Anti-Riot Rider To Civil Rights Bill Faces Fight

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a civil rights protection-open housing bill, victors in a showdown over bringing the measure to a vote, vow to fight a bid to hook on an anti-riot rider.

A measure that could make it a federal crime to go from one state to another—or to use radio, television or other interstate facilities—with intent to incite a riot was offered as an amendment by Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

The anti-riot proposal was called up just before the Senate adjourned Monday night after a day in which a seven-week filibuster against the compromise civil rights bill was broken.

The vote to close out debate on the compromise measure was 65 to 32, just enough for the required two-thirds majority. Three earlier attempts to invoke the Senate's debate-limiting cloture rule had failed.

The bill's supporters jubilantly hailed the vote as assuring Senate passage, although controversial open-housing section may have to be modified further.

With the cloture rule in effect, each senator's speaking time on the compromise and all amendments to it is limited to one hour—or a total of 100 hours if each senator uses all his allotted time.

However, once all the amendments have been acted on, unlimited debate will be possible on passage of the bill. If opponents launch a second filibuster, cloture would have to be voted again.

Although President Johnson has called for anti-riot legislation, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.—floor manager for the civil rights measure—said he would resist the Lausche-Thurmond amendment.

Hart said such legislation should be handled separately. He also noted the administration has not yet submitted its proposal.

Three Cars And A Tanker Truck Collide

ONLY THREE INJURED — Firemen charge flames billowing from a wreck among a tanker truck and three autos near Summerville, Ga. U. S. terms in the State Legislature, filed for seat number 1 on February 23.

Horton Rountree, Pitt County's other representative in the 1967 legislature has announced plans to file for house seat number 2.

Forbes is a Pitt County farmer and business man. He is a charter member of the Greenville Moose Lodge, a past president of the Winterville Kiwanis Club. He attended Winterville High School and East Carolina University.

British Pound Sinks To Its Lowest Point

LONDON (AP) — The British pound dropped to a new low today as demand for gold continued high.

At the opening of the London money market, the pound was quoted at $2.3975, 33 points below Monday's high. The closing price Monday was $2.3997, nine points below Friday's level, after a high for the day of $2.4008 in the afternoon.

The Bank of England stepped in almost at the opening today to support the pound and the rate rose to $2.39855.

The dollar parity price for gold at the daily fixing remained just under the ceiling at $35.19-7/8.

An estimated 25-35 tons changed hands at the fixing, and subsequent sales were expected to raise the day's total on the London market to 50 tons, equalling Friday's mark but far below the crisis level last December.

Ponder Apology To North Korea

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials are trying to determine whether any U.S. admission of guilt and apology to North Korea would win release of the intelligence ship Pueblo and 82 surviving crewmen captured six weeks ago.

The basic problem President Johnson and his advisers face is whether the United States can or should admit and apologize for something—the Pueblo's alleged intrusion into North Korean territorial waters—which officials say they don't believe the ship did.

The apology issue came into sharp public focus Monday with North Korea's broadcast of a letter to President Johnson which Pyong Yang Radio said was signed by all 82 crew members.

The contents of the letter had already been dispatched to the President by U.S. negotiators at Panmunjom, Korea, who had received it from North Korean representatives.

The letter claimed the Pueblo "intruded into the territorial waters" of North Korea at five different points. It said the crewmen believe "our repatriation can be realized only when our government frankly admits the fact that we intruded into the territorial waters of (North Korea) and committed hostile acts, and sincerely apologizes for these acts and gives assurance that they will not be repeated."

The first concern of administration authorities was to try to determine the authenticity of the signatures on the letter. It was reported that the Panmunjom negotiators were speeding the text to Washington for study of the signatures.

The letter's emphasis on admitting violations of North Korea's territorial waters and apologizing was reportedly in line with demands by North Korean negotiators in a series of closed Panmunjom meetings. The 10th such meeting was held Sunday night.

Holshouser Looks For Congressional Gains

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of North Carolina's Democratic and Republican parties offered conflicting views Monday night on the outlook in the state's Congressional races this year.

"I think there'll be more Democrats in Congress after the election than there are now," Democratic chairman Tim Valentine said. The Democrats now have eight Congressmen and the Republicans three.

Republican Chairman Jim Holshouser singled out the 5th, 6th, 8th and 11th as districts where he said Republicans have particularly good chances of capturing additional congressional seats.

Holshouser predicted 1968 will be the year "the two-party system becomes a reality in North Carolina."

The two chairmen addressed the 13th annual convention of the N. C. Association of Nursing Homes.

Most of their comments came in a question and answer session following their talks.

Valentine accused Republicans of attempting to "twist statistics by saying that North Carolina ranks in the top 10 as far as the tax load is concerned."

His statement was an obvious reference to a recent observation by Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N. C., that North Carolinians "don't understand why the state should be in the top 10 per cent in taxes."

Valentine said, "The Republicans quote statistics to show us that we are eighth, ninth or 10th as far as taxes are concerned, but what they don't tell us is that North Carolina is one of the few states that assumes most of the financial burden for our schools and highway construction. This has the effect of lowering the local (city and county) taxes."

Successful Year For Leaf Export

RALEIGH (AP) — From an export standpoint, 1967 was the most successful year in history for flue-cured tobacco, Tobacco Associates President John D. Palmer told the organization's annual membership meeting today.

Palmer said consignments overseas last year exceeded 528 million pounds farm weight, with the largest increases to West Germany, Great Britain, Thailand and The Netherlands, totaling about 30 million pounds over 1966.

Palmer said that while the embargo on Rhodesian-held tobacco continues and the Rhodesian government is reported to be holding about 250 million pounds, the impact on American export markets could be "quite severe" if the embargo is lifted.

Reds Repulsed After Another Hospital Raid

SAIGON (AP) — Three hundred Viet Cong invaded a provincial capital at the southern end of Vietnam today and seized the hospital, but government troops drove them out of the city after a day-long fight. Military spokesmen said 195 of the Communists were slain.

The Communists also shelled a dozen provincial capitals, six district towns, and 14 military bases and camps including the U.S. base at Cam Ranh Bay, once considered the safest spot in South Vietnam. It was the second straight day of widespread shelling.

Although runways were pitted, Cam Ranh Bay was not severely damaged and flights were not delayed. This is the base President Johnson visited in his two trips to Vietnam since he became president, in November 1966 and last Dec. 23.

Alleged communiques reported more than 500 Communist troops were killed Monday and Tuesday, many of them in fighting unrelated to the enemy shelling.

In the air war, U.S. B52s kept up the pressure on the North Vietnamese encircling the Marine base at Khe Sanh in the far northwest. They laid down a carpet of bombs in five separate raids north and west of the Marine Lines.

The attacks on the cities and camps followed Monday's shelling of seven air bases, two U.S. Command posts and four other installations. Most of the two-day shelling were not followed up by ground attacks.

One provincial capital hit was Can Tho, the delta nerve center for both military and civilian operations 80 miles southwest of Saigon. The government reported 13 civilians killed.

It was different, however, at Ca Mau, a provincial capital of about 40,000 people at the tip of the Mekong Delta 153 miles southwest of Saigon. The Viet Cong invaded the city after a softening up barrage for mortars and recoilless rifles.

South Vietnamese military headquarters said 110 Viet Cong troops had been killed and 42 weapons captured at Ca Mau. Government casualties were said to be light.

All Units To Be Trained For Disorders

RALEIGH (AP) — All North Carolina Army National Guard units are going to undergo special training in handling civil disturbances, it was announced today.

Maj. Gen. Claude Bowers, state adjutant general, said the training will be "to increase their proficiency should they be committed in that type duty."

He said 12-hour courses will be given.

The training will include an alert assembly for all units to be called without previous notice in the spring.

Bowers said the alert "will provide us with a good training vehicle to test our ability to assemble, load and to be prepared to move fully equipped to any location in the state."

Bowers made the announcement in a prepared news release.

In reply to questions, he said all units had received 32 hours of such training last year and the new training is designed as a review.

He said the review is "based on Department of the Army authorization for additional emphasis on civil disturbance missions."

Unionization Of Teachers Not Expected

RALEIGH (AP) — Two leading officials in the North Carolina Education Association say they do not expect their organization to become affiliated with a union.

Miss Helen Wells of Asheville, NCEA president, and Dr. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary, made the statement Monday in commenting on remarks by Rep. C. Graham Tart of Sampson County, a member of the NCEA board of directors.

Tart said in an interview that the association might become an affiliate of the American Federation of Teachers, and strikes could develop.

Miss Wells called Tart's statements "just one man's opinion." She said in a telephone interview the NCEA has always made a "careful distinction" between the type of work it does and any sort of teacher unionism.

Dawson said neither the directors nor any staff members of the association are promoting the use of sanctions or unionism.

Tart said, "Current developments in this state . . . could lead to union shop, and increased dues, collected by a check-off system." He cited the drafting of a tentative NCEA policy on teacher sanctions.

No Propaganda From Dirksen

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen said Monday night that one reason he defended the Johnson administration's Vietnam policies was to avoid providing propaganda to the Viet Cong.

He cited a Viet Cong leaflet, he said was sent him by a U.S. soldier. The leaflet, he said, urged U.S. troops to refuse to fight, demand repatriation and "get out of South Vietnam before it's too late."

"And they quote the distinguished senator from Oregon, Wayne Morse, to prove the case," Dirksen told a gathering at a $100-a-plate Republican dinner. Morse, a Democrat has been a frequent critic of the war.

"I'm not going to see myself or my colleagues in that kind of fix," Dirksen said.

The veteran senator from Illinois said he supported Johnson in Vietnam "because he is the commander-in-chief and he's the only commander-in-chief we have."

Award Goes To Thornton Wilder Novel

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Eighth Day," a mystery novel by Thornton Wilder, has been judged the most distinguished fiction by an American writer in 1967 in the 19th annual National Book Awards.

The awards in fiction and five other categories, which include a cash prize of $1,000 each, will be presented in a ceremony in Philadelphia Hall at Lincoln Center Wednesday night. The awards were made public Monday night.

In addition to the 75-year-old Wilder, winners in other categories were:

History and biography—George F. Kennan's "Memoirs 1925-1950."

Science, philosophy and religion—Jonathan Kozol of Boston for "Death at an Early Age," a description of a Boston elementary school.

Arts and letters—the late William Troy, for "Selected Essays."

Poetry—Robert Bly of Madison, Wis., for "The Light Around the Body."

Translation—Howard and Edna Hong of Northfield, Minn., for their translation of Soren Kierkegaard's "Journals and Papers, Vol. 1, published by the Indiana University Press."

Approve $20,000 To Finish Work

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday afternoon approved an appropriation of $20,000 to complete repair and renovation of the old court house building.

The project, which has been underway for some time is nearing the final stages. Included in work done to the old building is repair of the roof, sand blasting outer walls, replacing windows and doors, remodeling the old court room and other items.

The board also approved ordering of a bronze plaque of the County Seal to be placed on the Third Street face of the new court house addition. The round plaque with raised lettering will cost $1,825 plus installation.

Commissioners also approved liming farm land at the Pitt County Home and on land being farmed at Pitt Technical Institute. Both tracts are being rented by the county to farmers.

Pitt Memorial Hospital officials told commissioners that the county ambulance service has responded to 102 calls since it began operation January 10. Collections have amounted to 61.8 per cent.

