WASHINGTON (AP)—Police have started a sweep through Resurrection City, the Poor People's encampment, to clear out any residents who remained after the 10:42 a.m. evacuation deadline, deputy chief Grant Wright of the U.S. Park Police said today.

Wright said the police started through the camp at about 11:20 a.m., beginning at the east end—that is, the end toward the Washington Monument—and working their way toward the Lincoln Memorial area.

Conflict was possible, since the campaigners ignored notice Sunday night that their camping permit had expired and they must leave.

The delegation met with department officials other than Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who had a 10 a.m. appointment with the Senate Agriculture Committee.

planned, too, a march on the Capitol. "We are all going to jail," demonstration leader Hosea Williams promised a high-spirited, hand-clapping crowd at the Resurrection City campsite Sunday night.

Demonstrations are outlawed on the Capitol grounds where 18 persons were arrested a month ago in one of the campaign's few forays so far against Congress itself.

Plane Crash Kills Local Businessman

Witnesses saw craft circling, sputtering before crash.

Pilot Was Instantly Killed

A Greenville businessman, Charles Edward Leone, died early today when the single-engine plane he was piloting crashed in an open field less than a mile from the Pitt-Greenville Airport shortly after take-off.

Leone, 29, operated two Pizza Chef restaurants here and was manager of The Ruins, a local night spot.

Investigators said he may have been attempting to return to the airport for a landing when the crash occurred minutes before 3:30 a.m.

Two witnesses said they saw the aircraft circling moments before the crash.

The Piper Cherokee, valued at about $8,500, was owned by another Greenville businessman, Jerry Anderson.

Pitt County Sheriff's officers and members of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, who conducted an investigation into the crash, said the major portion of the wreckage came to rest about 132 feet from the spot where the aircraft first hit the ground.

about 25 feet beyond the wreckage. Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said he died immediately of massive injuries.

No shots were fired, Warden Ernie Maxwell said.

Maury Koblentz, state corrections chief, said at least 20 persons were injured, including 10 prison guards.

B52s Smash VC Training Center 13 Miles Outside Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. Air Force B52 bombers today smashed a Viet Cong training center 13 miles from Saigon.

The B52s, have bombed closer to the capital only once. Last Feb. 13, at the height of the Viet Cong's Tet offensive on Saigon, they struck a suspected enemy troop concentration 10.5 miles north of Saigon.

plishments lasted for six minutes after the eight-engine bombers left the site. A secondary explosion means ammunition or fuel going up after the 500- and 750-pound bombs have exploded.

against the panhandle Sunday through heavy anti-aircraft fire. Pilots reported destroying or damaging 78 trucks, many of them apparently loaded with ammunition.

Indications mounted that the reports of North Vietnamese helicopters around the demilitarized zone last week were erroneous.

Winds exceeding 45-miles-an-hour whipped the Liebre Mountain fire eastward Sunday but subsided in today's predawn hours.

Five fire fighters were injured Friday, one critically.

No communities were threatened, authorities said. Trucks, bulldozers, helicopters and planes, which dropped tons of chemical retardants were mobilized to prevent the flames from spreading to more of the valuable watershed lands.

Runoffs Slated Next Sunday Gaullists Swamp Leftists In Nat'l Assembly Voting

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's forces appeared headed today for an overwhelming majority in the French National Assembly after strong gains in the first round of the national elections.

Left-wing extremists warned that "the battle has only begun" as preparations began for the runoff elections next Sunday.

munist Leftist Federation slipped from 18.96 to 16.50 and the Centrist Party of Modern Progress and Democracy declined from 12.34 to 10.64.

Frightened by the May weeks of student violence and nationwide strikes, the French people heeded De Gaulle's theme of "Gaullism or Communism" and elected 142 of his followers Sunday.

It was an unexpected triumph for the 77-year-old general who less than a month ago threatened to resign at the height of the national convulsion.

Despite the Gaullists' initial triumph at the polls, most of the problems that set off France's "mad month of May" remain unsolved, and the wholesale wage raises handed out to get 10-million striking workers back to their jobs will almost certainly bring widespread inflation.

Gaullist candidates also were in favorable positions for the runoff elections in 150 other districts, indicating that the president and Premier Georges Pompidou might win a majority of more than 100 in the 487-seat assembly.

In the last assembly the Gaullists and their allies had a majority of only one.

Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, a left-wing leader who was in trouble in the Grenoble district, warned the government that it probably would have trouble with "those who voted for it but who for all that are not ready to give up their demands."

NATO Allies Uneasy Over Germany Rusk Says West Should Still Seek 'Understanding' of the North Atlantic Council of Foreign Ministers to affirm his belief in the ultimate reunion of Berlin, Germany and, indeed, a union of all Europe.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the Western allies should press their search for East-West understanding despite Communist trouble-making in the Middle East, Southeast Asia, Germany and elsewhere.

The two-day spring session of NATO leaders got under way in the theater of the University of Iceland.

Outside, white-capped Icelandic police kept away several dozen youthful demonstrators protesting, under Communist leadership, against the continued presence of American military installations in this country at the gateway to the Arctic Circle.

The Western allies met in quest of an East-West pact cutting back arms and armies in middle Europe, but with slender hope of early success.

Addressing the North Atlantic Council of Foreign Ministers, Rusk said there can be no cross-the-board hostilities while thousands of megatons of nuclear explosives are available to destroy the world.

The allies nevertheless have been deeply disturbed by difficulties inside Germany, and the secretary called for total NATO solidarity in the face of the latest Communist pressures against Berlin and the West Germans.

California Brush Fires Uncontrolled

LOS ANGELES (AP)—California's first major brush fires of the year raged on today after ravaging thousands of acres of tinder-dry park land.

Rusk insisted any Western accommodation with the Communist world must be coupled with effective security arrangements. He said this should make a balanced East-West program of cuts in armed forces perfectly feasible and acceptable to both sides.

The U.S. commitment to Europe, Rusk emphasized will remain in force for as long as the Europeans want it that way.

A blaze in Angeles National Forest, a watershed area 40 miles north of Los Angeles, has burned more than 40,000 acres in the Liebre Mountain area since Friday.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has two bachelor brothers, younger than he is. They both make more money than my husband does.

I have invited them to my home for Sunday dinners time after time, and not once have they invited my husband and me out for a meal.

Whenever I have some of my husband's other relatives here for a meal I include these two brothers. They always jump at the chance to come as they love my cooking, and to tell you the truth, I enjoy having them.

I finally told my husband, "No more." He says I should write to you — that you would say to keep inviting them, regardless. I say, being a woman you would understand how I feel and would side with me. Well?

your column as I know he reads it. Maybe you can help to solve this problem.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: The problem is not HIS — it's yours. You seem unwilling to accept the fact that your son is a grown man and must take the responsibility for his own actions.

I realize that it is embarrassing for you, but there is nothing you can do about it. Eventually he may change his philosophy and his way of living. I hope he does, more for his sake than yours, but if he does it won't be because his mother (or I) gave him a lecture on "morality."

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago my fiance left for Vietnam. I promised I'd wait for him and I am. The only place

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Your husband is right. This world is made up of two kinds of people. The givers and the takers. You are a "giver" and you'll never change. You enjoy giving as much as the brothers enjoy taking. Why punish yourself?

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged mother. My son is 28. He has been given the finest education, and good moral training, along with all the better things of life. My problem concerns his morals which embarrass me greatly.

He is already supporting two children out of wedlock and is presently going with a young woman from a good family. She has her own apartment and my son has spent the night there several times and thinks nothing of it.

He is taking up this marriageable young woman's time and seems genuinely fond of her, so I asked him why he doesn't marry her. He replied, "I do not intend to marry anyone as I'm not the marrying kind."

I tried to tell him that a decent man should have a wife and family, and not be Tomcatting around the way he does. Please comment on this in

If the Shoe Fits

BY LARRY AVERETTE

My son's new shoes are size 1 and his old ones are 13's. Can he wear the old shoes for awhile to play in?

It would be safer to shine up his old shoes for Sundays and let him wear the roomier new shoes for school and play. Parental pride tells us that children must look their best when we take them to church but hurt pride heals quickly. Deformed bones are extremely difficult to straighten and that is an understatement if there ever was one.

The rigors of play — the running, jumping, twisting, turning — are strenuous for the child's feet. It is for play that the most properly fitting shoes are most necessary.

Taking A Logical Series Of Steps

Members of Greenville's City Council and Utilities Commission now move in to the tough phase of the planning for a new municipal building. That tough job is finding the necessary funds with which to finance the new structure.

So far the two bodies have moved with great deliberateness and care in planning for this new facility which is needed in Greenville. They have shown concern for saving costs where possible and for seeing that the greatest possible benefit is derived for each dollar which goes into new construction.

This has been evidenced by the decision to build one joint facility to house city and utilities offices. This decision was made early in the planning after the city and the utilities both recognized the need for new facilities to replace the present city hall that was constructed under the WPA program some 30 years ago.

It is particularly significant that plans for the new facility are presently predicted on the fact that a bond issue will not be necessary and that sufficient funds can be found from other sources.

Greenville needs a new municipal building to house its city and utilities offices. The Shore Drive area provides an ideal location for a new municipal building. By replacing the old structure in the heart of the area now slated for a central business district redevelopment program, the city will help alleviate traffic and other problems in that particular area.

All things considered, the program appears to have great merit.

