

Missile Limitation Talks Next, Says Johnson

AFTER TREATY SIGNING — President Johnson addresses the nation after ceremony signing the non proliferation treaty in the White House today.

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson announced today that the United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to start talks "in the nearest future" on limiting offensive and defensive nuclear missiles systems.

Johnson chose the occasion of the signing of the historic nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty at the White House to make his announcement.

White House officials reported 51 nations were joining the pact, to ban the spread of atomic weapons.

Signing ceremonies were conducted also in London and Moscow.

Hours before President Johnson spoke, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin announced in Moscow that the Soviet Union wants to hold international talks on disarmament, including a halt in the manufacture of nuclear weapons and reduction of nuclear weapon stockpiles.

Kosygin also proposed discussions on limitation and reduction of "means of delivery of strategic weapons."

The premier attacked the United States. He said the need to eliminate foreign military bases, one of the Russian proposals, "is convincingly proved by the continued aggressive war of the U.S.A. in Vietnam."

In London, Prime Minister Harold Wilson, presiding at the signing ceremony there, called the treaty: "The most important measure of arms control and disarmament on which agreement has yet been reached."

Wilson pledged that Britain would continue "with renewed confidence and renewed hope to work for further advances in disarmament." Johnson, in his remarks, referred to the long U.S. effort to start discussions on cutting back the costly nuclear arms race. Moscow had indicated last Thursday that the Soviets were finally ready for such talks.

"At this moment of achievement and hope," the President said, "I am gratified to be able to report and announce to the world a significant agreement I have actively sought and worked since January 1964."

"Agreement has been reached between the governments of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States to enter in the nearest future into discussions on the limitation and reduction of both offensive strategic nuclear weapons delivery systems and systems of defense against ballistic missiles.

Administration authorities said the exact time and place for the opening of U.S.-Soviet talks on curbing their missile and antiballistic missile competition has not been set, nor has the composition of the respective negotiating delegations been decided on. This question is still being worked out in diplomatic exchanges.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.S. disarmament chief William C. Foster were tapped for the honor of signing the non-proliferation treaty for the United States.

The President predicted that virtually all of the countries of the globe will join the pact.

The 51 signers in Washington indicated more than ample support to bring the treaty into force. The pact becomes effective upon ratification by 40 non nuclear states plus the three nuclear sponsors—The United States, Britain and Russia.

Ready For Further Nuclear Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin told signers today of a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons that the Soviet Union is ready to hold international talks on banning underground tests, the last remaining area for the trial explosion of atomic arms.

Kosygin said the talks could extend to the ending of nuclear weapons manufacture and the reduction of nuclear stockpiles. He also proposed discussions on "The limitation and subsequent reduction of means of delivery of strategic weapons."

As Kosygin spoke, the Seismological Institute at Uppsala, Sweden, registered a strong "underground explosion" in the Soviet Union north of the Caspian Sea. It rated it at 6.6 on the Richter scale.

Kosygin's brief speech came at the Nonproliferation Treaty signing ceremony here. Similar ceremonies were conducted in London and Washington.

Nuclear Talk Disdained By Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China has refused to accept a message from Secretary-General U Thant inviting Peking to attend a U.N.-sponsored nuclear conference in Geneva, a U.N. spokesman disclosed today.

Thant sent a telegram to Peking last week inviting the Chinese Communists to have an observer at the conference of nonnuclear countries in Geneva Aug. 29-Sept. 28.

The U.N. spokesman said this message was received from the Peking Telegraph Office Saturday.

"The People's Republic of China has no relations whatsoever with the United Nations. We therefore refuse to accept the June 25 telegram of U Thant."

Two Convicted

LEXINGTON, N. C. (AP) — A Davidson County Superior Court jury today convicted two men of murder conspiracy charges but failed to reach a verdict on the third man accused in the dynamiting of a sheriff's automobile.

A panel of nine men and three women returned the verdict at 11:50 a.m., after beginning deliberations an hour and 50 minutes earlier.

Convicted were Terry James Davis, 29, and Talton Gallimore Jr., 27, both of Thomasville.

The jury was unable to reach a verdict and a mistrial was declared in the case of Durmont Jarrell Conrad, 40, of Lexington.

Earlier, the jury had brought in a guilty verdict against Davis and Gallimore on charges of using dynamite and damaging personal property.

Judge Robert Collier then sentenced Davis and Gallimore to 10 years in prison for conspiracy; 20 years for the bombing of a car and 40 years for bombing of an occupied residence. Defense attorneys immediately announced plans to appeal.

Red Sources Report China Has Its ICBM

MOSCOW (AP) — Foreign Communist sources in the Soviet capital are saying that Communist China, a hydrogen bomb power, now has developed its first intercontinental ballistic missile.

The informants, who would not disclose the source of their information, said they believed the missile's construction was completed in the last few days. It has not been tested, they said, but is ready for trial use.

The unofficial report could not be confirmed independently.

Raleigh Rally

RALEIGH (AP) — Grand Dragon J. Robert Jones of the Ku Klux Klan said today the Klan will hold a rally in North Carolina's capital city this summer for the first time in two years.

Jones said a date for the Raleigh rally had not been set but one would be held Saturday in nearby Wake Forest.

He said Klan rallies were scheduled for Taylorsville Thursday and Chapel Hill Friday.

Jones spoke in a telephone interview from Granite Quarry, his home.

Troops Leaving Czechoslovakia

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Foreign Communist troops are leaving Czechoslovakia after completing Warsaw Pact maneuvers which had some observers in the Western world predicting Soviet intervention to oust the liberal new Czechoslovak regime.

The end of the maneuvers was announced Sunday by CTK, the official Czechoslovak news agency. The war games were directed by Soviet Marshal Ivan I. Yakubovskiy, the commander of Warsaw Pact forces.

Early Start For Ga.-Fla. Sales Seen

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Development of the flue-cured tobacco crop in Georgia indicates that the Georgia-Florida auction markets will be opened either July 24 or July 31, a spokesman for the industry said today.

The actual date will not be determined, however, until a growers' advisory committee meets in Macon July 12.

Commissioner of Agriculture Phil Campbell said reports to him indicate that this year's crop will be greatly improved over that of last year.

Farmers are using less fertilizer and less MH30, a chemical used for sucker control, he said.

"Although the pounds per acre will be somewhat less than that of last year, the general quality of the crop is expected to be improved and there is expected to be more of the desirable types of tobacco available.

Sales in the belt last year exceeded $147.1 million—a record. But the average of $65.54 was down, because the quality of the crop was generally poor.

The decline in acreage price was due mainly to a glutted market and a poorer quality of tobacco.

Recommend Streets In N.C. System

Pitt County commissioners this morning approved a recommendation to the State Highway Commission that the streets at Brook Valley become a part of the state's secondary road system.

In other business, commissioners Charles Gaskin and Vernon Cox were appointed to a committee for planning orderly school district changes and establishing procedures and guide lines for problems occurring between Greenville Board of Education and the County Board of Education.

Five members were appointed to the Ayden planning board. E. N. Johnson Jr. and Royce Alligood were appointed for one-year terms; W.O. Jolly was appointed for a two-year term; and Earl W. Bighorn and E. Gregory Davis were appointed for three-year terms.

Ted Gartman, director of the Pitt County Welfare Department presented the commissioners with a check for $6,494 which represents Pitt County's annual share of the surplus from the State Department of Welfare.

Ed Rawls Jr. was authorized to execute a fireworks display at Ficklen Stadium on July 4.

New Blow?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission will issue a report this week that favors barring all cigarette advertising from radio and television, says Newsweek magazine.

The magazine said Sunday the decision was 3 to 2 to recommend an end to an estimated $250 million a year in the tobacco industry's radio and TV spending.

FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon said he would have no comment on the Newsweek story. In answer to a question, he said that the FTC had no legal power to bar cigarette advertising.

Airliner Forced Down By MIGs Plane With 214 Servicemen Being Held On Soviet Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — An airliner carrying 214 U.S. servicemen to Vietnam is being held today on a Soviet island in the Pacific Ocean after being forced to land by MIG fighters.

The chartered DC-8 was on its way to Vietnam from McChord Air Base in Seattle, Wash., Sunday when the U.S. government said, it strayed off course and was forced to land on Iturup Island, a part of the Kuril chain in the northern Pacific.

The State Department immediately contacted the Soviet embassy in Washington and urged the quick release of the plane, its passengers and the 17 crewmen.

A Japanese air force radar station said it began tracking the plane at 7:30 p.m. EDT Sunday and warned the pilot he was on a course that would cross the Soviet-held island.

The pilot replied, "We cannot alter our course." Japanese sources said, indicating the plane already was under MIG escort.

The sources said the plane was tracked another five minutes before disappearing from radar screens at a position about 30 miles south of Iturup Island.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson said in Moscow he was told by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov the incident is under investigation.

The Pentagon said the pilot of the chartered Seaboard-World Airlines jet, Joseph Tosolini, talked by radio with another American aircraft during the incident.

According to the Pentagon, the pilot of the Seaboard plane reported about 7:20 p.m. that MIG fighters had intercepted him and was forcing him to land at what appeared to be a MIG base on an island.

At 7:39 p.m., the Pentagon said, the Seaboard plane radioed that it had landed without injury to anyone on board and without damage to the plane.

The last transmission was at 7:42 p.m. when the pilot reported he had shut off his engines, the Pentagon said.

The Defense Department, in announcing that the plane had been forced to land, said the aircraft, chartered from Seaboard by the Military Airlift Command, had strayed off its course enroute to Yokota, Japan.

In New York, headquarters for Seaboard-World, a spokesman for the charter line said the crew had flown the route several times and "we don't see how it could have been off course, unless there were some extraordinary factors."

Seaboard identified the rest of the crew as Henry Treger, copilot; Earl Scott, flight engineer and Lawrence Guernon, navigator.

Politics At A Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Here is a roundup of top political developments.

The Democrats: Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy says he could support GOP contender Nelson A. Rockefeller for president, subject to several conditions. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey aides say they're working to ward off any possibility of a third party split by McCarthy backers.

The Republicans: New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says rival Richard M. Nixon doesn't have GOP presidential nomination assured; says a third of Nixon's delegates could switch under uncertainty of Nixon's ability to win in November.

Wallace: Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace denies any racist philosophy—saying his programs would benefit all Americans—and says no White backlash vote exists in the country.

Gunboats Towed Fishermen Away

HONG KONG (AP) — As many as 60 fishermen from a Hong Kong village near China were reported missing by the colonial government today following a raid by Red Chinese gunboats in British waters.

The gunboats towed away at least 14 fishing sampans Sunday. A number of craft from Hong Kong and Communist China were fishing in the area, and the nationality of the seized sampans were not immediately established.

A What?

COLUMBIA (AP) — A California resident has Gov. Robert McNair puzzled.

A type-written letter from Jay Neran of Santa Anna asks the South Carolina chief executive for two "gee-haw-whinny-diddles."

The correspondent says he wants "one for me and one for my brother."

"We'd be glad to send them," said a gubernatorial aide, "if anybody knows what they are."

Nat'l Demo Credentials Committee Head Terms Demands 'Inappropriate'

RALEIGH (AP)—The head of the Democratic National Convention's credentials committee today called "inappropriate" demands by Negroes for a guaranteed minimum representation on North Carolina's delegation to the convention.

But, said the official, Gov. Richard Hughes of New Jersey. "our job is to see that there is no discrimination in the selection of all delegations and we will gladly hear all complaints."

The Negro demands were voiced in Raleigh Saturday by Dr. Reginald Hawkins and a spokesman for Hawkins' group said contact would be made with Hughes.

Hughes said he had not heard from Hawkins.

The governor, who also heads the Democratic National Committee's special equal rights committee, said his statement on the Negroes' proposed quota representation "is not meant as pre-judgment."

"They might have some other grounds for contesting the North Carolina delegation," Hughes said. "It is just that the committee feels it is unwise to embrace anything approximating a quota system."

Hughes made his comments in a telephone interview from Durham, where he was visiting.

Hawkins, a Charlotte Negro who unsuccessfully sought the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the group will go to the convention in Chicago with a demand for "a minimum of 14" of North Carolina's 59 delegate votes.

Hawkins is chairman of the organization, the North Carolina Committee for More Representative Political Participation.

The recent state Democratic convention gave the Negroes four delegates, who will cast three and a half votes, and six alternates in the 131-member delegation.

Hawkins spoke to newsmen at a news conference in Raleigh Saturday following a closed meeting of the new group's executive committee.

"The black people are not begging in the state of North Carolina anymore," he said, adding that the committee will take its representation fight before the convention's Credentials Committee or on the floor.

Hawkins says the political participation group's effort won't die in Chicago—whether or not Negroes gain a stronger voice in party affairs.

He says they will regroup, "change suits, increase voter registration drives, and — on election day — we will do our thing."

The politicking Charlotte dentist sidesteps questions about what "our thing" will be in November.

those candidates and that party with which or in which we have.

The committee is collecting signatures on a petition which says its signers "will support a meaningful voice."