Young Looter Is Slain In Disorder At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—An off-duty policeman guarding a pawn shop shot and killed a Negro youth he said was crawling through a window smashed early Tuesday during disorders that followed a visit by Alabama's George Wallace.

A dozen persons were injured, two seriously, as roving bands of Negro youths smashed store windows and automobile windshields and pelted two city buses with bricks and rocks. Several bus passengers were cut by flying glass.

Police said looters took merchandise from at least five stores in Omaha's Near North Side—scene of rioting in the summer of 1966.

"Dozens of business place windows have been smashed," said Detective Lt. Ray Hasiak. "And reports are still filtering in."

The disorders began at the Civic Auditorium Monday night as backers of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace sought to organize a third party to assure him a place on the presidential ballot in November.

Placards, pieces of wood and drinking cups were hurled at Wallace. Few hit their target as he was protected by bodyguards. Police broke up the uproar by hustling several Negro demonstrators from the auditorium.

Other youths, outside the building, smashed windows and windshields on an estimated 40 to 50 parked cars, police said.

By midnight, a crowd of 60 shouting Negro youths had gathered outside the pawn shop. They broke away protective iron bars and smashed the windows before being driven off by police, who fired into the night sky.

Patrolman James Frank Abbott, who was off-duty at the time, was hired by the shop's owner to stand guard. An hour later, Abbott said he spotted a Negro youth climbing through the window and ordered him to "hold it."

Abbott told police investigators he fired his 12-gauge riot gun when the warning was disregarded.

Central Fire Alarm For Martin Talked

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners yesterday told county volunteer firemen they will study a proposal to establish a central fire alarm system for the county.

Cost of the system, as proposed by the county's rural fire departments would total an estimated $18,000.

The radio system would allow a dispatcher in Williamston to receive county fire calls and sound alarms controlled remotely by radio, at the fire station nearest the fire.

Pitt County is presently installing such a system.

Martin County sheriff Raymond Rawl, in a report to the board, said county jailers Roy Peel and Plum Rogers have recently completed a jailers course.

Under present state regulations jailers must successfully complete a training program.

Rawl also explained to the commissioners other regulations regarding operations in jail, including a regulation which requires that prisoners must be provided a medical examination within 48 hours of their arrest.

Martin County Community action program director Haywood Harris reported to commissioners that the Office of Economic Opportunity has cut requested appropriations for the program.

Harris told the board the $36,000 administrative budget request had been cut to $53,405 and that the 12-month Head Start program request was trimmed from $415,050 to $271,168.

California Man Follows Doctors' Advice For Treating Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Millbrae, Cal. Mr. C. H. Wahl of Millbrae reports: "I'm 68 years old and been suffering from hemorrhoids. I asked several doctors about it. They said I should continue using Preparation H which I had started to use. I'm very grateful for Preparation H. It has such a soothing effect and it certainly relieved my pain."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is greatly reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

60 Million See Chicago Museum

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago's number one tourist attraction—the Museum of Science and Industry—has welcomed its 60 millionth visitor.

It attracted its army of guests in only slightly more than 34 years.

Opened in July 1933, when Chicago was staging the first year of its Century of Progress world's fair, the annual visitation is nearing the 3½ million mark.

The museum owes its world renown to the foresight of the late Julius Rosenwald, merchant-millionaire. His $8 million endowment in the mid-1920s, plus a $5 million bond issue and donations by school children and women's clubs, made it possible.

It was created by the rehabilitation of the Fine Arts building of the Columbian Exposition of 1893.

Airports That Float Proposed

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Airports that float in water have been proposed by a Rutgers University study to create a new form of commuter air travel.

The report contends that the water-borne, circular, concrete airports could speed development of a fourth major jetport in the New York City area. The structures, known as "aquadromes," were described at a conference for aviation officials.

Trash Barrel Saves His Life

PARIS (WNS) — The concierge at 10 Boulevard Rochechouart was entertaining guests at dinner when she heard something heavy fall outside her window. She looked out, and there was Baghab Ben Hamunouda, 33, climbing out of an overflowing trash barrel. He had tried to commit suicide by jumping from his fifth-floor window and had been saved by landing in the trash. "I never put the barrels out until dawn, but I did it early this evening because of my party," explained the concierge. The Arab said that he had been suffering from nervous depression for a year but had refused medical treatment. "Now I see the wisdom of the treatments and will accept them," he said.

Gallant Guys Won't Reverse The Charges

REPTON, England (WNS) — Villagers here complained that the love lives of boys attending a local private school are upsetting public facilities. The students monopolize the town's one telephone booth in order to call their girls. The school has refused to install a phone for students because they can use the housemaster's phone if they reverse the charges. The boys point out that it is not proper male gallantry to reverse phone charges when calling one's girl.

Extra Padding Does The Trick

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What won't they think of next? Foam rubber fannies! I thought it was a gag, but now I read in your column that they actually make such things.

Of course when you come right down to it, a fake fanny is no more misleading than "falsies," which I understand are very popular.

I appreciate a nice round figure as much as the next guy, but having to guess whether a girl's shape in front is all hers is bad enough without having to wonder if her rump is real. So how can a guy tell for sure?

PEDRO

DEAR PEDRO: In a pinch he can.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell that lady who wanted a "padded fanny" she doesn't know when she's well off. I'd like to know how to get rid of the 180-pound one I have. And it's not foam rubber either. Thank you. MRS. R. H. SLATER (DULUTH, MINN.)

DEAR ABBY: What with foam rubber fannies, pretty soon the government will force women to wear a "truth in packaging" label.

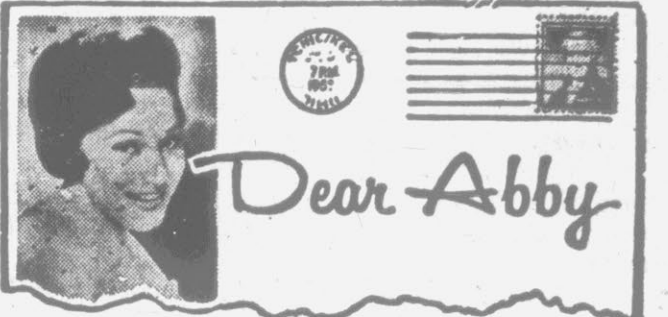

Can't you just see a guy asking a girl for her government-stamped verification card on which he would read:

"Hair: Natural color...gray. Dyed blonde or wears a wig.

Smoking Started With A Bang

PERIGUEUX, France (WN S)—Marie Janson, 20, was being introduced to smoking by two friends escorting her home after a late movie. She lit the cigarette, tossed the match into the street, and there was a giant explosion. The emergency squad that arrived to put out the resulting fire explained that Marie had accidentally discovered a leak in the gas mains that could have been serious. They thanked the French girl, who decided on the spot never to smoke again.

Marinate chicken pieces in a mixture of olive oil, dry vermouth and crushed garlic before baking or broiling.

"Teeth: Phony in front. Wears partial plate.

"Bust: Actual measurement 20½. Padded to measure 36. "Hips: Actual measurement 22. Padded to measure 38."

Boy, what a revelation! If they ever passed a law like that a lot of women will be in trouble.

LIKES 'EM REAL

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the gal who was "FLAT IN BACK" reminded me of a friend of mine.

She had a beautiful figure. At least she looked like she had. She went to one of the Playboy clubs for an interview because she wanted to be a "bunny."

Well, she didn't make it. The reason was, she was "flat in back," too, and she'd always worn one of those foam rubber fannies. Guess they want all their "cotton tails" to be for real.

LOTTIE'S FRIEND

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you've never heard of a "false fanny," but I know there must be such an item because I saw one advertised in a catalog. It was called, believe it or not, "THE LIVING END."

Too Big, Even For The Congress

About that commission's report on urban disorders:

As we've already seen, reaction is varied. In some instances one could predict what specific individuals might say on the basis of their backgrounds.

We'd suggest the commission report's value probably lies chiefly in its assessment of the root of the problem, and less in the proposed remedial measures.

"White racism" exists just as certainly as "Black racism"; but it isn't something that legislation or money can overcome.

"Racism", no matter what shade, cannot be an alibi for lawlessness. Nor can one claim that because "society did me wrong" is a blanket excuse for robbing a bank, driving the wrong way on a one-way street, or hunting out of season — an attitude toward which we think the commission's report leans.

The danger of a polarization of two societies in this country is every bit as real as the commission warns... but again, the answer is not in Washington.

Those things rest in the hearts of individuals who care not only for themselves or their country, but for their children and children's children.

Education and job-training are two partial answers. But the real economic lift Negro citizens must eventually get (rather than the providing of many billions of dollars from the federal government) is employment in private businesses and industries.

With earned incomes that approach a parity, it would be logical to presume better housing, better living conditions, a greater satisfaction with life would follow.

Congress did not create the conditions which confront us today; and the imposing of more rules and rulings, of more taxes and more spending are not likely to provide the necessary answers, but would lead to additional resentments and a reluctance to assume the individuals' role of finding good-will, harmony and mutual respect.

And it is the individuals' role... the role of many individuals... that will be decisive in the years ahead.

New York City's Mayor John Lindsay says "The cost of inaction... will far outstrip the cost of taking positive realistic action which the Congress has got to do".

If he had substituted the word "People" for the word "Congress", he would have hit the nail on the head.

Mayor Lindsay looks to Congress to handle a problem that is too big for him or his city to handle. It is too big for Congress, too.

The ultimate answer must come from each one of the 200,000,000 Americans throughout the land, starting in the largest city right on down to the street where you live.

Harsh Spotlight On The Senate

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—The report of the Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders with its grim picture of a racially divided nation throws a harsh spotlight on the Senate maneuvering over civil rights legislation.

In view of the massive effort urged by the commission to stave off threatened disaster, the Senate haggling over what percentage of houses in white suburbia should be opened to Negroes takes on a note of unreality.

Indeed, the conditions described in the report provide a said commentary on the whole body of civil rights legislation enacted over the past few years. Men of good will worked hard and courageously to pass those laws and thought they were ushering in a new era in U. S. race relations.

But the commission calls past efforts largely inadequate and warns that if new and effective steps are not taken at once riots worse than any so far may erupt.

The effectiveness of laws, of course, depends on the way they are enforced. The Negro's right to vote has been enormously strengthened in the South by strong enforcement of the law.

But in other areas of discrimination, particularly where the law applies nationally and not just in the South, enforcement has been spotty. In probably no field is the record worse than in employment.

On the same day the summary of the commission's report was released, Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., released a report of his own on job discrimination against Negroes.

He pointed out that the right to employment on an equal basis is protected by specific federal and state laws and a string of presidential orders. Yet Negro unemployment in the cities is three or four times the rate for whites, and those who find work are concentrated in the lowest-paid jobs.

That discrimination — not lack of training — is the reason, he said, is proved by a study showing that 8 of 10 Negroes with an eighth-grade

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DIVERSITY AND SIMILARITY

Jesus said on one occasion, "There is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known" (Luke 12:2).

How could we have mystery stories today were it not for fingerprints? It is a singular fact that no two people on earth have the same fingerprints, and that given a fingerprint on a murder weapon, a piece of furniture, or a drinking glass, the fate of the criminal is almost sealed.