Social Values Are Not Static, Just Reflect

Don't knock the progress of civilized society. The Christian concept of life is gaining on all fronts, no matter what some disgruntled idealists proclaim. Social values, morals and ethics are not static qualities but reaching upward. Always upward.

Look back, if you will. The value of human life was nil; maiming and death were routine; education was for the elite few; wealth was for rulers, and no law nor code could deny their slightest whim. The extent of avarice, lust and cruelty in our old world was unbelievable by today's standards.

Today? Well, in the course of centuries the commonplace of the past has become a relative rarity. The good in mankind is steadily emerging as the dominant force in day-to-day living. Just look about you and reflect on the personal involvement of people you know in efforts to make a better world. It's one of the wonders of our times.

No 'Formality' This November

(Editor's Note: William A. Shires is on vacation. Today's guest column is by Dick Rennick, Raleigh Times reporter.)

By DICK RENNICK This was when political campaigns in North Carolina were all wrapped up about this time of year. Winners in the Democratic primary races had only a formality to face in November before being elected to office.

But times have changed. When Governor Moore campaigned four years ago he closed his Raleigh headquarters during the summer. Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, the Democratic standard bearer, plans not only to keep his headquarters fully operational, but will be an active politician cut in the field right up to November.

There is little doubt Gardner intends to make it a long hot summer for the Democrats. And he has plenty to work with. Considered the best bet to win the governorship of this party in 67 years, Gardner will hardly let the opportunity slip by without a major effort. He is in the enviable position of being able to attack the Democratic record in this State over the years without having to defend his own party's record. He can also use the woes of the national Democratic administration to tie round the necks of his Tar Heel opponents.

much to defend. Scott has spent much of his time since the primary trying to mend fences and put on a show of party unity. However, Gardner claims there are huge splits within the State Democratic Party which will not be healed by election time.

He points out the dissatisfaction of the Negroes within the Democratic ranks whose demand for more responsibility with the party has been turned down, along with their request for a bigger proportion of the State delegates to the national convention in August.

The Republican candidate also maintains many conservative Democrats are joining his camp and has promised a news conference within the next two weeks when the first "big name" switchers will be announced.

Early trends in the Republican gubernatorial campaign show Gardner placing most of his emphasis in the eastern part of the State where previously there have been slim pickings for members of his party. This year there are more encouraging signs for the Rocky Mount legislator.

Gardner claims a poll taken before the first primary showed him running ahead of Scott. Another statewide poll is now being taken to determine whether that lead is still an actuality.

One of long time political observers expect the gubernatorial campaign to produce the toughest political battle North Carolina has seen in many years. And whatever the result, it appears the State will at long last have a meaningful two-party system.

Propaganda Is Still The Tool

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER PARIS (AP) —The dispute between the United States and North Vietnam over whether they are making progress in the Vietnam peace talks springs from their basic conflict of purposes at this stage of the negotiations.

North Vietnam is still trying to maneuver President Johnson into granting a new concession by putting an end to all attacks on North Vietnamese territory.

The United States is trying to maneuver Hanoi into making a concession of its own by curtailing infiltration of troops into South Vietnam.

Public opinion all over the world, but especially in the United States, is regarded by each side as a weapon to be used against the other in this struggle.

Hanoi, speaking through Ambassador Xuan Thuy and the rest of its negotiating team, obviously regards pessimism as its most effective public opinion lever.

The theme which Thuy and his spokesmen have been sounding for weeks is that the talks are making no progress because the United States refuses to stop attacking North Vietnam. The way to move toward peace, they argue, is to end the attacks.

On the other hand, U. S. officials have emphasized every indication of movement in the discussions. Their theme has been that in spite of the deadlock slight progress has been made in laying the groundwork for more serious future peace negotiations.

Both assessments are based on what has been happening in Paris since the meetings started May 13. There has been much talk but no progress on the question of how to deescalate the war; there has been some progress in U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman's effort to develop a cordial, informal relationship with Thuy. Harriman believes this will enable them in coming months to explore secretly the issues of a compromise peace.

The difference in interpretation of these two lines of development erupted into open disagreement Friday.

U. S. Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford has said Thursday there were "bits and straws" which indicated "some movement" at Paris. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, told newsmen in Washington, that he agreed with Clifford. Harriman leaving for Washington Friday, said "some progress is being made by bits and straws."

North Vietnamese spokesman Nguyen Thanh Le told a news conference in Paris, however, that the talks are "marking time." He said the "absence of progress" was due to the refusal of the United States to end all attacks on North Vietnam so that other subjects could be discussed here.

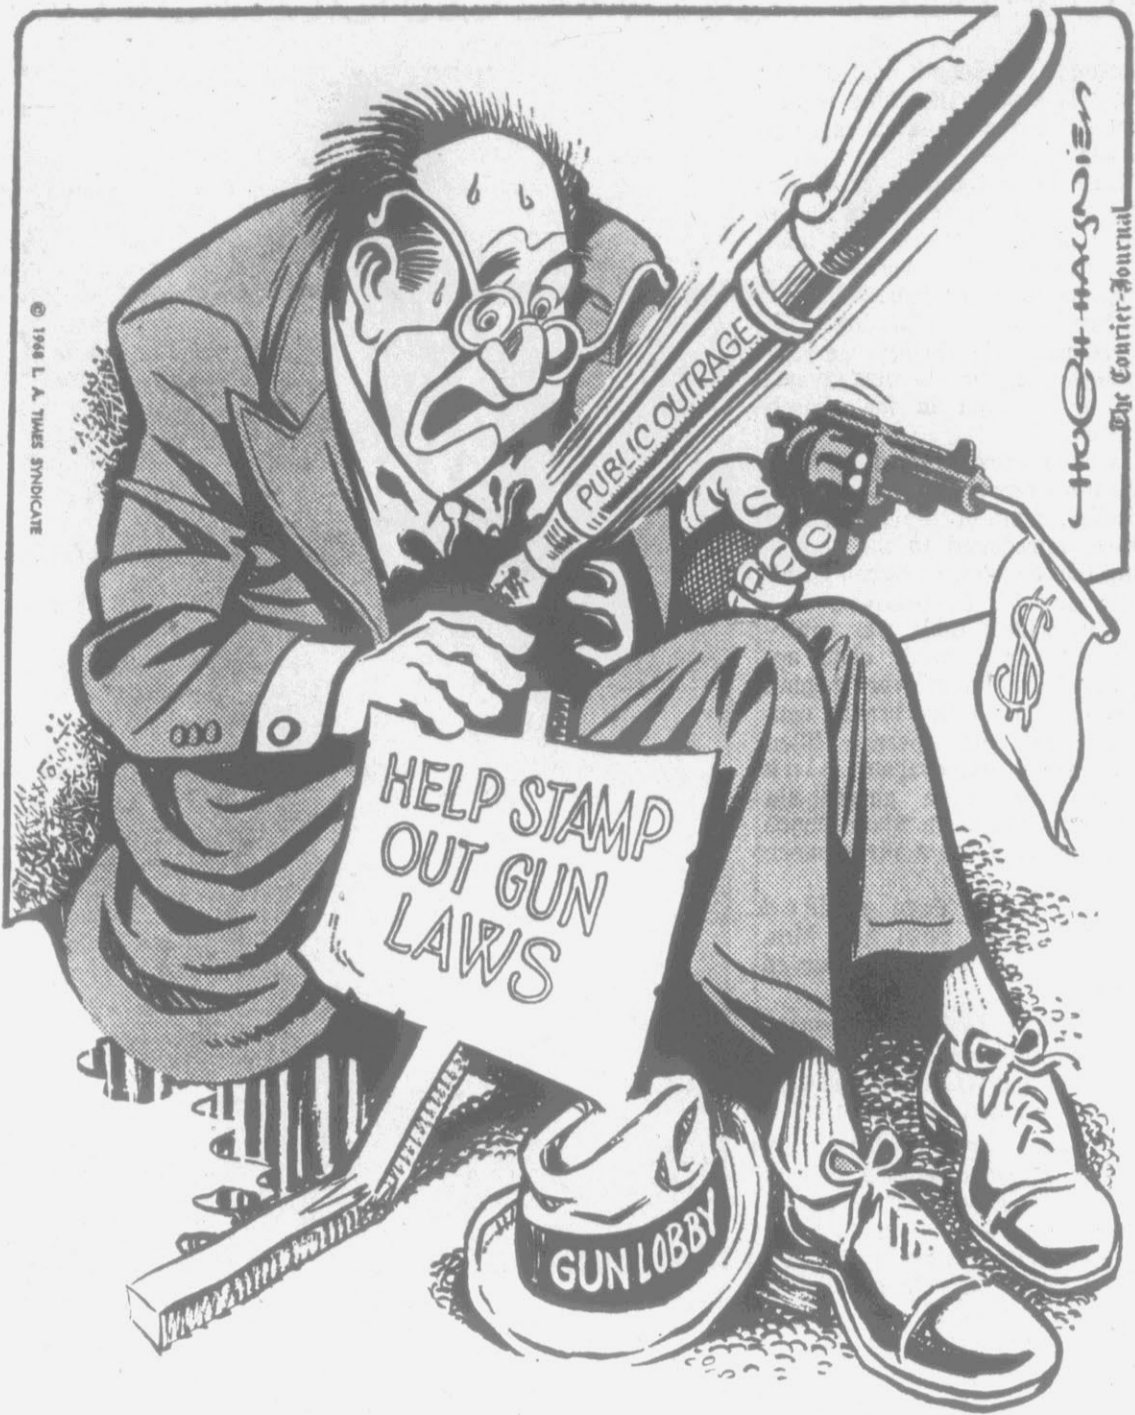

Behind this propaganda battle lies the hard fact that what is ultimately at issue is a question of military advantage.

