

Beauty Show Winner Is Cosmetologist Speaker

Miss Brenda Sanderson of Raleigh gave the demonstration hairstyle at last night's meeting of the Pitt County Cosmetologist Association.

Miss Sanderson was named world's champion student hairstylist at the 1968 International Beauty Show held in New York City last week.

She won first place over some 90 other student contestants in the show from England, Germany, Canada, France, Italy, Spain and Japan.

The student contestants were there with their coaches and their own practiced versions of the spring trend — the Betty Boo. Mrs. Esther Buffkin of Raleigh was her teacher-coach and B. R. Mitchell, owner of Mitchell's Hair Styling Academies in Greenville and Raleigh, was her sponsor. Miss Sanderson graduated from the Raleigh academy last Friday.

Miss Sanderson had been practicing her recreation on her model, Mrs. Charles Stephenson, for around two weeks before her contest performance.

The Betty Boo style, which is one of the new Ruffled Curl trends, requires a ruffled curl look around the face, a ragged natural neckline and a variation of color. The hairstyle can be original within the limitations of the silhouette and can select between a horizontal oval or a vertical oval for the shape around the face.

Mrs. Emily Brickhouse, program chairman for the local group, introduced the program.

Mrs. Lois Johnson, president, presided at the meeting. It was announced that spring clinics to show the new trends for summer will be held in Raleigh May 12-13.

Luncheon Given Pickwick Club

Mrs. Conner Merritt was hostess to members of the Pickwick Book Club for a luncheon meeting held Tuesday.

Guests present were Mrs. Jack Billmeyer, Mrs. Bob Mills, Mrs. Stephen White and the speaker for the meeting, Harvey Ward.

Ward, who is a candidate for seat No. 1 from Pitt County for the N. C. House of Representatives, spoke on his political views and goals.

He stressed the need for medical facilities for eastern North Carolina and the United forces for education. He pointed out the needs for paved roads to bring further industry to Pitt County.

A question and answer period followed the program.

WCTU To Meet Thursday Night

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet with Mrs. Bernice Clark Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Gladys Scoville will give the program on "Ideals That Build The Future." The devotional theme for the meeting will be "Preparing Youth for God's Service."

A discussion on "What Everyone Should Know About Alcohol Beverages and Narcotics" will be held. Interested persons from churches in the surrounding area are urged to attend the meeting.

His Mother Drives An Emergency Ambulance

By SALLY WRIGHT

CINCINNATI (AP) — Not every boy can boast of having an ambulance driver for a mother. But 12-year-old Johnny Evans can. And sometimes he gives a dramatic account.

Once the young Cincinnati broke up a backyard football game, yelling, "Outta the way, kids. Mom's gotta hurry"—as mom, Mrs. Addie Evans, dashed for the suburban Terrace Park Community Building on an emergency call.

Mrs. Evans is one of four women who make up Terrace Park's distaff Emergency Life Squad team.

On less dramatic moments, Johnny proudly relates the medical episodes of his mother who hurries to an accident scene and provides first-aid assistance before taking the victim to a hospital.

Here's what Johnny will tell about his mom and her "squad" mates, Mrs. Jeanette MacMillan, Mrs. Evelyn Peery and Mrs. Margaret Whitehouse:

It's a volunteer assignment, but the homework necessary even to qualify staggers the average student. They spend an initial 80 hours in the classroom and must complete the standard advanced American Red Cross first aid courses. This is in addition to the 30-hour course required by the state.

Subjects range from treatment of simple fractures; and burns to assisting at births.

Then there's a radio communications course and the candidates must spend at least one evening in a hospital emergency ward before they're ready for duty.

Working in pairs—usually on alternate days—they are on call from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. A neighborhood fire official accompanies each team on call.

Mrs. Evans and her teammates often are confronted with death—from the first emergency call of an accident on a highway or in a home to the final minutes in an emergency room. But sometimes humor mellows the picture.

"There I was," related Mrs. Evans, "strolling into a hospital emergency ward with heavy eye makeup, false eyelashes, 'paste on' beauty marks and those little sparkles you paste on your face."

She sighed, smiled. "All that and besides, I was wearing pink velvet slacks!"

Fuddy Duddy Ladies Knew Something All Along

By DON G. CAMPBELL

RENO, Nev. (WNS)—Three is a curious irony in the whole thing: for years you dutifully drop extra nickels, dimes and quarters into the cracked sugar bowl in the kitchen as a hedge against the proverbial rainy day.

Fifteen years later the coins are worth a third of their face value in buying power, but the cracked bowl — of throwaway quality — is suddenly worth $500.

That's antique biz for you, and it's the greatest argument that we have today in support of the contention that beauty is strictly in the eye of the beholder. Virtually no one but an antique lover, for instance, can get very ecstatic over the appearance of a 17th century Dutch-Baroque side chair which, at casual glance, looks very much like an upended Volkswagen with legs.

Still and all, the traffic in utilitarian and decorative items of common usage and of an earlier time period has never been heavier. In 1967 there were over 19,000 antique shops in the country, and more than 1,200 antique shows were held which did a gross business of about $600 million.

Until relatively recently, according to John Ivey of Reno, "antique" meant — for tariff-exemption purposes — any item of manufacture prior to 1832, a date arbitrarily picked by the U. S. Government. Now, however, any item at least 100 years old qualifies as an antique.

Fuddy Duddy Ladies

Leng considered the province — almost exclusively — of fuddy duddy old ladies, the vast world of antiques has skyrocketed in popularity because of the fervent interest of an entirely different group: investors.

It suddenly began dawning on some sophisticated money manipulators a few years ago that — humdrum or not, in the layman's eyes — antiques were appreciating considerably faster in value in this inflationary age than were most other, better-known, hedges against the deterioration of the dollar.

"This isn't difficult to understand," Ivey said recently. "Not only are more people becoming collectors every year — and taking more pieces out of circulation — but permanent collections, such as museums, are also cutting down on the available antiques and, in addition, natural losses through fire and breakage are whittling down the obviously limited supply even more sharply. It's purely a matter of supply and demand."

Important pieces of furniture which sold for $1,500 in 1955 are now bringing prices of $4,500 and, on a smaller price scale, fine art glass pieces and cut glass have, at least, tripled in value in the past 12 years.

Ironic Appreciation

Ironically, Ivey said, some of the most dramatic appreciations in value have been in antiques that — at the time of their manufacture — were mass produced simply for utilitarian purposes and made no pretense at being "fine" works of art. A dramatic case in point is the "Gaudy Dutch" porcelain produced between 1820 and 1840 at Staffordshire, England, specifically for the frugal Pennsylvania Dutch of the eastern United States.

Stamped out in the cheapest possible way, and hand-decorated with inexpensive paint promptly washed off after a few dunkings in hot water — the porcelain was strictly designed to be used and then thrown away when it became cracked. A cup and a saucer cost about three cents. And so, of course, that was exactly the fate of 99.99 per cent of the "Gaudy Dutch" porcelain — it was used and thrown away. A cup and a saucer, in good condition, now sell for about $150, if and when they can be found.

In recent years, Ivey said, the fastest appreciation has probably been in "Russian" cut glass (which refers to the type of cut, not the nationality). Ten years ago a good piece of Russian cut glass sold for about $100. Five years ago the same piece was selling for $300. Today it sells for $1,500.

Divergent Fields

Ivey is coproducer with Mrs. Mary Mitchell, also of Reno, of 11 antique shows around the country every year and, between the two of them, they share an expertise of such widely divergent fields as early English porcelain, rare books and coins and Oriental art works, antiques and "collectibles."

Where, specifically, would today's collector begin laying the groundwork for fast appreciation in the years ahead?

"Here, for openers," Ivey said, picking up a cheap restaurant glass and eyeing it. "We're running out of good quality sand for glassware at an alarming rate — even the good restaurants are going more and more to the better plastics. One of these days, table glassware is going to be extinct as we know it today. I'm already collecting a complete line of a fine glassware put out by the Lenox China Co. It's not cheap — a wine glass, for instance, costs about $5 — but I suspect that, in a few years, the company won't be able to continue it and that it will appreciate, rapidly, in value."

Big Gains

"I think that the really big gains are going to be in silver coins," said Ivey. "At the top of course, is the 1895 silver dollar from the Pennsylvania mint. There were only 800 of them struck and the current price is about $12,000 apiece. I have a standing offer from one collector to buy any I find for him at, literally, any price."

Other silver coins that Ivey feels will appreciate sharply in price over the coming years are all pre-World War II dimes, especially "Liberty" dimes, the "Walking Liberty" and the Franklin half-dollars. Except for sentimental value, he said, all issues of the Kennedy half-dollar are worth just exactly what they will buy at the store — about 30 cents worth of merchandise at pre-World War II standards.

Whether it be coins, glassware, furniture, dolls or whatever you, though, the amateur's fears of being taken for a sucker are probably the biggest deterrent to antique collecting. How can he protect himself?

"Stick with only reputable, well-established dealers," Ivey advises. "If they're members of a reputable, national or regional association of dealers, they're pledged to guarantee the authenticity of anything they sell. Secondly, of course, never trade with a dealer who doesn't have price tags clearly displayed on everything he has for sale."

