ECU May Enroll 1st Med Students By Fall Of '71

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
East-Carolina University, moving forward with plans for setting up a two-year medical school, could enroll its first medical students in the fall of 1971.

appropriated $375,000 to ECU to make plans for a medical curriculum. Dr. Edwin Monroe, dean of Allied Health Professions at ECU and coordinator for health affairs, said today he has been lining up consultants who will assist us in developing a basic medical sciences curriculum." Moore was asked when the university plans to take its basic medical science curriculum before the state Board of Higher Education. "I think the earliest we could do that would be sometime in late 1970 or early 1971," he said. He said ECU is not planning a traditional two-year medical school but one that would permit students enrolling as freshmen to transfer to a four-year medical school after five years, thus saving a year's schooling.

"If a student were slower than that, he could take the full six years to complete the program at ECU," Monroe said. He noted ECU's curriculum already includes premedical courses and the school plans to install what are commonly called freshman and sophomore medical courses. He said the school plans to have its medical students take courses in basic sciences such as biology, anatomy, chemistry, sociology and psychology along with other students, instead of setting up special courses in the medical school. "This is why we continued to say a medical school can be developed here at much less expense than the figures quoted in the press during the last two years," he added. Asked when ECU plans to enroll its first medical students, Monroe said, "When the Board of Higher Education approves our curriculum and when we receive probationary accreditation from the National Accrediting Committee. The earliest we could hope to enroll a student would be in 1971."

Air Force Jets Crash At Rowland; Four Dead

ROWLAND, N. C. (AP)—Two Air Force jet fighters that were participating in war games collided Wednesday, killing all four men aboard. A spokesman at Seymour

Johnson Air Force base said the planes that collided were a F4D Phantom II and a F105 Thunderchief.

Killed in the Phantom jet were Capt. John T. Mize, aircraft commander, and Capt. William D. Jarman Jr., pilot systems operator, both of Goldsboro, N. C. Identity of the two men in the Thunderchief were withheld pending notification of their next of kin.

The planes were participating in a fireproof demonstration in connection with Brass Strike V war games at Ft. Bragg and Pope Air Force Base.

They collided near Rowland in Robeson County of southeastern North Carolina, about 40 miles south of the Ft. Bragg reservation.

The Phantom was based at Seymour Johnson near Goldsboro, and the Thunderchief was assigned to McConnell Air Force Base, Kan.

The fallen planes dug a hole eight feet deep and 40 feet long, observers said, and portions of bodies were visible on the ground. Wreckage was scattered for 1 1/2 miles.

One report said a driver of a car swerved to avoid falling plane debris, hit a tree, and was killed. But the State Highway Patrol said it knew nothing of the report. Wreckage hit a parked car, the patrol said.

Military investigators from Ft. Bragg and Pope Air Force Base put a tight cordon around the area. But newsmen and others had been able to see the crash site for about an hour before the servicemen arrived.

One newsmen, Bill Norman of Lumberton, said he was told by a woman that she saw the planes collide and then belch fire and smoke.

New Director Speaks Here

Local Affairs Department To Plan Development

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

"An economic development commission is a combination of interests undertaking the overall planning and total development of the economy of the counties which make up the district. North Carolina has, with the establishment of the Department of Local Affairs, done exactly the same thing on a state level that has begun on a regional level."

Making the statement was G. Irvin Aldridge, the new director of the Department of Local Affairs, at the quarterly meeting of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission last night.

In explanation of the newly created state office, Aldridge said, "The goal of an economic development commission is to serve as a vehicle to direct the economic, financial, organizational and leadership skills plus the natural, physical, commercial and human resources..."

These resources should be directed towards four basic functions: "detecting and defining problems, exposing economic potentials, determining public interest and designing programs and objectives which will effectively permit the accomplishment of economic development tasks."

Aldridge said that these commissions are prime areas in which the Department of Local Affairs can act to its fullest potential.

"We will act as a clearing house for you," Aldridge continued. "By this I mean, we will provide community planning services, recreation advice, law and order services and a ready catalogue of available funds necessary to your area development."

The new director explained that the department, being established in early July, was in a position at the outset of having to form their policies after he creation of the job. with a limited staff to function in the beginning, Aldridge expressed optimism that the department will grow and that development will come with time. "We need to be prepared to act, rather than just react," he said.

With the new office projected to work in paralled with local commissions, Aldridge explained that the state level commission would not stand in the way of local and federal negotiations unless mediation was requested.

Aldridge, a native of Caswell County and a graduate of Elon College, was introduced by the chairman of the Mid-East Development Commission, Carl V. Venters Jr. An appointee of Governor Scott, Aldridge will coordinate the activities of the Local Affairs office and the regional commissions across the state.

In addition to the address by Aldridge, reports were heard last night from the county coordinators representing the six county make-up of the Development Commission. Those coordinators are: Bill Page, Beaufort; C.B. Griffin Jr., Bertie; Percy Price, Martin; Charles Home Jr., Pitt; W.J. Lupton, Hyde; and Worth Chesson, Washington.

A report was also heard from Frank Kivett, executive director of the commission, who briefly outlined the development of the commission over the past year. He explained that emphasis was being placed in the areas of housing and law enforcement and mentioned the proposed Air Police Helicopter Service that the commission is pushing towards establishment. Among the guest attending the meeting was Charles S. Edwards, the North Carolina Coordinator of the Economic Development Administration in Raleigh.

Bayh Says Kennedy Wants To 'Tell All'

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a close personal and political friend of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said Wednesday that the Massachusetts Democrat is anxious to tell all he knows about the July 18 accident on Chappaquiddick Island, the Boston Record American reported. "I think the matter has to be cleared up completely," Bayh told reporters from the newspaper's Washington bureau.

The story published today quoted Bayh as saying, "I think he'll do this. I think Ted wants to make available all the information."

Mary Jo Kopechne, 26, a Washington secretary, died when a car driven by Kennedy plunged off Dyke Bridge on the island.

The Indiana senator said the fatal accident hurt Kennedy politically but added that it was still "too early to tell" how badly.

"Some polls say he's completely through," Bayh said. "My judgment is that this is not completely true. He has a tremendous hold on young people—it amounts almost to worship—and young people are prone to forgive and forget."

Pitt Student Is Semifinalist

REBECCA BOSLEY

One Pitt County student has been named a semifinalist in the 1969-70 National Merit Scholarship Program.

The student is Rebecca Bosley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dave Bosley of Grifton.

Miss Bosley is one of 15,000 students appointed to compete for the 3,000 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1970.

The semifinalists were the highest scorers in their states on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test given in February to some 750,000 students in 17,250 schools.

Each of the semifinalists will be considered for one of the 1,000 National Merit $1,000 scholarships which are allocated by the states. Many will also be considered for the renewable four-year Merit Scholarships provided by some 400 corporations, foundations, colleges and other organizations.

Winners of the four-year scholarship may receive up to $1,500 a year for four years, depending on their individual need. The $1,000 scholarships are non-renewable.

High school grades, accomplishments, leadership qualities and extracurricular achievements of the finalists are evaluated, along with test scores, in selecting the Merit Scholarship winners.

Names of the 1969-70 scholarship winners will be announced April 30, 1970.

McCarthy Joins Call For Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, joining fellow Democratic doves in renewed calls for an end to the Vietnam war, charged today President Nixon is following the Johnson administration's policies and using its rhetoric. "It's almost as though we were back in 1966," McCarthy told a news conference.

McCarthy, a Minnesota Democrat, supported the planned Oct. 15 student-led moratorium against the war and said he hopes "the President will respond to what is clearly the public resolve with regard to the war."

He said he plans to support antiwar candidates in the 1970 election, but declined to state if he would again seek the presidency in 1972 as he did in 1968.

McCarthy also said he supports proposals such as that by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., to set a timetable for withdrawing troops and said the United States should press for a coalition government for South Vietnam, either within or outside of the Paris peace talks.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, called proposals such as Goodell's "counter-productive" and said President Nixon "is doing all he can" to end the war.

While declining to join in criticism of the President, he also rejected a Republican call for a moratorium on senatorial criticism, saying: "Every senator has a right to express his opinion."

Ft. Benning Is Brought Into NCO Club Probe

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators following a trail of alleged multimillion-dollar graft involving the operations of servicemen's clubs from Germany to Vietnam have a new target—Ft. Benning, Ga.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's investigations subcommittee scheduled testimony today from Army investigators concerning their probe into allegations of illegal activities by top-ranking sergeants running noncommis-sioned officers clubs on the huge southern post. Ft. Benning's NCO clubs were brought into the inquiry Wednesday when Ribicoff said many of the sergeants allegedly involved in skimming profits from overseas clubs had managed to be transferred to the Georgia base.

Ribicoff said a small clique of sergeants—whom he said used their stripes as camouflage for raids on club funds—perfected a system of controlling their transfers from base to base. Thus, he said, members of the group—one witness has called were always transferred to the same base at about the same time—first from Germany to Vietnam and then to Ft. Benning.

The senators also were told Wednesday protective payoffs siphoned from money stolen from slot machines were spread over the upper echelons of the 24th Infantry division in Germany—including the office of its commanding general, Maj. Gen. William A. Cunningham III. Another witness said Cunningham vetoed all requests for an expanded investigation into the thefts—estimated to total more than $1 million for a four year period.

