Nixon Picks Spiro Agnew As His Running Mate

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, winner of the Republican presidential nomination, today picked Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland as his running mate.

Nixon made the announcement in a brief news conference at 12:40 p.m. He said some 100 party leaders had been consulted.

The selection of Agnew, a one-time supporter of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, was a major surprise. The Maryland governor delivered the nominating speech for Nixon Wednesday night.

Nixon opened his news conference saying the deliberations "have been very thorough on what we think is a tremendously important decision."

He said he wanted a man qualified to be president, who could campaign effectively and who would be able to assume new responsibilities dealing especially with the problems of the nation's cities.

Nixon said he will recommend the convention nominee Agnew for vice president.

Agnew was elected governor of Maryland in 1966 after a term as county executive of Baltimore County, which surrounds the city of Baltimore.

He attracted considerable Democratic support in the heavily Democratic state after George Mahoney, an outspoken foe of open housing, had captured the Democratic nomination for governor.

Nixon won a smashing first ballot Republican presidential nomination early today by bowing over Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Since then, he told the reporters, he had been closeted with party leaders and speaking with them by telephone looking for a running mate. Smiling, he said he had trounced a definite right-winger.

The announcement of a running mate had been expected between 10 and 11 a.m. EDT. Shortly after 11, Nixon's communications manager, Herbert G. Klein, said the discussions were continuing. He had a similar announcement a few minutes before Nixon turned up.

Nixon, 55, will be running with a 49-year-old vice presidential candidate. But first the party delegates, at a session tonight, will have to go through the motions of ratifying Nixon's selection. The two candidates then will make acceptance speeches.

Nixon's first ballot victory culminated a smoothly organized for a second try at the presidency. Nixon lost out to John F. Kennedy in a tight race in 1960.

Delegates erupted in a turbulent shouting, band-blaring, sign-waving demonstration when Wisconsin was reached on the state roll call. Nixon had sewed up the 30 Wisconsin votes in a primary and it was those votes which put him over the 667 count necessary for the nomination.

Nixon later summed up his victory in these words at a news conference:

"I was ready, I was willing and the events were such that the party wanted me..."

At the storied 3 o'clock in the morning, celebrated in an old song, Nixon got a call from the man he thinks he will oppose in November, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

There was some unreported banter between the two friendly enemies, each wary of an unexpected cut from an opponent with the respected ability of expert fencers to deliver a political wound. They joked about a vice president's combatant society, Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., reported.

Got Majority Of Tar Heel Ballots Reagan's Southern Effort Saw Headway Only In N.C.

By REX THOMAS
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ronald Reagan's late charge for the Republican presidential nomination made little headway against Richard M. Nixon in the South — except in North Carolina.

Reagan got a majority of the Tar Heel State's 26 votes early today even as Nixon swept to a first-ballot victory at the GOP National Convention.

Sixteen of North Carolina delegates supported the California governor; nine went for Nixon; one for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York.

The delegation chairman, Rep. James C. Gardner, announced his support for Reagan two days ago. Before then, less than half a dozen Tar Heel delegates had committed themselves to the onetime movie star.

Reagan's strength in the delegation gained steadily in the last 24 hours. An informal straw vote at a delegation caucus

Tuesday afternoon gave him 11 votes, Nixon the same number and Rockefeller two. The remaining two delegates refrained from voting.

Gardner, the GOP nominee for governor of North Carolina, made a seconding speech after Reagan's name was placed in nomination Wednesday night. A short time later he announced in a television interview the new shift to Reagan within the delegation.

Gardner's seconding speech was one of three to follow the Reagan nomination speech of Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, the California state treasurer.

The North Carolina delegation chairman had supported Nixon up until recently. A week before the convention opened Reagan visited Winston-Salem, N. C., and campaigned in behalf of Gardner and the first tangible signs of a Gardner switch to Reagan were apparent.

After Nixon's nomination on the first ballot early today, North Carolina's delegation joined other states in changing its vote to 26 for Nixon to make the selection unanimous.

Gardner and other Southerners were expected to boost Reagan for the No. 2 spot on the Nixon ticket today even though the California governor has said he would not accept the vice presidential nomination.

It was South Carolina's Democrat-turned-Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond that helped keep Nixon supporters in tact in Dixie delegations other than North Carolina.

All 22 South Carolina votes went to Nixon on the first ballot after Thurmond withdrew as a favorite son candidate.

Thurmond said Reagan "has a lot of support" in the South "but he started too late to be considered seriously". He carried this message to delegations from Georgia, Alabama and other

Opens Aug. 22

A final opening date of August 22 was set for the Eastern Belt Tobacco Market this morning by the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association.

Lawrence Wallace, the association president, said "We reviewed the situation on the Georgia-Florida belt where our buyers come from, and it looks to us that they will be able to sell as large a percentage of tobacco by August 22 as they did last year by the opening date on the Eastern Belt."

Wallace said that all 14 markets on the Eastern Belt were represented with the exception of Clinton. The vote was unanimous, according to Wallace.

He reported that all warehousemen present at the meeting this morning said that they would attempt to book sales on an appointment basis at least for the first few weeks.

The opening date had earlier been tentatively set as Aug. 20.

A Shau Valley Again Raided By Allied Force

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — American and South Vietnamese troops have invaded the A Shau Valley for the second time in three and a half months, disrupting the major Communist supply base again as part of their campaign to blunt the big enemy offensive expected in the next month or so.

A fleet of 200 helicopters landed more than 3,000 soldiers of the U.S. 101st Air Cavalry Division and the Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division in the valley in the northern part of South Vietnam Sunday and Monday, but announcement of the operation was withheld until today for security reasons.

