Three Trees Now Growing At Five Points

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

Motorists and pedestrians shouldn't be surprised when they spot three trees growing from the asphalt and concrete that is Greenville's Five Points.

The trees, about the only greenery at the central business intersection, were planned for in a general revamping of the traffic pattern.

The trees were planted last night in three improvised planters constructed in a concrete traffic island.

City Manager Harry Hagerty said the planters are the "bell ends" of concrete drainage pipe. They were turned upright and asphalt was cut out from beneath to give the trees room to grow.

Right now the young trees are not much to look at but Hagerty said he understands that they will develop to be quite beautiful.

Planting the trees is a part of various changes being made at Five Points. New traffic signals have been installed including "walk" and "wait" signs for pedestrians.

The island where the trees grow was put there to channel traffic coming from the west on Dickinson Avenue. Vehicles in the right lane must head south on Evans, while those in the left lane head north on Evans.

Hagerty said signs have been installed at Dickinson and Washington to direct traffic headed for E. Fifth and the university north on Washington for a right turn at Washington and Fifth.

A new coat of asphalt was also installed at Five Points to eliminate old markings and smooth out the intersection.

Hagerty said another change at Five Points now allows traffic headed west on Fifth to turn left onto S. Evans.

"We think it all looks pretty good and we find that traffic is flowing very nicely," the city manager stated.

The Five Points improvements tie in with a major improvement program on Dickinson Avenue. Overhead utilities lines are being placed underground from Five Points to the Seaboard Coast-line Railroad.

Aluminum poles are being set for the street light system and steel supports are being placed at intersections to suspend the traffic lights.

Hagerty noted that the Highway Commission has reworked the traffic pattern and control signal system at West End Circle. New traffic lights have also been installed at Watauga and at Dickinson and Boyd. Curbs have been cut back at Dickinson and Boyd.

The city also has plans for improvements at the intersection of Tenth and Dickinson. Traffic will be channeled there with islands, and considerable grassed area will be added. A new traffic light system will also be installed.

East Fourth Now Two-Way Street

E. Fourth Street from Co-tanche to Reade has been made two-way, City Manager Harry Hagerty said this morning.

Plans are being made to widen the block to handle the increased traffic flow.

However, Hagerty said, the change to two-way was needed right away because of street construction on Third Street. With that street blocked at the Reade intersection, there was no way for traffic coming west on Fourth to go at Reade. Fourth West at that point was marked "Do Not Enter" and Reade south was one-way.

Australians Also Hunting Assassin

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australian police are making a nationwide search for James Earl Ray, wanted in the United States on a charge of killing Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Police officials said the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation cabled that it had information indicating Ray, also known as Eric Starvo Galt, might have fled to Australia.

Upset Write-In Vote For New Yorker

Rockefeller, McCarthy Take Mass. Primaries

By PETER BREWER
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who wasn't a candidate when the upset write-in victory today gave favorite son Gov. John A. Volpe on the Republican ballot in the Massachusetts presidential primary.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, the only entrant on the Democratic ballot, captured slightly more than 50 per cent of the Democratic votes.

Volpe, alone on the Republican ballot in a bid to enhance his chances for the vice presidential nomination, trailed Rockefeller by about 1,000 votes in near-final returns. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon ran third, almost 5,000 votes behind Rockefeller.

A new state law requires that all the state's 34 Republican delegate votes go to Rockefeller on the first ballot at the Republican National Convention and that all 72 Democratic votes go to McCarthy on the first ballot at the Democratic convention.

Trailing McCarthy on the Democratic ballot were, in order, Massachusetts native son Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, and President John F. Kennedy.

McCarthy ran fourth on the Republican ballot, capturing about 10 per cent of the vote from Republicans who could not obtain a Democratic ballot but wrote in his name on their ballots. A scattering of Republicans also voted for Kennedy and Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

In all, write-in votes were cast by about 56 per cent of the more than 329,000 primary voters.

The state has 2.6 million registered voters.

With 1,722 out of 1,734 precincts counted, the returns were:

Republican: Rockefeller 30,908, Volpe 29,663, Nixon 28,021, McCarthy 9,501, Reagan 1826, Kennedy 1,400.

Democratic: McCarthy 116,416, Kennedy 64,662, Humphrey 41,934, Johnson 6,589.

The unreported precincts were in the Boston suburb of Arlington, where officials said the results were "tied up" in a computer that was used to tabulate their votes.

Communist World Observes May Day; Strain Is Showing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

May Day 1968 showed the lines of strain in the face of the Communist world: while the armies and party chiefs of the Soviet Union and its hard-line friends marched and denounced, Czechoslovakia's new liberal leadership joked and signed autographs.

In Moscow, in East Berlin, in Warsaw the order of the day was displays of military strength and speeches condemning imperialism and the United States.

With the hard-line Stalinists gone from Prague's parade, party chief Alexander Dubcek used up one pencil sign⁹ bits of paper and fought to keep his head up under a barrage of flowers.

There were no tough slogans and the atmosphere in Prague was that of country fair. But a young boy sitting on his father's shoulders carried a placard with a reminder for the new leadership. It said: "Tell me the truth now so I don't have to get it when I'm grown up."

For workers in many non-Communist countries throughout the world, there was a day away from the job. May Day is celebrated much like the American Labor Day throughout areas of Latin America, Asia and Western Europe.

From the reviewing stand at the top of Lenin's Tomb in Red Square in Moscow, Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko told Russian troops the Soviet Union supports the Vietnamese Communists "to the utmost."

Then he watched a 45-minute military parade that Western experts said showed little that was new.

There was a 100-foot long missile shaped like a pop bottle with a red cap, displayed for the first time last Nov. 7. The official commentary said "its range and nuclear charge is fantastic."

Other flat-bed trucks carried aerial defense missiles like those the Soviet Union supplies to North Vietnam, and a massive rocket apparently used to launch the Fractional Orbital Bomb (FPBS) that the United States said was tested last year by the Soviets.

Observers noted there were no attacks this year on the Red Chinese whom Grechko had accused last year of hampering aid to the Communists in Vietnam.

East Berlin had its "little Red Square" parade with goose-stepping troops and Soviet-made tanks and missiles.

Poland's Communist party leader, Wladyslaw Gomułka, shaken by an internal power struggle and demonstrations by students in March, charged Americans of Polish origin are more discriminated against in the United States than Poles of Jewish origin in Poland.

Jews have been the main targets in a continuing purge within the Polish government, universities and Communist party.

In South Vietnam, President Nguyen Van Thieu told a labor rally in Da Nang that South Vietnam will never negotiate with the Viet Cong and will not cede "even one centimeter" of land to the North Vietnamese.

In Tokyo, 24 militant students were arrested for staging an unauthorized demonstration, while some 20,000 persons attended a rally calling for the ouster of Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's government.

In Spain, the Franco regime massed its police and civil guards in Madrid and other industrial cities to stop any show of anti-government sentiment.

Candidates Reminded To Report Campaign Outlays

RALEIGH (AP) — Fifth-four candidates for political office were on notice today to get reports of their campaign spending to Secretary of State Thad Eure or face the possibility of criminal prosecution.

Eure Tuesday transmitted a list of the 54 who have failed to submit preliminary campaign expense reports to Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton. Deputy Atty. Gen. James F. Bullock indicated that letters would be written to district solicitors suggesting that they "initiate the prosecution as required by statute."

However, Bullock said he had "never known of anybody to be prosecuted" under the statute because usually the candidate "finds out we've sent a letter to the solicitor. He goes ahead and files late and nothing is ever done about it."

The 54 names included Dr. Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte, Negro candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Eure said campaign committees for Hawkins and for some other candidates on the list had filed reports but that in addition to that the candidates themselves must file.

Dr. Hawkins said in Charlotte today, "My signature has gone in with that report. It states on the form that it may be signed by the candidate or his committee."

He also said he "filed a list stating that the committee's report was accurate, and that they are handling all my finances. Thad Eure wrote me and told me I had to sign the form. I did sign it and sent it back to him."

Hawkins charged that the sending of the list to the attorney general's office "is another scheme of intimidation . . . the double standard of justice. They picked out all the major Negro candidates."

The deadline for submitting the campaign expense reports was April 24. Since then a number of candidates have filed their reports late. They were not included in Eure's list to Bruton.

Other names on Eure's list and the offices they are seeking included:

J. L. Zimmerman, Durham, Republican U.S. Senate; Raymond A. Stone Southern Pines, Democrat, superintendent of public instruction; John B. Whitely, Statesville, Democrat, insurance commissioner; Everett L. Peterson, Clinton, Republican, insurance commissioner; L. C. Nixon, New Bern, and B. B. Felder, Democrats, Congress in the 1st district; Mrs. Eva M. Clayton, Warrenton, Democrat, Congress in the 2nd; David W. Stith, Durham, Democrat, Congress in the 4th; Fed Steele, Durham, and William P. Garbarant, Raleigh, Republicans, Congress in the 4th; Smith Bagley, Winston-Salem, Republican, Congress in the 5th; and William R. Pope, Mooresville and Robert A. Collier Jr., Statesville, Superior Court judge.

Candidate Ray Stone Pleased By Reaction

Raymond Stone, candidate for the Democratic nomination as Superintendent of Public Instruction, made a flying visit to Greenville this morning.

On leave from his post as president of Sandhills Community College at Southern Pines for the duration of the campaign, Stone talked with teachers and school officials and "key people here" and said he was "very pleased . . . and highly encouraged" by the support he received.

"I am confident I have the majority of the teachers in the state behind me," the candidate said.

"Public education is my career and I have an abiding faith in it," Stone noted. The public schools are the brightest hope for the state and "for myself, I can think of no more valuable and significant work than to help lead North Carolina to a higher mark of educational excellence."

Stone said emphasis should be placed on reading in the public schools.

"One thing we must do is to recognize that a child who succeeds in school usually will stay in school. If a child learns to read well he will succeed," the educator noted.

"With such a seemingly small thing as being able to read, not only are the chances of a child's remaining in school increased, but he has taken a giant stride toward success."

He noted, too, that the state's teachers should be allowed to teach. "It just doesn't make sense financially or educationally," he said, "to use teachers as clerks, cashiers, bus loaders, (Continued On Page 24)

Heavy Fighting For Third Day; 616 Enemy Dead

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting raged today for the third straight day in the northeast corner of South Vietnam, where U.S. and South Vietnamese troops reported killing 616 of the enemy in the past two days.

Military spokesmen said 43 Americans were killed and 221 wounded in heavy fighting Tuesday. The South Vietnamese lost six killed and 17 wounded. Allied casualties in two days of fighting in this sector totaled 60 killed and 279 wounded.

Military spokesmen said units of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division and South Vietnamese infantrymen regained contact about noon with a sizable North Vietnamese force near the Marine division's headquarters at Dong Ha. U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery were pounding the enemy positions.

It appeared that the Communist command might be shifting pressure to South Vietnam's northeast corner from the northwestern section, where the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh was under siege for 77 days earlier this year.

The Marines and government troops fought day-long battles Tuesday as they swept the northeast seacoast to take pressure off allied bases just below the demilitarized zone and off their land supply line, Highway 1. The allied forces are operating within a mile of each other and about nine miles below the eastern flank of DMZ.

After large clashes Monday near Hue and Dong Ha, the allied forces fought until nearly midnight Tuesday north and east of Dong Ha, and other allied troops drove off an enemy attack near Quang Tri City, eight miles farther south.

South Vietnamese forces reported killing 100 North Vietnamese Tuesday near Dona Ha in the same battle area where allied units claimed 130 enemy dead the previous day.

In another clash near the village where the U.S. 3rd Marine Division is headquartered units of the division reported killing 92 of an estimated 400 enemy soldiers fighting from fortified bunkers.

The U.S. Command maintained its security blackout on news of Operation Delaware, in the A Shau Valley southwest of Hue, but said U.S. B52 bombers attacked North Vietnamese truck parks and gun positions today in the valley.

In Da Nang, about 50 miles south of Hue, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu told a May Day labor rally "the government is determined to take care of the people living in the northern provinces, the area of hardest fighting."

Thieu reiterated that his government never will negotiate with the Viet Cong and said it will not cede "even one centimeter" of land to North Vietnam.

Elmhurst School Requests Limited

The Greenville Board of Education yesterday approved all pupil assignment requests for students in grades seven through 12 but withheld approval of out-of-district assignments and some in-district requests from students in the first six grades.

In a special session, the board approved assignment requests of all in-district students in grades one through six, except for some students requesting Elmhurst School.

Students requesting Elmhurst elementary school living North of the Tar River; in an area in northeast Greenville near Wahl Coates School, bounded by the Tar River, Evans Street and 10th Street to the district intersection; and students living in an area in southwest Greenville southward from Dickinson Avenue and west of Hooker Road (including Hillsdale, Carolina Heights, Greenbrier, Fairlane, Sedgfield, Greenville Country Club, Bevedere and Club Pines) will be given a second choice under the free-choice plan of pupil assignment.

Assignments for all out-of-district students, including new requests and requests from elementary students who have attended Greenville city schools in the past, will be withheld "pending a review of second choices" from the students initially requesting Elmhurst school, the board voted.

Where overcrowding results from out of district requests on a school-by-school and grade-by-grade basis, out of district students will be invited to make a second choice of elementary schools which will balance school and grade enrollments.

The board also approved moving a surplus mobile classroom now at South Greenville to Elmhurst to relieve crowded classroom conditions there.

The move would reduce the class size at Elmhurst and bring it more in line with the size of classes at other elementary schools in the city system.

Two City Policemen Injured In Collision

Two Greenville policemen were injured early today when their patrol car collided with a tractor-trailer truck on Hooker Road, 135 feet South of the May Street intersection.

Investigators said the driver of the patrol car was Euel Harrison Atkinson, 24, of Route 2, Greenville. Both Atkinson and a fellow officer in the car, Herbert A. Gardner, 35, of 205 Contentnea St. were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of their injuries.

Gardner was admitted for observation while Atkinson was treated and released.

Officers said the police car collided with a truck driven by Jammie Franklin McLawhorn, 55, of Route 1, Winterville.

The truck was pulling from a warehouse on Hooker Road and the trailer of the unit was across the lane in which the police car was traveling, investigators reported.

The clearance lights on the trailer were not in operation, according to police.

McLawhorn was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and with having improper equipment.

Damage to the city-owned car was set at $2,000 while police said no damage resulted to the truck.

