New Explosion Further Dims Hope For Miners

By NILES JACKSON
MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A new explosion, sending flames shooting upward like a flash of lightning, hit the coal mine today where 78 men have been trapped in burning passageways for two days.

"We have no control of the fire," a company official told a midmorning news conference.

nurses administered sedatives to calm them. Of the group of about 75, up to 40 were in tears.
William Poundstone, executive vice president of Consolidation Coal Co. said in a brief statement officials were evaluating the affect of the blast.

"No, we are not."
He said another attempt would be made to seal the Mod's Run air vent, where the explosion occurred, in an effort to control the fire below.

"There has been no assessment of the intensity if the explosion," Gross said immediately after the blast.

Decision Announced Today At Bonn Meeting

France Prepares For Devaluation Of Franc

By GEORGE THOMSON
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) — France was forced to devalue its franc today, ironically on Charles de Gaulle's 78th birthday.

British pound will not be devalued, Strauss said.
An estimate given by Strauss would bring the franc down from a value of 20 cents to the vicinity of 18 cents.

plans for new legislation to curb imports.
In the last devaluation of the franc in 1958, the currency was trimmed by 17.55 per cent, pegging it at 4.93 to the U.S. dollar.

West Germany with a $600-million contribution topped the list of the 10 suppliers of aid. Italy's contribution is 3200 million.
Britain, although strapped itself, is providing $100 million, with Belgium, the Netherlands, Switzerland, Sweden and Canada providing the same amount.

de Murville said in Paris there would be no announcement until after the French Cabinet meets on Saturday.
Strauss also announced that Britain would take measures to alleviate its own balance of payments deficit, but said he could give no details.

Police immediately cordoned off the perimeter of Jerusalem, halting all Arabs attempting to enter the Old City. Police said 500 Arabs were interrogated.

"I ran outside and saw half a dozen fires in the shops," said one resident of the area, Rahamin Elmamak. "I ran to a barber shop to try and help. I saw people dead and burned. The seats were splashed with blood."

Two Patients Get New Hearts For Second Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Two patients received new hearts for the second time Thursday after earlier transplants failed.
Everett Thimas, 47, the nation's longest-surviving heart transplant, received a second replacement at St. Luke's Hospital in Houston, Tex. His condition today was listed as satisfactory.

of rejecting the heart. His condition was reported as serious shortly before the second transplant.
The hospital did not identify Thomas' second donor but said she was a 47-year-old woman who died of a brain hemorrhage shortly before his second operation began.
The Stanford donors also were not named.

ey said the team encountered minor problems with "scar tissue from the first operation."
Cooley said he was "more confident" of the second transplant.
"I have a lot more miles on me than when we did the first—I am more confident of the surgical procedure now," he said.

Will Propose Changes In Election Law

GREENSBORO (AP)—A general overhaul of North Carolina's election laws was to be recommended to a State Elections Board task force meeting in Greensboro today.
And after today's meeting, proposals will be made to the governor on changes in the state's voting procedures.
The general overhaul resolution has been adopted by the executive secretaries of the state's various election boards.

U. S. Dollar Emerging 'Unscathed' In Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administrative officials predict that the U.S. dollar will come unscathed through the world's latest currency crisis.
They admit to long-range concern over the possibility that any reduction of the French franc's value might start devaluations snowballing in other countries and eventually jar the dollar.
"But it seems quite unlikely to develop that way," one high administration source said.

Federal Reserve Board goes beyond France and Germany. It centers on Britain, whose exports are rising and trade balance improving since the devaluation of sterling.
But Britain is not yet far enough along the road to monetary stability to easily withstand a French devaluation. If the franc became so cheap that England's customers began to desert her and turn to France, Britain might have to devalue again.

Elderly Pair Found Shot To Death

TUCKAHOE, N.J. (AP) — Two grandparents were found shot to death in their rural south Jersey home Thursday night, police said. The house had been set afire.
State police said Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Clarkson, aged 66 and 64 respectively, were found partially clothed behind the front door of their one-and-a-half-story frame house on the Clarkson Nursery farm, which they ran.
The bodies were removed from the house before flames reached them by their son, Philip Clarkson, in his early 30's, and a neighbor, Dr. Allison Price, who first noticed the fire from his home about 400 yards away, according to state police.

Farmville Referendum Scheduled For Dec. 7

FARMVILLE — The citizens of Farmville will have a chance on Saturday, December 7, to vote on whether Farmville will change over to a Council Manager form of government.
Carl Beaman, town clerk and treasurer, said "there seems to be some opposition to the idea of changing to the Council-Manager type of government for Farmville."

If the referendum is favorable for adopting the Council-Manager form of government, Beaman stated that "the North Carolina General Assembly would be asked to vote on granting a charter to Farmville for this change." He indicated that he did not know how long this would take, but that State Representative Horton Roundtree would introduce a bill for this action at the earliest possible time if Farmville citizens vote favorably.

The resignation is effective Jan. 1, but Searing said he plans to use accumulated vacation time and leave around the second week in December.
Searing fought long and hard in a mostly vain effort to get the state to aid in school lunch operations. A bill to appropriate $3.5 million for this purpose died in the 1967 General Assembly when Gov. Dan Moore opposed it.

ECU Foundation Drive Hits Halfway Mark

The East Carolina University Foundation campaign for funds to launch a professional fund-raising office has reached the halfway mark, officials announced today.
Eleven new charter members and several other new contributors have raised the total to about $75,000.
The goal of $150,000 would be enough to give the professional office a three-year start. It would then be on its own for self-support and to establish a large-scale program of financial support for the university through the ECU Foundation.

ley and Shoe Architects, R. R. Forrest, Greenville Parts and Metal Co., Overton's Supermarket, Phelps Chevrolet, Rivers and Associates, Steve Van Every, White's Stores and A. B. Whitley.
Other new contributors are Dr. J.C. Bateman, J.T. Cleaham, Coifman's Men's Wear, J. Brantley Speight and Charles Woodall.

Dick Worsley, chairman of the solicitation committee which is conducting the "seed money" campaign, said: "We are delighted at the response to these efforts so far and we feel confident that within the next few days we will be assured of a sound beginning for the foundation's fund-raising office."

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, president of ECU, said an executive director of the foundation and its fund-raising efforts will be employed as soon as possible.
The drive for "seed money" to start the office has enlisted to date 40 charter members and about a dozen other contributors.

Any persons or firms desiring to be visited by the solicitation committee should contact Dr. Jenkins' office on the ECU campus, phone 758-3426, Ext. 232 or 433.

Two Swim Ashore As Boat Wrecked By Explosion

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP) — An explosion tore apart a 23-foot pleasure boat with two men aboard two miles out to sea. One man was tossed overboard and the other, Joseph Romanello, who said he wasn't a good swimmer dove in as the boat began sinking.

In dark, cold, choppy waters, Romanello, 34, and Jeff Scott, 24, began a long swim to shore Thursday.

"We stayed close together all the way," Romanello said later. "It sure was cold. I wasn't thinking about sharks, and the water was sure rough. I don't have any idea how long it took us."

They finally reached the beach, spent 10 minutes "getting our wind," and started walking toward lights. Scott was taken by a rescue patrol to a hospital where he was treated for a third-degree burn of his right leg. Romanello wasn't hurt.

Plan Opening New Quality Motel

QUALITY MOTEL . . . will open with ribbon cutting at Chocowinity tomorrow morning.

Methodists Set Service Project

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Methodists are establishing a Voluntary Service Project, something like a Christian Peace Corps or VISTA.

Members of the denomination aged 18 to 30 will participate.

The program, one of several "reconciliation" projects the church will undertake in the next four years, was explained at a special meeting of the Western North Carolina Conference Thursday.

The conference set a goal of $1 million to be raised in the four years, half of which will be retained by the conference, with the other half going to the national church.

An attempt will be made also by the United Methodist Church to "reconcile society with God" by becoming "a new church for a new world."

Other parts of the program consist of church leaders will begin "listening" to college students to learn what youth is thinking, doing, and saying—and how the church may relate to them and intensive Bible study, with emphasis on the Sermon on the Mount.

CHOCOWINITY — Another modern Quality Motel will open its doors to the public when Mayors W.T. Barnes of Chocowinity and Tom Stewart of Washington, N.C. perform ribbon cutting ceremony at 9:30 Saturday.

The Quality Motel (the name Courts has been dropped) is to be located at the intersection of U.S. Highways 264 and 17. The 76 unit motel is the third Quality Motel to be located in the Washington-Greenville area. It is the 39th to open in North Carolina.

Congressman Walter Jones and Jim Gardner have been invited to attend the opening reception, along with 25 other invited guests from the area.

Bill Lewis, of Pennsylvania, is to be the manager of the new motel. The facilities include color television in all rooms, an enclosed heated swimming pool, a restaurant seating 85 people and a tap room. The restaurant and tap room are housed in a separate one-story building.

Two-Timer Accused As Being Quadruple-Timer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my wife and her wigs. Last year she bought herself a blond wig. (Her own hair is brown.) The wig looks real good on her, but she doesn't look like the same person. Recently she bought herself a reddish wig. (The blond wig is long and straight, the red wig is short and curly.)

Anyway, the biggest problem is that my girl friend has heard that I've been running around with different girls. I tried to tell her it was my wife with different wigs on, but she doesn't believe me.

I sure can't tell my wife why I don't want her wearing those wigs when she's with me, so how can I get my girl friend to believe me?

PERPLEXED
DEAR PERPLEXED: The price one must pay for demonstrating what a clever liar he is is obvious. He's not believed even when he's telling the truth. Take your lumps.

DEAR ABBY: My heart was warmed recently. While in a dime store check-out line, a little boy who appeared to be about 7 years old, handed the cashier a nickel.

Since the boy obviously had no merchandise, the clerk asked what the nickel was for. The boy replied, "It's for the pack of gum my little brother stole."

"TOUCHED"
DEAR "TOUCHED": I, too, am "touched." But if Big Brother wants to teach Little Brother not to steal, he should have insisted that Little Brother go back himself and pay for the gum he stole.

DEAR ABBY: How do you stop a grown man, age 30, from licking his plate? My husband does this all in fun just to show me how good a cook he thinks I am, but the kids are beginning to imitate him.

LOVES TO COOK
DEAR LOVES: Tell the clown if he doesn't quit licking

the plate, you will give HIM a licking.

DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter so other mothers won't make the same mistake I made. After 22 years, I realize the error of naming our son "Junior," after his father. When he was a baby, it was no problem. We called him "Bobby" and his father was "Bob."

When he got older he decided "Bobby" was too babyish, so he insisted we call him "Bob" which wasn't too bad as we called one "Big Bob" and the other one "Little Bob." That worked out fine until "Little Bob" soon got bigger than "Big Bob."

Now it's worse. It's "Young Bob" and "Old Bob" and you can imagine how thrilled father is to be "Old Bob" at age 46!

Not only that, but their voices are identical, and they are constantly being mistaken for one another on the telephone, and their mail gets mixed up, too, when there is no "Sr." or "Jr."

It's a pain in the neck. I should have named him Jeffery like I wanted to. I've always loved that name. Phooey on these Juniors.

IN DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

Should Be Their Happiest Years

Welfare programs, of course, cannot be blamed entirely for the murder-suicide of an elderly Florida couple. Neither can insurance programs which fail to pay benefits when they are most sorely needed.

But the tragic situation of the elderly Florida couple does focus attention on a matter of growing concern throughout the nation.

The 74-year-old retired Floridian shot his invalid wife and then himself because he had too much money in the bank to have her admitted to a public nursing home and too little to provide private nursing home care for her when his health insurance suddenly stopped helping with the bills.

How does our society provide care and assistance in cases where it is needed and at the same time set sufficient restrictions to protect the public from those who would misuse assistance programs? The tragic deaths of this couple draws attention to the plight faced by many elderly citizens today. They suddenly find the health and hospitalization insurances for which they have paid many years no longer provides them with protection in the time of their greatest need. They find the public assistance programs, which they have helped finance during their working years, are closed to them because they have been frugal in attempting to make their own way.

Retired citizens attempting to live on fixed incomes in a time of spiraling inflation find it hard enough to make ends meet under the best of circumstances. Impose heavy medical costs on top of normal living expenses and many couples find themselves in an impossible situation without additional assistance.

In the case of the Florida couple, the ending was sudden and violent. With countless other elderly couples in Florida, North Carolina and elsewhere, the hardships faced are no less real. The years which should be the happiest and least burdensome of their lives become the most bitter and tragic.

Mining Is Bound To Change Landscape

"Mining is going to make a hole, accumulate some waste, create dust and noise. It must be tolerated; or the products made from mineral raw materials must be renounced."

Those words by N. C. State University geologist John Parker clearly set forth a truth many Eastern Carolinians have overlooked in connection with the new phosphate mining industry in Beaufort County.

What the speaker was saying, in effect, is that the East needn't expect to have its cake and eat it too. Phosphate mining is not going to leave the landscape of Beaufort County exactly as it was a few years ago. While it is important that the area be restored to as nearly the same state as it was before mining was begun, changes of necessity will result.

Texas Gulf Sulphur has elaborate restoration plans for the area it is mining. Some of the area already is being reclaimed as pasture. Some is being planted in trees. It will not look like it did in being with, but as the geologist said, "Some disadvantages from mining may have to be accepted."

North Carolina should continue its effort to see that these disadvantages are kept at a minimum; but at the same time it must take a practical approach to the situation.

New Bridge Of Dubious Value

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

Some Background

RALEIGH—Writing in the Statesville Record and Landmark, editor-publisher J. P. Huskins says there's no denying the majesty of the new high-rise, $9 million bridge over the Roanoke River near Plymouth.

But eagle-eyed editor Hus-

The Roanoke River bridge project was announced by former Gov. Terry Sanford in 1963 during the early stages of the 1964 campaign for governor.

It was viewed then as political, in order to win support from the Albemarle area. Editor Huskins notes that because it was finished and dedicated a few weeks ago Gov. Dan Moore will "no doubt get credit" for this bridge.

Justification, of course, lies in the fact that the new bridge provides direct connection between Plymouth and Windsor, between Washington and Bertie counties—previously underdeveloped and economically impoverished areas which are now beginning to blossom. This was Governor Sanford's point. There was demand for the new bridge across the mouth of the Roanoke from both corner counties.

