

Winterville Group's Plea Failed School Site Purchase Is Approved By Pitt Board

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt Board of Education last night approved the purchase of 40 acres of land South of Greenville on N. C. 43 as a site for a consolidated high school.

The board's action came in spite of an appeal from a group of Winterville citizens requesting the proposed site for the new school be changed and a site adjacent to the present Winterville school property be purchased instead.

The site approved for purchase by the board last night is the Tyson property seven miles south of Greenville on N. C. 43. The purchase price for the land approved by the board totals about $48,000. About half of the site is cleared land while the remainder is wooded. On a price-per-acre basis, the board agreed to pay $1,800 per acre for the cleared property and $600 per acre for the wooded portion.

The school board has been attempting to purchase the property for about two years.

One site for a consolidated high school was purchased north of Greenville on N. C. 11 last year and working drawings and specifications for this project — dubbed the North Tar River High School — have been approved by the Board of Education. Bids for that school will be opened December 19.

About 15 Winterville citizens met with the education board in the court room in the court house annex to voice their opinion of the proposed Tyson site.

Howard Riggs told the board that the group was there to "propose" a site in Winterville for the new school and said keeping the school at Winterville would have advantages.

Riggs said if the school were built in Winterville, fire and police protection would be readily available as well as municipal water and sewer service.

Norman Worthington, who said, "I am pleading for Winterville . . ." continued, "We don't want to take anything away from Grimesland, Chicod or Black Jack . . . we want to do something for them."

Emphasizing the municipal services available, Worthington continued pointing out that banking facilities are also available in Winterville.

Representatives speaking for the 15-member delegation told the school board that a site of from 30 to 50 acres is available at competitive prices, adjacent to the present school site.

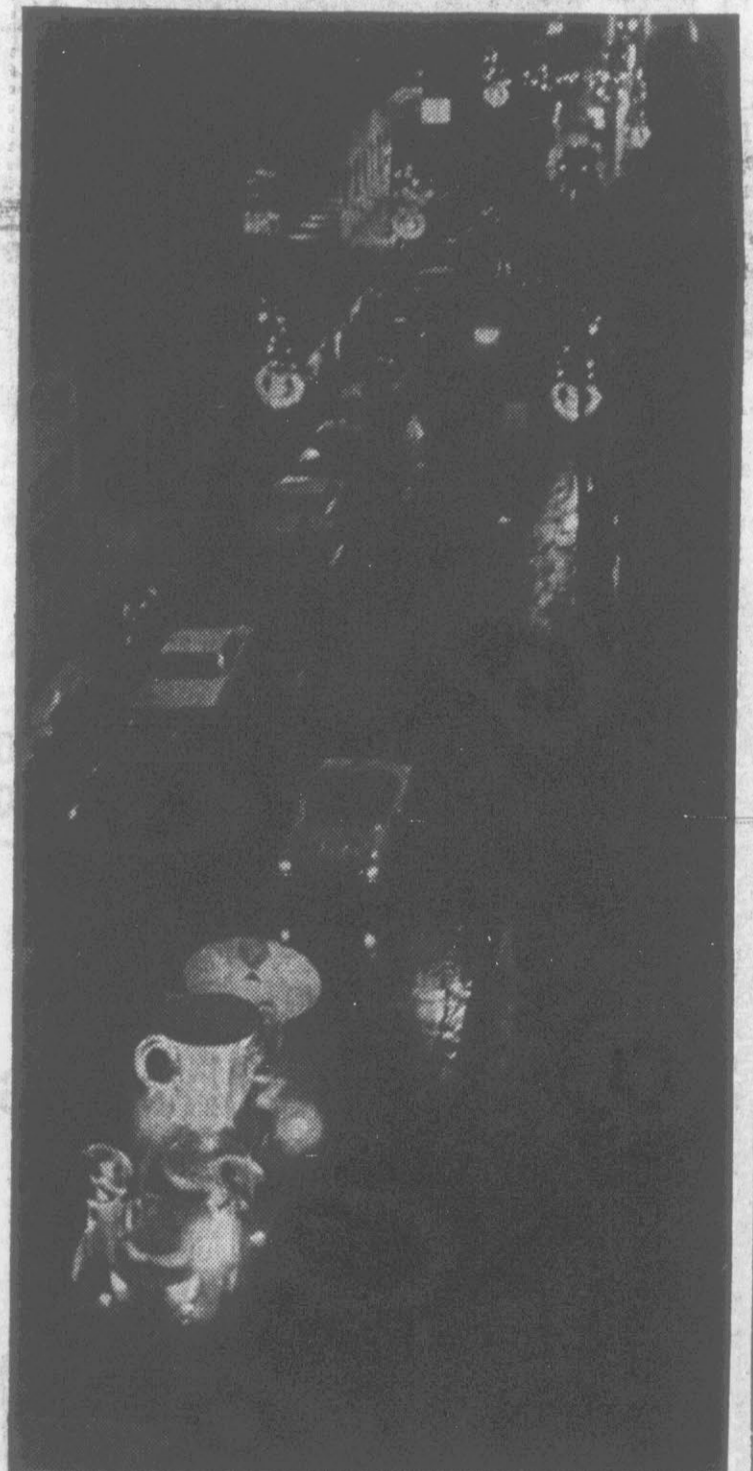

In other business, board members heard from two school staff members, Mrs. Myree Jolly and Mrs. Betty Levey, on their duties with the Pitt County Schools, and reviewed the audit report of county-wide school funds.

board outlined the scope of her activities, while Mrs. Jolly outlined Mrs. Levey, director of special education for the county lined her functions in psychological testing.

Wet And Chilly, But Large Turnout For Santa Parade

jolly gent.

There might have been some downcast parents, as they thought of all the colds which would develop from the poor weather. However, if any of them had thoughts of leaving they were quickly put out of their minds at the sight of their shiny-eyed kids.

A slow rain began falling almost as the parade started moving from Ninth and Cotanche Streets. And in 32 degree weather, even a slow rain can make things pretty miserable.

Hardly any of the thousands of persons along the parade route moved away, although the spectators packed under any shelter they could find along the way.

Perhaps the heroines of the day were all the pretty girls who stood and sat on the floats in the procession. Clothed in their finest dresses and topped off with elegant hair styles, they could undoubtedly feel themselves slowing disintegrating as the rains came down. They kept their positions, however, and smiled and waved to the kids along the route as the procession moved along.

The lucky ones in the parade were the lovely ladies who rode in autos. Even the convertible tops were up and the occupants were able to stay dry.

The Junior High Cheerleaders had a car, but they stayed on the hood, regardless of the rain. Their cheers were every bit as lusty at the end of Evans Street as they had been at the beginning of the parade.

Miss Greenville stood on the Jaycee float in a formal gown. She, too, kept her engaging smile until the very end and the only concession to the weather was a big umbrella over her head.

There were 60 units in the parade and it may have covered the route in record time. Santa Claus on the Chamber of Commerce Merchants Association

Wallacites Try To Keep Party Going

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a total lack of direction from George C. Wallace's headquarters, Wallace backers across the country are going to work to keep his third party movement alive.

Whether Wallace's 45 electoral votes and his 13 per cent of the popular vote will provide sufficient impetus for establishing a permanent American Independent Party remains to be seen. Third parties have a history of disintegrating after the presidential election for which they are formed.

But party workers in at least six states have already held post-election organization meetings, and similar gatherings are scheduled in eight more. There is talk in Arkansas, Indiana and elsewhere of running candidates in state and local elections under the banner of Wallace's American Independent, or a similarly named party, next year and again in 1970.

A paid coordinator for Wallace in this year's presidential campaign is establishing a national third-party mechanism in Los Angeles aimed at coordinating state and local activity by supporters of the former Alabama governor.

The coordinator, 27-year-old Robert Walters, said he flew to Alabama last month for two days of conferences with Wallace's closest advisers, and was told that there were no plans to establish a national organization in Montgomery, at least for five or six months.

Wallace himself has avoided the press and said little about his plans, but Bill Jones, one of Wallace's top strategists, agreed with Walters. "We're just fusing it out as fast as we can," said Jones of the Montgomery headquarters operation. "We have no plans whatsoever."

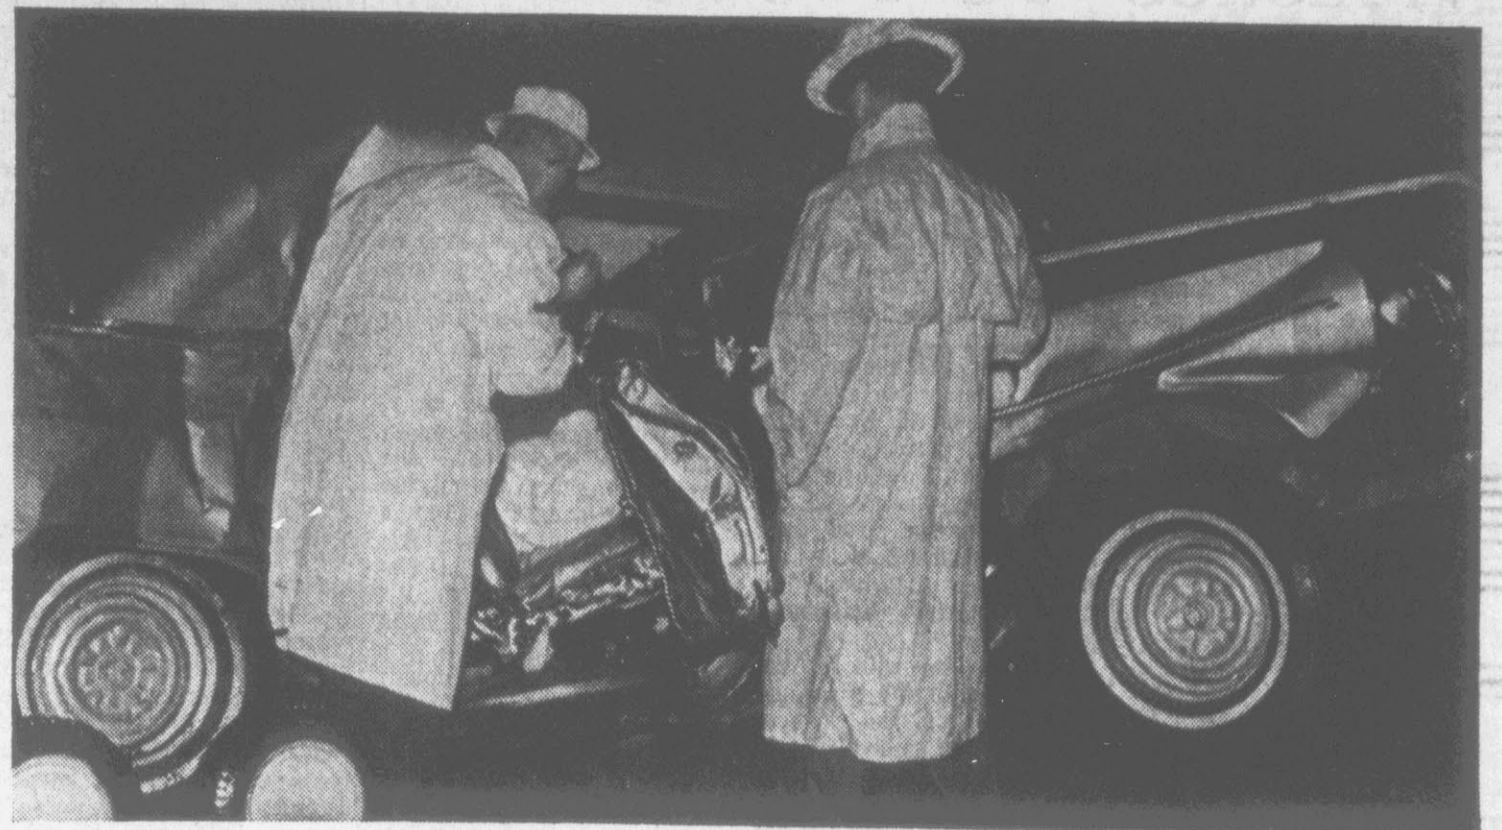

"Since Montgomery is not going to be taking an active leadership role nationally, "we're setting up an association of Wallace voters to set up coordination," said Walters in a telephone interview.

"We are attempting to hold the national organization together and strengthen it until such time as Montgomery reassumes national control. We're not feuding with Montgomery—we would welcome them back."

Walters said he and others in the Los Angeles group are scheduled to meet tomorrow with Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Wallace's running mate. "There is a good chance Lemay will be assisting us in this organization," he said.

The third party has tentatively scheduled a national meeting 11-12 to make plans—and possibly decide whether to call itself the American Independent Party or simply the American Party.

Glenn Parker, another paid coordinator of Wallace's 1968 campaign, will work fulltime with Walters in the new organization, which will have its headquarters in a five-office suite on Wilshire Boulevard.

Three Persons Die, Four Seriously Injured In Collision Near Grifton

Israeli Jets Raid Iraqi Gun Positions

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Iraqi artillery installations in Jordan today and one jet did not return from the 90-minute raid the Israeli Army announced.

It was the third Israeli air attack on Jordanian territory this week and the first in which any Israeli losses were reported.

The pilot of the French-made Super Mystere fighter-bomber parachuted into Jordan "But we managed to get him out," an Israeli spokesman reported.

He said the Iraqi artillery emplacements attacked were east and west of the Jordanian town of Irbid.

The air strike started at noon and the army said it ended at 1:30 p.m.

Radio Amman reported the Israeli planes raided the city of Al Mafrqa and two villages in the Irbid area, Taibeh and Samalla. The radio, quoting a Jordanian army spokesman, said antiaircraft batteries fired at the planes.

Air raid sirens wailed in Amman, Jordan's capital. Al Mafrqa, the site of a large air base, is 30 miles northeast of Amman and an equal distance southeast of Irbid.

Jordan's Cabinet announced cancellation of a party for ministers and deputies that had been scheduled for this evening.

The Israeli spokesman, in telling of the raids on the Iraqi artillery bases, said they had taken part recently in bombardments of Israel.

GRIFTON — Three persons were killed and four seriously injured when two cars collided on the rain-slick highway a mile north of here early last night.

Killed in the 7:30 p.m. crash were two Grifton youths, Charles Alexander Mewborn, 17, and Alton West, 13, both Negro, and 27-year-old Robert Hall Sawyer, of Kinston.

Both Mewborn and West, according to Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey, were passengers in a car driven by William Carol Dixon, 19-year-old Negro of Grifton.

Harvey and investigating patrolman W. L. Thames said Sawyer was traveling with his wife, Sonia King Sawyer, in the second car involved in the crash.

Trooper Thames said the Dixon car, headed north on N.C. 11, apparently ran off the shoulder of the roadway and began skidding as it was pulled back onto the highway. Skidding, it collided with the south-bound Sawyer car.

Americans Still Biggest Smokers

LONDON (AP) — Americans are still the world's heaviest smokers of cigarettes even though fear of lung cancer is keeping consumption below the 1963 level, the British Tobacco Industry Research Council said today.

The council said U. S. consumption averaged 3,860 cigarettes per adult last year. Canada was second with 3,450 and Britain third with 2,830, even though the Briton pays the equivalent of 73 cents for a standard pack of 20.

Mrs. Sawyer, Dixon, and two passengers in the Dixon auto were hospitalized with injuries suffered in the collision.

Both vehicles were demolished by the impact.

Coroner Harvey, who said officers have still been unable to determine whether Mr. or Mrs.

Sawyer was driving their car, said investigation of the three-fatality mishap is continuing.

Last night's deaths bring Pitt County's 1968 traffic fatality record to 25. Prior to last night, 22 persons had been killed in traffic mishaps on the county's streets and highways.

S. Vietnamese Delegation In Paris Saturday

By DAVID MASON

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today that the South Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks will be in the French capital on Saturday.

Thieu told newsmen meetings will be held in Paris next week to deal with the complex procedural questions prior to the opening of full-scale peace talks.

Asked how long he thought the talks would last, he said he could not guess.

"One cannot predict if the enemy will have good will," he added.

Thieu said in response to another question he thought there were no immediate prospects for a cease-fire.

"This could come about after a certain time," he said, "but it is very complicated and involves many procedural problems."

Government sources have said that the South Vietnamese delegation will make its first order of business an effort to de-escalate the war and the accompanying terrorism.

The president denied suggestions that his delegation would delay getting down to substantive talks until after the inauguration Jan. 20 of Richard M. Nixon. Some South Vietnamese officials believe that Nixon can be counted on more than President Johnson to hold out for a settlement favorable to the Saigon regime.

Thieu said it is "completely false" that he is waiting for Nixon to take office.

"We are at war and we must stop the war," he said. "We cannot wait for anybody."

In Bangkok, official sources said there was a split within the allied camp over what sort of negotiated peace settlement should come out of the Paris peace talks.

Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman told newsmen Thailand supports the South Vietnamese contention that Hanoi is attempting to gain at Paris the victory it could not win on the battlefield.

Thanat said: "In the United States there are many people who are tired of the war and there are leftists who wish to support the Communists and help them win the war."

He said Thailand and other free Asian countries would not let the Communists win at the negotiating table.

Gold Price Saw Temporary Surge

LONDON (AP) —The price of an ounce of gold jumped 50 cents in London today but dropped back in afternoon trading while the price in Paris maintained a steady increase.

