Riggs Honored By Ayden Jaycees

AYDEN — Ralph Riggs was presented the Ayden Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award last night — the eleventh annual presentation of the honor given by the local club.

Congressman James Gardner spoke to the 200 persons attending the presentation program. The Republican, an announced candidate for the North Carolina Governor's chair made no mention of that race, but instead suggested that citizens take a more active interest in politics and vote for a candidate for what he stands for, "not because he is a Democrat or a Republican."

The Fourth District Congressman, from Rocky Mount, said "there is not anything you do that does not revolve around politics."

He charged that in Washington, "Disney Land East . . . nobody is concerned how they spend your money . . . about the war in Viet Nam . . ." The United States "is in more trouble today than ever before. There is major warfare in Viet Nam and in major cities of the United States."

He continued, "the things I see happening in America today . . . concern me. I hope you are concerned this year."

The congressman, reporting he has counted 23 policemen between the Capitol and the House Office Building to protect Congressmen walking the two blocks, stressed there has been a "complete break-down of decency and law and order."

In 1968, voters should "back the type of people in government that have the backbone to stand up and speak out and stop what is happening."

"We have to respect the law and obey it," Gardner emphasized.

Those in politics, he continued, "should not only stand up and accept applause, but should stand up and do something about it."

"The breakdown of law and order concerns every citizen in the U.S. We saw a revolution last summer. When the press glorifies people . . . such as Stokely Carmichael . . . with this kind of idea, what can we expect," he continued.

"Half of the problem is an irresponsible press," the congressman charged. "They (the press) have a great responsibility today."

"I would like to see it all end . . . and if the people knew they

Real Intentions

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. officials say a massive build-up of Communists forces along South Vietnam's frontier is evidence North Vietnam may have no intention of scaling down the war in the near future.

U. S. military authorities in Saigon report an estimated 35,000 Communists regulars are massed in the buffer zone separating the two Vietnams. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U. S. commander in Vietnam, was predicted "a resurgence of enemy initiatives" around the end of the month.

U. S. policy-makers said Thursday that North Vietnam's military actions are considered by President Johnson and his advisers an important indication of North Vietnam's real intentions in its present peace offensive.

North Vietnam's stated price for peace talks is an unconditional end to U. S. bombing. Johnson's principal price for ending the bombing, officials said, is a firm indication from Hanoi, either by action in the war or by assurance through diplomatic channels, that a bombing halt would bring immediate Communist de-escalation.

Johnson has long since ruled out what officials describe as a "one-sided talk and fight" procedure — a situation in which the U. S. would stop the bombing and join in peace talks while the war otherwise continued unabated.

Rioters Absent As Enterprise Crew Arrives

By KENNETH ISHII
SASEBO, Japan (AP) — Sailors from the nuclear-powered U. S. aircraft carrier Enterprise came ashore today for the first time in Japan after most of the violent student demonstrators against the ship's visit had left town.

Because of the violence, some of it only a few hours earlier, the first 325 sailors ashore from the 75,000-ton carrier were kept inside the U. S. Navy base for

Jury Ponders Intimidation Case Verdict

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — A jury of 12 men retired at 10:23 this morning to consider the fate of nine men accused of conspiring to intimidate school officials and other citizens in Rowan and Cabarrus Counties.

U. S. District Court Judge Edwin M. Stanley, in a 50-minute charge to the jury, outlined the legal aspects it was to consider.

Stanley said in order for the jury to convict the nine defendants or any one of them, four things must be proven beyond reasonable doubt:

—That two or more of the defendants conspired together or reached a common agreement to achieve an illegal end or to achieve a legal end by illegal means.

—That the defendants conspired to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate the alleged victims.

—That one or more of the alleged victims is a citizen of the United States.

—That the conspiracy was directed against the exercise by the citizens of rights guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution.

two hours. Then the restriction was lifted and the sailors relaxed in what is described as "the best liberty port in Japan."

They were followed by some 3,000 more sailors from the carrier and its escorting frigates, the nuclear-powered Truxtun and the conventionally powered Halsey.

In the bar and cabaret district, about 300 Socialists and Communists staged a sitdown in a street. Some sailors turned away and walked in the opposite direction.

No other incidents were reported.

As the radical leftist student demonstrators left town earlier, they vowed to return in strength Sunday for another violent protest against the first visit to Japan of a nuclear-powered surface ship. Their numbers had diminished from 800 to 400 during three days of battles with police in front of the naval base.

About 400 rock-throwing students tried to push past the police barricades outside the base's main entrance this morning as the big carrier was anchoring offshore, out of their sight.

About 800 charged the police Wednesday and about 700 Thursday. In each case the police, making their stand at a bridge leading to the base's main gate, repelled the students with tear gas, clubs and blasts from water cannons.

After the clash today, about 200 students snake-danced to a housing compound for U. S. Navy families but left after about 10 minutes of throwing rocks at Japanese police who set up barbed wire barricades. American children played unconcerned inside the compound, about 300 yards away.

Police said 10 policemen, four students and two Japanese reporters were injured today, all at the bridge, and eight persons were arrested.

Nearly Overshadows War Among Voters

Lawmakers Say Anger Over Crime Rising Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress members say Vietnam was her safe neighborhood.

The anger over crime was listed by nearly all congressmen surveyed. And it was reflected when President Johnson's State of the Union appeal Wednesday night for stiffer anticrime measures brought more cheer from congressmen than any other proposal.

Rep. Graham Purcell, D-Tex., said he returned from home convinced the people want enactment of such legislation to be high on Congress' priority list.

"Vietnam is a depressing pall that hangs over everything," said Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla. "But crime and the riots are really more an issue than Vietnam."

As for the war, most congressmen said they found frustration and disillusionment at home—but a determination not to end the conflict without an honorable settlement.

"I ran into fewer 'invade North Vietnam and bomb them back into the stone age' people than those for negotiation," said Rep. Andrew Jacobs Jr., D-Ind. "But the largest number are unhappy the war exists, would like to get it over with, but have few suggestions on how to do it."

Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., disagreed.

"The majority of our people would like to move faster and get it over with," Poage said. "The doves are in the minority."

The congressmen also found strong feelings against Johnson's proposed tax increase, government spending and the activities of militant Negro leader Stokely Carmichael and French President Charles de Gaulle.

Said Rep. Jack Edwards, R-Ala.: "People can't understand why we continue to give De Gaulle gold for dollars and don't insist that France start paying its $6 billion World War I debt."

Strong opposition to the tax increase was reported throughout the country—but many Democrats, and a few Republicans said they believed people would go along with an increase that had strings attached.

Institute's Greene County Study Sees Urban Center City Potential

SNOW HILL—Greene County has the potential to become an "urban center city" in the future, according to a report on an economic and development study of the county conducted by the Regional Development Institute at East Carolina University.

The study report was presented at a Thursday night meeting of civic leaders here by Thomas W. Willis, director of the Development Institute.

Willis outlined the county's key problems as a loss of population, low per capita income and an adverse ratio of services to manufacturing.

The survey, Willis reported, showed an excellent young labor supply and availability of technical training. The report also indicated that the county's central location in the Coastal Plain is a plus factor.

The report showed that the county's climate and soil make it ideal for truck farming and its location makes it ideal for a distribution center. Greene is surrounded by Lenoir, Pitt, Wayne and Wilson counties which are heavily populated.

Willis said, "For too long Greene County has been told that it should be dissolved and portions annexed by surrounding counties or that it should be content to serve as a bedroom community for workers in other counties."

According to the institute director, the study report shows that "Greene is one of the best locations in Eastern North Carolina for industry . . . and need not accept theories" that it does not have the potential.

He noted that Greene is one of the best locations for industry because of the nearness to educational and medical facilities and transportation outlets.