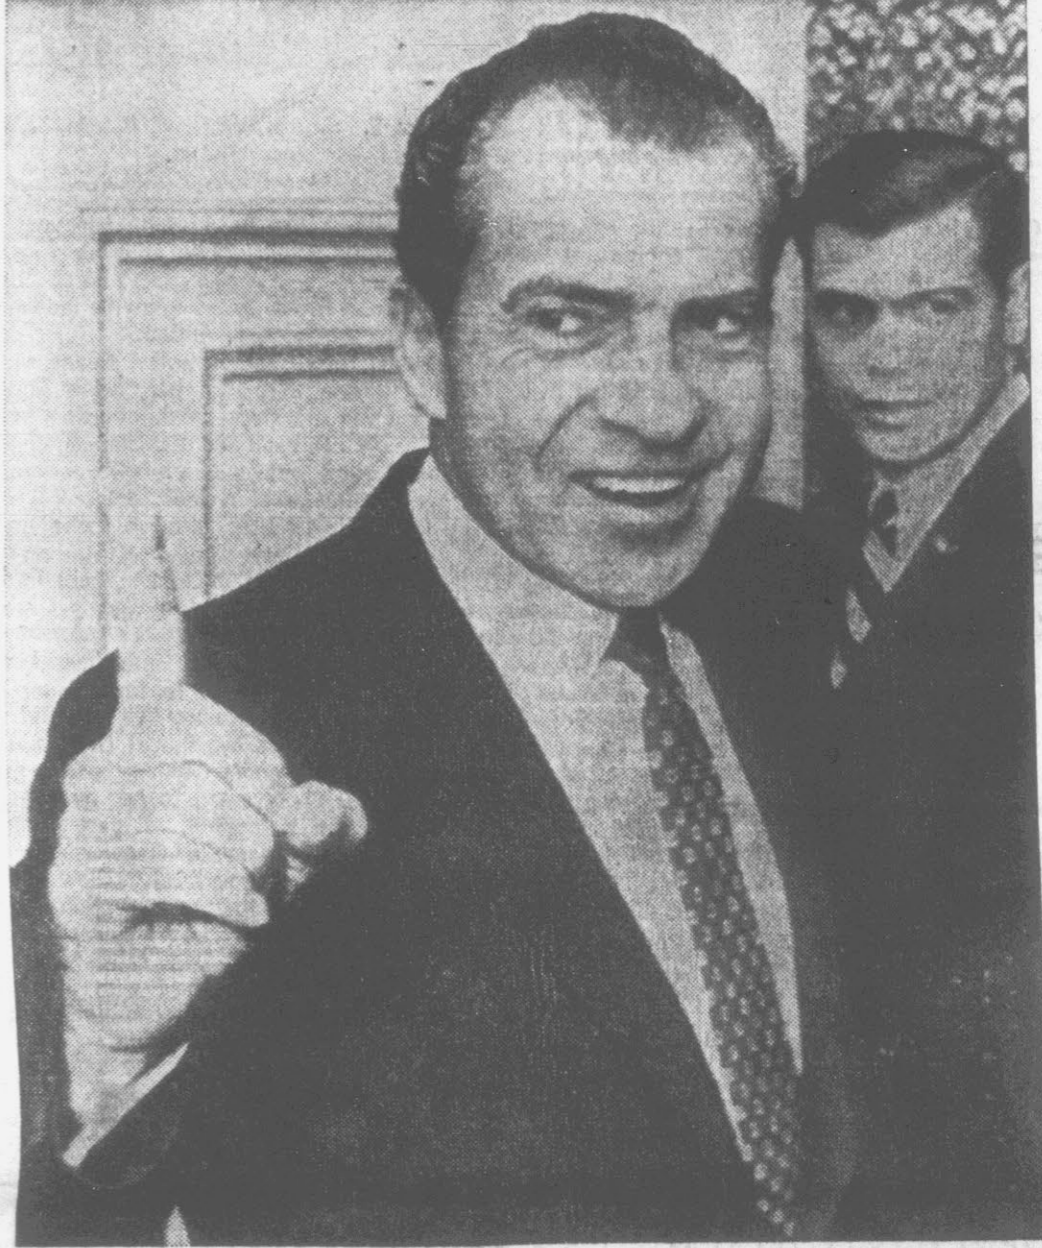

The U.S. Command in Saigon said the allied force has met with "minimal resistance" so far. Probably warned by the heavy air activity that preceded the invasion, the North Vietnamese presumably pulled back across the nearby Laotian border.

U.S. headquarters reported that 15 North Vietnamese troops had been killed in the first four days of the operation. U.S. losses were two dead and 22 wounded, while eight South Vietnamese were killed and 18 wounded.

Three helicopter gunships were shot down during the first minutes of the massive assault by 200 troop-carrying helicopters and their escorts. One crashed and burned, killing a crewman and injuring three others. But the antiaircraft fire was scanty compared to the heavy barrages that destroyed or damaged 129 U.S. helicopters during the first invasion of the valley in April.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that government troops uncovered an enemy base camp containing 50 barracks. Searching the structures, the South Vietnamese found an assortment of ammunition including 10 rockets and 15 cases of .50-caliber machine gun ammunition. More than 4,000 pounds of rice also had been left behind.

Just outside the eastern edge of the valley, units of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division uncovered an enemy bunker complex and another weapons cache that included five mortar tubes and assorted equipment, five antiaircraft machine guns, one recoilless rifle and 30 pounds of explosives.

Director Says He Has No Evidence Official To 'Investigate' Fund Kickback Allegations

RALEIGH (AP) — An official of Wake Opportunities Inc. says he will investigate charges by Lt. Gov. Bob Scott that youngsters in an antipoverty program were asked "to kick back some of their salary for purchasing weapons."

William P. Freitag, chairman of the Board of Directors of Wake Opportunities, said Wednesday Scott's charges "would obviously frighten any sensible member of the community. Violence and civil disobedience cannot and should not be tolerated."

He said Scott makes "serious charges, which I intend to investigate."

Scott, Democratic candidate for governor, made the charges in a statement issued at a news conference Wednesday. He also said "so-called black culture classes" under the Wake program "have turned into meetings for inciting youngsters to violence."

Later in answer to questions, Scott said he did not know whether the alleged kick backs had been demanded by an official of the program or by other youths. He also said he did not know whether any weapons had been purchased or the type of weapons involved.

Eugene Toton, executive director of Wake Opportunities, said the first he knew of Scott's charges was when they were read to him by a newsman. He added, "I certainly have no evidence of any of the charges which Mr. Scott made..."

Toton said more than 100 youngsters are taking part in the Wake youth program, which was funded by a $59,829 grant by the U. S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

He said between 50 and 75 are participating in the program's "clean-up campaign." They are paid a minimum of $1.60 an hour to help clean-up neighborhoods.

"Some work only two hours a week," he said.

The eight members of the board of directors of the youth program receive $2 an hour. The program director, Patrick Bryant, is paid $125 a week.

Freitag said Wake Opportunities serves indirectly as supervisory agency for the youth program.

Scott said he plans to turn his information over to Gov. Dan Moore, the FBI, congressional committees, the North Carolina attorney general's office and to Wake Opportunities.

He said his information "came from people who are employed in the organization as distinct from officials," but "to reveal these sources at this time would jeopardize the possibility of their shedding more light on it."

Scott said "We've got this material documented. We have affidavits and statements from the personnel involved."

Wednesday Docket For City Court

The Greenville Municipal Recorders Court began yesterday holding Wednesday sessions.

According to Judge Charles H. Whedbee the added Wednesday court sessions are being held in an effort to do away with the backlog of cases facing the city court.

"I am determined," the jurist said, "that this court will have a clean court..." when the new district court goes into effect December 1.

Whedbee warned persons who have cases pending to appear in court when their cases are scheduled, or capases for their arrest will be issued.

The court will, in addition to the Wednesday docket, continue to hear cases on Monday and Thursday.

Shaft Explosion Killed 9 Miners

By HOWARD KERCHEVAL
GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Rescue workers began the slow process today of carrying out the bodies of nine miners reported killed Wednesday in a fiery explosion in a coal mine shaft near here.

A mine employee, who asked to remain unidentified, said the rescue workers had found eight bodies in one area of the mine. The body of the ninth miner was found nearby, he said.

The employee said it would take some time for the workers to bring the victims to the surface because the shaft area was small. The first body was discovered at about 4 a.m. EDT today—14 hours after the accident was reported.

Throughout the rescue operation and the reported finding of the bodies, mine officials, police and other authorities have refused to discuss the accident with newsmen.

The entire area leading to the River Queen mine entrance was cordoned off soon after the accident and newsmen have not been permitted in.

In Washington, the U.S. Bureau of Mines said it received a preliminary report that the blast resulted from the accidental detonation of a carload of explosives being transported deep in the mine.

The mine, owned and operated by Peabody Coal Co., is just south of this small coal-mining community in Western Kentucky.

About 300 persons—women, children and miners—lined a road leading from the mine area to seek out loved ones, relatives and friends among those being carried out.

One of those bystanders, a middle-aged man wearing a green work uniform said: "I've been in mining all my life and my brother-in-law is down there, and I know there is no chance."

The explosion rocked a shaft inside the mine with a series of blasts. A miner who had been working in a nearby area, said, "The blast knocked you down every time you got up—just like a cyclone."

Rescue operations, coordinated by the Kentucky Division of Mines and Minerals, began soon afterward.

It was estimated that the trapped miners were nearly 8,000 feet back from the entrance to the mine and about 90 feet beneath the surface.

Over Four Million Gallons Of Water Used Here Yesterday

The Greenville and Pitt County area has been sweltering under a heat wave that has, for the past week, pushed temperatures well into the 90-degree range.

With a high temperature of 99 degrees recorded by the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station yesterday, was no exception.

High and low temperatures since the first of August as recorded by the utilities weather facility include: Thursday, 92, 77; Friday, 94, 76; Saturday, 92, 76; Sunday, 94, 76; Monday, 95, 76; Tuesday, 98, 77 and yesterday, 99, 78.

