Williams Detained In London On Way To U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Black power militant Robert Williams, who fled the United States eight years ago to avoid trial on kidnaping charges, is being detained at London airport, the Home Office said Saturday night.

Williams arrived Friday night from Tanzania on his way back to America and was refused admittance to Britain because he was "not considered desirable," an official statement said.

The spokesman said Williams had booked a flight to the United States but that the airline refused to carry him. He was reported being detained "pending negotiations with the airline."

The spokesman declined to identify the airline but other sources said it was Trans World Airlines. There was no immediate indication why the airline refused Williams as a passenger.

Williams is president of the black separatist Republic of New Africa (RNA).

Some 250 members of the RNA, including several of its Black Legion military arm, were on hand at the airport in Detroit. They attempted to keep newsmen away from the general area outside the customs building.

Williams had been expected to be arrested by the FBI immediately upon his scheduled arrival. A federal fugitive warrant awaited the black militant leader who left the country in 1961 to avoid charges of kidnaping a white couple in Monroe, N. C., during a racial disturbance.

Attorney Milton Henry, first vice president of the RNA, was among the crowd at the airport. He said Williams may have taken a flight to New York instead.

After being advised that Williams was not aboard the Detroit flight, Henry asked the head of the FBI contingent not to take Williams before a federal commissioner in New York "until I get there."

He also asked the FBI to tell him where Williams is as soon as possible.

Henry said that he and the FBI had an agreement that Williams was not to be arraigned unless Henry was on hand and that the arraignment or other legal hearing would take place in Detroit.

ROBERT WILLIAMS

But the FBI man, who declined to identify himself, denied knowing of any such agreement and said he did not know where Williams was.

Henry told newsmen:

"I became suspicious last night when he (Williams) was not in the hotel where he was supposed to be when I tried to telephone him in London."

Five RNA cabinet members were on hand at the airport, along with at least two federal agents and a squad including both plainclothes and uniformed Wayne County sheriff's deputies.

Newsmen were allowed through the customs area to the gangplank of the plane, where it was announced that Williams was not aboard.

The bearded, 44-year-old Williams fled to Cuba after the incident and for five years broadcast propaganda from Havana to Negroes in the southern United States.

He left Cuba in 1966 for Red China, where he has lived since with frequent visiits to North Vietnam and Tanzania. His wife and two sons earlier flew to Detroit from Tanzania.

In Exchange For Elbrick

Prisoners Are Released

By ALBERTO J .SCHAZIN

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—A Brazilian air force plane carrying political prisoners being exchanged for kidnaped U.S. Ambassador C. Burke Elbrick left Saturday for Mexico despite a last minute effort by 200 armed navy men to thwart the trade as a "national disgrace."

The four-engine C130 Hercules plane took off at 5:03 p.m. (4:03 p.m. EDT), an hour and three minutes after a departure deadline apparently given the government by the kidnapers.

The terrorists who seized the 61-year-old ambassador Thursday said he would be released unharmed once the prisoners arrival in Mexico has been confirmed by international news media. Otherwise, they warned, they would kill him.

Prevent Takeoff

The Hercules was preparing for takeoff when two navy helicopters suddenly landed beside the craft and navy men ringed both the air force base and the adjoining commercial airport.

A uniformed navy captain, who declined to identify himself, told newsmen the government's bowing to the kidnapers' demands to release 15 prisoners was a national disgrace" to Brazil.

"The navy tired to impede their departure but we received orders from above to let them leave," the captain said.

The naval men remained at the airport for more than an hour after the departure of the plane on its 4,674-mile flight to Mexico.

The naval action caused embarrassment to Foreign Minister Jose de Magalhaes Pinto who, at 3:00 p.m. (2:20 p.m. EDT), told a news conference that the plane had taken off 10 minutes earlier. A spokesman for his office said later "troubles with the control tower" had prevented the departure.

A reliable source said the plane carried 13 of the 15 prisoners whose release was demanded by the terrorists who kidnaped the U.S. ambassador when he was being driven to his office. The source said the other two prisoners would be picked up in Recife and Belem, northern cities on the plane's route to Mexico.

15 to 20 Hours

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the Hercules would normally make the flight to Mexico in 15 to 20 hours, allowing for one refueling stop.

Newsmen were not allowed to approach the air force facilities from which the prisoners departed. The newsmen were confined to the commercial airport terminal, located half a mile from the military installation.

The prisoners started to be assembled at Rio's heavily-guarded Galeao International Airport Saturday morning, less than 24 hours after the kidnapers had given the government the names of those they wanted freed. The prisoners were brought out to the airport in police vans.

Irishman Who Took On Ocean Not Seen Since August 14

MIAMI (AP) — Bill Verity, barrel-chested Irishman who took on the Atlantic and Hurricane Debbie to prove a theory that an ancient son of Eire beat Columbus to America, hasn't been heard from since Aug. 14.

Coast Guard officials reported no contact Friday and confirmed that Verity's 20-foot craft may have fallen victim to a treacherous stretch of sea called the Twilight Zone.

The zone, a mysterious patch of ocean in the triangle between San Juan, Miami and Bermuda, has been suspected for almost 100 years of gobbling up sailors and even pilots.

The last contact with Verity came when the Coast Guard cutter Sagebrush helped him with rudder problems 400 miles northeast of Puerto Rico. Six days later, the lone sailor—who refused rescue by the cutter—may have well been in the path of Hurricane Debbie.

Coast Guard officials don't think Debbie did him in, however, and instead the Twilight Zone will be the prime suspect if Verity does not reappear.

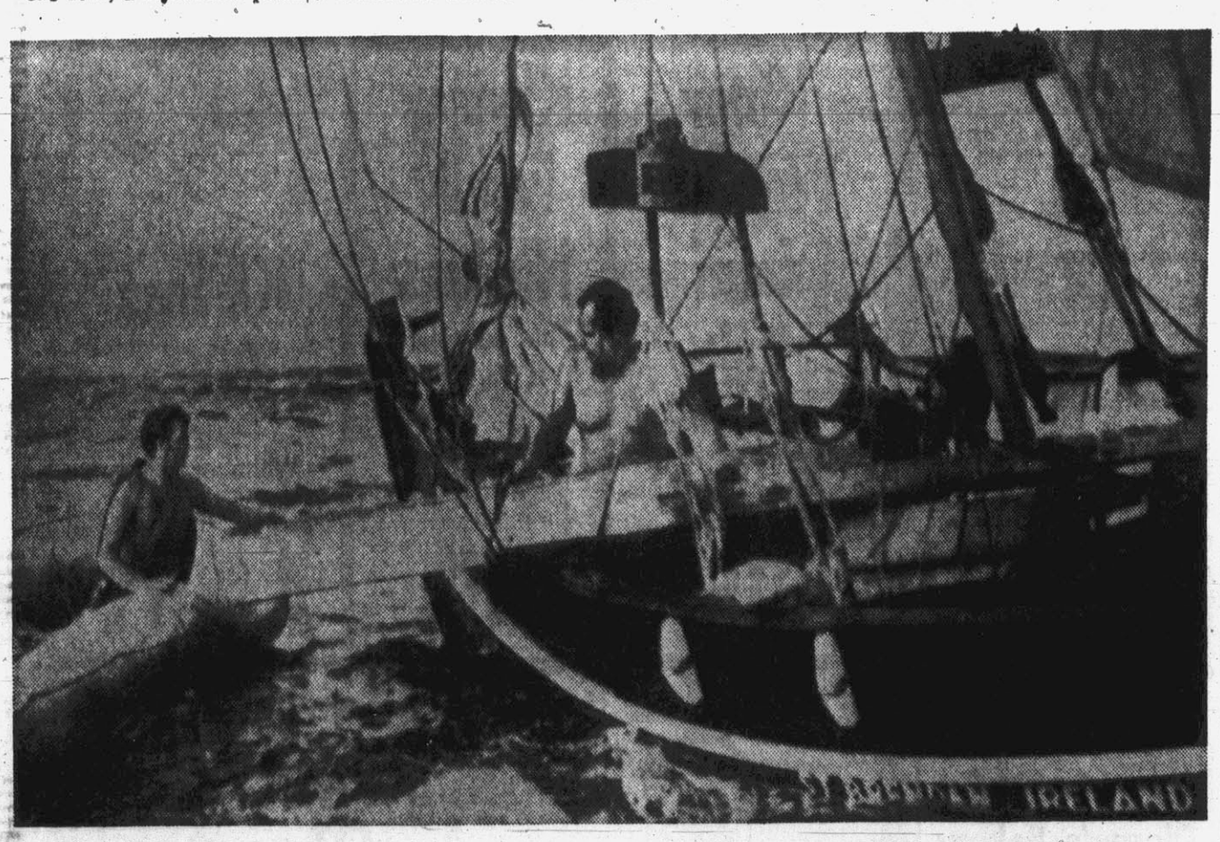

Over the years, ships have disappeared in the zone with no traces. In 1945, five small Navy planes took off from Fort Lauderdale for the Bahamas.

A couple of hours later, a radio message from the air group said: "We don't know our position. We don't know where we are."

They were never heard from again. The same fate befell another Navy plane that went to search for the missing five.

Veteran aviation experts claim there is a dead spot in the Twilight Zone where radio communication is almost impossible.

Verity left from Fenit, Ireland, May 22. His aim was to duplicate the trek that Verity claimed a monk took about 550 A.D. to the shores of Florida.

Tyson Named To PTI Board

RALEIGH — Governor Bob Scott has announced the appointment of William F. Tyson of Stokes to the board of trustees of Pitt Technical Institute. Tyson, a farmer and businessman, succeeds J. C. Wynne, Jr. of Bethel on the Board.

The Board of Trustees is composed of 12 members. Four are gubernatorial appointees. Four are appointed by the local school board and four by the county commissioners.

Growers Are Receiving Record Prices For Leaf

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina growers are receiving record prices for flue-cured tobacco, but a tobacco marketing specialist says it has cost them a record amount to produce this year's crop.

"The tobacco grower is caught in a cost-price squeeze that has been getting tighter during the last decade," said John H. Cyrus of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

"Some people think the tobacco grower who is hollering hard times is getting rich," Cyrus said in an interview. "Actually, his margin of profit has dwindled because of the labor cost."

Cyrus predicted North Carolina's flue-cured tobacco sales this year will average a record total of more than $70 per hundred pounds.

In 1968, North Carolina growers produced about $650 million pounds of flue-cured tobacco and received some $435 million for an average of $66.45 per hundred pounds. The income this year is expected to total about $515 million.

Cyrus said agriculture economists at North Carolina State University estimate it is costing the average Tar Heel tobacco grower about 55 cents a pound to produce his crop.

"It will cost some growers more and some less depending on the family labor involved," Cyrus said. "A grower who has five acres will make a profit of only about $1,425. This is figured on a yield of about 1,900 pounds per acre and a cost of 55 cents per pound to produce it."

"This means," he added, "the grower must supplement his tobacco with other crops to bring in sufficient income for his family. Labor is one of the biggest factors involved in tobacco production."

Based on current market demands for a thin to medium bodied type of tobacco, this year's crop is one of the best in years, Cyrus said.

Looking to the years ahead, he said he did not think tobacco production in North Carolina will dwindle much if demand holds up.

Cyrus noted that in recent years, "we have had tobacco allotments to go unplanted. About 45,000 acres were not planted this year. It all goes back to the uneasiness situation in tobacco and the labor supply."

Under Governor's Program

Older People May Be Involved In More Activity In Pitt County

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Older citizens of Greenville and Pitt County can look forward to more activity in their lives.

Approximately 6,000 local citizens, who are now in the age bracket of 60 or older, may soon be involved in projects under the auspices of the Pitt-Greenville area chapter of the North Carolina Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging.

Mrs. J.B. Spilman, a native of Greenville, well known for her long years in civic, social, professional and church work, has been coordinator of the Pitt-Greenville area. Herself a senior citizen, albeit an active one, Mrs. Spilman is qualified to understand many of the problems which often confront older people.

She refers to her compatriots as senior citizens. 'Since my appointment, I've been busy rounding up names and information on each individual," she states. "To date we have on file the names of more than 1,500 senior citizens."

Noting that even in the early stages of planning she has received considerable assistance and pormise of more to come, she remarked "the churches are helping out splendidly on this."

Her position of director is under the supervision of a committee with Dr. Clinton R. Prewett as chairman. He is a faculty member at East Carolina University in the Education and Psychology Department. Other members elected to the area Council on Aging include Robert Martin, a Pitt County commissioner; Boyd Lee, director, Greenville Recreation Commission; Percy Cox, city councilman and mayor pro-tem of Greenville; Mrs. Graham Flanagan; and Henry Oglesby of Grifton. One other member is to be elected to the committee.

The inaugural phase of this program is made possible by a state grant of 21,960. 'This grant is to cover operating expenses, including salaries," Mrs. Spilman said. "The city and county are to furnish assistance by in-kind contributions." Part of such assistance is already being furnished. The Greenville Recreation Commission has provided office space and equipment as a beginning.

"We will work closely with the Recreation Department," Mrs. Spilman noted. "As many people know, they have already a program for senior citizens. Our program in no way duplicates theirs, nor infringes on the work they are carrying on in this field."

There are multiple activities which will be planned for the older people wishing to participate. Mrs. Spilman pointed out that a number of elder people were already so busy or occupied with post-retirement activities that they could hardly take on anything new. "The ones we're hoping to reach, and effectively, are those with little or nothing to do," she said. "There is no reason for a person to become inactive simply because he or she has passed a certain age. One should be active as long as they live."

"Reaching the inactive ones is really our primary purpose for existing," she summed up.

Among the activities and programs which will form the heart of programming are such things as "meals on wheels." This essential service will provide nutritional meals to persons unable to prepare their own or lacking facilities to prepare meals. Assistance in legal problems is another vital service to be furnished senior citizens. Such services will be general in nature, and will not deal with specifics.

Periodic friendly visits — in person or interspersed with telephone calls, is another program which will be undertaken to reassure the aged and lonely they are not forgotten. Homes of elderly people will also be visited with an eye to checking for safety hazards and improving conditions for comfort.

These are services considered essential to the welfare and protection of senior citizens who may, for one reason or another, be somewhat neglected or forgotten. But the overall program will be planned to go much further.

Enjoyment in one's declining years will be emphasized. Mentioning that "people are never too old to enjoy the fellowship and fun of being with others," Mrs. Spilman briefly outlined a few future plans. "We will organize recreation activities which will include the arts and crafts," she noted. "There will be library services, and meetings to involve senior citizens."

Mrs. Spilman spoke gratefully of the services which have been offered by personnel at East Carolina University. "We have indications they will give us assistance in the arts and crafts," she remarked.

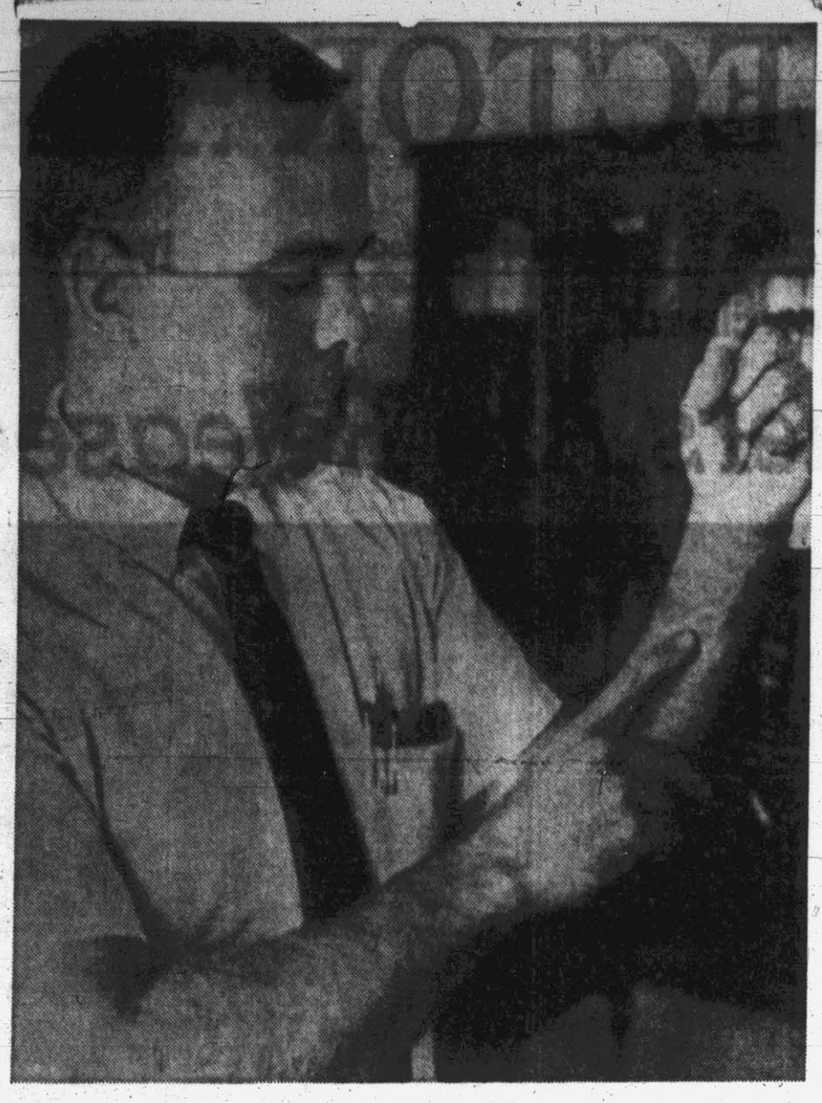

One office assistant, Mrs. Tony Southerland, is already on the job with Mrs. Spilman. She is working as administrative secretary. "We are fortunate in getting her to work for us," Mrs. Spilman observed, "because she has had experience related to this work when she was in Smithfield."

One of the items on her agenda of things to do right away in order to get the program headed into the phase of active contacts is to select two field representatives. "These two will be the ones who will have the challenge — and the privilege, of seeking out those who need most to be drawn into this program," she said. "I want to be certain we get good people for this important part of the work."

Pitt County, so far as is known, is one of two counties in the eastern part of the state to take advantage of state help in funding and organizing the program for senior citizens. Wilson County has initiated a similar program. "Other than those two, and certain area work being carried on in the town of Washington, I'm not aware of other eastern North Carolina counties having made a move to get this worthwhile work underway," she commented. "However, practically all the western and Piedmont Counties have established chapters."

The North Carolina Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging was created by former Governor Dan K. Moore. It is an effort to create a vital program to help alleviate the loneliness, and to meet a pressing need for giving new meaning to the lives of North Carolina's senior population, which numbers nearly 400,000.

The story of Mrs. Spilman's past accomplishments is a well-known one to the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County. "I've always enjoyed all the work I've done," she commented. "For me the high point of my life came this year, when the 1969 North Ca- resolution honoring me for my service as executive director of the North Carolina Mental Health Association."

NEARLY SEVERED HAND IS OKAY —Staley Gentry's left hand was almost torn off May 20, but he now has 90 per cent use of his hand again. (AP Wirephoto)

Doctors Save Hand Torn Away

By LEWIS W GR.EEN
Asheville Citizen-Times Writer

FRANKLIN, N. C. (AP) — Staley Gentry's left hand was virtually torn off at the wrist in May, but he says the full impact didn't come to him until recently when he was eating lunch at a Hazelwood restaurant.

A one-armed man came in and sat down. Staley Gentry knew himself to be a fortunate man, because the hand he lost had grown back and he was using it to eat with.

A finely tuned medical team of six doctors and nurses at Northern Surry Hospital near Mount Airy labored long and hard to give the hand back to Gentry.

Gentry, 28, is a native of Laurel Hill in Scotland County and is a 1963 graduate of Duke University. He is an accountant in a management position with Waynewood Corp. a furniture manufacturing plant in Hazelwood. He lives in Franklin with his wife.

In a way, the story began on Tuesday, May 20. That day Gentry bought himself a banjo and he was determined to learn to play it.

He was managing his father-in-law's construction firm in Dobson. On Friday he went to work on a construction project south of Mount Airy.

He climbed upon a roadscraper to take some heavy duty battery cables to a bulldozer. He had the cables wrapped around his left hand as he drove down the road. Gentry said he hit a bump and felt the ends of the cable drop under him to the big wheels below.

He felt the wheels crawl the cables, then everything went very fast. He said he knew that if he did not hold on, he would be pulled under the wheels to his death. And he could not sling the cables free of his arm.

He held on to the steering wheel. The jerk was quick and the cut was clean. His mind was instantly filled with a swarm of thoughts.

"My God, all this money I've spent on a banjo and now I've cut my arm off," he said he thought. One artery was not severed and a thin tissue of skin also held when he got stopped.

He said he picked up the hand and tried to cap it back on his wrist, but it would not stay. Gentry said he fought to hold on to consciousness because he hoped his hand could be saved and he feared if he fainted someone would take him to the hospital and leave his hand behind.

But it was only about 15 minutes before he made his way to the hospital. There Dr. Ben Lawrence Jr., 44, of Mount Airy took one look at the hand and stump and saw reason to hope. Lawrence remained anonymous, but The Citizen-Times learned his name. He recently told Gentry that he did not mind his name being known, but that he didn't want to run afoul of a medical ethics committee.

First, two pins were placed in the bones of the hand to stabilize them, then a tedious three-hour job began.

The vessels were spliced to keep blood flowing. Then muscles, tendons and nerves were joined. Finally the skin was sewn and the hand was back on.

A new drug was applied to keep down infection, the doctor noted. For the first few days, nurses kept a close watch, then it appeared the replant might work. The surgeon said that the nerves were the slowest to heal.

John Lockhart, administrator of the Northern Surry Hospital, praised the team of doctors and nurses in an interview.

"You don't have to live near a medical center any more for this type of thing to be performed," he said. "Modern knowledge and techniques are filtering down into community hospitals. Everybody is soon going to be within reach of these techniques."

By midsummer Gentry had regained 90 per cent of the use of his hand, and he is learning to play his banjo. He will have more visits to the hospital, but the critical point has been passed.

Things happened so smoothly and quickly after he reached the hospital that Gentry didn't really reflect upon it, he said.

But he started reflecting in the restaurant recently when the one-armed man came in.

"It was the first time it really struck home," Gentry said. "It almost made me sick."

Damage Is Heavy In Friday Wrecks

More than $3,100 property damage was reported in a series of six traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville police Friday.

Officers reported heavest damage resulted from a 6:30 p. m. collision at the intersection of 10th Street and U.S. 264 bypass which involved cars driven by Wanda Jewel Stokes, 18 of Greenville and Joseph Earl Waters, 25 of Virginia Beach, Va.

Police charged Waters with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident and placed damage to the Stokes vehicle at $400 and set damage to the Waters vehicle at $500.

Joe Lewis Daniels, 28-year-old Negro of 1109A Fairfax Ave. was charged with failing to yield right of way in a 5:45 p. m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson and Line Avenues.

Police said the Daniels car collided with a car driven by Thomas Edward Palmer, 22 of Oceanside, Calif.

Damage to the Palmer car was set at -42' while damage to the Daniels vehicle was placed at -400.

One passenger in a car driven by Vernon Gerah Childs Jr., 27 of 506 Pine St. was reported injured when the Childs car and a vehicle driven by Willie Glenn Joyner, 22-year-old Negro of 412 A Davis St. collided about 7 p. m. at the intersection of Hooker Road and U. S. 264.

Damage was set at $200 to the Joyner car and $350 to the Childs vehicle. Joyner was charged with hit and run driving.

Sadie Smith Garrington of 316 East 11th St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of at 4:30 p. m. collision of Fifth Street 150 feet West of the Pitt Street intersection.

Officers said the Garrington car collided with a vehicle operated by Jeffrey Marvin Walder, 25 of 206 North Summit St. causing an estimated $150 damage to the Garrington car and about $200 damage to the Walder auto.

An estimated $150 damage resulted to each of two involved in a 5:15 p. m.. collision at the intersection of Dickinson and Atlantic Avenues, police reported.

Drivers of the vehicles involved were identified as Richard Davis, 36-year-old Negro of Farmville and Georgina Amelia Harris, 18-year-old Negro of 606 Ford St.

Miss Harris was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Bessie Hopkins Filmore, 20-year-old Negro of 1408 West Sixth St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 2:52 p. m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and Pitt Streets.

Investigators reported the Filmore car collided with a car driven by Mary Hitchner Jones, of Rocky Mount, causing an estimated $100 damage to the Filmore car and about $150 damage to the Jones vehicle.

Former Greenville Miss Remembers Miss America Pageant 11 Years Ago

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

With the annual Miss America pageant being held last night in Atlantic City, N. J., Mrs. Ted Bissette of Spring Hope, formerly Miss Betty Lane Evans of Greenville, recalls her experiences as Miss North Carolina and fourth runner-up in the Miss America pageant in 1958.

Mrs. Bissette's role as a beauty contestant began at the age of 18 when she represented the local Kiwanis Club in the annual Miss Greenville contest in which she was named winner.

BETTY LANE EVANS

"The Greenville pageant was the start of it all," Mrs. Bissette said, "and still has many lovely memories for me."

The next contest was the Miss North Carolina pageant in Charlotte. "With so many lovely girls in the Miss North Carolina competition, I almost felt defeated before even checking into my hotel room," Mrs. Bissette explained.

"When I went to Charlotte, I went to win, but I did not have the slightest notion of doing so," Mrs. Bissette said. "I had plenty of spirit, but winning was out of my mind."

Mrs. Bissette won the swimsuit competition during the week's activities, and that helped her spirits some, she said.

"Alice Blue Gown" was the number chosen by Mrs Bissette for the talent division. Mrs. Bissette has played the piano since she was three years old and had received some voice instruction in high school.

"I feel you can take something simple and do it well rather than try a fancy number and get confused," the former Miss North Carolina noted.

Mrs. Bissette continued, "I dreaded the question and answer period, but by the time they came to the questions, I was so keyed up I didn't remember my number being called."

"It was almost unbelievable that I was named Miss North Carolina." she said.

Mrs. Bissette did not know what the year ahead held in store but she looked forward with anticipation.

"I wish every girl could have the opportunity of being Miss North Carolina, but it is an experience you can only do one time. You would not want to do it again," she remarked.

A beauty contestant winner has to put the title in a special category and leave it there Mrs. Bissette explained, you have to live for other things.

After the necessary preparations for the Miss America pageant were made, Mrs. Bissette and her mother, Mrs. Amos J. Evans, left Greenville for Atlantic City to begin the week of competition.

"In Atlantic City, we were met at the airport with white Oldsmobiles and siren escorts," said Mrs. Bissette. "We felt like queens from the very beginning of the event."

The pageant contestants were scattered throughout the city with only two or three girls living in each hotel. "One requirement of the hotel owner was for the contestants to dine each night in the hotel dining room wearing their formal white gowns." Mrs. Bissette recalls the joy of the hotel guests at their being there.

"Meeting the girls and other people, the rehearsal, hearing the different accents and the whole event, was so much fun," she exclaimed.

The contestants had breakfast with the judges each morning. "That was fun but scary," remembers Mrs. Bissette.

The contestants were not allowed to talk on the telephone or speak to any man

MARY ANN MOBLEY

"period."

"I saw my father, brother and escort during the week of activity but was not allowed to speak to them," remarked Mrs. Bissette. "I was only allowed to wave at them."

In Atlantic City, Mrs. Bissette had a chaperone and her mother was also provided with a shaperone. Everything was kept on a very high level, Mrs. Bissette explained.

During the pageant, Mrs. Bissette became a very good friend of Miss Mary Ann Mobley of Mississippi who was named Miss America that year.

"I have seen Mary Ann many times since then," said Mrs. Bissette. "She is married now and just recently became a mother."

The two former beauty pageant winners exchange post cards and Christmas cards.

"If I had been a judge in the contest, I think I would have chosen Miss Mobley also," stated the former Greenville resident. "She has been as fine a Miss America as we have ever had."

Winner of the swimsuit division, Mrs. Bissette's' talent was a song and dance routine entitled "Wait Till You See Him."

After being named one of the five finalists, Mrs. Bissette recalls the feeling of possibly being named Miss America. "But after my name was called as fourth runner-up, I was relieved after thinking what the year may have in store."

As a winner in the pageant, Mrs. Bissette received a scholarship large enough to cover her college education with a small amount left over. She also received a set of encyclopedias and a Child Craft set.

Mrs. Bissette met her husband, Ted, during one of her duties as Miss North Carolina. "It was in Spring Hope to crown the queen of homecoming activities," Mrs. Bissette said. "Ted was the Jaycee chosen to bring me back to Greenville."

She attended East Carolina University for two years and completed her education at Atlantic Christian College after her marriage in 1961.

After graduation, Mrs. Bissette taught the fourth grade in Spring Hope for one year and taught piano at home before the arrival of her first son, Daniel, who is three-and-one-half years old. The Bissettes have another son, Lee, eight months.

In addition to playing the organ at the First Baptist Church in Spring Hope, Mrs. Bissette spends time judging pageants and will serve on the panel of judges for two contests in the fall.

"I think the people in Spring Hope are thrilled to have me living here," Mrs. Bissette noted. "Spring Hope is a very warm town (population 2,000) and living in a small town is very good experience."

Mrs. Bissette still enjoys coming to Greenville to visit old friends and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos J. Evans. "I will always have a special love for Greenville."

"The traveling throughout North Carolina and the United States was very educational and I wouldn't trade my experiences for a million dollars," said Mrs. Bissette, "but it is good being just a wife and mother now."

One Of Ten Girls Is Miss America In Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —Miss Ohio, Kathy Lynn Baumann, and nine others were named semifinalists in the 1970 Miss America Pageant Saturday night.

Miss Baumann, 19, was the only double winner in preliminary competition, taking honors for her dance routine and for her appearance in a swimsuit.

Other semifinalists were Miss California, Susan Ellen Anton, Miss Colorado, Adria Elain Easton; Miss Hawaii, Cheryl Akaka, Miss Massachusetts, Georgina Syliva Hosfield; Miss Michigan, Pamela Anne Eldred; Miss Minnesota, Judi'h Claire Mendenhall; Miss New Jersey, Cheryl Christine Carter; Miss New Mexico, Patricia Jo Brummett; and Miss New York, Linda Marie Trybus.

The finale Saturday night climaxed a week of hectic rehearsals and preliminary competition.

Miss Eldred, 21, had won a round of swimsuit competition and Miss Mendenhall, 18, and Miss Brummett, 21, both won talent contests.

Also announced were the winners of $1,000 scholarships for talent among girls who are not finalists. Those winners were Dulcie Elizabeth Scripture, Miss Illinois, for piano; Lois Ann Koth, Miss Iowa, for pipe organ; Francis Elaine Biesemyer, Miss Missouri, art presentation; Patricia Elaine Johnson, Miss North Carolina, song medley; Mary Susan Cox, Miss Tennessee for singing; Sydney Lee Lewis, Miss Virginia, original monologue and Judith Ann Shoup. Miss West Virginia, singing and the French horn.

Picket Hall

Two bus loads of women, members of the Women's Liberation Movement, picketed on the boardwalk in front of Convention Hall, scene of the pageant.

Atlantic City police, remembering last year's demonstration which resulted in three arrests,, stood by prepared to enforce a court order prohibiting obscene signs, stink bombs or the burning of undergarments.

Attorneys for the demonstrators were protesting the court order contending they were not notified of it and that its purpose "is to incite."

A crowd of tourists and newsmen watched as the pickets marched between barricades set up by police. The women, some of whom were braless, contend brassieres are instruments of torture.

Saturday's 10 semi-finalists were selected on the basis of their performance during the preliminaries Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night. The 10 judges then pick the five finalists, ask each of them a question, and select the Miss America.

New Phase Of Moscow-Peking Struggle For Influence Set

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Strange behavior by the Red Chinese—and by North Vietnamese leaders—suggests a new phase of the Moscow-Peking struggle for influence in Hanoi has been triggered by the death of President Ho Chi Minh. If so, the developments have important meaning for the course of future events in Vietnam.

Premier Chou En-Lai arrived in Hanoi at the head of a Chinese funeral delegation, paid his respects, then left for Peking, well in advance of the scheduled arrival of the Soviet Union's Premier Alexei N. Kosygin.

Whether Chou's delegation would return for the actual funeral was not made clear, but it seemed obvious Chou was no more eager to be in the same town as Kosygin than the Russian was to share the stage with one of his Peking tormentors.

There is apparently much more to it than just that, however, as recent events indicate. Peking probably was aware Ho was near death. The Chinese went out of their way to make clear to Hanoi just how they felt about the prospects of a face-to-face meeting of Soviet and Chinese leaders there.

The Chinese made what could only be a calculated departure from custom. It seemed deliberately designed to apply heavy pressure on the North Vietnamese who, lacking Ho's enormous prestige, now are likely to find walking the narrow middle line between Moscow and Peking more difficult.

The departure came in greetings to Hanoi Tuesday on the 24th anniversary of Ho's proclamation of a republic. Ho died Wednesday.

Such greetings usually are stereotyped congratulations of government, party and people.

This time, some Hanoi leaders may have found Peking's message a source of acute embarrassment. Included was this diatribe: "The Soviet revisionist renegade clique has all along worked hand in glove with U.S. imperialism to undermine the Vietnamese people's war .... This was true of Khrushchev and is all the more true of Brezhnev and Co."

This probably generated high-level jitters in Hanoi. Moscow supplies heavy weapons and important other aid to North Vietnam, but vast, populous China is next door.

As if reflecting this ressure, Premier Pham Van Dong, long considered head of the pro-Soviet faction in Hanoi, put on a curious performance at the anniversary ceremonies. His speech was striking for a glaring omission.

By name, Dong singled out Red China, North Korea, Cuba, East Germany, the Arab world, the liberation movements of Asia, Africa and Latin America and even the "black people of the United States" for Hanoi's pledges of "resolute support."

But nowhere in the broadcast version of the premier's speech was there a mention of the Soviet Union by name. With all the florid praise for the others, this seemed a strange omission, which the Russians might well consider a serious affront.

While Dong spoke, Ho was dying. This can only arouse speculation that Ho's departure might tip the balance in the Hanoi Politburo toward Peking, despite the importance of the Russian help. What might this mean for the Vietnam war?

It could mean, in fact, a lesser investment of the North Vietnamese Army's manpower in the South. It could mean resuming the role of five years ago, when North Vietnam called itself the "reliable rear" and supply base for the southern guerrillas.

But it also could mean a long, protracted "people war" in the style of Mao Tse-tung. It could mean a gradual return to primary reliance of guerrilla war tactics of attrition against the South Vietnamese government, while other wars continue interminably on the political and diplomatic fronts.

Nine Others Join In Kennedy Inquest Plea

BOSTON (AP) — Nine persons who attended a party with Mary Jo Kopechne and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy the night she died in a car he was driving have joined the senator in asking the state Supreme Court to rule against conditions set for an inquest into her death.

The petitions filed Friday by the five girls and four men who attended the Chappaquiddick Island party parallel the one filed Tuesday by Kennedy in asking the court to overturn ground rules established for the inquest by Judge James A. Boyle of Edgartown District Court.

Their petitions, however, have an extra clause contending that their rights to privacy would be violated by an open inquest.

Like Kennedy's petition, the nine new ones argue that Judge Boyle erred in ruling that news media would be admitted, and that he deprved them of "due process" protection in refusing witnesses permission to have counsel present at all times to cross-examine witnesses, and to present evidence.

Kennedy's petition has been heard by Justice Paul C. Reardon, sitting alone. He ruled that the appeal must be heard by the full court because of the "grave constitutional questions" it raises, and that the inquest was to be postponed pending the high court deliberations.

A court source said that the nine new petitions filed Friday would be sent before the full bench with Kennedy's for a package ruling.

The new petitions were submitted by attorneys Daniel J. Daley Sr. and Paul Redmond in behalf of Jack Crimmins of South Boston, Raymond LaRosa of Andover, Charles Tretter of Dedham, Maryellen and Nance Lyons of Milton and Washington, D.C., and Esther Newberg, Rosemary Keough and Susan Tannenbaum, all of Washington.

Attorney Joseph J. Donahue Jr. of Lowell filed a petition for Joseph L. Gargan, Kennedy's cousin, who rented the cottage in which the party was held.

No petition was filed in behalf of former U.S. Atty. Paul Markham, the other person present.

Knitting Class Begins Sept. 10

Pitt Technical Institute will begin a 30-hour adult class in knitting Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The first meeting will be an organizational meeting and this class will meet two nights per week thereafter.

Tuition for this course is 3.

The class will be suitable for beginning knitters and those who already knit but wish to learn additional stitches and build up skill and speed.

Ho Outlined Leadership

By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—A "collective leadership" was carefully built by the late North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh to run the country after his death, Radio Hanoi reported Saturday.

Radio Hanoi, in a Japanese language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, quoted two leading north Vietnamese Communist publications es saying Ho left a legacy of "collective leadership" for his followers.

"Departing from us, President Ho has left behind a collective leadership body which he had devotedly built up and fostered," the broadcast said. "That is the collective of sis closest comrades-in-arms and most outstanding disciples.

Radio Hanoi said Nhan Dan, tne central organ of the Communist Workers Party, and Hoc Tap, the party's theoretical montyly, pledged in a joint editorial "to close our ranks around this firm leading colleitive and valiantly marih forward to aicomplish all the tasks of the revolution."

The editorial, while reporting the legacy of a "collective leadership," did not say who would be members of the ruling body.

There are four major figures in North Vietnam who have emerged as possible heirs to Ho's leadership. They are Premier Pham Van Dong; Le Duan, secretary general of the North Vietnamese Communist Party; Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the defense minister, and Truong Chinh, the chairman of the National Assembly.

The broadcast came as Commonist China announced the return to Peking of a condolence delegation to Hanoi led by Premier Chou En-lai, casting a dark political cloud over Ho's forthcoming funeral.

The abrupt departure caused considerable speculation among diplomats and other analysts specializing in Chinese affairs.

