

One Of Nurses Said Abducted Viet Cong Force Attack Hospital

By BARRY KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops seized a hospital run by an American woman doctor today, blew up the operating and X-ray rooms and fired indiscriminately into some of the wards, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

U.S. officers at Kontum said the doctor, Patricia Smith, of Seattle, Wash., two American nurses, a Danish nurse and a German nurse who work at the hospital were safe in a secure area in the city.

The hospital is on the outskirts of Kontum, a central highlands city 275 miles north of Saigon.

The officers said, however, that a second German nurse, a Montagnard nurse and a Montagnard worker were abducted. Montagnards are mountain tribesmen.

According to reports received by the American officers, mortar flashes were observed in the vicinity of the hospital about 1:15 a.m.

"The Viet Cong were using that area to fire mortars into the Kontum airstrip," one officer said, "None hit the airstrip, but they fell in the general vicinity."

"Later on, the Viet Cong entered the hospital and asked the patients where the Americans were living. The patients told them the Americans were living in the city at night."

Details were still sketchy. It was not immediately clear whether the Americans were in the city at the time or whether the Montagnard patients told the Viet Cong that to protect the staff. It is possible that Dr. Smith and the others were hiding somewhere on the hospital grounds.

Only Sunday, U.S. military officials in Kontum and Miss Smith had told a reporter that the Viet Cong would never attack the hospital because they knew the local Montagnard tribesmen depended on it.

During an attack by about four regiments of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers on Kontum in the midst of the Communist offensive a month ago, the hospital was not touched.

"The local force Viet Cong knew that if they touched Dr.

Smith or the nurses they would be in trouble," said Maj. Joel F. Thomas of Hollis, Okla.

"When the bullets were really flying I had a hard time finding safe places for all of the Montagnards," Miss Smith said Sunday of the offensive a month ago.

About 500 Montagnards are normally in the hospital compound, about 150 of them patients and the others outpatients and families of patients.

Dr. Smith is well known for her work with the Montagnards. Patients come from throughout South Vietnam's central highlands to seek free medical attention. She is widely respected by the Montagnards.

The hospital is supported by the Catholic Relief Services and by two groups formed in Seattle and Milwaukee to finance the work of the hospital. Milwaukee is the home of the two American nurses, Jean Platz and Joan Blonien.

Red Rockets And Mortars Pound Installations

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces sent hundreds of rockets and mortars slamming into allied air bases, command posts and other installations today and seized a hospital run by an American woman doctor. The shelling was the heaviest series in more than two weeks.

U.S. officers at Kontum said Viet Cong troops blew up the operating and X-ray rooms of the hospital and fired "indiscriminately" into some of the wards. One Montagnard tribesman patient was killed and four wounded.

The U.S. Command reported new action along the eastern end of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams. It said U.S. Marines and air cavalrymen killed nearly 300 Communist troops in a series of battles Sunday east of the Marine combat base at Khe Sanh. The enemy kept up its daily shelling of Khe Sanh.

But just nine miles north of Saigon, 200 Communist ambushers killed 48 American soldiers and wounded another 28, most of them in the first eight minutes of a machine-gun attack Saturday. The U.S. Command disclosed the attack Sunday.

U.S. pilots flew 68 missions against North Vietnam Sunday, many of them radar guided because of the overcasts of the continuing northeast monsoons. The major strike was an attack by Navy A6 Intruders from the carrier Enterprise on an 11-acre cargo transfer and storage complex on the Red River 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It was the second attack on that target in three days.

The major targets of the Communist shelling included six allied air bases, a U.S. Navy base, the base of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the 45th Infantry Division, the country's biggest oil tank farm just outside Saigon, a big Marine supply base and two Green Beret Special Forces camps.

In the shelling of the district town of Duc Duc just below Da Nang, Viet Cong mortars left 150 houses burned to the ground, 20 civilians dead and another 80 wounded, South Vietnamese headquarters said.

The attacks were the heaviest series of coordinated shelling since Feb. 19 when Communist forces hit with rockets and mortar shells in Saigon and 46 other cities and allied installations in their second wave attacks. The second wave followed the Communist biggest offensive of the war launched against 35 major South Vietnamese cities during the lunar new year Jan. 31.

The American Marines scored a one-sided victory along the eastern side of the demilitarized zone just to the northeast of the allied stronghold at Con Thine. The Marines reported killing 157 North Vietnamese soldiers in fighting that raged into Sunday night.

Early reports to the U.S. Command in Saigon said two Marines were killed and eight wounded.

On the outskirts of Hue, infantrymen of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division reported killing 78 enemy troops, while inside the battered old imperial capital the Marines said they killed another 25 of the enemy in scattered fighting.

It was the second time in three days allied forces in the northern sector claimed lopsided victories. In several clashes at both ends of the DMZ last Friday, allied troops reported killing more than 300 Communist soldiers while suffering only light casualties.

Smith or the nurses they would be in trouble," said Maj. Joel F. Thomas of Hollis, Okla.

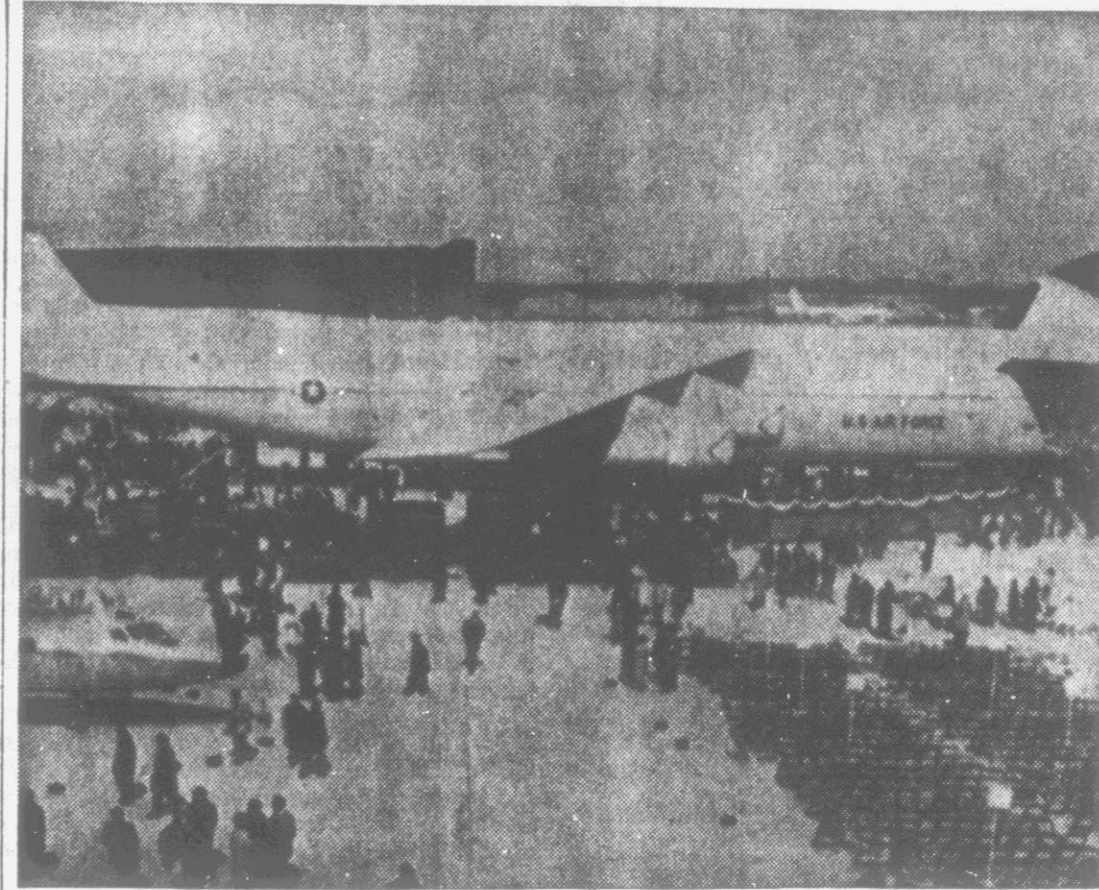

"When the bullets were really flying I had a hard time finding safe places for all of the Montagnards," Miss Smith said Sunday of the offensive a month ago.

About 500 Montagnards are normally in the hospital compound, about 150 of them patients and the others outpatients and families of patients.

Dr. Smith is well known for her work with the Montagnards. Patients come from throughout South Vietnam's central highlands to seek free medical attention. She is widely respected by the Montagnards.

The hospital is supported by the Catholic Relief Services and by two groups formed in Seattle and Milwaukee to finance the work of the hospital. Milwaukee is the home of the two American nurses, Jean Platz and Joan Blonien.

Sky Giant Rolls Out Of Its Hangar

CLOSE INSPECTION OF HUGE PLANE — Spectators who attended Saturday's christening of the world's largest airplane, the C5A Galaxy, gather around for a close look after it was rolled from its hangar of the Lockheed-Georgia Co. at Marietta, Ga. The plane is 246 feet long with a wing span of 223 feet and a tail that stands 65 feet off the ground. It can carry 350 fully-equipped troops, or the 264,000 pounds of trucks, tanks and jeeps under wing of the plane. (AP Wirephoto)

Soviet Space Probe Goal Undisclosed

MOSCOW (AP) — A new Soviet rocket hurtled through space today amid speculation that it might be trying to make the first round trip orbiting the moon before it returns to the earth.

The Soviet government said the probing rocket was on a course to "outlying regions of near-earth space." The phrase "near-earth space" has been used in past announcements to mean the region of the moon.

The new rocket was launched Saturday and, if it is heading for the moon, should arrive there Tuesday or Wednesday. The trip usually takes 3 1/2 days.

A brief Soviet announcement Sunday said the Zond 4-zond means probe-rocket ship was an "automatic station" and part of its mission was to "improve new systems and units aboard the station." It did not say what the systems and units were, nor did it give the size or weight of the craft.

A reference to the ship's being put on a flight path "from the parking orbit of an artificial satellite" suggested powerful rockets were used, and that part of the original craft remained behind, possibly still orbiting earth.

Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky said in Budapest a week ago that Russia was likely to send a number of rockets around the moon and bring them back to earth before sending men to the moon.

Broughton Eyes Inlet's Shoaling

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Mel Broughton Jr. says measures should be taken quickly to repair the shoaling of Oregon Inlet on the Outer Banks.

