By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark said today that "substantial leads" had been developed in the hunt for the killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Clark said the slaying appeared to be the work of one man.

to the death Thursday night of the 39-year-old King. King died in a Memphis hospital less than an hour after he was shot in the neck as he stood on the balcony of his motel. Police searched for a white gunman.

Negroes smashed windows, looted stores, threw firebombs and attacked police with guns, stones and bottles. A white man was stabbed to death in the midst of violence in Washington, and a Negro died of stab wounds in New York, although it was not known if the latter death was related to the violence.

Some N.C. Cities Feel Convulsion Of Disorder

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina authorities moved quickly today to head off further violence spurred by the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in Memphis.

In Raleigh, Mayor Travis Tomlinson early today declared a state of emergency. The order came on the heels of a window-smashing, rock-throwing demonstration by Shaw University students Thursday night that followed quickly the slaying of Dr. King in Tennessee.

there reported treating at least 14 persons injured by the violence, and at 1 a.m. Mayor Travis Tomlinson declared a citywide curfew until 6 a.m.

Carmichael Sounds Call For Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black power advocate Stokely Carmichael urged Negroes today to arm themselves with guns and take to the streets in retaliation for the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

King's widow flew to Memphis in a plane chartered by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to claim the body of her slain husband. She remained aboard the plane at the airport.

City Books

Some 1,491 persons had registered on city voting books through April 2, City Manager Harry Hagerty reported.

The city is conducting a new voter registration along with the county's registration. Municipal poll holders are at the county's polling places on the days that they are open.

At the same time the new registration is being conducted the city is converting to the loose leaf system of voter registration.

The registration will qualify voters for future municipal elections. The next election for mayor and councilmen will be in the spring of 1969.

There were 11,000 names on the old municipal books.

King Memorial Rites Are Held In Greenville

Local leaders and representatives from Rose High School participated in a memorial assembly for Dr. Martin Luther King, held at Eppes High School this morning.

student minister at St. James Methodist Church, read the scripture.

Eppes Principal A. E. Murrill and School Supt. C.C. Cleetwood also offered remarks, as did Dr. Andrew Best, and D.D. Garrett.

The Eppes Glee Club sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Dr. Cleetwood said other schools are paying tribute to the fallen civil rights leaders during study halls, home rooms and at other appropriate times.

"Above all what we are doing in the schools we want to be a sincere expression of concern and tribute," Cleetwood stated. "We want to pay tribute to a man who has made a contribution."

SHP 'Wolfpacks' Return To Pitt Highways This Weekend

The Highway Patrol will for the second time in less than a month saturate Pitt County with troopers this weekend in an effort to stem the mounting tide of law violations and the resulting accidents.

the apprehension of the speeding driver. The officer also said breathalyzer units will be available and each person arrested for operating under the influence will be given an opportunity to take the test.

Gov. Moore's ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages was for the entire state. The ban will be in effect until further notice.

Postmaster For Farmville Confirmed

FARMVILLE — The appointment of Harold B. Humphrey as Farmville postmaster was confirmed Thursday by the United States Senate.

"Bobby Kennedy pulled that trigger as much as anyone else," Carmichael said, charging the senator had failed to push for prosecution of slayers of Negro civil rights workers when he was attorney general.

The militant Black Power leader declared that violence that erupted in city after city across the nation after King was shot in Memphis is "just light stuff" when compared with "what will happen."

Mayor Eugene West and Good Neighbor Council chairman William Quick offered remarks during the services.

Mike Aldridge, president of the Rose High student body and Frances Harris, president of the Bible Club at Rose represented Rose High at the assembly. Henry Hunter, president of the Eppes High student body, offered remarks.

The Rev. C. B. Gray, of the Eppes staff, delivered eulogistic remarks.

bring peace and tranquility to the country.

"This incident might spark violence," Garrett noted. "I am hoping it will not. Violence is not the right way, and thus we may not see his fulfillment in our lifetime."

Dr. King was founder of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the prime proponent of non-violence in the civil rights movement.

"I further ask," Rev. Quick said, "that all responsible citizens—Negro or white—may renew their determination that freedom and equality may be the prevailing spirit during these days of national crisis and tragedy."

Julius Streeter, president of the Pitt County Unit of the SCLC, said he had no comment about Dr. King's death.

Roberson Union School principal J. W. Maye said, "I'm too shocked at the present to comment." "I don't think his death is going to frighten anyone," Maye noted. "I would say there will be more violence."

Another Greenville minister, Rev. John Drake, president of the Greenville Ministerial Association, said he sent the following telegram to Mrs. King on behalf of the association:

"We have often heard the saying," the mayor continued, "united we stand, and divided we fall."

Rev. William K. Quick, pastor of St. James Methodist Church and chairman of the Pitt County Good Neighbor Council, termed the shooting of Dr. King, "a shocking tragedy."

"The Greenville Ministers Association lovingly expressed its profound shock, faithful sympathy and deep regret at the tragic death of a prophet in our time."

"I think it is tragic," D. D. Garrett, a local realtor, commented. "I think the world has lost a leader."

Garrett continued, "I'm afraid that some of his followers and sympathizers may look for a short cut and try to do what he was commissioned to do. He was commissioned to bring peace and tranquility to the country."

"I hope the leaders of this country, on a national level as well as on the local level, will coordinate their efforts toward better understanding between the white and Negro communities . . . and through this eliminate the possibility of other tragedies between the races."

Break-In Thief Caught In Act

BETHEL—Quick acting Bethel police Wednesday night caught a 23-year-old man inside the Andrews Hardware store on South Railroad St.

Chief Walter Gray said Cleon Latham, who has been with the police department here only five weeks, was checking doors about 9:30 p.m. He found a window at the rear of the hardware building broken and heard someone inside.

According to the Chief, Ptl. Latham entered the building and arrested Edward Parker, Negro, of Washington. He was charged with breaking, entering and larceny.

According to Gray, an estimated $225 worth of merchandise had been removed from the store, including several guns, two radios and six boxes of ammunition.

Officers also charged Parker with breaking into Bethel Cold Storage at the intersection of East Street and East Railroad Street.

A quantity of meat was taken from that building and several hams and some side meat have been recovered.

White Shrine Officers Installed In Ceremonies Wednesday Night

Mrs. Julia Harris and A. E. Forrest were installed Wednesday night as Worthy High Priestess and Watchman of Shepherds of the Greenville White Shrine No. 7, in ceremonies at the Masonic Temple.

After the lighting of the candles ceremony by Debra Harris and Lindsey Hardee, Mrs. Winifred Holt, retiring Worthy High Priestess, gave the welcoming address to the distinguished guests and visiting members of the order. Miss Julie Harris, soloist, accompanied by Miss Shiela Marlow, pianist, sang "The Sound of Music" in tribute to the retiring WHP Winifred Holt and retiring WOS Jack Holt.

Assisting Mrs. Mildred Kennedy, PWHP, inviting Worthy Herald, Mrs. Blanche Jackson PWHP, installing Worthy Chaplain, Mrs. Thelma Maxwell, PWHP, installing Worthy Herald, Mrs. Eva Corbette PWHP, installing Worthy Scribe, Miss Carolyn Surratt, Worthy organist, Mrs. Nell Moore, PWHP, installing Worthy Guardian, and Mrs. Marie Clark, PWHP, U. S. Color Bearer.

GREENVILLE WHITE SHRINE . . . officers were installed in ceremonies Wednesday night. Pictured above are Mrs. Julia Harris, Worthy High Priestess, and A. E. Forrest, Watchman of Shepherds.

The temple was decorated with yellow jonquils, white spirea, red azaleas, and native fernery. Seven branched candelabra with yellow candles were used in the East and the West in the Shrine room.

Guests were welcomed on arrival by Mrs. Ethel Ricks and Mrs. Ruth Hargett Harris. Presiding at the guest-book was Clarence Willard and Mrs. Lois Johnson. Pages were Miss Vicki Page, Miss Hetti Tolson and Miss Linda Roughton.

After the officers to be installed marched in and were seated in the formation of the cross, the Bible was placed on the altar by Mrs. Lois Johnson escorted by Julie and Debra Harris. Throughout the installing ceremonies Miss Surratt played appropriate selections on the piano.

Other officers installed with Mrs. Harris and Forrest were: Miss Annie Turner, Noble Proprietress; Alfred Kennedy, Assoc. Watchman of Shepherds; Mrs. Nancy Willard, Worthy Scribe; Mrs. Ethel Allen, Worthy Scribe; Mrs. Thelma Maxwell, Worthy Herald; Clarence Willard, First Wise Man; Paul Jewett, Third Wise Man; T. I. Moore, King; Mrs. Marie Clark, Queen; Mrs. Lillie McLawhorn, First Hand Maid; Mrs. Elba Rowe, Second Hand Maid; Mrs. Nell Moore, Third Hand Maid; Mrs. Vera Smith Worthy, organist; Mrs. Byrdie Williams, Worthy Guardian; and Clifton Perry, Worthy Guard.

Miss Julie Harris sang "You'll Never Walk Alone" as Miss Debra Harris escorted her mother from the foot of the cross to her station and "Fair-est Lord Jesus" as Mrs. Grace Forrest escorted her husband from the foot of the cross to his station.

In her acceptance, Mrs. Harris stated that with the assistance of the outstanding officers elected to serve with her, she was assured of a year of progress with the Eleven Verbs of Life as her guidepost. Forrest pledged his support to

Mrs. Harris and the Shrine and thanked the sojourners for the honor.

Mrs. Ethel Allen presented the PWHP Jewel to Mr. Holt. Miss Annie Turner presented a gift of appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Holt from the sojourners. Mrs. Harris presented gifts to the installing officers and those assisting in the installation. Miss Harris sang "The by Miss Marlow to conclude the Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Miss Marlow to conclude the program.

Upon retirement of the officers, guests were invited to a reception in the dining room. The reception table was covered with a white organdy cloth over green, centered with an arrangement of yellow jonquils, narcissus, lily of the valley and spirea, accented by silver serving pieces and lighted yellow tapers in silver candelabras. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Margarette Spencer and Mrs. Ruth Harris.

There Is Difference In One's Title And In One's Signature

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary who is in constant touch with the writing public, and as such I am amazed at the number of otherwise informed women who do not know how to sign their names.

The worst offenders are divorcees. Widows are a close second. Abby, will you do the women of the world a great service and tell them once and for all how to properly sign their names?

NANCY SUE BIGBIE (MRS. PETER G.)

DEAR MRS. BIGBIE: First, one should be aware that there is a difference between one's signature (name) and one's "title" (Miss or Mrs., which is never a part of one's signature).

For instance, your signature is "Nancy Sue Bigbie," and your title is "Mrs. Peter G.," which you have properly indicated under your signature in parenthesis.

Margaret Truman Daniel would sign herself, "Margaret Daniel," and in parenthesis under her signature, she would place "Mrs. E. Clifton, Jr."

A widow ALWAYS retains her husband's title. So Jacqueline Kennedy would sign herself "Jacqueline Kennedy," and in parenthesis she would add, "Mrs. John F." (She is NOT Mrs. JACQUELINE Kennedy.)

A divorcee signs herself, "Mary Rockefeller." But her title is "Mrs. Clark Rockefeller" ("Clark" being her maiden name). Never does she use "Nelson A.," because that is no longer her title.

It is good to know that one's social signature is not the same as one's legal signature, so before signing legal documents, always consult your attorney. Any questions?

Sincerely,

Abigail Van Buren (Miss) P. S. Which reminds me: A professional woman is always "Miss" regardless of her marital status.

DEAR ABBY: Ray and I have been engaged for two years, and together we've furnished the apartment we hope to occupy after we marry next summer. Ray has just moved into it and he pays the rent.

Ray's mother flew in from Canada, where she lives, and when she saw our beautifully furnished apartment she said, "I think I'll send Betsy down here. She's getting over a broken love affair and the change will do her good." (Betsy is Ray's 20-year-old sister.)

Abby, our apartment has only the one bedroom with a large double bed, so if Betsy came, either she or Ray would have to sleep on the sofa. I've seen Betsy, and she weighs more than Ray (he's 200), and I don't want our lovely new sofa all broken down from being slept on nightly. Besides, if Betsy decides she likes it here, then what? I don't want to start my married life with three in an apartment.

Should I tell Ray how I feel? I don't want him to think I'm selfish. And I don't want his mother to take a dislike to me, but I don't think it's fair for Ray's mother to invite her daughter to make herself at home in our apartment before I move into it. Or am I wrong?

TORN IN BUFFALO

DEAR TORN: No, I don't think you're wrong. Tell Ray how you feel, and let him handle it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old woman and live with my mother. She is attractive, in her mid-fifties, in very good health and she has a good job. Also she drives her own car, she will not go anywhere in the evening unless I take her. She makes no effort to have friends of her own, but expects me to include her with mine. If she is left out she pouts and will not speak to me for weeks.

