British Court Approves James Ray Extradition

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — A British court today granted extradition of James Earl Ray, wanted in the United States as the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The extradition order was granted by Chief Magistrate Frank Milton.

Legal sources said Ray would appeal the decision.

The magistrate granted Ray legal aid to pursue his appeal in a higher court within the required 15-day deadline.

Ray received the magistrate's decision without any outward show of emotion.

He was immediately led from court, still surrounded by a cordon of Scotland Yard detectives, and taken back to his maximum security jail at Wandsworth Prison in south London.

The magistrate, sitting at his bench stacked with law books, addressed Ray directly and told him: "You will be committed to prison to await extradition to the United States."

Milton dealt at some length with the contention of defense attorney Roger Frisby that Ray could not be extradited because the slaying of the civil rights leader, shot in Memphis, Tenn., April 4, was a political offense.

The judge agreed it was common knowledge that King was a controversial figure in the United States. But he refused to accept the defense contention that this alone would make the crime of his assassination a political one.

"To hold so would be to extend the meaning of this case too far," the magistrate said.

The case turned on whether the crime was political or not. Under treaty between Britain and the United States, persons may not be extradited for political reasons.

The U.S. government denied Ray's contention that the killing of King was a political crime.

In summing up, Magistrate Milton said he found no difficulty in establishing that there was a prima facie case against Ray in King's murder.

"On this, on the verbal and affidavit evidence before me, there can be no doubt," he said.

Milton said no evidence had been produced in Ray's case to show it was not an individual act.

"All I know is that this accused man said he didn't do it," he said.

The magistrate also passed over the question of Ray's identification without difficulty. Ray was arrested in Britain on forged passport and illegal gun-carrying charges under the alias of Ramon George Sneyd.

But the magistrate said: "I find evidence that James Earl Ray is the same person now before me."

Lawyers close to the case said an appeal would be carried to the High Court with arguments on the same political grounds as Milton rejected in Magistrate's Court.

Should the High Court reject the appeal, Ray could go to the House of Lords, which is Britain's highest court. But he could make an appeal to the Lords only on a point of law.

More Than 1,000 Families Flee Chlorine Leak

SPRING LAKE, N.C. (AP) —

More than 1,000 families from the Cumberland County community of Manchester and personnel from the Pope Air Force Base operations center were evacuated today as deadly chlorine gas spread over the area.

The gas was seeping from a leak in a line at a nearby water purification plant.

Six persons were admitted to Womack General Hospital at Ft. Bragg, suffering from gas inhalation. Their condition was unknown immediately. They were taken into the X-ray department for diagnoses.

Two of the victims were identified as Walter McDougald, a 45-year-old laborer at the plant, from Dunn, N.C., and Miss Mary A. Thompson, 19-year-old plant secretary from Fayetteville.

Identities of the others was not revealed.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said, "We are sending officers house-to-house in an effort to get all the people out of the area. The gas continues to shift directions, moving one way, then another."

The Ft. Bragg public information office said there were three large trailer courts in the immediate area of the purification plant and "these have been evacuated. At least 1,000 families are affected."

"Efforts are under way also," the Army Spokesman said, "to evacuate our operations center, including the control tower, at Pope AFB."

The leakage of the yellow-green gas was reported at the Manchester Road water purification plant this morning and emergency repair work began immediately.

The plant is on U.S. Army property.

The Ft. Bragg spokesman also said he understood that among those suffering gas inhalation were two women and two children, believed to be from one of the trailer courts.

The state highway patrol Cumberland County sheriff's deputies and military police joined in the evacuation effort.

Chlorine gas is light brown and heavier than air and has a disagreeable, suffocating odor, and irritates the eyes and throat.

It is used to purify water and sewage, having the power to kill many kinds of bacteria and insects.

Eighty-Seven Stranded In Havana Hijacked U.S. Jetliner Home Minus Passengers

By DENNIS FRIEL
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Northwest Airlines jetliner hijacked over Florida Monday returned from Cuba early today but its 87 passengers remained stranded in Havana.

A federal official at Miami International Airport said the Cuban aviation official said it would be unsafe for the three-engine jet to take off from the short runway with its passenger.

The official said a charter DC7B four engine plane from Airlift International would go to Cuba later today to return the passengers.

A supervisor at Airlift's flight control, Howard Farrington, said a second section had been ordered at 3 a.m. today but to Varadero, the Cuban city 90 miles east of Havana that is the exit point for thousands of exiles. Two flights a day, paid for by the United States government, bring the exiles from Varadero to Miami.

Minutes later, Havana Radio, monitored in Miami, said the Americans would be flown to Miami from Varadero.

The federal official said crew members of the Northwest jet were undergoing questioning by the FBI. The official said the man who heads the Cuban equivalent of the Federal Aviation Administration, "the head man there," said due to the "load factor of the airplane and the short runway there it was unsafe."

The plane was the second American airliner hijacked to Cuba in 48 hours, the seventh airliner taken to Havana this year.

Housing Authority Asks Action

The Housing Authority voted last night to notify the Brody Organization, general contractor for the Meadowbrook Project, that it must bring the laws in that project up to contract specifications in the immediate future.

A failure to do so would result in action by the Housing Authority in accordance with the terms of the contract, to sublet the work, and to subtract the amount from the Brody contract, and in addition to notify Brody's bonding company.

The action came about after several letters from the Housing Authority failed to bring about the completion of work on the lawns.

The delay in completion of the lawns apparently stems from a disagreement between the Brody Organization, and the sub-contractor Acredale Nurseries, of Norfolk, Va., according to A E Dubber, director of the Housing Authority.

In other business, commissioners learned that delinquent rents are down $450 as of July 1 from the previous month, according to a report by Mrs. Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs for the Housing Authority.

Commissioners reviewed plans of the proposed renovation of the Pitt Maintenance Garage which will be converted to the first social services center in the state. The center when completed will cost $84,000 and will be turned over to the city on a 40-year lease for $1 per year. The city, in turn, will be responsible for staffing and maintaining the center.

The architect's report for the Moyewood Project indicates that the project is approximately 10 per cent complete, and is slightly ahead of schedule.

U.S. Says Jet With 229 Aboard 'Off Course' Russia In No Hurry To Return U.S. Airliner

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that the Soviet government has acted to release a troop-laden American airliner after receiving an official U.S. expression of regret that the craft violated Soviet air space over the Kurile Islands.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were no signs today that the Soviet Union plans the quick release of a U.S. airliner that was forced to land by Russian MIGs during a troop-carrying flight to Vietnam.

The State Department said Monday that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow merely that the matter was under investigation. He gave "no assurances" of prompt return of the plane or the 229 persons aboard, the State Department said.

The aircraft, a DC8 chartered by the military from Seaboard World Airlines, was carrying 212 Vietnam-bound servicemen and a crew of 17, when the Soviet fighter planes forced it to land Sunday on Interup Island in the Pacific Kurile chain.

The United States said the jet had strayed off course while bound for a fueling stop in Japan after leaving McChord Air Force Base in Tacoma, Wash.

While pressing for release of the plane and those aboard, U.S. officials reportedly see the incident as a sticky one for the Soviet Union, a situation that will require delicate handling.

If the Kremlin were to allow the plane and passengers to leave at an early time it would likely face condemnation from Red China and other Communist countries.

The plane was carrying men bound for the Vietnam fighting and any move by the Kremlin to allow their early release would likely be criticized by Red China and perhaps other Communist countries as undercutting their North Vietnam friends.

Republican presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon said the United States should demand "immediate release" of the plane and those aboard.

"These demands," he said, "should be coupled with a clear warning to the Soviet leaders that this unwarranted action threatens progress toward a detente . . . (and) new and serious tensions could build between the United States and the Soviet Union."

Since the first reports of the incident Sunday there has been little detailed information on what happened as civilian pilot Joseph Tosolini flew the four-engine jet over the Pacific.

The Tokyo International Airport said it received a broadcast from the plane at 7:17 p.m. saying Soviet fighters were interfering with the flight at 150 east longitude.

The next word, according to the Pentagon, came three minutes later when another U.S. airliner heard Tosolini say he had been intercepted by MIG fighters and was being forced to land on what looked to be a Soviet fighter base on an island.

A Japanese radar station reported warning Tosolini at 7:30 p.m. that his course would take him over the Soviet island.

At 7:39 p.m. Tosolini radioed he had landed and the plane and all aboard were all right. That last word came in another three minutes when the pilot reported he had shut off his engines.

The DC8 was on its maiden flight, and Douglas Aircraft, the plane's manufacturer, said the $10 million aircraft contained only standard equipment; nothing of a "hush-hush" nature.

Greene Board Studies Budget Of $1,170,673

SNOW HILL — A proposed budget totaling $1,170,673 was considered by the Greene County Board of Commissioners at their meeting Monday night.

George Mewborn, County Accountant and Clerk to the Board of Commissioners, presented the budget which was tentatively adopted. The budget will be filed, advertised and made available for public inspection for 20 days.

A tax rate of $1.65 per $100 evaluation was proposed. This is an increase of 10 cents over the $1.55 rate now in effect. If approved, this will be the first tax rate increase in three years.

Funds were earmarked for employing personnel to spearhead industrial promotion in the area. Prospects for a new firm to be established in the Walstonburg area are good, although plans are not yet firm.

Increases in the school budget were also proposed. Mewborn stated, "Most teachers are paid by the state, but some are paid by the county. We must keep salaries in line in order to keep these county paid teachers." The commissioners adopted a resolution to pay the sheriff a straight salary plus travel compensation. This method of payment, to be effective July 1, replaces the previous method of a basic salary, plus fees collected.

A representative from the State Highway Commission presented plans for improving secondary roads in the county. State Road No. 1210 was cited as most in need of improvement. A total of $32,890 is available for this and other road improvement work.

Mewborn said the Board of Commissioners is scheduled to meet again on July 26 to consider official action on the proposed budget.

ANNOUNCE NEW PLANT

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Abitibi Corp., Monday announced plans for a $10 million hardboard and plywood plant to be constructed on the Yadkin River in Wilkes County.

Everette MacIntyre, in recommending a new and tougher warning on all cigarette packages, which would also be required in all advertising.

This would read: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases." The only warning now reads: "Caution, Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health." It is required to be shown on cigarette packages only.

The PHS report said that findings made since its original report attacking smoking in 1964 shows strong evidence that heavy smoking can reduce life expectancy by more than eight years on the average. A light smoker faces a loss of four years of life expectancy, the report stated.

In addition, the Health Service declared there is evidence of contributory links between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

There was no immediate reaction from the tobacco industry. A spokesman for the American Tobacco Institute said there would be no comment until the reports had been examined.

In the past, the tobacco industry claimed there was no cause-effect connection between cigarette smoking and disease. The television and radio networks, which would be hard hit economically by a ban on advertising, generally declined comment pending study of the reports.

But Mutual Broadcasting System President Robert Pauley said: "Every advertiser should have the right to advertise. It should be up to the individual medium . . . I don't think it's something that should be legislated."

B52 Saturation Raids Continue

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers attacked the southernmost part of North Vietnam with the heaviest saturation raids of the war Monday and today.

Wave after wave of America's biggest bombers—75 planes in all flying from bases in Okinawa, Thailand and Guam—unleashed more than four million pounds of explosives on enemy targets just above South Vietnam's border.

Each B52 carried about 54,000 pounds of 500- and 750-pound bombs.

Nine missions of five planes each hit just inside North Vietnam. Another six missions struck the northern half of the demilitarized zone.

The main targets were North Vietnamese storage areas, caves, bunkers and artillery sites. One aim was to wipe out enemy big guns that have been steadily hammering U.S. combat bases and supply lines just below the eastern flank of the DMZ and firing at allied warships offshore. Another objective was to stem the increasing flow of war materials to enemy troops in South Vietnam.

Two Stills Destroyed By Raiders Early Today

FARMVILLE — Two 1,400-gallon submarine-type stills were destroyed by law enforcement officers in the Seven Pines Section near here early this morning.