Roney's Role

Gov.-elect Bob Scott made the first major appointment of his administration this week in selecting Ben Roney of Rocky Mount as his administrative assistant.

Roney earlier served as private secretary to Scott's father, the late Gov.-Sen. W. Kerr Scott. The positions were virtually identical.

It was expected that Roney would get a top post in the new administration. He had been a top advisor and strategist during Scott's primary and general election campaigns.

Like Scott, Roney is a native of Alamance County but he has lived most of his life in Rocky Mount where he has an oil distributorship. He is a political veteran, having worked in the Terry Sanford campaign of 1960 and later became director of secondary roads in the Sanford administration.

Bob Scott recently assigned Roney the job of acting as liaison man between his organization and the outgoing Moore administration.

kins adds that this is a project that "leads from nowhere to nowhere and is the long way around, a that."

The people around Williamston and Edenton, says Huskins, "make no bones about describing the new Roanoke River project as a political bridge, which can neither be justified by traffic count, population served or distance in travel save."

Many Bridges

It is pointed out that from Williamston east, two highways—U.S. 17 and U.S. 64—roughly parallel each other north and south of the Albemarle Sound and were already linked by a bridge five miles east of Edenton.

Now, Huskins points out, there is a second bridge connecting these two highways 12 miles west of the old bridge.

And he adds, "east-west traffic on U. S. 64 can save no time crossing the Roanoke River bridge for the more direct route to Williamston is via Jamesville; and north-south traffic on U. S. 17 can save no time crossing the Roanoke River bridge because it is three miles nearer to little Washington via Windsor and Williamston — and a better road at that."

Hunger Strike Advisor

WASHINGTON — A parent never knows what kind of call he's going to get these days from his offspring in college. The other evening a friend of mine received a call from his daughter who attends a small Midwest school.

"Hello, Daddy," she said. "Guess what? I'm on a hunger strike." My friend gulped. "That's wonderful, Martha. How long have you been on it?" "Two days. I'm starving." "Where are you calling from?" my friend asked. "The dorm. Almost all the girls here are on the strike, too." "Isn't that nice?" my friend gulped again. "Tell me, what are you striking about?" "Just a minute," his daughter said — and then he heard her say to someone next to her, "What are we striking about?"

A moment later she replied, "We're on a hunger strike because they're recruiting on campus." "Who's recruiting on campus?" "What do you mean who's recruiting on campus?" "Are you striking against companies who are recruiting on campus or military recruiters?" "Hold it," she said. In the background he could hear her say, "Who are we striking against? Commercial reducers or military recruiters?"

She came back on the line. "It's commercial, Daddy. They want people to join the Dow Chemical Co."

"How long do you expect to be on your hunger strike?" my friend asked. "How long are we going to be on the hunger strike?" he heard his daughter ask someone.

There was a pause and she came back on the line. "Nobody knows. This is the first time anyone's done it."

"Can't you give me some idea?" my friend said.

He could hear her talking with people in the background. "Susie said that Gandhi went for 60 days without eating or drinking anything but orange juice."

"But he was in training," my friend said. "He de-escalated his food intake for months before he struck."

He heard his daughter say to her friends, "He says Gandhi trained for his hunger strike."

More background talking. Then his daughter came on. "That's what we were calling you about. How long do you think we should stay on it?"

"I'm flattered that you'd ask me," my friend said, "but frankly, I've never been involved in a hunger strike myself. I thought your kids usually took over the administration building."

"It doesn't have the impact of a hunger strike. You should see the president of the school. He's practically in tears. Our cheeks are all swollen, and we groan a lot. The president knows how to deal

Room For Each Special Season

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of people are already cranking up Santa Claus this year.

The jolly old saint appears to have hitched up his reindeer jolly well too soon for some tastes. They would prefer to keep him leashed to the North Pole a bit longer.

The great stores along Fifth Avenue, one of the world's most famous shopping thoroughfares, once appeared to have a tacit agreement not to put up their

Each year people are made less and less aware of the approach of Thanksgiving. If the stores have their windows full of holly wreaths, where will they find room to display the symbols of Thanksgiving — the ripened ears of corn, the golden pumpkin, the pictures of the fatted turkey, the paintings of the Pilgrim family trudging off to church or feasting with the Indians?

It would be sad indeed if this spirit of our most typical of American holidays should be diminished in importance, perhaps reduced even to the mockery celebration of Halloween.

Harvest festivals, reflecting man's gratitude for the fruition of earth's plenty, are known throughout all civilizations, present or past. They were held in ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome and are common among today's nations.

But in America, Thanksgiving holds a peculiar national relevance matched perhaps only by the 4th of July. None of our holidays is more truly American, for it represents the heartfelt joy of our founders after surviving the tremendous perils of their first year in a new land.

That first Thanksgiving was a giant stepping-stone of the American spirit, and that is what Thanksgiving has meant to us ever since — the blessing of our victory over ordeal, the giving of thanks for our continuing survival amid manifold dangers, the celebration of the promise of our potential eternity as a united people.

Christmas decorations until after Thanksgiving.

This year many of the decorations were not only put but lit from a week to two weeks before the arrival of our annual harvest celebration.

"What is happening to Thanksgiving?" ask some, annoyed at what seems to them the premature forcing of Christmas.

One answer would seem to be that Thanksgiving has been run over by the hit-and-run triumphant sled of Santa Claus — and may there by have been left permanently crippled, unless stern measures are taken from its rehabilitation.

Other Editors Say Can Nixon End Draft?

(Washington Daily News)

As a presidential candidate, Richard Nixon talked about ending the military draft in favor of a voluntary system. He talked in terms of ending it once we found the answer to peace in Vietnam, if we remember correctly. He also talked in terms of making a military career attractive to young men.

As president, he must come face to face with the proposition he talked of in his campaign. The American people will not look upon this matter as merely a campaign promise. The drafting of young men in this country is a national issue, and it is likely to remain so for a long time to come unless definite steps and action are taken to change.

If such a change is to be contemplated by the Nixon administration, the first question to be asked is this: Can American maintain its military needs through a program of voluntary enlistments?

No one can possibly know the answer immediately. If we can realize peace in Vietnam, then it would be the distinct hope of everybody that military needs will be drastically reduced.

Those who say "well, we do not know what will happen until we try it," have a real arguing point. But Mr. Nixon must weigh the arguments carefully. If we understand correctly, he speaks of a voluntary program only after conclusion of the conflict that he could get the needed manpower to maintain a fighting force were through voluntary enlistments.

America has many commitments over the world. We have to keep military personnel in Europe and other places. And in today's world military strength is of utmost importance. Some countries measure another nation more in terms of military strength than in terms of economic or political power. Communism seems to understand military might far more than anything else.

However, if Mr. Nixon can devise some system whereby the draft can be eliminated and if his system does succeed in keeping our military strength up to what is needed, then his administration will score a home run at the outset. Many congressional leaders will say it cannot be done. Others will differ sharply on how it should be done.

Really, it is not how it ought to be done that will tell the real story. The real meat of the coconut comes in doing or not doing.

Strength For Today An Awkward Time For President

By EARL L. DOUGLASS
FORWARD MOVEMENT

Is the Church on the "up and up" today or on the "down and down"?

Most people feel that the Church is largely losing its power over the lives of individuals and over the events having world-wide importance.

But we should not jump at such conclusions with the confidence either glad or sorrowful—that we have arrived at the truth. Many aspects of Church life today are more hopeful than they have been in centuries. The coming-together into closer unity and the understanding of the different branches of the Christian Church are circumstances that should thrill us all. There are still problems to be solved. There are issues to be faced and dealt with courageously. But on the whole, things are looking up for the Church today. We can, and should, regret the fact that the Church is not helping to solve world problems more rapidly than appears to be the case. Nevertheless, historians a hundred years from now will probably speak more enthusiastically about the Church than we in the midst of its problems are speaking about it today.

Church leaders are well educated and committed men. The Church is not full of hypocrites but full of stumbling people who nevertheless keep pushing on to an ideal which was set up by none other than Christ himself. We go ahead twelve inches and fall back eleven. This is not advancing at a whirlwind rate, but it is advancing.

The Church is on the move and that move is forward.

By ELMER ROESSNER
Richard Milhous Nixon will find himself in an awkward position soon after he becomes President. He faces:

A moderate slow-down in business.

Continuation of price escalation.

Scant prospects of curbing inflation.

Inability to meet key election promises.

Their quarterly prepayments. A Present: Johnson's Burden. President Johnson accepted the onus of the surtax and went along with the cut in federal spending. He also signed the Social Security increase.

Continuation of price escalation.

Scant prospects of curbing inflation.

Inability to meet key election promises.

The moderate business slowdown is likely because while the surtax has not slowed consumer buying, the Jan. 1 increase in Social Security taxes may. And if that doesn't, heavier income tax payments by April 15 will. They will be heavier (1) because wages and profits are higher this year and (2) because many taxpayers, even those without higher incomes, have neglected to increase instead of being cut, has increased since July 1.

But what President Johnson so courageously accepted as his burden will fall on the shoulders of President Nixon.

In addition, Nixon will be beset by constantly rising prices. Even if there should be a recession — and there won't be — prices would keep on going up.

Almost all labor contracts have built-in increases and, as wages go up, so must prices. The Social Security increase will also increase employers' wage costs, although some may try to meet it by reducing staffs.

Inflation, Like The Poor—Despite campaign promises, President Nixon will be unable to stop or even slow down inflation.

Prices will go up.

Satire Rocks Some

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Washington's latest foreign aid emissary arrives in Rio de Janeiro and, with Brazilians dancing around him in carnival masks, draws his pleasure at being invited to their country.

"You know that we did not invite you," snaps the host president. "The State Department arranges these things."

Not at all nettled, the visitor — A Mr. Huber — orders an outlandish mask lowered over the president's head and hangs a medal from His Excellency's nose.

Then he turns loose a shower of dollars and watches the dancers scramble.

The scene—from this season's most controversial, but popular play—ends with Mr. Huber walking through the theater audience, still tossing make-believe dollars.

On stage the cast sings: "A dollar to drug you and put your reason to sleep... A dollar to sell you with your sweat and blood, a dollar to discourage you in any revolution."

"Introduction to the Elephant and Other Animals"—by Jorge Dias, also takes aim at Latin American dictators and guerrilla fighters, the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, the Inter-American Development Bank, chewing gum, "The Marine Corps Hymn," and "America, the Beautiful."

The play amuses and infuriates Chileans and North Americans alike. Chileans say Uncle Sam is not all that bad and that neither is Latin America so quick to dance to his tune. Yankees here grumble about the ungrateful attitude toward aid supplied by U.S. tax dollars.

The bearded director, Jaime Celedon, says "Introduction," which has had a five-month run, is intended to provoke Latin Americans to think about themselves.

The play is made up of sketches set in various countries. In a scene in Bolivia, the military president is making a speech when a phone rings. He answers, in English:

"Washington? Of course. Oh, yes, yes. One million dollars Okay, boss."

Seconds later, another military man shoots the president and, after referring to "our system of political succession," continues the speech where his predecessor left off.

In Santiago, a newsman asks the president of the Inter-American Development Bank if its funds are distributed with political ends.

"I don't have the least idea," he replies, "because I receive the checks already prepared from an American commission that functions in a hidden basement of the White House."

The newsman asks a representative of the Pan American Union if the organization has talked to any Latin American guerrilla fighters.

"We have interviewed all the valiant Latin American guerrillas that live in New York," he says.

New Religious TV Program

"The Old Old Story" is a new television series which makes its debut this month over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington. It can be seen each Sunday morning at 11:00 a.m.

REV. JAMES M. SWAFFORD

James M. Swafford, Minister of the Greenville Church of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Ada Rembert of Florida; and several grandchildren.

The body will be at the church from 4 p.m. until 10 p.m. Saturday for viewing. Viewing will be interrupted from 7:45 p.m. until 9:15 p.m. for the funeral services.

Christ is narrator and also the writer for this program. In this new approach to religious programming on television, Swafford uses a flannel board and symbols to draw a picture of first century Christianity as it applies to modern living. John Ratchiffe, III, is the producer of this program, which is in full color.

Before coming to Greenville, Swafford, a native of Tennessee, was living in Jefferson City, Missouri, where he was minister of a Church of Christ. He has been active in radio broadcasting for the past 15 years. This is his first regular television series.

Twenty years ago he joined the ministry and has lived and preached in six states and done evangelistic work in 20 states. Prior to being a minister, he was a manufacturers representative for 35 food packers and shippers.

Swafford is married and has five children. He lives in the parsonage on Greenville Boulevard.

Condemned Over $61 Million In Meat, Poultry

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham says inspectors from his department condemned more than $61.5 million worth of meat and poultry last year.

The cost of rendering the meat inspection service was only $726,000, Graham told the High Point Rotary Club Thursday.

The agriculture commissioner said most businesses and industries want to comply with the law.

"When shoddy or deceptive products are marketed," he said, "they depress business for respectable firms, or force them to meet competition by cutting corners themselves. Such products also create consumer distrust. For this reason most businesses support, and often initiate, consumer legislation."

 A desperate situation gave birth to a brilliant defensive maneuver by West against South's three no trump contract. West contrived to paint a false picture for the declarer, which started the latter on his way to defeat.