Willis emphasized, however, that "full-time professional help must be secured to direct the county's efforts" toward progress.

The report recommended the Greene County government should allocate the prestige and responsibility to the Greene County Economic Development Commission as it does to other departments to allow it to encompass the cost of the development projects suggested in the report.

Willis said a full-time economic development specialist to head the development commission is a top priority.

Ice Storm Damage Is Running Into Millions

By SONNY McLAWHORN
Reflector Staff Writer

Damages caused by last week's ice storm are expected to reach the millions of dollars, according to figures presented yesterday by local city officials to representatives of the State Civil Defense Agency.

Under the law, federal funds may be provided only to supplement the temporary restoration of essential public services, according to John Davis, State CD engineer.

Col. David Spivey, commander of Area A from Washington, N.C., reminded the group that a reasonable estimate would be needed to determine whether federal assistance for restoration could be obtained.

"Even though city utilities are profit-making," said Davis, "they are eligible for possible federal aid."

Davis reminded the group that catastrophes such as the recent ice storm serve to underline the need for a central communications system.

Preliminary figures indicated that $114,600 would be needed to restore the Greenville system on an operating basis. In a letter to Davis, Utilities Director Leonard Bloxam pointed out that it "would take 20 days for a 50-man crew to clean up the damage" caused by the recent ice storm.

Ayden, perhaps hardest hit by the storm, submitted an estimate of $170,000 to restore (Continued on page 12)

'High Accident' Areas Improved

RALEIGH (AP) — The State Highway Department has completed improvements on 174 "high accident" locations on North Carolina roads, the N. C. Traffic Authority was told Thursday.

Reporting on the recently started program attacking dangerous areas, Highway Administrator W. F. Babcock said improvements are under way at an additional 109 sites, 178 others have been investigated and 250 more are under investigation now.

Babcock said the Highway Commission has committed thus far about $21 million for safety improvement projects. He said the program is on schedule and will be completed as planned in 1971.

Dr. Charles Carroll, superintendent of public instruction, told the authority there were 1,247 accidents involving school buses during the 1966-67 school year. They included seven fatalities, only one of whom was a school child.

Carroll said the school year saw school buses travel nearly 62 million miles, carrying nearly 600,000 pupils.

During the first three months this year, he said, there have been 216 school bus accidents as compared with 267 during the same period last year.

Engaged Couples Often Select The Ring Together

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am planning to become engaged in the near future and my boy friend and I are having a big difference of opinion on something I want you to settle.

I would like to have an engagement ring made with yellow gold. My boy friend prefers white. He says that since he is paying for it, he should pick it out and I should take what I get and like it. I told him that since I'm going to be wearing the ring, I should be the one to pick it out.

I also told him that most girls pick out their own engagement rings after the boy tells the girl how much he wants to spend. He doesn't agree with me and wants me to show him where it says it is all right for the girl to pick out her own ring.

SAN MATEO
DEAR SAN: You two sound as tho you're ready for a BOXING ring, not an engagement ring. It doesn't "say" anywhere that the girl or the boy should select the ring. Engaged couples usually select the ring together. That way the man is certain his sweetheart gets a ring she will enjoy wearing, which should please them both.

DEAR ABBY: This morning I took my 6-year-old son to the dentist. We were the first appointment and arrived at the dentist's office right along with the dentist. He removed his coat and turned to give us a cordial greeting. To my amazement, this dentist was wearing a necktie with a most repulsive nude woman painted on it. I was shocked, as this dentist came very highly recommended. I didn't tell my husband as he would have scolded me for not leaving immediately.

My teen-age daughter has an appointment with this dentist next week. Should I send her to his office alone or go with her? Or should I cancel her appointment and report that dentist to the dental association? Do you think this man is safe to be around children? He is middle-aged, married, and very well off.

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: I doubt that the dental association would do much about a dentist's choice of ties, altho, I agree, yours showed very poor taste. I wouldn't worry about the safety of my children in this case, either. But if you are concerned, have your children take their teeth elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: Like so many of your correspondents, I never expected to be writing a "Dear Abby" letter—but here I am:

This is in reference to the "retired" school teacher who was given a farewell dinner party and a gift by her colleagues, then changed her mind and returned to resume her duties.

One of her colleagues wrote to say that he had collected the money for the "retirement gift" and dinner and was now red-faced because the teacher had not retired after all. It was even suggested that she return the gift.

Why was this "retiring" teacher honored in the first place? Because she had given long years of faithful service and had earned the right to retire, right? This being the case, perhaps she ought to have been welcomed back with outstretched arms.

The fact that she decided to return in no way diminishes her contributions for which her fellow teachers honored her. I see no reason for the honored one to return the gift or to be embarrassed because she postponed her retirement.

SPOKE MY PIECE
DEAR SPOKE: When you put it that way, neither do I. How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

They're Asking For Suggestions

Tobacco interested individuals who have suggestions concerning the tobacco problem should plan now to be heard by the House Tobacco Subcommittee.

The committee will hold hearings in Eastern North Carolina next week, with one of them scheduled for Greenville.

The first hearing will be held in Lumberton on Jan. 24. The congressmen will then come to Greenville where they will spend that night.

Here, hearings will be held in the Moose Lodge from 9 a.m. until noon on Jan. 25 at that time anyone interested in the flue-cured tobacco problem can testify. The committee will also hold a hearing in Durham on Jan. 26.

The tobacco industry has been beset with many problems in recent years and our farm leaders must have some good ideas on what can be done to alleviate them.

Opinions that the congressmen hear on this trip may have much to do with the type legislation that is drafted in the future concerning the tobacco program.

The committee has asked that those wishing to testify notify Mrs. Christine S. Gallagher, clerk of the committee, Room 1301, Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

We would suggest that those who do choose to be heard present concrete suggestions for improving the tobacco program. It is only in this way that congressmen who will guide future legislation can learn what is needed at the grass roots.

Specific Issues Still Avoided

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH — Political observers and analysts, factions and financiers are busy these days trying to stake out the various candidates for governor on specific issues.

Smoke out may be a better phrase. It isn't easy in the early stages of a campaign to get a candidate to take a firm, irrevocable stand on certain controversial issues, especially those in which public opinion may be shifting. The candidates themselves are cautious at this stage. They are not ready to commit themselves completely on every issue that is raised. Campaigning for public office—such as the governorship—requires a large amount of listening as well as speaking.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

pressure of a political campaign such as the one in prospect for May, 1968, builds up steadily as the candidates and the important issues gain more and more public exposure.

Dodging doesn't work and the candidates know this. Their answers to questions on issues may be qualified but they cannot be disguised for long.

Issues Emerging
Very soon the pertinent issues emerge and the candidates are compelled to take a stand and express themselves. As yet, this had not materialized entirely for the 1968 primary campaigns but undoubtedly it will prior to May 4.

What issues? Primarily state issues—additional sources of revenue for local governments, a tobacco tax, liquor by the drink, highways, higher education, public school. All these and more will emerge as the campaigns progress.

Great Concern

The area of greatest concern however is how the votes will balance the state issues and positions of the state's candidates against the national administration's policies and positions.

Democratic party officials concede, perhaps unwillingly, that the state party ticket will be forced to run under the cloud of disension, dissatisfaction and open revolt against the national ticket and policies of the present administration, both foreign and domestic.

Yet at least one high state party official feels it would be "foolish" for candidates on the state party ticket to try to disassociate themselves from the national party's candidates and platform.

Present A Dilemma

This will present a dilemma. A majority of North Carolina Democrats do not agree with the overall national Democratic administration's policies and are divided on whether to support President Johnson. Perhaps as some party officials claim Johnson could carry North Carolina again if the presidential election were held tomorrow. But there are many who doubt it.

