School Board Going Ahead

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — The Rocky Mount School Board decided Monday night to continue its freedom of choice system for at least one more year, despite a federal government request for a speed-up in desegregation.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in a letter to the school board, had suggested that steps be taken to eliminate the classification of any school as Negro or white. The HEW also asked for regrouping of elementary school districts.

Arab Group Hijacks Jetliner For Hostages

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli jetliner with 48 persons aboard was hijacked to Algeria today, and an Arab guerrilla organization asked the Algerian government to hold the Israelis among its passengers and crew members as hostages for Arab demands held prisoner in Israel.

Israel asked U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to help obtain the release of the plane, its 38 passengers and 10 crew members. The Boeing 707 jet of El Al, Israel's national airline, was hijacked over the Mediterranean an hour after it left Rome on a flight to Tel Aviv.

Pensacola Shaken By Gasoline Tank Blast

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A gasoline storage tank exploded "like an atom bomb" today, hurled residents of nearby homes out of their beds, and shot flames 300 feet high over the Pensacola waterfront.

Barrancas Avenue running past the storage field was barricaded and residents of several homes were evacuated. "It looked like an atom bomb explosion," said sheriff's Deputy Edward Mayo. "Every available Pensacola fireman" joined the Navy and Coast Guard in battling the blaze, said Sheriff's Sgt. Ed Brown.

Moore Says Gun Control Under Study

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Dan Moore has told President Johnson that North Carolina was studying gun control even before control became an issue. Moore made that report to Johnson in a letter replying to a Johnson appeal to governors to survey and tighten gun laws.

Contents of the letter were made public today. Moore told the President that since April, before the death of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., the state's Law and Order Committee took up a study of crime that included gun control. The committee study is still under way.

Guardsmen And Army Troops To Be On 'Standby'

CHICAGO (AP) — About 1,000 National Guard troops will be standing by in Chicago armories each night during the Democratic National Convention. A total of 5,500 members of the 33rd Infantry Brigade will rotate duty from 5 p.m. until 1 a.m. each night of the convention, which starts Aug. 26, guard officers said Monday.

Brig. Gen. Harold E. Sign Language Study For Office Employees

A QUIET LITTLE TALK — Linda Farr talks in sign language to Johnny Miller, an employee of the Army Corps of Engineers. Linda and 16 others are learning sign language in order to communicate with Miller, a new employee. (AP Wirephoto)

By DON REEDER
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The coffee breaks are unusually quiet affairs in one of the local offices of the Army Corps of Engineers.

That's because many of the 17 employees are clustered in a corner talking in sign language.

Johnny M. Miller is a deaf mute and has to talk with his hands, but the others are learning so they can communicate with Miller.

"It just sort of happened," said Derald Sarraat, unit supervisor.

"Actually, sign language isn't as difficult as I thought it would be. We're still slow at it, of course, but we're learning."

Miller, a husky 25-year-old graduate of the Missouri School for the Deaf at Fulton, came to the engineering office this spring. He's a cartographic draftsman and etches maps on film for reproduction, a process called scribing.

At first others in the office communicated with Miller by writing notes.

"Then one day I noticed he had a book that looked interesting, and I asked him about it," said Linda Farr, a petite 20-year-old coworker.

and anyway my writing isn't the easiest thing to read. So he showed me this card with the alphabet in sign language. I finally got the nerve to try it, and pretty soon the others were doing it, too."

The others say Linda is the best in the office at sign language—besides Miller—but she claims she's still clumsy.

From simple alphabetical signs, the government employees are progressing to hand symbols which translate into words or phrases.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller brought his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination to North Carolina Monday, but apparently failed to sway any of the state's 25 GOP national convention votes.

A reliable Republican source said Rockefeller "impressed the delegates but got no firm commitments. Some of the delegates, however, may think of Rockefeller now if it goes past the second ballot at Miami Beach."

Aides to Rockefeller said in Cincinnati when he returned there, however, that he had picked up four delegates during his North Carolina visit.

The North Carolina delegation reportedly had 22 delegates favoring Vice President Richard Nixon and four backing California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Rockefeller said the two-hour session with the delegates and alternates, 90 minutes longer than expected, "was a free exchange of questions and answers."

"We discussed Vietnam, problems in the big cities, and all other major issues facing the nation."

Then Rockefeller added: "We talked facts and we talked substance. We did not at anytime discuss personalities."

When asked if he had any success with the Tar Heel delegates Rockefeller answered, "You'll have to ask the delegates. But they stayed for more than two hours."

Attending the meeting in Charlotte, North Carolina's largest city, were about 25 of the state's 52 Republican delegates and alternates.

A Republican source said "there were about 15 delegates and eight or 10 alternates at the meeting."

Absent were North Carolina's three Republican congressmen—Reps. James Broyhill, Charles Jonas and Jim Gardner.

Broyhill and Jonas were in Washington while Gardner, the GOP gubernatorial candidate, reportedly was attending an organizational meeting.

Joining Rockefeller at the meeting were Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida and William Miller, former New York congressman and vice presidential candidate on the 1964 Republican national ticket.

Rockefeller started his brief visit to North Carolina with a rally at the Charlotte airport, attended by some 250 persons.

The crowd estimate was made by Capt. G. B. Livingston of the Charlotte Police Department.

About one-third of the crowd was teen-agers or young children.

Welcoming Rockefeller were a teen-age rock-and-roll band, several state and local officials, and women clad in mini-dresses stamped on the back with the word "Rocky."

At the rally Rockefeller called for a united country and a leadership that "can take action on the problems facing us."

He called for lowering the voting age to 18; a lottery-type military draft system; and a negotiated peace in Vietnam.

Gov. Kirk made a brief statement saying "All this talk about the candidacy of George Wallace is so much nonsense."

Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace is a third-party candidate on the American Independent Party ticket.

After the North Carolina visit, Rockefeller returned by plane to Cincinnati and the National Governors Conference.

Farmville Plant Joins In Major Safety Campaign

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Plant of American Cyanamid Company took part today in a novel program to enhance safety consciousness among the diversified chemical producer's 26,000 employees across the country.

A motion picture team from Lederle Laboratories Division's Davis & Geck Department, hitherto known for surgical films in support of medical education, has produced a five minute color and sound movie of President Clifford D. Siverd presenting his "deep personal concern for the safety of all our people."

The Siverd film, believed to be the first of its kind in American industry, was shown at Farmville and other Cyanamid plants and offices on July 22, the anniversary date of its founding in 1907. Siverd has proclaimed the day as Cyanamid Anniversary Safety Day, to be observed annually "to mark our renewed dedication to safety and loss prevention."

The accident frequency rate for Cyanamid, a major producer of products for the home, industry, agriculture and the medical profession, averages 1.97 per million man work hours in 1967. At the Farmville plant, the figure is 3.74. This is well below the chemical industry's average of 3.8, and the corresponding figure for all industry of 7.00 and the Farmville plant is four times safer than other plants producing similar products.

"The idea behind this new campaign," Siverd said, "is that we won't be satisfied with even a better-than-average performance. Industry has been successful to a large extent in controlling accidents "and as a result, we now find ourselves ten times safer at work than elsewhere."

"What we at Cyanamid are now looking toward," he stressed, "is the virtual eradication of accidents. This is a long-range goal, and to the degree we can make further strides toward it, through safety consciousness, this program will show its value."

Siverd noted that over the years, employees at 24 company locations had won the President's Safety Award, the company's highest such tribute. The Farmville plant has earned nine awards.

Looking ahead, he told employees, "I would like every company location to earn its own President's Plaque."

After viewing the film, T. J. Canning, manager of Farmville, called attention to Siverd's remarks to the effect that the company has a continuous policy of conducting operations "in a way that will enable personnel to avoid injury. The demands of production do not overshadow the safety of Cyanamid personnel."

Canning added that the special safety program dramatizes the fact that "it is a person's own pride and his regard for himself, his fellow employee, and families, that is the real catalyst which generates overall respect and acceptance for the moral truth of safety."

"That is the message Mr. Siverd has left with us," Canning said, "and the reason behind the ceremony today."

Tobacco Heir Is Target Of Suit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A $1 million damage suit was filed against tobacco heir Richard Joshua Reynolds Monday by a business associate who claimed he was beaten at "the specific request" of Reynolds.

Peter J. Palms Jr., 34, filed the suit asking compensatory damages in excess of $5,000 and punitive damages of more than $1 million for the beating which Palms said put him in the hospital. Palms alleged severe injuries caused him physical and mental anguish plus loss of earnings.

Palms named Richard Cravero as codefendant. He said Cravero is an agent or employee of Reynolds, a millionaire financier.

The suit said Cravero assaulted Palms July 5 in the Racquet Club, an exclusive private club, at "the specific request" of Reynolds.

Reynolds is the grandson of R. J. Reynolds who founded the Tobacco Company which bears his name.

Palms and Reynolds are associated in the Reynolds-Palms Exporting-Importing Co., Inc at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Many Intoxicated When Drowned

CHICAGO (AP) — Coroner Andrew J. Toman said Monday that many people who drown in Lake Michigan apparently were intoxicated when they entered the water.

In nearly all of the adult drowning cases in the lake, Toman said, there was a high percentage of alcohol in the blood of the victims.

"Perhaps there should be a law against drunken swimming as well as drunken driving," Toman said.

Toll Collectors Unable To Smile

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Florida turnpike toll collectors, replying to criticism from Gov. Claude Kirk that they don't smile enough, said Monday the corners of their mouths stay down because their pay hasn't gone up. The collectors added that they don't get restroom breaks, some days they must miss lunch, and they are compelled to work overtime.

Minor Damage To Burning Car

Greenville firemen were called to the intersection of 12th and Greene Streets at 10:40 p.m. yesterday when a car caught fire there.

Officers said only minor damage resulted to the vehicle. The blaze, they reported, was caused by a flooded carburetor and confined under the hood of the auto.

Box 222 at the 12th and Greene Streets intersection was sounded for the fire.

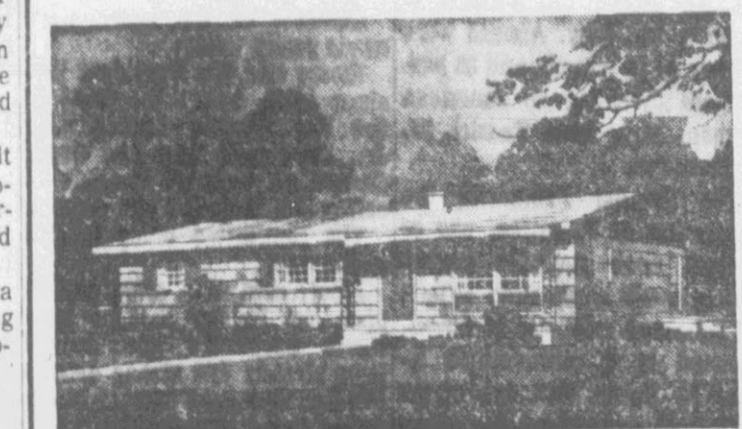

Charge Driver In Monday Accident

Linwood Franklin Baker, 50, of 208 Arlington Dr. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 11:45 a.m. collision here yesterday on Memorial Drive.