The French franc strengthened to its highest level since the strike and demonstration turmoil in France last spring.

The gold price on London's free market rose to $40.775 an ounce, up 50 cents from Tuesday. Then in the afternoon it fell back to $40.50.

Grifton's Paraders Brave The Rain, Too

GRIFTON—The appearance of Santa Claus highlighted the Christmas parade here yesterday afternoon for hundreds of children and adults who braved a winter rain to view the annual event.

Santa was accompanied in the parade by eight floats and three bands as well as other units.

The bands taking part yesterday included the North Lenoir High School Band, Savannah High School Band and Grainger High School Band.

Queens from Grifton High, North Lenoir High, Grainger High and Ayden High Schools rode in the parade. The Sudan Motor Patrol from Kinston also performed.

The Grifton Future Homemakers of America float was named first place winner, while the First Baptist Church of Grifton received second place honors. First prize winners received $50 while the second place winner was given $35.

The Lions Club entry, a sleigh pulled by a team of prancing horses, was presented $25 for receiving third place honors.

Others winners in the parade included: Vickie Gaskins, $5 in the pet division; Glenn Tucker, Van Tucker and Ronnie Holton, $5, unicycle riders.

Other entries in the parade included the East Carolina University Color Guard, the ECU

Angel Flight Drill Team and the ECU Drill Team, as well as Girl Scout Troop No. 26, Cub Scout Troop No. 24, Brownie Troop No. 36, ponies, new cars, and bicycle acts.

The parade was sponsored by the Grifton Chamber of Commerce.

WINNING FLOAT . . . The Grifton Future Homemakers of America's float received first place honors in yesterday's annual Christmas parade. Second place winner was the float entered by the First Baptist Church of Grifton and third place honors were taken by the Lions Club entry.

Julie Harris Has Seen GWTW 15 Times And She Whistles To Prove It

By REBECCA MOREHOUSE

NEW YORK (WNS)—Julie Harris can whistle "Dixie." Really she can. Precisely on key.

Though her versatility is a verifiable fact, the demonstration was somehow surprising. It took place at a restaurant near the hall where she is rehearsing "Forty Carats," which David Merrick, in a rare Santa Claus mood, will present to Broadway on Christmas night.

"Mr. Merrick called me in California about it last winter," she said. "I had wanted to do the Tennessee Williams play, 'The Seven Descents of Myrtle' (an interesting failure produced by Merrick). But he didn't think I was right for it and he offered me this and I liked it.

"Tennessee is a great poet and a great spirit—he always just bares himself. I loved that play when I read it and I still do, but it was produced and staged in a very old-fashioned way."

Paris Hit
In her laudable fashion, Miss Harris is funneling everything she has into "Forty Carats," a hit Paris comedy by Pierre Barillet and Jean Pierre Gredy, who wrote "Cactus Flower." Jay Allen did the adaptation and Abe Burrows is directing. Glenda Farrell and Murray Hamilton are other members of the cast.

"It's hard to talk about the play without giving away its surprises," she said, "but it's about parallel love affairs."

At this point a woman got up from a nearby table walked over to the actress and said, "You're so much prettier than you are on the screen. Yes, you are." And she is.

Partly, it is the quick play of emotion in her face that makes her so attractive as she talks. Partly, it's the coloring, the pink tone of the face, the lively blue eyes and bright auburn hair, swirling around her shoulders.

Flowers Show Women's Touch

GREENOCK, Scotland (WNS)—In connection with the nation's garden scheme, Gateside Prison was allowed to hold "Open Day" so that outsiders could come inside and admire its flowers. "We have about seventy prisoners, and most of them are women," reported the warden. "Perhaps that is why we have a beautiful flower garden while other prisons go in mainly for vegetables." He added that visitors did not see prisoners "so as to avoid embarrassment for our ladies."

reads "Julie and her two brothers became moving picture addicts early in childhood; she saw 'Gone With the Wind' thirteen times." I asked if that was true and her face lit up like 50,000 watts.

"Oh, yes, and I saw it twice last year. I'd see it every day if I could spare the four hours. I just adore it, it's so beautiful and moving. I don't think we've ever had color to equal it. Everybody in it was so perfect, even the smallest part. Do you remember the boy who played the flute? (Here she threw back her head and whistled the first 12 bars of "Dixie," her fingers playing imaginary keys.)

"I'm in love with all the romance, with the men and their ladies and their love of honor. It's the ambivalence in the South that is so curious. Recently I read Nicholas and Alexandra and that's another period I love, those Russian palaces, all mauve and velvet and smelling of lilacs in the dead of winter."

As she said a few years ago, "I like life to have glory."

Saints and Sinners
Stage, movie and TV audiences have come to expect the ultimate of this towering talent in a small, lean body. She can act a radiant Saint Joan, as she did in "The Lark," or an impressive, amoral Sally Bowles, as she did in "I Am a Camera." And she can sing, did sing, in the musical "Skyscraper."

"I thought I would probably just shrivel on opening night when it came time to sing. But I felt so good and happy."

The play that put her on top was "The Member of the Wedding" by the late Carson McCullers. She was eager, yearning 12-year-old Frankie Adams.

"It was a memorable play, with great, original language. I don't think I'll ever have language like that again. I adored Carson McCullers, though I didn't get to know her well. I felt so insignificant beside her, not that she made me feel that way. She was very warm and perceptive.

"I went to see her just before she died (last year, at 50). Here she was, an absolute invalid, but with this mind that was burning and so alive. I finally have to have my leg taken off," she said, and there was no self-pity. She died before it was done."

Miss Harris lives intensely in the theater and in her mind; otherwise, she leads a quiet, unpublicized life. Two years ago she was divorced from her second husband, Manning Gurian. Their 13-year-old son, Peter, is at school at Lake Placid.

"I've sold my house here," she said. "With Peter away, I didn't need all that room and it was expensive—the taxes are going up all the time. I've bought a little house, with a white picket fence and a gate, at Dobbs Ferry, on the Hudson. It's something I've wanted for a long time."

She has no cook, no maid: "It doesn't bother me to live alone."

Julie Harris was born into a well-to-do family in Grosse Pointe, Mich. Early determined "to be an actress or bust," she studied drama in Colorado and at the fashionable Manhattan school, Miss Hewitt's Classes.

"Miss Hewitt was so proud when I got a walk-on part with the Old Vic (the English company then playing in New York). One day she said she wanted me to introduce her to Laurence Olivier. Every time he walked by I would tremble so I said, 'Miss Hewitt, please don't make me do that.'"

"But she insisted and I knocked on his dressing room door and he came out and was very nice and friendly. He's a very intelligent and witty man. Miss Hewitt told him how much she had admired his Romeo and I still remember what he said: 'You must be the loneliest woman in New York.'"

Girls' Outlook About Boys

MUNICH, Germany (WNS)—What do little girls think of boys? Gertrude Schweiber, a teacher of 8 to 12 year olds, has kept a record of student comments by girls. Among her favorites: "Boys never take care of their things. They wear out everything except soap." "If I had my way, the world would be mostly girls. The rest would be dolls." "I love my papa. He is so nice that I think that I think he must be a girl underneath." "God made Adam and then thought, 'I can do better than that.' So he made a girl."

Shoppers' Age Affects Attitudes Toward Shopping

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even supermarkets suffer from the generation gap.

A food chain executive told the annual Newspaper Food Editors Conference here that a shopper's age affects her attitudes toward shopping and the food industry in general. Clarence Adams, president of the National Association of Food Chains, said women in their late thirties and up learned to cope with the self-service and supermarket system because they grew up with it.

Adams added that younger women are much more antagonistic to and complain more about the system and the food industry because they apparently feel strained, troubled, scared and almost totally unprepared to cope with the relative impersonality of supermarkets and convenience foods.

Adams believes that the tremendous influx of married women into the work force in recent years may be traced partly to the absence of performance measurement in the home. He added that gadgets and conveniences in the house don't give today's homemakers a sense of accomplishment. He also said that younger women get no training for supermarket shopping either in their homes where this was left to their mothers, or in school.

To Become Humanized
The food chain executive forecast re-humanization of supermarkets through increasing use of computers and optical scanners which will free store personnel for "eyeball-to-eyeball" customer service in answering questions and making suggestions about meals and planning and shopping.

Other developments on the food-front: Alan T. Rains, executive vice president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, said experiments now underway with electronic instruments may eventually take the guesswork out of choosing ripe fruit by culling out immature or poor quality produce before it reaches retail markets.

"Fantasy cooking" draws criticism from Dr. Ashley Montagu, social biologist and anthropologist. Montagu described food photographs in magazine advertisements as "works of very considerable art" that "represent consummations devoutly to be wished" but "are no more attainable for most women than the paintings of Pisanello, Picasso or Mary Cassatt."

He added that such "unrealizable models" give women an undeserved sense of inferiority and men a false notion of what they may expect of the woman who is in fact most of the time required to be a short-order cook rather than the fantastic chef he is led to believe his spouse could be.

New Products

New products introduced at the food editors' conference include a clear film overwrap for frozen food that permits the produce to go directly from freezer to oven without unwrapping or defrosting. Its first application—a turkey and stuffing product to be introduced in markets in the northeast early in 1969. A 5-pound turkey half, bone in, is packed with 2½ pounds of stuffing in a disposable aluminum pan. It is said to roast in 3½ hours without basting. The plastic overwrap need only be pierced with a fork after two minutes in the oven.

The 3M Company, which manufactures the film, said its other uses are expected to include wrappings for seafood, red meats, prepared foods, pastries and fast food products for takeout service.

Other new products, some in test markets, some in regional and some in national distribution, include: frozen corn on the cob; wheat germ bread; multi-purpose beef flavor mushroom mix for making dips, gravy, soup and flavoring casseroles, stews and main dish pies; a main dish mix that combines noodles with ham and cheddar cheese sauce; canned pumpkin pie mix to which only eggs need be added; instant flavored oatmeal—one with raisins and spice, the other, apples and cinnamon; and a line of jar-packed toddler meals in grown-up varieties, including beef lasagna, spaghetti and meat balls, and vegetable and turkey casserole.

Honeymoon Delayed By A Hospital

FERRARA, Italy (WNS)—Massimo Calabrese and Maria Pia Vannini agreed to go to the hospital after a driving accident only if they would be granted a one-hour leave after they were bandaged. During the hour they hurried to the church to be married and then returned to a hospital suite. "This delays the honeymoon plans, but what a story we now have to tell our grandchildren," said the bride.

Seek The Aid Of A Lawyer If Have No Written Agreement

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I quit my job as an aid in a hospital to go home with a 90-year-old man who wasn't supposed to live much longer. He has one old maid sister who is his only living relative, and she is 88.

This old man has a lot of money, and I was told by his sister that if I went home from the hospital with him and stayed there until he died, I would get $5,000 in cash, and he would leave his house to me.

Well, this old man's health seems to be getting better all the time, but I don't feel so good lately. I am a poor old lady 63 years of age and I quit my hospital job to come here to work for room and board and $20 a week. Now his sister tells me if I don't feel up to working, they will replace me with a male nurse. What about the promises?

MYRTLE

DEAR MYRTLE: If you have nothing in writing, you need a lawyer. If you can't afford one, seek help at your local Legal Aid society.

DEAR ABBY: I have an age old problem. An unfaithful husband. I've long suspected that he and the woman he has been transporting to and from work were more than "friends," so I started to watch him more closely. I followed him one night when he said he was going to visit his mother, and he went to her place.

We had a showdown and they confessed they were "in love." I threatened to tell their employer if they didn't stop seeing each other. They promised they would, but I think they're lying.

I am 42, have three children and I doubt if I can just "forgive and forget." Besides, I haven't worked in 16 years and he represents security to me.

I'll never be able to trust him again, and I'm sick of putting up a front for our friends. Should I divorce him and start over again at his age?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Confusion is a temporary state, divorce a permanent one. I wouldn't advise anyone to make a permanent move while in a temporary state. Evaluate this situation with your husband when you both have your wits about you and are less emotional and more objective. You can always divorce him. What's the hurry?

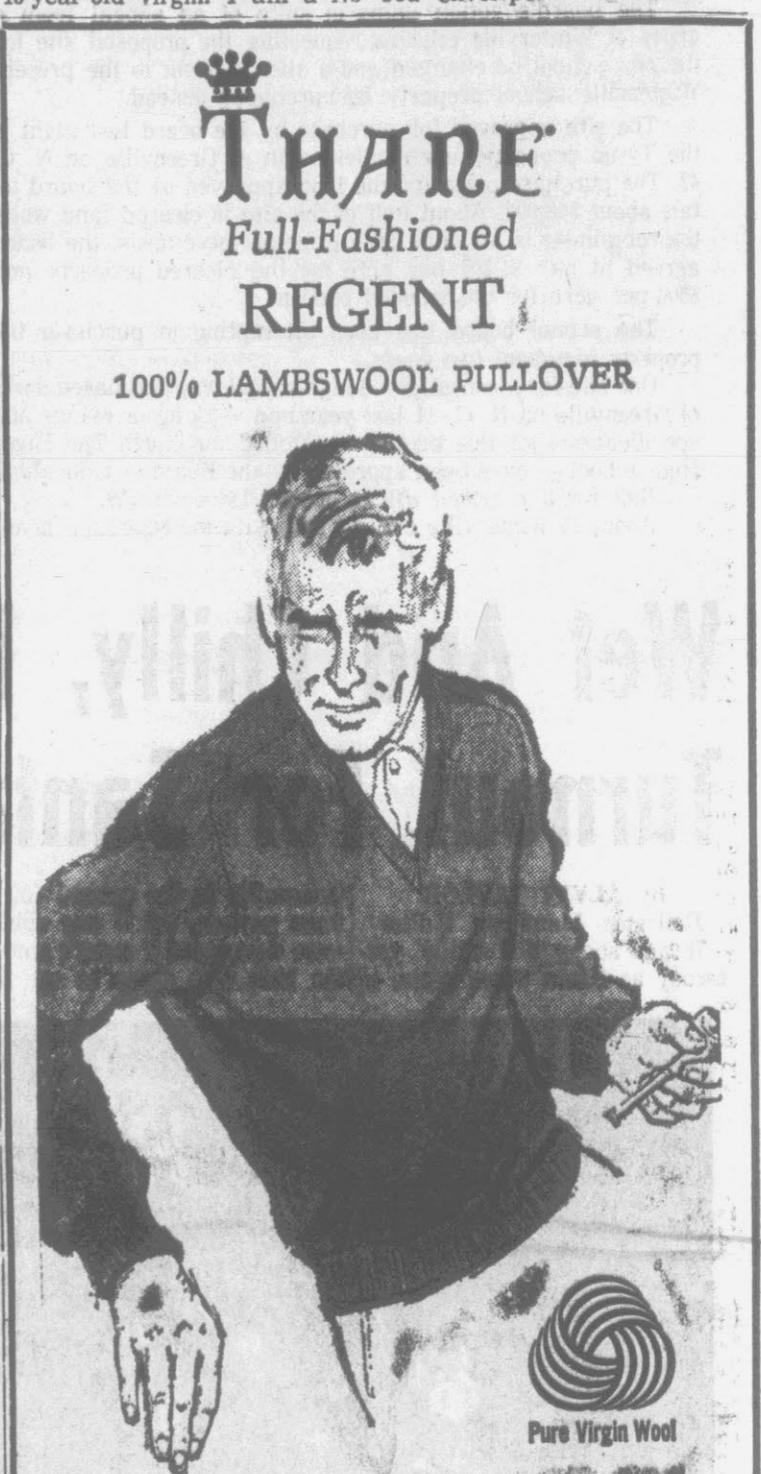

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who is tired of the bachelor life, all my friends are married and I would sincerely like to find a wife. I have a lot of grandchildren, said the bride.

Cinderfella Rents For Black Tie Nights

By ARLEEN ABRAHAM, Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Black and white tuxedos, staples of the formalwear rental industry, are going the way of the black and white TV set... they're still around and they still command a lion's share of the market, but more and more customers in the know are asking for "color, please."

Ten years ago color, even a pastel, was considered revolutionary. Now color is accepted everywhere. But the revolution departs from the traditional monkey suit, such as the Nehrus, have met with limited acceptance.

Harvey Weinstein of Lord West, Inc., one of the two largest manufacturers of men's formalwear explained: "Ten years ago the singlebreasted black satin tuxedo suit with a shawl lapel accounted for 99 per cent of all rentals. In summer, the white dinner jacket was the pacesetter. Today, pastels are everywhere and in winter although most men do ask for the black tuxedo suit they specify any number of variations... clover leaf, notched and edged lapels and center vented, side vented and even no vented jackets."

But Weinstein believes that the fashion accent, slight as it is, is the first ripple in the tidal wave that will ultimately engulf the men's formalwear rental industry.

"There are no provinces anymore," he says. "TV and mass exposure to instant fashion have changed all that. Why progressive rentalwear stores in—Iowa, particularly in suburban centers, are just as quick to recognize and order new variations as firms in New York."

Bernard Toll, vice president of After-Six, Inc., Lord-West's major competitor isn't as optimistic. Although Toll is pleased that because of the many colors and many styles, the man who rents a formal outfit "can have a style almost all his own," he bemoans the fact that more men refuse to take advantage of the multi-fashion look. Resignedly Toll commented that "the purpose of our business is to give men happy moments," and apparently the conservative male is still happiest when he conforms.

