

Mail-Order Gun Sales Curb Has Early Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strict ban on mail order sales of rifles and shotguns was approved today by the House Judiciary Committee.

The vote came just a half day after President Johnson signed into law a similar prohibition dealing with pistols and revolvers, and called for tighter restrictions over the sale of firearms.

The Senate Judiciary Committee also was scheduled to act today on legislation to ban shotguns and rifle sales by mail.

The bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee by a 29-6 vote would also prohibit the sale of rifles and shotguns to anyone living outside the state where the sale is made, or to anyone under 18.

House leaders have promised speedy action on the committee-approved bill, which can probably be brought to a vote next week.

The Senate had knocked out of the crime bill a similar prohibition affecting rifles and shotguns shortly before Sen. Robert

F. Kennedy was killed early this month.

Since then, Johnson has renewed his request for long-gun controls, and with mail calling for tighter restrictions deigning Capitol Hill, favorable votes in both committees were expected.

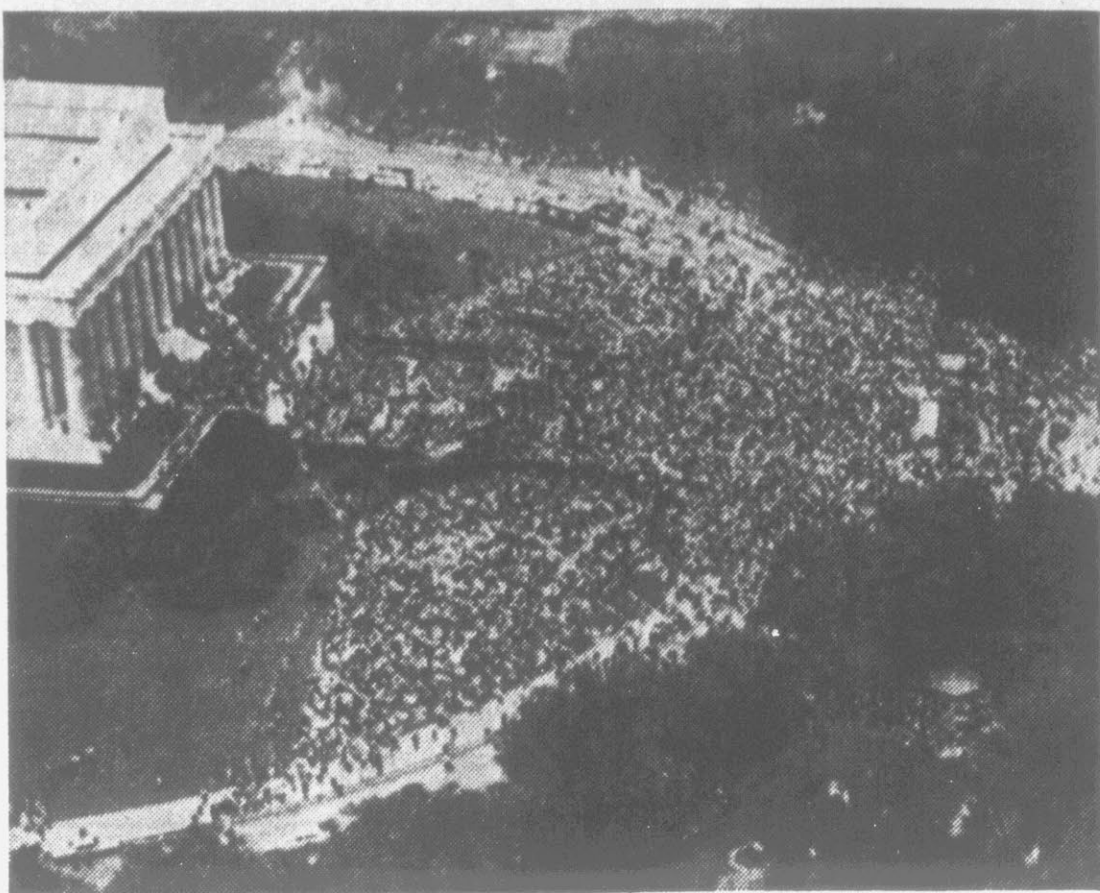

Bills that go even farther and call for federal registration of all firearms have been introduced in both houses and are picking up support daily.

In signing the controversial crime bill on the last day before it would have become law without his acting, Johnson called its gun control provision "only a half-way step."

Controversy swirled around the bill practically to the last minutes, with gun controls only a part of the cause.

The bill also contains the first congressional authorization for limited wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping and has a section intended to overturn Supreme Court decisions governing the admission of confessions and eyewitness identifications in police lineups.

Where The Poor And Not-So-Poor Gathered

Estimated 50,000 In Throng Gathered For Poor People's March

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the yardsticks of the men who planned it, the 1968 march on Washington was a triumph. A show of support for the Poor People's Campaign.

With little more than 10 days in which to organize "Solidarity Day," leaders Wednesday brought out an outpouring of black and white Americans, estimated by Washington police at 50,000, to surge around the foot of the Lincoln Memorial.

The crowd stood in the sunshine and heard campaign chief the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy vow to keep Resurrection City, the Shantytown set up to house the Poor People demonstrators, in Washington with or without the government permit that expires Sunday night.

"Some of you may go home," Abernathy roared to the approval of the crowd, "but the rest of us are staying here, ready to go to jail."

The marchers, 10,000 more than campaign leader's predicted, representing all ages, races and creeds, were orderly and peaceful. There proved to be no need for most of the 4,300 police and National Guardsmen detailed throughout the city.

It was the second time in five years that tens of thousands of Americans marched on the nation's capital to back up demands that the government end what they considered a fundamental injustice.

In 1963, when the late Dr.

Martin Luther King Jr. made his famous "I have a dream" speech, the issue was segregation, and three months of planning brought 200,000 people to stand along the banks of the Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool.

Wednesday the issue was different—and end to poverty—and the difference was heard in the tone of the speeches, many bitter and accusatory.

The massed thousands again shouted their approval to a plea by Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the man who conceived Wednesday's march, to end the Vietnam fighting, "the most brutal and evil war in history," and pour its costs into a total war against poverty.

The demonstrators carried hundreds upon hundreds of signs: "UAW Supports Bold Action to Abolish Poverty in this Land of Plenty," "A Decent Job at Decent Pay," "Full Employment and Guaranteed Annual Income . . ." "We March with John, Bobby and Martin for a Dream."

The weather was warm and dry as the thousands of marchers who had begun gathering on the broad lawns of the Washington Monument as early as 8 a.m. began the half-mile trek past the Reflecting Pool, and alongside the weatherbeaten shanties of Resurrection City.

Spirits were high, and young and old were in a holiday mood as they carried banners, babies and picnic baskets to pack the hot, sunny plaza directly in front of the impressive white monument.

"The mood of the crowd is different," said Dolores Williams of New York, who was at the 1963 march. "It's lighter, less serious."

Man Wanted In Shooting Is Located

A Negro charged with murder in the death of a woman here June 1 has been arrested on the charge in Jacksonville, Fla.

Police chief H. F. Lawson said Johnny Lee Watson of 11-15A Clark St. was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant sent from here. He had been the subject of a widespread search.

Watson was charged, the chief said, with shooting Marry R. Williams of 1208A South Greene St. in the stomach.

The woman died about 1:50 a.m. June 1, after being brought to her home shortly after midnight, wounded in the stomach.

Police quoted witnesses as saying Wooten brought the woman home and asked neighbors to help put her to bed.

The rescue squad was called after Wooten left.

Investigation of the case is still underway.

In fact, people began to drift out of the hot sun toward fairly distant shade early in the long program, and by the time the main speakers came before the microphones, more than half the crowd was out of earshot, wandering along the banks of the nearby Potomac River, dabbling toes in the Reflecting Pool, or peering curiously over the snow fence that surrounds Resurrection City.

More than a dozen dignitaries and representatives of the poor paraded before the speaker's platform, but the crowd reserved its greatest applause for Mrs. King—who told them that Tuesday would have been her 15th wedding anniversary.

They cheered Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, but booed Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, when they were introduced from the platform.

Mrs. King drew cheers with a plea to American women to join in urging President Johnson to "stop the bombing of Vietnam now, in order that a settlement of the war can be negotiated."

"One hour of war," she said, "could buy your community a new school, hospital, or social center . . . We, the women, must lead the way in adopting nonviolence as a way of life."

New Pattern Of Contacts In Paris Talk

PARIS (AP) — Despite the barrage of charges which the United States and North Vietnam exchange in their Paris talks, a new pattern of contact is emerging—a pattern that could lead to serious negotiations to end the war.

This appears to be the most encouraging development in the discussions, which began almost six weeks ago and have registered no progress toward scaling down the fighting.

The pattern became clear Wednesday when 40 minutes of a meeting that lasted less than four hours were devoted to a recess during which the two top members of each delegation talked privately and informally.

In this conversation were W. Averell Harriman and Cyrus R. Vance for the United States and Xuan Thuy and Le Duc Tho for North Vietnam. Their conversation was described as amiable but what they said was not disclosed.

The precedent of a recess for refreshments was set several weeks ago by a short break of about 15 minutes. Wednesday it clearly attained the proportions of something more than a brief respite from the formal talks.

U.S. officials hope the practice will lead to regular private discussions. William J. Jordan, the U.S. press spokesman, told newsmen: "Our feeling for some time has been that private talks are a better way of dealing with the tough issues."

Slight Signs Of Progress

Sec. Clifford Can See Hanoi Shifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today there is "some movement" in the apparently stalemated Paris peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

He acknowledged the signs of progress may be slight, but said that "I believe that both sides are there to try to arrange an ultimate disposition to the conflict."

The defense secretary reported, at the same time, that the North Vietnamese are pumping in replacements for men lost in combat in South Vietnam at a high level while the talks are going on.

Reporting at a news conference, he said that infiltration in May is estimated to have totaled about 29,000 men from North Vietnam into South Vietnam.

This is about double the figures used by Gen. William C. Westmoreland for infiltration in April.

Clifford said about 26,000 of these May infiltrators were believed to be replacements for men who have fallen in battle.

He projected a probably North Vietnamese infiltration of 20,000 men a month in June, July and August.

The defense secretary, in his second full-dress news conference since taking office March 1, said casualties on both sides have gone up as a result of the enemy's "determination to increase the level of combat."

In May, he said, the United States was losing from 400 to 500 men a week, while the enemy was losing 5,000 a week.

"There is a very real question as to how long they would choose to submit their military force to such a degree of attrition," Clifford said.

Approve New Building

Greenville's City Council and Utilities Commission last night gave unanimous approval to plans for a new municipal building and instructed architects to explore the cost of the proposed buildings.

The approval of the plans came at a called joint meeting of the two bodies. A new municipal building which would house both city and utilities offices has been under consideration for a number of months. Initially the Utilities Commission expressed interest in constructing a new building to provide needed space and facilities. Later, upon request of the City Council, the city and utilities entered into joint planning of a new building.

The proposed building now under consideration would be located in the Shore Drive Redevelopment area at the end of Evans Street between First Street and the river.

Members of the Council and Utilities Commission instructed Architects Smart-Woodall and Associates to seek bids on the new building in order to determine the cost of the structure should the decision be made to go through with construction.

Four Clashes In The Saigon Area

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen patrolling Saigon's outer defense ring killed 93 Viet Cong and seized 33 suspects in four clashes south and north of the capital, the U.S. Command reported today.

Inside the city and its suburbs, it was the quietest day since the Communist command launched its "second wave" of offensive on May 5.

No ground action was reported.

The biggest battle in the ring around Saigon was fought by soldiers of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division who killed at least 44 Viet Cong Wednesday around a helicopter landing zone 12 miles north of the capital.

The action broke out at 11 a.m. when helicopter landed a company of American infantrymen, trying to intercept enemy units, landed in a landing zone surrounded by Viet Cong.

While the outnumbered Americans fought for their lives, helicopter gunships raked the enemy. Both sides moved up reinforcements but the 25th Division won the race, landing another 300 men at 2:30 p.m.

The battle continued until after midnight, then the Viet Cong pulled out and left bloody trails behind. U.S. losses were 15 killed and 14 wounded.

Another 39 enemy soldiers were killed 29 miles northeast of Saigon when they were caught by troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and then hit by artillery, helicopter gunships and AC47 Magic Dragon planes with their rapid-firing miniguns.

Only two American soldiers were reported killed and 18 wounded in the 90-minute fight that ended at dusk.

Troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division killed 10 more enemy soldiers nine miles southeast of Saigon. Five were seen dodging into a bunker, and the infantrymen destroyed the bunker and the five guerrillas.

The 33 prisoners were gathered southwest of the capital by troops of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

SNOW HILL — Thirty-three head of cattle were killed and an estimated $7,000 in damage resulted in an accident at intersection of U.S. 13 and 58 two miles south of here Tuesday night.

Following investigation of the mishap, investigating highway patrolman P. C. Eure charged William Clifton, Negro, of Rt. 2, Beulaville, with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident. Clifton told officers that the brakes failed in the 8:30 p.m. wreck.

The truck Clifton was operating contained 52 head of beef cattle en route to Jones County.

Gasoline leakage from the truck to a ditch bank resulted from the accident and Snow Hill firemen stood by on alert. Removal of the gas took the department eight hours.

Hostess Shouldn't Make Her Guests Feel Guilty

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are middle-aged and we're watching our weight. We do all right at home, but our troubles begin when we're guests in someone's home. (I don't mean for dinner. I mean those late midnight "snacks" after cards, etc.)

We count our calories all week and then the hostess puts all this stuff on the table, and pushes it onto our plates, saying, "O, I've worked so hard, you've GOT to eat this!" Or, "If you don't eat it, I'll have to throw it out!"

We have come home stuffed and uncomfortable because we couldn't get out of eating. We tell ourselves, "Never again," but on the next week-end it's the same story. How can we protect ourselves?

GORGED
DEAR GORGED: First, a word to the well-intentioned hostess who makes her guests feel guilty if they decline her snacks. Shame on you! The only defense a guest has against such a hostess is to say, "No, thank you." And then keep his trap shut.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter Lisa is 17, and if I have to say so myself she is a very beautiful girl. She was invited to a formal country club party by a 21-year-old fellow who comes from one of the best families. He asked her if she could stay all night at his home as it would probably be a late evening and it would save him a lot of driving. (They live in one of those big homes on a nearby lake.)

I told Lisa to tell him, no, that we want her to come home to sleep no matter how late the party lasts.

This morning I got a call from this young fellow's mother urging me to let Lisa stay at her home all night. Abby, I have never met this woman. She is high society and she may be very nice, but just because people have money doesn't always mean they're nice. Anyway, I told her I was sorry, but I wanted Lisa home. Now Lisa says I'm square. Am I?

MADISON MOM
DEAR MOM: If you are "square," I want to be in all four of your corners.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for the woman whose husband suffered a heart attack out of town at 2 a.m. in the apartment of another woman. I have just gone thru a similar experience that left me shaken and close to a breakdown.

My husband is 52, handsome, charming, and hard-working. He said he wanted to go away alone for the week-end to "rest." He didn't tell me where he could be reached in case of emergency, but when he came back I found a receipt for a motel stay indicating that a "Mr. and Mrs." had stayed there.

