Army Takes Over 2 New Schools In Libya; Declare Nation 'Republic' Will Open Doors Tuesday Morn lunches until the cafeteria is ready for use."

Two new schools — Aycock Junior High and Eastern Elementary — will be used for the first time tomorrow as Greenville schools begin their 1969-70 year.

Another new school, the Eastern Elementary School, is ready for occupancy, including the cafeteria facilities.

"All is in readiness for the city schools to open tomorrow as scheduled," announced Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of City School System.

All the other schools are in complete readiness." Dr. Cleetwood states. "Bus service will commence as announced earlier," he commented.

In a rundown of facilities, Dr. Cleetwood stated that "The new junior high, the Aycock school, has all classrooms ready for occupancy. For a short time, lunchroom services will be by special arrangement with a food firm who will furnish milk and bag

Approximately 6,000 school children will be attending the elementary, junior high and senior high schools within the city. A total of 269 certified teachers, plus a number of special assistants, will be on hand tomorrow to start off the 1969-1970 school year.

Base Camp Is Turned Over To S. Viets

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command today turned over an infantry division base camp to the South Vietnamese army for the first time in the war and announced that "American operations at the big Nha Trang Air Base are being significantly reduced."

Parents are reminded of daily school opening hours — 8:15 a.m. for grades 1-6, and 8:45 for grades 7-12. Dismissal time on opening day only will be 10:30 a.m. for elementary grades, and 11:45 a.m. for higher grades. On Wednesday, regular dismissal time will be effective.

The command also reported that American troop strength in Vietnam has dropped to 511,000, the lowest in 18 months, as a result of the withdrawal of 25,000 U.S. troops announced by President Nixon last June 8. The last of the 25,000 troops left Thursday.

With school operations based on the concept of geographically zoned elementary schools, two junior high schools with a freedom-of-choice selection for this year, and a central senior high school, the system will be operating according to plans shaped up earlier by the Greenville Board of Education members.

U.S. military spokesman said the turnover of the infantry division base camp and the reduction of American activities at Nha Trang were part of the program to "Vietnamize the war effort," meaning to shift more of the war burden to the South Vietnamese armed forces.

This plan has not been fully accepted by HEW, which has stipulated it meets its criteria except for the situation at Sadie Sautler. The Greenville plan of outright geographical zoning results in Sadie Sautler being an all-Negro school. Officials of HEW objected to this, and asked the board to pair Sadie Sautler and Aves Fullilove, which the board voted not to do.

The base camp had been the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and is at Dong Tam, in the Mekong Delta 40 miles southwest of Saigon. It was turned over to the Army of the Republic of Vietnam in a ceremony today attended by top-ranking generals.

Dr. Cleetwood, representatives of the board of education and of the N.C. Attorney General's office, and others will meet with representatives of the Office of General Counsel in Washington, D.C. in late September in efforts to resolve this point of contention.

"Whatever the results may be," Dr. Cleetwood stated, it is only these two schools which enter the picture at this time. All other phases of the plan offered by the Board of Education have been accepted.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The army took control of the oil-rich Arab kingdom of Libya today and declared it a republic, Benghazi Radio announced. The revolt came while Libya's 79-year-old king, Idris I, was vacationing in Turkey. He had maintained firm control of the North African country since it became independent in 1950.

Once one of the most backward countries in North Africa, Libya in the past 10 years has been propelled into the jet age by oil discoveries which now provide the government about a billion dollars a year. More than 40 U.S. and European countries are at work in the country, and since the Suez Canal was closed by the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, Libya has been one of Western Europe's chief oil sources.

play political or executive abilities.

All airports and ports were closed and a curfew imposed, the Libyan radio announced. The U.S. Embassy in Tripoli reported a Radio Libya broadcast which said the army would be responsible for the protection of all foreigners in the country. The broadcast called the revolt "a purely internal matter" and said it "is not aimed at any country or agreement."

Associated Press Correspondent Allan Jacks reported from Libya in May that the vast new wealth pouring into the country had created a "new monied class who ... spend freely and not always wisely." But he said so far they had kept away from government and had little political influence.

KING IDRIS ... deposed?

The radio said the army had assumed control of the country to rid it of "reactionary and corrupt elements." Telephone and cable service in and out of Libya was suspended.

King Idris is childless and designated a nephew, 35-year-old Hassan el-Rida, as crown prince. But the monarch has given him no opportunity to disorientation day for students, while the first full day of school will be held Wednesday.

The summer vacation for some 12,300 Pitt County students will end Tuesday morning when the 1969-70 school year for Pitt County schools begins.

The same schools that were in operation last year will continue to be in operation this year, Alford said. No new schools have been opened and no old schools have been closed.

The 168 county school buses went out Friday and are ready for the school opening. Bus routing will be basically the same this year as it was last year.

"We are very optimistic about the school year before us," Alford noted.

"The schools will open this year with approximately 45 per cent of the students in a desegregated situation," Pitt County Superintendent of Schools Arthur Alford said, "with approximately the same percentage of personnel working in desegregated situations."

The base camp had been the headquarters of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division and is at Dong Tam, in the Mekong Delta 40 miles southwest of Saigon. It was turned over to the Army of the Republic of Vietnam in a ceremony today attended by top-ranking generals.

A new program for first graders who are not ready for first grade work will be instituted this year.

"We anticipate that approximately 30 per cent of the students entering the first grade this year will not be ready to do first grade work," Alford said. "During the past year Mrs. Janie Manning has been developing a curriculum for these classes (11 of them) where first grade material will not be presented."

Thieu Invokes Change

SAIGON (AP) — New Prime Minister Tran Thien Kham formally organized a 31-member Cabinet today that appeared, at least on the surface, to have broadened the political base of the South Vietnamese government.

Naming of the Cabinet ended a government crisis that had reached its long-expected peak Aug. 2 when Prime Minister Tran Van Huong was eased out of office.

Despite criticism of the choice of yet another military man for a top political post, President Nguyen Van Thieu then picked Kham, a four-star general, to organize a new government.

At first glance, the personnel he presented to Thieu in a ceremony appeared likely to please some American officials who have pressed Thieu to broaden and unify the base of his government — by including more civilians of wider political variety.

But it fell short of American wishes for the additional creation of an advisory council of top figures representing factions and elements of South Vietnam's public who might not have a strong voice in the government itself.

The group named by Kham to serve in the Cabinet included three military men besides himself. One of them was Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Vy, defense minister and one of nine holdovers from Huong's Cabinet.

Many of the others are professional men — lawyers, doctors and engineers. The group also contains several professors and teachers, and many persons who were politically active in past years, including in the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Azalea Festival Dates Changed

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — Dates for the 1970 Azalea Festival at Wilmington next spring have been changed to April 2-5, a week earlier than previously announced.

Festival spokesman said the change in dates was made because of weather research on 11 previous festivals and because of availability of facilities on the first weekend in April.

Beginning Today

RALEIGH (AP) — Beginning today, persons suspected of drunken driving in North Carolina will be required to take a breathalyzer or blood test under a law enacted by the 1969 General Assembly.

Refusal to submit to a test will result in suspension of the driver's license for 60 days. "This law is not designed to produce arrests," Motor Vehicles commissioner Joe Garrett said in a prepared statement.

"It is a law designed by the legislature to make a significant contribution to highway safety, to help us rid our highways of the drinking driver."

The new implied consent law says that any person who operates a motor vehicle in North Carolina "shall be deemed to have given consent" to a breathalyzer or blood test if suspected of drunken driving.

Lt. Col. Edwin Guy, newly appointed commander of the State Highway Patrol, says when a person applies for a new driver's license in North Carolina or renews his license, the implied consent law is not pointed out to him specifically but it is in the driver's manual.

Under the new law, if a motorist refuses to take a test, he will have three days to request a hearing before the Department of Motor Vehicles to determine if his arrest was justified.

The accused person will be permitted to call an attorney and select a witness to view the test, providing the test is not delayed more than 30 minutes.

If a person is cleared of the drunk driving charge within 60 days, the Department of Motor Vehicles must immediately return the license.

Surprise For Some In Mailing Of Tax Bills

Tax bills will be sent to about 26,000 individual property owners in Pitt County during the next two weeks, and some of them may be surprised.

According to R. S. Moyer, Pitt County Tax Supervisor, owners of more than one piece of real property will receive one bill for each parcel, whereas in the past, all property owned by an individual was included on one bill. Moyer said the individual parcel billing will mean that about 35,000 tax notices will be mailed. He said the individual billing procedure being used is designed to simplify the billing through the county's data processing system.

All tax notices this year have been figured by the computer, Moyer said, but added that the bills have been "checked and checked" again in order to insure against error. Emphasizing that each piece of real property will be listed on a separate tax bill, the tax supervisor explained that the owner of a development, for example, would receive one tax bill for each lot in the development. Moyer noted that the bills represent a total of $3,374,216.07 due the county. Persons paying their taxes during the month of September will be entitled to a one-and-a-half per cent discount, while those paying during the month of October will receive a one per cent discount. In November, tax payers will be given a one half per cent cut, while in December and January tax payers must pay the net amount.

For persons paying after January (beginning February 1), a one-per-cent penalty will be added while in March two per cent will be added to the bill for late payment.

After March the penalty will increase a half per cent per month, Moyer explained.

Some curriculum changes have been made in the high school area also. Mrs. Lurleen Wheelless of Farmville (Science), Mrs. Thelma Ruth Switzer of Stokes-Pactolus (English) and Earl Denton of Grifton (mathematics) have spent the summer rewriting a portion of the ninth grade curriculum in the area of math, science and English.

Australian Says Soviet Letter Points To Red War

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The chairman of the Maoist faction of the Australian Communist party, Edward F. Hill, returned from Communist China today amid speculation he had warned Peking of future Soviet moves on the Soviet-Chinese border.

Hill, who refused to discuss his visit, arrived in Peking Aug. 24. He went following the arrival in Australia of a letter the Soviet Communist Party is reported to have sent to Communist parties around the world. It warns that the Soviet Union will take a tough line with China over border clashes, claims China is planning a draw-out border war and hints that Russia could move first. Denis Warner, the Australian journalist and expert on Southeast Asia, said today that he had "probably the only copy of the letter outside Communist party hands."

The letter accuses China of 860 violation of the frontier during the first six months of 1969. More than 6,000 people were said to have taken part, including 3,000 servicemen. The letter went on:

"The fact that practical preparations for war are being undertaken in China is obvious. The army is being strengthened and military production increased. A number of civil enterprises are going over to war production. "The whole population is undergoing training for war and is being organized along military lines. "Blood donors are being called for all over the country. "On the Chinese-Soviet frontier military installations are being erected, armed units concentrated and civil population is being evacuated. A system of military strong points is being strengthened and the people's militia is being armed. " . . . Peking, not risking to begin a big war, is calculating on turning the Soviet-Chinese frontier into a 'bleeding wound' to create here endless armed conflict which the Mao group tries to use for their own speculative political aims."

