Town Broke? Don't Know

ENFIELD, N. C. (AP) — The mayor of the small Halifax County town of Enfield says, "Nobody can make the statement the town of Enfield is broke, because even the auditors don't know."
Mayor T. B. Slade told the town's board of commissioners at its regular meeting this week that he had been advised by Peoples' Bank and Trust Co. that the town's account was in the red.
Slade said Deputy Town Clerk Clarence Haskins had been asked to resign after Enfield's annual bond payment check was returned by the bank June 15 because of insufficient funds. Haskins refused to resign, however, and "his services were terminated effective June 30," Slade said.

Slade said the deficit may have been caused by "gross mismanagement or negligence, but there is no indication of embezzlement."
Auditors are expected to complete an investigation by next week.

Police Lacking Evidence

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Police say lack of evidence is hindering their investigation of a report that Saidallah Bishara Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was fired at on a highway.
Police said they were without clues to locating a white Volkswagen bus from which Sirhan said two shots were fired at him early Wednesday.
Two .38-caliber slugs were recovered from Sirhan's car, but police Lt. Gerald Wright said a ballistics test would be useless until the gun which fired the shots can be found.

Sirhan, 35, told police two shots were fired at him from one of two cars which followed him as he drove home on the Pasadena Freeway.
Sirhan's 24-year-old brother, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, awaits trial in Los Angeles in the Kennedy killing.

Lawyer Confers With Ray

LONDON (AP) — Alabama lawyer Arthur J. Hanes spent about an hour today in Wandsworth Prison, conferring with James Earl Ray, the man wanted in Tennessee to stand trial for the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.
When he came out of the jail gate, Hanes said: "He is feeling all right. His health is good. He is being well looked after. His mental attitude is good. We talked of many things."

Hanes, who said on arrival at London Airport earlier today that Ray might plead innocent through reason of insanity, was asked by a reporter if Ray showed any sign of insanity.
"None," he replied and emphasized that the plea of insanity was only one of a number which might be used.

Knighthood For Voyager

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Dorothy Rose, 55, was serving vegetables in her husband's grocery store. A customer said: "Hello, Lady Rose."
That was how the wife of Alec Rose heard today her husband had been knighted—it's now Sir Alec Rose — for "the tenacity, skill and courage which he displayed in his singlehanded voyage around the world," in his secondhand yacht Lively Lady.
Queen Elizabeth II conferred the title on the recommendation of Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

The shy 59-year-old yachtsman learned during his triumphal welcome here Thursday that he would be knighted. He got up early today for a breakfast of bacon and eggs and then went for a haircut.
"I just want to relax," he said.
Later, Sir Alec and Lady Rose celebrated by drinking champagne on the balcony of their shop with the lord mayor of Portsmouth as a crowd of more than 200 cheered below.

Architectural Award For Minges Coliseum

East Carolina University's Minges Coliseum has been awarded an American Institute of Steel Construction Architectural Award of Excellence.
"This is another great honor for East Carolina University," President Leo W. Jenkins said of the award.
"I am enthusiastic about the development of the entire athletic center. Once the athletic complex is completed, including the stadium, it will be one of the finest such facilities in America," Dr. Jenkins added.
The Minges Coliseum was one of 15 buildings from 158 entries chosen for the AISC award. The awards are presented annually by the American Institute of Steel Construction to recognize and encourage imaginative and superior use of fabricated structural steel.

A Certificate of Commendation is being prepared for presentation to Dr. Jenkins at an awards ceremony to be held at a later date. A stainless steel plaque, inscribed and etched with an outline of the building will be given to F. Carter Williams, the architect. A duplicate plaque will be provided for mounting at Minges Coliseum.
Certificates of Commendations will be given to the structural engineer, the general contractor, and the structural steel fabricator.

A Charred Float Won Top Honors

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — There were charred gaps in the chicken wire and papier-mache float depicting the Iwo Jima flag raising and the globe calling for world peace was blackened by the flames of the fire set by vandals.
The July Fourth parade judges noted the signs tacked to the damaged float: "Where was your child at 12:50 last night? Could he have burned this American flag and float?"
Bob Lierman, his wife, and 20 teen-agers worked late Wednesday finishing the float. After the vandals struck, Mrs. Lierman said, "We were heartbroken but our neighbors urged us to enter it in the parade anyway."
The judges awarded the Lierman float first prize.

Police said the deputy, Dewey Swain, was shot in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun after going to the house to pick up the man, whom police identified as Rudolph Jordan.
Jordan's mother, Mrs. Arthur Jordan, said her husband asked Swain to come to the house because her son had been "acting funny." She said he "suffered a head injury while serving with the Navy during World War II."
After Swain was shot, deputies and town police from several surrounding towns and counties and state troopers were called in to help flush out the man.
Tear gas was fired into the house and Jordan was captured, officers said, after stumbling around in the misty irritant and bumping his head.
Jordan was alone in the house when the tear gas was fired.
Swain was taken to Bertie County Hospital in Windsor by Sheriff J. B. Roberts.

Several Negro Leaders Unaware Of Plan Selective Buying Drive Aimed At 4 N.C. Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina civil rights leader says the cities of Raleigh, Wilmington, Salisbury, and Goldsboro will be targets for a selective buying campaign by Negroes.
Golden Frinks, state director for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), said the campaign will begin Monday and be coordinated by Milton Fitch Sr. of Wilson.
Fitch, contacted by telephone, said, "I have agreed to serve as coordinator but as yet I have no details whatsoever on the campaign. I do not know what this will embrace. I'm not sure at this time what the plans or objectives will be. I must wait for confirmation by mail and for the details."

Several other civil rights leaders in the state said they were unaware of the campaign.
And business and government leaders in the affected cities expressed no alarm or concern over the announcement.
Frinks made the announcement after an SCLC strategy committee in Washington Thursday. He said the project is part of "a new push to further dramatize conditions of poor people in America."
Minority groups other than Negroes will be asked to join the campaign, Frinks said, although the four cities were selected because of their high Negro population.
The effort to withdraw economic support in the four cities, Frinks said, "will continue until congress acts on a program to end poverty in the nation."

Frinks said citizens of the four cities will be asked "to buy only the bare necessities to dramatize the fact that wealthy businessmen of this nation do not only maintain the economic structure, but are completely ignorant of the plight of poor people within their communities."
After Frink's announcement, several Negro leaders in Salisbury were contacted and all said they were unaware of plans for a campaign.
The same response came from Raleigh City Councilman Clarence Lightner, NAACP Chairman Millie Veasey of Raleigh and Negro activist Howard Huller of Durham.
Wesley Williams, manager of the Raleigh Merchants Bureau, said he is "not alarmed over this. That sort of thing is nothing new. Over the past 10 or 12 years various committees and groups have tried to instigate such a thing. We have never felt any adverse effects."

Col. Harry Coleman, city manager of Goldsboro, said "I see no cause for concern. I'm certain the merchants here will take this in stride. I am certain there is nothing to cause any panic."
Milton Fleishman, president of the Wilmington Merchants Association, said he was surprised to hear his city was to be a target of the campaign.
"We have had a good relationship with the races here and I can't understand why they chose Wilmington. It would seem the orders came from higher up."

Sen. White Says No Violations Uncovered State Board Of Award Supports Contract For 101 Motor Graders

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Equipment Co. of Raleigh will receive a controversial $1.5 million contract to supply 101 motor graders to the State Highway Commission.
State Sen. Tom White, D-Leon, chairman of the State Board of Award, announced Thursday night that the board had decided to approve the contract.
The board found "no evidence of any violation of the law by any person in this matter," and the specifications on the contract were "fair and impartial," White said.

White said no manufacturer, including Galion, could have bid on the contract without making some changes in its basic model, but "at least six out of seven could have bid" by making relatively minor alterations.
"No legal or other right of any distributor or manufacturer has been abridged or denied," White said.
Some of the grader representatives appearing at the hearing asked the board to rewrite the state's grader specifications to permit other companies to bid on the contract. But no one charged there had been illegal activity on the part of any party involved in the contract bid procedure.

Duke U. Authorities Study Cheating Cases

DURHAM (AP) — Duke University officials said today they might be several weeks before appeals are decided on in a cheating scandal involving 13 students, apparently all athletes and some of them key members of the football team.
Even when appeals are decided the students might not be publicly identified, a university spokesman said.
The Raleigh News and Observer Thursday identified two of those involved as members of the football team—tailback Pete Schafer and fullback Jay Calabrese.
The newspaper said Schafer's father told it by telephone from Ramsey, N.J., that Schafer had been suspended until the spring semester of 1969.

The elder Schafer said a Duke coed who had helped Schafer with term papers "squealed on Pete and all the other boys because Pete wouldn't lend her his car," the newspaper said.
The newspaper said Calabrese, reached at his home in College Park, Md., told it he had received his degree in history and had signed a contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.
"I've taken care of it," the newspaper quoted Calabrese as saying. "Everything has worked out for me."

University officials said their refusal to identify the students or to go into detail about the matter was in keeping with university policy.
An indication that all those involved are athletes came when one spokesman, discussing the possibility that they would be identified after appeals are decided on, said that would be up to the director of athletics, Edmund G. Cameron.
Cameron had declined earlier to identify the students.
Published reports said the students were accused of getting their coed tutors to write their term papers for them.
It is common practice at Duke and other universities for athletes and some other students to have tutors to help them with their studies.
University officials said tutors are permitted to help students, but not to perform the students' work for them.
Hearings for the accused students were held in two sessions beginning the first of June and ending June 23, university officials said.
The hearing board was composed of deans and of members of the university's judicial board which is made up of students.
The appeals went to a board composed of faculty members.

Deputy Shot, Lawmen Nab Their Man

COLERAIN, N.C. (AP) — Dozens of officers using tear gas today flushed a 40-year-old man from a house near Colerain after a deputy sheriff was shot and seriously wounded.
Police said the deputy, Dewey Swain, was shot in the chest with a 12-gauge shotgun after going to the house to pick up the man, whom police identified as Rudolph Jordan.
Jordan's mother, Mrs. Arthur Jordan, said her husband asked Swain to come to the house because her son had been "acting funny." She said he "suffered a head injury while serving with the Navy during World War II."

Surgeons Erase Scars From Dog

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two years and 270 surgical stitches after 9-year-old Billy Hines rescued a playmate from a snarling dog, smiles have returned to the lad's face.
Plastic surgery has erased early all signs of the mauling inflicted by Rex, a husky-German shepherd, when Billy, then 7, stepped between it and Robbie Ellenberger, then 2.
"For two years he couldn't smile," said Billy's mother, Mrs. William Hines. "He was self-conscious. They called him Scarface."
"That dog was going to hurt Robbie," Billy said. He recalled that he had punched Robbie in a little red wagon, accompanied by their parents in a neighborhood store, when he lunged at Robbie. He said he jumped in and pushed Robbie away.
"The dog scratched my elbow and it hurt," Billy said. "The bit my face but I didn't feel that so much."
Robbie was unhurt.
Billy will have to go to hospital periodically until surgery is completed. That will be when he's 18.

Synthetic Marijuana Worries U.S. Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents are concerned about the possible appearance of man-made marijuana which is colorless and odorless but so powerful only two or three drops in a cigarette can produce the same kick as natural marijuana, the Washington Post said today.
"Smuggling in synthetic marijuana could make the $350 million a year heroin business look like peanuts," the paper quoted a narcotics agent as saying.
"And it would be easy," he added. "A little alcohol and some coloring and it could be brought in as after-shave lotion."

Williamston's Board Approves $594,000 Budget

WILLIAMSTON—A budget of $594,000 was approved Monday night by the Williamston Town Board for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The new budget will mean an increase in the tax rate of 48 cents. The new tax rate is $1.86 per $100 of valuation as compared with last year's rate of $1.38.

Town Clerk Bennie Godwin said that the bulk of the increase was due to salary hikes, general improvements and the new water line.

The commissioners approved the installation of a 12 inch water line to the city limits at a cost of $12,449 as the city's share of the line which will extend to the Jefferson Mills industrial site. The plant is currently being constructed just outside Williamston. The county will bear the expense of extending the water line from the city limits to the Jefferson Mills location.

Herring and Rivenbark Construction Co. of Kinston was awarded the contract for the water line.

In other business, the commissioners approved the filing of application for low rent public housing. The application will be sent to Atlanta for consideration.

Family Leaving For Lonely Isle

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP) — "I've always wanted to go out and do one thing myself" said Richard Ault, 30, a producer of radio commercials, as he, his wife and their four-year-old daughter boarded a freighter for a lonely South Sea island.

The Aults plan to live for one year on the island of Suvarov, an uninhabited strip of land three quarters of a mile wide and a mile and a-half long.

Ault said the trip was just a matter of proving "we can go out and live, isolated, without any help from the outside world."

The family plans to pick up 15 chickens at a stop on Tahiti and plant a garden for vegetables.

Speaking Thursday to some 300 delegates to the American Communist party convention, Hall denounced the new left for "petty bourgeois radicalism."

The delegates are meeting to pick the first Communist presidential ticket since 1940, when Earl Boder was the party's candidate.

The general secretary spoke for 105 minutes. The speech was closed to newsmen, but excerpts were handed out later.

In a news conference before his speech, Hall said there are Communists on most of the major campuses in this country and that they had been involved in the student protests.

The party's youth leader, Michael Zagarell, claimed the movement had played a leading role in student rebellions and antidraft demonstrations across the country this past year. In a statement before the closed session of the convention, Zagarell said that during "stop the draft week" in New York last December, 60 of the 300 marshals in the protest were Communist party members.

Zagarell said the party planned to focus on young industrial workers in the future.

Family Leaving For Lonely Isle

COOS BAY, Ore. (AP) — "I've always wanted to go out and do one thing myself" said Richard Ault, 30, a producer of radio commercials, as he, his wife and their four-year-old daughter boarded a freighter for a lonely South Sea island.

The Aults plan to live for one year on the island of Suvarov, an uninhabited strip of land three quarters of a mile wide and a mile and a-half long.

Ault said the trip was just a matter of proving "we can go out and live, isolated, without any help from the outside world."

The family plans to pick up 15 chickens at a stop on Tahiti and plant a garden for vegetables.

Speaking Thursday to some 300 delegates to the American Communist party convention, Hall denounced the new left for "petty bourgeois radicalism."

