Gunman Detours Jet Airliner To Landing In Cuba; None Injured

MIAMI Fla. (AP) — A gunman wearing a white cowboy hat and tennis shoes pushed a stewardess into the cockpit of a DC8 jet over Florida Wednesday and held a pistol under her ear until the pilot detoured his craft and 109 persons to a landing in Cuba.

C. E. Leggett To File For House Seat Today

Clarence Eugene Leggett said today he would file this afternoon as a candidate for the First Congressional District seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

CLARENCE LEGGETT

A Pitt County native, the 45-year-old Leggett is a retired Navy man.

"Farmers need help," Leggett said, and if elected, "I will see that farmers get help."

"I will get out and do something," he continued. "Law enforcement agencies should have more support." He said he favors putting a percentage of tax money taken in by the federal government back into the states to supplement law enforcement salaries.

Mrs. Leggett, the former Elizabeth Lanier, would be administrative assistant to her husband.

Skiing Holiday Launched Rumors

MONTREAL (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy took her children to Canada Wednesday for a skiing holiday, touching off rumors that she was on her way to marry Lord Harlech. There were quick denials from the British peer and from a spokesman for her Canadian host.

"There is no truth at all in the rumors," the 49-year-old peer told a newsmen in London. "I am not seeing Mrs. Kennedy in the near future. There is no question of an engagement or anything like that."

About five hours after the hijacking, Delta Air Line Flight 843 returned to Miami, leaving band "If I win," Leggett reported. "She has 15 years as a college manager at Hardbar-ger Business College and is well qualified," the prospective candidate reported.

Officials at the State Board of Elections said Leggett had an appointment at 12:45 p.m. today to pay his filing fee.

Leggett owns a ceramics factory in Cary and has made his home there. The prospective candidate listed his present address as Route 6, Box 69, Greenville.

Under the state constitution, residence in a congressional district is not a requirement to hold a congressional seat. A candidate simply must be a resident of North Carolina and a registered voter.

Nurses Strike, Replacements Said Employed

PLYMOUTH, N.C. (AP) — John Outten, administrator of Washington County Hospital, said today replacements have been employed to fill in for nurses who went on strike at the hospital Wednesday for higher pay.

The strike involved eight part-time and three full-time registered nurses and four practical nurses. Outten said former employees were placed on duty "until something is resolved."

A spokesman for the strikers said the hospital's directors were notified Feb. 1 that the strike would be called unless the nurses were granted a $100-a-month pay boost. He said the board awarded them $35.

Outten said the board also had given them a $12 a month pay cost retroactive to Jan. 1, plus fringe benefits amounting to $17.35 a month.

HOUSE CANDIDATE

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP)—S. A. Chalk Jr., a member of the Carteret Board of County Commissioners, announced today he will file as a Democratic candidate for Congress from the 3rd District.

behind in Havana a young man who gave his name to the airline as "S. Wilson."

In Havana, the hijacker was identified as Lawrence Rhodes, 29, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who asked for political asylum. The government announced it was studying his request.

Delta officials said he bought a $21 first class ticket at 12:44 p.m. Wednesday in the airline's downtown Tampa ticket office. It was a one-way ticket to Miami.

"He told us he didn't care who he killed or how badly he shot up the plane," said Joy Bleil, 28, of Elmwood Park, Ill. Mrs. Bleil, the senior stewardess, was held in the cockpit as a hostage until the giant, $8 million airliner was escorted into Cuba by four MIG fighters and touched down at Jose Marti airport.

"He said he was facing a death sentence for the hijacking anyway," said the pert brunette in a news conference by the crew at Miami International Airport.

In Havana earlier, speaking with an Associated Press newsmen, Mrs. Bleil said, "I don't know why he did this, but I can still feel that cold thing (the pistol) below my ear."

The pilot, J. D. Gainey, 49, said the crew made no attempt to overpower the hijacker.

"The man was all wrought up," Gainey said. He was described as about 25, dressed in a sloppy manner, dark complexioned and claiming to be South American although he spoke with no apparent accent.

At 3:37 p.m. seven minutes after the jet took off from Tampa airport with 102 passengers and a crew of seven, the flight was hijacked over Florida's Lake Okeechobee. The plane landed at Havana at 4:29 p.m. It took off again for the United States at 7:36 p.m. and arrived at Miami at 8:17 p.m.

This was the first commercial airliner hijacked over the United States to land in Cuba. In 1961, a Pan American flight was diverted over Mexico to Cuba. Two National Airlines flights were hijacked in flight but passengers and crew disarmed the hijackers and the planes landed in the United States. Many small planes have been successfully hijacked to Cuba.

Passengers said they were treated well during the airport stopover in Havana. Some were interviewed and photographed by Cuban newsmen, they said. Others brought back souvenirs including Cuban rum, some of which was consumed on the return flight, and political posters.

"They gave us Cuban coffee and juice and permitted us to go through the airport," said Lex Hawkins, 42, a lawyer from Des Moines, Iowa. Soldiers at the airport passed around Cuban cigars.

Evacuation Believed Now 'Unthinkable'

Siege Ring Is Closed Around Khe Sanh As Defenders Wait

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — The 40,000 North Vietnamese troops surrounding the Khe Sanh combat base have closed their siege ring so tightly that neither withdrawal nor reinforcement of the U.S. Marine garrison could be carried out except at a cost of heavy casualties, Marine officers at Khe Sanh believe.

Under the cover of several days of heavy fog, the Communist troops have established bunkers and trench positions within 300 yards of Marine positions.

Snipers are close enough to fire on Marines planting mines and strengthening barbed wire defenses around the two-mile-square combat base 14 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

It appears that the battle for Khe Sanh, expected to be the biggest of the war, is still some days and possibly weeks away. A veteran Vietnamese battalion commander whose troops hold part of the eastern perimeter said he believed the North Vietnamese would continue to dig bunkers and tunnels and reposition supplies for some weeks to come.

He said history had proved North Vietnamese commanders expend massive effort to prepare battlefields so they will have the maximum advantage tactically and enjoy the maximum protection from air and artillery strikes.

North Vietnamese tanks have been reported in Khe Sanh village less than two miles from the Marine perimeter around the base's air strip. Two weeks ago, North Vietnamese tanks spearheaded the assault which overran the Lang Vei Special Forces Camp four miles west of Khe Sanh.

It is not known how many tanks the North Vietnamese have in the Khe Sanh area, but the number is assumed to be considerable.

Despite one of the largest aerial campaigns in history to cut the North Vietnamese supply routes, the Communists' trucks have made it as far as Khe Sanh village with supplies.

Senior Marine officers remain confident that they can beat back any North Vietnamese attack. But they concede that any defensive positions can be overrun if the opposing commander is willing to commit enough troops.

Some Marine officers are concerned about the strictly defensive, "let them come to us" role assigned to the 5,000 Leathernecks and 500 Vietnamese troops defending the Khe Sanh complex.

One Marine officer said the North Vietnamese high command is being allowed to set up the chessboard with the knowledge that the Communists troops will have the first move when the battle is joined.

One officer, asked how he felt about being cooped up behind barbed wire, replied: "I've got a fever. It's what Gen. Rommel called panzer fever." Many other Leathernecks here feel the same way the commander of Germany's Afrika Korps did: They want reinforcements so they can move out to attack their besiegers.

Some Marine officers fear the opportunity to reinforce Khe Sanh and return the Marines to an offensive role has passed.

Any force coming into the base by helicopter would suffer heavy casualties from the artillery and machine-gun fire that zeroes in on the landing strip.

A helicopter assault outside the perimeter also would be extremely risky because the North Vietnamese hold key hill positions that could rake landing zones with heavy fire.

Virtually all resupply at Khe Sanh is done by airdrop.

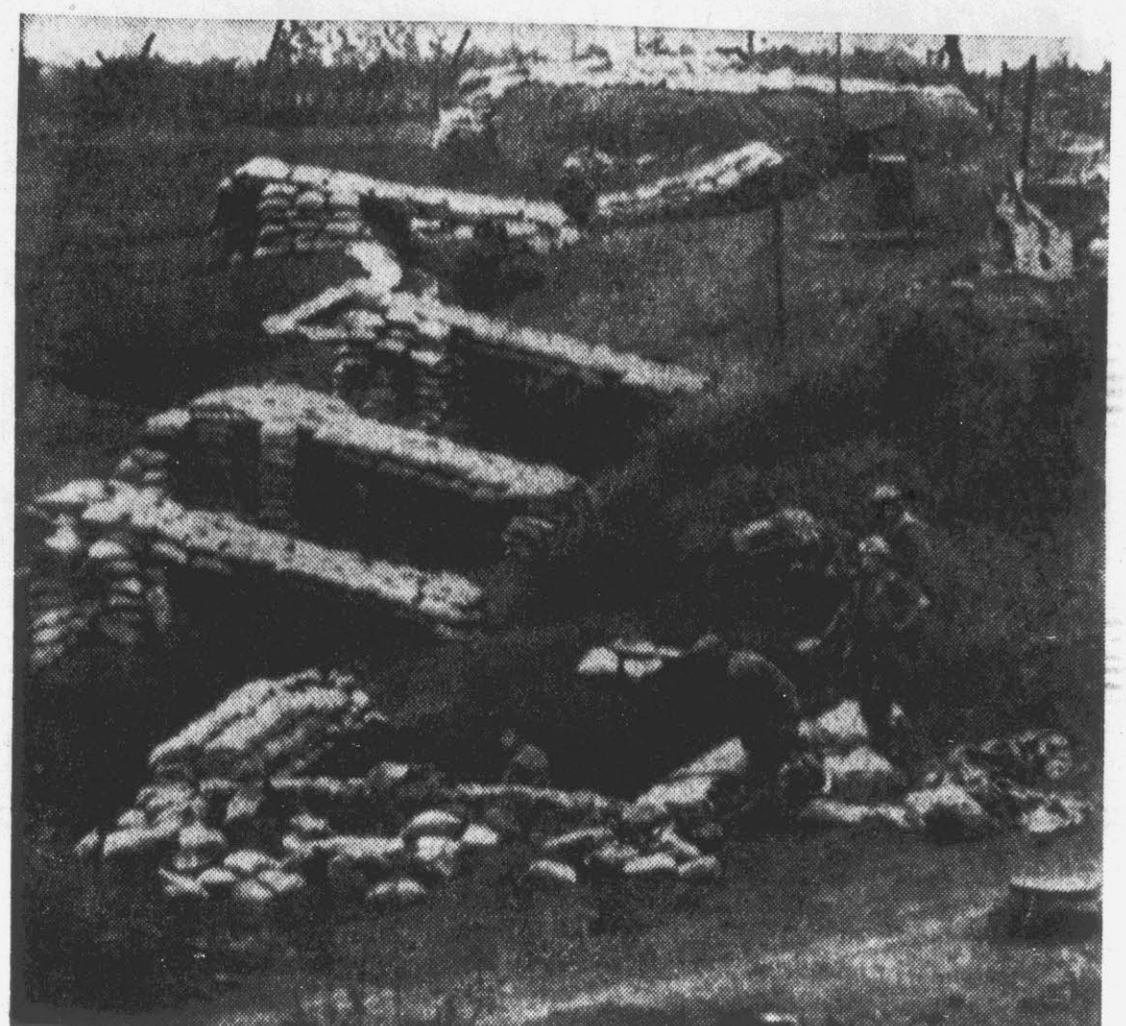

Marine officers also say retreat or withdrawal from Khe Sanh is almost unthinkable. The Leathernecks say the closeness and number of North Vietnamese artillery and mortars dooms any attempt to evacuate Khe Sanh by air. They say a fighting withdrawal toward the coastal lowlands 20 miles to the east would almost certainly run into massive ambushes. The twisting narrow road the Marines would have to use is almost perfect for enemy ambush.

"As the club makes progress and after the third year of operation, we will make application and look forward to coming under the umbrella of the United Fund," he said. Howard termed the Boys' Club "a community effort, not coming from just a few individuals or a few selected companies." It is highly gratifying, he continued, to witness the response for this type of worthy cause, and it should make everyone realize Greenville is a progressive community.

"We want to welcome contributions from any individual and any company. It is hard to call on everyone and it will be helpful if anyone we fail to call on will understand and send a pledge or check," Howard explained.

The finance committee, heading the drive for financial support, includes Howard, Jack Marston, W. M. Scales Jr., Jack Minges and Dr. Leo W. Jenkins.

Wilmington had a low temperature of 25 degrees and while the sky was beginning to clear by mid-morning, the mercury remained below freezing.

ENTRENCHED AND WAITING — At the perimeter of the encircled U. S. Marine base at Khe Sanh, Leathernecks have constructed a defensive system of bunkers and fighting holes which are connected by a deep trench. (AP Wirephoto)

Aerial And Ground War Steps Up

Hanoi Radio Attacked By Bombers; Still On The Air

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes for the first time in the war attacked the Hanoi radio station that beams out all Communist propaganda from North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced today. But monitors said Radio Hanoi was still on the air.

The strike Wednesday against the station, which military spokesmen said has the most powerful transmitter in Southeast Asia, coincided with other developments indicating a sharp escalation in both the ground and air wars.

Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs attacked another target for the first time, a sprawling military storage area 41 miles southwest of Hanoi.

The number of Americans killed in combat jumped to a record high for the war last week, 543, and there were 2,547 wounded, 210 less than the record. It was a week of hard fighting in the Viet Cong's lunar new year offensive against South Vietnam's population centers.

Official U.S. sources disclosed that a new Communist rocket, designed and manufactured by the Chinese without any foreign help, has been used in the war for the first time.