Broughton said in a statement Sunday the shoaling could pollute the coastal sounds and hurt sports and commercial fishing and the tourist industry.

A recent Atlantic storm caused shoaling and partial blocking of the inlet. The Dare County Board of Commissioners has asked Gov. Dan Moore to declare an emergency at Oregon Inlet so federal funds can be sought for repairs.

Platform Planks Adopted By GOP

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Republicans favor giving the governor veto power, weeding out public welfare rolls, and returning 15 per cent of the state sales tax to counties to build schools.

These were among planks in the party platform adopted at the closing session of the state convention Saturday.

The platform was adopted without discussion. But a brief floor battle over the adoption of three controversial resolutions marred the Republican goal of presenting a united front despite a hot campaign for the gubernatorial nomination.

The delegates reelected Jim Holshouser of Boone as state party chairman in a session that ran hours longer than had been schedules.

They also:

- Applauded calls by gubernatorial candidates Jim Gardner and Jack Stickley for party unity.
- Named four at-large delegates to the Republican National Convention. Holshouser, National Committeeman J. Ed Broyhill of Lenoir and National Committeewoman Mrs. Louis Rogers of Charlotte were reelected without opposition. Mrs. A. E. Verbyla of Lenoir was reelected vice chairman over Mrs. Aubrey Bray of Raleigh.

Another Vote On Rights Bill Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said if the Senate refuses today to cut off debate on its civil rights bill, only something unusual would keep him from moving to put the bill aside.

The vote set for today is to invoke cloture, or end debate, on the administration's civil rights bill with its controversial opening provision.

Mansfield told newsmen his decision would not rest on how close the bill's supporters come to getting the necessary two-thirds majority to end the debate that now is in its 7th week.

"On this issue, either you win or lose," he said.

The compromise bill combines open housing with federal protection against the use of violence to interfere with the exercise of civil rights.

Mansfield indicated that, if cloture failed for a fourth time, he felt it would be futile to continue the debate "as far as this particular combination is concerned."

But he said that "if something unusual comes up, I'd give it consideration." However, he said he knows of no further compromise moves.

Pitt Votes To Accept Federal Sum For Airport

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners this morning voted to accept a $20,500 grant from the federal government to help fund improvements at Pitt-Greenville Airport.

The grant, approved some time ago, will be matched by funds from the county and city. Improvements to be made include installing lights on the primary 5,000 foot runway, erecting a lighted wind cone, replacing the present rotating beacon with a larger one and installing direction signs for taxing aircraft.

Bids have already been received for the projects and tracts awarded.

Commissioners also approved letting of contracts to low bidders for installation of hot air heating units at the Pitt County Mental Health Center.

The low bid, $1,725 with an additional $100 allowance for old equipment, was submitted by General Heating of Greenville. Other bids included $1,851.50 from Sam Pollard of Greenville and $1,950 from Kingston Plumbing and Heating Co.

The installation includes two oil-fired hot air furnaces for the building.

Two three-mile fire districts were approved by the commissioners, one for the Pacolus area and the other for Simpson.

The approval of the districts will mean a fire insurance rate reduction of from 11 to 33 per cent for persons living within three road miles of the stations in those communities.

County Fire Marshal Michael Worthington reported to the commissioners that installation of the county-wide fire alarm radio system will be completed this week and should be placed in full operation within about three weeks.

Board members re-appointed Curtis Cavalier to the Mid-East Economic Development Commission and approved the payment of $1,813 in architects fees to Dudley and Shoe Architects of Greenville for work on the courthouse remodeling and repair project.

The members of the county board also approved certificates of deposits placed in local banks during the month. They included $100,000 in First National Bank of Eastern North Carolina at 4.75 per cent for 30 days; $200,000 at 5 1/2 per cent for 20 days at Wachovia Bank and Trust Co.; $200,000 at 5 per cent for 90 days at Wachovia and $100,000 at 5 per cent for 60 days at Wachovia.

Sam Winchester, county extension chairman in his report to the commissioners, said that gross income figures from Pitt farmers for 1967 show an increase of 67 per cent over the gross figure for 1967.

He said Pitt farmers grossed $48.7 million as compared with the 29.1 million grossed in 1967.

Eight commodities, Winchester noted, brought in farmers more than $1 million in 1967, he said. They included: tobacco, $30 million; corn, $3.5 million; hogs, $3.5 million; eggs, $2.5 million; soybeans, $2 million; peanuts, $1.5 million; cattle, $1.2 million and cucumbers, $1.1 million.

Only two commodities made Pitt farmers more than $1 million in 1967, Winchester noted.

New Bern Attorney Files For Judgeship

NEW BERN — John H. Harmon of New Bern has filed as a candidate for one of the four judgeships in the newly created Third Judicial District of North Carolina.

JOHN HARMON
Harmon, 26-year-old native of Windsor, is a 1963 cum laude graduate of North Carolina College in Durham and a 1965 magna cum laude graduate of North Carolina College Law School.

branches of the government, first as a staff attorney with the Labor Department and then as assistant counsel for the House Committee on Education and Labor. He has also served a tour of duty with the United States Army.

Harmon is a member of the North Carolina State Bar, the Southeastern Bar Association, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity. He is attorney for the New Bern Civil Rights Committee, the SCLC and works in association with the Legal Defense Fund of the NAACP.

Harmon is the only Negro candidate running in the field with seven white candidates.

"For the past few years, I have noticed a tragic breakdown in law and order and respect for the same," Harmon said. "I think the failure is due to excess on the part of those sworn to administer and execute the law as attested by the Orangeburg, S.C., incident."

Harmon added, "If I am elected judge, I will strive to strike a balance between the interests of the public on one hand and the rights and privileges of the individual on the other hand. Equal justice under the law will be by guiding light."

Riot-Study Commission Joins Big-City Mayors In Urging Big Outlay

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders are joining big-city mayors in pressuring a cost-wary Congress to take prompt, multibillion-dollar steps toward solving the nation's racial crisis.

Four commission members and a half-dozen mayors appeared on nationwide radio-television broadcasts Sunday and urged what one mayor termed "an infusion of billions of dollars to correct" conditions that spawned last summer's riots.

The panel's landmark report became involved as well in the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Sen.

Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota cited it in a New Hampshire speech as he criticized the Johnson administration's priorities.

The commission made public during the weekend its 250,000-word analysis of last year's urban violence. Like the 12,000-word summary released two days earlier, the mammoth document was almost silent on how to meet the costs of the proposed programs, suggesting only that higher taxes may be necessary.

Key members of Congress, already caught in the fiscal crunch caused by the Vietnam war, are openly dubious about financing the commission's sweeping employment, education, housing and welfare programs.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee which must approve all money measures, said the panel's proposals could cost hundreds of billions of dollars. This, Mahon declared, makes them "wholly unrealistic."

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, vice chairman of the 11-member commission, acknowledged the recommendations "will be costly" to implement but said "the country has got to make up its mind, and the Congress must make up its mind, that the cost figure is relatively unimportant in terms of what we have to do in order to save this country from the possibility of chaos."

"Congress must lead and the country must push Congress," Lindsay said. "Both must happen and unless it happens we're in for trouble."

In a move to generate this public push, commission members plan scores of appearances across the nation in the months ahead.

After the panel approved the report, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told newsmen he and other members have committed themselves to traveling around the country "to give wide dissemination of our views and to do all we can for the implementation of the recommendations."

The gist of the commission's recommendations were disclosed in the summary report released Thursday night. The full report also included proposals for:

- Another hike in the federal minimum wage, which climbed to $1.60 an hour only last month.
- Broadening the 7 per cent investment credit to give industry a tax incentive to locate new plants in poverty areas and train unemployed slum residents.
- Starting a system of government income supplements for any person—employed or jobless—who exists on substandard income. The commission said this "would involve substantially greater federal expenditures than anything now contemplated in this country."

But unless steps are taken, the report warned there will be "a seriously greater probability of major disorders, worse, possibly, than those already experienced."

"If large-scale violence resulted," it said, "white retaliation would follow. This spiral could quite conceivably lead to a kind of urban apartheid with semi-martial law in many major cities, enforced residence of Negroes in segregated areas, and a drastic reduction in personal freedom of all Americans, particularly Negroes."

Lindsay put it this way: "The cost of inaction . . . will far outweigh the cost of taking positive realist action which the Congress has got to do."

While Lindsay was appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation" radio-television program, three other commission members were being interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers" and a half-dozen mayors were participating in NBC's "Meet the Press."

The commission chairman, Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, said one step the nation can take—"just treat people as people, forgetting the color of their skin"—will "not cost one cent" yet will "remove a lot of the anger and the frustration and the hate that exists."

Julie Hits The Campaign Trail For Her Father

By ANN BLACKMAN
 EXETER, N.H. AP) — For nearly three hours, Julie Nixon has been shaking hands with hundreds of strangers. Her cheek muscles strain from smiling. Her lips are dry. Her calves ache from standing, yet she remains poised and alert. Outwardly she seems to bubble. She is standing in a receiving line in a small basement room of the Exeter Inn in New Hampshire.

Hundreds of potential voters pass in front of her: a retired mill worker, middle-aged man on crutches, a short, wiry barber, an old lady with smeared eye-make-up who shakes her hand, then pats her cheek.

"Hello, it's nice to see you," Julie Nixon says for the 300th time that day, the 1,000 time that week.

She brushes her shoulder-length chestnut hair away from her face. She could turn around and watch her mother, her 21-year-old sister Tricia and herself on closed-circuit television, but she can't move out of line. She can't sit down or lean against the wall or shift her hips. She can't leave. She can't relax.

Here in New Hampshire 19-year-old Julie is representing her father, Richard Milhous Nixon, who wants to be president of the United States.

And because she wants her father's dream to come true, Julie Nixon is willing to go against her own nature and expose herself to the hazards and the limelight of a political campaign.

"I don't like the publicity and hate answering personal questions," she says, "but I'll do anything to help my father."

Tomorrow she'll be Julie Nixon, a shy sophomore at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. She'll be sitting in history classes, studying in the library, and taking her turn at waiting on dining room tables, a custom for all Smith girls. Some evenings, she will spend seven miles away at Amherst College with her fiancé, David Eisenhower, grandson of former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

But as much as she's like to, she doesn't lead a normal life and she's not a normal college sophomore.

