F111 'Overdue'

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the United States, controversial F111 fighters is overdue on a bombing mission in Southeast Asia and presumably lost, it was learned today.

A squadron of the 1500-mile-an-hour F111s arrived in Thailand March 17.

The supersonic, swing-wing fighters cost several million dollars each.

Sources said the F111 and its two-man crew was en route from Thailand to a bombing mission over North Vietnam Wednesday. The plane has not been heard from since.

It was understood the last radio transmission from the crew came while the plane was over Laos, which lies between Thailand and North Vietnam.

Search operations have turned up no trace of the fighter-bomber.

B52s Bomb Suspected Red Buildup

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Air Force B52 jet bombers pounded North Vietnamese supply depots and command centers in the A Shau Valley west of Hue today with hundreds of tons of high explosives in an effort to blunt new enemy buildup threatening the former imperial capital.

Thirty-five eight-engine Stratofortresses flew five separate missions against the valley 50 miles west of Hue, raining nearly 2 million pounds of bombs on the North Vietnamese positions.

The bombers, flying at more than 20,000 feet and unseen from the ground, mounted three raids Wednesday afternoon on truck parks, gun positions, bunkers and storage depots in the valley. They returned this morning for two more missions.

During the same period, the B52s flew two missions against North Vietnamese ammunition depots and troop concentrations around Khe Sanh. For the third consecutive day, Marines at Khe Sanh reported a relatively light shelling, fewer than 100 rounds. Marine casualties were reported as light.

The B52s have been averaging about five missions a day in support of Khe Sanh.

Russian trucks have been spotted regularly in recent weeks moving from the A Shau Valley toward Hue with ammunition and other war materials.

Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, commander of the northern 1st Corps, said North Vietnamese engineers have rebuilt much of old provincial Route 547 running 40 miles over mountains from the A Shau Valley to Hue.

The valley has served as a massive enemy supply depot on the Ho Chi Minh network of trails from Laos since North Vietnamese troops overran the U.S. Special Forces camp there two years ago.

Italians Arrest 3 Flag-Burners

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Three Italians who set fire to an American flag here Wednesday night were charged with insulting a foreign state.

The three, Giampiero Carpo, 23, a worker at the Fiat automobile plant, Pietro Badovini, 20, a university student, and Zoia Pozzi, 17, a school girl, soaked the flag with alcohol and set fire to it. The flag was exhibited at the Turin show of home arts.

Registering Voters On Saturday

City registrars will be at all nine county polling places Saturday to register voters for municipal elections.

The city is conducting a new registration at the same time as the county, although the city and county books will continue to be entirely separate.

The city is also adopting the loose leaf registration system. There is no city election this year, but City Manager Harry Hagerty said the city registration is being conducted at the same time as the county's "for the convenience of the voter."

Actually persons living within the city limits will register twice when they go to their polling places this year—once with the county registrar and again with the city registrar. The county registration will entitle the voter to cast ballots in primaries and in the November general elections. City registration will be valid for election of the mayor and councilmen, along with special referendums such as bond elections.

Requirements for voting are one year's residence in North Carolina and 30 days residence within the city limits.

Even though city voters will be registering at the county polling places, next year's municipal election will not utilize all of the nine precinct polls. Since the registrations will be loose leaf, they can be regrouped according to the polling places the city establishes. There will probably be two polling places for municipal elections.

City registrars will be on hand at the nine precinct polling places for each of the next four Saturdays, Mar. 30, Apr. 6, April 13 and April 20. They will also be on duty April 10 and April 19 and on other days for the larger precincts. Hagerty advised citizens to consult the schedule, for their respective precincts, which the county will follow. City registrars will be on hand whenever the county registrars are.

Only Greenville citizens in the Belvedere, Club Pines and Lynndale areas will have to make two trips to register. Since their county polling place is Winterville, citizens of these areas will have to visit Greenville polling places for municipal registration. Belvedere and Club Pines residents should go to the American Legion Home and residents of Lynndale should register for municipal elections at the main fire station.

Hagerty said the old city registration books include about 11,500 names, while some 4,000 people are actually voting in city elections. It is obvious, he said, that many persons on the old books have moved away or are deceased.

Demonstrators Meet, Prepare Strategies

Vice President Humphrey Speaks To Convention In Raleigh Today

Russia's First Cosmonaut Is Crash Victim

MOSCOW (AP)—Handsome Soviet cosmonaut Yuri A. Gagarin, who flew the world's first manned space mission in April 1961, died in a training-flight crash Wednesday.

The crash also killed Col. Vladimir S. Seryogin, commander of an air unit and a member of the space backup team. The ashes of both Gagarin and Seryogin will be placed in the most honorable spot in the Soviet Union, the Kremlin Wall facing Red Square.

The news that the 34-year-old Soviet hero was dead plainly saddened many Russians. One public during the vice president's 1:25 p.m. address. The reception was scheduled at the auditorium immediately after the speech, and Humphrey planned to return directly to the airport.

Gov. Dan Moore and other state officials planned to meet Humphrey and Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr. and B. Everett Jordan, both D-N.C., at the airport and travel to Raleigh in a motorcade.

The vice president was scheduled to speak at the closing session of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service state convention in Raleigh.

ASCS state committee chairman Marcus B. Braswell said a closed-door reception was planned to give Humphrey an opportunity to confer briefly with farm and party leaders, "mostly on agricultural matters."

About 900 persons have been attending the convention in Memorial Auditorium, and convention officials said the 3,200-seat building would be open to the public during the vice president's 1:25 p.m. address.

The reception was scheduled at the auditorium immediately after the speech, and Humphrey planned to return directly to the airport.

Leaders of the Southern Students Organizing Committee scheduled a meeting at 9:00 a.m. today in Chapel Hill to make final plans for picketing Humphrey either at the airport or Memorial Auditorium.

George Vlasits, a leader of SSOC, declined to disclose specific plans for the demonstrations.

In the speech prepared for the ASCS meeting, Humphrey said he hopes Congress will set up procedures this year to give farmers greater power in setting prices of their products.

He said farmers were the only businessmen left who are forced to sell their output at prices set by others and buy their needs at prices also set by others.

"The power of the farmer in the marketplace is fragmented and diffused," Humphrey said.

Ask Recreation Land In New Subdivisions

Planning-Zoning commissioners last night called for preparation of a proposed ordinance which would spell out requirements for providing recreation lands in new subdivisions.

The commissioners asked City Manager Harry Hagerty to have such an ordinance prepared after Recreation Director Alton Little had presented recommendations.

The ordinance would provide that subdividers deed to the city a minimum of one acre of land for each 25 acres in the subdivision or one for each 400 people expected in the development.

Little said, "The location of the land should be mutually agreed upon by the representative of the developer and the representative of the Recreation Department. The land should either be donated or sold to the city by the developers at the raw land cost."

The recreation director said the lands would be developed according to a city-wide recreation plan. While some of the areas would include ball diamonds, others would be used for "passive type recreation, more in the park line."

The proposed ordinance will come back to the Planning and Zoning Commission which can then recommend its approval to the City Council.

Commissioners recommended against a request for establishment of a private cemetery in the Shore Drive area.

Dr. Paul Fitzgerald of Raleigh requested his property be designated "not-to-be-acquired" for this purpose.

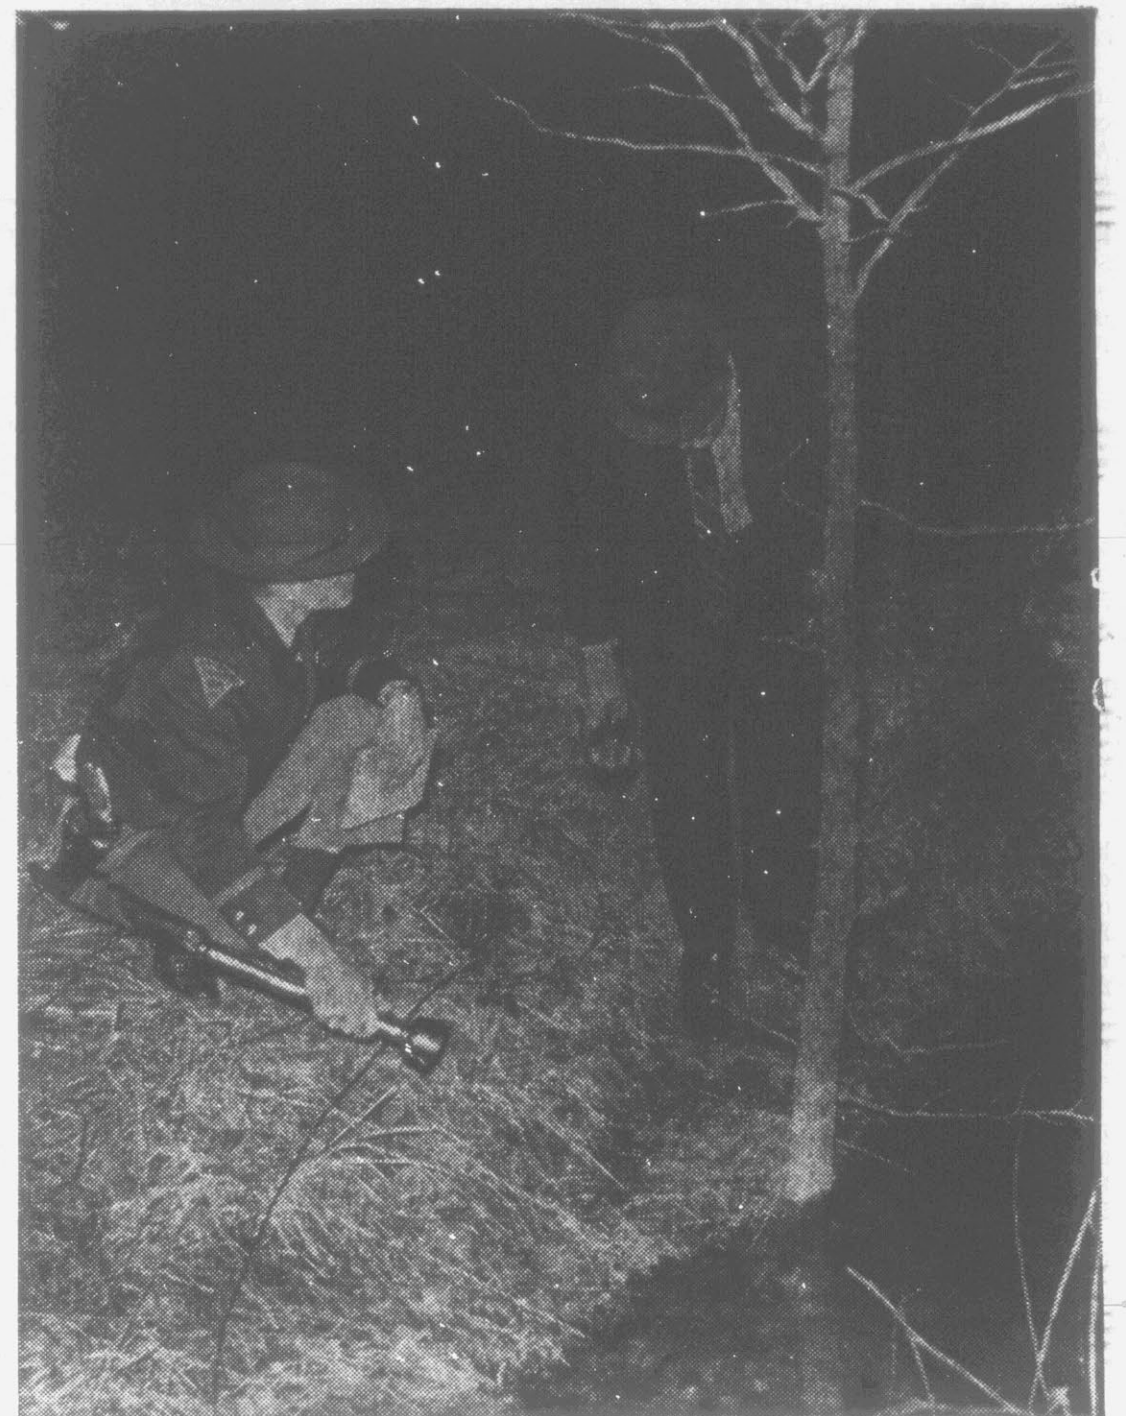

The property is located on the south bank of the Tar and west of Greene Street.

Commissioners took no action on incorporating the Synamore Hill Baptist Church in the Shore Drive project, pending further word from the church.

The commission approved erecting signs on highways one mile beyond the city limits designating the planning limits of the city of Greenville.

Commissioners recommended the annexation of the southeast corner of Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street.

Study Tracks At Edge Of Pond

11-Year-Old Drowned In Pond, Hunting Tadpoles

Rescue workers, dragging the waters of a farm pond in the pre-dawn hours of today recovered the body of an 11-year-old Negro youth who failed to return home from the Bruce-Falkland Elementary School yesterday.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey identified the boy as James Earl Hardy of Route 1, Fountain.

Harvey and Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, said investigation of the death is continuing. According to Sheriff Tyson, the Hardy youth and a second 11-year-old boy were sent from the Bruce-Falkland school by their fifth grade teacher early Wednesday afternoon to get some tadpoles for a science project.

The other youth, identified as Richard Dixon, told officers last night that he and Hardy became separated and he returned to the school with the tadpoles. Dixon said he later saw Hardy at the school, about 2:30 p.m.

Hardy was reported missing by his mother, Mrs. Mammie Hardy, about 8 p.m. when the youth had not returned to their Kings Cross Roads home.

Officers, searching the area after midnight, found Hardy's shoes on the bank of a 36 by 50 foot pond on the P.M. Moore farm less than a half-mile from the school.