Cunningham, however, denied he failed to take steps to halt any thefts.

"There was always mismanagement but I can assure you every action was taken care of properly at the time," Cunnham said in Gainesville, Fla., Wednesday.

Cunningham, who said he would "do anything possible to protect my good name," declared "This is something that happened four, five and six years ago. I do not recall the exact circumstances."

But he said there is "no validity" to the accusations, and added: "I don't know enough of the details of the charges. I am sitting up here and don't know what's going on."

DISCUSSION . . . of UFOs. Nuclear physicist Stanton Friedman talks to the press prior to his lecture. With him (right) is S. Rudolph Alexander, assistant dean of student affairs.

Nuclear Physicist Feels Flying Saucers Are Real

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
"I'm not a performer, who comes on, does his thing, and goes off," stated Stanton T. Friedman, nuclear physicist who lectured last night at Wright Auditorium on East Carolina University campus. "Flying Saucers Are Real" was the subject of Friedman's lecture. The bearded scientist, now based with an aerospace industry in California, spoke to a packed house, answering questions after his lecture. Friedman says that unidentified flying objects (UFOs) have captured the public fancy in the past 20 years. "In spite of this, the general public really knows very little about the meticulous research being done in this field," he commented.

"I feel the government has more data than is revealed," he commented during a press conference prior to his lecture. "I don't think this is a conspiracy by any means, I think it's more a foul-up than a cover-up."

Stressing that the heart of research is concentrated on the truly unidentified flying objects, Friedman said, "There are thousands of reported sightings made each year which can be properly identified as a known phenomena. These are not our concern. All our research, our investigations are directed to those valid reportings which are sightings that cannot be equated to any known object."

Friedman firmly believes in the reality of extraterrestrial visitors and the feasibility of interstellar travel. "The evidence is overwhelming," he declares. "Because we have not yet attained that state ourselves, skeptics naturally feel that it cannot be."

Convinced that he has a personal responsibility to inform the public on what he feels is a matter of utmost importance to the citizens of the world, Friedman outlines three factors which prompts him to take time from his research work to go on the lecture circuit from time to time:

—"The scientific community has been derelict in its responsibility. Scientists are like other people, they have a fear of being laughed at, and are reluctant to speak out.

"We need now to study the whole UFO spectrum to help solve some of our own problems in space experiments. Eventually we will be reaching out for interstellar travel, and we must not leave unexplored any leads to solving the complex problems we face.

—"There are mental health problems in our country connected with UFOs. Even the meager research to date indicates that the vast majority

Governor Makes Appointments

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott Wednesday announced appointments to the Commercial and Sports Fisheries Advisory Board.

Rep. Gus Speros, D-Robeson, will replace Raleigh newsman Bill Shires as chairman of the 11-member board.

Speros and Reps. Archie Burrus, D-Dare, and Chris Barker, D-Craven, were appointed to represent the General Assembly on the board.

Named to represent commercial fisheries were Ron Tillett of Dare County, Monroe Gaskill of Carteret and James T. Barnes of Brunswick.

Jack Cahoon of Dare, J. L. Parker of Bertie and John Craig of New Hanover will represent sports fishermen. Representing professional scientists will be Dr. W. M. Hassler of Raleigh and Dr. A. L. Chestnut of Morehead City.

Salem Methodist Sets Homecoming

Salem United Methodist Church will observe its 94th annual homecoming on Sunday.

For some years, the first Sunday in October has been recognized as Salem's homecoming day. This also coincides with World Wide Communion Sunday.

The Rev. John Blue, Protestant chaplain of the Veterans Hospital, Martinsburg, W. Va., will be the 11 o'clock speaker. The Rev. Blue served as pastor of the Salem Church for four years.

All former pastors and friends are invited to attend the services. Dinner will be served on the church grounds.

Sewing Classes Offered At PTI

Sewing I and Sewing II classes are now being offered at Pitt Technical Institute and are already in progress.

The Sewing I class meets on Tuesday and Friday from 12 noon until 3 p. m. The Sewing II class meets Monday and Wednesday from 12 noon until 3 p. m.

Both courses are 45 hours in length and cost $4.50 per person for instruction. Each person provides his own equipment and materials.

Interested persons are urged to enroll as soon as possible.

For additional information, persons may call Pitt Technical Institute at 756-3130.

of people, and there are thousands of them, who have experienced sighting unidentified objects, are afraid to report what they have seen. The general atmosphere of unbelief creates a fear of ridicule, so these people quite often suffer from indecision and remain quiet. This is not a healthy situation, and is one which should not exist."

Friedman was one of the key witnesses to appear before the House Committee on Science and Astronautics investigation of UFOs in August 1968.

Big Family Day Held By TGS

AURORA — About 3,000 attended Texas Gull's Annual Family Day Picnic held Sunday afternoon at the employees' recreation facilities located on the Pamlico River east of the plant site.

Invitations were extended by the company to all employees, their spouses and children. Food was served by the company from 2 until 6 p. m. and consisted of 2,500 pounds of Texas style barbecue beef with all the trimmings.

Music was furnished by "The Loving Kind" from Bath, N. C. while "Witney, the Hobo" and his partner, Sammy Bland, were on hand to amuse the children. Additional entertainment included narrated slides about the company's world wide operations, swimming, softball, volleyball, horseshoe pitching, field events and various games. Awards were made to the winners of each contest.

The festivities began at 1 p. m. and ended at dusk with a giant fireworks display.

Load Limit Set For Road

Secondary road 1708 (Cannons Crossroads) will be posted for a 13,000 pound load limit beginning Wednesday.

According to C.W. Snell, division engineer with the State Highway Commission, preliminary warning signs will be posted Friday, with the effective posted date as Oct. 8.

Secondary road 1708 runs from N.C. 11 about four miles to N.C. secondary road 1725.

Wildlife Man Gets Promotion

RALEIGH (AP) — The chief of the protection division of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, Donald E. Curtis, announced Wednesday the promotion of Lindsay E. Everett of Lake Waccamaw to wildlife protection supervisor at Edenton.

Everett will move to the $9,216 a year post from his position as assistant supervisor for the district headquartered at Lake Waccamaw.

The bidding:

Dble. Pass Pass Pass

An imaginative and intelligent bid by East paid off for a good result in today's hand taken from a recent tournament.

The first round of bidding was virtually the same at every table. When North bid four spades, East was confronted with a problem. Some felt that they had been outbid and, since North appeared to be sacrificing against the heart game, East chose to double in an attempt to gain whatever compensation was available. This proved to be a regrettable decision for his side.

The opening lead against four spades doubled was invariably the ace of hearts which was ruffed by North. Declarer was able to establish the club suit for three discards by trumping out West's queen. South was assured of either one or two overtricks, depending on whether or not East decided to cash his ace of diamonds when he was in with the ace of trumps. If he does not take his ace, South can ruff out his three hearts and then discard all of his diamonds on the established clubs.

At some tables, East was not certain to whose side the hand belonged and, when North bid four spades, East decided to take out a little insurance by persisting to five hearts. Where his opponents permitted him to buy the hand, he made his contract by finessing North for the king of diamonds. His only losers were two club tricks. Where North chose to sacrifice at five spades, East doubled, and the defenders suffered a catastrophe when West led the ace of hearts.

At only one table did North and South incur a setback. Here, too, East recognized the necessity for bidding over four spades, but he went one step further. Realizing that his opponents might persist to five spades, he decided to take the opportunity available to him to suggest a lead to his partner. It could not cost him anything since hearts had been resoundingly agreed on as a trump suit, so East bid five diamonds.

West returned to five hearts and, when North carried on to five spades, East doubled. His message had indeed registered with West, and the latter opened a diamond instead of the ace of hearts. This permitted the defense to cash quickly two diamond tricks, and the ace of spades subsequently sent the declarer down to a one trick defeat.

Ice Cream, Gelatin And Fruit: Leading Desserts

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Most women think men's favorite desserts are pies and cakes. But the desserts wives serve most often are ice cream, gelatin or canned fruit.

The study that revealed these findings also quoted most wives as saying they choose desserts to please their husbands. While you ponder the logic of the foregoing, consider some other findings of the study made by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. (ANPA):

Ice Cream Favorite
—Ice cream is the most frequently served dessert and the ranking favorite with children. Runners-up with small fry are puddings, flavored gelatins and cookies.

—Children, as you might expect, are the big dessert eaters. More than nine out of 10 women said their children ate dessert with one or more main meals during the week, and three out of four said their children ate dessert every weekend. Women themselves said they preferred gelatin, cakes and pies, in that order. Yet 68 per cent of the 800 women questioned in the eight-city study said the serve ice cream one or more times a week. Sixty-seven per cent said they serve canned fruit as frequently.

Storage space apparently has little influence on the choice of dessert. Only 60 per cent said they actually had ice cream on hand. But 84 per cent had canned fruit in the house and 77 per cent had both flavored gelatin, which is relatively popular, and packaged pudding mixes, which the study showed well down in usage on a list of 12 types of desserts.

Other desserts considered were mix cakes, already prepared cakes, cakes made from scratch, pies made from scratch, bought pies and frozen baked goods.