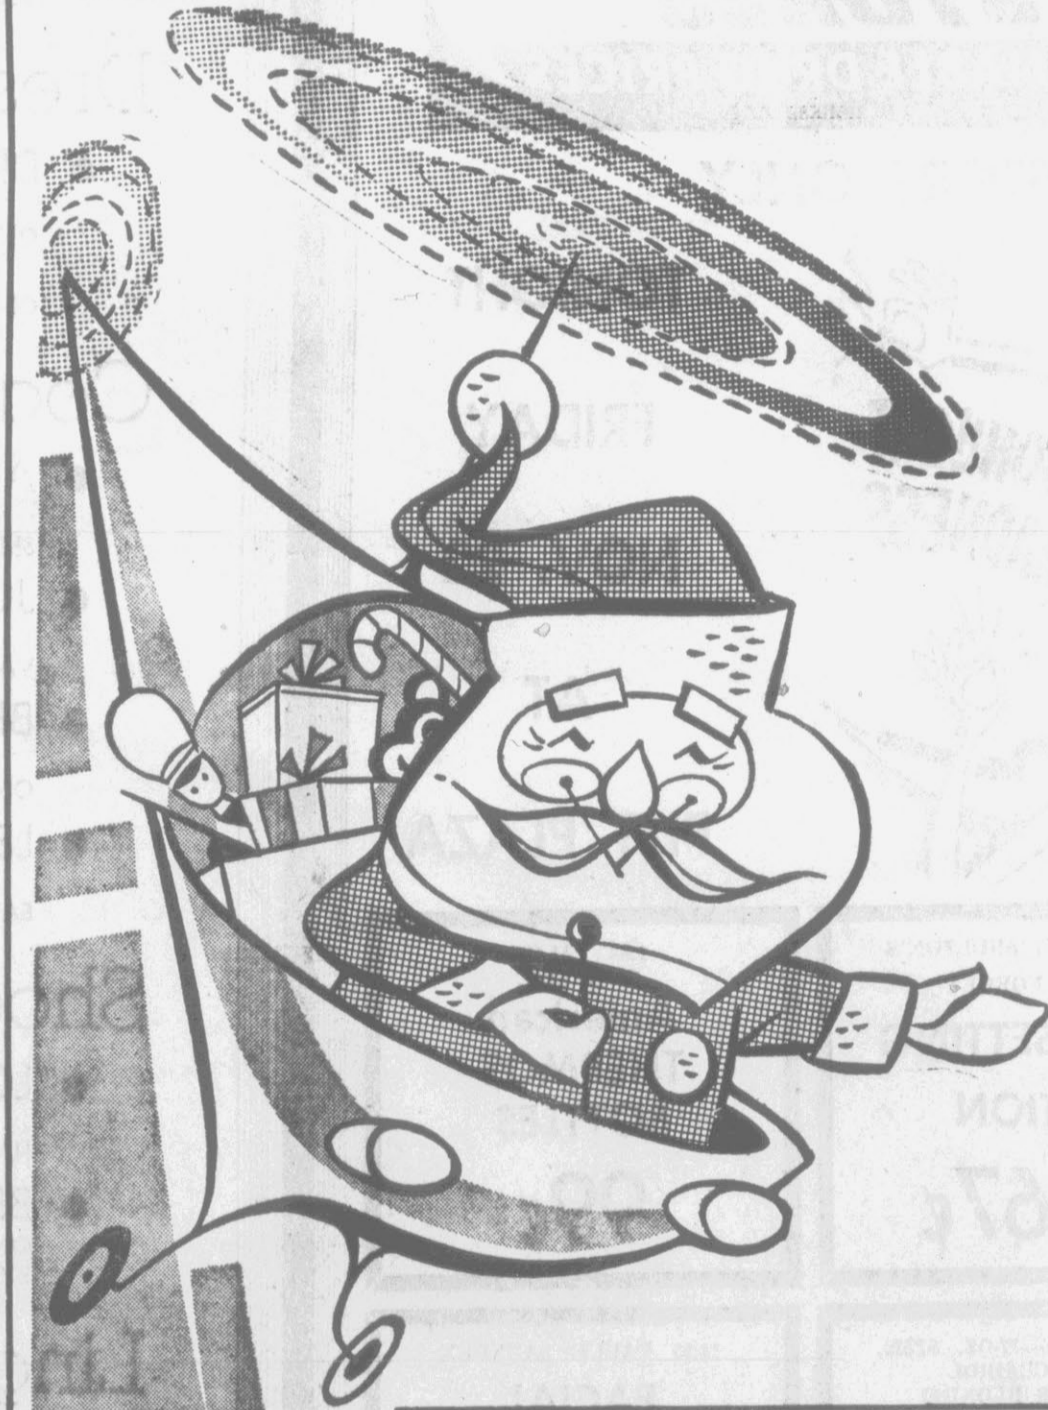

The one no trump response by South is the indicated procedure with nine points and balanced distribution, inasmuch as the spade suit is not considered biddable. North's raise to game is routine, for he has 19 high card points plus intermediate cards and an establishable five card suit.

West opened the queen of spades and the king of diamonds was led at trick two and declarer put up the queen from his hand. With a smooth motion unbetrayed by the least flicker of hesitation, West played the three of diamonds. On the next lead from the closed hand, West followed with the ten, and South—who had no reason to suspect the actual situation—ducked in dummy hoping that East had started with the doubleton ace.

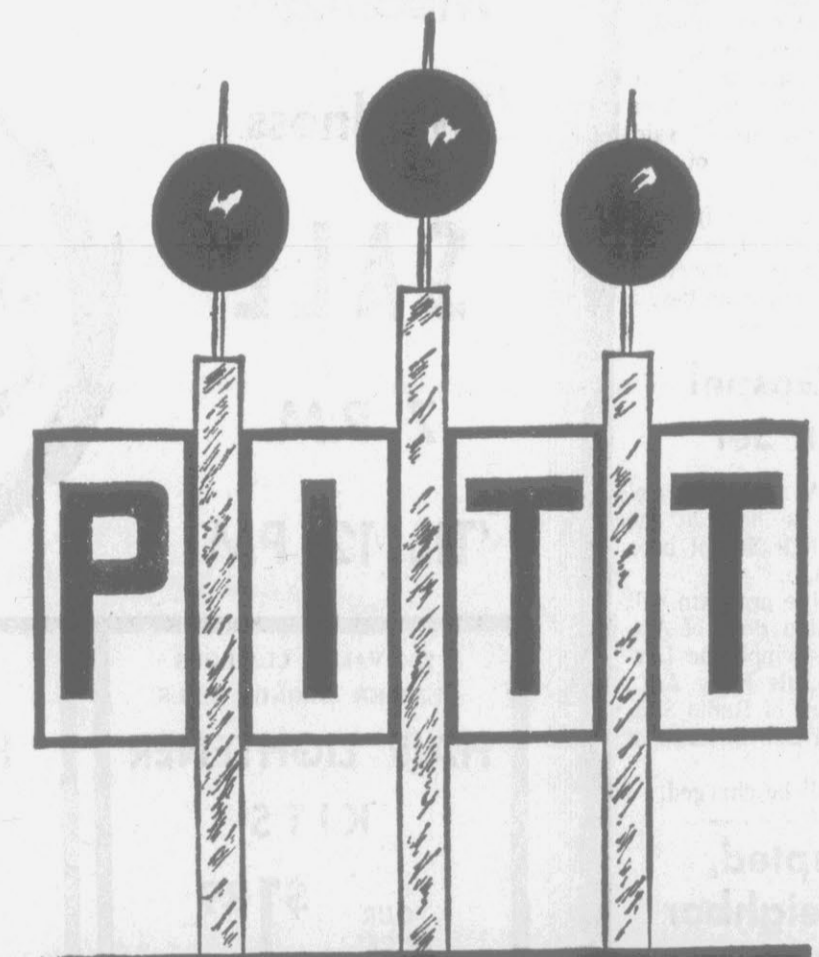

East was in with the jack of diamonds, and he returned a spade to dummy's ace. Since South had only eight top tricks, he led another diamond to drive out the ace. West had carefully preserved that card for a late entry, and he was in to cash a sufficient number of spade tricks to send the declarer down to defeat.

Observe that, if West wins the first diamond lead, he can subsequently be retired from the play. After the spade suit is cleared, South reenters his hand to lead another diamond, and the trick is ducked around to East's jack. The latter is unable to put his partner in, and declarer cashes sufficient diamond tricks to make four no trump.

Four Helicopters Shot Down By Communists

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that four American helicopters have been shot down in the past 48 hours and American artillery fired into the northern half of the demilitarized zone for the first time since the bombing halt three weeks ago.

Farm Program Priority Cited

NEW BERN — Congressman Walter B. Jones, D-N.C., First District, said Friday a pressing duty of the new Congress will be a reshaping of the federal farm program.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the East Carolina Production Credit Association, Jones said the 91st Congress must grapple with the farm program early in the session which convenes in January.

"It is incumbent on the Congress," he said, "to consider seriously and favorably legislative measures which will orient, reorganize and ultimately produce a sound program in which once again full parity will be a dominant factor to insure a fair income to those who choose to remain on the farm."

Action by the Congress alone, however, will not be enough, Jones said. "Farmer organizations such as yours," he told PCA members, "must help to find ways of cooperative marketing procedures which will assure the farmer an equal voice at the bargaining table."

Jones, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said another grave farm problem which must receive congressional and farm organization attention is the dwindling number of young farmers.

Jobmobile Will Be Discontinued

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Dade County's jobmobile, an experimental traveling employment office, will be discontinued in December after nine months of service among slum dwellers.

Operated jointly by the county and Florida State Employment Service, the jobmobile has fallen short of its goals although a full report has not been submitted on its accomplishments.

"It was experimental. You can't say it isn't effective. You can't say what we par," said Harry Tyson, director of the employment service.

The project operated from a bus and was designed to reach residents who might otherwise miss out on job opportunities.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asheville, N. C. has been chosen for the Model Cities Program.

Asheville was among the 23 cities selected Thursday—in the final list expected to be chosen. There are now 148 cities in the program, including Columbia and Rock Hill, S. C., and Charlotte, N. C.

The program is designed to demonstrate what can be done in converting deteriorated urban neighborhoods into pleasant places to live. Asheville gets a planning grant of $105,000.

the Central Highlands was un-derlined by massive B52 strikes thrown at jungled hideouts along the borders of Kontum Province. The U.S. Command said almost 750 tons of bombs were dropped in the area during the past 24 hours.

North Vietnam's foreign ministry accused the United States Thursday of stationing artillery units inside the southern half of the zone and shelling three vil-lages in the northern half on Nov. 16, 17, 20 and 21.

"There have not been any troops in there since the bomb-ing halt," a U.S. Command spokesman said. "There is no artillery in there. The only selling in the northern half was on two occasions yesterday, both as indicated on antiaircraft positions. There were no vil-lages shelled."

The incidents were the 20th and 21st reported by the U.S. Command of military move-ment or antiaircraft firing in the DMZ since the bombing halt Nov. 1. But all others had been reported in the southern or south Vietnamese half of the six-mile-wide buffer zone.

U.S. officials claim that in re-turn for the bombing halt, North Vietnam agreed to stop "abus-ing" the demilitarized zone and shelling South Vietnamese cit-ies. North Vietnam has denied any such agreement, claiming the bombing halt was uncondi-tional.

U.S. reconnaissance planes fly over the DMZ around the clock, but the U.S. Command does not consider that this abuses the supposedly demilitarized character of the zone. Whenever troops, bunkers or supply con-voys are spotted, American planes and artillery attack them.

The Communist command also continued its attacks by mortars, rockets and artillery against South Vietnamese towns and American camps. Da Nang was a target for the third straight day as five rocket rounds landed just outside the big allied base early today, kill-ing three Vietnamese civilians and wounding four.

Although no large-scale fight-ing was reported, hundreds of allied sweeps continued, and headquarters reported the ene-my was taking heavy casualties

The Worry Clinic 'Fringe Benefit' One Church Is Providing

Rev. Glenn gives us a real eye-opener in the matter of low rental housing for the elderly retirees. I have not seen a church project that exceeds the one described below. It adds many psychological "fringe benefits" not obtained in our gradiose church communal Old People's Home. Discuss this case at Sunday School.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE H-541: Rev. John R. Glenn is a Presbyterian clergyman in Columbus, Ohio.

At our recent luncheon, he surprised me with their splendid housing project for elderly folks.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "many church denominations have erected beautiful homes for their retired members. 'But in many cases, only the fairly wealthy can afford them. 'So we have tried to meet the need of men and women of very modest income. 'As a typical example, let me cite our 'Bristol Village' at Waverly, Ohio. 'There we have 323 attractive, one-floor cottages, with lawns and garden plots attached.

"These are separate homes, not one-room apartments in a single large type of hotel building. 'And the cost is very modest as I think you will agree. 'For example, the rent per month is only $35 without any capital investment. 'But if a retiree wishes to make an initial payment of $4,500, he then gets his rent lowered to just $12 per month. 'Thus, even on the lowest Social Security income, an older person or an elderly couple may have a private dwelling, nestled in a scenic area. 'Don't you think it is desirable to help older church folks find private dwellings at a modest rent?'

Salute The Presbyterians It is a pleasure to salute the Presbyterians for this pioneering venture in low-rent homes for the retired church folks! Certainly, that $35 monthly rent is very reasonable. And with the $4,500 contribution at the outset, a rent of only $12 per month in this inflationary age is a miracle.

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — Buddy Ebsen and Irene Ryan, stars of the "Beverly Hillbillies" television series, will be grand marshals of the fourth annual Watts Christmas parade on Dec. 14.

The parade through the predominantly Negro section of Los Angeles is being held, sponsors said, despite the City Council's rejection of a request for $5,000 expense money.

One-Legged Paratrooper Returning To War

By BILL WRIGHT
Fayetteville Observer Writer
Written for The AP

FT. BRAGG, N. C. (AP) — A Ft. Bragg soldier who lost his leg in Vietnam will return to that country within a few days for a second tour of duty.

Only that, but Sgt. L.C. Herbert J. Huston, now a member of the Golden Knights U.S. Army Parachute Team, will be serving with the same group in which he earlier lost a leg.

Huston, 33, a native of Elkhart, Ind., was advisor to the South Vietnamese Airborne in August 1965 when his group came under mortar fire during a patrol.

The mortar fire drove the unit into a booby trapped area, where an explosion ripped Huston's right foot off.

Within seconds a mortar round exploded nearby, taking his leg off at the knee.

In a hospital in San Francisco where he was transferred, doctors told Huston he would never jump again. The Army planned to end his military career with a discharge.

He began a long fight which he took finally to his congressman before orders came through keeping him in the Army.

There was a fight ahead, too, to regain his airborne status. Equipped with an artificial leg, he made 129 jumps after losing his leg to regain jump status, and earlier this year went through 45 days of arduous tryouts to win a berth on the Golden Knight Parachute Team. Altogether, since losing his leg he has made 300 jumps. He is now operations noncommissioned officer for the Knights.

Huston is believed the first Army man to return to jump status after losing a leg.

He definitely is also the first such person to win a berth on the Golden Knights.

Huston says he does not favor his artificial leg when landing. "I tried that at first, and it almost proved disastrous," he said. "I almost broke by other leg."