The delegates are meeting to pick the first Communist presidential ticket since 1940, when Earl Boder was the party's candidate.

The general secretary spoke for 105 minutes. The speech was closed to newsmen, but excerpts were handed out later.

In a news conference before his speech, Hall said there are Communists on most of the major campuses in this country and that they had been involved in the student protests.

The party's youth leader, Michael Zagarell, claimed the movement had played a leading role in student rebellions and antidraft demonstrations across the country this past year. In a statement before the closed session of the convention, Zagarell said that during "stop the draft week" in New York last December, 60 of the 300 marshals in the protest were Communist party members.

Zagarell said the party planned to focus on young industrial workers in the future.

'Satchmo' Marks 68th Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Louis Armstrong celebrated his 68th birthday Thursday by showing that the years haven't dulled the sound that made him famous.

Satchmo was honored at a luncheon given by Britain's Beaverbrook newspapers and proceeded to say "Thank you" by leading his all-stars in a swinging medley of "Hello, Dolly," "Wonderful World" and "Sleepy Time Down South."

"My life has been all around music," said Armstrong. "I am rejoicing today."

Local White Shrine Host To Visitors On Saturday

Greenville Shrine No. 7, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, was host to the North Carolina Virginia States Club, Order of White Shrine of Jerusalem, at the Masonic Temple Saturday evening.

During the hospitality hour, which began at 6:30 p.m. the visiting guests from Shrines in Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Burlington, Fayetteville, Raleigh, Durham, New Bern, Charlotte, Concord, Newport, Jacksonville, Arlington, Va. and Charlottesville, Va. were greeted in the lounge by Mrs. Julia Harris and Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Moore. They were registered and given name cards by Mrs. Nancy Willard and Mrs. Thelma Maxwell. A covered-dish supper was held at 7:30 p.m.

The dining room was decorated with magnolias and hydrangeas and greenery at the head table, with vases of mixed flowers adorning the other tables.

Harley L. Poe of Durham gave the invocation, and Mrs. Harris welcomed all present and introduced the distinguished guests.

The program, following the supper, began with vocal selections by John Goforth, a senior at ECU, followed by Whitney Hadden, an ECU sophomore, displaying his magic talent.

Mrs. Nancy Willard and T. I. Moore conducted several contests. An invitation was extended to members to attend the business meeting on Sunday morning at the Woman's Club. A coffee hour was held preceding the business session.

The club room was decorated with garden flower arrangements.

The meeting opened with a welcome by Mrs. Harris, worthy High Priestess. The American flag was presented, and the pledge of allegiance given. The Traveling Bible was presented and opened by the chaplain for the opening of the session.

A business meeting followed, conducted by Mrs. Lillie McClure of Charlotte, president of the club.

A count of attendance by visiting Shrines showed that Gate City No. 2 of Greensboro had the largest number present. They received the Traveling Bible, which they will use until the next meeting to be held in Hickory Nov. 3-4.

Williamston's Board Approves $594,000 Budget

WILLIAMSTON—A budget of $594,000 was approved Monday night by the Williamston Town Board for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The new budget will mean an increase in the tax rate of 48 cents. The new tax rate is $1.86 per $100 of valuation as compared with last year's rate of $1.38.

Town Clerk Bennie Godwin said that the bulk of the increase was due to salary hikes, general improvements and the new water line.

The commissioners approved the installation of a 12 inch water line to the city limits at a cost of $12,449 as the city's share of the line which will extend to the Jefferson Mills industrial site. The plant is currently being constructed just outside Williamston. The county will bear the expense of extending the water line from the city limits to the Jefferson Mills location.

Herring and Rivenbark Construction Co. of Kinston was awarded the contract for the water line.

In other business, the commissioners approved the filing of application for low rent public housing. The application will be sent to Atlanta for consideration.

Supervisor Of Nurses To Attend Institute

Mrs. Lenore M. Morton, supervisor of nurses of the Pitt County Health Department, will be attending a three-day institute on tuberculosis and other lung diseases at Black Mountain July 8-10.

Mrs. Morton will be sponsored by a scholarship from the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association in Pitt County.

The executive director of the Pitt County Association, Mrs. Tempe Clarke says the annual institute is a workshop that tries to provide an atmosphere for in-depth discussion of common problems facing all those involved in the treatment of tuberculosis and lung diseases.

"The objective of the institute is to offer a forum for an exchange of ideas and suggestions for solving the common problems that are faced by everyone involved with the detection and treatment of lung diseases," Mrs. Clarke commented.

According to Mrs. Clarke, the theme for the institute is "Current Issues in Tuberculosis Control." Dr. Francis J. Curry, assistant director of public health and director of chest disease clinics in San Francisco, Ca., will be the keynote speaker.

The institute is sponsored by the North Carolina Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association in cooperation with four state agencies and the University of North Carolina.

Friend Will Get Message If You Start Locking Your Door

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Is there a tactful way to handle a friend (not close) who never uses our doorbell, but always opens our front door, walks right in, and calls our name?

She does this consistently. We are very much annoyed, but quite puzzled as to how to let her know. We are not up tight people, but we do value our privacy.

INTRUDED UPON
DEAR INTRUDED: People who "value their privacy" usually lock their doors. Lock yours. Your friend will soon get the message.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is highly successful in his field, well educated, well traveled, and respected in this community BUT when he is present, no one else can get a word in.

I cannot recall ever having been in this man's company when he didn't take the floor and hold it all evening. Granted, he is charming and entertaining, but there have been times when other interesting guests could have added something worthwhile to the conversation. But this man's voice is the only one that's heard.

Just what does one do about a person like this?

IRKED
DEAR IRKED: In the absence of a "friend" to tell this boor that his manners need manicuring, an enemy will do. A guest who comes to the party and hogs all the conversation is no better than one who hogs all the food.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our three children (ages 8, 10, and 13) were invited to a relative's home for supper recently. She had one large table set for the adults and another one for the children.

My daughter, age 13, came to me and said she wasn't going to sit with the "babies." (Two of her 12-year-old cousins were sitting at that table and they didn't complain.) I told her not to make a fuss and to go sit down and be quiet. Being a very head-strong child, she raised her voice a bit and said she would rather go home. Well, I wasn't about to take her home and I couldn't let her walk home alone at night, so in order to avoid a scene I told her to go get her chair and to sit by me, which she did.

I dislike scenes in public and I still think I did the right thing. My husband said I should have told the spoiled little stinker to either sit where she was put or to go into the bedroom and sulk. What is your opinion?

BROOKLYN

DEAR BROOKLYN: With such a smart husband, why are you writing to Dear Abby?

DEAR ABBY: First let me explain that I am not some kind of nut, neither am I a sex maniac, which is what most people think when they learn that I am a nudist.

I took up nudism eight years ago and I can't say enough for it. It is the greatest equalizer in the world. At a nudist camp there is complete honesty. A person is what he is, and he can't fool anybody with fancy clothes. It takes a genuinely honest person to go before his fellow man just as God made him, willing to be judged strictly on his character, personality, and true self.

The sun is nature's best medicine. Why cover the body and diminish its healthful rays?

I am not trying to sell nudism to people who think it's "dirty." They wouldn't make good nudists anyway. I just want to say a few words in defense of some of the most misunderstood people in the world. Thank you.

Shower Given Miss Wilson

Miss Judy Wilson was entertained at a recent miscellaneous shower given by Miss Margie Scovil at the Delta Zeta sorority house.

The bride's table was centered with a floral sprinkling can arrangement.

Special guests present were Mrs. Harry E. Wilson, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Carl Wilson, Mrs. Lee R. Carawan and Miss Jenny Wilson.

Approximately 30 guests were present for the event.

Invest More In Dubious Facility?

If North Carolina has in the past made a mistake by investing so much in its Central Prison in Raleigh that it cannot abandon the outmoded facility, it should be careful not to compound that initial mistake with another.

Commissioner of Correction Lee Bounds has said the state should "try to live with" the century old prison in Raleigh because in recent years it has invested so much money in the structure that it can ill afford to merely write it off. Instead, Bounds declared, the state should now invest considerably more money in Central Prison to make it better and make it work.

Commissioner Bounds pointed out that the huge, high-walled prison could have been abandoned several years ago, but in recent years the state has invested an additional $22 million in its facilities and new buildings.

No one wants North Carolina to throw away any millions it has invested in improving facilities. But on the other hand, the state may be making a bad mistake worse by investing more good millions after bad millions.

One is bound to raise the question of the adequacy of Central Prison even if the state spends a few more millions in modernizing and revamping it. Will it suit the needs of the state a few years from now? By investing more money now will the state merely be postponing the day when it will have to abandon the facility in which it has invested considerably more than the $22 million that have gone into it in recent years?

Perhaps, as Commissioner Bounds said, North Carolina should attempt to "live with" its old prison by making sweeping improvements. In the long run, however, the state and its prisons system may be better off to accept now whatever loss would be involved in abandoning the old prison rather than pouring in more money and taking a larger loss at some future date.

The Radicals Proven Noisy, But Few Votes

President Charles de Gaulle only a short while ago seemed to be near the end of his long career. Student and leftist rioting had led to near paralysis for France and almost all observers agreed that the de Gaulle who had dreamed grand, perhaps impossible dreams for France had lost control of his country.

However, the old man rose to the occasion and with a poise politician's of this country must envy he took to the people his record and his honor. He warned them that his defeat could mean communism for France. Despite many archaic internal policies of the de Gaulle regime, the people of France reacted the way mankind has reacted everywhere when given a free choice. They rejected communism.

Perhaps de Gaulle was not correct in raising the threat of communism as a possible result of his defeat. But he convinced the French people that this was a threat and the strategy worked. The Gaullists virtually rose from the ashes and crushed the opposition at the polls.

There are, of course, lessons for the United States and other democracies in this startling French victory. In this time of student revolts by the radicals, when the new left violates rights of others and brazenly disregard the law, we find that similar groups had much less influence among the general populace of France than was originally believed. We feel that is true in America, too. Those who in recent months have grabbed the headlines by their disruptive activities do not represent the general thinking in America.

Politicians who cater to the radical groups hopes that they have discovered a new trend in American thinking would do well to study French political events of recent weeks.

Americans, too, when they clearly understand the issues, will reject any thinking that might lead down the road to oppressive communism. They will reject those who advocate anarchy and the reckless tearing down of accepted democratic institutions, as opposed to logical and beneficial change.

France is a far different nation from the United States, but there are lessons to be learned there and those who seek to lead America would do well to take notice.

Czech Liberals Under Pressure

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

The liberal reform movement in Czechoslovakia's ruling Communist party is facing increased Moscow pressure. An unrelenting Soviet attack, with singular openness, is supporting the conservatives who have a stake in the hard line and want no part of reform.

Moscow thus presents an odd spectacle these days. On its left, Red China blasts away at the Soviet leadership as a bunch of revisionists seeking to restore capitalism. At the same time, Soviet ideological artillery thunders at Prague, accusing those who stand for liberalization there of revisionism and of endangering the authority of Communist parties throughout the bloc.

The Kremlin seems intent on making it a long, hot summer for the Prague liberalizers. The pressure shows no sign of letting up. Almost daily the Soviet press carries suggestions only thinly veiled that Czechoslovakia is on the verge of counter-revolution and that something should be done about it.

The campaign continued into July with a big blast in Izvestia assailing those Czechoslovak writers who, it claimed, sowed distrust of the Soviet Union, downgraded the Soviet "liberation" role in World War II, endangered the authority of the Czech Communist party and belittled the party's role in the past 20 years.

A Prague radio correspondent in Moscow characterized all this as a "vast campaign." He took particular note of many meetings organized around the Soviet Union in support of the People's Militia in Czechoslovakia. That was organized 20 years ago when the Czechoslovak Communist party was taking over the country. It is armed. It has privileges it wants to protect, and it is considered the most hidebound of conservative Communist organizations in the country.

There have been suggestions from reformist Czechoslovaks that this military arm of the party should be demobilized or at least put under government control rather than the control of the party alone.

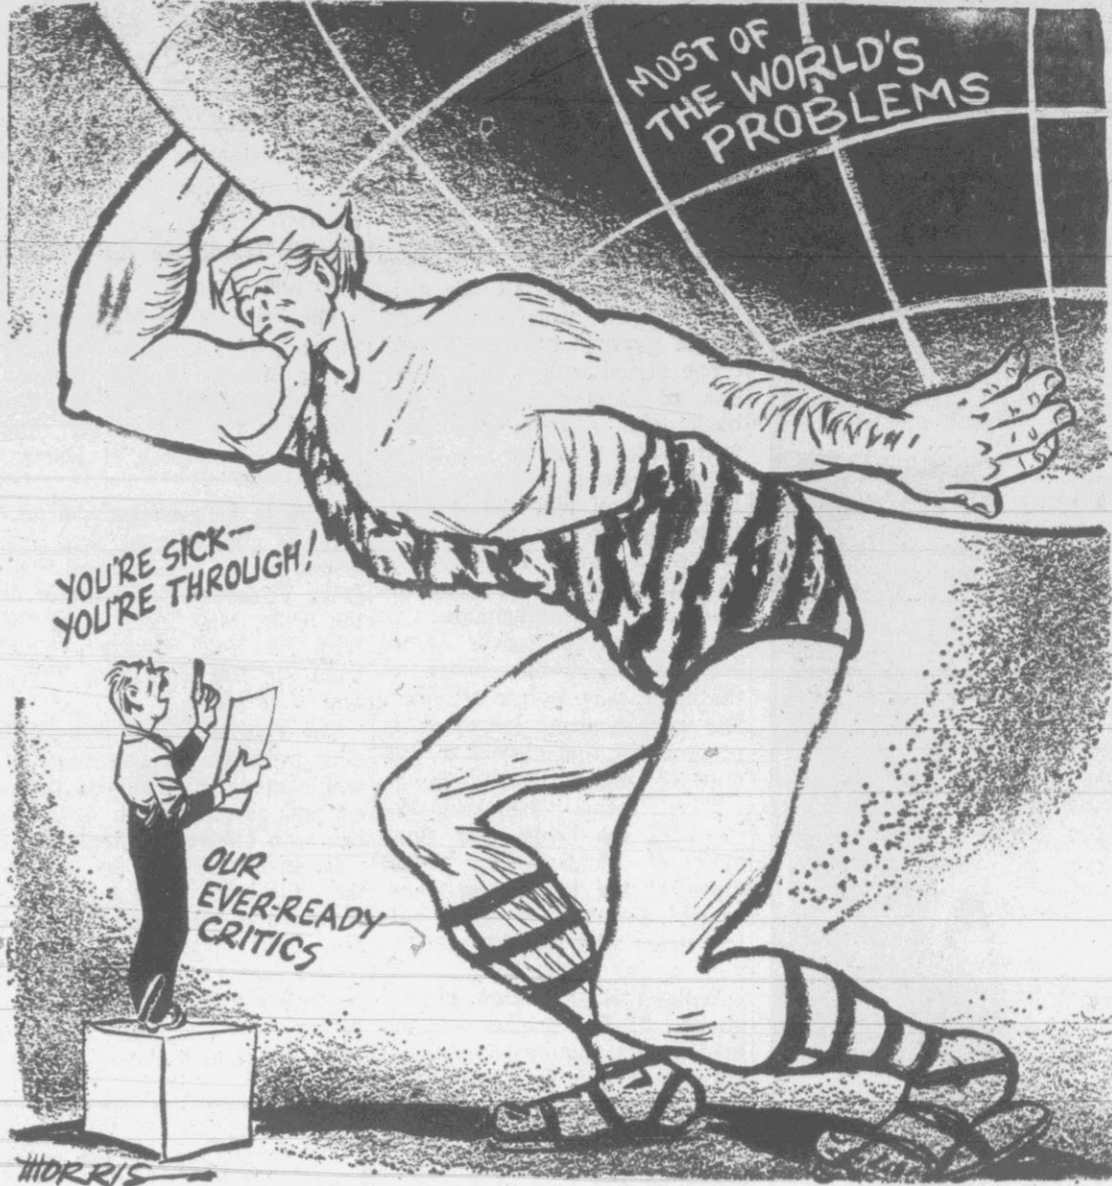

The campaign is echoed elsewhere in Communist Eastern Europe by attacks on "rotten bourgeois liberalism and abstract humanitarianism."

