Await Baldhead Decision

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott, under intense pressure from opposing sides, is expected to make public tonight his position on a proposed controversial development of Baldhead Island.

Whatever stand he takes is likely set off a torrent of protest.

The governor is expected to state his position in a speech to the opening session of a three-day meeting of the North Carolina Board of Conservation and Development in Kinston.

He was reported still wrestling with the issues Wednesday afternoon.

At stake is the future of an uninhabited 12,000-acre island at the mouth of the Cape Fear River. A developer wants to turn the island into a lush resort similar to Hilton Head Island in South Carolina.

Conservationists who insist the island should be left in its natural state are leading opposition to the plan.

The developer, Charles Fraser, who carried out the Hilton Head project, met with Scott for almost an hour Wednesday in a bid for the governor's backing.

Fraser declined to say after the session whether he got the support he sought.

'Skyjacking' Proposals

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A gathering of the world's top lawyers called on "all governments and international authorities" today to take urgent action to prevent the hijacking of aircraft.

The lawyers, representing 114 countries at the World Peace Through Law Conference, said "legal measures taken so far have proven largely ineffective."

A three-point resolution approved unanimously by the 1,800 lawyers at the conference, urged all states to:

—Decline to give "any aid or comfort" to the hijackers;

—Automatically return all passengers, equipment and personnel;

—Apprehend and punish the hijackers or send them back under guard to the country from which they came.

Charles S. Rhyne, the president of the World Peace Through Law Center which organized the conference, said a committee would be set up immediately to work out a draft convention on air piracy.

SHP Reorganization Set

RALEIGH (AP) — Col. Edwin C. Guy is expected to proceed immediately to work on plans for reorganizing the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

Word of the reorganization was announced Wednesday by Gov. Bob Scott at a ceremony in which Guy was sworn in as patrol commander.

Guy, 52, succeeds Col. Charles A. Speed, who was made coordinator of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee on Sept. 1 when Guy became acting patrol commander.

Scott told a capacity crowd which assembled for the swearing in ceremony in the old House chamber of the capitol, that the contemplated reorganization will be made "not only for increasing efficiency but ever keeping in mind our goal of improving highway safety."

He said discussion of the reorganization would begin "in earnest" after the swearing in.

Also sworn in Wednesday was Capt. Charles B. Pierce, 47, who was promoted to lieutenant colonel and succeeded Guy as patrol executive officer.

Cite Lack Of Discipline

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A special trustees report on the student disorders at Cornell University last spring blames the disruptions in part on the lack of disciplinary action.

Cornell, the trustees said Wednesday, "has failed to employ such (disciplinary) procedures available to it, and has thus threatened materially the usefulness of these procedures for the future."

The trustees also issued a stern warning to campus activists and said the preservation of order would be paramount at the university because of a minority of students who seek to replace reason with power.

Cornell must not in the future "negotiate under duress. There can be no amnesty for infractions of the student code," said the trustees who appointed a special eight-member committee to investigate the disorders.

Double Integration Total

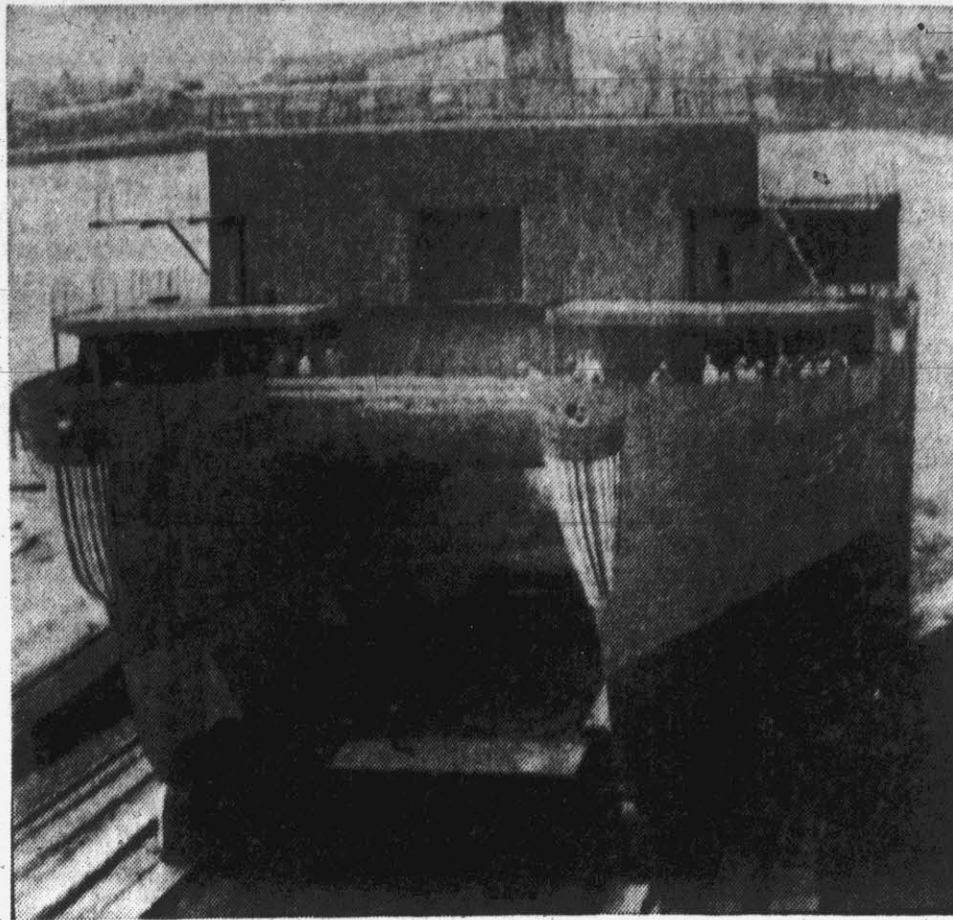

RALEIGH (AP) — The number of completely desegregated school systems in North Carolina has more than doubled since last year.

This was shown by figures released Wednesday by Gene Causby, assistant director of the human relations division in the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

Causby reported that 93 of the state's 155 school units now operate single school systems instead of the dual school systems they operated in the past.

Although Causby does not know the number of children in integrated schools, he estimated that at least 60 per cent of the student population would be enrolled in the 93 school districts.

He said school openings "have gone so much better than we dared hope." Problems developed in Wilson, Cumberland, Duplin, Hyde, Sanford, Warren, Halifax and Mecklenburg school systems, but Causby said there were no major difficulties.

New Rescue Ship Launched

SUBMARINE RESCUE SHIP LAUNCHED — The twin-hulled USS Ortolan, second of a new class of Navy submarine rescue vessels was launched at Mobile Wednesday. Rep. Alaska Gets $900 Million For Its Oil Field Leases

By TOM BRILEY Associated Press Writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The world's giant petroleum firms have put up more than $900 million in bids for leases on Alaska's North Slope oil fields, and the money goes to work today drawing almost $45,000 daily interest for the state.

Alaska piled up in the one hour of sealed bidding Wednesday $100 million more than it had spent in the 10 years since it entered the union. Gov. Keith Miller and other state officials said the windfall would put Alaska on the road to financing many needs.

Giant combines involving such billionaires as J. Paul Getty and H. L. Hunt submitted apparent high bids on the choice tracts close to three discovery wells on the cost of the Arctic Ocean—where temperatures hit freezing on the day of the biggest oil lease sale in U.S. history.

The state had the winning checks flown by chartered jet to banks in New York, Chicago and San Francisco so no time would be lost in drawing interest.

The state opened bids on 179 tracts totaling 450,858 acres of land in the Prudhoe Bay area where the biggest oil field on the North American continent was discovered last year, about 380 miles north of Fairbanks. Unofficially, the top bids averaged $1,965 per acre.

Alaska still has 800,000 acres of oil land to lease, but the governor indicated it is in no hurry to dispose of it now.

State officials put off until today decisions on which, if any, of the bids to reject. Rejections were not expected to alter the total money figure significantly.

Getty and Hunt, two of the richest men in the world, combined with three other oil interests to post the largest single bid—$72.2 million for one 2,500-acre lease. That was $28,233 per acre, the largest per-acre bid ever offered for U.S. oil land.

The Getty and Hunt interests combined with Amerada-Hess Oil Co., Louisiana Land and Exploration Co. and Marathon Oil Co. on the record single bid. Getty lives in London, Hunt in Dallas.

The successful bidders had to put up 20 per cent of their bids in cash and must come through with the rest in 10 days.

The money on the table at the Municipal Auditorium was in the form of bonus bids. The state is allowed under its own laws to collect only $1 per acre per year for oil lands, but the law doesn't prohibit oil companies from sweetening the pot with as much one-time "bonus" money per acre as they wish.

State executives expressed caution in handling the windfall. Republican Gov. Miller said it is important "that we wisely use the money from nonrenewable resources to assure the continuing success of renewable resources—timber, fishing and tourism."

Satisfied With New Bids Pitt Board Of Education Okays Awarding Contracts For Ayden-Grifton School

By BLANCHE HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education today approved awarding contracts totaling $1,812,364 for construction of the Ayden-Grifton High School.

The board received new bids yesterday for general construction work on the school. Contractor J. Leo Hawkins of Greenville was the low bidder for the contract with a bid, including alternates, of $1,266,698. The major alternate included the addition of an auditorium.

Bids on the project were received initially July 2. R. N. Rouse Co. of Goldsboro was the low bidder at that time with a bid of $1,925,475, including alternates.

Comparing the Ayden-Grifton bids with bids received for the Farmville High School at the same time, the school board became concerned over the higher bids received for the Ayden-Grifton School, essentially identical to the Farmville building.

The Farmville low bid was made by Dawson Construction Company of Kinston and totaled $1,847,447, including alternates.

Mayor Of West Berlin Detained

BERLIN (AP) — East German border police forced Mayor Klaus Schuetz of West Berlin to get off a train passing through East Germany early today and held him for 20 minutes.

A spokesman said the incident occurred while the mayor was returning to West Berlin after making a speech in the West German city of Duesseldorf. He said the mayor was forced to leave a sleeper car at the East German border station of Marjorn by border guards who said only that they had to "clear up something."

Subsequent negotiations reduced the price of both buildings—Farmville to $1.24 million and Ayden-Grifton to $1.30 million—but the board still considered the Ayden-Grifton price high and decided to seek new bids.

According to Arthur S. Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, this morning, the board "realized the reduction of $5.57" in the cost of the building by rebidding. He noted, too, "we will have the money invested for six weeks to two months longer which will bring in about $10,000 more in interest."

Alford emphasized, "Without a doubt we received an extremely good bid from the Dawson firm for the Farmville project, and it appears fairly certain now, that Rouse's bid was not too far off. His was a competitive bid the first time. But we received an extremely good bid from Dawson the first time."

