By FRED S. HOFFMAN. WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird indicated today draft calls for the months ahead will be reduced as a result of the new troop reduction in Vietnam and an over-all 20,000 man cutback in U.S. armed strength.

Is Her Doctor Giving Treat, Or Treatment?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old daughter has been seeing a psychiatrist about some problems. This is perfectly all right with us, but his mode of "therapy" has us worried.

Our daughter tells us that after each session he takes her in his arms, holds her close and kisses her tenderly. He says that is the new "sensitivity" therapy. Have you ever heard of anything like this?

WORRIED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Before jumping to any hasty conclusions, you must remember that your daughter is in "therapy" and could be indulging in fantasy, exaggeration or wishful thinking. However, "sensitivity" therapy is a new approach, as opposed to the former rigid "hands off" relationship between patient and psychotherapist. Some patients need a friendly touch or a reassuring pat. But no reputable therapist I've ever heard of will "tenderly kiss" a patient as part of the therapy. You have every right to confer with your daughter's therapist and find out if HE'S giving her a "treat" instead of a TREATMENT.

DEAR ABBY: I have a prominent nose, but it is a family trait. In fact we call it a "SCHWARTZ" nose. Every now and then some rude person will ask, "Why don't you have your nose fixed?"

I don't think I need it, but how should I answer?

J. SCHWARTZ
DEAR J. SCHWARTZ: Say "Why should I have my nose fixed? It runs all right."

DEAR ABBY: We hear so much these days about people not wishing to get "involved," I want to tell you a true story. My husband and I were driving on University boulevard in Maryland. It was 2 p. m. and the temperature was in the 90's—and no shade. Our car blew a tire and the nearest phone was half-a-mile away.

While we waited for the service we had called this is what happened: A teen-aged boy and girl offered to make a call at a friend's home nearby. A lady returning home with groceries took us to her home to check on the first phone call. She sent me back to our car with a pitcher of ice water for my husband. Her two teen-aged daughters stayed with us until our car was fixed.

Two young men from Maryland's School Department stopped, offering to change our tire.

Another man in a small service truck, going in the opposite direction, turned around and asked if he could help us.

Two Maryland police cars stopped and offered help. A third one put in an emergency call. Three other family cars stopped and offered help. Two buses stopped offering to drop us off at a service station. FOURTEEN Good Samaritans in one hour and fifteen minutes! The world must be spinning in the right groove.

Sincerely,
MRS. E. P. B.,

HAPPILY EVER AFTER?

This summer many young couples have taken the trip to the altar and said the now famous words "I do". Thus they became man and wife. Of all these weddings that have taken place this summer have you been to one lately? Remember the bride's radiant smile? And the groom's look of devotion? You probably wished for them all the happiness in the world, but do they all live happily ever after as they do in fairy tales and stories?

The research studies say some of them didn't according to Dr. Norbert Kelly, State Department of Mental Health. Researchers found that women tend to be unhappier in their marriage than men. They feel less adequate as parents and are more conscious of problems in their marriages. Are women more distressed about their marital and parental roles than men or are they just more willing to admit it? The study showed that men blame themselves more for family troubles than they blame their wives. They are concerned also with little time they have with their children and their lack of helping children with basic emotional needs. As men and women grow older, they become more accepting and satisfied with the way they have performed their marital and parental roles. They worry less, but become more unhappy and resigned.

Why is this true? There are many reasons. One seems to be confused about our duty to each other as husband and wife. We forget that men and women are different and think differently, too. Women tend to be more romantic and want to talk about love. They don't understand why men don't. An example is the conversation between Eb and Flo, the middle aged comic strip characters. Flo: "And another thing, Eb, you never say you love me anymore!" Eb, with a frown on his face: "I LOVE YOU!" Flo: "What he lacks in sincerity he makes up for with feeling!"

The husband thinks the wife ought to know she is loved if he provides a home and necessities of life for her. The wife apparently takes this for granted.

What can we do about it? Don't expect your husband to carry out duties as a mate to you exactly like you would. Let your husband know you do appreciate his providing for you. Older people who have learned this fact the hard way perhaps can help the younger couples they know. Talk with young wives about the many ways a man shows his wife he loves her without saying anything. If married couples can understand this early in their marriage, perhaps the research findings will change some day. We will find more couples do live happily ever after.

Teach Him World, But Gently

(Editors notes: This article was distributed 25 years ago by North American Newspaper Alliance, our affiliate, and we still get several requests a year for copies.)

By DAN VALENTINE
Women's News Service

My young son starts in school Tuesday. It's all going to be strange and new to him for a while, and World, I wish you would sort of treat him gently.

You see, up to now, he's been king of the roost. He's been worthy of the roost. His mother has always been around to repair his wounds, and I've always been handy to soothe his feelings.

But now things are going to be different.

Tuesday morning he's going to walk down the front steps, wave his hand, and start out on the great adventure. It's an adventure that might take him across continents. It's an adventure that will probably include wars and tragedy and sorrow.

To live his life in the world he has to live in will require faith and love and courage.

So, World, I wish you would sort of take him by his young hand and teach him the things he will have to know.

Teach him. . . but gently, if you can.

He will have to learn, I know, that all men are not just, that all men are not true.

But teach him also that for every scoundrel there is a hero. That for every crooked politician, there is a dedicated leader. Teach him that for every enemy, there is a friend.

It will take time, World, I know, but teach him, if you can, that a nickel earned is of far more value than a dollar found. Teach him to learn to lose. And to enjoy winning.

Steer him away from envy, if you can, and teach him the secret of quiet laughter.

Let him learn early that the bullies are the easiest people to lick. Teach him, if you can, the wonder of books. But also give him quiet time to ponder the eternal mystery of birds in the sky, bees in the sun, and flowers on a green hill.

In school, World, teach him it is far more honorable to fail than to cheat. Teach him to have faith in his own ideas, even if everyone tells him they are wrong.

Teach him to be gentle with gentle people and tough with tough people.

Try to give my son the strength not to follow the crowd when everyone else is getting on the bandwagon. Teach him to listen to all men—but teach him also to filter all he hears on a screen of truth and take only the good that comes through.

Teach him, if you can, how to laugh when he is sad. Teach him there is no same in tears. Teach him there can be glory in failure and despair in success.

Teach him to scoff at cynics and to beware of too much sweetness. Teach him to sell his brawn and brains to the highest bidder but never to put a price tag on his heart and soul.

Teach him to close his ears to a howling mob. And to stand and fight if he thinks he's right.

Treat him gently, World, but don't cuddle him, because only the test of fire makes fine steel. Let him have the courage to be impatient. Let him have the patience to be brave.

Teach him always to have sublime faith in himself. Because then he will have sublime faith in mankind.

This is a big order, World, but see what you can do. He's such a nice little fellow—my son!

What better day than today?

Shaker Jelly Cookies Originated In Village

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We've been inspired by a visit to Hancock Shaker Village to introduce you to Shaker Jelly Dots, one of the best little cookies that will ever melt in your mouth. Each summer Hancock Shaker Village has a week-long Kitchen Festival and it was in connection with the Festival that we discovered how to make Shaker Jelly Dots.

Hancock Shaker Village is in Hancock, Mass., and a noteworthy restoration is going on there. Open every day during the year from June 1 to October 15, Shaker Village is particularly interesting to anyone who enjoys delving into gastronomic lore because the Shaker "kitchen sisters" did many a batch of high-quality cooking, baking, canning and dairying. "Give your hands to work and your heart to God" was the Shaker motto. Well, giving your hands the work of making these Shaker Jelly Dots is something you'll never regret.

First settled in 1780, Hancock Shaker Village became a public museum in 1960. Since then a group of people, inspired by the Shaker heritage, have restored and outfitted 10 buildings; eight others await restoration. We were especially interested in the Sisters Shop where a medicinal herb industry, a gardenseed industry, food preserving, cheese-making and weaving went on. If you plan to visit Hancock Shaker Village, don't miss that shop or the Great Kitchen in the 1830 Brick Dwelling.

Student Conduct Code Fits Needs

The Greenville city school board has very properly reaffirmed the rules dealing with student behavior.

The board in its Monday night meeting also directed the school administration to see that a copy of the rules are placed in the hands of each student to be taken to their parents.

Board members made it clear that there was no adoption of new measures in the action; rather it was a restatement of the code of conduct which has long been in effect in the schools.

Action was taken after approximately 200 white parents appeared before the board.

We have read a copy of the rules and there is certainly nothing in them that any student could not comply with. In fact enforcement of the rules merely insures that the students can live and work in a democratic environment.

Certainly no student can do his best work if he is being harrassed by another student. Nor can the entire school system operate efficiently if there are no enforceable rules concerning school procedures. This is true in an integrated system as it was in the old segregated schools.

We think that the board's meeting with the parents was good in that the Monday night action reassured school patrons that schools do have authority to act when troublemaking occurs. We also believe that it is important that school officials be free to handle their internal problems.

We think, too, that everyone involved — students, parents and school authorities — should continue to be aware that all the students are in a new situation this year. It is going to take a little time for the youngsters to adjust, but our faith in young people is such that we are fully confident they will work out their own problems in the best interest of everyone.

N.C. Impressed Official Visitor

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau

RALEIGH—An official from a government office in Washington came to North Carolina for a week last January to observe a program which, in effect, had been swept aside by an edict from his higher-ups.

The wheels in Washington turn slowly, and perhaps do not grind very finely either. But in this case, it appears that someone had second thoughts.

An order had been issued by the Secretary of Labor, the former Secretary of Labor, that the driving of public school buses was a hazardous occupation in which no one under the age of 18 might be employed. The state of North Carolina, which operates the largest public school bus fleet in the nation, had 5,600 school bus drivers between the ages of 16 and 18—and approximately the same number now.

Labor Department's safety inspector, Gordon Ward, when he returned to Washington and wrote his report.

Ward certainly was impressed. And now, the new Secretary of Labor, George P. Shultz, has rescinded the order and will allow North Carolina to continue to use student school bus drivers.

Gov. Bob Scott makes note of this in a recent statement. "Undoubtedly, the safety record of our student school bus drivers, their training programs, and the supervision procedures—at both the state and local levels—have been instrumental in North Carolina being allowed to continue to use 16 and 17 year old drivers."

Scott urged a "continued effort" on the part of the youthful drivers and adult supervisors to improve the program and its safety record. The safety record is outstanding and this was recognized and duly noted by Ward.

Appointees—Governor Scott followed the dictates of the 1969 legislature in appointing a majority of non-bankers to the State Banking Commission, but he also chose some very close political associates.

The only member whose term had expired and who was reappointed to the enlarged Banking Commission was Mrs. Axxon Smith of Belhaven.

The other posts went to some of Scott's strongest political supporters—George B. Collins, a North Wilkesboro banker; Graham Smith of Burlington, also a banker; Charles Reeves Jr. of Sanford, and John Williams of Raleigh. Williams was finance chairman for Scott's campaign for the governorship, and raised the necessary funds.

Pat Spangler of Shelby was a staunch supporter of Scott's candidacy even while serving on the State Board of Conservation and Development (C and D) in the previous administration. It had been expected that Spangler would receive a blue-ribbon appointment in the Scott administration, and he now has one.

Hal Hoyle Jr. of Lincolnton and Tom Watkins of Charlotte, both prominent businessmen, were the other appointees. They fill the posts specified by the legislature to be non-bankers, and public representative

A Good Trick, If The President Can Do It

President Nixon seems to be calculating his moves in withdrawal of troops from Vietnam. Yesterday he announced the second withdrawal of troops which will bring the total number taken out so far to 60,000. It appears likely that further troop withdrawals will be announced at a later date.

Pulling out the U.S. troops, however, is a ticklish business. The United States must be careful that South Vietnam troops are ready to take their place. Otherwise American troop strength could be weakened to the point where the enemy could strike a disastrous blow to the undermanned U. S. military men.

Too, if all troops are withdrawn and the South Vietnam army collapses, Nixon could bear the consequences for whatever that led to in Southeast Asia.

The trick is going to be to withdraw troops as the South Vietnamese troops are brought to the point where they can take over. With full American arms aid it is possible to carry this out over a period of time and it seems the direction in which Nixon is headed.

Discontent On Pace Of Peace

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON A summer of discontent by many Republican Congressmen over the slow pace of troop withdrawals is about to explode in a formal proposal to give President Nixon just 15 months to end U.S. participation in the war.

A group of House Republicans soon will circulate a letter soliciting co-sponsors for a resolution putting a deadline of Dec. 31, 1970, on the 1964 Tonkin Bay resolution. That resolution was adopted by Congress at President Johnson's request on Aug. 10, 1964, to cope with Communist activity in Vietnam's Tonkin Gulf. It is the statutory authority for waging the conflict in lieu of a declaration of war.

The Tonkin Bay resolution, of course, will not be repealed no matter how many Republicans sign the repeal resolution. But that is not its real purpose. What the Republicans want is to give the President a clear, public message of their discontent with the pace of disengagement from the war.

Throughout the summer, many Republicans in Congress and some inside the Administration have privately grumbled that Mr. Nixon has listened too much to the U.S. military, the U. S. Embassy in Saigon, and President Thieu of South Vietnam. This discontent was fanned during the August recess when voters asked why, so long as the U.S. had no intention of winning the war, don't we get out right now?

Consequently, when Congress returned, two young, second-term Republicans — Reps. Donald Riegle, 31, of Michigan and Paul McCloskey, 41, of California—began devising a strategy to test Congressional sentiment.

McCloskey was elected to Congress as a Vietnam dove in a celebrated contest against Shirley Temple Black. But Riegle has come more gradually to his present hard-line war opposition. Until now, he has avoided public criticism of Mr. Nixon.

More significant, other Republicans not in the peace vanguard have expressed deep interest in the Tonkin repeal resolution. Several of these will join Riegle and McCloskey in sponsoring the resolution. Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon has agreed to introduce it there, and additional Republican Senate sponsors are being sought.

The strategy behind the Riegle-McCloskey move is to avoid overt provocation of the President that might make fellow Republicans feel guilty about disloyalty. Thus, no Democrats are wanted to sponsor the repeal. Further, a suggested provision to set a Dec. 31, 1970, deadline for mandatory withdrawal of all U. S. troops was omitted as overly harsh.

The theme of the Republican repeal movement is not so much to criticize the President as to prod Congress to assert its Constitutional prerogatives. Thus, a draft copy of the letter to be circulated says:

"This action should not be interpreted as a challenge to the President; on the contrary, we believe it coincides with his expressed hope to de-Americanize the Vietnam war within a reasonable period of

The Growing Business

WASHINGTON — The most important division of the telephone company these days is the Department of Recorded Announcements. As telephone service in this country keeps getting worse, the Department of Recorded Announcements plays an ever-greater role in the system.

Heading up the DRA at the phone company is Miss Shirley Thrush, who recently was made a full vice president. I visited her at her complex which covered several acres outside Pleasantville, N.Y.

Miss Thrush told me, "A few years ago I used to do all the recordings for the telephone company at my desk during lunch hour. But now, as you can see, I have an entire division devoted to it, and we're growing all the time."

"Any time anything goes wrong we have to make a recorded announcement, and you can imagine how many these days."

"Then, you thrive on the bad luck of the rest of the company?"

"I wouldn't say that," Miss Thrush said. "But let's say for years everyone in the company thought I was a joke. Now it's my turn to think they're all jokes."

"How do you make the recordings?"

"Come, we'll go to one of the studios."

She took me down the hall to a large studio with a dozen mikes hanging from all positions. An attractive woman was standing at one of the mikes. In the control booth was an engineer, a writer, a script girl, a director and a producer.

Miss Thrush asked the producer what he was working on.

"We're doing 'the circuits are busy' recording."

"Oh," said Miss Thrush. "This is one of my favorites."

We sat down in the control booth behind the director, who said over his mike "All right, Gladys. Let's do it again."

Gladys, holding her script, started to read into the microphone. "I'm sorry, all circuits are busy now. Would you please place your call at a later time?"

"No, no, no," the director shouted over the mike. "You didn't sound sorry when you said it. The person who hears you isn't going to believe you. You must make him feel you're sorrier than he is that he didn't get the call. OK, let's try it again."

"I'm SORRY," Gladys said dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief. "All circuits are busy. Would you please place your call at a later time?"

The director said, "The sorry part was OK but you didn't sound strong enough when you asked them to call at a later time. It was too weak. If someone heard you, they immediately would have dialed again. We want them to get the hell off the phone."

