President Announces Action Today

Hanoi And U.S. Agree To Paris As Site For Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and North Vietnam agreed today to open preliminary peace talks in Paris next Friday or a few days thereafter.

President Johnson announced at a 10 a.m. news conference he had sent word to Hanoi that he accepts the time and place Hanoi had announced to the world two hours earlier.

Johnson said he was informed of the North Vietnamese agreement at 1 a.m. today. He then conferred with Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other high officials and made his decision.

Hanoi announced its purpose in the talks would be "to decide with the U.S. side the unconditional cessation by the United States of its bombing and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam North Vietnam and later to talk about other matters related to the two sides."

Johnson ordered March 31 a partial halt in bombing of the North and called for peace talks. He offered to stop the rest of the bombing if Hanoi would show "restraint" in its military operations.

But U.S. officials report Hanoi since early March has greatly increased infiltration of men and weapons into South Vietnam.

Asked about this today Johnson said "we have been quite concerned" about the North Vietnamese expanding infiltration.

The President warned the Paris talks would be only the "first step" toward bringing the long and bloody war in Southeast Asia to a close.

"Let me sound a precautionary note," Johnson said after announcing his decision. "This is only a very first step, and there are many, many hazards and difficulties ahead."

"I have never felt it was useful for public officials to confuse delicate negotiations by detailing personal views" in advance, Johnson went on. So, he said, he would not discuss the question further now.

For the preliminary contacts, the United States had proposed 15 Asian and European capitals for possible meeting places while North Vietnam had suggested Phnom Penh or Warsaw.

The Indonesians meanwhile, offered to send a cruiser to Tonkin Gulf as a meeting place.

The North Vietnamese broadcast today indicated an end to the stalemate. As received by

U.S. monitors, Hanoi Radio said:

"The Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam) government is of the opinion that formal talks between Hanoi and Washington should be undertaken immediately."

"It decides to send Minister Xuyen Thuy as its representative to hold formal talks with a representative of the U.S. government to decide with the U.S. side the unconditional cessation by the United States of its bombing and all other acts of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and later to talk about other matters related to the two sides.

"The Democratic Republic of Vietnam government welcomes the fact that the French government is willing to let Paris be the site between the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the United States as declared by French (foreign) Minister Couve De Murville on 18 April 1968."

"The DRV government is of the opinion that Paris, just as Phnom Penh and Warsaw, is an appropriate venue for the formal and bilateral talks."

"These formal talks will begin on 10 May or a few days later."

Polls Will Be Opening At 6:30 a.m.

Pitt Voters Have Wide Choice In Primary Vote

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County voters in tomorrow's primary election will have a wide field to choose from in several local and area races being brought before them.

Democrats will be choosing, among others, a nominee for the First Congressional District seat now held by Walter Jones of Farmville; members of the board of county commissioners, a nominee for one of two seats the county has in the state house of representatives, two state senators from the fourth district, and four district judges—a new office and appearing for the first time on the county ballot.

In all, 23,620 voters are registered and qualified to vote in the primary. They include 20,907 Democrats and 2,408 Republicans.

The district court judgeship race includes eight candidates—three of them Pitt County men—seeking the four judgeships in the district. The district, number three, includes Pitt, Craven, Pamlico and Carteret counties.

Seeking the posts are Charles H. Whedbee and J.W.H. Roberts of Greenville, Robert D. Wheeler of Grifton, Herbert O. Phillips of Morehead City, Preston H. Robinson, Robert G. Bowers and Negro John H. Harman, all of Craven County, and L. R. Morris of Carteret County.

Three men, including Vernon E. White of Winterville, are seeking the two seats in the State Senate from the fourth district, which includes Pitt, Edgecombe, Warren and Halifax counties.

The other two candidates for the posts are incumbents Vinson Bridges of Edgecombe County and Julian R. Allsbrook of Halifax.

Democratic hopefuls Mark W. Owens Jr. of Fountain and Harvey Ward of Greenville are contenders, along with incumbent W.A. "Red" Forbes of Winterville for Pitt County seat number one in the State House of Representatives.

Two Negro candidates, L.C. Nixon of New Bern and the Rev. B.B. Felder of Greenville will be opposing Congressman Walter B. Jones for the First Congressional District seat he now holds in the U.S. House of Representatives. Another Greenville man, Clarence Gene Leggett is also trying for the First District Congressional seat nomination.

Rounding out the races on the county and district level for Pitt voters is the contest for three seats on the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Three incumbents are seeking re-election to their posts, including Charles P. Gaskins of Greenville, District 1; R. L. "Bob" Martin of Bethel, seeking the district two seat; and Bruce Strickland of Bell Arthur, seeking re-election to his third district seat.

Martin, who has held his post since 1959, is opposed by Negro J.H. Hyman of Pactolus and Edgar "Ed" Warren of Belvoir, while Strickland, a member of the board of commissioners since 1960, is being opposed by D.E. Baker of Bell Arthur.

Negro minister O. James Rooks of Greenville is contesting Gaskins for the District 1 seat he now holds. Gaskins was appointed to the board a year ago when the State Legislature increased Greenville's representation on the board from one to two seats.

This is the first time in recent history that Negro candidates have filed for county offices and have sought nomination to the S. House of Representatives.

Of the more than 23,600 registered voters in the county, 6,165 are Negro and 17,455 are white.

Polls tomorrow will open at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m.

Whichard Named To Commission

Jack Whichard was appointed to the Redevelopment Commission by the City Council last night.

Whichard will fill the unexpired term of Jack Edwards, former chairman, who resigned. Edwards is moving to Brook Valley which is outside the city limits.

Whichard is co-publisher of The Daily Reflector. He is married to the former Jane Woodward and they have one son.

Whichard attended Greenville schools, graduated from the University of North Carolina and was a lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

Weyerhaeuser To Begin Project

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Construction will begin soon on a $58 million paper pulp plant at New Bern, the Weyerhaeuser Co. announced Thursday.

The plant, which will produce 600 tons of paper pulp a year, is expected to be in operation early in 1970 and is expected to employ 285 persons. Some 500 additional wood jobs also are anticipated.

The company also said that plans for an additional fine paper machine at its Plymouth plant have been postponed indefinitely due to market conditions.

Mrs. Humphrey Said Doing 'Fine'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey was reported "getting along fine" at Bethesda Naval Medical Center following pelvic surgery to correct a nonmalignant disorder.

Mrs. Humphrey, 56, was operated on Thursday.

N. Vietnam Effort Is 'Crushed'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. forces crushed a North Vietnamese counterattack near Dong Ha Thursday climaxing four days of fighting in the northeast corner of South Vietnam in which allied troops reported 1,303 of the enemy killed.

U.S. and South Vietnamese casualties totaled 108 men killed and 541 wounded in battles around Dong Ha and Hue, the allied commands said.

Fighting slackened off today after U.S. Marines and Army infantry reinforcements beat back a heavy enemy counter attack near the 3rd Marine Division headquarters at Dong Ha 11 miles below the eastern end of the demilitarized zone.

The North Vietnamese launched their counterattack Thursday afternoon and pushed the Marines back. Army troops were rushed in as reinforcements, artillery and U.S. planes pounded the North Vietnamese, and by nightfall "the enemy withdrew," a U.S. spokesman said. He added that the enemy made light probing attacks for two hours before contact was lost.

There was no word of new fighting by South Vietnamese forces who have been battling the North Vietnamese a mile or two from the Marines in the Dong Ha sector.

Other Funds To Meet Extra Expenses

Assassination Cost City $7,695

City Manager Harry Hagerly figures the unrest locally following the Martin Luther King assassination cost the city $7,695 in extra expense, including $6,758 in overtime pay authorized by the City Council last night.

The extra pay will go to police, firemen and others who worked long hours during the weekend and subsequent curfew.

Hagerly said there were 101 policemen on duty during the crisis, including 50 regulars, 17 reserves and 34 volunteers.

Hagerly said 4,394 extra man hours were pulled during the time by 141 people.

There were 40 firemen on duty at various times.

Full time policemen and firemen with extra hours will be paid on a per hour rate based on their regular per hour pay. It is the first time that local police or firemen have been paid in cash for extra hours work.

The city spent $567 on additional equipment for the extra personnel and an old school bus was purchased for less than $300 to transport the officers around the city.

There was also $70 damage done to the city's newest fire truck.

Funds to meet the extra expense were transferred from the street resurfacing fund and the contingency fund.

Hagerly also reported to the City Council last night that in working through tax abstracts up to the "Gs" the city has found 650 persons declared dogs for tax purposes but had not purchased the required city dog license. Through the 47 persons who listed autos but have not purchased city tags were found.

He pointed out that warrants can be issued in such cases.

Councilmen called for a public hearing concerning the revocation of licenses for The Ruins after officers told of a Sunday party there.

City police officer B.F. Phillips told the council he heard noise from the establishment, which is located on Fourth Street, as he walked his beat on Sunday, April 28.

Another officer C.N. Cox who came to the scene, said he entered the back door and observed individuals drawing beer from the tap.

State ABC Officer Fred Hall said he was called and went to The Ruins where he found beer in pitchers, cups and glasses. He said there were 17 people in the establishment at the time and he was told it was a private party.

Hall said he did not see any beer sold and he noted that there is no state law concerning Sunday sales. City law prohibits sale of beer on Sunday, but not consumption.

The council approved a motion calling for a hearing to consider suspension of the firm's licenses. The date was not set last night.

Councilmen set for June 6 public hearings on annexation of the following properties: —East Carolina Properties, a 30-acre tract adjacent to Pitt Plaza Shopping Center along U.S. 264.

—Eighth Street Christian Church property on U.S. 264 adjacent to East Carolina Properties.

—Southeast corner of intersection of U.S. 264 and Evans Street.

—Carriage House, James Evans, Oakmont Baptist Church, M.E. Sutton, Melvin Buck and other properties south of Red Banks Road.

They took no action on annexation of the Mayo Property on the northwest side of U.S. 264 pending presentation of further plans for developing the property.

In other action last night, the council:

—approved abandonment of 20-foot service drive along Moose Lodge property and dedication of a drive along the Barnes Motor Parts line.

—appointed Larry Felton to accept pre-payment of 1968 taxes.

—approved refund of $6 to C and M Plumbing for unused plumbing permit.

—approved changes in housing ordinance, fire prevention code and housing code enforcement program to upgrade workable program progress report.

—approved payment of $2,307.63 for portion of non-eligible improvement costs in Shore Drive area.

—heard a request from Art Center for $4,000 appropriation in 1968-69 budget.

Set Precinct Meetings For May 11

The Pitt County Democratic Precinct Meetings will be held May 11 at 12 noon at the regular voting places of the precincts, according to J. Henry Harrell, Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee chairman.

The purpose of the meetings, Harrell said, is to perfect the precinct organization and to elect delegates to the County Convention to be held at the Courthouse in Greenville at 11 a.m. May 25.

Precinct executive committees have been enlarged to 10 members. Old membership numbered five persons.

The 10 members to the new precinct committee must be composed of five men and five women, Harrell noted.

Officers include a chairman and vice-chairman, one of whom shall be a woman, and a secretary-treasurer.

A quorum for any precinct meeting will consist of not less than 10 regular Democrats in the precinct, the county executive committee head explained.

Tar Heel Voters Certain To Set Number Of Records In Saturday Turnout

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolinians vote Saturday in party primaries that are certain to set a number of records and may produce others.

Both Democrats and Republicans will select nominees for all major state offices, including governor, and for the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives.

In addition, party nominees will be named for the 170-member General Assembly, for 73 district judge posts and for various local offices.

For the first time, a Negro is running for governor and more Negroes are seeking major offices than ever before. In fact, there will be an unprecedented number of candidates on Saturday's ballot.

The number of candidates will vary according to local races in various parts of the state.

A record total vote of more than one million is predicted, compared to a vote of 832,905 in the first primary of 1964. Democrats are expected to draw 800,000 to their primary and Republicans 250,000. The Democratic vote in 1964 was 769,090 and the Republican vote was 63,815.

The big increase in the number of Republican voters is expected primarily because of interest in what the Republicans regard as their first meaningful contest for the gubernatorial nomination.

Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N.C., a freshman congressman, opposes Jack Stickley, a Charlotte textile yarn broker.

The most recent registration figures available—compiled last May—show 1,526,075 Democrats and 356,869 Republicans.

The figures list 277,404 non-white voters. The number is not divided by party but most are assumed to be Democrats.

Complete new registrations have been held in 36 of North Carolina's 100 counties and books have been open for additional registration everywhere, but new figures have not been compiled by the State Board of Elections.

Because of the expected large turnout, and the large number of candidates some of the 19 counties which use voting machines will keep the polls open for an extra hour.

The remainder, including all 81 which use paper ballots, will close at the normal time, 6:30 p.m.

Only counties which use voting machines are allowed to extend the voting period, and they can do it only for one hour.

All polls will open at 6:30 a.m.

Major attention will be on the governor's race in both parties. Gov. Dan Moore, a Democrat, is barred by law from seeking reelection.

The leaders in the three-way

Democratic battle are expected to be Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, a veteran politician, and Raleigh attorney Mel Broughton, a former Democratic party chairman seeking statewide elective office for the first time.

The Negro in the three-way race is Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a Charlotte dentist, minister and civil rights leader. Hawkins' candidacy could throw the outcome into a runoff.

A majority of the votes cast is required to win.

Beside Hawkins, four other Negroes are seeking major offices.

All are Democrats running for Congress:

They are David Stith of Durham, in the 4th District, Mrs. Eva M. Clayton of Warrenton in the 2nd, and two in the 1st District—L. C. Nixon of New Bern and B. B. Felder of Greenville.

Besides the gubernatorial race, public attention has been attracted to the Democratic contest for attorney general.

Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton, 65, who has held the post since 1960, is opposed by State Sen. Robert Morgan, D-Harnett, 43.

Morgan has waged an active campaign, accusing Bruton of lacking initiative and aggressiveness in office. Bruton has campaigned little.

The Republican candidate, Warren H. Coolidge of Fayetteville, is unopposed for his party's nomination.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., faces three opponents in the Democratic primary but he has made little effort to actively campaign.

The Republican race for the Senate nomination also is a three-way contest.

Lone Star State Skies Are Dry

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Those Lone Star skies are dry, says Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

It is illegal for a commercial airline employee to sell alcoholic drinks while flying over Texas, Martin said Thursday in an opinion requested by O.N. Humphreys, acting administrator for the Texas Liquor Control Board.

There is one hitch, Martin's opinion says, jurisdiction lies in the county in whose air space the offense occurred. The prosecutor would face the problem of proving which one that was.

Fresh frisky furs need a summer cold.

A summer cold is no fun. Unless you're a fur. If you're a fur, you need summer cold to keep your fresh and frisky look in the fall. If you're a fur, you need controlled humidity. And protection from fire, theft, dust, and moths. If you're a fur, you need to be repaired before you're stored in cool, even temperatures with lots of room to avoid crushing. If you're NOT a fur, but you own one and care about it, you should stop by to see us. What for? Fur love.

