

Washington Fire Could Be Costly

WASHINGTON, N.C. BLAZE — Firemen are shown fighting a fire which destroyed a shoe store and a fabric shop on Main Street in Washington, N.C. last night. The fire fighters kept the blaze from spreading to an entire block. Complete estimates were not available but the stock in the shoe store alone was valued at about $15,000. Cause of the blaze was unknown.

Costing Bell System Over $2 Billion

Tentative Agreement For Nationwide Phone Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tentative contract agreement providing an increase of 6.5 per cent a year in wages and fringe benefits was announced today in the nationwide strike of some 200,000 telephone workers.

The three-year contract, a pattern for all 600,000 Bell Telephone System Workers, totals 19.58 per cent in higher wages and other benefits over the life of the contract.

It will cost the Bell System more than $2 billion, said President Joseph A. Beirne of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America.

Beirne said the strike, the first nationwide telephone walk-out in 21 years, could end early next week after ratification by the strikers.

In wages alone, the agreement will give the highest-paid telephone installers $34 more per week by the third year of the contract.

Installers now average $130.80 for a 40-hour week. The top scale rate for installers was not immediately available.

For highest paid plant craftsmen who now make $167.50 a week, the wage increase will be $24 weekly in the third year of the contract.

The three-year increases for telephone operators who now make $102 per week will total $16 a week.

The contract agreement also includes improved vacations, holidays and holiday pay, overtime pay, pensions, wage progression, medical and life insurance, Beirne said.

Beirne said the contract also disposes of local issues which for a time had threatened to prolong the 15-day old strike indefinitely.

The agreement was reached in marathon bargaining sessions in 17 cities lasting some 24 hours.

Ratification votes by the strikers in most areas are to be completed within 72 hours, Beirne said.

N.C. Population Up To About 5,023,613

RALEIGH (AP)—Cumberland County with its sprawling Ft. Bragg military reservation was the fastest growing county in North Carolina during a seven-year period ending last July.

North Carolina's total population reached an estimated 5,023,613 during the seven years. The state's population in 1960 was 4,556,155.

The Budget Division of the State Department of Administration at the Carolina Population Center at Chapel Hill reported Wednesday that the figures showed North Carolina's population gained 10.3 per cent during the period. This was the same as the national increase.

Cumberland's population zoomed up by 47 per cent from 148,418 in 1960 to 218,248 in 1967. Wake County registered a gain of 23.2 per cent from 168,082 to 208,286, and Mecklenburg County, the state's largest, increased by 19.9 per cent from 272,111 to 326,325.

Population figures for several other counties included: Alamance 92,735, a gain of 8.2 per cent; Buncombe 144,978, gain of 11.5 per cent; Durham 123,148, gain of 10 per cent; Gaston 142,504, gain of 12.1 per cent; Guilford 278,017, gain of 12.8 per cent; Forsyth 208,132, gain of 9.9 per cent; New Hanover, 78,117, gain of 8.9 per cent.

Beaufort 38,637, gain of 7.3 per cent; Cabarrus 73,767, gain of 8.3 per cent; Caldwell 56,068, gain of 13.1 per cent; Catawba 84,318, gain of 15.2 per cent; Cleveland 72,420, gain of 9.6 per cent; Nash 63,836, gain of 4.6 per cent; Pitt 73,414, gain of 5 per cent; Robeson 91,772, 3 per cent; Vance 34,104, gain of 6.6 per cent; Wayne 91,824, gain of 11.9 per cent and Wilson 60,304, gain of 4.5 per cent.

The report showed 17 counties lost population during the period because out-migration exceeded natural increase.

The population estimates are used in determining budgetary needs of state agencies and for economic and social planning.

The 17 counties which showed a population loss include: Anson, Bertie, Bladen, Camden, Clay, Duplin, Franklin, Greene, Macon, Madison, Mitchell, Northampton, Pamlico, Pender, Tyrrell, Warren and Yancey.

1,139 Of Enemy Killed; Big Haul Of Prisoners

Heavy Fighting Continues In Areas Near Hue And Dong Ha

SAIGON (AP) — The Vietnam's war's heaviest sustained fighting since the Communist command's Tet offensive in February raged through a fourth day today in the north-east corner of South Vietnam. Allied forces reported 1,139 enemy killed in continuing battles near Hue and Dong Ha.

In savage fighting two miles northeast of Dong Ha, a North Vietnamese counterattack today repulsed Leathernecks assaulting an enemy bunker complex.

U.S. headquarters said the North Vietnamese hit the advancing Marine column with heavy artillery and mortar fire.

"The enemy launched a strong counterattack causing the friendly units to lose ground," headquarters said. At last report, more air strikes were being called in on the enemy positions.

Dong Ha is headquarters of the 3rd Marine Division and anchors the allied outposts along the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone that separates the two Vietnams.

Marines from the 3rd and 4th regiments have been locked in bitter bunker-to-bunker fighting since Tuesday with North Vietnamese troops menacing Dong Ha.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported that in the fighting around Dong Ha and Hue since Monday, 93 of their men were killed and 449 wounded.

If the casualty figures are accurate, they indicate allied forces are killing 12 enemy soldiers for every American and South Vietnamese killed in the recent heavy fighting.

U.S. commanders in the northern sector also reported that the 15,000-man allied force sweeping the A Shau Valley southwest of Hue had cut one of the enemy's main supply and infiltration routes from North Vietnam. But "there are still a lot of nooks and crannies we have not looked into," said Marine Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman, commander of U.S. forces in the northern provinces.

In the fighting outside Hue, the enemy dead included a North Vietnamese battalion commander, a battalion executive officer and three company commanders. U.S. paratroopers also reported the surrender of 97 North Vietnamese troops, including five women nurses.

It was believed to be the war's biggest bag of prisoners. The captives said their battalion was to become the occupation force for Hue after another enemy offensive they said was planned. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong captured most of Hue in February and held it for weeks.

Hard fighting and artillery duels continued again today on both sides of Dong Ha, headquarters of the U.S. 3rd Marine Division 11 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

The biggest battle was going on two miles northeast of Dong Ha, where the Marines have been locked in combat with North Vietnamese troops Tuesday.

North Vietnamese gunners opened up with artillery barrages on a unit of the 4th Marine Regiment sweeping the area. Later, the enemy tried an unsuccessful counter-attack on a village captured by the Leathernecks two days ago.

A Marine helicopter supporting the Marines was shot down in flames by enemy small arms fire. One man was burned to death and two others were wounded.

South of Hue, enemy gunners fired more than 100 mortar rounds into the Phu Bai military complex, headquarters of the U.S. command center directing tactical operations from Hue to the demilitarized zone. U.S. spokesmen said casualties were light.

Hanoi Rejects Site Proposal By Indonesians

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A spokesman for the North Vietnamese Embassy in Vientiane today rejected the proposal to hold preliminary peace talks with the United States aboard an Indonesian cruiser in the Gulf of Tonkin. The United States had accepted the proposal, but North Vietnamese rejection was expected in Washington.

Terminating the ship board talks "unacceptable" to the Hanoi government the North Vietnamese spokesman said the proposal "does not meet a single one of President Johnson's own conditions for preliminary contacts."

"It shows that the four conditions set by Johnson are merely a pretext for avoiding preliminary contacts," he asserted. "The United States is looking for one pretext after another because it wants to continue the war."

Recalling Johnson's demand for a neutral site for the talks, the spokesman said "Indonesia is not neutral," an indication that Hanoi considers the Jakarta government pro-Western since President Sukarno's ouster.

"Furthermore, contacts held on a ship would exclude representatives of other countries and of the press and would not permit what President Johnson called 'adequate communications'—conditions set by Johnson himself," the spokesman added.

He said Hanoi still insists the talks be held either in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland, both of which the U.S. government has rejected.

In Washington, a number of U.S. senators were urging the Johnson administration to accept Warsaw.

Israel Marks 20 Years Of Nationhood

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel celebrated 20 years of nationhood today with a parade of its military hardware—bought from the West and captured from the Arabs—that enraged the Arab world. It ran straight through the captured Arab section of Jerusalem.

Protest demonstrations were under way in several Arab capitals. In Lebanon, some 10,000 persons demonstrated against Israel's defiance of a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for cancellation of the parade because it would hurt chances for a Middle East peace.

The parade route skirted the old walled city, starting in a newer Arab quarter and passing into a Jewish sector.

Moving with clock-like precision, every unit of the Israeli land, sea and air force quick-stepped along the route.

Huge clouds of dust covered the area near the main reviewing stand at the start of the parade when tanks and armored vehicles clanged by.

Much of the materiel consisted of Soviet-made armor, artillery and missile-bearing equipment captured from the Arabs. There were also a number of American built 155mm artillery pieces.

The 75-minute-long parade concluded exactly on schedule, and apparently without a hitch.

Arabs who had shuttered their apartments at first, later opened their windows and crowded on to balconies in the newer section to watch the marchers and aerial show.

Braving sweltering heat, thousands of joyous Israelis and foreign visitors lined every foot of the five-mile parade route through the once-divided city.

Asteroid Icarus Heads Earthward

By FRANK CAREY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The maverick asteroid Icarus, a pip-squeak planet about a half-mile in diameter, starts hurtling earthward today at 20,000 miles per hour.

Navy astronomers say it will come within four million miles of earth on June 14, its closest approach since its discovery in 1949. It won't be visible to the naked eye.

The Navy assured there is "no danger of a collision" with earth.

There have been similar reassuring words in recent years from the high echelons of astronomy—all aimed at countering reports that rocky Icarus just might be on a collision course with the earth. Such a catastrophe would be equivalent to dropping 100 hydrogen bombs at one time.

But one American astronomer, Dr. Robert S. Richardson, while conceding there's no apparent chance of a collision during Icarus' upcoming visit, has said this might not always hold true as the asteroid keeps returning every 19 years.

Richardson, of Altadena, Calif., has theorized Icarus might eventually be pulled off course by the combined gravity influences of the planets Earth and Mercury, with which it also has relatively close brushes.

He has suggested a possible defense if danger ever appears imminent — blasting Icarus out of the heavens with a nuclear-armed space vehicle.

It has been known since at least 1957 that Icarus was due to make a close approach to the earth June 14 or 15 of this year.

This forecast has been based on a computation of its strongly elliptical orbit around the sun—ranging from 18 million miles at its closest point to the sun, and 183 million at its farthest. Icarus wheels around the sun once every 409 days.

Icarus is named for the adventurous youth of Greek mythology who flew too close to the sun on wings of wax and feathers, then fell into the sea when the wax melted.

It is one of more than 1,500 known asteroids wheeling around the solar system.

Dr. William Friday Addresses Local Club

Dr. William C. Friday, president of the Greater University of North Carolina outlined for the Greenville Kiwanis Club last night the accomplishments and future plans for the Greater University.

According to Dr. Friday, the general administration of the Greater University encompasses the Chapel Hill Campus, the campus of North Carolina State University in Raleigh and the campuses at Charlotte and Greensboro. The total on-campus enrollment of the schools to-talks about 25,000 students. Dr. Friday said that plans do not include a super university as far as size is concerned. However, he outlined plans for a super university as far as the quality of the instruction available on the four campuses is concerned.

The university administration also discussed the Greater University's roll in the Southeast, the Nation and in the world. The educator is a Raphine, Virginia native and spent his (Continued On Page 8)

Two City School Personnel Are Taking New Positions

C. C. Rowe, principal of Agnes Fullilove School, has been named assistant Dean of Men at East Carolina University.

Rowe succeeds Robert P. Miller as assistant to Dean of Men James B. Mallory and will work with Dean Mallory in various programs of self-government and self-discipline among the university's men students.

Dr. C. C. Cleetwood, Greenville city schools superintendent, said the school system is "reluctant to lose Rowe." The school official said Rowe has done an outstanding job and is the type of young man that public education can all-afford to lose.

Dean Mallory said ECU is fortunate to have Rowe join the staff there.

Dr. Cleetwood said another city school employee, Jesse Ray Robinson, has resigned to accept employment as an English and reading instructor at Saint Augustine's College in Raleigh.

Robinson has been director of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act Title I projects in the city system. Prior to becoming affiliated with the ESEA program, Robinson taught English at C. M. Epps High School. According to Dr. Cleetwood, Robinson will continue working (Continued On Page 8)

Told Chihuahua To Attack Him

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — County patrolman Richard Roush was checking a call that a woman wearing only a green negligee was walking a dog around Park Circle Wednesday.

When he approached her, the patrolman said she ordered the dog, a spirited chihuahua, to attack him. The dog inflicted a painful nip on Roush's hand and while he assessed the damage, the woman and her pet ran off.

Roush and another patrolman finally apprehended the 45-year-old woman about three blocks away. She was charged with disorderly conduct.