Julie has grown up faster than most young women. And she's been more restricted. She can't even consider wearing a miniskirt. She doesn't voice publicly her opinions on sex, drugs, money and men—subjects all college girls discuss.

Yet, how does a girl react when she hears her father criticized? At the Exeter reception, did Julie hear the woman who said, "Well, they're nice girls, but their father will never win," or the lady in Laconia, who said, "Well, I'll shake his hand in February, but I'll be damned if I'll help him in March."

Does it bother her to hear her father called "Tricky Dick" or to see his picture on a billboard captioned: "Would you buy a used car from this man?"

Of course it bothers her, she says, and she's been hearing this since she was 12 years old when her father ran against John F. Kennedy for the 1960 presidency.

Sometimes, as Julie drives from Smith to a dozen New Hampshire towns and cities, she says she recalls last Christmas vacation when she spent three evenings with her father.

"What do you think, Julie?" he asked. "I know it will be harder on you and David if I run."

Julie says, "I knew he had to do it." She says she understands that undefinable drive which makes her father want to be president. In the end, she was the one in the family who most urged him to run.

Although she reacts quickly like her father, and is naturally curious, she is still a shy girl who has agreed to expose herself to politics.

Julie was too young to understand the issues involved in the 1960 campaign, but she's older now. She hopes that if her father wins the Republican nomination in Miami Beach next August, her own determination and stamina will have contributed to his success.

There's No Time Like The Present

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband passed away about four months ago and left me with two children, both in high school. His best friend (a bachelor) consoled me in my grief. I really don't know what I would have done without him. We lost our heads and now I am pregnant. I was told after my last child was born that I couldn't have any more, so I can't imagine how this happened.

Anyway, this friends says he loves me, but he doesn't think it would look good if we got married so soon after my husband's death. If I wait a full year, that will take me into next NOVEMBER, and the baby is due in SEPTEMBER, so what should I do! Please don't give me a moral lecture. I know how wrong this whole thing was, but it's too late now. Help me!

WIDOW IN TROUBLE: DEAR WIDOW: If this friend intends to marry you, the sooner, the better. It won't look "good" no matter what you do, but the longer you wait, the worse it will look.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who lives in a distant city. We've been close friends since our school days together.

Recently she wrote saying she would love to visit me. I would love to have her, but, Abby, I saw her briefly about four months ago and she had her five-year-old son along who was a holy terror. Either she cannot—or will not—control him. Worse, she won't let anyone else correct him.

If I tell her that she is welcome but to please leave her son at home, I'm afraid it would end our friendship. On the other hand, I just cannot see myself putting up with that child. What would be the best way to handle this!

PERPLEXED: DEAR PERPLEXED: I'm afraid you will have to put this friendship on ice until the five-year-old terror either outgrows his obnoxiousness or his mother can leave him home.

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable widow with many friends, married and single.

Being alone, I try to lead a busy, well-balanced life to break the monotony of being only with women, women, women.

Occasionally I have a lovely dinner party and invite my married friends. They always seem eager to accept and I am told I am a gracious hostess.

These people also entertain at evening parties which would be such a treat for me. But I am not invited. Instead I am invited to their afternoon luncheons with women only as a way of reciprocating.

Please print this. Perhaps these wives will recognize themselves and do something about it.

In furniture, as in fashions, the creators of the new frequently look back to the old for inspiration. Furniture designers, returning to the past, often select individual pieces of furniture that originally were produced to meet a specific need. If that need has past, they adapt the basic designs for use today. They strip away any folorol, eliminate gimmicks or features no longer required, perhaps interpret the design in a new material or color. This updating adds a goodly measure of eye appeal. It results in a useful, attractive piece with historic interest, too. In furniture, the custom touch is always effective. Visit us soon and see our fine furniture collection. Couple Exchange Vows Sunday

WILTON — The Banks Methodist Church here was the scene of the wedding of Nora Bragg Royals and William Anson Harrington on Sunday at 4:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Herman N. Ward Jr.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown Bragg Jr. of Rt. 2, Oxford, and Mr. and Mrs. William Lawson Harrington of Ayden.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Daisy M. Breedlove, organist, and Mrs. Paul Preddy, vocalist.

The church altar was decorated with blue cathedral candles, baskets of blue mixed flowers, mountain ferns and palms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal

Alone gown of mist blue satin with rounded neckline and a modified empire bodice which accented a front pleat falling to the floor. A chapel train and long fitted sleeves with button trim were also features of the gown.

Her veil was attached to a miniature blue satin pillbox. She carried a cascade of bridal roses and stephanotis centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Larry W. Ennis of Durham, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of peacock blue satin fashioned like that of the bride without the train.

Her short veil was attached to a bow of peacock blue satin. She carried a semi cascade of white roses, blue daisies and blue fuji mums tied with matching ribbons.

Mrs. Larry B. Bragg of Raleigh, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Sue Jenkins of Durham were bridesmaids. Their gowns, headpieces and bouquets were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Joseph and Robert Harrington of Ayden, brothers of the bridegroom, Larry B. Bragg of Raleigh, brother of the bride, Larry W. Ennis of Durham, brother-in-law of the bride, Tony Blackwell of Chapel Hill and James Persinger of Camden, S. C.

Paul Royals, son of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a two piece turquoise dress of linen knit with a matching hat and bone accessories. She wore white orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Wilton High School and attended Louisburg College. She is a secretary at Murdock Center, Butner.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden High School and East Carolina University. He received his Master's Degree in education from the University of North Carolina. He is a social worker at Murdock Center, Butner.

The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Oxford.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the social hall of the church.

Cheese and Crackers

Miniature Pecan Bourbon Cakes Beverage
MINIATURE PECAN BOURBON CAKES
1½ cups sifted regular flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup (¼ pound) butter
1 cup sugar
3 large eggs
½ cup (80 proof) bourbon
1 cup golden raisins, chopped fine
1-3rd cup finely-chopped candied orange rind
2 cups pecan halves, coarsely cut
On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and nutmeg. In a large mixing bowl cream the butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in the eggs, one at a time. Beat in sifted flour mixture alternately with bourbon, keeping batter smooth. Stir in raisins, orange rind and pecans.

Turn about ¼ cup batter into each of 8 well-greased individual loaf pans (1 cup capacity, 4½ by 2½ by 1½ inches). Bake at 350 degrees until a cake tester inserted in center comes out free of batter—about 35 minutes. With a small spatula, loosen sides of cakes; turn out on wire rack. If any bit of fruit mixture adheres to bottom of pans, remove with spatula and "plaster" back onto loaves. Cool thoroughly; wrap each cake in plastic wrap and store in a tightly covered tin box. For moist loaves that cut well, sprinkle with extra bourbon, and allow to mellow for a week before using.

His Wife Stays, His Beard Goes

LONDON (WNS) — Fireman Christopher Hyde successfully fought the entire fire department to establish his rights as a free citizen to wear a beard. Having won his case, he showed up for duty without the beard. "My missus told me that if the beard didn't go, she would," he explained.

New Registration Of Pitt Voters

Pitt County citizens have an important task to perform beginning late this month and the diligence with which each citizen shoulders that responsibility may have a great impact on the county for years to come.

The responsibility we speak of is getting one's name on the county's new registration books in order to be eligible to vote in the primaries in May.

This year Pitt County will have a complete new registration of voters for county, state and national elections. The old books will, in effect, be thrown away, and only those who register anew when the books open the latter part of this month will be eligible to vote.

From a practical standpoint, Pitt County does not at this moment have a single registered voter for county, state and national elections. When the

May primaries roll around, it will have as eligible voters only those people who see that their names get on the registration books in the prescribed period that starts a few weeks from now.

This will be the first completely new registration for Pitt County voters in more than two decades. That in itself will cause many long-registered voters to assume they do not have to register. But they are mistaken. Everyone has to register again in order to vote.

You can't run to your nearest polling place now and get your name on the new registration books. It will be a few weeks before the registration period begins. But it may be a good idea right now to mark April calendar to remind you of this important responsibility you have as a citizen of Pitt County.

Every citizen has the privilege and responsibility to participate in election of public officials. That responsibility includes taking time to register in order to be eligible to vote. This year, that applies to every citizen of Pitt County.

Thinning Ranks Of 'Experience'

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — Another incumbent legislator who was decided against seeking reelection this year is State Sen. Adrian L. Shuford Jr. of Conover, a Catawba County industrialist.

His decision further thins the ranks of experienced leadership in the legislature returning for the 1969 session. This has become particularly glaring in the 50 member Senate.

Shuford has been active in local and state political affairs for nearly 25 years and had served two terms in the State Senate. He cited "very personal and important business responsibilities" for deciding against running for reelection this year.

he will win two months from now. Broughton has been campaigning hard in the Piedmont counties lately and carrying the attack to Scott. He has criticized Scott for failing to be positive and specific on various issues.

"The people of North Carolina know from my record of service that I have been and I am today a man who says what he means and means what he says at all times," Broughton said.

He told supporters at a breakfast in Charlotte, "I don't think the people want a man who, while holding on to office, is out in the state seeking another." This, of course, was a pointed reference to the lieutenant governor but he did not mention Scott by name.

Scott In East

The latest polls of political sentiment show Broughton is gaining on Scott — but very slowly. Scott sources say the latest poll showed Broughton gained by only one percentage point during the last 60 days but they refused to reveal the exact division.

It is of interest too that Scott has been concentrating his campaign efforts in the eastern part of the state. The polls indicate that Broughton's major gains since his formal announcement have been in the eastern counties. Broughton forces feel they will carry many counties east of Raleigh and that Broughton's major effort should be in the Piedmont.

This explains why Broughton has been campaigning in the Piedmont and Scott has turned his attention to the East.

Vigorous Campaign

David Clark of Lincolnton, a former legislator and twice candidate for Congress, is Broughton's Western campaign manager. Clark feels the Broughton campaign in the Piedmont and West is going well and being pushed vigorously.

"We are organizing and getting support in each county," Clark says.

A Broughton-for-governor thrust was evident in Gaston County the other day. He met with local supporters for breakfast then went to mill gates and on handshaking tours across the county for the rest of the day.

Living Costs Join A Tide Of Dismal News

Among the bad news to come out of Washington recently was the report that living costs rose three tenths of one per cent in January.

