President Home; Plans Honolulu Talk With Thieu

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The announcement President Johnson has agreed to meet with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu this month has increased speculation Johnson plans a busy season of globetrotting.

The President had returned from Central America—jetting to all five republics there in seven hours Monday—only hours before Thieu's office in Saigon announced the meeting planned in Honolulu about July 20.

There already had been strong speculation that Johnson, who made a 4½-day around-the-world tour last December, might range all over the map during the coming weeks.

There was talk of possible Johnson trips to Africa, Asia, South America and Europe—perhaps even to Moscow—before his term ends.

Wherever he goes, Johnson would be hard pressed to top Monday's record of five countries between breakfast and mid-afternoon. Starting out in El Salvador, he traveled 1,050 miles to Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala.

When he reached Guatemala City, last stop before returning to his Texas ranch for a brief stay, the chief executive was exactly 95 miles away from his starting point, the city of San Salvador.

Johnson was the first U.S. president to visit all five nations of Central America. In effect, he operated a homewardbound ferrying service for the presidents of the other countries who had joined him at the weekend Latin summit in San Salvador.

Each of Monday's stops followed a pattern: Johnson never left the airports, stayed in each country about an hour, exchanged formal speeches with the host presidents and mingled with leading citizens at informal receptions.

Warm greetings everywhere also were part of the pattern. Few sour notes were struck, people cheered lustily and rushed to touch him. Many talked about amity and friendship and waved American flags.

At Guatemala City, however, the greeting was the least spontaneous because those on hand were present only by invitation. The Guatemalan government is beset from left and right.

So, as Johnson roamed through a champagne reception in the striking new airport terminal, combat troops carrying submachine guns mingled with the guests.

Godfrey Hoping For Orderly Sale

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A federal official said Monday night he hoped the 1968 flue-cured tobacco marketing season can be an orderly one and not "as big a mess as last year."

Horace D. Godfrey, national administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, told the North Carolina Seedman's Association:

"If this year should prove to be like last year, I would guess that the U.S. Department of Agriculture would reopen hearings on the advisability of using a federal marketing order."

Godfrey referred to the glutted markets of 1967 which delayed farmers in marketing their crop.

In other action, the association elected Robert Davis of Laurinburg as president, replacing Aubrey Austin of Four Oaks.

Other officers elected were:

Peter Blum III, Kernersville, first vice president; Glenn Greene, North Wilkesboro, second vice president; Bruce Shans, Raleigh, secretary-treasurer.

Named to the executive committee were Steve Byrum, Charlotte; Harry MacLain, Statesville; Crawford Man, Washington, N. C.; H. L. Dilday, Belhaven; and Darrell Worthington, Greenville.

Honored during the Monday night banquet as North Carolina Seedsman of the Year was R. W. McMillan of Raleigh, who is associated with the agricultural foundations at North Carolina State University.

Selected as honorary seedsman of the year was Dr. R. P. Moore, also of N. C. State.

Campbell College Building Burns

BUIES CREEK, N. C. (AP)— The interior of the mathematics building on the campus of Campbell College was destroyed by fire Monday night.

The building had been converted recently from a gymnasium into classrooms.

Neither the cause of the fire nor an estimate of damages were available immediately.

Insurance Rate Hearing Wednesday

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal to increase fire and property insurance rates in several categories "in recognition of the civil disorder hazard" will be aired at a hearing Wednesday before Insurance Commissioner Edwin Lanier.

Lanier indicated Monday he is going to take a "hard look" at the industry requests before deciding whether to grant the increase.

The N. C. Fire Insurance Rating Bureau, representing the companies, is asking: (1) A $1 increase in all homeowner policies, (2) A hike of one cent per hundred dollars of coverage on all fire and extended coverage policies, and (3) An increase in fire and property rates for commercial structures amounting to 4 per cent in counties with more than 250,000 population (Mecklenburg and Guilford) and 2 per cent in other counties.

"I'm not going to prejudge the matter," Lanier told a newsman, "but from the study we've done in advance of Wednesday's hearing, they (the companies) are going to have to offer considerable and substantial support for their argument."

He added, "On the face of it, it does not appear to be an equipment proposition."

City Council Boosts Tax Rate To $1.50; Plan A $1,902,918 Budget

By RONALD GOLLOBIN
Reflector Staff Writer

A 20 cent tax rate increase was tentatively approved by the City Council last night, boosting the city's rate to $1.50 per $100 of valuation.

A budget of $1,902,918.80 for the 1968-69 fiscal year was tentatively approved, which is an increase of $228,847.30 over last year's budget.

City Manager Harold Hagerty presented the councilmen with a recommended budget of $1,927,539.61 which would have meant an increase of 23 cents in the tax rate if adopted. Council members however, approved the increase of 20 cents after Hagerty told members that further cuts in the budget would require reducing salaries of city employees.

Greenville's mayor, Eugene West said, "We've got to pay the people working for us a living wage."

Councilman Johnny Edwards voiced concern over the tax rate, stating that he thought that the proposed 23 cent increase would make Greenville's tax rate higher than any comparable city east of Raleigh.

Hagerty replied that on the contrary, "Greenville would have one of the lowest tax rates east of Raleigh.

Councilman Percy Cox stated, "After this thing is over, the man in the street is going to forget the (tax) rate, but he is not going to forget if he does not get service." Cox also added "We do not want to cut salaries."

Hagerty agreed, stating. "We need to raise the lowest paid employee first, to at least a minimum living wage."

Discussion on the city's debt service followed, with Hagerty leading off, stating, "The total amount the city is in debt right now is $689,000. This is less than almost any city of comparable size."

Councilmen concurred and then unanimously passed the 20 cent tax rate increase.

The tentative 1968-69 budget includes the following amounts and changes over last year's budget.

—Mayor and City Council's office is budgeted at $12,724.70, an increase of $1,005.70.

—City Manager's office is budgeted at $38,735.00, an increase of $6,220.70.

—Clerk and Treasurer's office is budgeted at $122,712.97 an increase of $22,521.17.

—Buildings and Grounds budgeted at $21,604.59 shows an increase of $2,360.91.

—City Engineer's office is budgeted at $22,524.37, an increase of $897.37.

—Recorder's Court is budgeted at $10,355.91 which is a reduction of $10,450.69.

—The Police Department is budgeted at $412,039.78 which is an increase of $97,447.98.

—The Fire Department is budgeted at $230,133.96, an increase of $12,342.96.

—The Rescue Department is budgeted at $15,044.25, an increase of $132.25.

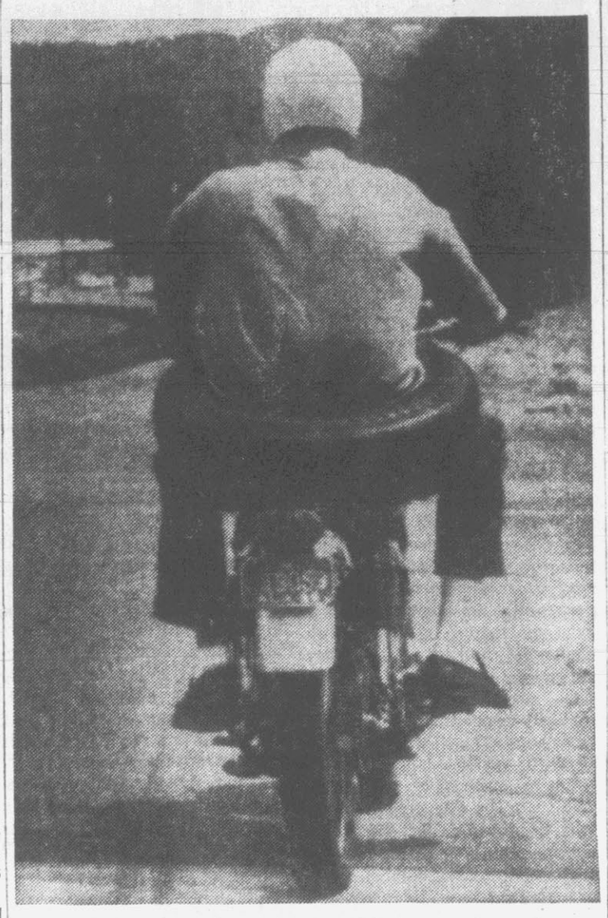

—The Public Works Department budgeted at $626,926.29, shows an increase of $64,845.61.

—Recreation Department budgeted at $135,948.65 shows an increase of $8,388.65.

—Building Inspection Office is budgeted at $17,933.03, an increase of $2,515.03.

—Special Appropriations budgeted at $85,831.98 shows a reduction of $12,102.82.

—City Debt Service is budgeted at $96,297.50, an increase of $26,590.00.

Second-Biggest Bootleg Haul At Farmhouse

LAGRANGE, N.C. (AP) — Federal agents said they made the second biggest seizure of moonshine whisky in North Carolina history Monday night in a raid on a farmhouse east of LaGrange.

Five agents poured out 2,622 gallons of the white liquor, arrested the 52-year-old resident of the farmhouse and confiscated a quanity of bootleg ingredients and containers.

Ray Cline, who is in charge of the Goldsboro office of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Unit, said the liquor was worth $40,000 if sold by the drink.

He said the agents believed it was headed for wholesale sale to drink houses in Wayne and Lenoir counties to be sold retail in glasses.

Arrested was Jonas Williams. Williams told the officers the liquor and other goods were brought to his house in a truck by a man he did not know.

He was charged with possession of untaxed whisky. He also was charged with violating the National Firearms Act. The agents said they found a sawed-off shotgun in one of the outhouses where the liquor was stored. They said its barrel was less than 18 inches long, the legal minimum.

The agents also said they found a mojo hanging from a tree in the back yard. A mojo is a turtle musk, or parts of a turtle, in a whisky bottle. Cline said the superstitious believe it will keep away evil elements and lawmen.

The liquor was in 2,622 one-gallon plastic jugs similar to bleach containers.

The goods confiscated included 4,440 pounds of sugar, 500 pounds of wheat bran, 54 cases of empty one-half gallon jars, five cases of the plastic jugs, also empty, and 15 packages of prefabricated cardboard cases.

Williams will get a hearing Friday before U.S. Commissioner J. W. Wright.

Cline said the biggest seizure of bootleg whisky in North Carolina was made 18 years ago in Wilkesboro, when 7,000 gallons were poured out.

Above Expectations

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's General Fund tax collections during the past fiscal year showed an increase of $47.4 million over the previous year and exceeded legislative estimates by $11.8 million.

State Revenue Commissioner Ivey Clayton reported Monday that the General Fund took in $653.9 million during the 12-month period compared with $606.5 million for 1966-67.

Highway Fund collections for the fiscal year amounted to $204.1 million, an increase of $9.3 million.

"We are highly pleased with our results, especially as some of our sister states such as South Carolina and Maryland did not get a surplus," Clayton said.

The sales tax, which reflects economic conditions, brought in $216.2 million, a gain of more than $14 million.

State income tax receipts rose from $284.8 million to $311.2 million, an increase of $26.4 million.

General Fund receipts during June totaled $38.3 million, a gain of $4.1 million. Highway Fund collections were $18.6 million, up $900,000.

Clayton said the Mecklenburg County 1 per cent sales tax receipts during June were $486,009, bringing the three-month total since the tax went into effect to $1.4 million. The tax goes into a special reserve account for the county and is not included in state totals.

R. W. Howard Re-Elected Airport Authority Head

The Pitt - Greenville Airport Authority last night re-elected R. W. Howard chairman of the group for a second one-year term.

Howard was named head of the body when the Authority was formed a year ago.

Also re-elected to their posts on the group which oversees the operations of the local air facility were vice-chairman P. Monk of Farmville, and secretary-treasurer Ed Turcotte.

Commission members toured the airport facilities to view recently installed shrubbery and trees around the terminal building and inspect blinds that have been installed at the building's windows.

Cost of the improvement program was set at $815.

Authority members also inspected a newly erected sign at the entrance to the airport. The brick base for the large green-and-white sign was constructed by workers from Pitt Technical Institute while the sign itself was secured from the North Carolina State Highway Commission.

The authority has requested the City of Greenville to install a street light at the airport entrance on N. C. 11 which would light the entrance and illuminate the airport sign at night.

A policy which would prohibit all vehicles, including city and state trucks, from using the airport runways, was approved by the authority last night.

The policy, prohibits all vehicles, except fire and rescue units, from entering the airport main gate (at the parking apron) and requires vehicles needing access to various area of the airport property, to first secure premission, then use the back entrance to the airport.

Also discussed at the airport authoirty meeting was a continued effort to secure commercial air service for Greenville and Pitt County.

It was reported that several airlines have been contacted recently but no reply has been received from them.

Approved by the authority was a proposed project for the coming fiscal year to mark another runway at the airport. The runway markings would include painting new numbers, center lines and taxi-way markings.

The airport's main North-South runway, on which lights were installed recently, has been re-marked, with center line, taxiway and number markings.

Different Leaf Methods Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Different methods of growing and curing tobacco will be involved in a study of possible health-related substances in the crop, says the Agriculture Department.

The research will be done by Health Research, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., and involves a $60,126 grant for the studies, the department says.

Tobacco grown under different cultural practices and cured by different methods will be used.

Thin 'Fat Man'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police have been hunting a man who robbed four San Fernando Valley banks of $6,791, leaving notes signed "the fat man." Police Monday arrested Richard A. Clifton in a motel and booked him on suspicion of robbery. Clifton, officers said, is a thin man.

Rate Hearing Date Is Delayed

RALEIGH (AP — The State Utilities Commission will hold a hearing July 25 instead of July 19 on commission-proposed reductions in intra-state long distange telephone rates.

The commission announced Monday that North Carolina telephone companies had requested the date change because of an industrywide meeting already scheduled for July 19.

The commission recently ordered the companies to show cause why the state agency should not institute the reductions.

Report Blaiberg Still Improving

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant patient Dr. Philip Blaiberg, stricken by pneumonia on top of hepatitis, continued to improve today after sleeping well Monday night, his wife said.

The 59-year-old retired dentist, the world's longest surviving heart transplant recipient, still was receiving antilymphocyte serum flown from Europe to combat his pneumonia.

Series Of Sharp Vietnam Clashes

SAIGON (AP) — A series of clashes broke out Monday and today around Saigon and in the far northwest, two flash points where big battles are expected soon.

In South Vietnam's northwest corner, U.S. Marines reported killing another 89 North Vietnamese in a two-day running battle near the abandoned Khe Sanh combat base. Thirteen Marines were killed and 68 wounded. Since Friday, when fighting erupted on the eastern edge of the demilitarized zone, Marines have reported killing 290 enemy troops along the northern frontier.

A Marine company fought the North Vietnamese for 3½ nours ending Sunday night. Another Marine company relieved and came under an attack Monday that lasted for five hours.

Two companies of the 101st Airborne Division blocking infiltration routes reported killing 21 enemy soldiers 28 miles north west of Saigon in a battle that raged into the night. Four Americans were killed and 13 wounded. The companies had artillery and helicopter gunship support.