The same sources said elements of two Communist divisions are still menacing Saigon, and some enemy forces are poised within six miles of the capital city of nearly three million people. The sources also disclosed that intelligence had detected heavy shipments of Communist arms coming in from Cambodia.

With U.S. Marine jets bombing in front of them in a priority effort to end the 23-day battle for Hue. Marine infantrymen pushed 150 yards through the fortified Citadel and seized all of their assigned sector of the south wall.

The Marines drove to within about 50 yards of the historic inner palace grounds. There they came under heavy fire from the inner Citadel, once the ornate home of 19th century Vietnamese emperors and now the command post for the Communist holdouts. The Marines raised an American flag on the south wall facing the Perfume River.

U.S. sources also disclosed that the North Vietnamese 324B Division had moved across the demilitarized zone to the area of Quang Tri City, key provincial capital 34 miles north of Hue. About 50,000 Communist troops were reported to be in or just on the fringes of South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces—Quang Tri and Thua Thien.

Rap Brown Is Again Jailed After Threat

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown was in jail today as his lawyer drafted a defense on a new charge and tried to raise $100,000 bond.

Attorney William Kuntzler of New York hoped to get the bond reduced at the preliminary hearing, the next legal step facing the militant Negro leader.

The new charge was imposed on Brown, a spokesman for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, after he lost a legal argument in federal court about a court order limiting his travel.

The FBI said Brown, during a recess, told FBI Agent William H. Smith Jr., also a Negro, that: "We will get you... We better not find out where you live, and if you have any children we will get them, too."

When Brown walked out of the courtroom Wednesday, vowing to go on a hunger strike in jail, the FBI hustled him to a U.S. commissioner's office to hear the charge of intimidating and impeding an FBI agent.

Commissioner Fritz H. Windhorst fixed bond at $50,000.

In federal court, a few minutes earlier, Brown's bid on another charge—violation of a federal firearms law—had been reset at $50,000 and he had been ordered to forfeit $5,000 of his old $15,000 bond.

House Panel Calls For Stepping Up Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid indications White House talks between U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and President Johnson produced no new moves toward peace talks, a House panel has urged stepped-up U.S. military action in Vietnam.

Chairman Porter Hardy Jr. of a House Armed Services subcommittee told newsmen Wednesday the panel believes: "The enemy cannot be defeated within any acceptable time frame so long as we continue to fight a primarily defensive war."

"Our slow rate of military progress has encouraged North Vietnam to reject our efforts to bring about peace negotiations," the panel's news conference came several hours after Thant wound up a brief Washington visit in which he reported to Johnson on his recent peace-probe journey to India, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Thant had talked with leaders of the four countries and with North Vietnamese diplomats in New Delhi and Paris. His findings reportedly were not encouraging.

Johnson gave red-carpet treatment to his U.N. visitor, who said the one-hour talk had been useful.

Afterwards, Thant lunched with Secretary Dean Rusk and other high U.S. officials at the State Department before flying back to New York.

A White House statement said Johnson had reaffirmed to Thant "our continuing desire to achieve a peaceful settlement and the continued validity of the San Antonio formula."

The basic U.S. peace talks offer voiced by the President in a San Antonio, Tex., speech last September is to stop bombing North Vietnam provided Hanoi promptly enters into productive negotiations and does not take military advantage of the bombing halt.

Hanoi has continued to call for an unconditional end to the U.S. air attacks.

Hardy, a Virginia Democrat, said his subcommittee feels that the United States must cut off the enemy's supply routes into South Vietnam and:

"If necessary to achieve this end, all routes, whether by land, sea or air, should be closed or destroyed."

Saying the subcommittee's military conclusions represent a summation of testimony given it by military leaders, Hardy said the panel "would like the civilians in the Defense Department to pay more attention to the advice from the military."

Will Women Look Like This In 30 Years?

IS THIS WHAT LIES AHEAD? — A Los Angeles engineer thinks women living in an urban environment in 2000 will look like Vicki Dunlap, above. She wears body paint for insulation against the weather and air pollutants, including radioactivity. A computer necklace programs her day, governing the temperature of her oven, warning when her children will be home and monitoring the guidance device of her car. Colored jewels are warning signals. Her hat is a receptor and transmitter for a two-way radio worn around the arms, with the earrings supplying energy for radio and computer. Think you can wait another 30 years? (AP Wirephoto)

Mrs. Moore Gives Round Table Program Tuesday

Mrs. D. L. Moore spoke to the Round Table Book Club Tuesday on "Camouflage, mimicry and Nature's camouflage."

"Man has borrowed from nature, many of the ideas that he has been given credit for," Mrs. Moore said. "In his attempt to hide the ugly in his day-to-day life, he has used such things as scrubs, screens and pictures."

She said that in his military life, man like nature has used camouflage to protect himself from his enemy by coloring his clothes and buildings to blend with his environment, by using nets to cover his installations, or by even making things appear to be what they are not. She illustrated the latter point by telling of a golf course painted on top of an aircraft factory where golfers were hired to play as the manufacturing continued inside the buildings underneath. She showed colored pictures to illustrate how animals used methods to protect themselves.

According to Mrs. Moore there can be danger as well as protection in the use of camouflage such as the copperhead hiding among leaves or man's dangerous pills made to resemble in color and shape the candy children like so well.

The club met with Mrs. R. L. Holt who was assisted by Mrs. K. H. Mercer in serving refreshments.

Guests were Mrs. W. G. Holt, Mrs. Frances Everhardt and Mrs. Ted Steig.

Serious Lessons From Mother

FRANKFURT, Germany (WNS)—Erika Bormann, 27, did not want to go home to her mother in Vienna, but husband Wolfgang Bormann threatened to leave her alone didn't. As Wolfgang explained, "Your mother is the best wife, cook and housekeeper that I have ever met, and I insist that you take serious lessons from her for six weeks before we move into the new house that I am buying for us and our future family."

SKILLET TAMALES
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato pieces
1 cup drained canned whole kernel corn
8 cooked tamales

Into a 10-inch skillet pour the tomato sauce; stir in the corn. Arrange the tamales in the sauce. Cover and heat gently, stirring the sauce several times until the tamales are thoroughly heated. Makes 4 servings. If you like, you may top each serving with grated cheddar cheese.

Take your choice: Use a metal spoon or your fingers to hollow out tomatoes before stuffing for a salad or a hot dish.

Hairy Question For Policemen

ST. TROPEZ, France (WN S)—Sylvie Dumas, 22, who has won a dozen beauty contests, played Delilah to admiring Samsons by demanding their long hair in exchange for a date. Now she has made a bathing outfit out of her acquired locks and poses a problem to St. Tropez police, who annually carry on campaigns to end nude bathing at this famous resort. The problem: can she or can she not be arrested for going to the beach with no clothes, on, but properly clad in male hair?

Girl Scouts To Attend Special Summer Events

The Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina has been notified that three of its Senior Girl Scouts have been selected to attend special events for seniors in the summer and that one is an alternate.

Miss Laura Kinzinger of Tarboro is one of two Senior Scouts from Region VI who will attend a Space Exploration Conference in Huntsville, Ala., July 16-28. The conference, operated by the Girl Scouts of North Alabama, will offer 63 seniors from throughout the USA with major interest in the field of science, a chance to explore the opportunities for women in science and in space technology in particular.

Miss Betty Hill and Miss Diane Meelheim, both of Kinston, will participate in "The World of Arts" to be held at Edith Macy National Girl Scout Training Center, Pleasantville, N.Y. Miss Hill will be one of 160 girls in the Music Arts Workshop, July 1-11, and Miss Meelheim will be one of 60 in the Visual Arts Workshop July 29-8.

Miss Sarah Lilley, Grifton, is an alternate for the Visual Arts Workshop and will be available to take the place of a Region VI selectee who may be unable to attend.

These girls were selected by the Regional Selections Committee from 244 applications from throughout the region for 18 special events. This is the largest number of girls ever selected from Coastal Carolina Council in one year.

Selfish Relatives Win No Reward From Couple

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We are an elderly couple, and childless. We have lots of nieces and nephews who were brought to our small place when they were young. We loved them and kissed away their bruises and always remembered them with nice gifts at Christmastime and birthdays and so on. Now they are grown men and women with families of their own and we are quite forgotten. We have written them letters, which were all ignored. However we are still on their Christmas card list, altho none of them has ever taken the extra five minutes to add a personal line or two.

Semi Senti Club Hears Speaker

Les Garner Jr. was speaker at the meeting of the Semi Senti Book Club held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leslie Garner.

Community Ambassador for Garner told of his stay in Belgium and the visits he made to other countries. He showed slides of various places which he visited.

Mrs. Herbert Wilkerson presided over the business session. It was announced that World Day of Prayer will be held March 1 at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Guests for the afternoon were Mrs. W. O. Griffin of Williamston and Mrs. Billy Green of Robersonville, mother and sister of the hostess, Mrs. Ernestine Garner and Mrs. Edna Harris.

Books were exchanged after refreshments were served to the members and guests.

Church Circle Meets Monday

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Ruel Dilda and Mrs. J. A. Mercer were hostesses for the circle meeting of the women of the Fountain Presbyterian Church held Monday afternoon at the church.

Mrs. Nell Gardner gave the emphasis for the month, "Joint Witness of Christian Witness at Home and Abroad." Mrs. Connie Weeks, moderator, gave the devotional.

Mrs. Robert Mercer, president, presided at the session. Following the program, refreshments were served by the hostesses.

MEETING CANCELED

The American Legion Auxiliary scheduled for tonight at 8 o'clock has been canceled.

Well, back in the thirties, date. How can I get his mind off the girl in the front seat long enough to notice the girl in the back seat?

GREEN EYES

DEAR GREEN EYES: You had better try to get his attention some other time. If the girl in the back seat shows any interest in the boy in the front seat, she's apt to wind up sitting at home.

Our best friend is our mailman. On several occasions he has rung our bell, wanting to know if we were all right because he didn't see us stirring inside. Last Christmas he bought me a nice pipe and a can of tobacco. And he gave the Mrs. some powder and perfume. We gave him a turkey as he has a good wife and five small children. One day he is going to get a real big surprise. Abby, because in our will we have left our mailman $60,000. The rest will go to our church, crippled children, and the blind. Our relatives will get nothing because they gave nothing of themselves. I don't care how you sign this as long as you don't use our name or town. Sincerely yours,

Department Program Given By Mrs. Sue May

"Truth in Packaging" was the subject Mrs. Sue May discussed at a meeting of the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club held at the home of Mrs. R. E. Laughter.

Mrs. J. E. Ricks introduced Mrs. May who is Pitt County Home economics demonstration extension agent and a recent "Tar Heel of the Week."

Mrs. May warned of deceptive packaging and told how to shop wisely by watching labels. She said that of the 3,000 to 10,000 items in the super market one to 20 cents out of the dollar goes for non-food items. Thirty-six cents goes to the farmer and of the remaining 64 cents, 45 per cent goes for servicing, 40 per cent packaging and advertising, 10 per cent transportation and five per cent profit to the food industry.

"A good label," Mrs. May said, "must have the common name such as 'Salt' in big letters, the net weight in a conspicuous spot on the front, a list of ingredients in order of weight, (BEANS and pork, not PORK and beans), and the picture must be accurate. The various sizes are for the convenience of the consumer and words such as 'Jumbo' are used to attract the customer."

Coffee and dessert were served to the guests upon arrival. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. W. Earl Brinkley, Mrs. A. C. Howard, Mrs. J. A. Piver, Mrs. H.R. Rogers and Mrs. Virginia Spencer. Mrs. R. W. Emerson from Alexandria, Va. was a guest.

A patriotic devotional was given by Mrs. W. C. Harris. Members received report blanks for keeping individual records. They voted to add to the club silver supply. Also members volunteered to help in the serving of meals at the club house.

North Carolina note cards and the Club History were available at the meeting. Club members urged to display the American flag from their homes. They were also reminded to attend the World Day of Prayer on March 1.

Pitt Cosmetologists Participate In Clinic

Members of the Pitt County Cosmetologists Association attended the North Carolina Hair Fashion Committee Clinic at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh Sunday and Monday.

Demonstrations were given of the Ruffie Curl Style, makeup for the round eye look and permanent waving.

Taking part in the platform work were Eunice Robertson and Julia Harris from Greenville.

Affiliate member Debra Harris won the third place trophy in the State Hairstyle Contest which was open to all members of the North Carolina Cosmetologists Guild, Inc. Miss Sue Spencer of Hickory was Miss Harris' model for the ruffie curl coiffure.

Dr. Steer Is AAUW Speaker Monday Night

The American Association of University Women met Monday in Erwin Hall. Dr. Kathleen Stokes, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Dr. Helen V. Steer of the East Carolina University drama department.

Dr. Steer, who specializes in dialects and speech for actors, spoke on "Four Years of Professional Summer Theatre at East Carolina University. She reviewed the growth of the summer theater from its beginning in 1964 to the present.

Dr. Steer noted the continued high level of performance; use of lavish sets; increase in the number of students participating; and participation of faculty and faculty wives.

The speaker pointed out that the growth of the university drama department was reflected in the summer theater. She noted that more serious drama students were attracted to ECU since it has one of the few summer theaters on a university campus.

Dr. Steer advised the members that anyone may audition for the summer theater. Auditions are held in New York, Washington, D. C., and Greenville. She noted that according to producer-director Edgar R. Loessin, the summer theater will start its first season in the black this year.

