Ordeal For A Twelve-Year-Old

CAUGHT IN A PIPE — Patricia O'Brien, 12, of Watervliet, N.Y., spent five hours Saturday with her left arm caught in the drainage pipe of a wading pool. (AP Wirephoto)

Arm Trapped By Drain Pipe In Swim Pool

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Patricia O'Brien just wanted to cool off at a municipal pool, but the 12-year-old girl's dip turned into a weekend of extreme pain when her arm was caught in a drain pipe.

Patricia, of nearby Watervliet, went to that city's Schuyler Park Pool Saturday afternoon.

At about 4:30, her left arm became lodged up to her shoulder in a drainage pipe that protruded several inches above the concrete base of the shallow pool.

Her father, Albert, told reporters that Patricia slipped and that her arm went into the four-inch, steel pipe as she fell.

The pool was being drained at the time, causing suction.

Police and firemen tried at first to extricate her arm by using grease and oil. When that failed, they broke the concrete with air hammers and separated the pipe section from the base after five hours.

Patricia, under sedation for pain and the piece of pipe still around her swollen arm, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital here.

A second ordeal lasted for nine hours Sunday as members of Troy's rescue squad cut away the pipe with hacksaws. The delicate job was completed at about 8:30 p.m. with files and portable pneumatic drills.

"We had to work slowly and carefully to avoid cutting into her arm," said Russell Sheehan, Troy's deputy fire chief. "Her pain was terrific."

Hospital officials said Patricia was in good condition but added that they would not know whether the arm had been damaged seriously until the swelling subsided.

Soviet Troops Resume Czechoslovak Pullout

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Soviet troops resumed their pullout from Czechoslovakia today, Prague dispatches reported. As leaders of other East bloc nations met in Warsaw to discuss what to do about the liberal movement launched by the Czechoslovak Communist leadership.

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported the Soviet elements resumed their withdrawals during the night and that others were expected to pull out during the day.

The troops began leaving Saturday but then the movement halted. Official Czechoslovak news media said it was halted because of heavy weekend traffic, but the delay was considered a new pressure on the new leadership in Prague.

It was the second postponement of the troop withdrawal since Saturday. Some 5,000 Soviet soldiers arrived in Czechoslovakia last month for two weeks of Warsaw Pact maneuvers that ended June 30. Their continued presence triggered a wave of jitters among Czechoslovaks who viewed it as an implied threat to Prague's liberalized regime.

The Prague government announced last week that 35 percent of the Russian troops had left. One Soviet troop convoy crossed into East Germany on Saturday, but after that the troop movement stopped.

The Polish and East German leaders have shown particular concern about the course the new Prague regime is taking because both Poland and East Germany have had antigovernment outbreaks since the death of Stalin.

Vital Week In Deciding To Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP) — What happens this week could be the determining factor in whether Congress can adjourn before the start of the Republican National Convention early next month.

Leaders have scheduled a full agenda, including Saturday meetings, in what shapes up as the busiest week of the session in order to clear away such important legislation as gun control bills and $115 billion in appropriations.

It would take a supreme, and unexpected, effort to finish work in time to meet the Aug. 3 adjournment target set by both House and Senate leaders.

This "will be the crucial week" in determining whether the Senate can be ready for pre-convention adjournment, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla., also was hesitant to say that the Aug. 3 deadline will be met.

Mostly minor business was before the House today. The Senate had scheduled consideration of higher-education and vocational education bills, as well as House-passed proposals providing $13.6 billion for several independent agencies.

Here's the House schedule for the rest of the week: Tuesday and Wednesday—Foreign aid authorization bill. A major floor fight is expected over the measure, already sharply cut by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Gun control bills; higher education and vocational education proposals and several other matters. Also Thursday, the House is expected to get for consideration next week the year's biggest money bill, presidential requests for 77.7 billion for the Defense Department.

The Senate outlook for the week:

Tuesday on—A bill to regulate handling of mutual funds; Transportation Department appropriation bill of $1.3 billion and several other money bills.

Govm't Begins Taking Bigger Tax Bite From U.S. Paychecks

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government started taking a bigger tax bite out of Americans' paychecks today as the 10 per cent income surtax recommended by President Johnson to help pay for the Vietnam war finally went into effect.

All paychecks received from today on must reflect the surcharge through an increased deduction for federal income taxes.

The 10 per cent increase is on the federal tax Americans already have been paying, not on their total wages.

If $20 had been withheld from each weekly paycheck for federal taxes, for example, $22 will be withheld beginning today. All paychecks must account for the increased withholding to cover the surcharge even if the money was earned before this week. Only persons in the two lowest income tax brackets are exempt.

President Johnson originally submitted the surcharge to Congress last Aug. 3 and asked for an Oct. 1 effective date for individuals.

When Congress failed to act last year, Johnson changed the effective date, for individuals to last April 1, a date approved by Congress in the measure finally passed in June.

Because of this retroactive feature, the tax withheld from paychecks won't cover all the money individuals will owe the government by the end of December.

The extra 3 1/2 months must be paid when Federal income tax returns are filed by next April 15.

This will mean smaller and fewer refunds next year and larger payments of additional tax.

For calendar 1968 as a whole, the surcharge will represent an over-all increase in taxes of 7.5 per cent since it will be paid for only nine months of the year.

The surcharge is scheduled to expire next June 30 but at least one administration official, Undersecretary of Commerce Howard J. Samuels, already has urged its extension to help pay the nation's social legislation costs.

That decision will be up to the administration elected in November, and to the new Congress.

The tax is intended to help meet the cost of the Vietnam War—now running more than $28 billion a year; to keep President Johnson's Great Society programs rolling; to stem inflation, and to reduce a budget deficit which in the last fiscal year rose to about $25 billion—fourth largest in history.

Coupled with the surcharge package is a congressional mandate to the administration to cut spending by $6 billion.

In addition to the surcharge on individuals and corporations, the new law also speeds up collections of corporate income taxes and extends the 10 per cent excise tax on telephone service and the 7 per cent manufacturers excise on automobiles.

The corporate tax is retroac-

Red Threat To Saigon Is Eased

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. sources said today that some enemy units believed poised for an attack on the capital have pulled back and "there is no immediate major threat to Saigon."

"The enemy has backed off," said one highly placed U.S. official. "They don't have the capability to attack except in a very small way. There isn't any forward movement at all."

"Some elements of the major back. All of them didn't pull back. It is not a general withdrawal. But if you are going to mount a major attack you don't pull back anybody."

Although he said there was no immediate threat, the source qualified this by noting that the situation could change rapidly.

The new U.S. assessment contradicted South Vietnamese intelligence reports of a continuing enemy buildup along the Cambodian border and in Hau Nghia Province west of Saigon.

where the North Vietnamese 9th Division has its headquarters.

The general lull in the ground war also continued. South Vietnamese military headquarters said government forces sweeping the outer fringes of Saigon clashed with an enemy force to destroy eight miles southwest of the city, killed one Viet Cong and seized a mortar, two bazooka-type rocket launchers and 37 small rockets.

Clifford, who arrived Sunday for his first visit since succeeding Robert S. McNamara, conferred with leaders of the U.S. military and political missions deep inside the sprawling Pentagon East U.S. military compound at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base.

On his arrival, Clifford said the United States would speed up deliveries of modern M16 rifles to South Vietnamese forces "even at the expense of our own forces." He expressed hope that South Vietnam one day might begin to take over the war burden from the Americans, but declined to speculate on when U.S. troops could be withdrawn.

The defense secretary is to present his findings to President Johnson in advance of the President's Honolulu meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu next week-end.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker gave Clifford a general assessment of the political and economic situation, with aides filling in details. Robert W. Komer, chief of pacification and civilian relief operations in Vietnam, also briefed him.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, had the afternoon to fill Clifford in on the latest military situation, especially the reportedly growing threat of a third major enemy offensive against Saigon and another threat to the northern frontier.

The agreement provides for continuation of a 10-year-old program for scientific, technological, educational and cultural contacts between the two countries. The previous agreement expired last December.

It was signed the same day a Moscow-New York air route was opened as another sign of Soviet-American cooperation.

The route was envisaged in the first cultural exchange agreement signed in 1958 but delayed by the ups and downs of relations.

Negotiations on the new cultural agreement were delayed partly by poor relations resulting from the war in Vietnam. But the main reason was a reorganization of the Soviet system for handling cultural relations.

Speaking at the ceremony, Thompson said the agreement provided for increase of exchanges to be arranged as warranted. The agreement specifies how many delegations, exhibits and cultural groups will be exchanged.

He said the petitions had been sent to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Smith said the committee was formed specifically to fight gun control and is headed by retired Army Col. Henry E. Royall of Chapel Hill.

Witnesses testified Woolard attacked and threatened them and used lewd and indecent language after they climbed the high sand dune on the Outer Banks.

The youths were arrested in a marshy area after a 3 1/2-hour chase by the Nags Head Police Department, Dare County Sheriff's Department and Highway Patrol.

No Bail For Accused Killer Of 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Rogers, a Negro accused of killing three Puerto Ricans, was held without bail on a homicide charge today.

A hearing was set for Aug. 5 by Judge Samuel Ohlinger in Bronx Criminal Court. Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Burton Roberts said the case was being prepared for a grand jury.

Rogers, 31, formerly from Burlington, N.C., showed no emotion at the arraignment in a crowded courtroom. Of medium height and muscular build, he was wearing a pullover sweater and trousers.

He was represented by a Legal Aid Society lawyer.

The police were keeping Rogers under close guard.

Relatives of the victims had held memorial services on the streets, and collected money for their families. There has been no disturbance.

Police brought Rogers from North Carolina Sunday. When he left Alamance County Jail he called to relatives, "I'll see you later."

Rogers eluded a New York City police dragnet after the shootings Thursday night and fled to North Carolina where, accompanied by his brother Henry Rogers, 35, of Burlington, N.C., he surrendered to authorities.

Authorities in New York were holding Rogers incommunicado and refused to say where he was or how he had been brought back to the city.

The accused was removed from the North Carolina jail Sunday afternoon, but officials refused to tell newsmen where he was being taken. About five hours later, authorities said Rogers was back in New York.

Rogers, a Negro and an Army veteran, is accused of shooting three men with a .30-caliber automatic carbine in front of the Bronx tenement where he worked as a superintendent.

His brother quoted him as saying he had shot the three men in self defense as they were trying to get into his apartment to kill him.

tive to Jan. 1.

The entire package is expected to increase revenues by more than $15 billion in the current fiscal year which ends next June 30 with the individual surcharge accounting for $7.75 billion of this.

Johnson signed the measure into law on June 28. It became effective after 15 days but since that was Sunday, the practical effective date for collecting the surcharge was today.

The total of $26,481,500 represents projects for the 1969-1971 biennium.

The project rating priority in the appropriation request is $1,450,000 for the purchase of three tracts of land in the immediate vicinity of the campus, totaling 31.7 acres. Other priority projects are:

The Advisory Budget Commission makes biennial rounds of all the state supported institutions. Chairman of the commission is State Senator Thomas J. White of Lenoir County.