U.S. 9th Division infantrymen fought for an hour today with an enemy force 19 miles southwest of Saigon and reported killing 13. There were no American casualties.

A new part of Saigon's defenses, U.S. Navy river patrol boats and helicopters, destroyed three enemy sampans carrying rocket launchers toward Saigon along the Dong Nai River, 11 miles east of the capital. Three enemy soldiers were killed.

But enemy gunners shelled three targets within six miles of Saigon in more harassing attacks today.

They picked on one of their favorite targets and set three fuel storage tanks, a power station, a warehouse and a number of fuel drums on fire at the Nha Be fuel depot, the biggest in South Vietnam.

No casualties were reported at the depot, six miles southeast of Saigon, and the fires were reported under control.

Enemy gunners also aimed at a bridge linking Saigon with the Mekong Delta to the south and a military post southwest of the capital. Twelve American soldiers and two government troops were wounded at the bridge and three Americans were wounded at the military post.

Columnist Says Lynda Bird Provided 'Clincher' To Johnson Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Columnist Drew Pearson says in a magazine article that questions by Lynda Bird about why her husband had to go to Vietnam provided "the final clincher" for President Johnson's decision to retire.

Pearson writes in the current issue of Look magazine that Johnson and his wife asked Secret Service men to awaken them before Lynda Bird arrived at the White House at 6:30 a.m. after a flight to the West Coast to see her husband, Marine Corps Capt. Charles Robb, off to war.

Pearson says the President confided to a friend:

'We didn't want her coming into the White House all alone. So we left word with the Secret Service to notify us 30 minutes in advance.

"We were awake and lying in bed before the Secret Service called, I pulled a pair of britches over my pajamas and we went out to the South Gate to meet her.

"She was pale as a ghost. She talked to me about what a fine boy Chuck was, in the past tense, as if he was never coming back.

And Lynda Bird said: "Daddy, I want to ask you a question. Why do we have to fight over there when so many people were opposed to the war? Why do we have to send 200 boys over there in Chuck's company when there's so much opposition here at home to the war?"

That night, Johnson announced his decision to withdraw from the presidential picture.

That morning, Pearson says, Johnson called on Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and showed him two alternative endings for his speech that night—one just a "peroration for peace" and the other announcing his withdrawal.

Pearson says Humphrey tried to persuade Johnson not to withdraw, but the President was adamant.

Pearson quotes Johnson as having said:

"The time is getting short. We've got to get peace in Vietnam. And I think that with me bowing out the other side is more likely to negotiate.

"There's another thing. I'm tired. I'm getting old. All the men in my family have a record of not living much over the age of 60. I'll be 60 this summer. I've had a heart attack. My health is pretty good. I think my chart is as good as yours. But I'm not sure I could live out another term. And that's not the way I want to end my life."

Aides of Humphrey in Washington said he would have no comment on the magazine article.

Pearson wrote that Johnson told Humphrey he had intended announcing his withdrawal in his Jan. 17 State of the Union address, but mislaid the text. Johnson said he first accused his wife, Lady Bird, of taking the text with her to a beauty parlor, but later discovered the slip of paper near the phone in his White House bedroom, Pearson relates.

Pearson writes that Johnson first wrote out a statement of withdrawal last November and showed it to a few close friends.

Six men had scaled the iron paing fence around the White House last year intent on killing Johnson, Pearson says, and 12,000 letters threatening his life had been written.

The columnist says Johnson once confided:

"What's the use of being President when the country is divided, when the Congress won't pass a tax bill, when the dollar is in jeopardy, and when the press distorts everything you do?

"I think I could get renominated. I think I could get reelected. But the stockholders are dissatisfied. Perhaps we need a new president."

Couple Speaks Vows In Saturday Ceremony

DUNN — The marriage of Miss Karen McCracken Hufford and Walter Earl Jones Jr. was solemnized in the First Baptist Church here Saturday at five o'clock, with the Rev. Thomas M. Freeman and the Rev. Robert G. Hufford officiating.

The bride is the foster daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Grayson Hufford of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones Sr. of Dunn.

Mrs. Walter Earl Jones Jr.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Leon L. Kittrell Jr. organist, and Mrs. L. Lloyd Coats Jr., soloist.

The vows were spoken before a background of palms, tree and spiral candelabra, and urns filled with white gladioli and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her foster father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk linen fashioned with an Empire bodice, a portrait neckline, bell sleeves and an A-line skirt. Motifs of Venise lace were appliued on the sleeves, skirt and inserted in the full train which extended into a chapel train. Her veil of imported illusion was attached to a crown of lace edged with pearls and featuring a tear drop in the center. She carried a prayer book, which belonged to the bridegroom's mother, centered with a cascade of stephanotis and bridal roses and George-Anna orchids.

Miss Susan Quinn Hufford, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jean Cromartie of Dunn, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Kay Byrum, Miss Mitzi Morris and Miss Deanna Baker, all of Raleigh.

The attendents wore identical full-length gowns of spring maize lines fashioned princess style with sabrina necklines, short sleeves and A-line skirts which featured a panel back with self-covered buttons. They wore small hats of yellow daisies trimmed with tiers of matching veil and carried nosegays of white daisies with yellow centers.

Mr. Jones served his son as best man. Ushers were Wayland L. Jones, brother of the bridegroom, Thomas G. Ralph, Harry Driver, Donald Hobson, all of Dunn, Williams S. Wellsons Jr. of Fayetteville, and Lee Jones of New Bern, cousin of the bridegroom.

The foster mother of the bride wore a dress of sea green brocade with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of azure blue linen and matching accssories.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore a navy and white linen dress, featuring a pink belt and matching shoes. She wore the orchid corsage lifted from her prayer book. The couple will reside at 2637 Post Street, Jacksonville, Fla.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and attended King's Business College in Raleigh. The bridegroom, graduated from Dunn High School and attended Methodist College in Fayetteville and Southwood College in Salemburg. The bridegroom is currently attached to Attack Squadron 17, USNAS, Cecil Field, Jacksonville, Fla.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the lower auditorium of the church. The auditorium was decorated with palms and urns of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. The appointed table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a white chefub decorated with candles and white roses.

Miss Elizabeth Ray Cromartie cousin of the bridegroom, assisted at the punch bowl.

Adults, Too, Should Show Respect And Be Courteous

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: All my life my parents have raised me to be courteous and to respect my elders. This is getting harder every day. I will give you an example.

Last week I went to a baseball game with two of my friends. They left their seats in the stadium for a few moments and while they were gone a man about my father's age started to move in and signaled another man to come join him. I told him those seats belonged to my friends who would be back any moment. He said he would move when my friends returned.

Well, when my friends came back, this man refused to move. I reminded him that he had given his word, but he said, "Listen, kid, I'm 30 years older than you. You kids go find other seats."

Not wanting to start trouble, my friends left and sat somewhere else.

Now why are kids expected to show respect and be courteous to adults when adults act like this to us?

TEEN-AGER

DEAR TEEN-AGER: Teenagers complain (and justifiably so) that they are individuals and don't want to be judged by teen-agers who behave in a discreditable manner. The same goes for adults. The men were rude and inconsiderate, but they fortunately do not represent ALL adults. Be fair.

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman, mid-forties, attractive (so I'm told), and my hobby is boating.

Let me explain, I am not madly man-hunting as I have a pretty good social life, altho I have no one special at the moment.

My problem is a joker whose boat is tied up next to mine in the marina. He is in his early fifties, very attractive, and also divorced. He does a lot of entertaining on his boat. He is always very friendly when he sees me, but the only time I ever hear from him is when he wants to BORROW something. (He's borrowed everything from fishing gear to a fifth of vodka.) He always pays me back, but this is what bugs me:

He asked if he could borrow my boat for a night as he was entertaining a "lady" and wanted to try out my new navigation equipment! Now, what would YOU have told him?

SUNDAY SAILOR

DEAR SAILOR: I would have boxed his compass and told him to get lost.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband died eight months ago, a very nice looking man attended the funeral. He said he had been a very good friend of my husband. I never saw the man before but he couldn't have been nicer to me. He kept calling on me to keep me company in my sorrow, and I invited him over for Sunday meals and so on. I will leave out a lot of details because they are rather personal, but here is what I want to get across:

It turned out that this man had never known my husband! He makes a practice of reading the newspapers to find out where funerals are, how old the deceased was, where he lived, the number of children, and some of the lodges he belonged to, etc. Then he calls on the widow to get acquainted, saying he had been a good friend of her husband.

If I hadn't accidentally found out that he did this to other widows, I might have gotten even more seriously involved than I did. And it would have cost me a lot of money, too. Please print this as a warning to other unsuspecting widows.

NEW YORK (AP) — Although women use electricity every day, the basics of this universal power sometimes seems to be beyond most female comprehension.

You put a plug into the socket and the vacuum works. If all the lights blow out something called a fuse seems to be the villain. Sometimes you get a shock from electrical equipment and sometimes you don't. Why?

Perhaps because little girls play with dolls and boys play with electric trains, men are more familiar with the virtues and dangers of electricity. But the woman who is a wife and mother owes it to the safety of her family to know what precautions should be taken with electricity, and why. Her ability to understand labeling of electrical products and to spot potentially dangerous conditions in her home can prevent accidents.

When purchasing appliances, keep in mind that rubber is the best cord insulation. The products of reputable manufacturers will usually carry a label of approval from the Underwriter's Laboratory, which sets up safety standards.

Faulty electric cords can cause shocks or start fires. They should be handled gently to preserve their insulation. Pull out a cord by the plug, not the wire. You may coil the cord, but excessive bending or squeezing can crack the insulation. Plugs should never be pried out of an outlet with a metal tool. And don't switch cords between appliances; an iron must have a heavier insulated cord than a food mixer.

Inspect appliance and lap cords regularly. Disconnect cords where wires are beginning to show through wrapping and have them repaired.

Octopus wiring, where an outlet meant for two plugs is being used for six or seven, isn't just unsightly, it's dangerous. Too many appliances drawing power from one electrical circuit can generate heat and cause fires. A fuse is a safety valve which breaks the circuit when it overloads before it can overheat. If a short circuit occurs, find the cause, disconnect the culprit that has caused the overload or which is faulty, and replace the fuse.

If a handy husband or son uses portable power tools, or if you are thinking of buying one as a gift, double insulation is a safety necessity. Power tools must sometimes be used around wet surfaces such as damp grass or a wet driveway after the car has been washed, both unsafe situations. Therefore the tool should offer two types of insulation: to prevent short circuits, and to prevent shocks.

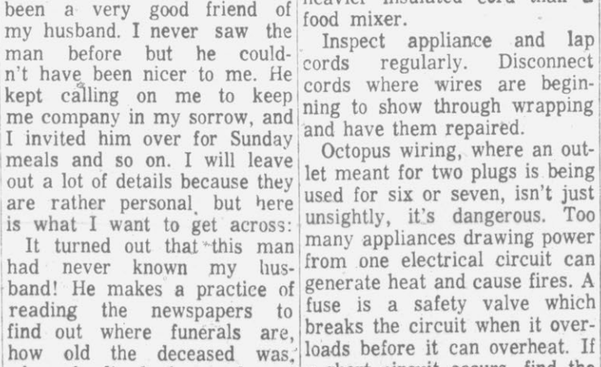

Shock-proof electric drills, saws or sanders provide the greatest protection against electrical accident. It is wisest to consider only products made by reputable firms and to check double insulation and safety factors with the salesman.

Water and metal are conductors of electricity; that is, they serve as a channel to transmit the current. A metal lightning rod attracts lightning away from the house and channels it harmlessly through wires into the ground. Otherwise conductors should be avoided in connection with electric current. Don't handle a connected plug or light switch with wet hands or when standing in water.

If you must remove an obstruction from a socket, use a wooden or plastic tool and wear rubber gloves. These are all non-conductors. But it is best to call a licensed electrician in to deal with such problems.

Most houses or apartments offer several electric circuits. Often all outlets in one room are part of the same circuit.

Miss Jackson Entertained

AYDEN — Miss Jewelle Jackson, bride-elect of Greenville, was honored last night at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Roland Cannon. Mrs. Paul Baker of Kinston was assisting hostess.

The honoree was presented a white carnation corsage. Mrs. J. B. Jackson was remembered with a corsage.

The refreshment table was covered with an embroidered lace cloth with yellow bows of ribbon at each corner. The table was centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, yellow spider mums and Baker's fern. Punch was poured by Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Alberta Dale served cake squares.

Summer flowers were used to decorated the house.

Cook shredded red cabbage and drain; mix in enough vinegar and red currant jelly to give a sweet-sour taste, then add butter and reheat.

Nixon Confident Polls Can't Stop Nomination

ATTENDING THE EDUCATION MEDIA INSTITUTE . . . are (left to right) Carlton R. Benz, associate East Carolina University professor of speech and drama, Thadys Dewar, associate ECU business professor, Ken McIntyre, University of North Carolina Audio-Visual Aid Director, and Maudie Lee Bennett, assistant professor in the ECU School of Nursing. The Institute, at UNC in Chapel Hill, is teaching the 22 attending college instructors to implement their courses with audio-visual aids. It is sponsored under the Higher Education Act of 1965, and is directed by Dr. Annamarie Burts of the Davidson College faculty.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon says he is confident his primary victories will lead to the Republican presidential nomination, even should public opinion polls favor rival Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Public opinion polls involve only "about 3,000 people across the country," Nixon said in Springfield, N.J., Monday, and he said he doubted Republican National Convention delegates would be swayed by them.

"I have the same thing going for me that Eugene McCarthy has," said Nixon referring to primary victories. "But I think that the Republican party will listen to the people and I don't think the Democrats will."

Nixon had said earlier the Democratic convention "will go the way of the bosses" and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will get the nomination despite Democratic primary victories for McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan, meanwhile, brushed aside new talk by GOP presidential aspirant Rockefeller of a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket.

"I've made my position very plain," Reagan said at an airport news conference in Sacramento. "I'm not interested in the vice presidency at all."

Rockefeller had said in San Francisco the possibility of such a GP ticket is "wide open . . . I don't think that any combination should be ruled out or should there be a freezing of any situation."

Reagan refused to comment on the New York governor's statement the Californian is a more serious presidential contender than he admits.

"There's no sense commenting on what his opinion is," Reagan said.

On the Democratic side, Humphrey told more than 2,000 underprivileged youngsters in Washington he is committed to seeing that all young Americans get "all the education they can take" and adequate food and housing.

Humphrey appeared at a kickoff clinic of the Vice President's Summer Youth, Sports and Recreation Program. He said 50 more clinics will be conducted this summer in the nation's largest cities.

In other political developments:

—Some 60 Alabama college students are going door-to-door for petition signatures to get third party candidate George C. Wallace's name on Massachusetts' November ballot as Wallace conducts a concerted drive in the state.