The rewards — which the Nevada expert expects to reach 1,000 per cent appreciation over the next 20 years in some types of antiques — make the small risk well worthwhile.

Carol White, Naughty On Screen, Is Homebody Off

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Carol White, 24, young British actress, is so unimpressed with her own success that her husband was moved to say to her at a New York theater opening: "For heavens sakes, don't look now. You'll pass out. You're rubbing elbows with Paul Newman." She was so shocked, she couldn't look up... you know what that could do to a girl, she says.

Steve McQueen could have the same effect on her. And Marlon Brando—well, there's no sense talking about it, she says, laughing. She likes he-man types. "But I also like the way they put out as actors. They make you aware of them," says pretty blonde Carol.

There is some talk that Carol who is in a top-demand position right now, will make a movie in the United States. She is on her first trip to America and it was timed to coincide with a movie, "Poor Cow," in which she co-stars with Terrence Stamp.
She has been in show business 11 years, although she didn't get in by the usual formula—a trip to London and an agent, who sends you to producers and directors. At 11, Carol was at "stagna school" and the agent there got her auditions, interviews, TV commercials and bit films. It is easier to get into the movies in Britain than it is in the United States, she says.

In spite of having played a few naughty, controversial roles, Carol is a real homebody. She loves her husband, Michael King, 30, a pop singer in a "group" who travels with her and their two children, Sean 5, and Stevie 2, who is in her current movie.

Her husband's two brothers in the musical group enjoy a vacation occasionally—one writes stories, the other writes music, she says, so when they must travel, the group takes a respite. Michael has spent most of his leisure time in a Fifth Avenue toy store, ostensibly because "the children enjoy it," he says with a grin.

They've just bought a lovely house on the outskirts of London. But they won't go "London." In England, new wealth is not used that way, she explains. There is no rivalry to have the best in your new affluent set. You keep your old friends and you don't try to impress anyone.

She has made films with Peter Sellers and has one coming out soon with Orson Wells. She has a five-film contract and "options everywhere."

"My family are very cockney English," she says, revealing that she is at the point where it makes no difference to her. She once fretted that she had a cockney accent and was afraid to talk to people.

"I'm so happy that Americans are so pleasant. Everyone told they would be difficult," she says.

Teacher Raised Skirts And Grades

LIEGE, Belgium (WNS) — Schoolteacher Marie Anne Montaigne raised her skirts and the marks of her students at the same time. "I am sure that the children always thought of me as an old maid," she told a parents' meeting here. "When I came out in clothes that they could admire, everything changed. The students became alive, interested and eager to learn well and win my approval."

Loneliness Is Disease That Can Be Cured: Help Others

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead, and I am all alone in the world. Loneliness is like a cancer, only it's worse. It doesn't kill you, it just gnaws at the mind until concentration and constructive thinking are permanently crippled.

When my husband was living, we visited lonely people, and often took them for rides, to the movies, and out for a meal. But now that I am alone, no one visits me. Ane no one ever offers to take me anywhere. Married people don't care. They have each other. Sundays are torture. They're endless.

I am treated worse than a criminal. Perhaps if I were a criminal, some saintly person from a church group would call on me and try to save my "soul."

I attend church but the church has paid no attention to me in my loneliness. I am not rich, neither am I poor. I am not beautiful, nor am I ugly. I'm too old to work steady at a job, and I'm too young to die.

I know there is no solution to my loneliness, but perhaps it will help to write it down. Thank you.

LONELY IN ATLANTA

DEAR LONELY: Your letter reveals an intelligent sensitive woman, plagued by self-pity and preoccupied with "loneliness." If you are able to walk, talk, hear, and see, and are not dependent upon charity, you are better off than some.

A sure cure for the blues is to find someone less fortunate than yourself, and do something for that person. (You won't have to look far.) There are lonely people to visit, blind folks to read to and write for. The only way to "get" is by giving. Try it, and if you are still inclined to agonize over your solitude, the pain could be self-inflicted.

DEAR ABBY: There is a handsome new teller at the bank where I deposit the company checks, and he has me so flattered I hardly know what I'm doing.

This morning after I made my deposit, he touched my hand when he gave me my receipt, and I nearly fainted. He has the most beautiful smile, Abby, and he seems to light up when he sees me coming. One of the girls who works at the bank said he asked her if I was engaged or going with somebody, so he must be interested in me.

How can I let him know I would like to know him better without being too forward?
DEPOSITOR
DEAR DEPOSITOR: Just keep making those deposits, and watch the interest grow.

DEAR ABBY: It was with a great deal of interest that I read the letter in your column from the teen-aged girl who bemoaned the age-old tradition that gives the male the privilege of asking the girl for a date instead of vice versa.

As a high school teacher for the last 19 years I have had an opportunity to observe the situation from close range. I have taken polls and discovered that approximately 10 per cent of my girl students know that it is the GIRL'S place to speak to the boy first. Boys tell me that 99 out of 100 girls will walk past them in the halls without so much as a "hi". No boy would consider the girl "forward" were she to speak first. The girl who is friendly enough to say "hi" first is usually the one who comes to mind when he wants a date for that special occasion.

Reallocations Face Local Govm'ts

Many counties and municipalities in North Carolina are going to have to take another look at allocation of the seats on their governing boards. The sooner they do this to bring the boards in line with the one-man-one-vote order of the Supreme Court, the better off local governments in the state will be.

It was in anticipation of the extension of this rule to local governments that the General Assembly provided permissive legislation which enabled counties and cities to reallocate their representation where it is based on geographic areas. This came in the wake of the ruling that the one-man-one-vote rule applied to state legislatures.

Pitt County, for one, has added a sixth seat to its Board of Commissioners in order to reduce the inequity which existed in the number of citizens represented by the various members of the Board of Commissioners. In spite of this move, there still exists a wide disparity between the number of citizens represented by each of the county's district commissioners. In our judgment it is highly doubtful that the present arrangement would stand close scrutiny by the court. Even so, the make-up of Pitt County's Board of Commissioners is now on a more equitable basis than is the case in many of the state's counties.

The same one-man-one-vote rule which applies to legislative seats and County Boards of Commissioners now also applies to seats on municipal governing boards. Many of North Carolina's cities and towns which have boards made up of ward or precinct representatives are going to have to take action to remove the inequities that exist in their present systems.

In cities such as Greenville, where all members of the municipal governing body are elected at large, there is no problem with the new court ruling. The new order will have considerable effect on local governments in North Carolina and ultimately result in considerable change in their composition. It's our opinion that these changes will bring about improvements in the quality of government at the local level throughout the state.

An Energetic Man Is Waging War Of Hate

Adam Clayton Powell is 'exhausted.' The ousted Harlem Congressman was hospitalized at Duke Hospital following one address and just prior to a second scheduled appearance at Duke University. Doctors termed his condition "exhaustion precipitated by his busy schedule of recent weeks."

What a pity Mr. Powell spent himself in what can be conjured as nothing less than an intense effort to foment discontent and rebellion among young Americans, black and white. His efforts could have been toward a much more constructive end, especially in these troubled days.

Mr. Powell is a dynamic, energetic man possessed of great talents for leadership. Behind that leadership, young Americans could accomplish much in the way of securing cooperation in making peaceful, far-reaching gains in the war against the racial barriers of fear, poverty and hate.

Unfortunately, however, Mr. Powell seems to also be possessed of a demon, one which urges him to wage his war with just more hate and, ultimately, probably violence.

Mr. Powell recently cast out of a church a picture of a white Christ and replaced it with a black Christ. Why could he not have made room for both?

Scars Beneath Shell Of Unity

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The appearance of unity in the Republican party with Richard M. Nixon breezing along toward the presidential nomination obscures deep divisions in the party on issues before Congress.

In the big fight over spending cuts, a sizable group of House Republicans is trying to counter the meat-ax approach favored by the GOP leaders with a plan to plow some savings into programs to help the cities.

The group has set up a staff, conducted hearings and welded a program of cuts totaling $6.5 billion, of which $2.5 billion would be used to expand programs to meet "urgent human needs and the urban crisis."

"We need a new set of priorities," says Rep. Charles E. Goodell of upstate New York, a leader of the effort, "one that recognizes the enormous financial difficulties facing us but which also recognizes the terrible human waste which is resulting from past and current inattention."

About 40 Republicans, mostly younger ones and those from the suburbs, have indicated an interest in such an approach. But the party hierarchy is lined up solidly behind a move to slash spending without permitting any increases.

On no issue, however, is the split in Republican ranks sharper than on the open-nourishing provisions in the Senate-passed civil rights bill now before the House.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the GOP boss in the House, is insisting the bill be sent to a conference with the Senate to seek a compromise (Continued On Page 5)

Strength For Today
By EARL L. DOUGLASS
DEITY WITH TWO FACES
Janus was a Roman deity characterized by the fact that he had two faces. Symbolically this meant a number of things to the ancient Romans. To us, the fact that the god had two faces continues to be significant.

There is scarcely a more contemptuous thought one can entertain regarding another or fling at him than to say that he (or she) is two-faced—one thing at one time or to one set of persons and another thing at another time or to another set or persons. Instability goes with that sort of character. No one puts any confidence in such. He or she is considered capable of practically anything bad.