Neck Deep And Still Rowing

"Sighted shell, sank same."

It looked like East Carolina University's crew had been torpedoed yesterday as the oarsmen suddenly found themselves neck deep in water as still rowing.

The crew team, holding a workout in their practice shell struck a submerged log in the Tar River, ripping the entire bottom out of the fragile craft. The boat sank like a rock, leaving the rowers sitting deep in the water and the cox'un with his eyes and megaphone showing.

The Bucs were working out in preparation for this weekend's Wilmington Regatta. Damages were estimated at between $600 and $700.

Mrs. Jolly Speaks At Meet Of Home Economics Committee

Mrs. W. O. Jolly presented the program at the meeting of the Area Home Economics Committee of the Coastal Plains Development Association held here yesterday.

Mrs. Jolly is Pitt County schools lunchrooms supervisor. She showed a film on "Starvation Without Hunger," which was made by the California Schools Food Service.

Mrs. Judy Sykes, Egg Marketing Division, North Carolina Department of Agriculture, worked with Mrs. Otis Stokes and the local home economics staff, in planning the program with emphasis on foods and nutrition.

Mrs. Stokes is Pitt County's representative on the foods and nutrition sub-committee.

Mrs. Mavis Johnson, Pitt County associate home economics agent, introduced the program.

Mrs. Howard Andrews of Rocky Mount, chairman of the Area Home Economics Committee, presided at the meeting and gave the welcome.

Special guests present for the event were Mrs. Lois Brown and Mrs. Betsy Meldau, district home economics agents, Dr. W. G. Andrews, district extension chairman, and John Sledge of Oak City, president of the Coastal Plains Development Association.

Prior to the business session, Marvin Blount Jr. of Greenville discussed the importance of pond safety.

Mrs. Meldau announced that the first annual Consumer Council meeting would be held May 28 in Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh.

The following committee reports were given: housing, Mrs. R. D. Richards, Wilson County; Mrs. William Daw, Beaufort County, clothing; Mrs. Stokes, Pitt County, foods; and Mrs. Julian Mizell, Martin County, publicity.

The reports included information on housing activities and projects which are being conducted in each of the counties.

The next meeting of the Home Economics Committee will be held Sept. 30 in Martin County.

Mrs. E. C. Davenport of Pitt County gave the devotional.

The Area Home Economics Committee includes six counties: Wilson; Edgecombe; Nash; Martin; Beaufort; and Pitt. The meeting was held at the Agriculture Extension building. Registration began at 10:30 a. m. and brunch was served at 11 o'clock.

Organize Your Own Diet Club: Teenage Slimmies

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Everybody is figure-conscious at this time of year. Why not, with skirts at thigh length? Size 3 is worried that she doesn't have a curve here or there and Size 13 is trying for Size 7.

Losing weight is lots easier if you have company.

Why not organize your own Teen-age Slimmies and see how much fun losing weight can become!

Choose the sensible diet. Everybody must promise to eat less of the normal nutritious diet served at home. Honesty pays off on this one.

Nutritionists all agree young people eat too many sweets and starches so those are to be avoided. And the Slimmies must exercise. Choose three days when you can meet after school to engage in indoor or outdoor exercise. Bicycling, swimming, bowling can be wonderful for the figure, and if you do all three, you will exercise all the tired old winter muscles. If there is a rainy spell, bowling and swimming may be done indoors. Here's the way to organize your Slimmie program:

1. The group should try to meet right after school. That way you'll all be together and there will be no temptation to have a quick snack when you go past the refrigerator at home.

2. When you get to the bowling alley don't just stand there waiting for your turn. Do some exercises with your bowling ball while you wait. Lift the ball overhead or assume positions of getting it off to a start. These are all excellent postures for reducing various parts of the body.

3. As you go along in bowling—smoothly pushing the ball down the alley, keep in mind that when you bend your knees, straddle your legs, turn your torso, you are performing good exercises for abdominal muscles and waistline.

4. After you finish bowling or swimming, everyone will no doubt be famished. Be prepared with low-calorie soft drinks and snacks. Munching on carrots and celery or drinking some hot soup often helps one withstand hunger pangs.

5. Each girl should be weighed and measured before you begin your slimming program. Figures should be compared once a week. Once you make a game of this, there will be less concentration on how hungry you are. Remember, your sacrifice is going to pay off in lost inches.

Dinner-Dance Set For German Clubs

The Junior and Senior German Clubs will have their annual joint dinner-dance Friday beginning at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The event will be a mask ball. Reservations should be made by Wednesday, May 1, at 6 p.m. by contacting Mrs. Warren Aldridge, Mrs. Connor Merritt or Mrs. W. H. Collier III.

Gourmet Bachelors Use Can Openers

NEW YORK (AP) — If canned soups and peanut butter weren't around, many a wary bachelor would be more willing Leap Year material.

Although men's magazines feature gourmet recipes and give the impression that single men-about-town are marvelous cooks, the truth is that many top eligibles, if they can cook at all, only bother when there are dinner guests.

An informal survey of some sophisticated single men reveals that when there's no one to feed but themselves, the canned food cupboard and frozen dinners are quick and easy answers to hunger pangs.

The foods they store for nights when they are not dining out are surprisingly unexotic. Canned hearty soups, chunky peanut butter, instant mashed potatoes with canned gravy, and good wine are staples with all of them. Each bachelor, however, has his own easy-to-throw-together dinner.

Morton Hunt, the tall, genial author of "The World of the Formerly Married," likes soup, a couple of slices of rye bread, sliced tomatoes with bottled dressing, and a marble parfait made of canned vanilla and chocolate pudding swirled together.

"I might really cook some thing more elaborate," he says, "except I detest washing pots. A giant hamburger is about as much real cooking as I'll do just for myself."

Composer John Kander, who wrote the score of "Cabaret," and next season's musical "Zorba," stores lots of caviar and a whole case of vegetable juice in addition to staples, and canned cat food for the neighbor's wandering feline. But his addiction is peanut butter Dagwoods, built up of plenty of peanut butter, raspberry preserves, mayonnaise, onion, cucumber, leftover steak, bits of chicken. "After that, the kind of bread doesn't matter," he grins. "It's very good. The sort of sandwich you remember all night."

Living on board a boat where the electrical systems might go out and let refrigerated food spoil is a special reason Bob Mackall stocks canned foods which are easily chilled in the ocean. The suave president of a public relations firm lives aboard his 85-foot yacht "Firebird" most of the year and likes baked beans and hot dogs when he's facing the galley himself. Even as someone's dinner guest Mackall's taste runs to simple, hearty food.

"The fancy dishes you can always get in a good restaurant. But try and find yellow cornmeal pancakes with a slice of baked ham anywhere," says Mackall.

The legitimate theater forces actors like Larry Blyden currently starring in "You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running" to eat on the double or after midnight. According to Blyden, "You don't have to knock yourself out to eat decently."

Blyden likes omelettes with toast and coffee, and in his dressing room spoons chocolate pudding straight out of a can. A widower with two young children, he also stocks plenty of sodas, cookies, "and all those doo-dad breakfast cereals kids can't live without."

Miss Evelyn Brewer Weds Sunday Afternoon

MRS. WILLIAM H. BLIZZARD

Miss Mary Evelyn Brewer became the bride of William H. Blizzard Sunday at 4:00 p. m. at a ceremony held at the home of the bride.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Linwood E. Brewer of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Blizzard of Rt. 3, Wrightsville, Ga.

The Rev. Charles D. Edwards of Greenville officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The house was decorated with palms, candelabra holding lighted tapers and an arrangement of white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de sole designed with three-quarter sleeves and rounded neckline. The waistline was accented with alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls.

Her elbow length veil of silk illusion was attached to a lace headpiece. She carried a prayer book centered with an orchid, tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. Linda Benton of Greenville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a street length dress of pink linen with a matching headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red roses and pink carnations.

Millard Blizzard of Greensboro, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Lewis and Woody Brewer, brothers of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brewer wore a blue sheath dress with a matching coat, trimmed with lace. Mrs. Mollie Broadhurst of Greenville, grandmother of the bride, wore a medium blue print dress with a matching coat. Both wore corsages of white orchids.

A reception was held following the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to western North Carolina, the bride changed into a navy and white dress with navy accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her prayer book.

The couple will reside in Greenville. The bride was employed at Jefferson's Florist prior to her marriage. The bridegroom is employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., Greenville.

The Limits Of Self-Respect Will Provide Your Answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl who has just started to date. I am going to ask you a question I have asked many others but I have never been able to get anyone to give me a straight answer.

When a girl really likes a fellow and they are alone together, naturally they are going to make out some, but how far should a girl go?

WANTS TO KNOW

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

AP Food Editor
AFTERNOON TEA
These tarts are pretty to look at and so good!

Jelly Tarts
½ cup (¼-pound stick) butter, at room temperature
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature
½ teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups sifted regular flour
½ cup (about) red currant jelly
1½ teaspoons sugar mixed with ½ teaspoon cinnamon

In a medium mixing bowl cream together the butter, cream cheese and vanilla. Gradually stir in the flour, working it in to form a smooth dough. Cover and chill. Divide into two equal portions.

On a prepared pastry cloth with a prepared stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out one portion to a thin 12-inch round. Meanwhile, keep other portion of dough refrigerated. Using a 2½-inch doughnut cutter with center removed, cut out rounds. Roll out remaining portion of dough the same way, but this time use the doughnut cutter with the center in to make 12 doughnut-shape rounds. Place these on top of the jelly-spread rounds, adding the leftover jelly to the centers. Sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon mixture, but not over jelly centers. Bake in a 400-degree oven until lightly browned—15 to 20 minutes. Cinnamon tops will look very brown. Makes two dozen.

You can wash white tennis shoes in the washing machine. After washing, apply white shoe polish diluted first with one-half water. When the shoes are dry, all the stains will be covered.

DEAR WANTS: The limits of self-respect will provide the answer. A boy who has genuine affection for a girl will never do anything that will degrade her, or make her feel ashamed.

Courtship is preparation for marriage; ask any boy how far he would like the girl he marries to go on a date. And if he's honest, you'll have an honest answer.

DEAR ABBY: I know you will find this hard to believe, but every word of it is true:

There is an elderly gentleman (in his eighties) living in a small single room in a local hotel. This man has married children and grandchildren in town who hardly look at him.

He can't dress himself, or bathe very well, and his eyesight is failing, so the maids help him. (The maids take better care of him than his own family.)

Several months ago, a maid found him on the bathroom floor. He had fallen the night before and couldn't get up, so he just laid there, cold and shivering all night.

He eats only once a day on a tray sent to his room, and that's usually oatmeal and coffee. On Sundays the kitchen is closed, so he doesn't eat from Saturday until Monday morning.

How can people be so heartless? Today is Sunday, and believe me, Abby, my appetite is gone just thinking about that poor, old, neglected man.

"A FRIEND"

DEAR FRIEND: If you really want to help, why don't YOU look in on the old gentleman? (You don't have to be a relative to extend a kindness.) Writing to me without a clue of who YOU are, who HE is, or even the city in which he lives, is futile. And your loss of appetite won't help him much, either.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from someone who said if an adopted child turns out bad, it could be because of "bad blood." Well my blood ("bad" or otherwise) boiled.

I was adopted when I was an infant. I don't know exactly how old I was when I learned about it but it was early enough for me to say, "Yes, I know," when a cousin whisper-

Salazar-Best Vows Spoken On Sunday

Miss Jenny Lynn Best became the bride of Henry Salazar Jr. Sunday in a ceremony performed by Father Spillane at Saint Peter's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Best of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are SGM and Mrs. Henry Salazar of Fayetteville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Gregory Belle, organist, and Miss Georgia Miesko sang "Ava Maria." The bride was escorted to the altar by her uncle, Cecil S. Everett, of Wilmington.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Ann Howard, Miss Cynthia Ann Jordan of Greenville and Miss Ann Apas of Winston-Salem.

Ushers were Billy Parker, Michelle R. Owsnevy of Charlotte and O. E. Dowd Jr., brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home.

The bridal party and out-of-town guests were entertained Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dowd Jr. at an after-rehearsal party.

WINTERVILLE — Members of the Sans Souci Book Club of Winterville toured Warrenton last week.

Mrs. Lyles Russell, tour leader, made arrangements with Mrs. R. D. Butler, president of the Warrenton Woman's Club.

Mrs. Butler entertained members of the club at a coffee hour at her home, where they were welcomed by the mayor.

Mrs. Butler accompanied the group on their tour.

Foul Weather-Friend Is Her Umbrella

INNSBRUCK, Austria (WNS) —Eva Rebner, 19, who was voted the Most Dated Co-ed of the year, said that she seldom has trouble meeting college men. "I always carry an umbrella just big enough for two," she explained. "When it rains, I invite the first nice man to share it with me. Generally he returns the invitation by suggesting dinner or a drink. If he does not, I am happy to get rid of him."

Record Of Service In Many Fields

Every Democratic voter Saturday should pay close attention to the portion of their ballot which includes the candidates for attorney general.

There they will find two names and one of them will be Robert Morgan of Harnett County.

Sen. Morgan has packed a tremendous amount of public service into his young adult years.

He attended Lillington High School and then came to what is now East Carolina University. He went on to Wake Forest University School of Law where he received his law degree. But even before completing his degree he was elected clerk of Superior Court in Harnett County.

Since then he has established his law practice in Lillington and he has been almost constantly in public service. He was elected to the General Assembly in 1955, 1959, 1963, 1965 and 1967 sessions. In 1965 he was elected by his colleagues in the Senate as president Pro Tem.

During his Legislative career Morgan has been a leader in such areas as mental health facilities and programs, jail reforms, education and legislative research programs.

He has never forgotten the start that East Carolina University gave him and he led the fight in the last session of the General Assembly which was finally successful in bringing university status to the Greenville institution.

Morgan is chairman of the ECU board of trustees and was president of the university's alumni association from 1957 through 1959.

Now he is again offering the experience he has gained through years of service in the Legislature and as an attorney in private practice to the citizens of North Carolina. He is seeking the office of attorney general.

We could easily make a case for Democratic voters in the east — and particularly those in Pitt County — for supporting Sen. Morgan because of his great and successful efforts on behalf of East Carolina University.

That, however, is a well known story. We prefer to point out that Sen. Morgan has a fine record of service in all fields. He has been a leader in building higher education, mental health, jail reforms and other programs over the past years.