This was the fourth month in a row that living cost had increased. And what is unsettling to the general public is the fact that the increases came where they hurt most. Grocery prices and doctors bills led the way in the inflationary trend.

The Labor Department which gathers the figures reported that grocery prices went up eight-tenths of a per cent. Food prices usually hold steady during January. Doctors and dentist fees, which are the fastest rising item anyway, went up another seventh-tenths of one per cent.

What the announcement did not say, but everybody knows, is that the increases will hit hardest those who can least afford it, the poverty stricken, who cannot increase their income, and the elderly, who are living on fixed retirement incomes.

Items Learned From The Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The biggest Leap Year problem the girls face isn't the reluctance of men to marry but the fact to go around. For every 100 marriageable young women, the Institute of Life Insurance estimates, there are only 91 marriageable young men.

Isn't this romantic? In Oklahoma City, the telephone company installed a "kissing lane" in front of its building. It's a parking space where employees can bid fond farewell to their spouses without tying up morning traffic.

Modern college graduates find it a bit difficult to settle down into a business routine. A survey found that two out of three change jobs within five years after leaving the campus.

Talk isn't cheap. It's so expensive that many businesses are cutting down the number of conferences of 10 executives cost $144 an hour or more—and quite often doesn't produce a single idea worth running up the flagpole to see if anyone salutes it.

Strength For Today

THOSE CHILDREN OF OURS

What kind of persons would you like your son or daughter to be when they grow up? First of all, you want them to be sincere. Again, you want them to have some variety of ambition. Good health is a legacy without which many of life's situations are dissipated. Above all of course, we want our children to live honest, decent, helpful lives.

And everyone can to some degree attain these bright and shining goals. There are people whose background is so bad that they seem almost hopeless—but the word "almost" needs to be emphasized, for life is never hopeless for anyone.

Think of the radiant hours during which parents regard the future of their children,

The old order changeth: Ohio once had more than 2,000 covered bridges. Only 212½ remain. The half-bridge is so counted because the other half is in Indiana.

or perhaps the dark hours wherein they turn over in their minds the apprehensions they have lost something come in to spoil the children's lives. But they let us always remember that the God of love and light has fashioned life in such a way that the chance of hope being fulfilled is greater than the chance of fear and apprehension gaining a devastating victory. Hope in life is justified both for ourselves and our loved ones. We all experience trial, and there is not a life across which sorrow does not at times cast its shadow. But how wonderful life is in spite of all this.

Let our thoughts and moods rise up to the stars as we think about our loved ones and dream of their futures. "God is light, and in Him is no darkness at all" (1 John 1:5).

Just Doing Unto Others

WASHINGTON — Montgomery Ward & Co. came under attack a few weeks ago for an insurance plan it had instituted for its charge account customers. The insurance automatically covers charge account bills up to $3,000 in case of the death of the person holding the account. The premiums are charged to the customer unless he specifically writes to the company and says he doesn't want it.

What annoyed many customers was that they were paying premiums on a life insurance policy they didn't ask for or know they had.

The only one who wasn't too bothered by the Montgomery Ward insurance ploy was my friend Spritzer, who loves to match wits with some of the largest corporations of this nation.

As soon as Spritzer heard that he was being charged for a life insurance policy he had neither applied for nor wanted, he wrote the powers at Montgomery Ward a letter:

Dear Sirs,
I understand you have taken out a life insurance policy just in case something happens to me before I make all the payments on my new washing machine. This is good thinking, as you never know when I'm going to pop off and you're going to be stuck with the bill. I think you're wise to worry about me particularly, since with all the aggravation my kids are giving me, I could have a heart attack any day.

But the thought occurred to me, when I heard about your insurance policy, that I had no protection in case something happened to Montgomery Ward & Co.

Rising War Budget

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The cost of President Johnson's expected decision to send more men and weapons to the Vietnam war will add as much as one-third to the present $30 billion annual Vietnam budget.

The immediate increase would be a good deal less than $10 billion, because Mr. Johnson is not expected to announce troop reinforcements of more than 50,000 at the outset.

But if, as most signs now indicate, the President holds to his resolve to do whatever is necessary to defeat the Communists, that initial reinforcement of perhaps 50,000 troops could be only the first addition to the 525,000 military manpower ceiling imposed on Gen. William Westmoreland, the U. S. commander, last fall.

No hard figures had been received by the White House from Gen. Westmoreland as of this writing, but there have been plenty of leaks from Saigon preparing the American people for a Presidential announcement on how the Administration plans to counter the Communists' powerful winter-spring offensive. Behind that announcement lies the most exhaustive reappraisal of the war since the President's July, 1965, decision to send the first large complement of U. S. ground troops.

For example, quite a part from the desperate need for massive ground reinforcements, emergency food shipments, and reconstruction of the cities, the President faces major tactical decisions involving delicate political risks in Southeast Asia.

New intelligence now coming into Washington indicates that the Communists are making far more use of infiltration roads from the Southern Cambodian port of Sihanoukville into South Vietnam than was thought possible only a few months ago. This funnel is pouring arms and supplies into South Vietnam all along the border, raising the critical possibility of U. S. naval action to stop it at its Cambodian entry point.

Further north in Laos, the Communist offensive along the Ho Chi Minh Trail now threatens two key provincial capitals, Saravann and Attapeu, which have never before come under direct Communist attack. This Communist side-show, largely overlooked in the shadow of the main event in South Vietnam, is extremely serious. If the towns are taken, two important obstacles to infiltration along the Ho Chi Minh trail will have disappeared.

President Johnson's counter-strategy to the winter-spring offensive of the Communists must make these critical developments into account.

But that is by no means the end of it. In large, remote areas of the Mekong delta Vietcong political cadres are now openly recruiting in the hamlets with virtually no interference from the local officials. With many of the regional and popular force companies — consisting of local peasantry loyal to the Saigon government — having now been pulled back into district and provincial capitals for defense against another wave of Communist attacks, these hamlets are defenseless.

Other Editors Saying More Library Support

(Greensboro Daily News)
The work of the Legislative Commission to Study Library Support is important to public service and education in North Carolina. Last week in Greensboro, at the first of its four regional meetings, the commission emphasized that money is the first need of all the state's public libraries and explored means for expanding financial support.

Commission chairman David Stick of Kitty Hawk said libraries throughout the state need $15 million to meet acceptable national standards. North Carolinians currently need about $5 million annually for libraries, and only $600,000 of that comes from state funds. Local communities provide most of the money, even though many people who use the libraries do not contribute through taxes. Librarian Neal Austin, for example, estimated that 75 per cent of High Point's regular borrowers live outside the tax area.

Not surprisingly, much of the commission's meeting concerned increasing state support for local libraries. Many maintain that libraries, like schools, should receive essential services and personnel from the state with supplements from cities and counties. An additional one per cent statewide sales tax to be returned to local libraries was one suggested source of revenue.

Other suggestions included new efforts to secure federal funds and gifts for libraries from the state's private foundations. These and other proposals undoubtedly will be discussed by the commission in future meetings, and plans will be presented to the next General Assembly. The Greensboro Public Library has demonstrated that community service increases with library expansion; if such service is to grow across the state the meetings and recommendations of the Legislative Commission must be the concern of all North Carolinians.

Not surprisingly, much of

I'm not wishing you any worse luck than you're wishing me, but through the years I notice that Montgomery Ward has had some very big ups and downs and I've started to get a little nervous about what would happen to my washing machine, if, God forbid, Montgomery Ward should have a heart attack.

I'm sure it couldn't be because I know that at the moment you're in excellent health, but as business people you must understand I have to prepare for the worst.

If something happened to you, I couldn't very well go to Sears Roebuck and say, "Hey, would you come out and fix my washing machine?" any more than you could say to my loved ones, "Sorry about Spritzer passing away, but he still owes us money on his appliance."

So I have decided to do the only honorable thing and take out an insurance policy to protect me from Montgomery Ward going out of business.

ings and loan associations declined $199 million in January. Most of it, observers think, went into the stock market.

There will be considerably more talk about wage and price curbs, and it will increase with every new strike threat. But nothing will be done this year, not in an election year.

Railroads will press for another rate increase, this time covering practically all commodities. The increase they gained last year has already gone for wage increases and other rises in cost. Details of their new petitions to the Interstate Commerce Commission will probably be disclosed this month.

Other Look-Aheads
Here are other glimpses into the future:
Almost every year some new promotable product buoys the appliance industry. Remember electric fry pans, pressure cookers, electric broilers? This year it may be microwave cooking. The entrance of RCA, which may know something, into the field may be the signal. RCA is producing a new electronic tube at $60 and offers manufacturers help in designing electronic ovens. General Electric, Raytheon, Litton, Bowmer and Ampere already have tubes. Most are more expensive.

While chocolate drinks, except from freshly spun malteds, have never been runaway successes, Hershey is now testing a new chocolate milk drink in easy-open cans in Cleveland, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Detroit. Hershey's new chocolate-coated nut roll, "Rally," appears to be a hit in test markets and may soon go national. This may lead to Hershey's first big consumer advertising campaign.

ness. You, of course, will have to pay the premium on it, as I'm taking the big risk by owning one of your appliances. But in order to save you the time and trouble of paying on the policy I will deduct the premium from my payments on the washing machine.

Unless I hear from you to the contrary, this insurance policy goes into effect immediately. As long as Montgomery Ward remains in good health, you have nothing to worry about. But if something comes up, and believe me, I'm not predicting trouble, you can rest easy in the knowledge that there will be enough money left over from your estate to take care of my washing machine.

Please understand there is nothing personal in this and I wish Montgomery Ward a long and happy life, but let's face it, all our destinies are still dependent on that "great retailer in the sky."

Workshop Sessions For Area Churches

Two Greenville area churches, the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church and the St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church, are featuring internationally-known Sunday School leaders in workshops on March 3-5 and 6-8, respectively. The Rev. Karl W. Bunkley, General President of the Sunday School Department of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, and Mrs. Lois W. Bunkley, editor of Primary Department literature for Advocate Press, will lead the workshops. The Bunkleys make their headquarters at Franklin Springs, Ga.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bunkley are workshop leaders of the National Sunday School Association's annual conventions which attract Christian education leaders from all areas of the United States and Canada. They have recently returned from a mission which took them around the world in the Fall months of 1967.

Since 1957 the Rev. Mr. Bunkley has served his denomination as General President of the Sunday School Department. He is a member of the executive secretaries commission of the National Sunday School Association of Wheaton, Illinois.

