

Pitt May See Record Voter-Turnout Tomorrow

Pitt County voters will go to the polls in what may be record numbers tomorrow to cast their ballots in the unpredictable election of 1969.

Polling places will open at 6:30 tomorrow morning and close at 6:30 p.m. Elections Board Chairman I. Bruce Koonce urged citizens to vote early and move through the polls as rapidly as possible. He suggested that voters study the candidates before they visit the polls so they can mark their ballots without delay.

Officials are predicting that the number of ballots cast tomorrow in Pitt County may reach 20,000. There are 26,076 registered voters in the county. All of these registered in the new registration this year as the county converted to the loose leaf book system. Most of them registered last spring but 2,456 new voters added their names to the books last month during the registration period.

The county is overwhelmingly Democratic so far as party registration goes. There are 22,759 registered Democrats, 2,846 Republicans, 256 independents, 191 with no affiliation and 24 members of the American Independent Party.

The American Independent is the party of George C. Wallace, former Alabama governor whose name is on the ballot in all 50 states this year.

The small registration for the American Independents is misleading, however. Wallace sentiment is running high in Pitt County, as it has been all during the campaign. Most observers have been predicting that Wallace would carry the county, although as the campaign drew to a close there was evidence that party unity had become the theme among the county's Democratic stalwarts.

The Democrats, however, have reserved most of their enthusiasm for Bob Scott, their candidate for governor and son of the late governor Kerr Scott, who was beloved in this area.

This enthusiasm reached its peak Saturday night when Scott appeared at Minges Coliseum for his final big rally. A crowd estimated at 10,000 turned out for the evening.

The Republicans were having a rally of their own in Rocky Mount for Jim Gardner who is running a strong race for governor on their ticket.

Pitt County Republicans have rallied around Gardner, pointing out he is an easterner.

There will be other races of interest to Pitt Countians tomorrow. David Reid was chosen as the Democratic candidate for one of the two State House of Representatives seats upon the death of the party's nominee James Harvey Ward. He is being opposed by Frank Stenbeck, Republican party chairman for Pitt County and a local merchant.

For the county's other House seat Horton Roundtree is unopposed.

Among the council of state races Dr. John East, East Carolina University professor, is opposing Thad Eure, long time Democratic party warhorse. East is a Republican who opposed Walter Jones for a seat in Congress two years ago.

Jones has had strong opposition again this year for the First Congressional District seat. He has been opposed by Reece Gardner of Kinston who, though a Republican, endorsed George Wallace candidacy in the course of the campaign.

Observers rate Jones position the safest of all the state's Congressional races.

Robert Morgan, chairman of the East Carolina University board of trustees and leader in the 1966 Legislature of the successful university status fight for EC, is running for attorney general against Republican Warren H. Coolidge. Morgan, who scored a resounding victory in the Democratic primary, is expected to gain an overwhelming vote in Pitt County this time.

Voters will receive five ballots when they go to the polls tomorrow. One includes the three parties with presidential candidates; another has the races for United States Senate and First District Congressional District; a third has county offices; a fourth the gubernatorial and other state offices and a fifth two amendments to the state constitution.

Voters may vote a straight ticket by marking the circle at the top of the party of their choice on each ballot. To split a ballot, the block by each candidate's name must be marked.

Perhaps 1.5 Million N.C. Voters Will Go To Polls

By RICHARD DAW

RALEIGH (AP)—A record 1.5 million persons are expected to vote Tuesday in an election marking the end of one of North Carolina's hardest fought—and perhaps most significant—campaigns.

Voters will mark ballots for president, for congress, for governor and an entire slate of state officials, for state general assembly, for two state constitutional amendments, and for a host of local officials and issues.

But the spotlight will be on the presidential and gubernatorial races.

The gubernatorial contest pitting Lt. Gov. Bob Scott, 39-year-old Democrat, against Rep. Jim Gardner, 35-year-old Republican, took on a new twist because of the three-way presidential fight.

With the presidential candidates regarding North Carolina as a battleground, both Scott and Gardner tossed aside traditional party ties, to varying degrees.

The results of that, in this most unusual of election years, may provide a clue to the state's political future.

George Wallace, the presidential candidate whose presence in the race brought about the non-conformist stances of Scott and Gardner, courted North Carolina's 13 electoral votes hardest.

The third party candidate visited the state three times during the campaign, compared to Republican Richard Nixon's two visits and Democrat Hubert Humphrey's one.

The vice presidential candidates on all three tickets also visited the state.

Wallace's appeal and an apparent disaffection for Humphrey led both Scott and Gardner to handle their associations with their parties' national tickets carefully.

Scott said he would vote for Humphrey but that he preferred to describe his position on the presidential race as "one of neutrality."

Gardner said he would vote for Nixon but made such comments as these: "I don't agree with those who say a vote for Mr. Wallace is wasted," and "I've never heard Mr. Wallace say a thing I disagreed with."

Wallace appears to be running strongest in the traditionally Democratic east, which Gardner considers the key area in his campaign.

With only about 375,000 Republicans among the approximately 1,800,000 registered voters in North Carolina, Gardner needs to make major inroads in Democratic ranks to win.

A Gardner victory would make him the first Republican governor elected in North Carolina during this century.

Republicans put up a full slate of candidates to run with Gardner for lieutenant governor and all council of state positions, but their campaigns were limited and victories over Democrats would be major upsets.

Active contests were waged, however, in eight of the state's 11 congressional districts as Republicans fought to reduce an 8-3 Democratic majority in North Carolina's delegation to the U. S. House of Representatives.

Two Democrats—L. H. Fountain in the 2nd District and Alton Lennon in the 7th District—are unopposed, as is one Republican—Charles Raper Jones of the 9th District.

Political Campaign Shadowed By Vietnam And Interpreting Of Polls

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The final days of the 1968 presidential campaign are being played out, shadowed at its end as at the beginning by the war in Vietnam and the meaning of the latest polls and surveys about the outcome.

With the election only a day away, an Associated Press survey and the latest major public opinion polls show Republican Richard M. Nixon leading, but Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey slicing into his margin.

The AP survey showed Nixon ahead in 24 states with 216 electoral votes, Humphrey had the lead for 21 electoral votes and third party candidate George C. Wallace for 39.

But 20 states with 262 electoral votes were rated tossups, and Humphrey has been gaining ground in most of them.

The AP survey was based on data gathered prior to President Johnson's decision last Thursday to halt U.S. attacks against North Vietnam. It therefore does not reflect any shifts which might have been produced by that administration order.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien Sunday pointed to the results of the latest major public opinion polls, which show Nixon's lead at two points over Humphrey. Earlier, Humphrey trailed in some polls by as much as 15 percent.

O'Brien said Nixon's slippage indicated a Democratic victory, a prediction challenged by Republican spokesman Herbert G. Klein, who said:

"Nixon is leading substantially in the states we need for the votes" and will capture at least 330 electoral votes, well over the 270 it will take to select a president.

Klein's view was bolstered by a New York Times survey of political opinion in all 50 state showing:

Nixon leading in 30 states with 299 electoral votes, Humphrey ahead in eight states and the District of Columbia with 77 electoral votes and George C. Wallace in front in five states with 45 electoral votes. Seven states with 117 electoral votes were said by the Times to be too close to call.

Compared to the Times survey of a month ago, Nixon has lost 81 electoral votes and Wallace 21. Humphrey has gained 49, while those considered too close to call have increased by 53 electoral votes.

The Vietnam war as always was a prime subject of campaign talk Sunday.

Nixon, in a television interview, offered to go to Paris, or to Saigon, should the President deem that helpful.

Nixon appeared on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press."

"If he would, for example, consider it helpful for me to go to Paris or go to Saigon in order to get negotiations off dead center, I would be glad to go," Nixon said.

"... President Johnson and president-elect Nixon could knock out the idea that Hanoi is going to gain from the negotiating table what they cannot gain from the battlefield," he said.

"Let me make one thing clear, I don't suggest this as a grandstand stunt," said Nixon. "I don't know that it will be helpful."

Nixon said the Paris talks should go on, despite the reluctance of the South Vietnamese government to send a delegation to the bargaining table.

But he also expressed doubt that the President would have halted the bombing of North Vietnam Friday "if he had expected the backlash from Saigon."

Puerto Ricans Fear Violence

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) —

Fires in polling places, an explosion at an American-owned oil refinery and the reported theft of 80 guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition set police on the alert today, the eve of the island's election.

The arms and ammunition were stolen from a San Juan sporting goods store, police reported.

Earlier a terrorist bomb wounded four policemen at the Texaco oil refinery near Catano.

An explosion and fire Sunday hit two schools to be used as polling places in San Juan but police said they saw no connection between these and the blast at Texaco.

The incidents came as the votes of mainland Americans have suddenly become important in the five-party battle for control of Puerto Rico's executive mansion and the San Juan City Hall.

Damage to the Texaco refinery was reported minor. The four policemen were standing nearby at the time of the explosion and the wounds of one of them were regarded as serious.

Police said they were questioning a 24-year-old man reported seen running from the area shortly before the blast.

The bomb went off under a pipeline.

The interest in the votes of Americans is being highlighted by the fact that for the first time many major candidates in Tuesday's balloting are campaigning in English as well as Spanish. They have appeared on English-language television and radio stations and are advertising in the island's English-language newspaper, the San Juan Star.

Thieu Continues Saigon Boycott

Woman Revolutionary Leads Viet Cong Delegation In Peace Parley

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP)—A woman revolutionary led a Viet Cong delegation to Paris today to join the peace talks. She pledged that the war in South Vietnam will continue as long as the United States "props up the puppet administration of Saigon."

Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, a member of National Liberation Front's central committee, said on her arrival from Moscow: "The population of South Vietnam ardently wishes for peace but this peace cannot be dissociated from independence and liberty."

"As long as the American government has not renounced its aggressive aims and ... props up the puppet administration of Saigon ... the Vietnamese people will continue their struggle until final victory."

Mrs. Binh, the chairman of the Women's Liberation Association, heads a team of six members.

The delegation was greeted by flag-waving Vietnamese and Soviet Ambassador Valerian Zorin. And Ambassador Xuan Thuy, who leads Hanoi's delegation to the peace talks with the United States which began on May 13.

A spokesman said the NLF "will be present" at the first meeting of the expanded talks Wednesday. They are attending as a result of the agreement between Hanoi and Washington under which President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam last week.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu has announced that his government will not send a delegation to the talks because it will not negotiate with the NLF as a separate entity. He said the boycott would continue until Saigon is assured of direct, serious talks with Hanoi.

U.S. officials privately feel Thieu's boycott will not wreck the peace discussion. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he expects South Vietnam to join the talks sooner or later.

Saigon newspapers on Sunday lauded Thieu's boycott and charged that Johnson, when he decided to quit bombing the North, broke promises made at his Honolulu meeting with the South Vietnamese president.

"His action tarnished his country's image," said the Vietnam Guardian. "The brutal decision taken by Johnson, no doubt pressed by the deadline of the U.S. presidential election, will not help in any way to bring the Vietnam conflict to an honorable end."

Tabulating Returns

The Daily Reflector will tabulate returns tomorrow night from the general election.

Pitt County poll holders were reminded to call The Daily Reflector office as soon as each ticket is counted. The number is 752-6166. All races should be called in, including the presidential, since a precinct-by-precinct tabulation for the county will be made. Returns in key races will be posted on the elections board in front of The Daily Reflector office.

Berlin Police Battle 1,500 Young Leftists

By GEORGE THOMSON

BERLIN (AP)—About 1,500 young leftists, employing guerrilla-like tactics, fought a pitched two-hour battle today with police that left more than 100 injured and led to scores of arrests.

The battle was joined as helmeted demonstrators, armed with cobbles, stones, paint and poles, attempted to break through police barricades and to storm a district courthouse to stop debarment proceedings against Berlin's "student attorney," Horst Mahler.

They were met by 1,000 club-wielding police supported by mounted reinforcements, water cannon and tear gas.

The demonstrators caused a heavy toll of police casualties with their guerrilla style of battle: thrusting at police, withdrawing, consolidating and then thrusting again from another angle.

At one stage, they managed to beat back a 300-man police force a distance of 150 yards before the demonstrators moved off in the direction of the Congress Hall where Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger's Christian Democratic party was holding its annual convention.

But, instead of marching on the hall, the demonstrators reassembled at their headquarters in West Berlin's Technical University.

After the smoke cleared, it was announced that a Lawyer's Court of Honor had rejected the city prosecutor's application to debar Mahler, who has supported leftist student causes in and out of court.

Police counted 120 injured in their own ranks. Ten of them (Continued On Page 16)

Pitt Commissioners Approve Sale Of $3.9 Million In School Bonds

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer

County commissioners this morning approved the sale of $3,900,000 in school bonds and agreed to furnish two offices for magistrates who will begin operation when the new court system goes into effect December 1.

Commissioners in approving the bond sale, clear the way for the sale of the final portion of the $7,965,000 in bonds approved in a 1966 referendum. Sale of the notes is scheduled for December 11.

Judge J.W.H. Roberts, chief district judge under the new court system, spoke to the commissioners and requested two offices for the four magistrates who will be assigned to Greenville.

The jurist noted that one magistrate each will be assigned to Farmville, Bethel, Ayden and Grifton, and reported that the county or municipal authorities in those towns could provide office space.

The new magistrates, Judge Roberts noted, will be able to accept guilty pleas, fines and fees and will be able to try certain small claims cases, as designated by the chief judge, in addition to their duties of issuing warrants.

A conditional resolution, calling for a road linking Memorial Drive and the Farmville Highway was approved by the commissioners and is to be forwarded to the State Highway Commission.

The board's resolution was based on a plan to provide an east-west street from the area of U.S. 264 By-pass-N.C. 43 to Memorial Drive, using a route down Arlington Drive, which was approved by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission last week.

The resolution approved urged continuing the street on to the Farmville Highway if the Arlington Street concept is adopted.

In other business this morning, the commissioners heard reports from various departments, including the County Extension office and Welfare Department.

Welfare Director Ted Gartman reported that the Special Medical Service and Emergency Food program is now in effect and that an estimated 10,000 persons are expected to benefit from the program this month.

