

Russian-Built Craft Believed Downed

Red Helicopters In DMZ Area

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military headquarters said today that aircraft "suspected to be enemy helicopters" were fired on during the weekend near the demilitarized zone that divides Vietnam.

A brief announcement added that a daylight reconnaissance was made today to ascertain damage and obtain other information, but "no results are available."

The statement from the military command tended to partly confirm other reports that from 2 to 12 Russian-built helicopters had been downed over the weekend south of the DMZ.

However, the announcement from U.S. headquarters said the aircraft were sighted by radar near the eastern end of the DMZ and north of the Ben Hai river, meaning that they were over the demilitarized zone itself or to the north.

Vietnamese military sources said the helicopters were downed by artillery and U.S. Navy F4 Phantom jets Saturday and Sunday.

If true, this would be the first time any enemy helicopters have been downed in South Vietnam.

It was not known whether the enemy craft were lifting troops or material or were on a reconnaissance mission.

The Vietnamese sources gave this account:

Three turbo-powered, single-rotor Mi4 helicopters, capable of carrying 14 combat troops or about 2½ tons of cargo, were shot down along the coast by allied artillery Saturday night.

Sunday night the North Vietnamese tried to slip another flight of the choppers down the coast, but the Navy Phantoms pounced on them. Nine were shot from the sky, and one exploded before crashing into the sea, indicating it was carrying ammunition.

Six in all were downed in the South China Sea, one crashed on the beach and two went down farther inland.

U.S. Air Force planes spotted and destroyed four Mi4 helicopters and two of the huge Soviet Mi6 helicopters last Oct. 6 at a field 30 miles west of Hanoi.

In the ground war, grenade-throwing South Vietnamese troops raced from bunker to bunker to wipe out a Viet Cong stronghold in a Saigon suburb.

The elite Special Forces troops, brought to Saigon to free a hamlet held by the Viet Cong for two weeks, killed 30 guerrillas and drove 100 others into rice fields along the Saigon River. They took 15 prisoners.

Only a few of the Green Beret soldiers were wounded in the daring night assault after two days of frustrating repulses.

The Viet Cong on May 24 sent some 800 men into the hamlet, a collection of pleasant villas and garden plots in the suburb of Gia Dinh about three miles northeast of the center of Saigon. Government troops blocked their advance, and at least one battalion dug in and prepared bunkers through an area of three-fourths of a square mile.

Government paratroopers and marines attempted to cordon off the area, and on Friday about 400 of the Special Forces troops with their American advisers made two frontal attacks. They were driven back, and Saturday they called in tanks and helicopters spewing tear gas. Two tanks fired from close in at the bunkers but were forced back by a hail of antitank rockets.

Sunday night the Special Forces battalion divided into squads of 12 to 15 men, loaded up with hand grenades and dashed forward. They cut communications between the bunkers and then destroyed them one by one with the grenades.

They fired their rifles only when they spotted enemy soldiers trying to escape. Most of the prisoners were taken when they ran into the cordon around the area.

Government paratroopers meanwhile splintered a fresh Viet Cong battalion that tried to relieve the beleaguered force over the weekend. In fighting about a mile to the north the paratroopers killed 90 Viet Cong, the Vietnamese command said.

U.S. troops of the 1st Infantry Division killed another 25 enemy soldiers Sunday in a battle seven miles northeast of Saigon. And U.S. troops of the 25th Division repulsed an attack before dawn Sunday and said they killed 52 of the enemy, while three Americans were killed and 32 were wounded.

Red Rockets Are Brought Through Laos, Cambodia

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Viet Cong rockets bombarding Saigon were brought into South Vietnam from Cambodia storage areas in sampans moving at night along jungle-shrouded waterways, according to U. S. intelligence sources.

When the sampans, each carrying four or five of the weapons, arrive at a designated point in South Vietnam, they are sunk—with the rockets—until the Viet Cong are ready to use them.

From prisoner interrogation and other sources of information, American intelligence specialists have pieced together a pattern indicating how the North Vietnamese are able to send the weapons deep into South Vietnam, to the point where they can be hurled against that country's capital and its population.

The rockets, mostly 122 millimeter, come down from Vietnam by truck, passing through the Laotian panhandle, U. S. officials say, and on into Cambodia where they are stored near the South Vietnamese border.

They are then carried across the border along any of the more than 1,300 miles of waterways reaching from Cambodia into the Saigon region.

Hundreds of sampans are said to operate along these streams for the Viet Cong.

carrying rice as well as weapons and other supplies from Cambodia. Moving mostly at night, the boats are hard to spot.

The Cambodian government, which professes neutrality, repeatedly has denied that its soil is being used as a supply and troop base by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

The waterways are running deep now, experts said, because of the rains and this creates favorable conditions for their use as supply routes into South Vietnam.

At the appointed time, the Viet Cong raise the sunken boats, take the rockets from their containers and then move them into firing position.

Weapons experts of the Army Materiel Command estimate that it takes less than five minutes to set up a rocket, fire it and then be gone.

The rocket is described as "an area weapon," that is there is no way to aim it against pinpoint targets. Rather, it is pointed generally at a large target, such as a city or town, and fired.

Big Donors' Preference Is Disavowed

DURHAM (AP)— Republican gubernatorial nominee Jim Gardner said today a letter sent from his office last month offering preferential treatment to anyone donating $1,000 or more to his campaign fund was done without his knowledge.

Gardner said he never approved the letter and that if elected there would be no special favors for any individual or group.

He made his remarks at the opening of his new Durham County headquarters.

At a news conference, Gardner said, "Several weeks ago a letter was sent out by a member of my staff soliciting money for my campaign. That letter was mailed without my knowledge or approval. Because of this, I have personally written each person receiving the letter to inform them of this error and to again make my position absolutely clear."

He added, "Under my administration, there will be no special favors for any individual or group. Favoritism has been practiced far too long in the State of North Carolina, and I plan, as governor of this state, to put a stop to government being run for the interests of a few people."

It was said the letter was sent from Gardner's office by Bill Dansey urging supporters to contribute to and join a "Winner's for Gardner Club."

Fish Kill

BREVARD, N. C. (AP) — Approximately 25,000 pounds of fish have been poisoned at Pisgah Forest National Fish Hatchery and on Davidson River. It was the second such poisoning in less than a year.

Zeb Palmer, wildlife aid fire control agent for the national forest, said some 250,000 fish in the hatchery were destroyed.

The possible total killed in the river is undetermined. Practically all of the dead fish were first-year stockers and will affect next year's stocking program.

Palmer said a neutralizing agent is being used in an attempt to offset the poison, which was dumped into the water above the dam located above the hatchery.

The FBI and U. S. Forest Service are investigating the poisoning, which was discovered about 8:30 a.m. today.

More than 500 pounds of fish were killed July 6, 1967 in a five-mile stretch of Davidson River.

NCTA Refuses NCEA Merger

RALEIGH (AP) — The Negro North Carolina Teachers Association has refused to agree to a merger plan with the white North Carolina Education Association, saying the NCEA would absorb NCTA instead of merging with it.

Elliott B. Palmer, executive secretary of NCTA, said if the NCEA is "serious about merging with NCTA instead of absorbing it, is NCEA willing to make the necessary agreements to effectuate a true merger?"

"Or will its leadership hold to the position that this merger plan is all their members are willing to give to the Negro teachers?"

Palmer said the proposed merger plan was worked out by a liaison committee with members from both associations.

He said, "This plan contains essentially all of the provisions of the old NCEA constitution and doesn't change anything basically about the NCEA's structure. In order to have one strong association representative of all educators some complete changes need to be made in both present associations."

NCEA members have approved the current merger plan and would like to implement it by September. NCTA directors, however, want to postpone merger until September, 1969, so changes can be made in the plan.

One of the proposals by NCTA calls for the vice president of the merged association to be president elect and for the officers to be rotated on the basis of race.

The merger plan approved by NCEA calls for the first president to come from NCEA and first vice president from NCTA. After that both would come from members at large.

Dr. A. C. Dawson, NCEA executive secretary, said today his board of directors won't meet again until August and will consider the NCTA proposals then.

Decision Upholds Jailing Drunks

WASHINGTON (AP)—A divided Supreme Court refused today to prohibit the jailing of chronic alcoholics for public drunkenness.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, pronouncing the court's judgment said: "The inescapable fact is that there is no agreement among members of the medical profession about what it means to say that 'alcoholism' is a 'disease'."

He added: "It would be tragic to return large numbers of helpless, sometimes dangerous and frequently unsanitary inebriates to the streets of our cities without even the opportunity to sober up adequately which a brief jail term provides."

Four justices dissented. They are Abe Fortas, William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Potter Stewart.

Before the Supreme Court acted, the U. S. Circuit Courts for the District of Columbia and the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina made chronic alcoholism a complete defense to a public drunkenness charge.

Six years ago the Supreme Court found the Eight Amendment's prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment a barrier to punishment of people for addiction to drugs alone.

Safe Cracked

An undetermined amount of money was reported taken in a safe robbery Sunday at the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company plant here.

The safe cracking was reported to police at 2:50 p.m.

Detectives said entrance to the safe was gained by cutting holes—with metal cutting tools—in the door of the safe, then reaching inside and opening the vault from the inside.

Attempts to go through the rear and side walls of the safe were made but were not successful, police reported.

