America's Mood: Frustrations, Expect Worst

EDITOR'S NOTE—This story summarizes what members of The Associated Press Managing Editors Association, in a continuing survey, say their readers are talking and worrying about.

By EDITH LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — From coast to coast, a survey of editors by The Associated Press Managing Editors Association indicates that Americans are floundering for answers on a complexity of subjects—the Vietnam war, the challenge posed by the Pueblo's seizure, rising taxes, crime in the streets and the nation's continuing racial crisis.

"It's the damndest sea of general pessimism I've ever dabbled a toe in," said William F. Chapman, managing editor of the Hammond (Ind.), Times.

Some editors gave even more gloomy appraisals of the mood and attitude in their communities.

Herbert W. Spendlove, editor of the Jackson (Mich.) Citizen Patriot, commented: "It's almost like a solemn vigil; that World War III is inevitable. People seem resigned to a state of helplessness, that the United States faces the world and all of its problems without a friend."

As they had done in a similar report at the end of last year, editors listed the Vietnam war most often as the main concern of their readers. Many reported that they had seen hawks starting to turn to doves. Others said they found a "Let's-get-it-over-with" attitude.

Thomas J. Murphy, managing editor of the Waltham, (Mass.) News-Tribune, said a lot of people were talking about the credibility gap but not calling it that. "What they say is: 'You can't believe a damned thing those so-and-sos in Washington are telling us'," he said.

Growing casualty lists and increased draft calls are bringing the war directly into more and more families so that increasing numbers of Americans have a deep personal stake in what happens, the editors reported.

Bernard P. Lyons, managing editor of the Port Huron, (Mich.) Times Herald, wrote: "Nobody's satisfied with the way the thing is going. The great mass of people between the doves and the hawks share every frustration of the extremists, but lack their solutions . . . There seem to be no heroes of this war; only victims."

Comments on the Pueblo crisis generally indicated anger at what was done to the national posture, but no agreement on whether the United States followed the right course.

On domestic matters, the survey reported complaints about the high costs of living, too many strikes, teen-age drug use, charges of corruption in high places, increasing sexual freedom and increasing crime rates.

Some editors reported that the usual late winter talk about summer vacations has been replaced in their cities by talk of the danger of renewed racial violence.

Kenneth W. Michael, editor of the Evening News in Perth Amboy, N. J., reported "a deep underlying fear that the riots may not be confined to ghettoes much longer and that the violence may affect the normally quiet middle-class residential neighborhoods."

Though the presidential election is only nine months away, the editors said, none of the candidates seems to have generated any excitement.

"On the political scene, they say LBJ means only more of the same, Nixon is a born loser, Reagan should have stayed in movies, . . . Rockefeller is out of touch with the common herd . . . and little Bobby is something unprintable," said Alan D. Moyer, managing editor of the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle.

Though Americans are not in an economic depression, the survey showed they are complaining about increasing costs of government, the doctor, the golf club and the supermarket.

"The bread and butter issues still seem to dominate people's conversation here," said William D. Schlemmer, managing editor of the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal. "Neighborhood bars now have gone to 35 and 40 cents for 'local' beer and a nickel more for national."

The survey showed that perhaps as much as anything else Americans are uneasy about being uneasy concerning so many things.

"People don't talk about it specifically, but between the lines, you can hear a disturbance about the absence of something solid to believe in," David B. Osborne, managing editor of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Press, concluded.

Speir is a veteran United Fund volunteer and has served his home community of Bethel in many capacities in the United Fund effort.

He has been a member of the Board of Directors of Carolinas United, which coordinates activities of the state and national United Fund agencies.

"We should see continued progress in the beginning of the second decade in the United Fund method of raising the necessary funds to carry on worthwhile work of our health, welfare and character building member agencies," Speir noted.

The new president asked for the full cooperation of all citizens of Pitt County in helping to make this the best year ever in the United Fund.

Speir also praised the work put into the United Fund program by retiring president Jack Bircher.

Bircher was presented an engraved golf club for his efforts as campaign chairman and UF president by the board of directors. Speir emphasized that the club was not purchased with money raised by the fund, but came from private donations from board members.

Other UF officers elected at the meeting include: vice-president John B. Lewis Jr. of Farmville; J. Eric Whichard of Stokes, secretary; treasurer Joe O. Swain of Greenville and assistant treasurer Paul W. Bailey of Greenville. James T. Cheatham III was named general council.

Back Down On Teacher Requirements

RALEIGH (AP) — In light of strong protests from teacher organizations, the North Carolina Board of Education has backed down in its plan to raise requirements for teacher certification.

The board Thursday approved new certification requirements that will keep minimum scores on the national teachers examination at the present levels. They also will make allowances for the teacher who scores poorly on one section of the exam and does well on the other.

The board had planned to raise the minimum score required for both sections of the exam some 25 points to 500 effective in July.

On the recommendation of a special subcommittee of the state Advisory Council on Teacher Education, however, the board adopted a new plan which requires a composite minimum score of 950 for the combined common knowledge and teaching area exams for a class A certificate.

This will keep the average score for both exams at the present level of 475. At the same time teachers will be permitted for the first time to combine their scores so that a poor grade on one half of the test may be offset by a good grade on the other.

The state director of teacher certification, Dr. J. P. Freeman, told the board, "The new procedure emphasizes preparation of teachers in their teaching area."

The board kept graduate school requirements — which were to have gone to 600 this summer—at the present 550 level. It indicated, however, it plans to initiate a study into the standards of graduate school training.

Would Apply Only To Emergency Work

City Will Ask $89,464 Grant To Help Pay Ice Storm Costs

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflecting Managing Editor

Councilmen last night approved an application for a federal grant of $89,464.77 to help defray cost of emergency repairs following the disastrous January ice storm.

The storm did major damage to electric lines and some damage to other city property.

City Manager Harry Hagerty pointed out that the requested grant would apply to only emergency repairs—not permanent repairs made after service was restored.

The council also approved a resolution executing a grant agreement between the city and the county and the FAA.

The agreement calls for a federal grant of $20,500 for runway lighting, new beacon, and other improvements to the Pitt-Greenville Airport. The city and county will pay $10,250 each on the cost.

Approval was granted for issuance of $200,000 in bonds for Sheppard Library additions. The bond issue was approved by the voters in a referendum.

William Nobles was appointed to the city's Good Neighbor Council, replacing D. D. Garrett who has served two terms.

W. L. Whedbee was appointed to a second five year term on the Utilities Commission.

City Clerk W. N. Moore and Dr. Sam White were reappointed to the Firemen's Relief Board.

Councilmen turned down a request from Duane Poole, owner of American Plumbing Co. of Clayton to allow use of plastic pipe in dwelling construction. Poole said the plastic pipe is allowed in the state plumbing code but not in the local code.

Poole explained that he has been awarded the contract for plumbing in the Moyewood low rent housing project.

The council also turned down a request by Attorney M. E. Cavendish for business zoning of a lot west of Greene Mill Run on E. Tenth Street. Cavendish said he represented a group which wished to construct a Pizza Hut on the property. The Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended against the zoning.

Councilmen set for April 4 a public hearing on rezoning property on the south side of Greenville Boulevard from the Lynndale property to Evans Street as commercial.

They also set for April 4 a public hearing on zoning property on Hooker Road west of Kearney Park residential for construction of 100 apartments. The hearing will also include commercial zoning for the adjoining property along Hooker Road.

The council approved a new schedule of rates with Barrus Construction Co. for asphalt paving. The fine grading rate had been five cents per square yard and will now be 6½ cents. Two-inch asphalt has been 85 cents per square yard and will now be 93 cents. Two course paving has been $1.05 per square yard and will now be $1.11. Resurfacing at 37 cents per square yard will remain the same. City Manager Hagerty said Barrus is the only company operating in this area which can do the paving work.

Other council matters:

—approved pool room permit for William Nobles at 703 Howell St. providing view of the building's interior is not obstructed.

—approved ordinance governing size of signs permitted in residential areas.

—approved restricting terms of Recreation Commission officers to one year with a second year's eligibility.

—turned down a proposal for increasing fee for issuing warrants from 50 cents to $3.

—approving supplementing a disabled city employee's retirement by $47 monthly until her 65th birthday later this year.

—approved parking lot lease to meter the Georgetowne Shoppe's 19 spaces.

—decided to widen Elm Street to 38 feet from Fifth to Third when the work can be fitted in with other street improvement projects.

—approved 35 miles per hour speed limit for E. 14th Street to Greenville Boulevard.

Add Amendments To Civil Rights

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violence in labor disputes is the latest issue raised in the Senate battle over a civil rights-open housing bill already broadened by antiriot provisions.

An amendment up for action at today's session, would provide federal protection against interfering by force or threats with workers going to or from their places of employment.

The amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., aimed at picket line violence, was adopted by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee last year but later thrown out by the full committee.

The civil rights bill would make it a federal crime to use force or threats to interfere with voting, jury service and other specifically protected rights.

Ervin said he plans to call up later another amendment, originally in the subcommittee bill, to prohibit labor unions from fining members who refuse to participate in a strike.

Action on the civil rights measure, now in its eighth week before the Senate, was slowed Thursday when a debate over the Vietnam war broke out.

But the Senate did write into the bill, by a 48-45 vote, a limited exemption from the open-housing section for nonowner-occupied single-family dwellings.

The amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., would permit the owner to sell or rent the dwelling without being subject to the ban on discrimination if he did not employ a real-estate agent or broker.

However, the exemption is restricted to persons not in the real estate business, who do not own more than three single-family dwellings, and who do not sell more than one of their houses within a 2-year period.

The Pitt County Mental Health Association was named the second most active mental health chapter in North Carolina at the meeting. Craven County was voted the most active chapter in the state.

At the Annual meeting of the Association's board of directors, Edward Warren of Greenville was elected vice president of the 25 county Northeastern Region of the Asociation, J. W. Pou III of Greenville, was elected the association's treasurer, and Victor Forrest of Greenville was named assistant treasurer.

Senators Robt. Kennedy, Fulbright, Fuel New Debate On Vietnam

By ROBERT GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and J. W. Fulbright have fueled a new eruption of Senate debate on Vietnam with demands that Congress be given a say before any major buildup of U.S. forces in the war zone.

Fulbright triggered Thursday's debate by asserting President Johnson is considering a big increase in U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

Kennedy, called current U.S. policies in Vietnam "immoral and intolerable." The New York Democrat said Congress should be consulted on military plans and he added:

"Are we like God? Are we empowered to decide which cities, villages and hamlets will be destroyed? Do we have the authority to kill thousands and thousands because we say we have a commitment?"

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Johnson has "tried hard and vigorously and consistently to find a way to the negotiating table." But Mansfield said there should be a full consultation with Congress before any "sizable increase" in the present 525,000-man troop ceiling.

Earlier, Prof. John T. McAlister Jr. of Princeton University, a specialist in Vietnam politics and culture, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee it would take 3 million to 15 million U.S. troops to gain a military victory enabling this country to dictate terms of a settlement.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads that committee, again attacked the validity of the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, saying it was "based on false representations."

The overwhelming adoption of the resolution by Congress in 1964 preceded the rapid escalation of American troop strength in Vietnam.

Fulbright recently held hearings on the controversial naval incidents of Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, involving two U.S. destroyers and North Vietnamese torpedo boats. He concluded the Johnson administration gave misleading information to Congress regarding alleged attacks by the Communist vessels.

Kennedy renewed his charge there is "deep seated corruption" in the South Vietnamese government. He said Johnson had commented on such allegations recently in a Beaumont, Tex., speech that "there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex."

"If there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex., it's not bringing about the deaths of American boys," Kennedy said.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said the escalation decision "should not be made by one man." Others who said Congress should be consulted included Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

In Springfield, Ill., Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey challenged Repubican presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon to tell how he would end the war.

Nixon said while campaigning in New Hampshire recently that if he were elected he would end the war.

