Viet Cong Take Staggering Losses South Of Da Nang; Biggest Fight In 3 Months

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces killed 416 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the populous coastal lowlands below Da Nang in a series of battles Sunday, military spokesmen reported. It was the heaviest fighting in the area in three months. Thousands of troops were sweeping the seacoast and jungled foothills in an attempt to thwart any plans the enemy might have to attack Da Nang in force. Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, the South Vietnamese commander of the northern provinces, said the fighting marked the opening of the enemy command's winter offensive in his area. However, he told a news conference he does not expect any major ground attacks against the larger cities, including Da Nang, Hue, Quang Tri, Quang Ngai, Hoi An and Tam Ky. Instead, said Lam, he expects rocket, mortar and terror attacks on the cities and ground attacks on smaller, more lightly defended district towns and outposts. The general added to a series of U.S. Command reports of Hanoi violations of the demilitarized zone since the halt in American bombing of the North. He said his men had spotted North Vietnamese units up to company size last week moving supplies across the Ben Hai River from the northern to the southern sector of the six-mile-wide buffer zone. He declined to say, however, whether he believed the North Vietnamese were using the bombing reprieve to build up supplies for a new offensive along the frontier. The two provinces just below the DMZ, Quang Tri and Thua Thien, were unusually quiet over the weekend. Lam said there had been 45 enemy-initiated incidents since Saturday night in the three provinces below Da Nang, including eight ground attacks, 32 mortar and rocket attacks and five terror incidents. He said prisoners reported this was the kickoff of the enemy winter campaign. Twelve South Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the biggest battle and 72 were wounded. The South Koreans reported seven of their men killed and two wounded in another engagement. No American casualties were reported. The new outbreak of fighting came after a weekend wave of enemy attacks and terrorism in Da Nang and along an 80-mile stretch of the coastal lowlands south of the country's second largest city. National police seized 150 persons in Da Nang who could not produce proper papers. They were being questioned to determine if they were Viet Cong. Gen. Lam said 15 terrorists, including four women, already had been found and they told interrogators 45 other Viet Cong agents had entered the city. A 24-hour curfew was put on the city of 300,000 Sunday but was reduced today to 12 hours, from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. The heaviest battle raged 15 miles south of the city, around a district headquarters town, Dien Ban. South Vietnamese infantrymen and militiamen, and U.S. helicopter gunships and artillery were credited with killing 253 enemy soldiers in a 24-hour fight that ended early today. It began at 3 a.m. Sunday when about 500 North Vietnamese troops attacked the headquarters area of the South Vietnamese 51st Regiment's 2nd Battalion. Assault forces equipped with flamethrowers got within 50 yards of the command post before they were repulsed.

The South Vietnamese troops pursued the enemy soldiers while militia men closed in from another direction, trapping the enemy. In other fighting in the north, government militiamen fought off an attack Sunday night at Binh Son, 35 miles south of Da Nang, and reported killing 54 of the attackers. South Korean marines repelled a night attack 10 miles south of Da Nang and said they killed 18 Viet Cong in hand-to-hand fighting. Seven marines were killed and two were wounded. In Quang Ngai City, 80 miles below Da Nang, 10 enemy soldiers were killed by government militiamen defending an outpost. A government spokesman said U.S. and South Vietnamese artillery accounted for 49 dead near Binh Son and 32 dead near Quang Ngai. U.S. headquarters said American war planes attacked an enemy bunker complex in the demilitarized zone again Sunday.

Zond 6 Lands Safely In Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Moonshot Zond 6 landed Sunday in the Soviet Union after a seven-day flight to the moon and back, the Russians announced today. On its return flight after rounding the moon, Zond 6 had been tracked by Western observatories, which reported it reached the earth Sunday. But Soviet space authorities made no announcement until today. Zond 6 was orbited a week ago today and circled the moon Thursday. Its predecessor, Zond 5 which also flew around the moon, landed in the Indian Ocean and was recovered Sept. 22. Both were unmanned. Today's announcement said Zond 6 made a "controlled descent with the use of the aerodynamic lifting force of the descending craft." It added that this technique was different from the ballistic descent of earlier spacecraft and makes it possible to land "with lesser overhead and with greater precision." The announcement said Zond 6 had landed in a predetermined area of the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Onassis Making U.S. Visit

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis left London by air for New York today on her first visit to the United States since her marriage to Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis. Mrs. Onassis left aboard a scheduled Trans-World Airlines flight without her husband. "He is coming later," she said. "I enjoyed my stay in England just fine. I was happy to see my sister," she told newsmen at London Airport. Mrs. Onassis, 39, had stayed the weekend with her millionaire husband as guests at Turville Grange, the country home of her sister, Princess Lee Radziwill. There was no immediate indication when Onassis will follow his wife to the United States. It began at 3 a.m. Sunday when about 500 North Vietnamese troops attacked the headquarters area of the South Vietnamese 51st Regiment's 2nd Battalion. Assault forces equipped with flamethrowers got within 50 yards of the command post before they were repulsed.

High Court To Hear Powell Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to hear a claim by Adam Clayton Powell that his exclusion from the House in March 1967 was unconstitutional. The surprising action may set the stage for a historical collision between the court and Congress. The appeal had sat on a back burner for months. When Powell was re-elected from his Harlem district earlier this month it was assumed the court would certainly not consider the case. The New York Democrat was excluded last year by a 307-116 vote after a select committee found him guilty of "gross misconduct" as a congressman and recommended that he be censured, fined and stripped of all seniority. Powell, a Negro, was a veteran of 22 years in the House at the time and chairman of the Education and Labor Committee. Powell's attorneys called his exclusion "extraordinary, arbitrary and unconstitutional." They said the House, in judging the qualifications of an elected member, is restricted to those set forth in the Constitution. That is, that he be at least 25 years old, a U.S. citizen and a resident of the state served. He was barred on a finding that he had misused public funds and ignored orders by New York courts.

Estimated 300 In Demonstration At Swan Quarter; Mostly Children

SWAN QUARTER, N. C. (AP) — An estimated 300 young Negroes gathered at the courthouse square in this small coastal town Sunday for 45 minutes of singing and speechmaking. There had been an announcement that the Rev. Andrew Young of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference headquarters in Atlanta would be present for the Sunday demonstration. Young, however, did not appear by the time the day's protest ended. The demonstrators, most of them teen-agers, have been protesting for more than a week a plan which calls for closing of two present all-Negro schools with pupils assigned to a previously all-white facility. The Negro leaders want all three schools in the county to remain open, with some white students transferred to the Negro schools. Negro pupils have been boycotting the county schools for six weeks. The demonstrations also have been directed against a county Welfare Department announcement that unless the pupils return to school by Dec. 1, certain additional relief payments to parents with school age children will be stopped.

of the Dorado Beach Hotel. Agnew is vacationing in a home nearby. Police said the man grabbed Caratini's gun and shot him. An earlier report that the man was surprised inside Agnew's room was incorrect. The shooting occurred just outside the golf course while the agent was patrolling the grounds. Caratini underwent an emergency operation for removal of the bullets. The agent was reported in satisfactory condition at the Rio Piedras Medical Center. Agnew was in the Virgin Islands at the time of the shooting, and police said the incident was in no way related to Agnew's visit here. The Maryland governor and his family have been vacationing at Dorado Beach for the past week.

ing in protest over school desegregation and welfare policies in Hyde County. The demonstrations for the past two days were peaceful in contrast to outbreaks of trouble earlier that led to the arrests of more than 100 persons. At noon, there had been no incidents in the town today. Most of those jailed were charged with blocking traffic on

Gardner Says 3 Mistakes In Campaign

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Republican Jim Gardner says he made three mistakes in his unsuccessful campaign for governor which cost him votes in North Carolina's large cities. Underestimating the state's large Negro vote was one mistake, Gardner said Sunday night in appearing on WGHP-TV's "Focus" program. Gardner said he also lost votes because of his last-minute switch to California Gov. Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention. He said he also was hurt because the state's big daily newspapers criticized him "every day" during the campaign. But the retiring 4th District congressman said, "We aren't going to make these mistakes again." He did not say what his 1970 political plans were, but promised, "I plan to be in the forefront of what is happening."

Sugar Bowl

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Unbeaten Georgia's Southeastern Conference football champions accepted an invitation Monday to play in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1, with the fifth-ranked Bulldogs probably battling either Arkansas or Texas. The Sugar Bowl trip will be Georgia's first appearance in that post-season classic since the Bulldogs belted North Carolina 20-10 in 1947. Arkansas and Texas are tied for the Southwest Conference lead, and both are favored in their remaining game. However, Texas beat Arkansas earlier in the year, and will represent the league in the Cotton Bowl if it can beat Texas A&M Thanksgiving Day.

Back Up States

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 7 to 1 today that states can force railroads to carry more workers on trains than the railroads say are necessary. Disputes over the size of train crews must be worked out in legislatures and in collective bargaining and not by the courts, Justice Hugo L. Black declared. The ruling upheld Arkansas' half-century old "full crew" laws. They require an engineer, one fireman, one foreman and three helpers.

N.Y. Teachers Ballot On Strike's End

NEW YORK (AP) — The 11th week of New York City's education crisis began today with schools still closed while teachers continued balloting on a tentative settlement that would reopen them for 1.1 million children. Some union members have voiced strong objection to the plan to end the strike of the public school system's 55,000 teachers. The rank-and-file vote of the United Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, resumed at 8 a.m. to accommodate those unable to cast votes during the 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. balloting Sunday night. Mayor John V. Lindsay announced the tentative accord Sunday afternoon, following 27 hours of continuous talks at Gracie Mansion, his official residence.

ECU Foundation To Push For New Funds

The East Carolina University Foundation announced today an intensive campaign for charter members to provide "seed money" for a large-scale fundraising effort with millions of dollars as the goal. Academic excellence is the overall objective. That is in keeping with the purposes of the ECU Foundation as stated in the charter. The membership campaign will continue through this week with 1968 pledges payable no later than Dec. 31. A foundation spokesman said the "seed money" goal is $150,000. That, he said, would be used to finance a full-time, professional fund-raising office for three years. The membership campaign goal is 100 charter members of the foundation who will give at least $500 a year for three years. ECU President Leo W. Jenkins said a committee of 11 solicitors is already at work enlisting charter members. They are: Dr. M. W. Aldridge, Troy Dodson, Bill Glidewell, Curtis Hendrix, Wally Howard, Ford McGowan, Waverly Phelps, Ed

Rawl, David Reid, W. M. (Booger) Scales, Clarence Tugwell and Dick Worsley. Worsley has been a key leader in planning and organizing the campaign. He is serving as chairman of the solicitation committee. Dr. Jenkins said the foundation will employ an executive director of the foundation and its fund-raising efforts as soon as possible. The efforts of the executive director, he said, will be directed to raising funds for ECU's support on a national rather than a local basis.

Camporee Sees 325 Scouts And Leaders Joining

BELVOIR — The Pitt County Boy Scout Camporee was held here Saturday and Sunday, with more than 325 scouts and leaders participating in the annual outing. Scouts from 16 troops took part in the camporee and participated in patrol competition in all types of activities. The top four patrols selected on the basis of the patrol competition included the Tarzen and Panther patrol of Troop 340 (St. James Methodist Church), the Condor patrol of Troop 205 (Memorial Baptist Church) and the Hawk patrol of Troop 34 (Aydin Rotary Club). Dr. Bert Warren of Farmville was camporee chief while Hal Moore of Greenville was campfire chief.

Three Ohio Schools Districts Closing Down; Lack Of Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three Ohio school districts will close down in the next two weeks because of financial crises. Four more say they may have to. But in five of these seven school districts a change of heart by voters in special school tax levy votes next month could provide money to keep the schools open. To some observers these threatened school closings appear to be aimed at assuring passage of the tax levies. But the issues were defeated two weeks ago despite warnings by most of the districts that schools would be closed if the levies lost. Two of the districts can't ask voters for more money until after the first of the year, since they've already submitted their requests twice this year. A third try isn't allowed. The largest district, Youngstown with 28,000 pupils, will close down Nov. 27 and remain closed until Jan. 8. Voters there turned down a 12-mill levy—$12 for each $1,000 assessed personal property value—on Nov. 5. Graham local district in Montgomery County, near Dayton, saw a 19.1-mill combination renewal and new tax levy defeated Nov. 5 and also must wait until next year for another vote. Classes may be shut down, but its believed the district instead will cut back its budget drastically. Besides Youngstown, two other districts face shutdowns, but they may be brief, depending on what voters decide.