Entrance to the building was apparently gained through a rear door.

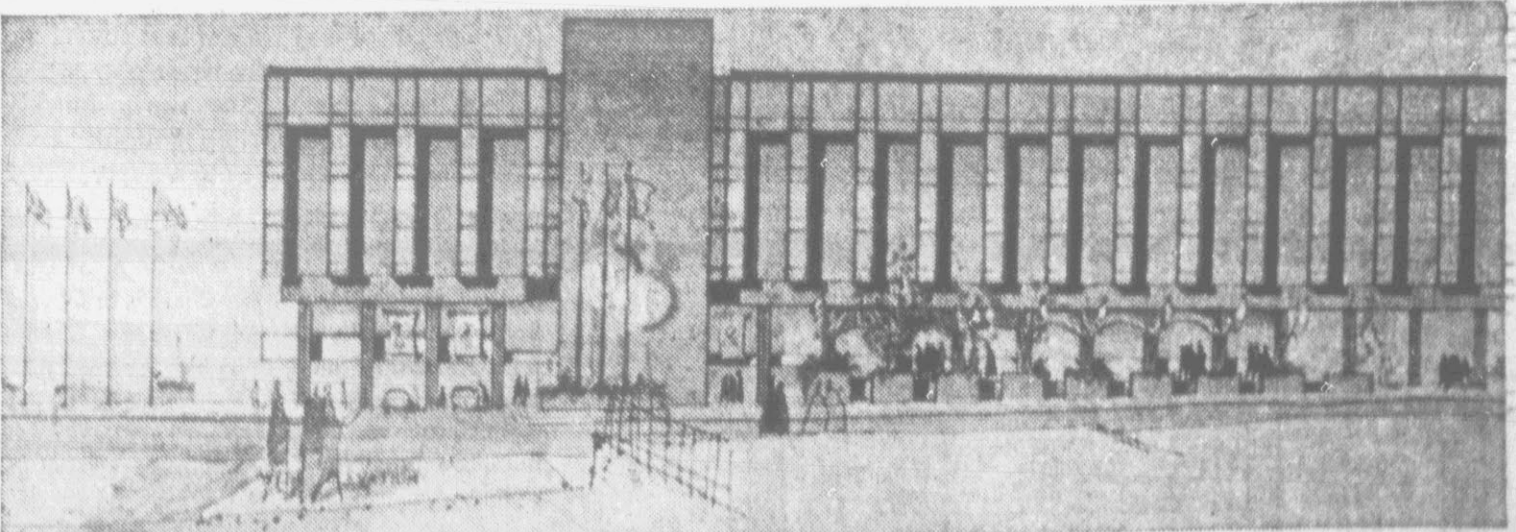

Investigation of the robbery is continuing.

Bob Hope Told Rest 10 Days

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope will rest at home for at least 10 days after receiving treatment for a recurring ailment in his left eye.

Hope, 65, underwent photocoagulation treatment Saturday at St. Vincent's Hospital in Los Angeles. The process consists of directing a powerful light into the eye to cauterize a ruptured blood vessel and stop hemorrhaging.

A Look At Things To Come

NEW MOTEL . . . The proposed four story motel to be built on Evans Street between First and Second Streets will look like this artist's conception when completed. Final working drawings are not yet finished, but construction is expected to start in the near future. The motel will contain 72 units, elevators, an indoor swimming pool, and a restaurant. Construction is expected to take six to eight months.

Sorbonne Falls To The Gendarmes

PARIS (AP) — The Sorbonne, symbol of France's student revolt, fell to the gendarmes Sunday after a month's occupation, and today a student organization said it would halt street fighting, recognizing "that the students alone cannot continue the battle without support."

Angry students had battled the police again in the Latin Quarter Sunday night after the authorities had forced out the last 150 occupiers, hauled down the red and black flags of revolution and anarchy, and run up the French blue, white and red tricolor.

A break was also apparently at hand among striking auto-workers, die-hard holdouts of last month's national strike. About 65,000 workers at the state-run Renault plants were reported voting in favor to return to work on the basis of a 10 per cent salary increase by Oct. 1 and reduction of their work week.

The National Students Union — UNEF — made its declaration of peaceful intentions, barring further "provocation," while police hygiene squads began cleaning up what they said was an "indescribable mess" in the Sorbonne. Classes are expected to resume in a week.

The lecture halls were strewn with stale bits of bread, rotten apples, empty bottles and other trash. The library was a shambles.

New Bern Beauty Is Miss North Carolina

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Elisa Annette Johnson, who won the 1969 Miss North Carolina contest with a convincing rendition of the song "As Long As He Needs Me," says she didn't think a singer would win.

"I didn't have any idea that I would win (with) that," said the 5-foot-8 brunette from New Bern. "The other three nights, a singer had won. I didn't think that the judges would be looking for another singer."

The 19-year-old East Carolina University coed, was chosen over 86 other girls just before midnight Saturday.

Miss Johnson, who goes by Anita, has large brown eyes and delicate facial features accented by an olive complexion. She weighs 117 pounds and measures 36-24-36.

She studied speech, speech therapy and public relations as a freshman at ECU, but wants to become a professional singer.

"In the 10th grade," she said Sunday, "I had a chance to sign a recording contract with RCA. But I decided and my parents agreed, that I wasn't mature enough or secure enough of myself to stand up for my beliefs in the sophisticated surroundings I would have met in show business."

"We decided that if I was good enough that another opportunity would come along," she added.

Anita will represent North Carolina in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City in September.

For winning the state contest, Anita will receive 3,000 in scholarships, $500 in cash and the use of a new automobile.

Other winners included: First runnerup, Miss Morehead City, Jemma Devane Seiter, who played a piano rendition of "Autumn Leaves."

Second runnerup, Miss Charlotte — Mecklenburg, Deborah Jean Haan, who played the piano solo "Fantaisie Impromptu" by Chopin.

Most talented nonfinalist, Miss Apex, Patricia Ann Hary, who performed a ballet.

Best song and novelty award, Miss Raleigh, Elizabeth Sherwood, who used three stacks of building blocks and stuffed animals as a background to the 1968 Academy Award-winning song "Talk to the Animals."

Miss Congeniality, Miss Rocky Mount, Susan Montague Beard.

New Miss N.C., 3 Other Finalists, Of ECU

Four finalists in last week's state beauty pageant, including the new Miss North Carolina, Elisa Annette Johnson, are either students at or have attended East Carolina University.

Miss Johnson, a 19-year-old sophomore at ECU, was crowned Miss North Carolina of 1969 Saturday night in Charlotte.

The brown-haired beauty queen, whose one-year reign will interrupt her studies at ECU, competed as Miss New Bern. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl D. Johnson of New Bern.

Two other finalists, Sheila Dianne Fann of Clinton and Myra Lucille Davis of Boone, are also students at East Carolina.

Miss Fann, a 22-year-old senior, is the daughter of Mrs. Hazel W. Fann of Box 152, Clinton. She is a music major at ECU.

Miss Davis is a sophomore and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle H. Davis of 306 Crest Drive, Boone. She represented Watauga County in the beauty contest.

Another finalist, Martha Wood Meeks, Miss Eden, is a former student at East Carolina. Miss Meeks, 19, studied art for two quarters at ECU and is now a student at Rockingham Community College.

In last week's pageant the new Miss North Carolina, who is studying speech and drama at East Carolina, was the only double winner in preliminary competition. Miss Johnson was a preliminary talent winner on Friday night and a swimsuit winner Tuesday night.

Chevelle prices not only start a full $100 less than other mid-size cars—it's more car.

We've thought of things for Chevelle that other mid-size cars would like you to forget.

For instance, that taut-lined package above gives you a ride that rivals bigger higher priced cars. (That's because we thought to give it Full Coil suspension. And a separate frame with a computer-refined mounting system cushioning its Body by Fisher.)

The choice of engines and transmissions you have is the greatest in Chevelle's field. And if you're a performance buff, you'll find we did some thinking on your wave length: black-grilled SS 396's with Turbo-Jet V8 power you can order up to 350 horses strong.

You also get more ways of putting your personal stamp on a Chevelle than any other mid-size car offers. Take wheel covers alone. You can order simulated wire ones. Or mag-style. Or mag-spoke. Or rally-type.

Even so, Chevelle prices start a full $100 under any competitive mid-size cars. How's that for a parting thought!

If the Shoe Fits

 BY LARRY AVERETTE

Will snug shoes stretch?
 Shoes that are a trifle narrow may 'give' enough to become comfortable. Shoe repairmen now have a chemical solution that helps stretch leather.
 The need, however, is usually for added length since feet grow in length, more than in width. The chief obstacle to successfully stretching shoes lengthwise is a steel shank which is put in a shoe to strengthen the arch of the shoe (not the foot). A stretcher that would stretch the steel would pull the shoe apart.
 Shoes should fit snugly around the heel and arch of the foot to prevent the heel sliding up and down in the shoe as you walk, causing blisters or callouses. With a snugly fitting heel, the toes can enjoy roominess without pressing forward and cramping in the toe of the shoe.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Bullock and invited to the dining room.

The table was covered with a handmade lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow gladioli and silver candelabra.

Mrs. Ed Frizzelle presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Carl Lamons of Columbia served cake after the bridal couple had cut the first slice.

