City Council OKs Utilities Association With EPIC Plan; Sutherland Opposes

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
The City Council approved a resolution approving a resolution of the Greenville Utilities Commission which allows the commission to associate itself with the Electric Power in Carolina (EPIC) organization. Councilman Jerry Sutherland voted against the resolution. In discussions preceding the vote, Sutherland stated he had objections against the forming of a giant cartel. "It smacks of socialism, being owned by a group of municipalities and cooperatives . . . without a public vote by the people."

with power being swapped back and forth as needed. "There is a real need for a genuine Carolina - Virginia power pool to include the states of North and South Carolina and Virginia," Waldrop stated. To Mayor Frank M. Wooten's question about the cost involved for Greenville, Waldrop commented that "it would cost us $30,000 to $40,000 over the next three years, depending on how many cities decide to join in the study plan." Waldrop pointed out that a number of steps remain before the organization becomes a reality. "This resolution does not bind or obligate any group at this time. The matter will have to go before the state utilities people and the Federal Power Commission for hearings and decisions to determine the legality of the project. These things, as you know, take time."

folk Southern Railway in connection with their share of the drainage work for the Fornes Run drainage project. Mayor Wooten, a specialist in the field of water and drainage systems, explained some of the legal points involved in the obligations of city governments and private companies in establishing divisions of obligations to jointly participate in projects such as this. Councilman Percy Cox voted against accepting the offer which Norfolk-Southern has submitted as their cost-share of the project. Funding for the city's share of this portion of the project will come from the contingency fund. The councilmen approved the purchase of a four-wheel Mobil street sweepers at the price of $13,835. This is an outright purchase price. The old sweeper, which was being considered for trade-in, will be retained by the city. Purchase of this piece of equipment will be from E.F. Craven Company, a firm dealing in heavy equipment. Hagerty explained that bid on this item of equipment is a negotiated one, rather than a competitive bid, as each manufacturer's equipment carries entirely different specifications in regards to construction, design, number of motors, and other items. For this reason, no true comparison could be made on the various equipment bids received. This will be the first four-wheel drive sweeper to be owned by the city of Greenville. Hagerty introduced two requests, not part of the official agenda. One was a request to replace the sidewalk in the vicinity of the Episco-

Senate Critics Fail To Dent Military Hardware Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of defense costs say a new era has opened in public awareness of Pentagon spending despite their crushing defeat on attempt after attempt to trim a $20-billion bill for military hardware. "We have made a good fight," said Democrat William Proxmire of Wisconsin, a leader in the two-month battle that ended Thursday night with passage of the bill. "But," he added, "this is merely the opening shot in a larger effort. The critical review will go on."

sets. "a good foundation has been laid for future inquiry." The Proxmire and Brooke comments came as the huge appropriations measure finally passed on an 81-5 vote, climaxing the most heated debate over defense spending in two decades. Although it passed virtually intact—only $70 million was chopped out—it took 39 full days of debate over the two-month period. Pentagon backers had to throw back more than a dozen attempts to delay such major programs as the Safeguard missile defense system, a new nuclear carrier, mammoth new battle tanks, squadrons of superjet fighters and a new manned bomber. The bill that finances all the United States' military hardware for fiscal 1970 now goes to the House where far easier going is expected.

The measure, however, must again go through the Senate for appropriation of the actual cash and there is a possibility the liberal band that put up the fight this time might try again on some projects. Actual amounts authorized are $19.98 billion over-all for planes, ships, missiles and vehicles, with $7.1 billion earmarked for research, development, test and evaluation. Pentagon critics were able to cut out $45.6 million for social science research and $25 million from the emergency fund. Although they lost all other attempts to chip away money for hardware, they did get written into the bill some restrictions on chemical and biological warfare materials. They also won approval of some safeguards on defense contractors, a $2.5 billion ceiling on aid to Laos and Thailand and several studies on the future role of weapons approved in the bill.

Undecided About Wait On Assembly

RALEIGH (AP) — Charles Fraser says he doesn't know if he will wait for the North Carolina General Assembly to meet before going ahead with his controversial Baldhead Island development. "I haven't had an opportunity to study the matter and make a decision," the South Carolina land developer said by telephone Thursday from Hilton Head Island, S. C. Whether Fraser would hold up to his plans to turn Baldhead into a plush resort similar to Hilton Head became a key question last week. Gov. Bob Scott said he would turn over to the next General Assembly, scheduled for January of 1971, public demands that Fraser's plans be blocked. Conservationists want the 14,000-acre island at the mouth of the Cape Fear River preserved in its natural state and Scott said he felt that way too. But, he said, the state doesn't have money to buy the island and not much prospect of getting it before the next General Assembly session. Asked about the situation Thursday, Fraser said he had been busy with other matters and traveling considerably since Scott revealed his stand a week ago. "I'm not going to set a deadline on deciding," Fraser said when asked how soon he might make up his mind. Fraser holds an option to buy the island from Charlotte businessman Frank Sherrill for a reported $5.5 million. The option expires next February. Fraser has said previously he would cooperate with any foundation or similar group which sought to acquire the island for the state and Scott suggested that such an approach be tried. There has been no announcement of the establishment of any such group, however.

Seven Semi-Finalists In Merit Scholars Program

Four boys and three girls at Rose High have been named semi-finalists in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship Program, according to Edward N. Warren, principal. William Armistead, son of Mrs. D. B. Armistead, is editor of the school paper. He attended the Governor's School, and states he spends much of his spare time writing, which he enjoys more than anything else. Karen J. Colvard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Colvard, is co-editor this year of the Rose High annual. She likes writing and art, and plays basketball. Karen attended the Governor's School. Ellen A. Daugman says that music is her great passion. She has been in the chorus and plays the piano. Ellen, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Daugman, is a member of the Future Teachers of America, and the Honor Society. She also likes traveling. Thomas Durham, whose parents are Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Durham, is on the school's wrestling team. Last year he was co-captain of the baseball team. He is president of the National Honor Society chapter at Rose High, and likes to work with statistically oriented games.

Richard Exum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Exum, states he spends most of his spare time on his favorite hobby, organic chemistry. Hard rock music also appeals to him. Richard is a member of the Science Club and the Chess Club at Rose. Williams Higgins is a sports enthusiast. He participates in basketball, golf, and baseball. Like Durham, he is fascinated by statistically oriented games, and spends considerable time working on them. He claims another favorite pastime is working and trying to save money. Higgins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Higgins. Katrina Jolly, daughter of Mrs. Brantley T. Jolly, reveals she spends a great deal of time writing and turning out art work. She is co-editor of the Rose annual this year, and attended the Governor's School. Katrina's favorite sport is basketball. These seven seniors are among 15,000 high school students throughout the nation chosen to compete for the approximately 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1970. The semifinalists are high scorers in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, given last February to more than 750,000 students in 17,250 schools throughout the nation. Semifinalists must advance to the finalist stage before they can be considered for Merit Scholarships, which will be awarded next spring. To do this, they receive the endorsement of their schools; substantiate their high performance on a second examination; and provide extensive information about their achievements and interests. National Merit Scholarships are provided by about 400 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations and other organizations and individuals. This group furnishes renewable four-year Merit Scholarships. Other National Merit Scholarships are non-renewable ones of $1,000 each. A total of 1,000 in this category are awarded, allocated by states. Names of winners will be announced on April 30, 1970. Since its inception, some 21,600 students have received Merit Scholarships in 14 annual programs, amounting to about $67 million in financial assistance.