Asked if he would bolt the Democratic Party which during the primary he pledged to support in the general election, Hawkins said, "My lawyer's checking on whether that pledge is constitutional."

Hawkins said the committee also is determined to win appointment of more Negroes to "decision-making" posts in state and local government.

Several other members of the group's executive committee also ran for state, congressional or local offices in the Democratic primary. Few were successful in the first statewide effort to field and nominate Negro candidates for elective positions, but the existence of the political participation committee is evidence they have not given up the struggle.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Afternoon

RALEIGH — Miss Mary Joyce Parrish became the bride of Herbert Franklin Steinbeck Jr. on Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Edenton Street Methodist Church here.

Dr. T. Marvin Vick officiated at the ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Barbara Clark of Raleigh, organist, and Mrs. C. Joe Struz of San Juan, Puerto Rico, sister of the bridegroom, soloist.

The church was decorated with two vases of mixed white summer flowers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Floyd Parrish Sr. of Raleigh and Mr. and Mrs. H. Franklin Steinbeck Sr. of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-lined organza gown featuring a berth collar of chantilly lace with tiny pearls. The removable chapel train, with appliques of lace, fell from the high-rise waist. Her veil of silk organza was trimmed with pearls.

She carried a bridal bouquet of stephanotis, daisies and a yellow-throated orchid.

Mrs. Clyde H. Haley, of Upper Heyford, England, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Claudette Yarborough of Cary, Miss Jean Brooks of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Barbara Jenkins of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Linda Franklin of Raleigh, Miss Loraine Steinbeck and Miss Jensina Steinbeck, sisters of the bridegroom.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Wanda Parrish, Miss Brenda Parrish and Miss Deborah Haley.

The bridesmaids wore gowns of yellow chiffon with satin-covered buttons down the front of the A-lined gown. They wore maize Dior bows with matching material with tiny veils. They carried bouquets of daisies.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were William Barbre, William Bunting, Paul Porter and Hal Smith, all of Greenville. Cliff Parrish of Raleigh, brother of the bride, and Moses Wheeler of Tarboro. The bride's mother chose an A-lined aqua lace ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a gold sheath dress of chiffon over crepe with matching accessories.

For a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada, the bride changed into a navy and red sleeveless dress with navy double-breasted duster and matching accessories.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Broughton High School and East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Rose High School and East Carolina University, where he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity. He is co-owner of Steinbeck's Mens Shop, Greenville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Franklin.

The Art Of Fixing Good Coffee: Cold Tap Water

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bride of a few weeks was in tears when she called her closest friend.

"David says I can't make good coffee," she said. "I measure everything just right and have the right grind for the pot but it doesn't turn out the way he likes it."

At the beginning So the friend had the bride start at the beginning. After a few minutes, she pinpointed the trouble.

The bride was doing everything okay except when it came to putting water in pot. The tap water she added at that step of coffee-making came from the hot water faucet.

"But didn't your mother ever tell you—cold water, dear," the friend said. She found out the next morning. Using cold instead of hot tap water made the difference. Her husband liked the coffee.

A lot of people still botch the job of making coffee, says Victor Harrison, who is responsible for coffee-making rules at Howard Johnson's — which serves 400 million cups of coffee each year.

"The first step in making good coffee takes place while the woman is shopping," he said. "She should buy a good quality coffee, and she should make sure it is the proper grind.

Must be Clean The coffee maker must be clean. Rinse it in hot water between brews and give it a thorough cleaning once a week with a branded coffee-pot cleaner.

Harrison said home coffee makers are designed to brew most efficiently at capacity. Brewing at half capacity or less will produce a poor beverage.

"Measuring the right amount of coffee and fresh cold tap water is vital," he said. "Measuring should be precise and consistent. Generally, two level standard tablespoons of coffee for each six ounces of water are recommended. Find the right measure for your taste

Good Deed Goes Down Drain; Divorcee Fails At Helping

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee with children. In my capacity as a secretary I had access to all the details of a very messy divorce involving an executive in my company. (His wife deserted him, and he recently divorced her and was given custody of their children.)

I invited him to a party at my home, and on the invitation I wrote, "If I can be of any help in your present predicament, please let me know."

He did not even acknowledge my invitation.

I am very confused about this. Did I use poor taste in offering my help? Did I perhaps embarrass him? Or should I take this as an indication that he doesn't want anything to do with me? Your opinion would be appreciated.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Your offer to help him in his "present predicament" was an innocent blunder, since you learned the details of it from your well-intentioned intrusion into his private affairs. Meanwhile, he should have acknowledged your invitation. Let things simmer.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine who married and moved out of town wrote that she and her husband were coming to town next month. We see each other only once a year and keep in touch by letter. She wrote: "We would love to see you, so why don't you throw a party, inviting some people we know? We'd sure enjoy it."

I had intended to invite her and her husband for an evening, but I didn't plan on throwing a party, mainly because we have no mutual friends.

My husband is furious. He says she has a lot of nerve, and I should not invite her here at all.

She really is a nice person, and our friendship goes back a long way. How can I get out of this gracefully?

STUCK

DEAR STUCK: Proceed with your husband will have no her suggestion to "throw a party." Since you consider her a "nice person," why not dig up a couple of other chums whose friendship goes back a long way and have an all-girl party in the afternoon? That way your husband will have no complaints, and you won't feel guilty.

DEAR ABBY: May I say a word about male surgery to prevent unwanted children? My husband had a vasectomy and I am here to testify that it is the greatest! We are in our 70s and are still lovers. We have no regrets for not having our own children, and we've helped 48 delinquent children to become better citizens.

For people with a background of inherited birth defects, or those with occupations which keep them on the run, or folks like us who were the oddest of large, poor families and have had it, it is a blessing. RESPECTS HUMAN LIFE CONFIDENTIAL TO "D. K. P. IN BROOKLYN": I once read "compromise makes a good umbrella but a poor roof." It will do as a temporary measure, but don't expect it to shelter you indefinitely.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Rachel Rowe of Reno, Nev. and Evan George Rowe. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Linwood Snowa Sr. of Richmond, Va.

The couple entered the chapel together. The bride wore a candlelight lace suit and carried a nosegay centered with a white orchid.

'Phallocracy' Instead Of Democracy For Woman

PARIS (WNS) — Françoise Parturier, authoress of "The Letter To Men" in which she complains that the male has never given women a true democracy, but "only a phallocracy." "I have written a militant, aggressive, combative book against men for their own good," said Mme. Parturier. "If they do not change the system quickly, women will stage a revolution that will make student riots look like child's play."

mond, Va. The bride is employed by Richmond Memorial Hospital and the bridegroom is associated with the Richmond Professional Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Strawn of Charlotte and Miss Alice Strawn of Greenville entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Quality Courts Restaurant for the family of the couple and out-of-town guests.

If the Shoe Fits

BY
AVERETTE

How do you properly care for shoes?
Neglected shoes can mar the best of good grooming. Not only is it important to keep shoes in shape for the sake of beauty and fashion, but for health as well.

Here are some easy-to-keep rules which will prolong the life of your shoes:

1. Always use shoe trees. They protect the shape of the shoes and keep them fitting well.
2. Give each pair of shoes at least 48 hours rest between wearings to give them a chance to dry thoroughly.
3. Avoid getting leather shoes wet. Water dissolves the natural oils in the leather which then seep out during walking. Leather fibers quickly scuff and wear away once the natural oils are lost.
4. If shoes get wet, wipe them carefully with a dry cloth. Then stuff them with paper toweling to dry the inside. Dry them only at room temperature.

Step-By-Step Efforts Paying Off

Gulf separating the United States and the Soviet Union are so vast that each tiny step toward bridging the gaps is encouraging.

President Johnson's conciliatory words toward Moscow, and his proposal that peace be built "brick by brick, agreement by agreement", have been heard and heeded with some promising developments.

To recapitulate: Soviet and U. S. airlines will soon be flying into New York and Moscow; the consular convention negotiated in the early 1960's has been ratified by both sides.

A treaty on the use of outer space and agreement to aid astronauts and cosmonauts has been signed; the nuclear nonproliferation treaty was adopted by the United Nations (a feat made possible only by the mutual willingness of the two great nuclear powers).

And now, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko says his government is ready to exchange opinions on the curtailment of rocket systems — something the United States has been trying for 17 months to get started.

An "exchange of opinions" on this point is, in our thinking, a major step in the direction President Johnson was seeking. It is quite a turnaround from the stoney-faced haranguing we have come to expect out of Moscow.

Inch by inch, step by step, we may be moving into a saner world.

New Holiday Schedule And The 4th Of July

With President Johnson ready to sign into law the bill making most national holidays fall on Mondays, the American people have only a relatively few July Fourths left to enjoy.

The Monday holiday schedule will not become effective until January, 1971, so after Thursday Americans will be able to celebrate July 4th on July 4th without any problems for the next two years. After that, however, the celebrations of July 4th on July 4th will become few and far between.

According to our calendar, the next time July 4 falls on a Monday will be 1977. In other years between now and then, after the new law becomes effective, the Fourth holiday will be on days with other numbers. After July, 1977, when the Fourth will be on the Monday holiday, there will be only three other times before the year 2,000 when the Fourth will fall on the Monday holidays.

Maybe by that time it won't make any difference to a good many people when or whether Americans celebrate July 4... but somehow we trust it will still be a mighty important date on the calendars and in the hearts of the American people.

N.C. Airports Work Lagging

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — More than a year after dire warning and urging and appropriation of a quarter million dollars, North Carolina still lags badly in the matter of building, expanding and improving adequate airport facilities.

On paper, statistics indicate this state has fewer suitable airport facilities than any in the Southeast region and ranks close to the bottom nationally in this respect.

Until a year ago, when the legislature reluctantly appropriated $250,000 in state matching funds for airport construction and improvement projects—half of what was recommended—North Carolina was the only state in the Southeast which provided no public funds for airports.

And in the first year, state grants from the $250,000 appropriation have amounted to eight-Durham airport facilities. But as far as can be determined, there is nothing specific.

Problems involved in planning include land usage for a Triangle Park beltline highway, future use and development of the adjacent Umstead State Park area and either squeezing or relocating of the airport's runways and landing patterns. No hard decisions have been reached, and in the meantime the airport itself is being bypassed—both by airlines, air travelers, businessmen and industrialists.

Discontent Voiced
A typical example is that encountered with business and industrial executives from Philadelphia, Dallas and Buffalo who find themselves virtually stranded in Raleigh because of lack of airline and airline transportation service.

There is one airport limousine. Six men, in rumpled business suits and carrying luggage, wait on the sidewalk in 90 degree heat. Another limousine is called. The man will wait, bitterly.

"They can forget it as far as our company is concerned," says one industrialist from New York State. "We require good airline service in any area."

Industrial Prospects
Attracting new business and industry in the major concern involved in local airport development and improvement. This is pointed up by the fact that approval of state grants in aid for airports projects is required both by a special aviation committee and then by Board of Conservation and Development. C&D now includes a separate office of aviation in its industry-hunting Commerce and Industry division.

Thus far, however, the state program has resulted in only one major allocation, that for $30,000 for an airport at Williamston.

The legislation was spearheaded by Rep. Roberts H. Jernigan of Hertford County who had new industrial development in mind for his tricity district, dependent upon a local airport. Under the state program, $6,000 was made available for the Tri-city airport at Ahoskie, Jernigan's hometown. Another relatively small grant, $3,500, was approved at Greenville.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

only $43,000 for four, relatively small projects. The latest is a state aid grant of $3,500 toward lighting a runway at a municipal airport at Statesville.

Little Progress Noted
Some other airport projects are moving forward and some are on the drawing boards. But a survey indicates there are no major improvement nor long-range plans for jet-air transport terminals anywhere in the state. Most projects are piecemeal type improvements and limited by excessive costs and other problems.

The Raleigh-Durham airport, one of the few which can handle big jets, will be closed to regularly scheduled jet traffic for some time next month in order to repair damage and extend a runway. Airlines using the facility will substitute propeller driven planes during the period the repair work is being done, and jet flights will be diverted.

There are tentative plans for future expansion of Raleigh-Durham airport facilities.

Token Gesture Of Integration

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Last June 22, two elderly Negroes—a man and a woman—were packed into an automobile in Shreveport, La., for the 240 mile trip south to Baton Rouge as pawns in a remarkable exercise in token political integration.

The two Shreveport Negroes, the Rev. F. D. Murray, a retired shipping clerk and now a presiding elder of the African Methodist Church, and Mrs. Lizzie Gay, a retired schoolteacher—had received a startling call the previous Wednesday night. The caller was 73-year-old Charlton Lyons, the highly conservative patriarch of Louisiana's Republican party. His message: would they let him drive them to the state party convention in Baton Rouge to be elected as statewide at-large alternate delegates to the Republican National Convention?

It was an amazing invitation. Neither Murray nor Mrs. Gay was even a delegate to the state convention. Neither had any intention of going to Baton Rouge. Although Republican leaders were contesting fiercely for 26 delegate and 26 alternate seats at the National Convention, Murray and Mrs. Gay were not even familiar names in the party. They were unknowns.