Because of his outstanding record in all fields and because he is so thoroughly qualified for the position of attorney general, we urge Pitt County voters to join all North Carolinians in giving overwhelming support to Robert Morgan for attorney general.

Could Attract Large Turn-Out

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — Climaxing a rather short, unexciting Spring political season, Saturday's primary elections nevertheless may attract a record number of voters to the polls.

The total in the statewide Democratic party primary may fall a bit short of that of 1964 when 759,000 voted in the governor's race in the first primary and 774,000 turned out for the runoff in June.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

But this Saturday also will bring out registered Republicans participating in the GOP's first full-scale statewide primary in North Carolina and this could swell the total close to or beyond the million vote mark.

In a token GOP gubernatorial primary four years ago, barely 65,000 Republicans voted. Observers now believe more than two or three times this many—from 150,000 to 200,000—will cast ballots Saturday either for John L. (Jack) Stickley or Rep. Jim Gardner.

Registration Figures
There is little other than registration figures upon which to base an accurate prediction of the total Republican turnout. And latest available registration figures are incomplete—dating back to early 1967.

These showed 356,869 registered Republicans in 98 of the state's 100 counties.

GOP registration has increased to some extent, but exact figures are not available. A rough guess would be that it has grown to 375,000. It may be that more than 50 per cent of these registered voters will go to the polls—certainly Republican party leaders and the GOP candidates themselves hope so.

There is no way to gauge this in advance, except by comparison.

Democrats Outnumber GOP
Democratic party registration far outnumbers Republican in the state but Democratic party turnout in past primary elections has been only about 50 per cent.

There were, in February, 1967, 1,526,075 registered Democratic voters in the state out of a total of 1,935,638. The 774,000 votes cast in the second primary in 1964 was a record insofar as a party primary is concerned.

May Be Exceeded

Some observers feel the Democrats may exceed 774,000 this Saturday — or come to it, not because of the big statewide races for governor, lieutenant governor and U. S. Senate — but because of keen competition and hard newly created district judgments. Seventy three district judgments are at stake this year and there are 121 candidates seeking these four year posts. Some of the larger districts, such as Wake County, have more than 20 candidates running for five places on the bench.

Many Candidates

The ballots which will be handed voters Saturday will be long ones with the names of a record number of candidates trying for various offices. This in itself causes further complication and perplexity. It also adds to the present uncertainty.

Sheer Weight

The sheer weight of numbers of candidates on the ballot May 4 is an added perplexity and puzzle for many of the voters. There are, on separate ballots, names of candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, State Auditor, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Attorney General, Commissioner of Agriculture, Commissioner of Labor, Commissioner of Insurance, U. S. Senator, justices of the State Supreme Court, Judges of the N. C. Court of Appeals and Superior Courts, District Court judges, a district solicitor, for Congress in several districts, and for 170 seats in the state legislature.

Anyone who has not studied and analyzed the lengthy list and made prior choices may find himself baffled in the voting booth.

He may be slow in making his choices there, and election officials are afraid that this slowness along with an expected heavy turnout of voters may cause problems — of allowing everyone to vote within the prescribed hours.

Black Political Power Growing

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) —The concentration of Negroes in large Northern cities is beginning to produce its own kind of Black Power—black political power.

This year Negroes won control of city governments in Cleveland, Ohio, and Gary, Ind. In November they're expected to gain at least three more seats in the U. S. House of Representatives.

That would increase the number of Negro congressmen to nine, the highest yet; higher even than the seven who served at the peak of Negro participation in Reconstruction—era government.

For years congressional district lines in most big cities were drawn to divide the black community among several predominantly white districts. But the steady flocking of Negroes to urban areas has made such draftsmanship increasingly difficult.

The three new districts expected to elect Negroes this fall are in New York City, Cleveland and St. Louis.

Rather than run in the new districts two of the white incumbents have moved over to tackle incumbents in adjoining districts and the third one has announced his retirement.

Although having 9 members in a 435-member House would leave Negroes far short of their proportionate weight of about 11 per cent of the total population, their strength in Congress has increased steadily, if slowly, since World War II.

Until 1945 only Chicago had elected a Negro congressman in the 20th century, its South Side Negro community having had its own representatives since 1930.

In 1945 Adam Clayton Powell of New York made his flamboyant entrance on the national scene; in 1954 Detroit elected its first Negro member; in 1958, Philadelphia; in 1962, Los Angeles; and in 1964 Detroit became the first city with two Negro representatives.

In 1966 the first Negro senator since Reconstruction was elected, Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Some Negro leaders expect to pick up more than three seats in November, with Los Angeles and Chicago offering the best prospects. If it doesn't happen this year, it seems certain the number will grow after the 1970 census requires another round of redistricting.

The population increase among Negroes since 1950 has been almost all in central cities of metropolitan areas. Negroes are 26 per cent of the population in cities or metropolitan areas with more than 1 million population. And the larger the city the faster the Negro population is growing.

The 1970 census will probably show Negroes making up more than half the population of Newark, N. J., and just under half of Baltimore's, making the election of Negro congressmen from those cities likely.

We wonder sometimes how long it takes people to catch on to the obvious. For centuries records were kept on rolls which were awkward to handle and required the use of two hands. Usually they had to be rode with the reader standing up. Then some centuries ago someone conceived the idea of cutting these rolls in pages and making out of them what was called a codex, or book.

And why with electricity manifesting itself all about us did no one think to use it for illumination until Edison turned up? Henry Ford was considered plain crazy when he declared that he would build an automobile and keep his price down so that the men who worked on that machine could buy it.

Raise wages and reduce the cost of the product, was his battle cry. Crazy? He gave us a new economy. When Ford offered five dollars a day to workmen they came in such droves that the fire department had to be called out to turn the hose over the unruly mob and keep them from breaking down the factory doors.

The Complete Circle

WASHINGTON — It was bound to happen. The students of Goodcheer University, after having attained all their goals, had nothing more to demonstrate about. They called a mass meeting on the quad in front of the administration building.

"Students," yelled Hardin Helrazor, "we have run out of demands. The administration has given in to our every wish, and if we don't come up with something soon, we may have to go back to classes."

Loud booing.

"Why can't we demand that boys and girls live in the same rooms?" a student shouted.

"They can, stupid," another student shouted. "We got that privilege when we locked up the football coach for three days in the shower room."

"Why don't we demand that no teacher can be hired without first going through a year of hazing at one of the fraternities?" another student said.

"Idiot, that was put through after we burned down the science building," Helrazor said.

"Oh, I thought we burned down the science building because they wouldn't give us a coffee break during tests."

"No, we got the coffee break after we kidnapped the dean of men."

"Come on, students, don't just stand there with your tongues sticking out," Helrazor said. "There must be something we want that they haven't given us."

"What about parking space?" a coed cried. "We don't have enough parking space."

"We got them to tear down the medical school to give us more parking space," Helrazor said. "It would be hard to go back to them again with that one."

"Free love in the library," someone shouted.

"We're allowed to have free love in the library now."

"Yeh, but you have to show your student union card. If it's free, it should be free for nonstudents as well as students."

"Let's kidnap the dean of the law school, and let them come up with some ideas," a bearded youth yelled.

"Yeh," his companion shouted. "Why should we have to think up our demand all the time? The school has a responsibility to make some up for us."

Loud cheering.

Helrazor said, "That's playing the administration's game. They'd love to think up student demands they could give in to. But what kind of demonstration is that? I say this time we have to go for broke. They've got to believe we mean business. Otherwise, they'll have us back in those classes studying all that garbage. Is that what we came to college for?"

Chorus: "No!"

Percy On The Fence

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON —During a recent staff meeting in his Capitol Hill office, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois issued a blunt order to his youthful aides: if any of you are interested in pushing me for Vice President, you can leave right now.

This was not merely fulfilling the political ritual that nobody runs for Vice President. Rather, it reflected both a deeply important decision reached by Percy and the frustration felt by him and other moderates in the Republican party.

Although he has said nothing publicly, Percy is profoundly distressed by the position on Vietnam taken by Richard M. Nixon and seriously questions whether he could serve as Nixon's running mate. Moreover, he has made his personal decision to back Gov. Nelson Rockefeller against Nixon.

Indeed, Percy is ready to take the adverse political consequences back home in Illinois and publicly endorse Rockefeller—if Rockefeller will make an open and spirited bid for the nomination. But neither Percy nor anybody else is positive that the Governor will stir himself.

Thus, the position of Percy and other Republican moderates today is a study in frustration. Despite deep misgivings over Nixon, the only practical alternative — Rockefeller — so far has shown them no leadership.

The dilemma has a particular touch of poignancy in Percy's case. Over the past five years, his personal relationships have been far warmer with Nixon than with Rockefeller (who has never forgiven Percy's failure to support him for President in 1964). Political conversations between Percy and Rockefeller were resumed only in recent weeks and at Percy's, not Rockefeller's initiation.

Furthermore, Percy could sweeten his sour relations with the dominant Bourbon wing of the Illinois Republican party by backing Nixon for President. The Chicago Tribune, organ of Illinois hinted broadly it would happily forget its old quarrels with Percy and back him for Vice President if only he would support Nixon. Such an accommodation is devoutly desired by Percy's cautious political advisors, who earlier this year dissuaded him from entering against Nixon in the Oregon primary.

But Percy, often criticized for not swimming upstream against the political current, is prepared to do just that this time. He is prepared to give Rockefeller a badly needed plug at the cost of enraging pro-Nixon Bourbons in Illinois and capping his now floundering favorite son status.

The reason why reflects Nixon's failure to say the things necessary to win over the moderates after Rockefeller's March 21 statement of non-candidacy appeared to leave Nixon alone in the field. Like many moderates, Percy is concerned over Nixon's positioning himself to the right of President Johnson on Vietnam, as emphasized by Nixon's recent statement opposing any coalition government in Saigon.

Nor is it practical to talk about unveiling a new moderate Republican hopeful at (Continued On Page 5)

By ELMER ROESSNER
A House-Senate conference committee met Tuesday to try to reach a budget-cutting and tax-boosting compromise. It may wrangle for several days or longer.

If all sides are intransigent, the only compromise possible may be some moderate trims of the budget and some mild increases in taxes.

What will happen then? First, you lucky fellow you won't have to pay much more in federal taxes.

There your luck runs out. Because, second, inflation will worsen. You'll pay higher prices for everything from gooseberry wine to appendicitis operations.

Up In Our Wonderful Balloon

Third, there will be the biggest wave of demands for higher pay, punctuated with strikes, in a generation.

Fourth, the Federal Reserve Board, attempting to check inflation because Congress didn't, will increase interest rates. This will slow down home building, other construction and business expansion.

ELMER ROESSNER

Fifth, higher interest rates will make money more expensive to borrow and will shove up costs of installment and other credit purchases. Sixth, slowing down of business will increase unemployment.

Seventh, because of higher prices and higher costs of raising money at higher interest rates, state and local taxes will zoom.

Eighth, because of higher wages and higher production costs, the United States will lose foreign markets and the gold drain will worsen.

(More about that tomorrow, Savings Will Shrink.

Ninth, the onrush of inflation will again clip savings, pensions, insurance, annuities and other fixed incomes.

There will, of course, be other consequences. Certain stock prices may shoot up as people scramble to hedge against further inflation; realty prices may be bid up for the same reason. Some people may make fortunes and swindlers make killings as the unknowing try to hedge by buying works of art.

So you can't win. You'll either pay higher federal taxes, or higher prices for everything.

We've been dancing for a long time, spending money we haven't got for wars and welfare, and the time has come to pay the piper.

How Charitable Donations Increase Others' Taxes

Postscript to a recent column: The American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel, in its annual publication, "Giving, USA," estimates that nearly $14.6 billion was given to charitable and philanthropic causes last year.

While the association didn't say so, most of those billions were tax-deductible, or contributed by tax-exempt foundations. Since the non-foundations givers were largely in the higher tax brackets, the loss in taxes may have exceeded $5 billion, which had to be made up by other taxpayers.

Time Running Out On N.C. Handshaking Tours

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Time is running out for person-to-person campaigning and handshaking tours of towns and cities by the five candidates for North Carolina's gubernatorial nominations.

The chore of arranging to get voters to the polls Saturday if they need transportation is now more important.

And, in this crucial area, organization and money could be decisive factors.

All the advertising in the news media, through the mails and personal telephone calls will be of no avail if a candidate's supporters are unable to get to the polls and mark their ballots Saturday.

Realizing this, Dr. Reginald Hawkins, the Negro candidate in the three-way race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, has set aside Friday to help his supporters round up transportation for voters.

Hawkins has conducted a campaign with a budget lower than some candidates for state legislative offices. His success or failure Saturday may ride on how large a Negro vote there is.

Both of his opponents, Lt. Gov. Bob Scott and Mel Broughton, have had the apparent financing and organizational strength usually needed for a statewide campaign.

Still, they also will need to "get out the vote" Saturday.

One thing the polls of all the candidates agreed upon was the fact there is a sizeable "undecided vote."

Republicans Jim Gardner and Jack Stickley are faced with the same problem.

Stickley has said:

"There is in politics something called peaking. Our aim was and is to peak on the eve of the primary. There is a joke going around about another candidate having peaked on the day of his announcement."

"We feel we now command the majority of the Republican registration. However, with so large a number undecided, or not really committed to either candidate, the key will be organization."

Both Stickley and Gardner have strong organizations. Stickley is backed by the "old guard" of the state Republican party but Gardner has almost solid support in the eastern part of the state and the image of a new GOP breed capable of defeating a veteran Democrat.

It was Gardner who retired Democratic veteran Rep. Harold Cooley from Congress two years ago in the 4th District.

During a visit to Wilmington Tuesday, Stickley aides admitted he is "running scared" against Gardner in the East, but they predict he will "hold his own" there and win the GOP nomination.

Gardner hasn't lost his confidence by any stretch of the imagination, but said in Pinehurst Tuesday that he would be "the first person standing in line behind him" if Stickley wins the GOP nomination.

Later in the day, during a visit to Albemarle, Gardner proposed that private industry be granted an immediate tax credit for funds spent to control water pollution.

While in Canton, Broughton said he would be "happy" to debate the issues with Scott in the event of a primary runoff between them.

Scott, meanwhile, returned to the "law and order" issue at a campaign rally in Wilmington and said he would not tolerate willful violations of laws

"whether by individuals or by groups, organized or unorganized, black or white, rich or poor."

