Senate Pauses; Final Tributes To Everett Dirksen Are Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Everett McKinley Dirksen, he of the rumbling bass voice which could soothe or taunt or plead, is dead at 73, and the Senate is pausing in tribute to the man who for a decade was leader of it Republican minority.

Dirksen, ever the showman, was perhaps the best known of senators. "He was an old pro," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, announcing the Senate would forgo business today to do honor to Dirksen, who died Sunday at Walter Reed Army Hospital, five days after an operation for lung cancer.

Medical announcements had indicated he was progressing toward recovery. But on Sunday, he suffered a cardiac and respiratory arrest. Two hours of efforts at resuscitation proved futile, and Dirksen died at 4:52 p.m. EDT.

Board Approves Student Fees In County Schools

Fees totaling $2.0 for all elementary school students and $3 for high school students have been approved for the 1969-70 school year by the Pitt County Board of Education.

According to County School Superintendent Arthur S. Alford, elementary fees include: supplementary supplies and physical aids, $1; library, 75 cents; physical education, 50 cents; and music, 25 cents.

Unwanted In Britain Or By Airlines

LONDON (AP) — American Black Power militant Robert F. Williams is going back to Egypt today because the airlines are afraid of a hijacking if they fly him to the United States.

General high school fees approved and applicable to all students include: library, $1; instructional supplies, 50 cents; audio visual aids, 50 cents; and physical education, 50 cents; and supplementary, 50 cents.

"We would be foolish to take any chances," said one airline representative. Egypt's United Arab Airlines flew Williams to London from Tanzania Friday, and the British government ordered the line to take him back to Cairo.

Other special fees approved include: science, $2; agriculture, $2.50; home economics, $3; all other vocational courses, $2.50; typing $15 ($7.50 per semester); club fees, $1; and diplomas and insurance at cost (from $10 to $15) including invitations, cap and gown and class ring, but not required in every case.

All airlines flying the Atlantic to the United States refused to take Williams unless he was under guard. The U.S. Embassy offered to provide an escort, but the airlines still refused.

Williams is the self-styled president of the black separatist "Republic of New Africa" which he and other militants proclaimed in five of the southern United States.

Big Strides In Desegregation Of City Schools

Integration in Greenville City Schools has made rapid progress within the past few years. This year, with the consolidation of senior grades into a single high school, and with elementary grades based on attendance by geographical zoning, integration has become even more the pattern of school attendance here.

A listing of pupils and faculty personnel, by white and Negro, shows that of 10 schools at all levels in the city, only three have insignificant numbers of a minority groups — two, Sadie Saulter and Eastern, by virtue of population of race within the geographical zone; and one, Epes Jr. High, as the result of freedom-of-choice plan for this school year.

Table with columns: STUDENTS, Elementary Schools, Junior High Schools, Senior High, Total Pupil Enrollment. Rows include schools like Agnes Fullilove, Eastern, Elmhurst, South Greenville, Sadie Saulter, Third Street, Wahl-Coates, Total Elementary Students, etc.

FACULTY Faculty serving the schools includes, in addition to classroom teachers, principals, librarians, counselors and all other fulltime personnel.

Table with columns: White, Negro, Total. Rows include Agnes Fullilove, Eastern, Elmhurst, South Greenville, Sadie Saulter, Third Street, Wahl-Coates, Total Elementary Faculty, Junior High Schools, Senior High Faculty, Total City School Faculty.

Looking at percentages, a comparison reveals that of the total official pupil enrollment in Greenville of 5,878 students, 2,159 or 36.73 per cent are Negro, with 3,719 white, accounting for 63.27 per cent of the school population.

Among faculty personnel, 28.87 percent, or 73 of a total of 254, are Negro. White faculty members account for 181, making a percentage figure of 71.13 per cent of the total.

The 254 full time faculty members equate to one faculty member to serve 23 school children throughout the city school system. A comparison of classroom teacher to total student personnel would of course show the ratio to be somewhat higher.

No Viet Cease Fire, But To Match Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced today that allied military operations would be scaled to match the enemy's during the Viet Cong's three-day cease-fire in mourning for Ho Chi Minh.

The joint South Vietnamese-American communique tacitly accepted the three-day truce although it declared: "It is not our intention to talk about cease-fires at this time."

The communique confirmed earlier reports that the allied forces were in a "defensive posture" but patrols were continuing to intercept any enemy attempt to build up troops and firepower closer to allied bases.

One radio message heard in the field from an American company commander to his top sergeant said: "The thing is today we'll have sort of a cease-fire in our hostile actions. We don't want to take anything under fire unless it's absolutely necessary."

Faculty Urged Make ECU Focal Point Of Progress

The stage was set for the beginning of the 1969-70 academic year this morning with an announcement to the faculty by President Leo W. Jenkins to "make East Carolina University the true focal point of progress in Eastern North Carolina and the center of learning we are destined to become."

In his annual address to the faculty, this year some 581 strong, Dr. Jenkins launched the first of a series of meetings designed to prepare faculty and staff for official opening of the year tomorrow.

Dr. Jenkins once again repeated his firm position that the university will not tolerate "inter-ruption by disenchanted revolutionaries," but also urged understanding of legitimate student grievances and a re-examination of the role of students in formulating and administering policies.

port and respect of students and of the society around us," he said. "We have earned it and we plan to keep it. We can do so if we honor the historic past by serving the living present to the best of our ability. I am confident that we can, and I am confident that the coming year will be one of our best."

After the meeting, the faculty dispersed into various meetings of departmental staffs and an afternoon orientation meeting for new members.

U.S. Ambassador To Brazil Freed By His Kidnapers After Ordeal

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The U.S. ambassador to Brazil, C. Burke Elbrick, returned to his residence Sunday night with a cut on his head, freed by his kidnapers after 15 political prisoners reached Mexico.

The 61-year-old career diplomat came through the ordeal in good shape although he had a gash on the right side of his head caused by a gun butt when he scuffled with his kidnapers.

His wife Elvira was one of the first persons to greet him after he drove up to the heavily guarded embassy residence in a taxi. The couple spent a few moments alone during which President Nixon telephoned from California.

Brazilian security officials began a widespread hunt for Elbrick's abductors. They searched several houses in the area where he was set free. Police sources said at least a dozen persons were arrested.

The military junta that took over a week ago when President Arthur da Costa e Silva suffered a stroke alerted military and law enforcement agencies to be on guard against a broadened campaign of violence which two terrorist groups that kid-

A Voice of America correspondent who was allowed to tape a brief statement by Elbrick told his listeners the ambassador looked "exhausted." An embassy statement said he was "in good physical health and in good spirits."

President Nixon Ends West Coast Vacation

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon ends a month's vacation at the Western White House today and takes a roundabout, two-stop aerial route back to Washington.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler declined to say what the ultimate American reaction might be. He said Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, was assessing the situation and would make recommendations to Nixon in the light of activities since the enemy announced a cease-fire starting today.

On the way, Nixon scheduled a meeting with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico on the border to dedicate a two-nation dam.

The Nixon-Diaz Ordaz meeting comes at Amistad—Spanish for "Friendship"—Dam spanning the Rio Grande about midway of the Texas border with Mexico.

Then Nixon wings on eastward for a look at Hurricane Camille's path of destruction across Louisiana and Mississippi.

The 254-foot high dam, concrete in the middle, earth at the ends, stretches for six miles. It will create a reservoir, about one-fifth full now, with a capacity equivalent of 5,586,000 acres of water one foot deep.

Nixon called Dirksen a "great American—a legislator of matchless skills, and my warm personal friend."

Amistad is designed to help tame floods which periodically have brought death and damage through the years along the Rio Grande and its tributaries.

In his office at the Western White House compound Nixon huddled Sunday with his chief adviser on national security, Henry A. Kissinger. They were looking at all aspects of the three-day cease-fire North Vietnam ordered in commemoration of his dead president, Ho Chi Minh—a cease-fire South Viet-nom rejected. The Nixon-Diaz Ordaz meeting comes at Amistad—Spanish for "Friendship"—Dam spanning the Rio Grande about midway of the Texas border with Mexico.

Pitt Woman Killed Sunday In Collision

SARATOGA — Mrs. Lula B. Hannah of Route 6, Greenville, was killed and three persons injured in a 8:20 a.m. collision on U.S. 264 here, Sunday.

Trooper L.W. Putnam said Mrs. Hannah was a passenger in a car driven by her son, Jasper Hannah, 27, of Grimesland.

The Hannah car collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Emma Dale Waters, 78, of Rocky Mount at the intersection of U.S. 264 and Rural Paved Road 1507.

Mrs. Hannah's husband Carl, 64, her daughter-in-law Shirley Hannah, 21 and Mrs. Waters were reported injured and taken to a hospital in Rocky Mount for treatment. Mrs. Hannah was admitted for treatment while the other two were treated and released, Ptl. Putnam reported.

Mrs. Waters was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of the collision.

Miss Jocelyn Jones Is Bride

In a double ring ceremony on Sunday at 3:30 p. m. in the York Memorial African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, Miss Jocelyn Suetette Jones became the bride of Robert Alexander Simpkins, Jr.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Jones of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alexander Simpkins Sr. of Philadelphia, Pa.

The Rev. C. C. Satterfield Jr., the bride's pastor, officiated at the ceremony. Acolytes were Joseph Leroy Godette Jr. and Kennon Howard Powell.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Clifton T. Epps Jr. and Mrs. Wynona Rhem, organists of Kinston. Mrs. Dorothy Pitt, also of Kinston, sang "The Greatest of These Is Love" and "With This Ring." Mr. JaVan Saxon, cousin of the bride of Kinston, sang "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory gown of silk organza and imported Venise lace. Designed by Vene, the princess styled gown had a Bertha collar with a Victorian neckline of the lace. The full A-line skirt and detachable wateau train had a wide border of Venetian lace.

The cathedral train of imported silk illusion was attached to a bonnet of matching lace and seed pearls, designed by Lounette. She carried a prayer book bouquet of phalaenopsis and white cattleya orchids showered with narrow satin ribbon.

Miss Brandolyn Paula Thomas of Hartsville, S. C., was maid of honor. Matron of honor was Mrs. Walter Murrell of Greenville. The honor attendants were attired in floor length gowns of avocado green chiffon and satin, detailed with tussah braid. The Victorian collar and cuffs of the full bishop sleeves were of the satin, detailed with the braid. A long satin panel fell from the back of the neckline to the hem. Their headpieces were fashioned of double fabric bows attached to matching illusion.

The honor attendants carried a semi-colonial bouquet of yellow fiji mums and daisies tied with maize and moss green velvet with daisies trailing down the dresses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Grace Juanita Davis of Petersburg, Va., Miss Jacqueline Yvonne Simpkins and Miss Karen Delores Simpkins, sisters of the bridegroom, of Philadelphia, Miss Alexis Ivy Simpson of Charleston, S.C., Miss Gwendolyn Delores Wilds of Alendale, S. C., Miss Sandra Davene Barnhill, Miss Sandra Kate Brown, Miss Joretta Devone Godette, Miss Bernadette Regina Gregory, and Miss Geraldine DeCuban Pugh of Greenville.

They wore gowns and headpieces identical to the honor attendants and carried colonial bouquets nestled in moss green nylon tulle with yellow and green daisies with yellow and moss green velvet.

Miss Angela Annette Randolph of Greenville was flower girl. She wore a white floor length dress and carried a white decorated basket filled with petals.

William Joseph Wright of Sharon Hill, Pa., was best man. Ushers were John Edmonds of Lawrenceville, Va., Roosevelt James of St. Albans, N. Y., Lawrence Norman, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, of Sharon Hill, Arnold Huckaby, Stephen LaBohne, and Michael Scott of Philadelphia, John Clark, Melvin McLawhorn, William Monk, Rudolph Tyson, and Danny Watts of Greenville.

The ring bearer was Joseph Cortez Norcott of Greenville.

He carried a white satin pillow with sprays of miniature yellow daisies tied with a narrow yellow bow with long streamers.

Mrs. Jones chose for her daughter's wedding, a dusty rose formal gown of lutesong imported silk. She wore a contrasting headpiece with matching accessories and a white cattleya orchid corsage.

Mrs. Simpkins, the bridegroom's mother, wore a dusty pink formal gown. The neckline and cuffs were accented with pink braid. She wore a white cattleya orchid corsage.

Mrs. James Wilkes and Miss Addie Gore directed the wedding.

For a wedding trip to Nassau, Bahamas, the bride changed into a champagne knit costume. She selected brown accessories and wore the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of C. M. Epps High School and has completed her junior year at Bennett College, Greensboro, where she majored in clothing and textiles.