So, the reputation of being two-faced is something decidedly to be avoided. One may say that he doesn't like the cut of your job or that you have halitosis or that he is bored by your conversation, and all this comes out in the wash. But let one get the reputation of being two-faced and he might as well pack up and move. Bankers will not trust him—rich is important. He will be given a formal nod after the church service, but no one will bother to linger a moment, shake his hand and say a cordial word. "The guy is two-faced," is the word that has got around about him.

Janus was a great god among the ancients, but the image of him is something pretty contemptible in our day. He's a good guy to steer clear of.

N.C. Democrat Ranks Adrift?

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — President Johnson's startling announcement that he will not run again cast a thick, almost visible cloud of confusion over North Carolina's Democratic party ranks.

"I'm flabbergasted," said party chairman I. T. (Tim)

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Whether it is Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, J. Melville Broughton or Dr. Reginald Hawkins, the nominee knows he faces additional political problems and pressures and probably that of making a clear-cut decision about a presidential nominee between May and August.

Humphrey's Overtures

It was recalled quickly that the vice president, Hubert Humphrey, had honeyed words for North Carolina and was at his vivacious best in a speech at Raleigh only a few days earlier.

But in the past — just four years ago — state party leaders including Gov. Dan K. Moore said they felt Humphrey would not help the Democratic party cause in North Carolina. This feeling persists among many moderate-conservative Democrats. Some others have misgivings but indicate they may swallow Humphrey's candidacy before supporting Robert F. (Bobby) Kennedy as a presidential nominee. Sen. Eugene McCarthy is almost entirely discounted among North Carolina's party leaders as a political stranger.

Humphrey may prove persuasive enough, some party sources said. He may now win North Carolina support.

Cast Adrift

There was a definite feeling, despite an admitted drop in Johnson's popularity and a rising wave of Republican strength, that the LBJ decision had cut Democrats adrift — unless they could accept Humphrey.

The announcement by the president came only a few days after Kennedy's entry into the presidential nomination picture appeared to solidify North Carolina's party support for the president.

In the first swirl of state political confusion, some suggestion was made that North Carolina choose a favorite son (Continued On Page 5)

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

If many more millionaires drop out of the presidential sweepstakes, the nation may yet elect a poor man to the White House. A number of presidents were born in log cabins. Maybe in this age of wheels we may get one who was born in a trailer.

College professors are more likely to be conversational bums than are bank bandits, truck drivers or politicians. They tend to treat the world as if it were their classroom, filled with a captive audience. They can't simply discuss a thing. Habit compels them to deliver a lecture.

Manhattan cab drivers are like top business executives—they don't get ulcers, they give them.

Here's how to tell if a girl really loves you. Take a white thread and put it in plain view on the lower part of the

Ticket-Sale Backfired

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — There have been rumors that certain government agencies have been putting the arm on federal employes to buy tickets to the $250-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner in Washington to honor President Johnson on April 4. Several employes making $18,000 or more have complained that their supervisors have hinted that attendance at the dinner would be in their best interests. They have also been reminded that they have been promoted and given pay raises by the Johnson Administration.

This sort of thing is bound to backfire, as it did the other day when George Hornwinkel, a grade-15 employe in the Bureau of Revisions and Retrenchment, was called in by his supervisor, Arthur Argonaut.

Argonaut greeted Horn-winkel warmly and asked him to sit down.

"Hornwinkel, you're doing a fine job. Everyone in the bureau says you're on the ball."

"Thank you, sir. I always say a man is as good as his supervisor, and you're the best."

"You're very kind. Hornwinkel, were you thinking of going to the Democratic party on April 4? I'm not pressing you, of course, but I do have some tickets here in case you want one. They're only $250, but I'm sure it will be a memorable evening."

"Yes, sir, I sure am thinking of going," Hornwinkel said. "I've been looking forward to this dinner all year long."

"Well, I'm glad to hear you say that, George. I'll put you down for one."

"Sir, I don't want one. I want 10. I wish to take my whole family. You don't get to see President Johnson every day, and besides, he's done so much for federal employes, the least we can do for him is to buy a few lousy tickets to his dinner."

Argonaut blanched. "The tickets will cost you $2,500, Hornwinkel. You don't have to go overboard on this."

"What's the money when you can have a marvelous dinner, good companionship and great speakers such as only the Democratic Party can produce? Besides, all of us in the government are obligated to support our President, who not only has been responsible for and pay raises, but other fringe benefits that only the Great Society could deliver."

Argonaut looked coldly at Hornwinkel and said: "George, I think you're after my job."

"What do you mean, sir?" "You don't fool me," Argonaut shouted. "If you buy 10 tickets to the dinner and I only buy one, the party will hear about it and you'll get my job. Of all the dirty, low-down tricks, this takes the cake."

"But, sir, I'm not after your job. I sincerely want to buy 10 tickets to the dinner. My wife is dying to see Lady Bird, and my mother and father are ardent admirers of Vice President Humphrey, and my kids think Democratic Chairman John Bailey is one of the most amusing men in politics. I feel that with a cast like that, plus dinner, $250 a plate is a steal."

Other Editors Saying A New Constitution
(Washington Daily News)
Governor Moore has named a 25 member Study commission to take a full look at North Carolina's constitution with the idea in mind of recommending changes and modifications.

In other words, this 25 member study commission will be thinking in terms of how to streamline our constitution to meet modern day needs. And it can only recommend because the ultimate decision is one for the voters of our state to make.

For a long while now we have been hearing that our North Carolina constitution is outmoded and belongs to the horse and buggy days.

This study commission has a big job ahead of it. There are so many ideas on how to change our constitution and how it should be changed that the study commission is bound to become rather shell-shocked before all the testimony is completed.

We think the idea of making the study is good. It has seemed inevitable for a long time that we must make a start one day on revising our constitution. It is not an easy job, and regardless of what the final recommendations are, there is going to be no unanimity of opinion.

But a start must be made somewhere, and a start is now being made. This study commission might eventually recommend some changes and revisions. It might recommend a new constitution altogether. It has a charge from the governor to take a full look.

And one day in the not too distant future, we suspect that the people of North Carolina will have an opportunity to make the lasting decision. It is a good commission studying the matter, and an enlightening report can be expected.

By ELMER ROESSNER

In a brilliant stroke of madness, the New York City Council overrode a veto by Mayor John V. Lindsay and passed a law prohibiting any printed claim in advertising that the advertiser cannot prove. Thus Fun City progresses another step toward Funny City.

The law does not apply to television or radio advertising. The law would appear to make illegal such statements as, "You'll love the silky shine Mozellov Cream gives to your hair," not because it doesn't give a silky shine, but because the advertiser can't prove what a reader may love. In fact, the reader may be bald.

In the same issue of the New York Times that reported the Democratic council's comeuppance of the Republican mayor appeared such hard-to-prove claims as: "What do you find at the end of a rainbow? A Misty Harbor!" (I always find pots of gold.)

ELMER ROESSNER

Lovely, Unprovable Claims
"You're as pretty as you are protected in these outdoor-able rain-resisters."

(Me?)

"The look is you!"
"The young romantic hat."
"Englander foam rubber mattress sets give you the same sleep comfort you get at the Hilton hotels." (With whom?)

"Brentano's is where Europe is at."
"Gefilte fish like mother used to make." (My Irish mother couldn't even spell it!)

"Everybody's talking about Gore Vidal's Myra..." (You?)

"The best way to reach women." (With a magazine?)
Fin-De-Siecle

The new law could mean the end of an era of colorful ad writing, with hard, provable facts replacing the admen's flights of fancy. If it makes ads more accurate, it will also make them dreary, at least in print.

It applies to newspapers, magazines, circulars, pamphlets, catalogues, store displays, letters and handbills.

Advertisers must keep proof of the accuracy for 90 days after the ad appears, and make the proof available for inspection at any time by the Department of Licenses. Penalties are fines up to $500 and imprisonment of up to 30 days, or both.

However, it is not expected that the law will be applied to merely fanciful writing, unless perhaps by a Republican. It was primarily intended to check on such claims as "below cost," "at wholesale price," "at manufacturer's cost" and similar claims.

Will Ask NCTA Youth Corps Director Oppose Merger Leaving Post In Pitt

RALEIGH (AP) — The state convention of the North Carolina Teachers Association, a predominantly Negro professional organization, will be asked later this week to delay a merger with its predominantly white counterpart until next year.

NCTA executive secretary E. B. Palmer said Tuesday the group's board of directors will ask the statewide delegation to take the action during its convention in Raleigh.

The predominantly white teachers group, the North Carolina Education Association, is expected to consider a leadership resolution calling for the merger in September. The NCE will be meeting in Charlotte at the same time the NCTA is in Raleigh.

September 1969 has been set as a deadline for the merger by the groups' parent organization, the National Education Association.

Clyde W. Matthews has resigned his position as project director of the Pitt County Neighborhood Youth Corps to accept a position with the United States Office of Education in Charlottesville, Va., effective May 6.

CLYDE MATTHEWS

Matthews will work under the Equal Educational Opportunities Program which is responsible for providing technical assistance, special training for educational personnel and coordination with relevant federal programs to help eliminate segregation in public school systems which request such assistance.

Director of the Pitt NYC since June, 1966, Matthews has taught history and political science with the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education. He holds a BS degree and an MA degree in social studies from East Carolina University.