The superintendent continued, "Dudley and Shoe, (architects for both the Farmville and Ayden-Grifton Schools), did a fine job in negotiating and working out some of the difficulties on the July 2 letting. This is more apparent now after re-advertising and bids were received again."

Architects at the time the original bids were being negotiated indicated the price of the Farmville school was a very good bid and that the Rouse bid for the Ayden-Grifton project was in line.

They, too, pointed out that the five contractors who bid on both projects submitted higher figures for the Farmville building than they did for the Ayden-Grifton project, giving support to their contention that the Farmville price was a very good bid.

"I would like to personally and publicly recognize," Alford said, "the advantages of having local people bid on our projects."

Leo Hawkins reduced his price on the North Pitt project (he was the low bidder on that project, the first of four consolidated high schools contracted for) by about $30,000 in order for the board to be able to let contracts on the project. "Again, this time," the superintendent continued, "if he (Hawkins) had not bid low, it would have cost us to re-advertise."

Four other contractors, including Rouse, entered bids on the project this time.

The contractors and their bids including alternates, were: Chapin Construction Co., Greenville, $1,313,438; L. P. Cox Construction Co., $1,397,750; R. N. Rouse of Goldsboro, $1,301,350; and Fred C. Gardner Construction Co., $1,330,100.

Contracts for sub-contractors including heating, plumbing and electrical work awarded by the board totaled $545,666.

The low bidders in the July bidding agreed to hold their bids until the general contract could be re-advertised. Those low bidders included: Plumbing, Richardson and Skinner, $130,424; Heating and Air Conditioning, Stahl-Ryder, Inc., $204,900; and electrical, Watson Electric Company, Wilson, $201,342.

Alford said the total cost for the Ayden-Grifton School including construction, cost of land, and architects and attorneys fees, is $1,965,951.78, while cost of the Farmville project amounts to $1,960,365.89.

He emphasized the two buildings will be identical with identical facilities.

Greenville Leaf Mart Chalks $72.13 Average

The Greenville Tobacco Market yesterday sold 1,532,696 pounds of tobacco for $1,105,518 for an average of $72.13.

So far this season, a total of 24,502,529 pounds of leaf have been sold on the Greenville warehouse floors for $1,735,249, yielding a season average of $72.75.

Wilson yesterday continued to lead the markets in the Eastern Belt with an average of $75.78 after selling 1,532,998 pounds of tobacco for $1,167,745.

Kinston and Rocky Mount, both markets selling over one million pounds yesterday, showed averages of $73.52 and $72.82, respectively. A total of 1,222,123 pounds of leaf was sold on the Kinston market for $896,492, while the Rocky Mount market sold 1,21,618 pounds for $904,158.

The Cooperative Stabilization Corporation yesterday received 72,112 pounds of leaf, about 4.7 per cent of gross sales.

Sales figures from yesterday are given below for the Eastern Belt as compiled by the U. S. Market News Service:

Farmville Market Prices Steady

FARMVILLE — The Farmville tobacco market yesterday sold 607,160 pounds of tobacco for $442,257.69, giving an average of $72.84.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market, volume was heavy on yesterday's market and prices remained steady. Leaf grades accounted for 75 per cent of yesterday's sales. Williams said, but nondescript and lugs showed an increase in yesterday's offerings.

A total of 9,934,433 pounds of leaf have been sold so far this season for $7,168,708, giving an average of $72.16 for the season.

The Cooperative Stabilization Corporation received 3.5 per cent of gross sales ystrday.

New Way Of Life Behind The Barricades Of 'Free Belfast'

By COLIN FROST BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — If the barricades come down in "Free Belfast," a whole new way of life will vanish. Life behind the barriers is not so bad, say the Roman Catholics of the Falls Road area. Women picking their way along the unpaved sidewalks, unpaved because the stone slabs have been the raw material of riot, seem unanimous in wanting the barriers to stay. A 64-year-old grandmother expressed the general feeling. "All we want is peace and quiet and freedom to sleep at night.

That's all anybody wants anywhere. While the barricades are here we have peace and we intend to keep it. I can still shop. The schools are open. Men can get to their jobs. We feel safe. So why change it? The barricades went up four weeks ago when Northern Ireland's ancient feud between Protestants and Catholics erupted into riots that left eight dead and hundreds injured. Now the barriers form an iron wall around the red brick streets of the Falls Road area, commonly known as "the Falls." There 2,000 Catholic families make their own rules and want to keep things that way. They call the barricaded area "Free Belfast." Protestants have put up their own barricades elsewhere in Belfast to protest the Catholic ramparts. But the scattered Protestant barricades do no form an isolated enclave like Free Belfast. Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark has warned that the barricades, both Catholic and Protestant, must be torn down or the British army will do it. As a first step, the troops began putting up a "peace wall" of wire between the Falls Road area and the Protestant Shankill area Wednesday after pushing a Protestant barricade out of the way. The great majority of the Falls Road Catholics believe they are in danger of attack from Protestant firebombs if the barricades come down. This is a kind of insurrection, even an insurrection subsidized by the government. Mothers still squeeze past the small gap at the side of each street barricade on Tuesdays to collect their family allowances at the post office. Men who are not working—almost half are unemployed—still collect their weekly dole at the labor office. The four primary schools inside the barricades are open. High school students go outside and passing such slogans as "They'll Never Burn Us Out" and "Up the I.R.A." In the evening the children play in streets that are somewhat quieter than usual because there is little motor traffic. The area's 10 bars close at 8:30 p.m., 90 minutes earlier than those in other areas of Belfast. Free Belfast has its leaders—Paddy Devlin, the area's representative in the provincial parliament; Father Padriac Murphy, of St. Peter's Cathedral, who negotiates with the British troops across the barricades, and Jim Sullivan, chairman of the Citizen's Defense Committee, who is in effect the prime minister of Free Belfast. He spent from October 1967 to May 1961 in jail, without a trial, suspected of being a leader of the outlawed Irish Republican Army. Students who have allied themselves with Free Belfast are running a pirate radio and churning out mimeographed news sheets. At the only crossing point for vehicles, vigilantes permit inside the barricades each day the city's garbage carts and street sweepers, bread and milk trucks, mail vans and doctors heading for their offices. At the corner butcher shop, Raymond O'Neill reported business as usual—"perhaps a bit better than usual because housewives tend to stay near home rather than go to the supermarkets." That's also the situation at the grocery shops, the hardware shop and the greengrocers.

Plastic Bags Aren't For Play

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Last month when I bought shoes for my three small children each child was handed his shoes in a plastic drawstring bag by the salesperson.
 As soon as we got home, each child put the plastic bag over his head and played "robot!"
 I immediately telephoned the store manager and told him to quit handing out plastic bags to children as they were regular death traps. He said, "Thank you Ma'am."
 Well today I had occasion to go into that store again to buy slippers for my children, and again they were handed those plastic bags! Now what should I do?

DISGUSTED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: If there is a safety Council in your town, report it to them. If not, make sure the plastic bags are punctured sufficiently for your children to breathe should they disobey your orders and put the plastic bags over their heads.
DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him George) has reached 50-the dangerous age. About every five or six weeks George goes to St. Louis on business. I have a 29-year-old nephew living there. Bill files with an air line and last winter he married a cute little stewardess I'll call Nancy. We'd never met her. Bill sent pictures. A few months ago George went to St. Louis and called

Bill to say hello. Bill was out of town, but Nancy was home, so my husband invited her to his hotel where they became acquainted over cocktails and supper.
 Well George came home and all he could talk about was how "terrific" Nancy was.
 The next time George went to St. Louis he called Bill and Nancy. Again Bill was out of town, but this time Nancy invited him to stay in the guest room of their new home. He did, and when he told me about it afterwards I blew my top.
 I say it is improper for my husband to stay there unless Bill is home. I don't mind if he takes Nancy to dinner if he wants to entertain her, but he should sleep at his own motel where the accommodations are paid for by his company. George says there is nothing improper about staying at the home of a nephew whether the nephew is home or not. What do YOU say?
GEORGE'S ANGRY WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I say that the "propriety" of this situation is the least important aspect of it. The problem is that you feel that your husband might be taking more than an "uncle-like" interest in Nancy. Maybe you're right. But you could be wrong. In any case, since there has been so much fireworks about it, I think George should stay at his motel.
DEAR ABBY: A group of us were having a serious discussion about the "new morality," and someone said the double standard no longer exists that what's good for the goose is good for the gander. What is your opinion?
CHARLOTTE
DEAR CHARLOTTE: GOOSE FEATHERS!
DEAR ABBY: This is to HAPPY IN MISSOURI whose husband didn't believe in bathing regularly.
 I had the same kind of husband until suddenly every night was bath night. He also

Textile Designer Tunes In Fabrics, Designs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Julian Tomchin was in high school he wanted to be a costume designer.

But he was required to take a course in textile design and "fell in love with it."

Tomchin's change of ambitions is one for which women can be grateful. Without Tomchin, designers like Donald Brooks and Chester Weinberg wouldn't have those lush prints and elegant fabrics that add so much to their clothers.

A native of Brooklyn, Tomchin, 37, studied first at the High School of Music and Art in New York City, then at Syracuse University.

It was at Syracuse, he said during a recent interview, that he got a solid background in the history of textile designs and in the actual production of the designs.

Tomchin, who joined Maxwell Textiles 10 years ago, was named by fashion critics to receive a Coty Award this year for his fabrics.

He gets his ideas "anywhere and everywhere." Fashion, said Tomchin, "is immensely logical. Every season is a development of the previous year. For example, to say that this is an era of choice, that five lengths of cloths are available, is logical."

Discussing the current trend for so-called "art deco" prints, Tomchin explained that the term is used to describe patterns from 1920 to 1940. "It's a design period when clothes were long and lean—like they are today," he said.

Tomchin designs a full collection of fabrics each season, then offer them to designers. He also works with individual designers to produce special fabrics for special designs. "It's like the chicken and the egg," he said. "Who knows whether the design fits the fabric or the fabric the design?"

Sometimes Tomchin makes special fabrics with particular designers in mind. "You know, for example," he said, "that George Halley makes terribly extravagant clothes and wants fabrics like that."

He claims there have been changes in the type of fabrics people want over the past decade. "In the early 60s, the trend was toward weight. You couldn't make anything heavy enough," he said. "Now, we're going into an era where we can't make anything light enough."

Tomchin said he has no favorites among his designs. His collection for fall and winter this year includes the three-dimensional "skyscraper" print used in a variety of colors by Chester Weinberg for evening dresses and he contrasting geometric print used by Donald Brooks for evening pants and nine-foot scarf.

Fair Warning In Defensive Driving

KASSEL, Germany (WNS)—Inge Ommer, 53, has not had an automobile accident in 20 years of driving. She credits the record to the sign on the back of her car that is her own from of defensive driving: "Beware. Lady Driver." "The sign makes male drivers feel smug, but they give me plenty of room," she reported.