Officers raided the still site, located in a wooded area off N. C. 121 between Joyners Cross Roads and Bruce, about 2 a.m.

The two 1,400 gallon stills contained 2,800 gallons of spent mash and the unit appeared to have recently been run, investigators reported.

Found at the site, in addition to the still, was a 100-gallon cooler with radiator condenser, 50 gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey, 59 cases of one-gallon plastic jugs - totaling 354 jugs, eight 100-pound gas cylinders and a water pump.

The stills and cooler were constructed of steel.

Officers used charges of TNT to destroy the illegal outfit. In addition to the destroyed material, an old pickup truck found parked near the still was seized and is being held by officers.

Conducting the raid were Pitt and Craven County ABC officers and federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit agents.

No one was found at the still site and no arrests were made.

PHS Renews Attack On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry is under attack again from the U.S. Public Health Service, which says recent findings indicate heavy cigarette smoking can, on the average, shorten life more than eight years.

The PHS findings dovetailed with new recommendations by the Federal Trade Commission urging laws to ban all cigarette advertising on television and radio.

Both agencies submitted their findings Monday in separate reports to Congress.

Mary Bullock Weds On Sunday Afternoon

AYDEN—The Ayden Free Will Baptist Church was the setting Sunday afternoon for the marriage of Mary Bullock to W. Ivan Harris at 2:30.

The Rev. Kimberly Ard, pastor of the couple, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with all brass wedding accessories. The altar was centered with a standing basket of white gladioli and mums interspersed with ivy. On either side, the altar was flanked by nine branched candelabra and baskets of palms. The couple knelt for prayer on a gold and white prie dieu. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Preceding the ceremony, music was rendered by Miss Virginia Belle Cooper, organist, and Rev. Warren Bishop, soloist. Rev. Bishop sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee," "Ave Marie" and the "Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride entered the church alone. She wore an original empire A-line gown of silk faille. The gown featured a scoop neckline with an alencon lace trim bodice and long lantern sleeves. The skirt featured a square detachable hap length train bordered with alencon lace and accented at the waist with a bow.

She wore a shoulder length mantilla of silk illusion with alencon lace trim. She carried a colonial nosegay of mixed summer flowers tied with ivory satin.

Mrs. Ensley M. Carmichael of Ayden served her sister as matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a formal length gown of pink peau. The sleeveless bodice featured a scoop neckline accented with white lace. The A-line skirt was enhanced with white lace roses. Her headpiece was a pink silk illusion veil enhanced with pink leaves and centered with a bow. She carried an arm bouquet of Forever Yours roses tied with streamers of matching satin.

Bobby Harris of Roanoke Rapids served his brother as best man. Ushers were Bill Whitehurst of Ayden and Leon Harris, nephew of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, the bridal party received in the vestibule of the church.

The bride's mother chose a blue linen dress appliqued with matching lace and wore white accessories.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink linen suit with white accessories. Both mothers wore white mums corsages.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lathan L. Smith of Rt. 2, Greenville. She is a graduate of Chicod High School and is employed by L. H. Moore Insurance Agency of Ayden.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lloyd McLawhorn of Rt. 1, Ayden, and the late Mr. Rufus Harris. He attended Grifton school and is employed as a deputy sheriff by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

For a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., and Massau, the bride changed into a beige linen ensemble with blue accessories.

She wore a corsage lifted from her nosegay.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Harris will reside at 103 Peachtree St., Ayden.

After-Rehersal Party

The Harris-Bullock wedding party and guests were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carmichael Saturday night at an after-rehersal party.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth. And centered with a bouquet of gladioli and two three branch candelabra.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of cake, the mother of the bride poured punch and the mother of the bridegroom served cake.

Maryland Resident Says 'She Doesn't Need Conveniences'

By MEL TOADVINE
Salisbury, Md., Dily Times

MARELA SPRINGS, Md. (AP) — "Well, I guess I could use a telephone," said the old lady living alone when asked if there was any modern convenience she would like.

"But then again, I don't know why I really need one."

Mrs. Maggie Robinson will be 92 "come this October," but her four-room house has no electricity, gas, or running water.

"That's the way I like it and that's the way it's going to be," she declares.

She has lived in the house next to a woods for nearly 70 years since moving there with her bridegroom. He died 20 years ago.

The elements have taken their toll on the unpainted weatherboards and squirrels have taken up residence in loose boards.

"They get so noisy at times that I have to take a broom and hit the walls to quiet 'em down," Miss Maggie relates.

This is home from April to Thanksgiving. During the colder months, she spends a little time with each of her children, also residents of Maryland's eastern shore.

The children have invited her to live with them.

"They don't understand," she said, "when you've got a house of your own, you can do what you please."

A visitor looking around for water asked about her pump.

"Don't need it," she explained. "I get my water from that stream over yonder."

She then demonstrated how an old molasses barrel was sunk in the ground and a lid built over the top. When she dips out the water—with a tin cup 40 years old—the underground spring bubbles up and refills the barrel.

Miss Maggie prepares her food on a wood-burning stove, which helps to warm the house along with a small coal stove in the living room.

She has green kerosene lamps for light. But it's not like the good old days.

"This stuff they call oil; it's no good, smokes up the lamp," she complains. "Not like it used to be."

Of her health, her only complaint was that her eyesight isn't as good as it was. But she doesn't wear glasses.

Would she change anything in her way of life?

Try Alternative In Relieving 'Mom' From Duties As Sitter

DEAR ABBY: I never thought

I would be writing to you, but I need an impartial listener, and I am desperate.

I am married with four lovely children, ages 3 to 12. I work of necessity, not by choice.

My difficulties started last year when my father-in-law died and "Mom" asked me if she could be our day time baby-sitter to keep busy and supplement her income.

We thought it was a wonderful idea, as we would feel more at ease with grandmother looking after the children instead of a stranger. What a mistake!

We learned too late that Mom is hypnotized by the television. She turns it on the minute she walks in, and it stays on until I come home from work. In the meantime, the two little ones have been tearing the house apart from one end to the other. Mom lets them do anything they please, and you know that is not good.

I have tried to talk gently with her, and so has my husband, but it hasn't helped. The situation keeps growing worse.

I would like to get someone else in to look after the children, but how can I without hurting Mom? She would feel cruel and heartless and guilty. Please help me find a solution, if there is one.

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Anyone can make a bad decision — the tragedy is perpetuating it. Face it, "Mom" is not working out as a baby-sitter. To suddenly "disengage" her would be unkind. Why not take an "indefinite" leave of absence from your job (for a month or so) and gently relieve your mother-in-law of her duties. You could resume in time after having made other arrangements for a sitter.

An alternative would be to place your children in a day nursery. Either suggestion is, I think better than continuing the way you are.

DEAR ABBY: For 20 years we've lived next door to a family I'll call the "SHMOS." Mr. Shmo and my husband belong to the same lodge, and they fish together. Mrs. Shmo and I are also very good friends.

My husband is a sergeant on the police force. Recently the Schmos' son came home from college and threw a big party in their backyard. I'll bet there were 100 kids there. The party got noisy and wild so the elderly couple on the other side of the Schmos' called the police.

Well, Mr. Shmo (Sr.) got smart and told the patrolmen that he had better watch his step because his best buddy was a police sergeant, so the patrolmen called for the "best buddy" who happened to be my husband. Mr. Shmo (now very drunk) cursed the patrolmen, so they arrested him with my husband's consent.

All the neighbors were watching. My husband had no choice, but now none of the neighbors will even speak to us. Abby, who was wrong? Should we apologize?

SERGEANT'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband did the right thing, and if the Shmos' and your neighbors became angry with your husband for having done his duty, shame on them. Mr. Shmo should apologize to your husband for having put him on the spot.

DEAR ABBY: I can't thank you enough for telling me to forget all those reasons I gave you for not wanting to go to our family doctor to see if I was pregnant or not. I took your advice and went, and he told me I wasn't pregnant. Boy, was I ever relieved. And Abby, I am glad that you told me that dressing the way I did was just setting myself up for rape.

I never realized before that those mini-mini-skirts and real thin blouses with nothing on underneath could give the guys the idea that a girl was willing to do anything. Thank you very much, Abby. I will always love and respect you.

Men Choose Salad Of Lettuce With Blue Cheese Dressing

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor
America's favorite salad may well be wedges of iceberg lettuce with blue cheese dressing.

That's a big statement. What do we base it on? The fact that time after time at restaurants with table d'hote menus, it's listed on the salad selection.

Diners—especially men—order it in preference to other salads.

To please the men in the family as well as yourself, you may want to keep this excellent recipe for All Round Blue Cheese Dressing at hand to serve with iceberg lettuce.

We call the dressing "all round" because it may be varied a number of ways. Here are half a dozen suggestions:

1. Add a scallion—green onion—or two to the salad plates. Or mince the scallions, bulb and part of the green portion, and strew over the dressing after it has been spooned onto the lettuce.

2. Sprinkle the lettuce-and-dressing combo with bits of crisply cooked bacon.

3. Add fruit to the salad plates, using whatever fruit is at hand. Fresh strawberries are a surprising but delightful addition. So is melon, from cantaloupe to watermelon. Peaches, pears and pineapple make a good contribution. So do grapes.

4. This dressing, after chilling, also makes an excellent dip for radishes and carrot and celery sticks. Cauliflowerets, too. In this case provide paper napkins to catch dribbles. Or for a thicker dip, beat some of the dressing into cream cheese; for party fare, you might also want to add a suspicion of brandy.

5. Flat anchovy fillets, drained and cut into small pieces, add more tang to the dressing. Add the anchovies only to the portion of dressing that will be used immediately.

6. Capers add piquancy. Drain them, if they're liquid-packed, and add a generous amount to the dressing. If the capers are salt-packed, rinse them in cold water before adding.

End Of The Bus Ride For Husband, Wife

ST. LEONARD'S-ON-SEA, England (WNS) — Busdriver Charles Harman was a perfect chauffeur, but he could not keep his wife off the bus. Whenever she came aboard, she nagged him, accused him of love affairs with other women and made such a scene that passengers refused to continue the ride. The judge granted the 50-year-old driver a divorce for his wife's cruelty "before you have a complete breakdown."

Myrtle Harman, 49, got a decree nisi because of her husband's admitted adultery even though the judge noted that it was her accusations which, to some extent, led him to adultery.

Job Advancement Advice Given By Bank Executives

By MARY H. ANDERSON

CHICAGO (UPI)—If you're a woman and you're looking for a career, why not go where the money is—to the bank?

Only if you do, don't expect to rocket to the top unless you're willing to work hard. That's the advice of Ruth Steinke and Hilda H. Kollmann, who have gained executive rank at their respective banks.

The UPI discussed with the two and others, banking careers for women when it was discovered that while two-thirds of all bank employees are female, only about one-tenth of bank officers are women.

Work Harder

Miss Steinke, an assistant vice president of the National Boulevard Bank in Chicago says, "Women have to work two to three times as hard as men to gain equal recognition. You have to give up play for work during your spare hours. It's not a field for one willing to sit back and collect honors without working for them."

"Women have to work much harder to be recognized, there's no question about it," says Miss Kollmann, vice president and director of the County Bank in Blue Island, Ill.

To get rank in a bank, having men on your side is necessary says Miss Steinke. "Women must not compete with men, but work with them on the same levels and not be pushy."

Education is another sure-fire method says Ruth Erwin, assistant vice president of the National Bank of Albany Park in Chicago.

For the high school girl, a business education course combined with afternoon work in a bank is a good start. This program is offered in some high schools, under various names, one being "distributive education." The student receives credit and a grade from her employer.

Accounting Helps

A major in accounting or business helps, but does not have to be the key to open up the doors to bank officership. Today, banking is not all figures. With bank services mushrooming, a liberal arts training can get one a job in public relations, advertising, or customer relations.