The question obviously will take time to solve.

That Vacuum Left By The Plight Of Britain

It's a sobering experience to watch an empire crumble . . . something not many generations have witnessed.

But well within the lifetime of most of us, the British Empire died; and Great Britain itself — the heart of an empire-past — is struggling to keep its head above water.

For generations the Empire had fought tyrants and patriots, large and small; waged small wars and great wars, forged chains of commerce throughout the world.

The Bank of England was the banker to the world; British law was known in the farthest reaches of a world much larger than now.

The power of Empire was marshalled against the Kaiser, and the bloodletting and economic strain was felt in the aftermaths. But the next generation was ready to fight the greatest of all England's wars. The price of victory was Empire.

Economists, philosophers, statesmen and the man-on-the-street can all point to factors they know to be the root of England's present plight . . . that does not concern us here.

But what we have seen happen to England in these recent years and months was inconceivable only a scant generation or so ago.

The English, more than ever, are now an island people. Their spheres of military and economic influence have shrunk to a shadow of their former might, and we're told greater tightening of resources lie ahead.

History may be kind to England . . . depending much upon who will write it. Today's financial plight and its repercussions are leaving a vacuum of power in a world that abhors vacuums.

Who will be bold enough and strong enough to fill it?

No Trimmings To His Speech

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's State of the Union message to Congress Wednesday night was not one of his masterpieces.

He cut it to the bone. No trimmings. And also no color. No hint this would be his most critical year with its presidential election. No political overtones. Just straightaway.

And two of his main points at least — Vietnam and an income tax boost — were simply repetitions of his 1967 State of the Union message.

This was the way he chose to launch his 1968 presidential campaign—no one seems to doubt he will run again although he hasn't said yes or no — for every thing he says this year will affect some voter's view of him.

In short, he left the heat and the oratory for later this year. He confined himself strictly to American conditions.

He didn't even go into details about the one thing which has kept the Vietnam pot bubbling and boiling. This was North Vietnam's suggestion Jan. 1 — it could be a phony — that it is willing to start peace talks if the United States will stop the bombing unconditionally, and all other acts of war.

Ever since Hanoi made this suggestion American critics have called for an end to the bombing, either temporarily, to see what Hanoi is up to, or permanently.

Johnson ignored the critics directly, simply saying the bombing would stop if talks "took place promptly."

But the one thing he made clear — despite all the criticism he has had to endure because of the war and the fact that a war still going on at election time may affect the outcome — is that the United States will continue the war.

This is the same position he took in his State of the Union message last year. Last year he also asked Congress to impose a six per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes. Congress ignored him in 1967. Wednesday night he asked for the surtax again, but now he wants a 10 per cent hike.

He had hardly anything new to add to what he said last year about trying to prevent crime in the streets and asked Congress this year to approve the crime control proposal he made in 1967.

In delivering his televised message at the Capitol before a joint session of House and Senate he used exactly the same technique he adopted in 1967: A minimum of gestures and facial expressions.

This, no doubt, is the technique he will use in the campaign. He has been increasingly careful for at least a year about his public image. The year 1967 was a turning point for him.

In last year's message his method changed from previous years in sentence structure. At that time he eliminated the over-use of short sentences. And last year's, like this year's, had no trimmings.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT STARTED IN EDEN

Food experts tell us that we hunger for the most part for calories—not vitamins or proteins; only for calories. Of course we all know what calories do to the waistline. If we could just get hungry for vitamins and proteins we could do a little something about this problem of overweight. But when hunger arises, it is for calories.

It is probably not stretching the application of this fact to the breaking point to remind ourselves that usually the things we want most are the things which would actually do us harm if we got them.

Calories have an important place in human diet. So does wealth in the general makeup of a man's life; so does love of power; so does gay and carefree spirit which enables us to let down after protracted periods of hard work. But the trouble is that we want wealth and position and pleasure too much. These have their place in life, but just as our hunger is almost exclusively for calories, so our desires for life's benefits usually lead us to want things that may very easily do us harm.

Maybe this is what the theologians have in mind when they talk about original sin—a greater hankering after things that will hurt us than after the things that will help us. Adam and Eve seem to have given a bad twist to the minds and natures of us all.

Domino Theory's Source

WASHINGTON — One of the most discussed political theories of our time is the so-called "domino theory" which the Administration uses to justify most of the reasons why we are in Vietnam. The domino theory is based on the premise that countries in Southeast Asia are like so many dominoes, and if one falls, the next one will fall until every country out there is down and taken over by godless communism.

While there has been a great deal of talk about the domino theory, very little attention has been paid to the man who originally thought it up, and I decided it was time somebody talked to him. His name, it turns out, is Sam Domino and he lives in Forest Hills, N. Y., where I found him on a recent Sunday afternoon playing gin rummy.

When I expressed surprise at this, he explained, "Dominoes bore me."

"Mr. Domino, your domino theory is the touchstone of our American military and diplomatic thrust in Southeast Asia. Could you explain how you thought it up?"

"Well, one evening we were having a buffet and there were about 20 people lined up with plates waiting for some chicken cacciatore when my uncle, who was first in line, slipped and fell backward. He knocked over my aunt standing in back of him and she, in turn, knocked over my cousin, who knocked over my son and so in until all 20 people were on the floor. It suddenly occurred to me that if this could happen to people, it could happen to countries."

"So what did you do?" "I wrote a letter to John Foster Dulles, who was then our secretary of state."

"But who named it the domino theory?" "My wife. She said when she read the letter, 'Sam, put your name on it or they won't give you any credit.' At first I was reluctant to do so, but then I figured I had nothing to lose so I specifically said that if they used any part of my letter, they'd have to mention me as the author of the theory."

"Much to my surprise, Dulles answered the letter. He said that up until I had written the State Department had been fooling around with brinkmanship, which had been advocated by a man named Brinkman, who lived in Bethesda, Md. Dulles felt that the domino theory was a new approach to the cold war, and he thanked me personally for bringing it to his attention."

"How did he know it would work?" "He lined up 20 State Department employees in the cafeteria, and tried the same experiment. When the first one in line fell, the others fell."

A Re-Examination Of Spending

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is one thing salutary about constantly rising prices: they force consumers and businesses to re-examine their spending.

The rise in postage produced dramatic evidence. With the rise, hundreds of thousands of businesses have been studying their mailing lists and the timing and effectiveness of their direct mail promotions, and trimming waste where they find it. This may result in an immediate drop in mail volume and, while the volume may eventually move back toward former levels, much of the waste will be gone forever.

When transportation fares rise, there is always a fall-off in passengers. In New York, traffic experts can precisely estimate the decline in traffic for each nickel rise in subway fares. In Chicago, the experts have been amazingly accurate with their estimates of the drop in passengers with each transit fare rise.

A Case In Point
When photographic film prices were increased last week, I vowed that I would take no more pictures until I have all my color slides fixed. I will probably relent when the vacation season arrives.

When a financial publication increased its price from 50 to 75 cents a week early this month, I arranged with an associate to pick up his copy after he reads it.

As taxes piled on top of taxes have skyrocketed the price of booze, people have shifted their purchasing patterns, liquor dealers tell me. They don't buy less; in fact, total sales have increased. But drinkers buy fewer bottles of cordials and brandies, and more of whiskies. Maybe it's the population increase; maybe people are worried more by taxes and the war in Vietnam.

Services Re-Evaluated
The rise in the costs of services has been sharper than that of goods, and so values have been widely reassessed.

Shoe shines have gone up to 35 cents in most major cities; sales of home shining kits have simultaneously increased.