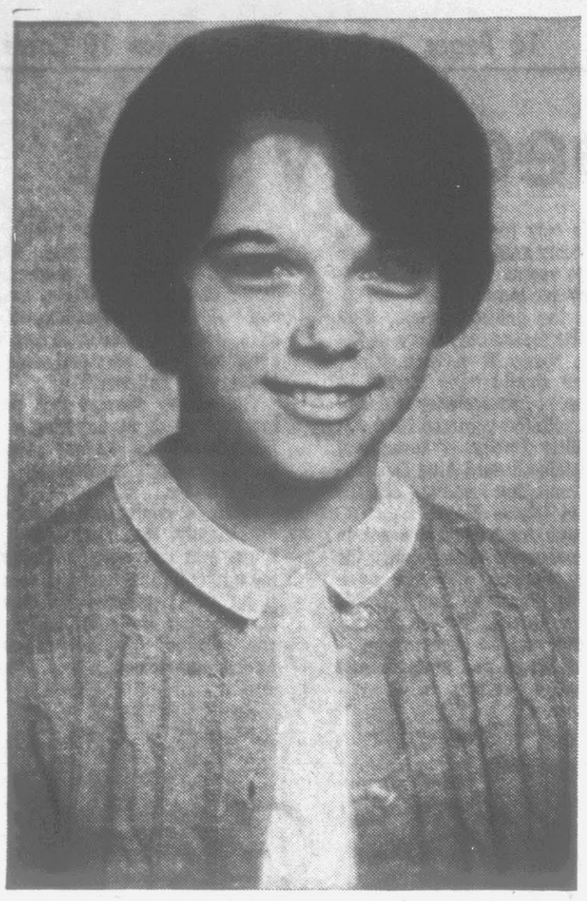

"If you know how to end the war and bring peace to the Pacific, Mr. Candidate, let the American people hear your formula now," Humphrey said. "Why wait until next year?"

Humphrey's remarks were prepared for a regional Democratic conference today.

In Chicago, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said that while the war "stands as a colossal impediment" to domestic and international progress, North Vietnam is mistaken if it counts on the U.S. peace movement or the election of a new president to bring unilateral U.S. withdrawal.

Hartke's comments were for delivery to the Steel Service Institute today.

It's All Part Of The Game

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old, not married, and I work to support myself. I'm not bad looking and live a fairly normal, happy life, but I'm beginning to wonder if maybe I'm foolish to work the way I do. What I'm trying to say is, I have a girl friend who works part - time — like maybe two days a week. She has had four husbands and she's single again. She has boy friends for everything. One pays her rent, another lets her drive his car, another painted and papered her whole house and she bragged all she gave him was lunches and a few daughterly kisses.

She sees the rent - payer on week - ends and she also has a truck driver staying with her off and on when he's in town. I don't know how she gets away with it. Shouldn't someone tell these chumps the score?

HER FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Don't worry about the chumps. Some men don't care what the score is as long as they're in the game.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a boy I'll call Bill for three years. I am 21 and Bill is 23. He has talked about getting married after I graduate from college, but I am not sure he is the one for me, and I have told him so. (I date other boys, too.)

My problem is every gift Bill gives me points toward marriage. For Christmas he gave me service for six in a very nice set of dishes. For Valentine day, he gave me service for 12 in some expensive stainless steel silverware. And for my birthday he gave me an electric blanket.

I don't have a hope chest, Abby, but Bill seems to be buying things to fill one up. He isn't rich, and these gifts are expensive. I don't want to lead him on. If our relationship totally dies, do I have to return these gifts?

COUNTING ON YOU

DEAR COUNTING: No. Bill is trying to "condition" you to think in terms of marriage (to him), but a gift is a gift, and the only gift you must return if the relationship "totally dies" is a ring. So don't let him force one on you, until you're sure he's "the one."

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Engaged," whose fiance "just likes the girls," was sound. You told her to get used to it, or get rid of him.

For her sake, I hope she gets rid of him. That type man never changes. I have been married for 29 years to a man who also "just liked the girls." He is 60 now, and he likes them as much now as he did then. And the younger they are, the better he likes them.

As you have probably guessed, he has made a fool of himself more than once. I need not go into the humiliation and heartache I have endured all these years. If I had it to do over again, I wouldn't.

HIS WIFE

CONFIDENTIAL TO FORT WORTH WILLY: If you've made up your mind, go ahead and good luck to you. But remember, no man ever works as hard for his money as the man who marries for it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Next Step: To Outlaw It Nationally

We doubt that there will be any real sorrow over the death of tax free revenue bonds for industrial development in North Carolina except as it affects our competitive position with other states.

The State Supreme Court ruled use of the revenue bonds unconstitutional. The ruling invalidates a 1967 legislative act which established an authority to issue bonds and use proceeds to build industrial plants for private firms.

The only way the revenue bonds can be revived apparently is through a constitutional amendment.

Most North Carolinians can hardly quarrel with the Supreme Court's majority ruling. There was great reluctance on the part of the Legislature and the citizens it represented to see the state enter this dubious field in the first place. But North Carolina was compelled to take the step because most other states were using the same methods and North Carolina was finding itself at a disadvantage in attracting industry.

Unfortunately now that the Supreme Court has struck down the law North Carolina's industry hunters will again be at a disadvantage in their work.

The decision was obviously a disappointment to the state's highest officials, perhaps not so much because they approve of the procedure but because they recognize the adverse effects the decision will have on the state's industry program. There are said to be 42 states which now have laws allowing the use of state revenue bonds for industrial development.

We believe North Carolina's next move would be to redouble its efforts in Congress to have this entire dubious procedure outlawed nationally. Then every industry would pay its own way in every state, which in a system of private enterprise is the way it should be.

If this does not prove possible, then North Carolina will have to take the other, and to us more distasteful, route. That is the state will have to attempt to amend its constitution to allow the use of revenue bonds for industrial development.

We think the whole procedure is not in the public interest. On the other hand North Carolina must remain competitive in the search for new industry and be believe its citizens will approve of any reasonable and necessary actions.

Tobacco Feels Foreign Impact

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — What happens in Rhodesia, change in smoking habits of the French and Italians and freer trade with Eastern Europe all profoundly affect the future of the flue -cured tobacco farmer in North Carolina.

In fact, industry and government trade officials believe these developments and the fate of certain legislation pending in Congress will have far greater effect upon the U. S. tobacco economy than health "scares" and anti - smoking campaigns.

This belief, cited by high-ranking government trade experts and officials of Tobacco Associates Inc., points up the importance of expanding export of flue - cured leaf and U. S. tobacco products, chiefly cigarettes.

WILLIAM SHIRES

At Record Level

Exports now account for 35 cents of each dollar going into U. S. tobacco farmer's pocket and are at record levels.

Last year, the U. S. exported more unmanufactured tobacco — four fifths of it flue-cured — and tobacco products than it did tractors or computers. The total amounted to $636 million.

What effect have health scares and anti - smoking campaigns in this country had on foreign demand for tobacco?

None at all, says John D. Palmer of Washington, president of Tobacco Associates Inc., an industry organization devoted to developing promoting and expanding flue-cured exports.

Outlook Is Bright

The outlook for flue - cured exports this year "is just as good as it was last year," Palmer says. "It could be better."

He cited strides in improving the position of U. S. flue-cured exports in a number of nations, principally West Germany, Great Britain, Thailand, the Netherlands and Japan last year. In Austria, a cigarette sponsored by Tobacco Associates has captured 31 per cent of the domestic market, he said.

Following his report to the organization's 21st annual membership meeting in Raleigh, Palmer flew to Leipzig, in East Germany, to open a Tobacco Associates exhabit at the world's oldest international fair founded in the year 11666.

Before leaving, he said the market for flue - cured tobacco in Eastern Europe. for all practical purposes, "has not even been tapped."

Other Export Markets

The principal speaker and dignitary at the Raleigh meeting, the president's special representative for Trade Negotiations, William M. Roth, agreed with Palmer.

Roth, who holds the rank of ambassador, was instrumental in reaching the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATTA) at Geneva last year. The agreements involve more than 50 nations and $40 billion in world trade.

He cited a growing affluence in Europe and said enactment of proposed East-West trade legislation by nongress to permit freer exchange between nations would open new markets.

"We look very strongly to our trade surplus to help with our balance of payments situation," Roth said.

Warnings Sounded

Both Roth and Palmer sounded warnings against proposed restrictive and protectionist tariffs and policies. Roth said "there is a danger of retaliations."

"Trade is a two - way street," he said, "We ourselves cannot have a closed market."

Palmer said Tobacco Associates Inc. "rose in immediate opposition" against a "flood of protectionist bills introduced in congress in the latter part of 1967." The effects, he said, would "reincarnate the infamous Smoot-Hawley Act of 1930 which was responsible in large measure for the economic depression in the 1930s." He reported "renewed efforts" to pass such bills.

Draft System Feels Pressure

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting American casualties in Vietnam and the prospect that more young men will be sent there are building pressures for changes in the draft system.

Anytime there are more youths of draft age than the military needs, the choice of who goes and who stays home is hard to make, and the present system appears to satisfy no one.

More than a year ago the Defense Department said the policy of drafting the oldest registrants first "was not desirable from any standpoint." Yet it continues.

The president of Harvard recently told Congress the new regulation wiping out deferments for graduate students was bad for the Army, the colleges and the nation.

President Johnson has asked that national standards be applied for draft classifications and congress gave him authority to issue them. But the 4,089 local draft boards still set their own standards and they can vary from county to county.

There is blame enough for everyone in the government for the failure to draw up and implement a system as fair as can be devised, but for congress the failure has been most abject. It had the chance last year to carry out a comprehensive revision of the law and threw the opportunity away.

A presidential commission had spent a year drafting recommendations and Johnson asked that most of them be enacted. But the House Armed Services Committee decreed that no great changes were needed-and its view prevailed.

In an exhibition of legislation - by - default, the House rubber-stamped the committee's bill at a session begun late in the day and chopped off peremptorily so members could depart on a long Memorial Day weekend — some on a junket to Paris.

The House had sat until 2 a.m. the night before working on a controversial school bill. The members were tired and crotchety when the draft bill came up and cries of "Vote! Vote!" were heard within an hour.

Sensing his colleagues' mood, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., of the Armed Services Committee put through a debate-limiting motion. It left members with less than a minute to explain major amendments intended to carry out some of the commission's recommendations.

Large Crowds Attend Mission

The mission at St. Peter's Catholic church continued to prove most interesting and instructive. Last night Father Berrong, the missionary, gave a preliminary talk on articles of devotion used by Catholics and showed that their only use is to inspire devotion to God in the heart, for example, a picture or statue of a saint will encourage us, it will remind us that if the saint, who was a mere mortal like ourselves, could practice heroic virture, we too can lead Godly lives...Tonight's subject will be "Just Retribution," In this sermon Father Berrong will discuss the existence of hell, its worst torment, its fire, its eternity. All are invited to attend. A beautiful musical program is prepared for each evening by the choir.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

TODAY AS ALWAYS

Is the international situation today worse than it has been in decades or perhaps centuries?

Sometimes we are forced to conclude that it is. However, even the most superficial appraisal of history reveals he fact the crises such as we are passing through today have been occurring almost endlessly from the beginning of recorded time. A history of our own country reveals the fact that crises such up and down of evil. From the day Columbus landed on the Western Hemisphere until this very hour, there have been wars and rumors of war, there have been international situations so tense as to threaten the stability of society. More people have been killed in war throughout the world since the year 1900 than during the whole of previously recorded history.

And the conclusion to which we are forced is that if the human race has stood through all the centuries what it has had to stand and has come through, not unscathed, but at last without being completely disintegrated, then the chances are that we will get through our present difficulties. Carelessness is causing a lot of deaths. Bad international policies cause more. Somebody makes a mistake, and a whole community suffers for hours, or perhaps days.

When is this sort of thing going to end? The bad news is that it is never going to end—that is not until we have that new heaven and new earth wherein dwelleth righteousness that is promised in the Bible (II Peter III:13).

But maybe this is part of our education.

"Hyde! Oh, Please, Hyde!" Pleaded Sweet, Gentle Dr. Jekyll"

Lyndon Is For Loyalty

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The lesson to be read in the rejection of Adlai E. Stevenson III by the Illinois Democratic party is that President Johnson now demands support not only for himself but for his whole Vietnam policy.

Personal loyalty to Mr. Johnson is not enough. The White House is demanding from new candidates and party leaders a blood oath of support not just for his goals but for all aspects of his war policy.

Word is quietly being passed to Democratic state leaders that campaign contributions controlled from the White House, including resources of the $1,000-a-member President's Club, won't be available to Democratic candidates who fail to give the President full support on the war.

Stevenson refused to take the blood oath and, in large part because of this, was passed over in favor of a political nonentity for the Democratic nomination against Senator Everett McKinley Dirksen at last week's candidate selection by the party slating committee in Chicago.

Stevenson's allies are sure that Mayor Richard J. Daley, the state's No. 1 Democrat, was willing to overlook Stevenson's dovishness to get badly needed strength on a lackluster ticket. They are equally certain that Daley, who regards loyalty as a cardinal virtue, would nevertheless have picked Stevenson had it not been for last minute intervention from the White House.