Miss Thrush said to me, "They'll be doing this for hours. Come, I'll take you to another studio." We went down the hall to another studio and into the control booth. A girl was just reading the lines. "I'm sorry, the number you have reached is not in service at this time. Please be sure you have dialed the right number."

"Where were the chimes?" the director yelled. "They were supposed to come in before she says she's sorry."

"I thought you wanted chimes at the end," the engineer said.

"No, at the beginning, to get the caller in a good mood. You're going to tell him he's an idiot, and the chimes prepare him for it."

When we finished the tour, I said, "You're doing a wonderful job here."

Miss Thrush replied, "The tail is now wagging the dog. If things continue as they have been, the telephone company could have its first woman president."

Empty Money Dreams

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Sidewalk comments by a Pavement Plasterer:

A common dream among American girls today—and among many young men, for that matter — is the dream of marrying a millionaire.

One wonders why. But if you ask a poor working girl the reason she'd like to marry a millionaire—any millionaire—she looks at you as if you had gone daff and replies:

"Because he's got all that money."

It could be that a millionaire might also have acne, ulcers, athlete's foot, and a cast in his eye. It makes no difference. He's still got all that money.

Of course, when a girl dreams of marrying a millionaire she idealizes him as well as his money. She envisions him as tall, dark and handsome, young, deeply romantic, poetic and generous to a fault. She has the idea that the first thing he will do after they leave the church is to take a bag of gold off his shoulder and divide it into two piles—his and hers.

And since he is generous to a fault, he will gallantly see that her pile is slightly larger than his.

The fault with this picture is that it is hardly typical of the average millionaire.

Your run-of-the-mill millionaire is usually middle-aged, partly bald, has a bulgy stomach and is already married to a woman who watches over him, and his money like a hungry vulture. Romantic? Pah! Like any other cost accountant, the figures that interest him most are those in a ledger.

Suppose, however, he is still a bachelor. Do you think that, like Prince Charming, he spends his days and nights running around the kingdom trying to fit a glass slipper to a poor but honest sackcloth-clad Cinderella?

Not him. Making money is ordinarily a time-consuming passion in itself. Your ordinary millionaire has no idle hours to spend in vain pursuits. Ask him if he is looking for a poor working girl to marry, and he'll reply:

"Are you out of your mind? I already have one dependent I'm supporting—Uncle Sam. What do I need with another?"

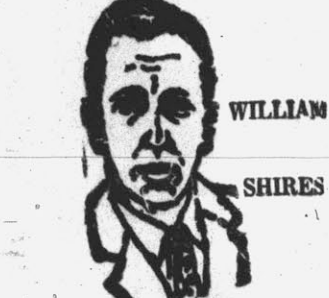

Money likes to mate with money. A millionaire sees no logical reason why it isn't as easy for him to marry a rich girl—thus parlaying his fortune, —as it is to marry a poor girl with no social position.

Alas, for the fading dreams of the poor working girl. But an even colder-watered truth applies to the poor young man who wants to wed a millionaire.

Even if this dream should come true, it probably would turn into a nightmare. For when a rich woman marries a poor man for his charm she gets the better of the bargain. She gets his charm—but that doesn't mean he gets her money.

A rich woman tends to wear a

Edict — It meant that if the edict from Washington was implemented and enforced, the state's school districts would be faced with a nearly impossible problem—replacing 5,600 capably trained, young and alert and safety-conscious drivers with adult drivers willing to work for a very minimum and paltry wage.

Officials in the departments of Public Instruction and Labor in Raleigh looked at the situation and said it could not be done.

Additionally, department of Motor Vehicles officials said privately that it was doubtful whether it would license more than one of 10 applicants for school bus driving permits without very careful screening and additional training. DMV officials said flatly that the young drivers who receive intensive training are far more capable and reliable.

Report — This apparently was also the opinion of the

TO THE EDITOR:

As the Sheppard Memorial Library concludes a building expansion program, it is marking an ending and a beginning — the ending of years of planning and building and the beginning of new and improved library services for the people of this community.

The building is proof that libraries can be beautiful as well as functional. For the first time in recent years we believe we have enough room for everybody. As this new facility has been viewed by the public, I have received more credit than I deserved.

At this time I should like to pay special tribute to some special people who have helped me through these past three years. In particular, I say thank you to Bill Brewer, present chairman of the Library Board, for his moral strength, consideration and strong support; to Charles Horne, past chairman of the board, whose help, professionally and otherwise, was invaluable; to Harriet Wooten, a board member who has assumed the responsibility of beautifying the grounds; and Colonel Harry Hagerty, who as City Manager has handled finances for the entire project and helped us in numerous ways.

I should like to thank the public for their cooperation during a difficult time. The building was noisy and crowded; the books were dusty, but the people did not complain. They continued to come and they encouraged us always.

My deepest thanks go very humbly to the library staff. No one knows the hardships, the handicaps, the inconveniences they endured. Life was not easy but they were cheerful and optimistic and willing to undertake whatever was necessary. I could never repay them for their loyal support but I shall be grateful to them always.

Anti-Inflation Action Inflates

By ELMER ROESSNER

A curious thing about war on inflation is that it actually creates more inflation. This effect is so pervasive that the efforts to halt inflation, which have had only spotty success so far, may fail in the end.

The anti-inflation actions have inflated the cost of shelter. Interest rates, forced up by the Federal Reserve, have made buying a home more expensive. When a buyer can obtain a mortgage today, he may commit himself to pay for the next 20 or 30 years. Despite this, the price of housing continues to soar. The Wall Street Journal last week reported that a house in Ridgewood, N.J., bought for $59,500 eleven months ago has been sold for $70,000.

The high cost of money is also pushing rents up. It has made new rental housing more expensive. Furthermore, landlords of existing rental units may pay higher interest to finance major improvements and they recoup by raising rents.

Effects On Corporations

Corporations must pay more for money they borrow for replacing plants and equipment, for expanding production and for the development of new products. Interest rates range from 9 to 12 per cent and these higher costs are added to the selling price of products which the consumer eventually pays.

Advanced; the higher cost of money is another.

AT and T, the world's largest corporate borrower, had to pay 7.91 per cent when it borrowed recently. And last week Southwestern Bell had to pay 8.14 per cent to sell $150 million in debentures. Other utilities have to pay similar rates, some higher, for expansion necessitated by the growing population and current affluence.

AT and T is currently asking the Federal Communications Commission to increase allowable profits on investments from the present 7 to 7½ per cent to 8 to 8½ per cent. Southwestern Bell's new borrowing will strengthen this plea.

States And Cities Hit

States and their subdivisions, even though interest on their bonds is tax exempt, are having to pay constantly higher rates on borrowed money. Last week the city of Newark, in selling $20.5 million in bonds, had to pay interest rates of 6.2 per cent on bonds maturing next year and up to 7.4 per cent on bonds maturing from 1965 to 1990.

These higher costs of borrowing money will result in higher taxes for the rest of the century. And higher taxes, plus the higher cost of housing, higher rents and higher prices will help push up the consumer price index. That will give millions of workers automatic pay increases and it will stir millions more to demand higher wages. This will surely create new waves of inflation.

During the 1930s depression, the Federal Reserve lowered its rediscount rate to one per cent in an effort to stimulate business. While it ameliorated some of the effects of the depression, it did not cure it. It was World War II, not cheap money, that finally pulled America out of the slump. If cheap money did not boom business in the 1930s why should high interest rates slow it down in the 1960s?

All over the country, phone, light, gas and other public utilities are asking federal and state regulatory bodies for permission to increase rates. Higher wages is one reason

Strength For Today

REAL COURAGE

Robert Louis Stevenson, who died at the age of forty-four, once wrote that "the world is so full of a number of things, I think we should all be as happy as kings."

And although in his few brief years Stevenson wrote some of the most appealing novels in English literature, he never gave utterance to a truer statement than this one about the world being full of a number of things.

When we think of the number of things people can be interested in, we wonder how it ever happens that some people are bored, or depressed, or angry with life. Why? We may have to scratch pretty hard to make a living or to get ahead in life, or to walk happily in pathways across which dark shadows of trouble, sorrow and failure frequently fall. And yet when we take a good look at life and ask ourselves such a question, we still come up— or should come up—with a hopeful answer. Poor Stevenson died of tuberculosis before his career really got started, yet he wrote twenty-five novels, made TREASURE ISLAND, DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE, KIDNAPPED missetop in the development of English literature. He spent his declining years gasping for breath, yet he smiled throughout all and kept talking about the wonderful things that fill the world round about us.

There are some people in life that just cannot be knocked down and held down. Battlefield bravery is wonderful, but there are other kinds of bravery that are wonderful also.

Professional Artist Is Also World Traveler

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Mrs. Frances Webb Roosevelt, who visited Greenville recently, is a professional artist, a world traveler, and the widow of Quentin Roosevelt, a grandson of Theodore Roosevelt.

She and her daughter, Susan, came here last weekend to show some 70 of Mrs. Roosevelt's paintings at the Greenville Art Center. She showed here at the request of Mrs. Edith Walker, the center director, who was told about her work by Greenville Mayor Frank Wooten. Mrs. Roosevelt said Wooten apparently saw some of her work when he attended the wedding of one of her husband's cousins.

Mrs. Roosevelt said people often expect her to be a tottering old lady because they confuse her late husband with the uncle for whom he was named. The first Quentin Roosevelt, the son of the 26th President of the United States, was shot down and killed by enemy fire during World War I. Quentin II's father was Gen. Theodore Roosevelt Jr.

The Quentin Roosevelts were living in China where Quentin was affiliated with the China National Aviation Corporation when he lost his life in a plane crash in December, 1948. Mrs. Roosevelt brought her three daughters, the youngest of whom was still an infant, back to America to live.

The family now lives at Oyster Bay, N. Y. on Long Island, less than a mile from Sagamore Hill, the home of Theodore Roosevelt. Alexandra, 24, who graduated from Stanford University, works for International Business Machines. Anne Curtin, 23, is doing graduate work in archeology at Stanford. Susan, 21, is a student at Harvard University, where she is majoring in Russian and Chinese. Their mother said that, although all three girls are proficient in sketching and painting, not one of them wishes to make art a career, but rather a hobby.

Mrs. Roosevelt divides her travels into two categories: long, which she takes a lone every year or so, and family trips, during which she may do some sketching. The family's latest long trip was to Peru at Christmas. They were accompanied by Johnny Sturm, Alice Roosevelt Longworth's granddaughter.

and a group of friends take a large sailboat to the Caribbean once a year. Her paintings of this area are extensive.

The artist occasionally does magazine articles which center around her paintings. When asked whether she does her own writing, she laughed and said, "Yes, just before the deadline, after the house is spotless clean, the silver is polished, and I've run out of any excuse not to be."

Although she has not in recent years, Mrs. Roosevelt has done sketching for court trails, two of the most famous of which were the Alger Hiss trial, and the trials of eleven Communists. She said the tension was extreme among principals and spectators in all of these history-making trials.

"Court sketching is extremely demanding work," she said. "Sometimes trials go on for months. If you dare be absent one day, that is when a key witness stands up and shakes his fist at the judge."

Much of Mrs. Roosevelt's time now is spent filling commissions. She does many portraits and often is commissioned to paint gardens. "A person may want one or more paintings of his garden at a certain time, say when the azaleas are in bloom," she said. "Also, he'll want to show from several different angles combined. I do this, in the manner of the Chinese, who are famous for the reorganization of several scenes into one congruent picture. One month I may work for someone on Long Island. The next may find me filling a commission in Missouri."

She often paints pictures and murals for institutions such as hospitals. A successful recent experiment was a painting done in automobile body paint for use in a snack bar of a hospital. Depicted were four parts of Long Island Sound combined into one view. "They tell me they've washed it every week for over a year and it looks as bright as ever," she said.

A native of Kansas City, she graduated from Smith College, where she majored in both art

Actress Sheila MacRae And Son Rap On Opposite Lines

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Television actress Sheila MacRae, showing off her New York town house with its acres and acres of new white carpeting on all three floors, explained why white made everything so tranquil.

"I love white; white is the absence of color. It's very reflective, very peaceful. Can you feel it?" asked Sheila.

"It has a nice high pile," she added, patting the living room carpet for emphasis. Her long-haired married son, Gar, 20, (one of four children born of her marriage to single Gordon MacRae) buried his stockinged feet in mother's new white kodel polyester and rapped about his role in the world while his mother, now Mrs. Ronald Wayne, poured tea.

"I'd never take a 9 to 5 job. I'd rather go back to climbing palm trees for a living even though it freaked me out. If my role in 'Hair' (a popular nude actor musical depicting the hippie scene) doesn't come through, I could try social work, but not as a volunteer.

Though Gar is awaiting a call to go into "Hair," he thinks it is sort of a "plastic play." His hangup now is that people are hanging him up, he says, and that he doesn't know whether he is in or out of the show.

"I thought this show was saying everything you kids think," said his mother. "When the show opened, you were all saying, 'Man, this is our thing!'"

"But it is not the way things really are. That's why I don't like it," said Gar.

"No one likes to see himself in capsule form. You don't want to look at yourselves for three hours. That's the trouble," retorted Sheila.

"They shouldn't be making money on kids in the show," muttered Gar.

"Aren't these moldings beautiful?" asked Sheila, glancing up to the 14-foot-high ceiling.

"Look at those covings. Do you realize that there are no artisans being trained to do such things any more. It's really a lost art . . .

"People should do what they want to do. Nobody should have to work until he wants to work at what he feels like working at," said Gar, curling up on the white Belgian linen sofa, one of three in the room.

"Isn't this a lovely painting," said Sheila, referring to one of a little girl. "If I could afford it I'd buy a painting that haunts me at the Museum of Modern Art. It has great masses of foliage and a cat with enormous eyes . . ."

"Keep rapping," said Gar, realizing he had interrupted.

"We used the word 'rapping' too, only it didn't mean 'keep talking,'" Sheila explained. "It meant something else. We also used 'dig' in the '40s, and in my era people who said 'hip' weren't 'thep'. Now it is the reverse. I'd like to live long enough to find out what music, poetry and lyrics will last in this era," she sighed.

In addition to several old antique tables in the living room, there are two glass-on-steel framed tables, two leopard ski chairs and two enormous pineapple-style finials that were made into lamps.

"I love that wisteria vine, but I can't get it to bloom," she said. The vine crawls across the windows.

"Houses are a lot of trouble," Gar murmured. "When you have a family, you might like to own one," it was suggested.

"Oh, the hippies claim that they don't want children because it's such a bad, bad world," Sheila explained.

Gar thinks the major thing wrong with the world may be that the people running it are too old.

"I'm beginning to think that people who don't want to work shouldn't have any voice in the government," his mother said good-humoredly. "Perhaps hippies should be forbidden to use roads, bridges, parks, libraries and other things that are tax-supported by working people."

Code Of Conduct Applicable To School Students

Code of Conduct Applicable to students of Greenville City Schools:

Students are subject to the authority and discipline of school personnel and are fully responsible for rules infractions or actions detrimental to the teaching-learning situation or the image of the individual school or school system.

Disciplinary action will include suspension and expulsion from school where, in the discretion of school officials, the problem is sufficiently serious.

The following are reaffirmed as long-standing rules for acceptable student behavior in school and include all school-related situations and activities.

1. Regular attendance upon school and promptness in meeting school schedule and obligations while in school are required of all students.

2. Proper respect and care for school property is essential; vandalism of any type and degree will not be tolerated.

3. Students must be respectful toward school personnel at all times and accept school personnel as acting in the place of parents in school situations. Under no circumstances will insolence, impertinence and willful disobedience or insubordination be permitted.

4. While the individual rights of students will be honored, including the right to protest, democratic due process will be followed in handling grievances. Due process consists of taking grievances formally to the representatives of the student body or to individual school personnel where facts will be gathered, a hearing accorded and a decision rendered. Appeal may be made to the central office administration and ultimately to the Board of Education of Greenville City Schools which body acts as a final arbiter in all school matters. In no case does the right to protest equate with refusal by a student or students to honor and fulfill obligations; for instance, to fail to report to class, to leave class arbitrarily, to assemble without permission during class time and such unilateral and arbitrary actions.

5. Where students experience or encounter inter-personal problems with other students, if it is a school concern or if the matter is to be confronted in school, the situation must be referred to school personnel for negotiation. In no case are students to "take the law into their own hands" where disruptive or disruptive situations may evolve.

