

North Koreans Board, Seize U. S. Ship At Sea

SEOUL (AP) — The United States reported today a U.S. patrol boat with 83 men aboard was seized by North Koreans in international waters and in Seoul, South Korean troops killed a sixth member of a North Korean assassination team.

A North Korean broadcast charged the vessel was a "spy boat" violating North Korean waters.

The American announcement said the Pueblo, a Navy intelligence auxiliary ship, was boarded by an armed party about 25 miles off the North Korean coast today and taken to Wonsan.

The U.S. announcement said a North Korean patrol boat approached the Pueblo and asked identification. The Pueblo signaled that it was a U.S. boat in international waters and the North Koreans signaled: "Heave to or I will open fire on you."

About an hour later, the announcement said, three more patrol boats arrived, surrounded the Pueblo and North Koreans boarded the American vessel. The Pueblo reported she was requested to follow the North Korean ships into Wonsan and that she had not used any weapons, the announcement said.

The final message from the Pueblo reported it was "going off the air."

The Defense Department said there were 6 officers, 75 enlisted men and 2 civilians aboard the Pueblo.

In Seoul, meanwhile, South

Korean troops tried to round up members of a North Korean team that entered Seoul in an attempt to kill South Korean officials.

A sixth member of the team was shot dead today and a South Korean soldier was killed Monday night in two of several shooting encounters as the Communists tried to elude pursuers.

The army said the Communist infiltrator was found fleeing north along a mountain ridge 10 miles northwest of Seoul and was shot by South Korean soldiers. A submachine gun was found near his body.

The joint anti-espionage operations headquarters announced that a North Korean agent surrendered to authorities of the U.S. 2nd Division Monday night, but the U.S. Army would neither confirm nor deny the report. It was not known whether the man belonged to the terror group that raided Seoul Sunday night.

South Korean units captured another North Korean earlier who said the raid's purpose was to kill President Chung Hee

Park and other high officials.

The government announced that the 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew already in effect for three counties and one city north of Seoul was extended to three other counties northeast of Seoul this evening. The curfew is designed to help government units spot members of the assassination team trying to flee under cover of darkness.

The 31-man team slipped into Seoul Sunday night and shot it out with South Korean police near Park's residence. They killed one police officer and five civilians, and a sixth civilian wounded in the shooting died Monday. Five of the North Korean infiltrators were also killed.

The South Korean Army said the government soldier was shot during a brief skirmish Monday night with an unknown number of gunmen on the northern outskirts of Seoul. South Korean military and police forces kept after the intruders.

North Korea's Radio Pyongyang claimed that the raiders were South Koreans who wanted to overthrow the president.

Searchers Hunt Lost H-Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Searchers using dogsleds and helicopters continue hunting in the icy polar darkness seven miles off Thule, Greenland, for perhaps as many as four U.S. hydrogen bombs lost in the fiery crash of a B52 bomber.

The Pentagon would not say how many nuclear bombs were aboard the plane when it crashed Sunday. But sources said there were probably four of the 1.1 megaton type, with a total explosive force equivalent to more than 4.4 million tons of dynamite — a force 220 times greater than that which incinerated Hiroshima in World War II.

The Pentagon said the devices weren't armed "so there is no danger of a nuclear explosion at the crash site." In its brief statement the Defense Department did not speculate on chances of recovering the bombs but other sources said recovery was doubtful.

Denmark, which owns Greenland, asked the United States for an explanation of the incident.

Denmark forbids flights of planes bearing nuclear bombs over her territory. But Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag said it was impossible to prevent emergency landings such as the plane was attempting when it hurtled into the thick ice of North Star Bay.

In Copenhagen, Danes staged a protest demonstration at the U.S. Embassy.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in Moscow the crash was a "dangerous accident."

Expect Take Bids On PTI Building In April

Architect George Shoe appeared before the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute last night and reported that final plans for the new Classroom and Laboratory Building were nearing completion and that his firm expected to receive bids during the month of April. The new $650,000 building will be ready for use during the fall of 1969.

The present officers of the Board were re-elected for 1968-69 term. Those named were Dr. Robert L. Humber, Chairman; Vernon White, Vice-Chairman and Mrs. Elizabeth Dudley, Secretary.

Upon the recommendations of PTI President William E. Fulford Jr., the Trustees approved a new two-year course in Auto Mechanics, which is to begin next September.

Fulford explained that the Automotive Industry was becoming so highly complex that it now takes longer than one year to train Automobile mechanics.

"There are so many new Electronic and power systems involved with the newer models it is impossible to graduate competent men without an expanded curriculum," stated Fulford.

This new course was also recommended after an extensive survey made by PTI officials in the Automobile Industry throughout North Carolina and Pitt County.

New working committees were appointed by the Board Chairman upon recommendations by President Fulford. New appointments were:

POLICY COMMITTEE — Joe Taft, Wiley Gaskins and Dr. Robert L. Hunter.

PERSONNEL COMMITTEE — Jimmy Brewer, Mrs. David Whitchard Jr. and Robert Ramey.

PROGRAMS COMMITTEE — Corey Stokes, Ed Davenport and J. C. Wynne.

FINANCE COMMITTEE — Vernon White, A. B. Whitley Jr. and C. W. Everette.

BUILDING COMMITTEE — Dr. Robert L. Humber, Joe Taft, Ed Davenport, A. B. Whitley and Vernon White.

Athletic Realignment Sought By School Board

Approve 4-A Conf. For Rose High

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville school board members last night approved a proposed realignment of athletic conferences in Eastern North Carolina that would put Rose High School in the Eastern AAAA conference.

If the proposed realignment is approved at a Saturday meeting of school representatives in Goldsboro, Rose — presently a member of the Northeastern AAA conference — would join Division 1 of the Eastern AAAA group with Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Grainger of Kinston, New Bern and Fike of Wilson.

Under the realignment plan, Division 2 of the conference would include Sanford, E. E. Smith and Ross of Fayetteville, Jacksonville, New Hanover of Wilmington, and Hoggard of Wilmington, while Division 3 would be composed of Broughton, Enloe and Legion of Raleigh, Hillside and Durham of Durham, and Sanderson of Raleigh.

The present Eastern AAAA conference membership includes New Hanover, Fike, Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Jacksonville, Sanford of Fayetteville, Enloe, Broughton and Durham.

Rose High principal Ed Warren said approval of the proposed conference would put the majority of Rose High's Athletic competitors within about a 50 mile radius. (Under the plan, schools would compete with teams in their division.)

Boley Farley, athletic director at Rose High, told the board that attendance at athletic contests should increase because of the "natural rivalry" between towns within the area. He noted that such traditional rivalry does not exist between East and West Carteret, Havelock and Roanoke Rapids that have been on Rose High's schedule in recent years.

The proposed AAAA switch would be "a tougher league" Farley noted, but said, "we hope we can get up to that standard."

Farley emphasized that Washington, a traditional Greenville competitor, and possibly Tarboro would be kept on Rose High's regular schedule as non-conference games.

If the schools approve the re-alignment Saturday, the change would affect schedules beginning in September 1969.

Board members also heard last night a request from a group of South Greenville residents asking that the board consider constructing the next elementary school in the Lynndale area.

Fred Mattox, a Lynndale resident, acted as spokesman for the group he described as "living south of the Greene Mill Run."

Mattox said residents of that area "feel the Lynndale site is a logical site on which to place a second school."

Continuing, the spokesman pointed out "the site is readily available" and said the growth of the city is in a southerly direction. He also pointed out, "we think the children are there now," to support such a school.

At their December meeting the school board took option on a 15-acre site southeast of the U. S. 264 by-pass and fronting on Cedar Lane on which to re-locate the present Wahl - Coates Elementary School. The school will be constructed with money from East Carolina University, with the city school board supplementing state funds with $100,000 to be used to provide special furnishings and equipment for the school.

At that time the board went on record as favoring a north-east Greenville location for construction of a small elementary school. Such a project would be located somewhere between East Fifth Street and the Tar River and would serve the 350 students in that area that attend the present Wahl - Coates facility.

The board at that time also agreed to negotiate with owners of a tract of land in the Lynndale area for a 12-acre site on which to construct a small elementary school sometime in the future.

Jack Stoughton, one of the group of men appearing at the meeting summed up their position by asking the board, "Give us as much consideration as possible... for the second elementary school."

No action was taken by the board last night.

School superintendent Dr. C. C. Cleetwood reported that work should get under way sometime this week at the site of the new Aycock Junior High School on Greenville Boulevard, and said a relocatable classroom ordered for Rose High School last month arrived Monday.

The school board approved a $1,736,965 contract for construction of the 1,200 - student junior high facility, January 9.

The relocatable classroom at Rose High will relieve overcrowded conditions in science and math classes at the school. Cost of the unit was set at $7,313.

A change in the school calendar was also approved by the board last night. In order to make up two days lost due to a severe ice storm earlier this month, board members voted to make up one of the days on the Thursday before Easter and add one day to the end of the school year.

'Utmost Gravity'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the United States is taking immediate steps "through the channels that are available to us" to obtain release of the naval vessel Pueblo and its crew from Communist North Korea, which seized the ship late Monday.

Rusk described the North Korean capture of the vessel and its crew in international waters as "a matter of utmost gravity."

Navy sources said records indicate the Pueblo is the first U.S. naval vessel captured at sea since the Civil War.

C&D Approves Buying 'Copter, Prop-Jet Plane

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development today unanimously approved purchase of a helicopter and a 14-seat prop-jet airplane for use by the governor and state industry hunters.

The items, last on the agenda of the concluding session of the board's three-day meeting in Lumberton, were approved without controversy.

The economic development committee of the board had recommended purchase of a five-seat Bell Jet Ranger helicopter for short hops about the state.

Its price tag was listed as $110,000.

The committee also proposed that a second-hand air-conditioned Grumman Gulf Stream I plane be purchased for long-distance flights by the governor and industrial prospects. Its cost was estimated at $750,000.

A formal purchase request will be made by the board to the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly.

The Gulf Stream would replace a 29-year-old DC-3 which the state acquired in 1966 for $70,000.

Bob Leak, who heads C&D's commerce and industry division, told the committee, "A helicopter with its versatility at being able to land nearly everywhere would save many hours of the (industrial) prospect's valuable time."

"The use of a helicopter would also make an outstanding impression on the state's industrial prospects when used to show the communities and sites which have been recommended," he added.

Pat Hill of Charlotte, chairman of the industrial development committee, said, "I personally feel we should have a better plane. We're not a poor state."

Open Secret

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn broke a badly kept secret and officially revealed for the first time today that U.S. planes are bombing Laos from bases in Thailand.

Until Thanom spoke in reply to a question at his weekly press conference, the Thai government had maintained silence on the activities of U.S. aircraft over Laos.

The United States has been equally discreet. It has maintained that Thai-based U.S. aircraft fly over Laos only on armed reconnaissance missions. A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Bangkok said this was still the American official position.