Sputnik Study For Schoolboys

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)—Nine teenagers and their physics teacher, hard at work on the crossword puzzle of Soviet space flights, have scored a remarkable number of firsts.

Supervised by Geoffrey Perry, their 39-year-old physics teacher, the boys at Kettering Grammar School are spending most of their spare time monitoring Russian space flights as an adjunct to their physics classes. Kettering is a town of 25,000, in Northamptonshire 65 miles northwest of London.

At Christmastime 1966 they announced that their observations showed the Soviets were using a new secret launching site near Archangel, in arctic Russia, instead of their usual sites in Asian Kazakhstan.

The observations were made with a "junk" radio receiver which was obsolete 20 years ago. The discovery was confirmed later by such eminent observatories as Jodrell Bank in Britain and Bochum in West Germany.

Last Oct. 29—the boys announced that the Russian space capsule Cosmos 186 had suddenly ceased transmitting after only 34 orbits and two days in the air. Again Bochum confirmed their finding.

Sunday it was a dead heat between Bochum and the boys. They announced simultaneously the Russians had recovered Cosmos 216 after eight days in orbit.

Sunday's observations were made with a new radio receiver presented to the class last November by the manufacturer and a London newspaper. They were made with the old makeshift directional aerials, however.

The new set cost $1,884, the old one $70. The class had used the old one since 1960.

The nine boys, 16 to 18 years old, are chosen from the school's last three grades on the basis of their reliability and enthusiasm. They spell each other at the receiver in the physics lab over the weekends, during their lunch period and before and after school.

Perry said the boys don't often track American space flights because "there is no mystery about them. The boys prefer the crossword puzzle of Soviet space flights."

The Russians never give out advance information on flights and only small amounts once they have gone into orbit.

Two Chains Cut Prices On Milk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Several large grocery-store chains in North Carolina have adopted a "wait and see" attitude before deciding whether to match milk price cuts by two large supermarket chains, hoping a milk price war will not develop.

Big Bear and Colonial Stores lowered prices on buttermilk, sweetmilk, chocolate milk and skim milk early Monday. The decrease on sweetmilk amounted to two cents per quart, down from 30 cents to 28 cents.

A dairyman attributed the price cuts to a recent decision by the North Carolina Milk Commission to suspend its requirement that dairy distributors file their wholesale and retail prices with the agency.

The suspension was effective April 21, and since that time, Tar Heel grocery firms have obtained increased discounts on their wholesale milk purchases from many, if not all, of the state's dairy processing firms.

Prior to the suspension, minimum wholesale price was 51.15 cents per half gallon. The present minimum wholesale price is 46.75 cents per half gallon.

Several milk industry and grocery chain spokesmen said Tuesday they fear a milk price war might evolve from the price reduction.

"This is what happens without the policing of the Milk Commission," said W. D. Green, regional manager of Biltmore Dairies. "I don't know what's going to happen."

R. C. Ridgion, vice president of Winn-Dixie Raleigh Inc., had these comments:

"We're prepared to wait and see what happens—a firm of our size could spiral a milk price war."

"We don't want to pour gasoline on what I consider a dangerous situation. This could easily reverberate back on the dairy farmer."

As of Tuesday, officials of A&P, Kroger, Winn-Dixie and Bi-Rite had not lowered their retail milk prices.

Guilford, Biltmore, and Borden dairies had not lowered home delivery rates Tuesday, although a spokesman said this might be done if the differential between home delivery and store prices became too great.

Consumer Demand Is Spurring Corporations

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Spurred by renewed consumer demand, riding the crest of an inflationary boom, free of big strikes and, for the moment, free of the restraints of higher taxes, America's corporations are reporting huge profits.

Hundreds of companies are reporting earnings considerably higher than last year's rather depressed figures, and some of the nation's very largest firms report first-quarter earnings exceeding any other year in history.

The records are being achieved despite higher costs for raw materials and labor, and despite some of the highest borrowing costs of this century.

The question now being asked by corporate finance officers and stockholders is: "Can we keep it up?" In some cases the answer seems to be no. Tighter money, labor problems and higher taxes are expected to accompany a slowdown later this year.

In the meantime, the announcements are amazingly repetitious. Mimeographed press releases are filled with phrases such as higher than last year, highest first quarter, highest for any quarter in the company's history.

The profits are the result not just of higher sales but also because of a return to higher profit margins. In 1966, for example, the percentage of profits to sales was more than 5.5 per cent. It dropped to less than 5 last year but now seems likely to average well over 5 per cent again.

The big automotive companies, hurt a year ago because of safety problems and consumer inertia, are among the chief contributors to the suddenly bright corporate profit picture.

General Motors reported a 17 per cent jump in January-February-March profits to $456.7 million. Chrysler's net income rose 280 per cent to $69.3 million. And Ford scored an 85 per cent advance to a record first-quarter profit of $120.6 million.

Steels, consumer products, textiles, office equipment, oils, food stores and the so-called conglomerates, which make and sell a spectrum of products, were among the big gainers.

Boeing, one of the largest aerospace companies, reported three-month profits of $22.8 million, second highest in its history, although some other aircraft companies saw profits drop. The paper industry, reported earnings declines, as did the railroads.

Profit increases by Bethlehem and Republic Steel exceeded 30 per cent, and Inland Steel's increase was a whopping 85 per cent. Among food companies, Safeway Stores had a 50 per cent gain and Winn-Dixie nearly 12 per cent.

International Business Machines, whose shareholders this week voted approval of a 100 per cent stock dividend, had good reason to feel confident in doing so. The huge computer maker continued to build record upon record, boosting first-quarter net income to $187.4 million from $137.1 million a year ago.

Speaking about industry in general, Business Week magazine commented:

"In fact, when all the figures are tallied up, the gain over year ago could be close to 15 per cent—meaning roughly a $90-billion annual rate before taxes and a $53-billion rate after taxes."

One troubling aspect of the profits surge is that it is partially a product of inflationary demands for goods and may be difficult to sustain.

this late hour. In recent conversations with each other, Percy and Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City agreed it much too late for either to make a try and that Rockefeller is the only faintly viable alternative to Nixon.

In that light, Rockefeller's listlessness of the past month is painfully disquieting to the moderates. His lackluster performance before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington two weeks ago was another reason for prominent moderates to ask whether he has his heart in a final run for the White House.

"They're patronizing us." "They've taken our pride away from us."

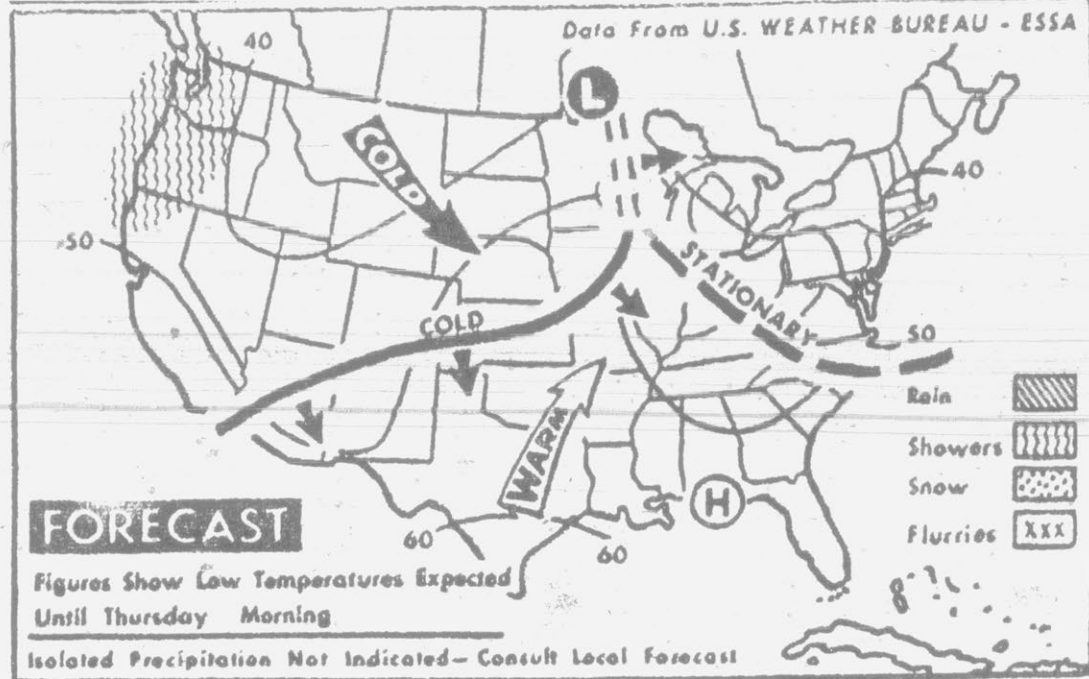

Muttering from the crowd. "We're sick and tired of living in a permissive society."

Helrazor tried to restore order. "It may work. We'll lock the dean of women in the drama department and won't let her out unless the university takes disciplinary action against us. We want our manhood back."

"If they give us an amnesty, we'll tear the faculty club apart."

After the dean of women was held for four days, the administration of Goodcheer University finally gave in and agreed to punish all the troublemakers in the school.

It was the demonstrators' finest hour. Goodcheer has been served notice that if, in the future, they refuse to discipline any student for an infraction, the student union will be burned to the ground.

'Amphibious' Marines Trained To Also Fight Conventional Warfare

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
Associated Press Writer
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Although the U.S. Marine Corps is primarily an amphibious force, Marines are fully trained and prepared for conventional ground warfare, their commander in South Vietnam says.

"We fight out of the same manual as the Army in land warfare," Lt. Gen. Robert Cushman said in an interview. "It is in the amphibious operation where we differ. That is our primary mission."

Cushman maintained his troops are well trained for fighting as varied as the street battles of Hue to the long term holding actions of Khe Sanh.

"At Khe Sanh we started out with a small force and used the area as a base for mobile operations," Cushman said. "Later, when the pressure built, there was no opportunity for a Maginot-Line type of defense to be built."

Cushman was answering recent criticism of the Marine position at Khe Sanh.

"It is our basic doctrine that when you stop moving, you dig in. And the longer you stay put, the deeper you dig," Cushman said.

He also said that based on his visits to Khe Sanh, he issued three specific orders to the commander of the 5,000 Marines at the combat base: "Dig faster, deeper and better."

That the Marines were, in fact well dug in at Khe Sanh was borne out by the casualty figures for the 77-day siege of the combat base near the Laos border, he said.

The siege under the big guns of North Vietnam's Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap began Jan. 2 and lasted until the base was relieved by a combined Marine and Army force in Operation Pegasus. During that time, according to Marine Corps figures 845 were wounded seriously enough to be evacuated and another 777 received minor wounds.

"It averages out to less than three men killed a day," Cushman said. "Why, there are more Marines killed every day just sweeping the paddy fields around Da Nang searching for guerrillas."

Other Marine Corps figures claimed a confirmed kill of 1,561 North Vietnamese troops around the Khe Sanh combat base.

As to claims that the Marines were ill-prepared for street fighting such as they encountered in the old imperial capital of Hue, Cushman said: "The facts state otherwise."

"It just so happens that I was in charge of training troops for Vietnam duty while I was at Camp Pendleton (California). All Marines go through simulated combat cities and were trained in city fighting."

The general said the Marines were so effective in the fight for the Hue Citadel—the former seat of Vietnamese emperors—that they once cleared North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops out of a hospital without injuring any of the patients in the building.

Marine Corps figures state that 141 Marines were killed in Hue street fighting from Feb. 3 to March 3. In addition, 853 Marines were evacuated for serious wounds and 222 were treated for minor wounds.

The figures claim the Marines killed 1,927 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers.

Cushman was asked about an article by a British newsman who wrote, prior to the lifting of the Khe Sanh siege, that at the Marine base at Camp Carroll, 12 miles from the demilitarized zone, an officer was reported to have said Marines slept above ground rather than in bunkers because sleeping below ground "is bad for morale."

"That is just not true," Cushman said.

"I've been to Camp Carroll. They have bunkers, they have fighting holes and they also have tents which are a lot more comfortable to sleep in."

"There is always a balance you have to make when you are under occasional artillery fire. You can sleep in bunkers all the time or you can sleep in tents, and get better rest, and go to the bunkers when you come under attack."

"This would not be the case," he said, "when troops are under almost constant attack as the Marines were at Khe Sanh."

Marine Corps figures claimed that during the last two weeks of February, "the neaviest they ever had there" according to a spokesman, Camp Carroll was struck by fewer than 300 rounds. Since that time, according to the figures, the weekly shelling of Camp Carroll has dropped to "well under a 100 rounds a week."

The shelling of Khe Sanh hit a high of more than 1,300 rounds a day.

Observers have stated that the Marines are misplaced in the northernmost I Corps tactical zone; that they would be better suited to making amphibious assaults in the river-laced Mekong Delta.

Cushman said this was a misconception.

"That is not an amphibious operation. It is nothing but a great big swamp. It is riverine warfare," he said.

The U.S. Command trained troops of the Army's 9th Infantry Division and specialized naval teams to form the Mobile Riverine Force in the Delta. New weapons, including armored boats and barge-mounted artillery, were developed for the job.

"That kind of warfare had to be invented," Cushman said. He added that the Marines were in no more a natural position by way of prior training to take over the delta area than were the Army troops.

Money-Wise, But Actor Likes A Loser

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Garner is a money-wise star who invests his huge earnings in land and oil. Yet he allows himself one investment that is a guaranteed loser.

Garner has formed the American International Racing Co., which sponsors entries in the major auto races of the world. Of the financial aspects, he comments: "Even if I won first prize in every race I entered, I still wouldn't break even."

Then why is a dollar-conscious man like Garner involved in the sport?

"Because I want to do something for racing," said Garner, a long-time enthusiast for fast cars. "Not many people realize that auto racing is the second biggest spectator in the world, after football—or what we call soccer."

"Racing is just coming into its own in the country, and I'd like to do what I can to help. People are already realizing what an exciting sport it is. Races like those at Sebring and Daytona Beach draw crowds of 100,000. The Riverside track near here can get 85,000. Even a place like Rockingham, N.C., which has a population of 5,500, can draw 50,000 people on a racing day."

