

Officials Believe Arson Involved One Coed Killed, 14 Others Injured In OSU Dorm Fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A fire official said "obviously set" killed one coed and hurt 14 others early today in a tower dormitory on the campus of Ohio State University.

The blaze broke out in an 11th floor suite of the 24-floor building, 1,000 students. There were 70 coeds on the 11th floor. All suffered to some degree from smoke inhalation.

The dead girl, who died in nearby University Hospital several hours after the fire of smoke inhalation, was identified as Pam Patterson, 16, Ladelow Falls. She was a freshman majoring in arts and sciences.

Nine students suffered minor injuries and were admitted for treatment, three others were treated and released, and two coeds are in critical condition.

University Vice President

Gordon B. Carson closed the 11th floor and said an intensive investigation was under way to determine what actually started the fire he said "obviously set." He said the blaze definitely began in a lounge of one of the six four-bedroom suites on the floor, the central core of which is an elevator shaft.

The windows in the tower are small and sealed. Some coeds broke the windows and firemen believe some perhaps saved themselves from suffocation this way.

Carson noted a fire was set in the adjoining twin Morrill Tower last week and that the fire in Lincoln Tower today "was similar."

The fire in Morrill Tower caused about $1,000 damage but no injuries.

Carson was the key figure in a recent campus disturbance in which a group of students representing the campus black Student Union took over the administration building for hours. Carson and some other university officials were held under restraint while negotiating grievances.

Soot-covered, some unconscious, others choking from the smoke, the coeds were carried and led from the building by firemen and police who converged on the scene before dawn.

Some covered their faces with wet towels as fire emergency squadmen and police helped them out.

Many coeds in the building, subjected to numerous false alarms in the past, were unaware of the alarm was a real one.

Harriman Critical Of Propaganda Moves Hanoi Envoys Raise Possible Parley Failure--'Blame U.S.'

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
PARIS (AP)—In a sharp exchange of arguments, North Vietnam's envoy raised the possibility today that the Paris peace talks might fail and told U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman the United States would bear "the full and entire responsibility."

Harriman, in talking with reporters after the formal meeting, accused North Vietnam of using the talks to "make a propaganda impression on the world."

"A lot of people are getting disgusted with these allegations (about the war in Vietnam) which have no basis in fact whatever," he said.

A North Vietnamese spokesman said that during the fourth session, which lasted about three hours, Xuan Thuy told Harriman "in the event these official conversations do not conclude with result, the American side must bear full and entire responsibility."

The spokesman also quoted Thuy as telling Harriman that thousands of Americans, and "progressive opinion" around the world, demand that he change his attitude. Thuy denounced what he called "the obstinateness and the lack of seriousness of the American side."

The meeting was the fourth in the series which began 10 days ago. The next meeting will not be held until Monday morning, an interlude of four days—the longest yet.

Harriman told reporters he had suggested that "we abandon the practice of going out with (public) statements so that we can make some progress with discussions across the table."

But he said he thought the North Vietnamese would not go along, and if they did not the United States delegation would then report publicly what Harriman said.

Within a few minutes the North Vietnamese spokesman began reporting Thuy's comments and the press office gave out his 2,500-word statement in a French text.

Arguing as much for the world gallery as for their adversary, the two envoys have repeated their governments' justification for involvement in the war and have traded accusations of responsibility for the conflict.

Despite the obvious deadlock, neither party has shown any willingness to break off the talks.

Tuesday while the talks were in recess, the North Vietnamese held out the promise that larger questions would be taken up if the United States stopped bombing the North. Spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le said his delegation would be willing to begin "conversations on questions relative to a political settlement of the Vietnam problem on the basis of the 1954 Geneva accords" should the United States stop the bombing.

William J. Jorden, the spokesman for the American delegation, said he didn't remember Hanoi's "ever having said that before" but added that he didn't see in it "a new formation" of the North Vietnamese position. Jorden pointed out that when the North Vietnamese agreed to the Paris talks, they said that once the bombing question was settled—presumably in their favor—the two sides could discuss "other matters of common interest."

A political settlement seems a long way off. "There has been no movement," one diplomat said. He added that the deadlock at this early stage was entirely anticipated. He would not say when he thought there might be some progress.

DeGaulle Expected To Beat Censure Motion

By DAVID MASON

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's government appeared certain to defeat the censure motion in the National Assembly tonight, but the strike crisis smothering activity in city after city showed no sign of abating.

More than 2 million workers joined the strike Tuesday, bringing the number in revolt against the government to more than 8 million—about half the nation's work force. The strike even hit Les Halles, the capital's central food market, where fruit and vegetable workers went on a 24-hour warning walk-out.

Most of France's major industries, transport and public services were idle. But electricity and gas were still being supplied, and telephones and telegraph were operating.

For the Parisian, the strike meant no banks open, huge piles of garbage in the streets, no public transportation, no mail, little commercial entertainment, and lineups for food and gasoline.

The situation was similar in Bordeaux, Brest, Clermont-Ferrand, Lille, Lyon, Marseille, Poitiers, Rennes and Toulouse. Meanwhile, deputies in the National Assembly bogged down Tuesday in a discussion of technicalities of the French education system and which party has done the most to advance it.

This postponed the vote on the censure motion at least until late tonight.

The debate continued today on the opposition motion accusing the government of refusing to deal effectively with the demands of students, workers, teachers and farmers. But it appeared certain that the anti-Gaullists would be unable to muster the necessary 244 votes, for Jacques Duhamel, leader of a key bloc of 42 centrist deputies, said in effect he would side with the president.

"We are in favor of change but not an adventure into the unknown," said Duhamel.

The Communists, attacking De Gaulle's 10-year "regime of personal power," and the Federation of the Democratic and Socialist Left are leading the opposition. Even some of their liars Tuesday. A Marine A6 Intruder was shot down near Dong Hoi, 45 miles above the DMZ, and both crewmen are missing.

A Navy A4 Skyhawk was downed north of Vinh, but the pilot was rescued by helicopter. This increased the total number of U.S. warplanes reported lost over North Vietnam to 840.

America's biggest bombers, the Air Force Strategic Command's B52s, mounted eight raids, four of them in the Central Highlands west of Dak To and Kontum. Seven North Vietnamese regiments, some of them reportedly equipped with tanks, were said to be poised there, possibly to attack U.S. bases in the highlands.

N. Vietnam Has 80,000 In South

By HORST FAAS
And
GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP)—While North Vietnam claims it has no troops in South Vietnam, U.S. intelligence sources say it has practically stripped its own territory of soldiers and now has the equivalent of at least 12 infantry divisions in South Vietnam.

The sources say this is confirmed every day by captured documents and prisoner interrogations. U.S. intelligence officers are able to pinpoint the areas where the North Vietnamese troops are operating in South Vietnam.

The officers cite figures indicating the North Vietnamese have taken over the major fighting effort, with an estimated 80,000 combat troops in the South to 40,000 main force Viet Cong.

They say that Hanoi sent two full divisions South earlier this year. They indicate that most of North Vietnam's divisions have been committed to the South.

Only the elite 308th Home Guard Division based around Hanoi and Haiphong, another division near Dien Bien Phu that operates in Laos and eight or nine divisional headquarters remain in North Vietnam, intelligence officers believe.

The intelligence sources say North Vietnam has nine full numbered divisions in the South, plus the equivalent of another division in four independent regiments operating in the central highlands.

Two Viet Cong divisions flanking Saigon—the 9th and the 5th—are 80 per cent North Vietnamese soldiers, the sources report.

The heaviest concentration of North Vietnamese troops with big artillery support is along the northern frontier just below the Demilitarized Zone. Here at least three divisions face U.S. and South Vietnamese forces.

Intelligence officers rate the North Vietnamese 7th Division west-northwest of Saigon as "the worst in the country."

"They've never done anything right," said one American officer.

A North Vietnamese division in South Vietnam is estimated to average about 7,700 men. American intelligence officers estimate that only one out of every five or six North Vietnamese soldiers infiltrates into South Vietnam through the Demilitarized Zone.

Disciplinary Problems, Says Abernathy Some 200 Demonstrators Sent Home From 'Resurrection City'

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official of the Poor Peoples' Campaign said today about 200 demonstrators at Resurrection City, U.S.A., had been sent home because of disciplinary problems.

The Rev. James Bevel, a director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference sponsoring the campaign, said most of those expelled from the camp were youths from militant gangs in Chicago, Detroit and other cities.

"They couldn't get along with whites," Bevel said. "There was a lot of cussing and swearing. You might say they had morale and morals problems."

Bevel said five busloads of demonstrators left Tuesday night and today. SCLC officials said earlier only 47 youths had been ordered to leave because of violating camp rules and stirring up trouble.

But the departure of the demonstrators was more than offset by the arrival today of a 400-person contingent from the South.

The new arrivals, who had made their way by bus through Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia, walked the last mile across the Potomac River to the campaign shanty-town camp.

They arrived in the area last Sunday but have been staying in churches in Northern Virginia until shelter was ready for them at the camp site.

Bevel said the camp is now nearly filled and groups of Puerto Ricans and Mexicans still are expected.

Meanwhile, the campaign leader, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, told a group called Business Executives Move for Vietnam peace, "It is suicidal for any nation to develop a people who do not feel that they have a stake in that society... for any nation that does this on its way to doom."

"Those people will destroy that nation even though they destroy themselves in the process," Abernathy said.

Dressed in his blue denim jacket and pants and speaking in a low voice, Abernathy told the group, "There's a fierce wind blowing in this universe today. It is blowing with hurricane force and is blowing down the old systems... it is bringing into being a new age."

Abernathy said Congress will not move to end poverty in America "until you move and until people like you all over this country move."

Abernathy was warmly greeted and given a standing ovation at the meeting that followed by a day the campaign's long-awaited first large-scale confrontation with Congress. The demonstration turned out to be quiet, orderly and a lot milder than many on both sides had predicted.

Two tightly disciplined delegations, one in the morning and a larger one in the afternoon, walked the two miles from their shantytown camp to Capitol Hill, where a few testified about their problems while most sat quietly listening.

Leaders made clear these were only the first of what will probably be daily trips to important governmental offices.

"The city is where we will be sleeping at night, but it is not where we will be living," the Rev. Jesse Jackson told a crowd that gathered next to the "Resurrection City, U.S.A." city hall. "We are not here to threaten the nation, we are here to educate it," he said. "Washington will know we are here."

Bombers Strike Enemy Build-Ups

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP)—Waves of American bombers made massive strikes Tuesday and today against enemy positions threatening Saigon, the Central Highlands and allied bases below the eastern end of the Demilitarized Zone.

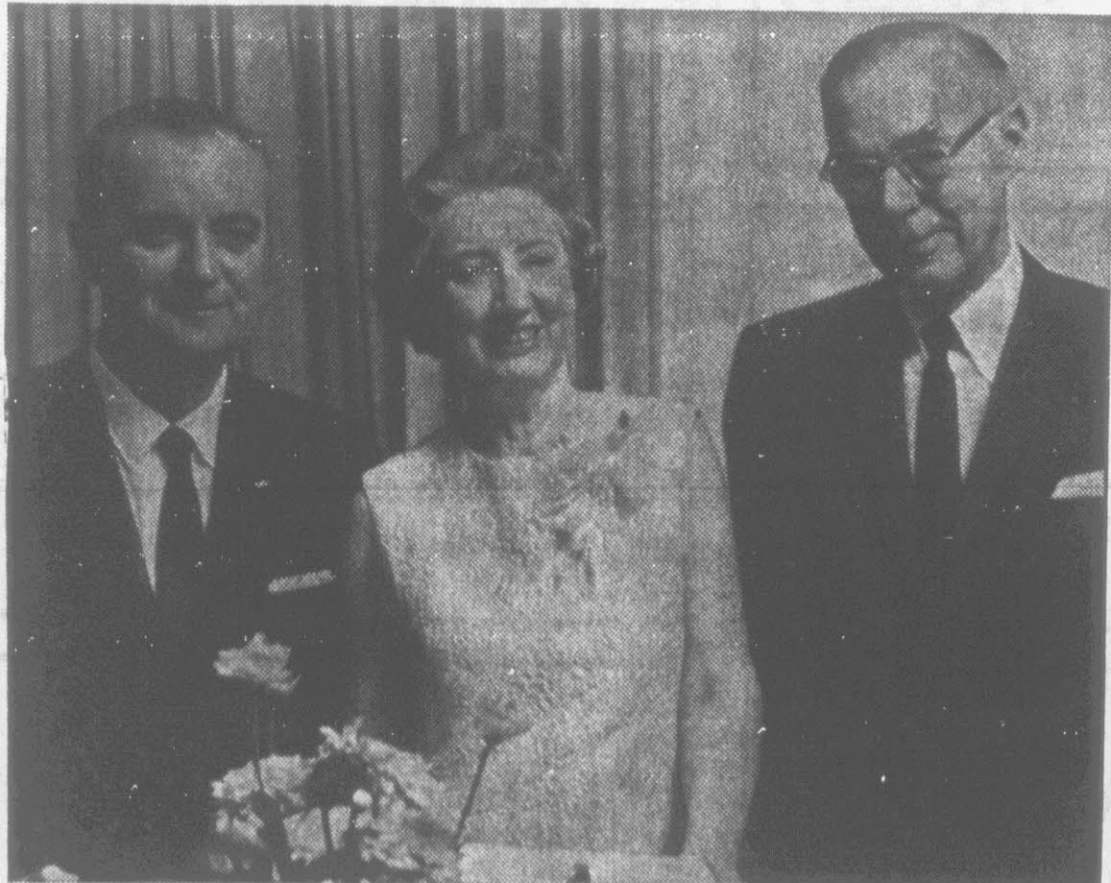

U.S. fighter-bombers also roared off carriers in the Tonkin Gulf to smash at a sprawling early warning radar complex near the North Vietnamese city of Vinh amid reports that Hanoi was hurriedly beefing up its air defenses in the southern panhandle.

The air war against North Vietnam cost the United States two more planes and two more fliers Tuesday. A Marine A6 Intruder was shot down near Dong Hoi, 45 miles above the DMZ, and both crewmen are missing. A Navy A4 Skyhawk was downed north of Vinh, but the pilot was rescued by helicopter. This increased the total number of U.S. warplanes reported lost over North Vietnam to 840.

America's biggest bombers, the Air Force Strategic Command's B52s, mounted eight raids, four of them in the Central Highlands west of Dak To and Kontum. Seven North Vietnamese regiments, some of them reportedly equipped with tanks, were said to be poised there, possibly to attack U.S. bases in the highlands.

Mrs. Agnes Waddington Barrett, Dr. Madelon Powers of Stroudsburg, Pa. Vice President F. D. Duncan presided and President Leo W. Jenkins presented to Mrs. Barrett, on behalf of the faculty and staff, a cash gift toward a trip abroad. She plans to go to Hawaii next fall.

Mrs. Barrett, who retires July 1 as administrative assistant to President Jenkins, also served Presidents Robert H. Wright, Leon R. Meadows, Howard H. McGinnis, Dennis H.

Cook and John D. Messick. She joined the East Carolina staff in January 1960. She has served the institution as East Carolina Teachers College, East Carolina University.

Her special interests at East Carolina have included civilian pilot training and the development of campus drama.

She is a native of Cadiz, Ky. Her husband was A. LeRoy Barrett of Farmville who died May 1, 1945.

RALEIGH (AP)—Figures released by the state Board of Elections show that North Carolina's Negro voter registration has changed little despite recent drives.

Alex Brock, the board's executive secretary, said Tuesday Negro registration was reported at 281,434, compared to 277,404 in the most recent count which gave the total as non-white, including in it Indians and others.

Brock said the new figures do not include reports from six counties—Caswell, Dare, Davidson, Graham, Lee and Harnett, while the Democrats have lost some.

In the latest count Indians are listed separately and total 9,886.

During the recent gubernatorial primary campaign, Negro candidate Reginald Hawkins predicted there would be between 400,000 and 500,000 registered Negro voters as a result of registration drives.

Figures also showed Republicans have picked up strength while the Democrats have lost some.

With six counties unreported, Democratic registration stood at 1,382,931, compared to 1,526,075 previously.

Republican registration, Brock said, amounted to 365,108, compared to 356,869.