Sales of drip-dry shirts are booming, not because they look better — which they don't — but because laundries have increased prices so much. They last longer, too, because many laundries iron shirts by putting them on hot forms and jerking the shirts tight. Have you noticed shirts wearing out in the tails, where they are gripped for jerking, before wearing out in the collars?

And so it goes, in businesses and homes. Whenever a price goes up, somebody decides that they can do without the product or service, and a bit of economic waste is eliminated.

Gary's Racial Strain

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

Gary, Ind.—The case of a fireman named Martin Novosel shows that the racial passions of Gary, inflamed by Negro Richard G. Hatcher's successful campaign for mayor last fall, are still eating away at the Democratic party here.

Novosel, an active Democrat, ran the Gary fire department as first assistant chief in the past administration. But when Hatcher was inaugurated as mayor two weeks ago, the new fire chief (a Negro) replaced Novosel with a Negro, demoted him to the rank of private, and assigned him to a fire house in the Negro slums where he is the only white man on his work truck.

This was the kind of political retribution familiar in Hoosier politics. Novosel, like most of Gary's white Democratic leaders, bolted the party last year to back the Republican candidate against Hatcher. But Novosel and his family are prominent members of the Croatian community, a powerful ethnic bloc here. Thus, Novosel's demotion has prompted Croatian leaders to threaten privately the desertion of Lyndon B. Johnson and the entire Democratic ticket in 1968.

Aware of political realities, Mayor Hatcher at this writing is trying to modify the treatment of Novosel (while contending that anti-Negro prejudice by Novosel justifies some demotion). But even if this fire is put out, a dozen other blazes threaten the Democratic party's racial coalition.

That's why national Democratic leaders have been watching this grimy steel city (pop. 180,000) with horrified fascination. Because the Democrats can remain the nation's majority party only by continuing the coalition of Negroes and white ethnic elements, racial tensions could split the party nationally as it has in Gary.

White Democratic leaders here, far from burying their differences with Hatcher, remain sullen. They harbor grievances at the intervention in Hatcher's behalf by the Johnson administration and by Senator Birch Bayh, and hint at retribution. And unless President Johnson and Bayh win the usual huge majorities here, they cannot possibly carry Indiana this year. Actually, some of Hatcher's worst white enemies admit he is no extremist and is infinitely more honest than many sticky-fingered predecessors in city hall. His main post-inauguration activity has been eminently non-racial: coaxing U. S. Steel Corporation Gary's paramount economic influence, into funneling foundation grants into the community.

Nevertheless, hostility has not subsided. Neither side has done much toward racial accommodation. While travelling to New York for foundation money, Hatcher has not yet met face-to-face with white leaders in Gary.

Racial rivalry will worsen in strictly party matters. Hatcher is pondering putting his own slate against the regulars in county elections this year. He may try, probably unsuccessfully, to purge white precinct committeemen who defected to the Republicans last year.

Even Hatcher's announced crusade against organized crime is looked at with suspicion by the antagonistic white leadership. They suspect — pect he will hit the horse parlors frequented by white steel workers but leave untouched the multi-million dollar policy racket run by and for Negroes. Accordingly, if Hatcher cannot complete the Herculean labor of eliminating the policy racket, it will be taken as a sign of bad faith by the white community.

Although Hatcher has received nothing like the post-election white backing enjoyed by newly-elected Negro Mayor Carl Stokes in Cleveland, neither has Hatcher gone as far toward conciliation as Stokes. Rather, Hatcher's inner circle privately attacks Stokes as selling out by appointing so many whites. As a result, secret strategy conferences in the Hatcher administration have just about decided to name a Negro as controller, de facto deputy mayor in Indiana cities. For whites in the Democratic party and the business community, this would be the point of no return.

 behind him. This was proof enough as far as he was concerned.

"And so the domino theory was then practically applied to the countries in Southeast Asia?"

"Yup. From then through the Kennedy and Johnson Administrations our whole commitment in that part of the world has been based on my theory. If it hadn't been for my wife, no one would have ever heard of me."

"You must be very proud."

"I am, but I'm starting to get allittle worried."

"What is that?"

"The other night I had another party and again my uncle was first in line and again he fell, but this time everyone was braced for it and no one else fell. It shot my domino theory to hell."

"You'd better get off a letter to Dean Rusk right away."

"My wife said I'd better forget it. I've caused enough trouble already."

Uphold Verdict In Safecracking

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court handed down an opinion Thursday upholding the conviction of Tilton Gallimore Jr. in Davidson County on charges of safecracking and conspiracy.

In an unusual action, the high court made its decision several days ago but withheld its release until Thursday "for reasons sufficient unto itself."

Judge Allen H. Gwyn sentenced Gallimore last June in Davidson Superior Court to 14 to 20 years for breaking into a safe at a tire company.

CRUCIAL QUESTION

The chances are good that Bobby will get the right answer . . . that is, if Bobby has been given sufficient knowledge to put this problem within the limits of his capability! And don't believe that any of these new electronic brains are any smarter than Bobby. Before one of them undertakes its task it must be fed every fact essential to arriving at an accurate solution.

Many folks worry about the youth of our nation. Too many boys and girls are coming up with tragically wrong answers to some of life's crucial questions.

But there is nothing inherently wrong with our youth. We simply must provide them, early enough and continuously, with the moral and spiritual understanding which life's problems demand.

The right program of religious training today will make possible right answers tomorrow.

New, Low 10-Cent Charge For Forwarding Address

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien announced today a new low charge of 10 cents each for obtaining forwarding addresses from the post office.

The 10-cent fee, effective immediately, cuts by one-third the 15-cent charge applying since January 7.

The 10-cent fee, effective immediately, cuts by one-third the 15-cent charge applying since January 7.

The 15-cent charge was established tentatively by the Department on January 7 until further study could be given to the postal costs involved.

The new lower rate ordered today by the Postmaster General was developed by the Department in cooperation with its Mailers Technical Advisory Committee, representing all segments of the mailing industry.

O'Brien said the rate may be adjusted again after additional operational experience has indicated costs even more precisely. The charges will be based on the costs to the Department.

Earlier, provisions were available under which mailers of second-class matter (publications) and third-class material (largely advertising) could obtain forwarding addresses. The charge was a minimum of 10 cents each on second-class mail and 8 cents each on third-class mail.

It was also possible for those sending fourth-class matter (primarily parcel post) to obtain a forwarding address under limited conditions where the parcel was undeliverable at the address given. Thus, the total cost of getting a return address was variable, depending upon the charges involved in returning the parcel to the sender.

Under the new uniform regulations, in order to obtain a forwarding address, a mailer must endorse the envelope or cover "Address Correction Requested."

The destination post office then will determine whether a forwarding address has been left on file by the addressee, and provide it to the sender upon payment of the fee.

ALL DUE TO A MOUSE

FALMOUTH, Maine (AP) — Four fire engines were sent to put out a fire started by a mouse in a kitchen oven. Firemen said a mouse apparently had chewed a wire and caused a short circuit.

Story Of Sun-Blinded Was A Hoax

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A Pennsylvania health official's "concern over the illegal use of LSD by children" apparently motivated him to invent a story that six Pennsylvania college students were blinded by the sun after taking the drug, Gov. Raymond P. Shafer says.

Shafer said Thursday he could offer no other reason why Dr. Norman Yoder, 53, state commissioner for the blind since 1959, fabricated the story.

Yoder, suspended from his job by Shafer, collapsed after revealing the hoax, a state official said, and was sent to a psychiatric hospital in Philadelphia.

The governor revealed the hoax to a news conference just a day after telling reporters he was convinced the incident occurred, based on information from Yoder's superior, Public Welfare Secretary Thomas W. Georges Jr.