A lawyer, who attends three or four formals a month, typifies the problem. He would like to wear a Nehru, or a gold lame suit—but as he put it, "Would you bank with someone who wore a turtleneck sweater in the office? How can I go out at night in a conservative community wearing a Nehru and expect to keep all my clients in the morning?"

Meanwhile, to cater to the "Peacock", the man who dares to stand out from his contemporaries, the larger rentalwear stores are carrying a wide variety of styles. The more the merrier and the monier seems to be their attitude. Although the small rental store who can't afford to carry a constantly changing line of menswear is adversely affected and may even be driven out of business by rapidly changing styles, the larger shops feel any new lines stimulate business.

"True, prices will skyrocket," commented Melvin Stearn, one of the owners of Herman's in New York.

"But on the other hand a man who delights in sarjorial splendor, the man who customarily buys his formalwear, would be afraid to invest in a new fashion item that might be outmoded by the time he gets home from the party."

Tomatoes include more vitamins than most other fruits. They take on another role to help produce a silky lotion for the hands. Mix equal parts of the juice of a ripe tomato, lemon juice and glycerine. Gently massage into the hands with a washing movement.

Bridge Winners Are Announced

The Faculty Duplicate Club held its regular game Friday evening at the Planters Bank.

Mrs. S. M. Woolfolk and Mrs. F. W. A. Mills placed first; Mrs. J. S. Willard and Mrs. Harold Forbes, second; Mrs. Betsy Warren and Miss Emma B. Warren, third; Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Rogers tied for fourth with Mrs. L. D. Harris and Mrs. Y. P. Winstead.

The monthly master point game will be held next Friday, and on Saturday, Dec. 6, the Area II Winners Game at 1:30. An open Pair Club Championship is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, Dec. 14. All these games are at the Planters Bank.

North Carolina's pace of implementing recommendations of the Governor's Study Commission on Public Schools will be limited only by its willingness to provide the financing for those programs. The study which has been a year in the making includes 172 specific recommendations for changing and improving the public school system in North Carolina. The commission, in its report, declared it would take at least $300 million in additional school funds during the next biennium to implement its recommendations, and considerably more than that during the ensuing years.

It is carefully pointed out in the report that the report that the additional funds required to finance the improvements recommended for the school system should not all come from the state government. The funds, as envisioned by the commission, would come from state, federal and local sources. One of the key recommendations upon which ultimate implementation of other recommendations will depend, is that local governments in North Carolina assume considerably more responsibility for financing the public school program.

There are few parts of the report and recommendations with which to find fault. Certainly many of the recommendations are subject to question and further study before they are implemented. Yet they cover a broad range of things which would update and improve the public schools of North Carolina. Some of the recommendations would make basic changes in the operation of the public schools and in the teaching concepts. Others would alter the political structure in which the public schools now function. It must be expected that these changes will be met with opposition before they are ever adopted. Certainly they deserve further study as do all the others.

In general terms, the report and its recommendations point the way for North Carolina to bring about in its public schools the kind of improvements most people would like to see. When those proposed improvements are weighted against the additional cost in taxes, however, they will not be as readily embraced by the people of the state as they are in principle.

The study and its recommendations point up many of the things which are needed in the public schools of this state. They also point up the fact that these things will be costly to provide, and a large part of that additional cost must be borne by North Carolinians through additional taxes at the state and local levels.

If the citizens of the state are not willing to accept this latter recommendation, they have little hope of seeing the other recommendations for school improvement being implemented.

Volunteers Aid Industry Hunts

rural areas of North Carolina. The mission included representatives of 17 of the state's rural counties.

Equal Treatment
Rep. Nick Gallifianakis feels equal treatment should be accorded rural landowners whose land is being condemned for public purposes and those affected by urban redevelopment.

Specifically, the Fourth District Democrat points to complaints by landowners in the area of the proposed New Hope reservoir in Chatham County that they are expected to bear costs of legal aid in land condemnation proceedings. On the other hand, when urban renewal cases are taken to court the government agency involved is required to assume cost of counsel for the landowner.

Gallifianakis termed this "unfair." He told a group of Chatham landowners at Pittsboro he will attempt to get a change in present real estate procedures in the New Hope dam area.

"I inherited problems of the New Hope project, but I will seek to determine from the Corps of Engineers officials that procedures used by government land appraisers are equitable." He added that he would also make an evaluation of relocation policy.

The Durham lawmaker "inherited" Chatham County under a redistricting that planned Chatham and Durham counties in the same district. Earlier, Chatham was represented by Rep. James C. Gardner who, after redistricting, became the Republican nominee for governor.

Schools Report
The state's public schools study commission says the times demand greater effort in public education and that this presents a mighty challenge.

To meet the challenge, the commission recommends organizing the school system for efficiency, giving it adequate financial support and staffing it with competent, dedicated people.

The study commission was unable to put a definite price tag on the broad program of improvement it outlined. But it pointed out that average annual salaries of teachers are $1,000 less than the national level and that many are understaffed and some wholly without personnel for special pupil services health and guidance, or aides to assist teachers.

Years Of Achievement For Sam Winchester

During the 18 years he has served as chairman of the Pitt County Extension Service office, Sam Winchester has made a significant contribution to agriculture in one of the leading agricultural counties in this state.

Although tobacco was the chief crop in Pitt County then as it is now, farming in Pitt County has greatly diversified during the period, in no small measure due to the urging and to the effort of Sam Winchester. Where the county had only one crop — tobacco — which brought farmers more than a million dollars in 1946, there were some nine farm commodities which last year accounted for more than a million dollars in farm income in this county.

Sam Winchester, of course, would be the last to claim any credit for the improved agricultural situation which exists in Pitt County today. Yet in his quiet, unassuming way, he has provided the agricultural interests of Pitt strong, positive leadership during the past 18 years. The results of that quality leadership are evident on every hand in the diversified, progressive agricultural economy of Pitt County.

Guessing Game Still Prevails

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, whose credo has sometimes seemed to be "keep 'em guessing," doesn't appear to be changing his ways in the final days of his administration.

Johnson watchers, conditioned by some pretty staggering surprises in the past five years, are busy trying to figure out just what—if anything—the chief executive is planning for a White House swan song.

And Johnson aides, showing a little of the same conditioning, have appeared to adopt the policy of not ruling anything out.

That was the position taken Monday by the State Department on the No. 1 item in the guessing game—whether Johnson still hopes to have a summit session with Soviet leaders on curbing the missile race.

"There has never been a time or place or the level agreed upon," said press officer Robert J. McCloskey.

McCloskey had been asked about comments Secretary of State Dean Rusk made Sunday on television that seemed to imply the possibility a summit session was very much alive. Rusk had said there were no plans now for such a meeting, but that phrase again—he didn't want to "rule it out."

"The secretary expressed the theoretical possibility such a meeting might take place. But he did not intend to imply any planning was taking place," said McCloskey—in a "clarifying" statement that didn't do much cool off the guessing.

He also said that Soviet Pre-

Strength For Today

MUSIC INSPIRES NOBLE DEEDS

Music has played a great part in the life of every nation. The French Revolution was born amid the spirited singing of the Marseillaise. Napoleon on one occasion was unable to get his baggage trains over the Alps; he called for the bandmaster who stuck up a spirited tune, and the impossible was soon achieved.

We see this primary emphasis upon music in the Bible. The Book of Psalms is a marvelous collection of poetry. If we could be transported back to the days when priests and Levites on the one hand and great multitudes of worshippers on the other hand and chanted antiphonally, we would understand better the nature and meaning of some of these great literary and musical masterpieces. We read that on the last night of his earthly ministry our Lord joined with his disciples in the singing of a song before he went out into the Mount of Olives. We are practically certain that this song was a collection of psalms.

The old hymns have been comforting the souls of men and women through the ages. Many people scoff at what they claim is their lack of musical value. Certainly we should improve the musical standards of our churches, but we should not attempt to tell people what music is good for their souls and what music is bad. That music is good for people which is good for the souls of those who sing it.

Business Gets Involved

There was a time, and it wasn't so long ago, when business organizations existed for two purposes only. The first of these was to stage an annual convention devoted almost entirely to the pleasures of booze and the frustrations of golf. The second was to lobby against.

It is hard to recall a significant occasion, in this bygone period, when a manufacturers' group, trade association, or chamber of commerce ever lobbied for. They were always against — against a tax increase to improve local streets, against one-way flow, against programs to relieve air and water pollution. It was one prolonged howl of "no!"

One of the most gratifying aspects of the American scene today is the extent to which this picture has changed. Omaha's Mayor A. V. Sorenson summed it up recently when he remarked, in an exuberant moment, that "when the private business sector becomes involved, great things begin to happen."

Mayor Sorenson was speaking especially of Omaha's Youth Employment Service, a program launched by the local Chamber of Commerce in the summer of 1967 and expanded in the summer of 1968. The object is to find summer jobs for young people. It is working to the tune of 5,000 employment opportunities each season.

Omaha's outstanding program was one of a dozen cited last week by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as typical of the new sense of involvement by business leaders throughout the United States. Instead of the old perfunctory checks to a local charity, new ventures in community leadership are attracting top management.

In Buffalo, businessmen are up to their ears in an Opportunities Development Corporation, a Project JET (Jobs, Education, Training) and a Project JUSTICE (Journeymen Under Specific Training in Construction Employment). There also is a Project JOIT (Job Opportunities Through Transportation), which involves bussing minority workers from Buffalo's East Side to wherever the jobs are. In Buffalo, the principal emphasis is upon jobs for male heads of families in hard-core situations. Project JET alone has placed 1,200 such men, of whom

Other Editors Say Nielson's Budget Ideas

(The Raleigh Times)
State Senator Geraldine Nielson of Forsyth, the Republican who irritated Democrats on occasion in 1967 by coming up with some very sensible ideas, is off and running even before the 1969 General Assembly meets.

She has suggested that the all-powerful Appropriations Committee be broken up into eight to 10 subcommittees, instead of the one super — and secret — subcommittee of past sessions. This idea has a great deal of merit, and it will be interesting to see how the Democrats field it.

Senator Nielson outlined her idea: "Membership of each subcommittee would include members of corresponding House and Senate committees. For example, several members from the Education Committees would serve on the Education Subcommittee of the Joint Appropriations Committee. These members would work on the financing of measures which they would also work on under their other legislative assignments."

The Advisory Budget Commission's recommendation, she suggested, could be assigned to the subcommittee.

Slow-Down After First Of Year

By ELMER ROESSNER
A large number of economists and analysts are swinging over to the belief that anti-inflation measures will begin to take effect after the first of the year and that business will slow down.

Their reasons are these: After the Christmas spurge of spending, many families will realize, as the bills come in, that the surtax, rising prices and, in many areas, higher sales taxes have slashed their purchasing power and will spend less.

The increase in Social Security levies will reduce the take-home pay of every worker after Jan. 1, cutting his spending power.

Because of higher Social Security and other taxes, many employers will trim their staffs. This, coming simultaneously with the layoffs of extra Christmas help in stores and the postal system will create a depressing rise in unemployment. This can be contagious. Businesses seeing potential customers out of work will be inclined to lay off employees of their own.

Less Government Work
The $6 billion cut in government expenditures, ordered by Congress, has not yet become effective. The present administration seems to be agreed to "let Dick do it." Nixon, therefore, will be under obligation to reduce government spending $6 billion between Jan. 20 and June 30, 1967. This would reduce employment further and shrink the flow of government money into the economy.

The delayed psychological consumer reaction to higher withholding taxes may cut spending. As the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago points out it was three months after the last tax cut before consumer spending rose. While higher withholding taxes started in July,

Higher prices may cut buying. Consumers have taken these bravely since the surtax cut take-home pay, but the bite is getting deeper. A sudden, sharp rise in prices for only a single product — say meat, which is likely to shoot up in January — may start consumer resistance against all products with rising prices.

On The Other Hand—
Any or all of these factors could result in a business recession early next year. However, these are countervailing factors:

The Nixon administration will have to throw a lot of money around to win friends and assure voters that it's for more prosperity.

Many of the Nixon re-election proposals call for more government spending and businesses in favored areas will tend to boom.

Machine tool orders, always a significant indicator of future business, increased sharply in October.

Consumers have about $100 billion more in credit available.

Personal income continues to rise.
Consumer savings are still at record high and may be tapped if new products are made as appealing as 5 percent interest.

No Tax Reform Move?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The long-awaited tax reform plan, over a year in the making at the Treasury, may never leave the White House even though President Johnson is required by law to send it to Congress by Dec. 31.

The comprehensive tax reform. But beyond that is his in more or less finished form by Treasury experts some time ago. But both the Treasury and tax-writers on Capitol Hill have gotten word from the White House that Mr. Johnson now has his doubts about the wisdom of ever officially making it an Administration proposal despite surprising Congressional interest.

Mr. Johnson never has been much interested in tax reform. But beyond that is his concern over his role in history; the President may not wish to make one of his last official acts the proposal of a tax reform package to a highly uncertain fate in Congress and an absolute absence of interest from the Nixon administration.

Moreover, Mr. Johnson never was happy with the adoption by Congress (at the urging of liberal Republican Senators) of an amendment to his 10 percent tax surcharge requiring him to submit a comprehensive tax reform bill to Congress by Dec. 31, 1968—a requirement of dubious constitutionality. Certainly, if that deadline comes and goes without an LBJ tax scheme, nobody is going into Federal court for an injunction against the lame-duck President.

However, the coolness by both President Johnson and President-elect Nixon toward tax reform contrasts with a reviving Congressional interest in the subject. Besides the usual liberal demand for tax reform, it may be pushed by Capitol Hill's two top tax-writers: Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John Byrnes of Wisconsin, the Committee's senior Republican.

Specifically, there is growing Congressional interest in a proposal originated by Robert F. Kennedy, endorsed by the Democratic national platform and believed to be contained in the Treasury draft now gathering dust at the White House: a minimum tax scheme to make sure everybody, even the oil millionaires, pay at least a little bit of Federal tax.

A footnote: A tax reformer-liberal Democratic Rep. Sam Gibbons of Florida — not has a slight edge over a fellow Floridian, conservative Rep. Don Fuqua, for a Ways and Means vacancy.

Dillon's Rooters
Influential figures in the foreign affairs community, including some senior State Department officials, are waging an intense campaign for Wall Street financier Douglas Dillon to be Secretary of State.

Their key argument: Dillon's appointment would reassure nervous foreign service officers and assure a high level of morale at the State Department. The argument doesn't seem to be working. Some Nixon insiders resent the campaign for Dillon, and his chances now seem to be less than 50-50.

GOP Governors Offer Lead War On Lawless

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Republican governors are volunteering to take off President-elect Richard M. Nixon's hands the enforcement of law and order pledges he made during his campaign.

Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida, one of the early arrivals for the Republican Governors Conference, opening here Thursday, said the state executives expect to take the lead themselves in combatting lawlessness and disorders.

Kirk, who assembled a private police force to combat organized crime in Florida after his election, told an airport news conference Tuesday he believes the restoration of order is primarily a local problem. "I expect President-elect Nixon to take the leadership in the fight against crime and violence," he said. "I think he will recommend strengthening the safe-streets act and will implement the program to elevate police standards. But in the end, law enforcement is primarily a local problem and we governors intend to do our best to help the new President restore law and order."

Asked if he didn't think Nixon would be following the course already laid down by President Johnson, Kirk replied that "this has always been a nonpartisan issue. The Republicans have always supported law enforcement bills."

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, the vice-president elect, arrived in an Air Force plane after stopping off in San Francisco to look in briefly on a meeting of the executive committee of the National Governors Conference. Agnew has been designated by Nixon as the liaison man with governors of both parties, a job filled by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the Johnson administration.

Agnew told reporters in a brief airport interview that despite Johnson's efforts to maintain contact with the governors there still existed a problem of communications between them and the White House. He said he hopes to clear this up.

"I find some governors unhappy about the implementation of existing federal programs," Agnew said. He declined to elaborate. But the supposition was the state executives were complaining about cutbacks in the federal highway program spending and about the administration of the antipoverty program.

Agnew declined to speculate on possible Nixon Cabinet appointments. However, he said he thought that any government in these times in the end would "turn out to be a coalition of sorts."

Nixon has indicated he will not announce any major Cabinet appointments until he returns to New York after a California trip. He will speak at a hospital fund-raising dinner in Los Angeles on Thursday sponsored by James Francis Cardinal McIntyre and then go on to the GOP governors conference.

Nixon plans an off-the-cuff speech at the governors' black-tie state dinner Friday night at this plush desert resort.

Nixon will find 33 GOP governors and governors-elect, including lame-duck Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, the chairman of the organization.

mier Alexei N. Kosygin had raised the possibility of a summit session on missile curbs with several recent U.S. visitors to Moscow.

Johnson reportedly had been looking forward eagerly to such a session last summer but called it off after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

No. 2 item in the capital guessing game is whether Johnson will call a special session of the Senate to vote on ratification of the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

In a familiar variation of the "don't rule it out" line, the Texas White House said last week "no decision has been made." Then, in a classic understatement, the White House spokesman said:

"Until a decision is made, it would be premature to speculate on what might or might not happen."

