

Bombing Of North Vietnam Halted: LBJ

TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three years and nine months after it started the bombing of North Vietnam, President Johnson has ordered an end to all attacks against that country in the hope this will "lead to progress" in ending the war in Southeast Asia.

Announcing his decision Thursday night, Johnson said he acted with the full support of his military chiefs and diplomatic officials, with the agreement of South Vietnam, and upon "confirmation" from North Vietnam of "the essential understanding" of U.S. terms for his action. The Johnson order injected a dramatic new element into the presidential election contest less than a week before the voters go to the polls. Political observers said it could give a lift to Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign, although it might have come too late to make much difference in voter opinion. Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon, third party candidate George C. Wallace, and Humphrey all said after Johnson's television-radio broadcast they "hoped the step would mean progress in the Paris peace talks. Johnson had notified all of them of his decision about 6 p.m., two hours before he went on the air. Johnson himself, obviously aware of speculation that he might time a bombing halt to help Humphrey, declared that the action was "determined by responses from North Vietnam to his terms. He said these began developing Sunday night and continued through Monday. A round of consultations within the government and with South Vietnam followed, and he made the final decision to order that "all air, naval, and artillery bombardment of North Vietnam cease as of 8:00 a.m., Washington time, Friday morning."

Johnson warned that his arrangements with North Vietnam are not foolproof and he held open by implication the possibility the bombing would be resumed if the North Vietnamese went on the offensive. "We could be misled—and we are prepared for such a contingency," he said. "We pray to God it does not occur." Johnson started the bombing of North Vietnam Feb. 7, 1965. At the heart of the deal he made to bring it to an end is an agreement that the Paris peace talks will enter a new phase next Wednesday. At that time representatives of both the South Vietnamese government and its enemy, the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, take their places at the negotiating table.

The President did not say specifically why he thought the North Vietnamese had finally decided to make terms on ending the bombing, but he suggested that they might have acted because they no longer saw a chance of victory in South Vietnam. He said the Saigon government had "grown steadily stronger" that South Vietnam's army was increased to a million men, and that U.S. troops under Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, Jr., and his predecessor, Gen. William C. Westmoreland have "produced truly remarkable results." Serious negotiations on the bombing issue began during the second week in October after the North Vietnamese in Paris began to ask direct and obviously interested questions about what Johnson had in mind. On at least two occasions—about Oct. 16 and again last week—there were worldwide expectations that a bombing halt was only hours away. They did not develop. Officials now say hard bargaining with Hanoi was then under way.

Claims Shaky Accord With Hanoi Over Talks

No Let-Up Over South Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American air, naval and artillery bombardment of all of North Vietnam ended tonight on President Johnson's orders, the U.S. Command announced, but it said there would be no let-up in operations in South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong also showed no sign of de-escalation in the South. In the 12 hours before President Johnson's broadcast announcing the bombing halt, an enemy mine blew holes in a U.S. Navy LST and killed 16 American sailors and a South Vietnamese, rocket attacks killed 33 Vietnamese civilians in Saigon and Hue, and 69 North Vietnamese and 12 Americans were killed in fighting north of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

American warplanes continued raids on North Vietnam's southern panhandle today but were ordered to quit the skies north of the demilitarized zone before 9 p.m., or 8 a.m. EST, the hour Hanoi set for all attacks on North Vietnam to be halted.

The U.S. Command said operational reports on the final raids would not be available until Saturday.

Adm. John S. McCain Jr., commander of American forces in the Pacific, announced from his Honolulu headquarters 12 hours before the deadline: "As a result of instructions received from the President, orders have been issued halting all bombing in North Vietnam effective 9 p.m., November 1, Saigon time. Pacific Command forces are now in the process of carrying out these instructions. Every member of this command will act in consonance with the President's orders and his desires to seek peaceful solutions to the war in Vietnam."

A spokesman for the U.S. Command in Saigon said all American troops that have been operating in the southern half of the demilitarized zone were pulled back into South Vietnam about a week ago. Four hours before the President's broadcast, explosions tore open the side of the 384-foot LST Westchester County as she swung at anchor in the My Tho River 34 miles southwest of Saigon. The blasts ripped into the landing craft's sleeping compartment, killing or wounding most of the men as they slept. Other sailors were killed at their watch stations.

In addition to the 17 known dead, 22 Americans were wounded, and seven Americans and one Vietnamese army interpreter were missing. Some of the latter were believed trapped in two compartments that were flooded. "It is almost definite that the damage was caused by an underwater explosive device," said Capt. Robert S. Salzer of Falls Church Va., commander of Navy forces with the Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force. A Navy spokesman said the LST suffered major damage but was reported in no danger of sinking. Little more than two hours before President Johnson's broadcast, Viet Cong gunners slammed a 100-pound rocket into a small Roman Catholic Church in the Saigon dock area, killed 20 worshippers and wounded 64. The big Russian missile sent large chunks of the walls and roof into the congregation as early Mass was nearing its end. Firing from the southern outskirts of Saigon, the Viet Cong shelled the capital three times Thursday night and this morning, presumably as a gesture of contempt for South Vietnam's National Day observance today.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An American newspaper editor who served as go-between for the Hanoi and Washington governments in seeking a halt to the Vietnam war reported today President Johnson made an agreement with North Vietnam before halting the bombing. William C. Baggs, editor of the Miami News and twice a wartime visitor to Hanoi, said "one Hanoi leader informed the U.S. government through private sources that a cease-fire, a de-escalation of the war, a coalition government in the south (elected), the prompt exchange of prisoners, and any other issues could be negotiated after the cessation of bombing." The newspaper also said President Johnson has agreed to talk with the Hanoi government about inclusion of the National Liberation Front—the Viet Cong—in a coalition South Vietnam government. The report, copyrighted by The Miami News, appeared as the lead story in the first edition of the newspaper. Baggs said his sources include "one person involved in the Paris talks."

He quoted that source as saying: "It is fair to say that a deal has already been made. It is a shaky deal. And it could blow up. But the essential agreements for a conference to bring peace to Vietnam have been made." Baggs was on his second visit to North Vietnam on March 31 when Johnson made his March 31 speech that laid the groundwork for the Paris talks. On April 5 Baggs and his companion, Harry Ashmore, chairman of the executive committee of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, carried out of Hanoi an aide memoire setting down the conditions for talks, including "cessation of U.S. bombing raids and all other acts of war."

Mrs. Dorothy C. Manning charged with the September 15 pistol slaying of Glenn Colville, Route 1, Greenville, was found not guilty in Pitt County Superior Court Wednesday. The jury verdict of "not guilty" came after Superior Court Judge Harry E. Canaday allowed defense motions of non suit to the charges of second degree murder and voluntary manslaughter. Mrs. Manning had been charged with first degree murder after Colville was found shot to death in her trailer home at West End Circle. However, Solicitor Luther Hamilton told the court that he would not seek a first degree murder conviction but would try Mrs. Manning for second degree murder or manslaughter, which ever the evidence would support. The shooting of Colville, according to testimony, followed an argument in Mrs. Manning's trailer home. Colville was allegedly scuffling with Mrs. Manning prior to the 9:45 p.m. incident.

HONG KONG (AP)—Radio Hanoi declared Friday night that the "fight against the Americans will continue until the last one is driven from our land" — but maintained silence on President Johnson's announcement of a complete bombing halt. "Peace will come to Vietnam only when there is not a single U.S. aggressor remaining in all our nation," the official North Vietnamese radio said in a Vietnamese-language broadcast beamed to South Vietnam. The broadcast came as Radio Hanoi passed the 12-hour mark without making direct mention of President Johnson's announcement.

The funds received during the past week boosted the total payment made to Ayden to $20,851, while Farmville received $6,558. Greenville's total payment amounted to $89,565, while a total of $1,271 was paid to Fountain. It was announced earlier that Winterville received an additional payment of $1,368, making the total paid to Winterville of $6,400.54. The State CD Agency payments were made to reimburse the towns for emergency repairs to city property, including power lines, damaged during the storm. A total of $124,645.54 has been paid to the five towns by the CD Agency.

Additional Funds To 4 Pitt Towns

Four towns in Pitt County have received an additional $28,404.71 from the North Carolina Civil Defense Agency in payment for damages caused by the severe ice storm that hit Pitt County in January.

The towns and the amount received are: Ayden, $3,693.67; Farmville, $2,033.29; Fountain, $286.75; and Greenville, $22,391.

Washington following the Oct. 2 Paris meeting, conferred with Johnson. According to generally accepted reports, he was seeking maximum negotiating flexibility in the belief that the long-deadlocked bombing issue might begin to move. For the first time in Oct. 9 the North Vietnamese negotiating team began to ask questions that bore on how a bombing halt might be arranged. Knowledgeable officials report there were other secret contacts about that time. One date mentioned as significant is Friday, Oct. 11.

Brown-Haired, Blue-Eyed Beauty Is Selected New 'Miss Greenville'

Miss Patricia Ann Stimmel of Raleigh was crowned Miss Greenville last night at the annual Jaycee-sponsored pageant in Wright Auditorium on the East Carolina University campus. The brown-haired, blue-eyed beauty was selected by a panel of five judges from a dozen contestants competing for the title. First runner-up to Miss Stimmel was Miss Mary Dannehl and in third place as second runner-up was Miss Helen Parker. Miss Dannehl, in addition to her second runner-up prize, was named Miss Congeniality. Crowning the new Miss Greenville was Miss North Carolina, Annette Johnson of New Bern and Miss Pitt County Sherry Robertson, a senior at East Carolina University from Petersburg, Va. In making their decision, the judges saw the contestants in evening gowns, then saw the girls perform in the talent competition phase of the contest. In the judging, the talent presentation carries more points than either the evening gown or swim/suit phase of the contest. The new Miss Greenville wore a full-length gown of white and pink embroidered peau de soie designed with a belle-shaped skirt, rounded neckline and a matching self-fabric bow. First runner-up Miss Dannehl chose a white peau de soie empire gown with a scoop neckline. The fitted bodice was trimmed with sequins. Miss Parker wore a full-length empire gown of white, peau de soie styled with a scoop neckline and fitted bodice. The neckline and bodice were trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. A full-length gown of orange and white print was worn by Miss Robertson. The gown was designed with a V-shaped neckline and a matching self-fabric bow. Miss North Carolina chose a white gown of chiffon and peau de soie styled with a sweetheart neckline and a flowing skirt. The empire bodice was trimmed with sequins. Jerry Ball, well-known Charlotte pianist and entertainer, was master of ceremonies for the pageant last night, the first pageant held in about 18 months. No pageant was held last year in order that the pageant, usually held in the spring, could be moved to the fall. Bill Dansey, co-chairman of the contest, said a girl winning a pageant in the fall is expected to have a better chance when she competes in the North Carolina contest the following summer. Judges for last night's contest included: Jo Ann Frank of New Bern, star of "The Early Show With Jo Ann"; Ray Copley of New Bern, an employee of the North Carolina Board of Pares and a former member of the Miss North Carolina Advisory Committee; Fred Burgess of Clinton, news editor of the Sampson Independent and a director of the Clinton Theater Workshop who has judged or emceed for over 400 beauty pageants throughout the Eastern United States; Roland Smith of Charlotte, who has judged

Breakthrough In Negotiations Sunday Night

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP) — The big breakthrough in U.S.-North Vietnamese efforts to negotiate terms for a bombing halt began to develop last Sunday night. It was then that secret word began to reach the White House from Hanoi on "the essential understanding," as President Johnson put it Thursday night, of the conditions for ending American attacks in North Vietnam. But U.S. officials now believe that President Ho Chi Minh had made the basic decision about a month earlier to begin to deescalate the war and move into serious peace negotiations. Johnson and his advisers felt that Ho Chi Minh and his associates were paying a very high price to continue the war. The political reason which appealed to U. S. policymakers was that the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees chosen in the summer—Richard N. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey—both could be expected to carry on Johnson's policy of demanding conditions for halting the bombing. Some of Johnson's advisers told him that Hanoi either had to move toward substantial peace negotiations in early October or wait several months until a new president was installed in the White House. The chief U.S. negotiator in Paris, Ambassador Averell Harriman, had advised as early as August that if Hanoi felt it could get an acceptable deal with Johnson it would undoubtedly do so. On Sept 17 Johnson had conferred with Harriman and reviewed his conditions for halting the bombing. According to administration officials these were essentially that:

1. The demilitarized zone separating North and South Vietnam would be respected by Communist forces as well as U.S. and allied troops;
 2. That North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops would not make terror attacks on Saigon and the other cities and towns of South Vietnam;
 3. That representatives of the Saigon government of President Nguyen van Thieu would be admitted to the second phase of the Paris talks, following the bombing halt.
- On Oct. 3 Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, having returned to Washington following the Oct. 2 Paris meeting, conferred with Johnson. According to generally accepted reports, he was seeking maximum negotiating flexibility in the belief that the long-deadlocked bombing issue might begin to move. For the first time in Oct. 9 the North Vietnamese negotiating team began to ask questions that bore on how a bombing halt might be arranged. Knowledgeable officials report there were other secret contacts about that time. One date mentioned as significant is Friday, Oct. 11.