The commission accepts requests for appropriations from each institution visited, studies them, and then make their recommendation to the governor. The governor in turn presents his recommendation on the appropriation requests to the General Assembly.

Good Education Costly: Carroll

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Dr. Charles Carroll, North Carolina superintendent of public instruction, said Sunday that good education is going to cost money.

Appearing on a Charlotte television program, Carroll noted: "We aren't going to get quality teachers in the bargain basement. We aren't going to get good leadership in the bargain basement. And if we want to pay for it, And if that requires higher taxes, higher taxes it has to be."

Dr. Carroll, who is retiring at the end of the year, said an increase of at least $150 million a year probably will be requested for North Carolina public schools at the 1969 session of the General Assembly.

North Carolina is working toward the national average in salary and personnel, he said, adding: "I would like to believe that the state is ready for that move."

Carroll said North Carolina's teacher pay average is about $6,200 a year.

In his appearance on WBTV's "For the Record" broadcast, Dr. Carroll said he "would favor as a minimum the national teacher salary average, and we are about $1,400 per teacher below the national average."

On other education topics, Carroll said he has heard some charges that the newest teachers are the ones assigned to teach in predominantly Negro schools. He said he had also heard that some of the old teachers have been assigned against their will. He emphasized that he did not have specific facts concerning these charges.

"In other words, I would not call it exactly a rumor, and yet I don't believe there's been much of that," he said.

He said "the greatest need facing North Carolina and the nation itself is to come under a better determination and judgment of what shall be taught, by whom it shall be taught, and how it shall be taught."

Of teachers' sanctions, Carroll said he is "in favor of the teacher doing what he or she needs to do in order to bring about improvement in the teacher's welfare." But he added, "I would certainly prefer, by all means, that teachers use means other than the invoking of sanctions in bringing this about."

Manteo Terrorist To Appeal 6-Year Term

MANTEO, N.C. (AP) — A young Chesapeake, Va., man says he will appeal sentences totaling six years on charges of leading terror attacks last weekend atop the high Jockey Ridge sand dune near Nags Head.

Michael Woolard, 21, who represented himself at his trial before Judge Fentress Horner in Manteo District Court Friday, is expected to appear in Dare County Superior Court Oct. 21.

Horne sentenced five other youths to 30 days each on charges of engaging in affray in connection with the incidents on Jockey Ridge. He noted he was imposing the maximum sentences for the charges.

The five are Bobby Lee Hartman, 21, and his brother Johnny, 20; Earnest Edward Smith, 19; William Harry Cutler, 22; and Edward Floyd Cutler, all of Chesapeake.

Horne ordered the charges against two other Chesapeake youths, Larry Wayne Burnett and Jerry Wayne Hudson, dropped. The judge said the two apparently "did all they could" to prevent the attacks.

Woolard was sentenced to two years on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, a horse whip, was given 18 months on each of two separate charges of assault on females, and one year for assault on a minor. The sentences are to run concurrently except for the one-year assault sentence, which means Woolard was ordered to spend five years in prison.

Witnesses testified Woolard attacked and threatened them and used lewd and indecent language after they climbed the high sand dune on the Outer Banks.

The youths were arrested in a marshy area after a 3 1/2-hour chase by the Nags Head Police Department, Dare County Sheriff's Department and Highway Patrol.

Ben Rouse Promoted To New Burroughs Corp. Role

Ben L. Rouse, vice president of Burroughs Corporation, has been promoted to vice president and group executive for the Company's International Group effective July 1, Ray W. Macdonald, president, announced today.

Rouse, who has been corporate vice president, product management, for accounting machines and systems, calculators and adding machines since 1966, succeeds Reginald C. Cavill, who is retiring after 29 years' service.

In his new position, Macdonald said, Rouse will have worldwide responsibility outside of the United States for marketing, manufacturing and engineering. Burroughs employs 14,500 people overseas, with marketing operations in 121 countries and manufacturing plants in eight countries. Its overseas companies and distributors have been growing rapidly, and in 1967 accounted for $168 million in revenue.

Rouse served in a variety of marketing posts in the company's international operations between 1957 and 1965, during which time he travelled abroad promoting the company's products with overseas subsidiaries and distributors.

Born in North Carolina in 1921, he joined the company's sales force with the Raleigh branch in 1949. He lived in Greenville while with the Raleigh branch and was active in civic affairs here.

He was transferred to corporate headquarters in 1957 and in 1965 he was elected vice presi-international group since March 1965. Joining the company's Canadian affiliate in 1939, he later served as managing director of the British company, and then became general manager of all international marketing operations before assuming the position from which he retires.

HUMPHREY HELPER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Terry Sanford, former North Carolina governor, will direct Vice President Hubert Humphrey's liaison with governors and other state officials.

"I figure I'm lucky because I can do other work," he observes. "I know a lot of actors who can't do anything but act. One friend of mine didn't get a job for five months—five whole months! He's working now, but it was awfully tough on him until he started getting parts again."

Sheldon came to acting accidentally. After Air Force duty he began playing trumpet in local bands, including one that accompanied Julie London. He is a wry-faced fellow with an off-beat manner, and he and the singer began exchanging lines to inject some humor into the act. That led to a TV date with Steve Allen, the Christopher Columbus of comics.

As he has done with Louis Nye, Don Knotts and a host of others, Allen encouraged Jack Sheldon in his humor, and soon the budding comic was appearing on other variety shows. He auditioned for a Jay Wara show, "The Nut House," which failed to sell but led to a role in the Cara Williams show. "That was my first real acting, and I had a great time," Sheldon recalled. "I did 30 shows, and then the series was canceled. But CBS cast me in the lead of "Run, Buddy, Run," about a guy who was running away from the Mafia.

"We did 14 shows, and then it was crisis time. We were laid off, but they told us it would only be temporary. Sheldon and his wife traveled to major cities on a deluxe tour—"Big Hotel suites, champagne with peaches in the glasses, the whole bit." The trip was a great success, but the series was a failure. "Run, Buddy, Run" was canceled after 16 segments.

More Than 1,500 Guns Turned In SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph Alioto's antigun campaign ended at midnight Sunday with more than 1,500 guns turned in by citizens.

"I would think this would be one of the biggest gun turn-ins in United States history," said a police official.

Since shortly after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated more than a month ago, San Franciscans have handed in everything from tiny pistols to rocket launchers.

A city ordinance goes into effect in August requiring registration of all guns.

Hanoi Peace Team Admits Informal Talk

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam's peace delegation said today some questions brought up at the Paris talks are also being discussed at informal "coffee breaks" during the sessions.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, told a news conference that "on rare occasions" serious matters have been talked about. Up to now, the North Vietnamese have been reporting that only irrelevant chit-chat about the health, travel plans and housing difficulties of the delegation members came up.

Le said today that at the July 3 meeting, U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman had reiterated in these informal talks his thanks for the decision of the North Vietnamese government to release three more American airmen and that this subject was discussed. There was still no word on when the Americans would actually be let go.

In an interview here Saturday, Harriman said serious matters had been touched upon in the coffee breaks.

"There are a lot of trivialities and personal discussions," he said. "But one can't help but touch on serious matters. And we're getting into a little big more of the idea of what's important in each other's minds."

The North Vietnamese spokesman said that two months of talks in Paris had not brought "a ray of hope." He said U.S. officials were spreading rumors of such hope and of "straws in the wind" in order to deceive world opinion, particularly American opinion.

Allies Unable To Stop Communist Buildup Around The Saigon Area

By JOHN T. WHEELER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist command's ability to mass elements of four divisions around Saigon underlines once again the weakness of allied tactical intelligence and the enduring strength of guerrilla warfare tactics.

Despite massive firepower, helicopter mobility, numerical superiority and computers, the allied command has been forced toward the medieval strategy of pulling back to defend the city's gates.

The allies have the equivalent of some nine divisions in the Saigon region and along the major infiltration routes leading to the capital. But they have not been able to find and destroy a significant enemy formation, either on the way to Saigon or in their pre-attack positions.

Some 15 enemy battalions are reported within 15 miles of Saigon. One highly placed Vietnamese source says some 1,000 enemy troops have infiltrated the city itself despite the ring of defending troops and hundreds of police checkpoints.

The establishment of a vastly beefed up capital military district command is a tacit admission that the Viet Cong cannot be stopped before they reach Saigon. During the two previous defenses this year, some 4,000 troops managed to penetrate the city in February and about 1,200 in May and June. The allied command was caught flatfooted in February but had ample warning of the May offensive.

Mountains of intelligence on the expected "third wave" attack is in allied hands, but the vital details of just where individual enemy units are holed up are not part of it.

One U.S. source said tagging intelligence has resulted in B52 strikes as much as a day behind enemy movement toward the capital. The Stratofortresses are supposed to destroy the enemy regiments before they can get into position for an attack.

Most tactical intelligence apparently comes from electronic and photographic devices and the like, most of them carried by plane. Due to past demonstrations that U.S. and government troops cannot prevent enemy regiments from moving through the countryside, reports on enemy movements from villagers has dried up significantly, one source reported.

The villagers face multiple problems if they help. Allied troops may attack their village, causing widespread damage. Or the helpful villagers may be betrayed and executed, along with all their families. Viet Cong punishment for informers is swift, brutal and final.

Thus the old Communist strategy of swimming their fish through the waters of the people remains as fundamentally sound as ever. That 1,000 of these fish can swim undetected in Saigon itself shows that the strategy works as well in the cities as in the countryside.

Allied ground units are also severely hampered by new restrictions on the use of artillery and air power around Saigon, even to defend themselves, some U.S. officers feel. The extent of the restrictions is a military secret. But the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reportedly feel they are necessary to prevent widespread devastation in and around the city that would alienate the people.

Jo Betts Barrett Enjoys Travel

MISS JO BETTS BARRETT

Nineteen year old Jo Betts Barrett is "looking forward to seeing all her friends and meeting others," when she makes her formal debut at Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh September 6.

Miss Barrett, already familiar with the state capital as a rising senior at the St. Mary's Junior College there. She says she chose St. Mary's because she felt she could broaden her education in more fields culturally as well as academically.

"The student body is closer and everybody gets more individual attention at a small junior college. The friends you make here are lifetime friends."

The coed "loves to travel" and has future plans to tour Europe, especially Austria, next summer. "The experience in meeting new people, seeing new things, learning about different ways of life is fascinating to me."

After studying at the University of Monterey in Mexico last summer, Miss Barrett and a group of her friends toured the country for two weeks. Of all her "colorful experiences in the country," Miss Barrett says attending the traditional bullfight was the most exciting.

Miss Barrett, who always has wanted to "be an archaeologist," plans to major in psychology and sociology and enter clinical psychology and conduct research. She plans to enter graduate study immediately after completing her undergraduate requirements. She lists the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as her choice to finish her undergraduate study after graduating from St. Mary's.

Besides enjoying swimming, tennis, horseback riding and reading, Miss Barrett "loves the beach." During the winter, she enjoys snow skiing at Beach Mountain. She is currently attending summer school at ECU.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton R. Barrett of 517 Longmeadow Road, Miss Barrett is very interested in drama, art and painting. Greek tragedy is one of her favorite types of drama.