Frank Layne Gives Program At Meet Of Credit Women

Frank Layne, of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., was guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Greenville Credit Women International.

Layne spoke on "Progressive Steps to Tracing a Skip." He explained that when a customer's account becomes past due and his whereabouts are unknown, whether intentional or not, he is classified as a "skip." These are the worse possible accounts a company can have because they can represent a charge-off and they should receive top priority, he said.

Efforts to make immediate contact should be made through relatives, neighbors, former employers, the local credit bureau and police department or other available sources. Once contact has been made, the account should be reviewed and arrangements should be made to help the customer if possible, continue the speaker.

If the company cannot get any cooperation from the "skip" customer, he has no alternative but to take action to protect his own interest, he added.

Arrangements were discussed for the annual "Bosses Night Banquet" to be held in October. Gail Crisp, president, presided at the meeting.

Church Women Hear Mrs. Harris

Mrs. Lela Mae Harris presented the program at the meeting of the Mount Pleasant Ladies Aid held Monday night.

Mrs. Agnes Settle presided over the business meeting. Reports were given by the various committee chairmen. It was reported that Mrs. Ether Stanley had given several books to the church library.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Geraldine Harris, Mrs. Jo Ann Wilde, Mrs. Claudie Harrington, Mrs. Bebe Teel and Miss Patsy Teel.

Otherwise, Even Worse Tragedies

Tuesday's tragic air mishap in which 84 persons died in an Allegheny Airlines jet crash, is another which involved a collision with a small private aircraft.

It is evidence enough that more stringent controls are going to have to be instituted to keep small aircraft and the big commercial liners away from each other.

We are not trying to place the blame in this particular collision. We can only point out that the big airliners of today carry large numbers of passengers. Future planes will carry hundreds of people on each flight and with such huge numbers of lives involved the nation simply cannot continue to take chances with many private aircraft flying in areas where the big commercial jets are operating.

There is obviously a place for private flying in the nation, but it should be done from airports where scheduled flights do not operate and private aircraft should be restricted to areas well away from the commercial airlines.

In populous areas where both commercial and private flying is heavy there may be a need for more stringent controls over private flying than in the less populous areas.

The FAA should begin now to devise regulations that will adequately deal with the situation and provide maximum safety for the airliners. Otherwise the tragedies are going to get bigger in future years as each jet airliner carries more and more passengers.

Pitt Tech's Role Of Service Is Increasing

That Pitt Technical Institute is increasingly filling a need for Pitt County citizens is shown by the healthy increase in enrollment recorded with the opening of the new year.

Institute authorities reported that enrollment of full time students showed a 25 percent increase over last year. On Wednesday there were 440 full time day students as compared with 353 last year. The figure does not include part time or night students.

Pitt Tech's curriculum is very flexible in that academic, trade and technical courses are available. The Institute also takes on such assignments as training workers for specific industries.

Next year Pitt Tech will further expand its services when it becomes a community college and can offer college credit.

We fully expect to see another outstanding increase in enrollment next year.

Faircloth Irked By News Leak

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—Reporters coming around to call at the offices of the State Highway Commission on Monday morning were told tersely, "there will be no announcements this week."

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

nor informed. They did not know what to think. The situation created quite a bit of tension and many highway officials and employees were upset.

Faircloth felt it was a poor way in which to handle the matter, especially at a time when he is trying to pull the highway department team together—and also less than a week before a formal, budget-making session of the full Highway Commission, scheduled in Raleigh.

Sources believe the story of the request for dismissals was "leaked" by a Scott political aide.

Announcements — There was chagrin in Highway department circles because of the manner in which the report was handled.

Some of the officials and sources there pointed out that Scott has given most departments and agencies, especially the department of Administration, department of Public Instruction and certain others virtually a free hand in making public announcements and releasing news stories concerning agency affairs.

Now it appears that Scott himself will make the next announcement concerning any possible highway department shifts.

The governor's press secretary, C. T. West, says he has been "in the dark" about any such plans. But it is understood that Scott wants to disclose some changes at an appropriate time or place.

On Saturday, Scott leaves town again—to attend the Southern Governors Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

Meeting—In addition to working on an overall budget for this fiscal year, the Highway Commission is also expected to act on letting contracts for 17 new highway projects, totaling 89.2 miles in 21 counties at meeting this month.

The call for bids was issued during the past few days. Contracts will be let to successful bidders in late September.

But obviously there will be. The highway chairman, Lauch Faircloth, was summoned to the office of Gov. Bob Scott that very morning.

Later, Faircloth was a non-committal. It could be guessed, however, that he and the governor discussed the subject of greatest political speculation which arose in Raleigh last week—the reported request, or, order, for the dismissals of four top career highway officials.

Premature — From every indication, the leaking of this news was not of Faircloth's doing nor to his liking.

The fact is that Faircloth received the word while both he and the governor were out of town. Scott was in Colorado Springs all of last week attending a national governor's conference.

Some sources believe that while it had Scott's tacit approval, the letter which Faircloth received actually was written by a Scott aide and not by the governor himself.

In any case, Faircloth wanted an opportunity to discuss the dismissal matter more fully with the governor.

News — When the news of the letter broke, there was much surprise. Some sources says Faircloth was furious.

None of the career officials involved had been advised

Execs' Advice For Collegians

By LISA CONIN

NEW YORK (AP) — As countless parents will remind their children starting college this week, life is not all Socrates and Shakespeare, pickets and protests.

After college, there is a boss, and, parents say, some if not all of the college years should be spent preparing to meet him.

The men who head America's top businesses generally have had a college experience—those who didn't usually wish they had had the opportunity. And from their years in business, they are able to offer students advice on the best ways to prepare for business and life while in college.

"A gentleman's education will be useful even if there are no gentlemen left," said Bennett Cerf, chairman of Random House publishers. He advised a concentration on history, economics and literature to give a broad education.

"I sympathize with the young people's anger at the establishment—don't blame them a bit," he continued. "But while they're going to festivals and protests, they shouldn't forget the fundamental education."

John McLean, president of Continental Oil Co., urged that students "understand that they are long past the age when they can be taught anything."

"College provides the opportunity and perhaps the inspiration, but what they learn and how they learn is up to them," the Caltech graduate said. McLean, who runs a company with business in over 30 countries wishes he had had the time to learn more languages more closely.

George Moore, chairman of First National City Bank, said students should emphasize "It doesn't do any good to be right if you can't get anyone to follow you," he said. "And it's not hard to get people to go along if you're smart about it."

Moore agrees with many young people about money, however. "When I graduated from college, I wanted to make a pile of money," he said. "Young people today rightly put it behind other

Self-discipline was emphasized by many businessmen as the most important thing a student can learn in college.

"The first thing about getting an education is its discipline not a sleigh ride or chance to revolutionize or to get away from your family," said Rodney C. Gott, chairman of American Machine & Foundry Co.

"Develop a plan of attack learn to be critical, but not cynical, choose a goal and Ling, who never made it to college but managed to build Ling Temco Vought Inc., a tion anyway.

"Much of what you need to learn will not be taught in a classroom," Ling added. "As an individual you must learn to think and make decisions based on knowledge."

Discipline in another field was stressed by Spencer D. Moseley, new president of REA Express Inc.

"A student can't study all the time," Moseley said, "so he should pick one thing and do it well instead of frittering away all his time on different things."

Moseley followed his own advice and became captain of the Yale football team.

Most of the businessmen interviewed urged that students try to get a broad liberal education in college and specialize in graduate school. And above all, they said, students should value their college years.

"College is a great opportunity for learning a lot about this fast moving world," said Fred Lazarus Jr., the man who built Federated Department Stores.

"As a first-year dropout I continue to be very jealous of everyone who has had this opportunity," he said.

Strength For Today

An Important Book

The three greatest books in the world would appear to be the Bible, the unabridged dictionary and the check book.

And the check book can and should hold an honored place in the life of humanity. Certainly it holds an important place, for when those monthly bills begin to roll in we have a job on our hands meeting our obligations.

The important thing about the check book is not just the balances maintained but the spirit in which we use it. There are some people for whom the check book is a course. They spend their money in dissipation. They lord it over their neighbors. They throw money around right and left and pay no attention to the fact that money can buy some of the finest things in life. It cannot buy happiness, but it can enable people to avoid situations which breed unhappiness. It cannot buy love, but it can smooth out the pathways before one's feet and make everyday life more bearable. It cannot buy wisdom, but it can pay educational expenses and give the younger generation a chance to meet the problems of life with adequate preparation and equipment.

The point is that whether we would have it so or not the check book plays an important part in the lives of us all and we need to keep that check book honest (in the way we make our money), decent and generous in the way we spend it.

The check book is important and we can make it and keep it so if we will.

'District Plan' Better

The House of Representatives this week will debate the most important proposal for constitutional amendment, in terms of the structure of our government, since the Constitution itself was adopted in 1788.

The pending resolution calls for direct popular election of our Presidents. In my own view, the proposal is wrong. It ought to be defeated in favor of a less drastic plan that will accomplish all needed reforms. The better plan is the "district plan."

Under the proposal recommended by a divided Judiciary Committee, the Congress effectively would take over the management of presidential elections. The States could still fix an age limitation for their voters—that is the presumption, anyhow—but all other regulations would be subject to Federal law.

The idea is that Congress would provide for the qualification of presidential candidates, for the make-up of ballots, for the holding of a national election, for a run-off if none of the candidates received 40 per cent. Congress presumably would provide for vote challenges, recounts, and all other aspects of the elections. Every vestige of the present electoral system would be wiped out; the people would vote in one national march to the polls.

These are drastic changes. The proposal, if adopted, would tend to convert this Republic from a union of States into a consolidated form of democracy. Overnight, we would abandon our structure of federalism in one of its most important manifestations—the election of a President. It is a fundamental change that the House has before it.

No such upheaval is required. The great George Wallace scare of 1968 arose from the possibility that the Alabama might prevent either Nixon or Humphrey from obtaining a clear majority of the 538 electoral votes. If this had developed; the election might have gone to the House, or Wallace might have traded off his electors in some fashion, and the country would have faced a constitutional crisis.

None of this happened, of course; no such dreadful prospects have materialized since 1828; but the apprehensions are valid. Besides, there are other things wrong with the present system of independent presidential electors; chosen in each State on a basis of winner-take-all. The system cries out for reform.

But reform is one thing, and fundamental change is quite another. The House ought to ask: Is there a way of achieving the reforms without such radical surgery? The answer is plainly, yes. In the district plan, or in the similar "proportional" plan, every procedural objective sought by critics of the present scheme could be attained.

Either of the two plans would (1) abolish independent electors, (2) abolish the last resort of one State, one vote, in the House, and (3) end the evil of winner-take-all.

Under the district plan, a presidential candidate would win one electoral vote for each congressional district he carried, plus two for each State he carried. We can see how the

Other Editors Say Not The Worst Drivers

(Washington Daily News) From time to time we hear it said that "so and so is old to drive a car." And there are instances where persons in their latter years should not be behind the wheel on account of the infirmities of age.