Tell Them To Decide How To Address Grandmother

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago my mother passed away. She and my father had been married nearly 50 years, and seemingly had a good life together.

To me, it seemed disrespectful to my mother's memory but ONE WEEK after my mother's burial my father (a minister) began seeing other women. Less than three months later he remarried. This marriage lasted four months; they got a quick divorce, and within 30 days my father remarried again!

Now my father insists that his grandchildren call his new wife "Grandma." My children all remember their real grandmother and it doesn't seem natural to them. (Nor to me.) Should I insist they call this woman "Grandma" just because their grandfather demands it? Or am I within my rights to tell them they don't have to? So far they call her "Mrs."

DAUGHTER DEAR DAUGHTER: Tell the children to call the lady whatever comes naturally.

DEAR ABBY: All went fine with my marriage, until my loving spouse got so heavy from Manhattans, beer, pizza, candy, etc., that the bed sagged on her side. Although the sagging caused me to roll down near her, I must confess this nearness created no romantic interest whatsoever. My partner angrily declared me "impotent," and took to her own bed in another room.

I was determined to prove to myself that I was not impotent. The details are only incidental, but let us just say that it didn't take me very long to prove it. My question: discovery with my wife?

DEAR SWINGER: Go ahead. She'll never believe you.

DEAR ABBY: I am an average 19-year-old college student (male) living on campus in a college town. My home is 200 miles away. My mother has an old friend living near campus, so she wrote and asked this friend of hers to look me up. What for, I'll never know because I'm not lonesome and this woman is a 65-year-old widow, and we don't have one thing in common.

Well, this old lady invited me to her house for Sunday supper, so I went. She was very nice to me. Too nice. There were just the two of us there and she made me feel very uncomfortable. She kept wanting to hug me and touch me, and she made all sorts of remarks about how she "had a crush" on me.

A few days later she called me up and invited me over for dinner again. I told her I had to study. (I did.) Then she sent me a silly "I could go for you" card with a $10 bill inside. Today I got a box of cookies with a note, "Honey, when am I going to see you again?"

Abby, she keeps calling me, and I tell my roommate to tell her I'm at the library. I want to see this old lady again like I want to go to Viet Nam. I hate to insult her, but I sure don't want to see her again. How should I handle this?

SOPHOMORE DEAR SOPHOMORE: First, return her money with a "thank-you" note, and thank her for the cookies, but ask her not to send any more.

Then continue to be "out" when she calls. In time she will be sufficiently discouraged to forget you.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Stress On Industrial Development

A more active interest by the Greenville Chamber of Commerce in industrial development of this immediate area should be welcomed by all citizens. Like other Chambers of Commerce, Greenville's has been interested in the economic development of its community and environs. It has been active in this field in past years. This year, however, the local Chamber of Commerce has chosen to place special emphasis on attracting new industries to the Greenville area. It is doing so in connection with a broader goal of seeking to improve the economic level of the community and its people.

In connection with its rejuvenated industrial location effort, the local Chamber of Commerce committee has set about to find and option suitable industrial sites in the area around the city. So far the committee has succeeded in obtaining options on several such sites which were not previously available for industrial prospects. It is also intensifying its work with representatives of industries that are seeking new plant locations in North Carolina.

It is with pleasure that we note this intensification of the Greenville Chamber's industrial development effort. This effort strengthens the overall industrial development program being carried on in Pitt County through the county's Development Commission and through individual community programs. The revitalization of Greenville's industrial development effort complements rather than competes with similar efforts in other agencies in Pitt.

With the degree of economic progress Pitt has now achieved through agriculture, through its arrival as an education center and through its other diverse business activities, Pitt should now be on the threshold of a new spurt of industrial development.

It needs additional industrial jobs now to further strengthen and balance its economic situation. It must have additional industrial jobs to fill the needs of the county's citizens who are presently under-employed. It needs the additional jobs to provide in the next few years employment for those who will be forced off farms because of increasing mechanization of agriculture.

If Pitt is to achieve the economic aspirations of its people and a respectable level of per capita income, it will require the greatest possible effort from all groups and agencies concerned with the broad economic development of this county.

Factors Affect Any Prediction

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH. — Many indeterminate, somewhat intangible factors—unknown quantities—are involved in the risky business of trying to predict the outcome of North Carolina's primary elections this weekend.

In algebra, the unknowns are X's. Equations are set up to solve for X. In state politics, the big "X" now is the exercise of free choice by each individual voter—perhaps a million individuals—in the privacy of the voting booth on May 4.

What goes into the primary election equation? Certainly no one can predict or say what the outcome will be on the basis of lapel buttons, bumper stickers, cards and placards, attendance at political rallies, the number of plates of free barbecue served, nor entirely on the degree of enthusiasm and optimism whipped up by the campaigners and their supporters.

At times, the so-called preference polls disagree and contradict themselves.

But all of this is involved in modern political campaigning. And quite extensively, depending upon the contest and the political office being sought.

Observers wonder in the final days of a campaign whether it is only window dressing, decoration and outward trapping.

The time arrives — and has now arrived — that more basic points are considered. Primarily, these are the judging and weighing of the candidates themselves, the sum total of their positions, statements, background and experience and their present appeal to the voters.

Even the Weather

Other factors which begin to loom larger in importance and significance include the size of the vote, the vote, the number of candidates and contests and how these may overlap and affect one another—the way the voting will be conducted, the length of lines at the polling places—even the weather on election day.

Large Turnout Expected
A large turnout of voters is expected for the primaries and this, together with the long ballot, could mean long lines and impatient waiting. It is unusual for North Carolina to have two primaries—Democrat and Republican—conducted on the same day. This should increase the voter turnout and also may result in some confusion at the polling places.

In addition, the fact of new registration in many counties during recent weeks may bring further confusion and in some cases disappointment and upset. Very likely, there are many people who have voted regularly for years who failed to re-register during the prescribed period and will find their names are not on the poll books. They will be unable to vote.

Still others perhaps will be confused by primary election rules. There can be no crossing of party lines. Democrats must vote only for Democratic candidates and Republicans only for Republican candidates.

Unusual Factors
The above-mentioned mostly are mechanical things which may be encountered across the state this weekend. There are other unusual factors and circumstances which add to uncertainty about the outcome when the votes are counted.

One of these is the effect of a Negro candidate for governor in the Democratic primary and the possibility of Negro bloc voting. Most observers feel this will occur to a fairly significant degree—with the Negro candidate receiving at least 100,000 votes, possibly more.

This would, if the experts are correct, result in a rather close contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. Most observers now expect that a second run-off primary in June will be necessary.

Responsibility Goes With Individual Right

Yesterday, as Law Day, U. S. A. passed almost unnoticed in some communities, including this one. But it is a day which should have special significance to every American, particularly in this year when law and order have been threatened in so many places.

Most Americans take for granted their equal protection under the laws of this land. They fail to recognize that in many nations of the world individuals do not enjoy protection as such under laws. Even in this nation there are times when the rights of individuals under the laws are threatened and even denied by other citizens seeking to take the law into their own hands.

A threat to law and order in any community, no matter how small is a threat to law and order in the entire nation. A denial of the rights of an individual under the laws is a threat to the freedom of every other individual in the democracy.

Equal protection under the law carries with it equal responsibility upon the individual citizen to uphold the law. There is no individual right which does not carry with it a corresponding individual responsibility.

Bring Lawyers Into Draft Law?

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) —The Selective Service System has withstood a proposed major overhaul, but now a team of senators favors a change to permit men challenging their draft status representation by an attorney.

Nine senators, led by Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., are sponsoring a bill that would guarantee potential draftees the right to be represented by counsel in any proceeding before a Selective Service board.

Legal representation currently is ruled out. One argument for this: The draft system contends it would not be fair to the poor, who could not afford attorneys.

Long's Judiciary subcommittee on administrative practice and procedure sees—in the Office of Economic Opportunity—a way around that objection.

Earl Johnson, who heads the poverty agency's division of legal aid, is among witnesses slated to appear at a May 16 hearing on the draft-counsel measure.

Johnson said in an interview his agency would attempt to provide counsel to youths facing the draft who could not afford it other wise, should the bill be enacted.

But Johnson said he has no idea what the possible caseload might be if the bill were enacted. "We don't have unlimited resources," he said.

"If the load became too great we wouldn't be able to handle them all."

Publicly, Selective Service is taking no formal position on the matter. But privately, officials there said it could create chaos for the draft boards.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, the Selective Service director, is to testify on the measure and the bill's advocates expect him to oppose it.

A form letter currently is sent to lawyers or draftees who ask why they can't have counsel before draft boards. The letter notes that draft board members are generally without legal training.

"Our efforts through the years," it continues, "have been aimed at keeping the procedures so simple that it would not be necessary to have legal counsel at any hearing before the local board."

"We have always been of the opinion that it would be unfair to the many who cannot afford to hire attorneys if the sons of other families were permitted to have their cases presented by legal counsel."

However, the form letter adds, a government appeals agent is attached to each draft board, assigned to be "equally diligent" in protecting the rights of the government and the potential draftee. Sponsors of the bill question whether this kind of dual service is really possible.

IT'S SO CHANGEABLE IN THE SPRING!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Our Elections By Ordeal

There is bound to be a better way of nominating and electing a President of the greatest country in the world.

That comment has nothing to do with the dangerous and haphazard procedures of the electoral college. It is directed toward the lunatic tradition which demands that candidates for high office undergo a trial by physical ordeal. You would think, honest to Pete, that we were electing a coach for the Green Bay Packers. The question is not what does the man, think, or what does he say, but how much can he take?

On one bitterly cold morning last week, three presumably intelligent and rational men climbed out their beds in Indiana. The senior Senator from Minnesota, Eugene McCarthy, was in Muncie. The junior Senator from New York, Robert Kennedy, was in Indianapolis. So, too, was the Governor of the State, Roger Branigan. The temperature that morning ranged from 31 to 38 degrees. A sawtooth wind cut savagely across the frozen fields.

The three gentlemen are competing for Indiana's 63 delegates to the National Democratic Convention. On such a day, each of them might reasonably have been expected to deliver a single responsible address, or to have passed the hours in staff work or quiet contemplation of problems and solutions.

Not so. The crack of dawn found Senator McCarthy heading for Whitlow Community Center, where he talked to precisely twelve persons. During the afternoon, he visited Kokomo, Peru, Wabash, Marion and Gas City. It was snowing at Peru. Most of his partisans were under the age of 15. At one point, his audience consisted of three farmers in a tool shed.

Governor Branigan was working the same terrain. He talked to 85 at Muncie, to 125 at Richmond, to 87 at Newcastle, and to another 325 at Muncie in the evening. The figures do not include the attendant press.

Senator Kennedy began his day by making a television tape with his wife and his mother. At 11 o'clock, he flew down to Bloomington. The first stop was a factory. He arrived coatless, in an open convertible. The thermometer stood at 38. The wind was making a haystack of his famous moptop. The public address system kept cutting on and off. He said nothing of significance.

Then to the University of Indiana, where he delivered a major policy address of Vietnam. This was fine. The hall was warm, the students attentive, the speech thoughtful. Under any rational rules of conduct, it would have been time to quit for the day.

Quit? Not a presidential candidate! Kennedy and his party clambered into a string of convertibles, and we were off to—off to where? To Bedford, Oolitic, Brownstown, Seymour and Scottsburg. At Oolitic, he received a presentation basketball. At Brownstown — what did we do at Brownstown? Froze; that's what we did at Brownstown.

At 7 o'clock in the evening with the temperature hovering at 35, our caravan approached New Albany. The (Continued On Page 5)

Other Editors Saying Pecuniary Politics

(Christian Science Monitor)

"In Italy even the Communist and Christian Democrat (Roman Catholic) schoolboys, if they are asked to distribute leaflets in the streets or scribble slogans on the walls, will refuse to do it unless they get paid." So writes the great Italian author, Ignazio Silone, in commenting upon the remarkable economic upgrading and general bourgeoisization of his homeland.

His little comment on the schoolboys also shows something else. It underlines the amazing turn towards practicality so widely evident everywhere. Persons may, within the limits of their boredom, listen to propaganda, but when it comes to committing their time or energies to a cause, they look for the practical payoff.

The remarkable ability of persons to make a separation between propaganda and their own hardheaded wishes was borne in on the writer of this editorial some 20 years ago when he was living in Italy. He was once present at a mammoth Communist outing on the outskirts of Rome. At that time, it was popular with Communist agitator-propagandists to denounce American efforts to help Europe as "Coca Colonization." This was a theme generously played on by the speakers that day. Yet the major soft-drink booth at the outing sold only this drink and, while the loudspeakers droned away in their condemnation of it as an American gustatory Trojan Horse, long lines of Italian Communists formed before it to buy a bottle.