Chief marshal for Miss Barrett will be her father, A. R. Barrett. Edgar Rovers Hoover of Buxton and Aubrey Bentley Taylor of Greenville will serve as her two assisting marshals.

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

Small touches makes the big difference in decorating. Like any two-dimensional acquaintance a room soon grows dull if it has no subtleties to be discovered as you live in it. Accessories — the just-right lamp, the little table and, of course, the pictures on the wall — bring life to the big furnishings in a room. So do "intimate" objects that reveal the personalities of the people who live among them. It's the little things that turn a room into a success.

You can turn every room in your home into a successful one with the right choice of accessories. Remember, it's the little things that count. Tommie Willis Interiors, 425 Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1336.

Blackmail Is Name Of Boyfriend's Game

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am caught in a terrible web and live in constant fear. Please, please help me.

I have been married for five years and am just a housewife. Recently I started working to supplement our income. I met this nice guy at work and we became attracted to each other. One thing led to another, and we would stop for a drink after work. Then I started going to his place on my day off.

Now I want to break off with him because all he wants to do is go to bed with me. He is single.

When I told him I wanted to stop this affair he said he wouldn't let me, and if I didn't continue to see him he would tell my husband everything. What am I going to do? He has nothing to lose, and I have everything to lose.

DESPERATE
DEAR DESPERATE: The name of that game is BLACKMAIL. Tell this "nice guy" that the affair is over, and if he wants to tell your husband, to go ahead and tell him. The chances are, he won't, because an admission of this kind will invite trouble for himself. But if he does, prepare to get on your knees and ask your husband to forgive you. It won't be easy, but it's better than living in constant fear.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and plan to marry a man who is 24. His mother died when he was a baby, and his older sister raised him. They have always been very close, and she is like a mother to him. My problem is this: For our wedding gift, his sister gave us all our linen, blankets, and bedspreads. I thought this was very nice of her, but Abby, they were for TWIN BEDS, and we hadn't planned on having twin beds.

When we told her, she looked hurt, but she took them back to exchange. Don't most newlyweds have a double bed? And if so, why would his sister assume that we were going to have twin beds?

GETTING MARRIED

DEAR GETTING: You say that she has always been "very close" to her brother. Perhaps unconsciously she doesn't want to accept the fact that someone else will be even closer to him. In any case, she should have asked first.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teenager and I am writing this letter because I have something

Thinks Teachers Should Be Flunked For Bad Math

LEYLAND, England (WNS)—Mary Gates 17, thinks that her teachers should be flunked for bad mathematics. She complained to school principal Fred Bleasdale when teachers placed her second in the senior athletic meet for girls. A recount showed that she had won the championship with 49 points, but teachers had added it up to only 47 points.

Identical Twins Only Date Twins

MUNICH, Germany (WNS)—Robert and Roger Mazars, 22-year-old identical twins, have no trouble finding dates on vacation. They refuse to go out with girls who are not also identical twins and advertise for them in newspapers of each city they visit. "We have toured a dozen counties this spring and summer, and have never been without feminine company," reported Robert Mazars. "We have had as many as 18 replies to our ads. The girls usually invite us to free dinners and other entertainments."

to say. I love to "take trips" to find my real self. I don't use drugs or LSD, but what I use is just as effective.

When I feel low or disgusted with something or somebody I "take a trip" by going to some quiet secluded spot. (I live on a farm, so I use the pastures.) I just lie down and think about people and what I can do for them, and how I have behaved toward them.

The "drug" I use is fresh air. I inhale as deeply as I can and all at once the world seems so much brighter. Then I remind myself to smile more often because when I'm in I find that people smile back to me.

Before I started taking these "trips" I was a very small and selfish person. I thought only of myself. Now I think of others. Maybe if a few hippies would try this new "drug" they would learn to love the world better, and wouldn't want to escape from it. Sincerely yours,

KARYN EK,

Fault Lies In Local Governments

North Carolina's problems with its filthy, crowded, insanitary jails has not been lack of knowledge about what kind of standards the jails should meet. The problem has been and still is getting local governments to see that their jails meet those reasonable standards.

The new set of standards adopted by a special study commission provide firm guidelines to be used by local governments in evaluating their jails. The legislation which authorized the commission likewise provided the state with power to push reluctant local governments into making their jails meet the standards.

How well local governments and the state respond to this latter provision will determine whether North Carolina has clean, adequate jails or continues its well-worn path of apathy toward its jails and those who occupy them.

This matter with jails is not the first time North Carolina has found itself in the position where it may have to force local governments to make improvements they know are needed but which they are reluctant to finance. Similar situations cropped up as the state moved to enforce its stream sanitation regulations which necessitated installation of sewage treatment systems by a number of communities. Had some local governments not been hard pressed by the state to make the required improvements, it is a good bet that a number of municipalities would still be foot-dragging with one excuse after another for why they had not installed the facilities which clearly were needed.

It should not be surprising — although it should be entirely unnecessary — if the state finds itself in a similar position when it begins enforcing the new standards for jails. Every county and municipality knows whether its jail is adequate or substandard. Those which have the latter variety probably have recognized the shortcoming for some time, but have failed to do anything about it. Where there has been this indifference on the part of officials and the public, there has been a steady deterioration of already inadequate jail facilities.

Local governments and their citizens have the responsibility — as they have all along — of doing what they know needs to be done to provide adequate jails.

A Dream Is Launched At Ground-Breaking

A dream and much hard work by many dedicated local citizens came to fruition Wednesday when ground was broken for the $266,129 East Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center.

Dr. Douglas Jones, president of the board of directors and Thomas Boring, director, turned the first spades of earth.

Thus construction of the 12,000 square foot facility was begun. It will stand on a 20-acre site at the Dail farm where several industries have already located.

Included will be classrooms for shoe and motor repair, sewing and ceramics, along with other areas.

The Sheltered Workshop will provide training for many individuals in future years so that they may gain the self respect that comes with earning one's own living and being a productive member of society.

It will also become a link in a steadily growing system of rehabilitation and educational facilities which are becoming established in Pitt County.

Those of us in Pitt County, and citizens of this entire area, should welcome the construction of this important facility. The instruction it offers will have far reaching effects, and will provide skills for those who otherwise might go through life with little or no training.

The Things You Learn By Mail

By HAL BOYLE

Perhaps we need exercise breaks instead of coffee breaks at the office. In France it has been found that the number of migraine headaches and cases of nervous depression among a group of factory and office workers were cut in half by a program of rhythmic exercises done to music.

Our forebears didn't believe in coddling criminals. In Scotland during the 17th century a caddy was hanged for stealing a golf ball. That does seem a bit drastic, but to this day one of the world's safest place for golf balls is Scotland.

The ability to buy any food you want doesn't necessarily mean you'll be well-fed. A survey by the U. S. Department of Agriculture found that 10 per cent of the families with deficient diets had incomes above $10,000.

One of the growing tasks in our affluent society is how to get rid of our waste products—such as the 26 billion no-return bottles discarded yearly.

Does the world smile — or does it snarl — at you? Maybe sometimes the one and sometimes, the other. Its smiles may be unjustified. Its snarls may be unjustified. Its smiles may be grins accompanied by a little tapping of the forehead. But cheer up. The world is really a wonderful place. Look out over the fields today and up into the heavens tonight and you will appreciate this fact to an amazing degree.

Increase in crime? Yes. Social and political disorders of all kinds? Yes. Divorce, juvenile delinquency, dishonesty in business, disorders in the home? Yes, and still the world is a wonderful place.

Rocky Hopeful In Uphill Fight

By CHARLES DUMAS
NEW YORK (AP) — For a man waging tough uphill fight, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller takes a highly optimistic view of his chances of winning the Republican presidential nomination—even to the point of talking privately about forging a Rockefeller-Nixon ticket.

Rockefeller has started a few confidantes in recent days by speculating on the possibility that Richard M. Nixon, his chief rival for the nomination, might wind up instead as his running mate.

In one such conversation, the governor said a lot of people think a Rockefeller-Nixon pairing would make the strongest ticket and that they think it will turn out that way in the convention.

The governor points out during such discussions that there is a rather ambiguous provision in the U.S. Constitution attempting to bar selection of a president and vice president from the same state.

The solution, he suggests, is that either he or Nixon would have to move out of New York state—and that Nixon would be, the logical one to move.

Rockefeller publicly has ruled out any prospect that he would run for vice president. Privately he says he could not play second fiddle to Nixon, or anyone else.

In presuming, however, that Nixon would be willing to settle for second place, Rockefeller illustrates the attitude he brings to his quest for the presidency—that he is the best the Republican party has to offer and that it just has to recognize this.

In the nearly 11 weeks since he entered the competition against Nixon, Rockefeller has traveled more than 50,000 miles to carry his message into 42 of 50 states. He makes it 43 today, going into Indiana to begin a Midwest tour.

He has enjoyed large crowds, partly at least because of good planning by his expert advance men, and his audiences generally have responded well to his bustling campaign style.

The governor and his strategists say they are pleased with the way that phase of the campaign is going—the object being to arouse popular support that will be reflected in public opinion polls and influence convention delegates or the party leaders who control them.

In another, more critical part of his strategy, Rockefeller has talked personally with the delegations in nearly all of the states he visited. He tells them in these closed-door sessions that he's the man who can win big in November and carry state and local candidates to victory with him.

At the same time, he suggests—but does not say so outright—that Nixon can't win, and he reminds them of the serious losses suffered by the GOP when Barry Goldwater was crushed by President Johnson in 1964.

There have been no measurable switches from Nixon to Rockefeller as a result of this tactic, but Rockefeller says he never asks for immediate support.

"I tell them," he says, "that I want them to know they have an alternate, if and when they decide they need one—maybe on the second or third ballot."

And this is the essence of Rockefeller's victory plan at the moment.

The French Explain It

PARIS — The students in France may be revolting against their parents and the system, but in one respect they're really chips off the old blocks. When it comes to politics the sons are as fragmented as their French fathers ever were.

"The Movement of the 22nd of March started the ball rolling in Nanterre under the leadership of Daniel Cohn-Bendit. It was a true democratic movement in that it was in opposition to every structure, including itself. Because of this, it was able to unite various Trotskyite groups, the anarchists, the Che Guevarists and the pro-Mao revolutionaries into taking action. The action consisted of getting the masses to take to the streets. Once the masses were in the streets, the government would be forced to take counteraction, which would give the students a chance to take further action, which would make the government counteract again. You're following me?"

"I think so."

Other Editors Say N.C. On Receiving End

(The Wilson Times)
North Carolina was on the receiving line from the Federal government in 1967. This state was among the 32 states receiving more from the government than it paid in federal taxes. The state paid $283.5 million in taxes and received $330.1 in grants or $46.6 million more than we paid out in federal taxes.

Of the states receiving more than they paid in, you find a sampling from over the nation. As you know, there are 50 states, but always the District of Columbia, the home of Washington, D. C., is included so there are 52 states and D. C. receiving more federal funds than they paid into the treasury.