Cancels Draft Calls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today canceled all November and December draft calls and ordered that the 29,000 men scheduled for induction in October be called over a three-month period at a monthly average of less than 10,000 men. Reading a statement to newsmen at the White House, Nixon said lessened military manpower requirements—due in part to Vietnam troop withdrawals—made it possible to cancel programmed draft calls for 32,000 men in November and 18,000 in December.

Overwhelming House Vote For Reform In Presidential Election

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment calling for the direct, popular election of the president has been approved by the House in such an overwhelming fashion that even the measure's supporters are surprised—and pleased. The size of Thursday's vote—339-70—raised backers' hopes that the proposal can win Senate approval, state ratification and become the 26th amendment to the Constitution. However Senate prospects for the proposal are uncertain. There is strong opposition in the Judiciary Committee, where the question of electoral reform is now stalled. And several weeks ago Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief supporter of the amendment, said it was 13 votes short of the needed two-thirds majority on the floor. But Bayh took heart from the House vote, which he called "encouraging, dramatic and historic."

To Probe Auto Liability Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott announced today the appointment of a special commission to investigate automobile liability insurance rates in North Carolina and report to him whether they are justified. If the committee finds the rates are justified, Scott said, he wants it to determine "how the factors that create higher rates can be altered or reversed." The governor made the announcement during a speech before the annual convention of the N.C. Adjusters Association. Scott also said that auto repair is "critically important to the consuming public in North Carolina, and it is totally unregulated." Scott said he also advocates "a concept of automobile liability coverage similar to hospitalization insurance," including immediate payment of repair and injury claims. He named State Sen. Clyde Norton, D-McDowell, as chairman of his "Blue Ribbon Commission" and Charlie B. Casper of Randolph County as vice chairman. Other members of the commission are Roy Tew of Harnett County, Jim Limer of Warren County, State Rep. Jack Rhyme, D-Gaston, Harold Odum of Davie County, Louis R. Hutchinson of Granville County, and Smoot Lyles of Cabarrus County, all designated as public members. Representing insurance interests and attorney interests will be A. S. Badger of Wake County, R. M. Mauldin of Mecklenburg County, L. F. Sonntag of Alamance County, Dallas Turner of Lenoir County, Earl H. Crumpler of Wayne County, and Eugene H. Phillips of Forsyth County. A member of Scott's staff, Fred Morrison, will represent the governor's office on the commission. The 1979 General Assembly established a commission to study auto liability rates in the state and report its findings to the next legislative session.

Cuba Claims Law On Skyjacking

MIAMI (AP) — An anti-hijack law has gone into effect in Cuba but it will not be enforced against those considered political refugees by the Castro government, Havana Radio said today. The broadcast, monitored here, said the law was signed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro and other government officials but did not say when it was enacted. The radio made no mention of President Nixon's appeal to the United Nations Thursday for international cooperation to end airplane hijacking.

Immunity Is Given Two Green Berets

LONG BINH, Vietnam (AP) — Two of the eight Green Beret men charged with murdering a Vietnamese agent are not being brought to trial because the Army is arranging for them to testify against the other six Special Forces men, military sources said today. The sources said the two men, Chief Warrant Officer Edward M. Boyle of New York City and Sgt. I.C. Alvin L. Smith Jr. of Naples, Fla., will be given immunity from U.S. prosecution, and the Army now is talking with the Saigon government to arrange for immunity at that end. The Army announced Thursday that Col. Robert B. Rheault, 43, of Vineyard Haven, Mass., commander of the Special Forces in Vietnam when the agent disappeared, and five of his staff officers would stand trial before an Army court on charges of murder and conspiracy. An Army spokesman also announced that charges against Boyle and Smith were being held in abeyance pending trial of the other cases. No explanation was given. A U.S. Army spokesman said Boyle and Smith "are no longer under confinement but are in a parole status." However, he said the two men must remain on the Long Binh base 15 miles north of Saigon "so that they will be readily available." The Army still refuses to make any details of the case public. But other sources have reported that the man killed was a Vietnamese working for the Special Forces in Cambodia who was discovered to be working for North Vietnam. The body reportedly was dumped in the South China Sea and has not been found.

$72.37 Day For Farmville Market

FARMVILLE — A total of 504,461 pounds of leaf was sold on the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday for $365,088 for an average of $72.37. Leaf grades accounted for approximately 75 per cent of sales on the Farmville market yesterday, reported Louis Williams, sales supervisor. The volume of primings and cutters showed a slight gain over Wednesday's sale, he noted. Offerings of nondescript grades was the lowest of the season. The top price paid by companies yesterday was 86 cents, Williams said, which was the highest of the season. A total of 12,526,737 pounds of leaf have been sold on the Farmville market so far this season for $9,048,593, giving an average of $72.33 for the season.

Jenkins Cites 'Keys To Destiny' In Addressing Ahoskie's C-of-C

AHOSKIE—Dr. Leo W. Jenkins says that leadership and unity of effort are the keys to a "great destiny" for Eastern North Carolina.

It is, he says, a destiny which can be achieved "if we can get leaders with the courage and the strength and the wisdom to look at our environment in its entirety," and if regional citizens "join together in a truly massive effort to help ourselves."

The remarks came Thursday night as the East Carolina University president addressed the Ahoskie Chamber of Commerce at its annual membership banquet.

Dr. Jenkins outlined several areas of potential representing what he termed "the pioneer promise" of the region.

"Our rivers and streams hold great promise for industrial expansion," he said. "Our waterways must be restored as an integral part of a vast and growing transportation system."

He continued: "We must achieve a full understanding of the sea and all its environments. This must be done through the application of science and technology. As we understand the oceans more fully, we must transfer this knowledge to the people for the benefit of mankind."

Dr. Jenkins pointed to programs already underway at ECU and its facilities at Man-to as significant steps in that direction.

Turning his attention to health needs in the East, Dr. Jenkins cited Governor Scott's concern over rural health in the state and his support of the efforts of ECU in health manpower training.

"We at ECU," Dr. Jenkins said, "maintain close communication with our region and its citizens. The message calling for additional health manpower has been received loud and clear for several years and we are doing our utmost to respond to it."

Dr. Jenkins concluded with a proposal that Eastern North Carolina citizens get out from under the "we want one, too" syndrome. "We here in the East too often say that if the Piedmont has one, whatever it may be, we want one, too."

"I feel that the time for this type of approach has passed. The time has come for the rural East to pioneer, to acquire a few things that will solicit the admiration of others so that people in other regions may well look to the rural East and say, 'We, too, would like to have one of whatever it is that we possess'."

"Let us strike out on our own. Let us lead the way."

Meeting Held By Pitt Underwriters

The opening meeting of 1969-70 for the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters yesterday was highlighted by the address of the president of State Life and Health Insurance Company of Tarboro, Larry Eagles.

Speaking on the topic, "The Makings of an Insurance Company," Eagles told the 26 members and guests present that it would take in the neighborhood of a million dollars to start a new insurance business today.