Among incidents charged in the letter: Chinese troops masquerading as shepherds with a flock of sheep secretly entered Soviet territory and opened fire with submachine guns on Soviet frontier guards. Another Chinese group attacked unarmed Soviet river workers erecting navigational signals, killing one, and wounding three. On July 13, in the middle section of the Amur River, the Chinese fired on a Soviet motorboat. Five days later the Chinese destroyed buoys erected by Soviet river workers. And on July 20 they invaded a Soviet island, dug trenches and erected fortifications.

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Sunday

ROANOKE RAPIDS — Miss Gloria Jean Wall became the bride of Hayward Earl Rose in a ceremony Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church here.

The Rev. John Walker officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denton B. Wall of Rt. 2, Roanoke Rapids. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Carrie Rose of Weldon and the late Mr. Oscar V. Rose.

The church was decorated with a basket of mixed summer flowers and a fifteen-branched candelabrum and bridal palms.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. William Griffin, organist, and Paul Pope, soloist, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

"Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal medium - waisted gown designed with an A-line skirt and detachable train. The gown, made of nylon organza lined with acetate taffeta, was trimmed with acetate lace and sequins. Her two-tiered bouffant veil of nylon tulle was attached to a forward crown of petals and lace with simulated pearls. She carried a prayer book centered with a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids tied with satin streamers.

Miss Patricia Ann Nowell was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Barbara Hargrave and Miss Dorothy Lassiter.

The attendants wore identical formal empire style dresses of mint green with full bell-shaped sleeves. They carried yellow mum nosegays.

Robert Norton was his brother's best man. Ushers were Denton Wall, brother of the bride, and Donald Nowell.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wall chose a light blue linen dress with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige linen dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white corsages.

For a wedding trip to Nags Head, the bride wore a brown and white sleeveless dress with brown accessories and the corsage lifted from her bouquet. The couple will reside at 1309 Roanoke Ave., Big Oak Trailer Court, Roanoke Rapids.

The bride is a graduate of Roanoke Rapids High School and Halifax County Technical Institute of Practical Nursing. The bridegroom is a graduate of Weldon High School and is employed by J. P. Stevens Company.

The bride's parents entertained the Rose-Wall wedding party and guests at an after-rehearsal party Saturday night in the Patterson Recreation Center.

Should Her Parents Obtain A Divorce?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely beside myself with the news my parents gave me this morning. They drove over here and calmly announced that after 44 years of marriage they are getting a DIVORCE! I honestly believe they have taken leave on their senses.

They have had their differences like all married couples, but they have never separated—not even for one day. I can't imagine what has come over them.

Dad says that he is 70, and if the good Lord gives him another five years, he wants to live them in peace. Mother who is 69 says she feels the same way.

I suggested a larger apartment with TWO bedrooms, frequent separate vacations, a trial separation—ANYTHING, but divorce. But they insist they have thought it over and this is what they both want. Abby, they have children and grandchildren who love and respect them. What can we tell people? How can parents disgrace their families that way? I would like your opinion.

did out of consideration for you. They need compassion, not criticism.

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter in your column from the man who named his parakeet "STUPID" because he couldn't get the bird to utter one word, I wondered if maybe the MAN wasn't stupid. Chances are he has himself a she-bird instead of a he-bird. And everyone knows that when it comes to parakeets, only the male talks. The females aren't good for anything, except maybe laying eggs.

A MALE (OF COURSE)
DEAR MALE: What do you mean, "The females aren't good for anything, EXCEPT maybe laying eggs"? That strikes me as a function at least equal in importance to vocalizing. Typical masculine attitude. The female lays the eggs and the rooster does the crowing.

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet the following open letter—could have been written by thousands of girls across the country. And I hope thousands of girls learn from it:

Dear "Friends,"

Remember me? I'm your old girl friend. The one you used to have so much fun with before you met "him." I'm the one you suddenly didn't have time for—the one you would call at the last minute and cancel your plans with because "he" called.

I'm the one who was never included in your party plans because I didn't have a steady and couldn't always get a date. I'm the one who sat patiently and listened to you talk about china patterns and sterling, but you never really cared what I had to say.

Then the diamond appeared on YOUR finger... and you suddenly remembered me again. You asked me to shell out $50 for shower and wedding gifts. I gave counting hours of time and effort performing the duties of a member of the wedding and all I have to show for it is a closet full of once-worn dresses I didn't even like, a low bank balance, sore feet and hurt feelings.

So, "friends," you may have forgotten me, but I'll never forget you—or the lessons you taught me.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Godley of Grimesland announce the marriage of their son, AIC Ned H. Godley, to Miss Virginia M. Hipolito of the Philippines, on Aug. 20. The couple will reside in North Carolina after AIC Godley's tour of duty.

DEAR HURT: Don't cry. She'll remember you again. When the baby comes.

KID-PROOF

There are two sure-fire ways to keep active, growing youngsters from tearing up the house. Either insist that they let off steam outdoors, or else give them a room of their own that's specially designed to take hard treatment. Since the first alternative involves the uncertainties of weather, it's usually a better idea to invest in a separate playroom. Besides saving wear and tear on the rest of the house, a playroom gives youngsters a place in which they can do the things they want in their own way. This is an important step in their growth process. Now that you have the youngsters in their kid-proof surroundings, why not redo your living room? Let us assist you with this changeover. Miss Glenda Noe Weds Bryant Jacob Armistead

STATEBURG, S. C. — The marriage of Miss Glenda Ruth Noe and Bryant Jacob Armistead Jr. was solemnized in a ceremony Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Holy Cross Episcopal Church here.

The Rev. A. C. D. Noe, grandfather of the bride, and the Rev. William S. Noe, uncle of the bride, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Noe of Sumter. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Bryant J. Armistead of Opelika, Ala.

The altar of the church was decorated with two brass vases filled with white daisies, pompons and gladioli. The windows were decorated with magnolia leaves.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Dot Noe, cousin of the bride, organist, and Benjamin C. Armistead, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an old-fashioned formal pink dotted Swiss dress with long sleeves and wide fitted cuffs, mandarin collar and fitted midriff. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a Juliet cap and she carried the same prayerbook carried by her mother, topped with a purple orchid love knots and a tube roses, tied with satin streamers.

Mrs. R. P. Buchanan of Denver, Colo., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a green dotted Swiss empire style A-line dress with short bell sleeves and tiny white covered buttons. She wore a matching picture hat of green organza and carried a basket filled with yellow daisies and ivy.

Bridesmaid was Miss Linda Lemmon of Columbia and junior bridesmaid was Miss Elaine Noe of Raleigh, cousin of the bride. They wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant with yellow picture hats and carried baskets of green daisies and ivy.

Bryant J. Armistead served his son as best man. Ushers were Bob Noe of Sumter, brother of the bride, George Mann of Opelika, Ala., Reginald Armistead of Vienna, Va., and Thomas Batstorf of Opelika, Ala., cousin of the bride.

Jack Noe, brother of the bride, served as acolyte.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Noe chose a street length light blue imported silk jacket dress with matching accessories and a yellow cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a street length pink crepe dress with matching jacket and accessories and a white cymbidium orchid.

The bride's grandmother wore a blue lace jacket dress with matching accessories and a white glomalia corsage. The bridegroom's grandmother wore navy blue crepe dress with matching accessories and a white glomalia corsage.

For traveling the bride wore a yellow linen suit with matching accessories and the orchid corsage from her bouquet.

After a wedding trip to the Outer Banks, N. C. the couple will reside in Hazelhurst, Ga.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd S. Vincent of Greenville, N. C. was held in the parish house of the church.

Greeting guests at the door were Col. and Mrs. William Gafford, Mrs. Lloyd S. Vincent and Miss Betty Tolbert.

Assisting in serving were Miss Caroline Smith, Mrs. William Noe, Mrs. Julia Tolbert, Miss Mary Gail Armistead, Miss Pamela Armistead, Mrs. Burt Joseph, Mrs. John Noe, Miss Mary Cooper, and Miss Harriet Edna Knight.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with a net ruffle and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with silver wedding bells.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mathis and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hammock.

Hemlines, Spaceage Features Provide Shocks

By LUCIE NOEL
AP Fashion Writer

PARIS (AP) — Fall and winter fashions will most certainly shock, delight or distress someone—either the wearers or their male friends—in the matter of hemlines and spaceage features.

Buyers left the Paris showings loaded with models they will spring on the foreign public.

This year there is no overnight switch such as there was with Christian Dior's new look in 1947. The long-skirt groups in nearly everyone's collection received mixed reactions. It won't be easy to go back to them. Too many girls have pretty legs. Too many men enjoy looking at them. But the handwriting is on the wall.

On the other hand, ladies, pants are here to stay. They go into evening with beautifully jeweled tunics. They step forth for day topped by fur-lined chausses with turtle-necks, knitted sleeves, and hoods or knit caps, matching gloves—and ankle boots. They will be seen in the city, worn with daytime tunics or under fun furs and leather.

The word "freedom" has become involved in fashion. Courreges wants to do away with skirts and "liberate" woman's bosom, already having liberated her legs with his rompers and see-through pants.

Jumpsuits are as important as pants. They are borrowed from the astronauts. Man on the moon has obsessed many pace-setters in couture. Cardin sees a new era in dress, a new dimension for living. So do Feraud, Courreges, Ungaro.

Most of the designers, however, promote woman. Chanel says she loves beauty. Her collection has never been stronger or more convincing. Wonderful hand-loomed lightweight plaids, tweeds, checks and tartans are teamed to soft colors. Her famous little suit becomes a "costume." The top is now attached to the dress.

Learned Her Lesson After Wedding Banquet

PORTSMOUTH, England (WNS) — Poor Evelyn Hancock, 23, resigned from the Wrens so that she could marry Petty Officer Kenneth Hancock, but she has not seen him since the wedding banquet. He left her when she borrowed his car without asking and crashed it. The bride has been fined $168 and banned from driving for a year. She expects to pay the fine on time: her bridegroom sends her $14.40 a week, but she has no idea where he is. Her advice to other brides: "Don't drink as much as I did at the wedding banquet."

Givency is another promoter of elegance. He uses fabulous fabrics and keeps his lines controlled and beautiful. He shows a pants suit in Blaschini's stretch-leopard silk print under a brown fur coat.

His prim English governess look, with the elongated cardigan or lacoste shirt top worn under slender belted tunic suits, is making history.