We are surprised to find such states as California, Colorado, and several of the mid-west states included in the list.

The Southern states are there, as you expect, plus Maine, Vermont and Rhode Island. Kentucky received $17.3 million more than it paid into the federal treasury.

There are 18 states which paid more in taxes than they received in grants. These states contributed $2.2 billion more in Federal taxes to support grants than the grant amounts they received. The figures are compiled by Tax Research so they are as accurate as can be obtained.

Frankly, it is desirable to be on the other end of the line in this case. For the states which pay more in taxes than they receive are the states with industry and commerce as New York, which paid in to the Federal treasury more than it received in Federal grants. New York's tax burden was $1,556.7 million and total grants in aid were $1,179 million, leaving the difference of $377.7 million. New York is a high tax state and especially New York City.

Well, you hear it said, get all you can from the Federal government, for if you don't some other state will. Evidently we are getting our share and part of the shares of others. So those who advocate running to the Federal government to solve our problems will be glad to read we were successful in 1967. What this year will bring forth is anyone's guess. For with the tax increase and the $6 billion cut in spending, there will not be the money to hand out.

growing suspicion of them among consumer groups. The Chicago financial consulting firm of W. T. Grimm & Co. reports that in the six months ended June 30, a record of 1,703 corporations consolidated, an increase of 20 per cent over the first half of 1967. For all of last year there were 2,975 mergers.

One reason for the rise in mergers is that many corporations have had great increases in assets, some due to the boom and some to inflation. Anti-trust laws prevent mergers in the same field when they may tend to restrict competition, so corporations turn to other fields.

Many corporations hold pension funds and other funds in trust for obligations to executives and unions. When these funds are administered by the corporation itself, it

Police Upset Project

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — The trigger setting off the demolition of a bold project to tame Chicago's Negro youth gangs was pulled not by Mayor Richard J. Daley, as most politicians here suppose, but by politically-minded police officers.

In fact, two months ago Daley was grudgingly and slowly coming around to permitting Federal anti-poverty funds to attempt reforming the Blackstone Rangers and other Negro gangs. What stopped him was highly effective intervention by police that cleverly set in motion the inquiry against the gang project by the Senate Investigating Subcommittee of Sen. John B. McClellan of Arkansas.

This bizarre incident shows that Daley, though easily the most powerful of today's big-city mayors, is no absolute monarch. But the fact that he was undercut here by supposedly non-political police ought to be disquieting to liberals usually found berating Daley for dictatorial tendencies.

Actually, Daley had waged a long, hard fight against a Federal grant by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) to the Woodlawn Organization (TWO), a Negro community action group on Chicago's Southside to deal with Negro gangs. By refusing to concur in several nominations for a director of the project, the mayor managed to block Federal funds early this year.

Although Daley was less than enchanted with the whole idea of coddling gangs, what really bothered him was its threat to city hall's total control over the political process here. He never forgave OEO director Sargent Shriver for approving a direct grant for the gangs project, bypassing city hall. This alone among all poverty projects in Chicago was outside the mayor's domain.

Nevertheless, the essence of Daley's political genius is his pragmatism and most particularly, his ability to withdraw from seemingly intractable positions. Thus, when the Blackstone Rangers performed admirably in keeping their Woodlawn area quiet last April following Martin Luther King's assassination while other Negro neighborhoods in the city were burned and looted by rioters Daley was impressed.

The mayor was at that point ready to acquiesce in, though not approve of, the gangs project. The Federal refunding of TWO seemed imminent. It was then the elite Gang Intelligence Unit (GIU)—commonly called the Gang Unit (GU)—moved into action.

Semi-autonomous within the police department and the subject of some fear by fellow officers, the Gang Unit has been waging a holy war — without great success — against the Blackstone Rangers. It was not about to accept the legitimization of the Rangers without a struggle.

An officer in the Gang Unit privately cautioned the mayor's office not to surrender on the TWO project. Besides being bad policy, the policeman advised, it might be politically embarrassing to Daley. The McClellan subcommittee in Washington, the officer explained, had highly derogatory information about the Blackstone Rangers and

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
THIS WONDERFUL WORLD Samuel Pepys, who wrote the famous (or should we say infamous) diary, once declared that he was the happiest man in the world because the whole world seemed to smile upon him.

Does the world smile — or does it snarl — at you? Maybe sometimes the one and sometimes, the other. Its smiles may be unjustified. Its snarls may be unjustified. Its smiles may be grins accompanied by a little tapping of the forehead. But cheer up. The world is really a wonderful place. Look out over the fields today and up into the heavens tonight and you will appreciate this fact to an amazing degree.

Increase in crime? Yes. Social and political disorders of all kinds? Yes. Divorce, juvenile delinquency, dishonesty in business, disorders in the home? Yes, and still the world is a wonderful place.

The green fields, the swaying trees, the beckoning mountains — these all say that God has given us a wonderful house in which to live. Friends, loved ones, manifestation of courage and patience — these all bespeak the glory of our world and the nobility of man's nature. We are sinners — born sinners — but once in a while our angel wings suddenly grow out and lift us up to planes of nobility and wonder. Tornadoes and floods are fearful. Earthquakes shake not only the ground but sometimes our confidence in the ultimate goodness of things.

But why? Look, the whole world is smiling upon you. Upon your grief? Yes, in understanding and love. Upon your failures? Yes, with the assurance of better the next time.

It appears to be God's hope that we will seek happiness and achieve it.

Merger Activity To A New High

By ELMER ROESSNER
Merger activity, which soared to a new high in the first half of this year, will go to a new high in the last half.

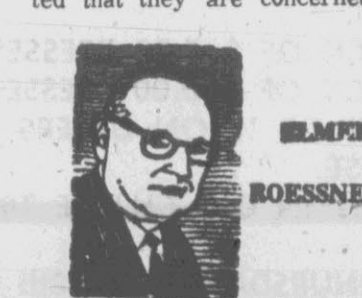

That's because the big crackdown on mergers is building up. Merger-minded corporations, especially those with large accumulations of funds, will rush to use them to acquire other companies before it becomes difficult.

The Federal Trade Commission has announced that it is studying the conglomerate merger trend to determine if it should ask Congress for new legislation with which to attack the rising concentration of business. Anti-trust laws already give it power to move against mergers in the same field.

However, there is no hope that Congress could be persuaded to act before next year.

Suspensions Growing
Several Congressional committees have been watching the stream of mergers and many Congressmen certain to return next year have indicated that they are concerned about the increasing concentration of corporate ownership.

In addition, the Department of Justice is giving more attention to mergers that appear to conflict with existing laws. And there appears to a growing suspicion of them among consumer groups.

The Chicago financial consulting firm of W. T. Grimm & Co. reports that in the six months ended June 30, a record of 1,703 corporations consolidated, an increase of 20 per cent over the first half of 1967. For all of last year there were 2,975 mergers.

One reason for the rise in mergers is that many corporations have had great increases in assets, some due to the boom and some to inflation. Anti-trust laws prevent mergers in the same field when they may tend to restrict competition, so corporations turn to other fields.

Many corporations hold pension funds and other funds in trust for obligations to executives and unions. When these funds are administered by the corporation itself, it has an obligation to invest them profitably. And the takeover of another company may be better than a bank deposit, since the profits may be greater and the other company may be a hedge against further inflation.

Here is another look ahead: The cyclamate scare will spread around the world. Australian researchers announced that small doses of cyclamates, used in many low-calorie sweeteners, caused liver damage to guinea pigs. Artificial sweeteners of all kinds, in consequence, have all but disappeared from the market in Austria and Germany, and three British chains have banned the sale of their private brands of sweeteners. However, the Food and Drug Administration in Washington has declared that it has no evidence that cyclamates are harmful.

Teacher From Brazil Wins Crown Of 'Miss Universe'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Martha Vasconcellos, a bright-eyed schoolteacher from Brazil, walks into a new world today as Miss Universe.

With a wave of her scepter, a nod of her sparkling crown and a losing effort to fight back happy tears, Miss Vasconcellos ascended her throne Saturday night. She was chosen the loveliest of girls from 65 countries.

Until next July when she returns to Miami Beach to hand her crown to Miss Universe 1969, Miss Vasconcellos will spend her time trotting about the globe, earning the $10,000 she is promised in a personal appearance contract.

In addition, the crown carries an award of $10,000, a $7,500 chinchilla jacket and stacks of lesser prizes. When making personal appearances, she is fully chaperoned and travels first class.

Photographers—like those who posed her in bed with her trophy and then trooped to the beach with her Sunday—will become an integral part of her life for the next year.

But the 12 months of merry-go-round activity have hardly started and already Miss Vasconcellos admits, despite the admiring hordes: "I am lonely. I am without my family for the first time."

She tried repeatedly to call her parents Sunday, but couldn't get through. She finally settled for a telegram.

Miss Universe likes both her hair and her skirts long. The 5-foot-8, 130-pound beauty says she likes miniskirts but on other girls. "On me I think they're ugly because I am tall," she said.

Miss Vasconcellos has definite ideas about her future. After she hands over her crown next year, she'll go home to her childhood sweetheart, Reynaldo Lou-Reiro, an engineer. "We'll marry as soon as I can," she said.

Friday she will fly home to see her fiancée and her family in Salvador where her father is a police official.

And there will be a special conversation with a younger brother who told her: "You will never win."

Moore will play three works by Chopin, and single works of Beethoven, Schumann and Liszt.

He will also perform "Three Romances," one of his own compositions which was performed at the Metropolitan Museum in New York City in 1967.

The recital, sponsored by the Jail Prisoner Flooded Facility

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Walter Blacknell climbed the bars of his cell Saturday and broke open two outlets of the sprinkler system, police said.

Water flowed throughout the area of the police lock-up and into elevator shafts and firemen spent 30 minutes mopping it up.

Blacknell, 35, of Hartford had been in jail on an intoxication charge. He was transferred to a maximum security area of a local hospital.

Union of Young Communists, Marxist and Leninist, who are pro-Maoist and still defend Stalin. The Union of Young Communists did not man the barricades, but instead contacted the workers in hope of overthrowing the pro-Soviet French Communist Party. They were in fact more interested in destroying the present French Communist Party than in destroying the French government. The Union of Young Communists overplayed their hand at the Renault factory when they told the workers "to take the flame of revolution from the students' fragile hands and carry it in their strong work-hardened fists." This was no way to talk to workers, and they were thrown out of the factory.

"I think I'm losing you," I said.

"Then there was the Union of National Students which was composed of students from different political complexes who united under its red banner. The Union of National Students took over the leadership of the anarchists and left-wing movements and provided the manpower for the revolution, while the Trotskyites, Stalinists and Maoists fought amongst themselves."

"Things were simpler at Columbia University," I had to admit.

"I haven't told you about the right-wing student group called the Occident. They're the Fascists who attacked the Union of National Students which caused the fight which gave the police an excuse to occupy the Sorbonne."

"Things were even simpler at Berkeley. By the way, what ever happened to Daniel Cohn-Bendit, the fellow who started it all?"

