He said charges for the service totaled $1,644.75 and said $933.25 had been collected from those cases so far.

Valentine's Gift Led To Trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband (45 years old) came home with a Valentine's gift from a 35-year-old single girl at work. It was a T-shirt of the best quality. With it she enclosed a little note telling him to get with it—that sleeveless undershirts were out, and that real sharp guys wore T-shirts instead.

The very next day my husband went out and bought himself a complete supply of T-shirts and asked me if I knew someone who could use his old sleeveless undershirts as he was discarding them.

Now he wears the kind of undershirts the girl at the office recommended. How do you like that!

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't know what this girl sees in your husband, but she obviously sees thru him. Since an undergarment as a "Valentine" hardly qualifies as a practical joke, perhaps you should regard it as a warning flag.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and work in a large office. When I was younger I fell down and broke my nose, and have always wanted to have it operated on to make it prettier.

The doctor says I will have to be in the hospital for a week, and it will take about three weeks more before all the black and blue marks and swelling disappear completely. This means a whole month away from work.

My problem is that I don't want anyone at the office to know why I am going to be gone for a month, but I have insurance here at work that will take care of part of the expense, so I will have to let them know. How can I keep my secret!

DEAR WORRIED: Since you're sensitive about it, tell them at work that you are going into the hospital for some "corrective surgery" . . . and don't wait around for further questioning. When you return, the improvement will be obvious, but don't be embarrassed. Cosmetic surgery is nothing to be ashamed of.

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother whose adolescent son was "embarrassed" because he had to take a lamp treatment, naked, in the presence of a "young girl" made me see red.

The mother said her son was 17 and the girl couldn't have been much older. Well, she had to be at least 21 to be a nurse.

These people who think nurses and doctors take a personal interest in their patients make me sick.

I am a registered nurse and I'll never forget the time I had to perform a personal service for an elderly gentleman because no orderly was available. The man shouted, "I don't want no WOMAN in here." I called my superior in and she said, "Simmer down, Dad, we are not WOMEN, we are nurses!"

And a few years ago I was in the room with the doctor and his male patient who had just come from the recovery room after surgery. His wife was present, too. Then the doctor said to his wife, "Would you please step out!" The wife replied, "If that woman can stay, so can I. I can do anything SHE can do!" Whereupon the doctor handed her a stethoscope and chart and said, "Fine, we're short of help, so will you please check all vital signs every 15 minutes, blood pressure, heart, etc. and request the lab for blood work, check all output and intake, etc." She certainly changed her tune in a hurry.

Jewels In Their Shoes And Manuscripts On Ice

Gy CELESTINE SIBLEY
Women's News Service
The other day at lunch Wylly Folk St. John amused a group of us when she disclosed that she literally keeps her unfinished manuscripts on ice. It seems that Wylly, author of the briskly selling children's cook, "Secrets of Hidden Creek," has just finished the first draft of a new adventure-mystery for children and since she only made one copy she is concerned that nothing happen to it until she has polished it up, retyped it and got it in the hands of her editor at Viking.

One of the dangers to any piece of paper is, of course, fire. The notion that their house could catch fire while she was at work struck Wylly and she stowed her manuscript in the refrigerator, cheek by jowl with the bacon and eggs.

Some of us laughed at the idea and Wylly said nonchalantly, "Oh, I've been keeping manuscripts in the refrigerator for years. It's the only fireproof place I can think of."

Real Hazard

To a writer who has expended months of work on a book, fire represents a real hazard. The late Lillian Smith, one of our luncheon group recalled, lost a book on which she had been working for years in a fire shortly before her death. Painters have the same problem and, unfortunately, their refrigerators are probably never big enough.

Safekeeping must be a constant problem with anybody—not just authors and painters—who has anything of great value hanging around the house. Fiction is full of odd and offbeat hidey holes people have found for their wills. A lawyer friend tells me that since the advent of the safety deposit box in banks there are few wills lying around in secret drawers any more. People with splendid jewels probably stow them in safes of some kind.

Author Gordon once wrote that his famed aunt Juliette Gordon Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, hid her jewelry, when traveling, in the toes of her shoes, even setting them out in the hotel hall to be polished.

And I once knew a rich woman in a slum neighborhood who thwarted burglars by burying her sizeable collection of star sapphires in a flowerpot on her front banister (I think she wrapped them in chamois skin first.) The "Lost Weekend" hero who hid his whiskey in the chandelier or hung it on a string outside his window was an inspired hider.

My mother had an old friend who constantly suspected her neighbors of stealing her coffee—just coffee, nothing else. To beat them she made a practice of locking her coffee in her trunk with her camisoles.

'Liability Point' Not Yet Reached

As the cost of higher education increases, it is not surprising to hear more concern expressed over the number of out-of-state students enrolled in state-supported colleges and universities in North Carolina.

The Board of Higher Education recently completed a study which shows undergraduate enrollment of out-of-state students in state-supported institutions in North Carolina has increased from 13.1 per cent in 1960 to 17.8 per cent last fall. Of the total enrollment, which includes graduate students, out-of-state students make up 20.2 per cent of the student bodies of state-supported colleges and universities in North Carolina.

According to the Board's report, these figures are not out of line with out-of-state enrollment in the institutions of other states. Moreover, as the report says, "Educators generally agree that out-of-state students improve the intellectual climate of an institution. Students from different geographical, cultural and intellectual backgrounds are an asset to the process of education."

The increase in out-of-state enrollment in recent years has come in spite of the fact that entrance requirements and tuition charges for out-of-state students have moved up sharply. In North Carolina those students from other states pay considerably higher tuition than do residents of the state. They also must meet higher entrance requirements. Concern over the matter, of course, stems from the fear that students from other states may be taking dormitory or classroom space that otherwise would be available to some North Carolina youngsters. As demands upon educational institutions continue to increase, this concern may become more widespread.

As might be expected, a higher percentage of out-of-state undergraduates are enrolled at branches of the Consolidated University than the average of those enrolled at senior colleges and regional universities, but only six-tenths of a percentage point separate the two. Also as expected, UNC at Chapel Hill has the highest percentage of out-of-state enrollment among the larger institutions with 24.3 per cent. N. C. State at Raleigh has 15.6 per cent of its undergraduate enrollment from out of North Carolina, while East Carolina University has 17.8 per cent out-of-state undergraduates . . . exactly the average of the whole higher education system of North Carolina.

Out-of-state enrollment in North Carolina's institutions has not yet reached the point where it constitutes a liability rather than an asset to the state. As the trend of migrating students increases across the nation, however, North Carolina must carefully evaluate the changes in the out-of-state enrollment in its colleges and universities.

Can Carmichael Take It Over?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Fear is growing among top officials in the White House and Justice Department that Dr. Martin Luther King's April March of the Poor in Washington will result in a stunning victory for Stokely Carmichael.

With only six weeks to go, little of the detailed and massive planning necessary for King's April campaign has been done. Thus, in the opinion of Administration strategists, there is a golden opportunity for Carmichael to step in and gain primacy among Negro leaders. Indeed King in desperation may even invite him to take a leading role in the planning, with obvious implications for the future.

Moreover, King's ill-considered campaign exactly coincides with the new Leninist phase — in many ways the most dangerous phase — of Stokely Carmichael's swift ascent to the top. He has returned from travels in the Communist world no longer preaching revolution in the streets but quietly implementing V. I. Lenin's tactics of coalescing with non-revolutionary social reformers — such as King.

What makes King particularly susceptible to Carmichael's embrace is his present desperate condition within the movement. Once the country's most prestigious Negro leader, he has been declining since the failure of his Chicago campaign of 1966. The April March of the Poor is widely regarded in Negro circles as King's last opportunity. Chuck Stone, a shrewd black power strategist and an ally of Carmichael, has called it "Custer's last stand."

But King, never much of an administrator, has hardly begun to attack the mass of detail needed to bring thousands of Negroes to Washington and house, feed, and lead them. King badly misses Bayard Rustin, chief planner for the 1963 march on Washington, who is now estranged from King.

Furthermore, as Justice Department officials well know, King has a history of surrendering control to the better organized extremist elements in a critical situation. This was precisely what happened during the Selma, Ala., march in 1965 when the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNICK) forced King to the wall and seized control.

Nor are Administration officials alone in their apprehension. King's more moderate lieutenants—such as the Rev. Walter Fauntroy, vice chairman of the new Washington city council — have from the beginning feared that control of the April march would go to the extremists.

The decision by Carmichael's new Black United Front to endorse the "aims" of the King campaign has only fanned the fears. For Carmichael, it avoids all responsibility for a possible fiasco but positions him perfectly to take command if the opportunity arises.

Indeed, mere formation of the Black United Front follows the Leninist line now followed by Carmichael. Whether or not Carmichael himself actually read Lenin during his long travels in the Red world last year, he returned to this country a changed man. Once contemptuous of non-racial Negroes, he immediately proposed formation of the Black United Front — a front of both revolutionary and non-revolutionary elements along classic Leninist lines.

Moderate Negro leaders here have been uncertain about their reaction to Carmichael's overtures. Carl Moultrie of the NAACP and Sterling Tucker of the Urban League attended the first meetings of the Front more to keep an eye on Carmichael than anything else. In a private conversation, Tucker told Carmichael he realized each was trying to hoodwink the other.

Premise Can Be Carried Too Far

By BOB HORTON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carried to their logical extreme, administration claims that the mass Communist offensive strengthened South Vietnam appear to indicate the allies would be better off if only the enemy attacked more.

Or that Sunday's assaults on the Tan Son Nhut Air base and other areas were good medicine.

Or, carried to absurdity, that the South Vietnam army should attack its own cities and thereby guarantee national unity.