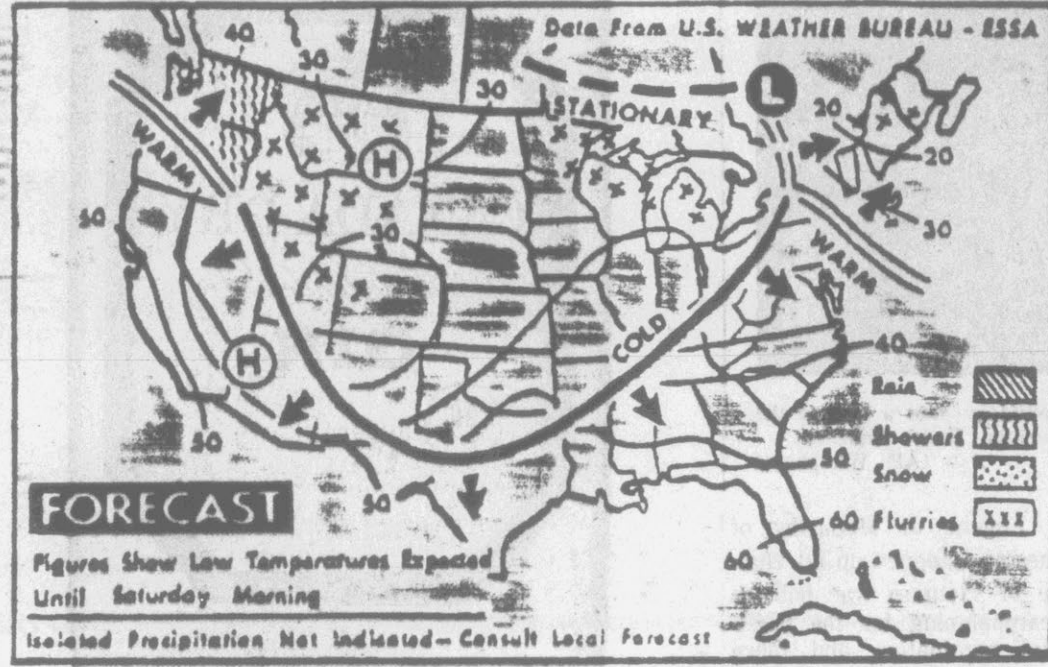

In Vietnam he will return to his old job, airborne advisor to the South Vietnamese Airborne as part of the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam (MACV).

The loss of his leg was Huston's third battle wound. He holds three Purple Hearts, three Bronze Stars with "V" device, the Silver Star, Army Commendation Medal with "V", Vietna-ese Silver Star, two Vietnamese Crosses of Gallantry with Palm and the Military Merit Medal.

Huston entered the military service in 1953 as a Marine. After discharge from that branch, he entered the Army and became a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division. Including static line jumps he has made more than 1,000 parachute jumps. He expects next year to receive his gold parachute wings for 1,000 free fall jumps.

While in a San Francisco hospital Huston met his wife. They have a 21-month-old son and live near Ft. Bragg.

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is forecast for Friday night in the Pacific Northwest. There will be snow flurries in the northern and central Rockies, the Great Lakes region and northern Maine. It will be warmer in the Pacific Northwest and northeastern part of the country and colder in the southeast. (AP Wirephoto Map)

ECU Students Organize Tribute To Dr. Jenkins

Students of East Carolina University are organizing a campus beautification project as a tribute to their president, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins.

The students plan to build a $5,000 masonry water fountain and patio at the head of the main approachway to the men's residence campus. The selected site is directly in front of Henry Belk Dormitory.

Student Government Association (SGA) President David R. Lloyd and project chairman Roger A. (Chipper) Linville of Winston Salem say the fountain will be a token of appreciation for the efforts of President Jenkins toward the betterment of the university.

They have asked students returning from the Thanksgiving holidays to bring a brick-sized stone from home. The collection of stones from throughout ECU's service area would go into the construction of the fountain and patio. Brick from the demolished Old Austin Building, ECU's original classroom building, will also be used.

Lloyd, Linville and a project committee of 10 students have arranged for two campus collection bins for the stones — one at the construction site and another at the site formerly occupied by Old Austin.

According to Lloyd, the SGA is giving $3,000 toward the cost of the project and students are contacting officials and friends of the university for other contributions.

Lloyd and Linville say they believe construction of the fountain can begin soon after Christmas. Plans are being developed, they said, by Smart, Woodall and Associates, architectural firm with offices in Greenville and Raleigh.

Conference Will Spotlight Transplant Tissue Typing

DURHAM, N. C. — The living process of organ transplantation is getting a transfusion of technological skills during a two-week course on modern methods of matching donors and recipients underway at Duke University Medical Center.

The conference is being sponsored by Duke University and the National Institutes of Health to train more personnel to match donors and recipients. The workshop, coordinated through the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, was organized by Dr. Chester M. Zmijewski, associate professor immunology at Duke.

Thirty-seven immunologists and technologists from all over the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico was learning the most modern laboratory techniques for matching the white blood cells (leukocytes) of prospective donors and recipients on the basis of the presence of absence of certain substances called antigens which stimulate production of antibodies. The antigens will elicit a defensive response from the body by production of antibodies. If a donor organ has antigens not present in the recipient, the recipient may reject the transplant as foreign and reject it.

Blood known to contain antibodies against any of the seven identifiable antigens is used to test tissue cells of donors and recipients. Two basic tissue typing methods are being taught at the course. The cytotoxic technique measures the amount of cell death which occurs when a cell sample is mixed with blood known to contain antibodies indicating the presence of antigens in the sample. The other method is the agglutination technique which involves the aggregation of white cells when they possess the antigen recognized by the antibody.

Five Years Since Dallas--- Mourners Still Come

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — At night you can look westward across the Potomac from Washington and see, high on a hillside, the restless flame that marks the grave of John F. Kennedy. And you think of five years ago today.

You stand at that serene place and let your eyes sweep the grandeur of Washington, taking note of the plain lit by the white cross a few steps to your right. And you think of all that has happened in that five years to one proud family, the Kennedys.

John's assassination... the plane crash that nearly killed Edward... Robert's election to the Senate... his campaign for the presidency... the shot that ended his life... the brief presidential boom for Edward... the remarriage of Jacqueline Kennedy.

And through it all the mute suffering of Joseph P. Kennedy, the patriarch, paralyzed and shorn of speech by a stroke, and the valor of his wife, indomitable despite the violent deaths that took four of her nine children, two of them since 1963.

It is November again at Arlington National Cemetery and the leaves are falling over row upon row of the white markers that cover its slopes. Time is suspended at Arlington and the passing of five years has done little to change its face. But the tomb of John Kennedy and the nearby grave of his brother Robert tell much about the half decade.

Mourners of the New Frontier unendingly make their pilgrimages to the graveside of the 46-year-old president, carved into the contours of the cemetery's slope. They come often with ornate wreaths to be placed behind the eternal flame that marks the grave.

Those who come to pay their respects to Robert Kennedy, not yet dead six months, are the young, kids with bell-bottom trousers and peace symbols and medallions. They come to the place of the Kennedy dead with flowers and misty eyes.

Five years since Dallas. It began with a political rift and a president who believed his presence was needed for the mending; with a mail-order gun fired from a sixth-floor window; with the death of the president.

The world was forever changed; so was the Kennedy family, at least in the eyes of the public.

The image of the president's widow became that of a queen: Robert Kennedy, the attorney general, became the heir-apparent. In the minds of many Americans it was assumed that eventually Robert would accede to the presidency and, who knows, someday Edward, already the holder of John's old seat in the Senate.

The grievous sound of muffled drums and the sight of John Kennedy's flag-draped coffin had barely faded from America's consciousness when speculation began about Robert Kennedy.

Partly to squelch such talk, partly to bring Robert out of his depression, the President sent him early in 1964 to negotiate a cease-fire in Indonesian-Malaysian border clashes, and a dispute over stationing a NATO force to keep peace on Cyprus.

The attorney general set his theme of later years when he told Waseda University students in Japan: "If President Kennedy's life and death are to mean anything, we young people must work harder for a better life for all the people of the world."

Robert Kennedy could not help but hear the voices, in all parts of the land, urging that he be Lyndon Johnson's running mate in the November 1964 election.

At New Year, an Associated Press poll of Democratic county chairmen showed Bob second as their vice presidential preference, close behind Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. In March, without any solicitation on his part, Kennedy got 25,861 write-in votes for vice president in the New Hampshire primary—4,000 less than LBJ got for President.

Then came another tragedy. Ted Kennedy, the baby of the family—was flying from Washington to West Springfield, Mass., to receive a nomination for another term in the Senate. The private plane smashed into an apple orchard, killing the pilot and Kennedy's administrative assistant. The senator's spine was broken in six places.

For months Ted Kennedy lay immobilized in a special frame. While his wife Joan carried on his campaign, Ted went through the torture of retaining atrophied muscles. He vowed that if re-elected he would walk unaided into the Senate chamber the following January.

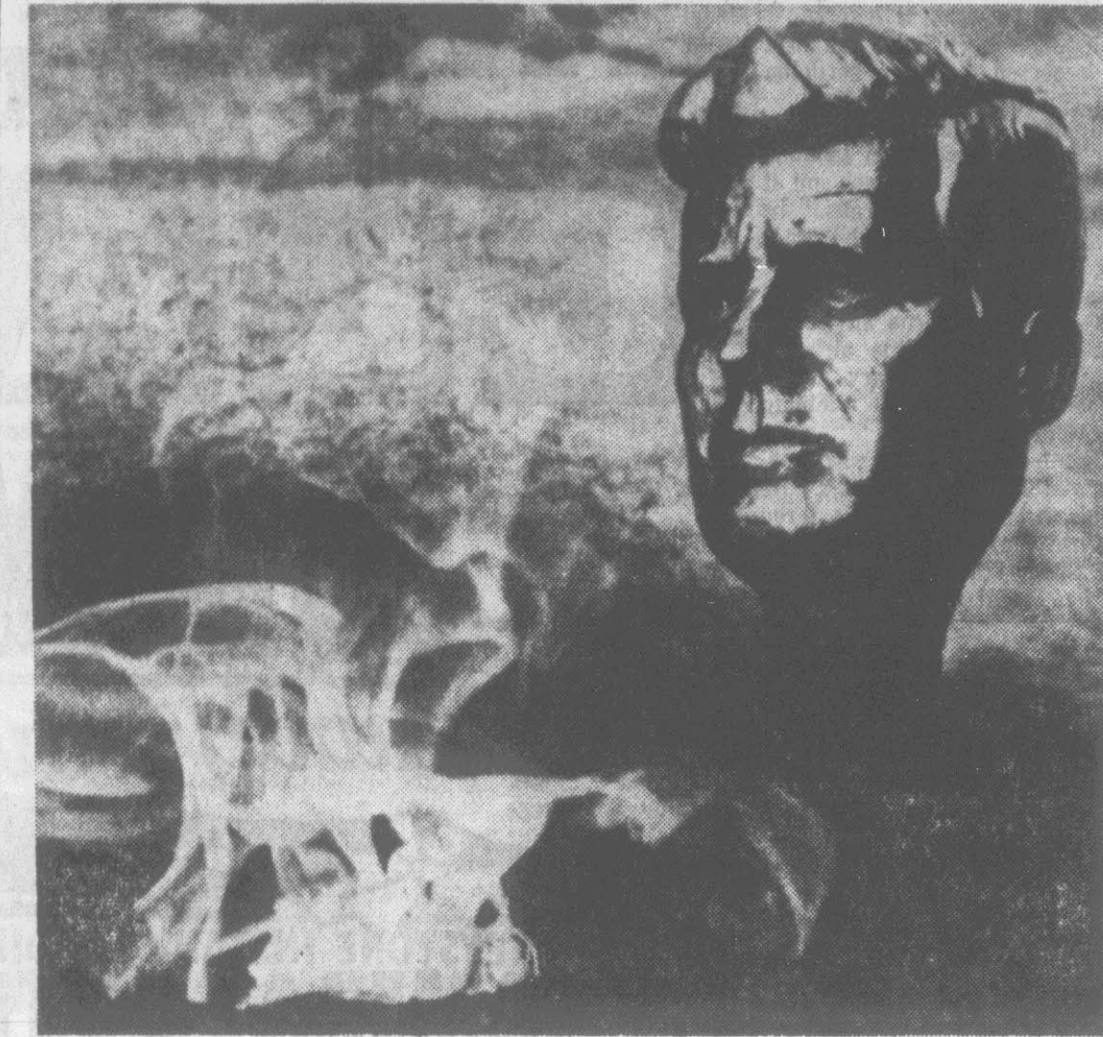

In the absence of any word from Johnson on his choice for a running mate, friends urged Robert Kennedy to run for senator from New York. Four days after Ted's plane crash, Robert took himself out of the New York race.

The pressure continued: Kennedy for veep. Robert did little if anything to discourage the clamor. But at the end of July, Johnson announced that no member of his cabinet would be selected and not long afterward Robert Kennedy changed his mind and became a candidate for the Senate.

The emotion generated for the Kennedys burst forth at the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City as Robert introduced a film eulogizing his brother. For 13 minutes he stood on the podium as wave after wave of applause rolled over him.

And when he went on the stump in New York, he was met everywhere by adulating crowds. As always, there were those who resented the Kennedy pushes. They called Robert a carpetbagger because his home, nominally, had been Hyannis Port, Mass.

Robert was elected that fall with a plurality of 700,000 votes

As the election year 1968 neared, another Democrat—

He climbed a Yukon peak named for his brother; he went often to his brother's grave; he backed his brother's widow, Jacqueline in a public squabble with author William Manchester over passages in the book, "Death of a President," a matter finally settled out of court.