Gardner To End His Campaign At Rocky Mount

RALEIGH (AP) — A final push in the traditionally Democratic East is winding up the gubernatorial bid of Republican Jim Gardner.

The freshman congressman campaigned in Durham Thursday, again allowing his name to be linked with that of third party presidential candidate George Wallace.

Gardner scheduled a news conference in Raleigh today and an appearance on a television panel show before departing late this afternoon for Wilmington and a rally tonight.

He will wind up his campaign by returning to Raleigh Saturday afternoon to ride in a motorcade to his home, Rocky Mount, for a final rally.

In Durham, Gardner broke his recent pattern of concentrating on major rallies and television appearances and went on a handshaking tour of plants and businesses.

He rode from place to place in a car bearing stickers promoting both his candidacy and that of Wallace.

At each stop, he was escorted by George Birmingham Jr., who wore Gardner and Wallace campaign buttons on his lapel.

Birmingham is a Durham businessman and Democrat.

Found Innocent Of Embezzling

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Former Iredell County Coroner William Baynard, 32, was found innocent Thursday by Superior Court Judge Walter Johnson of charges he embezzled about $3,000 in county Rescue Squad funds. Baynard, who resigned as coroner after the charges were brought, was treasurer of the rescue squad at the time of the alleged embezzlement.

Omitted From Honor Lists

In the recent announcement of High School Honor Lists, one group of students making the principal's list was inadvertently left out. These are students making A's and B's in their school work.

The list of students previously omitted, are all members of Mrs. Miriam Little's 9th grade class at Rose High School. They are: Anna Carson, Mitchell Cobb, Jane Elam, Valerie Hooper, Sallie Jenkins, and Kenneth Perkins.

Charge Driver In Thursday Wreck

Lucky Jean Allen, 16, of 2913 Rose St., was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 5:45 p.m. collision at the intersection of Charles Street and Berkshire Road yesterday.

Officers said the Allen auto collided with a car driven by Mabel Carlines Blackburn, of 1800 Brown St.

Damage to the Blackburn car was set at $50 while damage to the Allen vehicle was placed at $300.

Wrong Province For Minister

MOGA, India (AP)—Even a minister can be derailed.

COMPANY DINNER

This way of giving roast lamb a flavorful touch may be new to you.

Parsley Lamb Baked Barley
Snap Beans Salad Bowl
Pineapple Upside-down Cake

PARSLEY LAMB
1 1/4 pounds—about—shank half of leg of lamb, boned and tied, about 3 pounds after boning
1/2 cup finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 large clove garlic, crushed
Salt, pepper and paprika

Have a good portion of the fat cut away from surface of roast. In a small mixing bowl, mix together the parsley, oil and garlic; stuff mixture into space left when shank bone was removed. Use a small spoon and your fingers to do this, from both ends of roast without disturbing string that binds meat. Sprinkle surface of lamb with salt, pepper and paprika. Place meat on a straight rack in a shallow roast pan; roast in a 350-degree oven until lamb is as done as you like—165 to 170 degrees on a meat thermometer for meat with a pink tinge, 180 degrees for well done meat. Count on 35 to 40 minutes per pound. Fat may be skimmed from drippings in pan and dripping used for natural or slightly thickened gravy. When lamb is carved, spoon a bit of the parsley mixture over slices.

Mrs. Vanoe Perkins has returned home from Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The secret of success in barbecuing is a good bed of coals, white hot without flames. You can reduce the heat by raising the grill or rotisserie, by spacing the coals wider apart, or occasionally sprinkling water on the coals. The University of Nebraska Home Extension Service says low to moderate temperatures give the best cooking results.

Does He Prefer To Sleep In Basement?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand my brother. He and I were brought up in the same house with the same mother and father, but we are as different as night and day. Dad drank a little, and he and Mom did their share of fighting, but I can't say we had a "bad" home life.

My brother is married to a woman who treats him like a dog. They don't even live like man and wife. He sleeps in the BASEMENT and she sleeps upstairs. She keeps putting him down and he doesn't even try to defend himself. What on earth is the matter with that poor excuse for a man?

ROCHESTER

DEAR ROCHESTER: If your brother sleeps in the basement without a murmur, maybe he likes it. Or maybe he doesn't care where he sleeps as long as it's not with his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a woman who has a 13-year-old daughter and then goes ahead and has another baby? Don't you think a 35-year-old woman is a little too old to be having a baby?

When I come home from school I have a lot of things to do, including homework, so I don't see why I have to give up my time to watch a baby.

I can see where this baby-sitting bit is going to get worse in time, because I know my mother, and she is not about to hire a baby-sitter when she can get me to sit for nothing.

Is there anything I can do about this?

STUCK

(P. S. How old does a girl have to be in the state of Connecticut before she can leave home?)

DEAR STUCK: To answer your first question. A woman who is young enough to bear a child is not "too old" to have one. As for your second question: A girl who doesn't know how old she has to be to "leave home" is too young to try it.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a diabetic for years. Lately it was discovered that I also have high blood pressure. My doctor put me on a salt-free diet and now there are many things I am not allowed to eat.

When my wife and I are invited to the home of a friend, would I be out of line to tell the hostess about my restricted diet? My wife says if she has to put a hostess to any extra work she would rather stay home.

MANNY

DEAR MANNY: I see nothing wrong in mentioning this to your hostess in advance. If she really wants your company she would not consider it an imposition to go to a little extra effort for a guest who's on a restricted diet.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a business man should hire relatives when he needs more help

Those Constitutional Amendments

In the midst of all the candidates and campaign speeches of recent weeks, it is not surprising if most North Carolina voters have overlooked the fact there are two constitutional amendments on the ballot which should be approved.

These amendments deal with the composition of the General Assembly in North Carolina and the method by which the pay of members of the legislature is determined. Both have been approved by the General Assembly and recommended to the voters of the state for passage. Citizens of the state, in our judgment, would be acting in their own best interest and that of the state by voting in favor of each of these amendments.

The first of the amendments would authorize the legislature to fix compensation of officers and members of the General Assembly, with the explicit provision that any increase in compensation would not apply to the legislative session in which the increase was authorized. In effect members of one legislative session could approve an increase in compensation for the next legislature, but not for themselves.

The second amendment alters North Carolina's constitution with respect to the make-up of the General Assembly, making it comply with the recent Supreme Court decisions with respect to representation based solely upon population. In effect, it changes the constitution to comply with the manner in which the General Assembly is now constituted.

These amendments modernize North Carolina's constitution with respect to the legislature. They should have the approval of voters who go to the polls on November 5.

Long Weekend For Tar Heels

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Just a long weekend away from election day it remains clear that insofar as North Carolina is concerned the bit race is that for the governorship.

Unlike some years in the past, Scott versus Gardner is not the only race to be decided at the polls next Tuesday — far from it. But apparently for most North Carolinians it is the one that commands top interest and attention and it overshadows even how the state will go in the presidential election.

Spotlighting gubernatorial elections is something of a political tradition in the state — understandable. The governorship is the state's highest elective office and one which carries greatest prestige. Other offices are important of course, but seldom does any political campaign stir North Carolina voters as much as one for governor.

Smith-Graham
An exception perhaps was the U. S. Senate race of 1949 between Dr. Frank P. Graham and the late Sen. Willis Smith. But that classic contest also involved the governorship and, in effect, marked the beginning of a series of struggles between political liberalism and conservatism.

The defeat of Dr. Graham, who had been appointed by then Gov. W. Kerr Scott, marked the first political setback for the squire of Albemarle. He suffered another couple of years later when his choice for governor, Hubert Olive, was defeated by William B. Umstead.

Scott personally came back very strong to win a U. S. Senate seat himself, ousting the man Umstead had chosen — now Rep. Alton A. Lennon.

Relative Quiet
A period of relative quiet politically prevailed during the late 1950s. Smith, Umstead and Scott and Clyde Hoey — all of whom had served in the Senate and three in the governorship — died. Luther H. Hodges, a political unknown, had slipped into the lieutenant governorship and became the state's chief executive upon Umstead's death. He served for the next six years. These proved uneventful politically until the rise of an assistant state attorney general, former Wake Forest law professor I. Beverly Lake, and a young, politically ambitious state senator from Fayetteville, Terry Sanford. The rest is recent political history, and well known.

Sanford and Lake were principal figures in the next two gubernatorial campaigns, those of 1960 and 1964. Sanford, tutored under W. Kerr Scott and an apt pupil, won in 1960. But he was not of the Scott mold and was altogether distinct and different. There were some political similarities — one was that Sanford also backed a candidate to succeed him, and a lost.

Next Tuesday
Now next Tuesday the son of the late W. Kerr Scott puts his own political future on the line. It will be the climax of a campaign unlike and ever seen in North Carolina in the past — a campaign which really began years ago when Robert W. (Bob) Scott decided he needed more political experience and announced that he would run for lieutenant governor.

Almost simultaneously, the man who hopes to hand Scott a political setback and give the state its first Republican governor in 68 years was also trying to gain political experience.

This was Jim Gardner of Rocky Mount, a former Democrat turned Republican and who, after two tries, won the seat in Congress held for 34 years by Harold Cooley, Democrat. Gardner's triumph in 1966, the accompanying publicity and political impetus made him a natural to try for the big one in 1968 — the governorship.

Coltrane Served N.C. In A Thankless Job

Few men in modern times have rendered greater service to North Carolina and its people than David S. Coltrane who served as chairman of the Good Neighbor Council from 1963 until his death yesterday.

Through his personal, untiring efforts for the past five years, race relations in North Carolina have withstood the test of trying times without serious breakdowns. More than any other one man in North Carolina, David Coltrane kept the lines of communications open between white and Negro citizens of this state. There are few if any communities from the mountains to the sea that did not benefit by the soothing hand and voice of David Coltrane when crises threatened or developed.

In a large measure the efforts of David Coltrane helped open doors of employment in North Carolina for Negroes. This he accomplished not through legal channels, not with the threat of court action or other intimidation, but rather through quiet and careful persuasion in behalf of a transition he firmly believed in the best interest of North Carolina and all her people.

Few men in North Carolina have had as difficult or as thankless a job as that David Coltrane has had since he snuffed retirement for the Good Neighbor Council. His name may soon be forgotten by many Tar Heels, but the legacy he so unselfishly gave them and their children will stand North Carolina in good stead for decades to come.

Quaking Male Versus Dentist

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — When the calendar and a series of gentle little reminder cards indicated that it was long past the time for a confrontation between my husband and the family dentist, it fell to me to arrange the meeting faced with equal dread by both parties involved.

With the appointment made, I had only to persuade, threaten, cajole, command, beguile, urge and insist that my unspunky spouse appear as per my promise.

All went well in this initial get-together, with the two men clapping each other on the back in comradely greeting and exchanging jokes and other pleasantries. They remained on a friendly basis throughout the encounter because the dentist on this occasion merely took X-rays. The actual work would follow later — as much later as my husband could manage.

I bowed out of the picture and left them to arrange their future rendezvous. My reluctant relative decided to make the next appointment for a Thursday, planning to come home from work early.

That day arrived but the patient didn't. His secretary had telephoned to report that he was in conference and couldn't make it. Another date was set for the following Thursday.

This time I called, conveying the news that he had left the night before on a sudden trip to Washington. At this point I learned that a tooth extraction was in the offing and the hurried journey took on added significance. I ruthlessly and optimistically rescheduled the work for the following Thursday.

On this day I rushed home, ready to offer hot tea and warm sympathy to a convalescent, only to find that an important meeting had come up and he'd canceled again. Despairing of making it on a working day, he agreed to give up his Saturday in an easy chair watching football in favor of a session in the dental chair.

We had previously planned an out-of-town trip for the weekend but in view of the pending action at the dentist's office we took an early train back Saturday.