Of course, presidential adviser Walt W. Rostow didn't mean to imply any of these things but his latest assessment of the Viet Cong raids on the cities illustrates how hard the administration is trying to put the best face possible on some difficult circumstances in the war zone.

Rostow, telling newsmen of the briefing he gave to former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in California, said of the recent attacks: "We're in the middle of a battle that is unresolved but from their own documents they failed to achieve their objectives and may have left the South Vietnamese army and government institutions stronger than before the attacks."

Rostow said the enemy actions have driven the South Vietnamese populace "closer to a sense of nationhood than ever before."

Ellsworth Bunker, U. S. ambassador to Saigon, said much the same thing as Rostow in a television appearance Sunday. Bunker said the South Vietnamese army gained confidence in the Jan. 29 fighting.

"I think the people have gained confidence in them," Bunker declared. "There is an indication, I think, that the government has probably a wider support today than it had before the Tet lunar new year offensive."

Officials in the Pentagon acknowledge that if the Tet attacks proved anything, it is that the Viet Cong still has

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS THAT LITTLE WORD "ALL"

The Hebrew prophet Ezekiel urges the generation he addressed to cast aside all their transgressions (Ezekiel 12:31). Not just part of their transgressions, but all of them.

It is that little word "all" which often makes life a struggle. We are willing to cast aside the great transgressions. The commandment that we not kill is almost universally accepted as valid in every respect. Neither do we want to steal or in any way take unfair advantage of a neighbor. But everyone has in his life or hers some little weakness that is hard to cast aside. For some it is the sharp tongue which is often capable of bitter retort. For others it is some weakness of flesh involving passion or appetite. Others find gossip so congenial to their minds that they just can't resist the opportunity to pass on the latest item of scandal.

As a matter of fact, real stability of character depends primarily on the way we handle little sins and temptations. For most people great temptations are so obvious they are sometimes easier to withstand and reject than are the little temptations which gnaw away at the mind and cause a definite and unpleasant change in one's character.

So we should always remember as we consider our moral characters and their improvement or decline that little, everyday circumstances and attitudes are profoundly important. Cast away all transgression — with emphasis on the word "all."

Feb. 21, 1928 Rotary Club Hears Judge

The regular meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club was held last night with President Bill Rogers, presiding. The program for the evening featured the anniversary of the birth of Rotary 23 years ago, and consisted of talks dealing with Rotary and what it means to the community and individual. Judge Henry A. Grady, who is presiding over this term of Pitt County civil court, was a guest of the club, and spoke for five minutes on the spirit of brotherly love, declaring that such was the foundation of every organization whether civic, religious or fraternal.

Greenview Ready To Welcome Mary Lewis

Everything has been done to make the concert by Mary Lewis on Thursday evening a great success and the people of East Carolina Teachers College are confident that there will be a large audience of representative people from various places throughout this section. It will be a brilliant social, as well as artistic event, according to president indications. The college girls have been spreading abroad among the towns and country reports of her beauty and singing and are expecting friends from near and far. The town people have taken great interest in the event and are giving it their full support. . . . Those in charge of the arrangements have anticipated everything that might help to make the occasion a success in every way. A temporary ceiling has been put immediately over the stage to close the open space that will later be filled with stage scenery. This is to prevent any tones of the great prima donna from straying away from the ears of the audience. . . . A grand piano will be sent down from Raleigh for the occasion and a piano tuner will come with it and stay until the concert is over. This is no reflection on Greenville, but there was not an available grand piano to be had here. . . . Miss Lewis is scheduled to arrive here Thursday morning, but whether by train or bus is not certain. One thing, however, is certain, she will not go to another Greenville, as Anna Case did, if forethought can prevent it. . . .

HIS BIGGEST JOB!

By ART BUCHWALD

No Bodies In The Rubble

WASHINGTON — My friend Kober doesn't seem to identify too much with what is going on in the cities of South Vietnam these days; so my friend Schultz had to explain it to him.

"Suppose," said Schultz, "you came home one night and found the police surrounding your house, and suppose you said to the chief:

"Hey, what are you shooting in my house for?"

"Don't worry, Sir, Charlie's in there, but we'll get him out."

"That's fine, but do you have to shoot at every window to do it?"

"It's the only way. If we don't rout out Charlie, there will never be any peace in this neighborhood."

"That's just great, but in the meantime, would you stop using that flame thrower on my house?"

"Charlie's dug in and we have to use everything we've got. It's for your benefit, Sir. The sooner we get him out of there, the better it will be for everybody."

"I'm sympathetic with your problem, and I'd like to get Charlie out, too, but where am I going to live if you keep firing mortars into the roof?"

"Good heavens, man, don't be unreasonable. There's more at stake than your house. If we don't get Charlie out of there, we'll lose the respect of everybody in this city."

"Why did you just blow off my chimney?"

"We thought he might be up there. Look, you can always get a new chimney."

"Sure, but what am I going to do for a new garage, since you just blasted mine away?"

"You can't fight crime and lawlessness without doing some damage. Now, be a good guy, and just stand back so we can move this artillery piece up here."

"Now wait a minute, you're going too far. I forbid you to use artillery against my house."

"You are in no position to forbid us to use anything. Charlie has to pay for his crimes."

"That's all right with me, but who's going to pay for my house?"

"I'm sure somebody will take care of it. Besides, that's not our department."

"I don't want to be a bore about this, and I know I can't see the big picture, but that happens to be my dwelling and I worked 25 years to pay for it. By the way, you know you just wrecked my kitchen, don't you?"

"Sorry about that. I guess he must be in the bedroom."

"What are you doing with that tank?"

"He can hit the second floor better with a tank."

"I'll bet you can. Let me ask you a question: suppose he's not in the bedroom?"

"Then we'll have to knock out your living room."

"It figures, I guess one last appeal to spare my house would fall on deaf ears, wouldn't it?"

"WHAT DID YOU SAY? I CAN'T HEAR YOU BECAUSE OF THE DIVE BOMBERS."

"ARE YOU GOING TO DIVE BOMB MY HOUSE?"

"IT SEEMS TO BE THE ONLY WAY, LISTEN, THIS HURTS US MORE THAN IT HURTS YOU."

"There they go. Holy smoke, the whole house is falling down! The whole house! My house is gone!"

"There don't seem to be any bodies in the rubble. I wonder if Charlie's in the next house?"

A Year Is Still Enough

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon apparently intends to maintain the one-year Vietnam duty tour regardless of any other actions to bolster U.S. military manpower in Southeast Asia.

"There is no sentiment in favor of stretching the tour," one high official said. "The one-year tour is awfully useful as a morale builder."

Defense authorities are studying several possible measures to ease the manpower pinch resulting from the ever-rising demands of the Vietnam war.

Possible actions include calling to active duty thousands of National Guardsmen and reservists, increasing draft calls, shortening the interval between tours of duty in Vietnam and bringing more troops back from Europe.

An already tight manpower situation would become worse if President Johnson should order an increase in authorized troop levels for Vietnam beyond the currently planned 525,000 by mid-summer.

Johnson said last weekend he will boost the level "if we need to."

Pentagon officials said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, has not yet requested any over-all increase. But military sources expect that he will.

Last week Johnson approved the speedy shipment to Vietnam of about 10,500 Army paratroopers and Marines specifically asked for by Westmoreland as insurance against an expected Communist assault on the Khe Sanh stronghold in northwestern South Vietnam.

This development highlighted the manpower squeeze because it drew from the United States a brigade of the 82nd Airborne Division, the last division-size Army outfit capable of quick reaction to meet new crises which may develop in the Caribbean, Mediterranean or elsewhere.

The necessity to draw also on an already thin Marine contingent in the United States also tended to underscore the overall manpower problem.

The Army and Marines have tried to allow a man at least 24 months away from Vietnam before he is sent back.

But authorities said an exception had to be made in the case of the new reinforcement of 10,500 paratroopers and Marines.

About 40 per cent of the paratroop brigade had been back from Vietnam less than two years, and many less than one year. The Marine regiment was in somewhat the same shape.

Faced with strong protests from congressmen and relatives of men being returned to Vietnam, the Army is developing a plan to permit what is called a "phase return" of men who had recently returned from their first war tour.

Officials said the plan has not yet been approved.

Under the proposal a man who had been home from the war only six months, for example, would be rotated back from his second tour in Vietnam ahead of a man who had been back in the United States for seven months.

Presumably, many of those rushed over would not have to serve another full year in Vietnam. Whether such exceptions to the 24-month interval policy will become frequent will depend on whether the 525,000-troop ceiling is raised, and by how much.

Other Editors Saying Sen. White To Pasture?

(Greensboro Daily News)

There is no obvious reason why the North Carolina press should salute its most persistent critic, Sen. Tom White of Lenoir County, on his retirement. Yet it does salute "old sawtongue" (as the Chapel Hill Weekly calls him), not without affection.

Senator White is, in a current phrase, about the oldest rat in the legislative barn. The new Edward Durrell Stone statehouse is indeed his barn and at its inauguration in 1963 the senator's proprietary sense became so acute that he barred reporters from their long-accustomed perch on the Senate floor, calling them "ill-bred intruders."

The Daily News then as now took exception to Senator White's habit of unceremonious door-slamming, and has differed with him over many issues — the Speaker Ban law, the budgetary procedure of his Advisory Budget Commission and his Joint Appropriations subcommittee, and others too many or too petty to name here. Oddly, we have also agreed with him at times — particularly in sharing his dim view of the proliferation of tax-supported "universities."