He noted that the Tarboro firm was the only company of its kind left in Eastern North Carolina.

In discussing the functions of the insurance company, Eagles pointed out the importance of a good working relationship that must exist between the firm and the agents who work for it.

Following his address, Eagles presented awards to six underwriters who had qualified for National Sales Achievement Awards. Receiving the awards were John Gurganus, Max R. Joyner, Richard Miller, W. R. Nichols, W. M. Scales and Clarke Stokes.

W. R. Nichols, president of the Pitt County Association, announced that the Life Underwriters Training Courses have been organized with classes scheduled to get underway by the third week in October. Nichols said that the location for the classes had not been determined but that they would be held in Greenville.

Area Delegates To Convention

About 38 delegates from this area will attend the three-day circuit convention of Jehovah's Witnesses in Raleigh, according to Johnnie M. Tucker Jr., local presiding minister.

The meeting will open Friday, Sept. 26 at 6:45 p.m. at the J.W. Ligon High School and continue through Sunday, Sept. 28 at 6 p.m.

The theme of the convention is "The Right Kind of Ministers." The featured event will be a public talk by C. G. Thompson, district supervisor, Sunday at 3 p.m. His address is titled "True Worship Versus the False."

Houston, Tex., was chosen in 1961 as the site of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Manned Spacecraft Center.

Princess Margaret Is On Exotic Tour To Japan

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Margaret regains some lightheartedness with an exotic tour of Japan, Cambodia and Iran.

But it is a telling sign that the fashions which her husband, Lord Snowdon, wears on the tour are more likely to create interest than the wardrobe she takes with her.

For Queen Elizabeth's sister, who just turned 39, this has been the year when the new generation of the royal family consumed the newspaper space once devoted to her.

Prince Charles, 20, the heir to the throne, held the stage as newly invested Prince of Wales. Prince Margaret's husband took the fringe of publicity for stage-managing the investiture ceremony at Carnarvon Castle.

Two less immediate but very popular members of the royal family, Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent, already perform more public duties than princess Margaret does.

Now Princess Anne, 19, the queen's daughter, has blossomed and organizers are trying to get her to launch their ship or visit her building.

As public attention moves elsewhere, Princess Margaret gets more time to relax. In the winter, she went on a Caribbean vacation with friends while Snowdon was working on his latest television project, a documentary about pet owners and their pets. Before the Far Eastern trip, she and Snowdon flew to Sardinia for a summer vacation as the guests of the Aga Khan.

They leave for Tokyo Sept. 19 and while there will help publicize British export week. From Japan, they got to Cambodia Sept. 30-Oct. 4 and on to Iran at the invitation of the Shah.

Princess Margaret has got the same tendency to plumpness that her mother developed in her 30's but she does not appear to have worried about it before the trip. She has, however, ordered a large new wardrobe in her favorite colors of brilliant pink, jade green, yellow and white. One of her new evening gowns has a modernistic design of scrolls, flowers and leaves in many different colors.

Snowdon has been king more recently because he designed his own uniform for the investiture of Prince Charles. He abandoned the medieval costume worn by previous constables of Caernarvon Castle—his official title—and took to a bottle green suit with a plain-fronted tunic coat rounded off by a Nehru collar.

His liking for bright colors and the latest fashion trends had a sequel in court when a private motorist, Gordon Bennett, sued him for causing an obstruction by parking his Aston Martin car so Bennett could not move his own.

Bennett said, "I did not recognize him at the time. He was wearing a bright array of clothes. To be quite honest, I thought he may have been a member of a 'pop' group coming from the British Broadcasting Corporation studios nearby. Someone with him was carrying a guitar."

Snowdon was fined five pounds ($12) on the parking charge.

He plans to do a considerable amount of photography on the Asian trip and has said he may incorporate the best of the pictures in a book. He already has published several large illustrated books about previous overseas travel trips, including Malta and Italy. Before his marriage to the princess in 1960, he was one of the official court photographers.

The Snowdons will be traveling with quite an entourage. The princess will be accompanied by a lady-in-waiting and a male secretary who will act as equerry, escorting her when necessary. She also takes her personal maid and her own hairdresser. Snowdon takes his secretary, a valet, and a photographic assistant.

While they are away from their Kefington Palace home, their two children, Viscount Linley, 8, and Lady Sarah Armstrong-Jones, 5, will be in the charge of their grandmother, Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother.

Tell Daughter That 'Life's Game' Isn't Over At Age 16

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you for some practical words of advice to pass on to my 16-year-old daughter. She is a fine, pretty, intelligent girl with high ideals. Popular, too, and respected by her classmates. I have instilled the "old-fashioned" virtues in her and we have had some frank discussions about sex. She's always believed that it paid off to be "nice" and went with one of the most popular boys in high school. They enjoyed a decent, fun relationship and considered themselves "in love" as most kids do. She wore his "friendship" ring and he wore hers.

She told me that lately he was trying to get her to go a little bit further than she wanted to go, but she managed to keep him in line.

Last week he gave her an ultimatum, and when she refused to cross the limit line, he dropped her and went back to his old girl. (He had told my daughter that he'd been intimate with that girl, and I have reason to believe he had. I am not knocking her, but she has had no supervision, having lived with a divorced mother who has a poor reputation and is never home herself.)

Now my daughter feels that being "good" did not pay off. In her disappointment and jealousy and through her 16-year-old eyes she's played life's game honorably and lost, while the other girl did all the "wrong" things and won. What can I say to her?

HER MOM

DEAR MOM:—You can tell her that "life's game" is hardly over at age 16, and a boy would give her such an ultimatum is no bargain. Tell her, too, that before the game is over, she'll realize that she may have lost one boyfriend, she WON much more.

DEAR ABBY: Some good friends of ours have a son who has gone the hippie route. When we inquire about their "children," (they have others who are married and one is in the service) should we inquire about their hippie son? Or should we just not mention him, like he is "dead?" We know that they are pretty sick about the life he leads.

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: Knowing that your friends would be hurt or embarrassed by the mention of their hippie son, don't mention him.

DEAR ABBY: What's wrong with me? I was crazy about this man who was wonderful company and a great guy. The only thing wrong with him was that sometimes he drank too much. Then he got quarrelsome and moody. He wanted to marry me, but I was afraid of his drinking and kept putting him off. He got tired of my stalling and married somebody else.

I hear his wife sold him on A. A. and he hasn't had a drink in a year. I can't get this guy off my mind and now I'm eating my heart out. Can you help me?

