JOB PLACEMENT DIRECTOR . . . Farrior talks with counselor about student job interest.

Schools Offering Job Placement

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Schools are offering a new service to the students this year by the establishment of the Student Job Placement Service.

William Farrior of Farmville, job placement director for Pitt County Schools, said the service was developed last July because of the need to help the high school graduate make the transition between school and work.

"The schools are concerned with helping their students to be placed in jobs which they are best suited for," Farrior said. "This is best accomplished by communicating with industry and business to find the individual needs of each firm, and working with the students to show them the employment opportunities available that will fit their interest and aptitude."

Farrior continued, "The service is available to school dropouts, part-time and summer student employees, but the major emphasis will be placed on the high school graduate who will be going directly into the world of work."

The program will help each student develop his potential and also give industry and business the type of employee they need and want, Farrior explained.

Farrior works mainly with the guidance counselors in the county high schools, by carrying information gained from employers back to the schools so that use can be made of it, and also to find out what the schools need to know about the different firms.

"Students are taught how to apply for a job, fill out applications, how to conduct an interview, and other important points in working in the business world," Farrior said.

The program is designed to help the student find the type of work he is interested in and best suited for, rather than just any job that happens to be average.

"For the program to be a real success," Farrior said, "we need the cooperation of the entire school staff, the students and the employers."

Farrior added, "As far as I know, this is the only program of this type in the state of North Carolina."

Farrior works with surrounding areas in seeking jobs for the high school graduates. "I would like to see the better students stay and work in Pitt County, but some students who live on the border of the county, find it more convenient to work in surrounding counties."

Orientation-Registration Meetings Slated Tonight

Orientation-registration meetings for parents of children who will enter the Greenville City Schools for the first time for the 1968-69 school year will be held tonight at each of the city's elementary schools beginning at 8 p.m.

Parents may attend the conference at any of the six elementary schools.

Freedom of choice information and selection forms will be distributed at tonight's meetings.

Dr. C. C. Cleetwood, city school superintendent, noted that under the freedom of choice plan parents may choose any school in the system for their children to attend. "Your choice does not have to be the school where you report for the conference.

"It is important that every prospective student be represented tonight," Cleetwood said, "because it is imperative that we have a realistic number of first graders to expect."

Fulbright Insists Future Decisions Must Be Told

Rusk Again Grilled; Reports Reds Hold Out No Hope For Peace Talk

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today he can offer no present hope that Hanoi is interested in a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam war.

He also balked, despite heavy pressure from Sen. J. W. Fulbright, at pledging consultation with Congress prior to a presidential decision on whether to send more troops to Vietnam.

There have been reports President Johnson is considering sending up to 200,000 additional men. A total of 525,000 is now authorized.

Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee: "There is room for indignation over the repeated rejection by Hanoi of even the smallest step toward peace."

Rusk commented in his second day of testimony before the committee, headed by Fulbright, a critic of the administration's Vietnam policy.

Rusk told the committee: "I cannot lead you to hope that we see at the present time any clear interest by Hanoi in a peaceful settlement in contrast to their persistent efforts to take South Vietnam."

He said the North Vietnamese government at Hanoi had rejected, among other approaches, proposals for a mutual de-escalation without formal negotiations.

"We have deliberately held our hand in the bombing of the North" at times in attempts to bring about an easing of the military effort, Rusk said but he noted no results were forthcoming.

The idea, he said, was to gradually expand the areas of de-escalation. He called it "peace by infiltration."

In an apparent peace feeler to the committee, Rusk proposed private meetings to determine "Those elements on which we are in agreement and try to narrow the range" of disagreements.

Fulbright said the conflict had arrived "at a crucial turning point." He demanded consultation before the President makes a final decision.

"What I want to talk about is the exact precise plans you have on escalation," Fulbright said. He spoke while presiding over the second day of questioning of Rusk by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads.

Rusk declared President Johnson has not made a final decision. Fulbright said he took that to mean the committee would not be informed until a decision was reached and then it would merely be informed.

Rusk replied he thought there had been considerable consultation and "there is no mystery about the views of this committee" on Vietnam policy.

But Fulbright insisted that consultation now is "justified . . . I believe we could make a contribution if we were given a chance to do so." He said the war has reached a point when decisions will determine "whether we go either down the road to all-out war or to anegotiated solution."

Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat who has long been critical ot the administration's Vietnam war policy, asked Rusk at one point: "Do I understand you have no intention of consulting with this committee?"

"I told you the President has not reached his conclusions," Rusk replied. "There is therefore no knowledge of what actions may be required by the Congress."

Fulbright said he understood this to mean "you have no intention of consulting with us prior to reaching that decision."

Rusk insisted that "senior members of this committee have been consulted" and that the hearings of the past two days have made their views "pretty well apparent."

In other words, Fulbright retorted, "your position is that you already know our views."

"We know a great deal," Rusk said.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, suggested that Fulbright could offer a resolution in the Senate that no additional troops be sent to Vietnam.

But Fulbright said this was impossible "when we've had no indication of what the administration plans. You've got the cart before the horse."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, said that any Senate resolution would have no power as to final presidential decisions. "The buck stops at his desk in the White House," Mansfield said.

After listening to the senators talk about the constitutional requirements for the Senate to advise on foreign policy, Rusk said, "The committee would not expect me to dispose of these far reaching constitutional questions in a casual way."

He suggested that the committee consider the alternative courses in Vietnam and added: "We ought to try to find some common point as a basis for discussion of the points of difference."

First Trickle Of Primary Ballots In

They Vote In New Hampshire Today

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire voted beneath overcast skies today on Richard M. Nixon's Republican presidential nomination quest and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's Democratic challenge to President Johnson.

There were early indications the turnout might be light for the nation's opening presidential primary.

The first trickle of ballots counted in tiny towns in the White Mountains sent Nixon and McCarthy into miniature leads.

Those ballots, from Waterville Valley and Hart's Location, gave Nixon 15 votes; New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller 4 write-in ballots.

McCarthy picked up eight Democratic votes in Waterville Valley; New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy two write-ins. Johnson's name was written in on the only Democratic ballot cast at Hart's Location.

Even before the ballot casting began, Nixon acknowledged that "gamesmanship" would be a major factor in determining who were the winners and who the losers in the lead-off voting of the 1968 presidential race.

Nixon's only Republican challenge was the late-starting write-in move for Rockefeller and the only real question for the former vice president is the margin by which he runs ahead.

"I figure this," Nixon said, "if we win 2 to 1 I'll be happy."

There may have been a bit of gamesmanship in that. By forecasting Rockefeller would get 30 per cent or more of the vote, Nixon was setting a target far higher than that chosen by the New Yorker's supporters. Former Gov. Hugh Gregg, promoting the write-in, said 15,000 Rockefeller votes would amount to success in New Hampshire. Nixon said that could not be considered a serious estimate and had to be rated too low.

The same thing was going on in the Democratic race. McCarthy said he hoped to obtain 30 per cent of the vote and added it was "probably a little too much" to forecast a victory in his campaign of protest against Johnson's course in the Vietnam war.

Johnson's promoters said McCarthy might get up to 40 per cent of the vote against the write-in effort being staged for the President.

McCarthy men acknowledged they needed a substantial showing in New Hampshire to get the campaign contributions they will need for the primaries still ahead. New Hampshire has cost McCarthy's campaign organization at least $150,000 probably more. Gov. John W. King, chief spokesman for the Johnson effort, claimed the figure was

Catawba College Names President

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Catawba College today named Dr. Martin Luther Shotzberger, 45, of Richmond, Va., as its 16th president.

Dr. Shotzberger, who is serving as dean of the university college at the University of Richmond, will report to Catawba Aug. 1 as successor to Dr. Donald C. Dearborn, who died four months ago. He is a native of Baltimore, Md., and is married to the former Edith Cosby of Richmond. They have four children.

TORONTO (AP) — An early morning fire roared through a small frame house today taking the lives of a mother and her six children while the father, burned and naked, stood outside on the street screaming at motorists who would not stop to help.

House Gets Senate Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has received a Senate-passed civil rights bill and an appeal from President Johnson to enact the measure which includes landmark open-housing and antiriot provisions.

House leaders met Monday night, a few hours after the Senate passed the bill 71 ti 20, to map plans for getting the measure through to the President.

The House originally passed the administration bill as a measure concerned only with providing federal protection to Negroes and civil rights workers.

But after seven weeks of Senate debate, the new version provides:

—A ban on discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing except owner-occupied single-family homes sold without the aid of a broker, or portions of dwellings sheltering up to four families provided the owner retains residence. This would mean about 80 per cent of the nation's housing would be covered by 1970.

—Federal law against interference with Negroes and others in the exercise of specified rights, including voting, jury service and use of public accommodations.

Bombers Again Knife Deep In North Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes knifed through overcast skies Monday on 76 missions against targets in North Vietnam, including another attack on the radio communications station 10 miles southeast of Hanoi.

One Air Force F4 Phantom was downed during the raids, a spokesman said, and the two crewmen are missing. It was the 808th U.S. combat plane announced lost in the air war against the Communist North.

Hanoi claimed two U.S. planes were shot down during Monday's raids.