Named To Post In State Agency

RALEIGH — Mrs. Sylvia Robertson, who formerly worked for the Daily Reflector, has been appointed public relations officer for the State Department of Local Affairs.

Mrs. Robertson assumed the position Sept. 1. The salary range for the job is from $8,412 to $10,608.

Mrs. Robertson has been on Gov. Bob Scott's staff since May 1. Prior to that she was a staff writer and photographer for the Richmond County Journal in Rockingham. She attended East Carolina University and formerly worked for the Sanford Herald.

Canada's Yukon Territory covers 207,076 square miles and has a population of about 14,000.

Jonas Says He's Trying Not To Run

Jonas was in Charlotte to appear at three meetings Friday.

"Days like this run my blood pressure up," said the 64-year-old veteran of 16 years in Washington.

But he refused further comment. "I didn't come here to answer questions," he laughed. "I came here to get some answers."

But he did answer a few. Asked about the prospects of the tax reform bill now in the House, he replied: "It'll pass." Jonas said few congressmen have the nerve to vote against a bill labeled "tax reform."

But Jonas, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, said he was against certain portions of the bill, which he said was put before Congress as an all-or-nothing package.

On another subject, Jones said, "I haven't anything to say in favor of" the guaranteed-income portion of President Nixon's welfare proposals. But he added:

"I favor his idea of getting people off welfare, if it can be done."

Two Marshland Projects For Dare And Carteret

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Scott has announced two pilot projects for the construction of new marshland in the North Carolina outer bankks —one on Drum Inlet in Carteret County and the other father north inside Oregon Inlet in Dare County.

Scott, in a statement released here, said the program in the Oregon Inlet, which may get underway this fall, would test procedures to be used in the Drum Inlet project.

"A favorable study report on the Drum Inlet project is expected to be completed in September by the Wilmington district of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers," he said. 6

Both projects will be carried out in connection with dredging operations required for two federal navigation projects.

New marshland created by the Drum Inlet project near Atlantic will be part of the planned Cape Lookout National Seashore.

"The creation of new marsh in connection with the drum inlet project will be of value to the Cape Lookout National Seashore, not only with reference to the ecology but also in widening the narrow barrier island, preventing erosion on the sound side and stabilizing the channel inside the inlet," Scott said.

Adult Art Class Set At PTI

A 30-hour adult class in Art, Sketching and Drawing will begin at Pitt Technical Institute Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

The class will meet Tuesday from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. The only cost will be a $3 tuition fee and each person will furnish his own supplies.

At the first meeting, the instructor will discuss content of the course and supplies which will be needed. This meeting will last approximately one hour.

Persons interested in enrolling in the class may attend the first meeting at Pitt Technical Institute Tuesday night.

Sales Tax Kits Mailed By NCACC

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Association of County Commissioners has mailed sales tax campaign kits about the forthcoming November referendum to 800 county officials throughout the Tar Heel state.

The 18-page booklet, with a shiny new penny pasted on its cover, is called "A Penny For Progress—A Case For the Local Option Sales Tax."

The 1969 General Assembly enacted legislation authorizing a referendum in the state's 100 counties on the question of a local option one cent sales tax.

The booklet sets forth the specifics of the law creating the sales tax referendum and offers a breakdown of how much revenue would be returned to each county if all the 100 counties approve the proposal. It even includes a suggested speech in behalf of local option sales tax.

It also offers suggestions for conducting the campaign in behalf of the sales tax.

"If your people say they're tired of Washington and Raleigh tending to their business," the booklet states, "they now have a golden opportunity to reassess some local governmental independence."

Safety Rests With The Individual

Notwithstanding the general knowledge that many motorists exceed the speed limit from time to time, it is still surprising that more than 103,000 drivers have been charged with speeding on North Carolina's highways during the first seven months of this year.

The figure, up from 88,000 during the comparable period last year, points up the size of the problem North Carolina faces with speeding motorists.

In spite of the effectiveness of the new VASCAR speed timing devices credited with the increased number of arrests, it is a good bet more speeders don't get caught than do. It's also a good bet that most of the speeders who do not get caught, like most of those who do, are endangering the lives of others as well as their own lives on the highways of this state.

When one gets right down to it, there is very little reason for exceeding the speed limit on any of North Carolina's highways. In recent years the state has moved rather rapidly in increasing the speed limits not only on its superhighways, but also on many of its older roads as well. The rate of travel for the average motorist has increased at least five to ten miles per hour—within legal limits—in recent years.

Even with the sharp increase in the number of speeding arrests so far this year, there is no reason to believe that law enforcement officers with their new devices can do all that should be done to curb excessive speeding on the highways. There just are not that many law enforcement officers or that many speed timing devices to do the job.

The matter of effectively coping with the problem of excessive speed — like most other traffic problems — must in the final analysis rest with the drivers themselves. The very fact that more than 103,000 arrests have been made for speeding this year should call at least a couple of things to the attention of the average driver.

First: There are more speeding drivers on North Carolina's highways than most people had imagined. Thus the importance of looking out for the "other fellow" is more important.

Secondly: Those "other speeders" are creating enough traffic hazards on North Carolina highways without the conscientious driver adding to it with his own excessive speed even occasionally.

Scott Ponders Appointments

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — Circling the square:

The large stack of appointment matters still piled on Gov. Bob Scott's desk includes eight members of the powerful, regulatory State Banking Commission.

Scott is taking his time about considering these appointments and is seeking advice from close friends and advisors. He feels he must.

He recognizes that this is a sensitive and highly important statutory commission and that it has fallen his lot to appoint two-thirds of the 12 members. The chairman, the State Treasurer, is an ex-officio member and votes only in case of a tie.

NEW — It is very likely that there will be a number of new members appointed by Scott.

WILLIAM SHIRES

It is Scott's prerogative, of course, to reappoint members now serving. The terms of six of the present 10 members expired last April 1. They have been "holding over" according to custom, and serving "at the pleasure of the governor."

Meanwhile there has been pressure building up for Scott to make a decision on whether he wants these six to stay on or whether they will be replaced.

BALANCE — In any case, Scott must soon appoint two entirely new members of the Banking Commission. And they are to be non-bankers.

The legislature became alarmed because of a preponderance of bankers, especially large bankers, on the commission and decided to expand its membership by adding two more places. The intent obviously was to achieve a better balance between bankers and non-bankers.

The six members whose terms expired last Spring included three bankers and three non-bankers. All, however, have connections with financial institutions.

Those whose terms have expired are William T. Cheatham of Statesville, Edwin Duncan of Sparta, Allen A. Sims of Gastonia, Mrs. Ansom Smith of Belhaven, Armand Swisher of Charlotte and Paul Wright Jr. of Durham.

HEARINGS — Hearings on industry requests for increase in automobile liability rates have been scheduled to begin Sept. 16.

Sources say these hearings may be the lengthiest and perhaps the stormiest in years. Insurance Commissioner Edwin S. Lanier feels it would be inappropriate for him to discuss details of the matter in advance but says "it is being prepared and we will go into all aspects of it very thoroughly and very carefully."

NAMED — The General Assembly of 1969-70 is about to gain its fourth woman member.

Although she may never attend a session, Mrs. Louise Brennan of Charlotte will be named by Gov. Bob Scott to fill a legislative vacancy caused by the resignation of Rep. Jack Baugh of Mecklenburg County, now a state senator.

Mrs. Brennan was noimnated by the Mecklenburg County Democratic Executive committee for the vacancy and by law the governor must follow the committee's wishes. Her appointment will place two women on the 10 member Mecklenburg delegation in the Assembly. The other lady legislators presently serving are Sens. Martha Evans of Mecklenburg and Gearaldine Nielson of Forsyth and Rep. Nancy Chase of Wayne.

Mrs. Brennan, wife of a Charlotte newspaperman, has served as executive director for the Mecklenburg County Democratic party, and is a past president of the county Democratic Women's Club.

Overhead Lines Have A Way Of Staying On

No doubt the City Council was justified in voting to allow the Utilities Commission to construct overhead lines on Charles Street rather than place the lines underground, as city ordinances require.

Utilities Director Charles Horne reported the underground project would cost $112,270, while going overhead will cost $13,500. Too, the street will eventually be improved and placing the underground ducts now might be difficult.

Still the Utilities is going to have to begin planning ways to place new power transmission lines underground, if the intent of the ordinance is to be carried out.

Overhead lines, once they are constructed, have a way of staying there for many years. If the tangle of transmission lines which mar the city are ever to be eliminated, it is going to have to be done through planning for underground construction.

Disagreements On Demo Policy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

COLORADO SPRINGS—Behind the highly unusual summons that the Democratic Governors issued last Sunday to Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, the party's national disagreements on party polichairman, are fundamental disageements on party policy and how to rescue the Democrats from their present, highly demoralized state.

Harris himself, as distinct from his operation in the party, is one of the main irritants that caused the Democratic Governors to send him without warning last Sunday an unexpected summons, shortly after the national Governors' convention started here. The chairman was reached on Labor Day weekend via the Senate sergeant-at-arms, changed his plans, and came flying out to Colorado Springs Tuesday for three hours of give-and-take with the Governors.

It is well he did. The closed-door Democratic griping session on Sunday which laid the groundwork for the formal motion inviting him here (put by Utah's Calvin Rampton and seconded by North Carolina's freshman governor, Robert Scott) proved that absence does not always make the heart grow fonder.

On the surface, the concern among the 20 Democratic Governors who run their state party organizations—the smallest number in 16 years—is based on the growing suspicion that Harris's first half-year as chairman has raised a serious question whether an incumbent U.S. Senator up for reelection himself in 1972 can perform aggressively as party chairman.

"Fred is my friend," one Northern Governor who supported Harris's campaign for the chairmanship last winter said privately, "but I never should have let him convince me he could do both jobs at once."

Some of the Democrats gloomily gathered here in the radiance of Republican resurgence feel that it may still be too early for frontal party attack on the Nixon administration. But all agree that Harris's reelection campaign in conseravtive Oklahoma is bound to blunt his blows against the Republicans.

Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel, by contrast, will quit his post as Maryland state chairman next month on grounds that he cannot simultaneously perform three "incompatible" jobs—be governor, operate the party, and run for reelection.

Moreover, there is a suspicion that Harris, one of the ablest and most aggressive Democrats in politics today, may use the national chairmanship to advance his own ambitions for a place on the Presidential ticket in 1972.

As one Border state Governor told us: "Fred seems to be operating the committee in such a way that he himself will be the major factor in '72."

The Democratic Governors, whose only hold on a major industrial state is now in New Jersey, have been complaining for years about being neglected by the National Committee. That discontent boiled into open revolution against President Johnson two years ago when a delegation headed by Warren Hearns of Missouri traveled to the LBJ Ranch and bluntly warned Mr. Johnson he

WHICH SIDE?

Every Bible reader recalls the description found in the gospels of how Peter, after declaring Jesus to be the divine Son of God, immediately called forth the Lord's displeasure by denying that this same Jesus would have to suffer to fulfill his ministry. One of the modern translations has phrased Jesus' reply in graphic terms. It pictures him as saying to Peter: "Get out of my sight, you Satan! You are not on God's side, but on men's side."

Just where, as a matter of fact, do we stand in our daily living? If the sum total of our words, attitudes, actions and influence were to be laid on the counter and then measured in some sort of supernatural balances the accuracy of which could not be doubted, just where would we be found to stand? Would our lives as a whole be on God's side or men's side?

For there is a difference. The kingdom of God and the ways of this present world cannot be reconciled. They do not conflict at every point but the points at which they do conflict are of overwhelming importance. Chiefly they conflict in the matter of moral purpose. The demand of the kingdom of God is that man's life should be lived wholly to God's glory. The ways of the world have but one object—the glorification of men.

Which side, then, are we on? God's side or men's side?

"And a Good Day to You, My Good Man!"

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Sunday Morning Notes...

New construction is underway at Rose High to take care of the suddenly increased student load there. The additional facilities are far from complete, however.

One student walked up to the principal on opening day.

"Mr. Warren," he asked. "Where do I go. The room I'm assigned to hasn't even been built yet.

And during the recent dry weather Jerry Raynor has been faithfully watering his flowers each night. Last week heavy rain clouds hung low over the city and his daughter Denise, age 6, observed them.

"I don't think you need to water anything, daddy," she commented. "I believe it's God's turn tonight."

Johnny Whichard is the contractor who is tearing down the old Womans Club at the corner of Third and Greene Street.

He discovered a fine cache of honey in one of the columns, which formed the front of the building, as he lowered it to the ground.

Whichard went home to obtain a container for collecting the honey.

Alas, while he was gone someone else spotted the bees and decided to drive them away by pouring kerosene over the hive. Whatever it did to the bees, it ruined the honey, as Whichard found when he returned with the container.

ALVIN TAYLOR

Habit is a great thing, as anyone who observes the post office building can attest.

A steady stream of postal patrons still pull up in front of the old building at Third and Evans, climb the steps and shake the now-locked doors. The post office, of course, moved into its new quarters on Greene Street between First and Second last weekend.

And one observer, taking note of the filled parking area in front of the new post office during the morning rush hour, wondered where autos found places when the same crowd descended on the old post office at the same time each morning.

As I remember, they were stacking them, just like the busy airports do with aircraft. The cars just circled the block until a space became vacant.

Buck-Passing Isn't Good

(Kinston Free Press)

We note with some concern that the National Governors Conference, despite the vocal objections of Georgia Governor Lester Maddox, has gone on record as favoring full federal financing for welfare in the United States. While we are willing to concede any program of changing the welfare from its static condition of encouraging indolence to a point where work- incentives become the order of the day, will cost money, we don't think it should be all federal money.

In the first place the House of Representatives is elected every two years. To curry favor with the underprivileged we know some lawmakers who would go forth and promise all kinds of federal benefits to the underprivileged in exchange for support at the ballot box.

Secondly when you look to Washington you tend to impersonalize the matter of welfare and leave it up to the bureaucrats. This is an invitation to more buck-passing and thereby elimination of local control over welfare programs.

Finally, if and when the federal government takes over all welfare payments, what few rights the states have left in schools and other lines will also be on the way out for good. The state and local governments will not only lose their sense of responsibility and concern for citizens, but also their basic reason for existence.

In this instance we say the Governors Conference is wrong. It would pay the chief executives to re-think the problem and to retain control of welfare programs and other local responsibilities, regardless of what ratio of payments may now or later be demanded and attained from the federal till.

Meany Nudges Idea Of Control

By ELMER ROESSNER

George Meany's statement that the only way to stop inflation is by controls, controls of all forms of income, prices, dividends, profits and everything else, may bring controls a little closer.

The White House and leaders of both parties in Congress have shied away from discussing wage and price controls and the White House has said it is not considering them.

The administration has been fearful that labor would balk, even strike, if controls were imposed on wages, even if they were also imposed on prices. It has probably also been fearful that big business would be savagely opposed to price controls.

But now that Meany has given approval of controls, with reservations, it is certain that there are huddles going on today in the White House, in Congress, in the Treasury and in the Federal Reserve about whether this may not be the time for action.

SITUATION CRITICAL

Certainly fiscal measures undertaken so far have not been effective.

ELMER ROESSNER

William H. Chartener, in retiring as Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Economic Affairs, predicted that inflation would continue at its present rate for the rest of the year. He added that he did not expect the situation to improve early next year.

However, Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisors, declared that "by the latter part of the year we'll see some cooling in the rate of rising prices." That is equivalent to saying that there still will be more inflation, but perhaps not so fast.

Meany's reservations are that controls be applied to all forms of income, and that the President declare a national emergency and say that our commitments overseas were such that we have to have controls.

MEANY'S MOTIVATION

While labor has generally opposed controls, the CIO-AFL president may have been motivated in part by recent Bureau of Labor Statistics figures that show, despite rising wages, workers have been getting less. The latest consumer price index, for example, shows that an industrial worker with three dependents got an average of $100.63 a week in July, compared to $96.07 a year earlier. However, his July wages would buy only what $78.49 would have bought in 1957-59, while his lower wage a year ago would have bought $79.07. Thus inflation stiffs the working stiff.

One consequence of Meany's statement may be a rush to raise prices and to gain pay increases before controls are imposed, if they are.

And there is one thing about controls: they will not create a rise in unemployemnt, as continued fiscal restraints are certain to do. To administer controls, a huge bureaucracy will have to be set up, similar to the Office of Price Administration in World War II, creating tens of thousands of jobs.

Great Lakes Filled

By A. F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — With damages mounting and levels already near or surpassing high-water records for this century, the Great Lakes are expected to wreak more havoc along their 10,000 miles of shoreline in 1970.

Waves eating away embankments, particularly the high bluffs along eastern shores of lower Lake Michigan, are threatening to topple scores of homes and vacation cottages, whose front or back yards have already vanished.

Once high and dry private docks now are awash, waiting for a storm to carry them away. Where sandy beaches once stretched outward there now is water. Nearby low-lying areas once above water level now are marshes.

No figures are available for '69 damages, but the Lakes Survey District of the Army's Corps of Engineers estimated somewhat similar high waters did $61.2 million damages in the springs of 1951 and 1952.

And the three lakes over which man has virtually no control—Michigan, Huron and Erie—are expected to start their annual spring rises next year at levels considerably higher than they did this year.

Experts attribute the high waters to above normal precipitation in all of the five lake basins this year and last.

Lake Erie's average July level was the highest for any July since the Lakes Survey District began keeping tabs on the inland seas in 1860. It was only 2¾ inches below the all-time one-month record set in May 1952.

Last month, Michigan, Huron and Superior were less than an inch and a half below their highest levels for this century.

The key to the problem is, of course, precipitation.

In the first six months of this year, the Lake Superior basin received 16.67 inches, against an average of 16.08 inches. In Michigan's basin it measured 21.33 this year, against an average of 17.72. The 1969 precipitation against the average for Huron was 19.51-17.56; Erie 23.17-19.57; Ontario, 19.71-19.63.

The Great Lakes are tremendous bodies of water. If the continuous 48 states were level, had a rim around them and all the water in the Great Lakes were dumped over them it would form a lake 9-feet deep from the Atlantic to Pacific and Gulf of Mexico to Canada, according to Lakes Survey engineers.

High water is not unwelcome by all who use the lakes. I means money to ship operators. For each inch of water above the socalled low-water datum line (or guaranteed channel dpth) a freighter can take on an additional 100 tons of cargo. Last month, the lakes ranged up to 47 inches above the low-water datum line, and all were above both their average levels for the last 10 years and for the 1860-1968 period.

And the Lakes Survey forecasts all except Ontario will exceed their 10-year and long-term average levels for the next six months. Ontario is expected to dip below in December but turn upward in January.

Observations From Editorial Columns

DO YOU USE ENOUGH WORDS?

If you happen to be that hard to find "average American," one quarter of the words you use daily are either slang or profanity.

Words are like the air; we rarely think about them, but without them we'd be in bad shape. They intercede between us and reality to shape our world. The way we describe a thing determines the way we preceive it, and ultimately what our idea of that thing is. A man who uses tired words to describe his world is probably living a tired life.

Out of the 625,000 words in our language, the average American only uses about 1,000 in his working vocabulary, or about one-sixth of one per cent. Unfortunately, people whose business is words, like newspaper writers, too seldom think about their language, weary or fresh. The next time our prose puts you to sleep, just drop us a well-written note in 25 words or less . . . —Macon (Ga.) News

THE IMPOSSIBLE SONG

After hearing, for perhaps the 873rd time, the National Anthem soloist quaver and finally crack on the impossible notes that accompany the phase, "And the rocket's red glare, the bomb's bursting in air," we again raise our cracked and quavering voice to replace the Star Spangled Banner. The sooner, the better.

"America the Beautiful" would make a more than suitable replacement. In addition to a smoother and more manageable melodic line, its words are more relevant, more descriptive of our nation and national purpose and less jingoistic.

Written in the infancy of our nationhood, the Star Spangled Banner was designed to stir pride in our flag, the emble of a new and untried people. It praised the enblem of our nationhood but not the nation itself.

In this, the 193rd year of our country, we ought to have the maturity to acknowledge that the paean which begins, "Oh beautiful for spacious skies, for amber waves of grain. For purple mountains majesties, above the fruited plain," suggests more of what America means that the unsingable lines we now stumble over. —Roanoke (Va.) Times

A THIEF IN COURT

In certain countries, we've been told, a motorist who pauses for a stoplight may drive on to find himself minus a wristwatch, wallet or other valuables. Pickpockets work fast.

We had thought, until now, that such criminal talent existed only in foreign parts, but we stand corrected. The monthly magazine put out by the Federal Bureau of Investigation tells this story from a city in the Midwest:

A prisoner was taken into a city court for arraignment on a charge of disorderly conduct. After a date was set for him to plead, he was returned to jail, where an officer asked him to empty his pockets. Out came the judge's gavel and a tube of fingerprint ink which the prisoner had filched during his brief stay in the courtroom.

Teachers — 200,000; secretaries — 175,000; retail sales workers — 140,000; truck drivers — 129,000; electrical engineers — 14,70; and advertising workers — 8,500. Way down near the end, but still alive and kicking, are blacksmiths — 600. —Savannah (Ga.) Evening Press

"Hope you have a good day" is the smiling greeting each morning from a security guard on The News parking lot. His friendliness and sincerity give meaning to his message.

BUSY PERIODS

An eight-page thesis, consisting of nothing but periods, has been accepted by the University of Oklahoma as fulfilling a requirement for a masters degree in fine arts. But the OU library has refused to file it because it is full of typographical errors.

It's a shame future generations will not be able to read it, for not only does it demonstrate the resourcefulness of a student hard pressed for time near graduation, but also evidently has incidental commas, semi-colons, exclamation points and maybe even an interrobang, all of which give it variety and set it apart from the obscurity common to most scholastic theses. —Memphis (Tenn.) Concepts Of The Old Bull Moose Are Still Applicable

By J. J. KILPATRICK

The Theodore Roosevelt Memorial was dedicated two years ago next month, but it wasn't until this past week that I stopped by. Now, with deference to the shrines that honor Lincoln, Jefferson and Washington, I am minded to nominate T.R.'s enchanted island as the most pleasant of them all.

Few persons go there. It is likely that ten thousand tourists visit the Washington Monument for every curious wanderer who crosses over the footbridge to Roosevelt Island. The 88-acre island in the Potomac, just downstream from the Key Bridge that leads to Georgetown, commands little notice in local guidebooks. The place lends itself poorly to demonstrations, protests, and marches —and more's the pity! For Teddy Roosevelt had something to say that today's young people badly need to hear.

The National Park Service, which maintains the memorial, has left the island in its natural state. Nothing here is pruned, clipped, fenced or mowed. At the first turn in the path, the surrounding city disappears. A late summer sun dapples an honest forest; a chipmunk, tail high, runs across a rotten log. If it were not for the jetliners overhead, plunging toward National Airport, one might lose all sense of place and time.

Then the path curves, and the memorial itself comes into view. It is a stage set by Fellini—a broad stone terrace, formal pools, polished granite shafts, a bronze statue. This is the stuff that dreams are made of. So the early explorers must have felt, when they found a perfect Mayan temple in a jungle. The quotations carved in stone belong to an altogether different age.

This was Teddy Roosevelt, speaking to youth:

"I want to see you game, boys. I want to see you brave and manly, and I also want to see you gentle and tender.

"Be practical as well as generous in your ideals. Keep your eyes on the stars, but remember to keep your feet on the ground.

"Courage, hard work, self-mastery, and intelligent effort are all essential to successful life.

"Alike for the Nation and the individual, the one indispensable requisite is character."

Does anyone speak like that any more? A commencement speaker who tried those homilies upon an audience of high school seniors would be hooted off the stage. How square can you get? Roosevelt, they would say, was a cornball. Yet every man who ever fathered a son must wish in his deepest heart that T. R.'s exhortations were effective today. "I want to see you game, boys. I want to see you brave and manly, gentle and tender." Is there anything wrong with the old Rough Rider's ideal?

This was Teddy Roosevelt, on the state:

"Ours is a government of liberty by, through, and under the law.

"A great democracy has got to be progressive or it will soon cease to be great or a democracy.

"Order without liberty and liberty without order are equally destructive.

"If I must choose between righteousness and peace, I choose righteousness."

Roosevelt was soldier, politician, statesman, conservationist, founder of the Forest Service. He was President of the United States at 42. He was fighter, reformer, hunter, innovator, winner of the Nobel peace prize. No public figure in our history ever surpassed his vitality, his zest for living, the pure and unaffected joy he found in life.

Just past the memorial, the path turns again, and again the forest closes in. A wanderer glances back: Nothing of the polished stone remains —only spider webs and creeping vines and fallen trees. So one recrosses the foot bridge, and drives on to Georgetown. The sidewalks of Wisconsin Avenue are filled with bearded hippies, long-haired, bell-bottomed, male creatures both effeminate and gross. Teddy Roosevelt has been dead for fifty years. God knows we need his like today.

Squirrels Develop A Taste For Buckeyes

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH—It happened in North Carolina:

The buckeyes are falling from the old tree on Capitol Square in Raleigh.

Those who know of the legend that a buckeye brings luck are picking them up, cracking the shell and rubbing and polishing the nut to a waxy shine.

They are having to compete with the square's fat, saucy squirrels who used to ignore the buckeye as a food item, preferring the acorns, walnuts and pecans. Now it seems the squirrels have developed a taste for the buckeye. In earlier days it was considered an inedible, perhaps poisonous nut.

Today, the gray squirrels—having achieved status as the official state mammal—appear not so selective, nor choosy.

The deep green of summer foliage is paling. A few leaves are falling and quickly turn brown on the grass and sidewalks.

A few miles from the square, in downtown Raleigh, water in the creeks tumbling through a little forest is amber colored.

The creeks feed a hidden pond.

Around the pond, in the late afternoon and early evening, the bullfrogs croak, "catch a-fish, catch-a-fish, catch-a-fish."

All of this means it is September and summer is coming to an end. It is a time of transition of seasons.

The nights are cooler and the winds fresher. In the morning there is fog. Usually the days are warm and bright but all of the signs point to approaching autumn.

On the highways, the lights of high school football fields blase on Fridays nights near North Carolina's many towns. And the season of county fairs has arrived.

Is North Carolina provincial? Like from Manteo to Murphy?

The distance roughly is mire than 550 miles. It is closer for a Murphy man to go to Albany, N. Y., Little Rock, Ark., or Savannah, Ga., than to go to Manteo.

In fact, every town in South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and Kentucky is closer to Murphy than is Manteo, out on Roanoke Island. And Cape Hatteras is even more distant.

But last week the Cherokee Scout, a newspaper published in Murphy, carried a full column-length item about coastal fishing—datelined Hatteras, N. C.

This year the young ladies who made their debut in society at the Debutante Ball in Raleigh have reason to be thankful.

The weather was fine and the sun was shining as the arrived at the Ball headquarters in downtown Raleigh.

In past years, the debs have had to brave winds and driving rain. On several occasions, the September event has coincided with the fringes and backlash of hurricanes. Then the drenching rains have ruined the hairdos, the dresses and the corsages of the beautiful young ladies and distressed their fathers, mothers, and escorts. But this time, it appeared that fine weather was in prospect for the festivities.

At Ahoskie, someone plastered an addition on a highway sign at the city limits. It read, "Harper Valley."

In Raleigh, the sidewalk on the downtown main drag, Fayetteville Street, has been opened again—after many, many months. It had been closed because of construction of new buildings including the new (not yet completed) Wake County courthouse.

Sidewalks on the backside of the new building are still closed.

And as soon as the Fayetteville Street walk was opened, officials decided they would have to close at least two lanes of the capital city's busiest thoroughfare, Downtown Boulevard in order to repair a weakened bridge.

Now, having lost the White House and the six largest Northern states, they have decided to go to the mat with Harris. What they want as a minimum is less emphasis on party reform and more on nuts-and-bolts organization patterned after Ray Bliss's plodding but productive organization work for the Republicans after the Goldwater debacle.

Thus, they now talk of hiring an organizational specialist as Harris's deputy chairman (John Sweeney, former Assistant Secretary of Transportation is prominently mentioned) who would work in close cooperation with the Governors and the state parties on registration, candidates, fund-raising—"on people and party, not policy and philosophy," as one Southern moderate described it.

The Democratic Governors here, almost one-half of them Southerners, include not a single potential Presidential nominee or a single figure of national glamor. They are an industrious, bland, and modest group. They are more tuned to the old politics of nuts-and-bolts than the new politics of Harris and his two party reformers, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa, whose activities have deeply offended some of the Governors.

That conflict between old and new is the deeper contradiction between the Harris operation in Washington and the dwindling band of Democratic Governors in the field. It is one more reason why the Democratic future looks so bleak here in the midst of Republican plenty.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Sept. 7, the 250th day of 1969. There are 115 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date:

In 1533, Queen Elizabeth of England was born.

In 1812, the French defeated the Russians in the battle of Borodino southwest of Moscow.

In 1899, social leaders in the Rhode Island resort of Newport staged the first auto parade in the United States. The cars were decorated with flowers. The winning entry had a flock of white doves attached to the radiator.

In 1930, work began in the Colorado River on Boulder Dam—now Hoover Dam.

In 1940, German bombers began the World War II raids against London which became known as the London blitz.

In 1963, the government of South Vietnam's President Ngo Dinh Diem arrested hundreds of students for demonstrating against his rule.

Ten years ago — The United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union annou ced that a 10-nation committee would hold disarmament talks.

Husbands Needed To Handle Back-Zippers

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite some current predictions, I'm sure marriage will never go out of style as long as dresses with back zippers stay in style.

While husbands like to think they are indispensable for financial support, companionship and a few other contributions to a happy home, the real secret of their tenure is their availability as instant zipper-uppers.

Although numerous gadgets have been designed by ingenious inventors to cope with this early morning problem, none is as efficient as a sleepy spouse with a good right arm.

An informal survey indicates that most husbands are willing to give the zipper a healthy yank if they can open their eyes wide enough to spot the pull tab. But at that point their helpfulness halts.

To a man they balk at finding the tiny loop at the neck of the dress that theoretically accepts the small hook on the other side. To achieve this feat takes complete dedication to the challenge, 20-20 vision, a long history of sobriety, a willingness to miss the 7:38 commuter train and a wife who is able to stand motionless for extended periods with her head bent forward at a 45-degree angle.

Since most of the time the wispy bits of thread originally destined to accept the hook are no longer in existence, the whole business becomes an exercise in futility. The operation puts a severe strain on the husband's eyes, his temper and the marital bonds.

This is not the only area in which fashion fouls up the blissful boy - girl relationship. The new identical unisex styles are exposing a wide compatibility gap between otherwise loving couples.

It is somewhat simple to arrive at a compromise on whether the pants should be striped or plaid, straight or bell-bottom. The trouble starts when the two have to agree on whether the shirt should have ruffles or a pleated front, if it should be printed silk or crisp cotton.

Even after having completed the selection of the matching outfits there's still one more problem — the new look-alike wigs for him and her.

Will love find a way, when she prefers a short hairdo but he insists they purchase the longer type wig that curls softly about the neck?

--And There Was The Time Sen. George Decided He Would Shoot Pearson

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.
Special To The Reflector

"Where does he get all that information?"

The "he" referred to Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, who died of a heart attack this week. "Old Drew" (he was 71) rode to fame infamy, notoriety or just about any term anyone wants to use, on The Washington Merry-Go-Round, a column printed in over 600 newspapers.

His main stock in trade was politics and the hanky-panky involved in elective and appointive public office. He dealt in rumor and gossip and also in some rather shocking facts.

His "exposurers" drove many people from office. Some ended up in jail. Many were unjustiably hurt. At least one Pearson victim committed suicide.

He was called just about everything, derogatory, by Presidents and lesser men alike. Such terms as "S.O.B.," liar, muck raker, gutter sucker, etc., were among some of the more tender reactions which came Pearson's way.

But he was regarded by many as a protector of the public interest and a watchdog in Washington. He was an influence in the town.

Many in Washington were acquainted with Pearson; but few claimed to really know and understand the man. His press colleagues had mixed feelings about him, but it is safe to say that most were "anti," largely because of Pearson's tactics.

There's no real mystery about where and how Pearson got his information. Washington is the sort of political center which is made to order for the columnist. Pearson knew how to use if for his purposes.

Pearson was widely thought of as a lone wolf—a one-man operation. But he wasn't. He had a lot of help, both regular help in the office and "stringers" who fed in tips.

A prime source of information were those engaged in the sort of infighting which goes on in government and among factions within political parties. Losers have a way of telling on the winners, especially when such feuds generate a lot of heat and leave deep wounds.

Pearson got his tips on misdeeds by members of Congress, from members or ex-members of the congressmen's staff. Some of these were paid for with cash. In other instances, the spectacle of seeing a hated boss — or former boss taking his licks in public was compensation enough.

Pearson cut his reporting teeth back in the 1920s, when William Randolph Hurst and Joseph Pulitzer were fighting it out for circulation and using the scandal technique as bait for the readers.

Pearson knew how to force a story out and was unrelenting when he felt he had picked up a smelly trail.

Often, a head-on approach to those involved in an irregular situation gets nowhere. But knowledge of what's going on has a way of spreading. And frequently a man who knows will talk rather than take the risk that he might become publicly involved. Just a call from Pearson could make up his mind.

In the recent case where Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut was accused of using political funds for his own personel expenses, Pearson had help from a faction within the Senator's office.

Pearson's investigations of a member of Congress or an official in the Executive branch could, at times, be thorough. And there aren't many men, in or out of public office, who don't have a few things in their backgrounds that they don't like to be reminded of, let alone read about in print.

Knowledge of such incidents, even when they are small, can make a man a good source for the scandal reporter. Officials in this position can be "persuaded" to come up with the "low down" on someone else, just to buy themselves some insurance.

Pearson was often wrong and simply ignored protests from those who felt offended. He was taken to court on occasion. And he did some retracting when confronted with facts which would leave him defenseless in court.

One Pearson apology went to a former North Carolina Congressmen, the late Robert L. Doughton, who for many years was Chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

When Pearson got lost from the facts in a reference to Doughton, he quickly found out why the old veteran from the mountains was known to his friends and colleagues as "Muley Bob." This was a case where Pearson brought his apology in person, and, as the story goes, with no little apprehension. "Muley" stood six feet, four in his socks and weighed in at a lean 240.

Such a quick solution occurred to the late Senator George of Georgia and brought consternation to such fellow Senators as Harry Byrd of Virginia and Alben Barkley of Kentucky, among others.

Pearson had made a favorite target out of Senator George, linking him with the big soft drink firm which was born in his state and then spread to the far corners. But one day he went too far and involved George's integrity.

A secretary rushed into the Senator's office to ask the Senator if he had "read what Pearson said today". George who had just put the paper down and was reaching for his hat and coat smiled that he had seen it.

There was to be a meeting in George's office. The Secretary thought maybe the Senator had forgot and asked where he was going.

"Down to the hotel to get my pistol and then I am going over and shoot Pearson." And there was no smile in George's soft blue eyes, and he said what he did in a matter of fact way.

The Secretary came out in panic, told the Administrative Assistant, who put in a frantic call for Les Biffle, a good friend and Secretary of the Senate, who summoned Barkley and Byrd. Their offices were nearby.

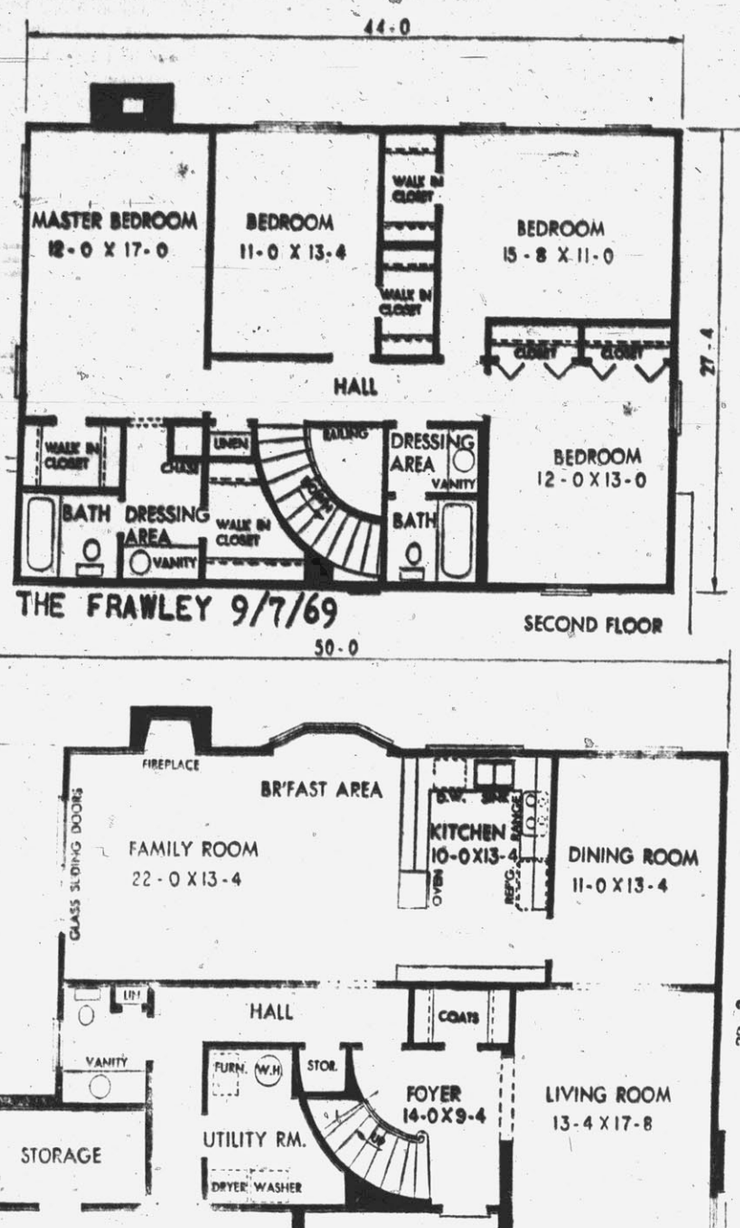

Needless to say, George was persuaded that he should not do this, even if it was a good idea.

