Memories Of Day In May 44 Years Ago Stirred By Metal Box

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Memories of a day in May in 1925 came back vividly to a number of Greenville citizens last night. After more than 44 years, a small metal box, filled with mementoes of school days of the mid-twenties, was opened in the presence of more than 50 people at the Third Street School.

The box, which was originally embedded in the foundation stone of the building that was long known as Greenville High School, was placed there in ceremonies on May 6, 1925, th day of dedication.

"It was quite a thrill to me to be there at the time the box was opened. I recall vividly when the box was saled and placed in the cornerstone," stated William H. Taft, Sr., who was senior class treasurer. "I did not think then I would be among the group present when the box was opened."

The two story brick building, which suffered extensive damage by fire early this year, has this month been demolished.

Junius H. Rose, who was Superintendent of Greenville City Schools in 1925, waso n hand for the opening last night and presided over the informal ceremony..

When George Tyndall finished opening the sealed metal box, a varied group of items were discovered to be in excellent condition, as fresh as when they were first placed there.

A paper with signatures of the faculty members; one with the signatures of the 55 seniors graduating that year; and one with the signature of Ros and members of the Board of Education, were among the papers included in the box.

Other items were copies of The Daily Reflector dated May 5, 1925, which carried a story of the forthcoming dedication the next day; copies of the News and Observer; and a written statement by Rose concerning the creation in 1903 of the Greenville Greater School District.

Taft said, "It is significant, that after 44 years, the four class officers are all still living in the area, three in Greenville and one is Wilson.'

Beside class treasurer Taft, the other members are: Miss Annie Shields Van Dyke, president; W. B. Bost, vice-president; all of Greenville— and Mrs. Frances Norman Starling, secretary, who now lives in Wilson.

In addition to Taft and Bost, other 1925 seniors present for the ceremony were: John Hassell, Mrs. Lilah Nelson Smith, Mrs. Elizabeth Edwin Johnson, Mrs. Alice Foley Jones, Mrs. Effie Mae Taylor, and Lindsay Wilkerson.

One member of the Board of Education in 1925, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, was present for the box opening ceremony. A number of Greenville citizens, sons and daughters of board members at that time, were on hand to represent their parents. These included Hugh Winslow and Effie Mae Winslow Taylor, children of J. E. Winslow; William Whedbee, son of Judge W. I. Whedbee; Mrs. Annie Lee Hardee, daughter of W. E. Hooker; D.S. Spain, Jr., son of D. S. Spain; and J.T. Little, whose father, James L. Little, was chairman of the board in 1925.

Two of the teachers at the old high school of 1925 are still living in Greenville — Mrs. Maude D. Brown and Mrs. J. F. Arthur. Mrs. Bowen was among the people on hand last night.

Rose said "I want to pay tribute to the efforts of Edwin (Snag) Clark in salvaging the cornerstone which contained the box. He stayed on the alert to make sur it would be saved."

Earlier, Colonel A E Bubber, Executive Director of the Commission, had taken steps to insure that the demolition firm would save the foundation stone.

The box and its contents have been turned over to Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood for ev ntual decision as to where these historic mementoes will be desplayed.

Automation 'Threat' Stressed

Four-Day Work Week Urged As Labor's Goal

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — The steelworkers' union president, I. W. Abel, today urged an all-out labor campaign for a four-day week, declaring that automation will soon threaten the jobs of millions of Americans.

Industry already has the know-how to replace assembly line workers with computers and the next economic downturn could permanently wipe out jobs on a massive scale, Abel said.

"I would suggest that we strive for a work week of four days with work-free weekends of three days," Abel told a convention of the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department.

He said that if the labor movement gives it top priority, it can win the shorter work week in four years with no cut in pay by bargaining with industry and lobbying in Congress.

"Spurred by tax concessions. industry throughout our nation has been modernizing the means of production at a fantastic rate," Abel said.

The impact in jobs has not been great so far because strong economic demands for goods has caused industry to keep operating less efficient equipment at the same time, he said.

But, he added, "the next downturn in our economy will have a far greater impact on those we represent than ever before in history."

"This is because we will experience, during the next recession, the influence of a new force capable of overturning almost every aspect of our modern way of life. I am referring to automation," Abel said.

Abel said a four-day week would create more jobs by spreading the work, help reduce health and fatigue problems in industry and make workers more productive. On another subject, Abel joined AFL-CIO President George Meany in criticizing the Nixon administration for delaying school desegregation in the South.

Meany said Wednesday the Nixon administration was dragging its feet on school desegregation while at the same time trying to force AFL-CIO building trades unions to set up racial membership quotas.

Barricades Restored In Londonderry After New Ulster Fighting

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — Barricades went up again in Bogside today as police and troops moved up reinforcements after one man was killed and six injured in a stone-throwing clash between Protestant and Roman Catholic crowds.

British army troops built barbed wire checkpoints around The Diamond, a square on the edge of a Protestant district near the corner where William King, a 55-year-old Protestant, was killed early in the day.

The street fight occurred less than 100 yards from the county court house where a three-man tribunal headed by a British judge is taking testimony concerning the rioting last month in which nine died.

The violence followed growing pressure from civil rights activists among Northern Ireland's one-third Catholic minority for reforms in job allocations, housing and local election rules.

Headquarters of the Royal Ulster Constabulary—the 90 per cent Protestant force accused by Catholics of taking the Protestant side in the riots—declined to say how many men they were moving into Londonderry.

An army spokesman said members of the 500-strong 2nd Grenadier Guards were deployed in the city after returning from Belfast. He said there are about 1,100 troops in the Londonderry area.

Street barriers went up during the night in both Protestant and Catholic sections of Northern Ireland's second city, a shirt-making center and a centuries-old Protestant stronghold. Three were visible near The Diamond this morning, but residents said half a dozen more had been erected.

Reports said King saw his son lying injured between Catholic and Protestant mobs advancing to battle and pushed his way past British troops to help him. A wedge of 50 troops drove at gunpoint through the mob and broke it up, but King was dead and six persons were treated in hospitals for wounds.

Hanoi Keeps Rigid Stance In Parleys

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge called on Hanoi today to stop belittling American troop withdrawals from Vietnam and to start reciprocating by pulling out some of its forces.

Lodge said President Nixon's order to pull out 60,000 U.S. soldiers by mid-December "constitutes a significant step," and should be taken seriously.

He told the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at the 35th session of the Paris peace talks: "The overriding fact represented by the removal of these forces is that the trend of our force strength is decisively down.

"Your side knows this," he added.

Lodge said the United States was willing to follow a timetable for full troop withdrawal. All that America is asking, he added, is that North Vietnam "take out its forces from South Vietnam, Laosa nd Cambodia . . . in accordance with a timetable."

North Vietnam's spokesman told the meeting that President Nixon's call for world pressure on Hanoi to settle the war was condemned to failure.

"It is obvious that Mr. Nixon's words, not unlike those of a thief crying 'stop thief,' can persuade no one," Ambassador Ha Van Lau told the 35th session of the deadlocked peace talks.

"On the contrary," Lau continued, "they further expose his odious maneuver before world public opinion."

The way to end the war, Lau said, is for the United States to "end its aggression and withdraw all its troops from South Vietnam, without posing any conditions. This is the key point for the settlement of the Vietnam problem."

Bloodmobile Fell Short Of Target

The Bloodmobile at the Moose Lodge Wednesday netted a total collection of 129 units, with nine prospective donors rejected.

"It was still short of our quota of 165 units," said Douglas Morgan, chairman of the Pitt County Bloodmobile. "We had hoped to fill our quota, and possibly to go over a little."

Morgan commented that "personnel of the Greenville Utilities Commission was the largest body of people to turn out for giving blood. Their contribution really made a big difference in our collection."

Noting that no drive was made during the month of August, Morgan said, "It is really essential that we get more in our future collections. Right now we are not getting as much blood as we used." He also referred to the fact that during August 162 units were used at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Yesterday's drive for 165 units had been primarily slated to replace the large amount used in August "which is always a peak usage month," Morgan remarked.

Volunteers from the Women of the Moose and the Greenville Service League were on hand to help with telephoning, paper work, and providing snacks for donors.

"Our next drive is scheduled on October 29-30 at the campus of East Carolina University," Morgan said.

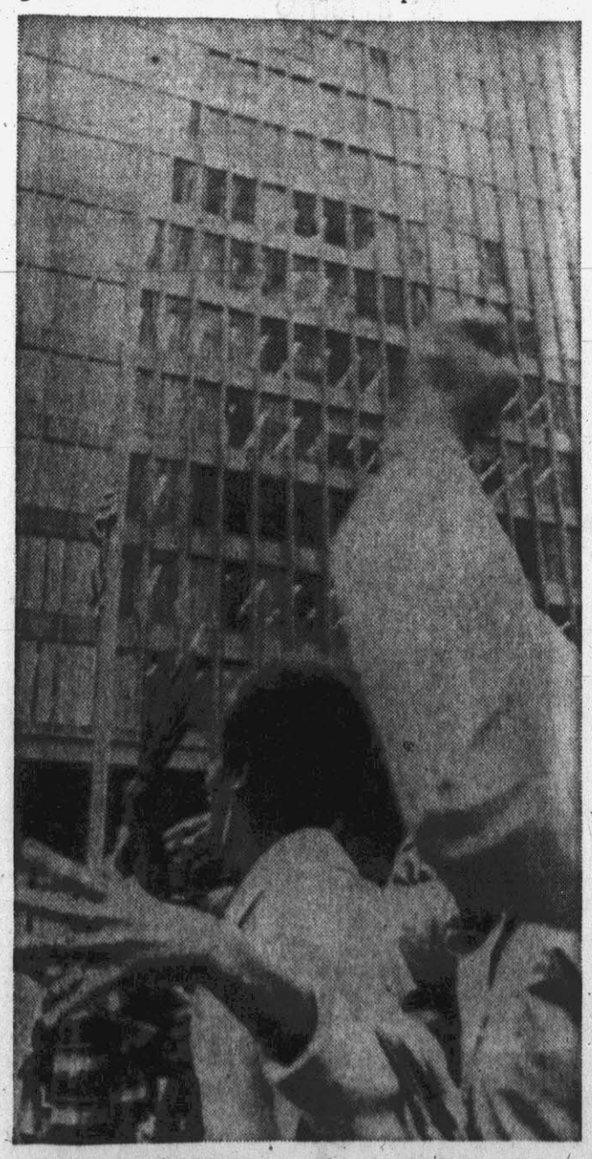
Chicago Melees Take Spotlight From Trial

By MARGARET SCHER

CHICAGO (AP)—Jury selection continues today in the triel of eight men charged with conspiring to foment violence during the 1968 Democratic National Convention but attention continues to be focused on Chicago's streets where 19 demonstrators were arrested and two injured Wednesday during melees with police.



ON THE OUTSIDE — The clenched fist of defiance is raised outside the Federal Building in Chicago where eight persons are on trial for conspiracy to riot. (AP Wirephoto)

Also injured in a series of melees near the U.S. Courthouse Wednesday, first day of the trial, were nine policemen and two city prosecutors.

Mayor Richard J. Daley accused supporters of the defendants of trying to provoke a showdown with the authorities.

"A policeman is supposed to be cool, but how cool can you get?" the mayor asked at a news conference. "There is no doubt there is a direct attempt at confrontation."

On today's court agenda was continued questioning before Judge Julius J. Hoffman of prospective jurors to try the case in U.S. District Court.

Security forces that included deputy federal marshals brought in from other cities guarded the courthouse.

Fighting flared Wednesday when about 700 protesters returning from a rally in Grant Park—scene of the convention-week violence—threw rocks and bottles while police swung clubs.

Later, the protesters lined up at the one exit left open in the federal building to form a gauntlet along which police, secretaries, lawyers and officials were forced to walk as they left for the day.

Earlier, Judge Hoffman had ordered four absent defense attorneys to show up in court or face arrest. They were Gerald B. Lefcourt of New York, Michael J. Kennedy of San Francieco, Dennis J. Roberts of New York and Michael E. Tigar of Los Angeles.

Defense attorneys move to have the trial shifted from the courtroom to a site that could accommodate more observers in order, they said, to insure "a constitutional, public trial."

Hoffman denied the motion, commenting: "I'm obligated to sit here in the U.S. courtroom, not in an international amphitheater.'

Wingless Craft Hits 920 MPH

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — In its 25th flight test, the HL10 lifting body reached a top speed of 920 miles an hour and an altitude of 7,900 feet. The rocket-powered, wingless craft is being tested by the space agency as part of a program to develop manned spacecraft capable of shuttling men and equipment between earth and orbiting space stations.

Four Items Acted On At Commission Meet

Four items were acted on by members of the Planning and Zoning Commission at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night.

Th final plat of Westhaven Subdivision, located just south of the city limits off Highway 11, across the road and not far from Pitt Technical Institute, was approved. City Manager Harry Hagerty, suggested however, that W. G. Dunn, the developer, be contacted with a recommendation that consideration be given to a name change.

Pointing out that Greenville already has a Westwood and an Easthaven, he felt that a Westhaven might be confusing. It was also noted that g ographically the area is south, not west.

A small section, consisting of seven lots, known as Section No. 3, of the Red Oak Subdivision, was approved as part of the overall subdivision. This section was not included in the preliminary plat as it was not owned by the but has been recently purchased.

A proposal set forth by the Board of Adjustment to permit construction of apartments in the Commercial Downtown Fringe area as a special use was consid red. After discussion, the Planning and Zoning members took action to recommend to the City Council that City Ordinance 322 be amended to special use in the CDF district.

By making apartments in this one special insteadz of a permitted use, each application for an apartment construction will automatically come before the Board of Adjustments for review.

A recommendation was also approved to present to the City Council a development request regarding Public Housing Project N.C. 22-5, which is a 19-acre portion of Moyewood, located in the northeast section of this development.

The commission is recommending that development be approved, provided that compliance is made with city ordinance 297, which stiputales that adequate recreational area be set aside in any housing development within the city.

Th resignation of Dr. J.E. Clement, a member of the commission, was accepted. A motion was made to have a letter of appreciation written to Dr. Clement. In his letter, Dr. Clement noted that the pressure of his work did not permit him to continue in this capacity, but he would always be delighted to serve the city in any capacity in which time permitted him to do so.

Home Economist Speaks At County Council Meet

Mrs. Robert Powell of Clinton was keynote speaker at the meeting of the Extension Homemakers County Council held Wednesday afternoon.

A home economist, Mrs. Powell worked in Colombia, South America for seven years. She was Home Economics Extension advisor to the Colombian Ministry of Agriculture, working with a team of extension workers.

She worked in training Colombian women in extension philosophy and methods "because there were not enough Colomgian home economists."

Mrs. Powell started out working in a pilot project in one state. A national organization was set up and programs were begun in the other 17 states.