Navy A6 Intruder pilots attacked the radio communications receiving station with 500-pound bombs, using their radar to attack through the 2,000-foot ceiling. They reported their bombs were on target and said they also hit a nearby antiaircraft missile site.

The radio station had been hit for the first time Feb. 10.

The American fighter-bombers ranged from the Yen Bai airfield 78 miles northwest of Hanoi to the southern panhandle with these other major targets: The Dong Trieu army barracks 46 miles northeast of Hanoi, the Nam Dinh barracks 45 miles southwest of Haiphong, the Ha Dong barracks 8 miles southwest of Hanoi, the Thanh Hoa thermal power plant and the Cam Pha transformer station.

Over South Vietnam, the Air Force's giant B52 bombers flew eight raids late Monday and today, including six against North Vietnamese troops ringing the U.S. Marines' Khe Sanh combat base in the northwestern corner of the country.

The bombs from the high flying Stratofortresses crashed into suspected enemy positions within two miles of the besieged Marine base.

The other B52 strikes were against Viet Cong fortifications 25 miles northeast of Saigon and in the central coastal plains 270 miles northeast of Saigon.

The ground war dwindled into a lull for the first time since the Communist command launched the lunar new year offensive Jan. 31.

In the only ground action of any size reported Monday by the U.S. Command, troops of the 196th Light Infantry Brigade scored a lopsided victory in a 7½-hour coastal battle, killing 78 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese at a cost of only two Americans killed and 29 wounded.

Pitt GOP Board Meets Tomorrow

The Pitt County Republican executive board will meet Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the meeting room of Wachovia Bank.

He said the meeting is open to the public.

Railroads Again Ask Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — American railroads are seeking their second freight-rate increase within a year, with the new requests ranging from 3 to 10 per cent generally and 5 to 6 per cent on most food items.

Rusk Unruffled In Verbal Duels

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The questions at times were as hot as the television lights, but Secretary of State Dean Rusk never lost his cool in six hours before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Even at the end, when he and Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., deuled verbally over whether the secretary would come back to finish his testimony, Rusk's voice demained calm and his demeanor placid.

"I wonder if it isn't really possible to finish tonight?" Rusk said, adding that he has a busy schedule the rest of the week.

"We all have busy schedules," Fulbright said. "Everyone is exhausted, particularly with the lights." Five shone steadily in Rusk's eyes, and, unlike Fulbright, he had left his sunglasses home.

Finally — facing a threat from Fulbright to scuttle the administration's foreign-aid bill unless he returned—Rusk, stil speaking without apparent rancor in his soft, Southern accent—agreed to extend his Monday appearance into today.

Occasionally mopping away perspiration caused by the lights, Rusk sat blank-faced through a number of scathing denunciations of the Vietnam policy he has helped to forge.

And his impassive expression remained as constant when several committee members rose to his defense.

Even a 10-minute tongue-lashing by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a fiery opponent of war policy, failed to noticeably ruffle Rusk's steadfast composure.

Morse shouted at Rusk that history would prove the United States provoked the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin incident, in which U.S. ships reported being attacked by North Vietnamese torpedo boats.

The incidents led to congressional adoption of a resolution the administration has often pointed to in explaining its subsequent escalation of the American military efforts.

Rusk quietly disagreed with Morse and painstakingly retraced the administration version of the incident.

The only sign of the evident pressure in such an encounter came outside the hearing room during the luncheon break when a reporter asked Rusk if his statements about Vietnam peace talks represented any change in U.S. policy.

"Please don't ask me any more questions," the secretary shot back as he strode away. "I've been answering questions all morning."

Arranging Event

MESSNER AND DR. CLEETWOOD . . . talk final plans for the Monday night session.

Forum For Superintendent Candidates Set

A public forum for the six candidates to succeed Dr. Charles F. Carroll as state superintendent of public instruction will be held at East Carolina University next Monday night, officials announced today.

Robert S. Messner, president of the sponsoring Parent-Teacher Association Council of the Greenville City Schools, said the public service program will be held at 8 p.m. in Wright Auditorium on the university campus.

By this morning, Messner said, four of the six candidates had accepted the PTA Council's invitation to appear. They are J. Everett Miller of Raleigh, Dr. Carroll's present assistant superintendent; Dr. Craig Phillips of Greensboro, an executive of the Richardson Foundation; Wendell W. Smiley of Greenville, director of library services at ECU's Joyner Memorial Library; and Dr. Raymond Stone of Southern Pines, president of Sandhills Community College. All four are candidates for the Democratic nomination in the May primary.

Also invited are another Democratic candidate, William D. Harrell of Southwood College at Salemburg, and the lone Republican candidate, Joe Morgan of Marshall.

Each candidate will be introduced and then given about 10 minutes to make a formal presentation. After the candidates have spoken, time will be allotted for questions and comments from the audience. To aid in the audience's understanding of the superintendent's duties and responsibilities, the Council will distribute sheets of such information at the beginning of the assembly.

According to Messner, the PTA Council arranged Monday's forum so that "citizens of Pitt County and the surrounding area may have the opportunity to hear and question the candidates about their views on the future of education in North Carolina."

Messner urged all persons interested in public education to attend the meeting, saying: "I am sure that anyone who attends will be able to make a more intelligent selection in voting for the person who will lead North Carolina in its education planning and progress during the next four years."

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Greenville schools superintendent, has assisted Messner and other council leaders in planning and promoting the Monday night forum.

He has arranged for a letter of information from Messner to be distributed this Friday to children in the city schools. The children will be asked to deliver the letter in which Messner will urge attendance at the forum, to their parents.

Inflation Danger Known, No Accord On Protection

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the bather who stayed too long in the sun and got burned, the American consumer is really going to be scorched soon if not given some protection from the heat of inflation.

This is a well known fact; there is no mystery to it. With very few exceptions, logical people such as President Johnson and congressmen and bankers and workers recognize the danger.

The mystery is how so many can agree on the danger and not in the relief. While Americans have been exposed to inflation many months beyond the limits of safety, nobody in authority has even raised a parasol.

While inflation now is running between 3 and 4 per cent a year — which means that interest and salary increases are wiped out — more inflationary pressures may be building up.

First, escalation of the Vietnam war already has thrown government estimates out of line. Defense costs now may run much higher than the $4-billion increase foreseen a few months ago. This spending must be paid for either by a tax increase or through inflation.

Next, farm prices have recently begun to rise, meaning retail food prices might soon move higher. This would mean a very painful inflation.

While consumers were saving an unusually high portion of their take-home pay the economy was spared a certain amount of inflationary pressure. But there are signs that people may step up their spending a bit.

In the business sector of the economy, spending for plant expansion has been running a bit below projections. But a government survey shows that businessmen are planning to invest more than $65 billion in plants this year, a total much higher than had been forecast a short while ago.

A similar condition prevails in regard to factory orders. Although orders early this year were lower than had been expected, a Commerce Department survey shows that manufacturers now expect big gains before the end of the year.

In Washington the debate goes on. Congress says the administration should cut spending. The administration says Congress should raise taxes. Either method would help cool the economy. But neither is being pursued.

If taxes were raised, as proposed by the Johnson people, then money would flow to government coffers, enabling it to pay its bills while reducing the spending power of the civilian economy.

If government spending were cut, as advocated by congressmen, then the government's ability to put pressure on the economy would be reduced. Fuel would be taken from the inflation furnace. The economy would lose heat.

The problem, then, is over methods.

Paper Offering Free Job Ads

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Charlotte News, an afternoon newspaper, will run free job-wanted advertisements for the city's unemployed.

The announcement Monday said the News will work with the city's agencies involved in employment of the poor in processing and handling the ad applications. The program is modeled after a similar one conducted by a Philadelphia, Pa., newspaper.

Patrol To Turn To 'Saturation'

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Highway Patrol plans to step up its patrolling on Friday and Saturday nights in an effort to curb the rising toll of traffic deaths.

Lt. Col. Edwin Guy, the patrol's executive officer, said Monday he had ordered "trooper commanders to increase saturation enforcement and the use of wolfpack units."

He said the increased patrolling on Friday and Saturday nights will be concentrated in areas where the drinking driver is a problem.

At least 24 persons died in traffic accidents in North Carolina during the weekend.

"We intend to saturate certain areas as well as using wolfpack (more than one car) patrols throughout the state," Guy said in a prepared statement. "We know we will be leaving certain areas unmanned, but the element of surprise is on our side. No motorist will know exactly where we'll saturate and where the wolfpack will be patrolling."

Two Suspended Police Return

CHAR E)—Two city policemen, suspended from duty after Negro man was killed while reportedly attempting to escape last week. will return to work within the next two days.

Patrolmen O. C. Towell and J. C. Bruton will return to their regular shifts after taking regularly scheduled days off.

A third officer, Patrolman R. E. Allison, fired the shot that killed Arthur James Hill, 25, of Charlotte.

Allison will also return to duty if a grand jury finds no reason to indict him in the shooting.

The FBI is conducting an investigation at the reques of Charlotte Police Chief John E. Ingersoll.

Davis Elected To C-of-C Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — Archie K. Davis, chairman of the board of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., in Winston-Salem, N. C., was elected Monday to a two-year term on the board of directors of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Davis was among ten new members elected to directorships.