Women ranked both ice cream and canned fruits high in nutrition, with the fruit taking a slight edge. But they look on canned fruit as a casual dessert—not fancy enough for a formal setting or a special occasion meal, such as entertaining close friends or the husband's boss. They regard both canned fruit and flavored gelatins as versatile desserts and ingredients for puddings; also economical and appropriate for dieting.

The women tended to categorize puddings as children's desserts; relatively few felt puddings should be served to adults.

Pies were envisioned as a man's dessert and, with cakes, those best designed to impress both families and guests. Women also called pies and cakes the tastiest and most popular desserts of the dozen they were asked to consider.

Pies and cakes' stepchild status in menu planning apparently stems from their oft-deserved image as fattening, rich and expensive.

The study showed women put frozen baked goods in the same class as cakes and pies—and for the same reasons. Yet 45 per cent of the women said they buy more frozen foods now than they did a year earlier.

Desserts Add Variety
Despite such drawbacks, women look to desserts to add variety to meals. Four out of 10 felt a good dessert guaranteed success for a meal. More than eight out of 10 said they felt they could rely on a dessert to dress up a meal.

Many use desserts—especially cakes and pies—to round out a meal featuring a meatless casserole, or to brighten a meal in cold, dreary weather.

In our increasingly weight-conscious society, low calorie desserts appear to be making small headway—at least, among the families covered in this study. Women said they found it difficult to accept low calorie desserts. Forty per cent said that "low calorie desserts usually aren't very good."

Even though desserts can be expensive, three-fourths of the women said they wouldn't eliminate that course to save money. They indicated that they tend to reserve cakes and— to a lesser extent—pies for occasions when the upgrading of a meal outweighs the disadvantages of high cost and high calorie count.

Should Fiancee Be The First To See The Engagement Ring?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper for a man to show off an engagement ring to his family, friends and co-workers before presenting it to his fiancée? I thought an engagement ring was a private, almost sacred gift to be placed on a girl's finger before others viewed it.

Magic Carpet Developed By Electronics Firm

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—An electronics firm here has developed a "magic carpet" that may make the household electric outlet a thing of the past.

The company has literally wired a carpet for sound, transmitting both the signals for radio, television and telephones. The carpet also has the electricity to operate these and other appliances.

To turn on an appliance one simply places a small pronged probe anywhere in the carpet.

A spokesman for the company, Dole Electro-Systems, said the device "could revolutionize the electrical communications system in homes, offices and schools."

The household electrical outlet, the TV antenna lead and the telephone connection will be obsolete," he said.

The housewife can plug in a lamp wherever it suits her, office desks can be shifted without concern for the telephone locations and teachers can "plug-in" audio-visual aids.

The Electro-Comm system is completely safe, a company spokesman said. "It transmits only low wattage power at intrinsically safe, low voltage and completely harmless microwaves."

School officials recently had a look at the carpet during a School Planning Conference at Stanford University.

Charles D. Gibson, chief of the Bureau of School Planning for the California State Department of Education, called the system "a major breakthrough."

He said it would "permit better space utilization of both new and existing facilities."

Miss Harrington Entertained Residents Were Honored Monday

AYDEN — Miss Jackie Harrington, bride-elect, was honored at a dessert bridge party by the Village Club at the home of Mrs. Larry Davis on Tuesday night.

The house was decorated in a bridal motif carrying out a color scheme of pink and green. The mantel was adorned with magnolia sprays, wedding bells, a miniature bride and burling tapers.

The bride tables placed in the foyer and living room were graced with pink roses and bells.

The honoree was presented a white corsage and a silver tray. High score and second high was received by Mrs. Joanna Averette and Hodges McLawhorn and low by Mrs. Alton Gardner.

Residents Were Honored Monday

Several residents of the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home were entertained by a group of women from the Immanuel Baptist Church Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary P. Brown, Mrs. Sula Drew, Mrs. Essie Bridgers, Mrs. Sara Jones, Mrs. Stella Parker, Lonnie Carroll and Amazon Turner spent the afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roberta Snell.

Mrs. Ruth Arnold, recreational director at the nursing home, played piano selections. Refreshments were served on the patio. Future entertainment is being planned by the church as well as activities for the residents in the home.

My fiance lives about 100 miles from here and he's coming in this week-end and bringing me the engagement ring, but I have heard (from my girl friend who lives in his town) that his whole family and nearly half the town have already seen it.

How should I handle this situation? Should I refuse the ring? I am 24. He is 30, which is old enough to know better, wouldn't you say?

ANNNOYED
DEAR ANNOYED: Your childish reaction shows you to be more in need of "growing up" than your fiance. And if you would even consider refusing the ring for this petty reason, I wonder if YOU are old enough to be married.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I fight all the time. I have begged him to see a marriage counselor with me, but he refuses saying he doesn't need anybody to tell him how to run his life. We have three kiddies or I would have left him long ago.

I have spoken to my pastor, a marriage counselor, a lawyer, my family doctor, and I even went to a psychiatrist, thinking maybe it was MY fault. They all told me they couldn't help me unless my husband came in. And if he refuses to come in, I should leave him.

I would like your opinion, and the opinion of some of your readers who may have had the same experience. Is it better to raise children in a home where there is no love, or in a home where there is no father?

NEEDS TO KNOW
DEAR NEEDS: Some misguided wives who cling to an impossible marriage "for the sake of the children" should leave for that reason. If you have really tried, and I believe you have, I can't give you any better advice than the others.

DEAR ABBY: I am a transplanted Texan, having lived most of my life in Colorado. I like Texas, and wouldn't mind spending the rest of my life here, but I work for a company with offices spread all over the country and I have no guarantee that I won't be transferred.

I met a very nice girl here and the subject of marriage came up. She said she would marry me tomorrow IF (and here is where the problem comes in) I promised her we would never move out of TEXAS.

Abby, I told her I couldn't make her that kind of promise on account of my job, and she said, yes, I could. I could refuse to leave Texas, or take a job with another company if they tried to transfer me.

I've got a lot of seniority built up with this company, and I sure wouldn't want to lose it, but I really do like this little girl and don't know what to do. What do you say?

JIMMY
DEAR JIMMY: I say keep looking. And don't stop until you find a girl who will gladly go whither thou goest.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOUISE: Place a piece of raw beefsteak over your eye, then place a three-inch strip of adhesive tape over your mouth.

Elegance Is A Balance In Choice Of Color And Line

ROME (UPI)—Patrick de Barentzen, the fashion designer, tells women of today: Quit being afraid of elegance. Women are afraid of the word elegance and they are wrong, de Barentzen said.

Elegance is never out-moded because it is a natural feeling. Human beings always have tended to strive for elegance, even when they had nothing but leaves and flowers with which to cover their bodies, the designer said.

You can be elegant even in a shirt. It's just the way you put things together. Elegance is a balance in the choice of color, accessories and line, it is a unity of the whole look, de Barentzen said.

The designer himself dresses with elegance (designing his own clothes). But the impression of elegance is rapidly forgotten as he overwhelms you with a spate of ideas, delivered in machine-gun fire English tinged with French, in both words and gestures.

Couture will never die; there is always a good market for good products, the designer continued.

He is starting to design for outside manufacturing concerns, but they, like his clients in haute couture, have to take what he gives them. A couturier must be faithful to himself. "I must listen only to the voice within myself," de Barentzen concluded.

Greenville Attorney Is Club Speaker Last Night

"Legal Rights of Women" was the program topic for the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville held last night.

David Reid, local attorney and Eighth District Representative to the N.C. General Assembly, was guest speaker.

New officers for 1970 were elected as follows: Mrs. Vernette Dean, president; Mrs. Mari-nell Moore, first vice president; Mrs. Betty Chapman, second vice president; Mrs. Harriett James, recording secretary; Mrs. JoAnn Jones, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jane Hulsey, treasurer; and Mrs. Carolyn James, advisor.

Officers will be installed at the December meeting of the club.

The Junior Woman's Club will be the hostess club for the District 15 fall meeting scheduled to meet here at the First Christian Church on Oct. 21.

Mrs. Juanita Bryant, president of the N.C. Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Mary Brawley, state junior director, will be in attendance at the meeting. They will be entertained at a dinner party on Oct. 20 at the Candlewick Inn at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Sara West, president, presided at the meeting and recognized Mrs. Phoebe Caldwell as a visitor and welcomed Mrs. Phyllis Robbins as a new member.

Giving various reports were Mrs. Mickie Savage, membership, Mrs. Betty Fuqua, ways and means, Mrs. Lynn Rudolph, scrapbook, and Mrs. Kay Wyatt, VIPS.

Mrs. Phoebe Claud announced that a Halloween party will be given on Oct. 31 at Caswell Center in Kinston.

Mrs. Winnie Weeden reported on a visit made to the Children's Home Society office here. Mrs. Marcy Byrd and Mrs. Phoebe Claud visited the office with Mrs. Weeden.

Copies of revisions to the club constitution were distributed and the revisions will be voted on at the next meeting.

It's fair time once again! Next week, October 6-11, will find the Pitt County Fair Grounds buzzing with excitement. The exhibit hall beckons Pitt County homemakers and youth to display items in each department of the women and girls division.

