The First Returns

FIRST TOWN GOES TO HUMPHREY — A tally of 8-4 for Humphrey over Nixon is chalked up by selectmen Fred Tillotson as tiny mountain town of Dixville Notch, N. Y., claimed first in nation honors with midnight vote. It was the first time any Democratic votes had been cast since town started voting in presidential elections in 1960. Heavy Voting This Morning Over Greenville, Pitt County

A spot check at 11:30 a.m. of the polling booths in Greenville and Pitt County indicated that voting was heavy for the morning. Most places, approximately 35 to 50 per cent of registered voters had already been to the polls and cast their votes. Bruce Koonce, chairman of the Board of Elections, had to deliver additional voting boxes to some of the polls as boxes became filled much earlier than was expected. Most pollsters stated that voting was considerably heavier than at this time of day in previous elections. A few indicated it was the largest early turn-out they had ever seen, and that if voters continued the pace, it would perhaps be a record turn-out. In Greenville, a check of five precincts at 11:30 revealed: —No. 2 (Courthouse), 244 of 530 registered had voted. —No. 3 (Third Street School), 325 of 850 voters. —No. 6 (Fifth Street Fire Station), 551 voted, total registered voters unknown. —No. 7 (Elm Street Gymnasium), 960 of nearly 2,000 on books had voted. —No. 8 (Rotary Building), 575 voted out of 1200 registered. Within the county, the percentages are about the same as for Greenville: —Farmville showed over 1,100 voted out of 2,600 registered voters. —Bethel, 405 had voted of approximately 900 on the books. —Grifton, 565 had voted from 1,200 registered voters. —Ayden showed more than 900. Total voters on book unknown.

South Korea Coast Town Is Raided

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean counterespionage command headquarters said today troops and police have killed three members of a North Korean commando group of 30 that landed far down the east coast Saturday and killed three villagers. One South Korean soldier was slain. Lt. Gen. Yu Kun-Chang, director of the command, said the North Koreans assembled the villagers near Ulichin, 130 miles southeast of Seoul. Ulichin is about 135 miles south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea. His announcement said the North Koreans told the villagers at gunpoint they must support North Korea's regime, then beat a youth to death as warning. While North Korean soldiers almost nightly try to infiltrate across the zone, this was the first raid by specially trained commandos since Jan. 21. Then the commandos invaded Seoul in an attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park and most were killed. At Panmunjom, the truce village, the U.N. Command and the North Koreans accused each other of firing artillery across the zone. North Korea charged U.S. artillery fired 160 rounds in support of a raiding party in the west-central and central sectors of the zone Sunday. Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward, senior U.N. delegate, accused the North Koreans of lying and said the incident was initiated by a North Korean raiding party supported by artillery. He reported five North Koreans were killed.

At Some Points, Traffic Jams Long Lines Of Voters Reported At Polling Places Across State

By RICHARD DAW Associated Press Writer RALEIGH (AP) — Traffic jams and unusually long lines were reported at many precincts early today as North Carolina voters turned out in record numbers under cloudy skies to cast ballots in the general election. Election officials predicted a turnout of 1.5 million votes, with principal interest centered on the gubernatorial and presidential races. Even before dawn voters were lined up at many precincts waiting for the polls to open at 6:30. Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state Board of Elections, said, "It's been averaging an hour in line for a person to vote. We hope that the lines will be distributed throughout the day and avert a clogging late in the afternoon. That has been a problem in the past. I feel the early long lines are a result of our efforts to promote early voting." In Raleigh, lines were so long at some precincts that some citizens turned away and went on to work, saying they would come back later and vote. "I've never seen anything like it," said one registrar. The weather was cloudy, but no rain was reported in the state at mid-morning. In Lincoln County, the early voting was so heavy and the traffic around polling places so much of a problem that a county election official promised he would recommend that schools be closed on election days. L. A. Grooms, chairman of the Lincoln elections board and member of the Governor's Study Commission on Elections Procedures, said he would make such a recommendation when the group meets again. In Gaston County, the Greer School precinct had voted 650 during the first two hours. Lines of voters were so heavy that poll officials began using the school auditorium for marking ballots, but the situation then was complicated by lines of as many as 150 people waiting to drop their ballots in boxes. L. B. Howell, chairman of the Gaston elections board, said: "We don't have nearly enough booths or polling places. Something will have to be done." At the Berryhill precinct in Mecklenburg County, poll workers said cars were backed up for two miles trying to get to the polling place.

Unusually Large Turnout Of Voters Across Nation

By JACK BELL AP Political Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Early reports today indicated America's voters, the most unpredictable in two decades, were turning out in unusually large numbers to decide a presidential election clouded by war abroad and disorders at home. A forecast of fair weather for most of the nation held the promise of a voter turnout exceeding the record 71 million of four years ago. And up and down the Eastern seaboard, where the polls opened first, long lines were reported waiting to cast their ballots for Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, Republican Richard M. Nixon, American Independent George C. Wallace or candidates of several minor parties. In New York City, a spokesman for the Board of Elections said all indications showed a heavy vote under cloudy skies and mild temperatures. Observers in Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., for instance, reported long voter lines and good weather. Estimates were that about 75,000 to 80,000 would have voted in Miami by 9 a.m., a little more than had voted at that time in 1964. In Baltimore, Md., city precincts also reported a heavy early turnout. One newsman said 150 persons were waiting outside his polling place when it opened at 7 a.m., the most he had ever seen at that time. Voting in the Columbus, Ohio, area also was very heavy during opening hours with most polling places reporting voters standing in line before the polls opened at 6:30 a.m. Long lines also were seen in the Maryland and Virginia suburbs of the nation's capital. In Connecticut, a state that could be an important indicator of national trends, the early voter turnout ranged from very heavy in the Stamford area, to heavy in the Hartford vicinity, to moderate around Bridgeport. Philadelphia and its suburbs also reported heavy early balloting. Votes were reported cast one minute at one Delaware County voting division. In one Bucks County precinct, nearly 10 per cent of its registered voters cast their ballots in the first hour. Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his wife Joan were among the early voters in Boston after waiting in a three-quarter-block line on historic Beacon Hill. Early voting elsewhere in Massachusetts was reported steady.

Final Poll Has Hubert Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — The major public opinion polls were split as the nation began voting today. A last-minute Harris poll showed Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey leading for the first time, 43 to 40 per cent over Republican Richard M. Nixon. The final Harris survey, released Monday afternoon, indicated a swing of 5 per cent to Humphrey in 24 hours. It was dismissed by John N. Mitchell, Nixon's national campaign manager, as a "gratuitous concoction." The final Gallup poll which was published Monday morning showed Nixon ahead 42 to 40 per cent with 14 per cent for third party candidate George C. Wallace and 4 per cent undecided. Both the Gallup and Harris polls have showed Humphrey gaining momentum in recent weeks. Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said the final Harris survey showed the vice president was "over the top now." Since both of the major surveys firms allow for a 3 to 4 per cent margin of error, the most recent surveys suggested a very close race with the possibility of a near dead heat in the popular voting. No published state-by-state electoral vote forecast has shown Humphrey ahead and some observers saw the possibility that the apparent Democratic surge might prevent any candidate from gaining the 270 electoral votes needed to win. If that occurred, the election would be decided in the House of Representatives where each state delegation has one vote and a majority of 26 is required for election. In dismissing the final Harris poll, Mitchell pointed out that the previous Harris figures, published Monday morning, had agreed with Gallup giving Nixon 42 per cent to 40 per cent for Humphrey. The final Harris survey, conducted among 1,206 persons on Sunday, gave Humphrey 43 per cent, Nixon 40, Wallace 13 and 4 per cent undecided. During a campaign appearance in Los Angeles, Nixon commented: "I don't consider Harris reliable" and said he based his prediction of winning by three to five million votes on the Gallup poll. A third poll conducted by telephone in 48 states by Sindlinger Co., a Norwood, Pa., marketing firm, had Humphrey ahead by slightly more than 1 per cent.

Hussein Fixes Tight Guard Over Capital

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Armored cars and steel-helmeted troops today patrolled the streets of the Jordanian capital, still gripped by tension following widespread street fighting Monday in which 16 persons were reported killed and 40 wounded. King Hussein clamped a heavy guard on his residence, divided country in an attempt to prevent further clashes between troops loyal to him and the Palestine guerrilla groups who have made his kingdom a base for terrorist operations against Israel. Tough Bedouins of the Arab Legion manned checkpoints at strategic intersections inside Amman. Patrol cars armed with Bren guns roared through the streets. Several intersections still bore signs of the fighting. Army troops were tearing down stone barricades thrown up by guerrillas and demonstrators. Telephone communications between Amman and neighboring Arab capitals were restored this morning. The government announced the arrest of an undisclosed number of guerrilla leaders charged with responsibility for Monday's violence, the bloodiest confrontation so far between the army and the guerrilla groups demanding a free hunt again Israel. Hussein did not identify the foreign power but the Victory Phalanges is headed by a former Syrian army major, Taher Dablan. By placing the blame on the one splinter group, Hussein apparently was trying not to antagonize the other more important guerrilla group in Jordan. A communique from the interior ministry said committees had been set up to investigate the uprising with a view to inflicting the "severest penalties" on those responsible. Palestinian sources in Damascus said Hussein was negotiating with the leaders of the major Palestinian groups in an attempt to reach a settlement with the Victory Phalanges, El Fatah, the leading guerrilla organization, was reported mediating between the king and the Phalanges. Meanwhile, Egyptian sources said two Israeli torpedo boats fired on two small Egyptian water tankers in the Gulf of Suez and hindered their trip to the Red Sea port of Hurghada. The sources said one tanker returned to its base but the other carried on to Hurghada after the Israelis left. At the United Nations, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban met privately with U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring. Diplomatic sources said Eban gave Jarring Israel's reply to a series of questions submitted by Egypt, but Israel's reply was in the form of a series of questions addressed to Egypt. Many diplomats at the U.N. were growing increasingly pessimistic about Jarring's chances of advancing Israel and the Arabs toward a peace settlement.

Jet Hijacker Also Robbed Passengers

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Airline passengers back from Cuba today said the man who hijacked their plane seized their money as "contraband of war." They got it back from Cuban officials when the plane landed at Jose Marti airport outside Havana. Morris Bedlin, a Miami Beach, Fla., taxi driver, said the Negro hijacker announced "You've got a new captain" when he took over the Boeing 727 jet with 57 other passengers and seven crew members aboard. Bedlin said the hijacker announced over the public address system that the jet seizure was part of a black nationalist movement. "He said: 'we're going to take over a new ship every day for 100 days,'" Bedlin told newsmen. M.R. Garrison, a Vernon, Tex., oilman now living in Rome, Italy, said the hijacker said the black nationalists were taking the action for "a new Africa." "He said they would take one a day for 100 days and that this was the first one. He was a kook!" Garrison said. Bedlin said the man asserted black nationalists intend to hijack commercial lines "to show the white people that we're keeping them down, or something like that."