I would like to move into a place of my own, but every time I bring it up my mother cries and says I don't "love" her and that I am selfish. I do love her, but I just have to start living a life of my own. I have two married sisters and a married brother who also think I'm selfish if I don't include my mother in everything I do. If I were to move, we would still be in the same city, and I would see her often. Please tell me what to do.

DEAR BEWILDERED: MOVE! And don't feel guilty.

BEWILDERED "BEWILDERED IN ANAHEIM": A nice girl who is constantly approached with insulting propositions from strangers ought to check her appearance. There is something wrong with her packaging.

Robert Messner Gives Program

Mrs. Wiley Corbett and Mrs. Robert Messner were luncheon hostesses to the Delphin Book Club Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Robert Messner gave the second half of a two part program on his and Mrs. Messner's trip to Europe last summer. He confined this program almost entirely to the city of Paris, showing slides of the various points of interest. Earlier Messner had talked to this club about his visit to Madrid and several other cities in Spain.

After the program, President Mrs. Ford McGowan, held a short business meeting at which a donation to the Sunshine Center was agreed upon and a change of dates for the next meeting was announced.

Churchwomen Met On Monday Night

BETHEL — Mrs. Cleo Wilson led the Bible study at the meeting of the women of Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church held Monday night at the home of Mrs. A. J. Crane.

The topic for study was "The Holy Spirit" and "Living Forever." Mrs. J. W. Tripp, president, presided at the meeting.

Mrs. W.H. Taft To Head Jarvis Memorial WSCS

Mrs. William H. Taft Sr. is the new president of the Women's Society of Christian Service (WSCS) of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Selected by the nominating committee of the Women's Society, she succeeds Mrs. John W. Shannonhouse.

Mrs. Taft will take office as president when the Women's Society has its first fall meeting in September. She and four other new officers will serve through the 1968-'70 church calendar year.

Others are Mrs. J. Knott Proctor Jr., vice president; Mrs. Phil Goodson Jr., secretary; Mrs. Phil Moore Jr., treasurer; and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr., assistant treasurer.

As WSCS president, Mrs. Taft will have the general oversight of all the work of the society, lead the society in accomplishing its purpose, serve as an ex-officio member of the Board of Stewards of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, represent the society at all meetings except where a delegate has been elected and work closely with the minister of the church.

For a number of years she has served as an officer or on a committee in the society. She is a graduate of East Carolina University and a former school teacher in Rocky Mount for four years.

A native of Greenville, she is married to William Holston

Mrs. W. H. Taft Sr.

Taft Sr. They have three sons—William H. Taft Jr., Charles Van Taft and Richard Chesson Taft, all graduates of Duke University. The Taft Srs. make their home in Greenville at 1707 East Fifth Street.

Open to all women, the Women's Society and Wesleyan Service Guild provide opportunities and resources which will help women grow in understanding and spiritual power, increase their knowledge of needs in the world and share in the witness, service and outreach of the church.

As Of Today, Few Eligible Voters

Pitt County, which normally has more registered voters than most of the counties in this part of the state today has one of the smallest list of eligible voters of any county in the East.

The reason, of course, is that a new registration is in progress and most citizens have not availed themselves of the opportunity to register. Only those people who register during this current registration period will be eligible to vote in the May 4 primaries. Others will not be eligible to cast a ballot, no matter how often they have voted before or how many times they have previously registered.

There are approximately 5,300 registered voters in Pitt County now. That is about one-sixth of the number of names which were on the county's old registration books. These registered voters have gotten their names on the county's new voting books since the registration period began last Saturday. The remaining five-sixths of the adult citizens of the county have not taken time to get their names on the registration books.

Registrars will be at each of the 26 polling places throughout Pitt County tomorrow for the purpose of registering voters. We strongly urge every citizen who has not registered within the past week to do so tomorrow.

It will take only a few minutes for an individual to get his name on the registration books. But those few minutes are essential if the individual citizen expects to vote in the forthcoming elections. The right to vote carries with it the responsibility to properly register in order to be eligible to vote.

This year, with a complete new registration in Pitt County, every potential voter must qualify anew in order to be eligible to vote. There is no better time for citizens to perform this citizenship duty than tomorrow.

Doing Something On Recognized Problem

"The last few years have seen a growing political and community awareness of the problem of alcoholism."

So spoke Dr. David J. Pittman, authority on alcoholism, at a luncheon sponsored here by the Pitt Alcoholic Information Center.

Dr. Pittman could have found no more appropriate community in which to advance this thought than here in Greenville.

Only a few miles from where he spoke a modern alcoholic rehabilitation center is now being constructed. It was financed by an extra five cents per bottle price increase on alcohol sold in this state. The plan was proposed in the 1965 State Legislature by then Senator Walter Jones. He almost single handedly steered it through, even in the face of a no-new-taxes edict by the governor's office.

At the time, of course, it was not certain the alcoholic rehabilitation center would be located in Greenville. The bill provided for an eastern center, one in the west and expansion of the center at Butner in the Piedmont.

Pitt County, however, has long been a leader in the field of Mental Health and the related problem of alcoholism. The establishment of the Alcoholic Information Center is evidence of this.

Because of the county's leadership in the field, Pitt County was finally chosen by the state as the location for the eastern center.

The fact that this and other centers are being built, is indeed evidence of a growing public awareness of the great waste created by alcoholism.

We expect that Pitt County will continue to lead in the efforts to find solutions to the problem.

Government By Men, Not Law?

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A favorite belief around Congress is that theirs is a government of laws, not of men.

Like the balanced budget, early adjournment and other fond congressional dreams, it frequently proves illusory.

Last year, after considerable effort and painful compromising, Congress voted to continue the antipoverty program with, it thought, a major change in the way Community Action programs operated.

Instead of having them run by private groups operating independently of the local government, Congress said elected public officials should either direct the programs themselves or pick the agency that does.

To its authors, the language of the amendment seemed clear and unequivocal: States, counties or city governments would take over the Community Action agencies. The amendment's opponents, felt the same way. They dubbed it the "city hall" amendment and said it put the Community Action agencies under the thumb of politicians.

So it came as something of a shock to supporters of the change when the Office of Economic Opportunity issued its proposed guidelines last month to implement the new law.

Their main thrust seemed to be to encourage public officials to keep out of the picture and designate existing agencies to carry on.

As chief sponsor of the amendment, Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., registered the heaviest shock.

"The seriousness of this breach of congressional intent is so profound," she told the chairman of the Education and Labor Committee, that OEO officials should be called before the committee to explain.

She accused the OEO of ignoring the new role for the states envisioned by the amendment and of trying to discourage cities and counties from becoming Community Action agencies themselves.

The National League of Cities and the National Association of Counties share Mrs. Green's view. In letters to the OEO, the League of Cities called the guidelines "extremely protective of the existing agencies" and the county group said they are "tilted to favor existing agencies."

The chief administrative officer of Los Angeles County was even blunter.

"If it were the intent of the OEO to interpret the Green amendment in such a way as to make it impossible for a county to designate itself as a Community Action agency," he wrote, "they have been eminently successful."

Repairing Crystal Balls

WASHINGTON—After President Johnson's earth-shattering speech on Sunday night in which he announced that he would not be a candidate for the Presidency in 1968, I immediately called my crystal ball repairman and told him to get over right away.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I'm swamped. Every columnist, pundit and television commentator has been calling in, wanting his crystal ball repaired, and I just can't get to all of them right now."

"But I've got to have mine fixed," I cried. "My living depends on it."

"That's what they all say," the repairman said. "Look, if you want to bring it in tomorrow morning, I'll see what I can do. But with what has been going on in the past few months, I just can't make house calls."

I arrived the next morning at 8 o'clock, hoping I would get immediate service, but the repair shop was jammed. Drew Pearson was fighting with James Reston, Robert Novak was trying to push in front of David Lawrence, Walter Lippmann was arguing with Eric Sevareid, William Buckley and David Brinkley were hugging the counter. Russell Baker, who had just written a book on the elections, was standing in a corner, crying. Clark Mollenhoff, who had written Romney's biography, was pulling out his hair. The crystal ball repairman was going out of his mind.

He finally said: "All right, shut up, everybody! I'm going to give you each a number and you're going to have to wait your turn."

I sat on a bench between Walter Cronkite and the cartoonist, Herb Block. Each of us held his crystal ball on his lap.

"You would think these things would work during an election year," Cronkite complained bitterly.

"Mine works," Block said. "It just doesn't work right. Wait until Betty Furness hears about this."

"I'm going to call Ralph Nader," Drew Pearson said. "The whole crystal ball industry should be investigated."

"This is the fourth crystal ball I've had this year," Reston said. "The first one went on the blink when Romney pulled out of the race in New Hampshire. The second one collapsed when Bobby got into the race and the third one went completely haywire when Rockefeller said he wouldn't run."

"Would you believe," William S. White said, "that on the basis of my crystal ball, I was writing a new book on the next four years of President Johnson?"

Jeanne Dixon, with tears in her eyes, walked into the shop holding her crystal ball and said: "This has never happened to me before."

Lou Harris and George Gallup also came in and everyone shouted for them to wait their turn.

Five hours later my number was called. The repairman took one look at the ball and shook his head. "This one is in worse shape than Kiplinger's."

"Well, could I trade it in for a new one?"

"All the 1968 models have been recalled to the factory for repairs," he said, "but I have a used model here that's in excellent condition."

"I'll take it," I cried. I took it home and unwrapped it. To my horror, I saw Thomas Dewey reading his inaugural speech on the steps of the Capitol.

Lyndon Lacked Allies

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The strangest aspect of the Wisconsin primary campaign prior to President Johnson's shocking announcement Sunday night was the absence of visible signs of support for him.

While more than $200,000 was being pumped into Wisconsin for the absentee LBJ campaign and a large and busy headquarters in downtown Milwaukee was running it, the normal symbols of partisanship were missing.

During a week in Wisconsin, we spotted not one LBJ bumper sticker. The first Johnson campaign button we saw was on the lapel of his state campaign director. In the working class neighborhoods where, in years past, windows contained campaign posters for Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy, there were no such displays for President Johnson.

The lack of such displays corresponded to an almost total absence of volunteers. While thousands of Midwestern college students conducted house-to-house canvassing for Sen. Eugene McCarthy, there was no such precinct-level effort for Mr. Johnson. "Who in the world would we get to ring the doorbells?" one LBJ manager asked us.

Finally, the men running the Johnson campaign in Wisconsin were really not Johnson men totally and unequivocally committed to the President. Declining to build up party contacts in the states these past four years, Mr. Johnson had no friends or unshakable allies in Wisconsin party circles.

Those few who had some personal connections with the White House tended to be removed from politics — a Milwaukee friend of son-in-law Pat Nugent, a maverick Democratic supporter of Mr. Johnson for President in 1960.

The Wisconsin picture was typical of the President's political position across the country as of last Sunday night. His prospects against Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, surely a more formidable vote-getter than McCarthy, in the post-Wisconsin primaries was grim. Not only did Kennedy have a big advantage in California and Oregon but according to private polls performed for him by John Kraft) had an excellent shot against Mr. Johnson in the more conservative states of Nebraska and Indiana.

This unpleasant vista ahead must be considered when assessing the reasons why Mr. Johnson dropped out. He had been telling aides recently that the bitterly-contested months of primary fighting might further increase divisiveness in the land.

But granting that patriotism and concern for national unity were central considerations in Mr. Johnson's decision, the very strong possibility that he might actually lose all these primaries and perhaps the nomination might well have weighed on his mind.

Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, an LBJ ally-turned-critic, has predicted publicly and consistently that Mr. Johnson would not run out of fear of being defeated. As uncharitable as Hartke's appraisal is, there is no doubt that the events of recent weeks — including the lachrymose Wisconsin campaign — had removed the inevitability of Mr. Johnson's re-election or even renomination.

Quick Reaction To Blockbuster

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — Editors of the state's newspapers reacted swiftly and vocally to the biggest political development in years — the announcement by President Johnson that he will not run again.

Within hours after the news broke last Sunday evening, editorials commenting on Johnson's decision and its effect were in print in dozens of North Carolina newspapers.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

president a selfish, egotistical political. Whatever adjectives we use to describe him, his speech last night elevates him to the status of statesman.

Charlotte News — Lyndon Johnson has belied the worst and confirmed the best that has been said about him, both as a practical man of politics and as a president of the United States. His decision to withdraw from the 1968 presidential race was an act of courage, of insight into the country's dilemma, and of the vision that so many had doubted was in him.

Other Editorial Views
The Gastonia Gazette — There was a certain amount of sorrow for the man who had bogged himself down in a quagmire of his own creation, but the sympathy did not extend to putting him back in control again.

Lyndon Johnson was trapped, and he knew it. The pious platitudes about wishing to spend all his time serving the country rang hollow, and like reports emanating from the Pentagon were a bit hard to swallow.