"Towards the end of my stay, I worked with a state university in establishing a department of home economics, which was actually the first Spanish speaking department in South America," she said.

Mrs. Powell was assigned to work in South America by the U.S. Agency for International Development. She worked with Colombian women in making the proposal for the Villa Maria Project, a child development and care center.

It provides a place for working mothers to leave children. It also serves as a laboratory for home economics and medical students. The center provides for research and study and community dvelopment.

"I saw a need for a home economics program and I found the Colombian women desired a better way of life and improved living. They were very appreciative of help given to them. The extension program in Colombia was the same as in the United States — an educational program to help people help themselves to improve their family, home and community living," she added.

Mrs. Powell worked with young people and adults.

"This was one of the greatest challenges of my life and also one of the most satisfying works. I went back to Colombia this summer on vacation and found many changes had been made in the five years I had been away. Each change indicated progress," she continued.

Mrs. J. B. Speight introdueed the speaker.

A report on the National Extension Homemakers Council meeting was given by Mrs. Albert Bell.

Mrs. E. C. Davenport presided at the meeting.

Treat Daughter To Weekend Trip When Wedding Occurs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister's daughter, Arlene, is being married soon, and the whole family is all excited about the coming wedding, which will be a large formal church affair.

Arlene has asked all the girl cousins near her age to be bridesmaids—except my daughter, Nancy. Arlene and Nancy have never been close friends due to jealousy on both sides. And although my sister and her husband have always been very close to me and my husband, I just don't feel that I should put my sister on the spot by "begging" her to ask Arlene to include Nancy.

Naturally my daughter is deeply hurt, and now she doesn't want to go to the wedding with us. Should we insist that she go and pretend she doesn"t care? Or should we let her stay away? Now I don't know if my husband and Ishould go to the wedding either. It is certain to be a very unhappy day for my immediate family. Please advise.

BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: Don't insist that your daughter attend the wedding is she prefers to stay away. (Perhaps the weekend of the wedding she could take a little trip out of town to cheer her up.) If you and your husband want to go, by all means, go. But don't stay away in order to "protest" the slighting of your daughter. And by the way, I think you used excellent judgment in refraining from putting your sister on the spot.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter married a 30-year-old mama's boy who is in love with tropical fish. He has 13 tanks of them. He's got a fortune sunk in those fish. Just to give you an idea, he paid $14 for one fish.

Well, after four months of marriage my daughter got pregnant against his wishes so he got mad and went home to his mama. He says they can't afford a baby yet. (FISH he can afford.)

He left the fish tanks in her apartment, and even though she hates the fish she had to feed them and clean the tanks. The fish-lover came by once in a while to see the fish. My daughter cried htr eyes out and lost the baby, so now her husband decided they should kiss and make up and start all over again.

She took him back, and so far all is calm, but I know this isn't going to last. The priest says she can get an annulment on the grounds that this man is a boy. How can I convince her she ought to forget him once and for all?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You can't. Water seeks its own level—even in a fish tank, so keep your oars out of their water and let your daughter sink or swim.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have a question I hope you won't think is too dumb to answer.

When a girl (me) goes riding with a boy (he is not a "steady"—he is just someone I like a real lot) how close should I sit to him?

I feel so foolish pressing against the door like I am afraid of him. All we do really while he is driving is talk.

JUDY

DEAR JUDY: Sit close enough to talk—but not close enough to be talked about.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LUCY (AND TO ALL THE OTHERS WHO WROTE TO TELL ME THAT CATS DO CARRY RINGWORM): Yes, I know, but the writer condemming cats stated that ALL cats carry ringworm and transmit it promptly to babies. Any animal (or person) afflicted with a contageous disease "carries" and transmits it, of course.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bulk Of Population Is Spread Out

With all the talk of the last few decades about Americans forsaking the byways for the bright lights of the big cities, one gains an impression of the United States with the bulk of its population living in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and a handful of other cities.

The statistics show it doesn't work out that way.

In fact, figures published by "Nation's Cities" show that only 9.8 percent of America's citizens live in five cities of 1,000,000 or more population; 6.2 percent live in 16 places of 500,000 to 1,000,000 population; and 6 percent live in 30 places of 250,000 to 500,000.

It is only below the 250,000 level that most Americans will find the locality in which they live:

—6.5 percent live in 81 places of 100,000 to 250,000.

—7.7 percent live in 201 places of 50,000 to 100,000.

—8.3 percent live in 432 places of 25,000 to 50,000.

—9.8 percent live in 1,134 places of 10,000 to 25,000.

—5.5 percent live in 1,394 places of 5,000 to 10,000.

—4.2 percent live in 2,152 places of 2,500 to 5,000.

—30.1 percent live in 4,151 places of 1,000 to 2,500.

The figures were cited in a recent edition of United Business Service, a business advisory publication. Some 42 percent of Americans live in towns with populations of 2,500 to 250,000 and another 30 percent live in what would be considered rural areas.

It can be seen that, while the problems of the major cities are of concern to us all, they are not necessarily the problems of the majority of Americans. Since the migration to the largest cities seems to be coming to an end, the politicians should keep this in mind as they chart the internal affairs of the nation in the years ahead.

Unpleasant As It Is, Costs Must Be Met

It is regrettable that the Pitt Memorial Hospital board of trustees has found it necessary to raise room rates by $5 to $7 or 20 to nearly 30 percent. It is particularly discouraging to those who must be admitted to the hospital, since rates were increased up to $7 only a year ago.

We are mindful that the hospital faces ever-increasing personnel cost. Administrator C. D. Ward also pointed out additional equipment and services have been added as medical treatment grows more complex.

All this is of small comfort to the average person who must be admitted to the hospital and bear the additional cost.

We are frank to say we can pose no solution to the problem, since costs must be met. We can only implore Pitt Memorial officials to operate as efficiently as possible in hopes of avoiding future increases of this magnitude.

Argument Fails To Hold Water

By ROBERT L. THOMPSON
(Guest Columnist for William A. Shires)

RALEIGH—All the talk about "conflict of interest" which we hear in and from Raleigh, Washington and even Podunk has reached the point of ab-wants a judge sitting on a case during which his judical approach may be warped by his pocketbook interest. Nor does anyone want a Highway Chairman or roads commissioner subject to the same moral and economic strain. But what about a member of the state legislature or of Congress voting for or against a bill which may hurt or help his bankroll? But of course we don t hear much about that. The legislative branches of both the State and National Government set the rules.

Truth — The actual facts of both political and economic life mean that the only public official who is not on occasion faced with a "conflict of interest" is a hermit or a vegetable become a man — or woman. How about "conflict of interest" among reporters and editors? If so, that would rule out all members of labor unions, all whites, all blacks, all churchmen and women — and any and everybody who could render valuable service to government. We haven't had a governor or a Senator or a Congressman, or legislator, or a judge from JP on up, or a newsman — and certainly no editor — who has not on occasion been required to decide between his own interest and what's right and legal. We know all that when we elect people to office, or have them appointed by those we did elect. The one and only question is whether those elected and appointed are honest. If they are, OK. If they are not, well there are the courts and impeachment proceedings. But the Congress and the legislature etc. cannot lay down hard and fast rules because there are none. Really the whole argument in Raleigh and Washington — or most of it — just doesn't make sense.

Approach — State Superintendent Craig Phillips, who succeeded Charles Carroll after he retired, was not and is still not well known in North Carolina. But if he continues to be as successful in his No. 1 project as he has been to date, he will be both well known and popular. After the annual meeting of County and City Superintents, — Phillips innaugurated a series of small group meeting or discussions which are still going on. School superintendents and principals were brought in. But i tdidn't end there. By no menas. He brought in a number of community leaders, members of PTA, and some of the students themselves. He has been very quiet about these meetings —all of which he has, or is, or will be attending. Everybody "takes their hair down". They discuss social and-or racial relations changes. They listen to high school students and professional educators. But perhaps the most effective thing being accomplished is that Phillips and the educators on the scene bring in business and community leaders — and sometimes it is hard to get them. But he s done well at that.

Object — There will be those who argue that phillips is primarily interested in raising school costs and school teachers pay. That's just half right. What he is really trying to do is to improve public education in North Carolina and by any possible means involve the business and civic leaders of the communities in the drive. He has been a little relectant to bring in the press. Headline hunters" could seriously injure his entire project. But — to give him some uninvited advice—he'd do well to bring in a few editors and top-flight news editors. Maybe he has, but the news hasn't got back this far.

Moscow Knows Something's Up

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Moscow's odd denial that it knows anything about Mao Tsetung's health suggests that it may, in fact, know something about what is going on in Red China:perhaps a jockeying for position in advance of a power struggle yet to come in Peking.

Soviet officialdom used the device of a cocktail party-strictly for non-Western correspondents—to spread the word that rumors about Mao attributed to Soviet sources were "provocative." By that, it may mean tha those who spread such reports are trying to arouse new Peking suspicions of the Kremlin.

If there are now factions maneuvering in Peking in anticipation of Mao's retirement from the scene, Moscow may not want to rock the boat. The Kremlin may be hopeful that a new group will emerge in China with which the Russians can talk business.

The Kremlin interprets the belligerence of China as a manifestation of deep political trouble, and it may be right. Red China will celebrate on Oct. 1 the 20th anniversary of its founding. As usual for such Communist celebrations, a selection of slogans was published for the guidance of the masses on that day.

Of the 29 slogans, four bear down heavily on the possibility of war, including atomic war. and single out the Soviet Union as a potential enemy in that conflict. Three slogans directly attack Soviet "revisionism' and "social imperialism," a phrase intended to indicate Moscow designs on Chinese territory. Only three slogans salute Mao and Mao's "thought."

The tenor of this propaganda suggests to the Russians that the regime in Peking is in trouble and that thus it must have the nearby threat of catastrophe—such as war with a big neighbor—to keep the nation from falling apart.

If Mao Tse-tung is in failing health, or if he and his anointed successor, Defense Minister Lin Piac, should be losing their grip, another grim power struggle would seem inevitable, like the one which took place under the guise of Mao's "cultural revolution."

The leaders of China's army appear to have a powerful position in the nation how, but they seem to be divided into factions. Some of them probably still entertain hopes of patching up the squabble with the Russians.

Moscow may want to watch and wait quietly to see what happens. Thus, the Kremlin is sensitive when reports attributed to "Soviet sources' give the impression that the Russians want to meddle in China's internal politics.

Opinions In Brief

"Guard within yourself that treasure kindness. Know how to give without hesitation, how to lose without regret, how to acquire without meanness."—George Sand.

"The lure of the distant and the difficult is deceptive. The great opportunity is where you are."—John Burroughs.

"Justice remains the greatest power on earth. To that tremendous power alone will we submit." —Harry S. Truman.

"It is worth a thousand pounds a year to have the habit of looking on the bright side of things." — Samuel Johnson.

Strength For Today

THE HAPPY LIFE

There are millions of people in the world who are continually anxious about the state of their souls. Are they living a life pleasing to God? Have they met the ruei qerments Christ set up for his followers? Are they confident of what the great Christian leader, John Henry Newman, called "a safe lodging and a holy rest, and peace at the lost?"

The life of the Christian believer is fulfilled in the relationship he maintains with God day by day. We should not become discouraged because our lives are not perfect. Jesus urged his followers to be perfect even as their Father in heaven is perfect, yet Jesus himself is the only person who ever lived the perfect live. We are not hypocrites because we stumble and fall The matter of overwhelming importance is that we pick ourselves up and press on toward what St. Paul described as the high calling of God in Christ Jesus (Philippians 3:14).

If we are sincere in our desire to live a life that will to some satisfactory degree measure up to the teachings of the Bible and the confirmation of conscience, we need to meet God in prayer, in the sincere facing of our moral problems and in that overwhelming sense of God's presence which we can and will experience as we strive to understand better what God would have us be and do.

The Christian life is a happy life, and God smiles upon those who continually try to live such a life.

COLOSSUS OF ROADBLOCKS!

by JAMES KILPATRICK

A Promising Milestone

LOS ANGELES—The United States Post Office Department scored an important indictment here last week, when a grand jury brought in 27 counts against 40-year - old Marvin Miller on charges of mailing obscene material.

It was only nine months ago that Miller was convicted on similar charges, fined $22,-500, and sentenced to five years in prison. The Department charges that while he was out on bond, pending appeal, he carried on his filthy business as usual. Hundreds of American households have received his promotion material, under the names of Covina Publications, Collectors Publications, and G & M Enterprises. Miller is a big-time operator in a big-time business. He reportedly grosses $10 million a year.

What makes the new indictment important, from a legal point of view, is that the Department is aiming not at Miller's material as such, but rather at his advertisements offering the material for sale. In the present state of the law, a book or magazine can be held obscene only if it is social importance," but no such lofty standard would appear to apply to advertisements.

Miller's promotional comeons, according to the indictment, have gone broadside into the land. One flyer went to the Holy Ghost Catholic School in Hammond, Ind. Another went to a Baptist Sunday Springfield, Mo. Most of his mailings, of course, went to far more likely customers for the salacious items Miller has for sale. In the Department's view, this is pandering; and the U S. Supreme Court, in the famed Ginzburg case of 1966, laid down the rule that "where the purveyor's sole emphasis is on the sexually provocative aspects of his publications, that fact may be decisive in the determination of obscenity."

This is the favorable ground on which the Department proposes to wage a stepped-up war against the merchants of filth. It is a war that cries out for relentless prosecution.

I may have said this before, but I make the point again. Nine years ago, when I was writing a book on the obscenity racket, I undertook through various fictitious names and addresses to obtain specimens of the pornography then offered for sale. The racket in really offensive material was then largely underground. Plenty of ordinary nude photographs could be had, but these were mostly of the kind to be found in nudist and girlie mogazines. Gross lewdness could be obtained only with some effort, and ordinarily from foreign sources.

All that has changed. In a series of liberalizing opinions, the Supreme Court has breached all the old dams. Today's tides of filth defy description. In every major city, pornographic book stores freely sell magazines jammed with photographs depicting male and female genitals. Paperbacked books, crudely printed, carry obscenity to new depths of depravity. One-hundred - foot color films, which used to cost $100 and up, can be had for as little as $10 to $15. Justice Potter Stewart once remarked that he might not be able to define hard-core pornography, but he knew it when he saw it This is the hard-core stuff.

Taking advantage of the "redeeming social importance" criteria, some of the cynical merchants have come up with

Other Editors Say What Lincoln Said

(Henderson Dispatch)

For whatever it may be worth—and it's worth a lot—Abraham Lincoln's comment on human nature andt he economy is passed along here. The statement appeared in print recently for the millionth —more or less—time and was sent to the editor. What Lincoln said follows:

"You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot lift the wage earner by pulling down the wage payer.

"You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income. You cannot further the brotherhood of man by inciting class hatred.

"You cannot establish security on borrowed money. You cannot build character and courage by taking away man's initiative and independence.