Banking provides further schooling for its members through the largest industry sponsored educational system in the world—the American Institute of Banking. It offers courses from the most elementary to the most advanced. Most banks encourage their employees to attend and pay tuition if the courses are completed successfully.

Once a job is obtained in a bank and the employee shows her merits, she has a good chance for advancement. "The banking profession has always believed in investing in its own personnel and promoting from within whenever possible," says the National Association of Bank Women Inc.

In salary, banking is competitive with most other types of businesses. Ruth Erwin admits, "There was a time when banks had a reputation for not paying well." But, she continues, "this is not true now." If there are gaps, "we're catching up," says Miss Steinke.

If a tape measure or a ruler isn't handy and you need something with which to measure, remember that a dollar bill is just 1-16 of an inch more than six inches long.

Lost And Found After 23 Years

MULUN, France (WNS) — In 1945, Marie Jeanne Riviere reported to police that her bicycle had been stolen. After 23 years, police have found the two-wheeler five miles out of town and have returned it to Mme. Riviere. The tires are still in good condition, but the body is covered with rust. "Even so, I shall ride it because the automobile traffic is too heavy," said the Frenchwoman.

Boston, Va.

The Rev. Eddie Dollar of Greenville officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

The church was decorated with standing gold baskets filled with white gladioli and snapdragons. In the background was an open Bible and a single white carnation. On either side stood seven branched candelabra holding cathedral candles and flanked by emerald green palms. The couple knelt on a white wrought iron prie dieu for "The Wedding Prayer." Family pews were marked with white satin ribbons.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Elmer Windom, pianist, presented a program of nuptial music. Mrs. Joseph Johnston soloist, sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, William Henry Johnston of Greenville wore a gown of alencon lace and crepe. The bodice of alencon lace featured a portrait neckline and long sleeves of alencon lace. The skirt attached at the empire waistline, featured a wide band of crepe falling into a pointed chapel train.

Her headpiece of lace petals was encrusted with seed pearls and teardrops to which was attached a finger length veil of French illusion. The bride carried an open prayer book entered with a white hybrid orchid with garlands of stephanotis.

The bride's maid of honor, Miss Frankie Jean Powell, of Blanche wore a formal length A-line gown of pale yellow silk organza over satin brocade with an empire waistline accented with a soft bow. She wore a three tiered veil of silk illusion attached to a cluster of daisies. The honor attendant carried a crescent bouquet of white shasta daisies interspersed with green ribbons.

The flower girl, Miss Tracy Searce of Danville, Va., cousin of the bridegroom, wore a formal length gown of yellow brocade with empire waistline accented by a yellow satin ribbon bow with matching ribbon in her hair.

She carried a yellow lace basket trimmed with white daisies and filled with petals.

W. Henry Wilborne, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were John Linwood Johnston of South Boston, Va., and Bruce Earl Johnston of Greenville, both brothers of the bride. David Calvin Johnston, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a dress of pink linen trimmed with lace and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a maise dress of linen with white trim and matching accessories.

The mothers wore corsages of purple orchids. The grandmothers wore corsages of white carnations.

For a southern wedding trip, the bride changed into an ocean blue dress trimmed with bone lace and wore bone accessories.

After the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Wilborne will make their home in Drakes Branch, Va., where he is associated with Wilborne Tile Co. Mrs. Wilborne will teach at Keysville Elementary School.

The bride is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School, Greenville, and East Carolina University. She formerly taught school in Danville, Va. The bridegroom is a graduate of George Washington High School, Danville, Va.

Out-of-town guests were received in the bride's home after the wedding. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. John Linwood Johnston of South Boston, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Linton Johnston.

The couple was honored with an after - rehearsal party and cake cutting Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Johnston, Greenville.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Richard K. Gray, Belgium, Mrs. Rosa Herring, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Johnston, and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Linton Johnston, Greenville.

Biscuit And Pretzel Untwine By Divorce

HAMBURG, Germany (WNS)—Anna Biscuit, who married Willy Pretzel eight years ago, wants a divorce. According to her complaint, Pretzel was always to be found in bars. "Women tied him in knots, and he came home broken in pieces and crying to me to put him together again," she said. Worse, the ladies took all of Pretzel's dough, even that which the former Miss Biscuit gave him from her earnings in a pastry shop.

Wife Is Composer's Memory Bank

By LORETTA COUREAS

Norfolk, Va., Ledger-Star

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) —

American composer Gene Gutche says that the greatest task in composing symphonic music is not in conceiving it but in the work that goes into writing out the material.

It is this great task of committing to paper the fruits of his creative endeavors that makes Marion Buchanan Gutche indispensable to her composer husband.

"The creation of a piece may take seconds. Its publication in a finished symphony takes a great deal longer," Gutche said.

"My wife has fallen victim to her own simple request to help me. I have taken advantage of her skill and willingness to the point that she has become absolutely necessary to my work."

Marion thinks of herself as Gene's walking memory bank.

Their home in White Bear Lake, Minn., offers the solitude Gene needs for doing his work.

"When he is in one of his creative periods, I have to get out of the house," Marion said.

"He cannot stand any sounds. When he's finished I proofread his work and get it ready for publication."

Gutche praised his wife's knowledge of contemporary music. But he does not always agree with her and the arguments which evolve are sometimes so stimulating that they go on for hours.

They still laugh about the night their argument became so heated they left the dinner table to continue their debate in the living room. When they returned to the dining room, their pet dogs had devoured the sirloin steaks Gene had cooked for dinner.

"For the first several years of our marriage we lived in New York and Gene had very little success with anything," Marion said.

"I was born in Berlin and came to this country to get away from family pressures and expectations," Gene continues. "I had wanted to be a concert pianist but a broken wrist took care of that."

In 1945, Marion decided what Gene would do. As he tells it:

"She said to me, 'The only thing you're any good at is music, but you don't know anything about it. Get yourself an education. I'll scrub floors if I have to.' She didn't have to. Instead, through my wife, I met two very prominent men in Minneapolis who helped me get my masters and Ph.D."

The love of life which Gene and Marion Gutche feel is part of what he intends to put across in his music. He believes contemporary music should mirror life as it actually is.

Should Challenge FTC Authority

If the Federal Trade Commission moves, as reported by a national magazine this week, to prohibit cigarette advertising from radio and television, steps should immediately be taken to challenge the constitutionality of the authority of the Commission.

Cigarettes are a legal commodity in the United States. From them literally hundreds of thousands of people earn their livelihood and that of their families. Federal, state and local governments each year collect hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes from the sale of cigarettes and other tobacco products.

For a federal agency to move without authorization from Congress or anywhere else to seek to kill off such a commodity by preventing it from advertising should not be tolerated.

Hopefully, the statement by the Chairman of the FTC that his agency has no authority to ban cigarette advertising may mean the agency will not seek such action. On the other hand, the report that a majority of the members of the commission favors barring all cigarette advertising in the broadcast media is in itself disturbing.

July 4 A Vital Political Date

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — A significant date historically in almost any U. S. election year is July 4 and it happens that many political campaigns are planned with the Independence holiday in mind.

No longer is the Fourth particularly an occasion for all day political speechmaking on the court square, nor of stump flagwaving—or even of parades, picnics and fireworks in the park.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Times and trends of political strategy have changed. But July 4 remains important, somewhat as a fixed point on the timetable.

Now days it is felt that any major effort and fervent appeal prior to July 4 may be a bit early—it is still a long time until November.

Campaigning Begins
Generally, late June marks the end of Spring primary electioneering and organization. There is a break. Sometime in mid-July marks the beginning of full scale campaigning for the Fall elections.

By the time August arrives, political camps are bustling and the candidates have their bags packed for the hard trail ahead.

Things have been relatively quiet around the headquarters in Raleigh for a few weeks, but everywhere there is the forecast that "things will start breaking loose soon after the Fourth."

Gardner's Moves
Republican candidate for governor Jim Gardner stole a march of sorts on the July 4 moratorium with a couple of moves last week.

First, Gardner assumed personal command and leadership of the state's 56-vote delegation to the Republican National convention in Miami Beach.

State party chairman Jim Holshouser of Boone obligingly stepped aside and the GOP delegates, chosen last March, quickly acceded to Gardner's leadership.

The young Rocky Mount businessman won his right to titular leadership of the state's Republican party on May 4—and is his eyes and those of his supporters there was no reason he should not assume it right away. Just as importantly, the role of delegation leader in name as well as position—was designed to give Gardner even more publicity and place him in the national convention spotlight at a time when his campaign in the state is gathering momentum.

Democrats For Gardner
Gardner's second move was his long-awaited announcement of formation of a "Democrats for Gardner" committee to be headed by Felix Harvey, a Kinston businessman.

This development was no surprise in political circles. Gardner had promised several months ago that if he should win the GOP nomination for governor he already had the nucleus of a group of prominent, politically-influential people who would switch parties and line up behind his candidacy. Gardner's public announcement of this committee came while his Democratic opponent, Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, was at a meeting of state lieutenant governors and then on a brief vacation from the campaign trail.

Both Gardner and Scott camps are organizing at the precinct level with teams of workers covering the state. Gardner has a task force headed by two former Democrats, Yates Neagle and Jesse Austin, working county-by-county east of Raleigh. Scott's county organizations are pushing his cause in every precinct in key counties.

Presently, however, there is little publicity about the organizational effort.

It is going on continuously.

Holidays Also A Time For Highway Tragedy

Obviously there are many other products readily available to the American consumer whose potential harm to health may be considerably more dangerous than cigarettes. The United States has tried once prohibition of a product that was readily accepted by the public. It was an experience which was most unsatisfactory for the government and for the people.

There should be no new attempt to re-establish a prohibition era with cigarettes rather than liquor as the object of foolish and impractical laws. Certainly government agencies should not be allowed to impose arbitrary, discriminatory regulations upon a legal product in an effort to drive it from the market.

Holidays Also A Time For Highway Tragedy

This July Fourth holiday holds the special significance — apart from its own origin — that has become associated with every national holiday in the United States.

Our holidays, unfortunately, have become a time when highway deaths soar far above the normal rate and accidents and injuries seem to set one new record after another.

It is not a pleasant prospect for a national holiday, estimating in advance how many lives might be snuffed out in traffic accidents. The grim prospect of fun-seeking families suddenly being caught in the cross-fire of flying glass and grinding, twisting metal is enough to make anyone shudder. It should also be enough to make every driver take extra precautions on the highway during this holiday period.

Most drivers will exercise greater caution. Most will drive with utmost care for themselves and their families. Most will keep a sharp eye for the other fellow and the split-second of carelessness which could spell the difference between safety and tragedy. And most families, as a result of this extra effort by drivers, will have a safe, happy holiday.

Even so, there will be tragedy on the highways, and sadness where there should be a happy holiday memory. Highway safety during the coming holiday will rest in those same hands that grip the steering wheels.

Anticipating A Fourth Party

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Vice President Hubert Humphrey's campaign managers have ordered an exhaustive study of state election laws in anticipation of a fourth-party Presidential effort by Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Humphrey is now comparing the 1968 election campaign to the four-party battle won with by President Truman in 1948. He is convinced McCarthy will break away from the Democratic party if, as seems highly probable, he loses the Democratic nomination to Humphrey at the party's Chicago convention in August. Thus, the Humphrey managers want to know how many states McCarthy could run in, by getting his name on the ballot.

If McCarthy does in fact take the fourth-party route, along with George Wallace's Southern-based third party, and retains the mass enthusiasm of youth and the war-hardened, some Humphrey advisers fear the result could be disastrous to the Vice President. Others, including Humphrey, privately disagree. Most of the McCarthy-style liberals and followers of the New Politics, Humphrey tells intimates with no proof at all, will return to the Democratic party banner after the convention—if only to prevent the White House from falling into the hands of Richard M. Nixon, the likeliest Republican nominee.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THE RIGHT USE

Is social standing of any value? It certainly is, but it is not of infinite value and people sometimes push it to the fore when they should not do so.

