Explosive Blast Damages Rocky Mount School

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP) —A bomb exploded at Rocky Mount's Bassett Elementary School before dawn today, breaking about 200 windows and causing damage estimated at about $1,000.

Police said someone apparently broke a classroom window and tried to stuff the explosive inside, but failed because the blinds were shut and books were stacked against the window.

They said the bomber then threw it to an exterior corner of the brick building where it exploded.

Dr. W. O. Field Jr., Rocky Mount schools superintendent who made the estimate of damage, said there was no damage to the interior of the building.

He said he knew of no reason for bombing of the school, which he said is integrated with the student body about evenly divided between whites and Negroes.

Police said witnesses saw a short, chunky white man run from the schoolground after the explosion. They said the man jumped into a 1959 model automobile which sped off driven by a second person.

The federal and state bureaus of investigation were assisting Rocky Mount police in the investigation. An Army demolition team was flown by helicopter from Ft. Bragg to identify the explosive.

'Flood Of Mail' For Delegate To Nat'l Convention

By RONALD GOLLOBIN
Reflector Staff Writer

North Carolina will have 59 delegate votes at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago which starts on August 26.

Charles Horne of Greenville will have one-half of one of those 59 votes, as an elected delegate.

Horne was a delegate to the state convention and has been vice-chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee for the past six years, but this is his first national convention.

"I've received a flood of mail," Horne said, "primarily from McCarthy supporters." He pointed out that the entire North Carolina delegation is pledged to Governor Dan Moore until released by him. After Moore releases the delegates, they can vote for whom they choose.

Horne said that he has not yet received any communication from the supporters of Senator George McGovern, of South Dakota. Horne said that he has not received any letters or telegrams from the supporters of Gov. Lester Maddox either.

"It appears that Humphrey will be the nominee," Horne stated, "however, if you add up the number of delegate votes that Humphrey, McCarthy, and McGovern claim they have, the total exceeds the number of delegates."

As far as his personal support is concerned, Horne said, "I am going as an uncommitted delegate (outside Gov. Moore). I am going to wait until I get to Chicago to make up my mind."

In the event that Humphrey captures the presidential nomination from the Democratic party, Horne thinks that Gov. Hughes of New Jersey, Sargent Shriver, and Terry Sanford all might be considered as vice-presidential nominees.

Horne said that he thinks that it is unlikely that Sen. McCarthy will either be offered or accept the vice-presidential nomination. "McCarthy has stated very strongly that he does not want the vice-presidential slot, and there is a second reason for Humphrey not to offer it. If two men from Minnesota are nominated for the number one and two spots on a ticket, Minnesota state law prevents that state from casting its electoral votes for those men, in which case they would lose Minnesota's 11 electoral votes."

The strategy behind supporting Gov. Moore as a favorite son candidate seems to be to let the state delegates wait and see who will get the nomination before committing themselves, according to Horne. "We will get more support from the nominees themselves if they know they are looking at a whole state's votes."

CHARLES HORNE

When asked what effect the Republican convention would have on the Democratic one, Horne said, "I think that at our convention, knowing who the opponents are will give us a clearer picture of how to wage a more effective campaign."

Horne said that he is leaving for the convention Sunday, August 25, and that the first caucus is scheduled for Monday morning on August 26, the date the convention starts.

Delegate-at-large alternate delegate Marvin Blount Jr. said that he also has received a great deal of mail. The majority of it, Blount said, has expressed a strong desire to bring an end to the war in Viet Nam.

Delegate-at-large alternate delegate D.T. House Jr. who attended the 1956 Democratic National Convention, said today that he has been ill and will probably not be able to make the trip to Chicago.

Other area delegates are Mrs. Jack Sharpe, of Robersonville, and Dr. Sid Christian, of Williamston.

Second Protest Filed Against N.C. Delegation

GREENSBORO (AP)—A second protest—this one alleging discrimination against women and young Democrats—has been filed challenging North Carolina's delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

An earlier complaint alleges unfair Negro representation on the delegation.

Mrs. Betty F. Lewis of Greensboro, national committeewoman for the North Carolina Young Democratic Clubs, said Wednesday she had sent a letter to New Jersey Gov. Richard Hughes, protesting "the virtual exclusion" of women and young Democrats from the Tar Heel delegation. Hughes is chairman of the convention Credentials Committee.

An earlier protest was filed by Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a Negro dentist from Charlotte who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination for governor in the May primary. He claims the North Carolina delegation should have additional Negro representation.

North Carolina challenges are to be heard by the Credentials Committee next Thursday in Chicago although state party officials want the hearing changed to Wednesday.

Mrs. Lewis said in her letter: "I request that before the protest of Dr. Hawkins is considered, your committee should examine my protest, which involves more than twice as many disenfranchised North Carolina Democrats."

Mrs. Lewis said that 52 percent of the registered Democrats in the state are women but "only eight, or 6 per cent, of the 131 delegates (and alternates) are women."

North Carolina's delegation will have 59 votes.

Mrs. Lewis also wrote, "A cursory examination of the makeup of the delegation indicates that there are few young Democrats proportionately in the delegation."

"Further, the state YDC president admitted in the press that he had made no effort to see that there was any representation from the YDC. He is the only YDC officer who is a delegate at large."

The state YDC president is James Hunt of Wilson, who will have one-half vote at the convention in Chicago.

Dr. Hawkins is an alternate without a vote.

Mrs. Lewis is not a delegate nor an alternate.

N. Y. Police Union Plans Own Course

NEW YORK (AP)—The city policemen's union, in a major confrontation with Mayor John V. Lindsay and Police Commissioner Howard R. Leary, says it will issue guidelines to its 29,000 members on dealing with civil disorders.

The Patrolmen's Benvolent Association said the guidelines to be issued today will instruct its members "to uphold the law and disregard any unlawful order not to do so."

The get-tough policy was enunciated earlier by the union President, John J. Casseuse who charged Lindsay had ordered soft treatment of lawbreakers. The union's 325-member delegate body voted unanimously to support it Tuesday night.

"In the past 2½ years we've followed a policy of restraint that emanated from City Hall—a policy of turning the other cheek and not getting involved," Casseuse said.

know it had been done.

"I've never discussed the vice presidency with anyone in the state party organization," Sanford said.

Sanford's name was submitted at the Atlanta meeting by Charles Barbour, the North Carolina party's executive secretary.

Barbour said today he had not informed Sanford of the action beforehand because he didn't go to the meeting with the intention of putting up any-

Early Reasoning Still Holds

Sec. Clifford Firm On Vietnam Bomb Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford said today the United States will not cut back the bombing of North Vietnam until the administration can work out some arrangement with the North Vietnamese which would protect American servicemen near enemy territory.

Clifford said the bombing restriction authorized by President Johnson March 31 allowed for strikes against the enemy above the demilitarized zone so U.S. and allied forces in that area would not be jeopardized.

"I think that reason still holds," the defense chief told a news conference.

Clifford said he felt that without some agreement with the North Vietnamese, the current bombing limitation is a "reasonable and logical approach."

At the same time, Clifford said the United States still awaits a "clear signal" from Hanoi that the recent lull in fighting in South Vietnam is North Vietnam's response to President Johnson's bombing cutback.

The United States has repeatedly called on North Vietnam to cut back its own warlike activity as a means of further de-escalating the war.

Clifford said U.S. intelligence information indicates the lull in fighting is merely a prelude to a third North Vietnamese offensive in South Vietnam.

If it is not, Clifford said, all the North Vietnamese have to do is "get the word to us."

But he also cautioned: "I am not sure that at this point we can dignify the present circumstances by suggesting that it constitutes a marked departure from the enemy's activities in the past."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had indicated earlier there is argument within the administration over the significance of the lull, and the possibility it may signal a North Vietnamese willingness to de-escalate.

"We are trying to really find out what is going on," Humphrey said on the NBC "Today" show.

Despite the expected new round of attacks, Clifford said the United States will hold to the currently authorized ceiling on the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam, which is 549,500.

He disclosed that an additional 5,000 American troops have gone to South Vietnam in the past week, raising the total in the country to 543,000.

Clifford also estimated that through July the North Vietnamese had sent 150,000 men—most of them replacements—into South Vietnam this year.

Distributing Intangible Tax Shares

RALEIGH (AP) — A total of $18.8 million is being mailed to North Carolina counties and municipalities this week as their share of the state intangibles tax collections for fiscal 1968.

The state Revenue Department announced the distribution Wednesday.

Total collections during the 12-month period ending June 30 were $19,899,368.56, but slightly more than $1 million is retained by the state as the cost of collecting the tax on bank deposits, shares of stock and other intangibles.

A Revenue Department spokesman said the 1968 collections were about $3.8 million higher than the previous year and attributed the increase to a rising stock market and increased deposits in banks.

The funds are returned to counties and cities in the approximate proportions which their citizens contributed. Mecklenburg County and cities within the county will receive $2.4 million, the largest share of the distribution, and Tyrrell County will receive the smallest, $3,995.09.

Fourteen Flee Cuba In Cargo Plane

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen refugees fled Cuba today in a yellow, Russian-made cargo plane the pilot said skimmed the waters of the Florida Straits to avoid radar detection.

"The pilot told me he came close to touching the waves more than once," said Rudolph Wanderon, Dade County Port Authority supervisor at Homestead Airport.

Some of the Cubans were armed, he said.

He said the single-engine biplane landed at the airport, 25 miles south of Miami, shortly after 9 a.m.

"The people aboard immediately asked asylum," Wanderon said.

"They said they began their flight at Varadero," he said. A spokesman for the U.S. State Department said the plane was stolen.

Varadero is the city where the daily Cuban airlift flights originate. It is 60 miles east of Havana and about 200 miles south of Homestead.

Too Neutral?

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Herbert H. Humphrey today denied the White House was managing the affairs of the Democratic National Convention. He said President Johnson was remaining neutral — and that he'd like to see a little neutrality in favor of his candidacy.

"The President's neutrality is a neutrality, may I say, that at times is a little difficult even for me. After all, I do have to carry some of the burden of presenting the administration's case and I'd kind of like a little extra help," Humphrey said.

Asked if he would like the President to be a little more neutral in Humphrey's favor, the vice president replied:

"That would be fine. I mean, yes. I mean you've asked an honest question and I give you an honest answer."

In a news conference after appearing on the NBC "Today Show," Humphrey was asked to comment on reports that Johnson was managing arrangements for the convention, which convenes officially Aug. 26. Humphrey replied:

"Well, if I had evidence to prove that was true, I wouldn't counter it. After all, I would like to win. But, the truth is that Mr. Johnson is not managing this convention."

The vice president emphasized he felt that the convention planners were giving equal treatment to all the candidates, with a slight edge for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

"This convention is giving what I call very equal treatment with a slight edge to my friend, Mr. McCarthy," he said with a smile. "For example, while I was able to get 110 rooms, he got 128. Now I demand equal treatment. I need 18 more rooms."

Hanoi Silent On 'Peace Gesture'

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

PARIS (AP) — U.S. efforts to find out in some official way whether the lull in Communist attacks in North Vietnam is intended by North Vietnam as a peace gesture apparently have bogged down.

American officials at the Paris peace talks say that as far as they are concerned the question is still open. But they now put major emphasis on their contention that North Vietnam is preparing for an offensive by pouring troops and military supplies into the South at a high rate.

"The disposition of the North Vietnamese forces indicates that major military attacks are in preparation," U.S. spokesman William J. Jordan told a news conference Wednesday after the weekly session of the talks.

"If North Vietnam wished to convey to us some meaning (about the purpose of the lull), they could do so readily, directly or indirectly, and so far we have had no indication whatsoever."

Jordan did not say whether U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman has ever asked Ambassador Xuan Thuy or his deputies whether the lull has significance. U.S. officials say the question has not been put directly in any of the formal sessions, but they decline to say whether it has been raised in private conversation with the North Vietnamese during the coffee breaks at the meetings.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, declined to be drawn into discussion of the issue. When he was asked whether it came up in the 22-minute coffee break Wednesday, he said he only had time to drink tea. To another query on the same subject he said: "The United States continues to intensify the war in Vietnam."

Le at his news conference kept hammering at the point that "we are going to keep insisting" that the United States must stop bombing and "all other acts of war" against the territory of North Vietnam before anything else can be accomplished in the Paris talks.

He seemed intent on stressing that his government's stand on the bombing issue, including its refusal to promise a parallel scale-down of military action, is absolutely firm.

The 17th session of the talks, now in their fourth month, lasted four hours Wednesday, and the statements by both Harriman and Thuy followed a hard line. Each accused the other's government of intensifying the war while talking peace. Each said the talks had made no progress because the other side was unwilling to move realistically toward peace.

They'll Begin Sales Aug. 26

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — President Fred Eagles of the Coastal Plain Tobacco Auction Warehouse Association says its members will open their 1968 sales Monday, Aug. 26.

Eagles made this announcement Wednesday night after conferring with a number of buying companies. He said he was told they could not have their buying personnel on the Eastern Belt until that time.

The Coastal Plain group includes warehousemen at Wilson and Kinston and some of those at Rocky Mount and Dunn, all in the Eastern Belt.

Members of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association, to which other Eastern Belt Warehousemen belong, are working for an Aug. 22 opening and will meet in Farmville Friday to decide.

Credit Card Held 'Valid' For Texas

City Attorney David Reid ruled this morning that BankAmericard was a valid system of collecting taxes. The Greenville city council voted to allow usage of the card for paying city taxes last Thursday night, pending approval of the city attorney.

County attorney W. W. Speight ruled yesterday on the same question, stating that the county could legally accept the credit card in payment of county taxes.

The Pitt County commissioners had previously tentatively authorized the use of the credit card on August 5, pending approval of the county attorney.

Greenville and Pitt County will join Buncombe County and the city of Asheville as the only other city and county in the state presently accepting the card for payment of taxes.

Buncombe County tax officials said that "not many people have used the card," since its innovation there on May 1 of this year, "but it is starting to catch on."

The total cost of using the credit card to the city and the county is $10 per year. The $10 will pay for the rental of an imprinter used in making copies of the bill.

Terry Sanford Emphatic In Denying He Wants Vice Presidential Slot

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford said today he has told Vice President Hubert Humphrey that he isn't trying to get the Democratic party's vice presidential nomination.

"I've made it very plain to him I'm not seeking the nomination," Sanford said.

"I don't want to add to his burden by his feeling any pressure from the fact that my name is on any list."

Sanford spoke in a telephone interview from Providence, R.I., where he was helping in Humphrey's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination.

Sanford said he made his position known to Humphrey before a meeting of Southern Democrats drew up a list of vice presidential candidates which includes Sanford's name.

The meeting was held in Atlanta Wednesday, with party representatives present from Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

In addition to Sanford, those on the list were Gov. John Connally, of Texas, Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana, Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina, former Gov. Carl Sanders of Georgia and Sen. George Smathers of Florida.

Sanford said he was not consulted about the putting of his name on the list and did not one's name.

Barbour said that when he saw the meeting was "serious about drawing up a list of names, I felt it would be ridiculous not to put in Sanford's name since he was already being considered by a lot of people."

Barbour put forth the same arguments that have been used in Sanford's behalf by others promoting his candidacy.

Those are that Sanford could be accepted by the entire South, since he is a Southerner, yet his progressive views would make him acceptable to other parts of the country, too.

Sanford said the Atlanta meeting "doesn't change my position at all. I've said all along that I'm not seeking this job and I don't expect to get it."

There have been reports of various persons talking with Humphrey about Sanford as a running mate, including Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N. C.

But Sanford said that other than Jordan, "I am not aware that anyone has been talking to (Humphrey) on my behalf."

"I've told him that anyone talking to him is not doing it at my request," Sanford said.

Sanford, who has been spending most of his time campaigning for Humphrey, said he would meet with Rhode Island party officials tonight and go on from Providence to Massachusetts for campaigning there.

Hansford Rowe To Debut On Broadway

Virginia-born actor Hansford Rowe Jr., star of two previous East Carolina University Summer Theatre seasons and current star of the 1968 season final production "The Odd Couple," will move on to New York City this fall for his Broadway debut.

Rowe, whose previous Summer Theatre successes include "Finian's Rainbow," "The Music Man," "Any Wednesday," and "How To Succeed In Business," will appear in the Broadway production of "The Fantasticks."

In addition, Rowe and his son, Hansford Rowe III, will both debut on a network television production of Truman Capote's "Thanksgiving Visitor." The younger Rowe will star opposite Geraldine Page, while his father will play a supporting role.

Rowe has appeared in well over 100 roles in various stock, community and college theatres. He began his theatre study at the Richmond Professional Institute and continued at the University of Richmond where he received his AB degree.