The Nelsonville-York City school district in Athens County will close Nov. 27. If a 7-mill levy is approved Dec. 10, classes will reopen Dec. 12. If not, reopening will come the first of the year when the next regular state school subsidy comes in. The Ostego local district in Wood County says it can't meet December's payroll and will not hold classes after Dec. 1. But it, too, is going to voters Dec. 10 with a 3.5-mill levy which lost Nov. 5. The other three school districts resubmitted defeated levies Dec. 10 are Hamilton local in Franklin County, C.R. Coblenz local in Preble County and Conneaut city in Ashtabula County. All say they may have to close but have made no definite decisions.

Blind, A Boy Accepts Reality In A World He Can Never Really See

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—The world of darkness could be terrible if the blind would let it, but George Stoltenberg of Schuyler, Neb., refused—after consideration.

The teen-ager toured the Episcopal church in North Platte and took in every detail from stonework flooring to brass candlesticks and wood carvings in the altar.

Now 17, after four years of being blind due to a disorder called retinal separation, a nearsightedness that gets progressively worse, George learned about his malady after surgery.

"You win some and you lose some," a doctor said to another while George was in the recovery room. "The kid will never see."

George recalled, "All I wanted to do was get up and run. And then reality hit. Where am I going to run to, I thought—I'm blind! My, God, I can't even do that."

He retreated to his room, refused to let friends visit, declined any communication.

"All I thought was that they had come to stare at me and pity me," he said.

Went Out to School

School began in the fall and George decided to face reality, attending the school for the blind at Nebraska City. He said he was disappointed that the school didn't fit his picture of a dungeon that would hide him from society.

Being blind isn't the greatest thing in the world, he confided, but it isn't the worst thing either. Being unloved and orphaned are far worse in his opinion. His deduction arises from work with youngsters with no families at special summer camping sessions, where he is a part-time counselor.

He believes his handicap has opened more doorways than it has closed and attributes it to making him a more complete person.

Values Education
"Being blind has sobered me a lot," he said. "Education is terribly important to me now. It never was before. I've often thought if I had not lost my sight I might have gone through life with little sense of value about learning and maybe even less about that thing called sense of direction."

George travels by himself by bus from Nebraska City to Schuyler and back again on alternate weekends. The trip involves a time layover in Omaha. He moves about in Omaha and visits with persons in the bus depot and on the street.

"Don't let anyone kid you, when you're blind you're scared," he said. "At first, I thought my life was completely shot, that I'd never be able to do anything for myself or anyone else and that thought scared me to death."

"The worst thing that can happen to you is to let anyone convince you or treat you as though you are helpless," he went on. "The blind person who doesn't learn to adjust and function effectively in spite of his blindness is the one who stands out in a crowd."

One of George's goals is to educate both sighted and blind persons to the fact that the blind are "normal."

"I'm not a religious nut," he said, "but, I've sure done a lot of thinking about God. I've got God and religious hang-ups like any teen-ager but I've learned something, too, about the quiet assuredness that comes from inside."

Although he's not certain he has the "stuff" to be a minister, George would like to go to a seminary and graduate.

Eighteen Took Federal Service Examination

Eighteen East Carolina University students have recently taken the Federal Service Entrance Examination of the U.S. government.

A passing grade on the FSEE, sponsored each quarter at ECU by the placement service, is required of all persons preparing to enter government employment.

According to placement director Furney K. James, "The federal government employs many ECU graduates in the several agencies which recruit on campus throughout the year." James has urged all students interested in government employment to take the examination.

So, Who Needs Help In Combat?

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Mayr Willard Fraser recently sent the state flag to a Montana native serving with the 1st Marine Division in Vietnam.

In his letter to the Marine, Fraser advised the Montanan to be "arrogant only with knowledge and pride in Montana's contribution to history and America."

To explain his thought, Fraser wrote, "I always, when winning World War II, asserted to my fellow soldiers of the 3rd Infantry Division, that one Montanan could whip two South Dakotans, four from Iowa, six from Illinois, eight from Massachusetts, 10 from South Carolina, and an even dozen from Texas."

Well-Known, In Montana City

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Large corporations usually receive mail in a post office drawer.

Recently, one of the state departments in Montana had occasion to correspond with the Continental Oil Co., in Ponca City, Okla.

The secretary who addressed the letter obviously didn't quite understand the address. The letter she typed was addressed to Mr. P. O. Drawer.

Perhaps Lowest Paid Monarch

THIMBU, Bhutan (AP)—King Jigme Dorji Wangchuk of Bhutan is perhaps the world's lowest paid monarch.

The Bhutan national assembly has fixed the king's privy purse at 3,000 rupees ($400) a month—or only 500 rupees ($67) more than what his ministers get.

Wedged between Tibet and India, the 18,000-square-mile Bhutan has a population of 750,000.

St. Louis, Mo., first settled in 1764, is the oldest city in the Midwest.

Sound Rule For A Safe Driver

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—W. D. Gunter, Alabama's Truck Driver of the Year, has a good rule for the highway: "Drive as though your family was in the other car."

Gunter, who has 1.8 million miles of accident-free driving on record in his tractor-trailer truck, urges motorists to try giving up their own right of way to prevent an accident. He describes defensive driving as "preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse conditions."

If the Shoe Fits...

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Why are children's shoes so expensive?

The correct answer to this question amuses some people, angers others, and doesn't help the budget a bit. It might save a pair of feet if Mom can use it to convince Dad that shoe prices are not bad.

The real reason that shoes are expensive is because we have to have TWO of them. When we look at a pair of six dollar shoes we should think of them individually as three dollars each. That is how the manufacturer must look at them when he figures his cost of material and labor.

A single shoe at three or three-fifty is a far better value than a hat, a purse, or a necktie at the same price. The shoe must withstand grinding on cement and yet not blister little feet. It wades through puddles, kicks cans, shinies up trees and comes up smiling with a little polish.

With the exception of glasses, perhaps nothing that we buy for a child can affect his future happiness as much as the footwear that protects the very foundation of bodily health.

Would Marriage Be A Disaster?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Here is a situation which is presently baffling some very dear friends of ours:

Their 23-year-old college graduate son (I'll call him Dick) had a date with a beautiful 19-year-old college girl (I'll call Mary). They dated occasionally, but there were no commitments on either side.

One night when Dick and Mary were coming home from a date, they had a terrible auto accident. Dick was not exceeding the speed limit, he was cold sober, and it was not his fault. (He was forced off the road by an on-coming car.) Dick was only slightly injured, but Mary was nearly killed. Her back and pelvis were broken and she will probably never walk again. Also, her once-beautiful face was all cut up and she will need a lot of plastic surgery for years to come.

Mary's parents called on Dick's parents and suggested that since it was Dick's "fault" that Mary's life is ruined, Dick should marry her. What is your opinion? No names or city, please.

FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: How does Dick feel about this? And Mary—what are her feelings? Mary's parents may mean well, and they have my sympathy.

but if such a marriage could be arranged (which is doubtful) it would probably be a disaster. DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm sitting down to write this letter. I am desperate.

Yesterday I read an article in the newspaper about a man becoming a woman thru an operation they call "trans-sexual." They ran a picture of "her" and she is gorgeous! The judge says that "he" is a "she" now. Her measurements are 40-23-37.

What I am getting at, Abby, is this: I am a born woman of 25 and my measurements are 32-23-37. I've sent for all the cream and exercises I've seen advertised to build up the bust, but nothing has helped me. I want more than anything in this world to have a beautiful bust. I could cry. No one knows how I feel. I tried walking topless across the room once and my husband didn't even turn his head. I've had three children but I don't feel like a woman with this boyish shape of mine. If a man can become a woman and get shots to give him a 40 bust, why can't I get those shots?

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: I don't know where the "he-turned-she" got the shots, but I do know they are illegal in the U. S. A.

DEAR ABBY: The recent "Now I've Heard Everything" letter was just that. It was about the young couple who fought continually, then she finally went home to her mama and took everything, including all their wedding presents consisting of appliances, etc.

That's the way it is when American brides walk out on their husbands. They take the wedding presents which were intended to be shared by both. So what's wrong with the neighbors giving the poor husband who was left with nothing a kitchen-shower? I'm all for it.

SAME BOAT
DEAR SAME: Now that you put it that way, I agree with you. But I do think in the case of a split, the gifts from HIS side should remain with HIM, and those from her side she may take.

CONFIDENTIAL TO E. M. IN CHICAGO: Heed the wisdom in an old Jewish proverb:

Miss McGee Is Patient Circle Speaker Tuesday

Miss Eunice McGee presented the devotional and program at the meeting of The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters and Sons held on Tuesday.

Her subject was "Hands." Miss McGee said hands portray character, clues to I. Q., health and outlook on life. One doctor said 80 affections can be detected by hands. She closed by reading a poem "Holding God's Hand."

The president, Mrs. H. H. Settle, presided. Starting committee reports were given.

An invitation to help enlarge a chapel at Samarcond was read. The Patient Circle will contribute to the chapel. The Chapel at the Correctional Institute for girls, Samarcond Manor, is not adequate for chapel services. In the early twenties the first chapel was donated and built by The Kings Daughters. Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, who was president of North Carolina Branch, at that time, dedicated the chapel.

A contribution to "Operation Santa Claus" was voted on by members.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell gave a report on the State Convention held in Raleigh.

Hostesses Mrs. V. P. Scoville, Mrs. Cora Poyell, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, and Miss Mary Wells served refreshments during the fellowship hour.

Dr. Frank Fuller Gives WOTM Program Thursday

Dr. Frank Fuller was speaker at the meeting of the Women of the Moose Chapter 1308 held Thursday night.

Dr. Fuller, of East Carolina University and a past governor of Lodge No. 885, spoke on "Entertainment, Knowledge and Faith," denoting the facilities of the libraries in Greenville.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Evelyn Beasley. The library committee was in charge of the program.

Senior Regent Ada Jones gave a report on the progress of redecorating the small auditorium. She also reminded chapter members to participate in the functions of the lodge and chapter.

Junior Graduate Regent Peggy Roberson showed the certificate of achievement of award for her year as Senior Regent and read a letter from Mooseheart. She was presented her Green Beanie in recognition of the achievement of award.

Mrs. Roberson also announced that a bake sale would be held on Nov. 27 and said that cakes and pies would be made per order. Orders may be made through the lodge office.

Mrs. Betty Diehl, chairman of the membership committee, gave a report on the membership drive, showing the membership tree.

The International Dean of Academy of Friendship will be an official guest visitor for the December chapter night program on Thursday, Dec. 12.

Alumnae Council Meeting Held

DURHAM — Mrs. S. B. Underwood and Miss Elizabeth Walker of Greenville have just returned from Duke University, where they attended the fall meeting of the Alumnae Council of the Woman's College Alumnae Association.

Mrs. Hugh Mills and Mrs. Underwood are also members of the Board of Directors and Mrs. Mills is chairman of a major committee.

Plans were outlined for Alumnae Weekend which is scheduled for next April and a five-year program was adopted to assist alumnae who wish to continue their education on either an undergraduate or graduate program. This will be initiated this year with a grant of two $500 scholarships or one $1,000 scholarship.

Holiday Open House Planned For Friday

Look Again, Before Any Reduction

In this day of everyone "doing his own thing" there is mounting pressure for liberalizing the laws governing possession and use of marijuana. There is a growing movement calling for reducing the severe penalties now associated with violation of the marijuana laws.

What is most disturbing to us about the whole thing, is that in addition to hippy and fringe groups, there are more stable do-gooder organizations whose voices are now being heard calling for reducing the penalties.

The chorus is growing in spite of the increasing evidence pointing to the direct connection between use of marijuana and later addition to narcotics. The chorus of reducing penalties for violation of marijuana laws is growing in spite of the fact that throughout the nation a greater effort is being made to sell the product to younger children . . . even at the junior high and elementary levels in some localities.

Before lawmakers knuckle under to the mounting pressure, they should take a careful look at the vital information on the subject that has been compiled by law enforcement agencies and by those who work with addicts. They should take note of the broadening pattern of peddling marijuana across the country. As surely as the laws are liberalized and penalties are reduced, marijuana which long has been a threat to the nation will become an even greater threat. Those unscrupulous individuals who now prey on others by pushing the product will have broad new lucrative fields in which to spread their product of decay and degradation.