Police reported the crash occurred about 100 feet North of the Ione Street intersection and involved a truck driven by Baker and a car operated by Louis Gene Garris, 26, of 407 Blount St., Ayden.

Damage to the truck was set at $100 while damage to the Garris car was placed at $125.

Party-Line Hog To Pay Damage

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claiming a neighbor didn't relinquish the party line when he tried to make an emergency phone call, a suburban Granada Hills man and wife have been awarded $1,500 in a Superior Court suit.

Robert F. Steffan and his wife said they attempted to call the fire department on Aug. 6, 1965, but that someone in the household of John G. Crawford, a mail carrier, didn't get off the line.

The Steffans filed a $37,200 suit but agreed Monday to a settlement. Steffan said the fire caused extensive damage to his garage.

Area Debutantes For 1968 A Different Kind Of Summer For Miss Webb

"I had always heard that the University of Colorado was the place to go. I found that with its snow capped mountains, glacier lakes and all the other features which add to the scenic countryside, there was never a dull moment," explained Debutante Bonnie Gardner Webb. Miss Webb attended summer school for five weeks at the University of Colorado, studying sociology and economics. "I wanted to make my summer count for something worthwhile. Also, I wanted to get some hard courses behind me and at the same time enjoy the most different, most beautiful and most wonderful scenery and atmosphere."

A student at Stratford College in Danville, Va. Miss Webb commented: "The first time I saw Stratford, I fell in love with it. The friendliness, charm and personality of this school assured me that I would be happy there."

Miss Webb was treasurer of her sophomore class in college, a member of the German Club and Spanish Club and served on the dorm council as a freshman.

She says a small girls' school like Stratford has a "family atmosphere". "You can get special attention from the faculty, get to know more students and get to be friends with the faculty," she stated. "Also, classes are smaller."

Only recently returning home from summer school, Miss Webb says she plans to spend the rest of her summer "enjoying the deb season to the fullest."

"I am looking forward to relaxing, shopping for my clothes for each special occasion and attending each party as well as visiting friends and having my friends as my guests."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fred Webb, Jr., Miss Webb enjoys skiing, swimming and horseback riding.

Chief marshal for the deb is her father James Fred Webb Jr. Assisting marshals are her brother Thomas Frederick Webb, pre-dental student at the University of North Carolina and Richard Warren Gaylord, Jr., of Richmond, Va. and sophomore at the University of North Carolina.

MISS BONNIE WEBB

Both Should Go On Diet And Live To Enjoy Each Other

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman of 39 years and I weigh 237 pounds. I have weighed this much since I was a teen-ager and because of it I have never had a date. And I mean not one single date! My doctor just told me that I had to lose 100 pounds as my health is in danger.

My problem is this. I recently met a man and we were attracted to each other immediately. He weighs 302 pounds. He says he loves me and he doesn't think I need to lose any weight. So what do you advise?

MAYEBELLE me.

DEAR MAYEBELLE: I advise you to get this man to a doctor, and together you two should go on a diet. "Getting" a man won't help you much if you can't live to enjoy him—and he can't live to enjoy you. All vanity aside, fat smotherers good health.

DEAR ABBY: This may seem like a petty thing to complain about, but it is really getting me down:

My mother-in-law has the cute little habit of saying, "My son's that." Everything is Billy's. Nothing is ever mine.

Yesterday I heard her tell a friend about "Billy's wedding," so I politely corrected her and said, "I beg your pardon, Mother, dear, but MY father paid for the wedding," then she laughed and said, "Yes, but Billy has been paying ever since."

Abby, I am so tired of hearing references to Billy alone as tho he had no wife. I am ready to explode. What can I do?

DEAR MARIE: Keep telling yourself that nothing your mother-in-law says will get you down. And repeat it often, or the ulcer you develop will be all yours—not Billy's.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon, for the second time, and my fiance insists I wear a white wedding gown and veil, just like a real bride. I have tried to tell him I can't do that, but he says I can if I want to, and nobody can stop

The first time I wore a skirt and sweater and was married by somebody at the county court house. The whole thing took 5 minutes and I didn't feel like a bride at all. I was divorced a year later.

Is my fiance right, Abby? Has anyone in my circumstances ever had a white wedding? I would really love it, but I haven't the nerve. Should I?

DEAR BRIDE: If you want to "go by the book," white weddings are reserved for the first time. However, your fiance is right—nobody can stop you. You may come in for a lot of criticism, but if you would really "love" it and your fiance is all for it, suit yourselves.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT MUCH FOR LOOKS" IN NEW LONDON, CONN.: Keep trying. The plainest man that can convince a woman that he is really in love with her, has done more to make her in love with him than the handsomest man who can produce no such conviction.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069.

Jams and jellies can add variety, interest, and energy value to a meal. They can furnish the needed accent of flavor and color to meats, vegetables and cereal foods.

Jams are made from some crushed fruits and should have the characteristic fruit color and flavor. The juice should be thick.

An ideal fruit jelly should be transparent, palatable, and have the natural fruit color; it should be firm, yet quiver when removed from the mold. Jelly should be tender when cut, but firm enough so the angles will retain their shape.

A new method of making fruit jams and jellies without cooking has recently been approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This method is being widely accepted not only because of the ease of preparation, but because the products have fresh fruit aroma, color, and taste.

Commercial pectins are used. Powdered or liquid pectin is satisfactory. However, powdered pectin, because it is colorless in solution, will produce jams and jellies of a more natural fruit color.

Since jams and jellies prepared by this method have not been cooked, they will mold or ferment if allowed to stand more than a few days at room temperature. Jams and jellies made by this method have been kept in a household refrigerator as long as 3 months without any noticeable loss of color, odor, or taste. These qualities will be retained even longer in freezer storage.

If uncooked jams are stiffer than desired at the time of serving, slight stirring will soften them. If syneresis or "weeping" occurs after the jams have been cut, stirring will blend them.

Peaches are in abundance now, so you might like to try the uncooked Peach Jam recipe.

PEACH JAM

2 cups finely mashed peaches 1 package powdered pectin plus
4 cups sugar 1 cup water

1 teaspoon citric acid OR
½ bottle liquid pectin

If you use Powdered Pectin:
Combine fruit and sugar. Let stand about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir the pectin into water, bring to boiling point rapidly for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from stove. Add the fruit and stir about two minutes. Pour into jelly glasses. Cover and let stand at room temperature 24 to 48 hours or until gelled. Seal with paraffin and store in freezer. Jelly made in this way will keep several weeks at refrigerator temperature. This recipe makes about 6 glasses.

If you use Liquid Pectin:
Omit the powdered pectin and water, and use ½ bottle of liquid pectin (½ cup). No cooking necessary.

If you would like directions for other uncooked fruit jams and jellies, call our office and we will be happy to send them to you.

Doctor Defends The Fairer Sex

NICE, France (WNS) — Dr. Henri Amoroso, who is known as the Dr. Kinsey of France for his books on sex, read "Our Love," the new best seller by famed French writer Roger Peyrefitte, then promptly challenged him to a duel. "Peyrefitte has written a masterpiece of intellectual exhibitionism that is a complete insult to women," explained the doctor. "It is my duty to the feminine sex to humiliate him in public." As an "authentic Latin," Dr. Amoroso also objects to Peyrefitte's affirmation that Napoleon and Julius Caesar did not like or love women.

Miss Edna Carol Long Weds Michael Gordon On Sunday

DUNN — Miss Edna Carol Long became the bride of Michael David Gordon at a four o'clock service in First Baptist Church Sunday.

The Rev. Jessie Croom of Spring Branch Baptist Church, Nichols, S. C. officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lewis J. Long of Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Dan H. Gordon of Greenville.

The church was decorated with candles and greenery. The couple knelt at a prie dieu.

Music was provided by George Earnshaw, soloist, and Mrs. Taylor Newton, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a candlelight gown of summer satin. It featured elbow length sleeves, a fitted bodice, and an A-line skirt. Appliques of imported lace accented the bodice and chapel train.

She wore a mantilla of matching lace and carried a trailing bouquet of daisies, English ivy, and baby's breath.

Miss Ann Henry of Dunn was maid of honor.

She wore a floor-length gown of yellow dotted swiss which featured a fitted bodice with empire waist, elbow length sleeves, and an A-line skirt.

Her headdress was a small circlet of daisies and ivy. She carried a nosegay of daisies.

Miss Elizabeth Newton of Dunn was the flower girl.

Dan H. Gordon served his son as best man.

Ushers were Kenneth Long of Dunn, brother of the bride, and Charles S. Sharp Jr. of Hudson, Ohio.

The bride's mother chose a mint green silk and linen sheath with matching accessories. She wore a pale yellow orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom selected an apricot sheath with matching coat and accessories and wore a white orchid.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed to a bone linen sheath with matching accessories.

A reception was held at the Woman's Club by the bride's parents following the ceremony.

The couple will reside in Greenville, where the bride is a senior in the East Carolina School of Nursing.

The bridegroom, a graduate of J. H. Rose High School in Greenville, is a graduate of East Carolina and is presently enrolled as a graduate in the school of business there.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at the village Inn for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Luncheon For Miss Sermons

Miss Anne Sermons, bride-elect of July 27 was honored at a bridesmaid's luncheon Saturday given by Mrs. J. W. Clark Jr. and Miss Judy Clark at their home.

The honoree was presented a corsage of daisies and baby's breath upon arrival.

Guests included Mrs. Ernestine K. Sermons, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Ray John Gillis, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Sermons remembered her attendants with gifts.

Jealousy Spoils Husband's Aim

PARIS (WNS) — Mohamed Ben Moulay, 35, found his wife Edith out with another man, Philippe Mimcia, on the Faubourg St. Martin. He reached for his revolver, shot at Mimcia five times and managed to hit him only once. Even so, the wound was so slight that Mimcia ran after his assailant, caught him and turned him over to the police. "Ordinarily I am an excellent shot, but now when I am in a jealous rage," said Mohamed Ben Moulay.