The Rev. Mr. Bunkley preached Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Black Jack Church, of which the Rev. R. Marshall Stewart is pastor. The Bunkleys are conducting workshops at this church Sunday, today and Tuesday evenings of the coming week.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings, at St. Paul P. H. Church, the Bunkleys will lead the workshop. The Rev. King E. White, pastor, says the sessions at his church will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

A Marker Is Only Remembrance Of Plank Road

By DWAYNE E. HOLLAND
The historic marker on Dickinson Avenue is the only remembrance of one of North Carolina's most historic treasures. The Greenville - Raleigh plank road is forgotten, but it was the first road in Pitt County.

The plank road of Greenville was one of the roads built during the Ante-Bellum period of North Carolina because of their economy and ease of construction. Transportation in North Carolina in the middle 1800s was almost impossible. Dirt roads filled with mud, rivers flooded, and lives were lost in the seem-ly simple matter of moving from one place to another. Plank roads, made of earth and wood, were the answer. The first plank roads radiated from Fayetteville and Wilmington. The third plank road built was from Greenville to Wilson.

The Greenville - Raleigh plank road was the third commissioned. Eighty more roads were to follow, but none could rival the Greenville road in profits or dates of completion. The determining factor in the sale of naval stores (turpentine, etc.) was the establishment of cheap, efficient roads for the transporting of goods to market from Greenville.

The road was built by the Greenville and Raleigh Plank Road which was commissioned Dec. 25, 1850 at the 1850 session of the North Carolina Congress. As soon as subscriptions for share in the road had been sold, the company organized. Alfred Moye of Greenville was elected president and construction began in Feb. 1851.

The sale of shares in the plank road was mainly to men interested in community welfare and those seeking financial investment which promised profitable dividends. However, many shares were sold to farmers along the road for their purpose of transporting crops on the road.

The North Carolina History Review said the Greenville-Raleigh plank road was the fastest built road in history. It had "six miles next to Greenville ready for tolls by March, 1852." A year later, March, 1853, the road was in successful operation from Greenville to Wilson.

It was not extended to Raleigh as Raleigh was interested in the North Carolina Railroad's proposal to build lines south. The success of the road to Wilson, however, was great. The Tarboro Southerner reported on March 26, 1853, the road was in "successful operation as far as Wilson, and is productive of greater benefits to the section of country through which it passes, than originally anticipated."

Provisions of the charter gave the plank road certain rules. The company could start collecting tolls after five miles of road were completed. The profits from the tolls collected, however, could not exceed 20 per cent of the capital of the company in any one year. This was to keep the president and directors from taking advantage of the farmers using the plank road.

The charter said that the road could not "be less than eight feet nor more than 60 feet wide" and that toll gates could not take more than two acres of land.

The tolls for passage on the plank road were a half cent per mile for a man on horseback; one cent for a one-horse team; two cents for a two-horse team; three cents for a three-horse team; and four cents for a six-horse team.

Toll houses were located about 10 miles apart and kept by an employee of the company for a salary of $150 per year. The toll houses were placed so passage around them was difficult, but many travelers tried to get out paying the toll. To stop this escaping of toll the 1852 session of the North Carolina State Senate passed an amendment to the original charter setting punishment for evasion of tolls.

The amendment to the original charter read that if a traveler should try to evade toll, "he or they shall be liable to a fine $5.00, if a white person, and if a slave or free person of color, to be whipped not to exceed 20 lashes and the said fine to be recovered."

Tolls on the bridges of the road were $1 if the traveler had not traveled five miles, 50 cents if he had traveled five miles.

The construction of the road was done by two "gangs of 15-20 men." The foreman got $1 per day and the hands got 60-70 cents. Two dollars per day were paid for teams of two horses including the driver. The cost of construction of the Greenville plank road was about $1,500 per mile.

The road was surveyed, graded and allowed to settle for two days. Then heavy sills of sleepers of pine were placed end to end, on the ground to form a foundation for the planks. These sills cost about $3 per 1,000 feet. The planks were of heart pine, eight feet long, nine inches wide, and three inches thick. They were laid directly across the sills at right angles to the line of the road. The plank road was eight feet wide.

After the sills were filled with dirt and the planks were in place, the "sanding process" began. Robert B. Starling said in the North Carolina Historical Review, the advantage of this process was that under the pressure of the wheels and the tramp of horses, into the plank, and made the road more durable." Necessary culverts and ditches were then made to provide for proper drainage on the road. "Trunouts" of wider road were provided for rest and passing slower traffic at regular intervals along the road.

It was estimated in 1851 that the plank road would last for five to seven years before serious repairs were needed and that within ten years the entire flooring would have to be replaced.

The high cost of repair and reconstruction was the doom of the Greenville-Wilson plank road. The turmoil of the Civil War, railroad competition and the increase in the price of lumber and labor caused the plank road to fall into an ill state of repair. The Greenville - Wilson plank road was discontinued in 1860 and a new mercantized highway built.

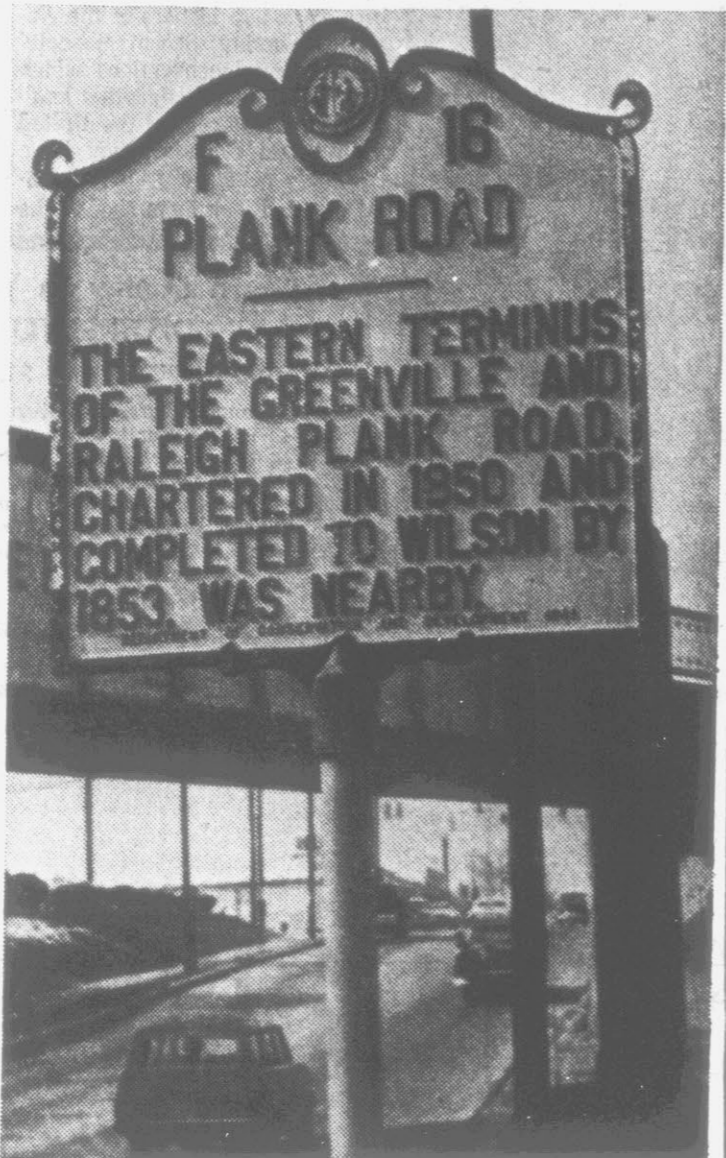

The new highway brought blessings, but the rind of wood, the "farmer's railroad," had done its work in a time when it was most needed.

Predicts N.C. Teachers Might Become Unionized

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislator held in the state to explain the tentative sanctions policy. The conferences will end March 14.

Tart said he sees this as a "drive for power to adopt a policy on sanctions which will bring about an either-or approach to the General Assembly and the local school boards to meet conditions demanded by the NCEA or face the closing of every school door in North Carolina."

Rep. C. Graham Tart of Sampson County, a Clinton high school teacher and member of the NCEA board of directors, said in an interview Sunday the NCEA "may well become in reality a federation—an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers—with final authority at the top."

Tart said he is "concerned that it could lead to a union shop and increased dues, collected by a check-off system."

He noted that recent developments include the drafting of a tentative NCEA policy on teacher sanctions and the installation of a new extension course in the University of North Carolina school of education dealing with "professional negotiations."

Belvoir-Falkland JVs Undefeated

WINTERVILLE — Belvoir-Falkland's junior varsity claimed a 54-48 victory over Bethel in the tournament finals played here Friday.

For the junior Eagles, it was the 18th straight victory, an undefeated season. According to available reports, it was the first championship ever for a Belvoir boys' team.

Bethel took an early lead and increased the margin to 13-10 by the end of the first quarter. Then Belvoir outscored the Indians, 24-23, in the second quarter to cut the halftime margin to two points.

Belvoir outscored Bethel 17-13 in the third period to go into the lead, as William Shriver hit for 10 points.

Shriver had 21 for Belvoir, while Tommy Tyner scored 13 and L. D. Casper had 16.

Bland had 17 to lead Bethel, while Highsmith had 16. Belvoir reached the finals by virtue of a 51-29 win over Ayden.

In two previous games with Bethel, the Eagles got 44-31 and 54-53 victories.

Indians 'Massacre' SC Track Rivals

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — It was Custer's Last Stand all over again for Southern Conference track teams Saturday night in the VMI Fieldhouse. There was another Indian massacre — and this one was the worst of all.

For a third straight year, William and Mary's Indians made the SC indoor championships their private reservation, stacking up 94½ points — by far the highest in the modern history of the meet.

Showing rare strength in depth, the Indians won eight of the nine foot races, set three meet records, equaled two more and outpointed their three closest pursuers combined.

W&M scored 65½ points in the running events alone, finishing 1-2-3-5 in the 330-yard run, 1-3-5 in the 600, 1-2 in the mile, 1-4 in the 880 and 1-4 in the 60-yard dash.

Host VMI failed to win an event for the first time in memory but was second with 33 points. Richmond had 29½; East Carolina 27; Furman, 19; West Virginia, 14; The Citadel, 7, and Davidson, 2.