Rescue workers from Farmville and Greenville were called and the child's body was pulled from the water about 2:15 a.m. Investigators said Hardy's left pant leg was rolled up and theorized the youth may have been wading in the edge of the pond and slipped into deeper water.

The children's teacher was identified as Mrs. Mamie G. Garrett of Greenville.

Wake Forest Suspends 3 For Cheating

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Wake Forest University has suspended three athletes for cheating and will consider charges against six other students next week.

Marvin Francis, the school's sports information director, today identified those suspended as:

—Joe Theriault, a sophomore from Nashua, N.H., a starting tackle on the football team.

—Bob Dunkle, sophomore from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who holds the school's record for the 200-yard butterfly swimming event and swam on two record-breaking relay teams.

—Danny Myer, a sophomore from Kettering, Ohio, a basketball forward. Myer did not play on this year's team because he was "red-shirted"—held out for another season.

The school's Honor Council recommended suspension last week after hearing charges that a group of students had a key to a room in which semester tests are mimeographed. The students were accused of taking tests on several courses.

Gen. Abrams Silent Over Future Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Creighton W. Abrams has departed Washington for Vietnam, leaving behind virtually no clues as to future U. S. troop plans—or as to his own military future.

"I look for more fighting," was the clipped response of the deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam when asked to forecast the future course of the war.

And he dismissed as tersely the speculation that he's in line to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland when the U.S. commander steps down to become Army chief of staff by July 2.

"The White House speaks for itself," said the 53-year-old Army general in referring newsmen to a White House refusal to comment on Westmoreland's successor.

His comments came in a planiside interview shortly before he flew out of Andrews Air Force Base for Vietnam. Like his two days of secrecy-cloaked talks with President Johnson and other U.S. officials in Washington, details of his return trip weren't disclosed.

Lurleen Suffers A New Setback

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gov. Lurleen Wallace has suffered another setback in her battle to recover from cancer surgery—this time because of a possible "blood clot to the lung."

Mrs. Wallace's acting news secretary, Ed Ewing, reported Wednesday that the 41-year-old governor's doctors had described the latest difficulty as a possible pulmonary embolus (blood clot). He said it is being treated with increased dosages of anticoagulant drugs.

Inspector-Rejected Foods, Other Products Find Way To U.S. Consumer

By DICK BARNES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—After

government school lunch inspectors rejected 30,000 pounds of frozen turkey because it had thawed, the turkey was refrozen, thawed again to permit new labeling, refrozen once more and sold to supermarkets in New York City.

That incident was one among many turned up by a special House Government Operations subcommittee in an investigation to determine how often sub-standard goods turned back by government purchasing agents are peddled to unsuspecting consumers as quality merchandise.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., will open public hearings on its findings within a month.

A member of the subcommittee staff said the investigation began after one of Rosenthal's constituents complained about the unusual bitterness of some coffee she had bought at a grocery in Queens.

The subcommittee spokesman said the coffee had been recalled from commissaries after authorities learned it was five years old. The government couldn't return the shipment to the processor; he had gone bankrupt. So it sold the coffee to commercial suppliers, who resold it to retailers without changing the military label.

The subcommittee spokesman refused to identify any of the individuals involved in the investigation, but said they would be summoned to testify.

Among cases to be examined at the hearings are two others involving frozen foodstuffs. The spokesman gave these details:

—The Defense Department rejected 18,563 frozen dinners because their bacteria count was too high. A federal inspector said he wouldn't put the food in his freezer, much less eat it. But the processor salvaged some of his investment. He sold the dinners, at a discount, to his own employees.

—Another 30,000 pounds of frozen turkey, purchased by the Department of Agriculture, had thawed by the time it reached its destination. The department promptly shipped it back to the packer, who just as promptly refroze the meat and sold it again—half to the Defense Department and half to the North Carolina prison system.

An expert at the Agriculture Department said meat which is thawed and then refrozen can be dangerous. Bacteria begins forming as soon as the meat thaws and will survive refreezing, he said.

Subcommittee investigators also uncovered cases involving products other than food, the spokesman said.

The Defense Supply Agency rejected one lot of 450 pairs of trousers because of faulty stitching, tears and machine damage. The trousers later turned up in a Southern California surplus store, still labeled to indicate they met government standards.

"This isn't a hazard," the staff member said. "But it can be an economic loss for a consumer who assumes from the label that these things meet government standards and then has them fall apart."

Brig. Gen. Robert E. Lee, Defense Supply's executive director for procurement and production, said the "fact that something is rejected doesn't mean it isn't any good."

"Our specifications are sometimes much stiffer than commercial ones because of our problems," he said. For example, he said, the pockets of a military work uniform must have straight stitching that wouldn't be required for a civilian work shirt.

Lee emphasized a product "doesn't belong to us until we accept it"—meaning, he said, his agency can't control what the processor or manufacturer does with rejects.

He said he had no estimate of what proportion of defense supply purchases are rejected.

Heinz A. Abersfeller, commissioner of the Federal Supply Service, said that in the last half of 1967, his agency rejected 2.8 per cent of the goods it ordered, but kept no record of how rejected material is disposed of by suppliers.

Hair Stylist Welcomed By Women In Vietnam

By JURATE KAZICKAS

SAIGON (AP) — Military officials organizing tours for entertainers were skeptical. A hairdresser coming to South Vietnam?

But Daniel Wadiaeff wanted to come from New York and do creative hairstyling for the American women in the armed forces stationed here.

Considered one of the top 10 hairdressers in the United States, he lists the former Lynda Bird Johnson, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein II, and Eileen Ford among his clients.

If the military in Vietnam were dubious, his friends in New York found the idea even more strange, he said.

Wadiaeff's reception was enthusiastic. He arrived March 18 and spent a week traveling to bases around Saigon and Cam Ranh Bay, escorted by Maj. John P. Miller, Bonita, Calif.

More than 350 women suddenly became glamorous as Wadiaeff snipped, shaped and styled. He worked in trailers, barracks, lounges and in the open under parachute canopies. "Everybody received me beautifully. I met such marvelous people here. Ironically, I'm only a private first class in the Reserves, but in Vietnam I ranked as a colonel," he remarked.

Wadiaeff, a bachelor, is fond of sports and holds a brown belt in karate.

He saw a little action in Vietnam when Long Binh was shelled lightly and when some shooting broke out near Cam Ranh Bay.

The girls who met the stylist were delighted.

"The men here get singers, dancers and all kinds of entertainers. This is the first time someone came over specifically for the women," said Sgt. Rita Pitcock, Miami, Fla. "Many of the guys commented quite favorably on our new appearance."

Wadiaeff financed the entire trip himself. He was sponsored by the State Department, and the Saigon USO arranged his itinerary. He says he wants to come back this year with some assistants and possibly a fashion show.

Party Fare: Shrimp Potpourri

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

AP Food Editor

Good friends often tell us when they taste something new or different that strikes their fancy. This shrimp potpourri sounded so interesting that we immediately borrowed the recipe.

Although the original potpourri was served with food picks, so party guests could help themselves to the goodies, we served it as the first course of a meal. This way we used bread-and-butter plates and cocktail forks and offered it in the living room with a before-dinner drink. To accompany the potpourri we sliced crusty rolls, then buttered and heated them.

Either way the potpourri works well. If you use food picks, however, drain off part of the marinade just before serving and have plenty of small paper napkins handy for dribbles.

PARTY SHRIMP POTPOURRI

2 cans (each 9 ounces drained weight) artichoke hearts, drained
2 lemons
3 pounds fresh or frozen shrimp or 1 bag (1½ pounds) frozen shelled and deveined shrimp
3 large green peppers
2 cans (each 6 ounces) broiled mushroom crowns, drained
1½ cups salad oil
6 tablespoons white wine vinegar
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ teaspoons salt
Generous amount of freshly ground pepper
Gently squeeze each artichoke heart and place it upside down on a platter; if the hearts are large, cut in half lengthwise. Sprinkle with the juice of one lemon and let stand at least an hour.

If necessary, shell and devein the shrimp. Place shrimp in boiling salted water to cover. Simmer two to three minutes or until shrimp are just firm and opaque. Drain and toss with the juice of the remaining lemon; cover and refrigerate.

Wash and dry peppers. Place in a broiler pan (foil-line if you like) and broil about three inches from high heat for about 10 minutes, turning several times until skin is blackened. Watch carefully to prevent burning. Remove and let stand until cool enough to handle. Peel off skin; cut off stem ends; cut in half and remove seeds. Cut into large squares.

Drain lemon juice from artichoke hearts and shrimp. Place them in a large container with the green pepper squares and drained mushrooms.

Luncheon Honors Mrs. Orrantia

Mrs. Orrantia was presented a camellia corsage.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of colored spring flowers centered with a white mum on a Bible with streamers of white satin.

Mrs. Gordon Whitehurst of Greenville was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Moye of Winterville and Miss Caroline Paramore of Greenville.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of mint green brocade designed with bell-shaped skirts and plain bodices. The waistline was accented with a bow. They wore matching veils and carried cascade bouquets of spring flowers tied with streamers of matching satin.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Howard Paramore, Thomas Moye and Bruce Gray.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Paramore chose a lavender brocade dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a pink linen suit with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of tinted mums.

Mrs. Alma Paramore, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Sadie Williams, grandmother of the bridegroom, wore corsages of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to Asheville, the bride changed into a three-piece orange suit with matching accessories. She wore the mum corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Winterville High School. The bride is employed at Roses and the bridegroom is employed at DuPont.

After-Rehearsal Party
Following the rehearsal, the Smith-Paramore wedding party was honored at an after-rehearsal party held in the fellowship hall of Reedy Branch Church.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Hostesses were Mrs. Thomas Moye and Mrs. S. A. Paramore Jr., aunts of the bride.

Express Thanks, Tell Her That Your Parents Are Responsible

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I plan to announce my engagement soon, and my problem is this: My fiancée's mother wants us to have a big wedding, and I don't want a big wedding.

My fiancée's family is quite wealthy, and his mother says they will pay for everything. Abby, I don't want to accept this kind of a gift from my future in-laws. Besides, aren't the bride's parents supposed to put on the wedding? Mine can afford only a simple little family affair, which is all I really want.

My fiancée's mother already has a "temporary guest list" of 300. She says she "owes" so many people, and there are other friends who will not invite HER to their children's weddings if she doesn't invite THEM to hers. She's already picked out the bridesmaids' dresses. How about that?

Another thing. She told me she wanted me to have a baby right away because all her friends have grandchildren and she is way behind. Abby, I intend to teach school while my husband finishes law school, and we don't plan to have a baby "right away."

What am I going to do? My fiancée is in the middle of all this. He doesn't want to hurt his mother, but he doesn't want me to be unhappy either. How can I stand up for my rights without having his mother hate me?

DISTRESSED

DEAR DISTRESSED: It may not be possible, but you'll have to take that chance if you want to be a free agent. I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that your parents will put on the wedding, and thanks a lot.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago I gave birth to a baby boy. I was young and not married and could not care for him properly, so I gave him up for adoption and have not seen him since birth.

My problem is this: I am now married to the father of that child, which he totally rejected, and now we have a baby girl who is 6 months old.

What would happen, if in later life our daughter should meet the boy (our son) and fall in love with him? They will actually be brother and sister. This probably sounds ridiculous.

lous, but it COULD happen. I can't discuss this with my husband because he refuses to talk about it.

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I don't have the statistics handy, but I would guess that your chances of ever having to face this problem are too small to worry about. There is no "law" that says that it couldn't happen, but the law of averages is certainly on your side.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to you with some tips on how to be a good housekeeper. She said, "The secret is to finish one job before you start in on another."

Sounds easy, but I would like to know what she would advise me to do:

I have eight rooms, eight kids and a mountain of ironing. Should I finish the ironing, or raise the kids first?

MRS. J. B.

DEAR MRS. J. B.: Raise the kids, of course. But while you're raising them, teach 'em to iron.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOEY: Don't let it bother you. No one who KNOWS you would ever accuse you of going Hollywood. Behind every successful man are at least 5,000 people who went to school with him.

Everybody has a problem.

Facing Up To A Long-Needed Task

It is not an easy task that is faced by the special commission named by Gov. Moore to decide whether the state's century old constitution should be revised.

The very fact that the state has been able to live and operate for a century under the instrument without major overhaul is in itself a tribute to the soundness and durability of the constitution. At the same time, it must be recognized that the constitution has been amended often in order to permit the state to keep abreast with modern necessary functions of a state government.

It is a sound move for the state to have a commission of 25 of its outstanding citizens to carefully consider whether the constitution should be modernized. In the process of making such a decision, the commission will likewise have to consider how the constitution should be revised and where before making its recommendations.

The fact that a gift of $25,000 from one of the state's major foundations will finance the study suggests the commission will not hastily jump to conclusions. Even without such financing, a look at the membership of the blue-ribbon group named by the governor is sufficient to assure careful deliberation by the commission before its conclusions are reached and its recommendation made.

By undertaking the study the state is facing up to a task that has long needed attention. It is one which may be several years to complete, but the end result will be well worth whatever effort and money goes into it.

Rising Cost Of Living Now A Familiar Story

It hardly took the Labor Department's report for February to remind the average family of further cost of living increases.

The department said living costs rose three-tenths of one per cent in February. This continues for the fifth straight month an uptrend at an annual rate of 4 per cent.

There was more gloomy news for those who pay the family bills. Wholesale prices rose seven-tenths of one percent, including a 1.5 percent rise in food costs. This, we didn't have to be told, will probably be reflected later in grocery prices.

All this, of course, is a familiar story as inflation continues to eat away at the purchasing power of the dollar. It is a trend which somehow must be halted, or at least slowed down. Otherwise the value of the dollar will become meaningless to the average consumer.

Nixon To Play Platform Role

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Unless something untoward happens to him on the way to the nomination at the August convention, Richard M. Nixon is likely to become editor-in-chief of the Republican platform.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen will be in charge of drafting the platform planks. Dirksen is a reasonable man in such matters, wise in the ways of nominating conventions.