Now as Tom White retires to practice what he calls "country law" we find an embarrassing confession necessary: We will miss him. We will miss his tireless labors for the public, and for secrecy, and we will even miss his insults. Chiefly will we miss him because he is one of those fixtures of every working legislative process, a man who rarely let private peevishness hinder the transaction of the public's business — and who by a certain candor and cordiality of manner ingratiates himself even with his foes.

Politics nowadays is full of people smarting with unappeased grievances or unadmitted peevishness, by and large a sullen lot. Tom White is their opposite, a blunt legislator wholly without concealed spite. If he and the press have swapped a few knocks, it is all in good spirit, and we join in wishing old sawtongue a rappy retirement from a Senate he served well indeed.

Decline In Rates Not Yet Clear

By ELMER ROESSNER

Although a man trying to buy a house may not notice it, interest rates have declined moderately. It amazes bankers because the decline has occurred while business activity continues high.

The reasons for the decline are not entirely clear, but these may be important factors: The discouragement of investments abroad has left more investment money on the American market.

Vigorous action to defend the dollar, plus administration assurances that there would be no devaluation, has caused foreign investors to turn more money into American channels.

Fear of further devaluation of the pound and other currencies has increased this diversion. On Feb. 7, for the first time, deposits in foreign branches of nine New York banks topped $10 billion.

Treasury Borrowing A Factor Treasury borrowing has leveled off. William McC. Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, told Congress: "Borrowing by the Treasury in the second half of 1967 was more than double that of the preceding year; the government accounted for more than a quarter of all the funds raised in credit and equity markets from June to December, compared with less than a tenth in the comparable period in 1966."

Because of the high rate of Treasury borrowing, corporations feared a money shortage in 1967 and borrowed for their reserves. This has now sharply declined.

During 1967, many corporations, fearful of higher rates, issued many long-term obligations.

Treasury borrowing has leveled off. William McC. Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, told Congress: "Borrowing by the Treasury in the second half of 1967 was more than double that of the preceding year; the government accounted for more than a quarter of all the funds raised in credit and equity markets from June to December, compared with less than a tenth in the comparable period in 1966."

Because of the high rate of Treasury borrowing, corpora-capital investments. Some have completed expansion for handling government contracts; others have been slowed down by sharp rises in plant and equipment costs. Some have delayed commitments in fear of a steel strike.

Some large institutional investors have reduced stock holdings and increased purchases of government bonds.

Whether interest rates will continue to ease depends largely on Congress. If it refuses to pass the income surtax asked by President Johnson, the Treasury will be forced to borrow huge sums, perhaps $10 billion. This fresh competition for available money would undoubtedly end the decline in interest rates and start them shooting up again.

Pitt Tech To Provide Courses On Hotel, Motel Operation

The Pitt Technical Institute is planning to provide a progressive program of education in the field of hotel and motel operation and management.

The program will follow the American Hotel and Motel Association course of study and will be recognized by this organization, reports T. L. Daughtry, area coordinator in Hospitality Education.

The designation of Graduate Diploma is respected throughout the industry. Qualifying standards have been set up following the pattern of other recognized professions.

Classes will be held at night to allow students to continue their present employment. There will be a small charge to cover instructional materials.

In the Graduate Diploma Program there is no fixed sequence in which courses must be taken.

To qualify for the diploma, a required basic core of six courses plus three electives must be completed from the following list:

SIX REQUIRED COURSES—front office procedure; hotel-motel accounting; hotel-motel law; food and beverage controls; supervisory housekeeping and maintenance and engineering.

ELECTIVES (three from the following group)—food and beverage purchasing; food and beverage management and service; hotel - motel and its economy; human relations; communications; sales promotion; hotel-motel organization and administration; and motel-motor hotel management and operation.

APPLE VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — It's called Apple Valley but there isn't an apple tree in sight.

Cowboy stars Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, residents of the community, will help plant the first of 1,000 apple trees in a ceremony Sunday to begin the project, "Apples for Apple Valley," a spokesman said Tuesday.

Second Biggest Haul From Bank

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina's eighth bank robbery this year netted two armed men the second biggest haul Tuesday—$15,400—from the First Union National Bank branch at Archdale in suburban High Point.

The biggest take was at another First Union National branch, in Charlotte on Feb. 6, when $22,239 was taken.

The eight robberies since Jan. 10 have netted more than $89,000.

Four women tellers and a customer were in the High Point bank when the two bandits entered at about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

They ordered those in the bank to lie quietly on the floor and within three minutes they had cleaned one of two cash drawers and fled. As soon as they had left, one of the tellers turned in the alarm.

Manager Mallory Pate said the men apparently made no attempt to enter the vault, thereby missing a larger amount of cash.

One of the men was described as rather short and nervous. He had the word "love" tattooed on fingers of his left hand and wore sun glasses.

His companion was said to be about 35 years old, 6-feet tall and about 200 pounds. He, too, wore sun glasses.

This view, of course, carries the implication that more severe fighting of the Tet magnitude would hasten an end to the war, and some military officials indeed believe that.

The Pentagon stands by the impressive statistics compiled by the military command in Saigon purporting to show how well the allies fared against the Communists during the Tet attacks and their aftermath.

Between Jan. 29 and Feb. 9, those figures show the enemy lost 27,706 killed, with another 5,019 suspects detained. This compares with an announced total of 2,707 allied dead: 920 U. S.; 1,733 South Vietnamese, and 54 other allied troops.

The military command also lists the capture of 6,299 individual and 1,063 crew-served weapons.

A Better Mouse Trap Is Devised

DALLAS, Ore. (AP) — The Dallas, Ore., chapter of the Future Farmers of America has built a better mouse trap. Here's how it works:

You take a coffee can with a plastic top and fill it with water. Then you cut several slits in the plastic top, making its surface very weak.

Next you put peanut butter on the underside of the top. Then you bury the can in a field that has a mouse problem.

The mice smell the peanut butter, step on the slit plastic, fall into the coffee can and drown—the future farmers hope.

McNamara, Fulbright Still Disagree On 'Tonkin'

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Weary adversaries after a 7½-hour confrontation, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Sen. J. W. Fulbright still disagreed on the real story of the naval engagement which prompted the first U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

McNamara issued a 21-page account of the affair, over Fulbright's objection, contending the administration proved conclusively that the U.S. destroyers Maddox and Turner Joy were attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats in international waters on Aug. 4, 1964.

He termed "monstrous" any suggestion the United States induced the attack, seeking an excuse for its subsequent retaliation.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the public statement McNamara issued "does not tell the whole story by any means."

Fulbright did not relate his version. "I'm too worn out to attempt any kind of discussion," he said after McNamara's marathon appearance before the committee.

"I'm on overtime now," McNamara told newsmen as he emerged from the closed committee room, refusing to answer questions.

And so the session which ran into Tuesday night produced only fresh controversy over the engagement in the Gulf of Tonkin.

McNamara's session with the committee clearly was a sometimes angry affair. Fulbright said he had urged McNamara not to release his statement, but the secretary had it distributed at the Pentagon.

In it, McNamara said the U.S.

destroyers had in no way provoked attacks by the North Vietnamese, and had not participated in South Vietnam's bombardment of Communist islands in the gulf, assaults which occurred at about the same time.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said the South Vietnamese used boats supplied by the United States, and contended "North Vietnam had every reason to fear" the U.S. destroyers.

Morse was one of only two so-called Tonkin Gulf resolution, passed six days after the reported attacks, authorizing President Johnson to take all measures necessary to "prevent further aggression" in the area. Fulbright was floor manager for the resolution.

The immediate response was a U.S. air raid on North Vietnamese torpedo boat bases.

Morse said nothing he had heard had changed his mind. "I completely disagreed with everything he (McNamara) said today regarding the rationalization the administration tries to give the Tonkin Bay incident," Morse said. And he said he told the defense chief so in those words.

In his statement, McNamara said "we had available to us incontrovertible evidence of these attacks when the decision was made to use our limited and measured response." He said the incidents were "in no sense provoked or justified" by any U.S. action.

Furthermore, McNamara said, the administration had "An intelligence report of a highly classified and unimpeachable nature received shortly before the engagement, stating that North Vietnamese naval forces intended to attack the Maddox and the Turner Joy."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who is challenging Johnson's expected bid for re-nomination in several presidential primaries, said if the ships "knew they were going to be attacked, why did they stay around and be attacked?"

McNamara disclosed publicly for the first time that the Maddox was on an intelligence gathering mission off the North Vietnamese coast.

The Maddox reported being attacked on Aug. 2, two days before the crucial engagement which prompted U.S. retaliation.

"The primary purpose of the Maddox was to observe North Vietnamese naval activity in those waters, in view of the evidence we had of infiltration by sea by North Vietnam into South Vietnam," he said. "We had the undisputed right to do this. In view of our assistance to South Vietnam, such observations were needed."

McNamara said he knows of no claim that the attack on the Maddox on Aug. 2, 1964, did not occur. It was the second reported attack, two days later, which prompted the U.S. response.

"Some uncertainty existed and to this day exists about some of the precise details of the attack," McNamara said. "But there should be no uncertainty about the fact that an attack took place."

After the first incident, McNamara said, the U.S. ships were ordered to remain 11 miles from the North Vietnamese coastline, instead of the eight miles ordered on earlier patrols, to induce another attack."

For the United States to have induced the attack, he said, "hardly indicative of an intent there would have had to be a conspiracy involving military commanders in the field and at the Pentagon, the secretary of defense, the secretary of state and President Johnson himself. He called that inconceivable. Fulbright declined to discuss the future course of his committee's inquiry, which already has produced an intensive staff investigation of the Tonkin Gulf incident.

Militant Buddhist Is Arrested By Police

SAIGON (AP) — National police arrested the militant Buddhist leader Thich Tri Quang today a few hours after arresting two other prominent political opponents of the South Vietnamese government.