The special program is being funded with a grant from the federal government and will run for six months.

James Donald Gilson was appointed commodity supervisor and will oversee the distribution of food under the project.

Election Ball Held By Junior German Club

The Junior German Club held its first dinner-dance of the year Friday night at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The club building was the precinct for the mock formal election ball. Red, white and blue banners, place cards, and pictures of the candidates in this year's election were used in decorating for the political background.

Following the "cocktail" caucus, a roast beef dinner was served to the voters with a "dancing demonstration" following. After votes were counted in the election, Pat Paulson was elected president.

The following new members were introduced: Mrs. Bill Brewer, Mrs. Leland Flanagan, Mrs. Robert Mills, Mrs. Leon Moore, Mrs. Donald Patrick, Mrs. James Perkins, Mrs. Allen Taylor, Mrs. Don Wilkerson, and Mrs. John Winstead.

New members were introduced by Mrs. William Taft Jr., a past club president.

Guests were greeted in the foyer by Dr. and Mrs. Eric Fearrington and Mr. and Mrs. David A. Evans Jr.

Secure Copy Of Your Birth Certificate To Correct Date

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and have always had a very good mother-daughter relationship, but we are now having our differences over a young man I have started dating and like very, very much.

First, let me explain that he is a very nice person, polite and all. I think I am lucky to be dating him. Well, last night my mother said, "How can you stand 'J'—his hands and fingernails are always filthy?"

Abby, "J" is mechanically inclined and he works on his car a lot, so naturally his hands and fingernails are going to get dirty and greasy. But my mother refuses to accept that.

I don't think a fellow's fingernails are all that important, and I don't think it is my place to tell a 23-year-old man that his fingernails are dirty, do you? Please help me. I think a whole lot of this guy.

NEEDS HELP
DEAR NEEDS: If you "think a whole lot of this guy," tell him that there are soaps on the market that will dissolve grease and grime from hands and fingernails. If he's the right kind of fellow, he'll appreciate it.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who is 25, has been going with a young lady of 24 for the last 2 years. They seem to get along very well (same religion), and he asked her to marry him. She accepted, but here's the problem. Our son wants his girl friend to be examined by a doctor to find out if she is a virgin. He says he wants to be sure she is before the wedding because if he finds out she isn't after the wedding, he will leave her at once.

The girl refuses to submit to this kind of examination, and our son says if she will not do so within the next 30 days he will drop her. All wedding plans are at a standstill now, and we don't know what to do. Is our son out of line, or is the girl?

MOTHER OF THE MAN
DEAR MOTHER: I would say your son is out of line. Like way out! His request is insulting, and if I were the girl I would have dropped him in 30 seconds.

DEAR ABBY: I know you've heard about people who have lied about their ages because they wanted to be "younger," but how about those who lied about their ages because they wanted to be OLDER?

It all started when I lied about my age to get a job. I was 14 and said I was 18. Now it's on all kinds of records that I am 4 years older than I really am. I didn't mind so much when I was younger, but now I'd like to get straightened out. I would hate to tell you how many places and records have the wrong year of my birth on them I sure a mess. How do I get things back to normal?

LIAR
DEAR LIAR: The ONE document that bears your accurate birth date is your birth certificate. Get a copy from the bureau of vital statistics in the city of your birth. Then send copies to those "places" where you'd like the date corrected.

Annual Bosses Night Held By Credit Women

Bosses and their wives were honored guests of the Greenville Credit Women International at their annual bosses night held at the Quality Court Restaurant Thursday night.

Other guests were Mrs. Doris Hendricks, past state president, and members of the Kinston CWI.

During a candlelight ceremony Mrs. Hendricks installed the officers for the coming year: Gail Crisp, president; Carol Hardee, first vice president; Mary Roberson, second vice president; Pearl Hartsell, recording secretary; Martha Mills, corresponding secretary; and Lillian Smith, treasurer. She charged them to be aware of their responsibilities to the club and its sponsors as well as to themselves.

Mrs. Jo Dees was recognized for her leadership during the past year and was presented a past president's pin.

Highlighting the evening was the presentation of two special awards. Mrs. Carol Hardee was recognized as Credit Woman of the Year for her outstanding contributions to the local club. Gene Skinner was the first recipient of the annual Boss of the Year Award.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Loretta Riggs and Agnes Whichard who presented a program of folk music.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Saturday Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Reather Carol Dunn and Kenneth Wayne Dilda was solemnized Saturday evening at 6 o'clock by candlelight at Dilda's Grove Church with the Rev. R. L. Norville officiating at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Dunn of Fountain. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dilda also of Fountain are the parents of the bridegroom.

A program of organ music was rendered by Miss Hazel Gay of Fountain. The vocalist was Dana Oakley of Farmville, who sang, "I Love You Truly" and the "Wedding Prayer" was used as the benediction.

Vows were spoken before a background of a candelabra holding bunting white tapers, flanked by floor baskets of mixed white flowers and sprays of green fern and other greenery. The pews were marked by a spray of white flowers, fern and a white satin bow. The couple knelt during the benediction on a white prie dieu, adorned with a white satin bow and fern.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza with a detachable overskirt of chantilly lace which formed a chapel length train, styled with an empire bodice, scooped neckline and long tapered sleeves.

Her veil of candlelight illusion was attached to a petal designed headpiece of lace and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible covered with lace, centered with a white orchid and satin streamers.

Miss Genean Dunn, sister of the bride, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a floor length dress of light blue satin. Her matching veil was attached to a bow and she carried a long-stemmed white mum tied with fern and white ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joyce Dew of New Albany, Ind., sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Sylvia Dilda, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ginger Dunn, sister-in-law of the bride. They wore dresses like that of the maid of honor and carried white mums.

Miss Michelle Baker of Wilson, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of light blue satin, lar to that of the bride's. She carried a white basket showered with flowers and ribbons.

Randy Baker of Wilson, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a white satin pillow adorned with lace, the ring attached with a bow.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Bruce Dunn of Fountain, brother of the bride, Marland Dilda of Florida, Guy Dilda of Goldsboro, and Edward Dilda of Fountain, brothers of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dunn wore a forest green three-piece suit with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue three-piece knit suit with matching accessories. Both wore white mum corsages.

For a wedding trip, the bride wore a navy blue two-piece linen suit with matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her Bible.

The bride, a graduate of Farmville High School and King's Business College, is employed at N. C. Blue Cross and Blue Shield, Inc. in Greenville.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Farmville High School and East Carolina University, is employed at East Carolina as an instructor of history.

Following the wedding trip, the couple will establish residence at 306 Paris Ave., Greenville.

Mrs. Hilda Owens of Fountain directed the wedding.

After-Rehearsal Party

Following the rehearsal Friday night, an after-rehearsal party was given at the Fountain Community Building.

The table was decorated with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink flowers. This was flanked with two three branch silver candelabra with pink burning tapers also adorned the table.

The three-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink roses and green leaves, was served by the mother of the bride, after the couple had cut the first slice.

Presiding at the punch bowl, Mrs. Dilda, mother of the bridegroom, served fruit punch.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY
AYERETTE

Why don't cheap shoes fit like 'good' shoes? (Contd.)

'Good' shoes are made to be fitted from the heel forward, through the arch, to the ball of the foot. A properly fitted 'good' shoe does not fit the toes; it must be roomy ahead, on the sides and above the toes. With this desirable roominess up front, the arch and heel sections must fit well to keep the foot from sliding forward and popping out of the shoe. Such construction requires better, slower shoe-making and that cost money.

The other concept of a shoe-fit regards only the toes. The one criterion is that the toes must be at or very near the front of the shoe. The heel won't slip because a short shoe exerts enough pressure to hold it on. After a brief time, the toe-fitted shoes give enough to allow the great toes to hit the ends of the shoes. Then every walking step is crowding those toes forward with a lever action which exerts pressure that is six to eight times the weight of the child's body. This is a high price to pay for cheap shoes, and the corns and bunions that can result.

Community College Filling A Gap

The increase in freshmen Scholastic Aptitude Test average at East Carolina University emphasizes the wisdom of upgrading Pitt Technical Institute to community college status.

ECU's SAT average for incoming freshmen has shown a steady increase in this decade. In 1962 it was 857; 1963 it was 892; 1964, 931; 1965, 943; 1966, 953 and 1967, 959. This year the SAT average has taken a dramatic jump to 990.

All this means that, unlike in years past, every deserving student in the Pitt County area is not going to be able to gain entrance to East Carolina University.

Even now, some Pitt youth are going to community colleges in nearby counties so they can obtain college credit for their work.

Until recent years East Carolina has opened its doors to virtually any high school graduate who wished to try college level work. This policy was of great service here in the east when little else in higher education was available. Now, however, there is more and more competition among high school graduates for places in the freshmen classes at ECU. The SAT average is expected to steadily increase and this means that many highly motivated high school graduates who do not score quite so well on the SAT and other measurements will find they will be unable to enter.

Fortunately a statewide system of community colleges is growing to fill the gap.

Pitt County has Pitt Technical Institute. However, even though many of the academic courses now being offered there are of college level, the students cannot receive college credit for them because the institute does not have college status.

The institute's board has voted for community college status and this has been approved by the State Board of Education. If all goes well Pitt Tech will be Pitt Community College by the fall of 1969.

The move is so very logical because the new community college will fill a gap for many Pitt County young people who will not be able to enter ECU.

The Institute's board has pledged the college status will not weaken the technical and vocational programs now being carried on. In fact, they will be strengthened.

With community college status for Pitt Tech, and with the strengthening and broadening of the programs at East Carolina University, young people of this area will have higher education opportunities as good as can be found anywhere available to them close at home.

Community college status for Pitt Tech is the only missing link at present. By this time next year that missing link should be forged.

Light Moments Of Campaigning

By JERRY AUSBAND
Editor, The Daily Star

Shelby — It's about time the hum-drum of the political campaign got past us. It's been long, hard, tiring, hot, cold, weak, strong, and, all too often, it's been tedious for readers, writers, listeners and speakers.

But the campaign on the fringe of the Piedmont has had its lighter moments, and it's time that the serious and grave moved over and let a little of the levity pass this way.

For instance, at a Bob Scott rally at which a number of state and local Democratic candidates were present, the telephone in the National Guard Armory rang. A caterer's worker answered, listened a moment and then hung up: "He wanted to speak to Mr. Humphrey," she said with a puzzled look on her face.

Not only have youth invaded the national political scene, they've hit the North Carolina circuits as well. One bubbling youngster, his high school notebook cover plastered with Humphrey-Muskie stickers, greeted a statewide Democratic candidate who's shied away from the national ticket with an "HHH" button. How about wearing this tonight, the youth asked the candidate. The candidate said he already had one, but thanks, then he twisted the button in his hand, hid it in his fist and stuffed his fist into the pocket of his suit. The hand came out empty.

But there have been a couple of pretty fair—or pretty awful—puns attached by candidates to the campaign. One comes in the form of a bumper sticker which proclaims, "Scott It To 'Em," in answer to the "Sack It To 'EM" phraseology identified with the Republicans.

Then, at that same rally, there were two donkeys, living examples of the Democratic symbol. The Lincoln Countians who transported the donkeys to Gastonia said one of the animals had followed the late President John F. Kennedy around North Carolina when he campaigned here. They were not prepared to say, however, that there was any significance to the fact that both donkeys absolutely refused to join the Democratic rally inside.

And there was the statewide candidate, who shall go nameless to avoid further embarrassment, who, at a speech in Shelby, was getting beside him and said something to the effect that his plan would be great for Fiber Industries, a man-made fiber manufacturer at Shelby. The man he turned to just happened to be manager of the Carolina Plant of PPG Industries.

Talking about getting thoughts mixed up, a great silence greeted the enthusiastic emcee who introduced the wife of a party worker with faux pas: "She's a hustler!"

There's No Dropping Out Of This World

Tomorrow millions of North Carolina and American voters will decide who is to lead the state and nation for the upcoming years.

It is hardly necessary to point out at this late stage that every citizen's vote is important.

There have been many people who have been disappointed this year as the political processes slowly established the candidates who would finally face one another in tomorrow's balloting. There has been talk by some groups of dropping out and not voting.

We would remind those who feel this way that in this strife torn, bomb dominated world there is no dropping out. We are all headed toward a common destiny.

Politics change as the people change and change is brought about through voting. This is reason enough for every qualified citizen to cast his ballot for the candidates of his choice tomorrow.

First Doubts In Nixon Office

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON — The first faint case of stomach — butterflies has now penetrated the surging confidence that has been rocketing Richard M. Nixon toward the White House ever since the Democrats' free-for-all in Chicago two months ago.

The former Vice President was closeted in his suite on the 25th floor of Detroit's Sheraton - Cadillac Hotel until well after midnight on Monday (Oct. 28) dictating notes to a handful of his top speechwriters for the major speech he delivered over nationwide radio Wednesday.

The subject: a demand that Vice President Humphrey instruct Democratic presidential electors to support the popular winner in the Nov. 5 election, thereby eliminating any chance of a deadlock in the Electoral College that could lead to a dangerous Constitutional crisis.

Nixon intimates billed this speech as a political ploy to exploit Humphrey's insistence that if the Electoral College deadlocks, the election should be settled in the House as provided in the Constitution. Humphrey must abide by the will of the voters, said Nixon, even if no candidate gets the required 270 electoral votes, and not let it be decided by a privileged circle 435 politicians in the House.

But in fact, this Nixon speech for the first time bluntly recognizes the possibility, no matter how remote, that Humphrey's late surge, coupled with George Wallace's electoral strength in the South, might deny Nixon a majority in the Electoral College. It thus clears the way for Nixon to accept the support of presidential electors nominally pledged to third-party segregationist candidate Wallace without being party to any deal.

There have been other, minor indications in the last few days that the pressure is beginning to tell inside the Nixon campaign for the first time. For example, some of Nixon's own partisans were shaken at his unnecessarily sharp rebuttal on CBS's "Face the Nation" last Sunday to the New York Times's political attack on his running-mate, Governor Spiro Agnew.