Link to this the fact that no two people in the world are exactly alike — not even identical twins. Every leaf on the unnumbered billions of trees throughout the world differs from every other leaf. There is a similarity about heavenly bodies but it is also true that they differ one from the other.

In other words, we live in a world that is characterized by diversity. The Bible and our own best impulses teach us that all men are equal before God. Legislation emphasizes the fact that all men are equal before the law. But here equality would seem to end. No two fingerprints alike, no two leaves alike, no two persons exactly alike.

So let us ponder the fact that the Creator appears to be more definitely committed to diversity than to unity — certainly than He is to similarity or uniformity. Quite a few people are ready to start a quarrel if similarity — or what they call equality — is in the least violated. But God has given us a world characterized by diversity, and evidently He intends us to utilize that diversity and enjoy it.

When Delay Hurts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BOSTON — The politics of procrastination practice habitually by Lyndon B. Johnson has transformed a local problem in Massachusetts into a massive dilemma of possible national repercussions.

For nearly three months, President Johnson and his political advisors have dawdled over their response to Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota in the Massachusetts Presidential primary on April 30: whether to ignore McCarthy, run Mr. Johnson himself against him, or run an LBJ stand-in.

The deadline for the decision is today, and, at this writing, party leaders have not the slightest idea about what the President wants. Chances are that word from the White House won't arrive until the last minute. What worries them is that the last minute decision from Washington may well be for a stand-in to oppose McCarthy, opening the way for an embarrassingly strong showing by McCarthy.

Here is a perfect illustration of President Johnson's unsure hand in national party politics and his distant relationships with state party leaders. Indeed, the indecision at the White House has hurt Mr. Johnson's status here with prominent Democrats inclined to be loyal to him.

The heart of the matter was reached at a strategic conference on Washington's birthday held in Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien's office in Washington. Attending were Lester Hyman, the aggressive young state Democratic chairman; Speaker John W. McCormack; and old pro James Rowe, the Washington lawyer who with O'Brien is running the President's national campaign for re-election.

Hyman repeated his pleas of many weeks standing that he be permitted to enter the President's name on the ballot and get to work on the campaign. O'Brien, whose private polls show Mr. Johnson walking over McCarthy in Massachusetts, and McCormack seemed to agree.

But Rowe was worried about the historically low turnout — 10 percent or less — at Massachusetts Democratic primaries. Even if the new Presidential preference contest should double that turnout, the determination to vote by devoted McCarthy peace partisans might badly embarrass the President. The meeting ended with no decision.

But that very indecision means inactivity which makes Rowe's trepidations about a low voter turnout all the more real. The organization needed to turn out loyal if apathetic LBJ voters must be built from scratch. Despite Hyman's efforts to establish a statewide party organization, power remains in the hands of local Democratic wardlords more interested in ward and town party committee elections on April 30 than Presidential politics.

Boston itself, where Mr. Johnson would need massive support to counter McCarthy's turnout in dovish outlying suburbs, is a problem. The city Democratic committee has not and does not function. The only effective organization in being is one built by Mayor Kevin White for his campaign (Continued On Page 5)

Wasting $16 Million?

Put it down as an inescapable fact of life, like weeds in the pea patch or dirt behind the icebox, that whenever a defense establishment undertakes to spend $75 billion a year, there will be waste. When the waste is relatively small, and results from ignorance or haste or the emergencies of war, it is pointless to complain.

But when a deliberate decision is made within the Defense Establishment to toss away $16 million in public funds, after repeated warnings and the most careful advice, it is time to raise a howl. Iowa's Representative H. R. Gross is doing just that. The Waterloo Republican has taken aim on the Navy's incredible action in pouring good money after bad at Sugar Grove, West Virginia.

The very words, "Sugar Grove," cause intense pain in Navy circles. It was at Sugar Grove, a remote hamlet in the Appalachian Mountains, that the Navy ten years ago proposed to build its "Big Dish" — a radio telescope of fantastic power. The project proved fantastic, sure enough. Before it finally was abandoned in 1962, some $64 million in public funds had gone down the drain. The dismal story has been often told.

Not much had been publicly heard of Sugar Grove until a few days ago, when the indefatigable Gross brought the chronicle up to date. It appears that the Navy for some years has operated a long-range radio station at Cheltenham, Md., near Andrews

Air Force Base. In July of 1962, just one week after cancellation of "Big Dish," the then Secretary of the Navy, Fred Korth, came up with a remarkable finding and a capital idea. The finding was that Cheltenham was suffering from "an electronic encroachment problem which is getting progressively worse." The idea was to move Cheltenham's receiving unit to Sugar Grove.

Now, the finding was remarkable because no one else, before or since, appears to have found the same thing. But the idea came along in Mr. Kennedy's day, when Appalachia was very big, and what is good for Appalachia, etc. In a twinkling, the idea zipped through the mill. On Nov. 23, 1962, the Secretary of Defense approved the relocation project at an estimated cost of $3.8 million.

Interestingly, this was done before any formal study had been made of the proposal. It was not until the following March that some Massachusetts consultants produced an appropriate report. They brought the glad tidings that Sugar Grove would be a superior site for the receiver, that its superiority "will be enhanced with the passage of time," that the salvageable facilities of "Big Dish" made the venture "impressively economical," and that a receiver of "internationally exceptional excellence" could be erected there. No one has said a kind word for the project since.

The Navy's own people began to get seriously upset at what seemed to them an utter waste. In July of 1965, the Bureau of Ships filed a report: The Cheltenham station "does not have a serious problem of encroachment." Moreover, the Sugar Grove (Continued On Page 5)

British Bid To Turn Back Clock

By ELMER ROESSNER

Because the United States has a tendency to adopt British economic changes, Americans ought to be alert to if not wary of — a series of tax reforms proposed by the Confederation of British Industry, which corresponds roughly to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The CBI, acting in the confusion that has followed the devaluation of the pound, proposes more indirect taxation and less direct, suggesting a broadly based sales tax in addition to the present purchase tax, or a value-added tax, which several continental nations are trying.

The CBI also suggests reductions in the corporation tax, income tax, surtax, capital gains tax, betterment levy, and estate tax, which is the British term for inheritance tax.

The confederation would also reform the corporation tax by taxing distributed and undistributed profits at the same rate, and exempting dividends from taxation.

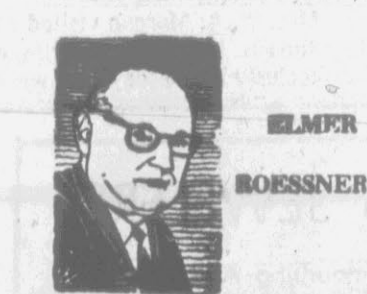

Rich Would Get Richer

The proposals are not likely to get anywhere because on the surface they appear to benefit the rich and penalize the poor. By putting more emphasis on sales taxes and less on corporations, the proposal would increase the burden on the little fellow, since all of his earnings would be taxed heavily as they were spent.

The plan appears to be a design for a return to the good old days, when the large aristocracy lived in luxury and the rest of the nation lived with so little that it swung to the Labour party, with its cradle-to-the-grave security program.

It has been pointed out that this security, plus the theories of the Keynesians and the trimmings added by the Labour government, contributed to the devaluation of the pound. It appears that if Britain spent less for welfare and more for increasing its technology, replacing machinery and increasing productivity, it could have increased exports to the point where the $2.80 pound was safe. And had it taken these steps earlier, the old $4 pound might have survived.

No Ready Solution

The CBI tax proposals by themselves appear to be merely a dream of returning to the past. They lack changes that would reshape the British economy to the world of 1968 and beyond.

However, the confederation has also made proposals for self-reform of industry. It called upon industry to take more chances and to intensify management training, marketing techniques, automation and productivity. It also urged plant modernization and new investments in facilities.

In that program, the CBI appears to be adopting American attitudes.

Thus Britain, after having sold us her socio-economic theories, is now taking in exchange our business operating theories.

Most Confident GOP Gathering

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Republicans gathered by the river the other day — that political mainstream that stretches from Memorial Auditorium, where governors of North Carolina are inaugurated to the domed State Capitol at the head of Fayetteville Street.

A cold wind was blowing and the banners flapped wildly and signs blew down. But it was a gala and auspicious occasion for the GOP, perhaps the largest and certainly the most confident gathering of minority party members and delegates in recent state political history.

Republican candidates were out in force, brisk, bustling, flashing smiles and shaking hands.

There were huge banners, balloons, buttons, red, white and blue hats and the usual political hoopla went on in the hotels and motels. There were hospitality rooms, parties and a dance.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Peace And Harmony

The state's Republicans presently are engaged in an unprecedented major contest to nominate a candidate for governor, and the principals—John L. (Jack) Stickley and Rep. James C. Gardner—were much in evidence.

But everything appeared peace, harmony and party unity after the May 4 primaries insofar as most of the candidates, delegates and party leaders were concerned.

The convention under the direction of chairman Jim Houshouser and his various committees moved smoothly and with an air of neutrality in the matter of intra-party contests.

Competition Is Keen

Yet it was evident that campaign competition is keen between the Stickley and Gardner camps. This has developed into a hard-fought and probably a close contest. Opinion about the outcome is sharply divided among state Republican leaders.

Gardner continues confident that a campaign to persuade dissident Democrats in his Eastern North Carolina stronghold counties to change registration next month will be successful. He feels he will receive a tide of new Republican votes in the areas in which he is well known.

Stickley also is confident that he is supported by the bulk of registered Republicans in the state and that will be sufficient.

"When you hunt ducks you go where the ducks are," Stickley said. He indicated he has no plans to seek a mass switching of registrations before the primary.

Adopts Platform

Probably the most important business of the GOP state convention however was the sharpening of its political weaponry for next fall's campaigns against the state's entrenched Democrats.

The platform adopted contains a lot of points, both old and new. It attacks Democrat policies and rule and proposes reforms in many areas.

Platform Points

It proposes a return to counties and local governments 15 per cent of the present multi-million dollar per year state sales and use tax collections. This is designed as an answer to the pleas of local governments for financial help. Democrats will ask by what method the GOP proposes to make up the resulting loss in state revenue without a cutback in services.

The Republican platform also calls for stricter limits and restrictions in the area of public welfare assistance, a strengthening of police forces to uphold law and order and abolishing of secrecy in state government.

Some Beginning To Think Railroads Conned Govm't

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The following railroad facts can bear repeating:

— For years the railroads have publicized the idea that passengers have deserted the rails and that passenger trains therefore must be dropped. Many have been dropped.

— For as many years the railroads have maintained that only by merging into larger units could some of their members survive in the midst of competitive, and sometimes subsidized, methods of moving goods. These mergers have been made.

— Railroads in recent months have been saying they must have higher prices for the goods they move. After obtaining a 3 per cent increase last fall they are expected to seek another increase this month, perhaps this week.

Many critics are of the opinion, of course, that the dropping of passenger trains, the merging of lines and the rate increases are related, and not just chronologically. This may or may not be so.

However, the sequence of these factors, real or imagined, is causing some renewed concern and criticism among interested parties as to whether the federal government, regulator of the rails, has been:

— Overwhelmed by an outpouring of evidence, testimony and plain propaganda into viewing the immediate profit-plight of the rails as more important than the long-range requirements of society.