At midnight last night, the temperature still stood at 82 degrees, while at 4 a.m. 79 degrees was recorded. At 8 a.m. today the temperature stood at 77 degrees.

The river level at mid morning stood at 2.8 to 3 feet and the wind was gusty from one to five miles per hour from the southwest.

According to utilities director Leonard P. Bloxam, Greenville again yesterday set new record highs for the consumption of electricity and water.

A peak of 56,000 kilowatt hours of electricity was reached yesterday and Greenville residents used 4,140,000 gallons of water yesterday.

Bloxam said there was no problem created by the peak electric usage.

It was "the first time ever that Greenville residences have used over four million gallons of water." He added that there is no threat of a water shortage.

Homemaker's Haven

By MISS LINDA W. HUMPHREY
Pitt Home Agent

Everyone is making a list for back-to-school shopping. One of the most important items on the list is shoes. If you are shopping for shoes be sure the shoes fits. The familiar adage, "If the shoe fits, wear it," might be more appropriately worded. If the shoe doesn't fit, by all means don't wear it.

If your feet hurt and ache after a hard days work or shopping, you really have a problem. Of course, you do not have this problem because it has been found by the United States Public Health Service that at some time in their lives 80% of the American people complain of foot disorder. Eight out of ten adults have foot troubles which slow them up, reduce their efficiency, cause poor posture and produce all-over body discomfort. Misfit shoes are the major reason that 90% of women, 10% of men have foot troubles.

Foot problems do not always come with age. Young people can also have foot problems. Most foot trouble is believed by some authorities to be acquired before the age of 15. This is why it is so important to properly fit young children's shoes. A child's foot can be molded in anyway we desire by his shoes. It is said that American children are the best cared for in the world — from the ankles up. This is a result of a lack of knowledge surrounding the entire problem of children's feet.

Shoes that do not fit properly can ruin growing feet. Your child will be the best one to tell you that his shoes don't fit; in fact, he will be the last to know. It is very important for you to keep a close check on his shoes and the way he walks.

It is very important for you to buy your child's from one who knows his business. The integrity of a reliable store and an experienced shoe fitter are important in getting a good shoe fit. Parents will find the following guides helpful in getting a good fit:

1. Take the child with you.
2. Measure both feet while he is standing as well as sitting.
3. Fit shoes to the longer foot.
4. Heels snug enough to grip foot well and give support.
5. Flexible shank (the part of the sole of the shoe between the heel and tread at the ball) which fits up into arch of foot.
6. Sole flexible but firm enough to protect the foot.
7. Toe-end is soft and rounded enough to give toes plenty of room.
8. Absorbent lining for comfort.
9. Avoid shoes that are too heavy.
10. Top of shoes should fit close to the foot and not gap out at the side.
11. Have the child walk around in the shoes.
12. Fit sneakers as carefully as other shoes.

The eleven points that were just listed would apply for ages 1 to 101 when buying shoes. So often we see adults buying shoes for their children or for themselves without trying the shoe on. You should never buy a shoe by size alone.

The shoes salesman has various devices for measuring your feet, and he will not only measure the length but also the width. The length of the foot from heel-to-ball joint should measure the salesman in the right size and type shoes for each individual. There is only one hinge in the foot. It is the natural bend of the toes, right across the ball of the foot, so shoes should be flexible at this point. The foot should lie over the widest part of the sole which should be wide enough so the foot does not feel pinched. This is the most important point of fit and must be accurate.

The next point of fit is the toes. To have comfortable fitting shoe you should be able to wiggle your big toe either sitting or standing. To prevent the toes from touching the end of the shoe there should be about 1/2 - 3/4 of an inch extra length. You can check the extra length by using the "width of thumb" test. The heel fit of a shoe is also very important. The heel of the shoes should fit snugly; however, it shouldn't cut into the tendon. The heel needs to be broad enough to give good body support. The height of the heel should be that on which it is easy to walk. Most authorities say two inches high is the absolute maximum for any foot and this for dress shoes only.

A properly fitted shoe will naturally support the three weight-bearing points of the foot, the ball of the heel; the ball of the big toe, and the ball of the little toe.

The best time of the day to buy shoes is toward evening, because your lengthen during the day. When buying shoes in an air-conditioned store you should remember that your feet will swell upon exposure to humidity, so be sure to always make an allowance for climate.

There is just one more step to buying shoes with a good fit. Before you go to buy new shoes be sure to check the shoes you have been wearing. They will give you signs of incorrect fit. Look at the lining — if rubbed or worn at the heel, shoe may be too big. If rubbed at tip of the toe, shoe may be too short. If rubbed at the top, too, your toes have tried to curl up to take less room. You need a larger shoe.

Now look at the outside of the shoe. The toe of the outer sole should curl a little off the ground but if it curls a lot your shoe is too big.

If the heel or sole is badly worn on one side, you're not walking evenly, or the size is wrong for you. Broken seams may mean the shoe is too short. If the shoe upper is broken down over the instep, the shoe isn't giving proper support and may be the wrong size. If the shoes is broken inward at the heel, you should use a shoe horn.

When you go out to buy your child's back-to-school shoes, please keep in mind the importance of a good shoe fit.

Childish Man Tells Friends 'Everything' That Goes On

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good man in many ways, but he has one terrible fault which I think is inexcusable. He "tells all" (and I do mean ALL) to his men friends.

I feel that we have no intimate husband - wife secrets like other married couples. My husband tells guys he hasn't even known very long everything that goes on between us. I know he has because he's told me so. Knowing that all his men friends know all those intimate things about me, I can't face them.

What is the matter with a man who acts like this? I have grown cold toward him, and we've only been married 2 years. Do you blame me?

COLD WIFE
DEAR ABBY: Either your husband is very immature or he thinks he's invented something. Your talkative husband is "telling all" to the wrong people. If he can't keep his mouth shut, he should lie down on a couch, and tell it to a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I am a recent divorcee, and as such, most men take me for an "easy mark." They all ask the same question, "What do you have to lose?"

I am in my late thirties, and I'm certainly not a child. But what is a good answer for these eager beavers? The word "NO" doesn't seem to mean anything to them. They want to know WHY! Please give me a good answer.

INDIANA READER
DEAR READER: Just say, "No — that's not my style," and don't engage in a debate with any of these clowns or you're sunk.

DEAR ABBY: Ben and I have been happily married for 4 years (no children yet) and I wouldn't think of being unfaithful. He says he trusts me, and he isn't the least bit jealous.

Well, the employees at my office recently got up a bowling team, and since I am a pretty good bowler, I joined. The other married bowlers always come alone and go home alone, and their spouses never come to "watch" them.

Ben and I each drive our own cars, but on my bowling night, Ben drives me to work. I go to the bowling alley with a co-worker, then Ben calls for me at the alley. He always comes so early that it's right at the beginning of the game, so he "waits" for me. While he waits, he watches every move I make. This affects my game and I go to pieces and can't bowl. Once Ben had car trouble and didn't get there until after the game, and that was the only time I bowled my usual game, and our team won.

I can't tell Ben not to come so early or he'll think I'm hiding something. Yet when he watches me bowl I am so bad the team suffers. Please, please help me.

BOWLING BLUES
DEAR BLUES: Don't pussy-foot around. Tell Ben that you cannot bowl your best when he is watching you, so to please do you, and the team, a favor and come AFTER the game.

60-Year-Old Grandmother Is Den Mother To Sea Campers

By AP Newsfeatures

If the sole crew member of a big sailboat carrying eight paying passengers had to take a turn at the wheel and then asked which direction is north, there'd be a question about how she got the job.

According to Jerry Emerson of Bronxville, N.Y., her best qualification was being the wife of Captain A.C. Emerson and fortunately on her first voyage 14 years ago no one asked her to take the wheel. Instead, she was mainly occupied with keeping the bathing trunks of eight young boys in repair.