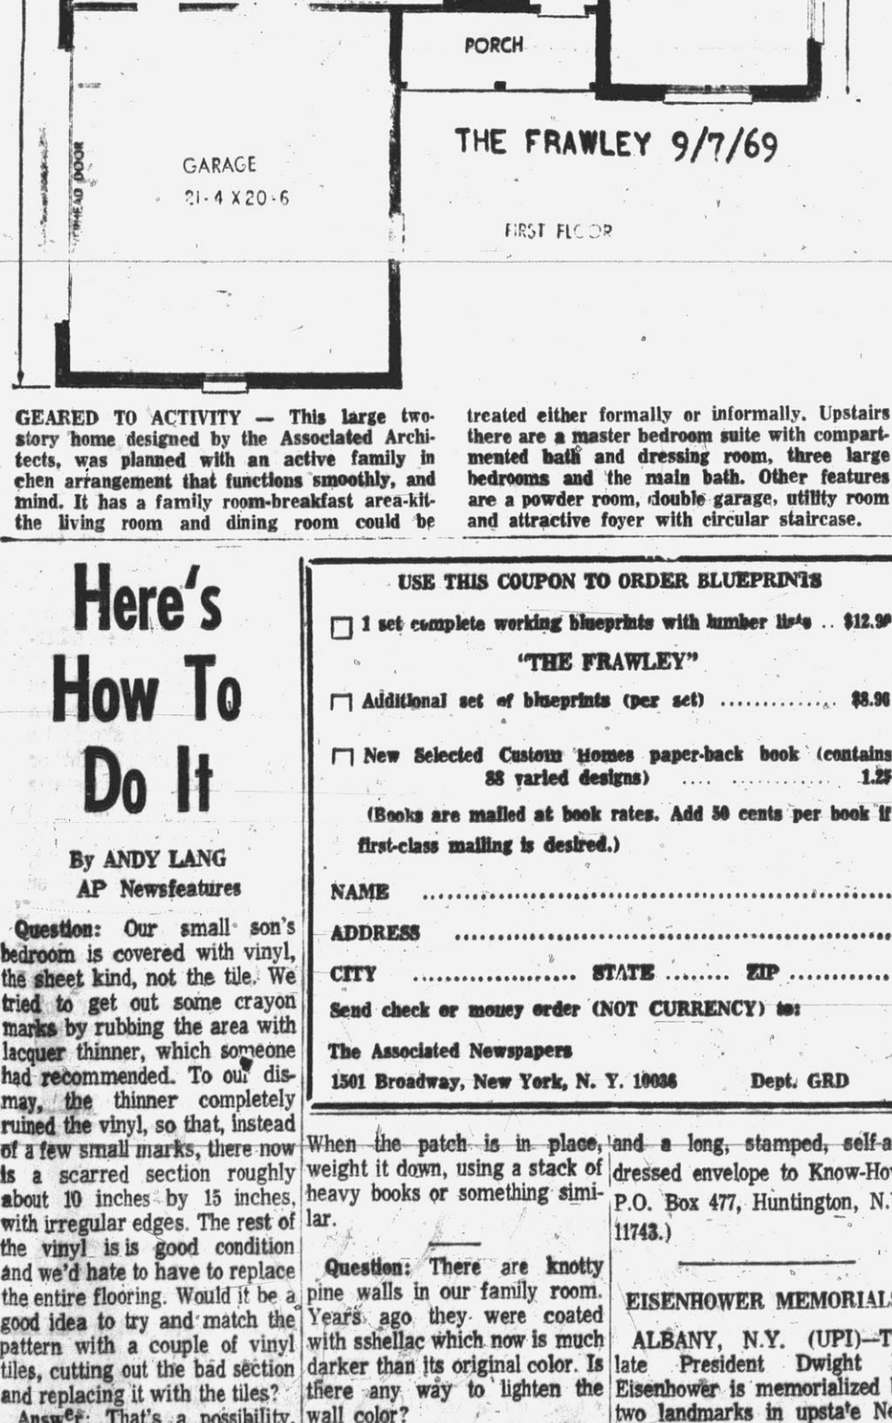

That, perhaps, was as close a one as Pearson ever had. George was the kind of man who just might have done it.

The word may have gotten to Pearson. He laid off the Senator.

Two-Story Has Charm For A Growing Family

GEARED TO ACTIVITY — This large two-story home designed by the Associated Architects, was planned with an active family in chen arrangement that functions smoothly, and mind. It has a family room-breakfast area-kit- the living room and dining room could be treated either formally or informally. Upstairs there are a master bedroom suite with compartmented bath and dressing room, three large bedrooms and the main bath. Other features are a powder room, double garage, utility room and attractive foyer with circular staircase.

By GERRY BISHOP

They say a family that plays together stays together. And there's nothing better than a modern home to make this concept work.

Such a home is the Frawley, designed by the Associated Architects. It has a floor plan that works for smooth-functioning family activities.

Take the family room, breakfast area and kitchen. They mesh for happy, casual living.

There's a log-burning fireplace in the family room. And glass sliding doors connect this spacious chamber, 22 feet by approximately 13 feet, to the outdoors. Another charming aspect is the bay window in the breakfast area. It adds a cheery note that could be reflected in the furnishings.

The Frawley is a large two-story with four bedrooms, two and a half baths, foyer, living room, dining room and double garage in addition to the family room and kitchen. Plans call for a utility room containing furnace, water heater, washer and dryer. However, it could be built with a basement, which would provide additional room for storage and future expansion.

CIRCULAR STAIRWAY

There's a lot of character to the main entrance. One walks into the foyer, which is highlighted by a circular stairway to the second floor. A large coat closet is a practical consideration.

In a clever move, the architect located the utility room under the stairway, utilizing space that otherwise might have been wasted.

The right section of the Frawley is occupied by the living room and dining room. They could be treated as formally or informally as the owner's tastes dictated. In either event, this section enjoys a certain degree of isolation that guarantees privacy.

Dimensions of the dining room are 11 feet by approximately 13 feet. The living room is about 13 feet by 18 feet.

CHEERY KITCHEN

Special attention has been given to the kitchen. Built-in appliances and cabinets are arranged in a step-saving manner. While working at the double sink, a homemaker could enjoy a view of the back yard.

The kitchen is flanked by the breakfast section of the family room on one side and the dining room on the other.

A long hall channels traffic through the center of the house. It connects the foyer with the garage. The powder room with built-in vanity and linen closet and the utility room are offshoots.

Garage measurements are approximately 21 feet by 20 feet. And there's a storage room adjacent to it.

Upstairs the master bedroom has suite-like characteristics. There are a dressing area with built-in vanity, a compartmented bath and a large walk-in closet. The master's dimensions are 12 feet by 17 feet.

Each of the other three bedrooms is large and well equipped with closet space. The main bath is centrally located and compartmented.

This is a spacious home, containing 2,439 square feet of living area, and having dimensions of approximately 51 feet by 49 feet.

Here's How To Do It

By ANDY LANG

Question: Our small son's bedroom is covered with vinyl, the sheet kind, not the tile. We tried to get out some crayon marks by rubbing the area with lacquer thinner, which someone had recommended. To our dismay, the thinner completely ruined the vinyl, so that, instead of a few small marks, there now is a scarred section roughly about 10 inches by 15 inches, with irregular edges. The rest of the vinyl is is good condition and we'd hate to have to replace the entire flooring. Would it be a good idea to try and match the pattern with a couple of vinyl tiles, cutting out the bad section and replacing it with the tiles?

Answer: That's a possibility, but you might run into difficulty in making a perfect match. Also, you'd have to be certain that the thickness of the tiles was identical with that of the present flooring. A more certain way to make an inconspicuous patch is to cut out the damaged section in a single piece—preferably using a blade cutter with a handle, although a sharp knife will do. Place the piece of vinyl over a part of the flooring that can't be seen, perhaps under the bed or bureau. Cut around the edges, working slowly and carefully. You then will have a replacement patch of the right size, down to the tiniest fraction of an inch. If the pattern requires an exact match, be sure you select the proper spot for cutting the duplicate piece. Before cementing the vinyl, scrape off any old adhesive. When the patch is in place, weight it down, using a stack of heavy books or something similar.

Question: There are knotty pine walls in our family room. Years ago they were coated with sshellac which now is much darker than its original color. Is there any way to lighten the wall color?

Answer: All clear finishing materials tend to get a bit darker after a period of time. It may be that your walls are merely dirty, even though there appears to be no loose surface dust. Test an inconspicuous section with a commercial cleaner. If convinced that the walls need more than a cleaning, your only solution is to remove all the shellac. Rub with denatured alcohol and follow with a thorough sanding. You can then decide whether to apply new shellac or other finishing material—or whether to bleach the wood first and then to recoat it. Be sure to follow every detail or the instructions on the container of the bleach.

The Manfacturer's Claim—That this stain is fade-proof and can be used indoors and outdoors ... that it dries quickly and can be coated with spray or brush varnish or other finishing materials 30 minutes after application ... that it comes in walnut, fruitwood, maple, mahogany, avocado and driftwood ... that it is water-resistant and acts as a permanent seal as well as stain.

The Product—A high-strength concrete anchor requiring a drilled hole the same diameter as the anchor itself.

The Manufacturer's Claim—That this fastener is a true drop-in anchor which reduces the mass of concrete which normally must be removed ... that, because the drilled hole is the same size as the anchor, the user can drill one hole directly through the piece to be fastened ... that the larger size is especially good for securing 2 by 4s, the smaller size for securing wrought iron railing ... that there is a stainless steel clip on the end of the bolt, which bears against the hole surfaces and holds the anchor in position ... that the anchor is set in fewer turns than required by typical concrete anchors.

The Product—A window shade laminating kit which includes everything needed to make custom shades except the decorative fabric.

The Manufacturer's Claim—That the kit contains a roller, slat, shade pull, mounting brackets and screws, and two and one-third yards of an opaque shade cloth or a translucent cloth ... That either type of shade cloth has an adhesive coating that is activated by heat ... that the customer selects a decorative fabric and irons it on to make a permanent bond between cloth and fabrics, resulting in a window shade ... and that the result is a shade that is white on the outside but, on the inside, mixes or matches with drapes, curtains, bedspreads, etc.

Air Pollution Is Also An Indoors Problem For All

NEW YORK (UPI)—The average home kitchen generates 200 pounds of grease a year into the air.

The weekly wash will add five pounds of water vapor to the air; 26 pounds if it is dried in the basement.

There is a heady, homelike fragrance to baking bread or a spice cake. But who can say the same of garlic, onions, fish or sauerkraut?

All air pollution isn't outdoors. There is a ventilation problem in most homes, particularly in late fall and winter months when solidly constructed heavily insulated homes are closed against the elements and when the amount of frying and roasting is increased to satisfy hearty winter appetites.

The answer, according to experts of the Home Ventilating Institue, Cleveland, is range hoods and exhaust fans for kitchen, bath, laundry and other problem areas such as recreation rooms and basement storage areas.

Proper home ventilation, HVI says, requires the effective mechanical circulation or change of air in any given room. Exhaust fans and range hoods will remove cooking fumes, smoke, heat, odors and excess humidity; replacing pollution with clean air.

HVI and the Federal Housing Administration, recommend the following minimums for healthy air change in the home:

Kitchen—15 air changes per hour.

Bathroom—8 changes per hour.

Laundry or recreation—6 changes per hour.

Before purchasing ventilating equipment, the consumer should be as certain that the equipment will deliver the necessary circulation, expressed in cfm's, (circulation in terms of cubic feet per minute). On equipment manufacted by HVI members and carrying HVI certification, this figure is verified by tests conducted by the Texas Engineering Experiment Station at Texas A&M University. Such equipment carries a tag indicating the number of square feet for each type room a particular fan will ventilate, based on 8-foot ceilings.

HVI in a manual on ventilating for home owners makes the following suggestions:

In all ventilating, care must be taken to locate the fan in relation to the work required of it. In a kitchen this calls for a fan to be placed as near to the stove as possible, preferably set into a range hood overhead, where all smoke, grease, odors and heat from cooking will be trapped and swept out of the house.

The type of fan required depends upon the length of the hood, the amount of cooking done, and the type of duct work needed. For this particular fan, room size is not important.

There are three different kinds of fans used with range hoods:

—For built-in ovens which generate great heat and can soil or warp overhead cabinets.

—For peninsula cooking setups, where a range is open on two or three sides, and where ventilation must be sufficient to counteract crosscurrents of air. Here the fan usually is mounted in the hood itself with ductwork passing up through cabinets, and then directly to a roof or wall cap, covered to keep out rain and snow.

—A non-ducted hood fan which will clean the air by means of a system of filters but which will not remove heat or moisture since it does not vent to the outside.

If a range hood fan is not convenient in a particular kitchen, wall or ceiling exhaust fans may be used. In this case, room size is important, since it determines the correct size of fan required. HVI makes the following recommendations for rooms with an 8-foot ceiling:

110 sq. ft.—225 cfm.
160 sq. ft.—325 cfm.
200 sq. ft.—400 cfm.

Ceiling exhaust fans may be flush-mounted in the ceiling, with a minimum of duct work, or can be installed in a kitchen cabinet. Since such a fan is not as close to the oven as a range hood fan, it is desirable to select a slightly oversize fan or blower with speed controls to give the greatest flexibility to air movement.

American Citizens Voting Today In San Marino

By RAY MOSELEY

REPUBLIC of SAN MARINO (UPI)—A select group of Americans voted today in San Marino's general election with the sole purpose of keeping the government out of the hands of Communists or socialists.

It's not the first time Americans voted in this oldest and tiniest of the world's republics. Nor, likely, the last.

The whole idea is to keep the ruling Christian Democrats in office and San Marino under a politically middle-of-the-road government.

And it's all entirely legal. Also—for the first time this year—expensive for the Christian Democrats.

By law anyone born in San Marino remains a citizen and voter for life—regardless of whether he moves away and becomes a citizen elsewhere—and the Christian Democrats have alwways counted on a heavy mail vote from the United States.

But then in 1966 the Communists, who ruled San Marino until the Christian Democrats kicked them out in a bloodless "revolution" in 1957, persuaded other left-wing parties to join them in ramming through a bill outlawing absentee voting.

The Communists were gleeful. They could still bring in San Marino people working in Italy and other European countries, who traditionally vote for them. But the Christian Democrats, they were sure, could not afford to fly entire planeloads of voters from the United States.

Bring in the Vote

The Christian Democrats were not sure they could either. But they went out and started raising money, and the result is that 400 Americans were brought across the Atlantic in chartered jetliners in the first week of September to cast their votes, as always, for the Christian Democrats.

The Communists, not to be outdone, hastily arranged to fly in a planeload of San Marino miners working in France. And as usual passed out train tickets to potential voters all over Europe.

Importing voters is nothing new in San Marino, a 23-square-mile republic of 17,000 citizens located 12 miles from Italy's Adriatic Coast near Rimini.

But this year's airlift from the States was the biggest in history.

To the outside world it might all seem like comic opera, or a gimmick of the tourism office to attract attention to San Marino.

But San Marinoes are deadly serious about it.

"We sacrificed to pay for the flights from America," a Christian Democrat leader said. "We don't want to wake up on the morning after the election and find we have become another Czechoslovakia."

The danger of that appeared remote. The Christian Democrats and their coalition allies, the Social Democrats, have a healthy majority and were rated to win even without the airlift.

But the airlift did lessen the Communist chances of reducing the majority significantly.

For their own part the Communists are no longer the threat in San Marino that they were right after World War II. When they were in power, the party leaders showed up at government meetings in ragged sweaters and patched shirts, but they have gone bourgeois now. They own shops that do a booming business with tourists, drive big automobiles and own villas that command sweeping views of the Adriatic coastline.

Some of their followers became so disenchanted a few years ago that they split away to form a pro-Chinese party known as the Communist Marxist-Leninist Party.

The Christian Democrats spent an estimated $80,000 for their airlift, which brought three planeloads of voters from New York, Chicago, Detroit and Sandusky, Ohio, among other places. New York's contingent, about 200, was the largest.

For the Americans it meant a cheap vacation as well as a chance to vote. The Christian Democrats charged them $100 a person and covered the remaining costs out of their own funds.

In the last election in 1964 the Christian Democrats got about 800 American absentee votes. All, on that occasion, were illegal. American law then provided that any naturalized American voting in a foreign election was subject to loss of citizenship.

Open Elections Allowed

But in 1968 the U.S. Suprdme Court held the law was unconstitutional. San Marino-Americans can now vote in both countries without any qualms.

Until the end of World War II, when the Communists became a power, the American vote was not important. San Marino was a quiet little republic of shopkeepers, farmers and stonecutters who lived at peace among themselves, and with the world.

The republic was founded in 301 A.D. by a stonecutter named Maginus from the island of Rab, off the Dalmatian Coast. He and a small group of Christians took refuge on the 2,300-feet-high Mt. Titano to escape Roman persecution.

Their community eventually acquired the institutions of a small state, and later San Marino's independence was recognized by the papacy and the medieval dukes.

In modern times, American presidents Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt have hailed San Marino as a model of democracy. Letters from them are among prized documents in the republic archives.

In the first postwar elections in 1947, the Communists and left-wing socialists won a majority on the 60-member grand and general council, the Republic's legislative body.

They held power 10 years and did nothing more revolutionary than increase shares to sharecroopers, provide free medical care, undertake public works to fight unemployment and nationalize two drug stores.

But the existence of a Communist-run enclave within their territory unnerved the Italians, and relations between the two states were tense.

At one point the Communists opened a gambling casino, luring customers away from Italian casinos, and tried to establish a television station. Italy countered with a blockade that kept out the tourists.

Compromise for Future

San Marino capitulated. It agreed to close the casino and not operate a radio or TV station. In return Italy agreed to increase subsidy it has paid the republic since the 19th century. It now runs at $1.92 million a year.

The Communist downfall came in 1957 when six socialists defected from the coalition, giving the majority to the opposition.

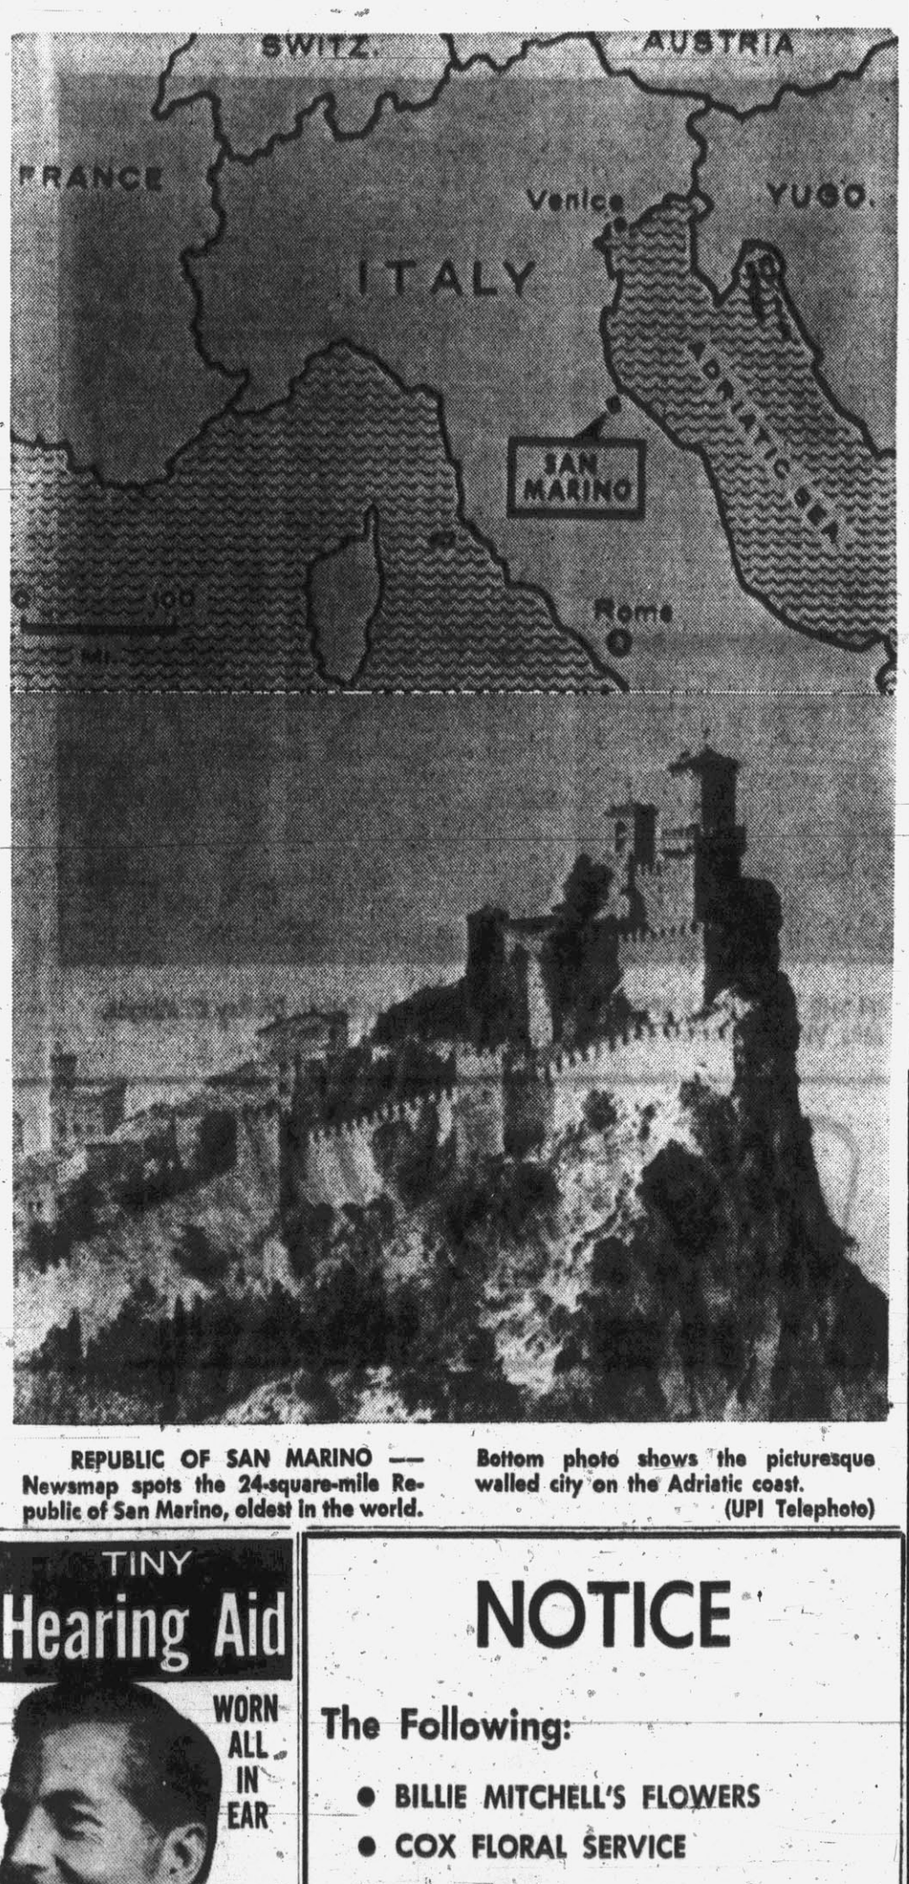

The Communists and socialists called new elections. The opposition denounced the move as illegal and set up a new government which was immediately recognized by Italy and the United States.

Both sides armed and prepared for civil war. But Italian military police quickly moved up and blockaded San Marino, forcing the would-be combatants into negotiations that ended with the Communists and socialists conceding defeat.

They have not been able to get a toehold on power since. With women voting for the first time, the governing coalition increased its majority in the last election from 36 to 39 seats. The Communists and socialists together have 20.

The Christian Democrats believe they may lose one or two seats to the opposition this year. But their pre-election outlook was unworried. The airlift from the United States looked like good insurance.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has about 170,000 members.

Annual North Carolina Debutante Ball Held Friday Night

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Woman's Editor

RALEIGH— The formal presentation of 195 young ladies to North Carolina society here on Friday evening climaxed a summerlong whirl of debutante activities and highlighted the social season in North Carolina.

Led by Miss Patricia Ann White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydnor M. White of Raleigh, the debutantes formed the traditional cartwheel figure of white streamers, white gowns and red roses.

The 14 assistant leaders of the 43rd Annual Ball, which was held in Memorial Auditorium, followed in order of presentation. Other debutantes made their bows in alphabetical order.

Area debutantes presented this year included: Martin County, Williamston, Miss Cathrine Pendleton Crockett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whittington Crockett; Miss Sylvia Green Newell, daughter of Mrs. Sylvia Green Newell;

Pitt County, Bethel, Miss Ruth Cotten Butterworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Millard Butterworth; Farmville, Miss Agnes Lee Joyner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eli Joyner Jr.;

Greenville, Miss Virginia Morrow Minges, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ray Donald Minges; and Miss Margaret Blow Scales, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waightstill M. Scales Jr.

Assistant ball leaders for this year's ball from Pitt County were Miss Joyner and Miss Scales.

The formal presentation and figure was followed by dancing at the Hotel Sir Walter to the music of Skitch Henderson and his orchestra.

There were several other events of special interest in the frenetic weeknd schedule. At the Governor's tea on Thursday afternoon Lt. Governor and Mrs. Hoyt Patrick Taylor Jr. were hosts.

On Friday a coffee hour for mothers of debutantes was held at noon with Mrs. John A. Park Jr., honorary chairman, as hostess.

A Saturday morning dance at the Carolina Country Club and a second formal dance that evening at the Sir Walter Hotel both featured the music of the Pat Dorn Orchestra from New Haven, Conn., and "The Frontiers," a New England singing group.

For her presentation, Miss Crockett chose a princess style gown of French illusion over peau de soie. The gown was designed with appliques of lace and seed pearls on the bodice front and side of the skirt. The back featured covered buttons and a train which fell from the waist with appliques of lace and seed pearls.

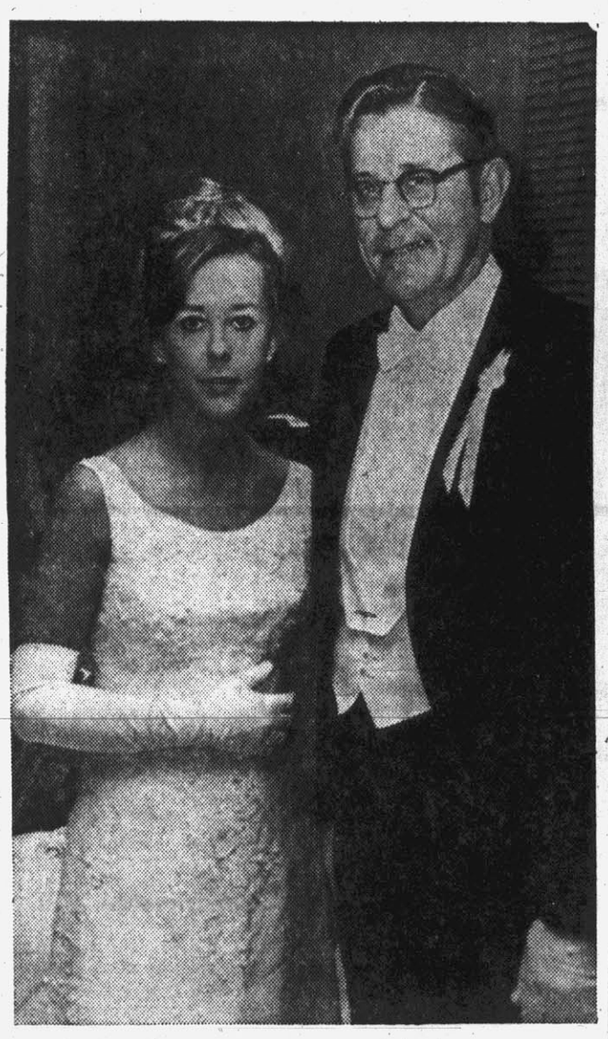

An original gown of silk faille was worn by Miss Newell. The gown was designed with a V-neckline and was sleeveless. The low back neckline was adorned with three self-bows with a trailing effect.

The choice of Miss Butterworth was an Empress peau de soie gown designed by Mrs. Willie Otay Kaye of Raleigh. The gown was highlighted with a fitted bodice with reembroidered alencon lace beaded with seed pearls, iridescent sequins and crystal bugles which accented the oval neckline. Beaded alencon lace appliques formed a matching spray enhancing the front of the full traditional skirt which fell into deep folds at the back.

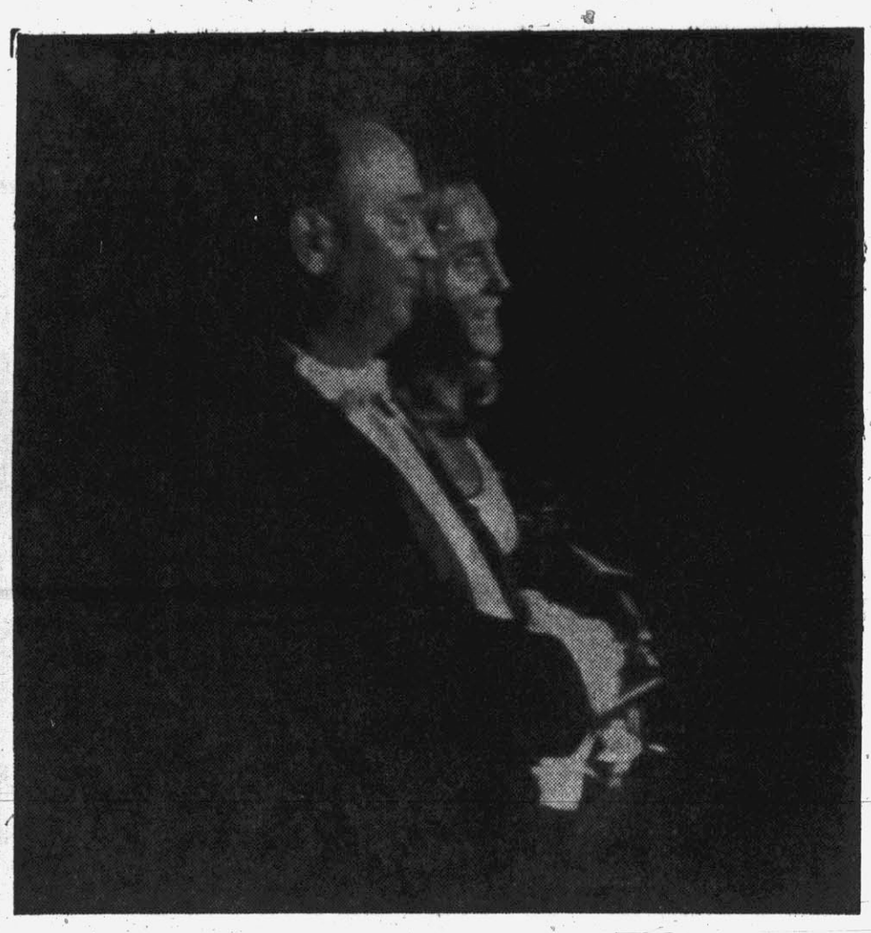

Miss Joyner's gown was of French illusion over peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with an empire waistline which was trimmed with a peau de soie band extending to the back and caught with a small bow with streamers. The bell skirt featured lace medallions with tiny seed pearls appliqued on the skirt. The gown was designed with a scalloped neckline and hemline.

Miss Sally Ann Whitehurst Weds

Miss Sally Ann Whitehurst and Edward Wilkes Atkinson Jr. was solemnized in a double ring ceremony Saturday at five o'clock in the afternoon at the Bethel United Methodist Church. The Rev. Dr. Robert F. McKee, the bride's pastor, officiated at the service.

The bride is the daughter of Alton Jerome Whitehurst of Bethel and the late Mrs. Sallie Bunting Whitehurst. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilkes Atkinson of Charlotte.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. William Russell Hunniecutt of Bethel, organist, and Mrs. Thomas Rushman Andrews Jr. of Bethel, soloist, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer." The mistress of ceremony was Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst also of Bethel.

The church was complimented with standing basket arrangements of gladioli, snapdragons, mums and pom pons. Seven branch candelabras and palms of emerald greenery formed the background for the ceremony. The Communion table had two altar candles before which the couple knelt for the closing prayer and bendiction. Pews were marked with white satin bows.

Miss Whitehurst, given in marriage by her father wore a formal length gown of candlelight imported Dulucetent satin, styled with a modified empire bodice of Alencon lace with tiny seed pearls. The neckline was high with matching lace and the gown featured long fitted sleeves. Her skirt was an A-line with matching lace appliques and tiny pearls. The gown was enhanced by an attached chapel train flowing into an aisle-wide sweep with matching pearled alencon lace appliques.

The bride's veil was a a formal length matilla with alencon lace framing her face from the crown and down either side of the front with matching lace appliques scattered over her full, flowing veil. She carried a full tapered cascade bouquet of single ivy leaves, pink and white miniature carnations and centered with a white cattleya orchid.

Mrs. Vance Bunting Taylor, sister-in-law of the bride was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles Wesley Smith Sr., the bride's cousin of Kinston, Miss Josephine Tucker Furgurson of Plymouth, Miss Mary Jo Jewell of Charlotte, Mrs. Joseph Whitehead Pitt of Tarboro, Miss Ruby Janet Everett, cousin of the bride of Bethel, and Mrs. Charles Diederich Heidgerd of Beaufort.

All attendants wore formal length gowns of petal pink chiffon blouses featuring long, sheer sleeves with double cuffs and a Peter-Pan collar with a ruffle jabot down the front. Their skirts were of Paris pink sakki which were attached to the blouse and a matching belt. The headpiece were fashioned of petal pink chiffon bows with a double tier of illusion. They carried cascade bouquets of Peter Fischer miniature carnations and ivy.

Mrs. Atkinson, mother of the bridegroom wore a mint green silk and worsted dress with matching long coat and accessories and a white cattleya orchid with stephanotis.

Edward W. Atkinson served his son as best man. The chief ushers were William Hutchins Lambe Jr. of Charlotte and Vance Bunting Taylor, the bride's brother of Tarboro. Other groomsmen were William Sears Brown of Murfreesboro, Joel Richard Howie Jr. of Greensboro, James Van Taylor III, cousin of the bride of Bethel, and Michael Blasiole of Roanoke, Va.

The bride is a second semester senior at Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem. She is a member of Laurels Society at WFU and the former "Miss Tarboro 1966."

The bridegroom attended Wake Forest University where he was a member of Kappa Alpha Order Fraternity, and he is a 1969 graduate of Campbell College. He is employed by Sportsman Supply Co. in Winston-Salem.

After the wedding trip, the couple will reside in Winston-Salem.

Reception

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Van Taylor Jr. Host for the occassion was Alton Jerome Whitehurst, father of the bride.

Assisting throughout the home were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Everettt, Mr. and Mrs. George Nick Noble, Mrs. James Caldwell Hall, Mrs. Willard T. Whitehurst, Miss Mary Charles Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earl Dennis.

Acake cutting was held after the reception for members of the wedding party. After the bride and bridegroom cut the

Mr. and Mrs. James Van Taylor Jr. entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at an informal dinner at their home following the departure of the bridal couple.

Wedding Breakfast

The bridal party, families, and out-of-town guests were entertained with a wedding breakfast Saturday at the Town and Country Re taurant in Williamston.

Hosts and hostess for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Earl Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Willard T. Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Whitehurst, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Andrews Jr.,

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Whitehurst Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Riddick, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Briley, Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Carson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Gurganus Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Royal Bunting, and Mr. and Mrs. William Boyce Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nick Noble, aunt and uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Bunting Taylor, brother and sister-in-law of the bride, enterand guests at the home of the bride at an after-rehearsal party.

Other pre-nuptial events included a rehearsol dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson, the bridegroom's parents, and Dr. and Mrs. James Caldwell Hall, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, at Lloyds Restaurant in Tarboro.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Joseph W. Pitt and Miss Jo Furgurson at Lloyds Restaurant. The luncheon was given at Friday noon and the bride presented her attendants with gifts.

If a fresh fruit pie looks as though it would run over in the oven, place a piece of foil on a shelf well below the one holding the pie. Cut the foil about an inch larger all around than the pie pan and turn up the edges of the foil. The foil will catch the drip without interfering too much with the browning of the bottom crust.

Abby Readers Request Letter Reprint

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am sending you a clipping I cut out of the paper several years ago (during Korea) and I am begging you to run it again —especially in the PACIFIC STARS AND STRIPES.

Please send my copy back. It is tattered and practically worn out, but it's the only copy I have, and I have carried it in my wallet for so long I feel lost without it.

S-SGT. FROM BIG T

DEAR S-SGT.: All right, soldier, you win!

DEAR ABBY: I just received a letter from my husband in Korea and would you like to know how something you wrote in your colun over a year ago has helped to keep our marriage a true one. I can best show you be quoting a portion of my husband's letter.

"Do you remember the clipping you sent me from Dear Abby's column when I first got over here? The one about the soldier in Korea who wanted to know what to do about his "physical needs" while he was overseas? Well, I still carry it and I've read it so many times it's worn to shreds. It has helped to keep me strong, Honey. It's too bad the army doesn't issue a copy to every man overseas. They could sure save a lot of money on curing V.D. and keep a lot of homes from breaking uup."

Would you please print it again, Abby? I want to be sure the one my husband has doesn't get too worn to read. Thank you,

A GRATEFUL READER

DEAR READER: With pleasure. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: My problem is one that bothers thousands of GIs so I hope you will print the answer because it is needed badly. I am a happily married man with a wonderful wife and two small children back in the states. I have been in Korea for four months. After living a normal married life for three years, what is a healthy young man supposed to do for his physical needs? There are 12 women for every GI over here and women practically throw themselves at our feet. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I love my wife and always will, but I have a long hitch over here, and I am only human. This letter is sincere and I'm not ashamed to sign my name, but if you use it, please sign me,

JERSEY

And my reply:

DEAR JERSEY: Assume for a moment that I received the following letter: DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a wonderful husband and two small children. My husband has been in Korea for four months. After living a normal married life for three years, what is a young healthy woman supposed to do for her physical needs? There are plenty of men around, and when they learn that my husband is in Korea they practically throw themselves at my feet. Don't get me wrong, Abby. I love my husband and always will, but he's going to be gone a long time and I am only human.

