Harriman Calls For Hanoi Move Toward Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — The United States accused North Vietnam directly today of moving "substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies" into the South, and called on the Hanoi government to take some "important step toward peace."

In an opening statement at the first round of substantive negotiations, Ambassador W. Averell Harriman renewed a U.S. offer to withdraw forces from Vietnam if and when the North pulls its forces from the South and the "level of violence" subsides.

"For our part," Harriman declred, "we desire no bases in South Vietnam, and we are prepared to leave the facilities we have built there to the people to use as they wish."

For the other side, Xuan Thuy told the meeting the United States has been defeated but is continuing its "aggression" against the people of Vietnam.

An outline of Xuan Thuy's speech was given to a news conference after the meeting by Nguyen Thanh Le, chief spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation.

Xuan Thuy said the United States had been condemned by international opinion including opinion in the United States. President Johnson, he added, had been obliged to announce a limitation of U.S. bombing but in reality aerial bombardment of an important part of the country is continuing and U.S. reconnaissance planes continue to fly over the country including the capital.

Xuan Thuy charged that new troops were being brought from the United States and new appropriations were being sought from Congress.

For the United States, Harriman told the more than three-hour meeting the securing of South Vietnam's freedom from outside interference is "at the core" of "serious and productive actions" for peace.

He also proposed:

1. The United States and North Vietnam should restore the demilitarized zone "to its proper and original status."

2. The neutralization agreements on Laos, made in 1962, "should be honored and its people should be left to the peaceful life they desire."

3. The people of South Vietnam, as a matter of principle, "must be allowed to determine their own future without outside interference."

4. The United States is prepared to join with "all the nations of Southeast Asia—and with others—in building a future with great promise for the peoples of the area."

In effect, this last point was a direct proposal for North Vietnam, once peace was established, to join in a U.S.-assisted development program.

Harriman reminded Xuan Thuy that President Johnson had stopped the bombing of North Vietnam above the 20th parallel on March 31, and had offered to halt the rest "if our restraint is matched by restraint on the other side."

"Since March 31," Harriman continued, "we have sought a sign that our restraint has been matched by the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. We cannot conceal our concern that your government has chosen to move substantial and increasing numbers of troops and supplies from the North to the South.

"Moreover, your forces have continued to fire on our forces from and across the demilitarized zone.

"We ask what restraints you will take for your part to contribute to peace.

"We believe the Geneva accords of 1954 in their essential elements provide a basis for peace in Vietnam."

Special Forces Outpost Is Lost

Main Communist Attack Against Saigon Is Crushed

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command says allied troops have crushed the main thrust of the Communist command's nine-day-old attack on Saigon but it also announced the loss of a Special Forces camp 350 miles to the northeast.

Headquarters said Special Forces—Green Beret—troops and South Vietnamese irregulars were evacuated by air Sunday from the Kham Duc Camp after North Vietnamese troops attacked one of its outposts and threatened to overrun the entire camp.

The enemy shot down one of the evacuation plaes, a four-engine C130 transport, killing the six Air Force crewmen and an undisclosed number of civilian irregulars and South Vietnamese army soldiers, U.S. headquarters said. A C130 can carry about 100 troops.

The camp, with about 400 defenders, came under attack Friday. Headquarters said preliminary reports showed 19 Americans killed and 89 wounded. It had no figures on South Vietnamese casualties.

Troops of the U.S. 196th Light Infantry Brigade moved in to cover the withdrawal, and military spokesmen said more than 300 enemy soldiers were estimated to have been killed. They said an unknown additional number were killed in massive air strikes, including seven missions near the camp by Air Force B52 bombers Sunday night and today.

Lt. Gen. Fred C. Weyand announced the victory over the enemy's main thrust against Saigon.

"Although isolated small attacks, terrorism and harassment by fire, including rockets, are still possible, large numbers of the enemy have been attempting to withdraw from the battlefield for the past 48 hours, many being intercepted in the process," said Weyand, who commands the 2nd Field force.

The general said more than 5,200 enemy soldiers were killed or captured in the 3rd Corps Tactical Zone—Saigon and the 11 provinces around it—since the Viet Cong launched their offensive May 5. He said about half of these were lost in greater Saigon area. The remainder were killed or captured when their units were intercepted as they headed for Saigon.

Some military observers considered these casualty figures a highly optimistic estimate.

U.S. headquarters said allied losses were 210 killed, 67 of them Americans, and 979 wounded, including 333 Americans.

For the first time since May 5 there was no significant fighting in Saigon.

Weyand said at least 26 enemy battalions had been scheduled to attack Saigon but well over half of these were intercepted outside the capital military district.

An enemy battalion is supposed to number 400 to 500 men, but U.S. intelligence officers say the battalions in the Saigon area are far under strength.

Forbes Asks Runoff

W. A. "Red" Forbes, who ran second in a three-way race for the Democratic nomination for a seat in the State House of Representatives from Pitt County in the May 4 primary election, called for a second primary today.

Forbes received 4,547 votes while first - runner Harvey Ward took 5,122 votes in the voting. Mark Owens, the third man in the race, polled 4,051, thereby not allowing anyone a clear majority.

Deadline for the second primary request was noon today. The second primary will be held June 1.

Forbes, who presently holds the House seat, said he notified Bruce Koonce, chairman of the Pitt County Board of elections by letter early this morning of his request.

The Representative said "I feel like I owe it to the people . . . the opportunity to vote again since there was a close race between all three of us."

The candidate expressed confidence that "I will win" in the second primary.

Forbes, a Pitt County farmer and business man has been a member of the State House of Representaives from Pitt County for three terms.

During the 1967 legislature, Forbes was chairman of the Federal and Interstate Cooperation committee of the House and vice-chairman of two other house committees, the committee on Agriculture and the committee on counties, cities and towns. He also held membership on the House committees on elections and election laws, finance, irrigation and drainage, public welfare and wildlife resources.

Forbes' opponent in the second primary, Ward, is a teacher and farmer. He presently is an instructor on the staff at the East Carolina Training School at Rocky Mount.

Marchers Begin Erect Tent City

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Poor People's Campaign, officially launched with a Mother's Day march through a riot-ripped Negro slum, now begins erecting the tent city to house some 3,000 demonstrators slowly coverging on the city.

The first 450 of the campaign's rank and file reached the nation's capital over the weekend. More are scheduled to arrive by week's end.

Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain civil rights leader who conceived the campaign as a means of winning more federal help for the poor, led Sunday's march.

The demonstration, soaked by rain for most of its duration, went off without incident. Police Lt. E. J. Prete estimated the number of marchers at between 2,000 and 3,500.

Today the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, is to drive a stake into parkland near the Lincoln Memorial and thus signal the start of construction of shelters in what campaign leaders call Resurrection City.

The 15-acre site runs parallel to the reflecting pool between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument.

The Mother's Day march was sponsored by the Nationwide Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO), which sent delegations from chapters across the nation.

The marchers, including Negroes and whites, American Indians and Mexican-Americans, assembled at the John F. Kennedy Playground deep in one of the city's poorest Negro neighborhoods.

The marchers passed the ruins of stores looted and burned during three nights of violence that followed the April 4 slaying of King in Memphis.

Earlier Sunday, NWRO members, mostly mothers on welfare, spoke at 53 area churches asking for support.

The group seeks repeal of restrictive amendments dealing with welfare that were passed last year as part of a bill increasing Social Security benefits. Another aim of NWRO is adoption of a $4,000 minimum annual income for every American family.

Mothers Visited Sons In Prison

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — The prison gates swung open, and 158 mothers passed into San Quentin Sunday to visit their convict sons.

They came from all over California, and some from other states.

They breakfasted with their boys, two to a table, in the dining hall, and afterward strolled in conversation with their sons along flower-lined walkways.

Accident Kills Rose High Girl

NAGS HEAD — Bonnie Jo Waits, 18, missed graduating from high school by 20 days. She died Saturday night on the way to Norfolk General Hospital following a collision that afternoon at Nags Head.

The Rose High senior received her fatal injuries while driving a car which contained two other girls.

The intersection in front of the pier has been the scene of many accidents in the past.

Several State Highway Commission officials reportedly inspected the intersection approximately six months ago, but no action has yet been taken, according to Twyne.

Jeanette Waits, 15, sister of the victim, was also injured in the crash. She was treated at Albemarle Hospital in Elizabeth City and is expected to return home today. A third girl, Marsha Mann, 18, of Manteo, was released from the hospital Sunday.

Miss Waits started Rose High at the beginning of this school year. She previously attended Mattamuskeet High School where she was a cheerleader and a member of FHA, Monogram, and the Glee Club. During her sophomore year she was elected Miss Mattamuskeet at her high school there. She was in the chorus at Rose High.

Second DI Faces Court Martial

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP) —Sgt. Shelly Harden of Akron, Ohio, was scheduled to face a special court-martial panel today on charges of mistreating recruits at this Marine Corps depot.

Another former drill instructor, S.Sgt. Joseph Johnson of Wayne County, N.C., was acquitted of all charges last week in a case stemming from the same complaint made against Sgt. Harden.

Sgt. Harden was charged with physical mistreatment of recruits, hazing and using abusive language.

Vintage Aircraft Being Auctioned

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A World War I Spad, a Fokker D-VII, a Sopwith Camel and other vintage aircraft will be auctioned May 29.

About 30 planes from World War I and II go on sale. They ar part of a collection gathered by two stunt pilots and movie flyers—Frank Tallman and the late Paul Mantz. Two Nebraska investment firms acquired the planes a year ago.

Admission to the auction at Orange County Airport will be by invitation only.

Collision Is Fatal For 2 Marines

KINSTON—Three East Carolina University students and one Greenville resident were injured in a car-bus collision here Sunday that killed two Camp Lejeune Marines.

The fatal collision occurred about six miles south of here on U.S. 258 about 4 p.m.

Killed were Bobby Ewing, 29, of Gary, Ind., and Violetta Rogers, 20, of Kansas City, a woman Marine.

Investigating patrolman E. M. Moore said the car driven by Ewing crossed the center line of the highway and collided with the bus.

The bus driver was identified as Ronnie Earl Howard of Route 5, Jacksonville.

There were 10 passengers on the bus at the time of the crash, including a Greenville resident, Leoreau Sherrod, of 422 West Third St., who was reported injured.

The three ECU students injured included: Edith Edwards, 21, and Freda Noble, 18, both of Wilmington and Patricia Ann Brock, 22, of Jacksonville.

A fifth passenger on the bus, Barbara Hopkins, 19, of Jacksonville, was also reported injured.

All of the injured were treated at a Kinston hospital and released.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

Temperatures through Saturday will average above normal with highs mostly in the 80s. No major changes in temperatures expected. Widely scattered afternoon and evening showers predicted.

France Reveals Third Transplant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Paris hospital said today a patient was in excellent condition after a heart transplant Sunday, and medical sources identified him as a 45-year-old Roman Catholic priest who had suffered 30 heart attacks.

At the Houston, Tex., hospital where three transplants were performed in one week, one of the two surviving patients was reported in "serious but improving" condition and the other was in excellent shape.

The bulletin from Broussais Hospital in Paris on France's third and the world's 14th human heart transplant said only that the hospital's team had performed the operation "under satisfactory conditions and the state of the patient is excellent."

The French medical sources already had reported that Prof. Charles Dubost, aided by Drs. Jean-Paul Cachrat and Michel Lacombe, gave a priest from Marseille the heart of a 39-year-old man who died Friday from a cerebral hemorrhage.

They said an artificial blood supply had kept the heart alive until the operation.

France's other two heart recipients are dead.

Four heart recipients survive in other nations.

John W. Stuckwish, 62, at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital in Houston, is the man listed in serious condition. But a spokesman said: "His dramatic recovery from the desperate operation last Tuesday and steady improvement are considered to be encouraging."

Cooley's other surviving patient, Everett C. Thomas, 47, is eating a normal diet and walking in his private room. Thomas, a Phoenix, Ariz., accountant, received a new heart May 3 from a 15-year-old housewife who died of a gunshot wound in the head.

The world's other two heart transplant survivors are Dr. Philip Blaiberg, 58, living at home in Cape Town, South Africa, 4½ months after his operation, and Frederick West, 45, whose operation was May 3 in London.

Bloodmobile

The bloodmobile will be at the Greenville Moose Lodge Tuesday and Wednesday to accept donations of blood.

The two-day visit will be the last visit of the fiscal year which ends June 30.

The Tuesday visit will be from 12 noon until 6 p.m. and on Wednesday, the Bloodmobile will be in operation from 9:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Joe Clark, chairman of the Bloodmobile project, said approximately 200 people pledged a pint of blood during the Jaycee sponsored Pledge-A-Thon earlier. "We hope that they will turn out to give during one of these two days," Clark said.

The quota for each of the two days is 113 pints of blood.

Student's Hearing Set Today For Possession Of Marijuana

An East Carolina University student, arrested Friday afternoon on charges of possession of marijuana, is scheduled to be given a preliminary hearing this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Luther D. Moore.