On the surface, Nixon's high command is supremely confident. The peril point was passed, they claim, two

Get Out Of The Kitchen

WASHINGTON — "Hello, Mrs. Jones. Can Harry come out and vote?"

"Harry doesn't want to come out and vote. He's in his room sulking. He said he isn't going to come out of the house until the election's over, and he said he might not even come out then."

"Gee, that's a shame. I knew Harry wasn't happy with the choices this year, but I didn't think he'd stay in his room all day."

"Harry's funny that way. He said nobody cares what he thinks, and since he can't have his way, he's not going to give them the satisfaction of seeing him vote this year."

"Who's 'them'?"

"I asked Harry and he said that 'them' are those who are perpetuating the system."

"But if Harry doesn't vote, he not only is hurting them, he's also making it possible for the others to get in."

"Harry says it doesn't make any difference who gets in, because if they're not going to listen to him, then there's no difference between them."

"But what about the worst ones? Doesn't he want to stop them?"

Other Editors Say The Vanishing Politician

(Kannapolis Independent)

Two stand-bys in the American political scene may be headed for extinction. Hecklers are about to do away with political oratory other than on television and the old time politician is about to be priced out of existence.

So-called hecklers, who are really riotous scum, almost make speaking an impossibility. Who wants to hear oratory when the volume is turned up so high the ear drums split? Only by increasing the volume can a speaker hope to make himself heard above today's chants and screams.

Much has been said and written about the situation. Some go as far as to suggest that major party conventions will fail to survive. But it is the old time politician who deserves sympathy.

He is a man who blindly believes in his party. He has all the arguments in favor of the candidates on his tacket and he knows all the arguments against his opponents. He knows scores of persons intimately.

Office-seekers ask his advice and plead with him to work for them. He does this willingly, frequently without hoping for a job. He feels it is his duty to work for the party. The political scene formed the social life of many a respected man or woman prior to recent years. The politician attended an endless round of coffees, outdoor talks, barbecues, teas, home meetings and rallies.

Now this life is threatened. There are $1,000 dinners. There are dinners for $100, for $50 and for $10. The price of a coffee meeting might be $10. Price of a barbecue can run from $5 to $50.

Many of these friendly politicians are far from wealthy. They cannot afford to spend $25 to $50 per week attending dinners, luncheons and teas. They must stay away from meetings they cherish.

Some of these modern fund-raising dinners are so costly officeholders cannot attend. Some of the most ardent stayers for a party must stay away. They have fond memories of such affairs that cost 50 cents or $1.

Take the meetings away from the old time political worker and he is likely to lose his zeal. No longer can he be called upon for accurate predictions or pinpointing of trouble spots.

Hecklers and dinner prices have done him in. But who, if anyone, will do the electioneering in the future?

Office Seeking Costly

By GORDON BROWN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidates for political office, from president to dogcatcher, will have spent between $250 million and $300 million by the time this year's campaign bills are paid.

A third of that total is being spent in pursuit of the presidency alone.

The estimates, compiled by experts in campaign financing, are supported by an Associated Press survey of political spending.

Aside from the presidential race, the costliest contests are those for major statewide office in the big states.

A hotly contested Senate race, such as in California, may involve expenditures of $5 million.

Even a campaign for a House seat may cost a lot with records showing House races in which more than $500,000 was spent.

All this spending is financed by contributions and loans—some large, many small. And some candidates dig deep into their own pockets for needed funds.

Herbert E. Alexander of the Citizens Research Foundation in Princeton, N.J., a recognized expert, estimates the total cost of 1968 political campaigning at $250 million to $275 million.

Stephen Horn, a senior research fellow with the Brookings Institution in Washington, estimates $250 million to $300 million.

It is impossible to obtain complete and accurate totals because of loose and varied laws regulating the reporting of campaign contributions and expenditures.

Federal law doesn't require any reports by candidates on their expenditures in winning party nominations. States have varying requirements; some have none at all.

Presidential and vice presidential candidates aren't required to file statements, although national committees working in their behalf must report expenditures to Congress.

The camps of the three leading contenders have provided The AP with these estimates of their costs for the general election campaign:

—Republicans Richard M. Nixon and Spiro T. Agnew, more than $20 million.

—Democrats Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, about $12 million.

—American Independents George C. Wallace and Curtis E. LeMay, $10 million to $20 million.

To these totals must be added another $30 million to $35 million which these candidates and their unsuccessful opponents spent prior to the party nominating conventions.

Swelling the total by an unknown but large amount are expenditures made by state and local groups on behalf of their chosen tickets. These groups, except in a few states, make no reports.

State party committees also usually assign a portion of their budgets to plugging the national ticket.

These amounts, Alexander said, probably add up to another $10 million or more.

Thus the total spent in the effort to elect one man—a president—exceeds $80 million and may reach $100 million.

A century ago, Abraham Lincoln spent a reported $100,000 on winning his first presidential campaign, during which he never left Springfield, Ill., and made no major talks.

Alexander's estimate that political spending this year would

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
ACCEPTANCE

The word "opportunity" really means "a chance." There is nothing that opens up before one in more glorious prospect than does opportunity. Other parts of the world are just as fertile and extensive as this area, but a combination of circumstances has made the Western Hemisphere the land of opportunity.

"Give us a chance." How often this word is on the lips of youth and middle age. Even in their old age men and women are looking forward to the opportunity to do things they never got done before. Youth cries out—in strident and furious tones—for a chance. Although it is sometimes hard to know just what youth wants, the emergence of new powers lies at the basis of what in this and former ages has been termed the revolt of youth.

Many a marriage would be saved if people were willing to give each other an opportunity—a new chance to let old wounds heal and not to inflict new. The young man starting in business looks at the rungs of the ladder and asks for nothing but the opportunity to start climbing. Success stories are thrilling. For every success story there is probably a story of neglect and failure, but the success stories are like beacons leading us on with confidence of ultimate success.

The greatest opportunity we all have is life itself. Life is God's gift to us, and if there is one thing about which we can be certain it is that God expects us to accept this gift with gratitude.

No Slowdowns Yet, In Inflation

By ELMER ROESSNER

In November more clues will develop as to whether the surtax and the cut in government spending—which hasn't been cut at all—will ever slow down the economy or curb inflation.

There has been no slowdown of inflation and there won't be any until strong action is taken. In fact, there are signs that if inflation does not break into a gallop, it may soon cancer.

Despite the small rise in the Department of Labor's consumer price index in September, two-tenths of 1 per cent, prices seem to keep rising at an astonishing rate. In New York the mayor has ordered an investigation of the rise in uncontrolled rents which have shot up 40 to 60 per cent. Cigarette prices are currently being jacked up. So are candy bar prices. In a supermarket this week I saw calves' liver quoted at $1.95 a pound and liverwurst at $1.09. It's cheaper to buy Geritol.

ELMER ROESSNER

The reason for the upsurge in prices are: wages and other income are rising and people have money to spend; people are buying now in fear of higher prices to come, and there is only paper behind the dollar. There is not even silver behind the fractional coins any more, except an outer coating to make these tokens look like money.

Clues So Far

Inflation obscures the true trend of the economy. A German who had lived through the wild inflation in Germany after World War I told me this week that the thing he remembered most was the starvation. People with billions of paper marks still didn't have enough to buy sufficient food.

There have been some clues this week as to whether the present program will slow inflation. The "yes" clues: Construction awards in September were found to be down slightly.

Machine tool orders, a long-range indicator, fell 12 per cent from August to September.

The "no" clues: Auto demand continued high, so high that production overtime increased.

Airline revenues rose in September.

Steel orders, lagging while users worked down inventories, showed sufficient increases to prompt price rises for some shapes.

Federal spending in September rose to $16.23 billion, compared with $14.46 billion a year ago.

For that matter, with Christmas coming, inflation rising and the flight from money to goods, sales will continue to soar for the rest of the year at least.

The election, of course, will influence business in November. The election of Nixon has already been discounted by Wall Street. The election of Humphrey would trigger a wave of hedging because his promises can be filled only with a great rise in government spending. The election of Wallace might do the same; since Congress, notoriously inflationary, would take over the running of the country.

To Rebury Bones Of Chief Osceola

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — War chief Osceola of the Florida Seminoles, his bones disinterred to prove he was still there, will be reburied at his Ft. Moultrie national monument gravesite.

National Park Service archaeologists unearthed his remains during the weekend after several days of digging. They turned up more than 50 age-blackened bones in a crumbling wood coffin.

"There's no doubt in my mind that we have the old fellow," declared John W. Griffin as the park service archaeologist displayed the bones Sunday.

The disinterment was ordered after a Florida man, Otis W. Shiver of Miami, claimed to have dug up Osceola's remains in January, 1966. He said he planned to make them the center of a Florida tourist attraction.

Griffin said the hole that was found in 1966 after Shiver's claim, was many feet from the coffin. The wooden casket was found many feet from a marble marker and partly beyond the perimeter of an iron paling enclosing the gravesite.

Unexplained, Griffin said, is the identity of an infant buried alongside Osceola. But the chief's remains were found to be headless, confirming records that he had been decapitated before burial.

Osceola, leader of warring Indians in Florida, had been captured and brought to Ft. Moultrie as a federal prisoner. He died there in 1838.

Reburial is planned after a thorough study of the bones.

exceed $250 million compares with his estimates of $200 million in 1964, $175 million in 1960, $155 million in 1956 and $140 million in 1952.

Available figures indicate Republicans have consistently outspent Democrats in recent presidential races and will do so again this year.

In 1964, reports indicate 18 Republican national political committees supporting Barry Goldwater spent $16 million. Thirty-two Democratic committees supporting President Johnson spent $8.5 million.

In 1960, expenditures of $10.1 million were reported by GOP committees, $9.8 million by Democratic committees.

Where does all this money go?

Most candidates report their biggest cost item is advertising on television and radio and in newspapers. Travel, hotels, meals, campaign literature, buttons, balloons, bumper stickers, campaign letters and circulars and staff salaries all account for sizeable expenditures.

A report by the Federal Communications Commission shows that political candidates spent $34.6 million for television and radio time in 1964.

This figure is expected to reach $50 million this year. Added to this are network and station production costs, a particularly large item for recorded shows.

Nixon forces estimate they are spending about $10 million, or nearly 50 per cent of their total budget, on radio and television broadcasts.

Humphrey, reportedly short of money until late in the campaign, stepped up his television schedule with a $2.5 million effort in the last few days of his drive.

Most candidates for Congress also report heavy expenditures for television and radio.

The National Broadcasting Co. says it charges $160,000 an hour for use of its network in prime time. A half hour goes for 52 per cent of that, $83,200.

A one-minute spot commercial during network prime time costs $26,000.

In many races, more has been spent by losing candidates than by the winners.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., spent an estimated $6 million to $7 million in his unsuccessful bid for the Democratic presidential nomination this year. Humphrey's expenses in landing the nomination were estimated at $4 million to $5 million.

Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick reported spending $776,993 in his effort to win the New York Democratic nomination for the Senate. Paul O'Dwyer, who won, reported expenses of $27,441.

the vice president gaining considerable momentum.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic national chairman, said Sunday night "The tide has been turning in Hubert Humphrey's favor for more than a month, and the pollsters have confirmed it tonight," adding:

"The Gallup poll, which practically wrote Humphrey out of the race only a few months ago, will show a final pre-election spread of only 42 to 40 per cent between Nixon and Humphrey."

The Gallup poll of Oct. 17-21 gave Nixon an 8 point lead.

"The Harris poll," said O'Brien, "also will have only a two-point spread, a margin the professional pollsters agree make the election too close to call."

The previous Harris finding was Nixon 40 and Humphrey 37 per cent.

O'Brien also said: "The Sindlinger poll tonight, meantime, gives Humphrey the edge over Nixon."

A telephone poll of 48 states by the Norwood, Pa., marketing firm of Sindlinger & Co., Inc., found—as of Oct. 28-31—Nixon ahead by 33.3 to 32.2 for Humphrey.

weeks ago when the Paris peace flutters failed to reveal a full-fledged dove, and the bombing was not halted. Further, they claim that Senator Eugene McCarthy's last-minute—and grudging—endorsement of Humphrey will have little if any impact. The peril point for that event, too, was two weeks ago, as they see it.

But campaigning for the past two days with Nixon, as we have done, exposes what ought to be Nixon's greatest concern in these closing days of his campaign. Although his set speech, milking the same applause lines again and again, is always well received, there is a singular lack of genuine enthusiasm in all but the most partisan crowds.

"What we need right now," said one adviser, "is a real spark."

Moreover, instead of the usual throngs that greet presidential candidates in this season, Nixon seldom encounters more than a handful of party leaders when he arrives at an airport or a hotel. The excitement and abandon that usually mark the week before the election are absent, and the huge crowds that pack into his auditoriums are listless.

At Pittsburgh's Civic Arena Monday night, for example, a determined effort by Nixon partisans to start the hall rocking with a "We want Nixon" chant did not get off the ground. Thus, although his campaign is a miracle of technical perfection, it lacks flesh and blood and exudes voter lethargy.

Compensation In Being A Mess

GREENVILLE, Ky. (AP)—While William McClellan was visiting friends, the couple's 4-year-old son came in from the yard in a general state of disarray.

"You're a mess," his mother scolded.

"Yep," the kid agreed, "but I'm happy."

The Washington Post, commenting Friday on the role of reporting public opinion, said, "The polls have certainly wielded an influence this year far greater than at any time in their 31-year history."

For example, early in August financial contributions to Humphrey's campaign dropped considerably after a Gallup report showed him 16 percentage points behind Nixon.

As the poll findings improved for the vice president, so did the flow of money.

Trooper Injured In Fatal Fight

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — A state trooper was recovering from knife and gunshot wounds following a fight in which a man he had arrested was shot and killed.

Henderson Police Chief J. R. Wilkerson gave this account of the incident:

Trooper Odys Perry Lowman Jr. had arrested Maurice Richardson, 40, of Henderson on a drunken driving charge and was driving Richardson to the Henderson Police Station to book him on the charge.

Richardson drew a knife and cut the trooper under the chin. Wilkerson related.

Lowman then drew his service revolver and fired several shots, fatally wounding Richardson and shooting himself in the upper left leg.