Our Mayor, Building A City Of The Future

No one could be more deserving of the Chamber of Commerce—Merchants Association Citizen of the Year award for 1968 than Greenville's dynamic mayor, S. Eugene West.

The mayor's accomplishments could hardly be measured during one calendar year alone. Over a period of several years he has furnished the leadership which brought about slum clearance, redevelopment programs and planning here that have literally changed the face of the city.

Street improvement programs are being carried out that are gradually eliminating dirt roads in Greenville. Parks have been expanded and improved and other public works projects are underway.

We don't always agree with Mayor West. In fact, few people do and we suppose he would be bewildered if he found the entire city in agreement with his programs. But through creative government and forceful leadership, Mayor West has brought about local improvements that are making Greenville a city of the future.

Now Shopping For Chairmen

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — The men who will be presiding officers of the 1969 session of the General Assembly have begun their pre-Christmas shopping for committee chairmen. They have a list — the Final selections for full committee make-up may not be made until after the legislature convenes in mid-January. But it is likely that preliminary choices for chairmen will be made earlier.

No Decision

Both Taylor and Vaughn denied flatly that they had reached any firm decisions prior to the Nov. 5 elections.

"I've not made one firm, final decision," Taylor said. Vaughn said he had "not reached that stage as yet, and I'm going to wait and see."

There is, as usual, a rush by some legislators to ask for favored committee posts. There also are requests not to be put on some committees. One senator says "I do not want to be on the Finance (tax-writing) committee. That's one that will have trouble."

GOP's Role

The election of 30 Republicans to seats in the General Assembly also complicates matters for the Democratic party leadership.

Each legislator, regardless of party, has a certain number of committee assignments. But it would be unusual—unprecedented in recent years—for a GOP legislator to receive a chairmanship even of a minor committee. The tradition has been that the majority party rules and holds all chairmanships.

This time, however, the sheer size of the Republican contingent will give it a bigger voice both in committee and on the floor even if it is denied chairmanships.

Mrs. Scott Named

The wife of the incoming governor, Mrs. Jessie Rae Scott of Hawfields, has been elected first vice-president of the North Carolina division, American Cancer Society, and also to the board of directors.

Mrs. Scott served as Cancer Crusade chairman for the state in 1967 and was vice president.

list of 170 legislators elected on Nov. 5. But selection is difficult because of an almost unprecedented turnover and the loss of many legislative veterans. There will be many new faces in both House and Senate in January and quite a few who had been counted upon will be absent.

This fact complicates matters for the lieutenant governor-elect H. P. (Pat) Taylor Jr., and House Speaker-elect Earl Vaughn. Both men, Democrats, are legislative veterans and are versed in the ways of choosing all-important committees. The committee system is a cherished, time-honored tradition in the General Assembly as it is in Congress.

Little if any proposed legislation has much of a chance unless it clears the committee hurdle.

Are Conferring

Taylor and Vaughn have begun conferring with trusted advisors — some of them former legislators — and with legislators themselves about committee preferences and possible assignments.

They have, or probably will, send letters to each member of the respective chamber inquiring about interest and preference.

Rockefeller Is Emotional Issue

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Shortly after the election, a leading Southern Nixonite was so worried by reports that President-elect Nixon's Cabinet would reflect a liberal tilt that he telephoned John Mitchell, Nixon's former campaign manager who is now chief talent scout for the soon-to-be-named Nixon Cabinet.

The Southern republican told Mitchell that what disturbed him most was the report that Nixon planned to name Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York as Secretary of Defense.

To Nixon's conservative supporters, said the Southerner, the appointment of Rockefeller would spread gloom and pessimism both North and South.

Mitchell, replying in a conciliatory vein, said nothing directly about Rockefeller. But he assured the Southern Republican that Nixon still stood squarely behind this pledge at the Miami Beach convention not to betray the South.

The Southerner ended his brief talk with Mitchell greatly mollified. But in fact, far from settling the matter, the conversation only underscored how absolutely crucial to the fate and direction of the Nixon administration is the question whether Nixon does or does not offer his old Republican for a top spot in the Nixon administration.

Rockefeller is the quintessential symbol of the liberal, anti-Nixon, Eastern-establishment wing of the Republican party. As such, it is Rockefeller who, for opposite reasons, arouses the most intense emotion among conservative and liberal party leaders.

"I'd rather have some left-wing Democrat than Nelson Rockefeller," one Bourbon Republican from Illinois told us. In the back of his mind, a myth (wholly erroneous) is already taking form that blames Rockefeller for Nixon's abysmal performance in New York state on

Election Day

"It's not all that important about Rockefeller as one person," a liberal Republican Senator says, "but as a symbol. What Nixon does about this Administration is going to be open-ended or a tight little conservative clique."

Nixon and Rockefeller have not had a single serious talk about the future. Their only contact since the election, in fact, came in the wee hours of Nov. 6, before Nixon's victory was certain. Nixon telephoned the Governor at his Manhattan apartment to thank him for his help during the campaign and, in a glancing reference, said he would need Rockefeller's help in the future.

Even Nixon's closest associates claim they don't know what the President-elect has in mind for Rockefeller, if anything. But the way they talk about Rockefeller — calling him first "very controversial" and only second "symbolic"—indicates some real reluctance by Nixon to invite him into the Administration.

Moreover, with the conservative Mitchell now having been placed in charge of the Cabinet-level talent hunt, Rockefeller's fate inside the Nixon camp may not be in wholly friendly hands. It was Mitchell, for example, who was Gov. Spiro Agnew's chief protagonist for the Vice Presidential nomination at the Miami Beach convention.

Although Mitchell has never revealed his inner thoughts about Rockefeller, some conservatives on the Nixon staff talk privately about finessing the Governor by naming an establishment Democrat to the Pentagon and banker brother David Rockefeller to the Treasury.

But there are two obstacles to this solution. In the first place, David Rockefeller is about to take over active management of Chase Manhattan from outgoing chairman

Those Dirty Negotiators

WASHINGTON — After five years of doing practically everything, the United States finally got Hanoi to come to the conference table. But the only trouble is that, although Hanoi has agreed to come to the conference table, Saigon is refusing to come. This leaves the United States in one bad spot, because it's always harder to deal with your friends than it is with your enemies.

The problem that everyone is working on now is, how do you get President Thieu to send someone to Paris?

My friend at the State Department has been working on this tricky problem for three weeks.

"There's a division of opinion on how to deal with South Vietnam," he said. "The Hawks want to bomb Saigon."

"What on earth for?" I asked.

"To save face for the South Vietnamese. If we bomb Saigon, then they can say they won't go to Paris until we stop the bombing. That's how we got the North Vietnamese to agree to talk, so there is no reason why it wouldn't work for the south."

"It makes sense. What's wrong with it?"

"The Doves say if you bomb Saigon it will just strengthen the South Vietna-

Other Editors Say Writing On The Wall

(Salisbury Post)

One million school children in New York have been locked out of their classrooms for most of this school year because of a teachers' strike.

In at least two other localities, both in Ohio, thousands of other children have found themselves in the same predicament — again because of strikes, but in these cases not strikes by teachers but by citizens who refuse to tax themselves enough to keep their schools in operation.

School levies were voted down twice this year at Perry, Ohio, forcing the closing of the schools in October. Fortunately for Perry kids, a third levy was passed in the recent elections and the schools will soon reopen.

But for 28,000 school children in Youngstown, Nov. 5 was a dark day. A school levy was defeated for the third time, despite warnings that the schools could not go on without it and despite the loss in state funds that it would entail. It was the fifth levy defeat in the city in two years.

Youngstown children now face an extended Thanksgiving-Christmas-New Year's hiatus in their education from Nov. 27 to Jan. 23.

The issues that have aroused voter wrath in both communities are more complicated than a simple revolt against taxes. Yet that factor is certainly present, and is perhaps more influential than the voters themselves realize or would admit.

School taxes are about the only ones that the ordinary citizen has under his direct and immediate control. Washington is remote, and state capitals (where legislatures have raised taxes by $3.8 billion in the past two years) are not much closer.

But no state, and no nation, can long tolerate continual interruptions in the education of those who will be the citizens of tomorrow whether brought about by striking teachers or by striking taxpayers.

If local communities cannot or will not educate their children, eventually a higher government, on the state or a federal level, will move in and do it for them.

mese determination to keep fighting the war. They maintain we've been bombing parts of South Vietnam for years now and it hasn't intimidated President Thieu or Vice President Ky. It's just made Saigon's position tougher."

"What does the Air Force say about that?"

"They say we've been bombing the wrong targets in South Vietnam. If they could bomb the port at Camranh Bay and the city of Hue, then they're sure Thieu would see the light. But since they've only been permitted to bomb selected targets below the DMZ and on the Ho Chi Minh Trail, there is no reason for Thieu and Ky to talk peace."

"Then the American military are insisting on all-out victory in South Vietnam?" I asked.

"They say we shouldn't have gone into South Vietnam (Continued On Page 5)

Banks Getting Into Merger Act

By ELMER ROESSNER

The surge of mergers is taking a new direction. Banks are getting into the act. And in a slick way, too.

Banks have largely been old maids in the corporate mating game so far. Both federal and state laws have restricted banks from marrying each other unless they ing other kinds of businesses, such as steel companies, discount houses and macaroni factories. But there is another way to mate. It's by setting up holding companies.

The idea is not brand new. Such holding companies have been in existence for years. But the urge to merge is speeding their formation.

How It Is Done

This is how works: The Steenth National Bank would like to play merger. But the law and its charter says it can't. So the bank's insiders, quite openly and legally, organize the Steenth National Holding Corp.

Then the holding company offers to trade its shares, one for one, for the bank's shares. In that way the holding company becomes the owner of the bank. And a holding company can do many things that a bank can't do.

Using the dividends it receives on its bank shares and what money it can raise by issuing bonds or borrowing money — it can't tap the bank's till — it can merge by buying other companies. It can buy a steel company, a discount house, a macaroni factory.

Thus the people who owned the bank, who still own it through the holding company, can do a lot of things they couldn't do as bankers.

In recent days, many banks have started to sell themselves to themselves; that is, trading their shares for shares of holding companies their shareholders created.

Among them are Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, the First National Bank of St. Louis, the First Jersey National Bank of Jersey City, The Maryland National Bank of Baltimore, the Central National Bank of Richmond, Va., and several others.

The number will grow fast and furiously. Soon almost

Stock Wizard Slumps

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleven years ago Leonard Ross' knowledge of stocks earned him $164,000. Since then, despite one of the biggest bull markets ever, Ross' fortune has not again reached that figure.

Not that he has done that poorly investing. He hasn't. In fact, his theories brought him substantial gains for a while. That is, until he began speculating this year.

Some people might remember Ross, now a 23-year-old doctoral candidate at Yale, as the youngster who amazed television audiences by accurately answering stock market questions on "The $64,000 Question" and "The Big Surprise."

Taxes soon reduced the stake to between $60,000 and $70,000. The money then went into a trust fund, tied up in red tape that made it almost impossible for the young wizard to put it into either blue chip or glamor stock.

In the ensuing years, the market took off on a prolonged rise, sometimes interrupted, during which hot issues tripled in months and even blue chips doubled in a year. It was a time to be in stocks, but Ross wasn't.

Instead, most of the money went into savings and loan associations, which paid an assured interest rate but nothing like the return that might have been provided by a similar investment in their shares.

Was Ross frustrated? "No," he said in an interview. "My interest lapsed and I eventually resigned myself to not being able to invest. I could have done so, but only with red tape, and then it would have been hard to get out too."

He explained, "It was too risky to commit money to a rigidly controlled approach to investments. So I just sat it out."

During the sit-out period young Ross was graduated from Verdugo Hills High School in Portland, Ore., and then received his degree from the University of California.

Oy-OLaw School was next, and he became editor-in-chief of the Yale Law Journal before graduating. He is now a graduate student in economics, and hopes to receive a doctorate in 1970. After that comes teaching or government service.

Two years ago Ross turned 21 and came into possession of his fortune, a large part of which he promptly invested in stocks.