There are several ways to look this winter, come cocktail time. Dr. March's daughters, Jo and Beth of "Little Women," are one way to endorse turn of the century charm. Or you may be a Gypsy, come evening, in chiffon.

Or you may step out of a Persian miniature or Stravinsky's Petrouchka in the fabulous embroidered coats, glittering with Oriental splendor, as shown at Dior.

All designers are having fun with furs. Quality is no obstacle. The finest mink steps forth, dyed orange, to edged a tweed. Sleek broadtail is grapefruit yellow at Ricci's in a smooth coat. Every pastel, plus red, is shown by Givency in the lamb family and bear.

Believe it or not, silver fox is back in stoles, borders and linings. So get them out of mothballs, girls, you'll be right in the swing.

Special Session Could Be Mistake

It is our hope that Gov. Scott will not find it necessary to call North Carolina's legislators back to Raleigh for a special session.

The governor has given no indication he will call a special session, but there are signs that pressure is mounting for the chief executive to call the legislature back to resolve the entangled school bus situation. When the matter first came up, the Governor made a rather positive statement that a special session would not be called. Subsequently, however, a statement from the governor did not rule out the possibility of a special session although he said he has no plans to call another session. The second statement left the impression the possibility of a special session may have increased.

It was just two months ago that the longest legislative session in the state's history adjourned

Very Obviously Scott's Choice

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
RALEIGH—The appointment was announced by Dr. William L. Turner, director of administration, but the choice was that of Gov. Robert W. (Bob) Scott.

The governor personally selected and persuaded R. D. McMillan Jr. of Red Springs to come to Raleigh and be director of the Purchase and Contract Division for the next four years at an annual salary of $19,950.

From past experience and indication, this salary will be increased during the four years.

It is a rather lucrative political position.

In the background was McMillan. He was projected as a candidate for the next speakership, after Vaughn.

Rejects—Almost as soon as the 1969 session convened, McMillan let it be known he would not be a candidate for the speakership.

The reasons, he said, were personal. In any case, no contest developed. McMillan stepped aside and Rep. Phil Godwin of Gates County became a virtually unanimous choice (also supported by the Republican contingent) for the speakership. McMillan went on to work diligently on some very tough and complicated education matters.

He also chose to give full support to the governor's program, including new taxes.

Some observers will say that the appointment to P&C director is a "reward" for McMillan's having supported Scott's tobacco tax and other new tax programs.

Others will say, with justification, that Scott must choose the best people available—whether from the ranks of private industry, politics or the legislature.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

It is one of the juicier plums in state government. It is an office which Scott plainly labeled political in the recent firing of Eston Y. Brickhouse. But it also is an office which is very vital and important to the integrity of whatever administration happens to be in power in Raleigh.

McMillan—Soft spoken and polite, R. D. McMillan has been a gentleman's gentleman in the halls of the legislature for five consecutive terms. He is highly regarded and respected among all who know him.

He was the colleague, sea mate and right hand man during several sessions of Rep. David Britt, also of Robeson County. The two worked in perfect tandem.

Britt, with McMillan's backing and low key support, went on to become Speaker of the House and one of the best and most effective in North Carolina history. He was appointed to the newly created N. C. Court of Appeals just as the 1967 session of the legislature ended and turned over the gavel to Earl Vaughn, who also has been appointed to a seat on the judicial bench.

Question—The question is whether appointments will be filled by fitting a man to the job, a job to the man or setting up something in the form of a candy apple. The Scott administration is being quite honest about this. It has no qualms about purely political turnovers and the governor himself indicates that much more turnover is coming, just as soon as decisions can be made.

As things progress the Scott administration is becoming more and more politically attuned.

It wants to make the right appointments—the best, most popular appointments—and Scott's advisors are working overtime on this.

In the meantime, Scott wants to get the job completed and his team organized. There is a suspicion that too much politics may be involved in the selection process and that this is filtering into the rank and file.

For example, how long should he wait on naming a new commander of the State Highway Patrol while 900 officers and men are left guessing about just what is going on?

after more than six months in Raleigh. Not only was it a long and costly session, it was a pressure-packed session which left most legislators pretty well exhausted when they returned home. Like most sessions, there was business which was left unfinished even though the most pressing problems were resolved.

If Gov. Scott finds it necessary to call the legislature back to Raleigh over the school bus issue, there can be no doubt that a number of other issues as well will be placed before the body. The special session, called to resolve a specific problem, could quickly become a session entangled in a variety of controversial issues that may have to be handled.

The 170 members of North Carolina's General Assembly, in our judgment, have spent enough time in official session in Raleigh for one year. Gov. Scott should call them back for a special session only as a last resort. We seriously question whether the school bus issue, although it remains unresolved, is of sufficient import to justify calling the legislature into a special session.

Prompt Action Given City Traffic Problem

Officials responsible for straightening out the traffic situation at Greenville's new post office are to be commended for their prompt and positive action.

The difficulty in getting into the customer parking lot at the new facility was immediately evident when the new post office opened for business Monday morning. It took less than a week for officials to take two important steps which have alleviated the problem.

A traffic light has been placed at First and Greene Streets to control the flow of traffic from that intersection toward the post office. Secondly, a "Stop Here On Red" sign has been placed on Greene Street north of the entrance to the parking lot to prevent cars stopped for the traffic light at the intersection of Greene and Second from blocking the parking lot entrance.

It would have been easy enough for officials of various agencies to have passed the buck from one to another for weeks or even months before coming up with a solution to the problem. Fortunately, however, postal officials, city officials and local officials of the State Highway Commission worked out a solution to the problem and immediately made installations to correct the situation.

It is the kind of cooperation between government agencies that deserves, but too often fails to receive, a public pat on the back.

Taking Chance Of A Recession

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Behind the facade of forced optimism about the state of the economy, President Nixon's economic policymakers have decided to stick indefinitely to the tight money attack against inflation despite the grim foreboding that it almost surely will produce a 1970 recession—possibly of severe dimensions.

Desperate appeals from President Nixon's economic advisors to loosen the screws on the money supply are having no effect whatever on the Quadriad, the four-man economic policymaking body of the government. However, there is growing realization inside the Administration that this policy will stop the inflation far later than had been hoped and at a cost to the economy far greater than expected. That is, lack of financing will slow down the economy so much that business activity will slump and unemployment will soar.

Moreover, there is a dread feeling that the recession, when it comes, will be most difficult to reverse and quite likely will extend into the 1970 election campaign. Nor is there any agreement about how best to combat a recession.

What adds a touch of unreality to this is the fact that neither President Nixon nor his closest personal aides, basking at San Clemente in the euphoria that has persisted since the moon landing, has confronted these grim prospects. The highly political decision that a recession in 1970 is preferable to galloping inflation—and might forestall a disastrous 1972 recession—has been reached essentially by non-politicians inside the Administration.

Considering Mr. Nixon's repeated strictures to friends that the 1960 Eisenhower recession cost him the Presidency and that economic downturns must be avoided by any future Republican President, there is at least the possibility that he will reverse the Quadriad. Certainly, he could base such action on the views of unofficial advisors outside the government.

Chief among them has been Dr. Milton Friedman, a conservative economist at the University of Chicago with intimate ties to this Administration. For the past month, Friedman has been waging a one-man campaign—through his Newsweek column, in incessant contacts with high Administration officials, in tense telephone calls to Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board. His plea: tight money already has had its impact on the economy though the indicators don't quite show it; the Federal Reserve must ease up or risk disaster.

Other friends of the Nixon administration, economists and businessmen alike, are urging action to put some (Continued On Page 8)

Rising To The Challenge

WASHINGTON—The wonderful thing about American industry is that it rises to every challenge. Even something as distasteful as inflation has not discouraged most manufacturers. Their solution to the problem is not in the product but in the package. Rather than raise the prices on many goods, American industry is devising new methods to make the product smaller, while making the package larger. In this way, the customer feels assured that nothing has changed.

I visited one of the largest packaging companies in the country the other day to see how they were doing it. The vice president in charge of inflationary design took me around the plant.

"We're going 24 hours a day," he said proudly. "Everyone is asking us for new designs to help them get through this rough period."

Other Editors Say Passage To Wealth

(Christian Science Monitor)

New international wealth and new international problems ride the special icebreaking bow of the gigantic tanker S. S. Manhattan as the 115,000-tonner heads for northern Alaska by way of the Northwest Passage. This special ship of the Humble Oil and Refining Company is expected to open up vast new oil and mineral riches but is also certain to open up thorny questions of national sovereignty and freedom of the seas.

Since the tanker's projected passage from Baffin Bay to the Beaufort Sea will find it weaving its way around islands belonging to Canada, the latter is understandably concerned over jurisdiction over these waterways. Do they form an international passage or are they a Canadian inland sea? Last winter Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau admitted that Ottawa did not know the answer but promised the House of Commons his government would eventually announce whether it believed itself able to assert exclusive jurisdiction.

But whatever the outcome of this question which might eventually wind up at World Court in The Hague, there can be no doubt that the Manhattan's trip bids well to be a major economic turning point. If successful, it would provide a promising means of opening the vast oil and mineral wealth of northern Alaska and northwestern Canada. Exploration so far has turned up immense deposits of copper, nickel, lead, silver, iron, sulphur, and other minerals, in addition to petroleum supplies believed to be the greatest in all North America.

Not only could the Northwest Passage greatly strengthen America's and Canada's raw-material position, but it could have profound international commercial results. For it could make each country, but particularly the United States, far less dependent upon non-North American raw material sources. To give just one example, this Arctic oil could further lessen the importance of Middle Eastern oil to the world economy. This, in turn, could have significant political and social effects.

One can be certain that the Soviet Union will watch the Manhattan's progress closely. Russia has pioneered in all-year Arctic sea travel, but has so far drawn little tangible economic benefit therefrom.

I noticed women in white smocks working with tweezers under microscopes.

"What are those women doing?" I asked.

"Those are 5-cent chocolate bars on their tweezers. They put each one in that large aluminum foil and then they wrap wax paper around it. Over the wax paper they put the name of the chocolate bar in large letters. Here's one that's finished."

"Why, from the outside it looks like an old-fashioned chocolate bar!"

"No one can tell the difference until they open the package," he said proudly.

We went into another part of the building. There were air hoses hanging all over the ceiling and boxes were rolling along a conveyor belt.

I looked perplexed.

"We're packaging soap flakes in here," he shouted above the din. "The lady down at the beginning of the line puts one teaspoonful of soap flakes into those giant-sized boxes; then those men over there with the hoses pump air into the rest of the box."

"How ingenious!" I shouted back.

"The bottom of the box is weighted with very heavy cardboard so no one will know, when picking up the box, how much soap flakes there are in it."