LONELY IN A CROWD

DEAR LONELY: Quit eating your heart out with thoughts of what might have been. The one who got away always looks best. And should you ever meet another "wonderful guy" whose only weakness is joy juice, try to sell him on A. A. And if you succeed, THEN marry him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STUPID": No question is stupid if it's sincere. Don't ever be afraid to ask a "stupid" question. It's better than making a stupid mistake.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Last week we were speaking of pants, slacks and shorts and we feel we really should make mention of one of the swiftest fashions to come along recently. The Almost Inevitable New Goals

Given the nation's success in landing men on the moon this summer it was almost inevitable that a decision would be made to reach for the planets. At this point, of course, no one knows for certain how space exploration will be of any worth to earthlings. However, considering the results of previous explorations by man it seems that a reasonable investment in space is a good risk. Now all that remains to be decided is how rapidly we should move in further space explorations and what projects should be given priorities. Vice President Agnew has recommended putting a man on Mars by 1986. And a four-man task force he heads recommended the development of low-cost space "shuttle buses" between earth and a low-earth orbit. It also recommended establishment of orbiting space stations that, joined together, could permit 50 to 100 men to live in space. There were other options proposed — one to advance a manned Mars mission to the early 1980s and another that would postpone any decision on a Mars mission until after 1990. The first plan seems to us to be the best for the nation to follow. We need no crash program in space that would cost untold sums of money. The planets, after all, have been there for billions of years and they will be waiting when men arrive. On the other hand in projects as intricate as those proposed for space an ultimate goal and a definite time for meeting it are needed. America can and should conduct a program of space development and exploration, while still meeting its other needs. The space program, however, should be carried out on a planned schedule with reasonable funds budgeted for it on an annual basis.

Livelier Politics For Washington Looming

If there ever were a honeymoon between Pres. Nixon and Congress it seems to have come to an end after nine months. Democratic Congressmen are upset about reports that the administration is thinking of trying to hang the "do-nothing" label on Congress. "It is not a question of a do-nothing Democratic Congress but of a noncooperative Republican administration," Speaker of the House John McCormack stated. A Democratic caucus approved a resolution criticizing the administration for failing to take a position on much of the pending legislation. We don't know whether the changing atmosphere will bring about any swifter movement in Congress, but we do believe the political scene is going to be livelier in Washington during the weeks ahead.

Basic Question Is Unanswered

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES — Reflector Raleigh Bureau RALEIGH — The subject perhaps has been belabored of late, but it remains important. And the question of the future of Bald Head, of Smith Island remains unanswered. Gov. Bob Scott promised two months ago to have more to say on the subject. Now he has spoken but is being criticized for dodging the issue and failing to take a firm, clean-cut stand on the matter. In fairness, it is appropriate to review just what the governor's position is.

Bald Head complex from its private owners. Also, Scott feels that such a price is excessive. Stated simply, state funds for such a purchase are not available at present. Neither is there very much indication that federal money would be available for such a project, which have been generous in the past are not expected to come forth with the amount approaching the asking price for the 12,000-acre island. A further complication is question about title and how much real property is involved and exact boundaries. The idea of the state taking possession by power of eminent domain, because of the value of the public resource, is ruled out because the state would be required to put into escrow money equal to the fair market value of the property.

Study—Thus, as predicted earlier, no firm decision has been made. The State Board of Conservation and Development (C&D) followed through with a resolution recommending state acquisition of the island. But C&D cannot implement such a recommendation itself. Scott left the question in the hands of the 1971 legislature—and thus left it hanging.

In doing so, he pointed out the stark fact that "even then the legislature must weigh the acquisition of the island against the many other pressing needs for capital funds in our state."

And Scott called for an impartial study by the Research Triangle Institute of possible use and potentials of Smith Island and its marshlands. He asked for this study to be conducted in time for a report to the 1971 General Assembly.

Resolution — The C & D Board's resolutions stressed planning and also conservation of Smith Island as a large, ready-made laboratory for marine research. It endorsed Scott's recommendations and directed the department to initiate and proceed with "whatever action it seems necessary and proper" to implement Scott's recommendations.

Economy Still Hot, Inflated

By JOHN CUNNIFF — NEW YORK (AP) — Each day the men in Washington whose job it is to dampen this torrid economy sort of stick their hand out the window and hope to feel a little rain. Instead, they come dangerously close to getting it burned. The economy, in other words, remains hot and inflated, and no more than a cool mist can be detected so far. Whether or not the mist foretells cooler economic weather still can't be said with certainty.

Here is the evidence so far that the slowdown policies of the Nixon administration — essentially, a budget surplus and tight money — may be having some effect: —The index of industrial production has declined for the first time in a year. This means that the nation's factories turned out less in August 1969 than a year earlier. —The increase in the number of people employed has slowed.

—Retail sales have been termed disappointing by many stores. —Housing starts continue to slip.

There the evidence seems to end, although the monetary and fiscal authorities had forecast that by now there would be a long list of indicators pointing downward. Even the evidence that does exist is weak.

—Industrial production did decline — but only by a small fraction of one per cent and only for one month. A judgement on the decline really must be reserved until another month's figures are in.

—The rise in the number of persons employed has slowed a bit — but unemployment remains very low at 3.5 per cent or so. If business is feeling a pinch it hasn't as yet reacted by laying off workers.

—Retail sales seem to be stagnated at between $29 billion and $30 billion a month — but a good Christmas season could change that.

—Housing starts have been hurt badly, but this indicator traditionally has been one of the first to turn down. It doesn't mean the others will follow.

In addition, despite forecasts of a coming downturn in the rate of inflation — now somewhere around 7 per cent or 8 per cent a year — there is no clear evidence of that downturn. Neither are interest rates retreating. Home buyers and corporations continue to pay higher and higher rates.

Perhaps the clearest indication that the inflationary psychology persists is revealed by industry's capital spending plans — the amount of money being set aside for building, renewing, expediting plants.

Private surveys by economic consultants generally agree that industry will spend even more money on capital improvements in 1970 than this year.

The Lionel Edie Co. forecasts an increase in capital spending of 7 per cent, to $75.5 billion in 1970 from about $70 billion or $71 billion this year. Pierre Rinfret estimates spending will reach $77.2 billion, a 9 per cent increase.

Rinfret calls the conclusions "startling and significant."

"They are startling because they fly in the face of the much-vaunted economic flow-down... highly significant because they indicate clearly that monetary policy has been a failure, and has not been able to slow the prime engine of expansion in the American economy."

He states flatly that the Federal Reserve and the Nixon administration must re-evaluate their approach to cooling the economy. He foresees even higher interest rates and continued inflation.

Whatever way the economy turns, if it turns at all, is going to mean that some professional reputations are going to get scorched. Anyone trying to guide or forecast the American economy these days is indeed in a hot seat.

Strength For Today

Passing Judgment One of the hardest things for any of us to do is to go through life without judging those around about us. But we can be sure what the Christian teaching is in that regard. "Judge not that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again" (Matthew 7:1, 2). In his Epistle to the Romans, Paul reaffirms that teaching as follows: "Let us not therefore judge one another any more; but judge this rather, that no man put a stumblingblock, or an occasion to fall, in his brother's way" (Romans 14:13).

No matter where we live, when we live, or under what conditions we live, there is always the temptation to pass judgment on people. Certainly a lot of people are mean and unreasonable—and perhaps we are too. Some people possess brilliant gifts and others no apparent gifts at all. We know a lot of people who talk too much (we may be in that category ourselves). Gossip always has been and always will be a two-edged sword, and there are many who love to wield that weapon. Some are born to high station in life and are never happy unless they are reminding their contemporaries of this fact. The human race may be pretty mean and selfish, but taken all in all most people are well-disposed towards friends, neighbors, and even enemies.

Life is a struggle, and the opponent with which we have to wrestle every day is ourselves.

Where Will It All End?