Garner's enterprise began with the purchase of three Stingray Corvettes last year. He acquired a group of drivers, headed by Scooter Patrick and Davey Jordan. The Garner cars made good showings at Daytona in February and Sebring in March. At Sebring Patrick led the race for the first two hours, set a lap record and 10- and 20-lap records. A broken suspension and flat tire put him out of contention.

Now Garner is dropping the Stingrays, and has acquired two English-made Lolas, for which he has high hopes. In fact, he is so hopeful that he is entering the classic Le Mans in France June 15-16.

"All this costs money," he said. "I paid $18,000 just for the chassis of the Lolas and another $5,000 for the engine. Then we're doing some things to the engine which I hope will surprise the other boys at Le Mans. With four drivers, six mechanics and two or three others, it costs me about $75,000 to enter a race."

School Imposes Price For A Tan

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-four Meadowdale High School students, who stretched their spring vacations for trips to Florida didn't get an immediate chance to show off their tans in class when they returned home.

They were suspended under a citywide rule—one day for each day out of school illegally. No other schools reported suspensions under the rule, which did not apply to students who left early for trips with their parents.

Even Supporters Agree, Title I Not Doing Job

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Title I, the federal project on which $3 billion has been spent in the hope of answering the educational needs of deprived children, is not working out. On this point, critics and supporters alike are agreed.

Some critics call the two-year-old project a total flop, and others claim it has actually worked against poor children.

While supporters reject this argument, they concede that Title I isn't functioning as its sponsors intended.

"The Title I program obviously has not even begun to make any impact on motivating ghetto youngsters," said Rep. Roman Pucinski, D-Ill., chairman of the House General Subcommittee on Education. "You go across the length of the country and you find the money being spent on the same tired old ideas. It is a monumental flop and the outbreak of recent riots speaks louder than anything I can say about the total collapse of the program."

Joseph Froomkin, assistant U.S. commissioner of education, said that Title I, at the very least, has focused attention on one of America's worst problems, and should be continued, but added, "We still have little evidence that the problem is being licked; in fact, we may even be falling behind."

"I think we probably would need $5 billion a year to do the job adequately," Froomkin said in an interview. "The program is spread too thinly. One billion dollars a year, the present appropriation, spread around the country isn't a lot of money."

Title I is the heart of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act passed by Congress in 1965 to provide funds for the education of poor children. It established a national goal to equalize educational opportunities for all children by compensating for the disadvantages of those who grow up in poor communities.

Educators contend that poor children start school later, learn less while they are there, and drop out sooner. The result, they say, is that poverty tends to perpetuate itself.

For the current fiscal year, $1.15 billion has been allocated for Title I. But a national survey by a panel of distinguished U.S. educators has concluded that too much of this amount is going to expand old curricula and ideas that already have proven to be blind alleys.

The National Advisory Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children said these faults turned up in the course of its nationwide survey.

Small group instruction, a major Title I goal, frequently takes the form of organizing school children into groups of like ability. In effect this results in groupings by cultural and economic backgrounds.

"Title I will hardly be fulfilling its mission if it fosters a new track system, removing the disadvantaged child from his more stimulated and motivated school mates," the council said.

In an area that council members feel any advance might have produced the most dramatic results of all—parent involvement in the child's learning—there was almost no apparent progress.

"One reason the disadvantaged child is disadvantaged is because he does not bring to school a motivation acquired at home," said the council.

The study found that less than one-third of all projects surveyed involved changes that encouraged experimentation or exploration. And most in-service teacher training—supported by federal funds—worked out to be a couple of hours after each school day with an average length of projects 10 days.

Title I aims at helping all poor children, but the biggest problem is in predominantly Negro schools of the big cities. In channeling aid to those schools, the program has been caught in the middle of a hot dispute between those pressing for racial integration and those who want better schools in Negro neighborhoods.

Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, endorses both goals but argues that improving predominantly Negro schools "will not by itself do the trick . . . we cannot hope to convince the Negro child that he is as good as any other youngster as long as we quarantine him in schools reserved for 'racial and national minorities.'"

Another who shares Froomkin's "modest optimism" about Title I is Dr. Alice M. Rivlin, deputy assistant secretary for program analysis with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"I think we have found the task is much tougher than we thought at the start . . . when it began, we really didn't know how to go about it. We still don't, really, but we're trying to find out. There is no evidence that it (the program) has failed. I'm very optimistic. I think what we've got here is a big experimental program and I think it should be continued. At the very least it has focused attention on deprived children—something that wasn't true before," she said.

Dr. Thomas B. Pettigrew, a

Harvard social psychologist, charged the program is working against research findings that "the most important thing a school can provide for disadvantaged children is contact—meaningful contact—with affluent children."

Pettigrew said in an interview that the program gives first choice on funds to schools that have a majority of poor youngsters, and "This further separates the poor from the rich." He likened Title I to the federal rivers and harbors programs. "Everybody can get cut in whether he needs it or not . . . that's why it has been so popular politically."

The U.S. Office of Education has consulted with school superintendents in 28 major U.S. cities and urged them to draw up proposals and select target areas to strengthen the Title I program.

"It's naive to assume that in two years time we can totally reverse trends and change institutions that are hard to change," said Howe.

Title I, he said, should be viewed as part of a package of federal programs, including model cities, designed to alleviate the problems of the big city slums.

"Title I is the largest of all these programs," he said. "It represents a significant step toward meaningful help for those who are down and out in America."

State Senator

FOURTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

(Haliifax, Warren, Pitt and Edgecombe Counties)

JULIAN R. ALLSBROOK

Eastern North Carolina needs the experience, concern, and interest of its state senators. Julian Allsbrook has these qualifications, having served 12 years in the senate and two years in the House of Representatives, plus two special terms. He serves every county in his district with equal vigor. He has always represented Pitt County well.

1. He vigorously fought for legislation supporting university status for East Carolina University.
2. He has supported the Life Sciences and Community Health Center for East Carolina University.
3. He was one of the introducers of legislation providing the money to build and establish an alcoholic rehabilitation hospital and treatment center in Greenville to serve eastern North Carolina. This same legislation made funds available for rebuilding a similar hospital at Butler, North Carolina.
4. He supported legislation increasing appropriations for capital improvement at East Carolina University, including the building of a Teacher Training Laboratory for students majoring in education, thus enabling them to complete their training at Greenville.
5. He introduced legislation seeking to increase appropriations for Pitt Technical Institute and other technical schools of North Carolina.

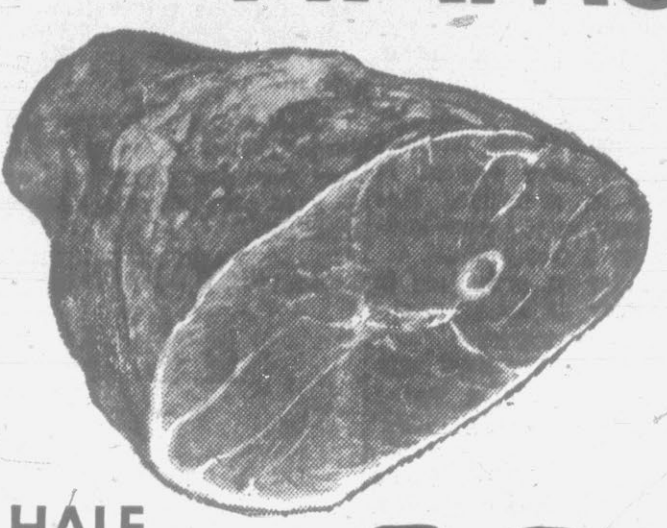

The above are just a few of the reasons why Pitt County should vote to re-elect Julian Allsbrook to the State Senate.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Director J. Edgar Hoover says the FBI has no authority to control riots—and does not seek such national police power.

The FBI role in civil disorders, he writes in the May issue of the FBI's "Law Enforcement Bulletin," is to gather and disseminate intelligence, and to keep alert to specific violations of federal law.

Hoover explained he wrote the clarification because the FBI role is often misunderstood. He said some extremists accuse the agency of racism for refusing to step in.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says 6,000 U. S. servicemen have been brought home from West Germany in a shuffling of European defense forces and another 27,000 are to be deployed to the United States by next Sept. 30.

The home-based forces will remain committed to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and will be kept in high readiness, the Pentagon emphasized. About 212,000 U. S. servicemen will remain in West Germany.

The Pentagon said the home-basing plan authorized last December by NATO's defense planning committee will save the U. S. Treasury about $75 million a year.

Liggett-Myers Changing Base

DURHAM (AP) — Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co. stockholders voted Tuesday to merge with a wholly-owned subsidiary, to change the firm's name and to move the company domicile to Delaware.

Under terms of the merger, the company will take the name of the old subsidiary, Liggett & Myers, Inc., because the management considered "tobacco company" no longer fully descriptive of the firm's operations.

The change of domicile was approved because Delaware's general corporation are considered more flexible and modern than those of New Jersey where the firm was incorporated.

Also, the stockholders authorized a two-for-one stock split in which each share of the New Jersey company will become two shares of common stock in the Delaware company.

Officers said 1967 net earnings totaled some $23.9 million, or $5.96 per share, compared to some $22.3 million in 1966.

However, net sales for 1967 totaled only $575.2 million as compared to $577.5 for 1966.

Rites Today For E. C. Daniel

ZEBULON, N. C. (AP)—Elbert Clifton Daniel, father of E. Clifton Daniel Jr., managing editor of the New York Times, died Tuesday in the Wendell-Zebulon Community Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services for the 83-year-old pharmacist were held at 3 p.m. today and burial will follow in Montlawn Cemetery in Raleigh.

His son married the former Margaret Truman, daughter of former President Harry S. Truman.

Daniel, who was twice mayor of Zebulon, had operated a drug store here for 63 years.

A member of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association since 1916, Daniel served as its president in 1947. In 1951, he was honored as state pharmacist of the year. Later he was elected to the N. C. Pharmaceutical Hall of Fame.

Daniel was a founder and director of the Pharmaceutical Research Foundation at the University of North Carolina and took an active part in formation of the N. C. Institute of Pharmacy at Chapel Hill.

Survivors include his widow; his son, three sisters, Mrs. D. L. Berry and Mrs. E. A. Stephens of Raleigh and Mrs. T. H. Weldon of Henderson; and four grandsons.

The Worry Clinic

Need Early Training To Avoid That Dread

Milly has thousands of medical "twins", for the layman is woefully ignorant of the simple mechanics of surgery. That's why a semester of "Applied Medicine" at the Junior High School level would be a valuable inclusion in the curriculum.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-557: Milly G., aged 54, is desperate.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "I taught school for the past 33 years.

"But I am now in danger of having to quit, though I enjoy my work and am crazy about the children.

"For I am going blind!"
"Dr. Crane, I feel terrible!"
"Cataracts have formed in both eyes so everything now appears hazy, as if I were looking through a frosted glass."

"My doctor as urged me to have surgery at least on one eye but I am scared."

"My aged mother lives with me, so I am terrified that I might die during the operation."

When I was in active medical practice, I doubly enjoyed eye surgery because of its dramatic effect on the patient.

All you cataract victims should quit dreading death or blood loss or other dire monsters that you seem to conjure up.

For the sooner you have the milky lens of your eye removed, the better vision you will enjoy.

If, instead of following your eye doctor's advice, you dilly-dally for an extra year or more, the sensitive retina behind that milky lens will deteriorate.

From lack of use, it will atrophy.

Thus, even after you then have the milky lens removed, the retina may be so inert that you obtain only partial vision.

If, however, you have that milky lens removed earlier, you may then obtain perfect vision afterwards.

Of course, you will need to have eyeglasses with a glass lens to take the place of the milky lens the doctor extracts.

But most of you already wear glasses, so your friends will not know the difference, anyway.

Besides, the removal of your cataract is almost totally bloodless! You don't lose a drop of blood!

And it is painless, for the eye surgeon deadens the nerves the way your dental surgeon freezes your gum before a tooth extraction.

Unless you are unusually nervous, you don't even need a general anesthetic but can be awake during the surgery.

The eye cataract is simply a cloudy or milky lens that develops, often in diabetics as well as older people.

Since the lens focuses the straight light rays and thus brings them to a point at the fovea in the retina, when it becomes milky, you are severely handicapped.

So don't hesitate one day longer if your eye surgeon has advised the removal of your cataract.

For the sooner you get rid of that milky lens, the better vision you will have in that eye the rest of your life.

With my encouragement, Milly had one of her cataracts removed the following week. After a few days in the hospital with the eye bandaged, she was fitted with eyeglasses.

Thereafter, she had excellent vision, so she wasn't compelled to give up her school position.

You teachers should never hesitate to wear hearing aids and submit to needed eye surgery, for good teachers require keen hearing and vision.

DEADLY GAME OF HIDE-AND-SEEK — A Viet Cong lieutenant raises his hands in surrender after he was caught hiding in this canal in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta, some 45 miles southwest of Saigon near the town of Cai Lay. Capt. Millard Peck, commander of C-Company, 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, at left in both pictures, points his M16 rifle at the hiding guerrilla, then directs him out of the canal. The enemy lieutenant and six others were captured on information given by a Viet Cong defector. (AP Wirephoto)

Suggestion That Americans Have Tendency To Violence Is Revived

LONDON (AP) — The suggestion that Americans have a tendency toward violence has popped up again in foreign commentary on the United States. Two weeks after one British writer said the Americans' greatest fault is "an undue tolerance of violence," another wrote from Washington: "The United States is a violent country. It was born in violence, and developed in violence," said Louis Heren of the Times of London. "Foreign wars have been periods of regulated violence between the revolution and the latest race riots. Four of the 35 presidents were assassinated, and Mr. Johnson (the 36th President) was not the first to limit his movements for fear of violence. This is not an indictment, or an expression of latent anti-Americanism, but a statement of fact."

A Measure Of Peace In Uneasy Guatemala

By ROBERT BERRILLEZ
Associated Press Writer
GUATEMALA (AP) — In a daring stroke almost two years after his election, President Julio Cesar Mendez Montenegro has assumed full control of the government, which he had been forced to share with military overlords.

As a result, a measure of peace has settled over this long troubled Central American country, where political violence between rightist and leftist extremists has taken at least 1,000 lives and possibly as many as 4,000, since Mendez, a Liberal, became president in July 1966.

The only violent deaths of political significance since the shift three weeks ago involved the leaders of a right-wing terrorist organization, slain while in police custody under official explanation but still clouded circumstances.