Later he did three years of graduate work at the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina. He spent several busy months in New York last year doing national commercials and studying acting with Robert Lewis.

The actor's live theatre has taken place at all the major theatres of Virginia where he has done a wide range of leading roles.

On film, apart from his commercials for a leading automobile, he has three movies to his credit.

Under the direction of Summer Theatre Producer Edgar R. Loessin, Rowe this week received critical acclaim from Bill Morrison, the Raleigh News and Observer's popular and highly-praised entertainment editor and critic.

Said Morrison, "Loessin has found an excellent Oscar in Hansford Rowe, an actor who conveys his frustration with beautifully timed burns, yet leaps like a baller dancer at the idea the 'coo coo' Pigeon sisters are going to visit. His exasperation is real—like the character he's created—because the touch is never too heavy and many of his lines are thrown away with a nice sense of understatement."

Morrison said the play should be the hit of the 1968 season. "The Odd Couple," Neil Simon's hit non-musical comedy and a recent Broadway smash, plays at the Summer Theatre through Saturday night. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Box office reports indicate that tickets for the season's finale are going fast, but that good seats are available in limited quantity. "The Odd Couple" also stars Graham Pollock, another favorite of Summer Theatre audiences of past seasons, as Felix.

PROTEST HANGINGS

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Armed riot police, firing round after round of tear gas, were unable to break up a demonstration tonight by more than 500 persons protesting the impending hanging of 11 young men found guilty of consorting with Indonesians in 1964.

VISITING

Mrs. Verna Burns, grandson Brandon Collins and granddaughter, Barbara Hepp of St. Louis, Miss. are visiting Mrs. Rebecca Tripp and other relatives. Mrs. Burns is staying at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clifton Harris.

THE ACTING ROWES — Hansford Rowe Jr. and son, Hansford Rowe III, study their lines for their forthcoming network television appearance opposite Geraldine Page in Truman Capote's "Thanksgiving Visitor," which will be aired on Thanksgiving Day. The senior Rowe is a popular favorite of East Carolina University Summer Theatre audiences and is currently starring in the hit comedy, "The Odd Couple." Hansford III has also appeared in Summer Theatre productions and is a young veteran of other theatre and motion picture productions.

More Tobacco Barns Burned

A number of tobacco barns went up in flames yesterday as the tobacco harvest season nears the final weeks.

A barn on the Mary Lee Wilison farm in Greene County burned at 4:55 p.m. Tuesday. Farmville Fire Department responded to the alarm. The barn was a total loss with damage at $2,000.

Roxy Stox on the W. R. Harris Farm on RR No. 1120 near Winterville lost a barn with a value of $2,000 on Wednesday. Winterville responded to the alarm at 3:01 p.m.

The Winterville Fire Department responded to a 7:10 alarm Wednesday for a barn on the Care Stokes farm on Renston Road near Winterville. The barn was a total loss at $2,000.

Damage amounting to $1500 occurred Wednesday on the King Farm on Tar Road near Winterville. Fred Worthington was the owner of the barn. The Winterville Fire Department was summoned at 4:57 a.m.

The Farmville Fire Department answered a 9:00 a.m. alarm by D. C. Turnage on the California Farm near Farmville. The barn was a total loss, estimated at $2,600.

In addition to the barns, one house fire was reported. James Blance, a resident in Greene County, summoned the Ayden Fire Department at 7:35 p.m. Tuesday. Extent of damage to the residence has not been reported.

Another Change In Catholic Mass

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Another major change in the Roman Catholic Mass went into effect today, with priests given the option of using any of three new canons.

The canon is the central part of the Mass and contains the consecration, which the Church teaches is the transformation of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ.

The long litany of saints has been dropped from the new canons, and the language has been modernized to go with responses from congregations in the vernacular.

LBJ Shows No Concern Over Medical Tests

By FRANK CORMIE R
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Whatever doctors told President Johnson in their report on recent elaborate medical tests, it's causing him no apparent public concern.

Johnson, understood to have gotten the gist of the report in the last day or two, looked ruddy and rested and was in his bounciest form Wednesday when he made his first speech-making appearance of the month.

At times he even sounded like the candidate for re-election he's vowed not to be.

Disclosure last week that Johnson is afflicted with a chronic intestinal ailment, diverticulosis, prompted some concern about the state of his health. Unease was not allayed when he went to San Antonio's Brooke Army Medical Center Monday for further tests or when the White House firmly refused to rule out surgery as a possibility.

Diverticulosis is not disabling and Johnson's doctors hastened to emphasize he was suffering no discomfort. However, the ailment can develop into something more serious—when inflammation occurs—and in that form sometimes requires surgery.

In his speech to the 73rd annual convention of the mostly Negro National Medical Association, Johnson departed from his text frequently to plug the accomplishments of his administration.

He noted the high federal positions—including cabinet secretary and Supreme Court justice—filled with Negro appointees. "We have appointed more black judges than all of the other 35 presidents combined," he said.

Later, Johnson removed his reading glasses and received a warm response from the audience when he ad libbed: "... as you emerge and make progress, as you open the sores and wounds to the sunlight and as the wind goes against them, the tender spots break out. Seeking freedom is not always a pleasant task."

"I hope we will make it so in this country that we don't have to violate laws and we don't have to be guilty of breaking the peace and we don't have to endanger health and life for us to get justice."

"Every law," he said, "ought to be fair and equal for everybody—from the president to the street sweeper and vice versa. We are marching and moving in that direction."

As he left the crowded ballroom of Houston's Shamrock Hilton Hotel, Johnson leaned across a low railing and, with a big grin and wave of the arm, announced: "When the roll is called up yonder..."

He stopped there. But his listeners clearly were aware of the closing words of the hymn: "When the roll is called up yonder, I'll be there."

One could have guessed Johnson was a candidate for another White House term, especially when he announced in his ahead."

speech he would be working hard for "Kiddycare"—medical attention for expectant mothers and infants in the first 12 months of life—"in the years ahead." When press secretary George Christian was asked how the President would accomplish this without seeking re-election, the reply was a smile.

FINE POINTS ON FURNITURE
... Discussing trends and styles in home furnishings at the University of Mississippi's two-week Home Furnishing Seminar are (from left) Mrs. Betty Barnes of Vicksburg; Elsie Mae Jackson of McAdams; Mrs. Laura Studstill of Eastman, Ga.; and Dr. Patricia Hurley of ECU, Greenville, N.C., seminar director.

ECU Instructor Is Conducting Furniture Workshop In Miss.

UNIVERSITY, Miss. — For people who don't know a Wueen Anne leg from a Chippendale settee, the difference is being defined in a practical workshop on furniture at the University of Mississippi here.

Teaching the seminar on home management and furnishings, is Dr. Patricia Hurley of East Carolina University, Greenville, N. C.

The 26 students taking part in the two-week seminar are not making tables, but instead are tabling facts on contemporary home furnishings.

Dr. Hurley, who takes a sociological view of the subject of home furnishings, feels the family should come first. "You can make a beautiful building and decorate it tastefully, but unless you consider the people, it is not serving the purpose," she said.

Members of the class include graduate students, teachers, extension personnel, and three class members who already hold the M. A. degree. "The purpose of this course is to update people on the job, as well as to provide practical information that may be used in their own homes," Dr. Hurley said.

Subjects include interior design, furniture selection and arrangement, furniture for the bride, and trends in home furnishing.

In addition, special attention is given to window treatments, floor coverings, kinds of wood and lighting.

"The current trend is back to the 18th century English, American, and French," noted Dr. Hurley. "There is a softened look, and softer colors."

The professor believes that the current use of heavy Spanish, or Mediterranean furniture is on the way out.

The eclectic look is in, but it is important to remember that everything doesn't go," Dr. Hurley explained. "Instead of what goes together, the key for the lay person in the future will be the degree of formality — informal, semiformal or formal."

It is also important to retain versatility in style. "And there is where you remember the people again. American people are moving more, and the size of furnishings presents a problem," Dr. Hurley explained.

In fact, most people don't buy "suites" of furniture now, but buy instead what fills the need and fits the room. Television has also presented a decorating problem in contemporary home furnishing. "We tend to put the television at one end of the room and the chairs at the other, as in a movie theatre," the instructor said.

These and other such problems provide hours of interesting discussions for members of the class.

But the "work" part of the workshop will probably take place when the students return to their homes.

False Rumor Wrecked Life, Try Undo Damage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish I were a Catholic. Then I could go to a priest and confess the terrible thing I did, and he would give me his blessings and I could sleep again.

I got mad at my girl friend and started a terrible rumor about her (I said she got pregnant and had an abortion). I had no idea it would spread the way it did until my own mother heard it and told me I couldn't go around with her anymore.

Now the girl refuses to go back to school in September because everybody in town is talking about her. And some girls won't even speak to her.

If I confessed to my mother, she'd tell me to keep my mouth shut because she wouldn't want anyone to know what a stinker I am. I want to make it up to this girl because she really isn't a bad girl. Could I run an ad in the newspaper and say I lied?

CAN'T SLEEP

DEAR ABBY: Forget the ad, but do go to the girl and confess that you started the ugly rumor. And tell her you will also tell those who have unjustly ostracized her. You will never be able to undo the damage you've done, but I hope this will be a lesson to you.

DEAR ABBY: Why don't you throw your hat in the ring for President? I'll bet you'd get more votes than Wallace. I've been reading your column since way back and you make a lot of sense to me.

I notice you get lots of letters from widows and divorcees who can't corral the man they want. An old government trapper told me in Montana 40 years ago that if you use the right bait you can catch anything you're after.

WYOMING JACK

DEAR JACK: KNOWING what bait to use is no trick. It's being able to COME UP with the bait you need when you need it that counts.

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you 99 per cent of the time, but I couldn't go along with the advice you gave that father who told his 17-year-old son to either get a haircut or not to come home. (The boy didn't come home.) You told the father to forget the hair for now and to emphasize the more permanent aspects of his son's character. Tell me, Abby, how can a father mold his son's character if he can't make him mind?

As a law enforcement officer I have found that the biggest cause of juvenile delinquency is the inability of parents to get their children to mind.

I have a 19-year-old son who would wear his hair too long if he had his own way. I don't tell him to either get a haircut or not to come home, but I do tell him if he doesn't cut his hair

I will cut it for him if I have to do it while he's asleep.

Abby, if I didn't love my son I wouldn't care how long he grew his hair. I know all boys like to rebel a little, but when you put your foot down I think the average boy respects you for it. I know mine does.

A FATHER

DEAR ABBY: Regarding CONCERNED's letter about her sister-in-law riding a motorcycle at age 51: I have a very lovable uncle in Denver who is 79 and HE rides a motorcycle.

There is one difference, he doesn't have a "sizable fortune," so we just love him and leave him alone.

Mrs. Worthington Named To Appear In Publication

Mrs. Alma B. Worthington of Peaceful Acres, Route 2, Ayden, has been selected to appear in the 1968 edition of Community Leaders of America. She was chosen for her outstanding contributions to her community.

Currently serving as secretary of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation Women's Advisory Committee, Mrs. Worthington is also publicity chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Pitt County Farm Bureau organization. She is a past president of the Ayden School PTA, a member of the Ayden School committee for seven years of which she served as chairman for five years.

In 1957, Mrs. Worthington was made an honorary member of the North Carolina Future Home makers of America because of her interest in homemaking and the youths of her county and state. For many years she was active in the Home Economics Extension work in Pitt County and has served as president and secretary of the county organization and as district chairman.

Mrs. Worthington is treasurer of the Liberty Free Will Baptist Church and is the teacher of an adult Sunday School class.

Other recipients chosen to appear in the edition include Governors, United States Senators and Congressmen of various states. The publication includes many citizens, such as educators, leading businessmen, members of the state legislative bodies, civic and political leaders, elected leaders of various political subdivisions, farmers, ministers, officers of various trade organizations and many other individuals, who, because of past achievements and service to their community, state and nation are recognized as community leaders of America.

N.C. Does Well On Balanced Budget

The wisdom of North Carolina's requirement that the state operate on a balanced budget becomes increasingly evident with each passing year.

In a time when the accepted pattern seems to be for governments to operate on a deficit spending basis, North Carolina continues to come up with multi-million dollar surpluses.

No one suggests that North Carolina meets every need of its people. Obviously there are many ways each year in which the state could spend additional millions of dollars to better serve its people. On the other hand, no one suggests that North Carolina is grossly negligent in providing for the needs of its people. It has adopted and maintained year after year a progressive program in every phase of its operations.

The very fact that North Carolina has been able to make progress in significant strides, and at the same time maintain a balanced budget, is a tribute to its history of good government. It gives the state a fiscal soundness that is so obviously missing in one other governments. It provides a stable atmosphere in which North Carolina is able to forge ahead with its economic development.

Recent figures which show the state accumulated some $40 million in surplus funds during the fiscal year which ended June 30 speaks well for those who framed the state's biennial budget more than a year ago. The fact that revenues rose well above estimates means that the state's tax structure, tied closely to an expanding economy, is continuing to provide additional revenues year after year. If the trend continues for the current fiscal year, the 1969 General Assembly will find another comfortable surplus with which to help provide for another balanced budget in the next biennium.

North Carolina, in our judgement, gets along far better by following its old system of operating on a balanced budget than do most others which engage in deficit spending.

Wallace Found Rather Hollow Sound In Suit Against Agnew

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — George C. Wallace's brief, pulsating weekend tour across North Carolina in search of votes and campaign money is likely to be repeated.

He found both support and funds—and promise of more. By the time he left, he had indicated strongly that he'd be back before long.

ed the reports but they were persistent and repeated. Spokesmen for other political interests including some major candidates conceded that Wallace support was growing and that there was a good chance that he might carry North Carolina.

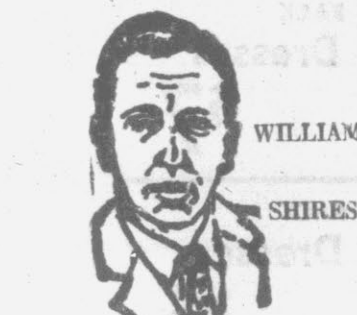

The fact is that North Carolina's electoral votes are tremendously important if Wallace's American Independent Party figures to have chance of success. In order to achieve its aims, the Wallace party must capture some states like North Carolina which have not defected in the past. He counts on carrying the core of the Deep South — Alabama, Mississippi, possibly Louisiana, Georgia and South Carolina. If Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Florida were won, the Wallace forces would be within striking distance of their goal to force the presidential election into the House of Representatives. Only a sweep of the rest of the nation by one of the major party candidates could then prevent it.

Wallace Confident
What Wallace and his aides found in North Carolina was indeed encouraging.

Wallace, as usual, was the picture of supreme confidence — just as he was before he withdrew from the presidential picture quite suddenly and surprisingly four years ago. He gives an indication of backing away this time and apparently money is not as scarce in the Wallace camp as it was when he gave up in 1964.

Same Phrases
Nevertheless, it was the same Wallace with the same phrases, gestures and political promises—denying he is a racist but attacking both Democrat and Republican parties and charging that "anarchy" is undermining the nation.

His words spark excitement in his audiences. But in context, the former Alabama governor lacks a solid basis for accomplishing what he says will be done. Promising an end to lawlessness, violence and looting and a return of control of public schools to the states is what his audiences want to hear — and pay to hear.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Wallace's advance men had kept saying this might be Wallace's only pre-election visit to the state, certainly his only visit to towns no larger than Wilson and Burlington. They were urging people to turn out for the Wallace rallies and, incidentally of course, to bring along their checkbooks.

The crowds were large — with estimates ranging up to 15,000 at a rally scattered by rain at Wilson, and 10,000 at Winston-Salem.

Enthusiastic Support
As expected, Wallace found enthusiastic and generous support. The man generates excitement wherever he goes.

The Wallace campaign hoped to pick up $50,000 along the way in North Carolina — and probably did. The total, not counting expenses, has not been made public but there were many contributions in the $100 range. Funds are quite important to the Wallace campaign, especially at this point when advertising and television time contracts must be made and paid for in advance.

Important State
Wallace appears to have found North Carolina rather fertile ground for fund-raising. His aides were not only encouraged but impressed.

Word had reached Wallace headquarters in Montgomery, Ala., of a surge in Wallace strength in North Carolina several weeks ago. At first, the Wallace strategists doubted the reports but they were persistent and repeated. Spokesmen for other political interests including some major candidates conceded that Wallace support was growing and that there was a good chance that he might carry North Carolina.

Rather Hollow Sound In Suit Against Agnew

If Maryland's Gov. Agnew is forced to abandon his office in order to campaign for the vice presidency on the GOP ticket, the whole complexion of politics as we have known it will change.