Richardson was dead on arrival at Maria Parham Hospital in Henderson, and Lowman was reported in satisfactory condition at the same hospital following treatment of his knife and gunshot wounds.

thought about that before you nominated Hubert Humphrey. Harry's a great one for fantasies."

"I should think so. Couldn't I talk to Harry and try to persuade him to come out and vote?"

"Harry doesn't want to talk to anybody. He said it's too late to talk. Now it's time for action."

"But if Harry won't come out of the house, what kind of action is he thinking of?"

"For one thing, he plans to boo the results as they come in on television."

"You mean even though he isn't going to vote and he doesn't care who gets it, Harry still is going to watch the results on television?"

"Of course. How else will Harry know he was right in the first place when he decided not to vote?"

"That makes sense. Do you think Harry will come out of his room after Election Day?"

"It's hard to say. The last time I spoke to him he said he might not come out of his room for four years."

"Gosh, Mrs. Jones, it must be tough on you."

"You can say that again, especially at mealtimes. Harry keeps saying the reason he's staying in his room is because I once told him that if he couldn't stand the heat, he should get out of the kitchen."

The fifth and final report of the New York Daily News depicted Humphrey ahead in New York state by 3.3 points. It was Humphrey 46.8, Nixon 43.5, Wallace 6.8, and 2.9 undecided.

Nixon had been ahead in the first two straw ballots.

The Harris poll of Oct. 27-28 gives Nixon a 3 point lead, but with indications Humphrey is moving up. Wallace got 16 per cent.

Another example of Humphrey on the move is shown by a survey published Sunday by the Minneapolis Tribune, showing the vice president with 48 per cent, Nixon 44, Wallace 5, and 3 per cent undecided. Two weeks ago the poll showed Nixon with 44.5, Humphrey 42.5 and Wallace 9 per cent.

Wallace has not been shut out in any poll, and received a high of 15.9 per cent in a state poll by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nixon got 38 per cent, Humphrey 32.2, with 13.9 undecided.

A Newsweek magazine study of each state, 10 days before the election, said it appeared that Nixon's strength "had peaked" but couldn't see a Humphrey victory in any event.

The Chicago Sun-Times straw poll reflected a heavy advantage for Nixon, with the GOP candidate receiving 46.94 per cent, Humphrey 38.96 and Wallace 14.10.

The Baltimore News American poll gives Nixon 39.8 per cent, Humphrey 31.6, Wallace 27.2, no choice 1.4.

Nixon is strongly favored, despite a late rally by Humphrey, according to a national political survey published today by The New York Times.

It says Nixon leads in 30 states with a total of 299 electoral votes.

Humphrey is ahead in 8 states plus the District of Columbia with 77 electoral votes, while Wallace led in five states with 45 votes, the Times said.

Seven states with 117 votes were considered too close to call.

Nixon's projected electoral vote has dropped by 81 and Wallace's by 21 since last Times survey a month ago. Humphrey has gained 49 votes and the total vote of states too close to call has increased by 53.

Humphrey was reported leading in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maryland, West Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota, Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

Wallace was ahead in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi, the Times said.

The survey said Nixon's lead was narrow in Delaware, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Missouri, Arizona, New Mexico, Florida and Virginia. Humphrey could win if he sweeps the undecided states and most of those where Nixon's lead is close, the newspaper said.

The survey also indicated that Republicans would gain about 5 governorships and perhaps as many as 8 in the 21 states where such elections will be held. In Congress, the Republicans were expected to gain about 6 senate seats and 10 House seats, but this would not deprive the Democrats of control of either house, the Times said.

Why North Carolina looks to Bob Scott

North Carolina demands good government. Strong, responsible government. Since the turn of the century North Carolina's leaders have created and directed programs that make North Carolina a leading State of the Nation.

North Carolina's high achievement is no accident. We lead because we are people who believe in and participate in positive programs, not negative actions. We lead because we work to overcome our short-comings and because we have imagination, courage and self-starting ability to look at ourselves and move forward again.

Bob Scott will provide the strong and energetic leadership that North Carolina expects. He is respected and trusted. He is experienced and has been tested. He knows North Carolina and its people.

Bob Scott is the only candidate for Governor with experience in state government, with a tradition of public service to North Carolina.

Bob Scott will keep North Carolina on the move.

Jordanian Govm't Says Guerrilla Plot Broken

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The Jordanian government announced it had put down an attempt today by a group of Palestinian commandos to foment civil strife in the kingdom.

In a broadcast King Hussein told his people guerrilla action against Israel would continue "purified from these stealthy treacherous elements."

The king's emotional speech over Amman Radio was the first official explanation of widespread shooting and demonstrations that swept Amman this morning.

A later communique from the interior ministry indicates the trouble was over—at least for the moment—but gave no word on casualties.

The king said the commando group which he accused of being behind the trouble was concentrating all its efforts against his regime.

The interior Ministry communique identified the commando group as the "Victory Phalanges" and said its leader was Taher Dablan.

The "Victory Phalanges" was aimed to have been responsible for the giant fire at Israel's Lod Airport near Tel Aviv Oct. 24.

The communique said fighting began when a group of commandos attacked a police patrol car and held the occupants.

When police reinforcements arrived, it said, the guerrillas dispersed into the crowded refugee districts of Amman.

Later the guerrillas opened "heavy fire" from the areas where they had holed up, and exhorted women and children to come out and demonstrate for their cause, the communique added.

The government accused the group of having extorted money from the people to finance its activities and said "the citizens have been complaining of this for the past several months."

Hussein said the group's goal is to undermine Jordan's steadfastness against Israel and to foment trouble with other Arab countries.

Diplomatic sources said the firing started when the army tried to arrest selected leaders of the Arab guerrilla organizations which have been raiding Israel from bases in Jordan. This set off demonstrations in Palestinian refugee camps at Ashrafiya and Jabal Hussein.

The army surrounded the two camps and moved quickly to quell other demonstrations

N.C. Counts At Least Sixteen Dead In Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 16 persons were killed in North Carolina traffic accidents over the weekend, including a Kings Mountain policeman whose cruiser tumbled down a bank while he was chasing another car.

The toll for the year rose to 1,535, or 95 more than at the corresponding time last year.

The policeman, Donald Henderson, 30, was thrown from his vehicle. Police Chief T. E. McDevitt identified the driver of the car Henderson was chasing as R. A. Bell, 34, of Rt. 2, Kings Mountain. The chief did not know the reason for the chase, but said that after Henderson's death Bell had been charged with failing to stop after an accident resulting in injury or death, and with operating a car under the influence of an intoxicating beverage. McDevitt said that the chase ended when Bell's car collided with another, injuring two persons, and sent Henderson's cruiser down the bank as he sought to avoid the other machines.

Milton Lee Cannon Jr., 21, of Trenton, and Samuel Jarmon, also 21, of Dover, were killed when their car overturned near Smithfield.

Two Reidsville residents were killed when, the highway patrol said, their car ran a stop sign and hit a building one mile north of Reidsville. They were Gloria Jean Moore, 16, and William Earl McCain, 18.

John Sam Parsons, 30, of Candor, was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding hit a tree three miles east of Candor.

Pedestrian victims included Patty Levon Crisp, 13, of Mount Holly; William Edwards, 76, of Rt. 3, High Point; Omelius Dunston, 30, of Rt. 1, Youngsboro; Melvin King, 17, of Windsor; Teresa Janette Roinson, 13, of High Point; and Hazel Mae Hines, 40, of Washington, N.C.

Charles Jack Warren, 41, of Canton was fatally injured in a head-on collision near Canton.

ROME (AP) — Rescue teams battled mud and floods today to search for survivors of weekend floods and landslides that cut a path of death and destruction along the southern edge of the Italian Alps.

More than 100 dead were counted and officials feared the final toll may go much higher, exceeding the 113 who died in the floods in Florence and Venice two years ago today. That was the worst flood in modern Italian history.

The prefecture at Vercelli, at the apex of a tragic triangle formed by three overflowing rivers northeast of Turin, announced that 91 bodies had been found in that province, the worst hit area in the disaster zone.

At least 13 others were missing, and 10 other dead were reported in other sections of northern Italy.

Hundreds of army and civilian rescue workers struggled over muddy washed-out roadbeds to reach the disaster area in Vercelli province still being swept by heavy rains this morning.

"It looked like some giant steamroller had smashed through the valley," said one pilot who flew over the Mosso valley in the foothills of the Alps, where 64 persons were smothered in the rubble of their houses. The section is a wool-producing region.

Dozens of factories, farm buildings, houses and cars were lost in the landslides which rain-storm sent rumbling down north of Turin.

Venice had its fourth highest water in 40 years. The lagoon waters surged over the banks of the canals and sent inhabitants car in which he was riding overturned near North Wilkesboro. Charlie Thompson, 18, of Boydton, Virginia, was killed when a car overturned near Norlina.

The seas pounded both Italian coasts, doing damage all along the shores and tearing boats from their moorings, even inside the port of Genoa.

In addition, three Camp Lejeune Marines were killed in out-of-state accidents. One was James R. Blais, who died in an accident at Camden, N. J. The other two were killed near Newberry, S. C. They were Ronald Webb, 21, of Lubbock, Tex., and James Carter, also 21, of East St. Louis, Ill.

Premier Giovanni Leone interrupted a tour of World War I battlefields to fly to Novara, where eight persons were crushed to death in a mountain-side house.

The weather bureau forecast clouds and more rain for today and Tuesday. Officials said the major rivers of the north—the Po, the Adige, and the Ticino—were still on the rise.

The Biella area, 36 miles north of Turin, was a region of desolation and chaos.

More than 15 bridges were swept away by mountain torrents. Railroads were cut, and snowstorms closed several mountain passes to France and Switzerland.

Most highways were clogged with cars rerouted from secondary roads which were buried under landslides.

"We have nothing left," said Giovanni Ferrarone, 44, who was rescued with his wife and two sons before his farmhouse in the Pavia area collapsed under flood waters.

Hundreds of cattle drowned or were crushed by the landslides.

Bomber Serving As Life-Saver

WHIDBEY ISLAND NAS, Wash. (UPI)—The Navy's twin-jet A3B Skywarrior, which started out as a heavy bomber and has now changed to other tasks, is playing a key role in a lifesaving saga in the Vietnam War.

The tankers have been credited with saving 499 combat planes worth $958.5 million. These planes would have had to ditch if it hadn't been for the converted Skywarriors, according to officers at this base.

Vietnam Fighting Slackens

SAIGON (AP) — Ground fighting in Vietnam tapered off to its lowest level since last summer, but allied communiques today reported at least 164 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers killed by planes, artillery, infantrymen and patrol boats in a number of small scattered actions.

U.S. and allied forces reported only light contacts with North Vietnamese army and Viet Cong units throughout South Vietnam Sunday, the U.S. Command said.

Two communiques from the command today did not report a single major ground action. Military sources said all the enemy casualties reported occurred in small actions and none of them were initiated by the enemy.

The U.S. Command reported no significant actions along the Demilitarized Zone for the third consecutive day since President Johnson's order halting the bombing of North Vietnam Friday.

No shelling of major cities was reported since My Tho, in the Mekong Delta, was hit with 38 mortar rounds shortly before 1 a.m. Sunday, 28 hours after Johnson's order went into effect.

South Vietnamese headquarters, however, reported two light shelling of military installations where soldiers live with their families. A spokesman said two soldiers and four civilians were wounded and three houses were destroyed.

The U.S. Command's morning communique did not report a single ground action. South Vietnamese headquarters reported two skirmishes in which 16 enemy were killed and 12 taken prisoner. Government casualties were put at six wounded.

Air and naval offensives all across the South are now being pushed by the U.S. Command.

The U.S. Navy said an allied river campaign aimed at strangling enemy supply lines from Cambodia has been under way since Oct. 16.

The Navy did not say how many ships were being used in Operation Sea Lords, but there are about 400 patrol and attack boats in its three delta forces.

In the first phase of the campaign, the U.S. Command said, 359 Viet Cong sampans were smashed and 411 enemy fortifications were wrecked. Then South Vietnamese marines and infantrymen landed Saturday along a 35-mile canal. No enemy troops were killed, but the Vietnamese seized mortar and artillery shells, a rocket launcher and 2,000 rounds of small arms ammunition. South Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

U.S. Air Force and Navy bombers continued their attacks today in Laos, hitting North Vietnamese supply lines and suspected enemy troop concentrations. Air Force B52 bombers dropped 1,500 tons of bombs on bases along the Cambodian border northwest of Saigon, in the central highlands near the area where Laos and Cambodia border Vietnam, and in the north 30 miles below the "M." The U.S. Command said six Marines were killed Sunday and eight wounded when a Marine F4 Phantom jet mistakenly bombed American troops southwest of Da Nang.

AWOL Private Still Has Haven

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The "sanctuary" goes on for an AWOL Army private who took refuge in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Student Union building last Tuesday.

Hundreds of students from MIT and neighboring colleges have participated in the stay-in of Jack Michael O'Connor, 19, of Goldsboro, N.C.

O'Connor said in statement that he had taken sanctuary to protest U.S. participation in the Vietnam war. He had been invited by the MIT Resistance group to take sanctuary, college officials said.

Students have set up lookouts with walkie-talkie radios to warn throngs in the hall of any federal agents coming to remove O'Connor. So far no attempt has been made.

Officials said the students do not plan to offer physical resistance to the removal of O'Connor, but will not voluntarily move out of the path of federal agents.

Students point out that it might be difficult for FBI men to spot O'Connor in the huge hall where hundreds of students could be million around. More than 1,000 students were in the hall Saturday night.

Norman Thomas is the longtime head of the Socialist party in the U.S. A dinner was held in his honor and he said, "The Democratic party has accomplished all our aims, we don't need to put up a candidate of our own." Mr. Thomas calls Mr. Humphrey a socialist. Socialism is a good form of government for a family of five, one member earns the bread, the other eats it. But, for a nation of 200 million it means the people earn the bread and the politicians eat it.

Democrats Expetced To Retain Senate Control

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are expected to maintain control of the Senate in Tuesday's elections but some Republican gains are likely.