Charles Henry Gill, 19 of Hickory, was taken into custody in his Jones Dormitory room about 2 p.m. by agents of the State Bureau of Investigation. He was jailed in the Pitt County Jail and bond was set at $2,000.

University officials said investigation of the case began when they received information that Gill bad been receiving marijuana through the mail and called in the SBI to investigate.

Investigators said Gill received a package reportedly containing one ounce of marijuana through the mail. He was also reportedly carrying an additional package containing marijuana on his person when taken into custody.

Gill maintained a room on the second floor of Jones Dormitory and spent time at 1110 B Cotanche Street, accroding to ECU Dean of Men James B. Mallory.

Dean Mallory said "we will withdraw him (Gill) from ECU", citing a "very strict policy on drugs" in effect at the University.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ985 ♡A10654 ◇2 ♣842
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five clubs. Inasmuch as you are forced to proceed to game, this is the logical step. A rebid of four hearts would be dangerous in that it might persuade partner that you have a better suit. From partner's failure to bid three no trump over three hearts, you may deduce that he has a long and powerful two suiter.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠863 ◇A62 ♣AKQJ982
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. Prospects for a slam are excellent despite the fact that your partner originally passed and, as yet, has shown no special signs of strength. If partner shows the ace of hearts now, you will have to sign off but, if he is able to bid five diamonds, you should contract for a slam in clubs.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠5 ♡AJ ◇10862 ♣A97542
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Dble.	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have enough high card strength to redouble but, lacking any reasonable idea of where you are headed, it is more discreet to pass temporarily and wait developments.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J72 ♡KJ62 ◇A932 ♣J10
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 ♡	1 ♠
Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—One no trump. This hand just makes the grade. A bid in this spot should be made only with the outlook of reaching for a game. This does not appear likely since your hearts appear to be badly placed for a spade contract but, since partner may have a hand that could help produce nine tricks at no trump, one forward move by you is justified.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K5 ♡A8 ◇A1087632 ♣J5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. There is no completely desirable call on this hand. Three hearts is somewhat of an underbid, but we dislike raising all the way to four with just two trumps. The alternative bid of four diamonds may land us in an unmakable diamond game when four hearts could be spread.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ987 ♡Q8 ◇K8 ♣K875
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner was unable to make a better initial response than one no trump, there can be no very good play for a game. Even if he has all of his high card values in clubs and spades, which seems a likely explanation for his second round jump, it will not adequately fill the holes in your hand.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ ♡K876 ◇654 ♣AK96
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ◇	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand was microscopically short of an immediate jump shift response and as such merits very strong treatment. On hands of this strength the proper procedure is to bid new suits twice and then raise partner. There is only a slight risk partner will take this as a legitimate suit, which impression you will correct on the next round when you raise hearts.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A8 ♡AKQJ72 ◇973 ♣K3
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♡	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Prospects for game have not been entirely dimmed by partner's pass but, the shorter, no trump route to game looks like the best shot at this point since all partner needs are a couple of face cards strategically placed.

Humphrey Forces Cite Victories

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's backers are claiming seven state convention victories in a row in his bid to pick up enough delegate votes for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They said today Humphrey has a minimum of 169 pledged delegates after victories in Arizona, Alaska, Maryland, Delaware, Nevada, Wyoing—and Hawaii where party officials say he got at least 20 of 26 delegates elected Sunday night.

Humphrey's chief lieutenants —Sens. Walter F. Mondale and Fred Harris—had said earlier they think they have 1,100 of the 1,312 delegate votes needed for nomination at the Democratic National Convention.

The 1,100 figure was an estimate of delegates the backers think would vote for Humphrey, not delegates pledged by state party organizations.

The vice president also is expected to gain delegates Tuesday in the Nebraska primary where he has strong support among delegate candidates whose names are best known in the state.

But the major focus in Nebraska will be on the race between Democratic presidential rival Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, the only major announced Democratic candidates on the ballot.

McCarthy said after Indiana's primary last week that Nebraska would offer the face-to-face contest Indiana did not because of the favorite-son candidacy of Gov. Roger D. Branigin.

Nebraska Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, a Republican, said he thinks Humphrey will get a substantia' write-in vote.

Tiemann also said he expects Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon to get 70 per cent of the vote. Rival New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's supporters are seeking write-in votes and California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a favorite-son candidate, will be on the ballot.

The Nebraska primary highlights a week of political activity in which six states will name 95 delegates to the Democratic convention and 56 to the Republican convention.

Aside from primaries in Nebraska and West Virginia, Republican delegates will be selected by party organizations in Rhode Island, Vermont and Louisiana and Democratic delegates will be selected in Maine.

The West Virginia primary—in sharp contrast to the 1960 battle between Humphrey and John F. Kennedy—will have no presidential preference race Tuesday.

In other political developments:

—Both Rockefeller and Nixon lead all three Democratic presidential candidates, according to a Gallup Poll released over the weekend. It showed Rockefeller leading the Democrats by wider margins than Nixon.

—Rockfeller advisor Leonard Hall reportedly urged governors attending a Western Republican Governors session in Honolulu to withhold first convention ballot support from Nixon. Hall said he did not specifically ask the governors to refuse to back Nixon but said he believed most would "stay loose" until just before the convention.

Commencement Season Begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Graduation has started at several smaller colleges in North Carolina. Exercises at the larger schools are scheduled early next month.

Pfeiffer's commencement was held today. The speaker was Dr. William C. Archie, executive director of the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation in Winston-Salem. There were 159 candidates for degrees. Hojorary doctorates were conferred upon Marshall Hill Everett of Charlotte, a theater chain owner, an the Rev. Charles Gray Beaman Jr., superintendent of the Thomasville District of the Western North Carolina Methodist Church. George M. Ivey of Charlotte, department store chairman who was to have received an honorary degree, died recently.

Gardner-Webb College and Chowan College gave their diplomas Sunday.

Other graduation dates: Belmont Abbey May 21, East Carolina University May 26, Lenor Rhyne College May 27, North Carolina A&T and Davidson College June 2, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Duke University June 3, Appalachian State University June 6.

The speaker at Gardner-Webb in Boiling Springs near Shelby was James W. Finley, chairman of the J. P. Stevens textile chain.

He told the 130 graduates of the two-year college that the greatness of the United States has been in the individual.

Finley said the election process forces candidates to face the public as individuals and prevents them from hiding behind a party label.

However, he told the graduates their generation faces the danger of losing its individuality to different pressures.

"Even as I speak to you now," Finley said, "there are people demonstrating for rights, fasting for rights, even rioting for rights."

Fidelio Society Program By Sallie Branch Pupils

The Spanish Class and the Melody Flue Class of Sallie Branch Elementary School presented a program last night for the Fidelio Society of the East Carolina University School of Music.

Mrs. Peggy Hooper, humanities teacher at Sallie Branch, sang, "People Will Say We're In Love," "Over the Rainbow" and "Vesti La Giubba."

The flute class presented a routine of "Hot Cross Buns," "My Bonnie" and "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious" on flutes, musicazoos, bongo drums and cymbals.

The Spanish class sang "God Bless America" in Spanish and also played "Jacob's Ladder" and "Persuasive Percussion" on melody bells.

The dances and the songs were arranged and composed by the students and Mrs. Hooper.

Tommie Newman, president of the Fidelio Club, thanked the group for the performance and invited them to a social after the program.

Sallie Branch Principal George Stancil was a special guest at the program.

Catawba College Given $40,000

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Catawba College's capital development program Saturday received a $40,000 grant from Burlington Industries Foundation of Greensboro, bringing the total raised to almost $800,000.

The three-year drive goal is $5 million. The campaign was sparked with a $1.5 million challenge gift from J. W. Abernathy Sr. of Newton, vice president of the college trustees.

The money will be used to improve academic programs, strengthen the endowment fund, and to construct a new physical education center.

S. Africa Sensitive Over Bilingualism

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Entrances to some buildings in South Africa are labeled "in." Directly beneath that sign is an identical one which also says "in."

One is in English and the other Afrikaans and, despite such similarities, the differences between them are growing in bilingual South Africa.

Some Afrikaners want English dropped entirely as the second official language.

Ardent Afrikaners want Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster to bar citizenship to immigrants who are not fluent in both official languages.

What is Afrikaans and why are its speakers so protective of their tongue?

Afrikaans is the only language of European origin that is not spoken in Europe. In fact it is spoken nowhere but on the southern tip of Africa.

Its origin is mainly Dutch although linguists say it is now closer to Flemish. Afrikaans started evolving sometime before the so-called Great Trek of pioneer Dutch settlers from the coast into the interior of what is now South Africa i· the 19th century. It adopted tribal and other words as needed and became the simple and direct tongue of the frontiersman.

Afrikaners had little left bu their land and their language after defeat by the British in the 1899-1902 Boer War. Resentment that English was the only socially acceptable tongue in South Africa led Afrikaners to fight for their language.

The struggle for equality with English has its linguistic landmarks. Afrikaans was approved as the second language in schools in 1914. It replaced Dutch as the language of the Dutch Reformed Church in 1916. It was designated the second official language in 1925. The first Afrikaans dictionary was started in 1926. An Afrikaans Bible —"Die Bybel"—was first published in 1934.

Sensitivity is widespread among South Africans, however, with Afrikaners claiming their tongue is neglected and English speakers complaining that theirs is being swallowed up.

Prof. P. J. Nienaber, head of the Department of Afrikaans-Nederlands at Johannesburg's Witwatersrand University, says 250,000 more people speak Afrikaans than English in South Africa and yet there is widespread unrest regarding the future o Afrikaans. Part of this is based on the knowledge that Afrikaans is all but useless overseas. All top ranking Afrikaner businessmen are completely fluent in English.

There is little Afrikaans slang and, in keeping with the fundamental Calvinist background of its originators, Afrikaans speakers seeking the proper swear word for an occasion usually have to adopt an English one.

The Greenville Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol will meet at 7:30 Tuesday night in Room 128 of New Austin Building, ROTC section.

AFROTC Cadet Capt. Don Holloman will conduct the class program.

ASAF Lt. Ira Witham, cadet commander, urged all cadets to be present.

Czechs Show No Buckling Signs

PRAGUE (AP) — The liberal leadership of Czechoslovakia's Communist party shows no signs of knuckling under to pressure from the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany.

The party presidum is expected to meet this week and add momentum to the campaign to break away from the Kremlin's domination.

It is no secret here that pressure has been exerted by Moscow and other Soviet bloc members disturbed by Czechoslovakia's trend toward independence. But there is no sign of panic among Prague's government and party leaders.

Alarm over rumors of threatened Soviet military intervention was generated abroad, not in Czechoslovakia. But apparently there was a strong enough hint of military pressure from Moscow to give the Czechoslovaks a picture of what could happen if Prague carries its i-n dependence movement too far.

Informed sources say Soviet troop movement so the Polish-Czechoslovak border last week, in the form of "staff maneuvers" of Warsaw Pact forces, were not big enough to threaten any military action. But they were sufficient to get the message across, the sources say.

There is also resentment over the fact that Czechoslovakia has a trade deficit with the West but asurplus with the Soviet Union. It is no secret that the Russians owe the Czechoslovaks money, but no one in authority will say how much.

There is growing warmth toward the United States.

'The Tree' Takes Over Where Twiggy Left Off

By LANA WELLS

NEW YORK (WNS) —Here she is — the girl who is outdoing Twiggy at her own game.

She's called "The Tree" (and that's no slur on her figure), she's 70 inches tall, weighs about 100 pounds and, at 18, is one of New York's beautiful rich people.

Her real name is Penelope Tree and, as she doesn't need the money, she's in modeling for its "intellectual stimulation."

The Tree is very social. Her daddy is multimillionaire banker Ronald Tree, and mother is Marietta Peabody Fitzgerald Tree, former U. S. Representative to the United Nations Trustttship Council, who also served on the U. N.'s Human Rights Commission.

Her grandfather is an Episcopal bishop and her uncle was governor of Massachusetts.

Poor Twiggy.

"People keep saying I am 'absolutely today,' and 'really the new look,' " says the Tree, who insists she and Twiggy are "good friends."

Have Charisma

"Maybe my face and figure came out at the right time. Pictures that have charisma are not pictures of a girl who looks like a boy.

"Charisma," she readily explains, "is that thing that makes you want to look at someone, follow, listen to them."

American teen - agers and even big business firms are listening to what she has to say on a variety of subjects.

Since her unofficial debut at a fancy dress ball given by high society's darling, Truman Capote, the Tree has been branching out in all directions.

She started modeling after top fashion photographer Richard Avedon launched her Raggedy Ann charms in Vogue's October 1967 issue.

In January this year she registered with the famed Ford Model Agency, which found her more work than she could do at $60 an hour or $400 a day. "She is the spokeswoman of today's young rugged individualists," says Elleen Ford, the agency's mother superior.