That scarcely troubled Lyons and the other party bosses. Arrived in Baton Rouge, Murray and Mrs. Gay were given lunch in the basement cafeteria of the convention hotel, then sat patiently in the visitors' section until their election as alternates.

At that point, Mrs. Gay and Murray each made appropriately humble speeches promising to follow the wishes of the Louisiana regulars at the Miami Beach convention.

Mrs. Gay flatteringly endorsed Nixon. Hat-in-hand, in the faithful darky style of the Old South, Reverend Murray promised he would follow the lead of "Mister Lyons" in voting for President. He would even vote for a jackrabbit if it were a Republican, he said, to appreciative laughter and applause. The preacher and Mrs. Gay were elected.

Their work done, supper was purchased for them in Baton Rouge and they were sent by auto on their separate ways—the Reverend to a prayer meeting in Mansfield, La., and the retired schoolteacher back home to Shreveport.

Thus, Louisiana's delegation to the National Convention no longer can be called lily white. Technically, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller cannot lower the color bar on Louisiana's delegation—which, like most Deep South delegations, will give most of its votes to Richard M. Nixon and a few to Gov. Ronald Reagan. But if not lily white, the Louisiana Republican party is at best only tattle-tale gray.

In fact, the two elderly Negroes never would have been invited to Baton Rouge had not Negro Republican leaders in New Orleans and Baton Rouge, mostly pro-Rockefeller, produced unfavorable national publicity, by charging Jim Crow Republicanism in their state. It was then that Lyons hit upon the eleventh-hour ploy of electing perfectly-safe Negro alternates.

But while this ploy in tokenism may steal Rockefeller's thunder, it hardly opens the door for Louisiana Republicans to the Negro vote, which went solidly Democratic in 1967 as Republicans were losing every legislative race.

No responsible Negro was fooled. Mrs. Gay and Murray were unknown to the state's Negro Republican leaders. When they entered the convention Saturday, a pro-Rockefeller Negro candidate for delegate—Pierre Charles of New Orleans—sneered: "It looks

ART BUCHWALD

The Baffled Impeacher

WASHINGTON — I thought the resignation of Chief Justice Earl Warren would make the violent critics of the Supreme Court rejoice, but it turns out they're as mad at the chief justice for leaving the court, at this time, as they were when he was on it.

Weldon Welcher, the most anti-supreme Court friend I have, was boiling with rage when I saw him the other day.

"It's just like him to quit now," Weldon said.

"But Weldon," I said, "Isn't that what you've been working for all these years?"

"Never mind what I've been working for. Do you realize how much money is going to be lost because Warren resigned?"

"No, I don't."

"Millions of dollars. One of the biggest outdoor advertising revenues in this country came from Impeach Earl Warren signs which we had plastered all over the nation. What are we going to do with the space now?"

"Isn't there somebody else you want to impeach?"

"Nobody could grab the people like Earl Warren. We're stuck with millions of bumper stickers, petitions and Impeach Earl Warren political kits. And then there's the essay contest we used to run every year among school children. It was one of the most stirring and patriotic events of the school year. Thousands of children used to compete, telling why they thought Earl Warren should be thrown off the bench. What is going to happen to these kids?"

"Maybe you'll get another chief justice that you can zap," I said hopefully.

"It isn't that easy. The Impeach Earl Warren industry was the third largest business in the United States. You can't build another image like him overnight."

"Why do you think he resigned at this time?"

"So that President Johnson could appoint another chief justice before the new President was sworn in. It's typical of Warren that he would quit just when we wanted him to stay."

"Can't you impeach him for resigning from the Supreme Court?"

"We've thought of that, but even if we did, it wouldn't change the fact that Johnson gets to appoint a new chief justice."

"What a lame duck thing to do," I said.

Welcher shook his head. "There's something unconstitutional about a President appointing a chief justice of the Supreme Court, just six months before he's leaving office."

"Why don't you impeach President Johnson?" I suggested.

"It still doesn't solve what

Other Editors Saying Begin With Foreign Aid

(Wilson Times)

Cutting $6 billion from the federal budget will not be easy. You are already reading that House supporters of major social programs already are trying to get restored some of the cuts from education programs and antipoverity projects. Well, you might as well face it, to cut a budget $6 billion will require cuts in all the pet programs and deep cuts, especially if there are to be no cuts in defense spending.

This being the case no cause can escape the paring knife, and if the truth is known, all federal programs could be cut to a degree without destroying their effectiveness. The whipping boy, foreign aid, will have major surgery administered, if the pattern follows the ones of the last two years.

Foreign aid, has been called the darling of congressional budget cutters. This is true, and the administration request of $2.9 billion could be cut out entirely for this year and no one would suffer. There are many millions, in unexpected foreign funds appropriated.

The figure of a billion dollars is talked as the cut, but why not go all the way for this one year if for no more, and save $2.9 billion or just about half the $6 billion. As has been said the program will not suffer, for there is already enough money on hand to run the many departments until the next Congress adjourns.

Criticism of the foreign aid program is particularly intense this year. With the required $6 billion cut, foreign aid has been under fire this year. The program has been subjected to a series of disclosures of waste and mismanagement and of corruption in Vietnam.

Legislation to aid regional development has suffered because of the controversy over the size of the foreign aid budget. One of the bills, the one to provide U. S. funds for the Asian Development bank, $200 million over a four year period and the International Development Association, $480 million, may get congressional approval.

One bill passed. It includes $411.8 million to provide capital stock for the Inter-American Development bank. But the major reason it passed was the subscription required no funding. The money would be used by the IADB only in the unlikely event that the bank's loans were in default.

So we are back to the beginning. Cuts must be made and the best place to start is with foreign aid.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS TO THE LIONS

Yesterday we reminded ourselves of the disdain with which Bishop Wright (father of Wilbur and Orville, who first flew a heavier-than-air machine) held the whole idea of flying. Be it said to his credit he later (before the achievement) supported his sons valiantly.

But the only person who had complete faith in the Wright brothers from the beginning was an elderly aunt. She understood what the boys were trying to do and believed they could do it. They promised that if they achieved what they were setting out to do they would wire her from South Carolina.

After their historical flight they did just that—a long telegram describing everything and saying: "We'll be home for Christmas." The aunt then realizing that she held in her hand probably the most important message that had ever gone over telegraph wires ran to the newspaper office and laid before the editor the telegram describing their achievement. The editor said they would try to do something with the message.

Next day on page eight, last column bottom of the page, was a little squib entitled "Home for Christmas." The article ran as follows: "Wilbur and Orville Wright, who are experimenting with flying machines in South Carolina, have wired their aunt (and the name and address were given) that they will be home for Christmas."

The scoop of the century allowed to go by default. What about casting guys like that to the lions?

By ELMER ROESSNER July will be a hot, uneasy month.

Unless cities and states take firm action at first signs of trouble, there is danger of riots. While the Poor People's March to Washington made some gains, it also stirred up considerable white opposition. There is danger of a backlash, and backlashes usually have counteractions. The new surtax will slow sales, although the slowdown will be gradual. Many consumers will review plans for buying autos and other big-ticket items. The higher withholding taxes will have some immediate effect. People can't spend money that has been withheld.

The surtax will probably not lead to a change in Federal Reserve interest rates, although it will avert another rise. Meanwhile, as a result of the last boost, installment interest rates are rising.

There is not, however, much likelihood of increases on balances in revolving credit accounts. The 1 1/2 and 2 per cent would be complicating and bothersome, and a rise to 2 per cent would be so high it would discourage charge accounts.

Auto Sales In Doubt
Higher withholding taxes and higher instalment bites, as previously noted, will tend to slow auto sales. However, the prospects of higher prices on 1969 models and higher wage rates in many industries will partially offset other factors.

If all retail sales lag, there will be no sympathy from the government. Higher interest rates and higher taxes are deliberately planned to slow down the economy and thereby to slow down inflation. This slowdown may be tough, but not as tough as inflation unchecked.

And over all the economy will hang the threat of a steel strike on August 1. All major moves, all construction plans, all production schedules will be made in fear of a strike and, whether there is a strike or not, in the certainty of higher pieces of steel.

Paper Brake Answer

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the belated and sometimes frantic effort to sweep away the paper that now clogs the flow of data among the nation's brokers, a familiar financial district character is being put into gradual retirement.

This is the little old man who scurries through the teeming alleys and narrow streets of the financial district here, poor as a pensioner, but momentarily possessing many thousands of dollars in securities.

This message—there are hundreds of his type—always can be spotted because his clothing isn't as fine as that worn by most financial men. But some people feel that, relative to his minimum wage, he is as hard a worker as any in the financial district.

Now the impersonal efficiency of electronic computers, the advent of the technological age on Wall Street, will handle much of his work and do so with more than his shuffling speed. Stocks theoretically will be more secure also.

The reduction in numbers of these messengers—and the first fundamental assault on the paperwork problem—comes with the beginning of what is called the Central Certificate Service of the New York Stock Exchange.

When this service is in full use, sometime near the end of 1968, it will mean that a great majority of the certificates that messengers now carry from brokerage house to brokerage house will be contained in one depository.

When a trade is made a computer merely will make a bookkeeping entry, adding the stock to the buying broker's account and subtracting it from that of the seller's. Since the stock certificates never will leave the big vaults, the messenger no longer will be needed to rush certificates from broker to broker.

This doesn't mean that all physical transfers will be ended, for not all stock certificates are held in "street name," meaning that although owned by individuals they are left for safekeeping with the broker.

Although such certificates make up only 15 per cent of the shares listed on the Big Board, they are by far the most active ones. In fact, they account for most of the activity; they are owned by traders rather than long-term investors.

Since these shares are so active they also account for a great deal of the paperwork that, by its volume, is ensnaring the nation's financial communities, making attempts for on-time deliveries mere futile gestures and reducing bookkeeping to a dangerously chaotic mess.

By keeping the certificates in common vaults—the locations of which the exchange declines to divulge—it is hoped that brokers will be relieved of the burden of storing, inspecting, counting and recording shares. Primitive disorder will have been replaced by modern efficiency.

The storing of all street-name certificates through the letter C has been completed. And as more certificates are deposited each working day, more physical transfers will be eliminated.

Eventually, almost all street-name certificates of the New York and American exchanges will be included. And some day, it is hoped, over-the-counter stocks—those not listed on any exchange—will be stored in the depository.

The next step in this automated bookkeeping will further reduce paperwork, and with it the number of menial jobs. This step is to replace the certificate itself; after all, why print fancy

An Uneasy Month For Business

Vacation Difficulties
This fear may slow down July business as much as higher interest rates and the surtax.

The four-day Fourth of July weekend will slow retail sales in the cities, but it will help spread the wealth into resort areas.

And with travel prospects in Europe so unpleasant that tens of thousands of reservations have been cancelled, there will be greater congestion than usual at United States, Canada and South of the Border resorts. If you haven't your reservations nailed down now, your vacation may be limited to drives to pools and beaches. And in touring, it will be wise to get confirmation in advance for motel reservations this summer. And take money.

McCarthy Praise For Rockefeller May 'Hurt'

SPIDER-LEGGED SATELLITE CHECKED — Technicians at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., conduct stability check on flight model of the Radio Astronomy Explorer-A satellite, suspended from test stand. The 417-pound spacecraft, designed to study radio emissions, is to be launched July 3 from Lompoc, Calif., test range. Once in orbit four 750-foot antenna booms are to extend from the satellite. WASHINGTON (AP) — Eugene J. McCarthy's statement that he could conceivably support Nelson A. Rockefeller for president has brought criticism from Democratic leaders with many saying the Minnesota senator's own presidential campaign has been hurt.

"This surely will be a good nail in the McCarthy coffin if he still wants the Democratic nomination," said Kansas Gov. Robert Docking, a backer of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, McCarthy's opponent for the Democratic nomination.

Another Democratic governor and backer of Humphrey, Gullett Smith of West Virginia said,

"What we need today are people who will stand up for their party and their beliefs. I see nothing wrong with being a Democrat and supporting my party."

"I think McCarthy will have to start making his arrangements," added Arkansas Democratic Chairman Leon Callett, "because I think Humphrey has got the nomination cinched."

Said Republican South Dakota Gov. Nils Boe: "I'm happy to see any Democrat support a Republican."

The reaction was to McCarthy's statement before Michigan's national convention delegation meeting in Lansing Sunday that he might back Republican Rockefeller subject to several conditions.

"I might go for Rockefeller if his domestic and foreign policy programs were acceptable," McCarthy told the delegation.

Republicans said the comment took them by surprise.

"It's a strange statement to make at this stage of the game," said Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Nelson's brother. "I can't tell you at this stage whether it will help or hurt Nelson."

It could hurt, the Arkansas governor said, if the McCarthy statement helped brand GOP presidential bidder Rockefeller as a more liberal Republican than some conservatives already believe he is.