The move that quashed right-wing extremist influence in the government—at least for the present—came last March 28 when President Mendez fired three top officials including Defense Minister Rafael Arriaga Bosque.

The president's decision, it is generally believed here, has stripped rightist terrorists of official protection and pacified the non-Communist left. It has also neutralized and effective source of Castroite recruiting propaganda: militarism in government.

Still to be seen is just how far-left militants, given a respite from military pressures, will respond to the changes.

The abduction of Guatemala's archbishop, Msgr. Mario Casariego, last month is regarded as a catalyst in bringing the explosive Guatemalan situation to an anticlimax few local or foreign observers had anticipated.

The kidnapping of the 58-year-old prelate was the far right's boldest and most desperate bid to bring down Mendez. The now-apparent objective was to make it appear the abduction was the work of the far left and thus turn Roman Catholic sentiment against the government, which the rightists claim is infiltrated with Communists.

There was little or no public response, however, because it was quickly established that the rightist terrorist group MANO was responsible.

The Guatemalan Curia exhorted Catholics to remain calm and refused to deal with the kidnapers who had issued an ultimatum that unless Mendez resigned the archbishop would be killed. He was released March 20.

The archbishop had been in Mexico on church business and was kidnapped March 16 as he was being driven from the airport to his home.

The circumstances of the abduction—in broad daylight in an area usually alive with armed guards and during a "state of alarm" when official surveillance is supposedly at its sharpest—strongly suggested acquiescence if not direct involvement of high official circles.

It is believed this is what persuaded Mendez to bring matters with the ultrarightists in the regime to a showdown.

Assured of the support of the air force, under Col. Doroteo Monterrosa, and of the country's most important military unit, the Mariscal Zavala Barracks under Col. Enrique Daniel Cifuentes, Mendez made his move. He summoned Col. Arriaga Bosque, the defense minister, to his office and informed him of his dismissal along with the chief of the Zacapa Military Base in eastern Guatemala and the chief of police. The three were considered the most militant rightists in the regime.

Arriaga's hand in government affairs is considered to have grown heavier as the fight between left and right extremists intensified. Formation of the civilian MANO organization—for Organized National Anti-Communist Movement—involved ultraconservative government officials in the fight, which spread into open resistance to Mendez' attempts at fiscal and social reforms.

The consensus appears to be that the president has considerably fortified his position. But is still not known how the rightists will react if the president decides to proceed with needed reforms.

anism, but a statement of fact."

The earlier statement about toleration of violence was by Paul Johnson, writing in the left-wing weekly New Statesman.

An Associated Press sampling of foreign opinion also turned up comments on nonviolence in La Nation, the Gaullist party organ in France.

In a three-page section on "America in the face of the black problem," the newspaper commented: "Has nonviolence been outlived? The tragic end of pastor (Martin Luther) King tends to indicate this is so . . ."

"It was a certain section of America, that of fraternity and good will, which was once again assassinated . . . It is to be hoped that the death of Pastor King will fortify the faith of his followers."

In comment on American presidential candidates, a West German writer criticized Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. Most German correspondents recall the enthusiastic greeting the German people extended to the senator's elder brother, President John F. Kennedy, and expect Robert to be popular too.

Would Teach A Liking For Rats

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio State University graduate psychology student thinks that women normally afraid of mice can learn to like rats.

Any volunteers? The student, Peter Mattis, is looking for 50. They would start their training by merely staying in the same room with caged rats. Eventually, Mattis hopes, they will be able to pick up rats in their hands. He promises the progress will be slow.

Kurt T. Leissler wrote in the nationally distributed Sunday paper Welt am Sonntag that if a "second President Kennedy" should enter the White House he would be active in foreign politics.

But, Leissler said, his primary effort in Europe would be not the revitalization of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, "but the 'disengagement,' the detaching of the United States from its West European allies and the lifting of the confrontation of the United States and the U.S.S.R. in central Europe."

The writer said Kennedy's father, Joseph, as American ambassador to London in 1938, fought against U.S. involvement in the fight against Hitler and in 1948 argued for American withdrawal from Korea and all of Asia.

Robert Kennedy's remarks on Vietnam in 1966 and 1967 revealed a conformity of views with his father, Leissler added.

Time Created Overtime Ordeal

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona's 90 legislators haggled for most of their overtime 75-day session before finally approving a bill to exempt the state from Daylight Saving Time.

Republican House member Frank Kelley, a staunch advocate of the bill but weakened by long debate, declared at one point:

"We could settle the whole thing by making the sundial the official state timepiece. Nobody could juggle that."

The Queen of Egypt, Cleopatra, was of Greek ancestry and had no Egyptian blood whatsoever.

Pirates Split With The Citadel; Rose Rallies Bucs Retain First As Colbert Hurls Shutout

CHARLESTON, S.C. — The East Carolina University Pirates split a doubleheader with The Citadel last night, losing the opener, 4-3, but rebounding to take the nightcap, 5-0.

The split enabled the Bucs to remain on top of the Southern Division of the Southern Conference with a 5-1 record. Furman is in second place with a 3-2 mark, splitting with Davidson yesterday.

Furman is the only team with a real chance to catch the Bucs, who have a home doubleheader left with the Paladins, as well as a single game with Davidson Saturday.

Errors were costly to the Bucs in the first game as they committed four, resulting in two unearned runs in the late innings, allowing The Citadel to rally and take the lead and the game.

But in the second game, the Bucs played perfect defense behind the six-hit pitching of fastballer Vince Colbert, who earned his first shutout of the year.

In the opener, the Bucs charged into the lead in the first inning, getting two runs. Dick Corrada led off with a double and another double by Jimmy Lanier brought him across with the first run. Lanier moved to third on a ground out, and then scored on Jim Snyder's fly ball to deep short.

But from there until the seventh, the Bucs found the going tough, getting only one man on base before the final frame. And by then, they were behind 4-2.

The Citadel was shut out by Dennis Burke for the first three innings, but then Mike Ross led off the fourth with a double. Chippy Morris reached on an error and Buster Holland reached on a bunt single, scoring Ross. Vic Wall also bunted for a hit, loading the bases. Billy Watson drove in the tying run with a ground out.

In the sixth, another error contributed more runs to The Citadel. Jerry Wise started the frame with a single and Russ McKelvey reached on an error. Both stole up a base, and then Morris sacrificed Wise across with the go-ahead run. Buster Holland singled, driving in McKelvey with what proved to be the winning run.

East Carolina tried to rally in the final frame. With one out, Dave Goings was walked and Dave Winchester was hit by a pitch. Stu Garrett was walked, loading the bases, and a sacrifice fly by Roy Taylor drove in Goings, cutting the lead to 4-3. But the rally was stopped there, as the Bulldogs got the win.

The Bucs, with their divisional leadership at stake, came back to win the nightcap handily after that.

Four big runs were pushed across in the top of the first. Lanier led off with a walk and Carey Anderson doubled. Jim Snyder got a single to score both runners for a 2-0 lead. Snyder then stole second and Goings singled. Winchester got a hit, driving in Snyder with the third run.

Wayne Vick was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. The Citadel's catcher then tried to pick Winchester off second, but the ball was overthrown and Goings scampered home with the fourth run of the frame.

The Bucs came back with another run in the second as Lanier cracked a home run for a 5-0 lead.

Another Pirate reached in the third, on an error, but after that, The Citadel brought on Joe Wysocki, who shut out the Bucs for the last four innings, refusing to allow a baserunner, and striking out eight. Meanwhile, Colbert treated the Bulldogs mean, too. Only twice, in the second and the fourth, was Vince in trouble, when The Citadel put two men on each time. But he retired the side on a strikeout in the second and a double play erased the threat in the fourth, keeping his shutout intact.

Colbert struck out six and walked none in hurling the win, his fourth of the year.

East Carolina travels to Davidson on Saturday for its last conference road game, then returns home on Monday for a full week of activity, including Duke on Monday, at State on Tuesday, Clemson at Greenville on Wednesday and Thursday, and the important contest with Furman on Saturday.

The Southern divisional winner will meet the Northern divisional champ in a best-of-three playoff the following weekend for the Southern Conference title and the NCAA Regional berth.

Ayden Defeats Belvoir Nine

By SONNY McLAHORN
Reflector Sports Writer

AYDEN—A barrage of 11 hits paced Ayden to a 6-2 victory over Belvoir-Falkland's Eagles Tuesday night.

The Tornados were seeking revenge for a 2-1 loss at Belvoir early in the season. In that game, Kelly Witherington fired a one-hitter at Ayden.

Of the 11 Ayden hits in last night's game, five were for extra bases.

Paul Miller went the distance for the Tornados. The senior leftlander struck out fifteen, while giving up two hits.

Ayden struck for three runs in the first inning. Allen Wilson reached first on a force-out at second base. Wilson stole second and went to third on a throwing error. Then David McGlotha smashed a drive to deep centerfield and circled the bases for an inside-the-park home run.

George Booth struck out, but reached base when the third strike got by the Belvoir catcher. Booth stole second and third and scored on Curtis McLawhorn's double.

The Eagles got started in the second inning. With one out, Thomas Burroughs drew a free pass. The Belvoir leftfielder stole second and scored on J. W. Brown's double into rightfield.

Belvoir-Falkland closed the gap to 3-2 in the top of the third frame. Gordon Bunting led off with a base on balls. Pitcher Witherington was safe on a fielder's choice and Mike Cobb reached first on a missed third strike. Ayden's Miller struck out the next two batters, but walked Burroughs once again to send in the runner from third.

In the fifth inning, Witherington led off with a solid to the leftfield fence, but Allen Wilson fired a strike to third and Witherington was out trying to stretch it into a triple.

McLawn led off a three-run sixth with a booming homer over the leftfield fence. Later, with two out, Worth Kinlaw cracked a single. Then Bobby Wilson singled to send Kinlaw to third base. Wilson stole second. Allen Wilson then got an infield hit to score two runs. The Tornado leftfielder stole second and went to third on an error, where he was picked off by the catcher.

Bobby Wilson was the big stick for Ayden, as he collected three safeties, including a triple. Allen Wilson got two hits. McGlotha got two hits, including a home run. McLawn's two safeties included a homer and a double. First baseman Steve Bright tripled.

Witherington and Brown got doubles for Belvoir-Falkland. The Eagles travel to Winterville Friday. Winterville's Wolves are tied with Ayden for the top spot in the Pitt County race.

Pate's Pinch-Hit Double Drives In Winning Runs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

MOREHEAD CITY — The Rose High School Phantoms rallied in the seventh inning on a pinch-hit double to take a 2-1 victory over the stubborn West Carteret Patriots.

The game turned out to be a pitching duel between Rose High's Jimmy Bond and West Carteret's Bruce Manness. Both gave up only five hits. Bond was relieved by Lee Galt in the seventh after being lifted so Alan Pate could pinch-hit.

Both teams had several opportunities to score earlier in the game. Rose got its first baserunner in the second and Russ Smith doubled, but died at second. In the third, a hit and a walk put two Phantoms on but again, they were unable to move.

An error allowed a Phantom to reach second with one out in the fourth, but again, the Phantoms were unable to bring him around.

West Carteret, meanwhile, was having trouble doing anything too. Their first baserunner came in the third, as Dewey Willis doubled down the left field line with one out. A wild pitch moved him to third, but he died there. An error put a man on base in the fourth, but he went down in a fielder's choice, and then Bond cut down the remaining runner at first.

A walk put a Patriot in base in the fifth.

Finally in the sixth, however, West Carteret struck, getting a 1-0 lead. Don Leatherman led off the frame with a single and was sacrificed to second. Rod Garner singled and Phil Moran was given a ground-ruled double, scoring Leatherman for the lead. Garner was cut down trying to score on the next play, ending the threat.

It appeared that the Phantoms were doomed to their fourth loss of the year, but they rallied to get it. Joe West led off with a hit and Russ Smith, attempting to sacrifice, beat the throw for a hit, putting two men on. Ken Beaman hit into a fielder's choice, nailing West at third, and the next man struck out, sending the Phantoms dropping.

But Pate stepped in to pinch-hit, and slammed the ball to deep center field for a double, driving in both Smith and Beaman for the tying and winning run.

West Carteret got a slight threat started in the bottom of the frame, but Galt halted it to save the win for the Phantoms.

Rose next faces unbeaten Kinston on Friday in Greenville, hoping to still pull an upset and gain the conference title. It would take Kinston losses in three of the next four games, however, for the Phantoms to win it, and they must go undefeated the rest of the way.

Lady Umpire Strikes Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernice Gera says there is nothing she'd like better than to yell "Play ball!" but claims her umpiring ambitions have been so thwarted that she's reduced to hollering "Foul!"

Mrs. Gera, a 35-year-old Queens housewife, yearns to trade in her apron and become organized baseball's first woman in blue. She doesn't like to be told "You're out!" and like any good ball player she is ready to argue the point.

The blue-eyed brunette filed a complaint Tuesday with the State Human Rights Commission charging the commissioner of baseball, William D. Eckert, with discriminating against her because of her sex.

Mario Biaggi, her attorney, said Eckert won't even let his client have an application blank although she is "duly qualified as a baseball umpire." All she wants is a chance to start in the minor leagues, he said.

"I'm ready now," declared Mrs. Gera, who graduated last year from a West Palm Beach, Fla., school for umpires, "although it may be a long time before the big leagues are ready for a lady umpire."

"Mrs. Gera has been around baseball and sandlots since she was eight years old," said Biaggi. "She hits a baseball 350 feet and can pitch a good ball."

"I think it's wrong, if I'm qualified, to deny me a job," said Mrs. Gera. "That's all I ask for." If the rights commission finds probable cause for her complaint it will order an investigation and hold public hearings.

There was no immediate comment from Eckert's office on the charges.

Pitchers Star As Batters In AL

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

American League hitters are ahead of the pitchers, particularly when the pitchers are doing the hitting. And the California Angel hurlers may do some hitting of their own the next time Cleveland pitcher Sonny Siebert steps to the plate against them.

Minnesota's Dave Boswell, California's George Brunet, Baltimore's Bruce Howard and Chicago's Gary Peters all came through with big hits Tuesday but only the first two managed to pick up victories for their pitching.

And Siebert may have started a beanball war by allegedly brushing back California's Don Mincher three times in Cleveland's 5-3 loss to the Angels. Siebert also yielded two singles to opposing hurler Brunet, who scored both times.