"I did well the first year," he said, "doing primarily what my father had done: invest in stocks and low price-earnings ratios; the classical cyclical industries; industries in which the downside risk is limited."

With this conservative attitude Ross made in the first year about 35 per cent of his investments, a solid return for rather minimal risks.

"This year I didn't do as well," he said, "attributable I think to a different strategy. I simply got into speculative situations on the basis of friends' guesses. I think I've bailed myself out. Now I'm going back to the first approach, with a little more care."

Ross' stocks will be to choose stocks "entirely on fundamentals—on good earnings" (Continued On Page 5)

Strength For Today

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FACE LIFE'S ISSUES

Postponing unpleasant matters or sweeping them under the rug is a disposition that gets all of us into trouble sometime or other and can make us very unhappy. The world is full of issues. Some of these involve the individual life, the life of the family, the life of the nation, and still others the life of the world. Postponement is dynamite. We have to comprehend the issues of life, the turbulent conditions existing between nations. All these things become unpleasant at times. They get to be so burdensome that we lose our patience and fly off into anger against associates, opponents, spouses, officeholders, philosophers and big minds.

The reminder that some people chew their pills should confront us with the query as to whether or not we are guilty of this type of thing. Is there some debt that ought to be paid, some obligation that should be fulfilled, some slight or injury that needs to be forgotten? Don't try to sweep things like this under the rug. Don't thrust these things aside and begin calling somebody names. There is a lot of unhappiness in the world and most of it is self-induced. If we would just confront the problems we need to confront we would at least have turned our faces in the direction of light. The pathway of life involves hard going at times, and for some people those times are pretty lengthy.

But face issues. Ask yourself questions. It sometimes takes more courage to face an issue than to face a bomb or a bayonet.

New Television Sports Director

WASHINGTON—Bartow Houston Jr. has been named sports director for WITN-TV, Channel 7.

After graduating from Washington High School, Houston went to Wake Forest College on a one year football scholarship and then served a three year tour of duty with the U.S. Army. After receiving his honorable discharge he returned to East Carolina University to complete his education and graduated with a BS degree in education. Since graduation he taught social studies and was athletic director and coach of varsity football and basketball at the Manteo High School. He came to WITN-TV from Greenville City Schools where he taught social studies in English and was assigned to coaching all sports at the junior high level.

Houston is married to the former Sally Cox and has one child, Sarah York Houston, who will be one year old in December. Mr. and Mrs. Houston will reside in Washington.

Israelis Kill 2 Arab Saboteurs

TEL AVIV (AP)—Two Arab saboteurs were killed and a third wounded and captured by an Israeli army patrol near Um Tsutz, in the occupied sector west of the Jordan River, the Army said today.

A spokesman said Israeli troops opened fire on a group of infiltrators Sunday night. It was not known if any escaped.

The Israelis suffered no casualties, he added.

Mechanization Adds To News Efficiency

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)—Mechanization has hurled the American newspaper into an era of production efficiency where "it is impossible to say anything is impossible," Robert M. Hederman Jr., Jackson, Miss., vice chairman; William C. McKenzie, Chattanooga, Tenn., treasurer; and Joe M. Dealey, Dallas, Texas, secretary.

The publisher of the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger and Daily News gave his views in an interview as the SNPA opened its 65th anniversary convention.

"A short 17 years ago, typesetter equipment manufacturers said it was impossible to develop a machine to set in excess of seven lines of type a minute," he said. "Now we have the development of equipment that has the capacity of more than 1,000 lines a minute."

Modern machinery has been necessary, he said, as an effort to stabilize the increasing costs of producing a newspaper.

"Equipment is needed—and developed—to produce more material per hour and yet be operated more simply," Hederman said.

In the newsroom, he pointed to the use of computers and electric screens whereby editors can, with the push of a button, call up from a vast storage file of news and pictures whatever they want for editing or printing.

"With all this mechanization there continues to be an increasing number of persons necessary to produce a newspaper," Hederman said.

Asked to look into the future, Hederman said: "Because of the rapid development of new types of equipment, it is impossible to say anything is impossible, including electronic distribution of newspapers."

Popular Rock Isn't Musical, But Geological, For Tacoma Teeners

By ELDON BARRETT
 TACOMA, Wash. (UPI)—The most popular rock in Tacoma is not musical. It's geological. A great big boulder left on the freeway builders has attracted more teen-agers than the Rolling Stones.

State highway officials say they left the boulder alongside Interstate 5 in 1960 in honor of the "King of the Sidewalk Superintendents," G.A. (Art) Perry, who died about a year ago at the age of 81. Perry was an aficionado of highway construction and was known from the Ft. Lewis overpass to the Milton Cutoff.

There is no plaque dedicating the boulder to Perry, but highway engineers, bulldozer operators and ditch diggers alike know it is there in his honor. Gov. Dan Evans even made a special point of shaking Perry's hand when the governor dedicated the Pacific Avenue Interchange near the site of the rock.

But shortly after the interchange was opened, the stone blossomed out in the vivid colors of one of Tacoma's high schools. A few days later it was decorated with the colors of another high school.

The paint was hardly dry from one set of colors than another set would appear. Initials were inscribed by other teen-agers, and even some adults placed their graffiti on the stone, making it truly a Rock of All Ages.

Just about every week the boulder has a new look. But the conservative shades of a few years ago have given way to wild psychedelic hues of the way-out world.

Painted Rock stands eight to 10 feet high and is about 16 feet long. Highway engineers estimate it takes about one gallon of paint to cover the paintable portion.

Highway officials were a little put out because of the way the boulder "memorial" was being treated. But they have come to realize they can't fight rock culture.

"Now all we ask is that they don't print obscene words or phrases on the rock and that they clean up the area when they are finished painting," explained a maintenance official. "If we chase them off, they will just come back at night and paint it anyway."

Edward C. Murphy, a Highway Department publicity man, stood watching a youngster carefully painting a peace symbol on the huge stone.

"I sure would like to be around here about 10,000 years from now," he mused. "Archaeologists of the future are going to get out of their tree trying to determine what kind of a cult worshiped at the foot of this stone."

Such Pile Relief She Can't Describe Says Mrs. H. Williams

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Hugh Williams of Louisville writes: "A good person recommended Preparation H to me and such help I can't describe. I don't know what in the world I'd do without it!"

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Viet Wounded Wing Homeward With A Woman Reporter Aboard

By JEAN BENNETT
The Record
Hackensack, N.J.
EN ROUTE FROM ALASKA (AP) — Because the world is round and they are in a hurry, the quickest way home for Vietnam wounded is the great polar route over the top of the world. This is actually a straight line from Saigon, DaNang or Cam Ranh Bay to the East Coast of the United States. Including crew change and refueling stops at Yokota, Japan, Elmendorf AFB at Anchorage, Alaska, to Andrews AFB in Wash. D.C., a man is back in America within 24 hours.

An additional few hours sees him in the service hospital nearest his home, or the hospital best equipped to handle his particular disability or disease.

Aboard flight 134 Y out of Elmendorf at 6 a.m. recently were 26 litter cases and 29 ambulatory wounded.

The men had been on the giant C141 Starlifter then a total of 14½ hours.

By the time it settled down at Andrews as gently as a mother hen on a batch of eggs, even the strongest and least seriously wounded were exhausted.

On the aircraft for takeoff Capt. Ila R. Reich of the 56th Air Evac Service, Japan, addressed the men through the loudspeaker, "Gentlemen—"

The man on my left broke out into a wide grin. His left arm had been shattered by a bullet at Saigon and he was encased in a wide, thick cast which reached around his entire body. Two men beside him had been killed.

"The bone has healed I think, but the nerves are dead. They say they can fix it up. I just want to get to Ft. Knox. It's 15 minutes from home."

A Negro dressed in faded Army bathrobe and slippers, slowly raised his head.

"I wasn't exactly wounded," he said. "I got epilepsy now. I used to play ball in the minor leagues."

The pilot, Capt. Reich, helped the nurses and medics pass out box lunches. Flight nurse Lt. Martha B. Sitz of Russellville, Ala., said that sometimes the crews came down the flight deck, helped with the food and talked to the men. But more often than not, she said they just couldn't take it.

My soldier opened his with one hand, tore open his milk containers and peeled an orange with one hand and his teeth. He got it all set. Then felt sick and couldn't eat anything.

A red-headed, slim youngster, his right foot missing, hopped down the aisle to the comfort pallet.

The man on the first litter in front of us had contracted polio. His immediate problem was infected kidneys and when he pulled himself up to change dressings, we would pretend we were asleep. A young man on the litter opposite him on the top row scratched around a huge leg wound which itched around the hot water bottle-sized scar.

The man on the lower left litter, almost on the floor of the aircraft, never moved. He had a head injury and his entire left leg was gone.

Sgt. William R. King of Lorain, Ohio, of the three-man medical crew, sat with one patient the entire trip. The battle veteran on my left said, "Poor guy, he's psycho."

Rarely is there a death in the skies, although many aboard are tagged V S I (Very Seriously Injured).

Flight nurses carried out hospital procedures across 4,500 miles of land. The medics spent the entire flight time caring for and encouraging their charges.

"They can save you now if you get your head shot off," a man who leaned over the back of the seat said. Only one per cent of wounded in Vietnam die.

Next to me like a new kitten, the boy had dropped off to sleep.

Flight nurse in charge, Capt. Margaret D. Frerich of Forceton, Minn., said it was an exceptionally quiet trip.

Aussies Borrow Outlaw's Armor

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Victoria State Police have borrowed an idea from one of Australia's most notorious criminals to protect police in gunbattles.

For three years police have kept secret a suit of armor that can stop a .32 caliber bullet from 10 feet. Police are also convinced that most rifle shots will glance off it.

In many ways it resembles bushranger Ned Kelly's famous ploughshare armor of the 1880s. But where Kelly had his arms and legs exposed, the new police model protects all but hands and feet.

The armor was constructed for the Victoria Police by the "tailoring department" of Wilkinsons of London, a firm known for its swords and armor.

The helmet protects the face and neck, and there are straps at the back.

The suit is made from overlapping two-inch squares of specially toughened high tensile steel.

The bodywork is covered with navy blue cloth. Heavy khaki cloth covers the 8 pound headpiece.

The eye slits are too narrow for precision rifle-sighting.

Bushranger Kelly's armor weighed 97 pounds. This police suit tips the scale at 620 pounds, and costs 1,000 Australian dollars ($1,120 U.S.).

More Time For Scotland Yard

LINSLADE, England (AP) — Scotland Yard won more time from a court today to prepare its case against Bruce Reynolds, last of the wanted men in Britain's $7 million Great Train Robbery of August 1963.

The 37-year-old former antique dealer stood in silence as the court ordered him held in continued top security custody without bail until preliminary court hearing Nov. 26.

Reynolds, reputed to be the mastermind behind the robbery, was captured Nov. 8 in Torquay, a resort in southern England.

Only $1 million of the train robbery loot has been recovered.

New Underseas Warfare Center

KANE OHE MAS, Hawaii (UPI)—The Navy has opened its third Underseas Warfare Center at the Kaneohe Marine Air Station, Hawaii.

The other Naval Underseas Warfare Centers are located in San Diego and Pasadena, Calif.

One of the first projects to be undertaken at the Hawaii center will be further studies of the porpoise and how the knowledge can be used in underseas warfare.

Dr. William B. McLean, technical director at the new center said:

"The work now established here at Kaneohe first started about 1960 when the Naval Ordnance Test Station hoped to learn what physical principles were being used by a porpoise to achieve such high performance speeds. We wondered if the same principles could be applied to the design of torpedoes."

Parked In Midst Of Ambush By British Police

LUTON, England (AP) — Paul Sibley, 18, parked his car in a deserted spot Saturday night and turned toward Janice Eaves, his girl friend. Suddenly a flare lit the sky and two men began smashing the car windows with pickaxe handles.

Sibley tried to drive away but was stopped by a police roadblock. He had parked in the middle of a police ambush set for a gang's getaway car.

The police said they would pay for the repairs to Sibley's car. They said the detectives had attacked without warning in the belief that the car contained armed criminals.

"I am sure I will always be nervous going out in a car in the dark," said 18-year-old Janice, who was cut by the broken window glass.

Tried Shoot-Out After Hit-Run Case; Jailed

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Sixty-four-year-old David Baker McCaw of Rt. 6 Shelby surrendered to highway patrol and sheriff's department officers at his home Sunday night after a tear gas barrage climaxed an incident that left one trooper shot in the leg.