Traditionally in American politics one political office has served as a stepping stone for another. Most men who have risen up the political ladder have found it necessary to devote much of the time they spent holding one office to campaigning for the next rung up the ladder. If that is to change now because of the court action instituted against Gov. Agnew, the whole plan of politics will also change.

We can understand the resentment of some citizens of Maryland that their governor will spend much of his time for the next three months campaigning for another office. They may prefer a governor who does not use the office for a stepping stone, or one who declines the call of his political party to undertake another larger responsibility. Even so, Maryland is not likely to suffer great damage because Gov. Agnew is away from his office for the next three months.

Congressional districts have not dissolved because their representatives in Congress have spent more time campaigning for higher offices than in tending to district business. Legislatures have not gone down the drain because many of their members were devoting as much time to maneuvering to take the next step up the political ladder as they did handling legislative matters.

The action against Gov. Agnew sounds more like sour grapes than genuine concern for the welfare of the state of Maryland.

Secret Service Is Kept Hopping

By TOM STEWART
WASHINGTON (AP) The shifting cast of characters on the political stage has kept the Secret Service hopping in its new role as protector of presidential and vice presidential hopefuls.

There was a whole new changing of the guard, for instance, after last week's Republican National Convention and another will follow the upcoming Democratic convention.

Since they ended up in the GOP losers, column at Miami, Harold Stassen, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Gov. Ronald Reagan no longer qualify for shielding by the Secret Service.

The details of agents assigned to them have been withdrawn and dealt out to newcomers on the candidate list — GOP vice presidential nominee Spiro T. Agnew, for instance, and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, who blossomed over the weekend as a Democratic contender.

The assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles while he was campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination in June was the event that added candidate protection to the chores of the Secret Service, traditional guardians of the president and vice president.

When he assigned the new role, President Johnson acknowledged he had no specific authority to do so. But Congress backed him up, quickly supplying a law extending Secret Service protection to "major candidates" for the presidency and vice presidency.

Some $2 million was voted to cover increased Secret Service expenses through the election. A spokesman for the agency said Tuesday it is not known yet whether this will be enough. The amount was picked by using data from past campaigns in which the president or vice president went on the campaign trail, he said.

Repairmen Have Had It

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that television repairmen get tired of hearing: "The only difference between you and Jesse James is that Jesse rode a horse."

"What new tweed pattern are you going to leave us with this time, Benjy? I got kind of tired of the last one."

"I don't know what's wrong with it. I kicked it several times — and even that didn't seem to help."

"Why can't you fix our television set so it will stay fixed? Is that too much to ask?"

"I hear that Benjy studied television repairing through a correspondence school. He must have run out of stamps after taking the second lesson."

"What? — You here again Benjy? You spend more time in my living room than Walter Cronkite does."

"It was real eerie. We were just sitting there calmly watching an old Lucille Ball program, and then, instead of her voice, we heard Hubert Humphrey giving a political speech. How mixed up can a television set get?"

"I'm giving you one last warning, Benjy. If you don't get this set in working condition in two days, I'll climb down your chimney with it next Christmas and leave it under your tree."

"What's wrong with it this time? Well, for one thing, the NBC peacock looks like a flamingo or a blushing chicken. Are peacocks supposed to have pale pink feathers?"

"Put away your screwdriver, Benjy. I guess I won't need you after all. Just before you got here, I jiggled the machine a little and now it's doing fine again. Here's a quarter for your trouble."

"My wife wastes whole days looking at soap operas, Benjy. I'd like to make a secret deal with you. Whatever she pays you to fix the set, I'll double the amount if you fix it so that it breaks down again ten minutes after you leave."

"Why is it that every television repairman, when he finds he can't make your old machine work anymore, can always refer you to an uncle or a cousin or a brother-in-law who is in the business of selling new sets? Isn't that against the antitrust laws—or something?"

HAL BOYLE

Other Editors Say Labels & Relations

(The Boston Globe)
There's a deficiency in the English language.

The son of parents A marries the daughter of parents B. The newlyweds instantly acquire relatives known as in-laws. The parents of the newlyweds acquire, respectively, a daughter-in-law and a son-in-law. The language takes care of this.

But what is the relationship of parents A to parents B? Obviously they are now a little closer than friends or, in some unfortunate cases, enemies. But for what it is there is no name. Father A gets around it by speaking of "M./son's mother-in-law," a reference which the listener has to think twice to comprehend.

It can get worse than this, too.

When the daughter of Richard Nixon marries the grandson of Dwight Eisenhower, what does that make the Nixon parents to the Eisenhower parents, besides Republicans? There's no word for this relationship, either.

Cousins in varying degrees can be labeled. Some know the difference between a second cousin and a first cousin once removed, although in the latter case there's a question how he got removed and by whom.

But what's the name for the relationship of grandfather to the cousins of his grandchildren on the other side? There's no word for it.

This lack in the language, fortunately, concerns only those old enough to be parents-in-law or maybe great uncles and great aunts.

Such older folks, presumably, have time to sit and figure out who are their relatives, and how much. For example, if a grandson of European descent comes home from Tokyo with a Japanese bride, does that make his grandfather a relative of an Asia?

But such thoughts are dangerous. Pursued far enough, they might lead to the conclusion that the brotherhood of man is not an idealistic notion, but a mathematical fact.

"To accept good advice is but to increase one's own ability." — Johann Goethe.

"Be thankful of our freedom to achieve, work and advance; for our freedom [to worship; for our right to free speech and free elections. . . . Truly there is much for which we can be thankful." — Mervyn (Iowa) Record.

Bounty Hunter Prowling Again

By ELMER ROESSNER
The bounty hunter is abroad in the land. The modern bounty hunter is not the gun-toting Westerner with a heart of gold as shown on television, but a smooth, shrew operator in a $300 business suit. Heart of gold? Well, he is kind to his mother.

The modern bounty hunter seeks corporations that are ripe for merging.

There are many reasons for merging. The acquiring company may be intent on diversifying. A company in the hard-goods field may want to get into the soft-goods area too; a company selling in the industrial market may want to branch out into the consumer market. Then if there is a business upset in one area, the other may remain prosperous.

Or a business may have profits it wants to invest with a chance for a better return than it can get by buying stocks and bonds. Or a company may be unable to expand in its own field and so seeks another field in which to grow.

Why Others Merge
A company that wants to become the bride in a merger may find that it cannot grow without additional capital; its stockholders may be unhappy with a weak management; the management may be aging or have passed on to heirs who do not know the business; it may be solvent with impaired liquidity, or the owners may simply seek the magic touch of a dynamic giant.

And while a bounty hunter may be happy to bring about a corporate wedding of these kind of companies for a fee, he is usually more interested in finding special situations.

Many companies do not know their real worth, or their worth to another corporation. A company may have large holdings of real estate with apotential value it is not aware of. Another company may have struck oil or located minerals on adjacent land. Some property may be atwart a proposed highway or airfield.

Other Prospects
Some companies may carry buildings on their books at a nominal figure, not realizing that they have increased in value. Others may own patents and processes of little value to themselves, but jewels for another firm. Still others may own blocks of stock in other corporations that could be keys to control, or which have enhanced values the owning company is not aware of.

Sometimes a company has built up a large retirement fund which could be used to buy up still another company.

The modern bounty hunter is constantly searching for these situations. Sometimes he may study a hundred corporations before he uncovers a hidden value. Sometimes he benefits from tipsters who point out such assets for a finder's fee. Sometimes he just licks into a bit of golden information.

A Chill In The Soviet

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Stalinist habits, evidently durable among Soviet leaders, are emerging once again after the Soviet-Czechoslovak showdown. For Soviet citizens there is a chill in the air, reminiscent of cold war.

The palpable defeat of a Soviet effort to make reform-minded Czechoslovaks bend to Kremlin will seem to have provoked Communist party worries about its internal impact.

The Kremlin's somber mood and its fright at what Czechoslovakia might mean in the future come through in the latest issue of Kommunist, the Soviet theoretical journal, to reach this country. An article, apparently written for the edification of the Soviet Communists themselves rather than for anybody abroad, deals with "Vigilance—Weapon Against the Intrigues of Imperialism." It pictures Soviet citizens in danger from spies and provocateurs lurking everywhere, ready to pounce on the unwary and use them to undermine the system.

Soviet spy scares have been familiar fixtures through the cold war years. Each "vigilance" campaign has reflected Politburo worries on the home front. Clearly the current campaign is linked with Czechoslovak events. Referring to a bloc meeting on Czechoslovakia, the article said it "underscored the necessity of strengthening by all means the unity of parties and peoples" to protect the ramparts of Marxism-Leninism.

Kommunist warned against "ideological saboteurs" who were said to masquerade as "members of delegations, tourists, people traveling in our country on private business" and the like who, often, in reality, were out to propagandize the Western way of life. Such people, it said, can use international connections as "channels for infiltration into the U.S.S.R. of anti-Soviet and other hostile materials."

It pointed out that in recent years, Soviet contacts with the West expanded greatly, that many Soviet people now go abroad in various capacities: to conferences, to sport competitions, with tourists or theatrical groups. Foreign intelligence agents, notably Americans and West Germans, seek out Soviet citizens, it said, trying to play on human weakness and pry out state secrets, or enlist the unwary for ideological warfare.

"Special attention," it said, "is paid to scientists, engineers and other specialists taking part in scientific international congresses, symposia, expositions or conferences."

Today, the article instructed, the party must consider as one of its most important tasks a struggle against "ideological saboteurs," because "in the sphere of ideology there cannot be peaceful coexistence, as there cannot be class peace between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie." It added that "the security of the fatherland and the interests of the Soviet people constantly demand revolutionary vigilance."

the protection and who doesn't rests under the statute with the secretary of the Treasury, advised by the speaker of the House and the Republican and Democratic leaders in each chamber of Congress.

In the case of McGovern, a committee spokesman said, the advisory committee members who could be reached were polled by telephone Saturday and were unanimous that McGovern fits the "major candidate" criterion Agents joined McGovern at 12:58 p.m. Monday.

McGovern brings the list of protected candidates to six, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who comes under the Secret Service umbrella on two counts — as the vice president and as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Also on the protected list of Minnesota, Humphrey's main rival for nomination; GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and his running mate Agnew, and American Party candidate George Wallace.

"There is Secret Service protection for the families," a Treasury official said, "while they're with the candidates and while in situations in which there is some significant risk."

'Party Unity' Efforts Run Into New Dissent

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — New storm clouds gathered Thursday over the prospect for Democratic unity this fall despite Hubert H. Humphrey's holding out an "open convention" as an olive branch to party rebels and backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

Although the vice president's chief strategist, Lawrence O'Brien contended that a "truly open convention" was the surgest way to forge party unity, a McCarthy backer charged that few of the public would be permitted into the Chicago convention.

Allard Lowenstein, one of the original supporters of McCarthy, told a news conference that only 1,000 visitor's passes would be permitted for the convention, that state delegations would be separated by physical barriers and that major telephone facilities on the convention floor would be controlled from the rostrums by the convention chairman.

In addition the Coalition for an Open Convention sued Chicago officials in Chicago District Court, charging that the failure to permit a rally on the eve of the convention, Aug. 25, was having "a chilling effect" on the right of free speech and assembly.

As these developments were occurring Humphrey, the front-runner in the Democratic presidential contest, released a statement entitled "A Meaningful Convention and an Open Convention," coupled with a letter to National party Chairman John Bailey urging a streamlining to reduce "the frills and the nonsense" of the convention.

"In this crucial year," Humphrey said in the letter, "we have the opportunity to present to the American people a convention that is open, democratic and meaningful."

Among other matters, Humphrey urged that floor demonstrations be abolished; that the full text of the party platform be made public at least 24 hours before it is debated and that nominating speeches be limited to ten minutes. Humphrey did not mention direct public participation in the convention or any meetings on its periphery.

O'Brien was asked in an interview whether there were any plans for any kind of forum for college students and other young people planning to visit Chicago to express their views on candidates and issues.

O'Brien said: "Well, I think this—there's a desire on the part of these responsible young people to have an opportunity to meet among themselves and discuss the issues and the candidates, to present views to the convention."

O'Brien said he thought this "should be encouraged."

"The Coalition for an Open Convention, led by supporters of McCarthy, has sought since July 13 to obtain the Soldier Field, with a 100,000-plus seating capacity, for a rally on convention eve.

After the Chicago Park District declined to act on the request the group filed suit through the Illinois division of the American Civil Liberties Union.

There have been reports Democrats would use the huge stadium to celebrate President Johnson's birthday Aug. 27. There have been other reports the field would be used as a parking lot for convention officials or as a detention area for persons arrested during any demonstrations.

Young Chicago Gang Boss Gets Three Prison Terms

CHICAGO (AP) — The leader of the Blackstone Rangers street gang, Eugene Hairston, 24, has been sentenced to three concurrent terms of 5 to 15 years in prison for solicitation of murder.

Judge Louis A. Wexler imposed the sentence Wednesday in Circuit Court after hearing a South Side businessman and a clergyman appeal that Hairston remain free.

"You were the leader in a crime which to say the least was a vicious one," said Judge Wexler.

Hairston was convicted May 29 of paying six teen-agers $1 each to shoot three men sitting in a parked car Sept. 12, 1967.

Leo McClure, 33, was killed and two companions were wounded.

The gang leader was acquitted of one charge of murder and two charges of attempted murder. He has been free on $20,000 bond since the trial. The Rangers were the target of a recent investigation by a Senate subcommittee. The probe gathered testimony on the disposition of nearly $1 million granted by the Office of Economic Opportunity for use in the South Side neighborhoods where the gang operates.

Before his arrest last September, Hairston was a $6,500-a-year assistant for a federally financed job training program on the South Side.

Decision Could Lead To Earlier Fire Rate Hikes

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals says the insurance industry has the right to present evidence for setting insurance rates "at any time during a public hearing" if the information does not produce an "unreasonable delay."

The decision, handed down Wednesday, could lead to a hike in state fire insurance rates this year.

Judge Hugh Campbell wrote the court's unanimous opinion which overruled a lower court's finding that Insurance Commissioner Edwin S. Lanier was correct in refusing to accept new statistics submitted after the industry's original request for a rate increase.

The North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau, which represents the industry, was rejected twice by Lanier last year in its effort to win a 2.54 percent increase in fire insurance premiums.

The bureau contended in its appeal to the courts that Lanier should have accepted new data which indicated losses due to fire were on the rise.

"The commissioner refused to consider those figures," Campbell said, because "this was evidence originating subsequent to the date of the filing."

Campbell said statistical evidence "which becomes available any time during a public hearing for the establishment of fire insurance rates and the use of which will produce no unreasonable delay should be admitted and taken into consideration in fixing rates."

In another case Wednesday, the court reversed a state Industrial Commission decision awarding $2,750 to a Chapel Hill man who said he was injured when he swallowed pieces of wire in his collar greens while eating at a University of North Carolina cafeteria in 1965.

Judge Naomi Morris said in a unanimous opinion that Sylvester G. Brooks is not entitled to recover damages because he

Report Flight-Delay Problems Are Easing

By MARK ANDREWS

NEW YORK (AP) — Airport officials around the country generally report flight delays have been eased with the notable exception of some Chicago and New York flights to and from their cities.

The congestion which had been especially heavy at Kennedy Airport began to clear this week due to a combination of excellent weather, some flight rescheduling and an apparently let-up of a flight controllers' campaign.

"The situation has become a lot better than a couple of weeks ago," one airline dispatcher at Kennedy said, and most officials contacted in a nationwide Associated Press survey agreed.

Few reported any locally caused flight delays but some said arrivals from New York and Chicago were up to several hours late at times and departures for the same points were sometimes held up awaiting route clearances.

Skies over Kennedy Airport began to get crowded in early July after an air traffic controllers' organization announced that it was going to "follow the book" and strictly enforce Federal Aviation Administration safety rules.

Declaring that its men were overworked but that it intended "to protect the public against unnecessary air hazards," the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization said it would failed to show that cafeteria employees were negligent in serving the greens.

The court upheld a lower court decision disbaring Elam Reamuel Temple, a Four Oaks attorney.

Temple was convicted in Johnston Superior Court last October of attempting to engage in counterfeit money traffic, drawing a false will and altering a promissory note. Judge Robert M. Martin barred him from practicing law in North Carolina.

carefully observe regulations that set minimum separation time between planes.

In the past, the rules had been bent from time to time during heavy congestion.

The safety campaign was nationwide, but its greatest impact was felt at Kennedy, where congestion delayed some flights as long as six hours.

Other airports began to feel the effects of the congestion at Kennedy as planes circled in the skies waiting to enter New York's traffic pattern.