Boswell drove in two runs with a homer and double but needed relief help as Minnesota edged Boston 7-6. Howard knocked in a run with a double but had to leave in the third inning after walking six batters as Baltimore outlasted New York 6-5.

Peters doubled to start a three-run seventh-inning uprising as Chicago took a 4-1 lead over Washington. But the Senators tied it in the eighth on Ken McMullen's two-run homer and won out 5-4 on McMullen's second homer of the game in the 12th.

Oakland's Paul Lindblad pitched 4 1-3 innings of perfect relief as the A's whipped Detroit 3-1 on Ramon Webster's Chicod pushed into the lead in the second inning, getting two runs. Dixon reached on a fielder's choice and Hudson singled. Warren then singled in both runners.

Chicod went on to add seven more in the third to move into a 9-0 lead.

Stokes picked up one run in the sixth and two in the seventh, but were too far down to rally.

Hudson and Warren led the Chicod hitting with two each, while Crandall had a double to pace the Stokes' hitting.

Eppes High School rolled to an 8-0 victory over Imborne of Enfield yesterday in baseball. It was the third Bulldog victory in 10 games this year.

Raymond Clemmons hurled a fine two-hitter for the Bulldogs, striking out 11 and walking two.

Eppes took the lead in the second inning. Johnny Smith singled and advanced on an error. Hubert Arthur reached on an error, scoring Smith, and a double by Willie Smith brought in Arthur.

In the third, Eppes picked up another run. Alphonso Tyson singled and scored on Robert Little's double.

Astros Rebound To Gain Win

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

With nowhere to go but up, Larry Dierker and the Houston Astros went for double or nothing... and made a twin killing.

The Astros, rebounding from a chaotic 17-2 loss to Cincinnati that deposited them in the National League cellar, backed Dierker's two-hit pitching with five double plays Tuesday night and blanked the Reds 3-0.

It was only the second victory for the Astros in their last 11 games and the first triumph for Dierker after three straight setbacks during which he was given a total of three runs support.

In other NL night games St. Louis held off Los Angeles 2-1 and Pittsburgh overtook the Chicago Cubs 4-3. The New York Mets edged Philadelphia 1-0 and San Francisco trimmed Atlanta 7-0 in afternoon action.

Baltimore nipped the New York Yankees 6-5. Washington shaded the Chicago White Sox 5-4 in 12 innings; Oakland upended Detroit 3-1. Minnesota outslugged Boston 7-6 and California topped Cleveland 5-3 in American League games.

Dierker, a 21-year-old fireballer whose fortunes had sagged after an opening day victory over Pittsburgh, limited the hard-hitting Reds to a pair of singles. He struck out seven and issued three walks, but the Houston infield turned over double plays in the second, third, fourth, sixth and seventh innings for a single game club record.

The Astros broke up a scoreless duel between Dierker and Cincinnati southpaw Gerry Arrigo in the eighth, tallying all their runs on Ron Davis' double and singles by John Bateman, Denis Menke, Jim Wynn and Doug Rader.

Celtics Defeat Lakers To Move Within One Game Of Championship

By LARRY ELDRIDGE
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Reserve Don Nelson's "greatest game" and a typically spectacular performance by John Havlicek have boosted the Boston Celtics to within one victory of the National Basketball Association championship. But Coach Bill Russell says it was a "very bad play" on his own part which clinched matters.

Havlicek's field goal Tuesday night with 38 seconds left in an overtime period had given the Celtics a 119-117 lead over Los Angeles. The Lakers' Elgin Baylor then drove in for what could have been the tying basket.

It was a very bad thing to do, but I thought I'd be sneaky, and it worked this time anyway."

Nelson picked up by Boston after being cut by the Lakers two years ago, wound up with 26 points and 12 rebounds plus a strong defensive effort against his old mates.

Havlicek led Boston's scoring with 31 points, and also added 10 rebounds and eight assists. He went the entire 53 minutes.

New Orleans can wrap up the ABA title tonight at home against Pittsburgh. The Buccaneers lead the Pipers 3-2 in their best-of-7 series.

The decision left the Celtics with a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 series as they strive to regain the championship they lost to Philadelphia a year ago. The sixth game will be played in Los Angeles Thursday, with the seventh if necessary, scheduled in Boston Sunday.

Hard Fought Race For Attorney General's Post

By LAURIE HOLDER

RALEIGH (AP) — A pint-sized state senator from Harnett County has struck some of the brightest sparks in North Carolina's political fireworks this year.

Firm Announces Plant For Kenly

KENLY, N. C. (AP)—Overton Container Corp. of Mullins, S.C., has announced plans to build a new plant at Kenly which will employ 200 people by the end of the year.

It will manufacture wood, plastic and corrugated shipping containers, furniture parts and highway safety equipment.

Faculty Declines Liberal Rules

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—The faculty at Davidson College declined Tuesday to recommend liberalization of drinking rules at the 131-year-old Presbyterian-related college.

Students voted overwhelmingly Monday to recommend the allowance of drinking in private homes and fraternity houses on campus and in "other areas designated by the college administration."

Davidson trustees will consider the question Friday.

Robert ("Little Bobby") Morgan, the conservative lawyer who is running against Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton, has fought for votes as if for his life.

Although the attorney general technically isn't a Council of State member, he's considered on the roster since he meets with the council as its legal advisor. And in the five Democratic primary races going on for council jobs, the Bruton-Morgan battle is the one to watch.

Morgan, 42, has based his whirlwind campaign mainly on charges that Bruton, 61, has made the attorney general's office an ineffectual one during his eight-year reign. While Morgan has stumped North Carolina for votes, Bruton has stuck close to home. A quiet man, Bruton has mostly written letters and shaken friendly hands. Dr. Charles F. Carroll's decision not to run against the state superintendent of public instruction threw that race wide open, with five Democrats rushing in wanting to fill Carroll's shoes.

The most active campaigners have been Dr. Raymond A. Stone of Southern Pines, president of Sandhills Community College, and Dr. Craig Phillips of Greensboro, also a professional educator. The others, however, have also made themselves known. They are Dr. J. Everett Miller, Carroll's associate superintendent; Wendell W. Smiley librarian at East Carolina University; and William D. Harrill of Forest City, dean of Southwood College.

A race of contrast, similar to the Bruton-Morgan one, pits 68-year-old State Treasurer Edwin Gill against state Rep. Sneed High of Fayetteville, a Terry Sanford friend who was revenue commissioner Sanford's last few months as governor.

In the other two council contests, John B. Wardell Jr. of Jamestown is running against his personal friend, Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, for nomination to that office, and Insurance Commissioner Ed Lanier has three foes. One of them, John B. Whitley of Statesville, unsuccessfully challenged Lanier four years ago. Fred Benton of Raleigh has been the commissioner's most active campaign enemy, blasting Lanier at every turn, but Benton's affiliation with the industry (he's a Raleigh insurance executive) doesn't help him. The third Lanier challenger is George A. Belk of Greensboro. Three council members made it home free as far as the primary is concerned—State Auditor Henry Bridges, Secretary of State Thad Eure (who's held the job 32 years and calls himself "the oldest rat in the Democratic barn") and Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham.

The Republican party made good its promise to field a candidate for every council office, but has only one primary race going, Carl W. Rice of Charlotte and Everett L. Peterson of Clinton are vying for the GOP nomination for insurance commissioner.

Republicans unopposed in the primary are Clyde R. Green of Boone for state treasurer, Ron Ingle of Raleigh for labor commissioner, Ted Conrad of Charlotte for state auditor, Dr. John P. East of Greenville for secretary of state, Warren H. Coolidge of Fayetteville for attorney general, Claude L. Greene Jr. of Robersonville for agriculture commissioner and Joe L. Morgan of Marshall for superintendent of public instruction.

PTA Audience Told Christianity Need

"If we hope to have peace, love, and goodwill towards each other, we must accept the Divine teaching of . . . Jesus Christ," the Rev. B. B. Felder told Bruce Falkland Elementary School PTA members at the group's ninth annual meeting.

"It was His dream of one world where love should prevail regardless of race, creed or color may live together in harmony; a world that knows no hate; a world that recognizes each other as brothers," Rev. Felder said.

There is a need, today, for personal involvement of all people of good will, the minister emphasized. "We can no longer afford to muffle the voices of principals and preachers in the struggle for human dignity and good will."

He continued, "We must strive for a world that no longer practices riots, burnings, bombings, bloodshed and murdering those who resort to a means for an end." According to Rev. Felder, 8 per cent of the Negro population in Pitt County makes less than $3,000 annually. These people fall under the government's anti-poverty programs. "What's happening to these funds?" he questioned.

"In spite of the many obstacles and frustrated moments of despair," he continued, "we must recapture the good will of all men and learn to dream the impossible and strive to make this dream come true."

David Gay, PTA president, presided at the banquet.

Gym Teacher Is Fighting 'Bugle'

LARSKPUR, Calif. (AP) — A fat woman gym teacher criticized by her high school principal as "a living sycophant of what she's teaching" is fighting the battle of the bulge and should be back to her normal weight by mid-November, a doctor says.

Dismissal of Elizabeth Blodgett, 41, had been recommended by Redwood High School Principal Donald Kreps. Miss Blodgett, who once weighed nearly 250 pounds, requested a special school board hearing, where Dr. Wendell Howard Butler testified that she has lost 34 pounds in the 16 weeks he has been treating her.

Rockefeller Plans 'Alternatives' To Nixon Stand On War, Cities

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently intends to base his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination on alternatives to Richard M. Nixon's stands on the Vietnam war and big-city problems.

The New York governor—who entered the race Tuesday saying he could not effectively offer alternatives from the sidelines—plans to state his position on Vietnam today in Philadelphia.

He already has outlined a 10-year, $150 billion proposal against slum poverty. Nixon has said he would not join in "over-promising" slum dwellers help they won't get.

Rockefeller said March 21 that he was not a candidate but would speak out on the issues to try to influence his party's basic positions.

He said Tuesday: "I frankly find that to comment from the sidelines is not an effective way to present the alternatives—the alternatives that I believe can lead us out of our difficulties—to order and progress at home, to peace and understanding abroad."

Nixon predicted he still will win the GOP nomination but welcomed Rockefeller's entry and said it "will result in a more meaningful discussion of the issues."

Rockefeller led Nixon and Gov. John A. Volpe with a surprisingly strong write-in showing in the Massachusetts primary Tuesday. Only Volpe's name was on the ballot.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy was unopposed on the ballot and easily outpolled presidential rivals Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The unofficial count: Republicans (1,596 of 1,734 precincts)—Rockefeller 29,003, Nixon 24,739, Volpe 27,717, Democrats (1,596 precincts)—McCarthy 105,898, Kennedy 58,516, Humphrey 38,291, President Johnson 6,052.

In other political developments: Kennedy, campaigning in Indiana's May 7 primary, proposed in Indianapolis higher Social Security benefits and a benefits system that would not penalize retirees who want to keep on working.

—McCarthy said the recent stock market rally reflects an unexpected dovishness. "To those of us who had long since despaired of the economic implications of open-ended escalation (in Vietnam)," he said in New York City, "that remarkable rally came as a rather unexpected vote of confidence in peace."

—Humphrey flew to New York City to seek funds for his campaign. Sidney J. Weinberg, known in financial circles as "Mr. Wall Street," has been gathering Humphrey campaign funds for a week but declined to say how he is doing.

—Backers of third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace filed a petition to get his name on Colorado's November ballot and said they have enough petition signatures to get on Nevada's ballot.

Your A&P has all the brand names you know and want...
Del Monte, Campbell, Nabisco, Heinz, Kraft... just to name a few.

But your A&P has more brands like
A&P, Ann Page, Jane Parker...just to name a few.

These exclusive A&P Brands have earned their nationally famous reputation.
How?

By virtue of quality.

Quality so outstanding, we guarantee without condition, that they are the equal of or better than any brand you know.

If assured quality isn't enough,
and if you're concerned about your food costs,
think of this:

A&P's own nationally famous brands offer you assured savings... meaningful savings.

Not every store can offer you this.

A&P can...and does.

Shouldn't A&P be your store?

First Gold Rush Occurred Here, In N. Carolina

By Christopher Crittenden
N.C. Department of Archives and History
Written for The AP

RALEIGH (AP)—The nation's first gold rush began in Dahlonega, Ga., in 1828 according to Preservation News, a publication issued by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. True or false? Definitely false. The nation's first gold rush occurred in North Carolina, not Georgia; the date gold was discovered was 1799, not 1828. The Georgia gold rush was a kind of later extension, 150 miles southwest, of the rush to North Carolina.

Two centuries or more earlier Spaniards had probably found gold in what are now the North Carolina mountains. They appear to have mined it, perhaps with the aid of the Indians, for in recent years remains of these ancient mines have been found in the area.

The first discovery by the English, in what is now the United States, occurred in Cabarrus County, North Carolina. According to the usually accepted story, a 12-year-old boy, Conrad Reed, with a young brother and sister was shooting with bow and arrow at fish in a creek—this on a Sunday morning while their parents were at church. Seeing in the water a shining piece of metal "about the size of a small smoothing iron," they took it home.

Their father, John Reed, carried the object to a silversmith in Concord, who was unable to identify it. So Reed took it back home and for three years used it as a door-stop. But in 1802 he carried it to Fayetteville, where a jeweler fluxed the gold into a bar about six inches long.

Reed did not know the true value of the nugget and accepted $3.50 for it—when the real worth was about $8,000. One account states that he later sued the jeweler and recovered $1,000.

The Reed discovery started the North Carolina gold rush and for half a century that state led in production of the precious metal. People came from all parts of the union and from many foreign countries. In the North Carolina "mining towns were found Negroes, Americans, English, Welsh, Scotch, Cornish, Irish, Spaniards, Swedes, Germans, Swiss, Poles, Austrians, Brazilians, Turks, Mexicans, Hungarians, Italians, and Portuguese and in one mine some 13 different languages were spoken." There seem to have been few if any immigrants from the Far East.

To mint the gold a branch United States Mint was established in Charlotte and remained in operation until the Civil War.

In Rutherford County the famous Bechtler private mint operated for many years.

With the California gold rush most of the Tar Heel miners picked up and went west. But North Carolina was the first—and for 50 years had been the biggest—gold-mining state.