The Democrats, who have controlled the Senate the past 12 years, now have a 63 to 37 majority and even the Senate Republican Campaign Committee admits the GOP is unlikely to obtain the 14-seat turnover necessary for control.

But with Republicans hoping to pick up as many as 15 new Senate seats—and Democrats expecting five at most—a GOP takeover is not out of the question and gains more than likely.

Democratic strategists say the Vietnam bombing halt has increased their chances of holding the Republicans to a net gain of two. They figure the Republicans might win Arizona, Florida, Maryland and Ohio but lose California and Iowa.

Republican strategists say in addition to those four states they could win in Alaska, Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana, Nevada, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

The Democrats figure besides California and Iowa they could pick up new Senate seats in Utah and New Hampshire, and possibly Kentucky.

In all, 23 Senate seats now held by Democrats are at stake Tuesday while only 11 held by Republicans are on the line.

A Democratic gain in Kentucky would also give the Senate its second lady member.

Democrat Katherine Peden, the only woman member of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, is competing against Republican Marlow W. Cook and independent Duane Olson for the seat of retiring GOP Sen. Thuston B. Morton. Cook is favored but some observers believe his Catholicism could be a handicap.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, is the only woman senator now.

In the other Senate races:

Alabama—Democratic former Lt. Gov. James B. Allen is favored to defeat probabe judge Perry O hooper, a Republican, for retiring Democratic Sen. Lister Hill's seat.

Alaska—Republicans hope incumbent Sen. Ernest Gruening's write-in candidacy will split the Democratic vote between him and Democrat Mike Gravel, and give Republican Elmer E. Rasmussen the election.

Arizona—Republican Barry Goldwater is heavily favored to defeat Democrat Roy Elson for the seat of retiring Democratic Sen. Carl Hayden.

Arkansas—Democratic Sen. J. W. Fulbright is favored to win re-election over Republican challenger Charles J. Bernard.

California—Former Democratic state Controller Alana Cranston is favored to defeat Republican Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty who beat incumbent Thomas H. Kuchel in the primary.

Colorado—Republican Sen. Peter H. Dominick is favored over Democratic former Gov. Stephen L.R. McNichols.

Connecticut—Democratic Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff is favored to defeat Republican Edwin H. May Jr.

Florida—Republican Rep. Edward J. Gurney is considered a strong favorite to defeat former Democratic Gov. LeRoy Collins for the seat being vacated by retiring Democratic Sen. George A. Smathers.

Georgia—Democratic Sen. Herman E. Talmadge is expected to be re-elected over Republican challenger E. Earl Patton Hawaii—Democratic Sen. Daniel K. Inouye is expected to beat Republican Wayne C. Thiessen.

Idaho—Democratic Sen. Frank Church is still the favorite but Republicans think their Rep. George Hansen could win the traditionally Republican state.

Illinois—Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen is expected to be re-elected over Democratic Atty. Gen. William G. Clark.

Indiana—Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh is credited with a narrow lead but Republicans think a strong vote for Richard M. Nixon could give Republican William D. Ruckelshaus the Senate win.

Iowa—Democrats expect Gov. Harold E. Hughes to win retiring GOP Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper's seat despite a strong challenge from Republican state Sen. David M. Stanley.

Kansas—Republican Rep. Robert Dole is considered almost certain to win retiring GOP Sen. Frank Carlson's seat over Democrat William I. Robinson.

Louisiana—Democratic Sen. Russell B. Long is unopposed.

Maryland—Republicans expect independent George P. Mahoney to draw votes from incumbent Democratic Sen. Daniel B. Brewster and give the election to Republican Rep. Charles Mathits.

Missouri — Democratic Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, who defeated Sen. Edward V. Long in the primary, is favored over Republican Rep. Thomas B. Curtis.

Nevada—Democratic Sen. Alan Bible is expected to turn back a strong challenge by Republican Lt. Gov. Ed Fike.

New Hampshire—Republican Sen. Norris Cotton is favored to win re-election but Democrats say that with Gov. John W. King as their candidate this is a Senate seat they could gain.

New York—Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits has the Liberal party endorsement and is expected to defeat Democratic challenger Paul O'Dwyer and Conservative James L. Buckley.

North Carolina—Democratic Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. is expected to win re-election over Republican Robert V. Somers.

Sen. Milton R. Young, a 22-year veteran, is expected to defeat Democratic Fargo Mayor Herschel Lashkowitz.

Ohio—Republican Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe is favored to defeat former Democratic Rep. John J. Gilligan, who beat Sen. Frank J. Lausche in the primary. But some observers say the race is close.

Oklahoma—Democratic Sen. A.S. "Mike" Monroney could be beaten by Republican former Gov. Henry Bellmon.

Oregon—Republicans and some independent observers say veteran Democratic Sen. Wayne L. Morse could be upset by Rep. Robert W. Packwood.

Pennsylvania — Democratic Sen. Joseph S. Clark once had a clear lead but Republicans say Rep. Richard S. Schweiker has strong support in the western and rural areas.

South Carolina—Democratic Sen. Ernest F. Hollings is favored for re-election. But Republicans say their candidate, former state Sen. Marshall Parker, will be helped by Sen. Strom Thurmond's drive for Nixon.

South Dakota—The polls show Sen. George S. McGovern leading but this is a traditional Republican state and former Gov. Archie Gubbrud could win on a strong Nixon tide.

Utah—Democrats think Republican Sen. Wallace F. Bennett can be upset by Milton L. Weilenmann, state development director.

Vermont—Veteran Republican Sen. George D. Aiken virtually won re-election in the primary. He won both the Republican and Democratic nominations.

Washington—Democratic Sen. Warren G. Magnuson is expected to win re-election over Republican state Sen. Jack Metcalf.

Wisconsin—Democratic Sen. Gaylor Nelson could be hurt by a strong Republican vote but polls indicate his challenger, state Sen. Jerris Leonard, is still relatively unknown to voters.

Same Problem For England's Movie Censor

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LONDON (AP) — America's newly found concern over violence in films and television brings an indulgent smile from England's movie censor, John Travelyan. He has been grappling with the issue for many years.

The assassinations of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Robert F. Kennedy, plus civil disorders in the cities, prompted many Americans to ponder whether popular mediums of entertainment were contributing to a mood of violence. The question was posed by President Johnson when he established a commission to investigate violence in the United States.

Travelyan, a plain-spoken Englishman who reviews all theatrical films for the British Board of Film Censors, expressed doubt that the President's commission would accomplish much in cutting down depictions of violence. Nor was he impressed with vows by television chiefs and film makers to make entertainment less violent.

"It will take more than 12 months to achieve any effect," he observed. By that time, the hue and cry over violence may have subsided.

Travelyan pointed out the difference in American vs. English film censorship:

"The Americans have always been more concerned with questions of morality; that reflects the Catholic influence in your censorship. I am not a moralist; I do not attempt to make moral judgment for the audience. But I do aim to protect filmgoers from bad influences. The British public does not like an excess of violence on the screen. Nor do I."

His judgments can be stringent. Sometimes he will not merely order cuts in a film but ban it completely, as in the case of Roger Corman's motorcycle-gang film, "Wild Angels." Travelyan's reasoning: "Such gangs do not exist in Great Britain. So why encourage them?"

One of the issues being investigated by the President's commission is whether violence in films and TV provokes imitative behavior.

"I don't think so," remarked Travelyan. "I have a different reason for detesting violence on the screen. I feel that if you get a continuous diet of it, you develop an indifference to violence."

"When I was in America, I was shocked by the television coverage of the Vietnam war. Here real-life killing was being presented in an entertainment medium, interrupted by commercials. After seeing this sort of thing on TV day after day, people are bound to accept this as normality."

Travelyan's decisions sometimes puzzle American film companies. He ordered extensive cuts in "The Dirty Dozen," yet passed "Bonnie and Clyde" with no change—"because I considered it a fantasy."

Fire Damaged Club Building

Firemen were called to the Greenville Golf and Country Club at 5:17 p.m. Saturday when a pump house and water pump caught fire there.

Officers said the fire began when the engine on the gasoline-operated pump exploded as a workman was pouring gas into it to get it started.

Extensive damage to the motor and wood-frame building was reported.

Two Break-Ins

Two break-ins were reported at businesses on West Fifth Street Sunday morning, according to Greenville Police officials.

Chief H. F. Lawson said a report at 8:20 a.m. resulted in detectives responding to Streeter's Pure Oil Station on West Fifth Street.

Entrance to the building was gained by breaking a rear window, Lawson explained, and a transistor radio was reported missing from the building.

A call at 8:40 a.m., the chief said, reported a break-in at the West End Tea Room.

There, thieves gained entrance to the building through a rear window and took an estimated $8 to $10 from a juke box.

Investigation of the thefts is underway.

Clemson Victory Offers A 'New Season For ACC'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's almost a new season in Atlantic Coast Conference football.

North Carolina State's 24-19 defeat by Clemson, which deprived the Wolfpack of the title outright, has turned things top-sy-turvy.

Now, Clemson, Wake Forest and Duke, along with N. C. State have a chance for the crown.

There are only three more weeks remaining in the season. Clemson, Duke and North Carolina have three more league games to play. Maryland, Wake Forest, South Carolina and Virginia have two conference games remaining.

But the schedule does not favor N. C. State, which has only one conference game remaining, at Duke next Saturday.

State is now 5-1 in the conference. Clemson is 2-0, but has a 20-20 tie with Wake Forest. Since, under ACC rules, a tie counts half a game in the win column and half a game in the loss column, both State and Clemson wind up with a percentage of .833.

Clemson beat State by driving 69 yards behind the passing of Billy Ammons for a touchdown with 53 seconds remaining.

The ACC championship had seemed within the grasp of the State Wolfpack when only a couple of minutes earlier they had gone ahead 11-17 on a 47-yard pass from Jack Klebe to half-back Jimmy Lisk.

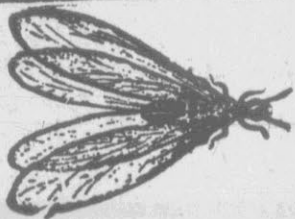

And now, in Duke, State will be meeting a fired up team. The Blue Devils, on their best offense.

Cale Yarborough Finishes Tour On A Winning Note

JEFFERSON, Ga. (AP)—Cale Yarborough and his 1968 Mercury ended the NASCAR tour this year the way they began it—winning.

The first victory was in Daytona some months ago. The last was Sunday at the Jeco Speedway where Yarborough took the lead for good on the 149th lap to win the Peach State 200.

Yarborough, of Timmonsville, S. C., had more trouble with what he called "a bad case of the flue" than he had with any competitor. He has been ill for several days.

Bobby Isaac of Catawba, N. C., was second until nine laps from the end when he blew a tire and slammed his 1968 Dodge backwards into a wall. He finished ninth.

In second place at the finish was Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., in his 1968 Plymouth.

and David Pearson of Spartanburg, S. C., also in a 1968 Plymouth was third.

James Hylton of Inman, S. C., was fourth in a 1967 Dodge, and Lee Roy Yarborough of Columbia, S. C., was fifth in a 1967 Mercury.

Yarborough won about $1,000 of the total $5,000 purse in the race, the last on the NASCAR circuit this year.

Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., kept his 1968 Plymouth in contention early in the race, but a blown engine sent him to a 27th place finish out of 29 starters.

'Free Kick' Gives Bears Win Over Packers

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer

Mac Percival booted a 43-yard free kick on a rarely-invoked free kick with 26 seconds to play Sunday, giving the Chicago Bears a 13-10 victory over the struggling Green Bay Packers.

The NFL champs, who had spent most of the afternoon chasing Gale Sayers up and down Lambeau Field, stood by helplessly as Percival kicked the winning three-pointer after Chicago Coach Vince Dooley went for the free kick option.

An NFL rule permits a free kick, punt or placement, without opposition after one team makes a fair catch of a punt. So, when Cecil Turner fielded Donny Anderson's short punt on the Green Bay 43, Dooley called the shot—and Percival delivered.

"It's my second biggest thrill," said Percival, whose toe has heped the Bears reel off three straight victories and climb back into contention for the Central Division title. "Last week was the biggest."

The 28-year-old kicking specialist booted a 47-yard field goal with three seconds remaining the previous Sunday to beat Minnesota 26-24. "That was the first time I had ever won a game for the Bears," he said.

Chicago, 4-4, is tied for Central lead with the Vikings, who whipped Washington 27-14 Sunday. The Packers and the Detroit Lions, who bowed to Los Angeles 10-7, are one half game back at 3-4-1.

Baltimore battered the New York Giants 26-0, Dallas trimmed New Orleans 17-3, Cleveland topped San Francisco 33-21, St. Louis trounced Philadelphia 45-17 and Pittsburgh drubbed Atlanta 41-21 in other games.

In the American League, the New York Jets downed Buffalo 25-21, San Diego edged Miami 34-28, Houston beat Cincinnati 27-7, Denver slammed Boston 35-14 and Oakland punted Kansas City 38-14.

Sayers ran through the Packers for 205 yards—his biggest ground-gaining binge as a pro, but he almost wore goat horns after fumbling on the Chicago 39 midway in the final quarter with the game tied 10-10.

Packer defensive back Herb Adderley grabbed the ball and raced to the 14, but the Bears held and Chuck Mercein's field goal attempt sailed wide.

Minutes later, Percival was on target with his 11th field goal in 12 attempts in the Bears' last three games. He kicked a 10-yarder in the second period for a string of 10 without a miss, but had another three-point bid blocked by Lee Roy Caffey early in the fourth period.

Rookie Charlie West returned a punt 98 yards for a touchdown—tying the 35-year-old NFL record set by Gil LeFevre of Cincinnati—and Joe Kapp tossed two scoring passes to Gene Washington, leading Minnesota past the Redskins.

The Rams, stunned by Lem Barney's 98-yard touchdown bolt with the opening kickoff, blanked Detroit the rest of the way while Roman Gabriel passed 36 yards to Willie Ellison for the go-ahead score and Bruce Gossett kicked a 37-yard field goal.

The victory kept Los Angeles, 8-1, in a tie for the Coastal Division lead with the Colts, who handed New York its first shut-out loss in 76 games. Earl Morrall fired a pair of touchdown passes against his former Giant teammates and Lou Michaels kicked two field goals.