Explaining Our July 4

PARIS — Ambassador Mrs. Sargent Shriver held a July 4th party for 1,000 French students between the age of 8 and 17. They asked me, as a personal favor, if I would explain the American Fourth of July in terms the French students would understand. So I tried.

On July 4, 1776, a group of American students decided to overthrow the decadent colonial system of the bourgeois British. Called the "Enragees" of '76, the students had been furious for some time at the British educational system, the rules concerning dormitory hours for students and the insistence of the Establishment that only British tea be served in student cafeterias. The year before, a bunch of "Enragees" had taken the law into their own hands and, dressed as Indians, they had boarded a ship in Boston and dumped all the tea into the harbor. This infuriated the tea merchant who accused the Boston colonial police of being too permissive for not immediately shooting the looters and restoring law and order at the harbor. The British, reacting strongly

Other Editors Saying Recognition For Area

(Hertford Co. Herald)
When the announcement was made that beginning 1970 East Carolina University and North Carolina State University would begin a football series, the announcement represented far more than the playing of football games between two institutions.

The announcement represents a public recognition of one fine institution to another. For a long time East Carolina University in the eyes of so many people has been considered a "little" institution. The very fact that N. C. State and ECU are to play football contests at least serves to say to the people of North Carolina that the fine institution at Raleigh recognizes another fine institution in Greenville, and that by playing athletic contests a great and wholesome rivalry can be started.

In the 1965 session of the legislature when East Carolina University was seeking a two-year medical school, one legislator stood up to speak and he called East Carolina a "one-horse" school. The legislator was from Forsyth County, and when reminded that at the moment he was speaking East Carolina University had a greater enrollment of students than the two colleges in Winston-Salem, namely Wake Forest and Salem College, the legislator seemed greatly surprised.

The truth is that recognition for East Carolina is recognition for our own area and our own students here in our part of North Carolina.

to criticism, decided to put the students in their place at Lexington and Concord. But the dents were tipped off by a student anarchist named Paul Revere who rode through the New England towns on a horse warning the people that the flicks were coming.

When the British gendarmes heard about it they trumped up charges against Revere for stealing a horse, but he escaped and became a hero of the revolution.

In the meantime, the students had set up barricades at Bunker Hill and occupied the administration building and the library. The British flicks, dubbed "Red Coats," attacked Bunker Hill and, after much brutality, drove the "Enragees" out.

This act of stupidity on the part of the police turned the working class of the Colonies against the Establishment, and they sent a petition to King George III demanding that he resign.

George III refused, saying if he went there would be no one to take his place and there would be chaos and disorder in the land. He also hinted the French were behind the whole thing in an effort to embarrass him (at that time the British were attacking the French franc and buying up all the French gold).

When word was received that George III wouldn't give in on any of the "Enragees" demands, though he did promise to appoint a commission to study the violence at Bunker Hill the Committee of Revolutionists was formed with the express purpose of breaking off from the empire.

They met in the Student Union at Philadelphia. One of the leaders there, Thomas Jefferson, known as White Tom because the hair in his wig was all white, drafted a Declaration of Independence which was printed in the underground press of the time.

This made the British government officials so mad they called up the National Guard and vowed to wipe out the treasonous elements in the Colonies. But by this time the revolution had spread to all parts of the country and, under the leadership of a wide-eyed revolutionary,

Likely Man To Succeed White

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Reflector Raleigh Bureau RALEIGH — An educated guess is that if Democrats retain control of the 1969 General Assembly, as expected, young Sen. Herman A. Moore of Charlotte will be a co-chairman of the powerful Appropriation committee.

At least this is the present thinking and speculation in legislative and state governmental circles.

Moore, 38, a successful businessman, would succeed retiring veteran Thomas J. White of Kinston in the chairmanship generally regarded as the most influential and perhaps most important in the legislature. Certainly it was during White's tenure.

White held the post for an unprecedented span of three veterans.

This stroke put Moore in an enviable position to further his legislative career. He automatically became co-chairman of the interim Legislative Research Commission (LRC) with the Speaker of the House.

Energetically and imaginatively, Moore and Speaker Earl Vaughn have given the LRC new impetus, fresh ideas and a wide-ranging program of proposed legislative reform and improvement. This is in contrast to the dragging, slow moving interim "little General Assembly" of 1963-64 dominated by White, former Senate president T. Clarence Stone and a handpicked group of senators who originally opposed and attacked the idea of an interim legislative group.

Moore and Vaughn apparently met the old objectives by broadening and expanding the LRC committee system to include dozens of legislators serving on various study projects.

Moore and Vaughn apparently met the old objectives by broadening and expanding the LRC committee system to include dozens of legislators serving on various study projects.

White, of course, continued to run the committee and, together with his opposite number from the House, Rep. Gordan Greenwood of Blount Mountain, guided the joint Appropriations committee and its select subcommittee through the long months of the 1967 session. He found Moore a tireless, willing and capable lieutenant and the fact is that White began delegating more and more duties and important assignments to Moore. And finally, he had a great deal of commendation and regard for Moore.

For Moore to reach this position of power over the purse strings of North Carolina's $3 billion biennial budget will mark a meteoritic rise.

Three years ago, Moore was a newcomer in the General Assembly but was recognized in 1965 as a promising freshman. By the beginning of the 1967 session, he was ready to bid for the post of Senate president pro tem and won it virtually unopposed by older

E. G. Flanagan Returns From Trip To Texas

E. G. Flanagan, one of the Pitt County delegates to the national Democratic convention at Houston, Texas, returned to his home in the city last night. Being a Smith supporter, Mr. Flanagan expressed gratification of action at the convention in nominating the New York governor as the Democratic standard bearer. Bearing a striking resemblance to Governor Smith, the Greenville man found himself in the public spotlight a number of times. It was reported over Houston that Lindbergh was to bring Governor Smith to the convention by airplane. Mr. Flanagan walked into a hotel a short time after the report emanated throughout the city and was immediately the cynosure of all eyes. Everybody thought he was Smith except the people from back home. . . . It was reported that three women rushed up and embraced Mr. Flanagan, but this was vigorously denied. The newspapers carried a story of the incident. The camera men soon began trailing the man from Pitt county and he was one of the main figures at the convention. . . . A signal honor was conferred upon Mr. Flanagan at the closing day of the convention when he was selected by the state delegation to officially notify Governor Smith of his nomination.

goods. American exports to Taiwan jumped 57 per cent last year and are expected to rise even further. We are being reminded that the Chinese are darned clever.

The Great Advantage
Of course, the Republic of China has something going for it that mainland China has not: the free enterprise system. Under that system, the island republic is prospering at an amazing rate.

Taiwan received large amounts of American aid. But in June, 1965, the republic agreed to go it alone. American largesse ceased and Taiwan began financing its own imports. The economic growth flourished. The standard of living has been rising with prosperity.

The gross national product from 1964 through 1967 grew at an annual rate of 11 per cent. Oliver B. Bongard, commercial attaché of the U. S. embassy at Taipei, predicts that the gross national product may double in the next 10 years and that the population of 14 million may rise to 17 million.

A favorable investment policy has encouraged many American plants to locate in Taiwan. Capital may be repatriated and unlimited profits may be remitted. There is a five-year tax holiday for new plants, and labor is cheap.

It also exports so much canned mushrooms to the U. S. that Pennsylvania growers are asking that the U. S. government limit imports.

American Investors
Investors include Philco, Admiral, General Instrument, RCA, Singer, Procter and Gamble, Lederle, Pfizer, Eli

Lilly, Mattel and many others, including three banks.

The U. S., however, is not Taiwan's biggest customer. Japan, which is nearer and which has a lower wage scale, beats out America. However, Taiwan is still a good buyer of U. S. goods, last year importing $301 million worth, a 57 per cent increase over 1966.

Taiwan encourages the import of raw materials and machinery, but discourages the import of consumer goods.

Textiles is Taiwan's largest export. It also exports bananas, sugar, canned pineapple and asparagus, aluminum, plastics, fertilizer, electronic components and plywood. It manufactures refrigerators, motorcycles, electric rice cookers, fans, hot water heaters, radios and TV sets for domestic sale.

It also exports so much canned mushrooms to the U. S. that Pennsylvania growers are asking that the U. S. government limit imports.

John Bell's Party

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

JACKSON, Miss.—When a white-dominated caucus of Mississippi's 3rd Congressional District made history Tuesday (July 2) by voting 37 to 8 for Negro activist Charles Evers as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention, lieutenants of Governor John Bell Williams were seething.

Williams had wanted a delegation just barely complying with the requirements of the Democratic National Committee for bi-racial delegations and that didn't mean picking a tough, effective Negro leader of Evers's caliber. Indeed, the Governor had expressly ordered that no Negroes were to be selected as the 20 statewide at-large delegates handpicked by the Governor's aides for rubber-stamping by Tuesday's state convention here.

Thus, there was deep relief in the Williams camp when Evers announced on the convention floor that he simply could not go to the Chicago convention as one of only three black men (all elected in district caucuses) in a 42-member delegation.

That shows clearly what does and what does not worry John Bell Williams, pp1 Democratic party. He is greatly concerned that consorting with the likes of Evers might taint him in the eyes of this state's segregationist electorate; he has no concern whatever if his actions snap the fragile ties between regular Democrats here and the national party.

Accordingly the Governor's lieutenants did not take even a first step at the state convention to ease the seating of their regular delegation in Chicago. Although Vice President Humphrey's supporters who control the National Convention much prefer legitimacy to insurgency, they will be hard-pressed not to seat a bi-racial Mississippi challenge delegation led by Evers and Hodding Carter III, the white newspaper editor who heads the state's Young Democrats.

The implications could be profound. If seated at Chicago, the Evers-Carter group would become, in effect, the legitimate Democratic party of Mississippi. If a Democratic President is elected in November, the insurgents then surely would have a voice in Federal patronage. The cherished seniority of veteran Mississippians in Congress might even be clouded.

Actually, the prospect for a successful challenge in Chicago is more a product of John Bell's intransigence than carefully laid plans by the insurgents. With Evers and Carter both out of the state in recent weeks, no strategy existed on the eve of the state convention. Rather, a backstage debate was raging over whether to seek a deal with the regulars or to form a challenge delegation.

The decision was made to challenge and the details hammered out Monday night in Jackson's Negro Masonic Temple. At Carter's urging, plans for a walkout of insurgent forces from the state convention were dropped. Instead, they determined to fight all day Tuesday, laying the groundwork for the Chicago challenge.

The Governor's forces made it easy. Apart from naming

A Tradition Of Revolution In U.S. Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—American churches, sometimes accused of being revolutionary in their anti-war and civil-rights activities, helped plant that tradition in this country when it was founded 192 years ago this week.

Their doctrine that God-given human rights take precedence over powers of government formed the basis of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776.

"We hold...that all men are created equal," the signers declared, "that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights...that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it."

Among the 56 signers were 34 Episcopalians, six Presbyterians, one Baptist, one Roman Catholic, one Quaker and 13 Congregationalists, some of them ministers or sons of ministers.

"They believed that God-given natural laws were above the laws of government," says historian Richard B. Morris, of Columbia University. "To break allegiance to the king, they appealed to a higher law than the king, that of God."

It was this theological justification for the American Revolution that has set it apart from most other revolutions in the world's history, and which has given a distinguishing character to American politics ever since.

The churches, in the main, supported the revolt.

The three largest religious bodies in that period were Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Episcopalians, of Anglicans, each with about a half-million members.

Presbyterian and Congregational leaders were strongly pro-revolution. So were Episcopalians generally in their main regions—Virginia, Maryland and South Carolina—although clergy in New York and the Northeast opposed the revolution.

Among the smaller groups then, Baptists were strongly pro-rebellion. Lutherans and other German-origin churches were sharply divided, as were Catholics and Jews. Methodists were mainly loyal to the king.

Commenting on the usual July 4 celebrations, the Rev. Kenneth L. Wilson, managing editor of the Christian Herald, notes that patriotism usually is thought of "in terms of brass bands, beating drums, marching men."

"Patriotism seems practically always to be related to war, and yet war is possibly the worst of all times for patriotism," he adds. "War subordinates everything and everyone to its purpose. It demands and usually gets instant obedience."

He suggests a military band is not essentially more patriotic than a symphony orchestra, or even a rock 'n' roll combo, and says it seems odds that "we have simply not memorialized peace as we have memorialized war."