"I don't know. Someone said he's in Switzerland going to summer school."

ed by the windfall of sensational allegations coming from the Chicago police.

The prospect of a Senate investigation was enough to pull Daley up sharply. By mid-June, it was apparent that no director of the project would be approved by city hall and that no Federal funds would be forthcoming. The mayor had returned to his earlier hard-line position.

The teamwork by the McClellan subcommittee and the Chicago police, while destroying a hopeful though experimental project, did not change the facts of life. The Blackstone Rangers and the other gangs still remain, as strong and as permanently inclined as ever, with even less hope for the slightest redemption.

week to the fourth assembly of the World Council of Churches appeals to the United States for an unconditional halt in all bombing in both North and South Vietnam.

A drafting committee of the assembly section studying "peace and justice in world affairs" is working to synthesize five different drafts submitted to it. All called for a total halt in the U.S. bombing.

The final resolution is expected to welcome the Paris peace talks and urge that risks should be taken without waiting for guarantees to ensure the talks succeed.

The section has already approved a recommendation that official church support should be given to young men seeking to avoid service in such wars as Vietnam that offend their consciences.

In another report the World Council's Youth Department said it is the task of the churches to find alternatives to war service and to stand for humane treatment of conscientious objectors.

Calling for reappraisal and reorientation of the churches' work with youth, the report said: "Harm will be done if the churches judge a younger generation without, at the same time, blaming the adults for creating the environment in which the young people live."

The report noted that "many young people distrust basically all education and youth work methods because they seem not to allow young people to find identity and responsibility, but rather present them with an unreal choice—to accept or stay out, to conform or rebel."

It saw the involvement of youth in revolutionary action as evidence of their readiness, not only to question what exists, but to take responsibility. But it conceded that it was not easy to translate destructive conflict between the generations into productive tension.

"Protest is not enough," the report said. "It has to be evaluated, deepened and translated into a constructive contribution."

Another report, the first study of worship undertaken by the assembly, recommended that substitutes and supplements be found for the traditional sermon to make worship more dynamic and appealing.

"The sermon as prepared and preached by one man comes increasingly under question," said the report.

It suggested that through team work the congregation should help prepare the sermon and join in its follow up. It also recommended that other forms of presentation be used—such as dialogue, drama and visual arts. It asked the churches whether there should not be changes in language, music, vestments and ceremonies to make worship more intelligible.

Minor Clashes Mark Bastille Day In Paris

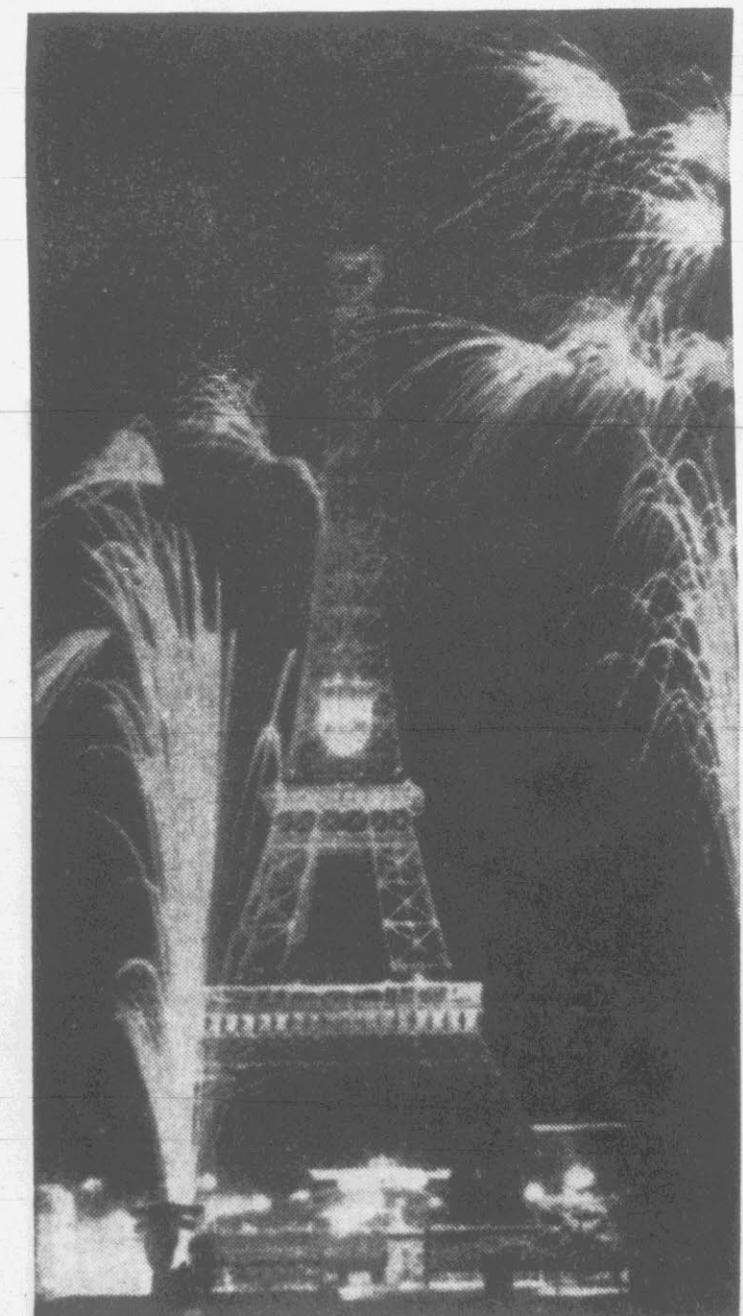

PARIS (AP) — Small sporadic clashes between police and young demonstrators punctuated Bastille Day celebrations Sunday night in the Latin Quarter, where crowds of tourists had massed for an evening of merrymaking.

Small groups of students jeered the several thousand helmeted police massed along Boulevard St. Michel, on the watch for leftist disturbances. The police hurled tear gas grenades at the hecklers and launched several baton charges. A number of persons were injured.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says a bomber version of the controversial swingwing F-111 has successfully completed a 660 mile-an-hour maiden flight at Carswell Air Force Base, Texas.

The jet bomber, designated the FB111A, can carry nuclear or conventional bombs and was built as a successor to the B52 bomber. The supersonic jet is scheduled for assignment to the Strategic Air Command.

The Pentagon announcement said the plane flew for 30 minutes late last week and reached an altitude of 20,000 feet.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., says Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the Hungarian Roman Catholic prelate who has been in refuge in the U.S. embassy in Budapest since 1956, should be offered a permanent home in the United States.

"For humanitarian reasons alone," Hartke said in an interview. "Cardinal Mindszenty should be invited to this country so he can live in the freedom for which he has been fighting for more than 25 years but which he has been unable to enjoy."

The senator, who returned recently from a trip to London, said he had taken some action in government circles toward extending the invitation to Mindszenty, who is 76 and reported in ill health. He declined to give details.

Retires, But Far From Washed Up

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (AP) — Msgr. Michael A. Campagna has retired from the parish he founded 35 years ago, but he is far from finished with his career of helping people.

The 63-year-old priest plans to become what he calls a "salesman," selling his conviction that "All boys need a home — where they are loved and given responsibility."

As a result of this feeling in 1947 he established Hoosier Town, a residence for homeless boys in Schererville, Ind. Over the years he has divided his time between the town and his duties as pastor of the Immaculate Conception Catholic parish. Now, he will travel over the country, urging people to start more boys' towns.

Rep. Joe Pool Dies Of Attack

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., an outspoken critic of Vietnam war protesters and resistance to the draft, collapsed and died at the Houston airport Sunday after being stricken with an apparent heart attack. He was 57.

Pool was a member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities and had advocated 20-year jail terms for those who blocked troop trains or sent blood and supplies to the Viet Cong.

The Dallas congressman was pronounced dead shortly after 6 p.m. Sunday at Southeast Memorial Baptist Hospital in Houston.

"From all appearances, the man died of a heart attack," said a spokesman at the Harris County medical examiner's office.

Pool, a strong supporter of President Johnson's Vietnam policies, had often said he would vote for a declaration of war against North Vietnam.

He was first elected to Congress in 1962. Previously he had served three terms in the Texas legislature.

Pool flew to Houston from Los Angeles, where he had inspected new postal facilities. He also was a member of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

He had come to Houston to tour postal facilities and was to have returned to Washington today.

Rickover Says Annapolis Failing Meet Needs Of The Modern Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover says the U.S. Naval Academy is not producing the mature, confident and well-educated officers the modern Navy needs.

Rickover also says the Defense Department "is too much influenced by an industry viewpoint" in its dealings with defense contractors and their profits, "far from being too low as claimed," may be too high.

The deputy commander of the Navy's nuclear propulsion programs issued the broadsides at a closed House appropriations subcommittee hearing in May. His testimony was released today.

"Naval Academy midshipmen generally lack poise, self-confidence and maturity," Rickover said. "They give the appearance of having these qualities, but it is a superficial appearance with little depth."

He said the most prevalent deficiencies he finds in interviews each year of many Naval Academy and Naval Reserve Officer Training midshipmen fall into the categories of insufficient academic preparation and immaturity.

Academy officials could not be reached for comment.

Rickover said he had been told by one member of the Class of 1967 that grades are the important thing at the academy and that "the instructors don't care too much if a midshipman learns the theory as long as he can pass the quizzes."

The admiral, a 1922 graduate of the academy, said he believes the general lack of poise, confidence and maturity "are caused by the idealistic but impractical attempts by the Naval Academy to include broad coverage of military training, professional and academic education, sports, etc., with giving anything up."

An emphasis on military indoctrination and training, he said, "is fostered by a strong MERIDIANA, Miss. (AP) — Ross Alexander Collins, a leader in Mississippi politics, died Sunday. He was 88.

Collins served eight years as state attorney general and spent 20 years as a congressman. He also made several unsuccessful bids for public office—one to regain his congressional seat, several for the Senate and one for governor.

At one time, he headed the House Military Appropriations Committee and was an ally and defender of Gen. Billy Mitchell's belief in increased air power.

Rumania and Hungary are home to more than 50 per cent of the one million Gypsies in the world.

He considers himself easy to please at the dinner table, yet, he said, this presents a problem when friends want to entertain the Axelrods and invite them over.

Louise Howell Amodeo of New Bern was jailed here last night on charges of operating under the influence and hit-and-run driving, following a collision on N.C.11 a mile north of the Third Street intersection.

Investigators said the Amodeo car collided with a vehicle driven by Billy Edward Stainback, 28, of 604 Norris St. about 8:45 p.m.

NEW YORK (AP) — A pair of bargaining-table goal line stands—one by the club owners and one by the players—involving a pension dispute are ended. The National Football League is ready for football again.

The 16 club owners agreed Sunday night to pay almost $3 million in 1968 and 1969 for pension benefits.

It was the last of 21 points to be settled in negotiations between the owners and the NFL Players Association, which began last March 19.

A deadlock on the pension issue threatened to disrupt pre-season training which begins in earnest this week, upset the exhibition season and cancel the College All-Star Game.