Silent Hero Of Occasion

NEW YORK (AP) — If I could have held her in my arms as I had done before, perhaps I would have been as smug as the smiling man I saw put the ring upon her finger.

The day just couldn't have been more perfect had the Lord wanted to improve the weather in heaven.

Skies were treasuries of bright blue, the sun brightened the spirits of everybody, and there was space in the church parking lot for all but the last 37 cars that showed up for the ceremony.

I felt so tremendously responsible. Was there a hymnal and a prayer book in every pew? The church looked so nice and new, as if Christ had just walked His freshness there.

There is a human glory in the waiting of the groom and the flowery walkway of his adorned bride.

As she strolled down the most wonderful street of her life arm in arm with her tall, dark, handsome father, I thought to myself, "Well, they'll surely be calling on me next. There must be something for me to do."

Other Editors Saying Rehabilitation Field

(Goldsboro News-Argus) The North Carolina Study of Vocational Rehabilitation is uncovering some surprising information.

On the basis of known cases it had been thought that in the state there are an estimated 80,000 people who are getting or who need special care and training to restore or introduce them to a self-supporting life. That figure is given by Joe Morrow, planning director of the N. C. study which has been under way for a number of months. But the estimates, the study shows, according to Morrow have been woefully inaccurate. To date enough data has been gathered to indicate that there are at least a half million handicapped persons who need rehabilitation care and or training.

The new estimates are based on public hearings held in several central points in the state, on information supplied by health, welfare and other sources.

The study so far has also indicated that the general public has small understanding of the overall rehabilitation program. And some begin to take the view that there has been and is a lack of coordination and cooperation between public service agencies which have an in-some phases of rehabilitation. By rehabilitation let it be emphasized, is meant to make over, to give the lame, the halt and the blind, the mentally and physically handicapped care and instruction which may take them off welfare and charity and health programs.

The study should be completed in time for submission to Governor Moore and to the next General Assembly. The probable cost of a thorough rehabilitation program will be estimated in the final findings.

The Federal government has been providing aid for the greater part of the current rehabilitation program. The state and the counties have been financing about a fourth of the cost.

A comprehensive rehabilitation program will cost but it will also pay dividends in large measure. There are multiplied thousands of handicapped people in the state who could be made able to take care of themselves if they had sufficient medical and training instruction. Not only would lives be brightened and made normal, but a load of charity and welfare expense could be removed if rehabilitation reached and served those who need this help.

But the next words I heard were the famous words of the preacher presenting the acceptance of alternates. "In sickness and in health. . . " "in the union of going the way together.

"Who giveth this woman..." the minister inquired. This woman? This growth of protoplasm whose bottom I'd pretended to spank when you could hold all of her person in either hand and lift her to the ceiling?

She stood there, framed in her usual portrayal — her fair hair, her eyes that mirrored the feeling of an occasion, a look of being wistfully eager to make you feel better.

Looking at her critically, I sensed, as probably most people do, the luminous fact that the girls never look more lovely than they do when echoing the words of a minister as they stand steady by the man they're being wedded to.

Dovish Rumor False

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON —The widely-publicized false alarm that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey soon would break radically with President Johnson's Vietnam policy has punctured the optimism pervading the Humphrey camp until now.

His closest aides privately admit that widely published but erroneous reports of a dramatic dovish shift by Humphrey make more irrefutable divergencies of Administration policy he actually had planned seem inadequate. The fact that he did not and does not intend to turn his back on the Johnson policy thus becomes all the more a political liability.

What the Humphrey lieutenants may not realize, however, is that the events of the last few days only illuminate the problem he faced anyway: the rigid opposition to Vietnam by the substantial portions of the Democratic party that backed Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and still support Sen. Eugene McCarthy. Humphrey's inability to shift markedly, though apparently no impediment to winning the nomination, could lead to debacle in November.

Although the more conspiratorial-minded of Humphrey men here divine some dark plot, the false alarm seems largely bred of misunderstandings. Bill D. Moyers, the ex-LBJ aide and publisher of Newsday on Long Island, is pro-Humphrey and had been in telephone contact with him three times during the last two weeks. His suggestions of a Humphrey switch on Vietnam, Humphrey aides believe, were intended to help the Vice President with liberals.

Thus, there was a misunderstanding somewhere. For Humphrey long ago had come to feel that whatever its political benefits, a break with the Administration on Vietnam was personally impossible. He reiterated this position on Monday after publication of the Moyers interview, telling a friend: "My liberal friends may think I'm wrong or stupid, but they can't say I'm a hypocrite."

In fact, Humphrey in private conversation with intimates often was critical of Mr. Johnson's Vietnam policy in the early years of deep U. S. involvement there, beginning in 1965. In the secrecy of Administration councils, he was a proponent of the enclave theory (later pushed by Gen. James M. Gavin) and unsuccessfully sought to sell it to the President.

But in 1967, friends noted a change. After his Far Eastern trip in the autumn of that year, Humphrey was an even more hawkish booster of the war in private than in public (while always feeling more should be done for social redevelopment).

A sign of that can be seen in the attitude of Sen. Walter (Fritz) Mondale of Minnesota, Humphrey's protege and now his campaign co-chairman. Mondale, who clouded his dovishness to avoid embarrassing Humphrey, would be prone to see dovish traits in his leader. Yet, Mondale has advised privately he feels there would be no radical change in the war policy with Humphrey in the White House.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS OUR PRESENT CHALLENGE

The past one hundred or hundred and fifty years have marked the greatest change in human life that history records.

In the agricultural days fathers and sons worked together on the farm until the boys married and set up homes of their own. In the household the mother presided over the activities of her daughters until the girls were married. All that is changed today. We have become an urban people.

The father is off to work in the morning, going to office, factory or store. Mother runs the household now and her activities have so increased that frequently she is away from home almost as much as her husband. Children are therefore cast upon their own resources as never before. They can come and go about as they will. Households that own two or more automobiles permit children to be away from household supervision a great deal of the time. All this has produced a social revolution of the most stupendous variety.

To say this is not to pass judgment indiscriminately and claim that we are on the slide and about to go over the precipice. Good homes today are probably better than most homes have been in the past. Bad homes are a liability today as they have always been.

What we have to do is to try to build up a new society on the basis of conditions as they actually exist. The task is challenging but not hopeless. The human race has confronted challenges in the past and we are tragically mistaken if we feel we cannot confront the challenge of the present.

Glimpses Over Business Horizon

By ELMER ROESSNER

Here are more glimpses over the business horizon:

Even if this is a quiet summer (and it won't be), business will still pay the costs of last summer's and the King round of riots. Furniture and appliance dealers in ghetto areas are cutting down their orders, carrying less inventory, to minimize risks. Some can no longer afford the costs of full stocks. Manufacturers are being hit hard.

Pork prices will continue to rise at retail as a result of rising wholesale prices and supermarkets will push chicken harder. Flight insurance sales for passengers on charter flights will rise. The Supreme Court's refusal to review a lower court's ruling leaves the maximum airline liability for passenger deaths on charter flights to the international treaty limit of $8,300. Nylon Rugs To Be Higher Increased costs of nylon staple portend a rise in price for nylon carpeting, which has been cutting into wool sales.

ELMER ROESSNER

Business will put more into new plants and equipment in the last half of this year. Present indications are that investment will rise from the current annual rate of about $65 billion to $67 billion.

A coming tape cassette will play for two full hours.

Manufacturers, heartened by a gain of 4 per cent in sales in the first quarter of this year, will be building inventories during the rest of the year. They will be further encouraged by the fact that the high profits shown by many corporations in the first quarter are due to increases in inventory valuations. Since more inflation seems certain, inventories may be a good hedge.

Airlines will ask for an increase in freight rates. It won't be large. Airlines want to keep big jets and bigger ones to come full. Meanwhile, large airlines are increasing ground facilities for freight.

Valuable Annuities To Gain There will be a big push to sell variable annuity policies as more insurance companies plan them. In fact, the variables may eventually replace the old-fashioned policies, except for limited terms. Inflation is rolling on so fast that a policy for an amount that would provide for a family today won't pay the funeral bill when the insured dies in 20 years.

Predictions here that there will be fewer vacations abroad this year have been confirmed by a National Industrial Conference Board survey. A year ago, 5.3 per cent of the families polled planned vacations in a foreign country; this year only 2.5 per cent plan trips abroad.

Appliance sales will level off in the last half of the year. A survey shows a slight drop in intentions to buy. However, there is a notable increase in families planning to buy carpets.

TWISTED WRECKAGE . . . Two persons were injured when this car wrecked near Ayden Sunday. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Two Critically Hurt As Car Leaves Road

AYDEN—Two Negroes were admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital in serious condition yesterday following a one-car wreck two miles south of here on N.C. 11.

Investigating Patrolman C. H. Ennis identified the driver of the car as Johnny Ray Keys, 23-year-old Negro of Ayden.

Trooper Ennis said the Keys car went out of control after running off the right hand shoulder of the highway, crossed to the left side of the highway and ran into a roadside ditch. The vehicle stopped, he said, when it slammed into a culvert.

The officer said the car was out of control for 537 feet.