"You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could should do for themselves.'

Where is there a man in public life today with the plain old common horse sense that propelled the Civil War President into service and prominence and in the esteem of his countrymen? If there be such an individual on the horizon or beyond, it is high time he were appearing to make himself heard. Never before has this country needed a man of Lincoln's stripe to the extent he is needed today. And never before had it been more urgent for this free country to take stock of the direction in which it is headed and the reckless, hapless pace at which it is traveling.

Lincoln's common sense philosophy is as essential now as it ever wa. It served him perfectly in his day, and could do as much to set the country on the right track again as did in a former era.

Thomas R. Marshall said when he was vice- president under Woodrow Wilson that wwhat America needs is a good five-cent cigar. But infinitely more than that does it need to face the realities of the proper relaion between government and the individual citizen which once was accepted as basic and which led to greatness. Lack of it today is leading the nation pell mell in the opposite direction.

How To Beat Computer's Toils

By ELMRE ROESSNER

Suppose some creditor's computer doesn't like the way you spell your name, has a thing about your Social Security number, or is simply programmed in error and that thereafter you get bills for things you never bought, demands for payments you've already made, and threats to put you in Conventry or jeopardy, what can do do?

Some credit card companes, such as the Diners Club, have set up special units to track down computer booboos. A phone call or wire may get the matter corrected quickly. But if your creditor has no such unit, there are other steps to take.

First, don't write to Mr. J. Bunk, whose name may appear on the threatening letters. There is probably no such person. It's a "house" name and your letter will go to a girl who is trying to get out early for a date with her boyfriend and won't pay any attention to it. Or she'll press a button and you'll get Form Letter No. 1898762, which will warn you to pay up or else.

But there are things you can do.

No Blowing Tops

Don't lose your cool. Don't get mad. Just realize that your brain has been joined in battle with a machine and that your brain cells can outwit any machine ever made. Then, with grim determinaion and a light heart, try these:

. Phone the company, credit-card issuer, retailer or whaever. Don't ask for Mr. Bunk, who doesn't exist. Insist on talking to the executive vice president. With luck, you'll get his secretary. Tell her you are sure he will want to talk with you before you file a million-dollar suit. If she says you'll have to talk to the company attorneys say, "But they don't know anything about our baby." You will get through. The baby, of course, is not an infant but your name for your problem. Let the creditor take it from there.

ELMER ROESSNER

. If that doesn't work and your dunner fools around with punch cards, do as Alan Miller of New York did and add some more holes to the card and send it back. That got him action.

Don't Lose That Cool!

. If these approaches aren't successful, still keeping your cool write a letter of complaint, spelling out your trouble in detail. Don't accuse anyone of being a gyp, but you can say without danger of libel that asking you to pay a bill you have already paid and threatening you with close to extortion.

. Make copies of your letter and send one each to the U.S. district attorney, the county district attorney, postal inspectors at your local post ofifce, the state atorney general, the local Better Business Bureau, the local Chamber of Commerce and, if you have one left over, to the New York Times, New York 10036.

. If all else fails, consult your attorney. He may find you have grounds for a suit for damages for mental distress, ruining your credit rating, libel, slander and scaring he pants off you.

But don't lose your cool.

Reaps Senate Bonus

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a sweeping liberalization of the food stamp program that could end up fattening the liberal leadership position of George S. McGovern as much as the stomachs of the nation's poor.

In a major personal triumph for McGovern, the Senate voted 54-40 Wednesday to chuck the recommendations of its own Agriculture Committee and adopt proposals by the South Dakota Democrat aimed at making food stamps available to every poor person in the nation.

Then, ignoring conservative cries that it was creating a "monster" and signing the "death sentence" of food stamps, the Senate sent the proposals on to the House by a vote of 78-14.

What happens now is anybody's guess.

The McGovern proposals go first to the House Agriculture Committee where Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., harbors deep-seated hostility to such programs.

Essentially the McGovern amendment to the Food Stamp Act would authorize $1.25 billion this year, $2 billion next year and $2.5 billion by fiscal 1972.

It would make free stamps available to families with incomes under $60 a month, allow any family making less than $1,500 a year to buy them with only their signature attesting the income, and set up machinery to force every county in the country to provide food stamps.

The administration last spring asked for doubling of this year's $340 million food stamp recommendation and a hike to $1.5 billione ach of the next two fiscal years.

The administration proposals would have allowed free food stamps for families with an income of less than $30 a month, would have left it up to the states to continue certifying who could participate and would have moved more slowly in direction of making stamps available to all.

The administration sought to allow families up to $100 a month in food stamps while the McGovern proposals allow up to $125 a month.

Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of the Agriculture Committee said the House would never accept such a vast increase in the program.

Although the proposals that passed the Senate were co-sponsored by such leading liberals as Democrats Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts the credit is most likely to accrue to McGovern.

For more than a year the former political science professor has made a campaign to end hunger a keystone of the same liberalism that drove him to bis unsuccessfully for the 1968 Democratic presidential nomination.

As chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs—better known as the hunger committee—McGovern has roamed across the country on fact-finding and speech-making trips and held countless hearings while making a case for expansing the food stamp program.

At the same time, credit has gone to him for prompting what have stemed to be dramatic turn-arounds by the White House.

During last spring's White House agonizing over where to trim the budget, word leaked out that a decision had been made not to put any money into

Newsprint Price Hike By Major Producer

NEW YORK (AP) — A third round of industrywide raises in the price of newsprint in two years may be in the making.

Bowater Paper Corp., a major producer of newsprint, the paper on which newspapers are printed, announced Wednesday that it was raising its price to $1522 a ton, an increase of $5 on the East Coast and $4 at inland markets.

Bowater's new price schedule is effective Jan. 1.

Other paper companies took no immediate action. Stanford Smith, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said he was watching the situation, but it was still too early to comment.

Newsprint prices went up $3 a ton across the board in 1967. Last January prices were hiked $5 ane $4 a ton, depending on the market area.

A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach Corp. of San Francisco said:

"Crown Zellerbach is not in the Eastern newsprint market. However, we are subject to the same heavy cost pressures in our Western market area, and we are studying it very carefully at the present time.'

A spokesman for Canadian International Paper Co., a subsidiary of International Paper Co. said his company was studying Bowater's move and added that a price increase was justified because of cost increases since the last raise.

Donohue Brothers Ltd. of Montreal said they "always follow the market" with regard to newsprint prices.

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., of Vancouver; Domtar Pulp & Paper Products Ltd., and Price Co., Ltd., of Montreal, said they had no immediate comment.

Swearing In 3 Highway Patrol Officers Friday

RALEIGH (AP)—Three North Carolina highway patrolmen who have been given promotions will be sworn in to their new posts Friday.

Patrol Cmdr. Edwin Guy announced Wednesday Lt. John T. Jenkins of Fayetteville has been promoted to captain and will become commanding officer of Troop C in Raleigh, replacing Maj. James B. Kuye-kendall.

1st Sgt. E. D. Young of Asheville, promoted to lieutenant, was named executive officer of Troop B in Fayetteville replacing Jenkins.

T. Sgt. Fred F. Bowen of Raleigh was moved up to lieutenant and will become personnel officer in patrol headquarters at Raleigh replacing Lt. Col. Charles B Pierce.

Pierce and Kuykendall were given promotions recently.

"manuals" and "pictorial histories." Three years ago, when Ralph Ginzburg's conviction was sustained, one of the counts against him was that in his "Eros" magazine he had shown a black man and a white woman, nude, in a position of intercourse. I waste no tears on Ginzburg, who asked for what he got, but his conviction is ironical all the same. The stuff he was selling, compared to materials widely for sale today, was about as filthy as Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.

In a brilliant book published last spring, "Obscenity and Public Morality," Professor Harry Clor builds a solid argument in favor of prosecuting the merchants of filth. True freedom of press of course must be preserved, but "obscenity is an evil of sufficient magnitude to require the attention of organized society." The postal inspectors, backed by the Justice Department, are devoting sharp attention to that evil now. I wish them well.

expanding the food stamp program or any other facet of the war on hunger.

McGovern bitterly criticized the administration and summoned Secretary Clifford Hardin to a specially arranged hearing.

When the two secretaries appeared they laid out a broad program for combatting hunger that included an immediate doubling of food stamp outlays.

Then earlier this month word began to circulate again that the administration planned to scrap the food stamp system altogether once its new welfare program got off the ground.

Again the outraged McGovern summoned Finch and Hardin and again they appeared to outline not a retreat but a bold new program.

Both secretaries insisted as did other administration officials there had been a complete misunderstanding and that at no time were there plans to phase-out food stamps.

Ailing Governor Remains In Bed

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott remained in bed at the executive mansion today treating a "deep chest cold" which forced him to cancel speeches Wednesday at Greensboro and Shelby.

The governor also cancelled a news conference scheduled for 1 p.m. today.

Scott's office reported some hoarseness was noted when he spoke in Greensboro Tuesday night. It was decided to call off appearances Wednesday after the cold appeared somewhat worse and he had a slight fever.

"With medication and rest, we hope the governor will be able to return to the office Friday," an administrative aide said.

Highway commissioner Lynwood Smith of High Point filled in for the governor and read his speech at a meeting Wednesday in Greensboro of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

William Turner, state director of administration, pinch-hit for the governor at a "Star Teacher" program in Shelby.

Good Start For Re-Election Fund

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice Mayor Joseph Malek reports a strong start in his efforts to raise money for a re-election campaign.

"A man walked into my office, told me what a great job I had done on the council, promised to support me for re-election and handed me a check for $5," Malek said. "I looked at the check, looked the man and said: 'Thanks, Dad.'"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans may smoke four to six packs fewer cigarettes each this year, says the Agriculture Department.

Officials say in a tobacco report that per capita cigarette smoking currently is averaging two to three per cent less than the 4,186 cigarettes—about 210 packs—puffed in 1968.

"The smoking-age population is increasing and consumer incomes are at record levels. But increasing cigarette prices and the smoking-health publicity are reducing cigarette use per person and possibly limiting the number of smokers," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Wright Patman has been turned down by his own House Banking Committee on a request to start a probe of alleged wrongdoing by bank lobbies.

The committee voted 21-13 Wednesday to have the Texas Democrat take his complaints about bank lobbyists to the House Rules Committee.

Patman, a frequent critic of the banking industry, says the banks plan to "buy up all the property in the United States" if there is a depression. But committee members who voted against the investigation said Patman has produced no evidence to back up his charges.

One, Rep. Benjamin B. Blackburn, R-Ga., said Patman "wants to go on a personal witch hunt of his own."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tongue-in-cheek plan for an extension of the Washington Monument—utilizing practically every mode of design known to man—has been offered by a budding architect.

The whimsical structure proposed by J. Fraklin Corkhill Jr., who is awaiting his license to practice architecture in Maryland, would include:

"Twelve high-speed elevators . . . hundreds of meeting rooms to give visiting constituents a dignified place to entertain and to receive their senators and representatives . . . and . . . a restaurant for each state of the union."

The make-believe plan, revealed by Corkhill in the Washington Post, parodies a real one for replacing the Capitol's west wall with a modern extension which would include restaurants and meeting rooms.

The real plan was prepared for Congress by architect of the Capitol George Stewart who, despite his title, is a licensed engineer.

Delegation Will Ask Allocation

RALEIGH (AP) — A delegation of North Carolina educators will go to Washington next week to urge that money be released for federal allocations to educate children of military personnel and other federal workers.

Reed Ross, superintendent of Fayetteville City Schools, which enrolls many Ft. Bragg pupils, will be in the delegation. He said Wednesday the funds his system would get for the children in this category represent about a third or better of his total current expense fund. Last year his system received $581,000.

Some $5.24 million was allocated from this source to the state's public schools last year.

The 29 Tar Heel school systems which receive this type of aid are apparently operating as normal with the expectation that cuts recommended by President Nixon will be restored by Congress.

Although the House has voted to restore most of the money, it cannot be released until the Senate acts. The Tar Heel delegation will urge that the money be released by resolution pending final Senate action.

State and federal governments collect an annual average of $155 in special taxes on each motor vehicle in the United States.

Shoulder-Length Hair Costs Him Job At Plant

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — The Kimberly Clark Corp., says 24-year-old Robert Mercado's shoulder length hair is not "hygienic," and has fired him as a paper packer.

The Association of Western Pulp and Paper Workers, Local 672, said Mercado's hair is no less hygenic than many women paper packers, and asked the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Wednesday to order the dismissal set aside.

The union contended Mercado, like Kimberly Clark's female employes, can wear a hair net and denying him that recourse is discrimination on the grounds of sex.

A company spokesman said, "It was our judgment that men with long hair may shed some of that into the products. We aren't unreasonable. They can wear sideburns and mustaches, but we can't be sending out our products with hair in them."

The company manufactures Kleenex, toilet tissues and sanitary napkins.

SHARING

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Police say that just before they arrested three youths on charges of possessing marijuana, one of them fed a baby alligator what the police believed was marijuana. The youths were taken to jail. The alligator was sent to a neighbor's house for care.

'The Toughest Kids' Camp Counselor Ever Met

By Carol Tyer
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—"I ?new counseling campers from New York City would be different from the same kind of job around here, but I didn't know how different and how difficult until I'd been at work a few days," Margaret Andrews of Farmville said.

A rising junior journalism major at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Margaret worked during the summer at Flako Lake Camp near Parksville, N.Y. Located in the Catskill Mountains about 110 miles from New York City, the camp is run by the Episcopal Mission Society for children of greater New York City.

A FARMVILLE GIRL . . . Margaret Andrews counseled at a camp in New York state and had to cope with problems far removed from her upbringing.

CITY CHILDREN . . . enjoy 18 days at Camp Elko in the Catskill Mountains.

Margaret worked at the main camp which accommodates about 250 boys and girls between the ages of nine and 13. There are two sister camps, one for seven- and eight-year-olds and a pioneer camp for 14- and 15-year-olds who live in the woods the whole time they are there.

"I'd say at least 95 per cent of the children who attended the camp this summer were chosen and financed by agencies churches, and welfare groups," Margaret said. "Most of them would be considered "underprivileged" although this was not always the case.

"They were the toughest kids I've ever run into. Before the first group arrived, an orientation program was held for counselors. I was one of the green ones, whereas some of the others had been there several times before as campers and had sort of come up through the ranks. We were told, among other things, that we would have to be tough at first and win the respect of the youngsters in order to have any control over them. I was too naive to believe this advice. I thought showing interest in and friendship for them would win them over. I lived to regret that thought.

"Within four days after the first group arrived, I was so beaten, the only thing that kept me there was pride. I'd say, 'Judy, come here,' and she'd answer, 'I will not, you. . . and a long string of profanity would follow. I found out I could not relate to them as easily and as well as I had thought. I struck it out, though, and vowed to do better during the second session.