"That's a lot of air to put (Continued On Page 8)

Basic Energy Type

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP)—He sometimes drops out of school because of boredom. He fights the establishment. He deliberately violates tradition. In fact, he shares ideas with revolutionaries.

A Midwestern businessman once described the type this way: "They are the guerrilla fighters of the economic world. They can live off the land and are exceedingly flexible and effective against much larger forces."

Who is he? The basic creative energy in the free enterprise system, the entrepreneur, the individual who wants to do things on his own, who has his own approach to a job and is willing to take the risks.

The Midwesterner who described him as a guerrilla is Karl Bostrom, a retired industrialist who has pledged $1 million to establish the Center For Venture Management.

Bostrom and his director, Dr. John L. Komives, would like to know more about the entrepreneur: his motivation, his techniques, his needs, his very presence. So little is known, that he is all but invisible until he emerges as a failure or success.

Henry Ford, Andrew Carnegie, Howard Hughes, Dr. Edwin Land are among the better known venturists. But thousands more exist in every size and category of business, fighting through a jungle of rules, regulations and bureaucracies.

As Bostrom and Komives describe the situation, the entrepreneur often survives despite rather than with the help of the system.

Rather than encouraging him to begin a business, the educational system prepares him for a job in an established company. The process begins in grammar school and often continues right through graduate school.

And to this day, despite the fact that America has been an industrialized nation throughout this century, the farmer often finds access to government help much easier than does the beginning businessman.

Bostrom and Komives describe their one-year-old center as an institution for collecting and dispensing information about the entrepreneur, a catalyst through which they hope to nurture more of the species.

Bostrom stresses that the center is not in the management consulting business nor is its task that of financier. Its role tends to be informational, educational, and inspirational.

Now that much of the organizational work is behind him, Komives hopes soon to begin a basic investigation of the reasons why schools and government agencies are geared to training employees almost to the exclusion of employer-training.

"We hope to point out that the choice should lie not solely between a job at Ford or a job at Litton (both begun by entrepreneurs) but that there must be opportunities for into compete on their own merits," Komives says.

One difficulty in identifying the potential entrepreneur is that he takes many faces and many attitudes. As an individual he might not be recognized. Only when grouped with others do the traits show clearly.

Unfortunately, Komives notes, when these young and unconventional businessmen achieve success, they often become defenders of the status quo, including the school system they rebelled against.

It is the study of such personalities that makes the center's work intriguing. But it is the opportunity to fill what they consider a great need that Bostrom and Komives consider the payoff.

Strength For Today Inflation Curbs Aren't Curbing

ALL TOGETHER

J. Edgar Hoover, that great national policeman who stands between the American people and their assailants, reveals to us that crime is increasing six times as fast as the population. He has written two books on the menace of communism. This is no crackpot speaking. He can document everything he says. No man in the history of our country has ever had his opportunity to know so much about subversion, treason and designs of violence.

What has happened to the human race? From the standpoint of economics, communism is hocus-pocus. It is political chaos. It is not an ideology but a criminal conspiracy.

mendous increase in crime? Two world wars, the automobile, the growth of large cities, the prevalence of poverty and unemployment—these are powerful factors. Yet there would appear to be other causes. We cannot be sure what these causes are, but evil is at work in our midst.

These are days of such solemn importance that we cannot over estimate the jeopardy amid which we live. We stand appalled, but we cannot stop there. There must be reflection, determination and a policy of action that is really action. Our nation may experience permanent injury unless we bestir ourselves.

Our leaders are wise and courageous. We need to be good followers. We are all in this thing together.

By Earl L. Douglass

By ELMER ROESSNER
 Inflation will continue throughout September.

Monetary controls will not succeed in slowing down the bubble-gum character of fiscal expansion. There will be minor slowdowns: housing starts, for example, will not pick up speed. Some food prices may level off. But on the whole, inflation will be trotting ahead, prices will rise and most people will be squeezed, especially those subsisting on pensions, annuities and savings.

Note these inflationary pushes:

More than a million workers got cost-of-living increases in pay in July. Because the consumer price index has been since rising, another million will get pay increases. These automatic wage pushes are price boosting, therefore inflationary.

Fall And-New-Car Boom
 The seasonal after-Labor Day pick up in business will stimulate business; so will the new car models stimulate sales. While total sales of 1970 models may be less than this year's, the eager beavers will boost sales in September.

Steel, aluminum, nickel and copper prices have been rising. These will be passed on to consumers in September, increasing living costs, increasing demands for higher pay.

Gas, electric and phone utilities are pressing state and federal commissions for higher rates. Many will get through, thereby adding to inflation.

Hospital and surgical insurance organizations are demanding higher rates almost everywhere; in New York, the Blue Cross is insisting it needs rate increases of more than 40 per cent.