There is something hearteningly healthy in today's trend towards hardheadedness. People are increasingly demanding that men and programs prove themselves by their words. If a method or a concept does not work efficiently, industry drops it without a moment's hesitation. If an ideology is at fault, persons and parties are far more willing to change it than was once the case. The spreading economic experimentation through Communist Eastern Europe is proof enough of this.

All this may seem a little far afield from the money-minded Italian schoolboys. But is it really? Are not such schoolboys merely saying, if you claim that your party is good enough to demand my support, you must first prove to me that it is good enough to attract the capital to pay me? This should be, and doubtless is, a warning to the politicians of what a tough, practical-minded generation they will have to deal with.

Cloud On The Business Horizon

By ELMER ROESSNER

There are ominous clouds on the business horizon. Among them:

American exports fell below imports in March, for the first time in five years.

Steel imports rose a million tons in the first quarter, being 3.4 million tons valued at $386 million.

The Steelworkers are likely to win a substantial wage rise, whether they settle before or strike after the Aug. 1 deadline.

Those three facts are related. And, acting on one another, they may have these consequences:

The time gained by the Stockholm two-price plan for gold may be shortened.

There may be a new attack on the dollar with devaluation again a possibility.

American steel makers may lose part of their American market and most of their foreign markets.

HOW EVENTS LINK

The balance of trade turned against the United States because of inflation. Inflation brought higher wages; organized labor has been forced to demand higher pay to meet the inflated cost of living. With higher wages, American export prices have been pushed up so high that American exports are at an increasing disadvantage of foreign goods. Similarly, the rise in American wages has enabled foreign manufacturers to undersell American manufacturers right in the U. S. itself. Steel is a dramatic example. Part of the unfavorable balance of trade was caused by the fact that foreign manufacturers, paying less than the high American wages, can undersell American producers.

U. S. itself.

Steel is a dramatic example. Part of the unfavorable balance of trade was caused by the fact that foreign manufacturers, paying less than the high American wages, can undersell American producers.

Foreign producers, studying the situation, boast that they can make their gains permanent.

The current rush to build inventories in expectation of a steel strike has brought them new customers.

WHILE SITUATION IS HOT by the inflating costs of living, and full expecting layoffs because of huge inventories built up by steel users, will strike at the drop of a billet and take as long as is necessary to gain substantial wage increases and other benefits.

When they gain these, steel companies will be forced to raise prices again. This will

Church Work Abroad

By MORT ROSENBLUM

KARAWA, the Congo (AP) — For many, a missionary is a lonely pauper in funny clothes with a grave look, spouting Bible verse while slapping mosquitoes and dodging spears.

No more... now mostly just the Bible and the mosquitoes are left. And the Bible is, increasingly, taking second place to a blackboard or a stethoscope.

There's Grace Nelson, for example. Hovering around middle age, she jounces around Karawa Mission Station on a motorbike, holding onto her nurse's cap with a free hand. The missionaries at Karawa eat food shipped from Denmark and the United States and one of their chief complaints is the peridy of the community's generator. The children, with their own school, say they'd prefer to stay put though they miss apples and peaches once in a while.

And there's Sam Vinton. He spends half the year in a luxurious villa in Bukavu which he figures he's earned after 40 years of building a school-dispensary - workshop complex in the bush. At 60, he still hasn't carried out his threat of retiring and anyway his son plans to take over the mission.

There are 1,450 Protestants and 5,800 Catholic missionaries in the Congo, doing everything from running a Catholic news service to seeking substitutes for fertilizer. They subsidize more than half of the Congo's teachers and make up one-eighth of the doctors.

Objective observers close to the mission say long years in a single post tend to bring out extremes, making a missionary either very effective or very damaging.

"What are needed now," says Bryon Ediger, whose mission hostel in Kinshasa fills 11,700 beds a year, "are more well trained young people to spend a few years at a specific job and leave. It's the perfect chance to teach by Christian example and do some good."

Ediger, 24, is a Mennonite conscientious objector from Buhler, Kan., here with his wife in lieu of military service.

Many old-timers, like Vinton, say the trick is finding missionaries who will work. "When we first came here," he recalls, "there were plenty ready to do the preaching. We needed people to work."

Missionaries serve for three years and go home, coming back if they want. Their houses, looking mostly mid-western ranch style, are comfortable and well staffed. Most stations have air strips.

Ann Berg of Oakland, Calif., in the Congo since 1945, runs the women's program.

"I try to get out as much as possible," she says, "always staying with village families. Once I had trouble sleeping because the rats kept walking over a wire that was strung inside as a clothesline and falling onto my mosquito netting. Every few minutes I had to wake up and kick them off."

Pornography Is $50 Million Per Year Denmark Business

By OLE DICH
Associated Press Writer
COPENHAGEN (AP) — Order up some pornography in Denmark and get trading stamps thrown in.

"Business is business," said one Danish publisher of pornographic material that leaves little to the imagination. "We give trading stamps to our mail order customers."

Pornography is now a $50 million-a-year business in Denmark and it is expected to zoom even higher in June when a law goes into effect easing what once were strict regulations on written pornography.

The porno-producers are aiming for expansion in the export market. Their products already are being printed in many languages.

The man who gives trading stamps has 15,000 mail order customers.

Ninety per cent of these customers are from Germany and 99 per cent of them all are male customers," he said.

He supplies customers with a catalogue from which they can choose a wide variety of magazines, photographs, 8mm movies in black and white or color, slides and books. He also turns out an international circular in which his customers can advertise their secret desires. Women advertise free and the average response is 400 letters per ad.

"If we can sell it, it must be because there is a market for it," said another porno-producer.

Profits in the business are handsome. A magazine that costs the equivalent of 13 cents to produce brings a return of 15 times that much.

Denmark's photographic pornography leaves little to the imagination and garishly outtrials the stuff peddled by back street vendors of former times.

Production is already in full swing. It is not difficult to hire "actors" who are paid about $100 for making a sex film.

"I don't mind the work," said one 19-year-old male model. "It is easy money—and the work is not boring."

"It all started with Eve," said a 21-year-old Copenhagen girl who has starred in several porno movies. "We are just a little more technical." Mornings, she studies languages at Copenhagen University.

"Very few of the girls are dumb," said an old hand at sex movie producing. "Most of them do it for money and a few just for kicks, or because they are exhibitionists."

The home market is slowing down. But private film clubs have appeared. One Copenhagen club carries on the facade a flashing title in neon lights: "Star Movie Club." In order to conform with the law governing private clubs, each show is called a membership meeting—there are up to five a day. Membership dues are the equivalent of $5—with a $2 fee per meeting. In return for this, the members solemnly are presented with such movies as "Unexpected Guests," "Teen-age Petting," and "Father and Daughter."

But patrons are not entirely pleased. Said one member after a late night show: "I'd like to have more plot in the films." Another echoed: "Boy, it gets repetitious." A third: "You've got to leave your imagination at home—you don't need it here."

Danish police keep raiding the producers, the distributors and the film clubs. The next day they reopen.

In spite of the fact that the foreign market appears to be a wide open field, Danes appear to be getting bored.

Said one producer: "I feel that we have reached the limit with the hard line. Pretty soon people will want to go back to the point where the seventh veil isn't dropped."

Belhaven Plans Third Festival

A full slate of activities is planned for May 3-5 by the Belhaven Memorial Museum for its Third Anniversary Festival. An Antique Show & Sale, an Art Show, the N.C. Mobile Museum of History, as well as the Belhaven Memorial Museum, will be open from 1-6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. The Art Show will feature a special exhibit by Bob Pittman of Greenville in addition to the many other exhibitors.

The festivities will begin with a Bridge Luncheon and Fashion Show on Friday, at the River Forest Manor beginning at noon. The Fashion Show will be repeated that evening at 8:00 p.m. with another Bridge Tournament.

For the young folks there will be Little Hobos Parade beginning at 3:00 p.m. on Saturday. A Roaring Twenties Sidewalk Dance from 8-12 on Saturday night in downtown Belhaven will provide entertainment for adults attending the festivities.

Many distinguished guests from Eastern North Carolina are expected for the week-end activities. A well rounded program is scheduled which will interest every member of the family.

The grand finale of all the events will be a Variety Show to be held on Wednesday, May 8 at the School Auditorium. The Museum Festival is another of many activities planned by the Belhaven Memorial Museum to uplift the social and cultural activities of Coastal Carolina and Historic Blackbeard Country.

Reds Apparently Brake Their Big Push In Laos

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Western diplomats in Vientiane say the Communists have put the brakes on their drive against the U.S.-backed Royal Laotian forces.

Casualties from Communist probes and mortar attacks now number in the twos and threes daily, instead of in the hundreds as they did during a big enemy push from Jan. 1 into April.

A Royal Army spokesman conjectured that the Communnists might be regrouping for a new offensive. But several Western diplomats believe that the restraint is due to pressure from the Soviet Union, which possibly is anxious to block any Communist military action that could erect new barriers to peace in Vietnam.

Western diplomats say the Communists do not seem likely to overrun the fertile Mekong River plain facing Thailand.

"They could come down to the Mekong any day they wanted to," one Western military source said. "The really significant thing is that they are not exploiting their obvious military advantage."

The 75,000 Royal Laotian troops, beset by squabbles and a lack of fighting spirit, have been a poor match for about 40,000 Pathet Lao and an equal number of North Vietnamese.

From mid-January to the end of March the government lost substantial ground in the north and northeast sectors. A division-strength government force fled in disarray on Jan. 15 from the Nam Bac Valley 60 miles north of Luang Prabang, the royal capital. The army reportedly lost 5,000 men in the battle and retreat.

The United States observes the 1962 Geneva agreement provision that no foreign troops be quartered in Laos, but U.S. bombers support Laotian troops by regular bombing missions against Communist forces. And the government army is supported by more than $10 million in U.S. aid each year.

The United States also operates radar stations in Laos, manning them with American civilians, to guide American bombers and reconnaissance planes to North Vietnam and to targets in Laos. Eight of the 12 American technicians at one station were killed March 11 when the North Vietnamese over-ran the post, which was in Sam Neua province 15 miles from the North Vietnamese border.

King Hussein In London Clinic

LONDON (AP) — King Hussein, 32-year-old ruler of Jordan, has entered a London clinic for treatment.

The king, who flew here on a hastily arranged trip Monday, entered the clinic Wednesday.

A source at Hussein's palace in Amman said he is completely exhausted. In addition to stomach trouble and chronic sinus trouble, he is suffering back pains as a result of an auto crash three years ago.

DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

Army Tries To Put Incidents On 'Plus Side'

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

Associated Press Writer
DONG TAM, Vietnam (AP) — In Vietnam you just don't see a couple of hundred husky men out in the middle of nowhere.

But there they were, little white-shirted peasant figures spread out across the dry paddies, all moving intently in the same direction, hastening their steps as the American helicopter swept low.

In his command helicopter, Col. Hank Emerson was exuberant. True, the motley band appeared unarmed but in the delta where Viet Cong arms are hidden in myriad bamboo stands that meant nothing.

"They damn well ought to be in somebody's army," snapped the 42-year-old Vietnam veteran from Milford, Pa., raising bedlam on the command radio channels as he yelled for troops and helicopters.

Gunships quickly flashed in, riding herd like sheepdogs and firing short bursts on the flanks of the men now scurrying for freelines. Sweating GIs began to drop ahead and behind, under orders not to shoot unless fired upon.

By midmorning 113 "detainees" were squatting in the dust outside the barbed wire of a 9th Division camp in the steaming delta.

The detainees gave mainly the same tale. They were fleeing from some kind of expected attack. The very cohesiveness of their replies raised hopes that perhaps the division had bagged a Viet Cong replacement company on the move—an unheard-of feat.

Disappointment was quick. Within 24 hours interrogation teams had identified seven of the men as Viet Cong soldiers and 29 as civilian offenders, men with improper papers or dodging the draft or fleeing civil charges. But the remaining 77 were classified as just ordinary civilians, and the chief of their district showed up to vouch for them.

A year ago the 77 men would simply have been turned loose to make their way home as best they could, doubtless embittered by their experience. Nowadays, the Army is more experienced in the complications of Vietnam's twisted war.

Before turning the men loose, Brig. Gen. William Knowlton, the soft-spoken assistant commander of the 9th Division, called in a special South Vietnamese psychological warfare team from nearby My Tho.

Knowlton, 47, of West Springfield, N.H., feels desperately the need to reach South Vietnam's impassive peasantry. That night the psy-war team of five soldier actors and two young girls put on a spirited show of songs and dances. Most popular was a skit in which the country bumpkin outwitted the city slicker Viet Cong for the hand of the maiden.