"When the next group got there, I didn't even greet them. I just said, 'Come on, It's time for dinner.' It took me three or four days to learn their names. That was the best group I had. Once I won their respect, they didn't mind letting me know they liked me.

"One of the other Southerners, also a UNC-CH student had more trouble coping with the kids than I did. There was one 13-year-old named Pam in her cabin who said she was a Black Panther and swore she'd kill Debbie before her 18 days there were over. At the end, though she kissed Debbie goodbye and told her, 'I'm going to miss giving you a hard time.'

"I'll never forget the first hike Debbie and I took our groups on. Some of them had been there before, so we asked them to direct us. We'd walked about ten miles before it sank in that we were hopelessly lost. Finally we found a road and paid a man five dollars to take us back to camp in his pickup truck."

Many Counselors

Besides four counselors from Chapel Hill, there were several from Mississippi, two from Sweden, two from Finland, one from Germany, three from Holland, and five from Canada. Margaret said the European counselors were much better versed in camping skills than any of the Americans. However, there was a definite language barrier between them and children. Even if they were proficient in English, they could not understand the slang the children used. Margaret said she could not understand a lot of it herself.

Several of the counselors from Mississippi were Negroes. Margaret said all of them seemed to be really elated to be treated like everyone else and to be real friends with the white counselors. She said they seemed to have none of the Black Power ideas that many of the Northern Negro young people hold.

Mornings at the camp were devoted mostly to workshops on such subjects as dramatics, African dancing, sewing and knitting, boating, archery, photography, newspaper, campcraft, and arts and crafts. The campers could choose which they would attend. Margaret helped put together a camp newspaper each session and taught sewing.
margaret andrews gal. 2

The afternoons were spent hiking, studying nature, boating, and swimming.

"The administration did not tell us anything about the backgrounds of the individual campers. Their theory was that by knowing nothing of the child's home life, we would treat each one for himself and would not overcompensate for those who had a bad situation at home. I think this is good up to a point, but it made it much more difficult to relate to them. For instance, one of my girls lived in an orphanage, but for the time she was there, she tried to make everyone believe she lived with her parents. She got some of her stories so tangled up that I think all the girls knew the truth, but not one of them challenged her."

Some Problems

There was a considerable problem with stealing amoung the compers, but one thing Margaret said no one would ever steal was another camper's salamander. She explained, "As part of the nature study program, the kids would catch salamanders, frogs, and harmless snakes in the streams in and around the camp. Then they'd spend the rest of the time catching flies and other insects to feed them. These were prized possessions that all of them wanted to take home. One day one of my girls came to me begiing for a quarter. When I asked her why she wanted it so badly, she said she wanted to buy a salamander, since she was afraid to catch one herself.

"Those kids are a lot more worldly-wise than I am, but I did not see many of the moddish or psychedelic types. They still call marijuana cigarettes 'reefers.' Many of them know about dope first-hand, though. One of my girls told me in detail how to distill a heroin solution and where and how to insert it into the flesh.

"I was surprised to learn that fighting is a way of life with them. They told me of numerous fights they had had at home and of the fights would break out at camp. One girl said whenever she got into a fight at home, all she had to do was call in her eight sisters.

"Near the end of each session, a banquet was held. You would not believe how uptight the kids would get about these. They'd come dressed in their best and they would hardly eat for fear of committing a social error. Once when one girl spilled her milk they got really angry at her and when she sopped her gravy with a biscuit, they were ready to dismember her.

"For all their toughness, they are great kids, ready to love and show affection for anyone they can respect at all.

"This summer taught me how much I need to learn about getting along with all kinds of people. And I learned I can live in an integrated situation and that, when given a chance, integration does work."

Indians Fear Shrinking Lake Dooms Their Ways

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

SUTCLIFFE, Nev. (AP) — Pyramid Lake leaps improbably into the traveler's view, a 110,000-ocre expanse of blue-green water, sparkling beneath the torrid desert sun.

It dominates the lives of 600 northern Nevada Indians, just as it did those of their forefathers for countless generations. But now the Indians fear that their lake, and with it their way of existence, may be doomed.

The exploring Capt. John C. Fremont named the lake in 1844, because of a 300-foot-high rock that juts out of the water like a misplaced Egyptian pyramid. He described the lake as "set like a gem in the mountains."

Fremont's description is still accurate. What has changed is the water level, which has receded 71 feet since his visit, and the rock, which is much closer to shore.

The lake's only inlet is the Truckee River, which tumbles down the Sierra Nevada slopes from Lake Tahoe, partly in California, partly in Nevada.

And this is the problem, for the two states are arguing over disposition of the Tahoe's water. The river has already been tapped by the city of Reno and by a large irrigation project.

Pyramid Lake, once the site of bloody fighting between Indian and white man, is now the center of another kind of conflict—fought with speeches, legislative hearings, news releases and water flow charts.

Pyramid Lake is a remnant of 8,000-square-mile Lake Lahontan, which filled the Great Basin 70,000 years ago but eventually dried up.

The Paiute tribesmen of the surrounding reservation say that if the volume of flow from the Truckee River is reduced Pyramid Lake will rapidly shrivel and disappear.

Scientists estimate that even at the current rate of attrition the lake will be reduced to about two-thirds of its present size in 50 to 200 years.

"I would hate to see that lake change in any way," said Avery Winnemucca, great-great-grondson of Numaga, the Paiute chief who fought the whites during Nevada's gold and silver boom days more than a century ago.

Winnemucca, now 68, has made a living for most of his adult life by selling boating permits and by helping tourists and fishermen who come to fish for the prized cut-throat trout.

In summertime as many as 400 persons a day visit the lake, and the Indians contend that a resort center and industrial park could be developed to provide more income—if the water level remains constant.

Only about half the employable Indians now have jobs. Their homes range from small frame houses to sheet-metal shacks. Income is low and amenities are few.

After 13 years of discussion and argument, Governors Ronald Reagan of California and Paul Laxalt of Nevada and Interior Secretary Walter Hickel suggested recently thot the lake be stabilized at a reduced level to pacify everyone, but the Indians reacted angrily.

"The entire lake shore would become worthless mudflats," said James Vidovich, chairman of the tribal council, "and any chance for development as a recreational area would be doomed."

As a result of Indian complaints, a California Assembly committee approved, last spring, amendments that would guarantee the present lake level. But several key Nevoda lawmakers said they would never approve this version. The bill was shelved and the California legislature adjourned without action.

Ronald Westergard, the Nevada state engineer who helped droft the compact, says, "This is a water-deficient area, and all water users are going to have to share in the deficinecies. I think the compact is in the interest of all water users in Nevada, including the Pyramid Loke Indians."

The issue will come up again when the legislatures meet next winter, and the Indians are preparing for a further fight.

"If they settle this, we could develop the lake," said William Abraham, who runs a general store on the reservation. "The Indion people would be very happy and we would be more prosperous instead of squirming."

"Such a lovely lake, and the politicians want to ruin it," said Winnemucca as he watcned late fishermen bringing in their boats in the orange glow of early evening.

Links Bread And Wine And Drugs

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — An Episcopal priest told a Municipal Court judge Tuesday that he listed drugs along with the use of bread and wine, baptism, license and music as forms of sacraments.

The Rev. Robert Cromey, vicar of St. Aiden's church in San Francisco, told Judge Alvin Goldstein that he had smoked marijuana and experienced "eu$phoria, tranquility and calm, a sense of inqardness."

He appeared as a defense witness in a preliminary hearing for Jeffrey Stallard, 28, who is basing his defense to a charge of possession of marijuana on the claim that he uses it in a religious rite protected by the Constitution.

Goldstein took under study whether Stallard must stand trial.

Tea Might Replace Grog In The Queen's Navy

LONDON (UPI) — Yo-ho-ho and a cup of tea?

That's what British sailors may be drinking on a cold night at sea instead of their tot of grog, and curses may be heard from London to Hong Kong.

It's because defense ministry chiefs at their desks in London are considering abolition of the daily rum ration served to sailors on her majesty's warships since 1731.

The U.S. Navy may run its ship dry, but the British sailor expects as an inalienable right his half gill—one eighth of a pint—of grog, or "Nelson's blood," as rum is called.

The Navy spokesman at the defense ministry sounded distinctly embarrassed when asked if the rumors about the possibility of dropping the tradition were true.

"Well, officially yes," he said. "All we can say is the matter is being considered but no decision has yet been taken on it or what might replace it."

Perhaps they are worried obout the $204,000 cost to the taxpayer, but no one has ever complained. Nor has anyone been seen drunk on the stuff. Could it be jealousy because the privilege is due only to seamen? Officers must buy their own.

Anne Took Grog, Too

Recently, however, they just looked on and chuckled when Queen Elizabeth's 19-year-old daughter, Princess Anne, was invited to sample a diluated glass at a recent review of ships of the fleet.

The Royal Navy originally introduced the rum ration to replace the prodigious quantities of beer drunk by sailors of the day. They used to get half a pint of rum, but that generous handout was cut to an eighth of a pint in 1850, which caused plenty of dissatisfaction at the time.

In 1937, the admiralty decided that senior ratings could continue drinking their rum neat, but junior ratings must get theirs mixed with two parts water. It is a strong potion at 95.5 proof when the British public can only buy rum at 70 proof.

A seaman must be 20 years old to qualify for the ration at all. If he does not want to drink it, he gets paid threepence (3 cents) a day in lieu, but 85 per cent accept the rum rather than the money.

The ration is handed out at noon aboard Navy ships wherever they may be, just as happened on the sail-driven frigates in Nelson's day. Today the ships are guided missile destroyers and atomic-powered Polarsubmarines are concern think there are special times when the rum is served, when they are not likely to be required for watch duties or anything like that," the Navy spokesman said.

If the naval lords decide the rum ration must go, it won't be their first disputed decision. Lord Mountbatten of Burma, admiral of the fleet and former first sea lord, is ofnd of telling the story of an officer searching the street for the admiralty building.

"On which side is the He was told: "Ours, I suppose, but you doubt it sometimes."

Orientation For Blind Students

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Twenty-one college-bound blind students are on the University of California campus here for a special six-week program of orientation to college life.

Mrs. Mary Lou O'Donnell, the program coordinator, says the course will give the blind students a chance to learn about "everything from academic standards and library use to social life on a college campus."

Most Blame Is On Pilot Error

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Negligence or errors of technique or judgment by the pilot were to blame for 69 per cent of flying accidents in this country between April 1, 1966 and March 31, 1967, according to the Transport Department's latest report. Private pilots were involved in more than half the 120 accidents—12 of them fatal. Flight training, crop dusting and non-scheduled charter flights accounted for much smaller percentages of the accident toll.

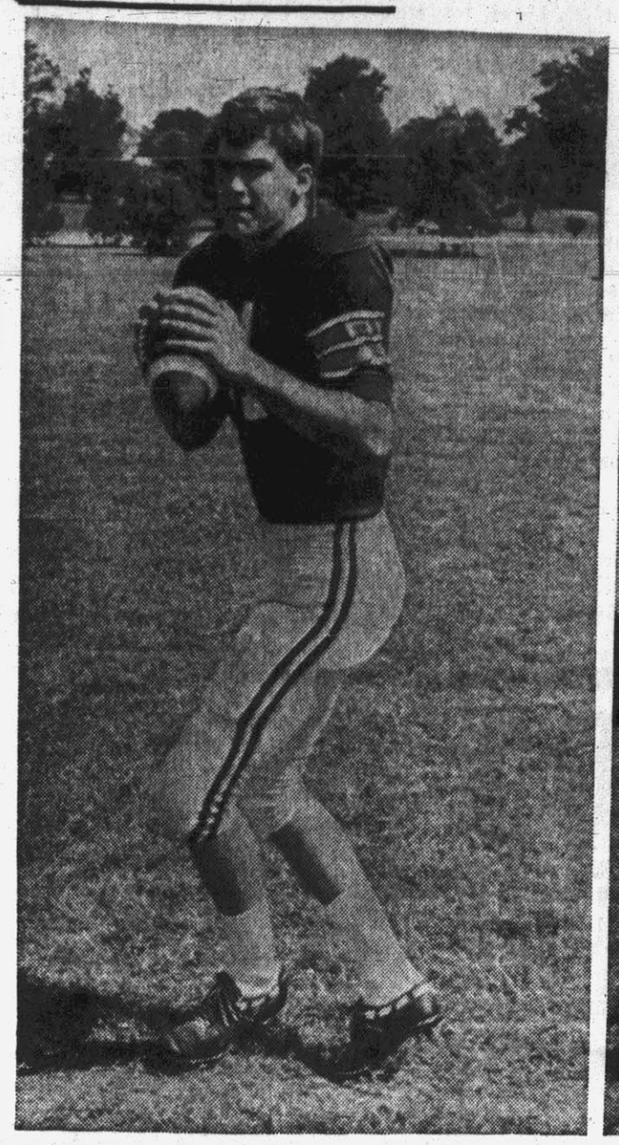
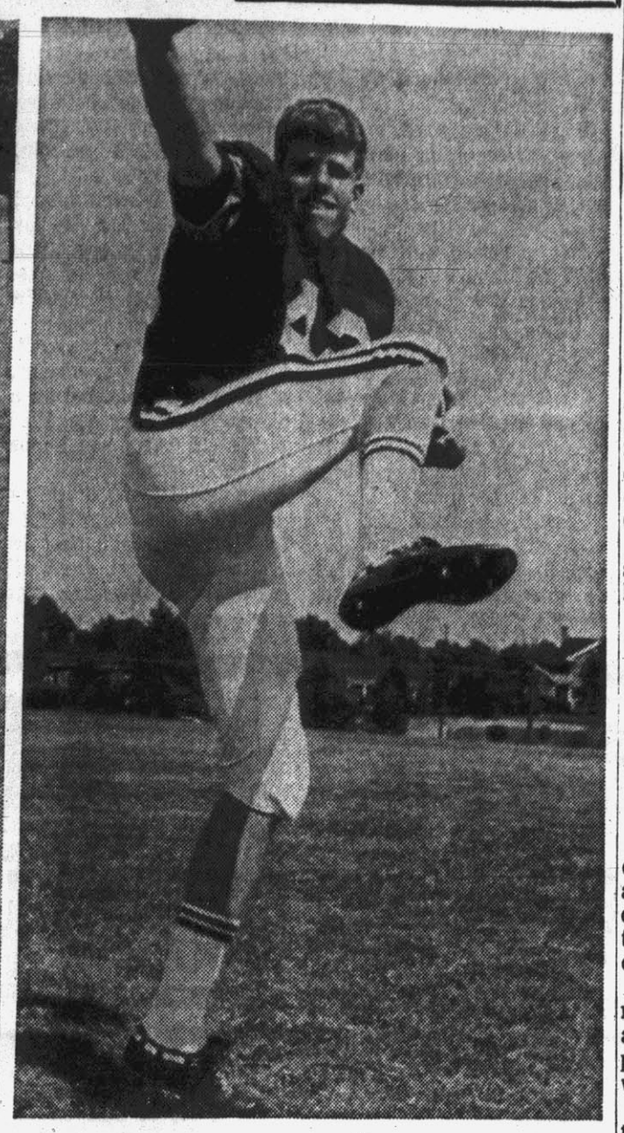
Rose Playing Host To Unbeaten Jacksonville

Meet The Rampants





John Conway, left ,and Donald Taylor are two members of this year's Rose High School football team. Conway, a 6-2, 185-pound junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Conway Jr. He is the number two quarterback on offense, and a defensive end. Taylor, a 5-10, 160-pound junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Taylor Jr. He has seen action as a reserve halfback. The Rampants play host to Jacksonville here Friday at 8 p.m. (Reflector, Greenville. (Reflector Photos)

Cardinals Have Only Allowed One Touchdown In First Three Games

Rose High School's Rampants have another tough competitor coming up this Friday night, as they play host to the Cardinals of Jacksonville High School.