6. Co-curricular activities of a school may be suspended where in the judgement of the school administration after consideration of all factors a tense situation prevails or may evolve from such activity. The opinions of responsible and representative students will be highly weighted in such decisions. Co-curricular activities are part of the total school program and students are responsible for their individual and group actions, the payment of an admission fee in some instances notwithstanding.

7. Students are to be concerned with the welfare and dignity of others and any student engaging in words or deeds which are derogatory, inflammatory, provocative or designed to precipitate problems will be dealt with severely. This includes student involvement in the publication, posting or distribution of any type of literature which has not had the review of the principal; such can be disseminated only with the knowledge and consent of the principal.

8. All visitors to the school campus must first report to the office of the principal for recognition and registration. Visitors become guests only with the knowledge and consent of the principal or his delegate according to their judgement regarding the purpose of the visit and the possible influence of the visitor's presence.

9. School officials will bend every effort to handle tense situations involving student unrest within the context of school personnel and the persons (students or others) involved; however, law enforcement officials will be called when they are needed directly or when a threatening situation prevails. Legal indictment and injunction are clearly within the province of school officials under the law and will be utilized with advice of counsel where the best interest of the school and the maintenance of a harmonious and productive teaching-learning situation is threatened.

10. School bus transportation is a privilege. Unusual behavior and unacceptable attitudes which threaten the decorum in the bus and consequently the safety of children will not be condoned. Students guilty of creating an unfavorable climate will be denied public transportation. The school bus driver is an employee of Greenville City Schools and carries a burden of responsibility which dictates that his authority be respected in matters relative to his school bus and its operation.

11. Student smoking will be permitted only at the senior high school level. Students may smoke only in designated areas and during the period before 8:45 a. m. after 3:30 p. m. and during free time at lunch period.

12. Any objects which may be construed to be physically harmful are strictly prohibited and, in addition to stern disciplinary action, may be confiscated for return only directly to parents.

13. The general code of personal honesty and integrity precludes the following as acceptable student behavior: Stealing, cheating, fighting or any form of violence, use or handling of alcoholic beverage or drugs, vulgar and profane language and other such actions and attitudes that do not represent a rather universally accepted standard of values.

WW II Bombs To Be Disarmed

HONIARA, British Solomons (AP) — A British Army demolition expert has arrived in the British Solomons to get rid of American wartime bombs and bullets at Hell's Point, near Honiara township.

Warrant Officer C.J. McKiernan of the Royal Army Ordnance Corps is expected to spend two years at Hell's Point, and two other wartime ammunition dumps.

Hell's Point has been fenced off since 1945 for safety reasons. Despite accidental explosions and fires which have destroyed much of the dump since then, officials believe thousands of tons of high explosive remain in the 270-acre safety reserve.

In 1942-43, American troops dumped 15,000 tons of explosives and ammunition there. In 1953 the Australian Army removed 1,000 tons, but a great deal remains.

In 1967 the British Army got rid of 12,000 rounds of shells and mortar bombs from between Hell's Point and the wartime Henderson Airfield, but it will be Warrant Officer McKiernan's job to clean up the remainder.

Special Honor Saved For One Individual In Naming New Pitt County School

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Only one of the four consolidated high schools in Pitt County will bear the name of an individual—an honor reserved for former Pitt County School Superintendent Donald Hayes Conley.

In naming the schools, the Board of Education chose to honor Conley, who is still employed by the board, for his service to public school education in Pitt.

Conley, a native of Hudson, graduated from Trinity College, now Duke University, in 1923 and came to Pitt County to teach.

While at Trinity, Conley received Phi Beta Kappa recognition.

He began his career with the Pitt School system in the fall of 1923 as a teacher at Winterville.

A year later he was named principal of the school and served in that post until 1932.

Conley became county school superintendent July 1, 1937, and held that position for 33 years, until June 30, 1965, when he retired.

When Conley took over the top administrative post, there were 78 schools in the county, most of them one, two and three-room buildings; 9,846 students; and 298 teachers.

At his retirement, the 78 schools had been consolidated into 26 units with a student population of 12,980 and 505 teachers. (Presently there are 23 schools operating in the county.)

According to Arthur S. Alford, who succeeded Conley as superintendent, in the early days, Conley did all the work by himself.

"He had one secretary, a part-time bookkeeper and a limited maintenance staff," Alford said. Today's school system is watched over by a central office staff totaling 40 persons, including two assistants.

D. H. CONLEY

ant superintendents and one associate superintendent.

Since his retirement as superintendent, Conley has served as an attendance counselor for the county, working with students and parents to keep the students in school.

A member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, Conley enjoys playing golf in his leisure time.

The school named for Conley will serve the Grimesland-Chicod-Winterville area and will be known as the D. H. Conley High School.

Now under construction, the building includes some 110,292 square feet, with 27 general classrooms. Located on N.C. 43 about seven miles south of Greenville, the plant will cost about $1.83 million, and school officials hope to occupy the facility in the fall of 1970.

Approximately 1,000 students in grades nine through 12 will be assigned to the school, Alford said.

Conley is married to the former Eugenia Powell of Grifton and they have one son, Donald E. Conley of Rocky Mount, and two grandchildren.

Home Ec Ass'n Meets Saturday

RALEIGH—The East Central Regional Home Economics Association is scheduled to meet Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

The meeting will be held at the Public Service Gas Co.

Jean A. Benoy, deputy attorney general, will be the guest speaker. The program topic will be "Consumer Interest in North Carolina."

At this meeting, charter membership will be open to anyone in the region. Membership will continue to be open throughout the remainder of the year, but the charter roll will be completed at the September meeting.

Dartmouth College was founded in Hkover, N.H., as an Indian school in 1769. The North Sea once was called the German Ocean.

Poor People's Lawyer Must Be Philosopher

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Weiss, the philosopher, grins about the Hell's Kitchen hustler who gave her teenage daughter territorial rights to two blocks of 51st Street. It was a birthday present.

He shrugs over the strange little man who lived in the same apartment with his wife and her lover two months before deciding his five children needed better care.

Jonathan Weiss, the lawyer, has to.

He defends them, for free. And he believes with a fervor he does it better than the few attorneys in private practice in New York's lower West Side slums.

Weiss is what's called a poor people's lawyer, one of 2,000 across the land under contract with the Office of Economic Opportunity to provide the indigent with the same legal help a middle man can buy.

About 100 of these poor people's lawyers, attending a conference last month in Vail, Colo., sent a 15-page telegram to OEO officials complaining their integrity and independence were not being protected by the Nixon administration. They also demanded immediate funds for several controversial projects.

Weiss, a lecturer at the conference, didn't sign the telegram. The protest, he said, was an "exercise in triviality."

Weiss' shingle hangs in Hell's Kitchen where it stinks when it rains and smells worse when the sun shines strong, where the people—the pimps, the deadbeats and the crazies—wear the cologne of poverty, Lavu soap and sweat.

The people, his clients, don't stink to Johnny Weiss. He's got a credo:

"The other guy smells worse. No matter how bad my guy is, the other guys are worse. You gotta know that, the other guys are the bastards."

Bastards, to Weiss, are the slum landlords and the brutal cops and the institutional men, like in the Welfare Department, who make decisions and rules without regard for individual suffering.

Bastards. That's a milder word of Weiss. His speech is pimply with epithets and vulgarisms.

He refers often and lovingly to his father, Dr. Paul Weiss, one of America's most honored philosophers now on the faculty at Catholic University in Washington, as a "hot —."

Jonathan Weiss is a Yale man cum laude, a Fulbright scholar, a member of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, sometime guest lecturer in law and philosophy and political science, an author and a television panelist. And he talks dirty.

It's shocking, at first. But bear the other lawyers in his office at 759 10th Ave., listen to the young activists in federal agencies and congressional offices in Washington, those committed to the new politics of youth, of battling poverty and racism.

Their speech is like that. Tough cult stuff. Partly it relates to the people they want to help, partly it is to avoid thinking of themselves as soft-hearted. Weiss doesn't look tough at 5-foot-5 and 130 pounds, including the big brogans on his size seven feet and the thick glasses that keep skidding to the end of his small round nose. But that's deceptive. Weiss very likely has more cases on appeal in federal courts and on the way to the Supreme Court than any other lawyer.

He admits this, then orders, "Don't quote me. Arrogant though I am, I hate to sound it."

Triplets Miss A Get-Together

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Mrs. Tom Clay, Grover Cleveland Adams and Core Comer didn't get together this year to celebrate their 82nd birthdays.

It was the first time in 82 years that at least two of the triplets, believed to be the world's oldest, were not together for their annual celebration. Adams was at home with his children in Ardmore, Okla., and Mrs. Comer was under special care at a Plainview, Tex., hospital.

Rubber Raft Trip Through Grand Canyon Is A Battle To Stay Alive

By RONALD E. COHEN
LEE'S FERRY, Ariz. (UPI)
—You step off the bus here for the start of your rubber raft trip through the Grand Canyon and someone flings a bucketful of the Colorado River in your face. Then you spend the next 10 days battling the ferocious waters—not to stay dry—to stay alive.

This frightening but magnificent trip through the canyon was accomplished this summer with 53 intrepid fellow adventurers, five boatmen and a sun-browned Amazon pushing 60 named Georgia White. She operates eight trips a year down the bubbling rapids.

There are about a dozen commercial boat trips through the canyon. I chose Georgia White's tour—10 days, $300.

She has been operating trips down the river for a quarter-century. The first two times she swam the treacherous rapids in a life jacket. To get from New York City to the west 30 years ago, Georgia White rode a bicycle. Through the deserts in the blazing summer sun. That gives you an idea the kind of woman we tried unsuccessfully to keep pace with for 10 days.

Everyone gathered at a hotel in Las Vegas early on a Monday morning, the sun already hot on the desert. Two air conditioned buses picked us up for the six-hour trip to Marble Canyon.

The river was deceptively calm. Tied along the bank were one large raft and two small ones. The large boat, which seated 28 persons, was 27 feet long and consisted of three rafts lashed together. It proved very river-worthy, taking the plunges and twists and bashing into rocks well, bending with the waves and swells and snapping back into position. It was equipped with a small outboard motor, chiefly for steering.

Each small boat, about 12 feet long, was three small rafts tied together in an intriguing puzzle of knots and loops. They could, and did—with dismaying frequency—flip in heavy swells. Passengers were not tied in, but held on with both hands to ropes criss-crossing the raft.

It was a strange day. Apollo 11 blasted off. We heard liftoff on a transistor radio that soon conked out from the battering by the river. We spent the next seven days wondering if the astronauts had made it.

The days rushed by. They were combinations of swirling water, stretches of calm, beautiful canyon walls and rock formations, and hikes deep onto the canyon to sylvan pools fed by breathtaking waterfalls.

Day six was Lava Fall Rapids—the bogyman the boatmen had been warning us about. I rode in the front seat of Georgia's large boat and felt like a kamikaze pilot. The boat was flung straight up by the first swell, then plunged directly into a 35-foot deep "hole." The boat simply disappeared. When we surfaced 10 seconds later there was a look of stark terror on the faces of the others. They couldn't believe we had survived.

We beached the raft and raced back half a mile to watch and record on film the phenomenon of our fellow travelers drowning. We were certain they wouldn't make it in the little boats. They did, though, hardly the worse for wear. Red's boat flipped again, of course, but they quickly righted it.

Tuesday brought the end of the Grand Canyon. And we sailed into Lake Mead, formed by Hoover Dam. The heat was unbearable, the barren cliffs and sandbars made it worse. Our thermometer could register only 115 degrees. It hit that in an instant. We threw water at each other constantly in a vain effort to stay cool. We couldn't wait for civilization and the little things... a cold beer, a hamburger, a bathroom, a cigar.

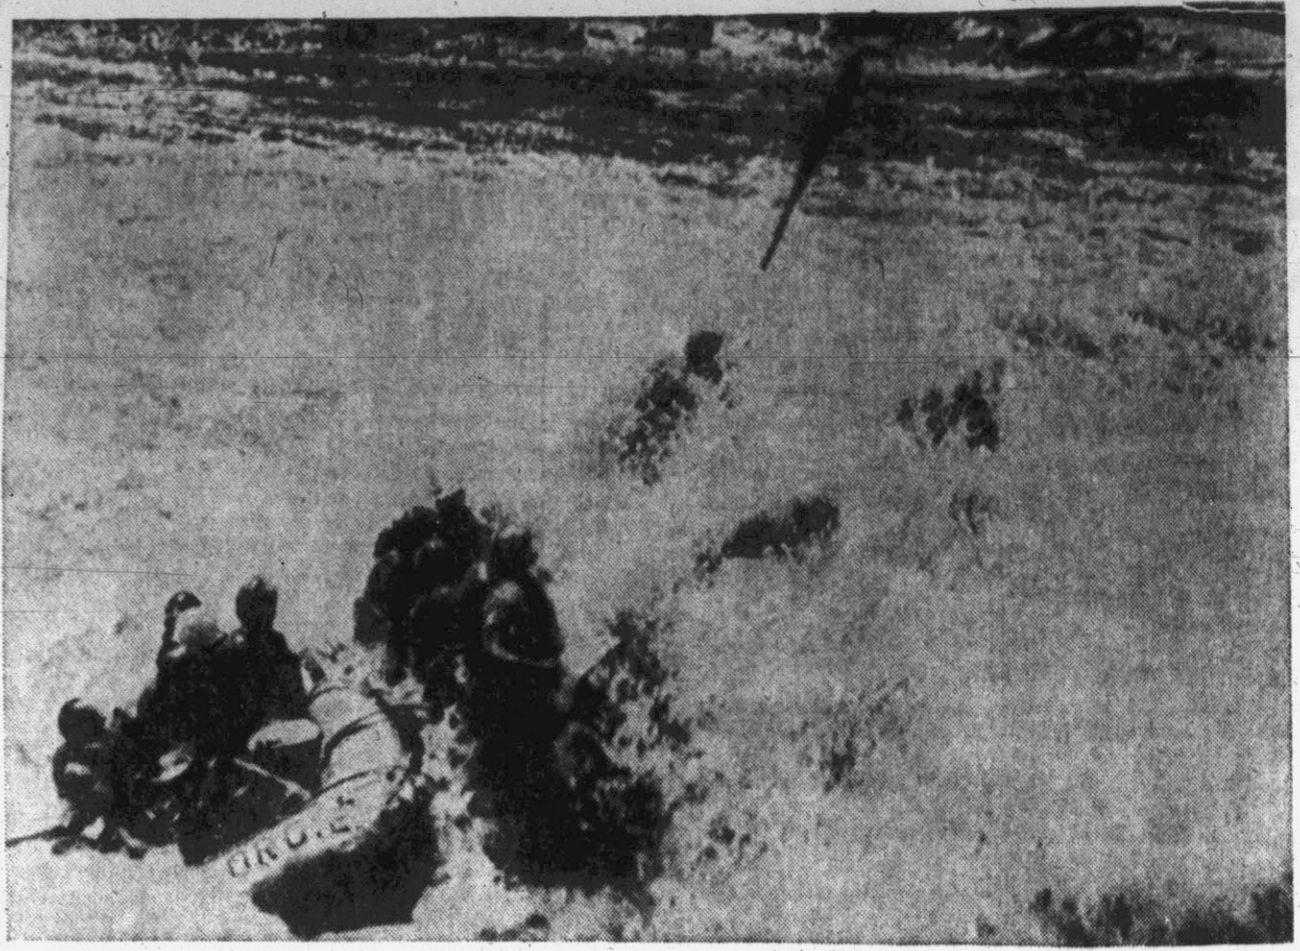

It's the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

Wednesday night in Las Vegas was the farewell dinner. No one was recognizable. Men had shaved, women had groomed their straggly hair. The people we had eaten with, slept with, fought the river with for 10 days were strangers—because they looked, at last, human.

Everyone who survives the king of all river trips—the Colorado through the Grand Canyon—is entitled to gloat and call him a royal river rat.

I'm one. I have a certificate to prove it. And the next time you hear someone talk about the Grand Canyon, correct him.

It's the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

A PERSON CAN SPEND TEN DAYS battling dry but to stay alive. George White operates eight trips a year down the bubbling rapids. (UPI Telephoto)

Governor Fills Two Vacancies

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has filled two vacancies in the North Carolina House with the appointment of Mrs. Edith Louise Brennan of Charlotte and Roger F. Hall of Lumberbridge.