Space will be provided for clothing, house furnishings items, canned goods, preserves, jelly, pickles, cakes, cookies, candies and other baked products. These may all be entered Monday from 9 until 5 p.m. Entries in the floral department will be accepted early Tuesday morning. Begin planning now to visit the fair grounds Monday and enter your handwork.

MINIMUM HOUSING STANDARDS
Within the American society there is a certain minimum level of living in the home that is desired as good citizens and neighbors. This level of living is available to most people who conscientiously work for it.

There are certain space standards to be considered such as planning a dining space large enough for the family. Minimum requirements include space for a 3 ft. by 5 ft. table with seating space of 2 to 3 feet for chairs. Bedrooms less than 9 feet wide or with less than 100 sq. feet are considered below minimum needs. There are also certain conveniences to be noted such as a coat closet near both front and back entrances and storage space for supplies in every bathroom. A floor plan properly oriented in relationship to the lot and designed with a good traffic pattern is necessary for convenience. The above examples are only a few lifted from the guidelines which are available through your Pitt County Home Economics Extension Office. Any one interested may call 758-1196 or write to Box 1427, Greenville, N. C. 27834.

Espionage Case Leaves Questions

The case of the Green Berets will long be remembered in this nation and around the world. It may hang like an albatross around the necks of the military. In a different way it may be a sad chapter in U.S. Army history, just as the Pueblo is in U.S. Navy history.

One of the army's proudest branches was brought to near disgrace when the Green Beret commander in Vietnam and a number of officers and men were charged with killing a Vietnam agent — perhaps a double or triple agent.

After a period of confusion the charges are finally dropped, probably with the intervention of the White House. The Green Beret commander Col. Robert B. Rheault denied knowing the agent and contended there had not been a killing.

All of this leaves the public with a lot of unanswered questions.

—What has become of the agent who was alleged to have been killed?

—Why were charges brought against these men without a thorough enough case to bring the men before a court martial?

—Just who was, or is, the agent working for, anyway?

The answers will more than likely be wrapped up in the secrecy of espionage for many years to come.

However, the public is going to have questions and, in the absence of answers, the overall handling of this case cannot be said to look good.

Finally there is the role of the Central Intelligence Agency, whose testimony apparently was necessary to bring the case to a court martial. The reason given for dropping the charges was that the CIA would not allow its agents to testify for security reasons. How much was the CIA involved? No one knows.

This case has been poorly handled and the unanswered questions are going to plague the army and the government for a long time.

Mao Keeps Refuting The Recurring Rumors

Whatever differences we may have with Communist China's Mao Tse-tung, we have to admit that he is durable.

He has survived a number of rumor waves that he was dead or dying, eventually refuting them by showing up in public.

The latest spate of rumors were becoming believable when the 75 year old chairman showed up at an anniversary celebration in China. News reports said he smiled, waved and shook hands with dignitaries as a half million Chinese shouted "Long Live Chairman Mao."

So it is back to their posts for China watchers, as the aging Mao has confounded them again.

Goad Candidate Out Into Open

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK—A sudden loss of support by City Controller Mario Procaccino, law and order Democratic nominee for mayor of New York, can be directly attributed to the success of his enemies in goading him out of seclusion.

The battle plan by his managers to limit Procaccino's visibility to the absolute minimum was conclusively demolished last week when he agreed to three televised debates with his two rivals—Mayor John V. Lindsay, running for reelection as the Liberal party nominee after losing the Republican nomination, and state Sen. John Marchi, nominee of the Republican and Conservative parties.

Those debates might well accelerate a decline by Procaccino which has caused far more concern among his backers than they will admit publicly. Privately, they acknowledge that his huge lead of the summer has been severely narrowed. Lindsay has gained a little ground, but the most dramatic progress has been made by Marchi. What just a few weeks ago seemed a certain runaway by Procaccino is now a three-way race where the result is unpredictable and yet to be determined.

The reason is the abandonment of the strategy responsible for Procaccino's upset victory in the June Democratic primary: keep out of sight while maintaining an iron-hard anti-crime posture sure to appeal to this terrorized city's middle-income whites. Moreover, simply by staying unveiled, Procaccino gained through the summer to increase his lead.

But after Labor Day, Procaccino began popping up on the television screens with shrill answers to the charges of his enemies. What New Yorkers saw was no steadfast nemesis of crime and anarchy but a highly excitable little man with a weakness for malapropism. Furthermore, Procaccino's agreement to debate Lindsay and Marchi within the private confines of the New York Times editorial rooms gave his opponents the chance to charge that he was afraid to confront them publicly.

What finally lifted the veil was the charge (made under needling from a TV newsman) by J. Raymond Jones, Harlem Democratic leader who is supporting Lindsay, that Procaccino was a coward. When he heard of it, Procaccino dissolved into tears among campaign aides. Even if it lost him the election, he told friends, he could not bear for his family to carry with them forever the shame of alleged cowardice. Rejecting the advice of old pro Democrats, Procaccino agreed last week to the debates.

Consequently, there is deep apprehension among Procaccino's supporters that he will destroy himself in the debates. Nor is he prepared in any way to wage a well coordinated campaign as an active, visible candidate.

Vic Campione, a Bronx clubhouse Democrat who is Procaccino's campaign manager, practices the old politics of a generation ago. The campaign has no polling, has no preconceived television advertising campaign (and only a pitifully small $125,000 currently reserved for that purpose) and no rational plan for the candidate's appearances much of his own scheduling in a little notebook he carries with him—accepting or rejecting invitations as his own fancy dictates.

Against this chaos, the smoothly-directed, lavishly financed Lindsay campaign is making some small progress—mainly among lower-middle have turned against the mayor as champion of the Negroes. In recent encounters with generally hostile groups in Brooklyn synagogues, Lindsay has won applause by attacking the Vietnam war. In the past week, Vietnam has become a major theme of his campaign.

But the really dramatic progress has been made by Marchi, regarded as a poor third through the summer. Coolly (Continued On Page 6)

Politics Begin To Stir In First

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES
Reflector Raleigh Bureau
RALEIGH — The political pot is heating toward the boiling point in the sprawling First Congressional district. Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville, Democrat, successor to the late Hebert C. Bonner, outwardly appears unconcerned. He is a seasoned campaigner and has kept in close touch with district political trends.

residence in Windsor. Others — It may be reported also that there are other Democrats in the First who are — or have been — considering the idea of opposing Jones.

This is not surprising because there are strong political feelings and a strong political tradition in the First. The district now stretches from below the Neuse River and Lenoir County to the Virginia lies and encompasses almost all of Northeast North Carolina.

Republican — The First has never elected a Republican to Congress and, in fact, few if any Republicans to any public office.

Now, however, a former Democrat who served as a state representative and a state senator—Frank Everett of Robersonville — is reported to be the choice of leading First District Republicans to run for Congress next year. Everett led the Democratic party in order to support Republican Jim Gardner for governor in 1968. He also supported President Nixon against Hubert H. Humphrey, saying that the people of his area had "totally rejected" the politics and principles of the Johnson-Humphrey administration.

Watching — Political observers are trying very hard to keep a finger on the public pulse elsewhere across the state. All early indications are that 1970 may be fully as surprising politically as was a 1968.

There is a great deal of unrest. Inflation and the war in Viet Nam lead the list of sensitive matters.

On the state level, there is a large amount of political concern about the effect of new state taxes — now in effect — and the wishy-washy antics of the last legislature. The popularity of Gov. Bob Scott indicated by his election victories of 1968, appears to have dropped. The reasons for this cannot be defined clearly. Mostly, it appears to be a general uncertainty.

WILLIAM A. SHIRES

Nothing really definite has developed and it is quite early to begin campaigning actively and openly for an election, more than a year away. Nevertheless, there are stirrings across the 19-century district, geographically the largest of the state's 11 districts.

It is not nearly so long a time until the primary elections next Spring and these of course will be the first concern of the respective candidates, Jones included.

Gatling — Robert Gatling, formerly assistant director of Administration during the Moore administration, has indicated a serious interest in opposing Jones.

He and a number of friends and supporters spent most of last week touring the First, contacting leaders in virtually every county. Before beginning the tour Gatling said he was being encouraged and had been asked to run for Congress. "I also have had it in my own mind too for some time," he said he had not made a definite decision.

Gatling, 34, has lived in Raleigh for several years but is a native of Bertie County and maintains his permanent

Assail Little Seal

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the Good Housekeeping Seal misleading?

Once again the egg-shaped little emblem that housewives for decades have seen stamped on dozens of consumer products is being assailed in Washington.

The first ruckus this year occurred when the dispenser of the seal, a petite, gussy woman by the name of Willie Mae Rogers, was asked by President Nixon to study consumer affairs for him.

Willie Mae—nobody ever calls her Miss Rogers—is an institution in marketing and advertising circles, and so she accepted the job because of a deep conviction that she could help. She felt a duty to serve.

Willie Mae had a similar sense of duty to Good Housekeeping Magazine. She refused to relinquish her role as director of the Good Housekeeping Institute, and soon the institute was under attack as an advertising gimmick.

Amid accusations of conflict of interest, Willie Mae retreated to the security of her parlor-like office hidden behind all the contraptions that test shirts and rugs and bedsprings in an office building on Eighth Avenue.