He is married to the former Mary Lou Manuel of Front Royal, Va., and they have two daughters, Louise and Sue.

Matthews said applications for project director of the Pitt County NYC are now being accepted. Applications should be sent to P.O. Box 174, Greenville, N.C. Anyone desiring further information may call 752-3949.

If I see you at the dinner, I'll make your life miserable. You tried to pull a fast one on me and I'll forget it this time. But if you even mention the Democratic party to me again, you will rue the day. Do I make myself clear?"

"Gee, I'm sorry you feel that way, Mr. Argonaut," Hornwinkler said. "I was just trying to help out. But if you believe I was trying to get your job, I'd rather not go to the dinner at all."

"You can go now, Hornwinkler, and forget we had this conversation."

Hornwinkler left Argonaut's office and walked back to his own. On the way he met Leroy Gunther, who said, "How did it work?"

"Like a dream," Hornwinkler smiled. "The slob refused to sell me a ticket."

Gunther looked at his own $250 ticket and sighed. "Damn, I wish I had thought of that first."

Ford's refusal to go along with the Senate bill also puts him at odds with his party's leader in the Senate, Everett M. Dirksen, who played a key role in breaking a Southern filibuster to get the bill passed.

Before New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller became a primary campaign drop out the division on both the urban and civil rights issues followed roughly the split among members favoring Nixon or Rockefeller for the presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's supporters felt it would be a calamity for the Republican party, needing urban support, to go into a presidential election without a clear-cut record of support for the Senate bill, particularly with George C. Wallace siphoning off Southern votes.

Now, civil rights leaders are urging Nixon to see if he can't get Ford to change his mind and accept the Senate bill.

Special Holy Week Services Scheduled

The Greenville Ministerial Association will conduct special Holy Week services next week at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

The services will be held in the chapel of the church from 12 noon to 12:30, Monday through Thursday.

On Monday, April 8, the service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Joyce V. Early, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. On Tuesday, the Rev. Percy B. Upchurch, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, will be in charge. The Rev. Charles C. Satterfield, pastor of the York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church will lead the service on Wednesday, and the Rev. William H. Hadden, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church will be in charge Thursday.

Her Husband And Elephants 'Lost'

HEYWORTH, Ill. (AP) — A woman driving a truckload of tigers caused a small commotion in this town Tuesday when she reported her husband was lost with a truckful of elephants.

With visions of stray pachyderms plodding the roads, the county sheriff's department alerted all its units to start a search.

The husband with his load of three elephants found his way and showed up shortly. The couple, members of the Shrine Circus, continued on their way with their wife navigating this time.

Look To Nominees Other, experienced political heads believed that the ultimate decision on a presidential choice would lie with the leaders the state's voters choose in the May 4 primaries — between Scott, Broughton, Hawki; and others.

Until now, mention of the 1968 presidential campaign has been omitted almost entirely from the statewide political campaign utterances. It was assumed that the party's nominees would support the national ticket, however unpopular, and there was no problem of choice.

Town In Dark; Didn't Pay Bill

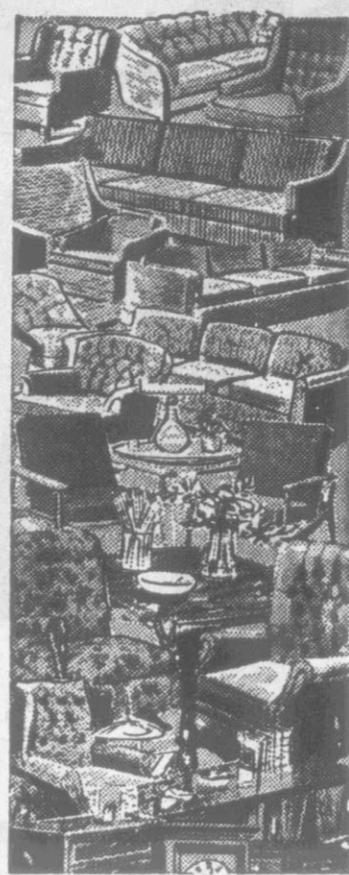

SERGEANTSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Sergeantsville is in the dark because it didn't pay its light bill.

This tiny community's 20 street lights were turned off by workmen of the New Jersey Power and Light Co.

The blackout stems from failure of voters to approve a budget calling for $330 to pay the bill for the lights this year. The budget was defeated in February, 1967.

The only illumination on village streets was from some privately-owned lights and one kerosene lantern which a resident affixed to a stake in front of his home.

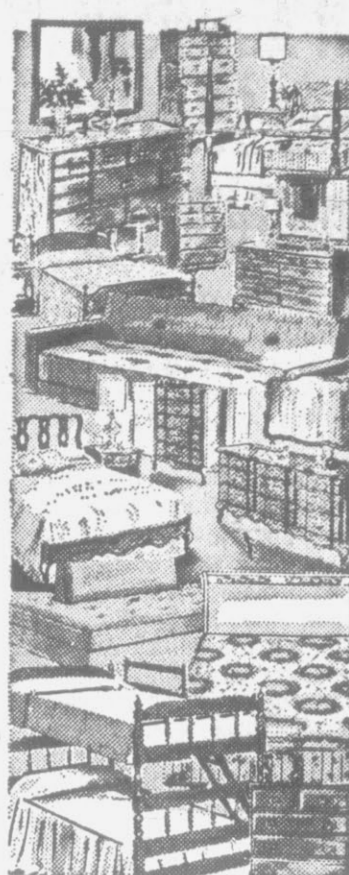

STILL, A SURPLUS ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — New York state finished 1967 - 68 fiscal year at the end of March with a budget surplus of $11,786. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller reported that his administration spent some $4.629 billion during the period.

Anti-American Views Seen In Censored Press

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's press, closely censored and guided by the Saigon government, is showing up these days with more articles critical of America and Americans.

Some anti-American sentiment long has been expressed here. With the escalation of the war and the introduction of more than half a million American military personnel, it is probably not surprising that this should increase. But such expressions now are being brought more into the public record.

Part of the campaign appears to stem from the Communist-directed lunar new year offensive. The shock and surprise of that onslaught resulted in a stirring of sharp criticism on both sides — U.S. and South Vietnamese. Part of it also appears to be a backlash against anti-Vietnam war groups in the United States.

Whatever the reason, the trend of the campaign is being pointed up by a columnist in the Saigon Daily News, one of the country's two English-language newspapers. Both papers are widely read by the American community here.

The column, called "Slices of Life" is written under the pen name Van Minh. He cites a "series of virulent articles" in the Vietnamese-language newspaper Cong Chung. The paper has asserted that the U.S. commitment in South Vietnam is intended to uphold the "interests and prestige of the United States rather than those of the people of Vietnam," Van Minh wrote. He pointed out that the paper's views appeared in a front-page editorial under an eight-column banner and were "lightly censored."

Van Minh himself now is writing a series of columns under the general heading "U.S. Mistakes in Vietnam." The third one appeared Sunday. It was free of any of the white spaces that mark the hand of the government censor. The first two contained some deletions.

Van Minh wrote that "the general feeling among most Americans here is that most Vietnamese are corrupt, undisciplined or irresponsible." He said he agreed that "this society, which includes myself as well, is rotten beyond imagination," but added:

"What I wonder, however, is that whether the Vietnamese hold the monopoly of this rottenness, and whether our American 'advisers' are immune from such undesirable moral deficiencies."

To Be Installed At Convention

RALEIGH—Miss Cherry Ann Lewis of Stokes-Pactolus High School will be installed as state reporter during the 22nd Annual Convention of the North Carolina Association of Future Homemakers of America here Saturday.

Some 3,500 delegates from 560 FHA chapters across the state will gather at the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium for the convention. Plans for the convention were announced this week by Mrs. Hazel Tripp, state FHA Adviser.

Dr. Richard H. Klemer, chairman, Child Development and Family Relations at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, will be the featured speaker. His topic will be "Use Your Influence." The afternoon session will be highlighted by a program given by Miss Patricia Gitt of Yardley of London.

During the morning session, State Homemakers degrees will be awarded to FHA members who have planned and carried out special projects in keeping with the goals of FHA.

Culminating this year's work, 70 delegates from North Carolina will attend the National Convention July 8-14 in Miami, Fla. The theme will be "Citizenship — FHA's Challenge to Cherish."

New Neighbors' Practical Joke

LOUISVILLE (AP) — A strange sight greeted Philip Scholtz and his wife when they accompanied the moving van to their new home. Every house on the block had a "For Sale" sign popped up overnight.

At Scholtz's house, there was an "Open For Inspection" sign on the lawn. It was all a practical joke arranged by Scholtz's new neighbors.