Obviously, Mr. Johnson cannot compel incumbent Democrats to toe the line this way, but Stevenson's case is by no means isolated. In Chicago, the Vietnam loyalty test was actually applied down to the levels of sanitary district trustee and county coroner.

Morris Abram, the Manhattan lawyer and Jewish leader, gave up his hope to run for the Senate when National Committeeman Edwin Weisl (the President's New York agent) rejected Abrams's middleground position in the war, even though it had been accepted both by Vice President Humphrey, the LBJ loyalist, and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, the LBJ critic.

And in Massachusetts, where Mr. Johnson faces a dangerous primary campaign with Senator Eugene McCarthy, party leaders have been informed bluntly that the President will have no truck with "doves for Johnson," but insists on acceptance of his policy as well as himself.

But Stevenson's rejection is the most graphic lesson. Stevenson, who had expressed reservations about the war at his first closed-door meeting with the slating committee, underwrote all the President's "purposes" in Vietnam at a second scrutiny by the committee last week.

He was pinned to the wall. Exactly what do you mean by saying you support the President's purposes? One top Democrat told him: "We want you to be an independent senator, Adlai, but not an independent candidate."

But Stevenson's reservations on the war, mirrored by one-third or more of the Democrats who will be running for major office this

Old Nixon Vs. The New

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon had another crisis just last week. I didn't realize it until I was returning from Gov. George Romney's press conference where he announced he was no longer a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

My first thought was that the Nixon people would be elated with the news, but when I passed their headquarters on Pennsylvania Ave., I found nothing but gloom.

"Why the long faces?" I asked a volunteer worker.

"Now that Romney's out of the race," he said, "Nixon has no one to run against."

"But I should think Nixon would welcome Romney's withdrawal."

"That's how much you know about Republican politics," he said.

"Nixon was counting on beating Romney big so he could overcome his loser image. Now that he has no one to run against, he can't prove he's a winner."

"You mean Romney double - crossed Nixon by pulling out before Nixon could officially beat him?"

"I'm not saying why Romney pulled out, but you can draw your own conclusions. With Romney out of the race, Nixon has to run against himself."

ART BUCHWALD

"What about Rockefeller?"

"Rocky's too smart to run in the primaries. He figures by the time Nixon campaigns in the primaries, people will be so tired of him, they'll want to draft someone else for the Presidency."

"But that's unfair to Nixon. If he works so hard for the presidential spot he should get it."

"That's what Dick says."

"Why don't you have Nixon run against Harold Stassen?" I suggested. "After all, Stassen is the only other announced candidate, and I should think people would be impressed with a Nixon win over him."

"We've thought about it, but in order for Nixon to look good we would have to make

Other Editors Saying

Want Only Good News?

(Florence, S.C., Morning News)

If the American public is so tired of bad news as to believe that things would be a lot better if the American press would print only good news, Kays Gary of the Charlotte Observer has a suggestion. "Pick any Communist country," he advises, like North Korea, and read one of its newspapers — say, "The People's Korea."

With a copy of that paper in hand, Gary quotes some excerpts as follows: "Victory and glory are in store for the Korean people led by Marshal Kim Il Sung—peerless patriot, national hero, ever-victorious, iron-willed commander and genius military strategist."

A paragraph on the capture of the Pueblo reads: "The research officer lieutenant of the U.S. imperialist aggressor army of Pueblo, the hateful, armed spy shop of the U.S. imperialist aggressor army, which was captured Jan. 23 by the self-defensive measures of the glorious naval force of the Korean People's Army while conducting military espionage activities intruding deep into coastal waters of our country, admitted their espionage activities."

That's good news communist-style. But what it is is "glorious" misrepresentation of the facts to keep Koreans happy and ignorant of what is really going on. "Can you imagine," Gary writes, 'having to read that kind of ostrich - in - the - sand malarkey every day . . . A totalitarian government here would insure that all reports out of Vietnam would be aglow with descriptions of our glorious defeat of overwhelming numbers of the Communist invader-butchers all over South Vietnam under the leadership of our 'ever victorious iron-willed commander and genius military strategist.'

'These reports would hardly change the facts. Americans have always done pretty well when armed with facts, good or bad. . . And we're in real trouble when there is no longer anyone 'to tell it like it is.'" Better be sure that you want all good news. Ignorance may be bliss but blissful ignorance isn't in the public interest.

Riots Cheaper Than Their Cure

By ELMER ROESSNER

The President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders built its plan on a rug that can be pulled out from under it. The rug is the costs.

The costs are so great that the tax-belabored public will not buy it.

The commission did not set a price tag on its proposals. There were good reasons.

First, the program is so vast and ramified that no intelligent estimate could be made.

Second, if adopted in toto the program would be so inflationary that it would automatically increase the costs every year, every month.

Third, if any honest estimate of the costs were made, it would automatically jerk the rug out from under the proposals.

LBJ On Spot

Furthermore, it looks as if the commission, in proposing such a costly program, by accident or design put President Johnson on a hot spot. If he has reservations about it, he will be accused of being against civil rights and for riots; if he doesn't, he will be called High-Tax Lyndon in the coming campaign.

Almost all of the proposals were for spending. Almost all of the spending proposed would be met by taxes.

One of the cheapest proposals is that industry provide one million more jobs for the unemployed. If only half of the rest of the program were put into action, industry woud need far more than a million men to produce the materials and workmanship needed.

Among the spend, spend, spend proposals are:

Hiring of one million more persons by federal, state and local governments. That would bring the national total to 13 million and it would mean higher federal, state and local taxes.

Plan For Taxing And Spending

Tax credit to industry for on - the - job training costs.

ELMER ROESSNER

More taxes on the middle class to make up for business's deductions.

Federal government assumption of 90 per cent of welfare costs. More income taxes.

Guaranteed minimum incomes. Fantastically high income tax increases.

Six million new or existing dwellings for low and moderate income groups, with 600,000 immediately. At $10,000 a unit, that would be $6 billion a year more in taxes for the next 10 years.

Increased federal aid to schools. Higher federal taxes.

Federal write - down on interest rates to builders of moderate - income housing. More taxes.

More rent subsidies to the poor. More taxes.

And more and more projects, all ending in higher federal, state and local taxes.

But no place in the report is a provision for spending as little as $1.98 for the propagation of brotherly love, which may be the only basis of which civil disorders can be permanently eliminated.

The costs involved would make riots much cheaper than the commission's program.

Student Singers To Compete Tomorrow

Some 650 high school singers from throughout Eastern North Carolina will arrive at East Carolina University Saturday morning for the annual District Choral Contest.

The student singers, to be accompanied by their choral directors, represent 14 performing groups from high schools in the state. They will take turns in the all-day series of 15-minute performances to be appraised by a panel of three judges.

ECU Receives Research Grant

East Carolina University Department of Industrial and Technical Education (I&TE) has received a federal research grant to develop a course of study for industrial arts at the elementary school level. The grant of $6,308 funds a project which is to be completed by next Aug. 31.

The project was initiated and will be directed by Dr. William R. Hoots Jr. of the I&TE faculty. Gurney E. Pittman Jr., a teaching fellow in the department, will serve as chief research assistant.

Two undergraduates will also work on the project as research assistants: These are Pamela King, a junior in the School of Education from Kinston and Richard E. Drake, an I&TE major from Hendersonville. According to Dr. Hoots, the primary objective of the project is to develop a unified course of study for the elementary grades of one through eight. Elements of industry as they appear in elementary textbooks will be identified classified and organized into a course of study that will parallel the current elementary school curriculum.

She told police, according to Chief H. F. Lawson, that she had placed her hand bag on a desk at the Art Center about 2:30 p.m., and that someone had taken two diamond rings, a cigarette case and her wallet, which contained an estimated $70, from the purse.

Detectives reported they recovered all of the items taken except for about $30 in cash.

The conference, set for Lambuth Inn at Lake Junaluska, the Methodist Assembly grounds, opens tonight and concludes Sunday noon.

"The Christian and Secularization" is the theme of the weekend conference. The Rev. Don Welch, assistant to the dean of the Duke Divinity School in Durham, is resource leader.

Richard D. Brunson, a sophomore pre-ministerial student at East Carolina University, Anne Barbre, a junior religious education-music major at Greensboro College, and Michael Aiken, a freshman at Wake Forest University, are attending the conference as delegates from Saint James Church.

The conference will help the young collegiate Christian "to grapple with and understand more thoroughly the problems and opportunities we face in a secular society," according to Joe Mann, the chairman of the planning committee.

Representatives are expected from the majority of the colleges and universities in the state.

Anson Countians Intend To Start Own School

WADESBORO, N. C. (AP)—A group of wealthy Anson County men has filed incorporation papers in Raleigh for the nonprofit Anson Independent School Association Inc.

The group says it will build a private high school for white students. Plans call for it to open next fall.

The group's attorney, Morgan D. McLendon Jr., says the school is not being established to avoid integration. He said, "We're only seeking quality education that we don't feel has been offered in the public schools of Anson County."

Incorporation papers were filed in Raleigh Wednesday.

VC Tet Offensive Paralyzed The Mekong Delta

AIRCRAFT DESTROYED IN MEKONG DELTA — Wrecked U.S. Army planes and helicopters stand in a row at the largest U.S. airbase in the Mekong Delta at V inh Long. The aircraft were victims of rocket and mortar attacks on the base. (AP Wirephoto)

By GEORGE McARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

VINH LONG, Vietnam (AP)—The Communist Tet offensive virtually paralyzed the Mekong Delta. Five weeks after the assaults, recovery is barely beginning and Viet Cong forces roam the countryside almost at will.

Hard-won gains in the pacification program have been lost in the 16 delta provinces containing six million people, one third of South Vietnam's population. The psychological benefits of last year's elections also may be lost.

The fear of a new Viet Cong offensive is so pervasive that a market has sprung up for empty sandbags. Once available for the asking, they now sell for about 10 cents each in the biggest city, Can Tho. People are building bunkers in their homes.

Nobody in a responsible position hazards a guess on how much time and effort will be required to repair the damage. All say it won't be quick and it won't be easy.

The delta's three biggest cities—Can Tho, My Tho and Vinh Long—and many lesser towns were badly shot up in the fighting.

About half of the once charming colonial-style city of Vinh Long was destroyed or damaged.

A tour of the cities and what one can see of the countryside raises little cheer. The Vietnamese and American forces in the delta are largely buttoned up in cities and towns.

It has been a Vietnamese cliche for years that the present war began in the rice-growing delta and will someday end there.

A hopeful development was the appointment one week ago of Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang as military commander of the 4th Corps, the delta area.

He flew into his headquarters at Can Tho that afternoon and within an hour had two companies of rangers on an offensive patrol.

The big, outspoken former chief of the pacification program then drove 30 dangerous miles, Vinh Long to Can Tho, with only two trucks as escort to prove that the road was open.

Thang can't be everywhere and the Viet Cong have lapped over the low paddies like a flood. At best the South Vietnamese control major towns and nominally hold the Bassab and Mekong Rivers and much-scarred Highway 4 leading southward from Saigon.

Commercial traffic on the rivers, however, is only a trickle. The Viet Cong warned the people to stay off and most of the outposts along the river have fallen, many without a shot. On one 20-mile stretch of the Mekong River, 10 of 15 outposts fell. Elsewhere the picture is similar.

Trucks and buses are moving again on Highway 4 but elsewhere the roads are largely through Viet Cong territory and Viet Cong tax collection points.

"There are little Viet Cong flags everywhere," said a saddened helicopter pilot who has known the delta since 1963. "Until now the Viet Cong would put them up at night and people would tear them down in the daylight. Not any more."

His reaction was typical of feeling among American advisors—high and low. Rosy optimism is hard to find in the delta.

American officials now speak freely—but privately—of bureaucratic scandals previously swept under the rug. One such is the province of An Giang where "the province chief went into a state of shock although a shot wasn't fired." He clamped on a 3 p.m. Curfew and withdrew his forces to the towns, leaving the countryside to the Viet Cong.

There were other provinces and towns where the South Vietnamese forces were first-rate. Where the leadership was good, the local forces frequently performed stoutly.

"We were taken completely by surprise," one ranking province official admitted.

Another said it could happen again. The Communists are known to have held back part of their striking power and allied intelligence in the delta is, admittedly, worse now than before.

"Our antennae will be a bit better tuned, we hope," added one American adviser.

The major American advisory effort is directed toward getting the South Vietnamese forces again on the offensive, out in the countryside hunting down Viet Cong forces. Some Americans want to take the South Vietnamese out of the pacification business entirely—half their battalions were supposedly guarding pacification projects before Jan. 31.