Bigger Than Twiggy

"She's going to be much bigger than Twiggy ever was."

Teen - agers are already copying her. They're wearing two sets of false eyelashes as well as streaks painted on their lower lids —none on the top — and are using dark brown eye shadow to create an emaciated, sunken - eyed look.

Their hair has to be absolutely straight, the longer the better, with a fringe like a Yorkshire terrier.

The Tree's latest ventures are designing a collection of sportswear for Gimbels and endorsing a range of products speciall manufactured for her by Hazel Bishop, a well-known cosmetic firm.

Her clothes were supposed to represent "the look today," but came out instead looking like the American Indians of yesterday.

The designs, including a sleeveless shift with matching eyelet blouse; a mini-skirt and vest with matching blouse; long straight pants with vest; and mid-calf culottes, are trimmed Indian-style with geometrically patterned braid.

"I decided to get back to what was beautiful and handmade and had fantastic designs in the fabric," said the Tree. "And the American Indian Museum is the most super place in New York. I've grown up there a lot."

The Tree actually spent most of her time growing up in the rarified atmosphere of her parent's house in New York's fashionable East 70s, at boarding school in Boston, at the United Nation's International School here, and at exclusive Sarah Lawrence College.

When the year started, she was commuting between college and the offices of Vogue, getting about four hours' sleep a night.

"Finally, I took leave of absence from school," she said. "The deal with my parents is that I go back next January.

"They weren't too pleased, but then I could have told them that grandmother was a jailbird."

Her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Peabody, now 75, spent a night in jail four years ago when she and the wife of a Negro minister tried to desegregate a hotel in Florida.

"I'm a great liberal, too," says the Tree.

"But politics are hopeless now. Marching in a demonstration doesn't do anything for your country. People only call you a hippie."

Well — she does look rather strange.

"Strange? She's really weird," says London photographer David Bailey, the man behind English model Jean Shrimpton's successful career.

Bailey recently photographed the Tree for an English newspaper and will be working with her again when she spends three months in London later this year.

"She's almost a caricature of a model," he says. "She is a completely original - looking girl — and that's such a nice shock these days."

She's certainly not the girl next door, but how many of them are earning about $15,000 a year?

Perhaps She Will Stop Using Shield When Feeling At Home

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is a sophomore at college (about 200 miles from nome) has been bringing home his "girl" for week - ends since last October. She also is a sophomore, and seems to be a nice enough girl, but we don't "know" her any better now than the first time he brought her home. You see, she always has a book with her. She sits in our company while everyone is conversing, and keeps her nose in the book. She hardly ever says a word, her head is down and she reads. I say this is very rude. Our son has tried on several occasions to draw her into the conversation, but so far he hasn't succeeded. Is there some way WE can pry some conversation out of her so we find out what she is like? Our son thinks she's "wonderful." This is wonderful?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The girl is shy and sadly lacking in self-confidence. Let her hide. She's using the book as a "shield." When she feels more at home with you, perhaps she'll turn over a new leaf.

DEAR ABBY: I was given my mother's day present a few days prematurely because, "It was something I would find useful" and there was no sense having me do without it another day. You have no idea how disappointed I was to find my "gift" was a household appliance.

Please warn these unsuspecting, generous shoppers not to be brainwashed by salespeople who will try to sell them electric appliances, such as toasters, mixers, blenders, vacuum cleaners, and washer-dryers to give to Mother as a "gift." These items are not really gifts, they are tools of her trade just as a saw and hammer are a carpenter's tools. How many husbands would be thrilled to unwrap a pair of hedge clippers, or a gallon of paint and some brushes on Father's day?

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ONE: Sorry, but you rattled the wrong cage. Any of the "tools" you mentioned would be a most welcome gift to the woman who faces the normal routine of housework daily. As long as she must cook, clean, and do the laundry, anything that helps her to do it more easily and faster is indeed a great gift.

DEAR ABBY: You devoted a lot of space to whether parents (for the sake of a healthier sex education) should allow their children to witness a cat bearing kittens. Some said yes, some said no.

Any parents who would permit the family cat to bear kittens for the sake of "educating" their children should complete their education by giving them a tour of the local pound, requesting special permission to see the gas chambers where unwanted kittens and puppies are disposed of.

This will clearly show the fate of the majority of unwanted animals produced by neglectful, irresponsible owners.

We do not need more animals to destroy in gas chambers. Neither do we need more animals who eventually will die of disease, starvation, poison, and under car wheels.

If you love animals you will print this so your readers will know the seriousness of permitting pets to breed accidentally.

Feline Affiliates, Ltd. Presiden.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Lucy in New London": You can't always tell from appearances. The guy you peg as the "early bird" may have been up all night.

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago I met a very attractive eligible bachelor at a party. I am also "free" (divorced) and we seemed instantly attracted to each other. He asked me for my telephone number and said he'd call me. He also gave me his business card and wrote his home telephone number on the back. He said that he goes out of town on short business trips frequently, which is probably why I haven't heard from him as yet.

I have had my hand on the telephone several times to call him, but so far I have been able to resist the temptation.

Today I received an invitation to a very nice party for which I'll need an escort. Do I dare call him? I KNOW he liked me, Abby. We just seemed to "click." If I call him to invite him to this party, do you think it will look like I am chasing him?

TEMPTED

DEAR TEMPTED: Yes. Don't call him. Most attractive, eligible males are also spoiled by women who pursue them. Don't join the pack. If the attraction was mutual, you'll be hearing from him.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women Must Regain The Lost Art Of Shopping

By JANET ODELL
Pontiac, Mich., Press

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — For some women, shopping is a chore; for others, it is a game and a means of passing time.

For many women patients at the Pontiac State Hospital shopping had been one of the lost arts. Hospital personnel and a number of volunteers took some of the women to local stores. But a majority of the patients have had to choose their clothing from a catalog. This might be efficient, but it was not completely satisfactory for anyone.

Willie DuBose, the young director of the patient affairs department, struggled with this problem for several years. Then late last fall he went to the Pontiac branch of one of the country's largest department stores, J. L. Hudson Co.

A buyer from the Detroit store came out to the hospital for a conference with DuBose. On her next buying trip to New York, she talked with clothing manufacturers.

Because of laundering facilities, only cotton clothes are worn by the women. The company got together a fairly large selection of dresses and underclothing and brought them to the hospital. It took three months to work out all details.

DuBose set up a store in a basement recreation room. Women from the various wards were given all the time they needed to look over the merchandise and choose what they wanted. They were spending their own money.

Six store employes were on hand to advise the customers, to take measurements for girdles and brassieres and to write out orders. No one was able to take her new clothes back to the ward that day; all will be delivered shortly.

After all women patients have had a chance to buy their spring and summer clothes, DuBose hopes to repeat the performance for the men. He anticipates that this shopping service will be a permanent setup.

Dr. Donald W. Martin, medical superintendent of the hospital, calls this new program, "personal purchase therapy."

It is valuable, he says, because the patients receive satisfaction by "browsing around" the shop and making their own decisions, and selections, plus facing the reality of their economic purchasing power.

Alpha Nu Officers Installed Thursday

New officers of Alpha Nu were installed at the meeting held Thursday night at the Holiday Inn.

Officers are: Mrs. Margaret Norville, president; Miss Alya Ray Taylor, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Spain, recording secretary; Mrs. Larue Brunson corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frances Gold, treasurer; Mrs. Barbara Parker and Mrs. Betty Hardee, chaplains; Mrs. Juanita Elks and Mrs. Clevie Wallace, sergeants-at-arm; Mrs. Jean Wilson, keeper of archieves.

Mrs. Thelma Switzer conducted the installation.

Mrs. Switzer and Mrs. Evelyn Finch conducted a pledge service for Mrs. Jean Satterwhite, who will become a member in September.

Luncheon Honors Miss Bonnie Berry

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr. and Mrs. George R. Garrett honored Miss Bonnie Berry, bride-elect of Fayetteville, at a luncheon Saturday at the Kittrell home.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a corsage of talismen roses to compliment her yellow dress and gifts of silver.

Miss Berry, Mrs. C.M. Berry mother of the bride-elect of Fayetteville, and Mrs. Charles T. Hudson, mother of the bride-groom-elect, greeted guests at the front door.

Roses were used on the dining room table and on auxilliary tables in the living room. A three-course luncheon was served.

Miss Berry will wed Charles Tucker Hudson, Jr. on June 8 in Fayetteville.

Protective Eyewear Can Help Prevent Accidents

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Bespectacled Johnny on first base held out his hands to catch the ball as it hurtled toward him. Somehow he missed, and it smashed into his right eye, shattering the glass.

With that tragic accident Johnny became a statistic—one of the half-million Americans who suffer serious eye injury at home and in school every year.

About 90 per cent of these injuries could be prevented if the victims had been wearing protective eyewear, says Dr. Arthur H. Keeney, ophthalmologist-in-chief at the Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia.

The Guild of Prescription Opticians of America—those men and women who manufacture and fit glasses to doctors' prescriptions—have launched a campaign to make the public aware of protective eyewear. The Safety Council has enthusiastically endorsed the program.

Says Dr. Keeney, who is the program's honorary chairman:

"If heat-treated, impact-resistant safety glass or plastic lenses had been invented and available before ordinary glass lenses, hardly anyone today would knowingly endanger their eyes with ordinary glasses that can disintegrate into blinding shafts under slight impact."

Protective eyewear is made of tough, shatter-resistant glass that has been heated in a special furnace and then chilled rapidly. To qualify, it must pass the Drop Ball Test, established by the U.S. Standards Institute, withstanding the impact of a ⅝ inch steel ball dropped from a height of 50 inches.

"An ordinary lens would break into needle-sharp fragments under such stress, while a protective lens will pass this stringent test," says Dr. Keeney.

Of course, any glass can break under sufficient stress, but even if the impact—resistant lenses do break they will not splinter and gouge the eye. Plastic won't break at all.

Dr. Keeney says protective eyewear is a must for all children who wear glasses and for adults engaged in hazardous occupations, the hobbyist working with power tools, the homeowner burning leaves, trimming bushes, or performing household tasks.

Does protective eyewear cost more? A few dollars more, but it will last for the length of the prescription. A new pair isn't needed everytime the old one is dropped or sat upon. And protective eyewear doesn't look any different from ordinary glass.

Slow Going At Conference Table

Initial pace of negotiations in Paris appear to substantiate the fact that progress toward peace in Vietnam will be slow at the conference table just as it has been slow in the hills and rice paddies of that Southeast Asian country.

Americans and North Vietnamese conferees at least have succeeded in meeting each other across the table for preliminary talks. This in itself is a major step — just as selecting a site for the talks. was a major step. There is yet little indication, however, that the negotiators are anywhere near getting down to major points to be discussed.

The North Vietnamese obviously are armed with propaganda to fill the listening ears of a world which consistently has taken a dim view of American action in support of the South Vietnamese government. Certainly in Paris, where some of the loudest objections have been raised to American policies, the communist propaganda may be expected to fall on fertile ground.

It must be expected that the North Vietnamese will use their propaganda apparatus to its fullest extent in an effort to gain advantage in the negotiations themselves. It must also be expected that the effort to shape world opinion will precede any effort to get down to the basic points for negotiation.

The softening-up and feeling-out by both sides will consume considerable time. In a situation such as that in Paris, there is little means of rushing negotiations to a desired end any more than either nation could rush the hot war half a world away to a desired end.

Negotiations take time. Successful negotiations require many ingredients, including patience.

Demonstrating Their Displeasure In House

A move to deny federal aid educational funds to students who participate in campus disturbances may never be effectively administered. As a matter of fact such legislation may never be written into law.

Be that as it may, members of the House of Representatives effectively indicated their displeasure at campus disorders and demonstrations by passing a meaure that would deny federal loans, scholarships and grants to students who participate in such activities. The House voted 306 to 54 in favor of the amendment which was tacked to a bill that appropriated $1 billion for an assortment of programs that aid some 1.5 million of the nation's six million college students.

By their action, members of the House reflected the attitude that admission to institutions of higher education is a privilege rather than a right. Their action suggests that those who are granted that privilege have the responsibility to conduct themselves in keeping with the rules of the institution and in accordance with civil laws as well.

In our opinion, the Senate would be serving the best interest of the nation in concurring with House action on this particular point. Such a provision may be difficult to administer at the individual campus level, but it would at least put Congress firmly behind law and order rather than uprisings and disorder on college and university campuses.

"And Just What Is That Picture Supposed to Mean???"

Remarks That Are Worn Out

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that any wife and mother gets tired of hearing:

"I know I haven't taken you out for a month of Sundays, but let's don't go out tonight."

"What do you do with yourself all day — watch soap operas?"

"Hey, mom, can you drive me to school this morning? I don't feel like walking."

"I lost so much at poker last night that you'll have to geme me some of your household money to tide me over to pay day."

"Yes, it's an attractive dress, but don't you think it's for a younger woman? After all, you're not a schoolgirl any more."