Keys and a passenger in the auto, James Lee Edwards, 19-year-old Negro from Vanceboro, were injured in the crash.

Both were hospitalized with injuries that were described as serious.

The 1960 model car, valued at $500, was described as a total loss.

Board Calls For Gun Control Law

DURHAM (AP) — The North Carolina Council of Churches' executive board has wired North Carolina members of Congress urging them to support strong gun control legislation.

At a meeting in Durham during the weekend, the board voted approval of a statement urging the state's congressmen to "support a strong gun control bill which will not only ban all mail order sales but also require the registration of all purchases of all types of guns."

Local Educators At Conference

Two local educators, Dr. C. C. Cleetwood, superintendent of Greenville City Schools, and Dr. Richard S. Spear, professor of education at East Carolina University, will participate in the 15th annual Duke University School Law Conference in Durham on June 25 and 26.

Dr. Spear will speak on the subject, "Legal Status of the Public School Teacher in North Carolina." The subject of Dr. Cleetwood's presentation will be "Focus of Liability in Athletic Contests."

The originator of this annual conference is Dr. E. C. Bolmeier, professor of education and director of graduate studies in the School of Education at Duke University.

Dr. Bolmeier, a leading authority in school law and the director of 44 successful doctoral candidates, is retiring July 1.

He will be honored in a testimonial banquet at the completion of the School Law Conference.

Tobacco Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Each year the stored tobacco moth larvae causes considerable damage to stored tobacco on many farms throughout the county. Since sanitation is one of the best methods of controlling this pest, the pack houses should be thoroughly cleaned before storing the 1968 tobacco crop.

It is best to clean the pack house as soon as all tobacco of a current year is sold. However, if you have not already cleaned your pack house, it should be cleaned immediately. When cleaning the pack house all scrap tobacco and refuse should be burned. All slats or boards tacked to the walls should be removed in the cleaning process.

If the pack house was cleaned in the fall and grain or fertilizer was stored in it during the winter and spring months, it would be thoroughly cleaned again now before the 1968 crop is stored.

The walls and floors should be sprayed heavily with a 5 percent solution of DDT one month prior to the storing of this year's crop. At 5 percent DDT solution can be made by mixing 2 quarts of 50 percent DDT with 5 gallons of water. It is preferable that the walls and floors be sprayed three to four weeks prior to storing the tobacco.

If the bulk of tobacco is covered with a good grade of plant bed cloth, free from holes, you can expect some protection against this serious pest of cured tobacco. Some farmers have used plastic covers, which were used when treating their plant beds with methyl bromide, to cover this bulked tobacco.

It is advisable to store the tobacco so that the first three or four primings can be sorted and marketed first. This is necessary because these curings are eaten more by the larvae than the heavier leaf grades.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS: Gunfire killed 189 persons in the United States, a week-long survey by The Associated Press shows, and most of the deaths were homicides. The survey, ended at midnight Sunday, was taken during the same week President Johnson signed an anticrime bill containing gun-control provisions.

The shooting deaths included 109 homicides, 64 suicides and 16 accidents.

In 1966, the last year for which FBI figures are available, there was an average of 125 homicides a week.

Demands for tighter gun-control measures were made after the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—all killed by guns.

Proponents of gun control blame loose traffic in firearms for thousands of deaths each year.

President Johnson signed an omnibus anticrime bill last Wednesday, which contained a gun-control section. More stringent laws on gun control are being considered by Congress.

Two of the provisions in the crime bill:

—Prohibit interstate mail-order sales of handguns and also their over-the-counter sale to nonresidents of a state and to people under 21.

—Make illegal the possession of any firearms by felons, mental incompetents, aliens illegally in the country, Americans who have renounced their citizenship and veterans who receive other than an honorable discharge.

A measure pending before Congress and sponsored by the President would ban mail-order sales of all firearms, including rifles and shotguns.

stances where a gun is too readily available." Andrew J. Toman, Cook County (Chicago) coroner, reported during the week that more persons died in the county from gun wounds during 1967 than died in automobile accidents. He said 607 firearms deaths were reported compared with 591 traffic fatalities.

With the rising public concern over the availability of firearms two of the nation's largest mail order houses announced changes during the week in firearms sale policy.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. banned all purchase of guns through mail and Montgomery Ward and Co. stipulated that all mail orders must be picked up in person, at stores or catalogue order outlets.

Ward's also announced all purchasers of firearms at its downtown Chicago store will be photographed at the time the sale is made. The change in policy came, company officials said, in cooperation with local authorities enforcing a recently passed gun registration ordinance.

The Farm Scene

Japanese Beetle Control

Pitt County is experiencing an outbreak of the Japanese Beetle. These insects are about one-half inch long and are shiny, metallic green in color. The wings are coppery brown. They fly in the daytime and are most active on hot, sunny days.

The adult beetles feed on flowers, foliage, and fruits of plants and trees in the bright sunlight. A seriously attacked plant or tree could lose all its foliage and flowers in a very short time.

These beetles may seriously injure corn by eating the silk as fast as it grows thus preventing kernel formation. The insect exists as a one inch "c" shaped white grub in the ground about 10 months of the year. The grubs feed on roots of plants, particularly grasses, causing damage which may not be noticed until severe damage has already occurred. They may cause severe turf injury.

Most trouble in Pitt County has been on ornamentals, home gardens, and soybeans.

Control measures:

To control adult beetles feeding on ornamentals and home gardens, use Carbaryl (Sevin) 50 percent wettable power, at the rate of 1½ tablespoons per gallon of water. Spray foliage and flowers thoroughly, as often as needed. With this material there are no time limitations on harvesting garden vegetables after application.

To control beetles on soybeans, use Toxaphene-DDT mixture in the emulsifiable concentrate form at the rate of 2.5 lbs. Toxaphene (active material), and 1.25 lbs. DDT (active material) per acre. This should be mixed with enough water for coverage. (This also controls many other soybean insects.)

To control grubs in the turf, spray with Carbaryl (Sevin) using one ounce of 80 percent wettable powder per 1000 square feet.

Evans-Novak . . .

Brzezinski, who returned to his professional chair at Columbia six months ago after two sometimes frustrating years on the State Department's policy planning staff, had modified slightly his previously hawkish views.

In a March 14 memorandum to some key officials in the Administration, Brzezinski argued for de-Americanization of the war in terms slightly stronger than the actual policy enunciated March 31 by the President. Humphrey might well advocate the Brzezinski plan of slow but steady de-Americanization without being accused of hypocrisy.

But his planners had hoped to keep away from conduct of the war and deal instead at greater length with the less nettlesome subject of Vietnam after the war.

Some 100 Groups At Singing Meet

BENSON, N. C. (AP)—Some 100 singing groups took part in the 48th annual two-day Benson Singing Convention which ended Sunday.

An estimated 10,000 persons were on hand for the closing day of the convention which is financed by town merchants.

P. B. Wood Jr., vice president of the convention, said "We seem to get bigger crowds and more groups into this grove every year."

CRIME UP IN INDIA

Responded in confident affirmation, the tall, dark, handsome father: "Her mother and I!"

How about me? Nobody asked me. Nobody asks at a marriage how a fellow like me feels about the situation.

Yet at most marriages there's a fellow like me. He's the guy who stands around with a hurt look in his eyes and offers to pour you a drink—and then spills champagne in your lap.

He feels himself to be the silent hero of the occasion, the one who takes the major suffering, and gets the least recognition.

Who is this guy? He's the godfather of the bride, the silent heartache at the giving.

Well, at least I had done my chief godfatherly duty. I had taken care of my goddaughter's moral welfare. I had married a girl named Nina Ann Palmer to a man named Bill Sweeney who loves her.

Rowan, Martin Saw A Hit In 'Laugh-In'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It happened just as Rowan and Martin predicted: "Laugh-in" is the biggest thing to hit television since the Kefauver crime hearings.

Well, almost. Certainly the Monday night frolic has captured the public's fancy in a manner rarely seen in television. It also captured Emmies, defied Tiny Tim, immortalized beautiful downtown Burbank, loosed a spate of imitative TV and radio commercials and induced everyone from presidential candidates to taxi drivers to say "Sock it to me" and "Here comes the judge."

I must confess I played the Doubling Thomas when I listened to Dan Rowan and Dick Martin glow about the program's chances before it went on the air. There has never been anything like it, they insisted, as have countless stars of other now-forgotten series.

But they were right, and now they are enjoying the results of their success. They are not taking it big; 17 years as a comedy team have made them realists. They can be excited if they enjoy a few "I-told-you-so's."

"Laugh-in" is simply applying to television some of the things that Marshall McLuhan has been writing about," said Dan Rowan, referring to the author of "The Medium is the Message" and other works on modern media.

"I don't think anyone has really dealt with the impact of the visual medium before. Now you are beginning to see commercials in which the visual is uppermost. But many of the commercials are still using the same tried-and-true method of printing the message on the screen and having an announcer repeat it vocally."

"Right!" said Dick Martin. These two seldom disagree, except in their bickering comedy routines and politics—Dan is a McCarthy man; Dick was for Kennedy.

"It was the same in the TV variety show," continued Rowan, the straight man of the team. "How long could personable hosts go on introducing personable guests? The variety format was carried intact from radio, which in turn had merely adapted the vaudeville technique.

"What we're doing is not entirely new," commented Dick, the blank-faced zany. "Olson and Johnson did it for years with their 'Hellzapoppin' shows. It's simply throwing gags at the audience with as much speed and shock as possible. You take a series of jokes, throw away the question and just leave the punchlines, and you call it 'cocktail party.'"