No one has to tell the Illinois senator that if Nixon looks like a certain winner before the convention opens, what the former vice president wants in the platform is what will wind up in that document.

The Republican governors created a months-long uproar in an effort to force GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss to name Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania as a choice chairman with Dirksen of the platform committee.

Then the compromise planning and cutting will begin. This is the point at which

Our Future Bright

Twenty-five or more new residences now under construction in Greenville, work on the new plush mill to get under way at an early date, two new warehouses to be built and probably another that was idle last season to be played in operation, new additions being built to Teachers College, a new high school building being erected, new residential subdivisions being developed, and real estate active here than at any time for a number of years, points to great things for this city and causes us to view the future with great optimism.

In addition to these present activities there are rumors of other industries and businesses that will no doubt ma-

Junior Order To Parade
In City Thursday Night

The local council of the Junior Order is staging a parade here on Thursday night at 8 o'clock, according to announcement made today by Rev. Thomas E. Beaman, manager of the membership campaign now in progress.... For the first time in the history of the council the goat that every must ride will be exhibited to the public." This is no fake or joke," Mr. Beaman stated. "It's a real sure-enough live goat.... The parade will begin in front of the Proctor Hotel promptly at 3 o'clock. The degree team will wear the regular regalia used in initiatory work, and the goat will lead the parade.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
AN UNFORGETTABLE CHARACTER

One of the most colorful figures in the entire Bible is Joseph, the eleventh of Jacob's twelve sons and the elder son of Jacob's beloved wife, Rachel. Joseph was hated by his brethren, sold into slavery in Egypt, but rose to become the king's first counselor. Joseph had one of the greatest business minds of all time. He could put on a business suit if he were living today, hire an office on Wall Street and be running the place within a month.

The name Joseph means in Hebrew, "may God add." We can say, therefore, that Joseph's name was really "addition," and he was well-named. Early inducted into slavery, he became a ruler among rulers. He was a forgiving person who brushed aside all the evil his brethren had perpetrated against him and received them as brethren indeed. The adjectives that best describe the character and career of Joseph are able, energetic, perceptive, forgiving, attractive.

Many characters in the Bible are distinctly ancient, different almost entirely from modern men. Joseph was lived in any age and been a great man. Change his clothes, give him language communication with his associates, lay a plan before him—and a great project has started, whether all this occurred two thousand years BC or two thousand years AD.

Joseph lived to be over one hundred years of age, and when some centuries later the Hebrews marched out of Egypt, the procession was headed by men carrying his remains, which were ultimately buried near the very center of The Promised Land.

"Bobby Who? Gene Who? Nope! Can't Say's I've Seen or Heard Any Support for Those Young Upstarts"

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Bottle-Banking Wizard

Roughly 35,000 members of the Glass Bottle Blowers Association of America, AFL-CIO, went on strike February 1, in 86 plants east of the Rockies. They were joined on March 1 by another 10,000 workers in Western plants. As one consequence, a monumental bottle shortage developed within the soft drink industry, and thereby hangs the fantasy that follows.

The most stable unit of currency in the world, as every economist knows, is not the dollar, the Swiss franc, or the Dutch guilder. It is the Coke bottle. For nearly fifty years, through wars, depressions, changing administrations and political upheaval, it has held steady at a two-cent exchange rate. In the great money markets of the world, it was not even quoted. You can get some fluctuation on marks, lire, yen, bolivars, but for "CBs," as the unit was identified in Dow-Jones reports, it was invariably two cents asked, two cents bid.

When the glassblowers went out, and local bottling companies raised a plaintive appeal for the return of languishing empires, an astounding situation began to unfold. Young George Gresham, the financial wizard of Pitt Street, had developed a position on CBs that threatened for a time to rock the money centers of the world.

George you should know. He is 14, skinny, and chocolate brown. He lives in the housing project across the street. His mother does cleaning, but she can't come Thursday because she goes to the doctor. George is a big thinker; he is also a hard worker. He made his first fortune with a snow shovel at six.

Anyhow, as the story is now being pieced together, George began operations some months ago, prior to devaluation of the pound, when his shrewd instincts told him that an interesting demand for CBs was likely to arise. People in our town, overcome by affluence, weren't really much interested in returning their soft drink bottles. It was a lot of trouble; you had to wait in line at the express register; meanwhile bottles were piling up by the icebox. And here came George with his wagon, pulled by his little sister, saying "give ya half-cent each, take 'em off your hands, get rid 'em."

He was way below the official exchange, of course, but the speculators' free market is governed by its own rules. He began to accumulate a fantastic reserve. Now and then, when circumstance forced him to convert, he sold off a few cases here and there, but local bankers were indifferent and sometimes hostile. The corner grocer imposed onerous trading regulations: "We don't take no returns 'less you buy more drinks." Sometimes it was "go way, George, ya bother me." Little did these bankers know!

The glassblowers truck, and George struck, too. He was helped in his operations by the steady encroachment in re-

Other Editors Saying Polish Specter

(Christian Science Monitor)

We are surprised at the reports that the Polish Communist Party had turned to anti-Semitism for political reasons. Our surprise is not due to any assumption that communism had morally outgrown such discredited tactics. Nor is it due to a belief that Poland had rid itself of long-standing anti-Semitic attitudes.

Rather, we are surprised because the revival of official anti-Semitism (even in its present limited form) is such a glaring admission of failure on Warsaw's part. To blame a not very well-defined Jewish plot for the present unrest among Polish intellectuals is to reveal a mental bankruptcy which few, however anti-Communist, had expected.

Bluntly put, the best that the present Polish Government can do to explain intellectual unrest is to resurrect tactics which were main standbys of those former regimes which Eastern European Communists profess to disdain so heartily.

Whenever popular anger against one of the old regimes arose, efforts (often successful) were made to deflect that anger against the Jews. Such official anti-Semitism was particularly strong in Poland, Russia, and Romania.

In taking this step, Polish communism ran a severe risk. Not only has it taken a deliberate step into the past, but it has given official sanction to one of the strongest attitudes and prejudices of the past. And, people may well ask, if communism sanctions this particular heritage of history, why should we not return to other modes of the pre-Communist past? Once the bottle of the past is unstopped to permit the escape to anti-Semitism, who can say what other memories may not also fly forth to bedevil the present government?

Apparently seeing this danger, Warsaw is now seeking to downplay its anti-Semitism. But Warsaw cannot easily undo the damage already done its reputation in thinking men's minds.

No Return To The Gold Standard

By ELMER ROESSNER

The symbol of the British penny is "d." Thus 6 d. is six pence.

A return to the gold standard, as President de Gaulle of France is demanding of the Western nations, would have many advantages. While prices would fluctuate, there would not be the constant, rapid escalation we have today. Labor would still demand increases, but the increases would be moderate because an increase of a few cents would buy more goods and services, whereas today a few months after a pay rise a man's wages may buy less than it did before.

On the gold standard, a $10,000 insurance policy purchased today would give the widow $10,000 worth of buying power when she collects in 1988. Pensions would not be constantly sliding to the poverty level, as they do today.

Fuzzy Thinking In High Places

The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank recently stated that gold does not guarantee against inflation or deflation. Of course not. But then it said, "The most severely prolonged peacetime inflation in U. S. economic history occurred between 1897 and 1914. Prices rose 40 to 50 per cent."

The consumer price index has risen more than 40 per cent since 1946. Of course, the Chi Fed may argue that that period was not peaceful; that we have had a Korean and a Vietnam war. But there was some shooting back in 1898. The Chi Fed doesn't remember the Maine.

But there'll be no return to the gold standard.

For centuries, monarchs and politicians have maintained power by clipping the coins of their realms, or by using other methods of inflating their currencies.

Air Of Guilt Prevails

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments of a pavement Plato:

I am tired of the hangdog American.

The hangdog American is a guy who lives in the greatest country on earth and feels he has to apologize for his own existence.

There is no longer much danger of the average American bragging himself to death. He is more likely to wither on the vine from unnecessary guilt.

It is hard today to name a thing that doesn't afflict the typical American with a sense of being in the wrong.

If he is over 40, he feels guilty because he isn't younger.

If he has children and can't give them everything they ask for, he feels he is letting them down. If they turn out badly, he is sure it must be his fault, not theirs.

He feels guilty if his wife has to wear a cloth coat instead of a fur one, or if the refrigerator in her kitchen is more than 10 years old.

If the opera bores him, he feels he is a musically illiterate boob, because everyone is supposed to be cultured today and enjoy opera, whether he likes it or not.

If he is 10 pounds overweight, he feels guilty because he reads that half the people in the world go hungry overnight.

If he goes to war—and he does—he feels guilty because his enemies fight back and his unfaithful allies don't rush to his support.

If he gives away billions to other lands—and he does—he feels guilty because his beneficiaries do not stun his ears with their applause.

This cringing posture of the hangdog American is something relatively new to our national life. Never before did we insist or require that the rest of mankind love us; why should we now? Never before have we looked down upon ourselves, our conduct, or our motives; why should we now?

Uncle Sam should never let himself become another Uriah Heep, burdened with a pretentious humility, nor should the average American ever let himself degenerate into meretricious masochism.

The hangdog American is getting the bad habit of sticking out his chin and then hitting it with his own fist. He is getting the bad habit of looking at himself in the mirror and breaking into self-pitying tears because the face he sees there isn't that of a universally accepted god.

The hangdog American is in danger of losing the fierce independence and self-pride of his pioneering ancestors. He is not only capitulating to his carping critics—he is becoming his own worst critic by doubting or distrusting his own obvious virtues: courage, ingenuity, loyalty, generosity, idealism.

That is the worst thing that can happen to any man—to lose faith in himself. And that is what is happening to the hangdog American.

And by inflating currencies, their governments can afford more soldiers and can pass out more largesse to supporters and voters.

Franklin D. Roosevelt deliberately inflated the American currency and spent money by the billions. He ameliorated but didn't cure the depression (but World War II did). But in the process he became the first man to be elected President four times.

He didn't actually buy votes. Neither is Lyndon B. Johnson buying votes by bringing about the spending of billions for the poor, the sick, the improvident and sometimes the lazy. But pouring those billions out is producing the same result.

The process of inflating the currency to maintain power has been going on for centuries.

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A large turnover, perhaps the greatest in recent years — including the wave of state political upsets in November, 1966 — will occur in the ranks of the 1969 General Assembly.

This became certain at the deadline for filing by legislative candidates last weekend and before the casting of a single vote in either the primaries in May or the general elections next Fall.

Until then, of course, no one can determine the real extent of change and new faces in the lawmaking body in Raleigh a year from now. But

WILLIAM SHIRES

It is known that nearly a dozen who served in 1967 won't be returning to the 50-member Senate and at least that many, probably more, will be missing from the 120-member House.

Aren't Running

For various and varied reasons, a score of state legislators chose not to seek re-election this year. Many of these are veterans of several terms — men such as Sens. Thomas J. White of Lenoir, Sam L. Whitehurst of Craven, Ashley B. Futrell of Beaufort, Robert B. Morgan of Harnett, Ed Kemp and L. P. McLendon Jr. of Guilford, Voit Gilmore of Moore, Adrian Shuford of Catawba, Frank Griffin of Monroe — and 1967's colorful freshman, Jesse Austin Jr., of Johnston.

From the House ranks, such men as Reps. Sneed High of Cumberland, Gordon Greenwood of Buncombe, Joseph Horton of Greene, James G. Exum of Guilford, Thomas D. (Buck) Bunk of Wake, Mack Isaac of Avery, Nelson W. Taylor of Carteret, Don H. Garren of Henderson and others — including 1967 House Speaker David M. Britt — will be on the legislative sidelines.

Of course some turnover is normal and occurs from session to session every two years. But observers are puzzled now by the sheer numbers of those lawmakers who will sit out the 1968 session, or have gained and or seek some other public office.

Those now holding or running for other office include Sens. Whitehurst, Morgan and Gilmore and Reps. High, Greenwood, Ervin and Exum, Garren and Britt. It is felt that political uncertainties and pressures, demands of private business and family and other factors influenced the decisions of those who have chosen not to return to Raleigh.

In addition to the many decisions against running for the legislature this time, quite a few incumbents who have filed — both Democrats and Republicans — face formidable opposition either in May or next November. It is safe to say that others will fall by the wayside before the gavel bang down in the Legislative Building next January.

Newspapermen Out

Two newspaper editors — legislators with two or more terms of experience won't run this year — Sen. Ashley Futrell of Beaufort and Gordon Greenwood of Buncombe.

Clarification

Clarification appears in order concerning a recent column reporting progress in completing long needed highway projects in Haywood and Guilford counties. The counties, by coincidence, happen to be the home counties of Gov. Dan K. Moore and Highway chairman Joseph M. Hunt Jr.

To avoid misunderstanding, it must be pointed out that almost all of the projects which have been completed or are nearing completion in Haywood and Guilford have been on the fraying boards and in planning stages for a number of years, preceding Moore's election at governor and Hunt's appointment.

Both the governor and highway chairman have attempted strongly to avoid impression of favoritism during their administration which has undertaken a recordbreaking state highway building program.

Massachusetts and New York, will step in his pocket, will step in.

Nixon has said he will confer with all of the 26 GOP governors, among others, about what they think ought to be in the platform. Unless he encounters unexpected opposition from some candidate who has yet to surface, he will have great latitude in editing the final draft.

While Nixon has supported use of whatever military force is necessary in Vietnam, he will want an alternative to President Johnson's war course that will give him the opportunity to promise peace if elected.

He will have had part of a hot summer to come up with some suggestions on how to curb and cure the rioting in the slums.