A shrewd politician knows when he is licked and if Lyndon Johnson is anything he is a shrewd politician.

Wilson Daily Times — It is clear the President wants to go down in history as bringing an end to the war in Vietnam. He is staking his all on winning this battle, and if he does he will make his place in history.

Statesville Record and Landmark — Last night Americans saw the picture of a lonely President, still seeking a niche in history as the great peacemaker by a route that can only bring further disappointment.

Criticized in the South for what he had tried to do for the Negro and in the North for what he had tried to do for freedom, his popularity was at a low ebb. Even those he had helped most were the loudest dissenters. We shall now be treated to a summer of second guessing by second stringers. It is at this time that our system used to raise up from the grassroots leadership to meet the challenge of the hour.

Almost without exception, the editors spontaneously praised the president's purpose and demonstration of sincerity, then reflected upon and raised questions about what may happen on the national political scene.

Editorial Excerpts
Following are excerpts from some typical editorials which reached North Carolina readers.

Sanford Herald — We have trusted President Johnson's leadership. We, therefore, accept his announcement with the conviction that it was made in the interest of a united America.

President Johnson has seen that unity in America is essential: it is, in fact, the glory of its history.

The President's act may have been humility that girds the real spirit of his, and our, United States.

Salisbury Post — His decision reaffirms our belief that the President wants peace more than anything in this world.

It's comforting to know that the man who knows the most about the situation will not have to worry about the polls or about politics in making his most difficult decisions and in carrying out his awesome responsibilities.

No longer can we call our

Other Editors Saying The Favorite Son Idea

(Raleigh, N. C. Times)

The movement to make Governor Moore North Carolina's favorite son candidate in the Democratic National Convention is a completely sensible thing to do.

Under such an arrangement, North Carolina's 59 nominating conventions votes for president would be pledged to the Governor as a favorite son. It is true that this would break with North Carolina's tradition of sending unpledged delegations to the convention, but this isn't a usual presidential year.

If the delegates are pledged to Governor Moore, North Carolina would be in a strong bargaining position in the national convention. Such bargaining is the lifeblood of politics, and a good bargainer could put the State in the winning candidate's column, with resulting political benefit to the State during the four years to come.

On the other hand, if North Carolina sends an unpledged delegation to the Chicago convention, it could wind up with a lot of splinters which would help no one and which could well irritate just about everybody. In such a case, it would be conceivable that each delegate would decide for himself how he would vote on the nomination. The result could be a lot of wasted effort and wasted political resources.

There is another advantage, too, this one for the delegates themselves. If we should have an unpledged delegation, each delegate would be fair game for envoys from all possible candidates, ranging from Bobby Kennedy to George Wallace, with Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy in between. Some of those envoys undoubtedly would be willing to put real pressure on the delegates, and that wouldn't be a pleasant situation for them.

On the other hand, if Governor Moore is the favorite son candidate from North Carolina, the envoys from the candidates would have to deal with him. And, Moore would be in the position of dealing from considerable strength, not in the position of being just one delegate with just one vote.

A Warning In Action By FTC

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Federal Trade Commission has taken a number of actions in recent weeks against the kind of operations that usually interest Better Business Bureaus. From time to time the FTC does crack down on such businesses, but the recent series constitutes a warning to the public of things to watch out for.

Here are the cases:
A mail-order insurance company was accused of sending advertising material to parents of new draftees implying that its policies were approved by the government; that the policy was initiated by the serviceman and that it would be issued regardless of any military assignment. The company was also accused of pretending that a simple policy sent parents was a valid policy in force. The company agreed to an injunction. Data Processing GYP

ELMER ROESSNER

Another company implied that it was seeking candidates for data processing jobs, whereas it was simply seeking prospects for its mail-order and residence courses in electronic data processing. Its salesmen were accused of falsely asserting that the school guarantees graduates jobs and that loans and part-time work were available to students.

A Washington, D. C., transmission repair garage was accused of "systematically and wilfully" defrauding customers. The FTC said that garage offered low-cost transmission repairs but, when the transmission was disassembled "discovered" faults that required costly repairs. If the auto owner balked, the garage refused to reassemble the transmission. "Almost invariably the result was that respondents were authorized to do the additional work, which was usually unnecessary and often not performed," the FTC said. It ordered the garage to cease.

Freezer Beef
The FTC accused a Massachusetts freezer-beef company of falsely offering beef and other food at low prices to induce the public to come to its place of business.

An examiner found that the company offered beef at 27, 31, 39 and 49 cents a pound as tender, delicious and grain fed or heavy western beef whereas it was ungraded cow beef, largely fat and waste; that the beef was said to consist primarily of sirloin, T-bone, roasts, porterhouse and other choice cuts, whereas most of the meat was hamburger and any steaks or roasts were of poor quality and bore considerable fat; and that the company falsely advertised that the meat came primarily from Black Angus cattle.

The company did not appear for a hearing. The examiner issued an order requiring the company to cease misrepresentations. The order, of course, may be appealed, stayed or reviewed.

AT KIWANIS MEETING . . . Boys Home students Perdue, Griffin, Mullis and Ferguson, with Greenville Kiwanis Club vice-president Roscoe King.

Boys Home Students Speak To Kiwanians

Four Boys Home students outlined the educational program at the Lake Waccamaw facility for the Greenville Kiwanis Club at the organization's meeting Wednesday night.

Presenting the program were Johnny Perdue, Bobby Griffin, Johnny Mullis and Sammy Ferguson.

Boys Home opened in 1958 with 16 boys. Since that time, the four reported, a constant effort has been made to help every boy obtain the best education possible.

Until 1966, residents of the home attended the Columbus County school at Hallsboro. An elementary school was established at Boys Home in 1966 as part of the Columbus County school system and in the 1966-67 school year, 50 students in grades four through eight attended.

During the current school year, 49 students have attended classes in grades five through eight. Classes there meet all State Board of Education requirements.

Progress of the students is reviewed each six weeks by his

'Crisis' Powers Voted Mayor

The city's mayor was empowered to declare a state of emergency and impose curfews under certain conditions, in an ordinance approved by the City Council last night.

The ordinance provides that in times of "great public crisis, disaster, rioting, catastrophe" when authorities are unable to maintain order the mayor can declare a state of emergency.

It allows the mayor to set curfew hours affecting all persons within the city and exempting policemen, firemen, doctors, nurses and others essential to public order.

The mayor is to proclaim the end of the emergency as soon as circumstances warrant "or when directed to do so by the City Council."

The ordinance spells out violations of the curfew and provides for a fine of $50 or imprisonment not exceeding 30 days for violations.

City Councilmen Oppose Shorter Service Hours

Councilmen last night expressed their opposition to closing of the local Western Union office on weekends.

The council approved a resolution stating this.

City Manager Harry Hagerty said he had been informed that Western Union proposes the local office be closed during certain hours on weekends with telegram service handled through an agent at a service station.

Mayor Eugene West said he had heard opposition to the plan. He reported that East Carolina University officials had notified him they were opposed to the curtailed service also.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Dinner To Honor Pitt Candidate

FOUNTAIN — A dinner will be held for Mark Owens, candidate for the Democratic nomination to the House of Representatives from Pitt County tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Fountain Community Building. An estimated 125 to 130 persons are scheduled to attend.

The supper is designed to kick off his campaign for the nomination for seat number one, according to W. R. Mercer of Fountain, one of the sponsors of the dinner.

Friendly Meet Between LBJ, Sen. Kennedy

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson, during his meeting Wednesday with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said he would remain out of the political fight this year because he did not believe it was appropriate for a "lame duck" president to try to pick his successor. The New York Times said today.

The Washington story said this and other details of the Johnson-Kennedy meeting were learned Thursday from "knowledgeable sources."

The story also said in part: The meeting, requested by Kennedy in the interest of "national unity," was described as an extraordinarily friendly one, with both men speaking in a conciliatory manner.

Johnson was pictured as the "elder statesman" of the Democratic party who had decided to remain aloof from this year's scramble for the presidency in an effort to keep the party as strong as possible and retain his own dignity and effectiveness as President.

According to Kennedy sources, the President and senator both expressed regret over the reports of animosity between them. Kennedy, it was reported, said he shared some of the blame, but it was agreed that their differences had been magnified by their staff members and the press.

Kennedy sources also said it is likely that the senator's presidential campaign will be more conciliatory toward the administration.

Horticulture -- Popular Addition To Curriculum

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Reflector Staff Writer
Horticulture — the science and art of growing fruits, vegetables, flowers or ornamental plants—is becoming a popular addition to the curriculum at two Pitt County schools.

In its third year at Ayden High School, the horticulture class is composed of 18 students, with about half of them coming from non-farm families.

The program at Winterville High School is now in its fourth year and the class includes eight girls and 24 boys. J. H. Mobley, agriculture teacher at Winterville, who started the program, said horticulture is an enjoyable course for the students. "It creates more interest for the students to have something to do and see what they have done, rather than just reading a book," Mobley said. Mostly a laboratory type course, classroom instruction is held to a minimum and students spend most of their time working with plants in the 16 feet by 32 feet greenhouse, which was constructed by students, Mobley noted. "Work in the greenhouse gives students first hand knowledge in the study of roots, stems, function of flowers—everything is handy for them to see," the instructor explained.

High school credit is given for students in the program at both schools.

By working with plants each day, the boys and girls gain information and experience in identifying plants, learning the characteristics of soils and the ways plants are reproduced. They, too, study the function of roots, stems, leaves, flowers and learn faster by "doing," said Mobley.

"By actually doing the work," Mobley explained, "the students receive scientific information about plant science, insect control and treatment of various diseases, which would be impossible otherwise." And many students, he continued, had only a vague idea how to plant seed or how to propagate plants, before taking the course.

Ornamental horticulture is stressed in the Ayden program by S. F. Peterson, who heads the program at that school.

Ayden horticulture students conduct their experiments in a 16 feet by 32 feet greenhouse constructed by the students there this year.

Other student projects have included the construction of a six by 32 feet mist propagation bed for rooting cuttings, a 24 feet by 52 feet lath house, a 12 feet by 20 feet storage house, and a steam soil sterilizer for use in sterilizing greenhouse soil.

About two-thirds of the Ayden horticulture course, Peterson explained, is practical work with shrubs, trees, grasses and flowers. Formal classroom instruction is, again, kept to a minimum.

No field groups are grown in the horticulture classes, Peterson said.

"The horticulture class helps teach students occupations that serve the farmers, such as supplies and helping dispose of products, rather than teaching general farm practices," Peterson said. "The need is in training in occupations related to farming."

The Ayden instructor said, "The students are experimenting all the time. They try to find better ways of doing the jobs, experiment in plants and materials, experiment to see if seed will come up without being covered and experiment in using various amounts of light, heat and moisture."

"You would be surprised how many students have never seen seed come up before, or have never seen roots grow. The program develops an appreciation for plant life and beautification," Peterson noted.

HORTICULTURE STUDENTS AT WINTERVILLE . . . are disbudding marigold plants to allow growth of one large flower rather than several small ones.

TRANSPLANTING MARIGOLD SEEDLINGS . . . Students of the Ayden horticulture class transplant marigold seedlings under the watchful eye of Instructor S. F. Peterson.

Students Slated Use New School

HERNDON, N.C. (AP) — Classes for Henderson High School students, suspended in the wake of Wednesday's fire, will resume April 15 at a new school building nearing completion on the northern outskirts of the city.

The new building is to serve Vance County's consolidated high school. While not completed, the building will serve for classes in the present emergency, Henderson - Vance County school Supt. W. D. Payne said Thursday.

About 850 students and members of the faculty escaped without injury when fire broke out during the lunch period Wednesday in a second floor classroom area of the city high school.

Damage was unofficially estimated at $200,000. Heaviest damage was to the building's roof and about two-thirds of the classrooms, Payne said. He said plans will be made later to repair the building. Once a rock barnacle attaches itself to a rock, it stays there for life.

HORMONE TREATED

Plant Pennington Green Now For A Beautiful "Permanent Lawn"

Green Coated Grass Seed Grows Permanent Lawn in Sun and Shade — Experts Say "Spring Ideal Time to Plant"!

Homeowners with lawn problems will welcome the availability of hormone treated Pennington Green, a permanent lawn and seed mixture that has enjoyed the overwhelming acceptance of homeowners throughout the South for the past 21 consecutive seasons.

Developed for this area by Pennington Grain and Seed, Inc., of Madison, Ga., with the help of some of the South's leading agricultural schools, Pennington Green can be planted anytime the ground is workable from August 15th through May 15th.

Tests by leading university experts reveal that the warm, sunny days and cool moist nights of Spring make now an ideal time to plant this type of mixture.

According to Brooks Pennington, Jr., president of the developing firm, "The mixture is a blend of several permanent and compatible grasses that will grow a handsome, hardy lawn both in sun and shade. This fact is verified by the green analysis tag affixed to each bright yellow bag of Pennington Green."