"Other variety shows always closed with music. We close with jokes—the joke wall. They're not all great, but they hold the audience's attention, right to the end of the show."

"Some people in television don't realize how brief the attention span of the audience is. While watching other variety shows, you can turn away and just listen for a while. Not 'Laugh-in.' You've got to watch it every minute or you'll miss something. That's why we throw on signs that are on the screen so briefly you can't possibly read them. But you'll be able to read the sign we want you to read."

Now that they have concluded their sensational half-year in TV, the question arises: What can they do next season?

"Naturally we can't play it exactly the same," said Dick. "We'll change, but the changes will be gradual. We will add new characters to the cocktail party and put new elements into 'sock-it-to-me time.' New things will be happening all the time."

Big Bridge Built To Last; Also, It's A Logical Viet Cong Target

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
Associated Press Writer

PHU CUONG, Vietnam (AP) — The bridge cost nine lives and nine months' sweat. The American engineers built it to last although everyone knows it's the biggest target for miles around.

The site is on the main Viet Cong infiltration route to Saigon just 18 miles to the south.

To put a 1,000-foot concrete and steel bridge across the Saigon River at this point was obviously a gamble—but a gamble that the U.S. Command figured would pay off in many ways.

It is practically finished now and the freckle-faced and sun-tanned first lieutenant in charge, Bruce Adams, 24, East Bloomfield, N.Y., admits "If this bridge is ever blown up, I'll be heart sick."

To protect his bridge, Adams led an infantry assault last February when the Viet Cong almost captured the South Vietnamese post commanding the northern anchor of the span. His pickup platoon of about 25 men included cooks and anybody who could be hastily assembled. One was ruddy-faced Sgt. Harold Murphy, 21, a welder from Norfolk, Va., who was supposed to go on leave that morning.

"Engineers are fighters too," Murphy recalls, "but I'll tell you, I didn't think I was going to make it home for a while."

Two engineers were killed and five wounded but the rest were back at work the next day.

"We're sort of proud of that bridge," said Sgt. Richard Turoczy, Grafton, West Va., at 34 a relative old-timer. "These kids have learned to do everything."

There are about 30,000 Army engineers in Vietnam. Their jobs are frequently unglamorous, so a big bridge is a welcome assignment.

This one is the biggest permanent span built by Army engineers in Vietnam.

Apart from the Viet Cong, the bridge was a technical challenge. There is no bedrock foundation in the ancient delta. More than six miles of piling was put in and the bridge sort of floats on the mucky soil.

To complicate the job, delta tides shift as much as 10 feet daily and the temperature tops 100 most of the day.

To guard against frogmen trying to blow the bridge, special protection has been built around the piling and other precautions have been taken. Massive bunkers at both ends guard against ground attacks.

The span will save the Army thousands of dollars daily—and save countless Army truck drivers lots of sleep. It enables trucks from the big supply bases east of Saigon to bypass the capital on the way to U.S. installations north and west of the city. Drivers who used to get up at 3:30 a.m. for the daily convoys will soon be able to luxuriate in bed until, say, 6:30 a.m.

Two Fugitives From Wake Jail

RALEIGH (AP) — Two men who escaped from the Wake County Jail Saturday night after overpowering two jailors were still at large today.

The two fugitives were identified as Robert Lee Griffin Jr., 23, and George Everett Curtis, 21, who were being held on armed robbery charges.

Jailors W. M. Strong and W. W. Robinson were locked in cells before the pair fled.

Strong suffered a small laceration on his left arm, officials said.

Gazelles can run as fast as 45 miles per hour over long distances.

Northeast Fear Of Drought Is Washed Away

NEW YORK (AP) — The heavy rains of May and June have washed away the threat of another Northeast water shortage and filled reservoirs to overflowing or near capacity.

The blessings of the late spring rains, after an abnormally dry April that made water officials uneasy, were cited by officials all over the area.

In Washington, government hydrologists said the rains had produced record and near-record stream flows in Ohio, New Jersey and New York and reversed a downward trend in water supply.

And although a Weather Bureau spokesman in Boston described New England's spring rains as generally not heavy, he said their frequency had left the area with sufficient water.

Water officials throughout the Northeast still have bad dreams about the five-year drought of 1961 to 1966 when New York City's water supply dropped to less than 25 per cent of its reservoirs' capacities.

This week, New York's water supply was more than 100 per cent of capacity. This measurement is possible because the capacity is measured up to the spillways of the reservoirs and there is some water storage above that line at certain points.

Boston's Quabbin Reservoir, which has a capacity of 412 billion gallons, was listed June 1 as being 48 per cent full, compared with 56.1 per cent in August of last year. But the reservoir level was at 506.99 feet on June 18, enough, according to a water official, to last four to five years without another drop of rain.

N.C. Non-Farm Jobs Show Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — Non-farm employment in North Carolina during May totaled 1,592,600, a gain of 1,000 over April and 28,300 higher than in May a year ago.

State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane said Sunday that factory employment during May totaled 658,300, up 12,900 from May last year. Non-manufacturing employment showed a gain of 15,400 over May last year, rising to a total of 934,300.

Crane said the average hourly earnings of factory workers increased three cents to $2.18, an increase of 17 cents over May, 1967.

The factory work week rose 1.3 hours to a May average of 40.6 hours. The average weekly earnings were up $4.01 to $88.51 in May, Crane said.

The biggest employment gains for the month occurred in state and local government, which were up 1,200 from the April level.

Willie McCovey Slams Two Long-Ball Homers

By DICK COUCH
Willie McCovey is a firm believer in that maxim: Out of sight, out of mind. And he's getting his message across to the Pittsburgh Pirates.

McCovey unloaded a pair of tape measure home runs Sunday, giving Juan Marichal and the San Francisco Giants a 2-1 victory over Pittsburgh. . . and driving the Pirates up the walls of cavernous Forbes Field.

"I don't get any thrill out of hitting the ball real far. . . I just want it to go out of the park," said the slugging first baseman, who has hit seven of his National League leading 18 homers in the Giants' last seven games against the Pirates.

Marichal's 14th victory—tops in the majors—enabled the second-place Giants to trim one-half game off St. Louis' league lead. The Cardinals had their seven-game winning string sliced by Atlanta 5-1 in the opener of a doubleheader, but rebounded for a 3-1 second game victory that left them 6½ lengths in front.

Cincinnati swept a twin bill from the Chicago Cubs 9-8 and 4-3, the nightcap going 11 innings, while the New York Mets edged Los Angeles 5-4 and Houston tripped Philadelphia 7-4 in other single games.

In American League action Detroit bowed to Cleveland 3-0 before beating the Indians 4-1 for a doubleheader split, the Chicago White Sox drubbed Boston 10-2 after a 6-2 first game loss to the Red Sox, Minnesota downed the New York Yankees 6-3, Oakland blasted Washington

9-0 and California nipped Baltimore 3-2.

McCovey took exception to his own rule in the first inning at Pittsburgh when the first of his two homers off Jim Bunning sailed onto the 88-foot high roof of the double deck right field stands. "I watched it all the way," he admitted. "I knew it cleared the stands."

But he shrugged off a reminder that the roof had been reached only 12 times before in Forbes Field's 59-year history. "That sounds like quite a lot to me," said Willie.

McCovey's second homer—and third in two games—was a 425-foot blast into the right center field stands that gave Marichal a 2-0 margin in the third.

The Giants' ace blanked the Pirates until the eighth, when Maury Wills singled, extending his hitting streak to 22 games, and scored on Matty Alou's double.

Marichal, 14-2, wouldn't discuss his prospects for a 30-victory year.

While Marichal was taming the Pirates, a pair of unheralded hurlers—Atlanta reliever Cecil Upshaw and St. Louis southpaw Mel Nelson—divided the spoils before a record regular season crowd of 49,743 at Busch Stadium.

Upshaw allowed only two hits over the final 7 2-3 innings of the opener after the Braves chased St. Louis starter Nelson Briles with a four-run first-inning flurry.

"I'm a short reliever, but I keep getting in these long pitching situations," said Upshaw, who took over for Dick Kelley after Orlando Cepeda had clipped the Atlanta starter for a second-inning homer. "After the game they told me I was in the bullpen for the second game. That shook me up."

Nelson, recalled from the minors last week, fired a six-hitter and held the Braves to an unearned run in the nightcap for his first major league triumph since 1963. . . and his first ever as a starter. Catcher Johnny Edwards backed his batterymate with a triple and single, good for three RBI.

The Reds completed their sweep on a freakish 11th-inning force play that deprived Tommy Helms of a single but sent Tony Perez home with the winning run.

With one out and the bases loaded, Helms' blooper fell in front of right fielder Al Spangler, who recovered the ball and forced Lee May at second a Perez trotted across the plate. May had driven in the Reds' first three runs with a homer knocked out in the tenth inning but picked up his sixth victory in 11 decisions.

Reliever Fred Gladding rescued left-hander Denny Lemaster from a ninth inning jam to nail Houston's victory over the Phillies. Denis Menke scored three-run homer and doubled home another run against the Dodgers. Rookie Nolan Ryan, the Astros.

Headed Off Nicklaus In Canadian Open Play

TORONTO (AP) — It's getting to be a habit.

Bob Charles of New Zealand won the $125,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship Sunday and became the second golfer in eight days to ignore a final-round charge by Jack Nicklaus.

