Vietnam Peace Efforts Being Undercut: Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said today that proposals for a firm cutoff date on U. S. military involvement in Vietnam "undercut and destroy" his efforts to hasten a peace settlement.

Enjoying 'People Food'

CORN ON THE COB — Snarl, the pet cat of Mr. and Mrs. William Walters Jr., of St. Petersburg, Fla., decided to give "people food" a try when the family's backs were turned. The way Snarl went after the corn she may never go back to eating cat food. (AP Wirephoto)

President Asks Social Security Benefits Boost

By G. C. THELEN Jr. WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has proposed $4.25 billion hikes in Social Security reforms and benefits plus a new automatic locking of the system to cost-of-living increases.

The President outlined his unexpectedly broad proposals for Social Security change Thursday to a Congress apparently eager to go him one better on better liberalization.

ployer through 1970. Present law calls for maintenance of the $7,800 wage base. Therefore despite the proposal for a levy rollback, a worker making the wage maximum would pay $54 more a year under the President's proposal in 1972—$459 versus $405.

N.C. Ignores Effort To Slow Nation's Economy

RALEIGH (AP) — Administration efforts to slow the nation's economy appear to be having little effect in North Carolina.

of 197.6. This was up 0.6 per cent from July and up 7.9 per cent from August of last year.

Wachovia reported that the state's non-agricultural employment rose 0.5 per cent from July to August, to a total of 1,688,400, an increase of 8,200.

Marston Is Appointed Bank's City Executive

J. T. Marston Jr. has been appointed city executive of the newest office of North Carolina National Bank here.

comes one of 18 such boards in NCNB's statewide system.

Wachovia reported that employment in textiles and tobacco manufacturing rose in August over July, but declined in the food and kindred products industry.

Marston was president of State Bank and Trust Co. which merged with NCNB Monday.

Local board members will serve the dual function of giving counsel to the Greenville office and of advising bank management of happenings and trends that might affect overall bank operations.

The youths entered the building shouting, "We're going to close this place down!" and "We are SDS!"

The appointment of Marston was announced today by NCNB president Thomas I. Storrs.

"In sum," Storrs declared, "we do not propose to run our Greenville office from Charlotte or Greensboro or anywhere else. We propose to run it locally, calling on management elsewhere in our system for advice and assistance as needed."

Ronald Brunner, a research fellow conducting a seminar on political participation, was pushed to the floor and kicked in the groin.

In addition to Marston, the new city board is composed of three other bank officers—M.K. Blount, vice-president, J. Curtis Hendrix, vice-president and B.B. Sugg Jr., senior vice-president and trust officer — and M.W. Aldridge, Tom R. Andrews, A.R. Barrett, W.S. Bost, Howard L. Hodges Jr., Charles W. Howard Jr., J.B. Kittrell Jr., Reynolds May, John F. Minges, Ray D. Minges, W.M. Scales Jr., Brantley Speight, B.B. Speight Sr., Ercell Webb, A.J. White Jr., and W.W. Wood.

The addition of the Greenville offices now brings NCNB's statewide system to 90 offices in 27 North Carolina communities.

Appointed

Two Pitt County men have been appointed to state boards, according to announcements from Gov. Robert Scott's office yesterday.

C. D. Langston, president of the Bank of Winterville and a farmer, has been given a four-year term on the State Board of Assessment. Langston and his wife, the former Mary Ida McLawhorn, live on Route 1, Winterville. They have one daughter, Mary Virginia, 23, who works for Congressman John Flint of Georgia.

Appointed to the newly created North Carolina Hear- ing Aid Dealers Licensing Board is Hubert T. Smith of Belton Hearing Aid Service in Greenville.

He and his wife, Faye, live at 1401 Red Banks Road. They have one child.

L.H. Garner Named Chairman Of Salvation Army Campaign

Leslie H. Garner of Greenville has been named chairman of the Salvation Army Christmas campaign, it was announced by advisory board chairman James W. Brewer.

Planning for the annual Christmas appeal has begun, members of the advisory board of the Greenville Corps were told at their September meeting Tuesday.

Members of the board, for the first time since June, pledged their support of the upcoming Pitt County United Fund drive.

Garner, also chairman of the welfare committee, reported 212 persons assisted during July and August. The Salvation Army distributed some 2,514 garments, 54 pairs of shoes, 17 items of furniture, 15 grocery orders, provided 21 nights of lodging, 36

Center Raided By 'Viet Cong'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A score of youthful Viet Cong sympathizers assaulted staff members and broke windows in a 10-minute raid Thursday on Harvard University's Center for International Affairs.

University officials said four persons were injured by the gang, which left before police reached the scene.

The youths entered the building shouting, "We're going to close this place down!" and "We are SDS!"

Ronald Brunner, a research fellow conducting a seminar on political participation, was pushed to the floor and kicked in the groin.

Dr. Benjamin H. Brown, an adviser, was cut on the ear when one of the group hit him on the head and pushed him down a flight of stairs. Maury Feld, a librarian, was wrestled down a stairway when he tried to call police. His telephone was ripped out.

An elderly secretary was treated for a bruised hip. Asst. Prof. James Kurth said he was punched repeatedly in the face.

"We're doing this to you for what you're doing to the Vietnamese people!" one attacker yelled.

Outside the building, other members of the gang pelted windows with rocks and used red paint to stencil slogans on the walls, including, "NLF will win."

The National Liberation Front is the Viet Cong's political arm. As they left, the demonstrators chanted "Ho, Ho, Ho Chi Minh, NLF is bound to win."

PROTESTORS COOL IT — It was the beginning of the end for protest marches of Hillsborough parents and children in Tampa, Fla. yesterday, and a few cooled their tired toes. Marches had been held to protest denial of bus transportation. Children breaking in new school shoes had blisters on their blisters during the hike and parents got enough walking to take the creaks out of their joints. (AP Wirephoto)

Military 'Take Over' In Bolivia

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Military leaders took over another government in Latin America today. A movement headed by Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, commander in chief of the armed forces, overthrew the civilian government of President Luis Siles Salinas.

Bolivia thus joined Argentina, Paraguay, Brazil and Peru among South American governments under military rule.

Elsewhere in the hemisphere, Panama, El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua are under direct or indirect military control.

The coup took place while Siles Salinas was out of La Paz. A communique issued by the commanders of the three armed forces of Bolivia said they took action "to avoid the danger of anarchy, capitulation and disorder."

They said the country was calm but suspended all activities in the nation and urged people to stay in their homes.

Siles, 44, was elevated to the presidency last April when President Rene Barrientos was killed in a helicopter crash.

Siles, was known as a strict constitutionalist and, as vice president, headed the convention which wrote Bolivia's current constitution, the 16th in the nation's history.

Delegation Going To Washington

A delegation composed of Greenville City Board of Education members, local state attorneys, and the city school superintendent will leave Greenville Sunday for Washington, D. C. to appear before the Office of General Counsel on Monday morning for a hearing.

Dr. Clet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, revealed that local attorneys W.W. Speight and William Brewer, and Andrew Vanore, attorney from the N.C. Attorney General's office; Dr. E.B. Aycock, chairman of the Greenville Board of Education, and at least three members of the board, will be making the trip to Washington. Dr. Cleetwood also is at-point. Officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare have long maintained that the city's school plan for 1969-70 is not acceptable insofar as the geographical zoning of elementary schools results in an all-

Negro school at Sadie Sautler. HEW directed the board to pair Sadie Sautler and Agnes Full-love in order to meet their guidelines.

The Board of Education has never agreed to this proposition, and the hearing Monday was set up to make an effort to resolve the differences and to reach an agreement on this point.

Designs Are Updated In Furniture World

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Young married shoppers often favor Mediterranean or early American furnishings for their homes even though they plan an eclectic atmosphere.

The so-called mod, op, pop youth movement doesn't survive the honeymoon, although avant-garde decorating is popular with the deb set.

Young people like modern furnishings but they can't afford to buy an expensive piece of furniture that will be outmoded in a few years. Mediterranean looks solid and long-lasting.

Modern and contemporary furnishings in wood, chrome, leathers or plastics, upholstered slab frames, chrome and steel swivel bases are design achievements, but acceptance is slow. Give it time—parsons's tables are accepted now by confirmed traditionalists. Plexiglas is popular with young people.

Much of the great modern is imported from Germany, Italy, Denmark, Sweden, but principles of these imports are being incorporated in American-made furniture. Selig does a handsome line of Italian style sofas and chairs of foam with wood and spring construction to provide stability.

One Scandinavian design (Dux) incorporates a new modular system—a basic seating unit with armless, legless, upholstered cushions. Companion ottomans turn a chair into a chaise or two chairs into a banquette or sofa arrangement. Another Swedish import is vinyl-covered polystyrene.

Some traditional offerings may accomplish—design and colorwise—what home furnishings specialists have failed to do: bring the steadfast traditionalist into a more modern decorating atmosphere, piece by piece.

An old music stand becomes a slim five-shelf "etagere" (Globe Furniture) to hold curios and its pretty yellow cannot help but inject a contemporary look into an American Colonial scheme. There are Victorian love seats covered in splashy abstract prints and cocktail tables built on old design themes such as trunks and chests that have been updated with chromes, steel, heavy hardware for a modern look. One campaign chest by American of Martinsville is a handsome bedroom piece.

A Chinese-inspired glass-topped table with a tortoise finish is a go-with-anything piece. (Henredon).

Counter stools in decorator colors are updated with geometric leg designs of tubular steel.

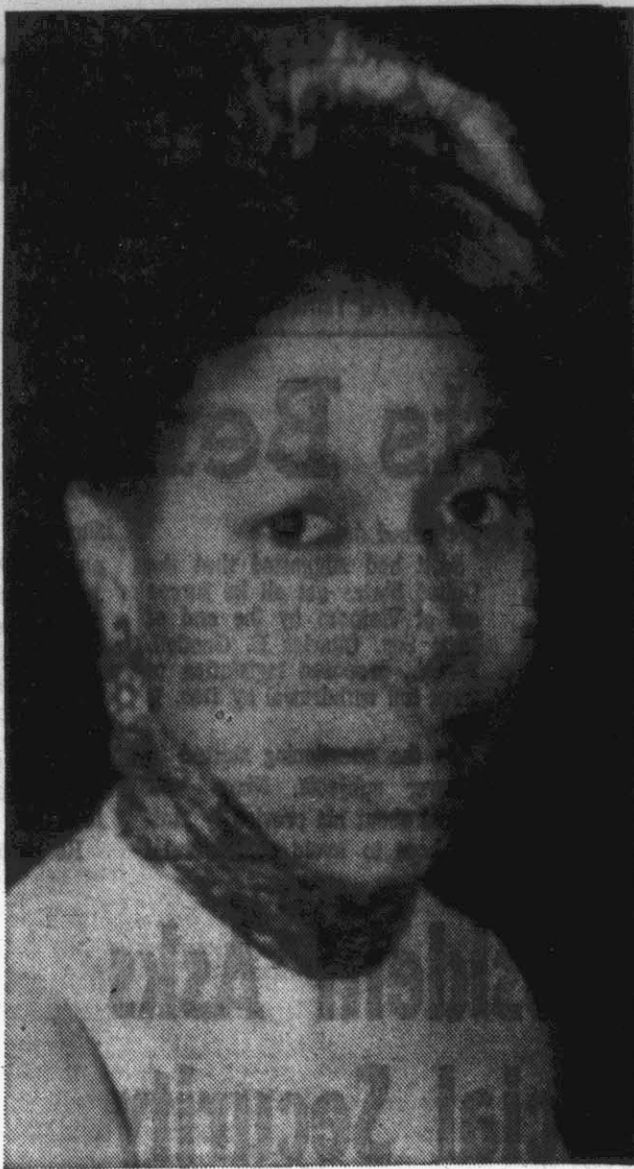

It is the shape of new furniture designs that is so interesting. In addition to the unrelenting and slab constructions, there are tub shapes, U-shapes, Z-shapes and S-shapes in chairs, stools, chaises.

More manufacturer are encouraging one-stop shopping by expanding their lines. One company (Baumritter) has designed televisions as compatible adjuncts to their American line. In recent years, the firm also has added lamps, accessories, pictures, bedding and carpets to its line. This is a big help to the woman who decorates without professional assistance.

Game tables are popular additions to many furniture lines, and are sought-after items at antiques shows and auctions.

