$200 Million Program Is Unveiled By UFE

RALEIGH (AP)—The United Forces for Education today unveiled a $200 million legislative program calling for increased teacher salaries, summer enrichment programs and the hiring of 2,000 additional personnel to relieve teachers of paper work.

The UFE salary goal calls for a $6,000 starting salary with a top salary of $12,000 and comparable increases for other professional personnel. UFE officials said the proposed increases would bring North Carolina up to the national average.

The summer enrichment programs would be funded by a state allotment of $10 per pupil enrolled and would include training programs in four areas—kindergartens, remedial work, enrichment courses and vocational instructions. The programs would be initiated by local school units which could operate one or four of the programs depending upon needs.

In seeking a summer kindergarten program, the UFE backed down from a goal it pursued last year of a year-round kindergarten program. "On the basis of full study of the problems of beginning a pre-school program, the UFE decided to make a first step at this time," the UFE announcement said. It said shortage of teachers and classrooms were the reasons for not seeking a full kindergarten program at this time.

The United Forces is composed of 10 statewide organizations joined to promote public education.

The UFE salary request calls for a specific salary for every step on an index schedule developed by the teaching profession. Under it, teachers would not be able to attain the maximum salary unless they had 30 hours of training beyond the masters degree and 22 years of experience.

"In principle," UFE said, "the same type of scheduling would apply to all personnel—pay for additional study and experience."

Reds Ambush Convoy, Attackers Pay Price

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops raked a U.S. Army supply convoy from ambush along winding Route 14 in the central highlands but American tanks and helicopter gunships splintered the attackers.

carriers of the 3rd Vietnamese Armored Cavalry raced past the convoy to attack the ambush site, after the fight began at 11:15 a.m., and at 11:25 helicopter gunships sailed into the battle.

The U.S. Command said 48 North Vietnamese regulars and Viet Cong guerrillas were killed in the short, midday fight nine miles north of Pleiku City Wednesday. Twelve Americans were killed, eight were wounded and soldiers of the South Vietnamese armored unit escorting the convoy suffered light casualties, the command said.

Fighter-bombers arrived at 11:59 and within minutes the enemy troops fled.

Army engineers with the convoy began clearing the narrow road, which links the 4th Division's headquarters near Pleiku with its units operating around Kontum and Dak To.

The enemy sprayed the 4th Infantry Division convoy with bazooka-type rockets and heavy automatic weapons fire and inflicted "moderate" damage on the vehicles, a command spokesman said. This indicated as many as a third of the trucks might have been damaged or destroyed.

Just 17 hours later guerrillas ambushed a 30-vehicle convoy nine miles northeast of Saigon, on the highway to the big military base at Long Binh.

The U.S. Command said one American soldier and one enemy soldier were killed, and damage to the trucks was light, but the ambush underlined the threat from roving guerrilla bands operating in Saigon's suburbs.

Raleigh Man Goes On Trial For Assault On ECU Coed

RALEIGH—The trial of Terry Sneed, charged with raping a 20-year-old East Carolina University coed near here September 17, continued today in Wake County Superior Court.

The 24-year-old Sneed of 3020 Leonard St., Raleigh, is being tried on charges he raped Mary Jo Welch of Burlington, at a secluded Wake County cabin.

Miss Welch testified that the former prison guard approached her as she waited for a bus at the Raleigh Bus Terminal while enroute to Greenville. She said the man told her he was a graduate student at ECU and offered her a ride to Greenville.

Miss Welch said she refused but Sneed kept insisting. He seemed to be a gentleman, the student said, so she finally agreed to ride back to school with him.

Miss Welch said the criminal assault came at a secluded cabin in Wake County, after she drove to the spot in a car following Sneed who was driving a car belonging to a rental agency where he worked.

Sneed had told Miss Welch, she testified, that he was delivering the rental car to a customer, then would leave for Greenville.

Miss Welch said Sneed produced a .30 caliber M1 carbine and tried to show her how to hold the weapon, then turned the gun on her and said, "What would you do if I pointed this gun at you and told you to pull off your clothing?"

bin in Wake County, after she screamed and yelling . . . and was told to remove her underclothing.

She screamed again, she continued. Sneed "choked me and told me to shut up. I felt something hit me on the head . . . then I went unconscious."

The girl said when she came to, "he was raping me . . ."

Following the alleged attack, Sneed took Miss Welch to a motel where she was told to wash the blood from her head wound and change dresses, according to the testimony.

Miss Welch said she got up and walked around the room, then was suddenly grabbed by Sneed. He released her when she yelled.

"He grabbed me again," she testified, "and pulled me down behind the door," Miss Welch continued. "I started

Sec. Of Treasury Warns Time Running Out 'Large' Tax Increase Within Thirty Days Called Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler declared today it is necessary that Congress pass a big income tax increase within 30 days.

Fowler told the committee he would welcome a tax hike more than twice as big as the 10 per cent surcharge proposed by President Johnson.

While he was testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, gold sales in Europe skyrocketed, and market observers said only firm action by the United States could restore public confidence.

This development came as Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., suggested that it would be a good idea to go back to the income tax rates prevailing before they were reduced in 1964.

Fowler said this would bring in about $22 billion a year compared with the $10 billion in the President's proposal and added: "I would welcome this."

The secretary said that five factors made it urgent to get the income tax increase on the books at once:

1. "The highly volatile situation in the international monetary markets now is threatening the very preservation of the international monetary system as we know it."

2. "Clear indication that the Federal Reserve is on the move in the direction of increased monetary restraint because of the failure to pass a tax bill."

3. "It is now clear we may be faced with increased federal expenditures beyond the figures in the President's budget submitted in January because of events in the intervening period in Vietnam."

4. "The increased pace of the economy generally calls for more restraint."

5. "Our trade surplus is being reduced to an extent that may offset the efforts we are making to reduce our balance of payments deficit contained in the President's New Year's Day message."

Dealers See Collapse Of Confidence In Paper Money Europe's Gold Rush Continues To Skyrocket

By RODNEY PINDER Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — Europe's gold rush skyrocketed today in a buying spree that economic experts said threatens monetary anarchy.

London, Paris, Zurich and even the normally small Frankfurt market reported levels of sales that dealers had never dreamed possible.

As the gold buying reached record levels, the British pound sterling plunged to its lowest recorded level.

Paris, where sales normally are two to three tons, had more than 40 tons. This was more than twice Wednesday's record high of 16 tons. The Bank of France was hard pressed to fill the demand. London dealers expected sales to top 200 tons.

Other sources expected either a complete breakdown of the seven-nation gold pool or official curtailment of sales. London dealers were frantically attempting to calm the panic and were making buyers pay higher and higher prices for the metal.

There was a stampede for gold in Zurich. Frankfurt bankers said there was an unprecedented demand for billion, gold certificates and coins.

European financial circles looked to the United States to check the rush on gold. But despite warnings from European experts that the postwar prosperity was in danger of collapse, there was no prospect of immediate action in Washington.

Dealers and both bullion and foreign exchange markets reported a complete collapse of confidence in paper money.

The pattern of sales in all markets showed the buyers were snatching up gold, silver and platinum in any sizes of ingots or coins.

London dealers added a full 5 cents to the price fixed at the opening and still sales were "absolutely fantastic," one said. More than 50 tons were sold at the daily fixing, when the price was set just under the ceiling at $35.19. Dealers were selling at $35.25, however.

The pound opened at $2.39125, quickly dropped to $2.3910 and then went to its lowest level ever—$2.3896.

Exchange dealers said the market was a shambles with no demand for sterling.

Both the pound and the dollar were down in Frankfurt. In Paris the dollar was fairly steady but the pound lost 170 points, dropping to 11,780 francs.

More than 15 tons of gold, a record, was sold in Paris Wednesday, and orders by mid-morning indicated an even greater demand today.

This was an indication that even the grocer on the corner was switching his savings into something he considered safer and more solid than paper money.

"Only firm action by the United States to reduce its foreign payments deficit can now restore public confidence," one market observer commented.

Other sources expected either a complete breakdown of the seven-nation gold pool or official curtailment of sales. London dealers were frantically attempting to calm the panic and were making buyers pay higher and higher prices for the metal.

LBJ Political Advisers Show Concern; Revising Strategy For Wisconsin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential political advisers, generally concerned that Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy may beat the President in Wisconsin's April 2 presidential primary, are plotting a major overhaul in strategy.

Johnson's Vietnam war policy.

An informed source says they will junk two tactics which they believe backfired against Johnson in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary, where McCarthy captured an impressive 42 per cent of the vote.

McCarthy's opposition to conduct of the war has been the basis for his steadily mounting campaign to wrest the Democratic nomination from the President.

Johnson's advisers believe their major failure in New Hampshire was "not nailing McCarthy down on his alternatives."

"We let him get away with decrying the war in broad generalities," the informant said. "That's not going to happen in Wisconsin."

Johnson's advisers definitely do not share the President's public expression of indifference to the New Hampshire results.

"New Hampshire simply isn't something you can brush off lightly," the source said. "We have serious problems. And we've got to face up to the fact that McCarthy can take the President in Wisconsin."

The informant said, "You may be pretty sure," said the informant, "you won't hear of those two gimmicks again."

The administration tactic will be to have state party officials, labor leaders and administration figures press McCarthy for specific alternatives in Vietnam. But since the President has let it be known that he will not campaign in the primaries, the informant said, "I wouldn't think there would be any Cabinet officers or other really high officials taking part."

He said the LBJ backers are worried about Wisconsin because:

—McCarthy is "opposing a phantom candidate" and will have the benefit of heavy day-to-day publicity in the state.

—Wisconsin Republicans, with no real primary contest in their party, may cross over to register anti-Johnson votes for McCarthy.

BROTHER DIES

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Jack Fulbright, 68, brother of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., died Wednesday after suffering a heart attack.

FBI Says U.S. Crime Up In '67

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI reports a 23 per cent spurt in the number of big-city crimes last year, outstripping an overall gain of 16 per cent over 1966 in the nation, and cites last summer's riots as a factor.

The FBI said arrests of persons under 18 years old rose eight per cent.

"Included in the increased police arrests was a rising volume of arrests for offenses against public order"—or riots—the bureau said in a statement accompanying statistical data.

Arrests of adults rose by three per cent after declining slightly in 1966, the report said.

Crimes of violence were up 15 per cent, led by robbery which increased 27 per cent from 1966. There were 12 per cent more murders, 9 per cent more rapes and 8 per cent more aggravated assaults.

Property crimes jumped 16 per cent. Auto thefts rose 17 per cent, and burglary and larceny of $50 and over in value were up 16 per cent, the report said.

Hoover, who favors federal firearms control, said serious assaults where a gun was used as the weapon rose 22 per cent and one of five assaults was committed with a gun.

Armed robbery had a sharp upswing of 30 per cent and a firearm was used in 58 per cent of all robbery offenses, he reported.

Rule Harris Killed When Resisting

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A coroner's jury has found that Curtis Harris, accused of bank robbery, died while resisting a deputy sheriff, who acted in his own defense in fatally shooting Harris.

MRS. ELVIRA T. ALLRED

The jury ruled Wednesday night that Harris "died resisting the investigation of Blaine O'Brien while acting in his official capacity and in defense of his own life."

Harris was shot Tuesday on the outskirts of Fayetteville, two hours after a branch bank at Coats, some 40 miles from Fayetteville, was robbed of $52,185. Cumberland Sheriff W. G. Clark said Harris was the Coats bank robber.

Deputy O'Brien shot Harris in a taxicab on the outskirts of Fayetteville. O'Brien said Harris had reached for a pistol.

Sheriff Clark said $52,070 was found in the cab. It was stuffed in a pillowcase, which was in a bucket.

Harris, a 23-year-old Ayden, N.C., native, had been charged with a $17,567 robbery of a Greenville bank last Dec. 28 and an $8,100 bank robbery at Moncure Jan. 30.

He was arrested at Florence, S.C., early in January, but escaped from the Sumter County, S.C., Jail Jan. 21.

Ayden Man Found Guilty Of Murder

A Pitt County Superior Court jury last night found Fletcher Elbert Bryant of Ayden guilty of first degree murder in the November 1967 shotgun slaying of his wife and received a life sentence.

The couple's minister, the Rev. A. K. Ard sat at a kitchen table nearby as Bryant raised the gun to a point a few feet from Mrs. Bryant's head and pulled the trigger.

The minister had been called to the home some 90 minutes prior to the 11:30 p.m. shooting and had been talking with the couple in an effort to reconcile differences between the two.

Rev. Ard's wife and Mrs. Bryant's brother, Berry Brown, were in the den of the Bryant home at the time of the shooting.

Housewives' Law Course

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A housewife arrives at her newly purchased home and finds it has no appliances. A quick check of the fine print in her deed shows appliances were not included in the purchase.

Another woman gives her neighborhood grocer a blank check with the trusting instruction, "Fill in the amount." The grocer fills in the amount—and a little more.

"These housewives are not stupid," says Prof. Henry Sellin, 61, who has been teaching a two-semester Women's Law Course at New York University for 19 years. "It's a combination of being in a hurry and being too trustworthy."

The Women's Law Course was established in 1890 "for the better protection of women's rights."