Jacksonville comes into the game with a perfect 3-0 record, and the distinction of having allowed only one touchdown during those three games.

The Cards started the season off with a 35-0 romp over Havelock, and then pounded Camp Lejeune, 28-0. Last week Jacksonville picked up its third win, 28-6, as Wilmington's New Hanover picked up the first touchdown of the year against the Cards.

It will be the first time Jacksonville has taken to the road, however, despite the fact that the Camp Lejeune game was billed as an away game. Both high schools are based within the confines of Jacksonville.

"They have a real good team," Coach Bud Phillips of Rose said. "They probably have better balance than last year, and that makes them a better team."

The Cards have three fine runners in the backfield in fullback Bradley Hewitt and halfbacks John Mallard and Keith Kellum. Mallard has scored four of the Jacksonville touchdowns, while Hewitt has accounted for three. James Newkirk has two, while end Darnell Humphrey had two, both scored on an end around. A punt return and a pass interception accounted for the remaining scores.

Greg Clark, Jacksonville's ace kicker, hasn't missed an attempt this year.

Jacksonville operates with two quarterbacks, Jeff Jones and Mike Uzzell. Jones usually gets in most of the action, but Uzzell is the better passer of the two and usually gets the nod when the Cards want to take to the air. Jones, however, can pass, so the defense must keep it honest.

"They are real fast, and the line moves real well," Phillips said.

"They look pretty tough. Their record speaks for itself. They've allowed only six points in three games. I feel their pass defense is real good. No one has been able to get much through the air on them."

In the three games, opponents have attempted 37 passes, and have hit on 11 for 94 yards. Jacksonville has picked off five interceptions. On the ground, the opponents have accounted for only 275 yards.

Jacksonville, meanwhile, has rolled up just under 800 yards on the ground, but hasn't used the aerial route much. They have hit on eight of 31 for 160 yards. They have had three intercepted.

Phillips feels that the Rampants are a little stronger this week on defense, and that the offense is taking care of itself. "I feel we can move the football," he said. "We have made a couple of changes that can help us in the tackle slots. We have put in Ernie Adams and Steve Williams there on defense. We hope this will solve our problems."

A couple of offensive changes have been made also. Donald Taylor is expected to draw a starting lineup position at halfback. Regular Johnny Smith is still hobbled by a leg injury from the Sanderson game, but may see limited action in the game.

Another new facet of the Rampant game may be more running by quarterback Joe West. West has done an outstanding job passing for the Rampants, and ran the ball once last weke to show that he had the ability to scamper like a halfback. Phillips plans to make more use of this to open up the defense when West keeps the ball. "We'll test their pass defense," Phillips said.

Two other injuries are bothering Rampants. Russ Smith is down with a charliehorse and may miss some of the game. Cliff Edwards is also slowed, but is expected to be ready.

Tommy Diggs will probably see a lot of action at the rover position, as Greg Williams is being shifted to a halfback slot, and Edwards moves back to safety. "With (Josh) Weeks back there with them, I feel this will give us some pretty good range," Phillips said.

While Phillips feels that Jacksonville will use the passing attack a little, they will concentrate on a ground attack. "They like to control the ball on you," he said.

The probable starting lineup for the Rampants on offense has Weeks and Mike Harrington at ends, Tim Leith and Jay Hagans at tackles, Ronald Cherry and Steve Williams at guards, Tommy Bland at center, Donald Taylor and Greg Williams at halfbacks, Joe West at quarterback and Bubba Rawl at fullback.

On defense, the Rampants will start Hubert Arthur and Harold Lloyd at ends, Adams and Williams at guards, Bryant Kittrell and Cherry at guards, Lewis Gidley at linebacker, Rawl at rover, Weeks and Greg Williams at halfbacks and Edwards at safety.

Game time in Ficklen Stadium is 8 p.m.

Pirates Seek Dry Weather

East Carolina's Pirates, rainout Wednesday, hope to get in a full scale practice session today, their final serious preparation for Saturday night's home opener with Louisiana Tech.

Because of the rain, the squad moved into Minges Coliseum and worked out, but had no opportunity to get in the contact work that hed been planned.

The Pirates, despite the fact they are th top defensive team in the Southern Conference, continued to concentrate on that phase of the game.

There will be one and possibly two new faces in the starting defensive alignment Saturday night. Jim Gudger has advanced to No. 1 defensive guard and Alt. Capt. Mike Boaz hopefully will be ready to play. Boaz suffered a pre-season knee injury and missed the opening game.

ECSA Practice Set To Begin

The East Carolina Swimming Association's first winter swim practice will begin at 12 noon Saturday and last until 2 p.m.

The practice sessions for the swimming association members will be held each Saturday at the Minges Coliseum pool.

The practice sessions are held in order to give member groups from a half-dozen Eastern North Carolina towns an opportunity to continue their swimming practice during the winter months. East Carolina University pools are the only indoor pools in the area available to the association.

The East Carolina Swimming Association has members in Wilmington, Goldsboro, Wilson, Kinston, and Tarboro as well as in Greenville.

Concession Salesmen Wanted

ECU Athletic Department needs concession salesmen for home football games. Interested boys ,age 12 and over, should report to the Southgate at Ficklen Stadium at 6 p.m., September 27th.

Three Loop Games Spotlight Area High School Gridiron Schedule

Three important games will heat up the high school gridiron tomorrow night. They are conference games involving Farmville, Robersonville and Grifton. Farmville will travel to Charles B. Aycock for an Eastern Plains Conference affair, Bath will visit Robersonville and Grifton will visit Vanceboro in the Tobacco Belt Conference. Also in area games, Greene Central will travel to Southern Wayne, Tarboro will visit Williamston in a non-conference game, South Ayden will go to Tarboro Patillo, Ayden will host Camden in a Tidewater game, and Kinston Adkin will visit H.B. Sugg.

Farmville

Farmville's Red Devils, who went past Robersonville 36-0 last week, will be on the road to Charles B. Aycock, who lost to Greene Central 21-12 last week. The Charles B. loss was their third in a row, while Farmville was taking their second straight win, along with a tie on their record with Hobbton in the opening game of the season.

The Red Devils used a good aerial and rushing attack last week to mount up their 36 points, while Charles B. had a good ground game with 190 yards rushing, and a poor passing attack with 15 yards.

Greene Central

The Rams, who took their second win of the season when they downed Charles B. will be looking for their third as they travel to Southern Wayne this week. Things have been looking up for the Rams this year as they have put together two good games, topping their last year's performance.

Williamston

The Green Wave was shut cut by Edenton 19-0 last week, but have hopes of getting back in the win column this week as 3-A Tarboro visits Williamston. Williamston won their first two games before falling to Edenton.

Robersonville

If Coach Nolan Respess believes in things happening in cycles, the Rams should win tomorrow night when they host Bath. Robersonville lost their opening game, won their second, then fell to Farmville last week, making it time for another win to roll up on the spinning wheel.

Bath downed previously unbeaten Grifton last week by 8-6 by a two-point conversion. This is an important game for both teams as they are both vieing for the Tobacco Belt Conference title.

Grifton

Another important Tobacco Belt game will be taking place in Vanceboro, as the Bulldogs are on the road. Vanceboro is coming off a 14-0 victory over Aurora, while Grifton had their hopes of a perfect season marred last week when Bath went away with the honors.

South Ayden

South Ayden, who had an open date last week, will also be on the road visiting Tarboro Patillo. South Ayden holds a 1-1 record, as they shut out Morrison 24-0 in the second game of the year, while falling to J.T. Barber in the opener.

Ayden

Then there are the Ayden Tornadoes who lost any hopes of returning for another Class A championship this year after losing to Manteo 14-12 last week. Camden will be visiting the Tornadoes in a Tidewater Conference game, with Ayden still hoping to end the season with a respectable conference record this year.

H.B. Sugg

The Lions from Farmville will be facing a team which will be trying to do the same things the home town team is hoping to do, get back in the win column. Kinston Adkin will visit Farmville, after losing to Wilson 12-6 last week. Sugg lost to J.T. Barber 36-7 in their second game, while falling to Perquimans in their opener 39-6.

Latter-Day Bums Win National's Eastern Flag

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Amazing. Incredible. Miraculous. Implausible.

Take your pick. The latest accomplishment of the New York Mets is all ofur of those words ... and more.

The darlings of the downtrodden, the ragamuffins of the National League for seven endless summers, finally achieved the Impossible Dream of 1969 by winning the NL East pennant via a 6-0 victory over St. Louis Wednesday night.

And, 54,928 hysterical fans at Shea Stadium and four dozen equally hysterical ball players turned themselves inside out with a celebration that lasted until the early morning hours.

Cries of "Beautiful ... Beautiful ... Beautiful" echoed through the Mets' dressing room as the players dumped bottle after bottle of champagne on each other and anyone else who happened to be near.

"It's a great thing for the owners and the organization," said Manager Gil Hodges, one of the original Mets during the fading days of his playing career. "I remember 1962 (when the Mets won only 40 games) ..."

"We've got ours (the division title) now, and we'll just have to wait and see about the West."

Tony Gonzalex and the lowly San Diego Padres did their best Wednesday night to help give the Mets a post-season trip to the South, instead of to the West.

Gonzalez hammered a solo homer in the eighth inning to snap a 1-1 tie as surging Atlanta won its sixth straight, a 2-1 conquest of Houston.

That, combined with the Padres' 3-2 H ambush of second-place San Francisco and Juan Marichal, gave the Braves a 1½-game lead over the Giants in the West Division chase.

Cincinnati, meanwhile, remained just three games off the pace with a 7-2 victory over Los Angeles that knocked the Dodgers out of contention.

Chicago defeated Montreal 6-3 in the only other NL game. Philadelphia's match at Pittsburgh was postponed because of wet grounds.

In the American League, Chicago shaded Oakland 2-1, California topped Seattle 3-1, Minnesota checked Kansas City 2-1, Baltimore nipped Cleveland 4-3 in 11 innings, Boston blanked New York 1-0 in 14 innings and Washington took a doubleheader from Detroit, 8-4 and 7-4.

Donn Clendenon slammed two homers and Ed Charles one while Gary Gentry twirled a four-hitter in blanking the Cards —the 34th victory in 44 games for the Mets, who climbed from 9½ back of Chicago during that span.

"In the spring I felt the club was an improved one and when a team is improved anything can happen," said Hodges. "But I never dreamed of this."

Hodges, who suffered a heart attack just a year and one day before the Mets' clincher, appeared calm in the sea of hysterical insanity that prevailed in the Mets' dressing room.

"It's not that I'm not excited," he laughed. "I'm happy, I'm thrilled for them. But Im a little older than they are. Take off about 25 years and I'd be running wild, too."

Steve Carlton, who struck out a modern major league record of 19 in his last start against the Mets, managed just one whiff Wednesday night—and it was the only out he got.

Clendenon tagged him for a three-run homer and Charles slammed a two-run blast as the Mets exploded for five runs in the first inning. Clendenon hit his solo shot in the fifth.

Gonzalez reached the center field bleachers with his winning homer to break up a tight pitching duel between the Braves Pat Jarvis, 12-11, who finished with a three-hitter, and Tom Griffin.

The Astros had grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first on Joe Morgan's 15th homer, but Atlanta came back in the second on Orlando Cepeda's walk and Bob Didier's double.

San Diego combined Ollie Brown's RBI double witn a two-run error by outfielder Jim Ray Hart on a dropped fly ball for a three-run first inning in whipping the Giants for the second straight night.

Winner Al Santorini had a three-hit shutout going until a walk and two hit batsmen forced him from the mound in the eighth. Reliever Tom Dukes fanned Bobby Bonds before giving up a run-scoring fly to Hart. However, Dukes than got pinch-hitter Leon Wagner to foul out, ending the threat. Bob Burda homered for the Giants in the ninth.

Johnny Bench's three-run homer polished off a four-run first inning as the Reds picked up their fifth straight victory and mathematically eliminated Los Angeles from the West race.

Bench, who hit his 24th homer, also doubled and singled, while Pete Rose, who doubled and scored one run in four trips, moved a step closer to Cleon Jones of the Mets in the battle for the NL batting crown.

Jones, hitless in four trips, dropped to .3434; Rose, who won the title last year with a .335 average, is just .0001 percentage points behind.

Glenn Beckert's double, followed by successive singles by Billy Williams, Ron Santo, Ernie Banks and Jim Hickman, plus two Montreal errors, produced five runs for the Cubs in the sixth inning as they dumped the Expos.

Met Fans Run Wild In Win

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the last five years Karl Ehrhardt of New York has trudged to Shea Stadium on opening day, closing day and Friday nights with 70 signs under his arm.

But Wednesday night he only took 40.

"Tonight's special," he explained. "I left home the 30 signs I use to knock the Mets and took only the good ones ... to celebrate."

It was the first time Ehrhardt, an advertising artist, and the thousands of Mets fans had a chance to celebrate. And what a celebration it was.

In the locker room it was bedlam as the Mets spouted champagne after beating the St. Louis Cardinals 6-0 and completing one of the most incredible turnabouts in sports history by clinching their first championship, the National League's East Division title.

But the real story still was on the field some 30 minutes after the game had ended. It was there that the fans, who had waited through seven incredibly bad years for this sudden windfall, celebrated.

More than the Mets themselves, this was a triumph for their fans. Some 2,000 of the standing room only 56,587 present stormed onto the field shouting "We're No. 1." They sat on the outfield fences, walked on the dugout, climbed the scoreboard.

There were streamers, confetti, firecrackers and horns and wall-to-wall people raising their hands in a triumphant V-for-victory sign.

It took more than 300 policemen to clear the field with several arrests and numerous injuries, including broken arms and legs. One of the scoreboard climbers fell to the ground 25 feet below and was rushed to a hospital.