Shafer said Yoder, legally blind since he was accidentally hit with a baseball bat 45 years ago, admitted the fabrication to Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett and Robert West, a Justice Department investigator.

Sennett said certain inconsistencies and inadequacies in the case records apparently doctored to fit the story—prompted the questioning of Yoder until he admitted the incident was false. Shafer added that a secretary in Yoder's office read the records to Yoder and he told her what alterations, insertions and deletions were necessary.

The story was first disclosed Jan. 12 in an Associated Press dispatch from Washington. It quoted Yoder as reporting the story originally in a letter to a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare official last November. The AP obtained the letter then contacted Yoder.

Yoder claimed the youths took the hallucinatory drug together some 18 months ago, then lay down in a grassy area near their college and stared, unblinking, at the sun. Yoder, an expert in rehabilitation of the blind, claimed the retinas of their eyes were destroyed.

The story touched off a widespread search by newsmen for identity of the students. Yoder had refused to identify the college or name the students, but said all had resumed academic studies at different schools.

State officials, including Georges, backed his story, as did Joseph Hunt, U.S. commissioner of rehabilitation services. Hunt said in Washington there was never any reason to doubt Yoder's word, that he was always "very careful and cautious in what he said."

Georges also noted Yoder's concern over LSD. "He told me that he had attended a conference last summer where he heard a research ophthalmologist talk on the effects of LSD on the eye," Georges said. "He said he became very much concerned about the large number of youngsters exposed to LSD and felt there must be something he could do as an individual to emphasize the need for more programs to control it."

A 1934 graduate of braille classes in the Cleveland Ohio, public school system, Yoder received a B.A. from Baldwin-Wallace College, Berea, Ohio, an M.A. in political science from Ohio State University in 1938, and a Ph.D. in public administration at Ohio State in 1942.

Governor Doesn't Serve Long Enough, Says Moore

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Gov. Dan Moore says a North Carolina governor does not serve long enough and his four-year term should either be extended or he should be permitted to run for re-election.

Moore expressed this feeling Thursday night in a speech at an awards dinner during the annual Midwinter Press Institute while discussing a study to be made of North Carolina's century old Constitution.

"The Executive Branch should be strengthened," Moore said. "For example, since being in office I have found that four years is a short time for a governor to implement his program. I would hope that the study group would consider extending the term of future governors or allow them to seek re-election."

Moore urged the newsmen to help "in seeing that no North Carolinian fails to have the opportunity to share in the prosperity of the times."

He said "The myriad of good intended programs designed to help the less fortunate of all races has fallen short of the desired goals. In some cases the hope created is already being replaced by frustration."

"What North Carolina needs is not a single-shot do-good-to-day program," Moore said. "This state must have a continuing realistic program of concern and action, involving every aspect of community life. Government on every level does not have all the answers," the governor said. "But it has some — in housing, recreation, etc.—and they should be fully utilized. Private enterprise, civic organizations, and, most especially, the churches have much to contribute. Many individuals from every walk of life must become directly involved."

THANKS TO VEPCO CUSTOMERS

... from the VEPCO men and women who battled to restore electric service under the buffets of last week's storms.

The patience shown by electrically stranded customers was truly wonderful. The men and women of VEPCO want you to know that you have their most heartfelt vote of thanks.

We want you to know, too, that every one of us did his or her level best to shorten the often serious inconvenience you suffered. From the onset of the storm, office workers manned all phones 24 hours a day to receive your trouble calls. But even so, we know many of you faced the discouragement of repeated busy signals as the record volume of emergency calls swamped the lines.

The storm was one of the most devastating and widespread winter storms ever to hit this area. With emergencies facing many parts of the VEPCO area, we borrowed line crews from other areas. And every crew worked night and day to repair and clear the lines.

As Reddy Kilowatt says, it was "tough going." We know it was even tougher for you. Again our thanks for all your patient understanding in this emergency.

Alcindor Tallest Question Mark

By BOB GREEN
HOUSTON (AP) — Lew Alcindor remained the tallest question mark in America today as UCLA and Houston finished preparations for their showdown in the Astrodome Saturday night.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1 rallying point of the awesome Bruins, sat it out Thursday night, a patch covering his injured left eye, as his UCLA teammates rolled over Portland 93-69 in Los Angeles.

It was the 47th straight triumph for Wooden's Wonders, labeled the finest college team ever put together but facing their sternest challenge yet in the powerful Houston Cougars.

"Physically, Houston is probably the strongest team we'll meet," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, who still doesn't know whether Alcindor will be able to play.

"It's all up to the doctors," Wooden said. "He'll have another examination today in Houston. If he's not ready, he won't play. I don't think the doctor will let him unless he can remove the eye patch 24 hours prior to the game."

"I want him to be in there," Houston Coach Guy Lewis said. "If he's not there, the game won't be as meaningful."

With or without big Lew, the game is a sellout, with a record crowd of 55,000 assured for the clash of the nation's top two college basketball teams.

It's also scheduled for national television coverage on the TV Sports Network. The game starts at 9 p.m. EST.

Alcindor, Player of the Year last season as a sophomore, can't be at peak condition. The only practice he's had since injuring the eye a week ago is a couple of laps around the court and a few half-hearted shots at the basket.

He missed both of UCLA's last two games but told campus friends Thursday that the eye felt better and he hoped to play Saturday.

Phase Three For Bucs Next Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
East Carolina's Pirates have gone from one extreme to the other this basketball season—so much so that you can't blame their early-season woes if they don't recognize the Pirates the second time around.

Phase 1 of the ECU season saw the Pirates playing a run-and-shoot game. This was before Christmas. In six starts, of which they lost five, the Pirates yielded an average of 94.9 points a game while scoring 87.

Phase 2 commenced after the Christmas holidays, when something called defense reared its unfamiliar head. In the last five games the Pirates have averaged only 64.8 - points but have given their opponents only 64.2. And of these five games, ECU has won three.

Nobody can say the new-look Pirates aren't giving their partisans an exciting time of it — and simultaneously giving coach Tom Quinn a case of heart failure. Of the five games since Christmas, two have been decided by two points, one by three points—and a pair by a single point.

Despite the comeback, the Pirates still are next-to-last among the nine Southern Conference teams with a 2-4 league record and a 4-7 over-all log. This is something Quinn hopes to take care of in Phase 3 of the season the part in which frequent defeat becomes frequent victory.

Always at their best at home, the Pirates have seven more conference games remaining — and six are on their home court. A few victories here and there could mess up some well-laid plans by their betters in the standings.

Gut can the visitors count on seeing the Pirates use the zone defense that has been the key to their low point yield since the holidays? Absolutely not, says Quinn.

"We'll keep on working on defense in practice, but we won't forget our running game," he says. "Alternately, I hope to have a group of opportunists who will take the break when they have it—and, when they don't, will set up and take only the percentage shots."

No teams in the conference played Thursday night, and none is scheduled tonight.

Monroe Will Not Dodge The Draft

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — If the Army calls him for duty, says rookie Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association, "I will serve. Everyone else has to go."

Monroe, 23, says he'll take his Army physical in Philadelphia Tuesday. But the 6-foot-3 star doesn't think he'll get by the medicals.

"I have a knee injury and I had an operation on my back last year which has not completely healed. I have a soft cartilage, too, something like rheumatism or arthritis."

The former star at Winston-Salem College, who is leading the Bullets in scoring with a 19-point average, was quoted by Charles Rayman of the Baltimore Sun as saying Wednesday night that he wouldn't report for the draft.

"I'm not going into service," Rayman quoted Monroe as saying, "not for any two years. I'm very serious about it. I just now what I want to do."

Here for the Baltimore-St. Louis game Thursday night, Monroe told sports writer Gene Warren of the Greensboro Daily News:

"We had just lost to New York, and I missed a layup that would have tied the score there at the end. It was right after that when I talked with Rayman."

