Steve Powers is bidding to repeat as rebounding champion. Powers, who averaged 15.1 rebounds a game last year, is averaging 14.1 this season. Davidson sophomore Mike Maloy is next with 11 a game.

Davidson leads in team offense, averaging 81 points a game, and also in team rebounding with an average yield of 71.2. The Wildcats are tops, too, in team field goal percentage, 49.9, and team rebounding, 53.6 percent. Still, they're second to West Virginia in the standings.

There are no games for conference teams tonight, and only one was played Monday night. In that one, The Citadel nosed out East Carolina 59-57 on three field goals by John DeBrosse in the closing minutes.

Collegiate 4-H Club Officers Installed

Officers of the newly organized collegiate 4-H Club at East Carolina University were installed in ceremonies last night. Dr. T. C. Blalock, assistant director of 4-H Club work from North Carolina State University at Raleigh, presided as installing officer.

The club, organized in December: Rebecca Davis of Person County, president; Brian Carraway of Craven County, vice-president; Sandra Edwards of Northampton County, secretary and treasurer; Connie Batten of Johnston County, historian; and Dennis Chestnut of Columbus County, reporter.

Miss Humphrey, Pitt County assistant home economics agent, was started to arouse the interest in 4-H work and to promote better living through service to the campus, community, state and nation. Miss Humphrey said the club was organized to inform 4-H members of the many opportunities for leadership and to encourage new students to become active members of the new collegiate 4-H Club.

"The program will give the students an opportunity to know extension work and extension workers and interest them in serving as junior leaders and counselors at summer camps and other 4-H duties," Miss Humphrey explained.

Any previous 4-H member attending East Carolina University or any person attending ECU who is interested in 4-H work may join the club.

The organization, which has 25 members, will aid the Pitt County 4-H unit by holding workshops for the county clubs, Miss Humphrey noted.

The club meets every first and third Monday of each month in the University Union, room 212, from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Ladies Night Held By Local Rotarians

Greenville Rotarians entertained their Rotary - Anns and guests Monday evening at the Rotary Club's annual Ladies Night dinner and were told by Dr. Frank H. Longino, president, that the club is approaching a significant milestone in its history, its 50th anniversary, just a year away.

Guest speaker, J. Tom Grier, Spartanburg, S. C., business executive in an address urged "proper, clear-cut, and enthusiastic" communications in human relations in today's complex society.

Grier emphasized the importance of communications in family life and the business community for advancement of understanding and economic growth. His address was cleverly woven around personal anecdotes and humorous illustrations.

The speaker was accompanied by his wife, the former Dorothy Ormond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ormond, Sr., of Greenville. Dr. Earl Trevathan, past president of the Greenville Rotary Club, introduced Grier for his address.

Guests included presidents of Greenville civic clubs: Reid Hooper, Lions; Robert P. VanVeld, Kiwanis; John May, Optimist; Julian R. Vainright, Jaycees; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Quinerly of Ayden, parents of Mrs. Frank Longino.

President Longino recognized the ten new Rotarians and Rotary - Anns, recent additions to the club membership.

George Coffman is chairman of the Ladies Night Committee whose members are Ken Watkins, Ty Wagner, and Robert Dominick. The affair drew a large attendance and was held at the Greenville County Club.

ECU Biologist Receives Two-Year Research Grant

Dr. Prem P. Sehgal, East Carolina University biologist, has been awarded a two-year grant for research from the North Carolina Board of Science and Technology to study enzymes produced in plant tissues.

The supporting grant of $5,900 for the first year was awarded to Dr. Sehgal to investigate ways to regulate the levels of enzyme by changing growth conditions.

The study is expected to result in a better understanding of the germination of seeds.

And Dr. Sehgal expects to develop methods for synchronizing division of plant cells and techniques for continuous culture of isolated plant tissues free of bacteria and other contaminants. The results might be valid for such plants as tomato, tobacco or pine.

Titled "Regulation of Enzyme Levels in Plant Tissue Cultures," the project was prepared by Dr. Sehgal and submitted to the board through the office of Dr. James L. White, ECU director of development.

Heart Specialist Plans Re-Readied For Jones Dinner Friday

CHAPEL HILL — A heart specialist will talk with Eastern North Carolina doctors in Edenton and Greenville this week about the care of patients with high blood pressure.

Dr. Charles E. Rackley of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine here will be the second in a series of six speakers for a series of weekly meetings for practicing physicians.

The series of meetings constitutes a postgraduate course in medicine sponsored in Edenton by the First District Medical Society and in Greenville by the Pitt County Medical Society.