At that time they had few rights to be protected. Women were not allowed to vote. They could own property, but it was subject to the dictates of their husband.

And of more importance to the small band of suffragettes who endowed the course, they were not being admitted to law school.

In these swinging sixties, the woman's lot has improved—but the problems she faces have grown more complex. Even a small purchase can present problems if a shopper learns the hard way that a warranty differs from the salesman's promise.

Over the years, women attending the course have ranged in age from 18 to 75. Sellin says they've enrolled for varying reasons. One woman is simply curious; another "wants to check up on her lawyer," and there is always one who is going through a divorce procedure.

"We don't want to make lawyers out of these ladies, although some have gone on to law school and even have become judges," he says. "We just want to make them aware when they need a lawyer."

For instance, he wryly tells his classes, beware of what you say about the neighbor over the backyard fence.

"You might be leaving yourself open for a slander suit."

Clear Up Mystery About The Birthday Card With Husband

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Two months ago my husband received a birthday card from his secretary who thinks he is just wonderful.

He has been carrying that card around in his pocket ever since he got it. He changes it from one suit-coat pocket to the next whenever he changes his suit.

Now why would a man want to carry around an ordinary birthday card everywhere he goes? Why can't he throw it away like the others he received? This one he didn't show me. Why?

PUZZLED
DEAR PUZZLED: If he didn't show it to you, perhaps it isn't "ordinary." Why don't you clear up the big mystery and ask him?

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my husband is 23 and we recently bought our own home. We also have a small baby. Adjoining it is a two-room efficiency apartment that we rent out to a 41-year-old bachelor. He is nice and polite and all, but here is my problem:

Last month I found out that this man has a suitcase full of girlie-type movies, a projector, and screen. I am sorry to admit it, but I snooped around in his apartment when I went in to close his windows on a rainy day. Anyway, my husband's company is sending him away for four months to take a course, and I'm afraid this man might try something, knowing my husband will be gone. I know that a man who looks at these movies isn't necessarily a sex fiend, but I'm worried, anyway. My husband says if he hasn't tried anything so far, he probably won't.

This man has never given us any trouble. He's quiet, keeps his place clean, and pays his rent promptly. He has no lease, so I'm wondering if we should get rid of him or not? If you tell me to get rid of him, what excuse shall I use?

WORRIED
DEAR WORRIED: Regardless of what I think, if YOU are "worried" about this man, get rid of him. Don't give him an "excuse" — give him a reason. The real one. He may be glad to leave.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with two daughters. One is married and lives 700 miles away, and the other (I'll call her "Mary") is 16, and lives with me. Mary and I have always had an ideal relationship. She's sweet, pretty, a good student, and she's never given me a moment's worry.

About six months ago, an elderly cousin of mine told Mary that I had had an illegitimate child when I was 17, and now Mary can't forgive my sin. She says our relationship has been a "lie" inasmuch as she thought I was a "good" as I always wanted her to be. When I try to tell her that I made a mistake for which I have dearly paid, she walks into her room and closes the door.

Mary attends church regularly, is a candy-striper at the local hospital, and she goes with nice people. She's everything a mother would want her daughter to be. But now she wants to go live with her married sister and finish school there. She wants nothing from me except to be left alone. How can I get thru to her, Abby? I am dying of a broken heart.

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: In time, of course, your immature daughter will grow up and realize that her cruel and unforgiving attitude is also a "sin." Perhaps (if you wish to confide in him) your pastor can get thru to Mary. Or, I will be glad to write to her directly, if you'll send me her name and address.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK-LET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

AP Newsfeatures Writer NEW YORK (AP) — If you're wide awake this spring, you'll go for the round-eyed little girl look, observes cosmetician and make-up specialist Evelyn Marshall.

The look began last year, she points out, but now everyone is going for it.

"The kooky part of the young look is over. We are in a little lady look. We make up to look natural with powder, lipstick, and so on."

How do you get round, round eyes, if you are doe-eyed? Simple, she says.

Apply thin eyeliner toward nose and the outside of the eye, heavier and wider through the center to make more of a little circle. If this makes your nose look too short, extend your brow a bit, she advises.

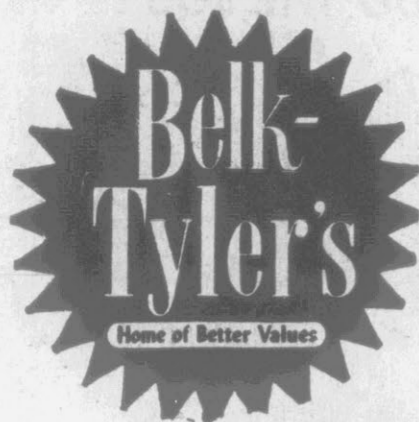

You can't wear heavy femme fatale lashes with this look, she says. Shorten your false eyelashes so they look natural. Bring the lashes completely to the outside corner of the eye. To keep from looking sad-eyed, close your eyes and press your fingers against your lashes so they stand up.

One's mouth should also blend with the youthful image, she says. Lipstick should be the color of the inside of an 8-year-old girl's mouth.

Miss Marshall searches for youth marks in remote places.

For example, she matches foundation cream to one's lower neck because that is your true skin color. Seasons of wind and sun make skin harsh and change its color, she points out, and this season wearing foundation should be a top-secret look. "Anyone who is getting expression lines should stay out of the sun," she explains, "if they want to keep their skin young."

American women have the best groomed faces in the world in her opinion. The Japanese, who have adopted American make-up tricks, are a close second.

An Asset In Job Placement Service

Establishment of a job placement service for students by the Pitt County school system is a forward-looking step which will be an asset to young people going into the working world and an asset to the future economic growth of the country.

Equally important, establishment of this new phase of guidance counselling evidences new recognition of the importance of properly equipping the student who will not go to college after high school. In far too many instances, the public school programs have been placing almost their entire attention in preparing youngsters for advanced training after high school, and giving little special attention to the needs of those whose formal education will end with high school.

There have been several indications in recent years that this situation is being improved. Establishment of a new job placement service by the Pitt County schools is another big step forward.

In the past, Pitt County has been fortunate that a much higher than average percentage of its young people have been able to attend college. There is every reason to believe that in the future Pitt's percentage of high school graduates who continue their formal education will be well above the average for the counties of the state.

It is also true, however, that little has been done in the public schools toward helping those who didn't go to college to find satisfactory jobs within this immediate area. Once they left school, they were more or less left to shift for themselves, secure whatever employment they might find, without really knowing where to look or how to meet the requirements for the better jobs available.

With more and more of its employment in non-agricultural jobs, Pitt County has a two-fold need. Its young people entering the working world directly from high school need guidance more than ever before. At the same time, the businesses and industries of the county are literally crying for qualified new employees to fill the constantly higher calibre jobs that are available.

The job placement service, we hope, will bring about a closer relationship between the business world and the public schools in Pitt County. Properly administered, it will enable young men and women to locate the jobs for which they are best qualified. It will also provide businesses and industries of the county a source of new personnel which in the long run will enhance continued economic expansion in this county.

Demos' Dinner The 'Best Yet'

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — Except for realization of the serious challenge they face next Fall, the state's Democrats would be jubilant about their 1968 Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. "It was probably the best yet," says a veteran party official. "Certainly it showed the Democratic party isn't dead by any means." In fact, party officials believe political enthusiasm generated at the J-J gathering will give Democrats fresh vigor and vitality.

didates held the limelight, of course, but there was a lot of activity swirling about these engaged in other primary contests. One of the fanciest hospitality rooms was a motel suite stocked by State Rep. Sneed High of Fayetteville with delicacies including hot roast beef and ham. High is opposing State Treasurer Edwin Gill.

Key supporters of most of the candidates came to Raleigh from all across the state. Their strategists felt this was important to lend an aura of statewide strength.

Moore Speaks Out

Perhaps the most relaxed Democrat was Gov. Dan Moore who isn't involved in not participating in this year's primary races. Moore was able to concentrate his fire on the Republicans and did so in a jibing, sometimes light vein in an address.

The featured speaker for the dinner was Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington.

"Jackson said some critics of national administration policies were engaged in 'nothing less than slander.'"

Political Notebook

The top vote getter among the Mecklenburg County legislative delegation in 1966, Rep. James Carson, has announced for re-election.

Carson, a 33 year old lawyer in Charlotte, is the seventh Republican to announce for a seat in Mecklenburg's seven member House delegation. In 1966, Mecklenburg sent two Republicans to Raleigh. Carson earlier had considered seeking a State Senate post this time.

He also detected signs that party unity is stronger than during any election year in the recent past and predicted that Democrats "will close ranks" and work together after the Spring primaries.

New Faces

Secretary of State Thad Eure was impressed by "new faces" in the Jefferson-Jackson Day crowd.

"It shows a great many people are taking new and increased interest in the party," says Eure. "It used to be almost like a lodge meeting—you could tell just about who would be at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner."

He also detected signs that party unity is stronger than during any election year in the recent past and predicted that Democrats "will close ranks" and work together after the Spring primaries.

Candidates Active

A lot of enthusiasm was sparked by intra-party picketing which went on day and night during the J-J weekend.

With few exceptions, all Democratic primary candidates for major state offices were busy handshaking, huddling with supporters and holding forth in hotel and motel hospitality rooms.

Open Doors For GAO Auditors?

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office is not like other government agencies.

Variouly described as prying, nitpicking, firm-minded, opinionated, it is a fiscal intelligence service that keeps 2,400 auditors roaming through the sprawling vastness of the federal government, looking for waste and for compliance with congressionally-prescribed pocketbook safeguards.

The comptroller general, who heads GAO, is appointed by the President for a 15-year term but GAO belongs to Congress. It is Congress' combined watchdog and gadfly operating on the executive branch, and Congress loves it. In its most recent annual report, GAO claimed its activities saved the taxpayers $190.1 million.

Some activities of the federal government, however, are exempt from GAO audit. The supersecret Central Intelligence Agency and National Security Agency are, for obvious reasons.

But some Congress members question why the Federal Reserve Board and the office of the comptroller of the currency are shielded from GAO scrutiny.

The Fed and the comptroller's office are two of the three principal agencies that supervise banks. The third is the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which insures bank deposits.

GAO looks into the affairs of FDIC, but has feuded for years with that agency over withholding from its scrutiny some information FDIC says it must keep confidential.

The issue of broader GAO access to the workings of the bank supervisory agencies has boiled up at hearings by the House Banking Committee on the quality of bank supervision. Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats testified GAO cannot make a meaningful audit of FDIC under the present restrictions. Faced with these, he said, a private auditing firm would withdraw.

Specifically, Staats said, "we cannot appraise the effectiveness of the examinations in identifying banks whose financial condition is unstable."

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FULFILLED DESTINY

Can we sum up in a brief statement the effect that the teachings of Jesus produced upon the life and thinking of the world?

First of all, we see in him a perfection that has never been in any other. Again, we find great truths expressed so simply that his unlearned contemporaries marvelled and declared that he spoke with authority. It is almost incredible that a humble carpenter working in a despised village in what we call today The Holy Land should so have spoken and lived that time is dated from his birth and that even those who do not call themselves Christians admire him and accord him praise without measure.

We are forced to the conclusion, are we not, that this man was something no one has ever been before, no one is today, and we believe, no one will ever be again. He is like us in that he was a human being, but he is unlike us in that he represented the coming of God Himself in a human life to guide and transform it.

In other words, what the Bible says about Jesus, namely, that he was the Son of God, the Divine Messiah, that he was the coming into human flesh of the divine nature—these are the only explanations of the glory of Jesus which appear to make sense. Books are written in praise of great men, but churches are built in man's eager desire to find God and worship Him.

Jesus Christ is best explained as the coming of God Himself into human flesh to fulfill his destiny.