No Ghost Chasing For 'Luke' By Police Chief

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — People are invading Willow Dale Cemetery at night by the dozens in search of a ghost called Luke. But the police chief says he'll have to have a pay raise before he'll join any such chase. "I've done a lot of reading on it," says Sue Aylward, "and it seems that it's possible, and I believe in anything that's possible until proven otherwise." So far the last few nights, Sue and many others of all ages have invaded the cemetery looking for Luke, variously described as a white, slightly blurred figure floating about two feet above the ground or a man with a distinguished crop of iron gray hair wearing a blue suit with a boutonniere. "You'd really be surprised if you were out there," says William Neatrou, police chief of Bradford Township. "I sat out there and just watched. There were easily 50 people who came to look for this ghost. Two of them even had tape recorders," says Neatrou. "I tell them it's a hoax, and they just look at me and say they believe in ghosts." Sue, a 16-year-old senior at Bradford High School, says she is one of the believers. Two nights ago, she and three of her girl friends went out to the cemetery on a cold, dark and snowy night. Sitting on the steps of a mausoleum, they asked a guija board, its surface illuminated by their car's headlights, questions about the ghost. "We asked certain questions," says Sue, "Like: 'Would Mr. Luke come out again?' The answer was, 'Yes,' but it didn't disclose any time." Sue says her friends have taken tape recorders to the cemetery and the tapes, when played back, contain ghostly screams. Neatrou, who has heard the same tapes, says they are nonsense. And says Neatrou, "If I've got to chase ghosts, then they better raise my pay."

Courts Martial Ruled Out For Motel-Sleepers

NEW YORK (AP) — The commander of the 42nd Infantry Division of the New York National Guard decided Monday night against courts-martial for guardsmen accused of sleeping in motel beds rather than tents during a weekend of training. "It was pretty evident there was no basis for a court-martial," said Maj. Edward P. McGrath, division information officer after Maj. Gen. Martin H. Foery, division commander, had reviewed the matter with his troop commanders and legal officers. McGrath said an investigation had turned up no real proof that any guardsmen stayed in a motel during an Oct. 5-6 field exercise at Ft. Dix N.J. Twenty-four men had been stopped before they could leave the bivouac area and three had been seen returning to the base, he said.

First Scheduled Paris Peace Talks Postponed Due Saigon's Absence

PARIS (AP) — The first scheduled peace talks since the bombing halt in Vietnam, due Wednesday, were postponed today because of the absence of a delegation from the Saigon government. Paris parley have not yet been agreed on, and U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys have been meeting on these "procedural questions." The postponement followed the refusal of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu to join the proposed four-party sessions which would also include the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. "We will not talk with the NLF in Paris and no one can force us to do such a thing," Thieu said in Saigon. The Saigon boycott embarrassed the U.S. delegation, headed by Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, in view of President Johnson's Oct. 31 announcement of a bombing halt aimed at propelling the Paris talks into a new, more productive phase. They got under way in May. Johnson said a regular session of the Paris talks was to take place on Wednesday at which Saigon government representatives "are free to participate." North Vietnam had served notice that NLF representatives also would be present, the President said, under the new arrangements. The South Vietnamese government is opposed to any move which it thinks might imply recognition of the NLF. The NLF in turn claims to be the authentic representative of the South Vietnamese people. An NLF delegation arrived in Paris Monday. Until now the Paris meetings have been conducted only by the U.S. and North Vietnamese governments and there was no immediate indication just when an expanded conference might get under way. The U.S. announcement of the postponement by delegation spokesman William J. Jordan said: "The first meeting of the Paris talks to work out a peaceful settlement in Vietnam will not be held tomorrow, Nov. 6. "We continue to consult with the Republic of Vietnam on this matter, and are hopeful that its delegation to these forthcoming talks will arrive in the near future. "In addition, procedures for the first meeting have not been agreed on. Representatives of the U.S. and North Vietnamese delegations have been meeting to discuss these procedural questions. "As soon as a date for the first meeting is decided it will be announced promptly." The delegation announcement put on the record for the first time what diplomatic sources had been reporting privately—that U.S. and North Vietnamese envoys had been hiding unannounced meetings. Secret talks were under way between U.S. diplomats and North Vietnamese in Paris, and between the U.S. government and Saigon as the Americans sought to avoid launching the new phase of the Paris meetings with a prestige boost for the Viet Cong. The chief North Vietnamese negotiator, Xuan Thuy, was said to be not adamant so far about just what procedure should be followed for the expanded meetings. But there was considerable expectation that hassling over procedure could go on for quite some time before the participants got down to hard bargaining on the basic war-and-peace issues.

Try To Minimize Her Worry By Reassurance

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old male and a sophomore at college. I live at home and my problem is my mother. She worries! She is probably the dearest and kindest mother a guy could have, but she worries about me all the time. I don't drink or smoke. I don't have a police record and I am a "B" student. I have never been a problem child and she has no reason to worry about me, but she worries anyway.

If I'm out of her sight she calls all over town trying to locate me to see if I'm "all right." This gets embarrassing. Have you any advice?

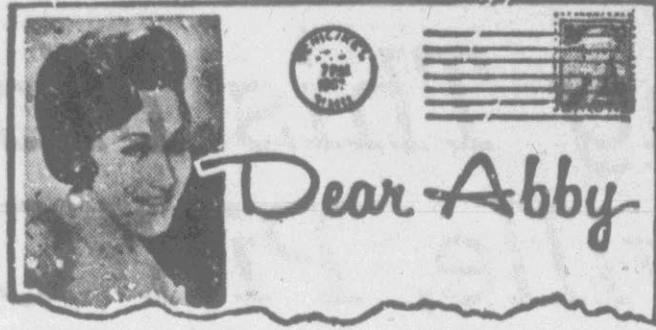

WORRIED ABOUT: DEAR WORRIED ABOUT: Telling a mother not to worry is like asking someone not to perspire. There is nothing you can do beyond minimizing your mother's worrying by reassuring her that you can look after yourself.

DEAR ABBY: You'll never reach the younger generation with the type of answer you gave "GOOD AND LONELY" in urging her to keep turning down the boys who want to make out, and a prince will come along on his white horse and marry her because she stayed "good."

I suspect that this girl has not mastered the technique of dealing with boys who want all they can get from a girl.

In turning down a boy, you can embarrass him and make him feel small, and paint a picture of yourself as a prude, or you can let him know that you understand his problem — but that you are geared to a lower voltage than he; and there are so many things you enjoy about him that you'd rather not get sidetracked into a wrestling match. It's not the turn down that drives the boys away. It's how it's done.

CHARLIE: DEAR CHARLIE: You had better up - date your information.

tion. The female of the species is NOT geared to a lower voltage than the male — and when both parties are charged up, it's HER problem as well as his. The best insurance a girl has against a major power failure is to short circuit the whole affair with a fast NO!

DEAR ABBY: We have a friend who feels about food like an alcoholic feels about drink. All she talks about is food. Every meal at her house is like Thanksgiving. She and her children are so enormous they look as if they belong in a circus.

We know it's none of our business if this woman wants to do that to herself, but it is a crime to see what she is doing to her children.

She has a son (my son's age) who would be so handsome if he would lose about 80 pounds. He can't even dress like the other boys. The poor kid sits in the house watching television while the other boys are out playing. The doctor puts him on diets, but he can't stay on them with his mother pushing food at him all the time.

How can we help this poor boy? He'll soon be in high school and it would be a pity for him to be left out of everything because of his appearance. By the way, this woman thinks she is the world's best mother.

INTERESTED FRIENDS: DEAR FRIENDS: If you are truly "friends," for goodness' sake tell this unfortunate misguided mother what an injustice she is doing her children.

If you can't get thru to her, perhaps the boy can be influenced thru a counselor at school or even by his own contemporaries.

Women Speak Out On National Election And The Candidates

"I think Richard Nixon will be elected president, although I will not be at all surprised to see a very close vote between Nixon and George Wallace," predicted Mrs. J. N. Le Conte, in commenting on today's national election and the three presidential candidates.

Continuing she said, "The nation may experience a surprise to have the selection of president to be decided in Washington. I believe Wallace will carry the North Carolina vote."

"At this point, I think Nixon will be elected president because the polls indicate he has an overwhelming majority. The election could turn at the last minute as in the election when Dewey was running against Truman," said Mrs. Marilee Little.

"I feel even though we might not agree with everything that has been done in the past, we have qualified men in that two of them have served as vice presidents," she added.

Mrs. J. B. Jackson had these comments on the election. "I definitely think North Carolina will go for Wallace—he has been growing in popularity."

"The vote will be split three ways and I think we will be surprised at who wins. I believe Wallace has as good a chance as the other two and I think the final vote will be between Nixon and Wallace."

"Today, I think you have to vote for the man. Further, I believe we need a three party system, the country needs a change."

In discussing the election, Mrs. Carolyn Tripp said, "It's a mixed up affair because I don't think the candidates know what they want—they are fighting for something and don't know what they are fighting for."

"I have listened to all three of the men talk — about each other and to me, they just don't make sense. In talking about some of the issues at hand, they are saying something they can't possibly do, just to get a vote.

"I think Nixon will be elected president because he has promised so much. Wallace, in my opinion, would make a good president because he promised and said what he would do. He says he will try and get it done if he's elected."

Mrs. Lib Layne remarked, "I don't like any of the three presidential candidates—we have a bad group to pick from."

"I hope Hubert Humphrey wins! He's best qualified in my opinion. He seems to be more up to date on world affairs as well as home affairs. Humphrey is the better of three evils."

"I am a Democratic, but I would change if there was anything worth changing for."

"The 1968 national election is pathetic. I feel that we don't have a winner among the three," replied Mrs. Adell Prescott.

"Deciding who to vote for is like choosing the lesser of three evils. I think Nixon will win because people are so dissatisfied with the present administration."

"I don't know who I want to vote for and I think that young people feel that there is no one they can vote for with a great deal of enthusiasm."

"I feel that neither Nixon or Humphrey represent the best of their party. As far as Wallace is concerned, I could not even consider voting for him," she concluded.

MRS. ADELL PRESCOTT

Program Given By Mrs. Webber

Mrs. Carroll Weber was speaker at the meeting of the Dilettante Book Club held Monday night at the home of Mrs. William Byrd.