Delphian Club Entertained

Mrs. Joe Ward and Mrs. Eric Farrington were hostesses to members of the Delphian Book Club held Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Charles Pace presented a program on her native land, The Netherlands.

She illustrated her talk with slides of typical scenes in The Netherlands, the paintings of a number of the great Dutch Masters and the royal family.

Mrs. Pace told of the role the sea has played in the history and development of The Netherlands. She described in detail, how the once famous Zuiderzee has gradually disappeared as more and more of its area has been reclaimed with the construction of great dikes or polders.

The Dutch people, she said, are far from the popular image of the calm, reserved Dutchman. Rather, they are noisy, excitable, totally adverse to discipline and famous for their hatred of tyranny.

Mrs. Pace concluded her talk with a description of the tragic years of German occupation. Not even time, she said, would erase the memory of that terrible period from the minds of the Dutch people.

Following a brief business session, books were distributed.

Classroom Is Circus Wagon, Billed As World's Smallest

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Wilka Flunger is a schoolteacher whose classroom is a circus wagon. Her pupils are the sons and daughters of people who work for West Germany's largest traveling circus.

Since circuses thrive on superlatives, the classroom in wagon No. 100 of the Circus Krone is billed as the world's smallest. It measures seven square yards and Wilka, a dark-haired 23-year-old Bavarian, only eight months out of teachers' college, lives in the back.

That is why her 10 pupils, aged 6 to 10 years, have to take off their shoes before entering the classroom at 8 a.m. each weekday.

"I like traveling and I didn't want to work for the government," says Wilka, explaining why she took the circus job.

"Having several grades in one makes teaching more difficult. On the other hand, the group is small and I am able to devote more time to each child," she added.

The circus kids—six Germans, three Italians and a Belgian—get only two weeks summer vacation. Each time the circus moves the classroom on wheels is loaded on a railway car and school can't go on. The children move so often in the summer that they have a lot of work to make up.

According to Wilka, her pupils like school.

"Once one of them woke me up at 6 a.m. because he couldn't wait until school started," she said. "The kids are used to elephants, horses and zebras and hardly pay any attention when the animals go past the window."

The school wagon is parked only 20 yards from the big top where the show goes on twice a day. The children do not take part. They leave the performing to their parents.

Wilka says she watches the show almost every night.

"I know most of the performers, especially those who have children in my school and I like to watch them." She claims she has no ambition to try one of the tricks in the show herself.

Each November, Wilka's pupils have to pass a government examination in Munich, where the circus has a permanent building and performs during the winter months.

All of the children, including foreigners, get instruction in German. The school uses the regular curriculum for Bavarian schools.

Mrs. Moore Gives WMS Program

FOUNTAIN—Mrs. Douglas Moore presented the program at the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Fountain Baptist Church on Monday night.

"Money For Missions" was the program topic. Mrs. Moore was assisted in giving the program by Mrs. I. J. Edwards and Mrs. Richard Ollard.

Mrs. Floyd Turnage presided at the meeting.

Miss Isaac Speaks To Bonae Artes Members Tuesday

Miss Margaret Isaac of Blackpool, England, was guest speaker for the regular program meeting of the Bonae Artes Book Club on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Stell.

Miss Isaac is a home economics teacher in the Arnold High School in Blackpool. She received her formal education at Manchester College of Housecraft and is presently studying for the Master's Degree in counseling education at East Carolina University.

Her remarks centered about her impressions of America and "Americanisms" comparing the way of life here with that of her native country. A question and answer period followed her discussion.

Mrs. Takeru Ito was a guest for this meeting.

Mrs. Umesh Gulati Gives Seira Book Club Program

Mrs. Umesh Gulati, a native of New Delhi, India, spoke at the meeting of the Seira Book Club held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Douglas R. Jones.

Mrs. Gulati modeled her wedding dress—a red sari with detailed hand decoration of silver and pearls. Red or pink is worn in India instead of white. She described how her marriage was arranged by their families and the Indian wedding ceremony. Boys and girls are educated in separate schools and the marriageable age for girls is 20 and for boys 25.

Saris are the most common dress in India and girls begin wearing them when they reach teenage. Other types are tunics over trousers, very full trousers and a shift-type dress, added the speaker.

Mrs. Gulati showed and described many types of saris and heavy shawls, which are worn instead of coats. The most elaborate and expensive are hand-embroidered or decorated with bits of glass, pearls or decorative ornaments, she said.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Steve Bartlett, president. Mrs. John

Gambling Man Unlucky In Love

BIRMINGHAM, England (WNS)—Andrew Smith, 32, was going to buy a bouquet of flowers for his girl, Miriam Brighton, but put the money on a horse. The horse came in at 20 to 1, and Smith gave his winnings to his girl instead. The same thing happened the following week when he was going to buy her a box of candy. Smith was clearly a winner until he proposed marriage.

Wide Interest In New Post Office

The wide range of bids from various parts of the country on Greenville's new post office gives an indication of how widespread interest is in such projects.

Some 15 bids were received from firms in such diverse locations as Miami Beach, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Brookline, Mass.

Interestingly there was only one bid which was identifiable as being a Greenville source.

The low bid came from Fine and Salzberg, a Norfolk concern.

It is not difficult to see why so many groups are interested in bidding on the Post Office Department's construction-lease arrangement for new postal buildings. Fine and Salzberg's low bid was $35,479.50 per year for a 20-year lease period. After that there will be six five-year renewal periods. For the first three of these Fine and Salzberg will receive $37,479.60 per year if the lease is renewed, for each five year period. The firm would receive $39,000 per year for the next three renewal periods.

Thus the builder of the new post office will be assured of a tenant for at least 20 years and probably for 50 years at an already-set rate. At the end of that time, if the Post Office Department does not negotiate a new lease, the building and property will still belong to the builder.

What's wrong with this type arrangement? Not much that we can see. Previously the Post Office Department has invested in its own buildings. This has meant considerable investment in real estate and the problem of disposing of the property once it became obsolete.

Under the new arrangement the Post Office Department seems to be obtaining favorable bids, plus giving private enterprise a chance to invest in the various communities. Since they are owned privately, the postal buildings are taxable property. Thus the city and county governments obtain revenue in the form of property tax which was not available when the government owned the buildings.

The Post Office Department should, of course, guard against entering arrangements where future expansions would bring about undue expense and we assume the leases protect against this. We also assume the department controls the design of the buildings to assure that they will be a credit to the communities. In Greenville's case we believe a building of outstanding design should be constructed since the post office is going in an area which is being entirely redeveloped.

All-in-all, however, the department's leasing arrangement looks like good business to us. It is a principle that has been used to advantage by many private retail concerns.

Gardner Needs Piedmont Votes

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — The success or failure of Rep. Jim Gardner's forthcoming foray into the state's Republican heartland promises not only to be interesting politically but probably decisive in Gardner's bid for the governorship.

Most political observers agree that Gardner will win or lose the GOP gubernatorial nomination May 4 depending on how he does in the Piedmont counties.

Gardner certainly recognizes and is aware of this situation — knowing that the thickly populated, heavy-voting midstate is the stronghold of old line, registered Republicans and of his primary opponents, John L. (Jack) Stuckley of Charlotte. The word registered is important — and increasingly so from Gardner's standpoint in regard to the primary contest.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Must Make Inroads

Gardner, an Easterner from Rocky Mount, has announced plans to spend most of his remaining available campaign time in the Piedmont and in western North Carolina.

This is not surprising. In fact, it was suggested in all political advice Gardner received before deciding definitely to challenge Stuckley for the GOP nomination this year.

Numerically, the GOP has greater voting strength and party registration in the Piedmont counties than anywhere else in North Carolina — actually more than the rest of the state combined.

Gardner and his supporters know they must make inroads into this Piedmont reservoir of Republican votes and at least come very close to breaking even there when the May 4 ballots are counted.

Stuckley Country
The reason is that the West and the western Piedmont is fast becoming known as Stuckley country — Stuckley support in these counties has developed rapidly.

Gardner, whose political strength lies in eastern North Carolina, has been unable to offset this. He has campaigned thus far only on a limited basis, and it is often heard that "Jim Gardner isn't well known" in the Piedmont and West. Gardner's purpose now is to change this by campaigning on the scene.

It will be interesting politically to see how well he manages. Gardner, youthful, vigorous, personable, waged two hard-fought campaigns for Congress before he was able to unseat veteran Democrat Harold Cooley in 1966. In his second campaign, Gardner carried his personal campaign into Cooley's old strongholds. Yet there was still a question as to whether Gardner's victory was as much pro-Gardner as anti-Cooley, and there are those who doubt that Gardner's methods of campaigning are as effective as Gardner's zealous supporters believe. This remains to be seen, and proved.

Different Campaign
Also, Gardner is now engaged in a campaign vastly different from that of 1966. In the first place, it is within the Republican party.

In 1966, a great deal of Gardner support came from disgruntled Democrats, young and old, who felt (1) it was time for a change (2) a dislike for Democratic policies in Washington and (3) that Cooley had lost touch with his district.

Still it took two campaigns for Gardner to capitalize on this growing dissatisfaction among Democrats along with getting an increasing number of new Republican voters moving into the district.

Against Stuckley in May, Gardner has only one chance — and that will be to sway a majority of registered Republican voters.

Every Reason To Hope For Sales Leadership

It is gratifying to learn that Greenville leads its neighbors in percentage increase of retail sales for the January-November period of 1967.

Greenville's sales increase from 1966's $66,419,540 to 1967's $69,286,116 represents a 4.3 per cent jump.

However, while Greenville is gaining on its neighbors, it still falls behind Wilson, Kinston, Rocky Mount and Goldsboro in dollar volume.

With its unique shops and a number of major stores; with outstanding shopping centers and plans for major improvements of its downtown business area there is no reason Greenville cannot become the shopping center for Eastern North Carolina.

Greenville merchants recently have done much to promote the city's shopping advantages. More remains to be done, but with the encouragement of over-all rising sales we believe still further gains are likely.

Their Place In History Unsung

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rights and privileges of citizenship that whites have denied the Negro in America may be easier to restore than something else that was taken away—the Negro's history.

The Negro may have moved up from the back of the bus but he has barely even entered the books, libraries and museums that record the nation's history.

A Negro who recently visited the Smithsonian Institution, that vast national cultural storehouse, said he found only one item with which he could identify: "It was a mural of Eli Whitney and the cotton gin. And you know who was picking that cotton."

And a white woman participating in a panel discussion on Negro history and culture in Washington last week confessed she had graduated with honors from an Ivy League college without ever having heard of Frederick Douglass. So, how many have?

Yet Douglass, an escaped slave who became one of the most articulate and effective leaders of the abolition movement both here and in Europe, is only one of many illustrious Negroes whose accomplishments have gone largely unsung.

How many school children, for instance, are taught that when Admiral Peary battled his way to the North Pole a Negro friend and associate, Matthew Henson, was with him and may have actually set foot on the pole first?

Or that at Bunker Hill, among those not shooting until he saw the whites of their Negro, who when he did shoot brought down the British commander?

Or that a Haitian-born Negro, Jean DuSable, was one of the first to establish a trading post where Chicago now stands? Or that the machine that revolutionized the shoemaking industry was invented by a Negro.

Efforts are being made to restore the Negro to his rightful role in American history, but they face many obstacles.

"Just as there is tremendous opposition to open housing," said another participant in last week's conference in Negro history, "so is there tremendous opposition to open history."

But bias—and all history is distorted to the extent the writer decides what to put in and what to leave out—is only part of the problem in telling the Negro's story. The documentation on which historians rest—the diaries, letters, records, pictures, newspapers—is just not there.

"This material is in attics, in basements, in trunks and boxes, stored, forgotten and in danger of rotting away," last week's conference participants were told. "It must be ferreted out and used."

Strength For Today

SERVICE REQUIRES HUMILITY

As Abercrombie, the great English general, lay dying after a battle, the surgeon who was attending him took a blanket from a nearby soldier and put it under Abercrombie's head. The sufferings of the wounded man were evidently relieved by this little act of kindness, and he opened his eyes and asked the doctor what he had done. The doctor told him that he had taken a blanket from a soldier and made a pillow to ease his commander's pain. Abercrombie then asked, "What was the soldier's name?" "Duncan Roy," replied the surgeon. Then with his last breath Abercrombie said,

"See that Private Duncan Roy gets his blanket back before sunset. He will need it when night falls."

The greatness of a man is largely indicated by his attitude toward persons, and particularly his attitude toward those in humble station. There are some people who can be mighty nice with men and women in their own social circle but who regard the rest of mankind as so many pests, or perhaps as dust under their feet. The bigger a man is of mind and soul, the more disposed will he always be to put himself out for the welfare of others.

The Lord of Heaven came down that He might serve needy man, and no one serves in His name who does not have His humble spirit.

Some Are More Equal

From the beginning of this second session of the Ninetieth Congress, more than a month ago, the Senate has been loosely tied up in a filibuster over H. R. 2516, the pending civil rights bill. Now it is proposed that cloture be invoked, in order to end the desultory debate and bring the bill to a vote.

No one has paid much attention to the bill, and for a good reason: The measure is universally recognized, by knowledgeable people in the field, as more of an exercise in politics than a sound proposal in law. Even in the political view, the proposition has no merit. The pending bill will not satisfy the activists; they will view it as one case of beer for a picnic of Elks. But if the bill is poor as a matter of politics, it is much worse as a matter of law. It is futile, one supposes, to argue that the measure goes beyond the power vested in Congress under the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, and hence is unconstitutional. In the field of civil rights, the Constitution is more swamp than solid ground.

