Couple Speaks Vows Sunday

MRS. DENIS SHERALD JACKSON

Miss Judy Ann Mills became the bride of Denis Sherald Jackson Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in a ceremony performed at the home of her parents. The Rev. F. B. Cherry officiated at the ceremony. An altar was formed by two seven tiered candelabra with a centerpiece of gladioli and mums banked with greenery. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a coat and dress ensemble of white bonded knit. Her veil was attached to a white satin rosette. She carried a white yellow-throated orchid bouquet. The bridegroom's father was best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mills wore a three piece

Mom Makes Serious Financial 'Goof' By Giving Son Money

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband died 10 years ago and left me a small estate which was to be security for my old age. Well, I have three daughters and one son. They are all married and have families. The girls have good, hard-working husbands, who provide well for them, but my son has had such hard luck. He dropped out of high school so he can't get a very good-paying job.

My daughters' children have nice clothes, music lessons, good bicycles, and things like that, so naturally, my son feels that his kids are entitled to have it as good as their cousins, so he has asked me to help him out. I have helped him about as much as I can, and now all my money is used up.

My son can't pay me back, so now I have to go to live with someone. I kind of planned on living with my son, but he says a mother's place is with her daughters, not her son. What am I to do? If I tell my daughters where my money has gone they will surely be mad.

DEAR WORRIED: Your son seems more familiar with hard LUCK than hard WORK. You were foolish to have given your "security" money to your son. His children were "entitled" to only what their father was able to provide for them. Tell your daughters the truth, and take your medicine.

DEAR ABBY: When a man marries a girl fresh out of college he doesn't expect to get the world's greatest cook and housekeeper. But how brainy does a girl have to be to know she shouldn't starch her husband's underwear?

DEAR UNCOMFORTABLE: That's a pretty stiff question. Give her time.

DEAR ABBY: I feel I must talk to someone about a problem that has been on my mind for a long time. It's my mentally retarded niece, I'll call "Lucy."

She can't go to school with normal children. Lucy's mother has taken a day time job outside the home. Not that she needs the money, she says the child gets on her nerves and she has to get away. This mother will put Lucy off on anyone who will keep her. I've kept her quite a lot myself. She's a sweet child and seems willing to learn, but Abby, I have four of mine to look after.

Shouldn't Lucy's mother stay at home and teach that unfortunate child to do things for herself, so she won't go through life depending on others to do things for her?

Lucy is now 14, and she needs the teaching that only a mother can give a daughter that age if you know what I mean. Should

I take Lucy full time? Maybe I should. Your answer will ease my mind.

CONCERNED AUNT
DEAR CONCERNED: Yes, take Lucy. That you would write shows you have a heart and a conscience. You say Lucy can't go to school with "normal" children. I hope she is going to a school for retarded children. If not, please call your local Board of Education for information on such schools, and see that Lucy attends. God bless you.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Dinner Party Given Couple

BETHEL—Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wilson Andrews were honored at a dinner party Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ebron Allen in Greenville.

Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogerson, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Burton Jr., Mrs. Russell Carson and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Carson.

A motif of yellow and white were used in floral and candle arrangements which decorated the house. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a tiered arrangement of yellow mums interspersed with greenery. Burning tapers flanked the centerpiece.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were remembered with corsages by the hosts and hostesses.

SUNDAY BRUNCH BUFFET

- Sliced Bananas in Orange Juice
- Panfried Ham Scrambled Eggs
- Raised Cornsticks Beverage
- RAISED CORNSTICKS
- 1½ cup milk; scalded
- 1¾ cups yellow cornmeal
- 3 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup warm water
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 3½ cups unsifted regular flour

Off heat, into the scalded milk stir the cornmeal, sugar, salt and butter; cool till mixture is lukewarm. In a large warm bowl dissolve the yeast in the water; stir in lukewarm cornmeal mixture, eggs and half the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn into well-greased cornstick pans, allowing about ¼ cup batter for each cornstick. Let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk—about 45 minutes. Bake at 375 degrees for about 30 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 21 large cornsticks—3 pans with places for 7 cornsticks in each. These cornsticks are chock-full of cornmeal and do not taste sweet.

FAMILY DINNER

- Veal Chops
- Broccoli Salad Bowl
- Lemon Pudding Casserole
- LEMON PUDDING CASSEROLE

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
Into a large bowl sift together ¾ cup sugar, cornstarch and salt. In a small bowl beat the egg yolks slightly; add milk and beat to combine; slowly stir into the dry ingredients keeping smooth. Add lemon rind, lemon juice and butter. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in the remaining ¾ cup sugar; continue beating, if necessary, until whites hold stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn. Fold into lemon mixture.

Turn into butter 1½ quart glass round casserole (7½ by 2½ inches) or similar baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water that comes about halfway up casserole. Bake in a 350-degree oven until top is firm and well browned—about 50 minutes. There will be a cake-like top and a sauce underneath. Makes 6 servings.

Tired of beef hamburgers? Shape ground lamb into patties and pan fry. For that extra touch when you season the lamb with salt and pepper, add a little minced fresh dill or dried dill weed.

Experience Convinced Gov. Moore

For a man who came into office saying the state should sell the one old airplane it had for use by top officials and visiting dignitaries, Gov. Moore has seen his administration do a startling about-face.

Although he soon recognized the need for a state-owned plane after coming into office, Gov. Moore had to make good his campaign-propaganda by selling the Kitty Hawk. It was quickly replaced, however, with another executive plane the state has owned since early in the Moore administration.

Now the Conservation and Development people have come forward with a proposal that the state purchase a more modern, plush prop-jet plus an executive helicopter for use by officials and visiting dignitaries. Certainly that proposal would not have the endorsement of the Board of Conservation and Development if it did not likewise have the approval of Gov. Moore.

In spite of his early talking-through-his-hat about the foolishness of the state's owning an airplane, obviously Gov. Moore has learned more about the needs of North Carolina since coming into office.

In this day of air travel, North Carolina cannot expect its officials to keep pace without modern transportation equipment at their disposal. That equipment must include a modern airplane. Neither can the state expect that representatives of industry, accustomed to air travel in fast, comfortable planes, are going to be impressed by a state which shuttles them from place to place in time-consuming automobile trips or offers them a ride in the kind of aircraft companies abandoned years ago.

The state has an urgent need for the kind of new plane proposed by the C and D. It also could put to good use the executive helicopter that the agency proposes the state buy. The state government, like other big business, cannot do an efficient job with outmoded and inadequate equipment. Modern air travel equipment is essential to the kind of job the people of North Carolina expect from their top officials.

Each New Job In N.C. Is Costing Much More

As communities consider their industrial development potential, they should not overlook the changing pattern taking place in the investment required for creating new industrial jobs in North Carolina.

Figures released by the state indicate the average investment required for each new industrial job created in North Carolina last year was $26,720. This compared with the average investment of $9,600 for each new industrial job in North Carolina in 1957. It reflects not only the higher cost of buildings and equipment, but also the use of more sophisticated and expensive equipment in the new industries moving into North Carolina. It also means for each dollar invested in industrial expansion, fewer jobs are being created in North Carolina.

On the other side of the coin, the figures also suggest the new jobs require higher skills and command higher pay than the average of past years. Although North Carolina may see fewer new jobs created with industrial investment dollars comparable to previous years, it is nonetheless seeing the calibre of its new industrial jobs upgraded.

Nixon Stays Aloof

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NASHUA, N.H. — At the first campaign rally here for Richard M. Nixon one evening last week, several pro-Nixon voters quietly grumbled to a Republican leader named Bernard Streeter.

While George Romney was out stumping New Hampshire, they complained, Nixon was holed up in his Manhattan law office instead of campaigning for the March 12 Presidential primary.

"I know, I know," replied Streeter, "but don't tell me, tell those guys down in New York. They won't listen to me."

What made this seemingly casual exchange particularly interesting was the fact that Streeter is Nixon's chairman in Nashua. With Nixon absent, the star of the rally at the Berkshire Country Inn (only 31 voters and two teenagers showed up) was former Connecticut Governor John Davis Lodge.

Lodge cuts a dashing figure, and he made a rip-snorting speech for Nixon. But without Nixon himself on the scene to give his campaign much needed policy direction, Lodge made a hard-line anti-Communist speech, dwelling on Nixon's part in the Alger Hiss case 20 years ago. Nixon campaign workers squirmed in their chairs.

Moreover, the only other speaker that evening was State Senator Jack Chandler, an ardent Nixon backer and an extreme right-wing Republican. What this means is not that Nixon's campaign is about to be taken over by the right wing, but that it is crying for leadership from the candidate himself. Yet Nixon's first visit here will not come until Feb. 3, when he opens his campaign at a $5-a-plate testimonial dinner in Concord.

Campaign manager David Sterling, a 29-year-old Republican protégé of former Governor Wesley Powell, hopes to keep Nixon here for two days of campaigning on that occasion. Sterling is also hoping to keep Nixon in the state for two days on his second scheduled visit Feb. 16, when he makes a speech to the Chamber of Commerce in Nashua.

But Sterling, only a first-termer in the New Hampshire House, has never run a state-wide campaign before. The real decisions, as Streeter indicated, are not being made here on the scene but in Nixon's Manhattan law office and in his unofficial political headquarters in Washington (Nixon has still not announced his candidacy).

Accordingly, it looks as though Nixon may be making the same mistake in 1968 that cost him so dearly in the 1960 Presidential election—keeping state and local political managers at arm's length and ignoring their advice, while he himself makes the decisions, often without consultation. Neither Sterling nor anyone else up here knows exactly what his campaign plans are in six full weeks remaining before the primary.

The only certainty is that he does not want to make a Romney-style hamlet-to-hamlet saturation campaign, counting instead on a few set speeches, radio and television spots, and the fact that he is far better known here than is Romney.

Three Years Of End Of Secrecy Again Is Raised

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — For three years and more it's been jabber-jabber-jabber, with nothing to show for it yet.

The one aim of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese is taking over South Vietnam. They have been stopped by the United States from doing it by force.

There are other possible ways: For example — a peace that let the Viet Cong become part of the South Vietnamese government.

Once they had their foot in the door then, by hook or crook, they might grab control. So far all their aims have been stopped.

Despite all the semantics about "could" and "would" and "will," this is the basic, unchanged position of both sides on how to start peace talks: North Vietnam says the United States, unconditionally, must stop bombing the North and get its forces out of Vietnam altogether.

The United States says it will stop the bombing but not unconditionally. Before it stops, it wants assurance peace talks will start promptly.

North Vietnam has refused to give such assurance, says the United States can't lay down conditions, and declares everything the United States says is a "trick."

The reason this country won't stop the bombing until it gets the assurances it insists upon is this: Bombing won't win the war; but it does damage the North; this keeps a lot of North Vietnamese, who otherwise could be directly involved in the war, busy repairing damage; the bombing does put a dent in the men and supplies the North is sending South and all this is a help to U-S ground forces in the South.

To stop the bombing, without assurances peace talks could start right away, would let the North pile up men and supplies for its forces in the South and put U.S. ground forces at a great disadvantage.

Instead of haggling three years, it might seem that if both sides wanted peace, or only if one did, peace talks could be arranged fast.

It's not that simple. If North Vietnam yielded to American demands it would be an admission it wanted or needed peace.

If the United States knuckled under to North Vietnam — particularly if it withdrew its forces — it would be an admission it had lost the heart and interest it used to have in stopping aggressive Communist expansion.

This in turn would be notification to the other non-Communist nations of Southeast Asia they could no longer expect American help against communism. The inevitable result: All Southeast Asia would fall to communism.

Underlying all this is a basic, selfish American motive. Unless the United States tries to stop Communist expansion while it ran, communism will be left free to gobble up every nation in sight until in the end the United States has neither friends nor allies and is practically surrounded and helpless.

RALEIGH — Lt. Gov. Robert W. (Bob) Scott, knowing his audience, struck a chord perhaps closest to the professional heart of the state's newspaper editors and publishers by advocating an "open door" and anti-secrecy policy in state government.

Certainly this, in the view of the politically-alert press of North Carolina, is something devoutly to be wished and constantly demanded.

It has been sought, pressed for, argued for and fought for continuously by the press for many years without success. And despite all efforts and editorial criticism, secrecy in state government has increased and become more prevalent throughout the structure, year after year.

Now, in Chapel Hill last week before an audience of nearly 200 editors, publishers and top-flight reporters — at a forum featuring all five of the announced 1968 candidates for governor — it appeared that a breakthrough might be achieved.

A Firm Stand Consider the setting. The NCPA forum was the first and perhaps the only simultaneous appearance of the five candidates between their announcement and the primaries on May 4 and possibly the general elections next November.

Underlying all this is a basic, selfish American motive. Unless the United States tries to stop Communist expansion while it ran, communism will be left free to gobble up every nation in sight until in the end the United States has neither friends nor allies and is practically surrounded and helpless.

Are We Being Tricked?

WASHINGTON — My good friend Joe Wallstop, whom all of us in the column business look on as the opinion-maker's opinion-maker, was in a foul mood when I saw him the other day.

"What's the trouble, Joe?" "I can't stand these fools who keep talking about peace in Vietnam."

"You mean President Johnson and Dean Rusk?" "No, you idiot," he said angrily. "I mean the appeasers and the peaceniks and the nervous Nellies who keep screaming for us to stop the bombing and sit down with the Communists."

"Oh, those fools. But why are you so upset right now?" "Because Hanoi is trying to trick us into peace negotiations."

"I thought that was what we were going for in Vietnam."

"Don't you see? If they're asking for peace negotiations, that means they're hurting, and instead of letting up on them now, we should really start clobbering them."

"But we were clobbering them before because they wouldn't talk peace with us."

"Exactly. We clobbered them before because they wouldn't discuss negotiations with us. They thought they were winning the war. Now that they're asking for peace, they obviously don't think they can win the war, and this is the time to let them have it."

"But, Joe, what I don't understand is that if we can't sit down with them when they think they're winning the war, and we can't sit down with them when they think they're losing the war, when the hell can we sit down with them?"

"There is no good time to sit down with Hanoi. That's why we have to keep clobbering them. I have here some captured documents which indicate that it was part of Hanoi's master plan that if they couldn't win the war they would sit down with us and talk peace."

"That's serious, if true," I said. "But what's wrong with it?"