This week, the situation began to improve. "Things are normal," an FAA spokesman at Kennedy said. "Flights are moving anywhere from on schedule to 30 minutes late."

Teacher Makes 22-Mile Swim

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — Russell Chaffee, 41, a Sayre, Pa., mathematics teacher, completed a 22-mile swim across Cape Cod Bay Wednesday evening, landing at Provincetown at the tip of the cape about 14 hours after he left Plymouth.

Friends said Chaffee was in good condition at the finish. He was accompanied by two Connecticut school teachers, Dan Musinski of Unionville and Dan Cruson of Easton, in an 18-foot dory.

The last attempt to cross the bay was made Aug. 23, 1915 by Henry Sullivan of Lowell and Sam Richards of Boston—the first Americans to swim the English Channel.

Sullivan was forced to give up after almost 24 hours in the water, when the tide began carrying him to sea. Richards was hauled out of the water several hours earlier.

Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark Points To Record In Response To Nixon

By MALCOLM BARR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark has responded to Richard M. Nixon's threat to fire him if elected president by challenging Nixon to say what he means by the phrase "law and order."

In his speech accepting the Republican nomination last week, Nixon said "if we are going to restore order and respect for law in this country, there is one place to begin. We are going to have to have a new attorney general."

"The question is," Clark responded in a news conference Wednesday, "What do we do to bring about order under the law?"

"I think for the people to just repeat the phrase 'law and order' is not to educate anyone on the issues or on what needs to be done," Clark added.

He said it was important for Nixon to make his stance known on these issues, rather than saying "whom he is against."

Within hours after Clark's comments, the Nixon camp fired back from its campaign strategy base in California.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, said Clark's "record of performance in office marks him down as a reluctant warrior in the battle against crime."

Clark, meeting with newsmen in his oak paneled, red carpeted outer office, answered a wide variety of questions ranging from the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the United States—he defended it—to police pay—he thinks it should be increased.

But Clark dwelt on the acceptance speech by Nixon, publicly answering it for the first time. Nixon, Clark said, attacked "personalities rather than principles."

The attorney general set forth some of his own principles and wondered aloud where Nixon stood on them.

He checked off his support of gun control legislation, including registration and licensing; stressed the need for a "professionalization" within police forces; voiced concern for mental health and alcoholism problems; remarked on the need for increased attention to juvenile delinquency; and urged a major boost in spending in the areas of prisons, probation and parole.

"I was interested in his (Nixon's) remarks about organized crime. It would seem that the Republicans are trying to make this their thing," Clark said.

He accused the most recent Republican administration during its eight years in power of "doing nothing" about organized crime.

In 1960, he said, 17 federal indictments were returned under GOP rule, while in 1967 he said there were 668 indictments, including 55 against members of the so-called Cosa Nostra.

Clark also said elaborate plans are being made to head off potential violence outside the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Clark emphasized, however, he did not expect any disorders. Nor, he said, would the Convention be held "in an atmosphere of an armed camp" when it opens Aug. 28.

But should violence break out, he said, law enforcement agencies, including the Secret Service, would be ready for it.

New Director Of Safety Campaign

RALEIGH (AP)—William S. Johnson Jr. of Raleigh is the new director of highway safety promotion for the North Carolina Motor Vehicles Department.

Motor Vehicles Commissioner Ralph Howland announced the appointment Wednesday to fill a vacancy created recently by the resignation of Motte Griffith.

Johnson, a native of Rocky Mount, has been assistant to the director of the state Water and Air Resources Department and director of the North Carolina Seashore Commission.

Middle-Age

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're 27.7 years old, you're one of the few truly middle-aged Americans—half the population is older than you and half younger.

The Census Bureau reported today 27.7 was the median age of the nation's population as of July 1. This was right where the midpoint rested a year earlier, indicating a 15-year decline has at last stopped, the bureau said.

The decrease in median age began in 1952, when it stood at an historic peak of 30.3 years.

Nearly Half Of Victims Drinking

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Nearly half the 19 pedestrians who died in Milwaukee traffic accidents during the first seven months of 1968 had been drinking, the city Safety Commission said Wednesday.

The commission said it was not specifically listing alcoholic beverage as the primary cause of the deaths. Of the nine victims who had been drinking, most were older than 50, and most were injured at night, it said.

Good Year For Outterbridge In Art Career

ACT OF CONCENTRATION . . . John Outterbridge preparing material to use in one of his sculptural creations.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
ALTADENA, Calif. — John W. Outterbridge has been a fortunate artist within the past year. In the last six months of 1967 he received one of five top awards for contemporary sculpture from the Westwood Art Association for Abstracts and Constructions; second place award from the Pasadena Artist Associations for Contemporary Sculpture, and a purchase award from the University of Southern California for "Crucifixion", a sculpture which is in the permanent collection at the Watts Multi-Purpose Medical Center in Los Angeles.

stop, no matter what else was going on."

They stated that when he was a student at Epps High, where he graduated in 1951, Outterbridge painted a number of pictures and sold some to people in Greenville. After graduation, he attended A and T University in Greensboro, but was drafted into the Army.

He served three years, mostly in Germany. Much of his time in Germany was spent painting murals for the Army in mess halls, officers' clubs, USO clubs and dependent schools. Mrs. Outterbridge recalled that in appreciation for his work, he was given a trip to Paris.

Outterbridge added that "John always liked music, too. He was a soloist in a church choir in Munich, one of two Negroes in the choir." Later, after returning to the states and was living in Chicago, he was a member of a quartet called "Vera and the Three J's". He made one recording during this musical phase of his life.

Even though Outterbridge loves music and relaxes by playing the flute, art remains his constant love. He studied at the American Academy of Art, the Chicago Academy of Art and the Art Center School in Los Angeles.

For the past six years John has been living in California. He and his wife, the former Beverly McKissick of Chicago, make their home in Altadena, a part of greater Los Angeles. They have one child, a daughter, Tami.

Mr. and Mrs. Outterbridge are proud of John and their other children also. Two other sons are art teachers. Marvin has taught in schools in Hopewell, Va., Columbia, S. C., and will

In 1968 Outterbridge was included in the Sixth Annual Southern California Exhibition held in Long Beach Museum of Art. Clement Greenburg, New York Art critic and contributor to the New York Times Book Review, as well as author of several books, selected works for the Long Beach Show. He chose Outterbridge's wood sculpture "Shoe String" for the exhibition.

Outterbridge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John I. Outterbridge of 612 Roosevelt Avenue, Greenville, said John, now 35, had always loved anything akin to art. They recalled, "All our boys loved to draw, and John would not teach in Danville, Va. this year. One of Marvin's paintings is in the Greenville Art Center collection. Freddy, the other art teacher son, is teaching art in Pitt County schools. Still another son Warren, although not an artist in the same sense that the other two are, displays his talents in a spare time job in the commercial field of art. Mrs. Outterbridge said "People may not know his work, as he paints signs but there are many of his signs people see here every day in Greenville."

One daughter, Jackie, is still living at home, although she will soon marry. Jackie admits that she loves "to paint a little when I have the time." However, her time is taken up by her teaching duties. Last year she taught at Ayden and is now awaiting assignment for the coming school year.

Mrs. Outterbridge, recalling the years when her boys were small, observed: "The boys kept the house full of drawing things, papers, glue, pins. I couldn't seem to get them outside. I used to fuss about it, but my oldest daughter would tell me not to worry, that I might be proud of them some day."

GUN INSTRUCTION PLANNED
BOMBAY, India (AP) — The National Rifle Association of India (NRAI) has a scheme to start 4,000 centers throughout India to teach rifle shooting to 2.2 million boys and girls above the age of 12. The plan is backed by the central government.

'Landmark' Decision Likely To Be Well-Trampled

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The decision this week by federal judges that some corporate officers violated the law by buying stock in their company before telling the public some awfully good news already is being called a landmark.

If this is so, then this landmark is liable to be thoroughly trampled or lost in the weeds for a while. It still will be difficult to measure misdeeds by it. And it may even confuse the confusing business of just what is "inside" information.

The decision, which involves the Texas Gulf Sulphur Co., means that insiders, usually company officers, cannot trade stock in their corporation on the basis of their access to information not yet disclosed to the public.

That much is clear enough. But the decision also involves as insiders, those outsiders who receive tips on the unpublished news. That really hits home. It involves the mechanism of the market, whose gears revolve on tips, rumors, gossip, speculation and inside dope.

How often, for example, do professionals obtain information on earnings, possible stock splits, merger plans, management changes, discoveries, new products, contract awards and such?

Judging by the frequency with which stocks rise on bullish rumors and "unconfirmed reports," only to fall when the news is confirmed, indicates that the answer might be "more than a few times."

In fact, to learn such information if possible is the business of today's aggressive analysts. True, the stock exchanges are sometimes quick to prod firms into announcements after the rumors begin floating, but this really confirms that inside traders were indeed at work.

The Texas Gulf case briefly is this:

In mid-November 1963 officials of the company began receiving reports from geologists at Timmins, Ont., indicating a mineral find might be developing.

On April 12, 1964, company officers, prompted by rumors, disclosed that the company had prospects in the Timmins area but said early reports then circulating might be premature and misleading.

Four days later, however, the company announced a major discovery at the site, a disclosure that naturally propelled upward the price of Texas Gulf stock, making it, in fact, one of the glamor holdings of the year.

Investigating, the Securities and Exchange Commission found that despite the cautious tone of the April 12 announcement, officers of the company had been acting very bullish. They had been buying stock and tipping friends to buy also.

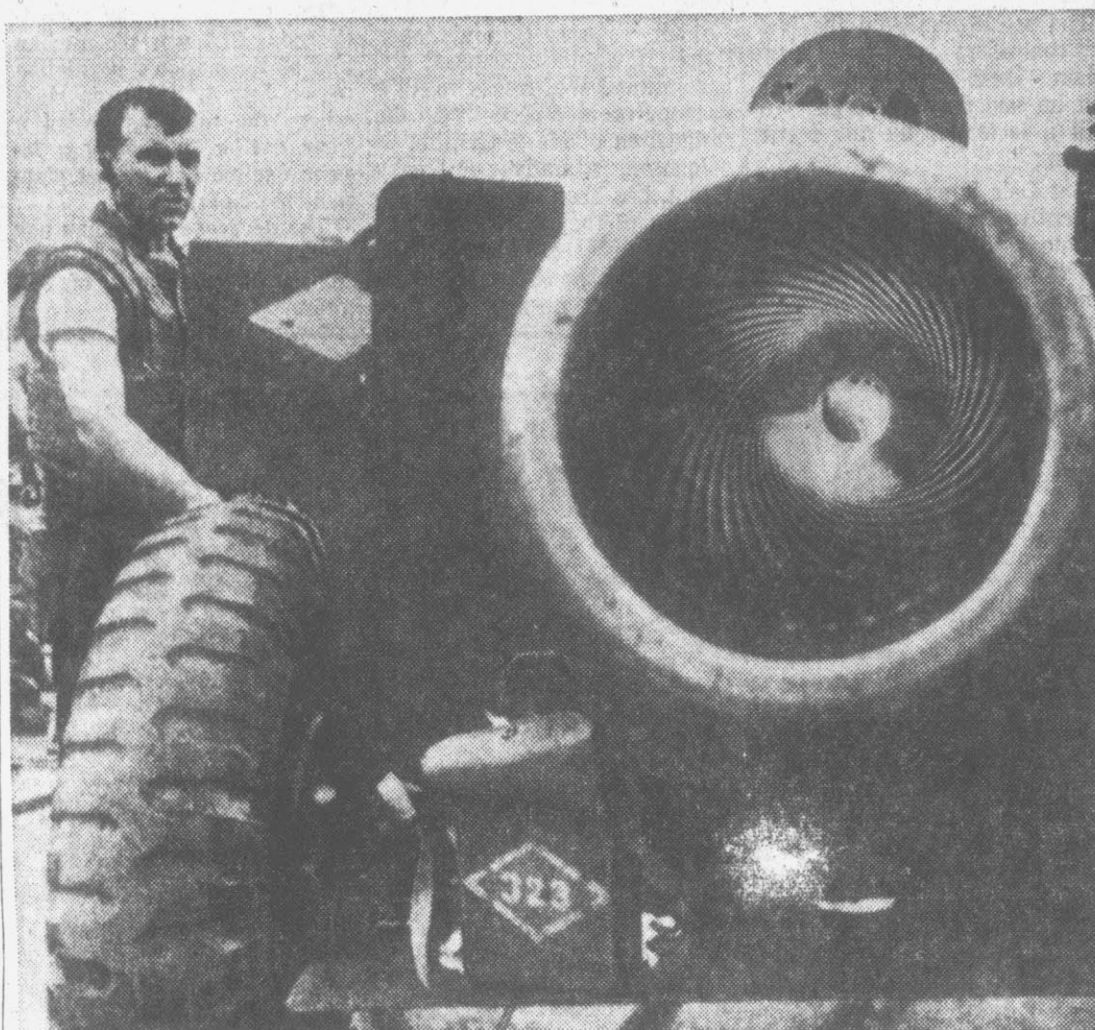

This, said the SEC, was a violation of the securities laws because officers and friends had used for their own personal benefit information that everyone in the marketplace was entitled to know.

After losing in one court, the SEC was upheld by nine judges in the U.S. Court of Appeals. It is likely now that some form of restitution will be demanded of the Texas Gulf insiders.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security has passed its third-of-a-century mark.

The first chairman of the Social Security Board was at the brief 33rd birthday ceremony Wednesday. So was Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen.

President Johnson sent a telegram from Johnson City, Tex., recalling how the program's early opponents had called it a "cruel hoax."

Arthur J. Altmeyer, 77, who helped set up the system in 1934-35 and directed it through most of its first decade was honored as "Mr. Social Security."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income rose by $3.5 billion in July—helped along by a $2 billion income increase for federal, state and local government workers, the Commerce Department says.

The increase included a $1.5 billion raise for federal employees, the department said Wednesday.

It pegged the seasonally adjusted annual rate for personal income in July at $689.2 billion.

About the only areas showing no change during the month were wholesale and retail trade, transportation, communications and other public utilities, the department said.

Soviet May Be Challenging Big 'Intelsat' Net

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

VIENNA (AP) — Is the Soviet Union seriously challenging the giant Intelsat space communications network with its proposal to establish a global network of communications satellites? Or is it putting pressure on Intelsat to substitute a one-country, one-vote policy for American domination?

Several hundred space experts from 73 other nations studied the Russians' Intersputnik plan today at the second session of the U.N. Conference on Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space. Most interpreted the move as a pressure play, with the Russians using the United Nations as a forum.

The Soviets made their proposal at the conference's opening session Wednesday in a message from Premier Alexei Kosygin. His note, read by the leader of the Soviet delegation, led the Russians' Intersputnik plan today at the second session of the U.N. Conference on Exploration and Peaceful Uses of Outer Space. Most interpreted the move as a pressure play, with the Russians using the United Nations as a forum.

A.A. Blagonravov, wished the conference success and said: "In order to better satisfy the needs of the developed and developing countries, the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries are proposing the creation of an international communications system through artificial satellites based on democratic principles with total equality for all its participants."

Preliminary Plans For New Grifton Building

GRIFTON—The Grifton Town Board accepted preliminary floor plans for the new municipal building which is projected for a future date, at its meeting Tuesday night.

It was reported that for the preceding month, there were 25 arrests for various violations made in Grifton, and that all of the 25 pleaded guilty.

Policeman Billy Gray George was authorized by the board to attend the next police school to be held in Bethel.

During the month period, a total of 881 library books were checked out and used by patrons of the Grifton Library.

CAMPAIGN WORRY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pat Nixon says on the perils of political campaigning: her greatest worry until November is "being able to get my shoes on once I've got them off."

tries are proposing the creation of an international communications system through artificial satellites based on democratic principles with total equality for all its participants."

The Intersputnik proposal was delivered to U.N. headquarters in New York Tuesday, but the news had not yet reached Vienna, where the scientists most concerned were gathered.

The draft proposal submitted to the United Nations is very similar to that of Intelsat, which has 62 member nations representing 95 per cent of the communications traffic in the world. The major exception is that each intersputnik nation would have one vote, giving all an equal voice.

Intelsat nations vote according to their investment, with the United States having a 51 per cent interest through its Communications Satellite Corp., or Comsat.

The Soviet Union has refused to join Intelsat mainly because it would have only a small voice in the American-dominated organization.

One Intelsat official who believes Kosygin's proposal is a pressure play noted that this U.N. space conference was delayed a year because the Russians said they were not ready in 1967. He said the Soviet communications satellite system is far more advanced today than it was a year ago, but he added he didn't know whether there was any connection with the delay in holding the meeting.