The phone was ringing as we got in the house — the nurse explained that an emergency had come up and that the appointment would have to be postponed until the next Saturday. My husband nobly hid his disappointment and resigned himself to an afternoon of viewing television.

Last week we actually made connections. My brave boy refused my offer to stay and hold his hand so I nervously waited in the outer office listening for sounds of struggle in the inner sanctum.

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
MIRACLES

Do miracles occur today? If they do not, then there can be some real doubt as to whether they ever occurred. Science appears to be working miracles today in many areas. There are literally millions of people in the world who are confident that something of a miraculous nature either in their lives or in the lives of their loved ones. Here was a person who the doctors said could not live three months and that same person is living after thirty years. A proposition was set forth and immediately denounced as impossible. The proposition became a project and the project surpassed the most ardent hopes of its supporters.

If there was ever an age that should believe in miracles it is the age in which we live. They are taking place all around us every day. People are recovering from ailments that were diagnosed as incurable. In laboratory, operating room, and around the council tables of business executives things are happening that even a decade ago would have been termed impossible and swept into the discard.

The growing world is a miracle. The extent of the universe in which we live overwhelms us with its immensity. The advance of science and the strident protest of leaders everywhere against selfishness and evil constitute events of truly miraculous nature. Jesus assured his disciples: "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father" (John 14:12).

Everyone On A Payroll?

WASHINGTON — One of the lines that has been getting Richard Nixon a big hand in his campaigning around the country is "Rather than more people on welfare rolls, we want more people on payrolls."

No one can argue with this statement — except possibly Nixon's economic advisers. While the Republican candidate is promising more jobs for the people, his economic advisers keep insisting we're going to have to have a lot more unemployment if we're going to prevent inflation and a recession.

I talked to an independent economist the other day, Prof. Ulrich Upgrah, who runs the nonprofit Economic Health Institute.

"Professor, Richard Nixon says that we have to get people off the welfare rolls and onto the payrolls if we want a healthy economy. How do you feel about this?"

"Terrible," Prof. Upgrah said. "Everyone knows that when you have full employment, you have inflation, which causes a recession, which causes more unemployment in the end." "Then what you're saying is you need a healthy unemployment rate to have a healthy economy."

"Of course. Any fool knows that. When the unemployment rate goes below 4 percent, then the inflation rate goes up 5 percent. The only way to stop the economy from overheating is to slow it down, and the best way to slow an economy down is to have 4 or 5 million people out of work."

"That seems hard to believe."

"Look, stupid, if you have full employment, then you have a shortage of labor, and that means labor demands pay raises. This causes prices to go up and naturally causes inflation."

"I know I'm dense about economic affairs, Professor, but what I don't understand is how you can get people off the welfare rolls onto the payrolls if you have to increase the rate of unemployment."

"You raise a very interesting question," Upgrah said, "particularly when everyone is so mad at so many people being on welfare. The answer is that you have to find jobs for people and then lay them off so that you don't have a booming economy running away from itself. My solution is to change the name 'welfare' to something else, like 'economic health insurance.' Nobody will get angry if someone else is collecting economic health in-

Other Editors Say How Serious Is It?

(Washington, N. C. News)
Seven persons have been arrested in Chapel Hill on charges of possession of marijuana, a hyperdermic needle, and a syringe.

Each of the seven has been placed under a bond of $1,000. According to the news story, the raid on the place is but one of many which has taken place over a period of time.

It would appear that arrests on charges of possession of marijuana are becoming rather common today particularly on college campuses. harmless weed that some contend it is? Or is it a diabolical narcotic that others claim it is?

We of course do not have the answers, but the time is long past due in America that we had some better answers than those we are now using.

Before America ever accepts marijuana as a harmless drug or narcotic, then we ought to have as many facts before us as possible.

Over the years it has become gospel in this country to treat use of such stimulants as criminal actions. As far back as we can remember when someone has been arrested on such a charge, we have come to look upon it as a great and almost unforgivable sin.

When we read where some leaders today tend to pass off this marijuana business as something far-fetched, we begin to wonder just what it all means.

We have never heard it claimed that marijuana made any person better. But how much worse does it make one? Is the law wrong, and are those charged with possession and use being unjustly treated?

We feel this way. Its use must be on the definite increase. And it appears that either our laws are wrong or somewhere along the line we are failing in our responsibility to enforce the law — and to educate the people correctly.

No Votes For Wallace Program

This is the third of three columns on what the American economy can expect if each of the three Presidential candidates is elected.

By ELMER ROESSNER

If George Wallace is elected President next Tuesday, or becomes President by action of the House of Representatives if there is no majority in the Electoral College, Congress will rule the country for the next four years.

If Wallace wins, he will have no members of his party in Congress. All Representatives and Senators are likely to be Republicans or Democrats. A few, of course, may align themselves with his party, but these will be few indeed. It will be a sorry nucleus for a drive to vote Wallace's program.

The 91st Congress will probably give Wallace, or any other President, the courtesy approving his Cabinet appointees. Wallace would have two other powers. He would have the power of other appointments. Congressmen who would not cooperate could not get their key supporters named to government positions.

The Nixing Power
As President, Wallace would also have the veto. He could refuse to sign legislation he did not approve.

Congress could, of course, pass almost any legislation over his veto. Wallace, on the other hand, could nullify much legislation by instructing appointees to proceed cautiously in enforcing new laws. However, in the end, Congress would wield the greater power. It holds the pursestrings. It could even neglect to appropriate money for the salary of a President if it didn't like.

In that event, the dominant Senate — both likely to be Democratic — would be calling the tune for the next four years and all of us, including Wallace, will be dancing a Democratic jig.

Wallace's Program
Wallace has gone on record for bringing the war in Vietnam to an "honorable conclusion." With Gen. Curtis LeMay as his Vice President, with the support of the Pentagon lobby and hawks in Congress, Wallace could probably authorize an all-out, "let's be beastly to the communists" campaign in Vietnam that could clear up the mess in a reasonable time.

On other matters: Wallace has gone on record to use tax incentives to create more jobs for minorities, to re-examine tax-free status of foundations, and reform the tax structure.

He has also declared for consumer protection, import limits to protect farmers from foreign imports; to give labor a louder voice in government; to aid interurban transportation, and to increase Social Security and Medicare benefits as the cost of living increases. He also wants to end inflation, to end the surtax, give Negroes better education, to provide more defense spending, promotion of U.S. exports, strengthen the dollars, and better control of the securities market.

Queen City Views

By JOE FLANDERS
Charlotte News Staff Writer

CHARLOTTE — Charlotte-Mecklenburg voters strongly support a state zoo for the Queen City, but not if they have to pay for it.

They do, however, feel inclined to put up some money as an incentive to locate it here.

Local voters also solidly favor creation of a state department of urban affairs to help solve urban problems.

And again for the record, they overwhelmingly endorse state legislation authorizing a local referendum on the liquor by the drink question.

These are the results of the latest post card poll by State Sen. Charles K. Maxwell. He mailed 10,000 questionnaires to both city and county residents and got back 1-138 replies — about 11 per cent.

But the mood of the voters — as indicated by the comments on the cards — is far from "limited to the questions posed by Maxwell."

They fear the skyrocketing crime rate and rioting and lawlessness in the streets. They decry inflation and zooming taxes which seem to have no ceiling. They see the financial plight of teachers.

They petition for tobacco and liquor by the drink — taxes, hoping they will break the vise-like grip on property taxes. They understand the need for a state system of kindergartens and other educational improvements. They ask for more and better roads, especially a superhighway between here and Wilmington.

Maxwell, a real estate developer, Democrat and Huntersville resident, is seeking re-election to the Senate. Seventy per cent of those polled favored establishing a state zoo. But 51 per cent said they would not favor supporting it in Charlotte by local tax money.

However, 71 per cent said they would favor providing local financial support as an incentive to bring the zoo to the Charlotte area.

On establishing an urban affairs department, 64 per cent said they favored it.

On the question of state legislation authorizing a liquor by the drink referendum here, 78 per cent favored it. Maxwell said that each of these proposals are certain to be introduced in the 1969 General Assembly.

He introduced in the 1967 session a bill calling for a referendum in Mecklenburg on liquor by the drink but it failed to get passed.

Those who favored liquor by the drink and tobacco taxes said this was a badly needed new source of income.

One man who favored a liquor by the drink tax said: "I am a cured (?) alcoholic (18) years and also a 'Hard shell' Baptist and I understand liquor from every point of view."

Another said: "The survival of Charlotte as a business and convention center will depend on it."

A man who endorsed both said: "I drink — I smoke. 'Cigarette and whisky by the frink taxes would help greatly,'" another said.

The anti-liquor by the drink folk said: "I am strongly opposed to liquor by the drink. I have lived many years where this was the surance. It's the word 'welfare' that is causing all the trouble."

"But it's still the same thing, Professor," I said. "You have the government paying people for not working, which gets the people who are working and paying taxes very upset."

"Ah, yes, but you must think of this in agricultural terms. We pay farmers not to grow crops to keep down the surplus, and no one is too upset by that. If we pay people not to work to keep down inflation, it will be the same thing."

"That's true," I said. "But what are the people who aren't working going to do during the day with their time?"

"That's not an economist's problem. The sociologists have to wrestle with that one. We only deal in statistics."

"You make a strong case for unemployment, Professor, and heaven knows we need some, if we don't want more unemployment later on. But it seems to me that the more unemployment you have, the more money the government will have to spend to take care of the people. And the more debt we get into, the more unhealthy the economy will be."

Church To Mark 168th Birthday

Reed Branch Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate its 168th birthday Sunday.

Services will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. followed by morning worship at 11 o'clock. At noon, a picnic dinner will be served on the church grounds.

At 1:30 p.m., singers of the church along with singers of other churches will participate in an annual song fest.

The Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor, will be celebrating his fifth year with the church. He will also bring the message during the morning worship hour.

One woman quoted that well-known passage from Proverbs: "Wine is a mocker; strong drink is raging. And whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise."

Nobody, even the chain smokers, were against a tobacco tax.

"I smoke two packs a day and I favor a 10 cents per pack tax," said one.

"I smoke three packs a day, but think a tobacco tax is fair and a good way to increase revenue," said another.

"I'm surprised that so many people can be persuaded to defeat such a tax," said another.

"It's high time you westerners squash the tobacco people. A tax on tobacco won't diminish sales," said another.

But in their comments on other issues, the voters seemed to cry out and demand:

"Make laws simple so we won't need guidelines. Unhandcuff our police."

"Strict law and order. Stop riots. Eliminate thugs and robberies."

"I travel the state every day — some 50,000 miles per year — and citizen protection is the No. 1 talked - about

"Get some more of these long-haired boys in the Army where they should be."

"No more laws. Enforce the ones we already have."

"No marches. Stop sex immoralities in colleges."

"No more taxes. No more taxes. No more taxes."

"Our welfare system is in dire need of a drastic overhaul."

"We need a state kindergarten system."

"Higher salaries for teachers and higher appropriation for education."

"I think education and taking care of the needy are more important than a zoo."

"Equal employment laws that work; upgrading of schools, slums; a better penal system; gun control laws."

"Keep HEW out of the schools by any means possible."

"My children are grown, but I think the legislature should consider kindergartens in the school system."

"We have been taxed almost to the limit of our endurance."

"Get this state out of the 19th century."

"Everyone is interested in spending money. Let's try saving for a change."

Young Church People Will Conduct Services

The young people will "take over" Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, Sunday and "run" it.

They will teach each of the 28 Church School classes, and be in complete charge of the 11:00 a.m. morning worship service. Fred Irons, III will deliver the message. He was the Good Will Ambassador from Greenville's United Youth Fellowship to Japan last summer. While there he lived for ten weeks with a Christian Japanese doctor and his family. He will tell of some of his experiences in his message to the congregation, when he speaks on "God In Us." He plans to be a medical missionary.

FRED IRONS III

Fred is president of the N.C. Conference Methodist Youth Fellowship, president of the Greenville District M. Y. F. and president of the Jarvis Memorial M. Y. F. He is also president of the United Youth Fellowship of Greenville which is an interdenominational youth group.

Others participating in the service Sunday will be Greg Williams, presiding; Susan Leggett, who will lead the "Acts of Praise"; Scripture reading by Carolyn Leggett; and Debby Clarke, who will lead the morning prayer. Pat Swindell will give the Benediction. The Junior High School

Second Mistrial In Murder Case

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A second mistrial was ordered Thursday for Miles Edward Forbes Jr., 18, of Statesville, charged with second-degree murder in the fatal shooting of Ronald Goforth in January of last year.