— Conned into believing that a reduction of competition would lead to the greatest efficiency and the lowest prices in transporting goods.

— Lax in its concern for the traveling public by agreeing with the railroads that customers just don't want to use the rails — although millions of people obviously would use them if they were modernized.

The railroads' argument for rate increases generally is that they are caught in a profit squeeze. It is an old argument and often has merit. The present claim, for example, is that wages have risen and so prices must. This can be defended, especially in a period of inflation.

In the past the lines have argued that profits were damaged by growing competition from jet airplanes, superhighways and inland waterways, all of which benefit to some degree from federal funds. These arguments were generally considered to be justified.

Federal research, in fact, may have worsened the condition by concentrating on rivers, roads and air space and doing little with the rails.

And there was costly featherbedding.

In more instances than management cares to admit, however, the responses to these challenges were regressive. They raised rates while permitting service to deteriorate, thus assuring decay. Ancient equipment and ideas were applied to formidable modern problems.

The more aggressive, innovative modern management tactics and technology were not applied until considerable decay had set in, much of which is the present cause of troubles, even though the growth of the nation's economy seemed to assure the railroads of growing business.

site presents "serious technical difficulties." Relocation would cost at least $13 million, and the new site would be "definitely no better, and in our opinion worse, than the present site at Cheltenham."

In August of 1965, the Bureau of Yards and Docks concurred: "Encroachment has not been a problem to date at Cheltenham." The Chief of Naval Material agreed; in a memorandum to the Chief of Naval Operations, he described logistical problems at Sugar Grove and "strongly recommended" that the relocation plan be dropped. Subsequently, a fresh study of the idea was made by RCA, at a cost of $200,000. The RCA experts were not impressed: Sugar Grove "does not appear to offer special or unusual merit as a relocation site." The Defense Research and Engineering branch agreed.

In the teeth of these repeated adverse recommendations, the Navy plunged ahead. The Chief of Naval Operations defended the project: A receiver at Sugar Grove "will be at least as good as it is at Cheltenham, although it may not be greatly improved." In July of 1966, the Secretary of the Navy wrote McNamara: "While there are no technical reasons which would dictate removing the existing receiving facilities from Cheltenham, the risks associated with relocation at Sugar Grove are acceptable."

The job is now underway. Contracts have been let for $5.6 million in preliminary construction. The new receiver, to cost $11.6 million, will be complete in December. Thereafter, it will cost one million dollars a year more to operate than the Cheltenham station. By 1973, upwards of $16 million will have been tossed away. No wonder Gross is howling. The taxpayers ought to be howling, too.

ABA 'Reardon Report' Has Critics In N.C.

(Editors' note: The American Bar Association recently adopted the controversial Reardon Report—a recommendation that law officers, judges and attorneys strongly curb information available to the press and the public about arrest and trial of suspects. The move has raised a storm of protest from newspaper editors and some judges and attorneys. This is the first in a three-part series on reaction in this state by Greensboro Record assistant city editor Roy Martin.)

The American Bar Association has adopted tough new regulations governing release of information to news media in criminal cases, apparently throwing more fuel into an already smoldering controversy.

"It is very dangerous and very damaging," said Sam Ragan, executive editor of the Raleigh News and Observer-Times.

The ABA's action came Feb. 19 in Chicago with the adoption of the Reardon Report, which seeks to restrict information released to news media publicizing criminal actions.

"This constitutes prior restraint on a free press and is a violation of the First Amendment," declared Ragan, a past president of The Associated Press Managing Editors.

Essentially, the controversy over a free press versus a fair trial is a clash of interpretations of constitutional guarantees.

The legal-judicial system contends newspaper use of information such as a defendant's past criminal record, alleged confessions, eyewitness reports, etc., violates the constitution's Sixth amendment.

News media declare court actions are a matter of public record and therefore information pertaining to court actions must be released to the public. A free and unencumbered press, it is pointed out, is guaranteed by the constitution.

The 290-member house of delegates of the American Bar Association approved the Reardon Report's restrictive proposals after news media representatives asked for a delay in any action pending the completion of survey of trial judges by the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

The new ABA policy proposals also ask law enforcement agencies, sheriff's offices, police and FBI to impose similarly restrictive regulations on their officials and staff members in the release of information in criminal actions.

Elizabeth City attorney J. Kenyon Wilson, a past president of the North Carolina Bar Association, was present at the Chicago ABA meeting.

"I opposed the action of the house of delegates," he declared.

"My opposition is based on my belief that the press should be given time they believe they need, whether they need it or not."

He said one result of the ABA action possibly could be an uncooperative position by the press in future dialogue on the free press-fair trial conflict.

"Nothing can be worked out if one of the parties should take a bitter approach — in this case, the press," Wilson said.

A. Hartwell Campbell of Wilson's Radio Station WGTM said he believes the ABA's adoption of the Reardon Report's proposals constitutes "an unfair road block, on the press in reporting court actions."

"Granted," he declared, "there have been times when some information should have been handled with more discretion. Nevertheless, it will be the American public that loses its right to know if the American Bar Association's ruling stands as drafted."

Municipal-County Court Judge Benjamin Miles of Greensboro interpreted the ABA's action as stemming perhaps from recent federal court decisions which have required some cases to be sent back to lower courts for retrial because of alleged compromise of the right to fair trial by newspaper coverage.

"I believe the bar members probably felt that if there had not been so much news coverage, these cases would not have had to be retried," said Judge Miles. "This is a very delicate matter. The newspaper must achieve what is news and there is the possibility of prejudicing the general public and the defendant's case by going into detail."

"I don't think there is any set rule that could be laid out to achieve that delicate balance needed," the jurist added.

North Carolina Press Association secretary J. D. Fitz of Morganton said he believes the ABA's house of delegates acted with "undue haste."

The house of delegates seems moved by the spirit of Little

Jack Horner: "What a good boy am I," said Fitz. "They appear more concerned with building their own cause than in exploring the possible impairment of the solid right of the people to know under the first amendment."

'68 CHEVROLET

prices start lower than any other full-size models. Look at it. Chevrolet's 4-door sedan is roomier than any other American car except one high-priced luxury sedan, according to Automotive News. Drive it. You can tell by its smooth and silent ride that Chevrolet quality runs even deeper than that elegant Body by Fisher. The standard V8's bigger this year; the standard Six's the most powerful in Chevy's field. Buy it! Get a Chevrolet instead of a medium-priced name and you can have, for instance, power steering, power brakes and a radio besides. Pay more? What for!

'68 CHEVELLE

prices start lower than any other mid-size models. Obviously nothing's newer in mid-size cars than the quick-size Chevilles. There's fresh styling, the long-hood, short-deck look. There are two nimblefooted wheelbases now: sportier for coupes and convertibles, roomier for sedans and wagons—both on a wider, steadier tread. You get big-car power, big-car ride in a quick-size package, starting at prices so low you can add comforts like air conditioning without straining your budget. No wonder Chevelle outsells everything in its field year after year!

'68 CHEVY II NOVA

prices start lower than any other economy car so generously sized. Nova is the not-too-small car. It's big enough for a family on vacation, yet it slips into parking spaces others pass by. With its new wide stance and computer-tuned chassis, Nova rides as silent and steady as cars costing a whole lot more to buy (and run). Its all-new Body by Fisher looks just as handsome inside as out. As for performance, Nova comes with the biggest standard V8 in its field. Here's one economy car that doesn't look or act the part.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food and Drugs Commissioner Dr. James L. Goddard—endorsing the administration proposal to make possession of LSD a crime—has denied the White House tried to muzzle him.

Goddard endorsed the measure Monday at a hearing of the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee. The subcommittee canceled his appearance two weeks ago amid reports the administration did not want him to testify because he had reservations on the proposal.

"At no time has the White House tried to muzzle me," Goddard said.

He supported the administration proposal for stiffer penalties against manufacturers, sellers and distributors of LSD and other dangerous drugs.

He said a section on penalties for people who possess small quantities for personal use could "mark a large number of young people just entering adulthood as criminals."

But he said the administration decided such a penalty "would be an effective instrument for law enforcement" and said he respects and supports that judgment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The court-martial conviction of a Marine accused of killing a South Vietnamese woman has been set aside and a new trial ordered by a Naval board of review.

The Pentagon said Monday the basis of the decision was a question of the mental condition of Marine Cpl. Stanley J. Luczko, 21, of Gardner, Mass., at the time of the slaying.

Luczko had been acquitted of charges that he murdered a South Vietnamese man and mutilated the body.

The conviction of premeditated murder in the woman's death carried a sentence of life imprisonment, reduction in rank to private and a dishonorable discharge.

Veep Questions Report Findings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey

says the conclusion that America is moving toward two societies—one black, one white, separate and unequal—is open to challenge.

It was the first comment by a White House official on the President's Commission on Civil Disorders report released over the weekend.

Humphrey said if the commission's fear of a divided America "becomes a nightmare reality, it will not be so much because specific government failed. It will be because our free society failed."

The Vice President's remarks were in a speech for a National Housing Conference dinner.

He said the commission's conclusion "may be true although it is open to some challenge."

He said failure of free society could come if taxpayers wait for someone else to pay for community services, unions and employers do not grant equal job opportunities and land developers do not meet the housing crisis.

Seek Showdowns With Teachers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Governors and legislative leaders in three states today were heading toward showdowns with militant teachers' unions.

Oklahoma Gov. Dewey Bartlett met with legislative leaders again in hopes of reaching a compromise on school financing before Wednesday's descent on the capitol by thousands of irate school teachers.

In Florida a gubernatorial veto and another special legislative session loomed as possibilities as the statewide teacher strike moved into its 12th class day with no sign of immediate solution.

Classroom walkouts also continued in Wellston, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis, and Pittsburgh, Pa.

In Harrisburg, Monday, some 20,000 Pennsylvania teachers booed and shouted down Gov. Raymond P. Shafer as he appealed for patience and order in pressing their demands for higher salaries and school subsidies.

"Now, now, now," the angry but orderly throng chanted as Shafer pledged them a $6,000 a year minimum salary by the end of his administration in January, 1971.

The Pennsylvania State Education Association called the statewide demonstration in support of measures pending in the legislature to raise minimum salaries to $6,000 in three annual steps and increase state school subsidies to local boards to pay for them.

PSEA President Joseph Standa of Allentown said there would be repercussions at the ballot box for officials and legislators who failed to get the teachers' message.

The Oklahoma Education Association has called a "professional holiday" Wednesday for that state's 27,000 school teachers and 620,000 pupils. More than 15,000 teachers are expected to attend a one-day convention in Oklahoma City.

The OEA says it has collected more than 10,000 undated resignations from teachers to back up its demands for better financing of public school education in Oklahoma.

About 1,000 of Pittsburgh's 3,000 teachers struck last Friday in a demand for collective bargaining elections.

School officials plan to reopen the 24 junior and senior high schools today. Elementary schools have remained open during the walkout.

Florida Gov. Claude Kirk met with Republican legislative leaders again Monday but neither he nor the lawmakers would comment when their session broke up after 11 p.m.

Some 25,000 teachers walked out of classrooms two weeks ago after their union, the Florida Education Association, termed a new $329-million education bill inadequate. Kirk has until Thursday to act on the bill.