Mrs. Webber told of her family's travels through several European countries this summer.

She told of the hazards and pleasures of bicycling a distance of approximately 1,800 miles, covering a period of 11 weeks.

Mrs. Don Djarland, program chairman introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Robert Gantt, president, presided at the meeting.

Finalists For Homecoming Queen

Tea Given Bride-Elect

Miss Brenda Moore, bride-elect, was honored Saturday afternoon at a tea given by Misses Gladys and Lucy Stokes at their home.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Doris Harrington and Miss Gladys Stokes. The receiving line was composed of the honoree, Mrs. Jesse C. Moore, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Clay A. Burnette, mother of the bridegroom.

Arrangements of variegated pink and bronze baby chrysanthemums were used in decorating the living room and the den. The dining room table was covered with a white lace cloth and was centered with an arrangement of pink and white snapdragons, gladioli and pompons, flanked by silver candelabra with lighted tapers.

Mrs. Dannelet Alley and Mrs. Hattie Pignani assisted in serving. Mrs. Johanne Dankerl presided at the guest register. About 35 guests called during the afternoon.

The honoree was presented crystal in her pattern by the hostesses, who also remembered her with a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

To make a narrow window seem wider, use a brightly colored, textured window shade. Then, cover a pair of tall, hinged screens to place on either side of the window with extra yardage of the same shade cloth. For further linear definition, outline shades, screens, and window moldings with contrasting braid.

Marriage Announced

Mrs. William Elks announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Ann, to Lemuel Steve Pollard, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Pollard, on Saturday at the home of the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. J. T. Turner.

Test your diamond I.Q.

Q. WHAT IS CONSIDERED THE BEST COLOR IN A DIAMOND?

A. Crystal-clear absence of any color in the body of a diamond is considered the finest quality. This is interior color, not the flashes of rainbow colors called "fire." Value falls as a tinge of yellow deepens the diamond in body color. Members of the American Gem Society use a number of scientific methods to determine the degree of yellow in each stone in order to set a proper value and quality grade. Come in soon and let us explain other pertinent points used by professional jewelers in determining diamond value.

Win Or Lose, We Can Be Thankful

Win or lose with their favorite candidates in today's election, every American should be thankful he lives in a land where major issues may be settled at the ballot box rather than in the streets.

There are, unfortunately, some citizens who have chosen the latter as the route by which they sometime air their differences, make their protests, make their voice heard. Today millions of Americans went to the polls to make their voices and influence felt through their votes for the candidates of their choice.

Many of them will be elated when the votes are tabulated and they find that the candidates for whom they voted have indeed been elected. Other voters will be disappointed that the candidates they felt would make the best officials have not been elected and the programs they supported have not received the endorsement of the majority of voters.

In either case, those who have followed the democratic process of casting a ballot today have shouldered a major citizenship responsibility. They have strengthened the democratic government and the democratic process. They have given additional emphasis to the truth that in a democracy the people have the opportunity to speak and speak effectively through the ballot box. They have rejected the spoutings of others who in the name of individual rights have trampled under foot the rights of their fellow citizens.

When the cheers and tears of today's elections have faded and dried, every American should renew his allegiance to the government and the elected officials. There is always room in a democracy for the voice of the loyal opposition, for the voice of dissenting opinion. But there is always need for support of the principles of democratic government by both the winners and the losers. For in truth, in a democratic election every citizen as a winner regardless of whether his favorite candidate becomes an elected official.

Today there are Democrats, Republicans, Wallacites and others so far as partisan labels are concerned. Tomorrow, as today the citizens who cast their ballots are first and foremost Americans.

Looking Back On A Campaign

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH — Now on election day comes the time to look back at one of the most unusual and in many ways unpredictable political campaigns ever experienced in North Carolina. Also a charge against the press.

Almost certainly it will

the straight ticket."

The fact is that there is no straight ticket and this is why voters are being urged to make individual choices, in advance. Those who wait until they get behind the curtains of the polling place may be totally confused.

Much Publicity

The amount of overall publicity — newspaper space and advertising by all media — during this 1968 campaign has far exceeded anything in the past. The role of the newspapers has been to report, analyze and interpret developments. On the basis of this, some have chosen to endorse certain candidates editorially. In every case thus far endorsement has been confined to the editorial page, to editorial columns and identified as such.

Yet charges of unfairness and bias on the part of the press have been hurled. Anyone who believes this should know the agonizing process which goes on in a newspaper's editorial office, among its staff of reporters and writers, before a commitment on the part of that newspaper is made — not only in politics but on almost every public issue and question.

Press Doesn't Decide

The press doesn't decide elections — North Carolina newspapermen and newspaper editors know this very well. But the press has a responsibility which the general public demands that it fulfill, both to report fully, accurately and honestly, and to comment intelligently.

The press associations, those far-flung organizations who have reporters in Tokyo and Moscow, in Prague and Paris and London, in Rome, in Raleigh and Richmond, and part-time correspondents in almost every county seat, take no stand politically. They simply report the news — the facts as they see them via the teletypes. Anyone on the editor's desk or a reader at home is free to disagree, either by putting a pencil to the dispatch, throwing it in the wastebasket or by writing a letter of dissent. Nine times out of ten a letter to the editor of a newspaper is published. It is a for-

We Should Look For Tedious Negotiations

Disappointment at lack of fruitful developments in Vietnam negotiations on the heels of the bombing halt is understandable although the situation should not be surprising.

First the South Vietnamese government asserted it would not sit down with representatives of the National Liberation Front as had earlier been specified between Washington and Hanoi negotiators. Subsequently the NLF leader asserted no progress can be made in the negotiations so long as the United States "props up" the South Vietnamese government.

The United States has had sufficient experience in dealing with communists to expect this sort of thing. The negotiations will be slow and tedious. There is no reason to expect rapid progress or a quick agreement on ending the fighting in Vietnam. Already the talks have been going on for six months in what has been termed exploratory sessions, and only now does it appear that progress may be toward serious negotiations.

Whatever the progress or lack thereof, we must expect that the communists will use the talks as a forum for their constant propaganda campaign.

Winners Face Big Challenges

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The successful candidates in today's elections face such an array of challenges that to complete just one of the tests would, in less distressing times, be enough to establish a theme for an administration.

So many issues have become critical in these past few years that a good number remain unresolved, not only because of human failings but because of an insufficiency of time and money.

Because of the great number of issues, the first job of any administration — local state or national — would seem to be the establishment of priorities, a chronological list for tackling the problems, based on urgency.

As the nation has been reminded time after time in the past few years, not even the richest people in the world can do all they wish to do, even if they try to their limit.

In trying during these past few years, even the magnificent economic machine that Americans have built through labor, ingenuity and risk-taking began to burn its bearings and give off the acrid smoke of inflation.

One of the more fundamental issues — because it is really a bundle of issues — is the crisis of the cities, which ironically continue to teem with a vast immigration from rural areas despite the obvious decay in living conditions. America's large industrial cities have less than peaceful race relations, inadequate revenue, often poor transportation, unemployment, inadequate housing, sometimes poor educational facilities, labor difficulties, and it seems, even a malaise of the spirit.

So overwhelming has been the demand on local revenues that cities have been forced to postpone or delay many programs to improve the social and physical environment. Inevitably, these delays place even greater burdens on the future.

In communities throughout the nation today, voters must decide on some $9 billion of bond issues, or about three times the amount of debt that voters were asked to assume just four years ago.

In Los Angeles County alone, voters will decide whether to sell $2.5 billion in bonds to finance a public transportation system. In Illinois, the issue is $1 billion of bonds to control pollution and improve recreation.

These are just samplings of bond issue measures whose very appearance as special

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
BEHOLD, THE SNOB

Few things irk one any more than to come in contact with people who are haughty and arrogant. Even the most saintly characters are apt to be a bit riled when people look down upon them. Matthew Arnold, referring to the people of the middle classes, once said: "Look at the books they read, the texture of mind which composes their thought. Would any amount of money compensate for being like one of them?" This, of course, is the observation of an intellectual snob. Like many people highly endowed by his Creator, Arnold looked upon those of medium endowment with contempt. He thought that everyone incapable of sharing his cultural interests was a boor.

To him, the life of such person was a dreary and worthless affair. The truth of the matter is that the people Matthew Arnold looked upon as uninteresting and almost worthless are the very people who keep the world moving. Furthermore, they are the people in whom God seems to take delight. The snob may think very well of himself, but his Maker does not think much of him. God relies upon the great mass of humble men and women everywhere to furnish the love and fidelity which is needed to support life every day. We can reverse Arnold's words and say: "Can all of Matthew Arnold's poetry, his culture, his refined tastes, compensate for a spirit which causes a man to look down upon his fellows with disdain?"

Some Answers Tonight

There exists in the city of Trenton, N. J., a well-meaning if slightly bubbleheaded outfit known as United Progress, Inc. This is the city's Community Action Agency. Its principal function is to get while the gettin' is good.

In reporting on a couple of welfare programs conceived in Trenton, I mean no special criticism of this troubled city. Even more fantastic programs doubtless could be resurrected from files of the OEO. It is merely that the campaign trail ended for me here, midway between Philadelphia and New York, and the Trenton story seems to sum up much of what this election is all about.

In domestic affairs, that is to say, the great issue has to do with our great cities.

The troubles of Trenton are the troubles of urban areas everywhere — the flight of white families to the suburbs, the influx of low-income Negro families; the afflictions of crime, disease, disorder, illegitimacy, school drop-outs, teen-aged unemployment; the struggle of the cities to raise local revenues. All of this figures in. But politically, the issue involves the atmosphere created by the Johnson-Humphrey administration — a pipedream atmosphere in which "Federal money" takes on a narcotic quality that numbs the senses of even the good citizens who make up Trenton's United Progress, Inc.

Trenton has now embarked upon one adventure in Wonderland known as the "Day Care Program." Its application is pending for another proposal identified as the "Teenage Pregnancy Prevention and Control Program."

The Day Care Program is to cost $247,000 a year. Its purpose — now brace yourself — is to provide daytime custodial services for 100 children between 3 months and 6 years of age. Fifty infants under 3 are to receive home care; the others will receive center care. These 100 children will require the attention of 30 full-time employees and three part-time consultants. The table of organization lists a supervisor, a director of health, and a social worker whose task is to observe the children "for purposes of counselling parents and making referrals to psychiatrist."