A hung jury in his first trial in October of 1967 resulted in his first mistrial.

Iredell Superior Court Judge Walter E. Johnston declared a mistrial Thursday for the same reason. Solicitor Zeb Morris later said the state probably will seek an out-of-county venire for jury selection the next time Forbes is tried.

Warehouse Lost In Oxford Fire

OXFORD, N. C. (AP)—Fire destroyed a tobacco storage warehouse and damaged a few dwellings nearby late Thursday night, police said.

One fireman was taken to a hospital with a minor leg injury. The fire, battled for more than two hours by four fire departments, spread quickly through the Fleming Warehouse No. 2.

Ushers will be: Chap Tucker, Ronald Taylor, Donald Taylor, Steve Jones, Steve Aldridge, Joe West, Steve Williams, Harold Mills, Tim Winslow, Richard Tucker, Radford Garrett, Bryant Kittrell, Chuck Brown, Bobby Boone, Richard Waldrop, and Tommy Tice.

Those teaching will be Julia Oliver, Elementary I; Ginger Underwood, Elementary II; Chap Tucker and Steve Aldridge, Elementary III; Paul Carr, Elementary IV; Mary Maria Winslow and Cindy Nabors, Elementary V; Tommy Tice, Elementary VI; Myra Garrett and Laura Bruce Hadley, 7th Grade; Linda King and Bryant Kittrell, 8th Grade; Susan Leggett, 9th Grade; Karen Spear and Becky Hudson, Ada Cherry Class; Carolyn Leggett and Pat Swindell, Lydia Wooten and Wesley Phila-thea; Ann Fleming and Becky Cullop, Carson Memorial Bible Class; Greg Williams, Elling-ton Bible Class; Cathy Smith, The Couples Class; Debby Clarke, The Bible Class; Fred Irons, The Forum Class; Doug Whitehurst, The College Class.

The public is to attend the service at Jarvis Memorial Sunday. This is the first time the youth have taken complete charge of the local church and it is expected to be an outstanding event for the congrega-tion.

The regular first Sunday Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered by the pastors at 9:00 a.m., and the Bible Study in Romans will be given at 7:30 p.m. by Dr. J. V. Early, pastor.

Revival Services Begin Sunday

MACCLESFIELD—Revival services will be held at Webb's Chapel Baptist Church near here Sunday through Nov. 11 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Robert N. Nash, missionary to the Philippines, will be the guest minister.

Nash has held pastorates in North Carolina, serving at Arlington Street Baptist Church, Greenville, prior to his appointment as a missionary for the Foreign Mission Board in Richmond, Va.

Currently he is on furlough from his missionary post in Cotabato City, Philippines, where he has served since 1964. He will return to that post at the conclusion of his one-year furlough.

A native of Georgia, Nash is a graduate of Mercer University and Southeastern Seminary.

Ancient Formula Among India's Physicians

CALICUT, India (AP)—The juice of the butea monosperma flower taken with rabbit's blood and the juice of the hibiscus rosa sinuensis—mixed with lime juice—will "destroy fertility in women forever."

This latest breakthrough in family planning was announced at the seventh conference of a local group of ayurvedic physicians.

Ayurvedic medicine is the 5,000-year-old Indian system still practiced widely here, especially in villages where modern medical treatment is often unobtainable.

A paper read to the conference indicated that ancient Indian medical texts refer to effective contraceptive drugs.

However, in these days none of the drugs came into wide use since there was no need to control India's population, said the paper.

City Once Was Peralta's Land

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The original site of the city of Oakland was part of the holdings of Don Luis Maria Peralta, who was granted vast areas of land from the Spanish crown.

In 1842 he divided his lands among his four sons. One of the sons leased a tract in 1850 to Moses Chase who became Oakland's founder. The city received its charter in 1854.

Few Clues In Navarro Death

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ramon Navarro, the daahing Latin lover who was the first "Ben Hur" on the silent screen, has died violently—33 years after he quit movie stardom for a life of quiet luxury and occasional television character roles.

The nude, bludgeoned body of the 69-year-old actor was found Thursday on a bed in his $150,000 home.

Navarro, a life-long bachelor, lived alone in the Spanish-style white brick home. His death was reported by Edward Weber, 42, the actor's longtime secretary—who had been helping Navarro recently with an autobiography.

Police said Navarro's head and upper body bore signs of a fierce beating, but that the death instrument had not been located. Investigators conceded they had few clues other than the evidence of a savage struggle in three rooms of the house.

They said bloody clothing, believed to have been Navarro's, was found in ivy bushes outside.

Weber told newsmen he came upon the death scene when he arrived at the house Thursday and—as was his custom—let himself in with a kitchen door key. He said he found no sign of forced entry, and that nothing was believed missing from the house.

Navarro was one of a trio of handsome, Latin leading men who charmed millions in the 1920s. The others were Rudolph Valentino, who died at 31 in 1926, and Antonio Moreno, who was 80 at his death in 1967.

Navarro had a gift for light comedy, occasionally played other than Latin characters and demonstrated considerable skill as a stunt man. He drove his own chariot in 1925 in "Ben Hur," the movie that made him a star.

Ten years later, his career reached what he called "the saturating point," and Navarro retired.

The address must be complete with APO or FPO numbers. The return address should be in the upper left hand corner of the parcel and on the inside of the parcel, a slip of paper with the address of the giver, as well as the receiver, should be included.

Dudley continued, "All parcels going overseas should be packed in strong cardboard boxes with sufficient cushioning material to prevent breaking. They should be wrapped in heavy paper and tied with heavy string or cord."

Postmaster Dudley stressed the importance of meeting the deadlines and stated that even with the increased volume of mail expected to be handled this year, the delivery of all mail to armed forces before Christmas Day can be made within these guidelines.

The Worry Clinic Barbarism Remains A Part Of The Scene

Bobby's case is shocking! Yet it shows how barbaric many modern mothers still are, even in supposedly civilized America. Remember, $$$$ and even college diplomas are no sure guarantee that you are a topnotch mother. So study this case and rate yourself on the "Test for Mothers."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE H-523: Bobby Z., aged 6, answered the doorbell. Two policemen were there when he opened the door. "Where's your mother?" they asked.

"She's out stealing," he casually replied.

"So they visited with Bobby at some length, for his mother had been caught shoplifting.

They decided she and several accomplices were engaged in a ring of shoplifters.

When they looked around the apartment, they found an estimated $600 worth of new merchandise.

"When I leave for school," Bobby naively informed the police officers, "she goes out to steal."

This true case gives a contrasting view to the picture we conjure up regarding a good mother, as at Mother's Day.

Alas, not all mothers are "good" mothers.

Some are heinous monsters, dissolute, vulgar, even flaunting sexual affairs in front of early grammar schoolers.

But many mothers think they are good, when they actually are only second-raters.

For example, how many of you mothers smoke? Yet you know this is medically unwise and economically wasteful, plus the greatest cause for fires in homes and public buildings.

How many mothers indulge in wanton slang and even profanity before their kiddies?

How many poison the minds of toddlers against their daddy by long telephone conversations in which they report infidelity of the husband and father?

How many women drink liquor at home? Or sneak out to a neighboring tavern?

How many fail to tuck their kiddies into bed at night, but let hired maids do that chore?

Mothers, do you teach your children uplifting stories, plus songs that will inspire idealism and religion?

Good mothers not only prepare their kiddies for Sunday School but actually TAKE THEM THERE!

Good mothers also encourage their children to join the Scouts and YMCA or YWCA.

They also faithfully attend PTA meetings and get acquainted with the teachers of their tots.

Good mothers read Bible stories to their youngsters and also have an encyclopedia on hand to help their children find the answers to their many queries.

Good mothers encourage some musical skills, as piano, guitar, violin, etc.

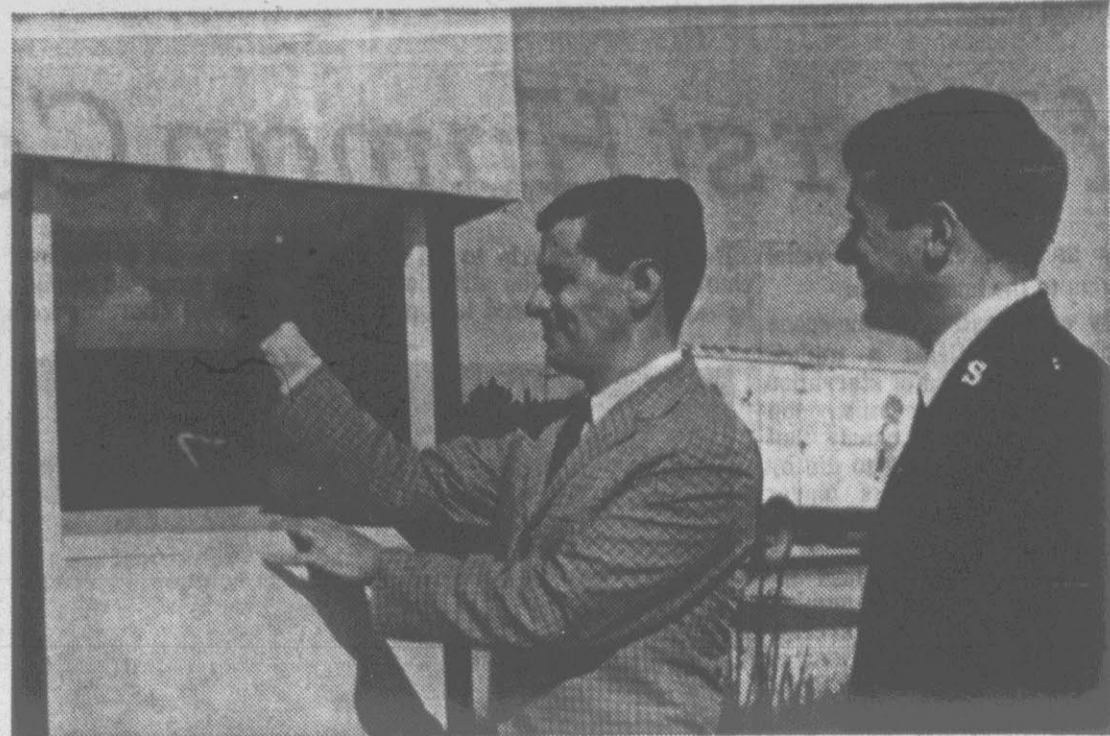

And they are liberal with compliments. But they also administer reproof and spankings when indicated.

If you are a widow or divorcee, be doubly careful that you don't use your child as a combined love symbol of husband-child and thus indulge in "smother" love for the youngster.

Send for my 200-point "Tests for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents, and rate yourself as a parent.

A high income level and a college diploma may still leave you as a poor parent, for $$$$ and college degrees don't guarantee topnotch mothers!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Honor Students At Winterville

WINTERVILLE—The Honor Roll and Principal's List for Winterville High School were announced by Principal J. R. Carraway during special assembly Tuesday. Special awards were also presented to various students.

Students qualifying for the Honor Roll were: Dorothy Burney, Wayland Garris, Leo Franke, Linda McGowan, Deborah Mills and Kay Branch.

Students making the Principal's List during the first marking period included: Denise Grimsley, Billy May, Rhonda Cox, Blanche Jones, Sandra Sutton, Sherry Corey, Patsy Avery, Lynn Webster, Rita Hodges, June Hall, Darlene O'Geary, Rhonda Toler and Sue Lasister.

Wayland Garris was named student of the month. He received a trophy which he will keep for the next six weeks. Other student nominees for student of the month included: Mathematics, Leo Franke; Agriculture Sales and Service, Leo Franke; Science, Wayland Garris; Business Math, Rhonda Cox; English, Michael Hazelton and Susan Brooks Tucker; Business, Yvonne Weathington; Biology, Linda McGowan; Agriculture, Patsy Tucker; Home Economics, Kay Branch; Physical Education, June Hall and Lindsay Godley; Introduction to Vocations, Mary Lee Paramore; French, Wayland Garris; and Social Studies, Rhonda Cox and Leo Franke.

An award was presented to Mrs. Mallison's homeroom for having received the highest homeroom average for the first marking period and to Mrs. Rogerson's homeroom for being the best kept homeroom.