One new game table offers indoor-outdoor versatility with folding chairs. Another is a dual purpose table with vivid-colored dining trays that nest into place. One table is topped with a suede-like easy-care fabric, Fontera, and trimmed in metal.

Another interesting game table designed by Austin Cox, an industrial designer, was a popular item at the New York Lamp and Home Furnishings show. The chessboard table, with the game's 64 squares, is chrome and walnut with a soft nylon velour top. The storage unit is used as an accessory.

A 'Warm Thank You' Would Put Her In Proper Place

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently elected president of his lodge. A woman I know came up to me and said, "Congratulations. So Morris accepted the presidency of the lodge. That was real nice of him. I heard nobody else would take it."

What answer would you have given her to put her in her place?

MORRIS' WIFE
DEAR WIFE: If she really didn't know better, her "place" is in the corner with the rest of the dunces. But if she actually meant it as a dig, the most effective reaction would have been a warm "thank you"—as the her knife had missed its target.

DEAR ABBY: I was told that in order to be a bridesmaid in church wedding, you have to be a virgin. Is that true?

MUST KNOW
DEAR MUST: No (Fortunately.)

DEAR ABBY: Please print this. I want to clip it out and send it to my boss's wife when it appears:
Dear Mrs. —:
Welcome home! You went away for most of the summer and left your husband all alone saying your children needed a vacation. What did you expect your husband to do? Go home to an empty house every night, heat up a TV dinner, and curl up with a good book?
I work for him. He was lonesome. He asked me to have dinner with him and I said yes. I also asked him to have dinner with me and he said yes. I cooked for him at

Reception Given Thursday Night
New faculty members and heads of departments at East Carolina University were honored by President and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins at a reception Thursday night.
The 200 guests represented almost every state and 12 foreign countries.

Yellow and pink roses decorated the dining room. Green candles in silver candelabra completed the decorative motif. Arrangements of snapdragons and zinnias complimented the entrance hallway in which Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins greeted the guests.

Assisting in serving refreshments of punch and party accompaniments were members of Chi Omega sorority, Pat Cussano, Suzanne Jenkins, Kay Lasater, Cameron Payne and Stephanie Standafer.

When cooling cookies, let sheets of paper catch the crumbs. Place paper sheets under wire wracks on which cookies are to be cooled.

HIS house, and mine, too. We had a ball.
But you don't have to worry. Nothing serious happened. I'm not the type to steal another woman's husband, altho it wouldn't have been too hard.
And now I am going to give you a tip you really don't deserve. You have a wonderful husband. STAY HOME AND TAKE CARE OF HIM. He needs you more than your children need the mountain air. The next girl may want to play for keeps.

SQUARE SHOOTER
DEAR SQUARE SHOOTER: Thanks for your letter. A word to the wise . . .

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who loves to play gin rummy. When HE wins he says it's 85 per cent skill and 15 per cent luck. When the other fellow wins he says it's 85 per cent luck and 15 per cent skill.

Campus Cuties Flock To Wool Sweater Look

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Mary's little lamb will be seen in many schoolyards this fall.

This season's campus wardrobe will be all wool and a yard wide. Knitted sweaters, vests, tunics, dresses and pants suits make 1969 the year of the sheep.

It's a sweater look all the way. Some long wool-knitted sweaters look more like mini-dresses; others are tunic length to slither over stovepipe slacks. Sweaters may be cinched at the waist with string belts, cords and sash ties. Fine-ribbed body-hugging wool pullovers tuck into shirts to provide a sweater look for any hour of the day.

There is the sleeveless look—wool vests, pullovers, jackets, coats that can be varied with long-sleeve soft blouses, turtle-neck pullovers, scarves, jewelry.

One lively looking pants costume features a tunic top consisting of a soft-textured sweater knit with stylish circular stripes which match the stripe flaring hem of the pants. The handsome riding style jackets with vented backs top off many pants outfits. Some jackets are the shirt-cuffed types. Dresses in double-knit wools emphasize the soft sweater look.

Glowing colors accentuate sash-tied shirt dresses, long-sleeve dress costumes and tailored styles in airy link-stitch mohair and wool.

The campus favorite, the long-knitted wool scarf, goes back to school this fall longer than ever.

Wrap it around the neck for warmth or let it trail. Little knit wool caps in vivacious, saucy styles pull down over the hair for protection and warmth.

Boswell Named Credit Analyst

J. R. Boswell of Greenville has been appointed credit analyst for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S.C. The announcement of Boswell's appointment was made today by R. A. Darr, president of the bank. Boswell goes to the bank from the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association here where he has served as general manager since 1960. Prior to that time he served as general manager of the Graham Production Credit Assn. in Graham. The Credit Bank provides leadership, supervision and agricultural loan funds for its 60 affiliated PCAs in the two Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. Boswell, a native of Summerfield, is married to the former Geneva Pleasant of Angier. They plan to move to Columbia in the near future. The Pitt-Greene PCA has grown in assets from $3.81 million to $5.42 million and net worth has increased from $908,000 to $1.14 million during the time Boswell has been general manager. The association currently has $4.68 million outstanding in loans to 597 farmers and growers in Greene and Pitt Counties.

It May Be Illegal, But Australian Couple Travel Far By Hitchhiking

By HENRIETTA LEITH Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy and Keith Hancox, a hitchhiking Australian couple who have crisscrossed much of the United States and are aiming at the world, stood on a ramp leading to the New Jersey Turnpike and crossed New Jersey—state No. 40—off their list.

"We average 10 minutes in getting a ride," Keith said Thursday as they put down their knapsacks by a sign reading: "Picking up or discharging passengers is forbidden." Sure enough, 10 minutes later a car came to a halt and Sandy and Keith piled their knapsacks and themselves into the back seat—bound for Washington and points west.

the sleeping bags along the road, under a tree or bush.

Sandy says Keith has the courage for both—"I never had it before but he is so confident in himself"—but she is unconcerned about taking baths in gas station washrooms and eating hot dogs and hamburgers most of the time, the only way they can keep to their $1 a day food budget.

"For about two weeks we were hungry all the time," she said, "but then we got so we could go all day without eating and not feel it."

When the couple arrived in New York to stay with friends for about a week, they had just "done" New England, and New York was the 39th state.

It almost became the low spot in their trip when a knife-wielding thief took all their cash, $15, in an uptown park. But several New Yorkers who read of the incident in a newspaper responded so generously the bad taste turned into a sweet one.

The visit over, the Hancoxes hitched a ride with a newsman—"It's no good trying to get a ride in a city," explained Keith—and got a last look at Manhattan from the Staten Island ferry.

A few minutes of rolling past the oil tanks on the New Jersey flats and they were ready to get out and start thumbing.

Road Needs Will Soon Be Critical

A news story in connection with the governor's proclamation of Highway Week pointed out that $11,800,000 in highway improvements are being carried out in the Greenville area.

Division Engineer C. W. Snell, Jr. cited the Greene Street widening project and the dual laning of N. C. 11 past Winterville, Ayden and Grifton, as well as the surfacing and resurfacing of several sections of primary and secondary roads.

We have to agree that the sum of money and the projects themselves are impressive. However, we have to point out that much of the highway work done in Greenville in the past few years was financed by the state bond election funds, and in order to obtain the voters' approval, these funds were designated for the counties and municipalities of the state. Thus Greenville's and Pitt County's portions of the funds had to be spent here.

This left the regular highway funds free to be spent in whatever areas that the Highway Commission decided they were needed. It appears to us that very little of the regular highway funds came this way.

Greenville has a number of road projects that are urgently needed. With the industrial development north of the river is it obvious that more bridges across the Tar are going to be a critical need in a couple of years. Tenth Street improvements have been postponed for years. And now such streets as Charles have become critically in need of improvements.

Area citizens are very pleased with the road improvements that have been placed under construction recently. At the same time we must point out that other projects are badly needed right now. With the growth that everyone feels certain is just ahead for Greenville, many of these needs are going to become critical before the projects are ever gotten underway.

Not Surprising To Everybody

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — It must come as a surprise to many to learn that in a certain few localities in North Carolina there is a negative attitude toward new industry.

But it is not surprising to everybody.

state's corporate tax laws and reduced corporate income taxes. But during this period of steady, sometimes spectacular industrial growth, the other incentives such as tax free land, buildings and other write-offs.

In final analysis, according to the Hodges' philosophy, it would be what a local community could offer in the way of a stable, capable, skilled or educable labor market, water, electric power, housing school, good government and, above all, friendliness.

The state would help—and it did—but getting new industry primarily would be up to the community that wanted one. Or two.

Pitched — Most of North Carolina's cities and towns and its regional development groups pitched in, proudly and vigorously. The campaign began to show results. A decade later many examples can be seen.

The Raleigh area and the Research Triangle is perhaps the most striking. And there are countless others. The Washington, N. C. area, the Hickory-Newton-Conover complex, Wilmington has been revitalized. Just to mention a few.

Former Gov. Terry Sanford foresaw the inevitable result of influx of more sophisticated and demanding types of industry and keyed his administration to upgrading public education.

Sanford was convinced that education would be the key fulfilling demands of "the new day" for North Carolina. More money was necessary, but by and large the response was good.

Problem — The old problem remained. There were holdouts. There were and are a number of smaller cities and towns in which the established community business and political leaders resist competition for the labor market, and they resist demands for higher hourly wages.

They want things in "their town" to stay as they are, or were. Of course, they won't. C and D director Roy Sowers Jr. "discovered" this sort of attitude recently, and in typical Sowers fashion has decided to attack it head-on.

Autumn Really Arrives With Football Season

In case you missed it, fall officially arrived here at 7:07 a.m. Tuesday and the weather that came with it was most appropriate.

In fact fall seems to have come a little early to this area this year, chasing away the late hot days of summer somewhat sooner than had been expected.

It is really unimportant what day autumn officially arrives around here, though.

Fall really begins when the first football is thrown in the first regularly scheduled game of the year. Often times, the temperature still tells us it is summer. But for the football fan that is the day that fall arrives.

'New Politics' In Pittsburgh

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

PITTSBURGH — The unpleasant but unavoidable decision by Republican John Tabor's campaign managers that he can be elected mayor of Pittsburgh only by siding with the white workingman again against the black militant is reflected in a new campaign mailing now being prepared.

The mailing, to be addressed to every labor union family in the city, consists of a clipping and a letter.

The clipping is the Sept. 13 front page of Human Events, a right-wing weekly, featuring a column by Ralph De Toledano. The column suggests, hopefully, that the current campaign by militant Negroes to move into Pittsburgh's lily-white building trades unions may be the opening wedge to attack the union shop (compulsory unionism) in the courts, a move that would be dear to the hearts of conservatives.

The letter, signed by Tabor, attacks De Toledano's column as an effort to transmute the civil rights drive into union-busting. In that way, Tabor presents himself as protector of the rights of the white union man—in contrast to their own leaders. He points out that Gilbert Teitel, head of the Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) AFL-CIO, has attacked racial discrimination in building trades unions while pushing through the endorsement of City Councilman Pete Flaherty, Tabor's Democratic opponent for mayor. The hint: Flaherty is pro-black, Tabor pro-white.

Whether this mailing by itself will wean many union members away from Democratic loyalties is debatable. But it sets the tone for the first serious Republican mayoral campaign here in 35 years. Though long associated with the Republican party's liberal wing, Tabor will preach law-and-order and the white working man's cause from now on as the only way to upset Flaherty.

This, in fact, is the New Politics of the big cities. While sporadic Republican successes over the last half-century have usually been produced by a coalition of minority groups and silk-stocking reformers (notably Fiorello La Guardia and John V. Lindsay in New York City), the best hope for Republicans now is to capitalize on the rebellion of blue-collar workers who feel the establishment has catered to Negroes.

The reason Pittsburgh is not a perfect test tube for this phenomenon is the identity of the candidates—particularly Flaherty, who combines charisma with political dexterity. Once considered her apparition of the Pittsburgh Democratic machine, he broke with it just in time to escape the opprobrium of his lenient policies with Negro activists and badly defeated the machine candidate in the spring primary. While Flaherty maintains ambiguity on racial matters, his anti-establishment tone fits the blue-collar mood.

Because Flaherty has promised to purge Democratic ward chairmen if elected, some of the local satraps are quietly cutting deals with Tabor's emissaries. But such disaffections inside the rusty machine scarcely compare with the mass appeal gained by Flaherty as its conqueror.