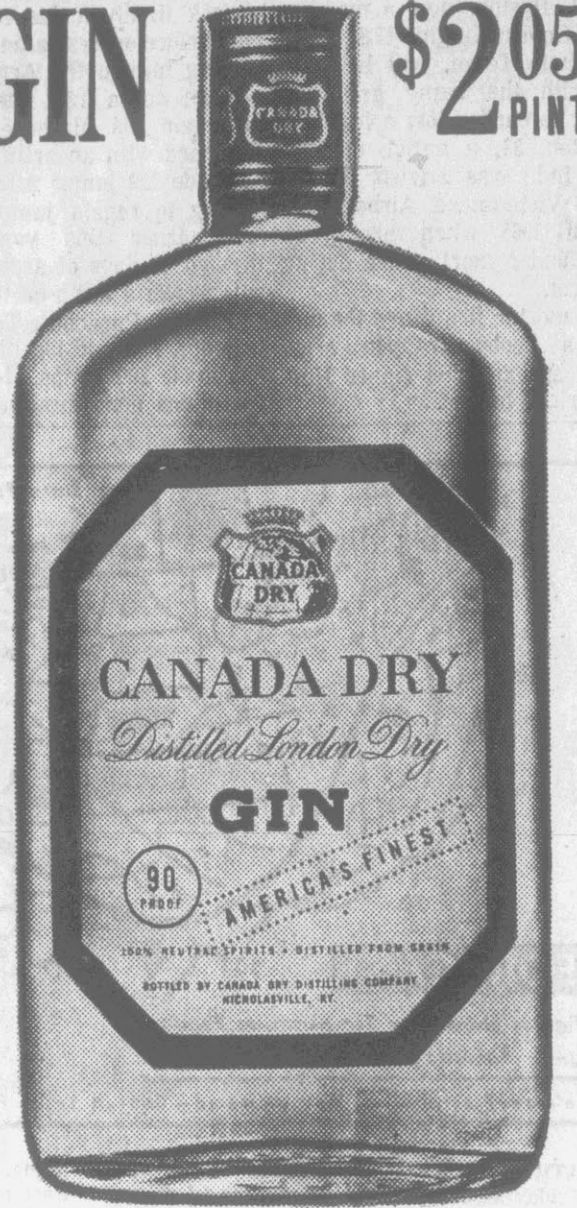

As a senator, Robert involved himself in the problems of the cities and in foreign affairs, especially the Vietnam war, which he opposed.

More and more, Robert Kennedy took issue with President Johnson's Vietnam policies. He was against resuming bombing after a temporary halt in January 1966 and 1967; He supported Viet Cong representation in any coalition government of South Vietnam; he opposed escalating the war.

Despite efforts to gain privacy for herself and her children, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy made news. She was voted the "most admired" woman in America in 1965 and 1966; she headed an aid fund for Italian flood damage; Minnesota—stepped up his challenge of Vietnam war policies by campaigning for the presidential nomination and there were rumbles he was a stalking horse for a Robert Kennedy candidacy. 1. Your advertisement in Sunday's Reflector has been forwarded to me by Mr. J. T. Marston, Jr., President, State Bank and Trust Company, Greenville, North Carolina.

2. As I understand your complaint, you are a successful shoe merchant and a customer of this bank. You had a big fire, you had to move up Evans Street to the next block, the burned out building has been demolished, and there remains a big hole in the ground on Five Points.

3. So now, you think this Agency missed a golden opportunity to write something up about this in connection with the State Bank.

Well, Mr. Averette, the things that have happened on Five Points in the past couple of years have been unbelievable. A new stop light system has been installed, holly trees have been planted in concrete in the middle of the street, the one-way traffic pattern has been reversed—and, on top of that, the City has installed a DO NOT ENTER sign right in front of the bank.

I have come to the conclusion that the people in charge of Five Points have lost their cotton-picking minds. I fully expect them to move traffic on Main street in the opposite direction soon.

4. I will say, although I am not on your payroll, they tell me that you are doing as good a business up the street as you were on Five Points. This points up a moral: the people will follow a good company, wherever it goes.

If State Bank has to move, I believe the same thing will happen.

5. Meanwhile, I would like to suggest we get together to discuss an advertising program for yourself.

Pirates Out To Spoil The Citadel Homecoming

Stats Show Teams Rated Very Even

Last year The Citadel visited Ficklen Stadium, where East Carolina's Pirates were seeking a victory to come away with the Southern Conference title.

This year East Carolina visits Charleston, where The Citadel is seeking a victory, with hopes of coming away with a share of the Southern Conference title.

Oddly enough, both games are Homecoming contests. "They have a very aggressive football team," Coach Clarence Stasovich of East Carolina said of his opponent.

The Citadel ranks third in the conference in total offense, with a 271.3 average, while the Bucs have climbed to fourth at 253.3.

In fact, East Carolina has taken the lead in rushing offense with a 158.0 average. When they got only 12 yards in total offense, they had zero yards rushing, so the ability of the Bucs to move the ball on the ground lately takes even added significance.

The Citadel also has a fine rushing game, just a step back at 152.3, good enough for second. "They run better than they pass," Stasovich said.

The Citadel also plays a tough defense, Stasovich pointed out. "They are second in the conference in defense, and have been better against the rush than the pass."

"Both teams are scoring about 18 points per game," Stasovich said. "But we are giving up about a touchdown more per game than they are."

The Bucs will have two tasks in the game, to stop the passing of Tony Passander, and the running of Jim McMillian. Passander ranks third in the conference in total offense, with 1,027 yards.

McMillian has picked up 479 yards thus far, despite being hurt on many occasions during the season. "We expect him to be back at full strength for the game," Stasovich said.

One of the other bright spots on The Citadel's team is the kicking of Don Eykyn, who rates second in the punting department in the loop. He's averaging 38.6 yards per punt.

punts well so there is little run-back yardage.

One of the problem spots for the Bulldogs has been line-backing. Here, they expected to be at their best with Jackie Zorn and John Small, rated two of the best around.

Fortunately for The Citadel, he's come up with Ken Diaz, who did an excellent job against William & Mary last week, so well in fact that he was named Defensive Player of the Week in the Southern.

Meanwhile, the Pirates have shown a lot of improvement in recent weeks. "We've had boys out all season," Stasovich said, "and we're uncertain about several this weekend, but we hope they'll be back."

"We feel good in that our offense has shown continued improvement during the last few weeks. The backfield has solidified and is playing well together. We've had two problem spots in the line and we seem to have solved them, so things are looking up."

"The defense has come a long way, and we have confidence in them now," he said.

Stasovich wouldn't comment on the revenge at Homecoming attitude, but did note that "the players have talked about this one more than any other game this year."

The probable starting offensive lineup for the Bucs will have Jimmy Adkins and Danny Wilmer at ends, Worth Springs and Phil Bilodeau at tackles, Earl Britton and Ben Grieb at guards, Terry Edmundson at full-back, Butch Colson at full-back, Billy Wightman at tail-back, David Brill at blocking and Dick Corrada at wingback.

On defense, it will be Jim Flowe and Roger Bost at ends, Wayne Lineberry and Don Tyson at tackles, Walter Adams and George Wheeler at guards, Paul Weathersbee at middle linebacker, Jeff Dudley at rover, Tommy Bullock and Mike Boaz at halfbacks, and Stu Garrett at safety.

Ohio State And Michigan Play For Rose Bowl Bid In Top Grid Contest

By MIKE RECHT Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State and Michigan, after a season of playing ring around the roses, get down to the real pickings Saturday when they slug it out face-to-face on college footballs last big weekend, a weekend of champions.

The second-ranked Buckeyes and fourth-ranked Wolverines climb into center ring at Columbus, Ohio, with the winner taking away a bouquet that includes the Big Ten title, a shot at top national rankings and a trip to sunny Southern California on New Year's Day.

Several other titles and trips also hang in the balance Saturday when seventh-ranked Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma shoot for at least a share of the Big Eight crown; Arkansas, No. 9, guns for at least a part of the Southwest Conference title; Yale and Harvard clash for the Ivy League top spot, and Wyoming and Arizona try for the Western Athletic Conference title.

Top-ranked Southern California, already Rose Bowl-bound, is a heavy favorite against UCLA in a televised game to wrap up sole possession of the Pacific 8 crown, and Richmond can take sole possession of the Southern Conference title by beating William and Mary.

The other two Top Ten teams in action figure to have easy times as third-ranked Penn State plays at Pittsburgh and eighth-ranked Tennessee hosts Kentucky. Georgia, No. 5, Texas, No. 6 and Notre Dame, No. 10, are idle.

Davidson After Win Over Vandy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Davidson's Wildcats tonight become the latest Southern Conference football team to tackle a task at which the league has been less than adept for years on end — beating someone from the Southeastern Conference.

The Wildcats, 3-5 for the autumn, end their 1968 campaign by meeting Vanderbilt at Charlotte. And if they win, the Southern ought to strike a medal memorializing the occasion for posterity.

Since the split of the Southern in 1953, there have been 20 games matching SC and SEC TEAMS. The Southern's teams have won just two. Most of the time the scores haven't been quite respectable.

If it's any consolation to Davidson, both the SC victories came at Vanderbilt's expense. The Citadel whipped the Commodores 21-6 in 1962 and Furman beat them 14-13 in 1963.

Unfortunately, though, this is 1968 and Vandy seems to have grown new muscle. The Commodores, 4-3-1, can make sure of their first winning record since 1959 by defeating the Wildcats, and their list of victims already includes one SC team — VMI, which fell 25-12 on Sept. 21.

The Davidson-Vanderbilt collision kicks off a three-game weekend program for Southern Conference teams—one in which the identity of the SC champion, after 11 weeks, finally will become known.

Richmond's Spiders, 5-0 in SC play, can take the title outright by defeating William and Mary at Richmond City Stadium Saturday afternoon and are favored—though not too strongly—to do just that.

Should the Spiders lose, The Citadel, 4-1 in the conference, can share the championship with Richmond by downing late-blooming East Carolina in another afternoon contest on The Citadel's field.

Richmond, 6-3 over-all, and The Citadel, 5-4 against all comers, are the only SC teams with a chance to post winning records. W&M, 3-6 over-all and 2-1 in SC play, already is sure of a losing season and East Carolina, 3-5, 1-2, cannot finish above .500.

Win or lose at Charlotte, Davidson is virtually sure to come out of tonight's game against Vanderbilt with a whole fistful of Southern Conference offensive records.

End Mike Kelly, Slade's No. 1 target, needs to spear one touchdown pass to set a record in this department. With 10 thus far, he already has tied the conference mark.

Conetoe Rips Bethel Union

CONETOE — Conetoe High School outscored Bethel Union here last night, 96-84, in an offensive battle.

Conetoe erupted for 34 points in the first period to double Bethel Union's output, and take a 34-17 lead. In the second period, the Conetoe pace slowed slightly, but the lead climbed by five points, making it 57-35.

Bethel Union fought back in the second half, trying to catch up. The Bulldogs outscored their hosts, 26-20, in the third period, cutting the lead to 77-61, and then outscored them again, 23-19, in the final period, but it didn't prove to be enough.

Richard Roberson led Bethel with 27 points, while Carlton Highsmith had 20 and Joe Hardison had 16.

Curtis Jordan led Conetoe by dumping in an amazing 46 points. He hit on 17 field goals and 12 free throws for the fete. Lynn Long added 18 and Howard Andrews got 15 to add to the Conetoe total.

Bethel plays host to Battleboro Phillips on Tuesday.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

After last week's column "boo-boo" about the Pirates winning their second in a row and fourth of the season, I'm not sure whether I should take credit for last week's record or not. But since it was 16-4, I guess I will. I can use the points.

Anyway, I can always say that the columns are all written at the start of the year, and that a line from this week's column got confused and put in last week. Oh, well.

The high school scene has only two games visible, but they are big ones. Ayden and Farmville are both going for second round victories in the state playoffs.

The Tornados will take on their annual play-off foe in Weldon. The two teams have met for the last three years, and this fourth meeting promises to be no different from the others — in excitement.

Ayden won the first three and went on to become the regional champion. This year, the game is for the Eastern title, and the next game, next week, is for the state title.

Weldon will be up for this game like none other. And I'm going against tradition, I'll pick Weldon.

Farmville, meanwhile, will meet Williams-ton, for the right to play next week in the Eastern 2-A finals. Both teams bring fine records into the contest. Farmville is unbeaten with only a tie to mar its record. Williams-ton has lost once in 11 games. It'll be a real tough contest, but I'll stick with Farmville.

On the college level, East Carolina (quote) will be seeking their second straight win and their fourth of the season (unquote). Does that sound familiar? Well, this week, they will be doing this.

The Citadel will provide firm opposition for the Bucs. Both are well-matched, and it should prove to be a real slug-fest. It could turn into a scoring match, or it might end in a scoreless tie.

This is really a tough one to pick, but I'll have to go along with The Citadel.

Elsewhere in the Southern Conference, the pickings are slim as some teams either skip the weekend or are finished. Davidson plays Vanderbilt, and Richmond meets William & Mary in the only other action.

Davidson has shown a lot of passing ability, but Vanderbilt is in the Southeastern Conference, which in itself is enough. I'll go with Vandy.

As far as Richmond and William & Mary are concerned, the Spiders have a strangle-hold on the Southern Conference title with this one, and they'll get it.

Everyone in the ACC is in action except State, which has finished its slate. In these games,

Clemson, Gamecocks In Important Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clemson and South Carolina have lost one star but gained another for their climactic football meeting Saturday.

The Clemson Tigers, who would retain their Atlantic Coast Conference championship with a victory, have lost full-back and leading scorer Ray Yauger, who has a broken arm. Tailback Buddy Gore has returned from the injury list, however and will be Clemson's chief running threat for the game.

The Gamecocks will be without one of their star receivers—Fred Zeigler — who has made catches for 848 yards and six touchdowns. Benny Galloway, however, is expected to be a starter after being sidelined with an injury.

Always a hard runner and blocker, the halfback has lately blossomed into a fine receiver. The senior will be playing his last game for South Carolina in the 66th meeting with Clemson. The Tigers hold a 38-24 edge in the series, with three games tied.

All but one ACC team will end their season Saturday. The exception is North Carolina State, which finished the week before and takes the title if Clemson loses.

Wake Forest will be at Florida State, Duke at North Carolina, and Maryland at Virginia.

It will be the last game at Wake Forest for Coach Bill Tate, who has resigned after five losing seasons.

Coach Bill Dooley says he still hopes that North Carolina tailback Don McCauley will be ready for Duke, although he hasn't practiced this week because of a shoulder injury. Virginia, expecting an aerial assault from Maryland, put much of its practice time on pass coverage Thursday. The Cavaliers, 6-3 and rejoicing in a winning season, are healthy, spirited, and determined to finish in grand style, according to Coach George Blackburn.

Baltimore Slim Choice To Win

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — After the Minnesota Vikings get through playing the Baltimore Colts Sunday and the Los Angeles Rams next week they should have a good idea if their title threat is for real.