Brock said a surprising note about the new figures is the number of persons who registered under the category of "no party" and "independent," a total of 33,714.

"We have not kept accurate figures in this category previously," Brock added, "but we usually estimate it at 20,000."

The new figures, he said, "reflect the most accurate total of registered voters in all categories in 25 years. This is because we have had a simultaneous purge of the registration books in 36 counties changing to a new loose-leaf system."

"In addition," he added, "19 populous counties with full time registration are constantly purging their books."

As a result, he said, more than 50 per cent of the counties "can produce updated, accurate figures. Previously, many of these counties included dead people and residents who had moved away in their registration returns."

Child Wants To Be An Animal

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are worried about our 7-year-old sister. She keeps wanting to be someone's animal. One day she might want to be someone's horse, and the next day she might want to be someone's dog, or cat. I suppose this doesn't seem much like a problem, but she never wants to be the "master"—she always wants to be the animal. Is something wrong with her?

HER "MASTERS" DEAR MASTERS: This could be the subject of an interesting psychological study. One who prefers to be "mastered" appears to want desperately to please. This is usually the way the younger child ingratiates himself to his older siblings and playmates. It's normal in childhood, but could warp the personality if carried beyond the adolescent years.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee. Last summer I met a man on a plane. He's my age (late forties) is extremely charming and attractive and he's very successful in his work.

We hit it off immediately and had several dates while I was in his city. We keep in touch with each other thru letters and telephone. He admits to having a "deep feeling" for me, but says he has had two unsuccessful attempts at marriage and he's made up his mind not to get that involved again. He says he had "conditioned" himself against marriage. Can this

Poppy Day Report Given At Meet Of Legion Auxiliary

A report on Poppy Day was given at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held Thursday evening at the Legion Home.

Approximately $700 was received from Poppy sales and contributions. An expression of appreciation was made to the 21 adults, eight girls and two Girl Scout Troops who helped with the sale. Serena Matney, Terri Pearson and Ruchelle Pearson were cited as turning in the most money for children.

Mrs. Alfred Kennedy displayed a legion emblem which the auxiliary had ordered to be placed over the fireplace in the building.

She reported that five reservations had been sent in for the department convention to be held in Charlotte June 20-23. Mrs. C. E. Willard will serve as a page for the convention.

Mrs. R. L. Gwynn reported that the Americanism essays have been judged and the two prizes to rbest essays were awarded to Christine Padgett and Sandra Lee Hardy, both of Stokes-Pactolus School.

The auxiliary will cooperate with the American Legion in Memorial Day ceremonies by preparing poppy wreaths for the cemetery and the plaque at the court horse and inviting the Gold Star Mothers and presenting them with corsages.

The local auxiliary will host the area meeting which will be held here in the fall.

Mrs. Etta Gill presided at the meeting.

Mrs. Sue May Gives Program

Mrs. Sue May gave the program at the meeting of the Extension Homemakers of Sweet Gum Grove held Thursday afternoon at the community building.

Mrs. May Briley gave a report on family life using the topic "Every Home Is a Kingdom."

Mrs. May gave a report on citizenship and also the demonstration of using eggs.

The devotional for the meeting was given by Mrs. Eric Whicard.

He is busy with his work and I am busy with mine, and I also have teen-aged children. I think this guy is worth pursuing, and I realize if this is going to develop into anything more serious and lasting we will have to see more of each other.

I could go to his city again this summer, and I'd like to, but I don't want to be obvious. How should I go about it?

A SUMMER ROMANCE DEAR ROMANCE: Sorry, but I can't give you a blueprint for going about something I think would be a mistake. If you're looking for marriage, you won't find it with this charming, attractive twice divorced man who, by his won admission has "conditioned" himself against it. But if you want another "summer romance," he sounds like a cinch.

DEAR ABBY: As a mailman I would like to reply to the woman who wondered where her brother-in-law, the postman, got all the magazines and "free samples?"

Many of these "occupant" samples have outdated addresses. Since they are sent third class mail, they are unreturnable and undeliverable, so they are supposed to be destroyed. Instead of doing this, we mailmen are allowed to take them home. Nothing unethical about that, is there?

Read the magazines with the addresses cut off: If a magazine is not deliverable, the address is cut off, and sent back to the publisher, and the magazine is either destroyed or the postman is allowed to take it home.

All mailmen are not honest, but I am, so you may sign this, "The cleanest shaven, best-smelling, best-read, most happy-go-lucky mailman in Upper Michigan."

THAT'S ME CONFIDENTIAL to Musician's Wife: Don't judge all single women by the kind who proposition your husband. Musicians are constantly "on stage" and therefore are pursued by aggressive women. But the musician who doesn't want to be bothered need only to ignore the overtures, and the dames out front will soon get the pitch.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOK—"WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

Private Drive For Wardrobe Change

HAMBURG, Germany (WNS) —What can you call the glove compartment of a car when it comes equipped with an entire mini-wardrobe for women? Several firms selling second-hand cars are now competing with each other to offer young ladies automobiles with fully-packed glove compartments of clothes to meet every emergency. One even offers window curtains so that the feminine driver can change in privacy.

Miss Alice Joy Jackson of Ayden, bride-elect of Elbert Buck, was entertained at a bridal shower given by Mrs. Kenneth Branch and Mrs. Earl Benton at the Branch home Saturday night.

Upon arrival, the honoree was presented a white mink corsage.

The table was covered with an imported white lace cloth over mint green. The centerpiece was an arrangement of snapdragons, sweet williams and roses flanked with white tapers. Approximately 25 guests were present for the event.

District Alumni Chapter Luncheon Held Saturday

AYDEN — The Greensboro College District Alumni Chapter met at the Ayden Golf and Country Club Saturday for a luncheon.

Mrs. Alton Gardner, district hostess, greeted guests in the foyer and presented them to Mrs. Bill McLawhorn, who presided at the register.

Mrs. Jack Dail invited guests into the banquet room where Mrs. Sue Nobles served vegetable cocktails.

Mrs. Morris Hill of Kinston, president, presided at the business meeting at which time Mrs. Sue Nobles was named as the new president.

A highlight of the meeting was entertainment by "The Happy Wanderers," a group of nine entertainers from Greensboro College. Miss Jeannette Gardner was master of ceremonies for the group.

Miss Gardner gave a scene from "Show Boat," which she played in at the Greensboro Lyric Theater last week. She was assisted by Peggy Cox and Judy Pierce.

The chapter will be hosted by Greene County for the fall meeting. There were 40 guests present for the event.

Arrangements of pink peonies and roses were used on the tables and sprays of magnolia buds were used on the piano.

Significant Step For All Of State

The $30,000 in state funds allocated for developing a new airport at Williamston is significant not just to Martin County, but to other similar counties throughout the state.

It represents the first outlay from a $250,000 fund set up by the 1967 General Assembly to help develop small airports in various parts of the state. In addition to the $30,000 in state funds, local and federal funds also will be put into the new airport, making a total of $172,000 available for the project.

By helping to establish a new airport in Martin County, North Carolina is investing in the future economic development of that particular area. With a good airport — even though it is small — Martin County will become more attractive to prospective industries looking for new plant sites. The new Williamston airport is being built primarily to provide an adequate facility for private and company aircraft. It is not looked upon as a facility that will be used for regularly scheduled air service.

As the state makes funds available to assist in construction of small airports, it is encouraging counties and municipalities to invest funds of their own in facilities which will enhance their economic potential. This two-fold program of state and local funds, combined with available federal financing, will in time strengthen the economy of a number of areas of North Carolina that are now looked upon as under-developed.

Promised So Much That Can't Be Given

The impression lingers that the people recruited for the "Poor People's Campaign" are being used.

They have been promised so much by their leaders . . . promises which neither they can keep nor Congress could keep for them.

Behind them they left more than Resurrection City provides, and when these people return to their homes many will find the little left behind is gone.

The hope built up by campaign promoters is a hollow thing because Congress will not bow to threats or pressures. Presidents have learned that. And when their hope is gone, the handful of poor who have given so much of themselves will have nothing.

An Old-Timer Can Remember

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—There was a time when most men rather resented being called old-timers.

Although the term reflected affectionate esteem, it also implied that one was unduly out of touch with the present and had become, unknowingly, a prisoner of his past.

Miles Minter is the name of a new mouthwash, but he can tell you just what films she starred in when Charlie Chaplin was in his heyday.

His memory goes so far back he can remember when college students entered a dean's office only by invitation.

He is sure that Jack Dempsey could whip any three of the present crop of heavyweight boxers in six rounds with one hand tied behind his back.

He hates to go to movies "recommended for adults only," because they are never about anything but sex. He looks at the late shows on television only in hopes he'll see the late Wallace Beery and the late Marie Dressler, his two all-time favorite performers.

Once he sowed wild oats. Now, in good years, he brags about the backyard tomatoes he raises.

When someone asks why men ever wore spats, he is able to think of a reason.

In his desk drawer he keeps a can of bicarbonate of soda instead of a roll of stomach antacid tablets.

When his doctor tactfully suggests he wear a hearing aid, he declines to do on the sound grounds that nobody says anything worth listening to any more.

HAL BOYLE

Today the situation has changed considerably. Youth has been acting up so much lately that a lot of people are prematurely claiming to be old-timers. In the bitter war being waged between the generations, they don't want to be accused of being on the side of the feckless young.

How can you tell the phony from the true. Well, a fellow is probably a 24-karat old-timer if he wrecks his whole day to come to work using his favorite hanger in the office coatrack.

On the rare sunlit afternoons when he feels like humming a tune, it's likely to be something written by Stephen Foster.

He can't understand the continuing popularity of the Beatles — are there five or six of them? — because he is still trying to find out what people see in Elvis Presley.

Whenever inflation and the high cost of living are mentioned, he closes his eyes, points his nose to the ceiling, and begins to bay about how little he paid for a bowl of bean soup in 1931.

His children never did anything right in their lives, but his grandchildren can do no wrong.

When others reminisce about the days when people actually bought store teeth by mail order, he bares his gums and says proudly, "mine still fit."

Whenever Shirley Temple issues another political statement, he remarks cuttingly, "One of the nicest things about Mary Pickford is that she never ran for Congress."

You may think that Mary

Opinions In Brief

"I am satisfied that when the Almighty wants me to do or not to do any particular thing. He finds a way of letting me know it." — Abraham Lincoln.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE SOLUTION BEGINS WITH US

Humanism is a movement designed to improve mankind and the world in which he lives. There is a philosophy abroad today known as the philosophy of amelioration. Its aim is to ameliorate, to make better or more tolerable, the conditions amid which men live. There have been humanists in every age.

Out of such hopes has come the dream of the Utopia. Sir Thomas More used this term to describe the ideal commonwealth. But very few people as they use the word "utopia" realize that it means literally "no place." Utopia has never existed, and it never will. What we shall have to face until the end of time will be a world order far removed from man's exalted dreams.

But does this mean that we should sit about twiddling our thumbs? Not at all. While Utopia is only a dream, the world can nevertheless be improved a hundredfold beyond the best conditions of any age.

The way to get such improvement started is for you and me to face resolutely the mater of our selfishness and our greed. We are not going to be saved by "leaders" or by "democracy" or even by "education." The solution lies in our own wills. But the human will is futile until it submits to the overarching will of God.

Unfit For Subscription

WASHINGTON—The Saturday Evening Post, which has been in trouble for some time, has a new management. One of the decisions of the management is to cel about 2 million of the Post's 6 million subscribers. By putting their subscription list through a computer, the Saturday Evening Post circulation people intend to weed out older people, small-town-ers and those persons who just don't have the buying power of the young families who live in the cities and suburbs. In this way, the Post hopes to appeal to class advertisers and also save money on printing.

Other Editors Saying Name And Money

(The Wilson Times)

You are reading reams about Senator Robert Kennedy and his bid for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket. You read of his triumph in Indiana, his victory in Nebraska.

And to what do the news media credit his unprecedented success? The pulling power of the Kennedy name and his money.

Not once do we recall any effort to list his achievements and qualifications to hold the highest position in the land. It is always the Kennedy name and money. The money is in unlimited amounts, as he proves at every whistle-stop.

Now when Rockefeller begins to spill his around we will see a fight to the finish and about evenly matched. But we are assuming. For neither may obtain the nomination. And if they do, more will have to be written about what they have done to earn the position they seek.

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of Bobby even stresses the importance of money in the campaign, when she said, "It's our money and we're free to spend it any way we please. It's part of this campaign business. If you have money, you spend it to win. And the more you can afford, the more you'll spend. The Rockefellers are like us. We both have lots of money to spend on our campaigns. It's something that is not regulated. Therefore it's not unethical."

And spend the Kennedy campaign entourage is doing and at a rate never heard of before. Bobby is not being received in Oregon as he has been elsewhere. But he did not send in his organization to pave the way as he has elsewhere. As soon as that gets rolling in Oregon, we expect to see the climate warmer and more friendly. For he is going a long way toward proving what his mother says money can do in a political campaign.

But will the American people fall for the Kennedy show when it comes time to go to the polls? This remains to be seen. And after the dust settles there will be more consideration given to his qualifications for the high position he has set out to obtain by spending some of the "lots of money," the Kennedys have.

Now when Rockefeller begins to spill his around we will see a fight to the finish and about evenly matched. But we are assuming. For neither may obtain the nomination. And if they do, more will have to be written about what they have done to earn the position they seek.

The only point we can recall offhand is as Attorney General Robert Kennedy concentrated upon bringing Jimmy Hoffa to court and conviction and this was eventually accomplished more because of Hoffa's stupidity by trying to bribe a juryman. But Bobby set out to get this defier of the law and he is behind the bars.

Other than this we have to return to the Kennedy name and money for reasons for his bid for the highest honor that can come to an American.

"There's a registered letter from the Curtis Publishing Co.," she said sobbing.

"What does it say?" Feneke asked.

"It says they're canceling our subscription to the Saturday Evening Post," his wife cried.

"But we've been subscribers for 25 years," Feneke said.

"They mention that. They say we're too old for the magazine, and demographically we're unfit."

"There must be some mistake. I'll appeal it," Feneke said.

"The letter said the decision of the publishers is final. There isn't even a return address on the envelope."

Feneke started to panic. "Who knows about this?"

"I told mother. You were at lunch and I had to tell somebody."

"Good heavens. Call her right away and tell her not to find your tie. None had what you wanted, not even a shop that sells only tax accessories. However, at one of the stores of the largest department store chain in the country, a girl suggested I try a men's apparel store across the street. At that competitor I found one. Worse and worse.

"I decided to get a summer dress for myself. I went to the large store that carries the Skimma line, which I like. I wanted a large size with sleeves. There were three large racks but in the large size there was only one with sleeves.

"I looked for slipcovers for the cushions of our bamboo furniture. The slipcover department said it had nothing. On my way out, I saw a saleslady selling plastic seat covers at a small booth. I asked her if she knew what I could do.

"Why, there's exactly what you want in the slipcover department," she said cheerfully. She escorted me back. At her insistence, a salesgirl there found some covers for Danish furniture which were too small for American bottoms.

"I had not brought the exact measurements of our cushions, so my guide suggested they show me some of the stretch kind. But nobody could find them. I thanked my guide and left.

"Next I dropped into a store of one of the largest variety chains in the country to get some birthday wrappings in case I ever found a cutting block for you. Except for its children's line, the store had only one garish design.

"But we have plain paper," said the girl brightly.

My wife went to four stores searching for the kind of nylon socks I wanted. None had them.

Voters' Tribute To Edwin Gill

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — State Treasurer Edwin Gill carried 97 of the state's 100 counties in his Spring primary bid for nomination on May 4.

Earlier reports indicated he carried only 90 or 95, but a later, official check showed an amazing 97. Not only was this a surprising sweep, it apparently was a feat unequalled by anyone else involved in a major statewide contest in the recent primaries. Exact county-by-county breakdowns are not yet available from the State Board of Elections abstracts although statewide vote totals have been certified.

state money on deposit in banks, in administration of state retirement funds. He called for more imaginative leadership and advice in various official and ex-officio duties of the State Treasurer, such as chairman of the Banking Commission and a member of the State Board of Education.