If Johnson should decide the climate is right for a missile-curb summit, he presumably wouldn't be bound by tradition to give much notice.

When the President decides to make one of his quick jaunts around the country he has been known to give the press corps an hour to make an airport trip that sometimes take longer.

And when he made a glove-girding trip to Australia, Vietnam and Rome last December, he didn't give newsmen an awful lot more notice.

The possibility of a summit and—or—a special Senate session are the chief pieces in the guessing game. But there could be something else not visible on the horizon now.

Evans-Novak . . .

would have been Nixon's Secretary of State had he been elected in 1960, Nixon and other Republicans never have completely forgiven Dillon for serving as President Kennedy's Secretary of the Treasury. Not even Dillon's diligent — and rather expensive — return to the Republican fold in support of Nixon this year has erased the hurt.

Furthermore, some Nixon advisors are telling the President-elect that Dillon is not tough enough to be Secretary of State in these critical times. These advisors are recommending 74-year-old retired career diplomat Robert Murphy as an interim secretary. Were it not for Murphy's age, he would be a cinch.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Walt W. Rostow, one of President Johnson's closest advisers, and Rostow's wife will join the University of Texas faculty on Feb. 1.

Rostow will hold a joint appointment as professor of economics and history while Mrs. Rostow will be an associate professor of government, school officials announced Tuesday.

390 had been on welfare. Direct savings in welfare costs already have passed $1,500,000.

In Hartford, the emphasis is on housing. There a revolving loan fund has been created with $1,300,000 in capital pledged by local firms. Some 20 separate projects are now in the mill, involving 1,700 new or rehabilitated housing units.

In Rochester, N. Y., the Chamber of Commerce threw its influence behind a Business Opportunities Corporation whose function is to assist new and existing businesses owned and operated by Negroes in slum areas. Twenty loans have been made — not many, perhaps, but the non-profit corporation came into being just nine months ago.

Detroit's business community has an unusually exciting program, by which business works in direct cooperation with specific public schools. Michigan Bell for example, has adopted Northern High School. The Chrysler Corporation has adopted Northwestern High School. The purpose is "to build bridges between the world of schools and the world of business." The companies do not usurp the teaching function; their responsibility is to provide advice, equipment, training opportunities and the like.

Elsewhere, businessmen are taking new leadership roles in broader programs of community improvement. In Dayton, it's a move to establish municipal incinerators to relieve air and water pollution. In Jacksonville, it's merge of the city with Duval County. In Winston-Salem, it's community recreation. In Indianapolis, it's a continuing program of support for law enforcement and better police.

These are typical programs. Many other cities could tell the same story of business at work.

WEATHER FORECAST — There will be light snow flurries Wednesday night for the north Atlantic coast, the northern Appalachians, the eastern Great Lakes, the upper Missouri Valley and the northern and central Rockies. There will be rain with snow over the higher elevations of the Pacific Northwest. (AP Wirephoto)

Election Is Over New Yorkers Turning To But Bills Linger Private School Systems

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Friends of a Protestant clergyman are passing the hat to help him pay off the remainder of a $973 telephone bill resulting from the presidential campaign of Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Mr. Grussing said Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. has been "gentle but firm." The telephone company wants the bill paid.

The telephone bill was compiled after Mr. Grussing, a Presbyterian minister, ordered the telephones during the last few weeks of McCarthy's campaign to win the Democratic nomination.

Mr. Grussing, who was Bismarck coordinator for the drive, said he ordered the telephones only after receiving assurances from the state McCarthy director and members of McCarthy's staff that adequate campaign funds would be available to pay the bill.

But after McCarthy lost his bid, it was found campaign funds were insufficient and Mr. Grussing was left with the bill. "The telephone company has been most properly businesslike about it," he said.

He said most of the calls were made by young volunteers working on McCarthy's behalf.

Although he signed for the telephones and was responsible for the bill, Mr. Grussing didn't take a direct part. "I never used them at all," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Private and parochial schools here are reporting an avalanche of applications for next year from families who appear to be anticipating the teacher strike becoming a perennial happening.

"I found it profoundly depressing—the lack of faith in the public school system," said Russell Ames, admissions officer at the Riverdale Country School for Boys in the Bronx.

Ames said applications for Riverdale were up 75 per cent over any previous year in the school's 61-year history.

For example, he said that with only half the applications in now, there are 100 applications for 15 openings in the school's fifth grade, which has a $3,000 tuition.

Ames said he was astounded to have families who have never had members attend private schools coming to him and explaining, "We're going into hock . . . we're going to work nights" to pay the school's fees.

In the Archdiocese of New York, with 165,000 students in the parochial schools, applications are up over 20 per cent so far.

"A lot are not Catholics," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Connors. "And a few are Jewish people." He said applications are almost evenly divided between Negro and Puerto Rican and white families.

would have been Nixon's Secretary of State had he been elected in 1960, Nixon and other Republicans never have completely forgiven Dillon for serving as President Kennedy's Secretary of the Treasury. Not even Dillon's diligent — and rather expensive — return to the Republican fold in support of Nixon this year has erased the hurt.

Furthermore, some Nixon advisors are telling the President-elect that Dillon is not tough enough to be Secretary of State in these critical times. These advisors are recommending 74-year-old retired career diplomat Robert Murphy as an interim secretary. Were it not for Murphy's age, he would be a cinch.

Charges Dr. Sheppard With Neglect, Cruelty

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The blonde German woman who married Dr. Samuel Sheppard after he was released from prison where he was serving a life term in the slaying of his first wife has sued for divorce and obtained a court order to keep Sheppard from any contact with her.

Sheriff's deputies sought Tuesday night to serve Sheppard with the restraining order but his whereabouts were not known.

Mrs. Ariane Sheppard, 39, who met her husband through correspondence while he was serving a prison term in the 1954 bludgeoning slaying of his pregnant wife, charged Sheppard with neglect of duty and extreme cruelty in the divorce suit filed Tuesday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court.

Her petition for the accompanying court order said that unless Sheppard was restrained he "will perpetrate on her person acts of violence and do her irreparable damage and great bodily harm." Her attorney charged that Sheppard had threatened her on several occasions.

Sheppard was sentenced to life in prison on a charge of second-degree murder in the slaying of his wife, Marilyn, in their well-to-do suburban home in Bay Village after a long and sensational trial.

The handsome, 44-year-old osteopath served nearly 10 years before the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the verdict, saying that prejudicial publicity had surrounded the trial. Three days after he was freed from Ohio State Penitentiary, Sheppard married the former Ariane Tebbenjohanns, an attractive divorcee. Their romance blossomed through the letters, in which she said she believed he was innocent.

Sheppard was acquitted in a retrial in 1966 and for a time the couple lived in West Germany.

They returned to Cleveland early this year and troubles again marred his life. He went to work at the Youngstown, Ohio, Osteopathic Hospital and was named last September in two suits charging negligence in surgery resulting in the death of two patients. The damages sought totaled $1.2 million.

On Monday, the hospital announced that Sheppard had resigned.

The Sheppards had no children in their marriage. He has a son and she a daughter by previous marriages.

Mrs. Sheppard asked for alimony and use of their home in Bay Village. They also maintain an apartment in Youngstown.

ICC Fears Leak From Within Its Own Ranks

By JAMES R. POLK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bonds of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad rose sharply on the stock market immediately after a secret Interstate Commerce Commission ruling that was not announced to the public until a week later.

An investigation was promised by ICC Chairman Paul J. Tierney to determine whether advance information leaked out of his agency, although he did say speculators may simply have anticipated the ruling.

The ICC, in ordering the takeover of the debt-riddled railroad by the Penn Central system by New Year's Day, hiked the purchase price for the bankrupt line by roughly $20 million to $145.6 million in its latest ruling.

The dramatic upturn in the price of the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange took place last week in the two days immediately after the ICC voted its decision in secret. The ruling was not announced publicly until this past Monday.

The market price had been sliding downward for a full month before the sudden increase, which boosted the value by $4.62 a share within the two-day period.

A top-level official of the New Haven Railroad, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he had no economic explanation for the dramatic upturn.

"I know of no reason. I was surprised myself," said the railroad financial expert.

Tierney, who said he was unaware of the increase until informed by The Associated Press, said his agency "will attempt to investigate whether this information could have gotten out."

"Obviously this is a matter of great concern to us," he said.

The ICC took its secret vote Nov. 25. Not even the fact the commission had met was announced to the public. The 9-0 decision was unveiled Monday morning before the market opened for the week.

Tierney said the week-long delay was due to the time needed to print the ICC ruling. The chairman said the printing was done inside the agency's building. He said all employees are cautioned on the need for secrecy on decisions which may affect the market.

The New Haven bonds that went up in price are the 4 percent mortgage bonds which have first priority for repayment. The railroad official called them the major stock market issue involved in the efforts to reorganize the bankrupt firm.

The ICC ruling boosting the purchase price for the New Haven from the $125 million fixed earlier this year to $145.6 million presumably increases the strength and value of the bonds.

The bond price had skidded from $60 to $53 over the past four weeks, then leveled off and edged upward by 25 cents Nov. 25, the day the ICC took its closed vote.

The price shot up by $2.5 the following day and rose another $2.37 last Wednesday before the New York Stock Exchange paused for Thanksgiving. The closing price Wednesday was $57.87.

The rate remained even Friday. When the ICC ruling became public Monday, the price jumped another $1.75 to $59.62 on heavy trading that surpassed the volume for all of last week.

A person who bought the bond at the start of the day following the secret ICC decision and who sold it at the close of the day Monday after the ruling became public would have made a profit of $6.37 a share, or roughly 12 percent.

The bonds turned downward again Tuesday, slipping $1.87 and closing at $57.75.

Tierney, in theorizing the smart money people may have anticipated action, noted the ICC had said it would try to rule by Dec. 1. But, he added, the fact that the commission even had a meeting the day it voted was considered classified.

Although a federal court had told the ICC to reconsider the original $125 million price, Tierney said there was no advance assurance the commission would raise it.

Joe Pou Named Key Banker For Coming Year

To coordinate the agricultural activities of the N. C. Bankers Association in this area, Joe Pou has been named County Key Banker for Pitt County.

NCBA President J. Paul Ford of Belmont has announced that Dr. Pou will serve as County Key Banker during the next 12 months. He is Vice President of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company in Greenville.

For 23 years the NCBA has received national recognition for its far-reaching program of service to agriculture in North Carolina. President Ford, noting the work of bankers in behalf of agriculture, thanked the 100 County Key Bankers for their role in this record.

Ford called attention to the projects that are sponsored by the Association such as the annual Farm Credit Conference which will again be held in Raleigh, February 10-11, 1969, the two-week school at N. C. State University for young farmers who are provided scholarships given by their home community banks, and the co-sponsorship of the land judging meet in the interest of soil conservation. He also reported that the banks of North Carolina continue to lend more money to farmers than any other institutional group of lenders, last year providing $161 million in loans.

Pope Asserts 'Must Defend' At Any Cost

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today lashed out at dissenting priests and bishops and declared that the Roman Catholic Church defends its teachings "at any cost."

In a voice breaking with emotion, the Pope denounced "the reticence" of some of those he said are duty-bound to defend Church teachings—an obvious reference to parish priests and members of the hierarchy opposing him on the issues of birth control, papal authority, priestly celibacy and revised catechisms.

"When it comes to its own teaching," the Pope told his weekly general audience, "the church is intransigent and dogmatic—at any cost."

The pontiff spoke bitterly of those in the Church who make their own choice of what is right and wrong.

"Who speaks today of Hell?" the pontiff asked. "This is not liked and not discussed."

"Everyone chooses the truths he likes. In this way the faith disintegrates. It is no longer the faith of which St. Paul spoke."

Raising his voice, Pope Paul recalled the doubts of Christ's disciples and repeated the words Christ addressed to them: "Do you also wish to go away?" (John 6:69).

The Pope's blast was made in a departure from his prepared remarks to the thousands at the audience. It came five days after a special commission of Vatican cardinals he had chosen demanded that the progressive Dutch hierarchy revise its controversial new catechism in line with traditional teaching.

The declaration disclosed that the Pope had asked last year that the catechism be revised but the Dutch bishops did not comply.

More Testimony On Milk Pricing

RALEIGH (AP) — Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood was to hear more testimony today in a case challenging the North Carolina Milk Commission's price regulations.

Grady Cooper Jr., an official of the commission, testified Tuesday that the regulations provide for sale of an adequate supply of milk at a reasonable price.

He said, "Consumers will benefit from orderly processing of milk in the state."

The price regulations were challenged by the Dairy Division of Pet Inc.

The regulations, which went into effect Sept. 1, limit the practice of giving rebates to those who agree to purchase milk in large quantities.

J. V. Whitaker, executive secretary of the milk commission, said in a statement filed in court that the rules, known as Fair Trade Order 8, are designed "to protect the small independent distributor from being driven out of business."

Eight North Carolina dairies have filed papers in court in support of the milk commission's rules.

Pleads Guilty To Slaying Wife

SMITHFIELD, N. C. (AP)—A 43-year-old Smithfield man faces a 28-30 year prison term after pleading guilty Tuesday to second degree murder in the pistol slaying of his wife.

George W. Roberts was charged with first degree murder in the shooting of his 42-year-old wife, Mrs. Eula Roberts, mother of five children.

Officers said Roberts shot his wife three times Sept. 8 with a .22 caliber pistol.

Twelve-Year-Old Has South Pole Tales To Tell

By STANLEY W. STEPHENS, CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — When 12-year-old Bill Crook gets back to Texas he can tell his friends he walked around the world four times. He did it the easy but cold way. He walked around the South Pole. Bill went to Antarctica with his father, William H. Crook, U.S. ambassador to Australia. "I felt a deep sense of awe when I saw the South Pole," the boy says, "and also a great feeling of excitement because I was the youngest boy—the youngest person ever—to go there."

The trip was part of Ambassador Crook's job. It has become the custom of the U.S. ambassador here to inspect American research stations at least once during his term in Canberra. The father was sworn in as ambassador last June after serving in the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington. The Crooks family went to Washington from Texas where the father had been president of the San Marcos Baptist Academy. Before that Crook, a native of Moline, Ill., was pastor of Baptist churches in Morgan, Franklin and Nacogdoches, Texas.

Since no 12-year-old boy had ever been to the South Pole before, the special snow pants issued to young Bill were much too big. Yet they were the smallest size available at the Christchurch supply house for voyagers to Antarctica. "I was given heavy insulated snowboots, a parka, a pair of thick gloves, a cap covering the ears, and shoes that I could wear when I did not need snowboots," he recalls. "Everything was too big for me, except the snowboots. The most oversized of all—that is, for me—were the pants. They were five or six times too big."

When the plane landed at the pole and the cold air hit me, I really thought of Scott and felt for him and his men. The landing of the C130 on skis at Pole Station was rougher than I had expected. I expected a soft, smooth landing in the snow. I walked 200 yards to the entrance of Pole Station. Originally this station was above ground, but snow had accumulated and covered it. Only chimneys, radio masts and the entrance lie above the snow. At the pole erected at the South Pole by Paul Siple—a U.S. scientist—and painted in Princeton University's colors, I was photographed with my father, the admiral and other members of the party. The cold made my ears numb and burned into my face. The South Pole is at an altitude of 9,200 feet, and under the ice, down in the mess hall, I began to suffer what felt like oxygen starvation. Other members of the party told me they felt this way too. My head ached, and the floor rocked beneath my feet like a ship in a moderate sea.

The great explorers were familiar with. At Cape Royd, 20 miles up the sound, the crewman opened the hatch and dropped a smoke bomb which gave the pilot an indication of the wind drift. We landed nose into a light wind. Below us in a small sheltered spot was Ernest Shackleton's 1908 hut from which he set out on what was to be the most spectacular journey up to them he got within 120 miles of the pole. Here 15 men lived in a cramped little hut, and there some of the supplies still remain: frozen seal meat, books and magazines abandoned when the relief ship arrived 60 years ago. We signed the visitor's book and went across to the Adelie Penguin rookery Scott discovered in 1903. The smell of guano was not so bad, but noticeable, and the penguins got very excited when we came near the nests they had built of stones and rubble. Later that day we visited the Scott hut at Hut Point, a few hundred yards from the base. Though it was never headquarters for any expedition, it was used by Scott, by Shackleton and others on many occasions. It saw men come back from the ice shelf with scurvy; it saw two of Shackleton's men set out for Cape Eans to be lost in a sudden blizzard and never found. It was the search party set out that found Scott's frozen body up on the ice shelf. It is a cold hut and ice has formed inside and along the rafters. Adam, Abbot took us to see the huskies at New Zealand's Scott base, just two miles away on the other side of the famous Ob-ervation Hill. The New Zealander who tends the dogs put a team on a sledge and then my father, Sir John Overall—commissioner of the Australian National Capital Development Commission another member of the ambassador's party—and myself all sat on. The New Zealander drove the team up on to the ice shelf to get around the pressure ridges of ice that form where the sea ice meets the shore near the base. Then we drove down on to the sea ice to look at a sleepy Weddell Sea seals. The big sluggish seals rolled on their backs and rolled their eyes when you patted them. They whine happily when you pat them on the stomach. They allow themselves to be killed without resisting whenever seal

Church Merger Approval Eyed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The leader of the strife-torn Presbyterian Church in the U. S. said Tuesday night he hopes that although the church is in serious difficulty, it is nowhere near dissolution. Dr. P. D. Miller of Atlanta, moderator of the million-member church, spoke at a joint session of the church's Stated Clerks Association and Home Mission Association. At the meeting, leaders of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. and the Reformed Church in America (RCA) said they were hopeful that a merger between the two churches would be approved. "It is past time for us to stop criticizing everything we do not happen to like about the church," Miller said, calling for "kind words" rather than pride and bitter words and for mutual respect instead of suspicion. The Presbyterian Church in the U. S. has been threatened with division for two years because of widening differences between conservative and liberal factions. Miller compared the church's problems to those of the nation. Just as the nation is troubled, he said, "now our church is also troubled—as are all Protestant communions and even the massive structure of Roman Catholicism." The moderator called for "a little less viewing with alarm from all of us" on the nation's problems. The co-chairmen of the Joint Committee of 24 representing the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. and the RCA said they hoped the General Assemblies of both churches would give final approval for merger next year. Merger could be completed by 1970. Thirty of the 45 classes of the RCA and three-fourths of the presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. must first approve the plan. "There is a real chance we will get this approval," said Dr. Norman Edwin Thomas, RCA co-chairman on the committee. "The prospects are favorable. We will have a very strong majority; there is no question about it."