Dr. Joseph Charyk, Comsat president and a member of the U.S. delegation, said an international conference has been scheduled next March in Washington to discuss proposed changes in Intelsat. One of these is equal voting rights, which he said Comsat favors.

Other delegates said the Russians may be serious about establishing a separate system. But they saw it primarily as a means of strengthening Soviet influence in Eastern Europe and perhaps extending it into the underdeveloped nations of Africa and Asia.

Blagonravov hinted at the latter, saying: "With the aid of both radio and television transmission via communications satellites, it becomes possible to influence the culture of developing countries by advanced countries."

Next to the Russian propaganda effort here, the U.S. effort is slight.

Against the wishes of U.N. officials the Soviets placed a huge exhibit of spacecraft in a public hall near the conference. Every day cosmonaut Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, escorts visitors through the exhibit and signs autographs. The United States has only a small exhibit, in compliance with a U.N. directive.

The Pitt Technical Institute is offering a course in Child Development beginning September 9.

The course is designed to train adults to work with preschool Day Care Centers, and the programs of such centers. It is also to train adults in becoming certified baby-sitters.

Classes for this course are to be held on Monday and Wednesday evening.

Anyone interested should call Mrs. George Jackson at 752-5742 or 752-4771.

Will Speak At Sunday Service

Dr. Bill Paulsell, head of the Department of Religion at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, will deliver the message for the morning worship services at the First Christian Church Sunday morning.

D. Spruill Spain will preside.

Phone Exchange Is Seeing Improvement, Expansion

Improvement and expansion of the Greenville telephone exchange is now underway.

Linwood R. Langley, local manager for Carolina Telephone, said today that a $55,000 program is in progress to expand the company's central office equipment here.

Included in the project will be installation of equipment to provide facilities to serve 340 new telephones for subscribers in this area and permit better grades of service to present subscribers.

Langley said that the growth of Greenville in recent years has brought about an increased demand for telephone service.

This demand has taxed the capacity of present equipment.

Telephones in this area have increased from 8,000 to more than 16,000 in the past ten years.

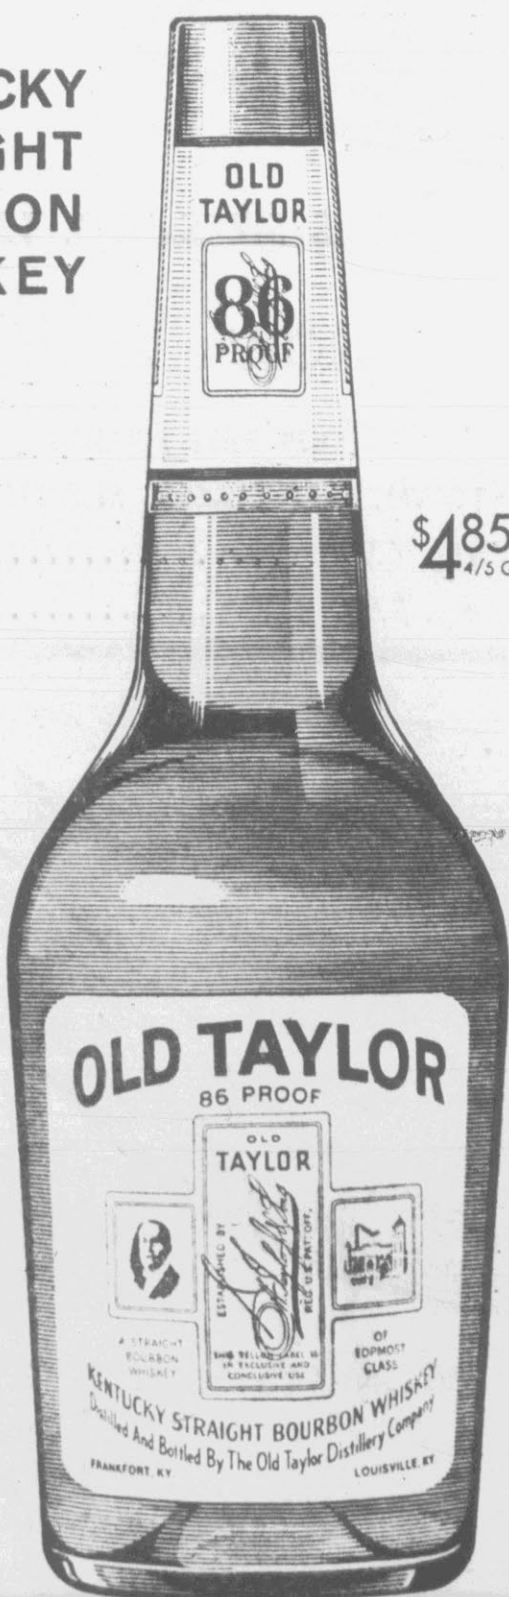

"The construction program here is in keeping with Carolina Telephone's continuing program to fulfill the telephone needs of the communities it serves," he pointed out.

Langley said, "The new improvement and expansion program at Greenville was engineered to allow for telephone growth in the future. This project is part of Carolina Telephone's $34.4 million construction program for 1968."

Outcasts Of Modern Africa Are Asian Settlers

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The outcasts of modern Africa are its Asian settlers.

Under pressure from black nationalism and white supremacy, they find few sanctuaries in the no-longer dark continent.

Unlike whites, who usually can migrate to homelands overseas or Africa's white-ruled southern tip, many Asians discover they are not even welcome in Asia.

Britain's tightening of legislation in the face of a mounting influx of Asians from Kenya drew attention to their dilemma. The pattern extends far beyond Kenya, however, and varies from country to country.

Sometimes the pressure on Asians results from events outside Africa. When India seized the Portuguese enclave of Goa in 1961, Indians living in Portuguese Mozambique were attacked in retaliation and a number were killed.

Discrimination in Uganda took the form of boycotts, intimidation and violence even before independence in 1962.

The 160,000 Asians in Tanzania, the third largest such community in Africa, have been relatively well treated although some claim to have been bullied and threatened. Finance Minister Amir Jamal, an Asian, is a close friend of President Julius Nyerere.

As a group, the 561,000 Asians in South Africa are easily the most prosperous in Africa. Few opt to return to India or Pakistan.

Under South Africa's separate development policy, Asians live in prescribed areas and need government permits to travel from one province to another.

One of the oldest Indian residential and business areas in Johannesburg was Pageview. It was set aside for Asians in 1885. Pageview was declared a white group area in 1956.

The city's 37,000 Indians are being moved gradually into a single township about 20 miles from Johannesburg. Some protest they cannot afford commuting costs to Lenasia or that such a move will wreck their businesses.

Asians in Africa—outside South Africa—are mostly traders and small shopkeepers. Africans resent their seeming stranglehold on retail trade, but often appear disinclined to work as hard as they do.

Indians were brought to Kenya originally to help build the railroads and to South Africa as sugar cane laborers.

Zambia President Kenneth Kaunda says the predicament of Asians is their own fault. He recently commented in Nairobi, "They have failed to readjust themselves."

"Unlike white faces, brown faces fail to integrate with black faces. Our Asian brothers and sisters must realize that when they are in Zambia they must identify themselves with Zambia. Many of them still cling to their British passports."

Kaunda said he was certain his feelings were shared by Presidents Nyerere of Tanzania, Milton Obote of Uganda and Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya.

Kaunda offers Asians the choice of becoming Zambian citizens or leaving. Many of his militant followers insist on the other hand that "Zambianization" means ousting Asians—citizens or not—to make way for Africans.

The 10,000 Asians in Zambia now face Kenya-style pressure. Those who follow Kaunda's advice often are accused of seeking "economic citizenship." Hundreds of Asians have applied for Zambian citizenship, but there is no indication how many will be accepted. Many wait up to two years until their applications are processed.

Only in Rhodesia and Malawi are Asians living without much trouble.

One Asian remains in the Rhodesian Parliament and many others are prosperous businessmen. But the small Asian community worries that apartheid on South African lines is in the cards for white-ruled Rhodesia.

Malawi President H. Kamuzu Banda solved the question of anti-Asian prejudice by refusing to recognize it. He has deported Asians accused of profiteering, but has thrown out whites for the same reason.

Meanwhile, confused claim and counterclaim cloud the Asians remaining in Kenya.

The United Kingdom Citizens' Committee, led by lawyer G.S. Sandhu, reported only 53,000 of Kenya's 180,000 Asians hold British passports. The British Home Office estimate is more than 100,000.

Sandhu said his organization is trying to show that Britain would not face an invasion by Asians if it lifted immigration controls imposed in March.

Only 15 per cent of Kenya Asians holding British passports want to move to Britain, he said.

Committee Secretary Praful Patel is lobbying members of the British Parliament in an effort to start talks between India and Britain on the future of Kenya Indians.

India at first refused entry to Asians with British passports ousted from east Africa. New Delhi recently decided to grant temporary entry visas to about 1,400 and restudy its long-term policy on those who want to settle.

Agnew Declares His Record Not That Of 'Racist'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew, Maryland's governor and the Republican vice presidential nominee, says that "any kind of racism must be repudiated. My record speaks for itself. I am not a racist. I have never been a racist. I have done more for the Negro than anyone who has ever held this office."

Charges of racial prejudice were hurled at Agnew by 18 Negro leaders in Baltimore. They are forming the Ad Hoc Committee for Good Government to oppose the Nixon-Agnew ticket nationwide.

Agnew, who has been traveling with GOP presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon and campaigning on the West Coast since his nomination at Miami Beach, made the committee one of the first topics at the news conference that followed his arrival at Friendship International Airport.

"These people are actually endorsing violence. I feel very comfortable about being criticized by them," Agnew said.

"I very clearly repudiated white racism and I have called on the Negroes to repudiate black racism," he said.

The governor said the Republican campaign would have a "back-to-moderation" theme "based on a desire of the American people for a return to the traditional principles of this country."

"The accent should not be on tearing America down, but on building up what's right about America," Agnew said.

Agnew denied that he was chosen as Nixon's running mate solely to campaign for the Republican ticket in the South. He said he was leaving Maryland again Friday to meet with Nixon and campaign in California, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Panel To Decide Bussing Demand

GREENSBORO (AP)—A lawsuit asking that North Carolina city school students be given the same type of free bus service now provided for rural children has been referred to a three-judge federal court panel.

The panel will be appointed by Judge Clement Haynsworth of Greenville, S. C., chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

No date for a hearing has yet been set.

A request for an injunction in the case was refused Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Edwin M. Stanley of Greensboro.

The legal action was filed in Greensboro Aug. 2 by W. Warren Sparrow, a Winston-Salem attorney.

Sparrow said his 5-year-old daughter, Catherine, lives 1½ miles from the Whitaker Elementary School she will attend this fall.

The state, Sparrow said, provides free bus transportation for rural children who live 1½ miles or more from their schools, thus the state is discriminating against city students in not providing similar service for his child and others in like situations in cities.

Pro Revolt Will Not Affect N.C. Tourneys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sponsors of two major North Carolina golf tournaments say the events definitely will be played next year despite the revolt of touring pros against the Professional Golfers Association.

Bill Hoover, general chairman of the Greater Greensboro Open, said the tournament "will continue in Greensboro and we're definitely planning to continue work on the 1969 tournaments."

J. B. Hines, director of the Azalea Open at Wilmington, said, "We're definitely going to have the tournament. We're just waiting for instructions."

Hines, Hoover and Bob Stout of Greensboro, assistant general chairman of the GGO, will be in Houston Sept. 5-6 for a meeting of the International Golf Sponsors Association.

The organization, which represents 33 of the 43 PGA tournament sponsors, is expected to decide at that time whether to back the PGA or the touring professionals.

The players on the rich tournament tour announced Tuesday plans to split with the PGA and organize their own tour. The players, however, said they would honor all existing contracts. This takes them through the 1968 season and into the first two weeks of 1969.

Hoover had this to say of the situation:

"The Jaycees (sponsors of the GGO) are very interested in seeing a solution worked out with the players and the PGA. Our relationship with the PGA and the players has been very good. It's entirely too early to make any comment about who will be playing here next year."

Hines said he does not know what course the Azalea will follow in the future, but, "We have always dealt with the PGA and we have no connection with anybody except the PGA."

Hines said he is waiting for the Houston meeting before announcing a decision on the Azalea entries next year.

Phil Weekman, professional at the Cape Fear Country Club in Wilmington, site of the Azalea

Open, said he believes the split was caused by a personality conflict between players and someone in the PGA.

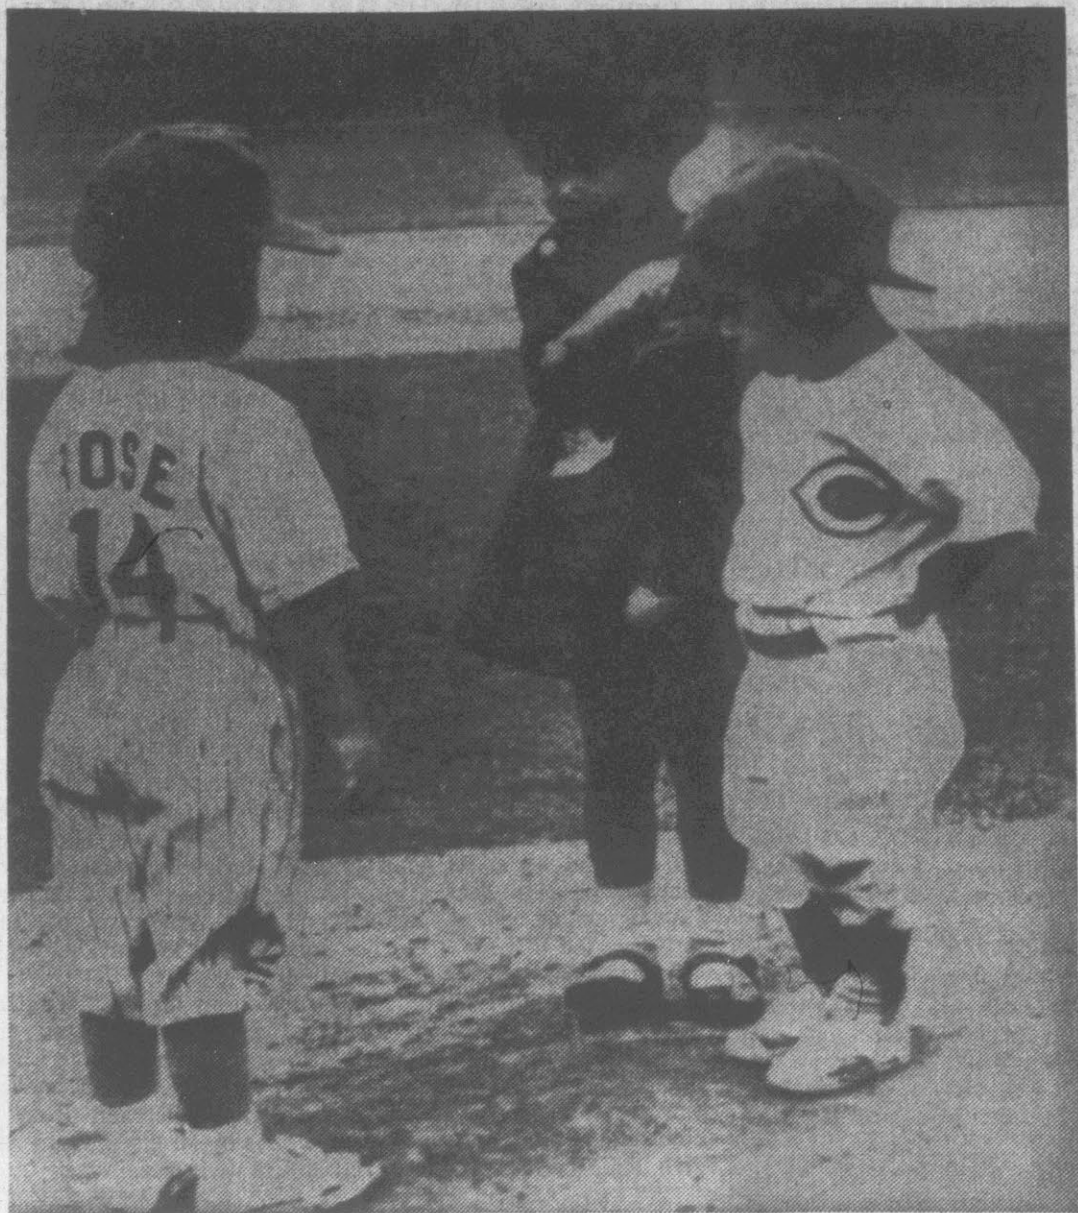

"The PGA is not a perfect organization," he said, "but it sure has been good to the Arnold Palmers, the Jack Nicklauses and the Gardner Dickinsons."