Greek Regime Recognized By The U.S.

ATHENS (AP) — The United States resumed normal diplomatic contacts with Greece today, indicating it had formally recognized the ruling military junta.

U.S. Ambassador Philip Talbot called on Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis at noon. Asked by newsmen if this constituted recognition of the Greek regime by the American government, Talbot replied: "This is really the resumption of normal diplomatic contacts."

In Washington, State Department officials confirmed the United States had decided to resume "normal diplomatic contacts" with the Greek junta. They said they used this terminology because diplomatic relations, while in a state of suspension for several weeks, had not actually been broken. Talbot and his staff had remained in Athens.

Since King Constantine's uprising against the junta in mid-December, the United States had some informal and low-level contacts with junta officials. But during those weeks the United States mainly waited to see whether Constantine would return to Athens to replace the regent appointed by the military ruler.

Road Funds Cutback To Affect N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's federal-aid highway money will be cut by about $7 to $8 million this year under an anti-inflation cutback ordered by U. S. Transportation Secretary Alan Boyd.

This estimate was made by highway administrator W. F. Babcock Monday after Boyd had announced the $600 million cutback in federal-aid spending this fiscal year.

Boyd said the cutback was necessary to fight "inflationary trends in the nation's economy." It drew sharp criticism from Highway Commission chairman Joe Hunt.

Hunt asserted it is "poor judgment" to cut highway funds "while ignoring as areas for possible spending cuts some deficit programs considered non-essential by many."

North Carolina usually gets about $13.5 million in federal road funds every three months, or $54 million per year. Babcock pointed out that the state's federal-aid money was cut about $7 million last year "so we are actually down about $11 million from what we thought we had."

Morgan Expected Announce Race

RALEIGH (AP) — State Sen. Robert Morgan, D-Harnett, will hold a news conference in Raleigh Wednesday at which he is expected to announce his candidacy for North Carolina attorney general.

Morgan has served five terms in the Senate and managed I. Beverly Lake's unsuccessful campaign for governor in 1960. Morgan will become the first announced opposition to the present attorney general, Wade Bruton.

FCX Paying Out $1 Million Refund

RALEIGH (AP) — Refunds of nearly $1 million are being sent to more than 28,000 farmers in North Carolina and South Carolina this week by FCX Inc., a farmer cooperative.

FCX General Manager A. J. Haynes said today the refunds of $981,433 represent a rebate of 3.6 per cent of business which FCX members did with the cooperative during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1967.

Training Programs Talked By Sheriffs In Greenville Meet

DISCUSSING TRAINING . . . during a break in today's meeting are Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Smith, Martin County Sheriff Raymond Rawls, Axson, and Clark.

Sheriffs from 20 Eastern North Carolina counties met here today to plan training programs for their jailers and deputies.

Discussed at the session were training programs regarding the supervision and administration of jails, and the service of civil papers.

Meeting with the group of lawmen — ranging from Onslow and Beaufort Counties to the North Carolina - Virginia state line — were John Sanders, director of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill; W. L. Spilner of law enforcement training for the Department of Community Colleges, and three officials of the North Carolina Sheriff's Association, president W. G. Clark of Fayetteville, Carl H. Axson, chairman of the associations executive committee; and state secretary-treasurer, J. C. Rumble.

Also taking part in the planning session was Leslie Smith, state inspector for correctional institutions; and Guy C. Langston, area consultant for law enforcement training for the Department of Community Colleges.

Reviewed at the session, in addition to the various training needs of the sheriffs in Eastern North Carolina were possible locations for training and length of classes.

Langston pointed out that now, under a law passed by the 1967 state legislature, sheriff's personnel throughout the state must have training regarding the supervision and administration of jails.

Two Collisions Here Yesterday

Greenville police investigated two traffic collisions yesterday which resulted in an estimated $650 property damage.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 1:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of Douglas Avenue and Contentnea Street involving cars driven by Lillie Mercer of 620 Broad St., and Charlie Lee Stocks Jr., 43, of 411 West Second St., Ayden.

Damage to the Mercer car was placed at $250 while damage to the Stocks auto was set at $100.

Herbert Niparts, 20, of Butner was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Fourth and Cotaache Streets about 3:28 p.m.

Police said the Niparts auto was involved in the collision with cars driven by John Lewis Speight, 23, of 2511 East Fourth St., and Johnny Lee Roberson, 23, of Route 4, Greenville.

Police set damages at $25 to the Roberson car, $75 to the Speight auto and $200 to the Niparts vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

Police To Hunt Missing Ballots

FALLS CREEK, Pa. (AP) — State police have been asked to find Falls Creek's missing ballots.

Jefferson County Dist. Atty. William L. Henry called on police Monday to solve the case which started when restaurant owner John McCallus lost a borough council election by one vote and asked for a recount.

When officials opened the sealed ballot box last week it was empty.

Silvester Makuluni and Hezron Y. Msiska, will spend two weeks actually working with the Pitt County farmers to see how the farm credit system operates. The supervisors hope to establish a system in their own country similar to the one used in the United States.

Since their arrival in the States in August, the men have visited the Federal Land Bank in New York, the University of Massachusetts and the University of Ohio. They will spend a total of six weeks in North Carolina.

The Republic of Malawi is located in central Africa and is about the size of New York State. The population is nearly four million.

"Malawi is very much like North Carolina in size, climate and the crops that are grown," Makuluni said.

Malawi is an agricultural country with over 4-5 of its population engaged in subsistence farming. "The main crops

Collision Involves Boat And Train

GUNTER, Tex. (AP) — Frantically waved red flags couldn't head off a cabin cruiser-freight train collision near this North Texas town Monday.

Howard Anderson and Bob Clark were transporting a 45-foot cabin cruiser from Lake Texoma on the Oklahoma-Texas line to the Dallas Boat Show when their tractor-trailer became stalled on the railroad.

They heard a train whistle and both grabbed red flags in a futile try to stop the train.

The tractor-trailer and cabin cruiser were demolished. Police estimated damage at $82,000.

Jerry Lewis Is Now Grandfather

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Jerry Lewis and his wife, Patti, became grandparents for the first time Monday. A girl was born in Monterey Peninsula Hospital to their son, Gary, and his wife, Sara, former Philippines beauty queen.

Jerry and Patti, the parents of six sons, were elated that their first grandchild was a girl. Asked how it felt to be a grandfather, the 41-year-old comedian replied, "Powerful. It's marvelous."

Son Gary was a rock 'n' roll singer before being drafted into the Army about a year ago. He was at the hospital when his child was born.

By LAWRENCE LEE

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— The ugly-ducking spacecraft built to set Americans on the moon—Lunar Module 1—performed so gracefully in Monday's maiden flight that the next one launched probably will be used by men, top space agency officials said today.

"This was a remarkably good next step on the way to the moon," said Dr. George Mueller after the debut trip of the last piece of hardware to be qualified for the lunar journey.

Mueller is the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's associate administrator for manned spaceflight.

Mueller and his colleagues were so pleased that they all but ruled out a proposed duplicate test in late spring, opening the way for Apollo astronauts to use the next lunar module in a deep space exercise early in 1969, year of the moon.

The seven-hour, 52-minute flight Monday was flawed only by an abbreviated firing of the rocket to be used to make a gentle moon landing.

As the orbiting moonship coasted over the Indian Ocean, that engine started up. But a touchy computer aboard sensed low fuel pressure and shut it off.

Mueller said an astronaut in the ship could have whipped the problem in no time flat. "Unfortunately, there wasn't a man there," he said.

At the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, controllers reached for an anthology of emergency mission plans for a trip the spare agency warned in advance was too risky to follow a rigid course.

The alternate scheme they chose was based on an old and less ambitious flight plan, but was an initiation tough enough to qualify the ship for astronauts.

On the second try, the back down engine performed at full thrust and then at 10 per cent of full thrust, exactly as controllers told it to. The change plan ruled out a test of how it would work at thrust rates in between.

Then, in the most crucial checkout, the craft's getaway engine began firing while the descent rocket still burned. This "fire in the hole" test duplicated the procedure astronauts would follow in lifting away from a potentially hazardous lunar touchdown. The lunar module passed it perfectly.

Free of its landing stage, which would be a launch platform on the moon, the passenger section's ascent engine fired for 6½ minutes. This was a test of the lunar takeoff which starts two astronauts from the moon to the Apollo command ship waiting to carry them home to earth.

The nonunion workers were forced to chant: "The union wins. We won't be back again," according to deputies. No arrests were made.

Final Acre Ceremony Re-Scheduled Friday

A "Final Acre Celebration," marking the end of a four-year soil classification survey of Pitt County, will be held at East Carolina University Friday morning, Jan. 26.

The ceremony, rescheduled this week after an ice storm forced postponement from Jan. 11, will be held at 10 a.m. at Minges Coliseum.

The county survey, being completed one year ahead of schedule, gives an inventory of basic soil facts, including maps drawn on aerial photographs.

A published survey based on the collected data is expected to be issued in 1972. Meanwhile, copies of field sheets will be available for use in the soil Conservation Service office in Greenville.

Arch J. Flanagan, chairman of the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District, will preside at the Friday morning program.

Also on the program will be Joe P. Kuykendall, state conservationist of SCS; Dr. Ralph McCracken, head of the Soil Sciences Department of N. C. State University; T. H. Karnowski, SCS Party Chief; Roy Beck, SCS work unit, conservationist; Sam Winchester, Pitt County Extension chairman; Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU president; and Thomas W. Willis, director of the ECU Regional Development Institute.

Forced To Chant 'The Union Wins'

KISSIMMEE, Fla. (AP) — When more than 20 nonunion construction workers entered the site where Disney World is being built Monday about 300 striking workers formed the intruders into ranks and marched them off, the Osceola County sheriff's office said.

The nonunion workers were forced to chant: "The union wins. We won't be back again," according to deputies. No arrests were made.

ECU Symphonic Band Will Tour

East Carolina University sends its best band music into South Carolina this week as the Symphonic Band takes its 15th annual winter concert tour.

Under the direction of Herbert L. Carter, the band will play concerts in Bishopville, Camden, Greenville and Spartanburg, S. C., during the three-day trip.

Traveling by bus, the 72 select student musicians will leave the campus Wednesday, Jan. 24, and return Friday, Jan. 26. Their first concert is scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at Dorman High School in Spartanburg.

Another Thursday program is booked at Parker High School in Greenville (2:00 p.m.). Final concerts of the tour are scheduled Friday at Camden High School in Camden (10:30 a.m.), and Bishopville High School in Bishopville (1:30 p.m.).

Wall Purchased Over Protest

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An eight-foot high plywood wall surrounding a construction project on a Pennsylvania campus was torn down Monday, but students who had left their marks on it in the form of slogans and housepaint artwork didn't want to see it pass into oblivion.