Don Meredith and Bob Hayes clicked for two Dallas touchdowns before a Sugar Bowl crowd of 84,728—largest in the NFL this season. Bill Kilmer, New Orleans' quarterback, suffered a fractured right ankle early in the game and will be out at least four weeks.

Dallas' Ron Widby got off an 84-yard punt, breaking Billy Lothridge's league record by 14 yards.

LeRoy Kelly rambled for 174 rushing yards, Bill Nelsen threw two scoring passes to Milt Moron, and Dan Cockroft kicked three field goals as the Browns stomped San Francisco.

Roy Shivers ran for two touchdowns and grabbed a 40-yard scoring pass from Jim Hart, pacing a St. Louis attack that pinned the Eagles with their eighth loss in as many starts.

Evans Edges Harvey In Weekend Tourney

Dr. Dick Evans Jr. of Greenville captured first place in the first annual Brook Valley Invitational Golf Tournament over the weekend.

Evans carded a 69-72—141 to edge out former Greenville resident Joe Harvey, who finished with a 67-75—142 total. Harvey had taken the lead in the tournament after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole tournament. Harvey now lives in Fayetteville.

Evans pulled up even with Harvey at the turn Sunday, and then picked up a birdie to Harvey's par on 17 to win the match.

Third place went to Jacksonville's Steve Fulp, who finished three strokes back at 144.

In the first flight, Don Conley Jr. of Rocky Mount took top honors with a 147. He edged out Herb Purser of Goldsboro, who finished with a 148.

Bob Sullivan of Virginia Beach, Va., took first place in the second flight. He fired a 152 to edge past Bob Zulch of Plymouth and Glenn Perkins of Virginia Beach, who tied with 153's.

Ted Pinner of Plymouth took the third flight title. He fired a 160 to beat Greenville's Molt Massey, who carded a 161.

In the fourth flight, Willie Hedgepeth of Plymouth carded a 168 to win his flight handily over Jack Fussell of Kinston who was three strokes back with a 171.

In the fifth flight, Ed Reeves of Grifton and C. W. Locke of Durham both finished with identical 181's. Reeves took top honors in a sudden death play-off.

Lenoir Rhyne Is Still Undefeated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Lenoir Rhyne continues to lead the Carolinas Conference at an undefeated pace, 4-0, while Presbyterian, having lost only to the Bears, is second at 3-1.

Lenoir Rhyne will be idle Saturday, while Presbyterian meets outside competition, playing host to former conference member Appalachian in an afternoon game.

Gulfport will be at Emory and Henry in another Saturday afternoon game, while that night Newberry will be at Elon in the only conference meeting, and Catawba will be at home to Wofford. Like Lenoir Rhyne, Western Carolina will be idle.

Lenoir Rhyne took an outside opposition last Saturday, turning back Carson - Newman 37-26 to run its over-all record to 6-1. The Bears have lost only to Appalachian, which in turn was defeated by Carson - Newman, making for a three-way bid for an NAIA berth.

In other weekend action, Presbyterian defeated Catawba 29-12.

The best kept secret in Washington, D.C.

What's the most popular car among diplomats in Washington, D.C.?

Put that question to a diplomat and you get a very diplomatic answer.

In other words, they don't tell. So we did some snooping around on our own and contrary to public opinion, the car most diplomats buy is neither very big nor very fancy nor very impressive.

Hint: It can be bought and serviced in 140 countries throughout the world.

Hint: It costs $1749* in the U.S.A.

Hint: It has tremendous resale value.

Final hint: It gets around 27 miles to the gallon and uses no antifreeze whatsoever.

At last count, there were over 1200 diplomats and embassy staff members driving this little car throughout Washington.

So that story about big important people driving only big, important-looking cars may not be altogether true.

On the other hand, if big important people would rather have you believe they drive only big, important-looking cars, that's all right with us.

We won't let the bug out of the bag.

Top Swim Coach Raps Red Cross Methods

By JACK SCHNEIDER
Louisville Courier-Journal and Times

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — James E. Counsilman, the world's most successful swimming coach, is working hard to revolutionize the teaching and coaching of the sport.

Counsilman, 47, a Ph.D. who is coach of Indiana University's NCAA championship team, coach of the 1964 Olympic team, consultant to foreign governments on teaching swimming, and a researcher and theoretician, has some strong opinions on swimming and other sports.

Such as: —The Red Cross is teaching two and a half million Americans a year to be poor swimmers.

Poor coverage of Olympic sports by the news media is harmful to U.S. efforts in the Olympic games.

—Most coaches in the United States are poorly trained.

—This country would be better off if it had no professional athletics.

Bowling and golf don't deserve to be considered sports.

One of Counsilman's heaviest verbal barrages is aimed at the Red Cross swimming program, through which most youngsters learn to swim.

"Their teaching method is 100 per cent wrong," he says. "The method is obsolete. I despise it. There has been almost no change in the Red Cross method in the last 30 years."

Counsilman explains his objections thus: "Red Cross instructors spend most of the time working on skills that are only part of a total swimming stroke. "We teach the whole stroke method. Every study ever made has shown that those taught the stroke as a unit are able to swim sooner, farther and faster and with better form than those taught by the part-whole method."

As an alternative to the Red Cross program, Counsilman favors an age-group program as an "ideal way" for kids to learn to swim.

"In an age-group program the kids won't get much instruction," he says. "Instead they'll get what they need most of all — motivation and plenty of opportunity to swim."

"Coaching should be a science, but unfortunately in this country we train physical educators, not coaches. I think it's ridiculous that we don't train our coaches better. And I'm afraid that if we don't change our approach, our sports program, especially in the Olympics is going to suffer."

Counsilman opposes professional sports because he says they hog most newspaper space and television time. "This causes most people to become watchers of pro sports instead of participants themselves. This shows up in our disgracefully low level of physical fitness. Our favorite participation sports for adults are golf and bowling. And I don't really consider them sports because they have so little value in conditioning the body."

In training the Indiana swimming team, Counsilman stresses variety. Sometimes he gives swimmers candy for good effort. Or he may let them go home early.

Richmond and William & Mary now are the only teams left in the running for the Tangerine Bowl bid that goes to the Southern Conference football champion, but bowl games will be far from their thoughts this week.

Richmond coach Frank Jones, who admitted he was "thinking Tangerine" the entire time his Spiders were ripping off five straight SC victories, was thinking Orange and Maroon today. W&M's Marv Levy was thinking Orange.

Orange and Maroon are the colors of Virginia Tech, the fear-some aggregation that will confront Richmond this weekend at Blacksburg in the Spiders' first nonconference game since Sept. 21.

And Orange is both the color and the nickname for the foe awaiting William and Mary Saturday—powerful Syracuse.

Richmond, 5-0 in SC play after last Saturday's 35-0 bombing of VMI, has lost its only previous excursions outside the league—at Toledo and West Virginia. And for all their recent surge, the Spiders will be underdogs against Tech, one of the area's—and nation's—most potent teams.

W&M, 2-0 in the conference, had lost four in a row to non-SC opposition before walloping Villanova 33-12 last weekend at Williamsburg. But Syracuse isn't Villanova, as Levy is quick to point out.

"Virginia Tech sure does present a problem," says Jones in a massive understatement. "It scared me when they beat Florida State (40-22) Saturday night. They have a real good football team."

"But we think we have a good football team, too, and we're going over to Blacksburg to win. Tech is hard-nosed, but so are we."

Unless The Citadel, 3-1 inside the SC, can knock off W&M on Nov. 16, the conference title—and the bowl bid—will be at stake when the Indians visit Richmond for their annual grudge match Nov. 23.

The Citadel downed Davidson 28-21 in a conference game Saturday at Charlotte but saw its bowl hopes go down the drain, anyway. The Bulldogs conceivably could finish in a tie for first place with Richmond, but can't get the Tangerine Bowl invitation because they lost to the Spiders.

Saturday's other conference action saw East Carolina, 1-2 in the SC, capture its first conference game and break a four-game losing spin in a 24-13 victory at Furman. The defeat was the fourth for the Paladins in as many conference starts and doomed them to the league basement.

Earnings Up For Kathy Whitworth

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —Texan Kathy Whitworth fired a final round 71 Sunday to win the Canyon Ladies Golf Classic worth $26,000 in prize money. Her total earnings of $3,300 gave her $53,501 for the year—tops among women golfers.

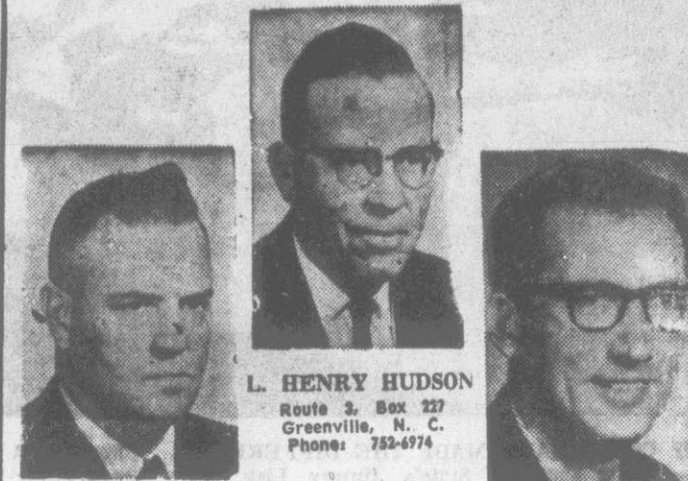

She surpassed Carol Mann, Buffalo, N.Y., who earned only $342 and now has $51,611.

Miss Whitworth' three-day total in the tourney was 218, two strokes better than three others. Donna Capone, Burbank, Calif., Shirley Englehorn, Caldwell, Idaho, and Mary Mills, Laurel, Miss., each shot 220s and won $2,053 each.

An Open Letter To The People of Pitt County

DAVID E. REID, JR.

GREENVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA

My Fellow Pitt Countians,

There are many of you who I have not had the opportunity to visit with personally. Therefore I am taking this opportunity to tell you what I believe in and will work for as your representative in the General Assembly of North Carolina.

First, I believe in and will work for equalizing the balance of power between the State and Federal governments. Too much power is centralized in Washington, D. C. I favor as many decisions as possible being made on the local level rather than in Washington.

Second, I am interested in the growth of Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina. I am concerned about the present condition of agriculture as the number one industry in our county. Pitt County and the east need our fair share of the highway money which lately we have not been getting.

Third, I believe in education of all the people. I endorse the program of the United Forces for Education in North Carolina. I am an enthusiastic supporter of the growth and progress of East Carolina University and will work for the establishment of a medical school at E.C.U.

Fourth, I believe in observing all laws. People cannot pick and choose those laws which they want to obey and violate other laws with which they may disagree. Therefore, I am for strict law enforcement at all levels of government. Finally, in all matters that come before the legislature I will vote the way I believe the people of Pitt County would want their representative to vote. Please give me your vote and support.

Very truly yours,
 Dave Reid

Another Crown For Graham Hill

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Poker-faced Graham Hill of England sailed serenely to a second world championship Sunday as he won the seventh Mexican Grand Prix, setting a record on the five-kilometer course of one hour, 56:43.95.

Bruce McLaren of New Zealand was second and Jackie Oliver of England earned third place, giving England two top places in this race for the first time.

Defending world champion Denis Hulme's McLaren Ford burst into flames while he was running third on the 11th lap.

The fire was caused by the collapse of a shock absorber which made one side of the car drop down. Hulme escaped unharmed.

Hill's average speed for 65 laps was 167.053 kilometers per hour. McLaren was timed in one hour 58:03.27, with an average speed for 65 of 165.183 k.p.h. Oliver, third, finished 65 laps in one hour, 58:24.60, averaging 164.684 k.p.h.

PITT COUNTY SUPPORTERS OF REECE B. GARDNER

WHY WE PITT COUNTY DEMOCRATS SHOULD VOTE FOR JIM GARDNER

- The public school system has been neglected by the Moore-Scott administration. During the past four years, North Carolina has sat idly by while H-E-W took over our local schools.
- The loyalty of Bob Scott to the Johnson - Humphrey administration closed his mouth and tied his hands. The "experience" of Bob Scott in State Government is a MYTH. Bob Scott's experience exists only in the minds of certain newspaper apologists for the current State and Federal administrations.
- MR. SCOTT'S ONLY "EXPERIENCE" HAS BEEN HIS CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR FOR THE PAST FOUR YEARS. HE HAS SPENT SO MUCH TIME AT THIS THAT HE HAS MISSED 25 OF THE LAST 28 MEETINGS OF THE N.C. STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION. HE HAS MISSED THE LAST 15 MEETINGS AND HAS NOT ATTENDED A MEETING SINCE SEPTEMBER 7, 1967. LT. GOV. SCOTT IS A MEMBER OF THE N.C. STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION. IT IS THE LT. GOVERNOR'S ONLY DUTY IN ADDITION TO PRESIDING OVER THE STATE SENATE.
- Bob Scott has failed in his responsibility to the schools of North Carolina. We cannot afford four more years of Mr. Scott's "experience". We need a complete change of direction. We need new approaches, a new experience, and new people to lead North Carolina out of its inferior position in public education.
- Jim Gardner is concerned about the raw deal your children are getting from H-E-W, and the Federal Courts. If you parents are concerned about your children's education, give your vote to Jim Gardner on November 5. Bob Scott has been silent and has avoided this issue throughout the campaign.
- Jim Gardner has made his position known on every issue. Bob Scott has retreated behind a facade of pious platitudes and taken no stand on any controversial issue. He has consistently refused to debate Jim Gardner because of the skeletons in Scott's political background.
- An Eastern North Carolinian has not served as governor since 1932.
- The biggest problem faced by the tobacco industry and tobacco farmers is the policy of the Johnson-Humphrey administration on "Tobacco and Health." It is the intent of the Surgeon General to markedly reduce the use of tobacco by prohibiting advertising of tobacco products and by publicizing unsubstantiated claims against tobacco. This policy will be continued under a Humphrey-Muskie administration. This could be disastrous to the economy of Pitt County. Bob Scott, as National Chairman of Rural Americans for Johnson-Humphrey in 1964, should be held accountable for his part in this program.