The Michigan Democrats who heard McCarthy's statement reacted negatively for the most part. There were mutterings of protest and others shook their heads in disapproval when he spoke of the possibility of supporting Rockefeller.

Rockefeller backers said the McCarthy statement shows the New York governor can draw Democratic support. McCarthy backers said they remain hopeful they can remain in the Democratic party.

McCarthy's statement brought to mind reports in recent days that he might possibly bolt the Democratic party and lead an independent effort to gain the presidency. McCarthy has consistently denied such reports, but this latest unorthodox statement is bound to renew speculation, some sources said.

certificates to lie dusty in vaults?

The solution is fraught with problems. First, the laws of many states must be changed, just as they were changed before the Central Certificate Service was activated. But there is much more also.

Ideally, what is required is a piece of paper that can be read by a machine, which is acceptable as absolute proof of ownership and which cannot easily be counterfeited.

That's a big order. It shows just how heavily the financial markets have leaned on the old messenger.

we're going to do with all those impeach Earl Warren sweatshirts."

"The problem, as I see it," I said, "is that your people got bogged down in personalities. By going after Earl Warren you forgot that your main target was the entire Supreme Court. Now that Justice Warren is resigning, the court is still there."

"You're right," Welch agreed. "We couldn't see the forest for the trees. Maybe we should call for the impeachment of all the justices on the Supreme Court, as a package deal."

"That's great, Welch," I said excitedly. "Not only would you be making a patriotic gesture, but you'd save the outdoor impeachment advertising business at the same time."

I could see Welch was taken with the idea.

"There's only one thing that bothers me," he said. "How the hell do you get nine names on a bumper sticker?"

like Charlton Lyons brought down his butler and maid." The real feeling of the state party was disclosed when the state convention voted down Charles and Lloyd Myles of New Orleans in their legitimate bids for delegate.

After the fact, state party leaders hint that Charles and Myles would have been ejected had they not been for Rockefeller. Even if this is true, however, the fact remains that Louisiana Republicans have systematically excluded Negroes in recent years. When Nixon spoke in New Orleans in 1966, it was at his last - minute insistence that some 13 Negroes were slipped into the otherwise all-white audience.

INSECURE SECURITY
DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — More than $10,000 was taken from a supposedly burglarproof filing cabinet in the security room of Douglas police headquarters. Police Chief Percy Bowden said that for the past 25 years he had been in the habit of keeping large amounts of his money in the cabinet.

THREATENED SATO
TOKYO (UPI) — Police Sunday arrested a 26-year-old man armed with a 5-inch knife and reported he planned to assassinate Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

Diagnosis Made On TV Circuit

BOSTON (AP) — Television has been used by a doctor to interview, examine and diagnose a patient miles away.

Massachusetts General Hospital demonstrated the new technique Saturday. A doctor at the hospital and a volunteer patient three miles away saw each other on television screens and spoke over a radio hookup.

The doctor used his television screen to view charts, X-rays and electrocardiograms. Aided by a nurse with the patient, the doctor got direct readings of blood pressure, heart beat, pulse and respiration.

Dr. Kenneth T. Bird, associate physician at the hospital, developed the television technique and called it "an extension of the usefulness of the physician."

Trade School Spanning States

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — A group of vocational-technical educators from Illinois are working closely with the Denver, Colo., public schools to develop a plan for vocational education there.

Prof. Robert M. Tomlinson of the University of Illinois department of vocational and technical education is chief consultant for the project which is funded as part of the federal Model Cities program. Tomlinson and his staff are reviewing the population characteristics and trends available from existing reports and are gathering an inventory of occupationally oriented training now available in Denver. Their overall plan, which will be given to Denver city and school officials by Aug. 1 will recommend what programs are needed for vocational training.

Tomlinson noted that the vocational educational programs and other parts of the Model Cities project give Denver the opportunity to prevent ghetto development. Although the Spanish-American population has about tripled in the last eight years and the Negro population has approximately doubled, the hard core slums which are characteristic of most of the older U.S. cities have not yet occurred in Denver, he said.

Only one per cent of Rhode Island's labor force is engaged in farming.

TAX COLLECTOR—TOWN OF WINTERVILLE

Another Privately-Built Dorm Soon

UNIVERSITY SQUARE . . . Granville East and Granville West, connected by the Dining Commons will be joined soon by co-educational Granville South. The dormitory complex is a private-enterprise venture providing housing for UNC students and supervised by the university.

A co-educational dormitory is scheduled for 1969 construction at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. This will be the fifth major addition to the University Square complex which is adjacent to the Chapel Hill campus.

The co-educational dormitory, to be named Granville South, is due for opening in September 1969. It will be an eight-story building designed to house 439 men and women students. Construction will be a concrete frame with brick veneer. The interior design will allow any of the eight living floors to be devoted solely to either men or women students, by having two independent sets of stairways at each end of the building.

Each student suite will consist of two large connecting rooms. Two students will share a room, but will have individual living-study area within the room. All student suites will contain a private bath and other modern conveniences, including ample storage and closet space. Lounges, television and a separate study room will be provided on each floor.

Buildings previously constructed in the University Square complex are: Granville East, a dormitory for women, opened in 1965; Granville West, the men's dormitory which was completed in 1966; banks, shops and offices in a building completed in 1966; and a commercial building for retail stores which is now under construction. Granville East and Granville West house and feed more than 1000 men and women students.

In addition to these buildings to house and serve students, the University square complex offers a wide range of recreation facilities. A swimming pool and courts for badminton, basketball and volleyball have recently been completed. The facilities are conveniently located for residents of all the dormitories.

Granville Towers, the collective name for the dormitories and shops is a privately-owned and operated venture. It is approved and supervised by the university.

Cuba Jails Airline Pilot After Plane Is Hijacked

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The wife of Cuban-born pilot George Prellezo pleaded to visit him in a Havana jail today as South-east Airlines prepared to retrieve its hijacked airliner.

Airline President Irvin L. Jones Jr., who said the Cuban government had promised the safe return of the plane's other occupants, told newsmen a substitute pilot would be flown to Havana today. The airliner, hijacked over the Florida Keys Saturday by one of its 15 passengers, was to be flown to Key West this afternoon.

The other crew members, identified by the airlines only as stewardess A. Kimball and copilot Dave Martin of Miami, are to be returned with the passengers and the plane.

Jones' statement included no mention of Mrs. Prellezo in plans to retrieve the plane.

"I have requested to be on that flight" to Cuba, 33-year-old Olga Prellezo said Sunday. Her husband, naturalized as a U.S. citizen last year, was accused by the Cuban government of being a deserter.

"Since they are leaving my husband there, I see no reason for him to be there alone. I want to be there to plead for him, to do any necessary thing to get him back," Mrs. Prellezo said.

"I beg and demand of the U.S. government to be allowed to travel to Cuba so I can be near my husband," she said.

Prellezo, 36, arrived in Miami June 27, 1960, as the pilot of a regularly scheduled cargo plane from Cuba, his wife said.

"He chose to stay here and that is no crime. The plane was flown back to Cuba," said Mrs. Prellezo, a Puerto Rican-born American.

The Prellezos have five children, ranging in age from 5 to 14. All are naturalized or native-born U.S. citizens.

Prellezo radioed the Federation Aviation Agency at Key West Saturday that one of the passengers was holding a "gun at my head" and had ordered him to fly to Cuba.

In Havana, copilot Dave Martin said the gunman entered the cabin as the plane neared Key West.

Mrs. Prellezo, flanked by her children, told a news conference in Miami Sunday that her husband was very proud of his U.S. citizenship.

"I never thought that I would see the day I would have to feel ashamed of being an American citizen. It only gets you in trouble all over the world," she said.

The State Department, whose affairs in Havana are handled by the Swiss Embassy there, said Prellezo was assured all of the protections guaranteed any U.S. citizen.

"We've made all the official protests," said a department spokesman. "What's left to do? An invasion?"

The Southeast plane was the sixth airliner diverted to Cuba this year, and the 14th such incident in the last two years.

Navajos Have Own Tribal Flag

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The Navajos, the nation's largest Indian group, now has its own tribal flag.

The flag was designed by Jay Degroat, a Navajo from Crownpoint, N.M. It consists of a silhouette of the Navajo country surrounded by the Four Sacred Mountains and encompassed by the "protective and bountiful bands of the rainbow."

The flag—red, white, yellow and brown—will be unfurled Sunday during the Navajo's commemoration of the treaty of 1868 which set them free from federal government captivity.

'Charismatic Revival' Grows In American Church Circles

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

They held hands. They prayed for one another. They spoke in tongues. They traded accounts of their "baptism of the Spirit."

A nun told of having a vision from God of a stream where all men came to drink. And the discussion abounded with phrases such as "praise the Lord" and "Hallelujah."

This was the atmosphere of a recent gathering of Protestants and Catholics in Dayton, Ohio, concerning an unusual phenomenon swirling through American churches.

It's called the "charismatic revival" or "Spirit movement."

Once confined largely to Holiness or Pentecostal churches, it has spread among small, dedicated groups in many major Protestant denominations, and a year ago, began breaking out among Roman Catholics.

A newly completed three-year study, directed by Dr. Luther P. Gerlach, a University of Minnesota anthropologist, found that the movement now involves a wide cross-section of Christians.

Although it originated among simple Bible belt believers late in the last century, Dr. Gerlach says the growing "Neo-Pentecostalism" of the 1960's attracts people from a broad range of social, cultural and educational backgrounds.

The study estimates their present number at about four million in this country.

More than two million of them belong to Pentecostal denominations, including many small groups. Largest among them is the 556,000-member Assemblies of God, which has an even larger overseas following.

These Pentecostal churches now outstrip all other denominations in rate of growth, but Dr. Gerlach says the greatest recent surge in the movement has been in mainline Protestantism and Catholicism.

It is "spreading throughout society," he said in a recent interview in the National Catholic Reporter. It includes priests and nuns, ministers and laymen, professors and businessmen.

"Research has shown these people recruit, because they are convinced they're right," he said. "They are sure of themselves."

Among their core convictions are belief in the "baptism of the Holy Spirit," accompanied with speaking in tongues, and a fervent commitment to disciplined living and evangelism.

Speaking in unknown tongues, or glossolalia, was first experienced by some Christians in New Testament times.

Groups affirming that experience have turned up in Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist, Episcopal and Baptist churches, and lately, among Catholic "spiritualists" at several universities, including Notre Dame, Duquesne, Iowa State and Michigan State.

Some participants work quietly, lest they bring on official church opposition. Others, such as the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship, openly promote the movement.

Several major denominations have authorized studies of the activity within their ranks.

The Dayton meeting, an Institute on the Charismatic Revival, was sponsored by the Catholic Marist Fathers' Bergamo Center to bring into the open the widespread manifestations of the movement.

About 150 participants from across the country took part, along with more than 200 local adherents from various churches. The meeting ended with an all-night meeting of prayer and testimony by individuals about their experiences.

As recounted in the Reporter, Dr. Gerlach said it would be a "miracle of sorts" if the established churches are able to absorb the movement without a clash.

However, the Rev. Edward O'Conner, a Catholic theologian of Notre Dame and a participant in the movement, said there was no need for such a collision.

The institutional church and Spirit revival "of their very nature belong together," he said.

"It will be the greatest disaster if we have to begin acting as if we (Pentecostals) have to go underground."

As Dr. Gerlach sees it, officials of major churches generally have opposed the movement because they are concerned with maintaining church order.

Another wing of Christian militants wants the church to fight for social reform, he said, while the third wing is made up of the Neo-Pentecostals working for a revolution in the spiritual life of Christianity.

"There is a slight possibility that the social action wing and the spiritual renewal wing will come together," he said. "If that happens we would have a powerful thing. The established order will be shaken in the churches. My only advice to the established order is to get with it."

Burmese Ponder '16,000 Problems' Of Country

GEN. NE WIN'S BIG JOB is to keep five main ethnic groups and 62 tribal peoples all under the big tent he put up six years ago. (UPI Telephoto)

By ROBERT C. MILLER

RANGOON, Burma (UPI)—“If only there were an atomic device that could blow Burma 5,000 miles away from China,” a Burmese official mused recently, “then half of our 16,000 problems would be solved.”

In its 21st or “coming of age” year of independence, there is little question that Texas-sized Burma would be better off in the matter of national security if it did not share with Communist China a 1,200-mile border across which stream

Dedicate Early Christmas Site

ST. CROIX ISLAND, Maine (AP)— Dedication ceremonies were held here Sunday for establishment of a national historical site on the spot where North America's first Christmas celebration was said to have been held in 1604.

Officials from the National Park Service and the State Parks and Recreation Commission were at the ceremonies on this tiny island in the St. Croix River in northern Maine.

The island was the site of the first European settlement on the Atlantic coast north of Florida. French explorers Sieur de Monts and Samuel de Champlain led a group of about 100 colonists.

Williamston Man Shot In Foot

WILLIAMSTON— A Williamston man was shot in the foot Saturday by his brother following an argument.

The victim is Willie Cleveland Grant, Negro of Florida. Grant was shot with a .32 caliber pistol by Odell Meritt, also of Florida.