But this still was their night. They had cheered every batter every play, and in the ninth inning, every pitch. There was never a Mets crowd like this.

"I remember when we used to chase Joe Christopher for an autograph,' said Howard Cotlar of Brentwood, N.Y. "We suffered through 120 losses that first year and the fans now are sstill the same, although now we have something to really cheer."

There was Ehrhardt with his signs—Tonight's The Night, and The Beat Goes On, etc., etccc.

And of the hysterical mass swarming on the field, many others certainly had to be original Met fans who suffered through those first seven years with a team loved more for its bungling than its talent.

Those fans tried to steal every base off the field after the game, but, maybe as a reminder of old Mets, they missed first base.

Aycock Captures First Game 22-0

ROCKY MOUNT — Aycock Junior High School played its first football game in history yesterday, and romped to a 22-0 victory over Edwards Junior High of Rocky Mount.

Mike Harris led the Phantoms to the victory, churning up 121 yards from his halfback position, and scoring two touchdowns and a conversion.

Harris put Aycock into the lead in the first period of the game, going over from four yards out. A two-point conversion attempt failed, leaving the Phants in a 6-0 lead.

In the second period, Harris again did the job, this time with a pounding 78-yard scamper. Calvin Moore added the two-point conversion, making it 14-0 at halftime.

In the final period, Alphonso Hunter scored the final Aycock touchdown on an eight-yard run. Harris ran over the two-point conversion for the final 22-0 score.

Aycock completely outclassed Edwards, grinding out 289 yards in total offense, while holding its opponent to just 70 yards.

Aycock coach Wilson McDowell singled out fulback Hunter, quarterback Stanley Cobb, halfbacks Moore and Harris, and tackle Maurice Shepard for their offensive play, while guards Harding Sugg, Roger Farmer and James Peyton, and tackles Herb Paschal and Sammy Bray drew defensive plaudits.

Aycock will play its first home game next Thursday against Rocky Mount's Parker Junior High.

	Aycock	Edwards
First Downs	11	6
Rushing yardage	272	60
Passing yardage	17	10
Return yardage	24	0
Passes	2-1-0	5-1-1
Punts	2-21	3-17
Fumbles lost	1	2
Yards penalized	55	20
Aycock	6 8 0 8—22
Edwards	0 0 0 0— 0

Scoring: Harris, 4 run (run failed); Harris, 78 run (Moore run) Hunter, 8 run (Harris run).

Pirates Lead Loop In Defense

East Carolina University ranks tops in the Southern Conference in defense after the first week of play, nearly a complete turnaround from last year's statistics.

The Pirates top the league in both total defense and rushing defense, and are second in forward passing defense. Last year, when the season was over, the Bucs were fourth in total defense, third in rushing defense and sixth in pass defense.

Offensively, the Bucs are around the middle of the league, ranking fifth in total offense and fourth in rushing and passing. Last year, the Bucs were fourth in total offense, first in rushing and last in passing.

On the offensive side of the slate, the Pirates are over 200 yards behind total offense leader The Citadel. The Bulldogs piled up 456 yards in their opener, while Richmond is next with 389 yards. Davidson is third with 310 yards, while William & Mary has 250. East Carolina and Furman are tied with 236, while VMI trails with 81.

In total defense, the Bucs lead the league, allowing only 178 yards against East Tennessee. Furman is next with 283, while William & Mary is next at 303 and The Citadel follows with 305. Richmond has allowed 315, Davidson, 387, and VMI, 535.

In rushing, The Citadel leads with 206 yards. William & Mary is second with 182, followed by Furman with 159 and East Carolina with 149.

Defense against the rush again has the Bucs first, as they gave up just 90 yards. Furman is next with 97, while Richmond is third with 112.

Richmond tops the passing department, hitting on 26 of 47 for 373 yards. The Citadel has 17 of 28 for 250 yards, and Davidson is next with 18 of 23 for 207 yards. East Carolina is a distant fourth with eight of 29 for 87 yards.

William & Mary leads the conference in pass defense, allowing only 52 yards in five of 10 attempts. East Carolina is next with nine of 17 for 88 yards. VMI is third, giving up 132 yards in 7 of 18 chances.

The Citadel leads the scoring in the league, getting 41 points, while Davidson is second with 21. The Pirates trail, scoreless. Defensively, the Bucs allowed seven points, and that tops the league. Davidson is second, giving up just eight.

Individually, Richmond's Charlie Richards leads the league in total offense, with 372 yards. Tony Passander of The Citadel is second with 250. East Carolina puts two men in the top eight, with Butch Colson fifth with 120 and Billy Wightman seventh with 94.

Wightman is third in the league in rushing with 74 yards, while Colson is fourth with 69 yards. Joe Pilch of William & Mary leads the loop with 136 yards.

Richards tops the passing with 26 of 47 attempts for 373 yards. East Carolina lists no one in the passing department.

Walker Gillette, Richmond's All-America candidate at end, leads the receivers with 264 yards in 16 catches. Again, East Carolina lists no receivers.

Mike Kelly of Davidson, Pilch and Billy Watson of The Citadel lead the scoring with 12 each.

Carrington Hebert of William & Mary is the leading punter with a 41.5 average. Wightman is tied for third with a 36.4 average.

Volunteers Prepare The Christmas Seals

STUFFING CHRISTMAS SEALS . . . Three members of the Women's Residence Council from ECU who are busy stuffing seals at the TB Association are (L to R) Dianne Matheson, Jane Hand and Edna Cascioli.

The annual project involving the distribution of Christmas Seals throughout the eastern part of the state is underway at the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association on Pitt Street with volunteers offering their services daily towards completion of the campaign.

According to Mrs. Ruth Taylor, campaign director, the actual stuffing of the envelopes with the seals started last week ad will run up into October before the job is completed.

With approximately 65,000 seals to be mailed to residents throughout a 22-county area, Mrs. Taylor said the need for volunteers is critical. So far, various groups of girls have worked on the project and on Monday night, 14 members of the Women's Residence Council from East Carolina University volunteered to stuff the envelopes for the association.

Mrs. Taylor said the Christmas seals will be mailed in November with each envelope containing three sheets of the seals. She urged all girls who have time to help out in the project to contact her at the association.

"With a total of 65,000 seals to be stuffed and mailed, there will be a lot of work ahead in the next few weeks," she said. "We certainly would appreciate volunteers to help out on this campaign."

In addition to Mrs. Taylor, the association employs three full time employees and all of these are busy with the job of preparing for distribution of the seals. Mrs. Ruth Peterson is the executive director of the association, Mrs. Nancy McKeithan, program director, and Mrs. Julia Allen is the secretary.

Alaskan Oil Can Complicate The Global Maneuvers

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

New ingredients have been added to the murky mixture of oil and global politics.

The picture of world oil, the fuel that moves economies, always has been bafflingly complicated. Insatiable global demand requires a constant flow of vast seas of it. Any break or threat of break in the flow causes crisis.

Now the picture becomes even more complex because of recent events: a burgeoning Alaska oil boom, the Northwest Passage odyssey, political upheaval in Libya, hostilities in the Middle East, nervousness in the Arabian peninsula. All these developments raise critically important questions.

Alaska's rivers of black gold should begin flowing from the frozen tundra of the North Slope by 1973. What will be the impact? What is the meaning of the tanker Manhattan's smash through formidable ice to demonstrate that a commercial route to Alaska's oil via the Nortmwest Passage may be possible?

Where will Alaska's oil go? What will be the effect on recurrent Arab East crises? Will the power of Arab oil to threaten Europe's economies be lessened? Will there be less American dependence on Middle East oil? Will oil lose some of its power as an instrument of Arab politics?

The importance of oil to any advanced economy can be imagined from the extent of U.S. consumption. In simple terms, to supply the United States today requires about three gallons daily for each man, woman and child in the country. Thus, the status of U.S. reserves is an enormously important national security question.

Alaska's discovery is one of the biggest ever made. Estimates of reserves in the area run as high as 100. billion barrels, as compared with U.S. reserves elsewhere of 40 billion.

Because of oil, recurrent Arab East explosions have caused crisis and near-panic elsewhere from time to time. That was so in the Suez crisis of 1956 and again in June 1967, during the six-day war in w Israel defeated her Arab neighbors.

New discoveries have eased the situation. Europe gets 52 per cent of its oil from North Africa and Nigeria, most of the rest from the Persian Gulf area. But Libya, now an important producer, recently underwent a coup whose leaders promised to point that North African nation toward "Arab socialism."

There is skittishness, too, about the Arabian peninsula. King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, a major producer, is having trouble with Pan-Arab elements which follow the lead of Egypt s Gamal Abel Na ser. Should Faisal be toppled, it might not be long xefore Kuwait, the neighboringo il sheikhdom, went the same way.

In any case, if Arab-Israeli hostilities develop into yet another fupl-scale war, weab rulars will be under severe pressure to shut off all supplies of oil to the West.

Thus, oil experts say, Alaska's reserves represent a form of insurance. The United States will be in a safer position to supply Europe on an emergency basis, because the reserves are there—even though Alaskan oil will not be flowing for a few years.

If the Northwest Passage proves profitably usable, this would have great impact. It would bring Europe close to the Alaska source.

Skeptics remain unconvinced, but if the Manhattan's breakthrough should ultimately demonstrate a feasible, safe and short route to the East Coast and European markets, the impact a half dozen years hence—with mammoth new ice-breaking tankers available by then—would be heavy. Europe, then, no longer would be at the mercy of wars and political crises in the Middle East.

Some experts say the extent to which U.S. dependence on foreign oil will be diminished depends upon the status of the quotas which now restrict imports. The argument is that if controls are maintained, Alaskan oil will go to U S. markets; that if controls are lifted, it is likely to go primarily to foreign markets. The reason for this, they say, is that lifting of the quotas will permit a heavy flood of foreign oil from the Middle East, Venezuela and elsewhere. Middle East oil in particular is vastly cheaper to produce thon U.S. oil and far cheaper to ship, since U.S. oil, by law, must be carried in U.S.-flag ships.

The controversy over import quotas has been going on 30 years, and came to a head during the isenhower administration with a decision that national security would be endangered by a liberal policy on imports.

The argument on the other side is that limiting imports keeps cheap foreign oil off the U.S. market and thus costs U.S. consumers heavily, and also that it depletes American reserves.

A presidential task force now is reviewing the whole question of quotas, but the argument that the domestic industry must be kept prosperous because of national security make it doubtful that there will be a drastic break with present practice.

Currently, about 21 per cent of U.S. consumption is foreign oil. Experts say that could be lessened to a point where it would be negligible and pose no threat in time of crisis. Thus, oil producers in the Arab East, for example, would be deprived of considerable leverage.

Tucker, Schofield Attend Conference In Washington

East Carolina University was repre ented at the recently conducted first annual "Presidents to Presidents" Conference in Washington, D.C.

Dr. James Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs at ECU, and John Schofield, president of the Student Government Association (for the regular school year term) at ECU, were among 700 delegates attending the conference sponsored by the Association of Student Governments.

A number of well-known national figures participated in the three-day meeting at Sheraton Park Hotel, including Robert Finch, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Walter G. Davis, Director of the Department of Education for the AFL-CIO; Dr. James Allen Jr., U.S. Commissioner of Education; General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of the Selective Service; and Chairman Edith Green of the House Special Subcommittee on Education.

Developed specifically for campus leaders, the conference was designed to eliminate much of the confusion and misunderstandings which have plagued campuses in recent years.

More than 300 colleges and universities were represented at the first annual conference.

"The Association stands for universities where all questions are open to inquiry, deliberation, and debate. We will not stand for a university where these questions are decided by violence and the arbitrary use of authority," it was decreed in recent testimony before the Senate.

Opines Teachers Decide Future

SHELBY N,. C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says the future of North Carolina depends upon the skill of its public school teachers.

He made the statement in a speech prepared for delivery Wednesday night at a Star Teacher program at Shelby High School.

Scott was unable to attend because of a chest cold. His talk was read for him by Dr. William Turner, state director of administration.

The governor challenged the teachers "to let the thread of excellence be woven into the fabric of your life."

Cocktail Lounge Complaint Filed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department brought suit Wednesday to force a Nags Head, N. C., cocktail lounge to serve Negroes on the same basis as it does white persons.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the civil complaint, alleging violations of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, was filed in U. S. District Court in Elizabeth City, N. C.

Named in the action were the Anchor Club Inc. and its manager Wayland J. Sermons.

The government claimed that Anchor Room, part of the Carolinian Motel, is a place of public accommodation and not as its owner contends a private club.

The suit charged that the louge's policy and practice is to discriminate against Negroes.

Sought in the action was a court order to force the lounge to admit and serve blacks on the same basis as whites and to bar the facility from requiring memberships.

Networks Anticipated

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The television networks anticipated months ago the conclusions reached by the report of the National Commission on Violence released Wednesday.

The commission's statement that "violence on television encourages violent forms of behavior" obviously presented a problem for action shows. But script writers already were presenting substitutes. One was displayed over the past two nights: sightlessness.

"Lancer," on CBS, began its second season Tuesday with one of its regular leads temporarily blinded by a sniper's bullet—and the action went from there.

Later in the same night, an ABC show, "Seven in Darkness," told of seven blind people stranded on a mountain.

Wednesday night, NBC's "The Virginian" was a victim—he was blinded by a fall. For most of the show he groped from one peril to another—from poisonous snakes to horse thieves. It ended well when the Virginian was rescued just as he was about to be trampled by wild horses, and he was cured up by that handy prescription—taking it easy for a few days.

"Hawaii Five-O," the CBS police series with its dramatic island backgrounds, also has returned without visible damage from the nonviolence policy. Wednesday night's tale was a switch on the well-used gimmick of war bride swindles.

This time B-girls were collecting widow's insurance money on dead soldiers by means of faked marriage licenses. Three of them died upon receiving their money.

In this case, however, the heavy was portrayed somewhat sympathetically as a psychopath avenging his dead brothe One man with a heart condition was murdered by being frightened to death, and the bad guy was gunned down in a shootout that lasted only a few seconds.

"The Jim Nabors Show," making its CBS bow tonight, comes after all those seasons when Jim was getting established as Gomer Pyle. The hour, previewed, comes off as standard variety with good production values and the usual mix of music and comedy. Its most interesting moments come when the star is being transformed from a backwoods innocent in a Marine uniform into a singing, dancing, sketch-playing TV host in his own series.

In the opening number Nabors and two of his old Marine colleagues, Frank Sutton and Ronnie Schell, are literally stripped of their uniforms.

It will be interesting to see whether, in future shows, Nabors can handle anything more than variations of his Gomer Pyle role. His singing voice is attractive and he has some talented people surrounding him. Only Sutton seems to be uncomfortable in the new environment.