The bridegroom is a graduate of West Philadelphia High School and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration from Saint Augustine's College, Raleigh.

The couple will reside in Philadelphia.

Reception

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Candlewick Inn for the wedding party, relatives, and out-of-town guests, given by the bride's parents.

Dr. and Mrs. C. Rudolph Graves and Attorney and Mrs. Richard Powell greeted the guests and introduced them to Mrs. Jesse W. Williams Jr. who presented them to the receiving line.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Jones and uncle of the bride, presided at the guest register.

Mrs. Arnold Huckaby of Philadelphia and Mrs. Herbert Pugh invited guests into the Gold Room.

Miss Thelma Albritton, aunt of the bride of Kinston, and Mrs. Lawrence Norman, sister of the bridegroom of Philadelphia, poured punch.

Mrs. Carroll T. Willis Sr., aunt of the bride of Durham, served the bride's cake.

Miss Roxanne Norman, niece of the bridegroom, of Philadelphia, was junior hostess. Others assisting were Mrs. O'Comma Wilson, Mrs. Sallie A. Walker, Mrs. Will Streeter and Mrs. Nannie Hyman.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Godette Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. David A. Barnhill.

On Friday evening, Mrs. O'Comma Wilson entertained the bridal party at a champagne sip at her home.

A bridesmaids' luncheon was held Saturday at high noon at the Three Steers Restaurant given by Mrs. Theodore B. Thomas and Miss Brandolyn P. Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Simpkins Sr. honored the Simpkins-Jones wedding party and out-of-town guests at a dinner at the Holiday Inn following the rehearsal on Saturday night.

The bride and bridegroom presented their attendants with gifts during the dinner.

Dr. Andrew Best, Mrs. John F. Albritton Sr., Mr. Herbert Dawson, Miss Thelma Albritton, and Mrs. Carroll T. Willis Sr. were hosts and hostesses at a wedding breakfast at the Silo Restaurant on Sunday morning.

Add a few drops of household ammonia to water and allow it to stand awhile in slender bud vases. Pour out, rinse and you have a clean vase.

League Of Women Voters Discussed At Luncheon

A group of 28 interested women gathered at a Thursday lunch-luncheon meeting at the Silo to consider the possibility of organizing a Greenville or Pitt County League of Women Voters.

Mrs. Jenkins Is Woman's Club Speaker Friday

Mrs. Dorn Jenkins of MacDorn Travel Agency was guest speaker at the first fall meeting of the Greenville Woman's Club on Friday afternoon.

She told of the services offered by the agency in planning trips in the U.S. and abroad. She also answered questions asked by the group.

Mrs. George Clapp, president, welcomed members and a guest, Mrs. F. H. Goodwin of Dublin, Ga., sister of Mrs. George Fleming. She read a meditation, "Thank God" to open the meeting.

A letter was read by the secretary from the Sheltered Workshop inviting members to visit the new facility. Plans were made for the food booth, which the club will maintain at the Pitt County Fair Oct. 6-11.

Announcements were made of the Home Life Department meeting on Sept. 16 at the home of Mrs. Eli Bloom. The Fine Arts and Public Affairs Departments will meet at the club house in October.

The club will hold open house honoring students and faculty of ECU from other countries on Oct. 26.

Mrs. Verna Dare Avery and Mrs. Eula Mae Cannon are planning a rummage sale on Sept. 20 at the Winn-Dixie parking lot. Workers were secured for the day and proceeds will go for club projects.

Refreshments were served prior to the meeting by the hostesses: Mrs. R. P. Rogers, Miss Nettie Brogdon, Mrs. Charles Blanchard, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth, and Miss Elizabeth Walker.

Attending from the State Board of the LWV to lead the discussion were Mrs. Lawrence Fulp, organizational chairman from Winston-Salem, and from Raleigh, Mrs. William Barrett, membership chairman and Mrs. Edward Wiser, editor of the LWV Tar Heel Voter newsletter.

The get-together came about as the result of a telephone call from Mrs. Fulp to Mrs. Joe Paulk, offering to meet with women interested in the league. Mrs. Paulk, who called the meeting to order, mentioned the offer to a few women. "The response," she said, "snowballed."

The league is a non-partisan organization whose purpose is to encourage the informal and active participation of all citizens in government and politics. It is open to all women citizens of voting age.

The organization does not support or oppose any political party or any candidate, but may take action, after detailed study, on governmental measures and policies in the public interest.

For 50 years the league has promoted the premise that better informed citizens are better citizens. After a discussion of the requirements set forth by the visitors, those present selected a temporary set of officers and committees who will set up an open-organizational meeting to be announced as soon as arrangements can be made.

The following who are serving temporarily may be contacted for further information. Chairman, Mrs. Paulk; secretary, Mrs. Charles Cain; public relations, Mrs. John Casey; membership, Mrs. Bramey Resnik and Mrs. Joe LeConte of Greenville and Mrs. Connell Garrenton of Bethel.

ADULT BASIC EDUCATION
Classes are designed to enable persons 18 years of age or older (not currently enrolled in public school) to learn the basic skills of reading, writing, arithmetic, social studies, English, and science on any level from non-reading through the eighth grade level. There is no charge for tuition or books for these classes.

HIGH SCHOOL EQUIVALENCY TESTS — Pitt Technical Institute has been designated an official testing center for the General Educational Development Tests by the American Council on Education. The State Department of Public Instruction will issue a "Certificate of High School Equivalency" to adult residents who have not completed high school provided they meet the following requirements:

1. Make a standard score of 35 or above on each of the five tests and an average standard score of 45 on all 5 tests.
2. Be nineteen years of age or older (an 18 year old may take the test provided he has been out of the public schools for 6 months).
3. Make application for tests on official application blanks that are available at Pitt Technical Institute and in the offices of the City and County Superintendents of Schools.
4. Pay a test fee of $3.00.

The GED tests will be given at the Institute on the first two Saturdays of each month from 8:00 A.M. to 1:00 P.M. It will take both Saturdays to complete the battery of 5 tests.

Training for high school completion is available at the Institute.

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION
Classes are designed to enable adults 18 years of age or older (not currently enrolled in public school) to review and prepare for the High School Equivalency Examination given at East Carolina University. Classes are offered in 120-hour sessions which meet 2 nights per week usually from 7:00-10:00 p.m. English, reading, social studies, math and science are the subjects covered. There is no tuition charge and the total cost of books is $5.10.

ADULT LEARNING CENTER
Anyone 18 years or older may enroll in the Learning Center at Pitt Technical Institute without charge.

Adults can study many subjects of special interest to them. Individuals that wish to review the skills of reading, math, and English grammar above or below the high school level may do so. Anyone wishing to prepare for the High School Equivalency Examination may do so in the Center.

Textbooks are "programmed," which means a student works individually with a teacher, or regular class. He or she progresses at his own rate and on his own reading level. A Learning Center Coordinator is present to assist and advise adults when needed. Adults come for studies in the Learning Center anytime that is convenient for them.

MONDAY THROUGH THURSDAY

Couple Exchanges Vows In Wednesday Ceremony

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa.—The Newtown Square Presbyterian Church here was the scene of the wedding of Miss Donna Lynn Ramsdell and Stephen Lee Owens on Wednesday at 7:00 p. m.

The Rev. Charles C. Martin officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lee Ramsdell Jr. of Newtown Square, Pa., and the late Mrs. Ramsdell and Mrs. Joyce H. Owens of Greenville, N. C.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line princess peau de soie gown styled with a high Venice lace collar trimmed with seed pearls. Two panels of matching lace and seed pearls graced the gown and floor-sweep train.

Her headpiece was a cathedral length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations and white roses with a touch of blue delphinium.

Mrs. Dennis J. Crowley of Wayne, Pa., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Hyink of Dallas, Tex., sister of the bride, Miss Nancy L. Owens and Miss Deborah J. Owens, both of Greenville, N. C., sisters of the bridegroom.

The attendants were gowned alike in floor length dirndl skirts of mint green crepe and beige open neck blouses with pearl buttons and pleated sleeves. The gowns were accented with sashes of green and blue floral design. They carried cascade bouquets of miniature yellow carnations, bronze daisies, apricot roses and gold celosia.

Albert Blanton III of Morehead City, N. C., was best man. Ushers were Lee G. Lewis of New Bern, N. C., Charles H. Grant of Durham, N. C., and Robert D. Swain Jr. of Plymouth, N. C.

A garden reception was held at the home of the bride's father following the ceremony.

After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Greenville, N. C.

The bridegroom is a member presently attending East Carolina University. The bride is vice president of Alpha Delta Pi sorority and is a member of the varsity cheerleading squad for the university.

The bridegroom is a member of Kappa Alpha Order of which he is treasurer, Honor Council, Inter-Fraternity Council, varsity cheerleading squad and Phi Beta Lambda business fraternity.

Abby Readers Praise, Attack Her Views On Sex Education

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We were surprised and disappointed to learn that you approve of sex education in the schools. When did you change your mind?

Not too long ago you told a couple of high school students who wanted to study a marriage manual together, "You don't need to study the violin two years before you're able to practice."

Isn't that what sex education in school is?

MR. AND MRS. B. DEAR MR. AND MRS. B.: No! Sex education in the schools deals with animal and human reproduction, personal hygiene, health, including the seriousness of venereal disease, etc. Marriage manuals deal with the "physical" side of marriage, giving explicit instruction in sexual behavior. This, I agree, has no place in our schools, and is NOT taught there, contrary to what you may have been led to believe!

DEAR ABBY: How can an intelligent woman like you be FOR sex education in the schools?

Why, I heard that one teacher got so carried away while conducting a sex education lecture that she completely DISROBED in front of the class!

In another school, the teacher herded the whole class into a dark closet and told them to "feel" each other!

I could tell you much more, but you wouldn't believe it.

HORRIFIED IN MELROSE, FLA.

DEAR HORRIFIED: I'm sure I wouldn't. And I don't believe the above incidents ever happened either. I have heard all these wild tales (and more) but have been unable to locate the teachers who supposedly did the above, the schools in which these incidents were supposed to have occurred, or any of the children who were actually present.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your sensible statement concerning sex education. From my observation, I must conclude that those who equate sex education with smut—and even communism—are the ones who insist that this subject be left in the hands of parents.

On the other hand, I have a friend who is a physician, clearly qualified to handle the subject of "sex." Yet, when the time came to tell his own son the "facts of life," he was so embarrassed that the son was completely mystified by it all and failed to grasp the content of his father's message. The boy later learned about sex in the traditional alley, as do some 80 per cent of our youngsters.

One might also point out that most parents would be capable of teaching their children reading, writing, and other subjects, but for some reason, when it comes to "sex," trained teachers seem to produce much better results.

Drastic Measures Must Be Taken

There are going to be many anguished cries at the announced cutback in federal building programs, and certainly in many cases badly needed projects are going to be postponed.

However, it must be recognized that the nation is engaged in an all-out struggle with inflation and strong measures are going to have to be taken if erosion of the dollar is to be slowed.

Since mounting government spending is one of the causes of inflation, then certainly one of the solutions is to postpone some government projects until economic conditions are more favorable.

During World War II all public projects not essential to the war effort were halted. The perils of inflation could pose just as much danger to the nation now and should be taken just as seriously as the World War II enemies.

The government is having to take stern steps to slow the inflation that threatens us all, and if this means the postponement of some projects, so be it. The only alternative is wage and price controls and restrictive measures such as those should be taken only as a last resort.

PTI Building Should Not Be Standing Idle

Hopefully the county will find a way to provide temporary sewer and water service to the new 30,000 square foot classroom building at Pitt Technical Institute.

Permanent lines from Winterville will be constructed as soon as funds, already approved, are available. In the meantime, however, the building is nearing completion without these necessary services.

The institute has asked the county commissioners to provide temporary service, estimated to cost $4,000.

It would be a shame for the new building to stand empty for a full school term because of lack of water and sewer. No doubt the county commissioners will find some way to alleviate the situation.

Divided As To Inflation Action

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

COLORADO SPRINGS — The widening split between President Nixon's political and economic advisers over whether to stop inflation even at the risk of a major recession was dramatically revealed in the White House handling of the President's cutback of spending on highways and other Federal construction.

It was no secret here, for example, that Dr. Paul McCracken, chairman of Mr. Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, and top-level Presidential counsellor Dr. Arthur Burns were taken completely aback and left in a state of semi-shock by Vice President Agnew's private message to the national Governors' convention here Tuesday afternoon.