Suggests Time To Study Whites

BOSTON (AP) — Whitney Young, executive director of the Urban League, says enough studies have been made of the Negro—it's time to study whites.

"The Negro throughout the years has been dissected and analyzed and inspected horizontally, vertically and diagonally," Young told the American Association on Mental Deficiency Thursday.

The President's Commission on Civil Disorders concluded that the main problem in the nation's society is white racism, Young said, and that for that reason "we should have a study of the souls of white folks."

Minister, Wife Should Be Invited As Guests

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a minister's wife and I would like to ask you a simple question: Is the minister's wife "automatically" invited to all the weddings her husband officiates at?

I have never attended a wedding without having been specifically invited, yet many parishioners have expressed great surprise (and even hurt) when I haven't shown up with my husband. They also seem surprised when my husband says his farewells after having performed the wedding ceremony, although not one word was mentioned beforehand about his staying on as a guest.

Should a minister just assume he is a guest wherever he performs a service? And should his wife join him, even though no invitation was issued?

MINISTER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: A surgeon's wife is not expected to accompany her husband when he operates, and neither should a minister's wife be expected to "show up" wherever her husband performs a service.

No one is "automatically" invited anywhere. Although most clergymen and their wives would be welcome as honored guests at the affairs of their parishioners, they should be invited—same as any other guest.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a woman who would take a job as a "housekeeper" for a single man? Part of the deal is that the housekeeper has to live ON the place.

If a woman sells all her own household goods, and sells (or rents) her own house to move in with a man and keep house for him, how do you think that looks?

What does the community think of a woman who would hire herself out this way? And what do YOU think?

MADRID, IOWA LADY

DEAR LADY: Personally I couldn't care less, but if I were to give it one moment's thought, I would assume that the housekeeper was KEEP-ING — not PLAYING house. Now, what's YOUR problem, Lady?

DEAR ABBY: Re the new, effeminate-looking styles for men. They aren't "new" at all: In 1916 as a college boy I wore silk underwear, pleated, pink skirts, and a handkerchief tucked into my cuff. And as a boy I was "dressed and curled."

In 1918, the Germans learned what the "Ladies from Hell" (the Scots) could do despite their kilts, purses and bagpipes. So cook it, Ma'am.

OUR FASHIONS NEVER SAY HOW MUCH..

JUST HOW RIGHT!

23,000 Potential Voters For Pitt

Some 23,000 Pitt Countians will be eligible to go to the polls tomorrow and cast their ballots in the Democratic and Republican primaries.

How many of that number actually cast votes tomorrow will be a measure of the degree to which local citizens feel their responsibility of good citizenship.

There is no reason why Pitt County should not cast a record vote for the primary election. There are more than 60 candidates on the ballot for a variety of state and local offices. Those voters who are eligible to participate in the election have in recent weeks taken time from their busy schedules to see that their names are on the voting rolls, in order that they could vote tomorrow.

In spite of an unusually quiet gubernatorial primary campaign, the people of Pitt County and North Carolina recognize that government at every level faces serious problems in the years immediately ahead. The people likewise recognize that most of those candidates selected in tomorrow's primaries are the men who will decide the vital issues for state and local governments in the months and years ahead. Notwithstanding the quiet campaigns, the election is of utmost importance to Pitt County and to all of North Carolina.

The decisions to be made at the ballot box are decisions which should reflect the collective opinion of the largest possible number of local and state citizens. The election results will be just as official if only a handful of people vote as if voters turn out in record numbers. The end result, however, would not be as representative of the collective opinion of the citizens of this state.

Every citizen has the right to join with others in deciding which of the candidates will receive the nominations or be elected to office. More than merely a right, it is a citizen's individual responsibility to join with others at the ballot box to help determine the course of state and local government.

Those citizens of Pitt County who go to the polls tomorrow will be fulfilling their highest citizenship responsibility by helping to shape in the most effective way possible the course of government in this county and in this state. Those who neglect to go to the polls tomorrow will be failing themselves as well as their fellow citizens.

His Grievance Gets Nowhere

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — For several long, weary months now James P. (Pete) Bourke has walked from one state office in Raleigh to another and climbed the stairs to see newspapermen and editors, begging for a hearing and public airing of his complaint and grievance.

Bourke is a white haired veteran of many years of service in the State Highway Department. As recently as a year ago there were commendations on his employment record and he was recommended for promotion.

give individual protection to an employee even though they are incorporated. The Association, in my opinion, is nothing more than a sounding board for politicians. I've been there."

Eleven Years Ago Bourke says his trouble began 11 years ago. At the time he was head of a visual-aids department in the Highway Commission and as a materials engineer - photographer made motion picture films which were used in a $1 million damage suite involving a prominent contracting firm and the Highway Commission. The suit involved work done on grading for an interstate highway near Fayetteville several years ago.

Ever since the court hearings, Bourke says, his life "has been one hectic maneuver after another - trying to save my career and means of livelihood."

He claims pressure was brought to force him to resign shortly after he made the films. He says "I was also on the verge of a nervous breakdown and under a doctor's care," and submitted a resignation.

Sees Sanford Later, Bourke says, he saw Gov. Terry Sanford and told him "part of my story." Sanford, according to Bourke, immediately called the State Personnel Division and cancelled my resignation.

"I also told me to resign again if I had any more trouble but to take 'sick leave' and come back to see him. A gentleman in the Division of Purchase and Contract sent a gentleman named Sullivan Gibbs out to my home. I explained the situation to him and after several visits he said that Governor Sanford would reinstate me if I would write a letter requesting such action. I wrote the letter and I was reinstated."

However, reinstatement also meant demotion, Bourke says. He was assigned to doing file and mail work in the state division at a lower salary. Further, he says, his salary "has been frozen going on seven years."

Now, at age 60, Bourke has asked for a hearing. He says the Highway Commission's personnel office, J. Ravnor Woodward, has blocked this and delayed his repeated requests on grounds of "policy" and other excuses. He says State Personnel officials have refused to hear his case or agree to a hearing.

Reasonable To Think Of Pitt's Own Senator

Whether a Pitt County resident serves in the North Carolina Senate during the next two years will largely be determined tomorrow by how well this county's voters support Vernon White in his bid for the office.

A former chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, a successful farmer and businessman, a member of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute and a civic and business leader of the county, Vernon White is eminently well qualified to represent people of this four-county senatorial district in the North Carolina General Assembly. Certainly he is the best qualified of the three candidates to represent the people of Pitt County in the Senate, for he is the only senatorial candidate who lives in Pitt.

The 1967 session of the General Assembly was the first session in more than a century in which a Pitt Countian did not occupy a seat in the Senate. During that session the two seats from this four-county senatorial district were occupied by residents of Edgecombe and Halifax Counties, respectively.

It is reasonable, we think, for Pitt, as the largest county in the district to have one of the two seats during the coming term. By voting for Vernon White tomorrow, Pitt voters can help assure that one of this senatorial district's two seats will be occupied by a Pitt Countian during the 1969 General Assembly.

Inefficiency In Our Nominating

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — It would be hard to design a more haphazard, inefficient system than that by which the United States nominates its presidential candidates. It would also be hard to find one better suited to the national temper in this election year.

At a time of national uncertainty, a hovering between war and peace, a grouping for answers to racial, urban and economic problems, the system is keeping the political situation fluid.

It permits Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to become a full-fledged candidate for the Republican nomination and score at least a psychologically important victory in Massachusetts little more than a month after he declared himself out of the race.

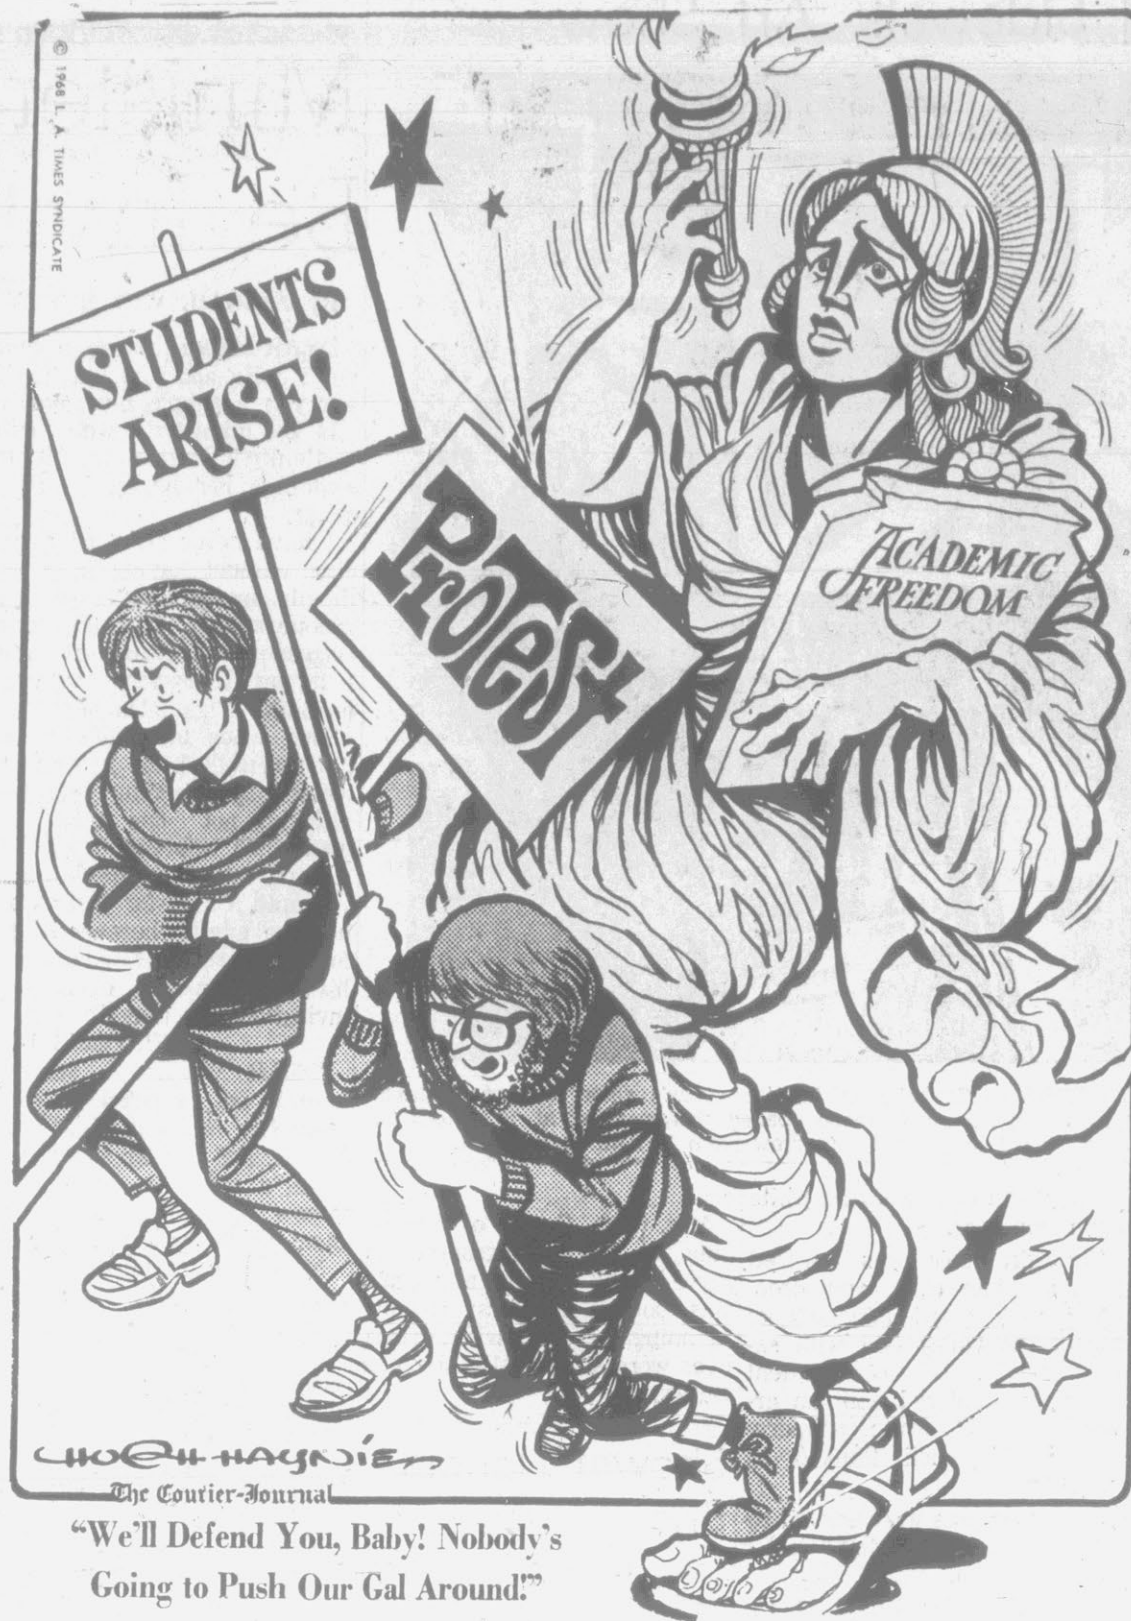

It permits Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to go from noncandidate to strong contender in the Democratic contest without having faced a rival in a single primary. It permits Sen. Eugene J.

McCarthy, D-Minn., to turn a quixotic one-man crusade into a full-fledged campaign; and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to avoid casting the first stone and then come into the fray swinging.

Ever since George Washington became unavailable for another presidential term the nation has experimented with a variety of methods for nominating presidential candidates.

Having settled in 1832 on the national party conventions as the best way to make the final choice, it has been tinkering ever since with the method of choosing delegates to the conventions and giving the voters a large role in the nominating process.

The reform movement in the early 20th Century that replaced boss-dominated state nominating convention with direct primaries appeared for a time to be leading toward a universal system—perhaps even the direct national primary which Woodrow Wilson, among others, ad-

Now, Ruthless Hubert

WASHINGTON—Vice president Hubert Humphrey's surprise announcement that he was a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination caught newspapermen in Washington flatfooted.

For, waiting less than a month after President Johnson announced he would not run, Humphrey has been accused of being opportunistic and ruthless by backers of Sens. Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy.

A McCarthy manager, when informed of the news, said, "It's typical of Hubert Humphrey to disregard all the amenities of politics and try to steal the nomination away from Eugene McCarthy. But I believe the American people will see through this attempted power grab. At least Robert Kennedy had the decency to send his brother Teddy to see Sen. McCarthy at 3 o'clock in the morning before he announced. But Humphrey wouldn't even send his sister."

I asked the manager if I might get a statement from McCarthy.

The reply was, "The senator will soon have a poem which he will release to the press."

Over at Kennedy headquarters things were even grimmer. "The Vice President is dividing the Democratic Party," a spokesman said. "Even more than Eugene McCarthy. If Bobby had any hint of what Hubert Humphrey had planned to do, he would have reassessed his position."