Robert Wagner Chose Contract

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His fellow actors shook their heads three years ago upon hearing that Robert Wagner signed an exclusive contract with Universal. It seemed to them like something out of the dark ages.

Wagner has now demonstrated the wisdom of his move. He is star of a new televisioin series, "It Takes a Thief," which has proven its strength by being renewed for a full ABC season.

The exclusive player contract had virtually disappeared at the film studios until Wagner signed his deal. Thirty years ago, nearly every important performer was tied to a studio, but economic reverses forced the companies to trim their contract lists until they finally were non-existent. All actors became free-lancers, and the successful ones prefered it that way. It meant bigger salaries and more independence.

That's why it seemed strange when Wagner signed his Universal deal. After all, he had been that route before. He received the full treatment at 20th Century-Fox in the 1950s. His most famous role was as Prince Valiaint, which he somehow survived. After leaving Fox, he free-lanced with fair success.

"It . . I got back from making some pictures in Europe, I had a rough time," he admitted. "I knew I had matured as a performer, but I couldn't get the studios to see it. I sat around for al t two years, except for the time I went East and played "Mister Roberts" in summer stock. Th "Harper."

Wagner sought the role of the hedoni boy, but studio boss Jack L. Warner gave an unquotable reply in the negative —"He remembered how I convinced Natalie to leave Warners," said the actor, referring to his former wife, Natalie Wood. "Fortunately Paul Newman went to bat for me, and I got the role."

It prove crucial to his career, breaking him out of the colorless image he had accumulated. His telephone started ringing again, and among the callers were the executives who run Universal.

The payoff really came when Universal sold "It Takes a Thief" to bolster ABC's sagging ratings at midseason. The series did just that, despite its formidable opposition of Red Skelton, Jerry Lewis and a movie. Wagner said he has been told that "It Takes a Thief" has produced the best results of the new ABC series; no wonder it was picked up for 26 weeks in the 1968-69 season.

Why has the series succeeded?

"I think it's well produced," observed Wagner. "The studio hasn't stinted on quality, photographically and in the writing. And I think the character I play intrigues the public. He actually is a thief, and he fits in with the antihero philosophy of today."

Knifings Follow Convicts' Riot

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State Penitentiary officials reported two stabbings Monday night as prisoners were moved back to their cells after a weekend of rioting.

One prisoner, Delmar Wayne Dubray, 30, received a superficial puncture wound in the right kidney, the prison physician said.

Melvin Newell, 36, was wounded in the abdomen and groin. He was treated at the prison and then moved to a Salem hospital.

They were stabbed while milling round the prison yard as prison officials moved 178 men back to their cells.

There were some 950 convicts in the yard, waiting for their cells to be cleaned of debris of the rioting.

The process of returning the men to their cells was slow because prison officials stripped and searched each man, making sure he did not carry a weapon.

The riot lasted from Saturday afternoon until Sunday morning, when the prisoners released four guards they had been holding as hostages. Damage estimates range from $1.8 million to $6 million.

Trapped 10 Hours In Train Wreck

PETERBOROUGH, England (AP) — A railroad fireman was freed from a wrecked locomotive today after lying trapped for 10 hours beside two dead engineers.

"Thanks a lot," said Aubrey Dolman, only slightly injured and puffing his pipe. "I appreciate this."

Dolman's legs had been pinned under the wreckage. The fireman and the two engineers were in the cab of a diesel engine which ran into the back of another freight train on the outskirts of Peterborough.

Doctor O.K's This Hemorrhoid Treatment For N.J. Couple's Son

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Wharton, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jeffers report: "Our son suffered from hemorrhoids. I asked the doctor about Preparation H and he gave us the O.K. Our son is now fine, thanks to Preparation H."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases — Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Candidate Would Bolster Citizen's Private Rights

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Raleigh attorney Mel Broughton said Monday night that if elected governor he would work to prevent what he termed "any weakening of our rights to property and personal freedom."

He made the statement after saying he disagrees with the recent report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders that "white racism" caused the disorders.

Broughton spoke at the annual Distinguished Service Award banquet of the Asheville Jaycees.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate told the Jaycees he is strongly opposed to the proposed open housing laws.

Citing North Carolina's development in tourism. Broughton said that if elected he would continue to promote a program of tourism that could raise it to the state's number one industry.

"To serve the travel industry as well as every facet of life in North Carolina, we must have strong leadership," he added.

Meanwhile, Broughton issued a statement in Raleigh in which he said that if elected he would recommend a special study group be formed to improve commercial fishing in North Carolina.

He said the study group would be composed of fisheries experts, fishermen, ocean scientists and financial experts.

Proposes Best Teachers Go To Lagging Schools

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — A North Carolina educator suggested Monday night "the best teachers available" should be placed in predominantly Negro schools where education seems to be lagging.

Dr. James C. Wallace, associate professor of sociology at North Carolina State University, said the best Negro teachers were being hired by predominantly white schools to fill integration quotas.

He told a panel of newsmen on "North Carolina News Conference" the present system of school integration as dictated by the federal government "hurts more than it helps." The program was telecast on the University of North Carolina's educational television stations.

"We need to hit the problem where it is," Wallace said.

He cited complaints from Negro teachers that white teachers hired as replacements in Negro schools "are worse teachers than the ones who left."

Wallace criticized the North Carolina Education Association on the issue of teacher salaries.

"If this organization would devote as much effort to improving the standards of its members as it does to wages," he said, "it would do a great deal of good for education in this state."

Teaching Children Not To Make Fun Of People

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write when I read about the "creepy" girl nobody anted to bother with. Did they even stop to think why she was that way?

I was a girl like that. I had an alcoholic father and a mother who didn't care. I was never taught to wash and keep myself clean and neat. The only room in the house with any heat was the kitchen, and we didn't have hot running water, so I wasn't about to take a bath in the kitchen with the whole family looking on .

I didn't have any friends because of my dirty appearance. But two girls in my class took me under their wing. They taught me how to dress and fix myself up. They even helped me get baby - sitting jobs.

They let me come to their houses to take a bath and wash my hair, and they didn't care what people thought. They told me they knew I was a nice girl that needed help. That gave me an incentive to never do anything wrong to make them sorry they gave me their friendship.

I have been married for 20 years to a good man and I have always taught my children never to make fun of anybody because of their appearance.

BEFRIENDED IN BERKSHIRE

DEAR ABBY: For the last few years I have been the secretary to an unmarried man, almost young enough to be my son, but not quite. Because he lives alone, I do many personal things for him in addition to my regular secretarial duties.

Last summer we took a European vacation at the same time, and since he is well-acquainted there I was entertained royally by his friends, along with him. Believe me, all of this was perfectly innocent, and it was with my husband's knowledge and approval. But I know there is talk among my co-workers, and little understanding on the part of my friends. Should I ignore the talk, and go on as I have?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: If everything is on the up-and-up, and your husband understands and approves, it appears that your only problem is the "talk." If this is the case, just make sure you aren't inviting the talk — by talking too much yourself.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "The Troubled Trio," who didn't want that "queer, homely, creepy" girl hanging around, trying to be friends with them, prompted me to write this:

A "homely, creepy" girl needs more than anything else to be taken in, given friendship, and taught how to dress, to fix her hair, and to use make-up, if her religion and the school allow it.

And I would ask "The Troubled Trio" — the popular girls at school "in" with the crowd— to read Christ's words in the 25th chapter of Matthew, verse 40:

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, 'Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethen ye have done it unto me.' "

Sincerely yours,

A Most Prestigious Appointment

We are delighted to learn that James T. Cheatham III, Greenville attorney, has been appointed to the Board of Conservation and Development.

Cheatham's appointment was announced by Gov. Moore last week. Cheatham succeeds the late Dr. Henry Jordan of Cedar Falls. His term will run until June 30, 1969.

This may be the most prestigious appointment that any Pitt Countian has received during the Moore term.

The C and D administers the state's vast tourist program, as well as handling most of North Carolina's industrial development program. It is concerned with many other activities which are vital to the state's continued growth and prosperity.

Cheatham has been active in local affairs since returning here to practice law following graduation. He has served as solicitor of Pitt County Recorder's Court. He also served two years in the U. S. Navy and is now a lieutenant commander and commanding officer of the Naval Reserve Unit in Washington, N. C.

Pitt County is fortunate to have this young man serving on the powerful Board of Conservation and Development.

Grant Would Be Big Help In City Recovery

While a grant of $89,464 in federal funds will not cover all the costs of January's disastrous ice storm, it no doubt will be a big help in recovering from the blow.

The City Council last week formally submitted the application for assistance in meeting the unanticipated costs caused by the storm.

Ice laden limbs and whole trees crashed through the utilities-owned electric lines time-after-time and power was off for some customers days at the time.

The grant, if approved, will help cover only the cost of emergency repairs. The permanent repairs, made later, will have to be borne by the city.

However, some assistance with the staggering costs of the repairs will make considerable difference to the Utilities Commission and city departments. It is to be hoped that the funds will be approved without and delay.

Fiscal Picture Grows Brighter

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — The state government's fiscal picture appears increasingly bright which is cheering news and helpful campaign fodder for the current crop of political candidates.

Dollars to do with is the stuff on which campaign promises are made — those which the voters like to hear. So the state's revenue picture is watched closely and examined carefully in each election year.