(signed) JERSEY'S WIFE

Well, Jersey, I would tell that woman to keep as busy as possible with her duties and as many wholesome activities as her time and energy permit. I'd suggest reading, exhausting physical exercise, and yes, even prayer! I'd tell her to stay sober and to avoid temptation and towrite to you every day! And that, Jersey, is my answer to you, and to all your buddies in the same lonesome boat.

Sincerely,

ABBY

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Couple Speaks Vows Saturday

Miss Bonnie Gardner Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fred Webb Jr. of Greenville, was married Saturday evening at eight o'clock in a candlelight ceremony to Richard Warren Gaylord Jr. in the First Presbyterian Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Warren Gaylord Sr. of Richmond, Va.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown by Bianchi of ivory peau de soie designed with a scooped neck, sleeved and beaded over with tiny seed pearls. The cathedral length train, appliqued in the same beaded design as the gown, extended from the waist in the back of the A-line skirt. She wore a cathedral length mantilla of Brussels lace and carried a cascade bouquet of white cattleya orchids accented with stephanotis and tied with white velvet.

The bridegroom's father served as best man.

Miss Judith Rae Webb and Miss Debbie Walston Webb, sisters of the bride, were maids of honor.

Other attendants were Miss Jo Betts Barrett, Miss Jamie Louise Griffith, Miss Margaret Blow Scales, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Lillian Gray Sugg, Miss Barbara Bacot Wright, all of Greenville, Miss Sarah Randolph Lathrop of Richmond, Va., and Miss Susan Selden Taylor of Norfolk, Va.

The gowns of the bridesmaids were of candlelight satin and featured an empire brown velvet bow trimmed with tiger-eye beads. They carried bouquets of rubrum lilies tied with ivory velvet ribbon.

Groomsmen were Thomas Frederick Webb, brother of the bride, Mont Dawson Gaylord of Richmond, Va., brother of the bridegroom, Henry Christian Van Nortwick, George Raymond Garrett, Roy Hartman Hagerty, Lee Hannah Dunn, all of Greenville, Shelton Reid Brown of Atlantic Beach and Meverly Brierly Van Doren of Richmond, Va.

Bradford Marshal Brown of Greenville was ring bearer. Miss Kimberly Ruth Page of Greenville was flower girl. She carried a small basket of pink rose petals.

Mrs. Robert Irwin, organist, Mrs. Theresa Shank, violinist, and Barry Shank, trumpeteer, of the ECU Music Department, presented the music. Mrs. Shank played violin selections "Thais," "Air," and "Adoration." The trumpeteer played selections of "Trumpet Voluntary" and "Sonate de Concert."

Miss Donna Katherine Liggitt Forbes of Dunn, soprano, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love Thee."

Reception

A formal reception immediately following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride. The entrance hall was decorated with a large arrangement of white fujii mums, stocks, asters and gladioli. The stairways was entwined with southern smilax and a French bouquet of asters.

In the dining room, the table was covered with a white imported embroidery and cutwork cloth with a center arrangement of white roses in a silver epergne. On the buffet was a French bouquet of white roses in a silver candelabra.

A crescent arrangement of pink carnations, white and pink snapdragons was used on the mantel in the living roim. Mrs. Virginia Taylor played musical selections in the library of the home, which was decorated with gladioli on the mantel. A champagne fountain in the center of the room was decorated with smilax and asters around the base of the fountain.

In the garden of the home, a gazebo covered in pink and white silk was used. An appointed table covered with a white imported cloth with a centerpiece of pink and white carnations was placed under the gazebo. In the center of the garden, David Batts and his Highlighters played for the guests.

A five-tiered wedding cake was featured beneath a second gazebo. Good-byes were said from the garden.

Mrs. Gaylord attended Stratford College, Danville, Va., and will continue her education at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. She was presented at the 1968 North Carolina Debutante Ball in Raleigh. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mattie Walston Webb and the late James Fred Webb Sr. Her maternal grandparents were Llina Gardner Webb and John Thomas Webb.

Her husband is attending the University of North Carolina, where he is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He recently completed active duty in the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Almont Dawson, Mrs. Mattie Moye King Gaylord and the late Louis Weedson Gaylord Sr.

Wedding Breakfast

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. James T. Cheatham III, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Russell Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. William Watson Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Thurman Clark Jr., Mrs. Samuel T. White, Mrs. Julian Jordan White Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Hodges and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Corbett.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Howard, Mrs. Helen White Hawes, Mrs. John H. Petty, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Vernon, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Wright and Mr. and Mrs. John Everett Nobles.

Guests included the family, friends and out-of-town guests.

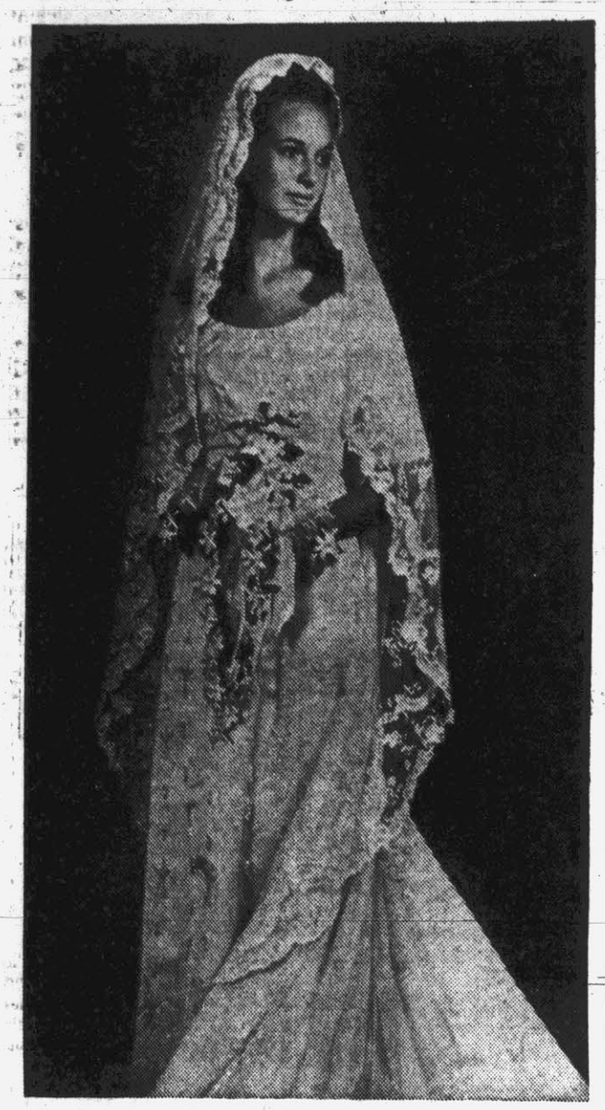

The bride's table was decorated with three white baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and white snapdragons. Individual tables were decorated with the same motif. A cloth of embroidery and cutwork was used.

The Gaylord - Webb wedding party was entertained Saturday evening at a buffet supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harding Sugg.

Other hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft Moseley, Mr. and Mrs. L. Stuart Ficklen, Dr. and Mrs. Bert Aycock, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeConte, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Ruffin, Mrs. J. Bryan Brown, Mrs. Virginia Pierce Basnight, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Morris, Jesse R. Moye and Mrs. James Griffith.

Other pre-nuptial events honoring the Gaylord - Webb wedding party included an after-rehearsal cocktail party on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Thomas.

Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Proctor and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Epps Wells.

Trusik-Carroll Vows Said On Saturday

St. Peter's Catholic Church was the scene of the high noon wedding ceremony on Saturday of Miss Elizabeth Carroll and Paul Edward Trusik.

Father Corbin of Winston-Salem officiated at the ceremony assisted by the Rev. Richard Davis of Rocky Mount.

MRS. PAUL EDWARD TRUSIK

A program of wedding music was presented by Joe Goodwin, organist. The church was decorated with two white bouquets in matched arrangements on either end of the altar with two candelabra.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Carroll of Winterville and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trusik of Natrona Heights, Pa.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of linen with lace appliques on the gown and chapel train. The gown featured an empire waistline and puff sleeves.

Miss Frances Carroll of Winterville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ben Bridgers of Chapel Hill and Miss Penny Smith of Winston-Salem.

The attendants wore yellow floor length linen gowns with portrait necklines and empire waistlines with panels attached in the back from the waistline. They carried baskets of mixed flowers with green velvet ribbon.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were John Carroll of Winterville, brother of the bride, John Milton and Wylie Stockton of Winston-Salem and Lewis Curtis of Hartland, Wis.

The mother of the bride selected an ensemble of hot pink silk linen. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk linen ensemble.

The couple will reside in Winston-Salem.

The bride received her B. S. and M. A. degrees from East Carolina University and is a clinical psychologist with the Child Guidance Clinic of Forsyth County.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Virginia Military Institute and is attending Wake Forest University. He served with the U. S. Army and is presently a captain in the Inactive Reserves.

She Had A Point After Divorce

LONDON (WNS) — Judge Norman Richards granted a divoice to Kenneth and Margaret Lowe and then suggested that the couple walk through the flower festival at St. Paul's Cathedral together. "I hope you will now be friends and not carry bitterness against each other forever," he explained. Mr. Lowe agreed to accept the judge's suggestion, but Mrs. Lowe would not. "I want to get home to my three children," she said. "Kenneth had plenty of time to show me flowers before this case came up."

Murder Will Out After 48 Years

VIENNA (WNS) — Catherine Neumeister may go to prison for 20 years for a murder in which she was involved 48 years ago. In 1921 she and her fiance, Franz Gossl, were suspected of the murder of his father, Johann Gossl, but the old man's body could not be found. Franz committed suicide in 1934, and Catherine married a railroad worker. Only now has the skeleton of Johann Gossl been uncovered under the bedroom floor of the family house. Catherine, now living in an old folks home, says that Franz killed him but admits that she helped hide the corpse.

Engagements Announced

MISS CAROL JULIAN . . . Is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Paul R. Julian Jr. of Camp Springs, Md., who announce her engagement to Ellis Ray McElroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry L. McElroy of Camp Springs, Md. The wedding will take place Nov. 29.

MISS DEBORAH LA-VON CONWAY . . . Is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Conway Jr. of Greenville, who announce her engagement to Louis Mitchell Jones Jr., son of Mr. Louis M. Jones Sr. of Greenville and the late Mrs. Naomi W. Jones. The wedding will take place Dec. 21.

Couple Weds In Friday Rites

MRS. WILLIAM EARL DUNN JR.

The marriage of Miss Janie Rebecca Heath and William Earl Dunn Jr. was solemnized Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the First Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Floyd B. Cherry officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Heath of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Earl Dunn of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ruth Taylor, organist, and Miss Julie Harris soloist, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

At the altar was a profile prie-dieu flanked by tall standards of jade and emerald greenery. In the background were fifteen spiral candelabra and bouquets of white gladioli and jade. The pews were marked with hurricane aisle taper candelabra decorated with jade and woodwardia foliage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was dressed in a formal gown of satin and Venice lace. The gown featured a lace bodice with lattice work sleeves and scoop neckline edged with daisies. The cathedral length train also edged with daisies, was attached to an A-line skirt. The bride's imported veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of peau de soie lace, pearls, and crystal into an elbow length veil. She carried a traditional cascade bouquet of white miniature carnations, stephanotis, and miniature ivy centered with a white orchid with yellow throat tied with white satin streamers.

Miss Martha Jean Moore of Greenville was maid of honor. Mrs. Paul Michael of Norfolk, Va., was bridesmaid.

The attendants wore identical formal gowns of gold faille featuring long bishop sleeves. The empire waist was complimented by a deep gold velvet band. The bodice sleeves, and high collar were accented by rows of daisies. They wore matching gold velvet bows for headpieces and carried continental hand bouquets of miniature red carnations, blue delphinium blossoms, yellow daisies, and grain.

William Earl Dunn, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were William Ray Moye and John Thomas Worthington Jr., both of Greenville.

The bride's mother chose a blue dress and coat ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a pink dress with black accessories. Both mothers wore white orchid corsages.

For a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the bride changed into a matching dress and coat ensemble of black and beige lines with matching accessories. She wore an orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and attended East Carolina University for a two-year business course. She is presently employed at the Coastal Plain Mental Health Center. The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and is presently attending East Carolina University where he is majoring in Industrial Technology.

After-Rehearsal Party

An after-rehersal party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R.H. Lloyd Thursday night entertaining the Dunn-Heath wedding party and guests.

The table was covered with a lace cloth over gold centered with an arrangement of fall flowers and candles. Aunts of the bride and bridegroom served refreshments to the guests.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

Deborah Conway and Mitchell Jones' romance dates back to their high school days at Rose High School. They did not start dating however until she was a high school junior and he was attending East Carolina University.

Christmas colors are being planned by the couple for their Dec. 21 wedding which will take place at Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

Deborah and Mitchell had decided to wear wedding bands and that she would not receive an engagement ring. Deborah was very surprised in July when Mitchell gave her a tiffany-mounted diamond.

A Nov. 29 wedding is being planned by Carol Julian and Ellis McElroy.

A 1965 graduate of Surrattsville High School, Carol is a 1969 graduate of East Carolina University. She was a member of Delta Zeta social sorority and served as president of the East Carolina chapter for the past two years.

She is presently teaching French at John Hanson Junior High School, Oxon Hill, Md.

Her fiance is a 1964 graduate of Surrattsville High School and The George Washington University. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity and served as president of the Washington City Rho chapter. He is presently employed as a civil engineer for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Nicholson and daughter, Sandra, of Bethel returned home recently after a six-week tour of the Midwest and Northwest.

They spent three weeks in Boulder, Colo., where Nicholson attended a College and High School Supervisors Conference. From Boulder they toured the Rocky Mountain National Park, Colorado Springs and visited Pikes Peak, Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds and the U. S. Air Force Academy.

They traveled to Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington — visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wagner in Billingham, Wash. The family also visited interesting spots in Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota and Minnesota and Missouri.

In Memphis, Tenn., they visited Nicholson's niece, Mrs. Alice Ortiz and family. He was also a delegate to the 16th General Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church for the N.C. Conference.

A total of 20 states were included in their trip.

She's Escorted To And From Signal Box

BIRMINGHAM, England (WNS) — Molly Bell, 50, works at the Small Heath railroad station but refuses to use the ladies rest room because the floorboards have rotted. The National Union of Railwaymen have arranged for her to use the toilet in a signel box 200 yards away but she is not allowed to walk along the railroad tracks to it. Alexander Priest has been hired to escort her. Molly says it's embarrasing; Alex says it's silly.

Her Husband Sees Too Much Red

EDINBURGH, Scotland (WNS)—Euphemia Frame has won a divorce from her husband John because the color red throws him into a violent rage. "He even became violent when I give a bouquet to one of our three children as a birthday gift, and it included red tulips," she reported. John Frame admitted in court that he hates red because his father-in-law is a Red, a Communist. He was a peaceful man for the first year of marriage, but the change came over him after an automobile accident.

PAVILION PHARMACY Presents

The Evolution of Pharmacy

By Harold E. Harris, and Anne H. Harris R.PH.

Pharmocologists played a major role in the development of "aureomycin".

Pharmocologists working hand in glove with bacteriologists and other chemical specialists under the leadership of Dr. Benjamin Duggar did finally develop "aureomycin" in the 1940s although when first discovered it was not called aureomycin but rather was assigned the marking code from the mold from which it was first conceived . . . "A.-377". At long last, an antibiotic had been discovered that could perform the work of both streptomycin and penicillin and with little or no side effects.

Counted 81 Barn Fires In County

"Farmers in Pitt County lost or had damaged by fire a total of 81 tobacco barns with an estimated loss of more than $100,000," states Mike Worthington, Pitt County Fire Marshal.

Worthington noted this year's total, contrary to expectations, was four higher than the 77 total recorded in the 1968 tobacco summer.

"Of the 81, there were 47 total losses," Worthington commented. "A majority of the total losses occurred during the night, when the outbreak of fire would be discovered too late to allow fire departments to save the barns."

The number of barns located in a position to be immediately exposed to burning barns which were saved without damage was impressive. "At least 35 barns were saved which would have almost certainly gone up in flames if firemen with fast fire-fighting equipment, had not been available," Worthington remarked.

Dividing the reporting time into a day and a night category, the records shows 30 alarms were turned in during the hours of 7:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m., and 51 reported between 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m.

Reports available reveal that about 85 percent of the losses were covered, to some extent, by insurance.

"Practically all farmers now employ gas or oil in curing tobacco," Worthington noted. "The farmer using wood furnaces in Pitt County is a rare one."

Preliminary returns of in studies on the fires show that a majority of the barns lost or suffering fire damage were fired by gas. "However, it must be noted that a big majority of all farmers use LP gas for curing operations," Worthington said.

Ray Floyd Takes Lead In Golf's World Series

Rallies From Disaster For 72

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Curly-haired Ray Floyd rallied from a horrible, triple-bogey seven Saturday, shot a two-over-par 72 and took the first round lead in the World Series of Golf.

Floyd, the reigning PGA champion, held a one-stroke lead over England's Tony Jacklin and two over George Archer and Orville Moody.

Jacklin had a 73 and Archer and Moody each struggled in with 74s as the demading, 7,180-yard, par-70 Firestone Country Club course gave these four holders of the world's major golf titles a rough afternoon.

The 36-hole test, with $50,000 to the winner, winds up Sunday.

Jacklin, the 25-year-old British Open champion, took the lead with a 25-foot birdie putt on the sixth hole and held it until he, too ran afoul of the rugged course on the 16th, a 65-yard par-five layout that is called "The Monster."

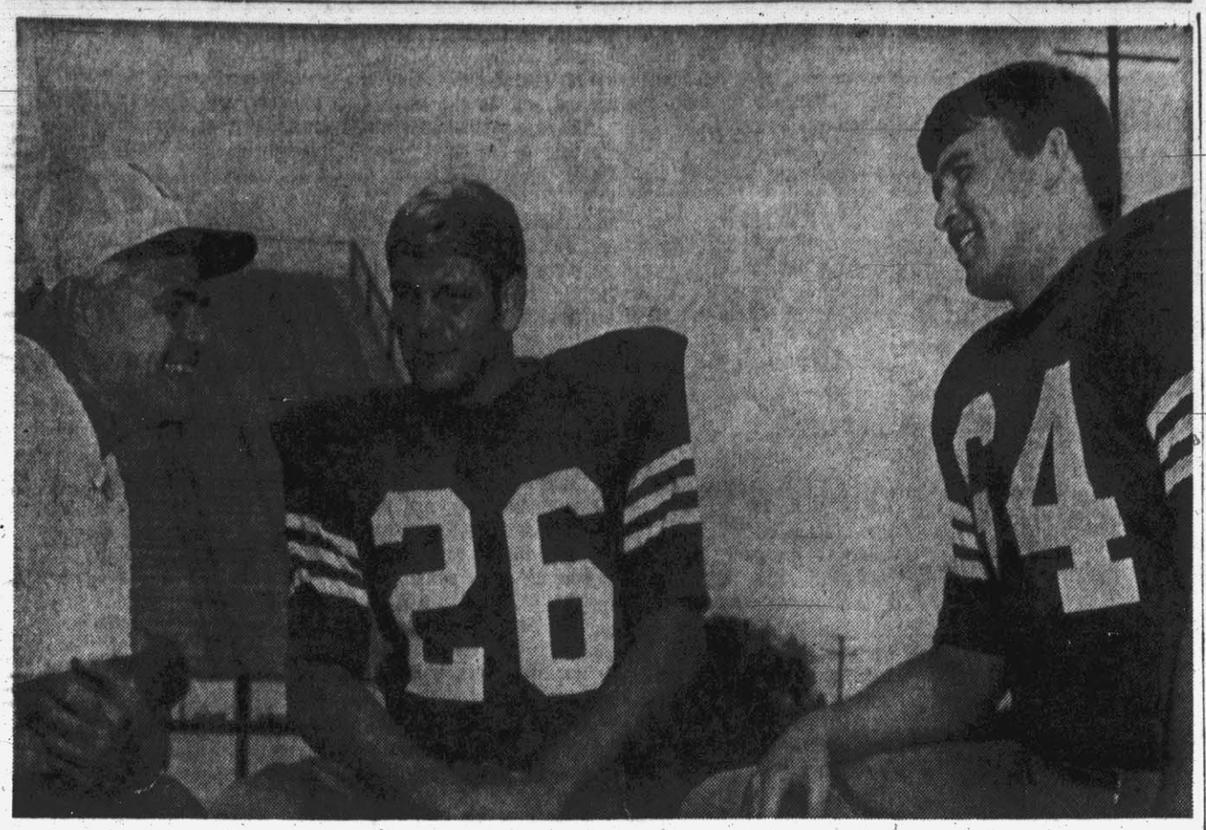

He put his first two shots in the rough and dunked the third in the pond that fronts the green. He took a drop, was on in five and two-putted for a double bogey seven.

Floyd, meanwhile, made that same hole the turning point. Trailing by one shot, he put his second well to the left, leaving himself plenty of green to work with. He chipped on about six feet away and made it for a birdie and he suddenly had a two-stroke lead.

Floyd, a 205-pounder from Fayetteville, N. C., who is an avid Chicago Cub baseball fan and often works out with the team, gave one stroke back on the 18th however.

Moody and Archer, the U.S. Open and Masters champions, respectively never really were in it.

The 6-foot-6 Archer took the first of his five bogeys when he found a trap on the first hole and Moody had his last look at a chance for the lead with a double bogey six on the ninth. He put his second in a trap, failed to get out, came out short, then chipped to four feet and made the putt.

1969 Pirate Co-Captains

Defense Shines In Buc Drills

Possibly inspired by the fact that the team's newly elected captains are a couple of their members, the defensive unit completely dominated an East Carolina University game type scrimmage here Saturday afternoon.

Prior to the scrimmage, the squad elected Roger Bost, 205-pound defensive end from Statesville captain, and Mike Boaz, a 5-11, 165-pound defensive halfback from Fairmont as Co-captain.

Both Boaz and Bost were standouts during the practice. Boaz intercepted a pass and returned it 40 yards for a touchdown, one of only three scored during the afternoon. George Whitley also intercepted a pass and scored, but his touchdown came on a pass from Jack Patterson on a 52-yard play.

Whitley, listed as a third stringer at wingback on offense, played with the second unit Saturday because William Mitchell, a sophomore from Fayetteville is injured.

The second unit offense also scored the only other touchdown f the afternoon. This came on a 45-yard pass from Patterson to split end Gerald Wrenn.

"The defense completely dominated the scrimmage," said coach Clarence Stasavich after the two-hour session. "Although they picked up a few first downs, the first unit offense never seriously threatened.

"The second offense moved the ball well but not as well as they should have, in the opinion of the coaches. The No. 1 defense definitely won their 30 minute scrimmage."

Besides Bost, Boaz and Whitley, defenders singled out were senior guard Jamie Louis, 5-10, 195-pound tackle from Blacksburg, Va., and Walter Adams, 6-0, 225-pound tackle from Deptford, N. J.

Danny Wilmer, who was shifted earlier from offensive end to defensive end, was tried for the first time at middle linebacker and was lauded by Coach Harold Bullard.

The scrimmage was very beneficial," Stasavich said. "It was the first time we really had a good one and gave us a better opportunity to appraise the squad."

Earlier in the week, the offense had been almost as devastating in scrimmage as the defense was on Saturday.

"At that time I felt like the offense might have been a little ahead of the defense," Stasavich said.

The chief concern of the Pirate coach has been the blocking in the offensive line and the play of the offense during Thursday's scrimmage had been a surprise.

The Pirate defensive unit is loaded with veterans, while the offensive line is studded with sophomores and juniors. Another minus for the offensive team which had to be considered was the fact that Friday's workout was rained out and one of the big problems of their work right now is timing.

Pirates Elect Bost And Boaz

East Carolina University's football Pirates elected two defensive starters as co-captains for the 1969 season yesterday.

Roger Bost, an end. and Mike Boaz, who plays the rover position were elected to the post.

Boaz is a senior from Fairmont. He is 5-10 and weighs 176 pounds. He has been a defensive starter for two seasons and is expected to get the nod again this year. He has put on 10 pounds during the off season, and this is expected to help him in the game. He suffered a broken collarbone in the next-to-last game last year. He is a physical education major, and the son of Mrs. Paul Boaz.

Bost is also a senior, and is from Statesville. The 6-1, 208-pound defensive end saw a lot of action at that post during the past season, and had a fine spring according to coaches. He was the outstanding player on the 1966 undefeated freshman team, but injuries kept him on the sidelines for most of his sophomore season. The son of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bost, he is a physical education major.

Pirates Push Six Over In Third To Start Rout Of Chicago, 13-4

CHICAGO (AP) — The charging Pittsburgh Pirates broke loose with a six-run rally in the third inning and lashed out a season high of 19 hits for a 13-4 victory Saturday which ssent to the Chicago Cubs tumbling to their third straight defeat.

The outcome saw the Cubs' lead in the National League East shrink to 3½ games over the New York Mets who downed Philadelphia 3-0 while the third place Pirates pullee within 8½ games of first place.

Pittsburgh sent 11 men to bat in the big third and collected eight hits with six different players driving in a run each. The rally kayoed Ferguson Jenkins who sought to become a 20-game winner but took this 12th defeat instead.

Bob Veale, 11-11, recorded his seventh straight victory and became especially tough after the Pirates had snappe a 3-3 tie with their third inning rally.

Chicago jumped ahead in the first inning when Glen Beckert singled and Billy Williams walked. The two worked a double steal and both runners scored when catcher Manny Sanguillen threw wildly to left field.

The Pirates bounced back scoring t ree runs in the second with Gene Alley driving in two of the runs with a single which stretched his hitting streak to 19 straight games.

A walk and singles by Don Young and Jenkkins tied it in the bottom of the second before the Pirates broke it wide open in the third as Al Oliver and Sanguillen got things going with consecutive doubles.

Oliver also cracked a two-run homer in the fifth while Carl Taylor collected four hits and Alley and Matty Alou drove in three runs each.

Florida Burial For Marciano

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Rocky Mariiano, the piston - armed world heavyweight boxing champion for four years, was buried Saturday in his adopted hometown.

Hundreds of mourners who knew "The Rock" attended requiem mass at St. Pius Catholic Church and heard the 46-year-old native of Brockton, Mass., praised as a man of enormous heart and kindness.

"I bless you, Rocky," said the Rev. Vincent F. Andruiska, as the bronze casket was wheeled into the church crowded with mourners from every walk of life.

His widow Barbara and their 16-year-old daughter Mary Ann, along with his brothers Louis and Peter, were among the mourners from many parts of the country who knew and aded the big genial bear of a man.

They included former champions Jersey Joe Wolcott and Cassius Clay as well as current World Boxing Association champion Jimmy Ellis and several promoters.

After retirement. Marciano moved to this resort city where he had many business interests. At the time of his death Sunday night in an airplane crash near Newton, Iowa, he was busy buying and selling boats, dealing in real state and construction and investing in a restaurant chain.

Upon his retirement Marciano said, "You look around and you say, 'what do I want, the money or my family?'" He chose family.

Johnny Bench's Dad Guided Catching Career

By TOM CALLAHAN

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (AP) 8 twenty-five years ago in Italy, Ted Bench abandoned a dream to build another.

He was 26 then, a G.I. and catching as always, this time in an Army pickup baseball game. Base runners were taking second with ease and the bone chip floating in his throwing shoulder was bothering him as much as ever. He would not be a major league catcher, he knew finally.

"There will be a Bench in the major leagues though," he told his wife and promised himself. If Ted Jr., or William, whom he had left at home in Oklahoma would not be so inclined, then another son would come.

Ted wished not only for a third son but for a catcher with the ability of Bill Dickey and Roy Campanella combined plus the baseball mind of Paul Richards. He wasn't wishing for a miracle. Just a perfect catcher.

"Johnny was more than a natural ballplayer," Ted says of his third son but for a catcher with the ability of Bill Dickey and Roy Campanella combined plus the baseball mind of Paul Richards. He wasn't wishing for a miracle. Just a perfect catcher.

'Johnny was more than a natural ballplayer," Ted says of his third son. "He was simply a ballplayer." And, at 21, Cincinnati's Johnny Bench simply is considered by some the finest backstop in baseball.

"When he was seven, catching in the Peewee League, he tried everything in the world to make himself better," Ted recalls. "We had a gravel driveway then and Johnny would be out there by the hour hitting stones out of sight. He paved it smooth."

The wished-for perfect catcher was an A student, valedictorian of his high school class and never required his father's hand in discipline.

"We used to talk about his games on our way home," Ted says. "He shared with me and now I feel the pressure with him, crouch with him and stand in the batter's box with him. He thrives under pressure but not me."

Johnny wasn't pushed into the game or back of home plate, his dad says as if this was the wonder of it all. He set out on his own. He wanted what his father wanted so badly—only more

"The only time I interfered," Ted explains, "was Johnny's last year in Legion ball. They had played him at first base and let him pitch for two years and they were going to play him at first base again. They just didn't think he was a catcher."

The Anadarko, American Legion team, near the Bench's former home in Binger, Okla., was issued an ultimatum. Johnny's father didn't bother explaining what the cannon throwing arm of his son's was meant to do. He simply said Johnny would catch or would not play.

The holdout was a success, Anadarko had the best young catcher around and Cincinnati had its .o. 2 choice in the free agent draft of 1965. Then the magic of the old wish brushed fiery Dave Bristol.

Two summers ago, the Cincinnati manager of only a half season put his money where everybody else's mouths were, traded veteran Johnny Edwards, farmed out Pat Corrales and installed the 19-year-old Bench as the Reds' starting catcher.

"It's no gamble when you go with a kid like Bench," Bristol said. 'He's a gut-cinch to be a star." The gamble by the rookie manager who himself never jumped the Triple I Leagues was a classic.

Around 8:30, Midwest City Okla. time, Ted Bench starts fidgeting with a radio that, if constantly prodded, can pick up Cincinnati baseball. Through high frequency squeals and static, he follows the Reds.

Ted is looking forward to a Reds series later this month in Houston which the family will attend. He hopes, for Cincinnati's sake, that the top of the National League West is less congested by then.

"Johnny is nervous when we are there," he explains, "and doesn't take his natural swing."

"But he's never nervous any other time.'

Grote Homers In 3-0 Met Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Grote sparked a two-run third inning with a leadoff homer and Don Cardwell and Tug McGraw combined for a six-hitter, leading the New York Mets to a 3-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

The victory coupled with Chicago's loss to Pittsburgh moved the Mets to within 3½ games of the first-place Cubs in the National League East.

The other Met runs came in the third on infield hits by Bud Harrelson and Cardwell, a sacrifice by Tommie Agee and Wayne Garrett's sacrifice fly and in the seventh when Harrelson doubled and scored on McGraw's single.

Cardwell, 6-9, yielded four hits in the six innings he worked, and McGraw, who took over at the top of the seventh, gave up two the rest of the way.

Philadelphia threatened in the fifth. Ron Stone led off with a single and, after two force-outs, loser Jerry Johnson singled and Terry Harmon walked to load the bases. Johnny Briggs then lined out to second baseman Ken Boswell, who made a diving catch.

Buckeyes Top Pre-Season Poll

By MURRAY ROSE

Ohio State's loaded Buckeyes are favored to roll on to a second straight national collegiate football championship.

With 40 lettermen, including 18 of the starters in the 27-16 victory over Southern California in the Rose Bowl, back and battling for positions, the Buckeyes are an overwhelming choice to be No. 1 again in the Associated Press' annual pre-season poll.

Twenty-six of 33 sports writers and broadcasting experts in the national panel picked Ohio State riding a 14-game winning streak, for the championship honor in college football's centennial season.

The Buckeyes are deep and talented and so are the teams picked to finish right behind—Arkansas, Penn State and Texas—in what shapes up as one of the most exciting seasons in years.

Arkansas, 16-2 conqueror of unbeaten Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, was picked for second. Penn State, unbeaten now in 19 straight games and 15-14 winner over Kansas in the Orange Bowl, was the third choice, and Texas, which blasted Tennessee 36-13, in the Cotton Bowl, was the No. 4 selection.

Ohio State piled up 611 points. Arkansas, with two first place votes got 420. Penn State, with three first placers, collected 39 and the Texas Longhorns, with one first placer, accumulated 343.

Then came: 5, Southern California, 290; 6, Oklahoma, 264; 7, Houston, (one first place), 231; 8, Georgia, 219; 9, Mississippi 211, and 10, Missouri, 209.

The Associated Press' final poll for last season was taken after the Bowl games because of the matchup of Ohio State and Southern California, the No. 1 and No.2 teams and both unbeaten, because nine of the Top Ten were involved in the post-season spectacles.

The final order (with won-lost records in parentheses; then became: 1, Ohio State, 10-0; 2, Penn State, 11-0; 3, Texas, 9-1-1; 4, Southern California, 9-1-1; 5, Notre Dame, 7-2-1; 6, Arkansas, 10-1; 7, Kansas, 9-2; 8, Georgia, 8-1-2; 9, Missouri, 8-3, and 10 8-1-2; 9, Missouri, 8-3, and 10, Purdue, 8-2.

In the picking for the new season, Kansas ditn't make the Top 20, Notre Dame was picked for 11th and Purdue for 18th.

Picked to move uup were Oklahoma, 11th last season, Houston, 18th and Mississippi, which was unranked.

Smith Takes Putting Title

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — Rick Smith of Indianapolis, Ind., scored a final 4-up victory over Gary Love of Cleveland, Ohio to win the $15,000 first prize in the Professional Putters Association's World Championship Tournament Saturday.

Earlier Smith, a junior at Purdue University, defeated Gary Understien of Rockville, Md., 2 up in a semifinals match and Love eliminated Bill Ruskauff of Aurora, Colo, by the same score.

Love took $5,000 of the $110,000 purse and Understein and Ruskauff won $2,500 each.

In the finals match, Smith and Love both aced the first five holes and Smith scored an ace on the sixth, which Love deuced.

Smith stretched his lead with another ace on the 11th, which Love deuced, and again with an ace to a deuce on the 13th.

"After the 13th hole I was counting the money," Smith said later.

Washington Grinds Out 27-14 Win Over Rose

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

WASHINGTON— Washington High School's Pam Pack unleased a relentless ground attack that found plenty of opportunity to pick Rose High School's weak defense apart Friday night. By the time the Pack finished their blitz of the Rampants, the scoreboard showed 27-14, but it really didn't show the true story of the game.

Despite the fact that the Rampants weren't shut out of the game until the final minutes of the game, Washington completely overpowered Rose on the ground.

With Guy Stowe and William Guilford making two touchdowns each, the Pack has plenty of scoring to work with. Each of the pair did the trick in the first quarter. Stowe went over from eight yards out for the initial score, while Guilford took a 15 yard pass from Ted Waters for the other.

Guilford came back with another in the second quarter, a four-yard lug, while Stowe did the finishing touch, also from four yards out as the final minutes ticked away. Grover Boyd added three extra points with his toe for the 27 - point total.

Rose got on the board with its only solid attack, the aerial route. Joe West hit Johnny Smith on a 37-yard bomb, then connected with Josh Weeks for 23 yards and the other score. Rose twice elected to go for the new two-point conversion. A run by Smith in the first quarter failed, but a pass from West to Greg Williams connected in the third period for the two points that put the Rampants within striking distance.

Washington readily riddled the Rampants in the first half, running up 235 yards in total offense to just 91 for the Rampants. The Pam Pack found the going easy around the Rose end and over tackle, and used those two routes most of the evening.

When it was over, Washington had put together 281 yards on the ground, running 65 plays, adding five pass plays for 54 yards and a total of 335 yards in total offense. Rose got just 64 yards on the ground, with only 24 carries. Nineteen pass attempts resulted in 159 yards, for a total of 223 yards.

Late in the game, it still looked like Rose might pull things together. The defense gathered itself together to halt two Washington drive, and Rose came back to score on one of these in the third period.

In the third quarter, Rose got the ball back, and appeared to be driving again, but the momentum was halted at the Washington 28, and the Rampants never got going again.

Rose got the ball back with 8:18 to play, but failed to pick up a first down. Washington drove down into Rose territory again, at the 28, but a personal foul call, the only penalty against Rose all night, gave the Pack a first down on the 14. That led to the final touchdown, and it was all over with just 1:47 to go.

Washington scored before Rose really had time to realize the game had started. Just six plays after the opening whistle, the Pack was on the board, and Rose was on the short end of the stick.

Larry Smithwick picked up five yards from the Pack 35 following the kickoff, and Guilford add eight more to the 48. Stowe carried the ball into Rose territory at the 49, and on the next play, Smithwick went over tackle and raced to the 13 before Cliff Edwards brought him down and saved a touchdown on the play.

It didn't mean much, however. Smithwick moved the ball to the eight on the next play, and Stowe swept the end for the score on the next play, making it 7-0 after Boyd's kick with 9:35 left in the period.

Rose jumped right back into the game and appeared to be moving the ball well, but a fumble following a pass completion gave the ball back to Washington on their own 43.

Lewis Gidley tossed Guilford for a loss on the first play back to the 37, but Waters lofted the ball to Stowe on the next play and that put the ball back on the Rose 29. Smithwick carried twice and Guilford once to move down to the 15, and Waters picked up a first down at the 13. He was thrown for a loss on the next play, but then threw to Guilford on the next for the score, a 15-yard play.

Rose then put on a fine offensive display. Bubba Rawl carried the ball three straight times from the Rampant 38 to the Washington 48. Smith then broke loose for eight yards, and Rawl added another three to the 37.