I was crushed. After loving him and struggling with him for nearly 25 years, I felt betrayed and rejected. I consulted a lawyer and came within an inch of filing for divorce. I could have thrown him out and taken most of his worldly goods, but I thought, "What for? I love him. Why should I send him straight into the arms of a gal who can't get a man of her own, and thinks its fair game to go after a middle-aged lothario whose wife doesn't understand him?" (I understood him only too well. He reached the age where a man needs reassurance, and I wasn't smart enough to give it to him.)

I took him back and I'm not sorry. Now he thinks I am the greatest. He says he's always loved me, and I believe him. We all make mistakes and this was his. I can truthfully say that we have a much better marriage now than we had before.

Terrible Price By Our Standards

According to the simplest sort of arithmetic, North Vietnam must be bleeding to death.

Last week it was announced the enemy had lost 113,000 men since the first of the year. Since then hundreds more have fallen on the battlefields; but let us return to the 113,000 figure.

Our military men have a sort of fixation about accuracy in counting enemy losses. Each death has to be confirmed, even to the extent of digging into a mass grave. It is the only yardstick to go by in the kind of war waged in Vietnam. Armies don't advance their lines so many miles a day or count captured cities and towns as in the war with which we are familiar. So death-counts are the only guideposts.

Assuming the United States has roughly 10 times the population base of North Vietnam and its supporters in the South, Red losses are the equivalent of the United States having 1,130,000 young men killed since the first of the year.

And, mind you, this figure does not include the even higher casualty count of wounded, the sick and accident victims.

That gives one some idea of the terrible price Hanoi is paying for its war. Small wonder that General Westmoreland reports the quality of the North Vietnamese replacements is seeing a serious decline.

Prolongation of the conflict might well result in a country populated almost entirely by old men, very young children, and many women.

For the population of North Vietnam their needless war is a bloodbath unequalled in modern history.

Economical Outlay In Results By Airplanes

If the state's forestry service is correct in its estimate, North Carolina has made an extremely good investment in the rental of planes to fight forest fires.

State Forester Ralph C. Winkworth has estimated that the $31,000 paid by the state to rent three large fire-fighting bombers has saved the state some $4.4 million in forest fire losses this spring. North Carolina's forest products make up one of the state's most important natural resources. In spite of the use of planes, other equipment and many men, the state lost more than 58,000 acres of its forests to fires during the period of January through May.

In spite of the seemingly large number of acres of woodland lost this year, the acreage is two per cent less than the five-year average.

With its forestry program as with other programs, North Carolina must keep abreast of new developments and new methods. Use of the planes, while it may seem a costly item in a biennial budget, is economical indeed when one considers the losses that are prevented.

Favorable N.C. Trade Balance

(Editor's Note: William A. Shires is on vacation. Today's guest column is by a staff official of the State Ports Authority).

By L. C. BRUCE

RALEIGH — This is the last of three columns in which we have tried to convey the true picture of North Carolina and its trade with countries around the world.

It is not a well known fact, but is a fact, that North Carolina world trade ratio has a two to one balance in favor of export. This is principally due to large agricultural export, which is increasing very rapidly. What is needed in the opinion of many, is a concerted sales effort by North Carolina industry in many of the world markets.

Now let us describe the facilities available at the North Carolina State Ports to serve the existing industry of North Carolina:

The North Carolina State Ports Authority operates two deep-water terminals — one at Wilmington and one at Morehead City, about 90 miles away. The Morehead City terminal lends itself to commodity shipping, tobacco, being the principal commodity handled there right now. (Approximately 176,000,000 pounds annually.)

There is a new phosphate bulk handling and loading facility ready to be used July 1, 1968. It contains a quarter mile long loading gallery, with a loading tower traveling the length of the dock, with 3,000 tons per hour capacity. The Warehouse for accumulation of cargo is a dustless, modern building of concrete. It appears to be a giant tent viewed from a distance. It is 680 feet long, and 90 feet high; contains 106,000 tons storage capacity for bulk, such as phosphate. The phosphate is mined 50 miles away in Beaufort County on the Pamlico River.

This facility is being amortized by contractual agreement with phosphate companies over a period of years, and is being financed loans from EDA and secured by revenue bonds of the Authority. It is expected to triple the number of ships calling in the Morehead City harbor. Some of the most optimistic estimates are that by 1970 to 1971 over one thousand vessels will be in the harbor each year. This will bring more steamship services to and from countries around the world.

Additionally, the tremendous expansion at Morehead City, which also includes a westward dock extension providing for general cargo berths and two 75-ton gantry cranes, means that containerization of cargo will be attracted to this fine port terminal located, as it is, some three and one-half miles from the ocean bar. This expansion will necessitate deepening the harbor at Morehead City to accommodate large vessels. This will make a great impact on the growth of the whole area.

At Wilmington, located nearer to some places in the textile Piedmont, South Carolina than it is to the parts of Piedmont, North Carolina, should be logically involved in the import-export of the textile trade. The Ports Authority works with the Regional Export Expansion Council and has made a concentrated effort for many years to attract textile exports to Wilmington. The access offered there is adequate from such highways as U. S. 74, 76, 17 and N. C. 87 from south and west, and from U. S. 421, 17, and 117 from the north and east, added to the fine rail service furnished by the newly combined Seaboard-Coastline railroad, both of which have railheads at the port terminal in Wilmington. This means that transportation to and from the Piedmont textile area of North and South Carolina is very easy.

Many southeastern textile plants, as told us by those people involved in world trade promotion, have become interested and active in the export market in the past six years. The trade name of progressive and venerable corporations have appeared in stores around the world. As recently as 1966 the North Carolina Ports Authority participated with members of the textile industry from North Carolina in a "vertically integrated" apparel show at Stockholm, Sweden.

Miss Earhart Faces World As Lindy Did

London, June 20—Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker, and first woman ever to fly the Atlantic, faced the world today, just as Lindbergh once did in borrowed clothes. . . . The American girl, who arrived in London yesterday with Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, her companions in the trans-Atlantic flight of the monoplane, Friendship, was wearing a loose-fitted flowered dress this morning when she held a little reception in the sitting room of her hotel suite which was rapidly becoming a bower of flowers sent by friends and admirers. . . . "Everything I've got to wear at present is borrowed but then I'm not vain," she said, and her hearers agreed that she wasn't. . . .

Strength For Today

THE PIANO STOOL

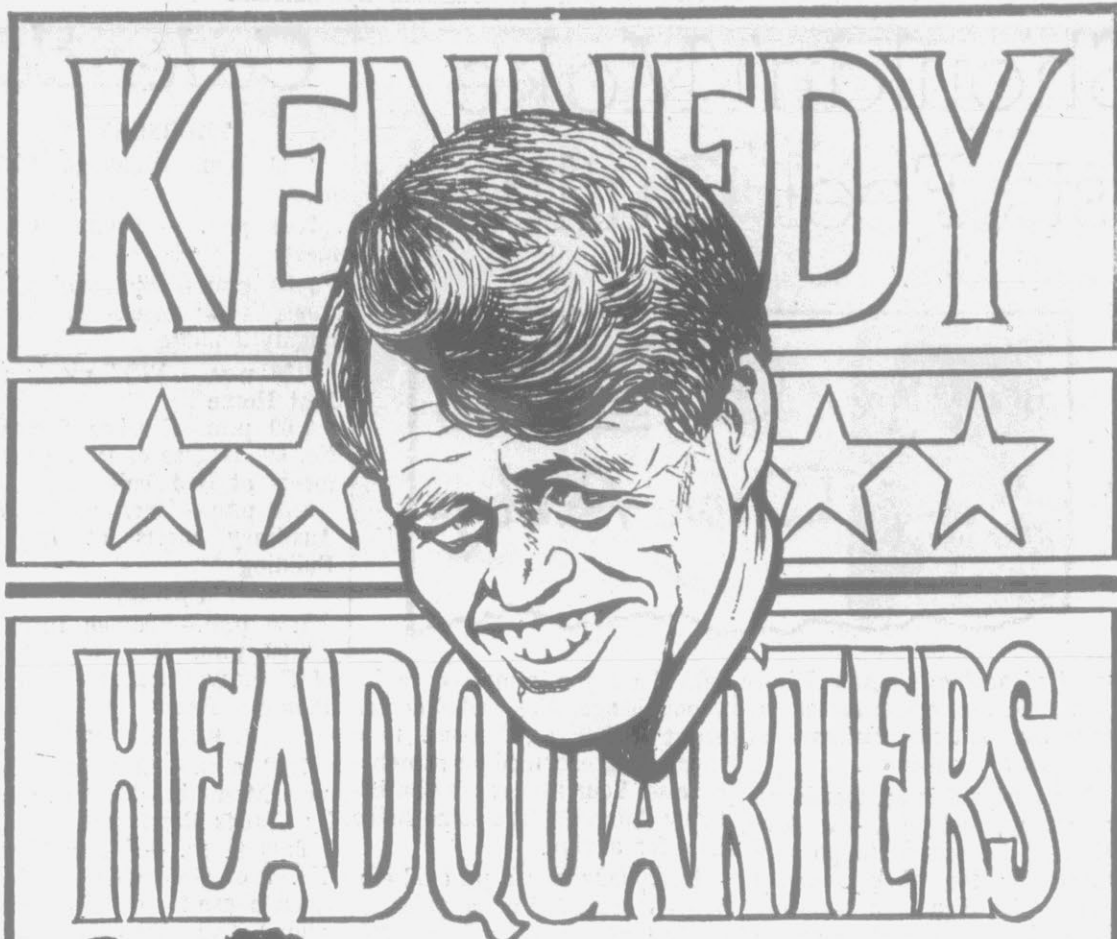

A man who works for a piano-moving firm was telling us recently about the behavior of one of his fellow workmen. When the rest of the gang was pushing, lifting, grunting and sweating in their efforts to get a grand piano into a concert hall or a lesser-sized instrument into a home, this fellow was always seen trailing along and carrying the piano stool.

Does it need to be pointed out that there are a lot of guys who go through life doing just that? They can get to the sidelines mighty fast when there is a good hefty job to be done. When sacrifice is called for, they take a walk. Frequently the modern expression is "I didn't want to get involved."

At any rate, the type of person who won't take his full share of responsibility in home, business, work shop or community is a liability in the worst sense of the term. He lets the others carry the heavy piano and he carries the piano stool.

We can generally identify this chap by his big mouth and his vociferous conversation. He walks along with the piano stool suspended from his hand or held close to him and yells encouragement and direction to all and sundry. "It's a poor gang that doesn't have a boss," he often says. But regardless of what he says it is what he does—or rather what he does not do—that gets under other people's skin.

We don't say this to be mean but do you carry a piano stool?

Violence Defeats Self

WASHINGTON—Among the most disturbing features of this distressful spring is the spreading belief that violence and disorder are in some manner forces of progress in our society.

"When has violence ever produced anything worthwhile?" asks the standard politician. And the standard response, fervently echoed by all the right-thinkers in our midst, is, of course, never.

And then the questions begin to arise.

Why should a brilliant young leader have to die tragically in order to produce—too late—an inadequate law to control the indiscriminate sale of firearms?

Why should a great university have to tear itself apart in order to bring about reforms that have been needed for decades?

Why should the nation's capital have to be subjected to mass pressure tactics of a potentially disastrous kind in order to create—maybe—a more adequate effort to eliminate starvation in this country?

In these cases and other, it is hard to deny the cause and effect relation of what has occurred. And it is also hard to deny that the pattern confronts society with a painful dilemma. For if it is a bad thing that violence—as in the riots at Columbia University—should be "rewarded," it would be a very much worse thing if violence should prevent any change at all from taking place.

Other Editors Saying A Month Later

(The Raleigh Times)

Rep. Jim Gardner announced yesterday that last month's letter pledging special pipelines to him for anybody who gave him $1,000 in his campaign for Governor, didn't have his approval. This was the first time he had commented on the thousand-dollar letter, and it would seem appropriate to wonder if his denunciation of the letter came about solely because of righteous indignation on his part or also because of the righteous indignation with which many voters received the news of the letter.

There was such a letter. It went out from Gardner's office, and it did promise that people who contributed $1,000 to his campaign as Republican gubernatorial nominee would get special stationery on which they could write to him. That stationery would mean that the letter would get to him immediately and presumably would mean some sort of special handling for the request it contained.

Gardner said yesterday the letter was "mailed without my knowledge or approval." He added that under his administration, there wouldn't be any special favors for anybody or any group.

Gardner's delay in denouncing the $1,000 letter could be compared to the action of a man who was operating a hamburger business and found that an assistant was putting some material in the hamburgers which wouldn't be popular with the customers. But, the manager, instead of acting at once, let the situation go on for a month. He surely would lose some hamburger business.

At his press conference yesterday, Gardner promised to set up regional governor's offices in the East, the Piedmont and the West. The idea, it seems, is to get closer to the people. It would be appropriate to wonder at this juncture in the important thing about a Governor isn't how many offices he has, but what he does in whatever offices he may have.

So far, Gardner has limited his campaign chiefly to being against things in Washington, and in Raleigh. However, within recent days, he has come out for at least two things: The regional offices for the Governor, and changing the name of the Governor's Mansion to the People's Mansion.

In any event, there is no doubt that a belief in direct pressure tactics and disillusion with the normal democratic methods of negotiation and compromise is the great political problem of the day. It was most vividly spelled out by what one senior at Columbia told his professor in government after the recent riots:

"I feel like I just wasted three and a half years trying to change this university. I played the game of rational discourse and persuasion. Now there's a mood of reconstruction. All the log-jams are broken—violence pays. The tactics of obstruction weren't right, weren't justified, but look what happened."

It can be said, of course, that university students are not participating members of the body politic and that universities are not, and should not be, democratic institutions run by the students.

Yet there is a striking parallel between the way the students at Columbia look on the university administration and the way all of the alienated elements in our society attack the larger "establishment."

Demos Remain Riven

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

SAN FRANCISCO — Shortly after Robert F. Kennedy was buried, a discreet and cautious effort was made to bind up the Kennedy and Humphrey wings of the California Democratic party. It was a total flop.

That failure underlines the state of affairs in the Democratic party today. Far from producing a truce of sorrow, the murder of Kennedy has not narrowed the party's deep divisions. And although politics in California is bigger than life, the refusal of Kennedy partisans here to reconcile themselves with Vice President Hubert Humphrey is evident elsewhere in the country.

The attempt at post-assassination reconciliation originated in California with a lieutenant of National Committeeman Eugene Wyman, Humphrey's top man in California. Believing that feuds are often patched up at the funeral of a mutual friend, the Wyman aide thought the tragedy might bring together two former allies who have been bitter factional foes since 1964—Gene Wyman and Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, leader of the state's Kennedy forces.

Consequently, Wyman's lieutenant approached an aide to Unruh with the suggestion that Wyman and Unruh meet for the first time in years. They would talk about arrangements for the National Convention in Chicago and perhaps general political questions. There would be no discussion of the future course of the 174-vote California delegation, pledged to Kennedy and headed by Unruh.

There will be no such peace meeting. Unruh flatly rejected the idea, suspecting an operation to transfer the delegation to Humphrey. Nor did he express interest in seeing Wyman about any subject, any time.

Unruh's attitude preordained the outcome of last Saturday's (June 15) meeting of his delegation in Los Angeles. Acting at Unruh's suggestion, the delegates voted overwhelmingly to remain uncommitted. Had they gone in any substantial number for Humphrey, the last pathetic shred of hope held by Sen. Eugene McCarthy would have disappeared.