Street Skating
Dangerous

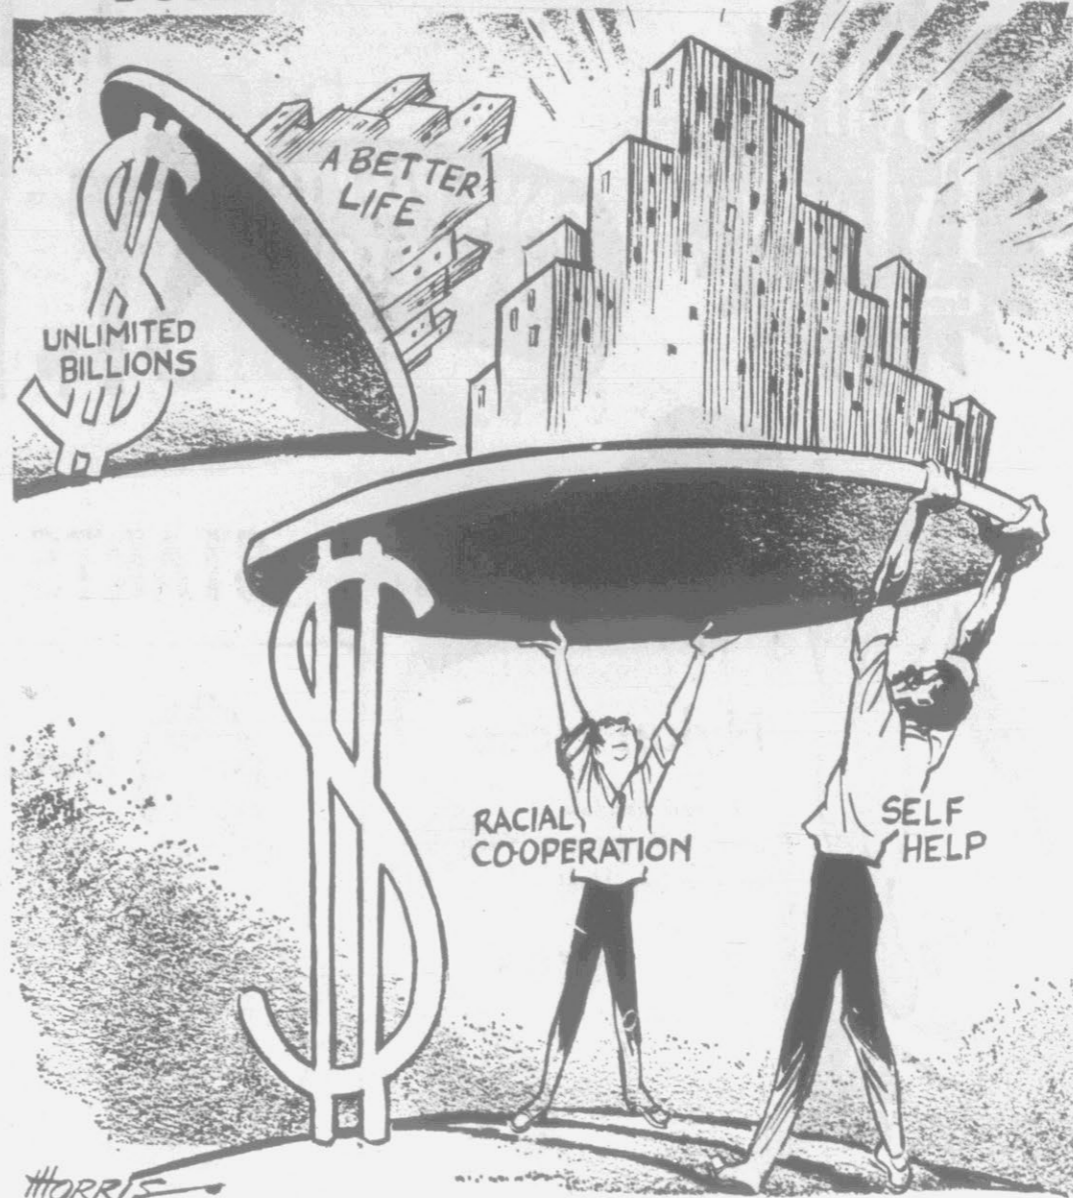

Despite the dangers that accompany street skating, apparently the sport is gaining in popularity here daily. To watch children on skates, swinging on to automobiles and other vehicles on our traffic laden streets will make you catch your breath when you realize the chances these youngsters are taking. We do not mention this because we want to cut the kids' fun, for we want them to enjoy themselves as much as possible so long as they are not endangering their lives in so doing. Parents should warn their children, however, against the dangers that accompany street skating in congested districts and if then the practice continues, our city authorities should take steps to break it up, for it is better for the children to lose a little fun than for one of them to lose his or her life.

It is better to be safe than sorry.

DOLLARS ALONE WON'T DO THE JOB!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Trade Unionist Struggle

Everything about Florida seems unreal to the Northern visitor—the warm sun, the tawny sand, the postcard sky, the whipped-cream hotels that stand like elegant pariahs along the beach—but nothing this season is more bizarre than the Teacher's Strike of 1968.

The strike is over now. It began on February 21, with the mass "resignation" of roughly 25,000 of the State's 60,000 classroom instructors. It became evident last week, as disillusioned teachers began returning by fifties and hundreds, that the walkout was losing its steam. A legislative package, coupling tax reform with $200 million in new school spending, became effective Thursday night. On Friday, State officials tossed in an additional face-saving $10 million. That did it.

Yet money was not the issue in this bitter and unbelievable affair. The average salary in the Florida public schools this term is $7,200. The new package will raise the figure to $8,000 next year. Florida now ranks 30th among the States in per-pupil expenditures; legislators say the new funds will put the State in ninth position.

Neither was the issue of "quality education," though the strike leaders defended their walkout on these grounds. Most of the deficiencies that the Florida Education Association deplored—the overcrowded classrooms, leaking roofs, outdated textbooks, rickety buses—were on their way toward correction before the strike began.

The gut issue came straight from the traditions of trade unionism. The FEA was seeking recognition as exclusive bargaining agent—the polite phrase is "exclusive negotiating representative"—for all of the State's teachers, principals and supervisors. Toward this end, the FEA had proposed a system of bargaining units and majority votes that might have been drawn fresh from the files of the Teamsters Union. On this issue the striking teachers lost. They lost more than the question of bargaining representation. Over the three-week period of the walkout, they lost upwards of $10 million in wages; they drained the treasuries of their local associations. Dade County's Classroom Teachers Association, largest and most powerful local in the State, has been hit with a $30,000 fine. Of much greater significance, the striking teachers lost heavily in popular support and public respect; and they created terrible scars within the teaching profession.

The Miami Herald, which ordinarily is as pro-teacher as a newspaper can get, flatly condemned the walkout as "illegal." Other newspapers, usually friendly to school improvements, refused to buy the contention that "quality education" could be won only by this last resort. Outraged parents demanded that local school boards stand firm. Hundreds of retired teachers and college-graduate housewives volunteered for substitute teaching. Florida's brash Governor Kirk, who went into the strike as an object of scorn, surprisingly emerged fairly well.

In the end, the striking teachers won nothing they could not have won without their massive resignation.

Era To Enjoy Living

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Would you like never to have to work for a living and also have a trained ape to help your wife around the house?

These awesome delights are envisioned—and not altogether tongue-in-cheek—as possible benefits to man in the next century by Arthur C. Clarke, one of the world's top science fiction writers.

"It isn't possible to predict the political future, but it is possible to map technological trends," said Clarke, a trained physicist and mathematician who is also recognized as an authority on space and oceanography.

"The life of the average man will be profoundly changed.

"In the next century 95 per cent of the work done by men now will no longer exist, or will be handled by machines. Man's purpose in the universe will be to enjoy himself—and it is about time he did.

"Pericles never had to go to a daily job. Neither did Socrates. No freeman of ancient Athens had to labor to live. They had thousands of slaves. Future man will have millions of superior machines to do the world's work."

What about those trained apes to help the little lady do the dishes and clean the rugs?

Smiling slightly, Clarke replied:

"A chimpanzee already has the ability to do many household chores, but lacks the motivation—the desire to do them. In the future we can genetically engineer apes to do even more complicated tasks—and enjoy doing them."

The English writer—50, thin-haired, slender, slightly stooped—has written some 40 books that have sold five million copies. He spent four years working on MGM's science fiction film, "2001: A Space Odyssey." Clarke believes we are in the beginning stages of a revolutionary intelligence and information explosion of which most of us are still unaware.

"Knowledge now is doubling every 10 years," he remarked. "By the time a man is middle-aged, half the things he learned are no longer true."

"In the coming century the ordinary day-to-day running of the world will be turned over to a race of supercomputers. The great problem will be educating people.

"Education will be lifelong. If a man lives to be 125, he may attend some form of school until he is 120. People will spend their time living and learning, no working at routine jobs.

"The great industries of the future will be education, research and entertainment.

"Before the development of agriculture man didn't really work. He lived as a hunter. In the time ahead agriculture, as we know it today, will be ended. It is too inefficient. Synthetic foods will be produced more cheaply and in larger quantities. Even now only three per cent of the world's petroleum output could be used chemically to produce all mankind's protein needs."

Public Forum

To The Editor:

My husband, David Phillip Tuten, Spec. 4, is stationed in Soc Trang, Vietnam. Since he left on January 1, 1968, our daughter has been born. About a week ago, he wrote and sent this poem to me. I feel that for someone who has so much to lose that it took bravery and courage to write this poem and believe it as much as I know he does in his heart.

I felt so much better after reading it that I thought maybe it would console other people in this area if they read this free-hand poem written by someone in their neighborhood. Perhaps it would help brighten a day for some person who has lost a loved one in this Vietnam War.

Peace

The people are poor, the people are weak.
They die by the hundreds every week.
Some have no clothes, some have no homes
Some eat the scraps off of dirty bones.
They struggle on as the day goes by.
Some don't care if they live or die.
I used to wonder alone at night
Why I was called here to fight.
Now I know why I'm here to stand and keep my weapon close at hand.

It's for these people, we must find a way
To give them a life of their own someday.
These people are humans, just as you and I.
Why shouldn't they live instead of die?
They have a life of their very own.
Why can't they live in peace in their very home.
We are here to give them a hand.
I'll do my part and whatever I can.
I'll do my best and then some more
To help these people win this dirty war.
It's now or never we must fight.
I'll stand up because I know they're right.
I'll stick by these people, side by side.
I'm no coward, I won't run and hide.
I'll be a soldier that's done what he can
To help these people live in peace again.
When it is over and the smoke has cleared away,
I'll come home to you that wonderful day.
Just you and I, alone again
We'll be together until the very end.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. David Phillip Tuten

Corporation Profits Off In '67

By ELMER ROESSNER
The combine net profits of 2,663 large corporations declined 1.1 per cent in 1967, according to a preliminary report by First National City Bank of New York.

In manufacturing, earnings declined 5 per cent but in non-manufacturing industries profits rose 5 per cent.

The gain in productivity was one of the smallest in recent years, the bank said. Explaining this, and why profits dipped, it said:

"Earnings in 1967 were adversely affected by lagging demand in the early part of the year, by rising costs of labor and materials and by disruptions of production due to labor disputes. In many cases where output lagged, employment was maintained at a high level; the result was one of the smallest gains in productivity in many years, both in manufacturing and in the private nonfarm economy at a whole.

"Between slower productivity growth and accelerated wage increases, unit labor costs rose rapidly and profit margins tended to decline. As a result, it was not uncommon in 1967 for companies to report higher sales volume but reduced profits."

Disturbing Conclusion

This analysis is somewhat disquieting, because many of those conditions persist. While retail sales have been picking up, costs of labor and materials are still rising, and the threat of labor disputes is as bad, if not worse, than last year. Unit labor costs are still rising. New orders to manufacturers dipped in January.
Furthermore, the threat of higher federal, state and local taxes is strong and higher taxes can cut sales and reduce net profits on whatever sales are made.

Encouraging was the fact that there was a sharp upswing in corporate profits during the last three months of 1967. The net profits of 1,173 manufacturing corporations were 2 per cent higher than in the same 1966 quarter and a whopping 27 per cent higher than in the third quarter of 1967.

Thirty-three auto and parts corporations reported a profit rise over the third quarter of 448 per cent. This large gain was due to the end of strikes in the auto industry and the sale of 1968 models.

Swings By Groups
For the year, 22 mining corporations led all the rest in gains with a 26 per cent increase in their net over 1966. Eleven metal mining companies, some hit by the copper strike, gained only 2 per cent, but the 11 other mining and quarrying companies gained 37 per cent.

Other groups with impressive gains, and the percentages thereof, were: all Federal Reserve member banks, 22 per cent; 39 office and computing equipment companies, 22 per cent; 37 restaurant and hotel companies, 17 per cent; 15 amusement companies, 12 per cent, and 56 airlines and related corporations, 11 per cent.

Ten Licensed To Conduct Drives

RALEIGH—During the month of February, licenses were granted by the State Board of Public Welfare to ten organizations to conduct fund-raising campaigns through public solicitations for the support of their programs. It was announced by Clifton M. Craig, Commissioner.

All of the organizations have held licenses for previous solicitation periods. These organizations are: Asheville Orthopedic Hospital, Inc.; Dental Foundation of North Carolina, Inc.; Elon Home for Children; Hebron Colony and Grace Home, Inc.; National Conference of Christians and Jews, Inc.; North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.; Oxford Orphanage, Inc.; Save the Children Federation, Inc.; Tuscarora Council, Inc.; Boy Scouts of America and World University Service, Inc.

The total amount which these ten organizations will seek from the public during the year in North Carolina is approximately $1,064,135.00.

Has 5 Years To Clean Up 'Hobby'

HEMET, Calif. (AP) — Sirewn across the 40-acre spread of collector Louie Beland Jr. are cars, stoves, boxes, oil drums, trucks, buses, nuts and bolts and thousands of other things.

Riverside County officials have given the 45-year-old rancher five years to clean it up.

"It's taken me over 30 years to collect the stuff and it'd take at least 10 years to get rid of it," Beland says.

The County Planning Commission acted on a complaint by Beland's neighbor. Beland told a deputy sheriff the collection is "more or less a hobby to me." Replied the deputy, "Nobody has that big a hobby."

Defends Role Of The Politician

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The American people should be less cynical about politicians, says Stephen K. Bailey, dean of the School of Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

Speaking to a Town Hall gathering, he said: "Our top politicians... have been talking to us responsibly and straight on the basic issues that confront us today. If only citizens could realize that the issues really are complex, that most elected officials do the best they can to be fair."

Kilpatrick Col. . . .