—Allard K. Lowenstein, a leader of Democratic anti-Vietnam policy forces, says they are considering a "national primary" conducted by mail or at unifficial polling booths, intended to demonstrate Humphrey could not win the presidency.

—Nixon has 501 of the 667 votes needed for a first-ballot GOP nomination and Rockefeller has 192 in an Associated Press survey of delegates pledged, committed or publicly stating voting intentions. Humphrey has 677¾ of the 1,312 votes needed for a first-ballot Democratic nomination and McCarthy has 414.

—Rep. Rogers Morton, R-Md., Nixon's newly appointed convention floor manager, says he believed the former vice president would win the nomination on an early ballot but says he does not expect a first-ballot victory.

—New Jersey McCarthy and Kennedy supporters have announced they are forming a "joint steering committee" to urge that major campaign planks of both men be included in the Democratic presidential platform.

—Mayor Richard J. Daley says it is "plausible and possible" the electrical workers' strike that threatens to move the Democratic National Convention from Chicago could be settled within a week.

—The Harris Survey reports Democratic voters favor Humphrey over McCarthy 48 per cent to 40, but independent voters who were asked to state a choice for the Democratic nomination named McCarthy over humphrey 54 per cent to 30.

2 Chapters Of CORE Pull Out

NEW YORK (AP) — Two New York City chapters of the Congress of Racial Equality have withdrawn to form a new organization charging that CORE "has done nothing for black people in the last year or two."

The chairman of the Bronx and Brooklyn chapters, at a news conference Monday, said about a dozen more regional chapters would withdraw.

Sol Herbert, chairman of the Bronx chapter, said he expected the Queens CORE affiliate and the Suffolk County chapter on Long Island to join the new organization. Robert C. Carson, head of Brooklyn CORE, said Sunday in Columbus, Ohio—after he walked out of the CORE national convention—that the Philadelphia and Kansas City chapters supported him.

But John Wesson, chairman of the Kansas City CORE, said today, "Whoever gave out the information about us withdrawing from the national CORE is making a big mistake."

Herbert and Carson charged that national CORE is paralyzed by an interior power struggle. Both men denied there was an ideological split within CORE.

The breakaway chapters will form a loose confederation "that addresses itself to the needs of the black community," Carson said. Herbert specified that no integrated chapters would be accepted.

Carson said, "We're not saying hate whitey, we're saying it's beautiful to be black."

Medical School Given $500,000

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Duke University Medical School has been given a $500,000 grant, to be distributed over a five year period, for expansion and strengthening of its medical teaching program.

The award was announced Tuesday by the Richard King Mellon Charitable Trusts of Pittsburgh.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Explorer 38 has stopped spinning in space in preparation to extend antenna booms more than the height of the Empire State Building and begin monitoring mysterious radio signals.

The satellite, spinning at 92 revolutions a minute since it was put into space July 4, was despun by radio command Monday from the Goddard Space Flight Center near Washington.

Weights on wires wound out from the satellite to slow the spin much as an iceskater slows his spin by stretching out his arms. Then the weights and wires were detached and floated into space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said project engineers will check various experiments in the spacecraft during the next six days before deploying the antenna booms.

Then the Radio Astronomy Explorer Satellite, in orbit about 3,640 miles above the earth, will begin monitoring low frequency radio signals from bodies in the Milky Way and galaxies beyond.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, accelerating its plans to trim the nation's defenses against bomber attack, has announced two F101 fighter interceptor squadrons will be deactivated a year ahead of schedule.

The F101-equipped 444th squadron at Charleston AFB, S.,C., scheduled for deactivation in July 1969, and the 84th at Hamilton AFB, Calif., for April 1969, will instead be disbanded this summer, the Pentagon said Monday.

It also announced the F101-quipped 445th squadron at Wurtsmith AFB, Mich., which was to be broken up this summer, will remain on active duty and the 49th at Griffiss AFB, N.Y., will be eliminated instead. No reason was given for the change.

The F106-equipped 498th fighter interceptor squadron from Paine Field, Wash., is to replace the 84th at Hamilton AFB and the 438th from Kincheloe AFB, Mich., is to replace the 49th at Griffiss AFB.

Two other F101 squadrons, the 87th at Lockbourne AFB, Ohio, and the 98th at Suffolk County Airport, N.Y., are scheduled for deactivation this month.

The Agriculture Department says government food programs—including distribution of food to needy families and food stamp programs—will be operating soon in all of the nation's 1,000 lowest income counties.

The Federal Trade Commission says the poor are frequently victimzed by bait advertising and failure of some merchants to reveal full prrchase and financing charges. A commission report on a District of Columbia pilot project says many low-income consumers don't know what constitutes a deceptive practice and are reluctant to complain even when they know something is wrong.

Reveal Theft Of Jewelry, Furs

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — A Gastonia manufacturing and textile executive told police Monday that thieves took $8,900 worth of jewelry and a $2,000 sable jacket from his home during his recent vacation.

Herbert A. Girard, an owner of Central Yarn and Dyeing Co., Algodon Manufacturing Co. and Kemfast Textiles, said the missing jewelry included a 24-carat diamond valued at $6,000; a $1,000 silver bracelet; a $1,000 diamond pin; an $800 men's watch and a $100 cameo ring.

COASTAL MANEUVERS

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Aircraft, submarine and surface vessels will be involved in a combined antisubmarine and mine warfare naval exercise off the South Carolina and Georgia coasts during the next two weeks.

Faces Trial For Draft Evasion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that Christian Hayden, 19, son of actor Sterling Hayden, and four other young men must stand trial on draft evasion charges.

Judge Manuel L. Real denied Monday motions to dismiss a federal indictment against them. Defense attorneys sought dismissal on grounds the Vietnam war is illegal.

All five pleaded innocent after the ruling.

The other defendants are attorney Peter J. Marx, 26; Daniel Lott, 20; Donald P. O'Connell, 22, and Paul T. Porter, 21.

LINC Director Cites Benefits

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—The director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina says the state will reap benefits from LINC's research because of the cooperation of local school superintendents.

Dr. Gordon McAndrew told a television audience Monday night that projects are under way in Tar Heel school systems which grew out of projects started by LINC.

McAndrew, who has resigned as director of LINC, effective July 15, was interviewed over the University of North Carolina's educational television stations.

He said the most significant accomplishments of LINC were the programs of the N. C. Advancement School of Winston-Salem. Six or eight programs at the Advancement School, McAndrew said, opened up "a whole new era in how to teach kids to communicate."

Meanwhile, LINC's board of trustees have named John R. B. Hawes Jr. a program associate, as interim administrative officer.

Howard Boozer, director of the State Board of Education, was named chairman of a committee to select a new director to succeed McAndrew.

South Carolina has 33 instutions of higher learning.

Pundits Silent Over Dry April

SYDNEY (AP) — When Sydney has very wet, cold or windy weather many self-proclaimed pundits blame it on A or H bomb tests, and even on underground nuclear explosions. They were strangely silent in April when only 55 points of rain fell compared with the average 507 points. It was the driest April for 26 years and 7.2 hours of sunshine were averaged daily.

Three Tar Heels Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three North Carolinians were among servicemen killed in Vietnam, according to the latest casualty list from the Defense Department.

They were:

Army Pvt. Jimmie Hankerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny B. Hankerson, P.O. Box 23, Battleboro; Marine Sgt. Joseph J. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus M. Jones, Scotland Neck; Army Lt. Col. Frederick F. Van Deusen, husband of Mrs. Carolyn Van Deusen, Fayetteville.

N.C. Projects To Receive $945,858

RALEIGH (AP)—Three North Carolina projects will receive grants totaling $945,858 in federal Appalachian funds.

Gov. Dan Moore's office announced Monday that Mocksville will receive $385,000 for the construction of sewage treatment facilities.

Other grants are: $261,528 for the establishment of a health education program at Western Carolina Piedmont Community College in Morganton; and $299,330 for improvements to the sewage treatment facilities serving the town of Columbus.

Named Consumer Group Director

RALEIGH (AP) — Mrs. Leif Valand, a Raleigh civic leader, will serve as executive director of the North Carolina Consumers Council.

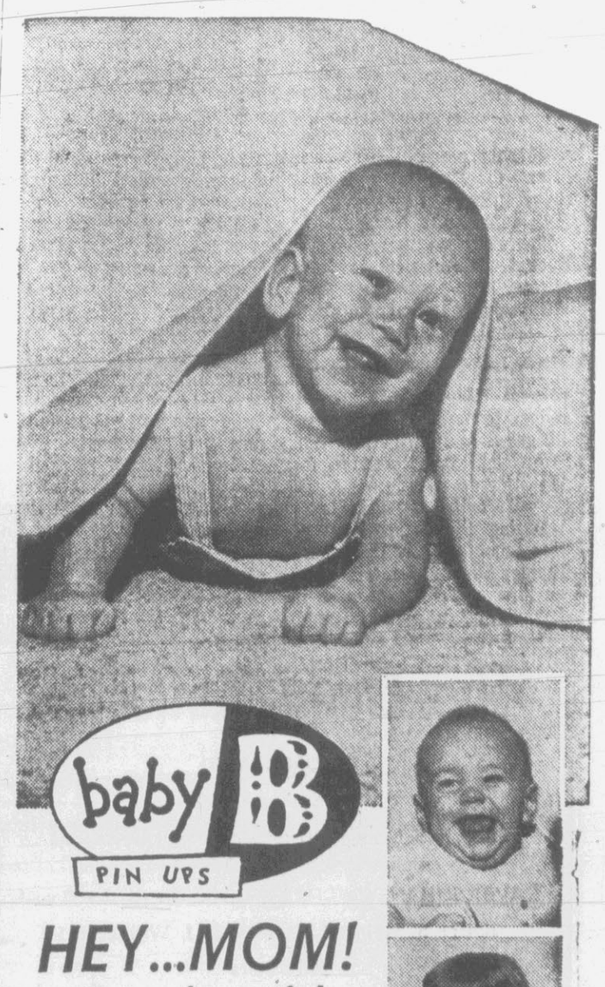

Her appointment was announced March 7 to give representation to consumers before the legislature and public regulatory agencies.

Private Ambitions Above Loyalties

Trust Senator Eugene McCarthy to be a maverick . . he has displayed that quality before and he did it again over the weekend with an announcement he could support a fourth party candidate for the presidency.

As a contender for the Democratic nomination, the Senator displays a shallow understanding of what party politics are all about as well as a lack of loyalty which makes old pros shudder.

In many other fields this "lack of loyalty" would be termed "untrustworthy".

Party loyalty is a presumed quality of a Democrat, a Republican, a Communist, a you-name-it.

For the rank and file member it is an accepted fact that there are differences within parties just as there are differences between parties, and intra-party differences are somthing to be thrashed out. It isn't a child's game where somebody threatens to "pick up their doll rags and go home".

It isn't unusual for a registered party member to "cross over" on election day when the opposition's individual candidate looks like a better choice.

But when a presumed party leader casually says he's willing to support a fourth party drive if his own ambitions are thwarted . . . well, it's too much.

Really too much.

Budgetary Tour Now Under Way

By WILLIAM S. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — The traditional, time-nonored statewide tour of the Advisory Budget Commission to visit and inspect all of the state's public, tax-supported institutions began Monday at Cullowhee.

This is the steep-sloped, green campus of Western Carolina University (WCU), a few miles through the hills and vales of Jackson County from Sylva.

WILLIAM SHIRES

It is the westernmost stop on the viennial budget commission tour and has come to be the starting point. Before the tour ends several weeks from now, back in Raleigh, the budget-planners will have covered the state from Cullowhee to Elizabeth City and Wilmington and have attempted to assess what progress has been made and what needs exist in more than 60 various institutions ranging from colleges and universities to schools for the deaf and blind, for the mentally retarded, for correctional purposes, for PhD's and for research professors. To some extent, the state of North Carolina supports them all.

More Funds Needed

The story on the Advisory Budget Commission tour is always the same. Needs always outweigh the availablity of funds—the need increases.

Officials of each institution present their case for more money to meet needs. The total grows to a staggering sum, more than it is possible for the state to meet.

Months of Work

During the next four or five months, the Advisory Budget Commission will gather information and use it in formulating a proposed budget for 1969-71. Its recommendations must be complete by mid-November in order to print the thick budget documents to be submitted to the next session of the legislature in January.

The summer tour of various state institutions is only one phase of the Advisory Budget Commission's work and is concerned directly with only one part of the institutional budget requests—the "C" budget, that for buildings, building improvements and land-physical improvements and expansions.

How much can be approved and recommended depends largely upon how much surplus money—that over and above the General Fund's operating budget and normal increments — may be available. Systems of priority must be setup. In the past, administrators of various institutions have been told they must admit requests on a priority basis and undoubtedly this procedure will be followed again.

Increase Expected

There is every indication that the state's 1968-71 budget will show a large increase. Some sources predict an increase of $700 million, which would almost equal the total of the biennial budget 15 years ago.

For the present biennium, the state's budget was more than $2.8 billion. The next is expected to reach $3.5 billion or more.

Budget Tour

The budget tour for capitol improvements information started at Cullowhee, on the campus of one of the state's new "regional" universities. What is presented in the way of requests may be quite surprising, and other surprises may be in store.

The budget commission then goes to Asheville and will have a series of hearings there, and at Swannanoa. The itinerary includes another new regional university, Appalachian, at Boone, the next day, and visits to the state hospital complex at Morgantown, then there will be visits to state institutions in Gastonia, Charlotte and Concord within the space of a day or so.

Build Ties Now, And Not Be Sorry Later

The presidential tour of Latin American countries is a good reminder that U. S. foreign policy might well put a little more emphasis on our neighbors to the south.

True, our commitments are world wide, and American diplomats are sweating blood to ease tensions in Europe, the Middle East, the Far East and trying to soothe passions and solve problems all over our shrinking world.

Our concern has been with the flash-points that could ignite a catastrophic war; so it is understandable.

In Central America and in South America these flash-points are happily absent. Nonetheless, it would be well for the United States to build ever closer ties with its next-door neighbors. It would be cheaper by far to make handshaking tours, help in the development of needed services and facilities, encourage an atmosphere of friendship and trust . . . rather than to let things drag along until a degree of deterioration sets in and the frustrations and high cost of crisis-solving confront us from another direction.

All Should Have 'Memory Attic'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every house should have an attic in which to store those things we don't need at the moment but may require later, things too good to throw away.

Every life should have an attic of this kind, too, and every life does—a room of the mind where we retain things which may be a bit out of style but are too precious to discard.

You've got a pretty extensive memory attic if you can look back and remember when—

You could buy a two-seated surrey with a fringe on the top for $48.40.

I was possible to win a local reputation as a sage by making such profound observations as —"Anybody can make a mistake; that's why they put erasers on pencils and rubber mats under cuspidors."

One of the most wistful dreams of childhood was that sometime the lamplighter, who came by a dusk on his bicycle, would once — just once — let you help him light a lamp.