But Humphrey probably will be nominated, with or without California's 174. The significance of the non-reconciliation between Unruh and Wyman lies deeper. It reveals that the Kennedy forces, representing considerable Democratic strength, are not stampeding to the call of the party unity. Bitter, demoralized, and frustrated, they must be wooed by Humphrey if he expects their support.

Indeed, it is no secret here that Unruh feels Humphrey, IF still supporting the Johnson Vietnam policy, would lead the party here to humiliating defeat against either Richard M. Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller. Even if Humphrey modified his war policy, according to this view, he would be a distinct underdog in California.

It is known that Unruh feels McCarthy would be much stronger here, even though the animosity by California Kennedy partisans derived from McCarthy's hard-hitting

Only Big Money Sways Market

By ELMER ROESSNER

Joe Doakes got $1,000 ahead of the game the other day, probably by padding his expense account and putting slugs in coin machines, and brought 100 shares of Tamaloes, Inc., at $9.86. The stock immediately rose to $9.95 and the next morning trembled on the brink of $10.

"That shows how the stock market works," Joe told his wife Maizie. "When investors like me buy a stock, the demand pushes the price up."

Joe, of course, is nuttier than a jar of peanut butter. The thousand-dollar investors or the odd-lot buyer can no more influence the market than a cockroach could wrestle an elephant.

Once, perhaps, a surge of little fellows could bull the market up or bear it down. But today the small investor has no power of his own, no more than the foam on a wave can influence the tide of the sea.

Where The Power Is

The market is in the absolute control of big money. There have been unsubstantiated stories that groups of mutual fund managers have gotten together and bid up the price of a certain stock to make their own portfolios look good. It might have happened on a quiet day. But chances are that it didn't.

ELMER ROESSNER

There are too many other big-money groups in the market, all with competent analysts, who could and would gut any small group of mutuals trying to rig the market. They would do it, not to keep the market honest, but for what they could make out of the situation.

Charitable and other foundations in America have about $6 billion, a large part of it in stocks and bonds. While they don't play the market, they have competent advisors who recommend shifts in investments as conditions change.

More Big Chunks

There is more than $1 billion in pension funds. While it is largely in real estate, a sizable portion is in stocks and bonds.

Colleges and universities have many more billions. Again, most of the money is in real estate, there is considerable in securities.

Assets of life insurance companies were estimated at $158 billion last year. Although most of it was in real estate and mortgages, many billions were in stocks and bonds.

The biggest accumulation of all is that of banks, who not only have countless billions of their own invested in securities but manage billions more in estates, trusts and other funds for clients. These include some of those noted above: foundations, pension funds, educational institutions, etc.

The tremendous surges of volume on the New York Stock Exchange in recent months has been attributed to buying and selling by organizations controlling these blocks of billions. When mutual funds, banks or other large holders decide to switch from one class of stock to another—and some of their analysts consult with one another—volume can soar.

So Joe Doakes has almost no influence in the market. All he can do is to try to guess what the smart money is up to.

Berlin Airlift Is Still Amazing 20 Years Later

By HUBERT J. ERB
Associated Press Writer
BERLIN (AP) — U.S. Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay was incredulous. Army Gen. Lucius D. Clay was on the telephone asking if airplanes would haul coal, tons of it. And food supplies. Enough to support a city of 2.2 million people.

The Soviet Union had decided it would squeeze the Western allies out of Berlin by starving West Berliners and cutting off their fuel and power.

It was June 24, 1948 and the Berlin blockade was on tight. Now, 20 years later, it is clear the Allied airlift that broke the blockade's back was a Cold War victory, perhaps the greatest. The blockade attempt was a Soviet miscalculation that cost the Kremlin inestimable prestige.

When the blockade ended May 12, 1949, West Berlin, 110 miles inside the Soviet zone of Germany, was on the way to becoming a going concern, a window to the West behind the Iron Curtain. Morale was never higher. West Germany, where the airlift planes took off, had set out on the road to becoming a firm Western ally.

The grit and courage of the Berliners who stuck it out under tremendous pressure did much to rehabilitate the image of Germans generally, only three short years after World War II. And Stalin's power play rallied the West as perhaps nothing else could have, short of war.

It was 48 hours before LeMay at U.S. Air Force headquarters at Wiesbaden was able to act on the order from Clay, then the U.S. governor of Germany, to start hauling coal and other vital supplies in airplanes to West Berlin.

When the first twin-engine C47 "Gooney Birds" with 2½ ton capacity landed in West Berlin, the Russians may have snickered.

By the end of 1948 the Russians seemed to be having second thoughts. But it was not until April 16, 1949, that the Soviets knew they had failed.

On that day, the airlift hauled 12,000 tons of supplies in 1,383 flights. The "Gooney Birds" had been replaced by C54s of 10-ton capacity, and other larger aircraft. The basic requirement of 3,500 tons a day had been outstripped by far.

The incredible had happened: An isolated metropolis was successfully being supplied from the air in fair weather and foul.

Although the blockade formally was ended in secret negotiations at the United Nations between Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik and U.S. Ambassador Philip Jessup in May, 1949 it was not until September that the last airlift plane had landed.

Called Operation Vittles by the Americans and Operation Plainfare by the British, the airlift amassed volumes of statistics.

American planes accounted for well over 70 per cent of the net tonnage, with British planes flying about 23 per cent. Seventy-five men gave their lives in the airlift.

But statistics cannot tell all the story. The airlift essentially was a human drama of strain and improvisation. At one point the worst fog in 20 years closed down airfields. Snow slowed the airlift. Naval experts in blind landings were brought in.

When the Soviets cut off Eastern power sources, a complete power plant was flown in.

It took more than 60,000 human beings in the air and on the ground to run the operation 24 hours a day.

A man of about 50 who has lived his whole life in Berlin and was asked recently about the toughest time he and his family ever faced. "Not the war," he answered. "We always had enough to eat then. Not the air raids or even the Russian invasion. The toughest time was the blockade. Then we were hungry and cold and the airlift saved us."

"A 'Smokes for Our Boys' campaign to send tax-free cigarettes to U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam was announced this week by Jerry Thompson, co-chairman of the Jaycee-sponsored drive.

"The purpose of the Jaycee campaign," Thompson said, "is to send as many messages of cheer and best wishes as possible to our fighting men in Viet Nam to show that the folks back home remember them and support them. From World War I to Viet Nam, the most wanted and appreciated gift from home has been cigarettes."

Donations from individuals, clubs, businesses, fraternal, veteran and civic groups will be appreciated, Thompson stated.

Cigarettes can be shipped to Viet Nam at a cost of slightly more than a dollar a carton, according to Thompson.

"Each package will carry a special personal message of good wishes from the people of Greenville, or from the donor organization," Thompson said.

The campaign will last through July 4.

primary campaign here against Kennedy is enduring.

That was demonstrated last week when Mrs. Ann Alanson, a McCarthy booster and ex-officio member of the convention delegation by virtue of her office of National Committeeewoman, telephoned an Unruh associate to discuss convention logistics.

She was cut off sharply and told that her presence at the Saturday delegation caucus would be offensive to the Kennedy family in view of McCarthy's attacks on Kennedy.

Another, less emotional Unruh aide called her back to smooth the waters, but anti-McCarthy sentiment is deep.

Key members of the Unruh delegation cannot erase from their memories Kennedy's private complaints in the last week of his life about McCarthy's personalized attacks. Nor has their wrath been assuaged by a barrage of telephone calls, letters, and postcards—one Kennedy delegate told us he has received 50—from rank-and-file McCarthyites urging support for their candidate.

As for the Poor People's March on Washington, the city fathers, too, can congratulate themselves that serious violence has been avoided—so far. Considering the danger potential of this kind of demonstration, and the enormous discomforts involved for those concerned, the results are hardly likely to justify the effort.

Yet surely the greatest danger in the trend toward violence as a means of stimulating progress and reform is that it is self-defeating. Pressed beyond a certain point, the inevitable reaction of society will be simple and outright repression.

Quite certainly, the political lessons learned by these young people in the course of their academic careers have direct and somber implications for the future of the nation as a whole.

It is true enough that progress bought at the cost of violence or the threat of violence is largely an illusion.

The hastily enacted gun laws and regulations inspired by the assassination of Robert Kennedy will not in themselves keep deadly weapons out of the hands of determined criminals.

The leaders of the student revolt at Columbia were not trying to reform the university but to destroy it, and if they are allowed to persist in their "tactics of obstruction," they may well succeed.

As for the Poor People's March on Washington, the city fathers, too, can congratulate themselves that serious violence has been avoided—so far. As for the Poor People's March on Washington, the city fathers, too, can congratulate themselves that serious violence has been avoided—so far. Considering the danger potential of this kind of demonstration, and the enormous discomforts involved for those concerned, the results are hardly likely to justify the effort.

Yet surely the greatest danger in the trend toward violence as a means of stimulating progress and reform is that it is self-defeating. Pressed beyond a certain point, the inevitable reaction of society will be simple and outright repression.

Old Wounds Are Healed In J.P. Stevens Strike

By MARGARET WILSON
Associated Press Writer

The J. P. Stevens and Co. textile corporation and many of the 71 employees it was ordered to rehire with back pay apparently are letting bygones be bygones.

Many of the 71, who said they were fired because of union activity, went back to their old jobs happily after the National Labor Relations Board ruling against Stevens was confirmed by the courts last year.

Some others were making more money in other jobs before Stevens was ordered to rehire them, and didn't take their old jobs back. And one went back to work for Stevens only to be fired again a few months later.

Stevens appealed the costly ruling by the NLRB, but the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals sided with the labor board and the Textile Workers Union of America, AFL - CIO, which was attempting to unionize Stevens plants when the firings occurred.

The ruling went into effect last December when the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review the case.

Albert Sanders, 52, had been employed by Stevens for 16 years at the Dunneen plant near Greenville, S.C., before he was fired Aug. 29.

"I couldn't find another job for three years," Sanders said. "I finally got on as a painter's helper at $1.40 an hour." He went back to the Stevens plant as a loom fixer for $2.76 an hour last Dec. 29.

"They were real nice to me when I went back and still are," he said in an interview. Sanders was the first worker discharged at the Dunneen plant during the TWUA drive to organize there. His wife, who worked in the plant office, also was sympathetic to the union but was not fired.

Sanders said his attempts to get another job at other textile mills or other businesses in the Greenville area were unsuccessful. "I told the truth about why I was fired when asked and they would say they had no openings and would call me, not to call them," he said.

He considered moving to another city after he was fired, "but I owned my own home here in Greenville and my wife worked here. Then there was my age, and I only have a high school education and no other skills."

Sanders said his brothers and sisters gave him financial help while he was unemployed.

"But I had one boy in Furman University and I had to take him out because of it," Sanders said. He said the son got a job in another state and completed his education on his own.

Now that he has his old job back, Sanders says he is not bitter.

Another employee who returned to work happily is Mrs. Rochelle Hocks, who folds towels at a Stevens plant in Roanoke Rapids, N.C.

"Everyone's been real nice and they don't bother me," she said.

Mrs. Hocks said she tried to find another job but was unsuccessful during the five years she was laid off. She had her second child in the interim and her husband remained employed so "we got by," she said.

Donald Cudd, 35, who lost his job at Stevens plant at White-moore, S.C., in 1963, was one who didn't go back because he could make better money at the job he now has.

After three years of unemployment, Cudd found work in Newberry, 17 miles from White-moore, at a corrugated box plant he has since helped unionize.

"It was rough, living off beans and 'taters a lot of the time," Cudd said. "If the union hadn't helped, we'd be starved to death."

His father, Jesse Cudd, also was fired in 1963 from the White-moore plant. Now 66, he was too old to go back to work when Stevens was ordered to make the offer.

Both men are looking forward to the back pay Stevens has been ordered to pay the 71.

National Labor Relations

Board officials have not yet computed the back pay Stevens owes the 71 workers. The pay will vary for each individual, depending on how long he or she was unemployed.

The woman who returned to work but was fired again was

Mrs. Shirley Hobbs, a mother of four who was a folder and inspector in a Roanoke Rapids plant.

She had been back at work three months when she was fired last March 13 after walking out of the plant. Mrs. Hobbs said she was ill while at work. The company said she walked off her job.

Mrs. Hobbs has since found another job in a town some distance from Roanoke Rapids, but declines to say where it is or give the name of the firm. "I don't want any trouble," she says.

While the NLRB and the union continue trying to work out the matters of back pay for the 71, the TWUA unionizing drive continues among the 40,000 Stevens employees at 51 plants in North Carolina and South Carolina. Several other TWUA complaints against Stevens also are pending before the NLRB and in the courts.

Stevens officials continue to oppose unionization and say the union seeks "money and power for itself." A company statement also said, "The plain and simple fact is that Stevens employees do not want the union to gain power and control for them," citing the unionization elections lost by the TWUA.

White Collars In Labor Unions At All-Time High

CHICAGO (AP) — White-collar workers in labor unions have reached an all-time high.

Commerce Clearing House said white-collar membership in national and international unions, including those with Canadian membership, stood at 2,744,000 in 1966.

In the United States alone, white-collar membership amounted to 2,693,000 or 9.5 per cent of the nation's wage and salary earners in white-collar occupations.

Government workers accounted for most of the increase since 1964.

Nearly two-thirds of the white-collar members reported by national unions were located in non-manufacturing industries, while more than a fourth were in government service. About 11 per cent were in manufacturing.

Blame Starlings On Shakespeare

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are plagued by starlings at your bird feeder, blame William Shakespeare.

The pugnacious bird with shiny black feathers spread through North America from Central Park in the 1890s. The starling was originally imported from England by Eugene Schefflin, drug manufacturer, philanthropist, ornithologist and Shakespeare buff. Schefflin wanted America to have all the birds mentioned in Shakespeare.

Crow Blamed For 3-Home Fire

RAIGANJ, India (AP) — A crow is blamed for a fire which killed one person and destroyed three homes in this rural area of eastern India.

Officials said the crow picked up a lighted wick from a lantern and dropped it on a thatched roof.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

Seek To Be Excused As Target Of Suit

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Greensboro Board of Education and the state superintendent of education, Dr. Charles F. Carroll, have asked that they be eliminated as defendants in a school discrimination suit.

The suit filed in U.S. District Court June 10 by J. Aiston Atkins, charged that state operation of all-Negro schools is widespread. Atkins, of Winston-Salem, a retired lawyer and newspaperman, asked appointment of a three-judge court to assume jurisdiction of the public schools and an injunction "to abolish the state's dual structure under which separate schools are operated."

The state board and Carroll answered Wednesday that they

Good Neighbor Council To Vote On Gun Curbs

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Good Neighbor Council was expected to vote today on a resolution calling for legislation requiring registration of all firearms.

The measure urges North Carolina's congressional delegation to "support within constitutional limitations a reasonable provision to insure the registration of all firearms with local law enforcement agencies."

Council Chairman D. S. Coltrane presented copies of the proposal to members at the group's opening session Wednesday and asked them to give the matter careful thought before today's closing meeting.

The resolution requests the state's Congressmen and Senators to support President Johnson's state firearms control assistance bill now under consideration.

It also urges strict enforcement of an existing state law requiring persons who obtain pistols and other hand guns to have permits. Gov. Dan Moore's Law and Order Committee and the Judicial Council, the resolution says, should "undertake a thorough study of existing gun control statutes with the intention of recommending legislation, should it be deemed necessary, for consideration in the 1969 General Assembly."