Sessions for the 15-county gathering in Edenton are held at the Edenton Restaurant on Wednesdays. Doctors from a 16-county area are meeting at the Candlewick Inn near Greenville each Thursday for their sessions.

Dr. Rackley will make afternoon talks at both meetings about essential hypertension, the kind of elevated blood pressure not caused by kidney or other disease. His major emphasis will be on controlling blood pressure with drugs.

After dinner talks at Edenton and Greenville will deal with how doctors can detect the causes of secondary hypertension, the kind of high blood pressure caused by certain diseases and infections.

Congressman Walter B. Jones' Appreciation Night, postponed one week because of the recent ice storm, is set to go this Friday night, Jan. 19, and the co-chairmen say enthusiasm is running higher than ever.

David E. Reid Jr. and Hugh C. Winslow of Greenville say a large crowd is expected to attend the district-wide salute to Jones. They report plans by most counties around the First District to send large delegations.

The program, officially undergirded by a proclamation from Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West that Friday is Walter B. Jones Appreciation Day, begins at 6 p.m. with a social hour at the Greenville Moose Temple.

Dinner follows at 7. Then nine speakers will pay 2-minute tributes to the congressman. Jones will respond with a few brief remarks and Marvin Speight of Farmville, one of Jones' most ardent supporters, will conclude the program.

Speakers will be Mayor West of Greenville, Dr. Rachel Davis of Kinston, Phil G. Sawyer of Elizabeth City, Mayor Etheridge

H. Ricks of New Bern, Clarence W. Griffin of Williamston, City Councilman Clarence Rawls of Washington, Mayor William R. Flowers of Plymouth, Greenville Jaycee President Julian R. Vainright and East Carolina University President Leo W. Jenkins.

Co-chairman Reid will be master of ceremonies and Winslow will introduce Congressman Jones for his remarks. Rev. Tommy J. Payne of Greenville's Oakmont Baptist Church will give the invocation. Music will be provided by Greenville organist Virginia Taylor and by the popular 20-piece East Carolina University Pep Band, directed by George W. Knight Jr.

Tickets for the dinner, social hour and program are $3.50 each and have been made available throughout the district. Persons unable to locate tickets in their areas may contact the committee co-chairmen or the three points of public sale in Greenville—Beddingfield's Pharmacy, Bigg's Drug Store and Carolina Grill. Any tickets remaining Friday night will be available at the Moose Temple entrance.

The Werry Clinic Don't Make An Issue Over Being A Leftie

Peter's problem is just as prevalent today as in ancient Biblical times. Yet four modern inventions and machinery place a greater premium on being right-handed. But in sports, the southpaw still is in great demand. So scrapbook this case or mail it to any couple with left-handed kiddies.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE E-562: Peter, aged 7, is our daughter Judy's second oldest child.

"Daddy," Judy asked, "should we try to change Peter into a right-handed child?"

"For he uses his left hand to throw a ball and even tries to write left-handed."

"Perhaps 5 percent of people are left-handed."

And in sport, such "southpaws" often command extra salaries, both as pitchers as well as batters.

Because our school desks and musical instruments are usually built to favor the right-handed folks, this hampers the lefties.

You readers have seen how the lefties write, for they bring their left hand down from the top of the page and thus work in an upside down posture, which is awkward.

As a result, we usually suggest that lefties be taught to write with the right hand, merely because of efficiency.

A generation ago some parents worried about causing their left-handed children to stutter if they changed their handedness.

That is an unnecessary fear if parents don't yell and scold and constantly checkmate the youngster by calling:

"No, no, Peter! Use your other hand!"

One explanation underlying our preference for one hand or the other, is based on the position of the unborn baby in its mother's womb.

If its left shoulder and arm are restricted during the final month of pregnancy, then the right hand obviously gets much more exercise.

For unborn babies twist and squirm and move their arms and legs prior to birth.

Even if a child seems predisposed to use of the left hand, you can tactfully change him, merely by offering him objects so he will reach out with his right hand.

For as soon as the right hand is used more times than the left, he will begin to favor that right hand!

You parents should simply outline your child and thus arrange the environment so that more desired objects will be nearer his right hand.

Then he will be motivated to reach with the right instead of the left hand, and soon you will have made him a right-hander.

Some notable athletes, such as Mickey Mantle, are ambidextrous. Thus, they can bat both ways, and this fact adds to their value to a team.

My brother was left-handed but learned to write with the other hand.

But he still throws with the left.

And the Bible lauds lefties (Judges 20:16):

"Among all this people, there were seven hundred chosen men left-handed; every one could sling stones at an hair breadth, and not miss."