Nor is Yale man Tabor ideal for winning over the white workingman. "John has too much Duquesne Club about him," one Republican businessman told us. In populist oratory, Flaherty depicts Tabor consorting with shadowy tycoons in the executive penthouse atop the Mellon Building, headquarters of U.S. Steel.

COMMUNICATION

We can be sure that the closed mind is an offense to God. A multitude of people both within the church and outside the church close their minds to certain aspects of religious truth and refuse to budge an inch from their position. They appear to be saying, "This is the way I see it and this is right."

Maybe so. Maybe not. As unnumbered millions through the ages have read the Bible and pondered its teachings they have arrived at a wide variety of conclusions. There are some things, however, on which all must unite if they are to call themselves Christian in any sense of the term.

The first of such beliefs is the conviction that a created universe presupposes a Creator. If the world was not created but just happened, then we may well stand in astonishment before the beauty and variety of the universe. The beauties of nature are something to behold with admiration and awe. Did the majesty of the mountains, the beauty of the sea, the astounding display of stars over our heads just happen? Most of us find that too hard to believe. There must have been a creating and designing Hand behind the marvelous world order in which we live.

If God created the world in the beginning is it not reasonable to suppose that He is present in his creation today? And if He is present in that creation, is it not reasonable to suppose that we can come in contact with Him? Nothing else seems to make sense.

ART BUCHWALD

The 'Edsel' Wardrobe

WASHINGTON — I have been looking at the new man's fashions with interest; but no matter what they tell me, I'm not going to be sucked in again. You see, I happen to be one of those unfortunate souls who was persuaded a few years back that the Nehru suit was the wave of the future.

Little did I realize that the Nehru would become to men's tailoring what the Edsel became to automobiles. Nobody knows how many Nehru suits were actually sold during that period, mainly because very few men will admit now to having brought one. But in wardrobes all over America, attracting moths and gathering dust, hangs the stark evidence of an era that most Americans would just as soon forget.

Most of the Nehru suits sold were worn only once. The laughter, wisecracks and snickering that greeted the wearer when he appeared in public drove him back to the where he hid until the ridicule had subsided.

Other Editors Say Stand Up, Be Counted

(Jacksonville Daily News)

How many of the problems of our country today could be solved if we were all willing to stand up and be counted? How many Americans today are following the line of least resistance?

One person who didn't mind standing up for the count is a U. S. Marine staff sergeant. On leave to his native Denmark he came to the rescue of his adopted nation when it was unfairly portrayed on television.

Staff Sergeant Ole Jensen Killixbull, a six-year veteran of the Marine Corps, publicly repudiated a television documentary which was critical of U. S. activities in Vietnam. Because of his statements to the press, Danish Television admitted that the Documentary was fraudulent and apologized to the TV audience.

The television broadcast on July 28 was a Finnish-produced program featuring an interview with a Finnish citizen who served in the U. S. Marine Corps for 22-months. During the program, a film described as authentic by the producers, was shown. The film depicted U.S. fighting men, Marines in particular, committing acts of atrocities against the Vietnamese people.

Killixbull, a 32-month veteran of Vietnam service, immediately called the U.S. Embassy and declared that the film was a fraud. He offered his services to attempt to set the record straight. He appeared at a press conference with the Press Attache from the U.S. Embassy in Copenhagen and pointed out glaring inaccuracies and discrepancies in the film.

The press and the public reacted immediately to the press conference. For the next three days the newspapers published the story and charged Danish Television with perpetrating a fraud. Finally, five minutes of prime time Danish Television devoted five minutes of prime time to admitting that the television documentary was fraudulent.

U.S. Ambassador to Denmark Guilford Dudley, Jr. said Killixbull rendered an "outstanding service" to the United States in exposing the program. The ambassador added that without Killixbull's assistance many Danes would have been left with a wrong impression about the U.S.

He didn't mind being counted.

The world record for wearing a Nehru suit is held by Robert Yoakum of Lakeville, Conn. Yoakum wore his suit three times—once to a college reunion, once to dinner with his in-laws and once to a Jets football game.

He was cited for bravery by the men's clothing industry and his suit was given to the Smithsonian Institution where it now hangs next to Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis."

Not all Nehru suit owners were as lucky. The real problem they have had is getting rid of their suits. Since most of them are new, wives have hesitated to throw them out. In cases where they have been thrown out, the trash men have refused to take them.

Goodwill Industries doesn't want them, and the Salvation Army says, "Our people may be hard up for clothes, but they have their pride." One friend offered his Nehru suit to a hippie who told man. You want people to THINK I'm a freak?"

"It wasn't a complete waste of money. My dog sleeps on it at night." One of the problems of Nehru (Continued on page 7)

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Most people dream about 20 per cent of the time they are asleep.

Reflecting a falling birth rate, the size of the average American household is slowly decreasing. It dropped from 3.67 persons in 1940 to 3.19 this year.

Low-back pain, which can have 100 or more causes, is a chronic complaint of the middle-aged and the elderly. A report to a Midwest medical society said many patients had been relieved of their symptoms simply by taking regular exercises and losing 10 pounds of weight.

Historical anomaly: Slavery was a leading cause of the Civil War, but not one Southerner in 10 owned a slave. Robert E. Lee, the Confederate military leader, detested the institution of slavery; Gen. U.S. Grant, the victorious Northern commander, had owned a slave before the war but set him free.

Quotable notables: "It is not true that life is one damn thing after another—it's one damn thing over and over."—Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Popular and potent: Aspirin is thought by many to be the most commonly used drug. Actually, however, if you drank a toast to the drug that is taken more often and by more people than any other drug in the world, that drug itself would be in the toast you drank—alcohol.

Your age may make a difference in the kind of automobile accident you are likeliest to figure in. Drivers under 25 are involved most frequently in accidents caused by speeding, driving on the wrong side of the road, and using faulty equipment. Drivers over 65 are more likely to be in accidents caused by failure to give the right of way, improper turning, and ignoring stop signs.

Worth remembering: "Consider how hard it is to change yourself and you'll understand what little chance you have trying to change others."

Absent-minded: Squirrels would be fatter if they could take memory courses. These industrious rodents may hide up to 20 bushels of food each against the winter, but by spring the forgetful little rascals usually have managed to find and dig up only a tenth of their caches.

Breakdown In Communications

By ELMER ROESSNER

Business is suffering from a breakdown in communications. The postal service is bad and getting worse.

Telegraph service is getting slower.

Telephone service is a mess. The main cause in these communication failures is shortage of skilled workers. Management's failure to foresee the boom in business is contributing.

The Higher The Slower The postal service has worsened as rates have gone up. Complaints about mail delivery multiply despite the fact that the cost of mailing a post card has gone up 400 per cent in the last 12 years.

The cost of a first-class letter, once 2 cents, is now 6 cents, a rise of 200 per cent. And the special delivery stamp, once a dime, is now 45 cents. Since the latest raise for special delivery, special delivery service appears to have slowed. After a series of tests in which special delivery letters usually came in later than first class letters mailed at the same time, at least one New York company has instructed correspondents to use first class only. Several years ago it found that airmail from Washington to New York was slower than first class.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount told the National Postal Forum that the mail service is indeed poor. There have been six Postmasters General in the last 10 years, he said, and each had a different policy.

Ancient post offices, he said, were another fault. The New York General Post Office, the largest in the world, has floors so weak that they cannot support automatic machinery, he added. Deliberate Slowdown?

Postal employees are dissatisfied with the 4 per cent increase given them while other government employees got more and Congressmen gave themselves a 42 per cent raise. Some mail users suspect an unorganized slowdown.

Western Union has its troubles also because of shortages of trained personnel. Many telegrams are garbled; many are delivered by mail. One from New York to Texas took two days, a little longer than airmail. And a Western Union machine lies idle in a New York news service because for a week WU has been unable to send a repair man.

Telephone service has deteriorated in most major cities. It is worst in New York. One company there took a large newspaper ad to tell clients it was still in business despite that fact that phone callers could not get through. Several other companies have sued or threatened to sue.

The phone company, a Bell baby, did not foresee the business boom nor the rise in Wall Street activity. It reduced capital spending in 1966 and 1967 and increased profits instead of preparing for the future.

Lack of personnel is an important factor. In recent weeks the company has borrowed 1,500 technicians from other Bell companies to help clean up the present mess.

William Tyson Named Chairman Of ASCS

William Francis Tyson was elected to serve as chairman of the Pitt County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee at the County Convention, a meeting of community committeemen, held yesterday.

In addition to Tyson, J. Elbert Mills was elected vice-chairman while Robert A. Halstead was chosen as the regular member of the three-man committee.

Prior to the election of the officers, the convention elected Mills for a three-year term as county committeeman. Eric Whichard was elected as first alternate for a one-year term. The alternates will serve as a committeeman if for any reason a member is unable to serve.

The county ASC Committee administers acreage allotments, price support loans and payments, cropland retirement and diversion programs, the farm storage and drying equipment loan program, the Agricultural Conservation Program (a joint effort by landowners and the United States Department of Agriculture to preserve land, water and timber resources) and others. It offers price support on feed grains, wheat, tobacco, peanuts, cotton, soybeans, honey and wool.

Killed Driving In Wrong Lane

Bakery Firm Is Sued By Union

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A $100,000 suit was filed in U. S. District Court in Charlotte Thursday by Local 28 of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union against American Bakeries Co., charging the firm with failing to live up to its union contract.

The labor dispute at the Charlotte plant led to violence Wednesday, where strikers, claiming they have been locked out, have picketed. A few of the workers fought with police who were trying to keep them out of a part of the plant Wednesday.

A question of union jurisdiction, also an issue, also has gone to federal court: About 150 workers want to leave the AFL-CIO Union and affiliate with the new American Labor Alliance. The International Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union was sued Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Charlotte by the local, which seeks $75,000 in damages.

The local has sought disaffiliation from the international since 1957. The international must show cause Monday why it should not be restrained from continuing to exercise activities which Local 8 claims as its own.

BURLINGTON, N. C. (AP) — An eighth grade girl at a Burlington junior high school died Thursday after becoming ill during a calisthenics period and telling the teacher she was tired.

Patsy Marcella Long, 13, was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for 20 minutes after being taken to the school office, but a doctor pronounced her dead when he arrived.

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops have begun a strong push for sex education in both parochial and public schools, despite angry opposition to such teaching from many Catholic laity.

Separate developments in various parts of the country show a deepening conviction among the 280 prelates that harmful sexual attitudes in American life must be fought by positive teaching instead of by just ignoring sex altogether.

Confronting one of the hottest moral issues in the United States this year: —The Family Life Division of the U.S. Catholic Conference—USCC—the operational agency of the bishops, endorsed sex education programs at its national meeting in Denver earlier this month, stating that schools must assist families in explaining human life to children.

—Two cardinals and a bishop issued a joint statement Tuesday supporting sex education programs in the public schools of Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia.

—Bishop Alexander Zaleski of Lansing, Mich., in backing formal instruction on sexuality in his state two weeks ago, criticized "the unwillingness or inability of many parents to fulfill their responsibilities" and said it made public programs outside the home necessary.

Dozens of cities across the country have been the scene of angry meetings, picketing, demonstrations and public outcries by citizens of many faiths against whether and how to teach pupils what sex is.

Some rightist groups have charged that classroom treatment of sex is pornographic, subversive and Communist-inspired.

Hendersonville Loan Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hendersonville, N. C., Housing Authority has been approved for a $887,634 loan by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

An aide to Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N. C., said the money would be used to build 52 units in the Fletcher, East Flat Rock and Etoway communities.

Jordan's office also announced two contracts have been awarded Tar Heel Firms by the General Service Administration for government building furniture. Carson, Inc., of tract and a $398,814 contract went to Drexel Furniture Co. of Drexel.

His office sent a guideline folder to 10,000 educators and every convent in the country.

The division found in a survey this summer that one third of all U.S. Catholic dioceses—52 out of 155—already had or would have sex education programs in the 1969-70 school year.

Another 22 planned to start a program within two years, 42 have no plans of any kind, and 39 dioceses sent no reply. There are 12,000 Catholic schools with 5 million elementary and high school students.

Father McHugh said the thinking of Catholic authorities on sex education contains three essentials: prime responsibility for a child's sexual knowledge must rest with parents, teachers must go beyond only biological sex facts to deal with moral values and the family's role in society, and parents must be kept in constant touch with what is being taught.

Parents Day At ECU Saturday

Parents visiting East Carolina University this Saturday, Sept. 27, will have a chance to mix the old and the new in music with a good old-fashioned, ever new football game.