Nevertheless, the constitutional point should be saved. The chief thrust of this bill is against private actions, not against state actions. For the better part of a century, it was judicially recognized that the Fourteenth Amendment is a prohibition upon the States as States. That is what the amendment says: "No State" shall do this - and - so. Yet this bill undertakes to punish the white man who punches a Negro in the nose because the Negro is, let us say, trying to exercise his right to attend the University of Alabama.

Now, virtually no one—not even George Wallace—a longer seriously questions the Negro's right in this regard. The right has been established; no State may deny it; various statutes and court orders make the right secure. The pending bill thus is not directly concerned with integration or voting rights or public accommodations. It is concerned with the punch in the nose.

The question has to be asked: How did a punch in the nose get to be a Federal crime? Whatever the motivation, a punch is a punch; it is assault, and a decent respect for federalism ought to persuade the Senate that the punishment of simple assault is peculiarly a matter for the States.

Look again at this bill and the putative punch. Under the terms of this proposal, for mystifying reasons, the punch-

To Employ Collector

The new board of directors of the Merchants Association met in special meeting yesterday afternoon. One of the most important things considered was the decision to employ the services of a regular collector, who will serve the entire membership through the offices of the secretary. The Association has several applicants under consideration for this office. The collector will begin his duties on March 1st. The new department will keep close check on the credit rating of all persons doing credit business with local merchants. Failure to settle obligations by a given time will be reported immediately to the department for future reference.

Surprise Birthday Party

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Denton on Chestnut Street, Feb. 17th, a lovely surprise birthday party was given in honor of Berry Sumrell's 21st birthday. At eight o'clock the ladies began to arrive, all dressed in evening gowns with smiling faces and valuable gifts. It was much surprising to Mr. Sumrell, as he was on his way to the show, but was called in from the street while passing by. From eight until nine o'clock interesting games were played, and at 9:30 a delicious salad course and drinks were served, followed by music and dancing until 11:30, when the boys and girls departed, declaring the time of their lives and wishing for Berry many more such surprising birthdays.

Communism Ruins Agriculture

By ELMER ROESSNER

Communism seems sure to muck up the agriculture of a country.

For fifty years recurring food shortages have been a major problem in agrarian, communist Russia. Slowly, Russia has been forced to compromise with the devil and permit a limited amount of capitalist freedom to modify its collective farming.

Now two reports by the Foreign Agricultural Service show how communism has fouled up agriculture in Mainland China and Cuba.

John R. Wennmo, U. S. agricultural officer, reporting from his window on Red China in Hong Kong, says that despite the fact that weather in 1967 was the most favorable since the communists gained control in 1949, agricultural production failed to reach its potential, although it was better than in 1966.

Cultural Revolution Crimps
The activities of the cultural revolution interfered with deliveries of tools, fertilizers, insecticides and other production inputs. Imports of chemical fertilizers were delayed by congestion in Chinese ports. In late September, the Chinese were forced to ask the Japanese to delay shipments until November.

The Red Guards, organized in the late spring of 1966, were ordered to stay out of rural areas until the autumn harvests were over. Wennmo's report to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Then in December, 1966, and January, 1967, the revolution was carried to the countryside.

"In a short time the peasants saw that the new movement would destroy treasured ancestral tablets, other sacred objects and long-held beliefs; that cultural practices, if successful, would take away their private plots, pigs and poultry and decrease their share of the harvest," he reported.

Grain warehouses were looted and many peasants withheld produce. Even grain set aside for seed was distributed among individuals of collectives. "Practically no winter work was done on the repair and maintenance of irrigation and drainage facilities. . . . Other traditional farm work was also neglected and the entire administrative framework became badly disoriented; in many cases it broke down completely," he added.

Maokists Back Off

Unity Effort Fails

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The last-ditch White House attempt to weld together California's wildly discordant Democratic party by imposing an impartial arbitrator from the outside must, at least in its beginning phase, be counted a failure.

The outsider, 43-year-old former Governor Edward T. (Ned) Breathitt of Kentucky, arrived suddenly in Los Angeles on the night of Feb. 14 and immediately began negotiations with party leaders. The climax came last Saturday in a meeting to select California's 172-member delegation to the National Convention, with Breathitt attempting conciliation between rival factions.

The results were mixed. National Committeeman Eugene Wyman and former Governor Edmund G. (Pat) Brown were delighted by Breathitt's intervention. But the Wyman-Brown wing of the party has been staunchly pro-Johnson anyway. Breathitt's arrival was greeted coldly by more troublesome Democratic leaders—Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh—whom he is supposed to conciliate.

Whether Breathitt proves more successful in the weeks ahead is a matter of national political significance. As of today, President Johnson figures to lose California's 40 electoral votes, which could swing a national election. Beyond that, Breathitt's record in California could determine whether outside coordinators should be assigned to other difficult states such as New York, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

That technique was used in some 40 states during John F. Kennedy's 1960 Presidential campaign by campaign director Lawrence F. O'Brien and would have been widely employed in 1964 had President Kennedy lived. Wyman, realizing the impossibility of any single California Democrat bringing the factions together, long had urged an outside coordinator for 1968.

Accordingly, in a strategy session in Washington several weeks ago, O'Brien—doubling as Postmaster General and Mr. Johnson's de facto campaign manager—decided to try Wyman's strategy. His candidate was Breathitt, at liberty after finishing a non-repeatable term as Governor of Kentucky. Contacted by a White House aide, Breathitt accepted and embarked on a cram course in California politics before leaving for Los Angeles.

With unanimous clearance from all California leaders an impossibility, they were told of Breathitt's appointment. James Rowe Jr., the Washington lawyer who has been Mr. Johnson's sage political counselor of 30 years standing, just happened to be in Sacramento last week to announce Breathitt's arrival.

In his introductory meetings, Breathitt laid on a thick blanket of Southern comfort and told the warring chiefs they simply would have to endure each other for the greater good of Mr. Johnson's re-election. As expected, Brown and Wyman fully agreed, each hosting Breathitt for dinner last week. But Sam Yorty proved considerably tougher.

Yorty had expected the Official Candidates' List Is Lengthening

RALEIGH (AP) — At least two opposing candidates in the 4th District congressional race were expected to file today as the list of official entrants in North Carolina primary races lengthened.

The deadline is noon Friday for filing with State Elections Board office in Raleigh for the May 4 primaries.

Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., and David Stith planned to pay their $300 filing fees to enter the Democratic primary.

Galifianakis' home county of Durham was shifted from the 5th to the 4th District by the 1967 General Assembly's Redistricting Act.

Stith, also of Durham, is a Negro and president of a business college.

Also planning to file today was Charles A. Pratt of Wrightsville Beach, a real estate dealer and former newspaperman who will oppose Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., in the Democratic primary.

Announce Car Telephone Installations Are Started

Installation began today on mobile telephones for customers who have recently subscribed to this new service being offered by Carolina Telephone. L. R. Langley, local manager for Carolina Telephone in making this announcement stated that the actual date for service is March 12, 1968.

Installation began about three weeks before the service date so that as many mobile subscribers as possible can have their sets installed and ready to use by March 12, Langley said.

This new service will use 2-way radio and electronic telephone equipment to provide fully automatic car telephone service. Subscribers to this service er and the punchee must be of different races. Otherwise the bill does not apply. If Negro A strikes Negro B, in the midst of a quarrel over the lawful exercise of a civil right, no offense is created. The white man who threatens a Rap Brown may be indicted for a felony; the Negro who utters the same threat, under the same circumstances, is exempt. One is reminded of Orwell's "Animal Farm," in which all the animals were equal — but some were more equal than others.

This discriminatory scheme is defended by the bill's proponents. The real evil, they say, lies in such crimes as the shooting of James Meredith and the slaying of Medgar Evers. This is all they are seeking to reach. They argue, moreover, that the South's record of clearing such crimes of violence is so poor that Congress must intervene.

In certain notorious cases of inter-racial violence, granted, Southern justice has functioned poorly. But one is minded to ask why the Congress is not equally concerned about the much larger failure of justice elsewhere in the country? Murder is the most serious of all crimes. Nearly one out of four murders in New York goes unpunished. The figure is one out of eight in Michigan and Illinois. By contrast, Mississippi stands second only to South Dakota in the high percentage of murders presumably solved.

North Carolina's Senator Sam Ervin has recalled the Till case. An ugly, awful business. Yet in the same week that Till was drowned in Mississippi, a white man was slain in Chicago by machine-gun fire, stripped, and brutally mutilated. Neither homicide was solved at law. The point is not that the two victims were equally dead, or equally mourned. The point is that they were equally victims of local crime, locally committed. If federalism is not to be abandoned altogether, the distinction ought to be carefully preserved.

Officers Installed By Kappa Alpha

Stephen Craig Morrisette of Elizabeth City heads a slate of nine new officers of East Carolina University's chapter of Kappa Alpha Order, national social fraternity.

Serving with Morrisette are Jimmy Townsend of Laurinburg, John Jackson of Elizabeth City, Mac McCombs of Statesville, Walter Dudley of Raleigh, Bobby Rives of Greensboro, Doug Wheeler of Durham, Bill Teague of Greensboro and David Miller of Albemarle.

OUT OF LUCK?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — George Soteropoulos told Salt Lake City police Wednesday that 11 stereo tape recordings had been stolen from his automobile. Soteropoulos added that unless the thief understood Greek, he was out of luck.

WOUNDED—Corporal Donald W. Gooding, USMC, son of the Rev. Carrie Gooding and the late Rev. C.H. Gooding, of Greenville, is undergoing treatment of wounds received in South Vietnam at the Bethesda (Md.) Naval Hospital. His condition is reported as "satisfactory."

More Tar Heels Die In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon announced Wednesday that Army Pfc. Lionel N. Phillips Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel N. Phillips Sr. of Concord, N.C., was killed in action in the Vietnam war.

He was one of 93 men reported killed in action in the latest casualty list.

The North Carolinians whose status was changed from missing to dead included:

Army 1st Lt. Thomas Y. Osborne, whose widow, Brenda, lives in the home of J. L. Cochran, on Highway 29, Concord; Army Sgt. I.C. John L. Church, whose widow, Virginia, lives at 1117 Wellons Drive, Fayetteville; Army S. Sgt. Bernard J. Caron, whose widow, Linda, lives at 7246 Ryan St., Fayetteville; Army Spec. 4, James E. Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parker, Rt. 1, Oak City; and Army Pfc. Edward E. Dew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie J. Dew, Honey Hill Road, Hallsboro.

Two others were listed as having died not as the result of hostile action. They were Army Spec. 4 Alvin R. Church, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Church, Deep Gap; and Army Pfc. Gary R. Powell, son of Mrs. Hattie L. Powell, Rt. 1, Scotland Neck.

Fulbright Says Public, Congress 'Misled' By The Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright says he administration misled Congress and is deceiving the public about the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin incident, which generated U.S. military escalation in Vietnam.

He also charged Wednesday that the Pentagon hauled off for mental examination a Navy commander who had volunteered to tell Congress what he knew of the incident.

Fulbright accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara of deceiving the public in releasing a 21-page statement the defense chief presented Tuesday to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Fulbright told newsmen he does not subscribe to a position he attributed to one-time McNamara aide Arthur Sylvester, whom he quoted as saying "the government has the right to lie to the people of this country."

The Arkansas Democrat's charges came after the committee, which he heads, refused his request to make public staff findings on the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

Fulbright told newsmen after Wednesday's committee meeting he felt the staff report was necessary to counter-balance what he termed the one-sided McNamara statement.

At issue is the August 1964 incident in which the administration said two U.S. destroyers, the Maddox and Turner Joy, were attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The incident produced the so-called Tonkin Gulf resolution in which the Senate, by an overwhelming vote, called on President Johnson to take all steps necessary to "prevent further aggression."

The first U.S. bombing attacks on North Vietnam—and a sharp escalation of U.S. military forces committed to the war—quickly followed.

Fulbright, who was floor manager for the administration-requested resolution, has since strongly opposed U.S. policy in Vietnam and contends Congress was given inadequate information about the Tonkin Gulf incident.

His committee initiated a staff study of the naval engagement and reportedly found evidence conflicting with the administration's version of what happened.

Fulbright said the Pentagon was guilty of "greatly intimidating" the naval officer—he did not name him—by requiring him to undergo a psychiatric examination last summer the day after he called on the committee to volunteer information.

He did not identify the officer, who reportedly is now stationed in New York State. He said the Pentagon found the officer sane. But, Fulbright added, when he took up this matter with McNamara Tuesday, the defense chief replied he had never heard of it.

"They only hear what they want to hear," Fulbright said.

Fulbright told newsmen the committee staff probe revealed uncertainty as to whether the two U.S. destroyers actually were attacked. But he said no hint of such doubts appeared when the resolution was being debated, and added:

"I think this was misleading." Claiming McNamara made public only information supporting the administration position, Fulbright said, "This, I believe, deceives the American public."

The Defense Department said any assertions the Pentagon suppressed information indicating the destroyers weren't attacked are "totally without foundation."

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chief of naval operations, issued a statement saying: "I know of no report made by the Navy which casts any doubt on the fact that the destroyers were attacked on 2 August and 4 August." Moorer said that a commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet at the time, he "closely followed events on a minute by minute basis."

There is a bill before Congress to establish a commission for this purpose. California, Michigan and Connecticut have passed laws calling for the teaching of Negro history in their schools. But many Negroes are reluctant to leave the collecting of their history to the government, and private universities and institutions are already engaged in the task.