One problem is that half of Saigon's forces were on leave for Tet—the lunar new year—at the time of the Communist attacks. Nobody yet knows how many came back, but it is established that South Vietnamese units are all understrength, many seriously so.

The 59-man pacification teams on whom so much depended are also a question. When the attacks came 205 teams were in the delta. Now 115 teams are in their original areas, but some number only a handful of the stout-hearted.

There were 15 battalions on pacification tasks when the Red offensive started. Six remain in Revolutionary Development areas.

When the Communists struck Jan. 31 there were one American and three South Vietnamese divisions in the delta, along with rangers, militia forces and other small units. Counting the police, the South Vietnamese and Americans had perhaps 200,000 men—at least on paper. The Viet Cong forces are estimated to have numbered far less than half that. No regular North Vietnamese units had been infiltrated into the delta. As the South Vietnamese have resisted the stationing of American units here, the Viet Cong have opposed intervention by their northern allies.

Without the intervention of large American reinforcement—plus sweeping command and bureaucratic changes—it is difficult to see how the American advice to be "more offensive" can bear much fruit.

As it is now, the Communists hold the offensive and are consolidating their victory. They are recruiting young men at a rate which raises fear among American officers.

American pessimism can be measured in one official's estimate of the Red offensive's goals. He gave these aims which he thought the Viet Cong hoped to achieve:

—To put the South Vietnamese on the defensive.

—To harass the roads and isolate the district towns.

—Create an economic blockade by halting the normal flow of agricultural products.

—To accelerate their own recruiting.

—To restrict airfield activity by mortar attacks and to damage American aircraft and air activity.

—To eliminate the troublesome outposts which dotted the area, particularly along the banks of the major rivers and canals.

—To prepare the way for another offensive.

By the account of American officials on the scene all these goals were accomplished except the last, which is still underway.

The underground dwelling of the prairie dog is one of the most elaborate devised by any American mammal.

Stassen look good, and we don't have enough time to do that. A win over Stassen in the primaries means absolutely nothing to the people back home."

"And," I said, "there's always the outside chance that Stassen could beat Nixon."

"That wasn't very funny," the volunteer said.

"All right, let's go back to Nixon's problem. What if Nixon does run against himself in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and Oregon? It could very well turn out to be one of the dirtiest primary campaigns in history."

"But what will it prove?" he said.

"Suppose the old Nixon accuses the new Nixon of doing terrible things. People would be horrified and all the sympathy would go to the new Nixon."

"I'm following you," the volunteer said.

"The new Nixon could go on television with his family and his dog and let the people judge whether he or the old Nixon were speaking the truth. The old Nixon would be pilloried by the press and you'd have a wave of sympathy for the new Nixon that you haven't had in American politics since the last time Nixon pleaded his case to the American people."

"It could work," the volunteer said. "The only thing that worries me is that if the new Nixon beats the old Nixon so badly in the primaries, now do we know the old Nixon won't hit us below the belt during the election?"

fall, have now removed from the Illinois ticket the party's number one vote-getter.

Just how satisfying this is to national Republican strategists was revealed in the joyful reaction of one of the chief backers of Richard M. Nixon for the Presidential nomination. "Daley has probably delivered Illinois and its 26 electoral votes to us," this Republican told us.

All were shouted down.

"We're asking young men to give up two years of their lives," said one unhappy member, "and we won't even give two days of our time to consider this."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An elderly shoeshine man is the central figure in a case in which the Supreme Court is considering whether chronic alcoholics properly should be jailed for their uncontrolled drinking.

Leroy Powell, 67, shineman in an Austin, Tex., tavern, has been arrested 73 times in 16 years. It is his case that is bebore the nation's highest court.

Peter B. Hutt, a lawyer representing the American Medical Association and eight other organizations, told the court Thursday alcoholics are reluctant to seek treatment so long as society considers public drunkeness an offense that must be punished.

The court is attempting to decide if it should impose on a nationwide basis a ban on the jailing of chronic alcoholics for public drunkenness. Such a policy is already followed by federal courts in Washington and Richmond, Va.

David Robinson Jr., speaking for the state of Texas, urged the court not to accept the argument that chronic alcoholics deserve immunity from prosecution for public drunkenness.

Once such a defense is recognized on this charge, Robinson said, it will be used to stop prosecution for serious crimes such as rape and murder committed by intoxicated persons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ivan Nagy, Hungarian ballet dancer, has decided to remain in the United States rather than return to the other side of the Iron Curtain.

"It really wasn't a dramatic thing—he really rather comfortably stayed on," Mrs. Marjorie Stafford, publicity director of the National Ballet, said Thursday. "He never went home."

Nagy, 24, began dancing with the National Ballet in 1965, but returned to Hungary the following summer. He was back in the United States for the ballet season in the latter part of 1966 and has remained in this country since.

A spokesman for the National Ballet said Nagy has been accepted as a lawful permanent alien by immigration officials.

The dancer was quoted as saying his decision was prompted not by political reasons but by the feeling his best career opportunities are to be found in this country.

Benefit Affair Is Very Informal

MONROE STATION, Fla. (AP) — A benefit in most places usually means climbing into a tight tux and apologizing to your stomach for the chicken-a-la-king you're forced to inflict on it.

It means something different in this swamp town. The dress is anything but black tie and the fare will include 30,000 pounds of wild hog, swamp cabbage, black-eyed peas and what the sponsors describe as "other delicacies." Proceeds from the food, alligator wrestling and turkey shoot this weekend go toward conserving the everglades.

Never So Many War Dead Seen On Just One Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The morning train from Oakland brought eight gray plywood crates.

"I've never seen anything like it in all the years I've worked here at the station," said Vito Bonando, an assistant agent.

"Never eight in one day, never so many in all the time since World War II."

As each crate was unloaded onto a baggage dolly Thursday and trundled away, eight soldiers in black armbands saluted.

Inside each crate was a steel casket containing the body of a Southern Californian killed in Vietnam.

The crates enter the United States at Travis Air Force base south of San Francisico. From there they go to the Army's Mortuary Affairs Center at Oakland.

Missionary Will Be Speaker At Church

Jack P. Manly of Savannah, Georgia, will be the guest speaker at the People's Bible Church Friday night at 7:30 p. m. He will also hold services Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and the 10:45 a.m. Sunday morning service.

After graduation from Gupton Jones College in December, 1950, he entered Bob Jones University for a year and a half to study Bible. Two and a half years from the date of his conversion he went to New Guinea to take up the work laid down by two young men who had been killed by the natives there.

For the next four and a half years, he surveyed and contacted some seventeen tribes of people living in the stone age, being the first man from the outside world to contact some of these primitive people. He was allowed to baptize some of the early converts.

Manly begin in 1959, to establish a work among the primitive headhunter, cannibalistic Susuk people. A dispensary was set up for the administering of medications by Mrs. Manly, a registered nurse, as the people were literally "eaten up" with a disease called yaws.

Manly is presently serving as Deputational Secretary with Baptist International Missions, Inc. The Mission is working in 22 countries with almost 200 missionaries. The mission will enter any country in the world to take up the Gospel.

Manly earned a B.A. and Th. B. degrees from Immanuel Baptist College. He has had additional training in linguistic with S.I.L. at the University of Oklahoma.

People's Bible Church is located on 264 by-pass west. Rev. John T. Woodley is pastor.

Nursery facilities will be available.

Not Likely To ReturnDefector

WASHINGTON (AP) — Czechoslovakia is expected to press its demand for extradition of a onetime Communist defense commissar who defected to the United States, but government sources say it isn't likely he will be returned.

Ambassador Karel Duda of Czechosovakia submitted the request Thursday for the return of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna of the Czechoslovak Defense Ministry.

Duda called on Walter Stoessel, deputy assistant secretary of state, to offer what the State Department called a preliminary application for Sejna's extradition.

Sejna, 40, his son and the latter's financee arrived in this country Feb. 28. They fled Czechoslovakia via Hungary, Yugoslavia and Italy.

Czechoslovakia has charged Sejna with misappropriation of funds and embezzlement. He reportedly has been under investigation regarding alleged business dealings involving misappropriation of about $20,000 worth of alfalfa and clover seed.

But American officials expressed suspicion the charge is a cover and that the Czech government really wants Sejna because of his role in alleged military coup attempt to keep Antonin Novotny as the Czech president.

Refuse To Load Dr. Spock's Boat

NEW YORK (AP) — Longshoremen have refused to load a ketch onto a freighter for shipment to the Virgin Islands for Dr. Benjamin Spock, the pediatrician, author and critic of the Vietnam war.

Dock workers of Local 856, International Longshoremen's Association said Thursday they remembered countermarching against an antidraft demonstration in which Dr. Spock participated some months ago.

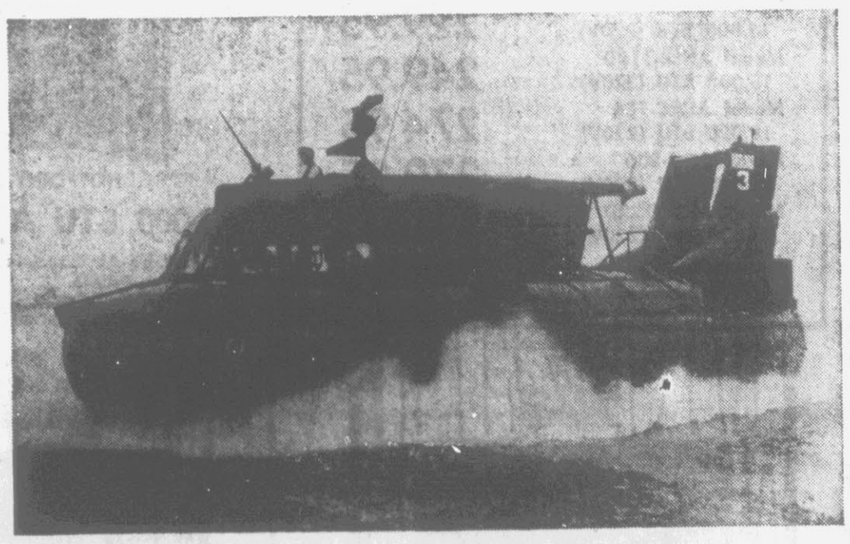

They refused to handle the boat, a 35-foot craft built specially for Dr. Spock by Seafarer Fiberglass Yachts, Inc., of Huntington, N.Y. The freighter Atlantic Clipper sailed without the ketch.

New Conservation Action Urged By Johnson

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned Congress today to help renew the nation through a $1.2 billion program to conserve America's natural resources, "not only for man's enjoyment, but for man's survival."

The President put priority on his conservation program, which focuses on the goal of pure water and air, ending despoiling of the land, and preserving and creating beauty, and added measure of serenity and more outdoor recreation facilities.

The program proposes a probe of "peaceful promises of the ocean's depth" in cooperation rather than competition with other nations.

It seeks new authority to act against shipowners who discharge oil along the shores, in part by assessing them with the cost of cleaning up the mess. The latest oil pollution incident, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, spread 1.5 million gallons of oil over bay and beaches when a tanker broke in two earlier this week.

Johnson asked for governmental authority to control strip mining which leaves the land scarred and barren.

He asked for more national parks and wilderness areas.

Urging action against air pollution, he said: "From the great smokestacks of industry and from the exhaust of motors and machines, 130 millions tons of soot, carbon and grime settle over the people and shroud the nation's cities each year."

He also sought action on water pollution and control of "the debris of civilization" littering landscapes and spoiling beaches.

"Conservation's concern now is not only for man's enjoyment but for man's survival," he said.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall told newsmen the program carries a $1.2 billion price tag, compared with $565 million now being spent. Udall called the message "the most comprehensive, most significant conservation message ever sent up to Congress by a President."

A key proposal was more government aid to communities building waste-treatment plants to fight water pollution, with the aim of generating $1.4 billion worth of plant construction.

The President also urged final congressional action on legislation to save these natural wonders:

1. The Potomac River, which weaves along Washington, Maryland and Virginia for some 200 miles, by making it a national river, because failure to preserve it "will make us the shame of generations to come."

2. California—Desolation wilderness in El Dorado National Forest, Ventana Wilderness in Los Padres National Forest, wilderness-area designation for the San Rafael and San Gabriel wilderness expanses.

3. Colorado—The Flat Tops.

4. Arizona—Mt. Baldy, Pine Mountain, Sycamore Canyon.

5. The Spanish Peaks.

Johnson said other possible preservation areas being surveyed are in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Georgia and Florida.

The President also asked Congress to strengthen government controls dealing with aircraft noise. Planes would be certified on the basis of noise levels.