And likewise there are individuals in all age brackets who have no business behind the wheel because of the infirmities of youth or the recklessness of the mind.

Today in America statistics tell us that one out of every 13 drivers on our highways is more than 65 years of age. These same set of statistics also tell us that drivers who are more than 65 years of age are involved only in one wreck out of every 23 happening on our highways.

These very statistics, if analyzed carefully, show that as an age group, the citizens more than 65 years of age are perhaps the most careful group of all. And that tells a story which will surprise many people.

Today in North Carolina we have individuals holding driving licenses who are past 90 years of age. While we hear talk from time to time of putting a top limit on the issuance of such licenses, the truth of the matter is that we hardly would cut down on highway wrecks by putting a lid such as this one on elderly drivers.

In all age groups there are reckless operators, careless operators, and persons who for one reason or another are more than average risks on the highways. But as an age group, those people more than 65 years of age apparently have the best driving records of all. And we are told that the worst driving records are held by persons between the ages of 16 and 31.

The fact of age is not necessarily the most important one when we consider a person's qualifications for driving a vehicle on our highways. We look at some person and say he is too old to drive, but what we could better judge by is his attitude toward highway safety.

And when we come to the matter of giving it real thought, we suspect that persons more than 65 years of age are more conscious of highway safety than any other age group. Perhaps they are watched equally well as are the teen age drivers.

If we are going to judge the ability to drive safely on our highways, then the statistics tell us that our elderly citizens have a record of extreme pride. And those of us of younger years ought to show more respect for people of ability.

Sidewalks Back To The People

By ELMER ROESENBER

Some day after Ralph Nader gets the number of peanuts in cans of mixed nuts limited and persuades airlines to advertise their on-time records instead of the magnificence of cuisine, he might turn his attention to giving the sidewalks back to the people.

But there has been a steady theft of sidewalk space, some by enterprisers, some by city for more city revenue or, perhaps, a little pocket lining.

Sidewalks were originally designed for the people, especially the common people, to get from one place to another. The rich could ride in carriages.

Early Invasion At first, a few pitchmen and a few beggars took over part of the sidewalks. No one protested. Sidewalks were wide and there was no danger, as there is today, in stepping into the street to avoid a beggar who displayed a running sore on his leg to reinforce his plea for alms.

But streets have become dangerous and, despite the billions spent for welfare and home relief, there are more mendicants than ever. For one reason, in boom times begging pays much better than welfare.

But the worst imposers on the common people are not the beggars nor the salesmen selling neckties from their trips and keisters, but commercial enterprises.

Among the worst offenders are phone companies that persuade city officials to allow them to erect kiosks on sidewalks. Their argument has been that it is for the public's convenience, but in truth the phones often don't work.

Other Walk Pirates Newsstands are allowed to infringe on sidewalks by many cities. Veterans are often given preference. But the annoyance they create did nothing to prevent the Vietnam war, did it?

Public utilities are generally given a free hand to shove the public off the sidewalk or limit their use by the erection of poles and standards.

Cities themselves are perhaps the worst offenders, taking space, not from autoists and truckers, but from pedestrians to erect posts, sometimes with confusing signs, to direct traffic, warn about ordinances, hold up street lights, point the way to Route 1456J and generally Big-Brother the people.

In New York, at 40th and Broadway, people on the northwest corner have walked single file for years because a subway entrance and a newsstand take up the rest of the sidewalk.

And in other cities, all over the country, garages and parking lots preempt sidewalk space; trucks back into loading ramps blocking sidewalks; snack bars at the property line cause pedestrian congestion; supports for canopies cut walking space, and walks are chipped away in hundreds of other ways.

Come, Ralph, get with it! Pedestrian happiness is more important than a shortage of walnuts in a can of mixed nuts

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board says the nation is "at the tail end" of its inflationary period and this is the main reason he opposes a bill that would fix a ceiling on bank interest charges.

"With all its imperfections, general monetary restraint seems clearly preferable to controls of this sort," William McChesney Martin told the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday.

The author of the bill, Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said he was unable to understand "how you (Martin) can justify saying that banks must be protected in the interest they have to pay, but that the public must not be protected in the interest it has to pay for loans." McIntyre noted that Martin had favored another measure before the committee which would extend the government's power to regulate maximum interest payable on various classes of deposits.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he did not share Martin's confidence that inflation was over. Martin mentioned the stock market decline and a modest drop in bank loan volume as encouraging signs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Retail Federation today challenged a discriminatory proposed Federal Trade Commission ban on the mailing of credit cards to persons who do not ask for them.

In testimony prepared for the FTC hearing on the proposal, the federation said the ban was discriminatory because it would not apply to banks, airlines and others excluded from the commission's jurisdiction.

WASHINGTON (AP) is a federally financed fishing school with two teachers and one student has been ordered closed by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Some $20,000 in antipoverity funds had been spent this year on the school's operation at the British Island of Bimini. The OEO investigated the program after an Associated Press story on the program July 28.

The OEO also laid down new reporting requirements on other agency projects. The fishing school was operated by a Fort Lauderdale, Fla., antipoverity agency known as Community Action Migrant Program, Inc.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel say plans for a jetport at the edge of the Florida Everglades is "very doubtful and requires further study."

A pilot training facility already built on the site can be used, Volpe said, with proper safeguards to protect the park's water supply.

Plans for the international air terminal have been vigorously opposed by conservationists as damaging to the park's unique tropical ecology. Federal grants were being sought for much of the construction, thus the strong Washington say in the matter.

Also Wednesday, Florida Gov. Claude Kirk suggested the jetport be built on state land to the north, rather than west, of Miami. Jetport planners voiced little initial enthusiasm for Kirk's offer.

Two public receptions, both of the open-house type, are being held to mark the completion of the two-wing addition and renovation of Sheppard Memorial Library.

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian, states, "The open-house Sunday afternoon is sponsored by members of the staff and members of the board of trustees for the library."

Beginning Sunday at 3 p.m. and lasting until 5:30, the entire library will be open for public viewing. Members of the staff will be stationed in various sections of the building to answer questions and to discuss services offered by the library. They will be assisted by volunteer pages.

Sheppard Memorial Library is recognized as one of the finest in eastern North Carolina. With the completion of two additional wings, and complete renovation of the interior of the original building, it offers a variety of services for the community, ranging from pre-school children to the businessman in need of instant assistance.

Together, the two wings and the remodeled original section cost approximately $400,000. "Nearly half, or 48 per cent of this amount was raised by a bond issue, with 52 per cent contributed by the federal government," Miss Copeland explained.

plan would operate by looking back to 1964. Johnson polled 948,000 vote in Florida. He carried the State, and claimed all of its 14 electoral votes. Goldwater got nothing for the 906,000 votes he received, or for the seven congressional districts he carried. Under the district plan, Florida's electoral vote would have been divided 7-7. In the same election, Louisiana's 10 electoral votes went wholly to Goldwater. Under the district plan, Johnson would have won three votes for the districts he carried.

The district plan represents the least change from the federalism that has served us well.

a conference room suitable for small executive meetings; electronic equipment with 10 audiovisual compartments for listening and viewing; a ramp leading to the elevator so that disabled persons can use the upstairs facilities without climbing steps; and a special children's section with a full time children's director.

"We hope by having the first of our two open sessions on Sunday that many people will be able to attend," Miss Copeland said. "Since it is scheduled on the same date and hours as the opening exhibition of the Greenville Art Center, I'm hoping interested people will be able to attend both, as we're not far apart," she added.

On Monday, the children will have a special open-house ceremony designed for them. If the weather permits, this will be held outdoors. Beginning at 4 p.m. and lasting until 5:30, the children's open house will be under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Reid, children's librarian.

Plans call for story telling by Mrs. Lindsay Savage and Mrs.

James Walters. Miss Jane Wilson, Children's Consultant for state libraries, is expected to be on hand.

Three East Carolina University students, Becky Starkey, Sheila Marlowe and Ann Wilkerson, will entertain the children and their parents by playing guitars and singing folk songs.

The public is invited to participate in both these open-houses, which are being sponsored to introduce the full facilities of the library available to them.

One final occasion to mark the event is a "Forgiveness Week." Beginning Monday, and continuing through Saturday, anyone with overdue books, records or equipment is invited to return them "without payment of overdue fees, with no questions asked," Miss Copeland remarked.

Admits A Smoke Screen Strategy

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel has pleaded guilty to frequently throwing up a smoke screen when confronted by inquiring reporters.

Mandel told the Lions Club Tuesday that his habit of lighting up and puffing on one of the more than 225 pipes in his collection when dealing with newsmen has a hidden purpose:

"I've been in public office since 1962, and I learned very early in the game that when you're besieged by reporters, you have to have time to think," he said.

"So every time they ask me a question, I put the pipe in my mouth, take out a match and light the pipe. By the time I puff on it a couple of times, I have the answer."

Opening lead: King of ♦ South was firmly convinced that he was looking at a game in hand when he sorted his cards. West's opening bid of one diamond came as a mild surprise. However, after the next two players passed—South announced his powerhouse by bidding two diamonds. The immediate cue bid of the opponent's opening call is unconditionally forcing to game. The partnership proceeded to four hearts in a relaxed manner.

West opened the king of diamonds on which East started an echo by following with the eight. West continued with the ace and East played the three. On the third round of the ruff, East ruffed in with the three of hearts and South overruffed with the nine. There appeared little more to the hand aside from conceding a trick to the king of trumps which appeared to be marked with the opening bidder. Declarer began to lead his hearts. He cashed the ace, however a ruff jolt was registered when East showed out. South continued with the queen, but West refused to release the king.

Declarer did not dare to lead a third round of trumps, for West could win this trick and then play another diamond to dislodge South's last trump, while West still retained the six of hearts. Declarer began to run the clubs, however West ruffed in on the second round and then cashed the king of hearts for the setting trick.

South can overcome the unfavorable trump break, if he does not release the ace of hearts. After he overruffs East on the third round of diamonds, it is suggested that he lead the queen of hearts. If West ducks, declarer continues with the jack. West is welcome to either of these tricks, for the dummy retains a trump to handle a diamond return. In other words, as long as a heart is left in the North hand, West cannot force the declarer in diamonds.

If West ducks two rounds of hearts, South merely cashes the ace and proceeds to play off his winners. West can score the king of hearts whenever he wishes, but declarer has a trump left to regain the lead.

If the trumps had divided three-two, the play would have become routine. South should therefore have made provision to cope with a four-one break—the only heart division that would present him with a problem.

NCO Club Kickbacks Reported By Entertainer

Airline Agrees Fly Back An Unwanted Passenger

LONDON (AP) — American Negro revolutionary Robert F. Williams today won his fight to return to the United States on the airline he bought a ticket from.