In Washington, the Frederick Douglass Institution and Museum has a wide array of material available to the school children of the District of Columbia. In Detroit the International Afro-American Institution has a traveling display it takes to the schools. Much of the material in the Detroit collection has been gathered from neighborhood attics.

The Negro, searching for his past, is in a position to help historians find it.

Reminds Laws Curb Initiative

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton says those who know about the State Constitution and laws relating to his office know that the attorney general is rarely authorized to initiate investigations.

Bruton's remark, made in a prepared statement as he opened his reelection campaign headquarters in Raleigh Wednesday, was interpreted as an answer to criticism from his opponent, State Sen. Robert Morgan, D-Harriet.

Morgan has said he would act to head off lawlessness and would function more "positively and aggressively" if elected attorney general.

Bruton did not mention Morgan by name but said, "Those who have any real familiarity and knowledge of the Constitution and laws relating to the duties of the office of attorney general, with only two or three exceptions, is not authorized to initiate investigations and displace the functions of local prosecuting officers and grand juries."

Factors In Industrial Development Cited

"Industrial development is a combination of natural facilities and community cooperation," Bruce Strickland Jr. of Raleigh told the Pitt County Development Commission Wednesday evening. The meeting was held at the Greenville Country Club. Guests for the meeting were the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and the wives of the members and the commissioners. Corey Stokes, vice chairman, presided and welcomed the guests. The invocation was pronounced by Robert L. Martin. Strickland is field representative in charge of industrial financing associated with the Division of Commerce and Industry of the Department of Conservation and Development, with headquarters in Raleigh. He described the organization and administration of the entire department with special emphasis on the division of which he is a part. "We work for all of North Carolina, and with local development executives, both lay and professional, to the end that existing industries may be expanded and serviced, and that new industries may find profitable homes in the state. It is a most compensating but demanding job," he concluded.

Pediatrician Speaks Here Today At Area Meeting

CHAPEL HILL—A specialist in children's diseases will be the speaker in Greenville today at a 16-county medical meeting. Dr. Gerald Fernald, assistant professor of pediatrics at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, will discuss meningitis at 5:30 p.m. and clinical immunology at 7:45 p.m. This meeting replaces an early January meeting postponed due to weather. It will be the last of six meetings constituting a postgraduate course in medicine for practicing physicians in Beaufort, Craven, Duplin, Edgecombe, Greene, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, Pamlico, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington, Wayne and Wilson counties. The meeting will be at the Candlewick Inn on the Stantonsburg Road.

Dr. Fernald is a native of Rochester, N.H., and received his medical degree at UNC here. He served two years as a pediatrician in the U.S. Army before returning to Chapel Hill as a research fellow in infectious diseases. He was appointed to the medical faculty last summer.

Members and guests are invited. The menu will include: ham, turkey with dressing and giblet gravy, fried chicken, beans, corn, German potato salad, tossed salad, cranberry sauce, hot biscuits, homemade cake or pie, coffee and iced tea.

Cash Is Stolen At News Stand

An estimated $130 was reported taken from a cash register at the Greenville News Stand, 205 East Fifth Street, during Tuesday night. Chief H. F. Lawson said the theft was reported yesterday. He noted that the rear door of the building had apparently been left open during the night. Investigation of the reported theft is under way.

Candidates Eye Liquor, Cigarette Tax, Veto Power

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series of stories on the issues in the 1968 North Carolina gubernatorial campaign and the positions of the candidates. The final story will appear Friday.)

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal to permit the sale of liquor by the drink, demands for a tax on cigarettes and a proposal to give the governor a legislative veto are among the major issues expected to come before the 1969 North Carolina General Assembly.

The five candidates seeking the governorship of North Carolina—Democrats Mel Broughton, Dr. Reginald A. Hawkins and Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, and Republicans Jack Stickley and Jim Gardner—were asked to comment on these and other issues in an Associated Press questionnaire.

Gardner declined to answer the questions and said he will issue statements on the issues later.

Hawkins, a Charlotte dentist, was the only candidate favoring the sale of liquor by the drink in North Carolina. Asked if he favored any other changes in the liquor laws, Hawkins said they "should be thoroughly re-examined with a view toward bringing them in line with modern habits and thinking."

Stickley, also of Charlotte, said, "I oppose statewide liquor by the drink." But he added, "The fairest way out of this problem is to permit local option on the question of liquor by the drink, possibly using Virginia as a model or, perhaps, Georgia."

Broughton, a Raleigh attorney said he is against by-the-drink liquor sales and sees no reason to change the "present system based on strict control."

Scott said he is "personally opposed to liquor by the drink and would not vote for it myself."

Scott added, however, "If a local community can persuade its legislators to introduce a bill in the General Assembly to allow the community to vote on the question, and if the General Assembly should enact legislation and the people vote on it in a local referendum, I would not oppose this procedure."

Hawkins also was the only candidate who favored levying a tax on cigarettes and other tobacco products, but Stickley said he would be "willing to accept" such a levy "if we find this to be a desirable and productive source of state revenue."

North Carolina, which produces more tobacco than any other state, is the only state in the nation without a tax on tobacco products.

Hawkins said he favored the special tax because, "We currently tax necessities in this state such as food and real estate. It is time to begin taxing some luxuries."

Stickley said, "A tax on retail tobacco sales will not reduce tobacco production. . . . Less than 5 per cent of the tobacco grown in North Carolina is smoked in North Carolina, so the growers have nothing to fear from this."

Broughton said he is "not in favor of any new taxes," but he added:

"If at any time the revenue situation indicates additional money is needed to provide the services we deem essential, I think we should consider a tax on tobacco along with many other possible sources of revenue."

Scott said he does "not subscribe to the belief that any commodity is immune to taxation," but he added that "North Carolina has always assigned a low tax priority to tobacco."

If new sources of revenue must be found, he said, "tobacco should be low on the list."

North Carolina also is the only state which does not grant its governor the power to veto legislation.

Stickley and Hawkins supported a proposal to give the governor a legislative veto, but Scott and Broughton said the veto is unnecessary.

"The governor is elected state wide and represents all the people," Stickley observed. "Therefore, he is the agent most susceptible to aroused public opinion. A legislative veto would be in the best interests of all the people, but it cannot be a blank check. It must be possible for the veto to be over-ruled by the legislature as is possible in the federal government."

Hawkins said the veto should be used "sparingly" but added the governor needs the veto power "to strengthen his position as the leader of the people. Without the veto, he is almost completely at the mercy of the legislature."

Broughton said, "The governor of North Carolina traditionally has been able to work well with the General Assembly and develop programs in an atmosphere of cooperation to promote the best interests of the state."

Instances have been rare in the past in which any governor would have used the veto had he possessed it."

Scott said, "The governor's office has proven time and again in the past that it has sufficient power, and I do not seek the authority to undo the acts of our legislature. The legislature is composed of men and women elected by the people, and I have confidence in their integrity and ability."

Churches See Youth Rebel At Institutionalism

EDITOR'S NOTE—A recent survey of editors by the Associated Press Managing Editors Association found readers puzzled if not alarmed about the younger generation's standards and beliefs. Some asked whether, in the day of the hippie, churches are losing their importance in the lives of young people. This article answers the question: Is youth participation in church activities declining?

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When a church official recently stopped a group of Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox college students from celebrating an unconventional, mixed communion service, the students simply moved to another room—and went on with it.

"The times, they are a changing," they sang, most of them seated on the floor around a makeshift altar table, swaying to a guitar beat.

The incident, at a University Christian Movement conference in Cleveland, Ohio, indicates the approach that youth today often take toward religion: they go at it in their own fashion or not at all.

"It's part of their rebellion against institutionalism of various kinds," said the Rev. Dr. H. D. Bollinger of Nashville, Tenn., director of Methodism's Department of College and University Religious Life. "They're fed up with the system."

Many of them, with that same show of independence, have abandoned formal religious connections.

This antitraditionalism has thrown many church youth organizations into a nosedive, forcing some out of existence. And it is sharply shrinking rolls of church and Sunday School classes.

Officials widely admit that programmed "youth work," as the churches commonly call it, is on the downgrade.

"Participation is declining like mad," said the Rev. John Wood, head of the Department of Youth Ministry of the National Council of Churches, which includes most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations.

"Jesus, Yes! Christianity, No!" read a sign carried at a student rally at the University of California in Berkeley.

"Never Trust a God Over 30," is the title of a new book by Jewish, Catholic and Protestant chaplains at Columbia University, reflecting the younger generation's attitude.

Paradoxically, however, there is a youthful religious impulse and it is showing up in certain ways more strongly than ever before—in conversational coffee houses, in booming enrollment in college courses in religion, in social action projects and in free-wheeling kinds of worship.

"Edge" is the name of a new Lutheran publication for youths, implying the marginal zone which many of them occupy in relation to the official church.

That nebulous border zone, however, throbs with intellectual-religious inquiry, experimentation and movements.

ranging from the hippie "love power" to Zen meditation to war protests to students tutoring in the slums.

"This is the questioning generation," said Dr. Martin Mead, a psychologist and Fordham University's vice president for student affairs. "They want answers to hard theological questions and they want an ethics of action."

Commented a young man at a recent meeting in Dallas, of the National Council's Christian Education Division: "We would love to be part of what the church says it should be doing. When we see adults doing those things we will happily join them."

"The only praying guy they trust is a praying man on the action front," said the Rev. J. Michael Allen of Episcopal St. Mark's Church-in-the-Bowery on Manhattan's lower East Side, a gathering place of college dropouts.

At a conference of 2,000 Jewish students in New York this month, a Barnard College girl, Martha Greenfield, commented: "You may go to the synagogue for a dance or to pray, but you never consider going there to carry out social action activities."

The Rev. Dr. Henry T. Hetland, of Chicago, head of the National Lutheran Campus Ministry, said current student attitudes seem to be a "reaction against implied tyranny over thought and ethical judgment that seems to get associated with religious institutions."

Coupled with the enrollment downturn, a Gallup survey of church attendance on an average Sunday shows that of young people — between ages 21 and 29—down 7 points to 40 per cent from its 1955 high of 47 per cent, while that of the general adult population is down only 4 points to 45 per cent from its 1955 high of 49.

However, just in the last year, the youth attendance figure has begun to move back up toward the general level, after being even further behind it earlier.

"We probably hit the low point," Mead said, "and are on the way back up."

Teen-age youth arms of the churches, which usually met on Sunday night for discussion and recreation, have been disbanded on a national scale in some denominations. In others, participation is dropping.

For example, in the Luther League of the Lutheran Church in America, participation has dropped 50 per cent in five years, while the population in that age group rose 50 per cent.

The Southern Baptist youth arm, Baptist Training Union, has decreased for three successive years. The Methodist Youth Fellowship also has lost ground.

"But the main change is in the break away from the institutional pattern focused on Sunday night and the church building," said the Rev. Kenneth

"Students have pretty much bought the ideas of the new morality and situational ethics," he added.

However, the broadest studies find little change in sexual behavior of students—although they discuss the subject more freely. A 12-year study of behavior patterns at three Eastern and Western colleges found "no decline in student morality."

The Rev. Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, a popular Stanford University professor of religion several times voted by seniors as the most influential faculty member, says, "The emancipation of university students from the cowering conformity of the 1950's is to be understood not as a sign of moral degeneration but of moral health."

Examine the statistics, the opinions, the study reports and you get some contradictory impressions—of youth alienation from the church and of fervor for its ideals.

For the last two years, enrollment in Protestant church schools, youth groups and Catholic parochial schools has declined, despite rising population, a trend spreading for several years and now involving all the larger denominations.

"It has become general and is reaching serious proportions," said Dr. Lauris Whitman, a minister-sociologist and the National Council's long-time chief statistician.

Coupled with the enrollment downturn, a Gallup survey of church attendance on an average Sunday shows that of young people — between ages 21 and 29—down 7 points to 40 per cent from its 1955 high of 47 per cent, while that of the general adult population is down only 4 points to 45 per cent from its 1955 high of 49.

However, just in the last year, the youth attendance figure has begun to move back up toward the general level, after being even further behind it earlier.

"We probably hit the low point," Mead said, "and are on the way back up."

Teen-age youth arms of the churches, which usually met on Sunday night for discussion and recreation, have been disbanded on a national scale in some denominations. In others, participation is dropping.

For example, in the Luther League of the Lutheran Church in America, participation has dropped 50 per cent in five years, while the population in that age group rose 50 per cent.

The Southern Baptist youth arm, Baptist Training Union, has decreased for three successive years. The Methodist Youth Fellowship also has lost ground.

"But the main change is in the break away from the institutional pattern focused on Sunday night and the church building," said the Rev. Kenneth Mitchell, of Nashville, director of the denomination's youth ministries program.

"It's much less focused on membership and meetings and more on getting involved in community activities."

On the positive side of the picture, college courses on religion—both in the extent of the classes offered and enrollment in them—have soared widely since World War II, and accelerated since 1950.

"The student interest in the study of religion is part of a quiet revolution that has been occurring in American universities in recent years," says Dr. Robert Michaelson, of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

A survey by Dr. Milton D. McLean, of Ohio State University, of 135 public universities, and colleges showed 40 of them have departments for majors in religion, while 47 others offer expensive courses in the field.

Two decades ago, such departments in state-run universities and colleges were virtually nonexistent. Now, the courses usually are packed, often with applicants turned away for lack of room. At the University of Wisconsin, students petitioned to get such courses.

Similarly, noted religious visitors on campus—such as Harvard's Rev. Dr. Harvey Cox, Catholicism's Swiss Rev. Hans Kung and Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike—usually outdraw any other sort of speaker.