Holes Being Eaten In Iron Curtain

The change during the past 20 years in Moscow's attitude in dealing with other nations of the communist bloc is shown nowhere more dramatically than in the current Soviet demand for a showdown meeting with Czechoslovakian officials.

There would have been no such meeting a few years ago. There would have been instead Soviet tanks rumbling down the streets of Prague, Soviet planes dominating the sky over the country, and Russian soldiers swarming across the Czech countryside. Moscow would not have talked with officials of another communist country with which it was displeased. It would have issued orders backed up with military force.

The situation in Czechoslovakia today points up vividly the change which has come about in the in Moscow since the terrible days in Hungary with Soviet troops moved to brutally crush that nation's bid to establish "counterrevolutionary" reforms. It may yet be that if the top Soviet leaders cannot gain the results they desire through negotiation they will resort to force. But that possibility grows more remote as the face-to-face talks draw closer.

Even at the risk of over optimism, there appear obvious holes being eaten away in the Iron Curtain that once enclosed all the Soviet satellite nation. The chinks are coming not because of pressure being applied from without the Iron Curtain, but the changes which have been taking place within those countries that recognize the communist philosophy does not provide the answer to the lives of nations or their citizens.

If there has been a change in Moscow's attitude in dealing with other communist nations, there has been an even greater change in many of those countries which now seek to remove themselves from the domination that has stemmed from Moscow for more than two decades.

New Regulation On 'Trash Fish'

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — The same is moving toward a new attempt to solve the knotty and controversial problem of how to regulate taking a huge quantity of young, undersized food fish by commercial trawlers.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

This is the so-called and probably misnamed "trash fishing" question which has plagued and perplexed fisheries officials, the state board of Conservation and Development (C&D), and the legislature for many years.

The C&D board, upon recommendation of its fisheries committee and fisheries advisory board, apparently will adopt a new regulation next month to restrict both catch and landing of "trash fish" during the trawling season for finfish November through April.

If approved, the recommended restrictions would become effective for the 1968-69 fin-fishing season — ending a two year period during which there has been no restriction or limit on catch of juvenile fish in North Carolina coastal waters during the winter season.

Problem Defined
Essentially the problem has been how to restrict fairly and limit effectively — and enforceably — the catch and landing of so called "trash fish" without hurting the state's commercial fishing industry.

During the two years since October, 1966, when restrictions on quantity of undersized fish caught and landed were lifted, controversy has raged.

Suit was filed several months ago by a salt water sports fishing organization charging that arbitrary suspension of reasonable regulations violated a state law required C&D officials to regulate "trash fishing" in a manner to discourage the practice for its own sake. The suit is pending.

Intentional "trash fishing" under a 1965 law, is illegal. The law, however, provides for C&D regulation to permit disposition of undersized, immature food fish caught incidental to normal commercial fishing operations.

Sports fishermen in North Carolina conservationists and others here and in other state contend that the taking of immature food fish such as croaker, spot, gray trout and flounder, and disposition of these for industrial purposes is harmful to both the overall commercial and sports fisheries resources and should be checked.

Source Of Problem
The state's industrial fishery plants are located in Carteret County and utilize "trash fish" for fertilizer, cat food, minks food, and bait.

This expanding industry had its beginning when former Gov. Luther H. Hodges visited the Carteret fish docks more than 10 years ago and saw quantities of small, undersized "cull" fish being thrown away. Hodges suggested there might be a profitable method of utilizing these fish for industrial purposes, instead of throwing them away as "trash".

Several Carteret individuals and interested groups set up dehydrators and industrial processing facilities. The operations apparently proved profitable — but howls of protest arose from both sports fishermen and small commercial operators. They charged that taking of small fish was depleting the resource and hurting the overall fishery. North Carolina's nearby coastal waters and inland waters are a rich nursery area for both finfish and shellfish.

Recommended Limits
C&D's fisheries committee has given tentative approval to a recommendation by the fisheries advisory board that regulations permit the landing of no more than 40 per cent "trash" per vessel load, through licensed fish dealers, November 1 through April 30.

Presently, a 25 box per day per vessel (approximately 100 pounds per box) limit is enforced during shrimping season which begins in early May. This remains in effect for shrimping season.

The new recommendation according to officials, will in effect reinstate a 25 box limit on a year-around basis.

Despite N.C. Highway Efforts, Toll Climbing

In spite of its continued efforts to improve highway safety, North Carolina is seeing its highway death toll climb again this year as it has in years past.

So far this year traffic accidents in the state have taken 88 more lives than during the same period a year ago. A total of 948 lives had been lost through last week-end.

Highway officials as well as other citizens recognize there are more automobiles on the roads of the state now than a year ago. Those vehicles are traveling more miles and transporting more people. Although the number of accidents per passenger mile may be lower than in past years, those accidents still result in more fatalities and more injured people every year.

North Carolina must give greater attention to its highway safety program. It must provide its law enforcement agencies with additional men and equipment to help with the traffic safety effort. It must put additional emphasis on constructing highways with greater safety features. Most of all, it must somehow impress upon its average citizen the importance of the role he must play in making the highways of North Carolina safer for every man, woman and child.

Humphrey Book Removes Doubt

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The authorized campaign biography of Hubert H. Humphrey, due out this week, repeats the contention that the vice President's private feelings about the war in Vietnam match his public pronouncements.

The book, entitled "A Man for All People," was written by Ralph Martin and will be released in Washington Wednesday. A copy will be sent to each delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

In one part of the book, Humphrey deals with recurrent doubts that his support of the Johnson administration's Vietnam war policy isn't as enthusiastic in private as it is in public.

"Muriel (Mrs. Humphrey) always called me the happy warrior," the vice president says in the book. "She says I'm happy because there's no conflict between my private views and my public views."

The major portion of the heavily illustrated book, composed of captions in Humphrey's words, deals with events in the past and present, including the problems of being a vice president.

"The vice-presidency is a job with sobering responsibility and very little authority," says Humphrey. "I don't recommend it to everybody. When I first became vice president I was warned that my relationship with the President would deteriorate within six months to a year, according to the standard pattern of history. Well, we fooled them."

"President Johnson and I have been friends for 20 years . . . He knows me well enough to expect loyalty but not mimicry. This has been my standard," Humphrey says.

On Vietnam Humphrey says, "Nobody wants to see the war in Vietnam come to an end any quicker than I do so that we can bring our boys back home. What I'd really like to see in Vietnam is a cease-fire so that we can have peace while we talk peace."

The book includes pictures of Humphrey with his chief opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, a fellow Minnesotan.

Humphrey recalls how McCarthy had supported him in his past campaigns including his abortive attempt for the vice presidency in 1956 — a year that Humphrey thought Adlai Stevenson would make him his running mate.

Back in 1956 Humphrey says he had a meeting with Stevenson in Washington "and I understood that if I could drum up strong support, that he could pick me at the convention to be his running mate."

However at the last minute the late Sen. Estes Kefauver's strength at the convention forced Stevenson to let the delegates choose the No. 2 man, to Humphrey's deep disappointment.

MAKING IT VERY HARD TO READ!

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Fortas Vs. Inquisitors

When Justice Abe Fortas came before the Senate Judiciary Committee last Tuesday, it marked the first time, so far as anyone could recall, that a sitting Justice had been asked to testify on the question of his own confirmation as Chief Justice. Only two other sitting members of the Court — Edward D. White, in 1910, and Harlan F. Stone, in 1941 — had been so elevated, and apparently no questions were asked of them. This week the committee had plenty of questions to put to Abe Fortas.

He arrived a few minutes early, at 10:25, and submitted gravely to the Argus-eyed inspection of the photographers' corps. At 10:40 the committee members filed in, and Senator Eastland, with the rumble of a far-off freight train, went directly to Fortas's relations with Lyndon Johnson. What were the facts? Had Fortas advised the President on a steel price increase and the transportation strike? Had he drafted the White House. His fusing-sending troops to Detroit?

Fortas has the handsome facts of a pre-Roman coin, and the resonant voice of a good trial lawyer. He was proud, he said, and he looked ed it, that the President from time to time had asked him to participate in meetings at the White House. His function was to listen to what was said, and to sum up the several views. Such occasions were not frequent. He did not know about the steel and transportation issues; he could not place them. He had not written the Detroit statement, but he had seen it before publication.

Eastland was curious: Had Fortas approved the statement? "The President does not ask my approval," Fortas said, his eyes narrowing. It was not a responsive answer, but Eastland let it go. The Senator went off on questions of constitutional construction instead. What was the Justice's view?

"I firmly and absolutely believe that the language of the Constitution is controlling, and that no body of men is entitled to deviate from that language by not jot or tittle. But I could not tell you that the 'majestic generalities' of the Constitution are single and unmistakable in their meaning."

Eastland pulled reflectively on his cigar and let McClellan have a crack. The Senator from Arkansas pursued the matter of the White House meetings, but got little more. McClellan yielded to Sam Ervin of North Carolina. Ervin peered over his spectacles, his eyebrows twitching like a rabbit's nose. He wanted to emphasize the need for stability in the law. How did Fortas feel about the overruling of prior decisions?

Fortas had come forearmed for this attack. He had the same view, he said gently, that Senator Ervin himself had expressed when he was a judge of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. Fortas just happened to have in his pocket the text of an opinion Judge Ervin had written in February of 1949, in State v. Balance, 51 S.E. 2d 731. The case involved the constitutionality of the State's Board of Photographic Examiners. In order to reverse the conviction of a Raleigh photographer, Judge Ervin

Other Editors Say For Senators, Too

(The Charlotte Observer)

Sen. Sam Ervin has mounted a sway-backed mule of legislative obstructionism and charged off to joust with the windmill of judicial activism. The one consolation in Ervin's long record of legislative negativism has been that he usually left such displays to men like Sen. Strom Thurmond. He has been willing to let the record show his obvious non-support for many of the views of men like Chief Justice-designate Abe Fortas without making a leather-lunged spectacle of himself.

For reasons apparent only to Ervin, he has now chosen to change his approach to a man whose "wisdom and ability" Ervin accepted three years ago when he went on the court — a man whose record then indicated he would be exactly the kind of justice he has been.

Ervin's performance in the Fortas case would have been slightly (but not much) less disturbing if it had at least begun either with the raw honesty of Thurmond's antediluvian political opposition or the partisan self-seeking of Republicans trying to preserve an opening on the court until after the November election. But Ervin apparently wants to play the role of a Thurmond while still maintaining the aura of scholarly detachment.

His first thrust at Fortas was a petty-fogging charge that no vacancy existed on the court because of the form of retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren's letter of resignation. Alas, for the senator this untenable charge was made doubly untenable by reminders that he himself had proposed a nominee for a judgeship here at home that was similarly "unvacant." The excuses that Ervin had been the victim of slow mail delivery didn't change the facts in the case.