More Built-In Inflation

ELMER ROESSNER

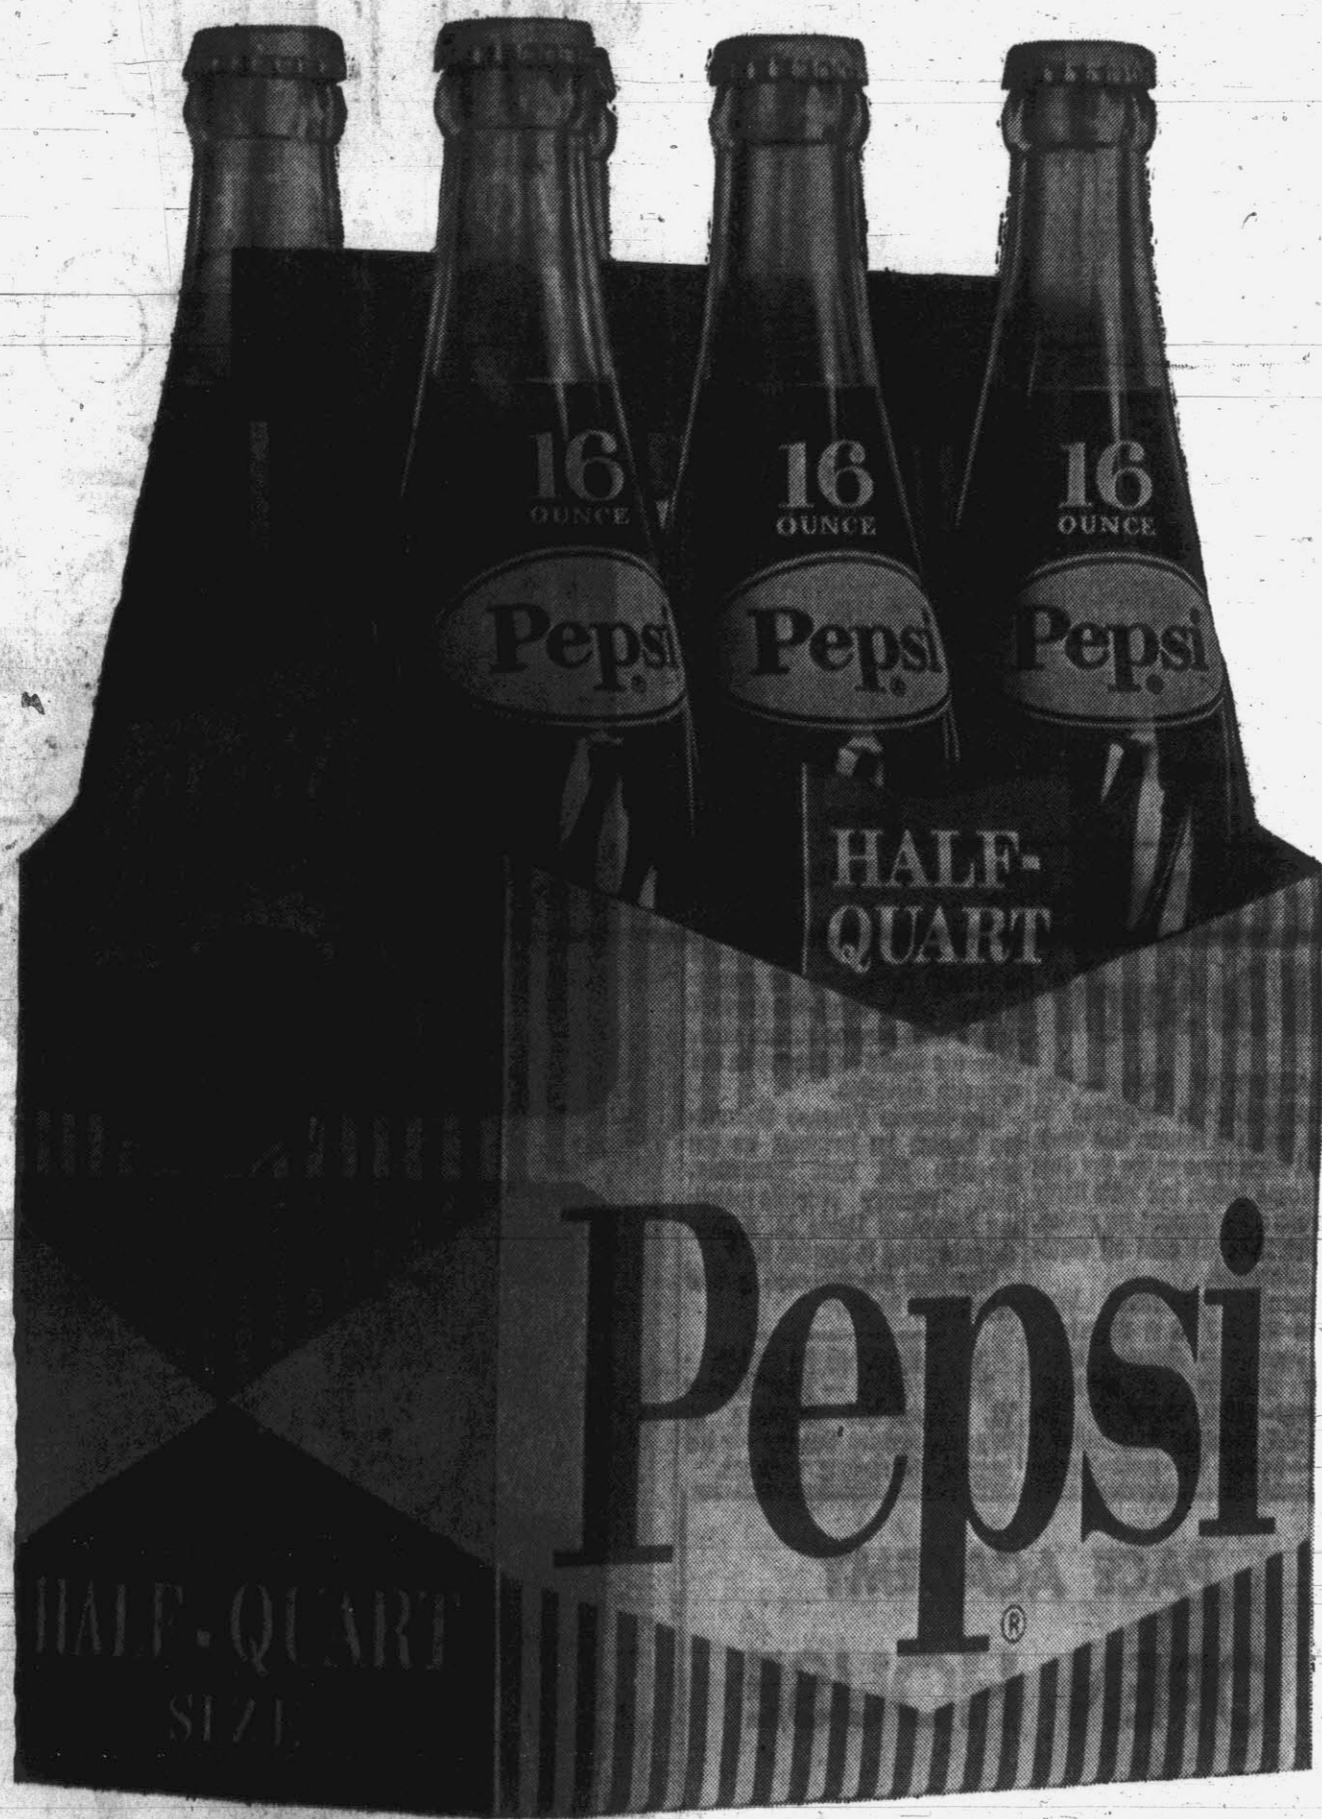

Major film companies are increasing the cost of color movie and slide films. Will home picture-takers go back to silhouettes? Of course not. They'll demand higher wages to cover higher film costs! New factory orders for durable goods placed in July, now being produced, showed the strongest rise since last October.

Despite some moaning by retailers, the big merchandising concerns showed stunning gains. Sears, Penney Federated Department Stores and W. T. Grant all reported substantial gains in the second quarter, and the rise appears to be continuing into the July-September quarter.

There is some acid smoke where the economic brakes are being applied—more about that next week—but on the whole, September business will be buoyant, there will be continued inflation and a lot of trading of two $500 alley cats for 1,000 margerls in the market place.

Thousands Attend Rock Festivals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
From the Pacific Northwest to the English Channel, thousands and thousands of youths gathered over the weekend to listen to rock music, take drugs and bask among their peers. At two concerts, the rock fans' disdain for convention included public love-making.

Despite some nude sunbathing and swimming and a heavier dose of drug-taking, the crowds appeared for the most part peaceful and happy.

The largest gathering was at the Isle of Wight off England's south coast, where nearly 200,000 fans came together for Bob Dylan's first major concert in several years. Dylan sang 14 songs in two hours to close the two-day event. He walked off the stage an hour before schedule, ignoring the pleas of the crowd for more music.

At one point, a boy and girl stripped naked, jumped into a sea of foam that had been loosened from pressurized containers as a play area, and engaged in sexual intercourse. No move was made to stop the couple as some onlookers started in disbelief and others applauded and screamed, "Ain't that the greatest?"

Police said they did not see the incident and would take no action unless a formal complaint was made.

At the New Orleans Pop Festival in Prairieville, La., a couple that had been dancing heatedly snuck their clothing, began simulating intercourse, then actually engaged in it. Onlookers pressing forward to watch kept authorities from intervening, and the crush of spectators soon stopped the exhibition.

About 30,000 youths gathered at the dusty Louisiana International Speedway to hear Janis Joplin, Canned Heat, the Grateful Dead and others. Police said about half the crowd was inside the track, where tickets were $6.50 each, and the remainder encamped outside.

Twelve persons were arrested and charged with sale and possession of marijuana. Doctors said about 30 persons were treated for "bad trips" on LSD. Authorities said the crowd was generally well-behaved. A doctor added, "If we could just get them to wear shoes, we wouldn't have as many cut feet." There is another concert today.

The biggest problem at the Texas International Pop Festival in Lewisville, Tex., which drew 40,000 music enthusiasts, came from motorists who stopped to gawk at nude swimmers. "It's the sightseers who are causing the problems," said Mayor Sam Houston. He said the swimmers were "real cooperative" in stopping their exhibition.

A massive traffic jam closed roads near Garza-Little Elm Reservoir, as cars parked bumper-to-bumper and drivers ogled long-haired youths splashing about. Other onlookers took to boats and airplanes to watch. One man died Saturday at the festival, apparently of heat prostration, police said. Hospital officials in Dallas said a 3-year-old girl was being treated for effects of LSD swallowed at the festival and another youth was hospitalized with an apparent LSD overdose after being found lying in the bushes bleeding at the mouth.

Mayor Houston said Sunday night that authorities would crack down on drug users in the area. The Denton County sheriff's office said more than 25 persons had been jailed for various violations of the state's drug possession law.

The festival, at the Dallas International Speedway, ends today. In Tenno, Wash., about 10,000 youths did their thing at the Sky River Rock Festival and Lighter Than Air Fair as sheriff's deputies kept off the grounds. "That's not our territory," one officer said. Inside the gate vendors moved through the crowd selling drugs. "I've got acid, I've got meselaine," one seller kept chanting. Police made an unspecified number of arrests outside the festival on drug charges.

The heavy beat blaring from two bandstands set many couples dancing. Some of them went topless but got little notice from the music enthusiasts. "The nudity's not a big thing... they're not trying to be exhibitionists; it's really hot here," a festival worker said. But security guards insisted the dancers get dressed, and they did. A smaller festival was held Sunday at Saugerties, N.Y., not far from White Lake, where the largest festival in history—more than 400,000 persons—was held two weeks ago.

About 3,000 persons attended the concert, whose star was folk singer Tim Hardin, and paid enough money to meet the court costs of 25 persons arrested on drug charges on their way to the White Lake festival, sponsors said.

North of the border, 4,000 youths jammed the Rockhill Park pop festival in Orangeville, Ont., about 40 miles north of Toronto. Drug overdoses sent many kids stumbling and reeling to a hospital tent. Workers said the youths were taking LSD.

At Least 15 Dead In N.C. Weekend Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The State Highway Patrol reports traffic accidents in North Carolina have claimed at least 15 victims thus far during the long Labor Day weekend. Two of the persons were killed in a Charlotte crash and another died in a high speed chase in Wake County.

The holiday deaths increased the state's traffic death toll for the year to 1,110, as compared with 1,189 during the corresponding period of 1968.

Michael Thomas Clontz, 18, and James Wayne Cook, 26, both of Charlotte, were killed in a two-car collision in Charlotte. Officers said Clontz's car skidded out of its lane and collided with another vehicle.

Wallace McMillian, 21, of Wendell was killed Saturday when his car went out of control and hit a tree south of Zebulon while he was being chased at high speeds by Zebulon police. Officers said they attempted to stop McMillian for a traffic violation when the chase began. The accident occurred on N. C. 96.

Other victims include Monroe Earl MDaniel, 19, of Rt. 2, Tabor City; Mike Fowler, 16, of Rt. 1, Loris, S. C.; Jay Steven Aronoff, 18, of New Milford, N. C.; Sammy E. McAden, 22, of Rt. 3, Randleman; Zonnie Mary Bland, 35, of Rt. 1, Burgaw; and Danny Harding Chisholm, 20, of Rt. 6, Asheboro. Also, Bernell Spencer, 20, of Brooklyn, N.Y.; Plummer Richardson, about 50, of Rt. 2, Wilson; Ted Austin Atwood, 25, of Rt. 3, Winston-Salem; and John-Raymond Lowe, 20, of Madison.

Tax Cut Retreat Will Be Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is expected to plead with the Senate this week to roll back some of the tax cuts the House voted, but isn't likely to press an argument for restoring the 27 1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance.

Treasury spokesmen have hailed the bill as a milestone, but repeatedly dropped broad hints that its tax reduction clauses—which would by 1972 cost the Treasury $2.4 billion a year—would be most unwelcome in their fight against inflation.

The keystone of the inflation-control program is the attempt to reduce the amount of money in circulation, which the current 10 per cent income surtax does. Tax cuts would be a move in the opposite direction.

The Senate Finance Committee begins its hearings on the 369-page bill next Thursday, with Treasury officials including Secretary David M. Kennedy scheduled to appear first. Hearings are expected to take about four weeks.

Pre-Season Indicates Good Football Year

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

If pre-season play is any indication, pro football is in for an exciting year, and if pre-season attendance is an omen, you better have a season ticket or start standing in line right now.

Defensive back Dave Grayson and receiver Charles Frazier were in mid-season form Sunday as the full 13-game exhibition schedule, which started Thursday, was concluded.

Grayson set up two touchdowns with interceptions as Oakland of the American Football League beat National Football League San Francisco 42-28. Frazier made two dazzling pass catches for touchdowns as Boston took Denver 26-10 in an AFL game at Jacksonville, Fla.

And the fans showed they are ready. The 13 games at 12 sites—there was a doubleheader at Cleveland—drew a record 587,800, surpassing the old mark of 502,919 for the same weekend last year. So far, exhibitions have drawn 2,327,547 fans, and, with 19 games left, the sport is headed for its first 3 million pre-season attendance. It's a cinch the record of 2,583,538 set last year will fall.

In that doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday, NFL Chicago beat AFL Buffalo 23-16 and NFL Green Bay stopped NFL Cleveland 27-17.

In other Saturday action, unbeaten Baltimore of the NFL won its fifth with a 23-10 conquest of AFL Miami, the AFL New York Jets downed NFL Minnesota 24-21, Philadelphia beat the New York Giants 24-17 in an NFL contest, NFL Detroit nipped NFL Washington 21-20, New Orleans topped Atlanta 21-17 in another NFL game and Cincinnati of the AFL upended NFL Pittsburgh 23-13.

With the game at Oakland tied 28-28 in the fourth quarter Grayson intercepted a pass by San Francisco's John Brodie, who threw for four touchdowns, and dashed about 50 yards to the San Francisco seven-yard line.

Oakland went ahead when George Blanda passed to Warren Wells in the end zone. A short time later, Grayson picked off another pass and took the ball to the 49er 14. This time the touchdown came on a 12-yard toss from Blanda to Wells.

Daryle Lamonica, who was shaken up in the third period, passed for a touchdown and ran for another. Blanda also passed for a third touchdown, threw for a two-point conversion and kicked two field goals.