(Continued From Page 4) their defeat will make reconciliation within their own ranks an even more painful undertaking. Last summer, when the strike was being pumped up, the MEA lashed its dissenters as "the dregs of the teaching profession." Those who refused to go along with sanctions were "beneath contempt." They were "the rejects, the sick, the unprofessional, the failures and the incompetents." The FEA was "cursed" by their presence. "We will, of course," said the FEA, "rid ourselves of them as quickly as possible."

This hysteria, addressed by educators to other educators, has not been forgotten by the non-striking teachers.

Leubsdorf Col. . . .

(Continued On Page 6) Staats' testimony understandably got a friendly reception from Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the Banking Committee whose suspicion of big banks and feud with the Federal Reserve are legend in Congress. His efforts to enact legislation in line with these feelings, however, have met at best uneven success.

Some of Patman's colleagues, however, think he may fare better if the present inquiry results in legislation pushing wider the doors of the bank supervisory agencies for GAO's auditors.

While no one believes there is any widespread weakness in the U. S. banking system, recent bank failures have caused congressional concern.

Boyle

"Man may be able to enjoy life 24 hours a day instead of 16 by abolishing sleep. Some forms of life do without sleep.

"Sex, obviously, will have to be separated from reproduction, a process already well underway. No family will be allowed to have more than 2.1 children."

Poet Mckuen Is Best-Seller

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The best-selling poet in America is not Marianne Moore or Robert Lowell or Robert Frost. He is a taffy-haired jack-of-all-musical-trades named Rod McKuen.

"In fact," says McKuen with a nervous laugh, "they say I'm the best-selling poet—ever."

It is undoubtedly news to most of the literary critics and English teachers of the land, but it is a well-known fact to booksellers. His first book of poems, "Stanyon Street and Other Sorrows," has sold 250,000 copies, and the second "Listen to the Warm" 200,000. Each is selling at the rate of 5,000 a week.

McKuen's own reaction to such figures is a mixture of amazement and delight. He remarks: "Sometimes I find it hard to believe. You take a poet like T.S. Eliot. I've been told that his last book of poems sold a total of 3,500 copies. T. S. Eliot!"

Obviously Rod McKuen is not T. S. Eliot. Not quite. His poems are mostly in the freest of verse, although some have rhyme and a dogged kind of metre. A sample titled "Apartment 4E:"

The girl upstairs
Is entertaining again,
I could set my clock
By the footfall on the stairs.
I see her sometimes,
Coming and going on the stairs
Or going to the market.
Sometimes I hear her late at night
Playing sad music
Or walking overhead.
She smiles in the daytime,
She smiles in the daytime,
But not at me.

The poems are mostly along the same lines—plaintive, melancholy, though not without rueful humor, simple laments for lost loves and distant cities, told in the spare style of Japanese haiku.

McKuen denies any pretension to literature. "Some people compare me to W.H. Auden, but that's wrong," he says. "I'm not in competition with Auden or anyone else. I'm in the business of communication, and my poems are communicating to the younger generation."

"Why? Because I'm talking to people in a language they understand; they don't need a dictionary to dig what I'm saying. I also feel there is appeal in the fact that I am not afraid to deal with emotion. Nowadays everyone is trained to suppress his emotions. To use a trite expression, I'm telling it like it is."

For 15 years, Rod McKuen had been telling it like it is, but until recently not many seemed to be listening. He had been doggedly pouring forth songs—he has written 700—and some of them ended up in the repertoires of such performers as Andy Williams, Eddy Arnold and the Kingston Trio. McKuen himself knew only fair success as a cabaret performer and recording artist.

Within the past year, his career suddenly blossomed. The small McKuen cult became a national phenomenon. His various record albums—singing, instrumental, poetry readings—have sold a half million copies. "I'm getting a thousand letters a week, and they tell me Rock Hudson doesn't get anything like that," he reported. "I've had to hire a staff to answer the mail. I'm planning a television special, and I'll produce a film of 'Stanyon Street' for Warner Brother-Seven Arts. Fox has optioned 'Listen to the Warm,' and I'd like to direct it."

"I've got three more books coming out—another volume of poems called 'Lonesome Cities,' the Rod McKuen songbook and a children's book. I've had calls from Ray Strak, Edward Padula and David Merrick about doing Broadway shows. I just turned down a guarantee of $100,000 to put my face on sweatshirts and so forth; I don't want that."

"I'm having the time of my life, and I enjoy it even more because I made it on my own. I wasn't promoted to replace someone, as the Monkees were because the Beatles weren't available, or Donovan was because Bob Dylan was sick. Me, I came from nothing."

Industrial War Between States

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

The states are waging war against each other—for new industries.

The stakes are big: new plants, new jobs and new tax revenues.

More than 68,000 manufacturing plants have been built or undergone major enlargement in the last four years in the United States at a cost of $54 billion.

Every state wants its share and more.

Through their development commissions they broadcast their advantages of tax exemptions, financing programs, industrial sites, transportation, labor force, educational systems, climate and recreational facilities.

Out of the peaceful plains of Ohio a platoon of business men dubbed "Rhodes Raiders"—by Gov. James A. Rhodes—roves the country, seeking to capture industries for their state.

This year they will contact 1,400 companies on trips to Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, New York and Philadelphia.

Rhodes' slogan has been "Profit is not a dirty word in Ohio."

The Ohio Development Board reports that 574 plants moved into the state and another 2,285 plants expanded with an increase of about 100,000 jobs in 1966. It says only six plants moved out.

In New York, the most heavily industrialized state, the State Commerce Department reports 47 new manufacturing plants and 668 major expansions in 1967. During the year there were 117 closings and contractions of manufacturing facilities.

Nearby Connecticut has trained its aim on New York City. It wants to lure corporate offices as well as plants and it had some success.

"Connecticut is presented as a good place to live," says the State Development Commission. "Executives weary of commuting in and out of Manhattan are receptive to the idea of moving their offices out of the city as an alternative to the not very attractive idea of moving their homes into the city."

Illinois has extended its industry-hunting to foreign countries. Gov. Otto Kerner has led trade missions to Europe, Japan, Australia and the Philippines.

New and expanded plants in Illinois totaled 587 in 1967, up from 546 in 1966. It was estimated 42,600 jobs were created.

North Carolina takes a bouncy approach in its come-on. Two big newspaper advertisements feature dominating pictures of a happy angler holding an out-size fish and a group of college basketball stars.

One of the ads starts out: "Some of the best sports fishing in the world can be found off our coast." The other says, "In North Carolina, you can see some of the finest basketball teams in the country." Then they go into a serious pitch for companies to come on down.

Although the Midwest is out in front in drawing businesses, the South is making the strongest new drive.

The Southern states are more apt to emphasize the side benefits than the Northeastern and Midwestern states with long industrial backgrounds.

Tennessee heads an ad:

Denver Building
For Conventions

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Denver is building a new convention center in hopes of corralling convention business but to date there are no parking facilities planned for the huge downtown exposition.

The city said it would not build parking facilities and no private firms have shown an interest. The center is due to be completed in April 1969.

"We've got 50 colleges and universities, 24 major science research centers and a network of easily accessible technical schools."

Florida in recent years has been reaping a tremendous flow of new industries, mainly because of the climate and an ample work force.

But recently Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. injected what he considered a new incentive. He said in a speech in Milwaukee, Wis., to business leaders that they ought to locate in Florida to avoid "bloodshed and destruction."

"We don't believe in that in Florida," he said. Milwaukee was the scene of racial rioting last August.

Wisconsin goes for the home town touch. It advertises that it will send a prospect 60 issues of a newspaper from a different city every day or two.

"A newspaper gives the community's best points as well as its weaknesses and that's what prospective business interests want to know," says Palmer McConnell, administrator of the Wisconsin Division of Economic Development.

He says more than 700 requests for newspapers were received last year.

Virginia is among the states offering financial assistance to businesses locating in the state. Its General Assembly has authorized establishment of local development authorities which can issue tax-free industrial revenue bonds for land, buildings, machinery and equipment. The credit supporting these bonds is a lease for a period equaling the time necessary to amortize the bonds.

Iowa is trying to move beyond its traditional agricultural economy. It has a freeport law under which goods may be warehoused in the state free of inventory taxes, and a municipal bonding law under which cities may issue revenue bonds to build facilities to lease to industries.

Rhode Island, whose development council concedes that it has no raw materials and no natural resources, started late in getting into the race.

"After World War II, the industrial part of the economy deteriorated badly," says Adolph T. Schmidt, executive director of the council. "We were losing the textile industry."

Then the state inspired a turnaround by setting up an Industrial Building Authority to provide financing for plants. In the last 10 years 55 companies have been attracted.

In contrast, nature's endowments have been a roadblock to industrial development in the State of Washington.

"Substantial harm has been done by the conservationist vs. industry battles," says Richard Beebe of the State Department of Commerce. "Washington receives more publicity from this so potential industries are aware of the problem."

Like Square Egg, Idea Not So Good

STUTTGART, Germany (AP) — The first rectangular lens in the world has been produced here by Carl Zeiss, Oberkochen—a 115 m.m., f.4 Pro-Tessar for the Zeiss Ikon Contraflex single lens reflex camera.

Reason for the manufacture was to study the size and weight reduction options in the design of optical systems with relatively large front elements.

It was found that the performance of the rectangular lens was identical to that of a normal lens of the same design.

However, the extra work involved in shaping the round lens elements and barrel into rectangular form increased the cost of manufacture and the lens will not be offered for sale.

More Coastal Bermuda Going Into Farm Land

COASTAL BERMUDA GRASS . . . produces good grazing in North Carolina when properly managed and fertilized and should be planted in March.

Woman Charged With Shooting During Quarrel

Jimmy C. Brewer, 20 of Route 6, Greenville has been hospitalized from wounds received in a March 6 shooting near Belvoir, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Brewer, according to Tyson, was shot one time in the stomach with a .22 caliber pistol.

Charged with the shooting is Dorothy Mae Clark of Route 6, Greenville, Brewer's sister-in-law.

Sheriff's officers said Brewer was shot during an argument.

He said the shooting occurred about 1:40 a.m.

Brewer's wife, Miss Clark's sister, was in the Clark house at the time.

Miss Clark was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP) — "Photographic division—Camera speaking."

"People think I'm trying to be funny and hang up," says 1st Lt. Jan P. Camera of Lorrain, Ohio, an officer in Hill Air Force Base's photographic division.

He says he has a nickname, too: "Flash."

Pitt County Farmers are taking less productive land out of row crops and planting coastal Bermuda grass for grazing and hay.

According to Willie Phillips of the Soil Conservation Service, Norman Winslow, who has in the past taken less productive, sandy soil out of row crop production and planted Bermuda, is planning to sprig another field, beside N. C. 30, a mile east of Greenville, with coastal Bermuda this spring.

Winslow expects to be getting high forage production as well as control wind erosion on these light sandy fields, Phillips said.

A supervisor of the Beaufort Soil and Water Conservation District, Winslow developed a conservation plan for his Pitt County farm in 1965, according to Phillips, a soil conservation technician. The plan included improved drainage, conservation cropping systems, ditch bank seedings and a livestock enterprise based on wise land use.

Mail Bringing In Contraband Arms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mail from Vietnam still brings live hand grenades, automatic pistols, ammunition, grenade launchers and AR15 machine guns, says James Miller, U.S. customs import specialist.

"No week goes by without our receiving at least one such article," Miller said Wednesday.

But, he said, the amount of dangerous contraband being mailed home by U. S. military personnel is much less than a year ago.

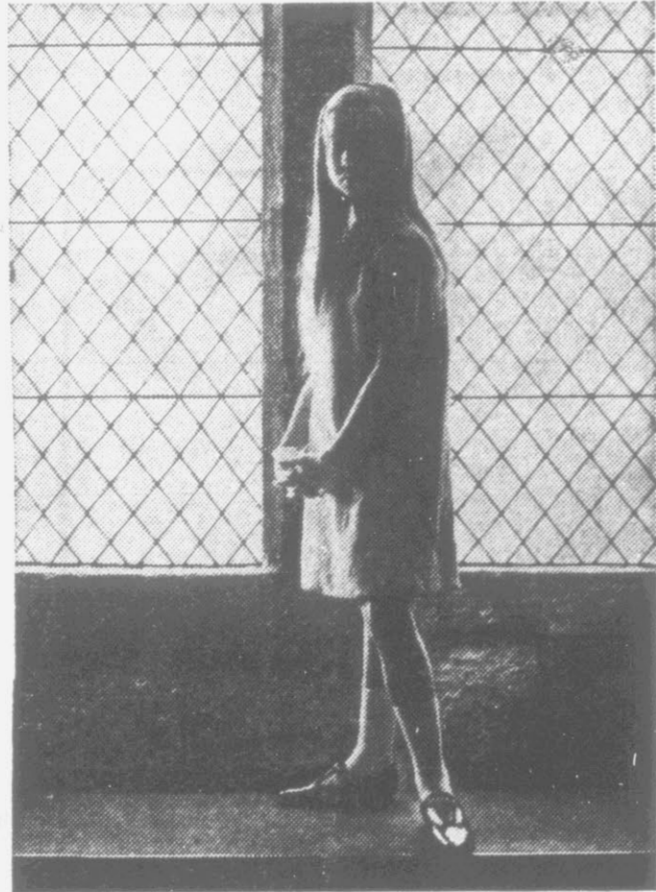

The theme chosen for the conference was "Academically Low Achieving Students in Business Education and Office Occupations."