Johnson proposed a new law to supplement earlier legislation which would make it unlawful to discharge oil from a shore facility, or from a ship operating within 12 miles of the shore.

Officials said this was not an attempt to extend the three-mile territorial limit this nation recognizes, but was intended to expand the previous standard of liability which was limited to gross or wilful negligence and to the three mile line.

The accompanying provision to require the polluter to pay all cleanup costs contrasts with present liability limited to the salvage value of the ship involved.

Johnson said no conservation problem is more urgent than that of polluted air which takes an annual economic toll of billions, stains cities and towns, damages forests and farms, and threatens health.

To fight this menace, he asked Congress to provide $128 million for the 1969 fiscal year compared with $87 million for fiscal 1968. This would be spent under the clean-air act, which empowers the federal government to impose or enforce standards if states do not act.

To attack problems created by strip mining, Johnson proposed a new law under which the federal government would help states financially to develop their own plans to assure that all lands disturbed in the future will be reclaimed.

The states would be given two years to submit such plans to the secretary of the interior for review and approval. He would be empowered to impose federal standards if the states fail to set up their own plans or adopt inadequate ones.

Scott Sees No Boost In Taxes For Pay Hike

RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bob Scott says he feels his program calling for a 10 per cent pay boost for state employes and "competitive and attractive" pay for teachers can be carried out without an increase in taxes.

Scott, campaigning for the Democratic nomination for governor, made the comment Thursday in a speech to the Raleigh Civitan Club.

Pointing to big surpluses the state has piled up during recent bienniums, Scott said North Carolina has a tax base "which grows as our people grow" and does not need to be broadened.

Scott said the tax base and recent surpluses "make me believe that we indeed can implement a 'program for progress' within our existing financial means."

During a question-and-answer period, a reporter asked Scott if he meant that he does not expect to propose tax increases if he is elected.

"That's my hope," he answered. "That's the implication of all this."

Scott pointed out that the state has had substantial surpluses at the end of recent bienniums, ranging from $74 million after the 1959-61 biennium to $172 million after 1965-67.

Scott said nobody knows how much of a surplus the state will have at the end of this biennium, "but there is certainly nothing in the experience of this decade which would make us pessimistic, and nothing which would make us believe there would be a decrease in this surplus."

Police Scatter Brick-Throwers

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Police used tear gas and chemical mace Thursday to scatter a crowd of about 60 Negro teen-agers who, the police said, had been hurling stones and bricks at passing vehicles.

Police Chief R. E. Pennington said the windshield of at least one passing car was broken by the youths and that Charles Williams, 24, had been arrested and charged with inciting a riot.

A group of about five Negro youths broke windshields and windows of several cars Thursday night in another section of town, police said, and two of the youths were arrested. They were not immediately identified.

Mayor L. L. Pesses declared a state of emergency Thursday and ordered a 9 p.m. curfew for Friday and Saturday.

East Carolina Takes Slim Lead In Swimming

West Virginia Wins Three Events

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

West Virginia University pulled three surprise victories yesterday as the Southern Conference Swimming Meet opened at Minges Natatorium at East Carolina University.

But the defending champions, the East Carolina Pirates held a shaky lead after the first day's activities.

Of the four events swum yesterday, West Virginia took the individual championship in three, the 500-yard freestyle, the 200-yard individual medley and the 800-yard freestyle relay. East Carolina captured the other event, the 50-yard freestyle.

In team points, however, the Pirates were in their accustomed place, ahead of the pack. The Pirates put together 39 points for a slim lead over West Virginia, which has 32. They are far ahead of the third place team, Virginia Military Institute with 16 points. Next comes William & Mary with 14, The Citadel with four and Davidson with three.

All three of the West Virginia set new conference records. In the 500-yard freestyle, Louis Garcia finished with a time of of 5:13.8, set last year by ECU 5:12.51, beating the old mark Mike Hamilton.

West Virginia's Clifton Hutchinson won the individual medley with a time of 2:07.43, for another new mark. He had bested the old record of 2:09.5 held by ECU's Owen Paris, in the afternoon trials, finishing there in 2:08.76. Paris finished second to Hutchinson just fourteen hundredths of a second behind.

The third West Virginia record came in the 800-yard freestyle relay. The team of Tom Guilliford, Garcia, Hutchinson and John Law covered the distance in 7:38.86, bettering the old mark by over seven seconds. The old record was 7:46-.0, also set last year by East Carolina.

The lone Pirate victory came in the 50-yard freestyle, when Layne Jorgensen touched out VMI's Robert Costigan by 12-hundredths of a second. Jorgensen finished in :22.65 for the short distance.

Today's events include the 200-yard butterfly, the 200-yard freestyle; the 100-yard breaststroke; the 100-yard backstroke, the 400-yard individual medley, and the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The meet winds up Saturday with finals that day starting at 3 p.m. Friday's finals are at 8 p.m.

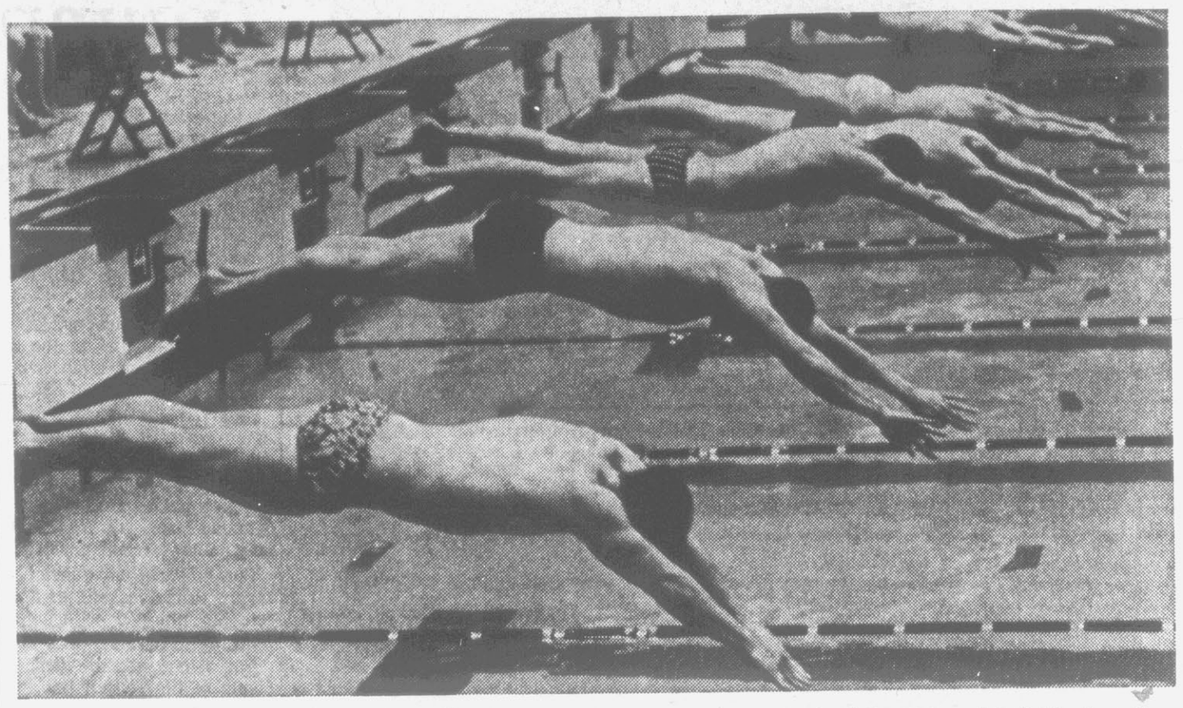

Summary:

500-yard freestyle: Louis Garcia (WVU), Jim Manchester (ECU), George Collins (W & M); Rory Frey (VMI), Bob Moynihan (ECU), Steve Howard (ECU), Jack Steele (Dav), Eddie Beach (Dav.), 5:12.51 (New Southern Conference Record).

200-yard individual medley: Clifton Hutchinson (WVU), Owen Paris (ECU), John Sultan (ECU), Keith Maurer (W & M), Mike Tomberlin (ECU), Bill Woodson (Dav), Larry Allman (ECU), Gary Canady (Cit), 2:-07.34 (New Southern Conference Record.)

50-yard freestyle: Layne Jorgensen (ECU), Robert Costigan (VMI), John Law (WVU), Dich Donahue (ECU), Mac Davis (Dav), Bob Kennedy (W & M), George Bear (W & M), Wayne Giberson (W & M&), :22.65.

800 yard freestyle relay: West Virginia (Gulliford, Garcia, Hutchinson, Law); East Carolina; Virginia Military Institute; William & Mary; The Citadel, 7:-38.86 (New Southern Conference Record.)

OFF TO A RECORD — Swimmers leave the starting blocks in the finals of the 200-yard individual medley last night. Clinton Hutchinson, third from bottom, won the event with a record time of 2:07.34. The West Virginia swimmer had earlier set a new mark in the afternoon trials. The previous record was held by Owen Paris of East Carolina. West Virginia won three of the four events yesterday, but trails East Carolina in team points. (Reflector Photo)

Carolina, Duke, State, S. Carolina Gains Semi-Finals Of Tournament

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The "right" teams are left for tonight's Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament semifinals.

Top - seeded North Carolina, defending champion and No. 5 nationally, meets fourth-seeded South Carolina at 7 p.m. (EST) and second-seeded Duke, No. 6 in the land, plays third-seeded North Carolina State at 9.

But all had some anxious moments before surviving the onslaughter of the unseeded second division clubs in Thursday's first round games.

Duke barely managed to scrape out a 43-40 victory against Clemson's slow - down game; N.C. State led by only a point with eight minutes left before putting away Maryland 63-54; North Carolina saw Wake Forest cut its 21-point lead to eight with six minutes left before gaining an 83-70 victory; and South Carolina's 101-78 rout of Virginia was acieved only after a 12-point Virginia spurt cut the Gamecock lead to six points with 13:35 to play.

Thus, the favored four all survived trying times before moving a step nearer to the league title and the NCAA Eastern Regional berth that goes to the winner. All except South Carolina, that is. The Gamecocks are on NCAA probation and ineligible for post-season play. If they gain the finals, their opponent will go to the regionals at Raleigh, N.C., next Friday, regardless of the outcome.

Meanwhile, the National Invitation Tournament opening March 14 in New York is expected to grab either North Carolina or Duke — whichever is left after the NCAA berth is filled.

Tonight's rivals last met only nine days ago, South Carolina breaking a 20-game North Carolina victory string 87-86 for a season's split and Duke downing N.C. State 71-61 to sweep their two-game series.

Coach Frank McGuire's South Carolina, best ACC shooting team over the season, shot a sparkling 59.8 against Virginia. The Gamecocks, who start four seniors and a sophomore, hit 25 of 39 in the first half for 64 per cent and a 54-39 lead.

Skip Harlicka's 31 points and 26 by Gary Gregor led the barrage which featured long range gunning, bristling drives, classy ball handling and a 15-for-18 job at the foul line.

McGuire said he'd rather be playing Duke tonight, explaining, "We have the same size ball club, practically."

He said the North Carolina "Big Three" of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark, All-American Larry Miller and sizzling sophomore Charlie Scott will be a problem for his team.

He figured his Gamecicks won't be able to play the "holding" type of game they used in beating Duke recently. "North Carolina dictates the type of game you play," he added.

Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith, who was McGuire's assistant at Chapel Hill before succeeding him, admitted his team's poor first half shooting bothered him, but said with a grain, "As I've said all year, thank Heavy for Larry Miller."

Miller scored 31 points, tying Harlicka for round honors. In the first half he took charge of a close game by hitting nine of 11 shots. Meanwhile, his mates managed only 7 of 24.

In the second half Scott scored 14 for a 17-point total and Clark had 10 for a total of 16.

Wake Forest Coach Jack McCloskey was critical of what he called several "atrocious" calls by officials when the game was still quite close.

Clemson shot only 32 times against Duke, Butch Zatezalo and Richie Mahaffey taking 25 of the shots as the strategy was to work the ball into them for good shots.

Coach Bobby Roberts said, "I decided after we tried running with Duke a couple of weeks ago and were whipped we wouldn't run with them if we played them in the tournament. Nobody likes that kind if a game, but it was the only way we could win. When Mike Lewis fouled out I thought we had them."

Lewis, top ACC scorer, left with 2:40 to play and Duke ahead 39-38, but Clemson couldn't generate the drive. Zatezalo, No. 2 scorer in the league and Lewis each had only 13 points.

Richie Mahaffey was the big man for Clemson with 16 points and 11 rebounds.