Saturday is "Parents Day" at ECU and for opens Mom and Dad can see and sing along with "Your Father's Mustache," an over-grown barbershop quartet-type of group which plays banjos and tubas and sings such songs as "Sioux City Sue."

The funny thing is, kids dig the format. "The craze," according to "Newsweek" in 1965, "started as a mere quirk seven years ago in San Francisco, popped up in New York soon after, hesitated a while, and is now thumping about the rest of the country."

Apparently, it is still thumping along. Your Father's Mustache is touring campuses across the nation. Saturday they perform on the mall at ECU. The performance (scheduled at 3 p.m.) is free for anyone wishing to harmonize on "Heart of My Heart," but no beer is allowed.

Following a break in the action, parents can take in the football game matching the Pirates against Louisiana Tech in Ficklen Stadium. It's the first home game for the Bucs and they'll be going hard after their first win. Game time is 7:30.

MASS ARRESTS

By RALPH BIGHTON
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The next spacecraft U.S. scientists send to Mars may play a major role in deciding whether men will visit that barren, cratered planet.

Major mission of Mariners 8 and 9, scheduled to be launched a week apart in May 1971 is to map 70 per cent of the Martian surface and find sites suitable for unmanned landings in 1973. The 2,200-pound vehicles will be programmed to orbit as close as 1,000 miles for up to a year with television cameras capable of showing objects the size of a football field.

The cameras and electronic sensors are expected to return enough information to help planners decide whether manned exploration is feasible. The success of Mariners 6 and 7 last August prompted proposals for manned landings in the next decade—and controversy over whether such a project would be worth its multibillion-dollar cost. Dan Schneiderman, Mariner 1971 project manager at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, says

Mariners 8 and 9 should enlarge man's knowledge of the still mysterious planet at least 250 times.

In an interview giving the first detailed plans of the new project, Schneiderman said: "Unmanned landings on Mars are scheduled in the Viking program in 1973 and from both these programs—Mariner and Viking—should come the information needed for a manned landing."

Schneiderman gave this rundown on plans for the $100 million-plus 1971 project:

Both spacecraft will fly closer to Mars than the 1969 Mariners, which came within 2,000 miles. One will have an orbit ranging from 1,000 to 10,500 miles. The other will circle from 1,500 to 27,000 miles.

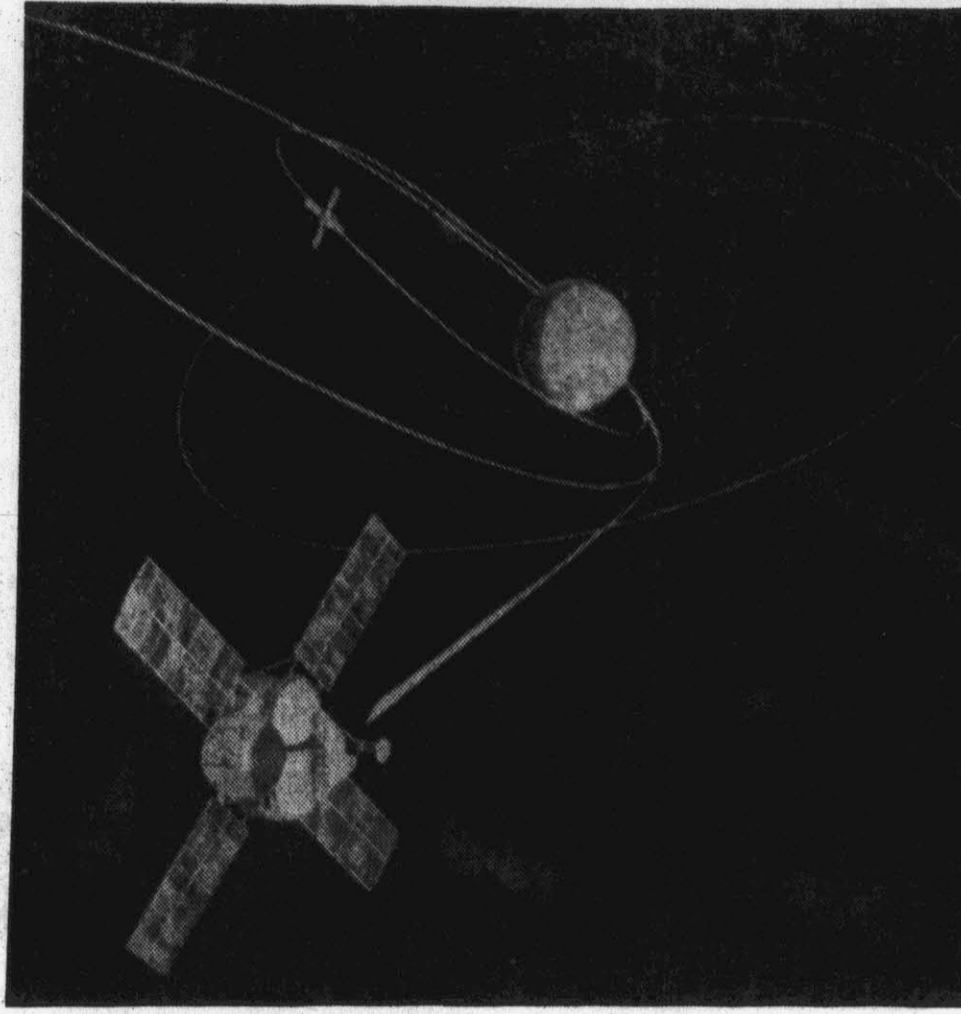

They will have the same television systems as the 1969 Mariners but the closer range will enable them to photograph features 300 feet across, compared with 900 feet for this year's pictures. Designed to stay in orbit at least three months and perhaps a year, the 1971 Mariners will send back thousands of pictures. The 1969 Mariners televised 200. One of the 1971 vehicles will map 70 per cent of the surface, compared with 20 per cent covered by the 1969 vehicles.

The other will provide the first close-up record of unexplained seasonal changes.

Among these is progressive darkening which begins near the polar caps in spring and moves toward the equator.

Early astronomers thought this meant the polar caps were composed of frozen water that melted and irrigated vast fields of vegetation. The 1969 Mariners found the caps were made of frozen carbon dioxide, toxic to plant life. They did not, however, suggest an alternate explanation for the color change.

Hospital Rate Hike Disliked But Necessary

This year's planned rate hike for beds at Pitt Memorial Hospital is the third increase in as many years.

Announced Wednesday by the hospital's administrator C. D. Ward, the rate increase ranges from $5 to $7 per bed and makes hospital space cost from a low of $27 per day for a ward bed to $37 per day for a private room with full bath.

The boost in rates was approved by the hospital's board of trustees at their meeting September 16.

Board member Ed Waldrop, who formerly served as chairman of the hospital's trustees, said the rate rise is "bad and we hate it, but I wish someone could tell us something to do about it."

Ward said the action of the board was taken to offset increase in operating costs.

Ward explained that the chief increase in operating costs was the cost of labor, due, primarily "to the federal minimum wage and to the competition for scarce medical service personnel."

The administrator explained, too, that one new x-ray room had been added to the hospital in the past year; new equipment has been purchased for a second x-ray room, and several new services, including a Department of Neurosurgery and a Kidney Study Lab (with artificial kidneys) have been added.

He noted that 64½ per cent of the coming year's budget (fiscal year October 1, 1969-September 30, 1970) of $3.79 million, is for salaries.

Set Ficklen Stadium Football Traffic Routing

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Football fans heading into Ficklen Stadium for East Carolina University's home football contests this season will be routed into the stadium just as they were last year, T. E. Gladson, acting chief of the Greenville Police Department said today.

Traffic from the stadium following the games will also be routed just as it was last year.

Some 40 officers, including Greenville police, members of the North Carolina Highway Patrol, and ECU policemen, will be assigned to work traffic for the home games. In addition to being stationed in the immediate area of the stadium, officers will also be assigned to other major intersections to help speed the movement of traffic.

Emphasized by Chief Gladson was the fact that 14th Street from Elm to Charles Street will be closed to through traffic from 6 p.m. until game time for night contests.

Vehicles traveling Charles and 14th Streets will be routed into the stadium parking area off Sanford Drive (off Charles Street), while cars approaching from U.S. 264 West, and N.C. 43 will be routed into the stadium's South parking lot on Charles Street.

Members of the Century Club were urged by Chief Gladson to approach the stadium on Rosewood Drive. From there, he said, Century Club members will be directed to the Century Club parking area.

The chief explained that 14th Street, after the game has begun, will be opened to through traffic, but will be closed again about 9:45 and remain closed until football traffic has left the stadium.

Traffic will move from the various parking areas just as it enters. Chief Gladson urged motorists to drive carefully and observe all traffic rules. He cautioned drivers to be alert and avoid "tailgating" in the heavy traffic. He indicated that most accidents in heavy traffic are rear-end collisions.

All motorists, he said, should be courteous and not force the right of way. "If drivers are patient and courteous, the traffic will move to and from the stadium much better."

WASHINGTON (AP) — California table grape boycott leader Cesar Chavez comes to Washington this weekend seeking financial and moral backing for his farm workers union movement.

He will attend a rally at the National Cathedral Sunday night. Other speakers include Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, folk singer Joe Glazer, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Rep. James O'Hara, D-Mich.

Chavez also is scheduled to appear Monday before Mondale's Senate migratory labor subcommittee, which is exploring the use of pesticides. On Tuesday, Chavez will go before the House Select Committee on Labor to endorse O'Hara's bill on occupational health and safety standards for farm workers. Chavez will talk Tuesday night at the opening of a 21-hour "surprise-in" billed as demonstrations at spots not announced in advance—in support of the grape boycott.

ru suit owners is that they're stuck with dozens of turtle-neck sweaters and chained medallions that had to be worn with the suit.

I personally bought a dozen turtle-necks at the time I purchased my Nehru, because the salesman assured me I'd never have to wear a dress shirt again.

A friend of mine, who had three Nehru suits made to order for him at $200 each, tried to hang himself with one of the medallions after he realized what he'd done. But the chain on it broke, and he's now being sued by his tailor.

The question people are still asking is, why did the Nehru fail? You can get as many answers as there are Nehru suits.

A sociologist said, "The black Nehrus for formal evening wear made men look like priests, and I think many of them became tired of always being asked to give the benediction."

And a psychiatrist said, "I think anything in America will fail that keeps a man from putting his hands in his pants pockets."

strations of Govs. William Scranton and Raymond Shafer, Tabor carries the burden of Shafer's unpopularity. In a recent highly embarrassing telephone call, he had to decline the Governor's offer to campaign for him.

But Tabor's greatest handicap may be his reluctance to play the racial backlash. As a liberal Republican who joined the draft - Rockefeller movement against Richard M. Nixon in 1960, Tabor has a strong civil rights record. So does his campaign manager, Al Abrahams, a skilled political operative who has run successful statewide campaigns in Maryland and New Jersey.

Accordingly, Tabor until now has rejected pleas from Republican partisans that he take a stronger stand for law-and-order as racial incidents mount. The result, according to all available surveys, is the lack of any impression of Tabor as the hard-line white man's candidate.

Far behind in the polls, however, Tabor is starting to court the blue-collar rebellion. One example is the mailing to labor union members. Another is his statement this week calling for auxiliary police to protect the racially distraught University of Pittsburgh campus.

year in the total of goods and services have been in the neighborhood of $16 billion per quarter. Some indications are that the third-quarter figure would be somewhat larger. If so, this would put the GNP at an annual rate of $933 billion.

Nursing Homes Have Come Far, Going Farther

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In 10 below-zero weather, the sick and old patients huddled close to the single small-bellied stove in a railroad boxcar that had been turned into a nursing home.

The Minnesota inspector remembers that shock vividly, even though it was 10 years ago. It is a measure of how far nursing homes have come today. "The day of the old urine-soaked outhouse is gone forever," said Edward Walker, president of the American Nursing Home Association who won three Oklahoma homes.

Nearly half of all nursing home facilities have been built in the last five years. Private rooms are replacing crowded wards. Fire, once the greatest fear is fading in the past. And medical care is improving.

"With all of our faults today, we've made tremendous progress," said Walker.

Both the faults and the progress come to rest on the federal doorstep.

The $1.6 billion annual flood in federal money that has made the government the greatest sole supporter of the nation's nursing homes has brought care to thousands of old persons and has triggered the explosive building boom in new facilities.

Both critics question whether payments have been pht ahead of patients.