This year Mrs. Emerson will be sailing with 22 youngsters on a 90-foot barkentine, and she has learned to read a marine compass as well as any of the neophyte yachtsmen aboard. She, her husband and staff run a marine training program for teen-agers called Summer Camps Afloat, and for six weeks, during July and August teach, guide and entertain more than 100 boys and girls who would rather camp on water than on land. They offer instruction in sailing, navigation, marine biology and oceanography, scuba diving, water skiing and fishing, plus some land sports at their Key Largo base. Then there are the nightly bull sessions.

"The adolescent yearns to express his opinions and grievances," says Mrs. Emerson, a bouncy 60-year-old grandmother of five. "Offer a topic that stimulates their thinking and they'll give it full treatment. As a self-appointed discussion group leader, I once entered my own opinions too, until a solemn young fellow gently admonished me. 'But, Mrs. Emerson, there's no such thing as the law of change.' Now I keep my appraisals to myself and merely bring up subjects, quotations or a poem and ask for comments."

Although Mrs. Emerson enjoys going along on one of the several large sailing vessels owned by the camp, she is in her own opinion, not a sailor.

"In 1961, the first year we accepted girls, we on the Traveler II made a rendezvous with the boys on the Pinocchi to meet at an uninhabited island for a cook-out breakfast at dawn.

"I remembered muttering, 'This isn't my kind of thing,' when I was roused out of bed at eight bells—4:30 a.m. The girls were all on deck. The water was choppy. A little dinghy pitched around in the murk far below, already occupied by several forms. I was ready to back out but several girlish voices out of the gloom urged me to 'Climb down, Mrs. E. Don't be afraid. We'll help you.' I got up my courage somehow, got down the lurching ladder into the dinghy and sat in a puddle of water, wondering how come the girls thought this was so much fun. I'm just a Sunday sailor, I guess."

After sailing and water sports, the girls' next interest is looking pretty. The boys are particularly concerned about food. Salt air hones the appetites of always-hungry teenagers.

"They get bountiful meals, but all that exercise works it right off. Cookies or potato chips get soggy so we keep the galleys stocked with canned chocolate pudding or rice pudding. A boy can eat a whole can by himself.

The Emersons got into the unusual business of sea camping 14 years ago through a suggestion made by their son, a teacher. They took eight boys on their 75-foot boat and made an eight-week cruise down the island waterway.

Inexperience in handling so many boys for so long a time brought them back weak, weary, and undecided whether to ever do it again. But a newspaper picked up the story and the 200 applications that poured in made up their minds.

Mrs. Emerson is glad that they made the decision they did. "Teens are the best way to keep in touch with the world today," she says.

Miss Goodson Entertained

Miss Vickie Goodson, bride-elect of August 11, was entertained at a dinner Tuesday night at the Candlewick Inn.

Hostesses were Miss Caroline George and Mrs. P. A. George.

The appointed table was decorated with an arrangement of daisies, mums and snapdragons.

The honoree was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

If you rub peanut butter in a child's hair, it will remove chewing gum. Just put a dab of it on the hair and rub gently between your fingers. The peanut butter will loosen the gum. Pick this up with a cleaning tissue or toilet tissue. It's far better than cutting a child's hair and having a chunk missing.

Margaret Follows Napoleon's Route

ETAPLES, France (WNS) — When Princess Margaret of Great Britain passed through town en route to a grand banquet at Le Touquet casino, the mayor covered the road signs that greet visitors arriving by automobile. The signs read, "Napoleon was arrested at Etaples. Why not you?" The Princess had just come from Boulogne where she inaugurated the new air - sea line to Dover on the beach used by Napoleon to prepare an invasion against England.

'The Odd Couple' To Close Season

HANSFORD ROWE

GRAHAM POLLOCK

The East Carolina University Summer Theatre closes its fifth season next week with a six-day run of Neil Simon's hit comedy, "The Odd Couple."

Starring in the season finale are two Summer Theatre favorites of past seasons, Graham Pollock and Hansford Rowe. Pollock plays Felix Unger, Rowe is cast as Oscar Madison.

The production opens Monday, Aug. 13, at 8:15 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium. It plays nightly through Saturday, Aug. 17, with a 2:15 matinee on Wednesday, Aug. 14. The box office reports good seats available for all performances ($3 evening, $2 matinee).

"The Odd Couple," the comedy hit of the 1965 Broadway season, has been called "wildly, irresistibly, incredibly and continuously funny."

Edgar R. Loessin directs the ECU production. The set is by Peter Gould, lighting by Michael Byrum and costumes by Ginna Buchanan.

Appearing with Pollock and Rowe will be Richard Bradner as Roy, Suse French as Cecily Pigeon, Cullen Johnson as Speed, Jacqueline Johnson as Gwendolyn Pigeon, James Slaughter as Vinnie and R. Gregory Zitel as Murray.

Rank And File For Humphrey

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey runs better than Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy among rank-and-file Democrats, but McCarthy had the greater support of independents when the two candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination were pitted against each other, the Gallup Poll reported.

The Gallup organization said Wednesday that 53 per cent of rank-and-file Democrats favored Humphrey for their presidential nomination while McCarthy won support from 39 per cent.

But the poll said that independents favor McCarthy over Humphrey by 53 to 32 per cent.

Gallup said the Minnesota senator is "far stronger" with young Democrats, from 21 to 29 years old. He also holds an edge with those who have a college background and Democrats living in the Far West.

Humphrey, however, is stronger with older voters who classify themselves as Democrats in the Midwest, South and East, the poll reported.

Ganged Up To Oust 5 Skunks

PITTSBURG, Kan. (AP) — It took a policeman, the fire department and an animal control officer to dispossess five skunks from an apartment house shed.

Patrolman Steve Marshall tossed a tear gas grenade in their direction. The skunks volleyed back.

Ventilating fans in the apartment house picked up the fumes. Its seven residents, caught in the crossfire, beat a hasty retreat.

Steve Berry, an animal control officer, finally trapped the skunks. Firemen pumped out the building with a big exhaust fan so the inhabitants could return.

Marshall and Berry had to throw away their clothing. And it required two washings to de-skunk Berry's truck.

Thousands Join In Bargain Hunt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Thousands of bargain hunters jammed streets and sidewalks Wednesday for the Emery, Bird, Thayer Department Store's two-day closing-out sale ending a 105-year business in Kansas City.

A line of shoppers two blocks long formed an hour before opening, and 33 traffic officers were assigned to intersections surrounding the store.

Red Cross Blood Collections Sag

BOSTON (AP) — The Red Cross says one bloodmobile expected to obtain 100 pints of blood recently produced only 10 pints—and 6 of these were from its own staff. The agency says that's only one illustration of what it calls a serious statewide blood shortage affecting many hospitals. It says collections have dropped to less than 300 points daily compared to the 800 needed to meet hospital requirements.

Traffic Deaths Surpassing '67

CHICAGO (AP) — Traffic accidents killed 25,200 Americans in the first half of this year, about 6 per cent more than in the corresponding period of 1967, the National Safety Council said today. It said motor vehicle travel had shown a similar gain.

In June alone, the council said, traffic fatalities numbered 4,820, an increase of 8 per cent, compared with June 1967.

Court Order Is For All Our People

Although it may shock a good many local citizens, the federal court order concerning county schools should not have come as a surprise to Pitt County. The order calling for sweeping integration of the county's public schools is similar to other orders handed down by the courts in recent weeks for other counties of the state.

Certainly it would have provided the county school system with more time for preparing to implement the sweeping order had it come months earlier. The remaining three weeks before the opening of school give little time for effecting all the changes which the order calls for. Even so, the order must be carried out and school officials of the county have properly set about already to see that the order is complied with.