"I was in another world after something like that which goes wrong. If I said anything, I don't remember saying it like that."

The Bullets' front office earlier had denied that Monroe had told the Sun he wouldn't report for Army duty.

Monroe, who said he was surprised that the Philadelphia draft board had called him so soon, maintains he isn't exactly afraid of Vietnam.

"I don't think they would send me there. I'm afraid of guns. In the neighborhood (South Philadelphia) where I grew up, there was a lot of killing. As for my feelings about Vietnam, I'm not in politics so I don't know that much about it."

Monroe said he hadn't expected his draft call for at least another year. "I thought the list was long in Philadelphia," he said.

Gurney Grabs Pole At Riverside At 110.9 MPH

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "The field is awfully closely matched," says Dan Gurney of Sunday's Riverside 500 stock car race, "and the guy who can last for 185 laps is going to be lucky."

Gurney spoke soon after he had posted a record 110.971 miles per hour for two laps over the 2.7-mile Riverside road course Thursday to win the pole position for Sunday's $87,000 NASCAR - sanctioned race for late model stock cars. Gurney, as did seven of the day's 10 qualifiers, drove a new Ford Torino fastback.

David Pearson of Spartanburg, S. C., in a Holman and Moody Ford, won the other front row spot. He was clocked at 110.416 m.p.h.

All of the qualifiers posted marks above the old two-lap mark of 106.721 m.p.h. set last year by now retired Dick Hutcherson.

East Carolina University will play host to Wilmington College tonight at 8 p.m. in a wrestling match at Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates, 2-1, will be after their third win in a row, after having lost their opener to N. C. State. Since then, the Bucs have defeated Duke and defending Southern Conference champion The Citadel.

"They've made a few changes in the track since last year," said Gurney, winner of four of the five Riverside 500s. "Not only that, but this year we have more power, better tires and the new cars seem to be shaped better for speed."

"I look for a pace during the race that will be higher than last year's top qualifying speed, and that means better than 107 m.p.h.," Gurney said. "There are 15 or 20 cars here that are capable of running all day at that speed. We've never had a more evenly balanced field for this race."

Gurney is teamed with Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S. C. in a Glenn Wood Ford. Yarborough made the field in seventh spot at 108.736 m.p.h. "I'm glad I'm in the field," Yarborough said, recalling that he wrecked on tricky Turn 9 of the course only a month ago during tire tests. "The course today was real smooth, though, and I had no trouble."

First Meeting Between Next-Door Neighbors

The East Carolina University Pirates get what is perhaps their toughest test to date Saturday when they travel to Raleigh to meet the North Carolina State University Wolfpack.

Despite the fact that the two schools are neighbors in a basketball sense, they have never met before. Several times in the past the freshmen teams have collided, but this is the first varsity event.

It is hoped by East Carolina fans that it will be the first of many meetings by the two, and preludes the start of a football series starting in 1970.

The Pirates, however, are expected to have their hands full with the powerful Wolfpack, which boasts a 6-5 record, but has lost to some of the top teams in the country. State shows wins over Wake Forest, Maryland (twice), William and Mary, Army, and Atlantic Christian. They have lost to Indiana in overtime, to Boston College, LaSalle, Georgia and third-ranked North Carolina. The latter loss was by just two points.

The two teams have played only two mutual opponents. State thumped Atlantic Christian, 111-52, while East Carolina beat the same team 104-79. Both played on their own home court.

Then State took William and Mary, 88-73, at Raleigh, while East Carolina edged the Indians, 71-70, on the Williamsburg court, a tough place to win.

The Bucs will have to face the stern challenge of speedy Eddie Biedenbach, who leads the State offense with a 13.6 average. But he has spent much of the season with a leg injury which has slowed him somewhat. The last ten days of rest has gone a long way toward curing that.

State has four other players in double figures, Joe Serdich, 12.4, Vann Williford, 12.3, Dick Braucher, 10.5, and Nelson Isley, 10.3.

Overall, the Wolfpack is averaging 75.7 points per game, but has held their opponents to just 66.6.

The Wolfpack has had some trouble rebounding, however, getting outmopped 509-548 this season. Williford is the rebounding leader of the team with a 10.2 mark.

East Carolina, meanwhile, also has five players in double figures. Earl Thompson leads the Bucs with a 17.0 average, followed by Charlie Alford at 15.6, Vince Colbert at 14.1, Jim Modlin at 11.2 and Tom Miller, 10.4.

The Bucs, averaging 76.9 points per game, are not doing as well defensively, giving up 80.9.

While they started out strong, getting nearly 54 per cent of the rebounds around, the Bucs have gone downhill lately in attacking the boards, and now have only four more than their opponents in over 900 loose balls.

State has played the tougher schedule, although the Buc slate is no easy one. The Wolfpack also has a tradition of being very, very hard to beat in Reynolds Coliseum.

But ECU Coach Tom Quinn will be out looking for an upset in the game, and coach Norm Sloan of State knows it. "You can bet one thing," he said. "They'll be fired up for us."

The ECU freshmen will also be looking for a victory, to gain revenge for an 81-79 loss in Minges Coliseum early in the year. The Baby Bucs currently have a two-game winning streak going for them, while the Wolflets lost their last outing to Carolina, 77-66. Overall the Wolflets are 4-3, while the Baby Bucs are 5-3. Besides their own meeting, the two have also met Atlantic Christian. State won, 113-73, while East Carolina took wins of 115-77 and 112-83.

Low Watches Teammates Easily Defeat Portland

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA won its 47th straight game. The Lobos, sixth-ranked in the Associated Press poll, made it 15 in a row by whipping the fifth-ranked Utah Redskins 72-66 before 14,855 at Albuquerque.

With big Lew Alcindor sitting out his second straight game because of his eye injury only 8,311 watched UCLA's easy 93-63 victory over Portland at Pauley Pavilion in Los Angeles. It was UCLA's final game before its heralded meeting with second-ranked Houston in the Astrodome Saturday night.

With Edgar Lacey and Lucius Allen throwing in 24 and 29 points, respectively, UCLA took an early 20-7 lead and had little trouble with the Pilots.

In contrast, New Mexico had to come from behind in the second half to beat Utah. The Lobos were five points down before they ran up an 11-point lead at 59-48, then held off a late bid by the Utes.

Merv Jackson Utah's scoring ace, flipped in 25 points.

Jackson explained, "We had a lot of open shots, but we hesitated with our shots and that hurt us as well as that zone press of theirs late in the second half."

Dick McGuire, former coach of the pro New York Knicks and now a scout for them, watched the game and praised New Mexico as a "sound, well-coached club."

Ron Nelson, with 15 points, led the balanced Lobo attack.

Harry Hall's 23 points led Wyoming to an 81-70 triumph over Brigham Young. In other home court victories, Colorado State U. whipped Seattle 88-79, Denver topped Utah State 100-80, Tennessee Tech thumped Belmont 106-71 and Miami, Fla. edged Jacksonville 76-75.

Granatelli To Go To Court

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Race car builder Andy Granatelli has carried his fight against new U.S. Auto Club restrictions on turbine engines to Federal Court.

Granatelli said a series of USAC rules changes, including reduced air intake areas for turbines, amounted to arbitrary expulsion of his car.

Parnelli Jones, Torrance, Calif., outpaced the field in the 1967 Indianapolis 500 in Granatelli's STP turbocar only to have a bearing burn out with three laps to go.

Granatelli said in New York Thursday he had planned a six-car team this year, using the engine which is too big under the new rule. He contended that USAC has an obligation to let experimental cars compete for a reasonable length of time.