Those who now profess that Nixon is too conservative for their tastes may be pleasantly surprised by the results. They have forgotten that in 1950 he was an "Eisenhower" Republican, a label that then meant progressive.

cent years of the one-way, or non-returnable bottle, which now accounts for 11 per cent of soft drink sales. These worthless artifacts, as young Gresham observed, had tended to drive the proud two-cent returnables into the hands of hoarders. There is some law to that effect. In any event, he now found himself in the catbird seat.

In the super-markets of King Street, the CB edged to 2.26, then to 2.34. George's agents had blanketed the waterfront and scoured the picnic grounds. Trading went to 2.7, then broke past the three-cent barrier. Two of the largest groceries, in the midst of wild confusion, ceased buying on a Friday afternoon. In the laundry room of the housing project, down in the basement, chaos reigned. At the peak, it was 3.8 asked and 3.62 bid. George was selling short; he was selling long; he was selling sideways. He had drawing rights; he had puts and takes. The 50-cent ingot went to $46.80, plus deposit on the case. A gaunt figure was observed pacing the Pitt Street sidewalk: It was William McChesney Martin.

As everyone now is aware, directors of the six largest super-markets in the East met privately in Washington. The grim intelligence before them was that George had cornered every Hires bottle in nine counties and half the empty Pepsis from Washington to Richmond. They took counsel with the soft-drink manufacturers. In the end, the two-cent rate was restored in the official market and prices began to collapse in the basement. Besides, George's mother wanted to get at the laundry. The great Coke crisis was at an end.

No one who knows George Gresham thinks the two-cent rate can be held indefinitely. George isn't talking. But he stopped by the window a little while ago. "Got any ol' mag'zines?" he asked. "Take 'em off ya hands for nuthin'." Does he know something the rest of us don't know?

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — The Rabbinical Assembly, an international group of rabbis of the conservative branch of Judaism, has suspended its system that required newly ordained rabbis to become military chaplains.

The assembly's annual convention voted to substitute a voluntary system.

"Growing unrest . . . with the war in Vietnam" was cited as a factor in the change.

The assembly called for theological seminaries and rabbinical groups to cooperate in establishing a voluntary system to increase the number of Jewish chaplains in the armed forces.

Jealous Suitor Blows In Door

BOSTON (AP) — When Ronald F. Whittet's girl friend wouldn't let him into her Back Bay apartment, police said the jealous suitor placed an artillery simulator against the door. The device reproduces the whining sound of an incoming shell and then explodes.

Inside the apartment at the time with Whittet's girl friend was another girl and an Army officer who shouted, "Everybody hit the floor," when he heard the simulator's whine.

Everybody did and then the door blew in.

Whittet was ordered held in $1,500 bail for grand jury action after pleading innocent Wednesday to possession of an "infernal machine" and causing damage to a building.

Easy To Find A Marijuana-Seller

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The University of New Mexico student newspaper said its staffers were able to purchase marijuana in its office, in a women's dormitory lobby and in the student union during a five-month investigation of drug use on the Albuquerque campus.

The newspaper, "New Mexico Lobo," reported Wednesday that $50 bought enough marijuana on campus for almost 100 cigarettes, as well as capsules of the drugs LSD, methedrine and benzedrine.

The newspaper said the investigation showed that between 5 and 10 per cent of the 13,830 students on the Albuquerque campus are involved in use or sale of drugs.

Over two million books were damaged in Florence, Italy, during the flood in November 19.

The bidding:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2NT Pass
6NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣.
When North heard South respond with two no trump to the opening one heart bid, he knew the partnership had the assets for a slam. South has announced at least 13 high card points and North has 20 which assures a minimum of 33. He, therefore, proceeded without further ado to six no trump.

West opened the jack of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. With an even division in hearts, South has 12 tricks — three spades, five hearts, one diamond, and three clubs. However, when the ace and king of hearts were cashed and West showed out, declarer's total of winners were reduced to 10.

Inasmuch as East was marked with a double stopper in hearts, South switched his attention to diamonds. He led the four of diamonds and finessed the queen from his hand. When West won the trick with the king, South's defeat became assured.

Declarer won the club return in his hand and led a small diamond out to the ten. East was in with the jack and exited with a spade. Declarer played the ace and cashed the ace of diamonds. When the suit split evenly, he was able to claim the balance for a one trick setback.

Declarer's conviction that the success of his contract hinged entirely on a successful diamond finesse plus a three-three division in the suit was not quite accurate. The presence of the ten in dummy and the eight in his hand, offered him an additional chance that could be attempted without risk.

It is suggested that South lead the ten of diamonds at trick four with the intention of passing that card into the West hand if it is not covered. Inasmuch as one trick in the suit must be surrendered regardless of the distribution, the finesse of the queen can be conveniently deferred for one round.

When the ten of diamonds is led, East is obliged to play the jack to protect his partner's holding in the suit. South covers with the queen and West is in with the king. When diamonds are led the next time, East follows with the five and declarer plays the eight which holds the trick. The ace now picks up the remaining diamonds and South has his 12 tricks.

If the East-West diamond holdings were reversed, declarer would still succeed. The ten of diamonds would lose to the jack, but on the following lead South can successfully finesse the queen and then pick up the king with the ace.

Studying Early Fluoride 'Shots'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — High pressure air gun injections of fluoride into the gums during childhood may help prevent serious dental problems throughout life, a study indicates. Research by Dr. Frederic Goodman at the University of California at Los Angeles shows teeth take up fluoride more effectively before they emerge from the gums than afterwards. The studies indicate that the best time to inject fluorides is between the ages of 5 and 13, when most permanent teeth appear.

Telephone Co. Wins Tax Case

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Court of Appeals says Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Tarboro does not have to pay $250,000 which the North Carolina Revenue Department has been trying to collect as back taxes.

The court, in an opinion written by Judge David Britt and handed down Wednesday, said the money which the state has tried to collect as franchise taxes since 1963 was income received in interstate commerce and not subject to state taxation. CT&T received the funds from its interstate private line service which was arranged through other telephone companies with lines in other states. The state Revenue Department contended the arrangement was actually a rental agreement between telephone companies and not interstate commerce on the part of CT&T. Judge Britt said the service was "interstate from its origin to its termination" and thus not subject to the franchise tax.

Extra Hours Of Service To Help Meet A Deadline

The social security office in that is 10 percent higher for Greenville will remain open to the public until 9 p.m. on Monday, April 1, Jack Tatem, district manager, said today. The extra hours of service are to give people 65 or older a last-minute opportunity to sign up for the voluntary doctor bill insurance under medicare. The open enrollment period for older people who missed their first chance to enroll ends April 1.

Tatem pointed out that people who have passed 65 years of age and who do not register for supplementary medical insurance by April 1 will have to wait another year. They will also have to pay a premium

The current premium rate is $4 per month, one-half the cost of the protection. The other half is paid for out of general Government funds. Those now enrolling a year or more late will pay $4.40 per month.

He also reminded people already enrolled for supplementary medical insurance that April 1 is the last day they can claim payment under medicare for services received during July, August, and September, 1966.

Two Years Of Waiting For Their Abducted Son

By FRANK MURRAY
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In the two years since Danny Goldman was kidnaped, tipsters have sent his parents and the FBI scuttling down blind alleys from Jerusalem to the Oregon logging country, but the Gold-mans believe Danny still is alive. Aaron Goldman said $40,000 waits for the persons who return his son alive. If their son is dead, the parents will pay a reward to the one who produces evidence of his death.

The Goldmans say they are bitter with crank callers and they no longer constantly sit by the telephone as Mrs. Goldman did for 18 months.

The Goldmans were tied hand, foot and throat and their mouths gagged with tape at 5 a.m. Monday, March 28, 1966, by a stocky man.

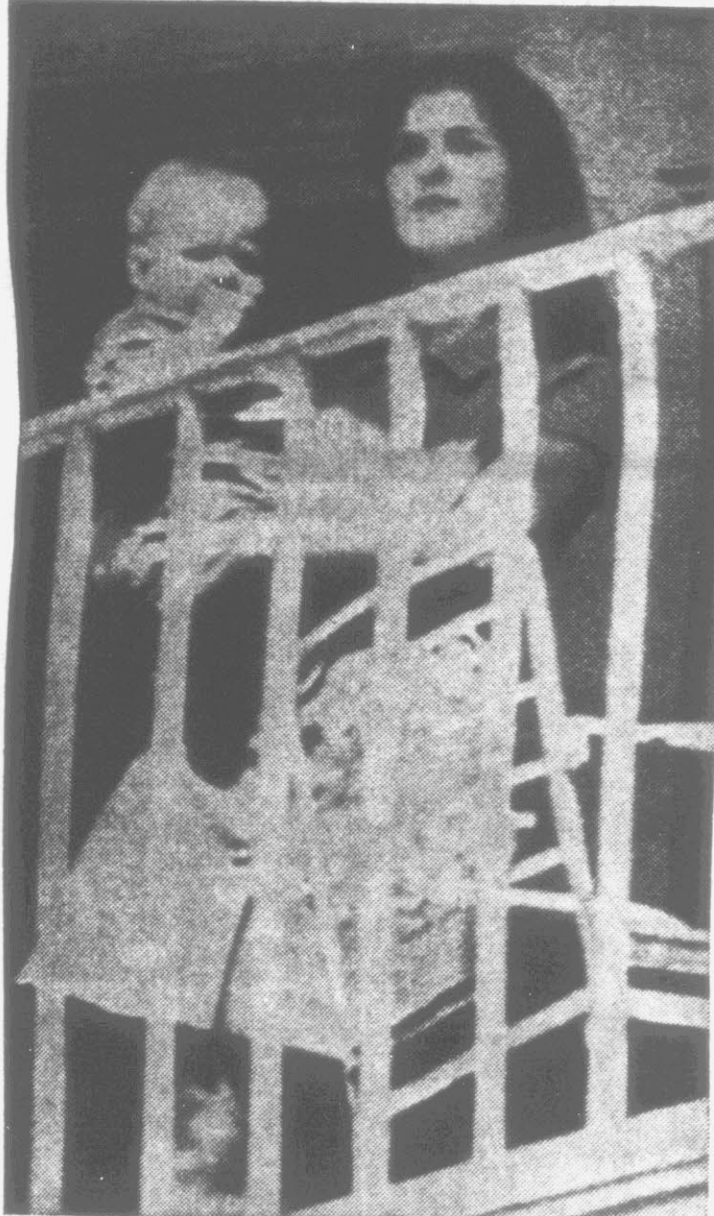

"You don't remember me now but you cheated me. I'm here to get even," Goldman said the man told them after waking them in the bedroom of their waterfront home and tying the family. The man scorned the $50 in Goldman's wallet and $100 in Sally Goldman's purse, and demanded $10,000.

"I don't keep that kind of money in the house," Goldman said.

The man freed Danny, who was to celebrate his 18th birthday the next day, and ordered him to dress. "I'm going to hold Danny as security for the money. You get up $25,000. If you don't get it for tonight the price will be double tomorrow. I'll call... with instructions."

The man then marched Danny off at gunpoint.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation does not believe the kidnaper ever made contact again. Agents still visit the Goldmans about once a week.

"It's like living in a nightmare," Mrs. Goldman said during a recent interview in the room where the kidnaping took place. "I relive the episode every day. Unless I hear otherwise, I will always believe my son still is alive. Bible stories say that when a parent loses his death in death, the parent forgets what the child looked like after a while. I have never forgotten."

If Danny still is alive, wouldn't his two-year absence mean he didn't want to return? In the FBI's three other major unsolved kidnappings, the bodies of the victims were found.

"No!" Mrs. Goldman said.

mare," Mrs. Goldman said during a recent interview in the room where the kidnaping took place. "I relive the episode every day. Unless I hear otherwise, I will always believe my son still is alive. Bible stories say that when a parent loses his death in death, the parent forgets what the child looked like after a while. I have never forgotten."

The front bedroom in the Goldman home — Danny's room — is unchanged since Danny was hustled away in his own car, an auto now recovered and parked outside.

The bedroom is stacked with television sets in various states of repair, radios, dozens of batteries rusting and corroding, two phylacteries that are the implements of daily prayer for a Jew, other souvenirs of boyhood including a sailboat and school books.

Letters come from all over, Pakistan, Italy, Canada, South America and every nook of the United States. Some means well, others seem sick.

"I had always presumed there were a few kooks in the world," Goldman said, "but there are so many kooks you wonder. On the other hand, it is gratifying to know there are so many good people who have wished us well and tried to help."

Mrs. Goldman nodded and said, "I don't even know if I'd know how to live a normal life again. I'm suspicious of everyone, afraid, a feeling of suspense all the time."

A woman in Miami said she saw Danny in a picture from the Walling Wall in Jerusalem. A logger in Oregon fir country sent the FBI to a camp in Estacada, Ore. A man in Poolsbo, Wash., said he could sniff out the grave from 25 miles away.

Daniel Jess Goldman would be 20 years old Friday. His last description had him just under six feet, about 17 pounds, brown eyes, dark curly brow hair.

Mrs. Goldman decorates model apartments for her husband, a successful building contractor. But she won't resume her interior decorating business or go back to her profession as a schoolteacher.

"With this troubling me," Mrs. Goldman said, "I just don't want to feel obligated about someone's draperies."

Goldman, once an enthusiastic businessman, said, "I don't have the drive anymore. I don't feel there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow anymore, not while our son is gone."

"With this troubling me," Mrs. Goldman said, "I just don't want to feel obligated about someone's draperies."

Goldman, once an enthusiastic businessman, said, "I don't have the drive anymore. I don't feel there's a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow anymore, not while our son is gone."

"I had always presumed there were a few kooks in the world," Goldman said, "but there are so many kooks you wonder. On the other hand, it is gratifying to know there are so many good people who have wished us well and tried to help."