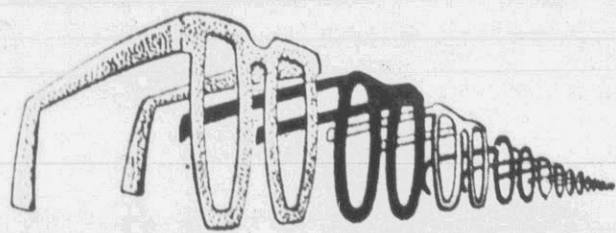

So it was auctioned off, chunk by chunk, to the highest bidders.

A panel bearing the message: "Dear Ronnie: you are exquisitely, subtly lovely, Marc," went for $10—over the protests of a pretty girl who was outbid. "But I was the Ronnie it was written to," she said.

First Lady Will Head Heart Drive

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson for the fifth consecutive year will be honorary leader of two million volunteers in the February Heart Fund campaign, it was announced Monday by William F. Laporte, the fund's campaign chairman.

On the Feb. 25 weekend volunteers will call on their neighbors for contributions.

Scientists said that final surge apparently consigned the craft to destruction by fiery reentry into the atmosphere, but no plans were possible or planned for recovery of the ship, which was built to operate only in space.

Bristling with antennae, its mantis-like folding legs left off for this test in earth orbit, Lunar Module 1 was lifted from Cape Kennedy by a Saturn 1B rocket—the same rocket atop which the three Apollo astronauts died a year ago next Saturday in the fire which crippled the nation's moon program.

A bonus experiment in Monday night's flight involved dumping of leftover propellant from the Saturn's top stage a plan to be followed by astronauts in the post-lunar era to convert expended rocket stages into orbiting laboratories.

Pile Treatment Works Wonders For California Couple

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Sacramento, Cal. Mrs. C. A. of this city reports: "I can't contain myself any longer to write you about wonderful Preparation H for hemorrhoids. My husband has also been using same and it's doing wonders for him!"

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Daughter Should Heed The Advice Given By Her Mother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I need your opinion on something. My mother tells me it is not right for a girl to go to her boy friend's apartment. She says it will ruin her reputation for good even if nothing happens.

She says that even nice girls can get into trouble by going to their boy friends' apartments—that being together all alone is just tempting fate and pressing your luck.

Miss Abby, I've been brought up to obey my parents, but lately I'm confused. My friends at college say "everybody does it," and they laugh at me for my old-fashioned ideas. Can you help me?

CONFUSED AT 18

DEAR CONFUSED: I don't know who's luckier, you or your mother. You, to have a mother who cares enough to warn you against the seemingly harmless temptations to which so many girls yield, or your mother, who has a sensible 18-year-old daughter who still listens. Keep listening. You'll never regret it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. It's my son's beard. Last November we went to visit him (he lives in another state) and were shocked to find that he had grown a full beard since we had last seen him.

He is 28 years old, and single, and that beard makes him look much older, in addition to which he looks ridiculous. There was no reason for him to grow that thing as this state isn't celebrating a centennial or anything.

I told him to please shave it off when he came home for Christmas, and he said he didn't think he would. Well, he didn't. We hadn't said anything to the relatives, hoping he'd have it shaved off by Christmas, so you can imagine the jeering and laughing that took place when they saw him. It just ruins his looks. How can we get him to shave it off?

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You probably can't, so quit stewing about it. The problem isn't HIS beard, it's YOUR inability to accept it. He is 28, Mother, and if the beard makes him look "older," or "ridiculous," HE will have to suffer the consequences.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the IRATE MOTHER who objected to some of the questions her child had been asked in connection with a school questionnaire. ("Do your parents sleep together? Which parent do you love more—your mother or your father? Do you believe in God?")—to name a few. Well, I think I have her beat:

The other day a 14-year-old neighbor girl rang my bell. When I opened my door she asked, "How do you feel about LEGALIZED ABORTION?" And she stood right there with a pencil and paper, waiting to take down my answer.

I asked her why she wanted to know, and she said her teacher was making a "public opinion survey," and all the kids in her class were "polling" as many housewives as possible.

I was so flabbergasted I didn't know what else to say, so I told her I had a headache and to come back later.

Mrs. Galloway Gives Garden Club Program

Mrs. J. C. Galloway Jr. was speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Garden Club held Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Galloway, who recently returned from a month's visit in Hawaii, gave an illustrated talk on the "Plants and Flowers of Our Exotic 50th State."

She showed colored slides of the woodrose, monkey pod tree, banyau tree, coffee tree, orchids, ginger, bird of paradise and the golden shower tree. During a business session conducted by Mrs. John R. Carrington, president, reports were given by various committees.

Mrs. Paul Davenport reported that 145 pine trees given by the club were being planted at Pitt Memorial Hospital. A letter was read from the district president asking that all reports be in by February.

An invitation to attend a demonstration using the blender by a home economist on Jan. 30 at 2:30 p.m. was read.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Fleming, Mrs. R. E. Laughter, Mrs. J. A. Piver and Mrs. E. L. Baker.

When you are planning to use the bacon fat (after frying bacon) for cooking eggs, make sure that you cook the bacon over low heat so the fat stays as white as possible.

Mrs. Lewis Is American Legion Auxiliary Speaker

Mrs. Kathryn Lewis was guest speaker at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held Thursday afternoon at the Legion Bldg.

Mrs. Lewis, who is guidance director for Pitt County Schools, talked about scholarships, loans and other aids in education.

She said there are some scholarships available through the American Legion and the Auxiliary and she would like for the county schools to have information of any such available aid for boys and girls in the county schools.

She explained the many kinds of scholarships and aids to education such as grants in aid whereby money is given to students by the college for expenses of education based on the family's financial status and needs. There are all kinds of loan funds for students in addition to scholarships and there are many scholarships which remain unclaimed because of the restrictions which they carry.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Eric Whichard, program chairman for January.

Mrs. Alfred Kennedy, president, presided at the meeting. The group voted to place a Legion emblem over the fireplace of the building before the dedication in April.

Mrs. Kennedy reported that the auxiliary had met all obligations to entitle the group to receive national and state citations at the Department Convention. She also announced that plans are being made to entertain the area conference here in September.

Mrs. J. N. LeConte and Mrs. Harry J. Daugherty were welcomed as new members.

Spending Cut Is The Real Question

There seems to be little question about whether Congress will enact a tax increase this year in spite of the fact that voters will go to the polls next November. It is almost a foregone conclusion that a surcharge will be added to corporate and personal income taxes in an effort to reduce the anticipated federal deficit in the coming fiscal year.

The real question that surrounds this issue is whether Congress, in agreeing to a tax increase, will be able to force the administration into making significant reductions in federal spending under its jurisdiction.

President Johnson, in his state of the union message, called again for the surcharge on income taxes as a means of producing needed federal revenue. At the same time he pointed to reductions in spending which his administration intended to make and urged Congress not to appropriate funds beyond that which his administration requested for specific programs.

While this had the effect of putting Congress on the defensive, it did not overcome the fact that Congress apparently has not been satisfied with the reductions the administration has made or proposed in federal spending. In spite of administration pressure, the first session of the 90th Congress ended without that body having enacted the tax surcharge the President insisted upon.

Although Congress is expected, to enact that tax hike within the next few months, it must be expected that the administration will have to make further concessions on the spending end of the proposition. Members of Congress, in our judgment, should insist on further reductions in non-essential federal spendings in conjunction with the tax surcharge. If the inflation spiral is to be stopped — and that is the purpose of the surcharge — both the additional tax and greater reductions in federal spending will be necessary. The surcharge in itself will do little to stem the inflation tide.

This just may be the unique election year in which efforts to reduce federal spending may be more important to the politicians than the traditional election-year effort to provide more hand-outs to more people.

Metal Industry Led The State

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
LUMBERTON—Metals and metalworking, whether it be blue earth, gray phosphate or glittering gold, foundries or fertilizer, led North Carolina's industrial growth parade last year.

The metal working industry accounted for $188,429,000 (m) in new capital investment by industry in the state during 1967 and exceeded all other categories according to a State Board of Conservation and Development report.

It exceeded textiles, $167,756,000 (m), by more than $20 million, but textiles created more new jobs, 9,680, compared to 8622 for metal working.

WILLIAM SHIRES

Wood-using industries ranked third in the compilation given the C & D board at its winter meeting in Lumberton, with $126.5 million in new capital investment.

Economic Growth
C & D. traditionally takes advantage of its first meeting each year to boast of economic gains and advances, and the Lumberton session was no exception.

However, underlying the glowing report of the Commerce and Industry division was the fact that total capital investment in new and expanded industry slumped during late 1967. So did new industrial prospect inquiries. Officials blamed this on business uncertainties, tight money policies and restricted credit.

"Industry apparently has become cautious once again," the report said.

Same Boasting
Nevertheless there was something to boast about. The C & I. section's report said that as recently as the 1940s the entire group of southeastern states were boasting about industry growth at the rate of $1 million a day.

"For the first three years of Governor Moore's administration, North Carolina alone had averaged better than $2.25 million per working day."

"Investments in new plants and expansions during this three year period exceed those for any previous six-year period in North Carolina," it said.

Quality Growth
C & I went on to emphasize quality in industrial growth. Twelve new manufacturing plants located in North Carolina during 1967 are those of firms listed among the nation's largest corporations. At least 186 of the 500 largest corporations in the United States now have operations in this state and seven of these are domiciled in North Carolina.

The seven are American Enka; Blue Bell Inc.; Burlington Industries; Cannon Mills; Cone Mills; Fieldcrest Mills and R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Observations Noted
The C & I report noted a drop from 1966 of approximately 11,000 job opportunities created by industrial expansion.

But it said that new jobs created in 1967 are estimated to pay $4,400 per year on the average compared with $3,800 in 1966 and $3,600 in previous years.

"Our industrial education and training programs have been a major factor in making this possible," the report said. "We could not attract industries requiring these high skills until this training program became effective."

Average capital investment to create one new job amounted to $26,700 according to C & I statistics and this was also a new high. The comparable figure in 1966 was only $16,300.

"This means that more of our industrial growth was highly mechanized, resulting in the use of employees with higher skills," C & I officials said.

The Dead Contributed To A Better Life

Those gallant men who have given their lives for science in the infancy of the heart transplant technique must be regarded as pioneers in a new era of medicine along with the physicians who are attending them.

Mike Kasperak, a retired steelworker, is the most recent person to give his life as a volunteer heart transplant patient. For Kasperak, as with others in recent weeks, it apparently was other complications rather than his new heart which eventually caused his death.

Kasperak and others who have gambled and lost seeking a few extra years of life have not died in vain. Their willingness to be among the first to undergo this new medical procedure is playing a vital role in assuring that the heart transplant in future years will mean prolonged life for countless others who suffer from heart disease.

Like many other unsung pioneers, their names may soon be forgotten by the public. Yet society will continue to owe them a deep debt of gratitude for their contribution to the better life made possible by their sacrifice.