Viet Veterans Kept A Date

BOSTON (AP) — Five Vietnam veterans kept a date Thursday at the top of the 750-foot Prudential Tower.

They'd made the date two years ago while serving together. Their reunion "tickets" were the quarters of a dollar bill, carried by four, and a strip of tape to stick the pieces together again.

Lee Balzano, 24, of Concord, thought up the dollar bill angle, kept one piece, and gave the others to Stephen Mahoney of Everett, Stephen Harvey of Stoughton, and Rodney Julian of Brookline. John Ferolite of Marlboro, the fifth man, brought the sticking tape.

A building representative refunded the 50 cent charges they'd paid for the elevator trip to the tower.

Charge Mother Neglected Child

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 26-year-old Cumberland County mother was charged Thursday with child neglect a short time after her four-year-old son died of burns suffered in a fire in an outdoor privy.

Mrs. Bessie Mae Regan was placed under $1,000 bond for a hearing July 16 in the death of Tony Regan, who succumbed Thursday at Cape Fear Valley Hospital to burns suffered Wednesday night.

Sheriff's officers said the fire began while the six Regan children were playing with a candle and gasoline in the privy. They said the father, Walter Regan, and an uncle of the children, upon seeing smoke and flame, turned over the privy to allow the children to escape. Physicians said Tony was burned over 90 per cent of his body. Connie Regan, burned on 30 per cent of his body, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Officers said Mrs. Regan, employed by a textile mill at St. Pauls, was away from home with a friend when the fire broke out.

Church Council To Try 'Involve' Youth

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
Associated Press Writer

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The World Council of Churches assembly has formed a committee to study ways to give youth more representation in meetings and conferences.

The action was taken by assembly delegates Thursday following a minor protest incident.

Two youths picketed with a placard reading "silence" and were chased away by police. Another youth climbed a lamp post and was hauled down by watchful officers. The young people were apparently protesting lack of representation at the assembly.

Although the council has arranged for 150 church youths to attend they have no voting rights.

With Roman Catholic observers attending for the first time, the council assembly is the most widely representative gathering of Christians in history. It embraces 222 Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, janglican and national Catholic denominations that have more than 350 million members in 80 nations.

The assembly opened with a posthumous plea for fulfillment of ecumenical efforts, contained in a 2,000-word unfinished report by the late Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry.

Rev. Fry died June 6 after 14 years as head of the WCC.

The report said improved relations between the council and the Roman Catholic Church were the "overtowering event" of the last seven years.

But it conceded that "thorny problems" had been encountered in relations between the council and Roman Catholics. It also said efforts to establish relations with evangelical groups had met with "meager results."

ings and conferences.

The action was taken by assembly delegates Thursday following a minor protest incident.

Two youths picketed with a placard reading "silence" and were chased away by police. Another youth climbed a lamp post and was hauled down by watchful officers. The young people were apparently protesting lack of representation at the assembly.

Although the council has arranged for 150 church youths to attend they have no voting rights.

With Roman Catholic observers attending for the first time, the council assembly is the most widely representative gathering of Christians in history. It embraces 222 Protestant, Eastern Orthodox, janglican and national Catholic denominations that have more than 350 million members in 80 nations.

The assembly opened with a posthumous plea for fulfillment of ecumenical efforts, contained in a 2,000-word unfinished report by the late Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry.

Rev. Fry died June 6 after 14 years as head of the WCC.

The report said improved relations between the council and the Roman Catholic Church were the "overtowering event" of the last seven years.

But it conceded that "thorny problems" had been encountered in relations between the council and Roman Catholics. It also said efforts to establish relations with evangelical groups had met with "meager results."

Charge Mother Neglected Child

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 26-year-old Cumberland County mother was charged Thursday with child neglect a short time after her four-year-old son died of burns suffered in a fire in an outdoor privy.

Mrs. Bessie Mae Regan was placed under $1,000 bond for a hearing July 16 in the death of Tony Regan, who succumbed Thursday at Cape Fear Valley Hospital to burns suffered Wednesday night.

Sheriff's officers said the fire began while the six Regan children were playing with a candle and gasoline in the privy. They said the father, Walter Regan, and an uncle of the children, upon seeing smoke and flame, turned over the privy to allow the children to escape. Physicians said Tony was burned over 90 per cent of his body. Connie Regan, burned on 30 per cent of his body, was reported in satisfactory condition.

Officers said Mrs. Regan, employed by a textile mill at St. Pauls, was away from home with a friend when the fire broke out.

And so every July 4th the Americans celebrate the anniversary of the student revolution which changed the history of the world. The British don't talk about it, although Gen. no Negroes as either at-large delegates or members of the state Democratic executive committee, the convention refused to even consider Evers-Carter. Proposals for elimination of the unit rule or closer ties with the national Democratic party.

Most damaging, however, was the nature of the at-large delegates hand-picked by Williams. Like the Governor himself, they are unannounced supporters of George Wallace for President and, if actually seated in Chicago, would outvote white loyalists under the unit rule to deliver the entire Mississippi delegation for Wallace or a reasonable facsimile. In his fiery keynote speech Tuesday, John Bell hinted broadly he would back Wallace in November.

In fact, loyalist influence among the regulars is at a low ebb. The regular delegation to Chicago contain a long list of 1964 supporters of Barry Goldwater headed by Williams himself. Williams has replaced Bidwell Adam, an intellectual loyalist, as state chairman with ex-Goldwater booster Leon Bramlett.

the filing deadline for last Spring's primaries. White announced he would not seek reelection and the void this created was obvious immediately.

Since that time there has been continued speculation about who would succeed White not only as Appropriations chairman but as the "strongmen," a steady, guiding hand in the upper chamber. Eyes settled once more, already active in interim LRC work and experienced as Appropriations vice chairman.

The decision of course will be that of the lieutenant governor, who appoints all Senate committees and also presides over the Senate.

"From the way the press presents events," wrote a Yugoslav correspondent from Bulgaria recently, "it is clear that the socialist development in Czechoslovakia is feared here, and those aspects of the development are disapproved which Bulgaria's leadership dislikes and does not want to have at home."

A frequent target of Soviet anger is a leading figure in the Czechoslovak Writers Union, Jan Prochazka. Because of his liberal views, he is being attacked constantly as a revisionist, ignorant of Marxism-Leninism, who is against the working class "and its vanguard, the Communist party," and who is "yearning for the return of capitalism."

Another target is Cestmir Cisar, a party secretary and a spokesman for the new wave. To Pravda, he is a revisionist because he protested that during the Stalin era, only the Stalinist interpretation of Marxism-Leninism had been permitted in the Communist world.

River Of Burning Whisky Into Lake

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — A river of flaming whisky poured down a hill and into a lake as fire consumed a warehouse at the Waterfil-Frazier distillery Thursday night.

According to one estimate, as many as 5,000 barrels of whisky may have been burned in the blaze. Fire officials are trying to determine the cause of the blaze. There were no injuries.

A PREVIEW . . . Greenville residents can get a preview of things to come by riding down Second Street, between Colaniche and Pitt at night. That roadway has been paved — complete with curb and gutter — and mercury vapor lighting installed as part of the Shore Drive Redevelopment project now under way in the area. When completed, all streets in the project area will look similar to the Second Street section. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Plane Landed On City Street

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — An airplane towing an advertising banner carried its commercial message to the doorstep Thursday with an emergency landing on a street in a housing subdivision.

The plane was not damaged. No cars were nearby when the pilot, Ara Arakelian, 38, of Milwaukee, glided to a landing after his craft's engine stopped.

He told Racine County authorities the plane would be dismantled and removed.

THE AMATEUR HOBO

Answer to crisis: Run away from home! Run away from love to a world where hate often prevails. Run away from understanding to a city that seldom understands. Run from tomorrow's hopes into a desolate and hopeless today.

Sure, Son, there's something wrong at home — something more spiritual than physical would be our guess!

To live as a family we need foundation — something firm and sure — to be confident of when nothing is going our way. To live as a family we need meaning in our relationships; meaning that cannot be eclipsed by the emotions of the moment.

When church bells ring on Sunday morning, they are calling families to worship! Faith is the foundation of love, and understanding and hope. The teachings of Christ give deeper meaning to all relationships.

Can't guarantee you won't get a kickin' for running away. Can't guarantee you won't feel like running away again sometime.

But can guarantee this: When there's the religious foundation and meaning we're talking about, any crisis can be seen in clearer perspective . . . and solved more sensibly.

Electron Microscope, Computer Probe Atoms

ELECTRON MICROGRAPH — This photo, made by an electron microscope, shows the strings of deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) in the nucleus of cells and viruses. The magnification is about 90,000 diameters, each string is about 10 atoms wide. Scientists hope to be able to see an atom, within a year, with the aid of the instrument. (AP Wirephoto)

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Man's age-old desire to see an atom may be fulfilled in a year or so.

Two of the sharpest tools of modern science—the electron microscope and the computer—have been teamed up in a project to make this incredibly tiny building block of all matter visible for the first time.

First goal of the project is to unlock the secret of genes, the living blueprints of heredity which may enable biologists someday to control evolution.

If successful the same technique would tell physicists more about nuclear energy, the key to a long-promised Golden Age of almost limitless power.

Electron microscopes, capable of magnifying 500,000 times compared with the 1,000-magnification of microscopes using light, have already probed deep into complex molecules, showing how each is made up of thousands of atoms.

But the sharpest electron microscope image yet photographed does not quiet get down to the ultimate: the atom. Structures less than five atoms in diameter simply do not show up.

A technique for seeing better in the microcosmos of the very small is under study at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Dr. Robert Nathan, the scientist who worked out a way to use computers to improve spacecraft pictures of the moon and Mars, plans to link computers with electron microscopes and thus photograph a single atom.

"What we are doing now is studying the feasibility of such a technique," Nathan said in an interview, "building the hook-ups between the computer, the electron microscope and the camera."

"We expect to have much of this done in six months or so, and then we can get on with the proving of methods and actual research. It's always hard to say just how fast research will go but with luck we could be taking pictures of atoms in a year or so."

The reason optical microscopes can't see an atom is that light waves are too blunt. The distance from rough to crest, Nathan says, is about half a micron. A micron is a microscopic unit of measure in the metric system and there are one million of them in a meter, which is about 40 inches.

There is an even smaller unit of measure, known as the angstrom. An angstrom is one ten-thousandth of a micron. Nathan figures the size of an atom as about one angstrom, so a light wave is thousands of times thicker than an atom. An atom couldn't begin to reflect anything as big as a light wave.

But electrons are different. They are parts of atoms—they are the energetic particles which whirl around the nucleus of an atom. An atom can reflect a beam of electrons and so, theoretically, should be photographable by cameras sensitive to electrons instead of light.

Electron microscopes haven't yet been able to photograph an atom, Nathan says, because stains used to provide contrast between various structures in a molecule also cause distortion. The stain spreads among the atoms, blocking too many of the electrons and making the image fuzzy. If no stain were used, the true structure or at least the shape of the atom should become apparent.

Some of the best electron images made so far are of genes, long strings of deoxyribonucleic acid, DNA, in the nucleus of cells and viruses. These strings are believed to be entwined in double-spiral form in living tissue but in laboratory tests they flatten out like chains of beads tossed on a dresser top.

The beads in the chain are believed to be atoms strung together in a coded sequence, or biological blueprint, which determines what functions each cell performs. The exact pattern of atoms along the chain has never been determined but Nathan hopes he can find a way to do just that with images sharp enough to show each single atom.

Eventually this would help scientists trying to string atoms together artificially in such a way that they can direct the function of cells and thus control what a man will be and what his offspring will be.

"That's quite a way downstream, however," Nathan says. "Much sooner than that, I think, will come an ability to control disease and aging. That's how I got into this research, through an interest in aging. Certainly the secret of disease and aging must lie in the individual cell and how well it functions, and a better look at the DNA which controls the cell will help."

He knows a great deal about computers, an interest he developed in trying to improve pictures televised by Ranger moon-impact vehicles in 1964.

Nathan saw that unwanted "noise"—the scientists' word for static—was mingling with the signals from the spacecraft and distorting their pictures. He developed an intricate process using a computer to filter out the static.

Here's how it works: Signals from spacecraft cameras come in as numbers, with low numbers representing light shades of gray and higher numbers standing for darker shades of gray.

Nathan stores these numbers in sequence on magnetic tape and feeds the tape into a computer. Then he instructs the computer to pick out streaks of dots which don't seem to belong in the picture and to raise or lower the dots' numbers to a shade which does seem to belong. This filters out the noise and the pictures become sharper.

In taking pictures of atoms, Nathan will tell the computer to be even more precise and to amplify or reduce the delicate variations in shadings that distinguish one atom from another.

LINC Director Plans Resign For New Post

RALEIGH (AP)—Dr. Gordon McAndrew will resign as director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina July 15 to assume the post of superintendent of schools in Gary, Ind.

McAndrew was unavailable for comment on reports of his resignation Thursday because he was en route to North Carolina from Gary, but his wife confirmed that he had submitted his notice to the LINC Board of Directors.

Gov. Dan Moore, LINC board chairman, is traveling in Italy, and the board is expected to await his return before naming McAndrew's successor.

McAndrew headed the North Carolina Advancement School in Winston-Salem before accepting the assistant directorship of LINC, which formerly supervised the experimental school for underachievers. He was elevated to the directorship of LINC to succeed Harold Lowe II, who was named U.S. commissioner of education.

McAndrew and another former Advancement School head, Peter Buttenweiser, were at the center of a controversy last fall when State Auditor Henry Bridges revealed the men had deposited school funds in their personal bank accounts.

McAndrew took a leave of absence from his LINC post while the institute's board investigated the school's finances, but he was reinstated after both men documented they had spent more money on school functions from their personal accounts than they had deposited from school sources.

Shortly after the incident, McAndrew turned down an offer to become superintendent of the Washington, D.C., school system because he said the city's governmental structure would inhibit educational innovation and reform.

Firebombings In Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Three firebombings were reported and scores of windows were broken by more than 100 youths—most of them Negroes—on the Minneapolis South Side Thursday night.

The trouble started about 10:30 p.m. after a Fourth of July fireworks display at a city park. One hour after the initial outbreak, police set up a command post near the trouble area.