Tell Him The Visit Isn't Convenient

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 13 years, and our problem is his brother who lives in another state. Every summer this brother (single) comes to "visit" us for a whole month. We do not invite him, and he doesn't ask if it's okay for him to come. He has his mother write and tell us when to expect him.

My husband and I would like to put an end to his visits because we don't enjoy his company that much. In fact, he is a real pain in the neck. We're afraid if we don't do it right his mother and the rest of the family will think we are inhospitable.

One year when were expecting our oldest daughter and her new - born baby, we wrote and told him we couldn't have him at that time, but he came anyway and just sat around to be cooked for and waited on. Can you help us?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO: YES! Write and tell him that it is not convenient for you to have him THIS SUMMER. It may seem cold and inhospitable, but feeling as you do, it's better than having a "guest" of his description sitting around for a month.

DEAR ABBY: This woman my husband jogs with is beginning to worry me. She isn't even a neighbor. She drives five miles every morning (and at 7 o'clock!) just to jog with my husband.

Dont' tell me to jog with them. I'm no jogger. Do you think I have anything to worry about?

JOGGER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Not as long as they keep jogging.

DEAR ABBY: I just read something in your column that hit me close to home. You said, "If parents want to be noble and stay together because of the kids, they should be a little more noble and not let the kids know it. It makes them feel guilty."

Abby, parents who stay together because of the kids can't hide it. The kids know something is wrong. You see, our parents had this crazy idea that they owned it to us to put up a front. I guess you would call it, and stay together until we were grown. We knew they didn't really love each other.

Well, 4 years ago they got the divorce they should have gotten long before. Since then we have all been much happier. We spend time with both our parents.

Dad is remarried and is very happy. Mom is going with someone and it looks serious. If they had waited until we were all grown it might have been too late for them to build another life for themselves.

I am 18 and a freshman in college, and the two younger ones are in high and junior high. I can't speak for all kids, but I know this way is better for us. Parents shouldn't feel that they have to sacrifice their own happiness for their kids.

HAPPIER NOW

DEAR ABBY: That woman who complained because she got an electric dishwasher for Mother's day really got my goat. I don't have one and I'm not complaining because I have two good strong hands with which to wash my dishes. That's more than I can say for sister who is so crippled with arthritis she can hardly bend her fingers, poor dear soul.

NO COMPLAINTS

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069.

Before repainting in mildew problem areas, wash the area with a quality mildew cleaner. Painting over the area alone will not kill the fungi and will result in poor paint performance. Mildew cleaners come in liquid, powder and tablet form. They are dissolved in water.

Statistics Don't Tell Whole Story

When reports show that industrial unemployment in North Carolina has dipped to an almost unprecedented low point of 1.7 per cent, it may be an indication of problems as well as extremely good times for the state.

In its report for the past month, the state's Employment Security Commission shows that industrial unemployment in North Carolina dropped to 1.7 per cent for the first time in 23 years. Not since 1945 has the figure been so low. The figure points to more than just full employment among industrial workers of the state. It suggests that North Carolina is not keeping pace with the needs of its manufacturing firms in terms of manpower, and that a shortage of workers probably exists.

To move a step further, however, it is generally recognized that in spite of these figures from the ESC, there are still a good many people in North Carolina who do not have jobs at all, and others whose jobs are marginal at best. These, of course, do not show up in the ESC figures on industrial employment.

North Carolina finds itself on the horns of a dilemma. On the one hand it needs new industry to provide manufacturing jobs so badly lacking in some sections of the state. On the other hand its employment service asserts there is practically no unemployment among industrial workers of the state. This very fact suggest that new industries, if they came to the state, might not find employees to fill their needs.

Few industries are anxious to locate in areas where there is any question of whether there will be sufficient qualified people to fill the new jobs they offer.

The answer, perhaps, is that North Carolina's unemployed are not industrial workers, but rather those who hope that some day they may have the opportunity to become so classified by the ESC. And most of these live in areas where their opportunity to become industrial workers have been severely limited by the lack of industrial jobs available.

State's Library Service Studied

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Five public hearings have been conducted across the state by the state's legislative committee studying support of public libraries. This commission headed by David Strick of Kitty Hawk includes State Sens. Mary Faye Brumby of Cherokee and Hector MacLean of Robeson and Reps. Charles W. Phillips of Guilford and Thomas E. Strickland of Wayne.

It is studying the pattern of financing public library services and attempting to determine sources of support and limitations imposed by inadequate funds and legal restrictions on tax levies for libraries. The findings thus far indicate that in most cases, public library support in North Carolina is woefully weak and consequently most public library programs are inadequate to meet community needs.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, has announced research development of a spray product that disperses oil slicks without harming fish or other marine life, and presumably would help prevent fouling of beaches.

This has been — and continues to be — a major problem in a number of areas along the North Carolina coast. Tests of the dispersant product indicate little effect upon fish and sharp mortality at concentrations as high as 10,000 parts per million in sea water. Normally, commercial detergents in concentrations as low as 15 to 30 part million kill marine life.

How It Works

Based on laboratory data, dispersant can disperse and spill.

It works this way. An oil slick forms a cohesive, intact film. The dispersant acts to break up the film into small droplets and tends to prevent the droplets from forming a slick again. The dispersant may be applied from a small boat or airplane through a small spray nozzle. Slicks thus treated disappear within seconds.

Hodges Book

Who was the man making the "big phone call" to Luther Hodges in 1951?

The message to Hodges, urging him to run for Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina, came from a "friend", whose name has been hitherto undisclosed.

Luther Hodges did not reveal in his book "Businessman in the Stateshouse" the identity of the man who challenged him to cast his hat in the ring — an act that propelled Hodges into state, and later national, political life.

It is merely stated in the earlier autobiography that someone phoned Hodges, saying he ought to declare himself for the second biggest job in the state, a position that became the biggest when Gov. William B. Umstead died.

However, in the 1968 biography entitled "Luther H. Hodges, Practical Idealist," written by Pete Ivey of Chapel Hill, the name of Hodges' adviser is divulged.

It was B. Everett Jordan, now U. S. Senator from North Carolina. Ivey writes of Luther Hodges' affairs after he returned from West Germany where he had successfully completed more than a year of Marshall Plan rehabilitation work.

Powell Trying Again

By LES CARSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell, who was ousted from Congress and then won re-election but failed to claim his seat, goes before the voters of Harlem again Tuesday. And he's an overwhelming favorite to win renomination.

His opponent in the Democratic primary is John Young, 52, a former member of Powell's staff.

Whether the flamboyant Powell, who is 59, actually returns to Washington is still subject to question, even though few in Harlem doubt he will win renomination and re-election.

Congress may again refuse to seat him. Or, as he did after the last election, he may not claim his seat. Or he may get caught up in complications stemming from a drawn-out state court action involving a libel suit he lost.

Powell has ruled the 18th Congressional District for over two decades of late from self-exile on Bimini, the preacher-politician's own sunny Elba in the Bahamas.

Many Harlem voters feel Powell got a "raw deal" in 1967, when Congress expelled him, overriding a select committee that had recommended censure and a fine.

Powell had held his House seat for 22 years before expulsion on charges of misusing public funds and flouting New York state courts in the libel judgment case.

After the expulsion, Harlem sent Powell back to Washington — he won re-election overwhelmingly in a special election last year. However, he didn't try to reclaim his seat. He said he wouldn't go back as a freshman and demanded restoration of the seniority that had made him chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

Powell didn't appear in Harlem during that campaign. He once said that his followers would elect him "until I die, and even after I'm dead, I think some of you will write my name in."

Until recently, no one seriously challenged him on that. No one could match the personality of the pastor of the 10,000-member Abyssinian Baptist Church.

Last March, Powell came back to Harlem, after being granted freedom from arrest for contempt of court. He paraded through the crowded streets, a hero returned. In April, Young, a former public relations aide, entered the primary against Powell.

Campaigning hard with limited funds, Young has tried to take advantage of growing resentment to Powell's long absences from home and of reported opposition within Powell's church.

"I honestly don't see much of a John Young vote," says State Sen. Basil A. Paterson of Harlem. And, Paterson adds, much of the anti-Powell sentiment can be dispersed by one more stroll by Powell up teeming Seventh Avenue.

"This is the time of year when college students return home — as soon as they've made bail." — Anniston (Ala.) Star.

Little To Gain With Presidential Primary

North Carolina stands to gain little by joining the list of states which participate in a presidential primary spree every four years.

Having had its first taste of an election year with two state-wide party primaries, North Carolinians should be able to imagine what kind of campaign confusion there might be with a couple of presidential primaries heaped on top of two gubernatorial races, two senatorial races, not to mention a whole forest full of candidates in both parties for lesser state and local offices.

The value of presidential preferential primaries is highly questionable so far as the respective candidates are concerned and so far as the voters themselves are concerned. More than anything else the primaries provide stumping grounds from which hopefuls may debate and discuss issues for the nation at large. Primary results become more important for the influence they may have in other states than for the convention delegate votes they may secure for the candidates in the states where the primary is held.

North Carolina has gotten along well with its two political parties selecting convention delegates without resorting to the primary system. It would be wise for the state to continue this pattern.

Nixon Avoiding Other Editors Saying Racist Problem

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The unintentionally revealing speech delivered in Jackson, Miss., June 1 by Howard (Bo) Callaway and the thundering silence in response to it from the Nixon high command tell much about Republican Presidential politics in the Deep South today.