Frazier hauled in a 47-yard touchdown pass from Mike Taliaferro in the first quarter and then gathered in a 43-yard scoring strike from Taliaferro in the third. Jim Nance ran for a third Boston touchdown and Gino Cappeletti kicked a pair of field goals. Pete Liske passed for a touchdown and Bob Howfield kicked a field goal for Denver.

Chicago was led past Buffalo by Mac Percival, who kicked five field goals. Green Bay broke a 14-14 halftime tie with two third-quarter field goals by Mike Mercer and went on to beat Cleveland.

Johnny Unitas continued to look good for Baltimore, hitting on 19 of 28 passes for 280 yards, including a touchdown pass to Jimmy Orr, against Miami.

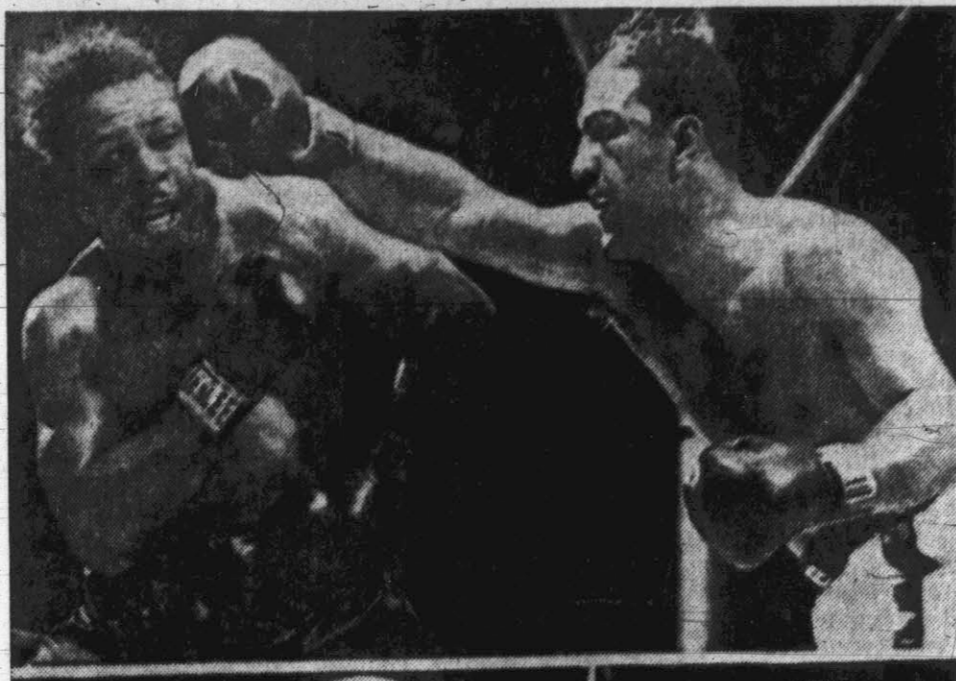

The world champion Jets built up a 24-7 lead over Minnesota as Joe Namath threw for two touchdowns, one a 76-yarder to Don Maynard, then held on to beat the Vikings. Namath completed 13 of 24 for 219 yards in three quarters.

A 62-yard touchdown pass to Harold Jackson and one of 14 yards to Fred Hill, both by Norm Snead, brought Philadelphia from behind in the last quarter against the Giants.

The big play in Detroit's one-point victory over Washington was Lem Barney's 75-yard touchdown run following a blocked field goal attempt.

New Orleans pulled out its victory over Atlanta when rookie quarterback Edd Hargett passed for two touchdowns in the last six minutes.

Cincinnati also counted on a rookie quarterback for its victory over Pittsburgh: Greg Cook passed for one touchdown and set up three field goals.

He Fought His Way To The Top

Rocky Marciano Killed In Small Plane Crash

NEWTON, Iowa (AP) — Former World Heavyweight Boxing Champion Rocky Marciano was killed Sunday night in the crash of a small airplane two miles south of this central Iowa town, the Jasper County medical examiner said.

Authorities said Marciano and two other men also killed in the crash were en route to Des Moines from Chicago.

The other two men were identified as Frank Farrell, 28, and the pilot, Glen Blez, 27, both of Des Moines.

Marciano retired as undefeated world champion April 27, 1956, after winning 49 fights, 43 by knockouts. He would have been 46 Monday.

Marciano won the title Sept. 23, 1952, with a 13-round knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott. He successfully defended his crown six times until his retirement.

He was born Sept. 1, 1923, in Brockton, Mass. His real name was Rocco Francis Marchegiano.

The square-bodied slugger was known as the "Brockton strong boy" because of his ability to absorb terrific punishment and give out worse.

The Walcott fight was in Philadelphia on Sept. 23, 1952. Marciano, then 28 and the favorite, almost lost it to his 38-year-old opponent. In the first round he was knocked down for the first time in his professional career.

But in the thirteenth round, Marciano emerged victorious with one smashing right to the jaw that sent Walcott into retirement. Marciano became the first white heavyweight titleholder since Jim Braddock's reign was ended by Louis in 1937.

A solidly built athlete, Marciano stood 5 feet 11 and weighed around 185 in the ring. He was the second shortest heavyweight titleholder and the second lightest. Marciano had the shortest reach of any—only 68 inches.

A swarming, brawling sort of fighter, Rocky was always willing to take a punch for the chance of landing one. It never occurred to him that he might lose a fight.

There were many who found fault with his style if boxing, but his sportsmanship record was unsullied. He was sincere, modest, genuinely sorry for the injuries he inflicted on an opponent. His father said, "when he was only 13 he told me he was afraid to hit anybody for fear of hurting him bad."

Liking football and baseball in school, he dreamed of a baseball career. The Chicago Cubs gave him a tryout as a catcher in 1946, but, while he hit well, he couldn't throw to second quickly enough. So he concentrated on boxing.

Marciano married Barbara Cousins of his home town, and he said she and their daughter were his main reasons for retiring in 1956 after a Sept. 21, 1955, fight with Archie Moore—which Marciano won by a knockout in the ninth.

In 1959, he was elected to the boxing Hall of Fame.

Darlington Has Seven Favored

DARLINGTON, S. C. (AP) — Seven drivers were rated about equal favorites today as the 20th running of the Southern 500 stock car race got under way at noon.

The front row starters were Mercury star Cale Yarborough, who won last year, and Dodge's Buddy Baker, son of a three-time winner of the Labor Day classic.

In the next three rows were Ford ace Donnie Allison, David Pearson, LeeRoy Yarborough and Richard Petty. Further back was Bobby Allison, another top Dodge threat.

Richard Brickhouse, a 30-year-old comparative newcomer to NASCAR's rich high-speed Grand National circuit, started eighth in an independently financed Dodge. Observers gave him a good chance of winning.

The 40-car field was the fastest ever put together at Darlington, first big auto racing facility built in the South. The top 30 cars averaged 139.332 miles per hour in time trials.

With good weather predicted, raceway officials forecast a crowd of about 70,000 at ticket prices ranging from $5 to $20.

Yarborough, who lives at Timmonsville, 10 miles south of the track, was the top qualifier. His average speed was 151.985 m.p.h. Baker posted a 151.380 m.p.h. qualifying speed.

Davis Extends Streak Giants Drop To Second

By MIKE BRYSON

Wondrous Willie Davis has started choking up with some rather spectacular results. The San Francisco Giants and New York Mets also did a little choking—with equally spectacular results on the National League title chases.

Davis extended his major league-leading hitting streak to 28 games Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers checked Philadelphia 4-1.

The Giants, meanwhile, dropped their second straight game to the New York Mets; 8-0, before salvaging an 11-inning 3-2 victory and a doubleheader split, thanks to four straight erratic pitches.

The Dodger victory, combined with the Giant-Met split, Chicago's 8-4 victory over Atlanta and Cincinnati's 7-5 conquest of St. Louis, threw the NL West's already dizzy pennant race into another upheaval.

The end result was this: Cincinnati moved from second to first, but just .002 percentage points ahead of the Giants. Los Angeles remained third, but only 1/2 game and .004 percentage points back of the Reds. Atlanta is only two games away from the leader.

In the NL East, the Cubs boosted back to four games their lead over the Mets.

In other NL activity, Pittsburgh defeated Houston 6-4 and San Diego whipped Montreal 5-2 before losing the second game of a doubleheader 6-1.

In the American League, Minnesota stopped Boston 6-2, Chicago nipped Cleveland 7-6, Baltimore edged California 5-4, New York topped Kansas City 5-3, Washington polished off Oakland 8-3 and Detroit whipped Seattle 7-2.

Davis' single was far from spectacular—it was a liner that bounced off second base into right center field in the fourth—but it put the veteran outfielder just one game shy of tying the all-time Dodger record set by Zack Wheat in 1916. Willie credits a lot of things for the streak, which has boosted his average some 50 points to the .320 range since the All-Star break.

But, he said, four of the main reasons are that he's now choking up about four inches on the bat, he's switched from a 30-ounce to a 40-ounce club, he's standing farther back from the plate and "I've cut down on my swing."

Bill Singer, 17-8, scattered six hits and Willie Crawford hit a solo homer in the Dodger triumph.

Tom Seaver struck out 11 and scattered seven hits in becoming the NL's first 9-game winner as the Mets took the opener from the Giants. The triumph equals the Mets' club record for most victories in one season.

But, San Francisco won the nightcap when relief pitcher Ron Taylor issued four straight balls to Jim Davenport, with the bases loaded in the 11th inning, forcing home the clincher.

The Mets slammed 12 hits in the opener, and put it away with a five-run fourth inning when Ron Swoboda cracked a bases-loaded double, Jerry Grote singled in two more and Seaver singled in another.

The Giants grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the nightcap when Don Mason singled, Ken Henderson tripled and Jim Hart singled before an out was registered.

However, Jim McAndrew tamed the Giants after that, yielding only three more hits and retiring 13 in a row during one stretch, before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth.

The Mets tied it 2-2 on Swoboda's one-out homer with a man on in the sixth. In the 11th, reliever Tug McGraw walked Bob Burda and Willie McCovey followed with a single before Taylor came on. The runners advanced on a wild pitch before an intentional pass to Bobby Bonds set the stage for Taylor's four off-key tosses.

Johnny Bench's 22nd homer of the season started off a five-run second inning that carried Cincinnati to victory. Bobby Tolan had a two-run double and Alex Johnson and Pete Rose each singled in runs during the big inning.

Mike Shannon, No. 11, and Curt Flood, No. 3, homered for the Cards.

Ken Holtzman drove in three runs and hit the first homer of his career in helping himself to his 16th victory as the Cubs subdued Atlanta.

Holtzman hurled a no-hitter against the Braves Aug. 19, and he didn't allow a hit this time for the first 4 1/3 innings, although he tired and had to be relieved by Phil Regan in the final inning.