Wax For Outdoor Furniture

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — Soon you'll be getting out the furniture for porch or patio. If you have wrought iron, wash it off and then give it a thin coat of paste wax to keep it from retaining dust. If your outdoor table has a ceramic or laminated plastic top, either a cream or paste wax will clean the surfaces and restore the shine, according to the Consumer Service Division of the S. C. Johnson Co.

Wood furniture exposed to the elements will be kept in good condition with an application of paste wax. Another application or two later on will help maintain it throughout the summer months. If aluminum or other metal furniture is slightly corroded, an application of auto cleaner-wax will restore its appearance.

Powdered Power Can Stop A Jet

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Now there's a powder strong enough to stop a jet plane zooming down an airport runway.

By blending various metal and ceramic powders and molding the mixture into kidney, trapezoid or button shapes, modern magicians at the Bendix Corp. make parts for heavy-duty clutches and high-speed braking applications.

The pressed parts, called "cookies," are bonded together in an oven. Some 35 different powders are used, although a typical formula contains just six.

Disabled Sloop Towed To Port

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) —The U.S. Coast Guard safely towed the disabled sloop Reville into port at Morehead City Tuesday after the 73-foot sloop reported losing part of its sail and running low on fuel.

Coast Guard officers said the eight adults and three children aboard the sloop were in good condition, except for some seasickness.

The boat, operated by Phillip Richards of Perkins Cove, Ogunquit, Maine, is owned by the Reville Corp. of Pennsauken, N. J. Richards and his passengers planned to make repairs and continue the trip.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog market steady to 25 higher, tops of 18.50-19.00 Rocky Mount 18.25-19.00, Wilson 17.50-19.00, Tarboro; 17.75-18.75, Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albemarle, Lumberton; 17.50-18.50, Bethel; Selma, Goldsboro; 18.00, Greensboro, Salisbury, Siler City, Denton.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady to one cent higher Tuesday. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 34¢ to 37½¢ medium, whites: 30½¢ to 32¢; small, whites: 26½¢ to 27¢.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained soft in active trading this afternoon.

News that the White House had accepted a site for preliminary Vietnam peace talks appeared to have little effect.

Brokers said American acceptance of a suggestion to hold such talks with North Vietnam representatives on an Indonesian naval vessel in the Gulf of Tonkin apparently had been discounted in advance.

At noon the Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.31 at 909.91.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .6 at 324.9 with industrials off 1.2, rails unchanged, and utilities off .1.

Polaroid was off ¼, but most price changes in actively traded issues were in fractions.

Gainers of less than a point included McDonnell-Douglas, Campbell Soup, Lionel Corp., Zapata Off-Shore, and Sunoco.

Among fractional losers were Commercial Credit, Great Western Financial, Occidental Petroleum, Litton Industries, and Brunswick.

Steels were up as a group with Bethlehem, Republic and U.S. Steel posting fractional gains. Jones & Laughlin was off ¼.

Among electronic stocks, Raytheon gained a point while Zenith was off 1.

Du Pont was off ¼; Control Data was up ¼; General Electric lost ½; and IBM gained ¼.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Only Persinger In Mayor's Race

AYDEN — Mayor Ross Persinger, who once said he would not seek reelection to the post he has held for two terms, wound up being the only candidate for that office in the May 6 city election here.

Earlier in the year, Persinger said he would not run for the office again. However, as the filing deadline neared, and no other candidate had come forth, the Du Pont employee tossed his hat into the political ring once more.

When the filing deadline arrived April 25, no other candidate had filed.

In addition to the mayor's race, two seats on the town board will be filled in Monday's municipal balloting.

J. D. Allen is running unopposed for a seat on the board from the second ward, while three candidates are seeking the seat from the fourth ward.

Opposing John Clark Noble, who was appointed to the fourth ward seat when Elton McLawhorn resigned, are J. J. Brown and Tillman Chauncey.

Obituary

Brooks

AYDEN — Mrs. Ruth Moyer Brooks of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly of Vanceboro, died Saturday at Jewish Hospital in Brooklyn.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2:00 p.m. at St. James Episcopal Church in Vanceboro with the pastor, Elder A. Matthews, officiating. Burial will follow in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Brooks was the daughter of Henry P. Moyer and the late Mrs. Bertha Jenkins Moyer. She was born in Pitt County but spent most of her life in Vanceboro. She had made her home in Brooklyn for a number of years.

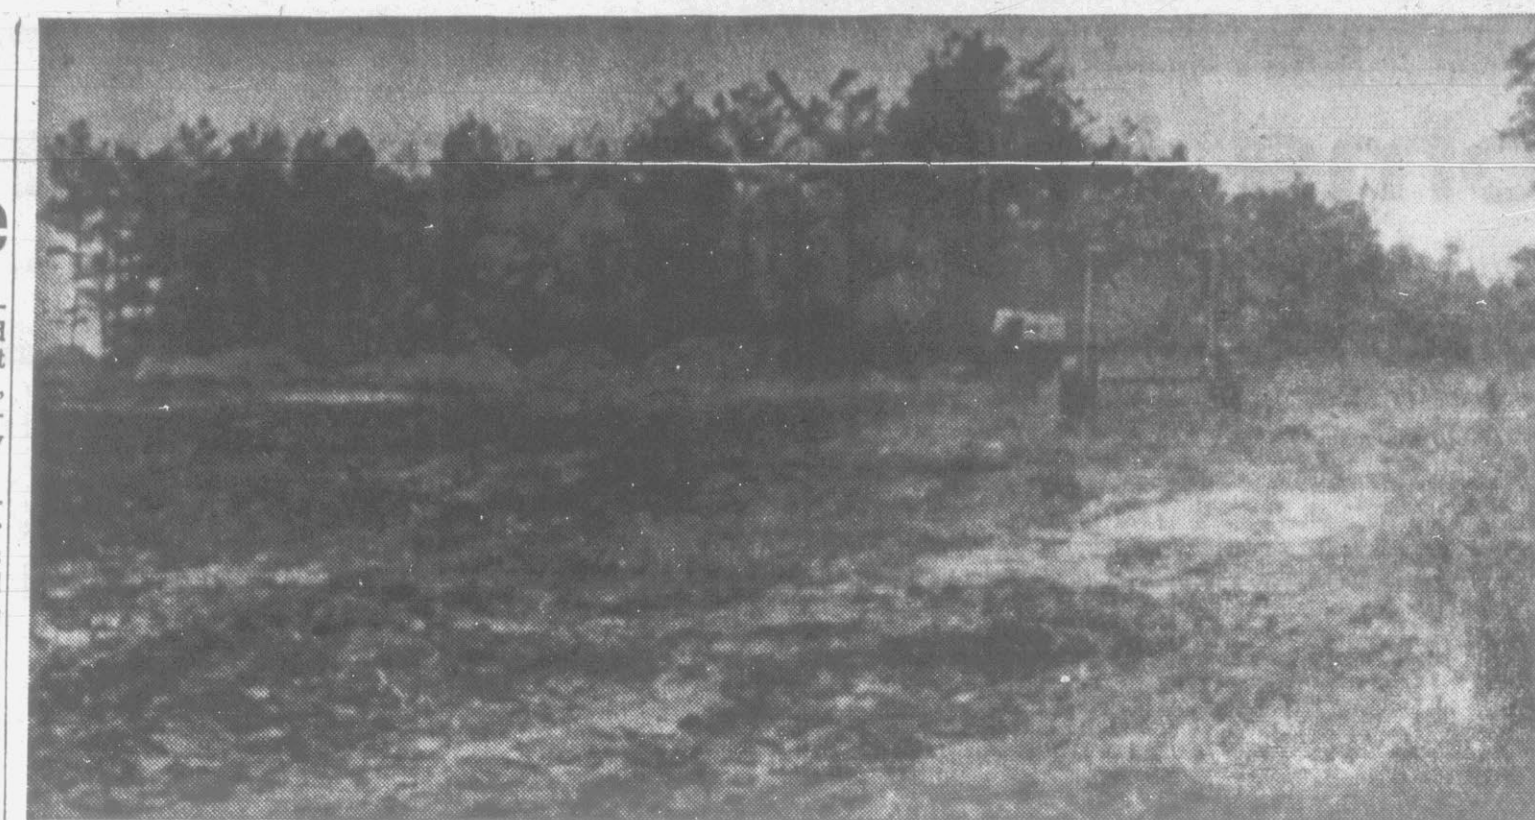

Surviving in addition to her father are one daughter, Mrs. Hattie Mae Gaskins; one son, Curtis Ray Brooks of Brooklyn; two brothers, Henry H. Moyer Jr. of Chesapeake, Va., and Godfrey Moyer of Brooklyn; six sisters, Mrs. Willie Ann Wilkes of Greenville, Mrs. Edith Williams, Mrs. Adell Tabourn, Mrs. Erma Barfield and Mrs. Fernel Lovitt, all of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Sarah Lee Price of Hampton, Va.; five aunts and two uncles.

Healing Service Thursday Night

The monthly healing service held at St. Paul's Church will be conducted Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

The Rector, Rev. John W. Drake Jr., will offer a meditation on healing.

Originally, buccaners were Dutch, French and English freebooters who preyed around the West Indies in the 17th century.

NEW WASTE TREATMENT FACILITY... Construction on an industrial waste treatment lagoon for Ayden is now under way. Construction of the $73,200 industrial waste treatment unit began last month and work on the project is expected to be completed by the middle of July. The treatment facility is part of a $99,349.40 project that includes installation of sewer lines from the Lutz and Schram pickle plant to the new treatment facility. The new treatment plant is located adjacent to the town's domestic waste treatment plant constructed about 10 years ago. (Reflector Photo by Blanche Hardee)

Columbia U. Still Closed; Talks Sought

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia remained a university without classes today as the administration of the strife-torn Ivy League school called upon faculty and students to meet for discussions of the campus crisis.

The administration acted in keeping with a resolution by a group of 500 senior faculty members asking for "a day of reason and reflection." The university said the school would be open but there would be no regular classes.

About 125 members of an ad hoc faculty group voted Tuesday to "respect" a student strike. There were indications, however, that the faculty of about 4,000 was substantially split over whether to back the strike. The senior faculty meeting did not endorse the strike.

A student strike was announced by J. Michael Nichols, executive vice president of the undergraduate Student Council, a few hours after 1,000 city policemen moved onto the campus during the night Tuesday and stormed five university buildings that had been occupied and barricaded by students.

Charge Neglect In Four Deaths

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N. C. (AP)—The mother of four children who died when fire destroyed their four-room frame home Monday night has been charged with neglect.

Halifax County Sheriff Reuben Daniels identified the children of Mrs. India Squires, 44, as Patricia Ann, 5, Joyce Ann, 7, Lee, 12, and Junious, 15, a bed-ridden invalid.

Dr. W.A. Abrams To Speak At Session Here May 7

Dr. W. Amos Abrams will be the after-dinner speaker Tuesday, May 7, 7 p.m., when the North Carolina Education Association, the North Carolina Teachers Association, and the Association of Childhood Education meet at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Dr. Abrams, a native of Pinetops, received his A. B. and M. A. degree from Duke University and his Ph. D. degree from Cornell University.

For three years he served as the chairman of the English Department at Glen Alpine, for 10 years he served as chairman of the English Department at Appalachian State Teachers College, and for 20 years he has served as Editor of the North Carolina Education Association publications, the North Carolina Bulletin. He is also the NCEA Assistant Executive Secretary.

Dr. Abrams' other activities include being a Shakespeare lecturer, lecturer on folk songs, and a lecturer on old-time musical instruments.

Dr. Abrams is a Mason, for Lions International, member of Phi Beta Kappa, and Phi Delta Kappa.

Hudson is one of five candidates seeking election to the governing body.

Three seats will be filled in the May 6 city election. In addition to Hudson, other candidates in the race include: incumbent George Saleeby, Charles Craft, Edward B. Bright and Eugene Clayborne.

One prospective candidate, John Cox, who filed earlier for the election will not appear on the ballot because he failed to meet residence requirements.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures through Monday will average below normal with highs from 67 to 74 and low 50s on the coast. Mild, followed by cooler weather over the weekend. Precipitation of one-half to three-quarter inches during the weekend.

Interested personnel may inquire about any officer program in the Army and be found fully qualified for acceptance without obligation to enlist.

Lawmen Ruin Bootleg Still

Law officers yesterday raided a still site near Quinerly's Cross Roads and blew up a 100-gallon illegal distillery found there.

Pitt and Craven county ABC officers, along with Federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit agents used 17 sticks of dynamite to destroy the illegal unit.

Officers said the still included a 100 2 gallon boiler, four 55-gallon mash barrels, five 50-gallon mash boxes, four 100 pound gas cylinders, two gas burners and a radiator condenser.

Fifty gallons of freshly run-off whiskey were also found at the site.

The unit was in operation at the time it was hit, but officers said no arrests were made. The still operators fled before lawmen arrived at the still site.

The illegal unit was located about three miles southeast of Quinerly's Cross Roads, near the Craven County Line.

The raid was conducted about 4 p.m.

Re-Election Bid By J.F. Hudson

GRIFTON—James F. Hudson, incumbent member of the town board, has filed for re-election to that office.

Hudson is one of five candidates seeking election to the governing body.

Three seats will be filled in the May 6 city election. In addition to Hudson, other candidates in the race include: incumbent George Saleeby, Charles Craft, Edward B. Bright and Eugene Clayborne.

ticket takers and as slave mountains of paper work on they could be spending time and energies on our children's education."

The job as State Superintendent of Public Instruction, according to Stone should be an active one and should "serve our children."

Specifically, he said, the job is to search out the real needs of the public school, to define those areas where we are failing the student, to offer a plan for improvement, and then to lead the fight for improvement.

Stone is a Franklin County native and is married to the former Rachel Hall a classroom teacher at the Aberdeen Elementary School.

He attended Louisburg College, Wake Forest University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he received his masters degree and doctorate. He has also done post-graduate work at North Carolina State University.

The World War II Navy veteran has been an elementary and high school teacher, has taught at the high school and junior high school level, has experience as an elementary and junior high school principal, assistant superintendent of schools in Wilson, and has been an instructor at Atlantic Christian College and a visiting professor and fellow at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

He has also been assistant director of the curriculum study group for the State Board of Education.

He has been president of the Sandhills Community College since 1964.

He is an active churchman and is past chairman of the Board of Trustees for the North Carolina Baptist Children's Home.

Following his visit here, Stone flew to Washington and Elizabeth City.