Thus far it is encouraging. But it is too early perhaps for anyone to project and predict accurately whether there will be a surplus in the state treasury and the size of it at the end of the 1967-69 biennium. The current biennium began only last July and results are in for only three-quarters of the first of two fiscal years—from last July through February.

WILLIAM SHIRES

Results Good

Nevertheless, results thus far are good—comparatively. Revenue collections for the eight months period were up 7.45 per cent, an increase of $38.6 million over the comparable period in 1966-67.

The increase, of course, reflects a gain in the state's overall economy. The experts do not doubt that gains are occurring but there is question whether state revenue collections are keeping pace at a rate equal to meet increased demand for services.

Warnings Sounded

There are warnings sounded against anyone being overly optimistic at this point. The overall trend of the state's economy is up but this is geared largely to national, international and sometimes local conditions.

For example, the state's economic activity dipped rather sharply during the period of cold, wintry weather during January. To an even greater extent, it is tied to what may happen in Washington and on the international scene.

Also, there are words of caution for the various state political candidates that a rosy sense of vast, almost unlimited financial resources becoming available would be misleading and inaccurate. Costs and requests for increased appropriations always leapfrog and far exceed what the state's budget planners estimate will be available.

Surpluses Available

For more than two decades, surpluses carried over from one biennium to another have been available to the budget-makers as a cushion against increased requests. A surplus in the state's General Fund is almost traditional in this era of expanding, upward reaching economy.

Amount of the surplus is often a sensitive point politically. It may be projected, predicted and estimated but it is never accurately known until after the end of a biennium—after the preceding legislature adjourns.

And that legislature must base its scale of appropriations upon estimates of available surplus and percentage increase in actual revenue collections

Balanced Budget

The fact is that seldom have these final estimates turned out to be very accurate in the matter of balancing appropriated expenditures against revenues. For the past 20 years, with the exception of a brief recession in the late 1950s, budgeting has been or has been proved to be on the conservative side. A surplus has accumulated.

As in the present political campaign, the surplus has given elbow room to various candidates.

In 1964, Gov. Dan K. Moore pledged certain budget increases including an across-the-board pay increase for state employes on the basis of predictions of a $70 million-plus surplus. It turned out to be on the plus side. Moore was safe, and the candidate's promises were kept.

Now On A Road To Tax Reform

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—After more than a year of study, the Johnson administration has started down the road to tax reform in its plan to eliminate the exemption for state and local industrial development bonds.

Before the total job is completed, the nation's entire tax structure is likely to come under congressional scrutiny, including the controversial 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance.

Although the administration has yet to unveil its long-promised tax reform package, the Treasury Department has decided to move on its own to end what it considers an abuse of tax exempt development bonds issued in the name of states and localities

In reality, the Treasury said, these are nothing more than a bond used by a corporation to get a cheap interest rate for plant expansion and thus represent a federal subsidy.

Because interest on the bonds is free of federal income taxes, they can be floated at a lower rate than regular corporate bonds.

The Treasury can eliminate the exemption by administrative action because the bonds were originally declared tax exempt by a 1954 Treasury ruling.

Treasury officials said they are doing hard - pressed state and local taxpayers a favor by moving now.

Industrial development bonds issued in the name of a local government — at least $1.4 billion worth were issued last year — compete with regular municipal bonds and thus drive up their cost, the treasury said.

And when a local or state government must pay a higher interest rate, the result is higher property tares, sales taxes and state income taxes.

The effort to push through this reform — which many states have requested—could be the easiest faced by the Treasury in the long list of reforms to be unveiled. They reportedly will be made known after Congress begins to act on the 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal.

The administration wants to keep the surcharge and tax reform package separate. Tax reform legislation is expected to take at least a year to move through Congress after it's submitted.

The over - all reform program is expected to cover charitable foundations, estate and gift taxes, multiple exemptions enjoyed by some corporations and perhaps a minimum tax for the very rich who are able to avoid taxes through large charitable deductions and depreciation.

No change in the 27½ per cent oil depletion rate is expected to be recommended by the White House but some members of Congress have said they will try to lower it.

The industrial development bond was designed originally for use by areas of high unemployment to attract job-producing industries. But in recent years companies have threatened to take their business elsewhere if they didn't get the cost - saving advantage of an industrial development bond signed by a local government, officials said.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

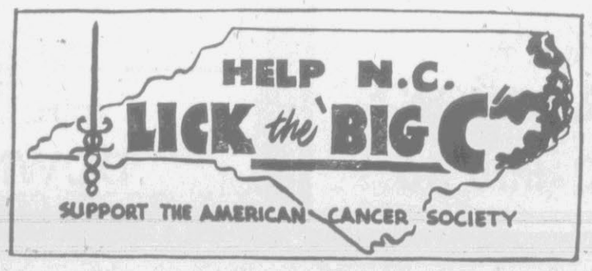

COULD WE?

If in a boxing bout one of the participants is knocked down and stays down for more than ten seconds, he is counted out. What is the count for us individuals and as a race? Are we all finished? Washed up? There are many who believe this to be the case.

But there are also many of us who believe that regardless of present dangers and future challenges, the human race will manage somehow to stumble through and achieve a destiny. It may not be what we would regard today as a satisfactory destiny. Our faiths may change. Our objectives may change, also. There is even a chance that we may change fundamentally. People living a hundred years from now may look back on our generation with amusement and disdain.

But the reasonable conclusion would appear to be that God created the world for a purpose and that in his power and love God is not going to let that purpose be thrust aside or destroyed. We must always remember that the Creator has the last word. We may think that we are having the last word, but the Creator has a way of slapping down little pretenders and demanding of them that they give a reason for their folly. Nineteen civilizations have arisen in the past and eventually have either died down or gone over the precipice. History seems to indicate that that our present civilization is the most illustrious, sophisticated and intelligent that has so far arisen in human history.

But watch out—we could be wrong.

"It's Downright Comforting to Know I've Got ONE Thing Going for Me—In All Directions"

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Scholar And Gentleman

The most improbable candidate in the spring trials is not Harold Stassen, the aging wonderboy, nor George Wallace, the Alabama bearcat. It is Eugene J. McCarthy, the Minnesota dove. The Senator is also the most personally attractive man in the field, and today he may yet startle the number one hawk of the White House mews.

No one can say why Mr. Stassen is running. He is cursed with unbreakable habit, perhaps, like slicing his drive off the tee. Mr. Wallace can be explained in the pediatrics of the Duchess, whose salutary advice was to beat a baby when he sneezes: He only does it to annoy, because he knows it teases. But Senator McCarthy? For the past ten days, this gentle philsopher has been roaming the hills of New Hampshire. He looks like a birdwatcher, intent on observing the nuthatch, but he is not after titmice. He is seeking, of all things, votes.

It is amazing. The Senator has no more chance of wresting the nomination from Lyndon Johnson than the invidious Muscovites have of snaring Daddy Warbucks. He is sacrificing time, money, energy and vocal cords out of an abiding conviction that the war in Vietnam is wrong and must be ended. It is a respectable point of view; a number of politicians share it, and these are plausible politicians, born to life on the stump.

By default, as much as anything else, Senator McCarthy thus finds himself alone in the ring with the champ. He has the appearance of a man who would rather be back in the faculty lounge. He turned up the other night in Newark, where Joe Rauh, George Kennan and 1,300 New Jersey volunteers had gathered for dinner. He sat beneath a great red and white banner reading, "Eugene McCarthy for President," with a crew -cut dean from Rutgers on his right and a pneumatic brunette from New Brunswick on his left. The crowd, mostly white, mostly young, waited with open arms.

Now, the rules for such occasions are clear. A candidate is expected to speak for 45 minutes and to wave his arms 128 times; McCarthy spoke for 22 minutes and gestured not at all. A candidate is expected to get 'em laughing with a few timely jokes. You know how McCarthy began? "I have a limited measure of courage," he said. That was his lead. He did not even say he was glad to be back in New

Ignored Aides' Advice

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON —President Johnson's decision to concede the Massachusetts Democratic primary on April 30 to Sen. Eugene McCarthy was his own, reversing advice by his closest political counselors.

A private, tentative green light had been given state Democratic chairman Lester Hyman to enter an LBJ stand-in — state Senate president Maurice Donahue — against McCarthy. The light switched from green to red on Mr. Johnson's orders, conceding the state's 72 first - ballot delegate votes to McCarthy and giving him a boost nationally.

Just how important this White House blunder will become is yet to be determined. But the strange events of last Monday and Tuesday (March 4, 5) comprise a bizarre story climaxing months of agonized indecision over Massachusetts.

On Monday evening at about 6 o'clock, Hyman finally received from Washington an answer to his question of many months. In a telephone call, Mr. Johnson's top political advisors - ton lawyer James - Postmaster Gen - rence F. O'Brien - President did not w - s name on the ballot. But, Rowe added, Donahue would be acceptable as a stand - in with, presumably, full backing from Washington.

Contrary to some reports, Hyman accepted this even though it might boost Donahue as a hopeful for Governor in 1970. Rowe added to Hyman that this would be pinned down later that evening with another telephone call.