- The primary road system in Eastern North Carolina is a disgrace. Poor transportation and limited accessibility has seriously retarded industrial development in the East. One only has to travel west of Raleigh to see the obvious difference in the highway system and industrial developments.
- Industrial development in Eastern Carolina has been neglected under Moore and Scott. Jim Gardner's business experience, success, and national stature place him far ahead of Bob Scott in this most important area.
- Jim Gardner is a former Democrat. Five years ago he changed his registration so that his mouth would not be closed and his hands would not be tied by obligations to the Lyndon Johnsons and Hubert Humphreys who dominate the National Democratic Party. The State Democratic Party was once independent, but this is, as we realize, now ancient history.
- Jim Gardner could have remained a Democrat and enjoy a more rapid climb up the ladder of "success". But he chose the harder road, because he realized that the Democratic state machine of Sanford-Moore-Scott has its hands tied by its loyalty to the Federal centralizers of the National Democratic Party.
- Jim Gardner has done far more to promote the welfare of his state during his two-year term in Congress than Bob Scott has done during his past fifteen years of running for governor. Jim Gardner's record in Congress is outstanding.
- In 1967, Bob Scott did not support the legislative fight for ECU University status. He attempted to straddle the fence and endorsed university status only after the issue had been won.
- Jim Gardner has backed ECU growth 100% (naturally, since he is a neighbor from Rocky Mount). He supports development of an ECU Medical School to meet the neglected needs of our area.
- Most important is to keep in mind that Jim Gardner is a neighbor, An East Carolinian from Rocky Mount. He knows our problems and our needs. He wants to do something about them.

PEACE PAN ALLEY

A typical village on Allison's 25-mile daily round.

"When I think of a subject for a song," says Peace Corps Volunteer Jack Allison, "I borrow somebody's motorbike, ride around for a while until a tune comes to me, and then I hurry into town and hum it to the lead guitarists of the Jazz Giants combo."

In less than two years, Allison, who is stationed in the east African country of Malawi (formerly Nyasaland), has written and recorded 15 hit songs, all of them in Malawi's major indigenous language, Chinyanja.

The records, which feature Allison as the vocalist and the Jazz Giants in the background, are played up to a dozen times each day over the nationwide network, Radio Malawi. Allison is described by Marshall P. Jones, U.S. Ambassador to Malawi, as the best-known American in the country.

But Allison is unspoiled by success. As far as he's concerned, song-writing is just part of his Peace Corps job. A public health worker, Allison writes about eating right, keeping well, and related topics. His songs are basically an educational device.

Allison's career as a songwriter has been fostered by the Malawi Government's enthusiasm for music as a pleasant way of getting prosaic messages about self-help projects, good health and better farming out to rural areas. In almost every village of mud and thatch-roof houses there is at least one radio. Every day people gather round to listen to government-sponsored programs of advice on agriculture, the family and other educational topics.

But the major part of Allison's time is still occupied by his regular Peace Corps job—public health work in Malawi's villages. He is one of a small group of Volunteers assigned to try to correct the causes of malnutrition, which is one of Malawi's greatest health problems and a primary cause of a high infant mortality rate.

Allison lives in a small, mud-walled house in Nsiyaludzu, a village of about 1,000 people. Here he holds a child care clinic once a week. The other days of the week, Allison sets out by bicycle for villages within a 25-mile radius of Nsiyaludzu. He makes appointments with the headmen, or chiefs, of these villages to hold health demonstrations for local mothers, then calls a crowd to the town square for lectures and cooking courses based on his pet topic—adding protein to the baby's diet. "What we are doing is barely a beginning," says Allison, "... it's going to take a long time."

Meanwhile, Allison's lessons in music will not be lost. Nzeru Records, a local company, cut 11,000 copies of his first hit, the "Eye" song, and his royalties to date total more than $150. He plans to use the money for self-help projects in his village.

A first, simple lesson—"prevention is better than cure."

PTI Sets Class In Decorations

Pitt Technical Institute will offer a course in Seasonal Decorations to be held at the Greenville Art Center, 802 Evans St., beginning Wednesday at 2:30 p.m.

The class will be a 30-hour course and the tuition will be $3.

It will be decided at this organizational meeting when the majority of the students would like to meet and the number of meetings per week. Interested persons should attend the meeting at the Art Center Wednesday afternoon.

Following is a course outline of what will be taught during the class: Session 1, basic flower arranging for all seasons. This will include the use of both fresh and artificial material with special emphasis on the proper style of arrangements for each individual home.

Session 2, decorating ideas for every month in the year. One basic decoration that can be varied for use at any time of the year (except Christmas) will be made.

Sessions 3 and 4, formal Christmas decorations will be made.

Sessions 5 and 6, small Christmas decorations for the tree and the informal living area of your home.

Sessions 8 and 9, outdoor decorations.

Session 10, party ideas and menus to make Christmas entertaining simple.

An Alternative In Straw Votes

BOSTON (AP) — If voters don't like the choices on the presidential ballot Tuesday, they can cast a straw vote for the man or woman of their choice.

"Freedom Polls" will be set up outside regular polling places in 25 Massachusetts communities. The ballots will be secret.

Persons 18 to 20 years of age will be allowed to vote.

The plan is sponsored by the Conference for New Political Action.

Humphrey Voting In Familiar Hall

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will cast his paper ballot Tuesday in a small rural building heated by an old-fashioned wood-burning stove.

The Marysville Township Hall, about a mile from Humphrey's home on Lake Waverly, was built more than 60 years ago.

Pitt County's 1968 Operation Santa Claus Campaign officially got underway Saturday morning with a kick-off meeting for co-chairmen in 14 townships.

Mrs. Thomas Craft, overall chairman of the project, told members, "there are 2200 patients, men and women, young and old, who are emotionally and mentally ill at Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro. Some of these patients have been forgotten by their families.

"At Caswell in Kinston, there are 1200 patients who are mentally retarded. Operation Santa Claus is an effort to obtain gifts for these patients so that they may enjoy Christmas as we do."

Mrs. Craft urged members to get their campaign started in their own communities as quickly as possible in order that all gifts might be in by Dec. 10.

Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte, executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, expressed appreciation to the co-chairmen for their willingness to work for and support the campaign. Mrs. LeConte said gifts may be brought to the Tetterton Building, located at 414 Washington St., or telephone the office there at 752-7448 and someone will pick up the gifts.

The campaign is sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

Co-chairmen of the campaign are: Mrs. James R. Smith, Ayden; Mrs. Raymond Webb, Bell Arthur; Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Belvoir; Mrs. Robert Bowers, Bethel; Mrs. Alton Gardner, Chitcod; Mrs. Lewis Lawrence, Falkland; Mrs. Will H. Moore, Farmville; Mrs. Hardy Johnson, Fountain; Mrs. Richard Johnson, Grifton; Mrs. Otha Cozart, Greenville; Mrs. Robert L. Wilson, Grimesland; Mrs. William H. ## Martin Expects Large Turnout

WILLIAMSTON — A large turnout of Martin County voters is predicted for the elections Tuesday.

S. H. Grimes, elections chairman, stated: "We had over 6,000 to vote in the primaries, and I believe tomorrow will be a heavier turnout than for the primaries."

Grimes said that registration in Martin County, although not yet officially tabulated, was somewhere near 10,000. "We have been making a purge of the registers, removing names of people who are no longer here, and have just about finished this."

Of the registered voters, only a few more than 100 are registered Republicans.

"People seem to be talking more about Wallace than any other candidates," Grimes noted. "From this indication, it appears that Wallace has a good chance of getting a heavy vote in Martin County."

The 13 polling places, two in Williamston and 11 scattered throughout the county, will open at 6:30 a.m. and remain open until 6:30 p.m.

Save your farm program

If you care about North Carolina, you've got to be concerned about North Carolina's farmers.

North Carolina's farmers can't afford four years of Nixon. Farming is too important in North Carolina's economy to let the farmers fail.

The last time Nixon was in, farm income fell 17%.

Under Humphrey, it rose 30%.

Hubert Humphrey has been the outstanding leader for programs farmers need—parity prices and income—farm bargaining—adequate credit—stronger farm cooperatives.

Richard Nixon has opposed all of these, working with his colleagues to defeat or weaken them.

Humphrey has a great record: Sponsored or supported every progressive farm bill in Congress in the past 20 years.

Solid for a strong farm program with greater bargaining power for farmers.

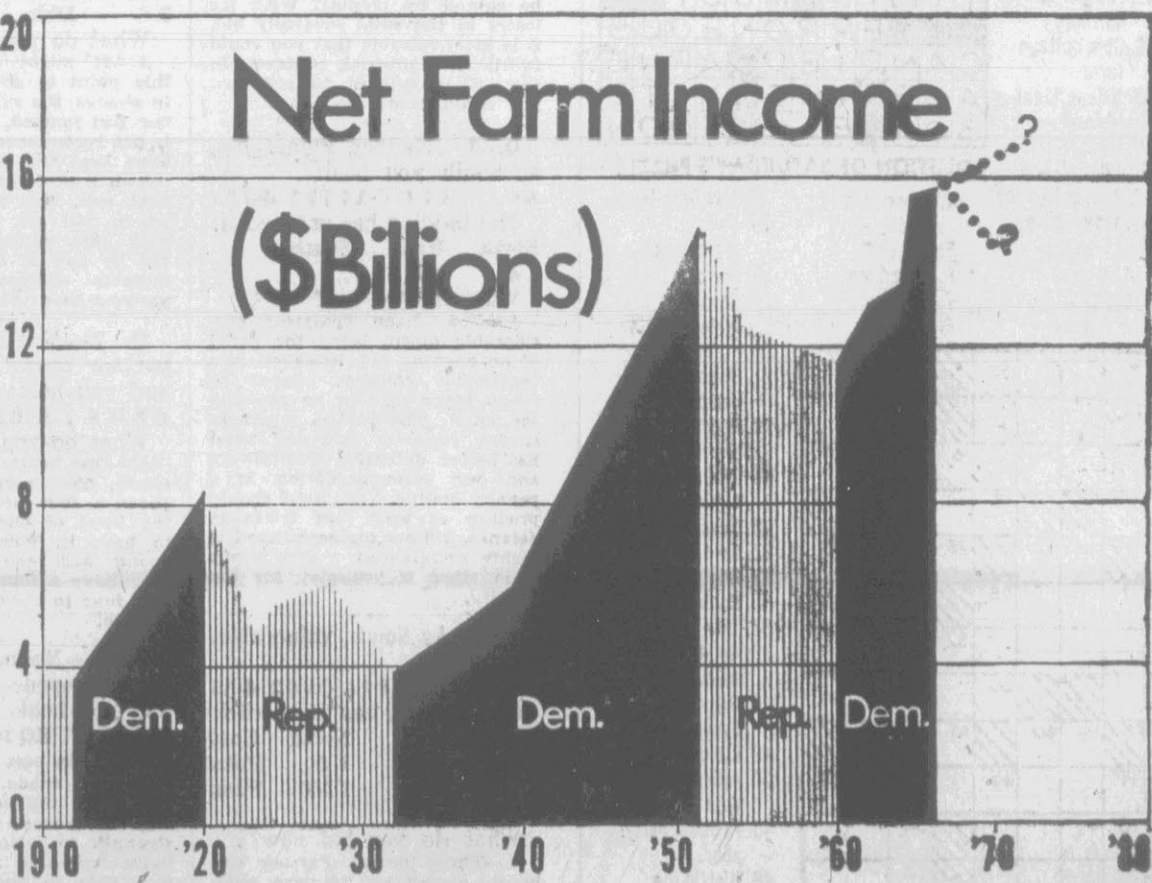

Strengthened food aid action in U. S. and abroad, soil conservation, rural electrification, and FHA programs—and the farmer—committee system.

From the day Richard Nixon became a Congressman, and later as a senator, he voted consistently against farm programs. He opposed increases in REA funds, fair parity prices, improvements in credit, and adequate funding of farm programs. He never introduced, nor did he ever support a farm bill.

In 1954, Nixon, as Vice President, successfully reduced ACP funds by refusing to untie a vote in the Senate. (Humphrey fought for the increase.)

In 1965, Vice President Nixon killed mandatory 90% price supports for millable wheat, this time by untying a vote in the Senate. (Humphrey fought for the measure.)

Vote for North Carolina. Vote for the farmer. Vote for Humphrey-Muskie.

Nearly 6,000 Greene Voters

SNOW HILL—Greene County has more than 5,900 voters qualified to cast ballots in tomorrow's general election.

According to Rudolph Joyner, Greene Elections Board chairman, included in the number of registrations are 5,372 Democrats, 499 Republicans, 19 independents, and 12 members of the American Independent party.

Polls on election day will be opened at 6:30 a.m. and close at 6:30 p.m., Joyner reported. The 12 polling places in Greene County, Joyner added, are: Arbor, Bull Head, Carrs, Fort Run, Hookerton, Jason, Olds, Ormond, Shine, Snow Hill, Speights Bridge and Sugg.

Joyner, in comparing tomorrow's election with the May primary race, said he expects about 4700 persons to cast ballots in the general election.

The votes will be counted at the North Carolina Patrol office in the Greene County Courthouse. The precinct officials should call 747,522, to report their number of votes, Joyner said.

Care Of The Newborn Pigs

Several instances of myoclonia congenita in litters of newborn pigs have been observed this year. Myoclonia congenita is the medical term for the nervous disturbance that causes newborn pigs to shake or tremble. This shaking or trembling is so characteristic that it has given rise to such common names for this condition as shakes, trembles, shivers, jumpy pig disease, and dancing pigs.

Only a few pigs are affected so severely at birth that they cannot nurse normally, and consequently, die unless given special treatment. Since cold is known to aggravate the tremor, removing affected pigs to a warm environment should offer partial relief. Usually, affected pigs can nurse normally and will grow as well as normal pigs. As the pig gets older and larger the trembling becomes less evident. By the time the pig has reached market weight, the shaking has almost entirely disappeared, or, at most, is only barely noticeable. However, in such pigs the shaking usually reappears when the animal is excited or otherwise stressed.