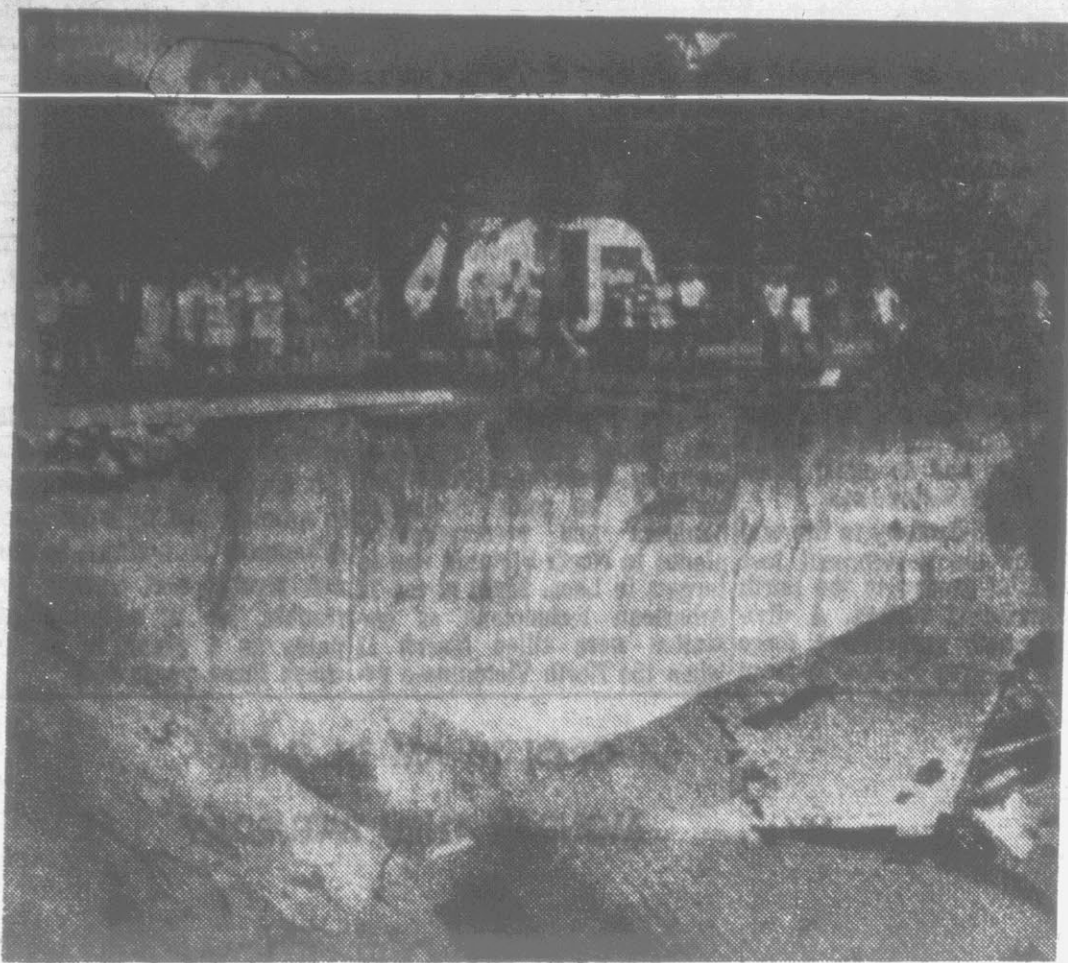

The show was ostensibly directed solely at the 77 civilians. It was held within sight, however, of the seven bonafide Viet Cong and the 29 assorted civil offenders.

The next day the 77 were placed on trucks and driven home each given a small package with a toothbrush and soap and a small sum of money.

And so within 48 hours the men were back home. Nobody was quite satisfied, but Knowlton felt that a plus had been gained instead of the minus that previously resulted from most such incidents—which are almost daily occurrences in Vietnam.

SINKHOLE GROWS — A gaping sinkhole, some 125 feet in diameter and 50 feet deep, gobbled up part of a $40,000 home in Winter Haven, Fla., Tuesday. Workmen were to resume an attempt to fill the cavity, still enlarging at a slow rate, with fill dirt. Some 200 truckloads were dumped into the hole but barely made a dent in the opening. Pitt County Is Certified Bovine Brucellosis-Free

A certificate declaring Pitt County free of Bovine Brucellosis was received by the county farm agents here yesterday.

The certificate was awarded by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture and represents the success of the combined efforts of state and federal veterinary service, the local agricultural extension department, and the County Board of Commissioners.

The award by the U. S. Department of Agriculture reads, "This is to certify that Pitt County has been declared a Certified Bovine Brucellosis Free Area by virtue of the fact that representative tests of all herds of cattle disclose that no brucellosis is known to exist in the area, and approved surveillance procedures being conducted under the cooperative State-Federal brucellosis eradication program."

"We're mighty proud of this certificate," said Farm Agent Sam Winchester. "We worked hard on this."

Winchester explained that the certificate would have far-reaching effects on cattlemen in the county.

Now cattle in the county can be transported across county and state lines without having to wait a week or sometimes a month for a special permit.

"A buyer from, say Virginia, can come down and buy a herd and take them right on back with him."

Winchester also pointed out the fact that with 6,000 brood cattle in the county, the absence of brucellosis is extremely helpful.

The type of brucellosis that attacks cattle cause spontaneous abortions and in some cases, permanent sterility. This means that a cattleman's entire breeding stock could be robbed of their reproductive ability.

If brucellosis is found in a herd of dairy cattle, the milk must be condemned.

In other parts of the country, brucellosis extracts a heavy economic toll.

Brucellosis is commonly called "bangs" after Bernard Bang of Denmark who discovered the type of brucellosis that affects cattle in 1897.

Smashed Car Had A Familiar Look

MONTCLAIR, Calif. (AP) — The smashed car being wheeled into the service station near his home looked familiar to Billy Gault.

Along with some buddies, the 11-year-old moved close to the wreckage and highway patrolmen nearby.

"What's your name, son?" asked patrolman Anthony La Argo.

"Billy Gault," replied Billy. "I think that's my father's car."

Minutes before, the car and a semitrailer truck collided on the freeway, killing Billy J. Gault, 34.

Parking Lot Has Two Prices

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The designer of a coin-operated downtown parking lot here apparently either believes in Barnum's comment about suckers or thinks motorists would rather pay 20 cents than drive one-half block.

The lot extends across half a city block from a fairly busy street to one that's not so busy. If a motorist uses the entrance on the busy street side, he pays 50 cents; if he drives half a block further and enters from the other street, the charge is 30 cents.

Supersonic Airliner Delays Bring A Complete Review By Its Builder

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analysts

NEW YORK (AP) — Design and construction problems that have delayed completion of the American supersonic airliner one year to the spring of 1972 are resulting now in a complete review of the program by the Boeing Co., the builder.

In an interview here, H.W. Withington, Boeing vice president and manager of its supersonic transport branch, said a slight change exists that even the basic design of the plane could be changed before the end of the year.

Included in the new design studies is a concept developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for an even thinner, needle-like,

"idealized" design that would have fixed rather than movable wings.

Withington added, however, that weight and jet engine noise problems were among the major considerations of the study and that considerations of a change in the over-all concept are mostly for insurance.

The Boeing studies began before last February, when the company requested and received a year's delay from the government in its contract to produce two prototype SSTs.

In February, he said, "we were about to cut metal. The drawings were about to be released to the shop. It was a critical point."

With perhaps billions of dollars resting on the decision, and with Russia, France and England already well ahead with their commercial supersonics, the Boeing team, which prides itself on being dominated by engineers, decided to seek the delay.

"There was a gap greater than it should be" between the design and the performance desired, Withington said. Influencing the decision was the fact that a study team already was on the verge of solving some of the design problems.

"It was far better to get corrections made before cutting the metal," Withington said. "Added costs now could mean savings later in the program."

Withington explained "the weight was going up and this comes out of the payloads the plane can carry." An attempt now is being made to lighten the craft without a loss in safety.

Engine noise also presented a frustrating problem. "We understand the theory of how to make noise reductions in jet engines," Withington said. "We can make the hardware. But the hardware burns up."

The main effort in noise reduction now will be to "break up the thrust without destroying its impact," to produce a high frequency noise that will be dissipated sooner than the typical, low frequency wave now emitted.

Noise has long plagued designers of the supersonics, particularly the sonic boom made as the plane exceeds the speed of sound. As a result, Boeing now claims it foresees use of the SST only on overwater routes.

This claim is disbelieved by some antisonic boom groups

Wants All But 2 Jailers Fired

Need Funds For School Lunches

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's school lunch program "is in trouble and unless it finds an increased source of income from the state or local level the entire program will fold."

Lee Searing, state supervisor of school food services, made the assessment Wednesday and said that many local school superintendents are now studying whether to increase school lunch prices or sell marked-up "junk" foods to offset a steadily worsening financial situation.

Searing said either of the steps would seriously jeopardize North Carolina's participation in the national school lunch program and local programs to help feed impoverished pupils. Searing said that some 800,000 of the state's 1.1 million school children now buy the type-A nutritionally-balanced lunch included in the national school lunch program. Other children buy their lunches "a la carte," some bring their lunches, some go off campus to eat and others go hungry.

Searing estimated that 50,000 to 60,000 children stopped eating in the lunchrooms last year because they couldn't afford a five-cent price increase. He said another increase — probably a nickel — will drive even more children out of the lunchroom.

It began in 1909 when the city put into effect a 9 p.m. curfew for young people that was ignored so long it was finally written off in 1950. But the whistle lingers on, and residents near the plant are complaining. A typical complaint was that

House Formula Plans Cut Spending With Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee has prescribed a formula to inject new life into President Johnson's $10 billion tax-hike bill—a spending cut proposal which the administration labeled good medicine.

Breaking a weeks-long deadlock, the committee proposed Wednesday that any tax hike be accompanied by a $4 billion cut in actual spending for the fiscal year beginning July 1 plus a $14 billion slash in spending already authorized or appropriated for future years.

The committee's action removed a big roadblock in the tax proposal's progress through Congress, where it has been since last August.

But Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, senior Republican on a House-Senate conference committee trying to work out a compromise, said the Senate will not pass a tax-spending package that doesn't contain a $6 billion spending cut from next year—a proposal already endorsed by the Senate but opposed by the administration.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, commenting on the Appropriations Committee's recommendations—including a $4 billion spending cut—said they "meet every reasonable demand for expenditure control."

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., said: "The real logjam has been broken here today. This opens the way for the conferees to go ahead."

Laird predicted an eventual compromise which would include a $5 billion spending cut.

The full House continued its budget-cutting drive, passing a bill to appropriate $5.523 billion for the Agriculture Department, $1.4 billion less than the President requested.

In other economy-related developments:

—The Treasury Department offered a 6 per cent rate—highest since 1920—to borrow new cash and refinance part of the federal debt. The rate will be offered to holders of $8 billion in Treasury securities which mature May 15 if they agree to exchange them for a seven-year note maturing in 1975.

The high interest reflects tightening credit and sharper competition among borrowers for available money.

The department also will offer the same rate in seeking to borrow $3 billion in new cash through a 15-month security.

—The Cabinet Committee on Price Stability said efforts to control inflation are endangered by spiraling wage hikes in the construction industry, where the average settlement has amounted to an eight per cent increase.

Administration officials also voiced disappointment in the over-all pattern of union wage pacts in the first three months, when pay increases averaged six per cent.

Course In Basic Seamanship Set

A course in basic seamanship, given by the Coast Guard Auxiliary in cooperation with Pitt Technical Institute, will be offered at Pitt Technical Institute beginning Monday night from 7:30 until 9:30. The class will meet eight Monday nights ending on June 24.

Those interested in the class, may attend the meeting Monday or may enter the class at the second meeting Monday, May 13.

Those completing the course may elect to take an examination, which if completed satisfactorily, would qualify one for membership in the Coast Guard Auxiliary. This is not a requirement but one may use this opportunity if they so desire. Certificates of completion will be provided.

Hit By Bottle: Worth $11,000

RALEIGH (AP)—A surfboard paddler who was conked in the head with a pop bottle by an irate fishing pier operator will collect $11,000 under a decision handed down by the North Carolina Supreme Court Wednesday.

The court said it could find no error in the trial of a damage suit brought by Larry Capune against John S. Robbins, who was then owner and operator of the Morehead City ocean pier. Capune was attempting to travel from Coney Island, N.Y., to Florida on an 18-foot surfboard in the summer of 1965.

He came to shore one day near Robbins' pier to exit Capune testified that Robbins ordered him to get the surfboard away from the pier because they weren't allowed in the area.

Capune said when he started under the center of the pier to avoid fishermen, Robbins began hurling bottles at him. One hit him in the head causing a cut that required 24 stitches at the Morehead City Hospital.