The firebombing occurred as the crowd split in two directions, tying up traffic for several blocks.

Glass littered the streets in the areas as some of the youths in the crowd swung boards at the headlights and windows of the cars.

Windows in a number of houses in the area were broken.

A spokesman at General Hospital said 23 persons were treated for minor injuries.

The trouble came about 24 hours after demonstrators clashed with police and with a crowd gathered to hear former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in downtown Minneapolis Wednesday night.

New Supervisor At Local Office

Grady R. Galloway, executive director for the N.C. State Commission for the Blind, announced today the appointment of Mrs. Emily M. Johnston as supervisor of the Greenville District Office.

Mrs. Johnston will continue her work as district medical supervisor as well as functioning as office manager of the Greenville office.

Mrs. Johnston is a native of Halifax County and came with the commission in 1953. She has been working in the Greenville area for 15 years and has been recognized by her fellow workers for outstanding work. She is a graduate of N.C. Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, and received her public health certificate at Peabody and Scarritt College in Nashville, Tennessee. She has also attended School of Public Health at the University of N.C. at Chapel Hill.

Prior to coming with the N.C. State Commission for the Blind, Mrs. Johnston worked with the Pitt County Health Department for several years. Mrs. Johnston has been recognized by Galloway for outstanding work with the commission.

Farmville Board 'Blurred Picture' Of Votes To Raise Central Park Sniper Town Tax Rate

FARMVILLE—The Farmville commissioners voted to raise the tax rate for the town 10 cents last Tuesday after much debate.

The tax hike will up the rate to $1.20 per $100 of valuation. It was carried by a vote of 3-1 with Commissioner W.C. Garner casting the negative vote.

The 10 cent increase will raise the town's revenue by an estimated $10,500.

In other business, the commissioners authorized town clerk Carl Beaman to have the King and Eason property on N. Contentnea streets appraised and to investigate the feasibility of purchasing the property.

The Eason property has been offered to the commissioners at a price of $14,000. The land will be used for off-street parking if purchased, or a new town hall, if additional property is available for purchase.

The commissioners purchased the Rollins Building on E. Wilson Street for $8,700. Plans call for demolition of the present building to widen the present ten foot alley beside the Rollins Building.

In other business, the commissioners voted to make sewer charge to utility customers in the amount of 50 per cent of the water bill.

Electrical power charges will be reduced by about $10,000 and sewer charge will bring in an increased revenue of $30,000 annually.

NEW YORK (AP) — A 1966. More recently he worked for a Queens book and magazine distributor, earning about $70 a week until he walked off the job Tuesday.

Dikov and other friends of Angelof said the sniper was usually a quiet man, but would suddenly become moody. One friend said Angelof had recently come into a large sum of money as the result of a law suit, the details of which were not known.

Police said Angelof layid Lilah Kistler, 24, in a Central Park restroom and after shooting her to death climbed to the roof of the building. During a gun duel with police, he shot Charles Bach, 80, and seriously wounded him. Two policemen suffered minor injuries.

Had 'A Feeling' All Not Right

BONN, Germany (AP) — Wet German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger says he felt "something not quite right" was happening to the Jews in Nazi Germany near the end of World War II.

"But it was not until after the war that I got to know about the whole magnitude of this operation," the former deputy head of the radio propaganda department in the Third Reich Foreign Ministry told a war crimes trial judge Thursday.

Kiesinger said at first he had discounted allied charges about Nazi mass extermination of Jews as "nothing but atrocity propaganda."

"It was simply inconceivable to me that such terrible things were happening," he said.

Kiesinger was summoned as a witness in the trial of two Third Reich diplomats, Adolf Beckerle and Fritz Gebhard von Hahn. It was the first time a West German government chief had appeared before a trial court, and the court came specially from Frankfurt to take his testimony.

Beckerle, Hitler's onetime ambassador to Bulgaria, is charged with the deportation and assistance in the murder of 11,343 Jews. Von Hahn, his former assistant, is accused of complicity.

Charge Driver In Car Collision

Ann Harris Joyner, 20, of 401 Village Dr., was charged with following too closely yesterday by police following investigation of a 2:53 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth Street and Bancroft Avenue.

Officers said the Joyner auto collided with a car driven by Thomas Clinton Baker, 35, of 204 East First St., Ayden.

Damage to the Baker car was set at $150 while damage to the Joyner vehicle was placed at $200.

Police said a passenger in the Joyner vehicle received minor injuries in the crash.

Hand Is Mangled By Cherry Bomb

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A man's right hand was mangled Wednesday when he picked up a cherry bomb someone threw into his moving car.

Police said W. J. Lowder, 71, of Denver, was driving on Interstate 70 when the cherry bomb was thrown. It exploded when Lowder picked it up.

He was reported in satisfactory condition in Denver General Hospital.

In the Pops' All-Star game, the Tar Heel League took the lead in the first inning, getting three runs. Red Hawley singled and Seth Jones reached on an error. Ronald Vincent then slammed a homer for the 3-0 lead.

In the fourth, the Tar Heels came back with seven more runs. Randy Whitehurst reached on an error and Hawley also was safe on a miscue. Jones reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Whitehurst, and Vincent slammed another homer. Tommy Jordan singled and Jim Lesley homered. Bill Weston reached on an error, advanced on another and scored on Whitehurst's single.

The fourth saw three more score. Jones homered, and after Bill Clifton doubled, Lesley homered again.

The final run came in the sixth, when Lesley slammed another homer.

The lone North State run came in the sixth. Nelson Best singled, moved up on an error and a fielder's choice, and scored on another by Harold Creech.

The North Staters managed only two hits off the pitching of Lesley, the Tar Heel hurler. Tar Heels — 307 301—14 14 1 North State — 000 001—1 2 5

Detroit, California Celebrate 4th With Old Fashioned Slugfest, 13-10

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Great Hit Famine took a back seat Thursday to an old fashioned Fourth of July fireworks show of home runs in Detroit.

Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Don Mincher took turns hitting baseballs out of sight and when they were through, the Tigers had a 13-10 slugfest victory over California.

It was the fourth straight triumph for the Tigers and ninth in the last 10 games, giving them an 8½ game lead over the rest of the American League.

Northrup and Cash had two homers each for the Tigers and Mincher two for the Angels. Willie Horton and Bill Freehan also connected for Detroit and Jim Fregosi for California as the two teams used up 11 pitchers.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings, Cleveland dropped Minnesota 6-3, Boston defeated Oakland 7-2 and Washington whipped New York 4-2.

In the National League, Chicago split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning 6-2 before losing 7-4. New York split a pair with Pittsburgh, taking the second game 4-3 after losing the opener 3-2. San Francisco whipped Atlanta 6-4, St. Louis edged Los Angeles 3-2 and Cincinnati defeated Houston 7-4.

The Angels scored four fast runs in the second inning with Mincher tagging his first homer and it looked like it might be a good day for Bill Rigney's club.

But the Tigers bounced right back with their biggest inning of the year, scoring nine runs in the bottom of the second with homers by Cash, Freehan and Horton leading the attack.

Northrup had a two-run triple and Dick McAuliffe a two-run double in the big inning. Cash and Northrup hit consecutive homers in the sixth and Northrup slammed a two-run shot in the eighth.

The six homers tied a Detroit club record and gave the team 93 homers for the year—26 of them against California.

Brooks Robinson tagged a pair of homers for the Orioles but Baltimore didn't beat the White Sox until the 12th when Fred Valentine led off with a triple and then stroled home following two intentional walks and one unintentional one.

Chicago had tied the game with two out in the ninth and Pete Ward on first when Bill Voss was hit in the head by a pitch and Duane Josephson followed with a double. Voss suffered a fractured right cheekbone.

Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky ordered Mark Belanger and

Dave Johnson intentionally walked following Valentine's triple in the 12th. Then Don Buford drew the third walk that forced Valentine home.

Ed Stroud slashed two doubles and two triples and scored twice, leading Washington past the Yankees. The four hits gave Stroud 11 hits in 21 at bats against the Yankees this season.

Stroud's first double set up Washington's first run and his second two-bagger touched off a two-run Senator rally in the sixth. He tripled and scored on Cap Peterson's single in the eighth.

Reliever Juan Pizarro drove in two runs and pitched one-hit ball for 6 2-3 innings, striking out seven, helping the Red Sox whip Oakland. Pizarro took over in the third for Jose Santiago, whose sore elbow forced him to retire. Santiago has been replaced on the All-Star team by Boston teammate Gary Bell.

Al Worthington's wild pitch allowed Cleveland's tie-breaking run to score and then Joe Azcue doubled two more runs across as the Indians dropped the Twins. Dean Chance was leading 3-2 going into the eighth but singles by Vern Fuller, Lee Maye and Russ Snyder tied the score. A wild pitch by reliever Ron Perranoski and an intentional walk to Lou Johnson set the stage for Worthington's wild pitch and Azcue's hit.

Strike Will Wait And See

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The strike—if there is one—of the National Football League Players Association now has reached the wait-and-see stage.

"Nobody is on strike now," veteran tackle Alex Karras said in Detroit.

"We won't know until Sunday when San Francisco goes into camp if there's a strike at all. "All of the players will be on strike if there is no settlement before next week."

John Gordy, president of the Players Association, is maintaining official silence, but scores of players have said they received telegrams from him ordering them not to report until negotiations can be worked out with the owners.

The only official comment since the break-up of a meeting between player representatives and an owners group last weekend came from Art Modell, NFL president.

He said the players had rejected the owner's offer, particularly in the area of improved pension benefits. They apparently agreed on most, if not all, other points. San Francisco has the first camp opening—for rookies Sunday. Rookies are not members of the Players Association.

Nineteen veteran members of the 49ers, including Howard Mudd, Bruce Bosley, Ken Wilbard and Joe Cerne, said they would not report at that time.

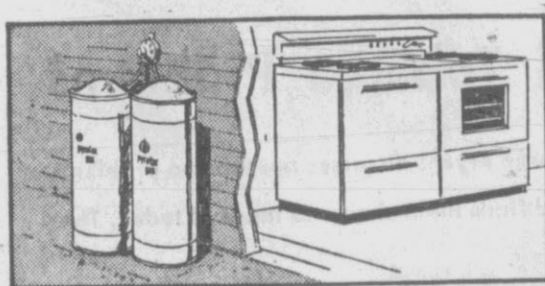

Veterans were scheduled to report the following week. Detroit opens its rookie camp July 9, with Detroit and Green Bay scheduled the following day.

San Francisco owner Lou Spadida, however, said he did not think a strike would take place. "I'm optimistic that it can be settled quickly," he said.

Gordy, however, has declined comment on whether future talks between player representatives and owners are scheduled.

Salem Stretches Carolina Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Salem Rebels stretched their Carolina Baseball League winning streak to eight Thursday night with a ninth inning victory over the Lynchburg White Sox 2-1.

The Lynxox scored in the seventh and were on the brink of a 1-0 victory when Will Hammond of the league-leading Rebels smashed a 390-foot home run over the center field fence to drive in two runs.

Winston-Salem scored five times on two home runs to defeat High Point-Thomasville 12-6 and sweep a July 4th doubleheader. The Red Sox took the opener 2-0.

Pitcher Mike Nagy helped win his own game in the nightcap with a three-run home run in the second inning.

Wilson and Rocky Mount split a twin bill with Rocky Mount taking the opener 1-0 and dropping the nightcap 2-0.

Raleigh-Durham, sandwiching play between rainfalls, took a 5-4 decision over Kinston in a late-night finish.

Rain caused postponements of a doubleheader between Burlington and Greensboro and a single game between Peninsula and Portsmouth.

WINS FIRECRACKER 400 — Cale Yarborough drives his 68 Mercury at the finish of the Firecracker 400 yesterday at the Daytona Speedway to win the 160-lap race. (AP Wirephoto)

Yarborough Predicts He'll Hit 190 Next Year In Qualifying At Daytona

By FRANK MURRAY
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For William Caleb Yarborough speed is a way of life—the normal, slow way of doing things just doesn't agree with this son of a South Carolina tobacco farmer.

Yarborough—just "Cale" to fans of late model stock car racing—fractured the auto racing record book Thursday when he breezed to a 167.247 miles an hour victory in an accident-free Firecracker 400.

That's about 14 miles an hour faster than it has ever been done before and eclipses all-time race records at Daytona and even Indianapolis.

Cale's reaction? A smile on his boyish face and a prediction that he'll snap the magic 190 m.p.h. mark in qualifying here next February if the rules aren't changed on him.

But it is not just at the wheel of his Mercury—which easily outpaces the two-engine plane Cale pilots—that Cale Yarborough dwells on speed.

The 29-year-old has a young dry cleaning business even that sideline business pushes speed under the name "60-Minute Dry Cleaners."

His pit crew tops the 22-gallon gas tank and changes two tires in about 18-seconds, fast enough for Cale to turn the trick Thursday four times without giving away a lead or a lap. He was out front for 142 of the 160 laps. He has 1968 winnings of $96,781. Despite his 5-foot-7, 115-pound build, Cale also is fast on his feet. In high school back in his home town of Timmonsville, S.C., Cale was an all state full-back and went on to play semi-pro ball.

If being first has become a habit for Cale, being second is becoming almost as much of a habit for Lee Roy Yarborough of Columbia, S.C.—no relation but driver of a Mercury that is twin to Cale's.

Lee Roy was second at the Daytona 500 in February, the Atlanta 500 in April and again Thursday in the Firecracker 400.

which Cale called "the easiest big race I've ever won."

Yarborough was two laps back at the Firecracker finish but still captured $8,595 for his trouble.

The Yarborough-Yarborough Mercurs continued Ford Motor Co.'s domination over the Plymouth-Dodge entries although each side on the corporate battle took five slots of the top 10.

Mercurs were one-two with David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., in a Ford finishing third.

Darel Dieringer, Charlotte, N.C., was fourth in a Plymouth but Dwayne "Tiny" Lund of Cross, S.C., put Ford back on the plus side with his Mercury in fifth.

Dodge took the next four slots with Paul Goldsmith Munster, Ind., sixth; Bud Moore, Charlotte, N.C., seventh; Bobby Isaac, Catawba N.C., eighth, and pole-sitter Charlie Glotzbach, Georgetown, Ind., ninth.

Jim Hurtubise of North Tonawanda N.Y., rounded out the first 10 in a Mercury.