The resolution noted that the council "views with deepening concern the increase in individual and collective violence in our state and nation . . . In such an atmosphere, the virtually unrestricted, easy access to firearms aggravates and allows for the continuation of individual and collective violence."

During a discussion Wednesday of school desegregation in North Carolina, Marion Bird of Raleigh told the council local school boards "owe it to the teachers" to prepare them for the problems involved in integrating schools.

"The teachers must learn to look at all students not as white or black," he said, "but as students."

Bird is director of the Educational Leadership and Human Relations Center in Raleigh and has worked in school administration for more than 30 years.

Approval for transfer of ownership was granted by the Federal Communications Commission. Curtis & Associates have their headquarters in Greensboro. An application has also been made for a new station for Mebane-Hillsborough.

The ownership change for WEWO and WEWO-FM is expected to take place about July 1. J. Ardell Sink has been appointed General Manager of the new operation. He was formerly manager of radio station WKSK in West Jefferson, N. C.

Jimmie Rodgers Nears Recovery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Doctors say singer Jimmie Rodgers, recovering satisfactorily from his third operation since he was found in his car with a fractured skull, is expected to leave the hospital in two weeks.

Rodgers was taken from the intensive care unit of St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday, two days after a 4½-hour operation to put a metal plate in his skull.

The 34-year-old singer has claimed he was knocked down early last Dec. 1, but two police officers have contended Rodgers fell.

America's Interstate Highway System is creating 41,000 miles of highways which will go all over the country.

Full 12-Month Duty Tour For Pilots In Vietnam War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said today that all pilots flying combat runs against North Vietnam will have to serve a full 12 months of duty, rather than leaving as soon as they complete 100 missions.

An Air Force spokesman said the action was taken to eliminate inequities between pilots who fly missions against North Vietnam and those who operate against targets only in South Vietnam.

Under the old system, the Air Force said, "some aircrew members were allowed to return from Southeast Asia upon completion of 100 combat missions over North Vietnam . . ."

Most pilots have been able to do this in about 10 months, the Air Force said, but there have been a few exceptions.

On the other hand, Air Force crewmen flying solely against targets inside South Vietnam had to serve a full year of combat duty, the usual length of time for most U.S. troops in the war, regardless of the number of missions, which sometimes mounted to 300.

The Air Force denied the new order has anything to do with a pilot shortage, but it appeared obvious that extending the tours would slow up personnel rotation and thus relieve the pressure to provide replacements.

The old system allowing pilots to leave the war zone after 100 missions regardless of time was set up because flying against North Vietnam was considered a greater risk than faced in South Vietnam.

Air Force officers said that if a pilot must remain on combat duty beyond 100 missions over the North, efforts will be made to keep him out of what is called the "high risk" areas.

Navy and Marine pilots flying from carriers against targets in North Vietnam operate under no mission limit. They normally stay in the combat zone only as long as their carriers do, generally about six months at a time.

Gun Toll Survey Continues Mount

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Guns have taken the lives of 79 persons in the United States since midnight Sunday, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Of those, 41 were homicides, 28 were suicides and 10 were accidental deaths.

Three children were killed with firearms Wednesday, two by other children and one by a former mental patient.

The Florida Highway Patrol said Joseph McCants, 29, killed 3-year-old Francis Lee Fortune after holding her and two other children hostage. Earlier, officers said, he had shot and gravely wounded a Graceville policeman. McCants had been in a state mental hospital several times, police said.

Seven-year-old Wayne Royce of Wake, Virginia, was accidentally shot to death by his 10-year-old brother, Philip, who police said apparently was playing cowboy with a loaded gun.

Paul Alvin Witcher, 7, was shot and killed in a rural section of Franklin County, Virginia. Sheriff's police said a 14-year-old relative, Johnny Ray Witch-er, was playing in the basement of his home with a rifle he thought was unloaded. He fired through the window, hitting the younger boy in the head.

Demands for gun control legislation have been increased by three assassinations, the most recent being that of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Coroner Andrew J. Toman of Cook County (Chicago) said Wednesday that more persons died from gun wounds in the county during 1967 than died in automobile accidents.

He said 607 firearms deaths were reported compared with 591 traffic fatalities.

The FBI reported that approximately 6,500 persons were murdered with firearms in 1966—an average of 125 gun homicides a week. Total homicides for 1966, the FBI said, was 10,920 persons.

This included stabbings and stranglings. The FBI said 60 per cent of the homicides in America result from firearms.

The Associated Press is making a week's survey of gunshot deaths. The count began at midnight Sunday and will continue through Sunday, June 23.

Social Drinker Not The Real Traffic Menace, Says Doctor

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Not the social drinker but the chronic alcoholic is the real menace on the highway, says a physician who has made a three-year study of fatal accidents.

Dr. Melvin Selzer told a news conference at the American Medical Association convention today, "the unrecognized danger is the driver who drinks to excess and who usually has emotional or mental problems—the alcoholic."

"Of course, the risk of accident rises the more drinks you have, but the emphasis on social drinking is obscuring a much greater peril, the addict to alcohol who may have an ordinary traffic record right up to his first—and last—major accident."

Dr. Selzer, a psychiatrist at the University of Michigan's Highway Research Institute, studied the personal history of 96 drivers responsible for fatal accidents and found 36 to be known alcoholics.

"The presence of a large number of alcohol-addicted drivers in this group suggests why the problem of the 'drinking driver' has not been resolved," he said.

Dr. Selzer said alcoholics tend to have overwhelming emotional and personal problems and that this may be as important as intoxication in causing accidents.

He spoke at a program on automotive injuries at which Dr. Seymour Charles of the Physicians for Automotive Safety, Newark, N.J., charged that cars have become "the major instruments of violence and aggression in our violent society."

"Even the names of the automobiles designed to appeal the young are symbolic," he said. "They are named after predators—animals of attack and aggression."

Dr. Paul W. Gikas of the University of Michigan reported a four year study of 177 highway deaths and said that more than half the victims would have survived if they had used seat belts and shoulder straps.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nick Cole received a phone call when a postal clerk came across a letter with Cole's name but no other information except a Cincinnati telephone number. "I gave him my address," Cole said, "and he sent the letter out the next day." It was a note from an elderly aunt who didn't know Cole's address.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill giving U.S. approval to a new international "paper gold" reserve currency intended to relieve some of the strain on the dollar.

"For the first time in the world's financial history," Johnson said Wednesday, "nations will be able to create international reserves by deliberate and joint decision—and in amounts needed to support sound growth in world trade and payments."

The drawing rights on the international "paper gold" reserves could ultimately reduce the demand for gold and dollars as a medium of exchange in the steadily expanding world economy.

Officials have said the reserves would help functioning of the international two-market system for gold set up earlier this year after speculative raids on the dollar and a rush of gold buying.

The bill Johnson signed authorizes U.S. officials to vote for a charter amendment to the International Monetary Fund providing for the new reserves, a sort of currency for use among central banks in the world.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says an unfavorable balance of U.S. tourist travel payments rose to more than $2.1 billion last year—with much of the gap traced able to Canada's Expo 67.

The increase in the gap of Americans' travel expenditures abroad over foreigners' expenditures here was 30 per cent above 1966, the department said, and included an "extraordinary" rise in American spending in Canada.

Brown To Make Innocent Plea

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Football star-turned-actor Jimmy Brown says he'll plead innocent to a felony charge of battery against a peace officer.

The police force evidently made a mistake," Brown told newsmen Wednesday after a hearing was continued until Sept. 20 so he can make a movie in Spain. "I did not push an officer."

Because he is leaving the country, his bail was increased in municipal court from $1,250 to $10,000.

Authorities say Brown pushed a sheriff's deputy called to investigate reports of a disturbance at Brown's apartment June 9. Brown was accused of assault with intent to commit murder after a 22-year-old model was found injured beneath his balcony, but she refused to sign a complaint. The model, Eva Marie de Balm, Chin, is hospitalized in good condition with a shoulder injury.

Testimonial For Mrs. Spilman

A testimonial dinner honoring Mrs. J. B. Spilman, Sr. will be tonight at 7 o'clock in Raleigh at the Statler Hilton Inn. H. C. MacLean, president of the N. C. Mental Health Association, will preside over the dinner marking Mrs. Spilman's retirement as executive director of the association.

She has held the office since March 1, 1967, and will retire September 30.

None Injured In Forced Landing

DEARING, Ga. (AP) — A Navy helicopter carrying 10 persons made a forced landing in a wooded area Wednesday night after a power failure, officials said. No one was injured. The helicopter was not damaged in the landing, which occurred on a flight from Allison Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., to Shaw Air Force base near Columbia, S.C.

Lindbergh's Daughter Is Wed

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Reve Morrow Lindbergh, 22, youngest daughter of famed Atlantic-crossing pilot Charles A. Lindbergh, was married Wednesday in a private ceremony on a ranch near here.

Miss Lindbergh, a teacher at Darien, Conn., was married to Richard W. Brown, 22, Wellesley, Mass., also a teacher. The wedding was at the ranch of her brother, Land Lindbergh.

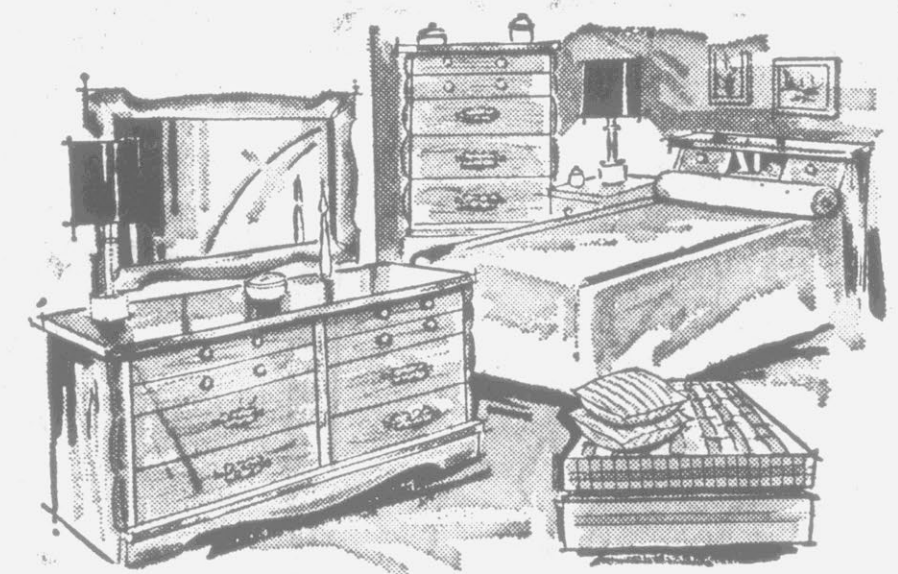

Reportedly, her father, now an aviation consultant, was unable to attend the ceremony.

Realtors Show 'Studied Calm' In Confronting Supreme Court Ruling

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most real estate men and local officials polled on the potential effects of the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling this week barring racial discrimination in all housing are approaching the question with studied calm.

Many expressed confusion over how the decision will be implemented and how it will affect local and state laws on open housing.

Typical of reaction from realtors was the comment of Frank R. Hart, president of Walker and Lee, a residential brokerage firm in Orange County, Calif.

"In actual practice it will have very little effect," he said. "We sell minority people at this moment... whether a seller can be forced to sign a deed even against his own wishes is getting close to another issue of basic constitutional rights."

And C. D. Lebey, a director of the Atlanta Real Estate Board, summed up the feeling of many, saying the decision "is just one more factor than in many instances will cause confusion.

concern and perhaps misunderstanding on the part of many home sellers and home buyers. I don't think anyone can really say to what extent real estate will be affected."

Gene Cosner, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said the Supreme Court decision, holding that an 1866 law bans discrimination in all housing, "makes any further open occupancy legislation unnecessary."

Robert Karpe, president of the California Real Estate Association, said he did not believe the ruling "will have any effect on association members in the day-to-day operation of their businesses."

"We have had for many years in our association code of ethics a stipulation that we will offer property equally to any person without regard to race, creed or color. In this regard, I think we have gone further than the Supreme Court, since its ruling only covers racial discrimination..."

Jack Kleeman, executive vice president of the Chicago Real Estate Board, said he felt it was "too difficult to make a judgment" at this time.

Saying that local laws have done little "except to cause a little more talk," Clifford Robedeaux, past president of the Milwaukee Board of Realtors told:

"This probably puts us back to where we were before the agitation started. We had been making good progress, and there had been sales to Negroes. But all this agitation and violence caused a hardening of attitudes. Maybe people can relax now."

Segregationist Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said it was time for Congress "to curb the Supreme Court."

Said Senate minority leader

Everett Dirksen: "The court has uttered the last word."

Bircher, a rising senior percussion major in the ECU School of Music, won the post in elections held after this year's final performance of the band.

Named to serve as vice president was Lawrence E. Finnegan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Finnegan of 11201 Poplar Road, Fairfax Station, Va. Finnegan is a trombone major and will also be a senior.

The two officers will help in planning activities of the band, which include an annual tour, various home concerts and trips with the ECU football team.

Actors Equity Agrees To Go Back To Work

By TOM KELLY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced today a settlement of the three-day strike by Actors Equity that darkened 19 Broadway theaters and nine road company shows.

After meeting through the night at Gracie Mansion with negotiators for the union and the League of New York Theaters Lindsay said at 6 a.m.:

"Performances in the Broadway theaters will be resumed tonight."

Lindsay, appearing drawn after the long night's ordeal, said the contract will run for three years and calls for wage rates of $145 a week the first year, $150 the second and $155 the last year.

Appearing with Lindsay at the news conference were Angus Duncan, executive director of the union, and producer David Merrick, spokesman for the theater group.

Duncan said the contract had been approved by the Equity Council and would be explained to the membership this afternoon but said no ratification vote was needed to open the theaters tonight.

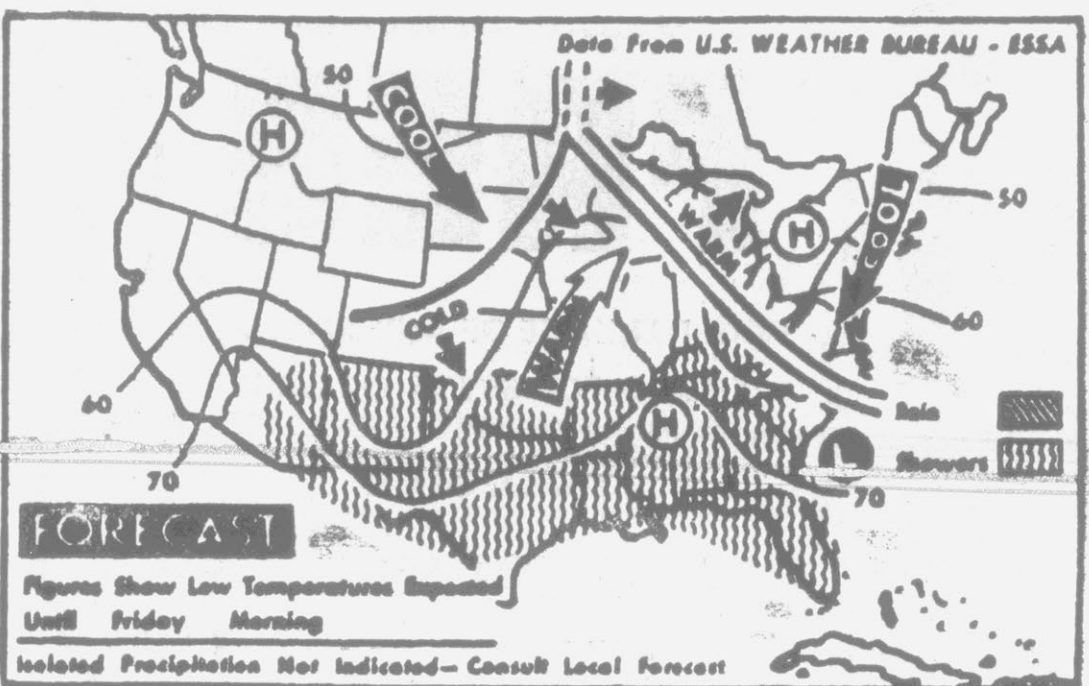

Merrick said it was "very likely there would be a rise in theater prices," but said he did not know how much of an increase would be needed.