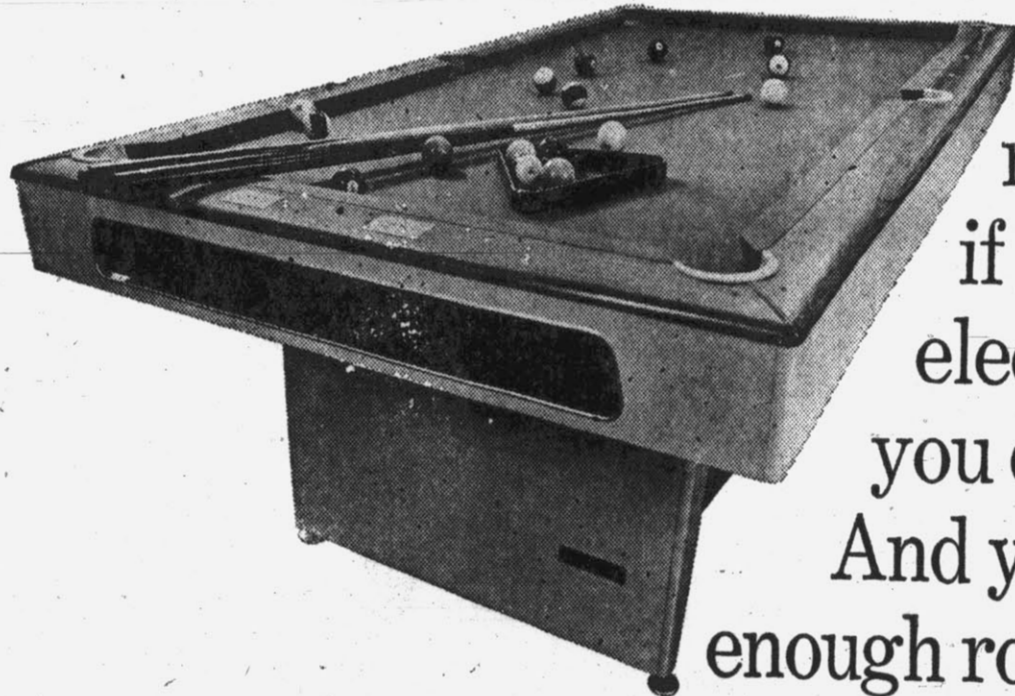

The governor appointed Mrs. Brennan to fill a vacancy left by the appointment of Rep. Jack Baugh, D-Mecklenburg, to a Senate seat. Baugh was named to the Senate when Sen. Charles Maxwell stepped down to become a member of the state highway commission.

Hall succeeds Rep. R. D. McMillan, D-Robeson, who resigned to become state purchasing officer.

Also announced by the governor was the reappointment of four members of the board of directors of the North Carolina Sanatorium for the Treatment of Tuberculosis.

They were: Mrs. Cecil L. Sanford of Laurinburg, mother of former Gov. Terry Sanford; Mrs. Roy Parker Sr. of Ahoskie, who is the board's secretary; J. L. McNeill of Raeford and O. Arthur Kirkman of High Point.

REPLACE YOUR FURNACE WITH A POOL TABLE.

That might sound ridiculous at first. But if you install modern electric baseboard heat, you can junk your furnace. And you'll probably have enough room for a pool table.

And with clean, economical electric baseboards, you also get a thermostat in each room, for room-by-room temperature control.

But there's more. You can move up to electric heat in only four days. And the low cost of conversion will surprise you.

In fact, your Veeco Authorized Comfort Conditioning Contractor can give you that cost. (He's in the Yellow Pages under "Heating Contractors.") He'll check to make sure your insulation and wiring are adequate. And he'll give you all the other money-saving facts about electric heat.

Remember, if your home has electricity, you already have the better part of a new heating system.

When you buy or build, look for this emblem—it signifies the ultimate in total electric living.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Eight of ♥

When a partnership possesses all the aces and most of the kings, it is sometimes difficult to stay out of a slam, which, when the combined holding is exposed to view, is definitely unsound. Such a case is recorded today.

South's opening bid of one diamond and North's heart response are not subject to discussion. As to South's second bid there is a split difference of opinion among those experts I have canvassed. With a holding of 20 gilt-edged points, South's textbook rebid is undoubtedly a jump shift forcing to game.

There are those, however, who do not approve entirely of this bid on the ground that the hand may be a misfit, and if North has nothing but hearts and is short in diamonds, there may not be a game. Those players prefer to bid only two clubs with the hope that partner will be able to scare up another bid at which point vigorous action will be taken.

North's next call was also the subject of a spirited discussion. The five club bid was defended on the ground that North had previously promised only six points and that he had considerably more than that. That a simple raise to four clubs would sound as if it were being made under pressure whereas North held a very fine raise. The other side of the argument was that jumps of this type should rarely be made without an honor in the suit that has not been rebid by partner.

When the dummy was spread, South's stock reached a new low. However, this South was not one to give up without a struggle. He took the opening lead with the king of hearts, played the ace, king, and another diamond, ruffing in dummy. On the ace of hearts a spade was shed and declarer ruffed himself in with a low heart.

He cashed the ace and king of trumps and everyone followed. The seven of diamonds was ruffed in dummy, setting up the 13th in his own hand. Dummy's last heart was ruffed by declarer with his remaining trump and West was up against it. He postponed the evil moment by discarding the three of spades. But the eight of diamonds came promptly out and West could do no better than accept the trick. His forced lead away from the king of spades permitted declarer to win the last two tricks with the queen and ace.

Play School To Begin Monday

Play School will begin at the South Greenville Recreation Center Monday, at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 11:30 a.m.

The school is being held for children from four to six years old and will be open Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursday mornings from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

TV Networks Aim At Sophisticated Viewer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spokesmen of two major television networks say they plan to resist censorship and cater to more sophisticated viewers, but that orders to play down violence will stay in effect.

"Television is becoming more permissive all the time," Michael H. Dann, CBS-TV senior president for programs, told a meeting of nearly 400 broadcasting and advertising executives TUESDAY.

"I know we are going to continue to be more adult," Mort Werner, NBC-TV vice president for programs and talent, said he saw no concerted drive to censor telecasts and for "a lowering of the curtain, I don't think so."

"I don't think the networks are going to knuckle in," he added.

Both spoke in answer to questions by members of the Hollywood Radio and Television Society who expressed apprehension over censorship threats.

"Eight to ten years ago there was an intoxicating excitement in television, with an occasional 'hell' and 'damn,'" said Harry Ackerman, vice president and executive producer of Screen Gems, Inc.

"Suddenly it's like Czechoslovakia. Everything's changed. Are the networks going to knuckle in to Pastore and institute a new dark age of censorship?"

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who has conducted an investigation of TV program content, is an outspoken critic of violence on the home screen.

Dann commented, "Violence in our society is coming from social change. TV in effect is not responsible for it."

But, he added, "we're going to continue a de-emphasis on violence at all times."

William Self, president of 20th Century-Fox Television, recalled that about a year ago Dann called a producers' meeting on employment of Negro actors and asked if Dann had a progress report.

"All anybody has to do is turn on a set and know there is a phenomenal, explosive use of Negro performers," said Dann.

"The great challenge for the industry is to get people on the other side of the camera."

Three Injured In Two Collisions

Three persons were reported injured in two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville police.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 9:20 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive 200 feet north of the Dickinson Avenue intersection and involved a car driven by Robert Gilliam Fry, 29 of Charlotte and a truck operated by Leroy Adams, 34-year-old Negro of Route 5, Greenville.

Police, who placed damage to the Fry car at $200 and reported a passenger in the Fry vehicle was injured.

Adams was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Both drivers involved in a 12:45 p.m. collision at the intersection of Second and Reids Streets were reported injured.

Investigators identified the drivers as Mary Moore Dunn, of Greenville and Nancy Garrett Dickens, 23 of 707 Greenville Blvd.

Damage to the Dunn car was set at $175, while damage to the Dickens car was estimated to be $150.

Mrs. Dunn was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Lanier Insists On Real Evidence

RALEIGH (AP) — Hearing on a proposed 5.3 per cent boost in automobile liability insurance rates in North Carolina will continue Thursday before insurance commissioner Edwin Lanier.

As the hearing got underway before Lanier Tuesday, the insurance commissioner made it clear he will not allow the requested increase "unless I'm faced with evidence I cannot ignore."

Otherwise, he said, "I'm not going to approve one single penny."

Opposing the increase, which would cost Tar Heel motorists from $2 to $4 a year, was Jean Benoy, who heads the consumer protection division in the state attorney general's office.

The rate boost was requested by the North Carolina Rate Administrative Office, which represents the insurance industry on rate matters.

HEARTY DRINK

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Tea is good for the heart says the latest issue of Tea World, a magazine published by the Tea Board. An article said "unknown constituents" in tea check the hardening of the coronary artery which leads to heart attacks. The magazine said this might explain why there is such a low incidence of heart disease among the Chinese, whose fondness for tea is legend.

GIVES MONEY

NEW DELHI (AP) — India gave the tiny mountain kingdoms of Bhutan, Sikkim and Nepal almost $30 million for development projects and flood relief in 1968-69, according to an official report.

Area Dentists Planning Attend District Meet

Six Greenville dentists will attend a convention of the eastern district of the North Carolina Dental Society held at Wrightsville Beach Thursday through Saturday.

Attending from Greenville will be Dr. Jay M. Collie, Dr. R. H. Evans Jr., Dr. O. R. Pearce Jr., Dr. James M. Williamson, Dr. Dan Wright, and Dr. Pinkney B Young III

Dr. T. S. Fleming of Tarboro, president of the Fifth District of the Dental Society, explained that these gatherings are designed to give dentists an opportunity to hear nationally known dental authorities, learn new techniques, and improve their service to their patients.

Dr. Robert P. Levoy, administrative director of an independent research organization in New York will address the group.

Bonneville

(We take the fun of driving seriously.)

This is the way it's going to be. Pontiac's 70's

Surprised that Pontiac's setting the style for the umpteenth straight year? Of course not.

But you may be a bit dazzled to find out that Pontiac finally outdid Pontiac.

Take Bonneville. From the strong, new bumper-grille to the standard 455 under the hood, it's a rouser.

Inside: instant limousine. So luxurious some of the traditional big boys are already screaming.

One of the nicest things we could have done for Grand Prix's luxury was to leave it alone. We did. But we popped in a 455 V-8 for you to order. (It's an old Pontiac proverb that luxury should have power.)

Enter LeMans Sport. A brand-new series in the Pontiac stable. Wait'll competition sees it pull the new 400-cubes-under-the-hood trick. We'll show you that one if you check the right box on the order form.

By now, you've spotted our '70 GTO. But maybe you haven't heard it. A sound so tough we've thrown modesty to the wind and dubbed GTO "The Humber."

This is Pontiac '70. And we figure this is the way driving's going to be. So why wait?

It's at your Pontiac dealer's now.

MANUEL RODRIGUEZ, at age seven, is neither a boy nor a man. The homeless child in Lima's crowded streets starts the day washing cars in one of the city's supermarkets. (UPI Telephoto)

Incredibly Enough, Four Year Old Survived Alone

By NORMA R. BENNER
LIMA, Peru (UPI)—At age 7, Manuel Rodriguez is neither a boy nor a man. He has never had the chance to be either. At the age of 4, he was working in a bread factory, often given pills so he could stay awake longer to make more money. That was until his luck went bad. Yet small Manuel, who occasionally wins a free lunch or a night off the streets from a passerby, looks ahead. Philosophic Youngster "Such is life," he says, a philosopher in knee pants, and a spark seems to appear in his otherwise melancholy brown eyes. He has the patient attitude of a man and the impetuosity of a child. "I want many things in life," he will admit with a smile. "A house, a bicycle, but most of all I want to see the rain from inside a house." Manuel, or Manuelito, as his mates call him, doesn't have a home or family. Like thousands from interior Peru, Manuelito's family—his mother—left her home in the harsh Sierra and joined the massive exodus toward Peru's capital. Every year thousands of the unfortunate crowd into Lima's miserable "barriadas" or slums searching for a "better life." Alone In The City Manuelito was soon left alone in the big city. His mother went to work for somebody and never returned. This happened when he was just a little older than four. Since then, he has been on his own. Incredibly, he has survived. "I sleep wherever I can," he says. "Sometimes I find a friend who takes me to his house, gives me some food, but this is not very often. "It is hard to find a job here. competition is very fuerte (tough). Luckily I found this amigo who gave instructions on how to clean cars and carry packages and shine shoes." Headquarters In Supermarket His working "headquarters" is one of Lima's large supermarkets. He runs over to the cars and greets the passengers with, "the best shine in town and all for a few soles. Come on, sir, you can't pass this up." But the supermarket closes its doors in the evening and Manuelito is left with nothing to do, no place to go. Sometimes he wishes he was back in his native Cuzco, in the Andes. There, "at least I had a job at the bread factory and a house to go to." Manuelito is just one of about 300,000 youngsters in Lima's crowded barriadas, the Peruvian version of slums anywhere in the world. In most families both parents work, usually at menial jobs. The children are left alone. Even those children are better off than Manuelito. He has no one. But Manuelito doesn't worry. He's too busy staying alive. "Such is life," he says. "Such is life." The highest mountain in Burma is Hkakado Razi, at 19,296 feet.

New UN President Likes A Direct Approach

By MILTON BESSER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Angie Brooks favors the direct approach in the traditionally roundabout world of diplomacy. Sometimes this flusters her colleagues at the United Nations.

But they genuinely admire and respect the ambitious lady lawyer from Liberia who was unopposed in today's election for president of the 24th session of the U.N. General Assembly.

As the second woman and third African to fill that prestigious role in U.N. history, the 41-year-old assistant secretary of state from Liberia is certain to enliven assembly proceedings.

She prefers gay African prints with matching turbans in stylishly long costumes called the lappa in Liberia. They become her ample figure. She likes pendants of African design, bracelets and earrings.

She draws aim at the top post in any group that fires her interest—both in and out of the United Nations.

This year was the turn for an African to be elected assembly president, and she campaigned long and vigorously for the honor. The only other woman to serve in that post in 1954 was Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of Jawaharlal Nehru, the late Indian leader. Other African presidents were Mongi Slim of Tunisia in 1961 and Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana in 1964.

In her elected post Miss Brooks will preside over all full assembly sessions. One of her first duties will be to introduce President Nixon to the 126-nation assembly when he delivers the U.S. policy speech on Thursday. Behind the scenes she will help coordinate and speed assembly business.

She comes from the oldest republic in Africa, founded in 1847 with the help of Americans who sought to establish a colony in Africa for free Negroes. Monrovia, the Liberian capital, is named for President James Monroe.

Her family was not wealthy, and she had to work as a student in colleges in the United States where she earned her undergraduate and law degrees.

Miss Brooks has been coming to the United Nations since 1954. She was summoned hastily from Wisconsin—where she was seeking relief from hay fever—to fill an unexpected vacancy in the Liberian delegation to the General Assembly.

She let her colleagues know she wanted to be chairman of the assembly's trusteeship committee and in due time she got the job. She was elected also president of the U.N. trusteeship council, and was chairman of visiting U.N. missions to Ruanda and Urundi and to the U.S. trust territory of the Pacific.

She was president of the International Federation of Women Lawyers in 1964-67.

Back in Liberia she became assistant attorney general in 1953 after entering government service in the Justice Department, and was named assistant secretary of state in 1958.

While President William V. S. Tubman and his secretary of state were out of the country for 10 days in 1958 she held the reins of government.

She is a Baptist—the daughter of a minister in the back country and was reared by foster parents in Monrovia because there was not enough income to pay for the upbringing of a family of five sisters and four brothers. At present she is foster mother to 19 children.

Miss Brooks received her law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1952, along with a master's degree in political science. Her bachelorate in social science was achieved at Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., in 1949. She was born Aug. 24, 1928, in Virginia, Liberia.

NEA Blames Hyde School Board For Student Boycott

RALEIGH (AP) — The National Education Association has blamed the Hyde County Board of Education for last year's boycott of the county's schools by most Negro pupils.

An NEA committee said the Hyde board should give up its federally approved desegregation plan and adopt one proposed by a militant Negro group.

An NEA spokesman said if the board refuses there should be "massive political action to unseat the board." It also called for a coalition of Negro teachers with parents and with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The SCIC led last year's Hyde school boycott.

It opposed the board's plan of closing the county's two all-Negro schools and integrating Negro pupils into the county's previously all-white school.

The Negro group contended the all-Negro schools should be continued and that white students be assigned to them.

The same thing was proposed Tuesday by the NEA committee when it made public a study it made of the Hyde situation at the request of the Hyde unit of the North Carolina Teachers Association, a predominantly Negro organization.