Medicaid, the vast federal program of health care for the poor, and Medicare, the federal insurance plan for the elderly, have paid for the bulk of nursing homes' spectacular spurt in growth.

Taxpayer support for nursing homes has tripled in the past three years. Nursing home revenue has shot up by $1 billion, all from the government.

More than 50 nursing home chains have burst upon the stock market, where their prices have skyrocketed. Four Seasons, one of the most modern and fastest growing chains, is making profits 9 times as high as it was two years ago. And its stock, now selling at about $70, is worth almost 13 times as much.

Extendicare, another major chain, gets 82 per cent of all its money for a large group of Oakland, Calif., are nursing homes from federal programs, according to records on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Healthcare chain's homes in Massachusetts get 78 per cent of their revenue from the same sources.

The head of medicare operations for the firm that handles

New England payments, Travelers Insurance, was serving on the board of directors of another Massachusetts chain, Geri-Care Nursing Centers, until warned by federal officials of what one senator called an open and blatant conflict of interest.

Medicare not only pays for daily care for limited stays but also helps bankroll construction by paying depreciation and interest costs, too. Another government agency, the Federal Housing Administration, helps by backing most of the mortgage amounts on private nursing homes.

One doctor in an Ohio suburb has reported more than $140,000 annual profits on the nursing home he owns.

High payments have brought a siege of scandals for medicare. But the revolutionary health plan, fought hard by doctors only a few years ago, has succeeded in pioneering the tough new standards needed badly by many nursing homes.

Medicare demands doctors' visits to each patient each month. It requires around-the-clock supervision by trained nurses. It sets stringent rules for drug usage. And, under Senate prodding, its officials have been patrolling the program closely in recent months.

But medicare has moved more slowly. Not until the last few weeks did medicare finally match medicare's standards on doctors and drugs. The regulations are still temporary, and enforcement remains flimsy.

Medicaid is the major money program, for the nation's nursing homes. Medicare pays for only a brief stay for the elderly after they leave a hospital. But because the old are also often poor, the lesser-known medicare program pours $1.1 billion a year into nursing homes for their patients.

Medicaid funnels the funds through the states, which pay for a share of the costs and handle all the enforcement. The latter often has been lax.

In Wisconsin, a 317-bed home in Milwaukee went without a regular state inspection for more than 2½ years even though the last checkup in early 1967 resulted in a four-page list of alleged violations.

In Nashville, hospital administrator C. David Stringfield said, "If the state of Tennessee would be as firm as it could be, I would wager that 30 to 50 per cent of the long-term care facilities in this state would be closed down overnight."

Action, when it does come, is often taken quietly, without public knowledge. A Minnesota inspector told of an 87-year-old woman who died after being pushed off balance against a bed by an angry nursing aide. Officials used the coroner's photographs, she said, to close the home and force its sale to another firm, but no prosecution was attempted.

Many states' inspection procedures concentrate on obvious violations, like food and fire and few really probe the question of adequate medical care.

Doctors are still rare visitors to nursing homes—and some state, like California and Pennsylvania, don't specify how often they should see patients.

Drugs are prescribed free over the telephone by absentee physicians. And the mentally ill often turned away by crowded state hospitals, are mingled among other patients and kept subdued by sedatives or restraining straps.

Telling the difference between a good nursing home and a bad one can be bewildering for a relative.

A modern new facility may lack frequent doctor's visits, especially if it is on the outskirts of a city. An older home may be spotless inside with kind nurses and conscientious care. One home may scrimp on food, and another may be rareless with drugs, and still another may have a storage of nurses.

But medicare stands now on the threshold of opportunity for dramatic improvement. From interviews with state and federal officials and nursing home operators emerges this conclusion on what can be done:

—Medicaid has on paper the requirement of a minimum of one doctor's visit a month. Now it has to enforce it, with the full threat of ending payments to nursing homes that lack the care. And the American Medical Association can help by following the example of the Knox County, Ind., Medical Society which checks to make certain nursing home patients are visited regularly by its member physicians.

—Medicaid can write into its future regulations a minimum number of nurses, according to the size of the home, to assure adequate care of patients. It requires only one nurse a shift now, even for a 120-patient home. State laws vary widely, but most require more than Medicaid.

—Medicaid has written in its new regulations a set of tighter standards on drugs and telephone prescriptions by doctors. One section requires a monthly review by doctors of all drugs used by patients. But this, too, will need enforcement at the state level that is not being carried out so far.

—Medicaid can add needed policies on mental patients. For example, Minnesota's state regulations define any patient who requires restraining straps to be mentally disturbed and forbid keeping such persons in nursing homes. Unfortunately, this also is enforced spottily even there. And Medicaid has no national policy at all.

Walker, the ANHA president, and predicted, "In the next three years you are going to see a dramatic change in nursing homes in America."

HEALTH AND CHIROPRACTIC

By Dr. W. C. Chapel, Former President Lincoln Chiropractic College

Q. Are the services of a chiropractor covered under the Federal Medicare Program?
A. Not at this time.
Q. Why not?
A. That is a good question. We contend that it is the right of every American to choose the doctor they want to treat them and since the Medicare Program is financed by tax monies that we have the choice to consult or not to consult any doctor we choose.
Q. How can we influence the government to include chiropractic services in the Medicare Program?
A. Write your U. S. Congressman and U. S. Senators and urge their support of measures to include chiropractic in Medicare. It might also prove helpful to write President Richard M. Nixon and the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Hon. Robert Finch. After all, freedom of choice of doctor is supposed to be guaranteed by the U. S. Constitution.

Pirate Defense To Test Bradshaw's Aerials

Meet The Pirates

Duke Clark, left, and Dwight Flanagan are two members of this year's East Carolina University football team. Clarke, a 5-11, 200-pound sophomore from Greenville, is a center. He saw action last week in a reserve capacity. Flanagan, a 5-10, 170-pound senior from Edenton, is the starting wingback. He picked up 11 yards last week in the opener, and caught a pass for seven yards. East Carolina opens its home season Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium against Louisiana Tech.

Bucs Hope To Get Offense Wound Up As They Open Their Home Season

Terrible Terry Bradshaw comes to town tomorrow night, and East Carolina University is hoping that it has come up with the stuff to stop his strong right arm.

Bradshaw was the nation's leading college division ground gainer last year when he guided Louisiana Tech to a 9-2 record, including a 33-13 victory over Akron in the Grantland Rice Bowl, the Midwest NCAA Championship.

His season's total read 2,089 yards at the close of the season. Only two other people, both in the major college division of the NCAA gained more ground than Bradshaw, Greg Cook of Cincinnati and Chuck Hixson of Southern Methodist.

Bradshaw and his Louisiana Tech teammates offer a stiff challenge to the Pirates, but Coach Clarence Stasavich is hopeful that the Bucs will prove worthy of it.

"He gets back well, 15 or so yards," Stasavich said of Bradshaw. "The linemen have trouble running him down, and they get awfully tired. We're preparing two lines to be ready for him. It's very hard work rushing a passer time after time."

Stasavich praised Bradshaw. "I think he's a great quarterback. We had some good quarterbacks in here last year, but he's tremendous. He can throw off-balance, and he can run with the ball if he has to. He's definitely one of the best we've ever faced."

Top targets for Bradshaw will be Tommy Spinks and Larry Brewer, the ends. They were among his chief receivers last year, with Spinks pulling in more than anyone else on the team.

There is a new slotback for the Bulldogs this year, Robbie Albright. Late last year, the 9.6 sprinter caught 15 passes for 358 yards.

Despite Terrible Terry's credentials, the Bulldogs are not all passing. They do have a running attack. The key man in this is Bubba Sanchez, the tailback, and Buster Herren, the fullback. "Neither of them is real big," Stasavich said. "They don't do a lot of running, but they are capable of doing enough to keep you honest."

On defense, Stasavich feels that the Technmen are tough. One phase is especially good, their kick return game. "They are one of the toughest punt and kick return teams we'll face all year."

Tech puts its biggest linemen on offense, to help protect Bradshaw. They are led by veteran center Johnny Harper. "Their interior line weighs about 220 on the average," the coach said.

Defensively, they are not as big. "Their left end, David Cutchins, is the biggest man, 6-5, 230. The rest average about 200. Their defensive backs are larger than their offensive ones, however."

Probably the most difficult thing about going into the game is the Pirates are roughly blind about Tech's ability outside of Bradshaw. It will be the first game for the Bulldogs, and East Carolina hasn't had a chance to scout them, putting Tech up one on the Pirates, since they were scouted against East Tennessee.

"They have an aggressive defense," Stasavich said. "They came after us well last year. We moved the ball well in the first half, but after that, they stopped us completely."

Last year, it was all the Bucs could do to put a score on the board. Only on the last play of the game did the Bucs score, thus eliminating what would have been the second of three straight scoreless games.

While the defense boned up on its pass rush and coverage, the offense spent a little time in trying to perfect its passing game. "We've worked this week on fewer passes," Stasavich said. "We want to perfect a few of them. We had too many people throwing the ball last week. (Four threw). This week, we may throw quite a bit, but I don't know whether we'll throw as much as last week."

"Early in the year, we were worried about our defense, but they're doing well right now. I was happy to see two of 19 East Tennessee attempts intercepted, and we were close on a couple of others. (George) Wheeler and (Walter) Adams have improved. (Jim) Guder has surprised us, and (Roger) Bost is doing a good job. Moving (George) Whitley to safety and (Stu) Garrett to left halfback has strengthened the secondary."

Another pleasant surprise for Stasavich was the play of Rusty Scales at the rover position. "We had no plans for him earlier in the year, but he has come on strong."

Stasavich feels that condition may be a key factor in the game. "The constant rushing of the passer will begin to show in the fourth quarter. We'll find out what kind of shape we're in then."

The probable starting lineup for the Bucs on offense has Dick Corrada and Tom Pulley at ends, John Rowe and Garland Ballard at tackles, Butch Britton and John Hollingsworth at guards, Terry Edmondson at center, Billy Whitman at tailback, Butch Colson at fullback, David Brill at blocking back, and Dwight Flanagan at wingback.

Defensively, the Bucs will start Danny Wilmer and Roger Bost at ends, Walter Adams and Roger Wheeler at tackles, Jim Guder at middle guard, Paul Weathersbee and Monty Kiernan at linebackers, Rusty Scales at rover, Tommy Bullock and Stu Garrett at halfbacks and George Whitley at safety.

Game time in Ficklen Stadium is 7:30 p.m.

ACC Hopes To Even Outside Mark With Upset Wins; 3 Family Fights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Two Atlantic Coast Conference football teams clash with outside teams Saturday, hoping to reverse last week's 0-2 mark in the league's non-conference forays.

Clemson takes on Georgia, a Southeastern Conference power, at Clemson at 1:30 p.m., while Wake Forest is host to Virginia Tech at Winston-Salem at 7:30 p.m.

The other ACC contests are family affairs. N.C. State goes to Maryland for a 1:30 p.m. game. Duke is at Virginia, also at 1:30 p.m., and North Carolina plays at South Carolina at 7:30 p.m.

Clemson has perhaps the toughest task in trying to upset the seventh-ranked Bulldogs. Georgia easily defeated Tulane last week, 35-0, while the Tigers had their hands full with Virginia, 1-14. A measure of the Georgia strength was the team's recovery of two fumbles and interception of six Green Wave passes.

Georgia defeated Clemson last year, 31-13.

Wake Forest was humiliated by Auburn last week, 57-0, while VPI was narrowly losing to Alabama, 17-13. But VPI Coach Jerry Claiborne isn't overlooking the Deac potential that showed in its opening game, a 22-21 upset of N.C. State.

"We know that Wake Forest has a better team than it showed last week," Claiborne said Thursday.

Wake Forest coach Cal Stoll said, "We have the opportunity to win. We must try to give it the same effort we had against North Carolina State." VPI edged the Deacs a year ago, 7-6.

ACC fans get the most excited when their teams play familiar, conference rivals, and the three games Saturday have the potential of being thrillers.

Take South Carolina-North Carolina. The Gamecocks put on a rally to roll over Duke, 27-20, Saturday while the Tar Heels were being nudged by N.C. State, 10-3. Last year a South Carolina comeback in the last period, after being behind 27-3, downed the Tar Heels, 32-27.

"This game presents a tremendous challenge to our young, inexperienced football team," North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley said Thursday. He sent his team through a drill under lights in preparation for the face-off.