Nor does the record of Fortas on the court provide any more grounds for "misgivings" about his sense of judicial restraint than the record reviewed by Ervin and essentially the same set of senatorial questioners who passed on his original appointment. If Ervin feels he must dissent from the confirmation of a man whose views he most certainly does not share, that is one thing. But it is quite another to confuse disagreement with disqualification or to trump up reasons for blocking Fortas' move from the end to the center of the high court bench.

The case for restraint embraces senators as well as justices of the Supreme Court.

A Trial Ballon Raised

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The trial balloon for a Nixon-Lindsay ticket raised by Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio is picking up support from Republican state chairmen in important populous states.

This concern is the same as that of Rhodes: Can Richard Nixon win enough Negro support to carry the critical urban states? They feel that Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York is the only possibility for Vice President who could actually help the ticket.

Particularly active in pushing this argument has been Joseph N. Dukert, the Maryland state chairman. In a July 12 personal letter to Nixon, Dukert strongly urged consideration of a Nixon-Lindsay ticket. During Nixon's visit to Baltimore Wednesday night (July 17), Dukert proposed the idea personally to Nixon. Nixon was non-committal.

Dukert is not alone. Two of the most professional, most respected state chairmen in the Midwest — John Andrews of Ohio and Ody Fish of Wisconsin — are quietly plugging Lindsay for Vice President. Another four or five state chairmen, some of whom want their identities shielded because they nominally are neutral or backing Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, plan promoting the idea to Nixon.

Opposition to Lindsay is coming from some of his old colleagues in the House (including the highly influential Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin) who didn't care for him as Congressmen and like him even less as mayor. More important, some of Nixon's own aides are anti-Lindsay and fear the mayor, as Vice Presidential nominee, might undercut Nixon on the campaign trail.

Nixon himself is apprehensive of the constitutional question posed because he and Lindsay both are residents of New York. The 12th Amendment of the constitution bars Presidential electors of a state from voting for residents of their own state for both President and Vice President.

Early boosters of the Nixon-Lindsay ticket suggested the possibility of Nixon moving out of New York after the election if New York's 45 electoral votes were decisive. However in his July 12 letter to Nixon, Dukert proposed that Nixon change his residences before the election to avoid charges of "Machiavellianism." Dukert's suggestion for Nixon's new home: Washington, D. C.

Goodbye, Unit Rule?

Leaders of Vice President Humphrey's campaign have privately concluded that he should, at the proper time, acquiesce in Sen. Eugene McCarthy's bid to abolish the unit rule at the Democratic National Convention.

At Chicago, McCarthy forces will attempt to ban the unit rule (a favorite device of Southern delegations which requires all votes of a delegation to cast their votes for the candidate favored by a majority of the delegation). By agreeing, Humphrey could deprive McCarthy forces of an issue on the convention floor at the cost of only a few delegate votes for his cause.

No 1968 Hope For Tax Reform

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is no hope that anything will be done this year to reform the federal tax system which, as everybody knows, was designed by Rube Goldberg.

Congress has asked the President to submit proposals before the end of the year but, even if they were made long before that, Congress would not act. It is now racing to adjourn and, if called back after the party conventions, would be unwilling to tackle so large a subject. Furthermore it would be embarrassing to tackle one of the most important aspects of tax reform, the notorious oil depletion allowance, in a year when many Congressmen are counting on campaign contributions from oil men.

Don't Hold Your Breath

Furthermore, a good tax reform would require considerable study and, perhaps, a lot of deals, compromises, log-rolling and other finag-

ing. This would take time and the best hope for tax reform would be for some time in 1971, and even then the lobbyists are likely to prevail and the reformed tax structure would be more of a monstrosity than ever.

Nevertheless, tax reform is a necessity if respect is to be restored to the federal government and if the economic extermination of the Middle class is to be arrested. As it is now, the poor are taxed lightly and may some day benefit from a reverse tax, in which the government will pay tax money to them. The wealthy have loopholes and escape hatches through which taxes can be minimized. But the middle class gets taxes socked to 'em.

For example, a recent issue of Prentice-Hall's Executive report tells subscribers: "Handle things right and you can still take advantage of one of the tax law's biggest breaks—despite a recent congressional crackdown specifically designed to eliminate this special benefit."

Knows Whereof

Now Prentice-Hall is a respectable organization; it's tax experts are reputed to know as much about tax law as Treasury experts, it stands for strict compliance with the law, and it knows whereof it writes. It continues: "There's a way for your corporation to sell a piece of business property and to pass any capital gain through to you. The net result will be only one tax on the profit and that will be at the tax-favored long-term capital gains rate.

"Example: You're the sole owner of your corporation. The company owns a piece of property it no longer needs. The property's basis (generally cost less depreciation) is $50,000. It's now worth $150,000. You would like to personally latch on to the proceeds of this deal. . . .

"You may find the best solution is: (1) Have the corporation elect to be taxed as a partnership and then (2) Have it sell the property on the instalment basis (taking no more than $37,500 a year). Total tax on the $100,000 profit: $125,000 or less. So you get to keep $125,000 out of the total $150,000. You'll also save at least $14,000. . . . Otherwise, it adds, the tax could run as high as $112,000, $12,500 more than the profit on the sale.

Have you a corporation? Tough, old fellow!

City All-Stars Split First Tourney Games

Greenville's Teener League All-Stars split their first two games yesterday in the State Tournament at Gastonia. In the morning game, the Greenville team mastered a 10-0 win over Elizabeth City; but in the second game, Greenville found itself a victim of another master game, 10-1, at the hands of Shelby.

Shelby had earned the right to play in the afternoon game by defeating Gastonia in the other morning game, 2-1.

In the afternoon game, Greenville started the scoring with one run in the first. With two outs, Russ Smith blasted a triple into right field and scored on Jimmy Paige's single. Paige powered four of Greenville's six hits for the game.

After the second inning Shelby scored in every inning except the final seventh. In the third, a walk and two hits brought in two runs. In the fourth, two more runners crossed the plate on the same number of hits and errors.

Three walks, two hits and a sacrifice fly brought in the three fifth inning Shelby runs, while two walks, a hit better, and a sacrifice fly scored three more in the sixth.

Mark Mauney was the winning pitcher for Shelby, and Jimmy Bond was charged with the loss for Greenville.

In the first game, the scoring began in the second inning when Byron Dickens walked and moved to second when Kim Harbin was hit by a pitch. Lewis Gidley walked and Tommy Durham followed with the same, scoring Dickens. Stanley Cobb's sacrifice bunt then brought in Harbin, and Joe West scored Gidley and Durham with a single and moved to second himself as they scored. Russ Smith then singled, scoring West.

In the top of the third, Greenville added another run as Jimmy Bond walked and then advanced to second on Dickens' walk. Harbin then advanced both runners with a single, and Bond scored as Gidley walked.

In the top of the sixth, Gidley led off with a walk and advanced around the bases to score when a sacrifice bunt was error-ed at first. Cobb walked and moved on a fielder's choice. Smith hit a sacrifice fly and scored Durham. As the relay back of the fly was error-ed, Cobb scored the inning's second run.

The final run in the sixth came as Dickens and Harbin singled, and Bill Higgins walked to load the bases. Cobb then singled to score Dickens.

The game was called after six innings because of a tournament rule that stops the contest if one team accumulates a 10-run lead in six innings.

Greenville met Elizabeth City this morning for the right to face Shelby for the championship this afternoon. If Shelby wins this afternoon, the double elimination tourney is over. If Shelby loses, however, the championship game will be tomorrow morning.

Bart Starr Returns To Green Bay Camp After Brief Scrimmage With Influenza

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Viking fullback Bill Brown is back in camp after a brief absence and Green Bay home—and the Packers hope that will be a brief stay too.

Starr, who quarterbacked the Packers to the National Football League title and the world championship, worked out briefly at Green Bay Tuesday, then was sent home, apparently suffering from a case of influenza.

There was no indication how long Starr might be out.

Brown, who walked out of the Vikings' training camp at Mankato, Minn., Saturday in an apparent contract dispute, returned to camp, went through two workouts and said he wants to be prepared to play for the Vikings.

General Manager Jim Finks is due in camp today and was expected to talk contract terms with Brown, the team's leading rewarded; if not, I shouldn't be."

The disputes involved safety Jerry Richardson and the Atlanta Falcons, and defensive tackle Frank Parker and the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Richardson quit the Falcons when his demand for a guarantee that he play at least three games was turned down by Coach Norb Hecker. Richardson, a four-year-man, needs to appear in at least three games to be eligible for the NFL pension plan.

"I can't guarantee anybody anything," Hecker said. "I told him he could get out there and make the club like the 73 other guys we have in camp. We just can't cut or make guarantees indiscriminately."

Richardson said he couldn't have a guarantee, he wanted a release or a trade.

Parker, obtained in a trade with Cleveland, failed to report to the Steelers' camp. The club said he was holding out for more money.

"We offered Parker more money than he earned last year but he didn't accept," a club spokesman said.

Safety Elbert Kimbrough, who sat out the 1967 season, signed a contract with the New Orleans Saints. Kimbrough was obtained by the Saints from the San Francisco 49ers in their expansion draft last year, but he didn't report to New Orleans because of business commitments in San Francisco.

Bob Dee, veteran defensive end who has played in every Boston Patriots' game—112 of them—since the American Football League was formed in 1960, announced his retirement. Dee said he had a business opportunity "too good to resist."

The New York Jets opened their training camp and quarterback Joe Namath tested his left knee, on which he underwent surgery during the winter.

Hank Aaron Recalls Cross-Handed Batting

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeature's Sports Editor

Eleven times in the last 13 years Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves has hit above .300 and for his 14 years in the National League his .316 career average tops all active players in both leagues.

This is not one of Henry Aaron's better years as a hitter but his book, "Aaron r. l."—World Publishing Co., Cleveland, $5.95—as told to Furman Bisher, is one of the better sports tomes of the year.

Aaron, never one to complain, gets a few things off his chest and starts out telling of his days as a $200 a month cleanup hitting shortstop with the Indianapolis Clowns, a team that creplayed in the Negro American League but seldom saw Indianapolis.

He tells about Clowns owner, Syd Pollock of Tarrytown, N.Y., selling his contract to the Milwaukee Braves for $10,000 and all Hank got was a cardboard suitcase.

Aaron might have been a teammate of Willie Mays of the Giants but $50 a month more in salary swayed Hank to sign with the Braves and report to their Eau Claire, Wis., farm team. That was in 1952 when he was 18.