Another Kennedy worker added, "The Vice President hopes to cash in on the Humphrey name, but he's going to discover that people will resent it. And if he thinks he can buy this election with millions he's sadly mistaken."

What is significant, however, is that Rockefeller's belated announcement comes principally not from mining new veins of political support, as his propagandists claim, but from the threat of fatal defections should he keep silent. His press conference statement in Albany was a tacit admission that the politics of procrastination had failed.

Indeed, practical politicians now running the Rockefeller-for-President operation admit that his statement of non-candidacy March 21 was a horrible mistake whose ramifications may prove fatal. Although some Rockefeller aides elevate this boner to the realm of high strategy, the political pros know he lost six weeks never to be reclaimed.

To be sure, there are enough manifestations of support to justify Rockefeller's running. The Governor was particularly impressed by some 10,000 telegrams of support from around the country last week. Several private reports from the recent Women's National Republican meeting in Washington (including one from past president, Dotty Elston) indicated a friendlier attitude toward Rockefeller by the girls.

Most important was the glowing report given Rockefeller by the girls.

Other Editors Saying Now, A Word From--

(Lexington, Ky., Leader)

The four-minute mile is obviously here to stay. So now we're to have the one-minute presidential race. It is no secret that in political circles the air waves are regarded as a primary battleground in the fight for the White House. And this year, it appears, the accent is to be on 60-second spots for the candidates, rather than on half-hour speeches.

There are several reasons for this. One is that one-minute spots are cheaper than half-hour time slots on the air. So the other reasons aren't too important. But there is also the factor that people are likely to listen more intently for a minute than for a half hour. Also, a candidate is more likely to preserve his charm and cool in a carefully produced 60-second spot than he is in a half-hour tirade.

So the presidential aspirants are slated to compete for audience attention with all these pretty girls in miniskirts and with the ladies and gents seeking relief from splitting headaches, nagging backaches, ugly hands, bad breath and other afflictions—each performer earnestly plugging a splendid commercial product.

One thing is certain. Come Nov. 5, 1968, the audience ratings of the two candidates will be definite, conclusive and final. One will win and one will lose. The winner will get a four-year contract and the assurance of prime time on the air whenever he wants it. (And he will want it.)

And the loser? Well, any man good enough to be runner-up for the presidency of the United States can usually find steady employment in some line of work. Or he can spend his time second-guessing the winner.

Major New Rules By The FTC

By ELMER ROESSNER

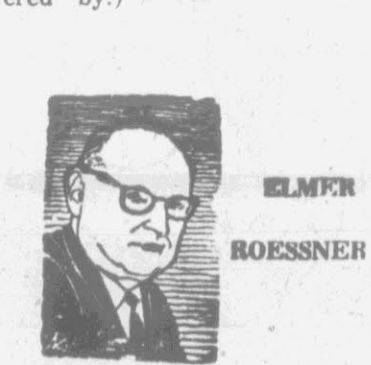

The Federal Trade Commission has published its regulations under the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act and they will go into effect on next Jan. 1. The major rules, with my comments in parentheses, are:

Prohibition against the use in the name of a commodity on a component or ingredient not present in significant amounts. (Canned corned beef hash must have some corned beef in it.)

Required declaration of street address, city, state and zip code in the declaration of place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor on the labels of consumer commodities. (Consumers, to be fair, should give their zip code numbers when complaining to canners about the lack of corned beef in corned beef hash, etc.)

Required distinguishing between the names of a manufacturer, packer or distributor on the labels of consumer demand. Private brands should not only say who they were put together FOR but who they were manufactured by.)

Starvation For The Giants

Prohibition against the use of misleading and qualifying words in conjunction with net quantity declarations. (Goodbye "large quart"; goodbye, "giant gallon.")

Separation of the required net quantity declaration and placement of the declaration on the principal display panel within the bottom 30 per cent of the area of the label panel. (Good, whatever it means!)

Required declaration for the first time of net quantity by weight of all bar soaps. (If it floats, how much is air?)

Required declaration of measure for bidimensional commodities. In paper products, this would require declaration of length, width and area for such articles as tissues, towels, wrappings, etc. (Thickness and strength might be more important.)

Now More Itsy-Bitsy Factions—Specification discouraging use of small fractions in the required net quantity declarations. (Seven and 167-168th ounces might seem like a lot.)

the required net quantity declaration set in relation to area of the principal display panel. (To the sliderules, men!)

Required declaration of net quantity of servings, uses or applications represented to be present in a container. (It's amazing how thin you can slice bologna.)

Most of these requirements make sense. But will they bar products from foreign countries that do not have such codes?

Rise In Consumer Spending Forecast In Months Ahead

Commercial Credit Co., in its quarterly report, predicts that sales of new autos will be up 8 per cent in the six months started April 1; that major household durables will rise 3 per cent and the single family housing starts will go up 5 per cent in the same period.

Rocky Had To Step In

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — A major reason why Gov. Nelson Rockefeller changed his mind one month ahead of schedule and announced his candidacy Tuesday was the forceful argument by one pillar of the Eastern Republican establishment: Walter Thayer.

Thayer, president of Whitney Communications Corp., put in on the line to Rockefeller. The big businessmen that Thayer and his boss, former Ambassador John Hay (Jock) Whitney, had lined up for Rockefeller were about to defect — not to Richard M. Nixon but to a Democrat, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. One liberal Republican angel, in fact, was all but lost to Humphrey.

Even though any Rockefeller campaign is largely self-financed, he could scarcely run without the big names of Eastern money. Thus, Thayer last week strengthened his pleas that the Governor could lose no more time.

Threats of imminent defection by money men were paralleled by similar ultimatums from politicians. Sens. Edward Brooke of Massachusetts and Clifford Case of New Jersey informed Rockefeller they could not wait much longer. Even Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Rockefeller's most important and long-suffering champion, told him his patience was nearly gone. Many advised him to announce this week and thus avoid the dangers of the Republican Governors' traveling circus, beginning platform hearings Monday (May 6).

These arguments, plus reports of Rockefeller's strength among orthodox Republicans, were enough to sway both the Governor and his most respected political advisor, National Committeeman George Hinman. When Hinman, a week ago, dropped his advocacy of non-candidacy, it was only a matter of time before Rockefeller became an active candidate.

What is significant, however, is that Rockefeller's belated announcement comes principally not from mining new veins of political support, as his propagandists claim, but from the threat of fatal defections should he keep silent. His press conference statement in Albany was a tacit admission that the politics of procrastination had failed.

Indeed, practical politicians now running the Rockefeller-for-President operation admit that his statement of non-candidacy March 21 was a horrible mistake whose ramifications may prove fatal. Although some Rockefeller aides elevate this boner to the realm of high strategy, the political pros know he lost six weeks never to be reclaimed.

To be sure, there are enough manifestations of support to justify Rockefeller's running. The Governor was particularly impressed by some 10,000 telegrams of support from around the country last week. Several private reports from the recent Women's National Republican meeting in Washington (including one from past president, Dotty Elston) indicated a friendlier attitude toward Rockefeller by the girls.

HEROISM

A brave young soldier in Vietnam recently threw himself over a bomb, allowed it to explode and tear him to pieces, and all this that his buddies might be saved.

Put yourself in that boy's place. Would you do that? Ninety-nine out of a hundred of us would have to say No. It just takes a quality of courage to do a thing like that most of us do not possess. The young chap had only one life to live and without hesitation he gave it for others. No doubt he will be posthumously decorated and his family commended. But that will not bring the youngster back. He was brave according to God's highest standards. "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends."

And yet we should always remember that there is probably as much courage in the ordinary come-and-go of life as there is on the battlefield. Many a humble woman who could not get up courage to fall on a bomb acts out a sterling heroism every day in the way she serves those under her care. There is heroism in the way many bear their sorrows and burdens. The person who in everyday life puts himself or herself aside that others may live better has something in him or her that characterizes the glorious life of the soldier in Vietnam.

Heroism is real and it can be manifested wherever we happen to be.

Prize-Winning Columnist James Marlow Dies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — James Marlow, who for 25 years wrote the award-winning column "The World Today" for The Associated Press, died Thursday. He was 64 and had been in poor health for some time.

Marlow, a newspaperman for 41 years, wrote his column from Washington. It was an unusual one.

The column did not predict. It did not pretend to pass on "inside" information. It was neither pretentious nor pontifical.

Instead, the writer tried to explain events, to put them in context in an interesting and factual way. This required exhaustive research; Marlow read more than 45 books for a series analyzing Winston Churchill's impact on history.

He pioneered in interpretive writing. Marlow won the Raymond Clapper Memorial Award in 1961. The next year he received the Washington correspondence award of the national professional journalism society, Sigma Delta Chi.

The Sigma Delta Chi citation lauded Marlow's fearlessness, his keen awareness of the issues of our time and his ability to report, weigh and discuss these issues authoritatively in public print.

Marlow was born in the Hell's Kitchen section of New York on Aug. 2, 1903, of Irish working-class parents. He had barely a brush with college, attending Fordham in the Bronx for less than a year. He was a relentless reader, beginning as a boy when tuberculosis kept him out of school two years.

He went to work for the AP in New Orleans in 1937 after 10 years on newspapers there. He began his career as a police reporter and his favorite stories were always of those days.

Marlow's Washington column ran five days a week, a pace few columnists attempt. Because he tried to be current he wrote at the last moment, but invariably he kept his deadline.

This was late at night. He claimed the pressure did not bother him. "You get used to it," he said.

Earlier in the day, Marlow paced the floor of the AP office, tested his ideas on editors and copy boys, read, researched and paced some more. He was an easy conversational mark for anyone, especially the young.

Lunch was always chopped beefsteak, apple pie and coffee and always in the same cafefeller in New York Sunday by Morton and former Rep. William E. Miller after their seven-state Midwestern tour. Rockefeller, listless about politics these many months, was left in a rare mood of buoyancy after their visit.

Their reports — particularly those from Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri — were bright. But, in truth, what Morton and Miller asked during their travels was the commodity easiest for a politician to bestow: non — commitment. Noting the surprises of this Presidential year and warning more might be coming, Morton and Miller merely asked potential delegates to avoid committing themselves to anybody a while longer. Most agreed.

But realists in the Rockefeller camp realize the deterioration of the past six weeks and that Nixon's lead is long.

voted. By 1916, 24 states were holding presidential primaries, but that was the high-water mark. In 1964 only 16 states let the voters help pick the candidates. This year it's down to 13.

Most states still use conventions, some use both conventions and primaries. It is hard to find even two states that follow identical procedures. In addition, the states act over a time span beginning in March and extending right up to the national conventions.

This, then, is the American way of political life for a candidate and it is bound to impose its peculiar logic on him.

It is not the kind of place that attracts politicians, lobbyists, public relations men or executives.

He read and fished for relaxation. He worked hard for the American Newspaper Guild, was a leader in the successful drive to unionize AP editorial employees in the late 1940s.

Marlow's highly stylized writing emphasized an eye-catching opening paragraph. When India invaded tiny Portuguese Goa in 1961 Marlow began his column this way:

India's Prime Minister Nehru, who made himself the world's No. 1 holier-than-thou moralizer and man of peace, can no longer act as the conscience of mankind.

Asks Surrender And Disappears

CHICAGO (AP) — Jerry Ray, brother of the man sought on a charge of murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has quit his job at a north suburban golf club and disappeared, the Chicago Tribune said today.

Ray's disappearance was reported a few hours after he appeared through an interview with another Chicago morning newspaper, the Sun-Times, for his brother, James Earl Ray, to surrender.

The Tribune quoted an official at the Sportsman Country Club near Northbrook as saying that Jerry Ray quit his job at the club a day after his photograph appeared in a national magazine. Ray had used a Wheeling post office address but lived in a room at the club, the paper said.

"We don't know where he went," the club official was quoted. "He didn't leave a forwarding address. I guess he got tired of being interviewed."

In the Sun-Times interview, Ray, 32, expressed fears that his brother was dead and said other members of the family also doubted that he was alive.

"If he is still alive," Ray said, "I urge him to surrender himself to the FBI or to contact someone in the family and ask them to make surrender arrangements."

Ray, who worked as a maintenance man at the golf club, was reported as saying his brother could have been seduced in a conspiracy to kill the civil rights leader.

Marlow worked for the editorial freedom to write this way. President Johnson said of the death:

"Mrs. Johnson and I were saddened to learn of the tragic death of James Marlow. He was a friend of more than 30 years. He earned my respect and that of his profession as a good, honest reporter. Journalism has lost a man who distinguished his profession. We will all miss him."

announcement. A spokesman said "We intend to remain neutral and work for peace."

"Then why are you painting that sign 'Humphrey for President' on the porch?" I asked.

"It's only temporary until the neon one arrives from New York."

"Will the President make a statement concerning his preference for a nominee before the convention?"

"If you were President Johnson and you knew how each of the candidates had served you, how could you possibly make a choice?"

JUST PRAYING

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Police were called "to investigate a suspicious person praying on the steps of a church" in northeast Denver. The man told police he wanted to pray, found the church locked and knelt on the steps. Police said a nervous neighbor probably called.

Wes Gallagher, AP general manager, said:

"The loss of Jim Marlow is a severe one, not only to The Associated Press, but to the profession of journalism as a whole. He was a superb craftsman with one of the most difficult jobs in Washington journalism, which he performed as no one else could."

Marlow is survived by his widow, the former Hannah Hartling; a daughter, Mrs. William Cherwek; and a grandson, Dean Cherwek, 5, Cremation and private services are planned.

Army Accepts A Hairy Private

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — A 19-year-old who started basic training this week sports a full beard, a mustache and hair which would hang to his waist if it weren't bundled atop his head.

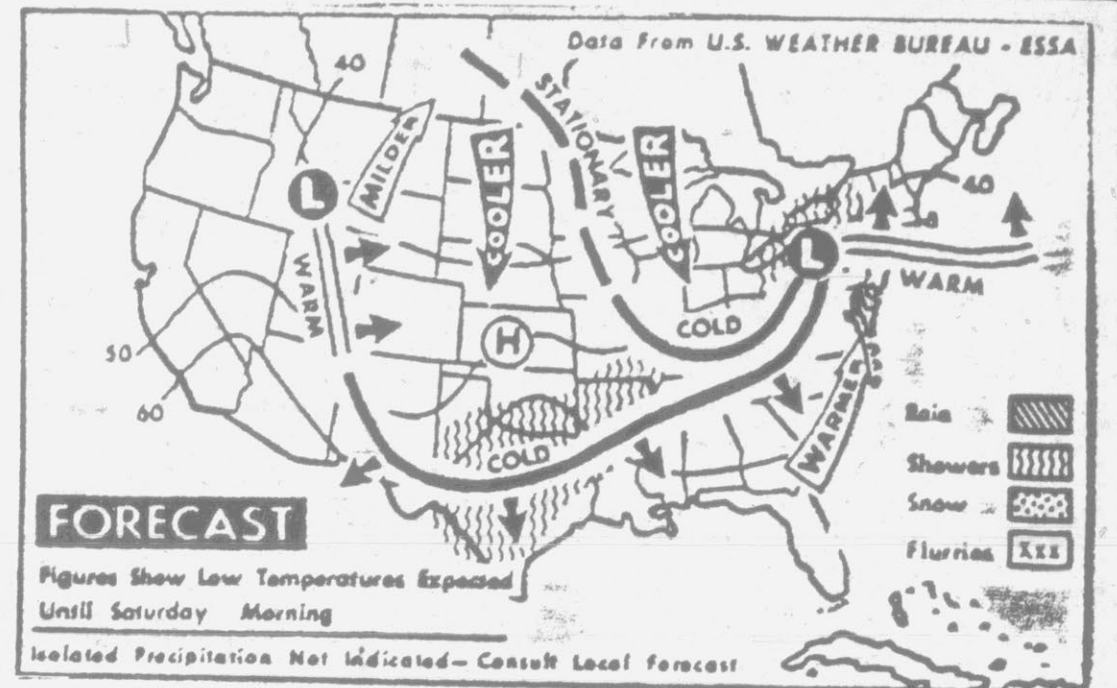

He is Pvt. Baldev Singh Purewall of Fresno, Calif., a native of India whose Sikh religion forbids the cutting of hair and requires the wearing of a turban. The Army agreed, but said Pvt. Purewall will have to wear a steel helmet over his turban when necessary.