Meritt has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon and is out on $150 bond, according to Williamston Police Chief John Swain. Both men are migratory workers in North Carolina for the harvesting of the cucumber crop.

nationalistic Burmese people are still flailing away awkwardly in a sea of economic problems and fighting among themselves.

Stay Neutral

They refuse to cry for help, however, keeping instead a policy of absolutely impartial international neutrality. With Buddhist serenity they ignore the fire and brimstone threats from Peking, and with equal politeness reject all American and most Western air proposals. “We prefer to be poor and our own masters,” a Rangoon governmental spokesman told UPI, “rather than slaves to a foreign power. We have sipped that bitter tea before.”

And Burma is poor. The Burmese fought both the British and the Japanese for the right to establish their beautiful dream of a workers' and peasants' socialistic paradise. The dream has become an economic nightmare. The country that was Asia's greatest rice exporter instituted rationing last year in order to meet modest export quotas. Nationalized businesses and industries have decayed with the loss of foreign capital. The black market is an essential way of life in a land where consumer goods are rare and bureaucratic

But persistent Communist harassment is only one of Burma's predicaments. Twenty years after divorcing themselves from the British—Burma became an independent nation outside the commonwealth Jan. 4, 1948—the proud and fiercely

Rescued 24 In Storm On Lake

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)— Twenty-four persons were rescued from Lake Michigan after winds gusted to 30 miles an hour and overturned a flock of canoes and kayaks during a race Sunday.

There were no injuries. Some of the competitors were recovered by power boats a mile from shore.

Coast Guard Auxiliary spokesmen said the 42-boat race was interrupted by waves three feet high. The shallow boats, he said, “started going over like peanuts.”

No. 1 Woman In Democrat Party

WASHINGTON (AP)— Mrs. India Edwards will be No. 1 woman again in the Democratic party—for at least the next three months. A long-time director of women's activities and vice-chairman of the party in the 1940s and 1950s Mrs. Edwards will carry out the role of vice-chairman and director of women's activities, especially to organize women's participation in the convention. She's pinch-hitting for Mrs. Margaret Price, who's been hospitalized since January.

red tape strangles the marketplace.

Visiting Limited

While in such desperate need of hard currency, Burma still discourages tourism to the point where visitors are limited to 24 hours in the country.

The Burmese are constantly fighting among themselves. The big task of General Ne Win's army-run government is keeping the five main ethnic groups and 62 tribal peoples all under the big tent he put up six years ago when, in a practically bloodless coup, he established the revolutionary council of ministers and deposed the floundering civilian U Nu government.

What the government nicely refers to as the “insurgency problem” involves a small-scale Vietnam War. Trains get blown up, villages raided, outposts attacked and officials kidnaped. But it's more of an intramural contest with the government taking on the Karens in the south, the Shans in the east, the Kachins in the north and the Peking-encouraged Communists throughout the rich plains areas—who continually harass the farmers.

Fortunately for the Rangoon government, its opposition has never been able to form a united front. Gen. Win's government has nationalized just about every capital-producing business employing more than eight persons. But a bottleneck in the plan is the rice farmers who—unmoved by patriotic appeals or even incentives—refuse to sell at government prices any more rice than absolutely necessary for survival.

Foreign Money Scarce

The government has to keep its rice buying price down to earn as big a profit as possible in scarce foreign currencies which are needed for essential imports. If forced to pay the going price for rice, the government would have to charge higher prices in the country's people's stores. This, argue government economists, would bring inflation, force up the minimum wage of 66 cents a day and make higher living costs all along the line.

The Burmese consumers are caught in the middle. The Burma plan calls for the state to handle the distribution of all goods and services through state-owned people's stores. When there is little rice to sell abroad, there is little hard currency to buy even household essentials.

Squeezed up against Burma's western border are some of India's 460 million population. Beginning late in the 19th century, cheap and willing Indian labor practically took over the economy after the British encouraged them to migrate to Burma. They became in the ensuing years, the biggest absentee landowners, the shopkeepers, money lenders and farm laborers.

The post-independence confiscation of Indian-owned lands strained relations between the two governments, but the Burmese refuse to pay indemnities claiming the Indians acquired the lands by usury. Their standard interest charge was 25 per cent.

“This mass exodus of the Indians has hurt Burma badly,” explained a neutral economist. “The Indians were the oil in the economy that kept it running smoothly. It was a brutal system but it worked, particularly in the paddies. The farmer had a quick, easy source of money for which he paid an enormous interest rate. But the Indian money lender made certain the crop got harvested, marketed and his money paid back.”

The Burmese still don't feel they can trust the Americans.

They remember with anger support Washington gave Nationalist Chinese General Li Mi in the late 1940s when he and his 93rd Division troops fled Yunnan ahead of the Communists and set up headquarters in so eastern Shan State of Burma.

The troops' pillaging of Burmese villages with American guns glown in from Taiwan so rankled by the Burmese that they cancelled all American aid projects. Only after U.O. pressure did the United States Taiwan of some 2,000 of the Nationalist troops and stop the airlift.

General Win's second tour of cuts has been tougher than his first. His determination to wipe out the communist guerrillas in Burma has moved him to ban on birth control.

the top of Peking's hate list. And despite cries against the “imperialistic British,” Britain's recent decision to pull all its defense forces out of Southeast Asia has shaken the the biggest army in Asia.

if it can control its internal quarreling the government believes the solution to the country's economic problems is more and better education combined with a bigger goal force. TV E¼ Burmese have always had a high literacy rate; the goal today is 100 per cent. Along with the sharpened brains, the Ne Win government '47 nung) uted the greatest health program in Burmese history, with mass inoculations, enlarged hospitals, vastly improved medical facilities—and a ban on birth control.

Morey Plays 'Safely' To Win Amateur Tourney

By LES GARNER
Reflector Sports Writer

Although he said that he played "too safely," N.C. Open champ Dale Morey survived a final round charge from his two closest opponents to win the N.C. Men's Amateur Championship yesterday at Brook Valley.

His triumph was marred by tragedy, however. After the trophies were presented, officials informed him of the death of his wife's mother, to whom friends said he was very close.

In the championship round, Morey "took no chances" and shot a 74 to hold a final one stroke lead over Joe Inman of Greensboro and Ken "Buzz" Sawyer of Greensboro.

Inman and Sawyer both posted sub-par rounds for the final day, but failed to catch Morey who took a three stroke lead after firing a five-under-par 67 Saturday. The two college students, Inman from Wake Forest and Sawyer from East Tennessee State, were forced into a sudden death playoff to break their tie 289.

Commenting on his round, Morey said he was playing better golf now than any other time in his career, although he was shooting more bad rounds. He plans next to tackle the Southern Amateur Tournament in Jacksonville, Florida. Runner-up Sawyer, who led after 18 holes with defending champ Sonny Grant, three-putted three greens yesterday, but shot a 71. He said his most outstanding play of the day was when he played out of a sand trap on the 530-yard seventeenth and birdied it hole.

NL All-Stars Should Have Edge On July 9, If Pitchers 'Right'

By HAROLD HARRISON
CINCINNATI (AP) — If All-Star game experience means anything, National League pitchers should have a decided edge over their American League rivals when they meet in the annual major league All-Star game at Houston on July 9.

On the other hand, only three of the seven American League pitchers, picked Friday by Manager Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox, have had previous experience in the mid-summer classic.

Each team will have four pitchers with earned run averages of less than 2.00. The National Leaguers are Gibson, Drysdale, Koonsman and Fryman. The American Leaguers are Tiant, John, McDowell and Odom.

Two Guardsmen On Leave Aid Chicago Cause

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A day full of Eddie Stanky is easy to take for a ballplayer who has just had a week full of sergeants.

So Tommy John and Tom McCraw, sprung from National Guard duty by weekend passes to spend Sunday with Stanky and the White Sox, led Chicago to a 12-0 romp over Detroit.

John pitched a five-hitter for his seventh straight victory and McCraw slammed three hits including a pair of doubles and scored twice.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, New York trimmed Oakland 4-2, California socked Washington 8-4, Cleveland topped Boston 7-5 in 10 innings, and Baltimore dropped Minnesota 6-4.

In the National League, New York blanked Houston 1-0, Pittsburgh tripped Philadelphia 5-2, Chicago whipped St. Louis 6-2, Los Angeles edged Atlanta 3-2 and Cincinnati dropped San Francisco 5-3.

McCraw and John, both members of an Indiana Air National Guard unit, are halfway through their annual two-week tour of duty at Alpena, Mich. They flew to Detroit for Sunday's game.

Bill Voss and Sandy Alomar, untroubled by military problems, helped John and McCraw carry off the Detroit maneuvers. Voss walloped a grand slam home run—his third major league homer and second in two days against the Tigers—and Alomar slapped four hits, stole three bases, and scored four runs.

Champion Ortiz Loses His Title

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — There was confusion over the scoring but it was abundantly clear today that Teo Cruz was the new lightweight champion of the world.

The 29-year-old Dominican native became the first fighter from his country to win a world title by outpointing Carlos Ortiz, Puerto Rican-born New Yorker, in 15 rounds early Sunday.

The decision was first announced as unanimous, then changed to split, then back to unanimous and once again to a split verdict. Finally, it was announced that referee Zach Clayton of Philadelphia favored Ortiz 131-130. Judge Jose A. Solo had it 145-142 and the other judge, Carlos Lugo, 146-121, both for Cruz.

"It was my best fight ever," said Cruz. "He (Ortiz) gave me a hard blow in the 12th round but it didn't bother me."

There is a possibility the two will meet again in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where Cruz now lives.

It was the second time Ortiz had lost the title. He regained it from Ismael Laguna of Panama in November 1965 after losing it seven months earlier.

John White 7-0 record is even more impressive when you consider the White Sox' troubles this season, struck out five and walked none for his first shutout of the year.

Roy White tagged a two-run homer in the seventh inning, giving the Yankees their victory over Oakland. White's seventh

Pirates Sign Running Back

Michael McCarthy (Mike) Lewis, a 5-11, 175 pound offensive and defensive halfback, has signed a football grant in aid with East Carolina University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Lewis, 6309 Ridgeway Road, Richmond, Virginia.

Playing football for Coach Dan Barton at Thomas Jefferson High School in 1966 and for Coach John Matlock at Staunton Military Academy in 1967, Mike has earned six athletic letters—four in football and two in soccer. He was also named to the All-Metro and All-Capitol District teams as a high schooler.

Coach Henry Vansant of the East Carolina Pirates who recruited Lewis said, "We have high hopes that Mike will be an outstanding running back in our single wing offense. His strength and quickness should help him be successful."

homer of the year-snapped a 2-2 tie. Steve Hamilton came out of the bullpen to strike out Reggie Jackson, ending an eighth inning Oakland threat and saving the victory for Steve Barber. Jackson had homered and singled and scored the A's second run earlier.

Chuck Hinton's two-run triple helped build a four-run California first inning and the Angels coasted past Washington.

Rick Clark went five innings in 94-degree heat and earned the victory again: the Senators, ending an eight-game personal losing streak.

The heat reached 105 degrees on the field at Baltimore, knocking out Minnesota's Dean Chance and helping the Orioles beat the Twins.

Chance, leading 4-3, left for a pinch hitter in the seventh because of the heat but Al Worthington couldn't protect the edge. Three walks loaded the bases and Dave Johnson's pinch single plus sacrifice flies by Brooks Robinson and Curt Motton produced three runs.

Tony Oliva socked two home runs for the Twins.

Duke Sims hammered a three-run homer in the 10th, giving Cleveland its third consecutive victory over the Red Sox. Sims unloaded after two walks and the Indians added another run on Jose Cardenal's double and a single by Vern Fuller.

The Red Sox got two runs back in the bottom of the 10th but the rally fell short.

Ken Harrelson had snapped an 0-for-10 string with his 16th homer, tying it for Boston in the eighth.

Expect 37,000 To See Gibson, Drysdale Clash

LOS ANGELES (AP)—There has been much debate about the drabness of runless innings and low-scoring baseball games. Yet more than 37,000 are expected at Dodger Stadium tonight, paying to see two pitchers try to blank each other.

For Los Angeles it will be Don Drysdale, who on June 5 set a major league record by pitching his sixth straight shutouts. Last Wednesday in St. Louis the Cardinals' Bob Gibson hurled his fifth consecutive blank job and shoots tonight for No. 6.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who may not fancy the honor, bowed to Big D 5-0 and to Gibson 3-0. The Pittsburgh Pirates, who may not fancy the honor, bowed to Big D 5-0 and to Gibson 3-0. Both the 32-year-old Gibson and Drysdale, 31, are right-handers. Drysdale goes against the National League leaders with a 10-4 season record. Gibson is 9-5 but has won six straight games.

Gibson, who insists he is interested not in records but in winning, is challenging another all-time record that Drysdale set in his brilliant string. After shutting out the Pirates, Drysdale pitched 4 2-3 scoreless innings against Philadelphia and his record stands at 58 2-3 innings.