The program was sponsored annually by the Department of Business Education and the Zeta Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon, both of UNC-G.

John C. Roman, special projects coordinator at the Southwestern Publishing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, was the conference speaker.

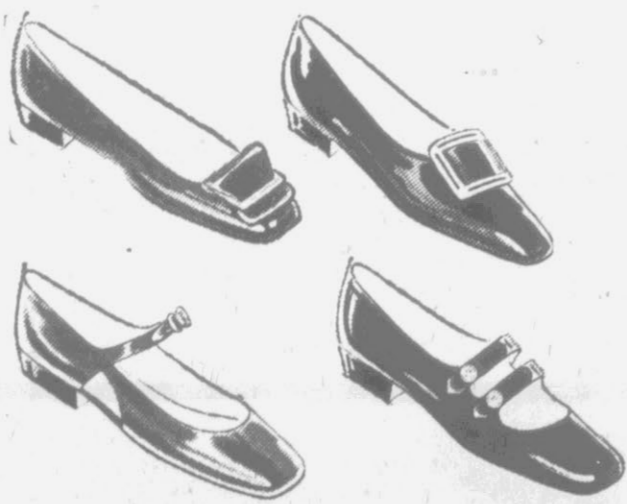

The first American commercial color telecast was presented by CBS in New York on June 25, 1951.

'Culture Week' Has Date In Charlotte

This year for the first time, North Carolina Culture Week will be held in Charlotte. Scheduled for Dec. 3-7, it will be a feature of the Queen City's bi-centennial celebration.

Up to now the societies that meet coordinately to make up Culture Week have regularly held their sessions in the Capital City. The one exception was 1966, when they went to Winston-Salem for the bi-centennial of the town of Salem.

The group of organizations now totals 14, all statewide. Oldest is the Literary and Historical Association, established in 1900, which for a time met alone. In 1913 came the Folklore Society, in the 1930s the Mayflower and Antiquities societies. Each is an independent society, but all meet at the same place and during the same week.

A quarter-century ago the series of meetings was first dubbed Culture Week. Originally used partly in jest, the term stuck and seems to have been generally accepted. A member of one of the societies has said,

"I don't particularly like the term, but I can't think of a better one."

In more recent years groups that have come in have been Roanoke Island, County and Local Historians, Historical Book Club, Symphony, Federation of Music Clubs, Associated Artists, Poetry, Museums Council, and Arts Council. The secretary of the Literary and Historical Association serves as coordinator.

When Culture Week is held in Raleigh, the governor and his wife customarily entertain at a reception for all the societies. Many leading historians, literateurs, and artists have featured the Culture Week programs. Included have been three Presidents of the United States —Teddy Roosevelt, Taft and Truman. A number of awards are announced at the annual meetings in such fields as literature, history, art, historic restoration, and music. Oldest of these is the Mayflower Award for non-fiction.

Irrigation Meeting Set In Winterville On Monday

Farmers interested in irrigation will get first-hand information from experts at the meeting to be held at the Winterville Fire Department, Monday, March 18, at 4:00 p.m., to be held by the N. C. Irrigation Society, the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, Carolina Power & Light Company, and local irrigation dealers.

Theme of the meeting is "Mechanization of Sprinkler Irrigation." Speaking on the theme will be Ronald Sneed, extension irrigation specialist. Other speakers will be R. R. Beck, Pitt County soil conservationist, who will discuss "Selecting the Most Practical Water Supply" and Sam Winchester, Pitt County extension chairman, who will discuss "Crops to be Irrigated."

"We hope to show that proper irrigation is necessary to grow the high quality product demanded by today's market," stated Jud Ammons, director of agricultural development for C P & L and coordinator of the irrigation meeting.

Between the hours of 2 and 9 p.m., the C P & L exhibition trailer will be on display with Lee Williams and Steve Walker, C P & L engineers, on hand to answer questions. Theme of the recently redesigned trailer is "Irrigation and You."

A dinner is planned to be served at 6 o'clock. In order that preparations might be made, please call the County Agents Office, 758-1196, by Friday afternoon, if you plan to attend.

The British House of Commons has 630 members.

Approve Private Group To Sell Tax-Free Bonds

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Cumberland County Commissioners Wednesday authorized the organization of a private corporation which will sell tax-exempt revenue bonds to finance construction of a new textile plant.

The commissioners acted speedily to beat a U.S. Internal Revenue Service order removing tax exempt status from industrial revenue bonds.

The action of the commissioners paved the way for the sale of $1.5 million worth of bonds to build a plant for the Elk-Eastern Co. The 98,000 square-foot plant is expected to employ about 150 persons.

Lawyers said a careful check of a recent state Supreme Court decision outlawing a state industrial bond plan showed it in no way affected the issuance of such bonds on a county basis and by a private corporation.

Insurance Rate Hearing Is Set

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Insurance Commissioner Ed Lanier will conduct a hearing next Wednesday into a proposed 14.5 per cent boost in liability insurance rates for commercial vehicles.

The N. C. Automobile Rate Administrative Office is seeking an increase of 10.3 per cent bodily injury coverage and 18.8 per cent for property damage coverage.

The commercial class of vehicles include short-haul trucks, service vehicles, hearses and similar vehicles.

Newland Halts Ayden Title Hopes In 82-74 Loss

THE LONG AND SHORT OF IT — Seven-foot Tommy Burleson stands beside Ayden's 6-1 Paul Miller at the foul line in last night's game between the Tornadoes and Newland in the State Class A Tournament. Newland used Burleson's height and his 35 points to take an 82-74 victory over the Tornadoes. The just-turned-16 Burleson is expected to reach 7-3 or 7-4 before he stops growing. At right is Newland's Randy Childress. (Reflector P photo)

Reflector Sports Editor

DURHAM—The king is dead. The Ayden Tornadoes, State Class A basketball champions for two straight years, bowed last night in the opening round of this year's state tourney. They were the victim of Tommy Burleson and his cohorts from Newland High School, 82-74.

Burleson, a lean and long seven-footer, did just about everything last night in leading the way over the Tornadoes. While reports on his size vary from an even 7-0 to a taller 7-1½, there is no doubt that he is one of the tallest men ever to be seen in North Carolina.

And he put his height to good use against Ayden. In the first half, the Tornadoes managed to keep the ball away from his offensive most of the time. He had his hands on the ball seven times offensively in the half, and was fouled three of those times. He hit on two of three free throws, and missed only one of four field goal attempts.

Then in the second half, the rest of the Indians began to feed Burleson, and he proved to be very hungry. By the time the night was over, he had played all but two minutes of the game. He hit on 15 of 22 from the floor (68 per cent), a poor five of ten from the line for 35 points. He pulled down 19 rebounds and blocked at least five Ayden shots, doing a pretty good job of being a one-man wrecking crew.

Ayden led only once in the game, in the opening seconds. Kent Allen hit on a rebound to give Ayden a 2-0 edge.

But Newland came right back to tie it up with 7:09 left in the first period and Randy Childress hit. Then, 30 seconds later, Steve Sudderth hit from the corner to push Newland into a 4-2 lead, and Ayden never caught them after that.

Newland used the fast break to push the lead out to eight points, as Childress, Kenny Church, and Danny Wright each scored to make it 10-2 with 5:16 to play. George Booth and Paul Miller each hit for the Tornadoes to cut the lead back to four, but a foul shot by Burleson coupled with baskets by Wright, Church and Childress pushed the lead back to 11 at 17-6 with 2:30 left. By the end of the period, the Indians had built the lead to 12 at 22-10.

Sudderth started the second period off by pushing the lead to 14 at 24-10, the largest spread of the game. But after that, Ayden slowly began to rally. With Kent Allen and Kyle Braswell hitting consistently from the outside, the Tornadoes put together a rally, then pulled back to within two points on two occasions, in the late stages of the period. Miller hit on two free throws to cut the lead to 33-31 with 1:22 left, and after Sudderth made a couple of charity shots, Braswell hit again to slice it to 35-33 with a minute left. But in the final minute of the half, Brad Blalock hit and Sudderth got another free throw to make it 38-33 at the half.

In the third period, Burleson began to get the ball, hitting 16 of the 18 Newland points in the period. He pushed the lead back to nine points at 44-35 with 6:30 left, but Ayden put on another rally which almost carried them into the lead.

Slowly pulling back, the Tornadoes pulled within one at 45-44 as Dail McLawhorn hit, but Burleson hit two more to make it a five point spread at 49-45, and then got a three-pointer a few minutes later to inch the margin to six, 54-48. It stayed that at the end of the period, 56-50.

In the final period, Miller put on a fine display of scoring for Ayden, hitting 17 of the 24 Tornado points, but it wasn't enough. With Miller driving into the basket seeking three-pointers, Ayden managed to cut the lead back to three at 58-55 with 6:37 left, but Burleson's power was still too much for them. With him cleaning the boards and setting up fast breaks, Newland shot out by 11, getting eight straight points. Sudderth hit two, Burleson two and Childress four in the streak, making the lead 66-55 with 4:54 left, and that about did it. Ayden could never pull closer than eight after that, and lost out on its bid for a third straight championship.

Besides the 35 of Burleson, Sudderth had 19 and Childress had 12.

Miller was the outstanding player for Ayden with 26 points. Braswell had 17 and Allen had 18.

Newland continues on in the tournament, meeting Boone Trail in Friday's semifinals. Boone Trail downed Rock Ridge, 64-51, in the other Wednesday night game.

Bonnies, Lions Offer Challenge

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina basketball fans are well acquainted with the Davidson and University of North Carolina teams that compete in the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament opening Friday night at Raleigh.

But let's take a look at unbeaten St. Bonaventure which meets UNC and Columbia, Davidson's opponent.

St. Bonaventure (23-0) is a fast-breaking team that is sparked by ball-stealing guards Jim Satalin and Bill Kalbaugh. The latter is the playmaker, a player who can control the ball and dribbles well.

The offense centers around 6-foot-11 sophomore Bob Lanier, who made the AP All-American second team. He's averaging 26.7 points and has hit 60 per cent of his shots.

The only senior starter is Capt. Bill Butler, averaging 23.1. Satalin averages 12.3, Kalbaugh 9.2 and John Hayes 13.5. The team average is 86.6.

Lanier leads the team with 368 rebounds, Butler has 206.

The Bonnies use a zone defense and often go to a full-court press. They ranked No. 3 in the final AP poll.

Columbia, winner of its first Ivy League basketball title in many years this season, is a thinly-manned team built around two outstanding sophomores and a junior.

They are: Jim McMillian, 6-foot-5, a deadly sophomore jump shooter and strong driver who teams up in front with Roger Walaszee, a 6-foot-three junior. The other member of the trio is Heywood Dotson, a cool, smart playmaker who can drive or shoot when opposition collapses in Newmark or Dotson.

The 6-foot-4 sophomore teams in the backcourt with senior Bill Ames. Captain Larry Berger spells Newmark and also plays front court as sixth man. The Columbia team's only other reliable is guard Bruce Metz, a six-foot junior.

The Columbia team uses what coach Jack Rohan calls "disciplined offensive attack," and can run if the situation calls for it.

Most plays are built around Newmark's handing off and setting picks for McMillian and Dotson.

Newmark, however, is still not fully recovered from a severely sprained left ankle.

Ayden Baseball Clinic Is Set

The annual Ayden Baseball Clinic will be held Saturday at the Ayden Athletic Field.

Coach Earl Smith of East Carolina University and members of the ECU baseball team will be featured in the clinic. It is open to any high school, Pony League, or Little League player and coach. The clinic will run from 9:30 a.m. until noon, and then from 1:30 p.m. until 3:30.

Including in the clinic will be baserunning, sliding, bunting, hitting, and special situation plays.

Stuart Tripp of Ayden is the clinic director.

Golf Crowds May Soon Be Assigned To Stands

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, whose blasting power and magnetic personality helped build the pro golf tour into a multimillion dollar operation, says he thinks tournament crowds in the future will be so huge that spectators will be assigned seats.

"I think we eventually will see a golf tournament set up like a baseball or football game, where the spectators buy assigned seats," Palmer said before starting his bid today in the Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

Palmer has won $953,777 in official prize money playing golf and harvested many times that much in businesses built from his game. He said he thinks the increased crowds will result in construction of courses designed to provide spectators with a view of most of the holes.

"I believe that courses will be built so at least every other green is around the clubhouse, and players will go out and back instead of going way around like we do now," Palmer said.

Palmer has won but one of eight tournaments this year, but his play in tuning up for this tournament has put him among the list of the favorites for the Citrus Open crown. He was the leading pro in the pro-am preliminary Wednesday with a 66, and he shot a 65 in a round at Puerto Rico Tuesday.

Palmer is just one of several contenders for the $25,000 Citrus title being defended by Julius Boros. Jack Nicklaus, still looking for his first victory of the year, and South African Gary Player—making his 1968 U.S. debut—also are in the flashy field.

Rose Opens Baseball Year In Tarboro Friday

Duke Out To Erase Memory Of Last Year's NIT Opening Loss

By MIKE RECHT
NEW YORK (AP)—The Duke Blue Devils hope to erase the disastrous memory of last year in the opening college basketball doubleheader tonight of the 31st National Invitation Tournament.