Of the field of 37 that began the race before a crowd estimated at 44,600, 24 cars were running when Yarborough crossed the finish line.

WIMBLEDON England (AP) — The professional tennis stars, only partly successful at the first-ever open Wimbledon, may press for bigger prize money next year.

George MacCall, the promoter who runs the National Tennis League, said its organization would have lost $20,000 by entering its stars in the Wimbledon tournament—even if they had cleaned up all the prize money.

One of MacCall's stars, Australian Rod Laver, plays in today's final. None of the other five reached the quarter-finals.

MacCall said: "We have to support Wimbledon, which is a symbol of world tennis. But we can't go on supporting Wimbledon at a loss."

MacCall reportedly has suggested that next year prize money should be distributed among professionals—and registered amateurs playing for prize money—according to the order in which they finish. At present, if an amateur wins the prize money goes back into the kitty.

The All-England Club, which runs the Wimbledon tournament, offered $62,400 in prize money altogether. At present, it looks as if almost half of it will not be paid out because amateurs did better than many of the pros.

In today's men's singles final Laver faced Tony Roche, another Australian who is a member of the rival "Handsome Eight" troupe. They are battling for a first prize of $4,800 with $3,120 going to the runnerup.

The two defeated semifinalists were American amateurs—Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., and Clark Graebner of New York—so the tournament officials saved a total of $3,600 there.

There's also a 50-50 chance that the women's first prize of $1,800 will go back into the pot.

The final will be played Sunday between the defending champion, Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach Calif., who is under contract to MacCall and is going for the prize, and Australian amateur Judy Tegart who is competing for expenses only.

Mrs. King overcame her old professional rival, Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 Thursday.

Miss Tegart upset United States Wightman Cup star Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 6-3, 6-1.

Funseth, Baird In Buick Open Lead

By BILL HALLS
GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — A couple of journeyman pros with only two PGA tournament victories between them shared the lead going into today's second round of the $125,000 Buick Open Golf Tournament.

Rod Funseth of San Jose, Calif., and Butch Baird of Carlton Oaks, Calif., carved four-under-par 68s out of the long-playing 7,001-yard par-72 Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club course Thursday.

Bunched tightly one stroke off the pace were long-hitting Marty Fleckman, South African Harold Henning, Rod Horn of Overland Park, Kan., and Don Fairfield of Palm Springs, Calif.

Defending champion Julius Boros and U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino were with a group of 10 others two strokes behind the leaders.

Baird, a 31-year-old, nine-year veteran of the pro tour, had a chance to grab the lead on his closing hole but turned in his only bogey of the day to back into a tie with Funseth.

Baird, who earned his way through college by working in Texas oil refineries, had sunk a breaking 18-foot birdie putt on his 17th hole to go five under par. But he three-putted the 415-yard, par 4 ninth closing hole for a bogey after his second shot luckily hit a tree and fell 65 feet from the cup.

Funseth, 35, in his eighth year on the tour, has been known as a long-hitting, but erratic, golfer.

"I didn't lose my temper and started making a few puts," said the soft-spoken Californian whose only victory came in the 1965 Phoenix Open.

"My first rounds have been bad rounds but I've been in the money in the last four tournaments. I'm in a better position starting out this time."

Williams Sure Of One Thing

By DAVE O'HARA
BOSTON (AP) — Manager Dick Williams of the Boston Red Sox is sure of only one thing when he leads the American League against the National League in the All-Star Game at Houston Tuesday night.

Williams is certain he will have seven pitchers. What pitching condition they'll be in only time will tell.

"We'll be well represented at Houston," Williams said Thursday after being told of a statement by Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers.

McLain, the league's only 15-game winner, said Wednesday night that the Detroit pitching rotation calls for him to go Sunday. He said if he pitches then he will be unable to pitch in the All-Star Game.

"We'll make adjustments. I'm sure, but this is something I think should be handled by Mr. Cronin's office," Williams said. He referred to AL President Jie Cronin, who was not available for comment.

Williams said that as of the moment Luis Tiant of Cleveland will be the starting pitcher. He added, "However, it all depends on who pitches Sunday. The type of games pitchers are in and how long they go."

Williams had to make a shift in his All-Star staff Thursday when his ace, Jose Santiago, had to leave a game with Oakland in the third-inning because of tendonitis in the right elbow.

Giants Put Skids To Aaron To Take Victory Over Atlanta Nine By 6-4

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The All-Star voters, Hank Aaron said about his selection to the National League team, must have voted the first day of the season.

Aaron showed again Thursday why he made that quo.

Atlanta's erstwhile batting terror grounded into double plays his last two times at bat as the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Braves 6-4 and tied them for second place.

Aaron's lack of hitting has been evident all season. True, he has hit 15 home runs, second best in the league, and driven in 43 runs, sixth in the NL.

But a large portion of those RBI has not significantly aided the Atlanta attack, and he's hitting an incredibly low .231. That compares with his .316 lifetime average, tops among active players.

Still his fellow players voted him into the starting line-up for the All-Star game in Houston next Tuesday.

Against the Giants Thursday, the 34-year-old Aaron singled in the fifth inning, stole second and scored on Joe Torre's single.

But it was a different story each of the other four times he batted, especially the last two.

Coming to the plate in the seventh with Felipe Alou at first base, and the game tied 4-4, Aaron grounded a Frank Linzy pitch to shortstop Hal Lanier, who promptly turned it into a double play.

By the ninth inning the Braves were trailing 6-4, but they rallied and loaded the bases with one out on a walk to Mike Page and singles by Alou and Cleve Boyer.

Up stepped Aaron needing only a single to tie the game. Instead he bounced back to Linzy, who flipped to Dick Dietz at the plate for one out, and Dietz fired to first for the final out.

In other NL games, St. Louis edged Los Angeles 3-2, Pittsburgh nipped New York 3-2 before losing 4-3, Philadelphia downed Chicago 7-4 after losing 6-2 and Cincinnati defeated Houston 7-4.

While Linzy was stifling Aaron's bat, the Braves couldn't do anything with Dietz. The Giant catcher drove in four runs with a two-run double in the first and a two-run homer in the seventh that snapped the 4-4 deadlock. Bobby Bonds contributed a two-run single to the Giants' attack.

Mike Shannon's two-run homer in the eighth broke a 1-1 tie and sent the league-leading Cardinals to their fourth straight victory over Los Angeles. Len Gabrielson made it close for the Dodgers with a homer in the bottom of the inning.

Eighth-inning doubles by Don Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski carried Pittsburgh past New York in the first game and handed Jerry Koosman his fourth loss against 11 victories. Koosman drove in one of the Mets' runs with a single. Maury Wills stole three bases for the Pirates in the game.

The Mets came back in the nightcap behind Don Bosco, who socked a two-run homer in the third, then doubled and scored in the fifth. Cleon Jones added a homer for the Mets.

Billy Williams ended an 0-for-15 slump by igniting a three-run rally for Chicago in the fourth inning of the opener with a singled and then homering in the fifth. Dick Nen hit a two-run homer for the Cubs in the eighth.

Williams smashed a three-run homer in the second contest, but Philadelphia broke a 3-3 tie with four runs in the seventh. Doubles by Roberto Pena, Johnny Briggs and Clay Dalrymple powered the outburst. Jif James got his first major league victory.

Alex Johnson and Mack Jones each drove in three runs in Cincinnati's victory over Houston. Johnson singled across one run and Jones two in the three-run uprising in the ninth that was the difference.

Patterson Signs With Jim Ellis

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Floyd Patterson gets a chance in September to become a heavyweight boxing champion for the third time.

The New Yorker signed Thursday to meet Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., Sept. 14 for the World Boxing Association version of the heavyweight title.

The fight will be held in the 52,000-seat Raasunda soccer stadium with Ellis defending the WBA crown he won last April by defeating Jerry Quarry in Los Angeles.

That was the final of the WBA elimination tourney to determine a successor to Cassius Clay.

Clay was stripped of title recognition by the WBA and the New York Athletic Commission when he refused military induction into the U.S. armed forces.

Air Force Pressing Massive Bomber Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Two enemy anti-aircraft missiles were fired at U.S. Air Force B52 bombers attacking North Vietnam's southern panhandle Thursday, the U.S. Command reported today.

Spokesman said none of the eight-engine bombers was hit. The B52s have been fired upon before by the Soviet-made missiles on raids in North Vietnam's southernmost section, but none ever has been hit so far in the war.

The B52s began a massive bombing campaign Monday against enemy artillery sites and storage areas in the panhandle and the northern part of the demilitarized zone. Since then they have flown 28 raids in the area.

The giant bombers are considered vulnerable to the enemy high-altitude missiles. U.S. fighter-bombers—faster, smaller and lower-flying—ordinarily attack known enemy missile sites before the B52s head for the DMZ or North Vietnam, and the B52s generally try to steer clear of these sites.

The fighter-bombers attacked one missile site 13 miles above the DMZ Thursday and pilots reported their bombs touched off four fires. They flew 141 missions today against supply lines in the panhandle.

The B52s returned today to pounding enemy bases around Saigon in a massive allied campaign to head off a threatened attack on the capital. They flew five missions 28 to 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

On the ground, allied troops uncovered two more important enemy arms caches today, bringing the number found since Wednesday to five.

"We're getting better intelligence," a U.S. spokesman said. "We're getting it (the weapons) at the base camps before it can be moved."

Maj. Gen. John J. Hay, commander of U.S. troops in the capital military district has said the only way to prevent attacks on Saigon is to seize enemy weapons before they can be moved into firing position.

One of the latest discoveries was made by U.S. 1st Division infantrymen in a complex of five bunkers and 150 feet of tunnels 33 miles north of Saigon.

The cache contained 110 bazooka-type rockets, seven rocket launchers, an 82mm mortar and 24 shells for it.

South Vietnamese infantrymen turned up a cache 180 miles northwest of Saigon which government spokesmen said contained five 100-pound Russian rockets of the type used to shell Saigon in recent weeks; 91 rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle shells and three smaller-range bazooka-type rockets. About 30 miles northwest of Saigon, other 1st Division troops gingerly probed boobytrapped enemy bunkers where they already had found a cache of more than 35 of the big Russian 122mm rockets plus more than 1,000 bazooka-type rockets.

In South Vietnam, U.S. infantrymen gingerly probed boobytrapped enemy bunkers today as part of a massive search for weapons that could be used for an attack on Saigon. Troops of the 1st Division uncovered the enemy bunker complex, which contained the third enemy rocket cache found in the last two days, while screening infiltration routes and supply distribution points 30 miles northwest of the capital Thursday.

An initial search turned up more than 35 of the 100-pound Russian 122mm rockets which have bombarded Saigon in recent weeks, plus more than 1,000 smaller bazooka-type rockets. A more thorough search was under way today, but military spokesmen said it was hindered by a large assortment of booby traps.

The cache is only 10 miles from a big U.S. base at Dau Teng, which came under a 500-round rocket and mortar attack earlier Thursday. Cooks, clerks and drivers helped infantrymen repel enemy commandos in a 2½-hour battle at the base. Two other rocket caches were seized six miles east of Saigon Wednesday and Thursday. These included both 122mm rockets and Chinese 107mm rockets, which weigh about 50 pounds.

In other action Thursday, U.S. Marines suffered four killed and 13 wounded in a 40-minute engagement with about 150 North Vietnamese troops. The Marine company was covering the withdrawal from the Khe Sanh combat base when the enemy attacked with small arms, machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades. A U.S. spokesman said 17 enemy bodies were found after the battle. South Vietnamese infantrymen reported killing 22 enemy soldiers on the eastern flank of the demilitarized zone, near Gio Linh. Spokesmen said government losses were one killed and two wounded.

Also along the DMZ, enemy gunners shot down a helicopter from the 101st Air Cavalry Division, killing three of the four crewmen and wounding the other.

American troops were alerted against possible terrorist attacks in Saigon and there was little Fourth of July celebrating. The holiday was officially marked only at the U.S. Embassy where Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker held a reception.

London Bridge Stones Arrive

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — America's independence from England was observed by longshoremen by picking up the pieces of London Bridge.

The workmen unloaded 850 tons of stones from the historic Thames bridge which is being hauled to Lake Havasu City, Ariz., for reassembling over the Colorado River.