Trans World Airlines, which had refused previously to take Williams across the Atlantic, announced it would take him on a special flight. It said the only passengers would be the 44-year-old black power leader's lawyer and an airline security guard.

TWA said it would transport Williams "in response to a request from the U.S. government."

A TWA spokesman in New York said the flight would cost "as much as $20,000" and the airline was paying for it. Williams had accused TWA of breach of contract for not honoring the London-to-New York ticket he had bought, and the American Civil Liberties Union announced Wednesday it was considering legal action against the airline on behalf of Williams.

Informed sources said Williams would leave London Friday.

Williams is returning to his home in Detroit. He will face a kidnaping charge in North Carolina from which he fled eight years ago. Since then he has lived in Cuba, Red China and Egypt's United Arab Emirates.

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it is investigating a professional entertainer's list of "specific names and instances" concerning alleged money kickbacks to operators of military clubs in Vietnam.

The kickbacks were reported by singer-comedian Reuben Noel who said professional entertainers have been required to make under the table payments to uniformed managers of non-commissioned officers clubs. His and other allegations of mishandling of millions of dollars generated by NCO club fees and profits are the current focus of a Pentagon probe being pushed by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Noel said performers have to pay $50 or 10 per cent of their fees, some of which range up to $500 a week, in order to get booking assignments from some NCO club managers.

The Army said it could not release Noel's correspondence because rights of accused persons might be prejudiced. But he was reported to have named several Army sergeants who demanded the kickbacks in Vietnam.

The Washington Star said Noel quoted one noncommissioned officer as commenting: "Now, you're going to face some miserable club custodians who are going to ask you for kickbacks on shows. I know this is going on, and there's not a damn thing I can do about it."

Another Noel passage quoted by the newspaper had a sergeant saying: "Sure, you can work the (deleted) division again. You were great down there. You'll have to pay $50 a show but you can get the same $350 you got last time."

The Army said the details provided by Noel, who lives in Phoenix, Ariz., and who has written Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., about the matter, are being investigated by the command of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams in Vietnam.

No charges have been filed pending outcome of the overall NCO club probe but official sources say a dozen top non-commissioned officers have been linked to possible illegal activities in Europe and Washington as well as Vietnam.

Forty military investigators are working on the case but only two names have surfaced thus far with any apparent connection to the probe.

A few days ago Carl C. Turner, who was Army provost marshal general from 1964 to 1968, abruptly resigned a five-month-old assignment as chief of U.S. marshals in the Justice Department.

Official sources say the retired two-star general stepped down after the Justice Department checked with the Pentagon about his handling of NCO club management investigations dating back to 1965.

Last week the Pentagon also disclosed it had revoked the award of a Distinguished Service Medal in 1968 to William O.

Woodrige, the first man to hold the rank of sergeant major of the Army, highest enlisted job in the service.

The Pentagon has refused to say whether the award revocation is related to its NCO club investigation, but a Senate subcommittee headed by Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has announced that Woodrige probably will be called to testify before hearings on the subject this month.

Britain confined Williams in London's Pentonville Prison as an undesirable alien and he wet on a hunger strike. The British tried to send him back to Cairo on the Egyptian airline but he refused to go, and he also refused to take a ship to the United States.

Something Fishy In Prize Catch

JOENSUU, Finland (UPI)—The anonymous fisherman at the annual Joensuu fishing contests seemed extraordinarily lucky. His catch appeared a certain winner for the first prize of a television set.

But a fellow contestant smelled something fishy and took a closer look. The lucky fellow's catch, it turned out, was deep frozen and long dead, apparently bought in the local fish market. He was disqualified.

Another Record Crop Year Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers are headed for another record crop year despite dry weather in some areas and government efforts to cut back production of wheat and livestock feedgrains.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that its production index for all crops dropped one point in August but still was 20 per cent more than the 1957-59 average.

Corn production was estimated at 4.3 billion bushels, up slightly from August and 1 per cent less than 1968 output. The record crop was 4.8 billion bushels in 1967.

Revised estimates also showed all wheat production this year at 1.5 billion bushels, about two million fewer than indicated in August and 7 per cent less than the record 1.6 billion bushels produced last year.

The September report also estimated soybean production at about 1.1 billion bushels, down 1 per cent from August and 2 per cent less than last year's record crop.

The indicated yield per acre and production, respectively, of important crops by major producing states included:

Corn for Grain
North Carolina 72 and 93,168,000.
South Carolina 50 and 21,100,000.
Winter Wheat
North Carolina 41 and 8,036,000.
Soybeans
North Carolina 24 and 22,392,000.
South Carolina 20 and 19,740,000.
Apples (Production only)
North Carolina 250 million.
Peaches (Production only)
North Carolina 79 million.
South Carolina 350 million.

There are about 1,600 different species of minerals on earth.

Area Grads At Peace College

RALEIGH — Five Rose High School graduates are among the record enrollment of approximately 475 young women at Peace College here this fall.

They are: Bari Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Jones of 304 Greenville Dr., sophomore; Louisa Gaston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Gaston of 1604 Beaumont Dr., freshman; Margaret Clinton Elks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Elks of Grimesland, freshman; Myra Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett Jr. of 110 Avon Lane, freshman; and Terry Flanagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Flanagan of Country Club Dr., freshman.

Among the orientation activities this week are academic convocation with guest speaker, Dr. John Smylie of Queens College, and a reception honoring students and faculty given by Peace President Dr. and Mrs. S. David Frazier. Also planned are a hootenanny, skit to introduce new students to campus activities, a big sister-little sister picnic and a talent show.

Sunday, the entire Peace student body, following tradition, will attend worship service at the First Presbyterian Church, which assumed the operation and control of the college in 1962.

Activities Set By Belvoir Club

Activities planned for the 1969-70 school year for members of the Belvoir-Falkland Future Homemakers of America Club have been announced.

A general organization meeting and initiation for new members have been planned for Sept. 22.

A film on pork cookouts will be shown Oct. 13. The film is produced by the North Carolina Pork Association and a representative of VEPCO will be on hand Nov. 24 to give ideas on Thanksgiving entertainment.

Daddy-Date-Night will be held Dec. 8. A foreign minister will speak to the group on customs and religion in January.

A floating social will be held Saturday night, Feb. 14, for members of the group and their dates.

The Mother-Daughter banquet is planned for sometime in March and the election of officers will be held in April. The new officers will be installed in May.

TRY TO SAVE OFFICE

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state has taken to the courts to try to save the original law office of Henry Clay at Lexington. A Presbyterian church wants to dispose of the office to make room for expansion.

Bucher Arrives At Navy School

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Edouard L. Westcott of Waukesha, Wis., has been elected commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Westcott, 91, who was a sergeant in the 1st Wisconsin Volunteers during the war against Spain, was named at the 71st annual meeting of the group Wednesday.

Present at the meeting were 83 members ranging in age from 80 to 95.

Ice Cream And Fresh Eggs In Today's Army Chow

By HELEN GIBSON
SAIGON (UPI)—For several years an Army barge bobbed off the coastal resort of Vung Tau on a war mission with a difference.

Seven days a week it churned out 150 gallons of ice cream for the American troops in Vietnam.

The barge has sailed back to Okinawa for repairs now, but not before the torch was handed over to a shore installation, keeping the ice cream ever-flowing.

Nearer Saigon, an ice-cream van tinkles its musical chimes around the U.S. Army Headquarters in Long Binh. GIs in battle fatigues with M16 rifles succumb to the delights of soft ice-cream raspberry sundaes.

Ice cream has come to war, together with a quart of milk and two fresh eggs a day for every one of the half million U.S. servicemen in Vietnam.

World War II veterans feel the soldier today has little to grumble at along the chow lines. When the sort of complaint heard in one mess hall goes, "We're always getting roast beef," their lack of sympathy turns into a set of "w h a t-w e-h a d-t o-p u t-u p-w i t h" reminiscences.

"Stew, Stew, Stew"
"All I can remember is stew, stew and more stew, for three and a half years without a break on Pacific naval bases," said Dr. Marvin Day, of Hartford, Conn., a civilian doctor doing a voluntary stint in an American medical aid program here.

"Ice cream just didn't exist, and we never saw fresh eggs, vegetables or milk, of course," Lt. Col. John V. Curr of Indianapolis, Ind., said. "There was a yellow powder someone named egg, and at the end of the war something appeared called powdered milk. There was only one word for the lot—deplorable."

For this war, exactly 15,636,000 eggs stream monthly straight from the American hen via refrigerated ship onto Army mess hall tables throughout Vietnam. This does not even include the five northern provinces, where the Navy takes charge of feeding all troops.

And on the hot tarmac of some little airstrip in the boon-docks, passengers might wait until crates of carefully packed iceberg lettuce are hauled off the cargo plane. Every month over 800,000 pounds of Army lettuce care coddled across the Pacific in specially chilled Sea-Land vans.

Regular Hot Meals
Although troops in the field are certainly not feeding off steak and salads every night, they get one hot meal daily where conditions permit. The big exception seems to be for Marines in northern I Corps. Their chronic shortage of helicopters plus a reputation for toughness keeps these troops on a diet of combat "C" rations long past the time others would be eating hot chow.

In contrast, the chopper-rich troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division often receive two meals daily in the middle of Viet Cong territory. In thermos containers shaped like five-gallon jerry cans, anything from spaghetti and meatballs to chilled fruit salad will come swooping into some lonely company position blown out of heavy jungle.

The units with the tank-like armored personnel carriers (APCS) are even better off. Hauling along the odd case of iced beer or sodas presents no problem to a lumbering nine-ton APC.

For everyday eating, the Army's gourmet bible is the 28-day master menu book. Its cycle within a 30 or 31-day month is proudly presented as the answer to every mess sergeant's problem—how not to provide the same meal on the same day every month.