The report asserted the Hyde school board "precipitated a racial crisis by failing to seek or encourage representation and participation from the Negro community in developing and adopting a desegregation plan."

The committee chairman, Hazen Schumacher, a member of the Ann Arbor, Mich., school board, said in answer to questions that if the committee's recommendations are disregarded, steps by the NEA on a national level are possible.

These could include what the NEA calls sanctions — action to discourage teachers from working in the Hyde school system.

Other members of the committee included Hudson Barksdale, a Spartanburg, S.C., teacher, and Robert A. Pittillo Jr., a Durham college professor.

Joined Faculty Of Emory Univ.

ATLANTA, Ga. — Miss Linda Manning Hayes, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Manning of Rt. 2, Greenville, N. C., has joined the faculty at Emory University here. Miss Hayes will work in the Law Library.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hayes of Latta, S. C., Miss Manning graduated from Latta High School and the University of South Carolina. She received her Masters Degree from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. She majored in library science and minored in law.

Miss Manning has taught two years in the Fayetteville, N. C., School System.

Saigon Official Leaves For U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam left Saigon today for a two-week visit to the United States.

A Foreign Ministry source said Lam plans to confer with other foreign ministers and ranking delegates at U.N. headquarters in New York. He also is expected to meet with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and other U.S. officials.

Historic Flag Replicas Stolen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Replicas of 17 historic American flags were swiped from poles in Civic Center Plaza during the night, police reported Tuesday.

Only one of the flags usually displayed remained—the current 50-star model.

The flags usually are taken down at night, but stayed aloft Monday night in connection with the Mexican Independence Day celebration being held.

The flag thieves also took six of the 12 Mexican flags displayed. Among the American banners missing was a replica of the 13-star Betsy Ross flag.

Lost 7 Times On Hunting Trips

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (AP) — John Stephenson, 28, of Whalley, B.C., says the next time he goes hunting he'll either stick to the road or carry survival gear.

"I have been lost seven times in the last three years," Stephenson said Tuesday. "Every time I have been out I got lost."

Stephenson is hospitalized with an ankle injury suffered on his last hunting trip when he was rescued after being lost three days.

GUERRILLA ACTIVITY

PANAMA (AP) — Guerrilla activity has flared up again in northwest Panama near the Costa Rican border. National guardsmen killed one, captured two and wounded one last week in Piedra Candela.

Introducing the 1970 Buicks.

Three of 36 great new Buicks.
Three of the finest Buicks ever.
Built with all the care and craftsmanship possible.
Built with product integrity.
Right down to the fine details.
As a few of these fine details will prove.

Every 1970 Buick has a new cooling system that should never ever overheat. • Every 1970 Buick equipped with a V8 engine has an exclusive carburetor time-modulated choke control. It will make for easy starts in any weather. • Every 1970 Buick is equipped with fiberglass belted tires as standard equipment. • Every 1970 LeSabre, Wildcat, Estate Wagon, Electra 225 and Riviera has an exclusive suspension system called AccuDrive. Never has handling been easier. • All the 1970 Buicks have the look that makes people look twice.

No wonder Buick owners will keep on buying Buicks. Buicks are automobiles you can believe in.

Something to believe in.

Wouldn't you really rather have a Buick?

GIs Given Training For New Civilian Careers

By DAVID M. GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — Six months ago Sgt. Lonnie Surgick was dodging bullets in Vietnam with the 1st Air Cavalry Division. Now, almost a civilian again, he spends half of each day climbing poles and attending classes in preparation for a job with New York Telephone Co.

Surgick, of Columbia, S.C., is one of 1,600 men at this large Army base receiving training or counseling for careers in telephone repair and installation, law enforcement, hotel management or many other civilian fields.

Background Of N.C. Counties Again Available

By Christopher Crittenden
N.C. Dept. of Archives
Written For The AP

RALEIGH (AP)—Where was Glasgow County, N.C.? Ever heard of Dobbs County? What about Bute County?

All this and much more information is contained in a book just reprinted—The Formation of North Carolina Counties, 1663-1943, by David Leroy Corbitt.

First published 19 years ago, the volume has long been out of print. But the demand has been so great the department has now reprinted it.

The book is reproduced as it originally was, but with "supplementary data and corrections" for 47 counties.

For a sample county, let's take Alamance, since that is the first alphabetically.

"Alamance," says the statement, "was formed in 1849 from Orange. The name is supposed to be derived from the Indian word meaning 'blue clay.' The county gets its name from the Alamance Creek on the banks of which was fought on May 17, 1771, the battle between the colonial troops under Gov. Tryon and the Regulators." (But a correction states that the county is "Named for Great Alamance Creek or the Battle of Alamance.")

The county, continues the statement, "is in the central part of the State and is bounded by Orange, Chatham, Randolph, Guilford, and Caswell counties. The present area is 439 square miles. The first court was ordered to be held at Providence Meeting House until a courthouse could be erected. . . Commissioners were named to select a site in the center of the county, acquire land, erect a courthouse, and lay out a town by the name of Graham. Graham, established in 1851, is the county seat."

Then are given the original boundaries of the county. The boundary between Orange and Alamance was established by an act of 1851, which is cited, and the boundary is given in detail. Other acts fixing the boundary between Alamance and Chatham are cited and quoted.

So it goes for Alamance and all the other counties of North Carolina. Included are a number of extinct counties, such as Albemarle and Bath, and also a number of counties now in Tennessee, such as Sullivan and Sumner.

Appendixes include reports of commissioners and surveyors appointed to fix boundaries, maps showing the counties at different dates, and a chart indicating the origin of the counties. There is a comprehensive index.

Two Drivers Die In Car Collision

CLINTON, Okla. (AP) — AF Force Sgt. Worth Boyette, 44, of Kenly, N. C., and Gary Dale Howard, 18, of Granite, Okla., were killed Tuesday when their cars collided.

The investigating state trooper said cutting torches were needed to separate the wreckage and remove the bodies. No other persons were in the cars, he said.

The wreck occurred two miles south of Clinton - Sherman Air Force Base, where Boyette was in the security police section.

More than 200 species of birds and almost 60 species of animals inhabit Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming.

retary Robert S. McNamara. As of June, 71,500 GIs had received training and 448,000 counseling, the Defense Department said.

Surgick's involvement in the program is perhaps typical. "I was kind of wondering what I wanted to do on the outside," he said. "I wanted to learn something of everything, and I wanted to get to New York. I heard about his from some guys I know and it seemed like a good deal. So I signed up."

Surgick, 21, is typical of the trainees, most of whom are draftees or first-term enlistees. But one of his classmates, Air Force Staff Sgt. James Rock Jr. of Henderson, Calif., is in another category.

Rock, 42, is stationed at McGuire Air Force Base. He's retiring after more than 21 years in uniform.

"About 18 per cent of the trainees are retiring personnel," said Peter Montovani, director of project Transition at Dix. "They're often the most bewildered about that to do in civilian life because they're the farthest removed from it." "I'm going back to California," Rock said. "I have friends out there who work for the phone company, and they like it. So here I am."

Project Transition is, in fact, a civilian apprenticeship program. The GIs who finish courses with, for example, the telephone company are referred to phone companies in their home areas for immediate placement.

The same applies to trainees in other occupations, who are instructed primarily by representatives of private industry or in the case of the law enforcement course, by police officers. When they get out of the service, they immediately join the firm by whom they were trained.

"Realistically, we try to get a guy $100 a week and in the door," said Montovani, who has run the program here in the year and a half it's been operating. "They start at the entry level of the firm, not any higher."

Transition officials at Dix have figure on how many of the trainees stay with the firms they begin with. "But we figure that between 35 and 50 per cent of those who begin the course end up with the same company after a year," Montovani said.

Meet The Pirates

Billy Wightman, left, and Danny Wilmer are two members of this year's East Carolina University football team. Wightman, 5-10, 175-pound senior from Graham, is the starting tailback for the Bucs. After an early injury last year, he finished strong, piling up 619 yards to finish fourth in the Southern Conference in rushing. Wilmer, a 6-2, 227-pound senior from Buena Vista, Va., is an end. He saw action both ways last year, but could gain a starting role at either defensive end or in the secondary. East Carolina opens its season Saturday, traveling to meet East Tennessee State University.

Final Heavy Contact Drills Find Bucs Sluggish; Four Days Are Left

East Carolina's Pirates, their 1969 football opener looming just four days away, went through their last heavy contact work on Tuesday afternoon and Coach Clarence Stasavich termed the workout sluggish. "That probably was due to the heat," Stasavich said after he watched both the offense and defense going through their paces. Offensively, the Bucs looked good at the running game for a part of the practice with Butch Colson at fullback and Billy Wightman and Wallace at tailback all looking good. Wallace, a sophomore from Edenton, has been running more and more at tailback, an indication that Stasavich is satisfied with the performance of Colson, who wasn't up to par last season for the first five games. Occasionally, the three of them looked good throwing the ball, too, with Richard Corrada, at split end, and Dwight Flanagan at wingback impressive with their catching. Also offensively, Stasavich announced another promotion. Senior tackle Phil Bilodeau was advanced to the second unit. Defensively, linebacker Paul Weathersbee and end Danny Wilmer were singled out for their efforts. Weathersbee, a starter from last season's defensive forces, has been particularly impressive to assistant coach Harold Bullard in recent practices. Wilmer, who started out as an offensive end, but was shifted to defense and has apparently earned himself a starting berth. Coach Henry Vansant, who scouted the East Tennessee team in their opener last weekend, cautioned that virtually the same team that licked the Pirates last year will be on hand for this one. "Out of their 22 starters from last season, only three are gone," Vansant said. "They appeared to be a little unsettled on their quarterback position, but in the end, it was their starter from last year, Larry Graham, who brought them from behind to win. "Rick McGlothlin, a sophomore, was their starter, but he wasn't too impressive with the passing game. Graham came on to throw for 120 yards. "Despite the fact they lost an All-American safety out of their secondary, they have another fine one this season led by Al Guy, a fine athlete and leader."

Juan Giant Win, Two Red Losses Move San Francisco Back Into 1st

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bacon and eggs... ham and swiss... lettuce and tomatoes. None of them go together as well as Juan Marichal and Candlestick Park. Marichal, the high-kicking right-hander, pitched the San Francisco Giants into first place in the National League's hectic West Division race Tuesday night, beating Atlanta 2-0 on a four-hitter. It was routine, almost automatic for Marichal, who is virtually unbeatable in candlestick Park. The victory gave him a 13-1 record at home this season. He is 19-10 over-all, meaning away from home, Juan's mark is a somewhat mediocre 6-9. Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Chicago tripped Montreal 5-4, San Diego drubbed Houston 8-1, Pittsburgh downed Philadelphia 9-5 and Los Angeles swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati, winning the opener 2-1 and taking the nightcap 3-2 in 12 innings. New York's game at St. Louis was postponed by rain. The shutout was the eighth this season for Marichal, tops in the National League, and his sixth at Candlestick. He has allowed just one run in his last 45 innings pitched at home. Hot-hitting Willie Mays drilled three hits and doubled home one of the two San Francisco runs. The other came on consecutive second inning singles by Ken Henderson, Jack Hiatt and Hal Lanier. It was the eighth consecutive complete game for Marichal and his 25th route-going effort in the last 33 starts. The victory moved the Giants back into first place and completed a four-day move from fourth place to first in the West. LA's sweep moved the Dodgers into second place, one-half game behind the Giants and one percentage point ahead of the Braves. Wes Parker drove in all three Dodger runs in the nightcap victory including the winner on a 12th inning single after Ted Sizemore had doubled and reached third on a fielder's choice.

Leader Can Only Wait While Others Playing

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

The chase is on. But, as college football's 101st season gets into full swing this weekend, the race will not be to the swiftest—for one Saturday, at least. That's because Ohio State's talent-rich Buckeyes, fresh from a perfect 1968 campaign and a convincing triumph over Southern California and O. J. Simpson in the Rose Bowl, doesn't open its season until Sept. 27. Woody Hayes' crew, national champions in The Associated Press' final 1968 poll, were runaway leaders in this year's pre-season balloting. But there's nothing they can do this weekend except sit back and watch the challengers do their stuff. The Buckeyes will still be No. 1 when Monday rolls around.

the Razorbacks get through. Penn State is shooting for its third consecutive Eastern title and, as usual, Coach Joe Paterno has the guns. They include halfback Charlie Pittman, line-backer Dennis Ontko and defensive tackles Mike Reid and Steve Smear. TEXAS over CALIFORNIA—California is an unknown quantity; Texas isn't. The fourth-ranked Longhorns have the passing in James Street and the running in Soeve Worster and Ted Koy and the defense in tackle Leo Brooks. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA over NEBRASKA—The Trojans, ranked fifth, have lost O. J. Simpson but will unveil Clarence Davis, who surpassed Simpson's junior college figures.

HOUSTON over FLORIDA—The Cougars have a super Bijley and split end Elmo Wright. SOUTH—Indiana over Kentucky; Tennessee over Chattanooga; Auburn over Wake Forest; Florida State over Wichita State; Louisiana State over Texas A&M; North Carolina State over North Carolina; Richmond over Mississippi State; South Carolina over Duke; Southern Methodist over Georgia Tech; West Virginia over Maryland; Clemson over Virginia; Davidson over Guilford; East Carolina over East Tennessee; Morehead State over Marshall; Southern Mississippi over Southwest Louisiana. MIDWEST—Michigan State over Washington; Colorado over Tulsa; Ohio U. over Kent State; Michigan over Vanderbilt; Iowa over Oregon State; Bowling Green over Utah State; Cincinnati over Wm. & Mary; Washington State over Illinois; Southern Illinois over Louisville; Miami, Ohio over Dayton; Toledo over Villanova. FAR WEST—Stanford over San Jose State; UCLA over Pitt; Arizona State over Minnesota; Wyoming over Arizona; Colorado State U. over Brigham Young; Oregon over Utah; Pacific over Western Michigan.

The Dodgers rallied for two runs in the ninth inning to take the opener. The first run scored on a bases-loaded walk to Willie Crawford and the second on Johnny Bench's throwing error as the Cincinnati catcher attempted an inning-ending double play. Bench's double had driven in the game's first run with an eighth inning double. San Diego dealt another blow to Houston's waning hopes, tagging the Astros with their sixth consecutive loss. Tommie Sisk coasted on a seven-hitter with Nat e Colbert and rookie Ron Slocum slamming home runs. The loss left the fifth place Astros six games behind the Giants with just 16 games remaining. Chicago used home runs by rookie Oscar Gamble and veteran Billy Williams to beat Montreal. The victory combined with the Mets' rainout at St. Louis moved the Cubs back to within four games of New York. The MB's magic number remained at 11. Pittsburgh used a 13-hit attack including homers by Jose Pagan and Al Oliver to whip Philadelphia. Matty Alou tagged three hits and Bob Moose, 11-3, struck out 13 Phillies for the victory. Johnny Callison homered for the Phillies.

Simpson Makes Bills Tougher

By SHEILA MORAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Coach Wally Lemm of the Houston Oilers thinks O. J. Simpson is "possibly a greater threat as a receiver than as a runner."

"He's one hell of a threat," Lemm said Tuesday after viewing a film of Simpson's performance with the Buffalo Bills against the New York Jets last Sunday, his first regular season pro game.

Lemm said the fabled running back from Southern Cal should make the Oilers' clash with Buffalo a tough game, even though he believes he has the best potential Oiler team since he returned as head coach in 1966.

"Simpson wasn't with the Bills when we beat them 24-7 in August so we know they are improved," Lemm said.

Simpson was limited to 35 yards in 10 carries, including an eight-yard run for his first pro touchdown. But he showed his breakaway ability on two pass-receptions for a 64-yard gain and on three kickoff returns for another 68 yards.

Simpson's heroics were not enough, however, as the Bills lost to the world champion Jets 33-19.

Houston dropped the opener against Oakland 21-17 but Lemm said "Oakland had two weeks to prepare for us and came out with some defense patterns we hadn't seen before. We didn't solve our adjustments entirely until we got to the blackboard at halftime."

Lemm said his only line-up change at Buffalo will find eight-year veteran Sonny Bishop at right guard in place of Jim Lemoine, a three-year man, "because we'll need Sonny's greater experience and ability to adjust to situations."

In other developments, National Football League clubs revealed final, no-recall cuts made to reach Monday's 40-man limit.

Minnesota said it had claimed aging quarterback Zeke Bratkowski on waivers from Green Bay where he's serving as an assistant coach. But it's been reported Bratkowski will retire rather than play for the Vikings, and remain on the Green Bay staff.