U.S. Embassy officials said the arrests were a remarkable case of bad timing since they came shortly before a new anti-Communist front, "The People's Congress for National Salvation," announced that it had succeeded in uniting political friends and foes of the government. The congress is backed by the government.

Associates and friends of all three arrested men are members of the new congress. There was speculation that they might quit because of the surprise arrests.

In addition to the monk Tri Quang, the police arrested Truong Dinh Dzu, who ran a strong second as a peace candidate in last October's presidential election, and Au Truong Thanh, a former economy minister. Thanh also tried to run for president on a peace platform but his ticket was disqualified by the Constituent Assembly for "pro-Communist and pro-neutralist tendencies." Dzu got around that by keeping his peace platform quiet until after the assembly certified his candidacy.

Informed American sources said further arrests of government opponents were "entirely possible." They could not confirm reports that a small number of intellectuals had also been arrested.

Tri Quang commanded a large following throughout South Vietnam. As recently as last September he was able to call thousands of Buddhist monks, nuns and laymen into the streets for protest marches against the government. In 1966 he led "struggle movements" against the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, and virtual anarchy in Hue and Da Nang was put down only after government troops were flown in.

The new anti-Communist front held its first meeting with newsmen today and announced it had united several different groups and personalities to counter the Viet Cong offensive.

The chairman of the standing committee, Sen. Tran Van Don, said although the group has government's backing, it is not a government group. However, Vice President Ky's press aide helped organize the meeting, and soldiers set up the loud-speaker system for the news conference.

Join To Erase Obsolete Laws

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Republican and Democratic leaders in the Kentucky House of Representatives joined Tuesday in sponsoring a bill to wipe out many obsolete sections of the state's criminal code.

It would, for example, repeat the ban against selling cigarettes, cigars and refreshments within 1½ miles of a camp meeting.

It also would erase:

- A law against appearing on a public highway in a bathing suit.
- A law against grazing cattle on the state Capitol grounds.
- A law against defrauding a livery stable operator.

Lei Sellers Must Import Blooms

HONOLULU (AP) — The bulk of Hawaii's carnation crop is raised on Maui Island, which has been battered by wind and rain for weeks.

So the Aloha State Lei Sellers Association is importing carnations from the U.S. mainland to meet the demand for Hawaii's famous flower leis. The association reports plumeria and orchids are in short supply, too.

Appeal For Damaged Peanuts Has Approval

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Commodity Credit Corporation agreed Tuesday to resume the purchase of damaged peanuts and continue such purchases through February.

Congressman Walter B. Jones, who appealed Monday for renewed purchases to come to the rescue of peanut growers with large stocks on hand, said CCC Chairman Horace D. Godfrey reported the decision to renew the program late Tuesday.

Jones said he expects Godfrey will announce details of the resumption of purchases sometime today. Jones had asked for a five-day extension of purchases but Godfrey granted nearly twice that much. The reopening of purchases will remain in effect until Feb. 29.

The corporation had stopped buying peanut stocks with more than two per cent damage on Jan. 31 according to normal schedule. Jones said he later learned that many peanut growers, because of much adverse weather in January, still had large stocks of the damaged peanuts. There was no prospect for sale of the stocks unless the CCC program had been reopened.

Two Collisions Here Yesterday

An estimated $675 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Louise Cherry Fleming, of Route 1, Stokes was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 5:34 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Ninth and Washington Streets.

Police said the Fleming car collided with a vehicle driven by Betty Shackleford Shinn, of 1401 Brownlea Dr. causing an estimated $200 damage to the Shinn auto and about $375 damage to the Fleming car.

In the second mishap, a car driven by Lydia Raynor Bullock, 23, of Route 5, Greenville collided with a city streetsweeper operated by Carl Bass, 56, of Route 3, Greenville.

Damage to the car in the 7:05 p.m. collision was set at $100 while no damage resulted to the sweeper.

The collision occurred at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Lone Street.

N.C. Marines Killed In Action

WASHINGTON MOJ — Two North Carolina Marines were listed among servicemen killed in action in Vietnam recently, the Pentagon reports.

They were identified as First Lt. Paul A. Jenson of Asheville and Lance Cpl. Kenneth L. Crysel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern W. Crysel of North Wilkesboro.

A LITTLE LATE
DENVER (AP) — Floyd Little, ex-Syracuse star, played in 11 league games for the Denver Broncos before he scored his first touchdown in American Football League play. His 13-yard scoring dash helped the Broncos beat Buffalo 21-20 and end a nine-game losing string.

Earlier reports said Williams was convicted of speeding at the February 12 term of Greenville Municipal Records Court, and ordered to pay costs in the case.

The Daily Reflector regrets the error.

Stokes Boys Rally To Down Winterville; Bethel And Grifton Girls Gain Victories

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

There was almost an upset in the opening round of the Pitt County Tournament last night. Almost, but not quite.

The Winterville boys, seeded fifth in the loop, kept the Stokes-Pactolus Blue Jays on the ropes nearly the entire game, but lost it in the closing three minutes as too many fouls took the toll, 64-55.

In the other action, the Bethel girls, seeded second, downed last place Stokes, 41-23, and fourth-place Grifton downed fifth-seeded Chicod, 39-29, after a shaky start.

In the opening game, the Stokes girls played much as they have all season, pushing out into a lead, only to lose it and eventually the game.

Bethel took the opening lead as Donna Dennis connected, but Stokes came back to tie it up at 3-3 as Matilda Barnhill hit. Then Stokes moved ahead for the only time in the evening, 5-3, as Patrice Warren connected. Shirley Whichard hit on a free throw for Bethel to make it 5-4 at the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter, Miss Dennis hit again to return the lead to Bethel at 6-5, and a basket by Karen Mazingo made it 8-5.

Stokes battled back, finally tying it at 10-10 on a basket by Miss Barnhill, but Joette Aboynis hit for Bethel to return the Squaws to the lead at 12-10. From there, they worked up a 16-12 half-time lead.

Bethel started the third period off with four straight baskets which virtually put the game out of reach for Stokes. Miss Dennis hit again, and Deloris Manning followed with three in a row to push the lead to 24-12 with 3:24 left in the third frame.

Stokes managed to cut it back to nine, but trailed at the end of the period, 28-19.

In the final period, Bethel again pulled away, working up as much as an 18-point lead, the final margin.

Miss Mazingo led Bethel with 12 points, while Miss Manning had 10. The leading scorer for Stokes was Miss Barnhill, who had seven points.

In the second game of the night, the only boys contest, Stokes took the opening lead as Hoyt Haddock connected, but Phillip Haddock tied it up, and Lindsey Godley dropped in a free throw for a 3-2 Winterville lead.

Stokes came back quickly as Ward Parker connected to give the Jays the lead again, and baskets by John Corey and Noel Lee pushed the lead to five at 8-3.

But spunky Winterville came rolling back and pulled back into a tie at 8-8, then took a 10-8 lead as Lindsey Godley connected. Haddock tied it up for Stokes, but Linwood Lawson hit from the outside to push Winterville out again. The Wolves then build a 14-12 lead at the end of the period.

Ronnie Potter hit to make the lead four at 16-12, but Stokes came back to tie it up as Eddie Hudson hit two straight. Lawson connected on two in a row, but Stokes tied it up again before Winterville got a four-point advantage at 22-18. Stokes cut it back to one and Winterville pulled it back to four on three free throws before the Blue Jays again rallied on three charity shots of their own. That made it 25-24 Winterville at the half.

Stokes came back to grab the lead at 28-27 on Hudon's shot in the third period, and Lee made it 30-27. But Winterville charged back again, taking the lead on Haddock's shot at 31-30, and then moving out by four at 35-31 as Haddock hit again.

Stokes charged back again to take a 36-35 lead, only to lose it again and trail 41-38 at the end of the period.

In the opening minutes of the fourth period, Winterville went out by five on three occasions, using the foul line exclusively, making it 47-42 the last time.

But the Wolves were beginning to run out of steam, and began fouling as Stokes came back strong. The Blue Jays finally put together its rally, with Marion McLawhorn leading the way.

Grifton charged back to tie it at 18-18 on a foul shot by Laura Kilpatrick, then after Chicod went back out by one, Miss McLawhorn hit to make it 20-19 at the half for Grifton.

Grifton was in firm control after that, slowly pulling away from the one point lead at the half, they built up a 30-24 margin at the end of the third period and led by as much as 11 before it was over.

For Grifton, Miss McLawhorn had 24 points, while Chicod was led by Miss Jones with 13 and Miss Gurkins with 11.

By virtue of their wins, Grifton's girls go on to meet Ayden, while Bethel meets the Belvoir-Winterville winner. The Stokes boys will meet Ayden.

Tonight's games are: 6:30 p.m., Bethel boys vs. Chicod; 8 p.m. Belvoir girls vs. Winterville; 9:30 p.m., Grifton boys vs. Belvoir.

Phantoms Edge Elizabeth City By 55-53 Score

By SONNY McLAWHORN
Reflector Sports Writer
 Rose High pulled another upset last night, edging Elizabeth City's Yellow Jackets by a 55-53 score.
 Behind the blistering shooting of Mike Aldridge, the Phantoms took an early lead and kept the advantage most of the way.
 Meanwhile, leading Northeastern Conference scorer, Larry Gray, managed to get only eight points — and that took away most of the Jackets' scoring punch.

 The first quarter was a scoring battle between Aldridge and Elizabeth City's Sam McDonald. McDonald hit to give the Jackets the initial lead at 7:54. Five minutes later, Rose pushed out in front on a long jumper by Aldridge, and it was 11-10. Aldridge followed with another bucket, his third in a row, then Billy Taylor hit to make it 15-10 with 1:50 left in the period.
 Aldridge finished the first quarter with 12 points. McDonald had 10 for the Yellow Jackets.