Wallstop seemed exasperated. "Don't you understand? All they want is a breathing spell from the bombing."

"But I thought the whole idea of the bombing was to bring the North Vietnamese to the conference table."

"Sure," said Wallstop, "but they won't come to the conference table unless we stop the bombing. So why should we stop the bombing to appease them?"

"I guess we shouldn't. Then you see peace as the biggest danger of the war?"

"Certainly do. It's the one thing we can't afford to have. When you start talking peace, you have to make concessions. We're in no position to make concessions to the Communists. After all, our obligation is to South Vietnam, not North Vietnam."

"From what you have said, you really can't have peace talks with the Communists, even if they ask for it, because if you do they would interpret it as a sign of weakness on our part."

"Now you've got it," said Wallstop. "If we stop the bombing and sit down with them, it will be a moral victory for their side." (Continued On Page 5)

Jan. 24, 1928 Older Boys Conference Here Soon

Preparing for the ninth annual Boys' Conference which is to be held in Greenville Feb. 10, 11 and 12, under the auspices of the state Y.M.C.A., the following committee has been formed for the enlistment of entertainment: C. B. Rowlett, chairman; L. A. Stroud, K. T. Futrell, Miss Betsie Greene, H. H. Duncan, W. E. Hooker, Mrs. C. W. Harvey. . . . Four hundred of the leading boys of 75 or more high schools of eastern North Carolina are expected to attend. . . .

V. A. Merritt Returns From Convention Of Delco-Light Dealers

As ever growing appreciation of the value of electricity as a time and labor saver on the farm, coupled with a sound product which supplies the needed electricity at low cost will make Delco-Light sales in 1928 among the largest of any similar period in the company's history. This was the prediction of Merritt Equipment Co., local dealers of the Delco-Light Company of Dayton, Ohio, subsidiary of General Motors, after his return from the annual sales convention of the company for this section of the country held at Atlanta, Ga. . . .

Greenview Baseball Club Looking For Name

Greenview's membership in the newly formed Eastern Carolina league was assured last night at an enthusiastic public meeting held in the Court house. The meeting was largely attended and resulted in the actual organization of the local club, election of officers and a board of directors. G. V. Smith, well known tobacconist, was elected president; W. S. Moye, vice-president; H. S. Ragsdale, Secretary and Treasurer. The following men will compose the board of directors: R. M. Garrett, C. W. Shuff, W. H. Smith. . . . After considerable discussion to determine a name for the local team, it was decided to offer a prize of a season ticket to the person submitting a name which will be decided by a committee already appointed. The contest opened today and closes at 12 o'clock, Jan. 30th. . . .

GOP Takes Dim View Of 'State Of The Union'

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Republicans charge that gradualism and vacillation by President Johnson have prolonged the Vietnam war. On the home front, the GOP says administration policies have failed to combat mounting crime and inflation. In their answer to President Johnson's State of the Union message, the Republicans called for "military success" in the war based on "effective utilization" of U.S. air and sea power. And Republicans criticized "complacency, disunity and protest here at home" while warning the nation is losing the strategic superiority they claimed was built under Republican leadership during the 1950s.

The GOP spokesmen also renewed calls for reductions in federal spending and a transfer of programs from the national government to states and localities. The Republican reply, featuring nine House members and eight senators, was carried live

Tuesday night on the CBS radio-television networks. Republican governors, numbering 26 of the nation's 50, were not included in the presentation, which was introduced by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and had Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., as master of ceremonies.

Five Collisions Here Tuesday; Two Injured

Two persons were reported injured in five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday.

Officers said Stanley Stuart Snead Jr., 17, of 403 Greenville Dr. was injured when the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by Amos James Evans, 59, of Route 1, Greenville.

The collision occurred about 7:59 a.m. at the intersection of Boyd Avenue and Broad Street. Damage to the Evans car was set at $25 while damage to the Snead car was placed at $100.

Evans was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety while Snead was charged with operating a motorcycle without a helmet.

Pedestrian Herbert A. Moore, 24, of 505 East Ninth St. was injured when struck by a car on Cotanche Street, 300 feet South of the Fifth Street intersection about 6 p.m.

Officers said Moore allegedly stepped into the path of a car driven by Stathé George Koutroulias, 19, of Charlotte.

No damage resulted to the Koutroulias vehicle and no charges were placed.

Arthur LeRoy Odom, 60, of Norfolk, was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout while backing following investigation of a 10:10 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Boyd Avenue and Spruce Street.

Police said the Odom car struck a parked car owned by Charles Claude Cash Sr., of 406 Biltmore St., causing an estimated $100 damage to the Cash vehicle.

No damage resulted to the Odom auto.

Otis Earl Mayo, 18, of Route 1, Greenville was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 11:30 a.m. U. S. 264-N. C. 43 intersection collision.

Officers said the Mayo car collided with a car driven by Wayne Sears Leary, 25, of Raleigh, causing an estimated $50 damage to the Leary auto and about $75 damage to the Mayo vehicle.

Cars driven by Nettie Etta Brogdon of 409 Holly St. and Undine Weeks Mills of Route 3, Greenville were involved in a 1 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and 10th Streets.

Damage to the Brogdon auto was estimated to be $150 while damage to the Mills car was set at $140.

Mrs. Brogdon was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

'Proper Housing' Stance Approved

ALBEMARLE, N. C. (AP) — The Mecklenburg Presbytery, embracing six counties, has approved a resolution affirming "the right of any man, regardless of race, religion or national origin, to buy or rent any house or apartment which he desires and can afford."

Approval came on a voice vote without discussion at the winter meeting Tuesday at Albemarle's First Presbyterian Church.

problems that plague us" before turning to the matter of "open doors."

His, Scott said, would be "an open door administration." He voiced his opposition to closed meetings by governmental agencies and boards and said he feels strongly in the principle of the right of the people to know. He said he would advocate "open discussions, openly arrived at" decisions throughout state government.

This, Scott said, would extend from the governor's office through all levels of the government.

Others Agree
E. A. Resch of Silver City, legislative chairman for the N.C.P.A. was beside himself after Scott's comments. He asked if Scott would support and push a legislative bill to prohibit legislative secrecy such as closed meetings of the joint Appropriations committee.

"If you people would enter such a bill, I would," Scott promised. Resch insisted that such legislation was introduced in 1967 but was slashed apart and finally killed. Would he now give it his support? Scott said he would.

The other four candidates unanimously gave their approval and, in effect, a qualified endorsement to anti-secrecy legislation. Stickley qualified his answer as to the wisdom of open meetings involving personalities, highway right-of-way acquisition of certain sales of property in which disclosure might create speculation.

Nevertheless, it appeared that on this particular issue all five candidates had taken a firm, definite stand on which they will be held accountable in future months.

win. For example, a non-scientific poll we conducted among 35 Republican voters in the IGA supermarket in Concord last week gave Nixon 51 percent, Romney 31. The balance is divided between "don't know" and New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller (who will not be on the ballot). Moreover, all five of those who wrote in Nixon's name in the 1964 Presidential primary are sticking with him in 1968.

Our sample agreed in one important respect with the December poll taken by Romney's polling organization, the Market-Opinion Research Co. of Detroit, that Nixon has more than 50 percent, or an absolute majority, of Republican voters. That would seem to be an all but insurmountable lead.

But the Romney sample contains one key statistic, and it is on this statistic that the Romney managers base their remote hope for a miracle. This is that almost 50 percent of those who said in December that they would vote for Nixon were less than "strong" Nixon supporters. In other words, one-half the Nixon support is at least vulnerable to Romney's intensive campaign and might switch.

It is precisely this danger, coupled with Romney's success here last week, that has some of the Nixon backers quietly fuming over his absenteeism.

one of whose two sons left for Vietnam last week, said she believes that "not only all parents, but all thinking Americans, are as deeply distressed as I am by complacency, disunity and protest here at home."

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford cited President Johnson's figure of speech comparing the nation with a ship heading through troubled waters and said, "The ship of state is wallowing in a storm-tossed sea, drifting toward the rocks of domestic disaster beaten by the waves of worldwide fiscal crisis that threaten shipwreck."

"We need a captain who inspires his crew to heroic endeavor," Ford said, "a captain who learned his seamanship beyond the Potomac and Pedernales."

Ford said Americans have seen "raging violence, bloodshed destruction and death right on their own doorsteps" and Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., commented that "the cities are boiling with frustration."

Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., attacked what he called administration failures to combat crime.

Rep. Charlotte T. Reid, R-Ill.,

said, "Rape is commonplace—burglary happens so often it is no longer news."

Despite warnings by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and local law enforcement officers, Poff said, "the Johnson administration has failed to take effective action."

He called for restoration of "peace and tranquility guaranteed by the Constitution" and said "the American people want the 'enforcement' put back into law enforcement."

None of the GOP speakers presented proposals in the civil rights field, although Murphy mentioned the matter at one point and said Sen. Edward R. Brooke, R-Mass. only Negro member of the Senate, would have talked on the subject had he not been touring Africa.

In line with the GOP plan of emphasizing some of their new faces, the principal argument on spending and taxes came from Texas freshman Rep. George Bush, member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

He renewed GOP arguments that a federal spending cut is necessary before President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge plan can be considered.

"If the President wants to control inflation," Bush said, "he's got to cut back on federal spending."

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference, called for a return of a portion of federal tax revenues to the states without strings.

In other speeches touching on domestic issues, Rep. Catherine May, R-Wash., said Americans want "the President to stop wasting money and make it worth something again"; Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said "this nation requires a realistic housing program, not more false promises" and Rep. Robert B. Mathias, R-Calif., said that "every time the Johnson administration comes up with a new farm program, the farmers pay more and get less."

Most of the foreign policy statements came from senators, including calls for vigorous U.S. leadership from Sens. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., and Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., and firm support for the "survival of gallant Israel" by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A black overcoat, frock coat, vest, trousers and tie President Abraham Lincoln was wearing when he was shot in 1865 are back in Washington.

For the last seven years they had rested in a safe deposit box at a Greensboro, N.C., bank. They are destined for a place of honor in a new museum at Ford's Theater here where Lincoln was assassinated.

Mrs. J. Marvin Smith of Greensboro, a granddaughter of a Lincoln bodyguard, sold the clothing Monday to the U.S. Capitol Historical Society for $25,000. The society turned the clothes over to the Lincoln Museum during ceremonies Tuesday.

Mrs. Smith inherited the clothes about 40 years ago. They originally were given by Mrs. Lincoln to Alphonse Donn, one of President Lincoln's personal guards.

Cub Scout Pack 385 of St. James Methodist Church held its annual Pinewood Derby last night and inaugurated a new race track.

Billy Williams was first place winner in the speed event and Mike Brown took first place for appearance. Ray Kilpatrick was runner-up in the speed event and Murray Adams was second in appearance.

The first place winners received blue ribbons and pocketknives and the runner-ups were presented flashlights by the Cubmaster Richard Foster.

Trophies for the best built car in each den were won by Mike Brown, Murray Adams, Jerry Bellis, Billy Ellington, Ray Kilpatrick and Drew Taylor.

Trophies for the speed winners in the den races went to Randy Allen, Lindsay Henry, Vince Clayton, Ray Kilpatrick, Drew Taylor and Billy Williams.

Race officials were Jim Walters, John B. Davis, Don Dempsey, Frank Brown, and Don Jeffreys, Donald F. Bailey, Tom Brown and Jerry Thompson served as judges.

The cars, built by the boys with the help of their fathers, were also judged on workmanship and appearance.

The new track, constructed by the employees of the G. & W Boat Company and presented to Cub Pack 385, is four feet high and 35 feet long. The track, which is available on a loan basis to other packs in the area, is equipped with a starting device and has eight racing lanes.

Jack Cuthbertson and Richard Foster designed, engineered and directed construction of the track.

Donald B. Jeffreys, chairman of the Cub Scout Committee, said, "We are extremely grateful for this display of interest and generosity by the people at G & W Boats. This is truly a valuable piece of equipment and it will be an asset to the entire community."

Sen. Kennedy To Visit Ft. Bragg

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., will visit Ft. Bragg Saturday and speak at a meeting of the Special Warfare Center Decade Club.

Kennedy has expressed a wish to see the changes in Army Special Forces operations since he last visited Ft. Bragg in May, 1965.

The Air Force ROTC at East Carolina University is initiating an Airmanship School on campus which will serve three basic areas of operation.

Under the direction of Cadet First Lt. Don Holloman, a non-commissioned officer's class will train cadets in military courtesy, drill and ceremony. Cadets Lts. Joseph Harrell, Gerald Hinson and John Wilkinson will assist in the training.

This program is planned for freshman and sophomore cadets who are interested in the Professional officer Corps and the Air Force as a career.

The Airmanship School will also work with the Cadet Civil Air Patrol Squadron in Greenville. This will offer the young cadets instruction in Air Force procedure, history of the Air Force and aerodynamic theory.

Old-Fashioned Way; Has Radio

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The "Village Blacksmith" in the nearby ranching town of Davie advertised in a newspaper Tuesday that he "does horseshoeing and general blacksmith work 'in the old-fashioned way,'" adding that his servicemen are "radio dispatched."

Biologist Added To Experts' List

A member of the East Carolina University biology faculty, Dr. James S. McDaniel, has been added to the Register of Experts in Aquatic Sciences and Fisheries.

Dr. McDaniel thus joins the group of scientists who serve as consultants to the Food and

DR. JAMES S. McDANIEL

Agriculture Organization of the United Nations in Rome, Italy. At East Carolina, Dr. McDaniel is assistant professor of biology and animal parasitology.

A native of Pittsburg, Kans., he has a bachelor's degree from State College and master's and PhD degrees from the University of Oklahoma. He spent two years in postdoctoral research training at Rice University.

His research work has been on parasites, especially parasitic flatworms the topic of several papers he has published.

NSF Grant For Geology School

East Carolina University has received a grant of $42,560 to finance a summer institute in geology for 40 junior and senior high school teachers of earth science.

The grant, awarded by the National Science Foundation, comes to ECU in its first year with a full-scale geology department.

The Department of Geology was established last fall with Dr. Charles Q. Brown as chairman. Dr. Brown will direct the summer institute, scheduled July 15 to Aug. 23.

According to Dr. Brown, the summer institute will offer "a solid six-week program which will send each participating teacher back to the classroom with the increased competence and confidence needed to do a better teaching job."