Detroit Lion guard John Gordy, president of the NFL Players Association, said under the new pension plan a 10-year veteran will receive $1,600 a month at the age of 65.

This compares with $775 monthly under the old agreement and with $1,132 a month for 10-year veterans under the current American Football League pension plan.

Benefits for five and 15-year veterans under the new NFL plan, which Gordy said was retroactive to 1959, were not available.

After a meeting of about 4½ hours at a midtown hotel, the agreement was announced at a news conference by Gordy and NFL President Arthur Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns.

A joint statement, read by Modell, said:

"Under this agreement, the league club owners will contribute a total of $3 million for the years 1968 and 1969 for pension benefits, administrative costs and the cost of a joint study to be conducted in anticipation of the merger of the NFL and AFL pension plans by 1970.

"It is estimated that administrative costs will amount to $144,000 and that the joint study will cost approximately $40,000. No commitment was made by the owners, either expressly or impliedly, regarding pension contributions beyond 1968 and

"In a departure from past practice in this area, the parties agreed that in view of the owners' guarantee as to the amount of the contribution, any reference to the source of revenue shall be dropped and the owners shall have exclusive control over determining how best to meet the guarantee."

It also was agreed to form a joint committee to administer the plan and arrange for a pension study to be used in the negotiations following the merger.

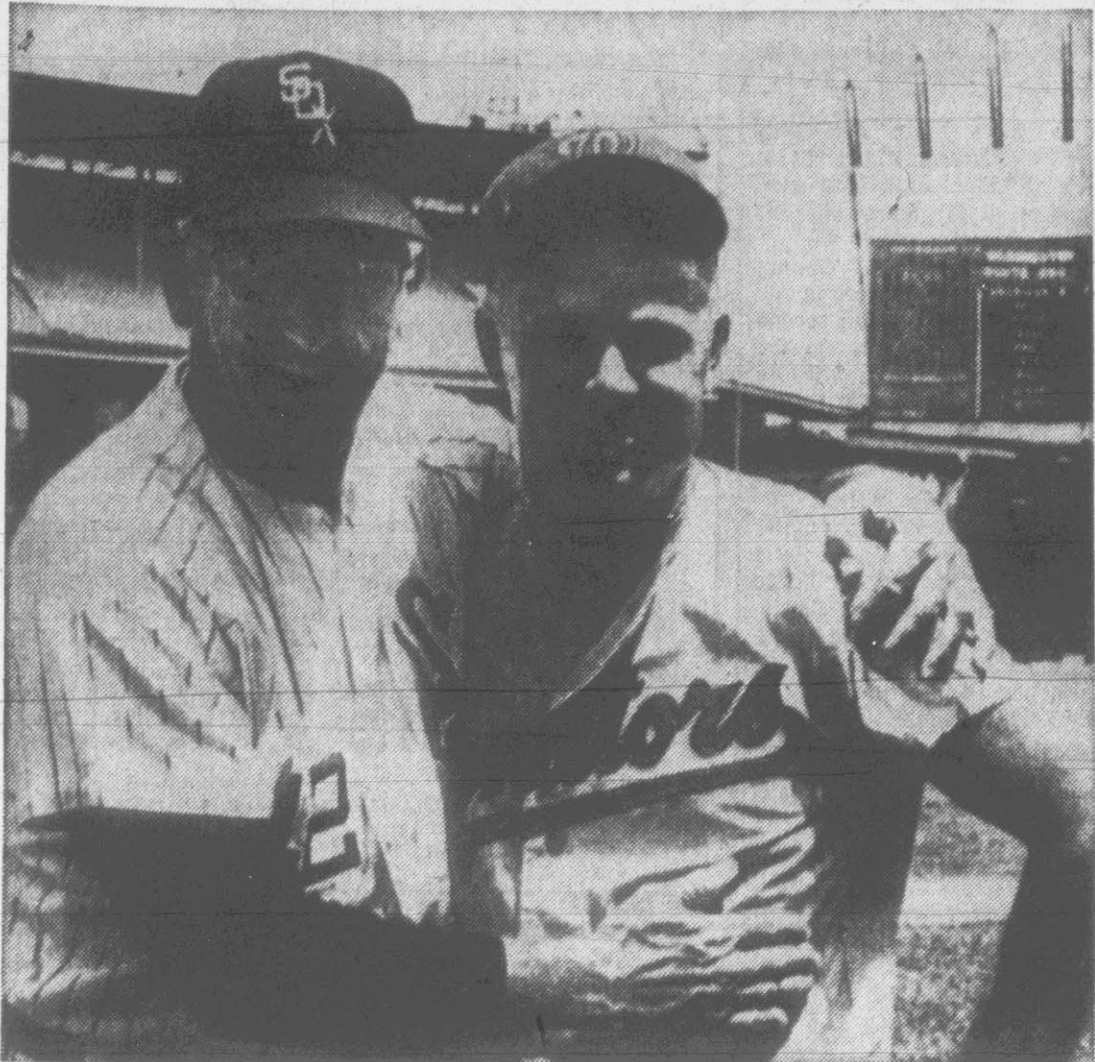

Committee members will be named later.

Gordy expressed pride "that we are professional athletes can settle our differences across the bargaining table as gentlemen."

"We wanted to be heard and we wanted voice but never, never wanted to use our own strength unjustly."

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of professional football, said:

"I'm most pleased it has been settled and at a time when it does not effect the progress of the training season."

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Al Lopez is back in business —and so is the American League pennant race.

Of course, one has nothing to do with the other—Senior Lopez and his Chicago White Sox are 18 games removed from first place—but they're both nice to have around.

Manager Jim Lemon of Washington had a hunch what was coming when he said to Lopez before Sunday's action, "I just lost three straight to the new manager in Baltimore; what are you going to do to me?"

The answer was a double-header sweep—7-2 and 6-5 in 10 innings—as the White Sox celebrated the return of Lopez as manager.

Elsewhere, Detroit lost to California 7-3 and saw its league lead sliced to 7½ games as second-place Baltimore beat the New York Yankees 6-4. Cleveland topped Minnesota 6-3 and the surging Boston Red Sox rallied to knock off Oakland 5-3.

In the National League, St. Louis whipped Los Angeles 5-1, Atlanta downed San Francisco 4-2, Philadelphia swept the New York Mets 5-3 and 9-2, Houston took two from Cincinnati 5-4 in 10 innings and 6-1 and the Chicago Cubs turned back Pittsburgh 6-2. "That was a nice way to break in," said Lopez, who resigned following the 1965 season after nine years as White Sox manager. He came out of retirement when Eddie Stanky stepped down Friday. "Those guys made some great plays and we got some pretty good hitting."

Chicago won the opener on Jack Fisher's three-hit pitching and the slugging of Tommy Davis, who batted in two runs with a first-inning double and two more with a triple in the second. Frank Howard whacked his 26th homer for the Senators.

A three-run rally tied the score in the seventh inning of the nightcap and the Sox won it on 10th-inning singles by Gerry McNertey, Wayne Causey and Luis Aparicio.

A week ago, Detroit was threatening to make a joke of the pennant race. But the Tigers have lost three of four since the All-Star break while Baltimore has won four in a row under new skipper Earl Weaver.

California didn't wait to make the Tigers start growing Sunday. Leadoff better Vic Davalillo homered off Earl Wilson and Rick Reichardt cracked a two-run homer before the first inning was over.

A double by Davalillo and Don Mincher's single produced another run in the third and Bobby Knoop stroked a two-run single in the fourth as the Angels ran up a 6-0 lead.

Baltimore smashed 13 hits, including a two-run homer by Boog Powell, but needed a strong relief job by Eddie Watt before downing the Yankees.

The Yanks trailed 6-1 after seven innings but Roy White hit a two-run homer in the eighth and ninth-inning singles by Jack Gibbs and Bobby Cox knocked out Dave Leonhard. Watt fanned pinch hitter Bill Robinson and, after Horace Clarke singled home a run, also struck out Mickey Mantle and White.

The Orioles trail Detroit by only six games in the all-important loss column.

Cleveland's Luis Tiant, who had shut out Minnesota twice previously, lasted only six innings and settled for a 6-3 triumph with relief help from Stan Williams. It was Tiant's sixth straight victory and gave him a 15-5 record.

The Indians ripped into Jim Merritt for three runs in the third on a two-run single by Joe Azcue and Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly.

The defending champion Red Sox made it three wins in a row and 11 in their last 12 games by rallying to top Oakland. Handcuffed on three hits over seven innings by John "Blue Moon" Odom, the Sox erupted for four runs in the eighth and turned the game around.

Singles by Jose Tartabull, Mike Andrews and Dalton Jones loaded the bases and brought on reliever Paul Lindblad. Carl Yastrzemski belted a shot off Lindblad's leg, the ball ricocheting into left field for a game-tying two-run double. Jack Aker then came on and yielded sacrifice flies to Ken Harrelson and Rico Petrocelli.

Clark Graebner To Try Again

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Clark Graebner of New York, the beaten 1967 finalist, is the latest entry in the 88th U.S. National Tennis Championships Aug. 16-25 at Longwood.

Graebner lost the title match a year ago to Australia's John Newcombe, who is now a pro.

The 'Blah' Feeling Is Gone

ALL SMILES — Carol Mann is all smiles as she hugs her trophy Sunday after picking up $4,200 for winning the Ladies Professional Pabst

Classic Golf Tournament in Columbus yesterday. Miss Mann had a 54-hole total of 206, 10 under par. (AP Wirephoto)

Carol Mann Chalks Up A Cheering List Of Firsts

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Carol Mann, the blonde giant among lady professional golfers, doesn't have that blah feeling anymore.

The 6-foot-3 swinger from Towson, Md., chalked up these firsts Sunday by winning the $28,000 Pabst Classic Golf Tournament.

Her final round seven-under-par 65 was her lowest score ever in an eight-year professional career.

It was the first time she had come from behind to snare a tournament triumph.

It was the first time she had won five tournaments in one year.

Her latest victory, worth $4,200, put her out front in the number of LPGA tournament titles this year.

Her 71-70-65-206 was 10 under par for the 54 holes on the 6,635-yard Raymond Memorial course and three strokes better than defending champion Kathy Whitworth, who finished with a 67-71-71-209.

"I just couldn't get any inspiration those first two rounds," the 27-year-old Miss Mann said. "I just wasn't with it. I've been unhappy and talking to myself."

"But I didn't feel blah when I woke up today. I think my pairing she played with Miss Whitworth and Mickey Wright helped me more than anything else."

She started the day four strokes behind the co-leaders, Miss Wright, the game's all-time leading money-winner, and Sandra Spuzich of Indianapolis.

Miss Wright, the Dallas darling who admitted she was exhausted from too much golf, skied to a 77, the same score that Miss Spuzich posted, and had to settle for a third-place tie with Miss Spuzich, Sharon Miller and Sandra Palmer.

All had 214s, eight back of the leader.