The flight ended in daylight because it is daylight down there 24 hours a day at this time of the year," Bill says. "I was tired and happy to go to bed, but it seemed to be odd going to bed in daylight. The food was tremendous. We had steaks, spaghetti, cake, and the ice cream was terrific." Bill's diary covers the two big highlights of his stay in the Antarctic—his flight to the South Pole and his visit to McMurdo. It reads: Wednesday, Nov. 13 I traveled in the cockpit of a C130 (Hercules) with Rear Adm. Abbot. After crossing an ice-shelf as large as France, the C130 flew over the Beardmore. With the good visibility in the cabin, I found this breathtaking, and totally unexpected were the mountains up to 15,000 feet rising out of the ice, the massive coming-together of rivers of ice, and the ripples which the pilot assured me were big enough to drop a C130 into. Over the glacier, it was hard to believe that anyone would ever have tried it on foot as the explorers Shackleton and Scott did. The Polar Plateau came at the top of the glacier. It was more like the white level land and ice I had expected Antarctica to be.

This feeling continued, though in a lesser form, all afternoon so that I found it hard to lift a dinner plate in one hand. The temperature was minus 45 degrees Fahrenheit, 77 degrees below freezing. My glasses immediately frosted over when exposed to this temperature. In the open, I stumbled along, groping for my way. Following the feet of the others, I could see under the bottom of my glasses. I nonetheless walked around the pole, that is around the world, four times. Thursday, Nov. 14—After breakfast at McMurdo we went to the heliport where a bright orange helicopter was waiting. There were eight of us, plus the crew, strapped in when the copter took off. It was very warm inside. We headed north along the coast of Ross Island, which all

How much does it cost to make a light bulb light?

The amount of electricity a light bulb (or any appliance) uses is very accurately measured by your electric meter. You are charged only for the amount you use. Right now the average annual residential cost is 2.1c per kilowatt hour. So let's figure how much it costs to light a 60 watt bulb for eight hours. Multiply 60 (watts) by 8 (hours) and divide the answer by 1000 (to make watt hours kilowatt hours). If you did it right you got .480. Now multiply .480 by .021 (2.1c). The answer is about a penny. One cent.

Using that same formula, here are some other things a penny's worth of electricity will do: toast 40 slices of bread, brew 20 cups of coffee, wash 14 pounds of clothes. Wouldn't it be great if you got that much value for every penny you spend?

Auto Firm Plans To Train Negroes For Dealerships

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says it intends to train at least six Negroes each year as automobile dealers—to join the eight Negroes now operating new car dealerships.

Chrysler's urban affairs specialist, Albert J. Dunmore, a Detroit Negro, told a news conference in Atlanta Tuesday that of the "roughly 100 people" Chrysler is training to operate new car sales franchises, six are Negroes.

Dunmore, a former newsman, also announced that the company plans to deposit $100,000 each month in a Negro-owned Atlanta bank and is working upon an intensive program to train auto mechanics, primarily designed for young Negroes.

Officials of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference joined Dunmore in announcing the auto maker's plans.

Chrysler added Atlanta's Citizens Trust Co. to Negro-owned banks in Los Angeles and Detroit where it will deposit $100,000 monthly in employe withholding taxes, Social Security taxes and corporate income taxes. The banks can use the money from the U. S. Treasury accounts while the Treasury makes occasional withdrawals, a Federal Reserve spokesman said.

The deposits are intended to provide more working capital for Negro-operated banks.

Dunmore said that when Chrysler began talking with SCLC last spring only one Negro operated a dealership. Now there are eight among the nation's more than 30,000 passenger car dealers in this country.

The urban affairs specialist said Chrysler plans to train about 3,000 members of minority groups as mechanics each year.

Edenton's Brig's Captured Crew Kept On Trying

By Christopher Crittenden
N.C. Department of Archives and History

Written for the Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — Truth is stranger than fiction, it is said. Truth was stranger indeed in the case of the crew of the "Fair American," a brig from Edenton, who during the Revolution were captured by the British and imprisoned, but escaped in a daring breakout.

This true story is recounted in "The Great Escape from Forten Gaol: an Incident of the Revolution," in the current number of the "North Carolina Historical Review." The author is Dr. Thomas C. Parramore of the history department of Meredith College.

Forten Gaol was a converted naval hospital near Portsmouth in England. Designed to hold 200 inmates, it frequently housed many more. Security measures were inadequate, and this encouraged many escapes or attempted escapes. One of the largest of these escapes was by the crew of the brig "Fair American," imprisoned at Forten in 1780.

The privateer "Fair American," built in Hertford County, carried 12 cannon and a crew of 58 men, mostly Tar Heels, and was owned by several men of Hertford County and Edenton. Putting out through Ocracoke Inlet, she set sail for Bordeaux with a cargo of tobacco.

Two weeks out, she was captured by the British Frigate "Vestal." Her crew, after certain delays, were confined in Forten Gaol. Immediately they began plotting their escape.

They started digging a tunnel, placing the dirt in a "cockloft" between ceiling and roof. They had dug about 40 feet and had almost completed the tunnel when a tile fell and hit a guard on the head, so that they were discovered.

Nothing daunted, the prisoners began again, digging at the rapid rate of some 10 feet a night. Four nights and 42 feet later, they "broke up . . . in the cellar of an old woman, who, being frightened, fell backward, but recovering, called the guard! the guard! however we soon gagged her, and about 60 got out of the hole."

Most of the escapees were soon recaptured, but John Smith, who had been captain of the "Fair American," and his lieutenant, Luke Matthewman, made their way to Portsmouth and later to London. Matthewman after a time got back to America, returned to active service on other American war vessels, was captured again by the British and exchanged.

At least a few of the crew of the "Fair American" eventually found their way back to their homes in North Carolina. At least one of them, a certain William Fish, joined the Royal Navy.

Project Area Committee Will Meet Tonight

A called meeting of the Project Area Committee of the Redevelopment Commission will be held tonight at 7:30 in the office at 307 South Evans Street.

Rehabilitation and Code standards and whether the proposed mall along Evans Street between Third and Fifth Streets should be enclosed are the main topics on the discussion agenda.

Committee chairman E. Hoover Taft, Jr., emphasized that all Evans Street merchants and other interested persons will be welcomed.

According to Taft, State law gives the Redevelopment Commission the prerogative of condemning and acquiring a property which the owner refuses to bring into line with standards which are finally set by the Commission. "Therefore, all merchants should inform themselves and make their opinions known while the Central Business District is still in the planning stage," Taft said.

EMBATTLED PREXY — San Francisco State College president Dr. S. I. Hayakawa sits amid flowers with a lei around his neck at a news conference following another day of violence on the campus. More than 20 persons were arrested and at least five injured. (AP Wirephoto)

Rehabilitation standards once enacted, will have priority over existing Building Code standards, should these exceed Code requirements.

Robert N. Anderson, consultant to the City Planning and Architectural Association, will be present to offer suggestions. He has been asked to present figures on the actual costs of heating and cooling the proposed mall, should the Commission decide to enclose it.

New Pharmacy Opening In East Greenville Tomorrow

Big Value Discount drugs will open a pharmacy in the East 10th Street Shopping Center tomorrow.

The new facility has 2,500 square feet of sales space and will be managed by pharmacist Jack Tyler.

Tyler, owner of Pavilion Pharmacy in the western section of Greenville, said the Big Value Discount Drugs firm will fill a need for a discount store and discount pharmacy in East Greenville.

The pharmacist emphasized, however, that the two drug outlets are entirely separate businesses and are in no way connected.

Tyler explained that he is co-owner of Big Value Discount Drugs with J. T. Manning, Leslie H. Garner, Thurston Wynn, and Richard E. Squires.

Tyler's Pavilion Pharmacy

a professionally and medically-oriented facility will continue to operate, with pharmacist Ann Harris as manager, he noted.

The new store is a completely different concept, Tyler explained. In addition to a complete prescription drug department, Big Value Discount Drugs has many other departments, all offering discount prices.

Included in the list of departments in the new business are: cosmetics, baby needs, greeting cards, small household appliances, radio - TV, school supplies, pet supplies, a complete camera department with film processing, candy, luggage, and dietary needs, as well as others. The store will also feature seasonal items for various times of the year, such as Christmas.

Store hours will be from 9 a. m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

No charge or delivery service will be offered at the new store which according to Tyler will be strictly a "discount merchandising" operation.

Tyler, who opened Pavilion Pharmacy here in 1961, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the UNC School of Pharmacy.

He is married to the former Betty Cole of Sanford, and they have four children.

Tyler is a member of St. James Methodist Church and is chairman of the church's official board, and is a member of the Rotary Club.

Wedding Defies Old Tradition

FRANCA VIOLA

ALCAMO, Sicily (AP) — Franca Viola, a pretty 20-year-old girl who broke a thousand years of Sicilian tradition, is getting married today despite the prediction of almost all Sicily that she would die a spinster.

Two years ago Franca refused to wed the rich man's son who kidnaped and raped her. Since the Middle Ages, kidnap and rape have been the sure road to the altar for a rejected Sicilian suitor. If the girl didn't say yes after that, she was dishonored and no one else would marry her.

Franca stunned the Sicilians and won approval throughout the rest of Italy when she told Filippo Melodia in court: "I do not love you. I will not marry you."

Melodia was sentenced to 11 years in prison. The charges would have been dropped if Franca had agreed to marry him.

Franca and her family were threatened with vengeance for her violation of the ancient code. But the loneliness did not last for the slim brunette who became a living symbol of a new way of life for Sicilian girls.

Giuseppe Ruisi, a 25-year-old accountant, and Franca had known each other in school. They met again at a family reunion last year. He became a steady caller at Franca's home under the watchful eye of her parents. She accepted his proposal.

They chose the little church of Sant' Agosto for their wedding today. Franca chose a white satin and lace wedding gown.

The ghost of outraged tradition was still present. Because of the threats of the past two years, police guards were posted at the church.

And when Ruisi took out the wedding license, he also applied for a permit to carry a pistol.

Jaycees Ask Nominations For 'Man Of The Year'

The Greenville Jaycees are seeking nominations to consider in selecting the outstanding young man of the year in Greenville, according to Gene Prescott, President of Greenville Jaycees.

A committee, headed by Joseph O. Clark, has been established and is seeking a young man between the ages of 21 and 35 who has contributed most to the community during 1968. In order to receive a full slate of nominees, the Jaycees are actively canvassing churches, civic clubs, and other organizations to get information on young men in Greenville who have been active in bettering the community.

Any citizen wishing to nominate a person whom they believe eligible to be considered for this outstanding award, may pick up nomination blanks from any Jaycee or from the following locations: Planters Bank and Trust Company, Bill Cozart; State Bank and Trust Company, Curtis Hendrix; and Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, Andy Warren.

Five distinguished citizens of Greenville, all over 35 years old, will form a panel to make the decision for the award, to be determined from the nominations received.

Midnight January 8, 1969 is the deadline for receipt of nominations.

The winner of the Greenville 1968 Distinguished Service Award will be included in the North Carolina Jaycee Contest, which selects the five outstanding young men in the State.

Greenville men who have won this honor in past years are: W. M. (Booger) Scales, 1957; Dr. J. Edwin Clements, 1965; and C. Eugene Prescott in 1966.

Questions about nominations should be directed to Joseph O. Clark, 233 Churchill Drive, Greenville. Clark's telephone numbers are: Business 758-3426 and Home 756-4519.

Plans are to award the annual Jaycee Distinguished Service Award at the Greenville Moose Lodge on January 23, 1969.

Plan School's Homecoming Day

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville High School Student Government Association will sponsor the school's annual homecoming activities Friday.

Included in the activities will be basketball games between the Winterville teams and the Robersonville teams. The first game will begin at 7 p.m. Friday.

During half-time, the crowning of the 1968 Homecoming Queen will be held.

Following the boys' game, a dance will be held featuring music by the "Entertainers."

Muskie Prefers Regional Plans

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says regional programs are the best solution to the pollution problem. "We've learned the consequences of national policies that do not have widespread support," the Maine Democrat told a conference on air pollution at Colby College. Too much federal control, he said, would result in "all the shortcomings of federal bureaucracy."

Impatient Hijacker Told Of Failures

By BOB GASSAWAY
 Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A perplexing hijacker impatiently allowed an airliner to refuel Tuesday before flying to Havana.

Waving a hand gun and a grenade wrapped in an arm bandage, the hijacker talked about his life in the United States during a one-hour, 21-minute refueling stop in Key West.

"He said he had worked in the Miami area for quite a while and he'd been fired from all his jobs," said Irene Guntin, one of four Cuban-born stewardesses aboard the National Airlines jet.

"I can't continue living in this country. I'll get there (Cuba) even if I have to kill one of you," she quoted him as saying.

Miss Guntin and other members of the crew—including one nonworking stewardess listed officially as one of 28 passengers—returned to Miami late Tuesday night.

The other passengers were to be bused to Varadero, Cuba, for a flight to Florida today aboard a charter aircraft. Cuban authorities, following a pattern developed since the hijack outbreak began, refused to allow them to leave the Havana airport aboard the big jet.

In Miami, Miss Guntin told a news conference today the hijacker identified himself as Eddie Canteras, a 33-year-old native of Havana.

The gunman said that in Havana, "He had his mother to look forward to. His mother was there, and she didn't want to come to the United States," the sewardess said.

"He said he didn't care if they killed him," he still wanted to go back, she said.

The big jet—substituted earlier in the day for a scheduled DC8 flight from New York to Miami via Tampa—was seized while making its landing approach at Miami.

"The door flew open and he said he wanted to go to Havana," Capt. James W. Sims told newsmen. The pilot said he persuaded the gunman he needed more fuel, and got his permission to stop at Key West—only 90 miles from the Cuban coast.

"He wasn't very happy about it, but we pointed to the gauges and tried to explain," Sims said.

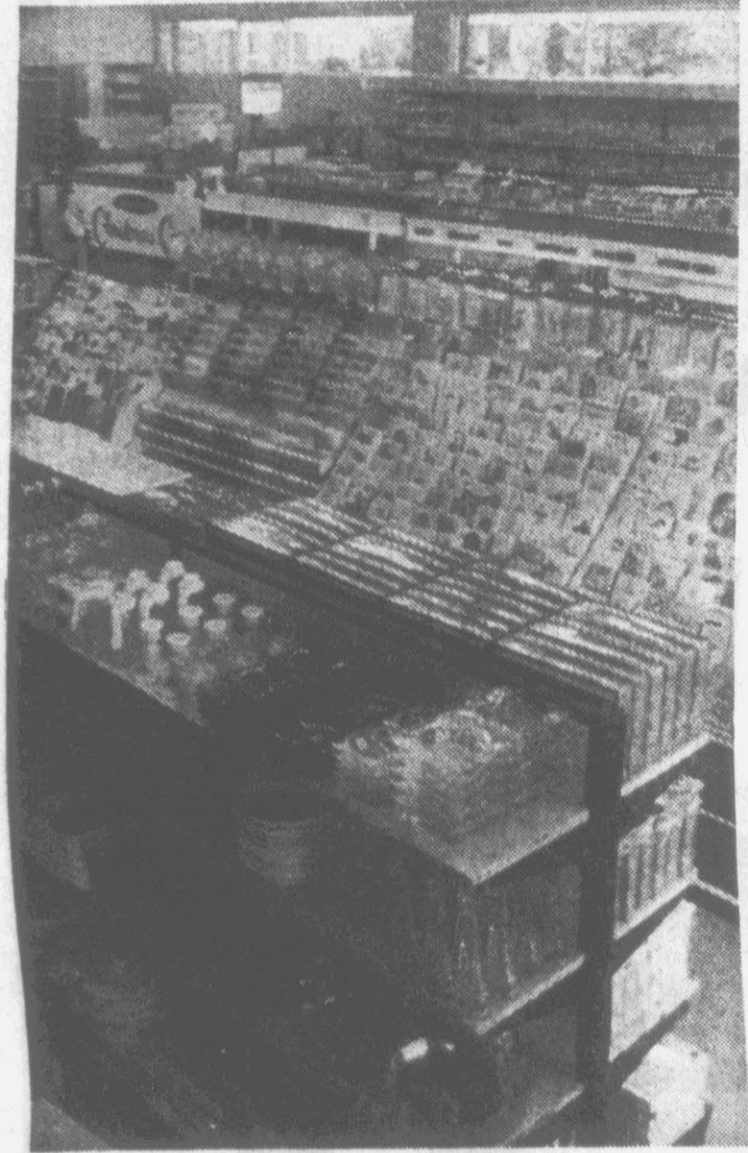

At Key West, efforts were set in motion quickly to obtain jet fuel from a nearby Navy air station.