This army will produce such paperwork that three five-drawer filing cabinets have been requisitioned. Eight telephones will be re-

Other Editors Say Justifying The Status

(Henderson Dispatch)

Newspaper people attending the fall meeting of the Eastern Carolina Press Association in Greenville last week-end were treated to a bus tour of the sprawling campus of East Carolina University, and shown evidences of the marvelous growth of the institution in the past several years. Probably no other tax-supported unit of higher learning in the State has expanded its curriculum and increased its enrollment of late as much as the Greenville school. Enrollment this year is in excess of 10,400.

The Legislature has been generous with ECU and has made possible the amazing growth that has taken place. Even so, it is bursting at the seams and appears on the threshold of even greater expansion in the immediate future.

ECU's new Ficklen Stadium and the Minges Coliseum would do justice to any campus. Athletics, collegiate competition and physical education are receiving new emphasis with these additions.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president, accompanied the newspaper people on the bus trip and explained all facilities as they came into view.

He impressed the group with his complete qualifications and fitness as the chief administrator of the institution, which has not thus far been harassed and irritated by long-haired hippies and demonstrators such as have appeared on some other campuses in this State and elsewhere. Major emphasis is on scholastic achievements, with students conscious of the fact that they are there to learn and not to dictate policy to management. So long as this attitude prevails, ECU will continue to assume a still greater role in the culture of the section it serves. It was wholly deserving of university status, which should have been granted by the Legislature regardless of the other much smaller units which were given like rating as part of the move which favored the Greenville school.

The campus visitor readily becomes convinced that ECU's greatest growth and service lie ahead. Its present status is a far cry from the modest beginning more than half a century ago. Eastern Carolina is justly proud of its fine university and is availing itself of the great advantages offered to young people there as elsewhere in the State.

Hundreds Of Proposals At Issue

The electorate votes on $3 billion in bonds, a variety of tax proposals and hundreds — right, hundreds — of other things this election day. This will delay the count in many states and if the presidential contest is close, the final results may not be known for days.

And if extremely close, the United States may have to wait until the absentee ballots are counted, including those of service men in Europe, Vietnam and elsewhere. That could take weeks.

All but six states and Puerto Rico have special propositions on the ballot. In some, the presidential and important local contests will be counted first but in others will be required to tally votes on all contests and proposals before reporting.

The states in which no proposals can slow the count are Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, New York, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Bonds And Taxes

Voters' reactions to bond proposals will be interesting. Approval of bonds will be inflationary, while disapproval, because it will bring higher taxes immediately instead of in the future, will be deflationary.

Illinois votes on $1 billion in bonds to be used exclusively for control and prevention of water and air pollution, conservation of water facilities and development of recreational areas. Almost $1 billion in bonds will be decided in New Jersey, where voters have been told that a state income tax is the only alternative, and approximately $1 billion more is on the ballot in California, Maine, Rhode Island, Virginia and Washington.

In addition, many counties and cities will vote on bond proposals.

State Income Tax Changes

In five states, income tax proposals are on the ballot. Voters will pass on constitutional amendments permitting state income taxes in Massachusetts and Michigan. Californians will decide on an amendment simplifying reporting and collection of income taxes, and Missourians will vote on tying its state income tax to the federal levy. Nebraskans, who voted down a state income tax two years ago, vote on a constitutional amendment prohibiting such a tax. Other proposals concern

Failure In The South

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ATLANTA — A preview in Negro precincts here was given last week when Rep. Fletcher Thompson, Atlanta's 43-year-old freshman Republican Congressman, paid a disastrous visit to the West Side Voters League.

The club is a remnant of the old black Republican establishment which used to deliver Atlanta's Negro vote to the Grand Old Party, but there is not much Republican about it today. Thompson was peppered by hostile questions, zeroing in on his vote to unseat Adam Clayton Powell. Flustered, he blurted out irrelevantly that one Negro teacher transferred to his daughter's school was unqualified.

In sharp contrast was the warm reception given moments later to Thompson's Democratic opponent — Charles Weltner, the 40-year-old liberal seeking the seat he gave up in 1966 rather than run with white supremacist Gov. Lester Maddox. Weltner was clearly among friends on the West Side.

The Thompson - Weltner race provides another sign of how Southern Republicans have squandered their Negro voting legacy. Although nearly 60 percent of Georgia's Negroes supported Richard M. Nixon in 1960, the black Georgia Republican is nearing extinction. Weltner is shooting for 95 percent of the Negro vote (comprising 30 percent of the district's voters). If he gets it and if the Negro turnout is large, Thompson will be defeated.

This ill-timed loss of the Southern Negro's vote at the moment when he has been given the franchise is but half of a Republican crisis in the Deep South. The other half is the failure of the Republicans to win the white rural and blue-collar votes from segregationist Democrats and the Wallace movement.

Thus, four years after the illusory Goldwater sweep in the Deep South, Republican prospects throughout the region are grim. With Negroes firmly attached to the national Democratic party and lower-income whites sticking with Wallace and local Democrats, the Republicans could become a country-club party.

The prognosis in Georgia is particularly unfavorable. George Wallace is almost sure to carry the state Tuesday. Sen. Herman Talmadge, the Southern-style Democrat running a front-porch campaign against a poorly financed Republican, will win easily. The state's eight Democratic Congressmen, keeping far away from the Humphrey-Muskie ticket, are firmly entrenched. Moreover, Wallace's post-election plans are especially menacing to the Republicans. If Wallace's Georgia chieftains run a full slate of candidates in the 1970 elections as they envision, the Republicans may be shut out not only from the black vote but from the anti-black vote.

Wallacites are planning a candidate to run for Governor in 1970 to succeed Maddox (who is barred from succeeding himself). A possibility: Maddox's wife. Such a play would all but kill Republican chances for power in the statehouse and perhaps elect former Gov. Carl Sanders, a

Saigon Regime Says Reds Ordered To Push War

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today that a Communist document seized a few days ago contained orders from Hanoi to step up military and political activity all over South Vietnam after the United States stopped the bombing of North Vietnam. There was no indication yet that the enemy orders is being put into effect, and the lull in the ground war continued. But informed sources said American air attacks on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos have been tripled since the bombing of the North was halted last Friday. The sources said that 300 Air Force and Navy bombers are now daily attacking the jungle trails down which North Vietnamese troops and supplies travel to South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese political warfare department issued a "special release" saying Communist political commissars at the regional and provincial levels in South Vietnam have received orders from Hanoi to increase "their military, political and enemy troop action activities throughout the territory of South Vietnam after the United States stops the bombing of North Vietnam."

The special release continued: "In the military field, the provincial commissars have to boost up the guerrilla warfare movement in order to conquer the whole countryside."

"In the political field, the provincial commissars have to push into action several armed propaganda teams into the towns and cities in order to carry out on a large scale their program of terrorism, assassination and sabotage as well as to support the formation of what is called the coalition government."

"In the enemy troop action field, the provincial commissars have to increase their propaganda in order to sow confusion and dissension among the ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) soldiers and their dependents and especially to lull them with illusory peace solutions."

A government spokesman said the document had been captured by "friendly troops very close to the bombing halt day" in the Mekong Delta about 50 miles south of Saigon.

A spokesman for the U. S. Command, asked about the document, said, "We have similar information." He declined to comment.

The Saigon government's disclosure appeared to conflict with a statement by a senior U.S. official last Sunday that a few captured enemy documents reveal an "inkling, an indication" that the Communist command might be preparing to de-escalate the war in South Vietnam. The senior official said, however, that his information was far from conclusive.

Prior to President Johnson's bombing halt order, the U.S. Command said there "was not one scrap of hard evidence" that any de-escalation had been ordered by the enemy although enemy ground attacks had dropped off markedly for the previous month.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu continued to resist U.S. efforts to get him to send a delegation to the Paris peace talks, and 5,000 Vietnamese demonstrated peacefully in the capital in support of Thieu's boycott.

About 3,000 Roman Catholics and other Vietnamese heard Sen. Nguyen Gia Hien, a leader of South Vietnam's most hawk-ish political faction, accuse President Johnson of playing domestic U.S. politics with his peace initiative.

The demonstrators tried to march past the heavily guarded U.S. Embassy to the presidential palace but turned back when police pulled a roll of barbed wire across the street.

At another rally organized by the government, about 2,000 police, youth, teachers and civil servants sprawled on the grass, milled about, gossiped and watched television crews at work. The government had announced 6,000 persons would turn out.

Some carried banners reading, "We are determined to fight," "No Concessions" and "No coalition with the Communists." But the mood at both affairs seemed almost apathetic.

Meanwhile, military sources said the stepped-up air war against the Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos is sending an estimated 200 U.S. Air Force and 100 U.S. Navy bombers into action each day against the North Vietnamese supply columns still moving through Laos into South Vietnam.

The Navy bombers are from three U.S. carriers now operating off the coast of South Vietnam since President Johnson halted the bombing of the North last Friday.

Only small scattered ground skirmishes were reported, but for the second time since Johnson's order, enemy gunners shelled My Tho, the Mekong Delta's chief city 35 miles southwest of Saigon. A government spokesman said three mortar shells fell in the city at midnight but inflicted no casualties.

In one of the few ground actions reported, North Vietnamese killed two U.S. Marines Monday night and wounded 10 in an hour-long firefight 13 miles southwest of Da Nang. Enemy losses were not known.

The U.S. Command said 17 Viet Cong were killed and six sampans were smashed by U.S. helicopter gunships 15 miles south of Saigon in a 45-minute action Monday night. There were no U.S. casualties.

U.S. Marines and infantrymen seized 20 tons of rice in four sweeps north and south of Da Nang—enough to feed a battalion of 500 North Vietnamese troops for about two months. And Vietnamese troops reported killing seven enemy and finding five tons of TNT, 141 individual weapons and 2,500 rounds of ammunition in two separate enemy caches south of Saigon.

Winter Term Of ECU Evening College Now Set

The Division of Continuing Education at East Carolina University has announced plans for the second term of the 1968-69 Undergraduate Evening College, scheduled to open Wednesday, Nov. 13.

In operation for the fifth year by the Division of Continuing Education, the program offers a schedule of freshman courses four nights each week during the eight-week term. Herman Phelps, associate director of continuing education, directs the UEC program.

The winter term, second of four eight-week terms this year, will offer courses in business, English, history, mathematics, health and hygiene and sociology.

Registration for courses will be held in Erwin Hall, first floor, on Nov. 12 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Nov. 13 and 14 from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Classes begin on Wednesday, Nov. 13 and the term ends on Jan. 23. Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays will be observed and no classes held Nov. 27 to Dec. 1 and Dec. 20 to Jan. 5.

The UEC program, created mainly to give adult high school graduates a chance to begin work toward a college degree without interrupting their vocational schedules, is open to any high school graduate.