Rowe then went into session with Mr. Johnson, and the call was never made. Nor did the call come on Tuesday. On four occasions that day, Hyman telephoned the White House—without success.

Finally, Rowe telephoned Hyman at 4:34 p.m. on Tuesday, 26 minutes before the 5 o'clock filing deadline. He informed him that, first, the President did not want to be on the ballot; second, reversing instructions of Monday night, he did not want Donahue or anybody else for a stand - in; third, Hyman would have to accept full responsibility for financing an organization if he entered a favorite son. Naturally enough, Hyman entered nobody.

The President had overruled his advisors. His own views were hammered home in a monologue delivered privately to 25 state chairmen at the White House Wednesday afternoon. Listing Presidential priorities, Mr. Johnson put primary elections dead last.

A footnote: Inclusion of a dozen anti - Vietnam liberals on the 72 - member Massachusetts delegation was not, as some LBJ aides hint, a reason for the President's staying out of the primary. Given an advance peek at the delegation, the White House objected to only one man: Richard Goodwin, the ex - LBJ aide now writing speeches for McCarthy. Hyman offered to delete Goodwin if that would bring the President into the primary, but the offer was not accepted.

Toys Are Better And Costlier

By ELMER ROESSNER

If you are a parent or a grandparent, may heaven have mercy on your pocketbook this year.

At the American Toy Fair, which opens officially Monday in New York after a week of previews, toys are more wonderful, more numerous and more expensive than ever. Furthermore, manufacturers say they will be advertised more than ever on television.

A few years ago, the fair used to bring out a hundred or so new toys. This year there are more than a thousand new ones, not counting the improved models of last year's new ones.

The fact that the birth rate is dropping isn't worrying manufacturers yet. The birth rate fell below 20 per thousand population in 1964, but it was well above it in previous years and it is the children born in those years, not in 1964-67, that make the toy market. The rate reached a high of 25 per thousand in 1955, which is why you see so many 13-year-olds standing in front of toy store windows today.

Batman Fades Away

Batman toys, which were dominant for the last two years, were hard to find this year, not that Batman is off the network. There is a mild trend toward Dr. Dolittle toys this year, but its nothing like the Davy Crockett sweep of a few years ago.

Many manufacturers have versions of miniature auto racing games, with the power source hidden under the track. Some of the tracks are adaptable to matchbox cars. The games are exciting and a shrewd Junior could win the deed of the house from Dad in an evening.

Manufacturers are spending more money on innovation and design. Some of the toys appear to have been designed by fugitives from the space program. Indeed, there are many space toys this year, guns that zap enemies with magic rays or simply blast of air.

ELMER ROESSNER

Among The Wonders

There's a new tape recorder so simple a 6-year-old can operate it; a kit to build a telephone amplifier; a machine that generates chains of bubbles; a hose attachment that can chase kids on a summer lawn, watering it as it goes; a plastic sheet on which kids can belly-slide on a film of water; a robot that draws millions of intricate patterns when a child sets two pendulums in motion; a crib device that lets a baby change a series of illuminated pictures by pulling a string, and books that speak to tell the story as a child turns the pages.

Outstanding as an assemble-it-yourself, seven - foot skeleton of a Rex Tyrannosaurus, of light - weight plastic. Next year, a 15-foot mastadon, perhaps.

And dolls! There's every kind, every color, every degree of cuteness and almost every human function simulated. It's a great year for little girls because there are more and more cooking devices, including a machine that makes edible hamburgers. The material, however, is not meat, but a nonspoiling imitation.

The rules require that a candidate must never appeal to the intelligence of his audience. He may appeal to their party loyalty, perhaps, to patriotism, or to their pugilistic instincts. The regulation as to poetry is that a candidate may quote four lines Shakespeare or two from Edgar Guest; no other poets are approved. The one permitted reference to history is to the Founding Fathers; nothing else is allowed.

McCarthy paid no heed to the rules. He proceeded from his modest beginning to a learned lecture on the war in Vietnam. He quoted from an obscure essay of George Orwell. He quoted Toynbee on Rome and Carthage. Turning from foreign affairs, he developed a brilliant theme on the mistreatment of Negroes as colonials. He alluded to the poetry of Dylan Thomas and actually quoted from Robert Lowell. Then he sat down. Did you ever hear of such a thing? His audience loved it.

McCarthy is a big fellow. He stands six feet tall and must weigh 190 pounds. He moves through a crowd as easily as a first baseman going after a bunt. McCarthy might have been a first baseman, as a matter of fact. Once, playing in his senior year at St. John's, he reportedly was scouted by the White Sox. "But they never came to see me." He started to be a Catholic priest instead, and wound up a professor of sociology. In 1948, the bosses of Minnesota's Democrat-Farmer-Labor Party needed a man to run in the St. Paul District. They caught McCarthy on his way to class, when he had something else on his mind. He said yes, and the rest is history. Five terms in the House led to two in the Senate, and here he is in New Hampshire.

He is a gentleman, a scholar, a teacher. He is above all else an honest man, driven by that sense of duty that Mark Twain once described — "a man's duty of contenting his own spirit the duty of making himself agreeable to himself." McCarthy will lose, but he is making himself marvelously agreeable to friend and foe alike.

Copper Breakthrough Chances Have Faded

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chances of a breakthrough soon in the 8-month-old copper strike have faded after union negotiators delayed action on a $1.07 per hour contract offer and renewed demands for company-wide bargaining.

The 40-month contract offer by Phelps Dodge Corp., one of four major strikebound copper firms, would have covered some 5,000 workers at its Arizona mines and El Paso, Tex., refinery, but not at its other operations in New York and Arkansas.

The offer, which Phelps Dodge termed the best ever made in the copper industry, was "neither accepted nor rejected at this time" by several hundred leaders of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers union. Copper workers were averaging $3.28 an hour when the strike started.

The Steelworkers set another meeting for Tuesday night and ordered its union negotiators to return to the bargaining table meanwhile to demand simultaneous contract expiration dates at all Phelps Dodge operations.

But a Phelps Dodge spokesman said "there is nothing else to bargain about" until the unions accept or reject its wage offer. He said the company would continue negotiations for the other plants not covered by the contract offer.

Kennecott Copper Corp. was reported near a similar contract offer to the unions, but a Kennecott spokesman said, "The issue of company-wide bargaining is still our No. 1 problem."

The 26 striking unions, representing more than 50,000 workers, are bargaining jointly for the first time in the industry's history and their demands for company-wide bargaining, similar wage hikes and simultaneous contract dates has dragged out the longest copper strike in history.

The other two firms, Anaconda Co. and American Smelting & Refining Co., were reported still far from settlement.

All four copper firms have rejected union demands for company-wide bargaining and simultaneous contract expiration dates, insisting on holding to the old pattern of negotiating separately for their various mines, smelters, refineries and fabricating plants.

President Johnson called the negotiators to the White House eight days ago and said the strike was hurting the nation's economy and could threaten supplies of weapons and ammunition for Vietnam if it continued.

A special "District of Colufbia Committte for New Hampshire Democrats" has collected campaign funds for the lagging Johnsin campaign against Sen. McCarthy in today's primary.

Noting that New Hampshire Democratic leader Bernard Boutin "is heading up the New Hampshire primary effort on President Johnson's behalf," the solicitation letter declares: "This is an important effort." It asks contributions of at least $25.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says the United States has the power and resources to "deal with any foe anywhere except within our own country."

One of the nation's weaknesses, he added, "is pitting our strength against each other and chewing on ourselves."

The President made the comments at a swearing-in ceremony for John H. Crooker Jr., of Houston, Tex., the new head of the Civil Aeronautics Board. He has made similar references in connection with dissenters of his Vietnam policy.

Crooker, who represented a Houston law firm in Washington, succeeds Charles S. Murphy. Murphy has been named a counsel on the White House staff.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has announced former presidential press secretary George Reedy will rejoin its staff on a temporary basis to work primarily on labor matters.

Reedy, 50, a native of East Chicago, Ind., has been president of Struthers-Wells Research and Development Corp.

After leaving the press secretary position, he was appointed by President Johnson to several commissions, including labor boards.

He now is a member of a three-man mediation panel Johnson named to try to help settle the eight-month-old copper strike.

The American Transport Association has called for a private testing program for collision-avoidance devices being developed for potential use in airliners and other planes.

President Johnson has accepted the resignation of Walter R. Hibbard Jr. as director of the Bureau of Mines effective April 1. Hibbard plans to join the Owens Corning Fiberglass Corp.

Ayden Plays Newland As State Tourney Opens

Coaches Like Longer Season, Frosh Rules

The Atlantic Coast Conference coaches like the new rule about the use of freshman players on baseball teams, and are happy about the new 21-game schedule they play this year.

But the Southern Conference diamond mentors are not pleased with the system they're working under this year.

Thah was the concensus of opinion yesterday at the annual Batter's-Up Golf Tournament. Each year, Reynolds May and East Carolina University entertain the baseball coaches from the Southern and ACC schools, along with sportswriters from the area, and the season is given its tip-off.

This year, for the first time, one member of the ACC was not present, Clemson University. The Tigers, one of the favorites in the league, have already started their season, and are in Mississippi on a road trip.

Clemson, along with the Tar Heels of North Carolina, and the South Carolina Gamecocks were the consensus choice of the coaches to battle for the title.