The Pacifism That Melted

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) The idea for the Citizens Committee for Peace with Freedom in Vietnam began in the head of 75-year old Paul Douglas who, after 18 years in the U. S. Senate, lost his seat to Charles H. Percy in the Illinois election of 1966.

It's a distinguished committee whose members include former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower, General of the Army Omar Bradley, two former secretaries of State, Dean Acheson and James F. Byrnes, scientists, educators, historians, journalists, businessmen and clergymen.

The idea for the committee had its roots in the 1930s when Douglas, a Quaker and then a pacifist, stood in Rome and listened to Benito Mussolini announce war on little and practically defenseless Ethiopia in Africa.

Douglas, pacifism began to melt as he began to realize that, unless checked, Fascism and Nazism, both of which subordinated individual and national freedoms to their purpose, would overrun Europe. With Europe gone, he wondered how the United States could stand alone, for this country at that time was isolationist.

He returned to his teaching job as professor of economics at the University of Chicago and later joined a group, organized by William Allen White, called the Non-Partisan Committee for revision of the Neutrality Law.

The Committee's propaganda was a big factor in swinging public opinion behind repeal of the law which banned shipment of arms to Europe.

Douglas at age 50 volunteered for the Marines as a private. He came out of the war a lieutenant colonel after service in the Pacific where one of the two wounds he suffered left one of his arms almost helpless.

In 1948 he was elected to the Senate. He was one of the best and sturdiest liberals the Senate ever had. He had been for Social Security long before it became a fact in the 1930s. And in the Senate, among other things, he plugged for medicare long before that became a fact.

This seems a fair way to state his views about men and nations:

Nations must be allowed to work out their own destiny; the freedom of individuals is precious and must be preserved; peace is necessary; but the aggressive expansion of communism must be stopped. When he left the Senate he

UNDER-NOURISHED ADULTS

One hears so much talk of under-nourished children and under-privileged children that it's good, even for variety's sake, to turn the conservation to under-nourished adult and under-privileged adults.

Maybe the woman who is starving herself for fashion's slim figure is underprivileged. Certainly, she hasn't all that's coming to her in the way of good common sense. But it's the undernourishment we're thinking about. . . . Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse, secretary of the State Board of Health, puts it bluntly but very effectively: "Young women in North Carolina and many who have passed the age of 30 have become so deeply impressed with the grace and beauty that goes with slimmness that they are starving themselves. If people could be taught that the best way to remove surplus flesh is by the cutting of sweets, potatoes and bread rather than by starvation, pellagra would be lessened. A great many women in North Carolina, in order to keep thin, are eating no breakfast and a very light lunch. Breakfast is really the most necessary meal, particularly for growing girls and young people. . . . (From ABOUT TOWN)

A 'Caine Mutiny' Re-Run

Lieutenant Commander Marcus Aurelius Arnheiter, U.S.N., assumed command of the radar picket ship Vance at Pearl Harbor on 22 December, 1965. He was summarily relieved of his command on 31 March, 1966, having served for precisely 99 days.

Out of those 99 days has arisen the "Arnheiter Case." The affair has beached Arnheiter himself, and wrecked the career of Richard G. Alexander, one of the Navy's most brilliant young captains. His sin was that he publicly took Arnheiter's side. The case has divided admirals against admirals; it promises to rock the Navy with the worst row since Rickover. If Congress actively intervenes —and New York's Joe Resnick is crying for congressional hearings—Naval Secretary Paul Ignatius could wind up pushed over the side.

In the brief and turbulent command of Marcus Arnheiter, Herman Wouk's fictional mutiny aboard the U. S. S. Caine has come eerily to life. The stories are not altogether parallel. Three junior officers figured in the complaints against Arnheiter—Lieutenant Ray S. Hardy, executive officer; Lieutenant (jg) William T. Generous, who was the ring leader; and Ensign Luis Belmonte. They themselves did not depose Arnheiter, but their complaints did. None has been court-martialed, though Arnheiter pleaded vainly for such a procedure. The fictitious Commander Queeg got in trouble over some strawberries; the real-life Arnheiter got in trouble over a bottle of sherry. One charge against the fictional Queeg was that he ran from danger; by contrast, Arnheiter stands accused of seeking danger out.

According to testimony taken by various investigators, Vance was in sad shape when Arnheiter took command. A second class petty officer named Mathews testified: "The ship was infested with roaches, the crew wore sloppy, torn and dirty uniforms." A signalman first class named Boson testified: "I served on Vance for nearly 14 months. During the first nine months, before Commander Arnheiter assumed command, the ship was not the kind of warship you normally think of. In other words, the ship was lax."

In Arnheiter's own view, the junior officers were operating the ship like a pleasure yacht. He set about to change all that. He instituted religious and character-building sessions. He demanded proper uniforms. On an earlier cruise, Vance had operated well out to sea; he took her in close, where Vietnamese sampans could be boarded and inspected. "He was a man," said Boson, "who believed in getting things done."

Lieutenant Generous, a Catholic, took sharp offense at the new regime. He saw the religious services as "Protestant oriented" and complained that his constitutional rights were being violated. He began to compile "Marcus's Mad Log," in which he carefully noted Arnheiter's breaches of Navy regulations. Arnheiter had brought aboard $15 worth of sherry and Cherry Heering, jokingly inventoried as "Guamanian Guava Berry Juice," for use in the officers' mess. Arnheiter had taken the ship too close to shore. Arnheiter had falsely certified certain candy as "unfit" in order to give it to Vietnamese children.

Forty-three such charges somehow found their way to Arnheiter's superiors. A Commander D. F. Milligan was

Other Editors Saying But Is It Needed?

(The Sanford Herald)

We agree with Governor Dan K. Moore that the North Carolina Constitution needs revision, but we do not agree that among the revisions should be the provision that a governor or lieutenant governor be permitted to seek re-election.

North Carolina's one-term governorship stems from North Carolinians' dislike of imposed authority, one administered through the British government's selection of governors for the colonies.

Governor Moore told Tar Heel newsmen, at their awards program this week, that his own experience is that four years is a short time for a governor to get his program rolling. "The executive branch should be strengthened," he said "For example, since being in office I have found that four years is a short time for a governor to implement his program. I would hope that the study group (on the Constitution) would consider extending the term of future governors or allowing them to seek re-election." The same sentiment has been expressed by recent ex-governors, including Terry Sanford and Luther Hodges.

North Carolina's Constitution limits the governor to four years in office and does not allow either the governor or the lieutenant governor to serve consecutive terms.

We say change of any accepted practice, especially one customary and one spelled out in writing by generations past, ought to be predicated on the record of its usefulness. North Carolina has traditionally had strong governors, especially since the period of the Civil War and including the present one. Almost strangely, there also has appeared certain rapport between administrations — so that a succeeding governor usually implements and builds on the program of his predecessor. He may discard some program issues, but he generally strengthens others.

It likewise is to be noted that North Carolina has built few government dynasties. This has not been the case in certain other Southern states, where "ruling families" are the rule rather than the exception in, say, Virginia and Louisiana.

We believe Tar Heels are as jealous of power they can bestow officialdom today as they were almost 200 years ago. It may be their independence which has put them at the forefront of progress in the South and at the position of respect they hold in the nation.

Jobs Lost To New Minimum Pay

By ELMER ROESSNER
A million people will lose their jobs after the new minimum wage of $1.60 an hour goes into effect 10 days from now.

Most of these people will be the very ones the law was intended to help: the unskilled, the elderly, students, the drop-outs, the uneducated, the retarded and the crippled.

The National Federation of Independent Business, Inc., after a poll of 239,000 members, estimates that 1,031,040 marginal workers will lose their jobs.

A smaller sampling by the Labor Department last year indicated that a possible 1.7 million may lose jobs.

A study by the National Retail Merchants Association indicates that not only will many marginal workers lose jobs, but that the extension of the minimum wage law to smaller stores on Feb. 1, 1968, probably contributed to forcing many out of business.

AFL-CIO Thinks Differently
However, studies by the AFL-CIO minimize probable unemployment. And, in fact, it will tend to push up all wages, even the pay of the elite who get many times the minimum now.

The N.R.M.A. study indicated:

Previous extension of the minimum wage has shortened working hours for many employees, sometimes making the take-home pay actually less.

It has reduced the employment per store.

It has forced stores to curtail customer services.

It has contributed to higher prices.

Affects All Wage Rates
Increases in minimum wage es tend to increase all wage rates. This is inflationary.

How this works is shown by the N.R.M.A. study. It found that the increase to $1.40 an hour a year ago, in stores with $1 million to $5 million in annual sales, in-ceased payrolls 4.6 per cent and that, to maintain wage differentials, payrolls were increased another 2.1 per cent.

As pointed out here before,

Wilbur Writes The Bill

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Johnson's new legislative package to keep American tourists and dollars out of Europe is being written not at the Treasury but by Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, and as such may be stiffer than the White House bargained for.

Chary over past problems with Mills (the powerful Mr. Taxation on Capitol Hill as Chairman of the House Ways Committee) the Treasury tossed the entire question of its proposed anti-travel tax in his lap. The Treasury asked him to write the details, and he agreed. This assures that the travel tax will not meet the fate of Mr. Johnson's proposed income tax increase, written by the Treasury without consulting Mills and still opposed by Mills.

But Mills is not about to propose merely a travel tax. He contemplates an overall tax package containing a new "border tax" on foreign imports, which may be more protectionist than the President wants. What's more, Mills may include the vital annual extension of excise taxes in the package to form an unbeatable bill that would override Congressional objections to travel restrictions.

The bill is being drafted by outside experts selected by Mills and in consultation with Representative John Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on Ways and Means. The details are not complete, but the general outlines are clear.

Mills definitely will not propose a head tax on American tourists leaving the Western hemisphere, as Treasury officials has hinted. He is considering a massive excise-type tax on steamship and airline tickets and a proposal now being drafted that would tax dollars actually spent by American tourists abroad.

Whether an excise tax, a dollar tax, or a combination of both, it will be still enough to prohibit travel to Europe and Asia by all but the most wealthy.

Added to this according to Mills' present plans will be a border tax—in effect, an across-the-board tariff—on imports in combination with a tax credit for U. S. exporters. This scheme, first suggested by Byrnes, has been accepted in principle by the Treasury as part of its balance-of-payments program.

But there may be trouble over the size. Byrnes regards the 2 to 3 percent border tax suggested by the Treasury as grossly inadequate and may insist on a 10 to 15 percent levy in line with European border taxes as his price for supporting the anti-travel tax. Lindsay's Friend in Nebraska Symbolic of the new ecumenical spirit in the Republican party, Don Ross, the impeccably conservative National Committeeman from Nebraska, is working behind the scenes to find a prominent role in the Miami Beach Presidential convention for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

Ross is a pragmatist as well as a conservative. He knows that younger liberal Republicans look to Lindsay as a possible future party leader. He wants the convention to reflect this by giving Lindsay a spot on the program.