What shocked the President's high economic command was not that there would be a cutback in Federal construction in an effort to slow the still rapid pace of inflation. The council had been secretly working on just such an anti-inflation spending reduction for weeks.

The shock came from Agnew's revelation that the cutback would not take effect until April—a six months' delay, as he told the Governors, that would give them time to inventory their Federal construction projects and select the ones to be cut back.

But this delay was never part of the cutback plan the economic high command had drafted and which, they thought, had been approved by Mr. Nixon himself. Far from wanting a delay of six months, their strategy was to put the cutback into instant effect. They wanted not only an immediate choking-off of Federal construction funds but—more important—they wanted the sudden shock effect that would follow a surprise, well-muscled announcement of Federal retrenchment.

In short, the economic high command viewed the cutback as a psychological turning point in the war against inflation, to be unveiled with maximum Presidential publicity and credibility. Any delay in its effect, they believed, would damage credibility and smack of political gimmickry.

But somewhere between Monday morning and Tuesday afternoon that plan went into the ashcan, without any warning to the economists. In their running battle with the economists, the President's political advisers mounted a sudden counterattack, backed by Vice President Agnew, Secretary of and others fearful of its political impact.

Former Gov. Agnew warned that the Governors would be incensed if confronted by a sudden Federal ultimatum reducing Federal dollars and jobs in their states. Former Gov. Volpe well remembered his own fury when former President Johnson ordered a somewhat similar cutback in spending on Federal projects two years ago. Volpe was the Republican Governor picked by his colleagues to go to the White House to seek clemency from Mr. Johnson. More important, the Governors are far more afraid of recession than inflation, and Mr. Nixon finally agreed.

He instructed Agnew to go before the Governors and give them a briefing (an incomplete briefing because Agnew simply had not been told the details) on the cutback plan, with the six months' delay feature securely built in.

Among the Governors, the reaction was predictably mixed. Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California was ready to offer a formal motion of support, but Democratic Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, outgoing chairman of the Governors' convention, protested that that would trigger an unwholesome partisan battle.

But privately, some Republicans were outraged, even with the protection of a six months' delay. "This goes far beyond the demands of partisan loyalty," one Western Republican told us.

The Democrats looked smug. They are convinced that without draconian measures inflation won't be stopped, and that even if it is, the result—a recession—will be worse for the Republicans. Either way, they see major political dividends for the 1970 general election.

Strength For Today

PROCEDURES What constitutes a religious household?

There can be many answers to that question. Some people would have family Bible reading and prayers every day. Others would say that a proper attitude toward religion would be for the members of the family to read their Bibles separately and pray separately.

Sunday religion is usually criticized, and justly so. Some people never miss a Sunday at church but seem to leave their religion in the building itself after the benediction is pronounced. Certainly we are not unjust when we criticize this Sunday type of religious devotion.

Religion is first of all belief. Some would like to deny this, but we cannot be either for or against something unless we know what that something is. The Bible and the teachings of the church give us certain information that we must have if we are to approach the matter of the religious life and do so with reason.

We make a great mistake when we insist on too much uniformity in religious practice. Some people love church services which lay great emphasis on ritual. Others want no ritual at all. The truth would not appear to lie between these two extremes but to be accepted or rejected according to the mood and temperament of different worshippers. Even those who insist that they can worship God on the highway or with their feet propped up watching a TV show are both right and wrong. We can worship God no matter where we happen to be. The truth is that come Sunday we probably worship Him best in a church.

A University Opening

WASHINGTON—My friend Rory has a boy 18 years old, who was turned down for admission by four colleges. On his fifth try he received a letter from a university asking him if he would come for an interview.

The man behind the desk asked, "How do you like the school?"

"Great. Just great." "Do you see any way we could improve it?"

"Well, I only got here an hour ago, but I'm sure there are many ways that the school could be improved."

"I like that," the man said. "How do you get along with students?"

"Just fine, I guess. I mean,

I've always gotten along with them well."

"No generation gap trouble then?"

"None that I know of." "Do you like meeting people?"

"I suppose so. I'm an extrovert at heart."

"Do you like to entertain?" "No, sir. I don't like to entertain at all. I keep my nose to the grindstone."

Other Editors Say Justice Under Law

(The Durham Herald)

The charges of conflict of interest against Judge Clement F. Haynsworth call for careful and thorough investigation by the Senate Judiciary Committee as it considers his nomination to be a justice of the United States Supreme Court.

If it is determined that his ownership of stock in the Carolina Vend-A-Matic at the time he participated in a case involving Darlington Mills which had a contract with Carolina Vendo-A-Matic constituted conflict of interest, not only should he be denied confirmation to the Supreme Court but he should also be removed as a judge of the Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit.

One weakness in the argument against confirmation of Judge Haynsworth is that not one of his critics has raised the issue of the conflict of interest in which Justice William O. Douglas is involved.

Justice Douglas for a number of years while a justice of the Supreme Court received an annual salary from the Albert Parvin Foundation, which received substantial income from investments in gambling interests in Nevada.

It is not enough to note that Justice Abe Fortas resigned from the Supreme Court while under fire for a possible conflict of interest in holding over a period of several months compensation tendered by the Wolfson Family Foundation.

Justice Fortas acted commendably in resigning and removing himself from a position in which he could bring discredit upon the nation's highest court.

But Justice Douglas shows no such respect for the court, and as long as he remains on it he compromises every criticism of alleged or real conflict of interest on the part of any member, present or proposed, of the federal judiciary which does not also challenge his remaining on the high bench.

There ought not to be one law for former Justice Fortas and Judge Haynsworth and another law for Justice Douglas. Indeed, as long as Justice Douglas remains a justice of the Supreme Court, the very composition of the court makes a mockery of the motto inscribed over the portals of the Supreme Court building, "Equal under justice under law."

For the first time the man behind the desk seemed disappointed. "That's too bad."

Rory's son reacted immediately. "Of course, if you want me to entertain, I'd be glad to. Heck, I used to give parties at home all the time."

"Are you any good at raising money?"

"I don't think so. I mean, I can always get a sawbuck off my old man."

"I was talking about big money," the man said.

"I can get up the tuition, if that's what you mean."

"I mean big, big money."

"Hey, what the heck kind of school is this?"

"Well," said the man behind the desk, "I believe I'd better level with you. We don't have an opening for our freshman class."

"Then what did you waste my time for?" Rory's son asked angrily as he got up.

"But we do have an opening in the school."

School Policy Shift?

By ED ROGERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Southern conservatives hope to win a congressional compromise on federal school desegregation policy with a claim that it is disrupting education.

By paralleling this with a claim of rising lawlessness they hope to gain votes from outside the south. Lawlessness, they say, stems from court decisions that "restructure" criminal law in order to protect rights of the accused more fully.

The Nixon administration generally is following the Johnson administration's school desegregation policy, which was aimed toward achieving high integration levels this fall.

Local school officials are being required to "restructure" their systems by assigning large groups of pupils by race and bus them between white and Negro neighborhoods.

Southerners claim this is disrupting education. They have set the stage for a congressional showdown by winning House passage of an amendment to the current school aid appropriations bill.

Survives House Test The amendment, which survived a House test by a 17 vote margin, would forbid the federal government to require forced transfers and busing as a precondition to qualifying for federal aid.

It is known that civil rights officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare do not believe they can enforce their present policy if the amendment is passed.

The Senate, which nullified an identical amendment last year, is not believed to be any more likely this time to adopt the House amendment without drastic change.

But key House supporters will get another chance when the appropriations measures go before a Senate-House conference committee for final legislative tests.

There they hope for a show-down victory. They claim hidden support. For one thing, the House vote on the amendment was far lighter than the final vote on the appropriations bill itself.

Silent Supporters Many of the nonvoters, according to the southerners, were silent supporters of the amendment.

The secret vote in the committee was heavily in favor of the amendment—34 to 11. Southerners claim this vote more accurately reflects the real House feeling.

It has been learned the House committee members viewed the school desegregation issue in terms parallel to the law and order issue.

During closed session they discussed the present policy of "restructuring" school systems to raise integration levels and its effects on education.

This was viewed in turn as a parallel of rising crime that some regard as a result of "restructuring" criminal law to increase safeguards for the rights of accused persons.

These arguments and parallels proved capable of winning votes of committee members from regions outside the South.

A Break With Hodges' Policy

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH — There are reports that Gov. Bob Scott plans to name one resident of each of the state's two major ports, Wilmington and Morehead City, to the State Ports Authority.

If so this would be departure from precedent established during the Hodges administration that in order to reduce rivalry between the nearby port cities no one from either town would be appointed to the SPA.

It was felt that rivalry for facilities such as docks, warehouses and equipment as well as shipping business had hurt development of both.

In order to relieve this situation further headquarters of the ports authority was moved from Wilmington to Raleigh several years ago.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

TAXES — If North Carolina follows a national pattern not more than a third of the 100 counties will approve an additional one cent local option sales tax on Nov. 4.

This is a report by the United Forces for Education (UFE) which says it is unwilling to support the local option levy except in cases where county commissioners commit themselves to maintaining present property tax rates and to earmarking a major portion of the increased revenue for schools.

The executive secretary of the N. C. Education Assn., Dr. A. C. Dawson, says the local sales tax "could be a boon for local governments and for public education, but only if clear understandings are reached prior to the election about tax rates and future use of the revenue."

USES — UFE and top NCEA officials spell out the uses for which they want a large part of the additional revenue to be put.

For example, pay supplements to teachers, employment of additional teachers, purchase books and instructional supplies, build additional classrooms.

Currently about 50 cents of each state General Fund tax dollar goes for current expense operations of the public schools. About 75 cents of each local government budget dollar goes to the public schools — primarily for capital outlay.

Actually, officials say, the percentage of the total public school support from local sources has been shrinking and is now below the federal government's share.

Prices Up, Even If Recession

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is no change in the broad economic outlook. Prices will continue to rise, even if a recession threatens, which is likely. If it does approach, the monetary controls will be relaxed, which will put new swing into the inflationary spiral, pushing prices and wages up still higher, still faster. Wage and price controls are still unlikely.

Now let's look at other things in the business future:

Wheat crisis ahead: We have a large wheat crop and no foreign markets for the excess. Canada, Australia and the Common Market have all cut the price of their export wheat below the U.S. price. Canada has cut its price six times. If the U.S. cuts its price further, it is likely that other nations will cut still further. Note: Bread prices will continue to rise.

Fruit Prospects Called Good More abundant fruit: Both citrus and deciduous fruit will be more plentiful than usual for the rest of this year and on into 1970. Citrus fruit prospects are especially good, with the 1969-70 crop developing well.

Costlier liquor: By strange coincidence, wholesale prices of almost all brands of alcoholic beverages rose this week in New York State, which makes it illegal to sell below prices wholesalers and distillers fix. If buyers accept the raise, boosts in other states can be expected. Curiously, some of the largest raises were on French wines, which now cost importers less because of the devaluation of the French franc.

Lower Prices For Somebody: Lower wholesale, farm and meat prices: Wholesale prices, which sagged one-tenth of one per cent in August, may continue downward this month, mostly because the building in the private sector. However, high mortgage interest rates will continue to prevent new housing coming anywhere near meeting demand.

New blueberries: The Department of Agriculture has developed a new variety of blueberries, called "Late-blue," which will extend the fresh blueberry season by 10 days. Many will be on the market next year.

Electric car push: Some progress in developing a modern electric auto may come when experts from ten nations meet at Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 5 to 7. There will be an exhibit of new models and an exchange of ideas that may lead to a practical, smogless car.

As An Orator, Dirksen Was 'Pure 4th Of July'

SENATE LOSES MOST COLORFUL MEMBER — The death Sunday in Washington of Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, Republican majority leader from Illinois, removes from the U.S. Senate its most personally colorful member. His silver-tongued oratory has for years been a force on major legislation. He is shown in typical poses while discussing national issues with newsmen at the capitol. (AP Wirephoto)

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — His language smacked of Shakespeare and the Bible and Victorian England, his delivery of William Jennings Bryan, his fervor of Billy Sunday.

His stage could have been the Chautauqua circuit and his product patent medicine. But he made it politics and when he spoke it was pure Americana, like the Fourth of July picnics of old in Pekin, Ill., where he grew up.

Everett McKinley Dirksen was an orator, a master at unrolling cubic yards of rhetoric at the slightest nudge. He was of the breed that went out with mustache cups and trolleys and shoes with hooks for laces.

He was the purveyor of the well-soiled put-down as well as the silky threads of praise. When Dirksen spoke, it flowed. It flowed.