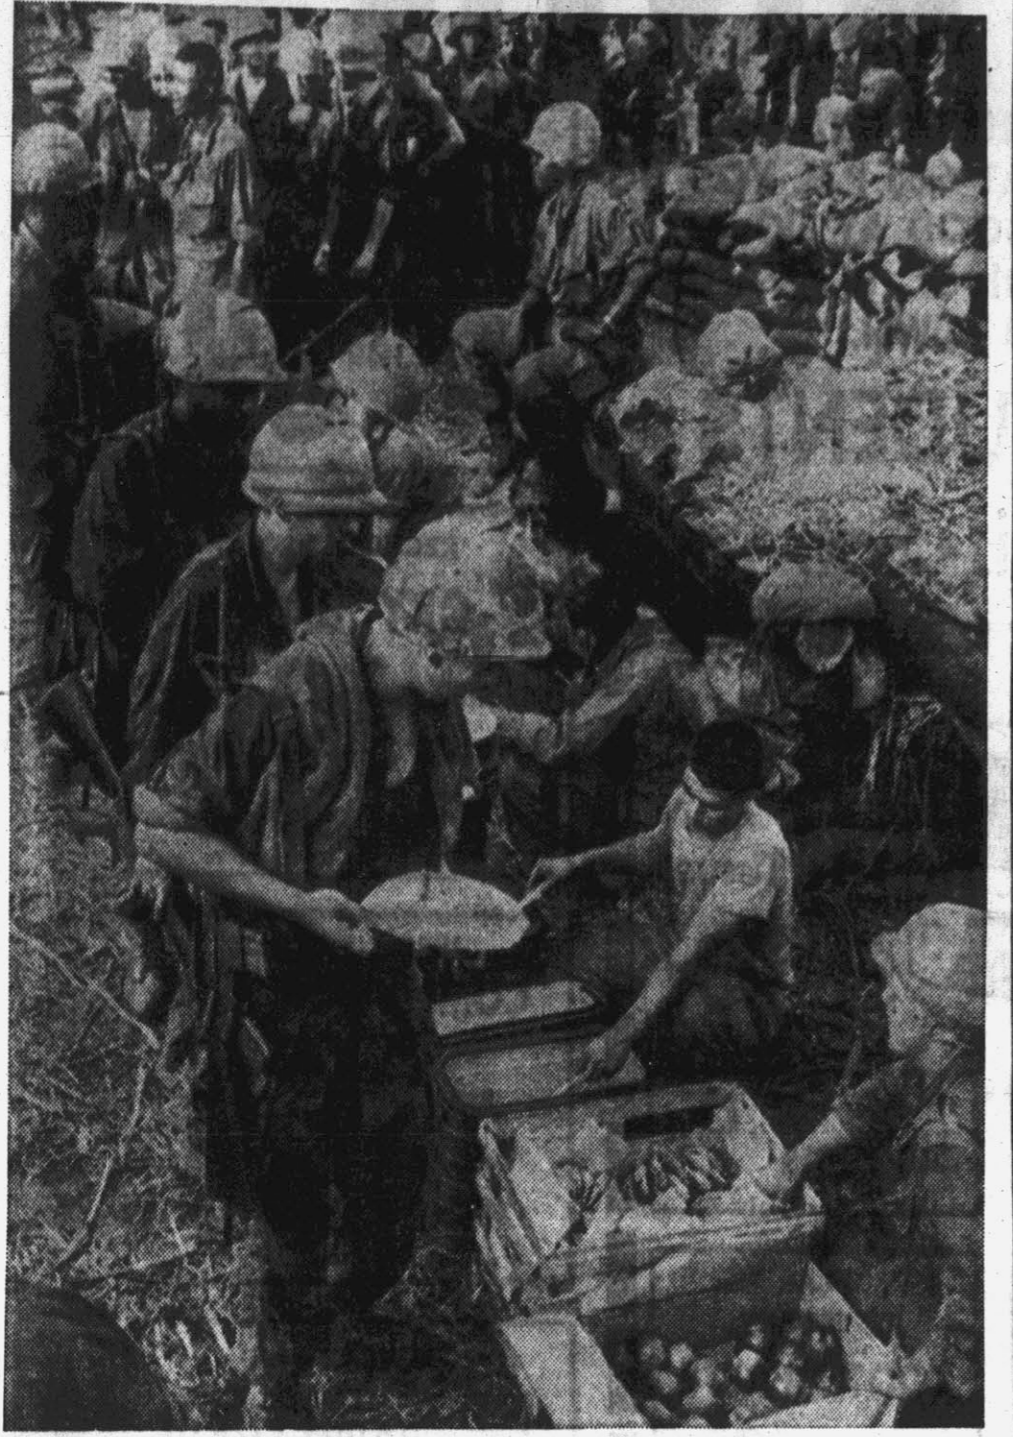

Taking a page at random, the master menu book promises the following for day 14: breakfast lists apples, chilled juices, hot or cold cereals, eggs to order, grilled bacon, toast, butter and jelly, milk and coffee. A light lunch of chili and rice, various vegetables, cherries and cookies. Dinner settles down to serious business: grilled pork or lamb chops, cream gravy, applesauce, potatoes, beets, cole slaw, bread, iced Kool-Aid, milk, rounded off by yellow cake with orange butter-cream frosting and coffee. All this is somehow met by the Army's budget of $1.42 per man.

One private, who declined to be identified, said he had a better variety of meals in Vietnam than from his wife's cooking. This did not prevent him from preferring to eat at home, he added hastily.

CHOW TIME — With few exceptions, America's fighting men in Vietnam are eating better than its veterans of former wars. Here, troopers who returned from a mission line up for a meal. Turkey was the main item on the menu. (UPI Telephoto)

Church Launches Weekday Kindergarten, Nursery

A new weekday kindergarten and nursery began at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Monday.

Mrs. W. H. Collier is director for the kindergarten. She holds the B. S. and M.A. degrees in Elementary Education from East Carolina University. She has worked with ECU Kindergarten as a student teacher and has taught in the Ayden

Elementary School and Wahl-Coates Laboratory School.

The kindergarten meets in the educational building of the church. There are vacancies for three more five year old boys. The nursery, under the direction of Miss Roberta Joanne Valery, meets three days per week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

A native of Warren, N. J.,

Miss Valery, is attending ECU where she is studying in the field of child development. She is majoring in Home Economics, with a minor in Psychology.

The nursery has openings for two girls.

Jarvis Memorial is located at the corner of Dickinson Avenue and S. Washington Street. Dr. J. V. Early is pastor, with the Rev. Tom Loftis and the Rev. A. E. Brown, associates.

The Xingu River, in South America, is about 1,000 miles long.

Rampants Open Home Season With Sanderson

Meet The Rampants

Tommy Diggs, left, and Joe West are two members of this year's Rose High School Rampant football team. Diggs, a 5-11, 175-pound junior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Diggs. He is a reserve halfback. West, a 5-11, 150-pound senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude

West. He is the starting quarterback for the Rampants, and rolled up 11 of 19 passes last week for 159 yards and two touchdowns. Rose opens its home season Friday against Raleigh's Sanderson High School.

(Reflector Photos)

Rose Seeking To Post First Win Of Year Over Big, Strong Spartans

Rose High School opens its home season Friday night in Ficklen Stadium, looking for its first victory after last week's opening defeat.

The Rampants will be playing host to Raleigh's Sanderson High School, also a victim in its initial outing of the season last week. The Spartans bowed to Garner, 24-0, while Rose was losing to Washington, 27-14.

"They are quite big," Coach Bud Phillips said of his opposition. "They are physically a nice looking ball club."

The coach pointed out that they have two linemen who tip the scales at around 250 pounds, Andy Purvis and James Heathcock. Both play in the defensive tackle slots.

"They were hurt last week by having their number one quarterback, Mike Vick, out of the lineup. He was hurt, but we don't know whether he'll be ready to go this week. He is a good thrower, and they'll be a lot better if he can play."

Playing for Vick were Bill Black, who started, and Matt Christian who saw a lot of action.

Phillips said that the 24-0 score was deceiving. Garner returned two punts in the last quarter for touchdowns. "Sanderson stayed within scoring distance during the entire third quarter, but wasn't able to do anything. Then, they got backed up against their goal line in the fourth period, and got off a bad punt that was fielded on the 18, and someone ran it in. They got their heads down after that, and the next time they punted, another runback brought another touchdown. Those two plays made a lot of difference."

"They are impressive with their size," Phillips said. "They're not sloppy looking, but are well-built. They looked like they ran the ball well, but Garner put a good defense on them, and Sanderson couldn't adjust to it. Sanderson also couldn't adjust to their sweeps."

Like Rose, Sanderson is a new team to the Eastern 4-A Conference. The school opened last year and played its first season then. The game between the two is not a divisional encounter, and will not count in the standings.

"It was really kind of hard to scout them in the Garner game, since they never really got off a good series of downs to show what they had," the coach said.

The leading ground gainer was fullback Jack Orsley, who picked up 85 yards in 15 carries.

Injuries appeared early in the week to have put a damper on the Rose plans, but they may not be quite as bad as first thought. Greg Williams and Lewis Gidley were both injured in the Washington game, and were expected to miss the Sanderson game. "They both are better," Phillips said. "Greg was discharged, and could be ready to go. Lewis is better, and could see limited action. Otherwise the rest of the squad looks pretty good, although Ronald Cherry is a little slow because of a practice injury."

This week's activity in practice has been almost entirely on the defensive unit. "I hope we've gotten the kinks worked out," Phillips said. "We've accomplished right much during the week, and I hope we'll be better."

Dave Bullock and Gary Singleton have both been looking good at the linebacking spot in the place of Gidley. Another chance sent Josh Weeks to defensive halfback, while Bubba Raul moved over to rover to replace Williams. Tom Hodgin had been put into the left end spot, with Harold Lloyd moved over to the right side of the line.

"We're still looking at tackles and middle guards," Phillips said.

"I thought our offense did pretty good in the game," he said. "We made a few errors, but all in all we didn't do a bad job. We didn't have any penalties except that one for a personal foul."

Johnny Smith leads the offensive ground game with 43 yards in 10 carries last week, a 4.4 average. Raul had 33 yards in 10 lugs for a 3.3 mark.

Joe West hit on 11 of 19 passes for 159 yards and two touchdowns, and leads the total offense with 143 yards.

The probable starting lineup on the offensive unit for Rose has Weeks and Mike Harrington at ends, Tim Leith and Jay Hagans at tackles, Tommy Worsley and Steve Williams at guards, Tommy Bland at center, West at quarterback, Smith and either Russ Smith or Cliff Edwards at halfbacks and Raul at fullback.

On defense, it will be Hodgin and Lloyd at ends, Sidney Hardee and Hagans at tackles, Willie Barnhill at middle guard, Bullock and Cherry at linebackers, Raul at rover, Weeks and Edwards at halfbacks and Russ Smith at safety.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Line Blocking Is Improving

East Carolina University's football team may be a rainy-weather outfit.

The Pirates held what Coach Clarence Stasavich termed their best scrimmage of the year Wednesday afternoon and practically the entire workout was held in the rain.

The first two offensive and defensive units went at each other with vigor and abandon to such extent that Stasavich was smiling when it came time to close out the workout with a conditioning drill.

Both offensive backfields looked good running the ball and senior tailback Billy Wightman in particular drew praise for the amount of yardage he was able to pick up.

"Due to the rain the passing game wasn't too sharp," Stasavich said, "but both backfield units looked good."

Stasavich said the defensive units looked good on occasions and singled out end Mike McGuirk for his play.

"The biggest change, however, was in the offensive line blocking," Stasavich said. "It was much better."

The Pirate coach said this practice was a direct contrast to that of the last two days and added: "The cool weather probably helped out. It probably had as much to do with it as anything."

Junior College transfer Earl Clary again did all the placekicking and kicking off and got off one 35-yard field goal.

High Speed Is Great Thrill

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—How does it feel to drive a stock racing car almost 200 miles per hour, knowing that the slightest error could carry you into a cement wall with almost certain death or injury?