Dimly lit coffee houses, sponsored by churches shying away from direct evangelism and welcoming agnostics and atheists as well as believers, have proliferated as youth hangouts on and off college campuses.

"It is likely that the coffee house might become within a decade as numerous as Sunday Schools or church suppers," says a National Council study report.

They specialize in wide-open conversation, folk music, art displays, as well as coffee, usually with a chaplain around joining in the talk.

The number of clergymen serving on campuses has risen from about 200 before World War II to an estimated 3,000, Dr. Hetland observes.

"Chaplains are able to keep in direct contact with students, largely because they are thought to be somewhat disengaged from or at least not identified with the establishment."

For all the youthful disaffection from standard church operations, folk liturgies have become a swinging thing on campus, with their guitars, jazz combos and popular ballads revised for the setting.

"Worship attendance geared to student worship is not falling off but climbing," said Dr. Hetland. Chaplains at numerous colleges agree.

Although social-action projects capture much of the religion zeal of modern youth, some observers note a letdown in this thrust, partly out of frustration at slow gains, and a turning to more inner probing.

"Students are asking moral questions with at least the intensity of any time in the past century," said Leon Howell of the University Christian Movement which includes Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox youth.

But their attitudes are jolting church machinery. An upheaval was going on in the Southern Baptist youth department, where professional youth workers were complaining that old-time methods were not being changed fast enough.

Reorganization of the Lutheran Church in Africa's Youth Commission also was under way with plans to replace at least half of its older members with youths. Already, the first teenager has taken her place—Linda Sharpe, 16, of Haddonfield, N.J.

Catholicism's campus wing was also undergoing major overhaul. Once called "Newman Clubs," the campus units at non-Catholic schools now are simply called part of the "Newman Apostolate" to get away from the notion of a fun-and-games college club.

The Rev. John T. McDonough of Washington, D.C., national director of the Newman Apostolate, said the campus units no longer even keep registration lists.

"Students come and go as they see fit, according to whether they're interested in the particular project that's going on."

They'll show up for some special effort and then maybe you won't see them for a semester," he said.

"While there's a certain disenchantment with the church institution, young people today are far more serious minded and asking probing questions about fundamental truths."

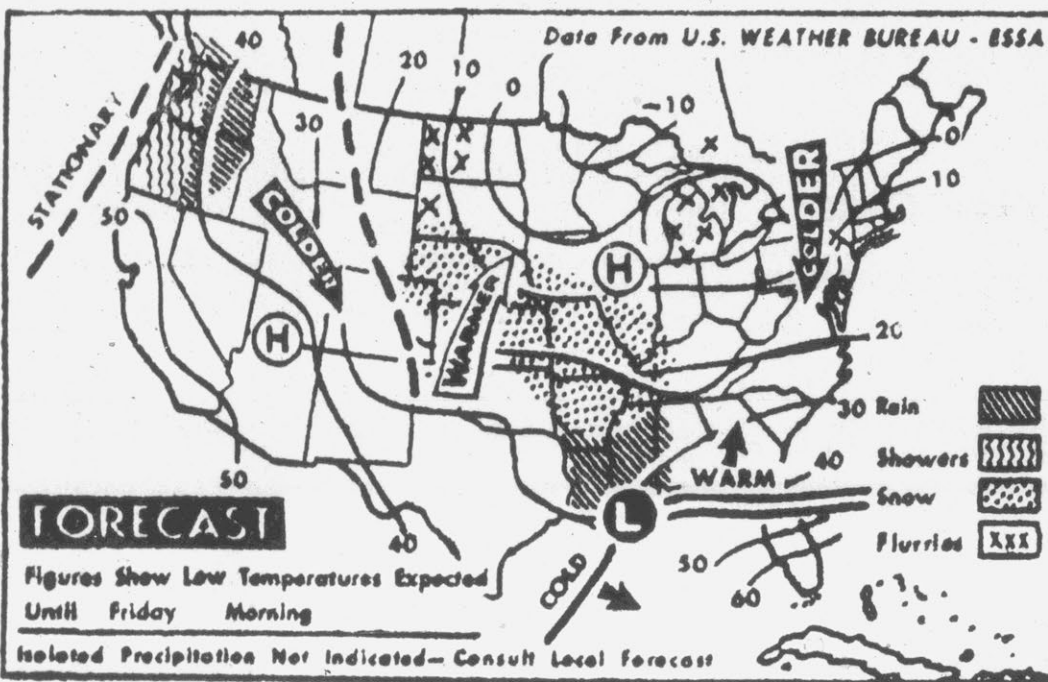

"They're facing reality—they're challenging, groping and using their freedom. The very fact that they're questioning is a healthy sign that they're on the road to a more mature kind of faith."

Losing 8 Votes Really Hurt

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lou Panos, Baltimore Evening Sun columnist, said it happened at a Real Estate Board luncheon.

An elected official was moaning to other guests about the death of eight of his constituents within one week.

"I didn't mind so much the $40 it cost me for flowers," he said. "What really hurt was I lost eight votes."

WEATHER FORECAST — Thursday night rain and showers will fall in the Pacific Northwest and in the central Gulf coast states. Snow will fall in a broad area stretching from Nebraska south of Arkansas with flurries in the Dakotas and around the Great Lakes. It will be colder along the Atlantic coast. (AP Wirephoto)

East Carolina Routs Washington & Lee, 100-73

District Tourney Moved From ECU

The District One, Class A Basketball tournament has been switched to Williamston again this year, according to tournament directors.

The tournament was held there last year when a swimming meet at East Carolina prevented the use of Christenberry Memorial Gym by the tournament.

This year, the three-man tournament committee decided that the Williamston gym was more suitably located for the purposes of the tournament. Involved are teams from the Tidewater, Beaufort-Hyde, Martin and Pitt County Conferences, covering an area from Greenville northward and eastward.

The committee felt that the distance each of the teams would have to travel would be more equal if the tournament were held in Williamston, rather than at East Carolina University.

The cost of running the tournament was also a factor involved. Rental of the Williams-ton gym was considerably less than at Christenberry, and a great deal less than getting the new Minges Coliseum.

The fact that the East Carolina gyms were also used for classes at the same time as the tournament was going on, creating more confusion also entered into the picture.

Some observers have felt that the move is a bad one, because of the smaller gymnasium, and the fact that it is a tile floor, instead of a wooden one, but apparently, a larger number of schools in the district play on tile than on wood, and it was felt that this would not be a great factor.

The tournament is slated for March 6, 7, 8, and 9. The winner will advance to the State Tournament in Durham the following week. Ayden of the Pitt County Conference is the defending champion, and has already qualified for this year's event.

South Ayden Beats Central

KINSTON—South Ayden High School vaulted into the finals of the District Two-AA tournament last night with a 66-51 victory over Central High School of Goldsboro.

The Eagles will now meet host school Woodington for the title on Friday night. The winner of that game will advance to the State Tournament.

South Ayden rushed away to a 17-7 lead in the first period and held a 34-19 margin at the half.

Central rallied in the third period and cut the lead back to 49-40, but the Eagles outscored them, 19-11, in the final period to claim the victory.

Battle led Central with 19 points, while Best had 11. Curtis Williams led South Ayden with 20, while James Lowry had 16 and William Harp had 10.

Eppes Advances With Win, 64-46

Eppes High School advanced to the District Tournament semi-finals with a 64-46 romp over Elizabeth City last night.

The Bulldogs will meet Kinston Adkin tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Kinston for the right to play in the finals on Saturday night. Rocky Mount and Wilson are playing to decide the other finals berth.

In the first period, Elizabeth City edged out into an 8-7 lead and then built up a 25-20 lead at the half, building up hopes of an upset.

But the Bulldogs came back strong after halftime and charged into the lead, holding a 44-33 lead at the end of the period. Then in the last frame, the Bulldogs outscored Elizabeth City, 20-13, to continue into the tournament semi-finals.

William Forbes led Eppes with 16 points, while Thomas Perkins dropped in 13. Lewis led Elizabeth City with 23 points.

Fete Passes 1,000 Mark

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
The way Pistol Pete Maravich has been popping them in this season maybe they should let him try to throw a basketball across the Rappahannock (or the Potomac) as legend has it George Washington did with a silver dollar.

The hot-shooting Louisiana State star, the nation's No. 1 scorer in college basketball, became the first sophomore to break the 1,000-point barrier in a single season by scoring 55 points in LSU's 99-92 victory over Tulane Wednesday night.

Pistol Pete delighted a home town turnout at Baton Rouge as he upped his scoring for the season to 1,039 points in 22 games. He has three games left to try for the major record of 1,209 points in one season set by Frank Selvy of Furman in 29 games in 1954.

Another soph star, Calvin Murphy of Niagara, threw in 50 points as the Purple Eagles whipped Buffalo at home 99-82, but once again the feat of the nation's No. 2 scorer was overshadowed by Pistol Pete.

Third-ranked North Carolina made it 19 in a row by defeating Maryland 83-60 and the unbeaten fourth-ranked Brown Indians of St. Bonaventure won their 20th straight by whipping Canisius 79-62.

Rusty Clark's 27 points paced North Carolina over Maryland at Chapel Hill. Bill Butler got the same total for St. Bonaventure and Bob Lanier grabbed 23 rebounds for the Bonnies as they whipped Canisius at Olean, N.Y.

St. Bonaventure, NCAA-tournament bound, and North Carolina were the only teams in The Associated Press Top Ten to play, but there was plenty of action among other tournament-bound teams and those still hopeful of a bid.

Dayton, hopeful of landing a bid to the NIT, made it seven in a row by routing the NCAA-bound Chicago Loyola Ramblers 91-75. Don May led the Flyers to their home court triumph with 33 points.

Florida beat NCAA-bound Florida State at home 89-64 and Temple toppled NIT-bound Fordham 80-70 in Philadelphia, in contrast three other NCAA-bound teams won.

St. John's of New York edged Providence 58-56 on the road on free throws by Dan Cornelius and John Warren in the closing minutes. Boston College won at home over Seton Hall 99-65

Carolina Whips Terps; Duke Takes On Deacons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's Duke's turn tonight.

North Carolina's third-ranked basketball team made its 19th straight victory one of its easiest, trampling the Terrapins of Maryland at home 83-60 Wednesday night.

That gave the Tar Heels an 11-0 Atlantic Coast Conference record and a 21-1 mark for the season. If they win at Virginia Saturday they will have clinched at least a tie for regular season first place honors.

Tonight Duke goes after its eighth straight, playing at Wake Forest a team it already has walloped twice this season. The Blue Devils hold second place in the conference with an 8-2 record and are 17-3 for all games. They rank No. 8 nationally.

One other game tonight sends Clemson of the ACC to Greenville, S. C., for a meeting with Furman of the Southern Conference, which two nights ago lost a two-pointer at home to South Carolina.

If North Carolina and Duke can keep their streaks alive they will set up a rousing regular season finale the afternoon of March 2 when they meet on the Duke court. North Carolina edged Duke 75-72 on the Tar Heel court early last month.

The conference championship tournament starts March 7 at Charlotte, N. C., and their March 2 game should furnish a line on what to expect in the tourney.

If they finish 1-2 they will be in opposite brackets of the tournament and could meet in the finals, unless South Carolina or N. C. State, two teams with title ambitions, scramble the picture.

Duke has run up over 100 points twice on Wake Forest this season, although only one of the games counts in the ACC standings. The other was the annual "extra" Christmas week game the teams play at Greensboro, N. C.

While Duke hasn't been beaten since losing to South Carolina Jan. 30, Wake Forest hasn't won since Jan. 8. The down-trodden Deacons have lost 10 in a row and are four games away from the school record string of 14.

Rusty Clark, North Carolina's 6-foot-11 center, scored 27 points and grabbed a school record 27 rebounds in the rout of Maryland. He had three more rebounds than the old mark, set by Billy Cunningham against Maryland in 1964. The ACC record is 36, by Dickie Hemric of Wake Forest against Clemson in 1955.

The Tar Heels shot only a so-so 37 per cent to 36 for Maryland, but had little trouble as they powered their way to a 50-32 halftime lead.

Thompson's 32 Points Lead Bucs To 8th Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The East Carolina University Pirates picked up their eighth victory of the season last night with a 100-73 romp over the Washington & Lee Generals, as Earl Thompson burned up the nets—again.

The victory for the Bucs made sure that their mark this year will top last year's, when the Pirates won only seven contests. And as of now, there are at least two games left.

Saturday, the Bucs will close out the regular season against Virginia Military Institute, in a game that could mean sixth place for the Pirates if they can come through with a win. The other game will be in the conference tournament opener next Thursday in Charlotte.

Thompson, who has come on strong in the closing ball games, dumped in 32 against the Generals, and was the dominating force in the game.

East Carolina never trailed in the game, and were only tied on three occasions. After the first half, the Bucs pulled slowly away, having little difficulty in handing the Generals their sixth loss against 17 victories.

Richard Kier put the Bucs on top in the opening seconds of the game, but Mel Cartwright tied it up for W&L. Jim Modlin, who started at the center position, put the Bucs back out 4-2, and after Jody Kline hit a free throw for the Generals, Thompson hit his first shot for a 6-3 lead. Cartwright, who had a fine first half, with 18 points, brought the Generals back to trail 6-5, and then finally tied it up for them at 9-0 and again at 11-11.

But right there, Thompson hit to push the Bucs back ahead and Modlin and Kier both followed with baskets to give the Pirates a 17-11 lead with 13:26 to play in the half.