Edsel Owns 5 Of The Cars

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — Edsel Henry Ford, no relation to the Ford Motor Co. Fords, is passionately devoted to the car that bears his name — the Edsel.

Edsel says the car is "a beautiful thing . . . a marvelous car." He has five of them and he's president of the Edsel Club of America.

Learning, Memory Clues In The Brain

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Brain research scientists report that they have found, for the first time, specific proteins in the brain involved "in some 'intimate way' in learning and memory."

With this knowledge, one scientist said, it may become possible to "influence the proteins and, at crucial periods of development, increase the potential for learning."

Dr. Samuel Bogoch, director of the Foundation for Research on the Nervous System, of Boston, reported isolating acidic protein that increased during learning in pigeons.

"It is very likely that the same thing exists in man's brain," Dr. Bogoch said. "It would be most unusual if it is not so."

The work by Bogoch was confirmed by work done by Dr. Holgar Hyden, director of the Institute of Neurobiology at the University of Goteborg, Sweden.

Both men reported their studies to an international conference on "The Future of the Brain Sciences" sponsored by the Boston foundation and the Manfred Sakel Institute of New York, meeting today.

Dr. Hyden suggested another way of influencing the function of the brain—injecting nucleic acids.

It might be possible, he said Thursday, to counteract the aging process in the brain by infecting the brain with a virus carrying fresh genetic material.

Genes could be attached to a harmless virus, he said, entering the brain from the mucosa of the nose.

Hyden said his laboratory prepared brain DNA and injected it into the ventricles of animal brains. DNA, deoxyribonucleic acid, is believed by many to be the substance that controls heredity.

Within an hour, he said, the manufacture of protein in the brain increased by more than 100 per cent.

"This does not mean that an elixir of life has been found," Hyden said. "More hard facts are needed." But he said it might be possible to use the method to combat "entropy increase," the tendency to disorganization of brain cells with age.

Hyden said brain research can have "definite consequences" for teaching and planning of education.

Elizabeth City Man Is Facing Hit-Run Charge

Charles Walter Harris of 1117 West Main St., Elizabeth City, was charged with hit and run driving and leaving the scene of an accident early today.

Officers said the Harris car allegedly struck two parked vehicles at 1304 Colanthe Street about 12:15 a. m.

Officers said the parked cars were owned by Margaret Isaac Bowen of Quarters, Va., and Rebecca Ann Cole of 1304 Colanthe St.

Damage to the Bowen car was set at $750 while damage to the Cole car was placed at $250.

An estimated $750 damage resulted to the Harris auto, police reported.

Lost Her Security Clearance; Never Saw Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 22-year-old woman charged Thursday that her security clearance was revoked and that she was forced to resign from an Army job on the basis of reports that she was immoral—reports which, she said, she was not permitted to see.

Carolyn Lea Tatnall, a photographic information technician with the Army Map Service, said she was told by a government security officer the reports had come from neighbors in her apartment building. She said in an interview that she could find no one in the building who would admit to having talked to government investigators.

An Army spokesman denied that Miss Tatnall was forced to resign, but confirmed revocation of her security clearance.

"I don't understand it," she said. "I'm not promiscuous."

On Feb. 19, Miss Tatnall said, she underwent a 2½-hour interrogation session at the Pentagon. She said she was asked among other things: Are you a homosexual? Have you ever had an abortion? Do you take birth control pills? She said she was told she would have to answer the same questions the following week in a lie detector test.

Miss Tatnall was never called back for the test, she said, but on April 2 a security officer and a representative from the personnel section of the Army Map Service told her that her security clearance had been revoked.

Miss Tatnall quoted the security officer as saying, "Based on the security reports that you are immoral and not of character to handle classified material, we are not only refusing you a top secret clearance, but we are also revoking any previous clearances that you have had. From now on you are not authorized to work with classified material of any sort."

She said he told her that "in mid-March the investigators went to your apartment and received a derogatory report on you . . . They came up with seven derogatory reports from that one building to confirm it. Do you give wild parties in your apartment? Apparently you shout and have violent fights and drinking sessions. Does someone else have a key to that apartment?"

Miss Tatnall said she replied that she didn't know of seven people who would say such things, that she has had only one party—a birthday party—in the six months she lived in the apartment and that she invited the neighbors so they wouldn't be disturbed by the noise and that her boyfriend had a key so he could feed her fish and her cat when she went home to Philadelphia on weekends.

She was told the following day by her superior, she said, that unless she resigned she would be fired. Miss Tatnall said she resigned and left work April 19.

Harold P. Dunning, personnel chief at the Army Map Service, said there had been a "routine background investigation" of Miss Tatnall but claimed no knowledge of any Pentagon interview.

There was no comment from the Pentagon.

Cunning said that Miss Tatnall was told that as a result of the background investigation her security clearance was being revoked "but I'm sure nobody told her to resign or be fired. I wouldn't permit anyone on my staff to talk to an employee like that."

However, Dunning said when

Miss Tatnall's file was reviewed April 3, the day after she was notified, "it was decided we probably would institute removal procedures."

He refused to disclose the grounds for such procedures.

Miss Tatnall appealed to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who has a bill, now pending in the House, which would protect federal employees from unwarranted intrusion into their private lives.

Most Of Senate Race Noise Made By GOP

RALEIGH (AP) — The Democrats have more candidates than the Republicans have made all the noise in the race for the U.S. Senate seat held by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Ervin, a 14-year Senate veteran, hasn't bothered to campaign against his three opponents in the Democratic primary and they have attracted little attention themselves.

The three are John T. Gathings Sr., 39, a Morganton grocer and former school teacher; Charles A. Pratt, 56, a Wrightsville Beach real estate man, and Fred G. Brummitt, 58, mayor of Bakersville and a retired school principal.

Three men are in the GOP primary: Edwin W. Tenney Jr., 45, a book salesman from Chapel Hill; Larry Zimmerman, 39, a Durham attorney, and Robert V. Somers, 30, a Salisbury attorney.

Somers has endorsed Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N.C., in the Republican gubernatorial race while the two other senatorial candidates have remained publicly neutral.

Somers has been active in Young Republican activities and served as a Recorder's Court judge in Randolph County and a solicitor in both Randolph and Rowan counties.

He has campaigned with a call for a national war on crime and for tougher handling of criminals by law enforcement agencies and the courts.

Tenney has called for stronger efforts in education, lowering of the voting age to 18 and a greater effort to win the war in Vietnam.

Zimmerman is a Democrat who switched to the Republican party in January, shortly before announcing his candidacy. He has criticized the state's laws as advocating tougher handling of rioters.

All of Ervin's Democratic opponents take stands generally regarded as more liberal politically than Ervin's views.

Gathings has been endorsed by the North Carolina AFL-CIO and is campaigning as the workingman's candidate.

Pratt has labeled himself a peace candidate, favoring an end to the Vietnam war by negotiation or withdrawal.

Brummitt favors establishment of a world government, a limit on incomes and inheritances, and popular election of the President.

New Strength In Modern Glass

NEW YORK (AP) — Glass is one of the strongest materials made by man, and scientists are finding new success in retaining much of this strength in the everyday glass bottle and jar.

New or "pristine" glass of the type used to make glass containers has a tensile strength of up to 100,000 pounds per square inch, greater than many fine grades of steel, according to the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

While glass loses much of its pristine strength in normal service life, researchers are developing methods to preserve more and more of the original strength of glass containers. As a consequence, they are able to reduce their weight. GCM reports that most bottles and jars have shed a third of their weight in the past 30 years, and a further slimming of 20 per cent is predicted for the near future.

Greensboro Coliseum-Use Allowed 'Poor Marchers'

GREENSBORO (AP) — Persons taking part in the poor people's march on Washington will be able to bed down in the Greensboro Coliseum the night of May 15.

Floyd Henley, an official of the Southern Presbyterian Church's Orange Presbytery, said his group had leased the coliseum for $1,000 "to show support of the march and in the interest of ministering to human needs and for the welfare of the whole community."

The presbytery, comprising 86 churches in Lee, Chatham, Davidson, Orange, Alamance, Guilford, Rockingham and Caswell counties, is the second largest in the denomination's North Carolina Presbytery.

The poor people's march, organized by the late Dr. Martin Luther King before he was assassinated April 5, started Thursday in Memphis. It will reach North Carolina May 14, with a stop that night at Charlotte.

In Charlotte, Mayor Stan Brookshire said the city's government has "neither the authority nor the money" to meet the needs of the marchers who will make the overnight stop.

The city will provide traffic escorts and protection for them while in the city, Brookshire said.

The heads of some public and private agencies, along with two ministers, had asked city council to help in supplying food, clothing and transportation for the estimated 1,000 to 5,000 marchers who will make the overnight stop.

But Brookshire said there is no law that would allow the city to purchase food, house the marchers, provide medical attention, clothing or transportation for the marchers.

The Rev. Robert L. Shirley, a Presbyterian Church mission developer, said he had been asked to coordinate the stopover plans in Charlotte by the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded in King as head of the march.

Shirley said he would turn to private sources in an effort to line up needs for the marchers.

Consoled Self By Cooking Goat

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — A goat awaiting its turn at a butcher shop chewed up 730 rupees ($98) of currency notes from the butcher's pocket.

The butcher consoled himself by cooking the goat and inviting close friends to the "rich" repast.

In 1884, Standard Time was established in the United States.

Sanford Mentioned As A Regional 'Favorite Son'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Terry Sanford is being mentioned as a possible "southern regional" favorite son candidate for president behind whom Democrats in the South can unite at the national nominating convention.

The former North Carolina governor's name popped up Thursday after Florida Democratic Chairman Pat Thomas sent telegrams to party chairmen in 12 Southern states suggesting a meeting May 25 to build a conservative regional bloc at the Democratic National Convention.

Thomas said Southern states will get more consideration if they are united in a single force at the convention.

Thomas also said he had suggested retiring U.S. Sen. George Smathers of Florida as perhaps the best regional candidate for president. Smathers is the favorite son candidate of Florida Democrats.

Sanford and U.S. Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia was among the others mentioned.

Sanford, however, is believed to be already in the camp of Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who is campaigning for the nomination. Sanford was seated at the head table when Humphrey made the announcement he was seeking the nomination last week.

Thomas predicted that the Democratic convention in Miami Beach in August will be a "wide open affair," and said the Southern states will get more consideration if they are united in a single force—perhaps even the vice presidential spot on the national party ticket.

They Sang In Silent Movies

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A collection of sheet music and orchestral arrangements used in St. Louis movie theaters during the silent movie era has been added to the Southern Illinois University library at Edwardsville.

The collection was donated to SIU by the brother of Ralph Booker, a St. Louis musician who appeared frequently in the orchestra pit playing the silent movie mood music.

Second, Final Retirement?

MARIONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Claude Willard was retired twice by the U.S. Post Office department as postmaster of this small southwestern Missouri town.

The first time the Post Office Department said it erred and returned Willard to the job. Recently Willard reached the mandatory retirement age and was replaced by an acting postmaster.

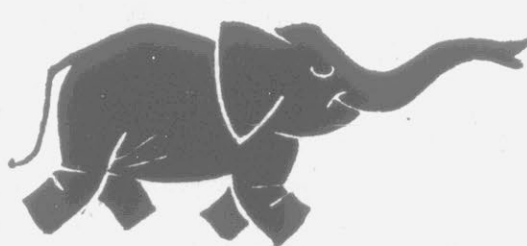

Save Water In Cooling System

NEW YORK (AP) — Designers of the world's largest air conditioning system have come to the aid of Manhattan's hard-pressed city water supply.

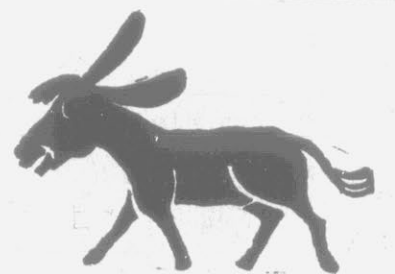

If a standard cooling tower had been used to air-condition The World Trade Center's twin 110-story office buildings, now under construction here, it would have gulped 180,000 gallons an hour of clean drinking water; about 2,900,000 half-pint, restaurant-sized glasses full every 60 minutes.

Rather than do that, engineers at Borg-Warner's York division are putting the Hudson River to work. They designed a 49,000-ton water chilling plant that will use as much as 5.3 million gallons an hour of river water. It will provide the cooling effect of 98,000,000 pounds of ice melting every 24 hours.

Not only will using river water help conserve the city's water supply, it will make it possible for the World Trade Center to provide continuous air conditioning for tenants and visitors during the most severe water shortages.

Escapee Is Given 40-Year Sentence

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A total of 40 years in prison was ordered Thursday for Arthur Tilmer Mankins, who escaped from the Forsyth County jail Feb. 2 after being locked up on two charges of robbery.

Jerry Kelly Russ, Mankins' colleague in the jailbreak, was convicted of one of the same armed robbery charges and sentenced to 25-30 years. He has not been tried yet in the other holdup.

Columbia U. To Study Roots Of Convulsion

By BOB MONROE

NEW YORK (AP) — A Columbia University faculty committee has moved to create a fact-finding commission to inquire into the causes of the crisis that has convulsed the Ivy League campus for 10 days.

The 12-member committee—a key group in the effort to end the student protest—took the action Thursday. They agreed the commission should be headed by an outsider but did not decide on its size or composition. With few exceptions, classes were suspended again Thursday for the university's 25,381 students but some individual units announced they would conduct regular classes today.

Deans and faculties of units affected by the disorders which began April 23 were authorized to extend classes and examinations beyond the previously scheduled academic year to make up lost time.

The students began the protest over the university's construction of a controversial gymnasium in Morningside Park which separates Columbia from Harlem.

The militants charge the gym on 2.1 acres of land leased by the city in the 30-acre park would deprive Harlem residents of recreational property.