In this last regard, Pitt's school officials will need the cooperation of all citizens in carrying out the court order that will bring about a far greater degree of integration in the county's schools than there has been heretofore. The greater the degree of cooperation from all citizens of the county, the fewer the problems that will arise in carrying out the order which at best makes a difficult situation for the school officials.

The new order from the federal court is specific in giving directions to county school officials. It leaves little for officials to decide. It spells out in detail what is to be done and leaves to school officials only the matter of getting the job done. In short, the decisions have been made and ordered, and it is up to the school officials to carry them out as specified.

While the court order is specially directed at the county's school officials, it is also directed by implication to the citizens of this county as well. The court has now spelled out in detail what must be done this fall in the Pitt County schools to comply with the basic school desegregation decision handed down by the U. S. Supreme Court 14 years ago. It is incumbent not just upon these citizens who happen to be school officials, but every other citizen as well to comply with the order and support its implementation.

We are confident citizens of Pitt County will make the adjustment to this additional change in school operations with the same good common sense and circumspect behavior that have accompanied other changes in recent years.

Credit Cards Making It Easy For Tax Man

It was bound to come sooner or later, the paying of local taxes with credit cards.

The idea of paying taxes never has been very glamorous or appealing to most of those who do it every year. It has always seemed more drudgery than pleasure. Somehow one almost always gets the feeling he pays his taxes and has nothing in return accept a little white slip marked "Paid."

But now with the credit card, the whole feeling will be different. You go up to the tax office, flash the little card, and somehow it doesn't seem like paying money for nothing. It sort of has a kinship with using the card to buy a suit or a mink coat, or paying for a meal in a nice restaurant, or buying a tank of gasoline for a pleasure jaunt, or getting an airline ticket for some distant resort.

And in the long run it isn't the local government that threatens to put your name in the paper for not paying your taxes. It's the credit card collector who becomes the villain for insisting that you pay your credit card account to which you charged your taxes.

Local governments never had it so good. They may even find they can float a new tax increase just on the strength of the new, easier, convenient way of paying taxes with credit cards.

It's The Dream That Matters

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't what a man gets or does that makes him nappy - it's what he dreams of getting or doing.

When a man runs out of goals in this world he usually runs out of breath shortly thereafter. Rust clogs him, ennui mows him down.

No matter how fruitless, inappropriate or downright foolish a dream may be, so long as it attracts that person's interest it keeps him alive. Most daydreams, in fact, are mock heroic. In his heart of hearts the most run-bound man is always galloping off with the Three Musketeers on missions of danger and adventure.

For example, I find in making a rollick of my own frustrated daydreams, I have yet to - Stun a bully with a karate chop.

Play "kneesy under the table" with Kim Novak.

Bulldog a steer or ride a bucking horse in a rodeo.

Buy a kitchen sink garbage grinder.

Belly up to the bar in the Ritz Hotel in Paris and ask the bartender whom he really liked better - F. Scott Fitzgerald or Ernest Hemingway.

Eat a pickled eel or a tiger steak.

Defeat Charles de Gaulle in a game of Indian hand wrestling.

Cry "mush!" to a dog sled team as a pack of arctic wolves closed in silently from behind.

Get a royal flush in a poker game when there was more than 68 cents in the pot.

HAL BOYLE

Lead an elephant into a subway car during the morning rush hour—and then sit down in its lap.

Defeat a desert sheik in a horse race across the burning sands of Araby.

Save a wealthy banker's daughter from drowning by crawling across thin ice to the rescue.

Have my life changed for the better by following the advice given in a Chinese fortune cookie.

Beat a bongo drum in the Congo.

Hand a stack of chips to a mysterious blonde standing next to me at a roulette table at Monte Carlo and tell her, "Play any number you want, baby—there's lots more, where that came from."

From Bobbie To Nancy

MIAMI BEACH — It is the easiest thing on earth, to knock a national party convention. Viewed through a glass darkly, these quadrennial gatherings affront the reasoning process. They are gaudy exercises in irrelevancy: What does it matter, after all, in the choice of a prospective president of the United States, whether the Rockefeller girls or the Nixonettes have the prettier legs?

Yet the passing thought occurs, on a steamy afternoon in Miami Beach, that it is high time for someone to put in a good word for these conventions. It will be true in Chicago, as it is true here, that some thoughtful eyes are gazing from behind the sunglasses; the straw hats conceal wise heads and working minds.

A book just published by the Ripon Society tends to confirm a reporter's random impressions. The society set out to gather standard biographical information on the 1,333 men and women voting in the 1968 Republican convention. Most of the delegates responded. The book opens with Mrs. Bobbie Ames, 38, of Marion, Ala., mother of Elizabeth, John, and the twins Laurie and David; she is a Presbyterian, a former antiques dealer, an active Republican for the past 17 years. The book ends with Mrs. Nancy Wallace, 57, of Evanston, Wyo., a Smith College graduate, Episcopalian, mother of two.

They are a well-educated group. All but 4 percent are high school graduates; 85 percent have attended college, and 43 percent hold graduate degrees. Fran Cooper, 49, of Seattle, mother of four, is among the 4 percent who belong to Phi Beta Kappa.

Almost a third of the delegates are lawyers; another 8 percent are businessmen. Smaller fractions are doctors and teachers. Dewey F. Bartlett, 49, of Oklahoma City, a Catholic and a Princeton graduate, is among the relatively few professional, practicing farmers.

They are great joiners, these Republicans. John Y. McCollister, 47, of Omaha, is a Kiwanian and a Mason. Morley Hudson, 51, of Shreveport, is a Rotarian. Almost half of the members belong to local chambers of commerce. Only one percent fail to list a religious affiliation. Eight of every ten men are veterans of military service; most of the older veterans belong to the American Legion.

What distinguishes all of them, of course, and separates them from other Methodists, Rotarians, Sigma Nus and equipment salesmen, is their consuming interest in the governmental process.

In the jargon of the day, politics is their Thing and they came to Miami Beach, as their opposite numbers will go to Chicago, because this is the Thing that matters to them. A national convention is their World Series, Super Bowl, Hambletonian, the Indianapolis Speedway. It is the biggest game in town.

To be sure, the 1968 convention rosters include a number of featherheads, numbskulls and dimwits. There always are a few loudmouths and a sloppy drunk. As a group, convention delegates are remarkably insensitive to the high winds and hot air of plat-

Texas Racial Rifts

By ROBERT BERRELEZ
Associated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — In the not too distant past, some Texas restaurants put up signs that read: "No dogs or Mexicans allowed."

Things have changed. "Now," says Angela Castrejon, restaurant cashier in El Paso, Tex., "we are allowed in as waitresses and dishwashers."

An exaggeration of existing conditions, this view reflects a measure of the bitterness and frustration helping nourish a relatively new civil rights militancy among the nation's 4.5 million Americans with Spanish surnames.

A by-product of Negro civil rights agitation, the new movement still lacks precise form and central organization. But what is of social and political significance are the first hard signs of unity at all levels, from chili picker to doctor, dentist, priest.

Cradle of the new militancy is the great Southwest, lustrous 19th century frontier, fountainhead of vast modern fortunes in cattle and oil. But to the impoverished Mexican-Americans in East Los Angeles, the slums of south El Paso and west San Antonio and in dusty, blistering hot farm fields of Arizona, New Mexico, south Texas, Colorado and California's Imperial Valley, the vast area could qualify for U.S. foreign aid—if it were a foreign country.

Of this five-state area, Texas, one of the richest in the nation, has the most backward Mexican-American population. Fifty-two per cent of the Spanish-surnamed population has been classified as "functionally illiterate," a term applied by sociologists to those who have not completed four years of schooling. Twenty per cent of persons over 25 years of age in this same ethnic category have not completed more than one year of schooling.