Although Ross doesn't know yet what spot he wants for Lindsay, he has the muscle to override any right-wing

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign aid is an investment in war-prevention and its victories "are the shots that did not sound, the blood that did not spill, the treasures that did not have to be spent to stamp out spreading flames of violence," president Johnson said Monday.

The foreign aid investment is small—only 5 per cent of the amount spent for defense in fiscal 1966-67—Johnson said in a letter transmitting a report to Congress.

But the ultimate dividends, he said, "are victories of prevention." These victories, he added, are not those of war, but those of "wars that did not start."

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John W. McCormack says female White House fellows should have been allowed on the House floor for the President's State of the Union speech.

McCormack commented after published reports indicated the women were irked because sent to Vance to see what was going on. Incredibly, on the most cursory investigation, he summarily relieved Arnharter of command. A strange "hearing" followed a few days later at Subic, before a captain ignorant of the most elementary rules of evidence; he sustained Milligan's action. The record then went to Vice Admiral Walter H. Baumberger, who did the first sensible thing that had been done: He recommended that the whole half-baked mess be tossed out, and Arnharter given a new command. Much later, Retired Admiral Thomas G. W. Settle, after a thorough review, would concur in Arnharter's defense.

Meanwhile, Arnharter was furiously demanding vindication. He got nowhere. Captain Alexander, who had served on the board that screened Arnharter for command, recklessly took up his cause. Last month, Secretary Ignatius upheld Arnharter's removal and consigned Alexander to an ignominious shore job in Boston.

The case cannot be permitted to drop out of sight. The shabby treatment accorded Arnharter apparently had been followed by one cover-up blunder after another. "Mr. Secretary," asked Alexander, "how in hell could this happen in the United States Navy?" Many an American, friendly to the Navy, will demand a better answer than Secretary Ignatius has provided thus far.

took a part-time teaching job in New York; became chairman of the board of trustees of Freedom House, a non-partisan organization devoted to strengthening free institutions here and abroad and early last year was appointed by President Johnson chairman of the newly-created Commission on Urban Problems.

But he was bothered by the division in America over the war in Vietnam. He supported this war against communism, just as he supported the war against communism in Korea.

He was worried about the extreme positions being taken on both sides on the present war. And he wondered how to reach the great mass of people in the center with a reasonable presentation of the facts. He thought of a committee like the William Allen White committee in the 1930s.

He wrote his views to a number of people and got a hearty response. The result was the present committee of the people who share his views.

male fellows were seated on the floor during the speech while their female colleagues were denied entrance.

White House fellows are young college graduates picked by a commission to spend a year in government work.

The House doorkeeper, William "Fishbait" Miller, said the late speaker Sam Rayburn first permitted the fellows to attend the annual speech in 1961 but "He told me not to let any girls on the floor."

Turning Guns In After Shooting

INDIANOLA, Iowa (AP) — The shooting of a Simpson College student in his dormitory room led a number of other students to turn in weapons to authorities Monday.

"They were carrying them down the hall by the armload," said Sheriff William Mathews.

Charles C. Cooley of Chicago, a freshman, was shot in the chin and neck when a pistol held by another student apparently discharged accidentally, Mathews said. No charges have been filed.

Questioning of dormitory residents indicated "a great deal of shooting has been going on—out of the windows, into furniture and mattresses," the sheriff said.

objections. Ross was chief architect of Ray Bliss's election as National Chairman two years ago and remains his chief lieutenant on the National Committee.

A footnote: Ross is assured of re-election as National Committeeman despite maneuvering to ease him out by Governor Norbert Tlemann, Nebraska's popular Governor, who wants to give his party a more progressive image. With the election slated for this spring, Ross is supported by Nebraska's two Senators, its three Congressmen, and three past state party chairmen.

Catawba College Dean To Seek Congress Seat

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Earl B. Ruth, dean of students at Catawba College, announced today he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in North Carolina's new 8th District.

Ruth, 52, a long-time Democrat, switched his registration several days ago in order to run on the GOP ticket.

The 8th District, composed of 10 counties, was one of two North Carolina congressional districts which will be left without a congressman under a redistricting plan adopted by the 1967 general assembly.

The district is made up of Rowan, in which Ruth lives, and Cabarrus, Stanly, Moore, Montgomery, Lee Richmond

Scotland, Anson and Union.

Voigt Gilmore, Southern Pines businessman and former director of the U.S. Travel Agency, already has announced for the Democratic nomination.

The State Board of Elections ruled last week that Ruth could change his registration and run as a Republican.

Ruth, a prominent figure in North Carolina athletic circles for many years, said he had surveyed the district and found that "the people . . . are interested in our country returning to established principles of freedom of opportunity, self-reliance, fiscal responsibility, and protection from crime."

He made his announcement at a barbecue luncheon on the Catawba College campus, where he has been chairman of the Department of Physical Education and dean of students for several years.

A native of Charlotte, Ruth earned his undergraduate, masters and doctors degrees at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He taught in the public schools, worked briefly for the McCrory Mills at Asheville, and in 1941 served as assistant superintendent of state parks.

After service in the Navy during World War II, he joined the Catawba staff in 1946 as assistant football coach. He later served as baseball coach for years and basketball coach for 12 years. His team won the Carolinas Conference title in 1950. He later served the school as athletic director.

As an athlete, he was captain of the freshman basketball team at UNC, made the All-Southern Conference cage team in both his junior and senior years and was captain of the Tar Heel team both years.

A Presbyterian elder, he is now in his third term on the Salisbury city council and presently is serving as mayor pro-tem. He is a former president of the National Sportscoasters and Sportswriters Association.

He is married to the former Jane Wiley of Charlotte. They have three daughters and a son.

East Tennessee Defeats East Carolina, 61-53

Cougars Gain Top In New AP Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Houston Cougars, kings of the hill for the first time this season after their stunning 71-69 victory over UCLA, are not likely to be knocked off their lofty position—not for a while, anyway.

It would take a small miracle for it to happen this week because the Cougars, now 17-0, take on a small-college team, Lamar Tech, in their only start this week.

Lamar Tech is 4-11, a record not calculated to frighten the tenacious Cougars. The teams play Saturday on Houston's court.

The Cougars, who ended UCLA's unbeaten string at 47 games last Saturday night took over first-place from the Bruins in the weekly Associated Press poll. The margin was decisive in the voting by a national panel of 35 sports writer and broadcasters.

Houston collected 32 votes for the leading position and three for second place while UCLA had only three for the No. 1 spot and 32 for second. On points, the Cougars led 347 to 318.

The Bruins had topped the poll each week since the start of the 1967-68 campaign.

North Carolina held third place in the latest poll with 270 points followed by New Mexico, 204 and St. Bonaventure, 174. Points were awarded on a basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third, etc.

Rounding out the Top Ten in order were Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Columbia, Kentucky and Utah.

New Mexico, St. Bonaventure, Vanderbilt and Columbia registered the biggest gains, each advancing two places. New Mexico and St. Bonaventure are unbeaten in 16 and 13 games, respectively.

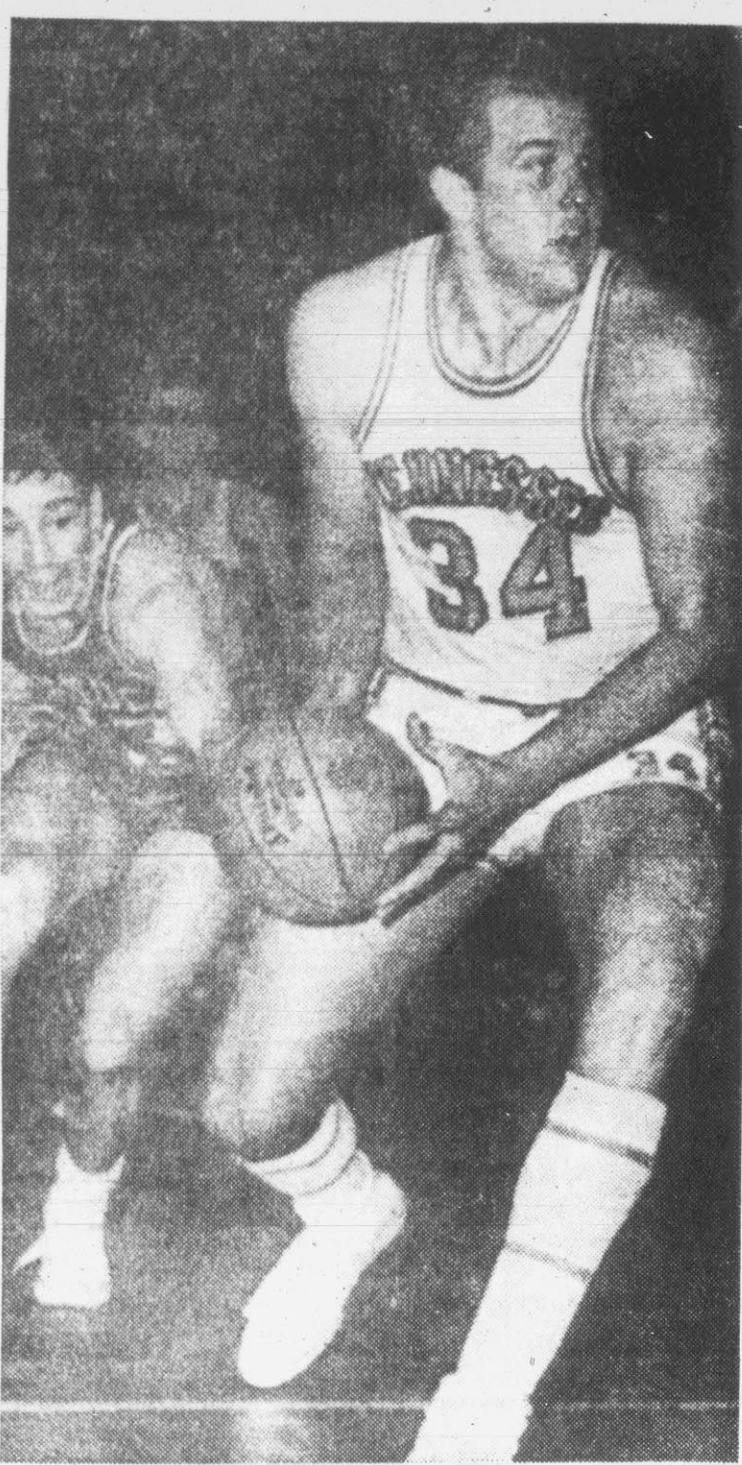

Tennessee slipped two rungs to sixth after splitting two games with Florida. Kentucky, beaten by Auburn, fell from eighth to ninth while Utah, which lost to New Mexico and Wyoming, dropped from fifth to 10th.

UCLA has two games on tap this week—against Holy Cross Friday night and Boston College Saturday night, both in Madison Square Garden.

North Carolina plays Georgia Tech Saturday. New Mexico is not scheduled. St. Bonaventure faces Detroit Tuesday night and St. Francis, Pa. Thursday night.