WASHINGTON—A lot of people are being shaken up these days by receiving unsolicited plastic credit cards. In the past the consumer had the option whether to ask for credit or not. But now in the great battle for the hearts and dollars of the American customer, the banks, oil companies and hotel chains are showing their credit cards at you whether you want them or not.

It isn't just the specter of a wife or teen-ager receiving a credit card and going berserk that bothers most American breadwinners. It's the principle of the thing, and where will it all end? What is to prevent a company that sends unsolicited credit cards to your home from sending merchandise instead?

I don't believe it is too far-fetched to see this happening in a few years.

You come home, and there on your front lawn is a complete dining room set with table, 12 chairs and cabinet. Attached to a leg of the table is a note:

Other Editors Say Wage-Price Rivets

(Christian Science Monitor) The suggestion that Washington should rivet wage and price controls on the inflation-rocketing American economy keeps bobbing up. Almost certainly, no such controls—not even guideposts—will be applied by a Republican administration. But the question persists—how halt this runaway wage and price situation without applying direct controls?

The "new economics," it has frequently been admitted, knows how to stir up the economy, get it moving, even touch off an inflation. Curbing a hot situation is much more difficult. The rulebook answers haven't worked swiftly enough.

Probably the biggest economic mistake made by the Nixon administration was to announce that it would not intervene or interfere in any wage and price decisions. This was abdication of responsibility in a key area. The administration intended to protest quietly to industry and labor about their inflationary moves, but this was a very muted "jawbone approach." Industry and labor could see that the road was clear to do just about as they pleased.

The question is, how much should an administration do, effectively, short of applying direct wage-price handcuffs? There are of course all the indirect weapons now being employed: the tax surcharge, tight money restraints, postponement of federal (and state) construction projects, budget hold-downs. At long last, these apparently are beginning to have impact.

But in the wage-price field the weapons shelf is not totally bare, certainly not in an economy where government has massive impact through quotas, contracts, subsidies, and tariffs. For one thing, there could be much more publicity. Harvard's Prof. Otto Eckstein suggests that a Washington staff publicize every wage and price decision by specific industries. The idea would be to rally public opinion against "irresponsible" decisions.

Others have suggested that government take steps to penalize industries which misbehave. As by lifting the protection of import quotas to an oil industry which raised prices. Or by switching government contracts away from a price-raising steel company, as did the Kennedy administration in the limitation of wage contracts to one year's duration, which might or might not have restraining effect.

What needs stressing is that a determined regime has many ways of applying pressures, this side of complete wage-price controls. The administration has left too large an area unpoliced if not unexplored.

"Greetings. We are happy to inform you that we consider you an excellent credit risk and, to show our faith in you, we are leaving this dining room set on your lawn. Our credit reports on you indicate that you favor Colonial furniture, and we have chosen this particular mahogany wood which we know will go well with the rest of your furnishings. If for some reason this particular dining room set does not meet your requirements, you may return it to our warehouse within 10 days, and you will not be charged for it. If it is not returned, we will assume that we made the right choice, and we shall start billing you monthly."

Or you could wake up in the morning and find parked outside your door a new "Fire-eater" with the following letter taped to the windshield: "Congratulations, you are now the owner of a new Fire-eater, the fastest, most comfortable, economical automobile on the road. Be-

Quiet Mail Purge

By WILLIAM BARTON WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, responding to public demand for a crackdown, has quietly mounted an extensive campaign against huge mail-order distributors of pornography.

As a result, 20 persons and 22 companies have been indicted or arrested during the past eight months on charges of distributing obscene materials.

A new round of prosecutions is expected in the next two weeks, and Justice Department lawyers are evaluating results from 14 investigations to determine if grand jury action should be sought.

The anti-pornography activity is a joint effort by the Justice and Post Office departments—followed two years of little action resulting from broad interpretations of Supreme Court decisions on obscenity.

But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell differed with the previous administration on interpretation of the opinions and he ordered more vigorous prosecution. In a letter to Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, Mitchell laid down his views on prosecuting smut peddlers, emphasizing the main thrust of enforcement should be against big interstate distributors.

"The prosecutive efforts of the department..." he told Blount, "are aimed at bringing to trial at the earliest possible date the large mail order distributors presently under indictment."

Mitchell presented to Congress earlier this summer two new proposals aimed at protecting minors and stopping questionable material from reaching persons who don't want to get it in the mail.

In deciding to start new test cases, Mitchell particularly emphasized the need for amplification of Supreme Court opinions which banned publications that might be "harmful to children" although not legally obscene for adults.

Department sources said about six new cases are ready for presentation to grand juries, possibly within two weeks.

Among those already being prosecuted or under investigation, the department claims, is "the vast majority of the large-scale dealers in pornographic material." The officials list "about 20 to 25 large corporations" that traffic in pornography.

The most recent indictment is against Marvin Miller, 40, who operates a publishing business in Southern California.

Public Forum

To The Editor— I've been planning for many months to write a letter similar to the one written by Mr. J.D. Messick, praising the Greenville Sanitation Department. His letter has prompted me to procrastinate no longer.

Like Mr. Messick, I have lived in several other towns and, as he says, "in no place have I found comparable service from the sanitation department."

I have thanked the men personally many times, but as a matter of public record I would like to express my appreciation for their fine service.

Mixed Blessing In Oil Bonanza

By ELMER ROESSNER The great Alaskan oil bonanza will be a mixed blessing to the state.

It will quickly pour almost a billion dollars into state coffers and, if the flow of oil reaches predicted volume, it will bring more billions to the state and even more billions into the economy. In addition to the $900 million plus the state receives for the 175,250-acre tracts in the Prudhoe Bay area, the state will get a royalty of 12 1/2 per cent on the oil produced and collect a 4 per cent severance tax on the oil, plus 90 per cent of the royalties paid on oil taken from federal lands.

This will be little compared with the money spent by the oil companies to dig the oil and transport it to market. More Inflation

There will also be another wave of inflation in the state, perhaps even greater than the wave that swept over it in World War II. Wages and prices will soar.

ELMER ROESSNER

Prices are high in Alaska, not because it costs so much to bring in goods and food—actually, costs of shipping products in have been going down—but because wages were bid up in the tremendous competition to get manpower when huge Army and Air Force installations were built in defense of a Japanese invasion. Prices and wages never subsided and, in fact, have moved up from the high wartime bases with the inflation that has afflicted the rest of the country.

It is likely that as the oil companies start operations, there will be another shortage of skills, more competitive bidding for able men, and more price rises.

Paradoxically, while the oil boom will create thousands of jobs, it will also create unemployment. The new jobs will require men from the oil fields of the older states, men with know-how and ability to stand the North Slope climate. But booms also attract thousands of men without skills and thousands who don't care for tough life in the wilds. Some will find work in the expanded economy; others will become public charges.

Sin Cities, Too Other aspects of the boom will be: —The rise of "sin cities," new settlements built around bars, brothels and honky-tonks designed to cut in on the high wages.

—A boom in the bush-piloting business. With few roads and vast distances, Alaska has largely relied on small planes to get from place to place. The boom in the north will require more pilots, more tax planes.

—A surge of oil and related swindles. It always happens in booms. Promoters are probably on the ground already. Operations won't be confined to Alaska, but will appear in the other states and Canada.