"Why do I have to come home by midnight. Gee, the dance will just be getting going good by then."

"What if I did promise you I'd put up the screens this Saturday? I want to get in some golf today. I'll put the screens up next Saturday."

"Hey, Mom, it's beginning to rain. Can you drive me over to Susie's so I won't get wet?"

"You'll have to go to the P-T-A meeting by yourself honey. I'm all in. Had a hard day."

"For Pete's sake, do you have to start pouring out your troubles to me the moment I step in the front door."

"I'll be darned if you haven't gotten your first gray hair. Well, I guess there'll be lot more coming along soon."

"I guess I'm the best judge of whether I want another drink or not."

"Hey, Mom, can you stop whatever you're doing and drive me to the library before it closes?"

"And here is a picture of Dad and Mom taken before they were married. Isn't it priceless? Aren't they utterly quaint?"

"Now that I've got my shoes off, I'm not going out anywhere — I don't care who invited us."

"Judging from the way these bills come flooding in, you must be spending money wih a shovel."

"Whenever I see you wearing those curlers to breakfast I always have to look at the calender to be sure it isn't Halloween."

"Hey, Mom, can you drive me to the dentist's? I'm already late."

"Everytine you come from the beauty shop you look like a peeled onion."

"What makes you think I'm not listening to you? I heard everything you said, whatever it was."

"I'm not certain which train I'll take. If I'm not on the 6:34, you'd better meet the 7:18, to, Better bring along your knitting, though, because I may be on the 7:49."

"Hey, Mom, drop everything. I want you to drive me to—."

Ho Chi Minh's Errors Add Up

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Ho Chi Minh's refusal to take a single small step to reduce infiltration or the level of combat in South Vietnam is hardening President Johnson's mood and endangering the Paris peace talks before they have even started. But that is not Ho's biggest blunder these days.

Some top officials here now suspect that the North Vietnamese President may have decided on a course of publicly humiliating Mr. Johnson or at least of putting the President through a harsh testing period.

As viewed by these officials, Ho is under the delusion that Mr. Johnson's decision not to run for re-election has ended his influence over American politics and made him a captive of the doves. Nothing iould be farther from the truth.

It was President Johnson alone, backed by only two of his top-level advisers, who privately rejected the Hanoi proposal to start talks wiith the U. S. at Warsaw. The manner of that rejection, unreported until now, is worth examining to understand the President's total control over U. S. policy, down to the smallest detail.

The first word to reach Mr. Johnson on April 11 about Warsaw came over a White House news ticker, quoting a Hanoi dispatch from the Soviet news agency Tass. The formal proposal, in a coded cable from U. S. Ambassador William Sullivan in Vientiane, Laos, was sent to Washington at top speed but reached the President after the Tass report.

Mr. Johnson's immediate reaction was fury: he would not conduct delicate diplomatic business with Hanoi through public news channels.

Ellsworth Bunker, U. S. Ambassador to South Vietnam, happened to be a guest in the White House that day. He and Presidential adviser Walt Rostow both concurred in Mr. Johnson's quick decision. Significantly, however, most other advisers including the State Department's top officials—would have accepted Warsaw.

This is just one example of how tight the LBJ rein is on the Washington - Hanoi negotiations. The President himself is acting as State Department desk officer, Assistant Secretary, and Secretary. Moreover, he increasingly is using private outside advisers as a counterbalance to his official advisers.

For example, the President's key decision to make his March 31 peace overture to Hanoi followed a top-secret meeting on March 25 in the White House Cabinet room of nearly a dozen foreign policy experts who have held major posts in various Administrations (including Mr. Johnson's own) and now are in private life.

Present were Dean Acheson, Douglas Dillon, McGeorge Bundy, George Ball (since named to succeed Arthur Goldberg in the United Nations), and Cyrus Vance, a private lawyer who will be the President's No. 2 Paris negotiator. Administration officials present were roving Ambassador Averell Harriman, No. 1 U. S. negotiator in Paris, and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Presidential adviser.

This same group had met secretly in December, when it went along with the prevailing Administration view that military progress by the U. S. was winning the war. In March, however, the group was split, a majority siding strongly with the President's tentative decision to make a new, dramatic appeal for peace (a decision that follow-

ART BUCHWALD

A Test Of Friendships

WASHINGTON—Every presidential election year, we Americans get a chance to test our friendships and relations with people we dearly love. This is especially true in 1968 when so many candidates are running for office.

I'm one of those people who can't stand losing friends and so, when a very attractive lady at a cocktail party the other night said to me, "Who are you for?" I just blushed into my Fresca and said:

"Well, it's a very hard choice."

"What do you mean, hard choice? Don't tell me you're for Kennedy?"

"Who are you for?" I asked, trying to change the subject.

"I'm for Hubert. I have a lot of faith in him."

"Well, I'm certainly not for Kennedy," I said, picking up her cue. "Hubert's a very attractive man."

Another lady joined us. "McCarthy deserves it. He went up to New Hampshire all by himself."

"McCarthy's got a kind face," I said. "He also has a lot of humor."

ART BUCHWALD

A third lady came up and said, "Hubert's for Johnson and I'm against Johnson, so I'm for Bobby."

"Bobby's got a lot going for him," I said to her.

"You can have them all," a Republican friend chimed in. "Nixon's still got the most experience and he can unite the country."

"We need a united country right now," I said, putting some more ice in my glass.

"Never Nixon. He's a loser. The only one who can beat the Democrats is Rocky," a woman I nave always admired said.

"You should have a candidate who can beat the Democrats," I told her.

Total Vote Not Good

(Washington Daily News)

Before last Tuesday's primary there was a lot of talk in the state that more than a million voters would go to the polls and cast ballots.

It was figured that the Democrats would cast a minimum of 800,000 votes and the Republicans a minimum of 200,000 in the primaries.

As matters turned out, the Democrats cast less than 700,000 ballots and the Republicans cast less than 150,000 votes. The combined vote of both parties is less than 850,000.

That is not a good story to tell of North Carolina. This is particularly true when we realize that in North Carolina today we have more than 1,550,000 Democrats registered and more than 350,000 Republicans.

On the basis of unofficial returns, the facts tell us that only 43 percent of the registered Republicans bothered to cast ballots.

When candidates for high office are nominated on the basis of receiving less than a fourth of the votes in their parties, then it is time North Carolina began to wonder. After all, these primaries received considerable publicity. The feeling was so general that a big vote would turn out. With hotly contested primaries on the state level as well as many hotly contested races on the local level, the picture seemed a "natural" for a heavy vote.

It did not turn out that way. An editor can take a look and try to explain away the lightness of the vote. But really there is no sufficient explanation to give. The truth is that we must just say that the people did not go to the polls. We could add that there might have been a lot of indifference and a definite lack of interest on the part of several hundred thousand people.

When a state has a total registration in both parties of almost two million people and when only 850,000 go out to vote, something is wrong. So many of those who did not take the time to go to the polls last Saturday are in the ranks of those who yell the loudest about government and about the country going to ruin.

Why did more than a million voters stay away from the polls in North Carolina last Saturday? The truth is that here in North Carolina if we can get half the registered voters out on a given day to cast ballots, we think we have done a good job. Seldom do we reach that half-way mark.

We sure did not reach it last Saturday. And North Carolina cannot point with pride to its voting record insofar as numbers are concrened. It looks bad for our state. And it is bad.

Trend Hurts Future

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising mortgage rates not only are bringing fundamental changes in the present housing market but are bound to cause repercussions in family finances for 10, 20 or 30 years into the future.

Evidence of trouble in the mortgage markets is provided by the government's decision to raise the permissable interest rate to 6¾ per cent on mortgages it backs, and in attempts by states to change usury laws so as to permit even higher rates.

So unprecedented, and to some extent unforeseen, are today's rates that the standard books of tables for estimating mortgage payments literally must be rewritten, for most of them have no listings above 7 per cent.

True, for some familes a fraction of a per cent may not make an observable difference in their budgets. For example, the ¾ of a per cent rise in the ceiling on government-backed mortgages could result in these higher costs for a new, 20-year, $20,000 loan:

Monthly charge for interest and principal $152.08, compared with $143.29 under the previous ceiling; yearly charge $1,824.96 compared with $1,719.48; and 20 years, $36,499.20 against $34,389.60.

Those differences are small enough to predict that few families who could afford a mortgage at 6 per cent will be terribly burdened by paying another of one per cent.

But, the real danger is not in a single ¾ of one per cent rise so much as in the trend. If rates reach 8 per cent—and legislative changes in ceilings may permit this rate in some states—or 10 per cent, as foreseen by President Johnson without a tax increase, then the higher charges will be painful.

A homeowner who purchased his home less than three years ago might have acquired a government-backed mortgage of 5¼ per cent. Compare his charges with those for the person obtaining a government-backed mortgage now.

Monthly charges on the old mortgage will be $17.31 less. For a year the charges will be $1,617.24 or $207.72 less. And at the end of 20 years, the holder of the older mortgage will have paid $32,344.80, or $4,154.40 less than his 6¾ per cent neighbor.

Not only are home purchaers now compelled to pay these high rates, but often they are locked into them for many years, even though mortgage costs could conceivably drop sometime in the future.

When a mortgage is booked, bankers explain, it is anticipated that it will remain at the same rate until satisfied.

Most lending agencies write clauses into their contracts that discourage or forbid prepayments within a specified period. Beyond that period they permit prepayment but impose a cash penaty.

In theory, mortgage lending institutions must do this in order to protect their investments, in order to have some assurance that the contract on which they spend money today can be depended upon to exist tomorrow.

But, with today's extremely high rates, and the possibility that they may rise or fall sharply, a severe burden can be placed on both mortgage holders and mortgage lenders.

Because of this, some experimentation with variable rates is beginning to show up in mortgage markets.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE SCIENTIFIC AGE

We live in the greatest scientific age humanity has known in its history. More discoveries and inventions have been made in the past one hundred years than humanity ever conceived of in the past. The result is that we put such confidence in science that we think it can accomplish almost anything.

Science is wonderful and our scientific leaders should receive all the acclaim they do, and more. But science deals almost entirely with physical matter, and human life is made up of a lot more than mere physical matter. It is made up of emotions. It is made up of aspirations and ambitions. Culture enters into life to a remarkable degree. Thousands of helpful books are written each year on subjects other than science. We turn to science when we want a job efficiently done. The engineer, the doctor, the psychiatrist, the inventor — these are persons of immense importance. But there is a lot of life outside the circles in which they move.

So let us not get so enamored of science that we believe science can solve all the problems of life. There are personal problems which it never seems to touch. Above all, there are moral and spiritual problems which lie quite outside the range of scientific inquiry and remedy.

You are an important person. If you don't know it, you should. Your life is motivated by thousands of things that neither laboratory tests nor scientific inquiry can handle to the smallest degree.

Life is a big complex.

Housing Boom Falls On Its Face

By ELMER ROESSNER

The only boom in housing will be the noise the industry makes falling on its face.

Housing starts have been lagging for several years, largely because of high rates for borrowed money. There was an upsurge last December when there were 185,100. They dropped to 82,700 in January, were 86,900 in February, rallied to 125,900 in March.

Now, despite good building weather ahead, they'll skid.

Basic reason: higher interest rates.

When the Federal Reserve pushed the rediscount rate up from 5 to 5½ per cent, it pushed all interest rates up. Mortgage money has gone up to 7 and 8 per cent, sometimes higher. Facing reality, the government has announced that it is increasing from 6 to 6¾ per cent the maximum interest rate on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

When such protected mortgages can rise to almost 7 per cent, it is certain that uninsured mortgages will rise above present levels.

ELMER ROESSNER

Housing and other realty is usually regarded as an excellent hedge against inflation. But at interest rates of 8 per cent and higher, the hedge is pretty well defoliated.

A family buying a home with an 8 per cent mortgage to be amortized over 30 years, pays double for it: once for the home and once again in interest.

For example, if a family draws $4,000 out of a savings bank and takes a $20,000 8 per cent mortgage amortizing over 30 years to buy a $24,000 home, it will pay approximately $24,000 in interest. It will also lose the interest the $4,000 could have earned in the bank. The family will, however, get $24,000 in deductions in computing income taxes.