West then lofted a pass to Smith, who did some fine running, and got a good block from Greg Williams, to go 37 yards for the score. Rose elected to try for the two-pointer, but Smith was hauled down just short of the goal, leaving it at 14-6 with 1:54 in the quarter.

Washington was driving again midway through the period, but fumbled the ball away. Rose returned the favor, however, giving it back on the next play at the Rose 45.

From there Washington used nine plays to push the ball in. Most of it was short yardage, but Guilford got off for an eight and an 11 yard run, while Stowe also added 11. From the four, on fourth down, Guilford swept the end for the score, and with Boyd again kicking the Pack held a 21-6 lead with 4:37 left in the half.

Midway through the third quarter, Rose got the ball on Washington's first punt of the night. Taking over on their 36, the Rampans drove for their final score. Smith picked up four and Rawl added five. Smith then got three more, but after and incompletion and a loss, the Rampants found themselves with third and 11 at their own 47. West picked out Mike Harrington for a 28 yard gain, however, and the completion set the Rampants on fire. Washington was slapped with an off-sides penalty, and from the 28, West hit Weeks in the end zone for the score, making it 21-12. West then hit Williams for the extra points, and Rose was withing striking distance.

But after that, the Rampants could never get going again.

Late in the game, Washington took over on its 40 and drove down to the 28, where Rose was hit with the lone penalty that put the ball to the 14. Stowe picked up eight yards to the six, and Smithwick got the first down at the four. Stowe tried twice from there, making it on the second play, going over tackle for the score, and it was all over 27-14.

Stowe finished the night with 115 yards while Smithwick had 94 and Guilford had 53.

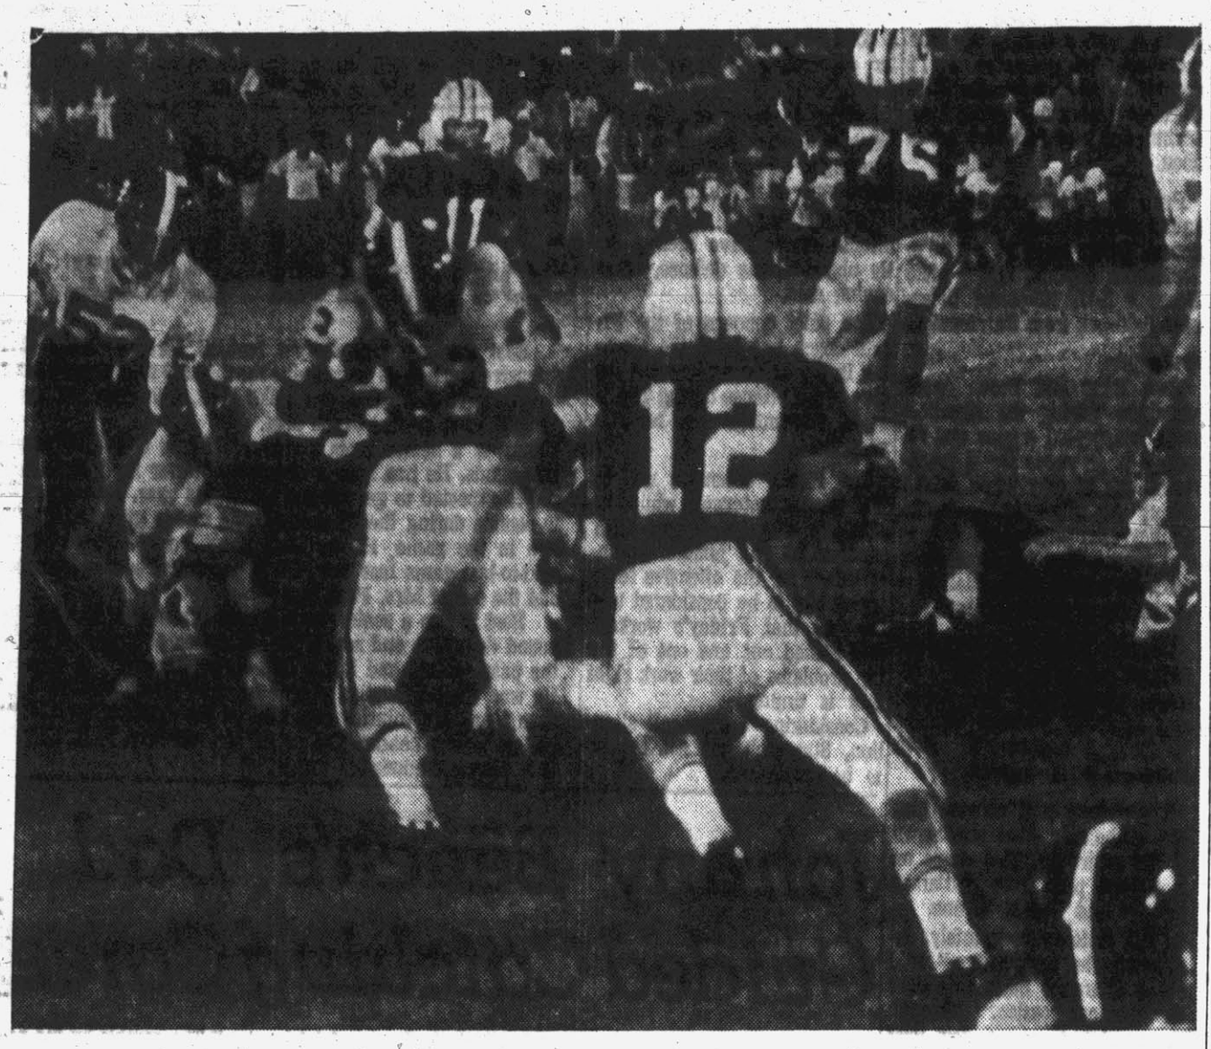

For Rose, Smith had 43 yards, while Rawl had 33. West connected on 11 of 19 passes for 159 yards.

Tresh's Homer Beats Baltimore

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Tresh hit a one-out homer in the 11th inning Saturday, lifting the Detroit Tigers to a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Tresh connected off Eddie Watt, 4-2, for his 13th homer.

The Tigers scored four runs in tte first inning—three on Willie Horton's 26th homer—and survived several Baltimore threats until the eighth when the Orioles tied it on Dave Johnson's double.

Starter Mickey Lolich was shaky through the early innings, particularlin the third when Paul Blair and Boog Powell homered. Blair hit his 26th and Powell his 37th.

Detroit took the lead in the first when rookie Cesar Gutierrez beat out a single and scored on Norm Cash's single. Jim Northrup, who singled ahead of Cash, also scord on Horton's homer.

Stock Car Drivers Face Unknown As Taledaga Track Prepares Opening

By BLOYD BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Stock car racing drivers consider themselves among the bravest of the brave, but they face the unknown next week when they tackle the new Alabama International Speedway here.

"None of us are exactly looking forward to 200 mile-per-hour laps," said Dodge ace Buddy Baker, a 215-pound, 6-4 giant who cut his teeth on a stock racing car in his father's garage.

"But we're going to have to go as fast as the course and the car will allow. That's racing, and none of us would be in it if we backed off and quit, or ran only the slow courses."

The NASCAR Grand National entourage of drivers and mechanics arrives here Tuesday to give the new highly-banked 2.6-mile trioval its first taste of big bore machinery.

First practice sessions will be Tuesday for 900 miles of racing next weekend—a 400 mile event for Grand Touring cars of the Camaro, Mustang and Javelin class on Saturday, and a 500-miler for the heavier, more powerful Grand National cars Sunday. Prize money for the two races totals $157,750.

The $6 million asphalt course is banked 33 degrees in the turns and as much as 18 degrees down the long front-stretch trioval. The race cars are expected to reach 220 miles per hour down the straight backchute.

Baker and several other drivers already have turned laps above 195 m.p.h. in preliminary testing of their cars and tires at the speedway.

"I'm sure it will take 200 miles per hour to win the pole position, maybe more," Baker said. 'It is the only course I know where you shove the accelerator to the floor and let it stay there. The high banked turns cause the only slowing down that you experience during a complete lap."

Baker and the other Dodge drivers will be using Chrysler's new Dodge Daytona Charger for the first time. The Daytona, homologated and accepted for racing earlier this year, has a knife-sharp nose and a winged stabilizer on its rear deck.

Dodge officials believe the new aerodynamically shaped body plus the reliable 46-cubic inch Hemi engine will offset the higher horse power Ford 429 engine. Ford has won every NASCAR superspeedway event this season.

The highest lap speed ever recorded on a closed course was the 190.282 m.p.h. posted by Cale Yarborough at Daytona Beach, Fla., last February. Yarborough, however, hasn't tested the new Alabama track.

The drivers will get under the official clock for the first time at Talladega when they begin qualifying runs for starting positions Wednesday.

"It's going to be wild, man, wild," Baker commented, and there was a gleam in his eye when he said it.

Kennedy Charges ABA Is Raiding To Force Merger

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association charged today that the rival American Basketball Association was raiding college players in an effort to harass the NBA into aggreeing to a merger of the two leagues.

"This harrassment on the part of the ABA won't work," Kennedy said. "The resumption of any merger talks at this time would be very difficult."

Kennedy described the signing of Detroit University star Spencer Haywood with the Denver Rockets of the ABA as deplorable and was just as angry about reports that ABA clubs had approached at least two other college players who, like Haywood, have not yet graduated.

"For many years, pro football and basketball clubs have religiously and with great integrity adhered to the policy of not drafting college players until their class is graduated," Kennedy said.

Kennedy placed much of the blame on James Gardner, president of the ABA and owner of the Carolina Cougars.

"It's unfortunate that a man who has been in pro sports for only six months and who owns a team that has not even played a game would allow this sort of thing to happen," he said.

Gardner could not be reached for comment.

Kennedy said he has had calls from a number of coaches who were worried that the NBA might get into the ac5.

"I responded with a flat and affirmative no," he said.

Two coaches, Johnny Dee of Notre Dame and Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, have already publicly denounced the ABA action. Tennessee Coach Ray Mears also expressed concern. Dee said he would ask the College Basketball Coaches Association to bar ABA personnel from collegiate games, locker rooms and practices. Rupp demanded a hands-off policy and a commitment from both leagues that no college player would be drafted until after he graduates.

It was reported Friday that ABA clubs had offered contracts to Calvin Murphy, All-America from Niagara University, and Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure. Both are beginning their senior year this month.

There were rumors Murphy had been contacted by the Los Angeles Stars.

Murphy told Niagara Coach Frank Layden he would not sign. Lanier's father said a New York lawyer had contacted his son about an ABA offer.

Haywood, 1968 Olympian who had two years of eligibility left at Detroit, signed with the Rockets two weeks ago. The ABA signed Haywood as a hardship case, but Kennedy said the NBA does not follow that policy because "it would violate the player's scholarship contract with his college."

Cougars Set Rookie Camp

BOONE, N. C. (AP)—Thirteen rookies, two of them bearing "can't miss" labels, form the advance guard for the Carolina Cougars' inaugural preseason training camp, which opens Sunday at Appalachian State University at Boone.

The rookies will work for a week. Their number will be cut in half following the game-type scrimmage before the Cougar veterans report on Sept. 14. The camp will close Sept. 28 with an intersquad scrimmage.

Heading the list of rookies are guard Gene Littles of High Point and forward Bill Bunting of North Carolina, both called "can't miss" candidates for stardom with the new American Basketball Association team.

Littles, a two-time NAIA All-American selection, averaged 23.3 points while leading High Point to a 28-3 record last season, but figures in the Cougar plans as a playmaking guard. Bunting averaged 18.0 points and 7.9 rebounds while helping UNC finish 27-5 and fourth in the national NCAA playoffs. He also was voted the Tar Heels' outstanding defensive player.

Cougar officials are high on two more rookies, 6-8 Fred Lind of Duke and 6-5 Gene Ford of Western Michigan. Lind was the Blue Devils' most valuable player last season, while Ford averaged 25.8 points, 13th in the nation.

Also in the spotlight are 6-9 Carl Fuller of Bethune - Cookman and 6-10 Bob Woollard of Wake Forest, two possibilities to shore up the Cougars' problems at center. Both showed promise in the Cougars' rookie camp last June. In the camp-closing game - type scrimmage, then, Fuller had 20 points and 13 rebounds, while Woollard was 28 and 18.

Other rookies due to report Sunday are 6-5 Ted Manning of North Carolina College, 6-2 Justus Thigpen of Weber State, 6-4 George Hicken of Syracuse, 6-1 Mike Nordholz of Alabama, and 6-1 Calvin Fowler, a starter for the U.S. Olympic team in Mexico City.

Several veterans are expected to report early, giving Coach Bones McKinney approximately 20 players in camp Sunday.

Yaz, O'Brien Lead Boston To 9-5 Win

BOSTON (AP) — Cal Yastrzemski and rookie Sd O'Brien each lined three hits, including homers, and drove in three runs apiece Saturday in powering the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 victory over the Washington Senators.

Yastrzemski hit his 35th homer in the first, singled in the second and doubled home a run for his 100th RBI in the third.

O'Brien hit a two-run homer, his eighth, in the second, singled in the third and tripled in the fifth. He scored after each hit.

Del Unser led off the Washington seventh with an infield hit and Lee Maye followed with his ninth homer. Ed Stroud had a three-run shot in the eighth.

Tornadoes Rally To Edge Past Greene Central

Hobbton Rally Ties Farmville

HOBBTON—A 15 yard penalty on an extra point play enabled Farmville to salvage a 12-12 tie against Hobbton Friday night in the opening Eastern Plains Conference game for both teams.

Hobbton had struggled back from a 12-0 deficit to tie the game up in the final period of play. The Wildcats kicked for the extra point and the ball honors on a 12-yard run. giving them what appeared to be the winning point.

But an official found something amiss and marked off a 15-yard penalty against Hobbton and this time, the try via a pass failed, and the score remained tied.

Dickie Newton did all of the damage for the Red Devils. He scored in the first quarter from a yard out to put Farmville into the initial lead. Then, in the second period, he went across from 20 yards out.

Hobbton began its comeback in the third period, putting its first touchdown up on the board. Ron Fletcher did the the ball handily against Hobb- Then, in the final period, quarterback Randy Bridgeman went in from nine yards out, tieing the game.

Farmville almost pulled it out, taking over with 5:33 to go in the game. Driving from their 45, they went down to the nine before giving up the ball on downs with less than two minutes left.

Farmville was able to move the ball handily against Hobton, except within striking except within striking distance of the goal line. The Red Devils picked up 174 yards on the ground, while Hobbton got only 63. The Red Devils had 39 yards passing, while Hobbton had 37.

Farmville stays in the conference next week, traveling to Southern Nash for its second game of the season.

Tornadoes Bothered By Lack Of Experience; Wilson Top Player

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

"In the past, Ayden only had to show up to win a football game," Coach Nelson Gravatt of the Tornadoes says. "This year, we've going to have to play to win them."

Gravatt takes over as head football coach at Ayden with a load of problems on his shoulders. "We lost heavily by graduation, and four other boys moved away. We have little experience, and there is no super athlete like we've had in the past."

There is one thing in Ayden's favor however. "The winning tradition and the pride in the community is probably our biggest asset, and it will do a lot for us."

"We have a young and inexperienced ball club," Gravatt said. "There are eight sophomores and four freshmen among the 26 on the team. The other break down into 10 seniors and five juniors. But even with 15 upperclassmen, the experience isn't there."

Gravatt pointed out that only three of the 10 seniors were starters last year, quarterback Alan Wilson, Fullback Danny Oakland and tackle Randy Loftin. "Three of those seniors are out for the first time," he added.

Aside from the community pride and the former winning ways of the Tornadoes, the big plus for the team is quarterback Wilson. "He has experience, and he can both run and throw well. He's a good play caller," Gravatt said, "and we're depending on him a lot."

The biggest problem facing the Tornadoes is the development of blocking in the line. "We are having trouble establishing the inside game," the coach said. "The boys need fundamentals badly."

Although there are 12 lettermen for Gravatt to chose from, some freshmen may break into the starting lineup. These include center-middle guard Jimmy Wagstaff and offensive guard Horace Tripp.

"We lack speed, with Wilson and Ken Cleaton as our fastest players. We have a couple of big men who are fairly quick, however, Loftin and Jimmy Roberson, another tackle."

Loftin tips in at 225, while Roberson despresses the scales to the tune of 200 pounds. Kent Loftin and Mike Tripp both weigh 205.

"Our depth is very thin in experience," Gravatt said. "We had an unbeaten junior varsity last year, but the boys lack varsity work, and it will depend on how fast they mature as to how we'll do."

Ayden, late in the summer, managed to work its way into a conference, but has a heavy problem in winning the title. The Tidewater, which admitted them, plays a double-round robin schedule between its three other teams, Camden, Manteo and Knapp. Ayden plays each one of them once on the schedule. So to win the title, it was agreed that Ayden must beat all three. "If we couldn't do this," Gravatt said, "we really don't deserve the conference title."

He rates Manteo as the toughest opposition, and points out that that game comes early in the season, the third outing for the Tornadoes.

Running through his probable starting lineup (prior to Friday's opening contest with Greene Central), Gravatt listed Ken Cleaton and Dale Griffin as the offensive ends.

"Griffin is a senior out for the first time and Cleaton has been switched over to end after playing quarterback on the jv's last year," the coach said.

At the tackles will be Jimmy Roberson and Kent Loftin. "Roberson is a letterman, while Loftin is a sophomore without experience."

Robert Twilley and Horace Tripp hold down the guard positions. "Twilley was a starter last year, but was hurt in the opening game and missed the rest of the season. He's our hardest worker, however, and will be a big help to us. Tripp is a freshman."

At center is Mike Brady, also a senior with no real experience.

Then comes the bright spot on the team, quarterback Wilson. "He has the experience to do the job for us," Gravatt said.

Debro Blount and either Mike Griffin or Jackie Eason will handle the halfback slots. "Blount started last year, but played mainly on defense, while Griffin is a freshman and Eason is a sophomore, with no varsity will be tested."

At the defensive ends will be Oakley and Griffin, both new to the defensive unit.

Randy Loftin and Jimmy Roberson will handle the tackle spots. Loftin was a starter last year, and both have good size.

At middle guard will be Jimmy Wagstaff. "He's looked real good in scrimmage," Gravatt said.

Twilley, Blount and Ronnie Eason handle the linebacking positions. "Blount was a standout here last year, and is our best defensive player. He's our best hitter and he's aggressive. Eason is a sophomore, but has good savvy."

In the secondary is Jackie Eason, Bob Smith and Ken Cleaton. Alan Wilson may also see some action here. "There are no veterans here," Gravatt said.

The road to another state title will be a long one for the Tornadoes if they are to tread upon it this year. "Our line blocking has got to mature for us to win it," Gravatt said. "And the quicker our young boys come along, the better off we'll be."

"Our offense is in the learning stages. We put in a new pattern, and it may take a couple of games to really learn it," the coach said.

Gravatt looks for the defense to be quite strong against the running attack, but questions it against passing. "Our secondary is still a question mark. It experience."

Danny Oakley returns to the fullback position he held last year. "He's improved a lot and runs the ball real well."

Ayden In Brief

Outlook — With youth and inexperience, Ayden figures to be in a battle to maintain its previous years' status. Quick maturity could make the club a title contender, however.

Returning starters — Robert Twilley C, Alan Wilson QB, Danny Oakley FB, Randy Loftin T, Debro Blount LB, Andy McLawhorn C.

Schedule — Sept. 5 at Greene Central; 12 Swansboro; 19 Manteo; 26 Camden; Oct. 3 Grifton; 10 at Farmville; 17 at Weldon; 24 at Louisburg; 31 Pamlico County; Nov. 7 at Knapp.

Wilson Scores For 18-13 Win

By CARL TYER
Reflect roSports Writer

SNOW HILL—Ayden's Tornadoes stirred up a strong wind in the final minutes of their opening football game against Greene Central Friday night to come from behind and take a 18-13 victory. The Ayden team trailed twice in the game, once in the first quarter, and again with less than three minutes to play, but a 22 yard run by quarterback Alan Wilson pulled it out for Ayden and upset the hopes the Rams had of taking their first victory ever from the visitors.

Greene Central had taken the lead for the second time of the evening late in the fourth quarter when Robbie Hill connected with Donnie Harris on the Rams 40, and Harris scampered the rest of the way to pay dirt, to give Greene Central the lead, 13-12.

"Get those heads up boys, we haven't lost this game yet," said Ayden's new coach Nelson Gravatt, as the Ayden bench watched Harris going in for the score.

Gravatt's words had just had time to soak into his team, when Alan Wilson guided the Tornadoes from their own 33 to their winning touchdown. Wilson picked up 12 yards on a run, sent an aerial to Danny Oakley which drew a pass interference against the Rams and then scampered the remaining 22 yards to pay dirt just making it in, brushing the out of bounds flag as he was tackled.

Greene Central started the game showing a new power which they did not possess last year, going in with the opening kick off for a TD, with a drive of 63 yards.

Ayden could not score in the first quarter, but showed new life in the second frame. The Rams started the second quarter off strong, taking the ball on downs and driving nine yards in two plays, but a clipping penalty snuffed out their surge, and the Tornadoes took over to drive in for their first score.

It took Ayden six plays to score, starting on their own 42. Danny Oakley went in for the score from the six yard line, while the point after run failed to make it 7-6.

Three plays later, Dail Griffin intercepted a Donnie Harris pass, and went 35 yards for the second Tornado TD of the second frame, to give Ayden the lead for the first time of the game, 12-7, when the point after pass failed.

The first half ended with Ayden sitting on the Rams 45, after completing a 16 yard pass.

The third frame ended with the same numbers on the score board, and alot of mistakes being made on the field. Ayden had driven down to the Rams 14 in the third frame, when Wilson went back to pass, saw his receivers covered, and decided to lateral off instead.

The lateral, which was kind of an over arm toss, was taken for a forward pass by the Ayden back, and the Rams defenders. The ball was dropped, and everyone settled down to head back to the huddle, with only one hitch, the whistle had not blown.

A fan said "pick up the ball", and that's what Greene Central's Elwood Grant did returning it to the Ayden 44 before he was tackled.

However, the Rams possesion did not last long, as Ayden recovered a Greene Central fumble five plays later.

Time was growing short in the final frame, when Wilson went into the end zone, driving from the Greene Central 29, however a penalty nullified the drive. It seemed all Ayden had to do was hold the Rams back, however, to take the win.

That was not such as easy thing to do, as Hill connected with Harris six plays later for the go ahead TD making it 13-12 when the point after pass failed.

The Greene Central fans were delighted, with little time remaining, and it seemed they were going to take their first victory from the Tornadoes since the establishment of the consolidated Greene County school.

However, coach Gravatt must have inspired something in his boys, as six plays later Wilson went over from the 22 for the winning TD, and leaving the Greene Central fans with their dreams for another year.

Williamston Downs Robersonville, 19-0

WILLIAMSTON— Williamston High School downed Robersonville Friday night, 19-0, as the two teams opened up the 1969 football season.

The Green Wave threw up a strong defense which the Rams were unable to penetrate the entire night. Robersonville was forced into a passing situation after falling behind 13-0 in the first half, and Williamston turned on a strong pass rush that resulted in Robersonville ending up with a net rush yardage of minus two.

The Rams hit on only three of 12 passes of 15 yards, giving them a total offense for the evening of 13 yards. Williamston, meanwhile rolled up 184 yards on the ground, but was unable to complete a pass in six attempts.

Grey Godard crashed over during the first period to give Williamston its first touchdown. He carried the ball in from the 16 yard line. Doug Warren added the extra point for the 7-0 lead.

In the second period, Godard scored again, this time from the one. A run attempt for two points failed, leaving it at 13-0.

The final Williamston touchdown came late in the game. A Robersonville center snap hit the Ram tailback in the shoulder and bounced into the end zone, where Warren pounced on it for the Green Wave, for the final 19-0 score.

Williamston travels to Scotland Neck next week in an Albemarle Conference encounter. Robersonville opens its home season in a loop game with Chocowinity.

Grifton Bops Saratoga, 21-7

Grifton—Grifton's Bulldogs unleased a strong ground attack Friday night and rolled to a 21-7 victory over Saratoga. It marked the start of the season for both teams in the Tobacco Belt Conference race.

Grifton piled up 12 yards on the ground, while holding Saratoga to just 23. Saratoga managed to edge past Grifton in the aerial battle, however, getting 89 yards while the Bulldogs managed 51.

Saratoga came back in the second period however, to gain the lead. Buddy Pate scored from 12 yards out, and the extra point put Saratoga into the lead.

Tyndall came back to score for Grifton, this time from 11 yards away, and the extra point pushed Grifton into a 13-7 lead, and the never trailed after that.

In the third quarter, the final touchdown was pushed over as Mike Coles went across from 15 yards away. David Whaley passed to Eber Mitchell for the two-point conversion, and the final 21-0 margin.

Grifton travels to Aurora for a non-conference tilt next week.

Barber Edges By South Ayden, 14-12

NEW BERN—A 65-yard kickoff return spoiled a pending upset by South Ayden's Eagles Friday night over 4 - A J. T. Barber High School of New Bern. The runback enabled Barber to edge past South Ayden, 14-12.

Barber moved into the lead in the second period as Hal Hillard took a 13-yard pass from Riley Oden for the score. Carl Smith ran the extra points over giving New Bern an 8-0 edge.

In the third period, the Eagles came alive and picked up two touchdowns to move into the lead. Charlie Grimes hauled in a 40 yard pass from Leon Mayo for the first touchdown. Then, the two combined again for a six-yard aerial, moving South Ayden out into a 12 - 8 lead.

But on the kickoff following the go-ahead score, Smith pulled in the boot and moved it back 65 yards for the touchdown that won the game.

South Ayden didn't give up however, and was on the Barber three yard line when time ran out.

Glenn Williams, the Eagle fullback, led the ground attack with 81 yards in 18 carries, while Grimes pulled in six passes for 77 yards.

Atlanta Falcons Have Old Problems

By RAY BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons, despite a new coach, a fresh system and revamped offensive line, are encountering the same old problems as they attempt to improve last year's dismal 2-12 record in the National Football League.

Lemmerman, signed as a free agent from San Fernando Valtast year, made his first 1969 appearance against the Saints after Berry and Johnson were injured. He responded with a sensational performance, hitting 10 of 17 passes for 152 yards.

As a result, coach Norm Van Brocklin has tagged him for starting duty for Saturday night's exhibition against the Kansas City Chiefs.

Even if Lemmerman answers the quarterback dilemma, the Falcons have other glaring weaknesses to overcome before the team can be a contender in the NFL's Coastal Division.

We're starting over and we'll be inexperienced," said Van Brocklin, who took over as coach in midseason last year.

"But," he added quickly, "we've made a lot of personnel changes; I've gotten a lot of new people, and we've changed all our thinking. We're hoping the end result will be different."

Changes have become routine for the Falcons under Van Brocklin. Since taking over from Norm Hecker, the Atlanta coach has "fired" five starters, picked up a new coaching staff, cut first-stringers like a crop of overripe wheat and made 11 trades in as many months.

He also brought in a new multiple formation offense and installed Tommy Nobis as the team's defensive signal-caller.

Nobis, the fiery redhead from the University of Texas, is one of the Falcons' strong points. Now in his fourth season, the former All-American already has been recognized as one of professional football's premier linebackers and only this week was named to the NFL's All-1960s team.

The Falcons also are counting the return of running back Junior Coffey as another plus.

Coffey, among the NFL's top runners in both 1966 and 1967, sat out the season last year after surgery for a knee injury received in preseason training.

Greene Central To Field Improved Team This Year Thanks To Veterans

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

SNOW HILL—"No doubt about it," Greene Central Football Coach Doug Swain said. "We'll be an improved ball club."

And Swain has the stuff to back up his promise for this year.

He has seven offensive starters and eight defensive starters returning this year, a good nucleus of veterans.

"Another boost is the return of Ronnie Creech," he said. Creech, a senior halfback, broke his hand at the end of his sophomore football season, but didn't know it. He played all through basketball season with the injury, and it was finally discovered during the baseball year. Creech had the hand in a cast for 13 months, and missed nearly all of last year's athletic year. But this season he's back, and Swain is happy over it.

"He's the only broken field runner we have, and he's also a kicker. We would have done a lot better last year if we had had him."

And Swain could have used him. Last season, the Rams struggled to a 1-8-1 season, despite losing a lot of close ones. "We made a lot of mistakes that really hurt us," he said. Swain demonstrated this by pointing to the opening game last year. "On the first play from scrimmage, we had a pass intercepted by Charles B. Aycock, and run back for a touchdown. They kicked off, and we fumbled the ball, and they recovered it for another touchdown. So we were down two touchdowns, and Aycock hadn't run an offensive play, and we'd run only one, and less than a minute had elapsed."

Such mistakes will not plague the Rams this year, Swain hopes. The experience is there this year to help prevent such things.

"Our backfield is average to above average," he said, "but I feel our line is a little below average. We have a couple of good boys, but there is no depth. An injury will kill us."

Swain feels that his passing attack will be up from last year. "We will pass more this year. We have a young sophomore, David Harrell, who is the best passer on the team. Robbie Hill will be the starter, but Harrell will see a lot of action.

"The running game should be good to the outside, but the inside game is a question mark, mainly due to the line. Two of our inside men will be sophomores."

Depth ranks as the big problem the Rams must overcome. "We have eight backs we can call on for duty," he said, "so we're not hurting there. But in the line, we have three, maybe four ends, and just six men in the interior line to choose from. The rest just need experience."

"We will dress 33 players, including 17 lettermen, although some of them come from South Greene, and are untested under us," Swain said. South Greene marged with Greene Central this year as the only high school serving the county.

Creech and fullback Sammy Gay are the speedsters of the team, but Swain feels that "it is not great speed." Another sophomore, Sammy Cunningham is strong, and will spell Gay at fullback a lot this year. Size, too, is a problem. "We don't have any real big boys, although we are bigger than last year."

Creech will handle the punting on the team, while All-Conference tackle David Shackelford will do the kickoffs. Linwood Singleton, a sophomore, will do the extra points.

Two veterans, eight end Ron Bowen and split end Ave Edge will return to bolster the passing attack this year. "Bowen has improved a lot," Swain said, "and Edge had good hands to begin with. Bowen, at 6-7, 195, is a good blocker.

Sheckelford and Will Bynum will handle the offensive tackles. "We moved Shackelford over from guard where he was All-Conference, and he will be great. He already has several colleges looking at him, including three of the Big Four. Bynum is also a returning starter."

Brooks Darden and Robert Matthews will handle the guard positions. Darden played some last year as a freshman, while Matthews was moved in from the halfback position. "He has impressed us more than anybody on the club for his desire," Swain said of Matthews.

At center will be Jimmy Creech. "This is his third year as a starter. He's an excellent snapper."

Hill returns to the quarterback post. "He has good height (6-3) and his passing has improved. He can run well too with excellent speed."

Gay, another veteran, stands in at fullback. "He, too, has good speed," Swain said.

The defense is mainly a rehash of the offense. "Hill and Bowen play the ends. We hate to play the quarterback in a situation like that, but we don't have much choice. Together they are as good as any defensive ends in the conference."

Jimmy Creech and Bynum handle the tackles, while Floyd Holmes and Matthews are at guards. Shackelford and Gay handle the linebacking, with Gay moving out when the set goes to a six-one.

In the secondary are Edge and Singleton at halfbacks, with Harris and Ronnie Creech at safeties. "I think we'll be 100 per cent improved in the secondary this year," Swain said.

"Our sophomores are the key," Swain said. "We'll carry seven or eight of them, and as many as six could start. The sooner they come through, the better we'll be. Having our first two games as non-conference affairs should help us."

Green Central In Brief

Outlook — Greene Central will be an improved ball club, but they key to real success lies in the early maturity of the team's sophomores.

Returning starters — Robbie Hill QB; Donnie Harris HB, Ronnie Creech HB, Sammy Gay FB, Jimmy Creech C, David Shackelford T, Brooks Darden G, Will Byrum T, Ron Bowen E, Ave Edge E.

Starters lost — Yuji Smith HB, Dickie Price G, Charles Hill T, Harry Letchworth DB, Marvin Moye DT .

Offense—Split T with split end. Defense—Six man line, with variations in the linebackers and secondary.

Conference and record — Eastern Plains, 1-6-1 in conference, 1-8-1 overall.

Schedule — Sept. 5 Ayden, 12 at Pamlico County, 19 Charles B. Aycock, 26 at Southern Wayne, Oct. 3 at Hobbton, 10 Southern Nash, 17 South Lenoir, 24 at Farmville, 31 Northern Nash, Nov. 7 at North Lenoir.

Rod And Gun: Shellcrackers Look A Lot Like Bluegills, Good Catch

By ROD AMUNDSON

For the past couple of summers I have been catching fish from our little pond that I had assumed to be off-color bluegills. They never would take surface lures, but occasionally went for a wet fly. They liked crickets and worms.

Labor Day morning I found out that they aren't bluegills at all, but shellcrackers. And they really eat up shrimp—the small size with the shells on that are packaged specially for fish bait. Best way to tell for sure you have a shellcracker, not a bream, is to shove your finger down its throat. Well back in the fish's head you will feel a set of flat, molar-like teth, one above, and one below. These are designed for grinding up snails and small clams, their favorite food, and account for the name shellcracker.

Another good clue to identity is the bright, orange-red rim around the gill lobe. Otherwise the outward appearance is very similar to the bluegill bream. Incidentally, I took two shellcrackers Labor Day morning. Both were males, both measured 11 inches long, and each weighed 18 ounces. Fried in bacon fat, they made a delicious holiday breakfast; so fresh I had to kill them to keep from scaling them alive. The pond is about 75 paces from the house.

Opening day of the dove season brought varied results to varied hunters. In several eastern counties a few hunts were rained out with widely scattered afternoon thunder showers. By and large the weather was excellent, being mostly fair and cooler than anticipated. I haven't talked to a hunter yet who got his limit of 18 birds on opening day, but I haven't talked to many hunters. It is safe to predict that by the time the second segment of a split season ends next January 15, about 3,000,000 doves will have been bagged. And about 7,000,000 shells will have been exploded in the effort.

Aycock Brown, the Voice of Dare, reports that over 1,000 billfish, mostly white marlin, have been taken off the east coast of North Carolina. Thus far there have been no reports from the Morehead City, Wilmington, Southport section, but plenty of boats from this area bring in billfish.

Brown also reports channel bass showing up in the surf and at ocean piers. These big game fish will provide excellent sport until well into October, perhaps into November. Those taken thus far have been in the 40-50 pound class.

A news release from the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission describes how alligators acquired their name. It seems early Spanish explorers took them to be outsize lizards, and called them "el Largarto," the lizard. Pronounce that a few times, and you will see how it has come to be pronounced and spelled "alligator."

According to the Florida report, 'gators closely resemble their ancestors of some 30 million years ago, and have changed very little over the years. These big reptiles are now protected by law in all of the states in which they occur, from North Carolina to south Texas. Most states have so few 'gators that poachers don't bother them very much. Florida probably has more 'gators than the rest of the states combined, and still has a serious problem with poachers.

China is the only other country in the world where alligators are found, but according to an Audubon Society report leather salesmen would have you believe the skins they sell to leather goods makers come from Europe, Siberia, Africa, and Australia.

As long as shoes, belts, purses, and handbags made of genuine alligator leather are status symbols, alligators will be in danger of extinction. It is against federal law to wear or even possess a hat with genuine egret feathers. This law saved egrets from extinction. One wonders if a similar law would do the same for alligators.

A Big Catch

Bill Stokes of Ayden, landed the largest tarpon of the season from an ocean pierat Topsail Island. He used a five-inch spot for bait on a float rig. His equipment was a 6/0 Penn reel with 40 pound test line. He beached the catch only 200 yards from the pier. It took an hour and a half to land the tarpon that weighed 135 pounds and was six feet, 5½ inches long.

Kings Show Up Over Labor Day

With the black sea bass and the big, hard-fighting amberjacks getting most of the fishing news these past few months, the popular, September king mackerel showed up on Labor Day, to excite anglers and crew members alike. Boat captains followed their past experience memories, and headed for the Atlas, a wreck on the eastern side of Cape Lookout. After putting out spoons, feathers, and squid strips, the kings started hitting the lines and boats had catches like 37 kings, plus albacore on board Capt. Wallace Guthrie's Dolphin VI, for fishing party Gary Long, Summerville, N. C.

Mr. Cecil Tester, Lexington, N. C. fishing on board Capt. Jack Lewis' Dolphin 7, brought aboard 38 king mackerel, plus 14 hard-pulling albacore. On board Capt. Bud Harris' Offshore III, 40 kings were taken by his fishing group.

Sunday, there was no end to the black sea bass fishing parties! There were bass everywhere in the ocean, and all parties had excellent hauls. The head boats had fine bottom fishing over the week-end, with trigger fish scattered throughout the catches. Also in some of the bottom catches, red snappers were mixed in for exciting fishing. Ofishore bottom fishing parties brought home snappers and silver porgies, plus groupers.

The fishing piers had a good run of spots over the week-end, and the piers were so full of people that many buckets, fish tubs, and coolers were full of the tasty spots. In Bogue Sound, some lucky anglers found a trout hole, and others settled for croakers and hog fish.

Menke's Shot Nips Giants, Perry, 2-0

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

With one shot Denis Menke sank the San Francisco Giants and almost sent his Houston Astros' teammate Larry Dierker soaring through the roof.

Menke's two-run home run in the ninth inning stopped the Giants and Gaylord Perry 2-0 Friday night, while the roof in the Astros' dugout stopped Dierker.

In other National League games, Los Angeles and Cincinnati remained 1½ games behind the Giants in the West Division. The Dodgers lost 4-1 at San Diego while Cincinnati dropped an 11-2 decision to Atlanta. The Braves are two games behind, while Houston is fifth, 4½ games back.

In the East, the New York Mets split a doubleheader with Philadelphia, winning the first 5-1, then losing 4-2 to move to within 4½ games of Chicago, which lost to Pittsburgh in the only afternoon contest, 9-2. St. Louis nipped Montreal 1-0 in the other NL game.