N.C. Primary Rivals Engaged In Little In-Fighting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In-fighting between the rivals in Saturday's North Carolina gubernatorial primaries has been kept to a minimum and some of the candidates already are seeking to mend fences.

Getting Diploma 37 Years Late

LOS LUNAS, N.M. (AP) — Mrs. Manuel R. Sanchez quit school 37 years ago when she was in the 12th grade because of illness.
This spring, she will earn her diploma after several years of night classes, and already has ordered a graduation ring, cap and gown.

The reason apparently is the political fact that wounds from the primary campaign might not heal in time for November's general election.

It will be up to the two nominees for governor to rally the support of all factions within their parties for the final test in the fall.
The theme of "party unity"

MOTHER DIES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Barbara Etta Hertel Ameche, 80, mother of actors Don and Jim Ameche, died Tuesday. Mrs. Ameche also had two other sons and four daughters. She was the grandmother of Alan Ameche, former Baltimore Colt fullback.

has been stressed in particular during this final week of the primary campaign by Republican Jim Gardner.

Gardner has pledged his support to Jack Stickley if Stickley wins the GOP gubernatorial nomination Saturday while still expressing confidence that he will defeat Stickley.

During campaign stops Wednesday, Gardner again refrained from attacking Stickley and supporters he sought to "clean out that group (of Democrats) in Raleigh." He pledged if elected to seek establishment of "an honest, no-politics system for employees of the state" and said "bidding for all state contracts will be open."

Stickley has kept up a running attack on Gardner through the campaign but also is looking beyond Saturday's primary. He says he has a statewide "Democrats for Stickley organization ready to spring into action."

The 65-year-old Charlotte businessman also has newspaper advertisements identifying him as the "non-political candidate."

Among the Democratic candidates, Lt. Gov. Bob Scott continues to press a campaign geared to the affirmative and with no mention of his rivals by name and seldom by inference.

While in Lexington Wednesday, Scott said he wanted it clearly understood that he would not be "tied down by commitments or obligations, spoken or implied to any individual or group."

"There were no chosen few to sit down in a room with me to decide who would run for governor," Scott said.

Mel Broughton, meanwhile, had lunch Wednesday with Charles A. Cannon, board chairman of Cannon Mills, Inc., during a tour of several Piedmont counties.

While in Charlotte, Broughton told newsmen he would support his party's nominee in November. When asked if he would support Dr. Reginald Hawkins if he were the nominee, Broughton said there was little chance the Negro candidate would get the nomination.

Hawkins promised Wednesday to file a protest with state officials if the vote is denied any Negro whose name is on the old registration books in any of the 36 counties in the process of switching to the state's uniform loose-leaf registration system.

His statement was prompted by the decision of the elections board to allow Brunswick County to use its old registration books in Saturday's primary. Brunswick is one of the 36 counties but the only one in which state officials have said the old books can be used.

In Raleigh, officials of both parties issued statements Wednesday. Republicans claimed sweeping registration gains in several counties while Democrats said the GOP's "Operation Switchover" was a failure.

The GOP statement said there were counties where Republican registration increased and Democratic registration declined while there were other counties where both parties suffered losses.

The Democratic statement said "Operation Switchover"—a project to get dissident Democrats to register as Republicans had turned out to be "Operation Flopover." Democrats said they made the assessment on the basis of responses from 62 counties involved in the GOP drive. Official registration figures will not be reported to the State Board of Elections in Raleigh until after the primary election Saturday.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
3♥ Pass 5♥ Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

The six-heart contract reached by North and South was a soundly-conceived enterprise. South's hand is worth 19 points counting high cards and distribution and is well worth a jump rebid to three hearts. North has an opening bid himself including a fit for partner and a slam try is clearly indicated. Since he has no ace to show, his invitation must take the form of a jump raise beyond game to five hearts; South has the necessary controls to proceed to slam.

West opened the king of clubs taken by declarer's ace. Trumps were drawn in two rounds and, since the fate of the hand appeared to hinge on the spade finesse, South hastened to lead the deuce of that suit from his hand. West followed with the four and the jack was played from dummy. East produced the queen of spades and a club return settled declarer's hash.

While we cannot criticize South for failing to drop a doubleton queen, we do feel that his spade finesse was a trifle premature. At the risk of losing an overtrick worth a mere 30 points, South can better protect his slam investment by conducting a preliminary investigation of his opponents' distribution.

It is suggested that he concede his club loser after the trumps are drawn. Suppose that West now shifts to a spade. The ace is played from dummy and a third round of clubs is led and ruffed. If the queen of clubs happens to fall on this trick, North's ten would become established and eliminate the need to take a spade finesse.

East shows out on the third club and South ruffs. Since West must hold on to his queen of clubs to protect against North's ten, declarer safely postpones his spade play until the very end. He cashes the two high diamonds and then runs down his remaining three trumps, on which West discards the six of clubs and two spades. The ten of clubs is thrown from dummy after West's last discard.

At trick 12, a spade is led and West follows with the ten. Since his remaining card is known to be the queen of clubs, declarer can put up dummy's king of spades with complete assurance of dropping the queen.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Hundreds of Negroes are starting the Poor People's March on Washington, envisioned by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as a means of dramatizing the plight of the poor of all races.

As a final preliminary before departure of a bus caravan to Marks, Miss. today, a marble stone bearing a cross and a star is being dedicated here in memory of the slain civil rights leader.

King's widow and the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, the man who succeeded King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, take part in dedication of the stone, to be placed on the second floor balcony of the Lorraine Motel where King was standing when killed by a sniper April 4.

Then Abernathy leads the first contingent of the Poor People's Campaign on a twisting two-mile route through some of Memphis' worst slums to buses chartered for the trip to Marks.

Both Mrs. King and Abernathy addressed a kickoff rally of about 8,000 Wednesday night and pleaded for a large turnout for both the dedication and the trip to Marks, the town termed by King as the nation's worst rural poverty area.

A brief outbreak of violence flared in Marks Wednesday when about 20 Mississippi highway patrolmen used rifle butts to break up a demonstration by Negro high school pupils outside the Quitman County jail.

Deputy Jack Harrison said about 350 students had started a sit-in to protest the arrest of Willie Bolden, an advance organizer for SCLC.

By the time the trouble had subsided, seven of the SCLC organizers were in jail.

The memorial stone, a 4-foot-by-44-inch slab of white marble weighing 250 pounds, is on a pedestal for the ceremony.

Below a star and cross were King's name, birth date, date of death and his title in SCLC. Then was engraved this inscription from the 37th chapter of Genesis:

"They said one to another, behold, here cometh the dreamer. 'Let us slay him. We shall see what becomes of his dream.'"

King came to Memphis to plan another march in support of striking city sanitation workers when he was killed. He led a previous march which erupted into a flurry of window breaking and looting and had been scheduled a mass meeting the night he was slain.

Abernathy said poor white people from Appalachia, Indians, Mexican-Americans and Puerto Ricans would join Negroes in the campaign.

"We are not against black power at all," he said. "We are not against white power, but we have discovered another power that's more powerful than black power or white power and that is poor people power. ... The poor people of America will march starting in Memphis, and the government and Congress better watch us because nobody is going to turn us around."

Abernathy and a committee of 100 had spearheaded the Washington march by presenting demands to governmental leaders the first of the week.

Original plans had called for the Memphis group to march the 70 miles to Marks, but the Rev. James Bevel, an SCLC staff member, said the bus trip was substituted because "we wanted the people to spend as much time as possible in Marks, to give them time to investigate conditions there, hold mass meetings, and communicate with the people of Marks."

Abernathy flew here from Washington Wednesday night to address the mass rally and prepare for the march.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says Southern housewives pay less for food than those in other regions but get more nutrition for their money.

A department report released Wednesday said the Southern housewife pays an average $7.92 per person per week for food compared to $8.67 in the North Central region, $9.35 in the West and $9.77 in the Northeast.

But for every dollar, the report said, she gets more of each of the seven nutrients studied:

protein, minerals, calcium and iron, vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and ascorbic acid.

The average southerner, the report indicates, eats less fruit, more vegetables, more home-baked foods, more pork, poultry and fish but less beef than people in the rest of the country.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mock tribunal has found the Communist parties of the world guilty of all its charges and has "sentenced" them to be ostracized by the rest of mankind until they atone.

The 68-page opinion was released by the Court of World Opinion Wednesday more than two months after a three-day mock trial in Washington.

The charges included conspiracy to deprive individuals of their freedom and nations of their right to self determination.

The Worry Clinic Trace Chemical Value Largely Unappreciated

Dr. Hal is one of over 5,000 dental surgeons and physicians who have become vitally interested in the trace chemical approach to deficiency ailments. The dramatic improvement in his father might be a chance result, except that other doctors are flooding me with similar reports. So keep an open mind and send for the booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-558: Dr. Hal is a famous physician in Pennsylvania.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my father was a farmer.

"But he became such a victim of arthritis that he was confined to a wheel chair.

"My wife and I finally brought him to live with us, since he needed constant help.

"Naturally, we had taken him to medical clinics where all the modern treatments were given him, but without avail.

"He still was a wheelchair case.

"Then I decided to try your suggestion about having drink some ocean water daily, for it wasn't far to the Atlantic Ocean. "My wife boiled the water 15 minutes to sterilize it. Then we gave my dad an ounce or two at each meal, often included in his milk or tomato juice, etc.

"Within three months he was not only out of the wheelchair and walking without any difficulty or pain, but he even insisted on going back to his farm, where he is now operating it by himself!

"I don't know which one of the ocean's 44 trace chemical may be responsible for this dramatic change, but I presume one of them did the job."

Our human blood is essentially water, so it can handle only water-soluble substances.

And 44 of the chemical elements on this earth are water-soluble, in addition to the 5 gases in the air.

When the continents first raised up out of the seas, their soil had the same chemical content as the oceans.

But with the very first rainfall or melting snow, those soil elements that would dissolve in water, began to flow back to the seas.

At present, in various tests of run-off water in our rivers, we have found that 20 of those 44 elements have almost entirely dissolved from our land, which means the remaining 24 are woefully reduced.

Yet dozens of medical complaints are classified as "deficiency" ailments, such as gray hair, baldness, allergy, perhaps cancer and diabetes, plus many others.

And in our blood we find varying amounts of those same 44 trace chemicals that are in sea water.

But medical researchers have not studied blood chemistry enough to know just what amount of each of those 44 trace chemicals is "normal."

People in California thus have far more iodine in their system than those in the Midwest, and so it goes for others of the 44.

But God Almighty doubtless would not have intended our hearts to pump needless chemical elements in our blood! They must have some vital use, for the Almighty is characterized by efficiency.

In 1924, we thus learned that a minute trace of iodine added to table salt would banish simple goiter almost entirely from the Midwest.

Dental surgeons are also finding over 60 percent reduction in decayed teeth in kiddies reared on fluoridated drinking water.

We medic give iron and calcium and 8 or 10 other trace chemicals in our combined mineral-vitamin ampules.

Yet the Food and Drug Administration pooh poohed the idea that there is anything in the oceans of any medical value!

Marijuana Said Easy To Obtain

BOSTON (AP) — "Any teenager, if he wants to get turned on, can buy marijuana today in Boston, on Charles Street, in the South End, almost anywhere," a Massachusetts legislative commission on drugs has been told.

The testimony was given by a 20-year-old Boston resident whose identity was not disclosed. He said he started using marijuana at 16 and progressed to LSD before he was arrested for selling marijuana.

MELVILLE BROUGHTON, JR. FOR GOVERNOR

NO TIME FOR DOUBLE TALK

TOBACCO GROWERS ARE IN GRAVE PERIL. The National Administration is allowing millions of our own hard-earned dollars to be used in a "Thought-Up Scheme" against the use of tobacco. At the same time, the terrible slaughter on our nations highways, and the now glorified use of whiskey go unchallenged. (And you know why)

Here in our state of North Carolina a cry comes forth from the "Liberals," TAX TOBACCO! And unless we unite and fight and fight hard against all the enemies of tobacco, we may lose the battle.

WHAT CAN WE DO TO HELP OUR CAUSE?

WE CAN VOTE! We can choose leaders that are free from doubt. We must choose leaders who are not on the fence. We must choose leaders who do not talk out of both sides of their mouths. This is no time for a double talking candidate in any office. We know what the word "LIBERAL" has done to us throughout all of America, and we must vote it into oblivion.

LET'S BE SAFE!

LET'S GO UNITED WITH MEL BROUGHTON

Candidate Scott quoted in the News and Observer March 3, 1966 Burlington (UPI) "Lt. Governor Scott said here Thursday he would favor a tobacco tax in North Carolina if it was needed to raise revenue." Then, as a candidate for Governor quoted in the Statesville Recorder and Landmark, January 10, 1968 Raleigh (UPI) "Lt. Governor Robert Scott, now officially a Democratic gubernatorial candidate said today he is opposed to a cigarette tax, but said he would favor a local option liquor-by-the-drink program."