—A sharp rise in litigation. Booms like this breed controversy. Disputes will rise not only in the oil fields, but in the rest of the economy,

Beatles Sing Of Love For Queen

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles have come up with an affectionate singing tribute to Queen Elizabeth II, who gave them the Order of the British Empire in 1968.

In the quartet's latest long-playing record, out Sept. 26, Paul McCartney voices a song with the punch line "Her Majesty's a pretty nice girl, so some time I'm gonna make her mine. Oh yeah, some day I'm gonna make her mine."

A Beatle press agent said the Beatles "are all monarchists" and that "Paul sang that knowing the Queen would enjoy it." He said a copy of the record would be sent to Buckingham Palace.

A Palace spokesman commented: "I don't think she listens to a great deal of pop music."

Back Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Debbie Reynolds, who quit her new television series because the network ran a cigarette commercial, accompanying its premiere, has decided to carry on after all.

She said Thursday NBC had explained to her it could not jettison such commercials because it had a contractual commitment with the American Brands Co.

The show had its premier Tuesday night. Miss Reynolds quit the next day, citing the cigarette ad.

"I was especially concerned because of the number of children viewing early time-slot programs," she said.

Her contract calls for 24 shows, of which 10 have been taped.

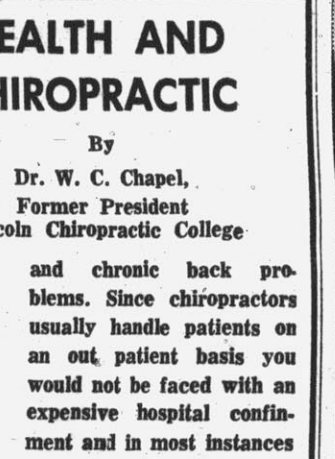

HEALTH AND CHIROPRACTIC

By
Dr. W. C. Chapel,
Former President
Lincoln Chiropractic College

Q. I have thought of consulting a Doctor of Chiropractic for a chronic back problem that has caused me much pain and loss of time during the past several years, but I understand that chiropractors are very expensive — what would be your advice?

A. My advice would be to consult a D. C. at once. As you know, chiropractors spend a great deal of time studying the spine and the soft tissues of the back and generally have excellent results in treating both acute and chronic back problems. Since chiropractors usually handle patients on an out patient basis you would not be faced with an expensive hospital confinement and in most instances your loss of work time would be reduced considerably. In as much as the fees usually charged by a Doctor of Chiropractic are the same or less than those charged by practitioners in other fields, it would seem to me that you'd save money.

BIRTHDAY — James Cash Penney observed his 94th birthday Tuesday. He is founder of the department store chain bearing his name. He says young by maintaining a strong interest in the world around him. It was a spacecraft such as this which carried the Apollo 11 astronauts, Armstrong and Aldrin, to the surface of the moon.

The Worry Clinic Take Time To Assist Learning Horse Sense

Jay gave his young cousins a very valuable lesson concerning canoes and rowboats. It is such practical habits that create self-confidence among children and even may save their lives. So take time to help your kiddies acquire "horse sense" and social poise, as by the booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE K-555: Jay Mitman, aged 17, is an Eagle Scout and a veteran newspaper carrier. Last summer he took our daughter Judy's 3 kiddies for a ride in his canoe.

They had on their life preservers, so Jay deliberately upset the canoe, throwing them out into the water.

Like the usual novice, they started to paddle to the nearby shore.

"That's not what you should do," Jay warned them. "Grab your overturned boat and hang on to it for support."

"For when you don't have on a life preserver and are far from shore, your overturned canoe or rowboat will keep you afloat."

Later that night, 9-year-old Matthew proudly explained to me the proper technique when a person's boat or canoe turns over.

"You shouldn't try to swim to shore," he added, "but should grab the boat and hold on." I nodded sagely.

"That sounds like a very smart idea," I added. "Where did you ever learn it?"

"Jay told us," pertainly spoke 8-year-old Peter.

"Yes, he upset the canoe while we were in it," added 7-year-old Debby.

It is these practical bits of information that build up self-reliance in a child.

When we go on a picnic or start a fire in the fireplace of our living room, Matthew hovers around, eager to strike the match.

So I let him have the pad of safety matches.

Like the usual novice, he burned his fingers! For after the flame was ignited, he still held the match head downward, so the rising heat soon singed his fingers.

"When you strike a match," I thus warned him, "hold it like a candle, with the flame on top and your fingers below."

He tried another match and learned this simple stunt.

All of our experience with life is merely the mathematical sum of the thousands of simple practical habits we learn about the myriad situations that we shall confront.

A confident child usually has more habits of successful adjustment than does the timid child.

But sometimes the child

Qualifies After Two Haircuts

HERMON, Maine (AP) — After two haircuts that brought him in line with school regulations hair length, Willard Kitchen was allowed to return to Hermon High School, Wednesday, but not students who walked out in support of him.

About 90 of the school's 450 students' left school as a protest when Kitchen was barred from classes. Principal Caswell Wood said they would not be allowed to return unless accompanied by their parents.

Four People Die In Head-On Crash

YEMASSEE, S. C. (AP) — A Pennsylvania couple was killed and a Florida couple was injured in a head-on collision on U. S. 17 near Yemassee.

Killed were John Duronio, 62, of Pittsburg, Pa., and his wife, Isabelle B. Duronio, 59. Ernest Hamann of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., was in critical condition at the Savannah, Ga., General Hospital. His wife is in fair condition in the hospital at Hampton, S. C.

Coroner J. L. Holland of Hampton County said there will be an inquest to determine how and why the collision occurred.

with the most habits may still die early if he gets into a dangerous situation.

For example, if your youngster has 2,000 habits whereas his pal has only 1,000, but your child can't swim while his pal's 1,000 includes the ability to swim, that may lead to your child's untimely death, if they both fall into deep water!

So teach kiddies as many useful habits as possible, not only for their self-confidence but also for their safety.

Take time to play with them and help them develop reasonable skill at the games of their area, including baseball, football, tennis, etc.

And be sure you get them into the Scouts the YMCA and give them a week each summer at a church summer camp. To help give them social as-urance, send for my "Formula for Easy Conversation," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

East Carolina Opening Season Against ETSU

East Carolina University opens its football season Saturday night in Johnson City, Tenn., and the Pirates are hoping for a reversal of last year's game.

For in that game, on the same field, the Pirates suffered their sixth loss in 10 starts last year, 17-7. The sluggish Bucs were unable to get much going in the game, and it ended what was a dreary season for East Carolina.

This time around, the Bucs are looking for a good start to what they hope will be a return to good football and winning ways.

"We weren't really alert last time," Coach Clarence Stasavich said of his Pirates. "We lost four fumbles, had two passes intercepted, several bad snaps. We just weren't ready to play. We were handicapped in preparations due to exam week. There was a poor mental attitude, too."

This year, the Pirates feel they have a better outlook on the game. "The seniors want this one badly," the coach said.

East Tennessee has certain advantages in the game over the Pirates. They already have a game, and a win, under their belts. They dropped neighboring Appalachian, 18-16, last Saturday. And school has not yet started at East Tennessee, so the Buccaneers have had another week of two-day drills, while ECU's Pirates have been on one-day for two weeks.