Pro Players Union Gets Recognition

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League players, with a strengthened bargaining line, have received recognition as a union from the owners and will huddle with them next month.

"No date has been set," Detroit guard John Gordy, president of the Players' Association, told a press conference Thursday, "but it probably will be the middle of February."

Dan Schulman of Chicago, the legal counsel for the association, admitted that one of the plays the organization will carry into the meeting is the threat of a strike to gain its demands.

"It's always possible, but I don't conceive of such a thing at the moment," the attorney said. "We are not out to hurt the game, disrupt the league or interfere with its operation, and we do not intend to harm the general public."

Schulman, Gordy, former association president and former player Bill Howton, quarterback Gary Wood of the New Orleans Saints, and Malcolm Kennedy, the association's business administrator, met with the press to explain what the organization is all about.

The players decided last week not to join an outside union such as the Teamsters, and instead to strengthen the Association. To do so, they had to identify themselves as a union.

"We are not back in business at the same old stand—we have a mandate (from the players)," Gordy said.

NFL owners, apparently finding a strengthened players association more acceptable than the Teamsters, recognized it by agreeing to meet with the players.

Among the players' demands are increased salary minimums from $5,500 to $15,000 a year, $500 a player for each pre-season game, a signed contract before reporting to training camp, review of player splits on post-season games, and plans for an increased players' benefit fund.

Gordy said the union would not attempt to negotiate personal contracts, but would back the principle that a player can be represented by a lawyer or business manager.

He expressed hope for an All-Star game between the National and American leagues to build up the players' fund. He also hoped ultimately to bring the AFL players into the organization.

"I don't believe," Javits said, "that the sports fans of this country will sit idly by as our outstanding prospects for the Olympic Games are used by these organizations to further their own selfish motives."

Javits' action seconded that of Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who introduced a bill that would ban the disqualification of any amateur athlete from competition because he had engaged in a meet staged by a rival organization.

But in New York, Avery Brundage, chairman of the International Olympic Committee, warned that any congressional action could jeopardize the entire American Olympic team.

"If the government tries to dictate a settlement," Brundage said, "the entire Olympic team might be ruled ineligible. "One of our basic rules is that the various sports teams be selected by independent amateur federations. We don't permit any sort of government regulation of the entire American Olympic team."

Currently, the AAU and NCAA are fighting over a track meet scheduled for New York on Feb. 9, to be staged by the U.S. Track and Field Federation, an arm of the NCAA.

Several non-collegians are entered in the meet, which is not sanctioned by the AAU, and that organization has threatened to suspend every athlete who competes in it.

A federal panel that has been mediating the dispute for more than two years is expected to hand down a decision before that meet, but both organizations have lately said they might not be bound by it.

Sophomore Zenon Andrusyshyn of UCLA led major college punters last season with a 44.2 yard average on 334 punts.

Congress Is Told Hands Off Feud

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Congress has threatened to crack some heads in solving the dispute over track and field, but has been warned that the effort could result in the disqualification of the entire American Olympic team.

In Washington, Thursday Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., called for congressional action to end the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"I don't believe," Javits said, "that the sports fans of this country will sit idly by as our outstanding prospects for the Olympic Games are used by these organizations to further their own selfish motives."

Javits' action seconded that of Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., who introduced a bill that would ban the disqualification of any amateur athlete from competition because he had engaged in a meet staged by a rival organization.

Coaches Pleased Over Squad Play

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Coaches Lou Saban and Joe Collier are both pleased with the way their squads are shaping up for the American Football League's All-Star game Sunday.

"I certainly have no complaints," said West Coach Saban. "They have worked hard and prepared themselves. All I have to do is make sure everyone executes the plays well and avoids the errors which would destroy the game."

Collier said his East team has plenty of talent to hold its own in spite of the West's nucleus of 11 players from the champion Oakland Raiders.

"Anything can happen in an All-Star game," Collier said. To prove it, he called attention to last year's game at Oakland, which the East won 30-23 after trailing 23-2.

Joe Namath of New York and Bob Griese of Miami alternated at quarterback for the East and were equally sharp with their passes.

The same was true of the West's Daryle Lamonia of Oakland and Len Dawson of Kansas City.

Lamonia and Namath are scheduled for starting assignments, but both coaches plan to make use of all 13 players on their squads.

The squads will polish their timing in brief practice sessions Saturday to wind up preparations.

Kasperak's Ailing Heart Survives New Operation

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A doctor said Mike Kasperak's transplanted heart pulsed on in an "excellent manner" today after withstanding the effect of another major operation for intestinal bleeding.

After the three-hour surgery Thursday night, Dr. Harry Oberhelman Jr. said the stress on the 54-year-old retired steel-worker's ailing liver probably was greater than on his borrowed heart. Oberhelman performed the operation.

Kasperak remained on the critical list.

Kasperak, who received the heart of a dead woman Jan. 6, had his gall bladder removed last Sunday. He has undergone three massive blood transfusions this week.

Even with this tremendous strain, Oberhelman and Dr. Norman E. Shumway, who performed the transplant, concurred in the statement that the heart function was normal.

Oberhelman, member of the team that has watched over Kasperak for nearly two weeks, said that in Thursday's operation the vagus nerve leading to the stomach was cut to check gastric juices that were complicating the bleeding.

The bleeding sites were closed and a tube inserted to decompress the stomach. The tube will remain for a couple of days.

Oberhelman described the process as "standard."

The surgeon also reported Kasperak's liver "looked better to the eye." He said he could not tell further until a report on a biopsy.

Kasperak, the fourth human heart transplant case, was said to be alert and awake after the operation.

In Cape Town, Philip Blaiberg, 58, was reported making such satisfactory progress that his surgeon, Dr. Christiaan Barnard, may permit him to return home by Feb. 8.

Response to the meetings has been excellent, stated Prof. Schmidt, with parents showing enthusiastic reactions to the presentation of ideas which will be used in teaching their children.

An extremely interesting part of the meetings is the showing of a film, "Suzuki Teaches American Children and Their Mothers," which demonstrates the kind of success possible through cooperation of parent, child, and teacher.

According to Prof. Schmidt, the instruction part of the Pilot Project should begin as soon as class organization is completed with participating elementary schools and their principals next week.

GARBAGE CAN TEST

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Scientists at Drexel Institute of Technology have built a huge $69,000 steel garbage can to study the effects of "sanitary" landfill on underground water supplies—and help the nation get rid of its garbage.

The siren was first invented by Thomas Johann Seebeck, a German, around 1800.

Registered Democrat Can Run As Republican

RALEIGH (AP) — In a far reaching decision, the North Carolina Board of Elections has ruled Dr. Earl B. Ruth of Salisbury eligible to run for Congress as a Republican although he is registered as a Democrat.

The board unanimously approved the appeal of Ruth, who wants to re-register as a Republican and run for Congress in the 8th District.

The ruling is without precedent in the state and had the effect of automatically changing Ruth's political registration.

"The board decided that certain actions he (Ruth) took had in fact changed, or substantially altered, his registration," said Alex Brock, the election board's executive secretary.

There have been two other cases in recent weeks of Democrats seeking to register as Republicans who were barred because the counties in which they live do not have fulltime registration. They have learned that the registration books in their counties cannot be opened until after the deadline of filing of candidacy.

The other cases involve Democratic Sen. Jesse Austin of Johnston who took up residence in Wayne County in a vain attempt to register there; and Everett Beaver of Rowan County, who filed a suit against the State Board of Elections to get his registration changed. The suit is pending.

Brock emphasized, however, that the Ruth case does not parallel either the Austin or Beaver cases. He said the difference "is highly technical."

Isaac M. Singer, founder of Singer Sewing Machine Co., was the first man in America to spend a million dollars a year on advertising.