"What strange doubts assail this timid generation of today as it beholds the challenges to both liberty and equality," he said once at Gettysburg on the 98th anniversary of Lincoln's address.

"We seem beset with fear not faith, with doubt not confidence, with compromise not conviction, with dismay not dedication. We are drenched with the literature of fear and doubt. Survival has become the main theme."

Early in the Eisenhower administration, Adlai Stevenson—the presidential candidate defeated in 1952—called the administration "dreary."

Dirksen countered with: "Quite often Adlai has a sense of fitness in selecting his adjectives. Dreary is the word. It is no glamorous or dramatic adventure to cleanse the temple of government of its defilement, indicating grafters and boodlers of the 22 major scandals of the Truman administration . . . it goes forward with vigor even though it be a dreary job."

Everything about him added to the image. His face, florid and lumpy, could be sad, pixieish, sly, melodramatic, startled—whatever punctuation his speech at the time demanded. And always there was the hair—wavy, white, always looking as if he had just stepped from a speedy convertible.

"If you have some kind of trademark like unruly hair, people get to recognize you," he said.

Even when he was in the hospital—which was often—Dirksen managed to get in his thrusts. In 1964 he had missed a week of debate leading to a tax cut bill. His words were later relayed to the Senate.

"Perhaps you can imagine my bed-ridden amazement, my pajama-ruffled consternation, yes my pillow-laden astonishment this week, to learn that three Republican-sponsored proposals to assist in achieving laudable goals had been defeated by very narrow margins, victims of that new White House telephonic half-nelson known as the 'Texas twist.'"

Like a consummate actor, Dirksen used body English to accompany his stentorian, sonorous, mellifluous tones. In one speech there was mention of choreographer and the Senate was treated to the delightful sight of the portly Dirksen tippy-toeing like a ballet dancer, twirling around the floor.

When he wanted to quiet a crowd, Dirksen would spread both hands in front of him, palms down, and gaze off into space as if communing with far-off, unseen spirits.

"Overemphasis," he explained, "reminds me of the preacher who sprinkled the margins of his sermon with instructions addressed to himself—cues like 'argument weak here; shout like hell.'"

Finger-pointing, he explained, should be held in reserve for special occasions. One such occasion was the 1952 GOP convention when he was backing Sen. Robert A. Taft for the presidential nomination while Thomas E. Dewey—twice defeated candidate—was pulling for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

From the rostrum, the Dirksen hand shot out, diamond glittering on one finger. Pointing straight at Dewey, Dirksen belatedly: "We followed you before and you took us down the road to defeat."

Dirksen spoke angrily about "the anarchy of mob conduct" in America and spoke about "the strange ferment and turbulence of today's youth."

Of war protesters he said "they do not burn draft cards behind the barn or in the cellar. There must be a network camera around or it isn't successful."

His first recording venture was a reading of history. He ended it by reciting the Pledge of Allegiance, explaining afterward:

"I think I would die unhappy unless I made some contribution to putting America, and particularly young America, back into the stream of tradition."

Want Equality For Women In Job Promotions

DURHAM (AP)—The North Carolina State Employees Association wants women to have equality with men in job promotion.

State employees said this in a resolution adopted as they wound up their annual convention here Saturday.

The delegates also elected Louis Bell of Elizabeth City as their president succeeding Clyde H. Benner of Raleigh. Bell defeated Jack Moore of Greensboro.

The resolution on women stated they "are not normally promoted to supervisory positions when they are equally qualified."

It called on the association's board of directors and executive secretary Emmett Burden to consult with the state personnel board "and ask that women be considered and promoted for positions for which they are qualified."

Swearing-In And UNC Meeting Awaits Governor

RALEIGH (AP)—Two speeches, a swearing in ceremony and a meeting of the executive committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Trustees will occupy Gov. Bob Scott this week.

The governor will preside at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday at the swearing in of Jim Danning as state civil defense director.

At 8 p.m. the same day, he will speak at the annual chamber of commerce dinner in Plymouth.

The governor will be in Kingston Thursday to address the quarterly meeting of the North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development at 7:30 p.m.

Scott will preside at a meeting of the university trustees executive committee at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Scott leaves Saturday for the Southern Governors' Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N. C.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Dr. James A. Pike, who lost his battle with the Judean desert which he had hoped would yield a fuller meaning of Christianity for him, "did not fear death and now he is at peace."

The words came from his 31-year-old third wife Diane after the body of the former Episcopal bishop of California was recovered from a ledge of a deep canyon Sunday. The spot was two miles from where she had left him to go for last Monday night.

"There was no more appropriate place for Jim to die, if he had to die," said Mrs. Pike. She told newsmen her 56-year-old husband remarked before they set out on the trip: "If I die here, I will be 'happy and at peace.'"

"President of the university?"

"Why not? It's a way of getting into the school. As acting president you would get first preference from the admissions office once there was an opening in the freshman class."

"But why me?" Rory's son asked.

"We've been trying for a year to fill the job. No one will take it. Then one of the board of trustees suggested we take a freshman applicant for the university and offer him the position. The incentive would be that if he agreed to act as president, he would eventually be admitted as a student."

"I don't want to be a president," Rory's son said. "I may want to go to college, but I don't want to go that badly."

The man behind the desk was desperate. "It pays $50,000 a year. You get a house and servants and a chauffeur-ed car."

"Forget it," Rory's son said.

"You don't have to be in at any time and you get the best seats at the football game."

"Look, if I wanted to do it, my mother and father wouldn't let me. They want me to come back from college in one piece."

"I'm sorry you feel that way, son. From your high school record, I thought you would make a very good president."

The Pikes came to the Holy Land to do research for a book on the life of Christ.

"And now Jim has died in the place where Jesus found consolation," she said. "The book must be finished. My brother and I will do it. It will be a memorial to Jim."

Mrs. Pike said she would remain in Israel for a few more days and would make funeral arrangements after she talked with her husband's relatives in the United States.

Search parties of Israeli police, Bedouin trackers and army volunteers spent six days combing the wasteland where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found 20 years ago.

Police Inspector Salman Abu Yaman said Pike apparently was trying to climb out of the canyon and fell about 800 feet to the ledge.

An Israeli pathologist said Pike apparently died instantly from the fall and had been dead two to five days.

Pike's footprints led from two pools of fresh water a few hundred yards from the spot where he began his fatal attempt to climb out of the canyon.

Last Saturday, Pike's undergarments were found not far from where the couple abandoned their car Monday when it became stuck in a dirt track about five miles from the Dead Sea.

Mrs. Pike went on for help after her husband collapsed and found a camp of road workers after walking all night.

Pike, a late comer to the Episcopal faith, was a controversial figure much of his clerical life. Charges of heresy had been leveled at him by some of his associates.

Born a Roman Catholic, he became an agnostic in 1932 after studying for two years with the Jesuits at the University of Santa Clara, Calif. He went on to earn a law degree at Yale and became an attorney for the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Sometime during these years, he was married for the first time but never spoke of his marriage. Even close friends never learned her name or the dates of the marriage and the annulment.

Pike married the second time in 1942 to Esther Yanovsky by whom he had four children.

After World War II service as a naval intelligence officer, Pike was ordained an Episcopal minister and in 1958 was appointed bishop of California.

He remained a headline figure for the rest of his life. He doubted the virgin birth of Christ, His Resurrection and the concept of the Blessed Trinity. Conservative clerics and laymen attacked him.

Pike resigned as bishop in 1966 and became theologian-in-residence of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, Calif. That was the year his oldest son, James Jr., 22, shot himself to death in a Manhattan hotel room.

The population of Iceland is about 150,000.

New Violence In Six Personalities Appearing In ECU Lecture Series Belfast Feared

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A new explosion of violence threatened in Belfast today, and British troops moved into the center of the city after a young Protestant was killed during an apparent gasoline bomb attack on a Catholic home.

Army officials said the man was killed by unknown gunmen firing from a car. A companion was wounded and taken to a hospital. Police said windows of the house were broken and three unexploded gasoline bombs lay near the dead man's body.

Neighbors identified him as Jack Todd, 23, a member of a Protestant "peace patrol." Several of these groups have been patrolling Belfast since last month's riots.

An angry Protestant crowd gathered after the shooting and army patrols rushed to the scene, but Joseph McKeague, chairman of the Shankill Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, persuaded the crowd to disperse.

The army said it was leaving the investigation to the Royal Ulster Constabulary which posted men armed with automatic weapons at each end of the street. The police said they were treating the case as murder at this stage.

The shooting took place in a district in west Belfast where both Protestants and Roman Catholics live. The area has been one of the flashpoints in recent riots and today some Catholics were hurriedly moving their furniture and going to refugee centers or exclusively Catholic areas.

As another week of tension and economic strain began in Northern Ireland, there were more barricades on the streets.

For the first time in the capital, British troops fired tear gas cartridges Sunday at a Protestant crowd of about 3,000 that threatened to invade a Catholic district.

The jeering crowd ignored demands to move back behind their barricades but scattered when the gas went off.

The clash was the first between British troops and the Northern Irish since the army moved in to take control after the fighting last month between Catholics and Protestants.

A pub, two liquor stores and a factory were hit by fire bombs during the weekend but police figured these were hoodigan attacks. Another pub was hit by a gasoline bomb in east Belfast early today after most crowds had left the streets.

The new barricades, some of them within 100 yards of the City Hall, appeared to mark a new stage in the confrontation in the capital. Protestants erected many of them, apparently as a counter to Catholic barricades that have blocked off some districts for three weeks.

More than 20 of Belfast's double-decker buses have been seized and jammed across streets. All bus service has been suspended, adding to the economic strain.

Starting off the season will be Stewart L. Udall, former Secretary of the Interior. His subject will be "The Value Revolution: hanging America's Priorities," in which he will discuss how to cope with the problems of racial tension, our dying cities, the ugliness of our

Ass'n Waging Sales Tax Drive

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Association of County Commissioners is beating the drums in support of additional one per cent sales taxes on which voters in the state's 100 counties will decide Nov. 4.

The association reported Saturday it had sent out sales tax campaign kits to 800 county officials throughout the state.

Each of the 18-page booklets bears a shiny new penny pasted on its cover, and is called "A Penny For Progress—A Case For The Local Option Sales Tax."

Under a law enacted by the 1969 General Assembly, elections will be held in each county on levying the extra tax. It will become effective only in counties where it is approved.

The booklet gives suggestions for conducting a campaign in support of the tax and gives a breakdown on how much revenue it would bring to each county.

"If your people say they're tired of Washington and Raleigh tending to their business," says the booklet, "they now have a golden opportunity to reassert some local government independence."

environment, and the disenchantment of the young. He is the author of such books as "The Quiet Crisis" and "1976: Agenda For Tomorrow." His lecture will be on Thursday, September 18, 1969.

Following Udall, on Wednesday, October 1, 1969, will be the nuclear physicist, Stanton T. Friedman, whose topic will be "Flying Saucers Are Real."

After ten years of study and investigation, Mr. Friedman is convinced that the earth is being visited by intelligently controlled extraterrestrial vehicles. His talk tells why he is convinced and covers such items as data from the only official study ever conducted, misconceptions about UFO's, the feasibility of interstellar travel, the arguments of educated non-believers, humanoids, polls about UFO's — all from the viewpoint of this practical scientist.

In A Tree

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (AP)— Airport officials at Twin Lakes Airport in Mocksville spent Sunday afternoon trying to remove a single-engine airplane from atop a pine tree.

The plane crashed into the tree earlier in the day while attempting to land.

The pilot, Phillip Jones, 41, of Clemmons, and his three passenger sons, escaped unhurt.

Jones was attempting a second approach landing at the dirt strip in the rented plane when the aircraft stalled and hit the pine tree about 35 to 45 feet from the ground.

Airport officials said the plane was caught in the limbs of the tree.

Roy Potts of the airport staff said he had never seen anything like it, "especially since no one was hurt and everyone was home for lunch." "Now," Potts said, "the problem is getting the plane down."

Dodgers No Longer Friendly

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
With friends like the San Diego Padres, who needs enemies? Certainly not the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"They (the Dodgers) were friendly when they came here, but they aren't any more," observed an Diego skipper Preston Gomez after his lowly Padres rallied to beat the Los Angeles 4-2 Sunday and sweep the four-game series, dropping the Dodgers from third to fourth place in the National League West and jolting their flag hopes.

Many Padres used to be members of the Dodger family, but the only family they resembled over the weekend won the Cosa Nostra. Consider:

—Buzzie Bavasi, president of the Padres, spent his entire baseball career in the Dodger organization, serving as vice president and general manager from 1951 through 1968.