The living conditions of the Spanish-surnamed population in the Southwest and other areas aroused protest movements shortly after World War II. Deprived of incentive by a postwar boom that left little to protest about, they withered and lay dormant for more than a decade before surfacing anew in the early 1960s.

Affluent businessmen, professionals, college students, migrant laborers, white and blue collar workers make up the ranks of the new militants. They come from an ethnic group whose ancestors were irrigating lands in what is now New Mexico before the first pilgrims reached Plymouth Rock.

Striving for the kind of unity that will provide the most effective political pressures at state and national level, they are demanding first of all an end to what they feel are discriminatory practices in classrooms and jobs. They regard these as the main causes of backwardness among Americans of Spanish surnames. Some of the specific needs cited:

Bilingual education in the primary grades to help Spanish-speaking children who are being forced to compete in English with Anglo-Americans. Texas Sen. Ralph Yarborough once described this as "the cruelest form of discrimination."

Better facilities and teachers at higher level schools in Mexican-American districts, and more emphasis on academic rather than vocational training for Mexican-Americans. "The Anglos want to make us a race of garage mechanics and carpenters," says an El Paso college student.

"In other words, no one is expected to believe cosmetic advertising."

Cites Brassieres

The judge also wrote, "If lifting and firming products are deemed intended to affect the structure of the body, girdles and brassieres must be 'devices' within the meaning of the act. If smoothing and moisturizing claims bring a product within the definition of a drug, it is difficult to see how any makeup product could escape."

However, his decision is not yet a magna carta for the ad writers. U. S. Attorney Joseph P. Hoey said the government was likely to appeal. A federal court in Delaware ruled in favor of the government in a similar case against Line Away, made by the Coty division of Chas. Pfizer & Co. Pfizer, too, is appealing.

ELMER ROESSNER

Change, faced with instructions advising her that she can repeat the process in a few hours, expects anything other than a possibility that she may look better."

As one observer remarked,

Hunt For New Local Revenues

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — A number of recent, very possibly significant developments point up the problems of local governments trying to find and tap new sources of revenue to meet increasing needs.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

tion in tobacco - growing Eastern North Carolina, the News and Observer, called editorially for the tax.

"Tobacco has little or nothing to lose in letting North Carolina take revenues which other states, including tobacco growing ones, have availed themselves," the newspaper said.

Gilmore's View
A former mayor now running for Congress in the Eight District, State Sen. Voit Gilmore, says he would support a plan to channel a portion of federal tax receipts back to state and local governments.

Gilmore said that as a past mayor of Southern Pines he feels that local governments do a better job of stretching tax dollars. He called for an "equitable formula" under which local officials could reach "independent decisions about spending for water and sewer improvements, garbage services, parks and other projects."

He noted that local governments are under pressure to increase services but that to avoid or postpone increasing local taxes, they ask for federal aid.

Electric Pact
The pact signed by the state's "electric cities" and rural electric co-ops last weekend appears highly satisfying to the two participating groups. Private electric companies probably will take a dim view of it.

The agreement provides for a study of possible joint construction and operation of electric generation and transmission systems.

Officials of the co-ops and "electric cities" elive such single systems would result in cheaper rates to customers and more revenue for the city or town which owns and operates its own system. North Carolina presently has 73 cities and towns with municipally owned systems. They organized after being left out of an agreement on franchise territory between the electric co-ops and private power companies three years ago.

Tobacco Tax?
Another development lies in indications that the next legislature may look more favorably on a tobacco tax at the state level, with proceeds being returned to localities.

A Charlotte city councilman, Milton Short, has proposed a local option tobacco tax be permitted for specific important local uses. Of course there already is a one per cent additional "local option" sales tax being levied in Charlotte, but this is being challenged in the state's highest courts.

It was surprising to many and dismaying to opponents of a tobacco tax that the newspaper with the widest circula-

Dr. Hollis Edens Dies In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Hollis Edens, who served as president of Duke University during a period of its greatest growth, is dead in Atlanta after a long illness.

The 67-year-old educator who headed the Durham, N. C. Methodist institution for 11 years before he retired in 1960, died at Emory University Hospital Wednesday. Cause of his death was not announced.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at Glenn Memorial Church on the Emory campus. Burial will be in Atlanta. The family asked that floral offerings be omitted. Dr. Edens had continued to maintain his residence in Durham after giving up his post at Duke. He had continued active in Durham civic and educational affairs until going to Atlanta earlier this year for treatment at Emory hospital.

A native of Willow Grove, Tenn., he once served as vice chancellor of the Georgia university system and was an associate director of the Rockefeller Foundation's general education program before taking over the Duke presidency in 1949.

He is survived by his widow, the former Mary Kathleen Russell; a daughter, Mrs. Jefferson D. Wingfield Jr., of Atlanta; three sisters and a brother.

Showman Says GOP Circus Was A 'Flop'

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As a show, Mr. Merrick, how would you rate the Republican National Convention?

"A flop."

David Merrick, the Broadway producer, gave his verdict with an air of finality and a voice of experience: He's had shows fold after opening night.

He says that's what this one should have done. "It's a terrible bore. Too long. Too dull. There's a mortician's convention in town," he said, "and it's more lively."

From the point of view of a showman, said Merrick, Wednesday night's nominating session missed a big opportunity. All those repetitious demonstrations, he said, should have been staged in the afternoon so the balloting could have been during prime television time.

"The Republicans seem to have a suicidal complex," he said. "By letting all these people talk and make noise they're paying off old debts of the past four years to the party faithful. I don't think 50 million people are interested."

Merrick said the fact that he's a Democrat has not colored his view. He's at the convention, he said, because "I think conventions are show business, and I'm a fan of them." He's also moonlighting as a columnist.

Merrick was reminded that four years ago he permitted the title song from "Hello, Dolly!" to be used as a campaign song, "Hello, Lyndon" for President Johnson. Asked if he would let any of the present candidates borrow a song from one of his shows, he said:

"I've already given Humphrey 'Let a Winner Lead the Way. I have a new show coming up on Broadway this fall, and I'm going to give the title song to Nixon—Promises, Promises.'"

Yet there is something in this political Disneyland that holds an enduring appeal. For all the honky-tonk, the conventions are engaged in a serious business — indeed, an indispensable business.

These delegates, God bless them, are directly involved in the machinery that makes their country go. It isn't the straw hats and brass bands that matter. It's Bobbie and Nancy, and all they symbolize. Let us blow a kiss to their sunburned brows.

Do You Know The 8 Important Questions You Should Ask Yourself Before Buying Any Living Room Suite?