Duke's Vic Bubas praised the Clemson effort and called his team's overall performance "fair. It was the kind of a game in which every pass, every shot, every move means a lot," he pointed out.

Duke scored only six freethrows in the last six minutes as it nursed its razor-thin lead against a team that lost its seventh straight and 20th of the year. Duke's second half zone defense and Clemson's determination to wait for the good shot held down the score.

N. C. State got 16 points from Eddie Biedenbach and 15 from lanky sophomore Vann Williford, who also grabbed 11 rebounds, but needed 11 freethrows in the last seven minutes, when the Wolfpack made only two baskets, to put down a cold-shooting Maryland team.

State Coach Norman Sloan said Williford "kept us on the positive side; the way he was playing created a good atmosphere for us. He was superb."

Oklahoma City In Tough NIT Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen of the 16 teams in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament have received word on their first round opponents. Only the Oklahoma City Chiefs remain in the dark today, knowing only that they will have perhaps the toughest time reaching the second round.

The pairings, released Thursday for the 31st annual tourney at Madison Square Garden, pits Oklahoma City against the runner-up of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which ends Saturday.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina and sixth-ranked Duke are expected to battle for the title and the automatic bid to the NCAA tourney. The second place team goes to the NIT, which does not give the Chiefs much to choose from. Either North Carolina or Duke will be an NIT favorite with the ACC team already seeded first.

The Chiefs, 20-6, face the ACC runner-up in the second half of the opening night doubleheader next Thursday after Marshall, 17-7, and St. Peter's, 22-2, tangle in the first game.

Actually, the tournament, expanded from 14 to 16 teams last week, had no seedings, but it was learned that the draw was built around the ACC team, Dayton, Bradley and Kansas.

Kansas, 18-7, of the Big Eight swings into action Friday night against Temple, 19-8, before Villanova, 18-8, and Wyoming, 18-8, the Western Athletic Conference runner-up, square off.

Bradley, 19-8, which finished second in the Missouri Valley Conference, drew Long Island U., 21-1, the nation's top-ranked small college team, in the second half of a doubleheader Saturday afternoon. Army, 20-4, and Notre Dame, 18-8, meet in the opener.

A Saturday night doubleheader completes the first round with Fordham, 17-7, paired against Duquesne, 18-6, and West Virginia, 19-8, meeting Dayton, 17-9. West Virginia finished second in the Southern Conference.

The quarter-finals will be Monday and Tuesday nights, March 18-19, the semifinals Thursday night March 21 and the title contest at 2 p.m., EST, Saturday, March 23. A game for third place starts at noon that day. The championship game will be televised by CBS.

Falcons Punt Best In NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — What do the Atlanta Falcons, whose 1-12-1 record was the worst in professional football last season, do better than the world champion Green Bay Packers? Punt, that's what.

The Falcons' Billy Lothridge won the 1967 National Football League punting crown with 87 boots for an average distance of 43.7 yards, according to figures released today.

The Packers, on the other hand were 15th among the 16 NFL teams with an average of 36.5 yards on 66 punts. Donny Anderson kicked 65 for a 36.6 average, next-to-last among the league's punters. Don Chandler booted the other for 31 yards.

The only team worse than the Packers in punting was the New York Giants with 55 attempts for an average of 36 yards.

Trailing Lothridge were Bobby Joe Green of the Chicago Bears with 79 punts and Tom McNeill of the New Orleans Saints with 74. Each averaged 42.9 yards per kick.

The 1966 leader, Baltimore's David Lee, finished fourth at 49-42.3.

Jean Ashley of Chanute, Kan., won the 1965 U.S. women's amateur golf title.

City League Sets Finals

The Book Barn and Holt's, who tied at the end of the regular season for the City League title, will battle again Tuesday for the City League championship. Both won matches last night in the tournament semifinals.

Holt's, which later took a special playoff to determine first seeding in the tournament, downed Womack, 66-50, while the Book Barn beat Whitehurst, 62-50.

In the opener, Holt's pushed out to a 32-23 lead in the first half, and then outscored Womack, 34-27 in the second stanza, to enter the finals.

Riddick led Holt's with 22 points, while Roebuck had 14 and Hendricks and Worthington each had 10. For Womack, Claybrook had 16 and Jordan had 12.

In the second game, Whitehurst had its mind on an upset, pulling out to a 30-23 lead in the first half. But Book Barn, wanting another crack at Holt's, came back to outscore Whitehurst, 39-20, in the second half, and gain the victory.

Gibson led Book Barn with 23 points, while Fuller and Hardison each had 13. For Whitehurst Whitehurst had 20 and Ayers had 12.

The two finalists meet Tuesday for the championship.

Rockets Set Losing Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henry Finkel topped his entire 1966-67 season output, but he couldn't keep the San Diego Rockets from tying another National Basketball Association record for futility.

Finkel scored 41 points Thursday night, one more than he scored in 27 games as a rookie with the Los Angeles Lakers last season, as the Rockets lost to the Lakers 119-102.

For the Rockets, who have won just 15 times in 76 games, the loss was their 29th at home, tying an NBA record set by the 1964-65 San Francisco Warriors. Earlier this season, the Rockets lost 17 straight, which tied a league mark held by those same Warriors.

In other NBA games Thursday, Philadelphia topped Cincinnati 125-117, Chicago upset Boston 118-112 and St. Louis outlasted Seattle 150-133.

Pittsburgh nipped Oakland 119-114, Houston downed Indiana 115-104 and Minnesota took Anaheim 124-115 in the American Basketball Association.

Finkel scored 29 of his team's 46 first-half points en route to a single-game record for the first-year-old club. The previous best San Diego scoring performance was 37 points by Don Kojis.

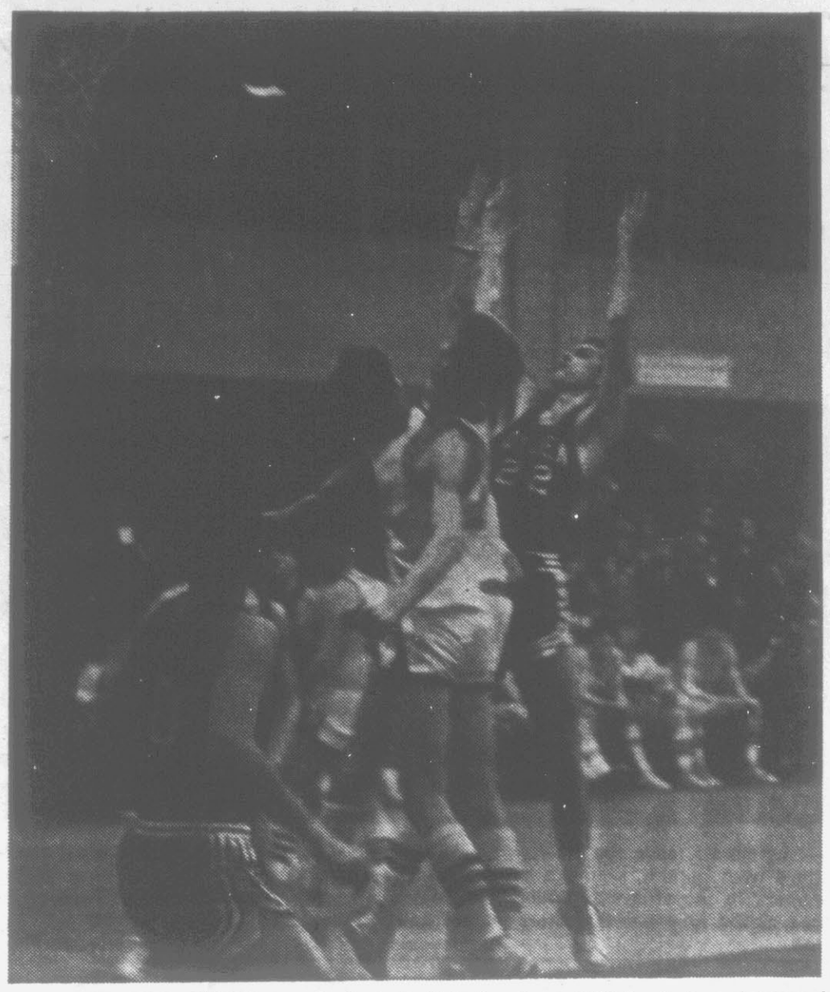

Los Angeles, which led by 10 at the half, was paced by Elgin Baylor, with 35 points, and Archie Clark with 28.

Philadelphia trailed 96-93 after three quarters, but spurted to victory as Wilt Chamberlain and Billy Cunningham each scored nine points and Hal Greer eight in the final period.

Chamberlain finished with 38 points and 28 rebounds. Greer scored 15 to push his NBA career total to 15,002. Oscar Robertson's 35 points led Cincinnati.

Chicago built up an 18-point lead late in the third period and then fought off a Boston rally for the Bulls' third victory over the Celtics in their two NBA seasons. Bob Boozer topped Chicago with 26 points. John Havlicek poured in 32 for Boston.

St. Louis went on an 11-point spree in the second quarter for a 56-52 halftime lead and Seattle could never get closer in the game at Portland, Ore. Len Wilkens scored 33 points for St. Louis, which clinched a tie for first place in the Western Division. Walt Hazzard and Rod Thorn each got 29 for Seattle.

Pitt, Martin Teams Triumph In Tourney

WILLIAMSTON — Robersonville overcame a stubborn Knapp team here last night, winning the quarterfinal contest by a 59-54 count.

Ayden's Tornadoes rolled to a 58-33 triumph over Bath in the second game.

After Jimmy Roebuck scored the opening bucket in the first game, he added a three-point play to increase it to 7-2.

Later in the quarter, Knapp managed to tie it up, as a foul shot by guard Eddie Sanderlin knotted the score at 11-all.

Knapp got its first lead when Johnny Powell hit with 7:40 to play in the second period.

For most of the quarter, the teams traded baskets, as Robersonville emerged with a 27-25 margin.

The Rams got the first five points of the second half. Late in the period, Robersonville collected six straight points to push the lead out to 41-28.

Throughout the second half, the Rams handled Knapp's press with apparent ease.

Knapp struggled to chop the lead down to five on Vernon Powell's bucket with five minutes left in the game.

The Rams increased their lead back to ten midway in the quarter, as James Roberson dropped a couple of foul shots and Phillip Stalls added a two-pointer to make it 53-43 with 2:32 showing.

Roberson got three field goals and nine free throws for 15 points. Stalls added 13.

Leading a balanced Knapp scoring attack was Sanderlin who had 14. Scott Forbes had 11, while Vernon Powell and Hallett Chatman had 10 each.

Bath drew first blood in the second contest, but George Booth quickly tied it up, and Dail McLawhorn's foul shot put Ayden out in front, 3-2. Minutes later, a goal-tending call gave the Pirates their first lead, but Ayden rallied to make it 11-8 by the end of the quarter.

The Tornadoes pushed their lead out to 10 when B. T. Chappell hit a couple of free throws to make it 23-13. Ayden poured in the last 13 points of the second quarter for a 31-13 halftime lead.

Ayden completed the third period with a 44-25 cushion, completely dominating the boards and floor play.

The Tornadoes got their biggest lead, 29 points, when Chappell scored a layup with three minutes left in the game.

Chappell led all scorers with 17. McLawhorn had 13 and Kent Allen had 10.

Cecil Lilley paced Bath with 14.

Bethel meets Jamesville tonight at 7 p.m., while Ayden and Robersonville play at 8:30. Tonight's winners will play in the finals Saturday night.

Hawkins Leads Win For Pipers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's going to be difficult to dislodge Connie Hawkins from the No. 1 spot in the individual scoring race in the American Basketball Association.

He strengthened his hold on the top rung by tossing in 39 points Thursday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pipers to a 119-114 road victory over the Oakland Oaks.

It was the 12th straight victory over the Oaks, but the Oaks were in contention until the last two minutes before losing their seventh in a row. The Oaks pulled within 112-111 before two free throws each by Hawkins and Chico Vaughn put the Pipers out of danger.

The Minnesota Muskies also scored on the road over Anaheim 124-115 and the Houston Mavericks won at home over the Indiana Pacers 115-104 in the other ABA games scheduled.

Don Freeman's basket put the Muskies ahead for good at 110-109 against Anaheim. Mel Daniels led the winners with 24 points while John Fairchild got 32 for the losing Amigos.

Willie Somerset tallied 31 points for Houston as the Mavericks beat Indiana with a last-quarter surge. Roger Brown was high for the Pacers with 30.

In the National Basketball Association, Chicago beat Boston 118-112, Philadelphia downed Cincinnati 125-117, St. Louis humbled Seattle 150-133 and Los Angeles defeated San Diego 119-102.