Now the attack has risen again. At a meeting of the National Commission on Product Safety, the New York City commissioner of consumer affairs, Bess Myerson Grant, accused the GHI of encouraging the false notion that the seal guaranteed quality and safety.

Is the whole thing some kind of a hoax, as more than a few consumer affairs advisers—some of them self-appointed—are inclined to suggest?

You couldn't tell it from the people involved. Willie Mae is not a misleading person. She is honest and direct, and her staff of 100 works hard to examine products. She has a budget of $1 million a year.

"We always abide by established standards in our tests," said Willie Mae in an interview earlier this year, "but sometimes our standards go far beyond those of the government."

Does the GHI encourage the idea that the seal guarantees safety and quality? Not overtly perhaps. Once the seal was called the Seal of Approval, but that was dropped in 1941 on orders of the Federal Trade Commission.

Nevertheless, many people obviously believe the seal is an independent measure of high standards. Few people realize that it is a measure of minimum standards, that only companies that advertise in the magazine receive the seal, and that every advertiser—bar none—has a right to the seal.

What in the world does the seal guarantee then? Only that "we satisfy ourselves" that the products advertised "are good ones," that the ads are true, and that if a product is defective the buyer gets his money back.

The seal benefits Good Housekeeping at least as much as consumers. If it doesn't guarantee, it certainly gives a big assist to the magazine's success—and it is very successful.

By testing products to be advertised, Good Housekeeping assures itself that it won't ever be outrageously duped by fraudulent products. More than that, the seal creates a demand from advertisers to get into the magazine.

The Real Robt Williams

If you listen carefully these days, with an ear cocked to the liberal press, you will hear the unmistakable slish-slush sound of whitewash being mixed. Robert F. Williams, the black revolutionary, is about to get two coats of respectability and a top coat of hokum. By the time the job is done, he will emerge as a born-again statesman, pure as the driven snow. The tip-off came a couple of weeks ago in a lyrical interview carried on page one of the Washington Post. The story began by identifying Williams as the North Carolina Negro who fled from the United States eight years ago in the face of a kidnapping charge. Why had he returned? "I felt it my duty to come back." The interview took place in a neat ranch house in an integrated suburb of Detroit. Williams' family and close friends sat around the room, hanging on each word of the returned exile. They were filled with laughter and delight, but they responded with a hush of awe, anger and respect as Williams described the oppression he suffered from a mob of local whites in Monroe, N. C.

Other Editors Say Of Good Report

(Christian Science Monitor)

Television is without doubt the most revolutionary innovation in the communications field since Gutenberg and Caxton built their printing presses half a millennium ago. But like all inventions, it is capable of human abuse as well as human use. Consequently there is all the greater reason for gratitude and rejoicing when men have enough vision to direct their energies to full utilization of something new for the good of mankind and the uplifting of the race. When this cuts across national frontiers, we are dealing with something remarkable indeed.

Such is the agreement whereby the Government of India will be able to use an orbiting satellite put aloft by the United States to bring to Indian villages Indian Government-sponsored educational television programs to 5,000 villages in four Hindi-speaking states. The agreement was signed for the United States by the head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Under it, the Indian authorities will have complete control over programming—which is as it should be. Transmissions will seek to spread wider knowledge of such basic essentials as family planning and better farming technique.

Visual aids reach the illiterate—and India's illiteracy rate is 70 percent—when the printed word cannot. This is the value (and sometimes the curse) of television. Happily, project exploits the value and eschews the curse.

Public Forum

To the Editor,

The upcoming additional one cent local sales tax election is of such importance that all qualified voters should inform themselves about it, take a stand, and then vote. I shall vote against the tax, even though I recognize the need for more local tax money in Pitt County and in the municipalities within the county to pay for needed services.

I would gladly vote for a just tax to take care of our needs. But a local one cent general sales tax (in addition to the three cents statewide which came into being in the great depression as an any-port-in-a-storm thing) is the wrong tax.

It taxes not according to ability to pay but according to inability to pay. It taxes him most who can least afford to pay. It is unfair to the ordinary citizen trying hard to make ends meet, for it taxes his necessities. Ad valorem property taxes are relatively low here. Property owners are able to shoulder their just share of the tax burden.

Strength For Today
INTO THE STREAM OF PURPOSE
Popularity. It is easy to achieve popularity if one is satisfied with a cheap and superficial brand. Backslapping, the cheerful word, the moral compromise, and conformity—these produce a superficial popularity. But real popularity is hard to achieve.
Hard as it is for us to face the fact, the popularity which Jesus first had was a superficial popularity. People were interested in his miracles of feeding and healing. They fidgeted about uneasily as he preached sermons on the love of God and man's duty to God, and to his fellows. Because his popularity was a superficial one, the same people who crowded about him at one time cried out for his crucifixion at another.

Christ confers upon us the only popularity worth having which originates in our complete willingness to submit our lives to the will and guidance of God. This means getting our lives and powers into the stream of God's great purposes and going along with Him to ultimate and eternal glory.
The popularity of choosing the hard right against the easy wrong, of resisting temptation, of being strictly and uncompromisingly honest in all things—these are matters of such importance that we cannot ponder them over-much.

Ten Ways To Sell U.S. Market

1. KNOW THE MARKET. Market research and the development of a market strategy are essential first steps to successful penetration into new markets in the U. S. A. Failure to take them can be disastrous. You must be prepared to make a continuing and long-term commitment to the market.
2. VISIT THE MARKET. Personal contacts are vital. Send the boss (if he knows his stuff). The Americans expect it.
3. THINK AMERICAN. American business methods and distribution patterns are changing fast. For example, many U.S. firms have highly developed purchasing procedures. Unless these are complied with there is no hope of obtaining orders. Keep yourself up-to-date with their way of doing things.
4. DIVIDE AND CONQUER. Make allowance for the great differences in climate, character, and taste you will find in America. Take it region by region, or even city by city. With its well above-average advertising and promotion costs and tough competition, the New York area is not necessarily the best starting area. Americans expect quick delivery: but never make delivery promises that you can't keep. The solution for some manufacturers is to maintain stocks locally.
5. BE DESIGN CONSCIOUS. Style your product to suit American national and regional tastes. Match U. S. design packaging and promotional standards.
6. USE PROFESSIONAL ADVICE. Make full use of the marketing expertise to be found in British and American advertising agencies and marketing consultancies.
7. MAKE USE OF SPECIAL PROMOTIONS. Find out about store promotions, specialized industrial exhibitions, trade fairs, and selling missions. Take full advantage of them; they are often effective springboards into new regions.
8. AFTER SALES SERVICE. Effective after-sales support for your product and distributor is essential. It must at least equal that of the domestic competition. Good service will help win repeat sales.
9. BEAT THE DRUMS. Be lavish with enthusiasm for your product. Repeat orders have to be fought for. America is the toughest, most professional, but potentially the most rewarding market in the world. Undersell and they will suspect both the product and the man. In the forceful doggerel of Dr. Scholl: "Early to bed, early to rise, work like hell and advertise." Those are excellent lessons for British, Dutch and businessmen of other nationalities. They are equally important to American business men.

Ambitious Whittler Uses Big Redwood Chunks

By PAUL R. JESCHKE
SAUSALITO, Calif. (UPI)—Barney West, a former sailor turned wood sculptor, may be the world's most ambitious whittler.

Not content to carve away at small blocks of wood, West takes on huge chunks of the world's tallest trees with chain saw, chisels and sander.

"Michaelangelo had his granite blocks and I've got my redwood trees," he said recently while chipping away with a wood chisel. "We both, if you'll pardon the express, let the chips fall where they may." West's biggest project to date is a redwood totem pole that stands five stories high and weighs more than four tons. It now stands in front of a supermarket at Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada border.

"I might have made it bigger, but it got sort of windy when I climbed up there about the 40 foot level," West said with a chuckle. "Besides, it was getting sort of difficult to handle. They had to hire a special truck rig as it was to haul it up there."

In addition to totem poles, the 50-year-old Sausalito sculptor also turns out an impressive assortment of ship's figureheads, cigar store Indians, classical sculpture pieces and, his newest love, abstract free-forms.

The former merchant mariner's workshop, gallery and home is a series of small shacks alongside the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks just north of San Francisco on an inlet of the bay. A hand-carved totem pole and the sign, "Tiki Junction," directs the curious to the woodchip-covered outdoor studio.

West and his three assistants turn out about 300 pieces of wood carvings a year, ranging in size from about 3 feet to about 20 feet. His most expensive creation was a modernistic carving of a pair of hands delivering a child. It sold for $5,000, although some of the smaller pieces bring $75.

"None of us is getting rich," he said, "but in a good season we manage to take in enough money to stay off county welfare." He is teaching the wood carving craft to the assistants and operates what is believed to be the only wood carving school in the world.

West first became interested in giant carvings while sailing in the Merchant Marine during World War II. Twice he had ships torpedoed out from under him. After the SS Vistula Victory sank, West found himself shipwrecked on an island in the Mariana group in the South Pacific where the natives taught him to carve small statues from teak and mahogany.

About nine years ago, West—who sports a bushy red mustache and still wears a captain's hat from his seafaring days—moved into the cabin of an abandoned schooner which had been deposited near the railroad tracks. He planted some South Pacific-like foliage and went to work.