Mrs. Goldman nodded and said, "I don't even know if I'd know how to live a normal life again. I'm suspicious of everyone, afraid, a feeling of suspense all the time."

A woman in Miami said she saw Danny in a picture from the Walling Wall in Jerusalem. A logger in Oregon fir country sent the FBI to a camp in Estacada, Ore. A man in Poolsbo, Wash., said he could sniff out the grave from 25 miles away.

Daniel Jess Goldman would be 20 years old Friday. His last description had him just under six feet, about 17 pounds, brown eyes, dark curly brow hair.

Some Asian Leaders Sensing Doubts Over U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Leaders in a number of areas of non-Communist Asia say they detect growing uncertainty, doubts and fears about the United States and about their own countries' futures.
Most of these doubts and fears spring from the Vietnam war, from a wish that it might end and a dread that it will, perhaps all too suddenly. That is paradoxical, but Asia is caught up in a cosmic paradox.
Some wonder whether U.S. policy one day will require a gradual withdrawal from this continent's mainland, creating a vacuum which can be filled by elements subservient to Communist China.

The uncertainty shows through all the way from the tip of Southeast Asia to South Korea.
Britain intends to end her military presence in this area in a few years, raising doubts about the future of Singapore and Malaysia. In South Korea, these days, there are openly expressed doubts about U.S. willingness to go to the mat to save that country from Communist aggression.
As much as in any other country, these feelings of uncertainty and doubt are pronounced in Thailand. This nation of 32 million is enjoying a steady boom, nourished in part by a heavy influx of American dollars. Its leaders and growingly substantial middle class feel their country is a primary target of Chinese communism.
The misgivings can be traced to a number of factors. One has been the performance of the United States in Korea at the time the intelligence ship Pueblo was seized by North Korean gunboats. Many Asians clearly infer that Uncle Sam's beard was given a sharp yank and that he dared not do anything about it.
With 525,000 troops already involved in Vietnam and more on the way, the United States, in the Asian view, is too far committed on one Asian front to risk involvement in a shooting war on a second Asian front.

Another factor in Asian doubts is the political situation in the United States.
Leaders in Thailand and South Korea, both sturdy allies of the United States, resent criticisms in America of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam. Thai leaders profess to see such criticism as part of a plot to get the Americans out entirely and leave Southeast Asia open to communism.
Some fear that North Vietnam, if it emerges with what appears to be a political victory over the United States, will be supported and encouraged by China to pursue Hanoi's stated aim to extend its domination to Laos, then Cambodia, and become an imminent threat to Thailand. These leaders concede such a development would take time, but this is not regarded as particularly consoling.

Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman of Thailand, widely regarded as one of Asia's most astute diplomats, told this correspondent he believes Peking to be expansionist and to have ambitions to dominate all Indochina and then the states surrounding it, all the way to Indonesia.
The Chinese, he says, want the Vietnam war to continue indefinitely so that it will sap American strength and lessen American capability of reaching elsewhere. At the same time, he says, China insists that "there must not be two lions in the same den," and thus is industriously working to keep the Russian foot out of the Asian door.

Thanat says he does not believe Russia has territorial ambitions in Southeast Asia, at least at this time, but has a negative approach to the question of peace in Vietnam. This approach, he says, is based on a Soviet fear of being involved in something which can develop into general war.

Thanat and other Thais believe their country is a primary target for subversion and violence because of the strides it is making in its economy and in its tack on rural problems. This country, says Interior Minister Praphat Charustien, is "the antechamber of war."
The Communist insurgency in Thailand's north and northeast, and to a lesser extent in the extreme south near the Malaysian border, remains a serious problem. Thanat says the Communists have been stopped in their tracks for the past year or so and have made no gains in the way of village support, but keeping them in check is an expensive and often bloody proposition.

The northeast is a dry, inhospitable land, as big as Cambodia, with more than a third of Thailand's population. Almost all are farmers, 95 per cent of whom own their own land.
To offset Red propaganda the government has shifted its sights and concentrates on the northeast area in the current five-year plan for development begun in 1967. The American aid program has encouraged this. The Thais are putting up $2 in their own money for every $1 the Americans put into the northeast program.

Optimism about the outcome is leavened by the knowledge that Thailand in the long run, while master in its own house, is not master of its own destiny. It has a huge Communist neighbor. And it is aware that what happens to Thailand in the future will depend to a great extent on what happens in neighboring Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

NCTA Board Opposes Merger

RALEIGH (AP) — The president of the North Carolina Teachers Association, a predominantly Negro organization, says his board of directors is opposed to merging with the predominantly white North Carolina Education Association this year.
Dr. Rudolph Jones, president of both the NCTA and Fayetteville State College, said Wednesday the board agreed earlier this month to hold off merger of the two groups until September 1969—the deadline set by the National Education Association.
NCEA president Helen Wells said earlier this week her organization's board is pushing for a merger this fall.
Jones said the merger proposal is "something you can't just spring on the members all at once and expect them to accept it."
The NCEA approved a similar plan for merger last year, but the NCTA rejected the proposal and accepted the plan only as a "progress report."

Three Unhurt As Rental Aircraft Falls In Woods

TROY, N. C. (AP) — Three U.S. Marines on a training mission escaped injury Wednesday when their light aircraft crash landed in the Uwharrie Forest near Troy in Montgomery County.
The three servicemen, all attached to the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center at Ft. Bragg, were conducting a reconnaissance mission, flying at 2,500 feet, when the power failed in their Cessna 172 Skylane.
A spokesman said the pilot, Sgt. Richard W. Powers, tried to land in a field but overshot it and crashed tail-first in a wooded area. There was no fire, but the plane was completely destroyed.
The spokesman said the plane was owned by a Fayetteville rental service.

Pat Paulsen Claims He Could Swing 100,000 Votes---Joke?

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is it a mammoth put-on, or does Pat Paulsen really have a chance in the presidential race?

There is Paulsen, looking for all the world like a candidate, shaking hands with constituents and making statements that are innocuous enough to sound like political dialogue.

Mock campaigns for the presidency have been prevalent on the American scene since the years when Eddie Cantor offered his candidacy on radio. Now the immense reach of television has contributed a grass roots campaign for Pat Paulsen, who first achieved note as the totally inept editorialist on the Sunday night "Smothers Brothers Show."

After several weeks of proclaiming his noncandidacy on the air—meanwhile shaking hands with the studio audience after every speech—Paulsen finally acceded to what he termed popular demand and declared himself an active candidate.

Is he serious? It's hard to tell. "I figure I can swing at least 100,000 to 200,000 votes," says Paulsen without the faintest smile. "I feel responsible now; I wouldn't want to take any votes away from somebody I dig."

The man Paulsen digs most, off-camera, is Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota on the Democratic side, and possibly New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller among the Republicans, "although Rockefeller is not a true Republican." The criterion here is that McCarthy is a dove on Vietnam policy and "Rockefeller might be a dove." Paulsen, like his mentors, the Smothers Brothers, is unmistakably dove-ish.

Despite his loyalties, Paulsen claims to be conducting his campaign without fear or favor. "People think I am a flaming liberal," he said with a degree of seriousness. "But I am conservative in many ways."

For one thing, his residence, Pat Paulsen, his wife Betty Jene and three children live in Orange, Calif., the heartland of the most conservative county of the state, and perhaps the nation. This, he admitted, was a historical accident, the result of his having earned a $3,000 check for composing a song for the Smothers Brothers; he invested it in a modest home at the geographical center of a number of intimate night clubs that offered employment for his esoteric brand of humor.

Pat Paulsen was born in South Bend, Wash., and grew up in the San Francisco area, attending Tafaipai High School and San Francisco City College. After service in the Marines, he tried his comic monologues in tiny night clubs in the Bay area, with the most modest of success. While waiting for fortune to smile, he worked in a gypsum mine, a print shop and as driver of a baby formula truck.

Shifting to Southern California, he was viewed at Pasadena's night spot, The Ice House, by the Smothers Brothers and their staff, who sought him as a performer on their forthcoming CBS variety hour.

Paulsen's deadpan comedy was an immediate hit, and he became a regular with the Smothers Brothers. From editorialist he naturally evolved into presidential candidate, and the campaign seems to be having widespread ramifications. He has heard that he received at least 50 votes in the New Hampshire primary, and 14 per cent of the vote for mayor of Lansing, Mich.—"which is pretty remarkable when you consider that I wasn't even running for mayor of Lansing, Mich."

The Paulsen handlers are planning a widespread campaign, including a national convention to be held on the Smothers Brothers Summer Show.

DARKHORSE? — Deadpan comic Pat Paulsen, who began his "political career" on the Smothers Brothers Show has his fans guessing: "Is he really a candidate for president?" (AP Wirephoto)

Yarbrough Cn Atlanta Pole

ATLANTA (AP) — With Lee Roy Yarbrough capturing the pole position, eight drivers smashed records and won starting slots for Sunday's $82,000 Atlanta 500 stock car race.

Yarbrough, of Columbia, S.C., was clocked at 155.646 miles an hour in his 1968 Mercury, the first Mercury ever to win the pole slot at the Atlanta International Raceway course.

The performance by the 30-year-old racing veteran, who last won the pole at the 1966 National 500 at Charlotte, was one of 11 runs on 1 1/2 mile track which bettered the old four-lap record of 150.669 miles an hour. Three of the record-breakers did not qualify.

Eight more positions will be awarded today and another eight Friday, with the last 20 spots in the 44-car field to be decided Saturday in a trial run. Some 56 cars are entered.

Behind Yarbrough Wednesday was David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., who drove a 1968

Bethel Halts Stokes Rally

BETHEL—Bethel High School pushed across five runs in the second inning, then held off a Stokes-Pactolus rally yesterday to claim its first victory of the season, 5-4.

Douglas Dunning hurled a no-hitter at Stokes for Bethel, but got less than perfect backing as Stokes was able to score four runs.

Bethel rolled into the lead in the second inning, as the Indians chalked up four singles, a walk and two doubles to push the runs across.

Stokes scored once in the fourth and rallied for three more in the seventh, but the Indians stopped them before they managed to tie it up.

Billy Savage led off with a single and Gary Adams tripled him in. Willie Smith singled in Adams and Ernest Hyman doubled. Robert Little then singled in the final runs.

Eppes went on to pick up three more in the third and one each in the fourth and fifth.

Wilson scored one more in the fourth, but was too far back by then to rally.

Pipers Defeat Indiana To Gain Eastern Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Third-period spurts spelled success in the American Basketball Association playoffs Wednesday night.

The Pittsburgh Pipers opened an 11-point lead with a scoring burst at 9:19 of the quarter and went on to trounce Indiana 133-114, eliminating the Pacers 3-0 in their best-of-5 Eastern Division semifinal series.

Minnesota took a 2-1 lead in the other Eastern semifinal. The Muskies hit 10 quick points early in the third to increase a 62-59 halftime lead to a 70-63 margin and go on to a 116-107 triumph over Kentucky.

New Orleans outscored Denver 12-0 at the start of the third to break a 46-46 halftime tie en route to a 105-93 lead and a 2-0 margin in their Western Division semifinal.

Dallas already has eliminated Houston in the other Western semifinal.

Art Heyman collected 18 of his 28 points in the third quarter when Pittsburgh outscored the Pacers 48-27 and broke the game open. Charlie Williams poured in 34 and Connie Hawkins 29 for the Pipers. Fred Lewis led Indiana with 32.

Minnesota led only 62-59 at halftime, but Les Hunter hit two quick baskets and Irv Inninger two more and the Muskies ran up an 84-69 advantage after three periods.

Hunter finished with 38 and Mel Daniels 31 for Minnesota. Kentucky's Louie Dampier scored 32 and Darel Carrier 30.

Jimmy Jones scored 22 points for New Orleans, which made the most of its foul shots—hitting 37 of 43 while Denver con-

Pistons Beat Celtics To Pull Ahead In NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Bulls won a late reprieve, the Philadelphia 76ers saved themselves from an embarrassing predicament and the Detroit Pistons kept right on killing the giant.

The first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs provided surprises all around Wednesday night when Chicago beat Los Angeles 104-98 in the Western Division, and Philadelphia outlasted New York 138-132 in double overtime and Detroit took Boston 109-98 in the East.

Chicago's victory kept the Lakers from taking an impregnable 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 series and put Los Angeles ahead 2-1 instead.

Philadelphia's late heroics kept New York from pulling ahead in their rugged series, which returns to New York Saturday. The 76ers are now ahead two games to one.

And, ah, the Pistons. To have predicted only a week or so ago that Detroit could have taken a 2-1 lead over the Celtics at this stage would have been foolhardy. But Detroit, which beat Boston only twice during the regular season, already has matched that total in the playoffs.

Even more remarkable, the triumph came at Boston where the Pistons rallied from a 52-48 halftime deficit and outscored the Celtics 33-15 in the third period. Dave Bing and Eddie Miles each scored 10 points.

Then Jimmy Walker took over and scored 14 points in the final period to keep the Celtics away. Bing led the Pistons with 27 points while John Havlicek had 23 for Boston.

The Knicks fought back from 10 points behind in the fourth period to take a lead near the end of regulation time, but a basket by Chet Walker sent the game into overtime. Again New York took the lead and seemed safely ahead by three points with little time left.

But Hal Greer stole a pass and scored with 16 seconds left, then stole the in-bounds pass and Matt Guokas was fouled with six seconds left. He made the free throw and the game went into another overtime. Walker put the 76ers ahead for good and scored six points in the final extra period.

Cazzie Russell scored 40 points for the Knicks while Walker had 32 for Philadelphia.

Winterville Beats Belvoir

BELVOIR — Winterville gained a 6-3 victory over Belvoir-Falkland yesterday as the two opened Pitt County League play.