A sophisticate was someone who pronounced the word vaudeville in only two syllables, whereas the unlettered majority always said, "Vawdun-ville."

A dude was a guy who wore spats; a fop was a guy who not only wore spats — he also sported a rattan cane.

During the flapper era of the 1920s-20 years before the arrival of the miniskirt — it was agreed by headshaking moralistst hat women had never worn less in public, or looked worse.

Among the prized possessions of every small boy was a flattened penny he had put on the street car tracks to be run over by a trolley.

Sports fans were more innocent about their heroes. They were more interested in how many home runs Babe Ruth hit in a year than how much he got for doing it.

Let's Keep It Growing

With the opening of the tobacco markets of this section just a few weeks hence, plans are already on foot in various towns to advertise their markets in order to attract the growers to their respective cities. In Greenville this year, as herefore, a fund for this purpose is being raised, and it is to be hoped that the solicitations of those in charge will meet with liberal response. The Greenville tobacco market is something that every person in our city is interested in and something that means much to every business, large or small. The advertising of the Greenville tobacco market throughout this section is likewise advertising Greenville as a shopping center and the visits of the growers to the local market means much more business for merchants and other lines of business. . . .

Public Library Well Patronized Last Week

The Greenville public library was well patronized last week. It was closed July Fourth but 537 books were loaned during the other five days. Of these, 278 were adult fiction, 203 junior fiction, 17 current perodicals, 39 general literature mainly from the D. Cook collection. The library is open from 9 to 12:30 each morning and from 4 to 7 each afternoon.

Misses Louise Harris, Elizabeth Warren, Ela Fleming of this city and Miss Emma Lee Wayman of Rocky Mount spent Saturday in Wilson.

J. B. Yundall and Miss Virginia Tyndall are spending some time with their uncle in Pink Hill.

Miss Gretchen Parker left Saturday for a visit in Norfolk and Suffolk.

Misses Susan Barrett of Farmville and Hilda Peeden of Smithfield are the guests of Miss Florence Overton.

WHAT IS THE SOUL?

What is the human soul? No one of course khows. But for the most part mankind is convinced that in addition to his body and mind everybody on earth has something else—in fact, is something else—and that this something else is of supreme importance.

The world "soul" is defined as "an entity conceived as the essence, substance, animating principle, or actuating cause of life. This definition does not help us much for it is as incomprehensible as the word "soul" itself.

Entirely apart from the philosophical or theological concepts, the soul would appear to be an animated presence within one's body of something superior to the body and distined to exist after the body has passed away .For it is inconceivable that a wise Creator could have made anything as apparently valuable as the soul and then let it die when the body dies. There is an eternal quality to the soul which the body does not possess. Jesus asked the question, "What would a man give in exchange for his soul?" He regarded the soul as of supreme value. His evaluation of the situation appears to be the only thing that makes sense.

Of one thing we can be sure, namely, that we had better guard this etereal and mysterious part of our equipment with care and concern. No sins that will destroy it. No interests in life placed before the interest of the soul. A continual process of cultivation by prayer Bible - reading and meditation that will encourage the soul to grow and mature.

Wallace Threat Grows

Mr. Speaker, what is the question before the house?

The question before the house is, What should the country do about George Wallace?

Now, there are some who would respond by saying that the former Governor of Alabama should be elected President, or be given Earl Warren's job, or others who would urge that the gentleman be popped into orbit on the next Saturn rocket, or named ambassador to Chad.

None of these answers impresses. The grim, uncomfortable fact is that Wallace is in this presidential race to stay. He is having the time of his life. If the pollsters can be believed—and their findings cannot wisely be discounted—the Alabama flyweight threatens to create the wildest political crisis in this country since 1824.

A year ago, the Wallace threat was no larger than a man's hand. It was then assumed, ho-hum that he would carry Alabama, Mississippi and perhaps Louisiana. total of 27 electoral votes. He would pull a few points from Nixon in the South, but he would pull a few points from LBJ in the Upper Midwest. Nothing very serious was envisioned. At one of his Wednesday matinees in the Senate Press Gallery, Everett Dirksen pooh-poohed the matter entirely.

Only the blind and the blockheads are saying pooh-pooh to Wallace now. In the country as a whole, the polls now give Wallace 14 per cent of the polular vote against Humphrey-Nixon, and 17 per cent against Humphrey - Rockefeller. Nothing remotely like this has happened since 1912, when Teddy Roosevelt took 27 per cent against Taft's 23 and Wilson's 42 and the and the Bull Moose split of that year is not really analogous. No third-party candidate since the days of Eugene Debs has polled as much as 2.5 per cent of the popular vote.

But, Mr. Speaker, it is not the popular votes that counts. Electoral votes come first, and it's what's up front that counts. The Harris Poll turns up some stunning figures in the 11 Southern States as a block: Humphrey 34 per cent, Wallace 33, Nixon 25. In another lineup, the prospect is Wallace 32, McCarthy 32, Nixon 27. If the Republican nom-

Education Plans Needed

(Raleigh Times)

Figures projecting that the University of North Carolina will have enrollment growth of 19,850 students by 1975 emphasize both the problems and the opportunities facing our State in the field of higher education.

The problems center, to a large extent, around money, for higher education is an expensive business. The University, for example, estimates it will need a total budget of $246.2 million during the next two years.

This much money must demand the most careful planning by all concerned. The needs of the University, and of the other campuses, must be planned and studied, not only for the next biennium but for the decades ahead. Such a study is being made by the State Board of Higher Education, and will be presented to the next legislaure.

What happens in that legislature will determine just how well North Carolina meets the problems and the opportunities of higher education during the decade ahead. If the 1969 Assembly moves carefully in well-planned ways, the problems will grow less burdensome and the opportunities will grow greater. If, on the other hand, the 1969 Assembly goes off helter skelter in higher education matters, problems wlil multiply. The 1967 Assembly set a bad example for higher education matters by creating a network of regional universities in response to political pressures. If the 1969 legislature does any such yielding, it will be buying trouble for the years to come.

The opportunities a well-planned state system of higher education can offer our younger people are beyond imagination. In such a system, there would be a place for every young person of every degree of ability and of every dream for the future

In such a system, every young person could find the place for which he is best fitted, and there would be no reason for any young person to drop out because he was challenged beyond his talents. Neither would there be any reason for any young person to feel frustrated because he wasn't challenged to the limit of his talents.

Dixie's Slow Courts

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

JACKSON, Miss. — The gunning down of Ku Klux Klansmen by police in Meridian, Miss., on June 30 contrasts dramatically with and, perhaps, is partially a product of distressingly slow progress in the courts against Klan terrorists.

Although great strides have been made in reestablishing the rule of law in Mississippi since this state teetered on the brink of anarchy in 1963, all judges here are not fully committed to that end. Two cases reveal that KKK torpedoes sometimes stay at large indefinitely while the judicial process stalls.

The first case involves Joe Daniel Hawkins, a mean young gunman and top "hit man" of the White Knights—the faction here engaged in terrorism. Hawkins had been indicted by a local grand jury for the March 7 bombing of a Jackson real estate company selling homes to Negroes.

But Hawkins has been taken off the hook indefinitely by one of those outrageous judicial rulings common in the Old South. Hawkins was set free when the local judge, Russell Moore, quashed his indictment on grounds that the case put before the grand jury by Jackson police amounted to heresay evidence—even though such police testimony before grand juries is common procedure nationally.

It will take much time and effort before Hawkins can be reindicted. Meanwhile, he is at large, and the Klan feels it has a friend in court. Judge Moore, a local manager for George Wallace's Presidential campaign, is a devoted segregationist.

The other case concerns the 1964 murder by Klan nightriders of Negro Vernon Damer in Hattiesburg, Miss. Because of multiple delays (some unavoidable, some not), the 16 defendants in the case have had to be indicted three separate times by Federal grand juries for violation of civil rights statutes.

Although the latest indictments were issued some six months ago, the case has not yet been set for trial. Indeed, Federal District Judge Dan Russell, an ardent segregationist and political lieutenant of Sen. James O. Eastland, has commented privately that his court's docket is so crowded that the case might not be tried this year. That cheering word was transmitted through the KKK grapevine.

The long - range damage of any protracted delay by Judge Russell would be fertilization of a deeply held article of faith by klansmen — that Eastland, given Klan support in his 1966 reelection campaign, has passed a go-slow order to his hand-picked Federal judges here. Though this has never been substantiated and seems preposterous, it gives Klan terrorists a sense of security.

Moreover, even when the judiciary moves quickly, the KKK is sometimes able to corrupt the judicial process. In the trial of one Damer assassin charged with murder in state court, the first jury tally was 11 to 1 for conviction—and that's the way it stayed. The unmovable juror who created the hung jury

A Ploy To Handle Form Letters

By ELMER ROESSNER

A charming young fellow we will call Wesley, because that's his name, moved into a new apartment and bought a television set. Got a $15 discount, too.

In the carton were four inspection slips. The chassis had been inspected by No. 210, the tube by 857, the circuitry by No. 4 and the packaging itself by No. 148.

But the set would neither tee nor vee. The picture went splash-splash and the sound went ping-ping.

He called in a friendly neighborhood repairman who said the set had a short. He ran the short down, repaired it and presented a bill for $13.-50. The set now works at the zenith of perfection.

Last, Reads Guarantee

Not until then did Wesley, like most other people, read the guarantee. It promised to replace defective parts within a year but specified that it would not be responsible for labor charges. And since Wesley's repairs were all labor, he did not lose anything by not reading the guarantee first. But the $12 he had saved was wiped out and so was another $1.50.

Still, he thought the set should have been delivered in working order, so he wrote a letter to the X Manufacturing Co., complaining about it and listed the numbers of the four inspectors. He suggested that three be tarred and feathered and that the fourth be quartered. He also suggested that the X company try harder.

Sometime later he received a reply that smelled of being a computerized form letter. It related the company's great love for its customers and its compulsion to make every set perfect, went into a philosophical and slightly Freudian discussion about the human proneness to mistakes, and asked Wesley to send it to the number of the inspector who had passed on the circuitry.

Suspicion Conformed

Wesley's suspicion that it was a form letter was pretty well confirmed by the request for the number of the inspector, which he had included in his first letter.

However, the letter bore a human signature, that of a man.

ELMER ROESSNER

Wesley wrote him a letter, addressed by name and address but with no reference to his previous correspondence, the dates of his letter or the response, or any reference number on the company's letter.

He wrote:

"Dear Mr. Higginbotton: Your letter addressed to Mr. Wesley arrived today. Since he is now in Ireland buying horses, can you tell me if it is sufficiently important to forward to him, or may it await his return?

Priscilla Entwhistle, secretary."

Wesley had considered writing that he was "skiing at St. Moritz" or "hunting elk in Canada," but realized those were unseasonable activities. Besides, buying horeses in Ireland is usually done only by the socially and financially elite.

So far Wesley had not received a reply nor does he expect one. But Mr. Higginbottom can stop worrying when he reads this column. Wesley calculates that the X company has spent twice $13.-50 in trying to trace his original letter through the company's computer system and Wesley has no intention of complaining to Betty Furness.

Last Time For An Irish Model

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — She is going all out to win, but Ireland's lass in the Miss Universe Pageant says: "I could think of more gracious ways to make money."

Despite the graciousness aspect, Tiffany Scales views her competition against girls from 65 other countries as money in the bank.

"If I don't win here, in Ireland I hope to be making a shilling here and there," she said.

But the Miami Beach effort will be her last outing in the world of beauty contests.

"I couldn't enter another contest because I couldn't afford to lose," she said, and she meant financially.

Miss Scales signed up with a Dublin modeling agency after she won the Miss Ireland title. Despite only three months of experience, she demanded top rates. "Most people in Ireland recognized me," she explained.

She wound up in the Miss Universe competition because her agency suggested it. So she quit her job, hired a manager and came to Miami Beach. Wednesday night she and the other girls will compete in swimsuits.

Saturday night Miss Scales will learn whether she is headed back to the modeling business or off for a globe trotting year of glamor.

was a crypto-Klansman unknown to the prosecution.

It is, then, understandable that lawmen who want to remove KKK terror rrom Mississippi soil are frustrated by the way Anglo-Saxon justice can be slowed. Some policemen privately commented that the Meridian shoot-out showed the advantages of justice dispensed from the barrel of a gun.

The Meridian affair was no chance confrontation. Undercover informants had revealed Klan plans to bomb a Jewish community leader's home, and the police carefully set the trap. Their only regret was that Joe Daniel Hawkins, whose car was used by the nightriders, was not present, contrary to undercover reports.

Although Negro leaders took grim satisfaction from the Meridian shooting, it is a poor substitute for true justice.

WEATHER FORECAST — Scattered showers and thundershowers are forecast for Tuesday night for most of the southern and eastern states from Texas to New England. Riotous Actions Follow Concert

BOSTON (AP) — Looting and window breaking by gangs of young people lasted more than three hours Monday night in the predominantly Negro section of Roxbury after a city-spossored concert by a Negro singing group.

Police said the trouble began when an overflow crowd of about 25,000 began leaving Carter playground after the concert, part of the city's "summerthing" festival, an eight-week program of neighborhood entertainment.

Youths began pelting cars with rocks, police said, then broke into nearby stores. Several liquor stores were among those looted. The rock throwing and looting soon spread into the nearby North Dorchester and South End sections before police blocked off the area.

Regular police patrols were joined by 50 members of the riot trined tactical patrol force, some with dogs.

Four policemen were treated for various injuries and seven juveniles were arrested for breaking windows and other disorders, authorities said.

'Model Citizen' May Be Given N. C. Parole

RALEIGH (AP)—A man who fled a North Carolina prison unit 13 years ago and has been living as a "model" citizen in Danville, Va., may get a parole.

The 1955 escapee, Harold Clyde Hodges, 44, surrendered in Danville Monday and was to be returned to North Carolina today.

Marvin Wooten, chairman of the State Board of Paroles, said a warrant for Hodges' arrest was not issued at the time of his escape and he cannot be prosecuted on that charge now.

North Carolina's statute of limitations prevents the state from bringing charges against Hodges, Wooten explained, after two years have elapsed from the date of the alleged crime—escape.

He said that because Hodges had served one-fourth of his sentence when he escaped, he will be "legally eligible to parole the minute he arrives in North Carolina."

Wooten declined to speculate on the decision the three-member Paroles Board might reach, but he said he anticipates the board will "take action quickly" in the case.

State Commissioner of Correction Lee Bounds said Hodges will probably be taken to one of five prison complexes: Durham, Orange, Caswell, Alamance or Person. A classification committee then will determine his status.

Hodges escaped from the Durham prison unit after serving two months of a 12-month sentence for the attempted burglary of a Durham grocery store.

Hodges, a Danville native, was living in Durham at the time. Since his escape, he moved to Toledo, Ohio, where he lived under his original name, Clyde Pruitt. He changed the name years ago when his mother remarried.

For the past two years he has been living in Danville, where he worked as an automobile mechanic.