"I just started fooling around with wood carvings again and the next thing you know, I was busy with chain saw, chisel and sander," he said. "I've been at it ever since."

All of the sculptor's carvings are done in redwood because it is the most weather resistant and insect-proof of all woods. In addition, the redwood, available only in a 200-mile stretch along the nearby California coast, has a rich, fine grain that produces fascinating effects in the finished product.

"Some of the trees I've carved are more than 1,000 years old," West said. "It almost makes you feel sad. But then, I didn't cut them down and I only take rejects the sawmills don't want or donations from local tree surgeons. The sculptor said he doesn't that night. Two days later, in a search of the Williams home, police found 56 sticks of dynamite, a large-caliber Japanese rifle and nine steel helmets. Williams wound up in Cuba, traveled on to Red China, later appeared in Tanzania. By his own description of the Monroe incident, "we had enough force and arms to reduce the entire city to ashes," but his guerrillas lacked "extensive outside forces to pin down, ambush and destroy the State reinforcements moving in to overpower us."

From Cuba, Williams published a newsletter, "The Crusader." In his issue for May-June, 1964, he wrote of the weapons to be used by Afroamericans in revolt: "Gasoline fire bombs, lye or acid bombs (made by injecting lye in the metal end of light bulbs) can be used extensively. . . Hand grenades, bazookas, light mortars, rocket launchers, machine guns and ammunition can be bought clandestinely from servicemen, anxious to make a fast dollar. . ."

"Extensive sabotage is possible. Gas tanks on public vehicles can be choked up with sand. Sugar is also highly effective in gasoline lines. Derailing of trains causes panic. Explosive booby traps on police telephone boxes can be employed. High powered sniper rifles are readily available. . ."

Once in China, Williams flooded the U.S. with pamphlets urging Negroes not to fight in Vietnam. If they were sent there, "they should eliminate as many of their real enemies (white Americans) as they can at the front, so that these racists will not be able to return home."

This is the gentle fellow of the Post's adulation. Will the real Robert Williams stand up?

Black Jack Church Plans Annual Rally Day Sunday

The annual Rally Day for the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church will be held Sunday.

This special service for the church, located on Route 3, Greenville, will begin at 10:00 a.m. The service for Rally Day will be a combination of Sunday School, morning worship service, and the appearance of the Southern Quartet, a group from eastern North Carolina. This group will present a program of favorite gospel songs.

The church program for the coming year will also be presented at this time, along with other items of interest.

The Rev. R. M. Stewart, pastor of the church, extends an invitation to the public to join members of the church in this special Rally Day service.

Drivers Collide, Get Out To Kiss

NAPIER, South Africa (AP)—Two cars collided in the main street of this small Western Cape Province town. The two drivers got out, walked up to each other—and kissed. Mrs. C. van Dyk later explained she recognized her father-in-law, Hendrik van Dyk, immediately after the accident. It just seemed natural they should greet each other before inspecting the damage—which wasn't serious, anyway.

TOBAGO AND TOBACCO

SCARBOROUGH, Tobago (UPI)—Tobago's name is a corruption of the word tobacco. One version of its origin is that Spanish explorers found Indians growing tobacco on the island and another is that the island is shaped like a hopycal Indian pipe.

SOFT DRINK TAX

The special soft drink tax enacted by the 1969 General Assembly became effective on October 1.

John F. Minges of the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company said today:

"This special tax amounts to one cent on each closed container of soft drinks, whether bottle, can or paper carton. It also applies to syrups used in making fountain drinks including milk shakes, to powders or mixes used in making drinks in the home, to canned fruit or vegetable drinks which have artificial color or flavoring, and to a number of other products classified as soft drinks under the law levying the tax.

"Our plant will pay the tax on our products, but by necessity it will eventually be reflected in the wholesale price. Retailers will set the price at which they sell to consumers, as under federal and state laws, manufacturers cannot fix the retail price of their products."

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of items classified as soft drinks under the tax law must pay an inventory tax on all such products which they have in stock on October 1, the effective date of the tax.

Mr. Minges said the North Carolina Soft Drink Association, of which his plant is a member, is opposed to the tax. "We feel it is an unfair burden on the consumers who enjoy the wholesome refreshment of a soft drink. The majority of soft drinks are bought by housewives shopping for their families, by young people who like the quick-energy treat of a soft drink, and by men and women working in industry and agriculture. We do not think they should have to carry this special tax load."

The special tax singles out the soft drink industry, and other products classified as soft drinks under the law, for a tax not shared by other businesses, Mr. Minges said. "This is discriminatory taxation, and will be a tremendous handicap to the economic health and growth of our business," Mr. Minges said.

He pointed out that a soft drink tax has been repealed as unsound in a number of instances, including the states of Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the U.S. and Canadian federal governments. Only the states of South Carolina and West Virginia have such a tax, and in both those states legislative study commissions have recommended its repeal.

"The North Carolina Soft-Drink Association intends to work for the repeal of this special, unfair tax at the earliest possible date. We want the public to be aware of this special tax. We encourage everyone to express their views on it, and to join with us in working for its repeal," he said.

Four Diabetic Clinics Slated Begin Monday

Beginning Monday, a session of four Diabetic Clinics will be held each Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Pitt Memorial Hospital, in the basement classroom.

Designed to be of practical assistance to diabetic patients, the clinics will cover four basic phases of instruction.

This series of clinics has been made possible through volunteer efforts on the part of registered nurses and dietitians who are instructing under the guidance and supervision of Pitt County Medical and Dental Societies.

Personnel scheduled to conduct the training include Mrs. Nancy Johnson, Mrs. Teresa Lawler, Mrs. Barbara Little, Mrs. Betty Fore, Miss Joan Eysenbach, Miss Barbara Quiggins, Miss Sandra Lindsey, Mrs. Louise Schlegel, and dietitians Mrs. Joanna Suggs and Mrs. Lorraine Nobles.

The theme of the first clinic, to be held October 6, is "What Diabetes Is—How It Affects The Individual." Recognition of symptoms and its effects on a patient, will comprise the major portion of the first class.

On October 13, for the second clinic, "Hygiene" is the topic to be covered. Of primary importance in this session will be discussions on syringe care, and urine testing. Patients will receive information on later developments in such techniques which may be more improved than techniques they are now using.

The third clinic, on October 20, stresses "Therapy." The problems and advantages of using oral pills and insulin shots will be discussed and amplified. Methods of injection will also be covered. Suggestions on how to deal with problems which may develop will form a part of this clinic.

The final clinic, slated for October 27, deals with the importance of a proper diet for the diabetic patient. As experimentation continues in this field, the diabetic will have an opportunity to learn more for himself what diet best suits his particular case.

Some of the points to be stressed are ones patients, particularly older ones, may have received in orientation courses or from their physicians before. Others are new safeguards and instructions which update previous findings by medical authorities.

Instances of such points are the necessity of taking medicines at the prescribed times without varying; not changing medication without the express advice of the doctor; and the importance of realizing the difference between oral drugs and insulin—that at times of special stress an oral drug patient may need to be given insulin.

"The purpose behind such a clinic," states Dr. William W. Fore, "is to provide the diabetic patient with a sense of confidence for himself." He noted "it also serves to help relieve the individual doctors, who are already hard pressed for time, of the necessity of finding time to give each patient a full orientation course, which is essential in order that a patient may take the best care of himself."

There is no charge for this service. Interested persons are urged to enroll and attend the four clinics.

India Enjoyed By Most Tourists

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian Institute of Public Opinion reported that 94 per cent of foreign tourists, most of them Americans, enjoy their visits to India. The tourists had kind words for the "warmth and friendliness of the people, good climate" and "reasonable prices," the poll said, but complained about "poor" hotel accommodations and travel facilities, and the high cost of reaching India.

Censors Banned Goya's Painting

CAPE TOWN, Johannesburg (AP) — Spanish painter Goya's famous painting of the Duchess of Alba has fallen foul of the censors here. The Publications Control Board banned a reproduction of the painting on the inside cover of the best-selling Goya biography "Rage in Silence," by British author Donald Bradler. Cape Town publisher Howard Timmins said arrangements were being made to print another cover before stocks of the book arrive from London. Most art books in this country include reproductions of the same painting.

Groucho Marx Still Leers On Celebrating Birthday

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Happy birthday to Groucho Marx, 74 today and still leering at the ladies.

"Would you pull your skirt down?" he asked a coed as he addressed a collegiate audience this week. "It's very distracting—even at my age."

To another student cutie: "That's a complex question I can't answer here: But if you want to meet me afterward..."

Groucho was doing insult jokes when Don Rickles was in knee pants and the tongue's still scalpel sharp.

To a fumbling theater man trying to raise Groucho's microphone he complained: "This is really the age of mediocrity. Is this your regular job?"

The students had just witnessed the Marx Brothers' 1935 MGM vehicle "A Night at the Opera." It was the first of 10 screenings of old pictures being presented by the Movie Academy, with a star answering questions after each showing.

The cinema students really dug the old, small-screen riot, applauding Groucho's antics as Otis B. Driftwood, fast-talking king promoter in crouching pursuit of a wealthy dowager.