Columbia had said it would provide facilities within the building for Harlem residents but critics termed the concession "separate but unequal."

Later the protesters added demands for a voice in policy making and for the resignations of university President Grayson Kirk and Provost David B. Truman.

University trustees agreed to consider recommendations for changes in the basic structure of the 214-year-old school and to consult with community leaders on the fate of the gym as concessions to the protesters.

The board of trustees asked the 12-member faculty committee—created Tuesday after police routed demonstrators who had occupied five campus buildings—to make a similar study of possible structure changes.

Later the faculty committee decided to establish the fact-finding commission. Their plan was received with cautious optimism by at least one student leader.

Dan Pellegrom, 23, president of the Columbia Student Council and a supporter of a plan for a student strike when classrooms reopen, said of the plan: "It's difficult to judge—but it's a beginning."

Draws 8 Years For Bank Holdup

DURHAM (AP) — James Buchanan Duke, 27, a Durham restaurant operator, was found guilty of the $5,362 robbery last Nov. 17 of a Moncure bank and was sentenced Thursday to eight years in prison.

The money was recovered the day of the robbery along a railroad track and Duke was arrested three hours later nearby.

STATE SUPERVISOR

RALEIGH (AP) — Mrs. Ernestine H. Frazier was named by the State Board of Education Thursday as a state supervisor of home economics. Mrs. Frazier has been serving as assistant to Dr. Catherine Dennis who is retiring July 31 after 32 years in the position.

The new DISTRICT COURT will be the proper court for the trial of all CIVIL ACTIONS up to $5,000.00; DIVORCES, SUPPORT AND CUSTODY matters; JUVENILE matters; and all criminal cases other than felonies.

Dear Friends:

Tobacco, education, and the welfare of our young people are of major concern to all our citizens in Pitt County.

Since graduating from East Carolina University in 1957, I have been continually engaged in teaching, raising tobacco, and working with delinquent youths. I have been a resident of Pitt County and the city of Greenville for 37 years, and feel that only through honest, intelligent representation in the North Carolina Legislature can our citizens be served, and our potential developed.

I respectfully request your vote, and active support in the May 4th Democratic Primary.

Sincerely,

International Business Rivalry Today Is Taking A Sharper Edge

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Ten years ago industry used to talk about an annual billion-dollar loss because of alcoholism. Now it speaks of a $2-billion to $3-billion-a-year loss from the same ailment.

The figures demonstrate why an organization such as the National Industrial Conference Board, whose research generally attempts to advance business economics and management, is about to begin another study of the subject.

The board's 1958 study, called "The Alcoholic Worker," was considered a milestone in industry's recognition of alcoholism as a disease.

"Ten years ago we had to scratch around to find enough companies to make up a rather thin report," said Dr. Stephen Habbe, "we had very little to report of the 1958 report and now in charge of the upcoming study to be financed by Kemper Insurance.

"Today we will have no trouble at all. I believe that among the top 100 companies, one-third have substantial programs to identify their problem workers and do something about them."

Another great change of attitude has taken place in the past 10 years. "Ten years ago," said Habbe, "we had very little to say about drinking at the executive level. Now we want to get into that this time too."

"Companies are much freer in telling you about the drinking problems at the shop level or at the sales level than they are at the executive level."

It is just this realization, that there are many hundreds of executives among America's five million alcoholics, that now contributes to the higher price tag of drinking. Executive errors generally are much more costly than shop errors.

During the 10 years since the first report many corporations have also become more aware that the losses they once attributed to more conventional illnesses really have an alcoholic base.

This multibillion dollar hangover results in more absenteeism, accidents, employee turnover, lost production, bad decisions and lowered morale. The worst of these, in Habbe's estimate, is absenteeism.

To fire the alcoholic, as is frequently suggested today and which was the method of dealing with the problem in the old days, is now thought of as a very crude method of dealing with the problem.

"We don't blame someone for getting pneumonia and we shouldn't blame someone for getting alcoholism," Habbe stated. But there is a practical reason also: firing the alcoholic may be uneconomical.

To dismiss the alcoholic is to write off a company's investment in him. This could be very costly, more costly than rehabilitation, especially if the replacement turns out to be a victim of the same ailment.

Asked if he thought there was a possibility that the losses due to alcoholism might be reduced, Habbe replied:

"I would think so. It would not be cut to zero, of course, but it can be controlled. The recovery rate in alcoholism is quite good if you approach the illness in a reasonable way. Companies tell us of being able to achieve 50 to 70 per cent success in individual cases.

"I put recovery in quotes, because it is known by specialists in this area that nobody really recovers from alcoholism. They must abstain. They cannot take one additional drink."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Facing the aisle of a campaign bus in a sweat-soaked shirt, hitting it off well with the crowds—Nelson A. Rockefeller in his first full day of campaigning for the presidency seemed a man glad to be in the race at last.

After his announcement Wednesday that he was going after the Republican nomination, the New York governor hopped to Iowa Thursday for a day of campaigning.

It was, he said, "one of the most exhilarating days of my life."

Rockefeller was interrupted 16 times by applause in a speech before some 8,000 persons at the University of Iowa as he called for voting at age 18 and a lottery plan to pick draftees.

Later, on his way to a fundraising dinner in Cedar Rapids—another friendly audience—he couldn't sit still in his campaign bus.

Shucking his coat, he kept prowling the length of the bus, his shirt clammy with perspiration, as he spun off ideas and swapped thoughts with a group of students in the back.

Rockefeller planned to return to New York today but didn't disclose where he would appear next in pursuit of the voter.

Richard M. Nixon, who has a head start of months on Rockefeller in the quest for the GOP nomination, touched again

Thursday on the "black capitalism" concept he recently introduced.

In a nationwide radio address from Indianapolis, Ind., the former vice president said tax incentives and loan guarantees could help many Negroes to become owners of their businesses and "remove the ceiling from black aspiration."

Nixon is the only Republican on the ballot in Indiana's primary next Tuesday. But the Democratic contest that day continues to grow in import.

Aides of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., say that if he wins 30 per cent of the vote in the three-man competition he will interpret this as a signal to press on in his fight for the presidential nomination.

During a wide-ranging day of campaigning Thursday in Indiana, McCarthy seemed to be saying—or at least suggesting—that he expects to trail Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in the primary.

The third Democrat in the race is Gov. Roger D. Branigin, a favorite son trying to keep Kennedy or McCarthy from getting their hands on the votes the Indiana delegation will take to the Democratic National Convention.

Kennedy also put in a strenuous day among the Hoosiers. One handshake lasted a split second too long as his open convertible was moving through South Bend and the candidate tumbled out onto the pavement. Afterward, he exhibited a puffed upper lip.

Not entered in the Indiana primary, the third Democrat out to bag the nomination, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, continued his efforts to establish an identity separate from, but in harmony with, his job as vice president.

Captain Recalls A Wall Of Fire In Assault On Valley

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
A SHAU VALLEY, Vietnam (AP) — "The fire was coming up so heavy it sounded like a steady roar. It was a solid red wall beside me."

Capt. Denny Miner of Harrisburg, Pa., tensed as he recalled that initial assault April 19 into this long, green valley near the Laotian border. Miner, a helicopter pilot in the 1st Air Cavalry Division, was in the first wave that entered the Communist stronghold.

American troops had not entered the valley in force for two years. North Vietnamese troops, using Russian-made antiaircraft weapons, were in bunkers and ready.

Pilots here said 10 choppers were destroyed the first day by the enemy gunners and another 13 were hit so badly they just managed to limp back to base.

"That first day was hell," Miner said. "The fire was coming up so heavy it sounded like another engine running alongside. You know, usually the upcoming rounds make a cracking sound, you can hear, but this was a steady roar. I looked out the side window and it was a solid red wall beside me. All those tracers."

Miner, red-eyed from lack of sleep, paused. "We were so lucky. We didn't take a single hit."

Many of his friends were not so lucky. Machine gun fire from the North Vietnamese in bunkers blasted the tail of a ship directly in front of Miner. He had to swerve sharply to miss the rotar blade that spun by him.

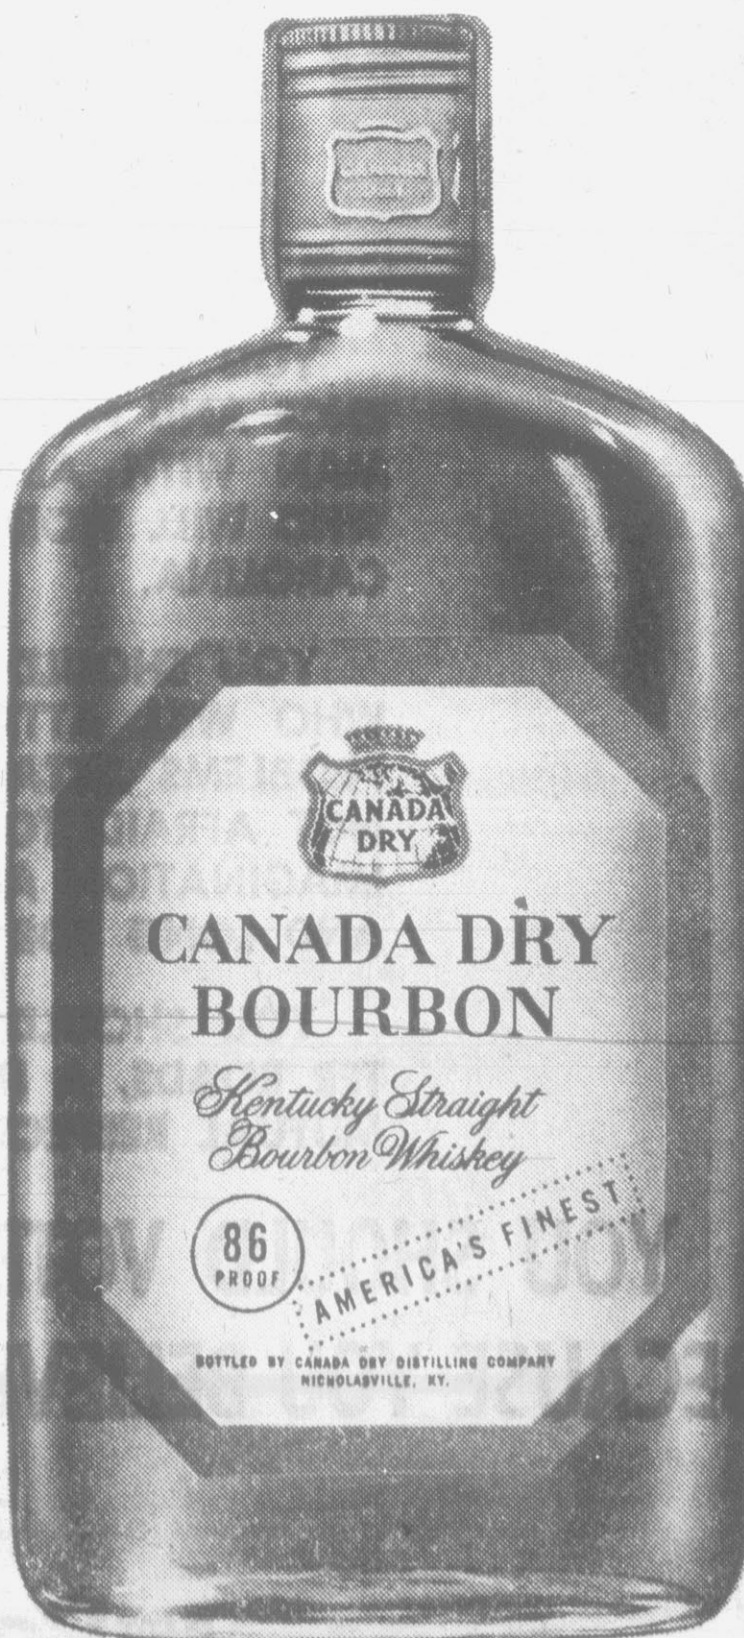

Skytroopers, as the 1st Cavalrymen call themselves, found light ground resistance once they got in position.

But the helicopter took a severe beating. Miner said it was the biggest loss of choppers in one day he could recall.

No Matter, Even If Snake In There

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Fireman Bill Lee rushed to St. Mary's School when the sisters reported a black snake was in the school's station wagon. But he couldn't find the snake.

Lee took the vehicle to the fire station, where it was sprayed in an effort to drive out the reptile.

First a can of deodorant was used, then a can of hair spray, followed by a 15-pound bottle of fire extinguisher and, finally, some Chemical Mace borrowed from the police department.

Still no snake, but Lee says it doesn't matter—no one could use the station wagon for a while even if the snake comes out. It smells too badly.

Pirates List 1969 Basketball Slate

A 22 game regular season basketball schedule, which includes three teams which are on the schedule for the first time, has been announced for East Carolina University in 1968-69.

Such national powers as West Virginia, South Carolina, St. Francis, and St. Peter's of Pennsylvania and Marshall are included, but the highlight of the season will be the first Annual Eastern Carolina Classic, an eight-team tournament the Bucs host in December.

The tournament field will feature the Air Force Academy, Baylor University, Delaware University, Cornell University, University of Virginia, Virginia Tech, and William & Mary.

"On paper, this certainly is the toughest schedule ever for East Carolina," said Coach Tom Quinn.

"We are particularly happy to add South Carolina to our schedule. They will be moving into a coliseum next season, and Coach Frank McGuire is expected to have an outstanding team.

"Marshall, which is new to our schedule, annually has one of the toughest teams in the Mid-American Conference and Fairfield likewise is annually strong in the Eastern College Athletic Conference."

Besides these newcomers, the Pirates play Old Dominion, Atlantic Christian and East Tennessee outside the Southern Conference, and Furman, The Citadel, William and Mary, George Washington, and Virginia Military Institute within the Conference.

A home and home arrangement involves all the Southern Conference teams on the schedule, while non-conference foes with home and home dates are East Tennessee and St. Francis.

"From all indications, the Southern Conference race next year will be a good one," Quinn said. "Of course, Davidson will be the favorite, but I expect the competition to be extremely keen. We anticipate improvement in our program, and I personally foresee a marked increase in interest."

The schedule for 1968 is as follows: November 30, West Virginia (A); December 4, Old Dominion (H); 7, Atlantic Christian (H); 11, William & Mary (A); 18, South Carolina (A); 20, George Washington (H); December 26-28, Eastern Carolina Classic (H); 31, Furman U. (A); January 4, The Citadel (H); 8, East Tennessee State (H); 11, William & Mary (H); 14, Richmond (A); 18, Marshall University (H); 20, V. M. I. (A); 25, St. Francis (A); 30, St. Peter's (A); February 3, East Tennessee (A); 6, Richmond (H); 8, St. Francis (H); 10, George Washington (A); 15, Fairfield (H); 18, The Citadel (A); 22, V. M. I. (H); 27, 28 and March 1, Southern Conference Tournament.

Buc Netters Close With Win

WILSON — East Carolina University closed out the regular season yesterday with a 7-2 tennis victory over Atlantic Christian College.

The Bucs spotted the Bulldogs a victory in the first match, then went on to sweep the rest of the singles, and lose one of the doubles matches.