Bill Young, state senate Republican leader, said Monday Kirk had indicated he would vote the main bill in the education package and call the legislature back to improve it.

Schools in Wellston, Mo., shut down last Thursday when 94 teachers walked out to protest the defeat of a tax measure that would have raised their salaries.

Refuse Visa For Prime Minister

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said today it has refused a visa to Premier Ian Smith of Rhodesia, who seized independence from Great Britain in November 1965.

State Department press officer Carl Bartch said that while the United States has issued visas to Rhodesians with valid British passports, Smith apparently doesn't have one.

"So since we don't recognize the Smith regime we don't consider a passport issued by that regime to be a valid travel document," Bartch said.

A student group at the University of Virginia issued a speaking invitation to Smith last September and he applied for his visa last month at the U.S. consulate in Salisbury, the State Department said. Bartch said the secretary of state and attorney general may jointly waive the requirement that a visa applicant have a valid passport.

"and we have granted such waivers to a few private Rhodesian citizens both white and African. Students, for example, have received such waivers."

But he added, it is generally not the policy to waive passport requirements for the heads or leading officials of a regime the United States does not recognize, "even if they are not coming on an official visit or for official purposes."

Narcotics Count Facing Son Of Former Baseballer

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Jackie Robinson Jr. has been released in $5,000 bond pending a hearing on a charge of possessing narcotics.

The 21-year-old son of the first Negro to break into major league baseball was arraigned Monday after local detectives said they confiscated several packets of heroin and a pouch of marijuana in the young man's apartment.

"We have obviously failed somewhere," Jack Sr. told reporters after the arraignment before Circuit Court Judge George Diczno.

In the courtroom earlier, Jack Jr. had tried to plead guilty to charges of possessing narcotics and carrying a concealed weapon. The police said they also found a .22-caliber pistol made in Italy when they arrested him early Monday.

But Judge Diczno told young Robinson that he would be able to enter a plea later. The date for a hearing was set for March 11.

Jack Sr. told reporters that he blamed himself for his son's predicament. An adviser to New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Robinson said he has been away from home too often and too long.

"I had the feeling something was wrong, but I couldn't get through to him," he said of his son.

from Vietnam last year after receiving shrapnel wounds in action with the U.S. Army, lived in his own apartment, his father said.

Jack Jr. had admitted smoking marijuana in Vietnam, the elder Robinson said.

FBI Hunts Pair For Conspiracy

SEATTLE (AP) — The founder of The Minutemen and one of his top aides were hunted by the FBI today after being indicted in a plot to blow up a police station and power plant as a diversion for bank robbery.

Secret federal grand jury indictments returned Feb. 20 against Robert Bolivar DePugh, founder and head of the paramilitary organization, and Walter Patrick Peyson, 24, were made public Monday by U.S. District Judge William T. Beeks. Bail was set at $30,000 for each man.

The 44-year-old DePugh and Peyson, both of Norborne, Mo., were charged with conspiracy in plans to blow up the police station and power station in nearby Redmond before robbing three banks there and another bank in suburban Des Moines.

The FBI said DePugh was last seen several weeks ago in Norborne, where he is owner and operator of Biolab Co., an animal-drug firm.

The FBI said the plot was not carried out because an inside tip resulted in the arrest of seven other men here Jan. 26, the day the alleged plans were to go into effect.

Cautious View Of 'Retraction'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department has termed encouraging President Gamal Abdel Nasser's reported withdrawal of this charge that U.S. planes helped Israel during the Middle East war last June.

But department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey would not comment Monday on whether the Egyptian leader's statement in a Look magazine article might lead to restored diplomatic relations—which Nasser broke off June 6.

State Department experts have made clear that withdrawal of the charge would be a precondition for renewed relations. There was no immediate indication if Nasser's informal and rather cautious statement in the magazine interview would be considered adequate.

The interviewer asked Nasser if the charge that American and British planes provided Israel with a "protective air umbrella" was "based on suspicion and faulty information."

"You could say that, yes," Nasser was quoted as replying. Nasser and King Hussein of Jordan made the accusation on June 6, the first day of the war with Israel, and Nasser broke off Egyptian-U.S. diplomatic relations the same day.

King Hussein has acknowledged publicly and repeatedly that the charge was false. He has visited Washington twice since the war.

Benvenuti And Frazier Capture Fight Crowns

Mathis Knocked Out In 11; Nino Wins Decision

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Benvenuti is once again midweight champion of the world and Joe Frazier rules as heavyweight king of at least part of it today after a record-setting boxing doubleheader at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 18,096 paid $683,503, an indoor fight gate record, to watch the stylish Benvenuti outlast Emile Griffith for a unanimous decision and Frazier stalk and pound blubbery Buster Mathis into submission in the 11th round.

Frazier, fighting for recognition by New York, Massachusetts, Maine, and Illinois as heavyweight champ, wore Mathis down with punishing body blows before finally dropping the big guy from Grand Rapids, Mich., with a short, stiff left hook in the 11th.

Mathis's white trunks covered with blood, fell into the ropes heavily. He stumbled to his feet at the count of nine but Referee Arthur Mercante stopped the fight. The time was 2:33.

"This ought to prove who owns who," a jubilant Frazier shouted in his dressing room. Joe, who won the Olympic heavyweight title in 1964, twice lost to Mathis as an amateur. The defeats were the only blemishes on his record.

Frazier, the one-time butcher boy from Philadelphia, bloodied Mathis' nose in the third round, and then concentrated on the big guy's body in the middle rounds.

The stiff body punches tore into Buster's ample mid-section and took the steam out of the 243½ pound Mathis' fast start.

Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, had advised the 24-year-old slugger to work on Mathis' body. "Beat him around the belly," Durham had told Frazier, "and he'll eventually give up."

So Joe, giving up 39 pounds to Mathis, pounded away and from the sixth round on it seemed obvious he was in complete control.

Mathis, badly shaken by the defeat, said he was stunned at losing the way he did.

"I thought I was ahead," he said, "then I pulled back from a left hook and got tagged."

Jimmy Iselin, wealthy young head of Peers, Inc., which has managed Mathis' career, said that if Buster continued fighting, it would be against tougher opponents.

Frazier went into the bout a 2-1 favorite, mostly because he had faced tougher opponents in his 19-fight career than Buster. "Maybe we took this fight too soon," said Iselin, "I don't know."

Frazier was undaunted by the limited recognition of only four states and the pre-fight picket lines thrown up by supporters of Cassius Clay. The pickets carried signs claiming Clay still was heavyweight champion. Cassius was stripped of his title by several boxing commissions for refusing to serve in the Armed Forces.

Asked if he felt like the world champion, Frazier became annoyed.

"What do you think, man?" he snapped. "What do you think I was fighting for out there?"

Benvenuti, who beat Griffith for the second time, decked Emile in the ninth round with a left hook that turned the midweight fight around.

Both boxers lunged into each other in the opening minute of the round and Benvenuti's left crunched into Griffith's jaw. Emile sagged and Nino pumped a right that sent him to the canvas.

"The guy hit me," said Griffith, "there's no doubt about that." Emile spun across the ring and landed on the seat of his pants with a stunned look on his face.

"I was thinking clearly," said Emile. "I even helped the referee with the count." Griffith rose at three and took the mandatory eight. He backtracked the rest of the round, weathering Benvenuti's attempt to end it.

Now Nino, who weighed 160 to Emile's 154½, took control and for the next few rounds he made up an early deficit. Then, with Griffith unleashing a furious closing flurry, Nino counter-punched effectively and gained the decision.

As the decision was announced, bands of Benvenuti's countrymen rushed into the ring, waving the green, red and white Italian flag. Throughout the fight they had filled the Garden with chants of "Neno, Neno, Neno."

Benvenuti, who first beat Griffith for the middleweight crown last April 17, then lost a rematch to the New Yorker Sept. 29, left the door open for a fourth meeting.

"I can't say," he told newsmen. "I won't decide about a rematch until later."

Nino got $80,000, Mathis $75,000, and Griffith and Frazier $175,000 each. The gate broke the indoor record of $511,000 set by the third Floyd Patterson-German Johansson heavyweight title fight at Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961.

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier indicated there was four years of frustration behind the left hook that finished huge Buster Mathis and made the unbeaten Philadelphia heavyweight champion in four states.

Sitting in his Madison Square Garden dressing room Monday night, Frazier said he hoped his technical knockout victory at 2:33 of the 11th round ended the myth that Mathis owned Frazier.

"This ought to prove who owns who," said the 204½ pound former meat cutter.

Frazier, of course, referred to the pair of three-round decisions he lost to Mathis in the 1964 Olympic Trials. He's been haunted ever since by the specter of the hulking heavyweight from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Frazier admitted he had grown tired of hearing how Mathis had licked him. Referring to those who picked Mathis to do it a third time, Frazier said, "People weren't fighting Mathis. I was. I knew I would win. I couldn't predict the round because then Mathis would have been ready."

Now recognized as champion in New York, Massachusetts, Maine and Illinois, the 24-year-old Frazier said he was ready to settle undisputed possession of the heavyweight title taken from Cassius Clay for violating the draft law.

Frazier's manager, Yancy Durham, said, however, he was taking his tiger home to rest for at least two months. "I'm not dickering for any fight. I've no plans now."

Durham and Frazier said their strategy was to hammer at the belly until they wore down the big oak. Durham said he told his tiger before the bell for the 11th, "We're going out and kayo this guy in this round."

Did he feel like the world champion?

"What do you think man?" retorted Frazier in an annoyed tone. "What do you think I was fighting for out there?"

Mathis, in a brief confrontation with newsmen, said he felt strong at the end. "I don't know why the referee stopped it," he said, although he staggered to his feet at nine and obviously was in distress.

"I thought I was beating him," he mumbled. "I just got caught with a left hook."

He and Frazier finally agreed on something.

Holt's Captures City Playoff

Holt's edged out the Book Barn, 41-40, last night in a playoff to decide first place in the City League.

The two teams tied for first place in the regular season finish, and the playoff decided which team got first seeding in the tournament, which starts tonight.

In the tournament, four games will be played tonight, two on Thursday, and the championship game next Tuesday night.

Holt's used a strong first half to gain the victory, holding off a Book Barn rally. By the half, Holt's held a 25-16 lead. But in the second half, Book Barn rallied and pulled back to throw a scare into Holt's before bowing.

Alexander led the Holt scoring with 11 points, while Gibson had 18 to pace Book Barn.

Rose Golfers Win, Netters Defeated

TARBORO — The Rose High School golf and tennis teams opened their seasons yesterday in Tarboro.

The golf team, led by Ben Harrison with a 79, defeated Tarboro by 19 strokes in their match.

The tennis team, however, bowed to Tarboro, 8-0, losing all eight matches.

Chris Time, driven by George Sholly, had the best pacing time at Yonkers Raceway during 1967. On May 27 he was clocked in 1:59.2.

Knockdown Major Force In Victory

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The punch that regained the world middleweight championship for Nino Benvenuti was a left cross, "my best punch," as he put it.

The punch floored Emile Griffith an automatic eight count in the ninth round and was a major factor in Benvenuti gaining a close, but unanimous 15-round decision Monday night.

Griffith, who now has lost twice to Benvenuti in their three title fights, conceded it was an authentic knockdown "not a shove like in our first fight," but said it was a right that floored him.