A Minnesota spokesman said Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks probably will talk to Bratkowski today.

In a surprise move, San Francisco dropped center Bruce Bosley, a 14-year NFL veteran, and went one under the 40-man limit.

Washington sprung a mild surprise by cutting veteran running back A. D. Whitfield, who gained 72 yards on 17 carries in preseason games. Coach Vince Lombardi also dropped receiver Sonny Randle.

BROOK VALLEY

Tommy Boone captured the recent Junior Golf Tournament at Brook Valley Country Club. He shot a 158 to win the 16-17 age group in the tournament. Second place went to John Lautares with a 159.

In the 13-15 age group, Doug Ramsey took first place with a 179. Second place went to John Harvey with a 226.

In the 12-year old category, Macon Moya won with a 186, while Bill Ellington was second with a 202.

John Lautares turned in an eagle on the par-four fourth hole. He hit a five wood into the hole.

Jim Rogers picked up an ace on the 18th hole at the club. He hit a three iron in while playing with Joe Dudley, Glenn Cox and Lloyd Mills. He finished the back nine with a 88.

In the Eastern Carolina Ladies Golf Association meet at Falling Creek in Kinston, Jane Sauve took low gross in A flight, firing an 85. Jane Worsley won low net in C flight with a 74, while Helen Boyd won low putts in D flight with 30.

ROBERSONVILLE C. C.

Louis Burch won the first Tobacco Festival Tournament at Robersonville Golf and Country Club over the weekend. He had a 70-74-144 for the tournament, even par. Second place went to Bobby Mobley with a 75-73-148. Both men are members of the club.

Hubert Baker of Georgia finished third in the tournament to lead the visiting tobacco men's delegation. He had 79-73-152. A total of 81 people participated in the tournament, which will be held annually.

GRIFTON GOLF CLUB

Grifton's Golf and Country Club held a Member-Guest tournament last weekend. Cecil Lilly and Pete Nelson captured first place in the champion flight with a low ball score of 138.

Second place went to the team of Tom Reilly and James Sutton, after a two-hole playoff with George Saleeby and Pat King. Both teams finished with 140's.

The first flight went to the team of Conley and Ipock, with a 156, while the team of Harper and Webb took the second flight at 169. Third flight resulted in a tie between the team of Cox-Amoson and Griffin-Rowe. Both had 171.

Mieuli Says ABA Is Harassing NBA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Franklin Mieuli, principal San Francisco Warriors owner who has been at war with the American Basketball Association since it lured away his star player two years ago, has accused the ABA of deliberate harassment.

"Something should be said about the people who get into the sports business claiming integrity," Mieuli declared Tuesday at a preseason press luncheon for his National Basketball Association club.

"Those people are using players, the press, the courts and referees merely to harass the National Basketball Association."

Mieuli lost superstar Rick Barry to the ABA Oakland Oaks in a court fight and recently signed Barry to a five-year contract after the Oakland team moved to Washington and became the Capitals.

But on Monday, George Foreman, owner of the Caps, filed a $10 million suit against the Warriors and Barry, contending

Killer's Homer Leads Minnesota Past Oakland; Magic Number Is 6

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

You'll have to give Dave McNally credit for one thing—he'll do anything to shake off a losing streak... even get a hit. McNally, who had produced only six hits all season and an anemic .071 average going into the game, singled home the only run as Baltimore nipped the Washington Senators 1-0 Tuesday night.

It gave the left-hander his second straight victory—the first time since his 17-game two-season victory string was snapped Aug. 3 that he's managed to string together that many triumphs.

Meanwhile, Harmon Killebrew took another big step toward winning the American League homer title away from Frank Howard and Reggie Jackson by walloping his 44th of the season—a three-run shot—in leading Minnesota past Oakland 11-3.

That increased the Twins' lead over the A's to 10 games in the AL West and cut Minnesota's magic number for clinching the crown to just six.

In other games, Cleveland whipped Boston 5-1, Kansas City nipped Seattle 2-1, the New York Yankees topped Detroit 7-6 in 13 innings and the Chicago White Sox won a doubleheader from California, 7-4 and 3-2.

McNally, who won his first 15 games this season, boosted his record to 19-6, although he needed Ed Watt to get the last Senators' out.

that Barry owes his team another year on a contract. A restraining order says Barry may not play for the Warriors until settlement of the suit.

His clincher was a bloop single to center in the sixth, scoring Merv Rettenmund, who had singled. McNally also sent Howard to the fence in left for his liner with the bases loaded and two out in the second, and led off the fifth with a double although he didn't score.

Killebrew, who was 6-for-6 with four homers and 12 RBI in the three games with the A's before his sixth inning strikeout,

Grange Leads Modern Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — Harold "Red" Grange is the only unanimous choice on the modern all-time college football team named today by the Football Writers of America.

Grange ran to college football immorality from 1923 through 1925 as Illinois' Galloping Ghost.

Just one vote shy of unanimous selection was Bronislaw "Bronko" Nagurski who starred at tackle for Minnesota from 1927-29.

Only one player out he team played his college ball after 1940—Jim Parker, Ohio State guard from 1954-56.

Other members of the team are ends Bennie Oosterbarn, Michigan, and Don Hutson, Alabama; tackle Frank "Bruiser" Kinnard, Mississippi; guard Bob Suffridge, Tennessee; center Mel Hein, Washington State, and backs Sammy Baugh, Texas as Christian; Jay Berwanger, Chicago, and Ernie Nevers, Stanford.

lofted his three run homer into the left field pavillion in the first inning.

It raised his major league-leading RBI total to 134 and put the stacky slugger just two away from the AL homer leading totals of Oakland's Jackson and Howard.

John Roseboro, with his third homer, and Leo Cardenas, No. 10, came up with consecutive solo homers in the fourth to add to the rout.

The Twins then put it out of doubt with six runs in the fifth, when Rod Carew drove in two runs with a triple, Cesar Tovar with a single and winner Jim Perry, 19-6, and Cardenas one each with singles.

Despite the sweep of the series with their only contender, Twins Manager Billy Martin refused to talk about a title yet.

"After six more wins or when we win this thing, we'll start thinking about Baltimore," said the freshman skipper.

Wally Bunker checked Seattle on four hits and drove in the winning run with a double in the eighth in lifting his record to 11-10—making him the Royals' winningest hurler.

Ken Harrelson's three-run homer, his 29th, in the eighth snapped a 2-2 tie and gave Cleveland its victory over the Red Sox. Jose Cardenal, No. 10, also homered for the Indians, while Rico Petrocelli hit his 39th for Boston.

Bobby Cox's sacrifice fly in the 13th inning produced the Yankees' winning run after Jerry Kenney opened the inning with a single and moved to third on Thurman Munson's single. Tom Shopy was purposely walked, loading the bases before Horace Clarke's flyout set the stage for Cox' winner.

The Tigers had tied it with three runs in the ninth, including two on Jim Northrup's homer. Clarke homered for the Yanks.

Catcher Duane Josephson, in the starting lineup for the first time since June 21, hit the first pitch tossed to him and also scored a pair of runs in leading the White Sox to victory in the nightcap. Rookie right-hander Bert Johnson earned his first major league triumph in the opener.

In the National League, Chicago shaded Montreal 5-4, Pittsburgh whipped Philadelphia 9-5, San Francisco blanked Atlanta 2-0, San Diego whipped Houston 8-1, and Los Angeles swept a doubleheader with Cincinnati, winning the first game 2-1 and taking the nightcap 3-2 in 10 innings. The New York Mets game at St. Louis was rained out.

State Tougher Because Of Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina's Tar Heels will be physically ready for N. C. State when the teams play Saturday at Raleigh, but will that be enough?

Coach Bill Dooley said State's last-second, 22-21 loss to Wake Forest "will make State even tougher for us." Dooley was in Carter Stadium to see the game.

"Despite the loss, I think the State defense is terrific," he said. And the Wolfpack ground attack was powerful, too, so much that Coach Earle Edwards' team only threw three passes.

The game will be the Tar Heels' first this season.

"Wake Forest takes on Auburn Saturday in Alabama and Deac Coach Cal Stoll is worried about how hot it might be. "It is important that we be in top condition," he said Tuesday. "We will be outweighed and outmanned."

Stoll put his team through conditioning drills Tuesday.

Elsewhere in the conference, Clemson ended rough workouts Tuesday in preparation for its opener Saturday at Virginia. Timing and blocking assignments are scheduled the rest of the week by Coach Frank Howard.

The Tigers have never lost to Virginia in the teams' 10 games. To Cavalier Coach George Blackburn, it's a "championship game." He said Tuesday,

"We're going in to this game as if all the marbles are on the line"

The Cavaliers went through a 1 1/2 hour practice Tuesday.

Duke, for the second day in a row, practiced without a break Tuesday as the Blue Devils prepared for their first game Saturday at South Carolina. The team wants to repeat last year's 14-7 upset over the Gamecocks.

South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel hasn't forgotten that, nor has he forgotten that Duke has opened its season with the Gamecocks 11 times in Columbia and won 7 of the games.

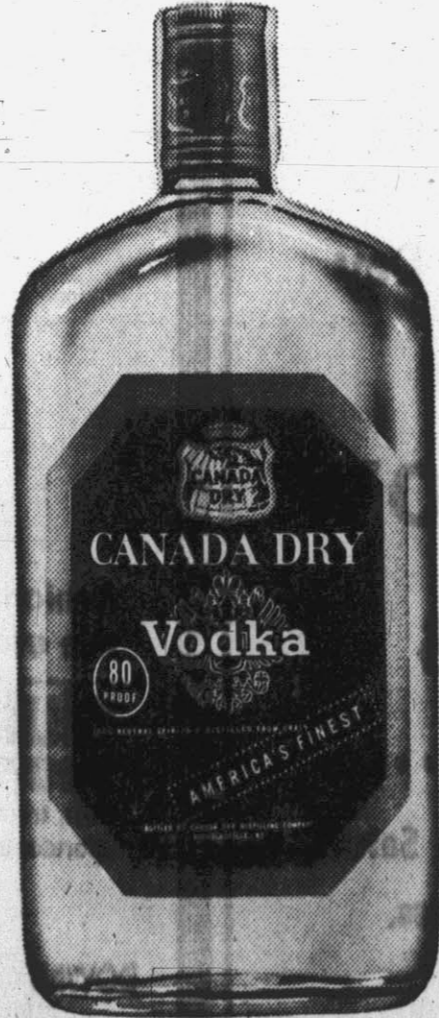

He said Tuesday last year Duke "outmanned us, but we believe we have the depth to cope this season."

Dietzel's squad has been hit by the flu bug. "We have had about 20 out each day for the past week, and though the rate now is less, several had to be hospitalized Monday at our infirmary," he said at a news conference.

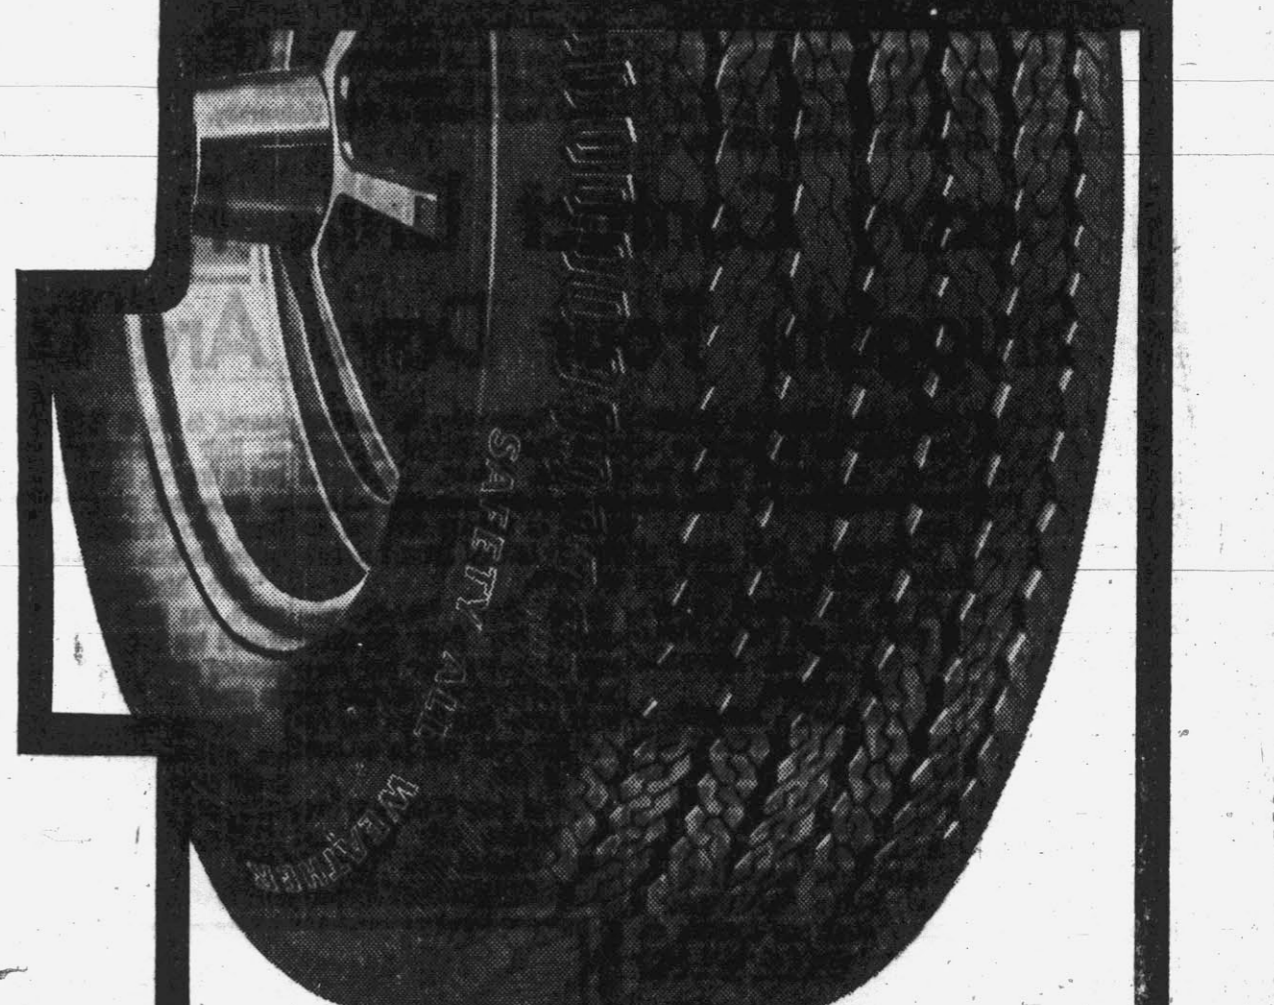

Dietzel praised Duke's potential and said of his own team that scrambling quarterback Tommy Suggs' passing to end Fred Zeigler and fullback Warren Muir's running is the main offensive thrust.

"When Tommy passes that ball, he has a quick release—if your back is to him, you can hear the ball whistle as he smokes it in. Muir has become a fine receiver and he'll be on the taking end more," Dietzel said.

Marine Scientists Set Sights On Ocean Depths

By AMEI WALLACH
NEW YORK (UPI)—While millions of Americans are gazing upwards toward the moon, where such a short time ago man took his "one small step," a group of marine scientists have their sights set in the opposite direction—toward the depths of the ocean.

The aquanauts who surfaced last April 15 after a 60-day sojourn under Caribbean waters are ready to submerge again. The target date: January or February, 1970.

"Sixty days is simply not enough," insisted Richard A. Waller, the intense, compact oceanographer who headed that "Project Tektite I" in Beehive Cove, Port Lameshur Bay off the U.S. Virgin Islands last spring.

"That 60 days living and experimenting under water was simply a one-shot deal, and scientific research is not conducted like that," he told UPI on a recent rushed visit to New York.

So Waller, a scientist with the Department of Interior, is heading up an inter-agency task force that will study the cost of a second Tektite project with the hopes of winning a go-ahead signal for it, possibly this month.

Represented on the task force are the Department of Interior, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), the Navy, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Science Foundation.

They are scheduled to report on their findings to the inter-agency steering committee on Sept. 12. "And if the price is right, it looks like we'll get approval to start the project in early 1970," Waller said.

Cooperation Needed
The scientist estimates the project—planned to last six months this time—will cost about $2.5 million in all.