The Blue Devils, 10th ranked nationally in the final Associated Press poll of the season, take the court against high-scoring Oklahoma City in the second game of the twinbill. Marshall and St. Peter's of New Jersey meet in the first game.

The Blue Devils, who were not sure until last Sunday night they would get a second chance in the NIT as the Atlantic Coast Conference representative, failed in their first try last year. They lost in their first game to Southern Illinois, the eventual champion, 72-63.

Duke, 21-5, brings back third team All-American Mike Lewis, who averaged 24 points and 15 rebounds this season. Oklahoma City, 20-6, relies on honorable mention All-American Rich Travis, a 30-point average scorer.

Marshall, 17-5, and St. Peter's, 22-2, each will try to improve on last year's NIT performance.

Marshall, led by George Stone's long jump shots and 23.4-point game average, has visions of bettering its surprising fourth-place finish of 1967. St. Peter's, led by Elnardo Webster's 24.7 average, was routed by Southern Illinois last year 103-58.

Another doubleheader Friday and four games on Saturday complete the first round of the 16-team field.

On Friday, Temple meets Kansas and Villanova opposes Wyoming. Saturday afternoon Army plays Notre Dame and Long Island goes against Bradley. Saturday night it will be Duquesne vs. Fordham and Dayton vs. West Virginia.

The NIT opening headlines the college basketball tournament scene tonight. The second round of the NCAA tournament for the national championship is not scheduled until Friday night at four regional sites.

The small college boys were busy Wednesday night with the quarter-finals in the NCAA college division tourney at Evansville, Ind., and the second round in the NAIA tourney at Kansas City.

At Evansville, Ashland, Ohio, beat Cheyney State 45-30. Indiana State downed Nevada Southern 94-75. Kentucky Wesleyan defeated American International 90-78 and Trinity, Tex., whipped Evansville 93-77.

Westminster, Pa., edged Mor-mouth, N.J., 70-69. Fairmont,

Phants Working Under New Coach This Season; Looking For Hitters

Rose High School's baseballers will open their season Friday in Tarboro, then return home on Tuesday to face the Havelock Rams.

This year the Phants will be operating under a new coach, Russ Cotten, who takes over for last year's Coach Bud Phillips. Phillips is handling football and wrestling.

"We've got a long way to go," Cotten said. "The bad weather and the number of boys playing basketball have held us up somewhat. But we've been coming along fast. What we need now is some game experience."

Cotten feels that the Phantoms will have a fairly good defensive ball club. "We'll get some pretty fair pitching, and I hope that our hitting will come along."

"We're going to have to scrap for every run we get," he said. "I just hope that our defense will keep them from getting too far ahead."

Cotten said that the team has good leadership and hustle this year. "There's also some good talent, but no big hitters."

candidates, but Randy Briley is pressing them. Jones right now appears to have the inside track for a starting job tomorrow.

David Hahn, a veteran, is probably in at shortstop, with Galt as a backup man.

At third, Kenny Beaman is the leading candidate, but sophomore Ronnie Leggett is pushing him.

The outfield is also unsettled, as many of the positions will probably be manned by pitchers who are not working on the mound or by people beat out at other positions.

Top candidates in left are West, Tony Whitehurst, Al Nichols and Byron Dickens. In center, Aldridge, Smith and Kim Harbin, a freshman, are the leading candidates, while in right Al Gurganus, Jim Woods, Smith, Aldridge, Cayton and Allen Pate are all battling.

Russell Cayton appears to be the leading candidate for the catching duties, but West, Whitehurst and Gurganus can all play that position.

Cotten expects Kinston and

West Carteret to be the stiffest teams in the conference this season. "Tarboro is going to be tough on Friday," he said. "We're going to have to hustle and play good defense in all of them."

All home games will be played at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Bando Makes A's Decision Tough

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Sal Bando is making it hard for the Oakland Athletics to send him to Vancouver. And Bob Schellenberg is making it hard for the Philadelphia Phillies to keep him in oblivion.

Bando smacked two homers in Oakland's 4-1 victory over the New York Yankees in their exhibition baseball game Wednesday. That makes four homers for the young third baseman in two games.

Bando hit only nine homers all last year in 116 games with the Athletics' Vancouver farm club. In 41 contests with the big league club he went Lomerless.

Schellenberg's story is something else again. His grand-slam homer Wednesday was the big blow in the Phillies' 8-0 triumph over Houston. It was his second time at bat during the spring, his second homer and raised his RBI total to seven.

In his first time up Sunday, Schellenberg, who isn't even on the Phillies' roster, hit a three-run homer.

In other games Wednesday, Cleveland edged San Francisco 6-5, the Chicago Cubs took California 5-4, St. Louis beat Detroit 6-2, Washington nudged Minnesota 5-4 and Los Angeles outlasted the New York Mets 3-2.

Also, the Chicago White Sox blanked Pittsburgh 4-0, Baltimore beat Atlanta 2-1 and Cincinnati beat Boston 5-3 in 10 innings.

Bando drove in all the Athletics' runs with a three-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the eighth. Jim Bouton pitched four hitless innings for the Yankees, extending his hitless streak to eight innings.

Woody Fryman, who allowed two hits in four innings, Larry Colton, who gave up no hits in three innings, and Jeff James combined for the shutout for the Phillies.

Cleveland caught the Giants in a hurry on Duke Sims' grand-slam homer in the eighth and finally won in the ninth on a double and a pair of sacrifices.

Adolfo Phillips, who had three hits for the Cubs, came up with a big one in the 10th, a single that drove in the winning run. Ted Savage had four hits for Chicago.

Phil Gagliano's two doubles paced an 11-hit attack that beat Detroit for the Cardinals. Bob Gibson and Steve Carlton hand-cuffed the Tigers on one hit for the first six innings.

Washington's victory, its fourth straight, came when Frank Coggins was walked in the bottom of the 10th, forcing in Bernie Allen with the winning tally.

Wes Parker drove in one run and scored another for the Dodgers who got four strong innings of pitching from Claude Osteen.

Jack Fisher, Gary Peters, Hoyt Wilhelm and Wilbur Wood held Pittsburgh scoreless while Tommy Davis cracked out three hits for the White Sox.

Don Buford's single in the 11th inning sent home the winning run for the Orioles. It was Baltimore's third straight extra-inning game.

Tommy Helms' two-run single with two out in the 10th was the margin of victory for the Reds who have now won five of their last six games. Tony Perez homered for Cincinnati.

Howard W. Gair, Little League baseball umpire consultant of Williamsport, Pa., will hold a meeting here Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Greenville Recreation Department Building at Elm Street Park.

He will discuss Little League playing rules, and answer any question. Dan H. Gordon, District IV Administrator, said that all managers, coaches, umpires, league officials and interested parents from the leagues involved are asked to attend.

The leagues in this area are Greenville's North State and Tar Heel; Robersonville, Southern Pines, Tarboro, Warsaw, Warrenton and Seymour Johnson AFB.

A similar meeting will be held tonight in Morehead City for Area I Leagues.

Wachovia And Azalea In Wins

Wachovia Bank and Azalea Mobile Homes will meet tonight in the finals of the Ladies Basketball League Tournament.

Wachovia, the regular season champ, downed Pure Oil, 46-24, last night, while Azalea beat Coca-Cola, 37-31.

In the opener, Wachovia pushed out into a 13-2 lead in the first period and all but ended it there. By the half, Wachovia had built up a 21-13 lead and held a 38-17 lead at the end of the third period, taking an easy win.

Carol Pennell led Wachovia with 18 points, while Kay Stockdale had 17. For Pure Oil, Pat Kilpatrick led the scoring with eight.

In the second game, the action was a little closer, Coke, threatening an upset, gained a slim 9-8 lead in the first period, but Azalea came back to take an 18-14 lead at the half.

In the second half, Azalea pulled out to a 26-22 lead at the end of the third period, then outscored Coke, 11-9, for the win.

Judy Baker had 19 and Gloria Clark had 10 to lead Coke, while Dottie Hill had 17 and Phyllis Carraway had 11 for Azalea.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says no final decision has been reached on authenticity of a letter North Korea claims was signed by the 82 surviving members of the intelligence-gathering ship Pueblo.

The letter asks a public apology from the United States, admitting the Pueblo violated North Korea's territorial waters, as a means of "assistance in our repatriation."

"Final determination or conclusion has not been reached with respect to authenticity" of the signatures, Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said. He left open the possibility no such decision will be publicly announced.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would extend life of the Export-Import bank for five years but bar credit for sale of weapons to underdeveloped countries has been signed by President Johnson.

He said the measure gives the bank "the financial horsepower it very desperately needs to carry out a very important job."

It provides $13.5 billion in loan guarantees and insurance authorization money compared to the previous $9 billion—and raises export credit from $2 to $3.5 billion.

The weapons sale restriction—and a restriction against bank services in connection with trade with Communist countries—may be lifted by the President if he notifies Congress the waiver is in the national interest.

The House approved $375,000 operating expenses for its Committee on Un-American Activities Wednesday after defeating 305-79 a motion for public hearings on justifying need for the money.

The National Transportation Safety Board blamed the airliner crash that killed 38 people near Marseilles, Ohio, March 5, 1967, on a defective propeller it said threw one blade slicing into the plane and causing it to break up.

"I see no reason for taking (the Forestry Division) out of the C&D Department," Robert L. Stallings of New Bern, who headed the sprawling state agency under Gov. Terry Sanford, said Wednesday.

Stallings also told a commission studying the separation of C&D into two or more independent agencies that the eight divisions in the C&D department have functioned well together.

Paul R. Barringer of Weldon, president of the N. C. Forestry Association, and G. E. (Eddie) Jackson of Washington, N. C., chairman of the N. C. Forestry Council, told the commission that establishing a separate agency would be a step towards conserving the state's forests.

"We will not meet the increasing demand for the raw materials required by our forest industries 30 years from now unless we take dramatic steps today," said Barringer.

Studies Clams In Teeth Research
CHAPEL HILL (AP)—A University of North Carolina physiologist is studying clam shells to learn more about the teeth and bones of humans.

Why clam shells? They are a product of calcification just as teeth and bones are, says the physiologist Dr. Miles A. Crenshaw, and he's trying to find out how they're formed.

"I can always eat any unsuccessful experiments," Crenshaw confides.

McCarthy Supporters Say Surge Is Beginning

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy

report his strong showing in the New Hampshire presidential primary has produced a surge of volunteers and some contributions. And most say Sen. Robert

F. Kennedy's "reassessment" has not changed their plans. McCarthy told newsmen Wednesday he thought it was

"fine" for Kennedy to get into the race, but that it would have no effect on his own plans. The Minnesota Democrat then went to Wisconsin to join the young volunteers working for him in that state's primary.

Some apparent bitterness against Kennedy was voiced. Harold Ickes, co-chairman and son of Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of the interior said, "Kennedy gave very good reasons for reconsidering, but they were veldid six months ago."

"I think I can get the nomination," he said.

An Associated Press survey found McCarthy's opinion was shared by most of his supporters around the country as well, even after Kennedy's move to the edge of presidential candidacy.

"It makes no difference whatsoever in our plans," said Chairman Marvin Madeson of the McCarthy for President organization in St. Louis. "We're going all the way with McCarthy. Kennedy is in the position of hanging on McCarthy's coattails, but he stands less of a chance of being elected than McCarthy."

Harry Beardsley of Concerned Democrats in Iowa said, "We realize there are a lot of Kennedy supporters working for McCarthy. We have known that sooner or later this question would have to be resolved. A great deal of McCarthy support could be directly transferred to Kennedy."

"On the other hand, it is not impossible that one of Kennedy's reassessment alternatives will be to put his support behind McCarthy."

While Kennedy continued to meditate, McCarthy organizations were reported growing across the nation following the New Hampshire vote. One hundred leaders of Reports organized a Coalition for a Democratic Alternative in Brooklyn to support McCarthy. His New York headquarters reported an unprecedented stream of contributions.

"We have received $13,000 in two days," said co-director Sarah Kovner.

Some apparent bitterness against Kennedy was voiced. Harold Ickes, co-chairman and son of Franklin D. Roosevelt's secretary of the interior said, "Kennedy gave very good reasons for reconsidering, but they were veldid six months ago."

"It's too late for Kennedy," said Michael Tonkorog, a retired schoolteacher, and another worker said his announcement "fits into the whole Kennedy image of being an opportunist."

A new McCarthy organization opened in Trenton, N.J. and, at a rally at Charlottesville, Va., plans were announced for new McCarthy clubs throughout Virginia.

In Wisconsin, McCarthy's campaign director Jav G. Sykes predicted for the first time, "we're going to carry the state" in the April 2 primary.

Richard D. Cudahy, a Johnson supporter and Wisconsin state chairman, said the President now probably is the underdog there.

Rob't. Kennedy Steps To The Brink Of Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has stepped to the brink of presidential candidacy and a key aide says he'll make his decision in a week. Kennedy huddled with political advisers in New York Wednesday night after saying in Washington he is reassessing whether to run against President Johnson.