Lindsay, who summoned both sides to meet him after the union urged him to intervene, said "satisfactory agreement" was reached concerning the use of alien actors"—another major issue in the strike.

The union had been seeking a two-and-a-half year pact with a minimum weekly wage of $200 as well as guarantees against hiring foreign actors to displace Equity members from roles.

Charge Driver Failed To Stop

John Coleman Herring, 27, of Wilson was charged with failing to stop for a stop signal following investigation of a 1:15 p.m. collision yesterday at the intersection of Fourth and Evans Streets.

Police said a truck driven by Herring and a car operated by Margaret May Roberts, 27, of 408 Highland Ave. collided, causing an estimated $700 damage to the Roberts car and about $300 damage to the truck.

Mrs. Roberts was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries she received in the crash.

About 13,000 species of fossilized insects have been recorded and described.

City Sending Notices To Residents Who Failed To Register Cars And Dogs

Greenville residents who own dogs and cars, and who have failed to register them will be hearing from city officials.

Letters are being sent to persons listing dogs and cars on tax abstracts, but who have failed to pay the $1 registration fee for them.

According to City Manager Harry Hagerty, notices are being sent to about 1,400 dog owners and 1,000 vehicle owners.

Scout Going To Philmont Camp

Michael Wayne Robinson of Winterville is leaving on June 22 for a trip to the Philmont Scout Reservation in Cimarron, New Mexico.

Robinson, a member of Boy Scout Troop 550 in Winterville, has been awarded the trip for achieving the highest rank within Troop 550 and for showing outstanding leadership qualities.

He advanced from the rank of Second Class Scout to Star Scout during the period covering the contest for this trip.

Walter A. Dail Jr. is the Scoutmaster of Troop 550 sponsored by the Winterville Kiwanis Club.

Robinson will depart for New Mexico from Camp Charles, near Bailey, on June 22 along with other scouts from Eastern North Carolina. The trip will be by chartered bus.

Mike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd G. Robinson of Winterville. He is a student at Winterville High School and attends the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church.

Hagerty said a total of 2,007 dogs were registered in 1967 while only 1,220 have been registered this year to date. A total of 9,321 vehicles were registered during 1967 while 9,101 autos have been registered this year.

Tax abstracts which list dogs and cars have been compared with the list of registrations on file at city hall and the notices, he said, are being sent to those who listed pets and vehicles on the tax abstracts but who have failed to register them.

The dogs and autos should be registered with City Clerk W. N. Moore, located in the Municipal Building, before July 2 to avoid penalties.

City ordinances require owners to register their dogs and autos with the city clerk annually.

The $1 fee for each registration is to defer administrative costs, Hagerty said.

According to Hagerty, members of the Greenville Police Department will visit the persons who fail to respond to the letters.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 20, 1968

State Bank Downs College View, 10-4

State Bank defeated College View, 10-4, last night in Teener League action. The game, scheduled for tonight, was moved up because field conditions last night did not allow the play of the usual doubleheader. That pair of games will be played to-night.

In the league standings, Planters Bank holds down a 7-1 record, while Home Builders is 5-3, and State Bank is 4-3. Pepsi-Cola is fourth with a 3-4 record, followed by Carolina Dairy, 3-5, and College View, 1-7.

State Bank started the scoring in the first inning, pushing two runs across. Gary Harris singled and was moved to second by a balk. Russ Smith and Jimmy Paige both walked to load the bases. A walk to Robert Kear scored Harris and Jeff Cargile reached on an error, allowing Smith to score for a 2-0 lead.

In the top of the third, College View rallied for three runs to take the lead. Lynn Hudson walked, as did Buddy Smith and Jim McDermott, loading the bases. Larry Hutton was hit by a pitch, scoring Hudson, and Tommy Durham doubled to drive in Smith and McDermott, giving College View a 3-2 lead.

But it didn't last long. State Bank came back with five runs in their half of the third, taking a 7-3 edge. Smith started things off with a single. He then stole second and took third on an error. Paige walked and also stole second, and both scored on Robert Kear's double. Kear moved into third on a passed ball, and Jack Morris walked. John Spillman also drew a walk, loading the bases. Kear scored on a single by Larry Dixon, and a balk brought Morris across. Harris walked to reload the sacks, and a walk to Smith scored Spillman with the fifth run of the inning.

State added another run in the fourth. Kear doubled, moved up on an out and scored on a passed ball.

The final two State runs scored ed in the fifth. John Conway walked and stole both second and third, scoring on Paige's single. Paige then stole second and third, coming across on an error for a 10-3 lead.

College View tried to put together a sixth-inning rally, but could come up with only one run. Gene Vincent reached on an error which allowed him to move to second. A wild pitch put him on third, and he scored on Howard Leggett's single.

State Bank's pitching team of Kear and Jeff Cargile limited College View to just two hits, a single by Leggett and Durham's double.

Leaders Win Church Games

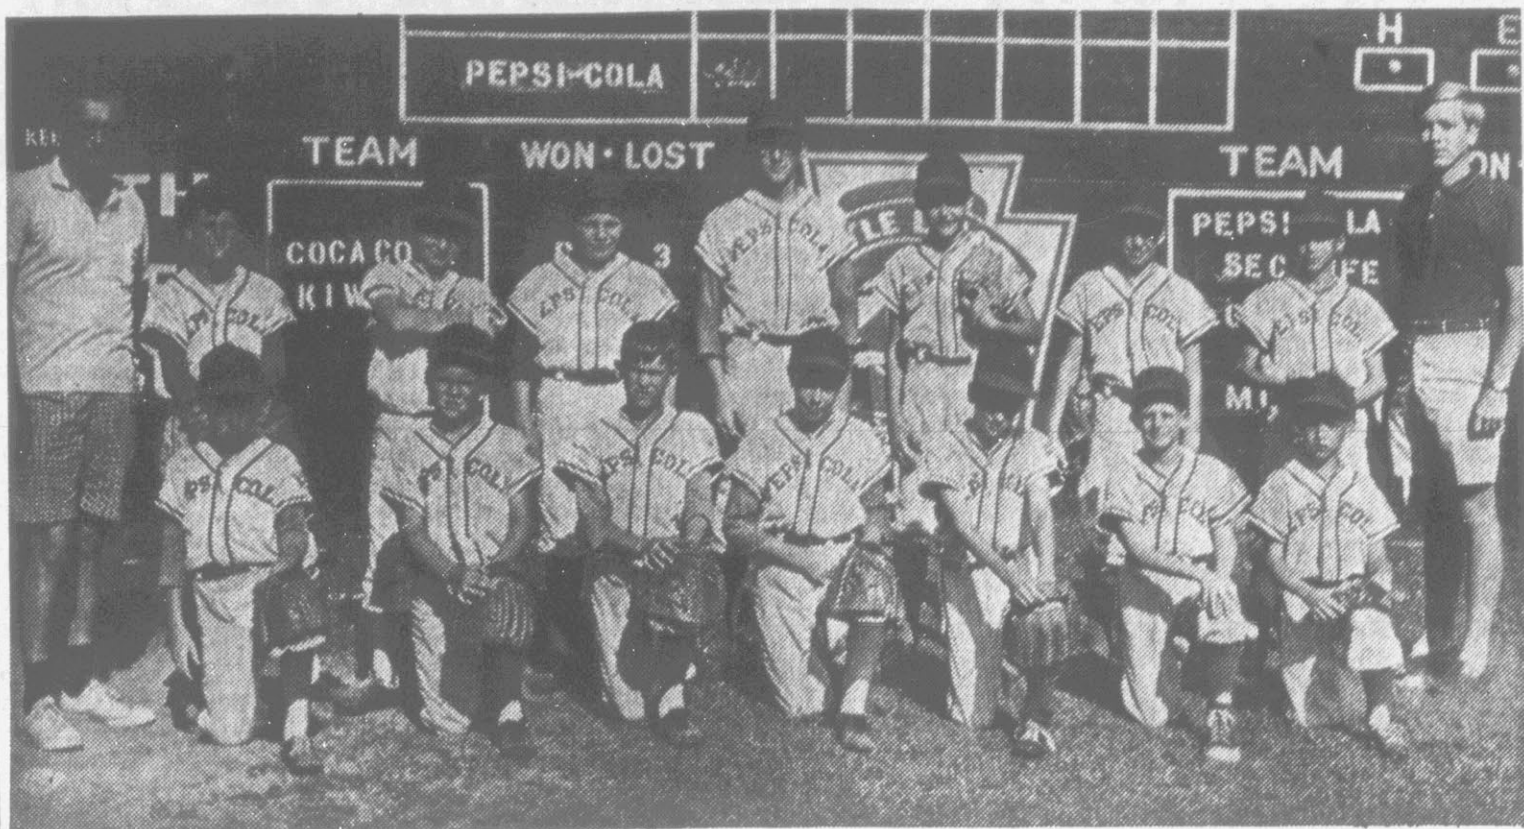

First place First Presbyterian picked up another victory last night in the Church Softball League with a 19-3 romp over Oakmont. In the other game, Immanuel Baptist, a game behind, kept pace with an 11-6 win over Jarvis.

Presbyterian holds a 9-1 record thus far, while St. James and Immanuel are tied for second with 8-2 marks. Grace and Mt. Pleasant follow with 5-4 records, while Oakmont is 5-5. Meadowbrook is 4-6, Gum Swamp is 2-6, Pentecostal is 1-8 and Jarvis is 1-9.

In the opener, Presbyterian scored enough to win in the first inning, taking a 4-0 lead. Oakmont came back with three in their half of the second, but Presbyterian scored two more in the bottom of the frame to hold a 6-3 advantage.

In the second contest, Immanuel edged into a 2-0 lead in the first inning, and saw that chiseled to 2-1 as Jarvis came up with a run in the top of the fourth.

That fired Immanuel up, however, and they came back with six runs in the bottom of the frame for an 8-1 edge. Jarvis rallied for five in the sixth, cutting it to 8-7, but Immanuel came back with three more to hold for the win.

TAR HEEL CHAMPIONS — Pepsi-Cola has won the Tar Heel Little League championship for the third straight year. Marichal Cops 13th Victory, Ninth In Row, As Phillies Fall By 5-1

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

The strong young arms were at it again in the National League Wednesday night. A couple of strong old ones did pretty well, too.

Juan Marichal, who's pushing 30 years and maybe victories as well, won his 13th game and ninth straight, pitching San Francisco to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia.

Elderly Bob Veale, all of 32, hurled a six-hitter and Pittsburgh won its eighth straight, 2-1 over Los Angeles.

So much for the senior citizens.

Steve Carlton, 23, headed the kiddie corps' show with a one-hitter, hurling St. Louis to a 4-0 victory over Chicago. Jerry Koosman, 24, won his 11th game for the New York Mets, pitching a five-hitter to beat Houston 8-2. And Ron Reed, 25, fired a four-hitter for Atlanta's 3-1 victory over Cincinnati.

In the American League, Boston dropped Detroit 8-5. Minnesota shut out Washington 4-0. Cleveland topped Chicago 2-1. Oakland downed Baltimore 5-3 and California nipped New York 3-2.

Marichal, 32, leads the majors in victories, and has achieved his total with just over one-third of the season over. It's a timetable that could lead to 30—a plateau that hasn't been reached since Dizzy Dean did it in 1934.

The Giants' ace had help against Philadelphia from another elderly operative—Willie Mays. The Amazing One slashed consecutive triples in the seventh and eighth innings, scoring two runs and knocking in one, as the Giants snapped a 1-1 tie. The two triples tied Mays with Ty Cobb for fourth place on the alltime extra base shutout.

hit list with 1,139.

Carlton, 32, allowed only a fourth inning single by Glenn Beckert and hurled his fourth shutout. He struck out nine and permitted just four base runners.

Orlando Cepeda provided all the offense Carlton needed, hammering a three-run homer in the bottom of the third inning against loser Rich Nye. It was Cepeda's eighth homer of the season.

Veale outpitched another of the strong young arms—Los Angeles' Bill Singer—as the Pirates beat LA with a Dodger-like attack.

Maury Wills singled in the sixth inning, moved to second on a sacrifice, reached third on a passed ball and came in on Willie Stargell's sacrifice fly, tying the game at 1-1. In the seventh, Gene Alley walked, stole second, took third on Singer's wild pickoff throw and scored on Jerry May's single.

Koosman, 11-2, tied a Met club record with his sixth consecutive victory and breezed past the Astros.

Cleon Jones sparked a four-run first inning rally with a triple and then homered in the fifth as the Mets accomplished the fastest knockout of a pitcher in their history by disposing of Don Wilson after the first three batters reached base in the first inning.

Reed, who won his first six decisions and then dropped three in a row, finally won No. 7 by beating the Reds.

The young right-hander had a two-hitter through eight innings before consecutive ninth inning doubles by Vada Pinson and Fred Whitfield cost him his hits and Cleo Boyer tagged a

Felix Millan had four straight home run for the Braves.

Pepsi Wins To Claim TH Title

Pepsi-Cola defeated Security Life, 2-1, yesterday, to claim the 1968 Tar Heel Little League championship. It was the third straight title for Pepsi.

With two games left for each team, Pepsi posts an 11-2 record, while Security Life is in second place with a 7-6 record. Greenville Tobacco is third at 6-7, while the Elks, Moose and Exchange are knotted up in last with 5-8 marks.

Yesterday's title game was a hurling duel between David Clifton and Donald Cannon on Pepsi and Wes Puryear for Security Life. The Clifton-Cannon combination allowed three hits, striking out 11 and walking three. Puryear gave up four hits, struck out 13 and walked two.

But Pepsi scored its first two batters and that proved to be just enough to claim the victory.

Jerry Griffin led off with a single and Cannon walked. They moved up on a wild pitch, and Lonnie Smith's fielder's choice scored Griffin. Danny Norris reached on an error, scoring Cannon for the 2-0 lead.

And for Pepsi that was it. They got one man on base in each of the remaining innings except the sixth when two reached, but they never really threatened again.

Meanwhile, Security tried to struggle back. But they found the same problem, an inability to put men on base. One reached in each of the first two innings, but Security was shut out in the third. In the fourth Clifton gave up a single and walked two batters, loading the bases, and Cannon was brought in, striking out two and getting the lead runner in a force play to maintain the shutout.

Finally in the fifth, Security got a run. With two outs, Puryear tried to help his own cause, getting a hit. He stole second, and came around to score when Phil Dash reached on an error.