Duke coach Tom Harp said Thursday, "We have gone through everything. Now it is just a matter of getting the timing down." He wants something drastically different from a year ago, when the Cavaliers pasted the Blue Devils, 50-20.

At Charlottesville, meanwhile, Coach George Blackburn expects a lot of action when his team meets Duke. "They have a veteran offense and a young defense," he said. "When their offense and our defense get together, it's going to be a helluva mess."

N.C. State beat Maryland 36-11 a year ago and wants to keep the trend going. The Terps were stomped by West Virginia, 31-7, last week and are looking for a rebound.

Rose Hosting Jacksonville

Rose High School's Rampants play host to Jacksonville's Cardinals tonight at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

The non-conference battle between the two 4-A teams is the second home game for the Rampants this year. Rose will be seeking to even its record at 2-2, while Jacksonville will be going for its fourth straight victory.

The Cardinals boast a fine defensive team that has allowed only one touchdown in its first three outings.

The Second annual Brook Valley Invitational Golf Tournament will get underway Saturday at the 7,007-yard layout here.

The tournament will be over 86 holes, and will be medal play. Following the first day's play, the closed field of 140 golfers will be flighted for the last round's play.

The defending champion in the tournament is Dr. Dick Evans of Greenville, and he will strive to capture it for a second year.

Likely contenders for the title appear to be Jimmy Gurkins of Washington, three-time winner of the Ayden Invitational; Jimmy Hilliard of Farmville, former Greenville City Champion; Bill Edwards of Raleigh; Don Conley, recent City tournament winner; Steve Fulp of Jacksonville; Glenn Perkins and Tom Strange of Norfolk, who teamed to win the Reynolds May two-ball tournament this summer at Brook Valley; and Joe Harvey of Fayetteville, a former Greenville resident and tournament winner.

Following Saturday's round, a cocktail party will be held at the club for contestants. Prizes and trophies will be presented Sunday following the completion of play.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

There was a little increase in the pickings last week, and those upsets almost, but not quite, came around.

The week's totals showed 14 right and six wrong, and those six went by a total of 25 points, 14 of them in two games. Two others were decided by two points, while the other two went by three and four point margins.

Maybe things will be a little better this week.

To start things off, Rose High School is at home tonight to Jacksonville in a non-conference 4-A battle. The Cardinals haven't lost yet in three games, and have only allowed one touchdown. I think Rose will change that, because the Rampants do have the ability to score. They might also have the ability to beat Jacksonville in an upset. But I'll go with the Cardinals to win it.

Farmville travels to Charles B. Aycock for an Eastern Plains game. The Red Devils should breeze through this one.

Greene Central, sporting a two-game winning streak goes to Southern Wayne, a tough conference member. It's the first year in the loop for the Vikings, and they'll be after the Rams. Southern is coming off a couple of bad games, but at home, they could be tough. I'll pick them to win over the Rams.

Tarboro visits Williamston as the Green Wave recovers from a loss to Edenton last week. The Wave is tough, but the Tigers are among the 3-A Northeastern Conference favorites. Williams- ton expects this to be one of its toughest games, and that's probably correct. I'll stick with Tar- boro.

Bath travels to Robersonville to meet the Rams in a Tobacco Belt game. Robersonville is in a must-win position to keep in the race, while Bath appears to be riding high now. Bath dropped Grifton, and that speaks for itself. Bath should take this one.

Grifton meanwhile, goes to Vanceboro in another Tobacco Belt contest. The Bulldogs are smarting from last week's two-point loss, but should be able to bounce back and take this one.

Camden visits Ayden this week. The Tornadoes may have lost a little incentive, knowing that they are out of the playoffs. But there is still a chance for a good record, and that should be enough to pull them through in this one.

Saturday night, East Carolina University opens its home season. They are playing host to one of the top small college teams in the country in Louisiana Tech. Tech has the nation's number one quarterback in Terry Bradshaw, and the Pirates will be hard-pressed by him. The Bucs have a good defense, but it hasn't really been given this stern a test. And the Pirate offense has yet to score.

So for these reasons, I'll pick Louisiana Tech to take this one.

Elsewhere in the Southern Conference, I'll take The Citadel over Arkansas State, Davidson over Furman, Richmond over VMI, and Temple over William & Mary.

In the Atlantic Coast Conference, it'll be Georgia over Clemson, Virginia over Duke, N. C. State downing Maryland and South Carolina over North Carolina, and Virginia Tech over Wake Forest.

Rounding things out, it'll be Arkansas over Tulsa, Tennessee over Auburn, and Boston College over Navy.

Season's Record: 26 right, 12 wrong, 68.4 cent.

Aaron: Braves Are Not Safe Yet

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron says the Atlanta Braves, fighting for the National League West title, "can't get over-enthused because we've got five games left."

But, he adds, "If we continue to win, nobody can catch us." The Braves begin a three-game series with San Diego tonight and close the season here against Cincinnati next Tuesday and Thursday.

Atlanta holds a 1½-game lead over San Francisco and a three-game edge over Cincinnati, the only teams still in contention for a berth in the National League playoffs opposite the amazing New York Mets.

"I suppose there's no better place to be than in first place,"

Aaron said Thursday, an off day for the Braves following a road trip in which they won seven and lost three.

Atlanta returned to the top in the division when San Diego whipped the Giants Tuesday and Wednesday.

Aaron is the only present Brave who played in the 1957 and 1958 World Series in which the Milwaukee Braves split with the New York Yankees. He says the 1969 pennant race doesn't compare with those because Milwaukee won it easily both years.

"I don't think there has ever been a race like this one," he said.

"I'm not completely satisfied with my year, but if we can go on and win the pennant I'll be happy," Aaron said.

Jacksonville Tops Rose JV

JACKSONVILLE — Rose High School's Junior Varsity lost, 20-6, yesterday to Jacksonville's Baby Cardinals.

Jacksonville pushed into the lead in the first period with a touchdown and a two-point conversion. After that Jacksonville picked up one touchdown in the second and fourth periods. James Harris scored one of the tallies on a three yard run, while Michael Stevens scored the other two, and the conversion. His first scoring play was a 10-yard pass, and the second came on a five-yard run.

The lone Rose touchdown came when Jacksonville intercepted a Rampant Cub pass at the one, then fumbled the ball. Todd Pair recovered it in the end-zone for the touchdown.

Richmond Seeking 2nd Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Richmond begins its quest for another Southern Conference football championship Saturday in a game at VMI that will furnish more evidence toward the answer to a key question: "Is Charlie Richards for real?"

If he is — if Richmond truly has found in him a worthy successor to departed pass-master Buster O'Brien at quarterback — the rest of the SC clearly will be hard-put to separate the Spiders from their title.

Exhibit "A" in Richards' behalf already has been introduced, and it's impressive — a 373-yard, 26-for-47 passing job by the Spider junior in Richmond's 17-14 season-opening loss at Mississippi State.

Exhibit "B" goes on the record in the 1:50 p.m. meeting with VMI's Keydets at Lexington, a regionally televised affair that will mark the intra-conference debut of both teams.

The Saturday schedule also includes another conference bout—a collision of two teams that won nonconference openers last week, Davidson and Furman, at 7:30 p.m. on the Furman field.

After dark, The Citadel is at home to pass-conscious Arkansas State; East Carolina entertains Louisiana Tech, and William and Mary is at Temple. All are nonconference games.

Richmond will be heavily favored in its initial SC start against a VMI team that was humiliated 55-0 at Rice a week ago, but Spider coach Frank Jones pooh-poohs the idea his team will have a romp.

"In old rivalries like ours, everybody knows that anything can happen," says the Richmond coach. At the same time, he says he hopes the TV viewers don't have to see Richards throw the ball 47 times again. "We never got much of a chance to use our running game at Mississippi State," Jones says. "Their great kicking kept us in the hole. We had to pass. At VMI, we hope to show that we can move the ball on the ground."

Richmond gained a mere 16 yards rushing in the narrow loss to the Southeastern Conference Bulldogs. But then again, VMI gained only 47 yards aground at Rice—and just 34 passing. Keydet coach Vito Ragazzo says, however, "we've put that behind us. We'll do better, a lot better, this week."

Davidson's conference test against Furman should demonstrate whether the Wildcats really have the muscle to be a contender for the SC crown this fall. Gordon Slade's passing to end Mike Kelly will make the Wildcats the favorites at Furman, in any event.

Davidson, with Slade pitching for 207 yards and Kelly spear- ing nine passes, downed Guil- ford 21-8 last Saturday while Furman, showing a week-bal- anced attack, was nosing out Presbyterian 14-12.

Tony Passander's passing from the triple-option virtually assures The Citadel a good at- tack against Arkansas State's Southland Conference champs, the Bulldogs have the defensive problem of stopping the visitors' great passer, Jack Hamilton.

William and Mary, a 26-18 loser at Cincinnati last week- end, has high hopes at Temple. With Joe Pilch battering away at enemy lines for large gobs of yardage, coach Lou Holtz says flatly, "We're going to be good when we stop making mis- takes."

East Carolina is the underdog to Louisiana Tech, which bumped the Pirates 35-7 last year. ECU lost its opener to East Tennessee 7-0 but hopes to generate a more potent attack on its home field.

Battle On For Second In American's East

By HAL BOCK
There is, believe it or not, a crucial series coming up in all places, the American League's East Division.

That's the East Division where the Baltimore Orioles have had the pennant officially clinched for two weeks and unofficially wrapped up for two months.

That's the East Division where the Orioles have won 108 games and lead the second place team by 22 games.

Second place — that's where the crucial series takes place. Runner-up Detroit dropped a 7-2 decision to Washington Thursday and third-place Boston whipped New York 4-3, leaving the Red Sox just one game behind the Tigers. The two teams open a three game series...label it crucial...in Boston tonight.

Elsewhere in the American League Thursday night Baltimore downed Cleveland 4-1, Chicago nipped Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings, Oakland whipped California 7-6 and Seattle trimmed Minnesota 5-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia 5-3 and 9-7 and Houston topped Cincinnati 4-3.

Washington's victory over Detroit came on a three-hitter by Dick Bosman and assured the Senators of a .500 season for the first time since 1953.

Ken McMullen drove in three runs for Washington, one of them with his nineteenth home run. The victory gave the Senators, fourth in the East, an 81-75 record with six games left to play.

The Red Sox closed in on Detroit, beating the Yankees for the fourth straight time. Mike Nagy won his 12th game with late help from Sparky Lyle while George Scott and Gerry Moses supplied the offense with home runs.

Horace Clarke homered for the Yankees.

Dave Johnson slugged a two-run homer, breaking a sixth in- ning tie for Baltimore and Dave McNally beat Cleveland for his 20th victory of the season.

The triumph left the Orioles just three victories away from Cleveland's record 111 set in 1954. The Birds have six games remaining.

Walt Williams' 10th-inning homer carried the White Sox past Kansas City.

Joe Rudi hammered his first two home runs of the year and then Ramon Webster drew a bases-loaded walk in the ninth inning, forcing home Oakland's winning run against California.

Greg Goossen tagged two home runs, driving in three runs and leading Seattle past Minnesota.

In the National League, Pitts- burgh took over third place in the East Division, sweeping a doubleheader from Philadel- phia....

Al Oliver rapped six hits— four of them in the first game— and drove in three runs to pace the double victory. Bob Moose, who no-hit the division cham- pion New York Mets in his last start, and Luke Walker were the Pirates' winning pitchers.

Cincinnati dropped 3½ games back of idle Atlanta in the West Division, bowing to Houston with John Edwards and Jim Wynn tagging homers for the Astros.

Pete Rose was the lone bright spot for the Reds, collecting four hits in five at bats to raise his average to .347 and take over the National League bat- ting lead.

Ohio State Joins Gridiron Action

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ohio State launches its foot- ball season Saturday—and it's not expected to take very long for Coach Woody Hayes' veter- an national champs to reach orbit.

The Buckeyes are overwhelm- ing favorites to brush aside Texas Christian and extend their nation's longest winning streak to 16 games.

"It'll be a high scoring game," predicted Hayes, but with the mass of talent avail- able, it will probably be the No. 1 ranked Buckeyes doing most of the scoring.

Hayes has 18 of 22 regulars back from last year's squad which rolled past 10 straight foes, including Southern Califor- nia in the Rose Bowl.

And, the Bucks boast excel- lent depth at every position, particularly the backfield head- ed by quarterbacks Ron Maciej- owski and Rex Kern, fullback Jim Otis and halfbacks Larry Zelina, Ray Gillian, John Brock- ington and Lo Hayden.