It is a pleasant matter indeed if one can occupy a place of social distinction in his community or the circle in which he moves. Women particularly enjoy this distinction. If the elements required for this distinction are satisfactory, there is no reason why anyone should criticize a person in this class, but if the person in question sticks up his nose or hers and goes through life giving every one the haughty stare or the brush-off, then that person is a nuisance and a public liability.

The evil of social standing usually comes from the fact that a whole multitude of people are constantly trying to climb up into it. If a person is born of high social station, that is all well and good, and usually such people are neither vain nor haughty. But if one is of humble birth and spends his time or hers trying to climb to the top of the social ladder using, if possible, the carcasses of their fellow men and fellow women as rungs of the ladder, then social standing becomes a very nasty thing that all right-minded people deplore.

In other words, it is the abuse of social distinction which irks everyone. The right use of social distinction is to be commended. And there are people of high social distinction who use their station in life to good ends.

"Wait! Stop! You're Acting in a Time of Mass Public Hysteria! Hysteria! Hysteria!"

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Verdicts On Warren Era

In the view of Yale's law professor Fred Rodale—a doubtless it is the view of many liberals elsewhere—Earl Warren has been quite simply "the greatest Chief Justice in the nation's history." It is an appraisal, one is bound to say, that gives a peculiar meaning to "greatness."

If the word is taken to mean that the major opinions of the Warren Court were momentous, or had a massive impact upon American society, no informed observer would dissent. In the fields of race relations, legislative apportionment, and criminal law, Warren and his brother activists wrought revolutionary change.

But "greatness" ordinarily connotes something more.

Whatever the 15 years of the Warren Court may have imposed upon American institutions, for good or ill, these years have written a chronicle of disaster in the field of jurisprudence. The quintessential duty of appellate judges is to say what the law is. This was never enough for Earl Warren. He used the awesome powers of his office to impose upon society what he (and his fellow liberals) felt the law ought to be.

If this were the criticism merely of a few malcontent Southerners, doubtless it could be dismissed out of hand. This is not the case. As far back as 1957, a special committee of the American Bar Association returned a blistering indictment against the cavalier tendencies of the Warren Court.

In the summer of 1958, the Conference of (State) Chief Justices overwhelmingly adopted an unprecedented report from its committee on State and Federal relations.

The measured verdict of the State Chief Justices, written ten years ago, might have been written last week. These top appellate judges were gravely concerned that "individual views of the members of the Court as to what is wise or desirable" had begun to override "a more dispassionate consideration of what is or is not constitutionally warranted." The Court was charged with "impatience" with "a lack of self-control," with "tending to the role of policy-maker without proper judicial restraint."

The excesses that troubled the State Chief Justices in 1958 never were corrected. Under Warren, the tendencies formed a recurring pattern. The Chief Justice's approach to the law was simple, straight-forward, and wrong.

For his approach (it is a grotesque thing to say of a Chief Justice) too often was the approach of the non-lawyer. He wanted always to do the decent thing, the good thing, the compassionate thing. What was fair? What was wise? Or in the alternative, what "shocked the conscience"? What was, in a recent case, "beyond belief?"

Thus Warren was concerned with "the hearts and minds" of Negro children. It was his own conscience that was shocked. It was his own mind that walled off the beliefs of others. The truth is that there never can be an absolute correlation between what is decent, good and fair, and what is lawful. Looking at school segregation, Warren concluded that the practice was morally wrong; therefore, in his view, it was wrong.

Second Half Begins

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Speaking economically, this month may be remembered as much more than this midway point in a booming but troubled year. A year or so from now we might also recall it as the beginning of a new economic phase.

As this economy enters the second half, or the new phase, consumers are ending heavily and debt is rising. Joblessness is only 3.5 per cent of the labor force, but credit is costly, prices and wages are rising, and taxes are rising too.

Although the defects and needs of the urban economies are being exposed as never before, the problems and imbalances of the rural and farm economies are great also: farm expenses are high or rising, while prices received are slipping.

In general, the economic boom, now more than seven years old is so badly out of balance that prices are rising at the rate of four per cent a year. And many of these rising household costs are where they can't be avoided: in rents, medical and dental care, food, clothing.

Already the economic indicators, those statistical arrows that point to future events, have begun to tilt downward, anticipating a slowdown because of a promised $6 billion cutback in government spending and a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate incomes, scheduled to begin this month.

Gradually, as money is taken out of the economy the rate of unemployment should begin to rise, perhaps reaching more than 4 per cent of the labor force in the next six months or so. This is one of the painful ironies of any slow down.

Wage increases—likely will continue at a rate of 6 per cent or so for a matter of months but will become increasingly difficult to obtain. Consumer spending may drop even though, hopefully, price increases will moderate and credit costs drop.

By early next year it may well be a brand-new economy—perhaps even threatened with recession—one that will permit the new president to issue with some degree of credibility that old battlecry: Let us begin.

There is a good chance the new president will find his constituents clamoring for more expansionism in the economy, for more jobs, for lower taxes and perhaps even for a bit more government spending.

Although this may be a new phase of the economic boom, or even the end of it, the excesses and defects of the past seven years aren't likely to be forgotten. Fundamental changes are being considered.

As the great speculative binge in the stock market shows signs of ending, the stock market itself appears to be facing a long period of examination and criticism of its methods, in part the result of excesses.

Whatever the net results of economic policy over the next six months, or the examination of it over the past seven years, the signs are becoming clearer that a phase is ending.

Other Editors Saying Lightfooted

(Washington Evening Star)

The municipal government of New York has just issued a plea to builders in Fun City to get away from the endless and unvarying gray of Gotham sidewalks and throw in a little color from time to time and perhaps an occasional design based on something other than the square and rectangle.

The idea is excellent, overdue and applicable to all our cities, including Washington.

Poured concrete can as easily be made bright and cheerful as gray and gloomy. It's a matter of adding the right pigment at the right time. It doesn't cost very much and the change could make a world of difference in our urban life.

It is only in fairly modern times that the city underfoot has become so drab. Roman pavements were fashioned of intricate geometric designs, sometimes enhanced by trompe l'oeil three dimensional effects, sometimes made enchanting by appropriate scenes of hunting and fishing or life as lived among the gods.

In modern Rome and Florence the elaborate pavement designs of Michelangelo may still be seen. The visitor to Rio de Janeiro or to the new arena of the Mexican Olympic games can see a few of the possibilities for modern pavements made to delight the eye and make walking a pleasure.

Washington architecture is just beginning to show an encouraging sign or two of breaking out of the concrete and glass box convention. Our builders, too, should reconsider what is underfoot as well as what is overhead and begin now to make this a noble and pleasant city from the ground up.

Friend Iceland Faces Troubles

By ELMER ROESSNER
REYKJAVIK, Iceland, one of the best friends of the United States, faces severe troubles.

Curiously, the war in Nigeria is one of three major causes. The others are the late summer, the second in two years, and a decline in the fish catch.

Icelanders have a program to combat the crisis. While it may not foment prosperity, it will probably ameliorate conditions.

The war in Africa has hurt the economy because Iceland's major export is fish, constituting 89.9 per cent of the total last year, and Nigeria has been its largest customer for stock fish, which is sun-dried cod and similar white-meat fish. It is high in protein and an important article of diet in that protein-poor land.

But with Biafra fighting for independence against the federal government, there is no money for stock fish.

Southern Italy is also a market, but there Iceland must compete with Norway.

Other Markets Decline
The world market for fish meal for livestock food has also declined, so much so that Peru has withdrawn from some markets until October.

The decline in fish oil prices has been "disastrous." Jonas H. Haralz director of the Economic Institute, told me. Fish oil brought $224 a ton on the world market in 1966, $140 a ton in 1967, and the price was as low as $120 a ton this year.

Even more serious is the late summer, Iceland, despite the fact that it hangs from the Arctic Circle like a hippie meditation, has a moderate climate, basking in the Gulf Stream. Temperatures in Reykjavik average 30 degrees in January, the coldest month. Last year, summer was late, and the grazing season for sheep, the second most important crop on the island, was shortened. The sheep were reduced to hay and did not fatten well.

ELMER ROESSNER

This year, prospects are worse. When Sigurdur Magnusson, an official of Loftleidir Iceland Airlines, took me on a tour of the northeastern sheep country, he almost sobbed at the sight of the pale, green grass. "This is like April, not June," he said. "The grass should be tall and dark green today."

The importance of sheep can be judged by the fact that there are four times as many as there are Icelanders on the island. There were 827,000 at the beginning of the year, compared with 53,530 cattle and 2,700 pigs.

Fish catches, source of foreign exchange and domestic food, have been running below average. There is some suspicion that Russian trawlers have cut into the migration of fish into Icelandic waters. However, there have been cyclic declines in fish catches before.

Iceland was forced to devalue the krona last September. It is now worth 57 to the dollar, a devaluation of almost 25 per cent. This naturally resulted in demands for wage increases and, in face of threats of a general last December, an increase of 3.4 per cent in pay was agreed upon.

Gov. Moore, Royster Object To FTC Ad Ban

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Dan Moore and North Carolina tobacco leaders feel that the Federal Trade Commission took "drastic action" when it recommended banning cigarette advertising on television and radio.

They made their comments in response to an Associated Press survey Monday Carl T. Hicks Sr. of Walstonburg, president of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Co-

N.C. Motor Club Predicts July 4 Deaths For 30

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The North Carolina Motor Club predicted today that traffic accidents in the state during the long July Fourth holiday period would kill 30 persons and injure 900 others.

The Independence Day traffic count will begin at 6 p.m. Wednesday and continue through midnight Sunday, a 102-hour period.

During a similar period last year, 28 persons were killed and 813 injured in 1,274 North Carolina highway accidents.

The motor club said this year's Memorial Day holiday period of 102 hours claimed 32 lives in North Carolina.

Thomas B. Watkins, motor club president, warned drivers that traffic congestion is heavier on July Fourth weekends than any other holiday.

operative Stabilization Corp., termed the recommendation "unfair and discriminatory to both the tobacco consumer and grower."

Fred Royster of Henderson, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, said Monday, "It's amazing that an agency of the public government would take such drastic, unwarranted action against the tobacco industry."

He and other leaders also assailed another report released by U.S. Surgeon Gen. William H. Stewart. The Public Health Service report said that in the past year "evidence attesting to the harmful effect of smoking has continued to mount."

Royster commented on this by saying: "There is no proof of harmful effects from the smoking of cigarettes and I think that is proven by the position of the American Medical Association in its recent convention where they stated there was no proof and that it would probably take a long time to research."

Gov. Moore sent a telegram of protest to commission chairman Paul Rand Dixon, saying: "I see no reason why such drastic action should be taken against the tobacco industry."

William H. Anderson, secretary-treasurer of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, said he was "perplexed" by the FTC action. He added, "We in the tobacco community wonder just what positions the Federal Trade Commission will take next."

Commenting on the surgeon general's report, Anderson said: "If he knows of any components or any constituents in cigarette smoke that are harmful to human health or responsible for human diseases it is his responsibility as the nation's No. 1 physician to identify them immediately and cease and desist from being an ally in this constant statistical campaign of the anti-tobacco zealots."

L. T. Weeks, general manager of the Stabilization Corp., termed the FTC action "another threat in a cycle" against the tobacco industry. He said, "It is unfortunate that this takes place at any time and particularly on the eve of a marketing season."

Engineers Enter Second Phase Of Ocracoke Work

OCRACOKE — Congressman Walter B. Jones, D-NC, First District, said today he has been advised by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers that proposed channel improvements for Ocracoke Inlet have been approved for preconstruction planning.

Jones said the engineers, after a general investigation of the project's feasibility, propose to dredge a channel 18 feet deep and 400 feet wide across the ocean bar. The current estimated cost of the project is $300,000.

"Preconstruction planning," Jones explained, is the second of three phases in Army Engineers' navigation projects. The first phase is the investigation. Actual construction completes the three - phase cycle.