Winterville wrapped it up in the first inning pushing across four runs. Manning led off with a walk and Langston singled. Godley walked to load them up and another walk, to Webb, forced in the first run. O'Mary was safe on an attempted sacrifice, scoring Langston, and Musselwhite's walk scored Godley. Haddock hit a sacrifice fly to drive in Webb with the fourth run.

Belvoir tried to rally in the bottom of the first, but could only push two across. Moore walked and Corbett also got a free trip to first. Mayo singled and Tyner's hit drove in two runs.

Winterville picked up one each in the fourth and sixth, while Belvoir's final run came in the seventh.

Mayo and Tyner led Belvoir with two hits each, while Langston had three for Winterville. Winterville 400 101 0 — 6 7 1
Belvoir 200 000 1 — 3 5 2
Haddock and Potter, Witherington and Corbett.

Bad Spring Is Not Worrying BoSox Manager: 'We Were Bad Last Year'

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — The Boston Red Sox have been struggling this spring without Jim Lonborg. Carl Yastrzemski has been having trouble with his timing, as usual.

Tony Conigliaro is striking out too much for comfort. Only George Scott and Rico Petrocelli have been massaging the ball.

Manager Dick Williams keeps telling visitors he isn't worried because his pennant winners are under .500 in the exhibition games. They were so-so last spring, too, and look what happened.

"It doesn't bother me if they downgrade us," said Williams. "Let everybody else worry about us. We'll manage somehow."

"Sure, it's tough to try to replace a man like Lonborg but you have to do your best with what you have. Not until I see Jim on the mound, throwing a ball, will I take interest in him as a pitcher again."

That is Williams' way of saying he doesn't have the faintest idea when to expect help from Lonborg, the 22-game winner of 1967's Impossible Dream. The cast is off the left knee that required surgery after a skiing accident but he is far from ready.

The pitching which ranked eighth in the league last year, even with Lonborg's big season, casts serious doubt on Boston's ability to repeat.

"If I had to name a rotation now, I'd say Jose Santiago, Gary Waslewski, Dick Ellisworth and Ray Culp," said Williams, "but that is subject to change. We probably won't need a fifth starter in early season."

Williams named most of the other men on the staff as candidates for the fifth job. Men who have seen the Sox play all their spring games say Jerry Stephenson, Garry Roggenbuck and Darrell Brandon have done the best work. Gary Bell has been bombed, especially in one effort against Chicago.

John Wyatt, the mainstay in the bullpen, has been having problems this spring, but everybody expects him to come around when the bell rings. Al "Sparky" Lyle and Brandon figure to be his relief helpers.

"Barring injury we're pretty well set with the rest of the club," said Williams. "We have a real strong bench and a set line-up."

"I don't see how any changes could be made unless possibly third base or catcher. Fortunately we were able to play a lot of different combinations last year and still won."

Williams is willing to trade Ken Harrelson, who hit a bonanza last year after being released by Kansas City. Harrelson can't win a regular job with this club. If anybody offers a pitcher, catcher—or maybe just anything—Harrelson can be had.

There is no room in the outfield with Yastrzemski in left, Reggie Smith in center and Conigliaro in right. Jose Tartabull and possibly George Springs, drafted from Pittsburgh, are the spares.

Conigliaro, coming back from a serious injury, wears a special batting helmet with an ear flap to protect the cheekbone fractured by a pitched ball last August.

Scott, a superior first baseman, has been overpowering pitchers in the exhibitions. Mike Andrews will be at second, Petrocelli at short and a slimmed-down Joe Foy at third. Dalton Jones is competition for Foy and Jerry Adair for Andrews.

Elston Howard, eager to prove his batting slump of last year was temporary, came to camp in great shape as the established No. 1 catcher. It all depends on his hitting.

The Red Sox picked up Gene Oliver from the Phillies to back up Howard and also fill in as an extra outfielder if needed. Russ Gibson probably will be the third catcher.

"I hope everybody picks up 10th again," said Williams. "I know it is hard to win two in a row. In this league you can finish anywhere from first to seventh."

"We're as strong as anybody in a tough league. We might have surprised some people in the first half last season but it wasn't surprise that did it in the second half. As long as we maintain the same drive and desire, we can fool a lot of people again."

Sikes Warms With 67 Round

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — "I'm tired, so tired," Dan Sikes said on the eve of today's Greater Jacksonville Open Golf Tournament.

The hometown hero's actions belied his words. Sikes had just opened the tournament activities by shooting the lowest score in the pro-am preliminary at 67—five strokes below regulation for the toughened 7,200-yard Deerwood Club course.

Sikes, who won last year's Jacksonville Open with a nine-under-par 279, said he played the best golf of his life when he won the Citrus Open at Orlando two weeks ago. He was 14 under par in that tournament, but figures 10 under will be good enough to take this one.

In addition to his second straight victory at his home course, Sikes will be shooting for the Florida Governor's Cup based on the total scores in all four tournaments in the state.

He and England's Tony Jacklin are tied at 837 after play in Doral, Citrus and Pensacola tournaments. Bob Murphy, former National Amateur champion and former University of Florida golfer, stands 841. Ray Floyd is at 842.

Tom Weiskopf would have been in great shape for the trophy if he had not passed up the Pensacola Tournament last week. He was second in both the Doral and Citrus.

Arnold Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player of South Africa—the Big Three of golfdom—are reunited in competition in this tournament, which they'll use as a warmup for the Masters two weeks off.

Most of the other top golfers on the PGA circuit also are after this one.

Red Sox Manager, Coach Booted After Rhubarb Over Beanballs

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Everybody's been tagging Boston pitching this spring, but the Red Sox won't turn the other cheek. Not by a long shot.

Beanballs flew at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Wednesday as the American League champs bowed to the New York Yankees 4-2 for their 13th setback in 19 exhibition games.

Dick Williams, the Red Sox' pilot, and Coach Eddie Popowski were ejected in an eighth inning rhubarb with umpire Frank Umont after Boston pitcher Lee Stange clipped the Yanks' Roy White in the back with a fast ball.

Jerry Stephenson, the Red Sox' starter, had hit Bob Cox with a pitch in the sixth and the Yankees' Dale Spier had fired a pitch over Joe Foy's head in the top of the eighth. When White was plunked leading off the bottom of the inning, Umont warned Williams, then tossed him out.

The same clubs staged a free-for-all last June at Yankee Stadium after Boston ace Jim Lonborg and New York's Thad Tillotson took turns low-bridging the hitters.

While the Red Sox' troubles continued, St. Louis' world champions buried the Chicago White Sox 8-2 at Sarasota, Fla., for their 12th victory in 18 starts. Lou Brock's second spring homer paced a 17-hit Cardinal attack.

At Orlando, Fla., Harmon Killebrew's 11th inning homer gave the Minnesota Twins a 1-0 victory over Baltimore. Killebrew blasted his fifth exhibition homer off Gene Brabender, the fourth Baltimore pitcher. Jim Merritt, Al Worthington, Ron Ferranoski and Jim Roland stopped the Orioles on six hits.

Sam McDowell yielded just one hit in a six-inning stint as the Cleveland Indians trimmed California 7-3 at El Paso, Tex. Philadelphia blanked Los Angeles 4-0 at Clearwater, Fla., behind the six-hit pitching of Chris Short and Gary Wagner.

San Francisco shelled Ken Holtzman for eight runs in the first two innings and held off the Chicago Cubs 10-6 at Scottsdale, Ariz. Atlanta broke through ex-teammate Denny Lemaster for five eighth inning runs and a 5-3 victory over Houston at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Oakland downed Detroit 4-2 at Lakeland, Fla., and Cincinnati edged the New York Mets 5-4 in a night game at St. Petersburg, Fla.

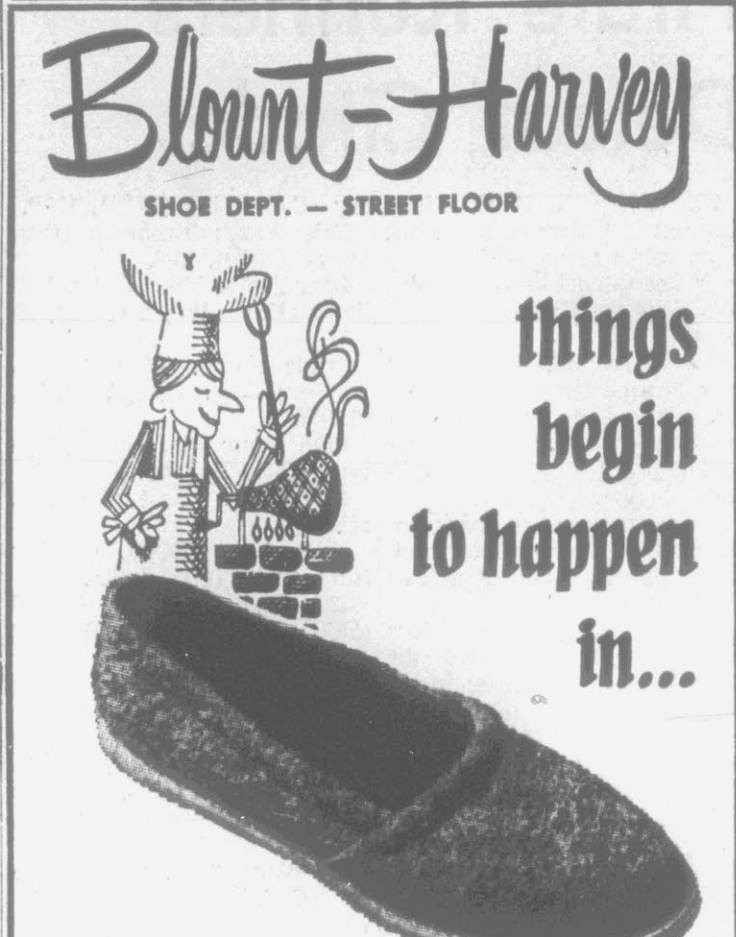

The Braves were stunned by the announcement that outfielder Rico Carty, a .305 lifetime hitter, will undergo extensive tests to determine if he has tuberculosis. Carty, 27, has lost weight and complained of feeling run down in recent weeks.

Mike Ferraro, the Yankees' rookie second baseman, and San Francisco catcher Dick Dietz also came up with distressing ailments.

An eye examination disclosed Ferraro is suffering from glaucoma but a Fort Lauderdale doctor said he should be able to continue playing. Dietz was rushed from Scottsdale, Ariz., to San Francisco for tests after being hospitalized with high blood pressure.

The Braves cut nine players, including former bonus baby Dave Nicholson, whose 175 strikeouts in 1963 stand as the major league record. Shortstop Andy Rodgers and catcher Manny Sanguillen were sent down by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Rocky Colavito, dealt from Cleveland to Los Angeles Tues.-Dodgers after first considering day, said he would report to the retirement.

Rico Carty Starts Tuberculin Tests

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Atlanta slugger Rico Carty, confined to the Southeast Florida Tuberculosis Hospital near here, starts a series of extensive physical examinations today to determine if he has tuberculosis.

The 27-year-old left fielder entered the facility Wednesday night after physicians here examined him and the Braves announced it was likely he had the disease.

A spokesman for the hospital said the full staff of seven doctors, four surgeons and various consultants will consider Carty's case. He said there was no indication how long the tests might take.

Meanwhile, other Atlanta players and team officials were being tested to determine if they had contracted the disease. However, trainer Harvey Stone said it was a precautionary measure and that Carty's illness may be pneumonia.

"If he's really got it, he's certain to be out for the year," said Paul Richards, vice president of the Braves.

Carty had reported for training about 10 pounds under his playing weight of 200 pounds, recently had complained of "being weak and just not feeling right," and had lost another six pounds at camp.

He played in a weekend exhibition series at Atlanta, but he did not play in Monday and Tuesday's games. In the exhibition season he was batting .316, better than his .305 average in four years in the big leagues.

He hit .330 in 1964, .310 in 1965, .326 in 1966, and .255 in 1967 when he suffered a shoulder injury.

If Carty cannot play this season, he probably will be replaced by Tommie Aaron, Sandy Valdespino, Tito Francona or Mike Lum, a rookie from Hawaii.

"I'm thinking more about Carty's health than about who is going to replace him," said Manager Luman Harris.

"Other boys have had this and beat it, and I think Rico can."

Braves' infielder Red Schoendienst, now manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was struck with TB in the 1958 season, had a portion of his right lung removed in February of 1959, and returned to the field in 1960. He ended his playing career in 1963.

Wisconsin Campaign Trail Becoming Crowded

Broughton HQ Is Opened

OPENING CAMPAIGN HEADQUARTERS . . . Leon Moore, Tom Andrews, James T. Cheatham and D. T. House flank gubernatorial candidate Mel Broughton as he prepares to cut ribbon opening campaign office in Greenville yesterday.

Mel Broughton opened campaign headquarters here Wednesday, and encouraged his supporters to "put the finishing touches on a successful campaign that will be a victory for all of North Carolina."

The gubernatorial candidate told the group of supporters gathered around his campaign office on Evans Street downtown that the principal issue would be "the candidates themselves—their qualifications, what they are saying about the issues."

Broughton arrived early yesterday for an appearance on the television program "Carolina Today." After breakfast, the candidate visited the East Carolina University campus. He visited several of the classroom buildings and met with students in the University Union.

An estimated 125 people joined Broughton for lunch.

The gubernatorial aspirant said he felt that "the people of North Carolina are not going to elect any candidate who does not fully discuss the issues and let the people know where he stands."

Broughton left late in the afternoon for Elizabeth City where a seven-county rally was scheduled.

Monday's rally for Broughton in Goldsboro attracted 500 supporters, the largest group attending a local gathering, according to campaign aide Ed Woodhouse.

Broughton's county campaign manager is D. T. House Jr.

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Congestion has begun to mark the campaign road in Wisconsin where a high source in Sen. Eugene McCarthy's camp acknowledged the senator's staff is being retooled to get fewer backfires.