"It was the thrill of my driving career," said 32-year-old Charlie Glotzbach of Georgetown, Ind. "It almost takes your breath away."

"Tremendous," said Lee Roy Yarbrough, 30, of Columbia, S.C., who presently is stock racing's biggest money winner. "I can't describe the sensation."

Seven of the nine drivers who qualified for positions in Sunday's 50-car field bettered the old world's speed mark for a closed racing course. That mark, 190.702 m.p.h., was set at the 2.5-mile Daytona International Speedway by Cale Yarbrough earlier this year.

Yarbrough, the Mercury star, had Wednesday's third best speed, 198.651 m.p.h. Buddy Baker, one of Glotzbach's teammates in a Dodge, was fourth at 197.814 m.p.h.

Both predicted they will circle the massive, freshly built $6 million speedway at 200 m.p.h. or better before the week is out.

"Wait until I get a fresh engine," said Yarbrough, referring to the fact that the engine he used in his time trial runs was the same one he used to win the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., on Labor Day.

Glotzbach, who sold a lucrative earth-moving business in Indiana earlier this year to devote full time to racing, said he'll have a better tire compound for the remaining practice sessions. "We'll try a couple of new things that should help us," he said.

Chicago, out of first place for the first time since the season started, went down to its seventh straight defeat before the three-hit pitching of Rick Wise.

The Cubs tied the game 2-2 in the sixth on Ron Santo's sacrifice fly, but the Phillies broke the tie on Johnny Briggs' run-scoring single in the seventh and wrapped it up with three more runs in the eighth.

Houston gained its tie with Los Angeles behind the hitting of Denis Menke and Jim Wynn, and the pitching of Denny Lemaster. Menke sparked a four-run first inning with a three-run double, Wynn hit his 31st homer with a man on, and Lemaster hurled a six-hitter.

Atlanta, now just two percentage points behind second-place Cincinnati, beat San Francisco as Hank Aaron sparked a three-run fourth inning with his 40th homer and Rico Carty followed an Aaron single in the fifth with his 12th homer. The Giants got all their runs in the sixth on Ken Henderson's two-run single and Willie McCovey's two-run double.

Shortstop Woody Woodward's error proved to be Cincinnati's downfall. He came in on Julio Morales' grounder in the eighth inning and allowed San Diego's Roberto Pena, who had tripled, to score. Morales also homered in the fourth. The Reds tied it in the sixth on Jim Stewart's RBI triple.

The pitching and hitting of Bob Gibson and the hitting of Joe Torre keyed St. Louis' first-game victory over Pittsburgh. Gibson, 17-11, fired a seven-hitter, rapped three singles and a double and scored twice and Torre drove in five runs with a triple and single.

The Cardinals grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the second game when Bo Belinsky walked in two runs with the bases loaded, and Mike Torrez and Joe Hoerner combined for a six-hitter to make the lead stand up.

Pittsburgh's run came in the eighth inning, but it was not enough to keep the Pirates from falling into fourth place behind the Cardinals in the East.

Marvelous Mets Win Pair, Move Into 1st By Full Game Over Cubs

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Take heart Montreal and San Diego, the New York Mets are in first place in the National League East.

Keep the faith San Diego and Montreal. The Houston Astros are just two games out of first place in the National League West.

Don't be embarrassed with your 44-99 record Montreal or with your 45-97 mark San Diego. Seven years ago today, in those pre-division days, the expansion Mets were in last place with 35-105 record and the new Astros were just a notch ahead of them with 56-87 mark.

But the Mets and the Astros have kept plugging, and Wednesday night New York swept Montreal 3-2 in 12 innings and 7-1 to move into first place a game ahead of Chicago, which lost 6-2 to Philadelphia, while Houston smashed Los Angeles 2-1 to tie the Dodgers for fourth, just two games back of first-place San Francisco.

In 'ther NL action, San Francisco lost 8-4 to the Atlanta Braves but remained one-half game ahead of both Cincinnati, which was edged by San Diego 2-1, and the Braves, and St. Louis swept Pittsburgh 11-2 and 2-1.

The hit that sent a Shea Stadium full of Met fans in ecstasy was a single by Ken Boswell in the 12th inning of the opener. It scored Cleon Jones and put the Mets in first place for the first time ever, by one-half game.

The Mets increased their lead to a full game in the nightcap as they erupted for six runs in the third inning and Nolan Ryan pitched a three-hitter.

Montreal got three hits and two runs in the first two innings of the opener off Jim McAndrew. McAndrew then limited the Expos to just one more hit until he was taken for a pinch hitter in the 11th. Ron Taylor pitched the 12th and got the victory.

The Mets had plenty of trouble with Mike Wegener, who yielded just five hits and struck out a club record of 15, but they scored one run in the first inning on Art Shamsky's two-out, RBI single and tied the score on the fifth when Wegener balked with the bases loaded. Boswell's game-winning hit came off Bill Stoneman.

New York fell behind 1-0 in the second inning of the night-

Eight Area Games Scheduled For Friday Night

Area gridiron action gets into full swing tomorrow night, as the second week of the season rolls around. Eight games are on the slate, with three conference contests in among them.

In conference action, Farmville is at Southern Nash, Williamston travels to Scotland Neck, and Chocowinity is at Robersonville. Other games are Greene Central at Pamlico County, Grifton at Aurora, Morrisson at South Ayden, Swansboro at Ayden, and Sugg at Perquimans Union.

Robersonville will be looking for their first win against Chocowinity, as the Rams were shut out by Williamston last Friday night, 19-0. The Green Wave put up an impressive ground attack and defense, as they mounted up 184 yards rushing while pushing the Rams back for a minus two on the ground.

Meanwhile, Robersonville was shutting the Green Wave out in their aerial attack, allowing them no completions.

Chocowinity won its opening game of the season, 26-0 over Mattamuskeet, to establish itself as a contender in the Tobacco Belt Conference.

Greene Central will be traveling to Pamlico County, also looking for their first win of the year. Last week, the Rams almost upset Ayden, as they led with less than minutes to go in the game, but the Tornadoes pulled it out with a 22 yard scamper by quarterback Alan Wilson, to give the Tornadoes an 18-13 win.

Greene Central set up a balanced attack against Ayden, but found themselves lacking in the defense department as Ayden gained over 200 yards on the ground.

The Rams' quarterback Robbie Hill connected with Donnie Harris in the closing minutes of last Friday night's contest to put Greene Central in the lead, 13-12, but it just was not good enough.

Ayden

Ayden meanwhile will play host to Swansboro. Things could be tougher still for the Tornawin over the Washington High School junior varsity last week.

Mike Tyndall did most of the Bulldog work last week, scoring two touchdowns, on four and 11 yard runs. Mike Coles did the honors for the other Grifton score going over from 15 yards.

Grifton ground out 212 yards rushing in the game.

Williamston

Williamston will be out for its second win, and first conference victory, as they are on the road to Scotland Neck tomorrow night.

Grey Godard scored two of the Green Wave TDs, on 15 and one yard runs.

Scotland Neck lost 12-7 in their opener last week, bowing to Northampton in the Albe-Marle Conference.

South Ayden

South Ayden's Eagles will be looking for their first win, as they were downed by J. T. Barber, 13-12 last week.

The Eagles appeared to have scored an upset over strong Barber, but a score in the third quarter put them behind by one, then they could not make it up, even though they drove to the three when the clock went against them.

Farmville

Farmville will be facing their second straight Eastern Plains Conference for this week in the form of Southern Nash.

Last week, the Devils took an early 12-0 lead over Hobbiton in the first half, then saw the home team pick up 12 in the second half to end the game in a tie.

Dickie Newton, the returning Red Devils halfback who did such a good job last year, scored both the Farmville touchdowns, from one and 20 yards out.

Farmville showed that it was capable of moving the ball, mounting up 213 yards in total offense, as compared to 100 for Hobbiton.

Southern Nash, in its second year of football, lost 22-14 to Charles B. Aycock. It was the 11th time in 11 games that Southern Nash has lost, without ever winning a game.

Sugg

H.B. Sugg High School opens its season Friday, traveling to Perquimans Union.

Sugg will be out to get its season off to a good start with a win while Perquimans will be trying to move along on its own.

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opponent rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO APPLY TO THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT COMMISSION FOR APPROVAL OF BONDS

NOTICE is hereby given of intention of the undersigned to file application with the Local Government Commission, Raleigh, North Carolina, for its approval of the issuance of the following proposed bonds of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, which bonds shall be subject to the approval of the voters of said City at an election:

$1,500,000 Sanitary Sewer Bonds for the purpose of providing funds, with any other available funds, for enlarging and extending the sanitary sewer system of said City, including the construction and reconstruction of sewage collection, treatment and disposal facilities and the acquisition of any necessary land, rights of way and equipment.

$1,000,000 Water Bonds for the purpose of providing funds, with any other available funds, for enlarging and extending the waterworks system of said City, including the construction and reconstruction of water treatment and distribution facilities and the acquisition of any necessary land, rights of way and equipment.

$1,000,000 Electric Light and Power Bonds for the purpose of providing funds, with any other available funds, for enlarging and improving the electric light and power system of said City, including the acquisition of any necessary land, rights of way and equipment.

$1,000,000 Natural Gas System Bonds for the purpose of providing funds, with any other available funds, for enlarging and extending the natural gas system of said City, including the construction of gas mains and lines and the acquisition of any necessary land, rights of way and equipment.

This notice was first published on the 11th day of September, 1969. Any citizen or taxpayer objecting to the issuance of all or any of said bonds may file with the Local Government Commission a verified statement setting forth his objections as provided in Section 159-2.1 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, provided he shall also file a copy of such statement with the undersigned, at any time within ten days from and after such first publication. A copy of this notice must be attached to the statement so filed. Objections set forth in said statement shall be for consideration by said Commission in its determination of whether or not it may hold a public hearing as provided by law on the matter of issuance of said bonds.

Consumers Hail 'Hot Line' Help

By PAUL ASHDOWN

MIAMI (UPI)—Mrs. Richard Schermer scraped together $290 to enroll her daughter in a computer programming school. The class was never held and after her fifth attempt to get her money back she dialed a telephone number embossed in red ink on a business card someone had handed her.

It was the consumer hot line number.

High in the aging Dade County Courthouse, in a cluttered dusty office next to the palatial suite occupied by Metropolitan Mayor Chuck Hall, a red phone rang and John Mays reached across a paper strewn desk to answer it. "Trade Standards Division," he announced and patiently listened to Mrs. Schermer's plea for assistance.

Mays went to the school and demanded Mrs. Schermer's tuition money be returned. "We don't have it and I don't know any Mrs. Schermer," a gruff attendant told him.

Mays reached into his pocket and pulled out his credentials as a deputy sheriff. He was quickly ushered into another office.

An hour later he presented Mrs. Schermer with a check for $290 which had been misplaced through an "oversight" by the school's management.