—Field manager Gomez was a Dodger coach the last four seasons.

—San Diego pitching coach Roger Craig was a Dodger hurler during seven seasons and later scouted and managed in the minors for them.

—Coach Sparky Anderson Dodger outfielder from 1959-65 and helped them to three world championships.

—Coach Sparky Anderson spent six years as an infielder in the Dodger chain.

—Broadcaster Duke Snider was one of the all-time Dodger greats, roaming the outfield from 1948-62 and setting a club record of 43 home runs in 1956.

—Despite the four-game shock treatment, the Dodgers trail first-place San Francisco by only 2½ games. The Giants lead

Cincinnati by 1½ games and Atlanta by two.

Elsewhere in the NL, Atlanta drubbed Cincinnati 7-3, Houston nipped San Francisco 7-6, Pittsburgh took Chicago 7-5 in 11 innings, trimming the Cubs' East Division lead by 2½ games over the New York Mets, who walloped Philadelphia 9-3, and Montreal blanked St. Louis 3-0.

In the American League, Minnesota blasted Oakland 16-4, Baltimore outlasted Detroit 6-5 in 14 innings, Washington edged Boston 3-2 in 10, Cleveland beat the New York Yankees 7-3, the Chicago White Sox defeated California 4-1 and Seattle shaded Kansas City 7-6 in 10 innings.

Ed Spiezio's breaking single highlighted a three-run rally in the seventh that carried San Diego past the Dodgers. The Padres trailed 2-1 entering the inning, but Claude Osteen walked Jose Arcia and Roberto Pena doubled him home.

Al Ferrara—another ex-Dodger—drew an intentional walk before Spiezio singled to break the tie. Clarence Gaston singled home the final run of the inning.

Relievers Gary Ross and Billy McCool choked off Dodger threats in the eighth and ninth to save the triumph for Al Sontori.

"I was amused by their change of attitude," Gomez said of his former colleagues. "They were laughing and having fun when they were beating us so bad earlier in the season."

The Dodgers held a 9-2 edge over the Padres before the sweep, including such lopsided victories as 19-0, 14-0, 11-0 and 10-1.

"Now they're sore," Gomez continued. "Len Gabrielson was yelling at our bench saying, 'You donkeys, you don't have any right to beat us.' A d Ted Sizemore was getting on Moon, calling him Old man.' If they'd lost four straight to San Francisco they'd figure they got beat by a better club, but it killed them to lose four straight to us."

Orlando Cepeda's two-run double and a two-run error by Tony Perez gave Atlanta four runs in the first inning and the Braves held on as Ron Reed posted his 15th triumph. The Braves scored two more runs in the fourth and Hank Aaron unloaded his 39th homer—and 549th of his career—in the seventh.

Houston fell behind San Francisco 6-0 when the Giants scored all their runs in the fourth against Don Wilson and Jim Bouton. But Tommy Davis doubled a run home in the last of the fourth and the Astros caught up with five in the sixth, including two-run singles by Davis and pinch-hitter Bob Watson. Hector Torres won it in the last of the ninth with a two-out, bases-loaded pinch single.

Matty Alou raced home from second on Don Kessinger's error with one out in the 11th and Richie Hebner singled home an insurance run as the Pirates sent the skidding Cubs to their fourth consecutive defeat. The third-place Pirates are 7½ games out after sweeping the three-game set.

Willie Stargell's homer with two out in the ninth sent the game into extra innings after Jim Hickman's two-run shot in the eighth gave the Cubs a 5-4 lead.

Art Shamsky, who homered earlier, drive in the go-ahead run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh as the Mets whipped the Phillies. Ken Boswell's triple made it 5-3 and the Mets sewed it up with four in the eighth on two run singles by Tommie Agee—who also homered—and Rod Gaspar.

Rusty Staub hit a three-run homer on a 3-0 pitch from Steve Carlton in the third inning for all the game's runs and Montreal's Bill Stoneman blanked the Cards on five hits.

the primary sponsors of the event.

"We have not been old whether—or when—we will receive our funds," Walsh said. "And at the present time, I'm sure the Michigan Golf Classic Inc. is seeking advice from legal counsel."

He said that no player had received a check for winnings, but that they "accepted the news without much fuss" and indicated they expected the problem would be solved satisfactorily.

Warren Orlick, national secretary of the PGA, said a new regulation passed in April requires any new tournament to be bonded.

But, he said, the Michigan Classic contract was completed just prior to that ruling.

Although no official figures were announced, newsmen estimated the four-day crowd at Ziegler

It was Ziegler's first tournament victory in three years on the tour, and, if he ever gets his prize money, his 1969 winnings will jump to $55,000.

Ziegler went into Sunday's final round trailing coleaders Larry Hinson and Kermit Zarley by three strokes at 208, two under par.

Then he fired an amazing 64—best score for any round in the tourney—to finish eight under par at 272 for 72 holes.

Blancas, who is from Houston, came in behind Ziegler and tied for the lead by chipping in on the 18th hole, finishing regulation play with a 65 for the last 18 holes.

Veteran Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., and J. C. Snead of Hot Springs, Va., came in behind Ziegler and Blancas with 273 totals after each had shot 67. They were posted for prizes of $5,900 each.

Cougars Begin Training Today

BOONE, N. C. (AP) — "Monday's the day," head Carolina Cougars coach Bones McKinney said. "We've been sitting around, but that's behind us. Today is the day."

McKinney made the remark Sunday night in Boone in reference to the opening day of the preseason training camp for the American Basketball Association team.

Thirteen rookies reported to the camp to begin a week's work. Their number will be cut in half following the game-type scrimmage before the Cougar veterans report on Sept. 14.

The camp will close on Sept. 28 with an intersquad scrimmage.

Heading the list of rookies are guard Gene Littles of High Point and Bill Bunting of North Carolina, both are called "can't miss" candidates for stardom with the new ABA.

Fred Lind of Duke and Gene Ford of Western Michigan also reported, McKinney said.

McKinney said, "I think that everyone is really looking forward to this week. I'm looking for at least part of the veterans to show before the end of the week. We want them all here and to get going."

Ziegler's $20,000 Prize Fades As Michigan Classic Fails Pay Off

By LARRY PALADINO
WALLED LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Larry Ziegler should be $20,000 richer today—but he's not.

The 30-year-old Missourian won the $100,000 Michigan Golf Classic on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday with Texan Homero Blancas after both had finished regulation play with 272 scores.

But the $20,000 first prize won by Ziegler apparently wasn't won at all—only promised. The same was true for the $11,000 posted as prize money for Blancas.

Moments after the new Professional Golfers' Association event was over, an official announced that tournament sponsors apparently didn't have the prize money to pay off the field of 73 pros.

"This is the first time in history I ever remember that happening," said George Walsh, the PGA's supervisor at the tournament.

The holdback in prize money was described as incredible by Joseph Dey Jr., commissioner of the Tournament Players Division of the PGA.

The prize money holdback came to light when Walsh assembled newsmen and told them: "About 3:39 this afternoon, I was handed this note."

He pointed to a hastily penned message on a scratch pad which read:

"Receipts at this time are insufficient to write a check for the prize fund. Payment must be deferred until all our receivables are in." It was signed Michigan Golf Classic Inc.

Three Detroit-area businessmen, Marshall Chambers, Brennan and Phil Lachman were

Rod Laver Bids Today For Pro Grand Slam

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Australia's Rod Laver went after his 30th straight match victory and the last leg of a pro grand slam in the U. S. Open Tennis Championships and it's only natural fans have begun asking:

Is this little Queenslander with the lightning reflexes and steel-trap left wrist the greatest tennis player who ever lived?

"A lot of people say so—players who saw Bill Tolden, Don Budge and Jack Kramer," said Pancho Gonzales, a onetime undisputed king of the sport now entering a new business venture as a director of a proposed network of indoor court facilities.

"Before making a judgment, I'd like to see him against a man like Lew Hoard or Don Budge."

Laver won't face either of these court giants of another era. Instead he was set to meet a fellow Australian seven years his junior and a fellow left-hander, Tony Roche, on the center court of the West-Side Tennis Club at 12 noon, EDT, with the $16,000 first prize at stake.

Laver qualified for the title round by quickly winning two remaining games from Arthur

Ashe Jr., the defending champion in the match that had been called Friday because of darkness. The final score was 8-6, 6-3, 14-12.

Roche outlasted a fellow Australian, second-seeded John Newcombe, in a three-hour struggle waged in intense humidity. The score was 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 88-6.

Roche, 24, born and reared in a small outback community of 300 residents in New South Wales, has a 5-2 record against Laver this year and 6-3 since he turned professional two years ago.

But nobody has beaten the red-haired Rocket of Rockhampton since Newcombe turned the trick at Queen's Club in London, a Wimbledon prep, last June. Laver has won the Australian, French and Wimbledon titles—the first three legs of a grand slam Don Budge achieved as an amateur in 1938 and Laver in 1962, also as an amateur.

Margaret Court of Australia established herself as best of the women by crushing Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex., in the women's singles final 6-2, 6-

MOODY DELIVERS TROPHY — Orville Moody, Akron Sunday. Moody carded a 141 for the left, delivers the World Series of Golf trophy to his wife, Doris, after he won tournament in thirty-six holes, one over par. George Archer was second, two strokes back. (AP Wirephoto)

Moody Never Had It So Good In The Army

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Orville Moody never had it so good as an Army sergeant playing amateur golf.

The second-year pro from Killean, Tex., came on strong Sunday with a three-under par 67 for a two-stroke victory in the World Series of Golf.

His 36-hole score of 141 earned him $50,000 and pushed him near the $130,000 mark for the year in unofficial winning.

The 35-year-old Moody didn't come close to that figure in 14 years with the Army.

"From the fourth hole on, I felt I would take it. I was hitting everything good," the modest Texan said.

But he praised runnerup George Archer "who played the best, but he couldn't hole any putts."

Archer, the towering Californian who won the Masters, finished with a 69 for 143 while first-round leader Ray Floyd was slipping to a 73 for a tie with Tony Jacklin of London, England, at 145.

Archer's second-place finish was worth $15,000 while PGA ti-distist Floyd and British Open champ Jacklin, who shot a 72, split $12,500.

Moody, who played almost flawless golf with 15 pars and three birds, said he putted better than at any time he's been on the tour.

Moody said he still cherished his victory in the U.S. Open more than anything else.

"I think the Open victory has to be my biggest thrill. You play against 150 top pros in the Open and only three in the Series."

Archer, plagued by a tennis elbow and stomach disorder all week, said he was "pleased to be this close. I have been playing terrible the last three weeks. Orville was very aggressive once he got the lead."

Canada's area of 3,851,809 square miles includes 291,571 square miles of inland water.

Sneak preview of next year's Volkswagen sedan.

If you just bought this year's VW sedan, congratulations. Next year nobody will know you're not driving next year's VW sedan. Because next year's beetle will look like this year's beetle. (What else?) And every other beetle we've ever made. So it will be just as hard to tell a 20-year-old VW from a brand new VW: Buying a car that doesn't go out of style has still another benefit: you don't take a beating when you sell it. A VW depreciates very slowly.

But even though next year's Volkswagen won't be different, it will be different. We've made some nice improvements. As usual. (Over 2200 since 1949.) So in next year's VW you can look forward to a new — and a bigger — and a different — Well, you wouldn't want us to give away all our little secrets, would you? What kind of sneaky preview would that be?

Less Emphasis Today Given Church Plants

By GEORGE W. CORNELL and mortar operations of the AP Religion Writer American churches are headed NEW YORK (AP) — Brick downward. And some religious leaders think the trend may portend a Christian future mostly without buildings and their customary paraphernalia. At the same time, however, new strengths and initiatives are showing up in local congregations, whose heavily weighted building outlays often led religious analysts to write them off as obsolete vestiges of a small-town past.

To keep humming, many of them are changing their ways, with less emphasis on physical plant and its accouterments.

The Rev. Dr. Gerald J. Jud, general secretary of the Division of Evangelism of the United Church of Christ, says that in an increasing number of cases, the local parish "is stronger than ever."

It is "showing signs of change" and the creativity to revamp its style to carry on its functions in new conditions, he says. Because of reaction against impersonal bigness, he adds, "the local is now again coming to the fore."

Indications of that resurgence, running counter to numerous forecasts of the gradual demise of the local parish, have come on a wave of widespread local experimentation and adaptations.

It also has come amid a steeply shrinking amount of church construction.