New Post Awaits Resigning Prexy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Dr. Ralph J. Jolly, resigning as president of Greensboro (N.C.) College, will become executive vice president of the Alabama Association for Independent Colleges and Universities. His new appointment was announced Thursday.

Jolly had indicated that he wanted to return to Alabama when he announced his resignation in Greensboro several weeks ago.

The bidding:
South West North East
2 NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Four of ♠
By taking charge of the defense at a time when the issues were in doubt, West launched a fatal attack against South's three no trump contract.

Altho South's hand is a shade shy of the requirements for a three no trump opening [he has 24 points counting the one point promotion for all the aces], he was reluctant to put even the slightest pressure on his partner and elected to gamble it out for nine tricks.

West opened the four of spades, East put up the king and was permitted to hold the trick. The jack of spades was continued and South ducked once more, following with the ten. The moment of decision had arrived for the defense. West realized that it was futile to continue establishment of the spade suit; inasmuch as he held no quick card of reentry. He decided further that East would observe the necessity for switching to another suit, however, the latter might be uncertain where to attack.

A heart switch, for example, might appear more attractive to East, and yet West could provide no assistance in that direction. In order to relieve his partner of any guess, West decided to overtake the jack of spades with the queen in order to lead a club—the only suit in which he could contribute to the defensive cause.

West switched to the deuce of clubs. East put up the queen and South played the ace. The best declarer could do was to run eight tricks, and he was set by one trick.

Had East been permitted to hold the second spade lead, he might have been tempted to lead the king of hearts—which appears to be an attractive shift. This play would have given South time to develop his ninth trick, by entering the North hand with the ten of diamonds, subsequently, to lead a heart through East toward the jack in his own hand.

Applied Lessons In Police Role

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Kent McCord was off on a trip last spring when burglars took two stereo units and some of his clothes.

In his free time McCord, 26, began looking for his clothes along Sunset Boulevard. He spotted a velvet shirt like his about a month later and, in talking with the boy wearing it, was told, "I'm taking care of it for my friend, serving time for burglary."

The actor said he went to an apartment and found one of his stereos. Monday the youth who live there was convicted of receiving stolen property, and another awaits trial.

McCord plays a policeman in the television series "Adam-12."

Biafra Said One Of Worst Human Catastrophes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Blockade-running church agencies have stepped up their risky night flights of food to embat-led Biafra, but it's still not enough to avert one of the worst human catastrophes of modern times, says a priest who has traveled that treacherous route from the first.

"There's no disaster of the 20th century to compare with what's happening to the people there apart from Hitler's slaughter of the Jews," says the Rev. Dermot Doran, a Catholic missionary and coordinator of relief flights to the hungry area. By conservative, on-the-scene estimates, at least a million Biafrans have died of starvation in the last four months, and Father Doran says nearly that many more are likely to die by the year's end unless bigger planes are obtained to increase the cargoes.

"We're getting the stuff in, and we've increased the number of flights to 10 a night, averaging a daily total of 100 tons of supplies," he says. "But it's not nearly enough. The need is about 10 times that—about 1,000 tons a day. And we can't get it in without heavier transport. That's absolutely vital."

Working together, Protestant, Orthodox, Jewish and Catholic agencies are pouring in aid from many countries to the off-shore Wesa African island of Sao Tome, he says, and flying it by night into the besieged region, sinking under pressure of Nigerian federal troops.

"It's the great example of practical ecumenism that has ever taken place in history," Father Doran says. "All the churches are united in this. But we have to operate like bootleggers under constant threats. Our planes get shot at all the time. Some of them come back with holes in the wings and bel-larger cargo planes to take over the night runs from the smaller, he says the urgent need is some chartered by the churches from five private companies. "About the only one who has the larger C130s is the U.S. government other than one commercial firm and it wants $1.5 million a month to charter one of them," he says. "No church agency has that kind of money. We're getting plenty of foodstuff from church people, if we only had a way to move it quickly enough." He says appeals have been made to President Johnson and the U.S. State Department about the matter, but with no response so far. "It's purely a humanitarian cause, without any politics attached to it," he said.

India Considers Fining Its Non-Voting Citizens

By SUMER KAUL
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI (AP) — To vote or not to vote has been the question in the world's largest democracy. The future choice for the Indian voter might be "vote or pay up"—if this country's chief election commissioner has his way.

S. P. Sen-Verma, responsible for organizing India's massive elections, believes voting should be made compulsory by law. He says a man who does not vote should be fined Rs 50 ($6.66).

"There are many people," he said in an interview, "who fail to turn up at polling stations out of sheer apathy and negligence. They simply don't care to vote."

If a man were made to appear before a criminal court charged with the offense of not voting, "he would think twice before indulging in his apathy," he said.

If more and more people were made to vote, he explained, selection of legislators would not be the preserve of professional politicians.

In a country where roughly half the population is above 21 years and therefore eligible to vote, he feels the percentage of voters has been far too low.

In the first general election in 1952, 45.7 per cent of the total electorate cast votes for Lok Sabha (House of the People) candidates, 37.1 per cent voted for state assembly candidates.

The percentage increased gradually over the years and in the fourth general election last year, it rose to 61.3 per cent for both the Lok Sabha and the state assemblies.

But Sen-Verma feels this is not good enough. The 1967 figure shows that about 145 million people decided who should represent about 500 million people.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's ruling Congress party was returned to power because it netted about 40 per cent of the votes polled—the rest going to a dozen other parties.

Interested observers say this is one of the unavoidable ills of democracy. Sen-Verma is confident that the ills of democracy can be cured by more democracy—more voters.

Why don't all people vote? Some say it may be due to ignorance of the democratic process. Others feel it is due to a cynical feeling that democracy offers a choice between Tweedie Dee and Tweedie Dum, and that the choice isn't worth the effort.

Whatever the reasons, Sen-Verma believes a law penalizing nonvoters would in the long run make Indian democracy more meaningful.

Australia, Netherlands, Chile and Italy provide legal penalties for those who don't vote. Of course, voters can cast an unmarked ballot.

Longer Season For Artichokes

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—The artichoke season is being extended by 10 to 50 days through the use of a natural plant-growth hormone discovered in University of California agricultural research.

The hormone, known as gibberellin, makes the artichokes grow faster and bud earlier, thus extending the harvest from late fall through spring. The longer season can be expected to bring about a more uniform supply-price relationship, benefiting both consumers and producers.

Bucs Travel To Meet Furman; Game Is Toss-up

East Carolina University seeks its first conference victory against two losses Saturday night when it invades Greenville, S.C., to play the Furman University Paladins. The game rates as a toss-up between the two teams, who haven't looked good this year except in their only victories. East Carolina beat Parsons, 37-7, while Furman downed Presbyterian for their only win. And neither team has statistics to show that their record is deceiving. East Carolina ranks dead last in total offense, while Furman is just two places above the Bucs. There is quite a difference in the yardage, however, as East Carolina is averaging just 163 yards per game, while Furman has a 213.2 yard average. The Bucs are slightly ahead of Furman in rushing, 83.8 yards to 79.8 yards per game. They run sixth and seventh in the conference, or on the bottom. In passing, however, Furman jumps to third in the conference with a 133.3 yard per game average. ECU is last again, with 79.2 yards per con-

Defensively, East Carolina is fifth, while Furman is seventh and last. The Bucs are giving up 352.4 yards per game, while Furman has allowed 362.0. In rushing, the Bucs allowed 174.4 yards while Furman gives up 161.2 yards, with the Paladins in fourth place and the Bucs in sixth. Through the air, Furman rates last in defense, allowing 200.8 yards per game. The Pirates are sixth with a 178.0 average. In scoring, the two are about even. ECU averaged 10.2 points per game, while Furman has an 8.5 average. Defensively, the Bucs have given up 22.7, while Furman has allowed 23.0. The main reason for any Furman success is quarterback Clyde Hewell, who ranks fourth in the conference in total offense, and second in passing. "Hewell is one of the top passers in the conference," Coach Clarence Stasavich said of his opponent. "But they differ from Richmond in having three receivers who all have about the same number of catches, so they'll be harder to stop." Hewell has hit on 73 of 126 passes, a league-leading 57.9 per cent, for 754 yards. Pat Carroll has caught 20 for 203 yards, Jimmy Jordan has 19 for 195 yards, and Byron Trotter has 18 for 201 yards. "They haven't shown any outstanding running game," Stasavich said, "and have been primarily a passing team." The leading rusher is Dickie So-well, who has picked up 258 yards this year.

"We hope that Jim Flowe will be back at defensive end this week, after missing the Richmond game," Stasavich said. Stasavich said that the Bucs have made some changes after looking at the Richmond game films. Billy Wightman has been moved into the starting tailback slot, and Dick Corrada has taken over at wingback. "We've spent a lot of time working on the passing attack," Stasavich said. "Furman has been better defensively on the ground, and we feel we'll have to go to the air." The game, as usual, promises to be a tough one. Furman always seems to be up for East Carolina, playing a tough game every year except one in the past four. Stasavich feels that it is hard to predict how the game will go. "It could be a very high scoring contest, or a very low one. The only common opponent was Richmond. They beat them, 34-0, and us, 31-7, playing much the same way in both games, so you can't tell much." "The team that is ready will be the one to win this one," he said. The probable starting offensive lineup for the Bucs has Jimmy Adkins and Wilmer at ends, Worth Springs and Stove Davis at tackles, Grieb and Earl Burton at guards, Terry Edmundson at center, Wightman at tailback, Butch Colson at fullback, Charlie Overton at blocking back, and Corrada at wingback. On defense, the Bucs will start Roger Bost and John Elrod at ends, Wayne Lineberry and Tyson at tackles, Walter Adams and Wheeler at guards, Paul Weathersbee at middle linebacker, Jeff Dudley at rover, George Whitley and Mike Boaz at halfback and Stu Garrett at safety. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

George Wheeler, left, and Tommy Bullock are two members of this year's East Carolina University football team. Wheeler, a 6-0, 238-pound junior from Buena Vista, Va., is a defensive tackle. Bullock, a 5-11, 173-pound junior from Raleigh, is a defensive halfback. The Pirates travel to Greenville, S. C., to meet Furman University Saturday night.

Rams, Cowboys Picked To Bounce Back After Losses Last Weekend

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Will the Rams and Cowboys bounce back strong from their first defeats? Can Green Bay reach back for another super game after their sparkler in Dallas Monday night? Can Philadelphia beat anybody? Will the Colts teach the Giants not to mess around with the big boys? After last week's 9-4 the old Hand picker is 50-26-2 for the season. Let's give it another whirl. All games are Sunday.

Mel Farr's ankle which was re-injured in loss to 49ers. Pittsburgh 17, Atlanta 10—Steelers still have Dick Hoak to run against weakest defense in league. St. Louis 27, Philadelphia 13—Cards have won three in a row and Eagles have dropped all seven. Willis Crenshaw should crunch that Eagle line. Minnesota 30, Washington 10—Vikings still in race, although shaken by loss to Bears. Bill Brown and Clint Jones should have big day against Redskins' left side. Baltimore 24, New York 20—This could be closer than you think. Earl Morrall has been hot as backup man for John Unitas and would like to show Allie Sherman he made a boo-boo. Colt defense will pressure Fran Tarkenton and you may see scrambling like you never saw before. Green Bay 28, Chicago 23—Remember, Packers played Monday night, a real big game in Dallas. Bears still think they can win it all with hottest place kicker in business, Mac Percival, and best runner in football, Gale Sayers. Defense and Bart Starr give Packers edge in a tough one. Bears won in August 10-7. San Francisco 20, Cleveland 17—Each has won two in a row and Browns took exhibition game in August 31-17. Running of Ken Willard and Gary Lewis hits Browns where they're weakest. Leroy Kelly on a 100-yard binge and Ernie Green is back to help him now. Bill Nelson on hot streak but so is John Brodie. Home field edge to 49ers. Dallas 28, New Orleans 13—That Cowboy pass defense, however, should feast on interception-prone Billy Kolmer.