Lee Trevino did it a week earlier and won the U.S. Open.

Charles shot a four-under-par 66 during Sunday's final round for a six-under-par 274 and picked up $25,000.

Nicklaus, who staged a head-to-head battle with Charles over the final 18 holes of the 6,792-yard St. George's Golf Club layout, said later that the New Zealander's game was "just too good."

Charles went to the first tee Sunday afternoon with Nicklaus and Billy Casper. He was tied with George Knudson of Toronto for the lead at two-under 208.

Nicklaus, who started the round one stroke back, scored three-under 67 and won $15,000 for his second-place finish.

Bruce Crampton of Australia was alone at three-under 277 after a 66 for the day, while three-time winner Sam Snead, R. H. Sikes, Tom Weiskopf and Tommy Aaron were tied for fourth with one-under 279s. Jack Montgomery and Casper, the defending champion, were at par 280.

Knudson slipped to 73 and finished in a tie with six other at 281.

Knudson equalled the competitive course record Saturday of six-under 64 set by Al Balding in 1960 after scoring a hole-in-one in the second round Friday.

Charles now heads for the Cleveland Open at Lakewood, Ohio. The tourney starts Thursday.

Nobles Wins In Invitational

ROCKY MOUNT — Charlie Lee Nobles of Greenville won the Ru-Bob Country Club Invitational here yesterday. He shot a 57 on the 18-hole course to lead second-place finisher James Earl Vicks of Farmville, who shot a 59, by two strokes.

Every man has his price.

These are ours. And you don't have to figure out how much the extras will add to the price of the Volkswagen you buy. We already figured them in. By building them in. Things like heater/defrosters, windshield washers and adjustable bucket seats are part of the car. You can't own a VW without owning them, too. (Things like whitewalls are extra, as you might expect. But we tell you that in the *.) A Volkswagen won't only cost you less to drive out in. It'll cost you less to drive around in.

VW sedans (even the 65 hp Fastback and Squareback) get up to 27 miles to a gallon. Even the biggest VW, our boxy station wagon, gets up to 23. They all take oil by the pint. (Even the expensive-looking Karmann Ghia.) And never cost you a cent for antifreeze because VW engines are air-cooled. But if you still don't care to sell out so cheap, there is one way to raise the price of a Volkswagen. Get a sunroof. With the beetle, Fastback or Squareback. (For no money at all, of course, you can come in and see them all in person.)

Argentine Soccer Stampede Fatal For 71 Fans; Trampled To Death

By LOUIS UCHITELLE
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Ignoring a loudspeaker warning that a gate was closed, hundreds of soccer fans stampeded as they tried to leave Argentina's largest stadium Sunday and trampled 71 persons to death.

Police said 83 persons were injured, many of them seriously. Most of the dead and injured were men.

It was Argentina's worst sports disaster and recalled the worst such in the history of sports, a stampede at a soccer match in Lima, Peru, in 1964 in which 328 persons were killed.

The Argentine tragedy occurred just at sundown on a chilly winter afternoon at Gate 12, one of the 24 entrance-exit gates around the Estadio Monumental, the 90,000 seat home of the River Plate Soccer Club.

The stadium was full for the match between River Plate and Boca Juniors, which ended in a scoreless tie. As the crowd began to leave a jam developed at Gate 12, because the one-way entrance turnstiles had not been removed there. Stadium officials said the fans were warned by loudspeaker not to leave by that gate.

The stampeding crowd swept away the turnstiles in their panic.

Most were Boca Juniors fans from the cheapest seats in the stadium. When the panic ended, the dead and injured were sprawled on the concrete staircases and ramp leading to the gate. Within a few minutes, dozens of ambulances rushed to the stadium.

Jose Maria Pereyra, 32, was jammed against the turnstiles and knocked unconscious. Revived on the playing field, he told a newsmen:

"The loudspeakers said not to use the gate, but everyone ignored the warning. I was caught in the crowd and carried toward the gate. I saw the crush coming but I couldn't do anything about it."

"When the first persons fell," said Hugo Paez, "those coming behind found themselves trapped between the people on the floor and the rest of the crowd pushing from behind."

"The pressure of the crowd was tremendous and pushed people over those who had fallen first. More persons fell to the ground as the confusion and the panic mounted. I found myself pushed off the ground by the crowd, and I landed outside the stadium without injury."

The police reported that many of the victims were suffocated.

The owners of the Boca Juniors said the club would pay for funeral and medical expenses since most of the victims were Boca fans.

Qualified For Olympic Track, Field Trials

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Vince Matthews of Johnson C. Smith, Ed Stenberg and Jeff Howser of Duke, and Roger Collins of Clemson have qualified for the Olympic track and field trials. Qualifiers for the June 29-30 trials in Los Angeles have been named on basis of NCAA, AAU and NIAI championship meets, and on times in armed forces meets.

Matthews has done 45 seconds in the 440-meter dash, Stenberg 30.04.6 in the 10,000 meter run, Howser 13.8 in the 110-meter high hurdles and Collins 240 feet, 3 inches in the javelin throw.

Stenberg, Howser and Collins also were named to the 150-man NCAA All-American track and field team over the weekend.

Lonborg's Hopes Dimmed Sunday

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Lonborg's hopes for a pitching comeback with the Boston Red Sox were a bit dimmer today as he prepared to undergo X-rays of his sore right shoulder.

The 1967 Cy Young award winner threw five bad pitches—all balls—to lead off Sunday's second game against the Chicago White Sox, hitting two batters, before leaving the mound.

Lonborg complained of pain in the shoulder and the Red Sox decided to send him home for the X-rays.

"The loudspeakers said not to use the gate, but everyone ignored the warning. I was caught in the crowd and carried toward the gate. I saw the crush coming but I couldn't do anything about it."

"When the first persons fell," said Hugo Paez, "those coming behind found themselves trapped between the people on the floor and the rest of the crowd pushing from behind."

"The pressure of the crowd was tremendous and pushed people over those who had fallen first. More persons fell to the ground as the confusion and the panic mounted. I found myself pushed off the ground by the crowd, and I landed outside the stadium without injury."

The police reported that many of the victims were suffocated.

The owners of the Boca Juniors said the club would pay for funeral and medical expenses since most of the victims were Boca fans.

Played 100 Holes On Longest Day

NAWILIWILI, Kauai, Hawaii (AP) — Three golf enthusiasts played 100 holes each Saturday at the Kauai Surf Resort course to observe the longest day of the year.

One, Honolulu Star-Bulletin columnist Jim Beiter, said, "No useful purpose was served, but we had fun."

The other two were Bob Herkes, vice president of Inter-Island Resorts, and club pro Bill Schwallie.

They played the nine hole course 11 times—with one extra hole—and completed the marathon in 12 hours and 5 minutes.

The winner was Schwallie, who played the first 72 holes in a one-over-par 281. He finished the 100 holes five over par.

Epperson Strikes Out 10 As Wilson Whips Kinston, 8-2

The Wilson Tobs of the Carolina League could use a few more pitchers like righthander Paul Epperson, recently obtained from Charlotte of the Southern League.

Swimmers Rally For Invitational

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP)—Hundreds of swimmers over 12 years old, representing at least 30 countries, begin arriving this weekend for an invitational meet at the Santa Clara international Swim Center July 5-7.

The center's first invitational meet last year produced nine world records. This year's meet will be the only major international meet before the Olympic Games. Many countries planned to send their entire national teams.

France and Canada are expected to have the largest foreign delegations.

Heading the Canadian group is Elaine Tanner, who will meet South Africa's Karen Muir in the two women's backstroke events the only time this year.

Epperson scattered seven hits and struck out 10 as Wilson defeated Kinston 8-2 at Farmville Sunday. It was the first Carolina League victory in two decisions for Epperson, who gave up no bases on balls. The Tobs scored twice in the second, two more in the sixth, one in the seventh and three in the eighth.

Rocky Mount scored runs in the ninth and 10th to nip Lynchburg 2-1 at Rocky Mount and snap a seven-game losing streak. Lynchburg righthander Ed Smith had given up only three singles until the ninth when the Leafs scored their winning run.

The Burlington Senators rallied for two runs in the eighth and handed Portsmouth a 4-2 loss at Portsmouth. Joe Lis blasted his 17th homer of the season for Portsmouth in the eighth with none on.

Salem and High Point-Thomasville split a doubleheader at Thomasville. The Hi-Toms won the opener 2-1 behind the two-hit pitching of Monty Montgomery, who was relieved in the seventh when Salem got two men on base. Salem won the second game 4-3 in 11 innings.

The winning run came on a three-bagger by Will Hammond and an error.

Rod Laver Has 3 'Obstacles'

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Three American tennis stars, all ranked in the top 10, stood in the path of Australian pro Rod Laver as he started his bid for the first open Wimbledon title today.

Laver, top seeded, had to play Eugene Scott of New York City, ranked No. 9 in the American list, in the first round on the No. 1 court.

If Laver wins, he probably will find himself facing two more U.S. stars later in the week—Stan Smith, ranked 7th, from Pasadena, Calif., in the second round, and Marty Riessen, No. 5, from Evanston, Ill., in the third.

When Bob Goalby won the Masters title it marked his seventh tournament victory in 11 years as a pro golfer.

Righthander Scipio Spinks pitched a six-hitter and drove in two runs with a double as Greensboro defeated Raleigh-Durham 7-3 at Greensboro.