Driver Classes Being Set Up

Two afternoon classes for providing the classroom study portion of driver education will begin Monday, according to Greenville city school Director of Secondary Education Bob Sigmon.

The sessions will be held Monday through Friday from Jan. 29-March 16. One class will be held from 3:20 to 4:20 each afternoon at C.M. Eppes High School and the other class will be at J.H. Rose High School from 4:30 until 5:30 p.m.

The classes will be the final opportunity until summer for students who are approaching driver age to retire the classroom work in preparation for road training. The program is open to in-school and out-of-school youth of eligible age. Out-of-school youth may call the office of the principal for details regarding registration and enrollment.

Sues Airline For Loss Of Husband

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Thelma H. Bubb, widow of a North Carolina businessman who died in the July 19 Hendersonville, N.C., plane crash, is suing for $800,000 damages, charging negligence by Piedmont Airlines.

Also named defendant in the suit, filed Thursday in Circuit Court in Chicago, was Associated Aviation Underwriters, insurer of the plane.

Mrs. Bubb's husband, Grant Bubb, 62, of Hendersonville, was among 79 persons aboard the Piedmont plane when it collided in flight with a private plane carrying three men. There were no survivors.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies barely adequate to short, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 42 to 44; medium, whites: 39 to 41; small, whites: 36 to 39.

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chips gave a somewhat firmer performance but the over-all stock market was thoroughly mixed early this afternoon. Trading was active.

Losses were slightly more numerous than gains.

High quality stocks did well enough so that the Dow Jones Industrial average at noon showed as fall gain of 1.91 at 884.71.

This was a reversal of the pattern which has prevailed for the last several days.

The lack of surprises in President Johnson's State of the Union message removed some of the uncertainty which prevailed in advance of the speech. At the same time, some simmering down in speculative activity followed the decision of the major exchanges to shorten trading hours beginning next week so that brokerage houses could catch up with back office paper work.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 320.5 with industrials off 3, rails unchanged and utilities up 3.

As gold mining stocks reacted to President Johnson's proposals to lift the gold cover on the U.S. dollar, hopes of a gold price increase faded. Gold mining stocks sank.

Aiming active stocks, Federal Pacific Electric National General and Sunray DJ Oil rose a point or better while Armour and U.S. Industries sank a point or so.

Zenith and American Smelting dropped about 2 each. IBM lost about 1½. Ogden Corp. dropped a fraction.

Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange in active trading.

Snow Hill Man Is Reported Missing Since January 9

SNOW HILL — A 60-year-old Snow Hill man has been missing since Jan. 9, at 8 a.m., when he left home for East Lake in Dare County.

Rudolph Marshburn has been missing since making a trip to East Lake to hunt for an outboard motor and tackle box lost on a previous fishing trip on Jan. 1.

The incident was reported to the Greene County Sheriff Department by Marshburn's wife after he failed to return home on Wednesday.

Marshburn's stepson, Wayne Griffin and a neighbor, Earl Jones, went to East Lake last Sunday, where they found Marshburn's pickup truck parked beside the lake. An area search was begun by the Dare County Sheriff Department.

Riggs Honored . . .

(Continued from page 1) would be put in jail," for rioting and violating the law, "it would end," he emphasized.

We are not playing games in Viet Nam, either, Gardner said.

Viet Nam is the "third largest war in the history of this country."

The Congressmen continued, "we are the only nation in the free world big enough and strong enough to protect and defend freedom. We have a responsibility to protect freedom where ever it is."

But he emphasized, "This nation has the responsibility to fully back the fighting," by giving the military full support.

Gardner predicted that congress will approve a 10 per cent income tax surcharge this year and continued, "American people have had their fill of the great society . . . doling out handouts . . . not making taxpayers into tax payers. If the people in Congress don't stop it . . . you will have a 10 per cent increase in tax next year, and the year after next."

"If you are interested in politics and politicians . . . demand they tell you the honest truth, good or bad, and vote for what they stand for . . . not because he is a Democrat or a Republican." Make the candidates tell you how they stand on the issues, he emphasized.

"I hope you are concerned this year. Make this a better America," Gardner said, by being concerned.

Riggs, who received the DSA award, is a Pitt County native and attended Winterville Schools.

The award is presented annually to a man from 21 to 36 years of age for outstanding service to the community.

Married to the former Virginia Cavanaugh, Riggs is a member of the Ayden Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Ayden Rescue squad.

He was recipient of the Jaycees Key Man Award in 1965. The DSA recipient is also a Little League baseball coach.

He is employed as office manager for Pitt-Greene Fertilizer and Fuel Co.

Wade McLamb, a former Ayden DSA recipient who presented the award to Riggs last night, termed the award "the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon a young man."

Jaycee president Al Tempenny presided at the banquet.

Damage . . .

Other towns, and the amounts listed as necessary for temporary repairs include: Edenton, $40,000; Farmville, $13,500; Hookerton, $4,500; Washington, $25,000; Windsor, $40,000 (permanent); and Winterville, $10,000.

Col. Spivey said four dollars per acre would be the amount computed for damage to commercial timberland. Pitt County's timber damages exceeded $800,000, based on the formula.

In summarizing the effectiveness of the meeting, Davis stated that such a gathering was the quickest way to determine fairly accurate damage estimates. "It was necessary that each town submit a preliminary estimate from the official head of the government," explained Davis. Later, official estimates will be submitted by letter to the State CD Agency.

Simpson Fire Dept. Will Get Fire Truck

The Simpson Fire Department will soon be the owner of a 1950 fire truck which has been replaced with a new vehicle by the Greenville Fire Department.

The city requested informal bids on the piece of equipment and four were received. Phelps Chevrolet bid $1,850; International Harvester, $1,200; Billmyer Ford, $1,900 and the Simpson Fire Department, $2,500.

The 500 gallon per minute pumper has been used as a first line piece of equipment prior to its recent replacement.

City Manager Harry Hagerty told the council last night that the city could legally sell the truck to the Simpson Fire Department without taking formal bids.

Councilmen also approved a letter of intent to apply for the second round of Model Cities grants. In an accompanying resolution councilmen authorized the Redevelopment Commission to arrange the application and submit the application.

Greenville had applied on the first round of model cities grants, but lost out.

Mayor Eugene West said the second application can be submitted at a "minimum of expense."

Councilmen also approved the city's application for recertification of its workable program for community improvement. The program has to be recertified periodically by appropriate federal agencies in order to keep federal urban renewal and housing programs under way.

The council approved revisions in its priority list for public improvements projects from 1968 to 1987.

Congressman Jones, Tell Us

Are our officials concerned with the inadequate Postal Service rendered in South and West Greenville?

How much politics is involved in the selection of the site at First and Greene Streets in the remote, semi-isolated River Front area for the building thereon of a new large, consolidated Post Office?

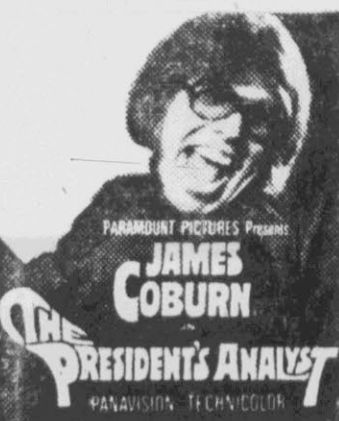

WHICH AREAS OF GREENVILLE ARE TO BE SERVED FROM THIS NEW POST OFFICE AND FOR HOW LONG?

Why should the business people and residents of south and west Greenville be greatly inconvenienced by time consuming trips to a remote, consolidated Post Office?

East Greenville today has two (2) Post Offices, West Greenville has none.

WHY IS WEST GREENVILLE BEING NEGLECTED?