Federal, city and county officers stood by—under orders not to intervene—as the plane and its impatient hijacker sat alone on the end of a runway.

During the wait, Miss Guntin said, the gunman was "shaking and sweating. He held a gun right here on my neck and the grenade on my shoulder all the time were in Key West."

No one attempted to board the plane. A National Airlines spokesman said, "As long as the ship is under the control of a hijacker with a lethal weapon, we automatically stay away."

In Havana, Sims said, troops met the airliner and escorted the hijacker off the plane. "Two guys came aboard and took his gun," said Stewardess Mirta Fonollar.

SHELVES ARE FILLED in preparation for Thursday opening.

Jamesville Beats Off Stubborn Winterville To Get 63-45 Win

Bethel Indians Roll Past Rams, 60-65; Squaws Remain Unbeaten

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
WINTERVILLE—The Jamesville Red Devils used a sticky man-to-man defense and some good rebounding to beat off a stubborn Winterville five last night and take a 63-45 victory. It marked the fifth setback in six games for the Wolves.

The Winterville girls got their measure of revenge in the opener, by rolling to a 39-20 victory over Jamesville for their fourth win in six games.

Winterville never led in the game, but they were not counted out until the opening minutes of the final period, when the ball control of Jamesville began to tell. The Wolves, however, fought back all evening long and never gave up trying.

Jamesville got the opening lead almost before the clock got started. Phil Blount took the opening tipoff and dropped it in for a 2-0 lead after only two seconds had elapsed.

Winterville came back on a pair of free throws by Edgar Wall to tie it up, but a bucket by Herbert Ange returned Jamesville to the lead 4-2. Winterville again tied it up at 4-4 as Ronnie Stokes hit, but a basket by Blount pushed the Red Devils out by two again, 6-4.

From there, Jamesville edged out into a seven point lead, as Block hit to make it 12-5 with 3:16 left in the period.

But Winterville rallied and cut the lead back to two at 14-12 and then tied it up on a jumper by Lindsey Godley with 37 seconds left. Harry Martin hit, however, with a second left to give Jamesville a 16-14 edge at the end of the period.

In the second period, Blount hit a jumper to make it four points again, but Winterville came back on shots by Jack Allen and Stokes to tie it at 18-18.

The Wolves couldn't take command, however, and Jamesville moved out again, as E. L. Martin dropped in a pair of free throws. Ken Dempsey hit on two straight baskets from the corner to push the margin to six, and then Blount's jumper made it 26-18 with 2:09 left in the half. Winterville rallied again, cutting the lead back to four with 11 seconds left as Stokes hit again, and it was 28-24 in favor of the Red Devils at intermission.

In the third period, Winterville cut the lead back to three at 31-28 as Stokes was the only help they got in the period, getting all 10 Winterville points in the frame.

He wasn't enough, and Jamesville finally began to pull away for good, pushing out to a nine-point spread just before the period ended, to lead 41-32. Stokes hit once more to make that 41-34 at the buzzer.

In the final period, Winterville was forced to foul to try and stop the Red Devils, and the foul line was used to great advantage by Jamesville, as they hit on 12 of 16 attempts to steadily build up their lead.

E. L. Martin made the score 47-36 with a pair of charity shots with 6:26 left, and after that, it was just a question of margin. The lead reached as much as 21, as Dempsey hit a pair of free throws with 2:36 left.

Blount led Jamesville with 22 points, while E. L. Martin had 15. Dempsey and Harry Martin had 10 each.

For Winterville, it was all Stokes, as he had 24 points to lead all scorers.

In the girls contest, there was not really much of one after the opening minutes of the second period. Winterville got the lead on a free throw by Carrie Carr in the first minute and remained unbeaten.

Hoyt Haddock led the Stokes scoring with 16 points while Eddie Hudson had 14 and John Corey had 12.

Wes Webb had 20 while Bobby Webb had 11 for South Edgecombe.

Gray, Ward Parker and Haddock were cited for their defensive play in the game.

ROBERSONVILLE—The Bethel Indians maintained their victory march Tuesday night as the girls took their seventh victory while the boys have now won six and lost one.

The girls put up a strong third quarter and then held off a small comeback in the fourth by Robersonville as they came away with a 34-28 victory over the Ramettes.

The boys almost did a repeat performance of the girls as they too put up a strong third quarter, scoring 21 points to the Rams' 12 to take a 60-50 victory over Robersonville in the Rams' opening game of the season.

To start the evening's festivities off, the Robersonville J.V. team had a little better luck than the varsity, as they took an easy win over the Bethel JV, 54-35.

In the girls game the going got off to a slow start, with Bethel going into the second half with a slim one point edge.

Bethel had a three point edge with 1:22 remaining in the first frame, but two free throws by Debbie Edmondson brought the Rams to within one as the quarter ended, 8-7.

In the second frame, both teams scored eight apiece as Robersonville put in four quick points to take the lead before the Bethel team could find the range.

The Ramettes maintained their lead until the closing minutes of the quarter but a basket by Carolyn Whichard and a free throw by Debbie Purvis brought the Indians back into the lead by one making it 16-15 when the frame ended.

In the third quarter, the Ramettes had a hard time finding the mark while the Bethel team seemed to find their groove, as the Indians' outscored the Ramettes 14-6 to take a ten point edge going into the fourth and final frame, 31-21.

Carolyn Whichard, Nan Roberson, and Kay Coburn added the only Robersonville scores in the third frame, while Susan James matched all three of the Robersonville girls picking up six for herself.

In the final quarter, the Ramettes outscored the Indians 7-3, but it wasn't enough to match the third quarter lead put up by the Indians, and the Bethel girls maintained their winning streak and added another victory to their belts.

Debbie Purvis, Susan James and Carolyn Whichard led the Bethel scoring with nine apiece, while Debbie Edmondson led Robersonville with 11, followed by Nan Roberson with five.

In the boys situation, the Rams tried to play a slow down game, as they knew the Indians were going to be tough.

The first quarter ended with only 17 points being scored by both teams, nine for Bethel and eight for Robersonville.

The Rams knew the only way to take the game was to keep the score within reach and keep the ball to themselves as much as possible.

In the second quarter, the Rams went behind by five before they could get on the comeback trail. Two quick baskets by Alonza McRorie brought it to within one with 5:45 remaining in the second frame.

Two free throws by Ricky Parker of Bethel put it back to a three point advantage, but again McRorie added two, to keep the game close.

With the quarter closing fast, the Indians hit a cold streak on the free throw line as four shots were missed in a row before Douglas Dunning could add one to make it 19-16 with 1:14 remaining.

But James Robersonville added two free throws for the Rams to bring it to within one again. Stokes added a free two for Bethel and Roberson two for the Rams to end the half at 21-20.

In the third frame, the Indians decided to change the pace of the game as they started on the fast break method, and ended up outscoring the Rams by nine points to take a ten point advantage going into the fourth and final frame.

In the final frame the Indians added eight points to increase their lead to 18 before the Rams could get on the scoreboard, and the lead was too much for the Robersonville team to make up. The Rams didn't give up without trying though, as the closing minutes saw the Rams add nine points to none for the Indians to bring the game to within ten when the buzzer sounded.

Alonza McRorie paced the Ram scoring picking up 15 points; he was followed by James with 12.

Tom Manning led the Indian attack with 13, while Gary James had 12, Rickey Parker

11, and Eddie Stokes 10. Robersonville travels to Winterville Friday night, and Bethel goes to Lee Woodard, hoping to increase its win column, with the girls hoping to maintain their undefeated status.

Stokes Collects Seventh Victory

TARBORO — The Stokes-Pacoltus Blue Jays rolled to their seventh straight victory last night, downing South Edgecombe, 63-49.

The girls, however, fell to their hosts 41-25.

In the girls contest, South Edgecombe pulled out to an 11-7 lead in the first period, and held a 19-13 advantage at the half.

In the third period, the lead climbed to 26-16, and South Edgecombe outscored Stokes, 15-9, in the final period to complete the win.

Debbie Webb led South Edgecombe with 22 points.

In the boys contest, Stokes went after revenge and got it quickly. By the end of the first period, Stokes had built up a 16-5 advantage, and they built that to 30-14 by the end of the half.

South Edgecombe rallied in the third quarter, outscoring Stokes 22-16, cutting the lead to 46-36, but Stokes held off any further rally in the final period and remained unbeaten.

Hoyt Haddock led the Stokes scoring with 16 points while Eddie Hudson had 14 and John Corey had 12.

Wes Webb had 20 while Bobby Webb had 11 for South Edgecombe.

Belvoir Rolls By Oak City, 60-44

BELVOIR — Belvoir-Falkland ripped past Oak City last night, 60-44. But the Belvoir girls fell, 45-28, to even things up.

In the girls game, Belvoir inched out into an 8-6 lead in the first period, but Oak City rallied to take a 19-17 lead at the half.

During the third period, Oak City outscored Belvoir, 14-6 and boosted its lead to 33-23, and then coasted home for the win. In the final frame, Oak City outscored Belvoir, 12-5.

Donna Early and Shirley Wynn each scored 12 points to lead Oak City. Teresa Harrell had 15 to pace Belvoir.

In the boys contest, Belvoir pushed away to a 12-4 lead in the first period, then had to struggle through the second quarter which saw Oak City roar back to take a 20-19 edge at the half.

Belvoir came back strong after the intermission and outscored Oak City, 18-8, and built up a 37-28 lead. The Eagles then finished off their opponent by outscoring them 23-16 in the final period to win handily.

William Shirar led the Belvoir attack with 23 points, while Buddy Teel had 15 points.

J. C. Whitfield had 14 and Eddie Brown had 12 to lead Oak City.

Belvoir travels to West Edgecombe on Thursday.

East End Nips Robinson Five

ROBERSONVILLE — East End outlasted Robinson Union High School here last night for a 67-61 victory. It was the third loss in five starts for Robinson.

East End edged out into a 13-11 lead in the first period, and then pulled away to grab a 36-26 lead by the end of the half.

Robinson pulled back in the third period, outscoring East End, 15-11, to trail, 47-41, but the drive ended there. Both teams poured in 20 points in the final period to keep the six-point margin intact.

Ivory Bryant led Robinson with 19 points, while Jeff Jones had 14 and Clinton Person had 10.

South Lenoir Downs Grifton

DEEP RUN — South Lenoir swept a pair of games from the Grifton Bulldogs last night in the opener for Grifton. The South Lenoir boys won, 67-45, while the girls took a 33-14 decision.

In the girls contest, Grifton never got rolling, suffering from bad ball handling. South Lenoir built up a 10-5 lead in the first period, and edged that out to 15-7 by the end of the half.

In the third period, South Lenoir pulled even further out to hold a 25-9 edge as the final period opened. Grifton failed to rally in the final frame, and was outscored 8-5, to fall easily to their hosts.

Miss Posey had 12 to lead South Lenoir, while Miss Taylor had 10.

In the boys game, South Lenoir edged into a 16-11 lead in the first period, and steadily increased its lead to take a 31-22 bulge into the dressing room at the half.

Grifton's boys also suffered from bad ball handling, and South Lenoir was able to move away from the Bulldogs in the second half, to win handily. The score climbed to 47-30 by the end of the third period, and South Lenoir outscored Grifton, 20-15, in the final period.

Grifton was led by Larry Sutton with 13 and Charles Brock with 10.

Byrd had 18 to lead South Lenoir, while Turner and Davis each had 14 and Avery had 12. Grifton hosts South Edgecombe on Friday.

Wisconsin Upsets Fourth Ranked Kansas In First Surprise Of Year

Tar Heels In Second Victory

South Carolina had only one returning starter to its basketball squad this season. But the Gamecocks — if their sophomores come through — could well be a Atlantic Coast Conference team to contend with.

Wake Forest gets its chance tonight.

Both the Demon Deacons and the South Carolina squad are looking for a first ACC victory of the season. Each also wants to make tonight's victory its second consecutive win of the new season.

Wake Forest bills itself as an "improved club." It rolled to an 88-72 victory over Florida Southern in its Saturday opener.

The South Carolina club, still not quite sure what it has this season, chalked up a 51-49 victory over Auburn Saturday.

The only other ACC team scheduled to play tonight is Maryland. The Terps take the court at West Virginia in a non-conference bout.

Only one league team saw action Tuesday night. In that game, second ranked North Carolina routed Oregon 106-73.

The victory was the second-ranked Tar Heels' second consecutive win over the Oregon squad.

And in Tuesday's game, the Tar Heels rolled up a 53-28 first half victory, sparked by Charlie Scott's 28 points.

Monday night U.S. Olympic champion accounted for 34 of North Carolina 89 points. That victory read North Carolina 89, Oregon 78.

In Tuesday's rout, the Tar Heels hit on 44 of 83 shots for 53 per cent, while Oregon connected on 29 of 72 for 40 per cent.

Wisconsin has stamped itself as a contender in the Big Ten Conference basketball race this season, John Powless' first as head coach.

The unranked Badgers surprised the fourth-ranked Kansas Jayhawks 67-6 Tuesday night to the delight of a roaring crowd of 9,113 at Madison. When the game ended, Powless was carried off the floor by cheering players and fans.

North Carolina, Notre Dame, Davidson and Villanova, the other teams in the Associated Press Top Ten to see action, each won as did 15th-ranked Detroit. Marquette, the only other team in the top 20 to play, was beaten by Minnesota.

Charlie Scott threw in 28 points to lead second-ranked North Carolina over Oregon 106-73 at Chapel Hill. Fifth-ranked Notre Dame won on the road beating King's, Pa., at Wilkes-Barre 84-54 behind 20 points by Austin Carr.

Davidson, No. 6, also enjoyed homecourt breeze routing Furman 105-70. Johnny Jones got 30 points to lead 10th-ranked Villanova to a 64-54 home court triumph over Princeton.

Spencer Haywood, of U.S. Olympic fame, scored 37 points to pace Detroit over Western Michigan 106-99 in overtime before 9,500 at Kalamazoo. Haywood got 10 field goals and 17 free throws.

One of his baskets gave the Titans a tie in regulation time and another put Detroit ahead for good in the extra period.

Marquette, No. 20, lost on the road to Minnesota 75-73. "They had us all the way," said Al McGuire, Marquette coach. "This will take us off our high horse."

Ohio Univ. beat Indiana 80-70. Georgia Tech took Southern Methodist 87-79, Oklahoma State downed Arkansas 73-68, George Washington defeated Richmond 97-93, Creighton whipped St. Louis 93-75.

George Washington, Davidson Grab Southern Lead With Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After a season in the cellar, George Washington's Colonials keep demonstrating they may offer Davidson's Wildcats their most serious challenge for the Southern Conference basketball championship.

The Colonials ran their league record to 2-0 and remained deadlocked for the lead with Davidson with a 97-93 victory Tuesday night over Richmond's Spiders. Davidson at the same time was thumping Furman's Paladins, 105-70.

William and Mary's Indians blew an 11 point halftime lead and went down before Pitt 68-62 for their second nonleague defeat in two nights.

As in their opening night victory over The Citadel, the Colonials were led by the Tallent brothers. Sophomore Mike Tallent scored 29 points and senior Bob Tallent poured in 27 as the Colonials jumped to a 14-point lead late in the first half, blew it and then regained it.

Richmond went in front 51-50 with 15 minutes left and 66-63 with 10 minutes remaining before Mike Tallent scored five straight points to send GW in front for good. Kenny Foster had 25 points and Stan Ryfinski 22 for the Spiders, now 0-2 overall.

Davidson, shooting 52.9 per cent from the floor, jumped to a 21 - point lead after 15 minutes and never was in trouble against Furman. It was 48-31 at intermission, and the Wildcats pulled away after that.

Doug Cook had 20 points and Mike Maloy 16 for the Wildcats, who put four players in double figures. Dick Esleeck poured in 31 points for Furman, hitting 17 of 18 free throw tries.

William and Mary led Pitt 37-26 at halftime, but the Panthers scored 11 straight points midway the second half and never were behind again. Mike Caldwell had 18 points and Mike Patcher 17 for Pitt, while Pat King led the Indians with 18.

All conference teams are idle tonight.

Greene Central Spanks E. Duplin

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's Rams opened their season last night with a resounding 73-47 romp over East Duplin.

The Rams never trailed in the game as they raced to their easy victory.

In the first period, Greene Central swept away to a 22-8 lead, and then built that to a 40-18 edge by the half.

During the third period, East Duplin managed to put together a small rally, cutting the lead to 50-33, but Greene Central came back to outscore their guests, 23-14, in the final period to complete the rout.