Most of the coaches expressed approval at the new rule allowing the use of freshmen on baseball teams. But most agreed that they would probably also have a junior varsity program to take care of most of their freshmen. "We're not," said Wake Forest's Jack Stallings, "We need all the help we can get. I think the rule is going to help the weaker teams, while the stronger ones like Carolina will have very few freshmen on their team."

Most agreed that they would keep only the few top freshmen on their varsity roster, while sending most into a junior varsity program.

The league is also using a new schedule this year, playing each team three times instead of twice. In the past, they have played each other on a home-and-home basis. This season, one of these dates will see the teams play a double-header.

Tom Butters of Duke summed up the league feeling about it, "It's going to give the weaker teams a better chance. Since we play more games, someone like Carolina cant's use the same pitcher against us in both games. We'll get to see more pitchers and maybe have a better chance to win a few games."

Meanwhile, the three Southern Conference coaches who appeared, expressed disapproval over the new split conference for baseball. This year, the conference is being split into two divisions for play. East Carolina, Furman, The Citadel and Davidson will make up one division, playing nine games each, while West Virginia, George Washington, Virginia Military Institute, Richmond and William & Mary will make up the northern division, playing eight games each.

"We'd rather play everyone," Coach Earl Smith of East Carolina said. "Baseball has been the only sport where everyone was expected to play everyone else. It held the conference together, and now they're trying to stop this. We want to go back to the round-robin next year."

The coaches felt that East Carolina and Furman would be the teams to beat in the south, while West Virginia, George Washington and William & Mary would fight it out in the north.

At the end of the season, the two divisional champs will meet for the title, with the winner going to the NCAA regionals.

Tornadoes Have To Figure A Way To Stop Seven-Foot Indian Center

The story goes that Jack climbed up the beanstalk, found a magic kingdom, and captured the goose that laid the golden eggs. And after escaping from the fearsome giant, lived happily ever after.

Wednesday night, Ayden High School goes up the beanstalk to Durham, seeking a third straight Class A State Basketball championship, a real golden egg.

And a stepladder and Jack the Giant Killer may come in as handy accessories if the Tornadoes wish to live happily ever after.

For they are going to be running up against one of the biggest boys to operate on a North Carolina basketball court in Tommy Burleson. Still a growing boy, who has just turned 16, Burleson stretches the tape measure to a distant 7-0. "He's grown four inches every year since he was in the sixth grade," Coach Roger Banks said today. His doctors say that he'll probably grow another three or four inches before he stops."

Burleson has already attracted the eyes of a lot of college coaches. "There have been a lot of contacts already, but he doesn't seem to have any particular one in mind as yet. And since he's got two more years of high school left, we want to keep him as close as we can," Banks said.

Burleson doesn't seem to be bothered by the usual problem of one so young and so tall, awkwardness. He's averaging around 22 points per game and pulling down around 25 rebounds per game.

Joining him in the forecourt are a 6-3 and 6-5 forward. Steve Sudderth is a 6-3 forward who is dropping in around 21 points per game. The other forward is Kenny Church, 6-5, a junior with about a nine-point average, but whom Banks rates as a top defensive player.

Two of the top reserves are also forwards, 6-5 Robert Ensley, who posts an eight-point average, a 6-2 Brad Blalock, a good defensive man.

In the backcourt, the Indians are short. Randy Childress is just 5-10, but makes up for it with fine outside shooting, hitting around 18 per game. He dropped in 27 the last time out as Newland beat Cherokee in the district finals.

His running mate in the backcourt is Danny Wright, a diminutive 5-7.

"It's a great challenge to go up against the defending champs," Banks said. "We've played some good teams up this way, but we have a lot of respect for them. We feel we can go all the way, however."

Ayden's Robert Murphrey goes into the game somewhat puzzled. "This is an experience I've never had before (facing a seven-footer). I really don't know how to prepare our boys for it. Usually a team may just have one real big man and you can box him in, but that probably will not work with Newland."

"We're not going to be able to do a lot of inside shooting against the height they have, and we're going to have to have a good percentage since we're not going to get a lot of rebounds."

One thing that may hurt Ayden is the loss of 6-2 B. T. Chappell, the team's leading rebounder. He has an ankle injury and will miss the opening game. If Ayden survives, he is expected to be ready for Friday's game.

The Tornadoes will probably start Dail McLawhorn at center, the tallest man on the team at 6-4, while Paul Miller, Kent Allen and George Booth occupy the other spots. Chappell's post will be filled by either Kyle Braswell or Howard McLawhorn.

"The boys don't seem to be scared by Burleson," Murphrey said. "They feel that they can go up there and take everything again. But the team that does win it all is going to have to play three nights of good basketball," he said.

The golden egg will be there for the winner, but whether Ayden is there to claim it will depend on whether they are able to chop down the beanstalk and bring down the giant. It's going to be a tough job at any rate.

Bulls Nearer Playoff Berth

Flynn Robinson's last-minute heroics pushed the Chicago Bulls a step closer to a playoff berth, but his former Cincinnati mates didn't appreciate the move.

Robinson, who came to the Bulls from the Royals earlier in the season, flipped in a basket and a pair of free throws in the final minute, sending the Bulls to a 104-98 National Basketball Association victory over Cincinnati.

In tht only other game Monday night, Boston topped Seattle 119-112.

In the American Basketball Association action, Kentucky defeated Oakland, 120-107 and Denver stopped Dallas, 119-105.

Chicago's magic number — a combination of Chicago wins or Seattle losses — for a Western Division playoff spot is now two over the fifth-place SuperSonics. The Bulls have seven games left, Seattle six.

Cincinnati, battling for the last playoff spot in the Eastern Division, dropped to fifth place, and trails Detroit by one game. Baltimore is only one percentage point behind the Royals in the torrid race.

Oscar Robertson kept the Royals in contention with 37 points, including 13 in the last quarter when the Royals got within four points with a minute remaining to play, after trailing 84-73.

Bob Boozer also had 19 points and McCoy McLemore 18, in the Bulls' balanced scoring attack.

Houston Tops In AP's Final Poll

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Houston, which has held the top position since upsetting defending champion UCLA Jan. 20, wound up in the No. 1 spot today in the final Associated Press major college basketball poll.

The Cougars, who have romped past 29 opponents without a loss this season, received 253 points, 12 more than UCLA, which was a clear-cut choice for the top spot last season when it went unbeaten.

Houston's total was built on 19 votes for first and seven for second. UCLA's figures were the exact opposite.

St. Bonaventure, at 23-0 the only other undefeated team in the country, placed third, but only one other team, No. 9 Louisville, retained its spot from last week.

Kentucky, which was idle last week, and North Carolina, winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, switched places, Kentucky slipping to fifth and North Carolina moving into fourth.

Duke, the 12-10 victim of an effective North Carolina State stall, plummeted from sixth to 10th, creating a shift among three other positions.

New Mexico climbed into sixth and Columbia into seventh, each advancing one notch, while Davidson leapfrogged past Louisville, from 10th to eighth.

All members of the Top Ten have concluded their regular-season schedules, but all are involved in post-season play. Duke begins play against Oklahoma City in the National Invitation Tournament Thursday night while the others compete in the NCAA tournament this weekend.

Houston started its bid to succeed UCLA as the national champion last Saturday with a 94-76 victory over Chicago Loyola. UCLA, meanwhile, was winding up its regular schedule with a 72-64 triumph over Southern California and a 25-1 record.

St. Bonaventure, Columbia and Davidson also won first-round NCAA contests.

The final Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses and total piints:

1.	Houston (19)	253
2.	UCLA (7)	241
3.	St. Bonaventure	135
4.	North Carolina	179
5.	Kentucky	147
6.	New Mexico	85
7.	Columbia	82
8.	Davidson	77
9.	Louisville	70
10.	Duke	42

ABA Holds A Secret Draft

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Although Commissioner George Mikan preferred to call it an "evaluation session," it was learned Monday that the American Basketball Association held a preliminary draft last weekend at Louisville.

Each of the 11 ABA clubs claimed negotiation rights to about four of the nation's top college players for purposes of trying to sign them to contracts as soon as their collegiate competition ends.

For some seniors this is not until the end of the NCAA, NIT and NAIA tournaments. Others have already finished this season's play.

"Technically, this is not our draft," Mikan said from ABA headquarters here. "We had an evaluation session of ballplayers. We exchanged notes, getting ourselves prepared for our annual draft, which will be April 27 in Los Angeles.

'We had to allow our people to start talking to some of these players as soon as they become available. I at least want our boys to have a chance to talk to them. We don't want to lose them before we have a chance to talk to them."

Telephone Co. Manager, WNCT Spokesmen Speak At Board Meet

Linwood Langley, local manager of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, outlined the necessary steps for increasing the non-toll charge area at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce - Merchants Association board of directors last night.

Langley told the board that a number of towns in the area could be made toll free if subscribers were willing to increase their rates to compensate for the loss of long distance revenue and if they voted favorably on the proposition.

Ed Fields and Marion Tribley, representatives of WNCT-TV, explained how CATV (Cable Television) works and outlined its advantages and disadvantages.