The congressman said the engineers are to be commended for moving ahead with the Ocracoke Inlet project because of the benefits it will bring to commercial and sport fishing interests along the North Carolina coast.

Ocracoke Inlet connects Pamlico Sound with the Atlantic Ocean. It separates Ocracoke Island in Dare County from Portsmouth Island in Carteret County.

Prison Beating Inquiry Made

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina prison officials were to complete an investigation today concerning the alleged beating of a prisoner at the McLeansville Prison Camp.

The investigation was begun after Mrs. W. J. Mitchell reported that her brother, 33-year-old Clyde G. Burns, said two prison department employees beat him following his escape and subsequent recapture.

The alleged beating was said to have occurred in the office of camp superintendent Capt. R. W. Bailey.

Mrs. Mitchell said she noticed that her brother was having difficulty breathing Sunday, when she visited him, and saw marks on his face. Also, Mrs. Mitchell said Burns told her he had body injuries and believed he had sustained broken ribs.

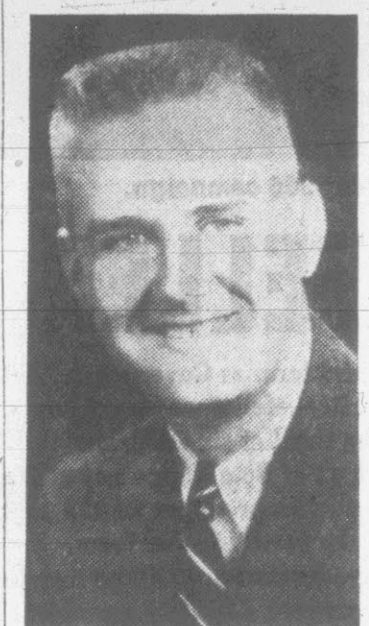

She added that Bailey told her not to call the prisons department in Raleigh and requested that she leave the prison camp.

Burns was serving 15 months in concurrent sentences on five assault convictions. He escaped late Friday and was recaptured about five hours later at Greensboro.

Dentist Opens Offices Here

Dr. Richard H. Evans Jr. opened his dental office at 1902 S. Charles St. today.

Dr. Evans, a native of Greenville, has just returned from serving two years in the Navy's Dental Corps at the submarine base in New London, Connecticut.

DR. RICHARD EVANS

Dr. Evans graduated from both undergraduate and Dental School at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. While at UNC he was a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Psi Omega, a professional society.

He is married to the former Alice Howell of Wilmington, and they have two girls.

Richard H. Evans Sr. is employed at Person-Garrett Tobacco Company.

Kilpatrick Col. . . .

In each of the landmark cases, Warren's purpose was to get those things done which he felt ought to be done. Dean Erwin Griswold, now Solicitor General, has described such jurisprudence as "result-oriented," and has warned that when decisions are overly influenced in that direction, "the law and the public are not well served." It is an attitude — this get-things-done attitude — that is especially to be condemned in the nonreviewable decisions of a Supreme Court, for it denies to the Congress, to the State legislatures, and to the people themselves through constitutional amendment, the powers that are rightfully theirs.

From within the nine-man Court, Warren's critics repeatedly voiced the same complaints. During this past term, Harlan denounced the Warren bloc for its "extravagant and unwise interpretation of the Fifth Amendment." White spoke of the bloc's "fuzzy ideology about concessions." Even Fortas, in Duncan v. Louisiana, could not stomach "an unnecessary and mischievous course that would inflict a serious blow upon the principles of federalism."

So Warren departs. The greatest Chief Justice in our history? Not in the view of those who believe that judicial restraint stands high among the qualifications of men who assume judicial office. Restraint was a characteristic Earl Warren never knew.

DRUGS CASE

LONDON (AP)—Lord Christopher Thynne, arrested the day after his June 6 wedding which was attended by Queen Elizabeth II, was fined $120 Monday on a charge of drugs possession. He had pleaded guilty.

The nation's largest open-pit copper mine is in Utah.

Evans-Novak . . .

But Humphrey's growing problems go far beyond the prospect of a fourth - party bid by McCarthy. He is now out on the road, for the first time since the death of Robert F. Kennedy, trying to pump adrenalin into a campaign that, despite its lush crop of organization-controlled convention delegates, badly needs revival, and particularly a solution to the paramount problem of Vietnam.

Humphrey intimates now see a chink of light on the Vietnam issue. They claim to find no difference between Humphrey's position on the war and Robert F. Kennedy's position as expressed in his debate with McCarthy in San Francisco just before the California primary.

In that debate, Kennedy urged with McCarthy that he, Kennedy, would never agree to a policy of "forcing" a coalition government — a regime with Communists in it — on the people of South Vietnam.

Humphrey now says privately that Kennedy's position matches his own. Vice Presidential intimates believe Humphrey will soon try to closely identify himself with the slain Senator from New York by quoting Kennedy's words on coalition government.

But this hope of partially solving the volatile Vietnam issue raises still another major problem, so ticklish it is scarcely mentioned in the Humphrey camp — the problem of President Johnson.

Every tiny detail of the Democratic National Convention is being handled not by Humphrey but by the President's man at the National Committee, John Chiswell, and Mr. Johnson himself. The President and his Vice President have not had a single serious talk about convention arrangements or platform language.

Thus even here Humphrey may come to another crisis. The way he is acting today Mr. Johnson is going to supervise every comma that goes into the hypersensitive Vietnam plank of the party platform. He may be far more interested in defending his own record on Vietnam than in smoothing Humphrey's path toward a rapprochement with the anti-war bloc—the very Democrats who drove Mr. Johnson out of running for reelection.

Opening lead: Ten of ♦
Faulty technique by one declarer led to a significant swing when this hand was dealt in a recent team of four contest.

A contract of four spades was reached on identical bidding sequences at both tables and, in each case, West opened the ten of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy.

Declarer was confronted with the loss of three tricks as soon as he surrendered the lead — two diamonds and a heart. His problem was to avoid surrendering a club as well.

One declarer led a small heart at trick two and, when East played low, South's queen drove out the ace. West returned another diamond and, after East cashed out the defensive book with the king and queen, he exited with a trump.

South drew three rounds of spades ending up in dummy and then led the jack of hearts. East covered with the king, declarer ruffed and then reentered the North hand with the king of clubs to discard his losing club on the ten of hearts. South claimed his contract.

At the other table, declarer drew trump immediately after winning the opening diamond lead, and then a heart was led from the North hand. East had been following the proceedings attentively, and observing that South held a six card spade suit, East realized that if the declarer also held the ace of hearts, the latter would have 10 tricks in plain view and the defense might just as well abandon hope.

In a desperation measure, East put up the king of hearts from his hand and, when the queen appeared, he was able to hold the lead. The king and queen of diamonds were cashed followed by a fourth round which South ruffed. After cashing out his spades and clubs, declarer was obliged to surrender the setting trick at the end to East's queen of clubs.

While it is true that East can always assure South's defeat by going up with the king of hearts as soon as that suit is led from dummy, the play is much more difficult to diagnose at trick two — and the declarer might just as well make his opponent work for his bread and butter.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Rockefeller meets Lake George, N.Y., youngsters during his 1966 campaign.

NELSON A. ROCKEFELLER

Raised in one of America's richest families, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller was surrounded by strong religious convictions and personal financial conservatism which sent him early into public service.

Before entering the political world, Rockefeller held appointive positions in three administrations, one of the first being coordinator of Inter-American Affairs in 1940 under Franklin Roosevelt.

Others have been as chairman of the International Development Advisory Board under President Truman and Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare under President Eisenhower.

His entry into politics came when he defeated incumbent New York Governor Averell Harriman, against a Democratic trend, in 1958. Every two years since he has sought elective office.

He decided, after travelling about the country talking to party leaders, to avoid a Presidential battle with Richard Nixon in 1960. He won a second term as Governor in 1962, lost to Barry Goldwater for the Presidential nomination in 1964 and won a third term as Governor in 1966.

The 59-year-old Rockefeller was born July 8, 1908, at Bar Harbor, Maine, the third of six children.

Nelson earned his Phi Beta Kappa key at Dartmouth College, where he was vice-president of the sophomore class and a member of the varsity soccer team.

Following his graduation in 1930, he married Mary Todhunter Clark, daughter of a socially prominent Philadelphia family. They had five children of which one, Michael, vanished in New Guinea in 1961 during an anthropology expedition.

Mrs. Rockefeller obtained a divorce in 1962 and, the following year, Rockefeller married Margarette "Happy" Murphy. They have two children, Nelson, Jr., age 3, and Mark, age 1.

With his political stock rising in the wake of Michigan Governor George Romney's withdrawal from Presidential contention, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller remains a declared contender available "if the overwhelming voice of the Republican Party asked him to be President".

The Rockefeller brothers, seldom photographed together: John D. III, Nelson, Laurance, Winthrop, and David, in New York in 1960.

At New York City, 1911, are older sister Abby, John III and Nelson.

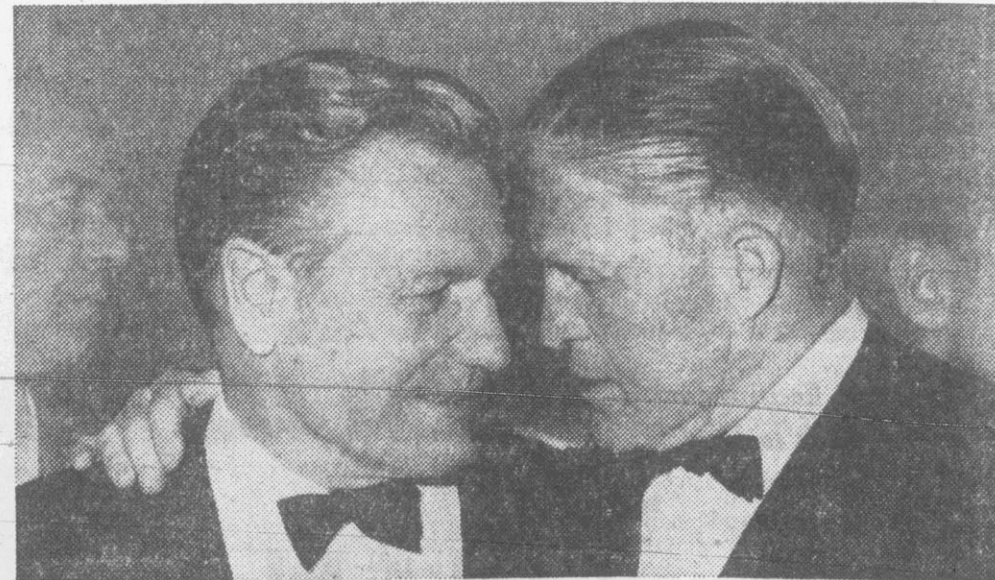

As a member of the Dartmouth soccer team in 1930.

In 1944, Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed administers oath of office to Rockefeller as Assistant Secretary of State.