Candidate Broughton on the other hand has repeatedly been quoted as saying

"WE SHALL NOT TAX OURSELVES INTO THE POOR HOUSE"

Candidate Broughton has been straightforward. He has faced each issue squarely. There has been no doubt as to his stand. He has taken the same stand regardless of the section of North Carolina he has visited.

WE CANNOT AFFORD TO GAMBLE, WE MUST BE POSITIVE. WE MUST KEEP OUR HOUSE IN ORDER

Expansion On List Of Southern Meet

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Selection of a site for next year's championship basketball tournament and a possible discussion of expansion are expected to highlight a meeting here Friday of the Southern Conference.

The basketball committee was scheduled to meet today and may make a recommendation on the tournament, held the last five years at the Charlotte Coliseum. While some members of the committee apparently favor the Greensboro Coliseum, Charlotte appears the likely selection.

Conference champion Davidson, however, may propose new procedure similar to one under consideration by the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Davidson proposal would have the four first-round games played on the courts of the teams that finish highest during the regular season with the semifinals and finals at a neutral site.

Another Davidson suggestion would reduce from 10 to 7 the number of basketball games a team would have to play inside the conference to be eligible for the tournament. It is not likely to be approved.

Also on the doubtful list is a proposal by The Citadel to limit the number of grants-in-aid to 25 a year in football, 5 in basketball and 10 in all other sports — and a total number "at no time" to exceed 125 per school.

Talk of expansion may come about through the conference's loss at the end of the academic year of West Virginia University, a league member withdrawing at that time after 18 years.

One of the possibilities mentioned by conference sources has been Chattanooga University. Not on the list at this time, however, is East Tennessee State, which last week withdrew its application for membership submitted last year.

U.S. Opening Davis Cup Quest

By ED YOUNG
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The United States opens its 1968 quest of the Davis Cup Friday in matches against the British Caribbean.

Richmond native Arthur Ashe, No. 2-ranked U.S. amateur; Clark Graebner, No. 4 of New York; Stan Smith, No. 7, of Pasadena, Calif., and Bob Lutz, No. 10, of Los Angeles, make up the team representing this country in the first round American zone competition at Byrd Park. Ashe and Graebner in the singles, Smith and Lutz in the doubles will square off in the three-day matches against a British Caribbean team composed of the same players who fell to the United States, 5-0, last year — Richard Russell, Lance Lumsden and David Tate.

Two singles are on tap Friday, doubles on Saturday, and two singles on Sunday.

Field Of 14 Expected On Derby Entry List

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A field of 14 3-year-olds were expected to be entered today for Saturday's 94th running of the Kentucky Derby.

One of the colts likely to go post yard in the 1¼-mile classic, the first jewel in thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown, was Forward Pass.

The Henry Forbes-trained winner of four stakes this year, including the Florida Derby and the Blue Grass, would be Calumet Farm's first Kentucky Derby horse since Tim Tam won in 1938.

Other top candidates included Peter Fuller's Dancer's Image, Cain Hoy Stable's Captain's Gig, October House Farm's Iron Ruler and Mrs. Montgomery Fisher's Proper Proof, who won Tuesday's Derby Trial.

If 14 start, the gross value of the race would be worth $165,000, with $122,600 to the winner. The first money would be exceeded only by the $123,450 won by Needles.

Post time is 4:38 p.m., EDT, be exceeded only by the $123,450 won by Needles in 1966.

Post time is 4:38 p.m., EDT. The race will nationally be televised from 4:5 p.m., EDT, by CBS and will be carried on radio from 4:20-4:50 p.m., also by CBS.

With Derby Day growing near, Churchill Downs continued to get ready for the traditional crowd of 100,000 which required about 10,000 employees to handle.

Perhaps the busiest employees will be the bartenders. For the first time in Derby history if a person wants a drink, he will have to buy it on the premises.

The Churchill Downs board of directors voted last winter to ban bringing alcoholic beverages onto the grounds in an effort to cut down on rowdiness in the infield on Derby Day.

Things were considerably tighter in the rest of the league. The New York Mets carried Philadelphia into the 11th inning before bowing 7-2. And Houston battled S. Louis for 12 innings until beaten 3-1.

Both West Coast games went into the ninth inning before they were decided, Cincinnati beating San Francisco 6-5 and Atlanta dispatching Los Angeles 7-3.

Though Durocher wouldn't talk to the writers, he did have a thing or two to say to the umpires. He protested the game, saying Pirate Manager Larry Shepard visited McBean twice in the eighth inning, which is against league rules.

Umpire Shag Crawford said that when catcher Jerry May was slightly injured, Shepard asked for, and received, permission to make the trips to the mound and that it is within an umpire's jurisdiction to allow them.

Tony Taylor's fourth hit of the evening, a bases-loaded triple, brought the Phillies their victory over the Mets as Larry Jackson won his 20th career game over the New Yorkers. Only Don Drysdale, with 21 triumphs, has beaten the Mets more often.

It was another triple, this one by Julian Javier, that broke up the Cardinals-Astros game. Javier's hit drove in Johnny Edwards, who had singled, and gave St. Louis its eighth victory in nine games. Houston has now lost 10 of 12.

Leo's Lip Is Buttoned As Cubs Fall To Pirates

By RON RAPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Durocher's Chicago Cubs were the only losers in the National League Wednesday night who failed to carry the fight at least into the ninth inning and you can imagine how Leo felt about it.

You'll have to imagine, in fact, because Leo isn't talking. After Pittsburgh beat the Cubs 4-0, Durocher barred reporters en masse without so for the second straight night, waited until the players had dressed and then marched everybody out past the waiting reporters en masse without so much as a "no comment."

He couldn't have had much to say about Pirate pitcher Al McBean, anyway. The right-hander escaped some early-inning problems to shut out the Cubs on just six hits, getting good support from Donn Clendenon and Manny Mota.

Clendenon singled in a run in the first and homered in the seventh. Mota added a couple of runs with a two-run double in the eighth.

McBean gave up five hits and walked two batters in the first three innings, then kept the Cubs hitless until the ninth. Rich Nye prevented the Pirates from scoring after the first inning until Clendenon's homer in the seventh.

Greene Central Slams Hobbton

SNOW HILL — The Greene Central Rams defeated Hobbton, 8-0, yesterday to pull into a five-way tie for the first place in the Eastern Plains Conference.

The Rams are now 7-4 in the loop, with three games left to play. Marion Hill and Wallace Tillman combined to hurl a one-hitter at Hobbton. Hill went the first five innings with a no-hit effort, striking out seven, but walking five. Tillman came on in the sixth striking out six, walking none, but giving up the lone hit.

In the second, four more runs came across. Walter Hill singled and Monk Hill also got a hit. Felton Ormond singled in Walter Hill, and Monk Hill scored as Tim Kearney was safe on an error. Marion Hill reached on an error and a single by Skinner drove in Ormond and Kearney.

Walter Hill led the Ram hitting with three, while Robert Speight had two and Skinner had two.

Sam McDowell Fans 16 In Hurling Indian Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Suddenly, the flame was back. Sam McDowell's fastball and his pace against the Oakland Athletics convinced some people he was going to a fire.

McDowell struck out 16 batters—two short of the nine-inning major league record—and pitched Cleveland to a 3-1 victory over the Athletics Wednesday night.

And he did it with only 119 pitches in two hours, 11 minutes—near record time for McDowell, who usually throws a lot more pitches and takes a lot longer doing it.

"Gentlemen," he marvelled afterwards, "you have just seen the eighth wonder of the world. Only 119 pitches in two hours, 11 minutes. I never thought I'd see the day."

In other American League action Wednesday night, Tommy John struck out 12 and pitched Chicago to a 4-1 victory over Washington, California downed Boston 5-3, Detroit shaded Minnesota 3-2 and Baltimore belted New York 6-1.

In the National League, Philadelphia whacked New York 7-2 in 11 innings. Pittsburgh shut out Chicago 4-0, St. Louis took Houston 3-1 in 12 innings. Cincinnati tipped San Francisco 6-3 and Atlanta took Los Angeles 7-3.

McDowell, who has had arm trouble in the past, had no trouble with the Athletics, who managed just three hits. He retired 20 men in a row after yielding an unearned run in the third inning.

Jim "Blue Moon" Odom was doing a pretty fair job of pitching for the A's. He retired the first 15 Cleveland batters but Chico Salmon's sixth inning single broke that spell and McDowell's single drove in the Indians' first run.

Tony Horton and Duke Sims singled in the seventh and Horton scored the tie-breaking run on a passed ball. Then Salmon's second hit brought Sims in.

The White Sox won their third game and John captured his second with a strong effort against the Senators. He shut Washington out on three hits over the first eight innings before yielding a run with two out in the ninth.

By then, Chicago was in control with a 4-0 edge—half of it provided by Luis Aparicio's first home run of the season. Frank Bertina was the loser.

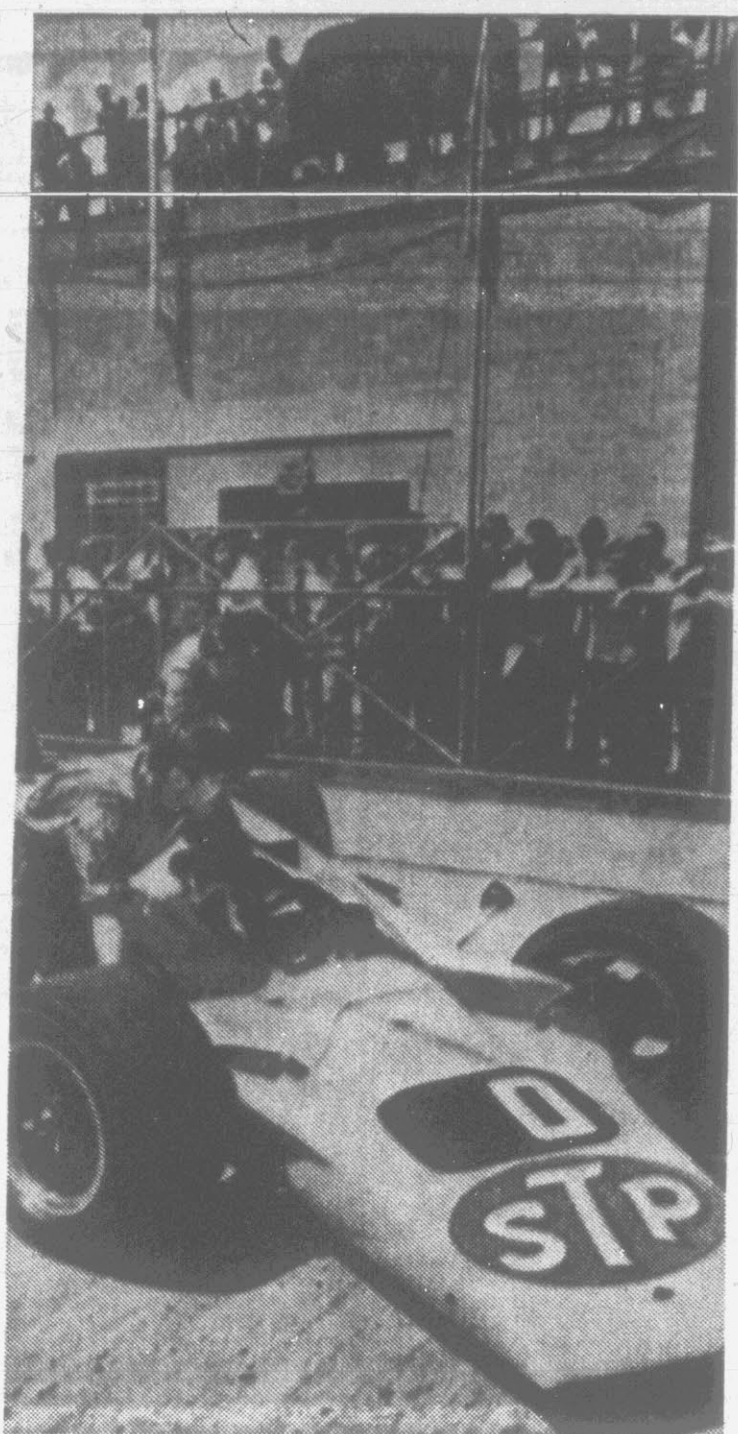

Dave Johnson drove in three runs and Boog Powell two as the Orioles whipped the Yankees on rookie Dave Leonard's five-hitter. Curt Blefary and Brooks Robinson twice keyed Stottlemyre was tagged with the loss.