Gill stood quietly and firmly on the state's financial and fiscal record and pointed to its highest possible (AAA) credit rating for bonds. He said many of High's statements were scattershot and erroneous.

Close Contest Predicted

Many observers predicted a close contest, feeling that High would offer perhaps the strongest primary challenge to any incumbent member of the Council of State.

One reason, of course, was that Gill is a conservative, closely allied to the present middle-of-the-road administration, and that he was active in offering advice to Gov. Dan Moore in Moore's 1964 campaign against a Sanford-High backed choice, L. Richardson Preyer. The Sanford-High-Preyer people never forgot that Gill backed Moore with a prediction of a large general fund surplus in 1964 at a time when the Sanford administration was saying there would be no appreciable surplus available to carry out Moore's promise of across-the-board salary increases for state employees.

Neither did High and his supporters feel that incumbents on the Council of State are — or should be — politically impregnable. They reached that Gill was vulnerable, but this reasoning — thus far, at least — backfired.

Losses Three Counties

It appears from a still unpublished county-by-county listing that Gill carried all but three counties — Cumberland, Hoke, and Madison.

Cumberland is High's home county and Hoke adjoins Cumberland and lies in the same judicial district. Madison, as is often the case, is a mystery. Gill's largest margins percentage-wise, were in a couple of the other western counties, Cherokee and Clay, and he carried all of the state's big population counties with the exception of Cumberland.

Vigorous Campaign

In effect, this was an opening shot in the vigorous and challenging campaign High waged against Gill.

He criticized sharply and called for charges in methods and procedures of investing state funds, in placing

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

A Gill victory of such proportions is both impressive and politically significant for a number of reasons.

Tribute To Gill

First, it must be regarded as high political tribute to the veteran state treasurer, now 68 years old, and his principles, reputation and experience.

He was opposed by a younger man, State Rep. Sneed High of Fayetteville, who also stands tall in state political circles and is identified closely with the Sanford organization. He served as State Revenue Commissioner under former Gov. Terry Sanford and returned to the legislature in 1967.

A year ago, High crossed swords with Gill on the floor of the legislature, during a joint session in which Gill asked lawmakers to consider the matter of increasing legal interest rates in order to keep state investments competitive.

In effect, this was an opening shot in the vigorous and challenging campaign High waged against Gill.

He criticized sharply and called for charges in methods and procedures of investing state funds, in placing

Calif. Can Be Bobby's

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

LOS ANGELES — Despite deeply-held antagonism against him by a substantial body of rank- and file California Democrats, Senator Robert F. Kennedy is in an excellent position for a big victory in the critical Presidential primary here June 4.

That is the conclusion that we drew after a full day recently in the Los Angeles area interviewing with Mrs. Beryl Winn, southern California supervisor for pollster Oliver Quayle. Using a questionnaire prepared by Quayle, we found impressive Kennedy strength — alongside bitter anti-Kennedy antagonism — in areas where he is not at his strongest.

Purposely, we interviewed no Negro or Mexican-American voters, who give Kennedy nearly blanket support here as elsewhere. Instead, we concentrated on neighborhoods with a strong anti-Kennedy potential: a lower-middle income section in East Los Angeles, a middle to upper-middle Jewish section on the edge of Beverly Hills, and a combined blue collar-white-collar suburban tract in neighboring Ventura County.

Out of 46 registered Democratic voters interviewed, we found 15 for Kennedy, 12 for Senator Eugene McCarthy, 8 for state Attorney General Thomas Lynch (who originally was entered as a stand-in for President Johnson), and 11 undecided.

Assuming that the undecided end up in the same proportions as the decided, that figures out to about 43 percent of the vote for Kennedy. If he actually runs that well in these kind of neighborhoods, his statewide total may well surpass 50 percent — giving him strong momentum going into the Chicago convention.

Nor were the results markedly different when we gave voters the choice of voting for Vice President Hubert Humphrey. The results were Kennedy 16, McCarthy and Humphrey 11 each, and 8 undecided.

What makes this remarkable is that the voters interviewed were hawkish on Vietnam, nearly half of them advocating military escalation to defeat the Communists. Some of these hawks, while recognizing Kennedy as a dove, backed him for President anyway.

A sizable majority of those interviewed who advocated unilateral withdrawal from Vietnam supported McCarthy rather than Kennedy. In fact, Kennedy's support had much less to do with issues than McCarthy's and considerably more to do with charisma.

The wife of a union business agent, though favoring military escalation in Vietnam, likes Kennedy because he talks in a "more dynamic way." An aircraft plant machinist said Kennedy "sounds like he means it when he talks." One retired salesman put it this way: "Kennedy has got what nobody else has."

But the resentment of many who won't vote for Kennedy runs so deeply that it seems unlikely that Kennedy can convert them by June 4 or, perhaps, even by November 7 if he is nominated. His money, his family, his appearance and his personality ("Kennedy just gets too damn mean," one auto mechanic told us) all came under attack. A pas-

Decline Of Customer Service

By ELMER ROESSNER

For several days I have been holding on my desk a press release stating:

"The real business crime of this century is the deterioration of customer services," Charles Daugherty, president of Rockwell Manufacturing Co., said today. "He was addressing a National Industrial Conference Board meeting in Chicago.

"Pretty hot stuff," I told my wife and researcher. "Could be slanderous. Better check it for me. Here's a fistful of money. And while you're doing it, get me some nylon socks and a new tie for my tux. One with an elastic neckband."

Daugherty Knew Whereof

She went to our nearest shopping area, a suburban city with branches of big stores of the nearest metropolis.

Here is her report: "First I went to the largest est store to get you a butcher's block for your birthday. Two groups of girls behind the counter were too busy to notice me, so I searched out a department manager, identified by a white carnation. I told her what I wanted.

ELMER ROESSNER

"One of the salesgirls will help you," she said.

"They won't even talk to me," I replied. But one detached one of the girls from her clutch who managed to find two cutting blocks 12 inches square, too small for our use.

"Then I went to three stores to find your tie. None had what you wanted, not even a shop that sells only tax accessories. However, at one of the stores of the largest department store chain in the country, a girl suggested I try a men's apparel store across the street. At that competitor I found one. Worse and worse.

"I decided to get a summer dress for myself. I went to the large store that carries the Skimma line, which I like. I wanted a large size with sleeves. There were three large racks but in the large size there was only one with sleeves.

"I looked for slipcovers for the cushions of our bamboo furniture. The slipcover department said it had nothing. On my way out, I saw a saleslady selling plastic seat covers at a small booth. I asked her if she knew what I could do.

Senators Vote To Undo High Court Restrictions In Trials

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to undo Supreme Court restrictions on admissibility of confessions and eyewitness testimony in criminal trials—landmark high court rulings that have greatly strengthened defendants' rights. But in a series of votes Tuesday the Senate voted against a proposal to curb the Supreme Court's jurisdiction to review convictions in state courts.

The voting came in connection with a broad crime-control bill that ranges from profound constitutional questions to providing more federal funds to local police departments. On today's agenda was an amendment to provide for the right of counsel at draft board hearings, to be followed by action on a section that would authorize police wiretapping under court orders.

The Worry Clinic That '6th Sense' Is Valuable In Business

Alma and Wallace make one of the most remarkable married teams in our entire American history! For proof, just read this case about their pioneering venture in low-cost city housing projects, financed by private funds instead of governmental boondoggling! They are not "braintrusts" but show superb evidence of "horse sense."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-574: Alma Johnson is one of the most remarkable women in America.

For she is secretary of 68 corporations!

"Dr. Crane," her famous husband lauded her, "she seems to have a 6th sense in business matters."

"While I try to use logic in heading the Holiday Inn chain, she goes by 'feelings.'"

"Thus, she helped me launch the first private Negro housing project in America. It was in Memphis."

"But we were subjected to such criticism that I was almost asked to leave a noon men's luncheon club."

"In desperation, I finally asked a doctor friend of mine who was at the luncheon, to come out and see what Alma and I were doing."

"Reluctantly he agreed, so I took him down to the area of shacks that I was trying to replace with neat modern housing units."

"The shack we entered had the windows out and the doors off their hinges."

"Several lots down the block was a single outdoor toilet and a water faucet, from which the residents had to carry their water."

"Then I called his attention to a broken-down bed in one corner of the room."

"And I mentioned that the lady who lived there was named Mary Jones."

"He then told me he had a maid by that name who for 15 years had helped his wife and looked after his children."

"So I replied, 'Doctor this is the home where your maid slept last night on that broken-down bed. And she left this shack this morning to go over to your modern home to help with your children.'"

"Well, the doctor could hardly believe my statement. Then tears came to his eyes and he immediately insisted on renting one of my modern housing units for his Mary Jones."

"Dr. Crane, I believe our city slums can adequately be changed by Christian American business men, with private funds, if a little of our famous American business gumption is employed."

Wallace Johnson came up from a farm background, but at the age of 14, he determined that he wanted to be a builder.

And he has extended his original goal not only to the famous Holiday Inns, but to hospitals, churches and factories.

"Every time I get stuck with a 'lemon' in a business deal," he smiled, "I just try to make it into lemonade!"

Then he showed how he has been able to cut down the cost of hospital construction from $30,000 per room to less than $20,000.

"Some of the architects plan rooms that are 9 by 11½ feet," he adds.

"But lumber nowadays is cut in lengths of 10 feet, 12 feet and 14 feet."

"So the carpenters must cut off one foot for the 9-foot width and another half a foot of each plank or joist to meet that 11½-foot measurement."

"This is obviously wasteful of valuable lumber, plus the carpenter's time."

"So we try to build in accordance with the conventional length of lumber and thus save on our costs, as well as speeding up construction."

Wallace Johnson and his talented wife thus illustrate the difference between "braintrusts" vs. people with gumption or "horse sense."

to tell a soul. If this gets out we'll be ruined."

Unfortunately, Feneker's mother-in-law had gone to a bridge game that afternoon and, as luck would have it, she mentioned it to her friends while she was the dummy.

Before long the phones started to ring all over Hopscoth with the scandalous news.

"They seemed like such nice people," Mrs. Murphy said when her sister told her.

"I always thought something was fishy when they drove around in a 1962 Ford," Chet McCulliffe told a friend when he heard the news.

In a week's time Feneker started to feel that his secret was out. No one came right out and said they knew the Saturday Evening Post had canceled his subscription, but the atmosphere in the town had changed.

The bank refused him a loan on a new wing for his house. He had trouble cashing checks in the grocery store. The gas station made some excuse why they couldn't renew his credit card. He lost the election for the school board and there was even some talk that the bar association would look into his accreditation.

Lifelong clients took their business elsewhere. Mrs. Feneker was told she was no longer needed in the car pool for the children's dancing classes.

At school the kids were merciless to the Feneker children.

One night Johnny Feneker came home crying, his eye black. "They said my father was a Saturday Evening Post deadbeat," he said. "Say it isn't so, Dad."

"We're going to have to move from Hopscoth," he told the family. "The disgrace is just too much to bear."

A week later, at two in the morning, the Fenekers loaded up their belongings and drove out of town. They moved to a city hundreds of miles away and resubscribed to the Saturday Evening Post under a different name.

But despite the fact that no one in the new town knows their terrible secret, the Fenekers still live in fear that someday, somehow, they will get another registered letter from the Curtis Publishing Co. and they will have to move on again. When you're dropped by the Saturday Evening Post, you have no choice but to live a lie for the rest of your life.

Goddard Leaving His Food And Drug Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. James L. Goddard, often-controversial director of federal food and drug control, is resigning at a time insiders consider critical for a series of innovative new programs he has launched.

One such program is unprecedented tests on humans to see whether generic drugs—those identified by chemical names—perform the same as their more expensive brand-name counterparts.

Sources say the program could lead to requiring manufacturers of generic drugs to prove through such tests that their products match the performance of approved drugs.

Goddard, who in 2½ years changed the Food and Drug Administration from a little-known agency to a much-publicized one, is leaving to join EDP Technology Inc., a data processing and information firm, in Atlanta.

The 45-year-old physician, a career Public Health Service officer, is known to have become exhausted by the demands of the job. And he is said to have liked Atlanta, where he served as head of the health service's Communicable Disease Center before becoming FDA commissioner in January 1966.

Although Goddard drew frequent criticism for his candid statements on such controversial subjects as marijuana and LSD, sources close to him say such pressure didn't force him out.

Other new and far-reaching policies begun under Goddard's direction include:

—A review of more than 3,000 widely used drugs to see whether they do what they are supposed to. Goddard predicted it might lead to removal of many drugs from the market, some of them family favorites.

—A plan to get industry to regulate itself, subject to checking by FDA inspectors, to insure the quality of food and drugs for consumers.

The officials picked up the five stray dogs and headed for West Palm Beach in a police car. When the dogs began fighting, Johnson grabbed a tear gas pressure can and ended the fight. But his aim was a little off—the three officials also got a whiff.

sionate animosity from some Jewish voters against Kennedy was particularly intense. There was no such intensity of opposition against McCarthy and Humphrey by Kennedy voters.

Humphrey's support appears mainly negative, coming from voters who could not abide Kennedy and did not have a clear image of McCarthy. Contrary to claims of great rank-and-file popularity here by Humphrey's political supporters, we found little enthusiasm for him among the voters interviewed.

The presidential wife who died at the earliest age was the first Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who was 22 at her death.

Reasons For French Turmoil Said To Run Deep

Young Frank Sinatra Ready For Big Plunge

By BOB Thomas
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I've traveled 15,000 miles to become a singer. Now I think I'm ready to make my move."

The serious young man making this comment was Frank Sinatra Jr., and his move will be signaled next month with "Dean Martin Presents the Goldiggers," a summer show on NBC. Young Frank stars on the variety hour with Joey Heatherton and Paul Lynde. It's a takeoff on the fads and fashions of the 1930s, produced by Greg Garrison, the man behind the Martin winter show.

"I know that a lot of people will maintain the opinion, publicly and privately, that the only reason I'm on the show is because my father and Dean Martin are so close," said Frank. "Anyone who thinks that way is obviously a lightweight who doesn't know the real situation."

"As a matter of fact, neither Dean nor my father knew that I was being considered for the show. It was all Mr. Garrison's idea. He liked the way I worked on Dean's Christmas show, in which both our families worked."

"He still wanted to know more, so he sent people to look at me on the road. Then he himself came to see me in Las Vegas and at the Copacabana in New York. Even after he made his decision, it was up to NBC for final refusal. The network finally handed down the verdict approving me for the show."

The claim of parental intercession is something that the younger Sinatra has had to deal with from the start of his career five years ago. It has made him an exceptionally hard-working and solemn young man.

"I know that many of the people I come in contact with are going to have preset notions about me," he remarked. "This has become part of my existence. It is with me from the moment I walk out the door of my apartment. But I have learned to live with it. If I had any doubts that I would be able to stand on my own feet as an entertainer, I wouldn't be pursuing a career."

Sinatra has learned his profession in the classic manner for a pop singer: by singing with a band. Just as his father did before him, he toured with the Tommy Dorsey band. Later he organized his own outfit with members of the Dorsey organization. He has sung in 30 countries and every state except Alaska, Montana and North Dakota.

"It has been a valuable experience for me," said the singer. "It taught me my capacities, and it taught me my limits, too. That's an important lesson for any young performer: leaning what he can't do."

Sinatra has earned good money during the past years, but he claims to have little to show for it. Transportation charges and the costs of supporting a musical organization take care of most of the income, he said.

"I'm making enough to live comfortably," he said, "but I'm lucky to break even most weeks. Yes, I know some people think I don't have to worry because my father gives me $50,000 allowance every week. It may surprise them to learn that I have been self-supporting from the time I started in the business at the age of 19."

Dead Mastodon Stirs A Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — A long dead mastodon, whose bones have already stirred up some controversy, touched off an ownership fight between the state of New York and a Brooklyn realtor.

The complete skeleton of the ice-age elephant was found last spring by state highway workers clearing a bog for an up-state road. Before anyone could decide who the fossils belonged to, a thigh bone disappeared, thus ruining a near perfect set of remains.

The State Historical Association decided the bones were theirs because of their discovery by state workers on a public project. But Mrs. Herman Horowitz of the Hunter Fly Realty Co. claims the bones were found on property still owned by her company. She alleges her company had given the state permission for survey and drill tests only and had not consented to sell the land.