There were shrieks and applause, too, for his late brothers: wild-wigged, nonspeaking Harpo, the self-taught harpist, and brash Chico, playing a piano with an eloquent forefinger.

Afterward Groucho perched down front on a high stool and answered questions.

He's balding now and almost gaunt.

"I'm a little hard of hearing," he said, asking that a question be repeated.

Was Harpo always silent? "Not when we split the money."

Did the brothers "actually follow scripts?"

"Hardly... Women didn't understand us very well. We were more for a male audience, at least in the theater... We discovered early that the best writers were the audience. If they laughed at something, we left it in."

Mt. Pleasant Sets Homecoming

The Mount Pleasant Christian Church will hold its annual homecoming day Sunday. Sunday School will be held at 10 a. m., followed by morning worship at 11 a. m.

A covered-dish dinner will be served at 12:30 p. m., by the ladies of the church on the ground at the community building. All friends and former members are invited to attend.

The afternoon service will begin at 1:45 p. m. with the Harris Family of Dayton, Ohio, leading the song service.

Bus Wiseman will speak at the final service of the revival on "The Judgement To Come." David H. Thomas is minister of the local church. Nursery facilities will be available.

Greensboro Florist Remains In Jail

GREENSBORO (AP)—Gloyd Vestal, indicted Wednesday by a Guilford County Superior Court Grand Jury in the murder of Angelo S. Pennisi, remained in county jail in Greensboro today without privilege of bond.

About 12:30 p.m. police detectives spotted Vestal's auto in the city and trailed it until several more police cars converged on the vehicle.

Vestal was handcuffed, placed in a police car and driven to city hall. After being booked, he was transferred to the jail in the Guilford County courthouse.

Pennisi, a Greensboro insurance executive, disappeared from his home in the city June 15. His body, bound in chains and wrapped in a curtain, was pulled from the Virginia waters of Lake Gaston June 21.

A medical examiner said he died from a blow on the head inflicted by a blunt instrument.

Greensboro police, SBI, and FBI agents embarked on an intensive investigation.

Rampants Travel To Rocky Mount Seeking Win

Meet The Rampants

Johnny Smith, left, and Alan Pate are two members of this year's Rose High School football team. Smith, a 5-11, 190-pound junior is the son of Mrs. Nina Smith. Smith is a starter at halfback for the Rampants and has scored three touchdowns this year. He ranks second on the team in both rushing and pass receiving. Pate, a 5-9, 180-pound senior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Pate. He is a reserve center. The Rampants travel to Rocky Mount Friday to meet the Gryphons.

(Reflector Photos)

After last Friday night's frustrating 1-14 defeat at the hands of Jacksonville High School, the Rampants of Rose High are hoping for better things this Friday night when they return to conference action.

Friday, they'll be on the road for a Division Two meeting with Rocky Mount's Gryphons, a team that has picked up two wins in four starts.

"They are big," Rose Coach Bud Phillips said of the Gryphons. "They have a real good backfield, and they are coming off a win."

Rocky Mount opened the season with a 20-0 victory over 2-A Northern Nash, a cross-county neighbor. Then followed two straight defeats. They lost 13-6 to New Bern, then found themselves on the short end of a 19-14 score against Wilmington. Finally, Friday, they picked up their first victory against a 4-A team, as Raleigh Broughton fell, 14-13.

The key to the Rocky Mount offense is quarterback Pete Thompson. "He is a good runner, and likes to keep the ball on the option and the sprint-out," Phillips said. "He doesn't throw much, but he can if he has to. Their game plan usually is to keep the ball on the ground." This is shown by the fact that the Gryphons have thrown only 22 passes in four games, and 10 of those came against New Bern.

There are also two other fine runners in the backfield, tailback James Hargrove and fullback Kirby Carrington. Both are big and run the ball well, according to Phillips.

Another to watch is wingback Lorenzo Ellis, "a real speedster," who runs the reverse, and is Thompson's favorite target when the pass is used.

"They run a lot of off-tackle stuff," the coach said. "They also like to get outside with the option and sprint-out."

In the line, Rocky Mount also sports some big men. Their defensive line had one tackle at 213, the other at 231, and a middle guard at 221. "They move pretty well too," Phillips said. "Their backs aren't the quickest we've seen, but the line moves pretty good. The defense is also quick, but they don't have a runner like Phil Lamm or Carlester Crumpler (of Wilson). I don't mean they're slow, they just don't have that real fast man."

Only once has a passing team come up against the Gryphons, and that was New Bern. The Bears put the ball into the air 29 times, completing 16 of them. That netted 183 yards, but also resulted in two interceptions. Rocky Mount has pulled off at least one interception in each game except for the opener. No other teams, however, has tried much of a passing attack against them.

Rose, meanwhile, is having to cope with the loss of a valuable player for the remainder of the season. Fullback Bubba Rawl was declared out after a lower back injury in Friday's game with Jacksonville. Rawl suffered a fracture in the lumbar region of his back. "He's been doing an awful lot of things for us," Phillips said, "and it's going to be tough to replace him."

Rawl was used as the starting fullback on offense. He worked the rover spot on defense, and ran back punts and kickoffs.

To replace him, Phillips has moved in Gary Singleton at the fullback position, and Greg Williams at rover. Johnny Smith has been working on kick returns.

Smith, injured in the second game of the season, is back at full speed now, and this is one of the bright spots for the Rampants. Rawl's offensive replacement, Singleton, also is running with renewed spirit, and could turn into a fine fullback.

Two other players are slightly hurt, Tom Hodgkin and Lewis Gidley, but both are expected to be ready to play this weekend.

The big problem on defense for the Rampants has been at tackle. But things are looking up. "It's still not satisfactory, but I think our defense has come a long way since the first of the season," Phillips said. "Harold Lloyd is playing well at end, and Tommy Diggs, David Bulock and John Conway have been looking good at practice." He noted that the last three have also been working on the offensive unit, too, and are looking good there.

The game promises to be a tough one for both teams, and might be the leg-up one of them can take to the upper division. The probable starting offense-

Cougars Face Los Angeles Stars In Minges Coliseum Exhibition

The Carolina Cougars play their first game in the eastern part of North Carolina tonight at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum on the campus of East Carolina University.

The Cougars will be facing the Los Angeles Stars for the second straight night. The two teams met in Winston-Salem last night in the pre-season opening exhibition game.

The appearance of the Cougars will be their only one in this section of the state. They will divide their home games between Raleigh, Greensboro and Charlotte.

The former Houston team in the three-year-old American Basketball Association has probably made the biggest splash of any pro cage team in the country. With Jim Gardner, former congressman and gubernatorial candidate, holding the reigns of the group that purchased the Houston franchise, the Cougars are setting out to be the most publicized, if not the most exciting team to hit the hardwood. Gardner was quickly elevated to the presidency of the ABA, and started out on an attack to breach the previously untouchable National Basketball Association.

Already, efforts by Gardner and the other ABA owners are starting to pay off. Raids on the NBA teams are starting to come through, and four referees also joined in the escape to the ABA. One player, Luke Jackson, has found himself in a legal brawl after signing with the ABA, and then signing again with the NBA team with which he is currently playing.

At least, now, the NBA knows that the ABA is there. And if Gardner and his associates are successful in the coming months, the NBA may be ready to talk turkey with the ABA, much in the same way the American Football League cornered the National Football League.

The Cougars will feature a North Carolina-oriented lineup for the game. On the team are such former area cagers as Clemson's Randy Mahaffey, Duke's Bob Verga, North Carolina's Doug Moe and Bill Bunting, and High Point's Gene Littles.

One other Duke cager, Fred Lind, was paired off the team in the final pre-season cut early this week.

The Stars, meanwhile, also feature a former Carolina great, Larry Miller.

The game is being sponsored by the North Carolina Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Cougars Take Opening Game

WINSTON - SALEM AP - Doug Moe, former North Carolina star, scored 24 points for the Carolina Cougars as the American Basketball Association team opened its exhibition season with a 120-113 victory over the Los Angeles Stars Wednesday night.

The game drew 5,217 fans. The teams play Greenville, N.C., tonight.

Bob Verga, formerly of Duke, had 22 points for the Cougars and Larry Miller, formerly of North Carolina, had 18 for the Stars.

SHOT THAT COUNTED

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) - Pete Gibson, 5-7 sophomore, took only three shots when New Mexico edged New Mexico State, 68-66.

One of those shots, coming as the buzzer sounded, gave New Mexico its second victory in four days over the Aggies.

Injuries Plague King During His Rookie Year

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Clyde King of Goldsboro, N.C., sat in his office and made out his second lineup card of the day.

It was one day after the San Francisco Giants had been eliminated from the National League's Western Division. A promising young rookie outfielder, George Foster, had been hurt the night before in a meaningless game with the San Diego Padres.

"That's the way it's been all season," said King, who is completing his freshman year as the Giants' manager. "Everytime I come to the park, I have to check with the trainer to see who can play."

Although King's stewardship of the Giants this year has not been an unqualified success—the club's second-place finish was its fifth in an many years—the bespectacled former pitcher has been given generally good marks and his return next season is all but guaranteed.

"I think we'd have won if it hadn't been for the injuries," said King, settling back into his chair. "I've never heard of so many on one club. One visiting writer said we had more injuries than the other 11 clubs combined."