Roger Repoz delivered two runs with a ninth-inning single giving the Angels their victory over the Red Sox, who dropped their fourth straight. A double steal by Bobby Knoop and Paul Schaaf preceded Renzo's hit.

Reliever Jack Hamilton, making his first appearance in Fenway Park since leaving Boston's Tony Conigliaro last August 18, was greeted with a chorus of boos and targeted for a first pitch single by Ken Harrelson that drove in two runs and tied the game in the eighth. He was the winning pitcher, though. Willie Horton's eighth inning sacrifice fly delivered Dick McAuliffe with Detroit's winning run against Minnesota.

McAuliffe had smacked a one-out triple before Horton's fly ball.

Jim Northrup socked a two-run homer for the Tigers and Rich Reese and Harmon Killebrew had bases empty shots for the Twins.

ACC Will Probably Stay In Charlotte Another Year

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The spring meeting of the Atlantic Coast Conference is scheduled Friday, but he real business of the session is being hammered out today in closed committee meetings. They'll extend far into the night.

Athletic directors, faculty chairmen and various sports committees met today to exchange views on proposals offered for conference vote Friday.

The main item under consideration is the basketball tournament.

It is expected to be returned to Charlotte, N. C., next season, under recommendation by the basketball committee.

It was held in the Raleigh Reynolds Coliseum for 13 years before being switched to the Greensboro, N. C., Coliseum last year and Charlotte this year.

Some schools contended that playing in Raleigh on the home court on N. C. State gave Wolfpack teams an advantage.

When the switch was made two years ago it was agreed then to hold the tournament in Greensboro one year and then move to Charlotte for one year.

Now a decision must be made this week about 1969.

Charlotte appears to be the top choice for next year while the ACC keeps a watchful eye on what Greensboro voters do in a bond election Saturday.

They'll vote on a proposed $5.25 million bond issue to finance enlargement and air conditioning of the Greensboro Coliseum. It seats 9,100 for basketball, but would seat 15,370 when enlarged.

Charlotte, with over 11,000 seats, is the best bet to hold onto the tournament unless Greensboro comes up with a larger plant.

Two proposals have been offered in connection with the tournament, but neither appears likely to make its way into the bylaws.

One would do away with the tournament as a post-season championship event, the other would play the four first round games on the home courts of the seeded teams.

It has been suggested that the regular season leader be declared champion and ACC representative in the NCAA Tournament, with the conference turnkey either dropped or played early in the year.

But Eddie Cameron, Duke athletic director who heads the basketball committee, says his group likes this tournament "as is" and is recommending no changes in format.

Cameron said ticket distribution problems rule out playing part of the tournament on campuses.

Lynchburg Has Rally To Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Carolina League leading Lynchburg pushed over a run in the 12th inning Wednesday night on Ken Plesha's pinch single to down Peninsula 4-3.

Lynchburg had tied the score in the eighth on Carlos May's fourth hit of the evening—a homer. Peninsula scored twice in the seventh when pinchhitter Bobby Brooks doubled.

Although Wilson collected 11 hits, it could manage but one run and was bested by Salem 5-1. After taking a 2-0 lead in the third, Salem staged a three-run outburst in the eighth, highlighted by booming doubles by Dave Arrington and Willie Hammond.

Wayne Twitchell became the first Greensboro pitcher to go the full nine innings as he hurled the Patriots to a 3-1 win over Winston-Salem. The lanky Twice he yielded only four hits, walked two and struck out nine.

Portsmouth outfielder Joe Lis smashed out two home runs and pitchers Ken Reynolds and Smithy Holland joined to hurl a three-hitter as the Tides torpedoesd High Point-Thomasville 8-1.

Leroy Sanford walked with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to force home the winning run as Raleigh-Durham edged Kinston 5-4.

Burlington edged Rocky Mount 3-2 as a brilliant relay by shortstop Terry Harrah preserved Richard Such's third victory. Such was matched in a tight mound duel with Rocky Mount's Paul Coleman.

Tonight's schedule finds Lynchburg at Raleigh-Durham (Rd), Greensboro at Wilson, Rocky Mount at Burlington, Portsmouth at Winston-Salem and Peninsula at Salem.

Hockey Titan Dies Of Heart Attack

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Jack Adams, whose fiery temper and stark dedication as a player, coach and general manager helped mold the National Hockey League, died Wednesday at the age of 73.

Adams suffered a fatal heart attack at his Detroit office where he had run the Central Professional Hockey League for five years.

Adams, who helped found the league in 1963, served as its president with the same quicksilver temper and loving dedication which marked his 44-year NHL career, including 35 as coach and general manager of the Detroit Red Wings.

Adams discovered Wings' superstar Gordie Howe and was one of the few men to have his name inscribed on the Stanley Cup as a player, coach and general manager.

"It's a real sad day for hockey," said Clarence Campbell, NHL president. "He was a very close personal friend of mine."

Howe, signed by Adams at the age of 16 in 1946, said "I felt sick when I heard the news about Jack Adams' death. Mr. Adams was like a father to me."

Adams, coach and general manager of the Wings from 1927 to 1962, when he retired, built Detroit's greatest teams around Howe and the Wings famed "Production Line" of the early 1950s. On the line with Howe were Sid Abel, current manager-coach of the Wings, and Ted Lindsay.

The Wings won 12 NHL titles, including a record seven in a row during Howe's heyday from 1949 to 1955, and seven Stanley Cups.

Adams is survived by his widow, Helen. They have no children.

Pretty Girls Assigned 'Seduce And Destroy'

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — That beautiful Vietnamese girl, her silken black hair swirling about her fragile body as she bathes in the stream can be an angel of death.

Viet Cong terrorists around this big Marine base are now using "seduce and destroy" squads of girls, in attempts to entice Leathernecks to their deaths.

Marine sources said three Marines were missing and one was killed by the female assassination teams in three months.

A captured Viet Cong confirmed that attractive girls were being recruited and trained in English and intelligence work for the assassination teams.

In one recent incident, three Marines on patrol near their camp spotted three girls swimming nude in a stream. A few minutes later, one Marine lay dead, face down in the water. The other two are still missing. "It is considered probable that the females were used as lures," the sources said.

The first inkling of the death-dealing decoys came in January when Marine counterintelligence units uncovered what they called a "Viet Cong suicide platoon, composed of approximately 30 females." The girls were already operating near this sprawling Marine complex. The girls, many believed to be fresh-faced teen-agers like many Marines, work in the time-honored tradition: strike up a conversation, get the Marine talking about himself, make an appointment for a quiet rendezvous, then arrange the kill.

Marine sources are concerned enough to warn the lower ranked men. The 8 p.m. curfew in the city of Da Nang, is strict. Much of the city is completely off limits to the Leathernecks. Houses of prostitution, vermin-infested, tin-roofed shacks, stand less than 100 yards from the main gates of some camps. Officials are not too concerned with these. They cannot be eradicated but can be better patrolled when nearby.

They are concerned, however, with the houses located deep in the twisting, dark alleys and fragile-looking maidens bathing in the leaf-ringed streams near here. They may bestow the kisses of death.

Named to the committee are Dr. H. Brooks James, dean of agriculture and life science at North Carolina State University; State Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham; Melvin H. Hearn, state director of the Farmers Home Administration and Dr. J. W. Pou of Greenville.

The job of the committee will be to bring together leaders of agriculture to help in planning a comprehensive agricultural program in the Coastal Plains area of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. The study is a project of the Coastal Plains Regional Commission.

Two Collisions Here Yesterday

Two traffic collisions in Greenville Wednesday resulted in an estimated $500 property damage to the vehicles involved.

Police said an estimated $125 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in an 11:40 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Elm Streets.

Drivers were identified as Helen West Whitehurst of Farmville and Charlie Jasper Umphlett, 60, of Hertford.

Umphlett was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

William Herman Smith, 67, of 113 South Woodlawn Ave., was charged with failing to yield the right of way in an 8:30 a.m. collision at the intersection of Boyd Avenue and Mill Street.

The Smith vehicle, officers reported, collided with a car driven by Nancy Cherry Edwards, 25, of 502 Pittman Drive.

Damage to the Edwards auto was set at $150 while damage to the Smith car was placed at $100.

His Hosiery Mill Began With Closed-In Carport

By BILL DOVER
Shelby Star Writer
Written for The AP

SHELBY, N. C. (AP) — As a $65-per-week textile employee 10 years ago, Paul A. Hill was concerned that he wouldn't be able to finance the college education of his two sons.

Hill was an eighth-grade dropout who had come to respect education.

So he made a decision that not only provided the economic means of sending his sons, Bob and Mike, to college, but also altered the course of his own life.

Hill, a skilled knitting machine fixer, mortgaged his home in Shelby to purchase five used knitting machines — an investment of $18,000—and began to manufacture hosiery part-time in his carport, which he enclosed for a makeshift "plant."

The business grew.

Today, 10 years later, Hill, 46, has become a successful and independent man.

He is president of H & K Hosiery Mill, Inc., in nearby Fullston, which has 66 knitting machines operating 24 hours a day six days a week, 50 employees, an annual payroll of more than $200,000, and sales which are expected to top $1 million this year.

Humble and mild mannered, Hill doesn't fit the Hollywood portrayal of the two-fisted, aggressive individual who makes it on his own. He's still seen sometimes working his own knitting machines.

And he attributes his success to help along the way from "a lot of good people . . . but I couldn't have done anything without the help of the Lord."

Hill said that if "I didn't have two boys to send through college, I don't think I would have done it. I was determined to see that they got a good education."

Hill decided 10 years ago the outlook in the hosiery business was good.

"So I went out on a limb," he said, "and bought the machines."

Continuing his job at Mauney Mill in Kings Mountain, N. C., Hill started his hosiery plant at home. His sons helped out after school.

After two years, Hill bought five additional knitting machines. Then his brother, Foy Hill, also a textile employee, bought five of his own and added them to the operation.

That made 15 machines. It was a crowded carport.

This situation continued two more years. Production doubled from an average of 500 to 600 dozen pairs of socks a week to between 1,300 and 1,400 dozen small community about 10 miles north of Shelby. The company built a 40-by-70-foot brick and block plant with $20,000.

Additional knitting machines were purchased, making a grand total of 34 when the new plant opened. The number of employees grew to 18.

Hill's wife, Roberta, attended a business college and learned the skills necessary for keeping the books.

Soon, growing pains forced another expansion. In July of 1966 a 40-by-30-foot addition to the plant was constructed, and more machinery was purchased, bringing the total to 66 machines.

Production today is averaging about 5,000 to 6,000 dozen pairs of cotton, nylon and banlon socks weekly.

With an eye to continued growth, several additional acres of land have been purchased adjacent to the plant site.

"If everything goes right," Hill said, "we will expand again soon."

Meanwhile, son Bob has earned a B.S. degree in chemistry and is working toward his master's degree in English literature and creative writing at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. Son Mike is a junior at N. C. State University in Raleigh, where he is studying English literature.

United Nations 'Space Treaty' Is Opening Door To Many Questions

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Should a U.N. space agency be created to launch all "spy-in-the-sky" satellites for the United States, Soviet Union and any other nation that gets into the act?

Would the United States be breaking the U.N. space treaty, which prohibits "national appropriation" of the moon, if Apollo astronauts bring lunar rocks back to earth as planned?

Should a group similar to the International Atomic Energy Agency be created to supervise all space activities, acting as a "space court" to settle disputes?

Can a nation legally shoot out of the skies a high-flying reconnaissance aircraft or spy satellite passing over its territory? Or, in other words, how high does a nation's territorial limit go and where does "free space" begin?

Working through a variety of national and international groups, specialists in space law and from many nations are attempting to settle these and many other provocative questions to head off conflicts before they start.

They are making an effort to project law into space ahead of the mainstream of men and machines.

"More has been accomplished in projecting law in outer space in the last 10 years than all the diplomats in history have accomplished projecting the rule of law on earth," says Harold Berger, Philadelphia attorney and chairman of the Federal Bar Association's Committee on Space Law.

"We already have a space treaty signed by over 60 nations," including the United States and Russia, and approved by the U.N. General Assembly in 1966, he said. More recently another agreement initiated by U.N. members, including Russia and the United States, provides for assistance and safe return of astronauts forced down on foreign territory by space mishaps.

Many legal questions still remain unresolved, however. In interviews conducted during a recent conference on space law at Cape Kennedy, Berger and other specialists in space law discussed problem areas and steps being considered to overcome them.

"There is need for an international organization dealing exclusively with space matters," said Dr. Isidoro Zanolli of Brazil, a member of the Inter-American Bar Association's Space Law Committee.

"It should be similar in respects to the International Atomic Energy Agency, a general conference in which the governments are represented," Zanolli said. He predicted "some country" will propose to the United Nations that it organize such an agency.