- (1) THE FIRST QUESTION SHOULD BE (OF COURSE): Does The Style Appeal To Me?
Not your best friend . . . not your neighbor and certainly not your mother-in-law! Only you should be the judge of what style you want to live with day in and day out! Alright, we'll concede, ask your husband, but our experience has been with everyone we know, that most wives pick out the furniture for the home and let their husbands pick out the car and this arrangement seemingly has been very amicable. But come in, both of you, look over the many styles that are available. There's a style for every decor. You'll see many in special groupings so you can see how they will look in your home. Best of all . . . when you see what you want, you don't have to wait weeks and weeks for delivery . . . we stock what we sell for Home-furnishings Is Our Only Business . . . a business to serve you.
- (2) IS IT GOOD QUALITY SOLD BY A REPUTABLE DEALER?
You want the highest quality furniture you buy to be around for many years and still look lovely and beautiful! Unlike "bargain" dresses you may buy that many times do not quite make the first washing, you want to be sure your furniture will last and last! Come in and look over the many National Brand Names we have . . . names you know and trust. And you can ask your parents and grandparents about our reputation, we have been furnishing their homes for many, many years.
- (3) IS THE FURNITURE COMFORTABLE?
This is a personal thing that people like to find out for themselves. So come in . . . DO sit on the furniture . . . stretch out and make sure the furniture has every comfort feature you want. In our huge selection we know you will find the one that is just your "cup of tea."
- (4) IS THE FURNITURE FUNCTIONAL?
Glad you asked! Functional is a word of many facets — it could mean, "do I have to change everything in our room to use this style of furniture" or it may mean, do some of the pieces have more than one use (besides being pretty) and in most every case, you can purchase a recliner chair or sleeper-sofa in the exact style you want and no one will ever suspect that it leads a double life.
- (5) IS IT PRACTICAL?
By that, we mean, is the fabric of the nature and quality that lends itself to wearability for your particular home. There are so many fabrics . . . matelasses, damasks, tweeds, velours, velvets, vinyls, nylons and other exciting man-made fibers . . . everyone fine quality and serviceable. Many are "Scotch-gard" treated to be stain-resistant.
- (6) DOES THE SUITE PROVIDE FASHION EXCITEMENT?
This is rather difficult to pin down as it is so every personal! Many people have deep rooted preferences that have remained all their lives and surprisingly enough . . . some people want just the opposite of what they had when growing up. Is it time for a change in your life? Some are thrilled with Early American, French or Italian Provincial or many others have withstood the span of time.
- (7) IS THE SUITE PROPERLY COORDINATED IN DESIGN, COLOR?
Good old-fashioned horse sense and a sprinkling of professional advice is essential here! All of our Sales Consultants have had experience in home decorating and will be most happy to assist you. Of course, many groupings have already been matched and coordinated by our professionals and you know it will go together like "two peas in a pod."
- (8) IS THE PRICE REASONABLE?
Again, this is a real big question in your mind and it should be! Only you can be the judge of that and we agree sometimes it is difficult to arrive at a decision with so many pages and pages of advertising and television commercials you see daily, but maybe we can give you a few guidelines. First, shop around, see what everyone has to offer . . . listen to the salesman's information . . . ask many questions about construction, durability and wearability. Be satisfied it is the style you want, the color you want plus the comfort you want. Check all these against the requirements you need and then compare the price. We think our prices are as low as anyone's, we think the quality we offer is second to none in whatever price range you can afford to pay. But don't take our word for it, prove it to yourself!

Orders Issued Number Of Schools

By BLOYS BRITT
Associated Press Writer

With a new school term scheduled to begin in three weeks, several North Carolina cities and counties have been ordered by the courts this week to begin sweeping new programs leading to total desegregation.

In one instance, the order included specific instructions to school officials to encourage extra-curricular activities between white and Negro students.

The decrees not only ordered the enrollment of more Negroes in predominantly white schools during the forthcoming school term, but they set specific dates for total elimination of dual systems for whites and Negroes.

The court action started Monday when U. S. District Judge Edwin M. Stanley ordered the Concord school system to transfer some 290 Negro pupils to predominantly white senior and junior high school effective with the start of the 1968-69 school term.

Stanley also ordered Concord officials to submit by Jan 1 a plan of desegregation for the system's four elementary schools. Total desegregation in all of the city's schools would come by the start of the 1969-70 school year.

In response to an order from U. S. District Judge Algernon Butler of Clinton, the Jones county Board of Education

Tuesday filed with the court a revised school desegregation plan that would include the first known "pairing" of elementary schools.

Filed under protest by J. C. West Jr., chairman of the Jones Board of Education, the plan calls for the pairing of grades one through eight in two schools. This means that half of the grades would go to one school, the other half to a second school—regardless of where the pupils may live in relation to the schools.

A third Jones County school will be rezoned to assure enrollment of 88 Negro students the 1969-70 school year.

Under the Jones plan, total desegregation will be brought about by a reorganization of the school district, including geographical boundaries for the assignment of pupils, beginning with the 1969-70 term.

The Craven County system was placed under a court order issued Wednesday by District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. to end its dual system and to submit to total integration by Jan. 1, 1969.

Larkins also ordered that no student be discriminated against in any school activity or sports program, and that immediate steps be taken to encourage extra-curricular activities between white and Negro students.

Larkins' decree also stipulated that six Craven Negro schools be closed in 1970-71, that teachers and school administrative staffs be reassigned or assigned to eliminate past discriminatory practices and patterns, and that all future school building programs be designed to eradicate all vestiges of dual or segregated schools.

A Charlotte Negro lawyer, Julius Chambers, filed the suits leading to the Concord and Craven County court orders. He is an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, working primarily on North Carolina and South Carolina cases.

The new practice of "pairing" elementary schools was a key issue in a two-day hearing concluded in Washington Tuesday in which the government is seeking to force the Raleigh school system to accept total desegregation.

Raleigh officials protested that the "pairing" of schools would present unacceptable traffic hazards for children who must provide their own means of getting to and from schools, and in addition would strike down the system's evolving change-over from a graded to an ungraded elementary program.

Almost $1 million in federal aid is at stake in the Raleigh decision, expected to come when Robert C. Boyce, a top hearing examiner for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, rules in the case in mid-October.

The Raleigh case, in which the government seeks to do away with the neighborhood concept of schools, is looked on as a key one that could lead to total desegregation in other major Southern cities.

Meanwhile, forty-three of North Carolina's 160 school units have reported 100 per cent of their Negro enrollment attended integrated schools in the 1967-68 school year.

Figures released Wednesday showed 63 units had better than 50 per cent of their Negro students in integrated schools.

William Peek, director of statistical services for the state Department of Public Instruction, said the information came from reports transmitted from North Carolina units to the U.S. Office of Education.

Cars Set Afire, Bids Being Received Drivers Stoned, For Postal Station Stores Looted

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bands of young Negroes set fire to cars, stoned white motorists and looted stores in a five-block area of northwest Miami Wednesday night in a disturbance touched off when police massed at a rally aimed at airing problems facing Negroes.

Some 25 persons were injured, including two Negroes who police said were shot by unknown gunmen.

About 100 Negroes were arrested, mostly on charges of disorderly conduct leading to rioting.

Trouble broke out in the predominantly Negro area about 6:30 p.m., several hours before Republican delegates 10 miles away across Biscayne Bay on Miami Beach nominated Richard M. Nixon as their presidential candidate.

Miami Police Lt. Jay Golden said both of the men who were shot were in good condition. He said: "The police have not fired one bullet."

Clarence Curry, 25, was wounded as he was being questioned in a looting case. Golden said two shots rang out in the darkness but no gunman was seen. The other shooting victim, Cephus Griffen, was hit by a stray bullet as he walked along a sidewalk, police said.

Most of the injured suffered cuts from broken glass and bruises from rocks and bottles.

Police said at least 32 stores were broken into and seven were looted. Three cars were burned and two were damaged by rocks.

Four newsmen were among the injured and a man driving a car with a George Wallace bumper sticker was stoned as hundreds of Negroes circled his wrecked automobile. Dazed and bleeding, he was pulled to safety in a bar by two Negroes.

The violence ended after the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, leading his Poor People's Campaign at the GOP convention, and Gov. Claude Kirk, a convention delegate, walked through the streets urging calm and conferred with Negro leaders.

The rally was called for Negroes to plan ways to gain more control of their communities. Abernathy and basketball star Wilt Chamberlain were scheduled to attend but had not arrived when trouble started.

Mayor Stephen Clark's pleas for calm were met by jeers and profanity.

Police then agreed to pull out several cruisers and as they were moving away a brick smashed a window of the mayor's car. He was not hurt.

Bids for the operation of a postal contract station in the general area of the West End Shopping Center are being received by the Post Office Department, according to an announcement today by Greenville Postmaster Joseph C. Dudley.

According to Dudley, the successful bidder will be required to furnish about 200 square feet of floor space, with counter area of sufficient size to transact the business of the postal station.

The proposed contract station, to be opened daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., except Sunday and legal holidays observed by the Greenville Post Office, will provide money orders, registry, certified mail, and parcel post service and will sell all necessary postal supplies, including stamps, envelopes and other accountable paper.