Unlike Tektite I, which set a record for living underwater, Tektite II will employ six or seven teams of a total of 40 to 45 marine scientists who will conduct their experiments underwater for from two to four weeks at a time, Waller said.

The inter-department cooperation is a key to the success of the continued underwater research project, he emphasized, since unlike the space program Tektite will probably not make banner headlines.

"There probably won't be a dramatic breakthrough in oceanography like there was in the space program," he said. "It's a building block type of thing... just continually adding to what we think we already know and finally reaching some level of proficiency where we can make some predictions."

Tektite I was financed by the Office of Naval Planning, with the help of the Department of Interior, NASA and the General Electric Company. And while Waller thinks the Navy did "a very good job," it's his own department, Interior, he is counting on to provide the biggest support.

"Lots of people think the Navy is going to develop all the technology necessary to do scientific research on the continental shelf and deeper. It's simply not going to happen... it's fantasy to think we are going to get what we need from the Navy's efforts," he said.

It was the Navy that invested $10 million in the ill-fated

Sealab project on the West Coast, which was halted abruptly after the mysterious death of an aquanaut in February and a series of problems with the capsule in which the aquanaut was to have lived with eight other Marines 600 feet under Pacific waters.

The Department of Interior's interest in marine research was evidenced by Secretary Walter J. Hickel.

"I think their accomplishment is ample proof that Interior is serious about developing the resources of the ocean floor; that this is not a conservative, old line department which has no interest in new ideas and techniques as some people have said in the past," Hickel said at the ceremonies before Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Ultimately, Waller would like to have a research dwelling on the ocean floor 360 days a year, with aquanauts manning it "two months, a week several weeks at a time," to learn as much as they can about animal and vegetable life, mineral and petroleum resources and perhaps even military and industrial uses.

The Universe Below
The ocean offers some ready-made answers to the need for more and more food supplies and mineral resources in increasingly overpopulated world. "And the time to worry about that is now, not 20 years or 30 years from now, when the crisis is upon us," Waller said.

With Tektite I, the Navy was primarily interested in discovering whether men could live and work for weeks on end at a relatively shallow depth in intense isolation. Waller and his three fellow aquanauts proved they could.

Waller; H. Edward Clifton, a geologist; John Van Derwalker, a biologist and Conrad V.W. Mahnen, an oceanographer, felt their missions of providing a start for underwater research proved successful, too.

There were problems, of course.

"Where most of the equipment was concerned," Waller said, "we had quite a bit of overkill. There were too many generators, more than enough of most other things, but then we didn't have enough auxiliary CO2 scrubbers."

Those "scrubbers" were supposed to absorb excess carbon dioxide from the air. "Our primary scrubber stopped functioning one day and we noticed that CO2 levels were rising to a level we really couldn't tolerate," Waller said. "It hadn't reached the critical stage yet, but it was uncomfortable."

So the aquanauts improvised—with a vacuum cleaner.

"We filled a spare CO2 canister with the proper purifying substance, hooked it up to the vacuum and it performed very well for the week or more it took to get a genuine scrubber down to us."

And there was the problem of how four men could live together with a minimum amount of friction in a cramped capsule under the sea for 60 days.

That was the problem that concerned NASA most, "I can't help but feel that NASA's interest had a lot to do with getting behavioral information about a crew under those conditions," Waller said.

How about tensions and conflicts between four men from different backgrounds with sometimes different goals?

Different Personalities
Clifton, 34, is a marine geologist from Johns Hopkins University who has been diving for a little more than a year. He is interested in charting and mapping the ocean floor.

Van Derwalker, 32, a fisheries biologist, studied the behavior of spiny lobsters in the area, a task that could yield valuable information on the eventual farming of lobsters for commercial use.

Mahnen, 31, a geologist, studied the productivity of the water to determine how fast plants and organisms could grow.

And Waller, 34, tended to duties in the home capsule, "looking after engineering systems and atmospheric monitoring, establishing the best safety procedures."

"As crew chief I felt I should do it. I felt I should let the others pursue their own research activities," he said.

There were personal differences in the men, as well.

"John and I are low key, not easily excitable," Waller explained. "Ed Clifton has a sunny disposition most of the time, but a quick temper. And Connie (Mahnen) is very explosive, quick to make judgments and decisions."

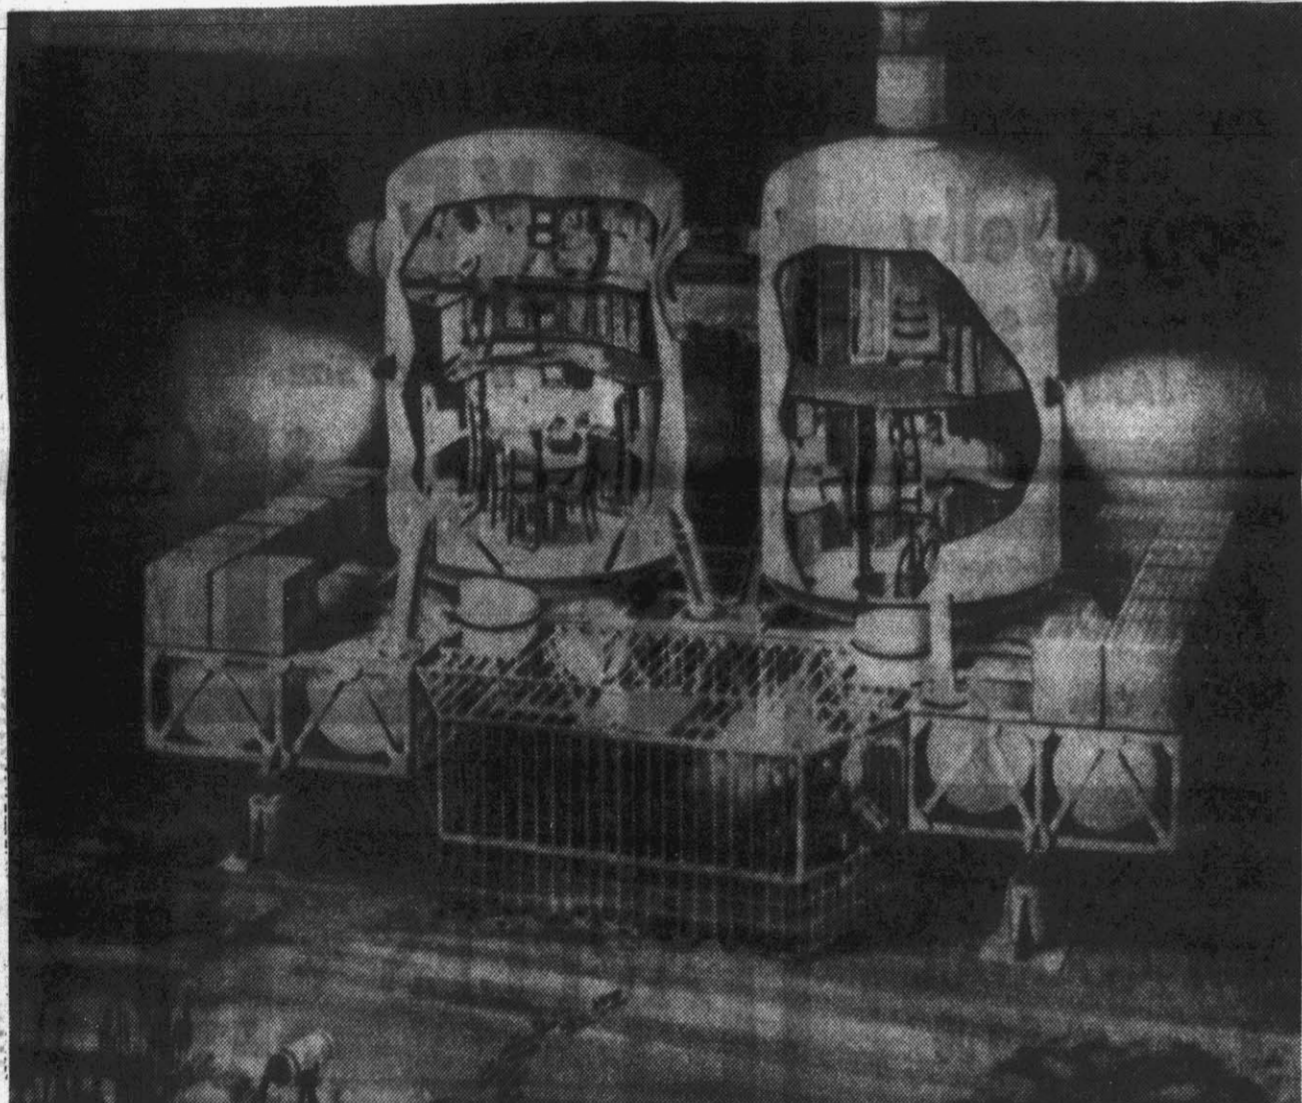

"But the work was a unifying force. As long as you can keep scientists busy and motivated, personalities tend to disappear. We became friends as a result of the project."

"Now we've found out men can remain motivated under these conditions, we've established scientific research in the ocean environment, and we've learned what we're lacking. We're ready for Tektite II."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge—in a ruling the government hopes will strengthen its case against former Senate Democratic secretary Bobby Baker—has ordered a former Agriculture Department official to turn over some $40,000 in "secret gifts and gratuities" to the government.

U.S. District Court Judge Oren R. Lewis ordered Melville A. Drisko, former director of the Foreign Agriculture Service, to turn back $40,564 in gifts and cash he received from a salad oil manufacturer while in office.

U.S. attorneys who have a case pending against Baker say Judge Lewis' ruling may help them recover from the former secretary of the Democratic majority an "unknown" amount of private fees he allegedly collected for selling his influence while in office.

WASHINGTON (AP)—After first saying it went down, then saying it stayed the same, the government now says a key economic indicator—wholesale prices—went up in August.

Blaming the mixup on a "computational error," the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Tuesday wholesale prices went up one-tenth of one per cent last month.

There was an error in the way the thing was computed," says assistant commissioner Arnold Chase, whose statisticians took issue two weeks ago with a White House statement heralding a downturn in wholesale prices. But at that time, the NLS said there had been no change since July.

Although not as optimistic about how government-imposed curbs on inflation were working, the BLS noted that the newly discovered one-tenth of one per cent rise—the same as from June to July—is smaller than in any other period this year.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrial output in the United States dropped slightly during August, the Federal Reserve Board says.

The index of production—based on 1957-59 output of 100—went from 174.6 in July to 174.3 in August, the board said Tuesday. The drop was cautiously hailed as an indication the government's fight against inflation is beginning to take hold.

Tempering the relief, however, was the announcement that the one sector of the economy which the government is trying to boost—housing—also dropped.

The Commerce Department said private housing starts were down again in August, continuing a decline that began in January.

Books Published By 2 Professors

FIRST COPY DELIVERED . . . Dean James Bearden presents book to President Jenkins.

FIRST BOOK . . . Dr. Charles P. Cullop's book bears this dust jacket.

Books by two East Carolina University professors have recently been published and are now on sale.

First on the market was "Confederate Propaganda in Europe," an account of the activities of propagandist Henry Hotze during the Civil War.

The book, by Dr. Charles P. Cullop of the ECU Department of History, is published by the University of Miami Press.

A textbook entitled "The Environment of Business," an anthology of selected readings in various aspects of business and economy, has been published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston for Dr. James Bearden, Dean of the ECU School of Business.

The book is Dr. Bearden's second published text. A third book, "Personal Selling Concepts and Decisions," is in progress.

According to Dr. Cullop, who is a specialist in American diplomatic history, his monograph is an extension of the doctoral dissertation he completed at the University of Virginia.

Although a slim volume of less than 150 pages, the book delves into considerable detail in describing the chief personalities and nature of propaganda for the Confederacy in Europe.

Dr. Bearden, in his foreword, describes his new text as "a volume of significant writings which will facilitate the study of teaching of the introductory course in business. "It is," he continues, "a keen desire of the author that in addition to providing a means for expanding, illustrating and generally enriching the courses for which it is specially intended, this volume will also prove useful in courses on current business and economic problems and that particular selections will be relevant to a wide variety of courses in other social disciplines."

Dr. Bearden holds the MA degree in business from ECU and a PhD in business administration from the University of Alabama.

U. S. TROOP STRENGTH IN VIETNAM — Chart shows drop in U. S. troop strength in Vietnam as announcement was made Monday that President Nixon has decided on another withdrawal. Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said it would be 40,500 men by November 30. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Inflation Blame Said Not Wholly Viet War

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A distinguished economist says in a new book that the whole blame for inflation can't be put on the Vietnam war.
The book, "The Business Cycle in a Changing World," is a collection of the writings of Arthur F. Burns, adviser to President Nixon and chairman of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers from 1953 to 1956. It was published by the National Bureau of Economic Research, of which he has been president and chairman.
"The new inflation started before Vietnam was of any financial or economic consequence," Burns says. "Prices of raw materials began moving up in spirited fashion as early as the fall of 1963. By June of 1964 the average level of all wholesale prices began rising. Between that month and June 1965 the whole sale price index rose 3 per cent."
"Moreover, price advances spread out over the economy well before mid-1965. During the second half of 1964, 12 of the 15 major groups of commodities covered by the official index of wholesale prices registered advances. During the next six months, 14 of the 15 groups showed price increases. Clearly, inflation had already taken hold and became widespread many months before Vietnam began adding appreciably to aggregate money demand."
Burns contends that the "simple explanation that the recent price-wage spiral is attributable to the war in Vietnam must be rejected."
Burns is critical of what he describes as the shifting economic policy of the administration of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. He notes that apart from the investment tax credit which became effective in November 1966, Johnson did not ask for an increase in taxes before January 1967.
"By that time," he writes, "the wholesale price level had already been rising 2½ years. And when the president did ask for higher income taxes, he asked merely for an increase of 6 per cent, to become effective at midyear. In the face of an explosive increase in federal spending, this request did not convey any great sense of urgency."
"More over, within a few weeks of asking for a tax increase in the interest of restricting the growth of aggregate demand, the administration actually stepped up its efforts to stimulate demand. Substantial funds for housing and highways, which had only recently been impounded, were released by March 1967. In March also, the president requested the Congress to reinstate the investment tax credit for machinery and equipment."
This, according to Burns, meant that the administration was asking for a substantial tax cut for business firms instead of the tax increase suggested a few weeks earlier.
He adds that the "abrupt shift" in early 1967 towards a more liberal fiscal policy was accompanied by a more liberal monetary policy.
"Thus, despite the war in Vietnam," Burns says, "the government acted during much of the year (1967) as if a recession were under way instead of coming to grips with the menacing reality of inflation."

Discovered Old Escape Tunnels

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — A reminder of British statesman Winston Churchill's escape from a Boer prison nearly 70 years ago has been discovered here.
Pretoria history teacher Peter Digby and three of his pupils found the second of two abandoned escape tunnels dug by some of Churchill's fellow prisoners-of-war under the floor of a former school building used as a prison for British officers during the 1889-1902 Boer War. The tunnels, the first of which was rediscovered last year, were mentioned in British officer Captain Aylmer Haldane's recollections "How We Escaped from Pretoria." He and two companions dug the tunnels under the historic Staats Model School building but abandoned them when fellow-prisoner Churchill, then a young war correspondent, made an independent escape in December 1899.
Boer authorities, alarmed by Churchill's break, moved all the prisoners to another jail. But Haldane and his companions cut a fake escape hole in the roof as a diversion and hid under the floorboards during the move, to walk out in broad daylight when everyone had departed.

Proffer Vinegar Cure To Science

TOKYO (UPI)—The Mainichi newspaper says scientists should examine the powers of vinegar as a cure for athlete's foot.
The Mainichi said scientists at a recentposium concluded they don't know how athlete's foot is spread or how it can be cured.
"The question which arises is why the scientists, before reaching such a miserable conclusion, are not willing to try the vinegar theory or at least to recognize it as worthy of investigation," the paper said editorially.

Girls Protest Park's Curfew

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (UPI)—There's more to protest at Yellowstone National Park than gnats, and bears that rummage through food lockers.
For instance, a group of appropriately called the Committee for Repeal of Girls Curfew is requesting park officials to abolish its 1 a.m. curfew for all female employees.
The group was formed from among the park's 1,975 seasonal workers, most of whom are college students.
HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)—Police have adopted as their slogan for their annual national day: "A Day Without Police?"
"We aren't going on strike," said the police commandant. "But we want to make people think what life would be like if nobody chased the criminals."

Local Club Praised By Rotary Governor

ROTARIANS . . . discuss information. District Governor J. Talbot Capps, left, and Greenville Rotary Club president Dr. O. R. Pearce, Jr., check out facts on Rotary achievements.