AFL
NEW YORK 35, Buffalo 14—Should be a romp for Jets if Joe Namath is all right and he says he is. But it was to have been easy last time when Bills picked off five passes and won 37-35. Denver 21, Boston 20—Floyd Little finally came into his own as pro with 126 yards against Miami. Marlin Briscoe or Steve Tensi rates edge over Mike Taliaferro although Patsare favored at home on strong defense and kicking of Gino Cappelletti. Boston won 20-17 at Denver Sept. 29. Houston 17, Cincinnati 13—Defense should do the job for Oilers who figure to take advantage of leaky pass curtain of Bengals, who have lost five straight. Kansas City 23, Oakland 21—This is rematch of the tight-t party Hank Stram threw for Raiders at Kansas City two weeks ago. Oakland adjusted to the formation in second half but it was too late. Stram probably will have some new surprises for defending champs who must win this one. Oakland favorite despite Chiefs' six-game winning streak. San Diego 31, Miami 17—Bob Griese and rookie running backs pose threat for Chargers' defense but John Hadl should be able to pick holes in Dolphins.

Foley Shines For Wolflets

Tim Foley, former Rose High School halfback, now a member of the N.C. State freshmen, is high on the list in performance according to three-game statistics. Foley is second in rushing on the team, gaining 54 yards, just two less than the leader. He has carried more than any other rusher. Foley has caught six passes for 108 yards to be second in that category. He also has run back one punt for four yards, and is the leading kickoff returner, running back four for 62 yards. He has scored one touchdown, and is tied with three others for scoring honors. State's freshmen are 1-2 at this point, including a 17-7 loss to the ECU freshmen.

Milwaukee In First Victory

If at first you don't succeed, try, try, try, try, try again—it worked for the Milwaukee Bucks. The National Basketball Association's expansion outfit, losers of its first five games, finally turned the trick by beating the Detroit Pistons 134-118 Thursday night. Meanwhile, Phoenix climbed into a tie with Los Angeles for the lead in the Western Division by turning back Chicago 112-103 in the night's only other game. Over in the American Basketball Association, Indiana whipped Wenver 122-100, Houston rolled past Dallas 108-90 and Oakland defeated Los Angeles 143-127. Wayne Embry guided Milwaukee to its first victory by whipping in 30 points. Embry and Jon McGlocklin teamed in the first period to help the Bucks to a 27-23 advantage. Then, Embry and Guy Rodgers sparked a second period surge that lifted the Bucks to a 64-44 control at half-time. The Pistons' Dave Bing, top NBA shooter last season, was held to only five points during the first half, but came on strong after intermission to finish with 29. Again Gail Goodrich was the star for surprising Phoenix, drilling in 30 points—the third time he has reached that plateau this season. Goodrich tallied 16 points in an 11-minute span in the first half as the Suns led at intermission 62-44. Bob Boozer topped the Bulls with 23 points

Unbeatens Place Strings On Line

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Perfection is the name of the game for only eight major college football teams... and that list is a cinch to be reduced by at least one this weekend.

Whether or not it's trimmed even more could depend on this season's upset allotments for a couple of upstarts—Michigan State and Colorado.

Michigan State, which pulled a 21-14 stunner over Notre Dame last week that vaulted it into the No. 17 spot in the rankings tries for another surprise Saturday at Ohio State. Its chances of succeeding are slim—the Buckeyes are unbeaten in five games and are battling Southern California for the national championship.

Colorado, meanwhile, fresh from a 41-27 upset of tough Oklahoma, also faces a difficult task in duplicating that—it tackles No. 3 Kansas, winner of six in a row thanks to the most potent scoring attack in the college ranks.

Southern Cal, 5-0, resumes activity after two weeks of idleness with a relatively easy match—against lowly Oregon, 3-3.

However, No. 4 Penn State faces a stern chore against stubborn Army in the Nittany Lions' bid for their sixth straight.

At least one of the eight unbeaten, untied teams will be eliminated since Harvard and Penn., both 5-0, are paired against each other. The two other outfits with perfect records are No. 19 Ohio University, 6-0, which meets Western Michigan, and Yale, 5-0, which faces Dartmouth.

There have only been 78 unbeaten teams in the last 30 years, and only two during the past two seasons—Wyoming last year and Alabama in 1966.

In other Top 10 action, No. 1 Tennessee, 4-0-1, plays host to UCLA; No. 6 Purdue, 5-1, entertains hapless Illinois; No. 7 Georgia, 5-0-1, faces a big showdown with No. 15 Houston; No. 8 California, 5-1, travels to Washington; No. 9 Michigan, 5-1, is at Northwestern, and No. 10 Missouri, 5-1, plays host to Oklahoma State.

In other games, 11th-ranked Texas, 4-1-1, has a showdown with No. 13 Southern Methodist; No. 12 Notre Dame goes against Navy at Philadelphia; No. 14 Louisiana State plays host to Mississippi at night; No. 17 Arkansas tests Texas A&M, No. 18 Florida State meets Virginia Tech at night, and No. 20 Florida plays Auburn.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Three little upsets marred last week's record, as this column posted a 16-3 record, helping out a great deal.

This week, there are a number of games that could go either way, and we'll try to sort them out for you.

First off Rose High School goes on the road for the final time this year, facing West Carteret. The Patriots beat Elizabeth City last week to show that their early rating as a conference favorite was right, despite the fact that they fell down and lost three games to put themselves out of contention for a post-season playoff berth.

Both Rose and West Carteret have the same record, and both are fairly assured of winning seasons. This game could mean whether one will finish above the other. I'll have to pick West Carteret on the basis of their speed.

Elsewhere in the area, Greene Central will prove to have too little for North Duplin. The Rebels are a 1-A school, but they'll hand another loss to the Rams.

Four Oaks faces Farmville in a real tough game. Farmville needs to win if they are to stay atop the Eastern Plains Conference. It could mean the title, and the Red Devils should be ready. I'll pick Farmville.

Robersonville, back on top on the Tobacco Belt League goes against non-conference Wake-forest. I'll back Robersonville in this one. They're rolling along now.

Grifton goes to Chocowinity in a must game. They must win to even hope for a chance of a first place tie in the conference. They should come out on top.

Ayden goes against Pamlico County. The Tornadoes are almost back to full strength, and that spells nothing but bad news for their hosts. Ayden all the way.

East Carolina tests itself against Furman University. Both teams have only one win, but the Paladins haven't played the schedule East Carolina has. Still, Furman is always up for the games with the Pirates.

It looks like the best chance for the Bucs to win the rest of the year, so I'll go along with them to take it.

Elsewhere in the Southern Conference, Davidson will edge The Citadel, Richmond will beat VMI and just about wrap up the title, while Villanova drops William & Mary.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, N. C. State will down Clemson to take the conference crown, while Georgia Tech passes Duke, Wake Forest beats Maryland, the Air Force downs North Carolina, and Virginia takes South Carolina.

To round things out, I'll pick Miami, Fla., over Pittsburgh, Alabama over Mississippi State, Arizona over Washington State, Arizona State over New Mexico, and Arkansas over Texas A & M. Season's record: 82 right, 23 wrong, 8.1 per cent.

N.C. State Chases Title Against Clemson In Top ACC Football Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The climax of the Atlantic Coast Conference could come Saturday if the N.C. State Wolfpack comes out on top in its game with the Clemson Tigers.

A win by the Wolfpack would give State the crown, while a Tiger victory would keep Clemson in the running for their third straight ACC football crown.

State and Clemson have either won or shared the past five ACC football championships and the way things look now, they could share a sixth.

The Wolfpack have won their last three games and now stands 5-0 in conference play, with two ACC games left this season. The Tigers have not lost a conference game, but have a tie against their record, with four straight conference games in Raleigh.

Duke meets Georgia Tech Saturday and will be trying to break a three-game losing streak.

The Blue Devils' improvised defensive backfield had its final practice Thursday afternoon as the team tapered off drills for this weekend's game.

Sophomore tailback John Cappellano is the lone defensive-offensive player expected to start. Vets Bill McKee, Ed Hicklin and Tom Edens will man the other positions in the backfield.

"We've gone from the best physical condition before Army to the worst," said trainer Otho Davis. He listed seniors Ken Homa and Ed Newman, two injured Blue Devil players, as "doubtful" for Tech.

North Carolina's Tar Heels completed preparations Thursday for their game against the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., Saturday.

Coach Bill Dooley said Ken Borries may not start at full-back Saturday due to a pulled muscle suffered in last week's game with Wake Forest.

Virginia, which will still be in contention for the ACC crown if State loses, plays South Carolina this weekend. The Cavaliers, are now 2-1 in conference play and the Gamecocks, who have lost their last four games, are 1-3 in the ACC.

The Wake Forest Deacons and the Maryland Terrapins play Saturday in another conference game. The Deacs have had only one ACC victory this season and it came at the cost of the Tar Heels. Wake now stands 1-1-1 in conference play.

Maryland has split its conference games winning two and losing two.

Baby Phants Fall By 40-20

West Carteret took advantage of a rough first half by Rose High School's junior varsity yesterday and rolled to a 40-20 victory.

The Baby Patriots blocked three punts and recovered a fumble, all inside the Rose 30 in the first half. They also got the ball another time at the 40 on an interception, keeping the Phants from making any offensive threat and putting themselves in position to score.

The Pats put together 26 points from the Rose mistakes. In the first period, Duck Taylor scored on a five-yard run, and then picked up the extra point. Bill Williams passed six yards to George Hester to make it 13-0 at the end of the period.

In the second period, Williams hit Seth Day for a 10-yard pass and Martin Jones ran the extra point. Jones then scored from three yards out to finish the first half scoring.

In the second half, West Carteret scored once in each period. Eddie Wallace scored on a four-yard run and Taylor went over in the last period from three-yards out.

Johnny Conway put the Phants on the scoreboard in the third period with a one-yard run. Then Kim Harbin passed 25 yards to Donald Taylor. Tommy Diggs got the final score from a yard out. Paul Carr kicked the two extra points.

Coach Nelson Best praised Harbin for his passing, and Billy Johnson for his defensive play.

The Phants close out the season next week, visiting New Bern.

McLain Is AL's Young Winner

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner, was unanimously selected today the American League's Cy Young Award winner for 1968.

McLain, 24, was the choice on all 20 ballots—two from each league city—in the annual Baseball Writer's Association of America vote.

McLain, who succeeds Boston's Jim Lonborg as the AL's Young winner, beat every team in the league at least twice and became the first 30-game winner in the major leagues in 34 years. Dizzy Dean, who won 30 for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934, was the last man to reach that plateau.

The ballots were sent in before the World Series and did not consider Series performances. McLain lost his first two Series starts but won the vital sixth game, tying the classic against the Cardinals at three games apiece. Mickey Lolich, who won three Series games, beat St. Louis as Detroit took the title in the seventh game.

McLain made 41 starts and pitched 28 complete games. He was 17-2 on the road and 14-4 at home. He struck out 280 walked 63 and pitched six shutouts. He had a 1.96 earned run average, fourth best in the league.

VMI Could Gain Role Of Spoiler

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

VMI's Keydets, who long ago lost their own chance to win the Southern Conference football championship, get what probably will be their last—and best—opportunity this weekend to play the role of spoiler.

The opportunity arrives when the Keydets, winless in six starts including two inside the conference family, visit Richmond City Stadium Saturday afternoon for a match with Richmond's league-leading Spiders.

Quite aside from the fact they are desperate for any kind of victory at all, the Keydets would especially treasure a triumph over the Spiders on this particular day — Richmond's homecoming.

Only a year ago, Richmond utterly ruined VMI's homecoming celebration at Lexington by upsetting the Keydets 3-0 in a hotly disputed game decided by Mike Bragg's field goal with 64 seconds left to play.

So if desire is the name of the game, the Keydets have it. But so has Richmond, which goes in to action with a 4-0 conference record, two SC games to go, and its first championship in history within reach.

"We know they'll be after us out here, but we think we have the boys who can hit back. We are thinking 'championship' all the time," says Richmond coach Frank Jones.

The VMI-Richmond encounter is the headliner of a four-game Saturday card for Southern Conference teams. No fewer than three of the games will count in the conference standings.

Two other teams with at least outside shots at the SC title, The Citadel, 2-1 in SC play, and Davidson, 1-1, meet at Charlotte and William and Mary, 2-4 over-all but still in hot contention for the championship with a 2-0 league record, plays host to nonconference Villanova.

After dark, two conference have-nots—East Carolina, 0-2, and Furman, 0-3—tangle on the Furman field. The loser descends to the SC basement, quite probably for keeps.

VMI, which has come close to winning on several occasions but never quite has been able to bring it off, will be strengthened against Richmond by the probable return to full duty of half-back Bob Habasevich.