In the meantime, the fossil, minus its thigh bone, sits in the basement of the State Archaeology Association in Albany.

Emphasis Is On Colored Clothes

NEW YORK (AP) — The multihued peacock has nothing on the American man when it comes to color this year, according to a survey conducted by Meinhard-Commercial Corp., a factoring and financial firm.

Color was selected as the single most important element in selling apparel by 22 per cent of the manufacturers of men's clothing. The study pointed out that color was much more important as a selling tool for menswear than for women's and children's clothing. Only 5 per cent of womenswear manufacturers and 6 per cent of children's clothing manufacturers put most emphasis on color.

PARIS (AP) — Here in question and answer form is an explanation of the French student-worker crisis, a period of turmoil Parisians are calling "The Days in May."

Q. When and how did it all start?

A. Student agitation on a small scale has been common in France since World War II. In recent years complaints have centered on jammed lecture rooms and lack of teachers. Last November, sociology students in the suburban Nanterre branch of the University of Paris struck for 10 days; protesting the slowest of promised reforms in teaching. They also complained that they were not being prepared for careers in teacher-student committees to classes were suspended for two days in March, and on May 2 they were suspended again, the dean complaining that "certain groups of students were trying to create a climate of insecurity."

On May 3, rioting broke out in Paris' Latin Quarter, with students taking part from Nanterre and the Sorbonne, the main university branch on the Left Bank. Disturbances continued almost every night, and on May 5 five rioters were jailed. This fired up the students, and police swarmed into the Latin Quarter, throwing tear gas and

Kansas City Has Operation Hello

By DON REEDER
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — "Hello. I'm Ted Otteson, and I'm white. Jim Wilson gave me your name, and I'm just calling to say hello."

The man on the other end of the line was a Negro. Kansas City was undergoing the worst racial disturbance in its history, and a friendly call from a white man he didn't even know was just about the last thing he had expected.

"Well, hello!" he finally managed to say, "It's nice to hear from you."

That was the beginning last month of Operation Hello—a practically spontaneous effort by whites and Negroes of Kansas City to break through an invisible barrier.

The objective: Help members of both races do something so simple and yet so difficult—just talk to each other.

The method: Conduct a sort of chain letter by telephone. People call members of another race, mention the name of a mutual acquaintance and exchange names of friends to call. That's all there is to it.

Otteson, a slim, 43-year-old counselor with the Neighborhood Youth Corps, told how the idea came to him during racial troubles last month in which six Kansas City Negroes died and forms in teaching. They also complained that they were not being prepared for careers in teacher-student committees to classes were suspended for two days in March, and on May 2 they were suspended again, the dean complaining that "certain groups of students were trying to create a climate of insecurity."

On May 3, rioting broke out in Paris' Latin Quarter, with students taking part from Nanterre and the Sorbonne, the main university branch on the Left Bank. Disturbances continued almost every night, and on May 5 five rioters were jailed. This fired up the students, and police swarmed into the Latin Quarter, throwing tear gas and swinging their clubs. The Sorbonne was closed.

Q. What did the students do then?

A. Their long-range demands for educational reform were replaced by these immediate ones: Reopening of classes at Nanterre and the Sorbonne, withdrawal of police from the Latin Quarter, and freeing of jailed students and lifting of disciplinary action against others.

Q. At what point did things become really serious?

A. The night of May 10-11. Students built barricades in the streets, burned cars and tossed Molotov cocktails. The police retaliated with tear gas and concussion grenades. The toll: 367 persons injured, 468 arrests.

Q. What happened next?

A. Premier Georges Pompidou returned from a visit to Afghanistan May 11, promised to reopen the Sorbonne May 13, said the jailed students would be freed and promised renovation of the university system. He also called off the police.

Q. Was this enough to calm the students?

A. It made them more militant than ever, and the major unions called a one-day general strike for May 13 to protest police action against the strikers. During the strike several hundreded thousand students and workers marched through the heart of Paris on one of the biggest parades in memory. The students and unions formed an uneasy alliance. Students occupied the Sorbonne and one of the state theaters, the Odeon, and set up a round-the-clock debating forum. The red flag of communism and the black banner of anarchy were flown.

Q. What was the government's response?

A. President Charles de Gaulle was on an official visit to Romania. Premier Pompidou told the National Assembly "our civilization... is at stake." He issued a communique saying the turbulent students would not "plunge the country into disorder." Then he went on the radio and television and promised that "all the legitimate demands" of the students would be met. He also hinted at steps to restore order, but none was taken.

CENSUS PLANNED

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesia's Central Statistical Office announced that a national census of the white, black and mixed blood population is planned for March 20, 1969.

Q. What they have been wanting for years—more money, shorter working hours, job security.

Q. Haven't their demands been met?

A. The government, which runs such major sectors of French industry such as rail and air transport, communications and the like, has been granting regular raises of a few per cent a year. Private industry has also come through. But the workers have never been satisfied and have frequently struck for one or two days to push their demands. The government has been able until now to keep the lid on. Recently, however, unemployment began to increase, reaching upward of half a million. Job security became a big issue. Adaptation to the competition created by the Common Market means the end of marginal industries and more mechanized factories, with fewer workers.

Q. What steps are the politicians taking?

A. The Leftist Federation led by Francois Mitterrand and the Communist party small bloc. They introduced a censure motion in the National Assembly, and the vote will come Wednesday night or early Thursday. Small cracks are appearing in the Gaullist bloc, which is two seats short of a majority in Parliament but has squeaked through on previous censure votes because Centrists went along with the government. This time it may be different.

Q. Is De Gaulle himself in danger?

A. If the censure motion passes, only Pompidou and his cabinet will be out. De Gaulle is serving a seven-year term, which ends in 1972.

Q. What will De Gaulle do if Pompidou's government is thrown out?

A. He will address the nation on Friday and until then it's anyone's guess.

Police And Columbia U. Students In New Clash

By TOM KELLY

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Police cleared a building and arrested 131 demonstrators without incident at strife-torn Columbia University early today but in the hour before dawn the Ivy League campus erupted in blazing violence.

A thousand police stormed across the campus at 4:25 a.m. responding to a call by President Grayson Kirk to clear the area.

They were met head-on by a wave of students summoned to the fray by a call "To the barricades!"

A stone flew, striking a policeman in the face. He bled profusely. Police charged the students. Nightsticks failed.

Early reports said at least 10 police and 50 students had been treated for injuries at campus first aid stations and two hospitals.

The storm began building late Tuesday afternoon when several lawyers, about 20 parents and 200 students entered Hamilton Hall to protest disciplinary action against Mark Rudd, the radical campus leader of Students for a Democratic Society, and three of his associates.

There are about 25,000 students at the university and its affiliated schools.

Tension mounted steadily throughout the night inside the building and outside, where supporters and opponents of the demonstrators milled about uneasily.

The threat of police action was announced early today by university officials.

When it came, at 2:34 a.m., with a swift penetration of Hamilton by police breaking through a barricaded tunnel and entering main doors, it was like a great release.

Rudd was arrested first, and led through a tunnel to a waiting police van. Eighty other male demonstrators, and 5 young women, moved out by the same route without incident.

A little after 4 a.m., Kirk requested police to "clear all campus academic buildings" and to empty the campus of all nondormitory students.

Associate Dean Alexander Platt climbed atop the sundial in the center of campus, where hundreds milled about, and used a bullhorn to make what he termed "a regretful and unhappy announcement" that police were preparing to enter the campus again.

The crowd booed.

Platt urged demonstrators to return to their dormitory rooms or leave the campus. One young man jumped atop the sundial and seized his bullhorn. Others in the crowd soon returned it to him, but Platt left without further statement.

"To the barricades!" the students shouted.

Students had set up wooden police barriers at one campus gate at Amsterdam Avenue and 116th Street. The students surged toward the barricades.

Helmets police were lined up opposite it, stretching across the entire width of the block. They were members of the elite, riot-trained Tactical Patrol Force.

Hundreds of students began running toward the barricades and into the face of police.

The police charged, swinging their clubs at anyone in their path, anyone who did not turn and run.

Just before 5 a.m., a university spokesman told Police Commissioner Howard Leary that the sprawling, uptown Manhattan campus had been "sufficiently clear" and police were not to enter the buildings.

Lindsay To Work For Rockefeller

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York says he will begin campaigning actively for the Republican presidential nomination of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Lindsay, in Pittsburgh Tuesday for a $100-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner attended by some 1,400 persons, said he would go to Oregon Friday to campaign for the New York governor.

The only Republicans on the ballot in the May 28 Oregon primary are Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Richard M. Nixon of New York. There is a write-in campaign for Rockefeller.

In Resurrection City, There's A Common Zeal

By AUSTIN SCOTT

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By noon the sun's rays beat down so fiercely upon "Resurrection City, U.S.A.," that several migrants from the South compared it with summer in the cotton fields back home.

All morning children's bare feet and the shoes of hundreds of new arrivals scuffed up little clouds of yellow dust along the dirt trails that are the city's sidewalks.

Tourists strolling under shady maples and elms between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial stared curiously at the plywood huts. They housed one of the most varied communities many of the visitors would ever see.

There were heavy-set, older folks from the vitamin-short starch and fat diet of the Deep South's poor. And there were lean, cockily confident Negro teen-agers from big-city slums, most hard at work building shelters.

Tight, sleeveless T-shirts worn by these youths identified them as:

"Milwaukee Youth Council Commandoes." "Invaders, Memphis." The "Blackstone Rangers" and "Peacemakers" of Chicago's South and West sides, and a Philadelphia group whose lettering simply located their neighborhood, "25th and Diamond."

White volunteers sweated next to them, young men with blond mustaches and girls in shorts and sandals. And the young

Negroes greeted black and white volunteers alike with clenched right fists raised, and the slogan, "Black power, brother!"

Putting the shelters together was a job for the young. Older persons lounged in whatever shade they could find.

"We're enjoying ourselves," said a Negro woman from Chicago who refused to give her name. "I never lived in a decent house in my life, and I've worked all my life."

One hut had its plastic door flaps closed. Sun pouring through the translucent plastic raised the temperature to a humid 100-degrees-plus inside, where Minnie Lee Hills of Marks, Miss., sat quietly folding clothes.

She vowed never to return to Mississippi. "I'm afraid to go back there to live," she said. "They might be mad at me for coming here."

Twenty dusty steps away, in the two-pole circus tent that can hold 500 people for meals or mass rallies, Lila Mae Brooks of Sunflower County, Miss., talked of people who have become discouraged.

"Some has said they were going back home, and after we talked to 'em they said they wasn't," Mrs. Brooks said. "I told them they was having three meals a day, which they wasn't getting in Mississippi. Some children get to go swimming and have toys."

The shower and laundry rooms that the Southern Christian Leadership Conference planned have not been finished, so Mrs. Hills and Mrs. Brooks, like the other 1,500 residents, use buckets or pails for bathing and laundry.

"We made out at home with a bucket or pan, so it ain't no trouble here," said Mrs. Brooks. "A few of us had commodes, but the waste runs right out there in the ditches. Since the summer mine has been running in the ditch right outside my door. At least we don't have no roaches and bugs up here, crawling all over the food."

A volunteer on a truck that comes in every day from the Seventh Day Adventist Church said her group has given out 13,000 pieces of donated clothing to date.

The Seventh Day Adventists also supplied the medical bus that treats about 30 routine cases a day.

Food has been plentiful at "Resurrection City," even though lines for it are long. Corned beef hash, greens, mashed potatoes, gravy, bread, canned peaches and milk, coffee or soda pop made up this day's dinner menu.

It is served by white volunteers recruited by the area's churches.

"I don't mind the mess," said a man as he stepped over pooled water on the kitchen tent's plywood floor. "We're together, that's what counts."

F111s Grounded By Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has grounded 42 of its F111A fighter-bombers, including five on duty in Thailand, until a defective part is repaired.

But they all are expected to be airborne again sometime next month.

The plane, a product of $5.3 billion worth of research and development during the controversial six-year TFX program, has been plagued by troubles.

Three F111As were lost while flying Vietnam war combat missions out of their Thailand base. Another one crashed May 8 near Nellis Air Force Base, Nev. Following that accident the Air Force restricted all flights of the swiftness planes.

The Air Force said Tuesday the Nevada crash probably was caused by a defective valve in a system concerned with the horizontal stabilizer.

Twelve early models which did not contain the defective part have not been grounded.

California has been the leading state in agriculture for the past 20 years.

Duvalier Claims Haitian Invasion Force In Flight

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — "Papa Doc" Duvalier's Haitian government declared Tuesday night it has put a 35-man rebel invasion force to flight and captured the two B25 bombers that landed the invaders.

Government sources said 10 of the 35 invaders were killed in a 20-minute battle at Cap Haitien Tuesday and the rest fled to the hills with government troops in hot pursuit.

In Washington, Haitian Ambassador Arthur Bonhomme told a news conference that all the dead were Haitians.

The invasion Monday was preceded by a bombing attack on the capital in which one person was reported killed and several others injured. One bomb landed several hundred yards from President Francois Duvalier's palace, but neither he nor any of his family were hurt. One newspaper said the president was reading in bed at the time.

Government and diplomatic sources in Port au Prince said the instigators of the attack were Haitian exiles based in the United States. Government spokesmen claimed they were supporters of Paul Magloire, a former president, and members of the New York-based Haitian Coalition.

Duvalier told the newspaper Nouveau Monde that the invaders could have come from the United States, Jamaica, Cuba or the Bahamas. Both the Dominican and Jamaican governments denied their territory had been the springboard. The Cuban press and radio reported the bombing attack without comment and said "some Western agencies" reported the landing force might have come from Cuba. Some observers in Havana said the prompt publication of this speculation indicated Cuba was not involved.

The new attempt on Duvalier's iron-fisted control of his impoverished half of the Caribbean island of Hispaniola came about one year after he exiled his daughter and her army colonel husband to the United States and had 19 army officers executed on charges of plotting against him.

Dozens of plots and invasion attempts have been reported since "Papa Doc" became president in 1957. None has been on a scale sufficient for success.

Here To Learn, Share Pitt Farm Life

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Kanaksinh P. Atodaria, 24-year-old International Farm Youth Exchangee from India, arrived in Raleigh on May 9 and will be in Pitt County until July 28.

Atodaria, a native of Hira-por, India, is spending 15 days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Dilda in Fountain. After June 13, he will spend 15 days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thompson on Rt. 2, Ayden.

IFYE is a program through which selected farm youth are exchanged between the United States and cooperating countries for a period of four to six months to observe and experience family and community life.

The program is a two-way road to understanding. Through IFYE, rural young people work toward two objectives — a better understanding among people of the world and a wholesome, lasting peace. Young people from other countries are placed in farm homes in this state to live, work and share in their day-to-day experiences.

Participants must be between the ages of 20 and 30, reared on a farm and have knowledge of its life and work, be in good health, a high school graduate, mature personality, and an eagerness to understand other people and willingness and ability on his return home to devote time to speaking and spreading the influence of his experiences.

While in the United States, Atodaria will study such things as rural youth programs, 4-H clubs, agriculture such as seed selection for improved crop production, use of fertilizers for increased production and plant disease and insect control. He will also observe rural community life and development.

Atodaria, a self-employed farmer, will observe farm operations in America.

The Indian graduated from the Srujan Patel University in Anand, India, with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture. He has five brothers, ages 19, 17, 15, 6 and 3 years old, and three sisters, ages 21, 12 and 10 years.

Atodaria was married to Vina Rane on April 21, before leaving for his trip to the United States.

"I live in a farming village and, with my father and brothers, operate a 94-acre non-irrigated farm," Atodaria said. About 45-50 acres of cotton is grown on the Atodaria farm, while approximately 14 acres of peanuts are raised. Other crops in Atodaria's district include sorghum, rice and wheat.