The 40 teachers selected for the institute will receive stipends of $450 each, plus allowances for travel and dependents.

Marchathon Set Saturday

FOR MARCHATHON . . . City Manager Harry Hagerty with Marchathon co-chairman Cadet Lieutenants Stephen Young and Steve Britt as the official proclaims Saturday Marchathon Day.

Cadets from East Carolina College's Air Force ROTC detachment will march all day Saturday to raise money for the 1968 March of Dimes campaign.

This will be the eighth straight year the Honorary Drill Air Society and the society's Team has participated in the Marchathon.

The cadets will begin the all-day drill at 8:30 a.m. and will march — at various locations throughout Greenville — until 5:30 p.m.

The 17 cadets, flanked by their commander, will demonstrate precision drills at the Pitt County Courthouse, College View Cleaners, Pitt Plaza Shopping Center and West End Shopping Center.

The entire ROTC cadet corps, as well as its honorary Arnold Air Society and the society's auxiliary Angel Flight, will collect contributions from passing motorists and pedestrians while the drill team marches.

The cadets last year collected more than $2,300 in their Marchathon campaign.

In honor of the march, city manager Harry Hagerty, acting for Mayor S. Eugene West, proclaimed Saturday as ROTC Marchathon Day.

Funds collected for the March of Dimes go to combat birth defects through research, diagnosis and treatment.

AFRICA, U.S.A.

In a secluded canyon approximately 45 miles north of Los Angeles, Calif., the sounds of 500 to 600 wild animals ring out every day. This is "Africa, U.S.A.," a 160-acre jungle compound where varied species are brought together to be trained for motion picture and television needs.

To adequately care and feed the animals daily, a 45-man staff moves about the grounds unafraid, following owner Ralph Helfer's view, and wife Toni, that the jungle creatures are tame, thus non-dangerous.

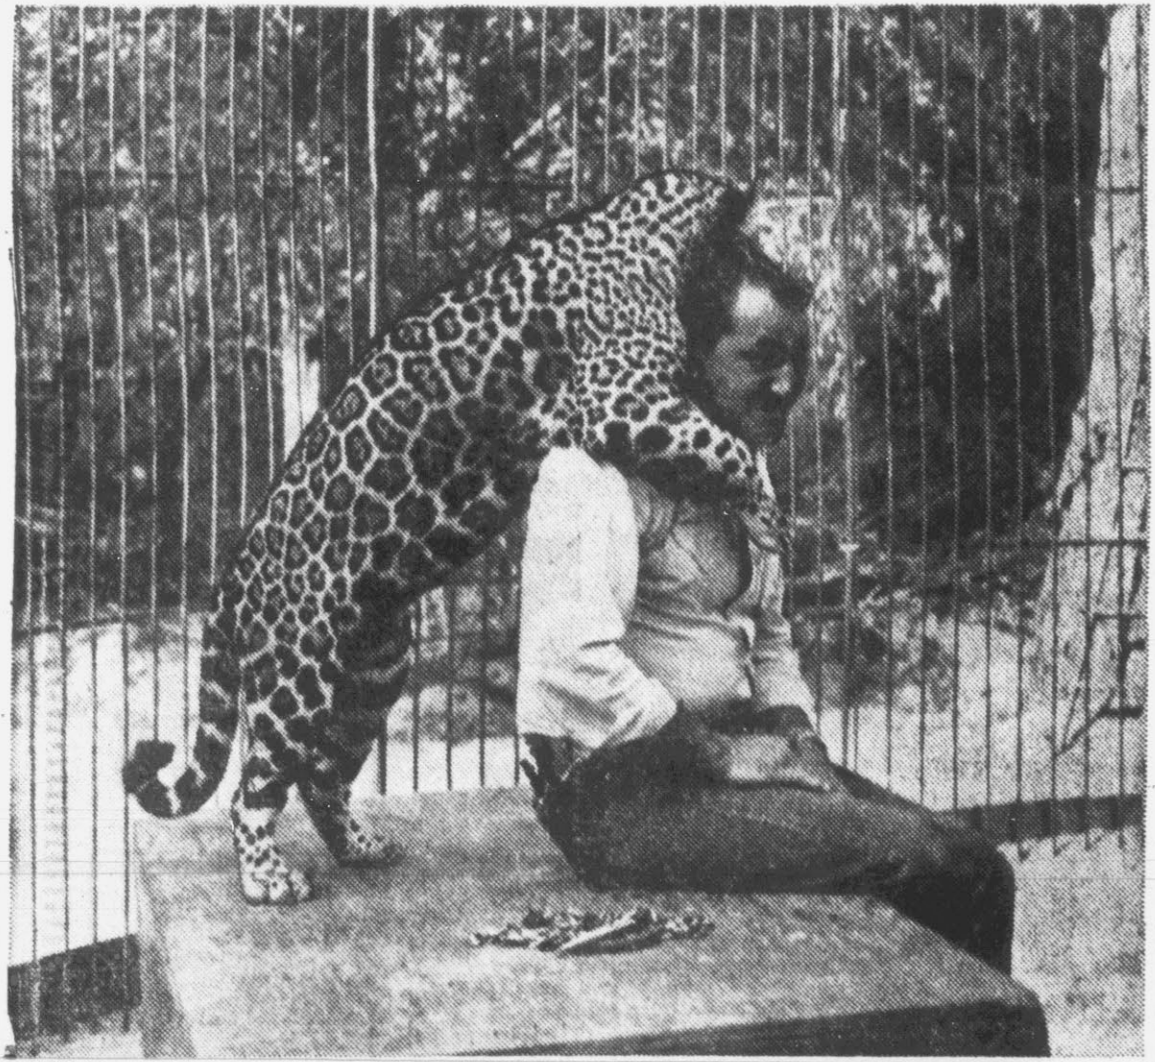

Beginning with the young when possible, the Helfers think as the animal thinks, rather than adapt it to human temperament. This established, they lavish continual kindness and affection to make the animal enjoy doing what is expected, without threat or reward. In turn, the teaching of routines and tricks, which overcome the animal's fears and inabilities, is simplified.

In the 15 years they have been in business, neither Helfer has been attacked. The animals, gathered from locales throughout the world, have passed through their training instead to become star performers to the viewing public.

Actress Cheryl Miller, of the TV show "Daktari", sits with the chimp Judy on her shoulders. The animal can obey 200 different verbal commands.

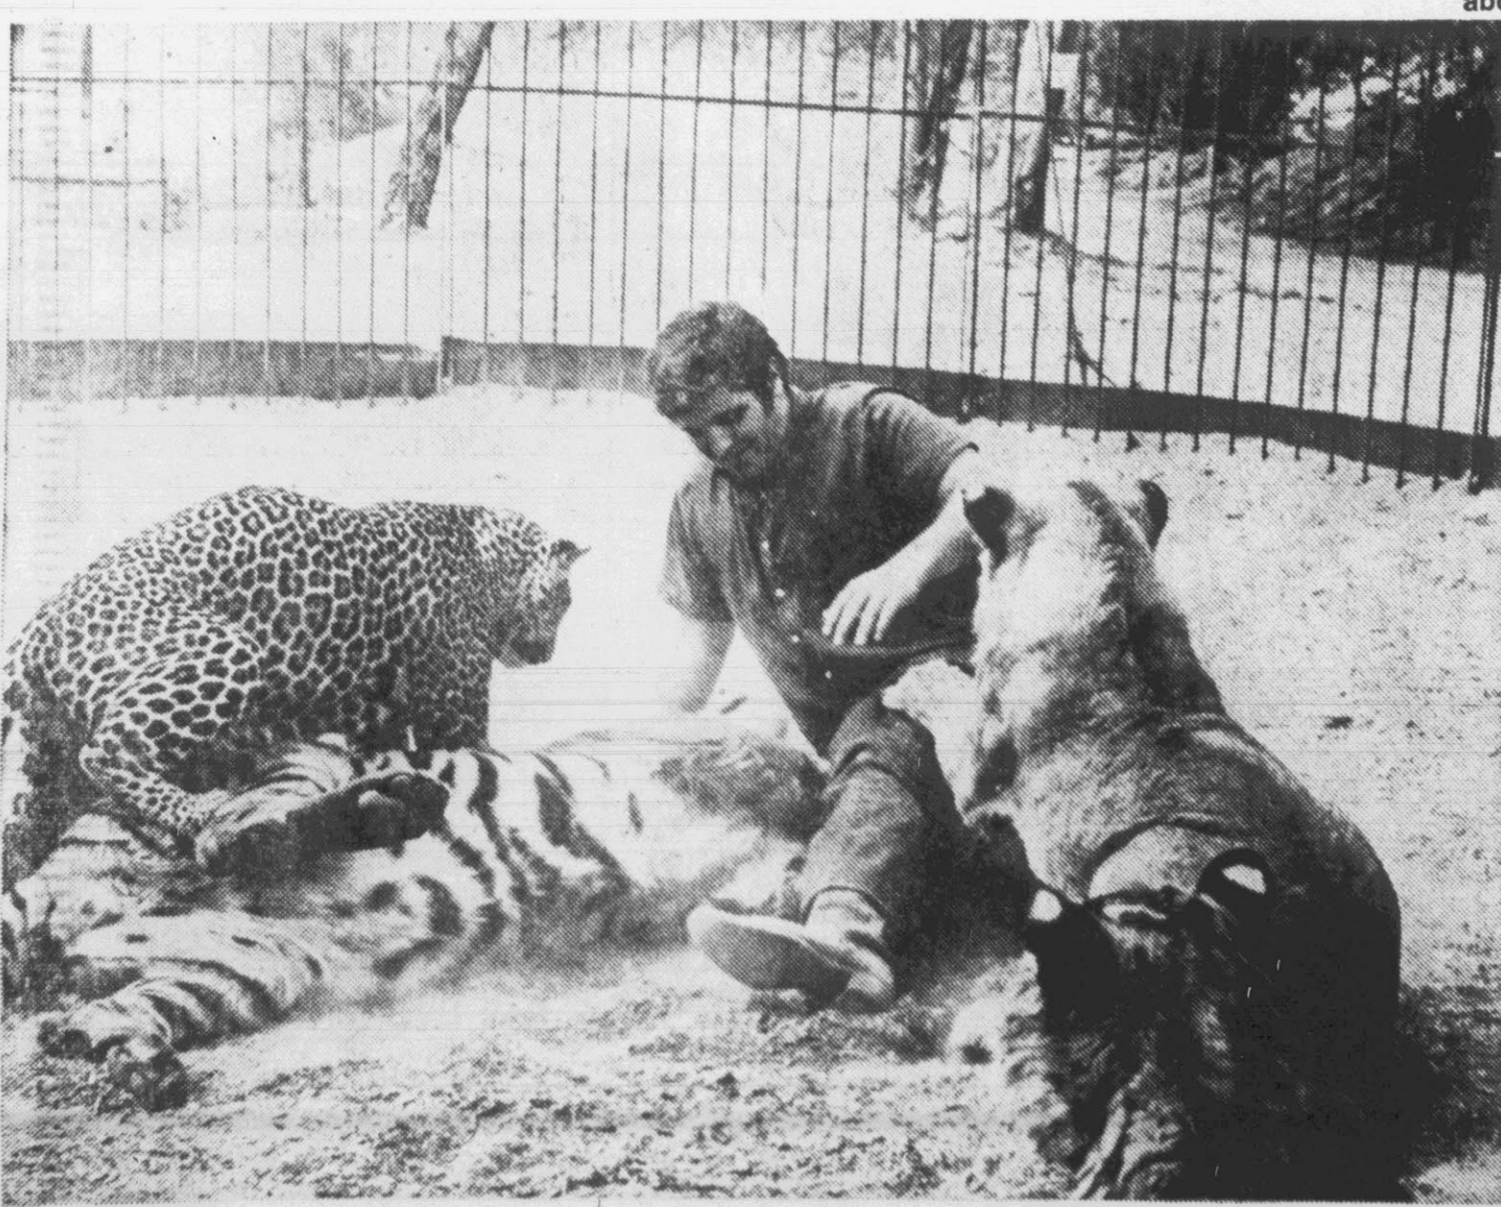

Walking with Ying, a full-grown leopard, Toni Helfer moves up and down the obstacle stairs to teach the cat the method.