Recognizing that the key to a truly permanent lawn is the root system, officials of the firm state the seed is "GREEN COATED" with a revolutionary treatment that includes a special growth hormone. This process allows a Pennington Green lawn to obtain a root system quickly, preventing the grass from being choked out by weeds and temporary grasses.

Because Pennington Green roots penetrate to a lower level they can obtain moisture during long dry spells and will not freeze when other grasses die.

A growth stimulant to spur growth of the young seedlings and the very best fungicides and insecticides to overcome soil-borne diseases and organisms that normally attack grasses in this area are included in the famous patented Pennington "Green Coat" treatment.

The treatment is "LOCKED-ON" by another exclusive Pennington process that virtually eliminates "wash-off", "rub-off" and "leaching-off" in the soil to which other seed treatments are subject.

Homeowners contemplating sowing new lawns or reseeding established lawns are urged to see their seed dealers for complete details concerning the advantages and benefits of new Pennington Green.

A lawn of Pennington Green is recognized as an "investment" in better living, a more beautiful home and a valuable asset to your real estate.

Pennington Green is available in a bright yellow bag in 5, 10, 25 and 50 pound sizes at leading seed and feed, hardware, lawn and garden and professional nurserymen locations throughout this area.

Death Dogged Steps Of Dr. King In Career

EDITOR'S NOTE—Much of the civil rights career of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was covered by the AP's Don McKee from its beginnings in 1955.

By DON MCKEE

Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — When the mantle of Negro leadership fell on the shoulders of Martin Luther King Jr., death fell in behind him to dog his steps until a bullet found its mark 13 years later. King long before had learned to live with the threat of death.

"Don't stop singing," he had exhorted Negroes at a church rally in Birmingham, Ala., only a few weeks before he was killed.

"Let's have a quality even in the midst of our suffering," he said. King had the quality of being gentle, with courage to speak his convictions. "We have a weapon so powerful they just don't know what to do with it," he once said of nonviolence. "Even if they kill us, we have power."

King received many honors, climaxed with the Nobel Peace Prize of 1964; he influenced presidents, met with heads of state, yet could arouse the field hands, the masses. He received his Ph. D. degree from Boston University in 1955, the year he began the boycott of segregated buses in Montgomery, Ala.

But the award King wanted most for his efforts was the end of discrimination and deprivation. In 1962, he was saying, "I will not be satisfied until segregation is dead in America."

In 1968, he said, "the plant of freedom has grown only a bud and not a flower . . . The last three decades didn't remove racism."

As a boy, King leaped of racism in Atlanta where he was born Jan. 15, 1929. He had two white playmates, until their mother learned of the association.

It was when he was 15 that King was returning from the state finals of an oratorical contest at Valdosta, Ga., and ordered by the driver to move to the back of the bus. King stood up all the way to Atlanta.

"That was the beginning of my determination to lead a bus boycott," he said later. The boycott came in 1955 to Montgomery. It catapulted the young Baptist preacher into world prominence and was a year-long prelude to court-ordered desegregation of the buses. King went to jail in that struggle.

In Albany, Ga., in 1962, when Negro crowds hurled bottles and bricks at policemen, King suspended his marches and called a day of penance, going through the poolrooms collecting knives and other weapons.

"We cannot win this struggle with bottles and bricks," he said.

King returned to Alabama for his 1963 Birmingham campaign, symbolized by the use of police dogs and fire hoses on demonstrators, leading to enactment of the 1964 Civil Rights Act that opened places of public accommodations. In 1964, he led a drive in St. Augustine, Fla.

Arrested in the Florida campaign, King was hauled away in a police car with a fierce-looking dog beside him. Later he was asked if the dog bothered him. King laughed. "He licked my face."

In 1965, King led the voting rights drive in Selma, Ala., that produced another national law and thousands of new voters in the South.

He moved north a year later with the ill-fated Chicago campaign that by his admission failed to win the goal of open housing.

King reminisced a few weeks ago during a flight from Jackson, Miss., to Birmingham, Ala., on a trip to get support for his most ambitious undertaking—the poor people's campaign in Washington, D.C.

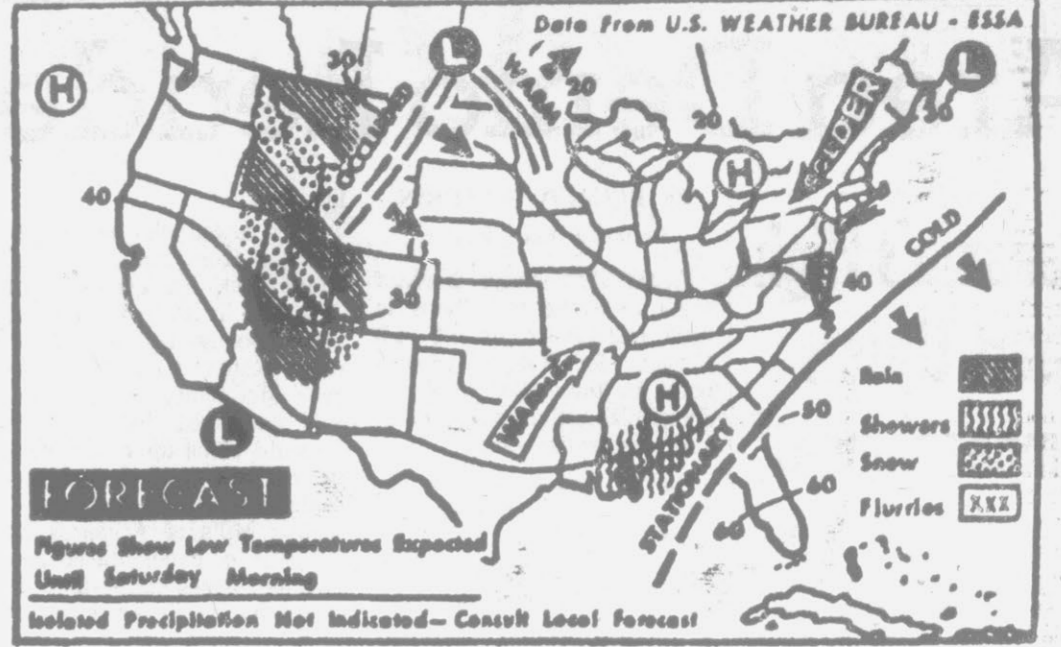

Twice, King recalled, he had been actually fearful of dying. "You remember when we were stopped by Jim Clark in Selma," he said to an associate. "He said, 'don't take another step.' I believe if I had taken another step, he would have killed me. He was trembling."

The other time he felt scared, King said, was in Cicero, Ill., a Chicago suburb, when he and a line of open housing marchers walked between hostile mobs, with heavy police escorts.

King went ahead with plans for the Washington poor people's campaign despite the same kind of predictions he heard from both friends and enemies when he proposed the 1963 drive in Birmingham and the 1965 Selma push—both of which brought new laws.

King said in 1963, "We are tired of living in the dungeons of poverty, ignorance and want. We have come to the day when a piece of freedom is not enough for us as human beings . . ."

"If the inexpressible cruelties of slavery could not extinguish our existence, the opposition we now face will surely fail. We feel that we are the conscience of America . . ."

WEATHER FORECAST — Scattered showers are predicted Friday night in the eastern and central Gulf coast states. Rain and snow are forecast for the Rocky Mountain region. It will be cooler in the eastern third of the nation, colder in the north and central Rockies and more moderate in the Plains states and Mississippi valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Wrote Of March On Washington

NEW YORK (AP) — Following are excerpts from an article Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. wrote for the current issue of Look magazine describing his plans for a new Washington demonstration this spring:

"The time has come for a return to mass nonviolence. Accordingly, we are planning a series of such demonstrations . . . They will have Negro and white participation and they will seek to benefit the poor of both races . . ."

"We believe that if this campaign succeeds, nonviolence will once again be the dominant instrument for social change—and jobs and income will be put in the hands of the tormented poor. If it fails, nonviolence will be discredited, and the country may be plunged into holocaust, a tragedy deepened by the awareness that it was avoidable . . ."

"Demonstrations have served as unifying forces in the movement. . . Anytime we've had demonstrations in a community, people have found a way to slough off their self-hatred and they have had a channel to express their longings and a way to fight nonviolently."

"We need this movement. We need it to bring about a new kind of togetherness between blacks and whites. We need it to bring allies together and to bring the coalition of conscience together."

"I think we have come to the point where there is no longer a choice now between nonviolence and riots. It must be militant, massive nonviolence or riots. The discontent is so deep, the anger so ingrained, the despair, the restlessness so wide, that something has to be brought into being to serve as a channel through which these deep emotional feelings, these deep angry feelings, can be funneled . . ."

"I'm committed to nonviolence absolutely. I'm just not going to kill anybody, whether it's in Vietnam or here. I'm not going to burn down any buildings. If nonviolent protest fails this summer, I will continue to preach it and teach it . . ."

"America is reaping the harvest and shame planted through generations of educational denial, political disfranchisement and economic exploitation of its black population. Now, almost a century removed from slavery, we find the heritage of oppression and racism erupting in our cities, with volcanic lava of bitterness and frustration pouring down our avenues."

"Black Americans have been patient people and perhaps they could continue patient with but a modicum of hope; but everywhere 'time is winding up,' in the words of one of our spirituals . . ."

"White America has allowed itself to be indifferent to race prejudice and economic denial. It has treated them as superficial blemishes, but now awakes to the reality of a potentially fatal disease . . ."

"We have, through massive nonviolent action, an opportunity to avoid a national disaster and create a new spirit of class and racial harmony. We can write another luminous moral chapter in American history. All of us are on trial in this troubled hour, but time still permits us to meet the future with a clear conscience."

6-Cent Stamps On Easter Cards

Postmaster Joseph C. Dudley today reminded mailers that postage is now six cents for mailing Easter greeting cards that are one ounce or lighter.

Mr. Dudley said the postage rate increase that went into effect January 7, 1968 increased the rate for mailing all greeting cards from four to six cents.

"Many mailers mistakenly think that since first class postage increased one cent, the postage for greeting cards also increased only one cent," Postmaster Dudley said.

He pointed out that some cards have already been mailed with only five cents of postage. In those cases, one cent in additional postage must be collected from the recipient, he said.

The first-class postage rate will provide jet flight service for Easter Greeting Cards destined to servicemen in Vietnam and other overseas locations as well as airtel treatment for most domestic addresses more than 250 miles from the mailing point.

NAACP MEETING

The United Pitt County Branch of the NAACP will meet at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Mt. Shiloh Baptist Church of Winterville. The Rev. C. B. Gray, pastor of the Mount Olive Baptist Church of Ayden will deliver the address.

Seat Belt For A Buddhist God

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — Knee clamps and rear clamps didn't stop Kwannon, the Buddhist god of compassion and mercy, from shifting on his pedestal. So now he wears an automobile seat belt while traveling.

The Virginia Museum of Fine Arts disclosed the problem—found its solution—Thursday. It said one of its automobiles, a giant trailer carrying a display of Japanese art, had encountered problems with the life-size wood sculpture of Kwannon continually shifting as the mobile museum traversed hills and valleys of the state.

LOST HIS SERMONS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The Rev. William D. Inghram of Nitor is suing a moving firm for $30,000, claiming the company lost his 600 sermons while moving his belongings from Philadelphia last year.

Panama's High Court Upsets 'Impeachment'

PANAMA (AP) — In an 8-1 decision, Panama's Supreme Court ruled today that the National Assembly's impeachment of President Marco A. Robles was illegal.

The opposition-dominated assembly had convicted and dismissed Robles March 24 and then swore in Vice President Max Delvalle as chief of state. However, the country's 4,000-man National Guard backed Robles and kept Delvalle from assuming office pending the decision by the court, which took up the question Monday.

The guard's blockade of the assembly hall goaded opposition militants into brief but explosive disorders. However, their efforts to whip up a general strike and civic resistance were met by public apathy.

There was no immediate reaction to the court's ruling, which was read to newsmen at 1 a.m.

The assembly had convicted Robles of violating the constitutional ban on presidential political activity by promoting his former finance minister, David Semudio, to win the presidency in the elections May 12. Former President Arnulfo Arias is the favorite and the opposition candidate.

A nephew of Arias, 52-year-old Harmodio Arias Jr., publisher of a pro-opposition newspaper, said today that after he was thrown in jail by the National Guard 10 days ago he was beaten with rubber truncheons. The opposition claims 200 persons are still political prisoners.

On Thursday leading members of the opposition said that some assembly members anticipated an adverse decision by the court and were willing to give Robles another try. Others, however, were said to be planning to challenge the high court's power to intervene in the case. Some assemblymen claim the legislature has the power to impeach and oust the court, but this step was considered unlikely.

Robles in his own defense asserted that the constitutional provision prohibiting the president from supporting a candidate for office was not intended to deprive him on an opinion. He also challenged the assembly's right to try him and said he rejected its verdict.