Officers Chosen
By Local Moose
Monday Night

Lacy Harrell, who has been serving for the past year as Junior Governor of Greenville Moose Lodge 885, was elected Monday night as Governor for the 1968-69 term.
Other officers chosen, were: Henry Flake, Junior Governor; Ralph Heidenreich, Prelate; Eli Bloom, Trustee; James Harris Sr., Treasurer.
Prior to his term as Junior Governor, Harrell served on the

LACY HARRELL

Board of Trustees, was active on the lodge degree team and in committee work.
The new Junior Governor has held office on the district and state level, is now Deputy Supreme Governor of the Moose in North Carolina, is active in the degree and drill teams and has served on a number of committees.
Heidenreich is completing his year as chairman of the lodge's civic affairs committee—often a stepping stone to the board of officers.
Treasurer-elect Harris is a former Governor of the lodge, has headed several committees, organized the prize-winning drill team and has been in charge of the degree staff.
Bloom, re-elected to the Board of Trustees, holds the highest honor of the fraternity, the Pilgrim's Degree of Merit. For years he has chairmanned the lodge's entertainment committee.
The installation of these officers will be held on the evening of April 27, with Supreme Junior Governor Cecil Webster, of Burlington, serving as the installing officer.

Canada Seeing Population Rise

NEW YORK, N.Y.—The population of Canada has expanded rapidly in recent years, according to statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, zooming past the twenty million mark in 1966. This represented a gain of almost 1,800,000 (or 9.7 percent) since the Census of 1961.
Even more rapid has been the growth in metropolitan areas, which absorbed 71 percent of the nation's entire population gain in the five-year period. The residents of Canada's 19 census metropolitan areas (referred to as CMA's), as constituted in 1966, increased by 15 percent, from 6,374,000 in 1961 to 9,635,000.
Population growth in metropolitan areas was not distributed uniformly throughout the country. The increases ranged between 24.2 percent in the Kitchener CMA and 5.7 percent in the Sudbury area—both located in Ontario province. There was little if any relationship between the size of a CMA and its relative growth. For example, the number of inhabitants in the Montreal CMA (Canada's largest) rose by 15.5 percent, while the population in the Saint John CMA (second smallest) increased only 5.9 percent. On the other hand, the relative gain in Winnipeg was less than a third of that in Saskatoon.
Population gains were especially marked in the suburban and other outlying parts of most CMA's. In the aggregate, these areas showed a population increase of 27.6 percent. The residents in the outskirts of Montreal and Quebec increased by a third, and the rise was almost as large around Toronto.

India Plans To Produce Rubber

NEW DELHI (AP)—India plans to make rubber producers out of its Andaman Islands, located far out in the Eastern Bay of Bengal near Burma.
Deputy Commerce Minister M.S. Qureshi told Parliament rubber trees would be planted on 6,000 acres during the next five years.

Blue-Eyed 'Angel' To Seek A National Title

A blue-eyed "Angel" from East Carolina University will fly to New York this weekend to compete for a national beauty title.

Linda Lee West, 20-year-old junior business major from Burlington, will represent Area B-2, one of the nation's 17 areas, in competition for Little General of the Air Force ROTC's Arnold Air Society (AAS).

Little General contestants are members of campus Angel Flights who have won Little Colonel titles in the 17 areas. The Angel Flight is the coed auxiliary organization to AAS.

Judges will pick five finalists. From them the cadets and officers attending the National AAS Conclave will elect the Little General for 1968. Finalists are selected for their beauty scholarship, personality and Angel Flight activities.

Miss West and other representatives from East Carolina will arrive in New York on Sunday, April 7. Conclave sessions and the Little General competition will take place April 8-11 at Manhattan College.

Miss West has brown hair and blue eyes. She stands 5-feet-4 and weighs 115. A 1965 graduate of Williams High School of Burlington, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah H. West, 1509 Oklahoma Ave., Burlington.

At East Carolina she was Military Ball Queen in 1966 and a Buccaneer Queen runner-up this year. She is active at the local and area levels of Angel Flight and is treasurer of her sorority, Delta Zeta.

Fidelio Society Presents Program For School Pupils

Thirty-five members of the Fidelio Society from the East Carolina University School of Music presented a program entitled "Assembly of Sound" for the students of the Sallie Branch Elementary School recently.

Selections on the program, written by the music students themselves, included: "Autumn to May" by Stefani Fouts on the guitar; "Songs for Record-ers" by William Byrd; "Sing-ing the Time Poem" by Scott Walker; "Variations on Yankee Doodle" by Buddy King; "Vari-ations of Mary Had a Little Lamb" by Jim Parrish; "De-monstrations For Percussion" by Steve Holloway and Fred Cameron; "Flirtations" by B. Watson; "Fiddledeedee" by Buddy King.

The group from ECU discussed each instrument of the orchestra and demonstrated each of them.

Highlighting the program was Carita Melnikov, president of Fidelio Society, who came dressed as Alice in Wonderland, and Stefani Fouts who led the audience in song.

Tommie Newman, flue major at ECU, was narrator of the program. Miss Sharon Pope, piano professor at ECU, is the group's advisor. Special guests for the program included Beatrice Chauncy, flue professor at ECU and John Taylor of the Pitt County Board of Education.

On Thursday night, Bundy will speak to the Future Teachers of America Mother-Daughter Banquet at the Farmville High School. His talk will be entitled "focus on Citizenship".

No Opposition To Housing Plan

AYDEN—No opposition was voiced at a public hearing here Monday night to the formation of a public housing authority in Ayden.

Several local citizens appeared at the hearing held by the town board and spoke in favor of establishing a housing authority and said such a group is needed, according to town clerk Don Russell.

In addition to hearing comments from the citizens present, slides of sub-standard housing in the Ayden municipal limits were shown to the group.

The town board has been discussing and investigating the need for a housing authority for some two months and is expected to take action on the matter at their Monday night meeting.

In the event the board approves a resolution calling for the formation of a public housing authority, the mayor would appoint the five-member group.

Contest Held For Pitt Cheerleaders

WINTERVILLE — Grifton High School and Winterville High School won first and second place honors, respectively, in the Pitt County 1-A Conference held here Friday.

The participants were judged on their appearance, introductions of cheers, ease with which audience could follow cheers, unison and execution of motions, enunciation and volume, pep, jumping ability and originality of the cheers.

Judges were Mrs. Mary Collier, Mrs. Diane Thompson and Mrs. Ann Hollingsworth, all of the East Carolina University.

Other squads participating were Ayden, Chicod, Belvoir and Stokes-Pactolus.

SIGNALS CROSSED

LONDON (AP) — The Ministry of Transport announced a safety campaign to discourage passengers in the front seats of cars from holding children on their laps. A week later, Queen Elizabeth II was seen riding in the front passenger seat of her limousine with her son, Prince Andrew, 4, in the royal lap.

PTI To Begin Sewing Classes

Pitt Technical Institute is taking applications for sewing classes which will begin near the end of April. Home sewing classes usually meet one night per week from 7 until 10 o'clock, for a 40-hour class.

The cost of the class is $4 tuition with the adult providing the necessary thread and materials for sewing.

The following classes are offered: Home Sewing I, Home Sewing II, Home Sewing III and Tailoring.

A course in slipcovers or drapery and curtain making may be offered if there is sufficient interest.

Registration for the above classes may be taken by telephone or visit and those registered will be notified by letter when classes are to start.

It is anticipated that the above classes will meet at night but during the summer it may be possible to have some sewing classes to meet during the morning or afternoon.

Appoint Judges For Election

WINTERVILLE—The Board of Alderman Monday appointed judges for the May 6 election and discussed updating the town's zoning ordinances.

Mrs. J. E. Buck and Mrs. Martha Braxton were appointed judges for the municipal election May 6.

The board discussed updating and zoning ordinances and zoning one-mile outside the municipal limits, but tabled the matter without taking action.

Mayor Walter Dail reported that costs of reworking the town's zoning laws and zoning the one-mile radius would be several hundred dollars.

In 1909, Selma Lagerlof became the first woman to win the Nobel prize for literature.

Smith Hurls One Hit Win At Yellow Jackets

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School shook off six shaky errors to gain an 8-2 victory over Roanoke Rapids yesterday and christen a brand new set of uniforms.

man walked, loading them up. Joe West hit back to first and Cayton was thrown out at the plate. The attempt to double up West was too late, and Aldridge scampered home under the return throw, making it 2-2.

Aldridge doubled to drive in Smith and Beaman singled in Cayton and Aldridge to end the scoring for the day.

The Phants, in crisp new white uniforms with green trim and "Rose" written across their chests, had some moments in the early going when it looked like they had better change back.

Rose found itself in trouble in the fifth inning, when a walk put a man on base, and two errors, attempting pickoffs, moved him to third. But Smith struck out two batters, and then walked another. The last man was then picked off trying to set up a double steal.

Rose, still in a tie for second place with a 5-1 record, travels to New Bern Friday. The Bears are also 5-1, and the Phants will be looking for the opportunity to beat them and stay close to league leading Kinston.

The lone Yellow Jacket hit came in the first inning, when they scored their two runs, both unearned. With one out, Cotton Nicholson reached on an error. Junior Watson hit back to second, but the throw was made to second to get Nicholson, and was high, another error. Steve Conwell stepped in and lifted a foul fly which was caught and then dropped, for the third error in the frame. Conwell then singled for the only Roanoke Rapids hit of the game, and that drove in Nicholson.

Finally in the fifth, the Phants got moving. Cayton reached on an error and Aldridge was hit by a pitch. Beaman slammed his second straight triple, scoring Cayton and Aldridge. A wild pitch then let Beaman come in, making it 5-2.

Orioles Send Bunker To Minors; BoSox Worried

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles will be without another of their 1966 pennant heroes when the 1968 baseball season begins Monday and last year's champion Boston Red Sox are not doing much better.