Mayor W. C. McCubbins and 24 other Danville citizens petitioned Virginia Gov. Mills Godwin Jr. to refuse to extradite Hodges, but Godwin complied with the North Carolina request that he be returned.

Paul Newman Is Named Delegate

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — State and national Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey appointed actor Paul Newman Monday to the state's 44-member delegation to the party's national convention in Chicago next month.

Newman who has a home in Westport, was among nine delegates supporting Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy officially appointed and certified by Bailey.

The appointments completed Connecticut's delegation. McCarthy forces had staged a walkout from the Democratic state convention charging unfair representation and had turned down Bailey's offer of nine seats.

Last week the state McCarthy leaders reconsidered and agreed to accept the nine delegates.

inee were Rockefeller, Wallace might well sweep everything south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi.

We are dealing now, electorally speaking, in fantastic numbers. Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana would give Wallace 27. For the purposes of speculation, add Georgia and South Carolina. That makes 47. It may sound incredible but consider the addition of Virginia, North Carolina and Arkansas. That would give Wallace 78. He is strong in Tennessee and Maryland; they could bring his total to 99. These musings give no account to Kentucky (9), Florida (14), Oklahoma (8), and Texas (25).

It should be kept in mind-Wallace himself has made the point repeatedly—that no one is talking of Wallace's getting a majority of the vote in most of these States. The talk is of a Nixon-Humphrey standoff of roughly 33-33, with Wallace taking 34 per cent and all the marbles. It takes 270 electoral votes to win. If Wallace creams off anything approaching a hundred electoral votes, the morning of November 6 could mark the beginning of an unbelievable crisis.

Builders, State Bank Tied For 2nd

Home Builders pulled into a second place tie with State Bank last night in the Teener League on the basis of the two games played. Home Builders rolled to a 13-2 victory over Pepsi-Cola, while Carolina Dairy downed State Bank, 2-0.

Planters Bank continues to lead the league with a 9-3 record. Home Builders and State Bank, both 8-5, are a game-and-a-half back, followed by Carolina Dairy, 6-7, Pepsi-Cola, 6-8 and College View, 2-11.

All the top three teams are still in the title picture, and the magic number for Planters is two.

In the opener, Rick Boles allowed just three hits by Pepsi-Cola in fashioning his victory. His teammates got only five hits themselves, but took full advantage of other Pepsi mistakes.

In the first inning, Pepsi pushed into a 1-0 lead. Timmy Bryant singled and moved to second on an error on the play. Another error moved him to third and he scored on Kenny Pittman's single.

In the top of the second, Home Builders came back to tie it up. Joe West was hit by a pitch and stole second. Boles hit into a fielder's choice, but an error on the play allowed West to reach third safely and then score.

Pepsi took the lead right back in its half of the second. Lawrence Glisson reached on an error and went on to second on the play. He took third on a fielder's choice and scored on an error.

Home Builders then broke it open in the third with 11 big runs. Gary Hall opened things up with a walk and Whitney Miller singled. Wayne Bailey reached on an error, scoring Hall and moving Miller to third. Bailey and Miller worked a double steal for the go-ahead run, and the Builders were off and moving.

Robbie Cox reached on an error and West was intentionally walked. Boles reached on an error, scoring Bailey, and a wild pitch let Cox come across. Bill Lee walked to reload the sacks, and Tim Norris hit into an abortive fielder's choice, scoring West. An error on the play let Boles come in, and both of the other runners advanced. Hall then reached on a fielder's choice which again loaded the bases, and Miller doubled in Lee and Norris. Cox singled in Hall and Miller, and after stealing both second and third, he scored on an error, making it 12-2.

The final run scored in the fifth. Miller reached on an error and took second on a passed ball. Cox singled to drive him in.

Miller led the Builder hitting with three, while Cox had two.

In the second game, it was another pitching duel. Kim Harbin got the win, allowing just four hits, while striking out seven and walking none. The loser was Jimmy Paige who gave up just three hits and struck out 15, while walking two.

It took eight innings before Carolina Dairy finally broke open the duel and scored the only two runs of the game. J. C. Daniels singled with one out. Jimmy Sugg attempted to sacrifice him up, but the throw was made to second and error, allowing Daniels to come all the way around with the first run. Harbin then helped his own couse with a double, scoring Sugg.

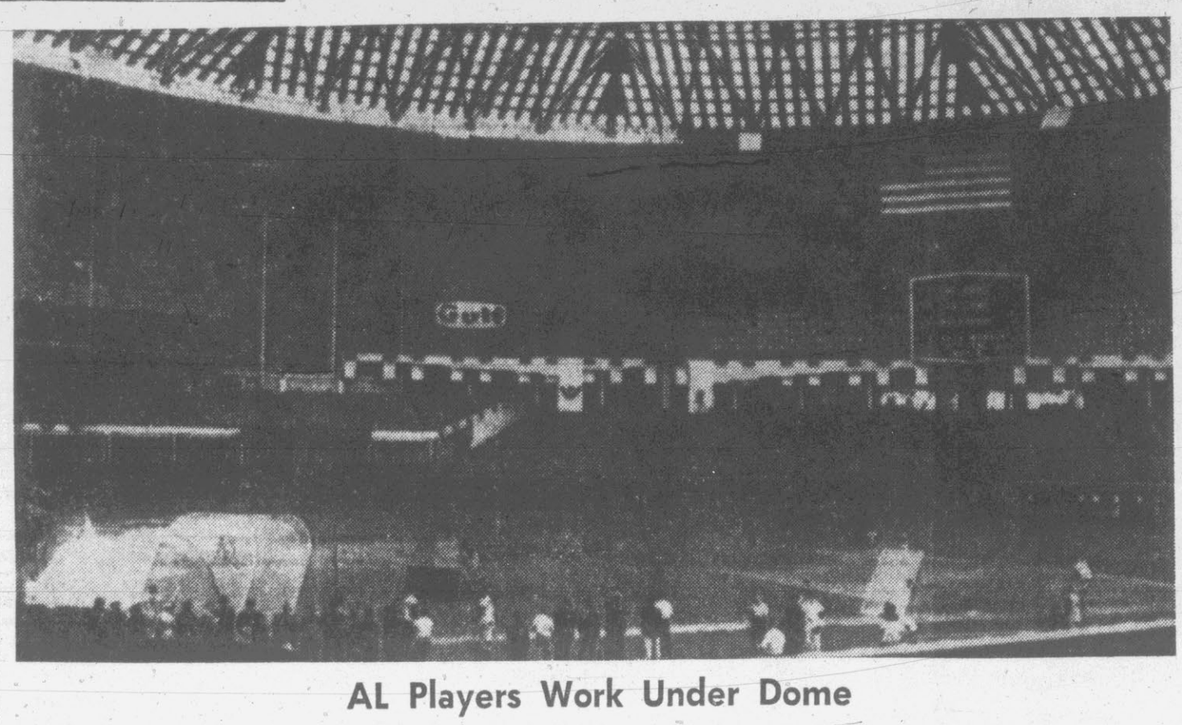

On three other occasions, Carolina Dairy put men in scoring position, but couldn't bring them around. State Bank had three chances, but failed on all three

AL Players Work Under Dome

Members of the American League All-Star team get in some practice in the Houston Astrodome in Houston, Texas, yesterday as they prepare for the annual All-Star game. It will be the first time the game has been played indoors, and puts the American Leaguers on the tricky Astroturf for the first time. The game will be played tonight at 8 p.m. (AP Wirephoto)

Managers Predict Another Mound Duel In 39th Annual All-Star Game

By DENNIE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Managers Dick Williams of the American League and Red Schoendienst of the National League, both noting it has been the year of the pitcher, predict a low-scoring mound duel in baseball's 39th annual All-Star Game tonight in the spacious Astrodome.

Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals, who will start 10-game winner Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, said, "I lean toward a pitcher's game. This has been the year of big zero."

Williams of the Boston Red Sox agrees. "I would say it will be a pitchers' battle," he said. "The pitchers should predominate."

He named herky-jerky right-hander Louis Tiant of Cleveland, a 14-game winner to start for the American.

A standing-room crowd of over 50,000 is expected for the game starting at 8:15 EDT in the air conditioned stadium built by Judge Roy Hofheinz, owner of the Houston Astros.

The AL went through an hour workout Monday afternoon under order from American League President Joe Cronin to get the feel of the synthetic turf. Most American Leaguers have never played in the Dome.

The National holds a 20-17 series edge, including five straight and nine of the last 10. The National is a 7-5 favorite.

This caused Williams to remark after he pitched batting practice: "We sure didn't come down here to lose."

The American Leaguers adjusted quickly to the fast surface of the carpet-like turf.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore third baseman, said, "The ball bounces true but it sure gets through the infield quick. I'd like to hit here all year. It would probably add 25 points to your batting average."

Giant Frank Howard of Washington, the leading home run hitter in the majors with 25, said he didn't think the ball carried very well.

Howard then proceeded to rip several shots into the left field seats—one over the 390 mark.

The Astrodome has dimensions of 340 feet down each line. It's 406 feet to dead center.

Some of the American League stars weren't on hand for the practice session, including Carl Yastrzemski and Ken Harrelson of Boston, Bill Freeman of Detroit and Mickey Mantle of New York, the team captain and first player ever to hit a homer in the Astrodome.

Asked about the missing players, Williams said, "They've got commitments. The game's tomorrow not today."

Tiant admitted that he was tired from pitching 6 1-3 innings Sunday but said he could go two hard innings.

"This is most important start in my life," Tiant said. "It's one of the biggest breaks I've ever had."

Williams said he started Tiant because "I think he's a damn fine pitcher. We may not have the name guys they have on the National League squad, but we do have some fellows who can play this game."

Officials said an estimated 55 million persons will watch the game over the National Broadcasting Co. television hookup in the United States, with another eight million viewing in Mexico. Joe Mewick, former Cardinal great and latest member of the Hall of Fame, will throw out the first ball.

Both All-Star teams came into the game with rather anemic batting averages. Team average for the AL is .263, with Yastrzemski at .301, the only .300 hitter in the starting line-up. The National has a .279 average, with starters Curt Flood of St. Louis and Tommy Helms of Cincinnati hitting .316 and .302, respectively.

Williams said he plans to follow Tiant with John "Blue Moon" Odom of Oakland. He said Odom pitched last Friday and would be well rested.

Schoendienst said he wasn't certain who would follow Drysdale, who has a 1.37 earned run average and set a record of 58 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings earlier this season. It will be Drysdale's fifth All-Star start, tying the record.

Immanuel, Grace Claim Church Wins

Immanuel Baptist and Grace Free Will Baptist picked up victories last night as the Church Softball League resumed action after the July 4 Holiday break.

Immanuel rolled to a 16-0 victory over Meadowbrook, while Grace beat Mt. Pleasant, 10-4.

Presbyterian leads the league with an 11-1 record, while St. James is second at 10-2, followed by Immanuel, 11-3. Oakmont is fourth at 7-5, followed by Grace, 7-7, Meadowbrook and Mt. Pleasant, both 6-7, Pentecostal, 1-9, and Gum Swamp and Jarvis, both 2-10.

In last night's opener, Grace pushed out into a 2-0 lead in the top of the first, but Mt. Pleasant cut that back to 2-1 in their half of the opening frame.

In the third, Grace added another run, then came up with four more in the fourth for a 7-1 edge. Two more scored in the fifth, and another in the sixth to complete the scoring.

Mt. Pleasant added three more in the fifth, but couldn't put together a lasting rally.

In the second contest, Immanuel had little trouble with Meadowbrook, limiting them to six hits during the evening.

Immanuel picked up two runs in the first as Grimsley homered. Six more scored in the second without a nomer being hit. The fifth saw six more and two more came over in the sixth, as Grimsley again homered.

Bengal Rookies Running Scared

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Aggressiveness and 100 per cent efforts prevailed during two rough football practice sessions at the Cincinnati Bengals' summer camp Monday.

The reason is that more than 70 rookies and free agents are scared, aware that cuts are coming and are fighting for jobs with the American Football League team. Around 15 are expected to be retained on the squad.

"These guys are more hungry tha the Eagles were," George Catavalos said about Philadelphia of the National Football League. "They're not thinking about themselves so much, they just want to make the club," the defensive back from Purdue continued.

Catavalos failed to make the Philadelphia team last year as a rookie and knows well the feeling of being cut and the pressure involved in trying to put out top performances and make the team.

"There are lots of people in my position," he said.

Catavalos, from Cleveland, grew up during the days when Paul Brown, current coach-general manager of Cincinnati, coached the Cleveland Browns.

"I know about Paul Brown teams. Cincinnati will be a good organization," Catavalos said.

He commented that there are a lot of men in camp who really love the game and Harry Gunner, a big defensive end and rookie from Oregon State, added, "This game is just hard . . . if you play, you've got to love it."

The Bengals cut five men from the squad Sunday and lost five more Monday—three by cuts and two to medical problems.

Released were Jim Curry, former University of Cincinnati end, and placekickers SamnRoberts, Ohio University, and Bill Shear, Cortland State.

Jeff Banks, a linebacker, from the University of Pacific, tore a cartilage in his knee last Friday and is scheduled to undergo surgery today.

Steve Lewicke, a defensive end from the University of Texas-El Paso, is suffering from a kidney infection.

Both are expected to be out of football for about a year.

Double practice sessions are slated for the players again today.

Chiefs May Bid For AFL Crown

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City has more question marks and more competition for positions than any time in the past five years. But the Chiefs might bid strongly to regain the American Football League championship.

"This competition is the greatest tonic in the world," said Coach Hank Stram as he prepared for the opening of rookie camp Wednesday at Liberty, Mo. "This should juice everybody up."

Stram is confident he has the talent to fill all eight question mark positions, with a potent mixture of rookies, taxi squad graduations and two trade acquisitions—running back Wendell Hayes and cornerback Goldie Sellers, both of Denver.

"We surely could win back the title if these people come through," Stram said. "We have a whole bunch of key positions, but we have the ability at each one. I'm hoping the competition will produce better depth and more quality players over-all than we've ever had."

Until recently, it appeared Kansas City had excellent backfield depth.

"Then we lost three backs in about a week," Stram said. "You never can have too much."

Bruce McLenna was killed in a freak auto accident, Gene Thomas was traded and rookie Robert Holmes of Southern U., was drafted by the military.

"We still have Mike Garrett, Curtis McClinton, Bert Coan and Hayes, but we need one more in case any one of them is hurt," the coach said.

Five of the higly competitive spots are on defense. It is Aaron Brown, 265, VS. Gene Trosch, 277, at end; former end Chuck Hurston, 240, VS. Bud Abel, 220, at right linebacker; Jim Lynch, 235, VS. Willie Lanier, 245, both second-year men at middle linebacker; Sellers VS. Emhit Thomas at left cornerback; and Jim Kearney VS. Dave Bonds a strong safety.