The modern consensus is to deftly teach lefties to use their right hand for writing and musical instruments, but let them continue to throw or bat a ball left-handed.

But don't shout or scream at such youngsters or make a scene over the issue of handedness!

Send for my 200-point "Test for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and learn how to be a tactful parent.

It takes brains and forethought to rate tops as a parent, for childbirth is natural but child-rearing is not!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Telephone Lines Badly Damaged In Recent Storm

TARBORO — The severe winter storm which last week dumped snow, sleet and freezing rain on much of eastern North Carolina caused an estimated $250,000 damage to facilities of Carolina Telephone.

The storm left 29 communities temporarily without long distance service, rendered 10,205 telephones inoperative, and knocked out 2,252 of the company's long distance circuits. This damage would have been considerably greater but for the fact that much of the company's long distance network consists of cable and microwave facilities.

Heaviest hit were Kinston and surrounding communities where ice and falling tree limbs disrupted all long distance service via each of the three routes serving the area.

A task force of some 1,500 telephone people worked long hours to restore service. Men, material and equipment from less severely affected sections were shifted to locations where the heaviest damage was experienced. Their work was often hampered by icy conditions and hazards created by fallen power lines.

Telephone service was maintained in 30 exchanges through the use of emergency generating equipment after commercial power failures.

It was anticipated that all but about five per cent of the inoperative telephones would be restored to service by late Tuesday afternoon.

Princeton, the only exchange still without long distance service was expected to be reconnected to the network on Tuesday.

Telephone subscribers whose service was disrupted should report this fact, along with the length of time their telephone was inoperative, to the company at once if such a report has not been made.

As the final phases of the restoration work continues, Carolina Telephone thanked its customers for their patience and understanding.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Queen of ♠ North and South were destined to suffer a setback when this hand was dealt at the Fall National tournament recently held in New Orleans. A contract of four hearts was reached at virtually every table and the opening lead selected by West was the queen of diamonds.

Declarer usually ducked the first round, but then won the continuation with North's ace and cashed the ace and king of hearts. Both opponents followed suit; however, the queen remained outstanding.

The only legitimate chance left was to run the spades and hope that the hand with the queen of hearts had at least three spades, so that declarer would have an opportunity to discard a losing diamond before the defense could get in to cash out.

As it developed, however, East ruffed the third round of spades and cashed the king of diamonds to complete book for his side, and the defense subsequently scored a club trick to defeat the contract.

NEW YORK (AP)—Gains and losses were about equal early this afternoon as weakness in blue chips continued to depress averages. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 1.33 at 891.41.

The market was continuing a process similar to that of the past five sessions when the industrial average sagged but gains outnumbered losses on the New York Stock Exchange. The difference today was that as the session wore on, gains no longer were more numerous in the total list.

Aside from profit taking on early 1968 strength of blue chips, the reason most often cited for current action was extreme uncertainty over President Johnson's forthcoming messages to Congress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 323.3 with industrials off 1.5, rails up .1 and utilities up .2.

Gulf & Western and Armour became very active following a published report that they are discussing merger. Gulf & Western backed away from an early gain and traded unchanged. Armour held a 1-point gain.

General Dynamics was down 2 and Grumman 1 following news that Great Britain had canceled an order for F111 jets which are made by those companies.

New York Central was down

Broughton Urges Uniform Policy

RALEIGH (AP)—J. Melville Broughton Jr. says North Carolina's teachers and state employees retirement system should have a uniform policy for all its members.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate said in a letter Monday to Edwin Gill, trustee chairman of the system, that all members of the system would have the opportunity to retire "without prejudice as of June 30 following their 65th birthday."

Broughton said the lack of a uniform policy gives some members advantages not available to others.

Farmer And Son Drown In Pond

Anti-American Leader Ousted

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnam's most outspokenly anti-American general has been replaced as commander of the forces on the western and southern approaches to Saigon.

The new commander, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Van Thinh, took over the 25th Vietnamese Division from Brig. Gen. Phan Trong Chinh on Jan. 14. The division has been rated by both Americans and Vietnamese as the worst in the country.

American pressure for nearly two years failed to force the ouster of Gen. Chinh, and the issue developed into a major dispute. Senior Vietnamese officers agreed with the charges of Chinh's ineffectiveness but refused until recently to fire him because they didn't want to appear to give in to American pressure.

Chinh was put on sick leave about a week ago, and informed sources said he still is in that status. There had been no previous indication that he was ill.

The new commander of the 25th Division is considered tough and aggressive. He also is said to work closely with American advisers, something Chinh prided himself on not doing.