Told that a replay of the punch on a TNT Communications monitor at ringside showed it was a left, Griffith smiled.

"Well, it might have been a left that put me down, but the right had a little zing to it, too."

Griffith thought he had saved his title in the last round when he staggered Benvenuti and drove him across the ring with just one minute left on the clock.

That earned Griffith the last round on all three official scorecards, but it wasn't enough.

The new champion kept reporters waiting outside his dressing room door for 45 minutes, but then he laughed when asked if Griffith had hurt him in the last round.

"No, no. He didn't hurt me. I was just surprised that he had so much stuff left."

Nino himself seemed tired when he was rushed past the waiting reporters and ordered "don't let anyone in."

When they finally were admitted Benvenuti was seated on a table alongside his pretty wife, Giuliana. She kept silent while Nino answered questions.

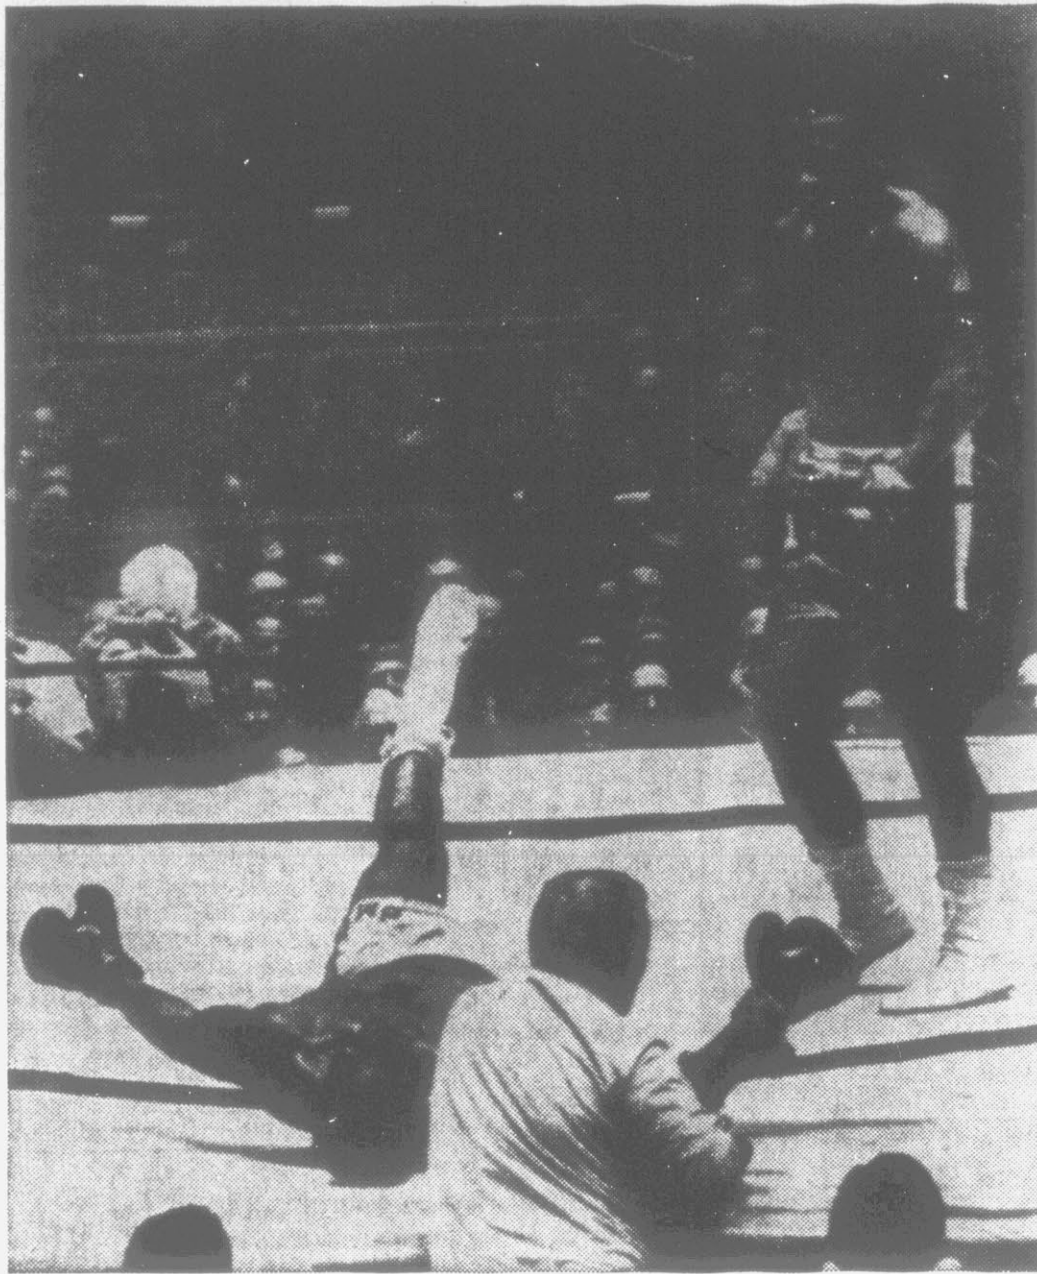

"Nothing wrong with my ribs tonight," he replied to one question. Last September, when he lost the title to Griffith in outdoor Shea Stadium, Nino said his ribs had been hurt in an earlier round.

What about another title bout with Griffith?

"I can't say now," Nino replied. "I'm going on a brief vacation with my wife." He smiled at her, and leaning over, gave her a kiss.

"We plan to return to our home in Italy in a week. Then we can talk about a rematch."

Gil Clancy, Griffith's manager, said he thought Nino "won a few rounds with last-minute flurries that looked impressive." As for a fourth title bout between Nino and Emile, Clancy declared, "I think the fight tonight calls for one."

District Tourney Set At Williamston Gym

WILLIAMSTON — Play opens Wednesday night in the District One Class A Basketball Tournament at Williamston. Eight teams will be vying for the right to represent the District in the state playoffs next week in Durham.

Among those in the tournament is the defending State champion, Ayden High School. The Tornados have won the title for the past two years, and will be shooting for a chance to make it three in a row.

But seven other teams will be out to stop the Tornado string, and at the same time, halt a Pitt County monopoly on the tournament in recent years.

The tournament will get underway Wednesday at 7 p.m. with Mattamuskeet meeting Pitt County runner-up Bethel. Then at 7:30 p.m., Jamesville, the Martin champ, meets Maneto, the Tidewater runner-up.

Thursday night, Robersonville, second in Martin, will meet Tidewater winner, Knapp at 7 p.m. In the 8:30 game, Ayden meets the Beaufort-Hyde runner-up, Bath.

Friday, the semifinals will be held, with th Wdnnesday night

Robinson, Callison Continue Their Holdouts As Spring Training Goes On

By MIKE RECHT
Frank Robinson and Johnny Callison feel Baltimore and Philadelphia are adding insult to injury with their money offers to play baseball this year. The Orioles and Phillies, on the other hand, feel Robinson and Callison have added their figures wrong.

As a result of these mixed up mathematics of baseball value, the two slugging outfielders remained two of the biggest name holdouts as major league spring training moves on.

Clete Boyer, third baseman for Atlanta, was another who has not found the right answer in his talks with the Braves.

But some agreeable figures were reached Monday as Frank Howard signed the largest money contract ever, $47,500, by a Washington player; Mel Queen, Tommy Helms and rookie Jay Ritchie ended their holdout with Cincinnati, and the Orioles did come to terms with Dave Johnson and Curt Blefary.

Robinson, however, remained Baltimore's big problem, and if everyone's figures are correct, the American League Triple Crown winner two years ago and the Orioles are $15,000 apart.

Robinson, who sat out a month last season with double vision after a baseline collision and still managed to hit .311 with 94 runs batted in and 30 home runs, says he is standing by $125,000.

Personnel director Harry Dalton of the Orioles, who originally offered last year's $100,000 salary, then raised it to $105,000, reportedly increased his offer to $110,000 Monday after talking to Robinson 1½ hours.

For Callison, a former All-Star outfielder who suffered a torn cartilage last year and played in considerable pain for some time, the problem was a little different. He was being asked to take a cut from the reported $40,000 to $50,000 he got in 1967.

Houston Gets Better Grip

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie Somerset of Houston acts as if he doesn't want to see the season end, and his 41-point performance Monday night was a step toward prolonging it for the Mavericks.

The 5-foot-9 guard shot Houston into a lead and kept the Mavericks in front en route to a 130-129 victory over Oakland in an American Basketball League game at Houston.

The triumph tightened Houston's hold on fourth place, the last playoff spot, in the Western Division to two games over the Oaks and 2½ over Anaheim.

Denver increased its hold on second place with a 108-98 home victory over third-place Dallas, but the Rockets failed to gain on leading New Orleans, which tumbled Indiana 128-118 at Fort Wayne, Ind., in the only other game.

There were no National Basketball Association games.

With the season ending March 22, Houston's two-game lead looks more substantial every day. Somerset's scoring put the Mavericks into an early lead and when the Oaks pulled within 68-64, he took over again and shot Houston into a 95-81 spread.

Jim Hadnom had 28 points for Oakland.

Denver, 2½ games behind New Orleans and now 2½ ahead of Dallas, shot into a 64-50 half-time lead and then had to hang on.

Larry Jones scored 30 points and Lonnie Wright 23 for Denver while John Beasley had 27 for the Chaparrals.

New Orleans, losing 25-17, ran off a 16-2 spurt and raced away from Indiana as Jackie Moreland and Jimmy Jones each hit 25 points. Freddie Lewis scored 26 for the Pacers.

Feds Check On Olympic Money

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The federal government and the state attorney general's office are looking into a report from an advertising firm, soliciting funds for the Olympic Committee in a five-state area, that $72,000 is missing.

Assistant U. S. Atty. Tim Timmins said officials of Dodson and Co. told him an ex-employee had diverted the funds.

Timmins added that U. S. Post Office Department inspectors were checking on whether there had been mail fraud or if there was an interstate violation that could bring the shortage under the aegis of the federal government.

A spokesman for Dodson and Co. said Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin had been asked to investigate and Martin said he had sent an investigator to Dallas at the request of the Olympic Committee in New York.

The spokesman said that the amount of money involved was approximately $72,000, that it was covered by insurance and that it was believed it would be recovered.

Columbia, Princeton Meet Tonight To Decide Ivy League Championship

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
Kansas State and Iowa, now assured of first-place ties in their respective conferences, must wait until Saturday to do something about clinching titles. But Columbia and Princeton will settle that problem tonight.

Eighth-ranked Columbia and Princeton will play off for the Ivy League championship at neutral St. John's Alumni Hall in New York. Princeton forced the playoff by beating Columbia last Saturday night in the final regular-season game.

Columbia is 20-4 and Princeton 20-5 over-all. Each is 12-2 in the Ivy.

Kansas State clinched a share of the Big Eight Conference championship Monday night when Gene Williams tipped in a shot with five seconds left for a 63-61 victory over Iowa State at Ames, Iowa.

This gave the Wildcats a 10-3 conference mark and kept them one game ahead of Kansas, which edged Oklahoma 85-80 at Norman, Okla. Kansas State is at home against Oklahoma State in its final regular-season game Saturday while Kansas plays at Iowa State.