McCaw was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and two counts of hit-and-run driving. He was held in the Cleveland County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond pending a hearing, yet unscheduled.

Patrol Sgt. H. A. Lane was shot in the right leg and was taken to Cleveland Memorial Hospital, where his condition was described as good.

The patrol had sought to serve hit-and-run warrants on McCaw after two incidents in which his car allegedly struck two others a few minutes apart some three miles south of Shelby shortly after dark Sunday. No injuries were reported in the accidents, but troopers said the cars involved sustained about $1,800 in damages.

Officers gave this version of what happened:

Trooper G. E. Mull first went to the McCaw house to serve a warrant, but no one answered his knock. He returned with two other troopers and they announced they had a warrant. As the door opened, three shots were fired by McCaw and one struck Lane in the leg.

He was taken to the patrol car and reinforcements arrived from the patrol and the sheriff's department.

Five tear gas bombs were tossed into the house through a broken window and they were followed by three more tear gas projectiles, after which McCaw came out, with one hand raised and the other clasping his wife's hand.

The Weather? It's Like Spring

Spring-like weather prevailed from Saturday morning onward during the past weekend in Pitt County.

The highest temperature reported both Saturday and Sunday was 74 degrees, according to the Greenville Utilities Commission weather station. Saturday's low was 51 degrees; Sunday's, 59. Friday the temperature varied from 42 to 67 degrees. This morning at 8 o'clock the mercury registered 60 degrees.

The last precipitation reported in the county was Tuesday, with some .14 of an inch recorded.

Gusts of wind of 15 to 22 knots velocity were blowing from the southwest this morning. Highest winds Friday were from 8 to 10 mph; Saturday, from 15 to 20 mph; Sunday, from 12 to 14 mph.

The Tar River rose to five feet, two inches at Greenville early in the weekend, but fell to a normal three feet, eight inches by this morning.

Vast Rebuilding Of Watts Said Before Council

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Watts, which still bears bombing and fire scars from the 1965 riot, would be rebuilt and new homes and apartments sold back to Negro families under a plan before the City Council.

Edgar L. Law Jr., project manager, said before today's public hearing that wider streets and a major shopping complex as well as modern living quarters would be built. He said 1,800 residents would be given temporary housing, then sold new homes.

Law said the five-year project will cost $5 to $7 in private funds for every federal dollar.

The plan has been revamped several times. Some opponents have accused the planners of "Negro removal" tactics.

Marriages Not Faring So Well

MOSCOW (AP) — A leading Soviet educator called today for sex education and child care courses in high schools to offset a growing number of unhappy young Soviet families.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, E. Kostyashkin, chief of the section on Communist education at the Soviet Union's Academy of Pedagogical Sciences, complained that the question of sex education had been widely discussed in the press but nothing has been done about it.

"How do we explain that despite the significant improvement in material condition and welfare of families, despite the higher cultural level of parents and the significant satisfying of demands for preschool establishments, many of my former students did not find happiness in family life?" he asked.

"We teachers taught them to like labor, books, public work, but we didn't teach them how to behave in daily life, in a family with children."

Two Of Nine Prison Escapees Still At Large

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP) — Two of nine participants in a Utah prison escape were still free today. One, the convicted killer of a policeman, was called by Warden John Turner the most dangerous of all the state's convicts.

Turner, nearly sleepless for more than two days, awaited leads on Michael Patrick Jones, 22, Berkeley, Calif., and Frank Lopez, 26, Rock Springs, Wyo.

Jones was serving life for the gunshot slaying of an Ogden, Utah policeman. Lopez was serving a grand larceny conviction.

The nine were first missed at lunchtime Saturday after they had crawled through ventillator shafts, broken through a boiler room door and cleared the walls of the prison's $600,000 maximum security unit, completed last June.

Child Shared An Animal's Liver

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Doctors are using a respirator occasionally to aid the 3-year-old girl who shared a chimpanzee's liver during an emergency operation.

A spokesman for Henrietta Eggleston Hospital said the child's condition had worsened slightly, making it necessary to use the respirator "from time to time."

The spokesman said the child, whose name parents won't reveal, received a third blood transfusion Sunday night.

Doctors hooked up the child's liver to the chimpanzee's liver Friday when she underwent the operation to save her life.

Teaching Machine For Handicapped

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — An electronic black box with a microphone and a set of buttons wired to a tube full of candy has been developed by a British firm to train retarded and handicapped children.

The box, among the latest in the growing array of automatic teaching aids, works on an age-old principle—trial and reward. Its makers say it has potentially wide use in hospitals, schools and even homes where young children need special help.

If a child with speech difficulty learns to speak clearly into the microphone, for example, the machine's electric bulbs will light up and a piece of candy will jiggle from the tube. A poorly coordinated child can obtain the reward by managing, to press the buttons in the correct rhythm or sequence.

"The learning process can go on indefinitely—or at least as long as the child is hungry," says Rim Eiloart of AIMbioSciences, the manufacturers in Cambridge, England.

Eiloart said the box could also be used by normal boys and girls in a variety of learning situations.

"My own children, 3 and 4 years old, like the box," he said. "They think it's quite a game to press all those buttons."

The firm has about the bulk of a large portable television set and in its present form costs $168. Thirteen have been sold so far.

AIMbioSciences hopes the machine will give it a big push into a relatively unexplored field in Britain—electronic teaching equipment.

Eiloart, 31, founded the company's parent firm, Cambridge Consultants, eight years ago with $960 he had saved. The first assembly line was set up in an abandoned bakery.

Now Cambridge Consultants operates three manufacturing concerns, employs 100 workers and sells about $600,000 worth of electrical and laboratory devices a year.

Innovation Will Be The Rule At Johnston College

REDLANDS, Calif. (AP) — Educational innovation will be the rule rather than the exception at Johnston College, says its first chancellor.

It will give no grades, have no departments and hold few classes.

Instead, the students will do a lot of reading, attend many seminars and field trips and do an enormous amount of hard work says Pressley C. McCoy, 41, who will head the Redland University satellite school.

The first student body will consist of 120 freshmen and 20 sophomores, McCoy said Sunday, with a planned enrollment of 600 by 1973. Before classes start in September, students will take personality tests. The results will be fed into a computer to determine which teaching methods are compatible with each student's personality.

Now Cambridge Consultants operates three manufacturing concerns, employs 100 workers and sells about $600,000 worth of electrical and laboratory devices a year.

Calls For A New Constitution

BOSTON (AP) — Roy Innis, director of the Congress of Racial Equality, has called for a new constitution that would guarantee Negro Americans a per capita share of political power.

In a talk at Ford Hall Forum Sunday Innis said hte original constitution was put together by whites and excluded blacks.

"We now need to put together a binding contract between the factions presently competing, black and white," he said.

He said under such a constitution blacks would vote for black candidates and would elect 10 senators and 43 representatives on a percentage of population basis.

Clemson One Game Away From Another ACC Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — "I suspect," said Clemson Coach Frank Howard, "we'll have to be a little sharper next Saturday if we're going to beat South Carolina."

Howard, one game away from winning his third consecutive Atlantic Coast Conference football title, was thinking back about Clemson's 24-14 victory over North Carolina and thinking ahead to Saturday's clash with old rival South Carolina. Clemson must defeat South Carolina to win the ACC title. Should the Tigers lose or tie, the championship will go to North Carolina State, finished for the year with a 6-1 league record and 6-4 overall.

In addition to Clemson's victory last Saturday, Duke evened its ACC record at 3-3 as its fabulous sophomore quarterback Leo Hart completed 20 of 28 passes in pacing the Blue Devils to an 18-3 victory over Wake Forest.

In nonconference action, Virginia won the battle of touchdowns over Tulane, 63-47; North Carolina State was handed its worst beating in 15 years by Florida State, 48-7; Maryland, in its worst defensive performance since 1917, was shelled 57-13 by third-ranked Penn State and South Carolina was overpowered by Virginia Tech's ground game, 17-6.

Coach Howard said the thing that worries him the most about next Saturday's game is the physical condition of Buddy Gore and Ray Yauger, his two running aces.

Yauger suffered a fractured arm in the victory over North Carolina and Gore has been sidelined for a week with a knee injury.

"It's going to be rough next week if we have to play without those two," Howard said. Yauger definitely is through for the season and Gore is a question mark.

Howard said he could have prevented the injury to Yauger. "I knew Yauger was close to the Clemson rushing record for a game," Howard explained, "and I wanted to give him a chance at it when I sent him back in. I would have hated myself if I hadn't given him a chance. But now I hate myself for putting him back in."

Yauger gained 201 yards on 35 carries. South Carolina found it impossible to halt the grinding, punishing Virginia Tech running attack. Tech marched 80 yards for a second-quarter touchdown and 75 yards for a score in the third period. These two drives took a total of 32 plays, 31 of which were on the ground.

The Gamecocks had three scoring chances in the first half, but failed to get a touchdown until midway in the third period.

Oakland Scores Last-Minute Win Over Jets

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

In a game that squeezed in 24 points in the first 3:15, neither Oakland nor the New York Jets could decide the turning point, but millions of pro football fans throughout the country could — it came when NBC turned off the game.

Just before Daryle Lamonica threw the switch for Oakland, the television network threw one of its own and viewers missed the final frantic minute of the eye-popping struggle that kept the Raiders in the American Football League race with a 43-32 victory over the Jets.

When the blackout came with NBC switching to the story of Heidi, the regularly scheduled children's special show, Lamonica was just about to throw 43 yards to Charley Smith for the winning touchdown.

The Raiders followed that by recovering the ensuing kickoff on the four yard line with Preston Ridlehuber taking it in for another score — two in nine seconds.

Elsewhere in the Western Division of the AFL, victories half game ahead of Oakland and San Diego, both 7-2.

In other games Houston overcame Denver 38-17 and Cincinnati tied 20-20, New York nati upset Miami 38-21.

In the National League Baltimore blanked St. Louis 27-0, Dallas stomped Washington 44-24, Los Angeles and San Fran-edged Philadelphia 7-6, Minnesota slipped by Detroit 13-6, Cleveland pounded Pittsburgh 45-24, Green Bay trounced New Orleans 29-7 and Atlanta surprised Chicago 16-13. Kansas City accomplished its victory with less excitement after overcoming an early 10-0 deficit with a devastating passing attack made necessary by a usual potent running attack that bogged down to only 27 yards on 26 carries.

Len Dawson team with Frank Pitts on a 90-yard scoring play, then Goldie Sellers ran a punt back 76 yards and Dawson added a 78-yard scoring play to Gloster Richardson for a 24-10 lead. He finished with a 43-yard toss to Mike Garrett.

San Diego Coach Sid Gillman could overlook "the worst field I've ever seen" after his Chargers ran through mud and water at War Memorial Stadium in Buffalo against the out-of-control Bills.

Cincinnati also lost a quarterback, Sam Wyche, to a broken left ankle, but John Stofa came on to put the Bengals ahead 24-21 with a 55-yard aerial to Warren McVea. Rookie Paul Robinson, top rushed in the AFL, added his second and third scoring runs of the day.

The spree ruined a fine show by Miami's Bob Griese, who evaded a strong rush long enough to pitch for 253 yards and three touchdowns.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — When Orlando Cepeda, first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals, singled in the sixth inning to drive in his team's only run in the second World Series game this fall, the slugger snapped a streak of 12 hitless trips to the plate in the classic.

Cepeda had failed to hit in his last six efforts against the Boston Red Sox last fall and was hitless in his first six efforts this fall.

Cepeda followed his first hit of the 1968 Series with another single in the ninth inning.

Elon Played A Giant-Killer In Final Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elon became a giant killer too late.

Before the football season opened, the Christians had been figured to be Lenoir Rhyne's biggest challenger in the Carolinas Conference.

However, Elon had a poor season until, in its final game Saturday night, it handed Lenoir Rhyne its first conference loss of the season.

Elon won 23-21 as Burgin Beale threw three touchdown passes.

Also a weekend surprise was Guilford, which, after losing seven in a row, defeated Catawba 35-33 and knocked the Indians from a tie for third to a tie for fifth.

Lenoir Rhyne, which had been undefeated in four previous games, could have clinched at least a tie for the title by beating Elon. Now Presbyterian, 3-1 in the league, is in the picture.