Offensively, it's Gloster Richardson VS. Frank Pitts at split end; Wayne Frazier, Mike Hudock and ex-linebacker E.J. Holub at center; and Curt Merz against three men at right guard, where starter Al Reynolds was lost to Cincinnati in the expansion draft.

Merz is over his back miseries and rates No.1. Kansas City's first two draft choices were guards—Maurice "Mo" Moorman, 252, of Texas A&M, and George Daney, 240, of Texas-El Paso. But they won't report until after the College All-Stars-Green Bay game at Chicago Aub. 2.

When they arrive, assuming they settle their money differences with the club, they'll have to move out Kit Colvin, 24, capable 250-pounder up from the taxi squad and Baker University at Baldwin, Kan.

Owners Push Panic Button

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League owners sounded the alarm button Monday night.

Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns and president of the NFL, announced that "pro football faces a long and disastrous strike" and then called for a full meeting of owners in Chicago today.

Modell's statement came after the NFL's Players Association said it had failed to resolve its disagreement with the owners over player pensions.

The players are seeking additional pension funds before the 1970 deadline desired by the owners.

Both groups met on the outskirts of Chicago Monday but reached no conclusion.

While the owners refused to give in to the players, the question of the All-Star Game arrived.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of the Green Bay Packers, who as the champions of pro football, must meet the College All-Stars in Chicago Aug. 2 said "the game will have to be delayed or canceled" unless the Packers have at least three weeks to get ready."

This resulted from an ultimatum by Modell to hold off the opening of all pro football camps until the present matter is settled.

The San Francisco 49ers were to open their rookie camp Sunday and the Packers were among those scheduled to start workouts Wednesday.

George Strickler, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune whose Chicago Tribune charities sponsors the All-Star Game, said, "Our contract is with professional football including the National Football and the American Football League.

"Our coaches are here and our squad will assemble Thursday and begin workouts Friday. We'll fulfill our end of our contract and we hope professional football will fill its end."

Meanwhile, Modell issued a statement that said, "Despite having granted 21 demands of the players' union, pro football faces a long and disastrous strike on the sole issue of granting pension benefits in 1968 to players, who on the average, will not be eligible to receive such benefits until the year 2,000."

The players' stand, held by John Gordy of the Detroit Lions who also is president of the Players' Association is that the owners cannot contract for any amount of money cconcerning 1970 "when they do not know what the situation will be then."

The owners claim they have granted 21 demands to the players and the union's leaders "have taken the position that such an agreement cannot be concluded until the ultimate merger with the American Football League is completed."

Modell, meanwhile, refused to claim the players' group is striking. He calls it an "impasse."

Pirates Sign FMA Lineman

John Albert Rowe, 6-1, 190 pound guard and linebacker from Southern Pines, has signed a football grant in aid with East Carolina University. He is the son of Master/Sgt. and Mrs. Albert H. Rowe of Southern Pines.

John was graduated from East Southern Pines High School where he was an outstanding football player and spent the 1967-68 school year as a postgraduate at Frederick Military Academy in Portsmouth.

"It is felt that John has the ability and desire to succeed and that he will be of much value to the Pirates football program," Coach Henry Vansant who recruited Rowe said.

Right Day, Wrong Town

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Baseball managers try various promotions to woo fans to the ballpark, but having three teams show up for one game. . . .

It happened Sunday in the Class A estern Carolinas League when both Spartanburg and Salisbury showed up to play the Greenville team.

The Spartanburg Phillies sat in the stands and watched Greenville defeat Salisbury 2-1. Gastonia's Pirates were 100 miles away waiting for an opponent.

The mixup may cost Spartanburg a forfeiture of a game to Gastonia. WCL president John Moss and other officials are reviewing the matter.

POOR PITCHING

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — It sounded like the married men against the single men at the office picnic. Denver University scored four in the ninth to beat Air Force Academy 33-29 in a baseball marathon in which the teams collected 57 hits in nearly five hours of scrambling. Denver used seven pitchers, the Cadets five.

Three National League pitchers are player representatives for their teams this year. They are Dave Guisti of Houston, Milt Pappas of Cincinnati and Dick Hall of Philadelphia.

Casper Gives Open Garbo Treatment

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Bill Casper gave the 1968 British Open Golf Championship the Garbo treatment and said today that this might be the way to tune up for a title every professional in the world envies.

The 37-year-old San Diego, Calif., professional who has won more than a quarter of a million dollars on the American circuit in the past two years, approached Wednesday's opening of the 72-hole contest in the loneliest manner possible.

Casper went around Carnoustie's fearsome 7,252-yard, par-72 layout by himself Monday.

"I discovered the course," he said quietly.

Before that, he went to two Sunday services of the Latter Day Saints in Dundee, as a recent convert to Mormonism. On Saturday, he addressed a Latter Day Saint's youth meeting.

While none of this seems to have anything to do with golf, Casper is convinced it has.

On top of that, he said he needs such interim breaks to keep him steady, nerveless and knee.

The bookmakers must be impressed.

Without any kind of practice round or scores worth talking about, Casper still is rated as a 5-1 for the title, just behind Jack Nicklaus, the 9-2 favorite.

The rating is remarkable when one considers that Casper never has played Carnoustie, never has competed in the British Open, and is somewhat of a stranger to British golf except for Ryder Cup appearances.

If Casper, straight from tee to green and one of the really great putters, says he has discovered the Carnoustie layout, the bookies might turn out to be more than right.

Bankers Deny Power Dangerously Snowballing

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Banking leaders deny charges in a congressional study that the power of some of the nation's commercial banks is snowballing dangerously.

"Misleading," said a spokesman for New York's Chase Manhattan Bank after a House banking subcommittee study was released Monday.

"Exaggerations, half-truths and ridiculous conclusions," said a spokesman for Cleveland Trust.

Subcommittee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., asked Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to look into possible antitrust questions raised by the study, which was compiled by the panel's staff but has not yet been formally adopted.

"The American economy of today is in the greatest danger of being dominated by a handful of corporations in a single industry as it has been since the great money trusts of the early 1900s," Patman said.

"A few banking institutions are in a position to exercise significant influence, and perhaps even control, over some of the largest business enterprises in the nation," he added.

Main thrust of the study was its contention that banks' influence is exerted largely through the estimated $607 billion assets which banks hold as trustees for pension funds, foundations, private trusts and other actual owners.

More than 54 per cent of the total trust assets in the nation are held by 49 banks in 10 large cities, the subcommittee said.

And these same 49 banks, it added, "hold a total of 768 interlocking directorships with 286 of the 500 largest industrial corporations in the United States."

The airline and nonferrous metals industries, plus newspaper and magazine publishing companies were cited as examples where bank trust departments hold large blocks of stock.

"The implication that important amounts of Newsday stock are held by the trust department of a bank is wrong," said a spokesman for the Long Island, N.Y., paper.

He said that the Morgan-Guaranty Trust Co. of New York at one time did hold stock in trust as an executor but not now.

Morgan Guaranty also was listed in the report as holding large blocks of stock in Trans World Airlines and United Airlines.

"If we were interested in influencing competition we obviously would have increased these holdings," said Thomas S. Gates, Morgan chairman. "We have done the opposite. Some time ago, solely for investment reasons, we disposed of most of our airlines stocks and put these funds to work in other industries."

Officers of the Bank of America in San Francisco, the country's largest bank, were not available for comment.

But the spokesman for Cleveland Trust, one of the banks studied by the subcommittee, said "banks traditionally have had large boards of directors representing major elements of a community's business.

"To avoid interlocks you would have to elect directors with no business experience or connections whatsoever. This would not be in the best interests of anyone."

Census Bureau Will Rely More On Mail Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — The old-fashioned census taker is going to be replaced by a cunt-by-mail and computer system for most of the American people during the 1970 head-counting.

The Census Bureau says about 60 per cent of the population will be asked to count itself by filling out and returning mailed questionnaires.

Those who don't—and the bureau figures there will be a number, particularly in slum areas—will get a visit from the census taker.

The next census starts April 1, 1970, and will be the 19th general head count conducted by the federal government which is required by the Constitution to count its citizens every 10 years.

In the last census, bureau employes visited each household and collected a completed questionnaire which had been mailed in advance.

But with more than 200 million heads to count in 1970, the bureau is trying to step up its efficiency and cut costs in the process.

The mail-by-census technique, in the testing stage since 1961, will be conducted only in the large metropolitan areas where most Americans now live. Four out of every five counties will be counted the old way.

In tests of the two-way mailing thus far, the bureau reported cooperation ranging up to 91 per cent. But it admits to problems in the Negro slums.

Tests in Philadelphia and Cleveland showed about one-third compliance in low-income areas, a bureau spokesman said.

One purpose of these tests is to devise methods to improve the record.

For the next census the Bureau plans to set up about 400 district offices to handle about 500,000 persons each. Each district will handle its operations in only one way—either by two-way mail or by visits from a census taker to collect forms mailed in advance.

Thus, some households in some large metropolitan areas —such as Little Rock and Des Moines—will receive questionnaires by mail but will return them to the census taker, not the postman.

That's because large rural areas are included in the districts containing those cities and the bureau said rural areas don't lend themselves as yet to the new return mail technique.

An area must have accurate and precise addresses and permit volume mailings for the best results, the bureau said.

Sirhan Is Moved To Another Cell

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan has been secretly whisked to a cell in the Hall of Justice where he will face trial on charges of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

A convoy of patrol cars manned by seven deputies from the Central Jail, completed the move Sunday, Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess announced Monday. The 14-minute move was so secret not even Russell E. Parsons, Sirhan's attorney, knew about it.

"We knew it was coming," said one of Parson's aides, "but the time was a secret even from us."

"The transfer was accomplished in a routine manner and was part of an over-all previously scheduled program of security for the inmate," Pitchess said.

The 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant's new 6-by-8 feet cell is on the 13th floor in the Hall of Justice.

The Hall of Justice's jail quarters have undergone a complete renovation accelerated because of the Sirhan case. Sirhan's cell is in an isolated corridor with no outside windows and no other prisoners. It is equipped with a bunk fixed to the wall, a toilet, wash basin and a 12-inch circular mirror attached to the wall.

There are more than a thousand species of cockroaches.

Two Juveniles Charged With Store Break In

Two juveniles were taken into custody this morning by Greenville police and charged with a break-in earlier in the day at Pollard's Grocery on Broad Street.

The two Negroes, one 14 and the other 15, were arrested at 5 a.m. Officers charged them, according to Chief H. F. Lawson, with throwing a brick through the Pollard store window about 2:30 a.m. and taking four cartons of cigarettes and $60.71 in cash.

Chief Lawson said the merchandise and money were recovered.

Chapman Member Univ. PR Office

Geoffrey C. Chapman has joined the staff of East Carolina University as assistant director of news and public relations.

Chapman, an ECU graduate and former Sunday editor of the Greenville Daily Reflector, has already assumed his duties with university public relations director Henry B. Howard.

Chapman, 27, is a native of Elizabeth City but grew up in Newport. He is a graduate of Newport High School and has an AB degree from East Carolina.

In addition to his work with the Reflector, he is a former student assistant in the ECU News Bureau and has had several articles and stories published, most recently short stories titled "Wanderlust" and "Crazy Annie" in ECU's literary magazine, The Rebel.

In announcing Chapman's appointment, Howard said thenew officer "brings a solid background in news to our staff." He added "Mr. Chapman is a very fine writer and a very capable young man. We are confident that he willl make many excellent contributions to our public relations program."

Chapman is the son of Mrs. Amy L. Chapman and the late Ganes T. Chapman of Newport and also an ECU graduate (BS, '64). Mrs. Chapman is a staff member of the Martin County Board of Education. The Chapmans make their home in Greenville at 701 Johnston St.

Big Solar Flare Disrupts Communications By Radio

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The biggest and brightest solar flare since 1966 fouled up short-wave radio communications around the world Monday, the U.S. Space Disturbance Forecast Center reported.

And, according to the government scientists, there's a better than even chance of further radio trouble from the same flare on Wednesday, with the signs of the sun pointing to more big solar flares in the not-too-distant future.

The sun appeared no larger or brighter than usual to anyone venturing a glance with his naked eye at 1:03 p.m. EDT.

But delicate sun-watching instruments here, and at a dozen "flare patrol" stations around the world, recorded a big change.

Scientists saw a large, intense white spot appear on the red mass the sun appears to be when viewed through their glare-filtering instruments. The spot was the flare, caused by an intensification and heating up of the magnetic field around the sun.

Forecaster Karl Kildahl said these changes in the sun's magnetic field produce corresponding changes in the magnetic field surrounding the earth. These changes disrupt short-wave radio transmissions.

"By our own short-wave monitoring and transmissions we can see that we have had a tremendous interruption today," Kildahl said.

He said the flare, which lasted about an hour, produced "noise storms" on short-wave transmissions that lasted several hours. By late evening the interference had died down, he said.

The storms affected a wide segment of the short-wave band, knocking out transmission from 184 megacycles to 10 megacycles, Kildahl said.

The flare was rated class 3 on a scale of brightness and size that has a maximum rating of class 4. It was the highest magnitude recorded since May 1966, Kildahl said. Two Class 2 solar flares, which also interrupted short-wave communications, were recorded Saturday.

Flares of lesser magnitude are seen at some of the flare patrol stations almost every day, Kildahl said.

'Media Mobile' Put On Display

A unique innovation in educational methods will be on view at East Carolina University this week in an educational media mobile. This is the unit's second visit to the campus.

The mobile unit, developed by the Division of Educational Media of the N. C. Department of Public Instruction, is parked in front of the J. Y. Joyner Library, Monday through Thursday July 8-11.

It is open to the public free of charge from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and 1:30-3:00 p.m.

In announcing the mobile's campus engagement, Gene D. Lanier chairman of the department of Library Science and anyone interested in North Carolina education would benefit by seeing the display.

The media mobile emphasizes the evaluation and selection of materials to support the teaching of North Carolina history, civics and geography.

Warehouse Ass'n Meet Underway

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C. (AP)—Tobacco sales, taxes and proposed legislative restrictions on cigarette advertising were expected to be discussed at today's opening session of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association meeting.

The four-day convention opened Monday with registration and a reception for members.

William H. Anderson, secretary-treasurer of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee, was scheduled to address the members today.

Chancel Drama Troupe Performs On Wednesday

The Chancel Drama Troupe of East Carolina University, sponsored by the United Campus Ministry, will perform Wednesday at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church, Church Street.

An art show of works by students and faculty of ECU will be held from 3:30 p.m. until 6 p.m. and a children's drama, "Winnie, the Pooh," will be presented at 6 p.m. A supper will follow in the fellowship hall of the church.

The main drama, to begin at 8 p.m., will be a special adaptation of Mark Twain's Diary of Adam and Eve.

The playwright and director is Albert Pertalion of the ECU faculty.

Offer Reward For An Outlaw

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A $1,500 reward was offered Monday by a group of Henderson County citizens for information leading to the arrest of outlaw Edward Thompson Jr., wanted on charges of kidnaping and rape.