Financially, the problem of shaking pigs is not great. This is fortunate because neither its cause nor its prevention is definitely known. Heredity, nutrition, various diseases, and toxic materials have all been suspected as cause but none has been proven conclusively. Pregnant sows exposed to hog cholera virus such as modified live virus hog cholera vaccine will give birth to shaking pigs as well as mummified, deformed, or dead ones. However, trembling pigs are also born where such has not been the case.

Because the cause of myoclonia congenita is not positively known, producers who have some affected pigs born should be slow to condemn the sire or dam of such pigs. The chances are good that the sow's next litter will be normal even if she is mated again to the same boar. Only if a valuable breeding animal consistently produces shaker pigs should it be suspected and culled from the herd.

November 3 is a holiday in Japan called Culture Day.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Tobacco fertilization makes a definite contribution to the yield, money value and the quality of tobacco produced. The best flue-cured crops are produced under a controlled plant nutrient level. Rather definite amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium must be available to the plants for the highest yield and quality. Too little nitrogen stunts growth—too much results in high nicotine content and poor quality in general. Too little phosphorus prevents full maturity of the plant, and too little potassium results in poor smoking quality of the cured leaf. In addition to those three major nutrients, some soils need extra supplies of calcium, magnesium and sulphur.

Soils vary widely in their productive capacity and in available nutrients. This variation is so wide that the individual growers cannot safely copy the field fertilization of other growers. The amount and analysis of fertilizer to be used on a particular field should be determined by such factors as cropping history, fertilization history, soil texture, depth of topsoil, variety, and quality of tobacco grown in the past, and the general fertility level. The general fertilizer recommendation for tobacco on productive tobacco soil is 900-1000 pounds of 4-8-12, or equivalent, per acre. However, it may be advisable to use more or less than this amount on a particular field, depending upon the type of soil and past use of the field. Some nitrogen should be used in addition to the mixed fertilizer in most fields. The amount of additional nitrogen would depend on the depth of soil to the clay and the amount of rainfall.

Information available to date indicates that there should be no change of rates in fertilization when irrigation is planned. Therefore, the rate used should be that for a normal growing season. Excessive rates, where used with irrigation, result in lower quality just as they do in the absence of supplemental water. These conclusions are based on the assumption that irrigation rates are not excessive. To be more accurate in determining how much and which analysis of fertilizer to use, especially on problem fields, it is suggested that a soil test be made about every three to five years. Based on the soil analysis, the soil testing department will be able to make suggestions on amounts and analysis that can be used as a guide for the grower.

Mexican-Americans On The Move Politically

By PETER HERRERA
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—The Mexican-Americans of the southwest are on the move politically, but their biggest obstacle to a better life is education.

Right now there is a depressing lack of it among the approximately 5 million members of "la raza" (the race) concentrated primarily in Texas, California and New Mexico.

In Texas, 22 per cent of the Mexican-Americans have no education at all; the majority have no more than a sixth grade learning compared to an 11th grade average among "Angelo" children, and 60 per cent never graduate from high school.

As University of Texas anthropologist Richard N. Adams put it: "It can hardly be a matter of local pride that the descendants of the first Europeans to conquer Texas are now to be counted among the state's most poorly educated citizens."

Dropout Rate High

The educational situation is better in New Mexico, but still well below the norm. Spanish Americans make up 30 per cent of the state's population, but only about 10 per cent of the University of New Mexico enrollment. Their dropout rate is high, too, with Spanish-Americans making up 15 per cent of the freshman class but only six per cent of the graduating class.

In California the average Mexican-American student reaches the 8.5 grade level before dropping out, about a year behind the Negro average. A check of the 1967-68 enrollment shows only 79 students with Spanish surnames at the University of California at Berkeley, 80 at UCLA and 160 at San Diego State College.

Cristobal Springer Calderon, an American GI Forum official in California, says the absence of cultural identity in schools puts a barrier in the path of Mexican-American students. "Teachers try to squelch Mexican characteristics," he said. "Jose is told he's Joe."

Language Problem

Calderon blames the high dropout rate on the language problem. He said: "The youngsters have passed to the third grade by the time they have learned enough English to understand, but by that time they have lost three grades."

The language barrier is dissolving in metropolitan areas but Mexican-Americans in the "colonias"—rural communities of migrant workers—retain Spanish.

In the Rio Grande Valley of Texas it generally is the only language of Mexican-Americans and the children—even if they can go to school all year—have been hampered by it.

Special education classes for adults head start programs for children are making some inroads.

In cities such as Houston, Albuquerque and Los Angeles most families now confine Spanish to the home. Around the dinner table, at fiestas and at play. There even is a trend to eliminate the language in well-to-do families.

The sons of second generation Mexican-Americans in a city such as Houston speak very little Spanish, but closer to the border this is less true. Felix Fraga, a social worker with the Neighborhood Centers Association in Houston and a first generation Spanish-American said:

"I have 25 nephews that don't speak a word of Spanish."

Among the reasons given for Spanish hanging on are the steady influx of Mexican nationals, cultural pride, ease and a cultural overlap with Mexico.

Mexican-Americans are proud that their patriotism and loyalty are well-known in the Southwest. A Justice Department official in Los Angeles pointed out: "Of all the draft protesters, not more than one or two have been Mexican-American. And their sons have won more Medals of Honor than any other ethnic group."

Goren on BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(c 1963 by The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, your partner has opened with one heart and you hold:

♠A108 ♠97642 ♠5 ♠432

What is your response?

A.—Two hearts, which just about describes the strength of the hand. There would be no justification for a raise to four hearts with this hand merely because it contains five trumps. The hand does not have sufficient playing strength for a preemptive raise.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q2 ♠AQ874 ♠J105 ♠373

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠

1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner originally passed, there is little to be gained by bidding. With six losers in the suits adversely bid, it is inconceivable that you could fulfill an eight-trick contract. In fact, it is difficult to see how you could come close.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠6 ♠AK74 ♠A7532 ♠J97

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A.—This hand possesses considerable merit, being the equal of an opening bid. However, if a convenient contract cannot be found there may be no game in the hand. The partial misfit in spades suggests that the hand has better defensive possibilities, and our recommendation is a penalty double. Your hand should produce at least four tricks in defense. Unless partner's hand is highly unbalanced, a sure profit is in store if you play for the penalty.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠92 ♠KQ874 ♠863 ♠A5

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Partner can hardly expect you to have more than you hold when he recalls that you passed first and replied with a simple one-over-one on the next round. In this case, your jump bid is not completely forcing.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠8 ♠AQJ5 ♠76 ♠AK10764

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

1 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The opportunity to show the four-card major in this low range should be seized in preference to rebidding the six-card minor. The impression that a six-card suit must be rebid willy-nilly before showing a four-card suit is a hangover from the gay '30s. Bid one heart.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q104 ♠A1095 ♠432 ♠J108

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Dble. ?

What do you bid?

A.—It might be tempting at this point to show the mid fit in spades, the suit in which partner has jumped, but such action is not recommended. You already have kept the bidding open and shows a preference for partner's first suit. This is all the action which you are entitled to take with this minimum holding. A bid by you at this point would indicate additional values. Let partner have the next say.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠AJ85 ♠K1075 ♠843 ♠74

What do you bid?

A.—One heart, rather than one spade. This permits partner to show a four-card spade suit at the level of one if he happens to have it. Whereas if you respond with one spade, partner may have a four-card heart suit and fear to show it at the level of two.

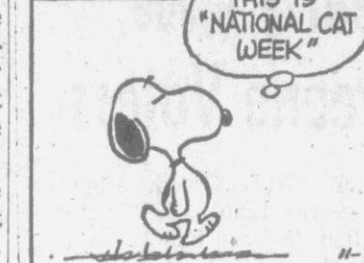

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠AQJ5 ♠KQ106 ♠753 ♠85

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. This hand differs from the preceding one in that it possesses sufficient strength to justify your bidding twice opposite a partner who was able to open the bidding. Since you will be able to show both suits yourself, you should do so in the normal order.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina hog markets steady to 25 cents lower. Tops 18.00-18.50 Rocky Mount; 17.50-18.25 Wilson; 18.25 Salisbury; 17.75 Greensboro, Selma; 17.50 Siler City.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)— North Carolina poultry market steady. Price of live poultry at farms 11 1/4-12, mostly 11 1/2 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pre-election caution and doubt over the significance of the expanded peace talks accompanied a slow stock market decline early this afternoon.

The margin of losses over gains expanded to more than 350 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 1.1 at 349.9, with industrials off 2.6, rails off .2, and utilities off .1.

After a mixed opening, the market headed lower and gradually widened its losses as the session wore on.

Brokers said that uncertainty over the outcome of the election kept many potential buyers on the sidelines. Meanwhile, with the new series of peace talks not starting until the day after election, Wall Street had new unknowns to weigh in that connection.

The stock exchanges will be closed Tuesday for election.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 5.04 at 943.37.

Chrysler zoomed to the top of the most-active list when it was traded on a block of 99,900 shares, down 2 at 65 1/4. It trimmed nearly a point from the loss in later dealings.

Also very heavily traded, Gulf & Western, Youngstown Sheet and Twentieth-Century Fox dropped a point or so each while Sinclair lost 2.

Pan American Sulphur held a fractional gain, following a published report that International Nuclear would seek to acquire the company through an exchange of stock.

Among active issues, Ever-sharp, up 1, and Allegheny Ludlum, up nearly 2, were the best gainers.

Elsewhere in the list, U.S. Gypsum dropped 2, Du Pont and U.S. Smelting about a point each, and U.S. Steel a fraction.

Prices were generally lower on time American Stock Exchange.

Following are selected 11 a. m. stock market quotations as furnished by Interstate Securities Corp.

Hold Brothers In Fatal Beating

RALEIGH (AP) — Two teenage brothers are being held without bond in the beating death of a Raleigh woman Saturday.

James B. Bennett, 19, and his 16-year-old brother, Jerome, both of Raleigh, are charged with the murder of Partheny Allen, about 50.

The youths waived a preliminary hearing and were ordered held in Wake Superior Court.

Mock Election Held In School

WINTERVILLE — A mock presidential election sponsored by the W. H. Robinson School's Social Science Department saw Hubert H. Humphrey top the list with 254 of the 273 votes cast.

Students at Robinson Union School cast nine votes each for Richard Nixon and George Wallace and one write-in vote for a student.

The mock election was held to help determine where the candidates stand with the students in the high school.

Campaigning for the candidates were: Kenneth Hammond for Wallace; Milton Knox for Humphrey and Ivey Bryant for Nixon.

Community Announcements

Navy Death Sentence Is Given Entire Town

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. (AP) — The aftershock of a monster explosion that occurred in Port Chicago 24 years ago now is committing its final destruction — of the entire town.

Weeds are taking over everywhere. Rose bushes droop for lack of water. Lawns are parched brown. Old men sit forlornly at the bus depot.

Nobody cares for anything around here anymore, for Port Chicago is dying... by order of the U.S. Navy.

On July 17, 1944, two ships loading ammunition at piers on the edge of Port Chicago vaporized in a horrendous blast of 3.5 million pounds of high explosives, killing 322 men. The town itself sustained heavy damage, but no one in its limits was killed.

But the Navy feared that another explosion at the piers would wipe out Port Chicago—35 miles from San Francisco on a northeast reach of the bay—and kill everyone in it.

So, over the years, in six attempts rancorously resisted by many townspeople, the Navy tried to get Congress to let it buy up the town to create a two-mile buffer zone around loading facilities.

The piers handle 70 per cent of the munitions used in Vietnam.

The Navy's big argument was that today a single pier can handle nine million pounds of explosives rather than only 3.5 million—meaning, they said, the town could go poof in a blast.

Finally Got the Money

This year, finally, the Navy got $19.8 million to buy the 5,020-acre town and shoo its 3,000 inhabitants from their 600 homes and businesses. The goal: raze the town.

"Freedom was born in the U.S.A. and died in Port Chicago," says the marquee of the Port Chicago Theater.

A skull and crossbones Jolly Roger flies on a mast above a three-bedroom house on Humboldt St.

"That's my husband's way of protesting what the Navy is doing," said Mrs. Nita Simon, whose husband, Bill, is in the Navy.

"The fight for this town—it was terrible," she said. "You don't know when it's going to happen. You go through so much of this uncertainty and finally you are relieved just to be getting out."

Homes and other properties are first appraised, then residents are offered money. They are alternatives. They can settle with the Navy and move; they can move their houses out of Port Chicago, or sell out to private contractors who will move the houses themselves. Residents who refuse to move or deal with the Navy or private parties can be forced out through condemnation proceedings.

Navy Wants To Settle

Leslie P. Springmeyer, director of the Navy's real estate section in Port Chicago, said he foresaw few condemnations. He hopes to exhaust every other possibility first. But not everyone has been willing to take the Navy eviction broadside without challenge. About 10 property-owners have hired lawyers in an attempt to make a case of unconstitutional action against the Navy. One case already has been turned down by a U. S. District Court judge and an appeal has been taken to the U.S.

The final chapter in the story of Port Chicago will, officials say, be written this fall when the Navy expects to acquire all the property for good and for all.

Thus will end a history that started when President U.S. Grant patented a tract to H. H. Smith, who sold his rights to Daniel Cunningham. The original name of the water frontage was Seal Bluff and the town was first called Bay Point in 1907.

Nobody seems to know when Bay Point became Port Chicago, and to tell the truth, not many seem to care.

Klan Organizer Backs Wallace

GRANITE QUARRY, N.C. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klan-sponsored radio program broadcast over three stations Sunday night contained an endorsement of George Wallace for president.

It was delivered by Joe Bryant of Charlotte, Klan organizer and head of its security guard.

May Still Join In Adult Classes

The City Board of Education and the local schools in cooperation with Pitt Technical Institute are sponsoring adult education classes in various subjects for interested Greenville citizens.

Persons who missed the introductory meeting Thursday night may still participate in the courses by attending the meeting tonight at either Rose High School or Eppes High School.

The classes, including basic education, special interest subjects such as public speaking, agricultural technology and income tax reporting, will meet Monday and Thursday nights from 7 o'clock to 9:30.