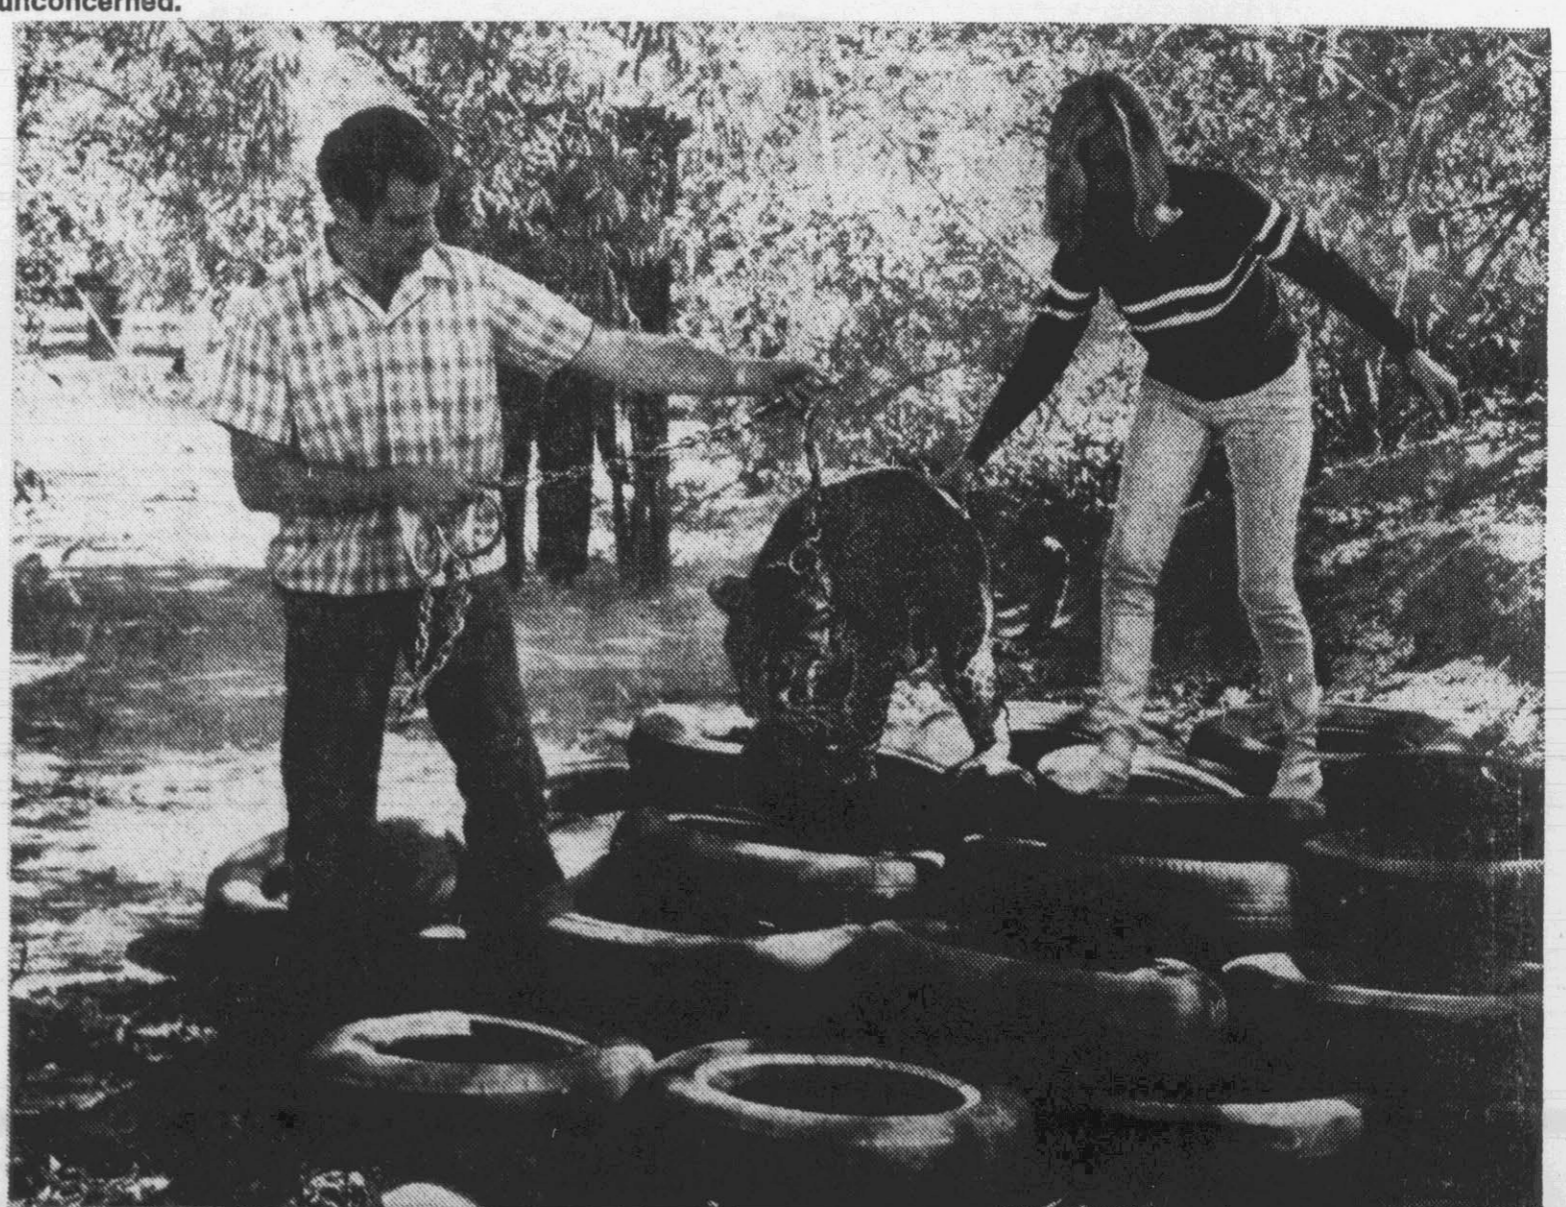

A leopard gives a hug to one of the handlers.

Between film shooting, Ralph Helfer, seated, feeds a tiger as wife Toni looks on. Other cats wander about unconcerned.

Handler Richard Capalbo wrestles with some of the big cats.

With assistant Mike Goodwin, Toni Helfer walks the leopard Ying over piled tires with little difficulty.

Secrecy Lid Lifted On Electronic Spy Ships

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capture of the Pueblo by the North Koreans—and the Pentagon's acknowledgment the ship was a Navy intelligence vessel—lifts the official lid on worldwide electronic spying by the major powers.

It marks a drastic change from the Pentagon's insistence that the Liberty, a spy ship shot up by the Israelis off Egypt last June, was a "technical research ship."

"Intelligence collection by naval vessels is a routine activity among major powers," a defense official said Tuesday, indicating a more relaxed attitude toward suggestions the United States engages in this kind of activity.

"It is common knowledge that for a number of years intelligence collecting ships have followed U.S. fleet activities in various parts of the world," he added. The official obviously was alluding to the Soviet Union's terrier-like electronic eavesdropping vessels which show up wherever U.S. fleets are maneuvering and near important Polaris submarine and other bases.

Such ships, in the guise of fishing trawlers, are "in fact positioned in international waters off the shores of the United States and other nations right now," this official said.

The U.S. intelligence vessels—which listen in on the radio traffic of other countries, spot radar sites and gather information to permit jamming them—and the Soviet Union's deep sea intelligence ships are parts of an extensive electronic intelligence system which has grown up in the Cold War years.

There are spy-in-the-sky satellites, both Soviet and American, whirling about the earth with almost unbelievably accurate cameras and "ferret" listening devices for eavesdropping on radio communications.

There are unmanned drones with sensitive information-gathering equipment. There are destroyers carrying "black boxes" which slip close to hostile shores to intercept radio talk, record coded messages and pick up other information. One of the two U.S. destroyers involved in the historic Tonkin Gulf attack by North Vietnamese patrol boats in August 1964 reportedly had been on such a mission.

The United States and Soviet Union, say nothing about what they know of the other side's electronic snooping from space. But the U.S. Navy complains out loud about the operations of the Soviet "trawlers," some of which get into the flow of fleet traffic and sometimes interfere with carrier and other operations.

Members of Congress also have expressed alarm about increasingly active Soviet naval snooping.

Soviet trawlers have been reported standing off Polaris submarine bases at Holy Loch, Scotland, at Rota, Spain, Guam, and Charleston, S.C.

The Red trawlers monitored U.S. nuclear weapons tests in the Pacific in 1962.

U.S. vessels have taken positions in the Pacific to observe the re-entry and splashdown of Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles fired into the mid-Pacific.

A Soviet intelligence-gathering trawler, the Anemometer, collided with a U.S. intelligence ship, the Banner, in the Sea of Japan in June 1966.

The 935-ton Pueblo is one of three of her class, all converted light cargo vessels.

She has about eight whip antennae and two heavy masts hung with special electronic gear.

The Pueblo engages in hydrographic surveys as well as electronic intelligence, dropping devices into the water to measure its temperature at various levels, its salinity and its density. All these factors are important in antisubmarine warfare work because they affect the penetration of sonar beams.

All told, there are about a dozen clearly identifiable intelligence-type ships in the U.S. Navy, along with about 15 oceanographic survey ships which may well serve an intelligence function also.

Then there are the destroyers and other surface craft which can be equipped with electronic sensors as needed.

The Liberty, at 11,000 tons, was a bigger and more sophisticated intelligence vessel.

Among other things, the Liberty was equipped with a "big ear" dish-type detector that could monitor communications more than 100 miles distant.

There are five vessels in the Liberty class with crews of nearly 300 men each.

There were reports the Liberty was operated by the Navy for the super-secret National Security Agency, whose mission is to crack the codes of foreign countries and to pick up and analyze foreign radio communications.

One of the 34 men who died when the Liberty was shot up and torpedoed by the Israelis was an NSA technician who reportedly was working with Navy communications specialists.

Although the Pentagon steadfastly stuck to its cover story, an officer on the carrier America told The Associated Press the Liberty was "there to spy for us."

He said "we moved in close to monitor the communications of both Egypt and Israel."

In the case of the Pueblo, the Pentagon insisted the two civilians among her company are hydrographic technicians and that the ship was not being operated for the NSA.

Bottled Note Is 50 Years Late

MELBOURNE (AP) — Cpl. Martin James Young was headed for France in 1916 to fight in World War I when he decided to send a message to his girlfriend in Australia.

So he wrote Kate Harris sending "fond love," and put the note in a bottle, which he threw into the Indian Ocean.

A few weeks ago the bottle and the note, stained and fading, were found on a beach near Perth, Western Australia.

The note was delivered to the girl for whom it was intended, now a 78-year-old grandmother. The sender, she said, died 10 years ago.

Kate Harris, today Mrs. Catherine Rollason, recalled, "He was always a bit of a cheeky devil."

"We used to go to the silent pictures and dances together."

"But I got engaged to another man, a truly good man, who was killed in France. Mart was wounded and then he married an English girl."

Workshop Slated Here On Monday

CHAPEL HILL — An educational workshop for hospital administrators and accounting personnel will be held Monday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge, announces the Provider Relations Division of North Carolina Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Inc.

The Social Security Administration's new payment procedure — Periodic Interim Payment—aimed at easing the financial burden on hospitals will be discussed. The workshop will serve to acquaint hospital personnel with the new payment plan.

Phillips To Seek Carroll's Post

GREENSBORO (AP)—Dr. A. Craig Phillips, administrative vice president of the Richardson Foundation Inc., has announced as a Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

Phillips announced his candidacy Tuesday for the post being vacated by Dr. Charles F. Carroll, who announced he will not seek reelection.

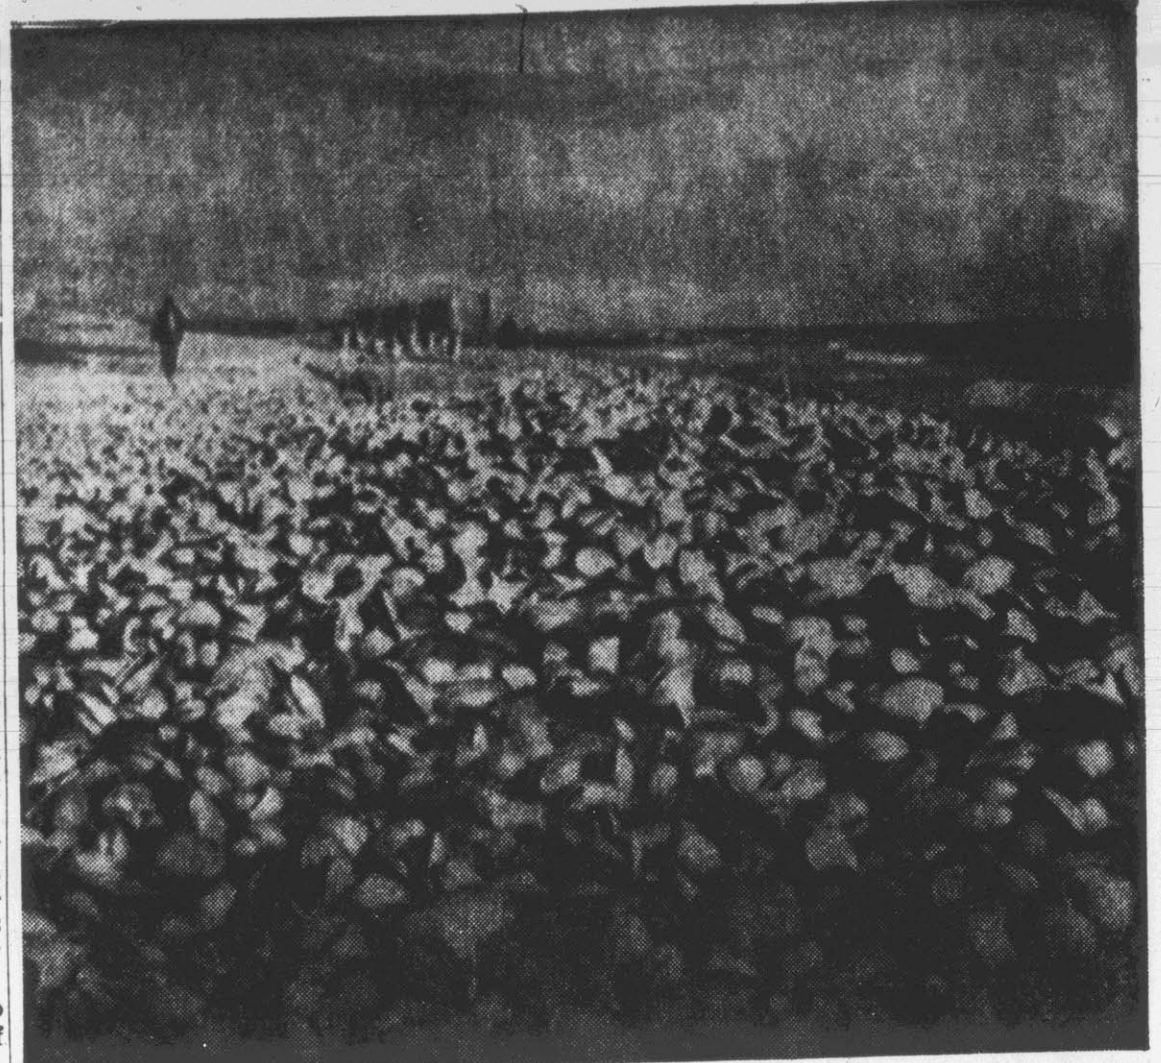

He promised to work for "productive innovation" in the public schools if elected and said he favors freeing teachers from "unnecessary" restrictions. Other announced candidates, also Democrats, are Dr. Raymond A. Stone, president of Sandhills Community College at Southern Pines, and Everett Miller, associate state superintendent of public instruction.

Phillips joined the Richardson Foundation last June after five years as superintendent of the Charlotte - Mecklenburg school system. Before that he was superintendent of the Winston-Salem school system.

A native of Greensboro, he plans to continue in his job with the Richardson Foundation and said his duties may limit his campaigning.