That front four of the Vikings has thrown the passer 18 times in the last three games and 38 times this season in a rush that can strike terror into the heart of any quarterback. However, Earl Morrall of the Colts has a fine offensive line to protect him against Carl Eller, Alan Page, Jim Marshall and Gary Larsen. And that Colt defense already has two shutouts.

Both the Colts and Vikings must win to stay out front in their divisions, depending, of course, on the outcome of Los Angeles' game with New York and Chicago's game with Dallas. Luck was with us last week except for the Falcons-Bears and Bengals-Dolphins. The week's record was 10-2-1 making it 79-34-4 for the season (48-21-3 in the NFL, 31-13-1 in the AFL). Let's try again. All games are Sunday. NFL

I'll pick Clemson over South Carolina to win the ACC title; Duke over North Carolina, Virginia over Maryland, and Florida State over Wake Forest in Bill Tate's farewell appearance for the Deacons.

Rounding out the week, we'll pick Houston over Tulsa, Iowa over Illinois, Louisiana State over Tulane, Miami (Ohio) over Cincinnati, Michigan State over Northwestern, Minnesota over Wisconsin, Kansas over Missouri, North Texas State over Wichita, Ohio State over Michigan, Oklahoma over Nebraska, and Oklahoma State over Kansas State.

Season's record: 127 right, 37 wrong, 77.4 per cent.

Jockeys Refuse To Ride With Gal In The Saddle

By JOHN FOX

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A "disappointed and disgusted" Penny Ann Early, thwarted in her latest attempt to become America's first woman flat-track thoroughbred jockey, says she does not intend to give up.

Miss Early, 25, was scheduled to ride Witness in Thursday's ninth race at Churchill Downs, but the race was canceled because riders could not be found for the other horses in the race.

"They (the jockeys) are calling themselves men, but I have no respect for them as riders or men," Miss Early said after the race had been called off "None of them could look me in the eye."

She said she intends to remain available to ride through Saturday, the last day of the fall meet at Churchill Downs.

After Saturday, Miss Early said she would rest for a short while, then go to California and apply for a jockey license there. "I hope it's different," she said about California. "I hope they've got a different class of people there."

She added she hoped to ride at Santa Anita which begins its racing season in December.

Thursday's cancellation was the latest in a series of disappointments for the pretty blonde divorcee.

Miss Early had been expected to ride last Saturday but her mount was scratched because of track conditions. Tuesday, she was replaced aboard another horse by the regular jockey. Informed sources at Churchill Downs said Thursday's cancellation came only after a day-long effort to assure that Miss Early would have a chance to ride. Originally, she was scheduled to ride in the fourth race.

When jockeys couldn't be found for other horses in the race, it was postponed and made the ninth on the card.

The delay meant little. Late Thursday afternoon the Churchill Downs track announcer revealed the ninth race had been canceled.

The announcement was greeted with boos and catcalls from the stands. Individual jockeys had threatened to boycott any race in which Miss Early was entered. The threat did not materialize until Thursday.

When it did, the race became the first in some time to be canceled at the home of the Kentucky Derby.

Track officials were unable immediately to name the last date when a race had been called off.

"I'm not out on a crusade for women," Miss Early said after being notified. "I just want to ride."

Bench Edges To Rookie Honors

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench, Cincinnati catcher, edged out Jerry Koosman, New York Mets pitcher, 10 1/2 to 9 1/2 for National League Rookie-of-the-Year today in the closest vote in the history of the award.

It was the first time in the 20-year history of the award conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America that one vote decided the winner. The balloting was done by a 20-man committee of writers, two from each league city.

One writer, Jim Enright of the Chicago American, split his vote and cast one half for each player.

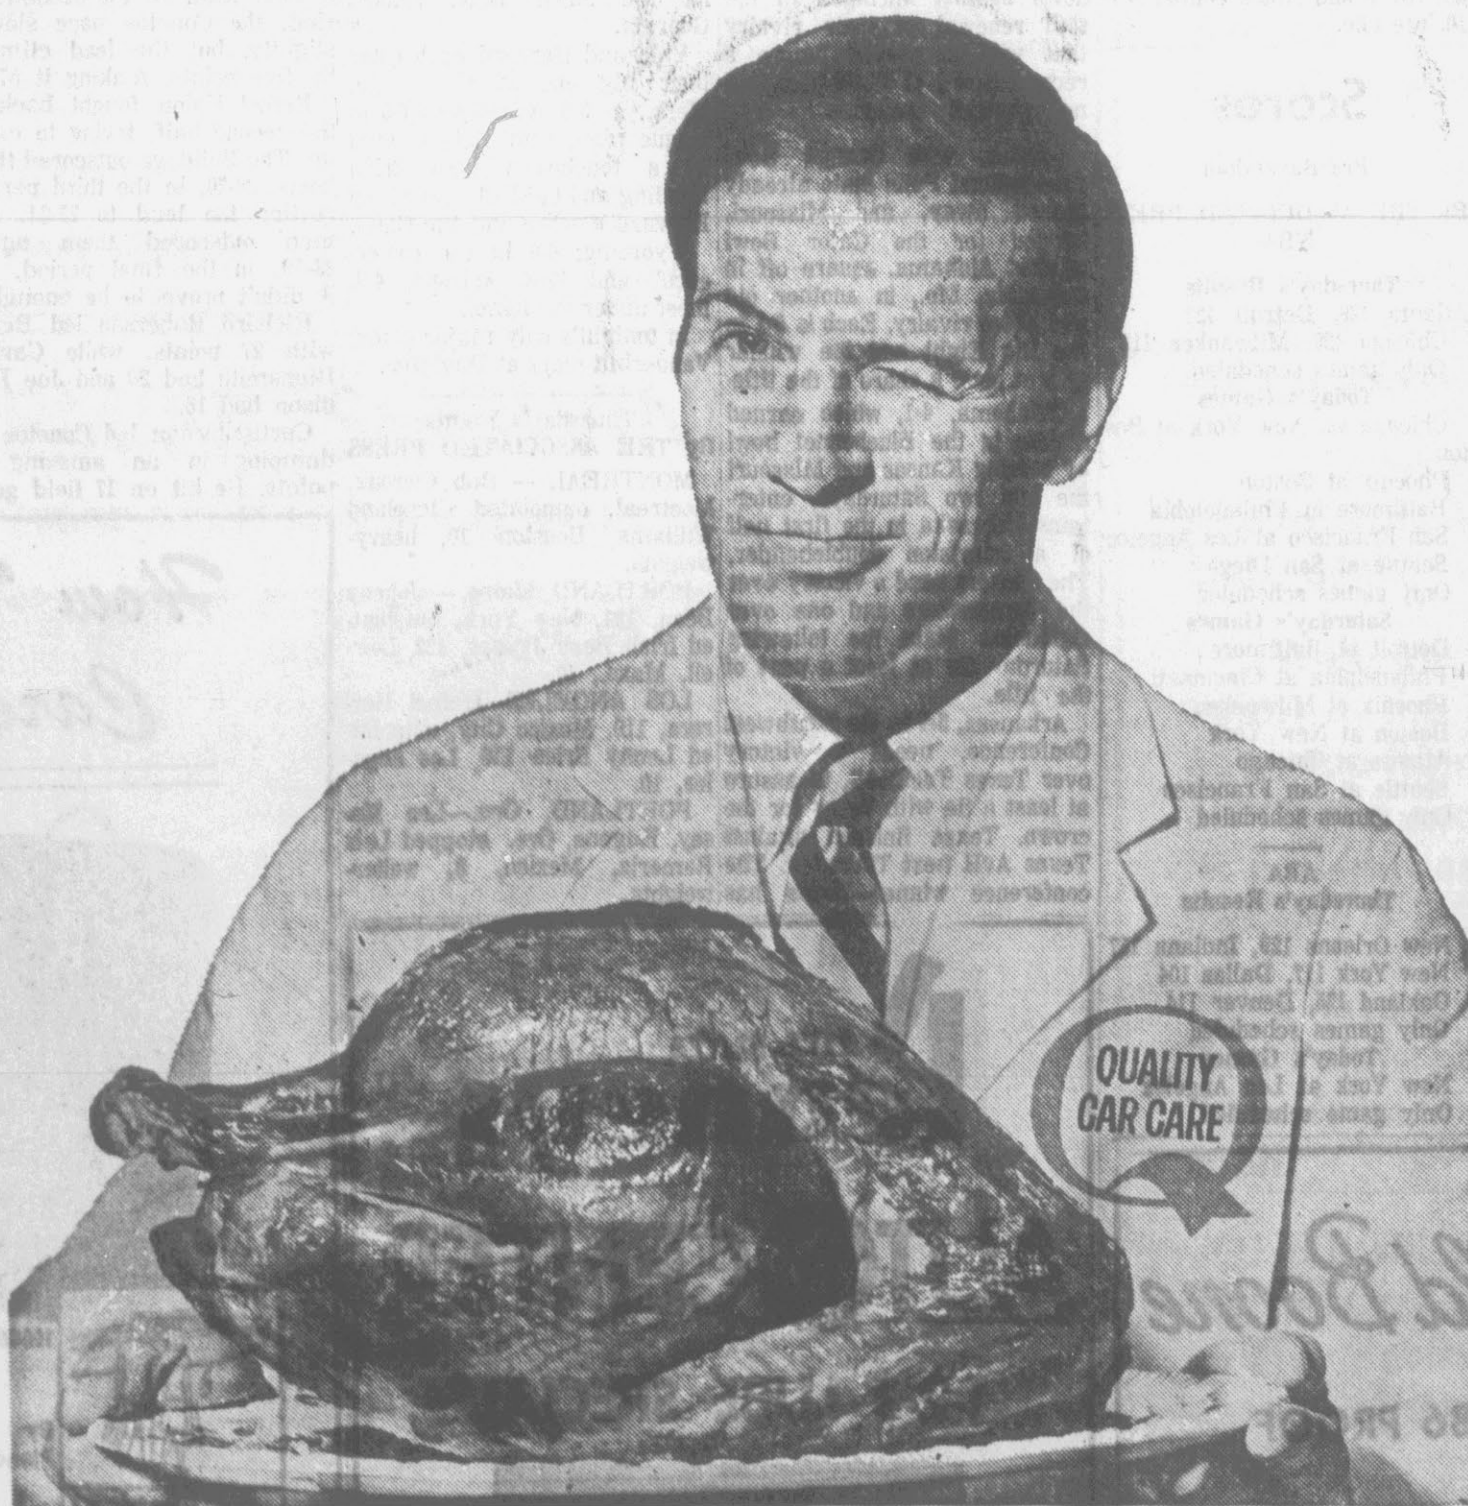

It was the first time this had been done in the rookie competition although in 1959 after both Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox had great years for the pennant-winning Chicago White Sox, four writers voted a half of a first-place vote for each in the Most Valuable Player balloting.

Normally the voting is by secret ballot. However, any writer is free to reveal his own vote. Enright requested his split ballot for Bench and Koosman be made public.

"In all fairness," said the veteran Chicago writer, "I could not vote for one and ignore the other."

The Reds' fine young catcher started slowly but came on strong and finished with 275, 15 homers and 82 runs batted.

Bench, who will be 21 on Dec. 7, lives in Binger, Okla., where he was the valedictorian of his high school graduating class.

Legend Of 'Buffalo Soldiers' Kept Alive

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — They call themselves the Buffalo Soldiers, after a legendary Negro cavalry unit that rode the West. And if they have their way, the Buffalo Soldiers will become legends once more.

The unique band of horsemen can be seen tonight on NBC's "High Chaparral" with a sequence in which the territorial governor sends for the cavalrymen to rid Tucson of a corrupt boss. The incident is fictional, the Army unit is not.

The U.S. 10th Cavalry, with all Negro enlisted men, existed from 1866 until 1944, when Army desegregation ruled out such units. During that span the 10th, or Buffalo Soldiers as they called themselves in the early days, served with distinction in the Indian Wars and the Spanish-American War.

"The Army found they were especially good in fighting the Indians," reports Lenton Glasgow, historian and spokesman for the Buffalo Soldiers. "The men were strong, and, many of them not being long from Africa, could live on the plains without much trouble."

The modern Buffalo Soldiers formed their group about three years ago. Their aim: to make a movie about the frontier horse soldiers of the 10th Cavalry. A group of young Negroes, some of whom had never been on a horse, decided to train themselves to impersonate the Buffalo Soldiers in the proposed film. They drew support and advice from actors Woody Strode and John Russell.

Wranglers and stunt men helped teach the Negroes how to ride and take falls, and then the Buffalo Soldiers began teaching themselves.

"We had been talking about a movie about the 10th Cavalry at Columbia Studios, but then the project was suddenly dropped," Glasgow said. "That slowed us down but we didn't give up hope. We reorganized the group, kicked out some of the members who weren't participating and drew up a constitution."

Now the group numbers 35. Glasgow, St. Louis-born son of a Methodist minister, has been a real estate and furniture salesman. He admitted, "When I started, I didn't know which side of the horse to get on."

Now he is devoting full time to promoting the Buffalo Soldiers. Progress has been slow. The unit made a gratis appearance at the opening of the Hollywood Park race track season. Some of the men have found stunt work in films and television. The big break came with "High Chaparral," and the Buffalo Soldiers went all-out to prove themselves.

I am convinced that this country is on a perilous course."

That was March 18 this year when it looked as if the only candidates for the Democratic nomination would be Lyndon Johnson and Eugene McCarthy. But two weeks later, in an electrifying announcement, Johnson said he would not run again.

"We can do better," became Kennedy's slogan as he campaigned across the country. He won in Wisconsin, in Indiana, in Nebraska. Next came Oregon and a loss to McCarthy.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, entering the race too late for primary challenges, also was busy campaigning. Then came June and the all-important California primary.

On June 1, Kennedy debated McCarthy on television. In that debate, as in a speech at an Oregon synagogue a few days earlier, he talked of this country's "clear and compelling" commitment to "defying any attempt to destroy Israel's survival."

On June 4, the California primary ended in a victory for Kennedy. That night he went into the Embassy Room of the Ambassador Hotel to speak to more than 2,000 celebrating workers.

"My thanks to all of you," he said, "and it's on to Chicago and let's win there."

A few minutes later, Robert Kennedy was shot by an assassin lurking in a kitchen hallway near the ballroom. The man arrested and charged with the shooting was a Jordanian Arab uprooted by the 1948 Arab-Israeli war.