Pepsi then came up with the third out, and kept Security from threatening in the sixth to maintain the lead and claim the win and the title.

Griffin was the only batter on either team to get more than one hit, picking up two for Pepsi.

By taking first, Pepsi automatically claims first seeding in the City playoffs which start next week. They are the only team to have been seeded thus far in either league.

Detroit Fans Draw No Praise

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (A) — Boston's Ken Harrelson blasted Detroit baseball fans after being struck in the back Wednesday night by a heavy duty firecracker in the ninth inning.

Harrelson drove in four runs in the Red Sox' 8-5 victory over the American League leading Tigers.

Harrelson said the firecracker, one of five tossed into right field in the ninth inning, exploded in back of him.

"What if it landed in front of my face," said Harrelson. "I'm blind. A few fans like that give a city like Detroit a bad name all the time. Detroit is the only town in the league where this happens. You don't get that stuff in the rest of the league."

Harrelson said fans bombarded left fielder Joe Lahoud and centerfielder Reg Smith with beer cans and bottles in the late innings after Detroit had fallen behind 5-4 in the seventh on Harrelson's three-run homer.

With two out and two strikes on Don Wert in the Detroit ninth, the Detroit management announced the game would be forfeited unless fans stopped throwing things onto the field. The public address announcement came after another firecracker exploded near Harrelson in right field. Wert struck out to end the game.

Harrelson tossed his glove down and began to walk off the field but was urged to return to his position by umpire Al Salerno.

"If there hadn't been two strikes on Wert I'd have walked off the field," said Harrelson. "This is ridiculous. There were six guys screaming and cursing in right field ... with women and children standing there ... and not a cop around."

Wake Golfers Take NCAA Tourney Lead

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAS CRUCES, N. M. (AP)—Grier Jones and Allen Miller, studying toward business degrees, put a little of their schooling to work on the golf course—saving strokes.

Jones, a 22-year-old Oklahoma State money and banking student, and Miller, 19, an insurance major at the University of Georgia, went into today's second round of the NCAA golf championship tied.

Their golf was hotter than the 88-degree sun rays beating on the New Mexico State course Wednesday as each fired NCAA record-tying 65s—six under par.

They held a two-stroke lead over Wake Forest University's Jack Lewis and Houston's Doug Olson, whose 67 saved his defending champion Cougars from falling in the middle of the pack.

As it was, Wake Forest at 269 strokes or five-under par, took a three-stroke lead into the second 18-hole round. Arizona State, paced by Paul Purtzer's 68, was next with 282.

Wake Forest's Deacons were led by Lewis' 67. Following closely were teammates Johnny Harris at 69, Leonard Thompson at 70 and Chip Lewis at 73. The fifth Deacon player, Joe Inman, shot a first-day 75.

Houston, which seeks its fifth straight title, and Oklahoma State were tied at 283 strokes.

"There's nothing safe in team play," said Wake Forest coach Jesse Haddock. "I don't think three shots are safe. I'd be happy to win by one shot."

Olson provided one of the most colorful shows, wearing bright gold, pin-striped slacks and walking down the fairways with a damp towel over his head to shield the sun from his fair complexion. When putting he would cradle the club shaft, hands far apart, and the handle tucked into his belly to steady his shot.

Also at 68 were Albert Erskine of Michigan and Allen Powers of South Carolina.

Also in the top echelons going into today's round were Mike Spann of Davidson at 72 and Charles Lynch of North Carolina at 74.

The field will be cut after today's round to the top 16 teams and 32 individuals plus any players no more than ten strokes behind the leader.

Killebrew's 1,000th Hit, Chance's 100th Victory Spark Twins To Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
A baseball equation: 1,000 plus 100 equals six. At least that was the formula used by the Minnesota Twins.

Harmon Killebrew singled home Minnesota's first run—the 1,000th hit of his big-league career—and Dean Chance pitched a three-hitter for his 100th major league victory as the Twins beat Washington 4-0 Wednesday night for their sixth straight triumph.

In other American League action, Oakland topped Baltimore 5-3, California nipped the New York Yankees 3-2, Boston outslugged Detroit 8-5 and Cleveland edged the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

In the National League Pittsburgh nipped Los Angeles 2-1, he broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run St. Louis blanked the Chicago Cubs 4-0, Atlanta turned back Cincinnati 3-1, San Francisco beat Philadelphia 5-1 and the New York Mets trounced Houston 8-2.

Killebrew's hit drove in Ted Uhlaender, who had doubled, in the fifth inning, and the run was all Chance needed in running his record to 6-8 with his second shutout and sixth complete game of the season.

The veteran right-hander struck out 10, walked none and allowed just two runners as far as second in sending the Senators to their eighth straight defeat.

Uhlaender homered and Jackie Hernandez singled in two more runs for the Twins in the seventh.

Pinch hitter Floyd Robinson gave Oakland its victory when he broke a 3-3 tie with a two-run double in the seventh. The hit came off relief pitcher Roger Nelson with two out and the bases loaded via walks to Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson sandwiched around Sal Bando's double.

All three Baltimore runs off Jim Hunter, who went the distance, were unearned.

California gained its victory on Steve Barber's wildness, a double and an error. With one out in the ninth, Barber issued his 10th walk to pinch hitter Woody Held. Pinch runner Tom Burgmeier then scored when Vic Davalillo doubled and right fielder Andy Kosco fumbled the ball.

Leo Rodriguez singled home two California runs in the third. Joe Pepitone homered in the fourth and Jake Gibbs in the seventh off winner Sammy Ellis to tie it for the Yankees.

Ken Harrelson's hitting overcame five Boston errors and led the Red Sox past Detroit. Harrelson singled home a run in the first and put Boston ahead 5-4 with a three-run homer, his 15th in the seventh. The Red Sox added three unearned runs in the eighth.

Willie Horton hit his 18th homer and Norm Cash also belted one for Detroit.

Luis Tiant registered his 10th victory against five losses for

Humphrey Calls For Re-Examining Policies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey called today for re-examination of the "old policies" but Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller charges both Humphrey and GOP rival Richard M. Nixon want to relive the past.

And Nixon says the only way to bring change if Humphrey is the Democratic presidential nominee will be for Democrats, Republicans and independents to join Nixon, "marching under a Republican banner." Humphrey, ending his campaign moratorium since Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's assassination, called for the policy re-examination in prepared National Press Club address.

He said the next president faces a new period in history in which "the old premises, the old policies, all the old way of doing things are being brought into question."

The vice president said "the status quo when it sustains hum-ger, injustice . . . or subjugation of one man by another" will not be accepted—but he did not say the old policies should be cast aside wholesale.

"There is nothing less in this," he said, "than the need to re-examine — and to change where necessary — our national priorities, the allocation of our resources, the structures and framework in which we work."

Humphrey said he means to rally Americans "to do whatever is necessary to make this Democratic system of ours bend and shape to new conditions as it always has before."

But New York Gov. Rockefeller said Humphrey would "live the last four years all over" — and he said Nixon, his opponent for the GOP nomination, advocates "the leadership that failed eight years ago."

Rockefeller made the direct, naming-names attack in Cleveland and said he had read newspaper reports Nixon would not accept his challenge to a debate.

But Nixon, in New York, continued to ignore Rockefeller and concentrated on Humphrey.

"If as generally expected Hubert Humphrey is the Democratic nominee," Nixon said, "there will be one way that those Democrats who want change can get a change"—voting for Nixon.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Humphrey's Democratic opponent, was celebrating his decisive New York primary delegate victory—and said he will press for a share of the 65 additional delegates to be named later by the Democratic State Committee.

With some contests in New York's Tuesday primary still undecided, McCarthy had 52 of the 123 delegates at stake, allies of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy 25 and Humphrey 5, or possibly 6.

Rockefeller had 71 delegates automatically, plus 2 more in the 11 other contests in which his backers were challenged by those of Nixon.

Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace, joining the debate over who can bring change, said in Jacksonville, Fla., that electing a Republican president would be "just changing horses, but not changing directions."

The Gallup Poll, meanwhile, showed Wallace leading both Nixon and Humphrey in Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina with Wallace favored by 47 per cent of the voters and Democratic party professionals in the five-state area.

UN Completes Work On Its Nuclear Pact

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations has completed its action on the treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, and the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are expected to open it for signature in Washington, London and Moscow before the end of the month.

The Security Council welcomed declarations Wednesday by the three atomic powers that they would seek the council's immediate aid for any non-nuclear country subjected to nuclear aggression or threat after the treaty.

The three pushed such a proposal through the council by a vote of 10-0, with Algeria, Brazil, France, India and Pakistan abstaining. A week earlier, a resolution commending the treaty had gone through the General Assembly by a vote of 95-4 with 21 abstentions.

After the council acted, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov said the road was now clear for opening the treaty for signature.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg said the United States would "move as speedily as possible" to do that "at a very early date," in concert with the two other powers.

The treaty, drafted by the United States and the Soviet Union and sent here from the Geneva Disarmament Committee, commits countries with nuclear weapons not to transfer them to other countries with nuclear weapons not to transfer them to other countries and those without them not to acquire them. It will take effect when ratified by those two, Britain and any 40 other signers.

The "hot line" communications line between Washington and Moscow became operational in August, 1963.

Black Muslim Leaders Stress Self-Reliance

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — God Helps Those Who Help Themselves! That headline, complete with exclamation point, appeared over an article by Elijah Muhammad in a recent issue of the Black Muslim weekly tabloid newspaper, "Muhammad Speaks."

The newspaper reached newsstands as the Poor People's Campaign moved on Washington to demand aid, but the head of the Black Muslims made no mention of the marchers, most of them Negroes.

"Imagine people with B.A., B.S., M.A., M.S. and Ph. D. degrees begging the white man to give them a job and care for them as their fathers did in slavery times," Muhammad wrote.

Muhammad suggested: "Get business minded."

He also wrote: "My followers and I, by the help of God, and with the respect of the nations of the earth, are trying to do something for ourselves."

Muhammad and many Black Muslims seem to be practicing what they preach.

Muhammad sent a letter to his followers March 20 in an effort to raise money to buy a Greek Orthodox Church building on Chicago's South Side. (A spokesman for the church said the building was not for sale, however.)

"I am asking you to agree with me that we now take our savings and turn it over to the Mosque No. 2 Bank here (for one year or six months if you cannot do without your money) to purchase this place," the letter said. "We will give the same rate of interest that the devil (Muslim synonym for the white man) is paying you on your money."

"We are sure we can pay every penny back according to our increase in the business of our restaurant, our supermarket, and our farms in the South and in Michigan," the letter continued.

"Will you please sacrifice to help raise this $3 million since we have spent over $2 million in cash, buying farms and expanding our businesses in Chicago?" the leader asked.

John Ali, Muslim contact for reporters, asked about the income of Muhammad or the Muslims, declined to give figures.

"No religious group does," he commented.

Just how much the Muslim organization does is a secret, although its monthly income has been estimated as up to $120,000 a month, from sales of the newspapers (15 cents in Illinois, 20 cents out of state), advertising in its pages; dues from members; donations from restaurants and other concerns owned by the organization, and income from the sale of Elijah

Muhammad's records.

Ali also declined to give out figures for the Muslims' national membership which has been placed at 50,000 or 70,000 or more. But he and others indicated the total was growing.

"People are coming around to our way of thinking every day—organizations and individuals," John Ali said in an interview.

But he didn't name any groups that may be bidding for an association of some kind.

"In recent months they (Muslims) began to communicate more with other militant groups," said Sgt. Richard Brandt of the Intelligence Division of the Chicago Police Department.

"Other groups are trying to associate themselves with the Muslims," Brandt said.

The Muslims, long set in their nationalistic and separatist ways, have been working for years for black economic power. Now many other Negroes are beginning to see it as a means of self-improvement.

"I believe that since Cassius Clay came out for them (Muslims) membership has grown somewhat," Sgt. Brandt said.

Brandt estimated the Muslims number 3,000 in Chicago. Edmund Brooks of the Chicago Commission on Human Relations, a city government agency, said he believes the membership is larger, but offered no figures.

The two men agreed that the Muslims are not causing any problems at this time in Chicago.

"They're going into small business enterprises," Brooks said.

Elijah Muhammad, 79 now and the leader for 35 years, is the key figure in the Muslim business-religion establishment. He lives in a 19-room mansion in a racially mixed neighborhood on the South Side. John Ali, asked about Muhammad's health, replied he is very well.

The sect has the University of Islam, a mosque and the newspaper "Muhammad Speaks."

A check through the publication and the Chicago telephone book shows businesses with names using such Muslim terms as Mosque, Shabazz, Temple or Salaam. They include two cleaners, a supermarket, a barber-shop, a catering service, a television shop and two clothing stores.

John Ali declined to say if all are Muslim-owned. Others, he said, may run some of them.

"People can choose the names they want," he commented.

In the May 17 edition of "Muhammad Speaks" were large help-wanted ads by Shabazz Restaurant and the Temple No. 2 Clothing Factory.

A half-page was filled with a listing of Muhammad's mosques. They added up to 50 in 46 cities spread across the country. No. 1 is in Detroit, where the cult was founded in the early 1930s by W. D. Fard, who vanished in 1933. No. 2 is in Chicago.

Muslims are trying to acquire more property. Michigan State Police sent a letter to Chicago police in February saying they were watching the sale of farm land in Cass County in the southwestern section of the state.

They had heard rumors that Negro groups were buying land in that area. The name of Cassius Clay had been mentioned. One parcel, the letter said, had been bought by the Progressive Land Development Corp. of Chicago. Chicago police replied that files indicated the president of the corporation was Raymond Sharrieff, son-in-law of Elijah Muhammad.

No Votes From 'Miss Liberty'

NEW YORK (AP) — The greatest "lady" in the world is in Assemblyman Louis DeSalvio's district, but the legislator can never get her vote.

The Statue of Liberty stands on Liberty Island, which is within New York's 60th Assembly District.

DeSalvio's district actually is on four islands, but the Democratic lawmaker can safely confine his campaigning to the southern tip of Manhattan Island.

In fact, it is doubtful whether DeSalvio can get even one vote from his other three islands.

The latest Board of Elections' enrollment book shows no registered voters on Liberty Island or on Ellis Island, once a center for immigrants.

The other island is Governors Island, now occupied by the Coast Guard. The enrollment book lists only two registered voters there. One is a Republican, and the other listed no party affiliation.

TREE-SAVING TRY

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A movement has begun to spare a healthy Russian white oak tree with a 30-inch diameter trunk that grew from an acorn brought from Russia in 1905. The tree sits in the path of a new road to be built on the University of Nebraska campus.

World Monetary Problems Still Show Continued Crisis Condition

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If any evidence is needed that the world's monetary problems are still close to a crisis condition it has been provided by reports of a deterioration in the British trade balance.

In recent years confidence in paper money, not just in the pound sterling, has declined steadily, the result of inflation, international payments problems and internal turmoil that has made people question the societies of which the paper is a symbol.

In the past several months the world has been less eager to hold dollars. The British have been forced to devalue the pound from $2.80 to $2.40. And now the French and their franc are wobbling.

Stated simply, the danger is that these major currencies, which provide the oil for the machinery of international commerce, might become so unacceptable that the gears will begin grinding and might even jam.

Dr. Pierre Rinfret, an international consulting economist, has just released a special report for his corporate customers, called "Crisis and You," in which he describes a financial emergency.