Walk Praised By Opponents

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "We didn't have a man who could handle him, not even two who could handle him."

That's how Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp, basketball's winningest tutor, feels about Neal Walk, the University of Florida's junior center.

"I think Walk could give Lew Alcindor (UCLA All-America) a good battle," adds Rupp, "and I'm not trying to make him out as an All-America. Walk is doing that for himself."

Tommy Bartlett Walk's coach, says:

"I've played against, watched and coached some fine big men and Walk's the best, overall. He's the complete basketball player and he does it all with amazing consistency."

Other coaches whose teams have come up against the 6-foot-11 center feel the same way about the Miami Beach native.

Walk tallied 36 points and grabbed 31 rebounds against Alabama. Hayden Riley, the Crimson Tide's coach, said:

"I've never seen a player improve so much from one year to the next. He's the best I've seen in years and there's no telling what his potential might be."

In his first 17 games this season, Walk averaged 27.3 points a game and 20.2 rebounds. His point total was 464.

With seven games remaining he had shattered Florida's rebounding record for one season. Veterans around the campus say he is without a doubt the best player in the University of Florida's history.

They Should Have Let Greasy Neale Talk

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame introduced Earle (Greasy) Neale as a new member last winter they made one mistake. They didn't let him speak.

Greasy would have told the black-tie gathering of 1,500 how he started as a coach of football and basketball at Muskingum for $83 a month. For six months, coaching two of their teams he received $500.

He would have told about the only scoreless tie in the 1922 Rose Bowl. He would have told how he played pro football one year for the Canton Bulldogs for $125 a game.

"I was the right end," Greasy Neale recalled the other day, "and I scored six touchdowns in my first pro game against the Columbus Panhandles.

"In the first half I played end and in the second half I played quarterback. It was 60 minutes of football in those days and we all loved it—none of this two platoon stuff you see today.

"When we went to the Rose Bowl with Washington & Jefferson to play California we took only 18 men. One man got sick in Kansas City but we played the whole game with 11 men. I believe I got $1,200 for coaching football for six months in 1921.

"Football has changed so much the pro teams can't make a running attack stick. Most of the ends are trackmen who go down just to catch a pass. There are very few fakes. One of the greatest plays used to be an off tackle fake with the ball carrier going around end. You don't see that any more."

Neale, who coached seven college teams—Muskingum, West Virginia Wesleyan, Marietta, Washington & Jefferson, Virginia, West Virginia and Yale—and had a pro turn with the Philadelphia Eagles, is 76 now. The only football games he watches are on television.

"Sometimes I can't even stand them," says the native of Parkersburg, W. Va. "Every game seems alike. Too much passing.

"Your injuries are so great now, especially in the knees. When I came into the National League I tried to get rid of the clipping penalty because clipping from the rear is the only way to stop a man without hurting his knees. It's a 15-yard penalty. They're dead wrong.

"The knees, on a clip from the rear, bend the natural way, but it's the clip from the side that ruins a man's knee. When a knee is hurt never heals."

Few recall that Greasy Neale played in the 1919 World Series as the right fielder for the Cincinnati Reds against the Chicago White Sox. The Reds won the series, 5 games to 3, and after it was over it became known as the Black Sox Scandal. Some White Sox players had conspired with gamblers to throw the games. Eight White Sox were dropped from baseball for life.

"We could have beaten them anyway," says Greasy Neale. He received a record share of $5,207.

Greasy Neale played 107 or more games in his first five years in the majors. In 768 games he batted .259. All, except 22 with the 1921 Phillies, were with Cincinnati.

He hit .262 in his rookie year with the Reds. He listed his birthday then as Nov. 5, 1893.

"I was really born in 1891," admits Greasy Neale, "but I wanted them to believe I was only 20 instead of 22. It doesn't matter now, as long as I can get out on that golf course. My golf game is closer to 80 than I am."

Dazzling Displays From Rocket Testing Center

An AP Special Report
By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space spectaculars of breathtaking design and beauty are occasionally delighting and awing residents of Eastern and Western states.

On the broad canvas of the morning or evening sky, miles-long plumes of pastel smoke appear as if by magic—zigzagging, looping and spiraling in psychedelic splendor.

Occasionally there are bursts of green, red or blue light that dazzle beholders up to hundreds of miles from rocket test centers here and at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Missile men call these displays of spatial fireworks "twilight phenomena."

The king-size pyrotechnics come at dawn or dusk, when the sun is below the horizon and in the right position for its rays to be bent earthward by particles in the exhaust of a just-launched missile or space booster.

Rockets fired from Vandenberg on the central California coast have created exhaust trails seen as far north as Oregon and as far east as Utah. Some Cape Kennedy rockets have been spotted from points along the entire lower East Coast.

The weird geometry of the zigzag trails is due to high-speed cross-winds as the 17,500 mile an hour rockets streak through the thin air at the edge of space. Up there—40 miles or higher—air molecules are so scattered they can be blown at speeds of 300 m.p.h. without bumping into each other and slowing down.

These thin, shifting winds twist and twirl the exhaust smoke into formations incredible to those unfamiliar with the whims of upper atmosphere turbulence.

The pastel colors of the smoke trails and the occasional prismatic flares of rainbow hues are credited to particles of metals and frozen vapor in the gases ejected as the rocket's fuel burns.

In the near-vacuum at 200,000 feet these hot gases expand swiftly over great distances, at rates impossible in the lower atmosphere. They also fluoresce —the process which yields the many colors of neon lights—on a giant scale, producing oohs and ahs from onlookers on the the ground.

The brighter displays apparently are generated by Minuteman missiles, which have a significant amount of metallic particles in their solid fuel.

The direction of the launch—missiles from here usually are fired west toward a target area near Kwajalein Island, and satellites are aimed south into polar orbit—determines the length of the exhaust trail visible in the sky.

The angle of the viewer also plays a role. Observers looking "up the tailpipe" of a rocket fired west are likely to see a brighter but smaller cloud than those who watch the same launch from points north or south of the base.

An Air Force spokesman says the maneuverability of recently developed missiles is not responsible for the wild zigzagging apparent in some exhaust trails.

"Missiles do make adjustments in their course," he says, "but these are not sharp enough to cause the crazy patterns sometimes seen in the sky. Our scientists tell us the truly spectacular patterns are caused by winds."

The Air Force has documented eight "twilight phenomena" at Vandenberg:

Dec. 18, 1962, Scout space booster; March 2, 1965, Minuteman 1; Dec. 15, 1965, Minuteman 2; Jan. 17, 1967, Atlas F; Sept. 21, 1967, Minuteman 1; Sept. 26, 1967, Minuteman 1; Dec. 5, 1967, Scout space booster and Dec. 21, 1967, Minuteman 1.

The spokesman said there may have been earlier displays —missle launchings started here in 1958—but no records were kept. Prior to 1962, firings generally were in the daytime.

Do Air Force scientists know in advance that a certain launch is likely to produce space fireworks?

"We know that this is possible if the launch falls between certain hours in clear weather," he said, "but I can assure you we are not going to advertise them. Most of our launch times are secret until the bird goes up."

Twenty Joined India Seminar

Twenty teachers and others from seven Eastern North Carolina counties have completed a special seminar on India at East Carolina University.

The seminar, sponsored by the university's Division of Continuing Education (DCE), enrolled participants from Craven, Jones, Lenoir, Onslow, Pamlico, Pitt and Washington counties.

Its purpose, according to assistant DCE director Garlan Gailey, was to give enrollees more comprehensive understanding India.

Instructors were three natives of India on the ECU faculty, Dr. S. G. Kuthiala, Dr. K. L. Sindwani and Dr. M. L. Sindwani.

Seminar enrollees included:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville—Ruth B. Garner, ECU; and Mrs. Robert Pittman, 1021 W. Wright Road.

Local Students On Dean's List

Several local students have qualified for the Dean's List at Lenoir County Community College for the winter quarter, according to Dr. Jesse L. McDaniel, Dean of the college.

The students include: Mary Ann Harrison of Snow Hill, college parallel; James Shelton Grant and Nancy Kaye Hedgepeth, both of Ayden, and Marilyn Gail Leckie of Farmville, technical and vocational level.

Gettysburg Battlefield National Cemetery

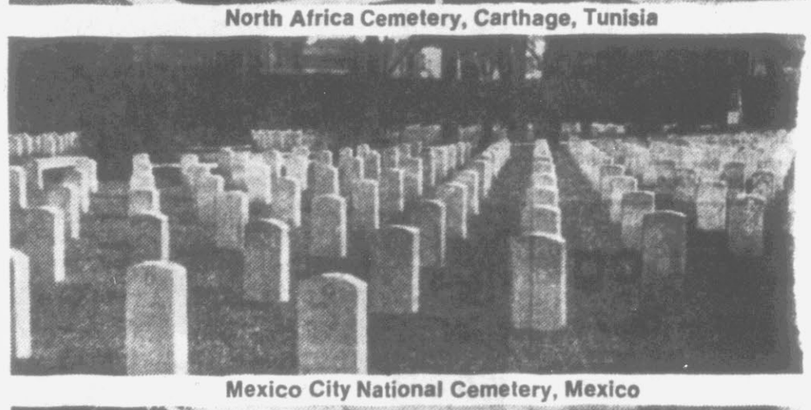

To commemorate the fallen and missing American heroes of three wars, the U.S. government maintains 14 permanent cemeteries as well as 11 monuments on foreign soil.

Pictured here are some of these shrines dedicated to soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen who lost their lives during World War 1, World War 2 and Korea. The cemeteries, where approximately 39 per cent of our war dead are buried and our missing servicemen are listed, are under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Battle Monuments Commission. Each memorial is faithfully supervised and tended, each contains a chapel and is open to visitors the year round.

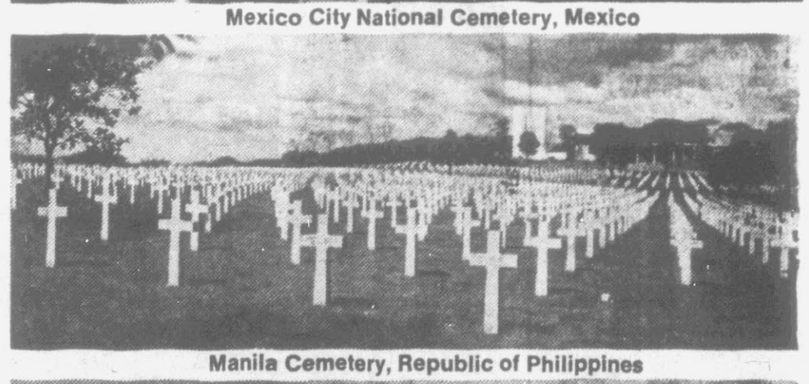

These solemn memorials to the men who paid "so costly a sacrifice" are a constant reminder of the price we paid—and still pay—for peace.

Gold Price Change Could Mean U.S. Broke Word

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How many Americans can really say how they would be affected by an increase in the price of gold —by devaluing the dollar in relation to that metal?

The answer requires no professional survey. This is a wasteland area of knowledge. It is filled with rumors, misinterpreted statements and wild speculations held together by a thread of fear. But why worry?

To the average American a gold price increase very likely would have almost no personal effect. His wages, real estate and savings account would show little if any change.

Moreover, most consumer prices wouldn't show great changes immediately, although a gold price increase might be inflationary over the longer term.

Stock prices might drop, because any rumblings in the world monetary system shake confidence, and confidence is the underpinning of the market. But the asset value of corporations wouldn't change much.

Then why should the ordinary wage earner worry about such a possibility? He shouldn't; the problem isn't his, even though it may relate to him if he intends to travel and spend money abroad. Instead he should let the monetary officials do the worrying, as they are now. It's their headache.

The problems with gold at the moment renters around international trade and commerce, an area of human endeavor from which most people are well insulated for the time being. It involves nations rather than small members of these nations.

These countries have their own peculiar currencies which are ideal for business within their borders. But nations in international trade are a bit more suspicious. They want to be sure of a currency's worth.

This is accomplished through value ratios of one currency to another. But any structure needs a keystone, as does this structure of currency ratios. That keystone is gold, pegged at $35 an ounce, a constant price.

The United States pegs that price, a completely artificial one arrived at during the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration. It does this by guaranteeing to redeem U.S. dollars for gold, by selling gold to foreign nations for $35 an ounce.

Since this constant price supports the structure of currency ratios, it isn't difficult to understand why the United States and many other nations want to be sure the gold price remains unprofaned.

To tamper with the monetary structure could be troublesome, and chaos in world trade would result. That the $35 price is defended as sacred is understandable.