A minute later, Tom Miller pushed the lead to 10 at 25-15, and Thompson followed with another for a 12-point spread. It stayed there for the next few minutes until Modlin connected to make it 37-23. Modlin hit again to push it to 16, but the Generals cut it back to 11 at 43-33 at the half.

In the second half, the Pirates moved out by 14 in the first minute, and after leading 48-36 minutes later, Modlin, Charlie Alford and Thompson both hit to make the lead 18 at 54-36 with 15:26 to play.

The lead finally hit 20 as Alford hit a three-pointer with 11:51 to go, at 65-45. Fred Campbell who had his finest game of the year, made the lead 22, and Robert Lindfelt pushed the lead to 24 at 75-51.

From there on out, with nine minutes to go, the only question was whether the Bucs would manage to break 100 for the third time this season.

On milestone was passed when Thompson hit to give the Bucs an 87-63 lead. That was the first time that any team has scored more than 85 points against Washington & Lee this year.

The Bucs passed 90 as Campbell hit a foul shot at 90-68 with 3:21 to play, and finally hit the century mark with 15 seconds left as Boy Lindfelt dropped in a rebound.

Besides Thompson's 32, Modlin had 15, Alford had 13, Kier had 12 and Campbell had 11.

For Washington & Lee, Cartwright finished with 28 points, while Mal Wesselink had 12, Mike Neer had 11 and Stu Fauber had 10.

The first hearing aids worked fine as long as you stayed put.

Alexander Graham Bell invented the electric hearing aid in 1902, but you couldn't carry it around. In fact, if you were a businessman, you had it built into your desk and plugged yourself in every morning. Union Carbide made the batteries for it. They weighed six pounds and took up as much space as a shoebox.

We've been making our batteries smaller and better ever since. And the people who make hearing aids have produced their own miniature miracles. So today you can put a hearing aid and its battery right inside your ear. Or have it built into the frame of your glasses.

The battery is smaller than a shirt button. And someday we'll make one that's smaller still. We're also working on making it last longer.

Union Carbide makes 800 different kinds of Eveready batteries, to power anything from iron lungs to electric toothbrushes. So hearing aid batteries are not the biggest part of our battery business. We hope they never will be.

Hooks Named To Head East Carolina Tourney

Dr. Edgar W. Hooks Jr., a 36 year old native of Fremont, and currently head of the Institutional Research at East Carolina University, has been named tournament director for the holiday basketball tournament scheduled next December 26-28 at Minges Coliseum.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Dr. Hooks has had widespread experience in sports, including participation on the collegiate level and coaching.

"I am very happy that Dr. Hooks has decided to accept the task of coordinating the overall program of our basketball tour-

Hooks, a former baseball captain at North Carolina, joined the staff of physical education at East Carolina in 1965 as a professor. Since 1966, he has been director of Institutional Research.

Besides the tournament itself, Hooks pointed out that tentative plans call for a beauty pageant in conjunction with the three days of basketball, and that there will be a three-day swimming meet featuring the top aquatic stars on the East Coast.

Besides East Carolina, teams in the tournament are William & Mary, Virginia, Virginia Tech, Baylor University, the

A jump shot in the closing seconds by Larry Sutton gave second-seeded Grifton a 28-26 win over last-place Belvoir-Falkland in last night's quarter-final round of the Pitt County Tournament.

Sutton's shot came with four seconds left, but the Eagles came close to sending it into overtime, as Kelly Witherington's 45-foot desperation shot rimmed the basket.

In other tournament action, Bethel's boys downed Chicod, 46-40, and Belvoir-Falkland's girls took a 29-26 win over Winterville.

The final contest, highlight of the tournament thus far, was close all the way. Belvoir used a deep-freeze and made the Bulldogs play their game.

After an initial surge, when the Bulldogs gained a 6-0 edge, neither team was able to lead by more than a basket.

Linwood Moore's six points paced Grifton to a 10-6 lead before Witherington hit a jumper from half-court at the first quarter buzzer.

David Nichols bucket tied it up with 7:50 left in the half. The Eagles got their first lead on Ricky Beaman's foul shot with 6:20 remaining.

Wachovia Wins In Ladies Loop

Wachovia Bank drew closer to the Ladies Basketball League title with a victory over Coca-Cola. In the other game, Azalea Mobile Homes won by forfeit over Pure Oil.

In the Wachovia game, the winners shot away to a 14-5 lead in the first quarter, and then built up a 27-16 margin by the end of the half. By the close of the third period, it was 37-16, and the final margin was 57-22.

Clara Langley led Wachovia with 17 points, while Kay Stockdale had 14 and Carol Pennell had 12. Gloria Clark led Coke with 10 points.

Wachovia leads the league with a 5-2 record, while Azalea is second at 4-3. Pure is 3-4 and Coke is 2-5.

team fought tooth-and-nail with the Bulldogs, emerging with a 19-18 halftime lead.

Grifton got a two-point lead on Moore's bucket early in the third period. Nichols tied it up for the Eagles, and Witherington scored to make it 23-21, Belvoir, with 2:30 left.

Belvoir continued to control the pace in the final period, and the Bulldogs were forced to foul. But the Eagles missed four foul shots in the fourth stanza, any one of which could have given Belvoir a three-point lead.

Nichols led Belvoir with 14 points, while Moore had 14 for Grifton.

In the first game, Bethel rallied to avoid upset by Chicod's Hornets.

The Indians jumped off to a 6-0 lead on the strength of a couple of baskets and a foul shot by Bobby Case and a free throw by Don Jenkins.

Then in the second quarter, the Hornets began to take control of the backboards, outbounding a taller Bethel team. Chicod surged into the lead at 9-8 on Sammy Wall's bucket with 5:40 to play in the half.

The lead changed hands a couple of times before two baskets by Case and another by Dunning gave the Indians a 16-13 edge. The Hornets tied it at 16-all, but Bethel got the half-time lead on Case's foul shot.

Bethel regained the rebounding edge in the third quarter, and the Indians took apparent control, leading by as much as five points on two occasions.

But a three-point play by Wall turned the tide, and with 41 seconds left, a jump shot by Randy Dixon gave the Hornets a 28-27 edge.

Dunning's layup with 26 seconds left returned the lead to the Indians.

The Indians put it out of reach on John Watson's bucket with 1:47 remaining, making the score 42-35.

Case led the winning Indians with 18.

Wall had 12 and Dixon scored 10 for the Hornets.

Belvoir-Falkland's girls survived an initial shock and went on to gain victory and a berth in the semi-finals.

The Wolverines got a 9-5 first quarter margin, despite a stocky Belvoir defense which forced some bad passes.

Winterville rolled up a 10-point lead on Sherry Corey's free throw which made it 17-7 with 1:41 left in the half. The Eagles cut the lead to seven by the end of the half.

Early in the third period, Diane Everette hit three straight long shots from the corner to cut the Winterville lead to one, and Judy Scott's basket sent Belvoir into the lead, 19-18.

After tying the score twice, Winterville regained the lead on Faye Everette's foul shot.

The Eaglette's went out by four early in the final period, but Winterville roared back to tie it up at 26-26 with 2:20 left in the game.

Miss Everette's set shot with 51 seconds left made it 28-26 Belvoir-Falkland. The Wolverines missed a shot with 30 seconds left. Then Debra Warren's free throw with 15 seconds remaining put it out of reach.

Miss Everette scored 12 to pace Belvoir.

Tonight's games pit Ayden's top-seeded girls against Grifton at 7:00. Then the Ayden boys meet Stokes at 8:30 for the right to compete in Saturday's final round.

Citadel Wins Over Indians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Furman coach Frank Selvy looks for at least a couple of interesting encounters when the Southern Conference champion basketball tournament opens next Thursday at Charlotte, N. C.

"It's really a scramble from the third to the sixth spot," says Selvy. "All of the teams after the first two seem to be equally matched and are capable of beating each other."

"It should be a very interesting round at Charlotte once the tournament opens. I believe this is the most balanced I've seen a lot of the teams."

The Paladins, who compiled a 6-6 conference record, now are sweating out their position with only two non-league games left to play.

Furman, 10-13 over-all, plays the first tonight at home against Clemson of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Tonight's only other game, also a non-conference affair, has George Washington, 4-18, meeting Georgetown, D.C.

Davidson's Wildcats, in the midst of clinching the top seed in the tournament, and The Citadel's Bulldogs scrambled the middle of the standings Wednesday night.

The Wildcats rolled over Richmond's Spiders 106-89, closing out the league season with a 9-1 record, and The Citadel trounced William and Mary's Indians 84-73. That leaves Virginia Military third at 8-6, The Citadel fourth at 6-5, Furman fifth, Richmond sixth at 7-8 and East Carolina seventh at 5-7.

William and Mary's defeat nailed the Indians to eighth place and a meeting with Davidson in the tournament's opening round. Doug Bridges with 23 points and Willie Taylor with 21 led the Bulldogs. Bob Sherwood had 22 for the Indians, who last were in the game at 38-38 in the second half.

Sophomore Mike Maloy scored 22 points and hauled down 19 rebounds as Davidson won its 43rd straight game in its home gym with a 45.7 per cent shooting performance. Wilton Ford had 27 points for Richmond.

West Virginia, with Bob Hummell and Dave Reaser scored 21 points each and Carey Bailey adding 19, whipped Pitt 87-76. East Carolina drubbed Washington and Lee 100-73 with 52.5 per cent accuracy as Earl Thompson fired in 32 points. Mel Cartwright had 28 for W&L.

Wage Increases Racing Faster Than Productivity

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — With wage increases now racing well ahead of growth in productivity, the inflationary fever of the American economy is being measured statistically as clearly as if a thermometer had been put to it.

As well publicized by the wage-price guideposts that existed during the first half of the 1960s, increases in wages and prices must be in relation to increases in productivity, or else somebody gets gyped.

In other words, unless the pie grows bigger through increases in productivity, no segment of the economy can cut a bigger slice without depriving its neighbor of his relative share. It's another story altogether.

though, if the recipes of government and business result in a bigger economic pie. Then business, labor and government all can take bigger slices without depriving each other at all.

The present recipe is gradually giving the economy indigestion, with the imbalance in the mixture generally conceded to be too much baking powder in the form of heavy federal spending. The country is getting sick.

Prices are rising. Wages are rising. But—productivity actually declined last month, and a recent Labor Department report showed that wage increases greatly exceeded increases in output per man-hour.

In the final quarter of 1967, the report showed, this output per man-hour in private industry rose at the rate of 2 per cent a year. This was a sharp increase, for the third quarter rate was less than one per cent.

However, compensation per man-hour jumped 4.8 per cent, and figures indicate that wage increases are now maintaining a pace well in excess of the growth in output.

This doesn't mean that labor is successfully taking part of the economic pie that belongs to industry, for industry seldom permits such things to happen for long. It, too, is seeking to retain its slice, or enlarge it, by raising prices.

This is a typical wage-price spiral, a tug of war, with each trying to maintain its share by grabbing from the other. It doesn't matter who starts it—labor or industry—but neither succeeds for very long. It's just a lot of motion. If industry tries to grab some of labor's share of the pie, labor just reaches over and takes some of industry's, or vice versa.

But what makes either step out of line to begin with? Greed or hunger sometimes. But, broadly speaking, they are forced out of line when demands made on the economy exceed its ability to produce. This pressure can come from any segment—consumer, labor, industry, military, for example. Right now it is generally agreed that heavy government spending is responsible.

If the federal government had the money to pay its big bills inflation might not result. But, the only way government can get this money is through a tax increase. This would give it the needed cash. And, simultaneously, it would reduce demand from other segments by depriving them of cash.

In the absence of a tax increase or big cuts in spending, government pressure is now bloating the economy out of shape. If it cannot pay for its needs then it dilutes the value of its money in a vain attempt to meet bills. Money then won't go as far as it used to, as labor and industry quickly realize.

Teachers Invited To Meet Dr. Chas. Keller

Pitt County history and English teachers will have an opportunity to discuss approaches to humanities in the high school at a meeting at Washington High School, February 26.

Dr. Charles R. Keller, nationally-known educator and educational consultant, will attend an informal social hour in the high school library from 3:45-5:00, on Monday.

The program is sponsored by the United States History Title III Project at Washington High School. Dr. Keller, consultant to the project, will visit Washington High School, February 26-March 1.

Mrs. LaRue Evans of Winterville, chairman of the school's History Department and director of the Title III program, describes Dr. Keller as "an educational consultant who is of national eminence."

She explained, "In 1965 he made one of the principal addresses at the NASSP Convention in Miami, Florida. Again in 1967 he made one of the principal addresses at the NASSP Convention in Dallas, Texas. An excerpt from that talk was recently published in the January issue of the N.E.A. Journal which reveals that he is a champion of the humanities—an area of study that is being encouraged by Dr. Vester Mulholland of the State Department of Public Instruction."

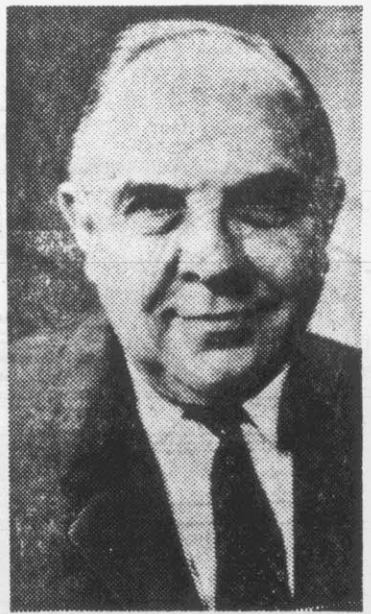

Mrs. Evans emphasized that teachers will have an opportunity to speak with Dr. Keller informally. Teachers are encouraged to bring their problems and questions to the meeting.