Aaron tells about hitting two opposite field home runs in the spring of 1953 while the Milwaukee Brewers, who then became Toledo, that spring when the Boston Braves switched their franchise to Milwaukee were training in Kissimmee, Fla.

His Milwaukee-Toledo manager, Tommy Holmes, told Braves' farm director John Mullen: "He'll never make the big leagues. He can't pull the ball."

"You really don't think he can make it?" Mullen asked.

"Not a chance, the way he pushes the ball," Holmes replied.

"I don't know what he expected of me," writes Aaron. "I told Mullen to send me to Waycross, Ga., an old Army airfield where future Braves trained."

It was there that the late Ben Geraghty first met Aaron and asked him to play his Jacksonville team in the Class A Sally League. Jacksonville's gain was Toledo's loss for Aaron became the minor leaguer of the year, hitting .362 in a league that didn't exactly cotton to Negro baseball players. But Aaron says he was used to the treatment because he was born in Mobile and never believed in crusading like Jackie Robinson, Cassius Clay or Bill Russell.

Aaron is more of the Willie Mays and Ellie Howard type.

"There's only one way to break the color line," writes Aaron. "Be good. I mean, play good. Play so good that they can't remember what color you were before the season started."

Little Leaguers Begin Tournament

Two Greenville Little League All-Star teams open play tomorrow in Tarboro aiming for the District Four title and a trip to the State Tournament next week in Forest City.

Eight teams will be involved in the Area II tournament at Tarboro, while six other vie at Morehead City in Area I. The two area winners meet Saturday at either Tarboro or Greenville for the title.

Four games are scheduled in Tarboro for tomorrow, at 10 a.m., 1, 3 and 5 p.m.

In the opening game, Tarboro will meet Seymour Johnson, with Greenville's North State league taking on Southern Pines in the second contest. The winners of these two games will meet at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Warrenton and Pope Air Force Base meet in the third contest of the day, while the Greenville Tar Heel League meets Robersonville in the final game of the day. The two survivors of these games meet at 5 p.m. Thursday.

Friday, the two surviving teams collide to decide the area title. Game time then is 4 p.m.

Meanwhile, Morehead City, Swansboro, Warsaw, Havelock, Newport and Beaufort will be battling for the Area I title.

The winner of that tournament will meet the Area II winner on Saturday at 4 p.m. That game will be played in Tarboro, unless the Tarboro team wins. If that happens, the game will be moved to Greenville.

South Carolinian Signs With Pirates

James Johnston of 3920 Duhose Drive, Columbia, South Carolina, is a 5-11, 175 pound halfback who has signed a football grant in aid with East Carolina University.

Coach Harold Bullard of the East Carolina Pirates said, "Johnston is a tailback prospect, and he is also a good defensive halfback. He hits hard on defense."

Pinch Hitter Lou Brock Sparks 3-Run Rally

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the bottom of the ninth inning and you're two runs down. But you've got two and nobody out and the league's MVP—your clean-up hitter—coming

So you pinch hit for him. Right?

Right, agreed struggling slugger Orlando Cepeda after pinch hitter Lou Brock's ground single keyed a three-run rally that swept the Cardinals past Philadelphia 5-4 in a nationally televised game Monday night.

"It was the right move," said Cepeda, the National League's 1967 MVP, of Manager Red Schoendienst's switch to Brock, which helped the Cardinals open their league lead to 11½ games. "I'm not hitting and Lou is the faster man. You put in the fastest man to stay out of the double play."

"And he's the manager."

While the Cardinals were scrambling to their 16th victory in 20 games, the New York Mets trimmed second place Atlanta 5-2, running the Braves' losing string to four. Houston topped Los Angeles 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs swamped San Francisco 7-2 in other NL action.

In the American League, Cleveland whipped Baltimore's 7-3, Boston nipped the New York Yankees 7-6, Oakland blanked the Chicago White Sox 4-0 and California shaded Minnesota 6-5.

Phil's southpaw Woody Fryman, backed by Don Lock's three-run homer and Roberto Pena's bases-empty blast, took a 4-2 lead into the ninth at St. Louis. But John Booser replaced Fryman after Julian Javier's leadoff single and Curt Flood beat out a bunt against the reliever.

Brock, the Cards' hottest hitter in recent weeks, had been given a rest by Schoendienst. But he got the call to bat for Cepeda, who was hitting .264 after going 1-for-3 against Fryman.

The slim speedster bounced a single through the right side, scoring Javier, sending Flood to third and raising his batting average to .290. Flood scored the tying run and Brock trotted to third on Mike Shannon's one-hop ground-rule double into the right-center field stands and

Triples by Ron Swoboda and Bud Harrelson and doubles by Ed Kranepool, Jerry Buchek and Art Shamsky triggered the Met's attack at Atlanta while Don Cardwell, 4-9, subdued the Braves on five hits.

Kranepool and Buchek slammed two-base hits around Swoboda's sixth-inning triple as the Mets broke a 2-2 deadlock.

Dave Giusti scattered seven hits at Los Angeles as the Astros handed the Dodgers their 18th setback in 21 games this month. Dick Simpson singled and scored the first run in the fifth inning and doubled home another in the sixth. Tom Haller had three of the Dodgers' hits.

The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth inning at San Francisco on a two-run pinch double by Willie Smith, then shot beyond reach with a three-run burst in the ninth. Glenn Beckert stroked a single and double, extending his season-high batting streak to 27 games, and Joe Niekro boosted his pitching mark to 9-6 with relief help from Phil Regan.

Immanuel Slams St. James, Inches Into Second Place

Immanuel slammed St. James with a 16-2 victory last night in the Church Softball League to inch past the Methodists into second place in the league. In the other game, Meadowbrook moved past Oakmont 11-8 to gain a tie for fourth with Grace and Mt. Pleasant.

Presbyterian still leads the league with a 12-1 record. Immanuel now holds second with 14-3, and St. James fills the top three with a 12-3 season. In the tie for fourth are Grace (8-8), Meadowbrook (8-8) and Mt. Pleasant (7-7), Oakmont follows at 7-8, and Jarvis and Gum Swamp, both 2-11, complete the league along with Pentecostal (1-11).

Immanuel never fell behind in the first game, picking up six runs in the first and holding St. James to two. That was the closest St. James came.

For Immanuel, Grimesly knocked a second inning homer, and Mullen hampered one in the third. Buck followed with another in the fourth.

Meadowbrook fell behind in the second game, 2-1 in the second inning. However, they came back with four runs in the third to tie. Harris knocked a third inning home run for Meadowbrook. Oakmont, however, returned to score three runs in the fourth, only to be overcome as Meadowbrook rallied for six runs in the last two innings.

Humphrey-Kennedy Ticket Still A Questionmark In Hubert's Mind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says whether he would ask Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to be his running mate is "greatly dependent on Mr. Kennedy's wishes and views" but the Massachusetts senator's wishes remain a question.

Hopes of a Humphrey-Kennedy ticket have been expressed by a number of Democrats at the National Governors Conference in Cincinnati and Humphrey said Monday night he was sure he and Kennedy will one day talk politics.

The vice president made the comments during a taping session for the "Dick Cavett Show" on the ABC television network.

Humphrey did not say he was offering Kennedy the vice presidential spot. Asked at a news conference earlier about the possibility, Humphrey replied there were a number of Democrats who could fill the spot.

Kennedy has made no comment on repeated suggestions since the assassination of his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, that a Humphrey-Kennedy ticket would boost chances for a Democratic victory in November.

There was new guesswork that plans might be in the making after a meeting in Hyannisport Sunday of leading figures of the late President John F. Kennedy's administration and Robert Kennedy's Democratic presidential campaign.

But Frank Mankiewicz, who was on Robert Kennedy's staff, said the meeting was one of a series on planning a "living" memorial, possibly a foundation, for the slain senator.

"There wasn't anything political in the meeting," Mankiewicz said.

Humphrey also said Monday he would make no deals with third party candidate George C. Wallace for his electoral votes if neither major party candidate won a majority in November.

"I would rather not be nominated as a candidate for president," Humphrey said, "than to have to depend on a racist vote to get the nomination."

There was a growing movement at the governors conference in Cincinnati to support a Republican-Democrat agreement to settle any such White House deadlock without dealing with Wallace.

Republican Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island sought backing of a plan by which both major party nominees would agree in advance to support whomever receives the largest November popular vote if there is no majority in the electoral college.

Labor troubles, meanwhile, continued to slow preparations for both national party conventions.

Democratic National Chairman Hubert H. Humphrey said his party's convention "might be moved" from that city if the telephone strike is not settled in time for installation of communications.

But Bailey said no decision has been made. He said he has not talked to officials in Miami Beach, where the Republican convention begins Aug. 5, about the possibility of moving the Democratic convention there three weeks later.

Electrical workers picketed CBS in Miami Beach for the third day Monday, bringing most work at the GOP convention hall to a standstill. But all three networks said a delay of several days would not cripple their preparations.

In other political developments: —New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller sought delegate support in North Carolina for the GOP presidential nomination but sources said he failed to sway any of the state's 26 nominating votes.

—GOP contender Richard M. Nixon taped television shows in Los Angeles and then went into seclusion at a friend's home in Laguna Beach to rest until Thursday.

—McCarthy continues to hold a firm lead over Nixon—42 per cent to 34—in the latest Harris Survey but Humphrey's lead over Nixon—37 per cent to 35—has slipped since a survey in June.

The survey, a copyright feature of the Washington Post, also shows Wallace with 35 per cent support in the South and 10 to 20 per cent, depending on the opposition, in the rest of the country.

Kilpatrick Col. . . .

(Continued From Page 4) had to overrule a case decided just 11 years before. Ervin had overruled; two dissenters had charged him with bending the Constitution and the statute to his own "inconstant economic views or predilections."

It was a hit, a palpable hit. Ervin's pink face turned pinker. He recalled the case well. There were cogent reasons for overruling the earlier case. Fortas was full of soothing admiration. He quite agreed. There is no way to avoid judicial error. "You know that, Senator."

Ervin shuffled through a stack of papers, sorting out quotations from Cooley on Constitutional Limitations, from American Jurisprudence, from Corpus Juris Secundum. Did Fortas agree that a Constitution must be fixed, that it must not mean one thing on Monday and something else on Tuesday? Of course, Senator, of course. Ervin recalled George Washington's admonition that there must be no change by usurpation. The Justice agreed completely.

So it went through the long day, the Senators rumbering in Fortas meeting them head-on. He spoke with candor. So did his inquisitors. Together they made a record of strong views, strongly held. It was high drama; it helped to clear the air, and it gave new dignity to the Senate's often neglected power — the power to advise and consent.