It exists, he says, "when people abandon all forms of securities, bank deposits, debt instruments and representations of money for cash in the strongest currency available, including gold and silver."

The cash, therefore, "is taken out of productive use and disappears into hoard." It is hoarded because to leave it invested might mean, in the hoarder's view, that it would deteriorate or be unavailable when needed.

To some extent this already is occurring. Since November speculators have converted as much as $3 billion of paper into gold, much of it from U.S. vaults. And the situation still isn't stabilized.

If improvements in monetary matters — or the certain prospect of improvements — do not develop in the next few months, some analysts look for more crises, perhaps in the fall, when the International Monetary Fund meets.

The British are trying every measure to avoid another crisis. Britain is on an austerity diet of taxes and wage controls designed to reduce intake and boost output. It's a boxer's regiment. Half a year after devaluation, when results should be showing, the British have announced that May exports dropped and imports rose, the opposite of what was desired.

The trade figures showed exports $12 million less than in May and imports $24 million higher, despite the fact that exports were made more competitive and imports more expensive by the devaluation.

As a consequence, more faith in the pound was lost. Questions arose as to its real worth, and many people felt that worth was less than $2.40. And so the pound dropped sharply.

Now the question arises: How far would the price of the pound drop if the British and their allies didn't come into the market to buy pounds and thus maintain the price around $2.40?

Talks already are developing among financial men that this artificial price maintenance cannot continue much longer without a reversal in the British trade picture.

If this improvement does not come the pound could be devalued again or left without supports to seek its real level based on supply and demand.

State Tie That Failed To Bind

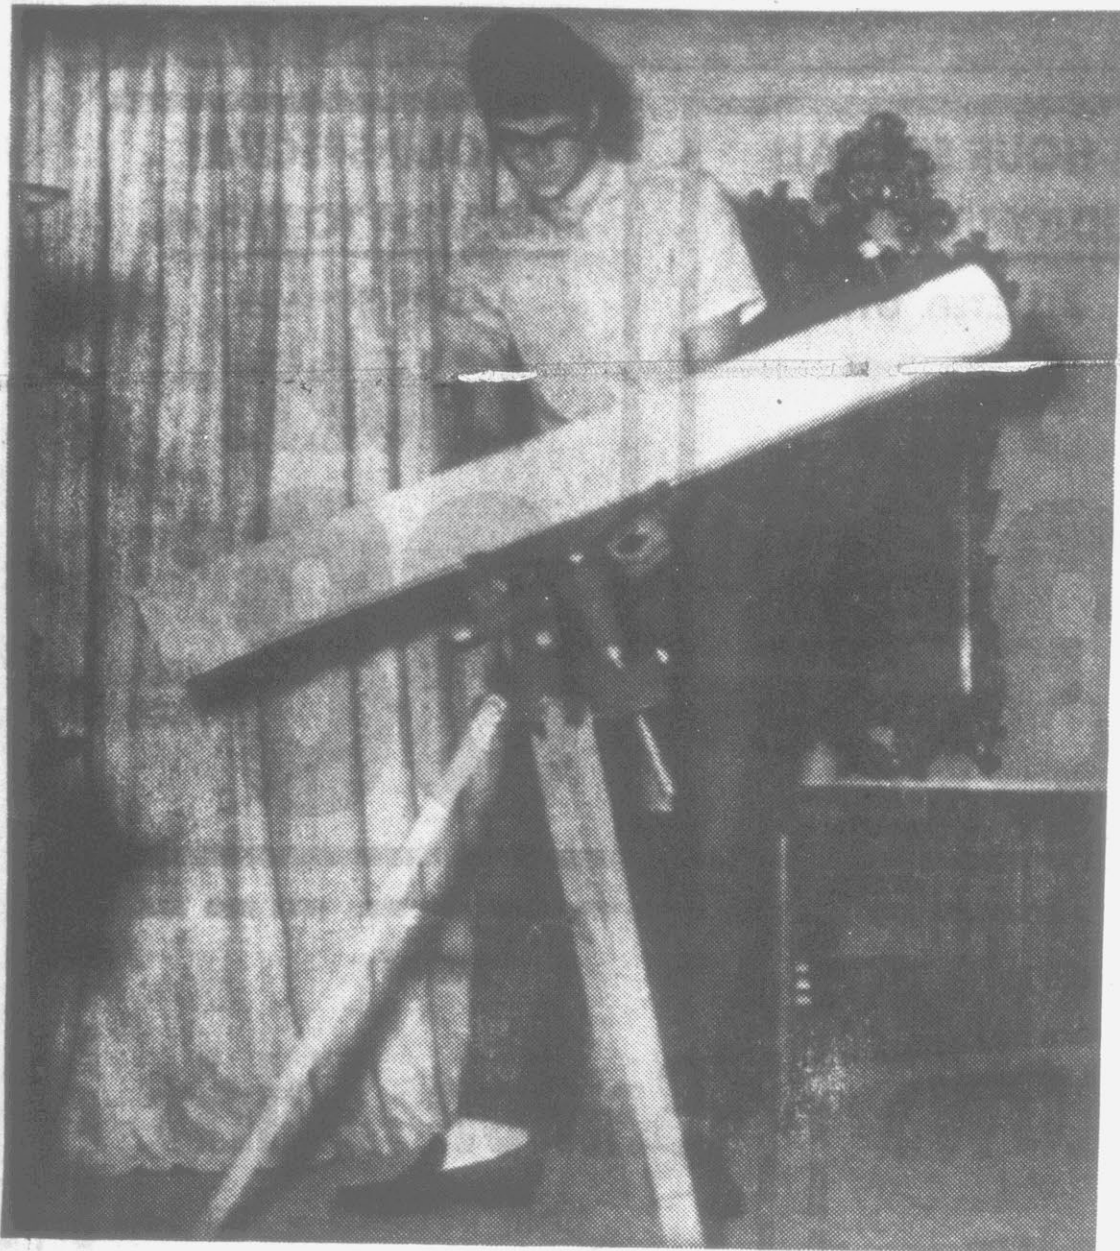

PHOENIX (AP) — After passing the Arizona House of Representatives, a bill to make the bola tie the official neckwear of the state was killed following heated debate in the State Senate.

Some called the bill "ridiculous," while others opposed the measure because it did not define what constitutes a bola tie. A bola tie is a woven leather cord held together by an ornamental clasp, usually made of silver, copper or turquoise.

Had To Evict Cured Patients

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — State officials have had to order a number of cured tuberculosis patients to leave a sanitarium near Calcutta.

They said some of the patients enjoyed the free care and had stayed on as long as five years after they were pronounced cured. Meanwhile more than 500 patients were on the waiting list for admission.

FIVE-CENT FERRY

The Statue of Liberty stands on its sun-lit water path.

You get the taste of the wind, the sound of mighty engines throbbing beneath your feet, rolling water and whisperings of ports throughout the world. And it only costs a nickel.

You get a 25-minute ride, with a water-side view of the Statue of Liberty, the panoramic dance of seagulls chasing the foamy wake and mighty ships passing by with the help of churning tugs while, around you, is the sweeping view of New York's Upper Bay.

It is one of the lowest priced pleasure rides available in the country today—the Staten Island Ferry in New York City.

It doesn't matter when you arrive at the green-painted building at the tip of Manhattan; the ferryboats leave around the clock at 10-15 minute intervals. They carry people, animals, trucks, kids and food (if you want a snack).

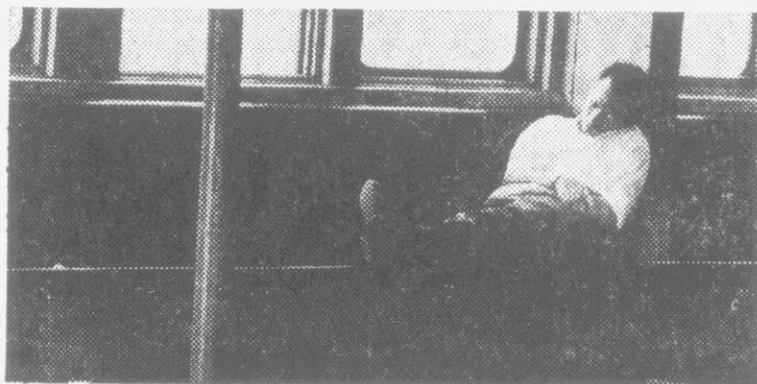

Depending on when you make the ride to the borough of Richmond (Staten Island), you can walk decks touched with fog, snow, rain, wind, warmth or cold. You can almost see tidal currents coming at you from beyond the bridge spanning the pathway to the ocean.

The trip adds up to a money-loser for the City over the year, but the four million tourists who ride it spend money elsewhere and make it all worthwhile.

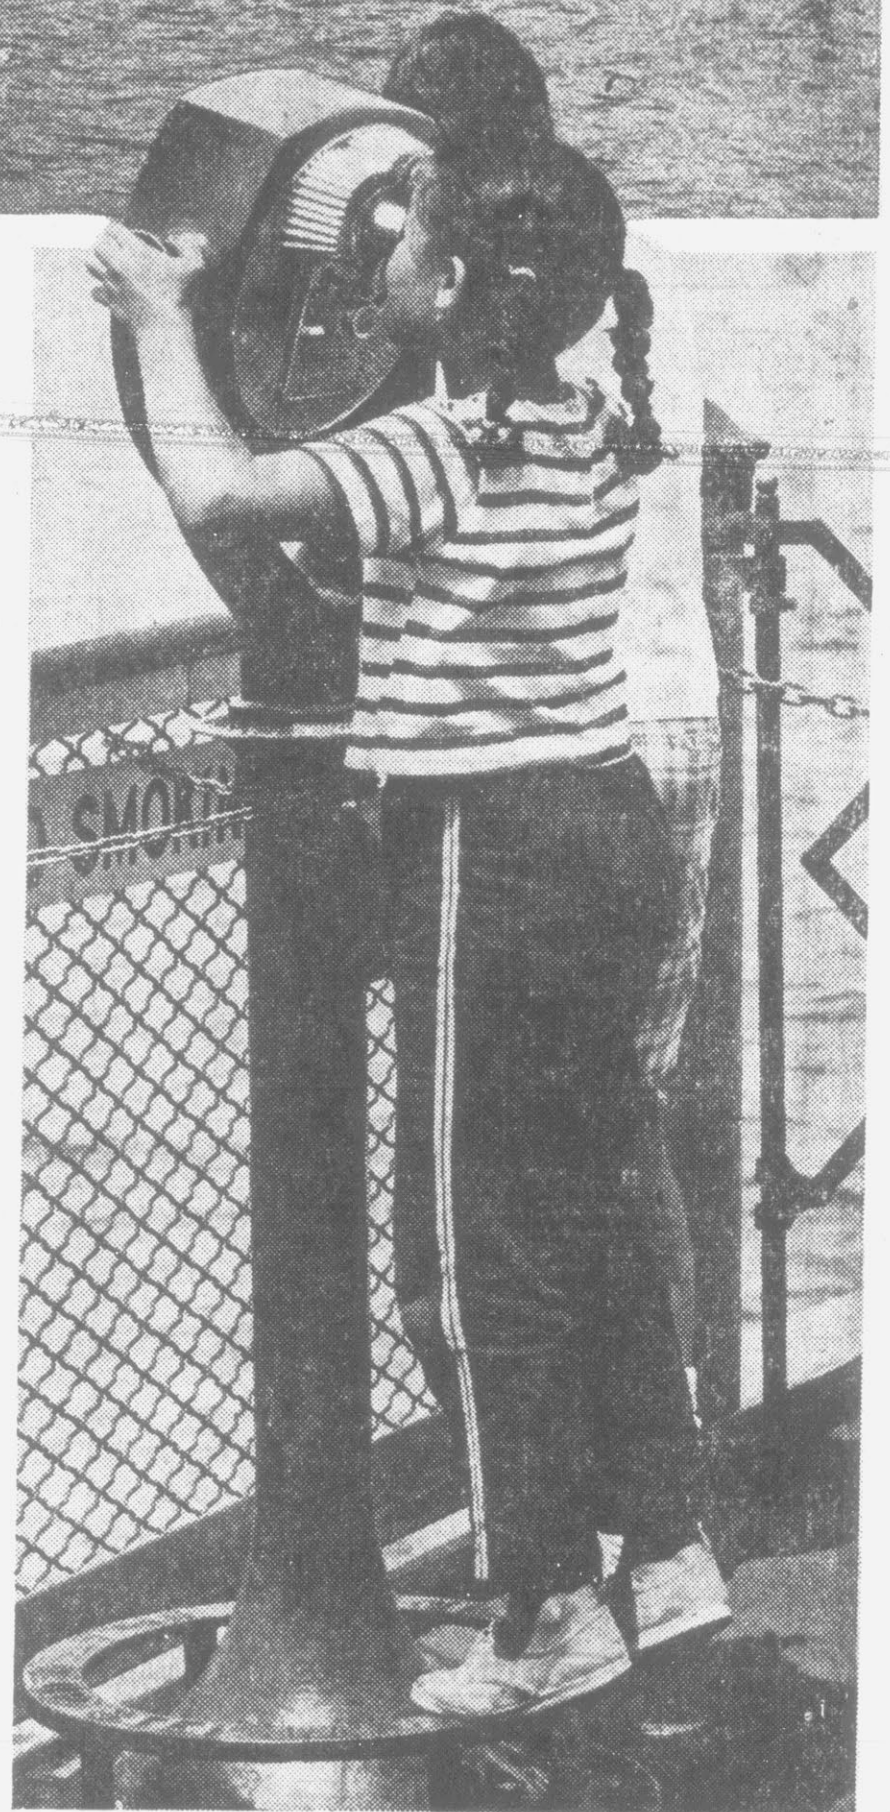

When you're in New York City and want to escape the concrete canyons and glass walls, the traffic of cars and people, listen closely for the next steam whistle and hop aboard: the Staten Island Ferry is ready for its next run.

In bad weather, there are many seats inside.