Presbyterian can tie Lenoir Rhyne for the lead by winning its home game against Western Carolina Saturday night. There is only one other game Saturday, an afternoon contest in which Guilford is at Appalachian.

After the weekend only two games will remain in the season, on Thanksgiving afternoon. Lenoir Rhyne will be at Catawba and Newberry at Presbyterian. Western Carolina defeated Newberry 28-0 last Saturday and Presbyterian was edged 24-23 by Carson - Newman of Tennessee.

The standings, conference games and all games:
Lenoir Rhyne 4-1, 6-2.
Presbyterian 3-1, 5-4.
Western Carolina 3-2, 4-4.
Elon, 3-3, 4-5.

Lopat Scouting For Montreal

HILLSDALE, N.J. (AP) — The end of the baseball season meant nothing more than a stop home for a change to fall clothing to Ed Lopat, former Yankee southpaw ace.

During the last six weeks of the season Lopat had scouted all National League teams except the Houston Astros for the Montreal Expos, one of the four expansion teams for 1969. The former manager and general manager of the Kansas City Athletics then went to Montreal to recommend players who might help the Expos.

Narcotics Found Their Way Into A High School

By KENNETH R. CLARK
 McALLEN, Tex. (UPI)—One young high school girl suddenly collapsed and had to be taken from school in a wheelchair. Another sat in a classroom staring sightlessly, pouring out a stream of obscenities. A boy sent to the school office for irregular behavior, grooved blindly for the principal's desk, then fell when he couldn't find it. It was on a beautiful October afternoon that the drug scandal broke at McAllen High School in the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas.

There are no slums here—no ghettos, no roving street gangs to rip at the fabric of peace and tranquility. But an alarming number of the school's 3,000 students were smoking marijuana or using pills called "yellowjackets," "red birds" and "blue heavens"—barbiturates, depressants and stimulants. Many still are. The students apparently were finding narcotics as easy to come by as chocolate bars or chewing gum. The source was Mexico, just across the Rio Grande. Most Gets By Customs agents say only a tiny percentage of the marijuana being smuggled across the border is detected. Last year alone that percentage, seized at Texas border checkpoints from Brownsville to Laredo, came to 72,000 pounds of the weed. Complicating the situation also is the fact that McAllen is only 30 miles from a Mexican border town where every pill in the pharmacy can be purchased without prescription for from 8 to 10 cents apiece. When high school authorities informed customs agents of the narcotics problem at the school, the agents were not surprised. They had expected trouble since last June, when a 20-year-old McAllen youth, a convicted marijuana smuggler, won probation instead of prison from a federal judge. "We know the kid had been watching that case," chief U.S. Customs officer Leslie Bobo said. "I've heard they were taking bets at the high school that he'd beat it, and that's just what he did. It was like opening the gate." An agent who worked on the case, James Riggs, said: "I'm certain this case has a bearing on the situation at McAllen High." A tough new code of student conduct was introduced, with expulsion threatened against drug use. Six students found themselves out for the remainder of the semester. One of those was a 14-year-old freshman girl who voluntarily told of her single experience with a pill. She refused to name fellow students who were involved in pill traffic and so was expelled. She said her boyfriend had given her a pill and told her it would give her "kicks." She didn't know what it was at the time. Never Again "It was a yellowjacket," she said later. "I took it and I got dizzy. Things started moving around and it really wasn't pleasant at all. I'll never try it again. Sever kids around me were high. They were all taking the pills." The episode took place on the high school grounds during class hours. Asked if students pushed pills in the school, she said: "Boy, yes—you can get anything you want. It's just given least bring it down to a running away." Adult explanations of why included in that approach at McAllen High is a series of seminars aimed at educating the parents and teachers to the human mind and mention dangers confronting their child—rebellion, social protest, and other arcane motives lost in the "generation gap." But his 14-year-old said simply: "Kids do it for one reason. rock music's nothing more. It's idolize.

Brownsville Problem Bobo said McAllen is not alone in the Rio Grand Valley in drugs but gave slim odds that any approach would eradicate some 60 miles down-river, where authorities are convinced the unsolved murder of a college student known to be a steady marijuana user was linked to the drug traffic. Following the student's death, revelations similar to those at McAllen began to emerge at Brownsville High School and officials there still battle the youthful smoking of "grass." Bobo offered this advice to the parent in a world suddenly oriented to drugs: "Watch the kids' actions. If they're on pills or marijuana, their actions won't be normal. They'll be furtive and withdrawn. Above all, keep an eye on them. Parents who know where their kids are, what they're doing, and what kind of money they're spending generally don't have to worry."

Coal Miners Themselves Fed Up With Regulations

By KEN HOSKINS
 Associated Press Writer
 PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP)—President Johnson, congressmen and a host of others are vitally concerned about health and safety in the nation's coal mines.

But what do the people in the coal industry—the miners, the mine operators, the state mine officials—think about new federal regulations proposed to Congress by the President? They may do a lot of thinking in private, but at a recent mine safety gathering here it was impossible to obtain opinions without agreeing to withhold names. "We got laws on top of laws and rules on top of rules," one retired miner said. "It's just getting the men to comply that's the problem."

er is quite another thing. When a miner works eight hours taking coal out of the earth, he emerges covered with the sooty black dust of his product. That same powdery blackness is in the air he breathes and inevitably enters his lungs, often causing a condition known by doctors as pneumoconiosis and by miners as "black lung." A recent study made by the United Mine Workers Union shows an increase in the disease among working miners. The increase was attributed to the use of large mining machines which create a continuous flow of dust. Federal mining rules now prohibit, but only as the amount of dust may contribute to the danger of an explosion, not as it may contribute to the disability of miners.

Tobacco

Tips
 By S. J. WEEKS
 Pitt County Tobacco Agent

Diseases caused by nematodes reduce the value of the flue-cured tobacco crop in North Carolina in excess of $5,000,000 annually. These tiny, eel-like worms are present in fields throughout Pitt County and feed on tobacco roots causing severe stunting of plant growth and reduction of both yield and value. Since all suggested practices for control will not eliminate the parasites from the soil, it is important for growers to know more about the nematode situation—the number present as well as kind—in their fields, so that a suitable control program can be planned. For example, it would be of great value to know when a chemical soil treatment would pay. Quite often growers take a big risk by not using a chemical soil treatment when it would pay good dividends. We know that if the nematode population is high, value could be increased $200 - $300 per acre. On the other hand, if the nematode population is low, the use of chemical soil treatment might not add a dime to the performance of the crop. A nematode assay service is now available to the Pitt County farmers. Farmers interested in getting a nematode assay made should visit the County Agents' Office to get instructions, supplies, and equipment for taking the soil samples to be assayed. A soil sampling tube can be borrowed from the County Extension Office when you pick up the materials needed. A deposit of $5.00 will be required when borrowing the soil sampling tube which will be refunded to you when the tube is returned along with your soil samples. All samples must be returned to the County Agents' Office. We will send the samples to the Nematode Research Laboratory at N. C. State University for assaying. A small charge for mailing the samples will be the only cost to the grower. After your samples have been assayed, suggestions will be made as to what practices you can follow in conducting a nematode control program for each field for which a sample is submitted. When these suggestions are received in the County Office, we will be glad to assist you in planning your nematode control program.

On Health, Nobody Talked Few persons would comment at all when questioned about health standards in the underground mines. President Johnson, with the aid of the Federal Bureau of Mines, has proposed to Congress broad legislation designed to broaden and tighten federal control of health and safety standards in the industry. The proposed legislation would authorize the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to draw up health criteria upon which would be based final health standards. It would extend federal safety regulations to the working face of underground mines and to all surface mines—strip and auger. It also would subject operators of unsafe mines to a fine and jail term. Federal mining rules for underground mines now fill an 86-page pamphlet, while those covering surface mines are detailed in 40 pages. The amended Federal Coal Mine Safety Act fills over 60 pages. People in the coal industry here deny the need for any further federal safety standards. "It's the human element," said one mine foreman. Even the members of mine rescue and first-aid teams, who gathered here to put their skills against other teams, denounced the introduction of more rules and regulations. They accept the fact that mining is not a safe occupation, that a man working in a coal mine is probably more apt to be injured on the job than anyone in any other major industry. But, it's a traditional way of life and a means of supporting the families of some 144,000 miners in America. They Breathe Coal Dust The question of health, however, is quite another thing. When a miner works eight hours taking coal out of the earth, he emerges covered with the sooty black dust of his product. That same powdery blackness is in the air he breathes and inevitably enters his lungs, often causing a condition known by doctors as pneumoconiosis and by miners as "black lung." A recent study made by the United Mine Workers Union shows an increase in the disease among working miners. The increase was attributed to the use of large mining machines which create a continuous flow of dust. Federal mining rules now prohibit, but only as the amount of dust may contribute to the danger of an explosion, not as it may contribute to the disability of miners. Mine operators say most large mining companies provide their employees with respirators to protect them from dust inhalation. However, they report the miners often refuse to wear the protective masks. It's just like using safety goggles and safety shoes," one mine foreman said. "The men just won't wear something that is uncomfortable and they don't want to be called a sissy." The operators also point out that many of the mines follow more rigid dust controls than those called for in the regulations. Exactly how many miners suffer from respiratory diseases contracted in the mines depends on the study you read. But regardless of the exactness of statistics, there is little dispute that mining coal is often an unhealthy, dirty and dangerous occupation.

WEATHER FORECAST — There will be light snow and snow flurries Monday night from the northern and central Mississippi Valley through the Great Lakes region and Ohio Valleys into the Northeast. Rain and showers are predicted for the Pacific Northwest and scattered showers are forecast for Florida. (AP Wirephoto Map)

The Farm Scene

By S. J. GOODMAN
 Agricultural Extension Agent
 Good Farm Records Vital

Are you, Mr. Farmer, keeping usable records on your production? Do you know which enterprise that you have on your farm is profitable? Do you know that you may be paying for the privilege—or pleasure—of having a certain enterprise on your farm? How can you be sure that a certain enterprise may be a profit or loss to you? This may be done by keeping a good farm record. Several forces have made it increasingly difficult to operate a profitable farm without adequate records. Our farm business costs are increasing: labor, machinery, land, feed, supplies and equipment. We are using more credit than ever before; and there is an increasing complexity of farm management. Good management is the key to relieving these profit difficulties. The Electronic Farm Business Record provides a tool for good management. It will simplify your record keeping job and provide you with the following information about your farm: The complete, accurate financial records give information for making sound business decisions. The accounting program gives complete records of the returns received for labor, management and capital. This record system may be used as a farm business cost control. Useful information for tax and Social Security is also included. Summaries are prepared for the farmer to compare each phase of his farm business with that of similar type farms. On December 10, at the County Agents Office in the Tucker Building, there will be a workshop on I. B. M. Farm Record Keeping. The County Agents will be assisted by a specialist from the Farm Business Records Office of the North Carolina State University at this meeting. Call our office 758-1196 for further information.

The Student Bar Association is the student government of the law school. It is concerned about such programs as speakers, legal aid, law student recruitment, social programs and communication among the law students and with the alumni.

Vicar Routed Intruder, His Wife Captures Him

LONDON (AP)—The vicar seized a sword and routed the housebreaker, but it was the vicar's wife in a nightgown and coat who caught up with the fleeing intruder, slapped his face and held him by the neck. The violence in the vicarage began with the sound of breaking glass late Saturday night, the Rev. Jack Dover Wellman said today. A former navy officer and air force chaplain, the vicar picked up a three-foot ceremonial sword, a family heirloom, and went to investigate. "In the Queen's name, I arrest you!" He shouted at the man he found in the garden. The man ducked from the sword and ran off, the vicar and his wife in pursuit. The clergyman lost a bedroom slipper and fell behind, but his barefoot wife got her hands on the man after 200 yards. "I was determined not to let him go," said Mrs. Wellman. "I kept my left arm tightly round his neck and beat him round the face with my right arm. "I was roused and infuriated. An Englishman's home is his castle, and it's scandalous for people to try to break in. I think we should all have guns to protect ourselves. "As I was saying to the bishop only on Friday, if we are going to preserve our society we must fight to the death." Several neighbors were wakened by the commotion and helped hold the man for the police. He collapsed in the police station and was taken to a hospital. The vicar said he had used the sword once before—to chase some burglars away from the vicarage three years ago.