The 37-year-old Henddrsonville man was declared an outlaw June 25, giving any citizen the right to kill Thompson with impunity if he disregards a call to surrender.

Then, on July 2, a federal warrant was issued for Thompson, charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Charges filed earlier against Thompson include six counts of kidnaping, three counts of rape, car theft, armed robbery and assault on an officer.

GOVERNORS INVITED

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Governors from 13 Atlantic coastal states have been invited to Miami Nov. 21-22 by Florida Gov. Claude Kirk to discuss territorial rights in the ocean.

There were 89,500 illegitimate births in the United States in 1940 and about 291,200 in 1965, the latest year covered by a study conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics.

Peter Graves Happy With A Series Role

By PETER GRAVES

EDITOR'S NOTE — Peter Graves, after some traumatic experiences, is now established in the CBS hit, "Mission: Impossible," and is that rara avis: a happy actor. Here he tells about some of the difficult times during the long climb, including playing second fiddle to a horse.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of television's favorite parlor games is called "biting the hand that feeds you." It's played by actors and actresses in hit series usually after two or three years of having their stomachs fed and egos massaged.

At this point, the nouveau-star suddenly arrives at one or more of the following insights: (1) he has sacrificed his "artistic integrity" for a series which really isn't worthy of his talents; (2) he's "bored" with playing the same role week after week; and (3) he isn't getting nearly the salary or fringe benefits he deserves for "carrying" the show.

He confides in the press. "The truth is I'm ready for bigger things. I should be starring in major movies or playing on Broadway. But that fool I took on as my agent signed me to a long-term contract — I didn't know any better; after all, I was working at a gas station when we met — and now I'm stuck in this rotten show."

The actor who takes this attitude is naive or inexperienced or both, and for his own sake, ought to have some sense pounded into him. Instead, he's apt to suffer a worse fate. The industry just may call his bluff, and he'll find himself back siphoning high octane.

What such performers forget, particularly when they start reading their own publicity, is that landing the lead in a high-rated TV series takes more than talent. It equires luck and timing and the contribution of directors, writers, cameramen, stage hands and many others.

I can speak from experience. When I stepped off the train in Hollywood 15 years ago, I figured I was ready to storm both movie and TV citadels. After all, at 16, I'd been the youngest radio announcer in the history of station WMIN in Minneapolis and had received glowing notices for "MacBeth" and "Of Mice and Men" at the University of Minnesota.

So what if there were no brass bands or gorgeous starlets to greet me? There was probably a supermarket opening on the other side of town, and all the brass bands and starlets were gathered there.

I set my sights on landing a starring role in a major prime-time TV series. Meanwhile, I was fortunate enough to appear in several movies, including "Stalag 17," "Rogue River," and "The Court Martial of Billy Mitchell."

Finally, I did get a television series, "Fury." It wasn't exactly prime time (unless you consider Saturday mornings prime time) and while I was nominally the star, a horse had all the good lines. For the next six years, my fan mail came from youngsters, 6 to 10, who figured I was a lucky guy to get that close to such a smart horse.

While the prospect of a hit series remained as elusive and ethereal as the town of Brigadoon, I was busy in movies, television and the Broadway theater, and the Bank of America and I were on excellent terms.

Finally, this past season, it happened. I was contacted by the producers of "Mission: Impossible" and was asked to create the new role of Jim Phelps.

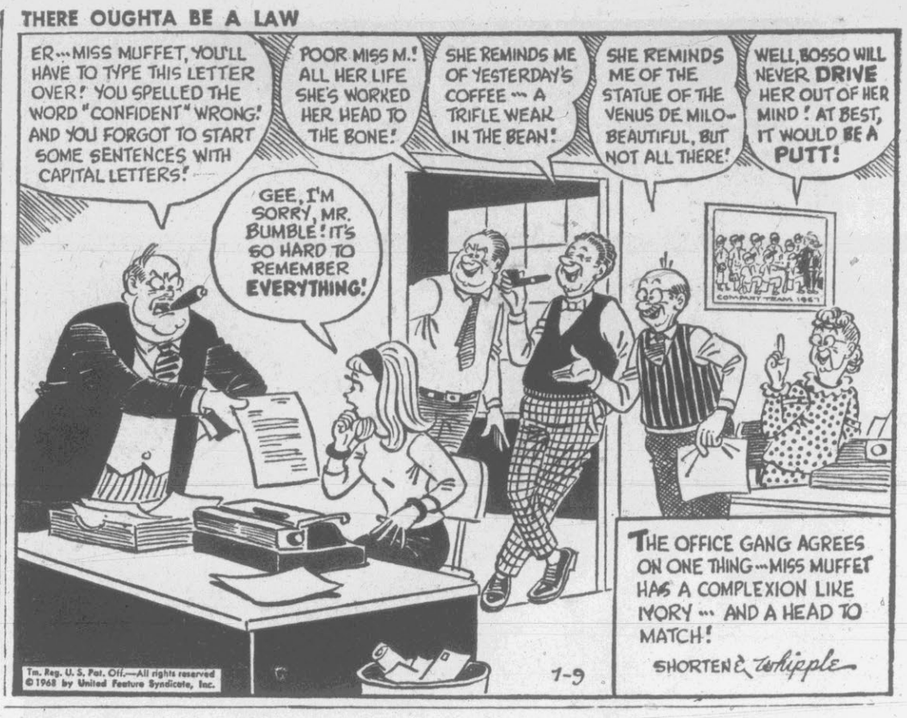

After a 15-year wait, I'm obviously delighted. And I find it ironic and a little sad when performers, in other top-rated series, grouse about "artistic suffocation" and publicly call for their own series to fail as a way out of their contractual obligations.

To borrow a phrase from "Mission: Impossible," that's self-destruction. Not the kind that happens when a secret tape goes bang! But the kind that takes place when actor's ego gets bigger than his talent or his good sense.

Jake used a trick to avoid the draft and thus escaped going to Vietnam. Psychosomatic medicine is a zooming innovation in the health field. Scrapbook this case. And never belittle the influence of the mine or of religious FAITH, in helping cure patients! God is still our most potent medicine!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-520: Jake D., aged 19, avoided the draft.

"Jake's clever," his teenage sister boasted to me.

"For he has learned how to race his pulse just by an act of his will power.

"I guess he started it when he was in high school and taking various drugs.

"For he ran around with a crowd of hippies.

"But now he can speed up his pulse without drugs.

"So he did that every time they gave him a physical examination for the draft.

"They finally decided he was medically unfit, so that's how he avoided going to Vietnam."

Body and mind interact far more than we usually imagine possible.

One of my psychology students at Northwestern University could thus control the tiny muscle fibers around the hairs on his arms.

He could thus concentrate and soon those hairs would stand up, much like the hairs on the back of an excited cat.

Meanwhile, goose pimples would also appear all over that arm.

Then, at a given signal, he could cause the goose bumps to vanish and the hairs would slowly fall back into place.

He could repeat this as often as he wished.

And he said all he had to do was visualize himself back in the Army, receiving the order to make a bayonet charge.

For he was scared almost to death at that time, he told me, and now he can resurrect that same fightened mood by an act of his will.

Another dramatic case to show the interaction between body and mind, involved a newspaper executive in Illinios, who had a hacking cough.

A quack doctor told him he was dying of tuberculoisis, and asked if he didn't have severe night sweats.

This newspaperman shook his head.

But that very night he woke up about 2 A.M. in such a heavy night sweat that drops of perspiration were actually trickling off his temples.

His wife had to give him a pair of dry pajamas.

And about 4:30 A.M., he again awakened in such a terrific night sweat that it looked as if he were in a Turkish steam bath.

His wife now had to give him another pair of dry pajamas and even change both sheets, for they were soaked with sweat.

Yet a thorough chest examination, plus sputum tests, showed he did not have TB at all!

So his severe night sweats were produced by his subconscious mind, even as he lay sound asleep!

Fear and anxiety can not only produce excess secretions, but they can also dry up saliva and possibly alter other endocrine glands till many anxious wives remain childless, though they have no medical evidence to justify their lack of babies.

Later, when they adopt an infant, they relax and apparently their normal physiology is restored, so they may soon get pregnant!

Never belittle the power of the mind and of FAITH in the realm of modern medicine!

So send for my booklet "How to Control Our Emotions," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Accepted For Admission At Lipscomb College

Wayne Butler Sumrell, 105-B Kenner Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., has been accepted for admission at David Lipscomb College in Nashville.

A 1962 graduate of J.H. Rose High School, Sumrell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Berry Sumrell of Greenville. He will follow a business major.

Lipscomb operates on a four-quarter, year-round basis, with new students (including freshmen) accepted any quarter.

With a record enrollment of 2,200 expected this fall, the college is completing a new dormitory for men and a new student services building.

Graduated At California Tech

PASADENA, Cal. — Willard G. Manning, grandson of Mrs. Minnie Manning of Bethel, recently graduated with honors from the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, Cal.

Manning was a national Merit Scholarship winner, a National Honor Society Scholarship winner and a California Institute of Technology Scholarship winner.

He was recognized two years in succession by the California Institute of Technology student government for significant contributions to student life. He was President of the school YMCA.

Manning is a recipient of a fellowship for graduate studies at Sanford University in Palo Alto, California.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs Willard G. Manning of Aurora, Col.

Named Member Nat'l Reserve

THOMASVILLE, Ga. — Lloyd P. Sloan Jr., Washington, N.C., insurance and real estate executive, has been appointed a member of the National Defense Executive Reserve.

Sloan was appointed by Price Daniel, former governor and U.S. senator from Texas, who is director of the Office of Emergency Planning in the Executive Office of the President.

Sloan would be called to duty in a civilian capacity to serve the federal government in the event of a general war and would be assigned to the Region 3 Office of Emergency Planning, headquartered in Thomasville, Ga.

Region 3 embraces the sceen southeastern states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and Mississippi.

Sloan, 43, a native of Mecklenburg County, graduated from Sharon High School in Charlotte and studied at Louisburg College before graduating from East Carolina College.

He is an Air Force veteran, a major in the Air Force Reserve, and chairman of the Beaufort County Democratic Executive Committee.

Participates In NSF Institute

CHAPEL HILL — William C. Cobb from Greenville is among 34 teachers participating in the National Science Foundation Geology Institute at the University of North Carolina here.

Now in its eighth consecutive year, the institute began June 24 and will continue until Aug. 2. It has a NSF grant for $38,995 operating expenses.

The purpose of the institute is to improve the knowledge of junior high and high school earth science teachers. Lectures, laboratory work, and field trips to the N.C. coast and mountains are included.

Dr. Roy H. Ingram and Dr. Walter H. Wheeler are co-chairmen of the institute.

Cobb teaches eighth grade math and science at West Tarboro Junior High in Tarboro. He was chosen from 400 applicants to attend the institute which has enrolled teachers from 16 states.

Exercise Keeps A Car In Trim

CHICAGO (AP) — Head for the open highways and exercise your automobile.

That's the advice from the director of the Chicago Motor Club's emergency road service department, John H. Struben.

He said exercise, as in the human body, keeps a car tuned and peppy.

"This does not mean that you must drive at excessive speeds —just reasonable highway speeds sufficient to give your engine a good workout," Struben said.

He said a brisk run at highway speeds helps to improve battery efficiency, removes carbon from spark plugs and frees sticky valves.

Uranus, Venus Pose Mysteries

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronomers don't understand all about the solar system yet, says Pace College professor of astronomy, Dr. Sune Engelbrektsen. Why the planet Uranus is tilted 97 degrees on its axis and why Venus forecast by J. du Plessis, chief when most planets and satellites spin counterclockwise is not yet known.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

West gave careful consideration to his opening lead against South's three no trump contract. He promptly ruled out hearts for, altho it was the unbid suit, too much strength was required from partner to develop tricks from that source. The same thing was true of clubs, nor did it appear attractive to lead a diamond, the suit bid by declarer.

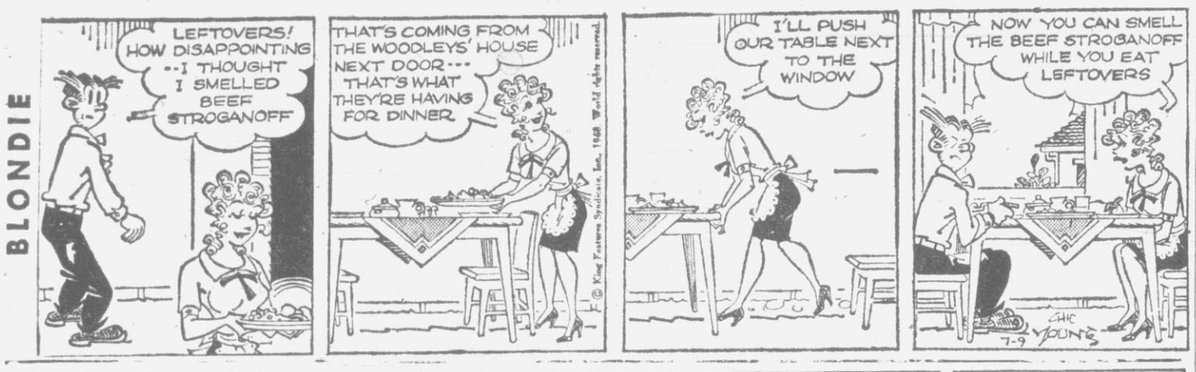

By a process of elimination, West decided to try spades in the hope of hitting his partner. He accordingly opened the queen of spades. The king was put up from dummy and East signaled encouragingly with the six. Altho he would have liked to exhibit greater enthusiasm over West's lead, he was unable to spare a higher card. By ducking the first trick, he assured the eventual run of the entire suit provided that West could get in to lead spades again.

A club was led to the king at trick two and declarer continued with the queen. When East showed out, West's jack was finessed on the next round. A total of five tricks were taken in clubs on which East had to find four discards. He gave up three diamonds and one heart, holding on to his spades for dear life.

In order to develop a ninth trick, South was obliged to drive out the ace of diamonds. When the queen was led, West played the ace and then returned the eight of spades thru the dummy's holding, which was now headed by the ten. East won the trick with the nine of spades, picked up the remainder of the suit with the ace and jack and then cashed the setting trick with the deuce of spades.

Despite the flawless performance by the defense, South could have frustrated their efforts by permitting West to hold the first trick with the queen of spades. This blocks the run of the suit and limits the opposition to a maximum of three spade tricks and one diamond.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets stronger Monday. Supplies adequate, demand good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 42-43; medium, whites: 38-39½; small, whites: 28-30.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets were steady today. Tops of 21.25 21.75 Rocky Mount; 21.00-21.50 Bethel; 20.75-21.50 Wilson; 20.50-21.50 Tarboro; 21.00 Greensboro, Salisbury; 20.75 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held a fairly good gain in heavy trading this afternoon.

Gains outnumbered losses by some 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 4.51 at 917.11.