A threat to that structure now exists. For years the United States has been spending more abroad than foreigners have spent here. This has left about $30 billion abroad, whereas the U.S. gold supply is down to $12 billion.

If the country cannot reduce its balance of payments deficit, if it cannot get some of those dollars back through foreign spending in the United States, then it may have to back down on its word.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠

South was guilty of putting all his eggs in one basket in attempting to win nine tricks.

West opened the four of spades against the three no trump contract, East played the jack and South won the trick with the ace. The jack of diamonds was put thru for a finesse and East falsecarded by winning with the king. He cashed the queen of spades and continued with the five, enabling West to win two more tricks in the suit to complete the defensive book.

North was obliged to make two discards on the third and fourth spades. Declarer selected two small clubs inasmuch as he was committing himself to bringing in the diamond suit. The heart return was won by dummy's queen and South reentered his hand with the queen of clubs to lead the eight of diamonds. West followed with the six and North played the seven. When East turned up with the queen, the contract was defeated.

South did not avail himself of every opportunity in planning his campaign. He could, in fact, have saved himself much mental agony by first cashing the king and queen of clubs. When East's jack drops on the second round, declarer has his nine tricks. He merely crosses over to the ace of diamonds, runs the clubs and then overtakes the queen of hearts with the king to cash his ace for the fulfilling trick.

There is an alternative play that permits declarer to develop the diamonds safely. South merely ducks two rounds of spades and wins the third with the ace. He now can afford to lose both diamond finesses for East is unable to get his partner in to cash the setting trick.

Weyerhaeuser Receives Award

PLYMOUTH — The Pulp and Paperboard Division of the Weyerhaeuser Company, Plymouth, has been presented the "Water Conservation Award" for the eastern region of North Carolina by the North Carolina Wildlife Federation.

Sterling Bailey, Pulp Technical Director, received the award on behalf of the company at the Governor's Conservation Achievement Banuet in Charlotte on February 23.

The following statement relative to Weyehaeuser's efforts was made by the Federation:

"In cooperation with the North Carolina Water Pollution Control Authorities in the development and operation of effective water pollution abatement and control facilities, the Weyerhaeuser Company is assuring the maintenance of satisfactory water quality for the protection of the important fishery resources and other essential uses in the Lower Roanoke River. This effort has resulted in the establishment of extensive waste-water control and treatment facilities at the company's pulp and paper mill at Plymouth, North Carolina, which facilities are now being upgraded, at considerable cost, in order to enhance the company's capability in protecting the quality of the waters of the area."

The Worry Clinic

Words Of Praise Can Make The Difference

Judy's Sunday School lesson was very much appreciated. But only one boy came up afterwards to pay her a compliment. And this is par for the course! For men are socially shy and inarticulate. If you males want to win women, and also put the Golden Rule into effective daily action, learn the 5 basic laws for paying compliments.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-511: Our son Daniel, the dental surgeon, has been teacher of a teen - age class in the local Sunday School.

But he would inveigle any visitor to substitute for him whenever possible.

Thus, he asked his sister, Judy, to pinch hit when Judy and her children were visiting at our farm home.

Judy teaches a class of her own at Glen Ellyn, Ill., so she is used to the job.

"How many of you believe in prayer?" Judy asked the young people, who were just out of high school.

Every hand came up.

"How many of you believe that God always answers prayer?" was Judy's next query.

And only one girl now raised her hand.

"Your votes are about what I always obtain when teaching a class of your age," Judy replied.

"But God always answers prayer!

"However, he doesn't always say 'Yes'.

"In many cases he says 'No'. But he does answer your prayer.

"Many of you may have prayed to get an 'A' grade on an exam in school, although you didn't study and prepare properly to warrant an 'A'. So it wouldn't be fair for God to say 'Yes'.

"And others will pray for things that God realizes are not appropriate or timely.

"For example, suppose a kindergarten child, aged 5, should ask his daddy for an expensive wrist watch.

"His daddy would properly say 'No' at that time, though he might give him the same watch when he graduated from Junior High."

Judy then continued with the lesson, slanting it very well to the interests of those late teenagers.

And at the conclusion of her talk, one of the boys in the class came up and complimented her on the lesson.

This pleased Judy tremendously, for she told us about it later which is how I happened to hear the gist of her discourse.

"Daddy," she asked, "isn't it unusual for a boy to pay the speaker a compliment?"

And my answer is, "Yes".

Although I have addressed literally hundreds of high school and college convocations, and although the audiences respond wonderfully, it is more likely to be a coed who stops afterwards to verbalize a compliment.

For the male sex usually not as deft in the use of language.

Nor do boys show as much understanding of "Emily Post" and social etiquette.

Many devoted mothers will thus spend extra hours trying to prepare the favorite pie or cake or other delicious viands that her husband or son may relish, yet they don't even verbalize a word of praise!

Except for their request for double or triple helpings, they take her hard work for granted.

Yet a few words of praise will make a girl or mature woman float on the clouds in delight.

So men who want to have a winning way with the opposite sex, should learn the 5 basic rules for paying compliments!

Send for my booklet, "The Compliment Club," enclosing a long stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents, and use these rules to spread happiness.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Name Spellman Post Successor

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today named a 47-year-old New Yorker, Auxiliary Bishop Terence James Cooke, to succeed the late Francis Cardinal Spellman as Roman Catholic archbishop of New York.

Archbishop Cooke had been one of Cardinal Spellman's auxiliaries in New York since Sept. 15, 1965.

His appointment wa a surprise to observers at the Vatican, since his name had not been among those mentioned as a likely successor to Cardinal Spellman. Vatican circles consider him unusually young to be given the richest and most powerful archdiocese in America.

Cardinal Spellman died on Dec. 2 at the age of 78. The Most Rev. John J. Maguire, Spellman's 62-year-old coadjutor archbishop and second in command, to administer the archdiocese until the Pope named a successor to the cardinal.

Archbishop Cooke presumably will be elevated to the College of Cardinals at the consistory the Pope is expected to hold soon to name new princes of the church. There is general expectation that this will be held before Easter, April 14.

For Your Sunday Reading

Private Collection of Americana

You can hardly find Menola on the map, it's so small. But this small Hertford County community is the home of what could be the most extensive private collection of Americana in the south.

Clarence Parker's "Country Store of Yesteryear" and its fascinating contents are the subject of Sunday's feature page in the Daily Reflector. Illustrated with pictures of some of the most unusual items, the "Country Store of Yesteryear" offers a reminiscent look into the past.

Does America Need an Ombudsman?

If you are trapped in bureaucratic red tape, Senator Philip A. Hart suggests that a special "agent" might be helpful. He explains how a neutral representative serving as an intermediary between citizens and their government could cut the knots and solve your problems.

BARBED WIRE and Babbling Brooks

Spring sun shines on babbling brooks—and barbed wire. A bird song lilts prettily on fragrant air—and a sniper shot splits the silence. New green burgeons through brown winter grasses—and red blood drenches jungle earth.

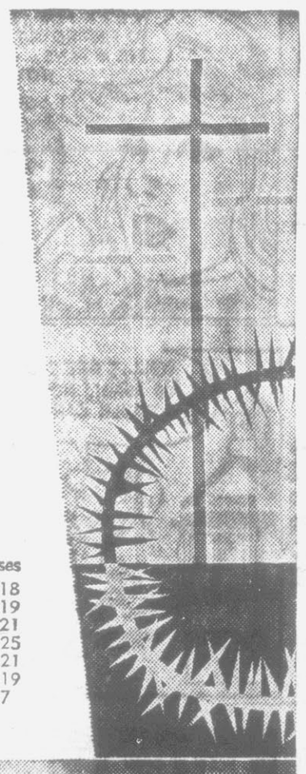

One's description of the season depends upon location. In some parts of the world there are happy people, enjoying the spring, looking forward to Easter services. Other faces of this globe find suffering people, anguished by the sunshine, hungry, afraid, lonely, dying.

Centuries ago on black Calvary hill, Jesus of Nazareth demonstrated perfect love. Down through the ages, His life and teachings have pointed the way for mankind to heal the ills of the world.

So, in this Lenten season let us offer ourselves—our time and talents—to the service of His Church, in its task of making His kingdom come upon earth.

One State Definitely Is Not Going Along On DST

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Only one of the 50 states definitely is not going along with Daylight Saving Time this year, but three other states are in the process of making up their minds.

An Associated Press survey also shows that two states are going to put the issue to their voters in November. In the meantime, their clocks will be put ahead an hour April 28 and turned back an hour Oct. 27.

Hawaii, which exempted itself from Daylight Saving Time last year, is standing pat this year.

Alaska, which was granted an exemption last year, will observe DST this year.

One other state, Kentucky, didn't conform with DST last year because its legislature didn't have a 1967 meeting. So the state, which straddles the line between the Eastern and Central zones, listened to its clocks tick in four-part discord —EST, EDT, CST, CDT. But the legislators are meeting now and they are likely to act before adjournment March 15.

The other 47 states switched to DST in 1967. But some of them may change their minds.

The question of whether Georgia will stay with the DST majority is before the legislature.

Arizona's House approved a bill to exempt the state from DST. The Senate adopted a bill to exempt Arizona but also to set up a referendum on the issue in November. The differences must be reconciled.

Michigan, with its Upper Peninsula on Central Time and the lower section in the Eastern zone, gained exemption in 1967 by vote of its legislature but residents signed a sufficient number of petitions for a referendum. This nullified the legislative action. The referendum is scheduled for the November election.

South Dakota's legislature passed a law last year to exempt that state from DST, but the question was passed along to the electorate at this year's general election. So South Dakota will be on DST again this season.

The Uniform Time Act, adopted by Congress in 1966, provided: starting in 1967, all states will observe DST from 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in April until 2 a.m. on the last Sunday in October—except that any state may exempt itself by passing a state law.

Found Largest Pond Cyprus

STANENVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Forest ranger Paul Musgrove says America's largest pond cyprus has been discovered in an Alapaha River swamp. He said the tree, in excellent condition, is 21 feet, 10 inches in circumference, 121 feet high and has a crown spread of 90 feet. The measurements, submitted to the champion tree contest sponsored by the American Forestry Association, almost doubled the previous champion, Musgrove said.

More than half the population in both the United States and the Soviet Union is 26 years old or younger, says the National Geographic.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets generally steady Thursday. Supplies adequate. Demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 37 to 38; medium whites 33 to 35; small whites 30½ to 33.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were mostly steady today. Tops of 18.00-19.00 at Rocky Mount; 18.25-19.00 at Wilson; 18.25-18.75 at Hickory; 17.75-18.75 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 17 50-18.50 at Bethel; 19.00 at Salisbury; 18.75 at Greensboro and Stlma; 18.00 at Siler City and Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—Gold and silver mining stocks advanced in a declining stock market early this afternoon.

Losses outnumbered gains by well over 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average sank 3.29 to 832.93.

The gold shares spurted as feverish gold trading in European markets weakened both the British pound and the U.S. dollar. The gold rush reflected growing speculation that President Johnson will not be able to maintain the U.S. gold price at $35 an ounce.

As the mining shares ran up, the high-priced growth stocks in the computer, conglomerate and other "science" fields took another battering.

Silver mining shares were strong as heavy demand in the London market pushed the silver price there to record highs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.1 at 302.3 with industrials off 1.3 rails off .7 and utilities off .5.

IBM sank about 8 points, Xerox around 6½, Fairchild Camera about 2 and Gulf & Western more than a point.

International Mining, up a couple of points, was the most active of the gold stocks, followed in turnover by Benguet which gained a fraction and American South-African Investment, up more than 2.

As silvers attracted demand, gains of around a point or more were posted by Sunshine Mining, Bunker Hill, Callahan Mining and New York & Honduras Rosario Mining.

Most mining stocks were strong in an irregularly lower market on the American Stock Exchange.

Board Suspends ABC Permits At Pitt Businesses

Two Pitt County businesses, one in Fountain and one in Grifton, had their ABC Permits suspended by the State Board of Alcoholic Control at the boards March 4 meeting.

The permit issued to James Lester Ellis for Lester Ellis' Store and Service Station, Route 1, Fountain was suspended for 90 days "for permittee selling beer to an intoxicated person . . November 19, 1967 . . ." the board reported.

A 30 day suspension was ordered for a permit issued to Edward Hollis Owens for Grifton Recreation Center, 409 West Queen St., Grifton for, as the board reported, "permittee failing to clear all counters of beverages, bottles and containers by 12 midnight, December 30, 1967 . . . and permitted and allowed beer to be consumed on his . . . premises during illegal hours . . ."