Local Democratic leaders seem to agree that there is little enthusiasm in North Carolina for Robert F. Kennedy in the wake of Pres. Johnson's withdrawal from the presidential race.

Beyond this there is a variety of opinion as to who the party's choice will be.

Congressman Walter B. Jones of the First Congressional District believes President Johnson's withdrawal will stimulate more interest in the national convention in Chicago during August.

Rep. Jones said he felt the field is wide open in the race and at the present, no candidate announced or unannounced, had a commanding lead.

Predicts Greater Use For Schools

LOS ANGELES (AP) — American public schools of the future may operate 12 hours a day, seven days a week and 12 months a year, predicts the dean of the University of Southern California's school of education. The present operation is based on a former agricultural-based society no longer suited to urban needs. Dr. Irving R. Melbo said Thursday.

"That doesn't mean pupils will be in school the whole time," he added, however.

When asked who he thought was the front runner for the nomination, the congressman said that in North Carolina there was no enthusiasm for either Robert Kennedy or Eugene McCarthy. Rep. Jones said he hoped that the party could come up with a candidate that North Carolina could support. He mentioned Wilbur Mills of Arkansas as the type of candidate he had in mind. Jones stated that "it would be tragic for a person to be elected with a background of only glamour and excitement."

Asked if he thought Pres. Johnson's withdrawal would reduce the Democrats' chances of capturing the White House in November, Jones replied, "Not at all. On the contrary, by sacrificing his personal future, particularly if he is successful in ending the Viet Nam conflict, he will have enhanced the Democratic chances of gaining the presidency."

Congressman Jones felt that if Robert Kennedy did get the nomination he would have little or no chance of carrying the state because of his strong position on tobacco. Jones further added that if Wilbur Mills did decide to seek the nomination, that he would do extremely well in North Carolina once he became known better nationally. Jones added that he had no idea that Mills would run, but he pointed out that was the sort of middle-of-the-road candidate that North Carolina would prefer.

State Sen. Julian Allsbrook from Halifax County, stated that he thought it would be difficult to assess Johnson's withdrawal and its effect on the Democratic National Convention until the outcome of the current negotiations between Hanoi and Washington is known.

Senator Allsbrook said, "Hubert Humphrey would be North Carolina's choice of all the candidates being considered at the present, even though he is not an announced candidate."

Senator Allsbrook was the only one of the six office-holders polled who felt that the president's decision not to run would reduce the Democrats' chances of winning in November. "There was a question as to whether he could win, but if anyone could, he (Johnson) was the one. Certainly Mr. Johnson's withdrawal impairs our chances; that is probably why he announced when he did, to give us time to repair the damage."

When asked how he thought Robert Kennedy would run, Allsbrook replied, "Very poorly."

State Senator Vinson Bridges from Edgecombe County said that Johnson's withdrawal leaves the nomination "up for grabs."

Bridges indicated that even though Vice President Humphrey has not announced his candidacy, he felt Humphrey is the leading candidate as far as North Carolina is concerned.

The State Senator did not feel that LBJ's decision not to run would affect the Democratic hopes because, "Mr. Johnson was not the only capable Democrat that could win."

Bridges said he would be surprised if Robert Kennedy could carry North Carolina and said that Humphrey would have no trouble carrying the state.

State Rep. W. A. (Red) Forbes of Winterville was very brief when asked how the president's announcement would affect the convention. He said, "I have no idea."

'String' On Tail Of Rocket Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An X15 rocket plane flew nearly 40 miles high with a "string" on its tail in a test of insulation material to be used on future spacecraft rocket boosters. The lightweight material is designed to shield fuel burned by the second stage of Saturn 5—the boosters of Apollo spacecraft, U.S. space agency pilot William H. Dana hit a peak of 3,546 miles an hour on a 250-mile, 10-minute flight launched Thursday from beneath the wing of a B52 bomber.

Cooke as Roman Catholic archbishop of New York Thursday. At left, in pew behind the Chief Executive, is Mrs. John F. Kennedy. At top right is New York Mayor John V. Lindsay. Forbes said that he felt Sen. Eugene McCarthy was the leading candidate for the presidential nomination, and that Johnson's withdrawal would not reduce the Democratic hopes for the presidency.

When asked about Senator Kennedy's chances in North Carolina if he were to receive the nomination, Forbes stated that "he (Kennedy) would do poorly because of his position against our livelihood in this area of tobacco, and because of his promotion of whiskey. However, I do think McCarthy would run well in this state."

The Pitt representative said that "RFK will do terribly. The state would probably go for Wallace or Nixon if Kennedy got the nomination."

Thieu Warns Saigon Voice Must Be Heard

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has warned the United States that he may repudiate any political agreement on Vietnam in which Saigon has no say, diplomatic sources reported today.

Thieu summoned the envoys of the allied governments to the presidential palace Thursday to express his misgivings over the coming U.S. contacts with Hanoi.

Authoritative informants said Thieu told the diplomats that the United States has no right to discuss any political questions concerning Vietnam in its direct talks with Hanoi.

Thieu also re-emphasized the position of the Saigon government that: — There can be no coalition government including the Communists in South Vietnam.

— Saigon will not accept a separate Viet Cong delegation at any forthcoming peace conference, and son's development." Roundtree said that Hubert Humphrey is the leading candidate as far as the state and the administration are concerned.

— Saigon will not accept peace terms which include the neutralization of South Vietnam.

Roundtree indicated that, with Johnson out of the race, the Democrats would still win in November. "Though it is a little early, if everyone in the party supports Mr. Humphrey, it will be the same as if LBJ were running. The only real issue is war. If peace talks start, the Republicans will find the door closed, and their platform will have been taken away from them. And let's not forget, Nixon is a two-time loser."

The Pitt representative said that "RFK will do terribly. The state would probably go for Wallace or Nixon if Kennedy got the nomination."

American officials said they were not surprised by Thieu's position and "not necessarily in disagreement with it."

"We have always said we don't want to impose a political solution on Vietnam, that it's up to the Vietnamese to decide," a U.S. spokesman said.

A Saigon government communique issued after Thieu's meeting with the ambassadors welcomed moves to bring an early end to the war "in justice and freedom."

It said the allies had agreed to remain "in constant consultations on any points of substance or decisions" which might arise in the talks with Hanoi.

South Vietnamese officials from Thieu down were clearly worried that the talks could be the beginning of a snowballing succession of peace moves which might end with an American withdrawal from Vietnam.

Thieu told a news conference Tuesday that if the United States should withdraw from Vietnam, the Saigon government will fight on alone—if possible with the help of its other allies.

Humphrey will run as well as LBJ if he receives the president's endorsement."

Pitt Democratic Party Chairman J. H. Harrell said that the President's decision not to run leaves "a big vacuum."

Harrell replied to a question about whom he considered to be the front-running candidate with the answer, "We'd be making a wild guess at this time. I suppose that Senators Kennedy and McCarthy are the front runners."

Harrell did not think the Democratic chances were reduced but he hastened to add that "it would depend entirely on who is nominated."

"Mr. Kennedy and Mr. McCarthy will run just as low as anyone can. If either is nominated, it will be hard to keep North Carolina in the Democratic column for governor as well as for president."

Phantoms Win In Washington Meet

WASHINGTON — Rose High School's tracksters continued unbeaten in Northeastern Conference competition yesterday, gaining a victory over Washington, West Carteret and Tarboro.

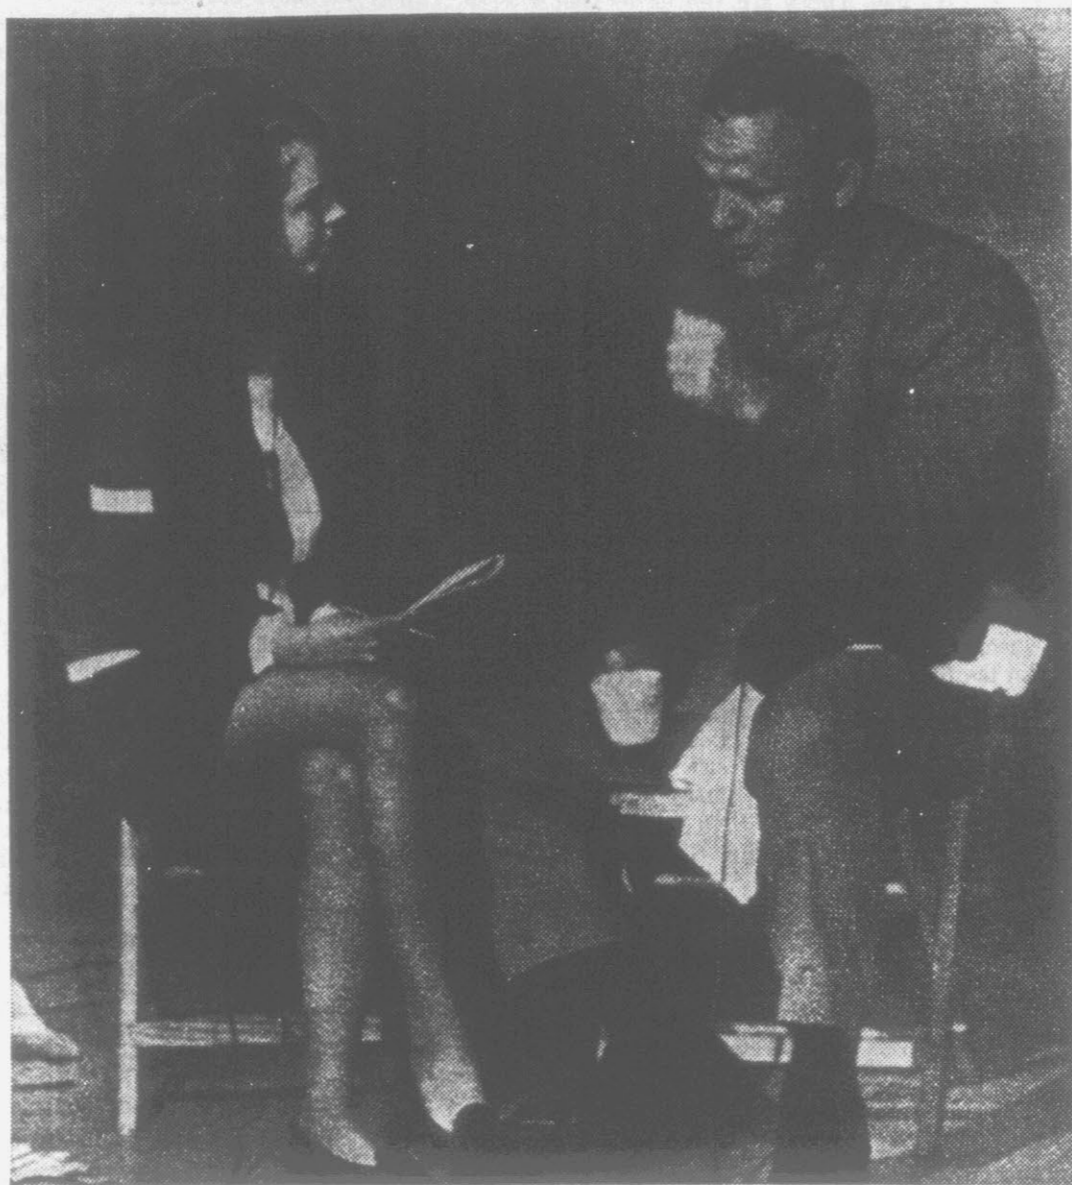

The Phantoms, the defending conference champions, picked up 76 points in the meet, while Washington was a strong second with 62. West Carteret finished third with 58½, while Tarboro was last with 12 points.

Rose captured first place in five events, the shot put, discus, high hurdles, low hurdles and the 60 run. West Carteret also took five events, while Washington had three and Tarboro had one.

The Phantoms, however, picked up a lot of seconds and thirds to help on the points.

Richard Tucker, who won both the shot and the discus for the Phantoms, set a new school mark in hurling the plate with a toss of 137 feet, 7 inches. Tim Foley was also a double winner for the Phantoms, winning both hurdles events.

Summary:
 Long jump: Dorman (WC), Bell (WC), Facho (T), Mason (W), Gould (R), 18-9.
 High jump: Newberry (T), Stalls (W), Tyler (W), Modlin (W), Livingston (WC), 5-5.

Monday Breaks Hitting Slump

By RON RAPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Oakland's Rick Monday broke out of a slump at the expense of the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday, but Red Schoendienst couldn't have cared less. He's too busy wondering about his relief pitching this year.

Monday ended his string of 20 hitless trips to the plate with two singles and a double as the Athletics pounded out a 12-2 victory over the defending National League champion Cardinals.

Five of the Oakland runs came off Mike Torrez in the fourth inning—he gave up eight altogether—and four more were wrested from Hal Gilson in the seventh.