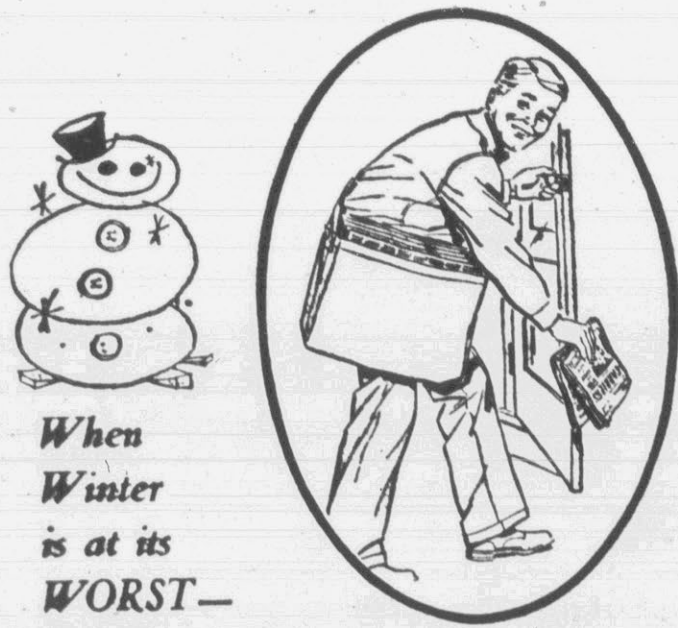

Rome, Italy, is farther north than New York City.

KING-SIZED CLAM STEW — Thousands upon thousands of clams litter beaches along the Atlantic coast in the Atlantic City, N. J. area after they were washed up during the past several days. Communities along the beaches bulldozed the clams and trucked them away. (AP Wirephoto)

When Winter is at its WORST—

Your Carrier Does His Best

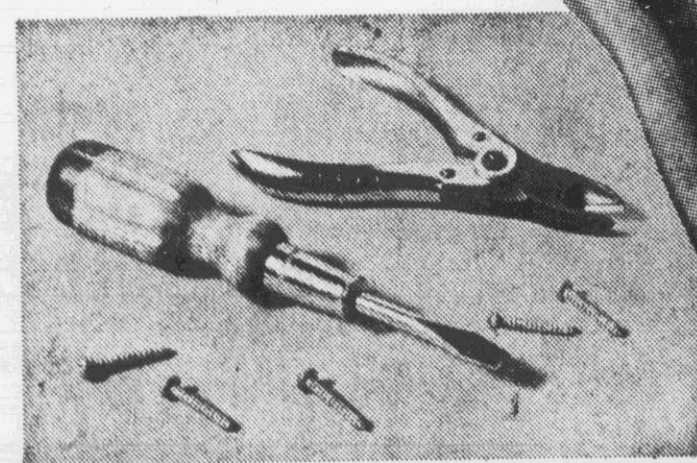

ON STORMY days, your carrier makes a special effort to deliver your newspaper on time. He knows you are eager to read all the latest news and enjoy your favorite pages and features—and that you are counting on him for quick dependable service, whatever the weather!

IN TURN, he counts on you for prompt payment each collection day. You see, he's in business for himself, and your money does more than pay for the biggest reading bargain that comes into your home — it helps and encourages an enterprising boy to succeed with his first business venture. That's why he appreciates it so much when you pay him promptly!

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

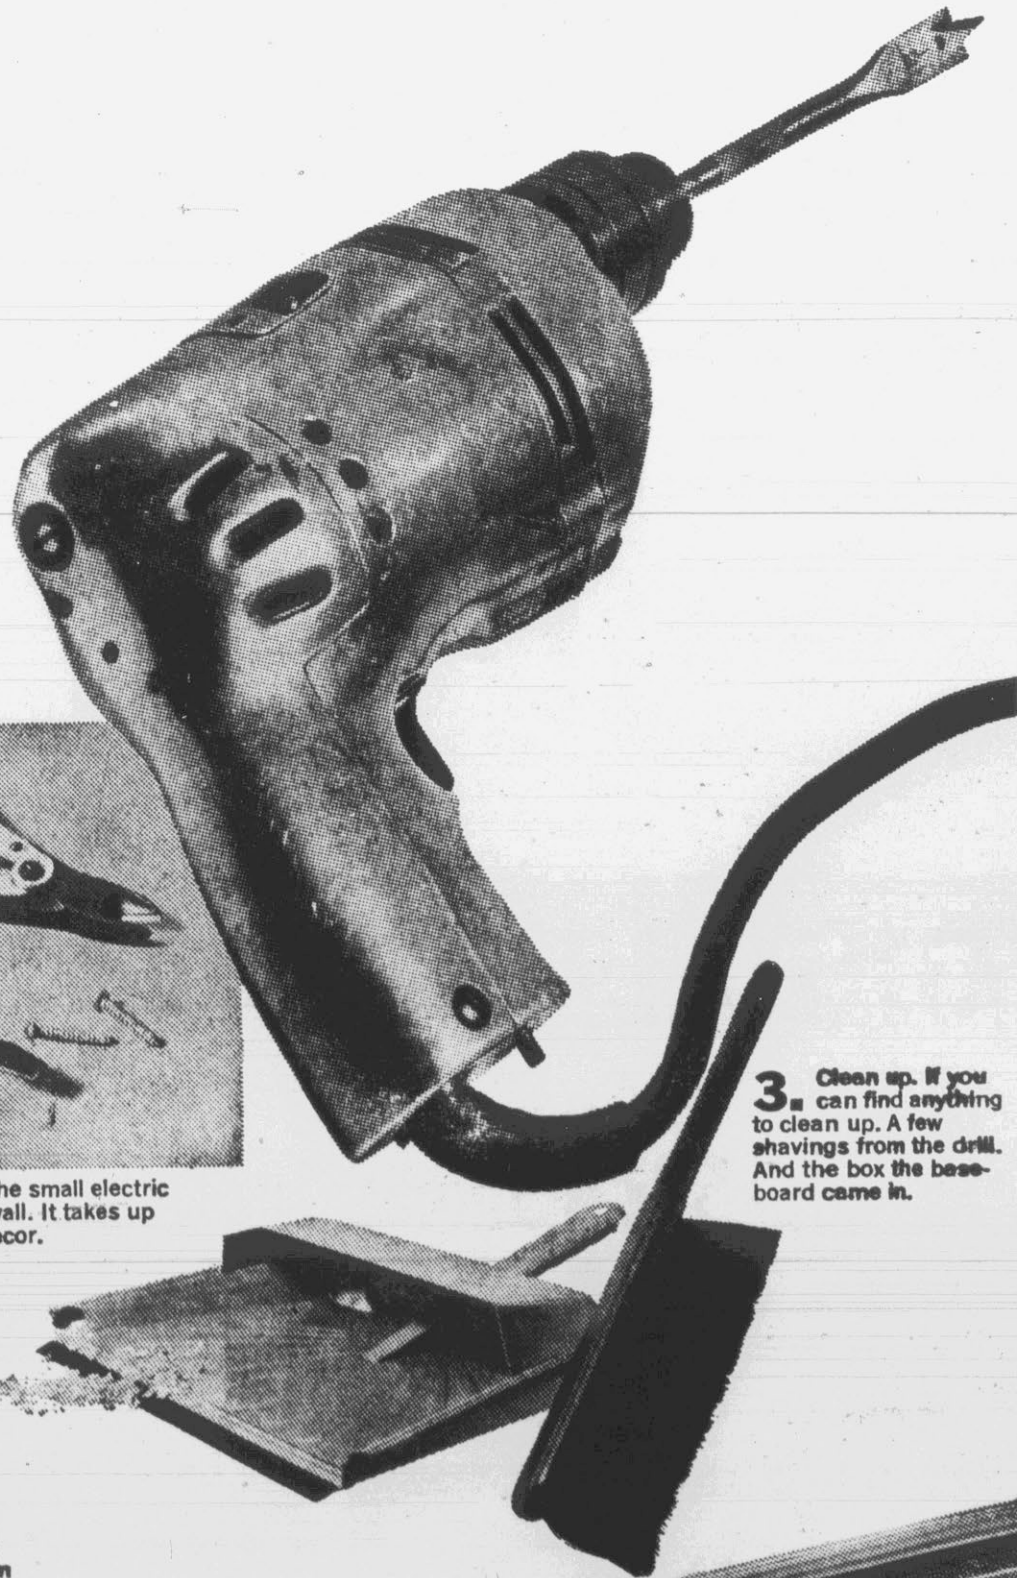

This is all it takes to install an electric baseboard.

1. A hole is drilled in the baseboard and the cable is brought through and attached to the baseboard heater. Electric baseboard heat requires no major remodeling work. And your old heating system can operate during the installation.

2. Screw the baseboard to the wall. The small electric baseboard mounts flush with the wall. It takes up very little space and blends with every decor.

4. Turn on and enjoy. An electric baseboard heating system is one of the easiest, most convenient ways to enjoy cleaner, more dependable electric heat. And one of the nicest things about electric baseboard heat is that each room is controlled by its own thermostat. And a baseboard system can grow easily as you remodel or as you add on to your house. Clean, quiet electric baseboard heat. Easy to install. Easy to live with. Call your VEPCO-authorized Comfort Conditioning Contractor now. Before your present heating system leaves you out in the cold.

3. Clean up. If you can find anything to clean up. A few shavings from the drill. And the box the baseboard came in.

Elizabeth City Rolls Over Phantoms, 62-46

By SONNY McLAWHORN
 Reflector Sports Writer
ELIZABETH CITY—Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets rolled to a 62-46 victory over Rose High last night.
 The Jackets took advantage of two big shooting quarters, the first and the fourth, in collecting their third conference win of the season.
 Rose got the initial lead on Buddy Turnage's layup with 7:20 showing in the quarter.
 Elizabeth City tied it up at 2-2 and again at 4-4. Then buckets by Larry Gray, Tom Beattie and Geoff Burness made it 10-4, Jackets.
 Late in the quarter Gray popped in a couple from the right corner to give the Jackets a 16-8 lead.
 Chuck Thompson, reserve guard for the Yellow Jackets, was red hot early in the second quarter, as he poured in four jump shots. Thompson's last bucket made it 27-14 with 4:08 left in the half.

 Rick Tonn hit for the Phantoms. Then Julian Aydtlett sank a foul shot. Billy Taylor finished the half by firing in four baskets during the last two minutes, cutting the Elizabeth City lead to four at 28-24.
 The Phants never got closer than two points after that.
 Burness made a three-point play with six minutes remaining in the third quarter, as the Jacket lead increased to 33-28.
 With 2:19 left in the third quarter, the Yellow Jackets finally committed their first foul. A minute later, the Jackets increased their lead to nine on Gray's jumper with 1:32 left.
 The lead was 10 when Aydtlett scored a layup on the fourth quarter tap.
 Taylor cut it to six on a couple of short jump shots. Then Gray capitalized on a three-pointer.
 Sam McDonald hit with 2:01 remaining. Then Gray followed, making it 58-43.

 The Yellow Jackets got their biggest margin with less than a minute showing, as Thompson hit a pair of foul shots to make it 62-44.
 Elizabeth City used a big height advantage, about three inches per man, to control the backboards.
 The Jackets got the ball in close frequently, while a stiff zone defense prevented the Phants from getting the same advantage.

 Gray led all scorers with 20 points. Center Burness got 15, while Thompson chipped in 10.
 Taylor was the only Phantom in double figures, scoring 19.
 The Phants, now 3-6 in North-eastern Conference play, travel

Iowa Wins To Tie For Big Ten Lead, 76-71

By TED MEIER
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Sam Williams, one of the best college basketball players in the Big Ten, came up with one of his outstanding performances for Iowa against Michigan State.
 He flipped in 33 points to bring the Hawkeyes from behind for a 76-71 victory over the Spartans at East Lansing Tuesday night and a tie for first place with Northwestern.
 The fifth-ranked Brown Indians of St. Bonaventure, the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, romped to a 103-74 victory over Detroit at Olean, N.Y.

 In other major games, Louisville edged Dayton 73-72 at Louisville and Canisius went overtime to down Cornell 83-79 at Ithaca.
 Also Oklahoma City scored over Southern Methodist 93-82 at Oklahoma City, Vermont upset Massachusetts 85-82 in overtime at Burlington, Vt., and Oregon scored on the road over Portland 74-56.
 Iowa was down by six points, 38-22, at halftime but Williams cut loose for a 19-point second half performance that brought victory to the Hawkeyes.

 Michigan State used three different players to defend against Williams, but they couldn't stop the former Detroit high school player.
 Bill Butler, with 29, and Bob Lanier, with 28, combined for 57 points to lead unbeaten St. Bonaventure to its 14th straight. Bill Kalbaugh helped by stealing the ball eight times from Detroit.
 Louisville almost blew a 15-point lead in the last 10 minutes but the Cardinals hung on to beat Dayton, Don May of Dayton was high scorer with 27 points while Dan Obervo, a 6-foot-10 soph, scored all of his 15 points in the second-half Dayton comeback.
 Westley Unsel topped Louisville with 20 points.
 Tony Masiello scored 28 points, 10 of them in the extra period, to pace Canisius over Cornell. The Big Red, led by Greg Morris' 23 points, wiped out a 10-point deficit in the last two minutes to tie the regulation game at 69-69.
 Rich Travis' 34 points paced Oklahoma City over SMU and Dave Lapointe's 10-foot bank shot with 21 seconds left in the overtime gave Vermont its surprise win over Massachusetts.
 At the time, Vermont trailed 82-81. Don Katz added two free throws for the final points.

Medwick Enters Hall Of Fame

By BEN OLAN
 Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Medwick, baseball's newest Hall of Famer and a .300 batter during 14 of his 17 National League seasons, blames the increased emphasis on power for the recent decrease in the number of .300 hitters.
 "They are all going for the long ball, but that can be corrected," said the swaggering hero of the St. Louis Cards' rambunctious Gas House Gang of the 1930s.
 Medwick was voted into the Hall Tuesday, less than a week after being named a batting instructor for players on the Cards' minor league teams.
 "The averages are also lower today because of the platoon system and the fact that the batters often have to face three different pitchers before a game is over," Medwick explained.
 "These days," he added, "you can win a triple crown with a .326 batting average," obviously referring to the mark compiled by Boston's Carl Yastrzemski in winning the American League's triple crown last season.