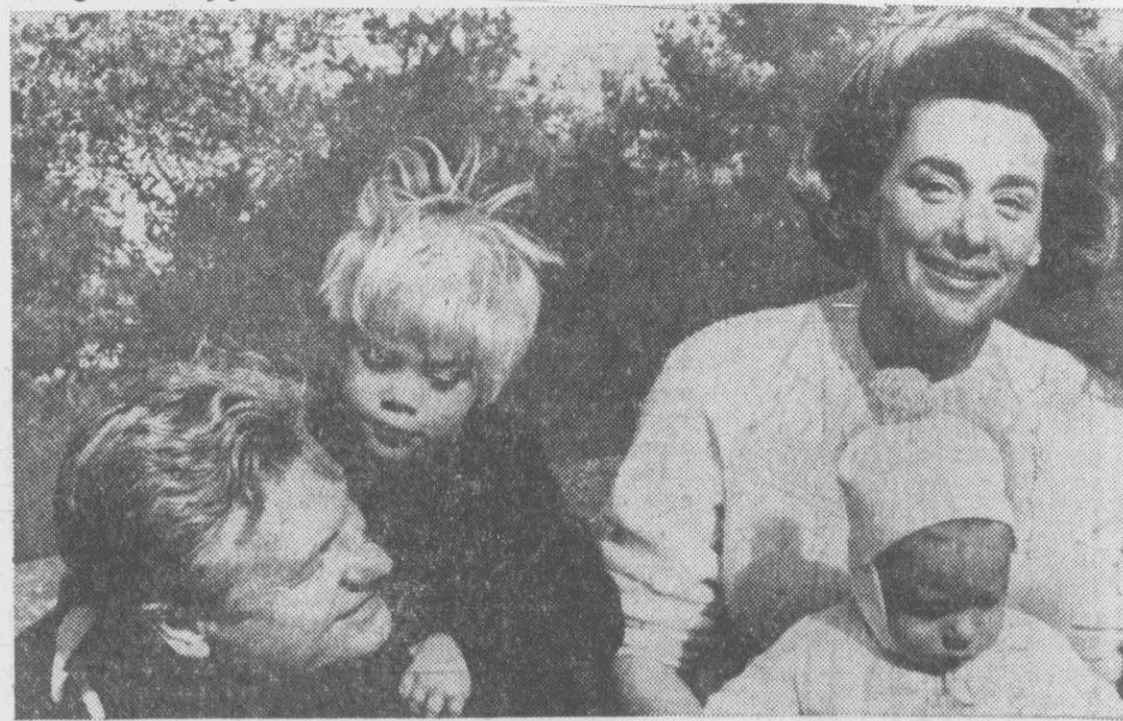

Prior to the 1960 Republican Convention, Rockefeller yielded to Richard Nixon, left, and, long before the 1968 Convention, George Romney yielded to Nelson Rockefeller, right.

At the 1964 Republican National Convention, Chairman Thruston Morton quiets delegates drowning out Rockefeller's denunciation of extremists.

Rockefeller rests at the helm of his sailboat on Frenchman Bay, Seal Harbor, Maine, during the summer of 1958.

Discovery Of Significant New Fossil Is Announced

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The discovery of a significant new fossil, perhaps related to the evolution of man, was announced today at the second International Congress of Primatology.

The announcement—by Dr. Elwyn L. Simons of Yale University and Dr. S. R. K. Chopra of Punjab University, Chandigarh, India—came in a paper prepared for delivery by Simons to the congress, attended by some 300 scientists from 15 nations.

Simons said the discovery is that of "an excellently preserved jaw of a new kind of gigantopithecus of the Middle Pliocene Age."

Still Room For A Patti Page

By PATTI PAGE

EDITOR'S NOTE — A woman performer, particularly a singer, who admits to having passed her 30th birthday, is rarer than a passenger pigeon. Patti Page, one of the well-established musical stars, explains frankly that it's not vanity, but self-preservation.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I'm grateful for this opportunity to thank those of you who saw me on the Ed Sullivan Show, Music Hall and other television series and wrote how pleased you were that I had come out of retirement.

Appreciative as I am, I must make a confession. I did not retire—unless you call seven months on the road in night clubs and recording two albums and eight singles annually retirement.

It was the other way around. TV retired from me—and from such talented female singers as Rosie Clooney, Kay Starr, Jo Stafford, Polly Bergen and, to a lesser extent, Dinah Shore and Peggy Lee. These singers not only dominated the record industry's "charts" in the 1950's but television as well. Most of us had our own TV series. In fact, Dinah and I had our own shows for several seasons.

Then something awful happened. We became "older girls." In an industry where everyone was suddenly competing to appeal to the "youth market," we were guilty of the most serious sin of all—having past our 30th birthdays. It seemed as though the only way to be seen on television, until last year,

Set 'Straw Vote' On Liquor Issue

RALEIGH (AP) — A "straw vote" will be held in Benson within the next two months to determine whether a majority of the citizens favor the establishment of a legal liquor store in the town.

The State Board of Alcoholic Beverage Control decided Monday that the straw vote would fulfill the statutory responsibility of determining whether a majority of the qualified electors favor an ABC store.

Order Immediate Repair On Lines

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission Monday ordered the Norfolk Southern Railway to immediately begin repairs on its Fuquay-Fayetteville and Raleigh-Charlotte lines.

The order grew out of a commission investigation of track on the Norfolk Southern routes.

Marines Taking Heavier Casualties In War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marines are taking much heavier casualties proportionately than the other U.S. armed services in the Vietnam war.

Marines have suffered about one-third of the combat killed and wounded although numbering less than 14 per cent of the total 615,000-man U.S. troop commitment in Southeast Asia. The Army has lost more dead and wounded than the Marines—but has more than four times as many men involved in the war.

The Air Force and Navy have been hit lightly compared with the Marines and Army troops which carry the brunt of the ground war.

Pentagon officials said the Marines have a bigger slice of their force available for battle than the Army because they are furnished supply and other support by the Navy and, to some extent, by the Army.

The Army supports its own combat troops, as well as manning huge depots and other rear echelon facilities.

As of June 22, the United States had lost 25,367 killed in combat and 157,517 wounded.

The Marines suffered 8,445, or 33 per cent, killed and 55,480, or 35 per cent, wounded.

The Army sustained 15,545, 61 per cent, of the battle deaths and 94,984, or 60 per cent, of the wounded.

The roughly 60 per cent share of total U.S. casualties borne by the Army is very close to the Army's 59.5 per cent of the total U.S. commitment in Vietnam, Thailand and on ships offshore.

The Army accounts for 356,000 men in Vietnam, plus about 10,000 in Thailand.

The 84,000 Marines in Vietnam represent about 13.6 per cent of the total U.S. armed forces in Southeast Asia. Thus, their proportion of casualties is more than twice their representation in the war.

The Air Force, with 61,000 men in Vietnam and Thailand, has lost 561, or 2 per cent-plus of the war's combat dead and 1,995, or 1 per cent-plus of the wounded total.

The over-all Air Force contingent totals 15.6 per cent of the U.S. military force in Southeast Asia.

Only a small fraction of the Air Force limit sees combat. The vast majority maintain and supply the aircraft at their bases.

The Navy, with 68,000 men in Vietnam or operating offshore, has lost 816 killed. This is somewhat more than 3 per cent of the U.S. total. Its wounded number 5,058, also a 3 per cent slice of the over-all total.

Some of the Navy dead were pilots in the air war, but most died in surface actions, such as river patrols.

Charlotte Man A UN Advisor

CHARLOTTE (AP) — David M. McConnell, Charlotte attorney, is expected to be the senior American advisor to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, in July and August, the Charlotte Observer said today.

The newspaper said McConnell left for Geneva over the weekend, and that his appointment should be forthcoming from President Johnson.

The council is a 27-nation body that attempts to eliminate economic and social problems facing members of the United Nations.

McConnell, a 54-year-old native of Chester, S. C., is chief counsel for Belk department stores.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Don't live in fear of false teeth loosening, wobbling or dropping just at the wrong time. For more security and more comfort, just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. FASTEETH holds false teeth firmer. Makes eating easier. No pasty, goopy taste. Helps check "denture breath." Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. ## Advises Against N.C. Abandoning Its Prison

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Commissioner of Correction Lee Bounds says the state should "try to live with" century-old Central Prison in Raleigh and invest more in it for improvements.

Bounds told the Advisory Budget Commission Monday the prison could have been abandoned a few years ago, but since then $22 million in buildings have been erected.

These buildings he said, would be "simply lost if the prison is closed."

"Now, we ought to try to live with this institution, make it better and make it work," Bounds stated.

He told the Commission the cells in Central Prison are either two-man or four-man enclosures. "This is wrong," he said. "Single cells are needed."

Bounds also said the prison system's field units across North Carolina are "old, patched and terribly crowded." He recommended improvements, including the maximum use of single cells.

Bounds asked for authority to use $500,000 to convert the old Ivy Bluff close security prison in Caswell County to a modern single-cell institution.

Bounds told the commission no prisoner has ever escaped over or under the big wall "that encircles all but the front, or north side, of the institution."

"All of them have gone over the north end—over 'the garden wall,'" Bounds said.

Restraining Order Issued On Blue Laws

RALEIGH (AP) — Temporary restraining orders have been issued to block the city of Raleigh from enforcing its "blue law," which went into effect Monday.

Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey signed the orders Monday after complaints were filed by Arlan's Department Store of Raleigh Inc. and S. S. Kresge Co., which operates a K-Mart store in Raleigh.

The two stores contend that the city's ordinance restricting Sunday sales of certain items or merchandise is unconstitutional.

The orders restrain the city from enforcing the ordinance until the matter can be settled in court. The ordinance is patterned after a Winston-Salem "blue law" which has been upheld by the State Supreme Court.

Pepsi Wins First Game Of City Series By 3-1

State Bank, Carolina Dairy Post Victories

State Bank and Carolina Dairy picked up victories in the Teen-er League last night. State Bank downed Pepsi-Cola, 6-5, while Carolina Dairy rolled over College View, 10-0.

Planters Bank holds the league lead with a 9-2 record, while State Bank is second with an 8-4 record. Home Builders is third at 6-5. The rest of the league, Pepsi-Cola and Carolina Dairy, both 5-7, and College View, 2-10, have no chance at the title.

In the opener, Byron Dickens hurled a four-hitter in the shut-out, striking out eight and walking three.

His teammates chipped in with a lot of runs to help him out, starting in the first inning with two. Robbie Leggett singled and Kim Harbin got a hit. Dickens singled to load them up, and Randy Phillips singled to drive in Leggett and Harbin.

In the third, Carolina Dairy came back with three more. Leggett singled and Harbin walked. The two stole up to second and third and Phillips singled to drive both of them in. Phillips took second on a passed ball, and after Jimmy Sugg singled, Phillips scored on a hit by J. C. Daniels.

Three more scored in the fifth. Sugg walked and Billy Sutton also walked. Paul Carr singled in both runners, and moved to second on the play. An error allowed him to come the rest of the way around.

The game ended in the sixth after two more scored. Larry Roebuck walked and Kim Harbin hit into a fielder's choice.

An error however, left Roebuck safe and brought him around to score, while Harbin made it all the way to third. He scored on a passed ball, and that made the 10-run lead rule go into effect, ending the game.

Leggett, Harbin and Phillips each had two hits to lead Carolina Dairy, while no one on the College View team had more than one.

The second game was just the opposite with a tight game all the way.

State Bank pushed out into a three-run lead in the first inning. John Conway walked and Russ Smith doubled. Jim Paige doubled to drive in both Conway and Smith, and then he stole third. Paige came across on a sacrifice fly by Jeff Car-gile.

In the top of the third, Pepsi broke the ice with a run. James Duckett singled and Bill Higgins reached on an error. They moved up on a walk, and Tommy Bryant sacrificed Duckett across.

State Bank offset that run in their half of the third. Smith reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. He managed to score on an out by Paige later in the game.

Pepsi came back with another run in the fourth. Kenny Pittman walked and stole second. An error on the play allowed him to come around, making it 4-2.

In the top of the sixth, Pepsi struck again, getting three runs to move into a 5-4 lead. John Thompson walked, and successfully walks to Bryant and Wayne Eubanks loaded the bases. Johnny Barwick grounded out, but drove in Thompson, and after an intentional walk to Randy McKinney, Pittman singled to drive in Bryant and Eubanks for the lead.

But it didn't last long. State Bank came right back with two to win it. William Harrison reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. Larry Dixon walked, as did Conway, loading the bases. Harrison scored on a passed ball, and Smith was also walked. Jim Paige singled in Dixon with the winning run to end it.

Paige was the leading hitter with three, while Preston Clark had two for Pepsi-Cola.