More Food From Whey By Filter

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—A super filter built to take salt out of sea water has been utilized by scientists and engineers to recover food solids from whey. Cheese makers in the United States turn out about 22 billion pounds of whey each year. They throw away half of it, creating a monumental disposal problem. University of California and U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have shown how to extract valuable milk-sugar, proteins, vitamins and minerals from whey by adapting a water purification device.

Ontario Requires Cycling Helmets

TORONTO (UPI)—If you're planning to drive a motorcycle into Ontario be sure to wear a helmet. A law requiring helmets for all motorcyclists in the province went into effect Sept. 1. Fines of up to $50 will be levied against anyone riding a motorcycle without the protective headgear. The province has an estimated 44,000 cyclists, and thousands of Americans ride cycles into Ontario every year.

N.C. Legislative Goals Discussed By Educators

A discussion of legislative goals of the North Carolina Education Association in the 1969 General Assembly was the top item of business this week at a meeting of the East Carolina University chapter of Phi Delta Kappa educational fraternity. Claude H. Farrell, coordinator of lay relations for the N.C. Education Association, was guest speaker at the meeting. Farrell outlined NCEA legislative goals to be presented to the new General Assembly. Dr. Frank Arwood of the ECU School of Education faculty said all NCEA members at ECU were invited to attend. Special guests at the dinner meeting included State Sen. elect Charles Larkins Jr. of Lenoir County, Mrs. Virginia Ayscue and Mrs. Lucille Lundy of the ECU chapter of NCEA.

In most $10,000 sports cars, you get a gleaming assortment of complex, precision machinery enabling you to drive at least twice as fast as most laws specify. In the Karmann Ghia you get a Volkswagen. Which is precision machinery of a slower, less troublesome variety, yet fast enough to attract the attention of every highway patrolman in the country. # Asia Joins Satellite Communications Network

SATELLITE STATION — A magnetic drum is in place atop a large tower shaped like a silo. The tower will support the gear with which Hong Kong will beam in on communications satellites. (UPI Telephoto)

By MAX VANZI

HONG KONG (UPI)—A century ago, a man waited on a Hong Kong peak for the first glimpse of a ship rising on the horizon. When one hove into view a runner dashed down into the town to announce the arrival—which then started a race among businessmen to be the first to win advantage from the latest trade and political news from Europe. Things have changed a lot since then, and are about to change even more as satellite communications spread across Asia.

Mobile Dish

A mobile tracking dish 90 feet across and weighing 280 tons (so it can withstand the buffeting of typhoons) will be attached to the tower, whose operation is scheduled to begin next May. Hong Kong then will be prepared to beam in the first of the Intelsat III series of communications satellites over the Pacific.

Commercial communications satellite networks are operating now in Japan, Australia, The Philippines and Thailand. Malaysia, South Vietnam, Singapore and Indonesia are planning earth stations, and Hong Kong will be linked to them all, plus having a beam to the United States.

Future planned satellite launches over the Indian Ocean and the Atlantic will tie Hong Kong to a world-wide communications satellite system, and among other gains the colony's two television broadcasting companies will be able to buy live telecasts from the United States for the first time.

Installation of an earth station in Hong Kong is a commercial proposition. Cable and Wireless, Ltd., of Britain, is investing between $5 million and $6 million in the system.

The huge dish is being shipped in pieces from Britain. Local contractors erected the 60-foot tower at Stanley Point on Hong Kong Island.

Unlike conventional radio wave communications, satellite beams are largely immune to atmospheric interference, but there is one weather condition which will interrupt satellite communications with Hong Kong.

When typhoons and full gales blow through the colony, the dish will be moved off its beam on the overboard satellite and swung to a position parallel to the ground.

Any time winds get up around 80 miles per hour, operators will turn off the station and brace for the storm, but there are no real fears of the big unit coming down in a storm. Winds would have to increase to over 210 miles per hour before the dish might blow away, a company spokesman said.

Rock, Mineral Collection Gift

A Kannapolis school teacher, Mrs. Fred O. (Madge Cook) Drummond, has given East Carolina University an extensive rock and mineral collection.

"Conservatively" valued at more than $10,000 by ECU geology Chairman Charles Q. Brown, the collection is to be transferred to the university and placed on display upon Mrs. Drummond's retirement.

Mrs. Drummond, a native of Fountain Inn, S. C., has taught physical science at Cannon Junior High School in Kannapolis since 1947. Earlier, she taught science at Mt. Holly.

Her collection, assembled gradually during her teaching career, contains specimens from North Carolina, many other states and some foreign countries.

Much of the collection represents Mrs. Drummond's own field experience in the United States, the Bancroft area of Canada and the Mexico City area of Mexico.

Dr. Brown describes the Drummond collection as "very professional well-cataloged, characterized by an excellent system of suites of rocks and very valuable from an educational standpoint."

Dr. Brown says the university is "very grateful" to Mrs. Drummond for the gift. "We will call it the Drummond Collection," he says, adding: "We are eagerly looking forward to the day it arrives. It will be very useful in teaching and it constitutes an excellent beginning of a geological museum on our campus."

The chairman said the department has already received a small number of the specimens to be placed on display soon.

Mrs. Drummond says she is happy that East Carolina will have the collection. "I hope that much of it may be used and enjoyed for many years to come at the university," she says.

The donor attended Winthrop College and Appalachian State University. She is married to Fred O. Drummond, also a native of Fountain Inn, S. C. Mr. Drummond is supervisor of elementary education in Kannapolis schools.

The drummonds have two sons and a daughter: Dr. C. Max Drummond of Winston-Salem, Fred O. Drummond Jr. of Valley Forge, Pa., and Mrs. Suzanne Drummond Culp of Greenville, S. C.

Marquess Miffed Over Listing

CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—The sixth Marquess of Bristol is a little unhappy. His home, one of the largest country houses in eastern England, is listed in the local phone book trades section as a public house.

"Any day we are expecting someone to ring and ask for bed and breakfast," the marquess said. The Post Office, which runs the British telephone system, plans to correct the error in the next edition of the directory.

Reed Students Care More For Education

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Reed College students, known for supporting left-wing causes, so far have not conducted a campus riot.

"What on earth is there to riot about?" asks Linda Howard, a junior in mathematics from Petersburg, Va., and a student senator.

"It's not that Reed students don't care, but we care more about our academic education," Miss Howard says.

"Suppose we took over Eliot Hall—the administration building. If we were there a couple of days, we'd never catch up with our classes."

Reed College has 1,140 students. It has a Black Student Union, Students for a Democratic Society and a well-organized anti-draft movement.

Sixty per cent of the graduating senior men last year signed a petition that they would not serve in the military if called.

A bulletin that goes to prospective students describes the school this way:

"The college and its students are regarded in some quarters as radical and far out. Their beliefs range the spectrum. Some are radicals; some conservatives. Most are liberals."

The school resembles many of the 102 campuses where the U.S. National Student Association says there were at least 222 demonstrations during the second half of the 1967-68 academic year.

No Formula Ready
Victor G. Rosenblum, beginning his first year as president of the liberal arts college, says no one can give a pat answer for Reed's good fortune.

Rosenblum was director of the program in law and social sciences at Northwestern University in Illinois when students rioted there last year.

Asked what he would do if violence occurred at Reed, Rosenblum answers, "I have no formula for this. I would weigh the what and why."

He says Reed "stands for an integration of knowledge. At the same time much of what schools have been doing is separating knowledge from people. Reed combines humanistic values with technical skills."

He says Reed students are the first he has known who are "able to verbalize their feelings with eloquence and there is very little of the doctrinaire in their responses to one another."

The Reed atmosphere is "not a gladhanding, backslapping superficial climate at all," Rosenblum says.

He says the name of the student newspaper indicates student attitude. It is called "The Quest."

Highest Wilson, Rhodes

The proportion of Reed graduates receiving Woodrow Wilson Fellowships and Rhodes Scholarships is higher than of any other American school. Three-fourths of the Reed graduates go on to advanced degrees.

John Dudman, the dean of students, says it is hard to pinpoint why Reed has escaped student wrath.

"If I had a clear idea of why students are rioting at other schools, I'd have some idea of why not here," Dudman says.

"All the people here in the position of making decisions are extremely accessible. The students can talk to us without protective screens."

He adds that students see "the college as benign and the enemy as outside. The activism in the students is directed at things outside the campus."

An example last year was when several Reed students chained themselves to the Selective Service building.

Students who enter Reed already know of its intellectual demands and the degree of personal freedom outside the classroom, Dudman says.

Some of the freedom is reflected in the campus social structure.

The Community Senate makes nearly all decisions on student activities and conduct. There are 21 elected senators, 10 of them students, 11 faculty members and a faculty chairman.

Academic and social life is guided by an honor principle that states two unacceptable kinds of behavior: conduct that causes embarrassment, discomfort or injury to others and conduct in violation of rules set by the Senate.

A Student Judicial Board recommends action on violators. The Senate can review the board's decisions.

The dormitories allow coeducational visiting between 6 a.m. and 1 a.m.

"I don't think we ought to pretend for a moment this is a place of no discontent," Dudman says. "There is a lot of it."

Susan Strasser, a senior in history from Pittsburgh, says, "It's not that there's no potential for demonstrations, but the administration is willing to listen. If you want to speak to the president, you can walk up to his office and speak to him."

But Peter Goldstein, a math senior from San Francisco says a riot is inconceivable. "The left-wing activists have no whetstones to hone themselves on," he says.

Rusk, Franco In Informal Talk

MADRID (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk met today with Generalissimo Franco after spending the weekend in bed with the flu.

Rusk planned to tell the Spanish chief of state about the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels.

Meanwhile, U.S. and Spanish military leaders began a series of informal talks seeking to break the deadlock over renewal of U.S. base rights in Spain. Heading the U.S. contingent was Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who also came from the NATO meeting.

Officially Wheeler's talks were not listed as negotiations, but U.S. military and Spanish government sources both said the negotiations for bases had been turned over to the military and that a renewal agreement would come out of Wheeler's visit.

Fell From The Towed Trailer

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—Wearing only her nightgown, Mrs. Gladys Bowns got up to have a drink of water. Suddenly the door of the house trailer her husband was towing flew open and she fell onto the highway.

In Coalville, 12 miles away, Geoffrey Bowns discovered his wife was missing. He called police who told him a motorist had found her sitting dazed in the middle of the road. She was unhurt.

Widow Working On 10th Degree

BRESSANONE, Italy (UPI)—Mrs. Berta Messerer, 68-year-old widow, is at it again. She is working at the University of Padova on her 10th degree. Among degrees she already holds are medicine, law, social science, history and political science.

Mrs. Messerer, who began studying after World War II when her husband died in a Nazi concentration camp, can read, write or speak 24 languages. "I have nothing else to do but study," she said. "I spend 12 hours a day studying."

THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

The Worry Clinic Illness, Emotions And Chemicals Hurt Vigor

Dr. Zee offers a very interesting case, so study it with care. For a person's erotic vigor may be seriously reduced by illness, chemicals and especially by conflicting emotions. In fact, the usual platonic husband is a victim of his own negative thinking, so combat that dilemma with the medical booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE H-537: Dr. Zee is a New England dental surgeon. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I recently had a patient that might be of special interest to you.

"He was a lawyer, aged 45, who had 2 badly abscessed teeth. "Shortly after I had extracted them, he reported to me that he noticed a remarkable upsurge in his erotic vigor.

"For 6 months prior to the removal of those teeth, he had been a platonic husband. "But within two weeks after my oral surgery, he felt peppy and his romantic ardor zoomed back to normal.

"So he asked me if I had experienced similar results with other patients. "But he is the first one who has at least acknowledged to me such 'fringe benefits.' "Dr. Crane, what do you think causes this resurgence of his libido?"

Sexual vigor depends on several crucial factors. For example, any reduction in your physical vitality will likewise reduce your erotic behavior.

Anemia will also do it. So will debilitating illnesses; metallic poisons, and unregulated diabetes. Starvation also lessens sexual desire.

And tobacco, as well as tranquilizers, sleeping pills and painkilling drugs, will kill your hunger much as they also reduce gastric appetite. Fatigue and general exhaustion will do likewise.

That's one reason why older men are not as erotic as younger males, for they lack the unused physical vitality of their youth.