 There were only 16 players on the 20 big league teams who hit .300 or higher in 1967. When Medwick captured the NL's triple crown with a .374 mark in 1937, 54 players on the 16 clubs finished with .300 or more.
 A total of 48 players received votes in the Hall of Fame balloting by 283 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.
 However, Medwick was the only one to be named on the required 75 per cent or more of the ballots. He received 240 votes, 27 more than necessary for election.
 Roy Campanella, the former catcher great of the Brooklyn Dodgers and a three-time winner of the NL's Most Valuable Player Award, missed election by only eight votes. He received 205.
 Lou Boudreau, former shortstop and manager of the Cleveland Indians, was third with 146.

Jones Sparkles In N. O. Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 That Jones Boy, as some refer to Jimmy Jones of the New Orleans Buccaneers, threw in 23 points Tuesday night to spark the Bucs to a 112-104 victory over the Dallas Chaparrals in the American Basketball Association.
 In other games, also home court triumphs, Minnesota crushed Kentucky 120-97 and Oakland snapped a six-game losing streak by defeating Houston 120-110.
 Jones hit for three straight baskets in the second half and later put New Orleans ahead for good at 90-89 against Dallas with a layup. Doug Moe of New Orleans was banished in the third quarter after coming to blows with Cincy Powell of Dallas, who also was ejected.

Les Hunter got 24 points to pace Minnesota over Kentucky for the Muskies' ninth straight home victory and their fourth in a row. Dorel Carrier topped the Colonels with 20.
 Jim Hadnot's 30 points led Oakland over Houston. Willie Somerset, with 26 points, 22 of them in the second half, topped the Mavericks.
 The East beat the West 144-124 in the annual All-Star game in the National Basketball Association.

Brook Valley Sale Official

Final papers were signed yesterday making the purchase of Brook Valley Country Club by Harold Thomas official.
 Thomas, golf professional at Greenville Golf and Country Club for 22 years, will take over at Brook Valley on March 1, as both owner and professional.
 Thomas said he expects to see little change in the operation of the club as far as the membership is concerned. A number of improvements on both the course and its facilities are planned.
 The deal, announced last week, gives Thomas control of the 18-hole championship golf course, its practice ranges and practice green, the club house and the swimming pool.
 The adjoining real estate lots are being retained by Brook Valley Realty Company, the original owner of the entire setup.
 Thomas has also resigned as club pro at the Greenville Club, also effective March 1. Officers of the club are currently taking applications in the search for a new pro.

Farmville Rips Four Oaks Five

FOUR OAKS — Farmville's Red Devils rolled to a 62-37 victory over Four Oaks last night in an Eastern Plains Conference game.
 But the Farmville girls weren't as lucky, bowing 18-16 on a last season half-court shot.
 In the girls game, Four Oaks moved into a 5-2 lead in the first period, then went scoreless in the second frame, but held a 5-3 halftime lead.
 In the third period, Farmville moved into the lead at 7-6, but in the final period, Four Oaks came back to tie it up at 16-16. Then with the clock ticking off the final second, Alice Keene hit a half-court shot to win the game for Four Oaks.
 Miss Keene led the scoring with 14 points.
 The Farmville boys rolled up a 15-5 lead in the first period and were in no trouble after that. Both teams hit nine points in the second frame and the Red Devils held a 24-14 lead at the half.
 In the third period, Farmville continued to build its lead, setting up a 41-26 margin at the end of the quarter. In the final stanza, Farmville outscored Four Oaks, 21-11, for the easy win.

 George Moore led the Farmville scoring with 20 points. Fred Artis had 14 and Harold Lassiter had 10 for Four Oaks.

East Carolina Hosting George Washington

Important Game For Both In Loop Battle

East Carolina University, after three straight losses on the road, is hoping to put a stop to that as they return home tonight to meet George Washington University.

The conference encounter is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum, following a freshman game between the Baby Bucs and Sandhills Junior College.

The loop contest will be the first in two weeks for the Southern Conference, and hopefully will start the Pirates in a climb up through the conference ranks.

The Bucs have 12 games remaining this year, and only four of these are on the road. Of the schedule, seven are conference games, and only one of these is away from home.

Thus, if East Carolina's tradition of being tough to beat at home holds up, the Bucs could pick up some wins in the coming weeks and make themselves known in conference circles.

But right now, the important thing is George Washington. Currently the Colonials are occupying the loop cellar, and if they hope to get out, they must stop the Pirates here tonight.

The Colonials are 0-6 in the conference, while East Carolina is 2-4. A loss for George Washington would probably insure that they will miss the conference tournament which starts the last of February.

The ninth place team automatically drops from the tournament, an eight-team affair.

If the Colonials are to beat the Bucs, they must improve both their offense and their defense. George Washington currently ranks ninth in offense, hitting only 65.1 points per game, while giving up 85.2 points per contest, seventh in the conference.

East Carolina holds sixth in offense with a 76.1 margin but much of that is based on high scoring earlier in the year. Recently, the Bucs have been scoring at a much lower clip.

But the Pirate defense is not much different from George Washington's, as they have allowed 81.1 points per game.

Rebounding could be a key to the contest. George Washington holds the poorest field goal percentage in the conference, while the Bucs are second. George Washington is also last in rebounding, while the Bucs are fourth.

But recently East Carolina has not attacked the boards as well as at other times in the season.

If East Carolina can control the boards and the shooting percentages remain at about the same pace, the Bucs should be able to win.

The game must rate as a close one, however, and one which could mean a low or a high finish for East Carolina in the Southern Conference race.

Woody's Ramblin's

A meeting will be held Saturday in Goldsboro which may shape the athletic future of Rose High School.

At that time, officials from a number of AAAA schools are to meet, along with those of potential AAAA schools, among them Rose, Kinston and New Bern.

This meeting may decide to realign the Eastern AAAA Conference into three divisions. Under a proposed plan for this, Rose would join Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Kinston, New Bern and Wilson in Division One of the Conference. Division Two would consist of Sanford High, E.E. Smith and Ross High, all of Fayetteville, Jacksonville, Wilmington's New Hanover and Hog-gard High Schools.

In Division Three would be Raleigh Broughton, Raleigh Enloe, Raleigh Ligon, Durham, Durham Hillside and Raleigh Sanderson.

Under such a plan, only the games played within a division would count in the standings. Other games played with non-divisional, but conference teams, would count only as non-league games.

Thus Rose would be playing five conference games, and five non-conference each year in football. School officials feel that non-conference games could include such old rivals as Washington and Tarboro, with the balance made up from other Eastern AAAA members.

One of the main benefits of such a schedule would be a more compact league for everyone involved. Travel is a problem both for the present AAAA members and the three Northeastern Conference members involved.

Rose High's longest trip currently is with Elizabeth City, a distance of around 100 miles. Other trips include Roanoke Rapids, East and West Carteret and Havelock, all over 75 miles.

In the new conference, however, there would be no school further than 50 miles away, making travel much easier, and establishing better rivalries, and bringing better gates to all schools involved.

The same is true for the current AAAA members. Raleigh's involved schools currently must travel to Wilmington, a great distance and one which provides only sparse attendance of out-of-town viewers.

A much better crowd would be insured from a Raleigh team if it is playing a team from Durham, or an across-town one.

So the plan, as is being developed, will mean much to all of the schools involved.

It will also be a challenge. Rose will have to upgrade its programs in some fields to be of championship caliber. But even now, the Phantoms could compete in most sports on a par with most teams in the proposed division.

The future looks bright if the action is taken to make these plans a reality.

BACKCOURT RESERVE — Sam Lilly, a 6-2, 180-pound senior from Newport, has seen action this year as a reserve guard for the East Carolina Pirates. Lilly and the other Pirates will be playing host to George Washington University tonight at Minges Coliseum. Game time is 8 p.m. with a freshman game underway at 5:50 p.m.

Clemson Hosts Former Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The quiet that has prevailed for Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams during the exam period will be broken slightly tonight with one league member seeing action.

Clemson, which has taken it licks this season, will be at Louisiana State, where Pistol Pete Maravich is burning the nets for his father and coach, Press Maravich, former mentor at Clemson and North Carolina State.

Young Maravich currently is the nation's scoring leader with an average of 45 points per game. Clemson takes a 2-7 record into the game while LSU stands 9-3 for the season.

Clemson's two victories have been over Furman of the Southern Conference and ACC rival Virginia.

third quarter, the East played its trump card—Hal Greer.

The Philadelphia guard scored seven straight points for an 80-75 lead and continued on to outscore the West 14-4 for an 87-79 spread and it grew from there. Greer finished with 19 points in the quarter, an All-Star record, and totaled 21 for the game. His performance won him the Most Valuable Player award.

Russell and Havlicek took over in the final period, along with Jerry Lucas and Robertson of Cincinnati and Willis Reed and Dick Barnett of New York, and turned the game into a rout. Havlicek finished with 26 points, five more than Greer.

Elgin Baylor and Jerry West paced the West with 22 and 17 points, respectively.

Several Coaches Named Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Meek is leaving Army to become head football coach at the University of Utah.

The assistant to Tom Cahill, head coach at West Point, was named to his new post Tuesday by the Utah board of regents. He was given a three-year contract at $18,000 a year and permission to appoint five assistants.

Meek's appointment to succeed the resigned Mike Giddings was one of several changes in the coaching ranks Tuesday.

In the others, Eddie Kriwiel became head coach at Wichita State succeeding Boyd Converse and Jerry Lyons resigned as head coach at Portland State.

Among the pros, Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns was given a new three-year contract as head coach of the National Football League club.

Dub Jones, signed as offensive coach and will be replaced by Nick Skorich, defensive coach last season. Dick Modzelewski will take over as defensive coach.

"I've enjoyed my two years at Army," said Meek at West Point. "But the Utah offer was real fine and I think it's an opportunity with a lot of potential." Cahill declared, "Bill's done a fine job for us. We wish him well at Utah."

Kriwiel, a former player at Wichita, moves up from an assistant post. He signed a three-year contract at a reported $14,000 per year.

"Kriwiel has established himself firmly as a dedicated and capable coach and as a fine leader," said Emery Lindquist, Wichita president.

'Shoe' Hurt In Race Fall

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Willie Shoemaker, perhaps the most famous jockey in the world today, broke a bone in his right thigh in a spill at Santa Anita race track and there's no telling when he will ride again.

The mishap to the 36-year-old Texas-born "Shoe," who has ridden many of the world's best known thoroughbreds, the latest of which is Damascus, happened in the second race Tuesday.

The 12-horse field was rounding into the stretch when Juan Gonzalez' mount, Kodiak Kid, tripped on the heels of another horse, Jack's Aloha ridden by Manuel Ycaza.

Shoemaker's mount, Bel Bush, tripped over Kodiak Kid, as the rest of the field thundered past.

Gonzalez and Shoemaker sprawled on the track. Gonzalez with a minor leg injury, Shoemaker with a broken leg, his most serious injury in his 19-year career. He was in many previous spills, but always escaped with minor bruises.

Shoemaker was taken to the Daniel Freeman Hospital in nearby Inglewood and underwent surgery by Dr. Robert Kerlen.

Dr. Kerlen said the fall broke Shoemaker's right femur, the bone between the hip and the knee and the largest, strongest bone in the body.

Roots Are Undermining Old Crusader Fortress

By FAROUK NASSAR
DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A "green peril" is attacking the medieval fortresses built by the Crusaders in Syria.

Thick bushes threaten the majestic citadels which have withstood the ravages of eight centuries.

Officials of Syria's Antiquities Department say the bush attack has reached the danger point. In one citadel, thick, curly roots have cracked and knocked down a 40-yard wall built of gigantic stones.

Apart from their historic value the castles, on mountaintops in northern Syria overlooking the Mediterranean, are a major tourist attraction. They were built by the Crusaders, the Christian knights who launched their military campaigns to recover the Holy Land from the Moslems in the 11th, 12th and 13th Centuries.

Officials fear most for the Fortress of Saladin, named for the Arab sultan of the legendary duels with Richard the Lion-hearted. This fortress is considered one of the greatest relics left by the Crusaders in the Middle East.

It was once a small Byzantine castle but the Crusaders enlarged it into a gigantic, 14-tower citadel on a mountain top 20 miles from Syria's present-day port of Latakia.

Each of its square towers is 90 feet high and 90 feet broad. The walls are 21 feet thick. A mile-long canyon, seven yards wide which took the Crusaders 27 years to dig, split the mountain in two, making the side of the citadel virtually unassailable.

But, in the year 1188 Saladin spanned the canyon with his... erected bridges and sent his armies storming into the fortress after shelling it with mangonels (military engines for launching rocks) for four days and nights.

Historic chronicles say this was the end of the Crusaders epoch in the citadel which they called Zion. Since then the Arabs have called it Saladin's Fortress.

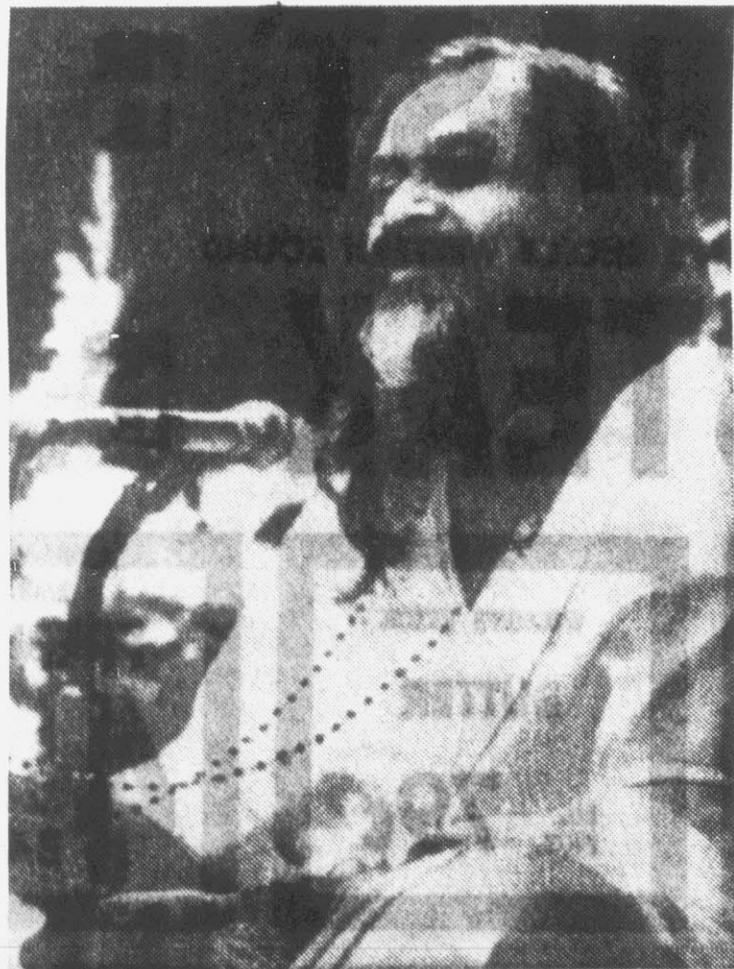

Now, Antiquities Department experts say, it is "imperiled" by fast-growing shrubs which are drilling roots 12 to 15 feet into the walls.