 The Phants began to lose ground early in the second period, as McDonald's basket at the outset made it 18-17, Elizabeth City.
 With about six minutes remaining in the half, Tom Beattie connected for the Jackets and reserve Chuck Thompson added another for a 24-21 lead.
 Elizabeth City got its biggest margin when Thompson hit to make it 28-24. But baskets by Mike Harrington and Rick Tom-tied the count.

 Then Aldridge made good on two more jump shots and the score was 32-28, Phants. Buddy Turnage's basket in the closing seconds increased Rose lead to eight.
 The Jackets rallied to tie it at 35-all when Beattie hit a free throw with 5:48 left in the third period.
 Rose finally regained the lead, this time for good, when Turnage connected on a jumper to make it 39-37.
 After the Phantoms had amassed another six-point spread, Elizabeth City roared back to tie the score 47-47 with 4:05 remaining in the game.
 The Phants went out again by four, but a pair of foul shots by Geoff Burness closed the gap at 53-51 with 42 seconds showing on the clock.
 Then Taylor clinched it for the Phants, hitting a couple of free tosses with 16 seconds left.

Aldridge led the winning Phants with 21 points. Taylor had 11, while Harrington had 10. McDonald had 14, 12 of them coming in the first half. Beattie scored 13.
 The Baby Phants rolled to a 77-58 victory in the preliminary contest.
 Rose took a 15-12 first quarter edge, increasing the lead to 33-25 by halftime.
 The third period was a 24-24 deadlock, but Rose outscoring Elizabeth City 12-13 in the final stanza.

Elizabeth City's junior varsity, nets for 20, while Trent Hill had 20-9 in the final stanza.
 Ray Peszko had 24 to lead the Baby Phants. Josh Weeks hit the Booker Melton scored 22 to pace Elizabeth City. Lindsey Riddick had 19.
 The Phantoms travel to Beaufort to meet East Carteret in the regular season finale.

Tournament Bids Issued As NCAA Sees 'E&A' Duel

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
 You college basketball fans, better circle the date of Friday, March 22.
 Assuming that all goes well the eagerly anticipated rematch between Houston and UCLA will take place that night in the semifinals of the NCAA championship tournament at Los Angeles along with another duel between the Big E, Elvin Hayes of Houston, and Mr. A., Lew Alcindor of UCLA.

defeating Missouri on the road triumph. Tennessee downed Georgia Tech 71-69 in two overtimes. Tom Boerwinkle's two free throws after time had run out in the second overtime won for the Vols.
 Rick Mount, Purdue's sophomore, scored 38 points and led to the Boilermakers to an 86-73 victory over Iowa that tightened the Big Ten race. Ohio State, also playing at home, beat Northwestern 87-67 and regained first place at 7-3 compared to 6-3 for Iowa and Purdue.
 Southern Methodist threw the Southwest Conference race into a triple tie by defeating Baylor on the road 70-63. Baylor now is tied for first at 7-4 with Texas A&M and Texas. Texas A&M gained the tie by defeating Arkansas 71-67 at home. Texas, also playing at home, moved up by downing Texas Tech 79-69.

Texas A&M gained the tie by defeating Arkansas 71-67 at home. Texas, also playing at home, moved up by downing Texas Tech 79-69.

The date was set up Tuesday when Houston's unbeaten Cougars, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, accepted a bid to the NCAA tourney along with eight others. St. Bonaventure, 19-0; St. John's of New York, 16-6; Florida State, 17-5; Marquette, 19-3; Chicago Loyola, 13-6; New Mexico State, 18-4; Boston College 13-7; and either Columbia, 17-3; or Princeton, 17-4, which ever wins the Ivy League crown.
 UCLA still has to clinch the Pacific-8 title to qualify for the NCAA along with 13 other automatic conference winners, but the Bruins are heavily favored to do so.
 After that the Bruins will have to win the West Regional at Albuquerque, N.M., while Houston has to overcome Chicago Loyola at Salt Lake City, on March 9 and then take the Midwest Regional at Wichita, Kan.
 Houston, 23-0, ousted UCLA from the No. 1 ranking by snapping the Bruins' 47-game winning streak 71-69 in January before basketball's record crowd of 52,693 at Houston's Astrodome. Hayes scored 39 points and performed better than Alcindor. UCLA, now second-ranked, hasn't lost since and has a 20-1 mark.
 Three Independents, Army 18-4, Oklahoma City 17-6 and Fordham 14-6, were named to the other major postseason tourney, the National Invitation in New York, which opens March 14. Army passed up a bid to the NCAA in favor of the NIT.
 The remainder of the 14-team NIT team likely will come from the runners-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, Atlantic Coast Conference, Southern Conference and Western Athletic Conference. Duquesne, a leading independent, also is hopeful of an NIT invite, having passed up the NCAA.
 Duke's Blue Devils, eighth-ranked nationally and the only team in The AP Top Ten to play Tuesday, trimmed Clemson 82-70 on the road for their seventh straight and a 17-3 record. Mike Lewis' 32 points paced Duke which will compete in the NCAA if it wins the ACC crown or in the NIT if it finishes runnerup in the ACC.
 St. John's, the one certain tournament bound team in action, also won on the road, but just barely. The Redman edged Massachusetts 55-53 at Amherst, Mass., on Jim Smyth's 30-foot shot in the last second.
 Kansas tightened its hold on first place in the Big Eight by

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert R. Siegrist says he quit as press assistant to Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., after an exchange in which Dodd "went into a tirade, badgering and be-leaguering me."

Siegrist, a former radio news commentator and newspaper editorial writer, said the dispute came when he relayed a reporter's question on failure of Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, to appear before Dodd's subcommittee hearing on LSD.

"The implication was that I was joining the press in badgering him Siegrist told a reporter. "He said I was constantly bringing him problems rather than solving them."

Dodd was not available for comment but his administrative assistant, James F. Gartland, said the exchange "wasn't an explosion at all."

"Bob may be blowing things out of proportion," Gartland said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro unemployment in the nation's 20 largest cities is twice as high as that of whites, says the Labor Department.

Nonwhite unemployment was 7.6 per cent of the labor force in the cities in 1967, the department said Tuesday, while unemployment for whites was listed at 3.7 per cent.

In the suburbs the jobless rate for nonwhites was 7 per cent, the department said, against an over-all rate of 3.3 per cent.

The Apollo spacecraft designed to put men on the moon gets its second launch test late next month, says the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The Apollo is to separate from its Saturn V rocket and re-enter the earth's atmosphere under its own power while the Saturn's third stage continues a 16-day orbital run.

Officials of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA) say there are no plans to separate from the National Education Association despite NEA's support of the Florida teachers strike. AASA President William Curtis said he is certain differences can be worked out.

The Commerce Department says executives of some of the nation's leading retail stores believe rising wages will push prices up three to four per cent this year and maybe more.

A 30-day delay in hearings scheduled next week on whether the W. E. B. Dubois Clubs is a Communist front organization has been asked by the Justice Department. The Department told the Subversive Activities Control Board it needs more time to interview witnesses.

Capital Quote
"They are damned uneasy about Vietnam. They think we are sitting like a frog on a log and not doing enough."—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., relating that the prevailing sentiment of his Illinois constituents is to escalate the war and get it over with.

ABA Pre-Trial Standards Still 'Recommendations'

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — At the moment, the American Bar Association's press-trial standards are what ABA officials have insisted all along they be called—recommendations.

Undoubtedly, they will encourage judges, lawyers and policemen to limit the flow of information to the public about arrests and trials. In fact, the ABA discovered, some already have.

Eventually, though, in the words of one top news office, Publishers will go to court "to prove that prior restraint on official news sources amounts to censorship in advance in violation of the First Amendment."

Only after this court fight, predicted by J. Edward Murray of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, will it be known if the standards will stick.

Immediately in the offing is this: The proposed restrictions on what prosecutors and defense lawyers may say about a pending criminal case will be forwarded to an ABA committee that is in the process of revising the organization's ethics code.

ABA President Earl F. Morris expects the first draft of the new code to be ready next summer and the final version, he hopes, will be presented to the House of Delegates for adoption a year from now.

Morris says the standards then would be binding on the members of the ABA. This includes about 120,000 practicing lawyers.

He and Bernard G. Segal, a Philadelphia lawyer who will become ABA president in August 1969, expect state bar associations to generally follow suit, adopting the ABA codes as their own.

Also, Morris says, in some areas state supreme courts probably would adopt rules along these lines.

The result of all this would be that from then on, from arrest through trial, lawyers who gave out certain information or expressed their opinions publicly about a case would run a risk of reprimand, suspension or even disbarment.

But Murray, managing editor of the Arizona Republic, emphasizes that "neither the ABA nor the House of Delegates makes the law."

And, he says, "House of Delegates action has only advisory, not compulsory, force at the state and local level."

As for the bulk of the ABA proposals, Morris says, "implementation depends on police departments, state courts and possibly state legislatures."

These proposals deal with the conduct of police officials, judges and court officials, with use of the contempt power by judges, and suggest closing some court proceedings to the press and public.

It is in these areas—particularly the exclusion of the public and the press, at the request of the defendant's lawyer, from pretrial hearings and portions of the trial itself—that there are likely to be court fights.

Justice Bernard S. Mayer of the New York State Supreme Court, a member of the ABA's Fair Trial-Free Press Committee, told the House of Delegates "there is no absolute right of the press to be present at all stages of the criminal process."

David L. Shapiro, a Harvard law professor who helped prepare the Reardon report, told the delegates "the right to free press is not absolute."