"It's very unusual to have a man of such national prominence in a North Carolina public school," she said.

No registration is required. Teachers are welcome to come in any time between 3:30-5:00. Any questions about the meeting should be directed to local principals and supervisors or Mrs. Evans, in Winterville.

Dr. Keller, a graduate of Yale, served Williams College for more than 25 years as teacher, scholar, administrator, and for nine years chairman of the Department of History. He was a prime mover in establishing the Advanced Placement Program and since 1958 served as director of the John Hay Fellows Program.

This Year's Award To Mike Nichols

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Directors Guild this week honored one of the most embarrassing faux pas in recent awards history. At the guild's banquet last year, Mike Nichols' name was the first mentioned as the award for best film direction of the year was being announced. He was up for his first movie, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" And he made a warm, emotional speech of acceptance. Then, to the embarrassment of everyone present and especially Nichols, it turned out that he was only one of five finalists. The final award went to Fred Zinnemann for "A Man for All Seasons."

This year's announcements were no better organized, but the winner turned out to be Mike Nichols for his second film, "The Graduate."

The director was in New York, where he just opened another hit play, "Plaza Suite." The producer of "The Graduate," Lawrence Turman, accepted for Nichols and said wryly, "You have already heard his speech last year."

The occurrence closely parallels another awards mishap that will Rogers perpetrated in 1933. In announcing the Oscar for best direction, Rogers cracked, "Come up and get it, Frank."

Eager young Frank Capra raced to the platform, then was forced to retreat. The award had been won by Frank Lloyd for "Cavalcade." But there was also a happy ending: Capra was the winner the following year for "It Happened One Night."

The victory of Mike Nichols for "The Graduate" automatically makes him the favorite in the Oscar race. In the 20-year history of the Directors Guild awards, they have inevitably coincided with the Academy Awards.

The guild dinner was noteworthy in providing honors for two industry giants who seldom appear at such affairs. Alfred Hitchcock was chosen for the D.W. Griffith award, which has been given only to eight others. It is remarkable that Hitchcock, despite his immense contribution to the literature of the screen, has never won a Directors Guild award—nor an Oscar.

Hitchcock appeared just as reticent and pink-cheeked as ever, but he was strangely restrained in his acceptance. He delivered his trade-mark "good even-ing," and there was laughter from those who remembered his macabre introductions to his television shows. Then he remarked only that he was "terribly, terribly grateful" for the honor, and he returned to his table.

Darryl F. Zanuck was more expansive. Wearing oversized dark glasses, he strode to the platform to accept from George Stevens his honorary membership in the guild, another rare award. He told of his pleasure in receiving the honor and admitted, "I have unquestionably butchered more films in the cutting room than any other producer that ever existed."

Obituaries

Newsome

Miss Barbara Ann Newsome of Stokes, RFD, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday. Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at St. John Baptist Church, Stokes, with the Rev. Moore officiating. Burial will follow in the Rose Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are her father, Fernando Newsome of the home; six sisters, Mrs. Annie Mayo, Mrs. Shirley Rawson, Mrs. Margaret Staton, all of the home, Mrs. Mary Wilson, Nellie and Martha Newsome, all of Patterson, N.J.; four brothers, James, Rufus, Johnnie and Chester Newsome, all of the home.

The body will remain at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home until the funeral hour.

Buck

Mr. Johnnie D. Buck, 56, died Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. Kenneth Moore, pastor of the Grimesland Christian Church. Burial will be in the Smith Family Cemetery.

Mr. Buck, a native of Pitt County, spent most of his life in the Chicod Community. He was employed by the State Highway Department until his retirement in 1966.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hulda Potter Buck, a son, Johnnie Gray Buck of New Bern; a daughter, Mrs. Buddy Nobles of Chocowinity; five grandchildren; two brothers, Thomas J. Cannon of Greenville and J. Willis Cannon of Chicod; and four sisters: Mrs. Leon F. Strickland and Mrs. Cedric Burroughs of Greenville, Mrs. Allen V. Hill of Kinston, and Mrs. Earl Barrow of Snow Hill.

Koroneos

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Herrs Koroneos, 40, were conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Thursday afternoon at 3:30 by her pastor, the Rev. Walter C. Huffman. Burial was in Pinewood Memorial Park. Mrs. Koroneos died suddenly at her home in Richmond, Virginia, Tuesday.

Mrs. Koroneos was a native of Greenville and attended the Greenville City Schools. She was a member of the Christ the King Lutheran Church in Richmond and had been living in Richmond for about four years.

Surviving are her husband, Andreas Koroneos; a son, Eric Koroneos of the home; her mother, Mrs. W. T. Harris of Greenville; five brothers: D.M. Silverthorne, Grover T. and Willie T. Harris Jr., all of Greenville, Herman W. Harris of St. Louis, Mo., and Horace R. Harris of Hampton, Virginia; and two sisters: Mrs. Aaron Keene of Tarboro and Mrs. W. R. Mosely of Greenville.

Windham

Mrs. Leonard Wilson Windham, 75, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Thursday morning. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Friday afternoon at 2:30 by her pastor, the Rev. W. J. Hadden Jr. Burial will be in Greenwald Cemetery.

Mrs. Windham, a native of Pitt County, spent most of her adult life in Greenville and attended the Greenville city schools. She was a member of Eighth Street Christian Church. Her husband, Andrew F. Windham, died in 1967.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Elsie W. Eagan of Greenville; two grandchildren, Dennis Eagan of Bloomington, Ind., and Miss Johnnie Simpson of the home; and a sister, Mrs. Eugene Cowan of Windsor.

In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the Pitt County Tuberculosis Association.

Couldn't Match Washington Feat

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — The Hagerstown Herald decided to test the legend of Washington's tossing a silver dollar across the Rappahannock.

Two young pitchers — Tom Elgin and Chris Raemer — were staked to $1.50 worth of Kennedy half dollars each and taken to the Potomac River at Williamsport, Md.

Elgin, who has just been signed by the Washington Senators, and Raemer, a star high school pitcher, made the attempt at a point where the Potomac is 600 feet wide.

That's narrower than the Rappahannock at Fredericksburg, Va., where Washington is supposed to have performed the feat as a boy.

Both pitchers succeeded in lofting the coins about 450 feet — but no farther.

ECU Handbook Editor Named

The East Carolina University Publications Board has selected Beverly Ruth Carawan of Greenville editor of The Key, student handbook which informs students of organizations, policies, and activities of the college. Dr. James H. Tucker, dean of student affairs, made the announcement.

Miss Carawan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Carawan, 1402 E. 10th St., is a sophomore political science major. She has worked on the East Carolinian newspaper staff as assistant news editor, 1966-'67; assistant features editor, 1967; and news editor, 1967-'68. She has sung with the women's chorus and is currently treasurer of the Young Republicans Club.

Other members of the 1968-'69 Key staff are David Culey of Crumpton, Md., Pat Berry of Clarkton, Cathy Mears of Engelhard, Bob Robinson of Garysburg, Beverly Jones of Princess Anne, Md., Florence Womack of Weldon and Ken Kelp of Annandale, Va.

Fla. Teachers Ignore Governor Plea To Return

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A third of Florida's public schools were closed today as nearly 40 per cent of the state's teaching corps scheduled more public meetings despite a personal plea from Gov. Claude Kirk for an immediate return to the classroom.

The Republican governor, who was censured by the Florida Education Association last fall for his stand on education spending, told the teachers he has no plans to call another special session of the legislature in the near future.

"There's no reason to go ahead and spend $17,000 a day until we see where we stand," Kirk said. The governor said he might consider a second special session if the Democratic-controlled legislature indicates its attitude has changed.

Life Sentence In Assault Case

RALEIGH (AP) — A life imprisonment sentence was given James Lee Primes, 21, a Negro from Raleigh, following his conviction Wednesday on a charge of raping a young white woman.

An all-white jury of nine men and three women found Primes guilty in the rape of 19-year-old Carolyn Wayne Daniels of Raleigh last Oct. 9. The jury recommended mercy.

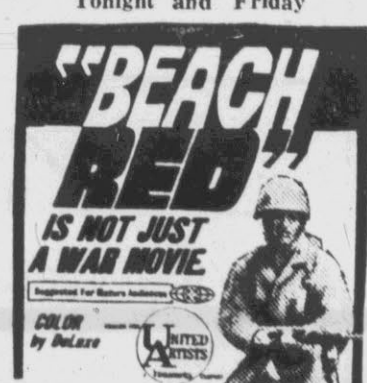

Primes, testifying in his own defense, said the girl had given her consent. Miss Daniels testified that she was threatened with death if she did not submit to him.

TICE DRIVE-IN THEATRE

ENDS TONIGHT

AT KIWANIS CLUB MEETING LAST NIGHT — Lawrence Patrick Houston, right, one of four full-time ministers serving East Carolina University, told members of the Kiwanis Club last night of the cooperative efforts of several religious denominations in attempting to minister to the needs of students on the ECU campus. Jack Stoughton, left, presented the speaker. Until two weeks ago, Rev. Houston was assistant rector at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Dynamite Theft May Be Linked To Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Working under President Johnson's personal order to clear up the case quickly, police and FBI agents probing a bomb explosion at the Soviet Embassy are exploring a possible link with a dynamite theft in nearby Virginia.

They said Wednesday night they had "several leads" on the case.

Eighteen sticks of dynamite and 50 blasting caps were reported stolen from a construction site in West Springfield, Va., a Washington suburb.

The theft was noticed Wednesday shortly after the predawn explosion shook the four-story embassy, just four blocks from the White House.

No one was hurt in the blast, but it did slight damage to a first-floor office and reception room, shattered windows in nearby buildings — and shook U.S.-Soviet relations.

Lurleen Wallace Is Hospitalized

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. Lurleen Wallace, who has been under treatment for a possible new recurrence of cancer, was taken to a hospital by ambulance early today.

Aides said a statement on the condition of the 41-year-old governor would be issued later in the day after her doctors completed their examination.

QUIET RETURN

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP) — Students quietly returned to classes today at Claflin College, closed along with South Carolina State College Feb. 9 after three young Negroes were killed in a clash with police.

State Flags Are In Big Demand

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Dan Moore's office is getting so many requests for North Carolina flags from Tar Heels in Vietnam that a special procedure has been set up to take care of them.

The governor replies to all letters and sends a 2x3-foot state flag. The flags cost $2.40 each, but they are sent free to servicemen.

The money comes from the governor's budget allocation.

Lawrence A. Watts Jr., general services director, is responsible for mailing the flags. He said since taking over the post last July he has mailed between 50 and 300.

A typical letter received is one from Sp. 4 Michael E. Putnam who wrote the governor, "I am a native of Cleveland County. I live in Shelby, N.C. Several of the people from our outfit have state flags and these Yankees are giving me a fit because I don't have one from North Carolina. Would it be possible for your office to send me one?"

Building Plant At Mount Olive

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Dan Moore announced today that Bolding Chair Co. of Siler City will construct a new plant at Mount Olive to manufacture desks, tables and other items of furniture for office, school and home.

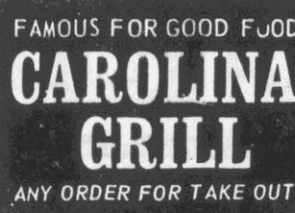

The company said construction contracts have been let for a 150,000 square-foot building and work is to start immediately.

When in full production, the plant is expected to employ 250 persons.

Two Tots Die In Burning House

GREENSBORO (AP) — Two-year-old John Wesley Harris and his 2-month-old cousin, Lou Edwards of Durham, died in a fire at a Greensboro residence Wednesday. Another child was hospitalized with burns and two other children were unhurt.

Juan Diaz de Solis, first European to explore South America's River Plate, was killed by Indians in 1516.

Thirteen Midshipmen At Annapolis Face Dismissal

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy says 13 midshipmen face dismissal on charges of smoking marijuana in their rooms in Bancroft Hall, the academy dormitory.

Rear Adm. Draper L. Kauffman, the superintendent, said Wednesday the dismissal recommendation would be made to Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius.

Acceptance of the recommendation by the secretary is generally considered a formality. It would be the largest group dismissed from the academy in its 123-year history.

The incident marked the second time in 10 months that midshipmen had been caught smoking marijuana in the dormitory that houses the 4,000-man brigade of midshipmen. Four were dismissed in a similar incident last June.

Kauffman said the current problem came to light after an unidentified midshipman reported that he "had seen several midshipmen who appeared to be smoking marijuana in a midshipman's room in Bancroft Hall."

A spokesman at the academy said the midshipman made his observation over the weekend and felt bound by the strict honor code to report to his superiors.

The academy said the Naval Investigative Service in Washington investigated the incident and would continue its probe to determine the source of the drug and stop its use.

Though the names of those involved were not released, the academy said they included 11 juniors, one sophomore and one freshman.

Smoking marijuana is a violation of academy regulations, U.S. Navy regulations and of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

A spokesman said the midshipmen involved would probably not face disciplinary action such as a court-martial but would simply be dismissed and become eligible for the draft.

Utility Pole Hit, Driver Charged

Danny Earl Buck, 18, of Route 2, Grimesland, was charged with careless and reckless driving following investigation of a 9:28 p.m. mishap yesterday on Milbrook Street near the Webb Street intersection.

Officers said the Buck auto collided with a utility pole, causing an estimated $400 damage to the car and about $200 damage to the pole.

Buck and a passenger in his auto were reported injured.