Although the national total spent for new church buildings has hovered near $1 billion annually for the last decade, the rise in costs has resulted in cutting the actual amount of construction a third below what it was 10 years ago.

The sharpest downturn, taking inflationary factors into account, has been in the last three years, says the U.S. Department of Commerce. So expensive has church construction become, says the Rev. Dr. Donald L. Houser, a Lutheran official, that congregations in the decade ahead may have to find some "base of operations" other than a building.

This already is happening in many cases, he adds.

Dr. Houser, executive secretary of the Lutheran Church in America's Board of Missions, told a recent conference that new congregations are being used, including:

Storefront chapels, home group meetings, community rooms in high-rise apartment projects, trailer units, and shared facilities with already existing congregations, often on an ecumenical basis. In some cases, Protestants and Catholics are sharing worship quarters.

Describing the cost pressures, Dr. Houser noted that 20 years ago, $25,000 would help a new congregation erect its first building unit, but the cost now runs from $130,000 to $170,000. Mortgage interest rates also have soared.

Hawaii Still Loves Him, Says Don Ho

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer HONOLULU (AP) — To the rest of America, Don Ho seems to be the symbol of the new Hawaii—fresh, alive, up-to-date, loaded with island charm. To the islanders, he is something else again.

Perhaps it was only natural. Ho was the hometown boy who made good, and a few years ago he might have been elected mayor of Honolulu in a landslide. Not now.

The mainland also has discovered the sleepy-eyed entertainer, and now he stars in television specials, in big-city concerts and in the casinos of Las Vegas. He no longer is Hawaii's own. Also, he has been the target of bad publicity over reports that he shuffled off shows, used "blue" material before family audiences and battled with his management.

There is no evidence of any lack of popularity at Duke Kahanamoku's night club, which is packed nightly with tourists and returning Vietnam veterans. Prices are the steepest in Waikiki—$4.50 cover charge, $4.95-$8.95 for dinner, $1.75-$3 per drink. But long lines await each show. For his weekly labors Ho is paid a reported $17,800.

Ho can be a crowd pleaser. He sings less than he did, in his early career. "I'm not really a singer," he claims. But he does his hit numbers—"Pearly Shells," "Tiny Bubbles," and "Born Free"—and evokes laughter and applause by featuring married couples and children in audience participation. He presents promising new singers, and the show is backed by a large orchestra with string section.

After a dinner show, Ho relaxed in his upstairs apartment and discussed a number of matters, including his relations with the locals.

"Unfortunately, they can't come to see me because the price is too high for them," he remarked. "And besides, Honolulu is not a late-night town. The people here are working people, and they go to bed early and get up early. The only locals who come to see me perform are other entertainers, off-duty police, people like that."

"But that doesn't mean I am out of touch. My people understand what I am doing. I am interpreting the new Hawaii to the mainland, and that is good for Hawaii."

"They know I haven't changed. When I drive around town in my car, they wave hello to me, and I can tell that they feel warmly toward me."

THERE SHE GOES — Miss America of 1970, blonde, green-eyes, Pamela Anne Eldred, of Detroit, Mich., walks along the ramp at Atlantic City, N. J., after she was crowned the new queen of beauties. She is 21 years old, five feet, five and a half inches tall. (AP Wirephoto)

Goren on BRIDGE

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AKQ32 ♥A2 ♦AQJ ♣KQJ
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 2♠ Pass 4♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Pass. The jump raise in the opening two bid suit is a specialized bid and by convention describes a hand which contains very good trump support but no aces or kings and no singletons. Therefore, it is clear that your side lacks the club ace. Furthermore, there is a heart loser to dispose of and a diamond finesse to contend with. Slim, therefore, should be regarded as too remote for practical consideration.

Q. 2.—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AK652 ♥AJ ♦AQ3 ♣KQ8
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 Pass Pass 2NT Pass
 4NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—This hand contains 23 points in high cards in addition to a good five card suit. Consequently you have sufficient excess values to accept the invitation and should bid six no trump.

Q. 3.—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠Q10532 ♥43 ♦K62 ♣964
 The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1♠ Dbl. 1♠ Dbl.
 Pass Pass 2♣ Pass
 Pass 2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Pass. Partner has a more or less reasonable idea of your holding from your double of the one spade bid. You have done your duty and should sit back and relax.

Q. 4.—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K73 ♥K54 ♦AJ92 ♣AJ5
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1NT 2♥ 2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Pass; this hand is a rock bottom minimum one no trump, and it is not to be presumed that partner has as many as 10 points, else he should make a jump bid.

Q. 5.—Both sides vulnerable with 60 part score and as South you hold:
 ♠K10642 ♥7 ♦KQ1042 ♣A8
 The bidding has proceeded:
 West North East South
 1♥ Pass 2♥ ?

What do you bid?
 A.—Our own choice lies between a double and a bid of three diamonds, with a slight preference for the latter. This may seem unorthodox, inasmuch as the normal call would appear to be two spades. However, preparation for the next round suggests the wisdom of a three diamond bid. When the opponents bid three hearts, which is probable, you may then compete conveniently with a bid of three spades. Whereas, if you bid two spades now and the opponents bid three hearts, you will find it necessary to bid four diamonds in order to carry on the fight.

Q. 6.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠K8632 ♥53 ♦92 ♣A1096
 The bidding has proceeded:
 North East South West
 1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
 1NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Two clubs, with two worthless doubletons, a suit contract would seem preferable. This is not forcing, for a new suit after a one no trump bid may be dropped.

Q. 7.—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠A10 ♥AQJ975 ♦94 ♣976
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
 2♥ Pass 2♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Three hearts, inasmuch as you have a minimum hand in high cards, you must do no more than make minimum rebids.

Q. 8.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
 ♠AQ104 ♥64 ♦AQJ72 ♣82
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1♦ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
 A.—Three spades, inasmuch as you are committed to reach a game contract, nothing is to be lost by stopping off on the way to try out your major suit. The three spade bid does not necessarily show additional values.

Col. H. Dortch Stricken Sunday

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Col. Hugh Dortch, 73, who was chairman of the North Carolina Civil War Centennial Commission in 1961-65, died Sunday in the hotel room where he lived.

Dortch, a lawyer, was a starting tackle on the University of North Carolina football team before World War I. During that war he served as an infantry sergeant.

During World War II, Dortch was chief of staff of the State Guard. A Democrat, he served in the State Senate in 1931 and 1933 and ran for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 3rd District in 1934. He was defeated by the late Graham Barden.

Dortch is survived by a son, Dr. Hugh Dortch Jr. of West Palm Beach, Fla.; two daughters, Mrs. Helen Harrison of Raleigh and Mrs. Ralph Faison of Greensboro, and a brother, Redmond Dortch of Sebring, Fla.

The funeral was tentatively scheduled for Wednesday.

Escapee Mails Detective Card

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An escaped prisoner mailed police detective Craig Carucci a postcard with the greeting: "I guess it's goodbye for a while."

The card was from Joseph Lareou, who had been in the custody of West Hartford police in July and promised to send Carucci a card if he escaped. He did escape—late last month in Manchester while awaiting a court appearance.

Pictured on the card was an airport in a Middle Atlantic state.

Prison Term For Slaying Wife

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — William Drake, 24, of Rt. 1, Kinston, was sentenced to 30 years in prison Saturday in Lenoir County Superior Court after being convicted of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of his wife last November.

Testimony indicated Darke beat his wife, Patricia, 26, with a hoe handle, shot her three times with a .38 caliber revolver, then shot himself in the abdomen.

Shootout Leaves One Man Dead

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — One man was killed and another wounded Sunday night in a shootout on a downtown Winston-Salem street.

The dead man was identified as Leander Crowell, 59, of Winston-Salem. Wounded was John E. Workman, 42, also of Winston-Salem.

Police quoted a witness as saying Crowell pulled a pistol and shot Workman, then Workman in turn pulled a pistol and shot Crowell.

Liquid Gas And Motor Oil Tanks Explode, Burn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five tanks of liquid gas and motor oil exploded in flames late Sunday at the Philadelphia refinery of Atlantic Richfield Co., killing one worker. It was the second major refinery fire in the southwest part of the city in three days.

The blaze broke out at 11:50 p.m. in adjacent propane and phenol extraction units with a combined capacity of 10,500 barrels a day. The units were filled and operating.

The man killed—Stanton Pillinghast, 63, of Lansdown—was one of five working the units, a company spokesman said. Five other workers were injured, none seriously, officials said.

The fire, which spread to three tanks containing 100 barrels of motor oil each, was under control by 2 a.m. The cause was undetermined.

No Damage Due To Grass Fire

Greenville firemen were called to the Export Tobacco Co. at the intersection of 10th and Greene Streets yesterday when a grass fire erupted there.

Fire officers who responded to the 4:03 p.m. alarm from Box 17, reported that the fire was out when they arrived and caused no damage.

Impossible Causes Aided By 'St. Jude Express'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—It's called the St. Jude Express—named after the patron saint of impossible causes—and in a charitable way it lives up to the moniker.

The St. Jude Express consists of 11 men and an airplane. They deliver medicines, food and clothing to remote missions in New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Mexico. The plane is a single-engine blue and white. The money for the plane was donated by the Rascop Corp., a charitable organization in Delaware. St. Jude's members include a welfare worker, a navy com- for five cents and heavy jackets for 25 cents. "Most of our operating expenses are paid by private contributions," Eiffert said.

The corporation sells shirts Piper Cherokee and it has "St. Jude Express" painted on both sides of the fuselage next to the doors.

The idea of the St. Jude Express, which operates as a private, non-denominational charitable organization, came into being two years ago in the remote Sierra Madre Mountains of Mexico at the small village of Sisoguichic.

"We saw people who daily fight the battle against starvation, the elements, disease and death. We also saw how much good our skills as pilots could mean to people living in remote regions," said Ed Young who, along with another flier, Joe Flanagan, organized the express and chose the symbolic title.

"Most of the items we deliver are donated. If we can't get donated food, then we purchase it," said A. R. Eiffert, who serves as secretary of the express.

Help Is On The Way

Eiffert said most of the medical supplies come from shipments designated for Mexico by the Roman Catholic Missionary Board in New York City.

The Express, which makes a few deliveries by auto, usually takes to the air with a cargo of up to 1300 pounds.

"We land wherever we can. Some of our landing strips are run-down jeep trails and sometimes the missionaries we work with have to drive a couple of miles to meet our plane," Young said.

Young, the organization's president and chief pilot, said some of the areas are so remote that "sometimes we can't even find them."

Most of the items delivered to the some 15 missions served by the Express are free. However, the flying missionary service does sell clothing whenever possible. It also has established three thrift stores in outlying New Mexico communities.

"When clothing is sold, half of the proceeds stay at the mission and half goes back to St. Jude's to help pay for the upkeep of the plane," Young said.

Wheat Notices Mailed In Pitt

All 1970 crop wheat allotment notices for farms in Pitt County are in the mail and most producers should now have received them, W.F. Tyson, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, announced today.

In addition to receiving allotment notices, wheat producers have been provided basic information on the 1970 wheat program.

This includes notice that: —the national average price-support loan level will be 1.25 per bushel, unchanged from recent years. (County and terminal price-support rates, reflecting the national average loan rate usually are announced the following April. They may vary from the preceding year because of changes in freight rates and price relationships among terminals as well as other adjustments. The price-support rate in North Carolina for 1969 is $1.34).

—an acreage diversion program will be available for participants in the 1970 wheat program. Payment will be made for diverting below the farm allotment. Producers will get half the county wheat loan rate times the farm's projected yield on the extra acreage diverted.

—domestic wheat marketing certificates will be available on eligible production of wheat farmers taking part in the program. These certificates will be based on 48 per cent of the projected production. This compares with 43 per cent in 1969. The per bushel domestic marketing certificate payments for the 1970 crop may be valued as high or higher than the record $1.52 per bushel being paid this year. Domestic marketing certificates will be issued for about 530 million bushels, the expected domestic food use of wheat for 1970-71. Tyson stressed that payments under the 1970 wheat program would be subject to any limitations that might be required by Congress.

—Substitution provisions between feed grains and wheat are being continued for farmers who sign up and participate in both programs. No determination has yet been made on whether barley will be included in the 1970 feed grain program; however, required diversion for barley as a condition of substitution will be identical to the qualifying minimum acreage diversion required for feed grain program participation. Those with oats/rye bases will also be eligible to substitute wheat for oats or rye by diverting part of the oats/rye base to conserving use.