Manager Schoendienst is hoping that both Torrez and Gilson

East Carolina University's golfers picked up their third straight victory yesterday with an 18½ to 2½ victory over Virginia Military Institute. The Bucs now stand 3-1 for the year and 2-0 in the Southern Conference.

East Carolina captured every match but one during the day, and drew in that one.

Summary:
 Mike Schlueter (ECU) defeated Marv Thews, 3-0.
 Mike O'Brian (ECU) defeated Dixon McElwee, 3-0.

can take up some slack in the Cardinal bullpen this year especially since Jack Lamabe, who provided help down the stretch last year, was cut Thursday.

In other exhibition games Thursday, the New York Mets shut out San Francisco 6-0, Los Angeles downed Cleveland 8-3, the Chicago Cubs crushed the Chicago White Sox 11-5, Philadelphia blanked Boston 5-0, the New York Yankees beat Washington 8-2 and Minnesota beat Houston 3-1.

Oakland tagged St. Louis pitching for 14 hits, drew nine walks and took advantage of four errors. Jim Hunter held the Cards to four hits for six innings.

Jerry Kosman and Danny Frisella stopped the Giants on four hits and Ken Boswell had a two-run homer for the Mets. Tom Haller's second homer in as many days highlighted the Dodgers' victory. Claude Osteen pitched seven innings, giving up nine hits.

The Cubs bombed Gary Peters for seven runs in the first inning in which 11 men batted. Ron Santo and Al Spangler had homers for the Cubs and Duane Josephson had one for the White Sox.

Larry Jackson, Gary Wagner and Dick Hall blanked the Red Sox while Tony Taylor homered and Johnny Callison had two important singles for the Phillies.

The Yanks scored three unearned runs in the first inning while getting six walks off Barry Moore. Frank Howard hit a 490-foot homer for the Senators, the longest ever hit at the Fort Lauderdale Stadium.

Dean Chance and Ron Perranoski combined to stop Houston on four hits, Chance pitching until the eighth inning.

Rose, behind the one hit pitching of sophomore lefthander Russ Smith, bounced back on Tuesday with an 8-2 win over Roanoke Rapids paced by Ken Beamons' two triples and four runs batted in. This was Smith's first start of the year and the young lefthander shows tremendous promise as another starter on coach Russ Cotton's pitcher-rich Phantoms.

The New Bern Bears kept pace with the leaders and remain tied with Rose for second place with two big wins over Havelock 4-2 and Tarboro 6-1. Big righthander Chuck Mohr made his season debut a rousing success also against Tarboro as the sophomore gave up nine hits but was tough in the clutch. O. A. Adams came back Tuesday to chalk up his third straight win as the Bears downed Havelock 4-2.

The Pam Pack of Washington are making a belated bid for a top spot after suffering three

Rose, New Bern Meet In Battle For Second Place

The familiar name of the Kinston Red Devils rests atop the standings of the Northeastern Conference all by itself as a result of this week's conference games.

Last Friday, the Red Devils, behind unbeaten Mike Edwards, gave the Rose High Phantoms and no hit pitcher Lee Galt their first loss of the year by a score of 6-3. Mike Aldridge had powered the Phantoms into a 3-0 lead in the opening inning on his first round tripper of the year but the Devils came right back with 5 runs before Galt retired a man and Edwards had enough to win his 4th straight. The Devils continued their winning ways on Tuesday with a 6-4 win over West Carteret with Harvey Hill, in relief getting his second win of the year.

Rose, behind the one hit pitching of sophomore lefthander Russ Smith, bounced back on Tuesday with an 8-2 win over Roanoke Rapids paced by Ken Beamons' two triples and four runs batted in. This was Smith's first start of the year and the young lefthander shows tremendous promise as another starter on coach Russ Cotton's pitcher-rich Phantoms.

The big game Friday will send Rose High to New Bern with the winner assured of second place in league standings while other games find Washington at Kinston in another big one, West Carteret at Roanoke Rapids, Tarboro at East Carteret and Havelock at Elizabeth City.

Tuesday, April 9, will find New Bern at Kinston as the topper, East Carteret will be at Rose, Tarboro at Havelock, Elizabeth City at West Carteret and Roanoke Rapids at Washington.

The national Amateur Athletic Union's Diving Championships opens today at Minges Coliseum Natatorium with a pre-qualifying session for over 100 divers.

At stakes are not only the AAU titles, but also possible berths on the U.S. Olympic teams which will compete this year in Mexico City.

A maximum of 28 divers will qualify for Sunday and Tuesday events on the one and three-meter boards, respectively. Of these 28, 16 have already qualified by their finishes in the NCAA College and University championships and in previous AAU events.

The remaining 12 divers in each event will be chosen today in the pre-qualifying session. Each diver in each event will perform six dives, and the tops in each group will be selected to continue on in the competition.

Sunday, the preliminaries and finals will be held for the one-meter title. The 28 divers will each perform five dives, and then the field will be cut to 16 for three more dives.

Sunday night, starting at 7 p.m., the field will be cut again, this time to 12, and three more dives will be performed, leading to the crowning of the new champion.

Three-meter competition will be held on Tuesday, with the 28 candidates performing seven dives in the morning preliminaries, and the 12 top divers doing three more in the afternoon finals.

The top six finishers in each event will automatically qualify for the Olympic trials, to be held in California this summer. Those who don't make it must qualify later in the season at Lincoln, Neb.

Among the top competitors for the titles will be Jim Henry of Indiana, one-meter NCAA titlist, and Keith Russell of Arizona, three meter champ in the NCAA. Joining them will be Mike Barnhill of Indiana State and Bob Wilhite of California-Irvine, one and three-meter champs in the NCAA College Division, respectively.

Others include Louis Nini De Riviera and Win Young of Indiana, Chuck Knoff of Cincinnati, Tom Brissey of Hawaii, Larry Andreason of Santa Clara, Calif., and Rick Gilbert of Fort Worth, Tex.

Outstanding international divers competing include Tord Anderson of Sweden, and three members of the Mexican Olympic team, Jose Robinson, Mario Contreras, Jorge Telch.

The University will also play host to the AAU Short course indoor Championship running Thursday through Saturday of next week.

Eastern NBA Series Open

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It will be a brand new playoff series with the outcome most likely riding on the same old story—the duel between Bill Russell and Wilt Chamberlain.

Player-coach Russell leads his Boston Celtics against the Philadelphia 76ers and Chamberlain tonight at Philadelphia in the first game of the best-of-7 Eastern Division final of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Western Division final also gets under way, at Los Angeles between the San Francisco Warriors and the Los Angeles Lakers.

"I realize that Boston will be as fanatical in trying to regain the championship from us as we were last year to take it away from them," 76ers Coach Alex Hannum said Thursday, "but we still should win in six games."

The 76ers beat Boston in five games last year, ending the Celtics' nine-year reign as NBA champions.

Managers Of Major League Teams Points To Long, Hard Battle To Gain World Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Managers are hired and fired, players are traded and franchises are shifted but optimism remains the name of the game in the spring.

Every baseball manager expects to improve on last year's finish. Few will admit they will not be in the race.

Since the fall of the New York Yankees, the American League has become a rat race. Managers talk of five, six or seven teams fighting for the pennant. It has always been this way in the National League.

Here's a sample of managerial comment:

American League
Dick Williams, Boston Red Sox—"I believe the race will be another dog fight down to the wire and there will be as many as six teams in the fight. I also believe we have as good a chance as anyone to win it. We are not a one-man team and our pitching is better than people think, just as it was last year."

Mayo Smith, Detroit Tigers—"Four or five and maybe six teams are in the running. We lack the stopper in the bullpen. Our starting rotation is set with Earl Wilson, Dennis McLain, Joe Sparma and Mickey Lolich."

Cal Ermer, Minnesota Twins—"It looks like another rat race, another dog fight. I think we should be a contender. If we can get Jim Kaat in there, we should be in the thick of it."

Jim Lemon, Washington Senators—"I am delighted at what I have seen in spring training, particularly the pitching staff. The progress of Del Unser, Frank Coggins and Mike Epstein has been satisfactory. I think we have good pitching, a good defensive infield and the speed in center will give us a better defensive outfield."

Alvin Dark, Cleveland Indians—"We have six established pitchers, speed in the outfield and a better defense. Our bullpen is unsettled and it remains to be seen how many runs we will be able to score. We have the strongest catching staff in the American League."

Ralph Houk, New York Yankees—"We're better off than at this time last year with a better bench with Andy Kosco. Bill Robinson is coming through. Steve Whitaker looks ready to be a major leaguer all the way. We have added infield strength. Al Downing is a problem but our pitching should be solid."

Eddie Stanky, Chicago White Sox—"I think it will be tough again with the same clubs, plus Cleveland and Baltimore. We had a good club last year but we'll be better. The experience of being in the pennant race (1967) will help."

Bill Rigney, California Angels—"I think we can do it. It depends on the pitching, of course. Except for the catcher (Bob Rodgers) being hurt and Jimmie Hall reporting late, I think the squad is in better shape than it ever has been."

Hank Bauer, Baltimore Orioles—"We've got to have a good year from Boog Powell if we expect to win. Our main problem is health-wise, in the pitching department especially. If we can go through the season without injuries to key personnel, I'd say Baltimore has a good chance to win."

Bob Kennedy, Oakland A's—"This is not a last place club. These youngsters will make some physical mistakes. It's my duty to try to eliminate mental mistakes. I want to get them to play fundamentally sound baseball."

National League
Herman Franks, San Francisco Giants—"We've had a good spring. I believe we have a fine club with outstanding pitching potential. Ron Hunt should strengthen our infield considerably."

Leo Durocher, Chicago Cubs—"I think every team in the league has a shot at the pennant. Forecasting is for fellows who get paid for it."

Dave Bristol, Cincinnati Reds—"Most impressive to me has been our hitting. We'll score more runs this year. We sacrifice some speed to add some good bats. Alex Johnson has been a big plus. Lee May and Tony Perez have shown indications of having solid years. I have to be pleased with Don Pavletich's home-run hitting."

Gene Mauch, Philadelphia Phillies—"In my opinion the Phillies are a considerably better ball club than people might think. There is no reason why Larry Jackson, Chris Short, Rick Wise and Woody Fryman can't win at least 65 games. If we hit as well as we are capable of we will do a job. I am sure our infield defense will be the best we've ever had. There are about seven clubs with pennant ambitions and we are one of them."

Larry Shepard, Pittsburgh Pirates—"I think my catching is adequate. So is the pitching with Jim Bunning, Bob Veale, Al McBean, Tommie Sisk and Steve Blass. I am sure a steady rotation will be the answer. The rest of the club is solid. I know we can make a good run for the pennant."

Luman Harris, Atlanta Braves—"I think we will be stronger up the middle with more speed because of adding Sonny Jackson and Felix Millan. Our pitching still has to be tested. Everybody knows we have some pretty fair hitters."

Walter Alston, Los Angeles Dodgers—"I don't know how much higher we'll finish this year, but I know we're improved. Zoilo Versalles and Tom Haller have shown that they'll help us, and it looks like we'll score more runs than we did last season. I think we'll be stronger defensively. I'm a little worried about the bullpen."

Grady Hatton, Houston Astros—"We have the best talent we have ever had. I feel we have a good chance of finishing in the first division. The pitching particularly appears to be much stronger. If we do not have too many military problems I think we will be a winning ball club."

Gil Hodges, New York Mets—"Being realistic, the Mets are not a pennant contender so our aim has to be improvement. I am looking to improve not only on last year's 61 wins, but the 66 the club had in 1966."

"Much depends on our young pitchers. We have some fine ones in Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman, Les Rohr and Nolan Ryan. My feeling is that we are better all around and even though we did not score often in spring training, we do have the potential to score runs."

Minneapolis was paced by Mel Daniels, who hit 27 points, and Erv Inninger, who canned 26. The second game in the series will be played Saturday night at Pittsburgh.

The divisional final playoffs start tonight in the National Basketball Association. Boston is at Philadelphia and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

The final playoff in the Western Division of the ABA also opens tonight with Dallas at New Orleans.

Each of the series is best-of-7 games.

It was the first game in a best-of-7 series for the American Basketball Association's Eastern title.

"We knew Art could drive on the big men, even though we were giving away three or four inches," said Piper Coach Vince Cazzetta.

"It was part of our game plan," he added, "because we knew Art could get through and pick up fouls. In the third period he didn't make an error."

The 6-foot-5 Heyman went to work in the third period at the same time the Pipers went on a running rampage, outscoring the Muskies 42-17 in the period.

"It was a good defense that actually made the fast break go," explained Cazzetta. Heyman, former Duke All-American, led the third-period assault with 12 points, and netted 11 more in the fourth period.

Charlie Williams, also a driver, almost kept pace with Heyman in the rally, hitting 11 points and finishing with 23. Tom Washington got 10 of his 12 points in the third period.

Connie Hawkins, the Pipers' ace and Most Valuable Player in the ABA, managed to slip in 26 points.