"They are a little bigger than we are," Stasavich said. "But their personnel is about the same as it was last year. They have nearly all the same people back on offense, with only three new people, a guard, a tackle and a fullback. On defense, they have a new tackle and a safety."

The fullback job was split between two sophomores in the Appalachian game last week, Mike Roberts and Andy Brooks. Both picked up 32 yards in the game.

The workhorse, however, was a halfback, Mike Young. He averaged 6.5 yards a carry against Appalachian. One of the ends, John Gibson, caught four passes for 54 yards.

The quarterbacking situation appears up in the air. Sophomore Richard McGlothlin started the game, and played most of the way. But when East Tennessee fell behind in the second half, veteran Larry Graham came in and moved the Bucs back into the lead. McGlothlin hit on two of five passes with one interception while at the helm. Graham hit on six of 16, but didn't have any picked off, gaining 102 yards.

"They are a good strong inside running team," Stasavich said. "They are fairly quick."

The defense apparently found itself in the second half of the opener. Appalachian was able to move the ball fairly well in the first half of the game last Saturday. But in the second half yardage was at a premium for them, as they got less than 50 yards in total offense the rest of the game.

Stasavich also noted that the Bucs have good punting. "They get the ball high, and Appalachian wasn't able to return any last week."

In the Pirate camp, there are still some question marks. "Our top passer, Jack Patterson, is still not ready," Stasavich said. "Mike Boaz is questionable due to an injury. William Mitchell is back at work, but he has missed a lot of practice. Gerald Wrenn won't be able to play, and George Wheeler and Tim Ilderton have been slowed by injuries."

"We have made a lot of improvement in our passing," Stasavich said. "The protection is better. Our running game is not what it should be, mainly due to sophomore linemen. The assignments have still not been mastered, and we'll probably make some mistakes."

Stasavich said there would be three sophomores in the offensive line, Ronnie Peed, John Hollingsworth and Garland Ballard.

Two more will be in the defensive lineup, Monty Kiernan and Rusty Scales. "I thought the defense looked better last Saturday, but a lot will depend on the enthusiasm they have for the game," Stasavich said. "We have a long way to go before we are a good team technically."

The kicking game of the Pirates appears to be sound. Billy Wightman will be kicking for the third year, with Steve Davis handling the kickoffs and placements.

"I think we are in good physical condition," the coach said. "This is a mental thing too. We have had a large number of players working after practice on conditioning, so I think it will be okay."

"I feel they are going to be able to score, but I think we'll have a better day than we had last year, mainly because of preparation."

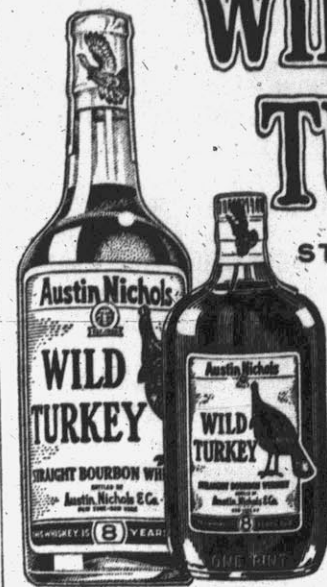

The probable starting lineup for the game on offense finds Richard Corrada and Tom Pulley at ends, Peed and Ballard at tackles, Butch Britton and Hollingsworth at guards, Terry Edmundson at center, Dwight Flanagan at wingback, Dave Brill at blocking back, Wightman at tailback, and Butch Colson at fullback.

On defense, the Pirates will start Danny Wilmer and Roger Bost at ends, Walter Adams and George Wheeler at tackles, Jamie Louis at middle guard, Paul Weathersbee and Kiernan at linebackers, Scales at rover, Stu Garrett and Tommy Bul-Whitley at safety. Game time is 8 p.m.

Mets Win; Giants Climb Back On Top In The West

By MIKE BRYSON

Associated Press Sports Writer On a cold September night in Canada, Manager Gil Hodges and his New York Mets were thankful they had their Tom Seaver around to keep them warm.

The brilliant young right-hander kept the red-hot Mets pennant drive burning brightly with a five-hit shutout in a 2-0 victory over Montreal Thursday night that helped New York boost its lead back to five games in the National League east.

"I had to work fast in the last couple of innings because I started to feel the cold," said Seaver of the 50-degree weather that was almost as cold as the Mets' only serious challenger, the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs dropped a 5-3 decision to Philadelphia in an afternoon game—their 12th setback in 15 games—in falling six games back of New York in the loss column. The Mets' magic number for clinching the divisional title was reduced to eight.

Meanwhile, the West Division race remained as scrambled as ever as Los Angeles knocked Atlanta out of first place with a 5-2 victory and San Francisco took over the top spot by beating Houston 9-3.

The Giants, however, hold only a half-game lead over the Dodgers and the Braves, while fourth-place Cincinnati is just two games off the pace despite a 7-1 loss at San Diego. St. Louis nipped Pittsburgh 8-7 in the other NL game.

In the American League, Kansas City stopped Oakland 6-1; California defeated Minnesota 6-2; Cleveland edged Detroit 6-4; New York slipped past Washington 4-2; and Baltimore won the first game of a double-header 6-4, before losing 6-0 to Boston.

Seaver struck out nine in increasing his season total to 200 and kept the five hits well spaced in adding another chapter to the Mets' fantastic pitching during their pennant drive.

Seaver, who won his eighth straight pushing his record to 23-7, and Jerry Kosmon, who shutout the Expos the night before, have been the mainstays of a staff that has now produced 11 shutouts in New York's last 35 games.

Met pitchers haven't yielded a home run in the last 22 games. During that span, the Mets have won 29 of 36 games—including 13 of their last 14—in roaring from 9½ games back of the Cubs on Aug. 13 to their present comfortable lead.

"They're determined. They believe in themselves," said

Rampant Cubs Lost To Wilson

Rose High School's junior varsity lost its opener last night, falling to Wilson's Fike High School, 26-6.

Jeff Skinner scored the only Rose touchdown, taking the ball over from the 15 yard line. The Rampant Cubs travel to Jacksonville next week.

Sports Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Willie Burton of New York scored a 10-round decision over Al Banks of Dallas Thursday night. Burton, who was penalized four times for low blows, weighed 190 and Banks 195.

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Garnet Bailey, third-year professional from Lloydminster, Sask., has signed his 1969-70 contract with the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

SEATTLE (AP) — Andy Kendall of Portland, Ore., the world's third-ranked light heavyweight, and unranked Larry Buck, 173, of Seattle fought to a draw before a crowd of 3,415 in the Seattle Coliseum Thursday night. Kendall weighed 176.

Hodges. "They're playing better baseball defensively. We're getting good pitching and they have developed confidence and a great attitude."

Ed Kranepool gave Seaver all the help he needed with an RBI single in the first and a solo homer in the sixth, his 11th of the season.

About the only one who isn't conceding the title to the Mets is Cub boss Leo Durocher.

"I'm not going to give up, I'll tell you that," barked Durocher after Cookie Rojas' homer in the eighth touched off a three-run rally that gave the Phils their victory. "This thing isn't over yet. We just have to go out and challenge the Cardinals (the Cubs' next foe) and play like hell."