Gibson's row of goose eggs stands at 49. It would take extra innings of scoreless ball to eclipse the Drysdale mark, of course. Last week Louis Gibson declared, "I'm not looking forward to a shutout. I'm looking forward to a win. I only pitched once against Drysdale this year and he beat me, 1-0."

There were unforeseen disappointments in the competition. Little Gerry Lindgren, the nation's finest distance runner, passed up the 5,000 Saturday and had to pull out of the 10,000 Sunday when he came up with an ailing Achilles tendon and had to drop out after 6½ miles.

Hurdler Earl McCullough led in the 110-meter highs until he hit the last barrier. He was beaten for the first time this year and finished seventh behind the winner, Erv Hall of Villanova. The time was 13.6.

Olympic Trials Failed To Display Potential Might

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United States will send a powerful men's track and field team to the Olympic games in Mexico City this fall. But the claim can hardly be substantiated by the performances in the two-day Olympic Trials just completed.

Nor, it was reaffirmed today, will the makeup of the big squad be known or determined until the high altitude final trials at South Lake Tahoe, Calif., Sept. 2-17.

The Olympic Track and Field Committee, headed by Chairman Hilmer Lodge, said it would announce the list of athletes later today who will be invited to Lake Tahoe, based on efforts in the just concluded competition in Memorial Coliseum.

As many as 10 from each of the 18 events will get the call. Those eventually named to the team, including the winners here, must satisfy the committee in September that they are physically sturd and can with success perform in Tahoe's Mexico-like altitude of more than 7,000 feet.

Lodge said the trials here served to filter out the less adept athletes. He also frankly conceded the Olympic fund needed any revenue it got from the trials.

In this respect the trials fell far short of anticipations. Only 48,710, about evenly divided between the Saturday and Sunday events, witnessed what one humorist called "the biggest all-comers meet in the country."

The lone major record came in the triple jump. Art Walker upped his American mark of 54-11 to 55-1¾.

Possibly the most suspense came late Saturday when collegians Bob Seagren and John Vaughn came fairly close to breaking the world pole vault record, trying for 17-8.

They settled for 7-4 and Seagren, from the University of Southern California, won in a jump-off over his rival from UCLA.

The status of a Negro boycott of the Olympic Games remained uncertain. A poll by The Associated Press Sunday of winners revealed none who would say he definitely would not go to Mexico City.

There were unforeseen disappointments in the competition.

Little Gerry Lindgren, the nation's finest distance runner, passed up the 5,000 Saturday and had to pull out of the 10,000 Sunday when he came up with an ailing Achilles tendon and had to drop out after 6½ miles.

Glotzbach And Petty Take Front Positions

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ford's factory team sat on the sidelines Sunday, benched by technical inspections, as young Charlie Glotzbach and veteran Richard Petty sewed up the two front positions for the $73,000 Firecracker 400 stock car race.

Glotzbach, an onrushing 30-year-old newcomer from Georgetown, Ind., took nearly six miles an hour off old qualifying record as he won the pole position for the Fourth of July race with a two-lap, five-mile average of 185.156 miles an hour in a 1968 Dodge Charger.

Petty's 1968 Plymouth turned the high-banked Daytona International Speedway at an average of 183.342 to give the Randleman, N.C., driver the outside pole in the 40-car field.

The old Firecracker qualifying record of 179.802, set last year by Darel Dieringer of Charlotte, N. C., in a Ford, was broken by five of the seven drivers who qualified for Sunday's runs against the clock.

NASCAR inspectors cut the field drastically Saturday night and early Sunday when they rejected Ford's factory entries for nonconformity in ground clearance. The inspectors ruled all of the cars were too low to the ground.

The ruling temporarily grounded such drivers as A.J. Foyt, Tiny Lund and Donnie Allison. A Ford spokesman said the cars would be altered to meet the NASCAR requirements.

The altered cars could be re-inspected in time to allow the Ford drivers to qualify in runs scheduled today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Only Glotzbach, who won $1,000 along with the pole position, and Petty qualified Sunday.

Petty squeezed past Buddy Baker of Charlotte for the No. 2 spot as Baker posted a speed of 183.161 in a 1968 Charger.

Also running Sunday were Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., who had 180.355 in a 1968 Dodge; Bobby Isaacs, Catawba, N.C., 180.324 in a Charger; Butch Hartman, Zanesville, Ohio, 177.588, in a 1968 Dodge and Bobby Allison, Hueytown, Ala., 172.412, in a 1966 Chevelle.

WHAT'S THIS, WATER? Jackie Gleason, who says he's drunk beer from every conceivable vessel, contemplates a glass of water as he discourses on longevity of television performers who "appeal to the mature audiences." In case you're wondering, that's a photo, not the real thing behind him. (AP Wirephoto)

Gleason Says Survival Lies In Appeal To Adult Viewers

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Why do people like Ed Sullivan, Lucille Ball, Red Skelton and myself stay on the air year after year?" asked Jackie Gleason.

He supplied his own answer: "Because we appeal to the mature audience."

The globe-shaped comedian was in an analytical mood as he attacked his simple lunch of prime ribs of beef and two bottles of beer. He asked for a tall glass, but all the Paramount commissary could provide was a glass for ice cream sodas. He accepted it uncomplainingly, commenting, "I have drunk beer from every conceivable vessel."

Gleason was at the studio for filming of his second movie in a row, "How to Commit Marriage." He was working solo prior to the return of costar Bob Hope, sidelined at the picture's start because of a recurrence of his eye ailment.

Reflecting on TV longevity, Gleason observed that the way to survive is to appeal to the older folks: "They're always at home, and they'll tune you in because they know they can count on a regular standard of entertainment."

"When we do 'The Honey-mooners,' we get both the kids and the adults. For the variety shows, the audience is mostly adult—unless I put on one of the pop music acts, which I don't like to do."

"I think it's tough to last when you aim at the younger audience only. Take 'Laugh-in.' Don't get me wrong—I think Dan Rowan and Dick Martin have done a terrific job with that show; they've used the 'hellzapoppin' technique to great advantage."

"But how are they going to keep it up; these kids nowadays are so sharp, so quick to catch on, that every-gag, every gesture registers in their minds. They can repeat all the jokes and catchlines, and they do. But how soon are they going to tire of those things and want something else?"

Gleason himself is planning no innovations for the coming season, although he is aiming for strong names as guest stars. It will be more of the same, and judging from his consistently high ratings, there's no need to change.

The Gleason technique, as he describes it, appears to be even more casual than Dean Martin's. Dino amazed his fellow stars by devoting no more than one day to his variety hour. Gleason said that he often reports to his show just in time to have a hair trim and get into costume.

"For 'The Honey-mooners' we might have a one-hour run-through," he added. "Fortunately, I'm a fast study, and so are Art (Carney), Sheila (McRae) and Betty (Kean). We use cue cards only for the songs; it's too tough to learn the lyrics for four songs every show."

"Otherwise I don't use cue cards or Teleprompters. I don't believe in them. Most of the actors on shows nowadays don't talk to each other anymore—they're too busy staring at their lines."

Come September, Gleason will be back in his favorite haunt of Miami Beach and starting a new season. He doesn't miss Hollywood.

"Where have all my old buddies gone?" not New York. "I sometimes wonder how I ever lived there, playing 18 holes every day at Toots Shor's bar."

He has even solved the need to come here for films: Next January he plans to star with Lucille Ball in "Diamond Jim Brady," to be filmed in Florida.

Capture Suspect In Mississippi Bombings

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — A young Alabama fugitive wielding a submachine gun and a pistol was seriously injured and his woman companion was killed Sunday by police staked out at the home of a prominent Jewish businessman to guard against night riders.

Police Chief C. L. "Roy" Gunn said he believed that 11 recent acts of violence in Meridian have been solved with the arrest of 22-year-old Thomas Albert Tarrants III of Mobile, Ala.

He said Tarrants also has been sought in connection with other bombing incidents in Mississippi.

Tarrants was charged in a warrant with the attempted murder of Patrolman J. M. Hatcher, 31, wounded four times in the stomach and chest, during a high-speed chase.

One of the bullets pierced Hatcher's heart.

Found shot to death on the floorboard of Tarrants' car was his companion, identified as Kathy Ainsworth, 26, a fifth grade school teacher in Jackson, Miss.

A neighbor who went outside to see what was going on was hit in a spray of bullets. He is Navy Machinists Mate 2nd Class Robert E. Burton, formerly of Fulton, Mo. Hatcher and Burton were hospitalized in critical condition.

The shooting started at 1 a.m. Sunday at the ranch-style home of Meyer Davidson, 51, who led in raising a $75,000 reward for information in the bombing of Temple Beth Israel in Meridian earlier this year.

Tornado Belt Is Adopting Warning Systems

By DON REEDER
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Only one out every 10 towns in the U.S. tornado belt has an adequate warning system, says Allen Pearson, director of the Weather Bureau's National Severe Storms Forecast Center.

"And this is an improvement from what it was a few years ago," he adds.

Pearson and others were asked about the nation's tornado readiness status in the wake of a near-record barrage of twisters that battered the Midwest May 15.

The winds killed 45 persons in northeastern Arkansas and 16 in northeastern Iowa, with property damage estimated at more than $45 million.

Pearson reported that on May 15 his office issued 11 tornado watches—alerts disseminated to news media, Civil Defense officials and others that conditions were right for twisters to develop.

But the May 15 alerts did not prevent death and destruction. Take for example the town of Jonesboro, Ark., where 34 persons were killed.

Jonesboro was included in a tornado watch issued at 9:20 p.m. The twister struck about 30 minutes later and caught most citizens by surprise, many of them in their beds.

Jonesboro, although situated in an area frequently raked by tornadoes, has no warning siren. Officials explained they did not feel they needed one, since the town it said had never been hit before.

Gene Talbert, Arkansas Civil Defense director, said Jonesboro and Craighead County now plan jointly to hire a fulltime Civil Defense chief.

"Actually, I think we've got a good tornado warning system in Arkansas," said Talbert. "The Weather Bureau does a tremendous job cooperating with us."

The same day of the Arkansas tornado, the Weather Bureau issued a watch at 2:35 p.m. for an area including Charles City, Iowa. A twister funnel was spotted southwest of town at 4:20 p.m., and the storm struck at 4:52 p.m. Thirteen persons died.

Although they had plenty of warning, Charles City officials did not sound the town's fire siren to get citizens into a shelter.

Charles City Mayor Harry L. Brenton said the town's fire chief decided against sounding the fire alarm because it would have "pulled a lot of kids out in the streets. It always does. I think it was a wise decision."

Brenton said the town's factory whistles now are coordinated with the fire department and they will be sounded in case of tornadoes until a new city hall, with tornado siren is erected.

Pearson and his Weather Bureau companies emphasize all they can do is warn residents of the possibility of twisters, and the rest is up to them.

"There's nothing you can do to save property," Pearson explained, "but give people five minutes, and they can save themselves."

Pearson advocates that every community set up a Civil Defense group or similar organization of volunteers to act as tornado spotters when alerted by the Weather Bureau.

Sirens are all right, he said, but uneven topography often prevents the sound from reaching all parts of town.

He suggests radio and television stations—the prime means of communicating storm warnings—install Weather Bureau news printers.

The ideal method, said Pearson, is the Emergency Broadcast System, EBS in which radio stations transmit a special signal that automatically turns on radio sets to broadcast warnings.

EBS radios are installed in the principal's office of every school in Kansas City, the meteorologist said.

"Generally, if people have been affected by a tornado before or know someone who has, they do all the right things," said Pearson.

"You don't have to tell people in, say, Topeka what to do. They've been through it, and they're believers."

"But most people go through their entire life without ever seeing a tornado. These are the people we've got to work on."

Bring A Boa Constrictor To Class, And Kids Learn

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Carol Norris knows of one way to teach her second graders about snakes—bring a boa constrictor to class.

That's what the teacher did—and most everyone liked the idea—until the snake got away one day for a while.

While Bo was in class, he (or she) became everyone's friend. Students stayed after school to watch Bo eat.

A snake at school could have been a shocking experience for some children so parents had to give permission to watch at mealtime. No parents refused. Principal Harold Hochstatter, of the Condon Elementary School approved of the project, saying, "This was part of our science education—all snakes aren't dangerous or harmful."

Mrs. Norris thought students largely overcame their fear of snakes.

One student, Kip Jones, reprimanded his mother for talking about the snake with a woman who expressed shock over the project.

"Mother, I told you not to say anything about Bo because women and people like that just don't understand boa constrictors."

The value of our 39.6 million pounds of tobacco could be increased by two cents per pound, adding $792,000; plus raising per acre production on average of a minimum of 100 pounds per acre on 22,000 acres. This would add $1,540,000. You can't afford to neglect adding lime where it is needed.

Award Contracts For 6 Nuclear Attack Submarines

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has awarded identically priced contracts to two shipyards for six new nuclear attack submarines, each costing about $7 million more than similar subs built in recent years.

While the prices of the contracts are the same—$107.4 million for three submarines from each company—the pacts have significantly different terms.