The Red Sox, already without pitching injured ace Jim Lonborg for at least the first month of the season, sent slugging Tony Conigliaro flying to Boston Tuesday to undergo further eye examinations.

"There's no doubt that I have a problem," the 23-year-old outfielder was quoted by teammate Carl Yastrzemski in a story written for the Boston Evening Globe. "I have to admit my eyes are nowhere near perfect."

Conigliaro admitted he has difficulty focusing on pitches in daylight. He suffered blurred vision when he was hit near the left eye by a pitch last August, and missed the rest of the 1967 season and the World Series. He had 20 homers, 67 runs batted in and a .287 batting average at the time.

This spring, he is hitting only .167 and has struck out frequently.

Baltimore's worries are not as acute as the pitching rich Orioles sent Wally Bunker to join Jim Palmer in the minor leagues to work out pitching problems.

Bunker, also 23, won 19 games in 1964 and 10 games and a World Series game in 1966 before tendonitis limited him to a 3-7 record last year.

Palmer, another Series winner who was 15-10 that year, also has been bothered by arm trouble and was sent down earlier this spring, and Stu Miller, the star of the bullpen, was sold Monday.

Other pitchers, like Bo Belinsky, had a good day.

Belinsky got his wish from the Houston Astros and was sold to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League where he hopes to pitch and open a dude ranch.

On the mound, Woody Fryman, Mike McCormick, Earl Wilson, Milt Pappas and Jerry Stephenson sparkled.

Fryman, acquired by Philadelphia from Pittsburgh in the Jim Bunning trade last winter, turned in a three-hitter for seven innings and struck out 11 as the Phillies blanked Minnesota 1-0 on Tony Taylor's sixth-inning homer.

McCormick, who won 22 games, the Cy Young Award and the comeback award in the

Conigliaro Hurt In Car Wreck

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox suffered minor injuries early today in a two-car collision only hours after returning to Boston from spring training to undergo eye tests.

The accident occurred in the suburb of Somerville and the young outfielder was taken to the city hospital for treatment of bruises. He was released a short time later, a hospital spokesman said.

Conigliaro was alone in his car and several youths were in the other vehicle, police said.

Conigliaro, bothered by his vision and suffering headaches "almost daily," has been struggling all spring trying to come back from the beaming which sidelined him for the last six weeks of the 1967 season.

He flew back Tuesday night from the Red Sox' Florida spring training quarters in Winter Haven.

In his comeback attempt this spring, Conigliaro has been having a lot of trouble at the plate.

H has struck out 22 times in 66 at bats while managing only 11 hits for a .167 average.

St. Louis Choice Again To Win National Pennant

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis has the pitching, power and balance to win the National League pennant again but it won't be any 10 1/2-game romp this time.

If there is any complacency in the camp of the defending world champions it didn't show in Florida where Orlando Cepeda and Lou Brock were bombing the fences. Manager Red Schoendienst's toughest problem was cutting his pitching staff.

Cincinnati looks tough if it can escape the injuries that ruined them last season. San Francisco should be close to the big money on an expected super year by Juan Marichal. Pittsburgh, the team that had everything but finished sixth, has added a pitching ace in Jim Bunning.

Leo Durocher's Chicago Cubs rate as contenders after making believers of the cynics last summer. Both the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves can make trouble if they play up to their potential. Philadelphia has to sweat it out with Richie Allen's damaged right hand. Houston appears to have enough to keep the New York Mets in last place.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. St. Louis
2. Cincinnati
3. San Francisco
4. Pittsburgh
5. Chicago
6. Los Angeles
7. Atlanta
8. Philadelphia
9. Houston
10. New York

The Cards are up to being in solid pitching with Bob Gibson showing the way to a staff that includes Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton, and the others who did the job last season.

John Edwards will give Tim McCarver a chance to take a rest and Dick Schofield provides shortstop insurance behind Dal Maxvill.

A batting order that includes Brock, Cepeda, McCarver, Curt Flood, Mike Shannon, Roger Maris and Julian Javier packs enough punch to carry an ordinary staff and the Cards' staff is not ordinary.

Injuries, of course, can ruin any club. Any serious problem with Cepeda's knee or Flood's arm could bring them back to the pack.

The Reds might have made a good run at it last season if the injuries hadn't chopped down the club in midseason. Dave Bristol has a group of versatile players who think they can win.

A staff that includes Jim Maloney, Mel Queen, Milt Pappas and Gary Nolan (assuming he is sound) can make it close.

Much depends on a Marichal comeback and a return to form by Willie Mays if the Giants are to win. Mike McCormick must back up his fine year with another good season and the Hal Lanier-Ron Hunt combo must click in the middle of the infield.

The Giants do have that home run power and good pitching.

While the Phils wait on Allen's hand and sweat out a shortstop problem, they hardly figure as contenders. Houston's hopes to rise rest on better pitching. The Mets lack punch and need at least another Tom Seaver before they can start to progress under Gil Hodges.

Silence May Mean Track War Still On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's silence in advance of today's scheduled announcement of its response to a Senate-supported proposal of peace with the Amateur Athletic Union has spurred speculation the track war may continue.

The NCAA and its protegee, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, called a news conference for late today without delivering any advance reply to Senate sponsors of the suggested track settlement.

"They very carefully didn't tell us," one source said Tuesday.

The long and bitter track feud has given birth to fears the rivalry could peril tryouts for the U.S. Olympic team.

The Senate is virtually certain to be asked to step in and write a settlement into law if the NCAA spurns the compromise shaped by an arbitration panel two months ago.

The AAU already has accepted the recommendations. So has the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The NCAA president, Prof. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan, and the USTFF head, the Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley of Los Altos, Calif., both criticized the panel's report when it was issued Feb. 1.

They were to conduct today's news conference.

The arbitration board, created by the Senate, said the AAU should sanction all international and open domestic track meets while the NCAA could conduct meets limited to fulltime students.

The board said the USTFF could sponsor open domestic meets if they were sanctioned by the AAU, and added the approval would be considered automatic if the competition met AAU requirements. Father Crowley said in February the USTFF would proceed without AAU approval.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, declared the provisions of the compromise tentatively in effect two weeks ago while waiting the NCAA-AAU reply, originally due Feb. 10.

Limits On Driving Possible; Too Much Traffic

A WAIL OF A SHOT — Tears roll down the cheeks of a Vietnamese child getting an anti-plague shot from a U. S. 82nd Airborne Division medic. The mother, wearing a conical hat, holds the weeping youngster. The medics put up their tents in a small village at the end of a military operation to flush out Viet Cong in the area, 15 miles west of Hue. They then doled out anti-plague injections. (AP Wirephoto)

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials are saying privately they believe the nation's largest cities soon will have to place harsh restrictions on when and where people can drive.

Some officials suggest that entire sections of central cities will have to be placed off limits to motor vehicles. The reason: traffic congestion is threatening to choke the remaining life out of the already sick cities.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd put it this way in an interview: "There isn't enough money in the United States (to build a street and highway system) to allow everybody to go everywhere they want to at any time of the day" in and around the big urban areas.

Secretary Robert C. Beaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development—HUD—points out, however, that to question the freedom of every American to drive anywhere he wants "is politically dangerous, since each car owner—and they are legion—has already decided the answer."

But many officials questioned in a series of interviews said they believe the issue will have to be faced. And soon.

For despite new efforts by government and industry, they say, the gloomy prognosis is this: urban traffic congestion will get even worse for at least the next several years.

The government, which helped bring the country to its present heavy reliance on automobiles through the federal aid highway program, now is trying to reverse the trend. It has been pouring money into existing transit systems to improve and modernize them. And it has begun cranking up a research program to find new ways of moving people and goods around urban areas.

The aim is to develop and revive public transportation—mainly buses and trains—as a greater alternative to travel by car.

Boyd, whose agency is the first ever to be given overall responsibility for the transportation needs of the country, has suggested a number of changes the cities might make to relieve the horrors of congestion. One is that each city or urban area regulate that parking rates be set to go up rather than down for each additional hour.

Boyd stresses that his department has no intention of dictating solutions. For the next few years, he says, "he'll be trying to find out what kind of a system of transportation people want."

But much of the hope for relieving urban congestion has come to rest with alternatives to the motorcar. Of those that are known, the most discussed is rail rapid transit: subway, elevated or ground-level.

Department of Transportation officials maintain that rail transit has been oversold, however. They point out that only about 15 of the nation's largest cities have the population density to make such a fixed-route system feasible. And six already have it in some form. They are New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland and Newark, N.J.

But officials of HUD, who administer a new program of aid for urban mass transit, argue that more and better rail systems will go far to alleviate congestion where it is worst—in the largest cities.

Charles M. Haar, HUD's assistant secretary for metropolitan development, contends that "rail systems have been under-sold, if anything. The 14 or 15 cities we're talking about make up something like 30 per cent of the population of the country."

Whatever the solutions, federal officials believe development of new and better means of transportation is critical to revival of the decaying cities. And they are deeply aware that they are in a race with the continuing flood of people to urban areas.

Most promising of the here-and-now idea is making better use of the ordinary bus. Researchers are trying to find ways of making the bus quieter, smoother, more attractive and more comfortable.

The biggest problem, officials say, is getting people to leave their cars for a bus.