The New York Democrat said the New Hampshire primary results removed "the major obstacle" to challenging Johnson—and said the vote demonstrated Democratic concern over Johnson's policies.

But Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who drew an unexpectedly high 42 per cent of the New Hampshire Democratic vote, said he won't pull out of the race whatever the New Yorker decides to do.

Consider New Church District

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Officers of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference said Wednesday they are considering the appointment of North Carolina's first Negro Methodist district superintendent and the creation of a new district.

Bishop Earl G. Hunt Jr., presiding officer of the conference, said his cabinet voted unanimously to recommend formation of a 14th district at the fourth-coming Annual Conference.

The new district would be known as the Winston-Salem-Forsyth District, and would be comprised primarily of churches within the greater Winston-Salem area.

Other churches now in the Winston-Salem District would be under the Winston-Salem Northeast District.

Hunt is charged, under the Methodist Discipline, with composing the districts of his Annual Conference.

"It is contemplated," Hunt said, "that in June a minister of the former North Carolina-Virginia Annual Conference would be named superintendent" of the proposed district.

The North Carolina-Virginia Annual Conference is comprised only of Negro churches. It will be disbanded, and become part of the Western North Carolina Conference March 28.

Hunt said the size of the conference—covering the state's 44 western counties and with some 274,000 members—necessitates a new administrative unit.

this week indicated the administration is sticking to its Vietnam policies—and he criticized Johnson for not saying what he will do with recommendations from his special riot commission.

Another factor in his reassessment, Kennedy said, is what he called the New Hampshire indication that "Richard Nixon is very likely to be the nominee of the Republican party."

Meanwhile, there was a report that four Midwest governors met with Kennedy last Saturday night and fears were expressed that Johnson's renomination could bring Democratic defeat.

That assessment was attributed to Gov. William Guy of North Dakota in a copyrighted story by the Kansas City Star—and Guy denied it.

"This topic of dumping Johnson was never brought up," Guy said.

Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes and an aide to Missouri Gov. Warren Hearnes denied the meeting with Kennedy was anything more than social. Kansas Gov. Robert Docking said none of the four urged Kennedy to run.

Still Cleaning Up Wilmington Wreck Debris

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Cleanup operations were to continue at the Wilmington docks today where a runaway ammunition train shoved two freight cars into the Cape Fear River. The train's engine was completely submerged.

The final explosives-laden cars of the runaway train were removed from the dock area late Wednesday. Officials said they expect to remove the engine within "a day or two."

The train went out of control in the docks area late Tuesday, ran onto a condemned trestle and pushed the two empty freight cars into the river.

Thirteen ammunition-laden cars were not damaged. The train's crew jumped to safety just before the engine plunged into the river.

FOUND DEAD

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — William D. Powell, 43, television writer and only child of actor William Powell, was found slashed to death Wednesday in his apartment. Police found the body, a knife and a note which said in part "I am going where things are better."

A Frenchman has to work 10 hours to be able to buy a pair of shoes, compared with two hours and 50 minutes for an American.

Thrown From Motorbike, Die

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Wade Barnett Poindexter, 22, and Mrs. Mary Hartzog Elliot, 22, both of Winston-Salem, were killed Wednesday when they were thrown from a motorcycle. Officers said Poindexter was driving the machine, with Mrs. Elliott riding behind him. Officers said the motorcycle hit a curb and skidded along it for 71 feet before wrecking.

St. Patrick's Legends Offer A Choice; Choose Your Favorite

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
Associated Press Writer

As every good and would-be Irishman knows, St. Patrick drove the snakes from the Emerald Isle. But did he really? According to tradition, St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, banished the serpents by beating on his drum. Once, when he supposedly struck the drum too hard and made a hole in it, an angel appeared immediately and mended it so he could continue his work without interruption. St. Patrick worked very hard until there was only one snake left. This very, very old viper, undoubtedly unsuited to working with any snake charmer, refused to heed the call of the drums. From this point on you have a choice of which legend to believe.

The most popular tale has it that St. Patrick then made a box and asked the snake to enter. The snake objected, saying that the box was too small. St. Patrick argued that the box was plenty big enough to accommodate him comfortably. Finally, just to prove that St. Patrick was wrong, the snake agreed to try out the box for size. St. Patrick quickly clamped down the lid and tossed the snake into the sea, thus ridding Ireland of its last serpent.

Another legend claims that this hoary old serpent in Lough Dilveen was so difficult to deal with that St. Patrick left him, promising to return on Monday. Whether St. Patrick was called elsewhere on a church mission or whether he just plain forgot about the snake doesn't really matter. The fact remains that St. Patrick never did come back to retrieve the old varmint.

To this day the inhabitants of the area say the snake is still in the lake. He is utterly aged by now but every Monday he rises to the surface, looks out and calls, "It's beea a long Monday, Patrick." Then he vanishes below the water again.

Fact and legend are often intertwined in the life of St. Patrick. Some sources claim that he raised persons from the dead, including his father. Another miracle credited to St. Patrick holds that when he was traveling with friends, the night became very cold. There was no fuel for a fire. St. Patrick told them to make a heap of snow.

When he breathed on it, a blaze sprang up. Even his birthplace is a mystery. Four countries—Scotland, England, France and Wales—all claim the saint was born on their soil.

It is generally accepted that Patrick, (real name Ptryk Magonus Sucatin, or Maewyn) was born in 387 A.D. in Kilpatrick, near what is now Dumbarton, Scotland. His family, "of Roman-British origin" as he described it, was of the patrician church deacon and municipal or royal class; his father was an officer.

At age 16, Patrick was captured by Irish marauders and sold as a slave to a Druid chief. Six years he labored as a swineherd, in what is now County Antrim, Ireland, during which time he learned the customs and language of the pagan Irish people.

After escaping from his master, he returned to the continent, where he decided to devote his life to religion. He finished his studies, became a priest and later a bishop.

Then, some 18 years after his escape, under the authority of Pope Celestine, he returned to Ireland to teach the Gospel. Despite numerous clashes with the Druids, the pagan priests who were avowed enemies of Christianity, and despite being captured by them 12 times, nothing could diminish his missionary zeal. Until his death, he watched over the churches he had founded, encouraged priests and consecrated many bishops.

He died on March 17, 461, at Saul on Stragford Lough, where he had built his first church.

Arms Race By Militants In Newark, N.J.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Negro and white militants in this city are urging their followers to buy guns for self-defense as a result of last summer's riots.

Each group blames the other for escalating an arms race. Police records reflect some increase in pistol permits in this area, but there is no way to prove this results from the racial situation.

"I have continuously stated to people in our community and I continue to do so now, that they need, and it is their constitutional right, to have a weapon to protect themselves," says Willie Wright, president of the Negro United Afro-American Association.

"Buy yourself a weapon and bring it home," advises Anthony Imperiale, an ex-Marine sergeant who heads a white neighborhood citizens council.

The two expressed their opinions in interviews. Wright, a 36-year-old unemployed engineer, said last July's riots proved to Newark's Negroes "that we need to be armed just to protect ourselves."

"I would not stand aside and watch some of the shootings and killings and some of the violent acts of brutality taking place in my community that took place in this town in July, under any circumstance," he said in his tiny office in the heavily Negro Central Ward.

Wright claimed that most Negroes aren't armed, but that the white community is engaged in an arms race.

Imperiale, who runs a karate school in an Italian section a few miles north of Wright's locale, said he doesn't advocate or condone unnecessary violence.

"I am not telling you to go out and do what the radicals are doing and burn and shoot, but I'm telling you this, that if the law is not permitted to openly arrest these people, if the law cannot control it because the mayor will not make them, then it is time for us, under the Constitution, to defend ourselves to the limit," he said.

Imperiale claims 1,500 supporters of his North Ward Citizens Council. Wright declines to give membership figures, but city leaders feel he speaks for a sizable bloc in this city of 400,000 which is 50 per cent Negro.

Authorities have made no public comment on the activities of the rival groups. Nor do they offer any explanations for records which show that the number of handgun permits issued in Newark and its suburbs rose from 250 in 1966 to 522 in 1967.

Statewide, the number of pistol permits under New Jersey's two-year-old gun control law rose from 5,115 in 1966 to 8,254 in 1967. The number of identification cards for rifles and shotguns, however, showed slight decrease, both statewide and in the Newark area.

Police Director Dominick Spina, in response to an AP inquiry, said through a spokesman he "deplores the fact that any group is arming."

"A great deal of the fault lies in the fact that racists and extremists on both sides are permitted by the U.S. attorney general and that state and other local prosecuting agencies have not established firm lines against racist threats and against incitements."

Consumer Buying Beliefs Die Hard

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Notions about consumer buying behavior, once an area of relative certainty, have been shot full of holes in the past two years.

summe that the wait-see attitude might very well continue, that the consumer might continue to delay purchases and continue to save around 7 per cent of his take-home pay.

When he does begin to buy again, will he eventually drown his acquisitive instincts or merely sharpen them? Katona feels that the affluent society is "adaptive," that people will find ways to spend their earnings.

At the core of the adaptive theory of consumer behavior is the proposition that success arouses new wants and an improvement in the standard of living.

"The perception of progress or success in financial standing," Katona asserts, "stimulates fairly rapid 'upgrading,' while lack of progress results in failure to replace an old possession with a new one."

Anybody caught keeping up with the Joneses understands that theory. As success is experienced, luxuries become necessities; wants become needs; a bigger house, a bigger car and a country club membership become more desirable.

Two more popularly held ideas now may be headed for the same fate. The first states that the current very high rate of personal savings must end soon and that consumers will buy furniture, cars and homes that have been postponed as long as possible. This belief is widespread. It underlies scores of bullish forecasts for the economy in the coming year and is heavily relied upon by retailers as offering hope for a better year than in 1967.

The second opinion deals more with long-range consumer behavior. It says that Americans may become sated with material goods, that they may run out of things they want to buy, and that prosperity therefore will dig its own grave.

Professor George Katona, a man whose quarterly surveys of consumer attitudes for the University of Michigan qualify him as one of the most responsible commentators, disagrees with both opinions.

The first of these Katona termed unacceptable. In a recent speech he indicated that the consumer may continue to save more and spend less than usual so long as the motivating factors remain as they are.

These factors, he said, are the Vietnam war, inflation, and the uncertainty about taxes. The consumer has lived with all three for at least two years now. "He feels at the mercy of these developments," Katona says.

The consumer today is uncertain and has misgivings, he continued. "The future trend of his well-being does not seem to depend on what he is doing, how hard he works, whether he succeeds in his endeavors."

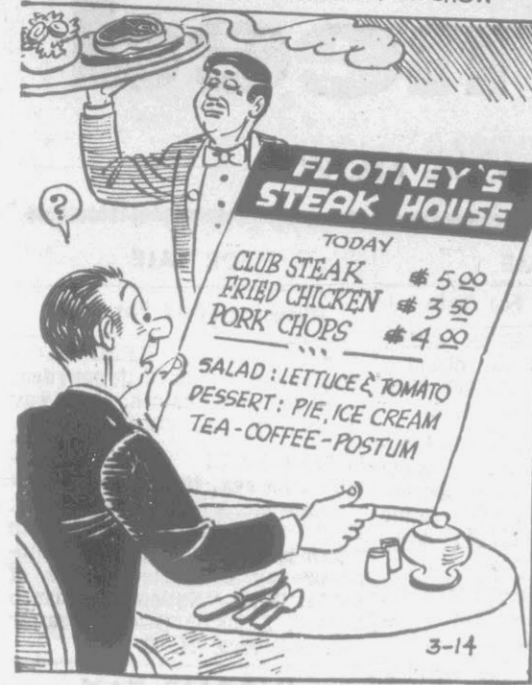

"Inflation, taxes and the war may, he knows, deprive him of what he thinks are well-deserved fruits of his labor."

Nobody can say how long these influences will continue, but Katona feels that "prospects for peace would represent a new development contributing toward a more confident outlook."

In the absence of any radical change, however, one can as-

Cross-Burning Trial Continues

CONCORD, N. C. (AP)—Trial was to continue in Cabarrus County Recorder's court today in the case of Ronald Lee Mullis, 29, of Concord, one of three men charged with cross-burning.

The other two, Homer D. Blackwelder, 50, an employe of the Charlotte - Mecklenburg School system, and Donald P. Stewart of Concord, were freed Wednesday because of a lack of evidence.

The three were charged with burning a cross in the yard of Fred Bost in early 1966. At the time of the alleged incident, Bost's children were the only Negroes attending a newly integrated Concord elementary school.