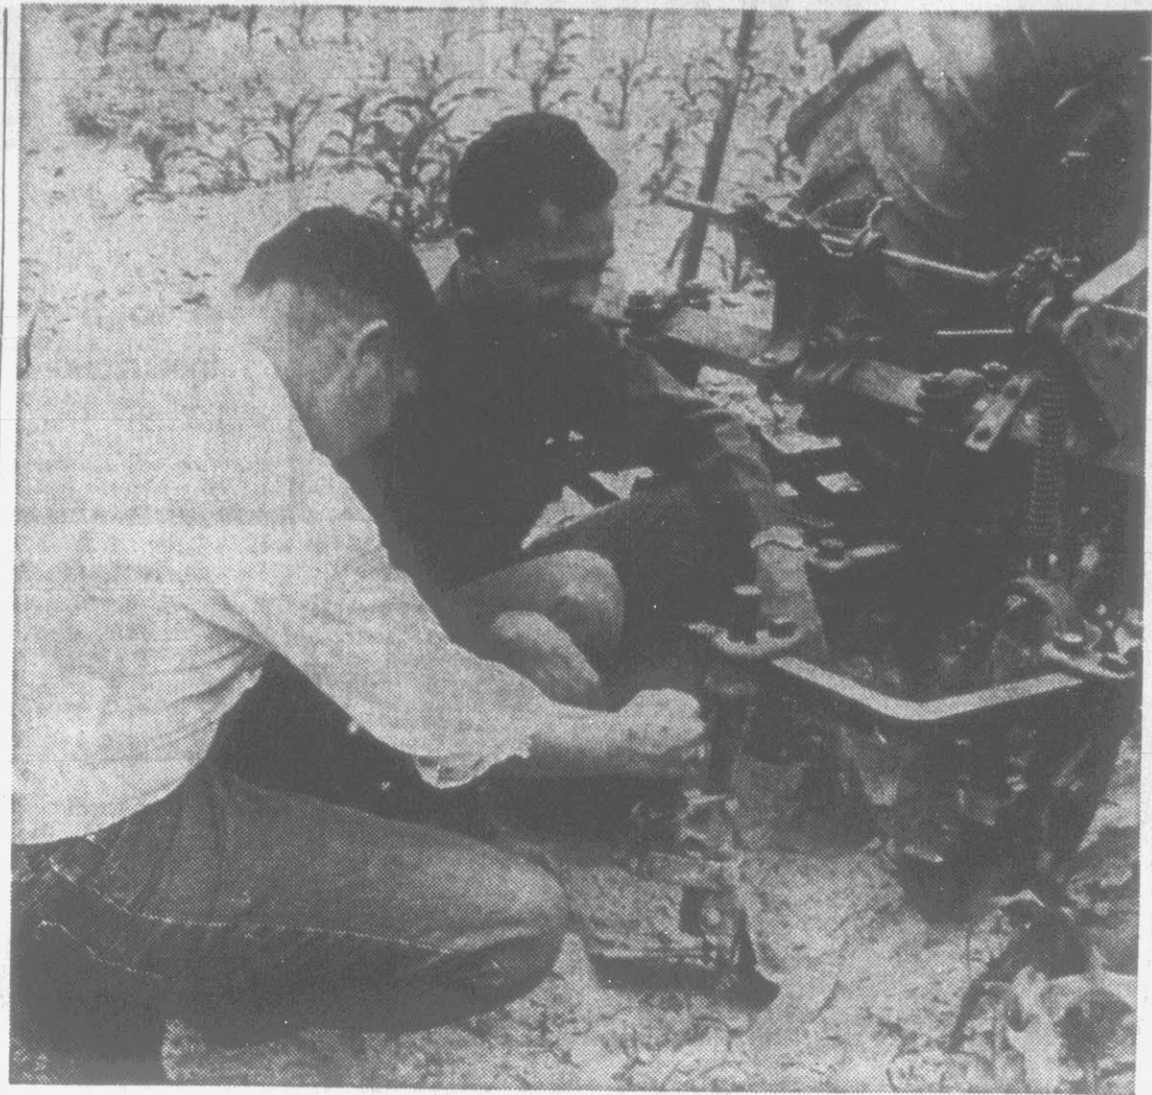

Livestock raised include bullock, cow, buffalo and poultry. "Cows are raised for milking only," Atodaria said. "We feel the cow is a sacred animal and he is not raised for food." The Indians have some tractors for farming, but very little equipment is owned by the farmers. "Oxen are used by most farmers in my country and planting is done by hand."

"I find the Americans are very friendly," he said, "and American food is very tasty." Atodaria seems to enjoy a variety of all foods, according to Mrs. Dilda.

Atodaria enjoys volleyball and other sports as well as listening to music.

The IFYE program is supported by private funds with limited public grants available for use in some countries. Friends of 4-H in participating states provide funds which supplement those raised by the National 4-H Club Foundation.

The International Youth Exchange Program began in 1948. It is conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service of the state land-grant universities and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. About 2,000 U.S. delegates and a similar number of exchanges from 70 countries have participated in IFYE's 20 year history. This year, a total of 96 U. S. delegates from 34 states will be exchanged with 102 men and women from 38 countries.

Few Deserters For Political Reasons Known

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon official testified Tuesday that only 282 military men have tried to defect to a foreign country for political reasons in the last two years.

Of these, Asst. Secretary Alfred B. Pitt said, 101 were aliens returning mostly to the countries of their birth. The 181 U.S. citizens defecting represented one in every 28,000 serving in the armed forces during the period.

Pitt told a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee that of the 282 suspected to have left for political motivation, "our information reveals only 49 who have given any positive indication of such motivation."

He gave figures showing that political desertions represented only a small percentage of military personnel absent without leave (AWOL).

In 1967, a total of 40,227 were absent for more than 30 days.

"The trend in the deserting rate has not been in such measure as to cause us any special concern," he said.

Pitt said the Pentagon does not keep detailed lists of missing personnel, but that each service keeps statistics on its absentees. He told a questioner he was unable to give figures on the number of soldiers who have left Vietnam for political reasons.

Pentalties given deserters, a term used only for those convicted by a court-martial, range up to dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and five years at hard labor.

But actual penalties, he said, vary greatly, ranging from a $15 fee given for a seven-day absence to Sweden to a bad conduct discharge and two years at hard labor for a five-month absence to Canada.

A chart showed that of the 282 suspected political absentees, 79 are in Canada, 50 in Sweden, 29 in France, 14 in Mexico and 55 back in U.S. control.

MORE CARS IN PRAGUE

PRAGUE (AP) — Private car registration in Prague had doubled since 1960 to 78,035 cars, the news agency CTK reported, adding that the number of motorcycles increased by 6,000 to a total of 39,336.

Baccalaureate Service Sun. For Stokes-Pactolus Seniors

The Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church will officiate at the Stokes-Pactolus High School Baccalaureate Service Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The Rev. Bill Edwards, pastor of Pactolus Baptist Church, will assist Rev. Wilson.

Rev. Wilson, a 1954 graduate of the Free Will Baptist Church in Nashville, Tenn., has served as pastor of three churches in Pitt County.

Dr. W. Amos Abrams, assistant executive secretary of the North Carolina Education Association, will deliver the commencement address during graduation ceremonies Thursday,

May 30, at 8 p.m., in the school gymnasium.

Dr. Abrams, a graduate of Pinetops High School, received his A. B. and M. A. degrees from Duke University and his Ph. D. degree from Cornell University. He served 20 years as editor of the NCEA publications, "North Carolina Education" and "NCEA News Bulletin."

Stokes-Pactolus School Principal W. D. Harrison will present the diplomas to the graduating seniors.

Jeffrey Rawls, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rawls of Stokes and Marsha Perkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Perkins of Stokes, having attained the highest scholastic averages respectively, will deliver short addresses during the graduation ceremony.

Claudia Barnhill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Barnhill, will serve as chief marshal. Other marshals named are Judy Leggett, John L. Corey Jr., Carol Hardy, Linda Rawls and Deanie Harris.

The senior class mascots are Barry Warren, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Warren of Pactolus, and Donna Brown, the daughter of Mrs. Shirley Cherry.

Flea To Spread Rabbit Disease, Cut Population

SYDNEY (AP) — A pinhead-size VIF from England is now under the microscope in Australia's scientific laboratories after being in quarantine for 18 months.

The VIF, Very Important Flea, may be the latest answer to the rabbit problem. Experts from the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organization hope that it, and the 5,000 children it bore while under quarantine, will spread myxomatosis more effectively and more fatally than the mosquito which in the last 10 years helped decimate the country's multi-million rabbit population.

No More Digging Up Indian Beads By Children

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The children at Lodestar Camp near Jackson won't be digging up any pretty beads from the ground near their swimming pool this summer.

The ghosts of the Miwok Indians who buried the beads to honor their dead will be at rest, for their sacred mourning spot is now protected by wire and a strict order against digging anywhere within 20 feet of the mound. Eventually the camp hopes to raise $700 for an archaeological dig to discover the time period of the Indian's existence.

The camp is operated by the Piedmont Community Church as a summer camp for children from Northern California. Last year, said Herman Trutner, on the board of camp management, "One of the unadvertised joys of camp life was being able to dig up enough Indian beads for one necklace."

Around the end of the 19th century, the famous oriental rickshaws were manufactured in New Jersey and imported to the East.

Military Policemen Kept Busy Patrolling Saigon

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — If it's not street fighting, snipers or hand grenades, it's drunks and traffic.

"It does get monotonous sometimes," says a young military policeman riding the darkened streets of Saigon.

The low-key appraisal of possibly the world's most hazardous police beat came from smooth-cheeked, 20-year-old Spec. 4 Jimmie Keen, a volunteer from Norwalk, Calif., who has spent 16 months patrolling South Vietnam's capital.

When the war moved into South Vietnam's cities Jan. 31 the Army's military policemen moved into the front lines of the war. They have been there ever since.

"When I got here about eight months ago there were guys rotating home that had never been shot at," said Keen's patrolmate, Pfc. Thomas Blunt of Los Angeles. "Not now. It's hard to find an MP who hasn't been shot at."

Blunt, a 23-year-old former telephone company lineman who ended up in the MPs for reasons mysterious to him, gives his job the same professional approach as Keen, who hopes to go into police work after leaving the Army.

Packing a .45-caliber pistol and an M16 carbine and wearing flak vests, they average about 72 hours a week on patrol in Saigon. When they aren't on patrol they are on alert.

It has been this way for the 716th Military Police Battalion since the Tet offensive.

The battalion has one of the biggest MP beats in the U.S. Army—a sprawling city of perhaps three million people, nobody really knows how many.

The streets are narrow and jumbled, with low overhanging balconies and countless dark hideaways ideal for street fighting. The MPs have grown almost casual about odd sniper rounds.

On this night, cruising gingerly along the darkened streets, Keen and Blunt expected nothing unusual by their standards.

Like cops everywhere, they discussed their jobs—how the rest of the GIs feel about the MPs.

After the Tet offensive, when the MPs fought outstandingly in Saigon and other cities, the average GI sharply upgraded his opinion of the MP.

The MPs took sharp casualties, and they have been continuing. Early this month six MPs were wounded and one killed in a nasty ambush inside the city, and there have been other fights. A grenade missed Keen's Jeep by only 10 feet.

"We still get some guys who think we are just out to harass them, but there aren't many of them now," Blunt said. "We still get our share of drunks despite the curfew. They just seem to do more drinking in less time."

One MP concern has dropped sharply—the handful of deserters who used to get a girl and hide out in Saigon. When the Viet Cong offensive started the deserters sought protection.

"One just walked up to me on the street, when I was off duty, and surrendered," said the somewhat bemused Keen. "I don't think they find it too comfortable living in the back streets nowadays."

Chips and putts from area golf courses:

GRIFTON GOLF CLUB

Play is progressing in the club championships at the Grifton Golf and Country Club.

In the women's division, upcoming matches in the championship flight include Dot Reeves against Margaret Price, Marie Israel meeting Evelyn Phillips, Helen Purser and Kelly Cox, Jean Owens and Emily Riley, Evelyn Sugg and Connie Ismer, Sandra Petrille and One Gilland. Gilda Padgett has a bye into the next round.

GREENVILLE C.C.

Play has reached the semi-finals in the Greenville Golf and Country Club's annual club championship. The finals are expected to be played on June 2, with awards made that same afternoon in the clubhouse.

Semi-finalists in the championship flight are Reynolds May and Marvin Blount Jr., and Burney Warren III and Ercel Webb.

Other semi-finals include: first flight, Rhett Honeycutt vs. Ben Harrison Jr.; Johnny Taylor vs. J. C. Whitehurst; second flight, Billy Morton vs. Ed Cain; P. B. Young against an opponent still to be decided; third flight: Rock Vincent vs. Wiley Corbett, Bill Taft Jr. vs. Bob Messner; fourth flight, Marshall Henson vs. Curtis Martin, Russell Hunnicutt vs. Tom Haigwood; fifth flight: Jack Bircher vs. Max Ray Joyner, Denton Hurley vs. Wesley Harvey.

FARMVILLE C. C.

Dr. Bert Warren is the new President's Cup champion at the Farmville Golf and Country Club. Dr. Warren defeated John Barefoot, one-up on the 20th hole to gain the championship last weekend.

Entries are now being taken for the ninth annual Pitt County Golf Tournament, to be played in Farmville. The tournament will be held on June 15 and 16, and the entry deadline is Tuesday, June 12. The tournament will be limited to the first 80 entries.

Any member of a Pitt County Country club is eligible to compete, if he is 16 or older. The defending champion is Shelby Roebuck of the Farmville club.

BROOK VALLEY

Carl King picked up a hole-in-one at the Brook Valley Country Club last week. He shot the ace on the 189-yard 12th hole with an eight iron. Playing with him were D. R. Roscoe, Lacy Harrell and Jack Cuthbertson.

The Men's club championship, moving along now, has been set back a week for its finals, to June 9, so as not to conflict with the Greenville Golf and Country Club finals.

A summary of the tourney shows "Big Daddy" Moore, the defending champion, downing Marvin Blount, 5-4; Bo Farley beating Ben Harrison Sr., 2-1; Ercel Webb beating Bernie Warren Jr., 2-1; and Gene Ward taking Ben Harrison Jr., 2-up, in the champion flight.

In the first flight, Henry Coleman defeated Reynolds May, and Austin Britt beat Al Ward. In the second flight, Jimmy Harper downed John Montgomery, Percy Ashby beat Ted Ramsey, Paul McMahon beat Dan Saieed, and Ollie Bissett downed Skipper Johnson.

In the third flight, Cliff Moore defeated Bill Goodwin, John Lautares meets the winner of the M. Blalock-Frank Hill match; Fred Sauve defeated Troy Little and meets the Smug Respass-Robert Dean winner.

In the fourth flight, Roger Bullock defeated Glen Cox, and Kip West beat Elwood Goodson. In the fifth flight, Jack Cuthbertson beat D. L. Roscoe, and meets John Jackson; Billy Woolfolk beat Bill Ellington, and C. W. Murray beat Tom Boring.

Player Has Fine
Practice Round

By BILL JOHNSON

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — If Gary Player is any kind of prognosticator at all, the galleries should be in for some fine golf during the Memphis Open this week.

Player, fresh from a tie for fifth in the Colonial Invitational in Houston, toured the par 3436-70 Memphis Colonial Country Club course Tuesday with a two-under-par practice round of 68.

"I think the scores are going to be fantastic," the muscular South African said. "The ground is very hard and the ball will roll. I think somebody will shoot a 63 sometime during the tournament."

A 63 really isn't anything new for the 10-year-old Open. It's been done 10 times in the pro play.

Play in the 11th annual Open, a $100,000 affair with $20,000 going to the winner, begins over the 6,500-yard course Thursday morning.

Player, who lost playoffs for the Memphis Open pot of gold in 1969 and 1962, says he is in a good frame of mind for this year's competition.

Player shares the distinction with Gene Littler with being in two Memphis Open playoffs — and losing them both. Neither has collected the top money here in any Open.

ANOTHER PONT AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Richard Pont, brother of Coach of the Year John Pont of Indiana, will coach Yale's offensive backfield next fall.

Dick Pont, 37, fills the spot vacated by Jim Root who left Yale to become head football coach at New Hampshire.

Dick Pont, a native of Canton, Ohio, had been head coach at Steubenville, Ohio Catholic Central High since 1960. In eight years his teams compiled a 37-30-3 record. Dick's brother John coached Yale before he went to Indiana for the 1965 season.