Prices rose from the opening and widened their gains on average as the session continued. Relatively strong performances by blue chips helped the market indicators, but as time went by more issues fell.

Caution was growing, brokers said, because of the sharp advance Monday and the fact that Wednesday would be another day off for the stock market so that member firms could catch up with paper work.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .9 at 348.9, with industrials up 1.3, rails up .4, and utilities up .4.

City Stores leaped to the top of the most-active list when a block of 165,500 shares was traded at 23, off 1. In later dealings, the stock regained the loss.

Bobbie Brooks, Monday's most-active stock, was up about a point and was among the top several volume leaders.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Ray's Appeal In Extradition Case Set July 29

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray's appeal against extradition to the United States will open in the British High Court July 29, his British lawyer said today. The hearing is expected to last at least two days.

Ray, charged with assassinating Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., made a one-minute appearance in Bow Street, Magistrate's Court today on the two charges on which he was arrested June 8 at London airport, using a forged passport and carrying an unlicensed gun.

Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Frank Milton ordered him held in Wandsworth Prison for another seven days on the two charges. Ray said nothing.

These services will be the first ones conducted at Morning Star Holiness Church.

BelieveGardner Letter Is Fraud

RALEIGH (AP)— What Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N.C., described as a "threatening letter" sent to North Carolina businessmen has been branded as fraudulent by a Virginia official of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

And a Richmond, Va., police official said he has doubts about the letter's authenticity.

Gardner told a news conference Monday that several North Carolina businessmen had received copies of the letter and had turned them over to him.

The letter asked that contributions be sent to the SCLC in Atlanta and demanded that the businesses give equal treatment to Negroes. The letters said in conclusion: "Please heed the above message. Do not cause us to bring force upon you." They were signed by the "People's Committee for Human Dignity, Hull St. Ext., Richmond, Va."

The Rev. Curtis W. Harris, president of the SCLC in Virginia, says his organization knows nothing about the letter and that he had never heard of a People's Committee for Human Dignity.

"It is not our method to threaten an economic withdrawal because of the absence of financial contributions from business people," Harris said. "We do engage in economic withdrawal when a business is not fair in employment practices." Harris is a third vice president of the national SCLC.

"The organization that signed the letter," said Harris, "was not the SCLC."

Richmond detective Sgt. D. R. Duling said the letter has been under investigation and he is inclined to believe it may be "a gimmick to get people stirred up" against the SCLC.

Gardner, Republican nominee for governor, distributed copies of the letter at a news conference Monday. He said he had not checked to determine if it actually came from the SCLC but planned to do so.

Swiss Police Say East German Spy Arrested

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss police said today they have arrested an East German spy who had been assigned to recruit a nuclear physicist living in the West, but they gave no details about the physicist.

Police said Dr. Helmut Bruno Anders, 40, a doctor of law and a professor at Karl Marx University in Leipzig, wasa rrested at Zurich Airport May 12 after an identification check as he was preparing to leave the country.

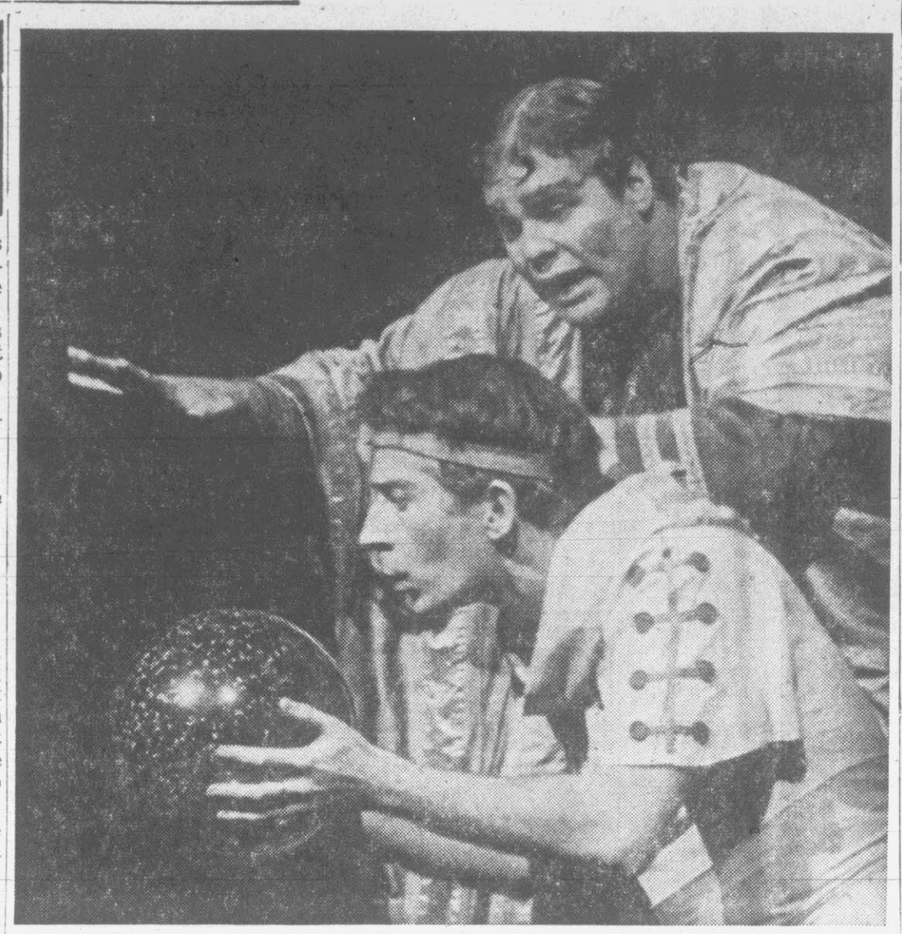

Officers said he was carrying two false West German passports. They said the East German Ministry of Public Security had employed him on espionage missions "for many years."

Because his activities were not directed against Switzerland, he will be charged only with using false papers, police said. He faces certain expulsion from Switzerland.

Will Keynote Banquet Session

Sam D. Bundy, principal of the Sam D. Bundy School, will be the keynote speaker at the banquet session of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association at the Blockade Runner at Wrightsville Beach Wednesday night.

Mrs. Bundy will accompany her husband.

THE SORCERER (Gregory Zittel) drops a hint to Dromio of Ephesus (John Sneden) that his long lost twin may still be alive in this scene from "The Boys From Syracuse," first musical production of the East Carolina University Summer Theatre, which opened in McGinnis Auditorium last night. (ECU News Bureau Photo by Kelly Adams)

Durable Musical Is Still Bright, Amusing

(Editor's note: Beverly Wolter a popular arts reporter for the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, was official critic for last night's opening performance of the ECU Summer Theatre musical, "The Boys From Syracuse." Miss Wolter has made several trips to ECU. She was official critic for the Contemporary Music Festival here last spring.)

"The Boys From Syracuse" has held up well over the years despite the changes in musical comedy styles since the 30s.

The show's durability is amply demonstrated in the version, produced by Edgar Loessin, which opened Monday for a week's run at the East Carolina University Summer Theater.

The musical by George Abbott, Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart was first produced in the late 30s. It was revived recently as a starring vehicle for Zero Mostel.

The show is based on Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors," in which two sets of twins become involved in a double case of mistaken identity. The situations in which the twins find themselves are logical, if implausible, and, in any case, add up to a great deal of fun.

Richard Lyle, who directed the show, has two sets of twins who look remarkably alike—that is, each twin looks like his twin, thanks to effective make-up and identical costuming.

Shakespeare would recognize the basic elements of his show, and no doubt applaud its updating in dialogue and accompanying song and dance. After all, he borrowed the plot from an earlier writer.

Where the updating of dialogue is concerned, the speech remains essentially that of Shakespeare in his comedies—that is, the conversation is often bawdy and filled with double entendres. The players, to a certain extent, threw away some of these lines last night. Also, the audience was slow, or else shy, in picking them up.

The audience was small—about 300-400 in the 700-seat auditorium. The size may account for the less than total response to the show.

The production had many things working for it, aside from an able cast, which included: Gary Beach and John Ryan as the two Antipholuses, John Sneden and James Slaughter as the two Dromios, and Lillian Sherdal as Adriana, and Eleanor Timmerman as Luciana, the two wives who do not know which Antipholus and which Dromio is which.

A bevy of bikini-clad young ladies who gyrated like belly dancers and otherwise described themselves as "ladies of the evening" added to the visual attractiveness of the proceedings.

John Sneden, not content with doing an engaging performance of a Dromio, also designed the sets. In their brilliance of color, they fitted a psychedelically-attuned age, but they also tended to overwhelm the players The players blended into the scenery.

The show calls for numerous scene changes. Sneden managed these in quick, clover fashion with some revolving pieces and some flown bits of scenery.

The show, as a whole, had a nice comic flair. The acting generally surpassed the singing.

Frequently the singers were drowned out by Roger Stephens' lively but loud orchestra. Then too, the singers' diction often left something to be desired, especially in the chorus, although the principals did not always sound clearly either. They often seemed to be straining, to the point that this listener thought that they really were not up to the demands of the music.

Then again, it may be that people were just not up to opening night, a frequent occurrence. Miss Sherdal, for example, obviously has a fine voice, yet when she sang the splendid "Falling in Love With Love" solo, she looked miserable—certainly more miserable than the words call for.

The show has several familiar songs, of which one of the most notable is "This Can't Be Love."

Aside from the production difficulty in hearing the singers, the show itself offers one other problem, one which relates to its date and the style of musical comedy once in vogue: the action repeatedly is stopped by choral or dance interludes that often have little to do with the plot or the advancement or rounding out of the plot.

By and large, however, the show is bright, gay and amusing.

Accidents, a leading cause of death among persons in the 15 to 24 age range, are fatal to four times as many men as women.

Arrest Youth On Morals Count

East Carolina University police charged a 19-year-old Greenville youth with indecent exposure after the youth led college officers and Greenville police on a chase across campus and into the edge of the downtown business district late this morning.

Johnnie Harrell, chief of the ECU police department, identified the youth as 19-year-old Spencer Earl Jones of 609 Sheppard St.

Jones was charged with exposing himself to co-ed nursing students in a stairwell of the Nursing School building June 28.

This morning's foot race began about 10:30 a.m. after police were called to Joyner Library on the ECU campus by girls who reported a young Negro peeping through stacks of books at the library at them.

Chief Harrell noted that the suspect was not exposing himself this morning, but was charged in connection with the June 28 incident at the new School of Nursing building.

Chief Harrell said several incidents of indecent exposure have been reported to college police over the past month. All, he said, involved a young Negro.

According to the chief, the first incident occurred about a month ago at the Music Building, while the second occurred at the School of Nursing.

The latest incident was reported July 4 when a Negro exposed himself to students in the library.

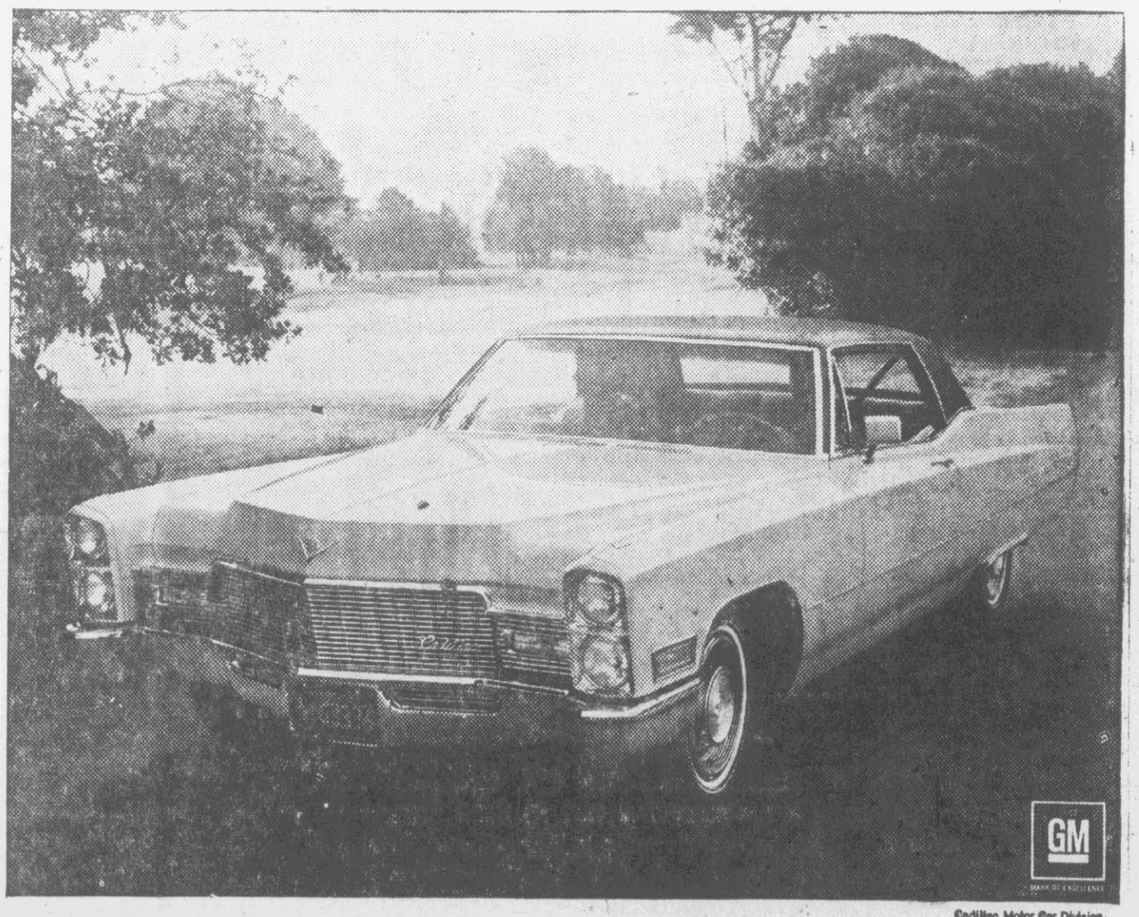

Jones was taken into custody about 11 a.m. in the alley that parallels Fifth Street, behind H. L. Hodges Co.

Cadillac

This is the most spirited luxury car of all time, which doesn't interfere in the slightest with its being the most luxurious.

The years most surprising driving experience is yours for the asking. We call it a "Command Performance," and it begins the minute you take your seat in a 1968 Cadillac.

This year, our 472 V-8 engine introduced a new level of performance to luxury motoring. The largest production V-8 ever to power a passenger car, it delivers performance that is smooth, quiet and highly responsive—performance to fully match Cadillac's stature.

With its graceful styling, tasteful interior decor and thoughtful driving conveniences, this is the most luxurious Cadillac of all time. Along with unhurried, painstaking craftsmanship, these qualities assure the matchless value and pride of ownership for which Cadillac has long been renowned.

Your authorized Cadillac dealer will gladly stage a "Command Performance" test drive at your convenience. His selection of models is now at its best, so contact him this week.