Meet records set by W&M included Terry Donnelly's 4:12.4 mile; Juris Luzins' 1:54.8 in the 880; and a 3:24.2 mile relay by Bill Findler, Phil Dillard, Dave Watson and Fred Anspach.

Furman set two records, Dan Tyson clearing 15 feet, 9½ inches in the pole vault and Kim Piersol leaping 48-10 in the triple jump.

Records were tied by W&M's Findler, with a 35.6 - second time in the 330; W&M's Doug Griffith, with a 6.8 low hurdles; and West Virginia's Carl Hatfield, with a 9:13.7 two mile.

Griffith was the only double winner in the meet, preceding his low hurdles triumph with a 7.5-second victory in the 60-yard high. In nonrecord performances, W&M winners were Mike Fratkin in the 60-yard dash, Watson in the 600 and Bruce Dallas in the high jump. East Carolina had two winners—Ed Whyte in the long jump, Dennis Moody in the shot put.

The heralded two-mile race between Hatfield and Donnelly proved no contest, perhaps because Donnelly already had run in the mile. Hatfield, equaling his own meet record, beat the W&M ace by a full 85 yards.

Same Old Story: Title For Terps

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — For the 14th time in 15 years Maryland's Terps are champions of the Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games.

Coach Jim Kehoe's track team, unbeaten in dual meet competition in six years, scored a record 106 points to win the ACC title again Saturday night. Five conference records were set.

"We've got excellent depth and balance," said Kehoe. "This is a gratifying victory. We had several good, solid performers in every event."

North Carolina finished second with 32 points. Duke was third with 20 while South Carolina had 12, N. C. State 10, Virginia 8 and Clemson 4.

North Carolina's Mike Williams won the feature mile run for the third straight year and set a record of 4:11.6. The old mark of 4:12.5 was set in 1958 by Maryland's Burr Grim and tied in 1959 by Billy Latham of South Carolina.

This May Be SC Year In NCAA Tournament

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — This may be the year the Southern Conference representative in the NCAA Basketball Tournament sticks around for more than one game.

After his Davidson team humbled West Virginia 87-70 to win the league crown Saturday night and gain an NCAA eastern regional spot against St. John's of New York at College Park, Md., next Saturday afternoon, Coach Lefty Driesell called it "my best team in eight years at Davidson."

He added this note, "I'm glad we're going to get our chance nationally. I hope we can win for the Southern Conference, which hasn't done too well lately."

He's so right in that observation. Since the Atlantic Coast Conference was formed, leaving the old members to continue in the Southern, the league has won nine NCAA games while losing 15. Ten times in 14 years the Southern team was eliminated in the first game.

The Southern's top season in all those years was in 1959 when Jerry West led West Virginia to the national championship game, which the Mountaineers lost to California 71-70.

But you can take it from Bucky Waters, who saw his West Virginia team soundly trounced by a Davidson team that starts three sophomores and two juniors, that this team should give a good account of itself. "If they continue to play like that, they're going to be playing a long time," Waters said in a post-game tribute to the Wildcats, winners of 12 straight and 22-4 for the season.

Waters continued, "Everything we tried to do they made wrong with their great physical strength, talent and depth. Nothing less than a super performance would have beaten them. They have as many talented people as any team in the country."

"They were fresh and crisp after two easy victories and came out running."

Mike Maloy, a 6-foot-6, 200-pound sophomore from Queens, N. Y., ignited Davidson's finals blast with a 23-point, 19-rebound effort. It gave him a tournament total of 47 points and 40 rebounds in three games and the Most Outstanding Player award in a vote of newsmen.

Davidson charged from behind with a five-minute burst of 13 straight points to take a 19-7 lead that grew to 47-24 at the half. At the intermission Maloy had 14 points and 13 rebounds as was the game's dominant figure with his great play under the boards.

But the other Wildcats played major roles in the rout of a team that has become the chief conference rival of Davidson in its surge to prominence under Driesell after years of being an also-ran.

There was Doug Cook, a 220-pound sophomore, who scored 14 points; Jerry Kroll, another first-year varsity man, who had 12; and the two junior guards, Dave Moser and Wayne Huckel, who each had 11.

Moser stopped Mountaineer ace Ron Williams with 12 points in addition to his offensive contribution, which included five assists.

Capt. Rod Knowles, a 6-foot-9, 220-pounder, who has become a star No. 6 man since losing his starting job in the midseason, came off the bench to deliver 11 points and grab six rebounds in 12 minutes.

Davidson shot 54.3 per cent, its "poorest" shooting of the tournament in which the team outscored William and Mary, Furman and West Virginia by 72 points and had few uneasy moments.

Sophomore Bob Hummel scored 17 points to lead West Virginia, which shot 40.8 per cent after a 30 per cent first half.

Twice in the second half Davidson led by 28 points before a late flurry of Mountaineer points made it a bit more respectable.

A finals crowd of 11,200 brought the four-session total to 33,176. In five years at Charlotte the tournament has drawn over 178,000.

Duke, UNC In Opposite ACC Tourney Brackets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nationally ranked North Carolina and Duke have been paired in opposite brackets of the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament, which opens Thursday in the Charlotte, N.C., Coliseum. This makes possible a rematch in Saturday's final of these two rivals, who last Saturday played three overtimes before Duke won 87-86.

The North Carolina Tar Heels, ranked third nationally, were topsed on a 12-2 conference record in the regular season. The tenth ranked Duke Blue Devils, 11-3 in the league, are second-seeded.

The tournament winner will advance to the NCAA Eastern Regional playoffs. However, if South Carolina wins the runner-up will be chosen because the Gamecocks are on NCAA probation.

North Carolina finished fourth in the NCAA final playoffs last year, behind national champion

UCLA, Houston and Dayton.

An ACC Basketball Committee drawing in Raleigh, N. C., Sunday broke two ties to determine tournament pairings, putting North Carolina State third and South Carolina fourth, and Clemson seventh and Wake Forest eighth.

State Swimmers Again Champions

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's swimming team has won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship for the third consecutive year.

The Wolfpack piled up 547 points during the three-day meet which ended Saturday. North Carolina was runnerup with 419½.

South Carolina had 356, Maryland 296, Virginia 94, Wake Forest 73½, Duke 60 and Clemson 38.

Opening round pairings Thursday are:

1:30 p.m. — N. C. State (9-5) vs. Maryland (4-10).
3:30 p.m. — Duke (11-3) vs. Clemson (3-11).

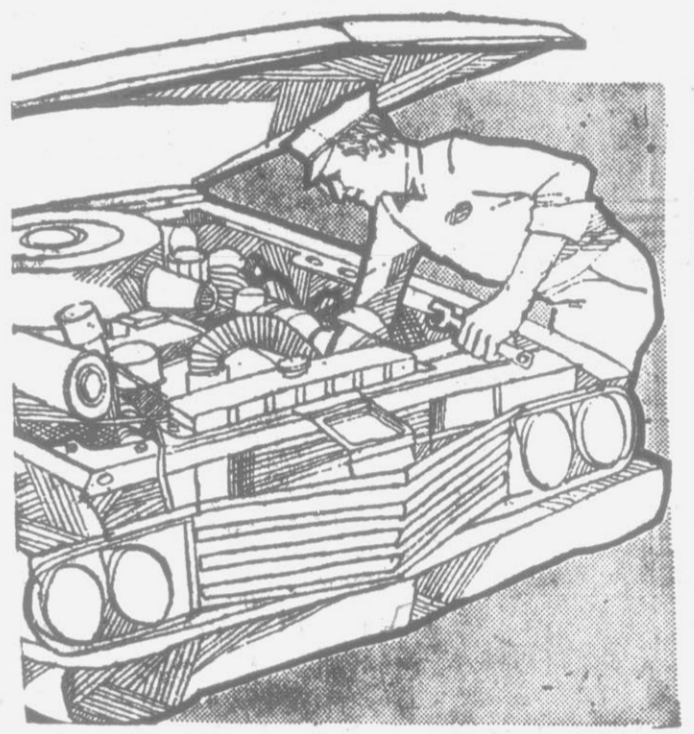

7 p.m. — North Carolina (12-2) vs. Wake Forest (3-11).
9 p.m. — South Carolina (9-5) vs. Virginia (5-9).

N. C. State won Saturday night 55-54 over South Carolina, which had beaten Duke and North Carolina in its two previous games.

Maryland closed out its regular season by defeating Georgetown 68-60.

Volkswagen's automatic stick shift.
It's easier to use than it is to say.

It's quite a mouthful, isn't it? But once you get by the name, the rest is easy.

There isn't a clutch pedal to contend with.

And for all practical purposes, you can drive everywhere without shifting.

On the highway, you shift once. (This is like an overdrive: you go faster, your engine goes slower, and your automatic bug won't turn into an automatic hog.)

And when the going gets rough like up a ridiculously steep hill, you can shift into low.

What could be simpler?

One thing: the automatic stick shift is an option.