Micky Quinn led East Duplin with 13 points, while Doug Brown had 10.

For Greene Central, Ron Bowen led the scoring with 18, while Robbie Hill dumped in 16, David Jones had 14 and Malcolm Smith had 10.

Bowen, a 6-7 giant, pulled down 16 rebounds, while Hill added 15 more as Greene Central dominated the rebounding as well as the scoring.

Greene Central hosts Saratoga on Friday.

S. Ayden Edges Eppes In Overtime

AYDEN — South Ayden got a three-point play from Charlie Grimes in the final 10 seconds of an overtime period to defeat Eppes High School in the season opener for the two last night, 59-68.

Eppes shot away to a 21-14 lead in the first period over the Eagles, who finished second in the state in AA ball last year. But in the second period, South Ayden began to roll and cut the lead to 38-32 at the half.

In the third period, South Ayden pulled back to take a 50-49 edge as the buzzer sounded. Then in the final period, the two teams played neck and neck, until William Smith hit on a free throw in the closing seconds to tie it at 62-62 at the end of the regulation game.

In the overtime, Eppes pulled away to a 68-66 lead, when, with 10 seconds left, Grimes hit to tie it up and was fouled. He made the foul shot to complete the three-point play and give the Eagles the slim victory.

Smith led Eppes with 25 points, while Charlie Harris had 15 and James Harris had 11.

Leon Mayo led South Ayden with 17, while John Roundtree had 16 and Grimes had 15.

In the junior varsity preliminary, Eppes, rolled to a 40-19 win.

South Ayden travels to Whitfield on Thursday, while Eppes goes to Kinston on Friday.

Pantego Downs Chicod Twice

PANTEGO — The Pantego Warriors took a pair of victories from Chicod last night. The boys won, 44-37, while the girls took a 28-27 squeaker.

The girls game was tight all the way. Pantego inched out into a 6-5 lead in the first period and added another point to their margin to make it 13-11 at the half.

In the third period, Pantego moved two more points out to lead 18-14. But in the final period, Chicod put on a rally and finally tied it up at 27-27.

But Sue Banner dropped in a foul shot with nine seconds left to give the win to Pantego. Miss Banner led the Pantego scoring with 10 points.

Judy Boyd paced Chicod with 14 points.

In the boys game, it was just as tight. Pantego edged into a 12-10 lead in the first period, but Chicod fought back to take the lead and hold an 18-16 edge at the half.

In the third period, Pantego snipped off a point from the lead and trailed, 32-31 as the final period got underway. In that frame, Pantego caught fire and outscored Chicod, 13-5, to win going away.

Garland Warren led Chicod with 13 points, while Phil Page had 10.

For Pantego, Leathers led with 16 points, while James O'Neal added 14 points.

Chicod travels to William Gaston on Friday.

O'Brien Is Top Southern Player

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Southern Conference football player of the year is Buster O'Brien, the strong-armed Richmond quarterback who led the Spiders to their first league championship in history.

O'Brien, who transferred to Richmond after spending his freshman year of 1965 at Notre Dame, completed 149 of 255 passes for 1,961 yards and a conference season record of 21 touchdowns this past fall as Richmond won seven of 10 games — its best record since 1939.

"Buster made himself what he is," says Richmond coach Frank Jones. "He isn't the greatest natural-born athlete you ever saw, but he showed what work can do. I wouldn't trade him now for any quarterback in the country."

Bethel Union Nips S. Greene, 65-60

BETHEL — Bethel Union gained a 65-60 victory over South Greene last night. It was the third win in seven starts for the Bulldogs.

Bethel started out by moving into an 18-13 lead in the first period. South Greene rallied in the second period and pulled out to tie it up at 30-30 at the half.

During the third period, the going remained tough, with Bethel Union finally emerging with a 52-49 edge. Then in the final period, Bethel Union outscored South Greene, 13-11, to hold on to the win.

Marvin Randolph led the visitors with 26 points, while Ken Gibbs had 16 points.

For Bethel, Richard Robertson led with 27 points, while Joe Staton dumped in 14 and Carlton Highsmith had 10.

In the junior varsity preliminary, Bethel Union rolled to a 61-15 victory.

Bethel Union travels to Sugg on Friday night.

Nixon Has To Contend With Skeptical Negroes

By AUSTIN SCOTT
WASHINGTON (AP) — In his drive to unite the nation, Richard M. Nixon must reckon with a frustrated, skeptical black America that voted overwhelmingly against him.

Negroes—85 per cent of whom voted Democratic—are waiting for Nixon's program to take form around his general campaign statements that federal influence should recede in favor of industry and local government.

"I do not see any significant area where additional legislation could be passed that would be helpful in opening doors that are legally closed," Nixon has said.

"We must now concentrate on such areas as economic development, education, building and strengthening the black community from within and fashioning a new understanding between the races."

But civil rights leaders like Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has doubts about Nixon's philosophy.

"The real basic fight of the Negro population of the United States for the past 60 or 70 years has been against local determination of his citizenship rights," says Wilkins.

"He's oversimplified it when he talks about the free enterprise system handling the problem," said Young. "Free enterprise can handle it, yes, but it's not going to unless it is given certain subsidies and insurance against loss."

Laws prohibit discrimination in employment, but Negroes still work in large numbers in low paying, manual labor jobs. In some fields, such as the building trades, employers are at the mercy of unions that refuse to admit more than a token number of Negro members.

Many Cases Heard In City Recorders Court would offer tax deductions for businessmen and teachers who help train urban Negroes to own or manage businesses.

Whitney M. Young Jr., president of the National Urban League and a man who has spent the past five years prodigal businessmen into Nixon-like programs, is skeptical.
"He's oversimplified it when he talks about the free enterprise system handling the problem," said Young. "Free enterprise can handle it, yes, but it's not going to unless it is given certain subsidies and insurance against loss."
"The government would have to take the same role it took in building the airlines system, and in highway construction. Free enterprise isn't going to do anything unless it has guarantees against loss... They have stockholders, they aren't in the business of social reform. What we need is a plan with a timetable."
And the question unanswered in Nixon's campaign, say civil rights activists, is: What does he do if, left to themselves, the states and private industry do not advance in the civil rights arena?
U.S. Rep. John Conyers, a Michigan Democrat who is a symbol of the increasing political power Negroes have been able to muster, says the problems confronting Nixon are the same as last year—and the year before that.

"The issues don't change from year to year," says Conyers. "We're still working on the old domestic problems in this country that have never been resolved..."
A rundown makes for sober reading:
The two most important achievements so far have been breaking the web of segregation and vote registration laws in the South.
But neither the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation order 14 years ago, nor penalty provisions in the 1964 Civil Rights Act, have made much impact on the all-important education of the nation's Negro children.
In the South, 86 per cent of them still attend notoriously poor segregated schools, according to a report by the Southern Regional Council. The high is Mississippi with 96.1 per cent.
As the rural economy of the South gives way to industrialization, thousands of jobless, ill-educated Negroes flee to the same Northern city slums that have been erupting into violence almost regularly for the past four years.
Negroes are better educated now than ever before, but black unemployment is still double white unemployment. It runs as high as 30 per cent for the 16-24 age group that dominates the streets during riots.

rent, director of the NAACP's program development.
"The growing tendency for cooperation in Mississippi and Alabama can be reversed if the attorney general is known to be unsympathetic. A resourceful, aggressive administrator can find ways to press the guidelines farther in integration."
There are sure to be threats of increased racial violence from some activists who don't like Nixon's approach. They may add to Nixon's problems, but Wilkins warned against thinking that they represent Negroes as a whole.
"It seems to me the Negro population has overwhelmingly demonstrated that it wants to work inside the American system," he said.
"They voted heavily for Mr. Humphrey, of course, but that means that they voted and they didn't listen to the pleas of the extremists to abandon voting and pay no attention to the ballot and so forth."
"In the course of this exercise they elected the first Negro woman in Congress, seven new state legislators in the South, expanded their election to minor offices. They now hold some 370 offices throughout the South."
That kind of increasing political participation, say civil rights leaders, could be one of the most useful elements Nixon has to meet the civil rights problems that confront him.

As an early indication of how Nixon will tackle these problems, Negro leaders are watching his appointments—particularly attorney general.
Nixon's emphasis so far in discussing the attorney general's job has been on crime control, but the attorney general has the power to deal with segregation in schools, public accommodations, some hiring and voter registration.
"The attorney general post is very, very significant, a key appointment," said Gloucester Cur-

CHUCKING IT AFTER 40 YEARS — Frank Meakins, head keeper at Whipsnade Zoo in Bedfordshire, England, who's retiring after 40 years, chuckes Eddy, the male cheetah, under the chin at the zoo. Meakins, who's well known to thousands of visitors at the zoo, has reared in his time there 39 cubs born at the zoo, the first snow leopards bred in the United Kingdom and the first cheetah cubs to be bred in Whipsnade. He was in at the start of Whipsnade in 1928, apart from World War II service as an RAF armorer. (AP Wirephoto)

we care

What's so great about it?

It's a Jane Parker Fruit Cake.

And we think it's great because of what goes into it.

You see, the best fruit cake has less cake...more fruits and nuts.

And Jane Parker Fruit Cake is

OVER 2/3 FRUITS AND NUTS...

with just enough delicious cake to hold the fruits and nuts in place.

It's literally bursting with imported and domestic cherries, pineapple from the Far East, sun-drenched raisins from California, citron from the Caribbean and pecans from the South.

What else can we tell you to convince you that

Jane Parker Fruit Cake is great?

Well, we can tell you about the price.

What would you expect to pay for a fruit cake like this? $8, $7, $6, $5?

How about $4.59 for our 5-lb. cake.

That's great too. Isn't it?

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 NT Pass 4 NT Pass
 6 NT Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Eight of ♠
 North's jump response to four no trump is a raise beyond game, inviting partner to proceed if he has a near maximum no trump. Had it been North's desire to ask for aces, he could have responded with four clubs which is Gerber when employed directly over an opening bid of one, two or three no trump. South, having 17 points and a five card suit, accepted the invitation and proceeded to slam.

West opened the eight of spades and, when the dummy was spread, South observed that his prospects were anything but bright. With only 10 top tricks available—five clubs, one diamond, one heart, and three spades—the none too robust diamond holding presented the only potential prospect for developing the tricks declarer needed to land his slam.

The opening spade lead was taken in dummy by the jack and a small diamond was led to South's queen. West was in again with the king of diamonds and he continued his passive defense by returning another spade. Declarer now had a finesse position established against the jack of diamonds in the form of North's ace-ten but he was in no hurry to try his luck for, even if the finesse succeeded, it would bring his trick total only up to 11—one short. Pressure must be brought to bear against the opposition first.

South cashed his last spade and then proceeded to run the club suit. West's first two discards were hearts, but on the fifth club he found himself placed in a precarious position. He obviously could not afford to blank the king of hearts, so he threw a diamond. A small diamond was led by declarer and the ten was successfully finessed in dummy. North's ace dropped the jack and nine, establishing the four of diamonds as the 12th trick.

West is in position to break the squeeze before the vice can be tightened on him—by merely continuing a diamond when he is in with the king of that suit. The diamond return severs his opponents' "vital line" of communication. South can still arrange to enter the North hand with the third round of spades, however, the dummy must find a discard on the fifth round of clubs before West is obliged to commit himself. If North gives up a heart, West can afford to blank his king; or, if dummy throws a diamond, West can safely do the same.

Give Safe Toys This Christmas

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Here's help for parents, uncles, aunts, grandmas, and grandpas wanting to help Santa pack safe playthings.

The question at toy-buying time: Is this a plaything—or a peril?

Credit the New York State Department of Health with the question—asked in a report by Joseph Bonavita in the department's "Health News."

Bonavita isn't a modern day Scrooge who wants to curb child's play. Neither is the department. The report, you see, aims to help prevent painful injuries, permanent crippling and even—death.

Child accidents kill approximately 19,000 children a year, according to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

That's more than the number of deaths from the top seven diseases of childhood combined. Authorities estimate that from 40,000 to 50,000 children are crippled from such accidents each year. And the American Academy of Pediatrics says that more than two million children each year require medical treatment because of accidental injuries.

Some Reasons
 The improper use of a chemistry set by a child too young for it or not following the manufacturer's instructions, and pow, there goes an eye, an arm or even a life; a baby chews on a wooden toy improperly painted and presto—lead poisoning; a boy finds a .22 caliber bullet in his toy popgun and pulls the trigger.

How was he to know the toy gun would shoot a real bullet—and seriously wound a playmate? It happened in Buffalo, N.Y.

The first line of defense against toy accidents? Buy safe toys, and teach the children to use them properly.

Other tips in "Health News":
 —Buy toys that suit your child's age, sex and temperament—not something that appeals to you or that is the current vogue.
 —Look for and beware of sharp edges and points; small parts that can be removed and swallowed; toys that actually can explode; harmful chemicals; electrical toys without the UL (Underwriters' Laboratories) label; and toxic paints.

—Be sure that your child is old enough to use and is taught how to handle a chemistry set, a riding vehicle, or any similar toy.

—Play equipment should be chosen for its sturdy, well-built qualities and its suitability to the age and development of the children who are to use it. Flimsy, fragile, poorly selected equipment which provides meager play possibilities invites recklessness and possible accidents.

Select by Age
 By ages, the report gives the following advice to consider at toy-buying time:
UP TO ONE YEAR—Select

things for baby to look at, feel, chew, hold and drop. Toys should be washable, nonbreakable and with no sharp edges. They should be large enough so they can't be swallowed. They shouldn't have parts that can be pried off—say, buttons for eyes. Suggested are squeak toys, rattles (sturdy and non-flammable); large colored balls painted with non-poisonous paint; washable stuffed dolls and unbreakable cups to chew on.

FROM ONE TO TWO YEARS
 —Look for playthings to take apart and put back together again and for toys that can be moved from here to there. Avoid large or too heavy toys. Ditto for toys small enough to swallow.

TWO TO FOUR YEARS
 Toddlers like to build things, turn pages of books and experiment with newly discovered abilities. Select things that will help develop senses and muscles. Avoid things that may cut or scratch or poke.

FROM FIVE TO EIGHT YEARS
 Children are strengthening manipulative skills. They like playthings that help develop skills and self confidence. Suggested are: simple games and puzzles; sewing materials; carpenter's bench with well-constructed tools; construction sets; sturdy sled or wagon; roller skates with ball bearing action, rubber shock absorber under front wheel shaft and soft ankle pads.

EIGHT YEARS AND OLDER
 From this age and into adolescence, play interests vary according to individual preferences and abilities. They like things which stimulate interests and which develop speed, accuracy and coordination of physical and mental abilities. Suggested are: Construction or model sets (but beware of toxic or harmful glue); real carpenter bench and tools; hobby material—arts and crafts, photography, coins and stamps, puppets; electric games, trains and road racing sets (with UL approval tag); outdoor playground and gym equipment, well-constructed; record players, tape recorders and small radios (with UL tag). All electrically operated things should be inspected regularly for defects during their lifetime.

Other cautions:
 —A young chemist should perform only experiments outlined in the set's instructions.
 —Bicycles are involved in accidents injuring 5,000 and killing more than 300 children under 14 each year. Prevention starts with owning a safe bike—and keeping it in safe condition.
 "Along with the existing hazards," Bonavita said, "children and some manufacturers add new and dangerous equipment to their bikes."

Southern Bell's Proposed Changes Mean $2.64 Million

RALEIGH (AP)—A series of rate changes proposed in North Carolina by Southern Bell Telephone Co. would bring in net revenue of about $2,640,000 next year.

John Ryan, vice president for Southern Bell's North Carolina operations, made the estimate Tuesday.

Contacted by telephone in Charlotte, Ryan said that although the net effect of the rate changes would bring in about $2,640,000, the company would "still probably have a $2 million deficit by the end of the year."

He said the company plans to launch a massive "service expansion program" which will increase its 1969 budget.

"The rate adjustments," he stated, "will cover all but about $2 million of what we hope to do next year." He added Southern Bell hopes to reduce the deficit through increased sales and greater efficiency of operations.

Southern Bell filed the proposed rate adjustments Monday with the state Utilities Commission and requested that they go into effect Jan. 1.

"We estimate," Ryan said, "that the reduction in zone and mileage charges will cost us about $860,000 in the next year."

A proposed 50-cent increase in monthly service charges on one-party residential lines would bring in about $3 million during 1969. A $2 hike in the fees for installation of phones would produce about $500,000 Ryan said.

Edward B. Hipp, attorney for the Utilities Commission, said "a request for more data will be made of the company if the commission decides that this is a general rate case and that there will be a public hearing."

U.S. Seeks Backing For Middle East Plan

Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The United States is reported seeking the support of key nations for a new seven-point plan to bring peace between Israel and Egypt.

Informed diplomats said the initiative by President Johnson's administration gathered momentum after the Nov. 5 election and has attracted the interest of President-elect Richard M. Nixon's encourage.

The informants, who declined to be identified, said the American plan foresees as a starting point Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula and Egypt's determination of its 20-year-old state of war with the Jewish nation.

The ultimate aim of the U.S. program is an acceptable peace document signed by the main contenders in the Middle East conflict, the diplomats said. The American plan is said to reflect the chief ingredients of a resolution adopted by the United Nations Security Council in November, 1967, after the six-day Arab-Israeli war.