Peninsula got only three hits off lefthander Rick Hoban in posting a 2-0 victory over Winston-Salem in a night game at Hampton, Va. Peninsula scored its two runs on two hits in the second inning.

In Saturday night play, Peninsula blanked Burlington 2-0; Raleigh-Durham defeated Rocky Mount 4-2; Lynchburg whipped High Point-Thomasville 8-1; Salem whipped Portsmouth 5-3; Wilson shutout Kinston 2-0 and Greensboro beat Winston-Salem 6-2.

Games tonight: Winston-Salem at Peninsula, Burlington at Portsmouth, Lynchburg at Rocky Mount, Kinston at Wilson, Raleigh-Durham at Greensboro and Salem at High Point-Thomasville.

McCarthy Hopes To Talk With Hanoi Delegates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says he hopes to talk to North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris this summer to learn prospects for a "settlement or accommodation" of the war. And Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has advocated an immediate cease-fire.

On the Republican side, California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Sunday it makes no sense to regard military victory in Vietnam as impossible but GOP presidential aspirant Nelson A. Rockefeller said the only way to an honorable peace is through negotiations.

McCarthy, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he hopes to talk to North Vietnamese representatives during a Paris trip in July or early August.

But McCarthy said he does not plan to participate in peace negotiations in Paris or to offer a proposal there on settling the war.

Humphrey said an immediate cease-fire in Vietnam would create a positive atmosphere at the Paris peace talks and end "fight and talk" tactics.

"Humphrey, during an interview with editors of the New York Times, said he would be prepared to offer a cease-fire any hour of the day" but said

Hanoi has shown no such interest.

"But it may," he added. "I think we ought to keep pounding away at it."

McCarthy was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers." The Humphrey interview appeared in Sunday's editions of the New York Times.

The Gallup Poll, meanwhile, showed McCarthy now leading both the Republican contenders and Humphrey leading GOP candidate Richard M. Nixon but not Rockefeller.

The poll of registered voters showed McCarthy leading Nixon 41 per cent to 39 and Rockefeller 39 per cent to 38. It showed Humphrey leading Nixon 42 per cent to 37 but trailing Rockefeller 39 per cent to 38.

Reagan, a GOP favorite son who says he is not a presidential candidate; criticized the Johnson administration for publicly ruling out use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam.

He also criticized the administration for indicating the war would not be escalated during peace talks.

He said nuclear weapons are "neither necessary nor desirable" in Vietnam but agreed: "If they are to be a deterrent, we should not have gone as far as we have to assure everybody they would not be used."

New York Gov. Rockefeller said a negotiated honorable end to the war would not include a settlement that would result in a Communist government in South Vietnam.

"I think the settlement has got to be on a basis of self-determination," he said, "and the renunciation on the part of the Viet Cong of the use of force and subversion."

Rockefeller was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Newsman following third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace, meanwhile, estimate his recently completed 11-day, fund-raising tour may have brought his campaign more than $300,000.

While the candidates argued the issues over the weekend, party conventions in eight states selected or distributed national convention delegates.

Nixon picked up nearly 75 for a total of 445 of the 667 convention votes needed for the GOP presidential nomination. Humphrey appeared to have won more than 100 but only 20 from Minnesota were officially committed.

Rockefeller has 176 anticipated votes and favorite son candidates control 383.

The Democratic delegate counts show 447% including the Minnesota delegates for Humphrey, 324 for McCarthy and 462 for favorite sons with 709½ listed as technically uncommitted. Needed for the Democratic nomination: 1,312 votes.

In the state party convention action:

—Humphrey backers at the Minnesota Democratic convention won all 20 at-large delegates and the convention adopted a platform plank paralleling the vice president's call for a Vietnam cease-fire. Minnesota is the home state of both Humphrey and McCarthy and McCarthy had won 13½ of the 32 delegates selected earlier at the local level.

—Nixon was listed the first choice by 44 of the 52 uncommitted GOP delegates selected at conventions in Washington, New Mexico and Montana. Sen. Strom Thurmond announced after a South Carolina delegation meeting his state's 22 GOP delegates would support Nixon. Seven at-large Louisiana delegates phrey appeared to have won more than 100 but only 20 from Minnesota were officially committed.

lected by convention said they favor Nixon.

—Indiana Democrats, with 63 national convention votes, picked a delegation heavily favoring Humphrey but McCarthy backers claimed at least 11 votes. One McCarthy backer objecting to what he said was token representation was ejected after a fist fight.

No Tea-Fetching By Office Boy

TRIVANDRUM, India (AP) — A minister in the Communist-dominated coalition government of Kerala state was seen walking down the long corridors toward the office cafeteria.

He was going to get himself a cup of tea after workers had prevented his office boy from fetching it for him.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK6 ♥AK5 ♦10 9 8 3 ♣AKQ

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
2 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. If you pass, you tempt temptation to raise the hearts, it should be resisted. Partner has not indicated any special strength by his bid of two hearts. From your standpoint the hand is not impressive. Your response of one no trump was based on a high card holding of only seven points, just a point above minimum. There is, therefore, no occasion for you to take further action.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠6 2 ♥K 6 4 2 ♦K 5 3 ♣Q 8 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South
1 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid?

A.—Bid one no trump. This will inform partner that you have scattered values. If you choose to pass, the bidding may progress at so rapid a pace that you may never have the opportunity to enter the picture, for your values are not sufficient to justify doubling the opponents at any low contract which they may reach.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A 6 ♥9 ♦AK 9 6 4 ♣AK 8 7 6

The bidding has proceeded:

East South

What do you bid?

A.—Double. While normally we are disinclined to make a take-out double with hands containing two suits, no other form of action is suitable with a hand so rich in high card values. A false cue bid of two hearts cannot be accepted, first, because insistence upon a game will not be justifiable; secondly, not sufficient trump support is held for spades should partner have to play that suit.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK 8 4 2 ♥AQJ 3 ♦7 ♣Q 9 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. This does not indicate a desire to play at the minor suit but is, rather, a descriptive bid on the way to what looks like a certain slam. Your next step will depend upon the character of partner's response.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠6 4 2 ♥9 5 3 2 ♦AJ 9 4 ♣Q 9

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. If you pass, you tempt temptation to raise the hearts, it should be resisted. Partner has not indicated any special strength by his bid of two hearts. From your standpoint the hand is not impressive. Your response of one no trump was based on a high card holding of only seven points, just a point above minimum. There is, therefore, no occasion for you to take further action.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, partner opens with one no trump, and you hold:

♠A 9 8 4 ♥Q 10 5 ♦AJ 8 4 2 ♣8

What is your response?

A.—Three diamonds. You have sufficient high card strength for a jump to three no trump (12 points), but the three diamond bid is superior, for it will produce the same result with the added advantage of providing partner with the opportunity to bid three spades, if he happens to have a four card major suit; and, with the slightly unbalanced hand, a suit contract may prove to be superior.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ 7 5 2 ♥KJ 4 ♦8 3 ♣AKQ

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. If partner can protect against the loss of two diamond tricks, you wish him to contract for slam, and he should place that construction on your five spade bid. The Blackwood bid would not be at all helpful to you, for the slam might be there even if partner has only one ace, if he has, for example, a singleton diamond.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K 10 ♥AKQJ 4 ♦7 ♣J 8 6 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1 ♥ 2 ♦ 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—There is a choice between three and four hearts, and we have a slight preference for the latter. Partner's free raise to two hearts indicates a good hand and, with the adverse overall of two diamonds, it is highly likely that partner's values will be in the black suits, which should make the hand fit very well.

The Worry Clinic Good Judgment Can Be Lost In Smother Love

"Smother love" becloud her good judgment. For church camps vaccinate young people against the dangerous nostalgia that causes thousands of college dropouts during the first quarter on the campus. And such camps also prepare the future leadership of local churches, so support them 100 percent.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-506: Lorna Q., aged 12, has a problem. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I attend church every Sunday. And I am secretary of our Junior Young People. "Our church has summer camps for various age groups and I'd like to attend.

"But I am an only child and my mother doesn't want to let me go, for she is afraid something might happen to me. "Our clergymen has reassured her, but still she will not say 'Yes.' "But she believes you, so could you talk to Mother?" Mother, beware lest your normal "Mother love" degenerate into "Smother love." When a boy or girl is 12 years old, they are actually teenagers! Four our birthdays indicate completed years that have already been finished! Thus, Lorna's 12th birthday means she has already passed through 12 full years and is now living in her 13th. But that 13th year is a "teen-year, so all of you boys and girls who have reached your 12th birthday, are automatically teen-agers! Jesus was only 12 when he attended a very special type of "church camp," except it was in the Temple, where Jesus was so interested in the questions and answers of the priests that he forgot his parents, who journeyed all day en route home before they missed him. Church camps, as well as those of the Scouts and Camp Fire Girls, are doubly valuable to young people. First of all, they help cut young people free from mamma's apron strings. For while they are away from home for possibly a week or more, they must learn to rely more on their own resources. Thus, they must win new friends and live according to dormitory regulations. This is doubly helpful in cushioning the shock when they later go off to college. For thousands of brilliant college freshman flunk out the first quarter just because they can't stand to be away from home. Nostalgia (homesickness) is the greatest cause of college dropouts before Christmas of the freshman year! But the second great value of attending church camps is

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee says U.S. grants to foreign scientists for nonessential research—especially those in developed countries and particularly those in France—should be stopped immediately.