Once more there was a funeral service attended by the great and the prominent. Millions lined the route of the train taking the body of Robert from New York to Washington. Thousands more lined the route through the capital to Arlington where he was buried 60 feet from John.

Soon voices rose again across the land—this time urging Ted Kennedy for vice president, for president. But Ted said no; not this year. He chose privacy, and gained it except for a few appearances in behalf of Hubert Humphrey's unsuccessful campaign for president.

For a few weeks the Kennedy family departed the public arena. Then, in October, a month and a few days away the five year anniversary of John Kennedy's death, Jacqueline Kennedy remarried. The bridegroom was 62-year-old Aristotle Socrates Onassis, a Greek millionaire.

'Downtown Improvement' Plans Outlined To Board

John Messick, real estate officer of the Redevelopment Commission Charles F. Gillette, a Memorial Library Board Tuesday night, telling them of plans for the downtown improvement project and how they relate to the library's expansion plans.

The Board authorized the architect in charge of the building program to proceed with having the old building sandblasted. Further landscaping of the library grounds was discussed and the Board agreed to consult Charles F. Gillette, a landscaping architect of Richmond, who designed the present library landscaping.

Charged Poverty Program Fraud

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A Fayetteville minister, the Rev. Samuel Iobert Johnson, was indicted by the Columbus County Grand Jury Thursday on five counts of false pretense in the operation of an anti-poverty program.

The indictments charge that Johnson allowed pay checks to be made out to five persons not employed by the program and then cashed the checks himself. Johnson is pastor of the AME Zion Church in Fayetteville. He is reportedly in Washington now working for an anti-poverty program.

Lost And Won' On TV Guessing Game

Jack Edwards, owner-man-regular process of orientation. These shows appear completely spontaneous, but actually you are coached ahead of time on how to make the best appearance and how to be enthusiastic. Also, each day's appearance is filmed in one day, then shown on separate days.

One thing which surprised Edwards was that after winning, he had to fill out a form and furnish his social security number. "This is to be certain that you reflect your winnings on your income tax returns," Edwards stated.

Edwards mentioned that he and his party had advance tickets. He recommends that anyone from the area going to New York and who might want to see a television show get tickets locally, as it saves much time and bother. "Any of the local stations, WNCT, WITN or WNBE will gladly furnish you the necessary tickets," he stated. "It really makes a difference having them ahead of time."

"I lost and I won", stated Edwards, explaining that he lost on the second round of the guessing game, but yet was a winner. "I won a set of luggage, a washing machine and a dryer." He stated he did not have to lug these items back home from New York, that they would be sent to him soon.

"My wife Rachel, Elmo Dupree and his wife Vic, and I had gone on a business trip to New York. We had tickets to see some of the television shows. In fact, I was standing in line to see "Jeopardy" when a program scout asked me if I would be interested in appearing on the "I Guess" show.

"Before I appeared, I was interviewed and went through a

Plan Organization Of New Toastmasters Club Here

Plans are being made to or-organize a Toastmasters Club in Greenville, according to Area Governor Robert E. Herndon of Plymouth.

Toastmasters International is a non-profit organization of more than 3,500 Toastmasters clubs in 47 countries of the free world. It was founded in 1924, and since that time more than a million men have benefited from membership in Toastmasters clubs.

A Toastmasters club is an organized group which provides its members a program to im-prove their abilities in public speaking and conducting meetings and to develop their leadership and executive potential. It is not a "club of orators."

Men interested in forming a Toastmasters club in Greenville, especially former Toastmasters, should write Herndon at P.O. Box 561, Plymouth, or call him at 793-3111, ext. 462, or 793-4366 in Plymouth.

John Guy of Pitt Technical Institute, a past Toastmasters Area Governor in Illinois, is also available to discuss the planned project with anyone who wishes further information.

Ervin Campaign Enjoyed Surplus

RALEIGH (AP) — U. S. Sen. Sam Ervin wound up his reelection campaign with a $3,855.60 surplus and has promised a refund to his contributors.

In a report filed with Secretary of State Thad Eure Thursday, Ervin said he received contributions of $20,931.92 in easily defeating Republican Bob Somers. Ervin said he spent a total of $17,076.32.

All individual donors "are entitled to share in such unexpended remainder in per portion to their respective contributions," Ervin said in his report.

"I've never seen that in a report before," Eure said of Ervin's refund offer.

Ervin, 72-year-old Morganton attorney, went into great detail in his spending report, even listing the name and address of each filing station in where gasoline was purchased, the date of the purchase and the cost of the gas.

Congressman-elect Richardson Preyer of Greensboro reported he spent $69,540 and received $44,769 in contributions for his successful election bid in the 6th District.

First District Rep. Walter Jones reported his successful re-election campaign cost $10,382 and he received $10,741 in contributions.

SCLC Refuses To Pay Its Bill

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, says SCLC not only will refuse to pay for cleaning up Resurrection City, but also will file suit against the government for damages.

Abernathy said he has instructed SCLC attorneys to bring suit for $100,000 against the government for damage done to property of the poor people who occupied the area in Washington.

"We have a figure we think the federal government owes to the poor people. It really runs over $100,000," he said in an interview.

The Interior Department has threatened to sue the civil rights organization if the SCLC does not pay a $71,795 bill for cleaning up the camp site which was dismantled last June.

"We feel that we don't owe it," said Abernathy. "We were not given ample time to tear down Resurrection City and restore the area to its former status. We had only a few hours notice."

Resurrection City, a cluster of plywood huts in the area between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial, closed June 24. The SCLC-sponsored encampment was closed after six weeks of demonstrations for more government aid for poor people.

The original permit to build Resurrection City, Abernathy said, provided time for the Poor People's Campaign to clean up the site.

Interior Department officials have indicated they will turn the matter over to the Justice Department for prosecution if the SCLC does not act on the bill.

Dr. Whyburn Is Awarded German Research Grant

The stipends, awarded to carefully selected non-German scientists, provide 10 months of study and research at a university or research institute in West Germany.

During his 10 months in Germany, Oct. 1, 1968, to July 31, 1970, Dr. Whyburn will carry out a research project in mathematics at the Mathematics Institute, Johannes Gutenberg University in Mainz.

PROBABLY KILLED

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—The head of Brazil's National Indian Foundation says 10 men and two women missing in the Amazon jungle were probably killed by Waimiri Indians, and if they were no trace of them may ever be found.

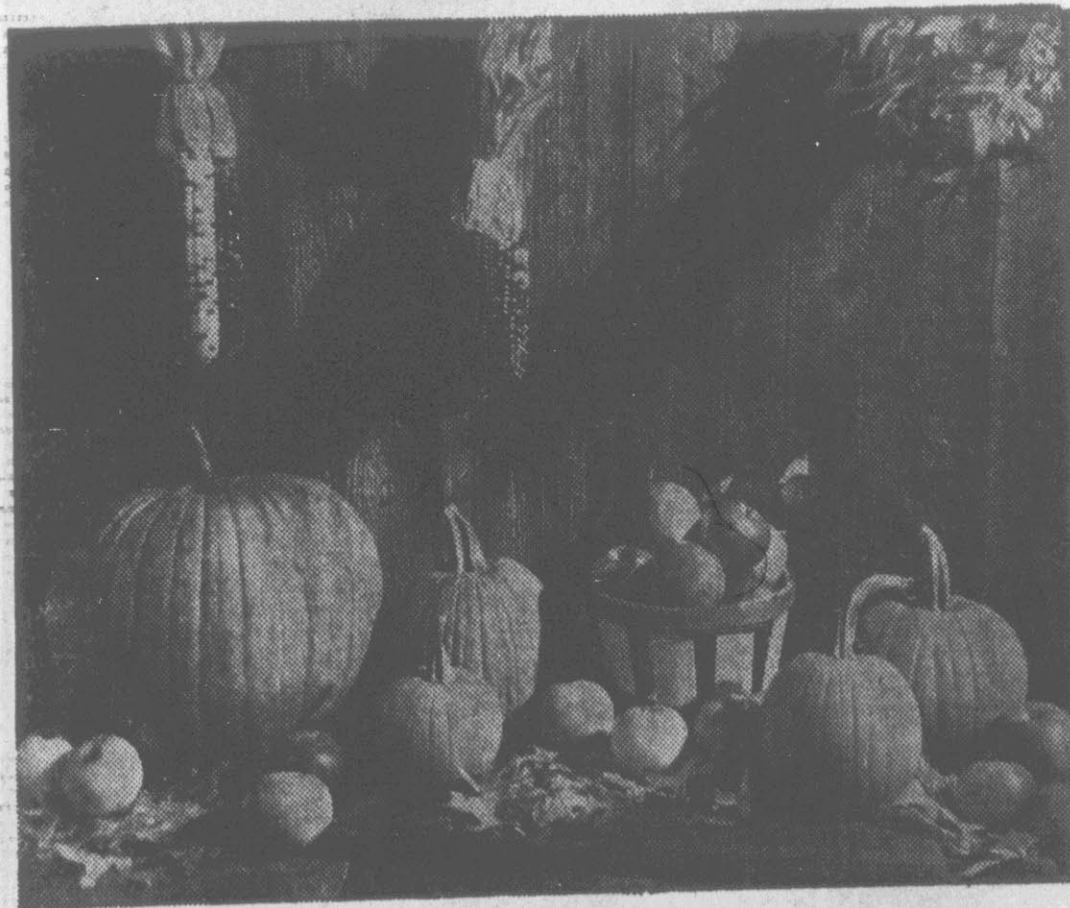

To Be Thankful

It used to be that a picture like this could only mean harvest time—big orange pumpkins, shiny red apples, colorful stalks of Indian corn. And, of course, a turkey in the pantry.

But what about today? You can buy apples almost any time. Pumpkins are available in a can twelve months of the year. And you can buy a frozen turkey as easily in July as in November.

We Americans take for granted what was a real treat in our parents' time. But in the midst of this material plenty, there is danger of spiritual famine. To keep the proper perspective, to appreciate the gifts of life to the fullest we need the Church and the story it has to tell us.

Maybe you can't be a pioneer—a Pilgrim. But you can follow your forefathers' example at Plymouth that first November. You can utter genuine thanks in the church of your choice.

Alton Little Named To Several State Offices

Alton Little, Director of Greenville's Recreation Department, returned from the 24th Annual Conference of the North Carolina Recreation and Park Society held in Greensboro recently, bringing two chairmanships and a membership on a state board of directors back with him.

Little was elected Chairman of the Municipal Division for the North Carolina Recreation and Parks Society. This division contains about 50 of the largest municipalities in North Carolina.

ALTON LITTLE

In addition, the President of the North Carolina Recreation Society appointed Little as chairman of the Senior Citizens Division for the State of North Carolina.

Little's chairmanship of these two divisions place him on the board of directors of the North Carolina Recreation and Parks Society, with headquarters in Raleigh.

"I am really very honored that these people have placed this much confidence in me by electing and appointing me to these chairmanships," Little said. "I am going to work hard to help in the state's plans to improve our recreation facilities and to help upgrade our programs and plans."

He noted that the theme of the recent annual conference was "New Ways for New Days".

"This is certainly an appropriate slogan, and one I hope to see come true in Greenville and throughout the state. As chairman of two divisions, I plan to set up area meetings in which municipal leaders can get together to plan future programs. Some of these meetings will be in the form of workshops. Others will be caucuses or get-togethers to compare plans and progress being made. In the senior citizen field, I am formulating a series of meetings which will include representation both from professional recreational leaders and senior citizens themselves so that the two factors can more closely coordinate plans for our elderly citizens."

The Senior Citizens Division is divided into two sections, an eastern and a western division. "It will be my primary responsibility to get committees from each section to work with me," Little stated. "I have plans for calling two meetings, one in the eastern section during the second week in January, and one in the western section in the third week of January."

As a member of the state board of directors, Little will be called upon to attend a number of meetings. "Periodically

I will be attending the board meetings in Raleigh. This will give me an opportunity to get an over-all picture of what is going on, and will help me in my own fields," he stated.

Little remarked that his chairmanships will run until the 25th annual conference which is scheduled to be held in Wilmington next November.

"Between now and the , it is my sincere hope to do everything possible to help continue the direction the state-wide recreation work is now taking—that is, a dynamic and fruitful year which will see continued improvements in the already fine progress which has been made in North Carolina in recent years."