Palmer, Nicklaus and Dickinson are among the touring pros who are leaving the PGA.

Braves Need Satchel Before His Unfolding

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Hurry up and unfold, Satchel. The Atlanta Braves' pitching staff needs help fast.

The Braves signed elderly Satchel Paige earlier this week and the club's pitchers haven't been the same since.

Cincinnati jolted the Braves 7-4 Wednesday night, collecting 11 hits. That gave the Reds 30 hits and 16 runs in two games against Atlanta and if ever a situation called for Satchel, the Braves have it.

"I don't know what I can do now," said Paige, who needs 158 days to qualify for baseball's pension plan. "I'll have to get out there and unfold first."

Paige's unfolding timetable calls for him to go on the Braves' active roster Aug. 23. The question is whether the Atlanta pitching staff can wait that long.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, New York trimmed Los Angeles 4-1, San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings, Philadelphia took Houston 4-3 and St. Louis stopped Chicago 3-1.

In the American League, Washington dropped Minnesota 4-2, Oakland defeated Baltimore 4-1, Detroit shut out Cleveland 3-0, Chicago split a doubleheader with Boston, winning the first game 5-3 but dropping the nightcap 7-5, and New York beat California 5-2.

Mack Jones' three-run homer started the Reds' assault against the Atlanta staff in the fourth inning. Pete Rose singled and Alex Johnson doubled before Jones connected. An error and Pat Corrales' double gave the Reds another run before the inning was over.

Singles by Johnson and Tony Perez and doubles by Fred Whitfield and Corrales led to three wrapup runs in the eighth.

Felipe Alou homered for the Braves, extending his hitting streak to 19 games.

Jerry Koosman won his 16th game for the Mets, tying the club record established last year by Tom Seaver. The rookie left-hander scattered seven hits as New York beat Los Angeles for the 11th time this season.

Larry Stahl homered and Cleon Jones and Ed Kranepool laced two hits apiece leading a 10-hit Met attack against Bill Singer and two relievers.

Don Lock hammered a grand slam home run, accounting for all of Philadelphia's runs against Houston. John Bateman had a two-run shot and Jim Wynn a solo homer for the Astros.

Pitcher Chris Short opened the third inning with a single against Houston's Denny Lemaster and two outs later Rich Allen and Roberto Pena walked, setting the stage for Lock's third career grand slam.

Willie McCovey scored the Giants' tying run in the seventh inning and then drove in the winner with a 10th inning single as Gaylord Perry stymied the Pirates on three hits.

McCovey's two out single delivered Bobby Bonds who had singled and moved to second when reliever Ron Kline walked Willie Mays with two out. The loss ended a 10-game winning streak for Kline and was his first setback since May 2.

Bob Gibson won his 14th straight game, beating Chicago and ending a seven-game Cardinal losing streak against the Cubs.

Gibson, 16-5, allowed eight hits and the Cards ended a four-game Chicago winning streak and boosted their National League lead to 13 games over the second place Cubs.

U.S. Favored Against Spanish

CLEVELAND (AP) — The U.S. Davis Cup team, accustomed to playing on fast courts, will be favored to defeat Spain in the weekend inter-zone challenge series starting Friday.

That is the view of experts who have studied the two teams in practices on the Harold T. Clark Macadam-type courts, a surface conducive to booming serves and slamming volleys which are trademarks of the Americans.

A pair of singles matches will launch the competition Friday, followed by doubles Saturday and two more singles Sunday. One point is awarded for victory in each match.

Heading Spain is 30-year-old Manuel Santana, winner at Wimbledon in 1966 and at the nationals at Forest Hills in 1965.

He is a tactician whose finesse has brought him victory on all types of surfaces.

Juan Gisbert, 26, and Manuel Orentes, 19, have been trying feverishly to get their reactions geared to the courts. Another Spaniard, Luis Orilla, a fine doubles player, is handicapped by a pulled leg muscle first suffered in California and aggravated now so that he requires doctor's treatment daily.

Arthur Ashe, Charlie Pasarell and hometown product, Clark Graebner are the main U.S. hopes.

Maryland's football team will start the 1968 season with a losing streak of 13 straight.

Mickey Lolich Saves Tigers A Tail-Twist

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Mayo Smith has a perfect put-down for those American League die-hards who keep trying to twist his Tigers by the tail. The Detroit skipper simply reaches into his new bullpen bag and slips them a quick Mickey.

Mickey Lolich, who couldn't finish what he started a month ago, hurled 5-2-3 innings of scoreless relief Wednesday night and picked up his fourth victory in nine days as the first place Tigers flattened Cleveland 3-0.

The swift southpaw scattered three hits and struck out five in his longest relief stint since Smith sent him to the bullpen in late July. He has defeated Cleveland and Boston twice and each for an 11-7 season mark and has not given up a run in 15 innings, beginning Aug. 6.

In beating the Indians for the sixth time in seven games over a nine-day stretch, the Tigers regained a seven-game lead over the second place Baltimore Orioles, who bowed to Oakland 4-1.

Elsewhere, Washington topped Minnesota on two homers by Frank Howard; Boston split a day-night doubleheader with Chicago, winning the second game 7-5 on Ken Harrelson's slugging after losing 5-3 in the afternoon, and New York whipped California 5-2.

In the National League, St. Louis downed Chicago 3-1, San Francisco nipped Pittsburgh 2-1 in 10 innings, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 7-4, New York subdued Los Angeles 4-1 and Philadelphia shaded Houston 4-3.

Lolich replaced Joe Sparma in the fourth inning at Cleveland with the Tigers leading 1-0 on Bill Freehan's 18th homer. He stranded two runners and then stymied the Indians until the eighth, when a double play and center fielder Mickey Stanley's running, one-hand grab of a drive by Vern Fuller saved him from a possible knockout.

"I started walking to the dug-out," Lolich said. "When I looked up Stanley was still going back and the ball hadn't come down yet. I started to worry and kept right on walking, because if it's over the fence I'm out of the game anyway...and I might as well watch from the bench."

Freehan connected against Cleveland ace Luis Tiant, 18-8, in the second and the Tigers added two runs in the sixth on Al Kaline's double, Gates Brown's single and a triple by Norm Cash.

Reggie Jackson smacked his 21st homer—a two-run sixth inning shot — to power the Athletics past Baltimore.

Phillips Pleased With First Week

Coach Bud Phillips expressed pleasure as his Rose High School Phantoms wound up a week of conditioning drills last night.

The phantoms go into full heavy drills today. Workouts were scheduled at 8 a.m. and at 4 p.m. Phillips expected these two-a-day sessions to continue until the start of school Aug. 28.

The coach said, "Nearly everyone reported in fine physical condition and a lot has been accomplished during the week." Trophies for a back and lineman for reporting in the best condition are to be awarded later this week.

Between 90 and 100 candidates are trying out for slots on the varsity, junior varsity and ninth grade teams.

The Phantoms open the season Aug. 30 with a road trip to Bertie Co.

Grid Cards Grab Childs For Pro Kickoff Returns

By BEN OLAN
Returning kickoffs in the National Football League isn't child's play, so the St. Louis Cardinals went out and acquired Clarence Childs, once one of the best in this important department.

The trade that brought Childs from the New York Giants to the Cards was one among several in professional football Wednesday.

In other transaction, the Cards traded veteran linebacker Jerry Hillebrand to the Pittsburgh Steelers for a high 1969 draft choice and sent Sam Silas, a defensive lineman, to the Giants for a 1970 draft choice.

The New Orleans Saints traded linebacker Dave Simmons to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft choice, and dealt second-string quarterback Gary Wood back to the Giants for two undisclosed draft choices.

Childs, also a defensive back, was among the NFL's leading kickoff return artists until he lost his starting spot last season to rookie Willie Williams. Childs was among the top ten in his specialty during his first four years in the circuit, but slipped to 21st in 1967 with a 20.8 yard average for 29 returns.

Hillebrand, acquired by St. Louis from the Giants in 1967 for Bill Triplett, had been traded to the Minnesota Vikings earlier. However, the Vikings sent him back to St. Louis, apparently dissatisfied with a knee condition which limited Hillebrand's training.

Simmons, a four-year veteran, played in 11 games for the Saints last season. New Orleans obtained him from St. Louis in the Saints' expansion draft.

New Orleans' expansion draft also was a factor in the deal that sent quarterback Wood back to the Giants. The Saints had acquired him from New York in the 1967 expansion draft and, under NFL rules, a team cannot trade back a player to the club from which he was drafted.

So, the Saints placed Wood on waivers and then notified all other clubs that he was intended for New York. The Giants promptly grabbed him. Wood saw limited action for the Saints last year, serving behind Bill Kilmer and Guay Cuozzo. New Orleans obtained quarterback Karl Sweetan from Detroit Tuesday.

In another development, Gene Snipes, considered one of the Atlanta Falcons' top pass catching prospects when summer training started, was placed on waivers along with rookie receiver Jack Head and defensive back Floyd Hudlow. Snipes, the Falcons' sixth draft choice in 1967, was on the Falcons' taxi squad last year.

Pats Split 2 With Salem Rebels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Greensboro Patriots chalked up six runs in an extra inning Wednesday to split a Carolina League doubleheader with the first place Salem Rebels.

Salem took the opener 4-3 and went into the extra inning of the nightcap in a 2-2 tie. But the Patriots exploded with home runs by pitcher Scipio Spinks and Dave Grangard and two-run double by Enzo Hernandez to set up Greensboro for an 8-3 win.

The Winston-Salem Red Sox gave up six unearned runs as Raleigh-Durham walked away with a 6-0 shutout. Charlie Hudson emerged the victor as he scattered six hits while his team mates took advantage of three costly Sox errors.

In the only other league game Wednesday, the Lynchburg White Sox defeated High Point-Thomasville 4-3.

Wilson at Kinston, Rocky Mount at Portsmouth and Burlington at Peninsula were postponed by rain.

The rainouts will set up doubleheaders tonight with Burlington at Peninsula, Rocky Mount at Portsmouth and Wilson at Kinston. Other league action will find Raleigh-Durham at Winston-Salem, Greensboro at Salem and High Point-Thomasville at Lynchburg.

Gola To Coach LaSalle Cagemen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sixteen years ago as a player Tom Gola helped make little known LaSalle College a big name in the basketball world. Today, he's back to try and accomplish the same feat as his alma mater's head coach.

The 35-year-old Gola, three times an All-American as a collegian, and five times a member of the National Basketball Association All-Star team, has signed a four year contract to coach LaSalle basketball. He'll do that along with running his insurance and real estate business, golf driving range, and serving as a member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

The 6-foot-6 Gola, who played 11-years in the NBA with Philadelphia, San Francisco and New York before retiring, succeeds Jim Harding. Harding resigned to take the post of head coach of the Minnesota Pipers of the American Basketball Association.

As a freshman eligible for the varsity, Gola led LaSalle to the National Invitation Tournament title in 1952. Two years later he was the star of LaSalle's NCAA champions and starred as the Explorers finished runner-up the following year to San Francisco team on which Bill Russell starred.

when he won the U.S. Open, had a new-old weapon in his arsenal today when he set out in the first round of $250,000 Westchester Classic golf tournament.

It's a second-hand putter, a thick, battered looking piece of steel that is Lee's prize possession.

"It's just like the one I won the Open with," said the stocky, swarthy Mexican-American from the border country of El Paso, Tex. "Having this is like coming home again."

"The putter I had in the Open was cracked all around here," he said, running his finger around the steel near the blade. "I was afraid it was going to fall apart any time."

"Finally it did. Right after the Open. Just fell apart."

"In fact, I haven't used any of my Open clubs since then."

"I put 'em all in my trophy room and got a new set. That's the ones I've been using since. But I couldn't find a putter like the one I had. Just found this one last week," he said, and gave it a gentle pat.

"I don't know what it is," he said on the practice green, running in putt after putt. "I just seem to have a better stroke with this one."

It's interesting to note that he hasn't won since the Open. In seven tournaments, his best finishes have been a couple of ties for sixth and he missed the cut at the PGA championship.

So is he going to be a one-shot champion?

"I don't know, man," he said, that infectious grin spreading over his face. "I never know if I'm gonna win. But I'm gonna keep showing up."

He was resplendent—as opposed to the sloppy garb he wore in the Open—in white shirt, bright green pants and matching green and white golf shoes.

"What's this?" he was asked, "the Doug Sanders approach."

"Man, I'm coming up in the world," he said. "My wife can't stand it. She won't get out of bed until I'm dressed and gone. Says she can't stand the sight of me."

"Really coming up in the world, repeated Trevino, who's very conscious of his Mexican-American background.

"They're giving me a dinner up in Stamford, Conn. Got a big sign that says 'Welcome Home Lee Trevino.' In Stamford, Connecticut?"

He grinned and shrugged.

"They'll probably have spaghetti and meat balls. I hate it. But I'll eat it."

"Trevino," he said, raising and shaking his right hand with the fingertips touching in a typical Italian gesture, "Trevino, from the Old Country."

Pittsburgh Could Start Long Climb

By IRA MILLER
LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—A year ago, Coach Bill Austin of the Pittsburgh Steelers recalls, he didn't have an experienced offensive tackle on the squad.

Today, five players are fighting for the jobs.

The same depth is evident at guard, and other positions—particularly on the line—and Austin, himself a former offensive lineman, figures this is one reason for the Steelers will start the long climb upward.

Pittsburgh, which has never won a championship in the National Football League, should be improved along the line, in the running department, and on defense.

But the Steelers still have an unproven quarterback and, because of that, may not do much better than last year's 1-9-1.

A back injury has thrown Dick Shiner out of the running and given the quarterback job to second-year man Kent Nix. Nix took over last year when an injury sidelined Bill Nelsen.

The strong Steeler defense will have to be at its peak to survive and if it does, it may have a genuine shot at the Century Division title.

Speedy Don Shy, with a year's experience behind him, and Earl Gros, recovered from a knee injury, should be better as the running backs. J. R. Wilburn, presently sidelined with a hand injury, and Roy Jefferson give the Steelers two deep receiving threats.

But there are plenty of tackles and guards, perhaps even enough to trade for the other quick back Austin wants or the kicker he desperately needs.

Mike Taylor and Ernie Ruole, the top two draft selections, are pressing veteran tackles Mike Haggerty, Fran O'Brien and John Brown for jobs. At guard, Bruce Van Dyke, Sammy Davis and Larry Gagner all are veterans.

John Hilton and Chet Anderson both return at tight end while Dick Compton gives another wide threat. Dick Hoak, Bill Asbury and Jim Butler are veteran running backs and rookies Rocky Bleier and Byron McCane are pushing them.

The kicking game needs definite improvement with Bill Shockley, trying to replace place-kicker Mike Clark, who was traded to Dallas after threatening to quit.

Defensively, the Steelers are strong as usual.

The front four are Lloyd Voss, Ken Kortas, Chuck Hinton and Ben McGee, and all are five-year veterans. Jerry Mazzanti and Dick Arndt are the No. 3 men at end and tackle, respectively.

John Campbell, Bill Saul and Bill Russell are the regular linebackers. Wednesday the Steelers picked up veteran linebacker Jerry Hillebrand from the St. Louis Cardinals for a high 1969 draft choice.

WEATHERED STABLE . . . set a scene from yesteryear. In the middle of a corn field, it recalls

FROM THE MIDDLE . . . one of the stable doors remains. A rusty chain hangs in the doorway.

KITCHEN WARE . . . a pot hangs on a smoke house, while an egg basket rests beneath.

Nature Claims Its Own

The sun sifts through the cracks in the weather beaten door, as it sways in the breeze.

The wind teases a blackened pot, which hangs on a rusty nail on a gray wall. The pot clangs as it strikes the old boards, rendering a sound which had once meant busy activity in a rural kitchen. Now the old stove which had once perhaps heated the pot, sits among the weeds, a blanket of rust slowly eating it away.

The weeds and vines envelope a broken wheel barrow. Some time in the past, strong and muscular arms had pushed it about, carrying on the day's work.

A useless hinge hangs awkwardly from a post. A gentle push and it creaks in protest of the disturbance.

The tin on a roof has been peeled back like a giant sardine can. Underneath the wood shingles of long ago are revealed.

Nature ultimately claims all that it gives and this Pitt County farm scene, abandoned by humans, slowly crumbles away. Some day it will be earth-covered again. There will be no sign of these things which once meant humans were making life here for themselves.