Menke slammed his ninth homer after a one-out single by Doug Rader. The clout ended the Giants' winning string at three and sent Perry to his 12th defeat. He has won 16.

"He (Perry) made a bad pitch," Menke said. It was a fastball, belt high and on the inside. I was just trying to pull it. I just wanted a base hit but I got it up in hte air. I hit it good."

Dierker, who won his 18th game, cracked his head pretty good, too.

"I was so excited when Denis hit the ball," the fireballing right-hander said, "I jumped up and hit my head on the dugout roof."

Joe Niekro scattered 10 hits and Nate Colbert hit his 18th homer of the year, a two-run blast, as the Padres whipped the Dodgers for the second straight night.

Willie Davis, whose consecutive game hitting streak was stopped at 31 by the Padres Thursday, got four straight hits and scored the lone Dodger run on a single by Bill Sudakis.

Atlanta's knuckleballer Phil Niekro limited the Reds to one hit—Tony Perez' two-run homer in the first inning—in gaining his 19th victory. Niekro, who has lost 12, faced only 30 batters. He walked one and struck out 10. He retired 21 in a row before Woody Woodward reached on an error in the eighth. Niekro got all the support he needed from Hank Aaron, who slammed his 38th homer, and Clete Boyer, who rapped his 13th, each two-run belts.

Tom Seaver became the first 20-game winner in the history of the Mets in pitching New York to the first game triumph. Seaver, 20-7, also became the NL's first 20-game winner. Jerry Grote had a two-run homer for the Mets.

Rick Wise, 12-11, stopped the Mets in the second game, scattering eight hits and striking out 11 as Johnny Callison led the Phils attack with a single, double and sacrifice fly. Jim McAndrew, 6-6, took the loss.

Pirates hurler Steve Blass stroked four hits, including a three-run homer, and yielded just four hits—all to Billy Williams—as Pittsburgh won its first game at Wrigley Field after 13 straight losses dating back to July 5, 1968.

Williams knocked in both Cubs runs with solo homers and the Pirates sewed it up with a five-run third inning, featured by Blass' homer off loser Ken Holtzman, 16-9. Manny Sanguillen added a two-run homer for the Pirates.

Nelson Briles fired a three-hitter and the Cardinals got an unearned eighth inning run to defeat the Expos.

The St. Louis run came in when Mike Shannon walked and came around to score when Expos' first baseman Ron Fairly threw wild to second on Julian Javier's sacrifice bunt. Briles, 14-12, helped the Expos move to their sixth straight loss and 13th in 14 games.

Oakland Rallies To Nip Minnesota, 5-4

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland Athletics have used Minnesota pitcher Ron Perranoski's glove to show the Twins they aren't going to hand them the pennant in the American League West.

The A's were trailing the first-place Twins 4-2 after seven innings Friday night and were in danger of dropping 8½ games off the pace.

Then Oakland rallied for two runs in the eighth and had men on first and third and two out. Bert Campaneris then slauhed a Perranoski pitch on the ground near the mound. The pitcher got his glove on it but couldn't handle it, and it went for a game-winning single in the 5-4 triumph.

Baltimore bounced Detroit 8-4, Boston outlasted Washington 9-8, Cleveland edged New York 2-1 before the Yankees came back to win 2-0, California topped the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Seattle downed Kansas City 5-4 in other AL games.

In the National League, Pittsburgh trounced the Chicago Cubs 9-2, Atlanta walloped Cincinnati 11-2, Houston shaded San Francisco 2-0, San Diego upended Los Angeles 4-1, St. Louis nipped Montreal 1-0 and the New York Mets beat Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 before bowing to the Phillies 4-2.

Oakland built an early 2-0 lead when Cater singled home Dick Green, who had doubled, and Tito Francona homered. Then the Twins, who won the opener of the four-game series Thursday in their bid to put their lead out of the A's reach, came back to take a 4-2 lead.

After Minnesota got an unearned run in the fifth, Tony Oliva tied it with his 19th homer to lead off the sixth. Before the inning was over the Twins had scored two more, on John Roseboro's RBI single and Leo Cardenas' sacrifice fly.

In their eighth-inning bid to stay in the race, the A's got their leadoff man on when Sal Bando was hit by a Dean Chance pitch. Perranoski then relieved and walked Francona. A throwing error by shortstop Cardenas after a force at second brought in the first run, and the A's tied it on Tom Reynolds' pinch single. Cardenas then won it.

Dave Johnson batted in five runs with a pair of doubles and Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer, his 31st, for Baltimore, the runaway East Division leader, as Mike Cuellar survived a shaky start to notch his 20th victory against 10 defeats. Don Wert belted a three-run homer and Al Kaline a solo shot for Detroit.

Boston fought back from a 7-0 deficit to go ahead 8-7 on Rico Petrocelli's 35th homer with two on in the seventh, then won it with an error and three walks, the last one forcing in a run after Washington had tied it in the top of the ninth.

Dick Bosman, who had won five straight, limited Boston to two hits for four innings before the Red Sox started their comeback with four runs in the fifth, two on Carl Yastrzemski's double.

In the first game at Cleveland, the Indians' Sam McDowell, 16-12, outdueled New York's Mel Stottlemyre, 18-1, with Jose Cardenal's bounce single in the ninth producing the winning run.

In the nightcap, the Yankees' Frank Fernandez, who drove in the only New York run in the opener, hit a seventh-inning homer and it was all Fritz Peterson, 15-13, needed as he fired a two-hitter. The Yanks added an insurance run in the eight.

California got by Chicago on Jay Johnstone's two-run homer and an RBI single by Bill Voss.

Danny Walton and Greg Goossen hit consecutive homers in the third, and then with Seattle trailing 4-3 in the eighth, Walton tied the game with a sacrifice fly and Goossen won it with a run-scoring single.

The Least Of All Seeds Becometh A Tree

WESLEY MEMORIAL CHAPEL . . . A neat, white painted little church, for which the circuit is named.

By LES GARNER
Reflector Staff Writer

"Another parable he spake unto them, saying, The kingdom of God is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed into his field.

Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge thereof." Matthew 13:-31-32.

Fresh from seminary, the Rev. Key W. Taylor came to the Walstonburg circuit of the Methodist Church in 1940. He found in Bell Arthur, one of the churches under his charge, a frame one-room church housing a 12-member Sunday School.

With their new pastor, though, the 12 members worked together and Bell Arthur grew into Bethlehem Church and "mothered" two new churches, Wesley and Monk Memorial Methodist Churches.

In 1951, Taylor, a minister who has devoted his life to the rural ministry, was appointed to a circuit in Moore County. Since then, the three churches centered around Bell Arthur have become the Wesley Memorial Circuit, a charge supporting its own minister.

This June, Taylor was reassigned to Bell Arthur as that Wesley Memorial pastor, and he still remembers the struggle and early existance of three country churches in the early 1940's.

"I preached my first sermon in that Bell Arthur church," he recalled, "It was a small Sunday School then, held together by the superintendent. She was sort of a mother hen, but if not for her, the church would have died."

In addition to his first sermon, Taylor preached a revival at Bell Arthur during his first week on the circuit, and concluded that week by taking his first two members into the church.

"Every night I had given the altar call after the sermon," Taylor said, "and on Friday night a young boy and his sister came up the aisle to join the church. But when I looked, there was no water to baptise them."

Calmly desperate, Taylor surveyed his congregation until he spied the Christian minister's son, and he sent him to the Christian parsonage for a pan of "holy water."

"He sloshed about half of the water on himself on the way to the church," Taylor remembered," but he finally got there and I took in my first two members."

The Bell Arthur congregation soon found their young pastor as forceful as he was resourceful.

I have always been an emphatic preacher," Taylor insists," pounding away at the pulpit and raising my voice. One day, about half the congregation was asleep, add when I pounded on the corner of the pulpit, it broke off."

The circuit minister was not too upset, he remembers. "It woke all the sleeping members up."

After seven years, Bell Arthur and its Rev. Taylor experienced a strange "renaissance."

"I don't know what it is exactly," Taylor said, "but there is something remarkably fertile about his church. In 1947 it had a resurrection.

"First there was the element of Providence and then there was human instrumentation contributing to the rebirth."

The instrumentation came first through Woman's Society of Christian Service Deaconness Stella Roebuck. Living in Farmville, the deaconness visited homes and prepared the way for the Bell Arthur visiting members.

"At that time," Taylor explained, "the population around here was about 70 per cent tobacco tenants, and there were oceans of people and oceans of kids. Stella Roebuck visited house to house and paved the way for our members.

Later, for five nights, ten teams of two visited the tenants, urging them to join the church.

Taylor was amazed with the results, "I've never seen anything like it. The church was crammed full. Attendance jumped from less than 20 to 120."

New members meant new problems for the young Rev. Taylor.

"Everyone of them wanted to be immersed. So we'd all go down to the Tar River (except for one batch I did in a mill pond). We used to change clothes in a Sunday School Room in Grimesland.

"One thing I couldn't quite understand though was that the choir would always sing 'Shall' We Gather By the River' which doesn't have a thing to do with baptism.

Aided by one of his members, "a good strong boy," Taylor immersed his members two at the time, carefully guarding against slipping down on the slick river bottom.

"My only problem was one man, about six feet six inches tall with hair like shocks of wheat. I had to put him under three times to get him good."

As the church membership increased, the Sunday School outgrew the frame church building, and the Bell Arthur Congregation met the space demands with military surplus.

"We bought our old fellowship building for $101 at Bogue Field," Taylor recalled.

"We had to get up before dawn and go to Jacksonville. Local labor, some members and some not, built fires to fight the December cold and took the building apart and brought it back to Bell Arthur."

"That same labor rebuilt the Bogue building and created a fellowship hall and a kitchen. Still in use, the building should be brick veneered in the near future.

Besides growing itself, the Bell Arthur church, in its "renaissance" mothered two new churches, Wesley and Monk, both opened in 1947.

At the opening of Wesley church, smallest of the three, Taylor preached that it was for "good, God and the future." But Wesley had a heritage, too.

In the early forties, Taylor discovered an "inactive pocket" of Bell Arthur members and started a Sunday School that eventually became Wesley.

"At first the Sunday School met in a tenant house, empty because of the war," Taylor said.

Then the Bell Arthur congregation had its "renaissance" and helped the Wesley members build their church.

"Wesley was built when there was no lumber or nails for sale," Taylor remembers, "so we bought the Bethlelem church building in Sims. It had been vacant for 14 years."

"We drove every nail out of each board when we brought the lumber back, but we did not have enough nails. We had used everything from Sims."

So the building stopped until Taylor preached a revival in Roanoke Rapids at a church pastored by the Rev. Willis Stevens, now Greenville District Superintendent.

"During the revival, I told the congregation that we had no nails for Wesley. After one service, a groceryman whispered to me that he had some hidden in his store and that we could have them if we wanted.

"Afterwards, he took me to the store and he dug under piles of groceries to uncover some black-market nails. I put those nails in the back of my car, drove them back to Wesley and we put the building up."

Standing in the yard of the church built with black market nails is a bell once used to announce a warm Farmville Methodist Church.

"Every Sunday morning, tobacconist A. C. Monk Sr., when he was just a poor boy, would go to the church and light the stove. Then he would ring the bell."

Since then, the bell had been passed through farms until it eventually reached a packhouse in Tarboro. The Rev. Taylor found it there and brought it back to the Wesley yard.

Every summer on the Walstonburg circuit, the Rev. Taylor handpicked four students in the Duke Divinity School to help him manage a summer youth program.

One summer, help included Yale student, former assistnat pastor at Jarvis Memorial Church in Greenville and now pastor of University Methodist in Chapel Hill, the Rev. Langill Watson.

"Langill decided he would build a fireplace out here," said Taylor, "and so he did one times while I was out of town.

"Well, looking at it, anyone can see that it's not lumb, so when I got back, I asked Langill why his bricks weren't straight. All he said was, "It was hot, Rev. Taylor, real hot!"

Also a Sunday School for inactive Bell Arthur members, Monk Memorial was opened as the second of the Bell Arthur children" in 1947.

"The Sunday School had met in a home demonstration cottage," Taylor recalled.

"One day I was rushing into Kemp's Barber Shop in Farmville. I'm one of those people who thoughtlessly rush through a door without stopping to see who's on the other side.

"That time, A. C. Monk Sr. was on the other side with his hand on the doorknob. I had the momentum and he didn't so we ran into each other nose to nose.

"I was embarrassed but he wasn't. He just asked me how much money I wanted for that new Sunday School I had started. He ended up giving us over $10,000. It was the easiest money I ever got."

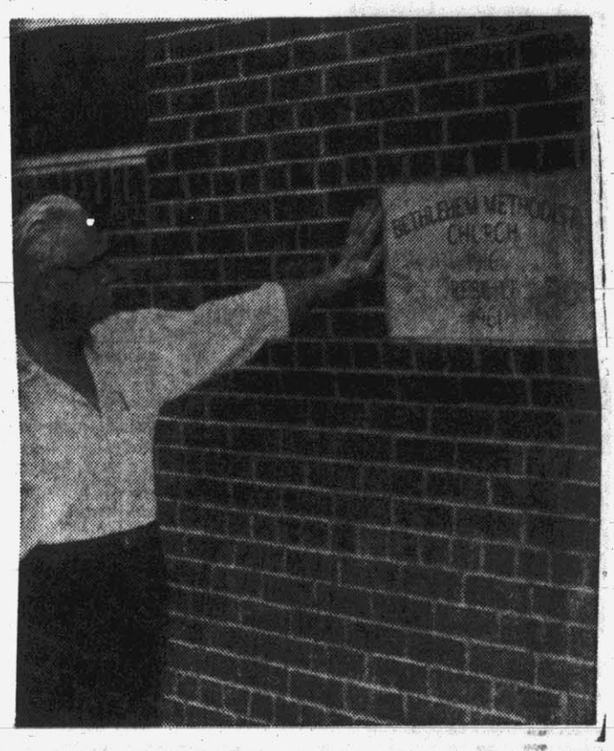

Monk began his donation to Lang's Chapel, the church that would eventually bear his name, with land on which to build the new building.

The Farmville tobacconist then bought for the congregation the Chapel at Camp McCall near Lauringburg, and for a third time, members traveled away, took a church apart and brought it back to Pitt County and rebuild it.

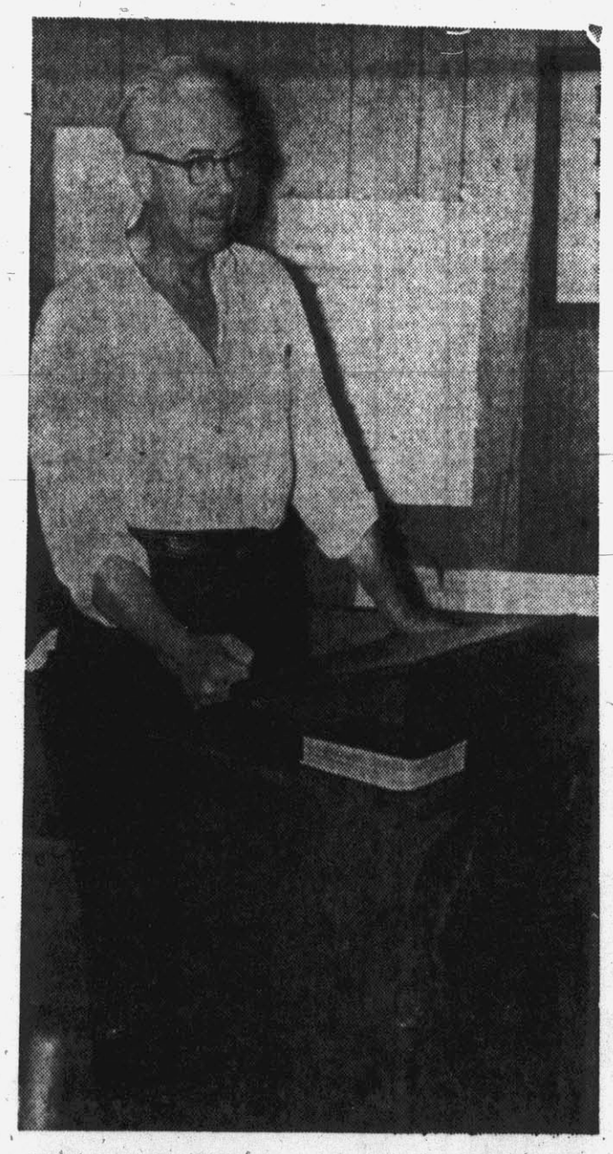

Later, the members changed the name Lang's Chapel to Monk Methodist Church, and when Monk died, Monk Memorial.

"I do not think they could have named it more appropriately," Taylor commented.

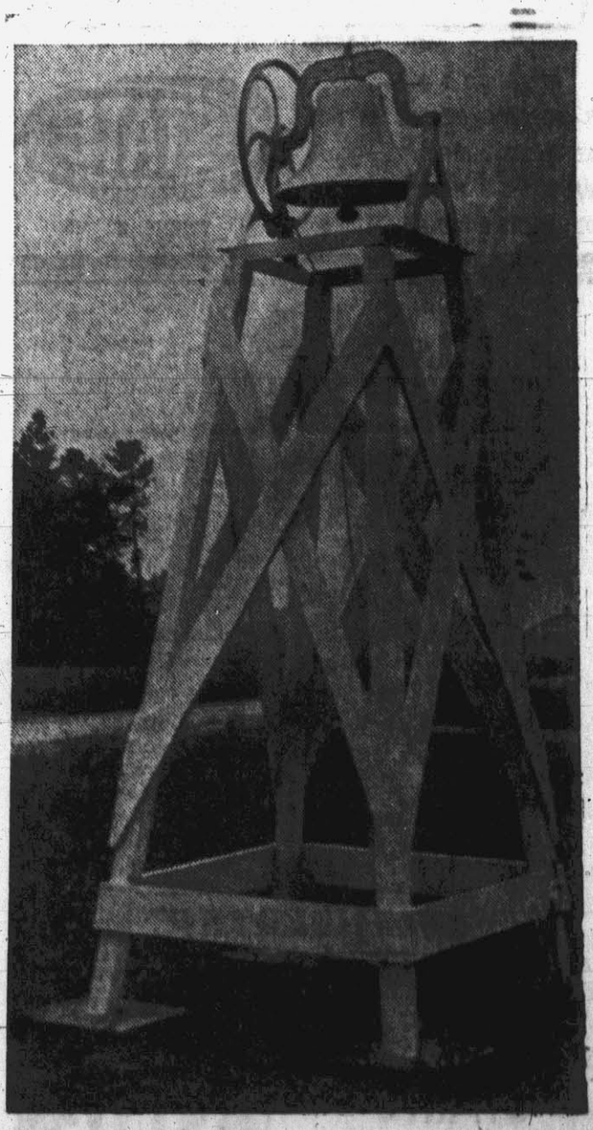

With the completion of the Monk construction and the maturing of the two Bell Arthur offspring, Wesley and Monk, aylor reminisced, "I don't know of anything like Bell Arthur in the N. C. Conference. I would describe it as an acorn producing an oak tree, the small Sunday School giving rise to the strong three-point charge."

IMPORTANT DATES . . . in the history of Bethlehem are noted on the plaque. Rev. Taylor explains the work accomplished on each date.

REV. KEY W. TAYLOR . . . poses behind the pulpit in Wesley Memorial Methodist Church.

BETHLEHEM CHURCH . . . grew from a one-room frame church into this brick edifice which "mothers" two other churches.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The CBS network has a new one-year contract to broadcast a National Hockey League game once a week. The first of 13 Sunday afternoon telecasts will be early in January.

The first of the new Jackie Gleason programs on CBS, a one-hour musical "Honeymooners" show, will hit the air Sept. 27. With Art Carney, Sheila MacRae and Jane Kean, as uusual.

"Peanuts" comic strip kids (and dog) will be pleased to know that CBS has a new half-hour cartoon special for Sept. 27 entitled "It Was a Short Summer, Charlie Brown." It's the sixth of a series. Charlie, on the first day of school, has to write a theme about what he did during his vacation.

Broadway star Anne Bancroft will play a variety of roles in a one-hour NBC special during the new season. She will run the gamut of types of women in a man's life in sketches and musical numbers. She will work with seven male players.

Two important Broadway players have joined television serials. Irene Dailey is with "Edge of Night" for CBS, and Hugh Marlowe has a continuing role in NBC's "Another World."

ABC has renewed its late-night "Joey Bishop Show" through January, 1971.

The Jefferson Airplane Flies At Top Of The Heap

NEW YORK (UPI)—Grace Slick, a songstress-navigator for the Jefferson Airplane, was talking about what it's like to really be on top.

"We're kind of dopey," she said. "We just reocrd songs and RCA decides what will sell."

It had been a frantic two days for the group. They had opened at Manhattan's Fillmore East the night before, playing until about 5 a.m., and the following afternoon, after two more sets at the Fillmore, there was a free concert in Central Park.

But despite the pressures and the excitement, it was quite evident that success has not spoiled the Jefferson Airplane. Collectively, the group still exudes that sort of San Francisco hippie nonchalance that says, "I'll just do what I want and if you like it, groovy."

The Airplane's reputation, Grace said, "doesn't really apply to us. Reputation depends entirely on who said what about you. It's really all a critics' thing...the people who write about rock.

"Critics are the people who go out and find people for people to like."

But Grace Slick's apparent disinterest with the critics did have its one telling flaw. She had a gripe: "I think a lot of the critics are wrong; they think they're judges."

But the little swipe was the only chink in an otherwise unbridled series of reflections on the current place of the Jefferson Airplane. What now? Would the Airplane make concessions — watering down content or music for the sake of dollars:

"I don't know enough about music to make concessions like that," Grace said. "We do what we do because we like it."

Her comment spurred Paul Kantner, guitarist and back-up vocalist, to add that the Airplane does what it does "not because of what that sound will do to the audience but because of what it will do—period."

If the audience gets going, then we get going."

The Airplane, according to Grace, who is the daughter of an investment broker, tends to view commercial success from a distance with a considerable degree of disinterest.

"I get no more involved in it (business activities) than I do when I read something in the newspaper," she said. "So far as getting ulcers goes, how we're doing in record sales or something like that is about as important to me as a toothbrush."

But being on top is fun for the Jefferson Airplane, even if they won't sign an affidavit to that effect.

"Being on top so to speak is a combinatin of so many things," Grace said. "Generally speaking the amount of force (reaction) you receive corresponds directly with the amount of force you put out.

"Sometimes it's not all of us that make it at the beginning of a show, but we get together and do somehing to one another."

Groove Together

The Airplane usually gets together pretty well.

"We've got to groove together, that's all," Kantner said, "other than that I don't know what it is that gets us there."

If the "grooving" ever stopped, so would the Airplane, Grace was sure.

"To make it, you've got to play a lot," she said. "But that's great with us because when you love something you do it."

BOOK NEWS

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By MARGARET CLARK

Evan Hunter's new novel, "Sons," a companion volume to "Mothers and Daughters," is the story of three generations of Tyler men who came to maturity in time for three very different wars, WW I, WW II, and the war in Vietnam. The novel deals with family lives of the Tylers the difference in their reaction to war, and especially Wat Tyler's reluctance to serve in Vietnam. It is a dramatic story about loving, hating, struggling, and dying; in short about the endless fascinating adventures of life.

Haus Kirst, the widely acclaimed author of "The Wolves" and "The Night of the Generals," has repeatedly shown himself to be a powerful and satirical novelist. His new work, "Last Stop Camp 7," pits two German-born prison camp leaders against each other. Captain Keller is eager to supply war criminals and ready to stretch justice a little to get them. But Ted Harte, German-Jewish, with more reason to hate their 4000 prisoners, has seen enough of injustice in his time to insist upon careful and impartial examination of all the evidence.

"The Shadowboxer" by Noel Behn is a new novel of suspense and intrigue by the author of "The Kremlin Letter." Set in Europe in 1944, it tells the story of Erik Spangler, who smuggles prisoners out of concentration camps and manages to elude every trap. While Spangler strives to outwit the Germans and preserve his independence from the Allies, the Nazis seek to identify and iliminate him, and the Americans attempt to find him and make him their agent in the biggest conspirace of the war.

Among the general books, "The Grim Reapers" by Ed Reid should be especially interesting to readers of "The Valachi Papers." It is an expose of the crime syndicates that thrive in our great cities and especially in Las Vagas. The Mafia, the syndicate, the mob — whatever it is called — is, the author shows, poisoning American society and life. Its interests range from deposit boxes in Switzerland to dope running from Communist countries, from laundromats to politicans, from murder to extortion. As Ed Reid uncovers the extent and power of the seemingly omnipotent syndicate, one is confronted with a picture of exploitation, horror, crime, insidious encroachment on the "ordinary" man that is truly staggering.

Written as much for today's parents as for their children. "The Rrug Scene" by Donald B. Louria, M. D. details the effects that the various amphetamines, barbiturates and hallucinogens have on the nervous system. If you have wondered about drugs, this is the reference book you've needed. It not only dispels myths but states facts as well. The book is for anyone who wants to know, or who can stand to face the truth about our latest and most lethal form of kicks.

Reviews And Reflections

ALBERT PERTALION

Norman Mailer has done it again. After two excellent books based on his new personalized journalism (one earned him the Pulitzer Prize) he begins what will surely become another hard-bound best seller in this week's (August 29, 1969) issue of Life magazine.

The editors commissioned Mailer to cover the moon landing and cover it he did. Everything about the launching of Apollo II that Mailer came in contact with is covered. He claims to have excluded himself from this work, but he didn't. Rather, he renamed himself Aquarius and puts his stamp on everything. He even comments on the smells and lack of smells associated with the Manned Space Center at Houston.

Mailer, i.e. Aquarius, writes about vanBraun and Nazism, the special language of scientists, the inter- changeable quality of the astronauts, the area around Houston which houses the Manned Space Center, the land around Cape, Kennedy, the new American trend toward camping and living on the highway, the show business quality of the launching; the industrial-military complex, rednecks and grits, and men-defying vending machines which turn out cold chili burgers. Any and everything is grist for the Mailer mill.

But let me say what I've said before. This man Mailer is a born writer. More verbose than Thomas Wolfe, his writing is nontheless rich. Reading the first installment (the second will appear in six weeks) about the moon landing is like eating three orders of Oysters Rockefeller back to back. Your system recoils from so heady a diet, but it's so delicious you can't stop eating or reading.

And the rhythm of Mailer's prose is naturally correct for the subject matter. During a section where he writes about the inability of a soft- drink machine to serve a line of hot reporters, you can feel the ir- your ire, and the whole impatient wait for something to drink makes you furious at vending machine builders everywhere.

He claims, too, to have left his ego at home, but of course that's ridiculous. He wears it constantly like a leper's bell. It's tinkle is background music for every line he writes, warning and fascinating the reader at the same time.

For 40 cents, the price of Life, you can pick up what might be the best coverage of the ApolloII-Saturn V moon landing yet written. Certainly Mailer's version is the most interesting.

While I'm talking about bargins in literature, let me mention this: John Updike has a new novelette in the current issue of Playboy. It isn't the bargin that the Mailer piece is since Playboy costs an even buck, but it's fairly good Updike.

One last thing before I go. In answer to several questions about when I'll review Jacqueline Susann's new novel, The Love Machine.

The answer is never.

Greenville Art Season Opens

OLD HOUSE . . . brown ink pen drawing.

TOBACCO BARNS . . . black and white drawing.

Greenville's 1969-70 art season is being ushered in this week. The show having the honor of being the first in the new art year is as gentle as an Indian summer day. In fact, it is one rich with the colors of late summer.

Elizabeth (Betsy) Ross is showing a collection of 15 oils and drawings at the Baptist Student Center beginning Tuesday. Miss Ross presents familiar scenes of the area — an abandoned sawmill; an old large rambling Victorian house, exjuisitely drawn in brown ink; a couple of paintings picturing manufacturing scenes in the town of Bethel; several studies of tobacco barns, ranging from a small half-finished sketch to finished paintings; and one flower subject, in which thick whites offset a riot of orange, yellow and red.

Miss Ross states that landscape and the figure are of particular inferest to her, and that her emphasis is on the realistic image. In this show, the landscape dominates — only two of the works in the show deal with the figure — a fine black and white drawing of a teenage girl, and an artist's proof of an intaglio print showing a seated boy.

Her colors sing out, rich and vibrant. Miss Ross tends to favor grays, deeper blues, mirably suited to her subject matter. There is a rich glow in these paintings — an copper browns, greens and whites. These colors are adalmost impressionistic handling of paint.

A native of Edenton, Miss Ross is a faculty member at the School of Art of East Carolina University, where she teaches painting and drawing. She is also a graduate of ECU, having received both her B.S. and M.A. degrees there. Recent exhibitions of her work have included ones at the Greenville Art Center, at ECU, Mount Olive College and in Edenton.

The show, on the ground floor of the Baptist Student Center building at 511 East Tenth Street, can be viewed by the public daily from about 9:00 a.m. until about 10:00 p.m.

The Greenville Art Center will officially reopen next Sunday, with a show scheduled to come in from New York.

At ECU, the new season's first show will be at Rawl Hall about the middle of the month.

A new show will be installed within a few days at the Mushroom Gallery. — Jerry Raynor

Quite often, on a doctor's prescription, we dispense one of the many tranquilizing drugs that we regularly stock. Physicians prescribe these special medicines sometimes when their patients are overly nervous or agitated.

For simple, everyday tensions and nerves such as those caused by housework, growing children or business demands of earning a living, there is another prescription — and it costs absolutely nothing. A few kind words at the right time will go a long way. Try this free prescription today and you will feel better also.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Dear Music Lover,

I am extremely gratified by the public response to TAPE TOWN and Harmony House South. Harmony House South is ten months old, TAPE TOWN is five months old; and already we are moving to a new, spacious store in downtown Greenville located on the corner of Fourth and Evans Streets.

Again, thanks to you, we have become one of the major dealers in the entire state for SONY, KLH, AUTOMATIC RADIO, and several other well known brands of quality home and car stereo.

We now have a staff of six associated with us. Myself; Mr. Eddie Jenkins, manager of the TAPE TOWN division; Mr. James McCracken, assistant manager of Harmony House South; Mr. Carl Evans, electronic repair and service; Mr. John Montgomery, television installation and repair; Mr. Ronnie Daniel, automobile tape and radio installation.

We are also adding several beautiful new lines, cassette tapes, and stereo LP records.

Let me say a word about pricing. From time ti time customers report to us that they can purchase, locally and through discount houses, merchandise at so called "wholesale prices". I am familiar with pricing structures for most of the hi-fi stereo equipment sold in this country. Some lines carry as many as four different prices, and what is represented as wholesale is, in many instances, an attempt to lead the customer to think he is buying at wholesale; when in reality he is buying at retail price.

In addition to this, the service which goes with wholesale prices does not, as a general rule, include considerations such as repair, trade-in, and home installation and service.

National statistics show that the trend in home music is to stereo components. I hope that you will join the rapidly growing number of people in Greenville and the surrounding area who are buying beautiful sound, handsome appearance, and pratical value in home entertainment from Harmony House South and from TAPE TOWN.

You will find ample parking behind our new store. Also we still maintain facilities for installing car tape players.

Sincerely,
And thank you again

Bronson Matney, Jr.

Bronson Matney, Jr.

P. S. Our new store will open tomorrow for your inspection and your shopping convenience.

Improved Service Is Sought By SDS

NEW YORK (AP) — Students for a Democratic Society has taken up the cause of the new York commuter with a campaign to get improved service on the Long Island and New Haven railroads with no increase in fare.

Members of the radical student organization have been handing out leaflets outlining its ideas for improvements. The leaflets also contain attacks on J. P. Morgan and Andrew Mellon, pioneer railroaders and financiers.

One SDS member explained: "We want to build an alliance of students with everyone else in the city, such as in this mass transit project. We think students can align with the rest of the population in important things. And we'd take money from capitalist sources and apply it to people's needs."

RIDING THE RAILS — AP cartoon by artist Jack Elcik shows member of Students for a Democratic society railing at the railroads. The radical group has found an issue it hopes may draw even conservative support: getting improved service without fare increase on the Long Island and New Haven Railroads. (A PWirephoto Cartoon)

Rising Prices Keep Hitting Income Hard

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising prices continue to bite deeper into the incomes of inflation-harassed Americans.

Consumer demand has persisted despite government efforts to reduce the amount of available spending money through monetary and fiscal restraints. Manufacturers say rising labor and raw materials costs make price boosts necessary if they are to meet the demand and operate profitably.

The prices spread to copper, zinc, automobiles, air conditioners, refrigerators, packaging materials and other items this past week.

The price of copper—which is used in innumerable consumer products ranging from toasters to air conditioners—was boosted to a record 52 cents a pound from 48 cents by major producers. It was the fourth increase this year.

Trane Co. of La Crosse, Wis., a major manufacturer, immediately announced an increase of 4 to 5 per cent for its air-conditioning and refrigeration products. General Electric Co. of Syracuse, N.Y., said it would raise prices on refrigerators, washers, dryers and freezers.

Prices went up on zinc, too, but there was a division among producers on how much it should be. Some companies hiked the price ½ cent a pound to 15 cents and others went up one cent to 15 cents in the third raise this year.

In the automotive field, American Motors Corp. announced a tentative increase of about $75 in the prices of its 1970 car line. The company said the boost averaged about 2½ per cent over the 1969 manufacturer's suggested retail price.

Earlier, Chrysler Corp. had made a tentative boost of about $75. Ford Motor Co. dealers reported their preliminary suggested prices are up $100 to $200. General Motors Corp. will announce its prices before its 1970 models go on sale Sept. 18.

Reynolds Metals Co. raised its prices on a wide range of flexible packaging materials by an average of 5 per cent.

Other price increases included developing color slide and motion picture film by GAF Corp., pools, purifying drinking water process paper by Weyerhaeuser for decontaminating swimming pools, purifying drinking water and industrial processes by Olin Corp.

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission reported this past week that businesses are trimming their original plans for investment in new plants and equipment. Their survey indicated the companies now project an increase of 10.6 per cent this year over 1968. This compares with projections of increases of 12.6 per cent three months ago and 13.9 per cent at the beginning of the year. Even so, the current estimated increase would be substantially larger than 1968's gain of 3.9 per cent over 1967.

Other new statistics reflecting the state of the economy included:

—Consumer installment credit rose by $622 million in July in the most moderate advance since March 1968. Increases in outstanding debt of this type had been $795 million in June and $857 million in July 1968.

—Spending for construction dipped further in July, dropping 1 per cent to an annual rate of $90.1 billion from $90.9 billion in June but topped the $81.7 billion level of a year earlier.

—New orders for manufactured products rose 2.3 per cent in July to $55.1 billion from $53.9 billion in June, reversing a two-month decline. The boost was attributed mainly to an increase in orders for defense products.

Automobile manufacturers stepped up their production rate this past week in order to build up inventories of 1970 models. Output was estimated at 137,600 passenger cars, but loss of one work day, Labor Day, caused it to fall below the 151,934 units assembled last week. Production a year earlier totaled 111,915 cars.

Sales of U.S.-made cars continued to slip in the final 10 days of August, with dealers delivering 199,875 cars, compared with 241,918 a year earlier.

Steel production last week amounted to 2,635,000 tons, up 2 per cent from 2,584,000 tons the previous week.

GM May Reduce Price On Some 1970 Cars

By LOWELL McKIRGAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — The general manager of General Motors' Oldsmobile division may have tipped his hand a bit on prices of some 1970 GM cars, a closely guarded secret with great significance for other auto makers.

John Beltz, in disclosing plans for an aggressive marketing campaign to boost the sales of Olds' Toronado to more than 30,000 units for 1970, compared with 28,000 for 1969, was asked whether the 1969 price would be held or decreased.

"Well, that's a good question," Beltz replied, quickly adding that he couldn't talk prices, a subject reserved for top GM brass.

Beltz left the impression, however, that he would very much like to talk prices. Presumably, the lower the prices, the more enjoyable would be the task of announcing them.

The possibility of Genecal Motors holding the line on car prices seems remote, but even low or moderate price hikes would be good news for GM and bad news for Chrysler and Ford, who must measure their competitive positions in terms of GM prices.

In October, GM, Ford and Chrysler hourly workers will receive a cost-of-living increase of eight cents an hour. In November the workers will receive a 3 per cent "annual improvement factor" which comes to more than 11 cents an hour figured against the average hourly straight-time wage paid to automakers, $3.83.

Also in October, the automakers will be paying for that portion of the workers' medical prescriptions which exceeds $2 per item.

Costs of raw materials, including steel and copper, also have gone up.

Chrysler has shipped some 1970 cars with tentative wholesale prices ranging from $75 to $125 for most models or $100 to $170 retail. Ford said its "advance billing prices" averaged $68 a car and went as high as $275 for a plush Mark III.

Both firms add these prices were simply bookkeeping functions and should not be considered an indication of final sticker price.

Adult Driver Training Class Begins Thursday

Pitt Technical Institute will offer an Adult Driver Training course for persons 18 years of age or older beginning Thursday at 7 p.m. at H. B. Sugg School, Farmville.

The course is composed of 36 hours of classroom work, a minimum of six hours behind-the-wheel driving, and 12 hours observation in a dual-controlled car. The class will meet Thursday nights from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock.

The driving part of the class will be scheduled during the afternoons and Saturday and each person can be picked up at his residence and returned after the driving period.

Interested persons should be present at the organizational meeting Thursday night.

Lawmakers Given Salary Increase

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan gave California legislators a $3,200-a-year pay raise Friday, signing into law a measure boosting lawmakers' salaries to $19,200 a year beginning in 1971.

He also signed a measure raising the governor's salary from $44,100-a-year to $49,100. But to get it, he'd have to be re-elected.

It, too, doesn't take effect until 1971. Reagan is expected to run for a second term in 1970.

Adult Tennis Instruction Set

The Recreation Department will begin Adult Tennis Instruction classes on Tuesday, September 9th.