(Continued From Page 4) Illinois, chairman of the convention's rules committee. McCarthyites in Illinois have informed Shapiro, who faces an uphill battle for election in November, that they will sit on their hands this autumn unless he sides with them in rules committee deliberations on the unit rule.

A footnote: Humphrey has come to one decision on a running mate. He has unequivocally and irrevocably ruled out Gov. John Connally of Texas for Vice President.

Tobacco Barns Lost To Fires

More tobacco barns are being lost in fires as the tobacco harvest season reaches its peak activity.

On Saturday afternoon at 4:15, the Winterville Fire Department responded to a call from the A. W. Ange farm on rural route 1737, five miles from Greenville. The barn was partially destroyed and the tobacco lost, with a damage estimated at approximately $1,500.

A tobacco barn burned on the farm of Jimmie Dixon, near Black Jack, at 11:20 Saturday night. The barn and its contents were a total loss with estimated value of $2,000. The Grimesland Fire Department, which answered the alarm, was able to prevent the fire spreading to nearby farms.

Early Monday morning at 1:59, the Ayden Fire Department answered an alarm from the R. H. McLawhorn farm between Roundtree Church and Renston, three miles west of Ayden on rural route 1115. The barn was a total loss. Estimated value was $2,000.

On Dean's List At Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL—Jeffrey David Jenkins, son of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins of 605 E. 5th St., Greenville, was on the spring semester dean's list at the University of North Carolina here.

Jenkins, a sophomore in the University, is a business administration major. Maurice Lee is dean of the School of Business Administration.

To be on the dean's list at the University here, a student must be taking a full academic load of at least 15 hours, and make no grade below a C.

Local Super Market In Governor's Competition

Harris Super Market of Greenville has entered the competition for the Governor's Retail Food Industry Award given each year for promotion of North Carolina food products by food retailers.

Awards are given in three categories for excellence in merchandising North Carolina food products and judging is based on the contestant's presentation of newspaper tear sheets and advertising circulars, photographs of special in-store promotions, and similar visual evidence of boosting "Tar Heel" produced and processed foods.

Those entering the contest are assisted by specialists from the N. C. Department of Agriculture markets division promotion section, who periodically visit all the competing stores to show them how to keep evidence of their promotions in proper order and up to date. These specialists also pass on to the contestants from time to time new ideas for promotions which may be helpful.

Two Marines Are Injured As Car Overturned

WILLIAMSTON — Two Marines were seriously injured when their car overturned nine miles south of here at 4:15 Monday morning.

Trooper E. W. Collier, of the Highway Patrol, said that charges have been filed against John Harden, 22, for operating left of the center line. Harden reportedly suffered deep lacerations over his left eye.

Thomas R. Paumier, 21, was transferred to Pitt Memorial Hospital with a broken neck this morning from Williamston. Doctors said Paumier is in serious condition.

The 1968 vehicle was a total loss, Collier said, estimating the damage at $3,500.

Plan Campaign Meet In Asheboro

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Democrats will conduct the third in a series of campaign conferences for party workers at Asheboro Saturday.

Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, district congressman and members of the Council of State are expected to attend the session to be held in the Holiday Inn.

The meeting will bring together party workers from the 4th, 5th 6th and 8th congressional districts.

Two Tar Heels Killed In Action

Marines from North Carolina have died in Vietnam, the Pentagon announced Monday.

One was Lance Cpl. James E. Brown, grandson of Mrs. Catherine Blount of Washington, N.C.

The other was Lance Cpl. Isaac R. Draughton, whose wife lives in Rose Hill, Duplin County.

SUMMER SUN, GOOD FOOD AND FUN . . . was the fare of more than 80 children and 160 adults attending the annual picnic of the Empire Brush Co. The picnic, held Saturday on the wooded grounds of the company, was attended by employees, their wives and children. After the food, entertainment was provided in the form of games — egg-throwing, sack races and racing-relay. Prizes, including a portable TV set, were awarded to the winners of the various games. Bath cloths and sympathy were given the victims of splattered eggs.

May 'Sit On Hands' In Nov.

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — The top McCarthy supporter in North Carolina says that if the Minnesota senator fails to win the Democratic presidential nomination most of his supporters may "sit on their hands" in November.

Dr. Alden Lind also denied Monday night that McCarthy's drive is a "one issue campaign." He said McCarthy has called for "a fundamental change in American policy both domestic and foreign."

Lind, University of North Carolina political science professor and the only McCarthy backer in the Tar Heel delegation to the Democratic National Convention, was interviewed over UNC educational television.

Lind pointed to two "myths" in American politics which he said McCarthy is trying to change. They are "the myth of unlimited power abroad and the myth of unlimited resources internally."

McCarthy advocates a "responsible foreign policy," Lind said. He defined responsible as meaning that the United States would not over extend itself on limited resources.

"We need to put the American effort into a proper perspective," he said.

Reseal Deadline Soon On Some Price Support Loans

Growers with 1967 crops of corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans stored under price-support loans were reminded today of an important deadline—the time to settle price-support loans or reseal.

Stacy J. Evans, office manager for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said today that July 31 is the maturity date for loans on the "three crops, and this is a particular concern to farmers interested in the resale price-support loan program as it applies to crops stored in commercial warehouses.

Reseal loans on farm-stored crops have been in operation in certain areas for a number of years, Evans explained, so growers are well acquainted with the way the program works. But resale on crops stored in commercial warehouses is being made available for the first time this year, so it is especially important that farmers with such crops understand that there is a deadline for them to give written notice to the ASCS County Office about resale intentions.

In short, the loan maturity date may be extended for 1967-crop corn or grain sorghum or soybeans stored under loan in warehouses — and for any of these crops stored on farms but not yet under loan—provided the extension is required in writing by the original loan maturity date of July 31, 1968. Evans emphasized the fact that a written request needs to be filed in such cases.

Producers with any of the three crops stored under loan on farms may have the maturity date extended if this is requested prior to the original loan maturity date. Producers who wish to convert a 1967-crop farm storage loan to a warehouse storage loan also will have 60 days after the original maturity date to deliver eligible warehouse receipts and have the warehouse loan completed.

Growers eligible for price-support loans on 1967-crop corn or grain sorghum are all those who signed up and participated fully in the 1967 feed grain program. Further information regarding price-support programs is available at the ASCS County Office. Basic purpose underlying the programs is to permit farmers to store their crops for a while and then redeem and market them when prices are most favorable, thus stabilizing both market supplies and prices.

A person who weighed 100 pounds on earth would weigh about a ton and a half on the sun.

Eure Scoffs At Gardner Ridding 250,000 Drivers

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic Secretary of State Thad Eure has scoffed at the call by Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Gardner to rid North Carolina highways of 250,000 "problem drivers."

"There are not 250,000 licensed drivers in North Carolina lacking in a sense of responsibility of driving who should be gotten off the streets as Mr. Gardner advocates," Eure said Monday.

"To do that would paralyze the economy of that many families in the states, and I'm sure the voters of all parties will remember this plank in his platform when they go to the polls to vote for governor in November," Eure added.

Flames Damage Charlotte Bakery

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Fire damaged the A & P supermarket bakery at Charlotte Monday and several firemen were overcome by smoke.

None of the firemen were reported seriously injured. An electrical fire at the scene said the fire probably began from an electrical short. Off-duty Charlotte firemen were called to duty as at least eight fire engines battled the three-alarm fire.

The bakery employs 200-300 persons and occupies about three-fourths of a city block.

ECU Among Entries In First Of College Theatre Festivals

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The University of North Carolina, North Carolina School of the Arts, East Carolina University, Catawba College and Chowan College are among the 191 entrants in the first American College Theatre Festival, it was announced today by the Festival's national office.

"We are delighted with the enthusiastic response," said Dr. C. Robert Kase, co-chairman of the Festival's central committee. "The group of applicants constitutes a substantial representation of the colleges and universities with the most active theater programs."

North Carolina entrants will be screened next fall with other participants in the Festival's Region X which also covers Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia and Tennessee. Tennessee entrants are East Tennessee University and the University of Chattanooga. The chairman of Region X is Marian Galloway, professor of speech and theater at the University of Alabama.

The American College Theatre

Festival will be staged April 27 to May 12 (1969) in Washington in the new restored Fords Theatre and an innovative temporary theater on the Mall. Each of the ten Festival productions will be presented three times.

The Festival is being organized and produced by the American Educational Theatre Association (AETA) and the American National Theatre and Academy (ANTA). American Airlines, the Friends of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and the Smithsonian Institution are sponsoring the Festival.

Festival participants across the country will be judged by thirteen regional committees. Each regional committee may nominate up to three productions for consideration by the Festival's central committee. In regions where there are more than 18 entries, two alternates may be named in addition to the three nominees. Burnet M. Hobgood, chairman of the division of dramatic arts at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, is director of regional selections.

The central committee will make the final selection of 10 Festival productions next February. Actress Peggy Wood, honorary president of ANTA, is co-chairman of the central committee with Dr. Kase, former president of AET.

The American College Theatre Festival has been organized to give national recognition to the high quality of college and university theater productions and to promote increased public interest in theater.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠
A daring maneuver paid off a handsome reward in this hand, when East uncovered the only defensive strategy to offer a chance of defeating South's four spade contract.

West opened the ten of diamonds, and East paused to consider the situation before he made a play. From West's lead, it was obvious that declarer held the king of diamonds. Unless West held a singleton—which appeared to be very remote—the defense could take only one trick in that suit. Also East held two trump tricks, he despaired of finding his partner with any significant honor strength, for South's jump game rebid strongly suggested that the latter had all the missing topers.

East concluded that any hope for scoring a setting trick hinged on his obtaining a heart ruff. In order to retain a possible entry to his partner's hand, he decided to duck the opening lead, on the chance that West held the nine of diamonds and could eventually get in with that card.