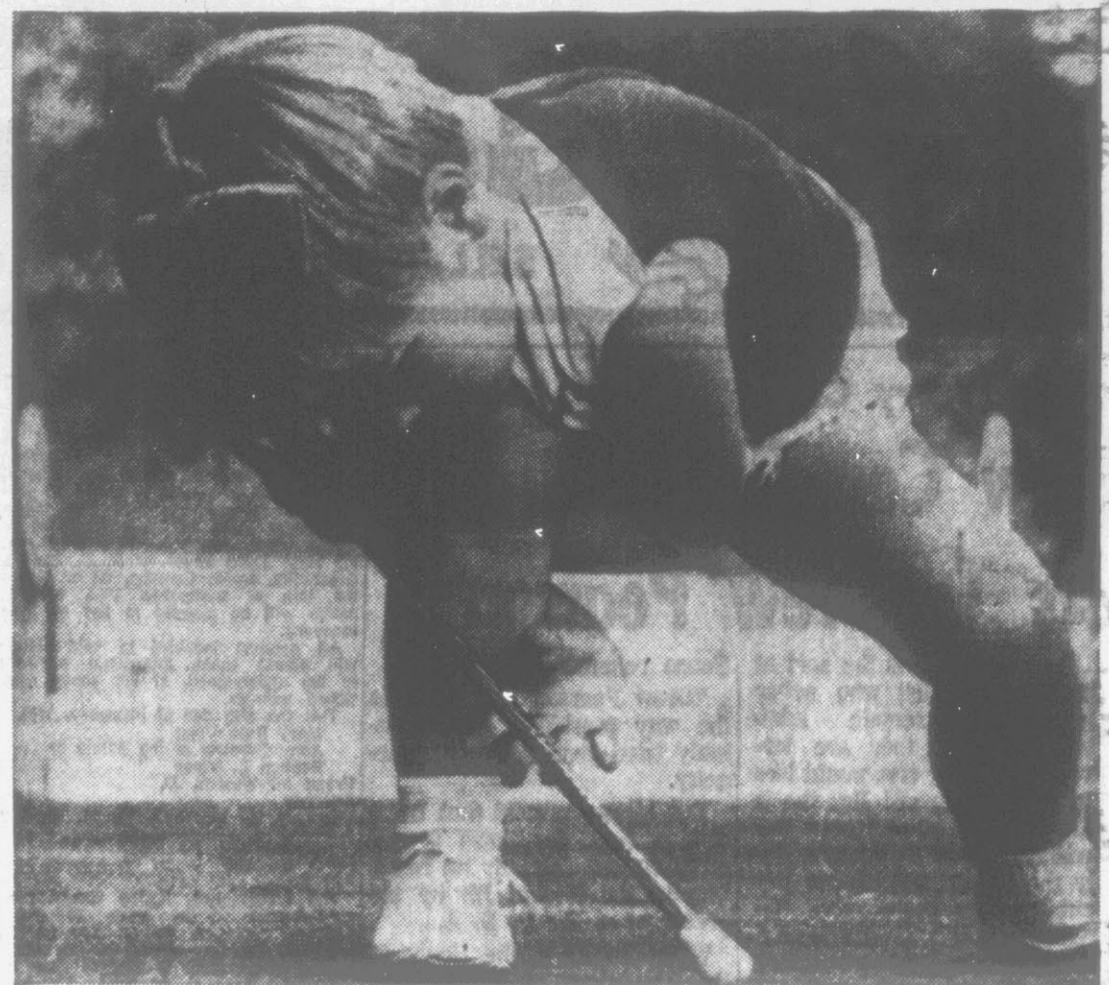

All three men stood trial in January at Salisbury where they faced similar charges in federal court.

At that trial, Stewart and seven other defendants were acquitted, Blackwelder was released and the case against Mullis continued due to a mistrial.

Lurleen Wallace Condition Still Reported Serious

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. Lurleen Wallace is still receiving heavy doses of antibiotics and intravenous nourishment in the wake of an operation to drain an abdominal abscess, but her doctors say she is doing "as well as could be expected in view of the circumstances."

A hospital bulletin issued Wednesday, one day after the surgery was performed, described Mrs. Wallace's condition as "still serious."

Acting gubernatorial news secretary Ed Ewing said the 41-year-old governor, who underwent cancer surgery three weeks ago, was suffering a "low grade fever" Wednesday. He declined to elaborate, beyond saying that her fever is lower than it was before the operation.

He said the governor was being kept under light sedation and is still receiving heavy dosages of antibiotics.

Fraternity Pays Annual Tribute To General Lee

Members of Kappa Alpha Order at East Carolina University paid tribute last weekend (March 8-10) to the memory of the father of their ideals, Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Some 50 brothers and pledges of the fraternity, with their dates, took part in a series of "Old South" activities.

The three-day observance began on the campus Thursday and ended with the annual Old South Ball at Lake Lure in Rutherford County Saturday night.

To start the activities the KAs put on Confederate uniforms and marched beneath a Rebel flag onto the central campus mall Thursday.

There they gave their dates formal invitations to Old South weekend.

The Worry Clinic Few Can Be Neutral As To Drew Pearson

Drew Pearson is the sort of superb journalist who never lets readers remain lukewarm. Either they are fervent rosters or else would like to boil him in oil! But that's the recipe of all dedicated journalists. Drew Pearson is truly the "Watchdog of this Republic" and keeps more bureaucrats and Congressmen honest than does our entire FBI and IRS, combined!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-516: Drew Pearson is one of the most controversial figures in this generation.

He seldom leaves a people lukewarm or neutral in their attitude toward him.

Either they are fervent addicts or else would like to boil him in oil!

But that is a superb tribute to any true journalist!

Indeed, that's how William Randolph Hearst, Sr., plus Colonel McCormick, Frank Gannett, Gene Pulliam and other great pioneer publishers build up their newspaper empires!

Some years ago we were on the lecture platform together. At Superior, Wisconsin, I spoke first and Drew followed me. It was a Teachers' Convention.

Then we were whisked over to Duluth, Minnesota, by auto, where we also addressed the Minnesota Teachers' Convention.

Drew then spoke first and I followed him.

Throughout the years, I have read his column religiously and we have sporadically corresponded.

"Dr. Crane," some of you may protest, "surely you don't concur in everything Drew Pearson writes?"

No, I don't! And I'm sure he doesn't O. K. everything I write! "When two men in a business always agree," said astute William Wrigley, Jr., "then one of them's unnecessary!"

But Drew Pearson is truly the most valiant "Watchdog of this Republic."

He keeps most members of Congress on their toes and reasonably honest!

For he exposes corruption in government, as well as in industry and business, regardless of political parties.

As between Drew Pearson's statement and that issued by the White House, which is more truthful?

Well, consult the record!

When Drew mentioned that 50 U. S. destroyers were en route to England at the onset of World War II, the White House vehemently denied it! "Drew Pearson is a liar," is the way presidents have routinely tried to besmirch his veracity.

But history proved that Drew was correct, for those 50 destroyers were already en route, despite the blatant fib by the president of the U. S. A.

When Powell in the House of Representatives and Dodd in the U. S. Senate were lax in their accounting of funds for income tax purposes, who dared to bring such facts into the public eye?

It was Drew Pearson! "But isn't Drew Pearson unduly liberal?" some of my friends will protest.

"And doesn't he try to slant opinion against certain sturdy organizations of the 'rightist' sort?"

Perhaps so. But, frankly, I'd rather take Drew Pearson's word for what is happening in Washington, D. C., than that of the president himself, be the latter Republican or Democrat!

And in this day of regimentation by government, it is thus vital to have a newspaper voice that makes even the IRS and the FBI stay on their toes.

So be grateful to all American newspapers for thus exposing errors by Congress, the bureaucrats, and even the White House!

Under no other government on this planet earth do ordinary citizens enjoy such protection!

Tax Value Of Actors' Land Being Studied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The tax value of land belonging to Marlon Brando, Bob Hope and Jack Benny is being studied by the high school teacher who successfully fought to raise taxes on Gov. Ronald Reagan's Malibu property.

The teacher, Brian Stevens, told newsmen Tuesday he has formed a group called Property Assessment Reform to look into property-tax discrepancies and bring them to public attention.

Stevens said Hope, Benny and Brando own land in the same area of Reagan's ranch and the property will be studied. There was no comment by any of the three.

The Los Angeles County Assessment Appeals Board, after a recent hearing, ordered assessment on the 54 acres owned by Reagan increased to $54,100 from $7,500.

When the defense failed to capitalize on a roadblock that had been placed in declarer's path by Mother Nature, the latter recorded a game on the score sheet.

West opened the jack of spades against South's four heart contract and when it held the first trick, East continued with the ten. East overtook with the queen and cashed the ace on which West discarded the deuce of diamonds.

After lengthy deliberation, East continued with a fourth round of spades. He reasoned that if his partner held as many as three hearts headed by the ten, the spade trick would promote a trump trick for the defense.

South ruffed in with the ten of hearts, however, cashed the ace of diamonds and crossed over to the ace of clubs to discard his remaining club on the king of diamonds. A heart finesse was taken and when the king dropped under the ace on the next round, declarer claimed the rest of the tricks.

In the post-mortem discussion, it was observed that a club shift by East at trick four would have defeated the contract. West will put up the queen of clubs to dislodge dummy's ace before South is able to unblock the ace of diamonds, and the latter is unable to obtain a discard for his losing club.

East contended that West should have discarded the nine of clubs on the third round of spades to suggest that he had an honor in that suit, in which case the club shift would have become more clearly indicated.

West countered by pointing out that his actual discard of the deuce of diamonds revealed that he did not have the ace of that suit and, therefore, East should lead a club regardless, for unless West holds the queen the defense will be unable to win a trick in the suit.

It was observed that West could have assisted his partner by trumping the third round of spades in order to lead a club himself. This might not have worked out well, however, if South has the missing honors in clubs and East the ace of diamonds. In any case, East's course of action appears to be clearly marked out at trick four—for he can hardly lose by shifting to a club.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Wednesday. Supplies adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 39 to 40; medium, whites: 35 to 37; small, whites: 32 to 34 1/2.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets mostly steady today, instances of 25 cents lower. Tops 18.50-19.00 Rocky Mount; 18.00-18.75 Wilson, Statesville; 18.00-18.50 Hickory; 17.50-18.50 Bethel, Tarboro; 17.25-18.25 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Albertson, Newton Grove, Lumberton; 18.75 Salisbury; 18.50 at Greensboro, 18.00 Siler City, Depton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was hit hard by heavy selling today as gold fever continued in Europe, and Wall Street wondered whether U. S. monetary authorities would take stiff restraining measures after the market close. Trading was heavy.

Losses outnumbered gains by a ratio of about 11 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange as prices retreated on a broad front.

Even the gold, silver, and other mining stocks turned mixed as speculators began taking profits selectively, fearing that decisive action by the United States might dash cold water on these recent big movers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 9.82 at 832.41. The average was down 10.23 at the end of the first hour.

The Associated Press average of 80 stocks at noon was down 3.6 at 302.3, matching some of the larger declines of this year. Industrials were down 6.0, rails off 1.4 and utilities off 1.5.

Virtually all important section of the list were dragged down by selling.

Every one of the Big Three motors fell a point or more. The top four steel makers all lost fractions. Rubbers, mail-order retailers and farm implements were mainly fractional losers.

Bigger losses were taken by the higher priced glamour stocks. Xerox dropped 6, IBM and Polaroid 5, City Investing (New) 5, McDonnell Douglas 5, and Control Data about 2 1/2. Benguet was again the most active of the gold mining stocks and clung to a fractional gain.

Belhaven Youth Held Here On Rape Charges

Jerry Lee Cradle, 19-year-old Belhaven Negro, is being held in Pitt County jail on rape charges, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Cradle has been charged, Tyson said, with raping Lula Buck, 59-year-old Negro of Route 2, Ayden on March 10.

Sheriff Tyson said Cradle was taken into custody about three hours after the 3 p.m. incident took place.

According to investigators, Mrs. Buck was at the home of her nephew, Council Smith, near Calico. Cradle allegedly entered the home, forced Mrs. Buck onto a bed, and raped her.

Children around the home at the time ran to summon Smith, working in a field nearby. As Smith came to the house, Cradle allegedly ran into a nearby woods.

On Monday?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., will announce on Monday his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination, the Herald-Examiner said today.

The report from the papers' political editor in Sacramento, Phil Hanna, added that Democrat Jesse M. Unruh, speaker of the California Assembly, will head a Kennedy delegation in the state's June 4 primary election.

Unruh told a news conference Wednesday that he had urged Kennedy to become a candidate but he said nothing about heading a delegation.

Varied Topics Before Pitt GOP Leadership

The Pitt County Republican executive committee met last night to discuss plans for getting county residents registered and to talk over potential candidates for the State House of Representatives and the North Carolina State Senate.

Republican county chairman Frank Steinbeck said the committee is concerned with getting eligible voters to register for the coming elections and plans were discussed.

Steinbeck said the committee also talked of possible candidates for Pitt County's seats in the state house of representatives and of prospective candidates for the fourth senatorial district seats. Pitt is in the fourth senatorial district with Edgecombe, Warren and Halifax counties.

The committee worked on the selection of Republican judges for each precinct in the county at last night's session, too, Steinbeck reported.

Republicans are allowed one election judge at each precinct, while Democrats, the majority party in Pitt, are allowed two judges.

The judges are appointed by the party executive committee and are paid by the Pitt Board of Elections.

GRIMESLAND—Gilda Bland Dail, 35, of Route 2, Grimesland has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in the March 6 shooting of her husband, Ralph Edward Dail, 32.

The shooting allegedly occurred, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, following an argument over money. The couple was at the home of Mrs. Dail's mother, Mrs. Bertha Taylor, Route 1, Grimesland, when the shooting occurred.

Dail was hospitalized in the Beaufort County Hospital following the 6 p.m. shooting.

He was shot one time in the stomach with a .25 caliber pistol, officers noted.