And the head of the committee,

Arts Award For Poet W.H. Auden

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Poet W. H. Auden will receive the $1,000 Dickinson College arts award in a ceremony here March 5, the college announced Tuesday.

Auden, who has won several awards for his writings, including the Pulitzer Prize, is the sixth recipient of the Dickinson award since its creation in 1958.

Composer Walter Piston was the most recent winner in 1966. Alden, 60, came to the United States from his native England in 1939. In addition to his poetry he has written drama, opera librettos and critical essays.

Justice Paul C. Reardon of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, speaking of his report on the whole, said it could be carried out "without in any true sense damaging constitutional freedoms."

Still, several news officials believe the Constitution is on their side.

Hu Blunk, chairman of The Associated Press Managing Editors' Freedom of Information Committee, says it is probably unconstitutional to bar newsmen from preliminary hearings or parts of a trial "at the whim" of the defendant's attorney.

Blunk, managing editor of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World, thinks that if the judicial branch tried to force restrictions on police, courts would declare the action unconstitutional.

Similarly, Murray says there probably will be a case testing "the disputed power of either courts or legislatures to compel compliance of the police, who are members of the executive branch, in violation of the principle of separation of powers."

And Michael J. Ogden, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, says that letting the policeman, rather than the editor, decide what the public needs to be told about a crime "could only result in prior restraint on news sources, certainly in violation of the spirit of the 1st Amendment."

Mayors Meet, Exchange Gifts

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay and Mayor Marcello Spaccino of Trieste, Italy, exchanged municipal greetings and gifts Tuesday during a meeting at Gracie Mansion.

Spaccino, here on a four-day visit, presented Lindsay with a medal bearing the seal of Trieste and Lindsay reciprocated with a lithograph of City Hall.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣ South became declarer at a contract of four spades on a direct sequence of bids.

West opened the queen of clubs which East overtook with the ace. From the appearance of the dummy it appeared obvious to East that declarer's only other side loser was the ace of diamonds, for North's long suit should provide ample suits for any secondary cards South might have.

The remaining source of tricks was the trump suit and on the bidding East could hardly expect to find his partner with more than one spade honor. Assuming that West has either the king or ace of spades, it brings the defensive total to three.

East reasoned then that the setting trick could come only from a ruff and the one suit that offered such a prospect was diamonds. If West was short there, East might administer a fatal salvo on the deal provided that his timing was precisely on target.

Cashing the ace of diamonds at once and continuing the suit would succeed only if West had started with a singleton. This did not appear likely to East for, if West had that holding, he might have led diamonds at the outset.

It appeared more logical to play his partner for a doubleton so, in order to maintain a line of communication, East returned the five of diamonds at trick two. The trick was won in dummy with the six.

South diagnosed his opponent's plans; however, he was unable to avert the ruff. When West got in with the king of spades, he returned a diamond. East played the ace and led back the seven which West trumped for the setting trick.

The Worry Clinic 'Fear Party' Is Help To Overcome Terrors

Verna's experiment shows the great benefits to children of having a "Fear Party." For youngsters bottle up their secret fears, thinking nobody else is guilty of such terrors. At Sunday School, too, and the dinner table, schedule a "Fear Party." It is excellent group therapy for all ages.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
 Ph. D., M. D.

CASE E-593: Verna D., aged 28, is a teacher.

"She took a course in Child Psychology under me at Northwestern University.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "among the 32 children in my 4th grade room, I think at least 10 are very neurotic.

"And 3 of them are so jittery that our school psychologist has even suggested that their parents take them to psychiatrists.

"Dr. Crane, could I help reduce their tensions in my teaching methods?"

So I urged Verna to schedule a "Fear Party."

In my addresses before various state teachers' conventions, I have also launched this helpful project.

So Verna casually announced to her 9-year-olds that they were to have a lot of fun by indulging in a "Fear Party."

"Everybody is afraid of something or other," she began.

Then she mentioned that when she was their age, she was deathly afraid of bugs. Any insect would alarm her. And her two brothers made her life miserable, after learning that she was scared of insects.

Verna then told them it wasn't till she was in high school and taking a biology course that she overcame her terror of bugs.

After her personal "confession," she asked her class in an off-handed manner if any of them had any special things they feared.

Fortified by having heard their teacher admit that she had once been a "fraidy cat," one little girl timidly raised her hand and told the class that she was terrified by snakes.

Another little girl then confessed a dread of water, since she couldn't swim.

Next, a little boy raised his hand and said he didn't like thunder and lightning.

By this time, the whole class began to realize that it wasn't a unique or exceptional thing for them to have fears, so the began to open up and acknowledge their secret phobias.

Before the hour was over, every child had conceded that he or she had some fear.

By this public confession they not only realized that everybody has a terror of something, but they even advised each other on how to overcome their former secret terrors.

Most children get the notion that adults have always been brave, omnipotent folks.

For the usual dad seldom tells about his "chicken" experiences in his own youth, so his kiddies feel unduly ashamed of their inner fears and often fail to confess them in public.

Verna reported a month later that the whole tone of her classroom had changed. The former neurotic youngsters were now relaxed.

"Dr. Crane," she added, "the parents of two of the children who were to consult a psychiatrist, have told me they can't understand how improved their kiddies are.

"And the bully of the class has quit picking on the others, too!"

So have a "Fear Party" in Sunday School as well as at the family dinner table. It is excellent group therapy for neurotics!

Raleigh Described As 'A Pretty Village' In 1833

Dr. Neill Rosser To Speak Before Session Mar. 7

The chairman of the Governor's Study Commission of Public Schools of North Carolina, Dr. Neill Rosser, is scheduled to address a conference of school administrators at East Carolina University next month.

A luncheon address by Dr. Rosser and a panel discussion by five industrial arts educators are highlights of the 10th Annual Administrators Conference on Industrial Arts Thursday, March 7.

in a book in his library and felt the governor ought to have it. The rare item, from the People's Magazine, July 27, 1833, will be placed in the State Archives.

Regarding North Carolina's capital city, the description says: "... its principal street (Fayetteville is) ornamented with trees, with the State House at one end, and the Governor's house at the other." This was the old "Governor's Palace," completed in 1816, last occupied by Gov. Zebulon B. Vance in 1865. The site is now occupied by the City Auditorium.

"The State House is a handsome building," the account goes on. "It was once plain and square, but when they had procured a statue of Washington, they determined to have a building fit to receive it, and the State House was enlarged and altered accordingly."

"The statue is placed in a small saloon, in the center of the building, and is visible on entering, in each direction."

This of course is the statue by famous Italian sculptor Antonio Canova, which was destroyed when the State House burned in 1831. A new duplicate of the statue is now to be obtained by a state commission, and will be placed in exactly the same spot in the present State Capitol.

"This saloon is a very neat one, with pilasters and a paneled ceiling, and rises through both stories of the house. On

Having Doubts About Interest

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Charles Roquemore of Wellington, president of the Kansas chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told a House committee that the Negro people of Kansas are beginning to wonder if the legislature is really interested in them. He appeared at a hearing on proposed fair housing legislation Roquemore said he had appeared at every session of the legislature for 17 years to urge enactment of fair housing laws.

N.C. Mental Health Ass'n Meeting Slated In March

WINSTON-SALEM—Delegates attending the Eleventh Annual Meeting of the North Carolina Mental Health Association here on March 7 and 8, will have an opportunity to participate in a series of discussions concerning some important programs back in their home communities.

The five roundtable discussions will be held on Friday morning, March 8, at 8:00 a.m. at the Hotel Robert E. Lee.

Dr. R. J. Blackley, Director of the Division on Alcoholism of the North Carolina Department of Mental Health in Raleigh, will lead the discussion on Alcoholism, a major and growing problem in the communities of North Carolina.

Dr. Robert L. Garrard, Greensboro psychiatrist, will lead a discussion on Suicide Prevention, another serious matter in the communities of North Carolina.

Robert G. Harrison, Assistant Director for Program Development of the North Carolina Division of Vocational Rehabilitation in Raleigh, will lead a discussion on Developing Sheltered Workshops. Most of the communities with populations of more than 15,000 in North Carolina are moving toward the development of these workshops for handicapped people.

Mrs. Lulu Joffitt, Clinical Social Worker at the Aftercare Clinic in Wilson, will lead a discussion on Re-Employment of the mentally ill. Finding a job after mental hospitalization is one of the most serious problems that face mentally ill people in their rehabilitation.

Mrs. Nancy McKeithan, Director of Volunteer Services for the North Carolina Mental Health Association, Greenville, will lead a discussion on Mobilizing Volunteers, the citizens needed in every community effort.

The early morning discussion sessions are just one group of informational meetings that will be held during the two-day gathering which will have as its theme, "The Community and The Child In Trouble."

one side of it, on the second story, is the House of Commons; on the other, the Senate Chamber.

"The former has a very strong resemblance to the Representative Chamber at Washington. It is, compared in size with that vast hall, of course, but a small room."

"On the other side of the house, is the Senate Chamber, a very beautiful circular room—the seats being arranged in circles for 62 members, if I remember right. The building is altogether an honor to the state.

The interior of the old State House must indeed have been impressive and lovely. Insofar as is known, no picture of that interior survives, though we have at least two pictures of the exterior.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog market was mostly steady today with tops of 18.50-19.25, Wilson; 18.50-19.00, Rocky Mount; 18.00-19.00, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mt. Olive, Newton Grove, Albertson, Lumberton; 18.25-18.75 Hickory; 17.75-18.75 Bethel, Tarboro; 19.25 Salisbury; 19.00 Greensboro, Rich Square; 18.75 Selma; 18.50 Goldsboro; 18.00 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carried a technical rally into the third straight session early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Blue chips were prominent in the advance, making their best showing in weeks.