Gallaway, just named as Richard M. Nixon's Southern regional coordinator, told the Mississippi Republican convention that "perhaps we can get George Wallace on our side. That's where he belongs." He next suggested that Nixon is a "constitutional conservative" — a Southern codeword connoting reliability to the racial question. The Mississippians loved it.

Actually, Nixon is no Wallaceite and, unlike Barry Goldwater in 1964, wants no reapproachment with George Wallace. Indeed, key Nixon staffers were most upset by Callaway's indiscretion (particularly when Gov. Nelson Rockefeller brought it up at his National Press Club speech). Yet, at this writing, the Nixon high command is hoping the incident will pass without the need to rebuke Callaway.

What makes this significant is that Southern Goldwater stalwarts such as Callaway who now carry the Nixon banner have not altered their lily-white brand of politics in the slightest. James Martin, the Alabama Republican who served as a Goldwater-Wallace intermediary in 1964, made this clear in a little-noticed incident this year.

A party workshop under the auspices of the Republican National Committee was scheduled for Birmingham, but Martin announced he was withdrawing from it because Dr. John Nixon, Negro and state president of the NAACP, was on one of the panels. Easily spooked by intra-party rumblings, National Chairman Ray Bliss cancelled the workshop.

Moreover, Martin is backed by Alabama's extremist and racist elements in his race for Republican National Committeeman against John Grenier, who represents the more progressive forces in the state party. Yet Nixon recently appeared in page one photographs of Birmingham newspapers in earnest conversation with Jim Martin.

Nor does Nixon feel constrained to speak out against lily-white delegations from the Deep South which, as in 1964, will go to the Republican National Convention. Despite the potential for Republican gains among Negroes in Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama, delegations from those states will contain no black faces.

Just how little interested the Southern Republicans are in Negro votes is seen in

Committee On Violence

WASHINGTON — "The Subcommittee on Violence will come to order. Will someone please turn off that television set?"

"Sorry, I was fascinated by a commercial of two people kidnapping a car dealer and stealing the car. It's rather an extraordinary way to sell cars."

"Well, we don't have time to discuss that now. We have to get down to the business of violence. Senator, do you mind putting down that magazine? We're ready to begin the meeting. Senator..."

"Huh? Oh — excuse me. Look at this. Here is a carbine for sale by mail for only $26. How the blazes do they do it?"

"Probably some foreign make. My constituents are furious at the flood of foreign guns coming into this country."

"I don't blame them. If you're an American gun lover, the least you can do is buy American."

Other Editors Saying Ruling Is Good One

(Sanford Herald)

Aside from the disadvantage of working more an already overworked department, the Post Office's ruling this week that all guns shipped parcel post must be labeled "firearms" and that they will not be delivered until the addressee's police chief is notified is a good one. It is at least a stop-gap for the flow of guns by mail until the country can see clearly and unemotionally what controls are sensible in the accessibility of deadly weapons by the general populace.

Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson issued his directive as the Senate received bills to ban all mail order sales of shotguns and rifles and to register all guns and license every gun owner in the United States.

Glassen, president of the influential National Rifle Association, said that as a lawyer he considered Watson's order unconstitutional. He also said the bills to register guns and license owners corroborated the NRA's belief that proponents of tight gun controls seek to ultimately confiscate all privately owned firearms.

Law today prohibits pistols and revolvers from being shipped through the mails — they must be shipped via express — and a bill now awaiting the President's signature would prevent all mail order hand guns sales.

Speaking to the National Press Club, Postmaster General Watson said that effective immediately "firearms shipped through the mails must be clearly labeled with the word: 'firearms.' If the shipment is not so labeled, it will not be accepted in the mails."

However, a Post Office Department spokesman pointed out that the government has no enforcement powers and if a mailer did not label the package there was nothing the department could do about it.

It seems to us that citizens who want to keep access to guns by mail ought happily to go along with the Post Office's reasonable suggestion. If they want only their Constitutional right to bear arms, they will be pleased to indicate it is for peaceful reason by complying with the rule of labeling. Unfortunately, those who would do harm by gun are those who would disobey the rule. It poses the question of what real good the Post Office's willingness to cooperate will accomplish. It, too, adds to the work and responsibility of the local police chiefs.

New Auto Sales Face Hurdles

By ELMER ROESSNER

New auto sales may be difficult to maintain at present rates.

Two major reasons:

Interest rates on instalments have been raised sharply. Most big banks have increased rates from $5.25 to $5.50 per $100 a year. Since these rates are on total borrowed, and loans are paid off in monthly payments, the effective rates is actually about 11 per cent. Some finance companies charge higher rates which, with various fees and insurance on the borrower's life, can bring the costs up to 15 per cent or more.

The threat of the income surtax itself, which could be effective July 1, will cause many families to look again at their budgets. Shaved take-home pay may cause many to consider postponing new cars.

Countervailing Forces

On the other hand, two factors may help sales now. They are:

Next year's models are certain to cost more, with higher wages for steel, aluminum and other workers being packed into the new prices. Costs of safety devices will buy 1968 models, even late in the season.

The round of higher wages sweeping through business will give many workers a feeling of greater buying power, making them willing to contract new car payments.

Here are other look-aheads in business:

A new device to compact garbage will shortly be unveiled. It will reduce garbage to one-tenth its mass, reducing disposal problems.

Marshall McLuhan, the controversial economist who told the world that "the medium is the message," will soon launch a new newsletter, called the most startling one ever printed, "warning" businessmen and government of trends ahead.

The Silver Rush

There will be a rush to exchange silver certificates for silver next week. The government stops exchanging silver for them on June 24, although they may be used for currency thereafter. The silver for a $1 certificate is now worth over $2. Bills will have a lower value to collectors, although it will rise in years to come.

Certificates can be exchanged only at Federal Reserve banks and U. S. Assay Offices in New York and San Francisco.

A Japanese company has devised a tuner that can convert a cassette player into an FM radio and will shortly introduce it in the U. S.

State and local taxes will be shovled up again. The Supreme Court ruling that the federal minimum wage laws applying to state and local government employees will mean pay boosts for more than a million workers.

"Footsee" will soon sweep the U. S. It's a toy consisting of a six-inch plastic ring, a three-foot cord and a weight. A youngster puts the ring on one foot and swings the weight on the cord, hopping over the cord at each revolution. It's going better than hula hoops did in Canada, where it was invented.

The Gun Lobby Begins Massive Counter Attack

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Rifle Association, its amazing record of blocking strict federal gun controls in jeopardy, has begun its counter-attack.

And if the gun lobby lives up to its past successes, hundreds of thousands of letters opposing gun controls will rain down on Congress by mid-week—just before a House committee considers restrictions on gun sales.

The deluge of mail will be in response to a weekend plea by the NRA for its 900,000 members to "express their views without delay to their senators and congressmen."

The letter-writing campaign, a favorite gun lobby tactic, is the NRA's answer to the demands for tough gun controls flowing from the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy with a $30.95 pistol.

In the past—even after President John F. Kennedy was murdered with a mail order rifle—the NRA and its allies have successfully smothered proposals to regulate gun sales or require registration of guns.

This comes in the face of overwhelming public support of such legislation. This spring, for example, pollster Louis Harris reported 71 per cent of Americans favored stricter gun control laws.

What is the NRA? How does it operate? Why does it pack so much power?

Founded in 1871 by a group of National Guard officers interested in improving their marksmanship, the NRA has grown over the years to an organization with 900,000 members and a net worth of nearly $12 million.

It operates from an eight-story glass-and-marble headquarters building in downtown Washington. Emblazoned in gold letters above the main entrance is the basic NRA credo: "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

(This is from the second article of the Bill of Rights: "A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.")

Inside the building, NRA President Harold W. Glasen puffs on his pipe and proclaims: "Make no mistake about it—there is a step-by-step move afoot to accomplish the ultimate deprivation of the American right to keep and bear arms."

Glasen, a Lansing, Mich., lawyer, gets very annoyed by references to the NRA as a gun lobby.

"All this talk about the gun lobby is baloney," he said in an interview. "We don't tell anyone to write to their congressmen."

Last Saturday, a two-page letter signed by Glasen went to all NRA members. "Unless the sportsmen of America clearly express their views without delay to their senators and congressmen," it said, "individuals will be prohibited from acquiring long guns (rifles and shotguns) in interstate commerce and general firearms registration will become a reality."

The NRA's ability to generate mail is a major ingredient to its successful fight against tough gun control laws. NRA officials have boasted in the past that they can depend on their members to flood Capitol Hill with up to 500,000 letters within 72 hours.

Veterans of earlier battles over gun control legislation don't doubt NRA's claims. "The first surge of mail after an assassination is always overwhelmingly in support of strict gun laws," says one congressional aide. "But about a week later the NRA mail takes over and continues for weeks."

Much of the new mail will be aimed at members of the House Judiciary Committee which by a tie vote last week rejected administration-supported legislation outlawing mail order sale of rifles and shotguns, over-the-counter sales of these guns to out-of-state residents and sales to anyone under 18. The committee meets Thursday to reconsider its rejection of the bill.

The NRA's monthly magazine, the American Rifleman, and various special bulletins keep members abreast of the battle against stiff restrictions. Members are supplied with point-by-point interpretations of proposed legislation—interpretations that are often quoted word-for-word in subsequent letters to congressmen.

Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., gives an illustration of how closely the letters follow NRA publications. One NRA Document misspelled his name "tidings," he said, and "I got literally thousands of letters and postcards from my constituents all misspelling my name and all giving the line that was in the propaganda issued by the NRA."

After President Kennedy's assassination in November 1963, scores of gun control bills were introduced in Congress. None passed.

In 1964, 189 gun control bills were proposed in state legislatures and city councils. In its 1964 annual report, the NRA noted that "members reacted promptly, firmly and in force. No serious restrictive proposals were enacted."

But the present drive for gun controls appears to have a better chance of succeeding. President Johnson, governors and mayors have joined in the call for strong legislation, and some key members of Congress are shifting their positions.

NRA chief Glasen appears worried. In his letter Saturday, he said "the right of sportsmen in the United States to obtain, own and use firearms for proper lawful purposes is in the greatest jeopardy in the history of our country."

Interviews with a number of congressmen indicated NRA officials are seldom in direct contact with members of the House and Senate.

"We have yet to spend one single dollar on lobbying," Glasen said. "We have never hired a lobbyist."

Neither the NRA nor any of its national officers is registered with Congress as a lobbyist. But to keep its members informed of gun control proposals and other bills, it has a "legislative service" with a budget of $131,000 in 1967.

In a recent House speech, Rep. Richard D. McCarthy said "The NRA does not have to hire lobbyists in the technical sense. It has active members right in this chamber."

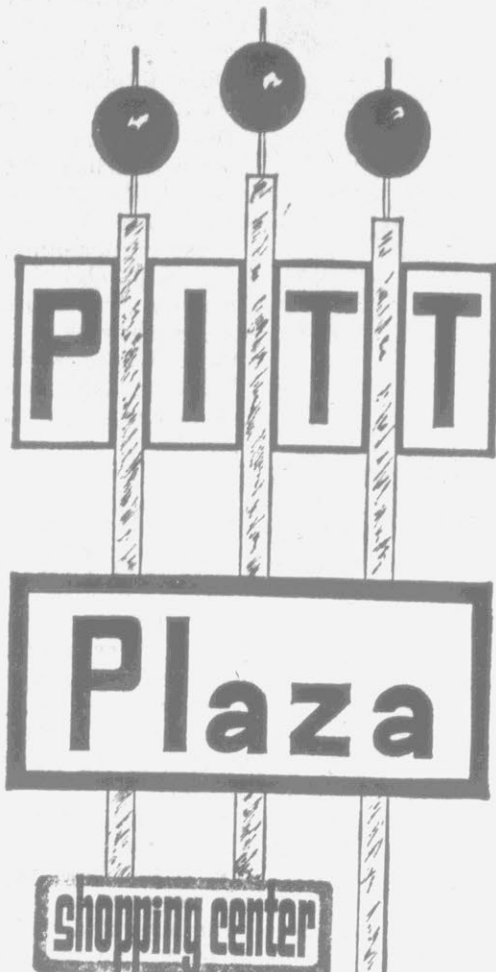

Glasen said he didn't know how many congressmen belonged to NRA, but estimated about 40. Among the more active backers of the NRA view are Reps. Bob Casey, D-Tex.; John D. Dingell, D-Mich.; Cecil R. King, D-Calif.; and Robert I. F. Sikes, D-Fla., all NRA members.

Surveys show half of all households in America have one or more firearms and NRA members use weapons "very peacefully and pleasantly," says NRA member Casey. "I don't see why they should be punished because of a bunch of deadbeats and no goods."

Red Carpet For Wrong Visitor

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — A 50-foot red carpet was rolled out at the Charleston Municipal Airport to welcome Gov. John Connally of Texas when he arrived for the Southern Governors Conference.

A plane taxied up Sunday and out stepped L.A. Stalling of Tulsa, Okla., pilot of a private company's B26 which had stopped for fuel and was flagged to the wrong parking area.

Stalling told the welcoming committee: "I'm Gov. Stalling from the state of Confusion."

Tennessee, a moderate middle-South state. Its delegation in 1964 was all - white, and the only Negro this year will be merely an alternate — Sarah Moore Greene, state president of the NAACP and a civil rights activist. Yet Sen. Howard Baker had to twist arms to get even that token gesture.

While declining to intervene against the racially restrictive politics of his Southern supporters, Nixon has not permitted them to block his national positions. His much-acclaimed speech on economic black power was made over objections of his Southern advisors. These same Southerners were beside themselves when Nixon worked backstage in passage of the Federal open housing bill.

Yet, even on the national scene, Nixon remembers his Southern flank. One lieutenant has spread the word in the South that Nixon's last stated position on open housing legislation was against it. To this date, he has not publicly supported such legislation.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Black shank is one of the most destructive tobacco diseases. It spreads rapidly and a large portion of the crop can be destroyed in a short time when susceptible varieties are grown. Serious losses often occur when resistant varieties are grown, especially when tobacco is not grown in rotation with crops that are resistant to the black shank fungus.

Black shank was first identified in North Carolina in 1930. In 1936, it was found on a Pitt County farm near Winterville. Since that time it has spread to all sections of Pitt and eastern North Carolina.

The use of resistant varieties has reduced the losses caused by this dread disease but it still costs growers millions of dollars each year.

The several black shank resistant varieties that are being grown vary in the level of resistance to the disease. The available black shank resistant varieties are rated according to their level of resistance as carrying a high, moderate, or low level of resistance.

It is very important for the tobacco grower to know as much as possible about the level of black shank infestation on his farm. One way to obtain this information is to observe closely the amount of tobacco that is lost from black shank with varieties carrying different levels of resistance. The type of rotation being followed, and the prevailing weather conditions are also factors to consider when making an appraisal of your black shank infestation.

For example, if you are growing a variety with moderate resistance in a two-year rotation, and black shank losses are heavy, you should consider growing a variety with a higher level of resistance when tobacco is planted in this field again.

If you are not sure which disease is killing your tobacco, I will be glad to visit your farm and help determine which disease is present.

Vacation Bible School Starts

Vacation Bible School will be held at the Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church June 17-21 from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Otis Mills will be the school director.

The theme for the week will be "God's Word, Today's Hope."

The Rev. Fred Jones, pastor, invites all to attend.

JUNE 19 DEADLINE

The deadline for acreage reporting to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation is June 19. There are still 75 farmers in the county who have not yet filed, according to office manager Mrs. Alice Evans. If new acreage is not reported, then acreage for the past year will be used.

Community Center Program Is Launched

A Community Center Program, being conducted by the Salvation Army this summer, got under way today.

The program calls for the Salvation Army Citadel to be open from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday each week for recreation activities.

The Community Center program will include indoor games, volleyball, and softball and other outdoor activities.

Those participating in the program will also be taken to Farmville for swimming two times each week.

Capt. Wayne McHargue said all children are welcome to take part in the program.

According to the Salvation

Army officer, children will be picked up three days per week at three locations and transported to the Citadel to take part in the activities.

Locations from which children will be provided transportation at 2 p.m. include the Meadowbrook housing project, the intersection of Perkins and Howell Streets and the Chestnut Street.

Frank Mobley will direct the program. Mobley is a Physical Education major at East Carolina University.

Aiken To Assist State Gathering

RALEIGH — Earl Aiken of Greenville will participate in the organizational meeting of the State Advisory Committee for supervisory development training here Wednesday.

Aiken is an area consultant for the supervisory development training program.

Business and industrial executives will gather from across North Carolina for the purpose of assisting the Department of Community Colleges in better serving the needs of business and industry in the state.

Dr. I. E. Ready, director of the Department of Community Colleges, will speak on "The Function, Organization and Structure of North Carolina's Community College System."

Other speakers for the meeting include Edward H. Wilson, director of the special educational programs and Kenneth Herman, educational consultant, and various SDA area consultants.

Donald J. Moore, supervisor of supervisory development training for the state, will preside over the meeting.

State Bank and Trust Co. is bringing BankAmericard to town.

Today, more than 200,000 North Carolinians carry BankAmericard, and 8,000 North Carolina businesses accept it. It's proved to be such a good idea that our bank, in cooperation with North Carolina National Bank, is bringing it to you. Here are some reasons why BankAmericard is the fastest-growing credit card in North Carolina.

It's good for almost everything.

BankAmericard is The Complete Credit Card. A retail credit card accepted by merchants in almost every kind of business. An entertainment credit card accepted by restaurants and clubs. A travel credit card accepted by service stations, car rentals, airlines, hotels and motels. A professional service credit card accepted by doctors and dentists. And it's good throughout North Carolina and in many cities across the country.

Just one monthly bill.

BankAmericard makes budget-balancing simple. You get just one monthly bill for everything you buy. It's itemized, so you know just where your money's going. And you have just one check to write.

Up to 20 months to pay.

If it suits your budget better, you can spread your payments up to twenty months with just a slight service charge. So you don't have unnecessary strains on your budget.

It's good for cash, too.

With BankAmericard, you can even "charge" cash. You can get up to $500 at our bank with no red tape. So you don't have to worry about running short of money.

No fees, no dues.

Unlike most credit plans, there are no membership fees, no annual dues, no "hidden" charges in the BankAmericard plan. You pay just a slight service charge for extended payments.

It's easy to join.

Just pick up an application form at our bank or at any business displaying the "BankAmericard welcome here" sign. It takes just a few minutes to fill it out. So sign up now. And start enjoying the conveniences of The Complete Credit Card.