The Navy is at a loss to explain exactly how the identical awards came about but said the different types of contracts would be "mutually beneficial" to both the government and the shipyards.

Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., and General Dynamics Corp., were signed to build three Sturgeon class nuclear attack submarines in two contracts announced simultaneously as the Navy wound up buying for the fiscal year ending Sunday at midnight.

Although it wasn't specified in the June 25 announcement, a spokesman said the contract to Ingalls of Pascagoula, Miss., was a "fixed price incentive" award while General Dynamics of Groton, Conn., received merely a letter contract.

This meant, he said, that Ingalls' margin of profit will be higher if it completes the three submarines for $107.4 million or less, than if it exceeds that price.

In the case of General Dynamics, however, the letter contract implies that the $107.4 million is not a fixed cost; rather, "the hope is that we can negotiate a lower price later," the spokesman said.

The reason given for the difference was only that "in the course of negotiations it was found to be mutually beneficial to both the government and the companies," he said.

The spokesman said he could not disclose the maximum margins of profits which might be possible under the awards.

The question of whether defense companies are receiving more than adequate profits from Pentagon orders has become a rather heated item in Congress in recent months.

The six subs under the total $214,833,000 program would cost slightly more than $35.8 million each.

The five previous Sturgeon class subs, of which General Dynamics built three and Ingalls built one, cost an average of $28.9 million each.

The Navy did not advertise for bids on the latest contracts. One other company—the Newport News, Va., shipyard—was considered for the work but lost out because its proposal was termed too costly.

The 3,800-ton vessels are equipped with the SUBROC (submarine rocket) which can launch a nuclear warhead from underwater to fly through the air, dive underwater again and detonate against a hostile submarine.

The 278-foot long craft also has four 21-inch torpedo tubes and glides along at 30 knots.

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

At this time of the tobacco growing season we usually are on the lookout for hornworms. Some control programs used are improperly applied and improperly timed. A control program is not justified unless the hornworm is causing more damage than the cost of an insecticidal application. To justify control, hornworms must eat about one whole leaf per seven plants. The number of eggs and small worms give very little indication of the number of big worms that will be produced because wasps and other predators destroy them. Ninety percent of the damage is done by the big worms.

The proper time to apply insecticides is when the hornworms are about two inches long. It would be a good idea to check the hornworm infestation before applying a recommended insecticide. As a guide, examine 50 widely scattered plants throughout each field and count the number of worms that are from one to two inches in length. If five or more worms of this size are present the cost of insecticides, machinery, and labor would be justified. Fields should be examined weekly as discussed above in order to know just what the hornworm situation is at all times. The hornworms are much easier and more economical to kill when they are small than when they get large. If treatment is delayed until several large worms are present they could be killed quickly with a more complete coverage using a full dosage of the recommended fungicide.

Occasionally, when emulsifiable concentrates are used, bud and foliage injury occurs. There appears to be more risk of plant injury when the more concentrated low gallonage sprayers are used. Recommended rates should not be exceeded, spray materials should be mixed thoroughly, and all equipment should be in good working order and adjusted to produce a uniform spray pattern.

N.C. Economy's Upward Drive Is Still Continuing

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's economy in May continued an upward drive that began in February. Economic indicators showing gains during May included employment, bank debits, farm cash receipts, truck sales and mortgage loans. Building permits and new auto sales were down slightly.

The Wachovia North Carolina Business Index rose 0.3 per cent to 179.9 in May from the April figure of 179.4. The gain over May of 1967 was 7.7 per cent.

Bank debits, a measure of business and personal spending, rose 0.4 per cent in May after making more substantial gains in previous months, but the total was 17.1 per cent higher than May of 1967.

Insured unemployment in the state in May was 1.7 per cent of average insured employment the lowest level in 23 years. Total nonagricultural employment, which has been on a high plateau since February, advanced by 0.2 per cent in May. Manufacturing employment rose by 0.4 per cent. Textile employment reached a record level, but jobs in the furniture and tobacco industries were down slightly.

The average workweek in manufacturing, which skipped to 39.3 in April rose to 40.6 in May. This compared with 39.7 in May of 1967.

The North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association reported that new car sales in May totaled 15,253 as compared with 16,343 in May of 1967 while new truck sales totaled 4,165 for the month compared with 3,813 in May of last year.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Greensboro reported that home mortgage loans made in May totaled $49.3 million as compared with $38.7 million in the same month last year.

Building permits for the year, however totaled $195.2 million and were 11.2 per cent above the corresponding period last year.

Cash receipts from farm marketing were 2.4 per cent higher than in April and 1 per cent higher than a year ago. Cash receipts in the first five months of 1968 amounted to $228.2 million, up 1.1 per cent from the comparable period of 1967.

Early Believer In Accurate Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Lord George Anson, the 18th century British admiral known as the father of the Royal Navy, is believed to be the first military leader to consider timing accuracy a matter of national survival, according to Bulova Watch Co. researchers. He commissioned John Harrison, the son of a carpenter, to build the world's first reliable marine clock for use as a navigation aid at sea.

Harrison's mechanical clock took more than six years to build and weighed more than 72 pounds. Encouraged by Anson and by Isaac Newton, Harrison spent 42 years building marine clocks, but each model was so complicated he completed only five before his death. In contrast, today's tuning-fork accurate electronic marine clocks weigh less than two pounds and can be produced in large volume.

Puzzle Keyed To The Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Crossword fans who speed through the most difficult newspaper puzzles might be confounded by the clues in a little puzzle printed for garbage collectors.

The puzzle appears in "Sweep," quarterly magazine for 14,000 employees of the city's Sanitation Department. It has been composed for the past nine years by James H. McBurney, the department's deputy chief of staff.

The answers often are simple words but the clues are sanitation shop-talk. McBurney's latest puzzle has such technical clues as "incinerator rating unit"—ton—"snow dumping ring item"—lag—DS auction sale lowest bid price—upset—and "spreader material"—slag.

EASY WAY IN — BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nutting occupy an apartment on the third floor of a house and the stairway is narrow. So when the Nuttings bought a large refrigerator, the store rented a crane to deliver it through a window.

ANSWER TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A62 ♣AQ5 ♠AK963 ♠AT
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass
3NT Pass 5♦ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Seven diamonds. You will probably claim the hand after the opening lead. Partner naturally has fine diamond support, a good club suit, a singleton, and a King. Else, how could he combine a two-club take-out with a jump to five diamonds.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A642 ♣Q75 ♠AKJ8 ♠63
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 1♥ 1♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts, with the promoted value of the queen of hearts and the doubleton club, you have sufficient values to justify a free bid. The fact that you have only three trumps is no objection to the raise. If partner has a four-card suit and a weak hand, he will go no further.

Q. 3—You are vulnerable, partner opens with four hearts, and you hold:
♠AK1064 ♣Q ♠642 ♠AKJ5
What do you bid?

A.—There is no scientific way to handle this situation. You simply have to exercise your sporting blood. Our recommendation is a bid of six hearts. You surely have 12 tricks if the defense does not cash two diamond tricks at once. First of all, they will have to guess the lead. Furthermore, partner might have a singleton.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ105 ♠AQ3 ♠A ♠A9762
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ 1♥ 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—That partner was able to make a free bid seems almost too good to be true, and in a rough and tumble game it would be appropriate for you to contract for a slam. However, big things may be in order and the services of science should be enlisted. A proper call to lay the basis for the investigation is two hearts, a cue bid which is game forcing and suggests a slam.

Q. 5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠74 ♣K104 ♠AQK73 ♠A63
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ 1♠ 1NT Pass

A.—Contract immediately for a game in no trump. Your hand contains 16 points in high cards, and the free bid of one no trump by partner promises 10 points.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K53 ♠AJ10 ♠754 ♠10984
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1NT Pass
2♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand contains good values for the no trump response and you should, therefore, give your partner one more chance. We have a slight preference for a raise to three clubs. If partner's hand contains a reasonable number of high cards, he may choose to return to three no trump.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ109 ♠A104 ♠Q105 ♠J2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass
3♠ Pass 4♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Six spades. You have distinctly more than an opening bid in spades and you have jumped so there should be no doubt of the slam. There can be no real fear of losing two diamond tricks, since partner must have at least the King of diamonds or a singleton as part of his values.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q9642 ♠Q82 ♠92 ♠842
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ 1♥ Pass Pass
3♠ 4♥ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. Your hand, despite the heart trick, will be a disappointment to your partner defensively. He does not know you have five spades and is probably counting on you for some high cards in view of your free bid.

Biggest Aircraft Successful In Its First Flight

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — The successful flight of the world's biggest airplane proves there are practically no limits to construction of bigger planes, says Tom May, president of Lockheed-Georgia Co. But he says the world isn't ready for them.

The C5 Galaxy flew its first test flight Sunday. Although there were minor troubles, the Air Force and Lockheed-Georgia called the flight highly successful.

The C5 is being developed for the Air Force. Basically, it is a military plane, but the design can be changed to make it a commercial airplane.

May said, "We have preliminary plans for airplanes weighing over a million pounds. But it is fairly clear that the world is not quite ready for a commercial airplane of this size."

The C5 will carry 350 troops and all of their equipment. This one weighed 497,000 pounds on takeoff but is designed for more than 700,000 pounds.

"We like to talk about a commercial plane similar to the C5 which could carry nearly 1,000 passengers," May said at a news conference, "but the idea of carrying people on the flight deck, and freight in the hold, is extremely attractive to us."

May predicted that when the C5 becomes a commercial airplane, it probably will be used first as a freighter.

Future passenger jets will travel at speeds of between 1,500 and 2,000 miles an hour, and May said the relatively slow speed of the C5 would be a handicap in a passenger airplane.

Takeoff speed on the C5 test flight was only 143 miles an hour. Top speed was 230 miles an hour. No effort to reach the maximum of 550 miles an hour was made.

One section of the huge landing gear would not retract, and the plane lost two dust covers from the wheel mounts, which was about like losing the hub caps off an automobile. Lockheed-Georgia spokesmen said both defects were minor.

Fifty-eight C5s are scheduled for delivery to the Air Force by 1971 at a cost of $1.8 billion.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new U.S. immigration law that has already ended the long maligned quota system puts a limit effective today on immigrants from the North and South American countries.

The State Department opposes the new ceiling, contending it will damage U.S. relations with Mexico, Canada and other neighboring countries.

There also is growing sentiment in Congress to change the limit—a major feature of the new immigration policy which was enacted by Congress in 1955 and became fully effective today after a three-year phasing-in period.

It ends the old system of setting immigration quotas for foreign countries and establishes a new one under which all immigrants in the Western Hemisphere compete for 120,000 visas a year and all others compete for 170,000 visas a year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says an agreement has been reached with the Soviet Union on paying Social Security and other benefits to persons living in that country.

The department estimated about $700,000 in accrued benefits going back to 1952 are due about 100 persons or their families residing in Russia. It said the reciprocal agreement reached over the weekend at the same time provides for Soviet payments to persons living in the United States.

There was no estimate on the number of persons in this country entitled to such payments.

Lynda Johnson Robb, expecting her first baby in October, unexpectedly returned from an Acapulco vacation over the weekend to visit friends in Texas. The White House said rumors she might be ill were unfounded.

Attorney Ralph Nader, whose criticism of the automobile industry led to federal safety standards, is to testify July 10 on decline of competition in the auto industry. Chairman George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said Nader will be a leadoff witness at hearings to be conducted by the Senate Small Business Committee.

Capital Quote
"The trends in this country are going to change. The people are determined that we have a change."—Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

More than 800,000 business establishments in the United States, or one out of every six, are connected with the automobile industry.

Unplanned Role In 'Lost Colony'

MANTEO—Some unscheduled 20th century actors took part in Saturday night's performance of the "Lost Colony."

The decorated pole used for the "Corn Dance" early in the play caught fire at the conclusion of the dance. Several Indians reappeared in an impromptu scene and threw sand on the burning pole, then disappeared. The pole continued burning, so a couple of Spanish soldiers broke rank to add their sand throwing efforts to that of the Indians.

When the combined efforts of the 16th century Indians and soldiers failed to put out the fire, a couple of 20th century firemen in overalls and equipped with fire extinguishers appeared and smothered the flames. The firemen drew a quick round of applause from the audience.

Added Realism To A Practice Rescue Drill

LAKE RONKONKOMA, N.Y. (AP) — A man sitting in a bar overlooking Lake Ronkonkoma saw two men in a boat trying to pull a third from the water. As he watched, one leaned over too far and all three wound up in the water.

He called county police, and within minutes saw a police helicopter swoop in over the lake and land so the three men in the water could crawl aboard. What the anonymous caller didn't know was that the attempted rescue was only a practice drill by Ronkonkoma volunteer firemen. The men in the water were all members of the fire department's rescue squad. Fire Chief Alfred Smith said the rescue training would continue but "we will do it more discreetly from now on."

PILL TAKING POPULAR

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South Africans consume 2,400,000 pills each year, said Dr. Gerald Machanic in an article in the South African Nursing Journal. Of the total amount, about one million are pain killers.