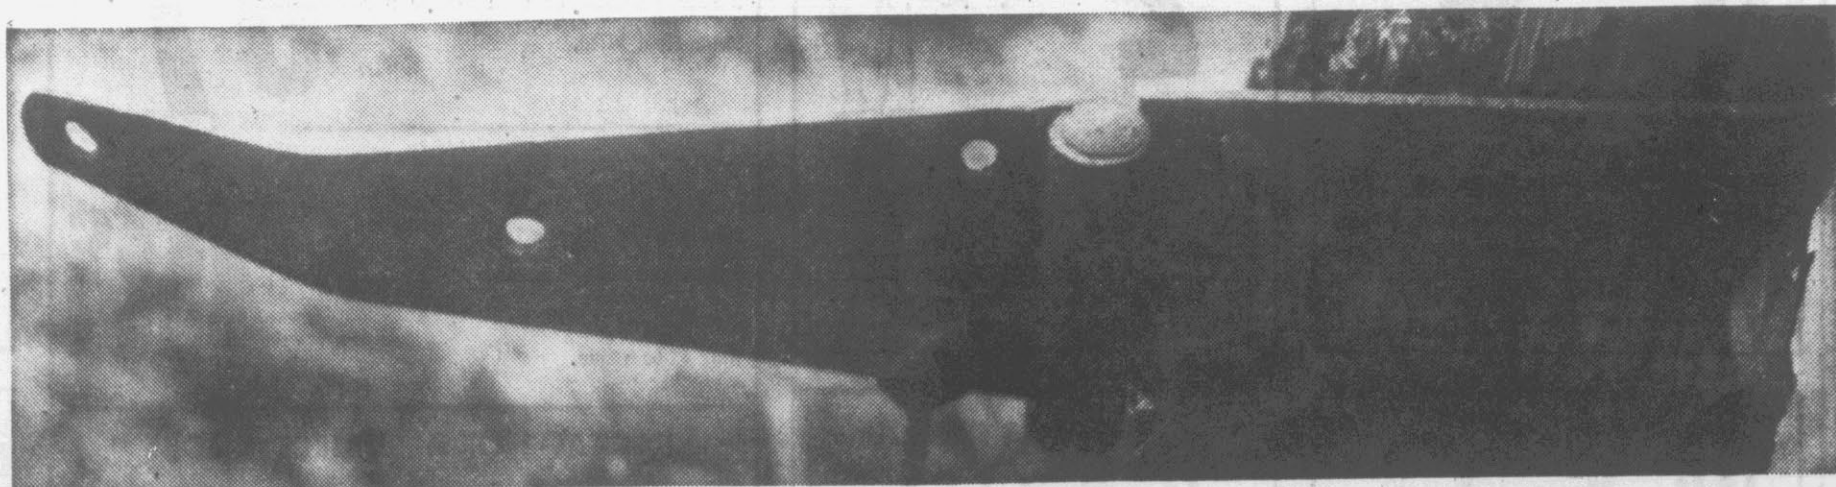

Reflector Photos by Tommy Forrest

WOOD STOVE . . . partially covered by a shed, this old stove was locally made. Now its parts are stuffed in the top.

WHEEL BARROW . . . abandoned beside a shelter. A covering of weeds entangles its wheels and supports, as if it were being choked to death by nature.

LONE HINGE . . . this hinge on a fence post once supported a gate that led into a barnyard. Now only the post and hinge remain.

DESTRUCTION OF NATURE . . . wind peeled back the tin roof to reveal wooden shingles underneath.

Recent Czech Films Reflect Liberal Trends

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Recent Czechoslovak movies seen in the United States reflect the liberalization of the Prague Communist regime which has angered the Soviet Union and much of its European bloc.

The films, increasingly popular here, have contained a high degree of innovation and have tended to stress irony and humor in their handling of contemporary problems of everyday life.

They frequently have poked fun at the Communist party line and have played more on the frustrations brought about by Red policy rather than on its "accomplishments."

This is a far cry from the "socialist realism"—the idealization of life in Communist lands—which is the official dogma of the Kremlin.

Prime example of the "new" type of Czech film was "Closely Watched Trains," which won an Academy Award as best foreign language film last year. The tragicomedy tells a story of a young boy's sexual coming of age and takes place at a small railroad station during World War II.

Earlier this year, the magazine Soviet Culture, organ of the Soviet Ministry of Culture, singled out "Closely Watched Trains" as an example of a "negative" approach to communism. It called the movie a "retreat from the traditions of realism" and said it "ignored the people's values."

The film was written and directed by 31-year-old Jiri Menzel, who also plays a role in the movie.

The year before, American audiences took to "The Shop on Main Street," which became the first East European film to win an Oscar. It is about the friendship between an old Jewish woman shopkeeper and an "Aryan" Czech assigned to take over her business during the Nazi occupation.

It has grossed more than $3 million in the U.S. market—adding a realistic reason to the political one that has kept the Czech government from any movie pre-censorship.

It was codirected by Jan Kadar and Elmar Klos, two highly respected filmmakers in the state-run industry.

In an Associated Press interview after accepting the Oscar for that film, Klos was asked what was behind the burgeoning Czech film industry of the past few years.

"It is because of the new cultural atmosphere that began about four years ago," he said then. "Since that time, 20 new, talented directors have graduated from the (film) academy and they are doing exciting things."

Kadar added: "Our country always has been superior in cartoons and puppet films. The freedoms we have enjoyed in the past few years has allowed us to catch up in other kinds of films. We have no supervision in the making of movies. There may be controversy after the film is made, but we have the freedom to make it."

Writing For Natl. Journal

James L. Whitfield, Raleigh newsman who serves on the East Carolina University Board of Trustees, is writing an article for an upcoming issue of a national educational journal.

He was asked by the director of the Education Commission of the States to do an article for the October issue of Compact. The Whitfield article will discuss technology in the public schools.

The ECU trustee is North Carolina's representative to the commission and attended the annual meeting of the organization in Denver this past June.

Whitfield is an ECU alumnus and has served for a number of years on the university's board of trustees. He is state editor of the Raleigh News and Observer.

Yogi Criticized By Communist

NEW DELHI (AP) — Maharishi Mahesh Yogi's transcendental meditation is a "debauchery of science," according to a top Communist here.

S. A. Dange, leader of the pro-Moscow Communists in Parliament, said of the Beatles' former mentor that what the Yogi is promising is "cheap instant liberation, like instant coffee."

Russia is the largest producer of sugar beets. The United States, France and Poland are runners up in that order.

Crash Of Helicopter Claims Twenty-One Lives

COMPTON, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-one persons — many of them looking forward to a Disneyland visit — were killed Wednesday in a helicopter crash similar to one that took 23 lives in this area last May.

Among the passengers were a recently retired grandfather, his wife, daughter and 8-year-old granddaughter, the 14-year-old grandson of the airline's president and three Denver businessmen.

The Los Angeles Airway helicopter broke apart and crashed in flames in an empty section of playground on a flight from Los Angeles International Airport to Disneyland.

It was the second worst commercial helicopter disaster in the United States. The worst, the crash of another twin-turbine Sikorsky S61L helicopter owned by the Los Angeles firm, occurred at nearby Paramount in May, killing 23.

The company suspended all flights. Witnesses told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw a tail rotor fly off, as preceded the May tragedy.

FAA experts began gathering the strewn wreckage to see if a reason for the crash could be determined. Cause of the May 22 disaster still remains a mystery.

Aboard the craft that crashed Wednesday were a crew of three men and 18 passengers.

The dead included Christopher Belinn, 14, grandson of Clarence Belinn, president of the helicopter line; John P. Meehan, 65, his wife, Helen, 63, and their granddaughter Anne, 8, of San Rafael, Calif., and businessmen Kenneth J. Atwell, Baker, 44, off of Denver. Mee-han retired two weeks ago as a takeoff in a Paramount dairy

San Francisco police captain. The crew was identified as Capt. Kenneth L. Waggoner, 33, of Costa Mesa, Calif., the pilot; Frederick Fracker of Redondo Beach, Calif., co-pilot; and James A. Black, Wilmington, Calif., flight attendant.

Witnesses said they heard a "thump, thump, thump" as the helicopter fell earthward. Others described a loud "popping noise" followed by a rapid plunge and an explosion on impact.

The helicopter took off at 10:25 a.m. and was due at the Disneyland heliport at 10:41 a.m. It slammed to earth 12 minutes after takeoff while 30 children played about 200 feet away. No one on the ground was injured.

In the May tragedy, the cop-ter went down 11 minutes after

County supervisor, demanded that the FBI be called in. Similarities between Wednesday's crash and the May disaster, he said, suggested "this could be a man-made accident as well as or instead of mechanical failure."

Just before the helicopter hit the ground, said Carl Shaw, 14, of Compton, Calif., he heard the pilot scream "hell-I-I... hell-I-I!"

There was no other human sound from the craft, he said.

Steven Fuss of Hollywood, who was working nearby, said he saw the tail rotor fall off "as if it were sheared from the shaft."

"It then went straight out," said Fuss. "Then the copter rolled back end over end toward the tail, made two loops. Thirty seconds later it hit the ground."

Witnesses fought the spreading flames with small extinguishers as the fire streaked along the full length of the fuselage.

Jonathan Dollar, 48, said the pilot tried to the end to keep the copter airborne. "God bless that man," he said.

John Sears, 22, of Pico Rivera, said the craft "seemed to hesitate and its main rotor blade stopped for a second. Then it began a slow spin and turned all the way around once clockwise."

He said the tail section "was hanging by some cables or tubes and then it just broke off."

The National Transportation Safety Board, which investigates air disasters, sent a team from Washington and ordered recorded conversations between the pilot and the office impounded.

John Hilton, manager of the FAA area office in Los Angeles, said investigators theorize the May crash was caused by the failure of the automatic control system.

Such a malfunction could cause a sharp change in the "attitude" of the craft's flight and, when the pilot attempts to correct it, the rotor blades are thrown out of phase, he said.

This could cause a blade to snap off, slicing the rear rotor assembly, he said.

Los Angeles Airways operates 118 daily flights in the Los Angeles area. It began as a mail service in 1947 and started passenger shuttles in 1952. It carried 404,000 passengers last year.

The May crash was the company's first.

The helicopter line voluntarily grounded its five remaining aircraft after the May tragedy but resumed service a day later.

Orphans Learn Friday If Can Stay Together

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — The 10 Morris orphans will find out Friday if their wish to remain together in Madera as a family will be granted.

The children, who have received 100 offers of adoption and contributions of $50,000 from throughout the world, will be given a permanent guardian then by Madera County Superior Court Judge Jack Hammerberg. On Tuesday, he declared them wards of the court.

They were orphaned July 2 when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Morris, were killed in a head-on auto crash on U.S. 99 near Fresno. He was a $480-a-month manager of a chain shoe store and she cooked in a convent for $20 a week.

"Don't let them separate us, don't let us be taken apart," Kathy, the eldest at 17, pleaded when informed of the crash.

"Why is everyone so shook up?" Linda, 15, asked later. "God gave us a wonderful mother and father. What makes them think He has forgotten us now."

An uncle, Eugene Lachawicz of Fresno, filed a $500,000 suit Wednesday on behalf of the children, naming the driver of the other car, Clifford Salmon of Porterville, Calif., as principal defendant.

Since the accident the children—six girls and four boys ranging in age from 3 to 17—have been cared for by their maternal grandparents, with the help of a priest.

The grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Boris Lachawicz, in their

Two Appointed Bryan Scholars

MT. OLIVE — James Wooten of Farmville and Nigle Bruce Barrow Jr. of Snow Hill are two of 21 students who have received appointments as Bryan Scholars at Mount Olive College for the 1968-69 school year. The announcement was made by Dr. Raymond P. Carson, Dean of the College, who will serve as adviser in directing and encouraging the scholars.

Wooten and Barrow, freshmen, were selected by a faculty committee in recognition of their academic potential, leadership ability, character and personality. Sophomores at the school are selected on the basis of their first-year records and activities at Mount Olive.

The James E. and Mary Zealy Bryan Foundation finances the Scholars program. Scholarships are awarded to some students while others hold honorary positions. Bryan Scholars take a special one-hour seminar in a subject of their choosing and they meet periodically for discussions.

Wooten is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie James Wooten of Farmville and Barrow is the son of Rev. and Mrs. N.B. Barrow of Snow Hill.

Duvalier Pardons His Son-In-Law

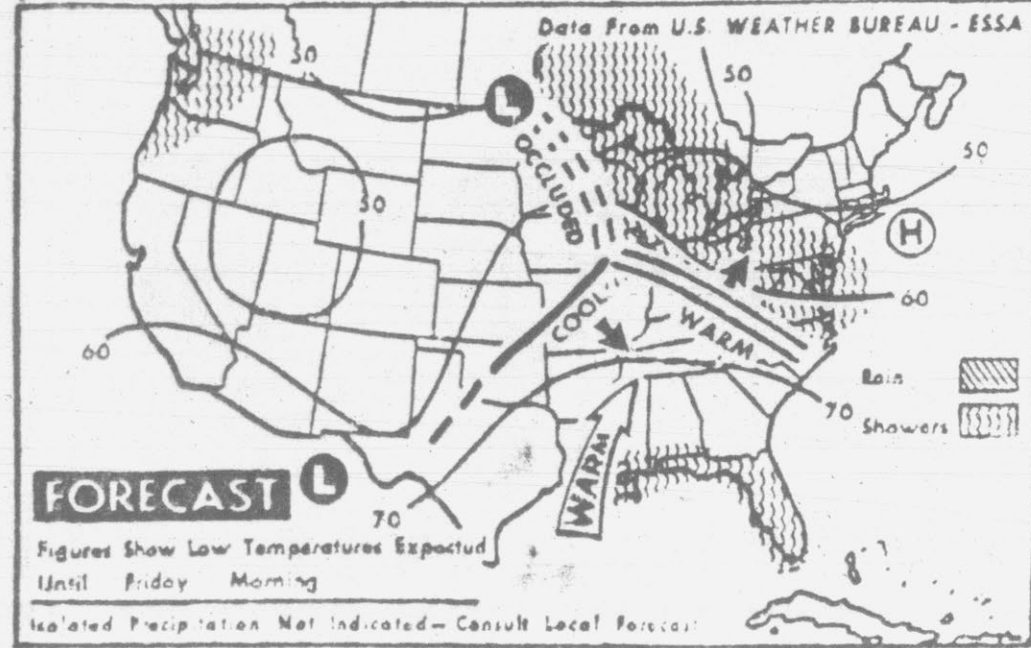

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Francois Duvalier has pardoned his son-in-law, Col. Max Dominique, who was sentenced to death last year after the president accused him of plotting against the Duvalier regime.

Informed sources said Wednesday Dominique now would be welcome to return from exile in Europe. Duvalier sent his daughter, Marie-Denise, and Dominique away in June 1967 after a purge in which 19 military officers, several of them friends of Dominique, were executed. The death sentence for Dominique was decreed in absentia in September.

More Britons Leave Red China

HONG KONG (AP) — Two more members of the British mission in Peking arrived in Hong Kong today, the sixth and seventh to leave Red China this week.

Michael Gallagher, a junior attaché, and Noeleen Smyth, a nurse, crossed into the British colony one day after the arrival of Sir Donald Hopson, Britain's charge d'affaires in Peking for three years, who had been waiting months for an exit visa.

WEATHER FORECAST — There will be showers and in the Pacific Northwest. It will be cooler Thursday night in the Great Lakes region, through the Ohio Valley, along the Gulf Coast and in the Northeast and warmer from the northern Plains to the Great Lakes. (AP Wirephoto Map)

New Effort To Get Britain In Common Mart

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — A new effort is planned for this fall to get Britain and four other countries in the north of Europe closer to membership in the Common Market, despite the opposition of France's President Charles de Gaulle.

De Gaulle has kept Britain out for over five years, but others still hope new ways of cooperation can be found.

The most important is expected to be in the application of science to industry. This is a field where the continental countries are falling far behind the United States, and where Britain has much to offer.

In the building of computers and nuclear power reactors, for example, Britain's advantages are considerable. New emphasis will be put on nuclear experiments and on the coal and steel industries, areas in which Britain is already associated with the Common Market countries.

The British have played down these association agreements in the recent past. They did not want them extended to all fields of Common Market activity because they were afraid of being classed permanently as associate or second class citizens.

Now the British Government has reconciled itself to the idea that it is unlikely to become a full member of the Common Market while De Gaulle holds power. So it is looking for progress through practical measures which it hopes will bring membership closer when negotiations can actually start.

French economic troubles have pulled the rug from under one argument used against Britain's joining the common market. French officials used to say that Britain could not be a member until she brought her international accounts into balance. Britain may now be closer to balance than is France.