Kansas State, however, is assured of an NCAA berth. The worst K-State can do is tie Kansas for the title, and K-State beat Kansas twice in their home-and-home series. This would determine the champion in the event of a tie, and no playoff would be necessary.

Sam Williams broke the game wide opening by scoring eight points within 58 seconds midway through the second half as Iowa clinched a Big Ten tie by trouncing Minnesota 91-72 at Minneapolis.

Iowa, now 10-3 in the conference, needs to beat Michigan in its regular-season finale at Iowa City Saturday to wrap up the title. Ohio State, in second place a game back, closed its regular season on the road Monday night by nipping Illinois 67-64.

Top-ranked Houston and No. 9 Louisville, the only two members of The Associated Press Top Ten to see action, both closed out their regular seasons with easy victory.

Houston, 28-0, smashed West Texas State 107-76 at Canyon, Tex., as Player of the Year Elvin Hayes poured in 39 points and grabbed 27 rebounds.

All-American Westley Unseld scored 30 points and cleared 23 rebounds as Louisville, 20-6 and the Missouri Valley champion, romped 107-58 over Bellarmine at home.

In other games, Vanderbilt thrashed Louisiana State 115-86, Tulane topped Virginia Tech 88-78, Utah State edged Portland

Guy Lewis Is Coach Of Year

HOUSTON (AP) — Guy Lewis, college basketball's coach of the year, is a fidgety man who twists towels and drinks at least 20 cups of water during every game.

As usual, two soft drink cases holding 48 paper cups of water were at Lewis' feet Monday night as his University of Houston Cougars completed their regular season schedule with a 28-0 record by defeating West Texas State, 107-76, at Canyon.

Just two hours before the tip-off Lewis had won The Associated Press coach of the year award in run-away fashion. With 322 sports writers and broadcasters voting, Lewis collected 122 votes to 34 for John Wooden of UCLA, the 1966-67 season winner.

Lewis' award came just three days after Elvin Hayes, the pace setter for the high scoring Cougars, captured the player of the year award with a landslide victory over UCLA's Lew Alcindor. Houston had held the No. 1 national ranking since snapping UCLA's 47-game winning streak Jan. 20 with a 71-69 victory before a record crowd of 52,693 in the Astrodome.

Both Lewis and Hayes say their honors belong to the team and they agree the UCLA victory may have turned a good ball team into a great one.

"They were confident before that game and when it was over they just oozed with confidence," Lewis said.

"Since the UCLA game we've worked better for the good shot," Lewis said. "I've thought we had good team play since the first of the season but since the UCLA game it has been the best

State Hopes Pinned On Ed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eddie Biedenbach might be North Carolina State's good luck charm.

The first year he played in an Atlantic Coast Conference tournament — 1965 — the Wolfpack won the title. His second year he scored 64 points, and the State team came out second after almost beating Duke in finals again.

Biedenbach missed the tournament last year and the Wolfpack went down in the first round.

This year, Wolfpack fans are hoping his return will put N. C. State back on top.

The Wolfpack has a good chance in the first round—they play Maryland, a team they have beaten twice this season.

But, if the N. C. State team is successful in their bout with the Terps, Duke is their next likely opponent.

Biedenbach has had problems this year. He missed the '67 season after a back operation, and this season he's had a bad thigh and a broken nose.

He doesn't think, however, that his physical condition will bother him in the tourney.

"It shouldn't be as hard on me," Biedenbach said, "because we don't press all the time any more."

He quickly adds, "But three days is awfully tough for anybody."

All in all, the N. C. State guard is optimistic. State has played at Charlotte twice this year and won twice, both times in the North-South doubleheaders.

"I like everything about that court except the color," Biedenbach said. "It's trimmed in a shade of Carolina blue."

Top Scorers To Meet In Opener

GREENSBORO, N.-C. (AP)—

The two top scorers in the Atlantic Coast Conference will square off in the first round of the ACC basketball tournament Thursday at Charlotte Coliseum.

Mike Lewis of Duke is still the leader, averaging 23.6 points a game, but his closest competitor, sophomore guard Butch Zatezalo of Clemson is averaging 23.4.

Larry Miller of North Carolina is still in third place, averaging 22.6. Skip Harlicka of South Carolina is the only other ACC player averaging better than 20 points a game. Harlicka has a 21.3 average.

Sophomore Van Williford is the new leader in field goal shooting. The N. C. State forward is shooting .578 per cent. He replaces Norm Carmichael of Virginia.

Jerry Montgomery continues to lead in free throw shooting and Mike Lewis appears to have wrapped up the rebounding title.

Montgomery, Wake Forest's floor leader, has hit 127 of 148 free throw attempts for an .858 average. Lewis is averaging 15.4 rebounds per game.

Campus Antibusiness Sentiment Still Minority

EDITOR'S NOTE—Perplexity about young people—their manners, morals and motives—was expressed often in a recent Associated Press Managing Editors Association study of what readers are talking and worrying about. This article focuses on the attitude of collegians toward corporate careers.

By GEORGE TAYLOR
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Are college students becoming increasingly disenchanted with business as a career?

A loud but apparently small group of undergraduates says yes.

Some college career counselors and recruiters say no, brid-ding at the suggestion that corporate life is losing its appeal. Other educators and businessmen are working to combat any antibusiness feeling although generally there is doubt that it is a serious revolt.

These are the conclusions from an Associated Press survey at major colleges and universities in different parts of the country.

Criticism of business by students plays on two overriding themes: (1) going into a corporation means losing your individuality and (2) big business does not do enough to solve the country's social and economic problems.

The subject is a favorite for dormitory and coffee shop bull sessions. And the debate quickens as colleges across the country start welcoming corporate recruiters wooing their June graduates.

Here are some typical antibusiness sentiments.

"This generation has to work for something other than the dollar," said Lawrence Suskind, 21, a senior at Columbia in New York City.

Said a junior at the University of Texas in Austin who asked anonymity, "Business has an image of an unstimulating life. The only reason you would go into it for money and if you wanted to get ahead you would have to play interoffice politics."

"I'd like to participate in transforming American society completely and radically—making it more egalitarian and more democratic," said Douglas P. Seaton, 21, a Princeton history junior from Cleveland. "I'll probably wind up organizing poor whites or Negroes in ghettos for political action."

Peter J. Kaminsky, 21, of West Orange, N.J., also at Princeton, said "I would only do it to business if I had despaired of all social progress. If I do what I want, I'll be poverty stricken. I'd like to be a rich revolutionary."

Said another student, "I don't believe all this talk about how you can express your social concern through business because the people expressing social concern won't move into important positions. He'll be an outcast, like the company Negro. A showcase with no influence."

College officials and corporation recruiters are becoming more conscious of the criticism.

Some deny that antibusiness feeling is on a scale that should cause concern.

Dr. C.O. Strother, university relations director for Union Carbide Corp., which hires 1,000 graduates a year, said, "What antibusiness feeling? I believe it's pure fabrication."

John Moritz, placement director at Villanova University in Pennsylvania, said, "The ambition of students today is no different than it was five years ago, or even 10 years ago—and a very big number will go into business."

E. H. Cummings, placement director at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa., thinks there is "some" antibusiness feeling among collegians "but it's by no means greater. It's just more noisy and newsworthy."

Chancellor W. Clarke Wescoe of the University of Kansas said, "We've never experienced this kind of (antibusiness) feeling here. We have more students signing up for interviews for business careers than ever in our history."

Paul V. Grambsch, dean of the University of Minnesota's School of Business Administration, said that the notion that students are turning against business careers is open to question.

"There are more alternatives for students today, more choice for them to make. They don't accept the idea that a business career is what they must be interested in. The current generation is more questioning about what to do with their lives."

Businessmen and recruiters who regard the antibusiness noises with some concern appear to be going on the offensive.

Robert W. Galvin, the 44-year-old chairman of Motorola, Inc., has been carrying on printed debates with students in 29 campus newspapers for two years.

The students assail corporate jobs ("dullsville") and the ingredients of corporate life.

In calm and measured words, Galvin urges them to learn more about business and reassures them that the corporate life is filled with challenges. "I think that in some areas business has projected itself too weakly," Galvin said.

Dr. Raymon F. Rolfe, corporate recruiting director for Dow Chemical Co., which has been the target of violent anti-Vietnam protests because it makes gully with them (students). You have to be candid and honest ... You can't just dangle a buck in front of them."

Industries are stepping up their recruiting efforts at the Berkeley campus of the University of California, which has been out front in the ranks of student protests. In 1967, more than 800 corporate prospect-hunters interviewed on campus, compared with 550 the previous year.

In a survey of the current freshman class at Berkeley, 34 per cent of the 1,700 who responded from the 4,388-member class had fathers in business. Only 3.4 per cent said they had any desire to follow their fathers' footsteps.

John Fox, director of the office of graduate and career plans at Harvard, thinks the complaints of some students that business generally doesn't do enough for society are valid. "Graduates here feel their talents are best applied in government or in professional training or in volunteer work, like VISTA or the Peace Corps," Fox said.

Dow's Rolfe thinks that a lot of the antibusiness sentiment comes from liberal arts students and those in the social sciences who are not being courted with the fervor reserved for technical students.

As might be expected, the survey found some students ready to speak out for business careers.

Edwin M. Sykes III, 21, a Princeton history senior from San Antonio, said, "It's foolish to think you can reform capitalism from the university."

Steve Waters, 21, of West Hartford Conn., a Harvard student, said, "Business is a conduit to the establishment where the monetary remuneration and the power attained can be of great use to run for office and be elected to it."

Statistics are of little help in trying to gauge the depth of antibusiness sentiment.

As one college official put it, "If a company needs 150 men for its junior executive training program, it recruits on campuses and gets its 150 men. But who's to say if it got the best or the 150 it would have gotten if most seniors were aching to get into corporations."

U.S. Office of Education figures show enrollment in business schools is holding its own. Bachelor, master's and doctorate degrees in business or commerce accounted for 11 per cent of the 490,600 degrees granted in the United States in the school year that ended in June, 1961.

In 1966, the last year for which government figures are available, the number of degrees had risen to 683,100. The business and commerce share was still 11 per cent.

What's behind the antipathy of some collegians to corporate careers?

"It's the generation gap, youth vs. age, the have nots vs. the haves," said Edward D. McDouglas, director of management and professional development for the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

"The students want the assets of their parents but they're unwilling to put in time on the treadmill that will get them their share of the pie."

"And they're smart enough to know they're a needed commodity. In a sense, it's generational blackmail. They know others are worried and they're probably enjoying being the center of attention. It's the spoiled child sort of thing."

Dr. Jerome G. Beame, a New York management psychology consultant, said, "You're dealing with a generation of people who have nothing positive to stand for and it's easier to be positively against."

"Business is becoming far too compartmentalized. There's not enough room for expressions of individuality. Jobs have to be identified in terms of functions and not boxes on an organizational chart. The kids are rebelling against it."

More Sophisticated Arms Reaching Reds

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — In the long-past days of the war against the French, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap's guerrillas boasted that their weapons were almost all captured on the battlefield.

Then the wily Giap introduced cumbersome but effective pack howitzers to outgun the defenders at Dien Bien Phu. It helped turn the tide, wearing down the defenses and closing the airstrip which was the outpost's lifeline.