"In general, provisions of the 1970 wheat program are much the same as those for 1969," Tyson reported. "The two objectives are to strengthen the farm price for wheat and to attempt to bring wheat production into line with needs."

Tyson continued, "All wheat farmers know that world wheat production has been higher than demand during the last few years, and our sales have slowed. The 12 per cent cut in the national wheat acreage allotment this year should improve our national position."

Banks Announce Merger Plans

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The State Bank of Wingate and the First National Bank of Eastern North Carolina have announced plans for a proposed merger.

The plans were announced Sunday. The merger has been approved by the board of directors of both banks and now must be approved by the bank's stockholders and the U.S. Comptroller of Currency. Plans call for the State Bank to merge with First National under ownership of Financial Corp., a one-bank holding company established earlier this year.

The Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES
Agricultural Extension Agent
Start Harvest At Right Time

Don't blame your combine for all field losses and damaged grain. Deciding when to start harvesting is tough, but by starting at the right time, you can reduce such losses.

It's hard to put a dollars-and-cents value on harvest timeliness—it's so tied in with machine operation, weather, and crop. But when harvesting at less than optimum conditions, losses quickly increase.

Too early or too late. Start harvesting too early and your machine efficiency, increased grain damage, storage problem and often market penalties.

Start too late, and weather, diseases, pests take their cut. University of Illinois ag engineers recently found that by harvesting at the proper time, soybean losses can be reduced as much as two-thirds. Under ideal conditions, losses average $5 - 6/A was delayed 10 days or more after maturity, losses jumped $1-A-day.

The when to harvest is critical with wheat and other small grains, too. Yield and protein content of winter wheat in a 14-year Nebraska study increases as harvest moisture levels fell. At the early dough stage (50 percent moisture) yields averaged 21.7 bu-A; at late dough (43.1 percent), 27.6; and at maturity (25.2 percent), 30.7 bu-A.

Time affects corn losses, too. In corn, ag engineers estimate field losses average about 10 percent or more. This includes dropped ears, lodged stalks, and shelled corn. Timely harvesting can reduce these losses considerably. In one study, field losses in October averaged 5 percent, in November they rose to 8.4 percent, and by December losses exceeded 18 percent.

Corn is mature when the plant stops depositing dry matter in the kernels. At this stage moisture is about 30-35 percent.

The best moisture level for corn harvest depends upon hiring a custom operator.

your equipment and storage. For ear corn and ear storage without drying shoot for about 20 percent. In drying, 25 percent is about ideal level, but you can start higher.

For long-term storage of shelled corn, dry it down to 13 percent. But you can start harvest with a picker-sheller or combine at 25-26 percent moisture. For high moisture grain, 28 percent is ideal, but start at 30-35 percent moisture. Have your equipment ready to roll-ahead of time. This means having combine or picker tuned up, elevators and dryer in place, and wagons or trucks ready to go.

Keep a close eye on the crop—know what's happening to only a slight change in the weather makes a big difference.

Plant crops early so you can start harvesting early. Have large enough equipment to do a fast efficient job. If you haven't enough capacity to harvest an entire crop during the least loss period, consider

"We normally go out on weekends but we also try weekdays during the summer when it is still light after work. We keep two pilots at the plane and keep the flying operation as safe as we know how to make it," Eiffert said.

Last year the Express's six pilots flew 80 missions for a total of 60,000 miles. "It would have probably been more but we didn't get the plane until last August," Eiffert said.

One volunteer, Bob Welk, is chairman of the Express's "medicine-collecting division" and spends his evenings writing letters to pharmaceutical companies to get medical supplies.

"We carry a payload that is 100 per cent useful because we cannot afford any wasted space. The people we are serving will take anything that isn't illegal or immoral," Welk said.

St. Jude's Express hopes to make its services available on a state-wide basis in the fall and open seven more thrift stores by the end of the year.

"We don't expect to ever be out of business," Welk said, because the Good Lord said we will always have the poor people with us."

Top Magazine Business Manager Renews Old Debate

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert Leslie Cole has spent the adult portion of his 75 years on the business side of magazines—advertising and promoting them, building their circulation, watching their cash—but he thinks editors are more important.

"They are like musical conductors," he says. "The contributions might appear imperceptible but the effects are big."

Any magazine, he says, reflects the editorial personality. You cannot manufacture a magazine to fit a market, he feels. Instead, a good magazine is the subjective product of a good editor with sound ideas and a willingness to prove them.

That would seem to limit the role of the business manager, and Cole's contributions, but his associates don't agree. On Sept. 16 they plan to present him with the magazine industry's highest honor, the Henry Johnson Fisher Award for achievement in magazine publishing.

Cole has been an eminent achiever. As general manager of the Reader's Digest, he helped push domestic circulation to 17.25 million, foreign to 11-million and exposure to perhaps 100 million readers in 100 countries.

Being a closely held corporation, the Digest Association doesn't reveal its profits but they are there, you can be sure, even if the rolling old orchards of Pleasantville, N.Y., are deceptively noncommercial. So is Ft. Knox.

A four-color, single-page advertisement in the Digest will cost $58,275 beginning next January. And many Digest advertisers take multiple pages; last year a 40-page, $1 million-plus ad appeared in one edition.

Sitting in the study of his rambling white colonial on 19 acres in Greenwich, Conn., Cole repeatedly bridged the no-man's land that separates many suspicious magazine editors from their own business offices.

"The success of magazines is clearly dependent on editorial competence," he said. "And that talent, the talent needed to edit a magazine, is one of the rarest of human talents."

What is it made of? "Creative imagination, writing ability and a knowledge of how to deal with people," said Cole, whose mobile face suggests affability and bulldog determination.

Cole was one of the earliest associates of DeWitt and Lila Acheson Wallace, who founded the Digest. For years he was second only to them in the Digest hierarchy, stepping down recently as executive committee chairman.

Interviewed some years ago by Printer's Ink, an advertising magazine, DeWitt Wallace stated: "He is by far the ablest man in magazine publishing today... In a business sense, all the Digest's growth is attributable to Cole."

"The general magazine field has been hurt by TV in a very material, very substantial way," Cole conceded. Even the Digest, he confessed, has suffered some, but not nearly as have the picture magazines.

Cole's natural optimism soon overcame the disturbing thoughts. "Over-all," he said, "the magazine industry is very healthy. The future is bright. As the level of education rises so will magazine reading."

The education-magazine relationship is a revealed truth to publishers and they accept it with an almost religious fervor. Cole is among the believers.

"The increase in the educational level of the individual is the key to magazine readership," Cole said again. "Studies show that magazine readers as a media group have the highest level of education."

The importance of this discovery becomes obvious when you reflect that education is being afforded more people than ever, and that more and more people are going on to advanced levels of learning.

The question that remains, despite Cole's affirmations, is whether the editorial or the business side does the most to win those educated readers.

It is an eternal argument, and when a man who spends more than five decades in the business office looks back from age 75 and gives almost all the credit to editors, then the argument really gets all roiled up.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

At Least 20 Die In N.C. Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The State Highway Patrol said 20 persons were killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina during the weekend, raising the state's death toll for the year to 1,500.

Carl D. Driggers, 18, of Rt. 1, Linden, was killed when his car hit a utility pole and overturned west of Fayetteville.

Gordon Castevens, 17, of Rt. 1, Booneville, and Miss Garryn Stinson, also 17, of Rt. 2, Booneville, were killed when the car in which they were riding went out of control and hit a tree on a rural Yadkin County road.

The driver of the car, David Hutchens, 17, of Rt. 1, Yadkinville, and another passenger, were slightly injured.

Tommy Lee Nichols, 20, of Swannanoa was killed 3/4 miles west of Black Mountain when his motorcycle ran off the left side of the road and hit a utility pole.

FULL OR PART TIME HELP with elderly person. Would consider having someone live in. Write P. O. Box 651, Greenville.

This week (September 8-13) has been designated as the Big Week to get the R-6-P (Reduce 6 Pests) Campaign started on all farms in Pitt County. Several farmers have already completed the first two steps of this important program, while there are others that have not started.

A recent survey throughout the county indicates that about 60 percent of the tobacco stubbles have been plowed out. Some have been disked after being exposed to the sun for two weeks. An additional 18 percent of the stalks have been cut without the roots being plowed out. This leaves 22 percent of the stalks that have not been disturbed.

Growers that are not proceeding NOW with this important practice on their farms are making their first mistake of their 1970 crop. Both diseases and insects will most probably be increased on your farm in 1970 if you do not follow through with Operation R-6-P now.

The diseases that can be reduced by this program are: nematodes, brown spot, and mosaic.

The insects that can be reduced are: hornworms, budworms, and flea beetles.

If you have completed the first two steps and have allowed the roots to be exposed to the sun for two weeks, it is now time to thoroughly disc the fields and cover all trash and plant debris. This will further help reduce the severity of diseases and insects in your 1970 tobacco crop.

If you have completed this task and your neighbor has not, encourage him to do so. Let's make Pitt County a 100 percent R-6-P County in 1969.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets steady. Top prices 24.00-25.00 at Wilson and Rocky Mount; 23.50-24.50 at Bethel and Tarboro; 23.50-24.00 at Siler City and Denton; 25.00 at Salisbury; 24.25 at Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina poultry market steady. Live poultry at farm 14%. Hens steady, heavy type at farm 13, FOB plants 14%.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market retreated on a fairly wide front in moderate trading early this afternoon as the downdrift which carried it sharply lower last week continued.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 6.01 at 813.49.

Declines led advances by better than 500 issues.

Analysts said many investors remained hesitant because of continuing uncertainty over the domestic economic and international situations.

"There's no apparent indication the Federal Reserve is going to ease up on the tight money situation," an analyst said, "and there's still a lot of concern about the Vietnam situation."

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was off 1.6 at 286.6, with industrials off .6, rails off .9, and utilities off .5.

Associated drygoods Corp., in which a 127,000-share block was traded, led the New York Stock Exchange's most-active list, off 1 at 44%.

Oils among the actives mostly were lower, with second most-active Occidental Petroleum off 1/2 at 29. Occidental has large oil interests in Libya.

Gulf Oil was off 1/2 at 36%; Cities Service, off at 53%; Atlantic Richfield, off 2/4 at 110; Phillips petroleum, up 1/4 at 33%; Texaco, off 1/4 at 33%; Natomas, up 1/4 at 99%.

Among the glamor issues Sperry Rand, unchanged at 42%; IBM off 1/4 at 337 1/2; Control Data, off 2 at 145; and Xerox, off 1/2 at 91%.

Prices of active stocks included: Great Western Financial, off 1/4 at 24%; American Telephone & Telegraph, off 1/4 at 51 1/2; Lilt Industries, off 1 at 44%;

Westinghouse, off 1 at 56 1/2 and Roan Selection Trust, up 1/4 at 5.

Steels mostly were lower. Motors were mixed, with Ford and American Motors up fractions, Chrysler off a fraction, and General Motors unchanged.

Aircrafts, electronics, utilities, metals and chemicals mostly were lower.

Among conglomerates, AMK Corp. was off 1/4 at 5, and Ling-temco-Vought was off 1/4 at 35 1/2.

Slippery Way To Move Machine

SHEFFIELD, Ala. (UPI)—When no one else could figure out how to move a 100-ton piece of delicate machinery 25 feet inside the Reynolds Aluminum plant here, foreman Robert McDonald came up with an idea. He spread 100 pounds of bananas and their peels on the floor around the huge machine and it was slid into its new position without trouble. The foreman is now known around the factory as "Slipper McDonald."

Some Sort Of Reply Expected On Arms Talks

By LEWIS GULICK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials expect some sort of answer from the Soviet Union during the opening days of the UN General Assembly on starting the long-awaited American-Russian nuclear arms control talks.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers plans to fly to New York Sept. 15, the eve of the assembly opening, for meetings with other foreign ministers, including Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko.

Aides anticipated Rogers will have his first talk with Gromyko by Sept. 20 and "give us more time" response then on President Nixon's bid to begin the strategic arms parley.

The Kremlin's failure to reply so far to Nixon's notice of U.S. readiness to start the talks as of last July 31—given to Soviet Anatoly F. Dobrynin on June 11—has surprised and puzzled administration officials.

U.S. sources said new word has been received from Moscow that Dobrynin, who had been expected to return from home consultations last summer with the Soviet reply, has again been delayed by ill health. But the Americans suspect the delay has been due to more than the ambassador's recurring stomach ailment.

Delays have been displayed by both superpowers before and since former President Lyndon B. Johnson told the nation July 1, 1968, that he could "announce to the world a significant agreement."