In the one controlled new bus experiment to date, commuters in Peoria, Ill., took well to the idea. But they had to be lured aboard the buses with such super-service as front-door pickup, hot coffee served by attractive hostesses, monthly passes ($6 to $10) home billing, guaranteed seating, paid taxicab service in case of a bus breakdown.

Boyd, who says there is a "slow as molasses approach to new forms of (urban) transportation," says HUD has spent a third of a billion dollars in the last three years.

So far, the federal effort has failed to halt the decline in urban transit passengers, from 19 billion in 1945 to less than 7 billion in 1966, even though the urban population has been soaring.

And HUD officials say it's going to take a lot more money—most of it local but more federal, too—to reverse the trend.

While HUD-supported research has produced no single, spectacular solution, officials say a number of projects show promise.

These include:—A gasoline-and electric-powered minicar, developed by General Motors and the University of Pennsylvania, half the length of the average car. It would seat three, and have a top hour could carry 25,000-30,000 people an hour in one lane, compared to 3,000 people in cars in the same lane.

To develop new systems and traveling at 35 to 40 miles per hour, cut down needed parking space by three to four times and give off only one-tenth the air pollution.

—Dual-mode automobiles. The small, battery-powered vehicles would travel both on regular streets and on rail guideways to and from downtown. Equipped with steel flange wheels in addition to rubber tires, the cars would draw electric power from the guideways and travel in trains as close as one foot and at speeds around 40 m.p.h. The concept could be demonstrated in a few years.

—Westinghouse's Skybus project near Pittsburgh. The computer-controlled, minitrain-like affair with rubber wheels runs on an elevated concrete guideway. Federal officials say the system may prove useful for medium-density cities which cannot support costly rail transit systems.

For the throbbing center of the problem—downtown—federal officials have their eyes on such systems as conveyor belts, minitrains and minibuses, monorails, overhead sidewalks and even moving sidewalks.

Stock Market Reflects Hope For Vietnam Peace

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If it is true that wars are bullish to the stock market, an exception is now being made. Obviously Vietnam is bearish. It has depressed the stock market as much, apparently, as it has depressed President Johnson.

In recent weeks the slightest prospect of de-escalation sent shocks pulsing through long dormant averages, charging some stock into startling advances. This was evidence of the war-peace effect.

Proof of it came Monday when strong prospects of a reduction in hostilities brought one of the biggest influxes of money ever seen in one day on Wall Street. It was explosive. Seldom has the market been so dominated by one event.

Just hours after President Johnson made his strongest public bid for peace, traders swamped brokers under the biggest avalanche of orders in history. Prices rose like fair weather barometers, which in fact is what they were.

This does not mean that prices generally will continue to rise strongly, because after the excitement is over a lot of traders and funds are going to realize that lots of problems remain.

Still, if something as tentative as Johnson's offer to reduce fighting could make the stock market leap as it did, what will occur on an acceptance of peace talks for Hanoi? And if rejected?

At first this war wasn't damaging to stock prices. In fact, the extra money being pumped into the economy to pay for Vietnam was for a while pumping up per share prices also.

The change came as the damage to the nation's finances became more evident. The balance of payments situation deteriorated. The budget was out of balance. The world's confidence in the dollar was falling.

Not all of these can be blamed on the war. Not all of these can be blamed on the offer Hanoi more credit than it has earned. But the war is related to the whole complex of problems and these problems are threats to business. How?

Inflation is the most obvious but not the biggest danger. The war didn't bring inflation by itself. But the handling of the war's financing is perhaps the chief cause of the nation's rising cost of living.

The balance of payments problem is closely tied to the war. So long as the war costs between $20 billion and $30 billion a year, it is going to be nearly impossible to correct this payments imbalance.

In turn, this imbalance has caused faith in the dollar to fall threatening a breakdown in world commerce, a breakdown which would damage most companies in every trading nation. Accumulating as they have been, these dangers worry business about another possibility, although perhaps a remote one: the prospect of controls on wages, prices and interest rates.

Controls might very well bring more balance to the economy, but in the view of many businessmen such restrictions would mean an end to profitable expansion. In addition, bureaucratic and political inequities would creep into the economy.

Faced with this complexity of problems, for which the war in Vietnam rightly or wrongly is blamed, many economist foresaw nothing less than a forced deflation of the American economy, an end to guns and butter, a forced end to the biggest boom in American history.

By slowing down the Vietnam war, stock traders see hopes for less inflation, lower interest rates, stable tax rates, an improvement in the balance of payments and a return to confidence in the dollar.

we care

should we guarantee other people's products?

If we didn't, we couldn't honestly say
WE CARE. Could we?

You see, before any product is allowed on our shelves, we've checked it out pretty carefully.

We've checked the company that makes it.
We've checked to be sure the product is all the package says it is.

If you ever buy anything at A&P you're not happy with, you don't have to bother to write a letter to the company that made it.

Just tell your A&P store manager.
He'll give you your money back.

We'll get in touch with that company for you... and for us.

That's A&P's guarantee.
No matter who makes it,
if A&P sells it,
A&P guarantees it.

Not every store can offer you a guarantee like that.
A&P can... and does.

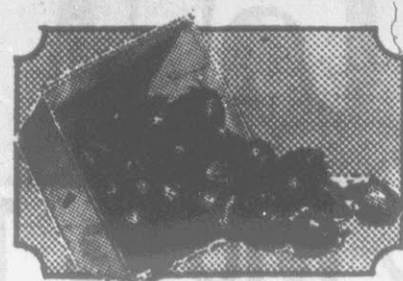

Shouldn't A&P be your store?

Confiscated

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A rented truck and its cargo of nearly 2 million cigarettes were confiscated Tuesday and law enforcement officers said the cigarettes were part of a $91,000 cigarette theft in Atlanta last week.

Two men were held for investigation.

Officers said the cargo of 166 cases of cigarettes, with 60 cartons to the case, was valued at $17,660. An FBI spokesman said the smokes, stolen at an Atlanta truck terminal, were part of a shipment being sent from Reidsville, N. C., to Birmingham, Ala.

Officers said the confiscated cigarettes apparently were bound for northern states for black-market sale.

Open Scholastic Press Meeting This Weekend

LEXINGTON, VA. — Approximately 1,200 high school student journalists and their advisers, including six from J. H. Rose High School, Greenville, will journey to Washington and Lee University here this weekend for the 39th annual Southern Interscholastic Press Association (SIPA) convention.

Attending from Rose High will be Lala Steelman, Barbara Behr, Mark Patterson, Ernest Carraway, Sandy Foley and adviser, Mrs. Dorothy Phillips.

The young journalists will hear several featured speakers and attend a number of short courses, workshops, criticism sessions and panel discussions designed to improve all aspects of secondary school journalism — newspapers, magazines, yearbooks, photography and radio work.

First held in 1925, the convention is sponsored each year by the Lee Memorial Journalism Foundation and Washington and Lee.

Featured speakers include Charles McDowell, Washington correspondent for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and Richard L. Tobin, managing editor of the Saturday Review.

The delegates, who represent 163 secondary schools in 10 Southern states, will attend a dance Friday night, take a current events quiz, elect a new president to replace outgoing William Harris of Richmond's Henrico High School, and attend the annual awards banquet, the highlight of the convention, Saturday afternoon.

Offering Voice Recital Friday

GREENSBORO—Miss Jeanette Gardner of Ayden and a voice major at Greensboro College, will be presented in her voice recital Friday, April 5, here.

Miss Gardner is a student of Professor E. L. Williams.

The program will include four German lieder by Schuman, "Michiamano Mimi" from La Boheme by Giacomo Puccini, selections from Hector Berlioz's song cycle, "Les Nuits d'Ete", and will conclude with six English songs by British and American composers.

The program will be given in the Odell Hall at Greensboro College and is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Miss Gardner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Gardner of Rt. 2, Ayden.

Masterpieces Arrive For Fair

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Fourteen Spanish art masterpieces, estimated to be worth more than $200 million, arrived safely at HemisFair '68 Tuesday where they will go on display when the exposition opens on Saturday.

The paintings, thought to be the most valuable art collection ever shown in Texas, include works of El Greco, Velazquez, Goya, Zurbaran and Murillo.

Lloyd's of London has insured the paintings for $10 million, but Spanish officials said they would bring much more if offered for sale.

Balance Has His Name On Ballot

RALEIGH (AP) — Frank W. Balance, seeking to be northeastern North Carolina's first Negro judge since reconstruction, will have his name on the Democratic ballot in the May primary.

Balance, a candidate for district judge in the 8th Judicial District including Bertie, Halifax, Hertford and Northampton counties, had been challenged by a Bertie voter who said Balance was not a resident of the district.

The Worry Clinic Too Many 'Patients' Need More Religion

Malcolm's remarks should be a challenge to all clergymen. For the rise in psychiatry is a direct indictment of the churches. Godless people run to the M. D. and enshrine him as a little pagan idol, in violation of one of the Ten Commandments. We medicos often get nauseated at the "chicken" behavior of people!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-533: Malcolm D., aged 32, is an insurance salesman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I sell health and accident policies.

"And I feel that I am Reasonably sympathetic with human ailments.

"But we find a lot of people try to collect on health insurance when they actually aren't sick!