HANK'S FOR THE MEMORY — Atlanta Braves slugger Hank Aaron grins over the huge trophy presented him by Braves President Bill Bartholomay after Aaron hit his 500th career home run. The ball he sailed over the left field fence in Atlanta Stadium rests atop the trophy. (AP Wirephoto)

Woman Spectator Helped Stockton Edge Sam Snead

By BILL HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Dave Stockton can thank an unknown woman spectator and Donald O'Burn of Milwaukee for some unplanned help in his four-stroke victory over Sam Snead in the Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

The 26-year-old fifth-year pro from California hit the unidentified woman with his tee shot on the par-3,240-yard third hole and plunked O'Burn in the head with a booming drive on the par 5,550-yard 16th. Both times he salvaged pars.

"The woman was okay, but her arm swelled up to twice its size," said Stockton, who pocketed a $40,000 first-place check.

"My drive on 16 hit the man right on the head," Stockton said. "It must have knocked him cold because the ball came right back at me 40 yards. The doctor said he would be okay."

Right after Stockton hit the woman, he birdied four straight holes to go 14 under par for the tournament and make the nine-hole turn in four-under-par 32.

He came home in 37, with three bogeys and two birds thrown in, to wind up with a 13-under-par total of 275, his best effort this year.

Stockton, who skipped last week's Buick Open to be with his wife, Cathy, who is expecting the couple's first child later this month, won the Cleveland Open two weeks ago.

Snead, who had a record seven-under-par 65 in the second round, started the day six strokes behind Stockton. But the 56-year-old Slammer from White Sulphur Springs, Calif., birdied four holes on the front nine to make the turn at 32, four under par.

He birdied No. 10 and parred the last eight holes to finish nine under par with a 72-hole total of 279.

Both Dave Marr and Tom Weiskopf made belated bids to catch Stockton. But both men wound up at 281, six strokes off the pace.

Marr, the 1965 PGA champ, bogeyed the 13th and 15th to fold in the stretch. Weiskopf, second leading money winner on the tour, charged home with a

One-Hitter For Portsmouth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A one-hit pitching performance by Portsmouth left-hander Ken Reynolds highlighted action in the Carolina League Sunday.

Reynolds struck out 10 in blanking High Point - Thomasville 2-0 in the second game of a doubleheader at Portsmouth. Portsmouth won the opener 2-1 in eight innings.

Reynolds gave up a walk and a single in the second inning, then retired the next 17 batters in order.

Frank Bolick pitched a five-hitter to lead Greensboro to a 10-3 victory over Peninsula at Hampton, Va., in a night game. The Patriots unloaded 12 hits, including a homer and a double by rookie John Mayberry.

Burlington downed Kinston 5-3 at Burlington in a game featuring four home runs. Charlie Sads and Gary Washington hit home runs for Kinston. Burlington's fourbaggers were by Toby Harrah and Mike Maloney.

Joe Mook's grand slam homer highlighted a six-run rally in the seventh which enabled Raleigh-Durham to defeat Rocky Mount 10-7 at Durham.

League leading Salem collected 11 hits to defeat Wilson 5-1 at Wilson. The Tobs' lone score came in the sixth on a homer by Rpfus Anderson.

Rain caused postponement of the Winston-Salem at Lynchburg game.

The Carolina League All-Stars play the league-leading Salem Rebels tonight at Salem in the annual all-star game.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Fifth County Tobacco Agent

Much emphasis is being placed on quality tobacco production. There are three factors which influence the quality of tobacco produced (1) heredity, (2) environment, and (3) management.

The heredity is determined by the variety that is planted. All varieties that are released for production have been tested for two years to verify that they possess the chemical and physical characteristics that are necessary to produce tobacco that will be desired by the consumer.

In addition to the quality of tobacco a given variety can produce, most farmers are interested in the growth characteristics and growth response to certain management practices. This can be observed at the tobacco variety test being conducted on the Speight Seed Farm.

All of the varieties have been fertilized at the same rate and are being grown in a field with uniform soil.

Included in this test are several of the varieties that are now being grown by farmers. Also included in this test are varieties that are being considered for release.

Anyone interested in observing the field characteristics of the different varieties can do so by visiting the Speight Seed Farm in the Winterville Community.

Mixed Marriage For RFK Aide

MCLEAN, Va. (AP) — Peter Edelman, 30, a top adviser to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, and Marion Wright, 29, a close friend of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the slain civil rights leader, were married Sunday in a simple ceremony here.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. William Sloane Coffin, 44, chaplain of Yale University who was found guilty last month with Dr. Benjamin Spock and others of conspiring to counsel evasion of the draft.

Some 200 friends and relatives of the couple witnessed the ceremony here at the home of Adam Walinsky, another member of the Kennedy advisory team.

The bride, born in Bennettsville, S.C., was graduated from Yale Law School and was the first Negro admitted to the bar in Mississippi. She handled cases for the NAACP legal defense fund and worked for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference during the Poor People's Campaign.

Edelman, who is white, is a former official in the Justice Department and a native of Minneapolis.

The report said the average air traveler is between 25 and 40 years old, is more likely to be a man, and prefers to fly in Sunday.

Beware Of That Lunch On Road

NEW YORK (AP) — Tourists are warned to beware of that "lunch on the road." It may tempt them to become litterbugs.

Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the national litter-prevention organization, estimates that the average lunch on the road is the potential source of five separate pieces of litter. With well over 100 million tourists expected on U.S. highways in 1968, just one lunch on the road per person could produce more than half a billion items of litter if travelers don't mind their litter manners.

Animals 'Lap Up' Lollipop Food

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A new farm product has been introduced that is so good that animals are literally lapping it up.

The food is a liquid diet similar to that used for invalids and new-born babies. A nutritionist for the Cargill Co., explained that the company's liquid supplements are not unlike the formula used to nourish tender human stomachs. The product, produced by adding vitamins, minerals and protein to cane molasses, is poured over feedlot roughage to augment beef and dairy cattle diets. Because cattle, in some cases, lick the liquid diet from paddles rotated through storage tanks, the method has been dubbed the "lollipop system."

Humphrey And Nixon Boost Leads In Delegates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon have boosted their delegate leads for the Democratic and Republican presidential nomination despite weekend setbacks in Colorado and Utah.

Humphrey gained 21 new first-ballot delegate votes for 688% of the 1,312 needed for the victory in an Associated Press survey of firm votes.

Democratic nomination, according to the survey, would be won by Humphrey with 2 but his total for firm votes remained at 501 of the 667 votes needed for the GOP nomination.

The AP tabulation of prospective first-ballot votes counts only delegates committed, pledged or publicly stating voting intentions.

Republican presidential aspirant Nelson A. Rockefeller, meanwhile, announced he'll conduct his own poll to indicate who the strongest GOP presidential candidate would be. And an apparent move to elevate Democratic Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota as a presidential contender appeared to die a quiet death.

Humphrey's setback came at the Colorado Democratic convention where a slate of 12 large delegates favoring him was shut out by a coalition backing Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The setback came after McCarthy addressed the convention. But Humphrey won 17 new votes at a Washington state Democratic convention and 4 in Colorado. McCarthy backers claimed 9% of the Washington delegate votes and he won 2 of the Colorado votes.

Nixon's setback came in Utah where Republicans named eight delegates—the last of the GOP national convention delegates—with five going to California Gov. Ronald Reagan, two reportedly to Nixon and one undecided.

The Reagan victory came after he addressed the state convention. But although the five delegates ran on a Reagan slate the entire delegation is officially "uninstructed."

Utah GOP Chairman Richard

Richards said he would ask the delegation to support Michigan Gov. George Romney on the first ballot to boost Romney for the vice presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, announcing he will conduct the poll to show whether he or Nixon would be the strongest GOP candidate, said he was "very sorry" Republican leaders had turned down his proposal that the poll be conducted nationwide by the party to help guide the delegates' choice.

"I can only draw the conclusion that they don't want this brought out too sharply," the New York governor said Sunday.

Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss and Nixon rejected the proposal last week.

Rockefeller said the poll, by Crossley S-D Survey's Inc., of New York City, will begin immediately and will allow his supporters to "break out key areas, key states, key cities."

The governor announced his decision on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Talk of the McGovern for president drive was fanned when former leaders of the Kennedy campaign from across the country met in Huron, S.D., Saturday before a caucus of the 26 South Dakota delegates Kennedy won in a primary hours before he was shot in Los Angeles.

A number of the Kennedy leaders at the memorial dinner for the slain candidate were "McGovern for President" buttons but none gave more than lukewarm endorsement to a presidential drive by the South Dakotan.

At the caucus, the state's delegation voted to commit itself to McGovern as its favorite son.

But McGovern, who did not attend the dinner, issued a statement in Washington that his campaigning will be for reelection to the Senate, not for the presidential nomination.

In other political developments:

—Humphrey pledged to "see accomplished as nearly as possible by 1976," the nation's 200th anniversary, full and equal opportunity for every citizen—"young and old, black and white, rural and urban."

The vice president was still recovering in Washington from what was described as a mild case of influenza and the prepared speech was read in Minot, S.D., Sunday by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

—The Gallup Poll reported voter support for George C. Wallace's third party presidential candidacy has nearly doubled since April, increasing to 16 per cent support in national voter tests against both Nixon and Humphrey.

—A proposal for binding arbitration in the Illinois telephone strike that threatens to move the Democratic National Convention from Chicago has been submitted by striking electrical workers to the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey has said the convention may have to be moved if the strike is not settled by July 28th.

PARIS (AP) — Belgium's minister of science, Theo Leffevre, has been delegated to try raising $49 million in West European capitals for a joint space program through 1971 that could put up a communications satellite to serve television during the 1972 Munich Olympics.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

'Happy Birthday' On The Billboard

BERKSHIRE, Mass. (AP) — T. Sgt. Robert A. Conner couldn't be home for his wife's birthday, but he let her know he remembered it. Conner, stationed at an Air Force base in Thailand, rented a billboard in his home town with the message: "Happy Birthday, Mary. Love, Bob."

The Worry Clinic Knowledge Makes The Difference In A Life

Eileen lost her husband because of ignorance. For she made a fetish of her kitchen stove! Yet her rival couldn't even fry an egg! Girls, men are not arrested for "Peeping Tom" behavior at kitchen windows! For most divorces start in the bedroom!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-523: Eileen R., aged 28, is a divorced teacher with an M. A. degree.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my marriage was hectic for four years so we finally were divorced six months ago.

"Then I moved back to this city where I have followed your 'Worry Clinic' every day in our newspaper.

"Now I realize that I could have prevented our divorce if only I had been briefed more fully on the basic sex differences between husband and wife.

"Dr. Crane, why don't the schools stop our terrible divorce rate by teaching the vital medical facts?"

Via this daily "Worry Clinic" your newspaper thus PREVENTS divorce by offering you the scientific medical facts for happy marriage.

The schools are still fearful lest they be accused of being too liberal if they offer the basic sex data required to safeguard homes.

Oh, they may include courses that deal with cooking, baby tending, interior decorating and home economics.

But they usually skip the boudoir. Or discuss it in poetical instead of medical fashion.