Money Scarce, Even At High Rates

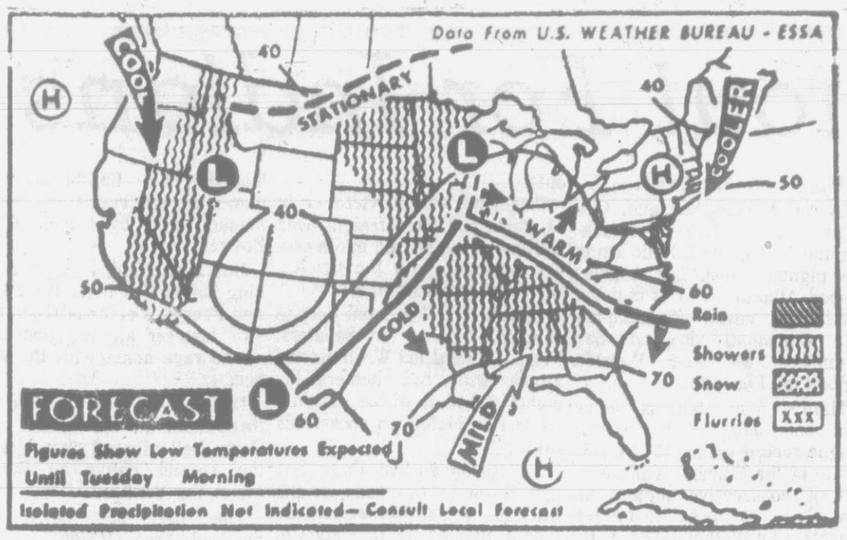

Another puncture in the housing boom is the fact that mortgage money is scarce, even at current high rates. Savings and loan associations have lost $500 million in deposits in recent months. Some of it has been deposited in banks that offer as good or better interest and sometimes throw in free electric clocks, but most of it appears to have gone into stock.

Some people have been switching savings into common stocks as a hedge against inflation, but most have switched in hopes of getting quick profits.

The shortage and high cost of mortgage money will lead to more demands for more government housing which, in turn, could lead to more inflation, which could lead to still higher interest rates, and so on through the years.

Town Is Destroying Itself So It May Live

By STEVE BASSETT
Associated Press Writer

MORENCI, Ariz. (AP) — The town of Morenci is methodically destroying itself—so that it may continue to live.

Residents of this copper mining community, not without apprehension, listen as the rumble of explosions draws closer.

They know that one day some of them will virtually have the ground blasted from under their homes. Most of them are happy about it.

"It's part of living in a copper mining town and the people are resigned to it," explained Richard T. Moolick, superintendent of the Phelps Dodge Corp's. huge mining complex here.

What's happening to this remote eastern Arizona community of about 6,000 can be seen from a lookout point on the rim of its mine. The mine is second in size in the world only to the Kennecott Copper Corp's. Bingham Mine in Utah.

Open pit copper mining, depending as it does on low-grade ore, requires the stripping of vast quantities of earth.

The enormous amphitheater measures between 1½ and to 1 1-3 miles across. Better than one billion tons of material have been removed since the mine began operation in 1937.

Diesel-powered locomotives labor 1,350 feet below the lookout, hauling carload after carload of crushed earth and rock —the dusty lifeblood of the community.

Only yards from the lookout point, over a rise, is Morenci, built in an earlier day when copper mining was underground and the homes seemed secure on their mountainside perches.

To satisfy the insatiable appetite of the copper smelter, the mine must continually expand. Soon to be gobbled up is the mountain on which rests a good portion of Morenci.

"Our windows are always rattling and sometimes the house shakes from the blasting," said a housewife living on Hill AC.

"That's all it's called, just Hill AC," said the woman "I think it's better that we're moving. Then maybe we'll get one of the new homes."

On Hill AC, with the exception of a neatly kept white and blue frame cottage, the homes were in various stages of decay. Many were privately owned, while some were owned by Phelps Dodge and leased to miners.

All the homes would be sold for demolition and the asking price would rarely top $100, because, as Moolick said, "that's all they're worth."

The area had already taken on a ghostly appearance. A large corrugated steel building, once an air-conditioning firm, stood quiet and forlorn in its disuse.

There was an abandoned tavern which crouched mute on the top of a little spur, its silence mocked by a flaking "music" sign on the door.

A steady wind kicked up little eddies of dust which spun down the road to the new part of town —toward the future.

Already built is a 41-bed, $1.8-million hospital, the only one in Greenlee County. There's a large company-owned mercantile store, eight other businesses, restaurant, bowling alley and the start of what will be a new 300-home development.

Not all of the relocated families will get a new home, some will move to older sections of Morenci. How they find out where they'll be living is typical of the community.

"Come down to the office, we've got a key for you," the voice on the phone said.

Mrs. Pat Lopez recalls the day she received the call from the company's housing office telling her a new three-bedroom ranch house on Sunflower Street was waiting. The rent was $33.50 a month, the maximum on a rent scale which starts at $14 monthly.

The low rent is a big help to the Lopez family, which like others in Morenci will feel the effects of the recent eight-month copper strike for some time. Three days of every two week's pay is deducted by Phelps Dodge for credits extended during the strike.

"We're really in debt now," said Mrs. Lopez, as she sat in a living room almost dwarfed by a wall-length color television, radio and phonograph console.

Mine laborers in Morenci, with only two days off out of every 28, average $9,000 a year, while skilled employes such as Mrs. Lopez's husband make much more.

Moolick said Phelps Dodge had 99 per cent of its workers return after the strike, a big factor in going ahead with its town relocation move.

One woman, pausing a moment while shepherding four children down a steep hill, said her husband, an electrician in the smelter, never looked elsewhere for a job during the strike.

"We don't have any trouble like that in the cities," she explained. "It's a good place to bring up kids."

ple, now grants mortgages stating that the interest rate shall not drop below 5 per cent nor rise more than one per cent above the prime interest rate, which is now 6.5 per cent.

Although variable rates have not gained much popularity in most of the nation, some bankers feel that they may be the answer to potentially volatile swings in lending costs.

"You know what the trouble with Bobby Kennedy is?" one of the ladies asked.

"I sure would like to know," I said, hoping to ingratiate myself with her.

"He's got too many children," she said.

"You can say that again," I told her.

"McCarthy is the most disorganized man in politics," a Kennedy supporter said. "There's more to running this country than a children's crusade. He's not serious about wanting to be President."

"I always suspected that of him," I said.

One of the pretty girls on the left said, "Hubert sold out the liberals. He's now the darling of the South and big business."

"And he's always smiling," I said, hoping to win back some points.

The Nixon supporter said, "Rocky can't even make up his mind whether he wants to run or not, so how can he decide the bigger questions of the day?"

"He's been married twice," I reminded her.

"That may be," said Rocky's friend, "but you still have to ask yourself if you'd buy a used car from Nixon."

"I don't drive, but if I did I wouldn't," I assured her.

"You're not for Harold Stassen?" someone wanted to know.

"Only if they tear all my fingernails out," I assured the question.

"Well, it seems to me you must be for somebody," a lady said.

I just smiled sickly. "Does anyone want to see me stand on my head?"

Later, on the way home from the party, my wife let me have it.

"You made a fool of yourself again. Can't you ever go to a party without talking politics?"

ed the Communists' Tet offensive.

What this should tell Ho Chi Minh is that President Johnson, far from being a lame-duck captive of the doves inside or outside the government, is today more flexible on the war than at any time in his administration.

No one around Mr. Johnson really knows what decision he will make from one day to the next. Thus, if Mr. Johnson decides that Ho Chi Minh is cashing in on the partial bombing halt, he might well react by full resumption of bombing— and without worry about public opinion.

Such Pile Relief She Can't Describe Says Mrs. H. Williams

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Hugh Williams of Louisville writes: "A good person recommended Preparation H to me and such help I can't describe. I don't know what in the world I'd do without it."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Gunsmoke Filming Again; All Is Well

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Gunsmoke" is shooting again, and all's well in the television world.

There is something reassuring about having the CBS Western once more in production; it makes you feel that there's something permanent in TV after all. Without "Gunsmoke, Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball and "Dragnet," the home-screen entertainment would have an ephemeral air.

Jim Arness is back as tall in the saddle and silent in the interview as ever. Good ole Doc —Milburn Stone—remains thoroughly encrusted. As for gold-hearted Kitty, she's still 24-carat.

"Nobody's going to tamper with her character," said Amanda Blake, just daring anyone to try. "She has been the same since about the second half of the second season, when she became Matt Dillon's girl. Before that, she was just one of the girls in the saloon and didn't play any favorites."

Well, maybe Kitty's activities have changed a bit since "Gunsmoke" moved to an early hour on Monday nights, Miss Blake admitted. Kitty hasn't been in danger of rape since the youngsters were invited to share the adventures of Dodge City. But she has been kidnaped.

"Good lord, have I been kidnaped!" she exclaimed. I'm sick and tired of it. The writers claim I can't be in jeopardy as long as I'm in town—because Matt would protect me. So they keep having me kidnaped. I sure wish they'd think of something else."

Like a bedroom scene with Matt. She used to have some good scenes upstairs with Matt, all very chaste of course—"We didn't even have a bed in the room!" Nowadays Matt never gets up those stairs.

Despite her complaints, Amanda Blake leaves no doubt that she is deeply devoted to "Gunsmoke." It has brought her wealth in the millions and honors galore, the latest being her election to the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City. She is the first woman so distinguished, and she has been posing for a bust sculpted by Leonard McMurray.

Being so loyal to the series, she was naturally upset when CBS abruptly canceled "Gunsmoke" a couple of years ago. Upset? It was more like an explosion over Studio City.

She still gets incensed when she thinks about it.

I've heard many stories about the reason for it and I consider all of them lies," she remarked. "One of the reports I got was that we were done in by a computer. Yes, that was what I heard: That the computer said we weren't reaching the 18-25 age bracket—they're supposed to be all-important.

"We were getting to the 25-40 audience, which supposedly didn't count. So the computer said to fire us."

It's possible that the computer has since been fired, because a wave of protest caused CBS to reconsider. At the new hour "Gunsmoke" came back in the ratings just like—well, "Gunsmoke."

Scripts are built around Kitty about three times each season, and she makes briefer appearances in most of the other segments. Would she like to do more?

"Well, it's like this—I hate Los Angeles and I love Phoenix," said Miss Blake, who lives in Arizona with her husband, Frank Gilbert, "and I'm scared of airplanes. So I'm happy just the way things are."

Charge Driver In Sunday Accident

Martha Constance Killebrew, 20 of Wilson was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 12:35 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 200 feet West of the Sherwood Drive intersection Sunday.

Police said the Killebrew auto collided with a car driven by Elwood Clayton Davenport, 54 of Route 1, Winterville. Damage to the Davenport car was set at $15, while damage to the Killebrew vehicle was placed at $180.

Knightdale Boy Drowns In Pond

RALEIGH (AP) — A 10-year-old Knightdale boy, Randolph Ferrell, drowned Sunday in a pond six miles east of Raleigh.

Wake Deputy Sheriff James Anthony said three boys were playing in a boat when the Ferrell boy fell out. The other boys said they were unable to rescue him.

Set Employment Survey For Area

Householders in this area will be asked questions about current employment and unemployment the week of May 13-18 by Census Bureau interviewers, Director Joseph R. Norwood of the Bureau's regional office in Charlotte announced.

The questions are part of the Bureau's monthly population survey taken simultaneously throughout the Nation to gather up-to-date information about the U.S. population. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics uses these data principally to evaluate the changes in the national job picture.

Households to be interviewed here are part of a scientifically selected national sample. Their identity is confidential, and the facts obtained in the survey will be used only for statistical purposes. The same questions will be asked of all households throughout the sample.

The Census interviewer who will visit households in this area is: Mrs. Jean C. Wilson, Route 1, Grimesland.

Initiate 10 Into Honor Society

Ten East Carolina University students are new members of the Lambda Chapter of Gamma Beta Phi honorary scholastic society, an organization dedicated to scholarship, leadership, and citizenship.

The new members were initiated in a ceremony held in the University Union and conducted by the local president, George Bright of Elizabeth City.

To qualify for membership a student must have had previous affiliation with a Beta Club chapter or honor society in high school in addition to maintaining a grade average of at least C-plus and displaying the qualities of leadership and citizenship.

Fordham Award For Dr. Bost

CHAPEL HILL — Dr. William Stuart Bost Jr. of Greenville has been selected for the 1968 Henry C. Fordham Award at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine.

The award was presented Saturday during the annual Student-Faculty Day.

Dr. Bost is a resident in otolaryngology at N.C. Memorial Hospital here.

The award was established by the senior class in 1958 in honor of the late Dr. Henry C. Fordham, a resident in medicine at the hospital here.

Graduating seniors each year present the award to a member of the house staff at the hospital in recognition of his "qualities of patience, humility and devotion to medicine as were possessed by Dr. Fordham."

LAW OUTDATED

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — The New Hampshire legislature has repealed a law which provided for payment of $1 for every basket of Rocky Mountain locusts collected. The law was taken off the books, one observer said, because "nobody has brought in any Rocky Mountain locusts since 1911."

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Democratic Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey appear to be the leaders in public presidential preference now.

But Harris, interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," said he "wouldn't begin to answer" the question of who delegates may nominate at the two national party conventions.

"We are in the business of polling the electorate, not the delegates," he said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration has asked doctors to report any adverse reactions to the antibiotic drug chloramphenicol-and has issued a new warning to them on possible dangers.

FDA Cmmmissioner Dr. James L. Goddard reminded physicians in a letter released publicly Sunday night that labeling for the drug since 1952 has included a prominent warning its use can lead to serious and sometimes fatal blood disorders.