The Top Ten through games of Jan. 20 with first-place votes in parentheses and total points.

1. Houston (32)	347
2. UCLA (3)	318
3. North Carolina	270
4. New Mexico	204
5. St. Bonaventure	174
6. Tennessee	139
7. Vanderbilt	92
8. Columbia	73
9. Kentucky	58
10. Utah	52

Tennessee In Rout Of 'Cats

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bobby Croft, one of Canada's biggest southern exports, has stirred up an international crisis — for Kentucky and Baron Adolph Rupp.

Croft, a 6-foot-10 Tennessee sophomore from Hamilton, Ont., fired in 20 points as the sixth-ranked Vols handed ninth-ranked Kentucky its worst basketball setback in 18 years Monday night, obliterating the Wildcats 87-59.

It was the biggest margin of defeat for a Kentucky team since 1950, when City College of New York humbled the Wildcats 89-50 in the National Invitation Tournament.

Tennessee's 32nd consecutive home court victory sent the Vols into a first-place tie with idle Louisiana State in the Southeastern Conference race. Tennessee is 11-2 on the season and 5-1 in the SEC.

Kentucky, 10-4 over-all, fell into a fourth place tie with Vanderbilt, at 4-3, as Rupp failed for the second time in a row to match the all-time victory mark of 771 held by Kansas' Phog Allen.

Another SEC giant, 6-10 soph Neal Walk of Florida, wrecked Georgia with 33 points and 25 rebounds in a 90-63 Gator romp at Gainesville, Fla. The victory gave Florida a 7-3 conference record and a 10-6 season mark. Mississippi State upended visiting Alabama 72-69 in another SEC struggle.

Eight of The Associated Press' Top Ten teams had the night off, but three Ohio powers boosted their national stock. Cincinnati, 12-3, trimmed Missouri Valley Conference rival Memphis State 75-68 in overtime on the losers' court. Toledo, 10-3, crushed Coast Guard 88-47 at home and Ohio State, 9-3, outscored Georgia Tech 66-55 at Columbus, Ohio.

Visiting North Carolina State whipped Jacksonville 69-52 while Chicago Loyola and Michigan breezed to home-court victories, the Ramblers routing Windsor, Ont., 105-52 and the Wolverines belting Ball State 99-75.

Other home floor winners were Weber, by an 88-73 margin over Colorado State University, and East Tennessee, by a 61-53 count over East Carolina.

John Howard's 33 points led Cincinnati past Memphis State, winless in six MVC starts, in a game marked by five technical fouls—two of them against the home club after fans tossed litter on the court in the last minute of overtime.

Steve Nix poured in 18 of his game-high 24 points in the first 12 minutes of play, triggering Toledo's runaway victory over outmanned Coast Guard.

Dave Sorenson sent Ohio State ahead to stay with a three-point play in the opening minute and finished with 21 points. The Buckeyes shot 56 per cent from the floor in overpowering Georgia Tech.

East Favored In All-Star Game

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — Expansion, a lost scoring leader and a fallen star have taken some of the twinkle from the West team and made the East a strong favorite tonight in the National Basketball Association All-Star game at Madison Square Garden.

An expected sellout crowd of 18,500 along with a nation-wide television audience (ABC), will watch the 18th annual classic in which the stars of the Eastern Division hold an 11-6 edge over those of the Western Division. Game time is 8:30 p.m., EST.

The East is favored by 10 points to wipe out last year's 135-120 upset at San Francisco, partly because of what the East has, and partly because of what the West is missing.

In last year's game, Rick Barry scored 38 points and Dave DeBusschere 22 and Nate Thurmond hauled in 18 rebounds to lead the West. None of the three will play for the West tonight, and neither will Dave Bing, the league's leading scorer.

Barry, who jumped from the San Francisco Warriors to Oakland of the American Basketball Association, won't even be in the building, and Thurmond, his former teammate, will be back in San Francisco nursing an injured knee that has sidelined him for the season.

DeBusschere and Bing of Detroit will be playing for the East, the result of last year's expansion realignment that added San Diego and Seattle to the Western Division and moved Detroit to the East.

The East also has Wilt Chamberlain and Hal Greer of Philadelphia, Jerry Lucas and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, Bill Russell, John Havlicek and Sam Jones of Boston, Willis Reed and Dick Barnett of New York and Gus Johnson of Baltimore. Bing and Barnett have never been in the game before.

Zelmo Beaty will take Thurmond's place in the West starting line-up along with St. Louis teammates Len Wilkens and Bill Bridges, and Elgin Baylor and Jerry West of Los Angeles.

NBA Going Where The Action Isn't

By MIKE RECHT

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association owners peered into their crystal ball, saw a league with 18 teams and decided to go where the action isn't.

For that reason, most likely more than any other, they saw Milwaukee, Wis., and Phoenix, Ariz., in their future. These cities, both without a major league professional team in any sport, were selected as the 13th and 14th teams in the NBA Monday. They will start play next season.

"I like cities that don't have so much going on," said Ben Kerner, owner of the St. Louis Hawks, who were the Milwaukee Hawks from 1951 to 1955.

In Milwaukee, "It's the only game in town" except for the Marquette college basketball and the few games the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League play there, said Marvin L. Fishman, one of the eight principal owners of the Milwaukee franchise.

"We decided it wasn't in our best interests to go into American Basketball Association cities," said Walter Kennedy, president of the NBA. "The market wouldn't be big enough with two pro basketball teams."

"Milwaukee just wasn't ready before," he said, and Fishman noted that the Hawks had very bad playing days and a team that finished last all four seasons in Milwaukee.

The situation in Phoenix is almost the same. All it has is a team in the Western Hockey League.

"I think we are well on the way toward becoming a major big league sports center," Gov. Jack Williams said. Mayor Milton Graham echoed the enthusiasm, saying the area will benefit tremendously from the national publicity.

Immanuel Still Is Unbeaten

Piney Grove and Immanuel each picked up victories in last night's Church League action.

In the opener, Piney Grove evened its record at 2-2 with a 42-40 victory over Oakmont. The two teams were close all the way. At the half, they were knotted in a 21-21 tie. But in the final period, Piney Grove outhit Oakmont, 21-19, to take the win.

Parrott led Oakmont with 29 points, while W. Nichols had 18 to pace winning Piney Grove.

Immanuel Baptist remained unbeaten in the second game, winning over Grace Free Will Baptist, 80-30. In the first half, Immanuel rushed out to a 38-17 lead, then outscored Grace, 42-13, in the second half.

Harris led Immanuel with 16, while Howard had 15. Gold and Lassiter each had 14 and Tadlock had 12.

Immanuel leads the loop with a 4-0 mark, followed by Piney Grove and Oakmont, both 2-2, and Grace, 0-4.

Pirates Are Outrebounded As Both Shoot Poorly From Floor In Game

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—East Carolina University dropped its third straight road game last night, bowing to the Buccaneers of East Tennessee State University, 61-53.

The victory gave the Buccaneers revenge for a 59-57 loss at the hands of the Pirates in Greenville.

Rebounding told the tale in this game, as both teams were cold from the floor and East Tennessee was even colder from the line. ETSU pulled down 42 loose balls off the boards, while the Pirates managed but 35.

East Carolina hit on 18 of 42 from the floor, for 42.8 per cent, while East Tennessee was hitting on 24 of 57, 42.2 per cent.

The Pirates stayed in the game by hitting on 17 of 23 free throws. East Tennessee hit on only 13 of 27 from the charity line.

The game remained fairly close throughout the contest, with the Pirates holding a slim two-point lead early in the contest, and East Tennessee never leading by more than eight until the final minute of the game when they stretched their lead to 10.

Altogether the game was tied on six occasions, and the lead changed hands seven times.

East Carolina got the opening lead on a layup by Jim Modlin, but Worley Ward tied it up for ETSU. Harley Swift then dropped in a free throw with 17 minutes left, but Richard Kier tied it up for the Pirates. Vince Colbert then hit a layup to put East Carolina on top again, but Swift hit a jumper to tie it at 5-5.

Colbert's free throw put the Pirates ahead again, but Ernie Sims connected from underneath to switch the lead again at 7-6. Colbert again tied it on a free throw, but Sims hit to return the Buccaneers to the lead, 9-7.

Modlin tapped in a rebound and then hit from underneath to give the Pirates the lead again at 11-9, but again, ETSU tied it up as George Walling hit from the line.

Tom Miller made it 12-11 for the Pirates from the line, but Sims put ETSU back on top with a follow shot. Modlin returned the Pirates to the lead at 14-13, and it was the last time they led the rest of the night.

With 8:10 showing, Sims hit from underneath to give East Tennessee a 15-14 lead and they were never headed again.

Fisher hit on a free throw, and Swift connected on a jump shot, parlaying a four-point play, rushing the lead to 20-14, the biggest spread of the first half.

East Carolina cut it back to 20-18 on a bucket and two free throws by Earl Thompson, but Richard Arnold popped in two to move East Tennessee back out by six at the half, 26-20.

The Buccaneers pushed out to their biggest lead of the game in the first seconds of the half as Swift connected for a 28-20 lead.

East Carolina cut the lead back to five, and after several swapped baskets, Thompson hit on two straight and Colbert made good on a free throw to cut the lead to 32-20. But Leroy Fisher made good on a follow and Arnold stole the ball for a layup to push the lead back to six.

It stayed that way for most of the remaining minutes of the half, until with about four minutes left, Fisher hit on three straight free throws for another eight point lead at 53-45. The Pirates cut it back to four again, but Swift and Fisher both hit to return it to eight at 57-49.

With 49 seconds left, a technical was called on the ECU bench, which resulted in three more points for the Buccaneers, running the lead to 10 at 61-51.

In the closing seconds, the Bucs got two more to cut the lead to its final eight-point spread.

Colbert led the Bucs with 11 points, while Thompson had 10. For East Tennessee, Swift had 15 and Fisher and Sims each had 13.

East Carolina, now 4-9, returns to conference action Wednesday night, playing host to George Washington University in Minges Coliseum at 8 p.m. in Greenville.

The Colonials haven't won in the conference this year, but forced the Bucs into four overtimes at Washington, D.C., before bowing earlier this year.

The East Carolina freshmen meet Sandhills Junior College in the preliminary.

North Lenoir Stops Rams

WHEAT SWAMP—North Lenoir rallied in the final period to take a 44-39 victory over Greene Central last night in an Eastern Plains Conference game.

North Lenoir edged out into the lead in the first period, 12-10, but Greene Central came back to take a 23-22 lead at the intermission.

In the third period, the two continued to battle it out, with Greene Central holding its lead at 34-33 as the period ended.

Then in the final frame, Central went cold from the floor and North Lenoir outscored them 11-5, to win the contest.

Ronald Bowen led Greene Central with 11 points, while Ed Denmark paced North Lenoir with 15 and Bill Glover had 12.

In the junior varsity game, North Lenoir took a 58-41 victory.