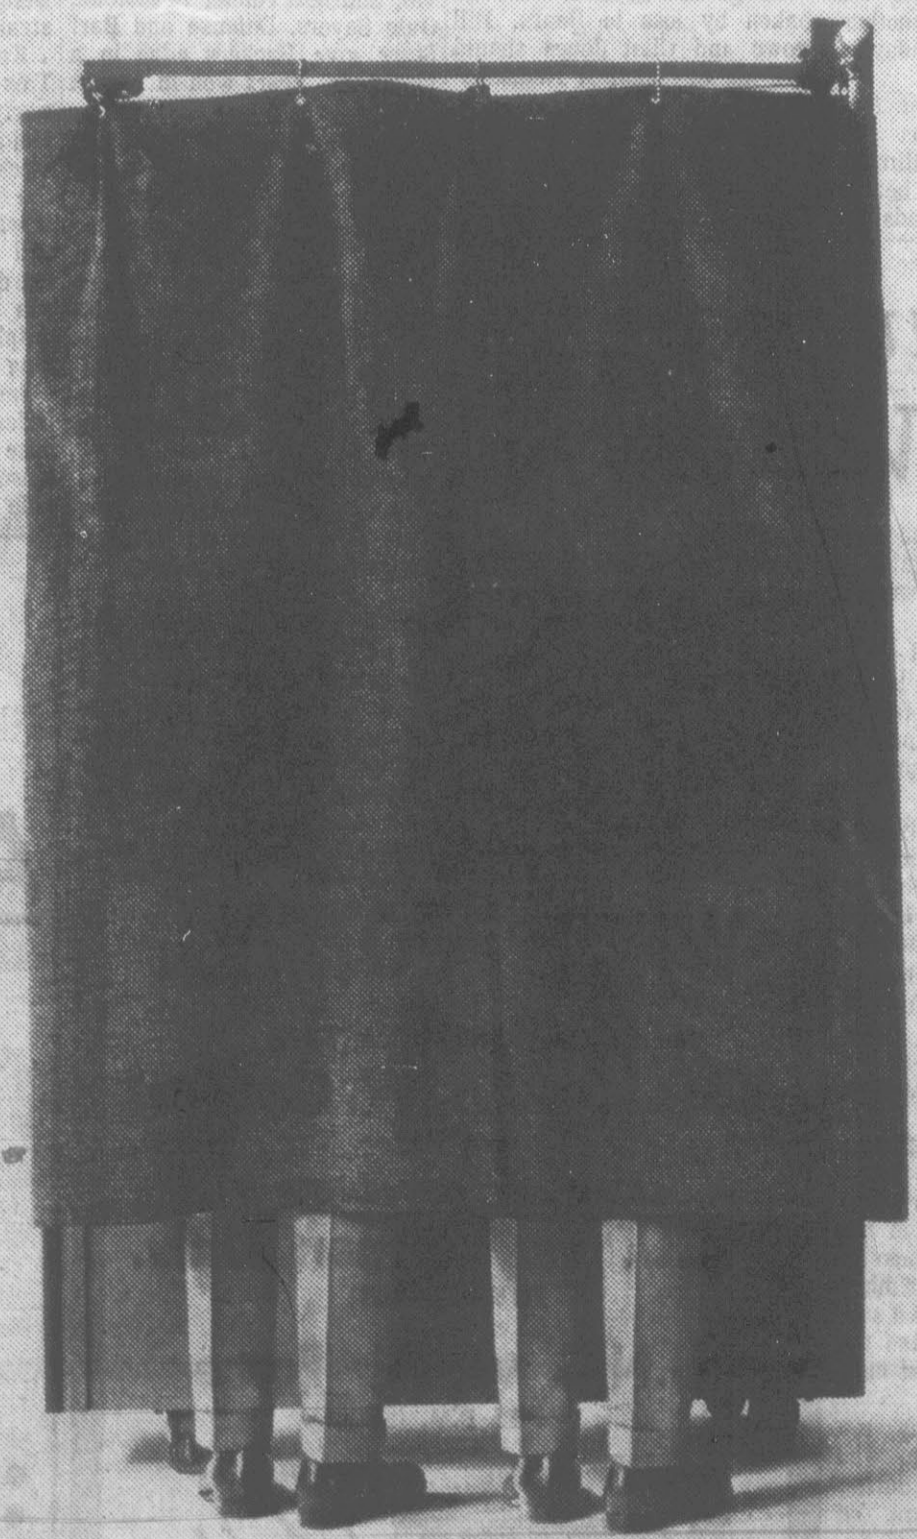

Habasevich, who underwent a knee operation late in September, played in last week's 20-10 loss to W&M but did not run. Against Richmond, the All-Southern ace is expected to be able to run with the ball, complementing the Keydets' two other fine rushers, Tom Sowers and Chuck Marks.

The Citadel, beaten only by Richmond in conference play, must keep its guard up against Davidson passer Gordon Slade and his favorite target, end Mike Kelly, but appears likely to have too much depth for the Wildcats.

The Bulldogs, however, go in to the game weakened by the loss on injuries of the SC's top rusher, Jim McMillan, and their two top linebackers—John Small and Jackie Zorn.

Time Is Catching Up With Dr. Schweitzer's Rules

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP)—"Le Grand Docteur," Albert Schweitzer, might have frowned and twitched his bushy mustache with disapproval. The strong-willed Schweitzer ruled out modernization at his jungle hospital to the day he died at the age of 90. But time is catching up.

The sick still paddle up the wide, jungle-fringed Ogooue River and dock their dugout canoes at the hospital's sandy landing. Others make the journey, as thousands before them, along the foot-worn paths winding through the lush rain forests of Gabon.

But underneath the simple exterior of the wood-framed buildings and corrugated iron roofs, shadowed by the green wall of jungle that surrounds the hospital on three sides, a minor revolution is under way.

Schweitzer, Nobel Prize winner, philosopher, author, musician and one of Africa's most legendary figures, refused to adopt reforms he thought would alienate his primitive-living patients.

Today, more than three years after his death on Sept. 4, 1965, his daughter, Rhena Eckert, and Dr. Walter Munz, Schweitzer's hand-picked successor, have pioneered an entry into 20th century medical practices.

A chugging generator has replaced the need for antique oil lanterns and candles in the rectangular, barracks-like hospital wards. Fluorescent strips cast rays of lights between the rows of wooden bunks.

Thanks to the generator, electrification has been expanded to virtually the entire hospital complex, making possible refrigeration for medicines and food, as well as a telephone, radio and the lighting.

A small operating theater boasts the latest medical equipment available although because of lack of air conditioning Munz continues to perform hundreds of delicate operations in 86-degree temperature. Munz performs plastic surgery as well as ophthalmic, cardiac and orthopedic operations.

A water purification system which pumps the nearby Ogooue River has made possible flush toilets and showers. Although tropical conditions rule out a closed sewage system, the open sewers that run behind each ward have been cleared, repaired and extended.

Munz, 35, a tall, precise Swiss surgeon, leads a team of five European doctors, 13 European nurses and 40 Gabonese apprentice nurses.

"It is our wish to remain true to the spirit of dedication and the precious heritage of Dr. Schweitzer, and to adapt this hospital to the needs and possibilities of today," Munz says. The ducks and goats Schweitzer loved to see wandering freely through the compounds have been banished to an outer perimeter, but an occasional maverick finds his way to the center of activity.

The bug-infested grass mats that patients lay on have been replaced by plastic-covered foam rubber mattresses.

Many sacred traditions, however, have been allowed to continue. That preserves an African flavor to the atmosphere, attracting many villagers who might otherwise hesitate to seek treatment at the hospital.

Families of the sick still cook food over small fires behind the wards. At night a dozen flickering fires light up the doorways that line the wards as the patient and his family enjoy a "home cooked" meal.

Members of the European modern facilities, the hospital staff still wear pith helmets remains a relic of the day Dr. Schweitzer founded it in 1913.

Diplomats Using Black Market

NEW DELHI (AP)—Smuggled foreign products that are otherwise unavailable in India fetch a nice price in the black markets of New Delhi.

Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai indicated to Parliament that a special breed of smuggler has been observed and caught—members of the capital's diplomatic community.

Twelve cases of "unauthorized importation of foreign goods" allegedly involving foreign diplomats were uncovered in the last two years, Desai said.

Among intercepted smuggled goods were $10,000 worth of nylon saris, highly prized by Indian women.

Wendover—A Strange Town, Strange History

WENDOVER, Utah (AP) — Wendover, age 61, is a strange little community—population 750—with a strange history. And it sits on the edge of some of the strangest countryside in the world, a sheet of snowy-white salt.

Split down the middle by the Utah-Nevada line, half the town observes the conservative laws inspired by Utah's Mormon Church. The other half is an around-the-clock miniature Las Vegas, replete with flashing neon, gambling, liquor and go-go girls.

One of the two casinos on the Nevada side is just inches over the line. A sign outside proclaims "This is the Place," a not-too-subtle play on Brigham Young's declaration to his pioneer Mormons when they arrived to settle Salt Lake City, 120 miles east of Wendover.

Despite the casinos, there is no bank. And no cemetery; those who die are buried in Tooele, 75 miles east, the county seat on the Utah side, or Elko, 110 miles west, the county seat in Nevada.

Deputy Sheriff Marion Carter enforces the Utah law, while Deputy Earl Lacey handles the Nevada trade. And each has his own jail.

Wendover is a watering hole for the American tourist, who doesn't find much to tour within a hundred miles. Another sign says "Where the West Begins"—a roadside refrain found at dozens of towns from the Mississippi to the Pacific.

Most of Wendover's residents are salt miners, railroaders, or employees of one of the casinos, two hotels, seven motels, four restaurants, 13 service stations and two garages.

Adjoining Wendover is an abandoned airfield, where, 23 years ago, a solemn group of Army Air Force volunteers practiced again and again the atomic bomb missions that destroyed Hiroshima and Nagasaki, and brought an end to World War II.

More than 17,000 men once were stationed at the best. Within an airhorn blast of the trucks that roar down U.S. 40 through Wendover are the Bonneville Salt Flats, a 200-square-mile section where the salt is at its purest and lies perfectly level.

It's the world's best racing surface. Late each summer, men with sleek, high-powered machines and a platoon of mechanics put up at Wendover for a few days of speed on wheels.

The story of the salt is the story of Wendover. It begins millions of years ago, when the entire West, from California to the Rockies, was undersea.

Limestone beds of the sea floor were faulted and cracked, producing mountains and valleys.

In western Utah, the mountains formed a closed circle and glaciers flowed down the peaks to create prehistoric Lake Bonneville, once as big as Lake Michigan.

The effect, as one geologist explains, was "a giant bathtub—a tub without a drain."

Most of Lake Bonneville evaporated over time. What's left is the Great Salt Lake—itsself 25 per cent salt—and the one-half billion tons of salt on the flats.

To the pioneers, the salt was a barrier worse than any mountain.

In 1846, George Donner led a party across the salt to Pilot Peak, just north of Wendover.

Scores of oxen and other animals died in the horrible journey. Tracks of the surviving wagons are still etched in the salt.

By 1900, the need for a direct route to the West Coast was still unfulfilled, and the Western Pacific Railroad determined to cross the flats.

With great difficulty, the road bed was pushed across. And to provide water and service for the steam engines, the railroad built Wendover, in 1907. Water was piped by gravity from a spring on Pilot Peak.

About 100 rail workers lived in Wendover for nearly a half-century. The town and its water yielded to the diesel, and the railroad work force was cut to 25.

While fast transportation had finally conquered the flats, fast communication had not—until the first coast-to-coast telephone line was joined at Wendover on July 28, 1914.

Twenty-eight years later, the first transcontinental all-weather buried cable was completed at Wendover.

Wendover lives on one industry besides racing, and it too depends on the salt. The Kaiser Aluminum Co., with a system both imaginative and ridiculously simple, sends trainloads of potash fertilizer from Wendover each year.

A ditch 54 miles long, cut into the salt in a centrifugal pattern, collects brine and empties it into evaporating ponds. The liquid contains potassium chloride, easily milled into potash.

"The potash plant has taken up the slack for the railroad," says Mayor John Susich, 52, operator of the Western Motel and Cafe and the Texaco station.

"Wendover is a growing town. And it's a good little town, with good people."

Sea Gull Flock Was Off Course

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A flock of sea gulls apparently was "gulled" into mistaking runways for water at Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport.

Control tower officials said the gulls, somewhat disturbed, circled the airport for some time before flying off to the north. An Apache Airlines pilot later reported encountering the gulls, chopping up several of them. The plane was not damaged.