According to Phelps, students who enroll full time in the UEC can complete a year's work in approximately the same period of time that it will take during the regular day program on the campus. The program is particularly designed for those who are unable to enroll as regular students in the ECU day program.

Phelps points out that the program's class schedule is arranged so that students who hold down full-time jobs do not overload themselves with school work.

The parent campus, like most other institutions, will accept up to 47 hours of UEC credit to be applied toward a college degree. That is about one-fourth of the requirement for a typical bachelor's degree.

Detailed information about the UEC program is available by telephoning or visiting Phelps at the offices of the Division of Continuing Education in Erwin Hall on the ECU campus.

Brisk Betting
LONDON (AP)—One of Britain's biggest bookmaking firms reported brisk betting on the U.S. presidential election today with Richard M. Nixon the odds-on favorite.

William Hills gave Nixon 2-to-5 odds, meaning you bet $5 to win $2. Odds of 2 to 1 were offered against Hubert H. Humphrey, meaning you bet $1 to win $2.

Another British bookie, Ladbrokes, made Nixon a 1-to-4 favorite and gave odds of 2 to 1 against Humphrey.

Ladbrokes said bets on Nixon were running as high as 1,000 and 750 pounds — $2,400 and $1,800.

items for voters sometimes is evidence that existing state and local revenues are inadequate.

But the city, although the focus of many of the nation's ills, is not the only geographical sector with problems. Farmers have been complaining of poor income at the very time that consumers have been paying high prices for food.

And there are many domestic problems that traverse the city-farm lines. Poverty, for example, and rising medical bills, and inadequate housing, and consumer information and protecting in an age growing complex and confusing with technology.

One of the more pervasive issues is inflation, because along with damage to fixed incomes and the stability of the dollar, it sows discontent between labor and management, consumer and producer, old pensioners and young workers, voter and government.

Even more fundamental an issue is the war in Vietnam. When it ends, how will the savings be distributed? Will they go to military uses or to improving the American Society?

Pitt Students In District Offices

Several Pitt County students have been named officers of the Northeastern District of the North Carolina High School Library Association.

Local students named to offices include: Judy Lupton of Winterville, vice president; Jeanie Baird of Farmville, secretary; Donald Fleming of Belvoir-Falkland, treasurer; Pat Taylor of Ayden, reporter; and Bobby Smith of Ayden, chaplain.

Attending the sixth annual convention of the association at Northampton High School, Conway, were students from Ayden, Belvoir-Falkland, Eppes, Farmville, and Winterville High Schools.

The featured speaker was Mrs. Mebane H. Burgwyn, author of teenage books.

quired. Yet the Day Care Program is scarcely a patch upon Trenton's proposal for teen-aged girls. This would cost $688,760 the first year. The idea here is to uplift 50 girls who are already pregnant, plus 50 girls who are likely to get that way. The 50 pregnant girls would get "the full treatment" — complete medical services, personal counselling, morning classes at the YWCA, afternoon sessions with consultants and psychiatrists. The other fifty would be organized into four "Get Together Clubs" that would meet at the "Y" two nights a week for discussions and other activities, "such as folk dancing, folk singing, painting, puppeteering, putting on a play."

The 100 girls thus guided and counselled would be matched with another 100 girls who would serve as a control group. Girls in the control group would have their case histories taken, but no more. Two or three years hence, to complete this "ongoing, longitudinal experiment," a study would be made of "pregnancy recidivism" in the two groups.

Trenton has proposed a full-time staff of 47 persons, including a switchboard operator, to attend the 100 subjects. The staff would receive a two-week training period that includes one lecture on the sexual practices of five sub-cultures of the U. S., namely the Zuni, Shaker, Mormon, Puritan, and Negro sub-cultures. Trenton has asked for office equipment including 20 swivel chairs, 10 counselee chairs (comfortable), six five-drawer filing cabinets, 12 electric typewriters, 10 small coffee tables, $2,400 worth of wall-to-wall carpets, and 35 wastebaskets at $1.10 apiece. The wastebaskets, at least, seem a prudent investment.

All right, I resist the temptation to mine further nuggets from this mother lode of absurdity. The more significant point is to ask if the country wants to maintain an atmosphere in which such a moonbeam boondoggle can be seriously proposed? When do the taxpayers come to their senses and cry halt? This is election day. By midnight we may have some answers.

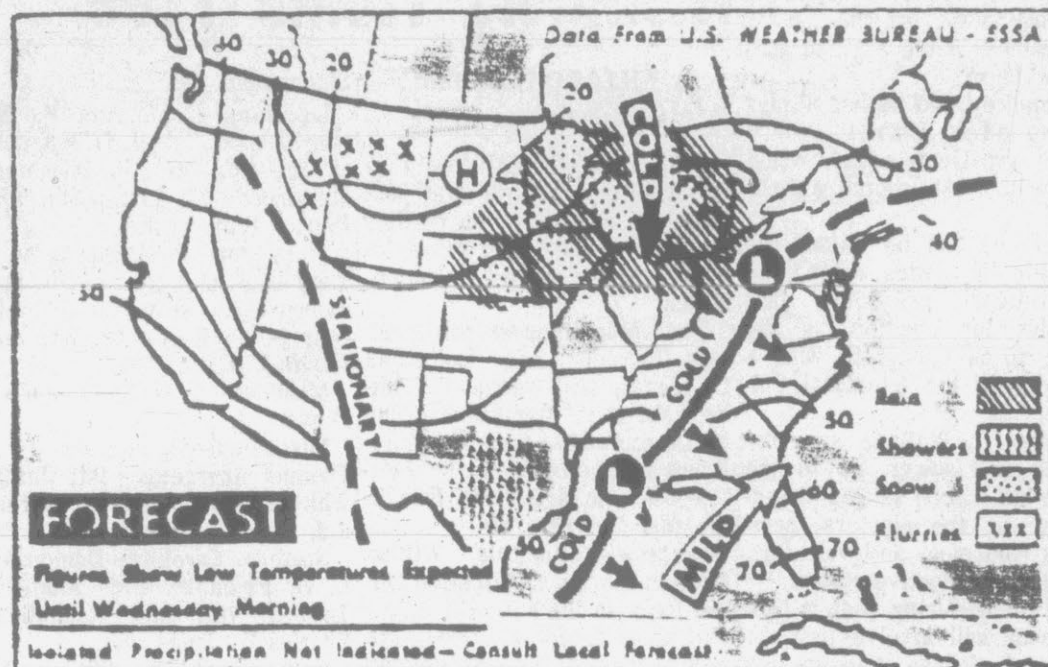

Sigmon Named To Project Role

Bob L. Sigmon, director of Secondary Education with the Greenville City Schools, has been selected as one of 25 participants in North Carolina to take part in a project in supervising and leadership development.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Education Association Division of Supervisors and Directors of Instruction, the Learning Institute of North Carolina, Title III and local school units, the program is being conducted to strengthen leadership skills in persons already employed by public school systems in system-wide leadership roles.

The program will be structured to strengthen understanding and skills in inter-personal relations, to develop skills and a systematic approach to problem-solving, and to build an awareness of social, economic and demographic characteristics of North Carolina, as projected for the next 20 years and which will have impact on the state's education program.

The program will consist of three three-day sessions, one each in December, February and April.

national Democrat. But the surest sign of a Republican decline would be a loss by Thompson to Weltner. Since his election in 1966, Thompson, influenced by his large Negro constituency, has been evolving into a progressive Republican by Southern standards. Endorsed by the liberal Ripon Society, he has unequivocally supported Nixon for President rather than play footsie with Wallace, as have most of his Southern colleagues.

Thompson has been working hard for a silver of the Negro vote — conferring privately last weekend with Negro Republican clergymen at Paschals Motel on the West Side to try to organize a last-minute campaign for black support.

But Weltnr, a charismatic figure in the black community, reversed for his 1964 vote for the civil rights bill, has vastly more influence with Alan's Negroes than some Republican preachers.

Moreover, Thompson himself must share the blame for the Goldwater lunacy which discarded a century-old birthright. When he announced for the state senate that year, Thompson identified himself firmly as a foe of civil rights — an identification Weltnr does not let Negro audiences forget.

Behind-Scenes Maneuvering Could Follow Vote

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Campaign oratory is likely to give way to behind-the-scenes maneuvering on one or perhaps two levels if today's election fails to produce a clear-cut Electoral College winner.

There has been no agreement among the three presidential candidates about what should be done if one of them fails to get the needed 270 electoral votes.

Republican Richard M. Nixon has challenged Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey to agree in advance to support the popular vote winner if the election goes to the House.

Humphrey said he has always favored direct popular election of the president—which would require a constitutional amendment.

Until one can be passed, he has said he stands behind the constitutional procedure that provides for election by the House if no candidate wins a majority in the Electoral College.

George C. Wallace says the matter will never go to the House but will be settled, if necessary, by the electors themselves who meet and vote Dec. 16 in their respective states.

The maneuvering that is likely to occur will involve first the Electoral College and its 538 members before their December vote.

The next target of maneuvering would be the New House of Representatives, which will inherit the task of picking a president if the Electoral College can't do it.

When the public votes tonight, it expresses its presidential preference but actually picks states of electors in each state.

The slates of candidates for elector have said which presidential nominee they favor. The slate supporting the nominee who wins the most popular votes in each state gets to cast all that state's electoral votes.

If Richard M. Nixon, Hubert H. Humphrey or George C. Wallace wins in states with 270 or more electoral votes, the electoral college proceedings are a formality.

But if there is no immediate apparent majority after the popular voting, the dickering can begin.

In only 16 states and the District of Columbia are the electors actually pledged to follow their state's popular vote. Wallace's electors in many states have pledged to do what he says. Thus, if Wallace told his electors to vote for Nixon or Humphrey, that could create an electoral majority despite the popular vote.

There would be 41 days for bargaining or changes of mind.

Once the electors meet, the outcome presumably would be known immediately although the official ballots are not counted until Jan. 6 at a joint session of Congress. There is no provision for a second Electoral College ballot if no majority is reached on the first one.

However, a leading law expert, Harvard Prof. Paul Freund, said Monday that a 90-year-old law might prevent switching of positions among electors.

He said that the 1878 law places in Congress "the final say whether to honor an electoral vote cast for a candidate other than the candidate of his party."

If the Electoral College deadlocks, the House of Representatives would immediately ballot to pick a president. Each state delegation would get one vote and 26 votes would be required to elect a president.