Doctors' reports were introduced at recent hearings conducted by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., that some deatns continue to be associated with use of the drug.

"The Food and Drug Administration," Goddard wrote, "believes that chloramphenicol is often prescribed for conditions for which it is not indicated, including trivial conditions such as acne, the common cold and simple infections."

Probe Sunday Break-In Here

Greenville police are investigating a break-in at the Pizza Chef at 529 Cotanche Street which occurred Sunday morning.

Police said the break-in was reported at 10 a.m.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking open a side door. An estimated $254 in cash and change was reported taken from a metal cabinet which had also been forced open, Chief H. F. Lawson said.

Investigation of the incident is underway.

What makes a Pontiac a Pontiac?
(And what makes ordinary cars ordinary?)

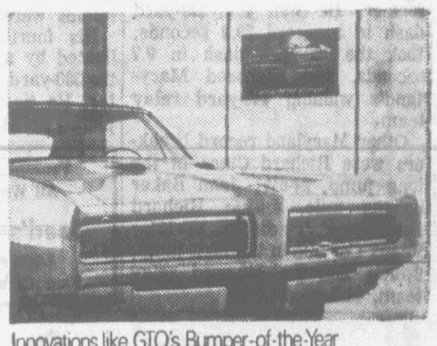

Only Pontiacs have Wide-Track. Drive a Pontiac and you'll wonder who took all the bumps and curves out of the road.

Even our lowest priced Pontiac has a unique 175-hp Overhead Cam Six. Unless you count cylinders, you'll swear it's a V-8.

Pontiac interiors make you glad you left home—soft Morrokide and simulated wood trim so real only a termite can tell it isn't.

Innovations like GTO's Bumper-of-the-Year make Pontiacs look expensive. But record sales prove we know how to price them, too.

THE GREAT WIDE-TRACK DRIVE IS ON!

See your Pontiac dealer. He's out to smash sales records for the 7th straight year!

Tiant Hurls 4th Straight Shutout For Indians

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

They say pitching is 75 per cent of the game and when Luis Tiant is the man on the mound, enemy batters have trouble getting their 25 per cent worth.

Tiant hurled his fourth straight shutout Sunday, beating Baltimore on four hits as Cleveland took the first game of a doubleheader 2-0. Stan Williams then tacked on eight more scoreless innings before Brooks Robinson homered to break the spell but the Indians completed the sweep, 4-1.

If the Orioles were somewhat suspicious of Tiant's shutout string before Sunday, it was understandable. The Cuban-born right-hander had a 0-6 lifetime record against them in four previous big-league seasons.

But he struck out nine and was in control all the way, besting Tom Phoebus in a pitcher's duel. Tony Horton's sixth inning single gave Tiant the only run he needed and Dave Nelson's suicide squeeze bunt brought in the other in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, Boston swept a doubleheader from New York 8-1 and 4-2, Washington dropped Detroit 6-3, Minnesota rapped California 4-2 in 10 innings and Oakland took Chicago 6-2.

In the National League, Chicago split with New York, taking the first game 4-3 but losing the nightcap 10-0, Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 1-0 in 12 innings, Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 2-1, Cincinnati dropped San Francisco 3-1 and Houston topped St. Louis 3-2.

Tiant's four shutouts leave him one short of the major league record set in 1904 by Doc White of the Chicago White Sox. His 36 consecutive shutout innings are 20 away from the mark set by Walter Johnson. He is sporting a 1.73 earned run average.

Williams almost duplicated Tiant's job. He held the Orioles scoreless on four hits until Robinson connected in the ninth, in all the Indians have won 16 games, nine of them on shutouts.

Cleveland with 10 victories in 11 starts and four straight over Baltimore has soared into a second place tie with the Orioles, who've dropped six in a row.

Detroit is still in front despite Sunday's loss to the Senators. Frank Howard led Washington's attack with two homers—his eighth and ninth of the season—while Ken McMullen socked his fifth.

Sal Bando socked three hits and drove in two runs as the Athletics raked Chicago. Tony Pierce, making his first start of the season, won it with Jack Aker coming out of the bullpen to get the last out.

Jim Fregosi's 10th inninge r-ror allowed Minnesota's winning run to score and the Twins added an insurance run when Bob Allison walked with the bases loaded. Both California runs came as the result of bases-loaded walks by starter Dave Boswell.

But Rich Rollins' seventh inning homer tied it for the Twins and Fregosi's error on Tony Oliva's bouncer allowed Rod Carew to race home with the winner.

Dick Ellsworth pitched a three-hitter in the opener and Gary Bell allowed five hits in the second game as Boston swept the Yankees.

The Red Sox, who had dropped three straight and six of eight, jumped on Bill Monbouquette for five runs in the first inning of the opener with double: by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith and Ken Harrelson the big blows. Sox opped on Fred Talbot for three quick runs.

Broke 9 Records In ACC Track

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Paced by Roland Merritt, Maryland rolled up a record 134 points to score its 13th straight victory in the Atlantic Coast Conference outdoor track and field championships Saturday.

Nine records were broken, six by Coach Jim Kehoe's Terps.

Clemson and South Carolina scored 31 points each to tie for second. Other team scores were North Carolina 28, Duke 19, Virginia 18, N.C. State 10, and Wake Forest 1.

Merritt, of Washington, D.C., won the Robert A. Fetzer Award as the meet's outstanding performer. He won the 220-yard dash in a record 20.9 seconds, took the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds, and anchored Maryland's winning 440-yard relay team.

Other Maryland record breakers were Richard Ciner in the long jump, 24-6½; John Baker in the mile, 4:05.5; Richard Drescher in the discus, 178-10½; Frank Costello in the high jump, 6-10¾; and the 440-yard relay team, 41.2 seconds.

Regular Season Ends This Week For ACC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlantic Coast Conference baseball regular season ends this week. North Carolina State can win the title if it defeats Wake Forest Wednesday, or if Maryland loses to third-place Clemson Tuesday.

The games wind up the conference season for the State Wolfpack, 12-4 in the league, and the Maryland Terps, 11-5.

A State loss and a Maryland victory would leave them tie at 12-5.

The league leader gains entry into the NCAA playoffs.

The lead was regained Saturday by the Wolfpack with a doubleheader victory over Virginia, 6-1 and 4-1 at Charlottesville behind the pitching of Joe Frye and Alex Cheek.

In another doubleheader Saturday, North Carolina defeated Maryland 1-0 and 2-1. A 13th-inning home run by third baseman Ron Lemonds gave the Tar Heels the first game.

South Carolina blanked Wake Forest 2-0 only to have the Deacons rally for a 2-1 victory in the nightcap. It was South Caroina's final games. The Gamecocks closed the season with a 14-11 all games record and 7-9 in the conference.

Duke and Clemsin split another doubleheader, Clemson taking the first game 5-3 and Duke coming back for a 7-0 victory.

The week's schedule:

Today—Clemson at George Washington, North Carolina at Virginia Tech.

Tuesday—Clemson at Maryland.

Wednesday—Duke at North Carolina (2), Clemson at Virginia (2), Wake Forest at N.C. State.

Saturday—Maryland at Navy, Wake Forest-North Carolina at Asheboro, N. C. (non-conference).

Dave Pearson Broke A Seven-Year Drought

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP)—Stock car racing's big money is being paid on the superspeedways, and it had been seven long years since David Pearson had drawn a winner's check from one of them.

Saturday, the 32-year - old Pearson drove his sleek blue and gold Ford Torinto into victory lane after the Rebel 400 at Darlington and sighed:

"You're looking at the happiest man in this park, and right over there is the happiest boy." He pointed to 12-year-old Ricky Pearson, whom the proud father-driver feels is due large part of the credit for his $13,900 victory in the 12th running of the spring race at Darlington International Raceway.

"I told someone several weeks ago that the only way I'd ever win another big one was to have Ricky at the track," Pearson recalled. "When I won at North Wilkesboro a month ago (a 250-miler), that was the first time Ricky had been in the pits with my crew. I felt then he had brought me luck; I know it now."

Pearson finished the Rebel 400 almost a lap ahead of Darel Dieringer, a 45-year-old veteran Plymouth driver, in the fastest race ever run at Darlington—132.699 miles per hour. The drama of men and machines also drew the largest crowd ever for the Rebel, 35,000.

Pearson led 131 of the 291 laps over the tortuous mile and three-eighths course. He used 396 cubic inch engine, in contrast to the 427 inch plants in the other Ford team cars, and as a result his car obviously handled better.

He led briefly on two occasions earlier in the race before taking over for good on lap 240. After that it was strictly no contest, although Dieringer made a run for Pearson in the late stages. The Ford pilot was ordered to slow down by his pit crew when smoke started to trail him through the turns. Pearson said the smoke came from an oil "overfill" on one of his pit stops.

Finishing in order behind Pearson and Dieringer were Richard Petty, Buddy Baker, Lee Roy Yarbrough, James Hylton, Bobby Isaac, John Sears, Bud Moore and Elmo Langley.

Petty, the Plymouth star who won NASCAR'S driving title and $137,000 last year, picked up $5,330 Saturday for his best effort on a superspeedway this season. Dieringer collected $7,770.

GRAHAM HILL LEADS

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Graham Hill, averaging 84.407 m.p.h., drove his Lotus to victory by 16 seconds Sunday in the Spanish Grand Prix and took the lead in the 1968 Formula One world championship.

Turbocar Laid Up By Accident

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Its frame badly wrenched in a practice accident Sunday, the STP turbocar that nearly won last year's Indianapolis 500 mile race probably won't be repaired in time to make the May 30 classic.

Driver Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif., umped the first trun wall after turning laps in the 166 mile per hour range. Leonard was not injured.

STP President Andy Granatelli said he does not think the car, No. 40, can be repaired in time for the race.

"We may figure out a way to get the job done in time to qualify it," he said. "But right now it looks like the car never will run again."

The turbine, then driven by Parnelli Jones, led nearly all the 1967 race until a minor gear failure eliminated it with only minutes remaining.

Another turbine fared better in Sunday's practice.

Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa.. tested the vehicle in which English driver Mike Spence was killed Tuesday and turned in four laps in the 167 m.p.h. range.

A season high of 32 cars was on the track as practice went into its final week before Saturday's initial qualifying day.

Birdies Add Up To $20,000

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Archer added $20,000 to his swelling bank account today — the result of a string of birdies that won the Greater New Orleans Open golf title.

The 6-foot-6 pro nailed down first place in the $100,000 tournament Sunday on the 18th green by tapping in a five-foot putt for his fourth birdie on the back nine.

At 67, Archer was four under par over the demanding 6,560-yard Lakewood Country Club course — 13 under at 271 for the 72 holes. His slice of the cash boosted his PGA tour earnings to $77,632 for the year.

A supurb finishing round of 66, five under par, boosted Bert Yancey to the second spot and a $12,000 payoff. Miller Barber, Tom Weiskopf and Bobby Cole tied for third at 276.

Barber and Weiskpf were tied for the lead when the final round began but both fired 73s for the last 18 holes.

Cole, who had a 65 Saturday, ran into a horrendous triple bogey at No. 15 when his tee shot disappeared in thick Spanish moss hanging from a cypress tree, and he finished with a 70.

Archer was one undero n the front nine. At No. 10 he three-putted from 45 feet for a bogey 5. Then he buckled down.

On 11 he chipped in from off the green for a birdie. At 12 he rammed in a 15-foot birdie putt. At 13 his lie was four feet off the green and 30 feet from the flag but his chip shot ran straight to the hole.

Jack Nicklaus was far down the money list. His first three rounds were even par.

His fourth was a 68—highlighted by a drive that carried the 380-yard, par-4 16th from the tee. He tied at 13th place and picked up $1,900.

ECU Pirates Make Another Try Against Mountaineers In Playoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

East Carolina's Pirates hope they have better luck in three baseball games this year at Ft. Eustis, Va., than they had last year in one.

The Pirates and West Virginia finished in a tie for the Southern Conference lead in 1967, and the Mountaineers won a subsequent playoff at the Virginia Army base and represented the league in the NCAA regional tournament.

East Carolina will make another try Friday and Saturday in a best-of-three series between the Southern and Northern Division winners. The Pirates' apparent opponent will be William and Mary.

The Pirates nailed down the Southern Division title with an 8-1 record Saturday by defeating Furman's Paladins 4-3 in the opener of a scheduled doubleheader. Knocked out of the running by that defeat, Furman forfeited the second encounter.

Unless thre's a ruling that Richmond's Spiders may make up a postponed game at George Washington, William and Mary won the Northern Division crown by beating Richmond 9-2 in the second game of a doubleheader Saturday. The Spiders won the opener 3-1.

The split left William and Mary 5-3, Richmond 4-3. Commissioner Lloyd Jordan said the conference baseball committee should decide whether the Spiders should make up the GW game but noted that league rules specify postponed games should be replayed by May 11 — which was Saturday.