This is often due to the fact the older man burns up more energy as an executive and especially with his off-job problems.

For he frets about the mortgage on his home or the child hood illnesses of his youngsters, or worries about his son in Korea, Vietnam, etc.

The young fellow shrugs off such drains on his energy as soon as the 5-o'clock quitting whistle blows.

All he tends to think about till next morning are sports, love and hot rodding.

But there is a second element that lowers romantic vigor, namely, your emotions. And this dental patient had been experiencing pain for several weeks prior to his dental surgery.

However, the actual pain did not go back as far as the first onset of his platonic role.

Another emotion that explains most of the impotence in husbands is fear!

Maybe fatigue, illness or tranquilizers happened to cause such a husband to notice a marked reduction in his eroticism. "Am I slipping?" is then his subconscious terrified thought. "Could I be growing prematurely platonic?"

And this very fear can then render even a vigorous young man totally impotent in one night!

In fact, such a worry can offset gallons of sex hormones which we medicate may inject.

So send for the medical booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Russians, Czechs Agreed To Permit Finishing His Movie

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It seemed impossible, going into Russian-occupied Czechoslovakia to film battle scenes for an American movie. Yet Director William Kronick managed that feat and has returned with the footage to complete a $5-million war epic. Kronick was the second-unit director of "The Bridge at Remagen"—in movie parlance, the second unit is the company that films action sequences and backgrounds that don't require the principal actors. Like the rest of the American film troupe Kronick evacuated in a motorcade a day after the Russians and their allies invaded Czechoslovakia. Forty per cent of the picture remained to be filmed, including important battle scenes that could be shot only at the Czech bridge which doubled for the Rhine span where American troops crossed in World War II. Producer David Wolper arranged for the rest of "The Bridge at Remagen" to be completed in Hamburg and Italy. "But we still needed desperately to shoot the final battle and the blowing up of the bridge in Czechoslovakia," Wolper said in his Sunset Strip office. "All of our equipment was still in Czechoslovakia—the tanks and heavy trucks we had leased from Austria. "We met with the Czechs and the Russians in Vienna and began negotiations. They agreed to let us return for seven days of filming, even though it included a lot of big explosions with dynamite and TNT, tanks firing, etc." Kronick returned to Prague and began preparations to shoot the battle scenes, "because I had to match what had been shot before the invasion. We had been using Czech soldiers who had been especially chosen to look like

Americans—and they resemble Americans more than any other Europeans could have. "But by now all those soldiers had been discharged, and we had to train new ones." Kronick lined up 400 to impersonate American soldiers 175 to pose as refugees crossing the bridge, and another 100 for Germans. In troubled Czechoslovakia it was feared that the gunfire and explosions required for the filming might alarm the populace. Elaborate precautions were made to inform the citizens of the filming plans, and army troops ringed the area to prevent any incidents. "We were fighting against time," remarked Kronick. "The weather was turning cold, and the leaves were beginning to redden. This would have conflicted with the early scenes, which were filmed in spring. And the whole picture was supposed to take place in three days: "We were all set up to shoot and then the weather became too overcast for shooting. Finally on the seventh day, the sun came out and I photographed the 20 scenes I needed, all in one day." Producer Wolper observed that the dislocation of the film company added a million dollars to the budget—"but then, we also got a million dollars' worth of publicity." Although photographed in Czechoslovakia, Germany and Italy, the scenes match perfectly, he said. Even one scene in which an actor began racing across the Czech bridge and finished the run in Italy nine weeks later.

Joins Opposition To Pres. Ayub

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — The former commander in chief of the Pakistani air force, Air Marshal Mohammed Asghar Khan sent a political shock wave through the country Sunday with the announcement he had joined the opposition to President Mohammed Ayub Khan to campaign for government reform. Charging Ayub's regime with "corruption, nepotism, graft and administrative incompetence," the 47-year-old airman said he would begin a nationwide tour soon "to mobilize public opinion for the solution of the problems facing the country." Asghar Khan outlined no reform proposals but said he would seek "a free and progressive society." He is the highest ranking military officer to join the opposition. "Freedom of speech and freedom of the press have been suppressed in such a manner that normal expression of opinion has become very difficult," Asghar Khan told a news conference.

Asghar Khan said he deplored the arrest last week of former Foreign minister Z. A. Bhutto and other leftist politicians. Asghar Khan said he had not decided whether to run against Ayub Khan for the presidency in 1970. "That's up to the political parties," he said.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one no trump and you hold: ♠9 ♣KJ753 ♦K1064 ♣A94

What do you bid now? A.—Facing a hand that contains at least 16 points, it is highly probable that your hold will produce four hearts and that is the bid recommended by this department. A bid of three hearts would be improper, for that would denote more in the way of high cards.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, you have 60 point score and you hold: ♠AK42 ♦KQJ107 ♣AQ62

Your right hand opponent opens with one heart. What do you bid? A.—My preference is for a simple overall of two diamonds. This may seem very strange with a hand containing 22 points. But a take-out double is not recommended because of the danger that partner who may hold a long spade suit will not subside in time if he is asked to come into the auction. The chances of missing a slam by making the simple overall are distinctly remote for partner would have to produce considerable trick-taking power to bring us up to 12 tricks against the vulnerable opening.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠AK105 ♥KQ6 ♦K3 ♣KQ74

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—This is a powerful hand and a mere rebid of one spade would not do justice to the holding. Our vote goes to a rebid of two no trump. This is not forcing if partner has made a weak one over one take-out, but it is more likely to elicit a further bid from partner and at the same time gives a full description of the type and strength of your hand (19 or 20 points).

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold: ♠AKQJ74 ♥1062 ♦7 ♣K73

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 ♦ 1 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—Three no trump, since your hand will almost surely produce seven tricks at no trump. The honors are sacrificed in the interest of seeking the shorter and probably the surer road to game.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, and as South you hold: ♠A1064 ♥6 ♦Q743 ♣10642

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♣ Pass 3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—A jump rebid in the same suit by the opener is not forcing on the responder who may exercise the option to pass as an option which should be exercised in this case, since the response of one spade was shaded.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, and as South you hold: ♠62 ♥Q975 ♦K92 ♣AJ853

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♥ Pass 4 ♣ ?

What do you bid now? A.—Double. The jump raise to four hearts was a slight stretch of your values, the it was acceptable in order that your partner might not get the impression that you were making perhaps a mere competitive raise under pressure. But if you should pass at this point it might serve as an inducement to partner to go on to five hearts. Only if partner overrides your decision should a five heart bid prove to be a good risk.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold: ♠752 ♥AK10764 ♦A ♣A93

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass Pass 1 ♦ Dbic. Rdbic. Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now? A.—You should seize this opportunity to show the nature of your heart suit, also to make it emphatic that you have a very fine double. This you may do by bidding two hearts. This is not forcing but pleads with partner to act if he has any values at all. If you bid only one heart, partner may get the notion that you are merely getting out of the one diamond redouble.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold: ♠KJ84 ♥KQ1042 ♦6 ♣AS2

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♥ 1 NT 2 ♦ 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid now? A.—Pass. A double is not even remotely to be contemplated. Partner has not announced a good hand. With any reasonable defensive strength he would have doubled one no trump.

Czech Sit-In Strikes Are Continuing

PRAGUE (AP) — Thousands of Czechoslovak students continued sit-in strikes at their schools today as Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek's leading role in the occupied country appeared nearing an end.

The students, barred by the government from demonstrating in the streets, shut themselves in their school buildings to demonstrate their disappointment at the party Central Committee's retreat under Soviet pressure from the reform program Dubcek had headed.

It was the first organized student political action since the Communists took power in 1948.

A three-day Central Committee meeting that ended shortly before dawn Sunday set up an eight-man executive committee that was believed likely to reduce the popular Dubcek to figurehead status.

The committee was expected to establish a collective leadership that some Czech sources predicted would result in public apathy and the eventual eclipse of Dubcek, the symbol of the reform movement.

Money Markets Non-Nuclear Countries Urge Missile Parleys

PARIS (AP) — European money markets were quieter today as speculators apparently held back in the expectation of international emergency action to prevent chaotic disruption of the world's major currencies.

Pressure on the French franc eased off noticeably from the near hysteria level reached at the end of last week.

The governors of the leading Western central banks met in Basel, Switzerland, for the second day amid reports that the German central bank was ready to give France an emergency credit of a billion dollars. Bankers in the know discounted reports that France had rejected a condition that French domestic consumption be cut down.

The speculators who bought an estimated $1.5 billion dollars worth of West German marks last week in the hope that the mark would be revalued upward and the franc devalued apparently were less sure today.

The frenzied speculation last week brought the franc to its lowest level since the riots and general strike last June. The fever also affected the pound and other European currencies.

Leading bankers throughout Europe stressed their belief that the collapse of the franc and the pound would disorganize the entire world monetary system.

They said world financial solidarity was essential to ward off the speculative onslaught.

French officials contended that the crisis was caused by snowballing rumors that the mark would be revalued rather than by any new weakness in the French economy. Speculators who expected both devaluation of the franc and revaluation of the mark traded francs for dollars in enormous quantities in the hope of a double profit.

Premier Maurice Couve de Murville scheduled a television address tonight to announce government measures to deal with the crisis. The newspaper France Soir said the speech should put an end to the market speculation.

The paper said one likely solution was a direct arrangement between the French and German governments to ship back to France the capital exported by French speculators. This would permit the Bank of France to sell marks without restriction, "while waiting for the speculators to run out of ammunition."

There were some reports that Couve de Murville might also announce some curtailment of French government expenditure. This might meet the condition reportedly attached by Germany to a billion-dollar loan to France.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Nine nonnuclear countries sought support today for a U.N. General Assembly resolution urging the Soviet Union and the United States to start talks soon to limit strategic missiles and antimissile missiles.

Diplomatic sources said the resolution had already aroused the opposition of the two big nuclear powers because it would also set up a committee to study how to implement decisions of the conference of nonnuclear weapon countries held in Geneva in September.

That conference pushed the nuclear powers to pledge nonuse of nuclear force, speed up disarmament and come across with more money, atomic information and fissionable materials to give other countries the benefit of the peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

The resolution was drafted by Italy, Yugoslavia, India, Japan, Pakistan, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico.

Such proposals as the one at Geneva are part of the nonnuclear countries' efforts to wring concessions from the nuclear powers in exchange for joining in the treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons, which would bar them from ever having such weapons.

The General Assembly approved that treaty last June 12, and the Soviet Union, the United States and many other countries have signed it. But U.S. Chief Delegate J.R. Wiggins expressed doubt Sunday that the U.S. Senate would ratify the treaty before President-elect Richard M. Nixon is inaugurated Jan. 20.

Red China Failed To Key Date For Parley

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Scheduled talks here between U.S. and Red Chinese ambassadors have been postponed because the Communist side has failed to adhere to its own suggestion for a November meeting, the U.S. Embassy reported today.

"This was the second time this year that the talks, which are the only contact between Washington and Peking, had been put off."

An embassy statement said the U.S. government "regretfully" had to conclude that the talks must again be postponed after the failure of Peking to respond to a proposal for a November meeting and a subsequent, supplemental suggestion by the United States for the talks on Nov. 20.

A new alternative date for a meeting early in February has been put forward by the American side, the statement added.

"We assume the Chinese continue to see as we do the advantages in continuing this ambassadorial-level contacts and we hope they will be renewed at the time we have suggested or before," the U.S. statement said.

The last time the talks were held—the 134th meeting—was on Jan. 8. At that time, the next date was set for May 28 but was later canceled by the Chinese on the ground there was "nothing to discuss."

The Chinese then suggested a meeting in November. Early in September, the United States specifically proposed Nov. 20.

Fast Raised $1,650 For Biafra Relief

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Students, faculty members and administrative personnel at Wake Forest University have raised $1,650 in a "fast for Biafra" movement.

Some are donating the money they would have spent for meals for Biafran relief while other are eating but contributing to the fund.

Kirk Jones, a sophomore from Norfolk, Va., said, "we have no way of knowing just how many are in the fasting part, but I know of at least 30 persons who are fasting for as long as they can, and 200 who have fasted at some point during the movement."

Jones said a goal of $3,000 had been set and when reached the money will be sent to Biafra through the American Red Cross Emergency Relief Fund. The movement at Wake Forest is in its sixth day.