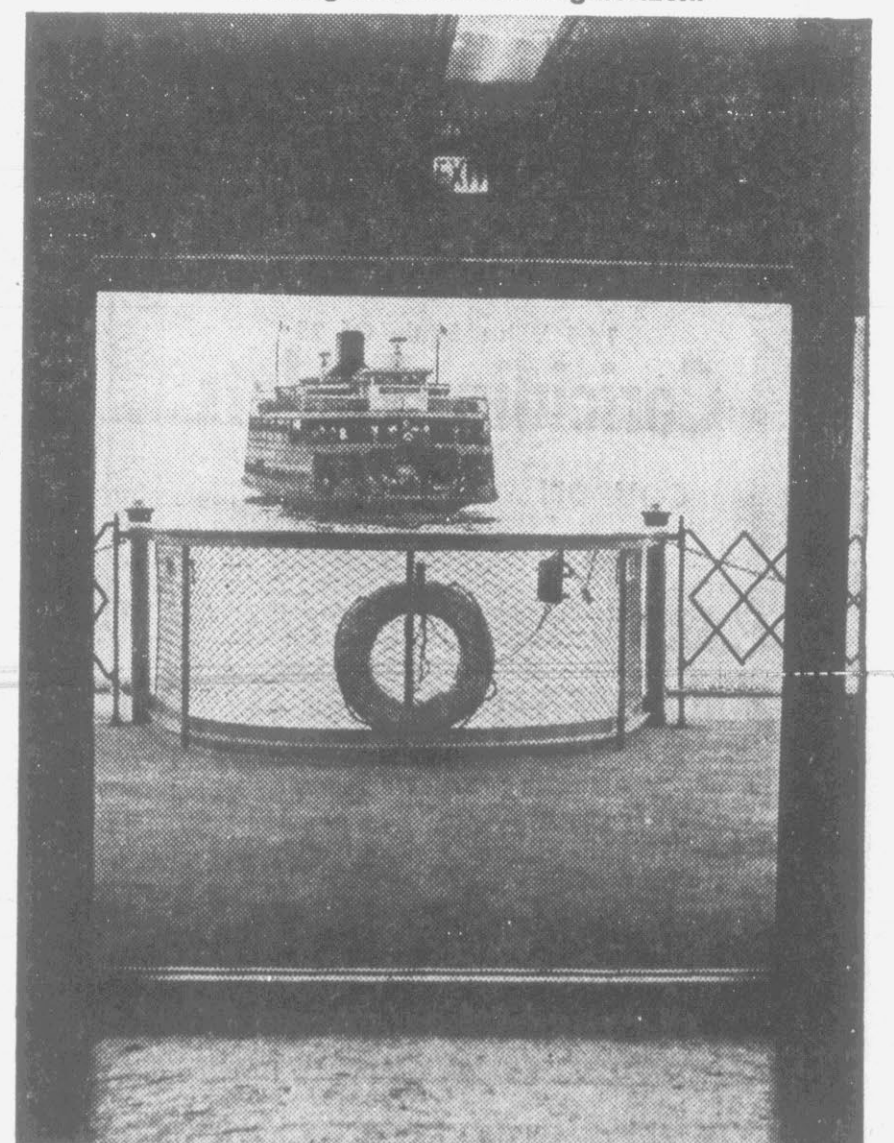

There is time to sleep, perchance to dream.

Looking towards a calling horizon.

Morning to night, there are always people watching and waiting.

Through the open door of one ferry, another is seen departing.

Possession of a singleton heart deterred South from making a take-out double after East opened the bidding with one club. South chose instead to overcall with one diamond in the hope of obtaining another chance later.

West raised East to two clubs and the latter now showed his second suit by bidding two hearts. This gave South an opportunity to show additional strength by bidding two spades, for North is obliged to enter the three level merely to show a preference for diamonds.

When West competed with three clubs, North raised South to three spades, despite the fact that he did not have a single face card. He reasoned that the singleton club and four trumps would be worth a trick or two. When South carried on to game, East closed the auction by doubling four spades.

West led the queen of clubs and, when a singleton appeared in dummy, he shifted to the queen of hearts. He was permitted to hold the trick and continued with the jack of hearts which South ruffed. Declarer observed that he could enter dummy by ruffing a club to take the spade finesse. However, if West has the king of spades, another round of hearts will reduce South to the lone ace of trumps. Even if he has the good fortune to drop the jack of spades on the second round of the suit, he has no reentry to dummy to draw the last trump.

South decided to lead trumps from his hand. He cashed the ace and continued with the queen. West put up the king and East's jack fell under it. South ruffed the heart return, trumped a club with North's nine of spades and then drew the last trump with the ten. Declarer's diamonds took the remaining tricks when East's queen fell under the ace, king.

South's lead of the queen of spades was a well calculated play. Observe that, if he plays the ace and a small spade, even if one of the opponents holds a doubleton king, another round of hearts will force out declarer's last trump, and the jack of spades becomes established for the setting trick.

Loyalty To Human Race Inspired His Gift To School

By GERALD SEGRIVES
Associated Press Writer
THOMPSONS STATION, Tenn. (AP) — Although he's never attended college, 76-year-old Clayton Arnold is helping the University of Tennessee train future teachers. The retired rural mail carrier and farmer, who lives near his designated beneficiaries, and Middle Tennessee town, has given the entire amount goes to the university more than $300,000 to endow teaching careers.

The silver-haired Arnold had never set foot on the U-T main campus in Knoxville until 1964. And for two straight years, the retired mail carrier matched every dollar given by U-T alumni for new scholarships up to a maximum of $100,000 each year.

Under a life income plan, one gives the university his estate—in negotiable securities or cash—for the institution to hold or invest in tax-exempt bonds or securities.

The benefactor receives income from the estate for the remainder of his life or that of his designated beneficiaries, and the entire amount goes to the university.

Arnold, a bachelor, initially gave U-T 10 per cent of his earnings to start the Clayton Arnold Teacher Training Fund. And for two straight years, the retired mail carrier matched every dollar given by U-T alumni for new scholarships up to a maximum of $100,000 each year.

Who is Clayton Arnold and how did he accumulate his wealth?

"To begin, I saved money for 60 years," said Arnold. "And then, too, I had some fortunate investments."

He was born in the Williamson County farmhouse where he now lives. Four of his six sisters reside with him in the house, built by their father in 1887.

A member of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, Arnold has held almost every job of importance in Thompsons Station, a little town of about 200 a couple of miles from his home.

He retired from his most recent job—rural mail carrier—in 1961 after 48 years with the post office.

Arnold began making career decisions early in life.

"When I was 14 or 15 I decided to be a farmer," he said. "Then, when I was barely 21, there was a vacancy as postmaster at the Thompsons Station post office."

"I got the job, which paid $60 a month. I figured I could save my money and buy my own farm."

Within a dozen years, he owned two farms. Diversifying his investments, he later bought and operated a general store at Thompsons Station.

"I sold the store when I went into the Army in 1918," Arnold explained. Following his year of military service, Arnold returned to resume his post office job. After 14 years as postmaster, he swapped his indoor post for that of rural mail carrier.

White in his 40s, Arnold—who completed "almost the equivalent of high school"—saw the need for furthering his education. After delivering mail each day, he drove 25 miles to Nashville to study law in night school.

"I never did get any law degree," he said, "but I learned enough to pass the state bar exam."

Arnold said he believes the scholarship program will help train "100,000 teachers in the next hundred years."

The key to his plan is based on optimism:

"I am loyal to the human race. I believe it is capable of undreamed of development. And I believe that education has the most important role in the development of this potential."

The Worry Clinic Youth Radicals Often Become Conservative

Read this dramatic autobiography by Dr. Wendell, who combines superb dental skill with a keen sense of humor. But it's not his pals at Augustana College in 1901, sound very much like some of our present campus insurgents, don't they? They had a great desire to shock their elders and attract attention as "showoffs."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE 5-503: Dr. Lehman Wendell is a famous dental surgeon who, after more than 50 years in practice, now writes humorous articles for "CAL DENTAL JOURNAL."

Back in 1901, he was a student at Augustana College. He had four buddies who stuck together as pals. Please contrast their efforts to shock their elders, with the present behavior of many similar college groups.

To gain some attention, they decided to form a quartet, with the 5th boy as their press agent.

And they did gain enough limelight that they were invited to sing in churches throughout the Quad-City area.

Then they even performed for college chapel.

But they decided to cause a commotion, so they stained their broad collars a deep red and had them ironed with plenty of starch so they stood out like beacons.

All the students stampeded thereafter to wear similar bright red, starched collars! Most college youth are always sheeplike!

This shocked the sedate faculty but thrilled the other students.

When this form of social grandstanding lost its effect, they hit upon another stunt.

One of the boys suggested they all shave their heads and thus show up at chapel exercises en masse as total baldheads.

They did. The rest of the students tittered.

The faculty frowned and deprived them of all dating privileges for several months. Then they looked around for some other devilment.

"Isn't there something we can do," they asked themselves, "that has never been done before at Augustana?"

One of the group said he was heading downtown to a sporting goods store so he'd see if he could find some new game, suitable for 5 players.

Upon his return, he told them he had found a notice about a new form of recreation, developed by a YMCA Secretary, which was called "basketball."

So they decided to chip in and buy a basketball; then challenge 5 other students to a game.

Apparently, Augustana College was thus the first college in America to start basketball. And it all began because of this inherent desire of 5 young fellows to be "different" and to shock their elders!

"Dr. Crane," you may wonder, "what became of those 5 grandstanders?"

Well, Dr. Wendell became a topnotch Minneapolis dental surgeon.

Another boy became a talented musician and music teacher. The 3rd became a prominent American physician.

The 4th entered the business field and became outstanding therein.

The 5th boy went into the ministry.

Yet this group of 5 icons (image breakers) were motivated very much like our modern campus insurgents.

For the young radicals of the usual campus very often become the staunch conservatives after they marry and have children of college age!

sure the cooperation of your child is to maintain a shon bond of affection and "fun" in your own home!

"Tests for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady to weaker Wednesday. Supplies adequate, demand slow to fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 38½ to 40; medium, whites: 29½ to 31; small, whites: 22 to 24.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets mostly 25 cents higher. Tops at 20.00-20.50 at Rocky Mount; 19.50 at 20.00 at Bethel; 20.25 at Greensboro; 20.00 at Siler City, Denton, Salisbury and Selma.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market advanced in heavy trading this afternoon after the Wednesday trading halt. Pent-up demand was not as great as last Thursday when there was record volume of 21.35 million shares.

Gains outstripped losses by a ratio of well over 2 to 1.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.2 at 340.6, with industrials up 1.8, rails off 1.2, and utilities up 3.1.

An assortment of large blocks was traded, most of them at higher prices, reflecting an accumulation of demand from the Wednesday layoff, analysts said.

First-hour volume was 5.48 million shares, compared with 3.57 million for the like period Tuesday, but it was well below the 6.29 million shares piled up last Thursday as trading barreled to a record.

One of the S&L's, Greff Western Financial, was the volume leader as it advanced a full point. It was helped toward top ranking by a block of 59,800 shares at 21, up ½.

Montgomery Ward, which traded about unchanged, was boosted to second place in volume with the help of a block of 59,100 shares, unchanged at 32½.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.33 at 901.53, well below its initial gain of 3.91.

IBM gained 7, Xerox 6, Public Service Electric & Gas and Du Pont about 2 each, Southern California Edison, American Smelting and Royal Dutch 1 each.

Awarded NDEA Appointment

Wilbert R. Ball, assistant professor of the East Carolina University Guidance and Counseling Center, has been awarded a National Defense Education Act appointment for a one-year institute in counseling and guidance at Indiana University.

WILBERT R. BALL

Ball has been granted a leave of absence from East Carolina for the 1968-69 school year to attend the institute at Bloomington, Ind.

He is one of 25 named on a national scale for the institute, designed for advanced study in counseling and guidance in higher education.

The appointment pays tuition, a stipend, fees and an allowance for dependents.

The institute begins Aug. 26 and continues through May 30, 1969.

Tax Surcharge Appears Have Enough Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge appears to have a safe but not overwhelming margin for passage as it comes before the House for a vote after a year of controversy and delay.

The Senate, anticipating House approval today, has scheduled its own vote Friday.

If the anticipated script is followed, everyone in the country who now has federal income tax deducted from his paycheck will find the tax bite 10 per cent bigger in about three weeks.

That means a worker now having $50 per week withheld for income tax would have $55 withheld until next June and possibly longer.

Tied to the increase in taxes is a mandatory $6-billion cut in government spending in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Johnson fought the spending cut as excessive. But he finally agreed to the measure because of what he called the overriding need for more revenues to shrink a deficit estimated at $24 billion to $31 billion check inflation and bolster the dollar internationally.

The Senate already has voted for a similar package, but has not considered the final version.

For individuals, the effective tax increase this year would be 7.5 per cent of their total tax bill, because for them the surtax is retroactive to April 1. For corporations, it covers the full year 1968.

As the bill is written, the surtax would expire June 30, 1969, but its principal architect, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has already raised the possibility of an extension if the nation cannot put its financial house in order by then.

Besides the income tax surcharge, the bill continues the excise tax on automobiles at 7 per cent and on telephone service at 10 per cent. Under the old law, they dropped to 2 per cent and 1 per cent respectively. The bill also provides a speedup of corporation tax collections.

The combined effect of the changes is estimated at a $15.2 billion revenue increase for the next fiscal year.

Appropriations also are to be cut $10 billion under the budget estimates for the year and actual spending reduced $6 billion. Appropriations and spending do not match in any single year because of the stretchout of spending programs. If Congress does not make the full cuts—and apparently it won't—the president must hold back expenditures to come up to the figures spelled out in the tax-economy bill, which overrides other legislation.

Finally, the President is directed to make recommendations for trimming an additional $8 billion out of appropriations carried over from previous years.

'Critical Period' For Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors tending former President Dwight D. Eisenhower still consider him to be in the critical period that generally lasts about a week for the victim of a heart attack.

The doctors reported Wednesday that the 77-year-old five-star Army general had developed occasional irregularities in his heartbeat, but "no signs of heart failure have developed."

He was described as resting comfortably. Eisenhower suffered his fifth heart attack since 1955 last Saturday night while a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital where he was recuperating from an April seizure.

'Operation Sunshine' To Run Eight Weeks

SUNSHINE CENTER GIRLS . . . play volleyball as part of their activities.

Rescued Girl As Friend Drowned

ROBBINSVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A vacationing fisherman from Ohio rescued one drowning teenage girl about Wednesday while her best friend perished a few feet away.

Larry Grant, 32, of Cincinnati, was able to save Brenda Gladden, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Gladden of Graham County.

Shirley Moore, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Moore of the East Buffalo section drowned.

According to witnesses, the two girls were wading in the water when they stepped out over their heads.

They were seen by Grant, who was fishing from a boat further out from the bank. He finally reached them and dove down to retrieve the Gladden girl. He got her to shore and revived her with artificial respiration.

Then he returned and dove for about 20 minutes but could not get the Moore girl's body, which was later recovered.

Strike Back At Paris Cabbies

PARIS (AP) — The Paris taxi driver, sometimes known for his tricky ways with tourists, is getting his comeuppance: an informal boycott because of his month-long strike and his new prices.

Back on the street for only two days after striking, the cabs are forming long idle lines at taxi stands. Walking past them, with noses upturned, are their former customers who became seasoned huffers during the transportation strikes of the May revolution.

Walking hasn't been so bad, a good part of the public apparently believes, especially compared with the rate raises: a short trip costing the equivalent of 80 cents now costs $1.40.

Question Youth In Kennedy Case

JUAREZ, Mex. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth who claims dual citizenship in the United States and Mexico is being questioned by Mexican federal agents and FBI agents about a letter containing statements concerning the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy.

The youth, identified by Juarez judicial Police Chief Jesus Chacon as Cristin Curiel Gonzales, was held without charge or bond.

Chacon said Gonzales was examined for four hours late Wednesday by three psychiatrists who are to report to authorities later today.

The Mexican federal district attorney in Juarez, Nobeito Salinas, said he was consulting with his superiors in Mexico City to determine if any charges should be filed.

Chacon said the youth was picked up Monday night after, police said they were told, a letter containing statements to the effect that the youth had prior knowledge of the assassination, fell from his pocket at a concession stand in Juarez.

Chacon would not divulge contents of the letter except to say it included statements about the assassination and also mentioned Robert Kennedy's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

Police records showed that Gonzales was picked up June 3 in Los Angeles on a vagrancy charge, local officers said, and that Gonzales told Los Angeles police he was a native of Mexico.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Warrants have been issued by the Henderson County sheriff's department charging a 37-year-old ex-convict with kidnaping a young couple Sunday and raping the girl after locking her escort in the trunk of their car.