Gains outnumbered losses on the New York Stock Exchange by well over 2 to 1.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.9 at 310.2 with industrials up 3.5, rails up 5 and utilities up 7.

The market was higher from the start and widened its gains.

The ability of the market to advance even through the Washington's birthday holiday Thursday will make a four-day weekend for many Wall Streeters was surprising to some analysts who had anticipated a drab session because of precautionary selling.

International Nickel gained 2 and United Aircraft about 3. Du Pont spurred half a dozen points as it continued to respond to glowing reports about the chemical synthetic fibers, a field where it is the leader.

American Photocopy was active and fractionally higher following a published report of a big spurt in earnings.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.93 at 850.03. The rise was greatly helped by the performance of Du Pont, and the other blue chips.

General Time ran up another 3 points in active trading following the company statement that a tender offer for its stock was "grossly inadequate".

Hawkins Most Vocal On N.C. Social Progress

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins, Negro candidate for governor, apparently is the candidate most critical of North Carolina's progress in social affairs.

The five candidates were questioned by The Associated Press about their positions on school desegregation, racial unrest in the cities, antipoverty programs, and the prison work-release program.

Only one of the five, Republican Rep. Jim Gardner, failed to reply to questionnaires sent the candidates. Gardner said it was too early in the campaign to make his position known, and that he would issue position papers later.

There were some disagreements in the replies of the other candidates. Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, Raleigh attorney Mel Broughton and Charlotte yarn broker Jack Stickley, Gardner's GOP primary opponent.

But Hawkins, a Charlotte dentist and the first Negro to run for governor since Reconstruction, was the most vocal about social matters.

On school desegregation, Hawkins said the best policy would be "to completely desegregate our schools and guarantee all of our children a quality education."

"We must stop contriving methods for avoiding the law and take immediate steps to comply not only with the letter of the law, but with the spirit of the law," he added.

Scott, asked what he thought would be "the best approach toward dealing with school desegregation and the federal guidelines," said:

"North Carolina has been making satisfactory progress in this direction. The governor can use his office to try to get more flexibility in all the federal programs that affect our state."

Broughton endorsed the "freedom of choice" desegregation plans which most school districts in the state have established as basic policy.

He said the plan "has enabled North Carolina to educate our children in an orderly fashion with a minimum of disruptions during a difficult period."

When the federal government insists that schools follow certain guidelines to break down racial segregation, Broughton said, "the community affected should seek to make its views known and felt in an atmosphere of calm reason and not allow passions and prejudices to work to the detriment of the children."

Stickley expressed opposition to federal controls and guidelines and said, "Implementation of programs should be worked out by the professional educators with as little political interference as possible."

He called for support of a Republican-sponsored tax-sharing proposal which he said would "provide additional revenue for the states, returned to them from Washington without federal controls and without federal guidelines."

Asked how the state should "attack the problem of possible racial unrest in the cities," Scott called for a "two-pronged approach" to attack the causes of unrest and use firm law enforcement procedures to protect life and property.

He said preventive measures, "such as the Good Neighbor Council," should be used; and "strong but fair measures to keep down acts of lawlessness and violence" should include thorough training and effective use of police and National Guard personnel.

Broughton stressed the need for "firm, impartial and enlightened law enforcement."

"If we should have riots in our cities," he said, "I would use every legal resource at my command to quell them."

Broughton also proposed intensifying "the well-planned prosecution and better job training."

Hawkins said, "We must begin by creating a climate of hope among the hopeless in our society."

He called for immediate steps "to create more and better paying jobs for our slum dwellers, to make our welfare laws more equitable and humane, to provide more and better housing for low income citizens and to give our poor and oppressed a greater decision-making role in our society."

Stickley said, "Public officials must be accessible to the people so grievances can be dealt with promptly before the fires of passion are fanned into riots and rebellion."

"But if trouble occurs, it will be dealt with promptly, efficiently and fairly by the state. In the meantime, agitators—inside and outside and those who specialize in terror and violence must be kept under surveillance and under control."

Two of the Democratic candidates, Scott and Broughton, agreed that "the antipoverty programs and plans to make a major statement on this in the near future."

They also were asked, "Which do you feel are the least effective, and why?"

Scott replied, "Where there has been failure in our community action programs, it has generally been because of administration—not purpose—and I believe Congress last year took a major step necessary, to remedy this by bringing these programs under the control of recognized governmental units."

Broughton said ineffective leadership has hampered some programs, and, "I fear that many of the programs overlap, and too much is being spent in administrative costs. We need to tighten the programs for the best effects."

Hawkins said the programs have failed to reach poor whites and "have been used as political plums for local politicians." He added, "The poverty program in general have not filtered down to the poverty-stricken."

He said the manpower training program is the least effective "because it has not reached the hard-core unemployed and has not effectively found adequate employment for its trainees."

Stickley, in a general statement on the issue, said antipoverty programs "must direct direct people toward productive, self-sufficient roles in society and must be free of politics."

All four candidates answering the questionnaire favored continuation of the prison work-release program administered by the state Department of Correction.

Scott said administration of the program, which permits some prisoners to take jobs outside their compounds and return to their cells at night, "should be tightened, and very careful consideration should be given to which prisoners should be allowed the privileges of this program."

Broughton called for "stricter supervision" of the program but noted that "the number of inmates who violate the terms of to work release is quite small." Hawkins said, "Serious consideration should be given to extending the benefits of the program to a larger number of our prison inmates."

Stickley, noting that the state pays $1 million a year in attorney's fees for indigent defendants, said "the state should have a first claim on the prisoner's earnings, to the extent of the fees paid in his behalf."

The GOP candidate also recommended that work-release prisoners be kept near their homes to reduce the temptation to escape.

Art Exhibit By Husband, Wife

A display of sculpture and enamel by two Winston-Salem artists, Ernest Illman and his wife Florence, are on exhibit at East Carolina University in the first floor cases of Rawl Building.

Illman, a technical illustrator for Western Electric, is showing 15 pieces of sculpture he created by welding together "found" objects.

Mrs. Illman, jeweler, silversmith and enamelist who teaches for the Winston-Salem Arts and Crafts Association, is displaying seven framed enamel pieces.

The show will remain on display in the cases, located in the entrance foyer of Rawl, through Thursday, Feb. 29. Hours are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, and from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. Saturdays.

Robber Ducked Out Wrong Door

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A holdup man robbed a delicatessen of $1,000—then ducked out the wrong door.

He ducked back in, asked the store owner, Jack Fein, for directions, got them and ran, police said.

Wants It Out Of Doctors' Hands

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Decisions on which patients will receive heart transplants should be taken out of doctors' hands, says a University of Michigan doctor-lawyer. Dr. Andrew S. Watson, a professor of psychiatry and law, says select committees to make the decisions should be made up of representatives from legal, economic, political and religious organizations.

Former Harvard Dean Dealing In Opportunity

By JERRY ESTILL
Associated Press Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Four years ago Dr. James Monroe was dean of Harvard College, a position with security and prestige. Today, he is dean of freshman studies at Miles College, a tiny, poor, predominantly Negro school in Birmingham. He made the switch happily and eagerly, explaining in a recent interview: "I reached a point as a fellow in education where I believed the education community has a responsibility to the country to solve the problem of inequity of opportunity for Negroes."

Sitting in a student's arm-type desk in an old classroom at Miles, he talked about education and the United States and the gap in educational opportunity and humanity and compassion and how they all are inseparable.

That, he added, is why he came to Miles permanently last June.

Monro had conducted an experimental program for 40 college-bound Negro high school graduates at Miles during the summer of 1964. Originally only marginal bets to succeed in college, products of that summer program now are ready to begin graduate work at some of the top schools in the nation.

"These people need to be given an even break and we don't do it," he said. "At Harvard, I could work on a piece of the problem, but there's more opportunity here."

Antipoverty Cost Tops The Budget

NEW YORK (AP) — Spending by New York City's antipoverty program has gone more than $5 million over its budget. Mitchell I. Ginsberg, head of the city's Human Resources Administration, said activities are being cut back sharply and hiring and promotions frozen in an attempt to make up the deficit, attributed to a campaign last summer to employ poor teenagers and cutbacks in federal antipoverty funds.

"These students are tremendously responsive. They make up one of the most interesting groups to teach I've run into in a long career of teaching."

"The problem is to bring them fast," Monro continued. "The question is can you do it? We must help them catch up."

Most Negro colleges are working on the problem of inadequate high school backgrounds hampering a high percentage of Negro students entering college.

"I want to be in that effort," Monro said. "I feel it's very important for the U.S. community to be involved in it."

Nixon Chosen In Miniconvention

SOUTH PARIS, Maine (AP) — A mock Republican presidential nominating convention, complete with floor demonstrations, balloon barrages, speeches and gavel-pounding, drew 500 persons to a miniconvention.

Richard Nixon was nominated 222-91 over New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at the tune of organ music and noisemakers. Michigan Gov. George Romney polled 20 votes, and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California received 19. The affair was staged by Oxford County Republicans.

LIKE TIRES ON A BOAT — MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Zoo director Robert Matlin became concerned that the aggressive Kongoni antelope would seriously injure each other with their sharp horns. So he had the horns covered with sections of rubber hose.

He added that the miles situation presented an important chance to work on the problem because "Birmingham is a better town racially than most think." He said some things were learned by both sides in the racial turmoil of the early 1960s—"not enough yet, but the basis for working things out may be here."