Williams Pacing Southern Scorers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

West Virginia's Mountaineers are losing the statistical battles but winning the only important thing — the war — in Southern Conference basketball.

Latest team and individual statistics released today by the conference service bureau show that WVU is No. 1 in the standings and owns the SC's top scorer in Ron Williams, who is averaging 22.8 points a game.

But otherwise there are no other visible reasons for the Mountaineers' hold on the league lead.

Davidson leads in team offense with an average of 81 points a game in team defense with an average yield of 71.2; in field goal percentage, 49.9; and in rebounding, with 53.6 per cent of the rebounds. The Wildcats who have the SC's top three field goal shooters in Mike Maloy, 58.5 per cent; Jerry Kroll, 56.1, and Rod Knowles, 54.5.

VMI, with a 3-3 conference record, leads in team free throw per centage, 76.4, and has two individual leaders — Steve Powers in rebounding, with 14.1 per game, and John Kemper in foul shooting, 87 per cent.

West Virginia, however, is gaining in the team offense competition. The Mountaineers averaging 80 points a game, a second behind Davidson and so are No. 2 in rebounding, with 52.2 per cent.

There are no games on the schedule tonight for conference teams.

Lead Valiant Defense By Understrength Platoon

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

WAR ZONE C, Vietnam (AP) — American infantry units in combat are seldom up to strength and 2nd Lt. Hector Colon, a confident man with a jungle-grown red mustache, was not overly disturbed that his platoon roll was down to 32 men.

The rest of Bravo Company, after all, was with them. The day was almost over and it had gone well.

The Vietnamese war, however, has its own unpredictable ways. Colon's little band had to stand alone when the blow fell. When helicopters finally plucked him from the jungle, Colon came out with 9 men standing, 7 dead and 16 wounded.

At 27, Colon is old for a second lieutenant. He came late to the Army when his college grades began to fall and the draft drew close. Now, he is looking forward to returning to Chicago, going back to college and picking up his job as a program director for youth groups at the Joseph Duncan YMCA.

He is also confidently looking forward to marrying his Chicago sweetheart on a rest leave in Hawaii next month.

These things, however, were blocked from his mind this hot and dusty afternoon in the jungles of War Zone C, hard by Cambodia.

The sweating company had been on a patrol that had gone not too badly. A helicopter had been shot down and a crewman died. Getting the rest of the crew out of the jungle had been troublesome. There had been fighting but the enemy had faded away. Choppers came in to pick up the company.

They had lifted out all but Colon's platoon when it all began. The last four choppers were hovering when the Red mortars began to explode. The pilots pulled back their sticks and lifted away.

"Charlie (the Viet Cong) had been waiting," recalled Colon. "He knew there couldn't be many of us left on the ground and he thought he could take us."

With shells blasting the clearing and machine guns ripping the overhanging branches, Colon and his men dived into the tree line 20 yards away, hugging the slight depressions of the jungle floor.

The casualties started quickly, worst for the seven green men who had never before been in a firefight. Four of them died and three were wounded. When the platoon medic was killed, he fell over the bleeding body of the man he was bandaging.

Each survivor remembers it piecemeal. They recall the lieutenant's coolness and the old soldier's bravery of platoon Sgt. Richard Devore, the father of three kids back in Charleston, S.C., who took over a machine gun and died there. They recall Pvt. Sidney Smith of Peoria, Ill., who snaked out to set up a claymore mine, silencing a Viet Cong machine gun. He was later wounded.

The Vietnamese interpreter, Lt. Binh, somehow missed the earlier choppers and wound up fighting with the platoon. He was wounded and the Viet Cong tried to drag him away but Binh killed one with a hunting knife and made it back to the perimeter.

Sgt. Johnnie English of San Antonio, Texas, at 27 the platoon's other old man, coolly called in jets and artillery, closer and closer.

That was the worm's eye view. Overhead in a helicopter was Lt. Col. John Hinchman, a 39-year-old regular officer from Bremerton, Wash. He called Colon's battle a classic and put every man in for a decoration, the silver star for Colon.

Hinchman, from his radio contacts with the ground, was putting jet strikes and napalm within 35 yards of the platoon, artillery even closer.

"Lt. Colon kept yelling to bring it in closer and I kept bringing it in closer," Hinchman said.

Afterwards, partly in wonderment, Colon said: "We didn't get a single casualty from our own stuff. It was great."

Still Unable Meet Heavy Demand For Half Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite heavy production of half dollars, the Treasury Department is still unable to meet the entire demand for the coin bearing President John F. Kennedy's likeness.

Robert A. Wallace, assistant secretary of the Treasury, said Monday all indications are the half dollar continues to increase in circulation although it's still in short supply.

The future of the half dollar—Treasury officials insist it has a future—will be discussed anew March 1 by the Joint Commission on the Coinage.

Pressure has been exerted by industries which use silver to remove it from the half dollar but such a move would require congressional approval.

Although the coin shortage which first hit the nation several years ago has long since been declared over, the Treasury still receives complaints from citizens saying half dollars aren't circulating.

Through Dec. 31, the Treasury produced 894,799,143 Kennedy half dollars and has tentatively projected production of about 200 million pieces for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

By comparison, only 16 million of the coins—which then were Franklin halves—were minted in 1961. This was stepped up to 43 million in 1962 and 56 million in 1963.

Wallace said the Treasury hopes some day to return to an annual production of 100 million halves and even this would be far above what was considered normal a decade or two ago.

Halves, the Treasury feels, have been saved as mementoes of the late president but they are also a handy way for individuals to save money by storing them in a desk drawer.

Saving the new halves for their silver content, officials feel, is useless since the price would have to rise to $3.38 an ounce before a new half dollar would be worth 50 cents in silver. Silver has been bringing about $1.95 an ounce in recent months in market sales.

The 1965 Coinage Act, which removed all silver from dimes and quarters, cut the amount of silver in the half dollar from 90 per cent to 40 per cent. At 90 per cent half was worth its face value in silver when the price went to $1.38 an ounce.

But the Treasury last year invoked its power to bar the melting of coins for their silver content. A conviction could bring a maximum sentence of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Before it switched to a lower silver content, the Treasury produced 429,509,450 Kennedy halves containing 90 per cent silver. Through last month it had minted 465,289,693 halves containing 40 per cent silver.

"Their physical examinations ranged from several tests to virtually none—just weight and measurements," she said. "The only consensus seemed to be that, whether I was overweight or not, I needed pills."

Dr. Frederick Wolff, director of research at the Washington Hospital Center, warned of the dangers of amphetamines, described by Hart as the primary drug used by diet doctors.

Dr. Norman D. Gross, a family physician from Hartford, Conn., said obese persons are "in far greater danger from improper weight control methods and the use of potent combination drugs than the inherent dangers of being overweight."

"Until the American public realizes that one must limit his caloric intake of food and expend more energy (calories) in physical activities in order to lose excess fat, he will be susceptible to all sorts of hazards

Diet Pill Risks Are Stressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart says the diet-pill industry "sprang up because some few doctors find it more profitable to give pills rather than urge proper diet."

The Michigan Democrat, chairman of the Senate Antitrust subcommittee, said it's a multimillion-dollar industry — "and one about which the American people need information and perhaps protection."

Hart's comments were in a statement prepared for the opening today of his subcommittee's hearings into the diet-pill industry.

He said the subcommittee has reason to believe antitrust violations may have occurred in what he termed industry's drive for profits.

And interwoven with these legal questions, he said, are others involving the health and safety of millions of overweight Americans.

Dr. Frederick Wolff, director of research at the Washington Hospital Center, warned of the dangers of amphetamines, described by Hart as the primary drug used by diet doctors.

Dr. Norman D. Gross, a family physician from Hartford, Conn., said obese persons are "in far greater danger from improper weight control methods and the use of potent combination drugs than the inherent dangers of being overweight."

Incoming Prexy Of Advertisers' Federation Questions Controls

By JOHN CUNIFF
Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The event at which Howard H. Bell assumes the presidency of the American Advertising Federation will be next week's 19th annual conference on advertising-government relations. This is significant.

Government today rates high in advertiser attention.

"This is a critical time for advertising," Bell said in an interview. "There is a massive consumer movement under way."

But Bell is not an apologist for what is wrong in advertising, he continued, "but an awful lot of undue legislation is being proposed that would restrict advertising."

The 40,000 advertising people whom Bell will represent have always prided themselves on knowing where the pitch should be made. And so Bell will make his office in Washington and "commute" to the Madison Avenue office here.

That Bell is a lawyer also, and that "he knows how to work effectively with government people in a climate of mutual respect," as the federation puts it, indicates the concern with which the consumer movement is being treated.

Bell, an intense but pleasantly low-key individual, 41-year-old father of three, feels that government should not exploit the popular label of consumerism but, conceding, "I think we'll see more and more attempts to restrain ads."

As do most leaders of industries, he believes strongly in a policy of self-regulation. He emphasizes continually the need for good taste, believing that most criticism is not about truth but "in the area of taste, the approach."

"If tasteless advertising becomes an outright and widespread abuse then it should not be defended," he said.

Seldom, however, are the issues clear cut. Advertising is a subtle area where "a certain amount of license is the price of freedom," Bell feels. "How do you control advertising without infringing on its creativity?" he asks.

The AAF has no enforcement powers, but instead believes it can use moral persuasion to enforce high standards through local businessmen, Better Business Bureaus and its members in 173 clubs, 700 companies, 25 other groups.

In executing his job, Bell feels he must strive toward these goals:

- Maintenance and preservation of the freedom of advertising and business.
- Development of programs that will enhance professionalism, mainly through self-regulation.
- Cultivation of a unified voice in industry matters.
- Education in the role and function of advertising.

Scouts Visited Military Bases

Twenty scouts from Boy Scout Troop 205 toured the Norfolk Navy Yard and the Army's Fort Eustis at Hampton, Va. last weekend.

While at the navy installation the scouts visited the cruiser USS Springfield; the submarine USS Cuba and the destroyer USS Steadfast.

While in Norfolk, the group also visited the MacArthur Museum.

At Fort Eustis, where the group spent Saturday night in new Army barracks, the scouts went swimming, bowling, skating and worked at a handicraft lodge.

Sunday morning the scouts toured the Fort Eustis military reservation and attended church services.

The scouts then toured the Mariners Museum before returning home.

Eight Courses In Night School

The Undergraduate Evening College (UEC), freshman night school operated by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education, has eight courses on its schedule for the third term of the 1967-68 school year.

Registration is scheduled Friday, Jan. 26, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 29-30, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. in Erwin Hall on the university campus.

Third term courses are accounting, English composition, English literature, American history, algebra and general mathematics.

Four courses will meet on Monday and Wednesday nights. Four others are scheduled on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Each class meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and adjourn at 9:50 p.m.

Classes begin Monday, Jan. 29, and the term ends March 21. No holiday will be observed during the third term.