Greenville Rotarians were saluted Monday evening by District Governor J. Talbot Capps of District 773 of Rotary International. He praised the Greenville club for a half century of service in the Pitt County area. The local club, which was organized on August 18, 1919, is now under the leadership of Dr. O. R. Pearce Jr., president. Preceding the weekly meeting, Capps reviewed progress reports in a club assembly with directors and major committee chairmen of the Greenville Rotary Club.

In his address, Capps lauded the Greenville club for its position of leadership in the 42 clubs of the district, all situated in the southeastern North Carolina coastal counties. He cited as especially outstanding the support of the Rotary Foundation, youth work, and community activity by individual Rotarians.

The Rotary Club, founded in 1905 by Paul Harris, is dedicated to the transformation of an idea into an activity. "Rotary fellowship and its ideal of service extends across vocational and professional lines and breaks through international boundaries," declared Capps.

Rotary now numbers more than 13,900 clubs around the world located in 146 countries and geographical regions, with some 657,600 Rotarians members. These figures were cited by the district governor in his informal message.

Dr. James W. Butler, a past district governor of the area now administered by Capps, introduced Capps, of Kinston, to the club.

Pearce presented Capps with a banner of the Greenville club.

Eagle Badge For Pitt Boy Scout

Charles Young, son of Robert Young and the late Nancy Wynne Young of Bethel, received scouting's highest honor, the Eagle Scout Award, during the Sunday morning service at the Bethel United Methodist Church.

CHARLES YOUNG

Charles is a member of Troop 15, sponsored by the Bethel Rotary Club. He was presented the award by Knott Proctor, Pitt District chairman; John Rook, Troop 15 committee chairman, and Charles Boykin.

Sewing Classes Registration Set

Registration for sewing classes will be held Sept. 23, at 10 a.m. at Pitt Technical Institute.

Classes in Sewing I, II, and III, and Tailoring will be scheduled. At the first meeting, the instructor will discuss content of the course and supplies which will be needed.

Classes may be scheduled in the morning or afternoon. Sessions may be two and one half or three hours long depending on interest expressed by those who enroll.

For additional information, interested persons may call Pitt Technical Institute, 756-3130.

POLICE ROBBED

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Police have disclosed the theft of $4,002 in cash and checks from the Police and Courts Building. The money was taken from an unlocked safe in the Violations Bureau office about 20 feet from the desk sergeant's station.

Gray

Chief Warrant Officer Richard Key Gray, 32, died in Vietnam Sunday. The body will be brought to Greenville for funeral services and burial.

Mr. Gray, son of Mrs. Lucy Carrington Gray of Greenville, and the late Henry Abram Gray, was a native of Pitt County and was graduated from Rose High School in 1955. He attended East Carolina University and entered the United States Air Force. Later he was appointed a warrant officer in the United States Army. He had served in Japan and Belgium and had been in Vietnam for the year where he was serving as deputy finance officer of the First Cavalry. He was a member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Peggy Johnston Gray of Goldsboro; a son, Richard Key Gray Jr. of the home; his mother, Mrs. Lucy C. Gray of Greenville; five brothers, Sam Gray of Stokes, Abram and Lonnie Gray of Hyattsville, Md., Alton Gray of Lillington, and Jack Gray of Chesapeake, Va.; and three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Oakley of Greenville, Mrs. Gladys Harrison of Williamston, and Mrs. Lucille Uzzell of Charlotte.

The S.G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Home is in charge of the arrangements.

Vicars

Charles Edmond Vicars, two-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Vicars of 201 Dalebrook Circle, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning. Graveside services were held at ten o'clock this morning in Pinewood Memorial Park by the Rev. Percy Upchurch, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church.

Surviving are his parents; two brothers, Tommie and Morris Vicars of the home; and his grandmothers, Mrs. Frances M. Vicars of Waynesboro, Va., and Mrs. Gladys Babson of Ash, N. C.

Spell

Mr. Willie Spell of 802-A Bancroft Street, died suddenly Tuesday morning. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Moore

Funeral services for Mr. Alonzo Moore who died Saturday in Brown's Rest Home, Enfield, were conducted this afternoon at Phillips Bros. Mortuary Chapel. Elder Elisha Whitely officiated. Burial followed in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Moore was born and reared in Greenville. He worked for the Person Garrett Tobacco Company for a number of years. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Odessa Moore of Greenville, his mother, Mrs. Eliza Moore of Brooklyn, N.Y.; six daughters, Mrs. Ellen Mercer and Miss Mamie Moore of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mrs. Verna Cromwell of Baltimore, Md., Margaret, Delphia, and Gloria Jean Moore, all of Greenville; three sons, Alonzo Moore Jr., William and William Earl Moore of Brooklyn, N.Y.; two sisters, Mrs. Novella Tatum of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Mrs. Beatrice Gaskins of Pompano Beach, Fla.; 13 grandchildren; three aunts, and two uncles.

Green

Mrs. Rhobelia Blount Green of the Shiloh Community of Pitt County died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 4 p.m. at Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church with the Rev. Stephen Jones officiating. Interment will follow in the Live Oak Cemetery.

Mrs. Green was the daughter of the late F. and Sarah Smith Blount and widow of Walter Green. She was born and reared in Craven County but had made her home in the Shiloh Community for the past 35 years. She was a member of the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Rosa L. Green and Miss Beoni Green, both of the home; six sons, Augustus, Adolph and Jesse Green, all of Baltimore, Md., Lenon Green of Williamsburg, Va., Eddie and Walter Green, both of Philadelphia, Pa.; one brother, Joseph Blount of Goldsboro; 13 grandchildren; three granddaughters.

The body will be at the Norcott and Company Funeral Home Chapel from Thursday at 5 p.m. until one hour prior to the funeral.

Lance

KINSTON — Mr. George B. Lane died Monday evening in the Lenoir General Hospital in Kinston following several weeks of illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Greater Mt. Zion Baptist Church of Kinston Thursday at 4:00 p.m. by his pastor. Burial will follow in the family plot in the Kinston Cemetery.

Mr. Lane was a prominent funeral director in Kinston for a number of years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Etta H. Lane of the home, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Kathleen B. Jones of Kinston.

UNC-Charlotte Plans Recruiting

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The University of North Carolina at Charlotte has appointed its first black admissions counselor and says it plans to increase efforts to recruit Negroes.

Miss Dianne Scoggins, a June UNC graduate, was appointed to the post. Admissions director L. Robert Grogan said she will work closely with black high schools and area disadvantaged students.

Ford Motor Co. Announces 1970 Price Increases

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., the nation's No. 2 automaker, today announced its 1970 model cars would cost an average of $108 more than current models, an increase of 3.6 per cent.

Ford, shooting for a bigger share of the market now held by industry leader General Motors, came up with a price boost smaller than GM's $125 or 3.9 per cent increase.

The company also said it was holding the line on the price of its fast selling little Maverick, which goes for $1,995. Next to the 1970 Hornet being marketed by American Motors, the Maverick will be the lowest priced American-made auto. American Motors says its new Hornet will sell for $1,994. Trying to avoid being put at a competitive disadvantage by GM, Ford changed its mind on its warranty program after General Motors announced it was sticking with its five-year, 50,000-mile power train warranty.

Ford, which had announced in August it was trimming its warranty to one year with no limits on mileage or number of owners, now says it will offer a power train warranty of five years or 50,000 miles at an additional cost.

Ford sold 27.5 per cent of the American-made cars marketed between Jan. 1 and Sept. 10 while General Motors held more than half the market.

Like GM, Ford cited increased costs in labor, materials and taxes as the prime reasons for the price hikes.

But Ford and GM said a number of previously optional items, such as fiberglass belted tires, would be standard equipment on 1970 models.

Cars shipped for sale in California will be equipped with a mandatory exhaust emission control system priced at $35, Ford said.

The $108 dollar price increase posted by Ford includes the federal excise tax, Ford said the average increase in the list price of its 1970 models would be $103 compared to $119 for GM.

The list price does not include any taxes or dealer handling or delivery charges.

Cemetery Fence, Gates Removed

WINTERVILLE — The fence and gates at the Winterville Cemetery have been removed to permit filling and leveling of the cemetery property, but town officials say the ordinance forbidding anyone except Winterville residents to use the municipal dump will still be enforced.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobler, filling operations are being conducted at the cemetery in order to level the property and provide for future lots. Some trees are being removed, he noted.

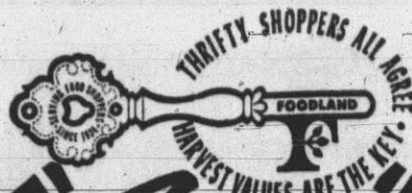

Dirt for the fill is being hauled from N.C. 11 road construction sites where there is an excess of fill material, Nobler explained.

Get Tickets Coming And Going

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
CAIRO (UPI)—If you think your local traffic cop is a little too quick with his ticket book consider the plight of the Egyptian motorist.

Policemen last year handed out 1,899,000 tickets to the nation's 170,000 private car owners, an average of 11 tickets for every motorist in the land.

Police officials say motorists here are probably the most highly ticketed in the world. The authorities have become increasingly alarmed that this prolific fines system has done little to stem the nation's spiraling accident rate.

Last year 1,714 persons were killed and 7,624 were injured in this predominately rural land of 32 million persons. Though administratively these statistics may be low by comparison with figures in motorized Western nations they are considered high in Egypt's pastoral landscape.

A major factor in the nation's malfunctioning fines system is that though policemen are free with their tickets, many of them are too little too late.

No Provisions
Maj. Gen. Saleh Hussein, central traffic chief, said that for the majority of traffic offense will probably be ticketed driving through a stop sign fines range from 15 to 100 piasters (34 cents to $2.30). And there are no provisions in the current laws to fine repeated offenders successively heavier amounts. A motorist who commits his first speeding offense will probably be ticked for the same amount as a driver caught for the tenth time.

Even then, under current laws, offenders are allowed to accumulate tickets and pay them off in one lump sum at the end of the year. Traffic cops here are faced with a task of attempting to discipline a nation of poor drivers with an inadequate fines system and a set of archaic traffic laws which allow many illiterate persons to drive vehicles and which, in many instances, do not even cover common driving offenses.

For instance, there is no provision to fine motorists who fail to stop after an accident or for those who drive along "cycles only" lanes.

Hussein said the problem should be tackled at its root—in the license issuing department. Under existing standards practically anyone can obtain a license merely by driving a car forward about 10 yards and then reserving it. Police officials say many holders are illiterate persons (recently published government figures show 70 per cent of all Egyptians over the age of 10 are illiterate) who cannot even read traffic signs properly.

"Only one thing saves us from complete chaos here," said one official. "Egyptians may be bad drivers but at least they drive relatively slowly. If they drove as fast as motorists in most other cities they would kill off half the population."

Burglars Enter Chief's Home

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Burglars pried open a window and ransacked the home of Police Chief Ray Blackmore, making off with a $2,000 stereo phonograph, two television sets and $20 in cash.

It was the fourth house on Blackmore's block to be broken into in six weeks. Blackmore was at work and his wife was out when the daylight burglary occurred.

Mayor Is Mixing Oil And Art

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oil and water don't mix—but oil and art do, says Armand Hammer.

Dr. Hammer, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Occidental Petroleum Corp., has been named to the Board of Municipal Arts Commissioners by Mayor Sam Yorty.

New Gimmick By Cattle Rustlers

EUREKA, Kan. (AP) — Sheriff Kleo Daily says cattle rustlers are using a new gimmick: spreading feed pellets in a small area out of sight of the farmhouse, building a fence around the feeding cattle, then returning with a truck to haul them away. He said 14 head of Angus cattle were taken by this method from the Earl Beckham Lazy-B-Bar ranch.

The Worry Clinic Emotions Are Cooled By Pausing To Think

Eileen saved herself from sexual attack and possible murder by use of the medical axiom below. For I offer you readers proved strategies for happier living, so don't because I use simple language. Alas, some college snobs disbelieve anything if it is easily understood, for they are only impressed by confusing polysyllabic circumlocutions!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
PH. D., M. D.

CASE K-551: Eileen Y., aged 18, was jeopardy.

"Dr. Crane," she began, last night I awakened to find a strange man in my bedroom.

"He had a knife and threatened to attack me if I made a sound or offered any resistance.

"Well, for a moment, I was petrified with fear.

"Then I remembered one of your newspaper columns where you said to keep your attacker engaged in conversation.

"You had urged that a girl ask him questions, just to make his brain function.

"For you said a man can't celebrate and also emote, so if a girl makes him use his brain by answering questions and carrying on conversation, then his passion will subside.

"So I began talking to him and asking questions.

"I even used the 'Compliment Club' technique on him and inquired why a nice looking fellow like him had to break into homes?

"Also, I asked him if he had any brothers or sisters at home, for he was only about 20 years of age.

"Well, Dr. Crane, this strategy worked. For he answered my questions till finally he just took my purse and slipped out the window, without assaulting me sexually.

"So remind other girls of this strategy, for it may not only prevent an attack but may even save their lives, too!"

At Northwestern University I used to warn my coed students about this same strategy when faced with imminent sexual assault.

For it is a medical and psychological axiom that a human being cannot simultaneously maintain thinking and emotion.

You can't celebrate very long and still emote!

Those are hostile or antithetical processes.

That's one reason why men on the usual date try to smother a girl's mouth with prolonged kisses, just to keep her quiet.

For if she is kissed on the cheek, she can then distract their attention via conversation and meanwhile dissipate their passion.

"But, Dr. Crane," a coed would protest, "how can a girl keep up conversation when she is scared to death and facing possible murder?"

Well, since she then realizes she has nothing to lose, she might as well gamble and test this medical axiom.

Since she will otherwise be assaulted and maybe murdered, anyway, she might as well use her brain and celebrate, for that will likewise dissipate her own terror.

Remember the old adage that said, "Count 10 before you explode in anger."

That mere act of counting is a cerebral (brain) process and thus lessens one's anger.

So prepare for possible future emergencies early. Learn how to start and maintain a steady flow of conversation.

If you feel like screaming "Help, Help!" dissect that very word H-E-L-P and use each letter as a field of conversation.

"H" stands for "Hobbies"; "E" for "Entertainment"; "L" for "Literature including comic books, while "P" indicates "Politics."

Use this quick aid to conversation both to increase your social charm, at parties, as well as to prevent sexual assault.

And for the longer, college

Fertility Level Of Farm Pond Water Is Adjustable

The fertility level of a farm pond is influenced by a low pH factor. (A pH of 7 is natural, with a number lower being acid and a number higher being alkaline.)

A pH of 4.0 or lower is usually lethal to pond fish, Beck said. Bass and bluegill seldom spawn in water below a pH of 5.0. Growth is slow in the pH range of 5.0 to 6.55.

Satisfactory reproduction and growth are found in water with a pH between 6.5 and 9.0.

"Excess acid in dug ponds is caused by leaching of acid out of the soil," Beck noted. "Usually sulphuric acid from the chemical make-up of excavated soils that contain sulfides leach out into the pond."

These soils kept under water do not release sulphuric acid, Beck explained. The acid forms in the soil banks and the runoff water carries the acid into the pond.

"One method of preventing this run-off water from reaching the pond is to ditch along the rims of the pond to carry acid run-off away," stated Beck.

The spoil should be spread or shaped, directing rain water away from the pond. This area, too, should be limed, fertilized and seeded with grass.

Two types of lime can be used to correct the pH level, Beck noted.

"Ground limestone used at the rate of 1,000 to 2,000 pounds per acre gives good protection from two to five years," Beck explained. "Hydrated lime should be used at not more than 50 pounds per acre."

Once the proper pH level is reached, the water should be checked several times a year.

Technical assistance to pond owners in determining whether acid conditions exist can be obtained from the Pitt SCS office.

No Miniskirted Lawyers Allowed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A ban on miniskirted attorneys in Syracuse City Court by judge Parker J. Stone has been upheld by the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court.

Carolyn R. Peck, a 27-year-old lawyer, had appealed Stone's order to her Oct. 3 that she not appear in his court until her dress was "suitable, conventional and appropriate" for an officer of the court.

Miss Peck said her hemline was a respectable five inches above her knees at the time and that she had worn miniskirts in other courts, including the Appellate Division.

Appellate Judge John H. Farnham, in denying Miss Peck's appeal, said Tuesday a judge had the right "to regulate within reasonable limits the conduct, dress and appearance of attorneys in his court."