Minnesota was paced by Mel Daniels, who hit 27 points, and Erv Inninger, who canned 26. The second game in the series will be played Saturday night at Pittsburgh.

Casper Returns From Tour, Takes The Lead

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Billy Casper told his wife Shirley during the Los Angeles Open golf tournament which he won last January, "All of a sudden I feel I have to go back to visit the boys overseas."

He had entertained and cheered U. S. forces in Vietnam last year and decided he should return. A few weeks later he was on his way.

The two-time U.S. Open champion-winner of a quarter-million dollars on the golf tour in the last two years—visited servicemen in the Philippines, Thailand, Okinawa and Japan. He entertained them with clinics and stories of the tour.

"I must have visited 500 wounded men in hospitals," he recalled after his first round 65 gave him a share of the lead in the $137,500 Greater Greensboro Open with Julius Boros Thursday.

It was Casper's first competition on the tour in about two months.

Casper was frank to admit that he had doubts about his readiness to jump back into competition after the layoff. He didn't gain much confidence when he shot a four-over par 75 in Wednesday's pro-amateur over the 7,034-yard Sedgefield Country Club course, although a day-long rain made scoring difficult.

"There was a little doubt in my mind that I was ready," he noted.

Tide Table

Tides for the 48-hour period beginning at midnight at the Beaufort Bar:
Saturday's highs: 1:36 a.m., 2:30 p.m.
Saturday's lows: 8:54 a.m., 8:54 p.m.

"But I made some good pars at the start of my round and I hit solid irons after that to get the ball close to the hole. It continued that way throughout the day."

He finished with eight birdies, five in succession on the back nine, which he played first. After his five-under 30, he moved to the front nine, where he scored 35, one under par. An iron shot into the woods on the final hole forced him to settle for a par and a tie with Boros.

Boros, 48-year-old marvel of the tour, also played the back nine first and shot 31, adding a 34 on the front nine. His round included an eagle and five birdies.

They were one shot ahead of lanky Al Geiberger, who shot 32-34-66 and was denied a share of the lead by a missed 18-inch putt.

Then came Joe Campbell, Terry Dill and first-year pro Bob E. Smith at 67.

Defending champion George Archer was one of five 68 shooters and 14 were in at 69.

The latter group included Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Tom Weiskopf, the year's top money winner.

Palmer, bidding for a fifth Masters next week, was unhappy with what he called "very poor" chipping and putting. He bogeyed two of the first three holes by taking three putts from the edge of the green and had to fight his way back to get under par.

Welskopf, who had been faced with an army physical at Columbus, Ohio, next Tuesday, won a week's deferment, which will permit him to play in the Masters.

Sam Snead, eight-time GGO winner, was back in the pack at 74.

Up To Voters: Attorneys Or Laymen As Judges

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a two-part series of articles on North Carolina's current court reform program. It describes the importance to the program of the coming primary election.)

By SYLVIA ROBERTSON
Richmond County
Journal Writer
Written For The AP

ROCKMINGHAM, N.C. (AP)—A side issue which may help decide the success of North Carolina's new judicial system lies in political races for district judgeships in the May 4 primary.

Voters must decide whether they want the newly formed district courts to be administered by attorneys or laymen.

"This is the critical point... the critical election," says State Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr., D-Wayne, who headed the Courts Commission created by the General Assembly. This commission recommended the reform which is now under way across the state.

"With this election the North Carolina method of selecting judges is under its severest test in history," says Warren, who shepherded court reform through three successive General Assembly sessions.

The 1968 primaries and general election will fill 73 of the 120 judgeships which ultimately be created. These positions are being sought by 172 persons.

While most of the candidates are lawyers, laymen are out in force to capture some seats. They include real estate men, car salesmen, onetime peace officers, non-lawyer judges from the inferior courts and small businessmen.

Warren says, "It stands to reason that professionally trained lawyers are better able to sit in judgement on such matters. A person needing a doctor would certainly insist that a professional person look at him," said Warren.

This does not mean laymen do not have the right to seek the posts. No judge at any level in North Carolina—and on to the United States Supreme Court, for that matter—has to be a lawyer.

Local bar associations have tempered their remarks with a sensitive concern for criticism from the public that lawyers may be looking out for lawyers. But the report to the General Assembly by the courts commission specifically states that district bar associations are obligated to recommend candidates to the voters. The courts commission was composed of both laymen and lawyers.

Part of the attraction for the candidates is the district judge's salary of $15,000 a year. Another is that many layman candidates have been associated with the lower courts for many years in various positions.

The District Court, while a step below the Superior Court, will handle a large percentage of the criminal cases and a substantial amount of the civil litigation in North Carolina after December. One of the major defects of the system could come from a high level of appeals before the Court of Appeals. This is where appeals of verdicts rendered in civil cases land. They bypass the Superior Court completely.

Two of the 17 judges already presiding over District Courts are laymen. One is a former state highway patrolman and County Court judge and the other a former clerk and justice of the peace.

The upcoming election ballots have 13 lawyers and eight non-lawyers competing for the five judgeships in Wake County.

The Wake County race includes the ebullient Kidd Brewer, convicted of influence peddling during the Sanford administration. Brewer has bought a bright yellow motor grader and plans to canvass his district astride the vehicle.

Brewer is campaigning against Raymond Mallard, the judge who convicted him. Despite the comedy Brewer is interjecting into the race, most candidates are sincere and Hinsdale, Warren and other commission members are proud of the "increased respect which the system commands from all hands," now under it.

"It is a significant improvement over the old system and is now working well," says Hinsdale.

The 1968-70 completion of the new system which also includes a uniform system of court costs had its birth back in 1953 when the North Carolina Bar Association appointed a court study commission to make recommendations. This preceded by eight years the 1951 legislative proposal to rewrite the judicial article of the State Constitution. In 1952, the voters adopted the changes, which were the first major revision of the judicial article since the Constitution of 1868 was adopted.

Gill Admits A Lag In Auditing

RALEIGH (AP)—State Treasurer Edwin Gill has denied a charge that auditing is not up to date for the teachers and state employes retirement system.

But he has conceded that some phases in auditing the $500 million system are not current.

Gill seeks renomination as the Democratic candidate for state treasurer and issued his denial Thursday after a charge was issued by state Rep. Sneed High of Fayetteville, who opposes Gill.

High had charged that the last audit of the system was at the end of 1965. He noted that Gill is chairman of the retirement system.

The treasurer said he had been told by state auditor Henry Bridges that a complete audit was impossible because of non-current individual accounts in the system.

"My understanding," Gill said, "is that the accounts of the retirement system are current with the exception of approximately 6 per cent of the individual membership accounts, in which errors in reporting by the local units of the retirement system have been discovered."

Tar Heels Among War Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department listed two North Carolina servicemen Thursday among the latest reported Vietnam war casualties.

Capt. John H. Blalock, husband of Mrs. Maria T. L. Blalock of 278 Squire Lane, Fayetteville, was listed as killed in action, and Marine Lance Cpl. James B. Farmer, husband of Mrs. Cornelia H. Farmer of Valle Crucis, was changed from missing to killed in action.

Listed as dead not as a result of hostile action was Army Pfc. James O. West, husband of Mrs. Patricia A. West of 301 Wilmington Rd., Fayetteville.

Political Developments Point Up Change In U. S. Attitudes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Occurrences on the presidential campaign scene, projecting two Roman Catholics into the forefront of contention for the Democratic nomination, point up a marked change in the American religious temper.

Through much of the nation's past and up until eight years ago, it was assumed that a Catholic candidate faced extra obstacles because of his faith, but today, the matter has scarcely come up.

"I haven't heard anybody mention it with reference to Bobby Kennedy or Eugene McCarthy," said the Rev. Dr. C. Emmanuel Carlson of Washington, D.C., executive director of the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs.

"We're much better off on that sort of thing. We're much further along. There's been a general maturing of confidence among people of different religious groups."

It was different back in the 1960 campaign of John F. Kennedy, whose church affiliation brought him under sharp questioning, and who became the first Catholic to occupy the White House.

But the public experience of his style and policies and the growing animity among the religious bodies themselves, are seen as factors creating the new attitude.

"It is a bit early to judge, but it does seem safe to say that religious affiliation will not be an issue in this already hotly joined presidential campaign," writes the Rt. Rev. Msgr. George W. Casey of Lexington, Mass.

"In 1960 it came close to being 'the' issue."

But now, it's not even discussed, he says. He sees these reasons for the change:

—First, that the nation's situation is "too grave to permit the luxuries of sectarian and tribal bigotries."

—And second, the influence of the two "Johns"—JFK, and the late Pope John XXIII, who sparked the reforms of the Second Vatican Council.

"Together they dissuaded the American people, including many Catholics, from the notion that the Catholic Church was an alien institution with designs on American freedom," Msgr. Casey writes in the St. Louis Review.

Dr. Carlson, noting some of the same factors, said that Protestants today "know much more about the workings" of the Catholic Church, which itself is undergoing modifications in structure and outlook.

In the American setting of religious pluralism, he said in a telephone interview, the candidate of a religious minority always "takes on the burden of proving he is not a captive" of his group.

For instance, he said, Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon, a Quaker, has clearly shown he is not bound to the general Quaker teaching of pacifism—both by his expressed views and the fact he was a Navy officer in World War II.

He said other potential candidates this year faced similar circumstances, including:

—Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a Christian Scientist, who has firmly supported medical programs despite his church's opposition to medical treatment.

—Michigan's Republican Gov. George Romney, a Mormon, who has strongly backed racial equity despite his church's ban against Negro priests. Romney has pulled out of the active campaign lists.

After President Johnson's decision not to run again left Kennedy and McCarthy, both Catholics, as the two main Democratic contenders, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey also came into consideration.

His regular church membership is in a United Church Congregationist congregation in Minneapolis, Minn., but he's also an affiliate member of the Chevy Chase, Md., Methodist Church near Washington.

Religion ties of various other Republican possibilities:

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, an Episcopalian; California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a member of the Hollywood-Beverly Christian Disciples of Christ (Church), President Johnson's denomination, and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a Baptist, who attends a Protestant Union Church of Potomac Hills, N.Y.

Mormon Choir To Be Featured

The Salt Lake City Mormon Tabernacle Choir will be featured on television and radio during the Annual World Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Friday through Sunday.

The conference telecast for this area is scheduled for Sunday from 10 a. m. until noon over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington.

Conference sessions will be carried through the facilities of Bonneville International Corp. over an expanded coast-to-coast network of more than 200 radio and television stations.

The 100-year-old Tabernacle on Temple Square in downtown Salt Lake City, Utah, will be the site of the 138th annual convocation.

The choir has given concerts across the United States and Europe. Last year, the 375-member group under the direction of Richard P. Condie appeared at the Canadian Expo '67 and in various cities. This year's tour will include appearances in Texas and Mexico.

Revival Services Begin Monday

Revival services will begin at Calvary Baptist Church Monday night and continue through Sunday night.

Rev. A. G. Wall is the guest evangelist. Services will begin each night at 7:30.

The church is located on the N. C. 11 - U. S. 13 bypass, north of the Greenville Airport.

Firemen Plan A Work Session

The Carolina Township Volunteer Firemen are planning a work session on the W.S. Congleton farm Saturday.

Congleton, injured last fall, has been unable to work.

Plans are for each man to bring his own equipment and they will disk, break, harrow the ground, distribute the fertilizer and plant the corn.

Holy Week Services Will Begin In Bethel On Sunday

BETHEL — Holy Week services will be held at the Bethel Methodist Church beginning Sunday evening and continuing through Friday evening, April 12, at 7:30.

Dr. Robert F. McKee, minister of the church, will conduct the services.

The week's worship will be centered around the topic "They Met At Calvary." Topics for each evening are:

Sunday, "The Teachers Who Hated Him;" Monday, "The Priests Who Bought Him;" Tuesday, "The Traitor Who Sold Him;" Wednesday, "The Crowd Who Cried, 'Crucify Him!'" Thursday, "The Judge Who Sentenced Him;" and the sacrament of Holy Communion; Friday, "I Was There Too." Nursery facilities will be available for each service.

With this week's series of worship services, the congregation of the Bethel church completes a seven-week program of Lenten preparation for the celebration of Easter.

Each week during Lent, members have had a specific religious obligation to fulfill including: a week of letter writing; a week of phone calls; a week of remembrance; a week of prayer; and a week of preparation.

Local Delegates At Convention

Delegates from Greenville were among the more than 1,100 Jehovah's Witnesses and interested persons from eastern North Carolina who attended the keynote address of the Watchtower Convention in Goldsboro Sunday.

Joseph Saia, traveling minister and district director, climaxed the three-day seminar with the public lecture "Why Does God Permit Wickedness?"

According to C. L. Corey, resident minister of Jehovah's Witnesses and who headed the local delegation, the convention was a fine success.

Police Office Is No Deterrent

HONOLULU (AP) — The Honolulu police headquarters doesn't seem to be a deterrent to burglars.