No Overtime, So Traffic Blocked

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Cecil E. Blunk of Des Moines, the engineer, and Paul T. Walsh of Kansas City, conductor, says they had to stop a 156-car freighter train that blocked three crossings for 1½ hours because the crew ran out of time.

They said they had to stop the Chicago and Great North Western train because Interstate Commerce Commission rules won't let them work more than 16 hours in a 24-hour period. After the train was brought to a halt in nearby Wolcott, another crew was sent out from Kansas City to bring in the train.

Long-Hair Crowd In Good Company

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Store owner Mickey Sherman said he wanted to answer billboards that show a picture of a shaggy-haired youth and advise: "Beautify America... get a haircut." So he erected a billboard that read: "Jesus wore long hair." He said he got about 200 telephone calls from people praising him and 11 calls that were critical.

Cyclists Warned Wear Helmets

Greenville police today cautioned local motorcycle and motorbike riders that they are required by law to wear protective helmets while operating two-wheeled motor powered vehicles on city streets and highways in North Carolina.

Chief H.F. Lawson said persons who violate the state law are subject to arrest for failing to wear proper helmets.

The chief explained that both drivers and passengers of motorcycles and motorbikes are required under the statute to wear approved protective helmets. He said the law became effective January 1, and arrests have been made in Greenville for violations of the statute.

He said the law was enacted as a measure to protect motorcycle riders in the event their vehicle is involved in some type of mishap or collision with another vehicle.

Lana Uninterested In The Lurid Roles

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why isn't a star of Lana Turner's obvious voltage making movies? "Why aren't a lot of actresses making movies?" she asks. "Because they don't make pictures for women any more. Everything is directed toward the men. If a producer can get Steve McQueen or Paul Newman for a picture, he's got it made. He isn't interested in female stars."

But there's another reason for Miss Turner's inactivity since "Madame X" two years ago. She will not play in the lurid films that dominate the movie market today.

"Look—I'm no prude," she remarked. "I think I know what's happening. But I see no reason to put raw sex on the screen. For what? What does it prove? That human beings are like animals? If that's what movies are coming to, then I want no part of it."

"You wouldn't believe the filth that I find in scripts sent to me nowadays. Absolute filth! It makes me physically ill to read such things. And yet I notice that those pictures get made, and producers find actresses to play the roles. I feel sorry for girls who feel they have to play such parts just to keep in front of the public.

"I'd like to work, too. I feel I've got some juices in me. I've got a figure that is all right, and I don't look so bad. I'm not ready to give up on an acting career yet. But I'm not so desperate that I would take these dirty pictures that they're making today. Thank God I am in the financial position where I don't have to."

The position of Lana Turner as a moralist may seem like odd casting, but she is schooled in the old MGM tradition. In those days, certain things were left to the public's imagination.

And though Lana first rose to fame as the sweeter girl, she never took it off.

"That's another thing I think is revolting: these actresses who think nothing of taking off their clothes," she remarked. "Why do they do it? Don't they know that it only cheapens them? Some things are better left to the imagination; a man's Opening lead: Five of ♣.

An inspired bit of deception by an alert defender induced South into making a fatal change of plans in his grand slam contract. Altho the partnership pushed their assets to the limits, the final bid of seven spades was a reasonable undertaking.

West opened the five of clubs, a heart was discarded from dummy. East put up the king of clubs, and South was in with the ace. Declarer observed that he could not come to 13 tricks by merely ruffing out the clubs, for only one discard was available on North's high diamonds and South had two losing hearts. He, therefore, decided to establish the dummy's long suit.

In order to throw his opponent off the track, and at the same time provide the latter with an alternate line of play, West promptly followed with the queen of diamonds when that suit was led. The ace was played from dummy. It appeared to South that West was short in diamonds, in which case the suit could safely be established without fear of an overruff by first drawing trump. The ace of diamonds next, however, it was East who showed out. West's deception was revealed; however, it was too late for the declarer.

On this line of reasoning, South abandoned his original course and drew two more rounds of trump, ending in dummy. When he cashed the king of diamonds next, however, it was East who showed out. West's deception was revealed; however, it was too late for the declarer.

In order to salvage something on the deal, South led the ten of diamonds and passed the trick around to West, discarding a club. The defense cashed one more club trick for a 200-point profit.

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices today were mostly steady, instances of 25 cents higher. Tops of 17.75-18.25 Rocky Mount; 17.00-18.25 Tarboro; 17.25-18.00 Statesville; 17.00-18.00 Bethel; 17.25-17.75 Hickory; 17.25-18.25 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albemarle, Lumberton; 18.00 Greensboro, Salisbury, Rich Square; 17.75 Selma, Goldsboro; 17.25 Siler City, Denton.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets irregular. Supplies imbalanced, demand generally good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites: 42 to 44; medium, whites: 40 1/2 to 42; small, whites: 36 to 39.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to backtrack early this afternoon. It was the second of a series of shortened sessions.

Trading was heavy. The ticker tape lagged in the morning. The ratio of losers to gainers widened to more than 2 to 1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 3.99 at 867.72.

The investment public was still nervous about hectic trading conditions which have brought warnings and also the new series of abbreviated trading days to allow brokerage houses to catch up with mountains of paper work, analysts said.

The background was clouded by the current hearings on the long-requested income surtax as well as by fears of a possible increase in the 70 per cent margin — or down payment — for stock purchases to 100 per cent or close to it.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .9 at 315.9 with industrials off 1.7, rails off .5 and utilities unchanged.

A 4-point drop by Du Pont followed its report that earnings for 1967 were down about 20 per cent.

Among other weak blue chips, Alcoa lost 2, Ford and Air Reduction 1 each, U.S. Gypsum nearly 2.

News that IBM had proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend—equivalent to a 2-for-1 split—accompanied a rise which saw the giant computer stock up 6 points before trading was halted temporarily.

It was a ray of sunlight for other computer issues which have been battered recently. Control Data snapped back a couple of points.

Prices slid some more on the American Stock Exchange where pressure continued on various low-priced issues.

Asks Guard For Brooklyn Schools

NEW YORK (AP) — School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan, reacting to the beating of a principal and two teachers at a Brooklyn junior high school last Friday, has asked for $1.25 million to provide a security guard at each of the city's 906 public schools.

Two 'Outstanding' Teenagers Selected

Marsha Perkins and James Beverly Congleton III, students at Stokes-Pactolus High School, have been selected as Outstanding Teenagers of America for 1967, announced the Outstanding Americans Foundations today.

These students, nominated by their school, will compete for state and national awards in the Outstanding Teenagers of America Program.

Specialist Will Address Doctors

A Johns Hopkins University specialist in diseases of female reproductive organs will explain detection and treatment of techniques to Eastern North Carolina physicians at a meeting here this week.

Dr. Georgeanna S. Jones, director of the Laboratory of Re-

The OAF, a nonprofit foundation dedicated to encouraging young people to take full advantage of the opportunities in America, sponsors this awards program annually.

The recipients of this honor were selected on the basis of ability and achievement. They will compete with other winners in the state for the Governor's Trophy awarded annually to the most outstanding teenager in the state. The students will also be eligible for one of the top ten national awards and college scholarships made available by the OAF.

Congleton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Congleton Jr. of Stokes. He has been active in the Boy Scouts of America and was one of 12 students in the nation giving Scouting's "Report to the Nation" to President Johnson in 1967. His scouting awards include: Eagle Scout, God and Country, Order of the Arrow, Lodge Chief and Vigil member. He has served his school as vice president of the Student Government Association, business manager for the yearbook, vice president of the Beta Club, and a marshal.

Miss Perkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Perkins of Stokes. She is president of the Stokes-Pactolus Student Government Association, a varsity basketball player, assistant editor of the yearbook, a marshal, and is a member of the Beta Club.

DR. GEORGEANNA JONES

productive Physiology and gynecologist in charge of the Gynecological Endocrine Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore since 1939, will speak Thursday at 5:30 p.m. and again at 7:45 p.m. at the Candlewick Inn.

The Greenville meeting is for physicians in a 16-county area. The six-meeting series is sponsored by the Pitt County Medical Society and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Medicine.

Architect Gives PTI Lecture

Charles Woodall, local architect of the firm Smart and Woodall, gave a lecture to the students of Architectural Drafting at Pitt Technical Institute recently.

Woodall discussed the organizational structure of an architect's office, the responsibilities of a draftsman and the general nature of an architect's work.

Woodall is a member of the American Institute of Architects and this organization is cooperating with Pitt Tech in providing lectures as well as assisting in job placement.

'Adjuster' Class Begins Thursday

Report Growth By Winterville Bank

WINTERVILLE—An increase of almost 20 per cent in 1967 deposits of the Bank of Winterville was reported by the stockholders at the annual meeting Friday night.

President Don Langston reported that per share earnings based on year-end figures showed a substantial increase from $9.32 per share for 1966 to $12.78 per share for 1967. He said the sale of 279 shares of additional stock plus amounts transferred from earnings resulted in an increase of capital, surplus and undivided profits of $175,425.07 at the end of the 1967 year.

Went Aground On Antarctic Cruise

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The cruise ship Magga Dan was pulled off an ice shelf at McMurdo Sound in the Antarctic today by the U.S. icebreaker Westwind, an Operation Deep Freeze spokesman said.

The 1,957-ton tourist ship went aground Sunday night when a 32-knot gust caught her as she rounded Hut Point not far from the U.S. Navy research base at McMurdo Station. The Magga Dan has 25 American tourists on board.

The grounding apparently caused the passengers no discomfort, and a party was held on the ship Monday night with men from the American and New Zealand antarctic bases joining in.

The Magga Dan was tied up for inspection at McMurdo pier.

Japanese Say Drug 'Cured' Cancer Case

TOKYO (AP) — Officials of a pharmaceutical company reported today that a Japanese research team has developed a drug which cured a cancer in the roof of a man's mouth and achieved "encouraging" results in clinical tests on other cancer patients at the Kanazawa University Hospital.

In some cases, officials of the Chugai Pharmaceutical Co. said, the drug has produced a "drastic" improvement and in others "slow" results.

The research team is headed by Prof. Hajime Okamoto, director of the department of pharmacology at Kanazawa University. The team has worked in collaboration with the Chugai company which said it has marketing rights on the new drug.

Since Saturday, Chugai's stock has climbed from 23.3 cents to 31.4 cents on the Tokyo Stock Exchange because of reports of the new drug.

"There was no exception," one executive said. "All the tests were effective."

Offer Tests To Men Interested In Flying Career

Student men interested in flying as a career will be invited to check with the Naval Aviation Information Team which will be at East Carolina University on Thursday and Friday.

The team will administer the Aviation Qualification Test to interested men to determine their potential for Naval aviation.

Qualified students will be flown to the Naval air station, Norfolk, at their convenience, where they will undergo a physical examination, fill out an application for a naval officer's commission, and get a closer look at the Navy.

Students passing the qualifications test will be given an indoctrination flight in a T-34 "Mentor" at the local airport or during their visit to Norfolk.