Present Common Market members, besides France, are West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The last five all want Britain to join, though enthusiasm varies. Ireland, Denmark, Norway and, with some reservations, Sweden, are also eager for membership. Their chances depend on Britain's.

Royal Heir On Industrial Tour

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles has joined the millions of college students who are using summer vacation to get extra education.

The royal heir apparent has started a series of visits to industrial plants under a program organized by the Ministry of Technology, to view British efforts to conquer the deficit of foreign payments by upgrading manufacturing facilities in the country.

His first visit, accompanied by his father, the Duke of Edinburgh, was to the plant of Molins Machine Company Ltd., a mile from the Tower of London, where he saw working models and installation progress of the "most modern facility in the world for making precision parts."

The Molins organization, which produces cigarette manufacturing equipment—including the machine which makes the "flip-top box"—has developed a computer-controlled system which produces with seven machines and 48 people the output of 300 conventional machine tools manned by 363 persons.

Museum Set For Famed Hunter

NEW DELHI (AP) — A museum will be set up in honor of the last wildlife enthusiast, Jim Corbett, in the house where he lived.

The Uttar Pradesh government decided to acquire the house at Haldwani, in the Kumaon hills of the Himalayas, 400 miles northeast of Delhi, where Corbett lived.

The government has begun a worldwide search for souvenirs, letters and other items connected with the world-famed hunter.

Ask For Help On Noisy Students

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — East Pakistan authorities have sought the help of Indian Border security forces, according to official sources here.

They said the district magistrate of Sylhet district has asked the BSF to quiet noisy students of a school in Kailashahar on the Indian side of the border.

The Worry Clinic

Average Housewife Is A Normal Personality

Betty was sincere in her belief that many normal wives are organically more passionate than men. And the Kinsey Report has aided the dissemination of this female fallacy. But it just isn't so! Scrappbook this case and send for the sex booklet below. It gives the sexual autobiographies of discerning wives.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE G-552: Betty B., aged 32, is a housewife.

She was in the "live" audience at Baltimore when I was a recent guest on the one-hour "Contact" television show.

After the show was over and we were off the air, Betty came up to shake hands and argue a point.

Several other wives joined her.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "two of the women who telephoned their questions tonight, said their husbands far exceeded them in sexual desire."

"Well, what about wives who are more ardent than their mates?"

"You told those women who had telephoned their queries, that the average wife is much less passionate than her husband."

"I think you are mistaken, for I am much more passionate than my husband is."

The average or "typical" wife is a normal personality, not goaded by secret sexual inferiority complexes.

And this normal wife is relatively frigid as measured by the typical masculine viewpoint.

Even if fear of pregnancy were eliminated, she is still not as eager for erotic indulgence as is the typical husband.

But there are thousands of ostensibly sex-mad women who are driven into an excessive claim of sexual hunger, just because they feel they are "not all there as a woman."

This subconscious fear can make them enter into clandestine affairs with dozens of men, yet they are still not organically or physiologically passionate, as per the male standard.

If such a woman has had a breast amputated or her womb removed or if she is crippled, or marred with burns or acid marks, or if she is unduly flat busted or full busted, or with excessive hair, or especially if she is sterile, then she may grow panicky.

Even without a surgical hysterectomy, the mere stoppage of her monthly cycle due to the fact she is approaching 45, may also drive her into a "swan song" period of unwise romancing.

But such women (often called nymphomaniacs), are actually not passionate in the erotic sense.

Instead, they are just cosmetically hungry for extra ego inflation to banish their underlying dread that they are not normal, attractive females!

Many such women will tearfully confess to us doctors that they feel "I'm not all there as a woman."

Sometimes, too, unduly jealous wives will affect an undue receptiveness to their husband's romantic advances, merely as marriage insurance.

But jealousy is usually based on a sexual inferiority complex, too, either real or imagined.

But males of the major species, such as stallions, bulls and mankind, are noted for being "harem minded" whereas the females do not try to maintain a masculine harem.

Men are physiologically created to be polygamous, whereas women were made to be monogamous so they would be mainly maternal creatures!

So send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Family Haunted By 'Red Ghost'

ALLAHABAD, India (AP) — A family in Bayarganj village, 3 miles from here, is haunted by a "red, flying ghost."

It started some months ago when a woman of the household "saw" a cooking pot rise from the oven, hover in the air for a few seconds, and disappear.

Then followed a series of incidents such as clothes "inside boxes," as well as those hanging on poles, catching fire.

Showers of stones fell on the house from time to time and cooking food turned into an inedible mess, according to the family.

Finally, the house burned. A boy in the family told United News of India that he saw "A giant, flaming red in color, flying around the house."

N.C. Bucks National Trend; Slight Decline In VD

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

North Carolina recorded a slight decrease during the past year in the number of venereal disease cases among teen-agers although the national rate is reaching epidemic proportions.

In the current issue of the magazine School Management, government statistics were quoted showing that some 300,000 teen-agers contacted gonorrhea in 1967, an incidence twice the average rate for all age groups.

However, Joe Ray Martin of the North Carolina Public Health Department said the number of gonorrhea cases within the state remained almost unchanged from the 3,808 in 1966 while syphilis among teen-agers declined from 207 cases in 1966 to 172 last year.

The magazine suggested that the public school system offers the best hope of curbing the spiraling disease rate with sex education programs which encourage candid, detailed discussions with no restrictions on questions posed or answered.

Martin said education would play a vital part in assisting the campaign against venereal disease but "this isn't the entire answer by any means."

Martin said North Carolina's public health and education departments have backed sex education in public schools for sometime.

"The emphasis," he said, "should be placed on instructing youngsters who do contract venereal disease to see a doctor immediately."

The public health official said he believed that by treatment and by tracing the pattern of infection from one individual to another, syphilis eventually may be brought under control.

He said the interview with the infected person to discover the original source of the disease and any other individuals who may have been exposed is now the best method of controlling the problem.

Gonorrhea offers a far more complexing problem, Martin said.

"I am afraid this disease will be with us for a long, long time until medical researchers find better methods of diagnoses and treatment."

Venereal disease discussions in the public schools, Martin said, must include the fact that many females may have gonorrhea with little or no symptoms.

"They are in fact," he said, "carriers of the disease."

Also, Martin said, education within the schools "fails to reach those who are dropouts and it is in this category where rests a big portion of the venereal disease problem among teen-agers."

Braxton Chosen For Conference

Ronnie Braxton, a science education major at East Carolina University, has been chosen by the Church League of America to attend the 3rd World Conference of the International Christian Youth.

Braxton, the only eastern North Carolinian chosen, will attend the August 14-25 meeting in Cape May, N. J.

Members of the conference, which has world-wide participation, will discuss communism on the world level and freedom of religion on the national level.

Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina is one of the principal speakers at the meeting.

Braxton, a ECU junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kerby Braxton, Rt. 1, Vanceboro.

Col. Speed Will Address Session

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C. (AP)—Col. Charles Speed, commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, will address the State Motor Carriers Association's Council of Safety and Personnel Supervisors at Wrightsville Beach Saturday.

The council will open a three-day conference with a business session Friday.

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 2NT Pass
3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Three of ♦

West opened his fourth best diamond against South's three no trump contract and East put up the king which drove out declarer's ace. A club was led and, when West followed with the eight, the king was played from dummy.

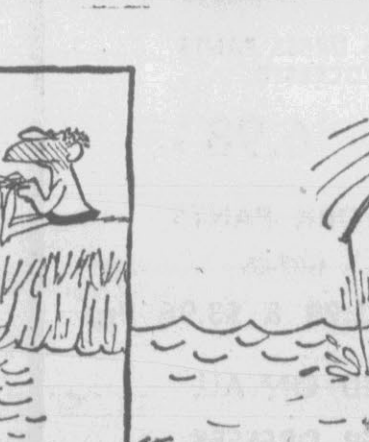

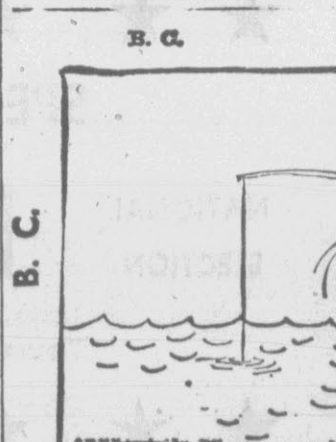

The closed hand was reentered with the king of spades in order to play another club. It was declarer's intention to make a safety play in the suit by permitting the opponents to win the second trick as cheaply as possible. This protects against West's having four clubs for, if East shows out, declarer is able to run the balance of the suit by finessing dummy's jack on the next round, and then dropping West's queen under the ace.

When the second club was led, West anticipated his opponent very neatly by following suit with the queen. It now appeared to South that the safety play was unnecessary, inasmuch as the clubs were behaving so well. He accordingly covered the queen with North's ace. When East showed out a moment later, South regretted the greedy impulse that had induced him to alter his original plan.

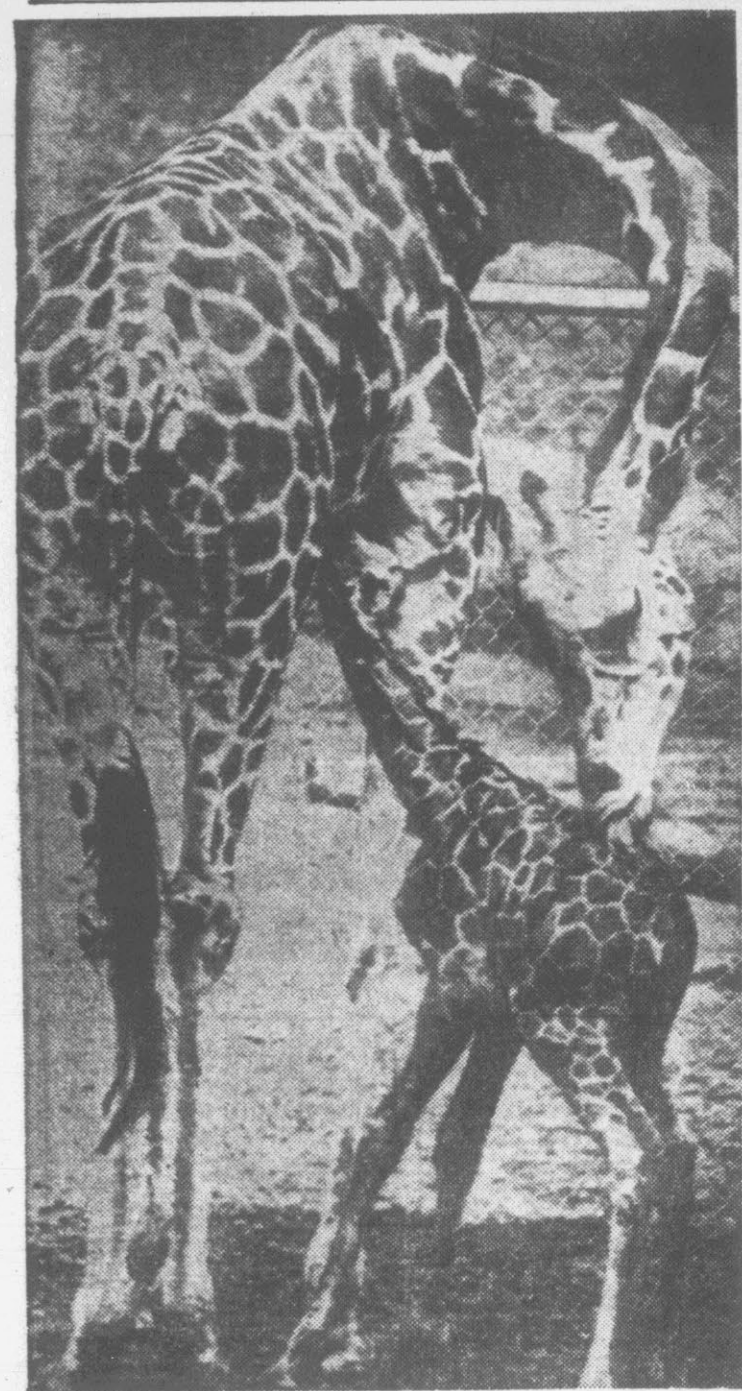

With no side entry to the dummy, declarer found that he was limited to three club tricks, and he subsequently fell one short of his goal. If he sticks to his original campaign, he can take four clubs, two diamonds, one heart, and two spades for nine tricks.

Perhaps the best strategy is to lead a small club from the dummy at trick two. Inasmuch as declarer intends to duck the second club, there is no need to enter his hand to make the play, and temptation can thereby be avoided completely. When East shows out, West wins a cheap trick; however, there is no damaging return that he can make—and when South regains the lead, he picks up the remaining clubs by taking the delayed finesse against West's queen.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets large and mediums stronger, small unchanged Wednesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 47 to 48; medium, whites: 39½ to 41; small, whites: 28½ to 31.

RALEIGH (NCDA) — (AP) — North Carolina hog markets today were steady to 25 higher, mostly 25 higher. Tops of 19.50-20.00 Rocky Mount, Bethel; 19.25-20.00 Wilson; 19.00-20.00 Tarboro; 20.50 Salisbury; 19.75 Greensboro; 19.00 Siler City, Denton.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a modest gain in active trading this afternoon.

The averages had slipped and the margin of advances among individual stocks over declines had narrowed after a first-hour spurt.

But the market still held some of the momentum that carried it to advances Monday and Tuesday. Securities exchanges were closed Wednesday.

More than 6 million shares changed hands in the first two hours.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 300 issues.

Brokers said the Commerce Department report that personal income advanced to a record annual rate in July should be helpful to the market.

The Dow Jones average at noon was off 0.72 at 883.96 after having been up 1.75 an hour earlier.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock average had gained .6 to 330.9 with industrials off .1, rails up .9 and utilities up .4.

A number of large blocks crossed the ticker tape, among them 26,000 shares of Fairchild Camera and 25,000 shares of Diana Stores. Both issues were up more than a point.

Mail order-retails, aircrafts and tobaccos were mostly higher. Rubbers, farm implements, airlines and drugs were generally lower.

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

French Prepare H-Bomb Test

PARIS (AP) — The French probably will test their first hydrogen bomb this weekend at Mururoa, in the South Pacific, Agence France Press reported today in a dispatch from Tahiti.

Tahiti Radio has been warning ships and airplanes to stay away from the area starting Saturday, but favorable winds will be needed for the test, the agency said.

slab of Georgia sandstone has led two scientists to conclude that a tribe of early American Indians may have descended from a civilization which flourished in the Mediterranean about 1300 B. C.

The rock, engraved with ancient script, was discovered on the Ft. Benning Military reservation near Columbus about two years ago.

The conclusion was announced Wednesday by Joseph B. Mahan Jr., curator and director of educational research at the Columbus Museum of Arts and Crafts, and Dr. Cyrus H. Gordon of Brandeis University,

Ethiopia Asks Cease-Fire In Nigerian War

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie has called on Nigeria's chief of state, Gen. Yakubu Gowon, to declare a cease-fire while peace talks with rebel Biafra are going on in the Ethiopian capital, diplomatic sources said today.

Selassie also invited Gowon and Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, Biafra's chief of state, to come to Addis Ababa for a face-to-face session next Monday, the informants said. Ojukwu announced last week that Biafra would observe a truce during the talks.

The emperor made his proposals as Nigerian troops were reported advancing in a pincers movement toward Aba, the temporary Biafran capital.

The informants said Selassie also asked the other members of the consultative committee on Nigeria of the Organization of African Unity to come here for the meeting Monday. They are the heads of state of Niger, Ghana, Liberia and Congo-Kinshasa.

The moves by the emperor, who is chairman of the OAU committee sponsoring the talks, came as the deadlocked parley entered its 11th day with no sign of progress toward an end to the war.

Japanese Mark Surrender Day

TOKYO (AP) — Japan today observed the 23rd anniversary of its surrender in World War II with a national memorial service for the 3 million Japanese killed in the war.

The service, held in Tokyo's Martial Arts Hall, was attended by Emperor Hirohito, Empress Nagako, Premier Eisaku Sato and 4,000 other leading citizens.

Quality Improves On Border Belt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The quality of offerings showed some improvement Wednesday as average prices were steady to lower at flue-cured tobacco markets on the South Carolina - Border North Carolina Belt.

The Federal - State Market News Service reported primings and nondescript grades declined $1 to $3 per hundred pounds as leaf sales predominated in continued heavy trading.

Gross sales Tuesday were 10,020,830 pounds at an average of $68.83 a hundred, which represented a $1.09 decline from Monday's season high.

Stabilization Corp. receipts totaled 13.6 per cent of gross sales.