Holtzman hit a two-run homer in the sixth and a run-scoring single in the eighth. Billy Williams also connected for the Cubs, his 15th, while Rico Carty had a solo blast for the Braves, No. 11.

Willie Stargell doubled in two runs and Al Oliver hit a solo homer in a four-run ninth inning that gave Pittsburgh a come-from-behind victory over the Astros.

Rookie Steve Renko checked San Diego on five hits as Montreal won the nightcap after Nate Colbert hit a three-run homer to key a four-run sixth that guided the Padres to victory in the opener.

Goren on BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
 ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
 Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AKJ94 ♣AKJ862 ♦43
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♣ 2 ♣ Pass 2 ♣
 Pass
 What action do you take?
 A.—Three diamonds, intending to end and rebid hearts if circumstances permit. It is not necessary to take any more dramatic action at this particular time inasmuch as a game forcing signal has already been flashed.
 Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AK2 ♣KQ103 ♢KJ5 ♣Q72
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South
 1 ♣ Pass
 What do you bid?
 A.—One heart, with two hearts as a very close second choice. A three no trump bid is tempting, however, the top limit of that call is 18 points. On this hand, however, we have an additional 10 and the added factor that the queen of clubs, in view of partner's bid, is apt to be worth more than the two points normally assigned to it. While our preference has been for an approach bid, we would not look down our noses at anyone who chose a three no trump bid.
 Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K874 ♣A92 ♢73 ♣KQ82
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 1 ♣ Dble. Pass 1 ♣
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Your double is of minimum proportions, and it is not appropriate for you to make a free raise. If partner has any constructive values, he will act again and a delayed raise by you will indicate you had no distinct excess values.
 Q. 4—Your partner has opened with one spade, and you hold:
 ♠KJ842 ♣765 ♢92 ♣K53
 What is your response?
 A.—Two spades. This is an evenly balanced hand and is worth only eight points in support of spades. It is, therefore, just a raise.

 Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠J92 ♣Q64 ♢83 ♣A7642
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass 1 ♣ Dble. Pass
 2 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
 What do you bid now?
 A.—A raise to three spades is clearly indicated. Up to this point you have promised no values whatsoever, and yet you have distinct support for partner who has shown a very fine hand by doubling first and then bidding at the level of two later.
 Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠1052 ♣A1097 ♢AJ92 ♣AJ
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South
 1 NT ?
 What do you bid?
 A.—Pass. This hand does not measure up to the requirements for a double of one no trump. The take-out double should have a hand presumably as strong as yours. To double one no trump, therefore, he should hold at least 16 points.
 Q. 7—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
 ♠AJ72 ♣AJ94 ♢KQ93 ♣6
 North East South
 Pass 1 ♣ ?
 What do you bid?
 A.—We recommend a trap pass, as calculated to produce the best results in the long run. A take-out double might result in an awkward situation if partner responds two clubs.
 Q. 8—As South you hold:
 ♠A62 ♣KJ93 ♢QJ98 ♣109
 The bidding has proceeded:
 East South West North
 2 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass
 3 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
 4 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
 What is your opening lead?
 A.—Without straining the imagination, one can visualize a short suit in dummy and, in order to impair the ruffing value of that otherwise feeble dummy, it is essential that the ace of spades be led, to be followed immediately by another spade.

Four Injured In Sunday Wrecks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Newly-elected Bishop J. Floyd Williams of the Pentecostal Holiness Church has concluded his first sessions with other newly elected officials of the church.
 Meeting in Memphis, where Williams, a native of Greenville, now living in Franklin Springs, Ga., was elected bishop and general superintendent last Monday, the officials worked together to lay foundations for a four-year program.
 Delegates from the 100,000 member congregation from around the world attended the 16th quadrennial general conference in Memphis.
 Members of the General Executive Board reviewed mandates of the general conference. In organizational sessions, the restructuring of administrative procedures, appointment of heads of departments, advisory boards and committees were completed.
 In addition to Bishop Williams, other general officials elected included assistant general superintendents—Dr. R.O. Corvin, Rev. R.L. Rex, and Rev. B.E. Underwood. Elected to general secretary was Rev. Charles E. Bradshaw, and Rev. A.D. Beacham was elected general treasurer.
 Bishop Williams entered the ministry of the Pentecostal Holiness Church in 1941. A graduate of Greenville high school and Emmanuel College, he has served as a member of the North Carolina Conference, in the positions of assistant superintendent, general assistant superintendent and vice chairman of the General Board of Administration, executive director of world missions, and as director of institutions of the church.

 His first pastorate was in Farmville. Later he held pastorates in Raleigh, Goldsboro, Fayetteville and Tarboro.

Big Turnout At Reidsville Event

REIDSVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The fifth annual Blue Grass Music Festival ends today in rural Caswell County with total attendance for the five-day event running into the thousands.
 Carlton Haney, producer, estimated that between 4,000 and 6,000 attended Sunday's session which featured some of the nation's leading country music groups, including Bill Monroe and the Blue Grass Boys.
 The festival was started five years ago near Roanoke, Va., and moved this year to its permanent 160-acre site in Caswell.

 "Let me show you this invention which we have a patent on. This is a see-through wax paper window for noodles. Well, when you look at it you think you're getting a full box of noodles. Right?"
 "Of course."
 "Now look at the inside of the box."
 "Why, the only noodles in it are stuck to the window," I said in amazement.
 "Yup. The windows are magnetized. When the window fills up with noodles, the box moves on."
 "Are those frozen TV dinners over there?"
 "They certainly are. They look like a complete dinner, don't they?"
 "You bet."
 "Now look under the tray. You see how it's indented. There's nothing in the tray but what you see on the top."
 "Fantastic," I said.
 He took me into another building which had a large sign, "Pharmaceuticals," on the outside. "This is where we work on new packaging for medicines." He opened a door and everywhere I looked were large mounds of white cotton.
 "What do you do with that stuff?" I asked.

"We put two pills in each bottle of medicine and stuff the rest of it with white cotton. If it wasn't for cotton I don't think the drug industry could survive."
 "You people think of everything."
 "Not everything. Our dream is to devise a package filled with nothing but air, cotton and aluminum foil. If you bought one, you'd get a second package free."

 money in the banks. As a substitute for fighting inflation, some want Mr. Nixon to return partially to the Kennedy-Johnson jawbone technique and urge greater self-restraint on business and particularly labor in seeking higher prices and wages.
 The campaign has failed. Martin's three colleagues on the Quadriad—Treasury Secretary David Kennedy, Budget Director Robert Mayo, and chief economic advisor Paul McCracken—support him without reservation. So does Dr. Arthur Burns, the President's counselor and economic tutor.
 Indeed, the guarded remarks of last spring by high Treasury officials that the Federal Reserve might be overreacting in its tight money policy have disappeared. Having then underestimated the intensity of the inflation, the Treasury now fully applauds Martin's prescriptions. Unlike Friedman, the Quadriad believes the inflation has not yet been quelled.

THE THREE YEAR ITCH

A common malady among car owners. Especially noticeable when car is three years old or has been driven about 1/4 the distance to the moon. 500000

Often characterized by the following (and other recognizable) symptoms:

1. A sinking feeling that something may be going on under your car's hood that you probably don't even want to find out about. ("Where's that new noise coming from, honey?")
2. The realization that what started off three years ago as the car of your dreams has suddenly become a dream of another kind. Especially when something goes wrong with it. ("I didn't really think it would cost that much to fix, but if you say so...")
3. Unkind (but probably true) comments from family and friends about the appearance and condition of your present car. ("I don't see why we have to smell exhaust fumes when the air-conditioning's on, dear.")

Research shows too, that the itch doesn't always take three years to develop. Sometimes it hits the owners of the very young. Like after two years. Or one year. Or whenever new models appear.

Fortunately, the itch can be cured, even in the most advanced cases.

Guaranteed immediate recovery is available at the new car dealer of your choice.

And if you finance through the Planters Plan, your recovery will cost a lot less and be a lot easier than you probably think.

So if you decide this is the year to end the itch, see your dealer soon or talk with a FNB banker. And get well fast.

Juvenile Choice: Villains, Spies
 LONDON (AP) — Britain's juvenile moviegoers prefer villains to heroes and spies to space, according to a poll of morning matinee customers in London. Ninety-eight per cent of the 7-12 age group rated spies first robbers second, spacemen third. Most unpopular: farmers, policemen, teachers.

Another 'Time Bomb' Ticking On Capitol Hill

By ED ROGERS
WASHINGTON (UPI)—While internal rifts over civil rights policies blew up in the Nixon administration's face last week another 'time bomb' ticked away quietly on Capitol Hill.
When Secretary Robert H. Finch is called on to testify before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee about the budget for his Department of Health, Education and Welfare late this month or in early October, he is sure to be asked: "Do you or do you not support the Whitten amendment?"

His reply may shed light on lauses of widespread protests that erupted in the Justice Department last week over the administration's school desegregation policies.

The attorneys who work in the Justice Department's civil rights division were dismayed because Finch asked a federal court to allow Mississippi more time to meet HEW's new desegregation standards.

Virtually the entire staff of civil rights lawyers, who play a supporting role in Finch's school desegregation enforcement ment, joined in support of a petition protesting lack of vigorous enforcement of civil rights laws.

Finch kept silent earlier this summer when the House wrote into the HEW appropriations bill an amendment that is considered likely to do more than delay desegregation deadlines.

In the view of civil rights leaders and liberal members of the House and Senate, the so-called "Whitten amendment" might bring school desegregation to a permanent standstill.

As drafted by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., and supported by Southern conservatives of both houses, it is calculated to restore the legitimacy of desegregation by so-called "freedom of choice", which seldom produces results that meet present federal standards.

It would forbid HEW to require districts to use more effective alternatives that entail requiring racial transfers and busing pupils between neighborhoods, or closing racially isolated schools.

Finch did not commit himself as this amendment was adopted in committee and allowed to remain by a 17-vote margin in a test on the House floor.

Finch prolonged his silence although civil rights leaders complained bitterly that a word from the administration would easily have defeated the amendment early in the game.

There has been speculation the the administration silence during House debate was designed for the specific purpose of gaining Southern opposition to an unwanted boost in the HEW appropriation.

There is other speculation that the rift over the school issue has become evident within HEW as well as in the Justice Department.

According to some, the administration failed to state its position because internal squabbling prevented Finch from knowing what position to take.

Others held still another view that the administration need not offend Southerners during the summer, with negotiations over fall desegregation plans in delicate balance, because the amendment could safely be left to be dealt with by the Senate.

Senate opponents are at work preparing to kill the amendment or at least make it ineffective as they did an identical one last year. Senate liberals are organizing for a showdown regardless of what opposition the Nixon forces take.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he wants to see how members of his appropriations subcommittee feel before deciding whether the showdown is to be staged within the subcommittee itself.