More than half the state of Washington is forest.

Dr. William Hampton Wagoner 40, a native of Washington, N.C., assumed the office of president of Wilmington College succeeding Dr. William Madison Randall, who retired after 10 years in the post.

Amputate Hand Of Pilot Hurt In Gyrocopter Crash

RALEIGH (AP) — Surgeons had to amputate the left hand of a Whittier, Calif., pilot after his one-man gyrocopter overturned Sunday at the Raleigh-Durham airport.

Edward M. Hatch, 39, was injured during an international fly-in of the Popular Rotorcraft Association. He had just landed the gyrocopter and was trying to taxi it onto a grassy area when it flipped over, pinning his hand beneath it.

Hatch was taken to Rex Hospital in Raleigh, where he underwent surgery for nearly three hours. His condition was described as satisfactory. He had been making movies from the air for almost an hour before the accident.

Driver Charged In Sunday Wreck

William Earl Rollins, 25-year-old Negro of Brooklyn, N.Y. (AP) — was charged with operating under the influence and operating left of center, following investigation of a 5:15 p.m. collision yesterday.

Greenville police reported the Rollins auto collided with a car driven by Ray Deams Flowers, 28, of Route 2, Wilson on Pitt Street, 100 feet west of the Greene Street intersection.

Damage to the Rollins car was set at $300 while damage to the Flowers vehicle was placed at $150.

Woman Charged On Liquor Count

Pitt ABC officers and constables Saturday charged Elizabeth Tucker, 47-year-old Negro of 402½ West 12th St. with illegal possession of non-tax-paid whiskey for the purpose of sale.

The officers made the charges after finding two gallons of non-taxed booze in the Tucker home. She was released under a $200 bond for appearance in Pitt County Recorders Court.

California is the leading producer of vegetables in the United States.

The Worry Clinic Suicide Another Form Of 'Playing Hooky'

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-513: Sam D., aged 74, lost his wife by death about a year ago.

So he moved in with one of his daughters.

"But, Dr. Crane," she tearfully explained, "he was 'moody and blue."

"For he kept saying he had nothing to live for, now that I was gone."

"And he refused to go with us last Sunday to spend the day with friends, though he had been cordially invited."

"When we got home, my husband went into the house first."

"Then he rushed out, and refused to let me enter."

"Dad had hanged himself!"

"Oh, Dr. Crane, what could make him do such a thing?"

Suicide is simply an extreme form of playing hooky.

It belongs in the category of "right reactions from an unpleasant situation."

Included in the group are also alcoholism, the "rolling stone" personality trait, plus the dope habit, the fantasy of unceasing, excessive sleeping, and even insanity!

When a person plays hooky, four things are usually in action:

(1) His present environment is apparently cruel, forbidding and repugnant.

(2) Some other place, by contrast, is far more appealing.

(3) Medically, his physiology is below par or sluggish.

(4) And he is momentarily almost hypnotized by the single idea of escape from his pain.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a feeble attempt to rally, but it seemed to be getting nowhere this afternoon. Trading was below Friday's pace.

In early dealings, gains outnumbered losses by more than 100 issues, but the advantage was cut to about half that as the session wore on.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon held a thin gain of .30 at 898.10.

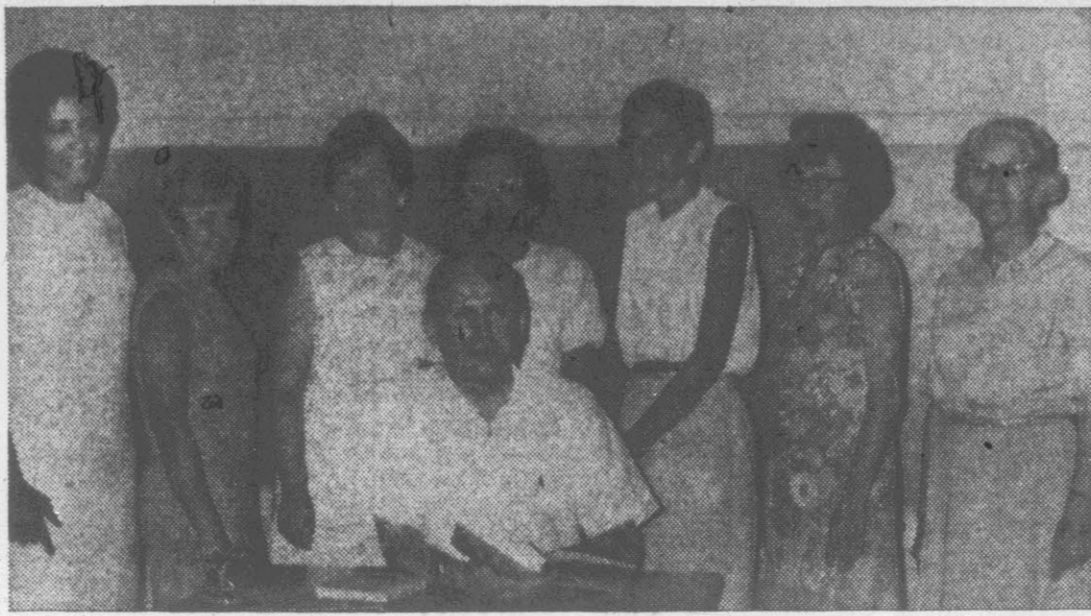

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .2 at 339.5, with industrials off .2, rails off .3, and utilities up .1.

N. Vietnam Solving Food Needs In Bombing Halt

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reports indicate North Vietnam's food problems may be easing because much of the country is free from U.S. bombing.

Analysts say there is evidence that thousands of North Vietnamese civilians, mobilized during the bombings to repair roads and railroads, are returning to farming.

U.S. reconnaissance has detected intensive farming on rice lands in the Red River Delta which lay fallow during the bombing period because, analysts said, the peasants were used to keep supply routes open.

For more than a year, North Vietnam reportedly has been sustained by wheat and wheat flour shipments, mostly from the Soviet Union.

But now there are fewer food ships arriving at Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports, the analysts said.

Cargoes observed being unloaded in North Vietnamese ports include large tonnages of fertilizer. Meanwhile, petroleum products have returned to top place, over food, in shipments landing by sea in North Vietnam.

U.S. intelligence estimates that between 150,000 and 250,000 North Vietnamese civilians have gone back to work since the current U.S. bombing limitations went into effect March 31.

Former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara repeatedly told Congress that more than 500,000 persons had been diverted by the North Vietnamese government from farming and other jobs to maintain and repair lines of communication battered by U.S. bombs and rockets.

He cited this in an effort to show how the bombing created a burden for North Vietnam, a country which always has had a marginal food supply and only a primitive industrial system.

American intelligence officers reported some major permanent repairs to important facilities along lines of communication since President Johnson invoked the ban on U.S. bombing north of the 20th parallel.

The huge Doumer bridge, slammed repeatedly by U.S. bombers, was said to have been rebuilt and two shattered spans replaced.

Trains are starting to use the big bridge which crosses the Red River close to Hanoi. Roadbeds on the bridge have been prepared for trucks, but have not yet been surfaced.

Meanwhile, sources said, the rail lines have been adapted with an adjustable third rail.

This is so freight cars can roll along the entire route through China and North Vietnam without, as in the past, requiring transshipment of the North Vietnamese border to cars of a different gauge.

Check Guns With Marriage Bureau

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the hillbilly stories about shotgun marriages?

A new law in this city requires registration of all rifles and shotguns. And you register them in the Marriage License Bureau.

A sign directing applicants for the gun permits is near another sign which reads, "Throw No Rice."

Showing Effects Of Money Curb

NEW DELHI (AP) — That coming events cast their shadows in advance was illustrated here recently.

India's former rulers, the princes and maharajas, have held three news conferences since the government announced last year that it would abolish their privy purses.

The first conference was held in a posh hotel and drinks were served. At the second in the drawing room of a maharaja, a tea and snacks were served.

The third was held on a badly kept lawn, and soft drinks were served.

Says He'll Film The Kama Sutra

ROME (AP) — A young Italian director who recently turned out a successful film on LSD says he is going to bring the Kama Sutra, the Indian classic on love and sex, to the screen.

Giuseppe Scotese, a veteran of topical, semidocumentary films ranging from South Sea pirates to American juvenile delinquents, said most of the Kama Sutra will be filmed in India and Southeast Asia.

Scotese did not disclose who would act in his film but said it would be "very expensive." His last movie was titled "Acid, Delirium of the Senses."

Crows 63 Times In 30 Minutes To Take Contest

ROGUE RIVER, Ore. (AP) — TE-Bird won the 16th annual Rogue River Rooster Crow Saturday by crowing 63 times in 30 minutes to the delight of about 3,000 spectators.

TE-Bird, owned by Floyd Fitch of Grants Pass, Ore., took a commanding lead early in the competition against 115 other roosters from all over the state. One rooster who finished well back in the pack was entered by Navy Lt. Brian L. Remer, serving aboard the USS Ranger off the coast of Vietnam.

Gov. Tom McCall's entry, Call-Me-Tom, turned in a less than spectacular 23 crows, but old-timers said it was a record for gubernatorial roosters.

The most crows ever recorded in a 30-minute contest period at Rogue River was 109 by Beetlebaum in 1953.

Clinics Promote Averting Strikes

FITCHBURG, Mass. (AP) — "Prevention is the best medicine" goes an old homily and the citizens of this town have taken the advice to heart.

Residents of this city which has been plagued by a series of costly strikes have organized a first-in-the-nation community-wide program of clinics to promote a closer understanding between labor and management while focusing attention on deficiencies on both sides of the fence.

At these open clinics discussion centers on steps that can be taken to bring labor and management together before there's a complete breakdown and a walkout occurs.

'Sniffing' For Stranded Boats

NEW YORK (AP) — Nassau County Police helicopters have turned to "The Sniffer" to help search for stranded boaters.

The nickname is given to a Bendix-built weather radar that is sensitive to objects on the water's surface. It can pinpoint the location of small craft missing or in trouble, eliminating the need to fly grid patterns and saving time that could mean the difference between life and death.

Nassau County is adjacent to Long Island Sound, and police receive as many as 50 requests a month to mount search and rescue operations.

But Remember, Dick Tracy First

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — In the year 2000, people will be wearing wrist-watches that are "total communications centers," containing devices not only for accurate timing but also for voice and vision.

They'll even contain recorders and simple miniature computers, said Harry B. Aronson, president of the Waltham Watch Co., in Elgin, to dedicate the firm's new facility.

He said increasing skills in miniaturizing devices will increase Elgin's importance as one of the major watch producing centers of the world.

Frenchmen Celebrated Big DeGaulle Victory

PARIS (AP) — With automobile horns blaring and flags flying, Frenchmen poured into the streets of Paris Sunday night to celebrate President Charles de Gaulle's massive election victory.

Flag-decked cars packed with cheering Frenchmen surged through the Champs Elysees and other parts of Paris.

Many of the flags bore the Cross of Lorraine, which De Gaulle chose as the symbol of his Free French forces in World War II.

But not all Parisians celebrated. In the Latin Quarter, home of the Sorbonne, university students blocked the victory parades with improvised barricades, and stoned the cars.

They tore off the French tricolors and marched off waving the red portions of the flags.

It was the students of the University of Paris whose rebellion unleashed the May crisis which caused De Gaulle to dissolve the National Assembly and call the elections.

"Even the Communists must have voted for the Gaulle," said one youth outside the medical school, which is still occupied by the students.

Late into the night the prompt victory parade moved through the streets with horns beating out the staccato rhythm of political slogans.

Some sounded three short and two long blasts, for World War II's "V for Victory."

Others favored two shorts and three longs, for "De Gaulle et Pouvoir (De Gaulle to Power)" the slogan on which he returned 10 years ago.

Many of the cars were packed with young people who leaned from the windows making the V sign with their fingers. Pedestrians and other motorists were quick to respond.

The Gaullists and their allies, the Independent Republicans, together have a majority of 219 seats. In addition 11 independent rightists were elected and at least some of them may pledge backing to the government. If all did so, the majority would rise to 241 seats.

Annual Blessing For Fishermen

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston gave the fisherman of this old sailing town his annual blessing Sunday at the conclusion of the annual St. Peter's fiesta.

Thousands of spectators basked in the welcome, warm sun after a rainy June and watched the cardinal bless the fishing fleet.

The fiesta ended with a crew of fishermen carrying a 700-pound statue of St. Peter, the patron of saint of fishermen, in a long parade through the city's narrow, winding streets.

Quietly Observe Party's Founding

TOKYO (AP) — Peking quietly observed the 47th anniversary of the founding of the Chinese Communist party today amid signs that Chairman Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution purge of his opponents has passed its peak, the Peking correspondent of Kyodo News Service reported.

North Vietnam's Communist party paper marked the anniversary with an editorial expressing hope that the cultural revolution will succeed. The paper, Nhan Dan, also thanked Communist China for supporting the Communist Vietnamese in the Vietnam war.