The fact that one party holds a majority of the 435-member House is no guarantee its seats would be distributed within the states so as to guarantee the 26 votes. Additionally, at least 65 candidates with a good chance of election have said they would vote for the popular vote winner in their district, state or the nation rather than necessarily for their party's nominee.

Paralleling this procedure would be selection of a vice president. If the electoral college could not produce 270 votes for Spiro T. Agnew, Edmund S. Muskie or Curtis E. LeMay, the Senate would have to pick the vice president.

But while the House would ballot among the top three finishers in the electoral college presidential balloting, the Senate would be allowed to select only between the top two in vice presidential voting.

If the House were deadlocked over the presidency at noon, Jan. 20—Inauguration Day—the vice president-elect would become acting president until the deadlock is resolved.

If the Senate also were deadlocked, the speaker of the House would become acting president after resigning as speaker and as a member of Congress. Next to him in succession would be the president pro tem of the Senate.

The House twice has selected the president following electoral college deadlocks.

It picked Thomas Jefferson in 1801 over Aaron Burr, who was then made vice president.

In 1825, the House elected John Quincy Adams over Andrew Jackson and William Crawford, although Jackson led in both the popular vote and in the Electoral College balloting.

'Stop And Frisk' Rule For School Students

HILLSBOROUGH, N.C. (AP) —In an effort to prevent future racial outbreaks in Orange County public schools, officials have adopted a "stop and frisk" rule for pupils and have prohibited the "public expressions of political preference on school property."

A fight between about 20 Negro and white pupils at Orange High School last Friday slightly injured two white youths and resulted in the closing of the school for most of the day and transfer of the school's homecoming game to a neighboring town.

Monday, the Orange County School Board adopted new rules, including one that pupils are to be expelled if they carry "weapons of any kind" on school buses or property.

The rules—which apply to every school in the county—also provide that:

—Periodic searches will be made, and any student refusing to be searched will be expelled.

—"Students found with weapons classified by law as concealed weapons will be reported to law enforcement officers."

—"There will be no expressions of political preference on school property." The penalty for a first violation of this rule will be a five-day suspension violation.

—"Pupils will be expected to show respect for all school personnel and to obey their directions. Penalty: Expulsion."

School board Chairman Roger Marshall also asked the Board of County Commissioners to authorize the Sheriff's Department to station deputies in the halls of Orange High School for an indefinite period. The commissioners approved the proposal.

The county high school, which is about 40 per cent Negro due to total desegregation this fall, reopened Monday without incident. School officials said a search of all pupils was made Monday morning, but no weapons were found.

Mountaineers Are Enjoying Southern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS West Virginia goes for a clean sweep of its 1968 football games against its former Southern Conference lodgemates Saturday when the Mountaineers take on The Citadel at Charleston, S.C.

Ambitions to move upward in the sports world prompted WVU to pull out of the Southern last spring. Eventually, most—if not all—SC teams will vanish from the Mountaineer schedule.

But this year at least West Virginia can be happy it still has rivalries with some of its onetime conference playmates. For WVU's 4-3 record includes a 3-0 showing thus far against SC representatives.

If WVU still were in the league, the championship race would have a far different look. Front-running Richmond would be 5-1, not 5-0 for instance; and second-place William and Mary would be 2-1 instead of 2-0.

The Mountaineers have beaten Richmond, 17-0; William and Mary, 20-0, and VMI, 14-7. Now they're taking aim on The Citadel to assure themselves at least a break-even season.

The Citadel, however, probably won't fall easily. The Bulldogs are one of the Southern's finest teams. Yet they have tall problems in facing WVU and its crackerjack sophomore passer, Mike Sherwood.

Already the holder of seven WVU records for pitching skill, Sherwood has passed for 1,575 yards in seven games. If he looks a bit familiar to The Citadel, it won't be odd.

This is the second game in a row the Bulldogs will have faced one of the country's ranking passers. Last week it was Davidson's Gordon Slade, and the way The Citadel handled Slade appears to bode ill for the game with WVU. Slade hit 23 of 39 passes for 278 yards and two touchdowns.

Only non-contact work is scheduled in The Citadel's practices for the Mountaineers because of injuries that have hit the Bulldogs hard in recent weeks. Linebacker John Small missed last week's game with a neck injury and guard Ed Storey and tackle Marion Glover are newly sidelined.

"We can't afford to get anyone else hurt," said coach Red Parker. Practices generally were light Monday, as usual for that day, around the conference. Few new injuries resulted from last Saturday's action.

Southern Cal Holds To First Place In AP Poll By Slim 13 Point Edge

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer Southern California and Ohio State had close calls Saturday

but he Trojans suffered most in but the Trojans suffered most in The Associated Press weekly college football poll.

They didn't lose their No. 1 national ranking but their number of first-place votes dropped from 24 to 19 and their lead over the second-ranked Buckeyes shrank from 64 points to a mere 13.

Southern California needed a touchdown pass with 1:13 remaining to squeeze past stubborn Oregon 20-13. The Trojans piled up 816 points in the balloting by 45 sports writers and broadcasters.

Ohio State tallied 14 first-place votes and 803 points after holding off Michigan State, No. 17 in this week's poll, 25-20.

Kansas retained third place with 10 first-place votes and 758 points. The other first-place ballots went to fourth-ranked Penn State with 588 points and No. 5

Tennessee with 541. There was no change in the top six teams as Purdue polled 415 points. In Saturday's games, Kansas beat Colorado 27-14, Penn State edged Army 28-24, Tennessee walloped UCLA 42-18 and Purdue thrashed Illinois 35-17.

Georgia, seventh a week ago, dropped to ninth after tying 13th-ranked Houston 10-10 and California fell from eighth to 11th following a 7-7 deadlock with Washington.

Michigan moved up from ninth to seventh via a 35-0 rout of Northwestern, and Missouri climbed from 10th to eighth after belting Oklahoma State 42-7. Texas took over the 10th spot following a 38-7 drubbing of Southern Methodist.

California barely led the Second Ten by nine points over Notre Dame, which clobbered Navy 45-14.

After Houston in 13th place came Arkansas, 25-22 winner over Texas A&M; Oregon State, which whipped Stanford 29-7; unbeaten Ohio University, 34-27 winner over Western Michigan; Michigan State; Auburn, which upset Florida 24-13; Woming, which romped past Colorado State U. 46-14, and Louisiana State.

The Tigers managed to stay in the Top Twenty despite a 27-24 loss to Mississippi.

The top 20, with first-place votes, records and total points:

- 1. South Carolina 19 6-0 816
2. Ohio State 14 6-0 803
3. Kansas 10 7-0 758
4. Penn State 1 6-0 588
5. Tennessee 1 5-0 541
6. Purdue 6-1 415

18. Auburn 5-2 31
19. Wyoming 6-2 29

Maryland Can Play Spoiler

The Maryland Terrapins are out of contention for this year's Atlantic Coast Conference football title, but could play an important part in who wins.

The Terps, who won their first and only ACC crown in 1965, play Clemson this weekend and would do the N. C. State Wolfpack a great favor by beating the Tigers.

Clemson and State are two teams that can still win the crown outright. Clemson needs to win all three of its remaining games to do so.

The Terps have defeated only two conference rivals — North Carolina and South Carolina — this year. These two teams they defeated are the next ones to meet the Tigers.

Maryland has lost three games. Two of them were to Duke and N. C. State. Last weekend they fell victim to the Wake Forest revival which started the week before with a win over the Tar Heels.

The Tigers' squad began preparing Monday for Saturday's game with a warning from Coach Frank Howard.

"You can't live on what you did last Saturday," he told them, referring to Clemson's upset over State.

All eight of the ACC teams have conference matches this week.

A light football exercise without pads Monday started the Virginia Cavaliers, who meet the Tar Heels Saturday, on the hard route back after a defeat at the hands of South Carolina last week.

On the Cavs' injured list are Jim Shannon and Tom Thomas, backup guards, who both have hurt knees.

The Tar Heels, also coming from a loss, were told by doctors Monday it will be several days before it is determined whether offensive stars Gayle Bomar and Peter Davis will be able to play Saturday.

Bomar suffered a dislocated right thumb in last weekend and Davis' tongue was cut in the same game.

Duke Blue Devil Coach Tom Harp said Monday of his team's rival this weekend, "State's beaten us pretty soundly the past two seasons, is always an excellent kicking team and will be mad after having lost to Clemson. We will have to pass well to stay in the game."

The Wolfpack did not practice Monday due to heavy rains in Raleigh. The team went indoors during the practice periods and watched game films.

South Carolina's Gamecocks, who meet Wake Forest this week, counted three injured players as practice began Monday.

End Gene Schwarting is hampered with a leg injury, but is expected to recover in time for this week's game. Defensive back Don Bailey, who has a face injury, was in practice Monday and will most likely play. Fullback Warren Muir, still recovering from a back injury, also is expected to play Saturday.

Suggs Gains Second Honor

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Sophomore Quarterback Tommy Suggs set a new Atlantic Coast Conference record by throwing five touchdown passes leading underdog South Carolina to a 49-28 win over Virginia.

Suggs, for the second time, was named the ACC's offensive back of the week for the effort. The last time he won the award was the last time South Carolina won a football game, against North Carolina.

Duke's Ken Bombard was honored for his line play in the Blue Devils' smashing win over Georgia Tech. Normally a tackle, Bombard was switched to guard just a week ago and responded with his best effort of the season.

He took part in 95 offensive plays and graded A plus on all but 10.

It was the best offensive line play for Duke this year. Suggs won out over outstanding performances that included Clemson's Billy Ammons (11 of 19 passes for 212 and a touchdown against State) Duke's Leo Hart (who hit 15 of 27 passes for 237 yards and a touchdown) and Duke halfback Phil Asack who set an ACC record with 40 rushes, gaining 140 yards.

Packers Not Out Of Race

By BOB GREENE Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — A fourth consecutive National Football League championship still is the goal for the Green Bay Packers. Yet they seem to be going about it in an unusual manner.

"It looks as if we might lose our way into the Central Division title," a Packer said following Sunday's 13-10 loss to the Chicago Bears.

That defeat knocked the Packers out of a share of the division lead with a 3-4 record. But former co-leader Detroit also lost.

Now Chicago and Minnesota are tied for first. But both have four defeats to go along with four victories.

Although it's still anybody's race, Packers' Coach Phil Bengtson sees a hard road ahead for his team with only six games left in the regular season.

"We have to win them all," Bengtson said. "And the other people have to lose some."

That might not be so easy. The Packers have to play, in order, Minnesota, New Orleans, Washington, San Francisco, Baltimore and Chicago.