Opinions Show Views Differed

LOUISVILLE (AP)—When J. J. Elder visited the Grand Canyon, he was asked to sign the visitors' register which included space for comments.

Two tourists who signed ahead of Elder came away with totally different impressions of the canyon. One had written: "The acme of occidental sublimity." The other called the canyon the "biggest ditch I ever saw."

Inventor Believed In The Individual's New World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A few days before his death last month at the age of 62, Chester Carlson, an inventor who struggled for decades before meeting success, affirmed his faith in the creative individual in a corporate world.

Carlson, whose fortune reached nearly $50 million, was asked his opinion of the complaint often heard that the individual inventor, the creative tinkerer in the spirit of Edison and Bell—or Carlson—doesn't stand a chance of success competing against corporate inventors.

The only place for such a man, the theory states, is to join a large organization and make use of its money and laboratory equipment. Otherwise, frustration and failure awaits.

"I don't think it is true," Carlson replied. "Some of the biggest advances still will come from the independent man. The corporate employe ends to think in channels, making minor improvements in an established field."

"If you work for an employer," said Carlson, "you feel duty bound to show progress. This usually means that you think less far out than the independent inventor."

"The independent makes the sky the limit. And he's using no-body's time but his own," he said. Such a man may attend to his corporate job days and his inventions nights and weekends, which is the way Carlson did it. Carlson related how his own life and work personified this belief.

As youth in San Bernardino, Calif., he was tragically poor. His father was an invalid. His mother became fatally ill when he was in high school. An only child, he was his parents' main support.

He worked his way through college, sent out 82 letters of application and got one interview. He took a job with Bell Laboratories in New York and then was laid off in the depression.

After six weeks he landed another job and continued studying for a law degree at night, even though severe spinal arthritis was developing. In his spare time he worked in his lab to find a machine that would reproduce written and printed matter.

"I took a fundamental view of a process," he said. "My first conclusion was that it must be photographic in nature. Almost all photography then was chemically based and I recognized that companies in the field must have explored it."

"I decided, 'Why compete with them?' I decided to look at the field fundamentally, to find how light affects matter. I found photoelectricity. It was purely physical, not chemical."

That was 1938. "At the time I was very excited," he said. "From then on I felt it was only a matter of sufficient design and technological development." But 20 frustrating years passed before full fruition.

Indians Insist On Treaty Rights

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — The Shoshone Indians signed a treaty in 1863 retaining rights to gather pinon nuts and a leader says they'll continue, despite later white man's laws that limits the nuts to 25 pounds per man.

Oscar Johnny, a sub chief of the Western Shoshone, said Tuesday he has about 350 pounds now for his family's winter supply.

"There are about 40 families out picking pine nuts around northeastern Nevada right now," he said. "I have told my people to go ahead and pick pine nuts."

A spokesman for the Bureau of Land Management said the government "isn't in a position" to enforce its pinon nut law.

Have you ever wondered why Hubert Humphrey and his friends in office treat the South like it is enemy territory? Listen to what Clark Clifford, manager of many campaigns for the Democratic party, and now Secretary of Defense had to say: "As always, the South can be considered safely Democratic."

Maybe George Wallace can get a peace treaty signed so that the South will no longer be treated by Washington, D. C. as enemy territory.

THE LEGS HAVE IT — New York dancer Elaine Giftos gives newsmen a clear view of her shapely legs at Paramount Studios in Hollywood, after telling how her legs carried her from the Johnny Carson show to a movie as Barbara Streisand's girlfriend in "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever". A Paramount producer saw her on the Carson show — and noticed her legs, of course. Twelve hours later she was in Hollywood. (AP Wirephoto)

Strategy

It's Tim's move, and he is taking a long time thinking it over. In chess, if you're a good player, you don't play quickly. If you do, your opponent may outwit you.

Military strategy, they say, is based on the rules of chess. So are many of the "higher games" in business and finance. Yet, when it comes to life itself, the rules of chess apply in only a limited way. In life, you can't be totally objective. You can't exist on logic alone.

The Church teaches that though we surely need logic in order to live successfully, we also need compassion, tolerance, love, understanding, and the strength that comes with faith.

Although life is not a game, we must have the help and strength of the Church to discover those rules that will determine our ultimate destiny.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets stronger Thursday. Supplies adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 45 to 46; medium, whites: 40½ to 42; small, whites: 31 to 32.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog market mostly steady. Tops 18.00-18.50 Rocky Mount; 17.50-18.25 Wilson; 17.25-17.75 Bethel; 16.75-17.75 Tarboro; 18.50 Salisbury; 18.00 Greensboro; 17.50 Siler City.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a brief celebration of President Johnson's Vietnam bombing halt but erased the gain long before the morning was over and showed a loss on average early this afternoon.

Trading was fairly active—nothing like the near-record pace of the last big "peace rally" session of Oct. 27.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 3.24 at 949.15, after showing a maximum rise of 3.48 in the first hour—a backward movement of 6.72 points, which is sizable.

Plainly, Wall Street was showing skepticism about immediate prospects for peace on the basis of President Johnson's announcement.

From an early ratio of 7 to 2 in favor of gains over losses, the advance-decline situation was reduced to very little—with about 75 more pluses than minuses in some 1,440 issues traded.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .7 at 351.5 with industrials off 1.5, rails off .3 and utilities up .1.

In the first rush of trading the ticker tape ran late, and gains of fractions to 2 or 3 points were liberally scattered throughout the list. The strength petered away rapidly after the first 30 minutes.

Many investment institutions stayed on the sidelines, awaiting clarification of progress towards peace. Analysts commented that the road would be long and difficult.

Freeport Sulphur was most active stock, with a loss exceeding a point.

Among other active stocks, Memorex lost 2, Zapata Off-Shore and Chris-Craft 1 each and Southern Pacific a fraction, while Cities Service held a 2-point gain, Sinclair was up nearly 2, and Youngstown Sheet rose a point or so.

Losses of about a point were taken by General Motors, General Dynamics, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge, Eastman Kodak, Standard Oil of California and Standard Oil (New Jersey).

After an early rise, prices were scrambled on the American Stock Exchange.

Miss Greenville

Prior to the pageant last night, the contestants were entertained at a tea at the home of Jaycee President Gene Prescott where judges were given an opportunity to talk with the girls informally.

A parade through downtown Greenville followed the tea. Other contestants in the contest included: Melanie Anne Wilson, Lynda Louise Dunn, Margaret Elizabeth Dowd, Patricia Ann Brock, Maria Nardette Broadwell, Nancy Darden, Nancy Joyce Forehand, Wanda Kerns and Martha Elizabeth Johnson.

In addition to her title and trophy, Miss Stimmel was presented a $300 scholarship, more than $100 worth of gift certificates, and more than a dozen other gifts, ranging from clothes and stationary to record albums.

As first runner-up Miss Danell received a $150 scholarship and gifts, ranging from clothes to a steak dinner for two.

Miss Parker, as third runner-up, received a half-dozen gifts from local merchants while the other contestants all received hair styles and other gifts.

Israeli Raiders Deep In Egypt

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli commandos, retaliating against recent Egyptian attacks, crossed the Suez Canal and penetrated 125 miles into Egypt Thursday night to bomb two Nile bridges and a power station, the Israeli army announced.

Farm Bureau Proposals Made On Other Than Tobacco Crop

At the recent meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the State Farm Bureau, a number of recommendations other than ones for tobacco were considered and discussed.

Announce New WPXY Manager

George R. Francis Jr. has been named general manager of Radio Station WPXY according to Donald W. Curtis, president of Curtis and Associates, owners of the local radio station.

Francis said no major changes would be made in WPXY's programming. "We will continue to play good music," he noted.

Francis has lived in Greenville since 1961 and attended East Carolina University. The Marine Corps veteran assumed his new duties today.

Curtis and Associates operate four other radio stations in North Carolina and have other business interests in the state.

Obituaries

Adams
Funeral services for Mr. Jessie Adams will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Phillips Brothers Mortuary.

Adams, who died Monday, had no immediate relatives. It had been reported earlier that he was survived by a sister, Mrs. Frances Bell of Bell Fork, however Mrs. Bell is deceased.

Harris
Mr. Ralph G. Harris, 61, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Thursday morning at 9:05. He had been critically ill for the past ten days. Funeral services will be conducted at the Wilkerson Chapel Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by Captain Wayne McHargue of the Salvation Army, and the Rev. R. W. Tedder, pastor of the Greenville Church of God. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Harris was born and reared in Beaufort County in the Ransomville Community and had been lived in and near Greenville since 1929.

He was employed for many years at Flanagan Buggy Company and for the past twenty years had operated Harris & Jarvis Service Station on Dickinson Avenue.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Kathleen Hammond Harris; two sisters: Mrs. Rudolph D. Jarvis of Belhaven and Mrs. Sybil C. Bolch of Hickory; two brothers: J. Allison Harris of Norfolk, Va., and Elmer Harris of Belhaven; and a number of nieces and nephews.

Cub 'Gold Rush' Slated Saturday

The once-postponed Cub Scout Gold Rush will be held tomorrow at Ballards Crossroads.

District Scouting officials said the program would be held on the Quinerly Farm, with registration at 9:30 and the Gold Rush beginning at 10:00.

Dr. Burt Warren, assisted by William Brady (both of Farmville) are in charge of the program.

Several hundred Cub Scouts from across Pitt County are expected to participate.

Each of the listed recommendations were approved by the Pitt County Chapter and will be taken to the state meeting in Durham on November 17.

—Peanut Committee—James T. Keel, chairman: Price support. Inasmuch as prices received by peanut growers has risen very little in the past ten years, the national average support price of 77.5 per cent of parity should be increased to near parity price.

The committee does not recommend a bill now in Congress, the Peanut Certificate Plan, number HR18719, because it would place a tax on peanuts at the first buyer from the farmer. Such action would make the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) a tax-collection agency, which the committee does not see as the purpose of USDA.

Keel pointed out that "peanuts are a big item in the Pitt County economy, with a yearly value of about $1,300,000."

He noted that this year the yield in Pitt County had been erratic because of the weather.

"Some farmers produced only 500 to 600 pounds per acre. Others had 4,000 pounds, and a poundage of 4,700 per acre has

East Speaks At Rally In Windsor

WINDSOR — "My Democratic opponent is the most striking example of political bossism and machine politics that has for too long plagued state employees in North Carolina," Republican John East, candidate for Secretary of State charged at a rally here yesterday.

East, an associate professor of Political Science at East Carolina University continued his attack by saying, one of the most overlooked issues in political campaigning in North Carolina this year "is the value of a two-party system which have to the progress of this state."

"For one thing," the Republican candidate said, "it would eliminate the growth of a political machine which as we have seen, has grown up in North Carolina with Democratic Party dominance."

Thad Eure, "who had not even bothered to campaign this year," according to East, "in his hiring practices reflects the arrogant attitude of a machine politician."

Such hiring practices "would never have developed, let alone have survived," under a competitive two-party system, the candidate said.

been reported."

—Field crops: J. C. Galloway, chairman: Recommendations: Grain prices be based on Chicago price plus freight; the State pay for grading all grain; all grain be sold on a weight basis instead of by the bushel; oppose a worldwide agreement on the sale of any farm product that would lower the price to the farmer.

—Livestock: Jarvis Allen, chairman: Recommendations: That beef imports be limited to a low extent; the full support of the pork and beef producers associations to inform the public as to what production cost of meat really is; that the USDA grades of prime, choice, good and medium be strictly enforced by the packers; that hogs be sold on a grade yield basis instead of the normal procedure used on foot.

—Dairy: Charles McLawhorn, chairman: Recommendations: That dairy plants should pay support price for milk used in manufacturing; an increase in the price of milk comparable to the cost of production; that milk distributors and processors be bonded.

—Poultry: Frederick McGlohon, chairman: Recommendations: That out-of-state egg buyers continue to be bonded; oppose a brown-egg quotation; oppose the compulsory federal grading and inspection of eggs as proposed in the Mondal Bill.

Probe Theft Of Hearing Aids

Greenville police are continuing their investigation into the theft of $2,600 worth of hearing aids from a parked car here Wednesday.

Police said eight hearing aids were reported stolen from a car parked on Evans Street in front of the U.S. Post Office about 11:10 a.m. The car was not locked at the time according to Chief H. F. Lawson.

The hearing aids belonged to the Bel Tone Hearing Aid Service, 1716 West Fifth St.