CAUGHT IN RUNDOWN — Ayden's Worth Kinlaw is caught in a rundown between Warrenton's Leslie Wells and Benny Hilliard in last night's game in the Class A Baseball Playoffs. Ayden got a no-hitter from Paul Miller to win 4-1 and advance to the Eastern Finals. (Reflector Photo)

Elks Outlast Security
To Gain A 9-7 Victory

The Elks edged past Security Life, 9-7, yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

Pepsi-Cola leads the league with a 4-1 record, while the Elks and Exchange are tied for second with 3-2 marks. Greenville Tobacco is 2-2, followed by the Moose, 1-3, and Security 1-4.

The Elks took the lead with three runs in the first inning. Gary Leitch walked and Skip Fowler doubled him in. Gary Warren walked and Lewis Lesley doubled to drive Fowler and Warren.

In the second, Security came up with five runs to take a 5-3 lead. Bob Higgins walked and Dan Harrington reached on a fielder's choice. Worth Albea walked, loading the bases. West Puryear walked, driving in Higgins, and a walk to John Coussey scored Harrington. Phil Dash then tripled to drive in the other three runners and give Security the lead.

The Elks picked up another run in the second, closing the gap to 5-4. Billy Glidewell walked and Jimmy Leitch singled.

Gary Leitch walked, loading them up and a double by Fowler scored Glidewell, but Leitch was out at the plate.

In the third, the Elks got two more and regained the lead, 7-5. Lewis Lesley reached on an error and Jim Peszko was hit by a pitch. Willie Rodgers walked, loading them up, and Billy Leitch hit into a fielder's choice, scoring Lesley, but getting Rodgers. Jimmy Leitch was hit by a pitch, and Gary Leitch hit into another fielder's choice, scoring Peszko. Billy Leitch scored on Fowler's single.

In the fourth, Security picked up two more, tying it at 7-7. Causey singled and moved around on wild pitches. Dash walked, and after stealing second, scored on an out.

The Elks moved back ahead again with one in the fourth. Peszko singled, moved to third on wild pitches and scored on an error.

In the fifth, the final Elks run scored. Jimmy Leitch singled and advanced on a wild pitch. He scored on Billy Harrison's single.

Dash had two hits to lead Security, while Fowler had three and Jimmy Leitch had two for the Elks.

Kiwanis Edge
Past R.C. Cola

The Kiwanis moved to within a half-game of first place in the North State Little League with a 3-2 victory over stubborn R.C. Cola yesterday.

Coca-Cola continues to lead the league with a 4-0 record, while the Kiwanis are 4-1. Then comes the Lions, 2-2; the Jaycees, 2-3, and the Optimists and R.C. Cola, both 1-4.

Winning pitcher Kelly Heath struck out 14 on the way to the victory, and allowed just two hits.

R.C. struck first in the scoring, getting a run in the second. Ken Toler walked and after walks to Jeff Bailey and Tommy Payne loaded the bases, another to Randy Lewis forced in Toler for a 1-0 lead.

In the third, R.C. added a second run for a 2-0 lead. Randy Cates walked and scored on Ken Nichols' hit.

The Kiwanis finally got back in the game in the fifth inning, scoring twice to tie it up. Griff Garner singled and Robert Boles walked. Chris Manning was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Billy Brookshire singled in Garner, and a walk to Joey Howell brought in Boles with the tying run.

In the sixth, the Kiwanis got the go-ahead run. Al Heath reached on an error, and Garner was safe the same way. Another error, on Jon West's grounder, brought Heath home with the winning run.

Garner was the only hitter on either team to get more than one hit as he banged out two for the Kiwanis.

Meadowbrook &
Grace Take Wins

Grace Free Will Baptist and Meadowbrook each picked up victories in last night's Church League action. Meadowbrook edged Mt. Pleasant, 8-5, while Grace took a 23-11 decision over Oakmont.

Presbyterian and Immanuel continue to pace the league with 2-0 records, while Grace and St. James are tied for third with 2-1 marks. Next comes Mt. Pleasant and Pentecostal, both 1-1, with Meadowbrook and Jarvis, both 1-2. Oakmont and Gum Swamp round out the loop, both 0-2.

In the opener last night, Mt. Pleasant moved in to the lead in the third, scoring a run. In the fourth, they came back with three more for a 4-0 lead.

But Meadowbrook came up with three in the fifth on a homer by Lloyd to close the gap to 4-3. Then in the sixth, Meadowbrook added five more for an 8-4 edge. Mt. Pleasant managed to pick up one more in the seventh, but the rally was cut off there.

In the second game, Grace hopped into a 4-0 lead in the first inning as Hudson homered. One more crossed in the second, before Oakmont managed to score two runs and make it 5-2. Another homer by Hudson made the lead 6-2 at the end of the top of the third. In the bottom of the third, Oakmont rallied for six big runs to push into an 8-6 lead, and then added another in the fourth to lead 9-6.

In the fifth, Grace came up with four more runs with a homer by Ham, and regained the lead 10-9. They pushed further ahead in the sixth with nine more runs as Peede, Ham and Jackson each homered. The seventh saw four more score, with Ham again clouting a homer.

Oakmont added two more runs in the sixth.

Tornado Hurler Fans 17
On Way To Another WinBy WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RALEIGH — The Ayden Tornadoes used the no-hit pitching of Paul Miller to ride to a 4-1 victory over tough Warrenton last night and gain the Eastern finals of the State Class A baseball tournament.

Miller was supurbe in his mound action last night, striking out 17 batters, and walking just three. He hit two others, and one man reached on an error, which led to the lone Warrenton run.

Ayden, meanwhile, banged out eight hits, and took advantage of four Jacket miscues to score their four runs and smash the previously unbeaten Warrenton team. It was also the first loss for hurler Jimmy Rivers this year.

The game started out as a hard pitchers' duel. Rivers downed the first eight men to face him before Worth Kinlaw, the last man on the Ayden batting order, lofted a hit into center. Miller, at the same time, downed the first five to face him before allowing a walk.

Ayden got its first run when it got its first baserunner. With Kinlaw's single, the opening came. Alan Wilson followed the hit up with one of his own moving Kinlaw to second. A passed ball moved the runners up, and a wild pitch brought Kinlaw across with the first Tornado run and a 1-0 lead.

The Tornadoes came up with two more in the fourth inning. David McGlohon led off a single, and moved to second when the ball went through the outfielder's legs. George Booth followed that up with a double into right, scoring McGlohon with what proved to be the winning run. But Booth was cut down at third trying to stretch his hit into a triple. Miller then reached on an error, and came around to score on a single to left by Curtis McLawhorn.

Warrenton threatened to get back into the game in the fourth. Wayne Lyles reached when he was hit by a pitch and Larry Short walked. With two outs, Marty Allen hit back to second, where the ball was bobbled. While Kinlaw was trying to find the handle on the ball, Lyles sped around third and headed for home, sliding in under the throw from Kinlaw with the only Warrenton run.

Miller allowed just one baserunner after that, in the fifth, and struck out eight of the next nine batters to face him.

In the sixth, the Tornadoes added another insurance run. Booth again doubled, and when the ball got by the Warrenton shortstop at second, he raced safely to third. A wild pitch brought him across for a 4-1 lead.

The Tornadoes had another chance to score in the sixth, and then again in the seventh, but failed to cash in on the opportunity.

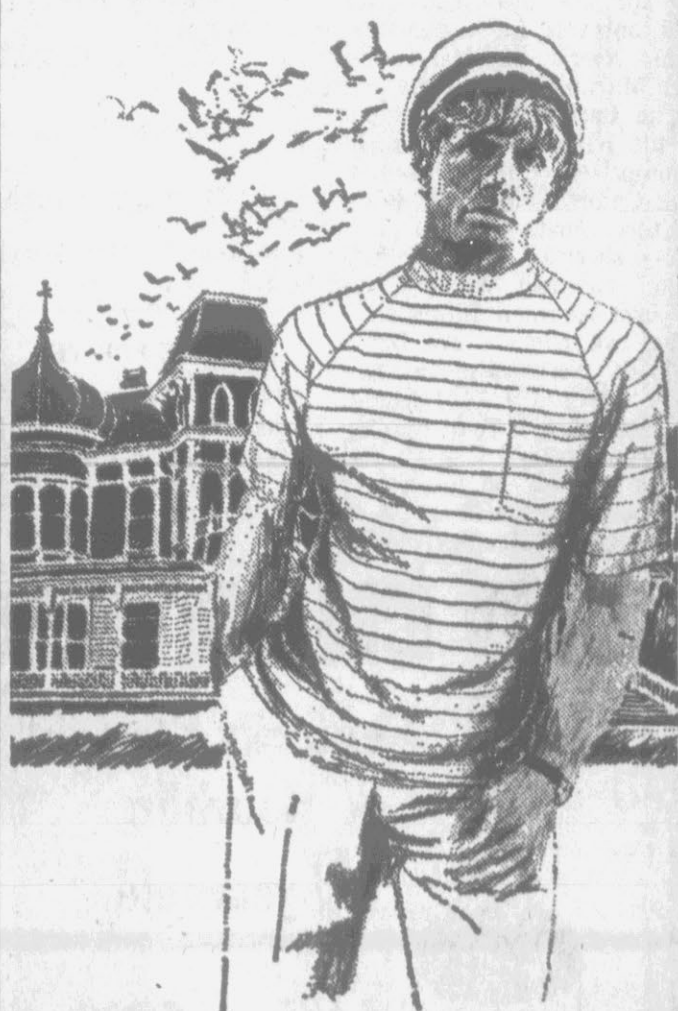

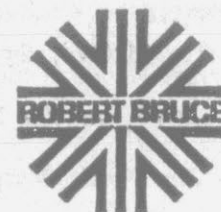

Ayden will now meet the winner of the Corinth-Holder-Tar Heel game for the Eastern title. The winner of that contest will move on into the State playoffs, a best of three series with the western champion.

Giants Hold Off Atlanta Rally To Gain Victory, Pull Into Tie For 2nd

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Herman Franks got the game he'd been waiting for. Larry Shepard still is waiting.

Franks' San Francisco Giants beat Atlanta 6-4 Tuesday night and moved into a tie for second place in the National League with the Braves.

Shepard's Pittsburgh Pirates fought the New York Mets 17 innings before bowing 4-3 and dropping into the cellar.

In other National League games, Los Angeles crushed St. Louis 9-2, Houston bombed Cincinnati 8-2 and Chicago edged Philadelphia 6-5.

In the American League, Chicago nudged Baltimore 2-1 in 12 innings, New York outlasted Washington 2-1, Minnesota took Detroit 3-1, California rimmed Boston 5-1 and Cleveland divided a doubleheader with Oakland, winning the opener 1-0 before bowing 2-0.

"It's about time we did something right," said Franks after the Giants, losers in three of their last four games, had taken a 6-0 lead and then held off a late Braves' rally. "But I was worried. Thank goodness for Jim Ray Hart."

Hart blasted his ninth homer in the first inning, driving in two runners ahead of him. Ray Sadecki held off the Braves until the fifth, when Deron Johnson homered and left the game in the seventh when Bob Bolin and Frank Linzy were called on to quell the uprising.

Shepard, who recently threatened to fine his players if they didn't produce, had himself to blame for his club's latest defeat: its fifth in a row.

With a man on second and one out in the 17th, he replaced smoothfielding Bill Mazeroski at second with Chuck Hiller, who is not exactly a candidate for the Golden Glove award.

Shepard later said his strategy was to have Hiller bat third in the 18th inning for the pitcher. But there never was an 18th inning, because after Elroy Face retired one batter, Ken Boswell grounded to Hiller, who threw the ball away, letting the winning run score.

Bob Bailey drove in five runs with a homer and two singles in the 14th Dodger attack. Bill Singer, 4-5, was the winning pitcher. Tom Haller tripled in two runs and Len Gabrielson scored three times.

The Astros scored five runs in the third inning, Dave Adlesh's double driving in two of them. Larry Dierker stopped the Reds on seven hits in bringing his season record to 4-6 and stopping a four-game Cincinnati losing streak.

A passed ball to Cookie Rojas, who was switched to catcher in the last of the ninth, let Billy Williams score the winning run for the Cubs. The Phillies had tied the score with four runs in the ninth, Rojas hitting a three-run homer with two out.

Qualifying continues Thursday through Saturday, with a special qualifying race Saturday afternoon.

Under new NASCAR rules this year, each driver will draw a number and a time to make his qualifying run. In a drawing held Tuesday, Plymouth's Richard Petty drew the No. 1 ticket and was to open qualifying runs at 1 p.m.

Previously, qualifying was held on a first-come, first-served basis. The first driver to pull his car to the end of pit row after 1 p.m. on the first day of qualifying was allowed to begin his run. Most drivers held off, however, until three o'clock or later, when the track had had a chance to cool from the noonday sun.

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina and South Carolina each placed three players on the All-Atlantic Coast Conference baseball team announced by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association Tuesday.

Champion North Carolina State and Maryland each landed two players on the 10-member team. Catcher Skip Hull of North Carolina was the leading vote-getter, named on 73 ballots.

The players made the selections for the association and could not vote for teammates.

Jim Morris of Maryland and Steve Martin of N. C. State and Charlie Carr of North Carolina are the outfielders. The infield is comprised of third baseman Chris Cammack of N. C. State and three South Carolina players — shortstop Toy McCord, second baseman Wallie Jones and first baseman Billy Cash.

The two pitchers are David Lemonds, North Carolina sophomore who had a 6-1 record, and Maryland's Tom Bradley who won five and lost two and had an earned-run average of 0.76. Lemonds struck out 96 in 72 innings and Bradley whiffed 65 in 47 innings.

Blue Moon Odom Hurls Victory To Snap Cleveland Win, A's Loss String

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland pitching has made a little go a long way this spring, but once in a Blue Moon the Indians get burned with their own firewater.

Sam McDowell hurred a four-hitter Tuesday night as the Indians nipped Oakland 1-0 on Jose Cardenal's 11th-inning homer for their 12th shutout victory of the young season.

But John "Blue Moon" Odom turned the tables in the second game of the two-night twin bill, pitching the A's to a 2-0 victory that snapped Cleveland's winning streak at four games and ended a six-game Oakland winless string.

The low-scoring doubleheader split capped an evening of tight squeezes in the American League. The Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore 2-1 on Gerry McNertney's run-scoring single in the 12th inning; the New York Yankees slipped past Washington 2-1 on Andy Kosco's ninth-inning homer and Minnesota knocked off first place Detroit 3-1 on a two-run eighth inning single by Rich Rollins.

Home runs by Jim Fregosi and Rick Reichardt swept California to a 5-1 victory over Boston in the league's lone non-squaker.

In National League play, the New York Mets shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 in a 17-inning marathon, the Chicago Cubs shaved Philadelphia 6-5, San Francisco downed Atlanta 6-4, Los Angeles drubbed St. Louis 9-2 and Houston whipped Cincinnati 8-2.

McDowell ran his major league leading strikeout total to 90 by fanning 12 Oakland batters in the opener. The Cleveland southpaw ace, 5-2, battled A's right-hander Chuck Dobson through 10 scoreless innings before Cardenal led off the 11th with a shot into the left field bleachers.

Dobson also allowed only four hits and struck out seven, but was tagged with his third straight one-run loss and dipped to 2-4 over-all.

Ken Berry and Sandy Alomar beat out bunt singles in the 12th inning at Baltimore before McNertney fouled off two bunt attempts and then lashed a single to right, scoring Berry to break a 1-1 deadlock.

The Orioles had tied the game in the eighth on a walk and singles by Frank Robinson and Boog Powell.

Kosco's sixth homer, a leadoff blast off Joe Coleman in the ninth, gave Mel Stottlemyre his sixth straight victory over the Senators and extended New York's modest winning streak to three games.

Stottlemyre checked Washington on six hits by bringing his 1968 record to 5-3 and also stroked three of the Yanks' seven hits off Coleman, who struck out nine—including Mickey Mantle four times.

Rollins' one-out single to left off Detroit's Joe Spivey in the eighth scored Rod Carew from third with the tie-breaking run and Tony Oliva raced all the way home from first when the ball rolled dead on the outfield grass.