The Minnesota Vikings have the toughest schedule, facing the Packers, Detroit, Baltimore, Chicago meets San Francisco, Atlanta, Dallas, New Orleans, Los Angeles and Green Bay, while Detroit goes against Baltimore, Minnesota, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Atlanta and Washington.

Monk Captures Football Prize

J. Y. Monk III of Portsmouth, Va. is this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest winner.

Monk correctly picked the winners in 23 of the 32 games in this week's contest. His point total of 71, however, was the clincher, as he was closest to the actual 91 scored by Arizona State and New Mexico.

Second place resulted in a tie between Shelton Brown of Fountain and Bill Lawrence of Chapel Hill. Both also got 23 right, but had a point total of 70.

Several other people also had 23 right, but were further off the point total. The new contest appears in today's paper.

ACC Leaders Hold Position

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — The top three men in the top three individual statistical categories of Atlantic Coast Conference football competition, held their places over the weekend.

ACC Service Bureau figures released today show Fred Summers of Wake Forest the total offense leader with 1,612 yards on 303 plays. Runnerup Leo Hart, Duke sophomore, has 1,565 yards and Gayle Bomar of North Carolina is third at 1,270.

Hart continues to lead passers, with 102 completed in 202 attempts. Summers is second with 95 caught and Gene Arnette of Virginia is third with 71 completions.

Frank Quayle of Virginia leads ball carriers with 731 yards, followed by Maryland's Billy Lovett, 710, and Buddy Gore of Clemson, 642.

Fred Zeigler of South Carolina leads pass catchers with 49 for 710 yards and six scores. Henley Carter of Duke is second with 46 caught for 675 yards and one score. Both have broken the old yardage record.

Garry Yount of N. C. State tops punters with a 38.9 average.

Jack Whitley of N. C. State leads in punt returns with 296 yards on 18 returns.

Another State ace, Bobby Hall, leads in kickoff returns with 562 yards on 22 returns.

Virginia's Peter Schmidt has the most interceptions, six.

Gerald Warren of N. C. State is the scoring leader with 43 points, one more than Summers.

Pipers Hold Unbeaten Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jimmy Rayl just missed a desperation shot from the three-point area as the sun gounded Monday night, and the unbeaten Minnesota Pipers squeezed past the Indiana Pacers 121-120 for their fourth American Basketball Association victory.

All other teams in the league were idle, while San Francisco whipped Phoenix 119-108 in the night's only National Basketball Association match.

The victory kept Minnesota as pro basketball's only unbeaten outfit, and boosted to 1 1/2 games its lead over Kentucky in the ABA's Eastern Division.

Rayl missed the shot that would have won for the Pacers after scoring 11 of his 13 points in a rally that helped Indiana cut a 15-point deficit in the final six minutes. He had scored two three-point baskets from beyond the 25-foot range in the closing surge.

Connie Hawkins fired in 43 points for the Pipers. Roger Brown was high for Indiana, 1-5, with 31 points. San Francisco utilized the scoring of Rudy LaRusso, Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins in its conquest of Phoenix. LaRusso and Thurmond accounted for 28 points each while Mullins contributed 26 to the Warriors' attack.

The Suns retaliated with a 29-point effort by Dick Van Arsdale while Gail Goodrich chipped in with 27.

WEEKLY PRIZES

1st PRIZE
$15.00

2nd PRIZE
$10.00

CONTEST RULES

1. Thirty-two football games are placed in the ads on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per week per person. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p. m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p. m. Address entries to: "FOOTBALL CONTEST", P. O. Box 408, Greenville, N. C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted)

INDEX
EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

The Worry Clinic Efficiency Shows On Vincennes U. Campus

Dean Summers at Vincennes University asked me to address its 2,500 students and faculty on LSD, marijuana and other drugs. But I was astounded at the superb efficiency engineering demonstrated in that university's conversion of former factory buildings to modern college use. Business Colleges and Junior Colleges now give better returns per dollar than the swanky Ivy League schools.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE H-526: Dean Summers invited me to address the 2,500 students and faculty at Vincennes University earlier this year.

"We want you to discuss the use and abuse of drugs," was his request.

Versatile President Becke, gave me a gracious introduction and the audience was most receptive.

I briefly sketched the history of drugs, beginning with the use of willow tea some 400 years B. C., which was the origin of the aspirin.

Then I showed the side effects of drugs, which often aren't even anticipated by college students, who think it is cute to smoke marijuana or go on LSD trips.

Yet these drugs may alter the genes and chromosomes, thus handicapping future generations.

"And I contrasted the 'sheep' vs. the 'Narcissus' type of teenager.

Most people try to rush into the herd or mob and hide their identity by melding with the group, a la sheep!

That is why cigarette advertisers stamped about 6,000 new lifetime teen-age addicts to cigarettes every day in the U. S. A. alone.

For the usual teen-ager is afraid to have the spotlight turned on himself, so he wishes to hide in the throng by imitating what others are doing.

But there is a small minority at the other extreme that actually seek the limelight and want to be different from the crowd.

These demonstrate the Narcissus complex, who loved his own image in the stream and thus preferred all the spotlight he could obtain.

Such teen-agers prefer LSD or anything that the vast majority do NOT adopt!

Like the chronic movie actress, they want to grandstand in front of an audience and not become submerged in the flock or herd.

But while I was at Vincennes University, I was delighted with the "horse sense" and practicality of this zooming school.

For example, it utilized former factory buildings and merely converted them into college uses.

An old brewery, for instance, used to stand on the site now occupied by Vincennes University.

The brewery boiler room has thus been converted into the college planetarium.

The brewery itself has been transformed into the printing plant.

The former stable for the brewery wagon horses, is now the new Technology Building.

The brewery barrel house is the modern Business Education Building.

An old ice storage plant is the Drafting and Physics Lab.

An old water plant is the Auditorium.

A WAC barracks has been converted into a Science and Math Hall.

If all colleges showed the "horse sense" in adapting former buildings to their modern college needs, taxpayers would not be saddled with such huge burdens for swanky educational plants.

It is a delight to witness efficiency engineering applied to the financial direction of colleges, as well as to state and federal government, so I am especially delighted to salute Vincennes University.

Remember, it isn't imposing new buildings but the teacher-pupil rapport that produces good citizens and talented alumni of a college!

Business Colleges and Junior Colleges thus are now the most efficient institutions of higher education in America today.

They produce far better trained brains per dollar of investment than the heavily endowed, swanky IVY LEAGUE which has almost bankrupted the USA by its braintruster alumni in our government.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

A delicately timed defense by East and West against South's four spade contract averted a disastrous swing against the United States during a match against Switzerland in a World Bridge Olympiad.
The four spade contract was reached at both tables and, where the Swiss players held the North-South cards, the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram with South becoming the declarer.
Arthur Robinson, seated West for the United States, opened the king of clubs in order to inspect the terrain. Robert Jordan, holding the East hand, followed suit with his lowest club, the three. Altho the normal procedure with a doubleton is to high-low when partner leads the king, Jordan felt that it was urgent to cash a heart trick immediately, so he gave his partner a discouraging signal in clubs.

West dutifully shifted to the suit in which his partner had overcalled, and East played the ace of hearts. Jordan returned the eight of clubs to Robinson's ace, and the latter led another club. North ruffed with the ten of spades and East overruffed with the jack to score the setting trick.
The key play of the deal was the heart switch at trick two. If East starts an immediate high-low in clubs inducing his partner to continue clubs — South can discard a heart from dummy on the third round, thereby eliminating his loser in that suit.
At the other table where the American team held the North-South cards, the auction proceeded somewhat differently and North became the declarer at four spades. This simplified the defense considerably. East opened the ace of hearts and, when the king appeared in dummy he made the natural shift to a club, and the final outcome was the same.

Light Tremors In North Albania

TITOGRAD, Yugoslavia (AP) — A series of light earthquakes jolted northern Albania and towns on the South Adriatic coast of Montenegro Monday, the day after a larger quake in the area killed one woman and injured over 100.
No further casualties or damage but there were no reports from Albania. The larger quake destroyed about 350 houses and damaged over 2,000 in Montenegro.

Referenda For Several States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Californians can grant themselves tax cuts, New Hampshire may give up the right to declare war, and Tuesday is a day of decision in semi-dry Utah where a liquor-by-the-drink question is on the ballot.

Two other states, Hawaii and Nebraska, decide whether to lower the voting age, while Washington state votes on whether traffic policemen should administer breath and blood tests to drinking drivers.

These and hundreds of other questions will be settled by Americans in about three-fourths of the states with local proposals on the election ballot.

New Jersey voters will decide whether to float that state's biggest bond issue in history—$990 million—to pay for low income housing, education facilities and public transportation.

That's not as big as a money issue in Illinois, where a decision must be made on a $1 billion proposal for water and air pollution control, development of water resources, and a water-recreation program.

Virginians, who have never before borrowed money to finance public projects, will decide on an $1 million bond issue for education and mental hospitals.

In California, homeowners can vote themselves property assessment exemptions which would mean paying $70 less a year in taxes. There's a proposal, too, to eliminate the personal property tax, and an opportunity to double the standard deduction on the state's income tax.

Since 1784, New Hampshire's governor has had the right to declare war independent of the U.S. Congress. He can "pursue (the enemy) by force of arms, as well as by sea as by land, within and without the limits of this state."

Nearly 200 years later, New Hampshire votes whether or not to retain the ancient statute.

Voters in Alabama and Florida consider proposals to permit governors of their states to run for a second term of office.

Georgia is trying, through the ballot box, to prevent a re-appointment of the 1966 gubernatorial race, settled by the legislature's election of Gov. Lester Maddox.

Pennsylvania votes on a money issue to provide Vietnam veterans with bonuses, and out West, in Arizona, the electorate will decide whether or not to phase out tax exemptions given World War II veterans.

New TV Station Now Operating

RALEIGH (AP) — A new television station, WRDU-TV, is now operating in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area.

Station manager Glenn Jackson said the UHF station which operates on Channel 28 went on the air at 4:50 p.m. Monday and will carry selected network programming from NBC and CBS, news from the Associated Press, and local programs originating from the WRDU-TV studios on N. C. 54 near the Research Triangle Park.

N.C. Markets

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets slightly stronger Monday. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs, in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 45 1/2 to 46 1/2 medium, whites: 41 to 42 1/2; small whites: 32 to 34.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—North Carolina hog market today are mostly steady. Tops of 18.00-18.50 at Rocky Mount; 17.25-18.00 at Wilson; 17.00-18.00 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson, Mount Olive, Newton Grove, Albertson and Lumberton; 17.25-17.75 at Bethel; 18.50 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabeth town, Pink Hill, Pine Level and Chadbourn; 18.25 at Salisbury; 17.75 at Greensboro; 17.50 at Siler City.