Bidders, who may obtain additional information and bid forms from the local postmaster, must submit a sketch with their bids indicating the dimensions and location of the area within the building where postal activities will be conducted.

The successful bidder must provide a safe of sufficient size to safely store and protect stamp stocks and other accountable paper, and must provide a bond of not less than $3,000.

In order to be considered, Dudley said, bids must be submitted within 10 days.

Uncertainty For Canada's Mail

OTTAWA (AP)—Prospects for acceptance of the agreement to end Canada's postal strike appeared uncertain today. First returns from ratification votes in the various union locals showed a trend against the proposed settlement.

The final count is not expected until Friday, but at least 14 locals in Ontario and British Columbia went solidly against the government's offer of a 39-cent-an-hour wage boost over 26 months. Eight other cities scattered across the country voted in favor of the proposed contract.

Leaders of the Montreal postal unions contended that not enough information had been supplied by the union negotiators who worked out the agreement in a 31-hour session with post office representatives Monday and Tuesday.

All bats fly. Many are so clumsy on the ground they can scarcely move around.

New Swarm Of Jellyfish Hits Florida Coast

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A new swarm of jellyfish—the kind that delivered painful stings to nearly 200 bathers last week—poured in to the Atlantic Ocean beaches Wednesday.

Lifeguard Al Legg said the beach in the pier area was covered and as far as he could see only two swimmers were in the surf.

The stings cause a sharp burning sensation and leave red welts.

The jellyfish, which are similar to Portuguese men-of-war but smaller and less dangerous, washed ashore by the thousands last week along a 20-mile stretch from Ormond Beach to New Smyrna.

Set Guidelines For Protestors

DURHAM (AP)—The executive committee of the Duke University Board of Trustees has written a set of "protest and picket guidelines" governing student protests on the campus.

Clarence Whitefield of the Duke Information Office said Wednesday "the administration will take the trustee guidelines and put them into regulation form."

Whitefield declined to comment on a report that the new rules are stricter. He said, "I haven't seen them because they haven't been formally adopted yet."

Between 1,200 and 1,500 Duke students participated in a five-year "vigi" last April and May aimed at securing higher wages and collective bargaining power for the university's 5,000 non-academic employees. Most of the workers are Negroes.

The demonstrators disbanded in May when trustees agreed to pay raises for the non-academic workers and later agreed to collective bargaining.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market held a gain early this afternoon in active trading. Advances outstripped declines by 2 to 1.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .4 at 328.9 with industrials and rails unchanged and utilities up 1.2.

The utilities advanced along with savings and loans in response to mounting signs of easier money and some forecasts of an early reduction in the discount rate.

The Republican nomination of Richard M. Nixon was generally expected in Wall Street, analysts said, and therefore had no immediate apparent effect on the stock market.

Steels were generally higher amid news of a partial rollback in steel prices.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .96 at 875.96. The average backed away from an early rise of 1.63 due to weakness in some of its blue-chip components. The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,250 common stocks however, remained well ahead. Volume was 4.35 million shares in the first hour.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Wall Of Flame

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A wall of flaming gasoline, hundreds of feet long, turned a quiet street into an inferno early today but, miraculously, only one person was killed.

The fiery wall, about 40 feet wide and 700 to 800 feet long, was fed by some 7,000 gallons of gasoline from a ruptured tanker truck. It left a corridor of charred lawns, trees, power poles and six burned vehicles, including a bus.

Half a dozen passengers including the driver, Thomas Walker, fled to safety only seconds before the flames enveloped the bus and destroyed it.

Identity of the fatality was not determined immediately, but police said the victim was trapped in a burning automobile.

Combat Casualties In Vietnam See Decline

SAIGON (AP) — Combat casualties among American and enemy forces decreased again last week, the U.S. Command reported, continuing to reflect the lull in major ground fighting in the Vietnam war.

The number of South Vietnamese troops reported killed increased slightly over the total for the week before, while the number of wounded decreased. The U.S. Command said 171 Americans were killed in action last week, compared with 193 a week earlier. The number of wounded last week was 1,650, down slightly from 1,086 the week before. Of the wounded last week, 563 required hospitalization.

The American command reported 899 of the enemy killed last week, the lowest weekly total reported since the first week of January 1967. But the enemy casualty total each week is usually increased considerably in the following week's report as ground sweeps turn up more bodies.

The South Vietnamese command said 250 government soldiers were killed last week compared with 243 a week earlier. The wounded totaled 738; there were 781 the previous week. The number of missing or captured last week was 10, compared with 25 the previous week.

The U.S. Command said the casualty report raised to 26,461 the number of Americans killed in action in Vietnam from Jan. 1, 1961, through Aug. 3, while the total wounded rose to 166,180. The command said 1,187 Americans are missing in action.

The South Vietnamese command said 250 government soldiers were killed last week compared with 243 a week earlier. The wounded totaled 738; there were 781 the previous week. The number of missing or captured last week was 10, compared with 25 the previous week.

A Levelling Off By Steel Prices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After steel price increases settled at more moderate levels Wednesday, President Johnson said the new prices are "a substantial improvement from the general inflationary threat."

Arthur M. Okun, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, said the new price levels "significantly reduced the threat of a large and general inflation in steel prices. Compared to the threat last week, American consumers have been saved a half billion dollars inflation."

U.S. Steel, the nation's top producer, made the key move Wednesday by announcing price hikes more modest than those posted earlier by other big firms.

Within hours, Bethlehem, Republic, Armco and Inland said their earlier boosts of virtually all products would be pared down to match U.S. Steel's selective increases. If applied throughout the industry, the increases would mean an average hike of about 2.5 per cent or $4.30 a ton on 60 per cent of the industry's shipments.

Bethlehem, the No. 2 producer, was the first to announce a cut in its previously posted hike of almost 5 per cent.

Although the hikes affect steels used for such major products as autos and appliances, the Johnson administration seemed ready to let them stand.

White House Press Secretary George Christian, however, cautioned: "The success of our continued efforts to combat inflation depends on renewed price stability in steel in the months ahead."

Brief Mansfield Stay In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield left Moscow today without having any announced meetings with Soviet officials.

Mansfield took off for Prague after a stay of less than 24 hours in the Soviet capital.

He was quoted in 'New York before his departure as saying that he would meet with Soviet officials.

But when questioned by a reporter Wednesday night, the senator said he had no meetings. Asked to explain what happened, he said repeatedly, "I have nothing to say."

Face Trial For Violation Of 'Open Housing'

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — John Cates of the Chapel Hill Realty Co. faces trial Tuesday in Recorder's Court on a charge of violating the town's open housing ordinance.

Mrs. Edith A. Hubbard, a young Negro whose husband is serving in the U. S. Air Force in Thailand, filed the complaint Wednesday against the realty firm.

Mrs. Hubbard, a graduate student in education and sociology at the University of North Carolina, said she was told on the telephone by a secretary at Chapel Hill Realty that an apartment at Brookside Apartments would be vacant Oct. 1. She said she was instructed to look at the apartment.

Mrs. Hubbard said that when she went to rent the apartment Cates told her that he had promised it to a friend. She added that on the following day a white friend of hers went to the realty firm and rented the same apartment.

Slight Drop In Prices For Tobacco

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A slight break in the upward price trend was apparent Wednesday on South Carolina-Border North Carolina tobacco markets with the Federal-State Market News Service reporting declines of $1 to $3 per hundred-weight on some grades.

The declines affected mostly green primings and poor non-descript, the service said.

Gross sales Tuesday totaled 19,044,459 pounds, averaging $69.28 per hundred, a drop of 44 cents from Monday's season high.

Quality showed some improvement Tuesday, mainly due to an increase in offerings of fair lugs—a prime cigarette leaf. The ratio of this type tobacco has increased daily, with a similar decrease in fair primings.