HONOLULU (AP) — Mrs. James A. Scott had to decide "whether I love money or I love animals." The animals won. All 39 of them.

Mrs. Scott's husband was transferred here from Long Beach, N.Y., and the couple had to decide what to do with their 38 cats and one dog.

They brought them along—and broke all records at the state quarantine station for the number of household pets under ownership to be quarantined during the mandatory 120-day period for animals entering Hawaii.

Their board bill established something of a record, too. Mrs. Scott said it totaled about $3,500.

"I couldn't go through life with myself if I had them put to sleep just to save money," Mrs. Scott said.

There are 900 kitchen gardens in Delhi. The idea was strongly backed by Shastri as a measure to counter vegetables shortages that hit the capital almost every summer.

Institution At Butner Opened

BUTNER, N. C. (AP)—A new $2 million training school for aggressive juvenile delinquents has been opened at Butner by the North Carolina Department of Juvenile Correction.

The new institution, on an 88-acre campus, was opened Wednesday. It was named the C. A. Dillon School in honor of C. A. Dillon of Raleigh, chairman of the Board of Juvenile Correction.

The school which will operate a specialized program for 113 students was built with $1.5 million in state funds and a $500,000 federal grant.

Sherlock Holmes Going 'Modern'

LONDON (AP) — Sherlock Holmes is discarding his meerschaum pipe and deerstalker hat for cigarettes and a straw hat in a new television series. William Sterling, who will produce the series for the British Broadcasting Corp., says he will bring out all the "brutal savagery" of the stories about fiction's most famous detective.

Mental Health Sunday, May 5

Sunday has been proclaimed Mental Health Sunday and most churches in the community will observe it with special messages, Dr. J.W. Pou, Pitt County Mental Health Association president, announced today.

The ministers over the county together with the Executive Director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte, are sponsoring this special day.

"Our religious institutions are deeply concerned with the problems of mental health in the community," the Rev. J. W. Hadden, Jr., board member of the association commented. "It has been shown that early diagnosis and treatment of emotional disorders in children and adults can prevent the tragedy and family disruption that comes with neglect. We have it within our power to provide programs for that early care right here within reach of everyone and it is important that all of us work together to provide these essential programs."

De Luise Proved A Working Comedian

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television—Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The first of the summer replacement programs, "The Dom De Luise Show" took over Jonathan Winters' spot on CBS Wednesday night.

De Luise may not always be completely successful, but he is a hard-working comedian. He was all over this comedy-variety hour, mugging, singing, dancing, and playing sketch characters that ranged from an escaped convict in the home of an eager spinster to a boor who lands uninvited at the home of an acquaintance.

The first show, while frantically busy, was not top drawer. It did have a couple of things going for it. In the first place it was taped in Miami. So the jokes were Florida-style—"Miami, the sun capital of the world—my son the doctor, my son the lawyer..."

Anyway, this kind of humor is a welcome change from Los Angeles smog jokes and New York hippie quips.

If slapstick is your dish, "The Dom De Luise Show" may provide a jolly frenetic hour every week for the next four months.

Earlier, on ABC, Leslie Uggams, once of the Mitch Miller

Central Prison Visitors Allowed

RALEIGH (AP)—Inmates at Central Prison will be allowed to have visitors Sunday for the first time since a riot two weeks ago in which six inmates were killed and 77 wounded.

In announcing resumption of visiting privileges, Lee Bounds, state commissioner of correction, said that a new visiting system will be initiated immediately. Under the new plan visits will be allowed on any day of the week but on a scheduled basis.

Bounds said the new plan would assure better control of prisoners by avoiding too many visitors at once. In the past, all visits have been made on Sunday.

Among the species of seal are the harbor seal, harp seal and ringed seal.

Deadlines Set To File Acreages

Farmers can begin filing their acreage planted and diverted certification as soon as all crops are planted said Stacy J. Evans, manager of the ASCS office.

Evans said that certifications for wheat must be filed by May 31 and all other crops by June 20.

Evans said that this places the responsibility for certification on the farm operator.

After certification, one out of ten tobacco farms, and one out of four cotton, peanut, wheat, and grain farms will be measured as a check.

In the event a farmer growing cotton, peanuts, or grain exceeds his tolerance, he will not be eligible for price support.

However, if a farmer's market sales do not exceed 110 percent of his quota, but do exceed his tolerance he will be subject to penalty, but will still be eligible for price support, according to Evans.

Evans stated that the ASCS expects to start measuring around June 15 on the farms to be checked. He urged farmers to file their certification as soon as they complete planting.

Early filing will in no way increase the chances that a farm will be checked, said Evans.

Top Businessmen Said Prefer Nixon In Newspaper's Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's top businessmen overwhelmingly favor Richard M. Nixon for president—and a number bitterly oppose Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, according to a copyright Washington Post survey.

The newspaper said Nixon was favored by 91 of 160 leading executives surveyed. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was second with 38 votes and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey third with 24. Kennedy was the choice of 3 executives, California Gov. Ronald Reagan of 2 and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and third party candidate George C. Wallace, 1 each.

The Post said a number of executives' comments showed "an edge of bitterness toward Kennedy"—saying the Democratic candidate was their last choice or they thought him least qualified.

Nearly three-fourths of the executives identified themselves as Republicans, the newspaper said. It said questionnaires were sent to 298 executives, including the entire membership of the prestigious Business Council, which has worked closely with President Johnson, and 180 responded.

Humphrey, the Democratic presidential candidate, who fared best in the poll, told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday that some businessmen have even "out-liberalized Hubert Humphrey" and said their help is needed to solve slum problems.

In other political developments:

—Republican candidate Rockefeller takes a swing through Iowa today after calling his Massachusetts primary victory a surprise to him and urging de-Americanization of the Vietnam war.

—Kennedy, pressing his campaign in Indiana's May 7 presidential primary, said the administration should be more

RE-ELECT

A man who has the qualifications that the people of Eastern North Carolina need

- EXPERIENCED
- CONCERNED
- INTERESTED

JULIAN R. ALLSBROOK

—Candidate for—

State Senator

FOURTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

(Halifax, Warren, Pitt and Edgecombe Counties)

JULIAN R. ALLSBROOK

Eastern North Carolina needs the experience, concern, and interest of its state senators. Julian Allsbrook has these qualifications, having served 12 years in the senate and two years in the House of Representatives, plus two special terms. He serves every county in his district with equal vigor. He has always represented Pitt County well.

1. He vigorously fought for legislation supporting university status for East Carolina University.
2. He has supported the Life Sciences and Community Health Center for East Carolina University.
3. He was one of the introducers of legislation providing the money to build and establish an alcoholic rehabilitation hospital and treatment center in Greenville to serve eastern North Carolina. This same legislation made funds available for rebuilding a similar hospital at Butner, North Carolina.
4. He supported legislation increasing appropriations for capital improvement at East Carolina University, including the building of a Teacher Training Laboratory for students majoring in education, thus enabling them to complete their training at Greenville.
5. He introduced legislation seeking to increase appropriations for Pitt Technical Institute and other technical schools of North Carolina.
6. The need to greatly improve our primary and rural road system in Eastern North Carolina is clearly apparent to those of us who frequently travel the highways. The four-laning of Eastern North Carolina's principle highways is absolutely essential to develop our agricultural, industrial, and other economic resources to the fullest extent. Julian Allsbrook's record proves he is a leader in the fight to improve roads and highways, and he will continue to fight for roads needed to improve the economy of our entire district.
7. He has long been recognized as a champion in the fight for better educational opportunities for all of our people. He has always fought vigorously for better-trained and better-paid teachers and better school plants. The fact that he is now serving on the highly important Governor's Study Commission on the Public School System is evidence of his concern. Throughout his long career of public service, Julian Allsbrook has always fought for better conditions for the less fortunate. He has always fought for better schools, roads and highways. Julian Allsbrook knows the importance of industry, farms-to-bacco-peanuts, and those who make their living in these fields.

The above are just a few of the reasons why Pitt County should vote to re-elect Julian Allsbrook to the State Senate.

Considering Poi For Baby's Food

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaiian poi, made from the taro plant root, may enter into a new market—cereal substitute for hypo-allergic babies—but only after a great many ifs and maybes are answered.

Dr. Ralph Platon, head of Honolulu's Children's Hospital and professor of pediatrics at the University of Hawaii, said, "If poi is marketed, it must be labeled distinctly that it is a pure product."

Speaking at a seminar, Dr. Platon said, however, there has not been enough extensive study to successfully measure poi's effectiveness as a baby food.

CAWKER CITY, Kan. (AP) — Clifford Coad, 81, saddlemaker and one-time deputy U.S. marshal in this northern Kansas area, says the cowboy had many reasons for carrying a gun.

"It was at Woodston," Coad said, "that I was a deputy U.S. marshal. In those days I always carried a revolver, but it was mostly because of the 'ornery' longhorn cattle we raised.

"If one got too sassy, it was sent up to the chuck wagon."

Coad is at work in his shop daily. His saddles are marked by an unusual length and depth which allows the rider's weight to be distributed over a wider area on the horse's back.

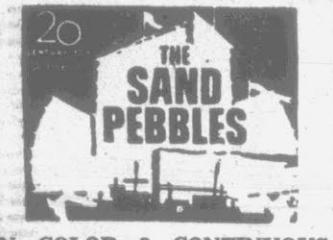

Coad's shop is distinguished by a number of old saddles, one made by a John J. Jenny at Richmond, Va., more than 125 years ago a number of U.S. Cavalry remount saddles and his pride, a Texas Ranger saddle used by famed Ranger Zac Taylor.

The Ranger kaddle was an uncomfortable affair, Coad said. It consisted of a bare bullhide-covered saddle tree with stirrups hung from straps suspended from the tree. There were no skirts on the saddle and the seat was a small leather pad.

Small Percentage Of Wealth Needed: Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, urging congressional enactment of a $2.1 billion foreign-aid bill, says the United States can afford to spend less than one per cent of its wealth to help build a safer, more prosperous world.

Rusk told the House Foreign Affairs Committee aid must be continued for South Vietnam and other Southeast Asia nations, as well as for the countries of Latin America and Africa.

"Some say we should postpone or eliminate foreign aid because of the cost of our efforts to help defend freedom in Southeast Asia," Rusk said. "But the freedom and progress of hundreds of millions of other Asians, of 250 million people in Latin America and of 260 million in Africa also engage our concern and are directly related to our own security and well-being."

Development has been gaining momentum in poorer countries but if that trend is reversed the consequences for the peace of the world could be disastrous, he said.

In South Vietnam, said Rusk, the scope of the aid program has been modified as the result of the Viet Cong offensive that began Jan. 31 and funding requirements will be down substantially the rest of this year.

With improved security, however, and recovery of a demand for imports, it is estimated that the $400 million proposed for the next fiscal year will be needed, the secretary testified.

He said South Korea "must increase its military readiness but without impeding its strong economic development effort ... both economic and military aid requests have heightened importance," he said.

Thailand has been steadfast and loyal as an ally, Rusk said. The Thai government has countered Communist insurgency with a program of improved social service and strengthened security.

In Laos, Rusk said the military situation has deteriorated in recent months. "It is no overstatement to say that the survival of Laos as an independent nation depends on U.S. help."

In Indonesia, he said, the government of President Suharto can continue to make progress only if the United States continues to help put the sixth most populous nation on a firm economic footing.

Amishmen Build Barn In One Day

EAST RANDOLPH, N.Y. (AP) — About 200 bearded and black-clad Amishmen, working between dawn and dusk in one day, have built a barn for one of their brethren to replace one destroyed by fire.

Wearing long hair and the old-fashioned clothing that distinguishes them, the Amishmen came from a 150-family colony of the sect in this western New York area and from several colonies in Pennsylvania on Tuesday.

They worked assembly-line style under the direction of Moss Miller, who designed the structure for his father-in-law Menno Herschberger.

Women of the sect prepared and served a huge frim dinner for the workers at noon.

STATE BANK and Trust Company

Greenville, North Carolina

Rubbed out . . .

Only shrunken appears where State Bank now is on the latest sketch map of the Central Business District urban renewal program.

This is the most cruel form of competition. Rubbed out with an eraser.

Other people were sketched in. All it took was a little line with a pencil. Where did we go wrong? What did we do? We never hurt anybody. All we ever did was to try to help people.

Can you imagine? They rubbed us out because we have so many customers that it clogs up Five Points!

Well, we're as patriotic as anybody. Its real tough, tho, to be rubbed out of business. Kind of humiliating, too. Our friends have let this happen.

Recently, however, a customer said: "I don't know where you should go, but I'll say one thing, WHEREVER STATE BANK GOES THE PEOPLE WILL COME!"

We always had the idea that this was so, but hearing it restored our confidence. We'd like to hear from others on this. Drop by and tell us what you think.