But, the source added, "It's like trying to do a valve job in the middle of the Indianapolis 500."

With the state's primary coming up Tuesday, presidential hopefuls and their spokesmen were numerous in the Badger State.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, facing limited competition from former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen on the Republican ballot, said he is preparing a major statement for broadcast Sunday concerning the Vietnam war and "the problem of diplomacy at

Hearing Opens On Excluding Riot Liability

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Department of Insurance opened a public hearing today on a proposal by the insurance industry to exclude riot damage from liability policies written to protect municipalities and other governmental units.

The industry, in a recent filing with the insurance department, requested that general liability policies effective after June 1 contain a provision under which a company would not be liable if a citizen sought to collect from a municipality for damage sustained during a riot or civil disorder.

The Mutual Insurance Rating Bureau and Insurance Rating Bureau, both of New York, have made similar filings in all other states.

Elephant Helps A Mired Truck

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — What does an elephant do on a busy interstate highway? It pushes its tractor out of the mud.

That was what Cpl. Harry Wolfe of the Ohio Highway Patrol found out when he came upon the elephant busily disengaging a circus truck from mire along Interstate 71.

the highest level involving the Soviet Union."

Three Johnson administration officials were in Wisconsin—Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien, Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and consumer affairs adviser Betty Furness.

McCarthy, the only Democrat listed on the Tuesday primary ballot besides Johnson, was showing signs of polishing the campaign efforts begun in New Hampshire with the help of young persons.

A source high in the McCarthy camp, who asked not to be identified, acknowledged a staff rebuilding program is under way.

But the source said critics of methods being used in the Minnesota senator's campaign should not view the situation by an "organization chart."

Few professionals joined the McCarthy move when the senator originally challenged Johnson, the source said, and the campaign was handled by "dedicated amateurs who learn fast."

McCarthy, he added, is now a man running in 50 states, "which was not true before New Hampshire."

McCarthy, planning visits to northern Wisconsin cities today, said in Chicago Wednesday that early in the campaign, "everybody was happy, kind of running his own operation. Beyond Wisconsin, I expected we'd have to organize, especially after the entrance of Sen. (Robert) Kennedy, which made it a different kind of campaign."

Arrest Suspect Only Minutes After Larceny

Deputies on night patrol made an arrest during the early morning hours only a few minutes after the theft was reported.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Linwood H. Smith reported that the wheels and tires had been stolen off his truck around 3:45 a.m. The truck was parked two miles west of Greenville on the Stantonsburg Highway.

Deputies, who went to the area, arrested Simon Anderson, Negro of Rt. 1, Box 287, Greenville, as he was driving in his yard. They reported that four tires and rims believed taken from the truck were found in Anderson's car.

Anderson was charged with larceny.

Wausau, said the statement plans Sunday "will cover the problem of military recommendations that have been made" in the Vietnam conflict.

"Over a period of time, I've probably been the administration's most consistent critic," he said. "This speech will be along those lines."

Nixon predicted a victory for Johnson over McCarthy next Tuesday, and said he doubts Sen. Kennedy can stop the President from being renominated.

Clark addressed about 300 students at the University of Wisconsin where shouting by anti-war hecklers had forced Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to halt a speech last week. The attorney general, confronted with student questions reflecting criticism of administration policies in Vietnam, got a polite but restrained reception. He drew heavy applause, however, when he discussed civil rights.

O'Brien, campaign manager for the late John F. Kennedy, appeared in behalf of Johnson in Milwaukee and Green Bay. The postmaster general said it is better for a president to stay in Washington and let others campaign for him.

"The people begin to wonder who is tending the store," O'Brien said.

Miss Furness, describing herself as a "lobbyist for the consumer," addressed an Appleton group Wednesday, and was to be the guest of Mrs. Henry Maier, wife of Milwaukee's mayor, at a reception today.

Stassen, speaking Wednesday in Milwaukee, has been one of the state's most determined candidates despite his underdog role.

The former Minnesota governor, in his frequent addresses to Wisconsin voters, has worked the theme that he sees little difference between the military opinions of Nixon and Johnson on the Vietnam issues.

Mixing Pills, Alcohol Can Be Deadly Habit

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Jones had trouble getting to sleep Thursday night. He knew Friday would be a long day, so he took one of his wife's sleeping pills.

He woke up Friday with a cold and used nose drops. On the way to work he started coughing and stopped at a drug-store for throat lozenges.

In midafternoon Jones still felt under the weather. He tried a fello' worker's multipurpose flu remedy.

That night, before dinner, he popped a diet pill in his mouth. After dinner he chewed a tablet to "feed his ulcer."

Later Jones and his wife went to a party. They had a few drinks and Jones started feeling better. He readily agreed when a friend suggested an early morning fishing trip.

The water was choppy, but Jones' foresighted host had motion-sickness pills handy.

By midmorning Saturday Jones was exhausted. He had a few beers with lunch to perk him up for the drive home.

On the freeway, Jones went to sleep.

Crash. The autopsy showed Jones was not drunk. Instead he had taken an overdose of drugs.

Jones' death was an accident not suicide. Like most accidents, it could have been prevented.

Seventy-two persons died needlessly in drug-related accidents in Los Angeles County in a recent two-year period—1965-66, the latest years for which figures are available from the coroner.

Dr. Edward S. Brady, associate dean of the University of Southern California's School of Pharmacy, who outlined John Jones' fictional case history in a recent interview, says the same thing could happen to anyone not aware of the increasing sophistication and potency of modern drugs.

"People assign a single effect to a drug," he said. "They don't realize that sleeping pills, tranquilizers, ulcer tablets, colds-and-flu remedies, motion-sickness pills and alcohol all contain drugs that can be dangerous in combinations."

"Taken singly, none of these is harmful. But it is easy, in a single day, to take a combination of readily available drugs that can add up to an overdose."

Dr. Brady said his and other schools over the country are pushing research in what he calls "a new and hot field of pharmacy—drug interaction."

"We are trying to learn what drugs interact with others and what the effect will be in different types of persons," he said. "It's a slow process and it is complicated by the fact that new drugs are coming out all the time, and today's drugs are not as simple as they used to be and they are far more potent."

"We have known for some time that alcohol and barbiturates are a dangerous combination. They potentiate—that is, the effect of alcohol and sleeping pills together is more than twice that of either taken singly. Each seems to make the brain more sensitive to the other."

"But now we are also becoming concerned with drugs that are simply additive, not multiplying, in effect, primarily because the number of available depressants and stimulants is growing.

"Barbiturates are prescription drugs, and thus less easily obtained. You're not so likely to take liquor and barbiturates together. But you can get the same effect—illness or even death—from mixing liquor with a number of over the counter drugs, or even from mixing them without alcohol."

Dr. Brady said he was citing alcohol only because it is so commonly used and thus more likely to be taken with other drugs not generally known to be depressants or stimulants. He cautioned that one can no longer feel safe simply by avoiding alcohol when taking medications.

Dr. Sol Bernstein, assistant director of internal medicine at the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, said the hospital annually treats 10,000 cases—about 10 per cent of all admissions—directly due to alcohol or drugs.

"We are planning to set up screening tests to determine how many of these cases involve interactions between drugs and alcohol and between one drug and another," he said. "It is seldom that we find a case where only one drug is involved."

MATTER OF TERMINOLOGY
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee's Wass de Czege, who owns a vehicle that can travel both on land and in water, left it standing on the shore of Lake Mendota. A policeman gave him a ticket for illegal parking. De Czege protested in court that he had not parked his vehicle—he had beached it. He won the case.

Some Still Skeptical Over Tribute To Billy

By MARGARET WILSON
Associated Press Writer

BELMONT, N.C. (AP) — It's true, Baptists. A small, Roman Catholic college did honor Evangelist Billy Graham with a degree recently and says he will have a place in history with Pope John XXIII.

Some Baptists still don't believe it. Their letters fill a growing file at Belmont Abbey College.

Most Catholics take the whole matter in stride, even though just a few years ago they were forbidden to attend Graham's crusades. "Since the ecumenical movement, anything is possible," said one.

Those letters from Baptists and other Protestants who find it hard to believe that Catholics and Graham are friends reach the office of the Rev. Cuthbert E. Allen, O.S.B., vice president of Belmont Abbey College.

"It's a minority, but there are those that do object," he said. The letters are principally from the South and Midwest.

Some are anti-Catholic diatribes.

One letter writer couldn't understand how Billy Graham could accept even an honorary degree from Catholics "who drink, smoke and dance."

But in the whole, Father Allen says, Protestants and their ministers were pleased to learn that Belmont Abbey College awarded the degree to Graham last Nov. 21.

"They are more inclined to take part in our other ecumenical meetings now, too," he said. Catholic colleges have inquired as to how Belmont Abbey might use its influence to get Graham to accept speaking engagements.

Not long ago, Catholics were told that because Graham's crusades were religious services, attendance by Catholics would give recognition to heresy.

Even before Vatican II—the Catholic Church's meeting on ecumenism—there was some relaxation of the rule. The crusades received negative endorsements in that cardinals and bishops did not forbid their flock from attending.

Through television and personal contact more and more Catholics learned of Graham's philosophy of Christian morality.

"We just got to know him better," explained Father Allen. "And Billy is not a theologian, not a denominational minister really. He's an evangelist and more Catholic than many Catholics—though he may not know it."

Graham is an ordained Baptist minister but has no church assignment. His crusades are multi-denominational and he welcomes all people to "come forward and make a decision for Christ."

In the quiet furor over Belmont Abbey College's awarding him a degree, even the more liberal Catholics were somewhat

15-Year-Old Promise Is Kept

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Lambuth College has received the final $1,000 of a pledge made 15 years ago by Calvary Methodist Church in Memphis—six months after the church went out of existence.

The church had made the $12,000 pledge in 1953. But the congregation dwindled in later years as people moved from that section of the city. Finally, the church merged with Longview Methodist in 1967.

Longview completed payment of the pledge—and another pledge of $12,500—to Methodist Hospital in Memphis—after sale of the Calvary Church building.

ALPHABETICAL CHOICE

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — Candidates in the municipal election here ranged from Z to A. Mayor Dorothy Zabka was re-elected, but Ralph Aab, running for the City Council, lost.

Most Counties Stagger Terms Of Commissioners

Pitt, Greene and Martin Counties are among the majority of the counties in North Carolina in terms of the method of election of county commissioners having staggered terms for commission members and in the number of members on the board.

The statistics were revealed in a tabulation of information gathered by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

The tabulation indicated that the number of boards with three members is continuing to decline; that the popularity of having staggered four-year terms is spreading; and that more counties are either redistricting themselves or electing at-large members.

In all, 74 counties, including Greene and Martin have five-member boards of commissioners. Three counties have seven members and 20 have three-member boards of commissioners.

Fifty-four counties, including Pitt, Greene and Martin have staggered four-year terms for their county governing boards, while 22 other counties have two-year commissioner terms.

An additional 19 boards have straight four-year terms. Other counties have staggered six-year terms, or combinations of two and four-year terms.

Sixty of the state's 100 counties have boards that are elected at large as in Greene County, while 31 more boards are nominated and elected by voters at large, but the county is divided into districts and commissioners must meet district residence requirements. Pitt and Martin counties fall under this category.

Eight boards have their members nominated by voters in their respective districts but are elected by the voters of the entire county.

Art Major Will Exhibit Works

A display of prints by a senior art major from Aho's is scheduled at East Carolina University next week, March 31-April 6.

King, who will be exhibiting his work as part of his BS degree requirements, will be showing intaglios, serigraphs and woodcuts. In addition to the prints, King will also exhibit some drawings, collages and various crafts and sculpture.

King's work will be displayed in the gallery of the University Union, located in Wright Annex. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 2 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Sunday.

The student exhibitor is a past member of the ECU Men's Residence Council, the Dean's Advisory Council and the Associated Arts Board. He has served as president of the University Union for two years.

PRICE IS A WINNER
LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) — Mayor Ralph Price was re-elected here even though there might have been some confusion among the voters. His opponent was Arnold Price, no relation.

Priest Works To Bring Two Worlds Closer

WASHINGTON (AP) — He lives and works in two worlds, and tries to bring them closer together.

On Sundays he is the Rev. Jesse F. Anderson Jr., a minister in an all-white Episcopal church in an all-white neighborhood.

On weekdays he is "Jessie" to hordes of poor kids in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Washington, where he runs a storefront mission called the Southeast Enrichment Center.

He is a Negro. His center, shabby outside but bright and spotless inside, will find you a part-time job to keep you in school, lend you books, give you a place to study, provide a game of pool or table tennis, help out if you get pregnant, or get in trouble with the police.

There are likely to be 75 kids there any night.

Father Anderson—the kids call him that too, if he happens to have his clerical collar on—is 30. He looks younger when bicycling to work or, clad in a sweatshirt, tossing a football with the teen-agers. He recently grew a hippie-style beard.

He heads the Neighborhood Advisory Council, directs the summer day camp program, fights for federal and city funds for his Teen Center, Odd Job Center and other causes, and teaches night classes in sociology at Southeastern University.

At the mission he assembles Negroes and whites from the opposite sides of the city for "dialogues" that run through dinner-time and evening, once a week for 15 weeks. Then a new series is begun, bringing together more strangers from his two worlds.

For St. Patrick's Episcopal church, miles away in a setting of handsome homes and shade trees, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is an answer to questions that bother many an all-white congregation: How can we help out? How do we get involved?

St. Patrick's raised $45,000 to launch and support for three years a one-man inner city mission.

It interviewed eight young white and Negro priests in 1966, then invited the Rev. Mr. Anderson to come from Philadelphia to man the mission, and to take his turn regularly in St. Patrick's pulpit.

One or two parishioners walked out the first time he appeared in the chancel. A few families canceled their pledges and left St. Patrick's. Now, says the Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, rector, some have come back, and membership and pledging have risen.