Dr. Joe Pou, chairman of the Industrial Committee, reported that Robert Leak, administrator of the Commerce and Industry Division of the Department of Conservation and Development, will be the guest speaker at the annual safety awards dinner scheduled for March 26.

Dr. Pou commented on the recently prepared aerial photo map in the Chamber of Commerce office which shows the Greenville area. He stated the map will be used in connection with industrial development efforts.

"I feel a special effort should be made to attract small businesses to Greenville," Pou said. He added the chamber of commerce will appreciably increase its efforts to assist in the attraction of additional industry to the Greenville area and that a number of meetings are scheduled in connection with this.

Board members voted to sponsor the Dale Carnegie Course.

Gene Skinner reported to the board that plans have been completed for conducting a retail trade survey for Greenville. The survey will be conducted by the East Carolina Development Institute.

Dr. James Butler commented on the excellent "town-gown relationship" (university - community relationship) which has existed through the years and suggested ways this relationship might be continued and even improved.

Deaf Acquire Church Too Noisy For Others

By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A church abandoned because buzzing planes at the nation's busiest airport drowned out the prayers and sermons has become home base for a jet age circuit preacher's silent ministry.

Only the deaf worship now in the Rev. Walter Busby's 40-member parish, unique in Florida.

They aren't disturbed by noise from landings and takeoffs at suburban Opa-Locka Airport, busiest in the nation with 596,949 landings or takeoffs last year. The planes' approach takes them directly over the weathered white cross on the Spanish tile roof of the church.

The Lutheran pastor has all five senses but gives his sermons, the liturgy of the service and leads prayer and hymns with the hand language of the deaf.

Behind the free-standing altar — turned so he can face his parishioners as they read his fingers — Pastor Busby folds his hands to say, "Let us pray."

Another Lutheran congregation built and used the adobe-colored building in which Trinity Deaf Zion now worships. But Harry F. Laduke, president of the earlier congregation, said "Our church body decided in 1960 that, with the airfield flight pattern being right over the roof, and our fronting on busy Northwest 27th Avenue, the noise Sunday after Sunday was affecting our attendance."

Laduke advertised in local newspapers and the first inquiry was from a representative of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon)

"I explained to him the noise and confusion that caused us to want to sell," Laduke said. "He went away and never came back."

Eventually, an ad led to purchase of the building for more than $40,000 by the National Deaf Zion of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Services at Trinity Deaf Zion are in the evenings, Sunday and Wednesday, because Pastor Busby ministers each Sunday mirning to other deaf congregations—in Tampa, 200 ilying miles away, and Pensacola, about 500 miles away.

Jordan, Israel In Brief Clash

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Jordanian forces exchanged machine-gun fire across the Jordan River for the second straight day today after an Israeli patrol killed an Arab saboteur in a brief clash, the army said.

A communique said Jordanian gunners opened up about an hour after the rest of the Arab band had fled back across the river from the Israeli-occupied west bank about four miles north of the Allenby Bridge.

Israeli forces fired back, the communique said. It mentioned no Israeli casualties.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Housing Minister Mordechai Bentov announced that in the next two or three years about 10,000 Jews will be able to move into homes in East Jerusalem, the Arab quarter captured from Jordan in the June war.

Along the Suez Canal—the Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire line since the June war—Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser spent two days visiting Arab troops, an official announcement said Monday. It added that in prayers Monday Nasser "vowed to unite and liberate Arab lands and purify Arab holy places from the enemy."

Five Defectors Quit Sweden Asylum; Embassy Gives Help

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Five American military defectors who sought asylum in Sweden have returned to their units or home, officials said today.

Only one was named. He is Ray Jones, 21, Detroit, the first U.S. soldier to defect to Sweden in protest to the war in Vietnam, the usual reason given by other American defectors.

American informants said Jones returned to his unit in West Germany today. He had been granted permission to remain in Sweden after arriving in January of 1967 and had been teaching ballet.

Jones called at the U.S. Embassy this morning and requested assistance to return to his unit. The sources said he was provided funds for the air fare to Frankfurt. He was accompanied by his German-born wife and their child.

The sources declined to discuss his reasons for returning to his unit, but Jones recently appeared on a Swedish radio-television program in which he expressed regret that he had ever come to Sweden.

Two other American defectors, who had been absent without leave from their units in West Germany for more than a week, also turned themselves in to the U.S. Embassy here Monday.

They, too, asked for assistance to return to their outfits and were given the necessary financial help, sources said. Their names were withheld.

They were quoted as having said that they met some of the estimated 35 American defectors now in Sweden and that they were being used by Swedish organizations supporting the Viet Cong.

A New York Reservist who had been called for duty in Vietnam, turned up at the U.S. Embassy a couple of weeks ago and was given his air fare to return home. Informants reported another defector reported to Swedish authorities, told them he found Sweden too cold and announced he was returning to his military unit in West Germany.

The Greenville Recreation Commission last night set April 8 as the date for commission members to tour recreation facilities throughout the city.

The commission scheduled the facilities tour to become better acquainted with the needs and potential of each of the City's recreation areas.

According to Recreation Director Alton Little, total attendance at the Elm Street, South Greenville and Meadowbrook centers totaled 8,674 during the month of February with an average daily attendance of 343.

Total attendance at the Elm Street center including reservations amounted to 4,273. Attendance there at regular scheduled activities amounted to 3,997 with an average attendance figure of 160.

At South Greenville, total attendance was reported at 3,759 with an average daily figure of 157; while at the Meadowbrook Center, total attendance was reported at 642 with an average daily attendance of 26.

Little said it is hoped that golf lessons, a men's fitness group, baton lessons, and other programs can be added to the department's activity list this spring at Elm Street, while at the South Greenville center, gymnastics, tennis and other new programs may be offered.

All of the work on the tot lot and tennis court at the Meadowbrook center has been completed, Little reported. He said this finishes all of the equipment erection planned for the area.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ◇	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

West threw away the rule book in selecting an opening lead against South's three no trump contract; however, his choice was based on a logical line of reasoning and proved to be a lethal thrust.

West realized that inasmuch as he had a reasonably good hand himself, his partner could not be counted on for very much. The bulk of the defensive commitment, therefore, must be produced from his own resources. It would be necessary then to rely on the heart suit to develop the setting tricks, and the issue reduced itself to a question of which card to select for the opening assault.

North was marked with four or five hearts for his bid, so that the other players rated to be short in that suit. If all of the outstanding heart honors were in the dummy, then the defense might as well abandon hope. However, if one of the other players held a high heart, it might be important to prevent that card from hindering development of West's suit.

West decided to lead the king of hearts. South put up the ace from dummy and took a club finesse. West was in with the king and continued with the jack of hearts to pin down the ten. South ducked but, when West continued with the nine, the queen was played and declarer led a diamond. West was in against with the ace, and he cashed the eight and seven of hearts to set the contract.

Observe that, if West makes the normal lead of the fourth best heart, declarer can win the trick in his hand with the ten and proceed to develop nine tricks with no strain. The jack of hearts would have been just as effective a choice as the king in the present case; however, if South had the singleton queen of hearts — then West must lead the king in order to profitably develop the suit.

ECU Has One Of Six Such Programs In Nation

East Carolina University has one of the nation's six undergraduate programs in urban and regional planning.

According to Dr. Robert E. Cramer, chairman of the Department of Geography, the program has enrolled about 150 students since it was begun in 1962.

Many of the students, says Dr. Cramer, have graduated and found "positions paying excellent salaries in state, city and private planning agencies."

Some have gone on to graduate school and have moved into high-level administrative positions in the field of planning.

"This is a highly important field of study," says Dr. Cramer. "The demand for professional urban and regional planners is growing so rapidly that it is becoming a most attractive area of opportunity for the university student."

Dr. Cramer's department, which has the largest undergraduate program in the Southeastern United States, has a faculty of 12 professors and 10 teaching fellows. There are about 250 undergraduates and 15 graduate students.

The Worry Clinic

An Active Mind And Body Aids Longevity

My mother is rather remarkable as a medical case for she illustrates the value of keeping your brain and body in daily action! America's foremost psysiologist Dr. A.C. Ivey, predicts we shall be able to reach 120 years as our average longevity if we avoid sabotaging our human machine. And if we also supply it with the vital chemical raw materials.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-514: Jennie Crane, aged 90, is my mother.

She lives in a little Hoosier village near which we have our summer home on the farm.

So whenever I am down there, I usually drive into town to visit her in the evening and read the newspaper.

On this particular evening, she was lying down.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "This is too early for you to be in bed!"

She apologized, saying she was unduly tired, due to a heavy day. "I cleaned house all morning," she added.

"Then I got dressed to go to our church Women's Society Meeting.

"But I walked over there (3 blocks), so I stopped to visit a little while with Tom and Effie Taylor.

(Tom and Effie were members of the wedding party when my mother and father were married nearly 68 years ago.)

"And before I got to the church, I met Maude Cooper on the street so we talked till I was almost late for the meeting.

"But I'm glad I went, for Rachel Carlson gave a wonderful talk. She has some very interesting ideas, so I asked to borrow the magazine she had used.

"But by the time I got home and prepared the meal for Vick and me, I felt worn out."