The House Government Operations Committee said in a report released over the weekend the government continues to approve grants for foreign research projects at the rate of about $20 million a year, including some $5 million a year to developed countries.

The grants are made, the report said, despite what it called an acute need to reduce the U.S. balance of payments deficit. "France," the report said, "has expressed resentment at the inflow of U.S. dollars, used dollar balances to raid the U.S. gold supply, and consistently fought U.S. initiatives on money, trade and military cooperation."

The report said grants for research not absolutely essential should also be terminated to Japan, Canada, Britain, Sweden, Italy, Australia and Germany.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief sponsor of the administration's industrial safety bill says it "is still very much alive" this session despite considerable business opposition.

Chairman Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., of the Labor subcommittee handling the bill, said he hopes to complete hearings on it next month.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has the inspiration and specialized training for leadership which young people receive.

The hometown clergyman has a heterogeneous audience, meaning, it is comprised of toddlers, teen-agers, young marrieds, oldsters and even grand-parents.

Thus, he seldom can bring such a diversified congregation up to the "mountain top" experiences which are attained at church camps.

But at camp the teen-agers are in a homogeneous group of the same age and interests.

And the specially trained leaders know how to inspire them to high resolves that help them choose careers that are motivated by noble altruism instead of $$$$$.

Besides, all our churches soon must turn over the reins to the next generation, so church camps perform a superb job of preparing dedicated young people to become the new pillars of their local congregations.

Send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents. It will help you at church camps, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

served notice he will oppose the measure vigorously if it reaches the floor. Dirksen said the measure would give the secretary of labor authority to impose standards on business "that is greater than any power ever given to a Cabinet member in any time around Washington."

The labor secretary would be authorized to establish safety standards through codes and regulations for businesses which operate across state lines.

The proposal has received strong opposition from most business witnesses at subcommittee hearings.

Capital Footnotes
Government licensing of X-ray technicians and training schools would be authorized by Senate amendments expected to be proposed this week to a House-passed bill to require federal radiation standards for electronic products.

The House Government Operations Committee says the U.S. Office of Education financed a seminar in Hawaii last summer through the "arbitrary and legally questionable diversion" of $250,000 in funds. The committee said in a report the funds were intended by Congress to provide supplementary educational centers and services for school children.

What gets under Chevrolet's skin?

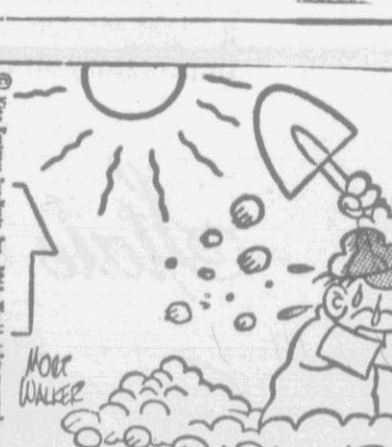

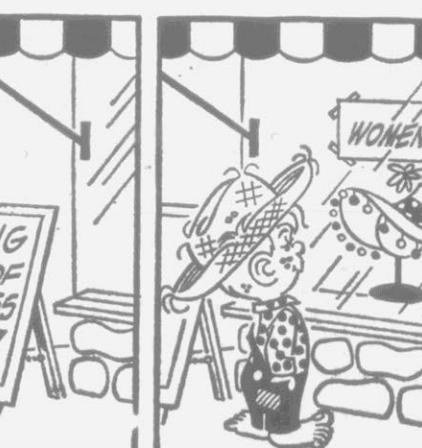

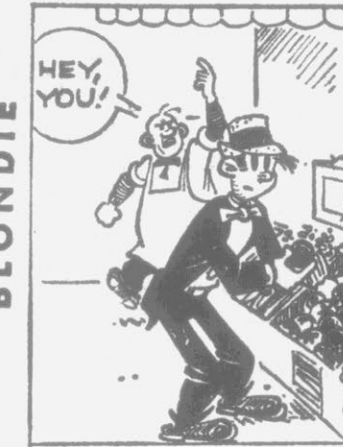

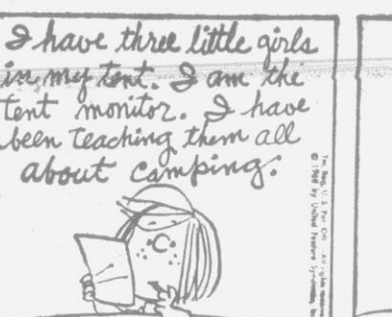

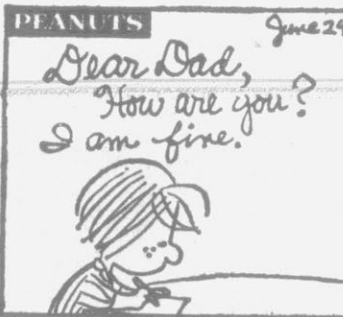

Only the toughest truck components in the business!

Beneath Chevrolet's thick skin (double-walled in most places) lies a truck chassis built for punishment. A heavy-gauge steel frame provides the solid backbone for this inner strength. While a host of durable driveline components supply the muscle, enough to whip most any job. Of course, the heart of all this brawn is a Chevrolet engine. Six or V8, all are built for stamina. They last longer because of such things as induction-hardened crankshaft journals, inexpensive to operate, too. All run on regular gasoline. Keeping everything riding smoothly is the job of Chevy's famed independent front suspension. And what a job it does! Combined with tough coil springs, front and rear, this suspension system cushions the entire truck from jarring road shock. So you see, beautiful engineering is more than skin deep on Chevrolet.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — The North Carolina poultry market today was steady. Price of live poultry at the farms was 14-14½, mostly 14 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market maintained a moderate advance this afternoon. Trading slackened from Friday's pace. Gains outnumbered losses by well over 100 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.32 at 902.25. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 341.7, with industrials up 1.7, rails up .3, and utilities up .8.

International Paper up nearly a point, was the volume leader. It was followed in activity by Stokely-Van Camp, which lost more than a point. The latter sold on a block of 951,000 shares.

United Nuclear was up more than a point, Combustion Engineering gained a fraction, and Olin Mathieson was about unchanged. Olin has agreed to sell its holdings in United Nuclear to Combustion Engineering for about $40 million.

Utilities continued an uptrend, strengthened by congressional passage of the tax-spending-cut bill. Their advance, however, was a mild one as apparently they had well discounted the action.

The major motormakers and steels were narrowly mixed, with most changes fractional. High-priced glamor stocks seemed to be under another spell of profit taking. IBM lost 5 and Control Data 4½.

Phelps Dodge and Engelhard were both up 4 or better in active trading. American Smelting gained 2 while Ashland Oil dropped a point.

Prices were mostly higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Talked Prisoner Into Giving Up

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A prisoner was talked into giving up a pistol after barricading himself, his wife and two small children in a prison visitor's restroom at the South Carolina Penitentiary Sunday.

Prison officials said Harold Couch surrendered peacefully after giving the pistol to his wife, who handed it out the door to officials. An investigation was ordered to determine how Couch got the pistol.

Couch is serving a 40-year prison term for rape.

Gastonia Paper's Sale Is Approved

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Directors of the Gastonia Gazette have approved sale of the afternoon newspaper to Freedom Newspapers Inc., of Santa Ana, Calif.

The announcement was made today by James H. Atkins, president and publisher of the Gazette, and R. C. Hoiles, president of Freedom Newspapers.

The change-over, Atkins said, is expected about July 15 after stockholders have acted on the sale. Atkins will remain as president and publisher of the Gazette, which was founded in 1880, came under control of the Atkins family in 1906, and which became a daily in 1919. Its circulation is about 28,000.

Freedom Newspapers operates seven newspapers in California, four in Texas, two in Ohio, one in Colorado and one in New Mexico.

Three persons received minor injuries when a tractor-trailer truck loaded with cucumbers overturned on a car here late Saturday night.

Officers said the collision occurred about 11:25 p.m. on Pitt Street near the Greene Street intersection. The driver of the truck was identified as Lewis H. Griffin, 37, of Route 4, Savannah, Ga. He was charged with driving with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

The truck, investigators reported, was headed South on Greene Street and overturned as it turned onto Pitt Street, at the foot of the Tar River Bridge.

The cab of the truck came to rest on the hood of a car driven by Robert Samuel Wright, 23, of Route 5, Greenville. Wright, his wife and 14-month old son, were taken to Pitt Memorial for treatment of minor injuries following the collision. Damage was estimated to be $600 to the Wright's car and $800 to the truck.

The wrecked vehicles were not removed from the scene until about 12 hours later—before noon Sunday. Workmen Sunday morning unloaded the crated cucumbers before wreckers attempted to move the large truck.

There are about 103,000 known species of ants, bees, and wasps.

1. Everybody and his brother seems to be merging with somebody else, forming a "holding company", giving away pots and pans with each new account opened, or letting people write checks for more than they have in the bank.

2. Meanwhile, as the saying goes, don't just stand there and do nothing. Honestly, there is nothing new to write an ad about. Can't you see that we are in a new day?

1. You 90-day wonders in the advertising field got to be mighty smart, all of a sudden.

2. Our customers don't want us to merge with a chain, and we are already a holding company. We are holding fast as one of the last of the independent banks in this neighborhood, one of the few in the State. We consider that our purpose is a single one, to serve this community. There must be a need for this kind of purpose because we are growing constantly.

3. If people want pots and pans, there are plenty of merchants who sell them. And until further notice, we're just going to stand here and serve the people.