The Horned Frogs, behind Steve Judy's four touchdown passes, rallied from a 35-7 deficit in their opener last week before losing to Purdue 42-35.

But TCU surrendered 583 yards in that game—and the Horned Frogs should have even more trouble containing Ohio PITCHING — Dave McNally, Orioles, scattered six hits for his 20th victory of the season as Baltimore downed Cleveland 4-1.

BATTING—Al Oliver, Pirates, cracked six hits and drove in three runs in a 5-3, 9-7, sweep of a doubleheader over Philadel- phia.

State's potent, versatile attack. Meanwhile, explosive Penn State, ranked No. 2, is favored to beat Colorado, although the Buffs have an excellent quar- terback in Bob Anderson. Penn State opened with a 45-22 trouncing of Navy last week scoring three touchdowns during a 3½-minute burst in the third quarter, while Colorado mauled Tulsa 35-14.

No. 3 Arkansas should have an easy time of it with Tulsa. The Razorbacks got a three- touchdown performance out of quarterback Bill Montgomery, while holding Oklahoma State to minute 19 yards rushing, in a 39-0 opening success.

Fourth-ranked Texas, which shot down California 17-0 in its opener, plays host to Southwest Conference rival Texas Tech in a night game, while No. 5 Southern California, 31-21 winner over Nebraska in its opener, enters Northwestern at night.

In other games, it's Pitts- burgh at No. 6 Oklahoma, No. 7 Georgia at Clemson, No. 8 Mis- sissippi at Kentucky at night, No. 9 Notre Dame at No. 16 Pur- due and California at No. 10 In- diana.

Other games find No. 11 Mis- sissippi vs. Illinois at St. Louis No. 12 Florida vs. Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss., at night, Southern Methodist at No. 13 Michigan State, No. 14 UCLA at Wisconsin, Southern Missis- sippi at No. 15 Alabama, No. 17 Auburn at No. 19 Tennessee, Oregon State at No. 18 Arizona State and Washington at No. 20 Michigan.

Also on tap is the Princeton- Rutgers game at New Brun- swick, N.J., the 100th anniver- sary meeting of the two teams who met in the first college foot- ball game on Nov. 6, 1869.

Florida State plays Miami and the Orange Bowl in tonight's only major game.

Community Chorus Is Being Formed Here

The School of Music at East Carolina University announces the formation of a Community Chorus, under the direction of music faculty member Paul A. Aliapoulos.

First rehearsals have been set for 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. on Monday, September 29, in Room 105 of the East Carolina Music Building (new Music Building), located on 10th Street.

Succeeding rehearsals will be held every other Monday night, on October 13 and 27, November 10 and 24, and December 8 and 15.

In announcing the formation of a community chorus, Aliapoulos states, "The decision followed a meeting of interested persons, including church choir directors and other interested persons."

"It has been suggested that this chorus perform Handel's 'Messiah' on a mutually agreeable date in December," Aliapoulos stated.

Interested singers are asked to come to the first rehearsal with or without a musical score. It is emphasized that a person need not have musical training to participate—in fact, it is expected that most participants will be persons who love to sing, and training or exceptional talent are not a criteria for joining in the community effort.

"We hope to have people from all sectors of the community," Aliapoulos says, "and feel this experimental effort can become a very successful affair."

"This community chorus can mean a great deal to Greenville and the surrounding communities as a cultural activity which involves the participation of a considerable number of citizens," he said.

Anyone interested in becoming a founding member of this musical venture can get further information by contacting Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, Mrs. George Knight, Charles Moore, or Aliapoulos. The telephone number of Aliapoulos at the School of Music is 758-6331.

The bidding:
East South West North
Pass 2♠ Pass 3♠
Pass 4♦ Pass 5♦
Pass 6♠ Pass Pass

When North raised diamonds, it alleviated South's concerns in this suit and he proceeded to slam.

In the absence of the heart lead, South has time to dislodge the ace of clubs and thereby establish a discard for his losing heart. As matters stood, West had made the killing attack, and declarer could see no recourse but to try the diamonds. After drawing two rounds of trump, he played the top three diamonds. When that suit did not respond favorably, South went down to defeat.

Declarer had acted with undue haste. At no additional cost, he could have run the spade suit first and saved the diamond play for the end. Why not give the opposition a chance to make an error in discarding?

In point of fact, West would have been unable to defend against the onslaught of trumps. He has to make six discards which means that, in order to hold his diamond protection, he must throw all of his hearts and blank down to the lone ace of clubs. When West discards the queen of hearts on the last trump, it must become obvious to South that his opponent has a diamond stopper. With the hope of a discard in that suit eliminated, declarer has no recourse but to lead the queen of clubs. West plays the ace but, since he has no hearts left, he must surrender the remaining tricks to declarer.

Opening lead: King of ♠
Against South's slam contract in spades West made the obvious lead of the king of hearts, and things looked doubtful for declarer. Everything now appeared to depend on finding a three-three diamond break, which was distinctly against the odds. In his anxiety to learn his fate, declarer tried to run the diamonds and when they failed to break evenly, he had a rude awakening.

Six spades was a sound undertaking. When South's demand bid in spades received an immediate raise, he tested for slam by cue bidding the ace of diamonds. It would do no good to employ Blackwood in this situation, for his concern lies more with kings than it does with aces.

Favor Keeping ROTC At Duke

DURHAM (AP) — Duke University's academic council is in favor of retaining the ROTC program on the Duke campus, as recommended by a special committee.

The council voted 35-14 Thursday to approve the report, composed by five faculty members, which calls the Reserve Officers Training Corps a "legitimate and important source for well trained officers."

The report said "retention of ROTC on campus is in the national interest" and the program has no "substantially detrimental effect on the university."

However, the committee recommended the ROTC reduce the amount of time required for such non-credit activities as drill.

The report stressed the need for "able and well trained officers with civilian loyalties" and said it is important for these officers to be educated at high quality institutions.

The ROTC program at Duke has been a subject of controversy for months. A demonstration was staged at the final ROTC ceremonies last spring. The Student Liberation Front, a radical student group, sent an ultimatum to Duke officials setting an Oct. 1 deadline to begin phasing out the ROTC program.

When Duke's undergraduate faculty revised the university's curriculum last year, the professors limited to four the number of ROTC courses that could be taken for credit.

House Was Put On Wrong Lot

CAPISTRANO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A 66-year-old widow lives in rented quarters near here, although the house she ordered built is already standing.

She can't move in because she says the builder put it on the wrong lot.

"You can hardly believe it—a contractor building a house on the wrong lot," says Alice Case. "Sounds hilarious . . . but neither she, the builder, the subcontractor, nor the woman who owns the lot is laughing."

For a year, since the mistake was discovered, they've all been involved in a legal hassle over who should be paid for the work, and who's entitled to collect damages.

Permit To Sell Beer On Campus

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Students at the College of Charleston soon will be able to buy beer on campus.

College officials said Thursday the school has obtained a state license to sell beer in the Student Center. Beer is to be sold only during certain hours when faculty and student government officials are on hand. Prospects of campus beer sales caused the Charleston County Council last summer to consider cutting off its annual contribution to the private college.

Advise Rehiring Ousted Officers

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Personnel Board recommended unanimously Thursday that two ousted members of the state capitol police force be rehired.

Officers Lynwood Carter and Robert Bland were fired in July by Lawrence Watts, state general services officer who has since been replaced.

The dismissals came after the men reporting seeing another member of the capitol police force making love to a woman in the basement of the State House. Their dismissal was upheld by state director of administration William Turner.

Sterling C. Anning, assistant director of the Department of Administration, said the board's recommendation is not binding on the department, which operates the capitol police force.

More New Programs Will Make TV Debut

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another busy weekend is in store for the show-sampling television public. ABC has three new programs making their debuts tonight and CBS will launch two on Sunday.

ABC's "Jimmy Durante Presents the Lennon Sisters Hour"—unoubtedly, the season's most awkward title—will have its premiere tonight, 10-11 EDT, following the broadcasts of a brace of half-hour situation comedies, "The Brady Bunch" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."

CBS' "Leslie Uggams Show" arrives Sunday to replace the Smothers Brothers program.

The hour, seen in a preview, is a big, colorful variety show

Sunday School Teachers Week

RALEIGH — Governor Bob Scott has proclaimed Oct. 20-26 "Sunday School Teachers Week" in North Carolina.

The observance will mark the third consecutive year the state has joined in the growing movement to give Sunday School teachers across the nation credit for their efforts.

The governor took the action at the request of Burr Patchell, Raleigh hosiery mill executive and antique dealer, who is leading a national effort to gain recognition for Sunday School teachers.

"It is fitting that we recognize and express our appreciation to the services of others exhibited by Sunday School teachers through the years," the governor said. "The influence of Sunday School teachers touches all age groups in the church from infancy through advanced years and attitudes shaped in early years, often follow us through life and guide our thoughts and actions."

Revival Begins Monday Night

AYDEN — Revival services will begin Monday night at the Ayden Free Will Baptist Church and will continue through Friday.

The Rev. MacWallace, pastor of the Sharon Acres Free Will Baptist Church, Durham, will be the guest speaker each evening.

Services will begin at 7:45 p. m.

Homecoming will be observed on Oct. 5. Kemery Ard is pastor. The public is invited to attend the services.

More New Programs Will Make TV Debut

that has a sleek, production-line look about it. The star, an appealing, pretty girl with a nice voice is surrounded in the first show by some strong guest talent.

Dick Van Dyke, introduces her then sits down with Leslie for an amusing duet. "There's a Hole-in-the Bucket."

David Frye gives his remarkable impressions of Richard M. Nixon and Lyndon B. Johnson. There is of course, the mandatory singing group, this time Sly and the Family Stone which looks and sounds a lot like other singing groups with strange names.

A weekly feature will be a sketch about a Harlem family and the first one suggests it will be a cross between the Goldbergs and the Honeymooners. Leslie plays a married daughter living with her husband, brother, sister and mother. Most are stock characters—sister is a hippy, brother is a lazy lout. And mother played by Lillian Hayman, is likely to steal the show.

While Miss Uggams is winsome when singing and dancing, she has a tendency to be a bit shrill and tense when she tackles comedy sketches.

Whether the show can compete with NBC's "Bonanza" remains to be seen but it seems likely that some viewers who departed when the Smothers Brothers were in the spot may come back to the fold.

Earlier Sunday there will be the premiere on CBS of "To Rome, With Love," which has a familiar format but the attractive and skillful help of John Forsythe. The initial show will be busy getting an Iowa professor and his motherless brood of three girls settled in Rome. There is a silly, stickily sentimental plot about a taxi driver taking them to slum quarters instead of an apartment in the American colony. It closes with a slum housewarming party.

As a series it may be one of those heart-warming hits by a man who turns out "My Three Sons" and "Family Affair" from the same basic recipe.

On Saturday—8:30-9 p.m.—CBS will present another chapter in the lives of Charlie Brown and his cartoon friends. This one is a disarming account of usual, the gentle, disorganized boys had a tough time coping with the aggressive, efficient girls. It is a delightful 30 minutes.

Opines Sanhedrin Tried To Avoid Roman Trial

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ancient Jewish officials sought to save Jesus from Roman execution, but he wouldn't cooperate, says a noted authority on first-century Jewish and Roman law.

That's the latest conclusion about an old, but still pondered judicial proceeding that has echoed through history.

The new and probing analysis of the case comes from Justice Haim Cohn of Israel's Supreme Court. His findings, presented in the Israel Law Review, were republished recently in Hadassah magazine in this country.

He maintains that the questioning of Jesus by the Jewish council, the Sanhedrin, on the night before his trial and condemnation by the Roman occupation government, was an unsuccessful effort to find grounds for saving his life.

Rather than being prompted by purely ethico-religious considerations, however, "their motives were realistic and political," he says, aimed at regaining some of their lost influence among the people.

"The standing and prestige of the High Priest among the broad masses of the people were in those days steadily declining," he recounts. "They were suspected and accused of collaboration with Roman authorities . . ."

"Nothing could have been further from their intentions, or more harmful to their purpose, than to arouse the discontent and disaffection of the people by lending a hand in the execution by the Romans of one in their midst."

On the other hand, "any action on their part to prevent such execution would, if successful, have been likely to arouse popular applause and to reinstate them in the eyes of the people as their natural and legitimate leaders."