Spitball Controversy Is Hot Again As Mets Win

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Nolan Ryan has some advice for John Boomer. Pickle brine. It keeps you out of spitball trouble with the umpires.

The Great Spitball Controversy erupted again Thursday night in the midst of the New York Mets' 3-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Phillies' reliever John Boomer was beginning his warmups in the seventh inning and was amazed to hear umpire Ed Vargo yell, "ball one."

"How can he be charged with a ball on a warmup pitch?" screamed Manager Gene Mauch. "He went to his mouth inside the 18-foot circle of the mound," said Vargo, "and that's a ball anytime."

A discussion ensued, with Mauch ordering Boomer to spit on his hand twice more and Vargo calling balls two and three and ejecting the by-now bewildered pitcher.

Mauch inquired what would happen if Dick Hall, who replaced Boomer, should commit the same offense.

"I'll forfeit the game to the Mets," said Vargo, ending the discussion. So by the time Bud Harrelson of the Mets finally got up, the count was 3-0.

Ryan, the winning pitcher who allowed just three hits in the seven innings he pitched, said he stays out of trouble because of the pickle brine prescribed by trainer Gus Mauch to treat blisters on his pitching hand.

"I don't like pickles," said Ryan, who was lifted after throwing 136 pitches and striking out 10. "But the brine is doing the job. I keep dipping my finger in a jar of the stuff."

"Only trouble is I don't like the smell. It bothers me, especially when I bring my hand to my mouth. Outside the 18-foot circle, of course."

In other National League games Thursday, Los Angeles outlasted Atlanta 2-1 in 17 innings, Houston blanked St. Louis 4-0, Chicago shut out Pittsburgh 1-0 and Cincinnati downed San Francisco 6-2 in 11 innings.

In the American League, Boston beat California 4-1, Baltimore took New York 7-3 and Minnesota edged Detroit 3-2.

Bob Bailey drove in two runs with singles 11 innings apart as the Dodgers won the longest game they have played since moving to Los Angeles 10 years ago. The Braves tied the game in the ninth on Felix Millan's run-scoring infield single.

Denny Lemaster threw a three-hitter at the league-leading Cardinals and the Astros broke Nelson Briles' consecutive victory string of 13. He had won four this season and nine at the end of the 1967 campaign. Briles singled in the sixth for the first St. Louis hit.

Joe Niekro scattered six hits and Ernie Banks homered for three-game Chicago losing the only run of the game off Jim Bunning in the Cubs' victory. The victory ended a three-game Pirate winning streak and a string.

Johnny Bench came up with a bases-loaded single with two out in the 11th to break open the Cincinnati-San Francisco game and before the inning was over the Reds had scored twice more. Willie McCovey and Jim Hart each hit his fifth homer for the Giants.

Phants Late Surge Falls Short In Last Two Events

The New Bern Bears took the lead after the fifth event yesterday and held off a late Rose High School effort to capture the Northeastern Conference Track and Field Championship.

New Bern and Rose had tied for the regular season championships, both losing one out, against each other.

The Phantoms had rallied from as much as 14 points behind the Bears to pull within three with two events to go, but the Bears outdid the Phants in both to hold off any Rose High hopes.

New Bern captured 49 points in the meet, while Rose finished with 41. West Carteret was third with 34, while Roanoke Rapids finished strong to take fourth with 29 points. Washington had 27, Havelock had 26, Kinston had 13 and Tarboro and Elizabeth City each had two. East Carteret does not field a track team.

Roanoke Rapids actually captured the most individual championships, with five, the pole vault, the 880, the 220, the broad jump and the 880 relay. New Bern had four individual winners, while Rose and Washington each had two and West Carteret had one.

Rose High School's Tim Foley was the meet's only double winner, taking both the high and low hurdles. His 120 low hurdles time of :14.8 established a new conference record.

New Bern and Rose both trailed West Carteret by a point at the end of the 100, but New Bern captured second, third and fourth in the mile, while West Carteret got first and fifth, putting New Bern into an 18-17 lead over the Patriots, while Rose had just nine points.

The Bears and Pats jockeyed for position for the next few events, with New Bern moving out into a 34-28 edge after the shot put, while Rose had advanced to 20 points.

Thereafter Rose steadily closed the gap trailing 38-35 with the mile relay and the discus yet to go. But New Bern took first in the relay to Rose's second, and got second and fifth to Rose's fourth in the discus to sew it up.

Kinston Shoots For Northeastern Title

Celtics Win To Regain Title

It's 13 down and 5 to go for the Kinston Red Devils in their bid for a perfect season in the Northeastern Conference baseball race. The magic number is now 2 for a tie and 3 for the clincher for Paul Jones' crew to repeat as the conference kings.

The Devils only played one game this past week and they had to come from behind to win that one. They edged past Havelock 7-6 on Tuesday after trailing 6-2 as late as the sixth inning. The Devils picked up two runs in the seventh to preserve their perfect record in the conference. Freshman Mike Edwards picked up his seventh straight win in relief.

The Rose High Phantoms split a pair of games this past week to fall three games off the pace. Last Friday, fresh from a five game winning streak, the Phants bumped into sophomore Zeno Edwards of Washington and were shut out and lost 7-0. Ken Beamon lost his first game for Rose in that game and that just about put the crusher on the Phantoms' hopes of catching Kinston. They did bounce back into their Tuesday game with a come-from-behind win over West Carteret 2-1. Pinch-hitter Alan Pate smacked out a two-out two-run double in the seventh to give Jimmy Bond his first pitching win of the year and hand Bruce Maness his second loss.

The New Bern Bears broke a four-game losing streak on the 23rd and then won their second in a row at the expense of Elizabeth City last Friday 11-0 as Tony Salem won his third game of the year. Benny Williams and Scott Davenport both hit their first homers of the year in that game. The Bears played Tarboro on Wednesday after being rained out on Tuesday of this week.

The Tarboro Tigers won their only game of the week to advance into fourth place as left-hander Bo Robinson won his sixth game of the year, striking out 15 in the process in a 3-1 win over Roanoke Rapids on Friday. The Tigers were rained out at Kinston last Wednesday.

Havelock and West Carteret are now tied for fifth and sixth places as the Patriots nipped Havelock last Thursday 1-0 as John Turnage outthrew Vaughn Strum in a fine hurlers duel. Turnage allowed only one hit and Strum three in that battle. The Rams then lost that tough one to Kinston on Tuesday while the Patriots were being clipped by Rose in the same method.

Washington won two this week beating Rose and then Nick Nicholson pitched the second straight Pack shutout downing Elizabeth City Tuesday 5-0.

Bruce Gilliken won his first game of the year for East Carteret as the Mariners downed Roanoke Rapids last Thursday 5-4.

This Friday Kinston can clinch at least a tie for the title with a win over Rose at Greenville in the top game of the day. Other contests find Elizabeth City at East Carteret, New Bern at Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids at Tavelock and West Carteret at Washington. Next Tuesday Kinston will be home to West Carteret, Rose will visit Roanoke Rapids, Havelock is at New Bern, Tarboro at Elizabeth City and Washington at East Carteret.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boston's Celtics once again rule the National Basketball Association roost after what Bill Russell terms "one of the greatest victories of all the championships we've won."

The 6-foot-9 player-coach referred not only to Thursday night's 124-109 triumph in the Forum, home of the Lakers, but to the playoffs over-all.

For Russell it meant the first title as a coach for Boston won eight straight under Red Auerbach. The Celtics were beaten out last year by the Philadelphia 76ers.

Big Bill figures this one of the finest seasons because "this Celtic team is not one of the most talented that I have been on."

Literally, however, they blew the Lakers off the court in the first half to build a 20-point advantage at 70-50. John Havlicek, who wound up with 40, and Bailey Howell, with 30, led the assault.

Los Angeles played poorly in the finale which gave Boston the series by a 4-2 count, the sixth time in the modern reign of the Celtics that the Lakers have been their final victims.

Boston built a 35-28 first-quarter advantage before the 17:38 in the new Forum and then surged to a 20-point lead early in the second stanza.

Elgin Baylor missed a free throw and incredibly failed on a stuff shot moments later Havlicek was fouled in the back court, sank two free throws so instead of Los Angeles collecting three points, the Celtics had two. In the space of scant minutes they scored 15 points to a pair for Los Angeles.

Late in the third period, Los Angeles closed to within 11 points at 82-71 and again at 84-73.

"I thought we were going to do it when they got down to those 11, but they shot right up," commented Laker Coach Bill van Breda Kolff.

In the American Basketball Association, the New Orleans Jugs and the Pittsburgh Pipers will engage in their showdown battle for the championship Saturday night in Pittsburgh. The best-of-7 series is tied at three victories for each team.

Water Polo Exhibit Set

A demonstration of water polo will be held Saturday at East Carolina University's Minges Coliseum Natatorium. Dr. Ray Martinez announced today.

The exhibition, starting at 2 p.m. will be conducted by the Wilmington, Del., Aquatic Club and the Northern Virginia Aquatic Club.

Ex-Olympic Coach Stan Tinkham of the NVAC will be in charge, aided by former Hungarian water polo coach George Boward, who now coaches the Wilmington team.

Greenville Is Softball Member

Greenville has joined in with Tarboro, Washington and Roanoke Rapids to form an Inter-City Fast Pitch Softball League.

According to league officials, a 28-game schedule has been set up.

The first game will be played Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Davidson Will Leave Southern If Double Round-Robin Is Required

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The Southern Conference was to vote today on a proposal that would further limit the number of athletic scholarships member schools can issue in football and other sports each year.

Also on the agenda at the conference's spring meeting here was a vote on a proposal that would have the four first round games in the season - ending basketball tournament played on the courts of the teams that finished highest in the regular season standings.

The proposal limiting grants in aid was made by The Citadel. It would limit scholarships to 25 a year in football, five a year in basketball and 10 a year for all other sports combined.

Neither this nor the one that would have the first four preliminary tournament games played away from the tournament site was expected to pass.

Charlotte's invitation to have the March tournament played in the Coliseum again in 1969 was expected to be accepted. It will be the sixth consecutive year that the event has been awarded to Charlotte.

The conference is expected to operate with only eight teams this fall. West Virginia formally ended its ties with the circuit today.

Reports that the University of Chattanooga was interested in joining did not bear fruit. The Tennessee school has not applied for membership and was not represented at the meeting.

Old Dominion College of Lynchburg, Va., was represented but was not to be admitted at the spring meeting.

Although the issue will not be settled until the June meeting, a good bit of attention was given at the spring session to proposals by Davidson that the number of conference basketball games for tournament eligibility be lowered from 10 to seven. This would permit the nationally prominent Wildcats to schedule more inter-sectional games and meet each of the other conference teams only once.

The Citadel countered this proposal with one of its own—that each team be required to play the other member teams twice on a home-and-home basis. This would mean 14 conference games for each school.

The issue will come to a vote at the June meeting. If The Citadel's proposal wins, Davidson reportedly would withdraw from the conference.

Track Team In State Meet

The East Carolina University track team is completing in the State Track Meet being held today and tomorrow at Duke University, sponsored by WTVD-TV of Durham.

The Bucs are hoping for an improved finish in the field. Last year, the Pirates finished next to last, and gathered only five points. Coach Bill Carson feels that this year's performance will be much improved and the Bucs will move up in the field of contenders, which includes every track team in the state.

All Signs Pointing To A Real Milk Price War

By RONALD GOLLOBIN
Reflector Staff Writer

Indications are that a no-holds-barred milk-price war is about to break out in the wake of the state milk commission's removal of pricing restrictions. Sunday will mark the second week since the commission's ruling became effective. In the two weeks since, fierce in-fighting has raged between milk distributors in the state.

Of the five distributors serving Greenville, all have reduced milk prices to their wholesale accounts. The price reductions are based on a sliding scale so that larger accounts merit larger discounts.

Many of the smaller stores feel that the sliding-scale method of determining discounts leaves them at a disadvantage. As C. E. Baines, manager-owner of the B and R Food Lane put it, "It's the same old story of the big getting bigger and the small getting smaller." Baines also reflected the feeling of most merchants, both large and small, in the statement, "I will not be the first to cut prices, but will be competitive."

Another small grocery store owner Joe Ange said "I think that the chains are going to cut prices so low that nobody can make any money out of it."

"I'm not going to jack prices

WAR OR 'PEACE? . . . The five milk distributors serving Greenville are represented here in this photograph along with the A and P private label brand. (Reflector Photo by R. W. Gollobin) up or down."

The story behind why the milk commission decided to quit requiring milk distributors to file their prices with the commission is the increasing likelihood of private label milk coming in to the state. Private label milk would be sold at a price below other milk brands.

There have been sporadic incidents of milk-price cutting in the state, but so far, only Big Bear, a chain of supermarkets, and Colonial Stores have lowered their milk prices.

No one in the Greenville area has lowered prices on milk as of this morning.

The North Carolina Food Dealers Association has issued a form letter to members urging grocers not to get involved in a price war.

The letter reads, "The recent action of the North Carolina Milk Commission in suspending the Fair Trade Practice Rules including the filing of retail and wholesale prices by distributors effective April 21, 1968, ought to be looked at very carefully by each of our members before taking any drastic action affecting the retail price of milk. The experience of retail grocers in other states where milk has been used as a loss leader has not been very good. For example, we know that in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, about one year ago, the retail price of milk dropped as low as 19 cents per half gallon, and it is reported that supermarkets in Oklahoma City lost on an average of $1,000 per store during one weekend of selling and smaller stores lost proportionately.

"We simply suggests, therefore, that the relaxation of the rules with respect to the pricing and sale of milk should be viewed very carefully and sensibly to the end that no member of this Association will be hurt financially by the unreasonable pricing and selling of this commodity at the retail level."

The letter is dated April 22, 1968 and is signed by G. Everette Suddreth, Jr., Executive Vice President.

In the meantime, retailers are enjoying great profit margins as a result of the reduction in the cost of milk to them. Most, however, feel that the present prices will not be maintained. Sooner or later, the merchants feel, one or the other will cut the price of milk in an attempt to gain new business. This will signal the start of the war since most stores have expressed that they will be competitive.

A fact that is not generally known is that the milk commission can come back into the picture and again set retail and wholesale prices of milk.

This is provided for since the commission is charged with the responsibility of seeing that milk is marketed in an "orderly" manner, and should conditions in the sale of milk become "chaotic," the commission will at that time hold hearings and possibly resume setting prices.

In the event of a price war, the dairy farmer will not be hurt immediately. The milk commission still dictates the price that must be paid to milk producers, insuring them of a stable income no matter how low the retail price of milk may ultimately fall.

Plane 'Bombed' Plymouth Plant

PLYMOUTH, N. C. (AP) — A Navy plane accidentally "bombed" a building at the Weyerhaeuser Co. plant near Plymouth Thursday, causing no injuries and only minor damage.

A smoke bomb was dropped through the roof of the building by a Navy jet from the Oceana Naval Base at Norfolk, Va. It was on a flight to the bombing range in Dare County, N. C.