THE LEADER — Bobby Lee, putting here, scored a 78 yesterday to lead the field of 32 youngsters participating in the Jaycee Junior Golf Tournament here. The first round was played at Brook Valley, and featured a free clinic by pro Harold Thomas. Trailing Lee at the halfway mark were Tommy Boone and Phil Harvey at 79, and Bobby Boone and Brooks Barwick at 82. Leading the beginners flight were Lewis Lesley and Ricky Squires are 115. The final round will be played today at Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Grace FWB Rolls To Victory, 22-2

Grace Free Will Baptist rolled to a 22-2 victory over Gum Swamp yesterday in the Church League. In the other game, first place Presbyterian won by forfeit over Jarvis.

Presbyterian holds a one-game lead over St. James and Immanuel. Presbyterian holds an 11-1 record, while St. James and Immanuel are both 10-2. Next comes Oakmont, 6-5, Meadowbrook, 6-6, Grace, 6-7, and Mt. Pleasant, 5-8. Jarvis and Gum Swamp, 2-10, and Penticostal, 1-8, are eliminated from the title picture.

Tar Heel Champions Take Lead Over Coca-Cola Nine

Tar Heel League champion Pepsi-Cola moved into a one-game lead in the best-of-three City Championship yesterday with a 3-1 victory over Coca-Cola. It was the first game in the series.

Pepsi picked up the victory over the North State champs with two runs in the final inning highlighted by a disagreement over one of the umpire's calls.

Each team managed to get four hits, but Pepsi put three of theirs together in the sixth inning, when they scored their last two runs for the win. Coke got three of theirs in their long one-run inning, but one was of no avail.

The action started in the top of the second inning. Waighy Scales doubled with one out. He took third on a wild pitch, and another wild throw by the pitcher enabled him to scamper home to give Pepsi a 1-0 lead.

But it didn't last long. Coke came right back in its half of the inning to tie it up. Dill Forbes reached on a fielder's choice. Billy Pittman doubled with two away, and Connie Cannon singled in Forbes with the tying run. It stayed 1-1 until the final frame, when Pepsi broke it open. In the meanwhile, neither team offered a threat, with no one reaching base.

Finally, in the sixth, Pepsi came through with the winning runs. Jerry Griffin led off with a single, and was sacrificed to second. David Clifton singled to drive him in with the go-ahead run, and Lonnie Smith followed with a triple, scoring Clifton with the insurance run.

Losing pitcher Connie Cannon struck out eight, and walked none, while winner Pat Clark struck out two and walked one.

The series continues today, with Coke trying to get back and tie the series up. A Pepsi-Cola victory would end the playoffs and give the title to Pepsi. Pepsi-Cola 010 002 — 3 4 1

Salem Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Salem Rebels increased their Carolina League lead to a game and a half Monday night by defeating Winston-Salem in both ends of a doubleheader.

The Rebels took the eight-inning opener 5-4 and the nightcap 3-2 at Salem. Pitcher Lew Marone drove in the winning run in the opener with a single in the eighth. In the second game Salem did all its scoring in the third inning.

Meanwhile, second place Lynchburg was defeating Raleigh-Durham 2-1 at Lynchburg. Strong ninth inning relief pitching by Doc Dominguez saved the day for Lynchburg. The Mets threatened in the ninth when Joe Campbell singled and pinch-hitter Bobby Adams doubled. Dominguez came in and retired the side, halting the Mets' winning streak at six games.

Bob Buckner hit two home runs, one a grand slam, to lead Wilson to a 10-4 victory over Peninsula at Hampton, Va.

The Portsmouth Tides rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to halt Kingston's three-game winning streak, 7-5, at Portsmouth.

By Hudson. In the third, eight more came across, while four scored in the fourth.

All-Stars Picked By Little Leagues

The 1968 Greenville Little League All-Stars were announced today by the two leagues. The boys chosen will represent the loops in the district playoffs set for the last week in the month.

In the Tar Heel League selections, Pepsi-Cola and Security Life dominate the selections. Pepsi, the league champion, placed five players on the team, while Security had three. The Elks and Moose each placed two, while Greenville Tobacco and the Exchange each had one.

From Pepsi, the selections are Donald Cannon, David Clifton, Jerry Griffin, Danny Norris and Waighy Scales.

Security Life choices were Westley Puryear, John Causey and Phil Dash.

Joining them are Jeff Beaman from Greenville Tobacco, Robert Brinkley of the Exchange, Kiwanis.

Gary Warren and Bill Harrison of the Elks, and Terry Glisson and Jack Jones of the Moose.

Billy Carraway of Pepsi and Marvin Aldridge of the Moose were selected as alternates.

On the North State team, champion Coca-Cola dominated, showing six selections. R.C. Cola placed three, along with the Kiwanis, while the Lions had two. From Coke comes Prince Bunting, Connie Cannon, Pat Clark, Pudge Diket, Dill Forbes and Robert Kittrell.

R.C. Cola's choices were Bobby Jones, Randy Lewis, Tommy Payne. From the Kiwanis are Robert Boles, Allen Heath and Jon West.

Representing the Lions are Danny Allen and Wayne Lewis. The alternates for the league are Tony Skinner of the Optimists, and Chris Manning of the Kiwanis.

Old Mickey Is Chosen Again

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP) — Aging Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees will take his usual place with the American League All-Stars. But such super stars as Al Kaline and Frank Robinson will be missing in the annual classic with the National League July 9 in Houston.

Mantle, whose 529 homers rank him fourth in the all-time home run derby, was named to the All-Star team for the 16th year Monday as Manager Dick Williams completed his 25-player squad.

Williams, rewarded with the AL managerial berth for leading the Boston Red Sox to the 1967 pennant, went pretty much along with the players' voting in filling his bench.

The fourth, fifth and sixth biggest vote-getters in the outfield balloting were chosen. They were Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins, hot-hitting Ken Harrelson of the Red Sox and young Rick Monday of the Oakland Athletics.

Kaline, the Detroit Tigers' slugger sidelined with a broken arm, was not named to the All-Star team for the first time since 1954. Robinson, Baltimore's 1966 Triple Crown winner, has been plagued by injuries this season.

Mantle and Boog Powell of the Orioles were chosen as backup first basemen for starter Harmon Killebrew of the Twins. Dave Johnson of Baltimore was chosen as the No. 2 second baseman behind Rod Carew of Minnesota.

Other reserves chosen were third baseman Don Wert of Detroit, shortstop Bert Campaneris of Oakland and catcher Joe Azcue of Cleveland and Duane Josephson of the Chicago White Sox.

The league-leading Tigers will be represented by four players, Wert, catcher Bill Freehan, pitcher Denny McLain and outfielder Willie Horton.

The Twins, Red Sox, Orioles and Athletics each will have three representatives. The Yankees and White Sox have two apiece, with California and Washington only one each.

Other starters voted were third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, shortstop Jim Fregosi of the Angels, and outfielders Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox and Frank Howard of Washington.

The seven-man pitching staff includes McLain, Sam McDowell and Luis Tiant of Cleveland, Jose Santiago of Boston, Mel Stottlemyre of New York, Tommy John of Chicago and John "Blue Moon" Odom of Oakland.

NAAACP Heads Probably Glad Militants Going

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The "Young Turk" militants whose aggressive demands nearly broke up the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's annual convention this past week are walking out of that moderate civil rights organization.

They hope to forge a new link between themselves, the Congress of Racial Equality, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

NAAACP leaders are probably relieved to see them go. The leaders weren't worried about the perennial militant threat to their control. Despite loud boasts, the Young Turks failed this year for the fourth straight time to get any of their resolutions close to a passing vote.

But NAAACP leaders, who have a deep faith in orderly procedure, were aghast at having to call Atlantic City police onto their convention floor to end a noisy, scuffling demonstration.

That was also the act that triggered the walkout of militants who say the convention tolerated worse disruptions when staged by friendly delegates.

Dr. Reed, an Amityville, N.Y., dentist and a two-time past president of the New York State conference of branches, has long argued that the NAAACP's emphasis on bringing Negroes into the existing American social system is behind the times.

"You and the board of directors," he telegraphed Executive Director Roy Wilkins, "not only demonstrated this past week an unwillingness to change, but that you are willing to use any and all means to keep the association from being relevant to the many problems of black people."

Monday afternoon Chester Lewis, a well-to-do Wichita, Kan., attorney who succeeded Reed as leader of the militant faction, said he would resign as branch president and legal counsel, and renounce his life membership.

Lewis, 48, accused the NAAACP leadership of using money, favors and threats to buy convention votes and said the 2-1 margin by which his proposals were beaten don't reflect the delegates' true sympathies.

"We've reached the conclusion that we can't meet the organized force they put against us," he said in a telephone interview.

An NAAACP spokesman, in turn, accused Lewis of being unwilling to abide by the convention's decision. "At no time did they have the voting strength that could have passed anything," said Gloucester Current, NAAACP director of branches.

The basic dispute is more complex than that, however. Lewis argues that a nonviolent, nonracist Black Power—clearly labeled as such and used to build economic and political power in the ghettos—is the country's only salvation.

He is angry at the large southern NAAACP delegation that block voted against the Young Turk resolutions.

The Southern black man and the Southern white man are alike in their conservatism, Lewis said. "Plus the black South is going through the same hangup the black North went through 20 years ago, going into hotels, restaurants, airports. They actually think there's hope assimilation will occur. We've been through this, we know it won't. . . . They still think that if they sing enough, and march enough, and pray enough, they will overcome."

That is not the kind of rhetoric the present NAAACP leadership likes to deal in.

"We're going to hew to the line—fight segregation, get new job opportunities for our people, continue to work to improve the opportunities for ghetto dwellers," said Henry Lee Moon, the organization's public relations director.

"We're trying to make the Negro more a part, a sharer, in the good things of American life. We believe it can be done within the framework of our system. . . . I would feel that ed at a postconvention conference to call a meeting in December to explore links with other groups.

Estimate Nixon To Have Three-Quarters Of Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has nearly three-quarters of the 667 convention votes required for a first-ballot Republican presidential nomination, counting only delegates who had taken a stand in public.

Assuming Sen. John G. Tower was, as he believed, taking most of the 56-vote Texas delegation along on his shift from favorite son status to the Nixon column, the former vice president would be over the three-quarter mark.

With Texas listed uncommitted pending an individual count, a tabulation by The Associated Press showed Nixon with 478. The count covered only delegates assigned to Nixon by presidential primary vote, pledged at the time they were selected, or picking him in an AP poll.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller trailed on the same basis at 192.

Both had a pool of 317 delegates backing favorite sons and 309 who were at least ostensibly uncommitted, to work on before roll call at the convention opening in Miami Beach Aug. 5.

Fewer than 100 of the 1,333 Republican delegates remained

South Ayden Center Plans July 4 Program

AYDEN — The South Ayden Recreation Center is preparing its sixth annual 4th of July program with emphasis on the proper training of youths while at play.

This year's program will be marked by an address of Ayden commissioner J. J. Brown, patriotic songs, group dances and other recreational events. Later in the evening there will be a girls' softball game and a Little League baseball game.

Refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

to be selected.

In a similar AP tabulation Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had 640 1/4 votes to 401 1/4 for his Democratic rival, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. At the Democratic convention beginning in Chicago Aug. 26 it takes 1,312 to win.

The Democratic competitors had an even longer list of fence riders to cultivate. There were 514 1/2 votes back of favorite sons and an outsized pool of 771 otherwise uncommitted.

The big group in the latter category were 151 in California who still had not taken a new stand since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy freed them of a primary election commitment, 103 in Illinois mostly waiting on word from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, and 99 1/2 in New York, including 49 1/2 whose stand had not been determined since they were picked in state convention. Dozens of other former Kennedy delegates were also uncommitted.

The Democrats were still some 300 shy of having their 2,662 convention seats filled.

Postal Holiday

Postmaster Jos. C. Dudley reminded today the Greenville Post Office and East Carolina University Station will close on July 4.

No window service, rural or city deliveries will be made. Special Delivery mail will be delivered within the city and all mail addressed to post office boxes will be delivered.

A city-wide collection will be made from all street letter boxes beginning at 5:00 p.m. and outgoing mail dispatched on normal schedule.