"I think if I have learned one thing in the past six months," Monro said, "it is that this is the place where the education community has to work: to find ways of telling these young people the truth—that their grandparents and grandparents didn't know about their history. We're trying to substitute facts and reality for nightmares. Our textbooks coast to coast just do not do this for Negroes. And it's not a problem, necessary, but that Negroes, especially young ones, must find two identities—with Negroes and whites. He added, however, that the textbook situation is beginning, slowly, to improve. Monro said he sees civil rights movement as having moved from integration to confrontation. He carefully emphasizes that this does not mean that an integrated society is not to have both."

Federal Service Exams Taken By Fifty At ECU

Moose Supreme Governor Here

Next Monday night the Greenville Moose Lodge will host Supreme Governor George Reilly, of San Francisco.

The visit by the highest elected national officer of the fraternity at the lodge's regular meeting will be marked by the enrollment of new members.

State Director William Moon and Regional Director Frank Ray are also planning to attend.

Reilly was elected Supreme Governor at the annual convention last year in Jacksonville, Florida.

He holds the highest honors of the Moose fraternity and is one of the very few who has recruited 1,000 members.

Reilly is Irish.

GEORGE REILLY

He is a past national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America and is the perennial chairman of the annual St. Patrick's Day parade in his hometown for 25 years.

In recognition of his long service to boys, the Boys Club of America presented the Boys' Club Bronze Keystone Award to him in 1963.

In 1938 Reilly was elected to the California Board of Equalization and has been returned to this public office seven times, and on completion of this term will have served 28 years in his present position. In July of 1962 he was appointed by the Governor of California to the Interdepartmental Committee on Problems of the Aging.

By HOWARD HEYN
Associated Press Writer
SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Lottie Lehmann, fabled soprano of the golden age of opera, turns 80 this month, and some of the great names in music will help her celebrate.

A concert by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra and a dinner for 200 will highlight the birthday party Feb. 27.

"I will probably be half-dead the next day," Miss Letmann said, chuckling, during an interview.

Her careers as a singer, teacher and artist span more than half a century, and she has been one of this city's revered citizens since 1941. Will she retire?

"I couldn't," she replied. "Retirement spoils life. There are always new things—not only music. Many things I have been asked: 'What will you do if you retire?' And I say, 'What will I not do?'"

She has written five books, among them "Midway in My Life," her autobiography up to 1937.

Asked if she intended to bring it up to date, she said: "I am

Electric baseboard heat has more than one thermostat because houses have more than one room.

Room-by-room control is one reason why electric baseboard heat makes a house more comfortable. Individual thermostats eliminate cold spots and hot spots. And allow different rooms to be heated at different temperatures. It's also clean, quiet and draft-free. You can heat any additions you make on your home simply by adding extra baseboard units. Your VEPCO-authorized Comfort Conditioning Contractor will be glad to give you a free estimate. Call him before your present heating system leaves you in the cold.

Honoring Soprano Of Golden Age

not writing at this time. It is very difficult to pick up a biography after all these years. I don't know if I ever will finish it—I am not sure I should even try."

Invited dinner guests will include such celebrities as tenor Lauritz Melchior, actress Judith Anderson, singer Rose Palm-Tenser, now with the Metropolitan Opera Guild, and Constance Hope, Miss Lehmann's manager when she came to the United States 38 years ago.

Also invited are Dr. Jan Popper of the University of California at Los Angeles, regional professor of music, and Dr.

Maurice Abrabanel, Salt Lake City, conductor of the Utah Symphony Orchestra.

Conductor Zubin Mehta will dedicate to Miss Lehmann the Los Angeles orchestra's concert in Santa Barbara that night. The program will include the vocal duet and trio from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," the opera in which Miss Lehmann so often sang the role of Marschallin.

Always active, Miss Lehmann is conducting master classes in voice at the College of Creative Arts, University of California at Santa Barbara. During the past month she has shown her latest art work, a series of felt appliques and tapestries. She said the exhibit was a great success.

In the living room of her home hangs her portrait of the late conductor Arturo Toscanini, who regarded her as one of his favorite sopranos.

Born at Perleberg, Germany in 1888 and now a naturalized American, Miss Lehmann's operatic career began in 1910 with small roles in nearby Hamburg.

In 1916 she was engaged by the Vienna State Opera, and during that company's golden age became one of its most famous singers.

In 1930 she moved to the Chicago Opera and in 1934 to the Metropolitan Opera in New York. There, in 1946, she retired from opera to devote her talent to recitals, singing German lieder and other songs.

Suddenly, in 1951, she announced at New York's Town Hall that she was leaving the concert stage, to sing no more.

She returned to Santa Barbara and joined the Music Academy of the West, where her fame as a teacher grew rapidly. She stayed there 11 years.

Since 1961 she has spent her time painting, working tapestries, conducting a few master classes and coaching singers.

Entertainers Join In Firing Barbs For Dissent

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Item 1:

"Support Our Boys in Canada." The reference is to Americans who cross the border to dodge the draft. Where does the placard appear? Not in a peace March, during network television show, "Laugh-in." It is flashed on the screen so rapidly that most viewers couldn't read it.

Item 2: On the Smothers Brothers Show, Tom and Dick are discussing the offering of London Bridge for sale. Tom says he would like to buy it, and Dick asks what he would do with the bridge.

Tom: I'd give it to President Johnson.
Dick: What for?
Tom: To bridge his credibility gap.

Item 3: Pat Paulsen, avowed noncandidate for president on the Smothers Brothers Show, comments: "As a comedian, I think I could be just as effective as President Johnson." Cut by the CBS censors was his following line: "But I don't think I could run the country as funny."

Item 4: Tommy Smothers, by a curious pattern of cross-pollination, appears on the Rowan and Martin "Laugh-in" and delivers the one-line blackout: "Let's all get behind President Johnson—and push!"

These items offer evidence of the New Dissent that has appeared in the entertainment medium during the past year. Dictionary definition: Dissent—to differ in sentiment or opinion from the majority.

Political satire has been a part of the American entertainment scene from Will Rogers to Bob Hope. Comedy makers from the time of Aristophanes have used those in authority as the butt of their jokes, usually to the glee of those who are governed.

But in recent times the tone of the satire has become more strident, the attacks more bitter. They range from the antiestablishment humor of The Smothers Brothers Show and "Laugh-in" to the sledge-hammer blows of the off-Broadway play, "MacBird."

The remarkable aspect of the New Dissent is the availability of mass media. When Harry Belafonte took over the "Tonight" show in place of Johnny Carson this month, he not only sang calypso songs; he also used the NBC program as a forum for his views on Vietnam.

In interviewing Dr. Martin

Luther King, Belafonte declared: "All of us here feel very strongly on the war, and we oppose it." The singer added his support of the protest vote for Sen. Eugene McCarthy. No demand for equal time to register opposing views has been reported.

Recently Tommy Smothers, who opposes President Johnson both on and off the television screen, was asked about the issue of equal time for Democratic loyalists.

"We feel the administration's views on Vietnam get plenty of airing on television," the comedian replied. "The Bob Hope Show, for example."

His argument is that Hope, with his Christmas special based on his entertainment tour of Vietnam, gives wide circulation to the hawkish side of the war. Hope and John Wayne are the most vocal of the show-business hawks; Wayne recently directed and starred in the first major film about the Vietnam war, "The Green Berets."

Comics Dan Rowan and Dick Martin of "Laugh-in" acknowledge that they are doves on Vietnam and they wear peace emblems on their jackets as proof. They say they think most of the people in the country are for peace.

Dissent from the administration's Vietnam policies is being expressed in film theaters as well. United Artists is releasing "Live for Living," in which Claude Lelouch ("A Man and a Woman") inveighs against the American position in Vietnam. The film was financed by U.S. money and stars Yves Montand and Candice Bergen.

Another American distributor, the Walter Reade Organization, is releasing "Tell Me Lies," a film version of Peter Brooke's London stage play attacking the

Offer Breakfast To Young Pupils

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Pupils are offered breakfast—milk, a roll and juice—at Maln Junior High School for 30 cents in an experimental program. "In one class I found one out of 28 children who had breakfast," said Josephine Parrott, one of the teachers behind the program.

Vietnam war. The movie features members of the Royal Shakespeare Company, as well as comments by Stokely Carmichael, and clips of the self-immolation of a Buddhist monk. On the American entertainment scene, the issue of the Vietnam war has brought the kinds of dissent that celebrities haven't dared for almost 20 years. During the Depression and war years, show business personalities often lent their names and financial support to causes that were at variance with majority opinion. The ascent of Sen. Joseph McCarthy changed that. Many actors, writers and directors found they were unemployable because their names had been linked by congressional committees or private organizations to causes that proved to be unpopular. The result was a long period in which entertainment figures refused to engage in any political activity.

In recent years they have been slowly returning to the political arena. The success of George Murphy and Ronald Reagan proved to many actors that political activity should not be precluded because of their profession. Now the Vietnam war has prompted many performers to speak out in a manner they would not have dared a few years ago. "I'm just not a political fellow," says actor-director Carl Reiner, "and I've never been politically active before. I never dared, because I saw too many of my friends runned during the McCarthy era."

"But now I'm taking a position. I'm too disturbed about what might happen in Vietnam to stand by and do nothing." Last month Reiner acted as emcee for a "Broadway for Peace" benefit at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall in New York City. The program featured two dovish senators, Gruening of Alaska and Morse of Oregon, plus an assemblage of show business figures: Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Harry Belafonte, Barbra Streisand, Tommy Smothers, Eli Wallach, Anne Jackson, Leonard Bernstein, Dianna Carroll, Robert Ryan, Tony Randall, etc. Noting the turnout, Variety quoted an observer: "I don't think I've ever seen so many popular entertainers supporting a minority view."