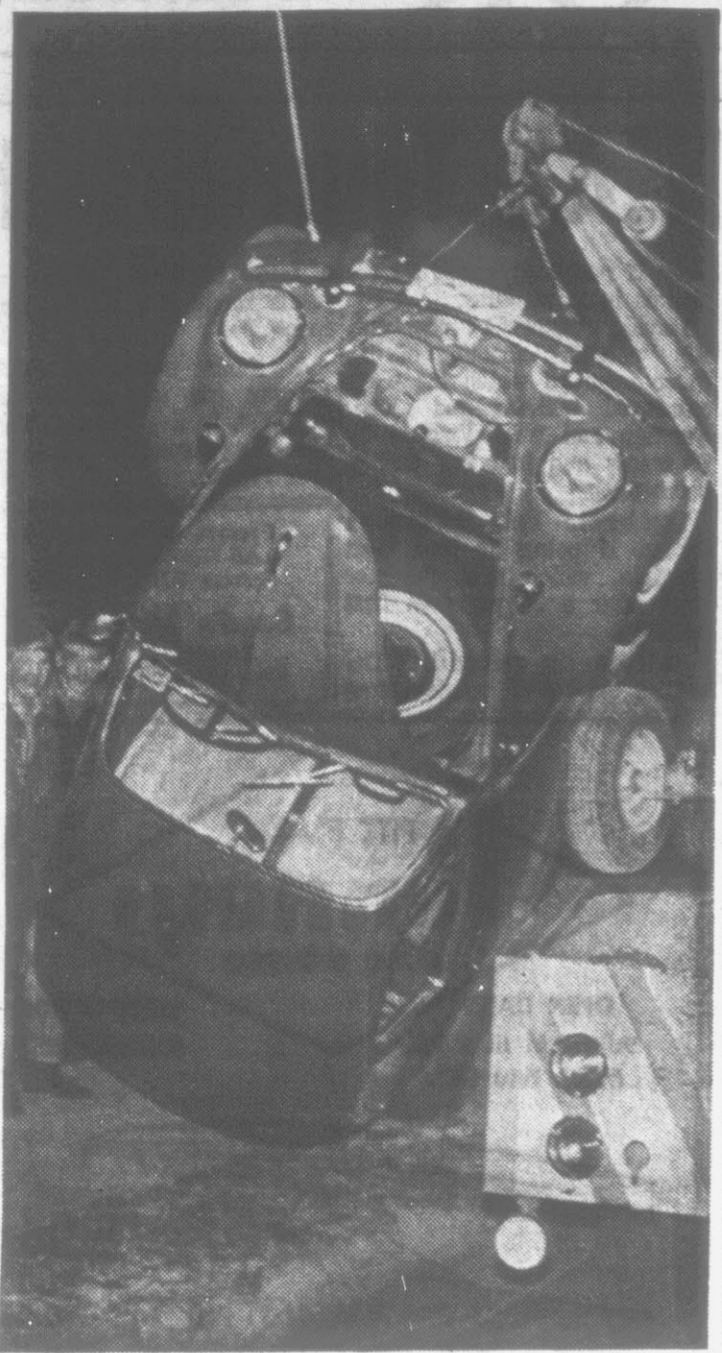

So you'll have to pay a little more.

But compared to other automatics, it's a bargain.

Because with every automatic stick shift, we include a remarkable money-saving device: A Volkswagen.

Weather Failed To Stop Junior High's Activities

By ANNA WHITE
Snow, rain and sleet hasn't stopped the activities of Junior High students.

A school dance was held for the eighth-grades February 16. It was a valentine's dance.

The guests walked in through a small door of red and white streamers. Red hearts and cupid's decorated the walls. Red crepe paper connected a large heart at the center on the ceiling. Streamers with balloons hung in various places.

Music was provided by the Riddlers, a combo of eighth grade boys. The boys are Randy Hignite, Joe McGlohon, Jim Heidenreich, Brown Glenn and Todd Pair. The guests had a very enjoyable evening.

The Junior High Phantomites tied up the season for coach Bob Jones and assistant coach Larry Wahl.

The team lost their last game to Jacksonville and tied their record at 5-5.

There were no formal candidates for the posts decided at the town meeting Saturday in this community of about 1,000 residents, and only one other name was written in.

Several Maine communities have officers serving in a number of positions.

In the 160-person community of Vienna, Fritz Eaton, 84, was elected to his 62nd one-year term as town clerk.

Stalemate In Fla. Teacher Strike

Weather Cut Into Business During January

RALEIGH (AP) — Business activity declined in North Carolina during January due partly to icy weather.

"Over-all performance of economic activity in the state was mixed," said Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. in its monthly report. "Basically the state's economy was strong, but a drop in employment, caused partly by the severe ice storm in eastern North Carolina, dimmed the total picture."

Wachovia's North Carolina Business Index, dropped 0.1 from December to 173.5. However, compared with January of last year, the index showed a nice 7.3 per cent gain.

In addition to the drop in non-agricultural employment from December, new car sales and building activity showed a decline from January of last year. Mortgage loans by building and loan firms and bank debits showed gains.

Total nonagricultural employment, adjusted to eliminate purely seasonal variations, was down 0.4 per cent from December's record figures, Wachovia economists reported. However, the figure was up 3.3 per cent from January of 1967.

Manufacturing employment showed a drop of 9,900 jobs from December and was off 2,600 from January of last year.

The North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association reported that new car sales in the state in January totaled 11,571, compared with 12,531 in January 1967 and truck sales totaled 2,655 in January, compared with 2,803 in January of last year.

Building permits issued in 36 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population showed a drop of 11.7 per cent from January of last year, but still totaled more than $30.5 million. Charlotte led the cities with $8.2 million in building permits.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro reported federally insured building and loan firms in the state made mortgage loans totaling $27 million during January. This compared with $19 million in January of last year when the tight money situation put a crimp in loans by savings and loan associations.

The Richmond Federal Reserve Bank's report of bank debits, however, indicated that consumer spending remained at a high level during January. Debits rose 0.3 per cent from December and were up a thumping 20.3 per cent above January 1967.

The average workweek in manufacturing plants showed a sharp drop of 4.9 hours to 36.3 in January. Weekly wages reflected this decline, dropping by $9.20 from December to an average of $77.32. Average hourly wages were up by three cents to $2.13 partially in anticipation of the new federal minimum wage which became effective Feb. 1.

Total manufacturing hours reflected the drop in employment and hours worked, reaching the lowest level since mid-1965.

Nixon Backers Challenge Rocky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Richard M. Nixon's forces are challenging New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to get into the Wisconsin Republican presidential primary race and give the voters a choice.

The former Vice president's Wisconsin campaign manager, John K. MacIver, said Rockefeller should permit his name to go on the ballot since he'd "clearly indicated" a willingness to accept the GOP nomination.

"We of the Wisconsin Nixon Committee," he said in a telegram to the governor, "promise you an open and clean campaign that will provide the people a choice and our party a winning candidate."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said in New Hampshire, meanwhile, that his Democratic presidential bid is aimed at producing "a kind of citizens' uprising" against President Johnson's Vietnam war and other policies.

And former Alabama Gov. George Wallace carried his third party presidential candidacy to Omaha, Neb.—calling conclusions of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders "unbelievable."

Wallace said pro-Communist militants—not the entire population—should have been blamed for last summer's city riots.

Nixon said he's not encouraging Rockefeller to enter the primary and said he thinks he can establish a "winner's image" even if he doesn't have strong opposition. He told a group of weekly newspaper editors at Delavan, Wis.:

"I'm inclined to think that the winner's image is established not by the percentage of your win, but by how you win, how you come across, how you campaign."

Rockefeller has until Tuesday to get into the Wisconsin primary.

But backers have said he'll stay out of the primaries—waiting for draft support to develop and hoping lack of stiff opposition will weaken the impact of Nixon's primary victories.

McCarthy told a Dartmouth

College crowd at Hanover, N.H., his antiwar campaign challenges "the country to respond in a political way in a manner in which no really great Democratic nation has ever been called upon to respond."

The Minnesota Democrat also said Michigan Gov. George Romney's withdrawal from the GOP presidential race will produce a better test of voters' antiwar sentiment. "The test is clearer now," he said.

McCarthy aides earlier expected about 10 per cent of the vote in New Hampshire's March 12 primary but now claim he'll get 20 to 30 per cent.

Elsewhere on the political scene:

New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay said Nixon and Rockefeller "both have a lot of clarifying to do" on their Vietnam and urban crisis positions. Lindsay said their views on Vietnam are comparable—and he said they're "pretty poor."

Three Oregon newspapers and Gov. Tom McCall are pressing Rockefeller to enter the May 28 Oregon primary. The papers are the Oregonian in Portland, The Oregon Statesman in Salem and the Eugene Register-Guard.

A "Rockefeller now" movement was proclaimed in a two-page advertisement placed in the New York Times and eight Michigan newspapers over the weekend by Stewart R. Mott, son of multimillionaire philanthropist Charles Stewart Mott. He said he'd pledge $50,000 to Rockefeller's campaign if the governor announces as a candidate by March 15 and clarifies his Vietnam position—and if readers pledge at least $100,000.

CAP Cadets To Meet Tuesday

The cadets of the Greenville squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in New Austin Building ROTC section.

Lt. Don Hollerman, AFOTC instructor, will conduct the class program.

Capt. Henry Flake, commander of the local unit, urged all cadets to be present.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
San Francisco teachers return to their classes today after a one-day walkout, but the strike by some 20,000 Florida teachers enters its third week with negotiations stalemated.

A third of Pittsburgh's 3,000 teachers who struck last Friday planned large-scale picketing, while classrooms remained vacant for the third straight day in the Wellston, Mo., school district.

Thousands of other Pennsylvania teachers headed for Harrisburg in a one-day "professional holiday" to dramatize their demands for higher salaries.

The San Francisco strike of about 1,100 of the city's 3,400 teachers, in their demand for more money, shut down schools at noon Friday. Most junior and senior high schools were closed, with students at one high school going on a window-smashing rampage.

Sunday night, after 22 hours of talks between strikers and a special city two-man panel, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto announced that the walkout was over and there would be no reprisals against those who struck.

In Pittsburgh, Albert Fondy, president of the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, said "the biggest picket line in the history of Pittsburgh" would be thrown around the Board of Education building.

In Florida, State School Supt. Floyd Christian scrapped a compromise proposal to end the strike when opposition mounted to what he had termed an "honorable solution."

Gov. Claude Kirk has until Thursday to act on a $329 million education bill, which was passed by a special session of the legislature. The governor can sign it, let it become law without his signature or veto it. After the bill was passed, the Florida Education Association said it was inadequate and called the strike.

The FEA, which represents about a third of Florida's 60,000 teachers, said it has obtained newspaper and billboard space across the country and has contracted for national television time to give its side of the issues.

NEA President Braulio Alonso of Tampa said in Washington that the national organization will supply $2 million to be used for legal fees and other support of strikers.

The 94 teacher in Wellston, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, left their classrooms last Thursday protesting the defeat of a new school tax rate which would have raised their salaries. The school district will remain closed at least through Tuesday. A teachers' spokesman said regular classes will resume Wednesday if the Board of Education agrees to resubmit the tax levy proposal.

At least 20,000 of the state's 82,000-member Pennsylvania State Education Association were expected in Harrisburg to call for enactment of two bills before the state legislature, one raising starting salaries and the other increasing state aid to schools.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, along with several legislative leaders, was to meet the teachers on the Capitol steps.

The one-day "professional holiday" avoids collision with the state law banning strikes by public employes.

The members of the Pittsburgh Teachers Federation walked out to support their demand for a collective bargaining election.