George Washington, rained out of a scheduled doubleheader Saturday at Penn State, is scheduled to take on Clemson at home today.

Freshman catcher Len Dowd's two-run homer in the bottom of the seventh inning brought East Carolina from behind a 3-2 deficit against Furman and made playing their second game academic.

A five-run first inning high lighted by Jack Driscoll's bases-loaded triple started William and Mary on its road to victory. Richmond took the opener bhind the four-hit pitching of Dick Balderson and a three-run homer by John Fleet.

ACC Golf Title Matches Begin

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Jack Lewis, winner of the recent North and South Amateur tournament, and Leonard Thompson, whose 10 match stroke average stands at 71.3, head the Wake Forest team in the Atlantic Coast Conference golf championship which begins today.

The Deacons, unbeaten in two years of ACC dual competition, are seeking their second straight title. The tourney is a 36-hole event ending Tuesday, at the Quail Ridge Golf Club course, par 72 and 6,858 yards.

Wake Forest junior Charles Snipes is the defending individual champion. However, he has played in only two dual matches this season, averaging 76 strokes.

THIRD STRAIGHT

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Las Cruces High School pitcher Sal Lopez hurled is third straight no-hit, no-run baseball game Saturday and has gone 17 straight innings without giving up a run or hit.

Player-Owner Dispute As NFL Meet Opens

In addition, the NFL Players Association also is seeking a minimum salary of $15,000 a yaar for players.

Modell gave no indication how that proposal would be received.

During the meeting, which will last through Wednesday, the NFL and American Football League owners will try to get together on other differences such as the use of individual names on jerseys and the selection of a site for the 1969 Super Bowl.

ATLANTA (AP)—The annual spring meeting of professional football club owners gets under way here today with a controversy already looming between owners and players in the National Football League.

The player - owner dispute, which involved salaries and the pension fund, flared into the open Sunday when Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and NFL president, said concessions being demanded by the players "come under the realm of impossibility."

Modell said he and his labor relations committee "are open to any suggestion that makes sense," but said two of the player demands are impossible.

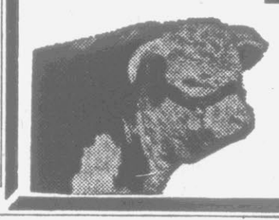

The two player proposals considered impossible, Modell said, are that $5 million be contributed annually to the player retirement fund and that each player receive $500 for each exhibition game.

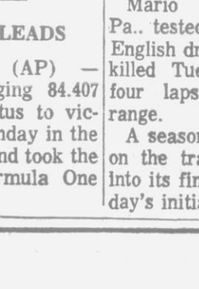

A change on extra point scoring also has been proposed to put more suspense into the pro games.

The proposal up for consideration would prohibit the extra point kick and would allow one point for as uccessful running or passing conversion after a touchdown.

Coaches in the AFL have gone on record in favor of the plan.

FHA Loans Changing Farm Homes Across Pitt

THE OLD . . . this is the type house being replaced by FHA loans.

THE NEW . . . many farm families are constructing such dwellings as this in Pitt and Martin Counties.

By HENRY HOWARD

The Smiths have eight children from nine to 18. The family income is less than $4,500 a year. But the Smiths are homeowners.

Look at the Joneses: A mother and a disabled father, ten children aged three to 18, this faily can buy an $8,500 only $4,532 last year. Yet this family can buy an $8,500 home.

Take the Johnsons, a widowed family of eight. Counting the oldest son's pay as a textile worker, the family gets $5,750 a year. The Johnsons are making monthly payments on a four - bedroom home.

The names have been changed but the rest of the story is true, though it is much longer.

There are nearly 450 Pitt and Martin County families stretching scantly incomes to cover the beginnings of home ownership. The are learning how it feels to have a stake in the county's tax revenue. They are taking great pride in a new role as contributor instead of burden to society.

Most important, they are people on the move from wretched shanties, those ramshackle huts so often blamed for so many of society's ills. They are moving into bright, clean, comfortable dwellings. And, with the help of some well-directed pump priming, they are doing it on their own power.

The pump primer is the Rural Housing Loan Program of the Farmers Home Administration, a rural development arm of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A typical FHA loan carries 5 percent interest and runs for 33 years. Any family in a community of fewer than 5,500 residents can get such a loan, so all of Pitt County except Greenville and all of Martin County except Williamston is eligible territory.

The problem in Martin and Pitt, as in many other counties, is that the money always runs out before the demand is met. So, when the county share of the national FHA fund is gone, an insured loan program which draws on local capital comes into play. For example, Wachovia Bank and Trust Company recently put more than one million dollars into the program in these two counties to help it reach more families this ear.

There are other ways of making the most of the program. Richard T. Duke, FHA supervisor in Martin, explains: "We figure than when a family has paid as much as a fourth of a loan, they are in good enough shape to refinance the loan locally and pay FHA off. Of course the money they pay back can then be reused to get another family started.

"That's what we're trying to do with this program, help these families get on their feet and get started, then let them take care of themselves. They can do it. All it takes from us is a helping hand."

"Loan eligibility requirements," states Paul W. Bailey, FHA supervisor in Pitt, "are that the applicant be without safe, sanitary, and decent housing, that he have sufficient income to repay the loan, and that he possess the character and the ability to carry out the obligations required by the loan. Further, the applicant must be unable to obtain the needed credit from conventional lending agencies."

Duke says some of his borrowers are young couples just starting out. But most of them are in their 40's or 50's. "We think this program is working at its best when we reach families who have been tyring for 10, 20 or 30 years to own their own place but just haven't been able to make it," he said. "If you ever get them started and see them pick up that sense of pride, that new spark of life. . . . That's your real reward."

The Farmers Home Administration staffs keep careful check on their accounts. "We inspect every house once a year and we check town and county records every January to make sure the taxes are paid," Duke says. "We review our entire caseload every October and ask those who have paid 25 percent or more on their loans to refinance them locally and free our FHA funds for other users. We are happy that we have never had to foreclose a single loan."

What kind of housing does the program provide? The Smiths have a brick veneer house with 1,260 square feet of inside floor space. They pay $44 a month on a 33-year loan of $8,400. They moved out of a leaky cabin that rented for $20 a month.

The Joneses built a concrete block house with 1,260 square feet of floor space. They pay $45 a month. The Johnsons' brick veneer home was 1,484 square feet and cost $11,030.

Duke says the borrowers may select their own house plans, with FHA guidance. "We encourage them to find a contractor to build the house," he says. "If they can't find one, of course we help by showing them a list of builders. Then we leave the final selection pretty much to the borrower."

The Pitt County Farmers Home Administration office is located on the second floor of the Old Hospital Building at 709 Johnston Street, Greenville. The office staff consists of Paul W. Bailey, County Supervisor, Frank L. Lancaster, Jr. and Ferol V. Harris, Assistant County Supervisors, Harry J. Jarvis, Loan Assistant, Frances R. White, County Office Clerk, Emma T. Daniels and Matilda D. Bunting, Assistant County Office Clerks.

The Worry Clinic

Audiences Captivated By Narrative Formula

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-565: Rev. Guy Tremaine, aged 88, fills the pulpits for other clergymen who are on vacation.

Recently I heard him thrill an audience for 35 minutes with an address that kept adults and teen - agrs breathless and attentive.

For Rev. Tremaine follows Christ's narrative formula and advances his basic theme with a series of relevant stories.

Bishop Sheen, Billy Graham, Dr. Peale and all the other great orators use this very same recipe.

Yet far too many young clergymen either can't comprehend it, due to its simplicity, or they are too bullheaded to change.

"When I was a boy," Rev. Tremaine told the congregation, "I lived in a small community where the local preacher's house needed to be moved.

"So a farmer who did that sort of thing was hired for the job.

"He put the house on rollers and used a big horse named Baldy.

"But Baldy wouldn't pull. He dwadled along, despite his master's commands.

"Finally, the farmer turned to the clergyman and asked him to go around the block for a stroll so he could talk to Baldy in language the horse understood.

"The preacher got the point, so he tactfully walked away.

"Then the farmer used language which Baldy knew. But it wasn't the sort which cultured mothers employ with their children!

"Since Baldy must have come up from an underprivileged neighborhood, he responded with alacrity to the strong language the farmer now employed.

"So when the clergyman returned, Baldy had pulled the house to its new destination!"

Rev. Tremaine then pointed out the psychological axiom that children as well as horses, develop their attitudes and outlook very early.

In fact, he mentioned that before an infant reaches the tender age of two years, he has "sensed" whether he is loved or rejected.

Even though he is still too young for kindergarten or Nursery School, he has acquired either a strong emotional bond, or feels rejected and thus is potentially ready for delinquency, "hippie" crazes and other frustration outlets.

Rev. Tremaine then showed that Christ could have taken Caesar's throne and become a world ruler.

He could have married the most beautiful woman on Earth and lived in royal fashion!

But Jesus renounced those opportunities just to show the extensivesness of God's love for mankind.

Unlike modern "society" families who "farm out" their babies to nursemaids and baby-sitters, tutors and summer camp directors, God tried to show his love for every human being.

He stressed that he was available to every boy and girl, man and woman who would call for aid.

God thus sent Jesus to Calvary to demonstrate his love!

So send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents and cuddle up your kiddies on your lap while you read them the answers to those 140 dramatic Bible puzzlers!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to covery typing and printing cost when you send for one of his booklets.)

University's 14-Year-Old Senior Has Own Problems

By JACQUELINE KORONA
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While many college students are wondering how to stay in college until they're old enough to avoid the draft, Mike Grost faces the problem of staying in college until he's old enough for the draft.

And a job. And driving a car. And dating.

And just about everything else that a normal 14-year-old doesn't have to worry about.

Now a senior studying advanced mathematics at Michigan State University, Mike was the youngest freshman ever admitted to the school whe he enrolled four years ago. He'll be 15 when he graduates in December and his immediate plans seem limited to one course—more graduate study at Michigan State.

He says he'd like to go elsewhere, but it's a problem of age.

"He couldn't very well go away from home at 15, when he can't even drive a car," says his father, William Grost, holder of a master's degree in education from Michigan State and manager of a Lansing credit union.

Waiting for the draft is, according to Mike, "just like waiting for the atom bomb.

"I'm only 14 and they don't take you until 19."

In October he turns 15, "about the right age to start dating," he says.

"I've had one date," he adds, sticking up one finger to make the point. "It was a blind date—and it was fun."

Along this line, Mike is looking forward to the arrival this fall of Edith Stern, a 16-year-old grraduate of Florida Atlantic University, who is coming to Michigan State to study and teach advanced mathematics.

"When we heard she was coming, we were really excited," he said.

"It will be interesting," said Edith. "It will certainly be different."

Mike' studies present few problems for him. He earns a 3.86-point average out of a possible four points.

But being a senior in college at 14 does affect his social life. Other than his one date and occasional "goofing off" with boys in his neighborhood, he has little social life.

"It's hard for him," says his mother, "he doesn't have much chance to meet girls his own age."

His mother says the other MSU students accept Mike as one of them, adding, "they even tease him about not being old enough to go to parties with them."

Charge Students Possessed Drugs

RALEIGH (AP) — Two North Carolina State University students were charged with possession of drugs Sunday when they were arrested after getting off a bus at the Raleigh bus station.

Detectives identified them as Reinhard Ernest Koch, 20, of High Point, and Robert Henry Strauber, 18, of Asheville.

Officers said they found 64 capsules and tablets of amphetamines and barbiturates in their possession.

They were released under $500 bond each pending hearing in City Court.

Union Group Has Mock Legislature

RALEIGH (AP) — Delegates representing 19 North Carolina locals of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO, met in a mock legislative session Saturday. They voted to abolish capital punishment, repeal the right-to-work law, and passed a truth-in-lending law.

The "legislators" also voted to establish free public kindergartens in North Carolina,

Father, 2 Sons Will Be Priests

BELMONT, N.C. (AP) John Paul Habiger says he and his wife had an understanding that the survivor of their marriage would give his life to the Lord.

His wife, Mildred, died in 1963, shortly after both of their sons, John Jr., and Henry Louis, had begun studies for the Catholic priesthood.

Habiger followed them into the semiary, and all three soon will complete their studies at Belmont Abbey at Belmont.

They are from Salina, Kan., and will be ordained at St. Benedict's Abbey in Atchison, Kan., on June 14.

Habiger was an oil well driller, a sales manager and a real estate appraiser before studying for the priesthood.

1985	10,000	2002	125,000
1986	10,000	1003	135,000
		2004	135,000

Denomination $5,000; coupon bonds registrable as to principal alone; principal of the bonds and semi-annual interest (May 1 and November 1) payable at Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, in the City of Greenville, North Carolina, or, at the option of the holder or registered owner, at Bankers Trust Company, in the Borough of Manhattan, City and State of New York. Interest at a rate or rates, not exceeding 5 percent per annum, which will result in an average annual net interest cost to The Board of Trustees of East Carolina University of not exceeding 3 percent. At the option of the purchaser of any bonds, a single non-negotiable temporary bond in the amount of each purchase and registered as to principal and interest will be issued, exchangeable within 90 days after notice for definitive negotiable coupon bonds in the denomination of $5,000.