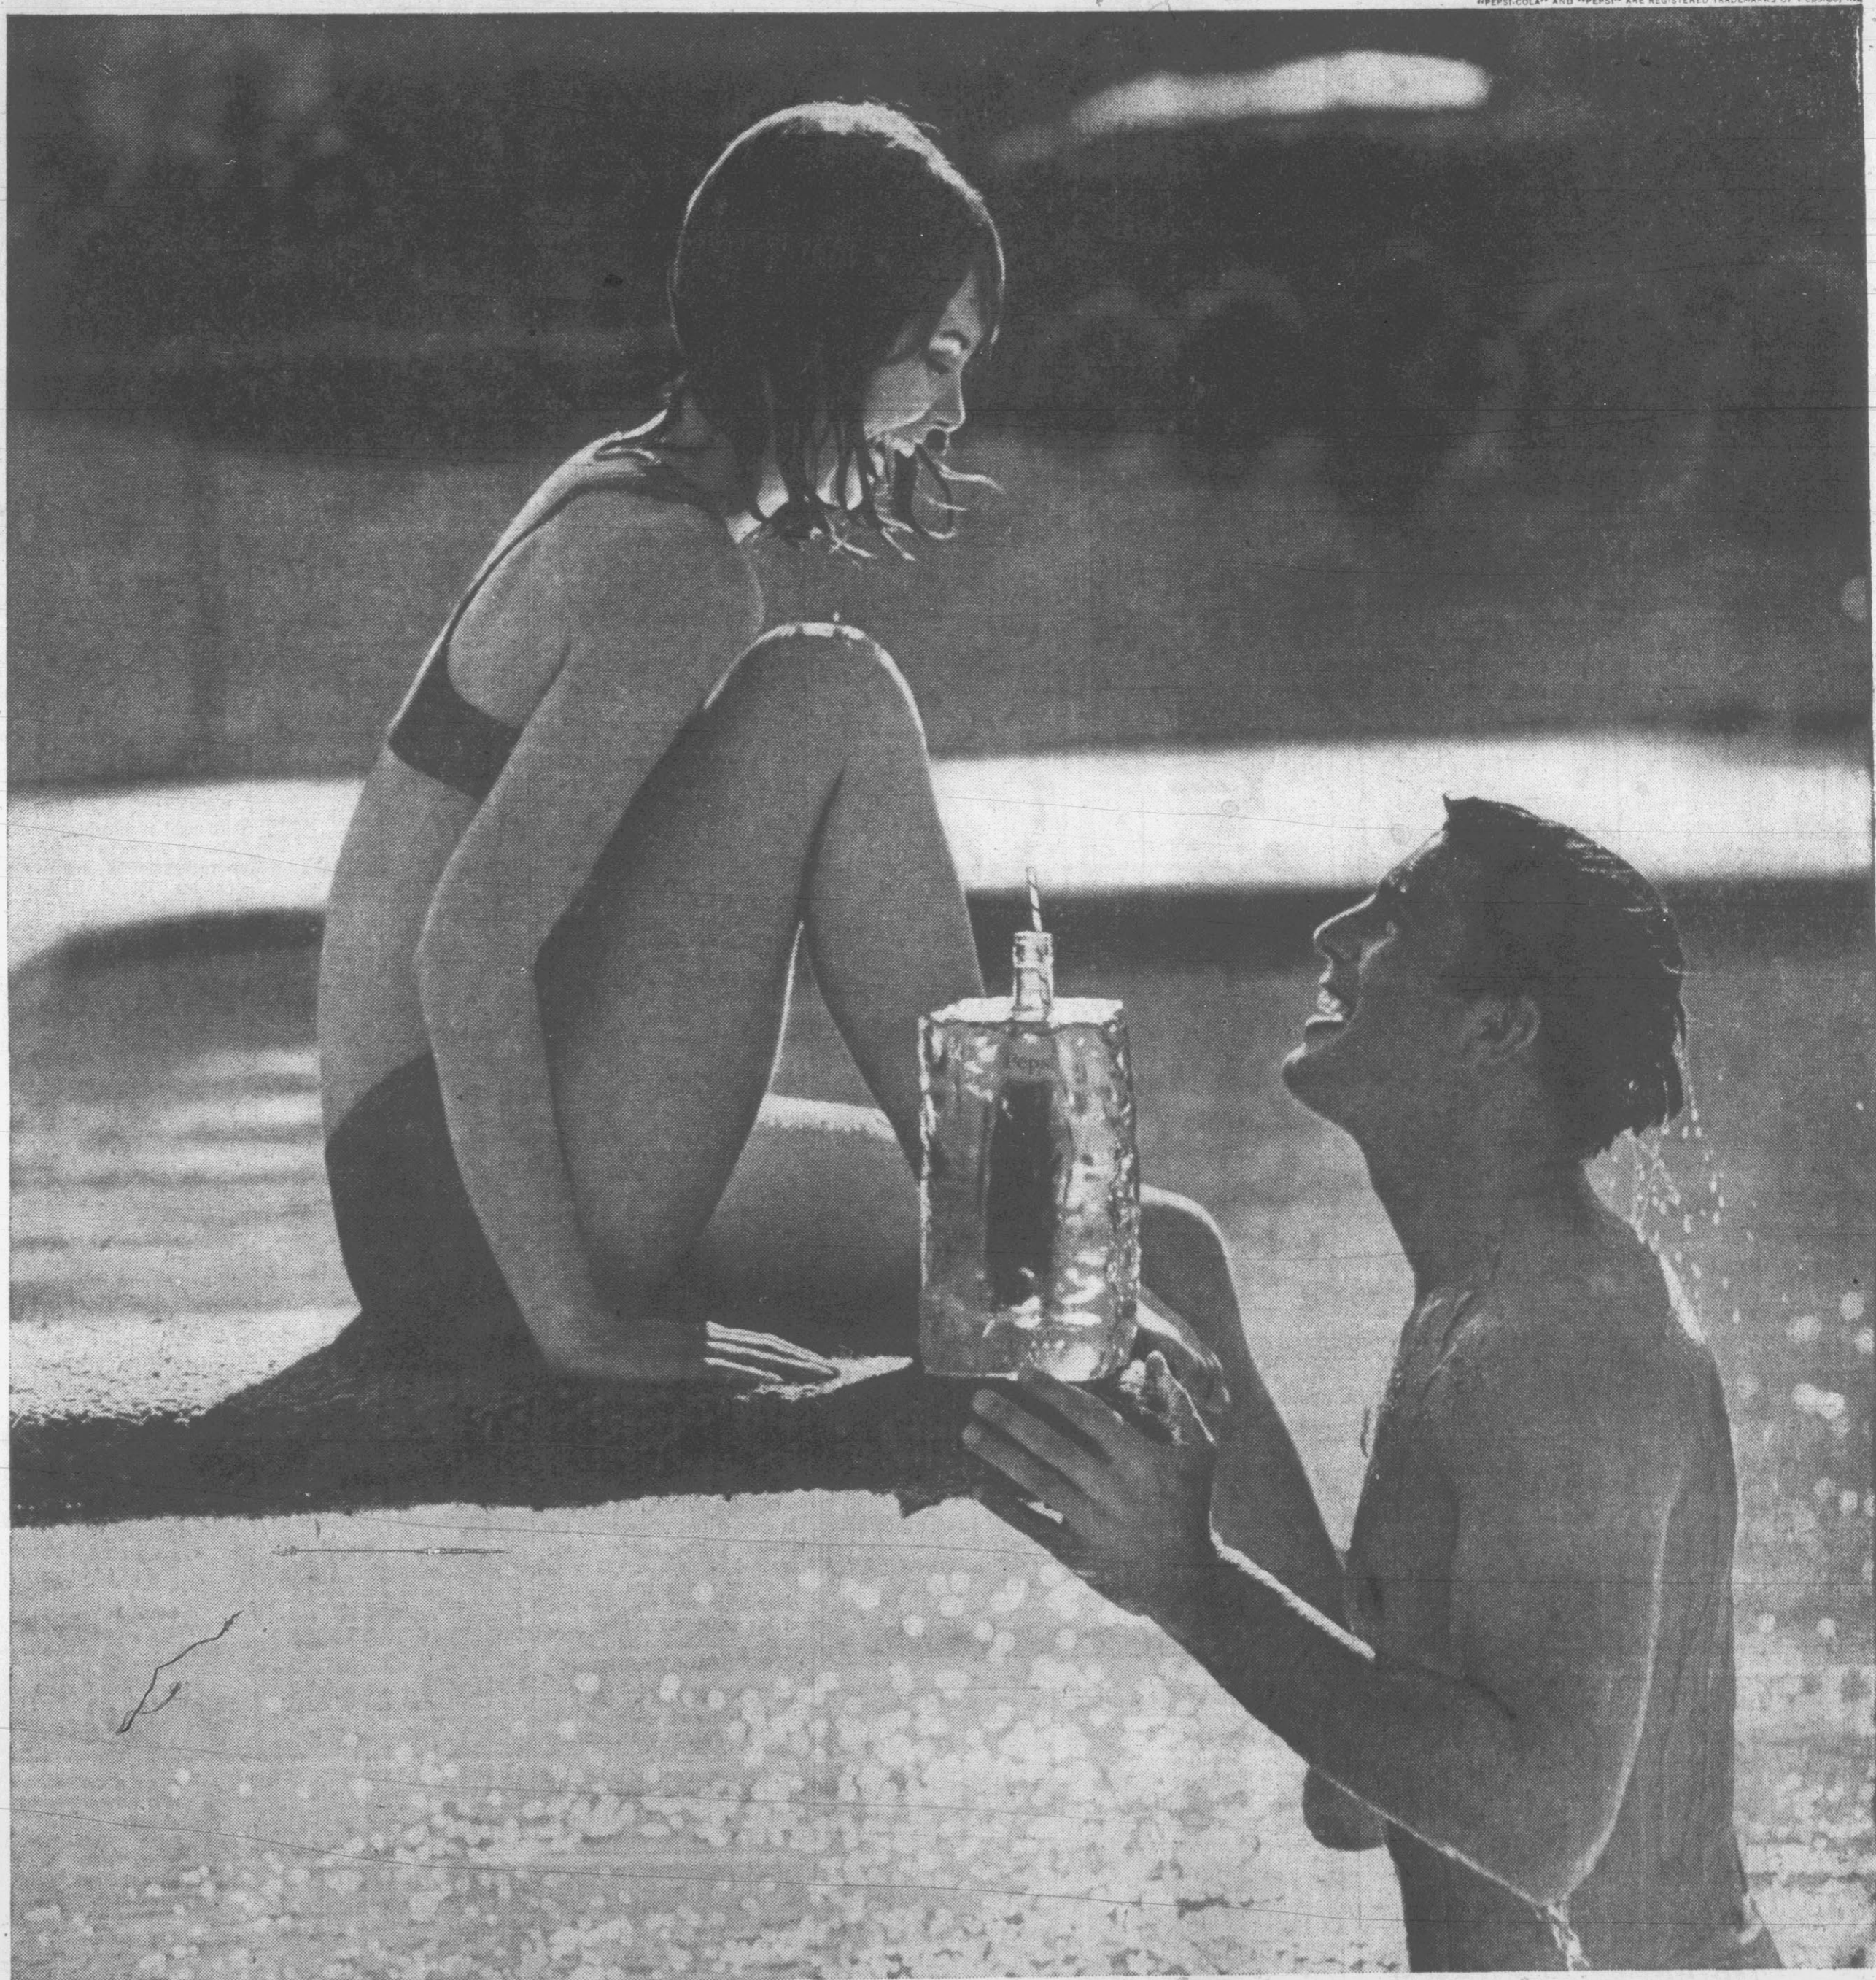

A Norwegian freighter brought the first stones of the 10,000-ton bridge to America, arriving Thursday—the Fourth of July. The stones, weighing between 200 pounds and three tons each, will be taken to Lake Havasu City by truck.

They're numbered to guide engineers in the reconstruction. The bridge was purchased for $2,460,000 by the McCullough Oil Corp., developer of the river resort.

The Worry Clinic
The 'Girl-Watching' Trait Is Only Natural

Gloria is like the us ja wife, for women have a psychological "blind spot" that predisposes them to divorce. Study this case with care and by all means learn the essential sex difference between husband and wives. Send for the sex booklet below to keep your husband from straying!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-517: Gloria G., aged 26, is happily married. "But, Dr. Crane," she protested, "I wonder about my husband."

"He seems to be entirely devoted to me and ardently in love."

"But still he takes notice of any other attractive girl who passes by."

"Yet it seems to me that women, once they are in love and happily married, don't take a similar interest in other men. Why?"

"This is one of the basic differences not only among human beings but also among the lower mammalian species.

When a cow or mare is mated she then ignores males till after her calf or colt is born.

But the bull or stallion still is always on the alert for a receptive female of his species. Why?

Because the Almighty created males to be like that!

So you women better realize the basic laws underlying the creation of mammals!

Men differ from women especially in two major appetites, namely, the gastric and the erotic.

At the dinner table they may demand 3,500 calories daily while you wives are content with 2,000.

And after your husband is satiated with your delicious viands, he is relatively oblivious of restaurant advertisements and dinner table viands, at least till the next meal time.

Not so in the erotic realm, however, for you can fully satisfy your husband in the boudoir with your delectable erotic menu.

Yet he will still notice any slick chick with a classy chassis who passes by!

But if you have satiated him he will normally be content to do nothing more than LOOK.

Beware, wives, if he has been short rationed in the erotic realm.

Then he may both LOOK and ACT, albeit furtively or clandestinely.

Alas, this is one of the major psychological "blind spots" of the average wife.

"I'm happy in our marital relations," protests the usual wife, "so my husband must also be equally satisfied."

That is not a logical conclusion.

"Dr. Crane," thousands of cultured wives have tearfully told me in my office or over 20 years but now I find my husband is chasing around with a young secretary half his age."

Such wives think that just because they are satisfied with their erotic menu, then their husbands likewise are equally content.

But 2,000 calories daily at the dinner table will not be an adequate input for the average husband, though his wife may be content therewith.

Same goes in the boudoir! Yet millions of women use their own appetite as a gauge for their husband's eroticism.

Beware, for he usually requires a one-wife harem and is geared like patriarchal Jacob, who had 4 wives!

In our monogamous society, a smart wife must thus feign more ardor than she feels, in order to keep her mate happy.

So send for my booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

NEA Asks Probe Service Refusal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The National Education Association has filed a protest with the State Department and has asked for a probe by the Justice Department because an African nation's official said he was refused service in a Dallas bar.

The incident took place near the Municipal Auditorium where about 8,000 NEA members are holding a national convention.

A guest of the convention, Mooki Vitus Molapo, first secretary of the Embassy of Lesotho, said he was refused service because he is black.

Molapo quoted a waitress in the place as saying, "Can't you see that you're black? We don't serve blacks in here."

Sam M. Lambert, NEA executive secretary, asked the State Department to make an official apology to Molapo's ambassador in Washington.

Dallas officials, to whom the NEA also complained, said they were investigating the incident.

An employe of the bar said it has always refused to serve Negroes on the premises.

The tavern's owner, I. M. Jolly, said his place does not serve food and he is required by law to serve beer to any customer only if it also sells food.

"I abide by the law," Jolly said. "I hope to continue my present policy, but if I have to, I'll serve them (Negroes)."

Third Night Of Disorders In Paterson, New Jersey

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — A third night of disorders subsided following a short rain today after rock-throwing and window smashing spread outside the Puerto Rican section.

Police reported that 24 persons all adults, had been arrested Thursday night and today, bringing the total for the three days to 54. They were charged with varied counts of resisting arrest, malicious mischief and loitering.

Three Paterson hospitals reported treating about three dozen injured persons. Many of the injured, however, did not report to hospitals. Some 20 persons were injured, including several policemen, in the previous nights of violence.

Helmeted police displayed shotguns in a show of strength, but no shooting was reported Thursday night. There had been one report of shooting by police early Thursday to discourage youths throwing missiles from rooftops. Police used tear gas to break up large crowds. "The tear gas is very effective," Deputy Police Chief Angelo Esposito said.

Broken glass, bottles, bricks and rocks littered the streets of the Puerto Rican section just east of the downtown area of this industrial city. Many cars parked on the streets were heavily damaged.

Since Monday night youths, sometimes as many as 600 strong, took to the streets in both peaceful and violent demonstrations in protest of what they claimed was excessive force by police in making arrests.