These classes, under the instruction of Mr. Fulton Hardee, Thursdays from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. at the Elm Street Tennis Courts.

Interested adults are asked to bring their own tennis racket; balls will be furnished by the recreation department.

There is no charge for the above 12 week programs.

Officials Favor Private Plans

SHALLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Brunswick County commissioners have gone on record in favor of plans of Charles E. Fraser of Hilton Head, S. C., for developing Bald Head Island.

The plans, the commissioners said in a resolution, "would fully protect the natural beauty of the island, located in the mouth of the Cape Fear River near Southport in southeastern North Carolina.

In Fayetteville, State Sen. Hector McGeachy, D—Cumberland, Senate president pro tem, was critical of Fraser's request that the state provide an access road to the island.

"I am certain," he said, "there will be adverse reaction among the people and the members of the General Assembly if public money is used to build a highway to Bald Head Island for the benefit of a private developer."

THE FEAR OF FATNESS
New Teen-Age Danger—
Dieting to Death!

What I Would Tell
Today's College Students
By SLOAN WILSON

WONDERS FOR YOUR HOME
Appliances Step Up
To the Space Age

Ask Them Yourself

FOR JIM BISHOP,

author of "The Day Kennedy Was Shot"

Who paid for John F. Kennedy's casket?—D. L., Lancaster, Pa.

● It and ambulance service were bought from Oneal funeral service in Dallas. Vernan Oneal, senior member of the firm, told me he sent bills to the Kennedys for 14 months, then the Government paid $3,400 for it. The Government also paid for another casket—the one in which President Kennedy was interred.

FOR TOM JONES, singer

What do you think of men's fashions today? Do you like them?—Kathy Early, Brick, N.J.

● I really don't care too much for today's fashions. They're too far out. Today's accent on style is good, and it puts excitement into dressing. But it must be done with good taste and in moderation.

FOR BESS MYERSON GRANT,

Commissioner, New York City Consumer Affairs

What is the worst unfair practice in consumer affairs you have found to date?—A. S. Kravitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● Prime consumer difficulties arise from the sellers taking unfair advantage of the buyers' lack of expertise. Whether the seller induces the buyer to sign a blank sales contract on which an exorbitant price is later filled in, or whether the customer consumes a mixture of meat and soya bean believing it to be hamburger, the buyer will always be at the mercy of the seller. The answer: Wise up! Assert your rights!

FOR ROGER MARIS

When you hit 61 home runs in 1961, who was the pitcher who threw number 61 to you?—Rob Ridley, Casper, Wyo.

● Tracy Stallard of the Red Sox.

FOR BOB EUBANKS,

host of tv's "The Newlywed Game"

For prizes, do you choose certain gifts for each couple, or do you choose just one kind of gift for all of them?—Beverly Reynolds, Glendale, Calif.

● The grand prize is especially chosen for the winning couple. When the couples are interviewed prior to being chosen for appearance on the show, they are asked what they would like for a prize.

FOR SEN. EDMUND S. MUSKIE

of Maine

Are there any prospects in the near future of a Federal crash program to clean our waterways and to save our natural resources?—Larry Leach, Owensboro, Ky.

● The Water Quality Act of 1965 is basically responsible for cleaning up our nation's waters. But more adequate funds are needed to save our water resources. Appropriations have lagged far behind, and public pressure must be brought to bear for more adequate funding.

FOR PEGGY LIPTON,

"Julie" of Mod Squad

To settle an argument, is your hair as long as it appears on the show, or is it a wig?—Joi Spadafore, Pasco, Wash.

● It's my own hair.

FOR DR. GEORGE P. CRESSMAN,

How powerful is a recorded wind of 100 miles an hour?—Joe Jille, Burien, Wash.

● A 100-mph wind is 100 times as powerful as a 10 mph breeze. Disregarding tornadoes and hurricanes, 100-mph winds occasionally occur at the earth's surface under unique circumstances. They are powerful enough to cause considerable damage, ranging from roofs being blown off to buildings collapsing. Empty railroad cars have even been blown from their tracks.

FOR BOB HOPE

Are there any plans for another road picture with that crooner, what's his name? I hope so.—L. L. Johnson, Caldwell, Idaho

● There are no Crosby-Hope movies planned for the future.

FOR ELBERT L. LITTLE, JR.,

dendrologist

Why do most autumn leaves fall to the ground face down?—Mrs. Sarah E. Warren, Elkland, Pa.

● Leaves fall to the ground with upper and lower surfaces exposed in approximately equal numbers. This ratio may be confirmed by counting a sample of leaves in a small area. However, in certain tree species with upper and lower surfaces of contrasting colors, the showy surface might seem to be much more numerous.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Idol Golfer Arnold Palmer will be 40 on Wednesday. He was honored with a unique advance birthday present. Students in Prof. David L. Lewis' "entrepreneur in history" course at the University of Michigan cited Palmer as being one of the businessmen in whose footsteps they'd like to follow. As a result of his career, Palmer is identified with several businesses, some far removed from golf. "Name a better way to become a millionaire," said one admirer, "than by playing golf the world over and then selling the goods and services of one's trade."

Scholastic Windfall Social Security officials estimate that $490 million in benefits will be paid to 500,000 high-school, college, and other full-time students in the upcoming year. That is more money than is granted in scholarships at all American colleges ($415.5 million in private and Government grants). Who is eligible for this newest and fastest-growing benefit program? Any full-time, unmarried student, 18 through 21, who is a dependent or survivor of a parent eligible for Social Security. Check with your local office.

Clear Signals "Our greatest problem with our feelings comes in communication," declares Dr. Everett L. Shostrom in his book, "Man, the Manipulator." The error in communicating or sending out ideas is not asking for what we really want, hoping people will comply with our secret wish anyhow. The error in receiving ideas is pretending to ignore a message. For example, someone hurts us, and we don't say so but instead become unresponsive and crushed. "A healthy relationship," says Dr. Shostrom, "does not always have to be an agreeing relationship." Next time, say so.

Tall in the Classroom Did you ever wonder how telephone repairmen work atop those poles without getting dizzy? Some learn the skill at a pole-climbing school run by the General Telephone Company of California. During the five-day course, the aspiring linemen toss an ordinary basketball around from the 25-foot high poles. Those who miss must climb down and retrieve it. The students become so agile that their only occupational hazard is an occasional case of splinters.

Higher learning

Cry, baby, cry

See Baby Cry For about $8 a year, London's Royal Institute for the Deaf rents to deaf parents a transistorized amplifier with an ordinary light bulb instead of a loudspeaker. Mrs. Ruth Carstairs, mother of four-month-old David, became totally deaf during a sudden illness and was worried how she could look after him properly. "Since we got this electronic baby alarm," she says, "I can go about my work in the house with my mind at ease, knowing that as soon as David cries, the lamp will light. Even if he was right next to me, I could not hear him. Now I can see him cry, even when I'm in the next room."

What Should Parents Tell

College campuses are no longer secluded retreats for the wealthy, the goldfish-swallower has given way to the social-protester—and is

By SLOAN WILSON

■ Sloan Wilson's The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit is just one of this accomplished author's many novels which have headed best-seller lists over the years. His latest book is Away from It All. He also wrote the novel A Sense of Values. He has had a voice in education since 1949, when he served on the National Citizens Committee for Public Schools until 1953. He was assistant director of the White House Conference on Education for one year.

WHEN I FIRST left home for college some 30 years ago, my father said, "Son, you now have an opportunity to forget the present and study the past as prelude to the future." A few minutes later he added, "And please don't come home with a raccoon coat and a ukulele!"

Right now I have three children, a son-in-law, and two nephews enrolled in American universities, and I can't think of anything like that to say to any of them. I feel more like giving them the advice I got when I went to war: "The important thing is to learn how to stay alive and keep a good conscience, too."

As everyone knows, college campuses are no longer secluded retreats or playgrounds. Instead, they are battlefields, where scholars must ask themselves whether they are shirking their responsibilities if they refuse to take an active part in making the great political and moral decisions of the day.

I might as well admit right now that I can't mourn this. I've talked to a lot of college students lately whom I have met while lecturing. They are a new breed, and some of them are frightening.

But I prefer them to the members of my Harvard class who made headlines by swallowing live goldfish or the young of a later day who rioted only when they tried to steal underwear from the women's dormitories. What with football rah-rah, fraternity high-jinks, and the listless studying of dull, eminently forgettable courses, I don't think the colleges of the past can be treasured as an ideal worth recapturing.

Students today are more serious, and they should be, for they have greater problems than my generation. For one thing, the Depression instilled in us the need to earn money and security. A lot of today's youngsters have been brought up prosperously unhappy. They can't see the point of working hard to get a good job and a mortgaged house in the suburbs. That's what they're trying to escape.

Present-day colleges have lots of students from the slums, both black and white. In my day, the poor seldom went to college, and we rarely heard their complaints. Our era of prosperity is in some ways harder on slum children than the Depression was. It makes their poverty unique and more hopeless.

Most of the youngsters nowadays are also far more confused and angrier about war than my generation was. When the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor and when we understood what Hitler was doing to the Jews and other Europeans, my generation experienced the great joy of taking up a righteous cause that we knew we could win soon.

The war in Vietnam is, of course much harder to get enthusiastic about. Our youngsters hear some of their elders, both at home and abroad, protest that it is immoral and insane; others shout that we must win to protect the world against communism. And the history of the Vietnam war, which isn't even legally a war, is foggy and complex. But one thing is clear—any war, pushed to its ultimate conclusion, will blow up everybody. It's also clear that while the elderly argue about the war, the youngsters are forced to fight it, no matter what they believe, unless they can prove that they are conscientious objectors, a burden which the present laws make almost impossible.

Is it any wonder that the youngsters are angry and bewildered? But the great majority of them go calmly along taking the prescribed school courses, falling in love, and trying to make reasonably constructive plans for the future.

I do not think, however, that this great majority of quiet ones react the way their parents did. They couldn't, for the world has changed too much. They listen to the wild ones screaming of injustice and try to figure things out. In the quiet ones there is a constant struggle between their desire to lead productive, private lives and to make public protest against injustices.

There is not much doubt that many of the quiet, sensible students admire the wild ones. That is why the campus radicals are important nowadays far beyond their number, which is still small. The bearded, long-haired rebel screaming of the outrage of war when this country has not been attacked, poverty in the midst of prosperity, and racial prejudice in the midst of reforms is the big man on the campus these days. The football hero, fraternity president, or that quaint old-fashioned character—the man judged most likely to succeed—run poor seconds.

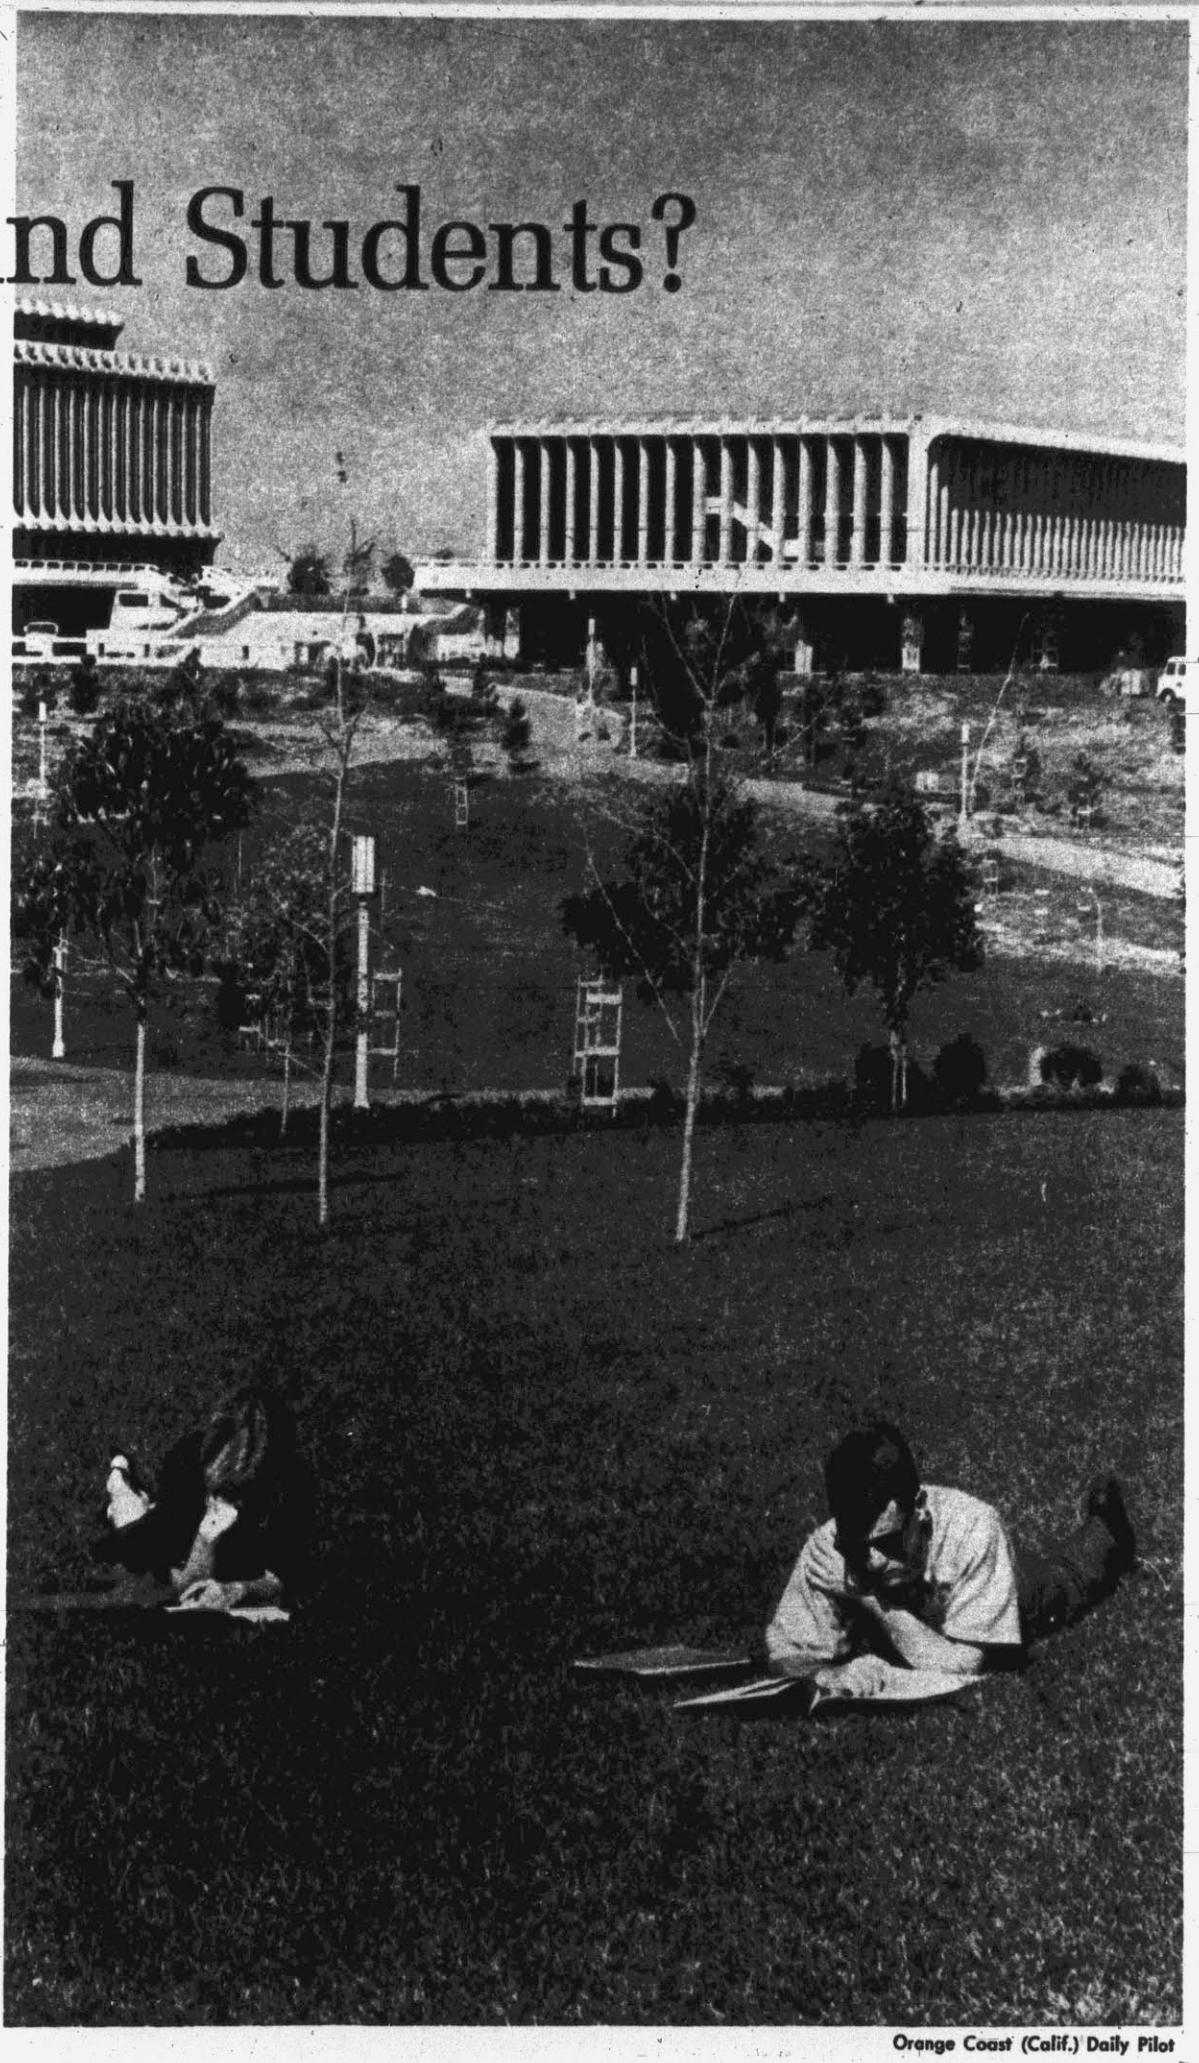

Our youngsters are not stupid! How could they be with us as their parents? They know that there are radicals of many kinds. Some are psychotics who at heart want to destroy everything; some are disciplined Communists. Others are simply using the great problems of the day as an excuse for stepping up the ancient struggle of the young against the old. There are also a good many genuine idealists who feel that the world is going mad and that it is the job of every sane man to work toward saving it.

The great majority of quiet students are listening carefully to the rebels, and when they are convinced that they are right on some particular cause, follow them. Youngsters today need a lot of strength to concern themselves with the great issues of the day and at the same time to work toward the high marks which good jobs and graduate schools universally require.

Students, who even in normal circumstances might have difficulty making the grades, are often bewildered and depressed by the demands made on their conscience and intelligence. But colleges emphasize the fact that they are supposed to be dealing with mature persons, not children. A large university is an especially impersonal place with few advisers who have the time to cater to a confused student and offer much encouragement. Colleges do not attempt to supervise the private lives of the youths who have come there for the sole purpose of improving their minds. What they do in their spare time is their own business.

Today's sudden freedom can be as frightening as it is heady to the youngsters who have been kept under tight reins by schools and parents. They find all the old basic assumptions being challenged. Why is it wrong for a young couple to live together without being married? Why is it wrong to smoke pot when so many of their friends do?

It is a rare and lucky parent who hears these questions asked at home. But they are there in the eyes of our children, and in one way or another they will find the answers, with or without our help.

College today can be so overwhelming that far more students drop out than in my day, despite the fact that it is harder than ever to get a good job without a degree, and despite the vulnerability to the draft that dropping out provokes. Faced with such circumstances, fond parents can't help but be worried about more than the soaring expense when they start their sons and daughters on the great adventure of getting a higher education. What do you say when you see the children off to college? What do you say to them, and what do you say to comfort yourself when you return to your suddenly quiet home?

Of course, the important thing for us elders to remember is the extraordinary fact that the great majority of the students are somehow coping very well with all the confusion on the campus. The youngsters are working hard to try to figure out answers to the great problems of the day which they did not create, and which all too many of their parents simply try to forget.

One way to keep in touch with youth is to show them that the old as well as the young care about the war in Vietnam, and the other great problems which concern them. The generation gap should not simply be between those who care and those who don't.

If students drop out, that should not be regarded as too great a tragedy, for many of them return to college and do better than ever, after a few months of work at dead-end jobs. The youngsters of today are trying to discover new ways to live meaningful lives, new paths that lead to something better than a big bank account and a new car. We shouldn't be surprised if the bravest explorers sometimes get lost.

In my opinion, the great majority of the students are learning a lot more than my friends and I did in college, not only from their professors, but also from each other. They use the word "love" a lot, and if you watch the way they deal with each other, you can't doubt that most of them mean it. They keep saying that the most important thing is to care about people, to be involved, and I think they are groping for the truth.

I have given up trying to give advice to college students these days. I just try to offer sympathy, understanding, respect, and a little money. My simple reward is that they often talk to me.

Much of what they say is foolish, but the old should be used to forgiving that. The extraordinary thing is that so much of what they say and do is wise and good. ◆

Little Mary, a first-grader, was listening intently as her older brother talked with a couple of friends about the merits of college. The conversation turned to the average student's inability to read quickly. They exchanged helpful hints on the subject for several minutes. Finally Mary decided to give some advice of her own.

She announced gravely: "Well, I've found that you can read a lot faster if you don't stop to color the pictures." —Dan Bennett

The rather haughty employer was explaining to her new maid how the call box in the kitchen would register the number of the room from which she was buzzing, if she wanted the maid to come to her. The maid was still studying the box when her employer turned to leave the kitchen.

"Oh, excuse me, ma'am," the maid sang out, "but where is the buzzer I push when I want you?" —M. J. Merriam

One of the few times a man hears every word his wife says is when she's bragging about him. —Hal Chadwick

A truck driver stopped at a roadside inn for his usual breakfast of steak and eggs. As he began his meal, three Hell's Angels zoomed up on their motorcycles, stormed into the restaurant, and surrounded him at the counter.

One grabbed the sirloin off his plate, took a bite out of it, and handed it to his buddy on the left, who also took a bite out of it, and passed it to the third motorcyclist.

All during this, the truck driver just sat there, eating his eggs, saying and doing nothing. He paid his bill and left.

"That yellow guy," sneered one of the cyclists to the waitress. "He didn't try to stop us. He's not much of a man."

"I guess not," agreed the waitress, looking out the front windows. "And he's not much of a truck driver, either. He just ran over three motorcycles." —Al Roberts

The host's small daughter was asked by a guest, "Do you play on the piano, dear?"

The little girl replied, "Not when Mom's around. She'd be afraid I'd fall off." —Dorothea Kent

"It's just what I always wanted!"

An American couple was checking out of their French hotel, and the husband complained to the manager: "Your bill lists 'fruit, 200 francs.' We haven't had any fruit."

"The fruit was placed in your room every day. It was not the fault of the hotel that you did not eat it."

The husband replied calmly, "Very well. But I am deducting 100 francs—for kissing my wife."

"But, Monsieur, I have never kissed your wife!"

"Well, she was here. It isn't my fault if you didn't."

The Double Life of Meredith MacRae

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

MEREDITH MACRAE, who stars in "Petticoat Junction" as a demure country girl named Billie Jo, remembers her singer-actor father exploding in anger because, as a child, she spilled milk.

Meredith MacRae, who is anything but a demure country girl off-camera, remembers her actress-comedienne mother Sheila MacRae as being so permissive she allowed her to spend the summer at a boyfriend's house when she was only 15.

After 25 years of marriage, her parents divorced—almost simultaneously with Meredith, who married at 19 and divorced a few years later. Now she has remarried (so have her parents), and the life she lives still upsets her strict father but seemingly delights her permissive mother.

The manner of her marriages gives a clue to the real Meredith MacRae, a hybrid of her father's conservativeness and her mother's liberalism. She married her first husband, Rick Berger, now a movie executive, in a formal church wedding with 500 splendidly attired guests.

This year she married actor Greg Mullavey at "a church of all religions" off a Pacific beach with a Buddhist monk presiding and friends who came dressed—period. These friends were from a group-therapy cult which often holds nude meetings in sulphur baths. "Casual living," explains Meredith, "dissolves inhibitions and provides expression."

About her first husband, she says, "We were different personalities. Rick was an only child and conservative. I was the oldest of four children and an extrovert. We were good friends but not good mates."

About her second husband, she says, "I don't like being away from Greg. Last year I had to make 22 trips. Any time away from him is too much. That's one reason we hope some day to work together with our own production company."

Meanwhile, she hopes her own career will go beyond the "Petticoat Junction" image of her as a sweet rural lass in Hooterville. She has appeared in some bikini-beach movies and has just finished Paramount's big film, "Norwood"—in which she also wears a bikini but with some acting thrown in.

Gordon and Sheila MacRae did all they could to help Meredith in show business. "My first part was as an extra in one of Dad's films, 'By the Light of the Silvery Moon.' I was seven years old. After that I did a lot of singing with my father.

"At first, I wanted a career as a singer, but seeing what happened to my father's career made me decide it was better to become an actress who could sing than be known as a singer who always had to prove she could act."

Meredith is delighted that her younger sister Heather appears in Broadway's rock musical "Hair," and she thinks that it is natural that the cast often appears nude. She herself is noted for the briefest of dresses (blouse and skirt) and minimal bathing suits. When I met her, though, she was dressed demurely. "Well," she said, "I have an appointment connected with 'Petticoat Junction,' so. . . ."

How do her parents feel about the mod behavior of their two daughters?

"Dad's not happy. I didn't tell him about my divorce until I filed. I knew he'd be disappointed. He thinks Heather's stripping is unnecessary—actually she keeps her clothes on when a member of the family is in the audience. What does my mother think? She thinks it's great!"

Meredith still has some old-fashioned ideas which would please Hooterville—and Gordon MacRae. She does her own housekeeping and cooking. Running a home isn't a new experience for Meredith who, at 15, took charge of her brothers and sister when her parents went on the road as a night-club act.

That didn't sound to me like she was much different from her image as Billie Jo. There's just some Hollywood mixed in with that basic Hooterville.◆

Teen-Age Danger—Dieting Until Death!

Anorexia nervosa, doctors call it—an aversion to food caused by psychological hang-ups so strong even hunger cannot overcome it

By CAROL AMEN

RECENTLY an 18-year-old wanting to look like her modeling idol, Twiggy, died, a 45-pound skeleton. She had dieted herself to death—a victim of malnutrition and anorexia nervosa, which is an aversion to eating.

"Anorexia" means loss of appetite; "Nervosa" is self-explanatory, but this disease is far more serious than a high-strung absence of hunger pangs. Anorexia nervosa sufferers literally cannot force themselves to eat, even when they are starving and, in some cases, craving food.

The typical anorexic is emaciated, young, surprisingly lively, probably constipated. If male, he is most likely impotent; if female, she is probably not having menstrual periods. Except for the staggering weight loss, there is nothing physically wrong—it is psychosomatic.

Anorexia nervosa occurs more often in adolescent girls and young women than it does in males of the same age group. The background usually includes extreme family focus on food, possibly obese parents, and frequently a lifelong desire to be thin. It can be triggered by fears of physical maturity, usually starting during a diet. It is a symptom of deep-seated psychiatric distress.

From actual anorexia case histories come accounts of 1) a boy who hid food in a bag held between his legs during meals. He routinely scraped butter off his bread onto the underside of his chair and put other objectionable food into the bag, which he disposed of later; 2) a girl who slipped most of her food, meal after meal, to the family dog sitting under the table while her parents bickered; 3) a girl who weighted her underclothes with a large collection of half-dollars whenever her mother put her on the scales; 4) a girl who kept a marked satin ribbon around her waist, not allowing herself to expand beyond it. "I prefer dying of hunger than becoming as big as Mama," she said.

Teen-age is a time of hypersensitivity. Often anorexia patients admit feeling desperately lonely, ugly, cut-off from others, and unwanted. They can't cope with being called "chubby."

In addition, there are general factors. Middle- and upper-class adults often fluctuate between overeating and crash diets. Confused young people, especially in families where one or both parents are obese, may determine to avoid the same mistake.

The average person can diet without too much fear of aftereffects. The unknown anorexic, however, has no guarantee that normal eating habits can be resumed after the extra poundage is gone, and the disease does not erupt during a single traumatic incident with food.

One girl, for example, felt sure that if she ate squash she would vomit, so her family agreed that she should eliminate it from her diet. Gradually, more and more foods reminded her of squash and gave her the same nausea. By the time she saw a doctor, almost all food tasted like squash.

Certain victims believe that only a specific food will not cause bad symptoms. One girl kept evaporated milk until it dried out into hard curds, which she considered a delicacy and ate exclusively.

One articulate girl told her doctor, "The fear of being fat has to this day constituted my most terrifying problem. Without a doubt, my inferiority complex has arisen from this one deep-seated fear. I won't be the same as when I was growing up—fat and insecure."

From psychiatrists' notebooks come accounts of childhood contributing factors. One mother followed her daughter to school and physically forced her to eat the remainder of an unfinished breakfast. Extremely common was the practice of using food as a bribe—"You've been a good boy. Have some cake."

Another anorexic's mother alternated between food orgies and starvation crash diets. The daughter had similar tendencies but overreacted. She just couldn't stop dieting, even when told that she was starving.

Food equals evil, self-indulgence, or sexuality to some. Under psychotherapy, one girl revealed that food had come to stand for sex. Because her upbringing did not permit her to date boys (though she wanted to very much), she denied herself food as a punishment for her lustful impulses. Some anorexics of this type alternate between almost total abstinence and binges, only to induce vomiting when finished.

There is no safe leeway for any home-style cures. Psychiatrists stress that best results are obtained with early and vigorous treatment. It is the doctor who must decide if the loss of appetite is truly anorexic.

Treatment is on two levels, physical and psychic. Frequent high caloric meals are sometimes prescribed, but in severe cases the anorexic is hospitalized and given tube feedings. Then immediate psychotherapy digs for causes. The doctor must reassure that there is no organic basis for the disease. With early treatment, the majority of anorexics recover.

If you suspect someone in your family of having anorexia nervosa or being a borderline case, get help fast. Never try do-it-yourself psychotherapy. Confide your fears to the family doctor. Let him decide if specialized treatment is needed. ◆

Tips on Teen Food and Diets

TEENS: Don't be afraid of food. It is an important fuel. During adolescence, large amounts of calories are burned. If you have a weight problem (over or under), consult your doctor.

A hamburger is just as nourishing for breakfast as bacon and eggs. If you like it better, why not?

PARENTS: Avoid using food as a bribe, reward, or punishment, particularly during early years.

Keep mealtimes as relaxed and tension-free as possible.

A three-year-old finicky eater does not have anorexia nervosa, but, by adolescence, he could develop it if overanxious parents turn mealtime into a nightmare. A pint-sized person actually requires little food.

Appraise your own attitude toward sex. Maintain a balanced, healthy environment as much as possible.

Panty Pair.®

Something new from Hanes.

Instead, a featherlight stretch panty, accompanied by a pair of replaceable Cantrece® II stockings.

You simply slip on the stockings. Ease on the panty. And that's all there is to it.

An utterly smooth line from waist to toe. For a mere $5, complete.

Once upon a time, there was something called a garter...

Hanes
Sheer indulgence

You have nothing to lose but your garters.

A Breakfast Spectacular

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

■ There may be occasions when a breakfast at nine is a more desirable time to entertain a crowd than a brunch at eleven. If you enlist many silent helpers —namely, cans and packages of convenience foods along with electric appliances—you'll probably be able to prepare all of the food yourself.

Skillet Roast Beef Hash with Eggs

- 4 cans (15 oz. each) roast beef hash
- 1 cup sweet pickle relish
- ½ cup chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon horseradish

1. Mix hash with a blend of pickle relish, chili sauce, and horseradish in a large bowl.

2. Turn into a skillet and set over medium heat, mixing occasionally until thoroughly heated, about 30 min. Spread lightly and evenly to sides of skillet. Sprinkle entire surface lightly with paprika.

3. Before serving, top with fried or poached eggs. Sprinkle eggs with paprika. Surround hash with buttered toast points (see photo). Serve from skillet. 12 servings

Glazed Smoked Ham for 16

Place a 5- to 7-lb. butt half of a fully cooked smoked ham, fat side up, on rack in a shallow roasting pan; insert roast meat thermometer. Heat uncovered at 325°F. until meat thermometer registers 130°F. (allowing 18 to 24 min. per lb.). About 45 min. before end of heating period, trim and score fat surface of ham to make a diamond pattern. Spread with a glazing mixture of ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 2 teaspoons flour, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, and 1 tablespoon cider vinegar. Return to oven for about 45 min.

Frosted Nut Bread Ring Loaf

- 1 pkg. (13¾ oz.) hot roll mix
- 1 pkg. (about 1 lb.) yellow cake mix
- 3 eggs
- 2 cups water
- 1 cup pecans, coarsely chopped
- Mocha Frosting

1. Thoroughly grease a 10-in. tubed pan; set aside.

2. Empty pkg. of hot roll mix and its packet of yeast into a large bowl; mix. Add cake mix and blend thoroughly.

3. Add the eggs and water. Using an electric mixer at medium speed beat for two min. Stir in the nuts.

4. Turn into the greased pan. Using a spoon or spatula, gently pull batter from tube toward edge of pan.

5. Bake at 375°F. 10 min. Reduce heat to 350°F. and bake 45 min. or until a cake tester comes out clean.

6. Remove from oven to a wire rack and allow to stand about 10 min. before removing from pan to cooling rack. Cool completely and frost top. If desired, garnish with chopped candied fruit.

One 10-in. tubed bread

Mocha Frosting

Following pkg. directions, prepare about ½ the pkg. of a 13½ oz. or 14-oz. creamy white frosting mix, or vanilla butter cream frosting mix. Stir in 1 teaspoon instant coffee powder until blended. For a thinner spreading consistency, mix in 2 or 3 teaspoons of water.

Instant Breakfast Pie

- 1 baked 9-in. pie shell prepared from a pie crust mix
- 3 env. unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup water
- 3 packets (about 1 oz. each) vanilla-flavored instant breakfast
- 3 cups milk
- 2 fresh pears, quartered, pared, cored, and diced
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups high protein ready-to-eat cereal*
- ½ cup brown sugar

1. Sprinkle gelatin over water in a saucepan, stir over low heat until gelatin is completely dissolved. Set aside to cool.

2. Empty contents of instant breakfast packets into a saucepan. Stir in the milk until blended. Mix in gelatin; stir until smooth. If gelatin tends to sheet or lump, set mixture over low heat; stir until smooth.

3. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water, stirring occasionally if refrigerated, and frequently if over ice and water, until almost set.

4. Blend in pears and extract. Turn into baked pie shell; chill.

5. Prepare cereal topping. Put butter or margarine in a heated skillet and stir until melted and slightly browned. Remove from heat, stir in cereal and toss until coated. Add the brown sugar and continue tossing until well mixed.

One 9-in. pie

Hot Bread Duo

The How-To-Do-It Plan

(Follow steps in order)

1. A day in advance, bake and store the pastry for one or more pies (and the nut bread, if necessary).

2. The morning of the breakfast, put the ham in the oven early enough (about 3 hrs. in advance of serving) to allow for thoroughly heating and glazing it.

3. If a second oven is available, preheat it; mix the batter and bake the tubed nut bread.

4. Reconstitute frozen orange juice concentrate or orange drink and refrigerate in pitchers. Empty cans of tomato juice or vegetable juice cocktail into a pitcher and refrigerate. Cut orange slices into quarters and lemons or limes into small wedges for garnishing juice glasses; wrap and chill.

5. Make the pie filling. Turn into the pastry shell and refrigerate.

6. Prepare the hash mixture and put it in a large skillet for heating.

7. Mix cereal topping; complete pie.

8. If using only one oven, get muffin batter and crescent roll dough ready for baking. Remove ham, reset oven control for muffins; after baking, reset for rolls.

9. Spread glaze over ham; set aside.

11. After baking rolls, reduce oven temperature and return ham to oven; heat until glazed, 45 min.

12. While hash is heating, prepare toast points; tuck in around hash. Fry eggs for topping and additional eggs to be kept hot in an electric skillet set on table with hash.

13. Also set on the buffet table the electric toaster with an assortment of fruit-filled pop-ups.

14. Put the breakfast pie, a server, plates, and forks on the side table after removing the juice service.

15. Have freshly brewed hot coffee available throughout the morning.

Juices and Coffee Service

Set up a side table with a tray of garnished juice glasses and the pitchers of chilled juices, a shaker of seasoned salt and a bottle of Worcestershire so guests can easily serve themselves. For those who like coffee before breakfast, keep a carafe of water boiling at this table. Accompany with jars of freeze dried coffee and instant coffee powder, teaspoons, cups and saucers.

Cereals with Instant Breakfast Service

On the buffet table, place a tray of 10-oz. glasses with spoons in them for stirrers. Alongside, set a basket filled with packets of instant breakfast in assorted flavors, a large pitcher of cold milk for mixing the instant breakfast, bowls of granulated and brown sugar, a stack of cereal bowls, and a choice of ready-to-eat cereals such as those high in vatamins and iron, others high in protein, and an assortment of bran and oat flakes. Guests may blend cereals if desired before pouring over their instant breakfast.

Science Reveals the Real You

SCIENTISTS are interested in more than outer space and laser beams. They are interested in you. As a matter of fact, nothing is researched more than the human personality—with some surprising findings. Here are some of them:

The way you adjust your color television reveals your nature.

Dr. Max Leuscher of the Institute of Psycho-Diagnostic Medicine says if you like the red tones on your color tv heightened, you are self-confident and full of physical vitality. Increasing the blues indicates tranquility and impassivity. Too much yellow indicates an optimistic nature.

Your sleep habits reveal your outlook on life.