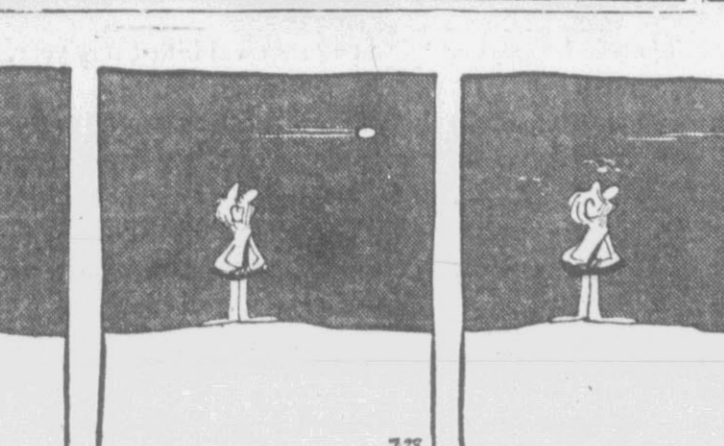

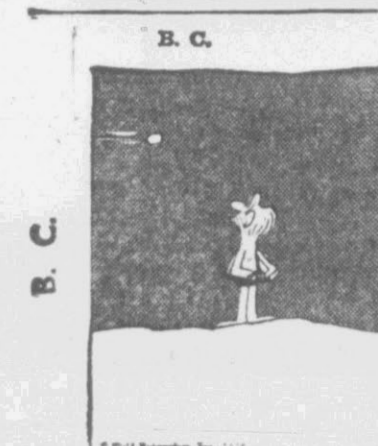

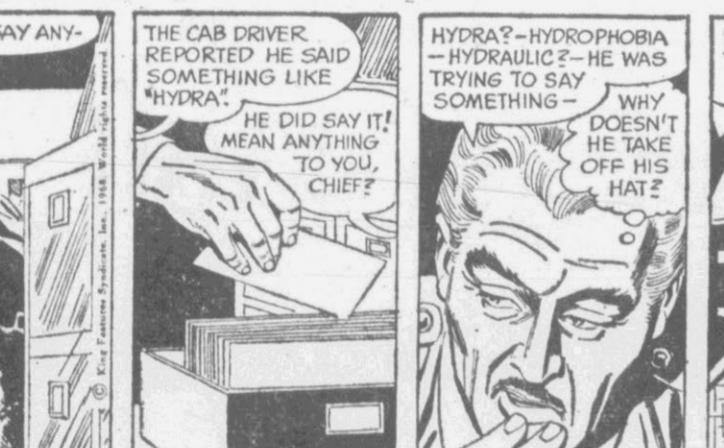

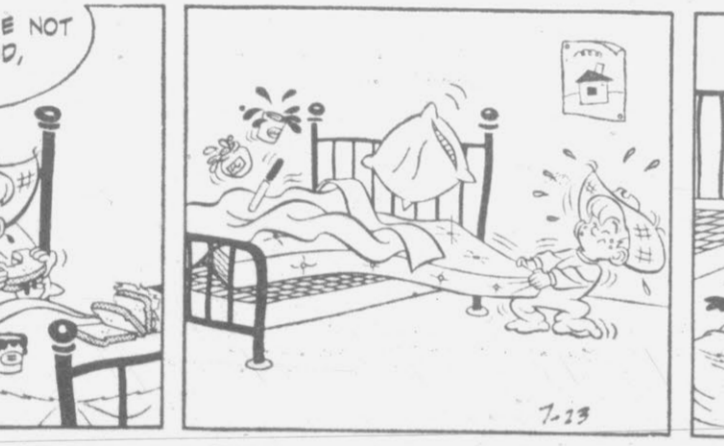

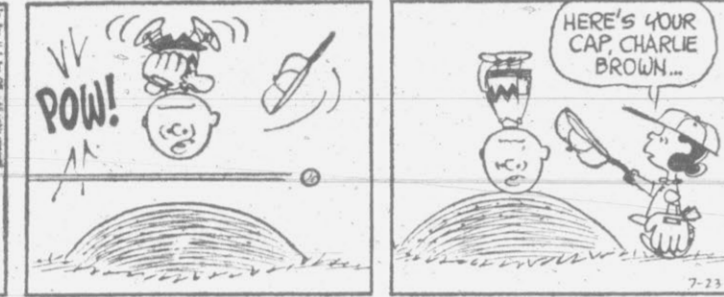

South was in with the king of diamonds at trick one and he promptly led the queen of spades in an attempt to draw trump. East played the king of spades and returned the ten of hearts. A spade was led from dummy and East put up the ace and shot back a small diamond. West was more than a little surprised to suddenly find himself on lead with the eight of diamonds—however, he dutifully returned a heart and East scored the setting trick with the deuce of spades.

In spite of the dazzling footwork exhibited by the defense, declarer could have foiled their efforts by returning a diamond at trick two. This would have eliminated West's entry before the ruffing situation had been established. We would be reluctant to point the finger of scorn, however, at South for failing to uncover the winning counter strategy.

Steelworkers' Prexy Doesn't Want Strike

By DOUG BAILEY
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The United Steelworkers used to be known as a tough-talking, strike-happy union.

In the 13 years between 1946 and 1959, the steelworkers walked out of the mills six times, for periods ranging from 12 hours to four months.

Now it has been almost 10 years since there was a general strike in the steel industry. The union's new president, I. W. Abel, is doing all he can to keep the boiling point of the current contract negotiations low.

The secrecy surrounding the bargaining is the most strict in memory. Even high union officials below the rank of the top five-man committee complain they don't know what's being proposed for the crucial wage-benefits package.

Abel has talked to reporters only three times since industry-wide bargaining began June 3. In the past union and management held news conferences and described each other's positions in less than complimentary terms.

This time Abel has used the most cautious language when he has been in public. Leading questions that give him a chance to knock the industry are sidetracked. A reporter who heard Abel tell a closed meeting, "If strike we must, strike we will"—the closest thing to militancy so far—was later upbraided by the union for publishing it.

Although there is no doubt that Abel will lead his 450,000 men out of the mills if he doesn't get what he wants by Aug. 1, there is also no doubt that he doesn't want to.

It was Abel who backed a proposal for arbitration to avoid the boom-bust pattern of steel production that jars the industry in every contract year. The idea was killed by the rank and file.

At the only meeting of the 600 local union presidents in basic steel, Abel took a great deal of time to explain the problems of imported steel. He pointed out that last year's imports, 11.5 million tons, were greater than the combined output of two of the nation's largest companies, Republic and Armco.

Translated another way, industry and union spokesmen say last year's foreign steel meant 58,000 fewer jobs for American steelworkers.

Foreign steelmakers now have an annual excess capacity of 55 million tons—more than half the needs of the American economy. A strike will mean that imported steel will grab new footholds with long-term contracts and cost thousands of jobs... and union members.

In addition, when the contract expires next week, American steel consumers will have 36 million tons of steel in their stockpiles, almost four months' supply in normal times.

And a steel strike does not shut down domestic production. The union itself acknowledges that companies with 20 per cent of the nation's steel producing capacity would continue to operate because of separate contracts. A recent study by a Cleveland economist said that, in the four longest steel strikes, the industry continued to cast at 40 per cent of the normal rate.

Those are good reasons to speak softly.

New Lt. Cmdr. In Coast Guard

OXFORD, Miss. — E. H. H. Mathews III has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in the U.S. Coast Guard Reserves.

Cdr. Mathews is now serving as commanding officer of the Memphis, Tenn. Coast Guard Reserves.

On active duty with the Coast Guard for four years, the new commander has been with the Reserve for 11 years. Mrs. Mathews and their three children, Ed, 4; Warren, 3 and Cissy, 1 are living in Oxford, Miss. Mrs. Mathews is the former Adelaide Warren from Greenville, N.C.

Bond Election In Mecklenburg

CHARLOTTE (AP)—An $11.5 million general obligation bond issue was before Mecklenburg voters today.

Two issues were at stake. One requested authority to sell $9.5 million in bonds during the next four years to extend city water lines into the county. The other would allow the sale of $2 million in bonds to bring sewerage collection and treatment systems to the county.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Monday. Supplies barely adequate to short demand good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 46½ to 47½; medium, whites: 39 to 40½; small, whites: 29½ to 30½.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—Hog markets steady. Tops 20.25-20.75 Rocky Mount; 20.00-20.50 Bethel; 19.75-20.50 Wilson; 19.50-20.50 Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albertson, Lumberton; 21.25 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Elizabethtown, Pine Level, Chadbourne; 20.75 Salisbury, 20.50 Selma; 20.25 Greensboro; 20.00 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market decline continued this afternoon amid gloomy forecasts.

Population Of California Well Above New York

LOS ANGELES (AP)—California's population is 20 million, larger than Canada's, and 1.5 million ahead of New York's, the Chamber of Commerce reported.

Almost half of the state's 20 million people live in the five counties surrounding Los Angeles, said the chamber's research committee. The report Monday was based on census and state agency figures.

For eight years California has averaged a gain of approximately 500,000 a year and the state's population could double by the year 2000, the report said.

Canada's population is 19.9 million.

ing about the immediate future of the economy.

The Soviet-Czech crisis also was cited as a reason for market caution.

Losses outnumbered gains by nearly a 3-to-1 ratio but the decline was being held within bounds on average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks — which dropped 5.4 in Monday's sharp fall — was down only 1.4 at 334.4 at noon. Industrials were off 2.4, rails off .9, and utilities off .1.

Prices were lower from the start, but the earliest declines were mainly fractional. As losses widened later in the session, there was also a noticeable recovery among many issues which have been sharp losers in recent sessions.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 4.09 at 896.23. This was a slightly smaller loss than in the morning.

The first and second most active stocks were Occidental Petroleum and Hooker Chemical, merger partners, both up nearly a point in a snapback from recent severe losses.

A published forecast in the Wall Street Journal that the economic expansion which began in February 1961 would grind to a halt by the end of this year and that there might be a mild recession in the early months of 1969 added to already existing concern about the immediate future of the economy and the stock market.

Prices declined on the American Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

WHAT HAPPENED?

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP)—A man in a Great Falls cafe saw a woman enter wearing a miniskirt.

"What happened to the rest of it?" he asked. The woman hit him on the head with her purse.

Scott Can See 3 Main Issues

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Lt. Gov. Bob Scott says three main issues seem to concern the voters of North Carolina — law and order, roads and education.

That, Scott said Monday night is the reason he hammers away at the theme of law and order as he conducts his Democratic gubernatorial campaign against Rep. Jim Gardner, R-N. C.

Issues that also should be covered in the campaign, Scott said, include problems of urban areas, low per capita income, agricultural and industrial, and more exports for North Carolina.

Those issues, combined with the first three mentioned, would constitute what Scott terms his "continued sound and positive program for North Carolina."

In a speech to the Mecklenburg Jaycees, and in a news conference earlier Monday Scott also said he expects the remainder of his campaign against Gardner to be "on a rather high plane."

That comment came after a newsmen's question concerning Gardner's allegations of "hanky-panky" within the Democratic administration.

On the national level, Scott said he has no favorite candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination and rejected Massachusetts Sen. Ted Kennedy as a vice presidential candidate because of inexperience.

Quadruplets For Couple In S.C.

SPARTANBURG (AP)—Mrs. Perry Norris of Spartanburg gave birth to quadruplets—two boys and two girls—at Spartanburg General Hospital today.