Informants gave this outline of the American plan:

1. Withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Sinai desert. This would leave the status of Israeli-occupied Jerusalem and other former Arab areas unsettled.

2. An end to the state of war between Egypt and Israel. Israeli relations with other Arab neighbors, particularly Jordan and Syria, would be settled later.

3. A settlement of the future of Arab refugees in Israeli-occupied territory. On this issue Jerusalem is believed to have offered international talks.

4. Egyptian acceptance of the principle of free Israeli navigation through such international waterways as the Suez Canal and the Tiran Strait.

5. Replacing Israeli troops with United Nations soldiers in Sharm-El-Sheikh, the desert fortress guarding the Tiran Strait. The ouster of a U.N. garrison from this outpost by President Gamal Abdel Nasser in mid-1966 was a key factor that led to the six-day war.

6. An East-West agreement to restrict arms supplies to the Middle East contenders.

7. Signatures of the two main parties on a peace treaty. Nasser's government has refused to contemplate a peace treaty with Israel.

The informants said Secretary of State Dean Rusk presumably discussed the plan with the Israeli and Egyptian foreign ministers, Abba Eban and Mahmoud Riad, at meetings in New York Nov. 3.

The Americans have been trying to rally the support for the plan from several major powers, including the Soviet Union, India and Britain, the informants said.

Israeli reaction was not reported. But based on past Israeli pronouncements, the Jerusalem government likely would be cool to any proposition beginning with a surrender of the occupied territory.

Egypt was said to be skeptical. The sources said Egyptian leaders advised friendly governments they find it difficult to reconcile the U.S. peace program with President Johnson's decision last month to sell the Israeli Phantom jet fighter planes.

The informants said the American proposal probably was discussed by Nasser aides and Robert Anderson who visited Cairo last month on a mission for President Johnson. They added the plan also might be discussed when former Gov. William Scranton, another high-level Nixon emissary, visits its key Middle East capitals soon.

Demonstrators' Rights Limited, Says Justice

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Hugo L. Black, parting still farther the curtain of silence that traditionally shrouds the Supreme Court, says nothing gives demonstrators the right to "tramp" streets—such as those of Chicago—or assemble on private or government property.

"The Constitution doesn't say that any man shall have a right to say anything he wishes, anywhere he wants to go," the court's senior justice said Tuesday night in an unprecedented hour-long national television interview.

Rocking gently before a desk in the study of his suburban Virginia home, the 82-year-old Black frequently used dry wit and an effin grin to season a philosophy that appears little changed after 31 years on the court.

Never far from his hand during the edited result of eight hours of questioning was a well-thumbed paperback copy of the Constitution which Black said he carried always in his pocket.

He referred to it often—but just as often quoted from memory—in touching on the makeup of the court, disorders that surrounded the Democratic National Convention in Chicago and major decisions, including a regret about the phrasing of the 1954 school desegregation ruling.

Black was asked to apply his oft-stated beliefs on free speech and assembly to the bloody August clashes between police and antiwar protesters at the Democratic convention. He made it clear his answer applied to both private and government property.

The Constitution, Black said, "does not say people shall have a right to assemble to express views on other people's property. It just doesn't say it. It says they have a right to assemble if they're peaceable. But it doesn't say how far you can go in using other people's property."

He said he knows of nothing that "gives people the right to tramp up and down the streets by the thousands."

Black, however, took note of the fact a case arising from the Chicago disorders could come before the court.

"I don't want to say what my view would be, because I don't know what the evidence would show," Black said.

Black touched on several cases in which he took part. But perhaps his most startling comment came on the school desegregation decision of 1954.

He said that the phrase "with all deliberate speed" possibly should not have been included because, he said, the wording has been used to delay integration.

The Black interview was billed by the Columbia Broadcasting System as having no precedent on television. Black, however, over the years has been one of the court's most candid members and once went so far in an article as to say most libel decisions are unconstitutional.

Parade . . .

(Continued from Page 1) float, the last one, had cleared the business area by 5:30. The parade had started at Ninth and Dickinson at 5 p.m.

Greenville's new Christmas decorations were lit up for the first time last night as the parade got underway. Big decorative Santas at Five Points twinkled as thousands of people looked on.

Frank Diener and Wes Measamer were co-chairmen and Jaycees acted as parade marshals.

Chamber Merchants Manager Harold Creech paid tribute to police for their "courteous and efficient" handling of the crowds and traffic following the parade.

Despite the rain, Creech said, the crowds "surprisingly seemed bigger than ever."

Soviet Navy In Pacific Exercise

TOKYO (AP) — The Soviet Union says it is beginning a naval exercise in the Northern Pacific and the maneuvers will continue until Jan. 2, the Japanese Maritime Safety Agency reported.

The Japanese agency said the Soviet government advised it the exercise would take place in an area of 9,000 square miles southeast of Iturup Island, which is off Hokkaido, the northernmost big Japanese island. The Soviet government asked the agency to warn all fishing boats away from the area between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. each day.

Ava Gardner In Rare Visit Home

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Film actress Ava Gardner has come home again after almost 10 years.

The Smithfield native who went to Hollywood and became a star is visiting her brother and two sisters. She arrived here Saturday from London where she now lives.

Her brother, Jack Gardner, Smithfield oil dealer, said Miss Gardner is expected to leave Thursday.

Miss Gardner was seen Tuesday night in Chapel Hill rooting for the North Carolina Tar Heels as they defeated Oregon.

She went to the game with her cousin, Fred Gardner and his wife.

Feels 4 Million Lives At Stake

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The United States cannot, by itself, impose a solution to hostilities in Nigeria, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach says, but unless one is found, as many as four million Biafrans will starve to death within a few months.

Katzenbach, speaking to nearly 1,000 Brown University students Tuesday night, said that if both sides in the conflict continue "to put political advantage ahead of people's lives, then one of the most terrible famines in modern times is certain and inevitable.

Brazilian Radio Required Carry Gov't Program

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil's lowest-rated radio program, officially known as the "Voice of Brazil", is broadcast for an hour every night on every radio station in the country.

To most Brazilians it's known as the hour of silence. Some pride themselves on being able to turn off their set just before the first bar of the program's theme music, Carlos Gomes' "Guarani."

The government, which produces the program in Brasilia and requires its broadcast by all commercial stations, considers the program a key factor in national integration. It's a kind of spoken official gazette, which is supposed to bring the public up-to-date.

The program is divided into three segments, covering the activities of all three branches of the government: the executive, the judiciary and the legislative.

Now plans have been announced to require televised broadcast of government documentaries as well.

The Jornal do Brasil said it was part of a government scheme to polish its public image. The newspaper linked the plan with creation of a public relations commission within the presidency to produce government news.

The government has replied it is only interested in "bringing to the public in a systematic fashion the basic news of the government's work."

The program's coverage of Congress reflects opposition views as well as those of government supporters, but is presented in such a dull fashion that it does little to inspire faith or interest.

Occasionally the program yields a bombshell.

The government's decision to strip former President Juscelino Kubitschek of his political rights four years ago was announced on the program, as was the abolition of the so-called "broad front" of opposition earlier this year. Both were sandwiched in between routine announcements.

Presidential speeches are sometimes broadcast on the program two or three days late. This is of some interest to remote villages in Brazil's sprawling interior, but it puts the urban listener to sleep.

In fact it is to the people of the interior that the program is mainly directed, enabling them to maintain at least some contact with the rest of the country.

Some officials have managed to turn the program into a kind of personal promotion organ. The most successful is Sen. Vasconcellos Torres, a mustachioed legislator from the state of Rio de Janeiro. Because each request for information sent by a member of Congress to an executive department is reported on the program, Torres' name is mentioned three or four times each evening in connection with the most varied requests imaginable.

Expedition Was Easy Compared To Adm. Byrd's

BOSTON (AP) — The leader of a globe-circling transpolar flight intended as "an animated memorial" to the late explorer Adm. Richard E. Byrd says his expedition "had it pretty soft compared to the admiral."

Cmdr. Fred G. Dustin, 58, his wife and 60 businessmen landed Tuesday, 26 days after they left Boston on what Dustin said was the world's first commercial flight over both the north and south poles.

"In 1930, Byrd took 11 hours to fly from Little America to the South Pole in the most advanced aircraft of his time, a lumbering Ford Trimotor," Dustin said. "Our four-jet plane made it to the pole in a matter of minutes."

Dustin said the trip also was intended to promote commercial development of the polar regions.

Segment Of Pipe Fell 7 Floors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 40-foot section of pipe weighing 2,000 pounds slipped out of workmen's hands Tuesday on the seventh floor of a bank. It dropped down a six-story shaft, crashed through the ceiling of the main floor and into a downstairs lunchroom, sticking straight-up six inches deep in concrete.

A bank guard was hit by falling plaster, and a woman clerk was cut on the hand.

Car And Plane In Street Collision

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Traffic cops were star-led when they received a call saying a car and an airplane had collided in a city street. So was the motorist who found himself heading straight for the plane which was taxiing towards him with its landing lights on. The plane's owners explained they intended exhibiting it at the annual Pretoria Show, and they decided to taxi it to the showgrounds.

The Worry Clinic Nobody Is Immune To Those Mental Blocks

Arthur is in the same boat with almost every one of you readers. For all of us, at one time or another, will suffer from a mental block that may make us seem ridiculous. Note how one of America's leading clergymen did likewise. And see how I committed the faux pas when I omitted the "Amen" from my Sunday School benediction.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE H-550: Arthur D., aged 56, is chairman of the board of a Detroit corporation. "Dr. Crane," he recently confessed, "I was presiding recently and turned to our new vice-president so I could introduce him to our board. "But, though I knew his name almost as well as my own, I suddenly had a mental block. "My mind went blank and I simply could not recall his name. "It was very embarrassing, to say the least. Am I growing senile?" These momentary lapses of recall for a name or date, are likely to affect everybody. And they are no reflection on your I.Q. nor an index of senility!

Once when I was in high school, I started to introduce my younger brother, John, and I couldn't remember his name! Moreover, Dr. Ernest F. Tittle, famous pastor of the leading church at Evanston, once started to lead the congregation in reciting the Lord's Prayer. But he forgot part of it and was so humiliated that thereafter he had the Lord's Prayer, plus the 23rd Psalm, printed and taped to the top of his lectern.

Once I also made the same error in leading my Bible Class at the Chicago Temple in reciting the Lord's Prayer, so I can sympathize with Dr. Tittle.

Back in 1944, I had been asked to handle the direct mail publicity for Senator John Bricker, who was opposing Tom Dewey for the Republican presidential nomination.

For weeks prior to the convention I had worked late, preparing and directing the mailing to the 2,000 delegates and alternates.

And I had dictated till about 2 a.m., so I could leave plenty of work for my secretaries while we drove to Indiana for a respite.

Next morning was Sunday so we attended Sunday School. Without any warning, the Superintendent there suddenly asked me to dismiss the session with prayer.

After a few sentences, I ended and lifted my head, expecting to leave. But everybody else had his head still bowed.

It surprised me and for an instant I couldn't figure out what was wrong. Then, vaguely echoing in my ears, were the final words of my prayer, namely, "Cordially yours."

Apparently, I had been so groggy that I thought I was still back in Chicago dictating letters to you newspaper "fans." In desperation, I finally uttered a belated "Amen."

Nobody showed surprise at my "Cordially yours" or my belated "Amen." But later that afternoon, the Superintendent was at our house so I confessed my faux pas.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "I noticed it but I thought maybe that was the new style being set in the big Chicago churches, so I said nothing!"

Fatigue will thus cause slips of the tongue and memory blockages, just as they will also produce typographical errors when you are at a typewriter.

Carrying two ideas in mind may likewise cause you to mix up your words. So don't get a "complex" because you do what Dr. Tittle and I have done, or suffer a blockage, as Arthur did at his board meeting!

Mountie Doesn't Always Get Man

RESOLUTE BAY, Northwest Territories (AP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer Al Ritchie has one of the biggest police beats in the world, but his chances of encountering any crime as he makes his rounds are about zero.

His beat starts at Resolute Bay, 1,500 miles north of Winnipeg on Cornwallis Island, and runs north through Canada's Arctic islands to the North Pole — an area of thousands of square miles.

"I never get a good case," he says. "Crime just doesn't exist here as it does in other places. There has never been anything like an armed robbery."

"I have a room as a cell here, but it is usually just used for letting the old drunk cool off." During the winter, when temperatures, with wind-chill factor, may go as low as the equivalent of 120 below zero, about 200 people live on his beat. He knows them all personally.

In the summer, resource survey crews move in, and "incidents" increase slightly. Much of the officer's work consists in helping the year-round residents of his area with day-to-day problems.

He hunts with Eskimo friends and does much of his traveling by dog team. In an emergency, he chartered an aircraft.

Constable Ritchie, who joined the RCMP in 196, expects soon to return to conventional police work.

"I think a man can stay out in the wilds too long."

RED PARTY LISTS SHARPLY DECLINE

MELBOURNE (AP) — Communist Party membership in Australia has dropped from 25,000 to 5,000 in the last 20 years, according to the vice president of the Australian Communist Party, John Sedy.

Sedy told a political science society meeting at Melbourne University that the Communist Party had failed to attract any section of the younger generation.

Problems in Communist countries throughout the world over the past 10 years, he said, had forced the Australian Communist Party to begin a serious examination of its policies and theories.

COMMON LANGUAGE

TEJPUR, India (AP) — Hindi is becoming the link language among the tribes of India's northeast frontier areas. Each tribe speaks its own dialect which is not understandable by other tribes. So they are all learning Hindi now.

COWS LIKE CULTURE

NEW DELHI (AP) — The sacred cows of India apparently are great connoisseurs of music, especially instrumental music. The agricultural university at Sharda gram in Gujarat state experimented with 35 cows and found them responsive to fine arts. When records were played for them at milking time, they gave 15 percent more milk.

Appearance Of Christmas Seals Heralds The Season

One sure sign that Christmas is drawing near is the appearance of the annual Christmas seals in the mail. Since 1907, when a single design showing a spray of holly, inscribed "Merry Christmas — Happy New Year" appeared, the Christmas seal has been a familiar part of our Christmas tradition.

Until 1920 the Red Cross symbol was used on Christmas seals. Beginning that year, the Cross of Lorraine symbol was used. In 1954 the first seals appeared with two different designs, and in 1962 four designs in a block were used to picture four Christmas themes.

This year's seal portrays "Partridge in a Pear Tree", one part of an old English legend of "The Twelve Days of Christmas". It is a single design, but is used in two arrangements, one with the partridge facing left, and one facing right. Two basic background colors are used, lemon yellow for a block of four and blue - green for a block of four. These blocks alternate in a sheet of 100 seals, furnishing 25 blocks, 12 in yellow and 13 in blue-green.

The design is of a partridge, in brown and white, a golden-brown pear with a touch of red, and two branches in brown with green and blue leaves. The words "Greetings 1968" are in red.

Of more recent vintage, but becoming part of the American Christmas tradition, is the issuance by the U. S. Post Office of a first class rate postage stamp with a Christmas theme.

The first American Christmas postage stamp appeared in 1962. The design of that stamp featured a wreath and two candles.

This year's Christmas stamp has as its central picture the figure of the Angel Gabriel from "The Annunciation", a famous religious painting by the 15th century Flemish master, Jan van Eyck.

The Angel Gabriel wears a robe of red velvet, heavily embroidered in gold. His wings are peacock feathers. He wears a crown of gold, and his long brown hair, touched with golden lights, falls down his back. In his left hand he carries a silver wand.

Colors of the stamp are red, yellow, blue, and brown. The red robe dominates the colors. The lettering "Christmas 6-cents" across the top, and "UNITED STATES" across the bottom, are in red.

Van Eyck's famous painting is reputed to have been painted while the Flemish artist was a court painter to Philip the Good of Burgandy between 1425-1430. In 1819 a resident of Brussels sold the painting to William II of the Netherlands. It was acquired in 1850 by Czar Nicholas of Russia. In 1937 the USSR sold this painting, along with others, to Andrew Mellon

A Difference In Placing Words

DEMING, N.M. (AP) — A faculty member asked the staff of the Deming High School newspaper staff, the Broadcaster, to correct a quotation attributed to him.

The teacher's motto, "Good years just don't happen," should have read, "Good years don't just happen."

He told editor Emily Ann Tobey he doesn't want want anyone to think he has a defeatist attitude.

Sam Is Cozy In The Girls' Dorm

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Sam Spectra recently checked into a private suite in the basement of the girls' dormitory at Shippensburg State College and already the students and faculty appreciate his presence and talent.

Sam is an RCA Spectra 70-45 time-sharing computer system — nicknamed "Sam" by the girls in the dorm — that helps solve difficult mathematical, chemical and business administration problems, figure payrolls and perform other administrative functions. "He even 'talks' to us when answering some of the difficult problems we have in class," said one co-ed, who obviously finds it nice to have "a man around the house."

India Exported Iron And Steel

NEW DELHI (AP) — India exported about 1.2 million metric tons of iron and steel valued at more than $72 million in fiscal year 1967-68. The exports were made to 31 countries which included the United States, Britain, Austria, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, the Soviet Union and Poland.