Fast Results, or Else!

Mays is a warm, cherubic man who looks anything but a consumers' advocate armed with police powers to enforce the toughest consumer protection code in the nation.

He answers the red phone more than 50 times a day to field complaints from Dade Countians who feel they've been gypped and want something done about it.

Calls range from the bizarre to the inane, and include the dramatic.

A light bulb guaranteed for five years burns out in a week. A size 42 bra becomes a size 36 after three washings. A baby almost chokes to death on a pacifier that is "guaranteed safe."

More than 4,000 complaints have been filed since opening day last October.

The division is entirely separate from, but in communion with the Better Business Bureau. The division gives no advice about the reputation or ethics of the business community, as does the BBB. But it has power to prosecute lawbreakers. The BBB does not.

The division's bible is a sleek, 28-page ordinance written into the county's municipal statutes. It took a special enabling act of the sometimes gunshy state legislature to get the landmark code into operation.

It's a tough law. Violators may be fined up to $500 and jailed for 60 days.

Mays and his staff have police powers to investigate, arrest and prosecute fly-by-night operators and crooked businessmen. The office can, but seldom does, attack rackets and large scale fraudulent operations such as the home repair racket. These are left to other law enforcement agencies.

Peculiarly, the office's implied powers have been enough to make the hair bristle on the necks of the county's gyp-artists. Only 17 cases have been filed—four are pending—and only two convictions have been made. Hundreds of other grievances have been straightened out by a quick phone call.

Strong, But Fair

Sometimes an honest mistake has been made and easily rectified. A man who rented a car for which he was to pay a charge for each mile driven complained when he noticed the odometer whirling at a pretty good clip and became suspicious. A check showed the mileage meter running 60 per cent faster than the car actually travelled.

"He was good and steamed up," Mays recalled. "And who could blame him."

Mays found, after much investigation, that the rented car had originally been manufactured for export and the odometer was set to register, not in miles—but in kilometers.

When Mays cracks the whip it comes down hard. A junk dealer was found using false weights for copper he was buying. That piece of deception cost him a stiff fine in court.

Mays said he has deliberately held off filing charges against local merchants during the honeymoon period of his new office.

"We want to educate them and give them a reasonable amount of time to adjust before we go after them," he explained. "But that's all over now and we're going to begin cracking down."

Dade consumers, understandably, are delighted with the hot line and are doing much to support it.

Phyllis Cole, an attractive housewife who saw her house-keeping budget being chipped away when milk prices began to escalate a few years ago, is the ramrod behind the hot line. She organized a group of other disenchanted consumers into a consumers league, steered an enabling act through the legislature, and helped put some teeth in the city's weights and measures offices, of which Mays had been director for more than 20 years.

"Once the politicians saw the hot line working, they all began claiming credit for it," said Mrs. Cole.

"At least two officials have printed up small cards with the consumer hot line number printed in red ink, and their own compliments of name on the reverse side.

"It's a gimmick, but it works," Mrs. Cole said. "The cards are floating all over the county and we've been told more are on the way."

"We've already gone far beyond what I ever dreamed could be accomplished," she said.

Coming Tunnel Expected To Boom Oakland Airport

By WILEY MALONEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If San Franciscans in the next decade want to get anywhere in the world fast, they may have to go through Oakland via the longest undersea transit tube in the world.

That is because the Bay Area Rapid Transit System (BART) will offer quicker service to the Oakland International Airport from downtown San Francisco than service to the San Francisco Airport.

The tube, a nearly completed three-and-a-half-mile key link in the transit system, will give air travelers only a 22-minute hop to the Oakland Airport even in rush hours.

It would take an air traveler in San Francisco, in the same hours, an undetermined longer time fighting traffic on the Bayshore Freeway in car or bus, to reach San Francisco Airport. And air traffic will become more congested as time goes on, a BART study indicated.

Out To Oakland

While the East Bay politicians have been busy, the West Bay authorities have been fumbling.

It is a paradox of air travel that a person can fly 500 miles in less time than it takes him to get 20 miles from the airport.

BART is expected to be a going operation in 1972. The tube under the bay is now being finished. Bids for the 250 rapid transit cars will be let shortly. BART, in cooperation with East Bay authorities and the federal government, also has approved a $90,000 study for an airport terminal connection with the BART terminal in the growing Oakland Coliseum sports and industrial complex area, a distance of about three-and-a-half miles.

The southern terminus of BART on the San Francisco Peninsula is at Daly City, where the county line ends. San Mateo County, contiguous to the line, withdrew from BART before the system got underway in 1962 and there is no definite plan on how rapid transit will ever reach the San Francisco Airport located in that county.

San Mateo County formed a West Bay Rapid Transit Authority and proposed a bond issue to finance a bus connection service with the airport and the BART Daly City terminal. It was the first phase of a three-phase plan. But the issue was soundly defeated on June 10 when only 20 per cent of the electorate turned out to vote.

Jumbos Will Be Served

The authority was dissolved under terms of its organization on June 30. Nothing done. A new authority must be formed.

The study by BART, meanwhile, predicts that the Oakland airport will continue to grow while the San Francisco Airport growth will level off in passenger traffic after 1975.

The study said "it would be reasonable that with an airplane of the (Boeing jumbo jetliner) 747 size being introduced prior to 1972, an 800-passenger airplane, will be required near the 1980 time period.

"As the secretary of transportation recently pointed out, two of these planes arriving about the same time without transit, will require some combination of 250 taxis and or 700 private cars."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks generally continued their rally of the past two sessions, but oil issues, strong in performance Wednesday, appeared soft in active trading this afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon reached 830.85 up 2.84. The DJI at 10:30 a. m. had been up 4.42 points at 832.43.

Analysts said investors still cling to the hope that President Nixon's top-level meeting on Vietnam Friday would lead to a cutback in fighting there. Also cited as a strong incentive was Federal Reserve Chairman William McChesney Martin's statement that "there are indications we may be getting to the end of very high interest rates."

Brokers noted that a swift rise in many oil issues on the West Coast Wednesday night led to excessive profit taking today. Many oil issues opened late on the exchanges because of an influx of orders. The move to oil issues apparently was triggered by the $900-million sale of tracts in Alaska's oil-laden North Slope.

Atlantic Richfield paced the losers among active oil issues at 108½ down 5.

Gulf Oil, the most-active stock on the New York Stock Exchange with 27,910 shares traded, was down 3 at 36½.

Among oil blocks traded was Texaco with 184,800 shares at 32¾, off 1.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 2 to 290.4, with industrials up 4, rails off .1 and utilities up .2.

Calls Boycotters Headline Seekers

PLYMOUTH, N. C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has applied the label "headline seekers" to some Negro student leaders who failed to attend a dinner when he invited them to dine and talk with him at the Governor's Mansion.

Scott broke his silence over the Negro students who "boycotted" his dinner in a speech to the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce.

"The boycotters proved to my satisfaction that they are interested in talking only if it's going to get into the newspaper," Scott said. "They are not interested in nitty gritty talking, he kind that doesn't bring headlines — just action and work."

Institutional Director Is Announced At ECU

Dr. Charles Q. Brown has been named to fill the newly established post of Director of Institutional Development at East Carolina University. He has already assumed his duties.

Announced by vice president and dean Robert L. Holt, the new position is designed to coordinate and supervise the work of several auxiliary agencies and services at the university.

Under Dr. Brown's supervision will be the offices of public relations, placement service, alumni affairs, institutional research, computing center, special projects and the Regional Development Institute.

Dr. Brown is a native North Carolinian who grew up in Henderson and who holds BS and MS degrees in geology from the University of North Carolina. He also holds the PhD degree from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

He joined the faculty of ECU in 1966 as the first chairman of the new Department of Geology, a post he held until his new appointment.

Prior to his tenure at ECU,

DR. CHARLES BROWN

"Dr. Brown's proven abilities as an academician and administrator will provide excellent leadership in this crucial period of development as a university," Dr. Holt said.

Additional duties for the new officer include the advising of administrative and academic officers of opportunities to improve research, instruction and services. He will also assist in the development of long-range plans for the physical growth of university programs.

GM Prices

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. today announced an average increase in price of $80 on its 1970 models.

GM said the increase would vary with the model and would average 2.1 per cent. It gave an example of a car which would have cost $3,836 in 1969 and will cost $3,916 in 1970.

The announcement was made by James Roche, GM board chairman, and Edward N. Cole, president at a news conference.

Plane Landings On Highways To Be 'Considered'

RALEIGH (AP) — An ordinance forbidding airplanes from landing or taking off from state highways will be considered by the North Carolina Highway Commission. The law now is silent on the subject.

The question arose recently when a trooper noticed a crop dusting plane landing on N. C. 11 in Martin County. The trooper couldn't find any law that said the plane couldn't land there.

There were reports the trooper charged the pilot with operating a motor vehicle on the highway without a license, but patrol commander Col. Edwin Guy said that was not so.

Guy conferred with members of the attorney general's staff and it was decided to ask the highway commission to adopt an ordinance making it illegal for planes to use highways except in emergencies.

Assaulted Girl, Preacher Fined

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — A Gastonia Baptist preacher has been fined $100 in Gaston Superior Court after pleading guilty to assault on a female.

The 16-year-old girl was identified as a member of his church.

The Rev. Barney Stroupe of Lowell had been charged with having carnal knowledge of the girl, who was 14 years old at the time. The charge was reduced by the prosecution.

The girl told the court that the preacher told her she would "go to hell" if she did not submit.

Data Indicates Mars 'Hostile'

By VERN HAUGLAND Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — If life were to exist on Mars, it would be greatly different from that on Earth, a preliminary examination of Mariner 6 and 7 data indicates.

Space agency scientists said today evidence sent to Earth by the spacecraft when they flew past the planet July 30 and Aug. 4 shows the Martian atmosphere "generally hostile to any Earth-style life forms."

In a briefing on the results of the Mariner flybys, scientists reported ultraviolet measurements showed atomic hydrogen and atomic oxygen in Mars' upper atmosphere. Carbon dioxide and carbon monoxide also were present as expected.

But the initial study failed to reveal any evidence of nitrogen, the scientists said.

"If additional intensive analysis substantiates this conclusion, a very key chemical compound is missing from the Martian environment," their report said. "If this is true, any life chemistry on Mars will have to be very much different than we know on Earth."

Measurements with an infrared spectrometer aboard Mariner 6 showed temperature variations of as much as 75 degrees within a 60-by-60 mile area.

The data also shows there was local reflectivity of solar light, and makes clear the darker spots on Mars are warmer than the light areas.

The scientists said Mariner 7 measurements provided very strong circumstantial evidence that the polar caps of Mars are made primarily of carbon dioxide rather than of water ice.

In general, the scientists said, the measurements so far show Mars to be heavily cratered, bleak, cold, dry, almost airless and "generally hostile to any Earth-style life forms."