Talk Actors For Governorship

HONONULU (AP) — Richard Denning, who plays the governor on the television series "Hawaii Five-O," has been suggested by a union leader as a possible candidate for the job in real life.

Another actor, Richard Boone, a veteran of movies and the television series "Have Gun, Will Travel," says friends have urged him to seek the GOP nomination and that he is thinking it over.

Arthur Rutledge, head of the Teamsters Union in Hawaii, commented: "If the Republicans want an actor I think they should consider Richard Denning.

$31 Million Suit Against Network

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The Smothers Brothers have filed a $31.1 million damage suit against the Columbia broadcasting System for canceling their show last April.

The brothers, Tom and Dick, came to a parting of the ways with the network in a dispute over censorship of their comedy hour.

Their legal action Wednesday accuses CBS of infringing on their constitutional rights, monopolizing prime time of its 200 affiliated stations in violation of antitrust laws, and breach of contract.

"People have got to wake up," Tom Smothers told a news conference after the legal documents were filed in U.S. District Court. "These are their airwaves. They're not the network's candy stores."

Jetliner Taken To Cuba By Khaki-Clad Hijacker

MIAMI (AP) — A khaki-clad hijacker directed a National Airlines jet to Cuba, declaring, "The Army gave me a raw deal and I'm fed up."

Stewardess Francine G. Palmisano, 21, said the dark-haired man in an Army sergeant's uniform went back to the Boeing 727's galley, pointed a gun at her and said, "We re going to Cuba" when the plane was over Daytona Beach Wednesday night.

But the man . . . said he had eight and a half years in the service. He said he was being transferred from Puerto Rico to Anchorage, said the Army gave him a rough deal and he just didn't want to go," she said.

A passenger, Airman Paul Wright of Charleston, S. C., reported the gunman wore a Vietnam war ribbon on the uniform.

Capt. Walter F. Kuehner, 50, said the hijacker gave the name "A. A. Hernandez" when he boarded the jet at Charleston, S. C.

Kuehner said the soldier, a woman and a small baby remained in Cuba when the plane flew to Miami today.

The airline said the plane had 73 passengers and a crew of seven when it was hijacked. The jet was en route to Miami from Newark, N. J.

Whitmire Vows Avoid Dealings

RALEIGH (AP)—E. J. Whitmire of Franklin, president of Macon Construction Co., says he will avoid any direct or indirect dealings with the state as a member of the North Carolina Highway Commission.

He made the statement Wednesday in a telephone interview from his office after the attorney general's office said it has found no conflict of interest between Whitmire's business operations and his role as a highway commission.

"I am well aware of the fact," he said, "that I am the only contractor to serve on the highway commission in many years and I knew that I would have to be doubly careful when I took the job."

Fire Fatal To Unknown Man

WASHINGTON, N. C. (AP)—An unidentified man died in a fire Wednesday at the Beaufort County fairground stables.

Officers said a laundry tag from Rocky Mount was the only clue to the man's identity.

The stables burned to the ground, but officials said no livestock was in the stables at the time. They added that the fire will not interfere with the fair now in progress.

Young Audiences Seen Formula For Success

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today's formula for successful films: Reach the "now" generation.

For many years the movie industry has known that its market is the young crowd; various surveys have indicated that most filmgoers are under 25. Yet producers seemed unable to fashion its product in the youthful mode. Movie themes continued to be Establishment-oriented, and most top stars were in their 40s, 50s or ven 60s.

Current releases confirm the box office value of youth-orient-

"The Graduate" changed all that. Without name stars or high-powered production,, the film quickly racked up a $50 million gross. Obviously it communicated with youth—and parents went to see it, too, perhaps to learn more about the generation gap.

Current releases confirm the box office value of youth-oriented movies. Such films as "Midnight Cowboy," "Easy Rider," "Goodbye Columbus," "Last Summer" and "Alice's Restaurant" are drawing crowds. Their casts are composed mostly of unknowns and the budgets are slight. Yet they are doing better business than most expensive productions with big-name stars.

The major companies are gettin the message.

Louis F. Polk, new president of MGM, visited the studio recently and remarked: "MGM will become more aggressive in trying to make pictures contemporary and more rapidly than ever, films that make a social comment, that deal with the things of today."

Richard Zanuck recently assumed the presidency of 20th Centruy-Fox, adding the post to his producion duties at the studio. At 34, he is the youngest of the top film bosses, and it appears natural he would favor movies of greater appeal to the young audience.

The advantages of the youth-oriented films are many. besides the large audience, there are these economic fatcors:

1. Star names are unimportant—hence the budget is not burdened by stars who demand from a half-million to a million dollars.

2. Youthful directors can be used, and the new breed of directors often shoot faster and sometimes better than Hollywood veterans. They also prefer to work in authentic locales, thus avoiding studio overhead.

There are disadvantages as well:

1. Such talent can sometimes be undisciplined. Refusing studio advice, the new film makers may bring forth movies that make no sense and evoke no response from audiences.

2. The explicit depiction of sex and other censorable matters can bring problems. But censorshup is becoming less and less of a problem.

Reception Last Evening For New Dean Of Women

East Carolina University President and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins honored Miss Carolyn Fulghum at a reception Wednesday night. Miss Fulghum is the new dean of women at ECU.

Arrangements of flowers in varying hues of red accented the new and red and white decor of the president's home. Lighted candles in five-branched silver candelabra enhanced the dining room table from which were served refreshments decorated to accent the color scheme.

Assisting in serving refreshments were sophomore students, who serve as student counselors in the freshmen dormitories. They were Susie Clifton, Barbara Banister, Brenda Leggett, Patsy McCandless, Ben Mary Bradley and Hazel Gay.

Miss Fulghum was presented a white carnation corsage by the hostess.

Among the special guests for the occasion were Miss Fulghum's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L.D. Fulghum, Sims, Mrs. Addie Daniel, Wilson, and Miss Fulghum's brother, Keith Fulghum of Kenly and Mrs. Fulghum.

Miss Fulghum received booth the BS and MA degrees from East Carolina University. She has served as educational counselor, assistant dean of women, upon the retirement of Miss Ruth White earlier this year.

Launchings Postponed Due Rocket Failures

CAPE KENNEDY F,la. (AP) — Three satellite launchings are being delayed up to six weeks while investigators probe recent Delta rocket failures. One postponed project is intended to put Britain's first communications spacecraft into orbit.

The sleek Delta booster, which once had a success record of around 90 per cent, has failed three times in the last 12 launchings.

The most recent flop occurred Aug. 27 when a Delta veered off course eight minutes after liftoff and had to be destroyed by a signal from a range safety officer. It carried a $7 million Pioneer spacecraft bound for orbit around the sun.

Following that failure, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration named committees to conduct a two-pronged investigation.

One is probing the Aug. 7 failure, attributed to a fault in the hydraulic system of the Delta's first stage.

A second panel is conducting a general review of the entire Delta system.

Britain's communications satellite, once set to blast off Wednesday of this week, has been rescheduled for launch Nov. 5.

An improved U.S. weather satellite which was to have been launched Oct. 15 is now expected to rocket into orbit Nov. 19 from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

Also delayed is a new commercial communications satellite, once scheduled for launch from Cape Kennedy Oct. 22, now grounded until at least Nov. 3.

Demonstration Welcomes Prexy

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — About 700 shouting and singing students marched on the home of the Ohio University president Wednesday night. But unlike many other campus demonstrators, they were not protesting.

They were welcoming Dr. Claude R. Sowle, the university's new president, at the start of the academic year.

"Normally I don't like student demonstrations," Swole told the gathering. "But I'd be glad to have one of these every day."

Round Trip By Escort Vessel

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — One of the tanker SS Manhattan's two escort icebreakers, the Coast Guard vessel Northwind, is the first U.S. ship to travel both ways through the ice-laden Northwest Passage. The Northwind experienced engine trouble on escort duty and was replaced by the icebreaker Staten Island, as an accompanying ship for the Manhattan on her return, eastbound voyage.

Jury Notice For Richard Nixon

NEW YORK (AP)—The name was selected from the jury rolls by a computer and the notice duly mailed to 810 Fifth Ave. There it was forwarded to the tenant's new address--1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Richard M. Nixon, the computer notice said, should report "in person" on or before Sept. 26 for jury duty.

Wednesday the White House replied that the President was exempt from jury duty on several counts—because he's a lawyer, because he no longer lives in Manhattan and because he has more important things to do.

Fire Alarm Rung By 8-Year-Old

Greenville firemen responded to an alarm from Box 235 at the intersection of North and South Overlook Drives at 3:10 p. m. and reported the call was a false alarm.

Greenville police investigators said an 8-year-old boy pulled the alarm. The officers said the youth told them he turned in the alarm after being threatened by another youth.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service says 456,614 immigrants entered the United States in 1967.

Allied Battlefield Deaths Drop During Week

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American and south Vietnamese battlefield deaths dropped last week to their lowest levels in the past six weeks, allied headquarters announced today, while enemy casualties increased more than 200 compared with the week before.

The U.S. Nommand said 135 Americans were killed in action, the lowest toll since the week of Aug. 3-9 when 96 Americans died.

South Vietnamese battlefield deaths last week dropped to 97, compared to more than 500 during each of the previous two weeks. It was the lowest government toll since Aug. 3-9, when 5 government soldiers were reported killed.

Allied forces reported killing Cong soldiers last week, compared to 2,361 reported last Thursdayand a revised total of 2,403 reported today.

"The enemy activity continued to decrease last week, especially at week's end," the Saigon government said. "Compared to that of the previous week, it has come down by 29 per cent."

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said he attached no particular significance to the drop in American battlefield deaths. He pointed out that the total had "fluctuated only a very few" during the past three weeks: 137 three weeks ago, 143 two weeks ago and 1335 last week.

The spokesman said the level of enemy activity also has been about the same for the past three weeks, with an verage of 210 rocket and mortar attacks every 24 hours.

Meanwhile, U.S. fighter-bombers swooped down on a North Vietnamese munitions depot in the jungle 47 miles northwest of Saigon Wednesday, killed 22 soldiers guarding it and blew up a large store of rockets and mortar shells.

"When the second jet went in, a 500-pound bomb hit right on target," said Capt. Charles D. Link of St. Petersburg, Fla., a forward air controller. "A tremendous explosion rocketed dirt and debris up to nearly 1,500 feet.'

Sweeping through the supply depot later Wednesday, troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division found two tons of munitions and a small quantity o fmedical supplies that had not been destroyed.

There was no estimate of how many rockets and mortars the planes destroyed.

The air attack was touche off by Air Cavalrymen out patrolling to disrupt enemy preparations for the new round of heavy attacks U.S. commanders anticipate.

The Americans came on a platoon of 35 to 40 North Vietnamese in heavily fortified bunkers 15 miles northeast of Tay Ninh City and kept them pinned down with rifle, machine-gun and artillery fire until the jets rolled in.

The sweep after the air attack also turned up the bodies of two more North Vietnamese killed by the ground troops.

No U.S. casualties were reported.

Other American reconnaissance forces north of Saigon also turned up war stores and ran into small groups of North Vietnamese soldiers, indicating the enemy is trying to get into position for a series of attacks.

Air Cavalrymen 66 miles north of Saigon found six tons of rice cached in 200 pound bags. In scattered contacts 24 to 97 miles north of the capital, U.S. forces killed 36 North Vietnamese soldiers in the past 24 hours, the U.S. Command reported. Two Americans were killed and four wounded.

Six waves of B52 bombers dropped 900 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese bases along the Cambodian border north of Saigon and along the southern edge of the demilitarized zone.

The U.S. Command reported 17 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the night but ssaid over-all casualties were light.

Two U.S. observation helicopters were shot down and destroyed Wednesday, and four crewmen were wounded, the U.S. Command said. The losses raised to 3,044 the number of American helicopters reported lost in the Vietnam war.

Viet Cong terrorists threw a renade into a hamlet meeting place near Da Nang, killing four civilians and a policeman and wounding 26 civilians. The wounded included a village chief and two village commissioners.

A bus hit a Viet Cong mine on a main highway 95 miles southeast of Da Nang, killing 14 Vietname e civilians. There were no raports of survivors.

Nursing Homes Suffer A Deficiency In Doctors

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's nursing homes suffer a chronic deficiency in doctors.

For the sick and dying, the average amount of doctor's care may be only a few minutes a month.

Of all a doctor's patients at office and hospital, the one in the nursing home is usually the last he sees.

And to a nursing home, the telephone becomes a more important medical instrument than the stethoscope.

In state after state across the nation, an Associated Press investigation has found nurses meet emergencies by telephoning doctors who prescribe drugs without having seen their patients for weeks or months.

"Telephone medicine is a fact of life in nursing homes," said one state's top inspector.

"We'll even do it with some narcotics," soid another state nursing supervisor in New Jersey. "You know how hard it is to get a doctor at 3 o'clock in the morning."

The blame for neglect falls more on America's doctors than the nursing homes.

Many doctors, already hard pressed to keep up their hospital cases, don't find the time to visit nursing home patients with any regularity. Other doctors admit frankly they feel they can do more for the patients who have a chance at life than the aged and the dying.

An Illinois nursing home operator said, "I was shocked the first time I asked one doctor, 'Why don't you come more often?' and he said, 'To tell the truth, it depresses the hell out of me.'"

Both the governmentand the mdedical profession now back the goal of a visit to nursing home patients by a doctor a minimum of once a month.

But in Topeka, Kans., a comprehensiveo fficial study of the areo's nrusing homes last year showed fully one-fourth of all the patients had not been seen by a doctor in at least six months.

In one large Topeka home, th total was three-fourths without a doctor's visit in half a year.

In another government-financed study of more than 100 homes throughout Minnesota, researchers computed the averoge amount of doctor's care per patient at less than 2½ minutes a week.

A physician who manages a home in St. Paul, Minn., pointed to one of his patients and said, "that woman—her doctor hasn't seen her in five years."

With federal programs now paying $1.6 billion a year to finance most of the nursing home care in the nation through medicaid and medicare, a crackdown is on the books. But it has yet to reach the bedside.

A sleeper proposal in new standards adopted this summer for medicaid, the huge program of health care for the poor, requires a minimum of one doctor's visit each month.

But spot checks of actual medical records showed the requirement is not being enforced widely yet.

Frank Frantz, a federal official who helped draw up the new medicaid regulations, said, "The lack of a doctor is at the root of a lot of the problems in nursing homes. But I don't think the 30-day requirement will solve them."

Frantz said, "It's a question of how the doctor uses the nursing home. I think it's a difference of whether a nursing home is to be where a physician puts a person or where he practices medicine."

In nursing homes, most medical treatment is practiced by nurses or low-paid aides.

A nurse, confronted with a crisis, telephones the patient's doctor, describes symptoms, and gets a prescription.

States usually require doctors to sign their telephone orders afterwards, but are lax on how soon they must do it. Arizona for instance, instructs a doctor to sign the records on his next trip—but requires he visit the nursing home only once a year.