Yet most divorces start in the bedroom! For husbands and wives seldom understand each other's sexual outlook.

Wives thus wear themselves out in the kitchen, trying to concoct exotic menus while their paramour rivals loll in diaphanous nighties in their performed boudoirs!

Girls, get help! Did you ever hear of a husband being arrested for "Peeping Tom" behavior at a kitchen window!

Or did you ever see a row of baldheaded older husbands sitting down front at a burlesque show, avidly watching women bake pies or prepare frilly salads?

Do men pay high prices for theater tickets just to observe women prance around in the stage in long aprons, sifting flour and roasting turkey?

Did you ever notice book racks overflowing with paperbacks depicting women in the act of broiling steaks or frosting cakes?

Who ever heard of city aldermen being petitioned to stop the sale of colorful magazines whose front covers portrayed female chefs in the act of stripping—outer leaves from cabbage heads for cole slaw? Yet you young brides like Eileen ignore the fact that a husband's most crucial post-honeymoon appetite is erotic, not gastronomic!

So you wives go almost berserk in making a fetish out of the kitchen stove! That's not where paramours win your mates away from you!

Wise up to the basic fact of marriage, for even love, religion and mutual hobbies may still not save your home if you are so stodgy and indifferent in the bedroom that you yawn at his amative advances!

Beware, for outside sirens don't WIN your husbands away from you.

No, indeed! You thoughtless wives usually LOSE them by your sins of omission.

Paramours are generally just the "second choices" of married men!

Their wives were their "first choices" and would easily remain such through the Golden Wedding Day if those wives would spent half as much time trying to tempt their mates in the boudoir as they do in the kitchen!

So send for my medical booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

It is much easier to hold a good husband than to win him back again from an outside siren!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Body hair from cattle is used in making felt and ear hair is used for brushes.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

Mrs. Speir To Attend Seminar

WINTERVILLE — Mrs. Gertrude B. Speir, Postmaster of the Winterville Post Office, will be among approximately 465 North Carolina postmasters attending the fourth annual Postmasters Training Seminar July 15-16 at the North Carolina State University.

The main topic of the seminar will be improving mail service. With the ever increasing amount of mail handled by the U. S. Post Office, ways are constantly being sought to improve mail service.

Banks Gladden, Regional Director of the Atlanta Postal Region, which comprises the states of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, will be the keynote speaker at the opening session of the seminar.

Gladden pointed out that mail volume in the U. S. in 1968 is expected to reach an all-time high of 85.2 billion pieces. This is an amount almost equal to the rest of the entire world's mail combined.

Later, regional seminars will be held in the other states comprising the Atlanta Postal Region.

Celebration By The Silent Club

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Silent Club, a source of friendship, social life and entertainment for deaf persons, recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of its founding here.

The club began in 1918 with 24 members, the outgrowth of a group of deaf men who met to play billiards. The clubroom remained in one location for 45 years, but moved to a new building several years ago.

In the clubroom members can "talk" in sign language, play pool or cards. Movies with subtitles are shown once a week and the club also sponsors basketball, baseball and bowling teams.

NO ARGUMENT
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Worshipers at Hill St. Baptist Church were greeted by this sign on the bulletin board: "There are two sides to every argument but no end."

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina poultry market today was steady. Price of live poultry at the farms 15 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market dipped on average this afternoon after failing to hold a moderate advance in the morning. Trading was fairly active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .24 at 922.22.

Gains held a slim advantage over losses, but the early margin to the upside was cut back drastically.

Conglomerate stocks were jostled anew by word that the Federal Trade Commission had challenged more than 40 acquisitions made by Maremont since 1953. Maremont fell more than 2 points.

Some blue-chip stocks continued to advance, but the list seemed to lack incentive despite a fairly good economic background. It was the first day of withholding under the newly adopted 10 per cent surtax. Some Street sources pondered the effect of the surtax on earnings, and there was published comment that business would be dampened to some extent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon, was off .4 at 348.8 with industrials down .2, rails off .3 and utilities off .4.

Walter Kidde dropped 1½ to 67 on a block of 76,000 shares and doubled its loss to 3 points in later dealings.

Prices advanced in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Chicago Telephone Strike May Be In Its Final Hours

By DEBBY RANKIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Bell Telephone Co. was studying today a proposal of the striking electrical workers to submit their long and sometimes bitter dispute to binding arbitration.

After a two-hour meeting Sunday called by Gilbert J. Seldin, top federal mediator, the utility agreed to consider the union's verbal proposal. A union spokesman said an answer was expected by today "at the latest."

The 69-day wage dispute between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Systems Council T-4, and Illinois

Bell threatens to move the Democratic National Convention from Chicago.

Robert A. Nickey, chairman of the council, told a news conference that union leader had presented company officials a plan to submit the prolonged dispute to binding arbitration.

The company will "consider the proposal as expeditiously as possible," a Bell spokesman said.

Union members could return to work during arbitration said Nickey, if this procedure for settling the strike is "mutually satisfactory" to both sides. Such a step, however, "would have to be settled as a separate back-to-work agreement," he added.

Nickey said if Illinois Bell rejects arbitration, the union will have no recourse but to file a charge of "unfair bargaining practices under the NLRB (National Labor Relations Board)."

The company has suggested that putting its current offer to a referendum of union members would be safer for the union than placing itself in the hands of arbitrators.

John M. Bailey, national convention chairman, has warned that if the strike is not settled by July 28, the convention may be moved from Chicago's International Amphitheatre.

The walk-out by some 11,800 electrical workers, which started May 8, has delayed installation of equipment needed for radio and television coverage of the convention, scheduled to begin Aug. 26.

Three networks—ABC, CBS and Mutual—have warned that coverage of the Democratic convention will be impaired if the strike is not ended soon.

The bargaining is deadlocked over wage provisions and length of contract.

Ships Again Move In St. Lawrence Seaway

OTTAWA (AP) — Ships moved through the St. Lawrence Seaway again today after a 24-day strike that idled nearly 300 ships and cost an estimated $20 million in wages, seaway tolls and other losses.

Traffic resumed Sunday night a few hours after some 1,200 striking members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers voted 72 per cent in favor of an agreement providing a 19 per cent wage increase spread over three years and another 4 per cent in fringe benefits.

The increases will cost the seaway authority $2 million for the three years covered by the agreement.

Ninety-six ships, most of them ocean freighters, were awaiting entry to the inland waterway a Montreal when the strikers ratified the agreement hammered out in two days of bargaining which ended late Saturday.

Another 75 ocean ships were trapped in the system, and more than 100 lake vessels beyond Montreal were stalled.

The agreement virtually wipes out the 20 per cent gap between the wages paid Canadian workers on the seaway and those paid by the United States on the locks it operates. But W. J. Smith, president of the union, pointed out that the American workers open negotiations for a new contract in the fall and said the Canadians would presumably fall behind again.

The agreement gives workers 7 per cent more pay the first year, 6.5 the second and 5.5 the third. The boost will bring the basic laborer's rate from $2.77 to $3.32 an hour. Skilled employees, including carpenters and machinists, rise from $3.63 to $4.36. The first year increase is retroactive to Nov. 1, two months before the expiration of the old contract.

The new agreement runs until Dec. 31, 1970, assuring the seaway two strike-free shipping seasons if the U.S. workers don't strike.

The final terms were well below the 30 per cent increase that averted a strike in 1966 when the Canadian government stepped in. The 1966 settlement has been criticized as inflationary, and this time the government refused repeatedly to intervene.

Collision Near Dunn Killed Five

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The death of five persons in a collision near Dunn Sunday boosted North Carolina's weekend traffic death toll to at least 15.

The toll for the year now stands at 924, well ahead of the same period last year, the Highway Patrol reported.

Four persons were killed outright in the wreck 10 miles south of Dunn and a fifth, George Burns, 44 of Dunn, died late Sunday night.

The other four were a Dunn businessman and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Burns; Mrs. Nancy Owen of Stantonsburg, Mrs. Burns' aunt; and Mrs. Ed Keller of Dunn, a sister of Archie and George Burns.

Disarmed Bomb At French Office

NEW YORK (AP) — Police discovered and dismantled today a plastic explosive that had been tied to the door of the French government tourist office in Rockefeller Center.

Six foreign tourist and diplomatic offices in the city have been bombed since April 22.

A timing device was attached to the bomb, police said, but detectives did not know when it was set to explode.

Sunday was Bastille Day, the anniversary of the French Revolution of 1789.

News Notes

LA ROLLA, Calif. (AP) — Msgr. John L. Storm, a former president of the University of San Diego, says he is leaving the Roman Catholic Church and the priesthood because the church continues to institutionalize God.

The educator explained in a statement Sunday why he plans to leave the priesthood after 25 years: "We can't afford to lose God in order to build a church."

Since resigning as president of the church-operated university in 1959, Msgr. Storm has been pastor of All Hallows Church in this San Diego suburb.

Msgr. Storm, 50, said he left his pastorate July 5. He contradicted a statement by Bishop Francis J. Furey of the San Diego diocese that he left because of ill health.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Carlos Prado Uribe, 20, a Mexican fisherman, has been rescued after a harrowing 18 days adrift in the Gulf of Mexico in a tiny green rowboat.

The young fisherman covered 534 miles. Several times he spotted ships, between swells but they didn't see him.

Uribe lived off bait, dead fish, and rain water after he became lost near the Yucatan Peninsula. He was plucked from the Gulf Saturday night by the crew of the Escaut, a Belgian freighter.

Rumor Headway In Pueblo Talks

SEOUL (AP) — A Seoul newspaper quoting unnamed diplomatic sources says negotiations between the United States and North Korea are believed making headway toward release of the 82 crewmen of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

The independent Chosun Ilbo said, however, that the two sides clashed at the latest of their 19 meetings over the wording and timing of an official U.S. apology over the incident.

The Pueblo was seized Jan. 23 by the North Koreans, who claimed the ship was spying in North Korean waters.

Alcohol Sales In N.C. To Rise

RALEIGH (AP) — Beer and wine tax receipts in North Carolina showed a $3 million drop in the last fiscal year mainly because of a change by the 1967 General Assembly in the method of collecting the excise tax.

State Revenue Commissioner Ivey Clayton said today, "We cannot say it's a loss. It's just a lapse in revenue—a two and a half month lapse."

Some of the reduction was attributed to the six-day ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages imposed in April after riots broke out following the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The lapse means a reduction of some $1.5 million in revenue to cities and counties which permit the sale of beer and wine. About 50 per cent of the tax collected by the state is returned to these counties and towns.

Prior to Jan. 1, the breweries had been paying the tax in advance by purchasing crowns and lids. Shipments to North Carolina were in marked containers which showed the tax had been paid. Under the change, the tax is paid by Tar Heel wholesalers, who remit payments to the revenue department on a monthly basis.

Clayton and state ABC Director Ray Brady strongly opposed the change when the bill came before the General Assembly.

"We pointed out there would be a reduction," Clayton said.

The two-and-a-half month lapse in collections resulted between the time breweries stopped buying the seals and caps and the time the wholesalers began remitting the tax, Clayton said.