A Navy spokesman said the lumber plant was used by the pilot as a location site and as the plane passed over the bomb was "inadvertently released."

The practice bomb exploded about 40 feet from two employees. They thought a motor in the plant had blown.

A Navy spokesman described the bomb as 10 inches long and weighing 25 pounds. He said it contained no explosive charge but did have a smoke charge so that its impact point could be seen and plotted.

In the room where the bomb fell were Jack N. Sheppard of Plymouth and Walter J. Harris Jr. of Pantego. They reported the bomb hit a steel beam, cut some conduit wire, ricocheted into a brick wall where it exploded and then hit the floor.

They said the explosion was loud enough to be heard several buildings away and the room quickly filled with smoke.

Maryland 'Tilts' Slot Machines

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland's one-armed bandits had their other arms copped off by the Maryland General Assembly this year.

Legislative action also put "tilt" on some pinball machines around the state.

One-armed bandit slot machines have been legal in four southern Maryland counties for some 20 years now. The legislature voted three years ago to phase them out of legal existence this year. Some last ditch attempts to save them failed and as of July 1 they will be part of the colorful history of Southern Maryland.

Any type of gambling on pinball machines, of which Gov. Spiro T. Agnew is a strong foe, was also ruled out. The "amusement-only" type machines got a renewed lease on life.

Late Filers' Prosecution Possible, Not Likely

RALEIGH (AP)—The names of 114 candidates and 10 committees working for candidates that were late in filing reports of campaign spending are in the Atty. Gen. Wade Bruton's office today.

Criminal prosecution is possible, although not probable, in all of the cases as well as against the 54 late filers on a list Eure reported to Bruton Tuesday.

The difference in the lists is that the 54 had not filed their expense reports at all Democrat Reginald Hawkins was the only gubernatorial candidate on that list, although he denied any wrongdoing.

The list of 124 given Bruton's office Thursday included two of the five candidates for governor, Lt. Gov. Bob Scott and Mel Broughton. Also on the new list were committees representing Scott, Hawkins and Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner, R-N.C.

Eure said he was sending the list of 124 names to Bruton Thursday because "I have been criticized in newspaper editorials as being lenient. I don't have anything to do except to turn the list over to the attorney general."

Police Tell On David Kennedy

MCLEAN, Va. (AP) — "I regret to say," said Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, "that one of my sons in the company of another boy got into trouble last Saturday while my wife and I were away from home."

The Democratic presidential contender issued a statement while campaigning in Indiana Thursday after police in this Washington suburb disclosed his 12-year-old son, David, was apprehended last week after a rock-throwing incident on a highway near the Kennedys' Hickory Hill home.

David, one of 10 Kennedy children, and the other boy were brought to a police station after a motorist complained they threw rocks at his car, said Police Chief William L. Durrer of Fairfax County.

No charges were brought against the boys and they were taken home—David by a governess and the other boy by his parents, Durrer said.

"We will follow the same procedures we use in all such incidents involving young children without prior records and hope the parents of the boys will be able to work things out," the chief added.

Police said the complaint, brought by Leoneo L. Correa of McLean, was dropped on condition the boys' parents pay the $119.72 damage. The windshield of Correa's car was smashed.

Sen. Kennedy said of his son: "He feels very badly about what he has done and has apologized to all concerned. He is a good boy who has always been a source of joy and pride to all our family and never has been involved in any trouble whatsoever prior to this incident."

"He and Mrs. Kennedy will of course appear at the appropriate time and place to meet the requirements of the law."

Ballentine Named To New Office

RALEIGH (AP)—Former Raleigh restaurateur W. W. "Red" Balentine has been named to the new post of state supervisor of training programs for the tourist industry in the State Department of Community Colleges.

Balentine's appointment to the $8,940-a-year job was approved Thursday by the State Board of Education.

The new program will train waitresses, cooks, motel, hotel and restaurant managers, hostesses, policemen and others who come in contact with the public.

A newsman asked Eure if he thought anything would be done about the late filers. He answered, "There never has been anything done in the past."

The deadline for filing preliminary expense reports was April 24, 10 days before Saturday's primary. Failure to file a report is a misdemeanor, Eure said. If convicted, a candidate could be fined or imprisoned or both in the discretion of the court. The maximum imprisonment is two years.

Eure said Republican candidate for governor Jack Stickley was the only one of the five gubernatorial candidates "who has met the requirements of the law." Stickley and his campaign committee filed their reports on the day of the deadline.

The failure of Lt. Gov. Bob Scott to meet the deadline brought sharp criticism from James W. Mason, state manager for Broughton. Mason apparently did not realize that his candidate was late, too.

Mason filed an expense report on the day of the deadline for Broughton's campaign committee. However, Eure said Broughton's personal report was not received until the next day.

Later Mason issued a statement referring to Scott's late filing. He said it is a "sorry state of affairs when an elected official of the state of North Carolina can thumb his nose at the laws he is sworn to uphold and get away with it."

Mason said he hoped the attorney general "will seek to bring Mr. Scott before the bar of justice. . . ."

Of the 124 late filers, 36 are candidates for statewide or national office. A list of the 36 follows:

U.S. senator—John T. Gathings Sr., Charles Pratt, Robert Vance Somers, Edwin W. Tenney Jr.

Governor — Robert W. Scott, Robert W. Scott Committee, J. Melville Broughton, Reginald A. Hawkins Committee, James C. Gardner Committee.

Lieutenant governor — Frank M. Matlock, Trosper Noland Combs.

State treasurer—Sneed High. Superintendent of public instruction — Raymond A. Stone.

Committee, Wendel Smiley, William D. Harrill.

Attorney general — Robert Howell, S. A. Chalk Jr.

Commissioner of labor—John B. Wardell Jr.

Commissioner of insurance — Edwin S. Lanier, George A. Belk, Carl W. Rice.

Church Doctrine Faces Outside Ruling Test

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A far-reaching legal battle is shaping up today over whether an arm of government can decide what a Christian church is supposed to teach.

The issue stems from Georgia court rulings that a major Protestant denomination has not properly adhered to its doctrine and therefore two congregations could pull out and take church property with them.

Broad religious concern centers on an appeal being readied for the U.S. Supreme Court. Church legal experts say it's the first time in the United States that an instrumentality of the state has acted to pass judgment on whether a religious body is rightly promulgating its faith.

Directly involved is the million-member Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

But there were wide implications for other denominations, with immense property holdings at stake, and more basically, the historic church position that the state can't specify what constitutes doctrinal fidelity.

"I think nearly every denomination is disturbed by this thing," says Arad Riggs, a New York attorney and counsel for the Reformed Church in America. "What the Georgia court has done is to usurp the right of the church to define itself."

Ultimate outcome of the case could effect numerous other lawsuits, brewing across the country, involving similar questions of church teachings and practices, and control of millions of dollars in parish buildings.

In the Georgia case, two Savannah congregations, the Hull

Memorial Presbyterian church and the Eastern Heights Presbyterian church, quit the denomination, claiming it had departed from its faith, and that they as its authentic heirs were entitled to keep local property.

A county court jury made up mainly of Baptists upheld the claim, finding that the Presbyterian denomination had "deviated substantially" from its doctrines and practices. The Georgia Supreme Court has sustained the decision.

"In a controversy like this, for a court to say what constitutes the 'true church' or what doesn't, is getting into pretty ticklish territory," commented the Rev. Dr. C. Emanuel Carlson, of Washington, D.C., head of the Joint Baptist Committee on Public Affairs.

Often the conflict within denominations has arisen—as it did in the Georgia case—over congregational opposition to denominational stands for racial integration, involvement in social issues and participation in the National Council of Churches, a cooperative agency of most major Protestant denominations.

Richard T. Cowan, attorney for the two Savannah churches, said the outcome would be felt all over the country, particularly in the South, where many congregations are considering disaffiliation from national bodies.

Frank S. Cheatham Jr., attorney for the denomination in the case, said the decision—if not overturned—could open a "Pandora's box" of litigation allowing congregations to quit denominations and claim property on the ground that parent bodies held wrong beliefs, thus making courts arbiters of religion.

He says this breaks with the U.S. tradition separating church and state.

Among recent related cases, a federal appeals court in New Orleans rejected an attempt by a majority of Trinity Methodist church in Mobile, Ala., to wrest property away from the denomination after deciding to leave it.

The outcome was similar in two Methodist cases in South Carolina in which majorities of congregations sought to sever property from the denomination, but which was retained by a minority loyal to it.

Ordinarily, when members are divided, courts have held that those adhering to the denomination keep the property, since it was paid for and built—often generations back—by denominational supporters, and present members hold it only as a passing trust, not to be diverted from its purpose.

In Detroit, a protracted court struggle is going on regarding Mayflower church, a minority of whose members claim its property on ground that affiliation with the United Church of Christ is contrary to their Congregationalist tenets.

The denomination is a merged body including Congregationalists. Allegiance to it is favored by a majority of the Mayflower church, but the minority claims it is a "radical departure" from the faith.

On the West Coast, property fights are in the courts over three United Presbyterian churches—Laurelhurst and Hillcrest in Seattle and Community church at Palm Springs, Calif.

Majorities of members want to leave the denomination and take the property, claiming the denomination has veered from the faith.

Rough Going In Vietnam For The 101st Airborne

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
Associated Press Writer

WITH THE 101st AIRBORNE DIVISION, Vietnam (AP) — Needle-like thorns shred arms and legs, tear uniforms. Vines and exposed roots cause soldiers to trip and fall.

Hills become slippery after footsteps have worn down the vegetation and movement upward gets tough.

It's rough going for the "Screaming Eagles" of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division trying to smash the triple-canopied jungle supply route of North Vietnamese troops menacing the old imperial capital of Hue.

The 101st has one of the toughest missions in South Vietnam: providing external security for the shaky city of Hue and cutting the Communist command's supply lines along Highway 547 to the west.

Highway 547 is a main route all the way from the Laotian border, through the A Shau Valley into Hue and beyond to the coast. While troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and from the South Vietnamese army are hunting down supply bases in the valley in Operation Delaware, the paratroopers of the 101st are blocking the North Vietnamese northeast of the valley and cutting their main supply route.

Division engineers, operating huge plows, have widened the road in segments and have cleared areas up to 200 yards on either side.

The road, hardly a highway by most standards, is unpaved and winds through thick jungle and rugged hills before reaching the broad sweep of the coastal plain and hue.

"Right now we're sitting astride the highway and we're cutting the North Vietnamese off from Hue and the coast," said Maj. Gen. Orlino M. Barsanti, commander of the 101st.

While the engineers move along the road "never in the same place twice," says Barsanti—the main strength of the paratroopers is committed to the jungles.

The paratroopers operate in company size or smaller units. As much as 90 per cent of their activity takes place at night, when they set ambushes for North Vietnamese units.

The engineers, working out the division base at Camp Eagle, have cleared 20 miles along Highway 547.

The paratroopers reported killing 440 North Vietnamese soldiers in the first week of Operation Delaware, taking eight prisoners and capturing 108 individual weapons and 15 larger guns.

A division spokesman said the North Vietnamese were leaving many bodies behind, "just lying there, not burying them or dragging them off." One reason may be the rugged terrain, which makes any movement extremely difficult.

Two weeks ago a battalion from the 101st and a South Vietnamese airborne task force were lifted by helicopters into a steep valley in the area and began fighting their way up a pair of hills.

The United States Secret Service was established on June 23, 1860.

The Worry Clinic Drugs Dull Appetites And Physical Ability

Prof. Bill has a common sex worry that troubles millions of husbands. But his new wife is smart in diagnosing the root of his problem. So scrapbook this case and send it to any husband who is trying to evade or avoid facing his wife in a romantic boudoir setting.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE F-559: Prof. Bill, aged 48, offers a common sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "my former wife suffered from cancer for 3 years before she finally passed away."

"I lost a lot of sleep caring for her, so I finally developed the habit of relying on tranquilizers and sleeping pills."

"It has now been two years since I lost my first wife."

"Six months ago I married a very charming school teacher, aged 40, but I seem to be unable to function very well in the erotic realm."

"My new wife thinks it may be due to my habit of using sleeping pills. Is that likely, Dr. Crane?"

"Yes, it is very common for drugs to produce sexual impotence in men."

"That holds true not only of chronic users of tranquilizers and sleeping pills.

But is likewise evident among cigarette smokers.

For heavy users of tobacco not only seem to reduce their gastric appetite considerably, but also their erotic desires.

Many a man who comes to us doctors complaining of a platonic role in marriage, may be only 40 years of age.

His brothers, aged 50 to 60, may be perfectly potent.

But they aren't smokers, whereas the impotent younger brother is the tobacco addict and thus platonic even before middle age.

Alcohol likewise exerts a depressing effect on the reactions of the drinker.

It not only slows down the auto driver's reaction time by an average of 10 per cent, thus making him late in applying the brakes.

But it also slows down his erotic functioning.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," you may reply, "but I know of bridegrooms who couldn't function at all till they took a few drinks."

"But after a whiskey or two, they were no longer platonic!"

"How do you reconcile those divergent facts?"

Well, a man who has idealized his sweetheart and who has has thus created an angelic "image" about her, may find it difficult to shatter that halo and react to her physically.

And bridegrooms who have picked a girl because of her resemblance to their mother or favorite sister, may also have a vague incest taboo that checkmates their erotic action.

So a little alcohol may fog their memory enough to obscure that angelic halo or mother-image until they can function ardently.

But a few more drinks would make them sleepy and inert.

Sleeping pills and other drugs that exert an anesthetic or sedative effect, thus curb erotic behavior.

Prof. Bill's wife is very smart, therefore, to suggest that her new husband's drug addiction may underlie his platonic behavior.

And please remember that cigarette fiends, chronic alcoholics and tranquilizer "topers" are just as much drug addicts as narcotic users!

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

If a man's eroticism is not drugged, a seductive wife who plays her cards seductively, can banish his impotence in one session!

But it requires active instead of passive seduction!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., feels there should be a law to keep news media from carrying "very unfair" stories about a community.

In a House speech Thursday, Whitten said a televised news report from Marks, Miss., staging area for one of the marches supporting the Poor People's Campaign in Washington, D.C., concentrated on a rundown Negro area and contained no shots of the town's more attractive sections.

The pictures will have "a very bad effect on the reputation of the city," Whitten said. It should be possible for a community to get a court order to prevent release of such material, he said.

A CBS spokesman in New York said the subject of the program was the Poor People's March "and the Negro neighborhood is where it will be launched. We identified it as a Negro neighborhood. We weren't doing a story about Marks' substantial neighborhoods."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has given the House Foreign Affairs Committee an unencouraging progress report on efforts to win the release of the U.S. ship Pueblo and her crew.

The intelligence ship was seized by the North Koreans Jan. 23 and charged with operating in North Korean territorial waters.

"I deeply regret that in 15 meetings at Panmunjom," Rusk told the committee Thursday, "we have not broken through on the Pueblo case."

The capture of the Pueblo, he said, is symptomatic of "the rapidly growing hostility of North Korea, both toward the South Koreans and us."