Jack Hiatt slammed a three-run homer and a run-scoring single to power the Giants past Houston. But the Giants had to wait some eight hours, until the Dodgers beat Atlanta, to claim solo possession of first place.

Rookie Ted Sizemore's bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning and Jim Lefebvre's single keyed a four-run Dodger sixth that produced the triumph. Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer in the second, his 21st, was the only damage off winner Don Sutton, 17-15.

Rookie Clay Kirby, 6-9, scattered nine hits in beating Cincinnati for the third time in five decisions this season.

Jose Arcia backed him with four hits, including an RBI double that touched off a six-run Padre fifth. Roberto Pena had a two-run single and Nate Colbert an RBI single, while pitcher Dennis Ribant walked in one run and another scored on a passed ball in the big inning.

Ted Simmons stroked a run-scoring single after a two-out error by Pittsburgh first baseman Al Oliver to finish off a two-run ninth that gave St. Louis victory over the Pirates.

Cross-Country Season Starts

East Carolina University's cross-country team will open its season Saturday in Charleston, S.C., against Baptist College.

Injuries and conditioning are hurting the Pirates right now. Ken Voss, Neil Ross, Gary Allen, Dennis Smith, Lannie Davis, Rusty Carraway, Rickie McDonald are all looking good at this point, but Coach Bill Carson feels that the team is not as advanced as last year.

Jimmy Kidd, despite an injury, plans to compete in the meet.

Baptist has an improved team this year, with added strength. Carson looks for a tough meet from the team, despite the fact that the Bucs have handled Baptist with ease in the past.

Meet The Pirates

John Hollingsworth, left, and Butch Britton are two members of this year's East Carolina University football team. Hollingsworth, a 6-1, 200-pound sophomore from Fayetteville, showed marked improvement during the spring drills, and worked his way into a starting position. He is slated to see action at the offensive tackle spot. Britton, a 6-2, 194-pound junior from Chincoteague, Va., was an end at the start of last year, but was shifted to guard at mid-season. He is expected to see a lot of work at the offensive guard position, and is a possible starter. East Carolina opens its season Saturday night in Johnson City, Tenn., against East Tennessee State University.

It wasn't what you'd call a disaster, but it wasn't an overwhelming success either.

Things went smoothly enough last week on the high school football scene, 5-2, but when the college teams took over on Saturday . . . Ouch! That turned out a blistering 3-4, as two games weren't upsets. Fortunately, one of the upsets were picked, but the rest . . .

All that left this column with an 8-6 week, and dropped the season average to its lowest in years. A bad week early in the year hurts.

Oh, well. Maybe this week . . .

Starting off, Rose High School goes over to Wilson to meet the tough Cyclones of Fike High. Fike demolished Wilmington Hoggard last week, while Rose beat Sanderson. The Rampants will do better, but the Cyclones are too tough for them. Wilson to win this one.

The difference between a Cyclone and a Tornado is only relative, and Ayden's Tornadoes should be ready to bounce back. Manteo is their visitor this week, and the conference title is at stake, as it will be in the other two Tidewater games Ayden plays. Ayden should be ready to bounce back from its loss to Swansboro last week, so I'll return as a Tornado-booster.

Robersonville is at Farmville in an area squabble. The Rams found themselves last week, and the Red Devils also picked up their first win. The fireworks could be popping in this one, but Farmville could come away with the win.

Aycock of Pikeville visits Greene Central, a surprising team thus far. The Rams might find the going a little tougher in this one, if Aycock's quarterbacks are in good shape. Greene Central has probably improved enough to take it.

Edenton and Williamston collide in the game that might mean the Albemarle Conference title. Both are unbeaten in two starts, and it could be one of the top games of the year. I'll go with Edenton to take this one.

Grifton goes to Bath in a Tobacco Belt game. The Bulldogs are also unbeaten, while Bath is a team that is coming on strong. I'll have to stick with the Bulldogs to take this one, however.

Turning to the collegiate scene, most of the teams are opening their season this week.

Prime on the list is the East Carolina - East Tennessee State game. The Pirates lost to the Buccaneers last year on the same field, and would like to regain their lost pride. East Tennessee has a game under its belt, and won't be making those first game mistakes. The rest of the experts seem to see this one as a toss-up. I'll tick with East Carolina to come away with the prize.

Elsewhere in the Southern, The Citadel should take Lehigh, Davidson will down Guilford, Furman will nip Presbyterian, Richmond will edge by Mississippi State, Rice will down VMI, and Cincinnati will beat William & Mary.

Over in the Atlantic Coast Conference, I'll pick Auburn over Wake Forest, Virginia in an upset of Clemson, South Carolina over Duke, West Virginia over Maryland, State over Carolina.

And to round things out, watch out for a VPI upset of Alabama, and Arizona State taking Minnesota.

Season's record: 12 right, 6 wrong, 66.7 per cent.

Favorites Set To Open Southern Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Richmond and The Citadel, two of the ranking teams in the Southern Conference, open their football seasons Saturday afternoon by traveling in opposite directions — and facing opposite kinds of problems.

Richmond's SC champions make their bow at Mississippi State, where their No. 1 job will be to stop the passing of All-Southeastern Conference quarterback Tommy Pharr, who pitched for 1,838 yards last year.

The Citadel opens at Lehigh, and on the eve of battle the principal task confronting the Bulldogs is how to stop the running of tailback Jim Petrillo, who ran for 819 yards in 1968 and scored 11 touchdowns.

Quite obviously, considering the caliber of the opposition, The Citadel's chances for success are brighter. The Bulldogs beat Lehigh 28-12 last year and should repeat the triumph. Richmond's prospects against a lowly but improving SEC team are fair, but not especially bullish.

The two Saturday afternoon games are part of a seven-game program that will involve all Southern Conference teams. The other five play at night with assignments of varying difficulty.

Davidson's Wildcats, who after a 3-6 record a year ago may be ready to become a winner, send star passer Gordon Slade and receivers Mike Kelly and George Hannen out for an expected victory at Guilford. East Carolina, anticipating a rebound from a 4-6 season, has a tough test at East Tennessee State, which returns virtually rates 17-7 in a 1968 finale.

Long-Range Weather Forecasts Can Help

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — A trend in recent years to cool weather in the Southeast will be broken this winter. In fact, the entire Middle and South Atlantic region will have a mild and open winter.

Inc. to 60,000 doctors. And many business consult Dr. Irving Krick of Palm Springs, Calif. Often, however, the attitude of business is one of complete ignorance. "Businessmen don't know how or to what extent their businesses are operationally weather sensitive," says Dr. Hurd C. Willett, professor emeritus of meteorology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It is Willett who signed his name to the forecast for the lower East Coast states, now being distributed to clients of a newly formed, Boston-based company called Statistical Weather Information. "Even those who subscribe to long range forecasts misuse them, perhaps turning them over to the comptroller," said John Prohaska, a meteorologist. Willett, Prohaska and Dr. Donald DaVorkin, all with M.I.T. backgrounds, are founders of SWI.

ONE IDEA OF GOD
At the entrance to the valley where they buried their kings an ancient and industrious people carved the Sphinx.
This was their idea of God: the body of a lion, suggesting power... the face of a man, suggesting personality... the whole amazing image suggesting their belief in a MIGHTY deity who could be KNOWN.