The girls arrived first, starting at 5:29 a.m. and the four births followed at several minute intervals.

Mrs. Norris, the former Brenda Saverance, is 25. She is the wife of the Rev. Perry Norris, pastor of the First Free Will Baptist Church here.

The quads are their first children. Hospital attaches said the children, premature, have been placed in incubators. All were reported in good condition.

Hospital officials said the largest of the quads weighed three pounds, the smallest two pounds, seven ounces. Both of the other infants tipped the scales at two pounds, 15 ounces.

The births of the quads came as no surprise to the parents. The attending physician had alerted them to the quads following X-rays early in Mrs. Norris' pregnancy.

Names for the four children have not been announced.

Files Conspiracy Complaint Over Rioting Deaths

RALEIGH (AP)—A complaint has been filed in Wake County Superior Court charging five officials of the North Carolina Corrections Department with conspiracy to murder and aiding and abetting in murder during the April 17 Central Prison Riot.

James H. Allison, an inmate, filed the complaint against V. Lee Bounds, corrections commissioner; Dave Henry, Central Prison Administrator; Maj. Fre Briggs, chief custodial officer; and Capt. Otis Moore and Capt. M. O. McCall, both guards.

Six inmates were killed and 77 injured in the riot.

A hearing on the suit is not expected to be held until after Judge Henry A. McKinnon returns to court Aug. 19.

Allison is serving four to nine years for breaking and entering in Lincoln County and another year for escape. He was sentenced May 4, 1965.

GROUND BROKEN

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—Ground was broken Monday for North Carolina's first all-single-room hospital. The 300-bed Nash County General Hospital, costing $8.5 million, is 1.7 miles east of Rocky Mount and is scheduled for completion in two and one-half years.

Again Half-Price

Approximately 350 patrons attended "The King and I" performance last night.

The Summer Theatre offered a special rate of $2.50 for adults for last night's performance. The special rate will apply for tonight's final performance also. Officials reported at noon today that some tickets were still available and they may be obtained by calling the box office.

"Guys and Dolls" opens Friday in the ECU Summer Theatre series. There is to be a special Sunday performance with tickets $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children.

Satellite Launch Date Postponed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—A faulty rocket guidance device has delayed until July 30 the launching of a new versatile spacecraft able to stalk hurricanes day and night.

Named ATS 4 for the fourth in a series of applications technology satellites, the camera-carrying craft originally was to blast off Wednesday atop a powerful Atlas-Centaur rocket.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday, however, that a gyroscope package needed to steer the upper stage Centaur in flight failed during qualification tests, and additional time was needed to design the unit and conduct more testing.

The 864-pound spacecraft will be aimed for a stationery orbit 22,200 miles over the equator in the eastern Pacific Ocean. From this lofty height, a new steerable camera can zero in on storms over the United States, South America and areas of the Pacific and tropical Atlantic where hurricanes are born.

Using a sensitive lens able to capture light from the moon and stars reflected off earth, ATS 4's camera will be the first ever launched that can track storms in both daylight and darkness. Looking like a giant "Daddy Longlegs," ATS 4 also is to deploy four 123-foot-long booms in space to test a concept that earth's gravity can be used to stabilize an orbiting satellite and make it face this planet at all times.

Home Loan Interest Rate Up In June

WASHINGTON (AP)—Interest rates on conventional home loans rose sharply during June, climbing to almost 7 per cent for the first time in history.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board said today the average interest rate on conventional loans for new houses jumped to 6.88 per cent during June while the rate on existing houses went to 6.97 per cent.

The board blamed both the tight credit conditions in the economy and recent increases in the ceilings fixed by states on maximum interest charges.

June marked the fifth straight monthly rise in the conventional rate for new houses. The rate on existing houses has risen every month for the last year.

In the 18 major metropolitan areas included in the Board's survey, the rates on new homes ranged from 6.18 per cent in New York City to 7.42 per cent in Dallas.

Rates were above 7 per cent for new houses in 10 of the 18 areas.

Defrocked Priest On Honeymoon

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Gregorio Lemerrier, the defrocked Roman Catholic priest who founded a controversial psychoanalysis center at a Benedictine monastery, was off on a European honeymoon today with his Mexican bride.

Lemerrier, 55, married Graciela Rumayor, 31, in Cuernavaca, Mexico, Sunday, before 400 relatives, friends and priests.

The Belgian-born Lemerrier was ordered by the Vatican to end his program of psychoanalysis of priests at the monastery of Santa Maria de Acatitlan last year. He refused to stop and now calls the monastery the "Emaus Psychoanalysis Center."

Takes Up $500 Offer On Wallace Support

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The thing that Frank Mastin, 55, likes about George Wallace is that he "practices what he preaches."

Mastin, a Montgomery truck driver, is one of several Negroes who have taken up on his $500 offer to any registered Negro voter who supports Wallace for president.

"I voted for George and Mrs. Wallace and I'll vote for him again for president this year because he was a good governor for both races. He's honest," Mastin said.

When Mrs. Wallace was inaugurated as governor, Mastin arranged his work schedule so he could attend. "I had to have police protection cause some folks were after me, some colored folks," he said.

"I even campaigned for Gov. Wallace," Mastin said. "Not only me but all nine members of my family."

He said that Negroes are better off in Alabama than elsewhere in the United States. "More people been hurt and cut up and gooped up in the North than down here in the South where things is segregated," he said.

Although he hasn't formally put in for the $500, Mastin said he expects to win it. Huie, an outspoken critic of Wallace, offered the money Sunday because he said he had searched the state in vain for a Negro voter to back up Wallace's claim to Negro support in Alabama.

N. C. Democrats Cool To Kennedy On Ticket

RALEIGH (AP)—A move to make Sen. Edward Kennedy the Democratic party's vice presidential candidate has found little active support and some opposition among North Carolina delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

"I don't think Kennedy has the experience," said Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, the state delegation's vice chairman and party's gubernatorial nominee.

"I know there was some conversation about it after the death of Sen. Robert Kennedy, but this seems to have died out in North Carolina," said State Party Chairman Tim Valentine.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey and Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro of Illinois said Sunday that the Massachusetts senator is a possible vice presidential candidate, prompting newsmen to ask North Carolina delegates about the move Monday.

"I've met Ted Kennedy one time and know very little about him," said Billy Webb of Statesville, the party's national committeeman. "I've no views about it."

H. Pat Taylor Jr., of Wadesboro, nominee for lieutenant governor, said he thinks Kennedy is a potential candidate.

"Some people, of course, are talking about Kennedy as a presidential candidate," said Taylor. "I don't want to speculate at this time on something that's just a guess."

J. Willie York, chairman of the Board of Conversation and Development, said he thought Kennedy would have a tremendous emotional appeal to a lot of people.

"I've no objection to him as vice president, but I don't think he's ready for the presidency yet," said York. "He's young and inexperienced."

The delegation leader, Gov. Dan Moore, was at the National Governors Conference in Cincinnati and unavailable for comment.

The North Carolina delegation to the Democratic convention has 59 votes and heavily favors Vice President Hubert Humphrey for the presidential nomination.

House Meets Early For Gun Bill Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House was called into session an hour earlier than its usual noon starting time today in a drive for final action on gun control legislation.

Before the House was President Johnson's bill to ban the mail order sale of rifles and shotguns, plus over-the-counter sales to residents of nonadjacent states.

Debate on six bills effecting day prevented scheduled work on the last of more than 100 amendments to the gun control bill.

Chief among the amendments is one that would provide for licensing of owners.

The House defeated two amendments last Friday that would have required registration of firearms, removing all hope for such legislation in this session.

Although President Johnson originally asked Congress, in the wake of the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, for the interstate mail order bans on rifles and shotguns, he later requested both registration and licensing, too.

Although it rejected registration, the House did toughen up the pending bill on one point. It adopted an amendment providing mandatory sentences for any person who carries a gun while committing a federal felony.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. image abroad is tumbling to new lows, largely because of Vietnam and assassinations, according to three foreign opinion surveys.

The surveys were taken in preparation for House Foreign Affairs subcommittee appearances Monday by George Gallup Jr., president of the Gallup Poll; Floyd Free, director of the Institute for International Social Research, and Edward L. Bernays, president of the Bernays Foundation.

"The key to the attitude toward the United States is ambivalence," Free said. "They love us and hate us at the same time."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Agriculture has opposed—for now—an amendment to permit interstate shipment of poultry from state inspected plants.

But Consumer and Marketing Service Administrator Rodney E. Leonard said Monday if Congress approves a bill designed to bring state inspection standards in line with federal standards, the department might change its position later.

The amendment introduced by Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., would permit state inspected poultry to move across state lines if state inspection was deemed equal to federal inspection.

Tobacco Meeting On Fertilization Slated Friday

A tobacco fertilization meeting will be held at the R.M. Dilda Farm (approximately two miles south of Fountain on N.C. 222) Friday at 7 p.m.

At the meeting visitors will observe a tobacco bulk blend fertilizer test where comparison are being made between 3-9-9, 4-8-12, 6-18-18, and 8-16-24 tobacco fertilizers.

Sam J. Weeks, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Agent, states that this will be an excellent opportunity for farmers to learn how to cut tobacco fertilization costs, without reducing the yield and quality of tobacco production.

Wilson Woman Killed By Bus

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—A 63-year-old woman was killed today when hit by a school bus on a rural road about six miles south of Wilson.

The victim was identified as Olivia Mae Bass of Route 3, Wilson.

State Highway Patrolman C. N. Lee said she was attempting to cross the road and apparently walked into the side of the Wilson County school bus.

The vehicle was driven by Robert Lee Langston, 17, of Rt. 1, Fremont.

Lee said no charges would be filed.

SHALL WE WALK?

Will Greenville's proposed new City Hall-Utilities Building be tucked away at First and Evans Street in the remote, semi-isolated River Front area?

WAS THIS LIMITED ACCESS SITE CHOSEN TO BE UTILIZED SO AS TO AID THE PLANS OF A SELECT PRIVATE INTEREST GROUP WHICH WISHES TO DEVELOP THE RIVER FRONT AREA?

Many Greenville residents without cars walk to the Utilities Building-City Hall in order to pay their City Taxes, water and light bills. Why force these people to take an unnecessarily long walk to the banks of the Tar River in East Greenville?

THE FAIR MINDED PEOPLE OF GREENVILLE WILL AGREE THAT THE CITY HALL-UTILITIES BUILDING SHOULD REMAIN CENTRALLY LOCATED, QUICKLY AND EASILY ACCESSIBLE TO ALL, SO AS TO CONVENIENTLY SERVE THE PEOPLE.