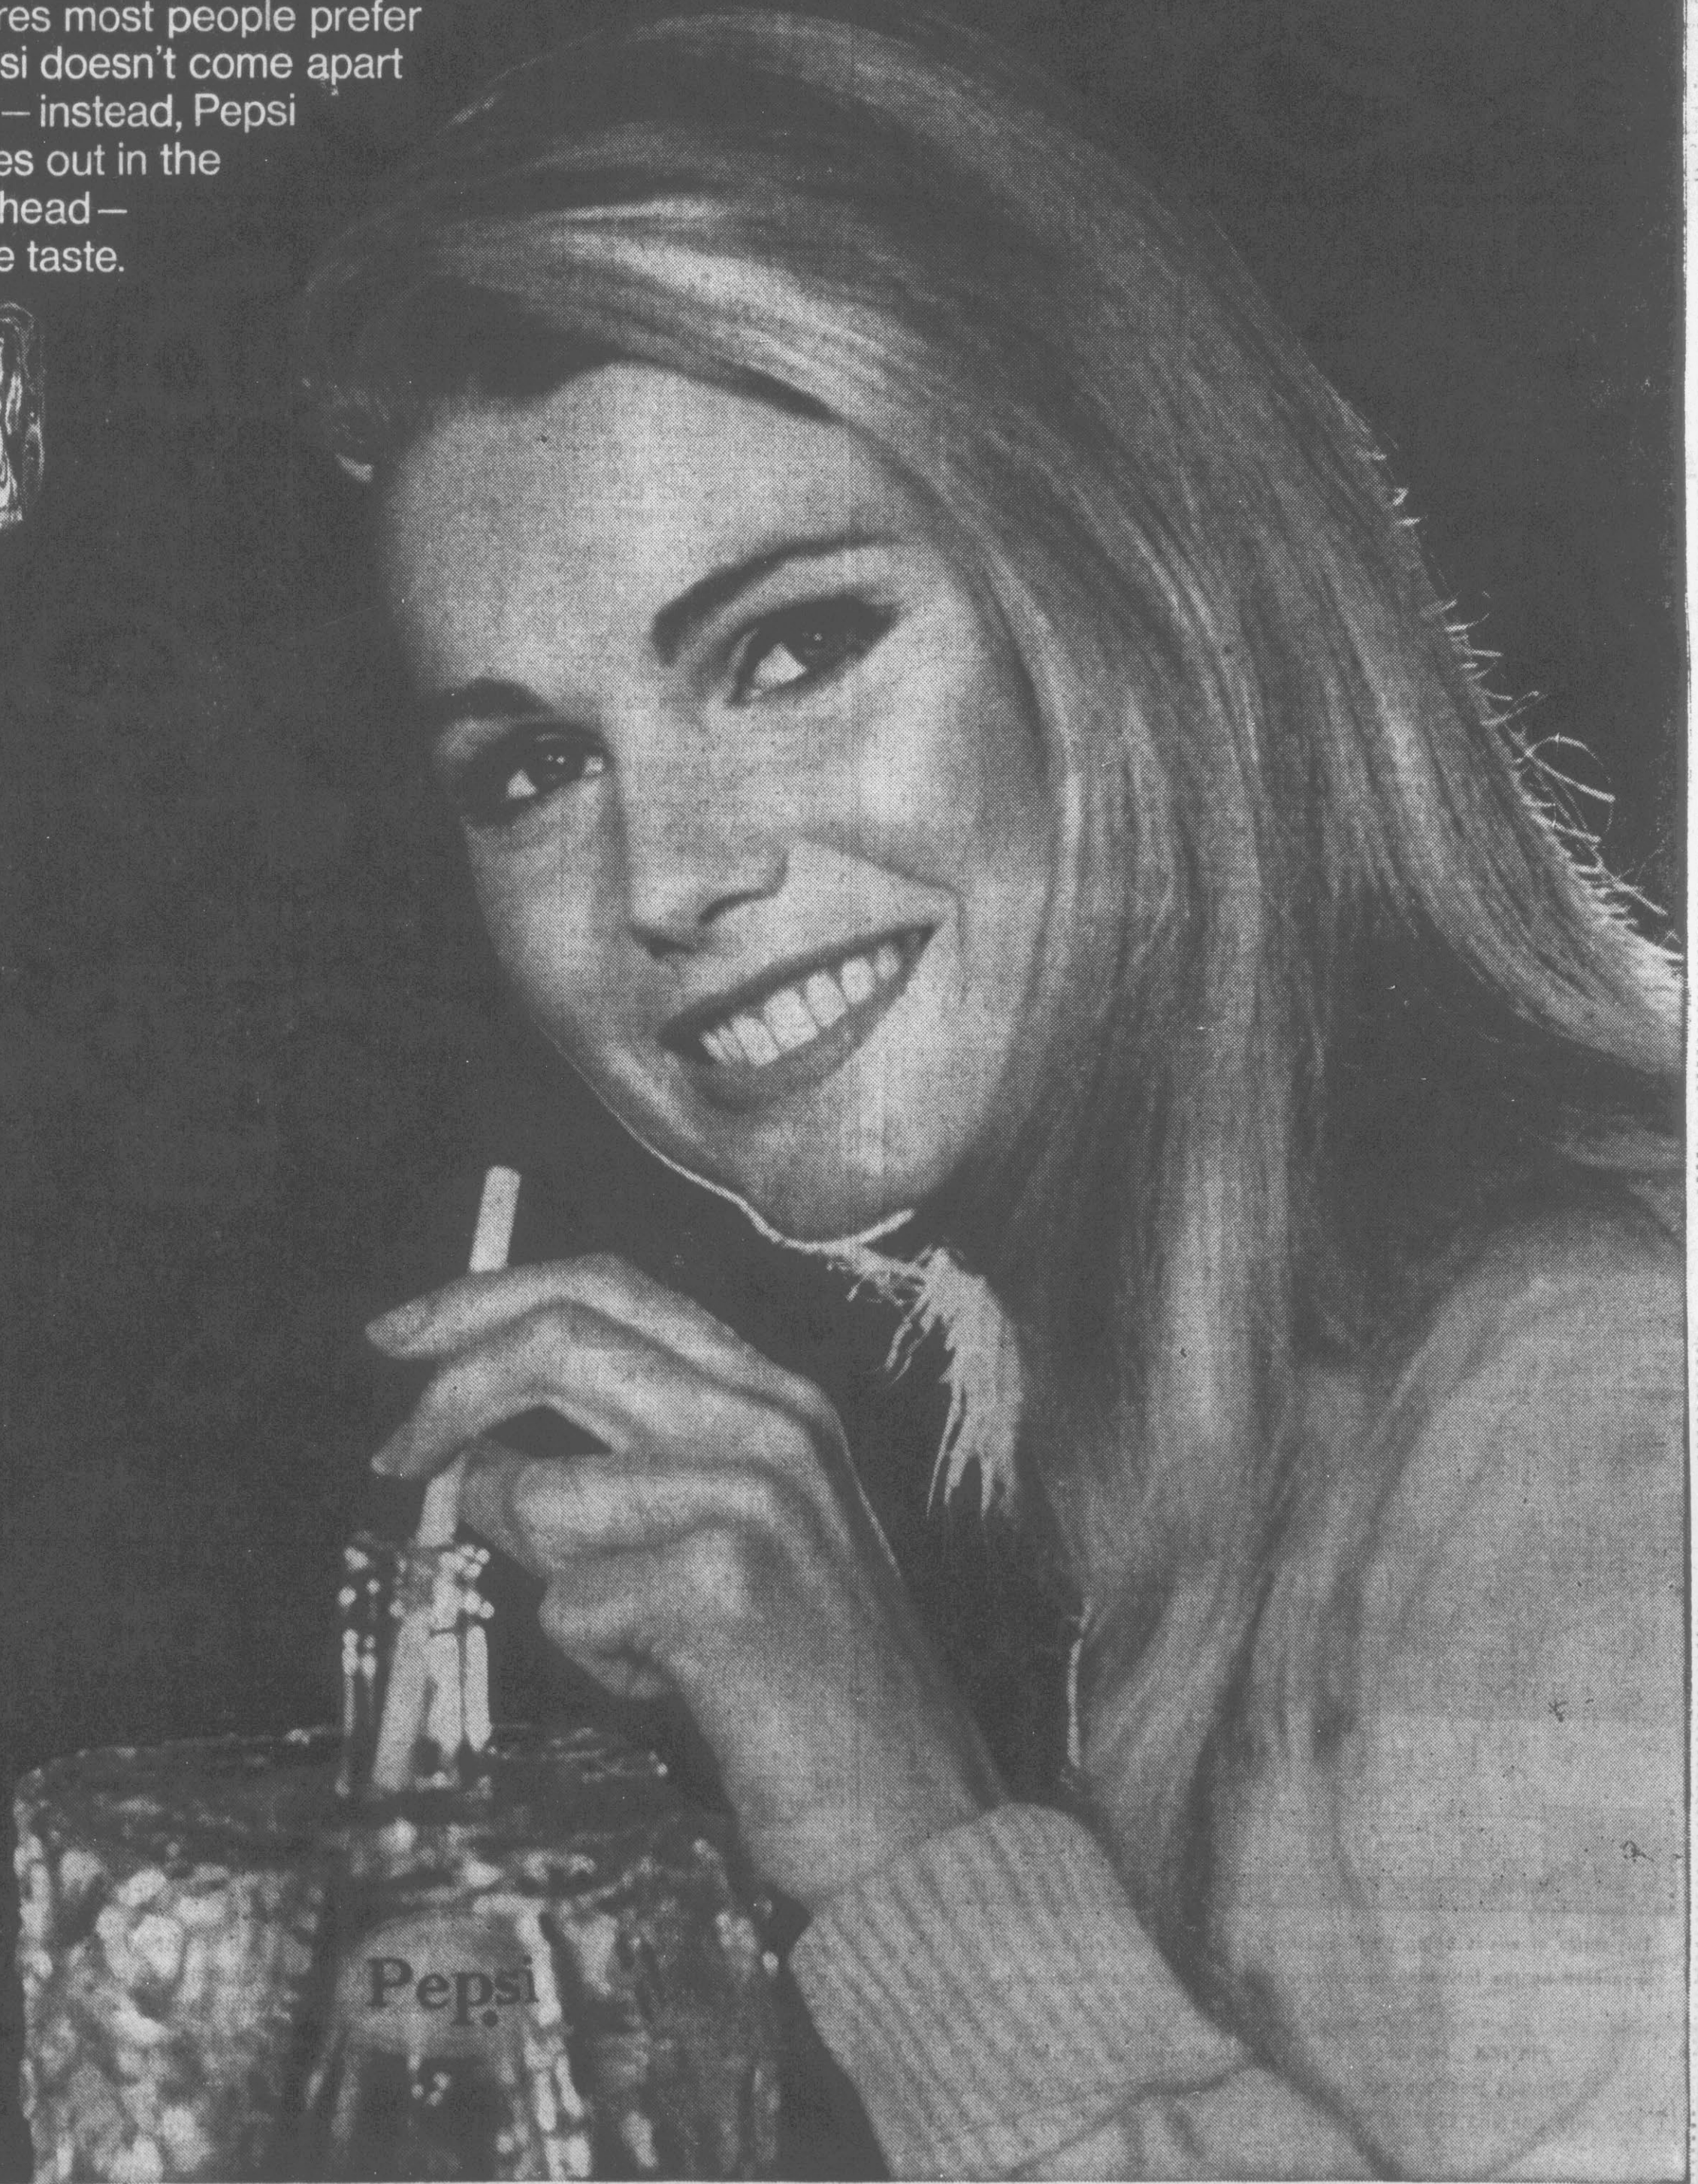

Little, a native of Rona o ke Rapids, is a veteran of three years service in the Army. He served part of this time in France. He is married to the former Pat Davis of Jackson (NC). They have two daughters, Patsy Ann, 7, and Betty Jean, 5. The Littles are members of the University Church of Christ, where he is an elder, a trustee, treasurer and teacher in the Sunday School.

Little is a member of the N.C. Recreation Service, the N.C. Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, and the National Recreation and Parks Association.

Death Penalty Target In 1969

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Legislative Council will make another attempt during the 1969 General Assembly to abolish the state's death penalty.

At a meeting here Thursday, the council—which is composed of 22 statewide church, social and civic organizations — also voted to push for a law to require the licensing and regulation of day care facilities for children and laws to protect consumers.

The council has failed in past attempts to get the legislature to abolish the death penalty, but says it appears to be getting closer to its goal.

"The death penalty is not an effective deterrent," a report to the council said, "because it ignores modern rehabilitation methods, punishes beyond remedy some who are later proven innocent and it is, in the final analysis, legalized killing."

The council said licensing of day care facilities is necessary to protect children and to insure that all centers meet minimum standards. It added that "where deplorable conditions exist, state law should provide the means for change."

The council said laws should be passed to regulate all lending and credit sales operations in order to protect the consumer from over-charges.

Charlotte Model Cities Program Asks $27 Million

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Charlotte Model Cities program has asked the federal government for almost $27 million to help rehabilitate people, in addition to a similar amount asked last week for urban renewal in six blighted inner-city areas. The one-year package of people programs asked Thursday would provide prepaid comprehensive medical and dental insurance and social and rehabilitative services in model neighborhoods. Funds also were asked to make public schools the centers of educational, cultural and recreational life in the areas, and to increase the "relevancy" of education in model neighborhood schools. Some of the funds would be used to give incomes to residents in exchange for agreements to participate in self-improvement programs.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market moved higher early this afternoon after a wobbly start. Trading was fairly active.

Gains outnumbered losses by more than 200 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street kept an eye cocked on the international monetary crisis, but having survived one last year when the British pound was devalued, the Street did not seem overly upset.

In fact, the gold mining stocks, which have shown strength recently when the currency jitters were at their worst, now slid back rather sharply in some cases from recent gains.

Meanwhile, there was selective improvement among key stocks, enough to push the averages into plus territory.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 359.9 with industrials up .8, rails off .2 and utilities up .8.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.24 at 968.37.

Students Seek Raise Sum To Save School

NEW LENOX, Ill. (AP) — Students at a Roman Catholic high school aren't allowing their school to be closed because of a financial deficit. They're wielding a new kind of "pupil power" to keep its doors open.

Under a banner "Save Our School," the 557 students at Providence High School near Joliet have intensified a fund-raising drive to help ease a $90,000 deficit in this year's budget. They are more than one-third of the way to their goal.

Officials of the Joliet Catholic diocese are considering selling the 6-year-old institution to the local public school system. The Rev. Niles Gillan, school superintendent for the diocese, said the 10 high schools in his jurisdiction are running near $570,000 in the red this year.

The students like the school and they are worried about its future. "There is a warm feeling here," said Jim Bakos, 17, senior class president.

"In some of these schools the faculty and students are on different levels," Bill Kennard, 17, student council president, said.

Death Upheld SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Supreme Court upheld today the death penalty for Richard Speck, who was convicted of murdering eight nurses in Chicago in 1966.

The court disagreed with lawyers for Speck that Speck could not get a fair trial in Peoria County.

The Illinois Supreme Court also disagreed with the defense attorneys' contention that a death penalty should not have been given because the prosecution questioned prospective jurors as to whether they were prejudiced for or against the death penalty.

The court set a new date of Jan. 31, 1969, for the electrocution of Speck, who will be 27 on Dec. 7.

Anti-Smoking Rule Is Upheld WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court has upheld a government rule requiring broadcasters to carry antismoking messages.

"In view of the volume of cigarette advertising, existing sources were inadequate to inform the public of the nature and extent of the danger," said the decision handed down Thursday by three judges in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The case was taken to court by broadcasters and cigarette makers challenging restrictions by the Federal Communication Commission.

Humphrey Edge In Maryland BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland voters gave Hubert H. Humphrey a 20,336 vote lead over Richard M. Nixon, according to recently completed official reports.

Totals finished Thursday from the 23 counties and Baltimore City were Humphrey 538,330, Nixon 517,994 and George C. Wallace 178,734.

Baltimore City, which boosted Humphrey over the top for the state's 10 electoral votes, favored him 178,450 to 80,146 over Nixon—a plurality of 98,304.

In the U.S. Senate race, the official returns showed the victor, Republican Charles McC. Mathias, with 537,807 votes. The defeated Democratic incumbent, Daniel B. Brewster, polled 441,889.