A group of behavioral scientists says that if you sleep on your side curled up like a cat, you're probably a lonely person who needs protection. The flat-on-his-back sleeper is happy with himself and his accomplishments. The side sleeper is a very complex person who is apt to look at life negatively, and the face downward snoozer is exhibiting stubbornness and negativity. There's even an answer for the bed hog who pushes the partner so far he or she must cling to the mattress to keep from falling. They are just expressing feelings of aggression against their mates, say the researchers.

The number of times you use a seat belt is connected with your attitudes, wealth, and education.

A University of Michigan report disclosed that you are more likely to use your seat belt if you have a generally approving attitude toward modern science, if you have substantial cash savings, and if you are well-educated and have health insurance, too.

Psychologists Jerry Wiggins and his wife Nancy of the University of Illinois say men who prefer girls with large bosoms tend to be more social than those who prefer their gals with smaller ones. The guys who like long-legged girls are usually relatively passive and seldom drink. Those who lean toward shorter-legged women generally are interested in social activities.

The shape of a woman's legs gives clues to her character.

Elizabeth Coope, working at the Aston University in Birmingham, England, says if a woman has fat knees that knock, she'd better cover them up. No sense telling everyone she's addle-headed. Piano legs divulge that she is somewhat unimaginative but fabulously efficient. If, however, her legs are heavy but well-shaped, she gives away the fact that she's conceited and vastly capable, but, alas, lazy. Long legs indicate the sexy type; thin and well-shaped appendages tell people she's sure of herself and knows "what it's all about."

PROVEN IN THE LABS—PROVEN ON THE ROAD—
PROVEN ON THE INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY
—and finally released to the public!

Yes, proven at Indianapolis — proven in the same test laboratories used by Ford, General Motors and Chrysler . . . proven by the world's largest automobile fleet owners! An exciting new scientific "breakthrough" that means . . . no matter what kind of gas you use . . . no matter what kind of car you own you can now pile up 100 miles of driving a week, month after month and fill your gas-tank as little as once a month . . . pile up 100 miles of driving a day all 365 days of the year . . . and save up to 500 gallons of gas each year!

NOW! 30 DAYS OF DRIVING ON A SINGLE TANK OF GAS!

—even more startling, now save up to $16 a month, up to 50 gallons of gas each month, without changing a single part on your car!

Laboratory reports . . . PLUS road tests conducted on Indianapolis proving grounds reveal you may now get as much as 37 miles of driving from each gallon of gas . . . save up to 50 gallons of gas each month . . . save up to $200 on your car each year!

Six months ago, for perhaps the first time in history, the United States Government issued patent protection to an invention that has been classified ILLEGAL! Sound strange? Not really here's why:

I'm sure you're familiar with the famous gasoline-economy tests run by all the major oil companies. Well, do you know that the remarkable new invention described on this page is actually banned from these tests because it is TOO EFFECTIVE! Do you know that because this invention saves so much gasoline . . . that because it gives so much economy, it is actually ILLEGAL for a test-driver to fit one on his car! And do you know that because it boosts gasoline mileage up to 11 more miles per gallon . . . it has actually been OUTLAWED in every recognized cross-country economy run . . . simply because the officials who conduct these tests were forced to rule that it gives all cars that have it AN UNFAIR ADVANTAGE!

In other words, if you are a person planning on entering one of these cross-country economy runs . . . then this message is not for you. YOU JUST WON'T BE ALLOWED TO USE THIS NEW INVENTION—SORRY, BUT IT'S SIMPLY ILLEGAL. BUT — if you are a person who is not interested in setting any records . . . who is only interested in getting more miles per gallon than you ever dreamed possible — and doing it the very same way that many of America's leading corporations are doing at this very moment — then what you are about to read is perhaps the most thrilling and exciting news in automotive history.

TEST DRIVERS REPORT UP TO 11 MORE MILES PER GALLON —

The name of this great new invention is the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER . . . and there is no ketter way to describe to you the increased performance and economy it will give you . . . than to tell you of the "bombshell effect" it had on research scientists and test-drivers, who simply refused to believe their own gasoline gauges when they first tried it out. Look:

CUTS GASOLINE COSTS TO AS LITTLE AS 1¢ A MILE

1. When the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER was first tested by the same research laboratories used by Ford, General Motors and Chrysler . . . results were so overwhelming, (a staggering increase of up to 68 per cent) . . . it actually lowered gasoline costs to as little as ONE CENT A MILE.

2. When tests were made by the world's leading auto rental system with this incredible money saving invention . . . and then test-run on the road and on such world famous proving grounds as the Indianapolis Speedway . . . the test-drivers of these vehicles were absolutely amazed to see big 8 cylinder sedans get better gas-mileage than small European economy cars!

3. When large fleet owners and some of the nation's largest taxi fleets tested this great new invention to determine just how much gas it would save them . . . the results were so dramatic that within 30 days they reported savings of not hundreds . . . but thousands of gallons of gas the very first month alone!

UP TO 500 MILES OF DRIVING FROM A SINGLE TANK OF GAS

Yes, from test after test . . . road tests, laboratory tests, tests by some of the world's most famous drivers . . . come reports of cars that drive for hundreds and hundreds of miles ON A SINGLE TANK OF GAS! Reports of test cars from Ford, General Motors, Chrysler that get more miles per gallon today than when they were brand new! Reports of big, luxury sedans that weigh 2½ times more than small European cars . . . yet get better mileage, better performance and huge dollar savings thanks to this new miracle invention.

BEST PROOF OF ALL!
World's Leading Rent-A-Car Company Road-Tests Amazing New Invention For 3 Solid Months . . . Then Orders Fleet Of Cars IMMEDIATELY EQUIPPED!
they report "Savings of up to 54 gallons a month per car"

Yes, from one of the nation's largest automobile fleet owners comes the most dramatic proof of all . . . A company that spends more money on gasoline in one weekend than the average person spends in a lifetime . . . they tested this incredible new invention and here is what they found. BOOSTED GASOLINE MILEAGE A WHOPPING 32% ON ALL CARS TESTED. Wouldn't you like to save up to $200 a year on your car? For full details read the rest of this page.

IF IT WORKS SUCH MILEAGE-MIRACLES, HOW COME THE CAR MANUFACTURERS HAVEN'T INSTALLED THIS TYPE UNIT IN THEIR CARS? — THE ANSWER IS THAT TWO ALREADY HAVE!

By now you are probably wondering just what is the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER . . . and how does it work? Well, to make a long story short . . . if you were to look under the hood of one of those $20,000 European luxury cars like the Maseratti or the Aston-Marton, you would see sitting in those engines . . . a special gasoline unit . . . especially designed to extract more blazing power, more energy from each gallon of gasoline. This remarkable booster-unit is what gives these cars such magnificent performance . . . such TOTAL POWER . . . such increased engine efficiency.

And this is precisely what the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER is designed to do — enable your engine to extract more piston-driving power, more raw, blazing energy and more gasoline economy . . . ONLY, instead of costing $100 to $150 (like the European booster-units) . . . the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER costs but a mere fraction.

That's because after years of intensive research automotive experts have finally found a way to simplify these booster units . . . reduce the number of parts in each unit . . . mass produce them . . . slash costs to a mere fraction . . . and make them available at a price so low it's almost too ridiculous to mention. Why do you realize what this means to you if you are a person who is determined to save yourself up to $16 a month on your gas bills . . . up to 50 gallons of gas each month . . . yes, up to $200 a year on wasted gasoline.

INSTALLS IN MINUTES— PAYS FOR ITSELF IN AS LITTLE AS 15 DAYS!

It means that no matter what kind of car you now have . . . no matter how old that car may be . . . no matter what condition it is in . . . no matter how many miles you pile on each month . . . here at last is the automotive discovery you've long dreamed about . . . and has now come true.

Because, from this day on you too can now save up to 500 gallons of gas each and every year. NOW you too can drive for weeks and weeks on end without ever stopping at a service station. Now you too can drive across 6 states of the union on just a single tank of gas, blaze a trail from New York to Chicago on just 2 or 3 tankfuls. In other words, perform mileage miracles that only yesterday you thought were impossible.

So if you too want to achieve the same wondrous results as America's largest automotive fleet owners, by Indianapolis test-drivers, and by research scientists at the very same testing laboratories used by Ford, Chrysler and General Motors, then take advantage of this special Free-Trial introductory offer. Remember, all you risk is the few minutes it takes to fill out the special reservation coupon below, and you have a lifetime of driving convenience and economy to gain.

THIS OFFER EXPIRES IN 15 DAYS — YOU MUST ACT NOW!

Now the price of the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER on this special introductory offer is not the 15 or 20 dollars you might expect . . . but only $5.95. Why, you'll save up to 10 times that amount in gasoline savings in no time at all . . . not to mention the hundreds of gallons of gasoline and hundreds of dollars in money you save year after year.

However, due to the enormous demands of trucking companies, car-rental companies, taxicab fleets and other large users, only a limited number of G. T. ENERGY CHAMBERS can possibly be allocated each month for consumer orders. Therefore, all orders must be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. So to take advantage of this limited introductory offer . . . mail the no-risk coupon today!

LOOK HOW EASY IT IS!

All you do is simply attach the G. T. ENERGY CHAMBER on your fuel line. Since it is a precision instrument, with a special model for each make car, there are no special adjustments for you to make. They've already been made for you at the factory. You simply screw it into place . . . and that's all. In fact, it's so easy you need not know a single thing about an engine to install it — and easy picture directions accompany each unit. Total installation time: 3 to 5 minutes. Total savings on gas: up to $200 a year!

Six different formulas by Plasticon were carefully designed to protect just about everything you love in your house, both inside and out. If you hate the monthly and sometimes weekly job of scrubbing, rubbing, polishing, waxing—and who doesn't—you'll love the Plasticon formulas that will save you work and money while restoring your furniture, your home furnishing, your car to the just-bought look that made you select that item originally. And Plasticon is guaranteed to keep it that way for unbelievably long periods of time under all sorts of conditions...like shore living, or winter slush, or dirty air.

Plasticon, the exclusive formula, is approved by The National Testing Laboratories and has been accepted and used by Federal Agencies.

Plasticon works like nothing else you've ever tried. It cleans a surface and fills the pores with a "glass-like" coating to shut out dirt, grime and even harsh chemicals. Here are the six revolutionary formulas. You'll find a use for every one of them:

1. PLASTICON FOR GLASS—Use it on windows, mirrors, crystal, and watch it smooth the surface so that it actually repels dirt and dust particles so that even a simple wiping brings it back to a perfect sparkle.

2. PLASTICON FOR FURNITURE—Cleans, restores, and protects fine wood furniture, finished wall panels and varnished, lacquered or painted wood cabinets. Protects against water and liquor stains.

3. PLASTICON FOR CARS—A car lover's delight—cleans, restores and plastic coats the entire car's paint and metal trim. Forget compounding, waxing, chrome, polishing and even tar removal. The harshest detergents won't wash it away. And even living at the shore or driving under winter road salt conditions, won't get through the Plasticon seal.

4. PLASTICON FOR METALS—This formula covers aluminum, brass, bronze, stainless and chrome. It will clean and remove tarnish oxidation, corrosion and rust. Provides that show-room shine for all these metals wherever they're used.

5. PLASTICON—HEAVY DUTY CLEANER—Formulated for hard stains and scuff marks on enamel painted surfaces, porcelain tile and even pitted aluminum. Will remove even ink markings on these surfaces and seal them against similar damage.

6. PLASTICON FOR MARBLE, PORCELAIN AND COUNTER TOPS—You'll never worry about these expensive surfaces once you've used Plasticon. And this works even in the bathroom. Like all our formulas, there is no excessive build-up, no matter how much you use, and it will not peel, crack or yellow!

All cans come in a big 7 ounce size (except car Plasticon which is 8 ounces). This is a full 7 ounces, more than enough to do the biggest job. All formulas are guaranteed not to crack, peel, chip, discolor or wash away or we'll give you your money back.

Appliances Step Up to the Space Age!

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

WITH MEN flying to the moon and tolerating tight quarters to get there, we earthlings are experiencing similar living restrictions—not to mention less time to do all we want.

Now, it's a treat to learn, one segment of our economy is trying to solve these problems with new appliances.

What's happening with the majors and the minors—the large, usually stationary, appliances such as refrigerators, ovens, and dishwashers and the smaller, portable appliances?

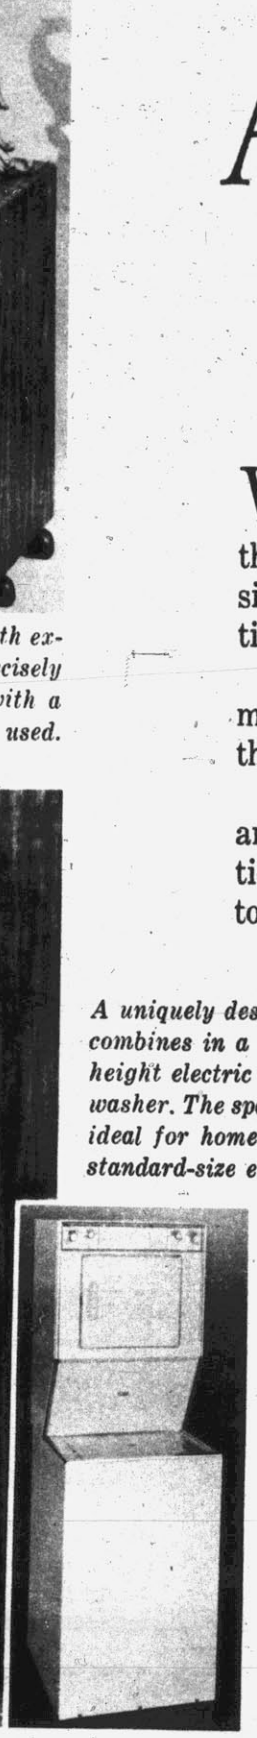

Big, bold innovations are happening in both categories—in the splash of color, ingenious design, more specialized appliances for our burgeoning leisure life, and in the trend toward the do-more-than-one-chore or one-step combination appliance.

And you don't have to orbit the moon to own them. Those pictured here are available, or will soon be, at your appliance dealer or department store.

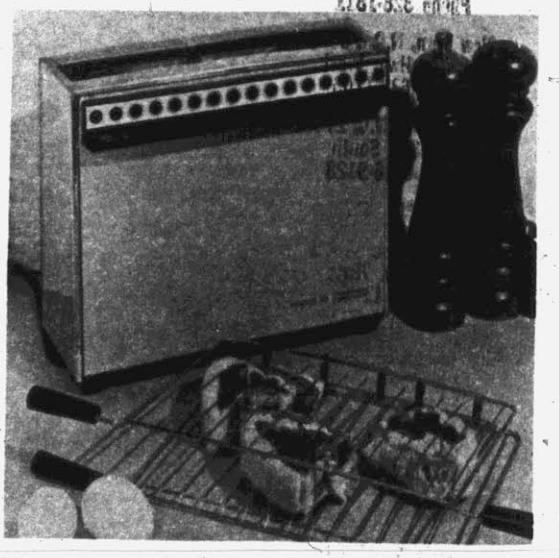

West Bend's ultra-deluxe humidifier, with exclusive solid-state sensor system, precisely regulates a home's humidity. Comes with a cover to top vent when unit is not being used.

A uniquely designed laundry center combines in a single cabinet a shoulder-height electric dryer and an automatic washer. The space-saving combination is ideal for home areas too small for standard-size equipment, in or near bedroom, bathroom, closet. Has setting for permanent press loads. Frigidaire.

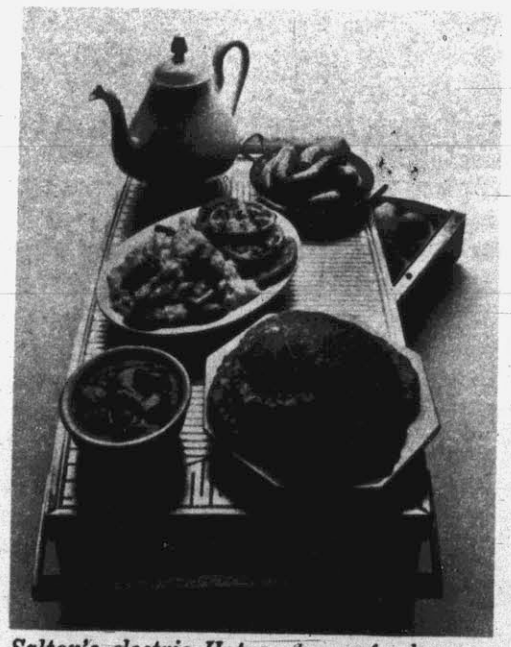

Broil chops, chicken, or thin bacon, on both sides at once, in Presto's vertical broiler. Two-position rack is chrome-plated, easy to clean. No smoke or spatter. In avocado and chrome.

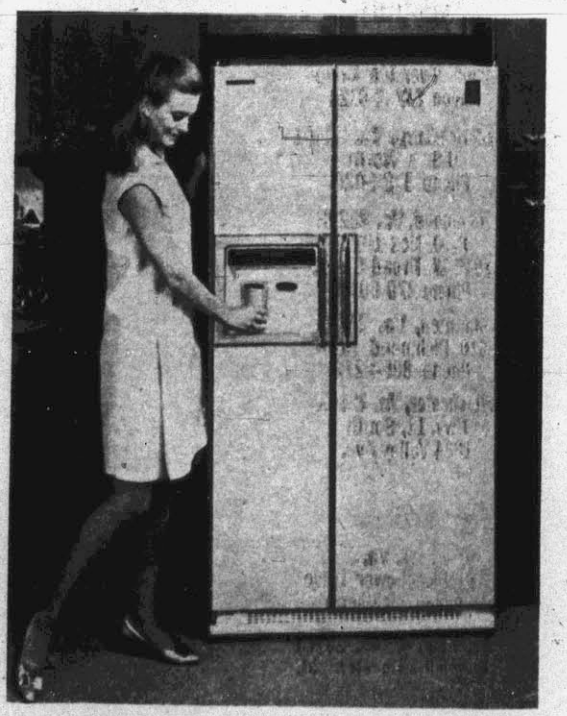

A product of the space age, Dominion's electronic Toastron toasts everything from sandwiches to the thinnest waffles by simply adjusting a lever. It can even rewarm your toast without burning or darkening.

Salton's electric Hotray keeps food warm until everyone is seated. Its swivel bin can be removed to oven for defrosting. For beverages, a "hot spot" gives added heat.

Press the dispensers for ice cubes or chilled water in G.E.'s 23.5 cu. ft. Americana side-by-side refrigerator. Wheels out for cleaning. Freezer holds up to 295 pounds. In colors or white, model is completely frost-free.

Why wait to build a new home?

Everyone realizes that the cost of new home construction, like almost everything else, is rising rapidly. That's why, if you're in the market for a new home —

THIS VERY MOMENT IS THE BEST POSSIBLE TIME TO BUILD.

And mortgage money need be no problem. We'll build your new home almost anywhere you own land and we'll supply complete 100% mortgage financing for qualified property owners.

WE HAVE BARRELS OF INSTANT MORTGAGE MONEY!

After you select your home from the more than 20 models offered, we are ready to work with you under a number of flexible arrangements. For instance, we'll finish your new home to almost any stage of interior completion. You can save a tremendous amount of money by completing some of the interior yourself. If you choose to have us leave the inside completely or partly unfinished, we can supply the finishing materials and include the cost in your mortgage. And you know your complete satisfaction will be assured when your builder also provides the financing.

WE OFFER A COMPLETE LINE OF SECOND HOME COTTAGES THAT ARE AS EASY TO OWN AS THEY ARE TO ENJOY.

THOSE HORRID

FADE THEM OUT

*Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Fade them away with ESOTERICA, that medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment on the skin, helps make hands look white and young again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, greaseless base for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. If you have these age-revealing brown spots, blotches, or if you want clearer, lighter skin, use ESOTERICA. At your favorite drug and toiletry counter. $2.00.

No Nagging Backache Means a Good Night's Sleep

Nagging backache, headache and muscular aches and pains may come on with over-exertion, emotional upsets, or everyday stress and strain. If this nagging backache, with restless, sleepless nights, is wearing you out, making you miserable and irritable, don't wait, try Doan's Pills – an analgesic, a pain reliever. Doan's pain-relieving action on nagging backache is often the answer. Get Doan's Pills – not a habit-forming drug but a well-known standard remedy used successfully by millions for over 70 years. See if they don't bring you the same welcome relief. For convenience, always buy Doan's large size.

Authentic Antique Reproductions

OF ELECTRO-PLATE

SILVER!

OF 18TH CENTURY ENGLISH SERVERS

These handsome replicas were reproduced from a collection of Old Sheffield Plate. A method of plating sheet copper with silver was discovered by Thomas Boulsover in 1743. This method made possible a wide variety of domestic table utensils such as these outstanding pieces.

SCUTTLE AND SCOOP—circa 1743. A handsome replica of the old coal scuttles of the day, this richly decorated set will bring the luxury look of charm and beauty to any table or buffet. The perfect way to serve sugar. 4½" long, 3" wide, 3¾" high, with 2½" scoop that hangs on scuttle handle. Tarnish-resistant. $8.98

SALT AND PEPPER SET with SPOONS. These are smaller versions of the Scuttle and Scoop. Each is 2⅛" long, 1¾" wide, 2½" high, with 2-3" long spoons. $8.98

MONTEITH BOWL—circa 1700. Has a scalloped rim inspired by the "fantastical Scot, Monsieur Monteith" when he appeared in the 1680's wearing a cloak scalloped at the bottom. Decorative, bold patterns enhance the exterior of the bowl while the interior is gleamingly silvered. 5" diameter, 2¾" high. $10.98

SAUCE BOAT—circa 1720. A graceful sauce or gravy boat patterned after the stately galleons of the 18th century. Profusely decorated handle and legs with fluted rim. Tarnish-resistant. 7⅜" long, 4" wide, 3¼" high. $8.98

GEORGE III SWEETMEAT BOX—circa 1779. Patterned after the popular snuff box of the period, the most characteristic decorative technique was the flat chasing of ornamental borders. 4⅞" long, 3⅝" wide, 3" high. $5.98

Denture Invention

For People With "Uppers" and "Lowers"

For the first time, science now offers a unique plastic cream that holds false teeth—both "uppers" and "lowers"—as they've never been held before. It forms an elastic membrane that actually holds dentures to mouth and gum surfaces!

It's FIXODENT—a revolutionary discovery for daily home use. So different it's protected by U. S. Patent #3,003,988.

FIXODENT not only holds dentures firmer, but it holds them more comfortably, too. It's so elastic you may bite harder, chew better, eat more naturally. You may even eat and enjoy apples, steak, and corn-on-the-cob again.

The special pencil-point dispenser lets you put FIXODENT exactly where it's needed. Resists oozing over and gagging.

Just one application may last round-the-clock. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get easy-to-use FIXODENT Denture Adhesive Cream at all drug counters.

GI Wives Who Wait—and Serve

ACROSS AMERICA today thousands of women watch the mail for a letter from a husband in Vietnam—and wait for him to come home.

A number of these wives-who-wait-in-uniform are stationed at the Women's Army Corps Center, Fort McClellan, Ala., the home of the WAC near Anniston, Ala.

A waiting wife may be like 20-year-old Sp/4 Clare Nelson, who had been married only a week when her husband left for Vietnam. Or she may be a career officer like Maj. Anne H. Hudnall, whose husband Vernon, also a career officer and a major, is on his second tour, flying helicopters in the combat zones.

The waiting is no easier for these wives in uniform than for any others. Clare is a clerk in WAC Center headquarters. At the end of the day, she thinks of Edwin beginning another day halfway around the world as she watches the flag float down the staff to the notes of retreat.

Back in the barracks, she and other WAC wives exchange news, pass around pictures, and work on hobbies. Sp/4 Natalie Laird crochets an afghan; Sp/5 Patricia Bacina of Eugene, Ore., trains a hunting dog; Capt. Veda D. Manley is troop leader of a Brownie Scout group.

Though days may be filled with duties, lonely evenings in the barracks or quarters are time for writing letters, recording taped messages, and wrapping packages. And they think of the two most important dates in their year of waiting. The first is that R&R (rest and recreation leave) meeting with their husbands in Hawaii, which Veda Manley called "the fastest six days of my life."

The second important day is when their men come back. Till then, they wait—and they serve. ◆

Maj. Anne Hudnall has a special interest in Huey helicopters. Her husband, a major, too, whose picture stands on shelf, flies such a chopper in Vietnam.

Let me give you the same start I gave these men!

In one way, the big earnings reported here might be called exceptional. In another way, there is nothing exceptional about them. That's because any man who will follow instructions and is willing to work at his own Duraclean business should be able to do as well under similar conditions.

Each of the men quoted here had talents and abilities different from those of all the rest. But each had one thing in common—a desire to win personal independence in a business of his own. And each man took five identical steps to reach his goal.

1. Each one read an announcement such as you are reading now. 2. He wrote for complete information. 3. He read the literature we sent him. 4. He gained new confidence in himself and the belief that he could succeed with Duraclean. 5. He accepted our offer to help him get started. Later, he wrote to tell us about his success.

In each case, remember, the first step was to write to Duraclean for information. If you would like to own a business of your own, why don't you do as these men did—right now.

When I hear from you, I will send you facts about the Duraclean Franchise that will open your eyes. You will see why a Franchise business such as ours makes success for the individual the rule rather than the exception.

The Duraclean home service business has been tried and tested. The market for Duraclean Service is tremendous—and growing. The methods that lead to success have been clearly charted. When an ambitious man follows these methods, success is the logical result.

Some Franchise businesses require investments as high as $50,000. With ours, you can get started for less than a $1000 and we finance the balance. Monthly payments are so small that the profits on less than one day's service can cover your payment for the entire month. Even with this small investment and operating as a one man business, your potential is $250.00 a week net profit. With two men working for you 35 hours a week, you should gross a profit of $420.00. Allowing 20% for advertising and incidentals, the net would amount to $336.00.

The most important part of Duraclean home service is cleaning rugs, carpets and upholstered furniture by a revolutionary modern process known as the "Absorption Method." You do the work right in the customer's premises. No harsh scrubbing with motor-driven brushes. No soaking. Instead, an aerated foam loosens the dirt and holds it in suspension until removed. A test conducted by an impartial laboratory showed that the modern Absorption Method removed twice as much dirt as was removed by old fashioned machine scrubbing.

If you are tired of working for others or of jumping from one proposition to another—if you have a real yearning for independence in a business of your own—then send for "The Duraclean Route to Success." There is no obligation—no charge. No salesmen will call to high pressure you. Send for the book now. Read it. Then if you want to take the next step toward independence, you can write to me and let me give you the same help I've given so many other successful men.

ASTONISHING NATURAL HONEY & EGG FORMULA GUARANTEED TO MAKE

WRINKLES VANISH FROM SIGHT WITHIN SECONDS

All signs of age instantly invisible or instant refund! Look years younger in minutes! Tightens sagging, "firms up" puffiness! Masks out lines on forehead, crow's feet, lines around nose, mouth, bags under eyes!

Mother Nature provided the magic ingredients that make lines and wrinkles invisible...that make loose sagging skin on face and throat tighter...young looking again!

Here's the secret that helped reverse the look of age for all the beauties down through history. Not a drug, not a chemical...but a secret formula that truly works wonders by tightening, drawing, flattening out telltale lines and wrinkles...within the very first few minutes.

Now you can really turn back the calendar, bring back the young, unlined look you were so proud of the day you graduated from school. Not a treatment cosmetic, Renascence Honey & Egg Creme takes years off your looks within minutes. Prove it. Smooth it over every line, wrinkle, puffy, sagging area. Stand in front of a mirror with a watch and time its action.

You must actually see dramatic results instantly or pick up the phone and send us a collect Western Union telegram and your money will be wired back immediately!

You spend 24 hours a day growing older...why not spend a few minutes a day growing younger looking? Let Renascence Honey & Egg Creme be your magic wand. Within minutes, watch all those hard-to-lose signs of the passing years disappear from sight: (1) lines on forehead, (2) crow's feet, (3) lines around nose, (4) lines around mouth, (5) puffiness under eyes, (6) lines on neck, (7) drooping chin.

So stop looking old before your time! Stop trying to "cover up" those stubborn lines and wrinkles. Try Renascence—the closely guarded secret of beautiful women "over 35." This natural secret formula containing the tightening magic found in a hen's egg and the nectar of a bee's honey...makes lines and wrinkles vanish from sight within seconds!

Remember, you're only as young as the lines on your face say you are. You're much too young to let wrinkles shout your real age! Banish the giveaways to age...within minutes with Renascence Honey & Egg Creme, the natural, safe way...or money back by Western Union. Yes, the young look can be your look...starting the very second you open your jar of Renascence.

Astonishing Results or We Wire Your Money Back!

BUT, BABY SISTER, WHY CAN'T YOU GET A BABY-SITTER FOR LITTLE STANLEY?

NOW, ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS GIVE HIM HIS DINNER AND PUT HIM TO BED, BROTHER.

FINISH YOUR DINNER, STANLEY— IT'S GETTING COLD.

WELL, YOU BETTER FINISH IT, YOUNG MAN, OR YOU WON'T GROW UP TO BE BIG AND STRONG.

DID YOU FINISH YOUR SPINACH, STANLEY?

NO. I WAS PLAYING WITH THIS OLD FOOTBALL SHOE I FOUND IN THE BACK YARD.

WHERE'D IT COME FROM, MR. SWEENEY?

WHY, UH... THAT SHOE BELONGED TO ONE OF THE GREATEST FOOTBALL PLAYERS OF ALL TIME, STANLEY.

BUT IT'S SO SMALL!

AH, YES — HE WEIGHED ONLY 107 LBS.... BUT WHAT A MAN HE WAS!

"HIS NAME WAS SAMSON. I WAS THE STAR OF THE N.Y. GIANTS WHEN HE ASKED COACH McGLUTTON FOR A TRYOUT."

WHY, SON, THESE MONSTERS WOULD TEAR YOU TO PIECES.

SAMSON?

THEY'D NEVER CATCH ME.

HAW! HAW!

GIANTS

WELL, HE GAVE SAMSON A TRYOUT AS SORT OF A JOKE, BOY, COULD THAT KID SNAG PASSES! COULD HE DODGE! COULD HE RUN! WHY, HE DID THE 100 IN 9.2 ZIGZAGGING!

ZIP!

"MANY'S THE GAME MIGHTY SAMMY WON FOR US WITHOUT ONCE BEING TACKLED. THEN, IN OUR GAME FOR THE WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP, THE MIGHTY BEARS SCORED TO GO AHEAD OF US IN THE FINAL SECONDS."

PLEASE, COACH, THERE'S ONLY TIME FOR THE KICKOFF. SEND ME IN.... I'LL RUN IT BACK FOR A TOUCHDOWN.

OKAY, SAMSON, GET IN THERE.

IT WAS OUR ONLY CHANCE. MIGHTY SAMMY TOOK THE KICKOFF. UP THE FIELD HE WENT... TO THE 20... TO THE 30... TO THE 40... THEN...

BAM-LAM!

OH, THE HORROR!

THEY DIDN'T REALLY TEAR HIM TO PIECES, DID THEY?

WHEN THE DUST CLEARED, THIS SHOE WAS ALL THEY COULD FIND. POOR LITTLE SAMMY-SNIFF- IF HE HAD ONLY EATEN HIS SPINACH AND WEIGHED ANOTHER 100 LBS.!

HEY, MR. SWEENEY, IS THAT MY FOOTBALL SHOE? I LOST ONE IN YOUR BACK YARD.

A PLAN IS HURRIEDLY MADE TO CHECKMATE CARL CAYN'S SUSPECTED ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE VIA AN EAST GERMAN TRAWLER.

SHE LOOKS LIKE THE ONE THEY WANT. LEFT THE FLEET AND IS DRIFTING SLOWLY INSHORE.

A MESSAGE IS TRANSMITTED...

..... FIVE KILOMETERS OFF RUNEBORG FJORD. SO THAT IS THE RENDEZVOUS! THEY CHOSE WELL. ISOLATED COUNTRY... INFORM COLONEL LEE.

AND IN A SMALL POLICE PLANE.

...GOT THE MAP COORDINATES. THANK YOU. WE'LL HAVE A LOOK.

WE'RE IN LUCK. IT'S ABOUT TWENTY MINUTES AWAY, SIR.

THEN...

GOING TO HOLD MY COURSE AND ALTITUDE, CAYN. IF I PLAY AROUND AND YOUR BROTHER'S DOWN THERE, HE'LL GO TO COVER AND WE MAY NEVER FIND HIM.

TRY TO FIX A PICTURE OF THE LAYOUT IN YOUR MIND.

AND BELOW...

Prince Valiant

WRITTEN AND ILLUSTRATED BY HAROLD R FOSTER

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT SURVEYS THE SAXONS' BASE CAMP. THE SITE HAS BEEN WELL CHOSEN, THE GATE TOWERS ALREADY IN POSITION TO PREVENT A CAVALRY CHARGE, VAL'S ONLY ADVANTAGE.

ACCOMPANIED ONLY BY THE TRUMPETERS, VAL RIDES UP TO THE GATE. SAXONS BAR HIS WAY, BUT HE NOTICES THEY ARE ARMED ONLY WITH THEIR WORKING TOOLS.

THEIR CHIEFTAIN APPEARS AND VAL'S HEART SINKS. HERE IS A LEADER BORN TO COMMAND, ONE WHO COULD AROUSE THE SAXON SETTLERS TO UNITE ONCE MORE. HORSA WAS SUCH A LEADER AND ALMOST CONQUERED BRITAIN UNTIL ARTHUR DEFEATED HIM AT BADON HILL.

"KING ARTHUR WELCOMES SAXONS WHO COME IN PEACE AS SETTLERS. NO WEAPONS OF WAR OR FORTIFICATIONS ARE TO BE BUILT." VAL RECITES THE LAW AS IS HIS DUTY, BUT HE KNOWS IT IS USELESS. THE SAXON SPEAKS: "I, EARL THUNDROS, WILL SETTLE FOR NOTHING LESS THAN ALL OF BRITAIN!"

A HORN SOUNDS IN THE DISTANCE. VAL LISTENS TO ITS MESSAGE, THEN ANNOUNCES: "I GIVE YOU THREE DAYS TO DISMANTLE YOUR FORTRESS," THEN TURNS TO JOIN HIS TROOP. THE MERE SHADOW OF A SMILE MOVES THUNDROS' THIN LIPS.

"THE TRUMPET ANNOUNCED A DISCOVERY HAD BEEN MADE. WHAT IS IT?"
"THE SAXONS ARE DESCENDING THE CLIFF TO THE BEACH AND HASTENING TOWARD THEIR HIDDEN ARSENAL."

THUNDROS LEAVES SOME OF HIS MEN IN THE BASE CAMP AND FOLLOWS THE REST DOWN THE CLIFF, MAKING PLANS AS HE WALKS ALONG.

"MY SOUL, SIT THOU A PATIENT LOOKER-ON; JUDGE NOT THE PLAY BEFORE THE PLAY IS DONE: HER PLOT HATH MANY CHANGES; EVERY DAY SPEAKS A NEW SCENE; THE LAST ACT CROWNS THE PLAY" –FRANCIS QUARLES

THE PALACE OF KING BOOLA-BOOLA OF URANIA WHERE HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS RULES PRECARIOUSLY, HIS LIFE MENACED BY FOREIGN "HYENAS" WHO CRAVE THE MINERAL TREASURES OF THIS TINY LAND ...

MY ORDERS FROM THE PRESIDENT WERE TO "ADVISE AND PROTECT" THE KING AND HIS SON, PRINCE MACADAMIA, ANNIE!

I GOTTA REMEMBER THAT ALL MACADAMIAS AREN'T NUTS, "DADDY"... AND THAT IF I WANTA GIVE 'IM A FAT LIP, IT WOULDN'T BE CONSIDERED 'ZACTLY DIPLOMATIC!

A GOOD LEFT HOOK T' THE KISSER DON'T HURT ANY, EITHER ... BUT ... I GOTTA REMEMBER I'M KEEPIN' MY TEMPER FOR YOU ... AN' MY COUNTRY!

ANNIE IS YOUR GUEST, MY SON ... AND IN THIS HOUSE THE GUEST IS KING!

SHE'S NO KING! SHE'S NOT EVEN A DUCHESS ... OR A BARONESS .... SHE'S JUST A COMMON ORDINARY GIRL! AND GIRLS ARE WORSE THAN PEASANTS!

ALAS, MY SON ... YOU LIVE IN THE DEAD PAST!

WE'RE SUPPOSED TO BOW, ANNIE! IT'S A LOCAL CUSTOM! NOT TOO LOW ... JUST A NOD OF THE HEAD WILL DO!

I GUESS THAT'S A LOT BETTER'N SISSY CURTSEYIN'!!

LOWER, YOU COMMON CLOD!! YOU ARE IN THE PRESENCE OF ROYALTY ... LOWER!! I MEAN YOU, GIRL!

HE'S GOTTA BE TALKIN' T' ME, "DADDY"!

YOUR MANNERS, MY SON!!

ROYALTY DOESN'T HAVE TO HAVE MANNERS! IT'S THE HOI POLLOI WHO MUST REMEMBER THEIR MISERABLE PLACE! MAKE THAT CREATURE BOW LOWER!!

FOR TWO BITS I'D KICK THAT SPOILED BRAT'S TEETH DOWN HIS SPOILED GULLET, "DADDY"... BUT DON'T WORRY... I'LL PLAY ALONG ... JUST LIKE YOU SAY, I GOTTA .....

IT'S HARD TO TAKE, ANNIE ... BUT JUST TRY TO KEEP IN MIND ... WE'RE DOING IT FOR OUR COUNTRY!

SOMETIMES IT'S SURE ROUGH T' BE PATRIOTIC ... BUT WATCHIN' YOU SWALLOWIN' YOUR PRIDE MAKES IT A LI'L EASIER FOR ME!

WELL, THAT'S BETTER! IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS THEY WOULD HAVE HAD TO PROSTRATE THEMSELVES AND CRAWL BEFORE OUR ROYAL SELVES!