Carew started the rally with a double, his third hit of the game, and took third on a short batted ball as Harmon Killebrew struck out. Oliva then walked intentionally, setting the stage for Rollins.

Dean Chance stopped the Tigers on four hits, squaring his record at 4-4 and helping Minnesota break a three-game losing string.

Fregosi, who hit for the cycle against Boston Monday night, drilled a two-run homer and Reichardt connected with the bases empty as the Angels flattened the Red Sox behind right-hander Jim McGlothlin's seven-hitter.

Science Building Finished In '69

By PEGGY TAYLOR
ECU's new science building is 40 per cent completed. "The new science building which will house the biology and the physics classes is fairly well on schedule," said Jim Lowry, director of operations. "Though there have been some setbacks the construction is expected to be completed by the summer of 1968."

Boyd and Goforth, Inc. of Charlotte is in charge of the building, which was begun last September.

Wilford Pinkston, superintendent, said that there had been some delays and the actual construction was "slightly behind schedule." "However," said Pinkston, "the building should be completed by the latter part of March."

Pinkston said that delays had been caused by a lack of copper needed for wall flashing. The copper was not available due to the copper strike and the war in Viet Nam caused a copper shortage.

"An alternate to the copper has been offered," said Pinkston. "The suggested alternate is a stainless steel core with copper coating; however, so far no agreement has been reached."

Pinkston said that the construction men lost 59 working days due to the discovery of an unremoved underground cable that supplies power to the campus. Bad weather of the winter also caused delay.

"We will be able to make up some of the lost time, but not all of it," said Pinkston.

Joyner Library at East Carolina University subscribes to nine of the top 20 daily newspapers in the world, as judged by a panel of 26 journalism educators across the United States.

Librarian Wendell W. Smiley says the library takes 30 dailies in all, including specialized, local, regional and national papers.

On ECU's "Best 20" subscription list are the New York Times, the Times of London, the Guardian (England), the Christian Science Monitor, Le Monde (France), the Washington Post, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Frankfurter Allgemeine (Frankfurt, West Germany) and Die Welt (West Germany).

Remaining in the top 20 are Switzerland's Neue Suercher Zeitung, the Times of India, Mexico's Excelsior, the Swiss Journal de Geneve, the Scotsman of Scotland, Asahi Shimbun (Japan), Dagens Nyheter (Sweden), Corriere della Sera (Italy), La Nacion (Argentina) and Denmark's Berlingske Tidende.

In judging the world's best dailies, the panel considered many various factors ranging from editorial views and world news coverage to the quality of staff and printing excellence.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says "there is a degree of intolerance and almost totalitarian vehemence that says 'either see it my way or you will be sorry' in these extraordinary times."

"The line between freedom and license has become unclear to many people," Johnson told the American Bar Association Tuesday. "Threats and counter-threats fill the air every day."

The President said this is not the way of democracy and called for an interaction between law and freedom that he said will give us "strength and elasticity and the will to endure, and the sense to change."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution would acquire one of the world's largest gold coin collections under a bill passed by the House.

The measure, approved Tuesday, would authorize the estate of Josiah K. Lilly—the late Indianapolis, Ind., pharmaceutical magnate who amassed the collection—to claim a $5.53 million federal tax credit when the collection is turned over to the Smithsonian.

The collection of 6,125 coins—including a virtually complete set of American gold coins—has been hailed by Smithsonian experts as surpassing any ever collected by one man.

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of the Securities and Exchange Commission says public confidence in the securities markets is easily shaken by mere suspicion that insiders are taking advantage of a company's privileged information.

SEC chairman Manuel F. Cohen gave the appraisal to a luncheon of financial writers Tuesday.

He said "public confidence in the fairness of the securities market . . . so necessary to the continued healthy growth of our market, cannot be preserved if there is a belief—indeed only a suspicion—that insiders are taking advantage" of certain information.

Electronic Rifle Sight For GIs

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J. (AP) — GIs in Vietnam are using a new electronic rifle sight which lights up the enemy at night without exposing their own position.

The night vision device has been in use for a year, the Army Electronics Command at this U.S. Signal Corps base announced Tuesday.

A spokesman said that the device is one in a new family of night vision scopes which intensify faint moonlight, starlight, or sky glow in the observer's target area.

'Creative Society' Term Offered By Gov. Reagan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
California Gov. Ronald Reagan has proposed a "Creative Society" alternative to the Great Society and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has offered a five-point attack on the nation's economic ills.

"The Creative Society" is based on the premise that government cannot possibly match the creativity and energy of private industry," Reagan said. "The Great Society has grown greater every day—greater in spending."

Reagan, the California Republican favorite son candidate, spoke at a $100-a-place GOP fund-raising dinner in Chicago. He repeated on arrival that he is not going to announce as a GOP presidential candidate.

Announced GOP candidate Rockefeller's five-point program includes a proposed halt in "the habitual rise in public spending" and a temporary income tax increase at least as large as the administration's 10 per cent tax surcharge proposal.

He charged the Johnson administration with "grave failures in leadership" for not seeking a tax increase in 1965, to accompany the Vietnam war effort.

Rockefeller also proposed reassessment of financial commitments around the world; avoidance of further domestic and international trade controls and efforts to eliminate existing controls, and tax incentives for private investment in urban redevelopment.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay announced Tuesday he will campaign for Rockefeller in Oregon's May 28 primary. Rockefeller is not on the ballot in Oregon and has scheduled no appearances.

In the Democratic race, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy said he is "absolutely reserving judgment" on which of his party rivals he would support if he thought he could not win the presidential nomination.

McCarthy said in Coos Bay, Ore., that the judgment would depend on Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's Vietnam position and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's campaign conduct. He'd said earlier Kennedy's campaign tactics disturbed him.

Kennedy said in San Francisco that 1968 will go down as the year America turned to a new kind of politics based on "the politics of citizen participation—of personal involvement."

"It is the year," Kennedy said, "when existing political wisdom has proved unable to cope with the turbulence of our times."

Kennedy's top advisors reportedly are urging him to attack McCarthy as a stalking horse for Humphrey and pound at a theme that votes for McCarthy are really votes for Humphrey.

Humphrey, speaking to the Distillery, Rectifying Wine and Allied Workers, AFL-CIO, convention in Washington, lashed out at the use of downgrading political oratory.

"I'm going to blow the whistle right now from this platform," Humphrey said. "I say to those who aspire to this nomination that you do yourself, your party and your President and your country a disservice by constantly downgrading your President, your party and your country."

Reagan said the "Creative Society" should include coordination of welfare programs as he said California has done to produce self-sustaining citizens and "break the chain of welfare."

One Of Top Brass To Direct Air War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. George S. Brown is being plucked from the cloistered offices of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to run the U.S. air war in Vietnam.

Brown, 49, will bring to his new command in Saigon a clear knowledge of the innermost discussions and thinking of the nation's top military leaders and of the civilians who make the final policies.

Brown is equipped as are few other senior officers to understand the way power operates at the highest levels of government.

The handsome, heavily decorated World War II combat veteran has served as military assistant to two secretaries of defense and currently is the principal assistant and adviser to Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Brown, a native of Montclair, N.J., will take over as commander of the 7th Air Force on Aug. 1.

That's the 25th anniversary of the day when his bomber group, flying B24 Liberators, struck Ploesti, Romania, at low level in one of the most famous and costly U.S. raids of World War II.

Rising to the rank of full general, Brown will succeed Gen. William W. Momyer, who is returning after two years in command of the 7th Air Force to take over as chief of the Tactical Air Command, Langley Air Force Base, Va.

The command changes were included among a long list of shifts and retirements announced by the White House late Tuesday. They affected 36 generals and admirals, mostly Air Force generals.

Sources said the changes did not involve other developments, but rather represented a periodic shuffling of billets.

The White House announcement also disclosed that Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., highest-ranking Negro in the armed forces, will become deputy commander in chief of the U.S. Strike Command, which has responsibility for dealing with crises in Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. Davis has been commander of the 13th Air Force headquartered in the Philippines.

President Johnson nominated his pilot, Col. James U. Cross, 43, for promotion to Brigadier general. Cross, who will leave the White House in June for another assignment, has been a colonel only since last May.

Annual Meet By Missions Board

AYDEN — The Executive Board of the Evangelical Christian Association, Inc. held its annual meeting Saturday in the home of its chairman, the Rev. Adlie E. Barefoot here.

The association is interdenominational and seeks to promote Christian Missions around the world. Its international headquarters are in Greenville.

The board approved the appointment of the Rev. Carl L. Brooks as field director of the Latin American Countries. His family will be leaving in the near future for San Jose, Costa Rica where he is to review the Spanish language. From there, they will go to Ecuador, South America to make a base for their operations.

The board also approved the appointment of the Rev. Winfred Clifton as treasurer of the association and editor of their official organ, "The Evangelical Beacon."

The Rev. Clifton is completing his ministry in June at The Up-River Friends Meeting near Hertford and will begin thereafter as minister of the South Plainfield Friends Meeting near High Point.

SOME DON'T GET TIRE-D — Tim Larsen, a West Seattle High School junior, holds one of hundreds of tires that filled the enclosed courtyard at the school. It was reported the seniors, as a prank, formed a bucket brigade type chain to pass the tires across a roof and into the courtyard. The prank required several hours. (AP Wirephoto)

The Jamestown ferry goes from candle power to nuclear power in 20 minutes.

After you've seen the historic area around Williamsburg and Jamestown, take a pleasant ferry ride across the James to Surry County and see the story of nuclear power.

At the site of its new nuclear power station, the Virginia Electric and Power Company has opened an information center capable of handling hundreds of visitors daily.

Here you'll see animated displays, slide presentations and a working model of the reactor. (From a balcony you can watch us assemble the real thing.) You'll learn, step by step, how electricity is produced from the mighty atom.

And you'll see why nuclear energy is a safe, clean, efficient way to produce the electricity our growing area needs.

Whether you come by ferry from Jamestown or by road from other areas, Vepco invites you to visit the Surry Information Center and enjoy an informative look into the future.

Open from 10 am to 4 pm Monday through Saturday; from 1 pm to 6 pm on Sunday. For more information call your local Vepco office.

GREAT BARBECUES START WITH...

For a good, even, odorless fire start with

A&P Charcoal Briquets and A&P Charcoal Lighter.

If there's anything more important than the fire, it's what you grill on it.

For years, A&P Super-Right Meats have been used for more barbecues than any other meat you can name.

Ground beef, lean and juicy,

fresh tender chickens,

steaks and chops unconditionally guaranteed to be tender and tasty.

And, if you like, cut to the thickness you like.

Of course, your A&P

has all the condiments and sauces

a "barbecue boss" needs, including a unique Ann Page Barbecue Sauce.

When you think about it,

you might say:

Great barbecues start with A&P...

and end with satisfaction

...that's guaranteed.

Unwanted Boy May Never Talk

By HUGH MORGAN
Associated Press Writer

LAPEER, Mich. (P) — Ricky Thorne, a teen-ager abandoned by his mother at a Miami, Fla., airport in 1965, may never speak but he's trying to learn, a state hospital spokesman says.

His mother, Mrs. Victor Thorne, was quoted by newsmen at the time as saying she wanted to focus attention on the boy with the hope that someone would know a way to cure his retardation.

Last October, the 16-year-old boy was sent from Florida to the Lapeer State Home and Training School.

"He couldn't smile. He gulped his food," recalls Frederick Campbell, director of community relations for the hospital.

"Now, he has a real good smile," Campbell said. "And he takes his time at eating, like the other boys do."

He said as far as institution supervisors know, Ricky has never talked. He communicates by nodding or shaking his head.

Doctors could find nothing organically wrong with his vocal cords, however, and do not know positively why he has never talked. One doctor at Lapeer said it may be the result of brain damage. The boy, born a normal child, developed brain fever, probably from a virus, which caused retardation, Campbell said.

After Ricky's wandering around Miami International Airport led to publicity, his father, Victor Thorne, resigned his job as superintendent at a plant in Warren, a Detroit suburb. The parents sold their $35,000 house and moved.

Charles Wagg, chief assistant director of the Michigan Department of Health, said the parents would be billed for Ricky's confinement if they could be found. However, Ricky's two sisters, who are married and live in Michigan, have visited him at Lapeer.

After Ricky was found at the airport, Mrs. Thorne identified him as her son. Florida officials took custody of the youth, according to Dr. John Preskey, Dade County, Fla., youth services director. Last August the Thornes said they would no longer pay the $220 a month to cover Ricky's care, he said, and Preskey asked Michigan authorities to take Ricky.

Vote Procedures To Be Studied

RALEIGH (AP) — A 25-member committee named by the voting procedures is expected to meet June 15.

Dr. Wallace Jr. of Winston and L. A. Grooms of Lincoln were named to the committee, which was set up after the elections board became concerned over long waits required to vote and a smaller than expected turnout in the May 4 primaries.

Eight Golden Rules To Reach 100-Year Mark

By DONALD M. McNICOLL
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)—If you want to live to be 100, there are eight golden rules, according to a survey of British centenarians.

1. Come from a family of long-lived people.
2. Don't smoke.
3. Don't drink.
4. Work hard.
5. Don't live in a town.
6. Be moderate and regular in your habits.
7. Have a family and try to keep it close-knit.
8. Trust in God with a contented mind.

It also helps to be a woman. Six British women reach the 100-mark for every man who does so.

Almost all the centenarians questioned gave fresh air and regular habits as the reasons for their longevity. Nearly one in three attributed their centuries to hard work.

Practically all spoke from experience of work—one man in Staffordshire began his labors on a farm when he was 10 and kept on toiling until he was 80. The report on the centenarians was issued by the Deciduous Fruit Board, an organization of South African growers who send a gift of Cape grapes each year to every one of Britain's more than 800 centenarians.

A total of 324 centenarians answered the questionnaire sent with the grapes.

While some of the answers gave evidence of a hard and drab life, others had cheerful recollections.

One old lady told of her father as a soldier "in a red jacket, white buckskin belt, navy trousers with red stripes running down the sides."

The father of another was footman to a duchess and wore "blue and gold with silver braid, patent shoes, yellow stockings and blue plush britches."

One old gentleman's proudest memory was: "When my wife died, she thanked me for making her life so happy."

Nine out of 10 centenarians said they prefer savory foods. Chicken is the most popular dish, followed by roast beef and Yorkshire pudding, (a traditional English delicacy), fish and lamb.

Asked about their biggest moment, 25 per cent replied: "When I reached 100." This was followed by "My wedding day" and "When my first child was born." Other replies included:

Irishman, aged 100: "The day I got my first pair of shoes when I was 16 years of age."

Middlesex County woman, aged 100: "A dance at Kensington (London) Town Hall. Charlie Chaplin was dancing with me, and I couldn't dance."

Woman from Reading, County Berkshire, aged 102: "The birth of my first son, as I had no husband. Eighty years ago this was a calamity and a sin."

Woman from Glamorgan, Wales, aged 100: "Going out to India with my husband in 1904 to look after a leper colony."

Specific recipes for longevity were quite varied.

A 102-year-old Londoner recommended cycling. "I rode my bike until I was 95, he reported."

A Liverpool man, aged 104, attributed his great age to "eating onions."

A London woman, aged 100, said her answer is "no second helpings of food."

Another woman of 100, in Shrewsbury, County Shropshire, said that a big family is a big aid to longevity. She said she has 14 children, 20 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

Typical of the God-fearing centenarians was a woman in County Hampshire, aged 102, who recommended "a quiet mind, sustained with Christian faith and loving prayers."

Many of the centenarians had long memories, recalling their first day at school or their first visit to church.

One woman of 102, living in Leicester, in the English Midlands, remembered "returning from my brother's funeral when I was 3 years old."

Asked about the major improvements they had seen, more than a third plumped for the introduction of the welfare state in Britain—with care for everyone from womb to tomb. Others said transport 13 per cent; electricity 12 per cent; and television, radio and films 7 per cent. Other answers included roads, housing and medicine.

Only about a quarter of the centenarians are in hospitals of one kind or another. The rest stay with their families.

Names were not disclosed.

Raise Fish For Quality Control

ANDERSON, Calif. (AP)—One of the world's leading producers of paper products is raising fish for quality control.

When Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s paper and pulp mill began operating here in 1964, a major concern of state and local authorities, company officials and sportsmen was that the valuable salmon and steelhead fishing of the Sacramento river not be damaged. Monitoring instruments and outside laboratory reports proved effluent from the mill was safe. Yet the company wanted further proof that the 11 million gallons of water discharged daily into the river was not harmful to the fish.

So fish were asked to take the test.

On company property near the river, the company developed a bio-assay station consisting of five aquariums, each holding 60 gallons of water. Two dozen fingerling salmon are placed in each aquarium and subjected to concentrations of effluent 10, 20 or 30 times stronger than they would ever experience in the river. Later, the salmon are released into the Sacramento.

Not only do the fish suffer no ill effects from this artificially high concentration of paper mill effluent—the company has just won an award from the California Federation of Women's Clubs for its "effective pollution abatement program."

The bidding:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
3♦ Pass 4♥ Pass
4NT Pass 5♥ Pass
6♦ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♠ East delivered a knockout blow to South's vulnerable six diamond contract by grasping the slight prospect that was available to him at the outset.

The bidding was eminently sound. When South's two diamond response received an immediate raise, the latter felt warranted in making a slam try since he had a sound opening bid himself. His attempt took the form of a cue bid in clubs for, if North merely returned to four diamonds, it was his intention to settle for game.

North held the key ingredients for a slam effort—a virtually solid suit, good trumps, and second round control of the unbid suit, spades. He decided to use Blackwood as a check, and finding that the partnership was not missing two aces, he proceeded to six diamonds.

West opened the seven of spades and East topped dummy's queen with the ace. The outlook for the defense was exceedingly dim for, it was quite clear from South's response to the Blackwood inquiry that he held both missing aces, and after drawing trump he would shortly be in position to run the dummy's heart suit.

The only slim chance rested in West's holding a heart stopper, in which case East might prevent the run of the suit by forcing North's trump holding early. So reasoning, East continued with a small spade at trick two and dummy was obliged to trump with the five of diamonds.

Declarer drew trump in three rounds and then tried to run the hearts. When East showed out on the second lead, West was revealed to have a stopper in the suit. South attempted the club finesse next and when this failed, the slam was defeated.

If East had failed to continue the spades when he was in, declarer could have drawn trump, established the hearts by trumping away West's jack and then re-entered the North hand by ruffing a spade to discard his remaining losers on the long hearts.

Retired Liner Is 'Still The Queen'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—When she sailed the seas, the Queen Mary wore a four-inch white stripe across the 1,019 foot vessel to give extra protection from salt water and air at the water line.

Although the Queen Mary is being turned into a museum, hotel and convention center, the stripe will remain. One of the workmen, restoring the ship in drydock, said "She's still the queen, you know."

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today were mostly steady. Tops of 18.75-19.25 Rocky Mount, 18.25-19.00 Wilson; 18.00-19.00 Kinston, New Bern, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albemarle, Lumberton 18.25-18.75 Bethel; 17.75-18.75 Tarboro; 18.50 Selma, Greensboro, Salisbury, Goldsboro; 18.00 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market mounted a solid rally this afternoon, with trading active.

Pent-up cash reserves of institutional investors were being pumped into the market, analysts said, accounting for a major part of the rally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 2.3 at 331.9, with industrials up 2.7, rails up 2.9 and utilities off .5.

Softness in utilities and other "yield" stocks was accompanied by further easiness in U.S. Treasury bonds as new reports of rising interest rates was received.

Gains of fractions to around 3 points were spotted among the list of key stocks, but higher-priced issues made larger gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 6.19 at 902.51—re-crossing the supposed psychological barrier of the 900 line.

In the over-all stock list, gains outnumbered losses by nearly 8 to 3.

The rise took off from Tuesday's mild rally which cut short a strong of three sharp losses. The market was said to be responding anew to the surprising news that mutual funds held liquid reserves of $3.92 billion at the end of April, their largest cash position in history, despite heavy purchases last month.

Health Director Stepping Down

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Charles M. Cameron Jr. is stepping down July 1 as director of the office of comprehensive health planning in the state Department of Administration.

Gov. Dan Moore said Tuesday Cameron will become chairman of the Department of Health Administration at the University of Oklahoma.

Cameron, a professor of public health at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, has been on leave of absence from the university to serve in the state post during the past year.

Hawkins' Trial Goes On Today

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The trial of Dr. Reginald Hawkins, North Carolina's first Negro gubernatorial candidate, continued today before a Mecklenburg Superior Court jury of ten whites and two Negroes.

Hawkins, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, is charged with four felony counts of registering unqualified voters, and a misdemeanor count of interfering with the registrar.

The felony charges, which state Hawkins unlawfully registered illiterates during April 1966, could each result in 10-year prison terms. The second charge is a misdemeanor carrying a maximum sentence of two years in prison.

Most of Tuesday was occupied with the selection of a jury. Solicitor Elliott M. Schwartz used three of his four challenges, knocking two Negroes off the jury and Hawkins' defense attorneys used all six of their allotted challenges.

Also, presiding judge H. P. Bailey excused five jurors. Jury selection began after Bailey denied defense motions to dismiss the charges because of alleged violations of the defendant's rights, vagueness of the statutes involved and undue delay in bringing the case to court.

The case had been involved in a four-year trip through state and federal courts.

Only one witness took the stand Tuesday. Mrs. Samuel C. Hair, chairman of the Mecklenburg County Board of Elections, testified Hawkins had "no authority" to administer voter registration tests or take oaths at the time of the alleged violations.

will preach at Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church. The Gospel Chorus and the Senior Choir will render music.

Quarterly meeting will be conducted at Burney's Chapel conducted at Burney's Chapel. The Rev. Barrow will render services Saturday night at 7:30.

Les Gaylenettes Club will meet Thursday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Ruby Taylor, 411-A Hudson St.

Arrest A Second Man In Shooting

LANDIS, N.C. (AP) — A second man wanted in the wounding Monday night of Landis Police Chief Hoyle E. (Shorty) Roberts was arrested in Landis early today.

North Kannapolis Police Chief J. L. Bost, whose officers made the formal arrest, identified the man as Clayton Allen Martin, 30, of Charlotte. Previously arrested in the case was Jerome Roseboro, 19, also of Charlotte.

Both men were charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Roberts, shot in the abdomen and left arm, was taken off the critical list at Rowan Memorial Hospital at Salisbury this morning. Attaches there said he would recover barring complications.

Bost said Martin was arrested at the home of Harrison Beaver, a special deputy who was with Roberts when the police chief was shot. Beaver said he found Martin lying in his yard near a panel truck about 7:30 a.m.

The deputy, an electrician in private life, lives only a block from the downtown Landis drug store where the shooting occurred. Beaver said he held a shotgun on Martin while his wife called North Kannapolis officers. Lt. J. M. Watts and Patrolman P. E. Faircloth went to the Beaver home and took Martin into custody.

Beaver said Martin told him he broke his leg when he jumped from the roof of the drug store. The officer said Martin apparently hid in bushes in the rear of Beaver's home and had spent Tuesday night in the panel truck.

Martin was taken to the Salisbury hospital to have his leg placed in a cast.

Roberts was shot while he and Beaver were making a routine check of Landis stores. Beaver said the police chief was wounded by shots which came from the roof of the drug store.

Beaver, unarmed at the time, called for help on the police chief's radio and then remained with Roberts until an ambulance arrived.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. Ralph B. Williams, Alaska state bacteriologist, may be released from a hospital within two weeks with five bullets in his head.

Dr. Dudley J. Fournier said Williams, beaten in a mugging and then shot as he lay unconscious on a street the night of May 12, is walking around his room "looking better and better."

Williams, 57, was unaware he was shot until he went to Fournier the next afternoon complaining of a nagging headache. X rays disclosed the bullets in his head.

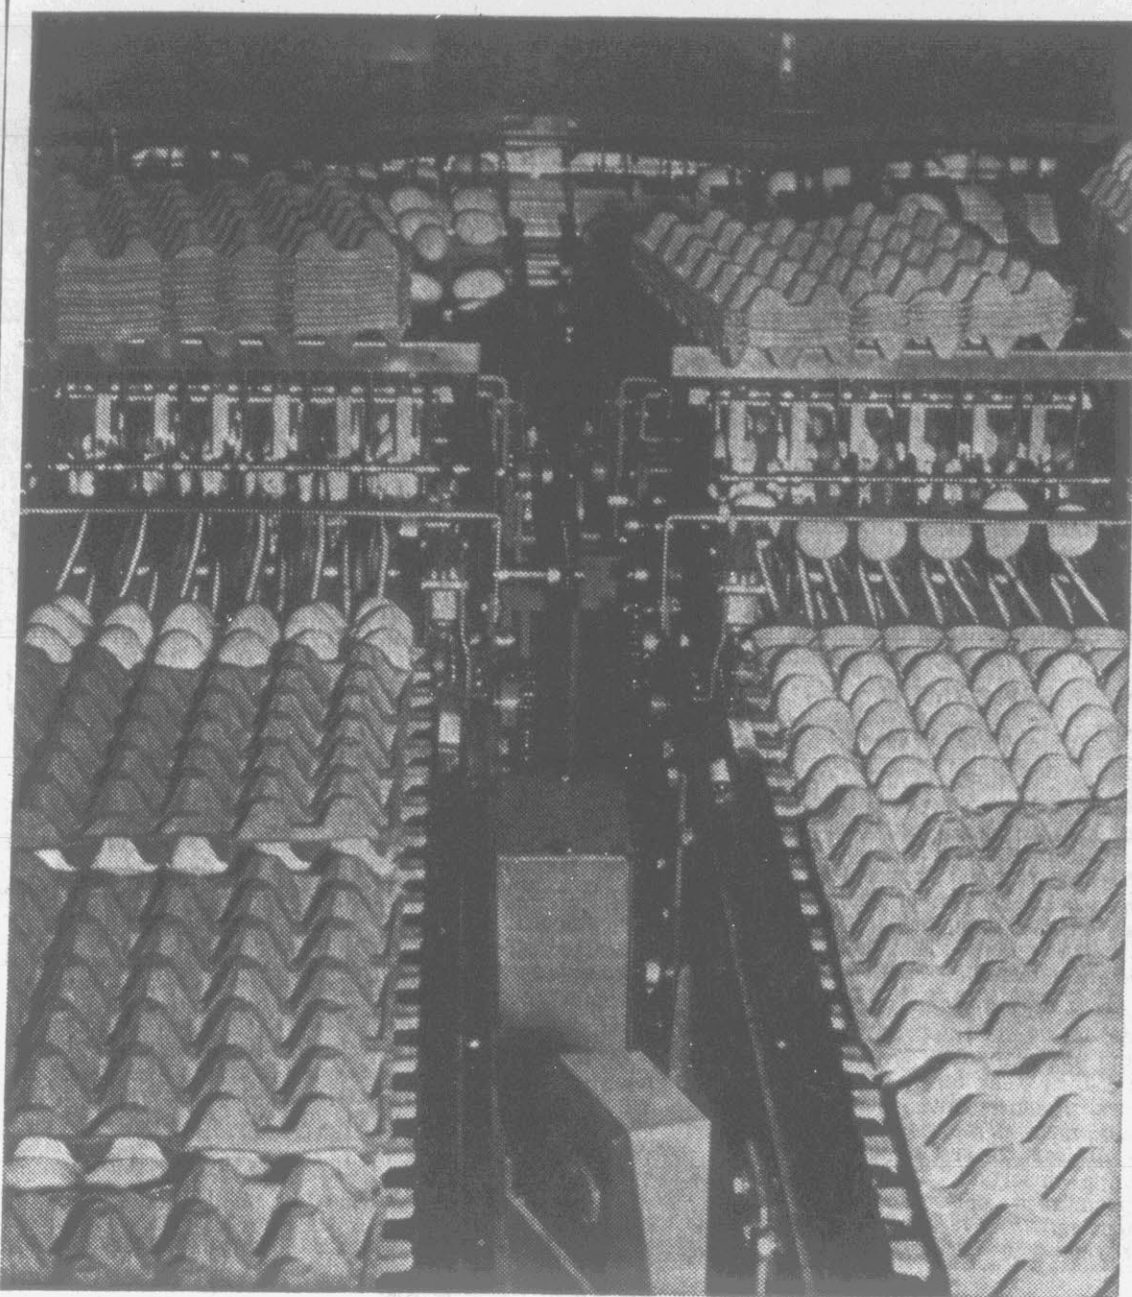

Fournier earlier had said the bullets would be sealed off by healing of the wounds and that it would be better not to attempt surgery unless it was required.

Library Board Reviews Project

The Sheppard Memorial Library Board met last night and reviewed progress of construction on the new addition to the facility.

Progress on the addition is about 10 to 15 per cent complete, and renovation work on the existing building is now underway.

The new construction and renovation work began about February and completion of the project is expected early next year.

Sunnyside Egg Co. Plant Here Has Formal Opening

"Three quarters of a million eggs roll through the Sunnyside Egg Company's Dickinson Ave. plant each week," visitors attending the formal opening were told yesterday.

A group of 35 made up of bankers, town officials, N.C. Dept. of Agriculture dignitaries, newsmen, and local agriculture specialists, toured the Dickinson Ave. plant and the company laying farm and then had a luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

At the Dickinson Ave. plant the visitors saw eggs coming in from the farms being washed, graded, candled, and then packed.

The group went from the processing plant to the company laying farm where 48,000 laying hens are housed. During the tour, the group watched feeding and egg-gathering operations.

From the company farm, the group went by charter bus to the Greenville Country Club where N.C. Commissioner of Agriculture James A. Graham delivered the keynote address after a luncheon.

Graham ended his speech saying, "I like eggs, I like people, and I like my job as Commissioner of Agriculture." Company officials stated that gross egg sales in Pitt County total about $1.5 million dollars annually, and that an additional one and three quarters million dollars business is generated annually as a result of Sunnyside Egg Co.'s operations.

Questions Answered At ECU Mall Meeting

A protest meeting of East Carolina University students Monday was neither unsanctioned nor disorderly, according to ECU officials and Student Government Association President David Lloyd.

Reports terming the meeting as "unsanctioned" and as a "demonstration" are false, officials said.

At issue was the belief by some students that professors with tenure had been dismissed without explanation. The question arose when a handbill was distributed in which it was claimed that eight professors, allegedly members of a grievance committee, had been dismissed. Six of the professors, the handbill said, did not have tenure.

Dr. Robert Williams, dean of academic affairs, said today that "no tenured persons, in fact nobody, has been dismissed. We have told no tenured person he could not come back next year."

The handbill, Dr. Williams said, "was wrong."

The meeting, which was attended by Dr. Williams and by Dr. John Howell, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, was planned with the knowledge of the administration. Dr. Williams and Dr. Howell were both invited to attend.

Lloyd, Dr. Williams and Dr. Howell all agreed that the meeting was orderly, productive, and well-disciplined. Lloyd presided at a question and answer session which, Dr. Williams said, left the students well satisfied.

Some 70 to 100 students and about 15 faculty members were on hand for the meeting, conducted on the Mall at ECU.

President Dr. Leo Jenkins, who had been invited to attend, was unable to do so because of a meeting of the Board of Trustees at the same time.

"The meeting had absolutely no connection with the Board of Trustees meeting," Dr. Williams noted.

Officers Of PTA Council Installed

E. R. Carraway was installed last night as president of the Greenville City PTA Council for the 1968-69 school year.

Other officers named included: Mrs. W. D. Cannon, vice president; Mrs. Morris Brody, secretary; and Howard Shearin Jr., treasurer.

Bob Messner, outgoing president, gave a brief resume of the past year's activities of the council. The major project of the council was the Public Forum presented on the East Carolina University campus for the candidates for the office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Entertainment was furnished by the "Hines Cousins," a group composed of David and Alice Hines, Jo Ann Hines and Guylla Corbett.

Highlights of the variety program were impersonations of "Homer and Jethro" and "Cousin Minnie Pearl."

Company officials stated that gross egg sales in Pitt County total about $1.5 million dollars annually, and that an additional one and three quarters million dollars business is generated annually as a result of Sunnyside Egg Co.'s operations.

Graham ended his speech saying, "I like eggs, I like people, and I like my job as Commissioner of Agriculture."