Participating In Workshop

DE KALB, Ill.—Lorraine A. Graff, assistant professor at East Carolina University, is participating in a three-week workshop in movement education at Northern Illinois University.

Twenty teachers, whose teaching grade levels range from elementary through college, represent Illinois and four other states in the workshop.

According to Dr. Lorena Porter, workshop director, they are studying "that part of the physical education program in which emphasis is placed on helping the child to understand and control the many ways in which his body can move."

Throughout the three-week period, the teachers will study the principles of movement after which they will apply the principles by participating themselves in various movement exercises.

Instructors for the workshop are Monica Hawkes, visiting lecturer from England and Dr. Porter, professor of physical education for women.

Hawkins said the major steps in the Negro campaign between now and November are:

—To get more Negro representation among the North Carolina delegates at the Democratic national convention.

—Increased Negro registration.

Hawkins Cites Vote Strength

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Dr. Reginald Hawkins, third-runner in the June Democratic gubernatorial primary, says Negro voters will show their strength in the "11th hour" of the November general election.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets stronger Monday. Supplies generally adequate. Demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 39¢-41¢; medium whites 35¢-36½¢; small whites 25¢-27½¢.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today were steady to 50 cents higher, mostly 25 cents higher. Tops of 20.75-21.25 Rocky Mount; 20.25-21.25 Tarboro; 20.50-21.00 Wilson; 20.25-20.75 Bethel; 21.25 Selma; 21.00 Greensboro, Salisbury; 20.50 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market maintained a generally higher trend this afternoon, despite a ragged performance by industrial blue chips. Trading was moderate.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 170 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

Hearing On Auto Liability Rates Sought

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Insurance Commissioner Edwin S. Lanier is expected to call a hearing in the near future on a request for an average rate increase of 5 per cent in liability insurance for private passenger cars.

The request was filed Monday by the North Carolina Automobile Rate Administrative Office, which represents the insurance companies.

The rate office said the increase would amount to about $3.20 a year for those carrying minimum coverage required by state law. The increase for others would range from $1 to $9.60 depending on classification and points under the safe driver insurance plan.

Paul L. Mize, general manager of the rate office, said the proposed rate hike was prompted mainly by increased costs of settling automobile liability claims.

State law requires that a rate review be filed on or before July 1 each year.

industrials, however, caused a loss of .90 at 895.45 in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The market was a little higher at the opening and improved very gradually.

Because of the three-day trading week, the cooling down of speculative spirit and the unwillingness to be overextended on the four-day weekend coming up, purchasers were cautious.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 339.3 with industrials off .6, rails up .6, and utilities up .1. American Broadcasting, which soared 11½ Monday to 69½ after Hughes Tool Co. made known a tender of $74.25 a share for two million shares of ABC, dropped more than a point. The management of ABC said it would oppose the Hughes offer, which it called inadequate.

On the American Stock Exchange prices made a fairly solid advance.

Winterville OK's Budget Of $176,680

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board officially adopted a $176,680 budget at their meeting Monday night.

The budget has been available for public inspection for the past 30 days. A tax rate of $1.25 per $100 evaluation was established. This represents an increase of 25-cents over the previous rate of $1.00.

Rates for electricity, water and sewage remain unchanged. The board approved the firm of Worsley, Farley and Prescott of Greensville as official auditors.

Elwood Nobles, Town Clerk, said that "the board went on record for getting an improved drainage system in north Winterville as the No. 1 project for the coming year." Nobles added, "an engineer has been hired, and his recommendations will be followed."

A Franklin Branch was sworn in for a three-year term as alderman. Branch won the election for this position in May.

Mayor Walter Dail expressed his appreciation to outgoing alderman W. Jack Thompson for the work he has done for the past three years.

Warm Reception By First Night Audience

The fifth season of the East Carolina University Summer Theatre opened here last night to an enthusiastic reception by an audience of some 400 for the John Van Druten comedy, "Bell, Book and Candle."

On hand to help launch the new season was the new Miss North Carolina, Anita Johnson of New Bern, who is a freshman at East Carolina.

Pre-curtain remarks featured Miss Johnson, ECU President Leo W. Jenkins and Summer Theatre Producer Edgar R. Loessin.

Republican gubernatorial candidate James Gardner also attended the opening night performance.

"Season 5," with productions nightly through Saturday in McGinnis Auditorium, operates this year on a budget of $77,000 and features over 100 professional performers and staff.

Loessin, who is Summer Theatre producer for the fifth time, said ticket sales, which had lagged earlier, had increased in the past few days.

"Season 5" productions, with Wednesday matinees for all but one musical ("The Boys From Syracuse," July 8-13), include "The King and I" (July 15-23), "Guys and Dolls" (July 26-August 3), "The Desert Song" (Aug. 5-10), and "The Odd Couple" (Aug. 12-17).

Wednesday's matinee performance of "Bell, Book and Candle" is scheduled for 2:15. Tickets are still available at the Summer Theatre box office.

The 'Brasher Dubloon' Is Recovered

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — One of the world's rarest coins—worth an estimated $100,000—surfaced from the underworld Monday and police said it was their first major break in cracking the $1.5-million coin robbery from the mansion of Willis Du Pont.

Police charged Edward Metzler and his son, William, 27, with stealing and concealing stolen property. Young Metzler also was charged as a convicted felon with possession of a firearm and with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

A police spokesman said the Metzlers were arrested after trying to sell the Brasher dubloon to an undercover police officer for $35,000.

The dubloon recovered was described as one of eight gold doubloons struck by Ephraim Brasher, a goldsmith who lived in New York in the late 18th century.

Police Monday also reported the arrest of Joy Belyew, 20, of Hallandale, on charges of possessing some 4 or 5 stolen coins which may have been part of the DuPont collection.

Five hooded gunmen robbed the DuPonts last October of some 6,000 or 7,000 coins plus jewels.

Debts Mount

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board says consumer debt hit a record $100.3 billion by the end of May and outstanding installment credit made its biggest jump in nearly two years.

Installment credit increased $610 million on a seasonally adjusted basis for a total of $79.27 billion, the board said Monday, and non-installment debt rose $21 billion on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The debt figure includes money owed by Americans for cars, consumer goods, home repairs, personal loans, charge and service accounts and single payment loans. It excludes real estate mortgages and insurance policy loans.

The installment credit jump was the highest since March 1966.

Two Tar Heels Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Defense Monday released the names of 34 U.S. soldiers killed in the Vietnam war, including two North Carolinians.

They were identified as Sgt. I. C. Manuel T. Lopez of Fayetteville and Pfc. David L. Doby of Mocksville.

'Season Five' Off To An Impressive Start

(Editor's note: Dr. Frank Adams, professor of English at Madison College, Harrisonburg, Va., was official critic for the opening performance of "Bell, Book and Candle" at the East Carolina University Summer Theatre. The play runs through Saturday, July 6 with evening performances at 8:15 and a matinee at 12:14 Wednesday, July 3.)

Introduced by curtain speeches from Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University; Ed Loessin, head of the University's Speech and Drama Department; and Anita Johnson, a University undergraduate and reigning Miss North Carolina, the East Carolina University Summer Theatre's fifth season got off to an impressive start.

But the play's the thing, and in this respect the opening of "Season 5" was even more impressive.

John van Druten's "Bell, Book and Candle" is the play, a tightly organized, sharply pointed comedy about the conflict between a humane force, love (THE humane force?) and an anti-humane force, of which so many are abroad in the world today. There are, as the beautiful young witch Gillian says, "ways of manipulating things for yourself. . . short cuts to getting your own way." But they're bad. "It's like pulling rank, or abusing influence. And it can destroy you as a person."

Gillian's aunt and her brother, witch and warlock respectively, compete with Shepherd, who is merely human, for the soul of Gillian. The ending, if anticipated, is also hoped for, is arrived at by understated, witty, and engrossing ways, and is satisfyingly triumphant.

Operating in John Sneden's hospitable setting of an old New York apartment that Michael Byrum has ingeniously lighted, complete to the flickering light from a fireplace (what a color photograph that will make for next year's souvenir season program, which will have to go some to top this year's), Amanda Muir (Mrs. Ed Loessin) carries the main and most demanding role with grace, vivacity, concentration, and genuine pathos. Her lovely costumes (thanks to Ginna Buchanan), lithe figure, warm voice, and clear diction all enhance her truly remarkable performance.

The role of her vis-a-vis, Shepherd, though not nearly so taxing or so consequential in its individuality (his chief influence is simply that he is human) is ably played by Robert Foxworth, a handsome actor admirably restrained in both voice and movement. He wins the audience not by playing but by being.

Gillian's aunt, a prankish and somewhat tentative witch, is played by Marion Fitz-Simons, who delighted last summer's eastern Carolina audiences in "Arsenic and Old Lace." A thoroughly experienced professional, Miss Fitz-Simons makes the most of a small part without ever threatening the requirements of ensemble playing. The scenes she is in and the actors she performs with respond to her ability and charm, as does the audience.

As Nicky, warlock brother of Gillian, James Slaughter is perhaps a bit too crisp and suave for the rather shiftless character, but he is eloquent of movement as well as of speech.

Sidney Redlitch, a human being but a bumbling and opportunistic one, Ken Waller portrays adequately but affects a voice which sounds strained and which, if its purpose is to be humorous, does not achieve that end.

Pyeawacket, the Siamese cat, though not listed on the program is decorative and behaves around his owner, Gillian, as though he were indeed her familiar.

The play, however, belongs to Miss Muir's Gillian, the witch who, to paraphrase Cleopatra, has mortal longing in her, and under Ed Loessin's masterful direction, she holds it together makes it move, creates its interest, and finally makes it touching.

Opening night light cues were occasionally ragged; in the two scenes in which the stage was dark, two doors were pointlessly outlined with light; and timing was once in a while not what it will be in later performances. But these are minor flaws, against which are to be set more virtues than a reviewer can mention. One, for example, is the combination of colors which is quirky just as witchcraft is quirky: maroon walls with accents of bright red in the set before which Gillian, so long as she's a witch, wears at least some orange. Her costume in the last scene itself conveys information and strengthens the mood.

Van Druten's play is a comedy, but not a farce. It engages the mind and the heart and makes a clear and touching affirmation of the ability of the human spirit to surmount the perennial appeals, under the guise of making the human spirit more than human, to make it less than human.

Being presented in Greenville's McGinnis Auditorium all the week of July 1-7, "Bell, Book and Candle" is modern theater at its best and a most auspicious opening for the East Carolina University Summer Theatre's "Season 5."

Trucker Guided Runaway Gasoline Tank Into Woods

CHARLEVOIX, Mich. (AP) — A truck driver used his tractor Monday to guide an escaped trailer loaded with gasoline over a half-mile stretch of curving highway before finally letting it crash in an unpopulated, wooded area along Lake Michigan.

The truck exploded and flames, brought under control in about two hours, could be seen at least five miles away, witnesses said. No one was injured.

Driver Doug McDougal, hauling gasoline for service stations in nearby Petoskey, said he felt the trailer, with 4,400 gallons of gasoline, break loose.

Maneuvering the tractor to prevent the load from going out of control along the downgrade on U.S. 131, McDougal said, he passed several motorists from the opposite direction, a factory and a nuclear power plant.

Finally, he said, he gunned the engine of his tractor, allowing the trailer to shoot off into the woods.

A SMALL WHIMPER
TEMPLE CITY, Calif. (AP) — A 9-month-old boy in a wet diaper was electrocuted Monday when he grabbed an exposed wire in the living room of his home. Paula K. Robinson said she heard a small whimper but that her son James was dead by the time she pulled him away.

The meeting was postponed due to the death of William F. Stokes, a member of the board of education for the past 24 years.

Collect 234 Guns During Amnesty

NEW YORK (AP) — A month-long gun amnesty period, which began a few days prior to the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, ended Monday with city police collecting 234 guns and one bazooka shell.

The annual June amnesty period, during which the public can turn in guns without being subject to prosecution, yielded only 31 weapons in 1967.