The bonds are to be issued under and pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board on May 19, 1965, as amended (said resolution with all resolutions amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto as therein permitted being herein collectively called the "Resolution") and a resolution adopted by the Board on October 27, 1967, including any resolutions amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, for the purpose of providing funds for paying the cost of Additional Facilities consisting of a new dormitory, with necessary appurtenant facilities, to house approximately 400 women at East Carolina University (formerly East Carolina College), at Greenville, North Carolina. The Board has theretofore issued $8,977,000 bonds under the provisions of the Resolution, consisting of $1,234,000 Series A bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1966 through 1996, $1,056,000 Series B bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1966 through 1997, $57,000 Series C bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1966 through 1971, $521,00 Series D bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1972 through 2000, $218,000 Series E bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1966 through 1977, $868,000 Series F bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1978 through 2002, $1,963,000 Series G bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1967 through 2004 and $3,060,000 Series I bonds maturing serially on May 1 in the years 1969 through 1998 for the purpose of refunding The Board of Trustees of the East Carolina College Dormitory System Revenue Bond of 1956 (herein called the "1956 bond"), The Board of Trustees of the East Carolina College Dormitory System Revenue Bond of 1958 (herein called the "1958 bond"), The Board of Trustees of the East Carolina College Dormitory System Revenue Bonds of 1961 (herein called the "1961 bonds"), and The Board of Trustees of the East Carolina College Dormitory System Bonds of 1962 (herein called the "1962 bonds"), paying, with other available funds, the cost of two new dormitories, with necessary appurtenant facilities, to house approximately 500 men and 40 women students (herein collectively called the "1964 Project") and paying, with other available funds, the cost of two new dormitories, with necessary appurtenant facilities, to house approximately 500 students and approximately 400 students, respectively (herein collectively called the "1967 Project").

The Series H bonds are special obligations of The Board of Trustees of East Carolina University, payable from and secured by a first lien on and pledge of the net revenues of the East Carolina College (now the East Carolina University) Dormitory System, comprising the following: (i) the dormitory known as Jones Dormitory financed by the issuance of the 1956 bond, (ii) the dormitory known as Aycock Dormitory financed by the issuance of the 1958 bond, (iii) the dormitory known as Scott Dormitory financed by the issuance of the 1961 bonds, (iv) the dormitory known as Fletcher Dormitory financed by the issuance of the 1962 bonds, (v) certain dormitories heretofore constructed at East Carolina University and referred to in the Resolution as "Existing Dormitories", (vi) the 1964 Project and (vii) the 1967 Project, and (viii) any additional housing and related auxiliary facilities or other additions or improvements to the Dormitory System financed by the issuance of bonds under the provisions of the Resolution or any part of the revenues of which shall be pledged to the payment of bonds issued under the provisions of the Resolution.

The Resolution provides for the issuance from time to time of additional bonds, under the conditions, limitations and restrictions set forth in the Resolution, to pay the cost of acquiring or constructing any additional housing and related auxiliary facilities or other additions or improvements to the Dormitory System or to refund the bonds of any Series issued under the provisions of the Resolution.

The definitive coupon Series H bonds maturing May 1, 1978 to May 1, 2004, inclusive, may be redeemed prior to their respective maturities, at the option of the Board, from any moneys that may be made available for such purpose, either in whole or in part in the inverse order of their numbers on any interest payment date after May 1, 1977, at the principal amount of the bonds to be redeemed, together with the interest accrued thereon to the date fixed for redemption, plus a premium of 3 percent of such principal amount if redeemed on or prior to May 1, 1982, 2½ percent if redeemed thereafter and on or prior to May 1, 1987, 2 percent if redeemed thereafter and on or prior to May 1, 1992, 1½ percent if redeemed there

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina hog markets today were 25 cents higher. Tops of 19.00 - 19.50 Rocky Mount; 18.50-19.25 Wilson; 19.00 Greensboro; 18.75 Selma 18.50 Salisbury; 18.25 Siler City, Denton.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — The North Carolina poultry market today was steady. Price of live poultry at the farms was 13½ cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was firmer this afternoon after an irregular showing in the morning. TRADING WAS moderately active.

Gains outnumberd losses by some 150 issues on the New York Stock Exchnge.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off .06 at 912.85 at noon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 329 9, with industrials unchanged, rails up .7, and utilities up .4.

Scattered weakness in blue chips put the brakes on the averages. The start of peace talks in Paris seemed to foreshadow a long and difficult process ahead, but the market itself had a big recovery move behind it, and many analysts said it apparently was in for a period of consolidation.

Gains and losses of fractions to about 3 points peppered the list

Ling-Temco-Vought spurted 4 points, more than recovering from its drop of 1⅞ Friday. The company plans an offer of $85 a share for the stock of Jones & Laughlin, the fifth biggest steel company.

J.&L. rise 15 points to 77 on Friday but was delayed in opening today because of an order jam up.

Armour spurted 1⅜ to 42 on a delayed opening block of 16,400 shares. The company plans to offer shares of a new subsidiary to its stockholders.

Austin, Nichols was up a fraction and Liggett & Myers down a fraction on word of preliminary talks of possible acquisition of Austin, Nichols by L&M at a price not to exceed $40 a share. The stock was selling at 36¾ at noon.

Certain-Teed was up ⅛ at 27 on a block of 49,000 shares. Very few large blocks changed hands.

Du Pont gained 3 and Procter & Gamble 2 while Electronic Associates and IBM dropped 3 each.

Actively traded, Martin Marietta rose 1 and Hooker Chemical about 2.

In-Service Training For Police Officers Begins

BETHEL — The first in-service training program for police officers from small towns in Eastern North Carolina began here today.

The project is one of eight to be held in different sections of the state and will offer 60 hours of instruction.

The schools are beng coordinated by Charles E. Clement, executive director of the Governor's Committee on Law and Order. They are being developed to provide quality instruction for law enforcement officers from small towns and communities.

Officers from Greenville, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Jacksonville police departments as well as representatives from various state agencies will act as instructors for the 60-hour program.

Subjects to be covered include laws of arrest, search and seizure, laws of evidence, criminal investigation, adult behavior. juvenile behavior and delated courses.

Classes in Bethel will be held in the Rotary Club building and will be held six hours per day five days a week for two weeks.

Officers from Bethel, Robersonville, Snow Hill, Windsor, Sharpsburg, Enfield, Grifton, and Scotland Neck police departments are attending as well as officers from the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Candidate Now More Discreet

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Topless dancer Vicky Drake has stopped wearing see-through blouses and donned a more serious image on the eve of student body elections at Stanford University.

Last week the blonde, who measures 38-22-36, led all primary candidates with 1,575 votes.

Miss Drake, 22, a Spanish literature major last term, is not now a student but says she plans to enroll again next fall.

In her bid for victory she has offered to join in a tea with Mrs. Wallace Sterling, wife of the university president. The elections are Tuesday and Wednesday.

CAPT. HAROLD STREEPER

Streeper will talk on naval operations in the South Pacific area.

A native of Ridley Park, Pa., Streeper attended the College of Wooster, Ohio, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1942.

He is married to the former Cora Boyd Redditt of Greenville.

Hippies Parade For Police Dept.

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of gaily dressed hippies paraded to a Chicago police station Sunday in a demonstration of love on Mother's Day.

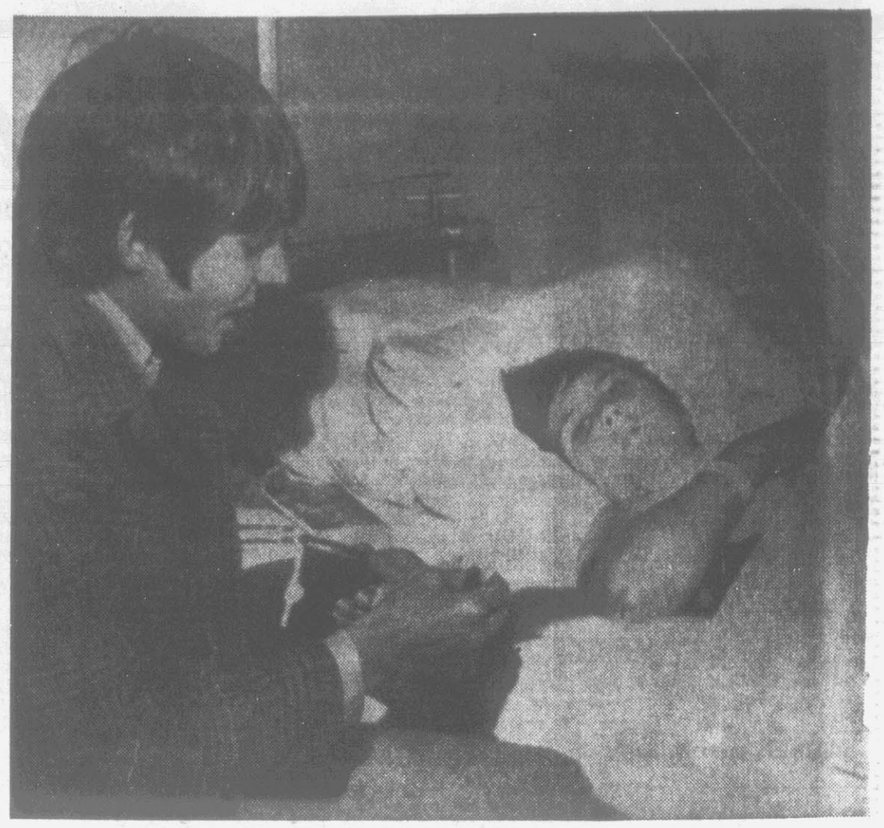

More than 100 gift-laden flower children walked a mile bearing such offerings as watermelons, pizzas, apple pies, daisies and love buttons.

"We want to become friends with the police department," said a spokesman for the group.

Capt. Kenneth W. Fossier cited a police regulation banning gratuities and directed the parade to a nearby children's hospital where the hippies left their offerings.

TRUE BIRD LOVER

GLASTON, England (AP) — Peggy Hillington has abandoned her bicycle and taken up walking. Mrs. Hillington is a bird lover, and a blackbird has laid four eggs in the bicycle's basket.

"IT WAS LIKE NOTHING ELSE" — Davey Jones of the Monkees pays a visit to Rhonda Cook, 11, who lost her left leg in a traffic accident last week. She was clutching an album by the singing group when she ran into a crosswalk and was struck by a car. "The first thing he did was give me a kiss," said Rhonda. "And it was nice. It was like nothing else." (AP Wirephoto)

New Entry Clerk Is Named For Fair

Mrs. Perry McLawhorn, of Winterville, who has for years been associated with the Pitt County American Legion Agr. Fair, will succeed Mrs. Amos J. Evans as Entry Clerk and Receptionist, as Mrs. Evans has entered other permanent work.

The 1968 Pitt County Agr. Fair will be held October 7-12, according to announcement today by President Ford McGowan. Mrs. Sue B. May and Sam C. Winchester will be in charge of the Womens' and Men's Divisions, assisted by Miss Addie Gore and Leroy James.

The Fair will again offer a total of $3,800.00 in premiums for general exhibits, livestock and poultry. The Fair was recently designated as a No. 1 Fair by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

All exhibits at the Fair are limited to Pitt County. Every effort will be made by the Extension workers and the Fair to secure more general exhibits, in addition to the educational exhibits.

The 1968 premium book showing all offers for the 1968 Fair will very soon go to press and be ready for distribution in early August. The American Legion Posts at Greenville, Ayden and Farmville are now contacting business firms for advertising.

Hours Changed At Art Center

Opening hours for the Greenville Are Center have been changed, according to Edith Walker, director of the Center.

The new hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. The Center will remain open Saturday from 9:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

The Center previously remained opened from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturdday and was closed on Monday.

Put us back the way we wuz . . . . . .
The city has wrought a miracle at Five Points, and for bringing order out of chaos, we congratulate them. Now, we even have three holly trees, on a concrete island, no less. Soon the robbins will come, the deer and the antelope will play, and never a discouraging word will be heard.

And yet we long for the good old days, when the hitching post was there. We complained about it, then. We were bitter about the stoplights nobody could see. We fretted at the dangers pedestrians faced.

Little did we know how demoralizing order and tranquility can be Life at Five Points was once an exhilarating adventure. Getting across was a challenge. Lives were risked each moment, and there was a thrilling sense of accomplishment to a person who outwitted the traffic and got to the bank alive. The sound of ears crashing, pedestrians screaming, everything made Five Points an exciting place to be .

We were wrong to complain, we admit it. But the thrill has gone. And so we ask, give us back our hijching post! Hide the stoplights. Make Five Points once more a place for freedom, where citizens can fight for their rights, where an independent bank can take its place with pride. Please put back the way we wuz!