He says this is the only objective that could have caused the unusual nighttime meeting of the Sanhedrin, in view of conditions, laws and customs of that day, and it also fits basically the Gospel accounts.

The meeting started with numerous witnesses being questioned and branded as "false witnesses," he notes, adding that they obviously would have been accepted as truthful if incriminating testimony had been desired.

However, he adds, the Sanhedrin "was interested in satisfying itself that any evidence that might be available against Jesus was false and inadmissible" so it could safely intercede in his behalf. "Hence it so found and so declared."

That point would have been sufficient under Jewish law for clearing Jesus of the Roman charges, the justice notes, since Jewish law prohibited any conviction except by testimony of at least two reliable witnesses. However, under Roman law, he adds, the accused could be convicted on his own plea of guilty, even without witnesses and to avoid this, Jesus had to be "dissuaded from pleading guilty" and "induced to cooperate."

Justice Cohn says it was for this purpose, after the Sanhedrin had discredited the witnesses, that its president, the High Priest, questioned Jesus directly, asking if he was "Christ, the Son of the Blessed." Jesus replied affirmatively.

That reply "caused the High Priest and the Sanhedrin to give up in despair," the Israeli justice writes, since Jesus would not "bow to their authority" but give the assurances they needed to intervene in his behalf.

"They could do nothing more," he says, other than let the Roman trial run its course.

Portrait of a MIXED BLESSING

Here is the River — to some an avenue on their trek westward — to others an obstacle to be crossed.

Today it brings shiploads of needed supplies to the towns along its banks, carries their products to warehouse and factory.

Tomorrow it can escape those banks, leaving death and destruction in its wake. For the River must be ruled by man!

Yesterday it brought pure water from mountain streams to thirsty lips. Then somebody made it his gutter.

Like all our mixed blessings the River can help or hurt. It is just one of those gifts of God whose value will always depend on our good sense and initiative, our respect for God's intent and our concern for the needs of others.

Call it a by-product if you please — but one of the results of faithful religious worship and service is that so many mixed blessings become real blessings!

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog market was steady to 25 cents lower today. Tops of 25.25-25.75 Wilson and Rocky Mount; 25.00-25.50 Siler City and Denton; 24.25-25.50 Tarboro; 24.5-25.25 Bethel; 25.75 Greensboro; 5.50 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA)—The North Carolina poultry market today was one cent lower. Live broilers and fryers at farms mostly 13½ cents a pound.

GRAIN

Pitt County grain buying stations reported little or no activity on their markets this morning and all buyers anticipate the possibility of farmers resuming harvesting on Saturday if fields continue to dry.

Prices are holding until full scale activity is resumed and showing no fluctuation from yesterday's quotes. Following are 11 a. m. per bushel prices: Greenville: yellow corn, $1.15; wheat, $1.12; oats, $1.02—holding. Ayden: yellow corn, $1.16—holding. Winterville: yellow corn, $1.15—holding. Farmville: Yellow corn, $1.17—holding. Bethel: yellow corn, $1.15—holding.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks continued their two-day losing performance in moderate trading this afternoon, as declines, paced by several sagging oil issues, outdistanced advances by a near 2-to-1 margin.

The Dow Jones industrial average, on the wane for two sessions, dropped off 4.45 at $25.37 at noon.

Analysis said that investors, awaiting any type of news, moved to the sidelines temporarily to await today's announcement by President Nixon on the Vietnam troop withdrawals.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon slid off 4 to 289.6, with industrials off .6, rails off .5, and utilities unchanged.

Steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, chemicals, rails, oils, airlines and drugs moved downward, while electronics gained and utilities and metals were mixed.

Oil issues were sprinkled liberally through the Big Board's list of the 20 most active issues.

Atlantic Richfield slipped ¼ to 102¼, while Natomas was up 1¼.

Glamors, the subject of profit taking in previous sessions, were up, as Polaroid gained ¼ to 129½; IBM was 348, up ¼; and Control Data 139¼, up ½.

Twelve of the American Stock Exchange's most-active issues were on the decline, while 8 advanced.

John T. Jenkins Sworn As Troop 'C' Commander

JOHN T. JENKINS

RALEIGH — John T. Jenkins, a former Greenville resident was sworn in this morning as captain and commander of the North Carolina Highway Patrol's Troop C, with headquarters in Raleigh.

Jenkins' promotion to the rank of captain was announced Wednesday by Patrol commander, Col. Edwin Guy, Capt. Jenkins has served as a lieutenant and executive officer of Troop B in Fayetteville for the past several years.

A native of Littleton in Warren County, Capt. Jenkins joined the patrol November 1, 1947. He was stationed in Craven County for 12 years, serving posts in New Bern and Havelock, before being promoted to corporal October 1, 1959 and receiving a transfer to Rocky Mount.

The officer moved to Greenville as district corporal April 1, 1960 and served here until promoted to Sergeant and moved to Goldsboro in 1961. Jenkins was promoted to lieutenant and moved to Fayetteville November 1, 1967.

Variance Request Is Tabled By Adjusters

The request for variance made by Tau-Kappa Epsilon fraternity for an addition to the fraternity house located at 951 E. Tenth St. was tabled by the Board of Adjustment at their meeting last night.

Members of the board ruled that since the people making the request did not present two copies of the preliminary plat for the additional construction, it had no choice but to table the matter as the plat must be received in duplicated in accordance with requirements of building codes of the city ordinances. At the public hearing, a number of area residents told the board that they objected to any addition to the fraternity. They cited instances in which they had called the police to get the fraternity members quiet, and referred to the problems of parking on the street which creates congestion.

Board members informed the fraternity people that they must plant a hedge, surround the area with a fence, and provide a parking lot in the yard to meet requirements of the zoning code for this type of establishment.

A second matter considered was a request by Ed Tipton that his property on Greenville Boulevard be rezoned from highway commercial (CH) to a shopping center (CS) zone. Tipton's property is an insurance agency and real estate office, and also includes an annex to house a beauty salon, a reducing salon and similar shops.

After hearing the request, the board decided to refer the matter to the Planning and Zoning Commission with a recommendation that this property and adjoining property on Greenville Boulevard be rezoned to a shopping center zone.

Bank's Branch In Greenville Approved

The Bank of Winterville moved one step closer to establishing a branch office in Greenville when its application for the new office was approved by the State Banking Commission, Wednesday.

Don Langston, president of the Winterville bank, said this morning that the only holdup now is gaining the approval of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Langston noted, however, that action by FDIC should come in the near future and said he is "reasonably sure" of their approval.

The proposed branch would be located on the northeast corner at the intersection of Trade Street and Memorial Drive and would cost an estimated $100,000, including equipment.

Construction of the facility is planned to get under way as soon as final approval of the branch is received, Langston noted.

The Bank of Winterville was founded in 1960 with $5,000. Assets of the bank now total more than $3 million, according to Langston.

Wheat For China

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Canadian wheat will start moving out of Pacific ports for Red China again next month under a new agreement to sell Peking $135 million worth of the grain in the next year.

Trade Minister Jean Luc Pepin announced Thursday night that a team from the Canadian Wheat Board had concluded an agreement in Peking to sell 86.2 million bushels to the Chinese.

He said most of the grain would be moved through Vancouver and other Pacific ports, but that 4 million bushels would be shipped through ports on the St. Lawrence and the East Coast. China has become Canada's biggest wheat customer in the past few years.

Farmville Market Sales Volume Continues High

FARMVILLE—The volume of sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market continued heavy yesterday, with the market selling 485,363 pounds of leaf for an average price of $71.90 per hundred pounds.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market, offerings yesterday consisted of mostly leaf, smoking leaf, and nondescript grades. He said prices were steady to slightly higher on some grades.

For the season, 14,488,860 pounds of tobacco has been sold for an average price of $72.28 per hundred pounds. Total sales amount to $10,473,026.

Two Trucks And Car In Accident

More than $700 damage resulted from a 12:15 a. m. wreck here yesterday involving two trucks and a car, according to Greenville police.

Officers identified the drivers involved as Fay Wetherington, Elks, 20 of Route 2, Greenville, Willie Lee Cannon, 34 of Snow Hill and Obe Wetherington, 29 of Route 2, Grimesland.

Police, who charged Cannon with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident, set damage at $50 to the Elks car, $75 to the Cannon truck and $600 to a truck driven by Wetherington.

No injuries were reported. The collision occurred at the intersection of U. S. 264 and Evans Street.

Students Oppose Beer On Campus

GUNNISON, Colo. (AP) — Students at Western State College—in a bit of an academic surprise—have voted against the sale of 3.2 beer on campus. The vote, taken as students registered, was 1,945 against and 987 for.

They also voted down 2,119 to 814 a proposal to subsidize the sale of beer with $5 of their student fees if the project should lose money.

Trustees asked for the pulse-taking at state colleges; Western State is the first to reject the proposal.

Denes Claim New Arms Up For Sale

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese military spokesman today denied a charge by U.S. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., that the Saigon government is trying to sell new weapons the U.S. government has supplied it.

Proxmire claimed Thursday that the South Vietnamese government has offered private arms dealers more than 5,000 of the new, U.S. M16 automatic rifles plus grenade launchers, submachine guns and pistols.

The South Vietnamese spokesman said his government is negotiating with a British company for the sale of 200,000 weapons, but all are obsolete and very few are in operating condition.

He said most of the weapons were made in Britain, France, Denmark, Italy or Japan and the few U.S. arms involved were manufactured in 1917.

"The weapons... were not provided... by the United States," he said. "The Army of the Republic of Vietnam obtained the weapons before the United States involvement." He added that one condition of the sale is that the purchaser make the weapons nonoperable, "they are for scrap metal of souvenirs only."

Youth Needs Get UN Attention

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly's 12-nation Social Committee decided Thursday to take up "problems and needs of youth" first among 15 items on its agenda. It will devote six meetings to the subject.

It decided to take up the "question of the elderly and aged", twelfth on the schedule and devote only one meeting to that.

Rain Washed Out Festivities

DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — Officials of Danville's centennial celebration of its tobacco market got a rain check after half an inch of rain washed out the Growers Day festivities in a park.

The rain check was for $3,000—payable to the centennial committee from the Hartford Insurance Co., which had collected a $225 premium to insure a sunny day.

The insurance company was betting that between 11:30 a.m. and 2:20 p.m. Wednesday it wouldn't rain more than one-tenth of an inch.

Giant African Snails In Florida 'Eat Everything'

By STRATTON L. DOUTHAT Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — A lush area in north Miami is infested with first-sized snails that are eating about everything in sight—even the paint on houses.

"They're giant African snails," said Art Calvert, area administrator for the Florida Agriculture Department. He estimated there were up to 20,000 of them in a 13-square-block area.

Calvert said the snails thrive on foliage and calcium and present a threat to South Florida's cash crops if they aren't contained. The infestation is unique in the United States, he added.

Calvert and a dozen agriculture experts—including state Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner—visited the area Thursday in the Miami Shores section and collected hundreds of the large, brownish, colored snails. "I saw some shells bigger than my fist," said Calvert. "Inside, the snails were almost a foot long."

Calvert said the snails were introduced to the neighborhood three years ago by a young boy returning from a trip to Hawaii. "He brought three of them as a present to his grandmother... now there are thousands out there."

The snails, capable of producing 600 offspring each year chomp on the lush foliage and eat paint from the houses to get calcium.

"We found them on roofs, clinging to walls and hiding beneath eaves," Calvert said. "They were everywhere."

Bessie Parkhurst lives in the heart of the infested area. "I've picked up a pall of snails each night," she said. "When you walk across your lawn, you hear 'crunch, crunch, crunch.'"

Calvert said the snails can't be sprayed from a plane because they are in a populated area. "So we're going to put a granular substance on the lawns," he said. "Conventional poisons don't bother them."

And, he said, area trash dumps—where many snails had been taken by residents—have been quarantined.

"One solution could be to eat them. I understand they are eaten in some countries," Calvert said. "They look like those giant escargots the moon people eat in Dick Tracy."

Stroud To Head Ayden Authority

AYDEN — Clay Stroud Jr., owner of Stroud's Specialties, has been named executive director of the Ayden Housing Authority, it was announced Wednesday by Warren Bishop, chairman of the Authority.

Stroud will assume his duties on Oct. 1. He will be responsible for operating the Authority, renting units, various other payments as well as various other responsibilities.

The Authority office will be maintained in Stroud's present business for the time being.