About 18,000 of the city's 146,000 residents are Puerto Rican. The Negro population is about 30,000.

The first system for naming and classifying cloud types was devised in 1803 by Luke Howard, an English chemist.

South did not make proper use of the dummy's rather slight resources in attempting to win nine tricks and land his three no trump contract.

West opened the ten of clubs and the king was played from dummy. A heart was led at trick two and South finessed the queen. West was in with the king and he returned another club which was won in the closed hand with the jack as East discarded a heart.

South cashed the ace of hearts and then crossed over to the ace of clubs to lead the ten of hearts. East put up the jack and shifted to a diamond. South played the ace, cashed the queen of clubs and led the queen of spades in an effort to establish dummy's king as a delayed entry to the nine of hearts—which represented declarer's ninth trick. East ducked the queen of spades, however, and South was obliged to concede defeat.

Declarer had shown an utter lack of concern over the tenuous state of his line of communications. Since there are only two sure entries to the dummy—the ace and king of clubs—it becomes essential for South to establish a second trick in hearts before he has used up both of North's high cards.

It is suggested that declarer win the first trick in his hand with the jack of clubs and then play the ace and queen of hearts. West is in with the king and, if he returns a club, dummy's first entry is employed to drive out the jack of hearts. The ace of clubs is retained to cash the nine of hearts subsequently. In all, South takes four clubs, two diamonds, two hearts, and one spade for nine tricks.

Seven Children And Man Drown In Boating Mishap

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — Seven children on a holiday outing and a man who was giving them a boatripe drowned Thursday when their 12-foot outboard flipped over, hurling them into Lake Easy about five miles south of here.

The only survivor was an 11-year-old girl who clung to the overturned boat and was rescued by a vacationing deputy sheriff.

"When the first car got there, the families of the kids were wading around in the water, crying and searching for bodies," said Capt. Earl Branch of the Polk County sheriff's department. "None of them could swim."

The families were making an all-day Fourth of July outing of it, said a nearby cottage owner. "They had set up their picnic stuff early in the morning."

Branch said William Harrell, 35, of Lake Wales, loaded the eight children into the boat for a ride around the small lake.

Raymond Parks of Winter Haven said he was fishing nearby when the boat started swinging toward the picnic site on the bank.

He said the boat rolled over in the middle of the turn, pitching its cargo of children into 15 feet of water about 100 yards from shore.

Branch said Deputy Ray Greubel, who was camping with his family nearby, swam to the overturned boat and found Harrell and Venera Clay clinging to its side.

Witnesses said the girl lost her hold on the boat and both men attempted to save her. The deputy grasped the girl and brought her back to the boat, Branch said. But when he turned around, Harrell had gone under.

Greubel recovered a second little girl, but could not revive her when they reached shore.

The bodies were recovered during a three-hour search by divers and men in boats with grappling hooks.

The dead were listed as Harrell, Belinda Clay, 12, and her 14-year-old sister, Cynthia, of Lakeland; their cousin, Jimmie Elaine Clay, 9, and Sheila Jennings, 8, Carolyn Jones, 11, Cynthia Jackson, 7, and Rhonda Tucker, 10, all of Lake Wales.

Holiday Traffic Toll Tops 200 Across Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The traffic death toll during the long Independence Day holiday weekend passed the 200 mark today.

The total number of fatalities across the nation midway through the second day of the four-day holiday period stood at 216.

Although showers dampened parts of the Southeast and portions of the midcontinent, dry weather offered good driving conditions over most of the country for the Fourth of July and today.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 700 and 800 Americans may die in motor vehicle accidents in the weekend that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

For comparison purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths during a non-holiday period of the same length and counted 553 fatalities. The weekend surveyed ran from 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 19, to midnight Sunday, June 23.

Drownings and boating mishaps also accounted for a large number of accident deaths across the country Thursday.

Seven children on a holiday outing, and a man who was giving them a boatripe, drowned when their 12-foot outboard flipped over in Lake Easy just south of Lake Wales, Fla. The only survivor was an 11-year-old girl who clung to the overturned boat until rescued.

A few instances of near tragedy also marred the holiday. Twenty-seven persons were injured Thursday night when a Greyhound bus en route from Chicago to Miami apparently missed a detour near Macon, Ga., and overturned. No one was killed and only three of the injured were hurt seriously enough to be admitted to a hospital.

Traffic fatalities during last year's Fourth of July weekend—also four days—totaled 732. This was an Independence Day record and also a record for any summer holiday weekend.

The lowest highway death toll for a four-day Independence Day weekend since World War II was 231 in 1946.

During the current holiday 21 persons lost their lives in boating accidents and 45 persons drowned.

No fireworks deaths were reported.

He told aviation authorities in Los Angeles by radio. At their direction Capt. P. Barron changed course. For 20 minutes, while Morris sat between two deputy U.S. marshals, Barron slowly circled southern Nevada.

Then, as Barron sat the Boeing 727 down at McCarran Field, Morris bolted for a door. His guards grabbed and subdued him.

Morris, 48, was taken to Clark County jail here and the plane after an hour's delay, continued its flight to San Francisco.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Morris would appear before a federal grand jury to answer a possible attempted hijacking charge. He was being flown from prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to San Francisco for an appeal hearing on his 15-year sentence for bank robbery.

Authorities said the two deputy marshals assigned to guard Morris agreed to let him go to a rest room at the front of the plane but didn't realize that he instead stopped and talked with the stewardess in the first-class compartment between the cabin section and the pilots.

Several Las Vegas police officers had entered the plane before the passengers realized what had happened.

"They were kind of startled when they found out," said a TWA spokesman. "But they weren't really frightened."

Russians Support Czech 'Militia'

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Thousands of Soviet workers are pledging to back a workers' militia generally identified with the most conservative elements remaining in Czechoslovakia, a Prague newspaper says.

The youth newspaper Mlada Fronta said Thursday the workers set pledges to aid the militia, an armed force of about 40,000 Czechoslovak workers, in its battle against the "enemies of communism in Czechoslovakia."

Since new leadership came to power and began a liberalization drive in Czechoslovakia early this year, the militia has been under attack at home. The Soviet Union apparently regards it as an important counterweight in efforts to keep the liberal leadership on a pro-Russian course.

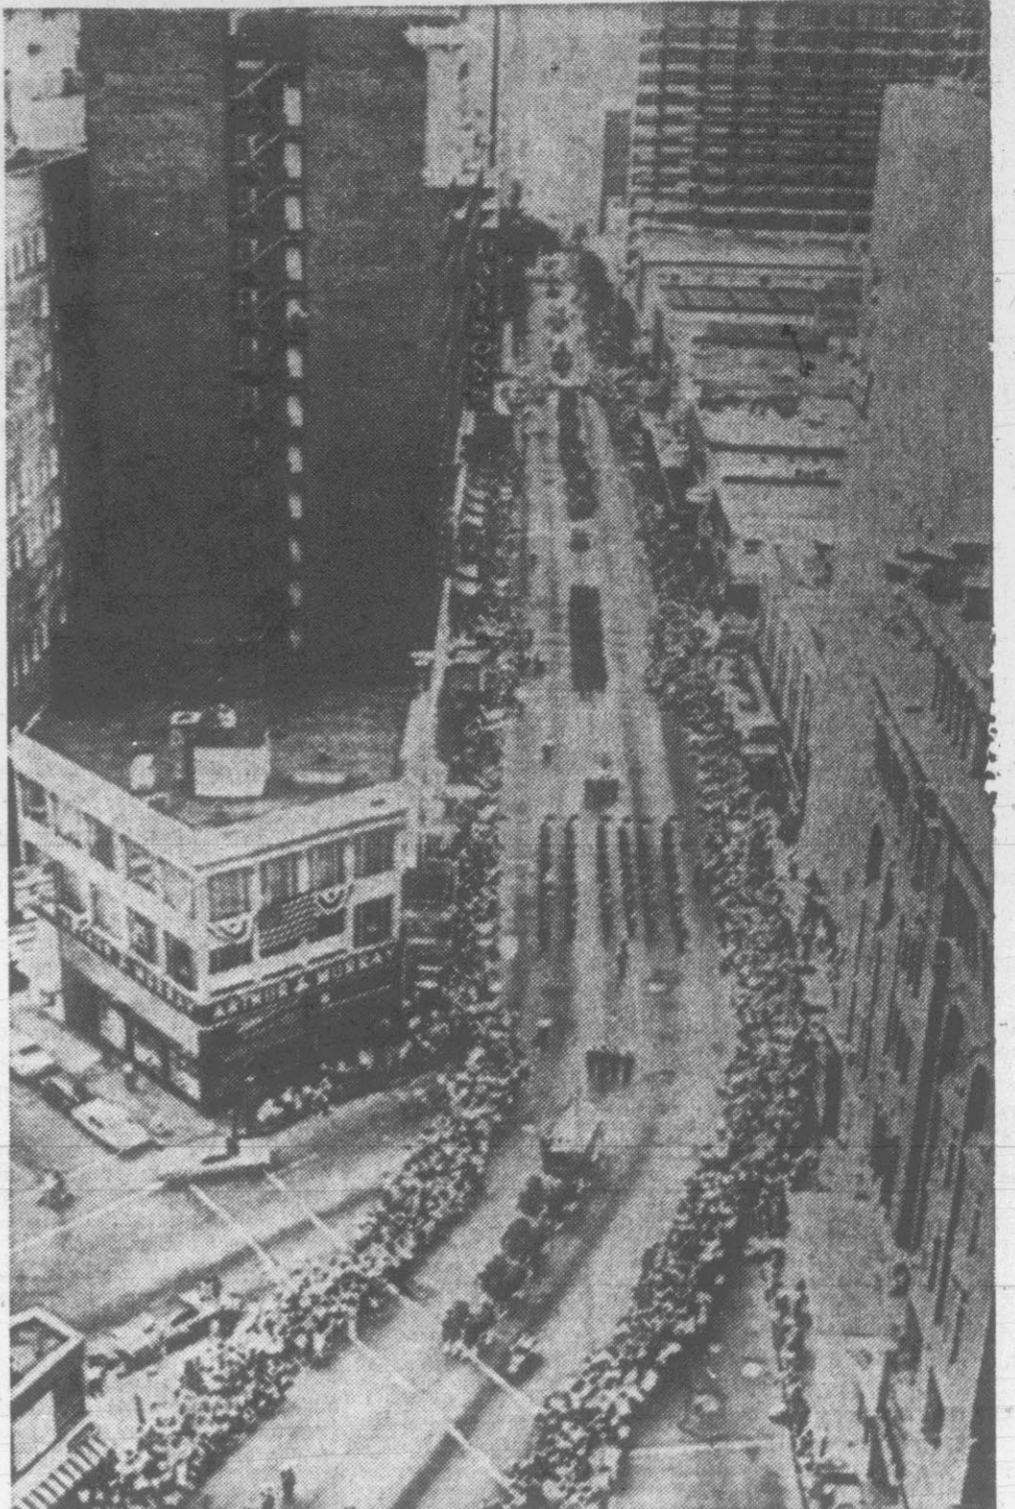

Love And Care Guides Them In Special Program

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of 24 mothers is teaching emotionally disturbed children, letting love and care guide them instead of specialized training. The women work in a program called "Teacher-Mom" which is now in its third year at a Bronx elementary school.

Each volunteer mother, recruited primarily through the PTA, comes two days a week for three hours a session and provides individual instruction and care for children who have experienced difficulties in social relationships. In addition to giving the children a rudimentary education, their social adjustment in many cases has been helped to the point where many have been able to enter regular classes.

A SALUTE TO AMERICA PARADE — Thousands of persons line Atlanta's famed Peachtree Street Thursday for the annual Fourth of July "Salute to America" parade. Actor John Wayne was the parade's grand marshal. (AP Wirephoto)

Rain Welcomed By Area Farms

A light .12 of an inch of rain fell here yesterday, creating both dismay and joy for Pitt County residents. For many, it spoiled a pre-planned July 4 holiday, but for farmers and gardeners, it was a welcome surprise.

The rain had a cooling effect on temperatures in the city. Greenville Utilities Commission weather station reported high temperature for yesterday was only 76 degrees while the low was 71 degrees. High temperature for Wednesday was a blistering 94 degrees.

Temperatures at 8 this morning under threatening skies stood at a mild 70 degrees.

A total of .32 of an inch of rain fell Wednesday and yesterday.

The river level, almost at a standstill since Wednesday, was 2.7 feet this morning at 8.

Winds were from the southwest from three to five miles per hour.

Study Rumor Of Assassins' Plot

PARIS (AP) — French authorities studied today reports of a leftist plot to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle, but informants said that their first inclination was to discount the seriousness of the reports.

West German police said earlier they alerted Paris police offices in Bonn Thursday and said he knew of a conspiracy to fire mortars at De Gaulle during the Bastille Day celebrations July 14.

The element cobait, whose name means "underground spirit," was discovered in 1737 by Georg Brandt of Sweden.

The Loudest Cheers Were For Stern Faced Soldiers

ATLANTA (AP)—Movie stars John Wayne and David Janssen and the Anheuser Busch clydesdales drew rousing cheers but the loudest outbursts from an estimated 250,000 went for stern-faced soldiers in combat garb in the annual Fourth of July "Salute to America" parade.

Wayne and Janssen were honorary marshals of the parade which carried them past the theater where their latest movie, "The Green Berets," opened Thursday night.

About 20 hippie-type demonstrators stretched out on the parade path near the reviewing stand but abandoned their attempt to block the parade when several huge Army earth-moving machines lumbered their way.

In addition, two antiwar pickets slipped into line at one point between the 3rd Army Band and a contingent of soldiers. They carried a sign reading "War at Any Price" showing a skull dripping blood.

Thursday night a capacity crowd at the theater greeted Wayne with a standing ovation when he appeared in behalf of the film of which he is co-producer.

"We hear there are a lot of things wrong with America," said Wayne, reading from prepared notes. "Critics seem to forget there are a million things right about America."

He called the Fourth of July a "... day to stop crying about what's wrong and start thinking about what's right."

A few antiwar pickets paraded outside the theater.

"The Green Berets," first motion picture to deal with the Vietnam war, was filmed at Ft. Benning, Ga., utilizing facilities of the Special Forces.