Kosco Saves Yankees In Ninth For 4-3 Victory

By DICK COUCH
Horace Clarke staggered Rick Clark to get the New York Yankees off the ropes, but it took a super stroke by Clark Kent to get them off the hook.

Says USC Team Never Excelled

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — "This USC team has never been excellent in desire and willingness to pay the price," said Rod Dedeaux, wily 53-year-old coach of Southern California's NCAA baseball champions.

"I've never seen anything like it the way they kept coming back," Dedeaux said. "Two out and two strikes in the last of the ninth here, the same thing in the district championship game, and three other teams had us down here, but these guys won 'em all."

USC specialized in winning cliff-hangers, it's true, and the 4-3 victory over Southern Illinois Saturday night was the most dramatic. It was USC's fifth College World Series crown.

Pat Kuehner, a senior outfielder drafted by Washington, was the hero of the title game. He ripped a 375-foot, two-run pinch triple off the fence in right center with two out and two strikes on him, after going hitless in 14 previous Series trips.

Brent Strom, sophomore lefty, came in ahead 3-2, the bases loaded, two out and three balls on the batter in the eighth. He got the out and gained his second Series victory in relief.

inning homer and Mickey Mantle unloaded another two-run blast off reliever Clyde Wright. The Angels, however, rallied for two runs in the ninth before Andy Kosco, the bespectacled outfielder who is fast becoming a rescue despite a false start and saved the Yankees' 4-3 victory.

With two out, one run in and two Angels on the bases, Kosco lost Bobby Knoop's fly to right in the sun. It fell for a double, scoring Rick Reichardt and sending Bubba Morton racing toward home from first base with the tying run.

But Kosco, whose broad shoulders, good looks and clutch hitting have earned him the "Clark Kent" tag around the New York clubhouse, fired a strike to the plate, easily nailing Morton for the final out.

The Yankees' third straight victory left them in seventh place in the American League — one game behind Oakland's surprising Athletics, who swept a doubleheader from second place Baltimore 4-2 and 6-4. The Orioles slipped 7½ games behind Detroit's league leaders, who split a twin bill with Chicago, winning the nightcap 6-1 after a 3-2 first game loss.

Boston downed Cleveland 5-3 and Minnesota defeated Washington 4-2 in other single games.

In National League action, St. Louis beat Cincinnati 4-2, Atlanta nipped Chicago 1-0 in 11 innings, Los Angeles shaded Philadelphia 2-1, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Houston 3-1 and 11-2 and San Francisco divided a pair with New York, beating the Mets 4-1 before bowing 3-1.

At California, Reichardt's fifth inning homer gave Clark a one-run edge and the 22-year-old right-hander, winless in six previous decisions, shackled the Yanks on two hits until the eighth.

Then, Bobby Cox beat out an infield single and Clarke, who had managed one extra base hit ... a double ... all season, homered over the right field fence. Clark walked Roy White and was replaced by Wright. Mantle then sent a drive over the left field fence for his ninth homer this year.

Mike Hershberger's two-run pinch homer in the eighth inning capped a three-run rally that shot Oakland past the Orioles in the opener and Sal Bando drove in three runs with a double and two singles as the A's completed their sweep.

Chuck Dobson, 4-6, stopped Baltimore on five hits, including homers by Fred Valentine and Curt Blefary, in the first game. Lew Krausse, 3-7, survived Frank Robinson's three-run homer in the nightcap but needed Catfish Hunter.

The White Sox tripped up Detroit in the first game on Tommy Davis' seventh inning homer and led 1-0 in the nightcap behind Cisco Carlos' one-hit pitching until the Tigers exploded for five runs in the eighth.

Tom Matchick's single, a hit batsman and an error by Carlos filled the cases and chased the Chicago starter. Willie Horton's infield hit off reliever Hoyt Wilhelm tied the game and Wilhelm walked another run across before Jim Northrup's two-run double and Norm Cash's RBI single capped the uprising.

Denny McLain, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth after allowing just three hits, recorded his 11th victory against two losses.

Ken Harrelson's three-run homer in the eighth inning powered the Red Sox past Cleveland. Boston's Rico Petrocelli smacked a two-run homer in the seventh.

Jim Lonborg, making his first start for the Red Sox, pitched three-hit ball for five innings before giving way to Bill Landis, who picked up the victory with late help from Lee Stange.

The Twins put together three straight victories for the first time this year in trimming Washington, which has lost five in a row, behind Dave Boswell's four-hit pitching and a 12-hit attack. César

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — He's a joker, a quipster, a wise-cracking comedian, but there could be the stamp of golfing greatness on laughing Lee Trevino.

He came up the hard way, from caddy and boot black. He's victory-hungry and tough-minded as the marine he once was.

And, at 28 the brand new U.S. Open golf champion is going to be around a long time.

He proved in a single year he could play with the world's best professionals. And now he's shown that he can beat the best — and beat them in record-shattering fashion.

Sunday's triumph was his first professional tournament victory. But you can bet the rent money it won't be his last. "I'm going to keep on playing as well as I can, and as long as I can," he said. "Sure, I'm going to play some bad rounds. I've played bad rounds before. But I'll keep playing. I'll be playing this game when I'm 100 years old."

His 275 winning total matched the lowest score ever shot in the open, set last year by Jack Nicklaus. And his four sub-par rounds on the 6,962-yard Oak Hill Country Club course set a record in this most prestigious and demanding of all the world's golf tournaments.

He had rounds of 69, 68, 69, 69—four consecutive under par, and never matched by all the greats who have played the Open. No one before had ever done it.

But still Trevino wasn't satisfied.

"I came up 18 looking for a birdie," he said. "I wanted all the records. A birdie would have broken Nicklaus' scoring mark."

He didn't get it. In fact, he had to scramble to salvage par.

He started the day one stroke back of Bert Yancey, his playing partner, and both had bogeys on the first hole. But Yancey faded back with putting troubles, and then Nicklaus challenged, moving within three strokes.

That threat was repulsed when Trevino rolled in 35 and 20-foot birdie putts on the 11th and 12th holes.

"Man, I just wanted to get so far out in front I could bogey in," Trevino said.

Volkswagen's electronic brain.
It's smarter than a carburetor.

Alas, the carburetor.
Decent and hard-working though it was, it just couldn't think.

So every now and then it would do thoughtless little things. Like get everything dirty. Waste gas. Shamelessly pollute the air.

Our new computer would never behave that way.

In the first place, it's too educated to get everything dirty.

It's always properly informed about changes in the speed, engine temperature and load. So it's always properly informed about what's improper.

And it's too shrewd to waste gas.

(Since it knows everything precisely, it can decide everything precisely. And its decisions about how much fuel you need are so precise that you actually wind up burning less gas.)

Finally, it's too prudent to pollute the air.

(No unburnt fuel around the engine means no unburnt fuel to evaporate in the atmosphere. Even the pollution from exhaust fumes is greatly reduced.)

Just think. When you get a carburetor-less VW Squareback or VW Fastback, you not only become the proud possessor of a sound body.

But of a brilliant mind.

The Mule Had To Give Way To Today's Needs

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
WILLIAMSTON — Farmers in years gone by walked behind mule-drawn plows to break ground for their new crops, then planted their seed with a mule-drawn planter — one row at the time.

Today things are much different. The horse and mule have given way to mechanization.

Van Harris of Williamston operates a 550 acre farm 10 miles north of here.

Corn to Harris is his big money crop. He plants 406 acres of it in a big way. . . 16 rows at a time.

Moving from one field to another stops traffic on the highway. His planter, 27 feet wide, extends beyond the pavement on both sides of the road.

Farming? "I like it. If I didn't, I couldn't put up with the headaches," the 26-year-old single farmer said.

Harris plants narrow row corn — 20 inch row width, with the stalks spaced six to seven inches apart in the row.

This narrow row farming boosts yields. In 1960, before Harris took over the operation, corn on the farm yielded 35 bushels per acre.

Last year, after three years as a part time farmer and four years farming full-time, Harris' operations produced an average of 115 bushels per acre.

He is shooting for a 200 bushel-per-acre average this season.

Harris figures that in order to make money, he must save time and labor. So he plants his own corn.

He most plant a lot of corn and do it fast.

For example, Harris planted 130 acres in 15 hours operating time — two days. His best time is 44 acres in five hours.

Planting rate on the farm is between 33,000 and 44,000 stalks per acre.

Harris saves time by first discing the land, then running the gigantic planter — one of the largest in the United States — over his prepared fields. "I don't touch them again until they are harvested," he said.

Mounted on the planter are two 100-gallon tanks. From them he sprays a mixture of weed killer and liquid nitrogen — something to kill the grass and weeds that would normally grow in the field, and something to make the corn grow.

Narrow spacing of the corn also helps control growth of the weeds.

Harvesting of the crop is done with a $22,000 eight-row picker.

His 16-row planter was constructed by adding four planting units to a commercial 12-row planter. The cost — in the neighborhood of $4,000. It is pulled with an $8,300 tractor.

Harris, the son of Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Harris of Williamston, graduated from Oak Ridge Military Institute in Greensboro, then attended N.C. State University for 2½ years before entering full-time farming — managing the farms owned by his grandmother, Mrs. Dorothy Taylor.

BIG PLANTING . . . Harris drives his 16-row corn planter around a field on his Martin County farm.