Michaux Voted Into Bar Ass'n

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Membership in the North Carolina Bar Association has been approved for H. M. Michaux, the Negro attorney from Durham whose exclusion prompted withdrawal of the Duke Law School from the organization.

Michaux said Thursday he had received notification of his membership by mail. He said he also was told that his brother, Eric C. Michaux, had still not been accepted.

Eric Michaux, a captain in the Air Force, is a judge advocate in the general corps, the legal branch of the military.

H. M. Michaux said no reason was given for his brother's exclusion from the organization, which reportedly now has four Negro members.

Patrols Slay 12 Arab Saboteurs

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops patrolling the Negev Desert while most of their countrymen celebrated the 20th anniversary of their independence killed 12 Arab saboteurs in a clash Thursday night, the army announced.

This raised the total number of Arab infiltrators reported killed this week to 30 and made it the most successful week in the army's antiguerrilla campaign since the Arab-Israeli war last June.

The army said about 125 guerrillas have been killed since last September, when Arab commando activities accelerated.

Two Israelis were wounded, one seriously, in the fight Thursday night near the settlement of Neot Hakikar, on the border with Jordan. An army spokesman said mines, Soviet machine guns, hand grenades and explosives were found near the bodies of the saboteurs.

Earlier this week, the army said a patrol killed 13 infiltrators Sunday night near Jericho, in the West Bank territory seized from Jordan in the war last June.

Military sources said they believe the sudden growth in size of guerrilla bands—previously they rarely exceeded five men—is due to the saboteurs' belief that they can break through Israeli patrols and ambushes if they have greater firepower.

Israel had defied the U.N. Security Council and its Arab neighbors Thursday by parading its military might and trophies of last year's war through an Arab sector of Jerusalem in the highlight of the independence celebration.

The Security Council had called on the Israelis to cancel the parade, contending it would harm chances of a peace agreement with the Arabs. Thursday night the council slapped Israel's wrist with a unanimous resolution "deeply deploring" the holding of the parade.

Mayor 'Victim' Of Skateboard

CHICKAMAUGA, Ga. (AP) — Mayor Frank Pierce has been hospitalized after an accident in the driveway of his home in which he suffered a broken leg.

As the 44-year-old mayor told it, he was zipping along just fine Wednesday on a skateboard when "all of a sudden I landed on the driveway with my legs twisted under me."

Stanford Center Reports Heart Transplant 'Fair'

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
AP Science Writer
STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A healthy heart replacing a badly diseased one has carried Joseph Rizzor beyond a critical period and into his first postoperative day.

"The first 10½ hours are critical," said doctors at Stanford University Medical Center when they completed a 4½-hour transplant operation at noon Thursday. Rizzor, 40, received the heart of a 43-year-old man.

Dr. Norman E. Shumway, 44, who headed the transplant team said the condition of the stocky Salinas, Calif., carpenter was fair. Because of a lung condition, the patient was receiving artificial respiration to help him breathe, Shumway said.

The donor, whose family asked anonymity, died of brain damage doctors described as irreversible.

Rizzor, eighth person in medical history to undergo a human heart transplant, entered the hospital in March after suffering a serious heart condition for seven years.

He wanted the surgery.

"I wish that were me," Rizzor had said when he heard about the world's first heart transplant, which was done at Cape Town, South Africa, last Dec. 3. Rizzor was quoted by his wife Eileen.

"At first I was shocked by the idea but time and the knowledge of how desperately my husband wanted to undergo the operation have made me realize that this may be his only chance to live," Mrs. Rizzor said before the operation began at 7:30 a.m.

She said her husband "could make anything" but had been bedridden and unable to work for the past two years.

There are four children, Mark, 15, Michelle, 13, Jody, 7, and Christopher, 3. The couple was married almost 20 years ago and moved to Salinas eight years ago.

Rizzor's was the second transplant performed by the Shumway team. The first gave a new heart to Mike Kasperak, 54, year-old steelworker, last Jan. 6. The heart functioned well but Kasperak died after 15 days from internal bleeding and other complications.

Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard performed the historic first at Cape Town's Groote Schuur Hospital. The patient, Louis Washkansky, 54, died of pneumonia 18 days after the surgery.

Barnard performed another heart transplant Jan. 2, and the patient, Philip Blaiberg, 54, is reported in good condition. Barnard discharged him from the hospital in mid-March.

On May 15, 1961 the American Telegraph and Telephone Company reported that they had more than one million stockholders—the first corporation that could make this claim.

Police Hunting Missing Teacher

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A 212-pound woman gym teacher fighting for her 12-year high school job was sought as a missing person today by the Marin County sheriff's office.

Elizabeth R. Blodgett, 41, was told by Redwood High School Principal Donald Kreps that she would not be rehired next fall because of her weight.

She was scheduled to testify Thursday in the fourth day of a hearing, which she requested, regarding the intention of the principal. She did not appear.

Her lawyer, A. Leonard Bjorklund, asked a sheriff's deputy to go to her home in Marshall. A note was found. The San Francisco Chronicle quoted it as saying in part:

"I am a very ordinary human being, but I did a good job at Redwood High. I have watched and listened ... and I can no longer bear the strain."

The note referred to the thyroid medicine the teacher was taking under her physician's prescription and added: "It becomes clear that there is little or no consideration given to the thyroid problem ..."

Eisenhower Said Progressing

MARCH AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The progress being made by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower since suffering a mild heart attack Monday continues to satisfy his doctors.

A late bulletin said "there has been no recurrence of any difficulties. . . Gen. Eisenhower remains at complete bed-rest in the cardiac care unit."

"The general spent another comfortable day," the announcement said.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The campaign strategists have had their chance and it will be up to North Carolina voters Saturday to show whose tactics worked best.

Most observers agree that the campaign for the Democratic and Republican gubernatorial nominations has been one of the state's quietest and least dramatic, despite the Democratic candidacy of a Negro and a two-day battle for the Republican nomination.

Whether the political strategists planned it that way is debatable. National and international news events have often forced state campaign stories off newspaper front pages and diverted the voter's attention.

But it was the candidate's staff, and not the candidate himself in most cases, who decided which counties to visit and when, which speaking engagements to accept and how much barbecue to buy for rallies.

Such decisions have a bearing on the election outcome as do the seemingly larger strategy decisions as far as which issues to debate or not to debate.

Republican Jack Stickley has used the resources of his campaign staff to cover almost every possible issue and in depth. He made public 10 "position papers," including three released Thursday which endorsed the veto power for the governor, more home rule and the involvement of private business to alleviate poverty.

And, Stickley has repeatedly attacked his opponent, Jim Gardner, for not matching each Stickley paper with a Gardner paper. Gardner issued three "position papers."

For his part, Gardner and his strategists have concentrated more on criticism of Democratic administration of state government and pledged reforms if the young congressman is elected.

While in Asheville Thursday, Gardner said if elected he would order a study of the state's tax structure. Earlier, he pledged to appoint a task force to study ways of cutting wasteful spending.

On the Democratic side, the strategists for Lt. Gov. Bob Scott have capitalized on his experience in state government and emphasized his "program of progress" for the next four years.

Scott's campaign took him into each of the state's 100 counties. The past few weeks of dawn-to-dusk campaigning have been oriented to a "meet the people" theme. While in Durham Thursday, he shook 1,000 hands at the American Tobacco Co. plant by his own count.

One of Scott's two-opponents, Mel Broughton, has all but ignored the Negro candidate—Dr. Reginald Hawkins—and concentrated on his criticism of Scott. He also returns to the strong "law and order" plank in his platform during almost every campaign stop.

Hawkins' strategy has been to confront the most controversial issues head-on, in an attempt to win not only Negro votes but the votes of whites disenchanted with the stands of Scott and Broughton. Hawkins has endorsed a tax on cigarettes and proposed liberalization of liquor laws to allow local option liquor-by-the-drink sales.

Saturday's primary winners will know whose strategy worked.

Install Officers Of Chicod PTA

CHICOD — Mrs. Hugh Hardee Jr. was installed as the new president of the Chicod PTA here recently.

Other officers installed were Bill Bailey, vice president; Mrs. Tom Forbes, secretary and Mrs. Juanita Elks, treasurer.

At the meeting, the PTA voted to forward money to the school's Booster Club to buy three of the new uniforms for the baseball team and to supply money for one new cheerleader suit.

For entertainment, the Beta Club presented a one-act skit, "The Lamp Went Out" and the Forbes Brothers sang.

Outgoing President Travis Smith presided.

"According to our Constitution, the Lieutenant Governor has only two jobs: presiding over the State Senate and serving as a member of the State Board of Education."

Bob Scott does his job.
Here's the record:

"According to our Constitution, the Lieutenant Governor has only two jobs: presiding over the State Senate and serving as a member of the State Board of Education."

"This headline appeared in a statewide Broughton for Governor ad, which attempted to tarnish the record of Bob Scott's service to the people of North Carolina by distorting Bob's attendance at State Board of Education meetings."

"In a Durham Morning Herald article on Sunday, Charles Barbour, managing editor, points out that Bob Scott has indeed fulfilled and extended his duties as Lieutenant Governor. He wrote in part: "Truth of the matter is that on most of the days Scott was listed 'absent' In the ad, he was either on the floor of the State Senate or attending to other official business . . . and Mel Broughton knows it."

"From February through June of 1965, the ad shows Scott attending only one education board meeting—in February. But when you consider that Scott was on the Senate floor in every instance except June 22 when he was in New York assisting National Jaycee President Bill Suttle in a program, the charges by Broughton are shattered."

"Then, after the closing of the General Assembly in June, Scott was present for every meeting the remainder of the year except Dec. 2 when he was attending the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors in Florida."

"Therefore, if you subtract the times Scott could not possibly attend the board meetings in 1965, you have an attendance of close to 100 per cent."

"The Broughton ad would have you believe that in 1966 Scott deliberately missed eight meetings. One of these meetings was unscheduled on a Saturday night. Of the remaining 11, he was present four times, and was on business with other state officials in Atlanta, Ga., and New Orleans, La., on two other occasions. On still another occasion, he was speaking in Winston-Salem and at Elon College."

"This covers seven of the 12 meetings, for an attendance of nearly 80 per cent."

"Then there's 1967, another General Assembly year. The ad simply shows him absent on 10 occasions—not bothering to point out that on one occasion he was at the Jan. 5 Democratic Caucus, and that on four other occasions he was on the Senate floor. . ."

"It all boils down to an obvious move on the part of Broughton and his followers to attempt to destroy the image Scott has built in state government."

Two N.C. Parent-Teacher Organizations Plan Merge

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina's two parent-teacher organizations, representing Negroes and whites, have completed plans for merger in 1969.

The North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers, the white organization, closed its annual meeting here Thursday after making a final change in its bylaws that completes the merger requirements.

The NCCPT voted to allow a board member of the North Carolina Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers to hold office in the predominantly white group without having to serve on the Negro board two years, as is now required of the NCCPT officers.

The amendment passed unanimously and without debate. The merger could be completed at Charlotte in May of next year. The NCCPT voted to hold its 50th anniversary meeting in Charlotte. The Congress was formed there in 1919.

Among resolutions adopted at the Greensboro session Thursday was one that calls for the office of state superintendent of public instruction be filled by appointment, rather than election.

Delegates also approved tentative proposals that call for creation of state-supported kindergartens, teacher salary increases and a state supplement to the school food service program.

Mrs. Carlton Watkins of Charlotte was installed as president. Mrs. Stanley Atkins of Asheville was elected first vice president and Mrs. Frank Hull Crowell of Lincolnton, secretary.

Pussy-Willow Prize Shared

GARDNER, Mass. (AP) — The annual pussy willow contest has ended in a tie. Judges couldn't decide between pussy willows submitted by Laura Robichaud, 4, and John E. Gauvin, 7, so they decided to divide the prize—a $5 gift certificate—equally between them. A total of 97 youngsters entered the contest.

BEEF FROM CUBA
LONDON (AP) — Beef from Castro's Cuba goes on sale in Britain this weekend, helping to replace Argentine beef that has been banned since outbreak of an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease.

NEW PASTOR — The Reverend Floyd B. Cherry will become the pastor of the First Free Will Baptist of Greenville this Sunday. Rev. Cherry has pastored the Black Jack Church for the past 16 years. He is a former editor of the Free Will Baptist Press in Ayden, and is a member of the Board of Trustees of Mount Olive College. He lives at the church parsonage, 303 Meade Street in Greenville.

He's always there on that busy corner—like thousands of other paper boys across the land.

And he doesn't get discouraged though you ignore him day after day. Give him as much as a glance and you'll hear his hopeful, "PAPER... MISTER?"

What makes him so ready and eager to serve? It's the certainty that he has something everybody needs.

* * *

On many corners there are churches. And they never cease urging you to come... always ready... eager to serve!

Here again is the certainty of something EVERYBODY needs!

What they have has come to be called the Gospel—an ancient word that means "Good News." A few Sundays in church and you'll understand why!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

He Returned For 'Other End'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A television system installer suddenly found himself on the other end of a system he installed.

Columbus officials ordered a closed circuit television system installed at the city prison for use by officers during interview and arrest procedures.

Putting in the system was a full day's work and one of the installers went out on the town afterward. He had a few drinks too many and soon found himself back at the prison standing before one of the cameras used for interview work.

Conscience Hurt, Buys 2 Tickets

NEW DELHI (AP) — A teenage student traveling alone asked a bus conductor for two tickets.

The conductor asked why two tickets and the boy replied, "They are both for me." Then he confessed that earlier in the day he had sneaked aboard a city bus and his conscience was bothering him.

Drinking Water Is Half Safe

NEW DELHI (AP) — Only 60 per cent of India's urban population gets "safe" drinking water, government officials reported.

They said the situation is worse in rural areas, where only 50 percent of the drinking water is regarded as "safe."

Students' Revolt At Northwestern Univ.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Negro students at Northwestern University seized control of the school's finance office today and barred school officials from entering the building.

A University spokesman estimated about 60 of the school's 125 Negro students were barricaded inside the two-story building on the campus. Northwestern's total undergraduate enrollment is 6,400.

The spokesman said police had not been asked to remove the demonstrators who were reported sitting inside the building and causing no damage. He said school officials were meeting to consider the situation.

The university spokesman said the Negro students had presented officials with demands involving admissions, scholarships, curriculum, counseling and school facilities.

The university's student newspaper listed the demands of the Negro students Thursday.

The students said in the newspaper that more Negro students should be admitted to Northwestern, that new courses in Negro history, art and literature be added to the school's curriculum and that the students should be permitted to choose the Negro teachers for these courses.

Other demands included an all-Negro dwelling unit to be opened on the campus by September and the elimination of the requirement that scholarship students work during the school year. The Negro students said they needed the extra time to study.

Rumor Control In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A rumor control center will open in Oklahoma City next month.

The center will be manned by trained volunteers and its function will be to track down the origin of rumors and to reassure the public about them.

Tentative plans call for an eight-hour-a-day operation. It will have its headquarters in the office of the Oklahoma City Community Relations Commission.