In Minnesota, nursing homes mail the doctors a form to sign, and the patient may remain unseen by the physician for weeks.

Minnesota does require that, unless a doctor spells out a specific period for a prescription, the drugs should be cut off after seven days. But enforcement is slipshod.

In one Minnesota home a chloral hydrate prescription had run for six years without any specific instruction.

The case embarassed the city's inspector, who serves on the board of directors of the same church-owned nursing home in what she said "may be a conflict of interest."

The inspector told the practical nurse on duty, "You don't order a drug forever, you know."

"That's what we've been doing," answered the nurse. "What else can you do? So many of our doctors aren't coming in. We have a hard time even contacting doctors by telephone."

The absence of doctors,1 the diagnosis from a distance and the easy use of grugs add up to an unhealthy situation in many of America's nursing homes.

In California, inspectors said half of all violations of state regulations they find in nursing homes involve problems in carrying ou the patient care ordered by doctors.

"Lots of times things are ordered and the nurse doesn't write it down, or she writes it down incrrectly," said Dr. Gottlieb L. Oirth of Los ngeles' health department.

One out of every seven drug prescriptions administered by a nurse is carried out wrong, according to figures cited in a study presented at a recent medical convention.

In a nursing home in a decaying neighborhood in Los Angeles,, a manual of instructions for the nurses includes the section: "Critical Condition—What to Do."

Clipped to the page is a business card with the phone number of a funeral home.

Proposed Amendments Not On Nov. 4 Ballott

RALEIGH (AP) — Seven proposed amendments to the North Carolina constitution will not be voted on along with a local option sales tax Nov. 4 because the tax referendum is a special election.

The state Supreme Court said in an advisory opinion Wednesday that since the sales tax referendum is not a general election, the constitutional amendments do not have to be submitted to the voters at that time.

The amendments will be voted on in 1970 when the next general election is held.

Gov. Bob Schott released the court s ruling after requesting an advisory opinion on the question.

The 1969 General Assembly authorized that a local option 1 per cent sales tax be voted on in each of the state's 100 counties in a special election Nov. 4.

The legislature authorized that the amendments to the constitution be submitted to the voters in the next general election. The amendments include a general revision of the constitution.

Two members of the Supreme Court, associate justices Carlisle Higgins and I. Beverly Lale, declined to express their views.

It was their opinion they should not express their views on any specific issue "until that issie is presented to the court for decision in an appropriate judicial proceeding between adversary parties to a justiciable controversy."

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan had advised Gov. Scott Aug. 26 that in his opinion the sales tax to be voted on is a special election. However, he suggested an advisory opinion be requested from the court.

No Authority To Change Penalty

RALEIGH (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan says no one in North Carolina has authority to change the death sentence of Frank Marion Crawford or set him free as ordered by the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Morgan made the statement Wednesday in announcing he has asked the circuit court to either order a new trial for Crawford or reverse its earlier ruling.

The court ordered the state in July to either change Crawford's death sentence to one of life in prison or release him.

Crawford, 31, was convicted in February, 1963, of murder in the rape-strangulation of an 8-year-old girl at Winston - Salem.

The circuit court based its opinion on a U. S. Supreme Court ruling that persons opposed to the death penalty cannot be excluded from juries because of that opposition.

Crawford's death sentence became automatic when the jury which convicted him failed to recommend mercy. However, the circuit court ordered Crawford re-sentenced without a new trial.

Crawford has won several last minute reprieves. In 1964, he was 34 minutes from the gas chamber when federal Judge Algernon Butler stayed his execution to permit his attorneys to file another appeal.

Haynsworth Opponents Expect His Confirmation

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. still foresee his confirmation despite unexpectedly long committee hearings and continued controversy.

A leading Democratic liberal in the Senate told a reporter that although he intends to vote against President Nixon's nomination of Haynsworth, he thinks it will be approved by a lop-sided margin.

The senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, estimated there might be four or five votes in the 17-member Judiciary Committee against the nomination and around 20 to 25 in the Senate, with its 100 members.

Civil rights leader Clarence Mitchell, one of today's witnesses, also said "it doesn't look so good" when asked how he assessed the chances of blocking the nomination.

Mitchell, director of the NAACP's Washington, D.C., office, however told a reporter that while he expects the Judiciary Committee to recommend Haynsworth's confirmation, he is hopeful opposition will build in the Senate itself.

A similar view came from Stephen I. Schlossberg, general counsel of the United Auto Workers Union, who testified Wednesday against Haynsworth's nomination.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., a committee member who has indicated he will vote against the nomination, told a reporter he has detected "no groundswell building up" against Haynsworth.

But he said the committee, at hearings which began Aug. 16, "has been building up a record that could be used against Haynsworth" when the nomination is brought up for action in the Senate.

Wednesday's hearing, given over to opponents, was sparsely attended by committee members. Most of the day only three or four senators were present.

In addition to Schlossberg, spokesmen for the AFL-CIO and the electrical workers union urged rejection of Haynsworth, now chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

Elliot Bredhoff, general counsel of the AFL-CIO's industrial union department, said Haynsworth's decisions "reveal a singularly unsupportable antilabor record."

He also testified Haynsworth had shown "too loose an attitude' toward the Cannons of Judicial Ethics 'and the 'federal law on conflicts of interest.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
4 ◇	Pass	4 NT	Pass
6 ◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

The selection of the best opening lead involves something more than a mere study of the 13 cards held by the leader. His holding must be considered in the light of the bidding sequence which led to the final contract. And occasionally even a thought must be given to the probable mental processes of the adversary who directed the final contract.

The bidding is recorded as it actually took place, without indorsement and for what it may be worth. The South player was employing the Blackwood convention and expected to obtain an answer advising as to the number of aces held by North. North, however, took matters into his own hands. He felt confident that there was a slam in the hand when South was able to make a jump shift with an apparent broken trump suit. He feared that if he made the dutiful response of five diamonds, showing only one ace, his partner might lose heart and pass, so he leaped to slam.

West had the opportunity to make a very safe lead of the jack of spades. But he was not so much concerned with safety as with aggressive tactics to beat the hand. He himself held a rather significant amount of honor strength in view of the vigorous nature of the adverse bidding, and he set about visualizing the type of hand which would have induced the enemy to venture so far.

It was evident that North was very strong in diamonds, which would mean that South's trump suit was not a very powerful one. What then persuaded South to make a jump shift instead of a mere temporizing take-out to two diamonds? West concluded that South must have been influenced to a certain extent by a mild heart fit, because with a nonsolid trump suit and a misfit in partner's suit, it is not probable that he would have given an immediate slam signal.

Now, if North happened to have a five card heart suit and South had three, East would have a singleton. On this line of reasoning he elected to lead the ace and another heart which defeated the contract when East ruffed the second trick with the deuce of diamonds. It may perhaps sound a bit thin, but it seems to me rather interesting. Furthermore, who are we to argue with success.

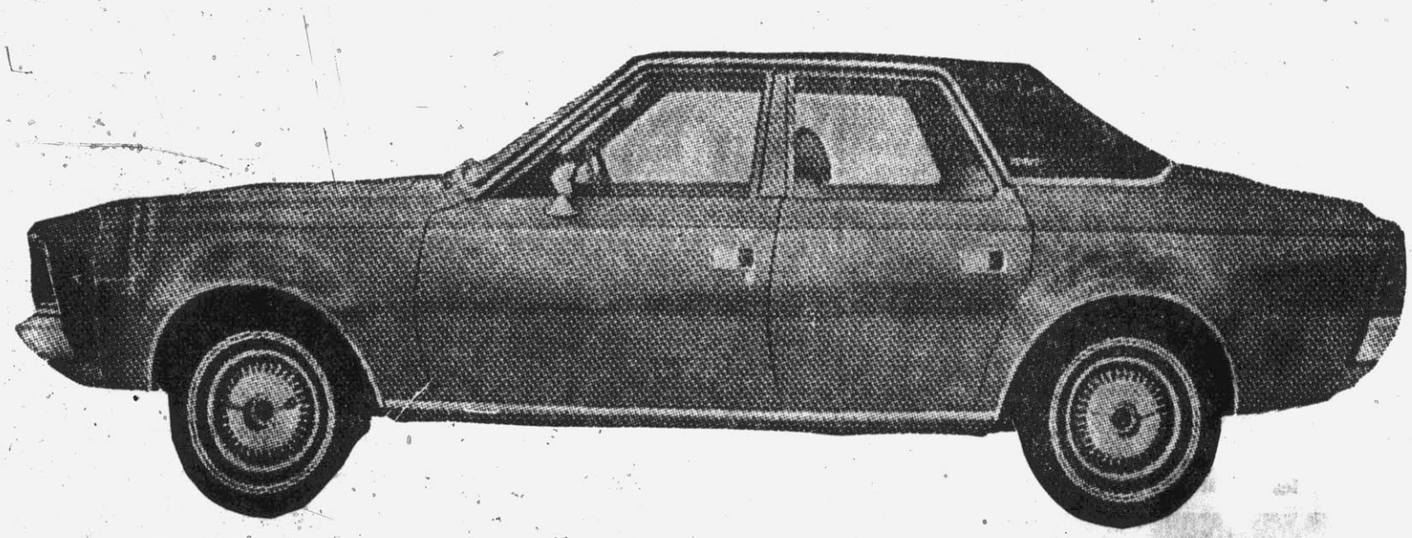
101 HOOKER ROAD

The Little Rich Car.



The little car you are looking at is the American Motors' Hornet

It took over forty million dollars, three years, and one million man hours to get it to this page.

It is an entirely new car idea.

So new, in fact, that we created a multi-million dollar production assembly line from scratch just to produce it.

The Hornet is the first car in America designed to prove that the word small doesn't automatically stand for cheap.

For, although it is little, it is by no means humble.

It offers more unbridled luxury per square inch than any other car of its type.

Compare it with anything on display in any showroom in the country and you'll soon see what we mean.

The Hornet weighs one and a third tons. That is a lot of expensive weight to pack onto a little frame, but worth it for the extra stability and security that it gives you.

The Hornet is a full six feet wide, with a stance wide enough to handle like a sports car on a turn.

The Hornet rests on a one hundred and eight inch wheelbase. This longer wheelbase helps smooth out bumps in the road and gives you a ride you would not believe in a car this size.

Walk around the car from front to rear.

Notice that the Hornet has a solid aluminum grille.

Notice that the bumpers are not just stuck on, but are shaped to follow the contours of the car.

Notice that even the door handles are tucked away to give the car one smooth, pure line.

Open a door and listen for the reassuring thunk you get when you close it.

Look at the wheels. Electronically balanced at the factory, they are a full fourteen inches in diameter and they cost more.

Open the hood. It is counterbalanced to stay open. You don't need a rod to hold it up.

Look at the engine. Standard six cylinder, one hundred twenty eight horsepower A bigger base engine than any other car of its type.

Inspect the interior.

Scientifically designed contoured seat backs (very comfortable), retractable seat belts (more expensive), a glove box (we wouldn't mention this, but not every little car has one).

Everything about the Hornet literally says rich just as it stands. But there's more.

The Hornet offers luxury options that you just won't find on the average compact:

Power steering. Power brakes. Reclining seats. Custom upholstery. A 304 cubic inch V-8 engine. Vinyl roof. Air-conditioning.

You can add any or all of these, enjoy the comfort and convenience derived therefrom, and still get phenomenal gas mileage, easier maintenance, and the parking spots passed up by cars that are too big to fit.

How much will you have to pay for the privilege?

The Hornet goes on sale September 25th, priced from $1994 to $3589—or anywhere in between.

Depending on how rich you want to get.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks continued their losing ways in moderate trading this afternoon, as declines, paced by several glamor issues, extended thier lead over advances by nearly 100 issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon fell 2.05 at 832.63.

"It's v ry much the same as you have had for the last several days," commented one analyst. "You have a market in hesitant anticipation, anticipating a sequence of events that would involve inflationary and Vietnam war policies."

"The market has to break out of this 830-840 DJI band in order to get any sort of trend,' he added.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon dipped .4 to 290.9, with industrials and rails off .5, and utilities up .1.

Tobaccos were up, while rubbers, electronics and rails were mostly off. Steels, motors, aircrafts, utilities, metals, chemicals, and airlines were mixed.

The midday trading spotlight fell on glamor issues which continued to be subjected to profit taking, say analysts, after sharp rises last week and on Monday.

Among the glamors were:

Polaroid, 129⅜, off 5¼; IBM' 353, off 4, and Boise Cascade, 69½ off 2.

Among the 20 most-active issues on the Big Board, Public Service Co. of Colorado headed the list at 19¼, off ¼ on 158,900 shares, including a 100,000-share block. However, the utility hit a new year's low of 19 in earlier trading today.

Data Products Inc. remained the most-active issue on the American Stock Exchange at 15⅜, up ⅜, on 407,000 shares.

Of the 20 issues, 11 were moving up while 7 were declining and 2 were unchanged.

Judge Continues Order Allowing Bank Merger

WILSON—Federal District Judge John Larkins yesterday continued an order issued September 19 which in effect permitted State Bank and Trust Co. of Greenville to merge with North Carolina National Bank of Charlotte on Monday.

Judge Larkins' order was issued after a complaint was filed in U.S. Eastern District Court by Judson H. Blount Jr. of Greenville seeking to restrain the merger of the two banks.

T. H. Stubbs, law clerk for Judge Larkins explained that "the effect of the order was to nullify provisions. . .that would have stayed the effectiveness of the merger."

Stubbs termed yesterday's ordr," and said State and NCNB still must file an answer or otherwise plead to the complaint.

Remodeled Store Is Opened Yesterday

Harris Super Market on Tenth Street opened the doors to their remodeled store yesterday with East Carolina University president Dr. Leo Jenkins handling the ribbon cutting honors.

Construction on the new addition to the store and also work on inside remodeling began three months ago and were completed just prior to the opening to the public.

Durwood Harris, who with his brother Ed, owns the facility, said the revamping included an addition of around 8,500 square feet of space, bringing the total to nearly 19,000 square feet of floor space.

He added that the parking area on the outside had been doubled and also an additional entrance had been included. The store is now equipped with automatic doors which open from the inside or outside.

The interior has been redecorated in a brown theme and more lineal footage has been added in the frozen food lockers, dairy case and meat case. In addition, 200 feet of shelf space has been included.

Harris said that the new store is equipped with a new lighting system and complete sound (music) system for the entire store. He noted that prior to remodeling, the music system was set up for only a portion of the store.

The enlarging of the floor space necessitated the addition of 75 more shopping carts and also another check-out counter and cash register, Harris added. All aisles have been widened to eight feet specifications.

Harris added that overall the store has been remodeled with the convenience of the customers in accessibility of all items in mind.

Manager of the market is Garland Taylor of Greenville.