But Magnuson has called as an early witness Clarence Mitchell, head of the Washington NAACP office, who told UPI he intends to speak out against the Whitten amendment.

A spokesman for Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said he and other senators are seeking to line up opposition forces and feel optimistic, although they are "running scared" as a matter of strategy.

Greek Ruins Reported Found

KALAMAI, Greece (AP)—The Greek Archaeological Service says ruins of a temple dedicated to the ancient Greek sea god Poseidon have been found near this seaport town. A spokesman said it appears the area was inhabited during the Prehellenic era by tribes either from Asia Minor or the Cyclades Islands of the Aegean.

Beauty Queens From 50 States Are Reporting In

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Armed with pet turtles, lucky pennies and their loveliest smiles, 50 state beauty queens register today for the Miss America Pageant.

Miss America 1970 will be crowned here Saturday night at the windup of the week-long pageant.

The contestants spent Sunday posing for photographs by the ocean, pouring sand out of their shoes, and visiting a children's hospital. In the evening they attended a private get-acquainted dinner.

Miss Indiana, Jill Jackson, brought along a good luck star sapphire ring. She also found a lemon tree in her room, a gift from her local pageant, Jill, it seems, squirts a bit of lemon into her mouth before singing on stage.

Miss New York, Linda Trybus, was accompanied by her pet turtle "Lucky," who'll stay safely out of the way in a glass bowl in the hotel room.

Adria Elaine Easten, Miss Colorado, will wear for luck 20-year-old pearl dangling earrings given to her by a woman in Boulder, Colo.

Mr. Grape, a squeaky, walking hunk of metal grapes with a face, is the charm of Miss Wyoming, Sandra Ann Grim. She said a 7-year-old boy named George Cook of Chester, Pa., peaked over the top of an airliner seat and said: "Here, take it for good luck."

Tucked in the right shoe of Miss Ohio, Kathy Baumann, is a silk-enclosed lucky penny mailed to her by a stranger who wished her well.

Miss Georgia, Marilyn Louise Olley is wearing an emerald ring made in Mexico, which was an early Christmas present and good luck charm from a Marietta, Ga., doctor whom she dates.

Miss Arizona, Kathleen Ennis, has four good luck mementoes, among them a road runner pin.

Miss North Dakota, Charlene Seiffert, rubs the tummy of a Buddha; Miss New Hampshire, Cathy Zanichowsky, has a tiny horseshoe; Miss Arkansas, Marilyn Allen, a white Bible, and Miss Idaho, Diana Hooperstad, a rabbit's foot.

Henry Hudson Late On Scene
NEW YORK (AP) — The Cooney Island Chamber of Commerce has abandoned its annual re-enactment of Henry Hudson's landing on the beach after seeing convincing evidence that Italian explorer Giovanni Verrazano got there first.

John LaCorte of Brooklyn, director of the Italian Historical Society of America, presented Verrazano visited the island in 1524, 85 years before Hudson.

LaCorte said he had nothing against Hudson. "He was a good navigator... he used Verrazano's maps," LaCorte said.

Dedicating New Historic Site
CRESWELL, N. C. (AP) — The North Carolina Department of Archives and History will dedicate the newest in a long list of state historic sites Saturday. It is Somerset Place, a pre-Civil War plantation.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan will be the featured speaker for the ceremonies.

Revival Services Through Sunday

Revival services will be held at the Trinity Free Will Baptist Church tonight through Sunday. Ken Riggs of Nashville, Tenn., will be the evangelist for the services.

Riggs received his B. A. de-

Jas. Byrnes' Condition Still Critical

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — James F. Byrnes, elder statesman whose long career of public service included terms as a Supreme Court justice and U.S. Secretary of State, remained in critical condition today.

He has been in the intensive care unit at Baptist Hospital in Columbia since Friday when he suffered an apparent heart attack.

"He... as lost ground," his physician said Sunday. "His condition has worsened."

The 90-year-old former governor suffered the attack at his Columbia home early Friday night.

Dr. Izard Josey, his doctor, reported him "somnolent (sleepy) but lucid when awake" on Saturday.

Josey said late Sunday "he is less responsive, his temperature remains elevated and his heart action has deteriorated to some extent."

City School Menu

Lunchroom menus for the coming week have been announced by the supervisor of city school cafeterias as follows:

Wednesday—hot dog with chili and onions; slaw, buttered potatoes, applesauce, milk;
Thursday — spaghetti with meat sauce, baked spinach, french biscuit, ice cream, milk;
Friday—tuna fish salad on lettuce, buttered crowder peas, stewed corn and tomatoes, homemade roll, Jello with topping, milk.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Temperatures will average above normal through Saturday. Precipitation of an inch or more on the coast and up to one-half inch elsewhere with scattered showers throughout the week.

Violent Night In Fort Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A drag race and a stray bullet that hit a woman in the face triggered looting, rock-throwing and fire bombings Sunday night in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Hospitals said 13 persons were injured. Most were hurt by rocks or glass shards. Few required more than first aid.

Maj. Thomas Atkinson of the Broward County Sheriff's department reported 15 to 20 arrests.

Atkinson said the violence erupted about 7:30 p.m. when sheriff's deputies broke up a drag race. A crowd gathered and a bullet in the face felled 43-year-old Millie Adams. Rumors circulated that the deputy had wounded Mrs. Adams, but authorities said a sniper fired the shot.

In two unrelated incidents, whites reported Negroes rescued them from unruly blacks.

Gertrude Bell said she was driving her 80-year-old husband, Frank, when their car was stopped with a barrage of rocks and bottles. Bell lost his right eye when he was struck by a thrown object.

Mrs. Bell, her blue print cotton dress drenched with blood from scalp cuts, said a Negro man "came out of the crowd and told me to move over. He got in our car and drove us to the hospital." The man disappeared at the hospital.

Cynthia Klees and her mother were driving through the area when their car was surrounded. Miss Klees, who is 16, said two Negro men broke up the group, shouting: "Leave these ladies alone." Miss Klees was treated for a cut on the knee and released from the hospital. Her mother was not hurt.

Today In History

Today is Monday, Sept. 1, the 244th day of 1969. There are 121 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1939, World War II began as Germany invaded Poland.

On this date—
In 1682, 100 English Quakers led by William Penn sailed for America.

In 1807, a court in Richmond, Va., acquitted Aaron Burr. The Revolutionary War officer and political leader had been charged with treason.

In 1862, the Japanese cities of Tokyo and Yokohama were devastated by an earthquake.

In 1945, Japan surrendered aboard the battleship Missouri at the end of World War II.

Francelia Developing Into Menace

MIAMI (AP) — Hurricane Francelia developed a well-formed center during the night and began growing today as it moved across the warm waters of the northwestern Caribbean.

The National Hurricane Center said the storm, still relatively small but potentially dangerous, probably would pass near the tiny Swan Islands, 300 miles east of Belize, British Honduras, early tonight.

Francelia's development had caused concern among forecasters, who warned its future course "was unpredictable."

Marshal Won't Surrender Job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Democrat appointed last year by President Johnson as U.S. marshal for Northern California refuses to step aside for a Republican successor appointed this year by President Nixon.

Louis H. Martin of Martinez says a president appointed him to a four-year term "so it takes someone of equal status to remove me." And he said Sunday he still had not received any word from President Nixon.

George B. Harris, chief judge of the U.S. District Court in San Francisco, has refused to swear in the new appointee, George E. Tobin of Mill Valley, until a vacancy is declared officially. Tobin's nomination was confirmed July 11.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said Sunday the department recognizes Tobin as marshal.

"If the Justice Department is recognizing Tobin," Martin said, "then they are recognizing someone who hasn't been sworn in."

Martin said the closest thing he has received to notice removing him from his $27,000-a-year position was a letter from Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst that "he assumed I would relinquish my post."

At the Western White House in San Clemente, a spokesman said the President would have no immediate comment, pending investigation.

Three Killed As Boat Hit Iceberg

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Three persons were killed when a fishing boat struck an iceberg near Sumdum Glacier 40 miles south of Juneau, the Coast Guard said Sunday. Two others were found aboard a liferaft.

Killed when the vessel hit the berg Saturday were Cathy Ann Hogan of Pleasant Hills, Calif., and Andy Hofsteder and Joe Bains, both believed to be from Petersburg, Alaska.

Thomas Stewart, skipper of the fishing boat "Monroe," and Kelly Hofsteder were found in the liferaft.

She was faster than her three rivals but judges disqualified her because her father helped her lift two 50-pound bales she dropped.

The 3,600 spectators booed the judges' decision.

"It doesn't really matter," said Lori, "I just wanted to show them I could do it."

Lori, 5-feet-6 and 130 pounds, is the daughter of a farmer in this alfalfa center north of Los Angeles.

Red Cross Ups Disaster Goal

The American Red Cross has raised its disaster emergency goal fund to $15 million dollars, from an earlier announced goal of $6 million.

According to an announcement issued by Chairman E. Roland Harriman and President James F. Collins, it has been necessary to reconsider the needs of victims of Hurricane Camille in light of widespread devastation created in four Gulf Coast states and in Virginia and West Virginia.

This amount is to be allocated on the basis of $14 million for the four Gulf States and $1 million for Virginia and West Virginia.

Most suffering has been centered in areas of Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama, where loss of homes, transportation, and businesses were particularly heavy. In the four Gulf Coast states, more than 66,000 people were affected. Over 3,000 families in Virginia and West Virginia suffered damage and losses.

President Nixon is supporting efforts to raise the $15 million emergency goal. Comedian Bob Hope is conducting a fund raising telethon to help raise funds, and a number of leaders in the fields of entertainment, industry, and labor unions have joined in the effort to get citizens to contribute to raising the needed funds which will go for emergency assistance to victims.

Orientation Day At Kindergarten

Orientation activities for the Trinity Free Will Baptist Church Kindergarten will begin at 9 a.m., Tuesday.

The Kindergarten, directed by Mrs. Al Davis, will be held at the church and will operate on two shifts; from 9-9:45, and from 10:15-11:00. Team teaching will be used this year, with Mrs. R. P. Shoe instructing the academic subjects, and Mrs. Davis teaching music, art, and other subjects.

Cost Goes Up For Car Wash

PARIS, Ky. (AP) — The cost of living caught up with the Irish Washwoman.

The company, in a newspaper advertisement, noted that property taxes have gone up 1,034 per cent, sewer rates are up 135 per cent and water rates have climbed 135 per cent.

But, said the automatic car-wash firm, "We're just going up 50 per cent for our services, from $1 to $1.50."

The People's Republic of China covers 3,691,500 square miles and has a population of about 722 million.