In Oklahoma, more than 600,000 school children will get a holiday Wednesday when some 15,000 teachers meet in Oklahoma City to gather more information on a cigarette-liquor tax boost that would have financed raises for teachers but which was vetoed by Gov. Dewey F. Bartlett.

Charge Driver In Sunday Mishap

James Thomas Walters, 80, of Tarboro was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:01 p.m. mishap Sunday at the intersection of N. C. 43 and U. S. 264.

Police said the Walters car collided with a vehicle driven by Beverly Britton Bauman, 17, of 224 Pineview Dr.

Damage to the Bauman car was set at $300 while damage to the Walters vehicle was placed at $250.

Interested parents are asked to either come by the kindergarten or telephone 752-2430.

Tobacco Tips
By S. J. WEEKS
Dist. County Tobacco Agent

Adequate amounts of the proper fertilizer is an important factor in producing a good yield of quality tobacco. Over-fertilization, however, will produce unsatisfactory quality and a reduction in the value of the crop.

Soils differ in their production capacity and in their fertility level. Therefore, careful attention should be given to the physical and chemical characteristics of the soil when determining the rate and grade of fertilizer to be used. Soil tests, crop performance history and rainfall patterns are helpful in estimating the fertilizer and lime requirements of a specific field.

Nitrogen is one of the key elements in the production of quality tobacco. A low level of total nitrogen will result in a low yield and quality. On the other hand, when an excess of nitrogen is used the tobacco produced will be low in sugar, high in nicotine, undesirable in color, and generally poor in quality. The amount and form of organic matter, the texture of the surface soil and depth to the subsoil are important characteristics which influence the total amount of nitrogen required to grow a crop of good quality tobacco. As a general practice, tobacco should not be grown directly after a legume because it is difficult to predict the amount of nitrogen need from fertilizers.

Results from experimental tests and form demonstrations have shown that the source of nitrogen, in both preplant and side dressing fertilizers, is very important. These results show that the best quality tobacco can be grown when 60 per cent or more of the total nitrogen used is in the nitrate form. This is especially true when tobacco is grown in fields that have been fumigated for nematode control.

Tobacco preplant fertilizer is available containing 50 per cent nitrate nitrogen. 8-0-24 tobacco topdressing is available containing 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen.

Some farmers prefer to use a mixture of nitrate of soda and sulfate of potash magnesia. A mixture of one bag of nitrate of soda and two bags of sulfate of potash magnesia makes a good tobacco top dressing. The readily available magnesium in this mixture give you added protection against magnesium deficiency.

Warning Lifted

J. H. Rose High School, put on the "warned" list of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for having overloaded classes in math and science earlier in the school year, has been removed from the list.

According to Dr. C. C. Cleewood, Greenville City Schools superintendent, a relocatable classroom and two part-time teachers have been added to the school to alleviate the condition.

Joseph M. Johnston, representing the accrediting agency, told the city school officials last week that the school can be classified as fully accredited without warning, now.

Tenant House Is Lost To Flames

WINTERVILLE—An estimated $3,500 fire damage resulted to a tenant house on the R. H. McLawhorn farm, located west of here, yesterday afternoon.

Firemen said the house was beyond saving when they arrived at the scene, but several tobacco barns nearby were saved from the blaze.

Two Winterville Fire Department units and two units from the Ayden Fire Department responded to the call.

Burning Corn Stalks Can Spoil The Good Farm Land

It takes hundreds of years to build up an inch of top soil. The top soil can be lost in a matter of a life time or earlier without adequate protection. Residues from corn help protect the soil if left to be rotted by nature. Conservation farmers for many years have left crop residues on the land to protect and improve their cropland. It takes several tons of new crop residue each year to maintain a reasonable level of life-giving organic matter in Pitt County soils.

Many Pitt County conservation farmers shred their corn stalks with a rotary mower as soon as the corn is harvested. They leave the residue on the land until the next spring just before crop planting time. Other conservation farmers chop up the stalks and disk them lightly into the upper soil surface. These conservation farmers also use residues from other crops, like soybeans and small grains to protect and improve their land.

When crop residues are burned, the land becomes dead land in a few years. Clay and silty soils get wetter during wet weather, and cloddier during dry weather. Sandy soils can't hold much water. Soil organisms die. Commercial fertilizer is less effective.

Residues incorporated in the soil improve soil tilth. Soils in good tilth break up easily into crumbs or granules, about the size of wheat grains or soybeans. Crumbly soils are porous. Crumbs are made up of tiny bits of soil linked together something like popcorn in a popcorn ball. They hold this structure when soaked. To make a comparison, one can dig up some soil along a fence row. Then dig up some soil from a cultivated field near this spot. Compare the two samples for weight, color, and compaction. The soil from the fence row is high in organic matter, very crumbly and easily broken apart. The soil from the cultivated field is harder, heavier, and lighter in color. For a further comparison examine soil from cropland on a farm operated under good management. The organic matter makes the

Coastal Bermuda For Good Pasture

Beef cattle production in Pitt County is on the increase. A good livestock program will include a good pasture. This is especially true in cattle raising. In many areas of Pitt County, the soil is too light, or too sandy to grow clovers. We find in these areas that a good pasture in July to September is possible when planted in Coastal Bermuda grass.

Coastal Bermuda is rapidly becoming one of the major hay crops in the South. It is similar to common Bermuda but is lar-

Police Say Gun Fired At Evers' Home

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Police said someone in a passing car fired a shotgun blast toward the home of Negro leader Charles Evers Sunday night and guards outside the house fired back.

The house has been under night guard by armed volunteers since Evers entered the race for a vacated congressional seat. His brother, civil rights leader Medgar Evers, was killed by a sniper in 1963.

H. B. Harrell, a police major, said a 16-year-old boy was arrested about an hour after the 11 p.m. shooting and held for questioning. A shotgun was confiscated.

Evers said the guards were "just fellows who see after me — volunteers. I've gotten quite a few threats since Tuesday."

In the primary election Tuesday, Evers led the field in the race for the 12-county 3rd Congressional District seat vacated when John B. Williams resigned to take over as governor. That put Evers into the runoff campaign, to be decided March 12.

His opponent is Charles Griffin of Utica, who was on Williams' congressional staff. Griffin was the top man among the six whites in the race, which eliminated all but the two top candidates.

Father, Son And Another Boy Drown In Lake

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — A father, his son, and another boy drowned in Gaston Lake Sunday. The man had been pulling the boys to shore on a rubber raft.

The victims, all from Emporia, Va., were James A. Dunn Sr., 35; James Jr., 14, and Bobby Willis, 15. Their bodies were recovered several hours later by rescue squads.

M. W. Turner, head of the Roanoke Valley Rescue Squad, gave this account: The boys were on the raft and the wind swept them out into the lake. The raft started sinking and the father jumped in and swam to them.

Dunn, who had stripped down to his underwear, was pulling the raft to shore when one of the boys fell off. The father tried to rescue him, but all drowned about 20 feet from shore.

State highway patrolmen said Zane McIntyre, 38, of Greenville, S. C., his 10-year-old son, Mike, and 69-year-old mother, Mrs. Vera McIntyre, were in intensive care units at Hendersonville.

Seven other persons were hospitalized after the head-on collision. Officers said McIntyre rounded a curve on the wrong side of the road on a Henderson County paved road Sunday, striking a car driven by Bradford Clay Henderson of Rt. 1, Pisgah Forest, N. C.

Dim View Of Nasser's Pledge

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli officials said today President Gamal Abdel Nasser's speech vowing to regain every inch of soil occupied by Israel as a result of the June war was a "serious setback to peace."

"We can only hope there is a difference between this sort of demagoguery and actual policy making in Egypt," said Foreign Ministry spokesman David Rivlin.

Nasser, a three-time loser in war with Israel, told a rally near Cairo Sunday that Israel's announcement last week that it no longer considers the west bank of the Jordan River "enemy territory" would "cost her dearly."

"We will be a solidly united front against our common enemy to liberate the occupied areas," Nasser said.

Rivlin commented: "When the whole world is looking to Israel and the Arabs to take the big step and talk peace, Nasser's speech was very disappointing and confusing."

Officials said there had been signs of moderation in Cairo in the last few weeks but the "warlike" speech dashed hopes that Egypt and Jordan are willing to meet Israel in direct negotiations.

However, some informed sources believed Nasser made his fiery declarations to placate critics in Egypt and bolster his prestige in the Arab world rather than to torpedo the possibility of peace talks.

Israel announced last week it was willing to meet the Arabs under U.N. auspices and hinted that contacts with Cairo and Amman indicated the Arabs would probably sit down at the conference table.

Parents Are Asked To Assist Pre-School Census

Greenville parents with children who will enter the first grade next fall and who have not been contacted by some elementary school should contact the school of their choice as soon as possible to give them pre-school census information.

City School Superintendent Dr. C. C. Cleetwood said the pre-school census program is necessary in order that a mailing list can be obtained.

"We want to get a mailing list to be certain that each parent receives a letter regarding details of the orientation-registration meeting for parents of students entering the Greenville school system for the first time next fall," Dr. Cleetwood explained.

A series of registration meetings has been set for 8 p.m., March 12, and the superintendent said it is "urgent" that

Claim Pueblo Crew Letter To President

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the crew of the USS Pueblo had signed an open letter calling on President Johnson to "frankly admit" they were spying in North Korean territorial waters "and sincerely apologize."

The Korean Central News Agency said the letter was signed by Capt. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the U.S. Navy intelligence-gathering ship, and the 81 surviving members of his crew. One other crewman was reported killed when North Korean navy boats captured the Pueblo off the east coast of North Korea on Jan. 23.

The North Koreans claimed the Pueblo was in their territorial waters. The United States said the ship was in international waters.

The Communist agency said the ship's crew wrote the President "to request your assistance in our repatriation."

It said the letter listed five points at which the Pueblo trespassed in North Korean waters "in order to obtain electronic and visual intelligence." They were 9.8 miles from Kal Tan, north of Chongjin; 11.2 miles from Orang Dan, 10.75 miles and 11.3 miles from Nan Do, east of Songjin; 8.2 miles from Ansong Kap, in the Mayang Do area, and 7.6 miles from Yo Do, in the Wonsan area.

The Warren Commission spent 10 months inquiring into the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The staple diet at Rishikesh, India, where their guru, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is located, consists of rice and chupattis, an Indian pancake.