One bush already has caused a 30-foot crack in the citadel's eastern wall and the fissure is steadily growing, the experts say.

The Antiquities Department has cut the shrubs down to the roots. The Ministry of Agriculture has been called in and is trying chemicals to kill the roots, but experts say the outcome is still uncertain.

'Boom' Has Become A Habit After Seven Years

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — About one month from now this nation will complete seven years of economic expansion, 364 weeks of problems and prosperity which now, we are warned by its curators, is endangered by inflation.

So much has happened since February 1961 that, in recollection, most people would be surprised to realize that just seven years, not 20, have elapsed. Hippies hadn't yet made the scene. Women's knees were still unseen under long skirts.

There are many similarities, though, which remind us that a seven-year span is still a short time chronologically—no matter how many events have been crammed into it—not nearly time enough to elude the usual problems.

In February 1961 we were concerned that travelers were taking too many dollars abroad. Car sales were off. The United Nations was in a Congo crisis. Congressmen threatened. The economy was unbalanced. Jobs and taxes were problems.

The beginning of the boom was barely heard, perhaps because it was muffled in the controversy, pertinent at the time, of whether the nation was in a recession, which really is the starting point of expansions.

The recession debate became heated in the weeks following the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy, who was accused by Republicans of exaggerating the problems of the day. But then agreement was reached on the use of "recession."

In reply to a reporter's question, Kennedy stated: "To put it precisely... I would call this a recession." And said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., "Recede means to come down from a high level, and in that respect I guess we have a recession."

The ascent during the next seven years has produced remarkable contrasts, so vast, in fact, that they make 1961 seem many more years ago.

For example, the Gross National Product—or the total of all efforts at mining, forging, manufacturing, assembling, preparing, serving—rose to a rate well over $800 billion a year from only $500 billion, although inflation has lately exaggerated the contrast.

Industrial output during that time soared. Using the average production of 1957 through 1959 as a base and calling it 100, output in February 1961 was 103. Now it is more than 160, much of it the result of new sciences and technologies.

The annual rate of personal income—the total of wages, rents, dividends and so on—jumped more than 50 per cent to about $650 billion from a bit more than $400 billion in February 1961. But this is a rather anonymous figure.

In terms that perhaps have more relevance, the wage of common laborers in construction have risen from $2.77 an hour to more than $4 now. Skilled laborers now are earning close to $5.70 an hour, compared with $4.12. And the weekly pay of factory production workers has risen to more than $118 from $89.31.

Unemployment during this time has dropped sharply, from 6.9 per cent seven years ago to less than 4 per cent now. The number of workers in an economy can accommodate a growth by well over seven million men and women.

Caught Stealing Embassy Plaque

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two college students unscrewed the heavy brass nameplate from the wall of the Soviet Embassy and were walking off with it when caught.

A policeman said in General Sessions Court he stopped the youths after spotting them carrying the plaque down an alley adjoining the embassy.

The State Department returned the plaque to the embassy, offered apologies and said Soviet officials appeared only mildly upset. The youths were charged with petit larceny.

we care

Who cares
if the blueberries in our blueberry pie are wild?

Some people may not care...but we care.
Your grandmother's classic blueberry pies were baked with juicy, wild berries.
We think they're the best for pies.
So, we're stubborn.
Only wild berries get into our Jane Parker Blueberry pies.
In fact, we care so much about such things,
we've made just one big change in the classic recipe:
We bake only wild berries that are U.S. Grade A!

We're that fussy about all our baking.
No matter what it is,
if it's baked by our Jane Parker Bakers, it's baked with quality ingredients.
It's baked with pride and care.

If you want proof that caring this much counts, try a Jane Parker Blueberry Pie this week.

The price? It's as wild as the blueberries.

Colorado Helps Curb Smallpox In Madras, India

By M. SHAFIULLAH KHAN
MADRAS, India (AP) — One of the world's last strongholds of smallpox is India. But the personal fight by an Indian public health officer has virtually eliminated the disease in this southeastern corner of the sub-continent.

He is Dr. A. Ramachandra Rao, Madras public health officer, and he is quick to point out that the battle has been made possible by help from the University of Colorado Medical Center in Denver and the University of Liverpool, England.

For the past 60 years, this third largest city in India, and the heavily populated surrounding area, have experienced smallpox epidemics on the average of once every three years. Each time, thousands were stricken and many hundreds died.

But in 1967, normally a peak year in the epidemic cycle, only 25 cases were reported. Three of these apparently originated within the city and the remainder were infections contracted outside the state.

In 1964, the last bad year, there were 2,100 reported cases of smallpox in the city.

Dr. Rao's story goes back to 1960, when he was superintendent of the city's Infectious Diseases Hospital.

"There were more than 130 infants less than six months old among the 1,000 cases of smallpox I had seen that month. It was not an epidemic year and yet the total number of attacks for that year was edging towards 3,000—a figure close to the 4,000 cases reported in an epidemic year and far more than the 1,000 attacks of an intervening year," Rao says.

In desperation, the doctor vaccinated all infants from three days old up to six months. "I knew I was acting against current medical opinion, that infants up to six months of age will not have successful takes with vaccination because of antibodies that may be transmitted from the mother. Also that a child that age may not have the mechanism to prepare antibodies."

It has now been established that the disease can be prevented by vaccinating as early as the third day after birth.

Now, he says, "the occurrence of only three infections in the city means the epidemic cycle has been broken. But the disease has only been controlled. Eradication means the city must be free from even a single attack for two successive years."

"It was only in 1959 that we began recording all smallpox cases and preserving all records," he said. Now, the institution is up-to-date, and is perhaps the only center in the world where both treatment of smallpox and culture of the smallpox virus are done in the same place.

What changed the Madras hospital was the visit in 1960 of Dr. Henry Kempe, head of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Colorado Medical Center, along with Prof. Downie, Professor of Bacteriology, University of Liverpool.

After Dr. Kempe's visit, his students were assigned to a three-month stint at the hospital, as part of the academic career. This brought Mrs. St. Vincent, a virologist now in the Department of Pediatrics, at the University of Colorado, to help Dr. Kempe in the laboratory as well as to train Indian technicians.

Most of all, the visit of these two professors brought modern equipment that the hospital could not afford to buy on its own. The state government loaned the City Council $6,667 to construct the laboratory building, and grants from the World Health Organization, the National Institute of Health, U.S.A., and the University of Colorado Medical Center, supplied the equipment. Dr. Rao was offered a nine-month fellowship to study laboratory techniques of virus diseases in Denver.

After his return, health officers of the airports and seaports of England, Germany, Yugoslavia, U.A.R., Iran, Afghanistan, Burma, Nepal, U.S.S.R., Ceylon and Australia arrived to be trained in the detection of smallpox.

Last May, after five years, Mrs. St. Vincent returned to Denver. Three months later, the hospital stopped its international program. There were no more cases of smallpox coming to the hospital. Four Australian doctors whose training had been scheduled here were diverted to Bombay.

Man-To-Moon Team Bounced Back, A Year Later

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — One year after three U.S. astronauts died in the tragic Apollo 1 fire, America's man to the moon team has bounced back from that staggering shock. Now space officials visualize a "fighting chance" to land men on the moon by 1970.

Hopes to achieve the national goal of a manned lunar landing in this decade—battered in Apollo 1's aftermath by disclosures of serious hardware deficiencies—appear brighter now than during those depressing weeks following the accident.

One important milestone was passed last Nov. 9 when the first unmanned Saturn 5 rocket of the type that will propel astronauts to the moon was successful.

Another milestone was cleared Monday with the successful launching of Lunar Module 1, forerunner of the type of craft that will ferry U.S. astronauts to and from an Apollo command ship orbiting the moon to the lunar surface itself.

Despite initial troubles with the craft's engine system designed to soft-land spacemen on the moon, project officials aid Lunar Module 1 met nearly all its objectives. Another scheduled unmanned Lunar Module launching can probably be canceled, they said, giving an encouraging boost to the man to the moon schedule.

Many hurdles remain between now and the day U.S. spacemen set foot on the moon, but "we have a very good fighting chance" to make the 1970 goal, says Dr. Kurt H. Debus, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Kennedy Space Center here.

"It all depends on the next few flights," he said.

An important test is to occur this week, when a towering Saturn 1 rocket is to hoist the first unmanned Lunar Module into earth orbit for a 6½-hour test of spacecraft engines. Future Lunar Modules are to disconnect from Apollo cabin sections in orbit around the moon to carry astronauts to and from the lunar surface.

Launching the bug-shaped craft will be the same Saturn 1 rocket that was on a nearby launch pad when Air Force Lt.

Col. Virgil I. Grissom, Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee died in the Apollo 1 blaze last Jan. 27.

Repercussions from the fire still are reverberating in Washington where a critical Congress cut more than half a billion dollars out of NASA's request for $5.1 billion for operations in the current budget year.

Enough funds were left to complete the man to the moon flight, but the financial squeeze prevented NASA from planning America's space goals beyond the initial lunar landing.

Several congressmen still remain openly critical of NASA management, but officials of the space agency and North American Rockwell Corp., where Apollo spaceships are built, said they have satisfied demands from Congress relating directly to the Apollo 1 fire, as well as suggestions from a blue ribbon NASA review board which probed the tragedy.

These included recommendations to severely restrict and control the amount of combustible materials in Apollo spacecraft, quicker escape methods in the event of launch pad emergencies, improving safety procedures and equipment, better emergency training for personnel, and enforcing rigid inspection at all stages of wiring installation.

Investigators of the tragedy said a bruised or broken wire most likely triggered the blaze and also reported finding "many deficiencies in design and engineering, manufacture and quality control."

"Fire is being designed against" at the launch pads and in future Apollo spacecraft, Debus said, including the moonship being built to carry the first three-man Apollo crew—Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele, and Walter R. Cunningham, a civilian. Their mission, a flight of up to 10 days in earth orbit, is to take place about August.

In one big change, NASA contractors working on Apollo hardware at the Kennedy Space Center now report directly to KSC, rather than NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center at Houston, Tex. Under the old system, which existed at the time of the Apollo 1 fire, contractors followed recommendations of Houston even when KSC launch experts suggested otherwise, harming relations between both centers and contractors as well.

North American Rockwell Corp., which came under heavy criticism from Congress for poor workmanship in building Apollo spacecraft, brought in experts from outside the industry to help straighten out its problems.

Smothers Brothers Agree To Co-Exist

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Those battling brothers, the Smothers, appear to have reached an agreement for peaceful coexistence with their television network.

Tom and Dick Smothers fight each other only on their Sunday night variety show. There off-screen combativeness has lately been directed at CBS, which they believed was taking a stiff-necked attitude about some of the topical humor the boys were attempting.

CBS censors applied a heavy pencil, the Smothers claimed, to jokes about President Johnson, the Vietnam war, dope, protest and other topics. "The worst came when they eliminated an 11-minute routine on censorship by Elaine May," said Tom, adding gleefully: "The whole thing was later printed in the New York Times."

"The climax of the Smothers' winter of discontent came last month when they went to England for the beginning of the show on television there. In interviews they said there flatly that network interference had made the show intolerable and they intended to quit."

"We meant it," declared Dick, the bass-playing straight man of the act. "We were going to finish out the season so CBS wouldn't lose money on sponsorship and would have time to line up another show. But we had definitely decided not to continue."

"Absolutely," added Tom, the comical brother. "Why should we absorb that kind of punishment? Here we were trying to do a show that said something about what is happening today, and they were thwarting us at every turn. Who needs it?"

Both surmise that the London declarations convinced CBS of the seriousness of their intentions. They report that the censorship situation has greatly improved since they returned to the show early this month.

"Let's face it: CBS had a lot to lose," observed Dick. "We were the first show that could make any headway against 'Bonanza.'"

"We also have been able to get the young crowd; our biggest audience is between 16 and 18," added Tom. "That's an important segment, and it shows that we are speaking their language."

Even with the improved climate on the Smothers Brothers show, Tom declared that he will end his performing career after one more season. "It takes too much out of you," he said. "I am physically and mentally exhausted. I've played my character so long that now I'm just going to by rote; I'm only giving 50 per cent of what I could."

To Move Jumbo With Bubbles

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — How to move a 150-ton plane along an assembly line?

Engineers of the Boeing Co. plan to use bubbles to move the 747 jumbo jets when the firm starts putting them together in its new plant here.

Each of the 490-passenger planes will rest on platforms under each of its five landing gear. Beneath the platforms will be pads, which, when compressed air is blown through them, will create air cushions, lifting the jets one-thousandth of an inch off the floor. Then two tow tractors can easily jockey the planes to new positions.

The old way? A crew of 30 and two cranes.

Russia Counting Its Game To Guard Natural Wealth

MOSCOW (AP) — The modern Soviet hunter stalking a reindeer through the woods probably thinks he's a sportsman.

But in reality he's just part of another Soviet plan.

The newspaper Moscow Pravda says a planned economy always has been a basic part of the Socialist way of life, and "now it is possible to plan hunting."

The newspaper said census-takers roam the woods during the winter counting animal tracks in the snow. Then using a mathematical formula they calculate the population of various species.

The latest count shows rabbits are the most numerous—20 million of them live in the Soviet Union. Wolves are almost extinct in European Russia, but about 9,000 of them howl in the forests of Siberia and the Soviet Far East.

The census puts the number of elk at 700,000. Squirrels are estimated at 5 million, wild boar at 60,000, sable 250,000 and reindeer at 60,000.