The lesson impressed the Communist command. Not for them the wide array of weaponry in modern armies. They wanted specific weapons for specific tasks.

The recent Tet offensive shows they now have these weapons in good supply if not abundance.

More than two years ago the command decided that captured arms would not prevail against American firepower.

The first, and perhaps most effective, new weapon to reach the guerrillas was the Soviet-designed AK47 assault rifle, a simple, stubby automatic that is slightly less lethal than the U.S. M16 but also less complicated.

The AK47 is now the standard infantry weapon for North Vietnamese regulars and almost all guerrillas. They are flowing in steadily—some captured AK47s have been manufactured as recently as 1967.

With the AK47, the Communists in one massive resupply effort outclassed the South Vietnamese forces, still largely armed with the U.S. carbine from Korea War days. To this day relatively few South Vietnamese forces have the U.S. M16.

Simultaneously, the Communists began to ship in more 82 mm mortars, new 120 mortars and the RPG7 grenade launcher.

The 82mm mortar could fire captured U.S. 81mm shells. It became the mainstay of widespread harassing attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese installations, with a range of about two miles.

The RPG7, also known as the B50, was designed for use against tanks. This light, shoulder-fired weapon, similar to the old U.S. bazooka, has proved deadly against bunkers, fixed installations and vehicles. Its rocket-boosted charge can penetrate 10 inches of steel. It has been used effectively against patrol boats in the Mekong Delta and elsewhere. In barrages from as much as a quarter mile away, it has rained casualties on outposts, base camps and convoys.

These weapons, however, were just for openers in the infantry war that was growing.

Long-range weapons were necessary to strike at the more heavily guarded U.S. bases. Heavier guns were needed in the northern provinces along the demilitarized zone, where the war was slightly different. It was foreseen in the North that the Red troops would need heavy anti-aircraft weapons which could not be used extensively further south without sacrificing mobility.

The Soviet Union was asked to furnish the bulk of the weaponry and the changes became apparent about one year ago. American intelligence estimates that 75 per cent of the war supplies entering North Vietnam originate in Russia. Most of the rest comes from Red China with a small stream from other Red bloc nations.

Cuban Scholars Cut Sugar Cane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Havana Radio praised 24,000 government scholarship holders for cutting 1 billion pounds of sugar cane during 26 days.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, quoted a story published by Havana's newspapers lauding a Fidel Castro plan called "the school in the countryside."

Thousands of Cuban university and high school students and young workers have left classrooms to learn agriculture in the fields, helping cut sugar cane and pick coffee beans and vegetables, the broadcast said.

PUBLIC NOTICE

APPENDIX A
All parents and guardians of pupils under the jurisdiction of the Pitt County Board of Education please take notice that:

1. As a matter of policy adopted by the Pitt County Board of Education, all children, beginners, transfers and students regularly enrolled in the Pitt County schools, grades 1-11, will be given "Freedom of Choice" to attend any school in the Pitt County Administrative Unit for the 1968-69 school year.
2. On March 1, 1968, forms for use in choosing the school for your children to attend, and also a letter of explanation, will be sent to you. These forms are to be returned to the school principal or Board of Education by March 29, 1968.
3. Pupils indicating a choice of the school they wish to attend shall be assigned to those schools prior to the assignment of those pupils who do not indicate a choice. Pupils not indicating a choice within the choice period shall be assigned to the school nearest their home or residence. If the school nearest the non-indicating pupil's home or residence is filled, such pupils shall be assigned to the school next nearest their respective homes or residences. The Board, of course, may and is expected to exercise its discretion and make exceptions in cases of extreme hardship, provided such action is not discriminatory.
4. The choice forms issued by the Board shall allow for the designation of a second and third choice of schools, although this does not require a pupil or his parent to indicate more than a first choice. Where only one choice is indicated and space is lacking for the applicant on a priority basis, based upon proximity of the pupil's home to the school chosen, such pupil will be assigned as if he did not indicate a choice (to the school nearest his home, etc.). In the event more requests are submitted for a particular facility than its capacity will accommodate, priority or preference as between two applications of otherwise equal priority shall be accorded on the basis of proximity of the home of the respective applicants to the school in question.
5. The execution of these forms is to be made without duress, coercion, or intimidation. Any violation of this should be reported to the Board of Education. Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady. Supplies adequate demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 37-38; medium, whites: 33-35; small, whites: 31½-34.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets steady. Tops 18.75-19.25 Rocky Mount; 18.50-19.25 Wilson; 18.25-19.00 Statesville; 17.75 - 18.75 Bethel, Tarboro; 18.25 - 18.75 Hickory; 19.00 Salisbury. Selma; 18.75 Greensboro; 18.00 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market gathered further support early this afternoon as averages posted gains even as a few more stocks were lower than higher. Trading was active.

Many of the recently battered issues on the major stock exchanges snapped back as buyers picked them up at relatively low prices.

Meanwhile the gold mining stocks, which have been strong for days, sagged sharply on profit taking and also on news that the British pound sterling had recovered dramatically. While demand for gold continued high in London, turnover was below recent record levels.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.35 at 832.41.

Selective strength by blue chips helped give the popular averages a gain. Computer, conglomerate and other glamor stocks made recoveries, some of them several points higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .7 at 302.8 with industrials up 2.1, rails off .1 and utilities off .5.

Among active issues, Control Data gained about 4, Republic Corp., Teledyne and Ling Tempco Vought about 3 points each, AMK Corp. 2 and Gulf & Western about 1½.

Less active, IBM rose 7, Polaris about 4½ and Xerox nearly 3.

American South African Investment, down 4 or more, was heavily traded, as was Benguet, a fractional loser.

Coppers turned mixed after their rally of Monday.

The top four steelmakers and most of the leading auto stocks gained fractions.

On the American Stock Exchange, the level continued to sharpen lower.

Order Study Of Possibly Closing 2 Martin Schools

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Education yesterday instructed Superintendent of Schools R. E. Rogers to study the feasibility of closing the Parmele and Salisbury Schools.

The Parmele school is a four-teacher elementary school while the Salisbury school near Hassell is a six-teacher elementary facility.

The board also directed that free choice blanks go out at the next report period, in mid-April, and instructed the superintendent and the board's attorney to study plans and requirements for complete compliance with Title 6 of the Civil Rights Act.

An easement on the Hayes School property in Williamston was granted by the board, for improvement of Washington Street. The street will be curbed and gutted and paved.

The board also directed Rogers to set up a date for a public hearing on the proposal for a new high school in the Williamston area, and to set a date for a public meeting concerning the problems of public education in North Carolina in connection with the Governor's Study Commission.

April 20 was set by the board as a make-up day for the March 1 snow day.

H. N. Jackson of Hamilton was sworn in as a member of the board at Monday's meeting.

Jackson replaces R. A. Haislip Jr. of Oak City who resigned Haislip had two years remaining on the board.

Pirate Jean LaFitte received a presidential pardon for past crimes because of his help in the successful defense of New Orleans in 1815.

Community Notes

The BCP Community Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Blanche Payton, tonight at 8 o'clock.

Revival services are being conducted this week at Burning Bush Church, Stokes Highway. Services begin each night at 8 o'clock.

A different speaker will be featured each night.

A 30 day consecration and spiritual revival is being held at Wells Chapel Church of God in Christ throughout this month. Services begin each night at 8 o'clock. The ministers and missionaries of the church are conducting the services.

Sign Contract For Studies Of Lines To PTI

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville town board last night signed a proposal contract with William F. Freeman of High Point, for engineering studies for water and sewer lines from the Winterville city limits to Pitt Technical Institute.

Pitt Technical Institute has been interested for some time in securing municipal water and sewer service.

The town board accepted a petition from property owners on Jones and Worthington Streets improvement, including curb and gutter and asphalt paving.

The commissioners also gave Mayor Walter Dail authority to bring court action against Winterville residences presently using outside privies where town sewer lines run by their homes. Winterville town regulations require persons to tap onto the municipal sewer system when lines run by their house.

Winterville Tax Collector Elwood Nobles was given permission to attend the North Carolina Tax Association Convention in Chapel Hill March 20-21.

The application for disaster funds was completed by the board and returned to the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency. The town of Winterville is seeking federal aid for damages received during the ice storm in January.

Police Chief W. E. Ennis was ordered by the board to enforce the Winterville pool room regulations.

Teaching Fellow Shows Prints At Greenville Shop

Fourteen color and black-and-white woodcuts, lithographs and intaglios by an East Carolina University School of Art teaching fellow are now on display at The Mushroom at Georgetowne Shoppes off Cotanche Street.

The artist, Mike Goins, is a graduate of ECU who taught last year at West Mecklenburg High School of Charlotte. He is executive director of the East Carolina Print Group.

Goins has exhibited his prints in Raleigh, in Charlotte and at Mercyhurst College in Pennsylvania. His show at The Mushroom will continue through March 16. His prints are for sale. Hours are 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily and 3 to 5 p.m. next Sunday, March 10.

Twenty-Six At ECU Tax Clinic

Twenty-six Eastern North Carolinians attended a recent one-day Tax Clinic for Small Businesses conducted at East Carolina University by the ECU division of Continuing Education.

The clinic, first of its kind offered by ECU, was designed to assist participants in their understanding of tax laws as they apply to small businesses of various kinds.

Faculty members were Robert Forrest, internal revenue agent; Don Howell, revenue officer; and Allen N. Sharpe, business law teacher at ECU.

CANDIDATES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Negro comedian Dick Gregory and baby doctor Benjamin Spock will be presidential and vice presidential candidates on the November ballot in Pennsylvania, a spokesman for the proposed Peace & Freedom party said Monday.

"THE AMBUSHERS"

N. C. Delegates Lean To Nixon

RALEIGH (AP) — A majority of North Carolina's 26 delegates to the Republican National Convention strongly favor Richard Nixon for the presidential nomination.

Four delegates at large were elected at the state GOP convention Saturday, completing the 26-member slate. Twenty-two delegates had been elected earlier at district conventions.

An Associated Press poll showed 16 delegates prefer or lean toward Nixon. Six declined to state a preference while four took stands that did not rule out the possibility of voting for Nixon.

None of the delegates is committed. State Republican Chairman Jim Holshouser has said he expects Nixon will get at least 22 of the delegation's votes.

The delegates who prefer or lean toward Nixon are:

4th District — James Cresimore, Raleigh, and T. Worth Coltrane, Asheboro.

5th District — Harvey Carpenter, Thomasville, and Mrs. Ann

Hickman, Winston-Salem.

6th District — John Hutchins, High Point, and Dick Barnwell, Burlington.

8th District — Gerald Chandler, Albemarle.

9th District — James G. Martin, Davidson, and Jay Frank, Statesville.

10th District — Brent Kincaid, Lenoir, and Dan Simpson, Morganton.

11th District — Mrs. Eugene Foster, Asheville, and Kent Coward, Sylva.

Delegates at large — J. Ed Broyhill, Lenoir; John S. Shal-cross, Smithfield; and Sen. Geraldine Nielson, Winston-Salem. The four who took stands that don't flatly endorse Nixon — but don't favor anyone else — are Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N.C., and Steve Conger of Weldon, 2nd District; and Morehead Stack of Fayetteville and Dr. Tom Needham of Wilmington, 7th District.