St. Patrick's members work with the Rev. Mr. Anderson, but he relies mainly on cooperation with other neighborhood agencies, including a Catholic mission.

His hardest job, the Rev. Mr. Anderson says, is explaining to well-to-do whites why the poor think and behave as they do.

He says "It's hard to understand, for instance, why it makes sense to some girls to have babies—and several of them—out of wedlock.

"It isn't just for the extra welfare money but almost from a sense of loneliness—of wanting to have someone or something to care for and be loved by."

Library Science Fraternity Initiates 17

The East Carolina University Alpha Beta Alpha national undergraduate Library Science fraternity has initiated 17 library science majors into membership.

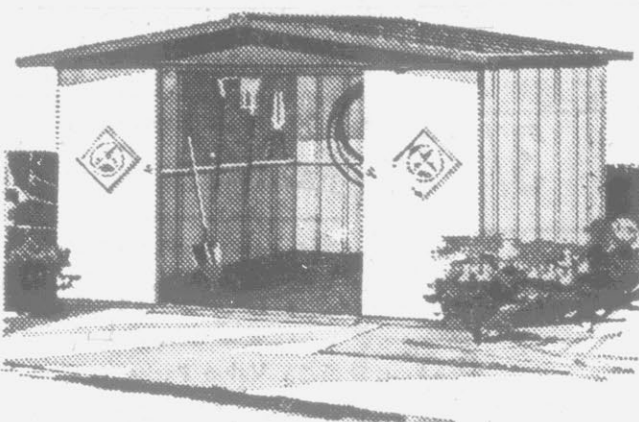

They are Linda Jean Flournoy and Rebecca Jane Smith of Sanford, Rebecca Lynette Finch of Merry Hill, Martha Lee Rhodes of Lenoir, Nancy Elizabeth James of Sunburg, Carolyn Raye Cobb of Farmville, Steven Elliott Howell of Garyburg, Mittie Ruth McGowan, Seaton Fairless, Spencer J. Peck, and Mrs. Barbara C. Clark of Greenville, Peggy Lou Reavis of Henderson, Rebecca Neal Aldridge of Raleigh, Helen Lawrence Berry and Ceresy Katherine Jones of Fuquay-Varina and Ann Collins Yelverton of Fremont.

The initiation was preceded by a pledge period of four weeks during which the pledges completed several projects.

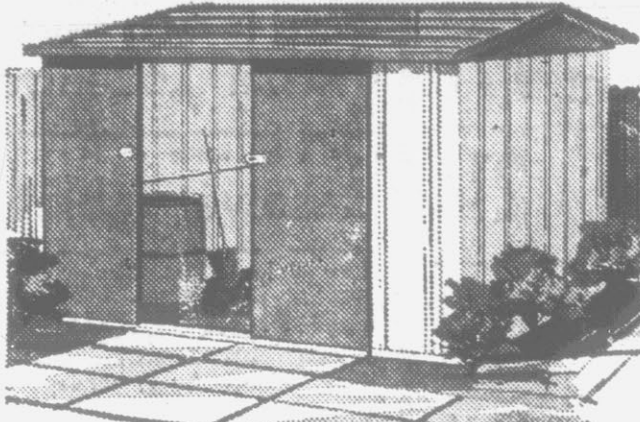

HONORS FOR NON-SCHOLARS

Business Calls In Consultants To Cut Phone Bills

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Business is increasingly calling on independent telephone consultants to help pare down bills and determine how to use efficiently the myriad equipment and rates offered in this electronic age.

The exact number of consultants can't be stated with accuracy. Those in the business don't like to talk about competition. A telephone company spokesman concedes the number is rising but declines to make an estimate.

The Yellow Pages help little. Under the vague title of communications consultants you will find a broad mixture, including in bold black type the telephone company and Western Union and ITT Export Corp.

But business does seem to be growing, as evidenced by interest in businessmen's seminars held by the young American Telephone Consumers' Council, and by the list of blue chip clients served by such as William F. Hogan Associates.

Not everyone reports savings such as this. Said Harold M. Perry, vice president of C.I.T. Financial Corp., "We're spending as much money as before, but if we hadn't had a consultant in it would be costing even more."

However, by the addition of a simple switch that connects the intrastate line with a company's interstate line the tariff would be: $3 for the first 25 miles, $2.10 for the next 75, $1.50 for the next 150, $1.50 for the next 250, and 75 cents for more than 500 miles—all per mile figures.

So, which should a corporation choose, the intrastate or interstate, the first or second? The first if it is to use only one line. But the second rate might be cheaper if more than one circuit were involved, for then a discount would go into effect.

The financial reasons for employing consultants — many large companies also have their in-house consultants as well — are obvious. Some companies run up annual bills between $5 million and $10 million.

But the complexity of today's communications also is making jobs for consultants. One telephone call, for example, can go in any of these ways:

The Worry Clinic Be Grateful When A Child Asks Questions

Alan should offer a challenge especially to all parents and teachers. But also to salesmen and public speakers who conduct forums after their main address. So be sure you know the "Pause and Praise" strategy, followed by the deft "Reversible Why" technique. Send for the booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-528: Alan K., aged 5, prods his father unmercifully.

"Dr. Crane," Alan's daddy began, "I come home from the office tired and hopeful of a little rest before dinner."

"So I sit down with my newspaper to read."

"But what happens?"

"Well, as soon as Alan knows I am in the house, he rushes to greet me, which is fine."

"But when he keeps pestering me with an incessant barrage of questions of the Who-What-Where-Why-How-When variety."

"In fact, he can stump me with some of his queries, for I don't know the answers, nor has any scientist even offered an explanation for some of his questions."

"But I realize that a good parent should encourage his son's mental development, so how can I do it with the minimum of strain on my own weary brain?"

First, be grateful when a child is full of questions!

For that indicates a fertile brain and a high I. Q., plus a lot of vitality.

Feeble-minded kiddies don't raise many queries.

And when a child is seriously ill, it then becomes quiet. That is a dangerous sign in medicine!

For the act of thinking, and then of phrasing a question, takes energy.

Even idle conversation does likewise, which is why we medicate people from the hospital room of a very sick patient.

God has decreed that our brain should not waste any extra energy by curious questions when our physiology is in need of every calorie.

So a child's active curiosity is an indirect evidence of both health and intelligence.

And it is well to help whet his wits by furnishing him scientific facts while the questions are fresh in his mind.

But use my "Pause and Praise" formula, followed by the deft "Reversible Why" technique.

When Alan asks his daddy, "Where does the sun go at night," his father can say:

"Alan, that's a dandy question. In fact, the school teachers at the time of Christopher Columbus, didn't even know the answer!"

This pleases Alan immensely.

Teachers Study

Coping With

Class Pressures

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — More than 200 teachers in Salina and Saline County are involved in a continuing study of how to cope with "pressures in the classroom."

The teachers launched the study after a mental health discussion with Dr. Edward Greenwood, director of the school mental health program at the famed Meninger Foundation in Topeka.

The study is sponsored by the Saline County Mental Health Association and will involve both students and their teachers.

Dr. Greenwood said that pressure is necessary for growth, but each must learn how to cope with the pressures. He urged the teachers to recognize that they enjoy helping some children more, because they are able to like them, and then to resist this tendency.

Mayor Snips A

Spaghetti Ribbon

LOUISVILLE, Colo. (AP) — When a new highway was dedicated at Louisville, there wasn't the usual ribbon-cutting ceremony.

Instead, Mayor Frank Rizzi snipped a ribbon of spaghetti that was 50 feet long and three inches wide. Many of Louisville's residents are of Italian descent.

3 New Valves

LEEDS, England (AP) — A surgical team at Leeds Infirmary transplanted three valves from a pig into the heart of a woman on Monday, it was learned today. The woman, Jean Barstow, 38, a mother of two, was reported recovering satisfactorily.

A man was given one valve from a pig's heart in an operation at Oxford in 1966.

A British Medical Association spokesman in London said he was unable to determine immediately whether a three-valve operation had been done before.

Mrs. Barstow now has three aortic valves from a pig working place of her four heart valves. Two of the valves were transplanted while her heart was stopped. A heart-lung machine was used during the three-hour operation.

Choirs Giving Joint Concert

RALEIGH — A musical collaboration of the East Carolina University Men's Glee Club and the St. Mary's Junior College Glee Club will come to flower in a joint Spring Concert here this evening.

The concert at 8:30 p.m. in the St. Mary's auditorium is open to the public.

The two glee clubs have been preparing for the concert for the past several months. The St. Mary's girls journeyed to Greenville recently for a joint rehearsal.

They will perform together portions of the Mozart Coronation Mass, accompanied by an ensemble from the ECU Orchestra, and selections from George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," accompanied by Michael Bulley of the St. Mary's music faculty.

Dr. Clyde Hiss will direct the ECU Men's Glee Club in a group of songs including the music of Brahms, Saint-Saens, and Verdi. Patricia Hiss and Gregory Bell will be accompanists. The St. Mary's Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Geraldine Cate, will perform works by Schutz, Bartok, Kodaly, and Copland.

Memphis Seeing Tensions Grow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — About 300 Negro youths massed in front of a high school today and answered police efforts to disperse them with a volley of bricks and bottles.

Police were ordered by superiors not to charge the crowd, which soon moved away toward the downtown area to join a march led by Dr. Martin Luther King in support of sanitation workers who struck the city seven weeks ago. Most of the 1,300 strikers are Negroes.

Police Chief J. C. MacDonald said other Negro groups were forming in various sections of the city to join the King march. He said they were arming themselves with bricks and other missiles.

"It doesn't look good," MacDonald said. King called for the march and at the same time urged a one-day general strike today by the city's Negro population.

Portions of two major downtown streets were blocked off to traffic, and beefed-up police patrols were on duty early today in preparation for the march in support of garbage collectors, most of them Negro, who have been on strike since Feb. 12.

The sanitation workers are demanding higher pay, city recognition of their union and payroll deductions of union dues.

Liner Sliced Through Whale

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — The 28,000-ton British liner Himalaya sliced through a 90-foot whale in the Tasman Sea passengers and crewmen said.

First officer Charles Free said the whale appeared off the port bow.

"We felt very little on the bridge when we hit it, but passengers on the main deck and men in the engine room felt a shudder," he said.

C. L. Corey of 1307 East First Street and Wilbur Nichols, 1402 Drum Avenue, have been given convention assignments. Convention coordinator, Philip Searcy of Rocky Mount, said the Greenville men would be among 22 supervisors charged with organizing the many departments needed to run the convention.

Technologists Set Convention In Greenville

Greenville has been selected as the site for the 1969 convention of the North Carolina Society of Radiologic Technologists.

The selection of the convention site was made at the 13th annual radiologic technologists meeting in Greensboro last week.

Among the 23 student scientific papers presented at last week's session was a paper by Miss Robbie Midgett of Grifton, a student in the School of Radiologic Technology at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Her paper was entitled "Evaluation of the Schuller's Position", an x-ray position that is taken only with the utmost precision and is used for evaluation of the temporal bone which is the center of hearing.

Miss Midgett is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Midgett of Grifton.

Kenneth Eutsler, director of education at Pitt Memorial's radiologic technology school was named to the education committee of the state society.

The education committee heads all symposiums and seminars that are held throughout the state annually as refresher courses for graduates and institutes for teachers in radiology.

Eutsler was also appointed convention chairman for the Greenville convention.

Other contenders for the 1969 convention site included Fayetteville and Winston-Salem.

Flames Ravage New Building, Atlanta Hotel

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A spectacular 34-story-high skyscraper fire lit up the Atlanta skyline Wednesday night, setting a hotel and another downtown building on fire and threatening all surrounding structures.

The top two stories of the new Equitable Building — still under construction — burst out of control for more than an hour, as Atlanta firemen tried desperately to bring water hoses to bear on the flames.

Hundreds of guests at the Dinkler Plaza Hotel, directly across the street from the burning building, evacuated their rooms after the hotel roof caught fire and flaming timber rained down into the street and onto the hotel.

Music Society Inducts Twelve

Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music fraternity for women at East Carolina University, has initiated 12 new members.

Four Traffic Mishaps Reported Yesterday

More than $1,600 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 2:10 p.m. mishap on Greene Street a half-mile north of the First Street intersection.

Drivers of the three cars involved in that collision were identified as Debbie Taylor, 16, of 309 East Gum Rd., Rodgers Lee Hooks, 32-year-old Negro of Route 6, Greenville and George Nelson Harrell, 18-year-old Negro of Route 1, Harrellsville.

Damage to the Taylor car was set at $500, while damage to the Hooks auto was placed at $400. Damage to the Harrell vehicle was set at $40.

Police charged Miss Taylor with operating without a license. Patricia Ann Thompson, 18, of 105 John Ave. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 7:45 a.m. collision on Maryland Dr. 100 feet west of the John Avenue intersection.

Police said the Thompson car collided with a utility pole causing an estimated $250 damage to the car and about $200 damage to the pole.

Miss Thompson was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries she received in the mishap.

Both drivers involved in a 12:53 p.m. collision, William Earl Norville, 20, of Grifton and Evelyn Hardee Spivey of 207 Millbrook St., were charged with failing to see their intended movement could be made in safety, following investigation of the collision.

Damage to the Norville auto was set at $100 while damage to the Spivey car was estimated to be $50.

Police said the collision occurred at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Jone Street.

Cars driven by Rupert Francis Allen of 211 Meade St. and Richard Wilson Lucht, 29, of 108 North Harding St. were involved in a 1:03 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and Meade Streets.

According to police, Allen was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout.

Damage to the Lucht auto was placed at $175. Police reported no damage resulted to the Allen vehicle.

Officers Probe Shooting Case

She is the wife of N.S. "Kid" Tyson, who served for many years as forest ranger in Pitt County before his retirement.