"If they would just think po-

35 percent will get well, regardless!

At our Northwestern University Medical School, one of our former Mayo experts who was teaching our senior class, told the group:

"Gentlemen, 85 percent of your patients will get well IN SPITE OF WHAT YOU DOCTORS DO FOR THEM."

If people were extroverted in their thinking and fully occupied with external problems, tasks or obligations, then they would not be as likely to turn their attention inward upon their organs and conjure up ailments.

The Churches are the best bulwark against Medicare and "Worry Warts" and all those who "sponge" on insurance companies unduly.

For religion stresses attention to others and the helping hand to our neighbors.

Worry is a wonderful aid to good health, IF.

And that big "IF" means, IF you extrovert your worries upon the things outside your own epidermis!

But if you have too much idle time and finally start taking a daily inventory of your own "innards," you are almost sure to sprout some minor ache or pain.

And when we become obsessed with the contents of our epidermis, then we grow fearful.

Our pioneer ancestors had to worry about getting enough to eat via their little farms and wild game.

Besides, they had to keep alerted to the dangers of Indian attack.

So they didn't sprout the host of imaginary ailments now besetting Americans.

Nor did they guzzle tons of sleeping pills, for they worked hard enough during the day to produce a natural deep sleep.

Nor did they prod their nerves with caffeine and tobacco, and then require whiskey or tranquilizers to offset their resulting insomnia!

If insurance companies could inject more virility into the clergy, there would thus be far less drain on insurance policies!

Instead of fearless eagles, the majority of Americans are now growing chicken! Which is why psychiatry and tranquilizers and Medicare zoom!

150 Children In Demonstration

The program of the Health, Physical Education and Recreation Department at the N. C. Education Association meeting in Charlotte this weekend will feature demonstrations by about 150 children from the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools.

Dr. Edgar W. Hooks Jr., East Carolina University professor and president-elect of the N. C. Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation; planned the program and now is urging elementary classroom teachers as well as physical education specialists to view the program.

It will be held in the gymnasium of Charlotte's Albemarle Road Junior High School beginning at 2:30 p. m. Friday, April 5. Rosalie Bryant, supervisor of physical education in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Elementary Schools, will direct the demonstrations.

The program will cover four topics: "Innovation and Creativity in Program Organization (Grades 1-12)," "Vision Produces Good Organization and Meaningful Activities," "Innovation Involving Home Made Equipment and How to Use It" and "Unity and Action through Co-Curricular Activities."

Telling World Clyde Retired

LOUISVILLE (AP) — On the day that Clyde Turrentine retired, his fellow workers made sure the world knew about it.

They cut out 2-by-3-foot white paper rectangles and painted "Goodbye Clyde" on them. The letters were pasted on the window-panes on the top floor of Turrentine's office building, clearly visible from the highway below.

Soldier's Helmet Well Shot Up

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Colgan Norman, who has been sending packages to Pfc. James Hamilton in Vietnam, recently received a thank-you note and a graphic description of what the fighting's like.

"I was almost killed one night," Hamilton wrote. "Fourteen bullets hit my helmet—one while it was on my head and 13 as it flew through the air."

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1♥ Pass 2♥ Pass
 2♠ Pass 3♠ Pass
 4♠ Pass Pass Pass

Altho North and South arrived at the only game contract that had a chance to succeed—four spades, West nevertheless snatched the triumph from their grasp by uncovering a fatal opening thrust.

South opened the bidding with one heart and North properly raised to two hearts. Observe that with a mediocre holding (of average strength or less), responder should prefer to raise partner's major rather than show his own suit, since his holding does not warrant two forward going calls.

South tested for game by bidding two spades and when North raised this suit too, South persisted to four spades. He chose the four-four suit as trump because his longer suit might prove useful as a source of discards.

West's holding in diamonds offered a logical opening lead inasmuch as he held a complete sequence headed by the ten. Before making a selection, however, he paused to assess the information that was available from the auction.

South apparently held five hearts and four spades, for with equal or greater length in spades, he would have bid that suit first. North was marked with three hearts for his original raise—therefore, East had at most a doubleton in that suit. Since West held controls in both majors, it appeared likely that he could give his partner a heart ruff, and he decided to launch his campaign with that objective.

West opened the ace and another heart on the slight chance that East might have a singleton. Dummy's ten of hearts won the second trick, however, and declarer led the queen of spades for a finesse in trumps. West was in with the king and returned another heart which East ruffed. The latter hastened to cash the ace of diamonds for the setting trick, before it got away from him.

Observe that without West's killing lead, South has time to establish the heart suit after he draws trumps and eventually obtain two club discards from the dummy on his long hearts. He thereby restricts his losses on the deal to one spade, one heart, and one diamond.

Arrest Two Men For Bank Robbery Series

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The FBI announced that two men were arrested early today at their homes, in High Point and at Archdale near High Point, and charged with bank robberies in the area.

They and another man who had been in jail at Greensboro, were named in secret bank robbery indictments returned by a federal grand jury at Greensboro last Monday.

Arrested were Charles Andrew Brown, 28, an unemployed furniture worker of Archdale, and Billy Ray Beeson, 36, of High Point, a helper on a furniture truck.

Housing And Bike Ordinances Voted By Board

FARMVILLE — The Farmville town board adopted a bicycle ordinance and a housing ordinance at their meeting Tuesday night.

The bicycle ordinance will require bicycles to be registered and licensed. The housing code was adopted to bring already built houses up to a standard to make them healthful and safe.

A request from the Farmville Junior Woman's Club for construction of a new kindergarten school on town property was turned over to town attorney John Lewis for further study.

Recommendations for extending the city limits and adding some alleys into the city were accepted by the board for further study. The recommendations were presented by the Farmville Planning Board.

Hawkins . . .

ing liquor by the drink, "all of this money is lost."
"We need to tax luxuries" instead of food and housing, he said.

Hawkins, born in Beaufort, is a minister as well as a dentist. He said he decided to seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination because the present "state administration has not put enough stress on people."

He described the greatest issues in the campaign as "race and poverty."
He said of prime importance is an "improved educational system."

Dr. Hawkins stated teachers should be paid more money and the state should "spend more on each child. "Education," he said, "is our cornerstone."
"We've got to get our education going," he continued, and suggested kindergarten level instruction. "We propose that every child, regardless of his ability to pay, get an education in North Carolina." He suggested that this may extend even into college level instruction.

Another area touched by Dr. Hawkins in his television appearance was the low manufacturing wage paid in North Carolina.

To cure this, he suggested, "Teach children high skills in technical education programs," then bring in industry that can use them. "We need high skill industry," he continued, "to pay high wages."

"My program," he said, "is geared to the people . . . the young, the liberal, the Negro."

"I am working toward progress of de-Negroization," Dr. Hawkins said. "They have told us a Negro can't win." There is a 700,000 vote potential, he continued, if all eligible Negroes in the state would register and vote. "I think we can win," he asserted.

"I am interested in the welfare of the people . . . getting people registered to vote. We stand at the crossroads in North Carolina," Dr. Hawkins said.

Also named in the indictments was Major Durante Wood Jr., recently convicted in Guilford County of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Brown and Wood were charged with the $12,130 robbery last Nov. 21, of the Unity Street branch of the State Commercial Bank in Thomasville.

Brown and Beeson were charged with robbing the First Union National Bank branch at Archdale of $15,647 on Feb. 20.

U.S. Atty. R. Bruce White of Greensboro has recommended bonds of $25,000 each for Beeson and Wood, and $50,000 for Brown.

Trial in the Thomasville robbery is set for the term of federal district court beginning May 20 in Salisbury.

The Archdale case is to be heard at a term of federal court beginning June 3 in Greensboro.

Robert M. Murphy, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said police of Thomasville and High Point and the Randolph County sheriff's office assisted in the investigation.

Archdale is in Randolph County just over the Guilford County line.

Re-Zoning Move By Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston town board Monday night approved re-zoning of Liberty Street, from Horton to Jackson Street and approved two ordinances regulating carnivals inside the municipal limits.

The re-zoning of the block of Liberty Street was approved after no objections were voiced at a public hearing. The zoning was changed from residential to neighborhood business.

One ordinance passed by the board included restricting carnivals with undesirable shows to set up operation in Williamston.

The second ordinance approved requires carnivals wishing to set up rides to first gain the approval of the police chief as to the safe condition of the rides. The regulation was approved with the thought of the safety of children in mind, city officials explained.

The board discussed proposed subdivision regulations previously approved by the Williamston Planning Board and agreed to study them before scheduling a hearing and taking final action on the recommended regulations.

A delegation from Center Street appeared and requested that street be paved as soon as possible.

A delegation from the Martin Street Community also came before the board asking that a large drainage ditch be tiled and covered.

Board members said the project would be too costly at the present and deferred action on the request.

ROBERSONVILLE — Little action was taken by town board members at the regular session last night.

The board agreed to ask for bids for a new street sweeper in the near future. The sweeper will replace an old unit burned in the fall.

Board members also agreed to meet with representatives of Central Soya, a chicken processing plant in Robersonville to discuss the possibility of locating a hatchery within the town limits.

The board also voted to aid in upgrading bleachers, installing new lights and fixing a concession stand at the ball park after hearing a request from a delegation of Little League supporters.