Thieves recently broke into a finance company office located next door to the police station and escaped with about $400 after cracking the office safe.

Several years ago, a music store next door to the finance company was hit by burglars who stole $5,000 worth of merchandise.

In that burglary, police said the station's air conditioner blowers muffled the sound of the burglars breaking down the back door of the music store.

Oil Jobbers Will Hear Jenkins

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, will be the inaugural speaker for the 13th Annual Management Institute of the North Carolina Oil Jobbers Association.

Dr. Jenkins will give the keynote address at the Carolina Inn, Chapel Hill, Sunday.

According to the Association's Executive Director Don Ward of Raleigh, the attendance for the four and one-half day school is a total of 65 oil wholesalers and representatives from across North Carolina.

In his keynote address Sunday, Dr. Jenkins is expected to touch on some of the matters affecting the state's educational system and its relationship to the state's economy, growth and industry.

Other speakers during the week will be Tom Brafford of Raleigh; Jim Coffey, Vero Beach, Fla.; Roby Taylor, Taylor Oil Company, Winston-Salem; and Frank H. Kenan, Durham.

Church To Show Film Saturday

AYDEN — "Silent Witness," a color motion picture will be shown Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Community Baptist Church.

The film was shot on location at Warren Central High School, Indianapolis, Ind., and features a cast of teenagers who produced the film as a unique project.

Students from throughout the Indianapolis area combined forces to serve as actors, extras, set dressers and gaffers during the three-week period when a crew from Gospel Films, Inc., of Muskegon, Mich., producers of the film, were in their city.

The pastor, John R. Little, invites all teenagers to attend.

Spring is so much more than just a season. It is a miracle, enacted against a backdrop of perfect days. It is the time of rebirth . . . of reaffirmation.

Spring is Christ's story, beautifully illustrated by nature. It is all the teachings of the Church, brought to reality, spread out gloriously for you to see. Nature, in her sweet, new loveliness, touches the world, touches you with the Christ-like spirit. If your vision has been dulled, she gives you the chance to see again more brightly than ever.

Palm Sunday is here again. Never before have the doors of the Church seemed to stand quite so open . . . so ready to receive you. Never has the lesson of everlasting life . . . Christ's lesson . . . been so poignant. There will be new richness in your life if you will trust in the Church. In your soul there can be eternal spring, and all the bleakness, questioning and doubt can be erased from your heart forever.

The Worry Clinic Love Always Follows, If You Obey The Rules

Nancy shows the usual poetical sentiments and idealism of the novice at love. But love, like electricity, will always result when you follow the prescribed laws with which God has surrounded this planet. So use your brain when you pick a mate, for you can produce torrid romance in a matter of weeks!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-535: Nancy T., aged 20, is a coed.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "you take such a materialistic view of love that you shock me."

"For you urge us to follow our brain more than our heart when we marry."

"And you say the usual romance is a form of love hypnosis."

"I think marriages are made in heaven and due to psychic factors!"

Despite Nancy's sentimental views, romance is a form of hypnosis.

And, as in our psychiatry office, hypnosis depends on willingness of the patient, plus refusal to heed any other voice but the doctor's.

The typical young couple demonstrate much the same situation, for they soon start going steady in high school.

And their mutual affection, smiles, gay laughter and fondness for each other, merely make them a mutual admiration society of two charter members.

When they kiss, another element is then added that exhilarates them and further blinds them to any outside "hypnotist."

In the usual psychiatrist's office, suppose the patient during the inductive stage, were admonished to go to sleep by a dozen different doctors in immediate succession!

She would obviously be confused and not go into hypnosis at all.

And that's one of the basic reasons for playing the field when you are young. It prevents the dangerous auto-hypnosis of going steady!

Old bachelors have simply played the field so long that they have developed the habit of never staying with the same girl long enough to become enmeshed in the hypnotic spell.

Furthermore, anybody who wishes can be hypnotized by any doctor!

Applied to love, any girl who is opened-minded concerning romance, can also become infatuated with any boy, even ugly monsters!

This truism was aptly portrayed in Fairy Tales by the case of "Beauty and the Beast."

In fact, I have often taken my college students who were soured on romance, due to previous jiltings, and arbitrarily introduced them to what I deemed suitable marriage prospects.

They have insisted they would never, never fall in love! And have even wagered with me to that effect.

But when they have followed the usual romantic "hypnotic procedure" of smiles, verbal compliments for each other, movie dates, dances, picnics, etc., they were madly in love before the end of the semester.

India's Railways Second Largest

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian railways is the world's second largest rail network, next to the Soviet Union, an official announcement said.

This largest government undertaking employs 1,350,000 workers and every day carries 5,800,000 passengers and 560,000 tons of freight.

The first train steamed out of Bombay in 1853. Today there are 11,700 engines, 32,000 coaches and 370,000 freight wagons along 35,040 miles of track.

Strange Things Left On Buses

MEMPHIS (AP) — People leave some of the strangest things on buses. Take the Memphis city bus system:

One driver found a purse. Inside was a loaded revolver. A messenger on the way to the bank left his weekly deposit — about $2,000. Drivers also have found false teeth, ladies' undergarments and shoes.

A lunchbox left aboard one bus lingered long in the memory of Mike Tate, president of Memphis Transit Authority's operating company.

"We put that lunchbox on the shelf, but what we didn't know was that it had limburger cheese in it. We thought a rat must have died under the floor of the lost articles room. We tore the whole floor up before we realized where the smell was."

But the most absentminded passenger of all was a mother who got off and left her 3-year-old son behind.

"She called up and said she had actually forgotten her kid," Tate said.

TRIO TOGETHER AGAIN

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Three women who grew up on neighboring blocks and attended the same college were reunited recently in the same hospital.

Mrs. Omar Tatum and Mrs. David Keller were there for the births of their first children.

Attending them both for blood tests was none other than their lifelong friend, Miss Mary Weber.

Writes Letters, Doesn't Talk

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The letter from the out-of-state firm was signed "Phillip Page" so Brainard Ray decided to put in a long distance call to the writer.

The telephone operator made an exhaustive search but could find no such listing. Finally, she located someone at the firm and asked how she could complete Ray's long distance call to Page.

"I don't know," came the reply. "No wonder you couldn't find his number listed. Phillip Page is our computer."

obtain a spade discard on dummy's long heart. When West showed out on the second round of hearts, South had to alter his plans. He shifted to the queen of diamonds and West put up the ace. The three of spades was returned and North's ten was finessed. East won the trick with the jack and cashed the queen of hearts to send declarer down to defeat. South played the hand well until the point where he finessed dummy's ten of spades. By putting up the king instead, he can place the contract beyond the reach of his opponents. As it develops, East's jack of spades drops under the king and North's ten is established as a winner—however, this development is not essential to declarer's success. Suppose that West has the jack of spades all along. After the king is played, declarer returns to his hand with a club to ruff out his remaining diamond. Now the ten of spades is played to throw West into the lead. He is known to have nothing left but spades and diamonds, and whichever suit he returns—South trumps in dummy while he discards the losing heart from his hand.

Graduate School Being Set Up At Field Museum

CHICAGO (AP) — A center for graduate studies in systematic zoology and paleontology is being set up at the Field Museum of Natural History. Dr. Robert F. Inger, a member of a seven-man advisory board to the center, said the role of the center will be to provide staff members "to help guide students doing doctoral research, to furnish lab space and specimens and to give students access to nationwide collections through museum affiliations." The museum has 10 million specimens on man and nature in its collections on natural history. The center is being operated in cooperation with the University of Chicago and Northwestern University.

Mercury Colony Park

This beautiful wagon has helped boost Mercury sales 43%+ over last year!

More and more people who accept only the best are seen driving Mercury Colony Park. It's the station wagon built by the same people who make Lincoln Continental, and since there is no Continental station wagon our designers and skilled craftsmen place all their attention into the Colony Park. Elegant styling is evident everywhere you look, from the gleaming yacht deck side paneling to the luxurious interior. The fine-car touch is in every Colony Park, from wall-to-wall carpeting to the power operated rear window.

We have several Colony Park wagons in stock: in a variety of colors, trim and equipment, some with air conditioning. Come in and look them over. Test drive one! We'll appraise your old car and give you a great deal on a Colony Park! If you prefer equipment, color or trim other than that which we have in stock, we'll order the car for you. You'll have plenty of time to accept delivery and break your new car in before you start your vacation.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Thursday. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets.

Grade A large whites: 41½ to 42½; medium, whites: 34½ to 36½; small, whites: 26 to 28.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog market was steady to 25 cents lower today. Tops 18.00-18.50 Rocky Mount; 17.75-18.50 Wilson; 17.25-18.50 Tarboro; 17.25-18.25 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albertson, Lumberton; 18.25 Salisbury, Rich Square; 18.00 Greensboro, Selma, Goldsboro; 17.50 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market early this afternoon reversed an early decline and showed more gains than losses after it weathered some precautionary selling in the wake of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassination.

Trading was fairly active, but there was no great buildup of selling pressure.

After five straight days of advance and two days in which all-time records on volume were made, the market was due for some reaction, brokers said, but the fundamental feeling was optimistic despite the shock of King's death.

Airlines renewed their rally of Thursday. Gold-mining stocks were mixed.

The New York and American Stock Exchanges paid tribute to King's memory as each stopped trading for a minute of silence at 11 a.m.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .23 at 872.75, having recovered from a loss of 3.24.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 312.2 with industrials off .9, rails up .9 and utilities off .1.

Improved prospects for Vietnam peace negotiations continued to bolster market sentiment, brokers said.

Columbia Pictures, up a fraction, paced the list on activity thanks to two blocks of 100,000 shares each.

Among active issues, Scientific Data rose 4 and Penn Central 3.

Steels also continued higher. Prices moved generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Bow Portion of Tanker Is Sunk

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — The bow of the oil tanker Ocean Eagle was sent to its grave in waters a mile deep Thursday night.

With Capt. Bernard Peters and 29 other U.S. Navy men aboard, the bow portion of the ship was towed from the harbor mouth a month and a day after it broke in two and spilled some of its Venezuelan crude oil onto some San Juan beaches.

Eight miles north of San Juan, Peters and his men opened the sea cocks and hatch covers to flood the ship.

The population of Wyoming decreased more than that of any other state between 1960 and 197-4.6 per cent.

Philadelphians Purchase Liner Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 83,673-ton Queen Elizabeth, the biggest passenger liner in the world, has been sold to a group of businessmen in Philadelphia, Pa., for $7,750,000, the Cunard Steamship Company announced today.

The contract was signed at the Savoy Hotel by Cunard Managing Director John Whitworth and representatives of the Philadelphia Marina Corp., the Delaware River Port Authority and the Central Penn National Bank.

The mighty liner launched in 1938 will be used as a hotel, restaurant, convention center and tourist attraction moored in the Delaware River near Philadelphia's International Airport.

Will Carry Out King's Project

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The marches and demonstrations that Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had planned for Memphis and Washington, D.C., will go on despite the violent death of their nonviolent leader, an aide said today.

"We hope the Memphis march will be greater now than before," said the Rev. Harold Middlebrook, a former Southern Christian Leadership Conference field director and a member of the group of ministers that has directed protests for the past eight weeks here.

Adam Powell Is 'Visibly Shaken'

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, who was hospitalized Monday at Duke Hospital left Durham today on a return flight to Bimini in the Bahamas.

Powell had no comment on the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., but observers said he appeared "visibly shaken."

Mrs. Corbitt To Assist Broughton

Mrs. William S. Corbitt, Jr., has been appointed the Chairman of the "Belles for Mel" Committee for Pitt County, Mr. D.T. House, Jr. Chairman of the Mel Broughton for Governor Committee of Pitt County announced today. This committee will be active in the support of the ladies of Pitt County for Mel Broughton for Governor of the State.

MRS. WILLIAM CORBITT

Mrs. Corbitt was the former Rose Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Smith of Greenville. She resides at 608 Oak Street, and is the mother of two teenage children. She was born and reared in Greenville, and graduated from the Greenville High School. She is a graduate of Duke University, and was a member of the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority while she was a student at Duke.

She has served in many civic activities in Greenville, having served as president of the Greenville Service League, president of The Women of Eighth Street Christian Church, and president of the Elmhurst Parent Teachers Association.

Mrs. Corbitt stated upon her assumption of her role as Chairman, "During these trying times when leadership, maturity, and wisdom are needed to steer the ship of our Great State on a steady course, I know of no person more qualified to fill this position than Mel Broughton."

"I have known Mr. Broughton for many years, and personally, I know him to be an outstanding man with vision, foresight, and level headedness. He advocates that Government of Law and Order is essential in order to maintain progress and stability in our society."

"I plan to do all within my power to see that he is the next governor of our state by urging all our good citizens to register as soon as possible, and to vote for Mr. Broughton. In this endeavor, I am sure that the ladies of Pitt County can play a major role."