Problem Areas In Fields

Growing crops should be watched closely for signs of nutrient deficiency, particularly during the first half of the growing season. If problem areas are observed in your fields, a soil test can often be helpful in determining the cause of poor growth.

Growing plants show signs of nutrient deficiencies in many different ways. Stunted or otherwise abnormal growth, die-back of the leaf tips or margins, generally yellowing, or development of yellow streaks in the leaves are often signs that one or more nutrients may be lacking.

Unfortunately, other causes of poor growth are often confused with nutrient deficiencies. Poor drainage, insect damage, disease, and other factors which interfere with the plant's ability to take up nutrients can show up as deficiency signs even though the level of available nutrients in the soil may be adequate. The best way to determine the levels of plant nutrients available in the soil is to have the soil tested. One soil sample should be taken from the affected or "bad" area and another from a normally growing or "good" area. A special information sheet for problem areas is available at your County Extension Office. The special sheet allows listing of detailed information which is often required to diagnose the conditions responsible for poor growth. Use of the special sheet gives priority to samples from problem areas so that the samples can be processed and analyzed as rapidly as possible in the event that corrective measures can be applied to the growing crop.

Watch your crops carefully for signs of nutrient deficiencies, and if observed, take prompt action of diagnosis and treat the problem. It should be remembered, however, that the best way to prevent problem areas is to have your soil tested in advance of planting time and use the results of the tests as a guide to a sound lime and fertility program.

'Wrong People' In Hunger Study

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A Charlotte physician who helped draft a citizens report on hunger says the House Agriculture Committee used the wrong people in its search for malnutrition.

"I think that using the county health officer there as a source of information . . . is a poor way to go about getting the truth of the situation," said Dr. Raymond M. Wheeler Sunday after the committee released its report. Wheeler said most county health officers have neither the background nor have they put out the effort to identify malnutrition.

He said there were only 25 to 30 authoritative, scientifically conducted studies on malnutrition today, adding none of these was made by health officers.

The House committee concluded there is very little actual hunger in the United States, but there is widespread malnutrition caused largely by poor people's ignorance.

Dr. Wheeler said there is some difficulty in finding statistics because of differing definitions.

Rootworms? Low-cost Niran 10-G stops goober-grabbers

Stop the goober-grabbers with Niran 10-G

Niran 10-G, the first low-cost peanut protector, delivers the best rootworm insurance your peanuts can get. Today's cost? Still extremely low — and you get extra benefits:

You apply Niran 10-G at pegging time, not planting time. Niran 10-G won't damage your plants, so you have no set-back worries.

Residue? Absolutely none. Niran 10-G controls rootworms, then breaks down into harmless compounds and disappears so it's safe to use your peanut hay for silage. Niran 10-G minimizes blowing, too, because it's processed to remove fine dust.

Niran 10-G is carefully formulated for Virginia-Carolina soil and climate conditions and has been field-proved by hundreds of peanut farmers in your area since 1965.

For the best low-cost rootworm insurance your money can buy, see your dealer about Niran 10-G. Or write Monsanto Company, Agricultural Division, St. Louis, Missouri 63166.

Goren on BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable,

as South you hold:

♠A96 ♥AQ104 ♦QJ105 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♣ Dble. Pass 1 ♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. That's enough.

This appears to be a strong hand, but you must not lose sight of the fact that you forced partner to bid and he may have nothing.

A raise to three hearts would be improper because, as far as you know, it would not be safe.

If partner has any definite values, he will bid again after your single raise. If he does, you may then contract for game.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable,

as South you hold:

♠AK763 ♥83 ♦AQ107 ♣84

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Despite the fact that you may have more than a minimum, no other rebid is available. The hand is not strong enough to rebid at the level of three. Such a call requires considerable excess values.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable,

you hold:

♠AKJ10 ♥AQJ754 ♦2 ♣A5

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♣ Pass Pass 2 ♣

3 ♣ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A mere bid of three hearts is the proper call. There is no need for any more violent action than this if you are to assume that your partner knows his way about town. Your cue bid of two clubs was an absolute demand for game, and partner is not permitted to pass at this point, regardless of how emaciated a hand he may hold.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable,

you hold:

♠K102 ♥KQJ53 ♦K8 ♣A93

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—Your hand is worth 17 points in support of partner's heart bid, which renders it too good for a three heart response, for which the limit is 16 points, but not quite good enough for a jump shift, which requires 19 points. You must, therefore, be content temporarily to improvise

a bid, and the recommended call is two clubs. If partner should show any signs of encourage-

U.S. Golf Open Was
TV's Weekend HitBy CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The hit television show of the weekend was the windup of the U.S. Open Golf Tournament at Rochester, N.Y. It had everything—live action, drama and the birth of a star.

ABC's cameras and commentators skillfully showed the play for about 90 minutes Saturday. Golf is hard to cover because the action is spread all over the place and when the network switched to a tape of the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500, it was like the end of an episode in an old cliff-hanger serial.

Two young players, Bert Yancey and Lee Trevino, were battling it out for the lead and the big name stars were trailing.

On Sunday, for the windup, there was more drama, with Jack Nicklaus coming on strong, Yancey dropping back and Trevino, a 28-year-old Mexican-American from El Paso, holding on to his lead and winning.

There were times on both days when the camera seemed to jump around, but sometimes it was because two critical plays were in progress at the same moment. The problem was usually solved by showing a crucial putt live and then returning to a tough shot out of a trap in slow motion.

NBC's "Animal Kingdom" premiere Sunday night was a report on the great annual migration of animals at the beginning of the African rainy season. It was par for a nature documentary, with routine photography and a commentary that had a travel-talk flavor.

"The Art Game" on NBC Friday night was a disappointment, primarily because too much was crammed into a one-hour special.

The result was that what should have been a very visual documentary turned out to be almost entirely a series of interviews with experts talking about the joys and pitfalls of buying and selling paintings and sculpture.

All three television networks are concerned over criticism of the medium for its use of violence and by the prospect of an inquiry by the presidential commission on violence headed by Dr. Milton Eisenhower.

A stern memorandum has been sent to editors in the ABC censorship department and to its independent producers by Alfred R. Schneider, ABC's assistant executive vice president. "In the review of scripts, rough cuts and final prints for air, not only should you prohibit the use of violence for the sake of violence, but you should give special attention to encourage the de-emphasis of acts of violence," the note says in part.

Plan Hearings
On Outer Banks

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Seashore Commission will conduct a series of hearings this week on problems confronting national park areas on the state's Outer Banks.

Woodrow Price of Raleigh, the commission's chairman, announced plans for the hearings today.

He said the commission wants to determine the nature of any problems that developed as a result of the influx of tourists following the creation of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore.

Price said the vehicle traffic situation on Ocracoke will be given special attention.

Two of the hearings will be Thursday—one at 2 p.m. at the Marlin Club in Hatteras and the second at 8 p.m. at the recreation hall of the Methodist Church in Ocracoke. The third hearing will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the county courthouse at Beaufort.

Good Neighbor
Council To Meet

RALEIGH (AP)—A number of topics relating to problems of race relations will be discussed by the North Carolina Good Neighbor Council in Raleigh Wednesday and Thursday.

D. S. Coltrane, chairman of the 20-member council, said topics will include school desegregation, housing and the coming summer months.

The members also will discuss a resolution on control of guns.

Whistles, But He's No Wolf

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — In summer, George crouches among the shrubbery, whistles at the girls, and sometimes offers a cheery "Hello."

But George is no wolf. He's a parrot, 13 inches long, gray and with a red tail. He was acquired 14 years ago in Africa by Miss Mary Terry.

Miss Terry said she lets George out into the yard in summer, and, with one wing clipped to prevent flight.

Won Honors In Garden Contest

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Thompson won first place in the Grimesland Community Resource Development Organization's second annual garden contest last Tuesday.

Placing second were Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mills. Third place was won by Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith.

The judges were Miss Addie R. Gore, Home Economics Extension Agent, and Robert Bishop, Assistant Agricultural Extension Agent.

Other families participating in the contest were: Mrs. Dena Belle Hawkins, Mrs. Lillian Galin, Mrs. Bertha Parker, Mrs. Ethel Pritchard, Rev. and Mrs. Odell Murray, Mrs. Sarah Ruffin, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Garóner, Mrs. Sudie Roundtree, and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Green.

age 18 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience. But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government. The Worry Clinic

'Mad Dogs' Call For A Resorting To Force

Dr. Harris doesn't meekly stampede like sheep when confronted with the maudlin "dove" propaganda of many Americans. For he realizes that "mad dog" personalities and "mad dog" nations can threaten to destroy those hard won heritages of freedom that our valiant ancestors have died to bequeath to us. So discuss this case in Sunday School!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE F-595: Dr. Frederick B. Harris has long been the Chaplain of our United States Senate.

While I was teaching psychology at George Washington University, I always attended his church and taught a Bible Class there.

So I have been doubly interested in his bold comments about the "dove" vs. the "hawk" controversy.

In a recent sermon, Dr. Harris made these pertinent remarks:

"A nation must be strong to make its word for peace effective.

"In England, before World War II, a group of influential clergymen, ignoring Germany's rearmament, led a movement utterly to renounce the sword of defense.

"Declaring they were willing to risk all on meeting Hitler's threat with understanding and good will, they secured hundreds of thousands of signed pledges of a virtual refusal to take up arms.