Counting polar bears poses another problem. They live in the ice and on the shores of the Arctic Ocean where few census-takers venture. The article said a rough guess at the polar bear population would be between 10,000 and 20,000.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, will receive bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, equipment and services required for the construction of Project NC 22-3 consisting of one hundred and ninety-three (193) dwelling units and Administration and Maintenance Building, Project NC 22-4 consisting of twenty-five (25) buildings, containing forty (40) units, to be located in certain areas of the City of Greenville, North Carolina. The plans and specifications are on file at the office of the Housing Authority, 112 South Pitt Street, Greenville, North Carolina, and at the office of Dudley & Shoe, Architects, 402 S. Memorial Drive, Greenville, North Carolina.

In addition to the General Construction Contract, separate prime contracts will be let for Plumbing, Heating, and Electrical Work.

Copies of the documents may be obtained by depositing $100.00 with the Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, for the documents so obtained. Such deposits shall be refunded to each person who returns the plans, specifications and other documents in good condition within 10 days after bid opening.

A certified check drawn on a bank or trust company, insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, payable to the Authority, or satisfactory bond executed by a bidder, or a surety on the bid bond form contained in the Specifications and in accordance with the instructions to bidders set forth therein, in an amount equal to the price of the bid shall be submitted with each bid. The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bond or bonds. Attention is called to the fact that no less than the minimum amount of bond and wages as set forth in the Specifications must be paid on this project.

The Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, reserves the right to reject any and all bids or to waive any informality in the bidding. No bid will be considered if it is received after the opening of bids on the 24th day of January, 1968, at the office of the Housing Authority of the City of Greenville, North Carolina.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's Board of Higher Education has approved plans to open three new community colleges. The two-year colleges eventually will enroll 5,000 day students each. The board now operates the City University, which includes six community colleges with 15,617 full-time students.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠

A shortage of entries to the dummy presented South with an obstacle that he proved unable to overcome, and as a result his three no trump contract went on the rocks. A little more advance planning on his part, however, could have altered the result on the deal.

West opened the five of hearts. East put up the ace on which South followed with the deuce. The return was ducked in the closed hand and West was in with the queen. A third round cleared the suit as East discarded a spade. South had six top tricks in spades, hearts, and diamonds, so the outcome hinged upon the development of the club suit. The dummy was entered with the king of spades and a club was led, South putting in the jack. Altho he won the trick, there was no reentry to the North hand to repeat the finesse.

Declarer cashed the ace of clubs; however, when West showed out, discarding a diamond, South was unable to develop his ninth trick. He tried to throw East in by cashing out his high diamonds and then playing the ace and another spade; however, the latter frustrated the plan by throwing the queen under the ace.

West won the third round of spades with the jack and cashed out his hearts to send South down to defeat.

Declarer could have forced a second entry to the North hand by dropping the king of hearts under East's ace at trick one. When the four is returned, West can play his queen whenever he wishes; however, the dummy is assured of getting in with the jack, so that South can take his first finesse in clubs.

The king of spades provides a later entry to repeat the club finesse and thereby provide the declarer with three tricks in the suit, sufficient to bring his total to the required nine.

Sold His Friends Forged Passes

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) — A man from Massachusetts said in District Court that he purchased a season pass from a nearby ski resort for $125 and made copies that he sold to friends for $25 each. The man, who was fined $150, was arrested after one of his friends attempted to use a forged pass, authorities said.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets slightly stronger. Supplies barely adequate, demand generally good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 43-44; medium, whites: 41½-43; small, whites: 37-40.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog market was steady today with tops of 18.25-18.75 Rocky Mount; 18.00-18.75, Wilson; 17.00-18.50 Tarboro; 17.50-18.00 Hickory; 18.50 Rich Square; 18.00 Salisbury, Greensboro, Selma, Goldsboro; 17.50 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued a steady downturn early this afternoon as uncertainty was increased by the North Korean capture of a U.S. naval vessel. Trading was fairly active.

In the midst of the decline there was some scattered recovery as the session wore on. Several specially situated issues did well.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .9 at $14.5 with industrials off 1.5, rails off .6 and utilities unchanged.

Losses outnumbered gains by a ratio of about 7 to 4 in the over-all list—a slight improvement over nearly a 2-to-1 down-side margin in the morning.

Combined with the foreign news, was the additional hesitation caused by failure of administration spokesman again to win approval of the proposed income surtax from the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.21 at 863.56. This trimmed an early decline of nearly 4 points in the closely watched indicator which has dropped from 11 straight sessions.

IBM pared half a dozen points from its 16-point upsurge of Tuesday on stock split news.

Peoples Gas paced the list on activity, losing about a point.

Litton dropped another couple of points, Automatic Sprinkler nearly 2, Gulf & Western and Eastern Air Lines more than a point each and General Dynamics about 3.

On the brighter side, Ampenol and Sunray DX Oil advanced about a point in active dealings, Cessna more than a point, Control Data more than 2 and AMK Corp. nearly 3.

Xerox lost about 4 and Singer 2.

Prices were generally lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Firemen Called To Dog House; Short-Circuit

"Description of building: wood frame.

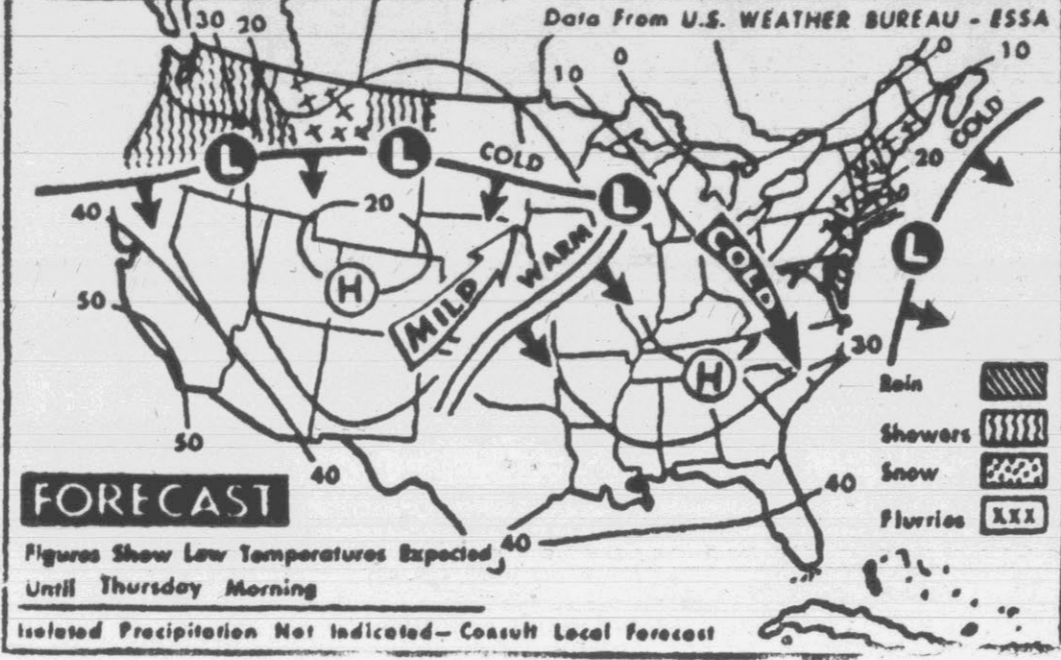

"How Used: Dog house."

That is part of a report made by Greenville firemen after answering a 1:50 a.m. fire call today to 1706 Canterbury Rd.

Officers said they were called when a short circuit in electrical wiring leading to the dog house developed, but they reported the fire was out when they arrived and said no damage resulted.

Firemen explained that the owner of the dog house, Ben G. White, had run wire to the structure to supply power for a light bulb. The bulb, fire officers theorized, supplied heat to warm the house.

Because the cries of pain when Norsemen stepped on purple thistles told them of the approach of their enemy, the Scots made the "Purple Thistle" their national emblem.

WEATHER FORECAST—Wednesday night snow flurries are forecast in the North Atlantic coastal states and in eastern Montana. Showers are expected in the Pacific Northwest. It will be colder in the East and milder in the Midwest. (AP Wirephoto Map)

St. Paul's Church Plans Observance On Thursday

The Conversion of St. Paul is remembered by the Church on January 25. This is the patron saint of St. Paul's Church on Fourth Street. The parish will commemorate the event with two celebrations of the Holy Communion at 7:00 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. The Rector, Rev. John W. Drake Jr., will be the celebrant at 7 a.m.; the Chaplain, Rev. Lawrence P. Houston Jr., at 10 a.m.

A highlight of the evening will be a drama in the Parish Hall at 8:00 p.m. The East Carolina Workshop Theatre troupe will present "Coming Through the Rye" by William Saroyan. This will be done at theater in the round with the audience seated about the players.

"Coming Through the Rye" takes place in the womb. The characters are waiting to be born and are discussing their futures on earth. Greg Zittel is cast as the voice. Bob Tompkins as Butch, Taylor Green as Carroll; Jack Scarey as Steve; Evelyn Marshall as Miss Quigley; Ken Heist and Gail Appenzeller as the kids; Bob Gurganus as Hastings and Alice Massengil as Peggy. Ken Heist is in charge of props and Mike Byrum will manage the lighting. The play is directed by Carlton Edwards.

Following the presentation of the drama the audience will enter a discussion of the play and its implications. The women of St. Lydia's Chapter will offer coffee and cake as refreshments for the assembly. Mrs. Mary Tetterton is in charge of the ladies. This is the social aspect of the festival evening.

The public is invited to be present for this evening of drama which is the union of the church and the performing arts.

Rep. Halleck To Leave Congress

MONTICELLO, Ind. (AP) — Rep Charles A. Halleck, who has served both as majority and minority leader during his 33 years as a Republican member of the House, says he will retire at the end of the session.

"Without dramatics let me tell you simply that I am not going to run for re-election. The time has come to turn over the job to a young man," Halleck announced Tuesday night at a Republican committee meeting. He is 67.

Tear Gas Used On Jail Rioters

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP)—Tear gas was used Tuesday to put down a brief riot staged by 28 prisoners in the Gaston County jail.

Sheriff Dwight Beam said the riot lasted only a few minutes.

He said it apparently developed when prisoners from Central Prison in Raleigh, temporarily lodged in the jail, began ripping commodes from a second story cell block wall and shattering them.

South Koreans Kill 9 More Red Assassins

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — While the United States massed a show of force off North Korea in an attempt to obtain the release of the captured U.S. Navy ship Pueblo, South Korean troops reported today they had killed nine more North Korean commandos who invaded Seoul Sunday in an attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park and other high officials.

This made a total of 15 of the 31-man band of assassins reported killed, and one more has been captured. The hunt for the other 15 continued.

The North Korean infiltrators have killed nine South Koreans and wounded seven, including an army colonel shot today as he led his men in an encounter on Mt. Nokosan, 10 miles north of Seoul. The colonel's unit killed four Communists, and one escaped.

Farther north of Seoul, in the western sector of the demilitarized zone, three American soldiers were slightly wounded early today in an exchange of fire with four North Koreans infiltrating south through the barrier fence along the truce zone. There was no report of North Korean casualties.

Membership Approves Church Building Program

The building program of the First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville has been approved by its membership and construction of the parsonage, first of two units to be erected, will begin on July 1, announced the Rev. W. Harvey Morris, pastor and chairman of the Building Committee, Wednesday.

of South Cotanche and 13th streets in Greenville and that the church reserves the right to accept or reject any purchase offer.

Prompt Reaction

LONDON (AP)—The British government today officially deplored North Korea's seizure of the U.S. ship Pueblo and expressed conviction the vessel was in international waters when she was boarded. Officials also said Britain still regards as valid its commitment to help defend South Korea against unprovoked aggression.

At a congregational meeting of the church membership Sunday morning, recommendations of the official board to proceed with the building program were adopted.

The board recommended that construction of the sanctuary and educational building begin in the late Fall of 1968 as economic conditions may justify this program.

The building site is on a 4.2 acre plot at the intersection of Brentwood Road and Plaza Drive, east of South Evans Street and north of the U. S. Highway 264 by-pass.

The official board of the church also recommended to the membership that it be known to several real estate agents that the church board is open to receive offers for the purchase of the present property of the church at the corner

March Of Dimes Volunteers To Be Soliciting

Volunteers for the Pitt County March of Dimes will be in local foodstores during the weekend to raise money for the March of Dimes drive.

According to Louise Carrigan, Pitt County chairman of the March of Dimes, a local packer has agreed to make cash donations to the ladies for every package of his meat products they help offer the public Friday and Saturday.

Many food stores in Greenville will participate in the "Help Us To Help Others" drive.

March of Dimes volunteer workers will take turns on a round-the-clock selling marathon to raise cash for the organization.

Jet Service May Hinge On Bonds

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The New Hanover County Airport is expected to have jet passenger service by mid-summer if voters approve a $364,000 bond referendum May 5.

Airport Manager John A. Westbrook said the airport now has two runways capable of handling the Boeing 737 jet planes of Piedmont Airlines with one measuring 8,000 feet and the other 7,000 feet.

Dear Customer:

Please find some comparative analysis of the damage suffered by the Utilities Commission's lines comparing Hurricane Hazel to the recent ice storm. You will also note the man power difference which we had in the field trying to restore service as promptly as possible to each of our customers.

We are very grateful for your patience and understanding and it was our only wish that service could be restored more quickly than it was. I want to assure you that men and equipment worked constantly, long and hard, trying to make the duration of your inconvenience as short as possible.

We have an emergency plan which seemed to work quite well and after some preliminary analysis, found the method of restoring service as efficiently as ever with respect to getting the largest number of customers possible back on the lines as quickly as possible.

The scope of this storm compared to Hurricane Hazel promoted further complications since it covered an area from the Piedmont sections of North Carolina almost to the coast; from the Georgia line through and into Virginia. This made it almost impossible to secure additional help as quickly as we were able to during Hurricane Hazel.

I thought you should know these few details as a matter of information and our concern over the inconvenience and loss which this ice storm may have brought at your residence or business. The Greenville Utilities Commission has always been proud of trying to make "Service Its Most Important Product," and we continuously look for better ways in which to accomplish this goal. Again, we thank you for your patience and hope you realize we are concerned about service and want to restore it as quickly as possible since we suffer as much loss as anyone when the meters are inactive.

If there are questions, certainly feel free to discuss them with the writer.
Sincerely yours,
Leonard P. Bloxam
Director of Utilities