The talks were about to get under way when Soviet troops invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20, 1968, and Washington decided on a postponement.

After taking office, Nixon continued the delay while his administration conducted its own review of potential implications of the talks.

Administration authorities have offered a range of speculation as to why the Kremlin is foot-dragging on its response. —The Soviets too have been conducting a broad strategic arms review in shaping up their bargaining position for the talks.

—The Kremlin has become so preoccupied with its dispute with Red China that it is not ready or is unwilling to start the disarmament discussions with the United States now.

—The Russians marked time while they watched the outcome of the antiballistic missile debate in Washington and to see what the United States does in testing multiple-headed nuclear missiles.

—The international situation generally, or some part of it such as Vietnam or the Middle East issue, has convinced Soviet leaders they should go slow on disarmament talks.

—The committee leadership in Moscow is divided and unable to undertake new foreign affairs initiatives.

Accepts Dare To Raise Own Steer

LEVITTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—A Long Island housewife who thinks meat prices are too high has taken up a dare from a Midwesterner to raise her own steer.

Mrs. Mickey DeLorenzo, decked out in blue jeans, gingham blouse and cowgirl hat for the occasion, accepted her 400-pound, year-old steer Sunday and said, "Never look a gift bull in the mouth."

Mrs. DeLorenzo has organized a housewives' meat boycott to protest high prices. The steer was provided by Ed Collins, a radio announcer in Red Oak, Iowa, and a former rancher.

The attractive mother of two said the steer will be fed and cared for by Nassau County in nearby Eisenhower Park. When it reaches 1,200 pounds, its market value will be measured against the cost of raising it.

Kosygin, Hanoi Leaders Parley

TOKYO (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and North Vietnamese leaders conferred in Hanoi Sunday on the Vietnam war after the Soviet leader placed a wreath at the bier of Ho Chi Minh.

Noticeably absent from the talks were Communist China's top leaders who are competing with the men in the Kremlin for influence with Hanoi. Premier Chou En-lai and a Chinese delegation paid their respects to Ho Thursday then went home before Kosygin arrived.

Details of Kosygin's talks with Ho's political heirs were not disclosed, but the Russian presumably learned of future Hanoi policy toward the Vietnam war and the Paris peace talks. Tass said they discussed "steps to further develop fraternal friendship and close cooperation" between the North Vietnamese and Soviet governments and Communist parties.

The Kremlin has provided an estimated $1 billion a year in aid to Hanoi and has favored the Paris peace talks. Red China has disapproved of the talks.

The mourning crowd continued to grow today, and delegations from 11 more countries arrived in Hanoi Sunday, Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency reported. Queues continued to form at newsstands for papers and portraits of Ho, who died Wednesday. Florists sold wreaths as fast as they could make them, VNA said.

The dead president is to be given a state funeral Wednesday.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodian chief of state, was among those flying to Hanoi today for the funeral.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Shirley Mooring of Hopewell; one daughter, Mrs. Ruby Walsington of Hopewell; two sons, E. L. and Bobby Mooring, both of Hopewell; two brothers, C. J. Mooring of Farmville, N.C., and Charlie Mooring of Snow Hill, N.C.; one sister, Mrs. Shirley Hudson of Farmville, N.C.; his mother, Mrs. Josie Mooring of Farmville, N.C.; four grandchildren.

Surviving are her husband, Carl Hannah; three daughters, Mrs. Lula Beachum, Mrs. Alice Cannon and Mrs. Dethie Beachum, all of Greenville; seven sons, Carl, William C., Roy, and Linwood Hannah, all of Greenville, Jasper of Grimesland, Howard Lee and Clifton Hannah of Norfolk, Va.; four sisters, Mrs. Charlie Wells of Tarboro, Mrs. Annie Wetherington of Winterville, Mrs. Ernest Hart of Portsmouth, Va. and Mrs. Leroy Baker of Norfolk, Va.; four brothers, Johnny, Thomas B., Joseph T. and Walters Briley, all of Norfolk, Va.; 36 grandchildren.

Mrs. Lucinda Thower Daniels, formerly of Greenville, died Wednesday in the Gladhagen Nursing Home after a brief illness. Funeral services were conducted Monday, 5 p.m. at the Mt. Olive Baptist Church in Ayden by the Rev. W. S. Wilson.

Mrs. Daniels was born in Pitt County and lived in Greenville for a number of years before moving to Fremont. She was the widow of the late James Daniels of Greenville and sister of the late William Thower and John Thower, both of Ayden.

Surviving are five stepdaughters, Mrs. Lucy D. James of Greenville, Mrs. Mary D. Butts, Mrs. Cherry D. Tellierra, Mrs. Eugenia D. Harris and Mrs. Lucille D. Taylor, all of Philadelphia, Pa.; one stepson, Johnny Daniels of Baltimore, Md.; 27 step-grandchildren; 12 step-great-grandchildren, and other relatives.

HOPEWELL, Va.—Funeral services for Leo Lester Mooring, who died here Sunday, will be conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the Gould Funeral Home here with the Rev. William Harper officiating. Burial will follow in the Snow Hill, N.C., Cemetery, Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

Mr. Mooring was an operator for Fibers Division of Allied Chemical Corporation here. He was a member of the Maury F.W.B. Church, Maury, N.C., and

Ex-Convict Now Buying Art

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP)—One of the 10,000 persons at the federal penitentiary's eighth annual art show Sunday was a Houston, Tex., art dealer who bought about 40 paintings for his gallery.

At last year's show, he was a prisoner exhibiting paintings. About 200 inmates displayed 1,200 paintings Sunday and 887 were sold for a total of $18,389. James Thomas, prison recreation director, said. Prices ranged from $3 to $150.

The money goes to the inmates. Thomas said some buy art supplies and others send money home to their families.

Not Charged In Friday Accident

Bessie Hopkins Filmore, 20, of 1408 West Sixth St. was not charged in a 2:25 p.m. mishap here Friday, as was reported in yesterday's edition of The Daily Reflector.

The driver of the second vehicle involved in the collision, Mary Hitchner Jones of Rocky Mount was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

The Daily Reflector regrets the error.

Bond Issue Defeated, But School Board To Proceed

WILLIAMSTON—Board of Education officials in Martin County decided at a call meeting held Friday night to go ahead with a school building program, despite the recent defeat of a county bond issue to raise money for school construction.

"We're going ahead and what we can with funds available," stated Eugene Rogers, superintendent of the county schools.

"By the end of the year we will have about $1,750,000 to use in construction and upgrading," he observed. "Of this, $715,000 is state bond money raised in 1963. The remaining represents county and capital reserve funds."

Rogers noted that "top priority will go to build a high school in Williamston."

The board also took action to direct the superintendent and his staff to talk to students, individually, if necessary, about student assignment to schools.

"Most students are assigned on the basis of living within a certain school district. We have, however, a number from outside the school district who are living within the county at the time. Most of these are Negro children living with grandparents or other relatives, whose parents live in New York or other places."

Among other items considered by the board at the call meeting was a review of faculty members. All faculty members for the county schools were approved.

Driver Charged In 2 Hit-And-Run Collisions

Troy Eugene Haddock, 33, of Route 1, Grifton has been charged with several violations in connection with two hit-and-run collisions near Ayden Saturday night, one resulting in the death of a pedestrian.

Haddock has been charged with manslaughter, hit-and-run driving and operating under the influence, in connection with the death, according to Highway Patrolman H. R. Winslow.

Haddock was identified as the driver of a truck which struck and killed Charles Harris of Route 1, Grifton, on rural road 1900 near Elm Grove Church, south of Ayden, about 8:50 p.m.

Trooper Winslow said Pitt County Sheriff's deputies Tommy Burney and Jimmy Lewis took Haddock into custody about 9:45 p.m.

A companion walking with Harris was not struck by the truck which, he said, crossed the roadway and struck Harris, then left the scene.

The vehicle, according to the

for the transportation facilities of the schools.

The board earmarked $250 as a contribution to help the Little Symphony, a part of the North Carolina Symphony orchestra, which gives public concerts to various schools throughout the state during the school year.

American Votes Helped Victory

SAN MARINO (AP)—The Christian Democrats and the Social Democrats are expected to continue the centrist coalition that has governed this landlocked 24-square-mile republic in north-central Italy for the past 12 years.

Unofficial returns after Sunday's elections showed the Christian Democrats lost two of their 29 seats in the 60-seat Parliament and the Social Democrats picked up one for 11 seats. The Communist party held on to its 14 seats. Other parties and independents hold the remaining votes.

Christian Democrat leader Federico Bigli admitted his party had helped finance the return by air of some 500 San Marinese living in New York, Detroit and Sandusky, Ohio, to vote.

The Communists countered by supplying plane and train tickets to San Marinese working in blue collar jobs around Western Europe. A total of 7,419 of San Marino's 16,000 registered voters live abroad. A total of 13,314 ballots were cast Sunday.

Cut Tax Rate For 22nd Time

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP)—The City Council of this industrial community 30 miles southeast of San Francisco is reducing the city tax rate for the 22nd consecutive time.

The past year's rate of 97 cents per $100 of assessed valuation is being cut by 2 cents, or 2.06 per cent. However, the city expects 21.7 per cent more revenue since total assessed valuation is up 21.9 per cent.

The tax rate started being cut after it reached a high of $1.98 per $100 in 1947.

Poor Choice For Bootleg Seller

STEINKJAEER, Norway (UPI)—The Polish seaman who went ashore with a couple of bottles of vodka hidden in a bag will be more careful the next time he tries to sell his illegal moonshine to Norwegians. The first man he approached promptly arrested him and confiscated the liquor. It was the local chief of police.

Israeli Under Attack In Europe

BONN, Germany (AP)—Two Israeli embassies and an El Al airline office came under attack today in three European countries.

Two hand grenades exploded outside the Israeli Embassy in Bonn, but no one was injured.

Two explosions ripped the Israeli airlines office in Brussels, Belgium's capital, wounding four persons. A grenade was thrown near the Israeli Embassy in the Hague, Netherlands.

An embassy spokesman in Bonn said the attacks seemed synchronized.

In the Bonn attack, police found the remains of two hand grenades as well as some wrapping paper which probably contained the explosives before they were thrown.

The embassy is in the Bad Godesberg section of Bonn on a main street.

Aircraft Called To Check New Potential Storm

MIAMI (AP)—The National Hurricane Center today called for Navy aircraft to check a tropical depression off the east-central Florida coast, noting that conditions were favorable for intensification.

Early today the depression, which brought thundershowers to much of south and central Florida Sunday, was about 100 miles east of Daytona Beach and moving toward the north-northeast at 10 miles an hour. Highest winds were estimated at 40 miles per hour.

Forecasters said the depression probably would turn more toward the northeast, with an increase in forward speed, during the day.

The center cautioned small boaters from Daytona Beach to Cape Fear, N.C., to stay away from open waters.

Students Fast For Biafra Aid

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Several students at the University of California have been conducting a weekly fast to raise money for the starving people of Biafra.

Nearly 60 per cent of the members of the University Students' Cooperative Association has gone without one meal every Friday for several weeks, contributing the money saved to a special relief fund.

More than $544 has been accumulated so far and donated to the United Friends of Biafra in Berkeley.

Newsman Given 2 Hours To Pack

HAVANA (AP)—The Cuban government today expelled Fenton Wheeler, the Associated Press correspondent in Havana, and gave him and his wife two hours to pack for departure.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government said it objected to Wheeler's reporting in general and in particular to his report Friday that the government had accused a member of the Mexican Embassy staff of spying for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Wheeler was called to the Foreign Ministry at 4 a.m. and told he had two hours to get ready to leave the country.

Iraq Executes Three As U.S. Spies

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Iraq executed three men as spies for the United States and Israel at dawn today.

Baghdad Radio said two civilians died on the gallows and one soldier was shot. Two were Moslems and the third, Iskander Youssef Khoudra Karam, may have been a Pakistani or Iranian.

The other two were identified as Anis Elmaz Abbas and Pvt. Reda Haidar.

A total of 54 persons have been executed in Iraq as spies this year. They included 11 Jews.

The radio said those executed today were sentenced to death by Iraq's revolutionary court in a trial held behind closed doors. They were convicted of espionage for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and Israel, the broadcast said, but it gave no details.

In the story in Sunday's paper about 81 barn fires in Pitt County, Fire Marshal Mike Worthington says he should have stated that "the majority of barns lost or suffering fire damage were fired by gas or oil. However, it must be noted that a big majority of all farmers use LP gas or oil for curing operations, as opposed to wood or coal."