"That futile policy, sincerely followed, helped to bomb the churches of which these preachers were the ministers, and to fill the land with lamentations for the mangled and the dead."

You may recall the old adage to the effect:

"There is no good war and no bad peace."

But that is now always true. Jesus once declared a local war on the moneychangers who were desecrating the Temple in Jerusalem.

He resorted to force!

He upset the tables of the moneychangers. And he drove them out with a whip!

"But, Dr. Crane," you may protest, "wasn't that a violation of Christ's own advice to turn the other cheek?"

No, it did not conflict with his "dove" policy concerning personal insults.

Jesus Himself submitted to all sorts of indignities.

"Then did they spit in his face, and buffeted him; and others smote him with the palms of their hands." (Matthew 26:67)

Yet Jesus answered not a word nor did he make any attempt to strike back.

For when Christ urged us to "turn the other cheek," he was referring to personal affronts.

By contrast, threats to those basic freedoms which it has taken mankind thousands of years to acquire, were not to be permitted without a fight!

So when Jesus saw the holy nature of the Temple besmirched with crass commercialism and cheating, he didn't waste a single instant in dove-like debate or attempted verbal persuasion of the guilty.

Instead, he rushed in and attacked them, physically! He declared war!

Certainly, most of the world's intelligent people admit the tragedy of war.

But some human beings develop a "mad dog" personality and then recruit enough followers to oppress their peaceful neighbors.

In which case, it behooves cultured people to prevent this destruction of those basic human liberties which our valiant dead ancestors have fought to give us.

Pacifists and "doves" usually mean well, but have the wrong slant regarding Christ's "turn the other cheek" admonition.

So send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cent, and thus intrigue the interest of children in this Greatest Book of all time!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — general downtrend. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .3 at 342.1, with industrials off 1.8, rails up .7, and utilities up .1.

Control Data dropped about 5 points, and Commercial Credit was up about a point after news that Control Data has agreed to acquire Commercial Credit.

Xerox fell half a dozen points and Homestake about 2½.

Chrysler, down 1½, was the biggest loser among leading auto stocks. The others took fractional losses with the exception of General Motors, which held about unchanged.

Most of the major steelmakers also lost fractions, with Jones & Laughlin sagging 1½.

Raytheon lost 2. Goodrich, Eastman Kodak, High Voltage Engineering, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting and Merck a point or more.

Swift was strong, advancing well over a point, after a report that it again might be the target of a take-over attempt.

Also bucking the downtrend, Phelps Dodge advanced nearly 2 and Cit Financial more than a point.

Prices remained higher on the American Stock Exchange.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina poultry market today was steady. Price of live poultry at the farm was 14 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market settled a bit lower this afternoon, and some of the recent high flyers were hit by selling.

Losses outnumbered gains by more than 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.47 at 911.15.

Many warnings about excessive speculation were voiced by advisory services and brokerage houses, and these were said to have influenced many traders and investors to "stop, look and listen."

Steels, motors, chemicals and building materials were in a

Julia Gorham Maye, of 1216-B Battle St., was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 1:10 p.m. mishap yesterday at the intersection of Fifth and Cadillac Streets.

Investigators said the Maye car collided with a vehicle driven by Louis Harper, 20-year-old Negro of Winterville.

Damage to the Harper auto was set at $75 while damage to the Maye car was placed at $200.

CATV Wins A Point In High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — CATV operators were spared by the Supreme Court today from having to pay for televised movies and other copyrighted material they pick up from TV stations and relay to their subscribers.

The 5-1 decision was a major victory for operators of community antenna television systems and a major setback for firms which license motion pictures and cartoons to TV stations.

Justice Potter Stewart, giving the ruling, said CATV operators do not violate the 1909 federal copyright law because their relay of copyrighted material is not actually a performance of the material.

Because it is not a performance, he and Chief Justice Earl Warren, Hugo L. Black, William J. Brennan Jr. and Byron R. White agreed that Fortnightly Corp., a CATV operator, does not have to make compensation for copyrighted material it transmitted to subscribers in Clarksburg and Fairmont, W. Va.

Three justices did not vote and did not say why. They were William O. Douglas, John M. Harlan and Thurgood Marshall. Justice Abe Fortas dissented.

Gov. Shafer Endorsement A '2-Edged Sword'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has won a big-state endorsement from Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond P. Shafer for his GOP presidential bid—but acknowledges a drive for such backing could give new delegates to rival Richard M. Nixon.

Shafer announced the endorsement at the end of the Republican Governors Association Conference at Tulsa, Okla., over the weekend and estimated 45 to 50 of Pennsylvania's 64 Republican delegates would join him in backing Rockefeller.

Said Rockefeller: "In the last week, my campaign has really taken off." But he said further endorsements from governors who are now favorite sons could also release delegates to join Nixon's already substantial block of nominating votes.

"There is a delicate balance," he said.

Nixon's campaign manager, John Mitchell, said meanwhile the former vice president already has "more than enough delegates" to win the GOP presidential nomination and "will not engage in an exchange of charge and countercharge with Rockefeller."

Newsweek magazine said Sunday its tabulation shows Nixon only 29 votes short of the 667 needed for nomination, with 573 delegates favoring Nixon, 252 Rockefeller and 146 California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy indicates he plans to step up his presidential bid against Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey by pressing questions on Vietnam and other issues he has raised.

But former White House predicted Humphrey will soon begin spelling out his differences with Johnson administration policies, including military escalation in Vietnam.

Moyer's made the prediction in an interview broadcast on WNEW radio in New York.

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace returned his third party presidential campaign to the South—Richmond, Va.—today after saying in Washington he would emphasize law enforcement, rather than gun laws, as president.

"If I get to be president," Wallace said, "I'm going to stand with the police and we're going to have an orderly society."

He was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

As the candidates campaigned, New Yorkers prepared to decide the last of the major presidential primaries Tuesday—with 123 Democratic and 82 Republican delegate seats at stake.

Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns said New York delegate slates formerly pledged to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will remain supporters of his principles. McCarthy backers predicted they would win 40 to 60 delegates and Humphrey slates were entered in 25 of the 41 congressional districts.

Rockefeller is challenged by Nixon delegate candidates to only 11 of the 82 GOP seats at stake.

Delegates were selected by party conventions over the weekend in Idaho and Montana.

A poll of 25 Idaho Democratic delegates indicated 17 would vote for Humphrey and 5 for McCarthy with 3 uncommitted. The 14 GOP delegates reportedly favored Nixon but could pivot to Reagan.

Humphrey got 24 of Montana's 26 Democratic delegate votes and McCarthy 2.

In other political developments: —Rockefeller reportedly suggested to fellow Republican governors at Tulsa that Reagan be given a leading role at the national convention in televised presentation of the party platform, taking advantage of the California's skill in television presentations.

Life-And-Death Scorecard Offered For Transplants

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A life-and-death scorecard has been suggested by a doctor as one way to answer the difficult medical and ethical question: When is a patient dead and his organs available for transplants?

The suggestion came from Dr. Vincent J. Collins, professor of anesthesia at Northwestern University School of Medicine, at a panel discussion at the annual convention of the American Medical Association.

This was his proposal: The patient's heart, brain, lungs, circulation and reflex activity would be monitored for one or two hours. Each activity would be scored 2 if normal, 1 if depressed and 0 if stopped.

A score of 5 or more would indicate continuing life. Less than 5 would mean death was near. And 0 would be a sure indication of death.

Collins suggested that such a system could provide an answer for transplant surgeons seeking a common standard to determine if a potential donor is in fact dead.

Collins was one of three specialists who discussed moral and legal problems in "Medicine and Religion" here Sunday.

Brother Taking Atlanta Pulpit

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. A. D. Williams King will take over the pulpit of his slain brother, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Atlanta.

The Rev. Mr. King announced during a sermon Sunday at Louisville's Zion Baptist Church that he will assume the associate pastorate at Ebenezer. He has been pastor here for 3½ years.

His resignation at Zion Baptist Church will be effective August 25.

We will soon hand you our advertising format for the second half of 1968. Before we commit ourselves, however, we would like your reaction to the following:

1. We have concluded that we have exhausted the effect of appealing to your customers on the basis of your being a home-owned independent bank.

2. By 1970, one-half the population will be under 25 years of age. So the grits and gravy, corn bread and salt mullet, black-eyed peas and hog jowl, home town folksy little bank picture fails to arouse much of a response from this group.

It is simply time to stop this Civil War approach. These people grew up on Pepsi-Cola, french fries and catsup. They are well informed, they have money, and they don't have time for corn meal mush or a lot of long winded conversation.

3. In your bank recently, we noticed a kind of pink mist in the lobby. What is this?

From: J. T. Marston, Jr., President

1. The answer to your third question will give you the answer to the others.

2. Others have noticed the pink mist, too. They say they don't understand it, either, but they like it.

3. Some outside bankers say it is probably a mild case of pink eye. But our bank psychiatrist says it is a type of visual euphoria resulting from release from tension, a general and stimulating sense of well being.

4. At the risk of being corny, I would say that people just enjoy coming to this bank. If you will watch the under 25 crowd for about an hour coming in here, you will conclude that we have bridged the generation gap. They pile in here in droves, mini-skirted, sometimes barefooted, eager, young—believe me, it is refreshing. They see the pink mist and, confidentially, I am beginning to see it too I think.