Victor, aged 84, is my uncle and the bachelor brother of my mother. He lives on the farm across the road from our summer place but always goes into the village to dine with her and spend the night, for she is afraid to stay alone.

The main reason I mention my mother's varied activities at the advanced age of 90 is to show that if you elderly folks wish to remain active, you must keep active!

Not only does metal machinery rust when standing idle but our bodily machinery likewise gets stiff and our brain cells stagnant unless we keep in daily action.

My mother attended Valparaiso University and then Indiana State Teachers University 74 years ago. She is probably one of the oldest living alumnae of both those schools.

But she has always been culturally oriented and an especially devout church woman.

She had read through the entire Bible 72 times from cover to cover, up to 20 years ago Now she "spot reads" it, like the usual clergyman.

And she might be called a sucker for humanitarian appeal for she routinely sends money to support Korean orphans, Boys Town, and similar worthy projects.

In our childhood, she referred us children to the encyclopedia in our bookcase, and to the textbook by William James, pioneer American psychologist.

Medically, I give her and Uncle Vick a daily liver and iron ampule, that contains multiple vitamins and minerals. And also a teaspoonful of concentrated sea water, for the possible value of its 44 trace chemicals.

Like typical older folks, she relishes dining out and seeing new sights. These extra meals are also helpful, for she doesn't always cook as varied a menu as she should.

But she relishes entertaining company and thus maintains her own home, which is good as long as she can hobble around therein.

Mississippi U. Money-Makers

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Money-making success with a nonexistent stainless steel corporation has won for the University of Mississippi this year's championship in Emory University's third annual intercollegiate business games.

Forty colleges took part in the nationwide contest, which measured business ability by giving each team the outlines of a mythical corporation, then seeing how well the team could run it.

A panel of Atlanta businessmen chose the Ole Miss team as the winner.

The university of Delaware was runner-up and defending champion Florida finished third.

Dismissed Case, Restored Peace

CHEROKEE, Iowa (AP) — A policeman who gives his wife a traffic ticket shows commendable zeal, says Justice of the Peace Rollin Stonebrook—but he dismissed the charge anyway.

The ticket was issued by policeman Norman Hill, 28, to his wife, Cleo, Feb. 26 when she backed her car away from a curb and hit another car. Stonebrook said the other driver probably was partly to blame.

Hill says the decision has restored peace in his household, where his two children formerly "just sat there and glared" at him.

Tops of 18.50-19.00 Rocky Mount; 18.25-19.00 Wilson; 18.00-18.75 Statesville; 17.50-18.50 Tarboro, Kinston, Albertson, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Lumberton, Bethel; 18.75 Salisbury, Selma; 18.50 Greensboro; 18.25 Goldsboro; 18.00 Siler City, Denton.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets slightly stronger Monday. Supplies adequate. Demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 38½-39½; medium whites 34½-36½; small whites 31½-34.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market settled lower early this afternoon as gold-mining shares again moved higher against the general trend. Trading was fairly active.

It was a continuation of the seesaw relationship which has prevailed within the market lately—golds higher, the general list lower.

Traders bought the gold shares as trading for gold bullion continued heavy in London, Paris and Zurich. The British pound sterling was reported fluctuating in a thin foreign exchange market.

Meanwhile, Wall Street was given pause by the report that Rep. Wilbur Mills D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had hinted that an income tax rise that might help stop the gold outflow might be approved by Congress.

A rise in the unemployment rate in February also was dampening.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.66 at 840.38.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .9 at 304.7 with industrials off 1.9, rails off .3 and utilities unchanged.

Occidental Petroleum, edging higher, continued as the volume pacemaker.

Among other very active issues, Xerox dropped 8 points, Control Data 2, Ogden Corp. about 1½ and Republic Corp., more than a point.

International Mining and Montgomery Ward, each ahead more than a point, were among the active gainers.

IBM lost 4, Chrysler, Teledyne, Rytheon, International Telephone and U.S. Smelting a point or so.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Asking Help For Fire Victims

A Black Jack family lost their wood-frame home to fire last night and the Salvation Army in Greenville is requesting bed linens and furniture to help the family.

Grimesland firemen said the tenant house owned by Mrs. Allie H. Mills at Black Jack was completely destroyed by fire about 2 a.m.

The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hardy and their two children, ages one and four. Salvation Army Capt. Wayne McHargue said enough clothing was available for Mr. and Mrs. Hardy and the two children, but noted that linen and furniture are needed.

Persons wishing to donate items may take them to the Salvation Army Citadel on the Farmville Highway.

According to Mrs. Mills, the house caught fire about 10:30 p.m. Monday and the Hardys thought the fire had been extinguished. Firemen were not called at that time.

The fire apparently rekindled, Mrs. Mills said, and completely destroyed the home about 2 a.m.

Gold-Buying Pressures Continue

LONDON (AP) — Heavy gold buying continued on the London and Zurich markets today, but the pound and the dollar improved.

British financial experts estimated that hoarders now hold more gold than the combined supply of the United States and the other six of the international gold pool.

Demand at today's price fixing in London was said to be about double that at Monday's opening, when just under 10 tons was bought. The day's total was believed to have been more than 25 tons.

The dollar price at the fixing eased one fourth of a cent, to $35.19⅝, and the pound opened 30 points higher on the London foreign Exchange market, at $2.3985. It eased off to $2.3965 at noon.

Pressure on gold also continued on the Zurich market, and banking sources here said there was no indication of a letup.

Both the dollar and the pound opened slightly stronger, however.

The pound and the dollar also improved on the Paris market the pound up 120 points to 11.7925 francs and the dollar up 37 points to 4.9215 francs.

An Interest-Free Loan For Bank

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (AP) — When officials opened the Farmers and Merchants National Bank Monday they found the bank vault wouldn't open.

So they went across the street and borrowed a substantial amount of money from the Carlinville National Bank. The money—an interest-free loan—carried Farmers and Merchants through until noon when experts arrived from St. Louis, 50 miles south, and opened the vault. The loan was then returned to Carlinville National.

Industry Hunter To Participate In EC Seminar

North Carolina's chief official industry hunter will be a guest participant Wednesday, March 13, in a special Latin American Area Studies Seminar at East Carolina University.

Upon his return he said: "The market potential for North Carolina products in South America is tremendous, especially in the transportation, communications and service fields. . .With a proper understanding of business methods and a knowledge of major needs North Carolina industry can unlock the door to a vast market for its goods in South American, but not without the essential element of personal contact."

The seminar on Latin American studies is sponsored by the university and was arranged by a special interdisciplinary committee: James Dunigan, geography, chairman; Dr. B. A. Bishop, geology; Dr. Peter H. Kunkel, sociology and anthropology; Dr. Oscar K. Moore, economics; Dr. Byung Koo Pak, political science; Dr. Norma L. Nervous Calm After Polish Student Riots

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Lights burned late in the Polish Communist party headquarters Monday night after student unrest over censorship of a play mushroomed into Poland's worst riot since 1957.

The Gray, slit-windowed party headquarters was one target of several thousand demonstrators who fought running battles with poilce on downtown streets for seven hours Monday, the third day of disturbances.

Party workers watched from the windows as the students hurled rocks, sticks and bottles at police ringing the building and shouted "Gestapo!", "Democracy!" "Freedom!" and "Constitution."

Police finally drove the demonstrators away with tear gas, rubber truncheons and a water cannon.

Stefan Cardinal Wyszynsky, Poland's Roman Catholic primate and long an opponent of the Communist regime, canceled a sermon at St. Ann's Church near the university to "avoid worsening the situation," a spokesman said.

By nightfall, a nervous calm prevailed. Police cars cruised downtown streets littered with bricks, glass and spent tear gas canisters, and guarded against looters at stores with smashed windows.

Censorship also touched off three days of rioting in 1957 as young people demonstrated against the closing of a student magazine.

The current unrest began with the government's closing in January of a 19th century classic Polish play about the czarist oppression of Poland. About 200 students demonstrated then and two later were expelled from Warsaw University.

In protest against the expulsions, and then against police actions, students staged violent demonstrations Friday and Saturday and continued their campaign Monday. They have demanded reinstatement of the expelled students, release of arrested demonstrators and an end to "false information" about them in government-controlled news media.

Government partisans now are blaming the unrest on the Jews, taking their cue from the government's anti-Israeli policy in the wake of the June war.

At a party rally at a big automobile plant near Warsaw, workers carried signs condemning the demonstrations and one reading "Clean the Zionists out of the party."

Police refused to say how many persons have been injured or arrested in the three days of violence. But Trybuna Ludu, the Communist paryt newspaper, reported that 30 persons were treated after the clashes Friday and Saturday, anda few score of the "most active ringleaders" were detained.

Gaston Boosting Teachers' Pay

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — The Gaston County School Board has set a schedule of teacher salary supplements for next year, bringing to the system one of the highest pay rates in the state.

The school board Monday night set supplements for teachers with "A" certificates at $500 and those with "G" certificates at $600.

All school districts in Gaston County recently were merged into a single system.

Consents To His Picture Removed

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Gov. David Cargo has consented to having his picture removed from New Mexico highway maps.

Cargo said Monday several thousand maps have been thrown away in the past due to changeovers in administrations. Maps without pictures of the incumbent governor will mean longer use of expensive plates and art work.