Officials Detained By Students With Knives

By DONALD H. HARRISON
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials of San Fernando Valley State College were held prisoner by knife-carrying students for up to four hours Monday.

No serious injuries or vandalism was reported.

Alleging unfair treatment of Negro athletes, about 200 students seized the top floor of the administration building and held 34 persons in the president's conference room.

The fifth floor was sealed off by members of the Black Student Union. Downstairs, on the first floor, leaders of the Negro group met with acting president Paul Blomgren and other administrators.

Later, after word that police were moving in, the students quietly left the building.

Blomgren met with other administrators and faculty and said he would announce later what—if anything—would be done about the student demands.

A leaflet distributed by the Black Student Union called for an investigation into "the racist attitude" of a coach who allegedly struck a Negro student, for giving more power to students and refusing a cutback of funds from the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity.

Athletic director Glenn Arnott was among those held prisoner. The door to the room was guarded by students armed with fire extinguishers, table knives, and at least one butcher knife, were seen in student hands.

"There were implied threats of violence," said Donald W. Krimel, executive assistant to the president.

The college at suburban Northridge has an enrollment of 18,500 students, about 200 of them Negroes.

Troop 205 Acquires A New Scoutmaster

Dr. Thomas E. Vernon, an assistant professor with the School of Education at East Carolina University, has been named Scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 205.

Troop 205, sponsored by the Memorial Baptist Church, was formerly headed by Scoutmaster Dr. Harry R. Billica, who resigned as Scoutmaster effective November 1. Dr. Billica remains active with the Boy Scout movement as a member on the East Carolina Council Committee. He served three years as Scoutmaster for Troop 205. During this time, he was one of the prime movers in the construction program for Camp Bonner, being built on Blount's Bay in Beaufort County.

ROBERSONVILLE — John Leon Edmondson, 82, died early Sunday in the VA Hospital in Salisbury. Funeral services will be held from Ayres Funeral Home in Bethel Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. by the Rev. David Jarman. Interment will follow in Martin Memorial Gardens.

Mr. Edmondson was a native and lifelong resident of the Robersonville community and was the son of the late John Ashley and Susan Coburn Edmondson.

He was married to the late Eula Johnson and was a member of the Gold Point Christian Church and a veteran of World War I.

He is survived by one son, Johnny Ray Edmondson of Grifton; two daughters, Miss Susan Edmondson of Arlington, Va., and Mrs. Russell Warren of Houston, Tex.; and seven grandchildren.

Okay Separate Reading On Gas Co. Franchise

WILLIAMSTON — A separate reading, requested by W. P. Baldwin, Vice-President of the North Carolina Natural Gas Corporation, was granted by the Williamston Town Board at its meeting Monday night. The board approved tabling a second reading for a new franchise.

In other action, a large delegation was on hand to hear proposals for zoning ordinance. The proposed zoning had been advertised for the past month. Following discussions and questions raised by the delegation, zoning action was tabled until the next regular town board meeting.

A franchise was approved for a cable television to be provided by the Peninsula Broadcasting Company of Norfolk, Va.

Town board members were reappointed and one new member elected. These are: Chairman, J. E. Griffin; Members: J. O. Perry, Jr., W. E. Ritter, John H. Gurganus, and the new member, Mrs. Chris Farrior, who replaces C. W. Griffin.

Greene County Budget Revised

SNOW HILL — The Greene County Commissioners yesterday made resolutions that revised the 1968-69 budget to make provisions for the Greene County Board of Education Administrative office.

Total cost of the new facility, including architects fees, amounts to $55,294.78.

The board also heard reports from the County Welfare Department, the Agricultural Extension Service and the Greene County Board of Elections chairman Rudolph Joyner.

Four Omitted In Honors List

Mike Van Dyke, Anna White, Wanda Whitehurst and Doug Wilkerson have been named to the Principal's List at Rose High School.

The names of the above students were omitted from the list of honor students printed in an earlier edition of the Daily Reflector.

No Romance For Giant Pandas

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today dashed all hopes of augmenting the giant panda population outside Red China.

The Ministry of Culture said An-An has to return to the Moscow Zoo within the next few days, ending the London Zoo's second attempt to spark a romance between Soviet Union's male panda and Britain's Chi-Chi.

For two months the animals snored and ignored each other. The London Zoo wanted An-An to stay and try again, but Moscow said nothing doing.

The giant pandas are the only two of their species outside China.

Discrimination Isn't The Issue

BOSTON (AP) — A job applicant rejected because of a beard can expect no help from the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination.

The commission Monday refused to entertain the protest filed by William E. Olmstead, 25, a bearded divinity student, who said the Boston School Department wouldn't even take his application for a substitute teaching job because of his beard.

Mrs. Erna Ballantine, commission chairman, told Olmstead she believed he had been "discriminated against" but said the commission was powerless in the case of beards.

The law specifies the commission can act only in cases of discrimination based on race, religion, color, sex or age.

Olmstead said Miss Genevieve Wakefield declined to take his application because of the beard and quoted her as saying bearded men did not command the respect of the pupils.

Winterville Board Hears New Cemetery Request

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Board of Aldermen last night heard a request from a group of citizens to leave the gate of the Winterville Cemetery open every day during the daylight hours and to remove the barbed-wire from the top of the chain link fence that surrounds the cemetery.

The board agreed some months earlier to open the south gate of the cemetery only on Sundays on a trial basis, allowing visitors to drive into the cemetery rather than having to walk.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles said the town was forced to keep the cemetery locked because persons were using the graveyard as a garbage dump. The matter was taken into consideration by the board.

Clinton Anderson, spokesman for a group of citizens in North Winterville, petitioned the town board for street and drainage improvements for that area of town.

The board agreed to have sand and rock put on certain streets in that area of town.

In other business, the board voted to join the Winterville Chamber of Commerce. It was also agreed the town will have a Christmas tree placed near the municipal building similar to the one last year.

Vote A County Alarm System

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Commissioners meeting Monday night, let a contract for a county-wide fire alarm system at a total cost of $15,792, with a maintenance of $1,361 annually. B. J. Spivey, Chairman of the Martin County ABC Board, resigned after having been chairman for 38 years. The Board of Commissioners will call a joint session of the Board of Education and the Board of Health to appoint a new chairman.

A request by the North Carolina Register of Deeds Association for an increase in fees was rejected.

Dr. L. H. Wynne, a local member of the Welfare Board, resigned due to not having time to devote to this work. A new member will be appointed soon.

Madison County Election Turmoil

MARSHALL, N. C. (AP) — Politics became more confusing Monday in Madison County when the chairman of the Madison County Board of Elections obtained an order restraining prominent Republicans from interfering in today's election.

Included in the order obtained by Mrs. Virginia Anderson were Sheriff Roy Roberts and Sen. Bruce Briggs, who is up for reelection.

Another development to add to the confusion was a warrant charging another precinct registrar with violating the election laws.

Sheriff Roberts had the warrant drawn against Ned Fox of the Ebbs Chapel Precincts. The warrant had not been served late Monday.

Saturday, Ed Gentry, registrar of Precinct One in Madison County, was charged with violating election laws in the May Primary. He has been released under $300 bond.

Mrs. Anderson has charged "harassment" in the incidents involving Fox and Gentry, both Democrats. She said the charges against Gentry had been cleared by the North Carolina Board of Elections.

The Republicans charge that Mrs. Anderson's complaint was "political" and an effort to influence voters at the latest possible moment.

The order signed by Superior Court Judge W. K. McLean was ordered served by State Bureau of Investigation agents, who first contacted Sheriff Roberts.

Sheriff Roberts contacted the two others named in the order so they could come by his office to be served the order.

The complaint alleges the defendants "... have consorted and connived and are scheming to use the judicial process to defeat the election of certain persons ..."

Lions Lean To Nixon, Scott

If Pitt County votes as the Lions Club did last night Richard Nixon will carry the county for president and Bob Scott for governor.

In a straw vote at last night's club meeting Nixon received 18 votes. George Wallace received 11 and Hubert Humphrey eight.

Scott received 22 votes for governor and his Republican opposition Jim Gardner received 16.

Angel Flight In Service Project

East Carolina University's Angel Flight, coed auxiliary to the AFROTC Arnold Air Society, in celebration of Halloween decorated the Greenville Nursing Home last week.

The coeds, who decorated the front lawn and foyer, used cornstalks, pumpkins, Indian corn and a horn of plenty filled with assorted fruit.

Angel Flight members, who decorated the Greenville Nursing Home as a service to the community, act as official hostesses for all Air Force ROTC events at ECU.

Confirm Sale Of School Property

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Education Monday night confirmed sale of one school property, the Robersonville Teacherage. An easement was granted to the Highway Department on the Hayes School property for the purpose of widening the street in front of the school. The board further discussed plans for location of two proposed school sites. Action on location of these sites was continued to a future meeting.

The longest suspension bridge in the world is the Verrazano Narrows bridge in New York City; it is 4,260 feet long.

Set A Minimum Building Price

SNOW HILL — The Greene County Board of Education yesterday established a minimum figure of $5,000 for the Old West Greene School.

The action was taken after a bid of $2,465 was received for the eight-room brick building and 3.6 acres of land. The property is located on Highway 13, about four miles from Greene County between Snow Hill and Goldsboro.

Greene County Superintendent of Schools Robert Strother said anyone interested in purchasing the building should contact the board's attorney, Walter Sheppard. The board has been trying to sell the building for some time now.

In other business yesterday, board members studied the traffic situation at the new West Greene School. According to Strother, a four-lane highway runs in front of the school and officials are concerned about the traffic hazards.

Board members voted to contact the State Highway Commission District Engineer C. W. Snell about the possibility of installing caution lights in front of the school.

Board members also toured the new administrative office building now under construction for the Greene County Board of Education. The building, scheduled to be completed in March, 1969, will cost $55,294.78.

Boy Injured In Traffic Mishap

William Dallas Cherry, 7, of 307 Hillcrest Dr. was injured yesterday when he collided with a car after stepping from a school bus and starting across the street to his home.

Police investigators identified the driver of the car involved in the mishap as Raymond Andrew Coghill, 16, of 2615 Calvin Way. He was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of the incident.

Officers said the incident occurred about 3:40 p.m. at the intersection of Sunset Drive and Pine Street.

The bus, investigators reported, had stopped on Sunset Drive at the intersection of Pine Street to allow Cherry to get off the bus. Cherry started across Pine Street and ran into the side of the car which was traveling along Pine Street.