Chief among the ailments, said King, was the one that hampered outfielder Jim Ray Hart the entire season. Bothered by a chronic shoulder injury, Hart played in fewer than 100 games for the first time in his big-league career, many of those only as a pinch-hitter. And though he had never hit fewer than 23 homers a season in the majors, Hart has managed only three this year.

But despite the problems that affected virtually everyone of his regulars at one time or another, King counts as a success the fact that he was able to make good on his pre-season prediction that the pennant race would go to the wire.

"I said I thought it would go down to the last game," he said with a smile. "I only missed it by two days."

And if Atlanta hadn't won 17 of 20 games—including 10 straight—in clinching the pennant, things might have been different.

King said there was much about his first major-league managing job that he hadn't expected, but that none of it had to do with managing.

"As far as the technical aspects of managing are concerned, I don't think I ran into anything I hadn't run into before. But dealing with the press—there's so much more interest here than in the minors—and having people call me about players' appearances and things, I had never experienced that in the minors."

King also said the pressure of big-league managing was high, but that it never got to the points where he couldn't sleep, or eat properly.

"I feel the club did as well as it could possibly do," said

King. "I think we got great mileage out of what we had. It's hard to say I'm pleased that we finished second, but it doesn't mean we're down in the dumps."

King also indicated he was happy with the cohesiveness of the club after the disposal of some of the disputes that inevitably pop up. One of those involved King with Willie Mays over when and how much the star outfielder would play.

King said he hadn't thought beforehand about what to do when such situations arose, pointing out: "If I had thought about it ahead of time, I'd have been miserable."

One of the greatest satisfactions King experienced was the play of Willie McCovey, who had the greatest season of his career with 45 home runs, 126 runs batted in and .320 batting average with one game left.

"It's a pleasure just to sit back and watch him play ball," King said.

A trainer walked into King's office and said, "I've been working on his third lineup of 15 minutes but the leg is still bothering him. I don't think he should play."

"You see what I mean," said Clyde King as he ripped up the card on his desk and began working on his third lineup of the day.

'Cats Worried About Trinity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Davidson Wildcats ran up the second highest score in the school's history in demolishing Furman 77-14 in a Southern Conference football game last weekend, but coach Homer Smith sees "a completely different kind of team" when they go against Trinity University in Texas Saturday night.

"The score of that Furman game does not indicate how we compare with Furman," says Smith. "Furman, in a different set of circumstances could beat us."

"Trinity has the size, speed and Texas heat for us to cope with. I am sure they will be favored. That is a tough league Southland Conference that they play in."

The highest score in Davidson history was an 81-6 rout of Wofford in 1914. The Wildcats stand 2-0 this season to 1-1 for Trinity and are going after another second Saturday night. Davidson hasn't won its first three games since Smith's first season in 1965.

Smith was high in his praise of the defensive play of line-backer Steve Butler and back Chris Giles against Furman. Giles intercepted two passes, running one back for a touchdown and the other to the Furman 2 to set up another score.

Offense got the emphasis Wednesday as the Citadel and East Carolina prepared for their crucial conference scrap Saturday night. Coach Red Parker said The Citadel "was not as sharp as I would like."

The East Carolina coaching staff, on the other hand, was well pleased with the Pirates' work.

Coach Lou Holtz said he was satisfied with this week's work at William and Mary as the Indians wound up rough drills for Saturday's game with Virginia. At Charlottesville, coach George Blackburn said sophomore running back Gary Helman and Jimmy Lacey would start against the Indians.

Junior fullback Pat Morris was impressive as a runner and pass receiver as Richmond drilled for Saturday night's game against Virginia Tech. Gobler coach Jerry Claiborne was pleased with the kicking of Jack Simcsak and said his team "appeared to be getting ready to play well."

VMI's Keydets ran through which they'll use Saturday on the Astro turf in their game at West Virginia.

Eastern Plains Leaders Meeting Friday Night

The Eastern Plains Football Conference, which now has four teams with 2-0 records in the loop, will have two of the top teams meeting in Farmville tomorrow night, and two in Snow Hill in high school football action.

The Northern Nash Knights and the Red Devils will meet head-on in a conference game that could decide the conference championship. Along with the Knights and the Devils, Greene Central and Southern Wayne are also holding 2-0 conference records, and they will be battling heads in Snow Hill tomorrow night. When the dust settles, the first, second, third and fourth place teams could be decided for the year.

Also in the area, Williamston will travel to Roanoke Rapids, Elm City will be at Robersonville in a Tobacco Belt game, Grifton will travel to Ayden, Charity will visit South Ayden and H.B. Sugg will host Sampson.

Meanwhile, across the county line, Greene Central's Rams will be tackling Southern Wayne, which also holds a 2-0 record in the loop, along with the Rams. Greene Central took a slim 7-0 win over Hobpton last week, holding Hobpton back by pouncing on three fumbles that halted scoring drives. The lone Ram score came on the last play of the first half.

Williamston

The Green Wave will be trying to get back in the win column, as they lost their second in a row last week to Tarboro, 21-7. Williamston will be traveling to Roanoke Rapids, who won over Havelock 19-0. Williamston was crushed by a strong ground attack by 3-A Tarboro last week.

Robersonville

Elm City will be visiting the Rams this week, coming off a 46-0 romp over Chocowinity. Robersonville eased by Bath 20-8 last week for a conference win that makes them 2-0 in the loop. The game is an important one for the Rams in the Tobacco Belt if they hope to retain their conference championship. The Rams were sparked by the running of Johnny Beach, who scored two of the Robersonville touchdowns.

Ayden-Grifton

Ayden got back in the win column last week with a narrow 6-0 win over Camden in the Tidewater Conference. The Tornadoes will host Grifton, who downed Vanceboro 20-2 last week. The lone Ayden score was by Debro Elount who went over from the yard line in the first quarter. Grifton now holds a 3-1 season record, after losing to Bath 8-6 two weeks ago.

South Ayden

The Eagles fell to Patillo 32-14 last week for their second loss, they will be hosting Charity. South Ayden could not get things going on the ground last week as they only had 43 yards rushing to 254 for Patillo. Things went a little better in the air, as South Ayden had 141.

H.B. Sugg

The Lions also were defeated last week, falling to Adkin 22-12. It was the Sugg third straight loss of the year. Tomorrow night, they will travel to Sampson for a conference game.

Pirates Hold Heavy Workout

East Carolina's Pirates will take it easy under the lights tonight after holding what Coach Clarence Stasavich considered their roughest practice since their opening game Wednesday afternoon.

Several players were singled out after the Wednesday practice as final rough work was completed for Saturday's game with The Citadel.

In the offensive backfield, Butch Colson and Billy Wightman looked particularly good running the ball. David Brill and Garland Ballard were lauded by Stasavich for their offensive blocking.

"We were working very hard on our passing game," Stasavich said. "It looked some better."

On defense, Jim Gudger and Walter Adams, two of the interior linemen, end Mack McGurik and safety George Whitely all had good afternoons.

Gerald Wrenn, who suffered a pre-season knee injury and guard Earl Burton, who had a pulled hamstring, have both returned to action.

"The players are looking forward to Saturday night and again playing The Citadel," Stasavich said. "We always have good games with The Citadel and everyone is also looking forward to our celebration of football's 100th anniversary."

But despite the problems that affected virtually everyone of his regulars at one time or another, King counts as a success the fact that he was able to make good on his pre-season prediction that the pennant race would go to the wire.

"I said I thought it would go down to the last game," he said with a smile. "I only missed it by two days."

And if Atlanta hadn't won 17 of 20 games—including 10 straight—in clinching the pennant, things might have been different.

Aycock Nips Edwards, 14-12

Aycock Junior High School won its second straight game yesterday, downing Parker Junior High of Rocky Mount, 14-12.

Both schools scored in the second and third period of play, but Aycock never trailed in the game.

The Phantoms took the lead in the second quarter, as Alphonso Hunter ran the ball in from 19 yards out. Hunter then ran over the extra point for an 8-0 lead.

Then, in the third period, leading 8-6, Aycock scored again, to wrap it up. Hunter again did the damage on a 40-yard run, pushing the score to 14-6.

Edwards' scores came on a 65-yard run and a 40-yard pass.

Retires a Winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—William H. Perry's Princessnesian made her final race a winning one when the 5-year-old bay mare earned $60,000 by taking the Santa Margarita Handicap at Santa Anita.

Princessnesian, who earned $332,035 during her career, will be retired to breed at Arthur (Bull) Hancock's Claiborne Farm in Kentucky. She will be bred to hold Ruler. Last year, Princessnesian lost the Santa Margarita by a nose to her stablemate, Gamely.

SNAPS LOSING STREAK

RESERVE, N.M. (AP)—Patience and time paid off for the Reserve High School basketball team in its rivalry with Lordsburg.

Reserve beat Lordsburg, 72-54, on Feb. 7, the first time it had won over its arch rival since 1956.

The victory broke a 21-game losing streak against Lordsburg.

Jordan Bridge Both Target And Crossing

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
DAMIYA BRIDGE, OCCUPIED JORDAN (AP) — The bullet-riddled road sign pointing east says: "Amman"—and the amazing thing is that this bridge between Israel and Jordan is still open.

Under the watchful eyes of Israeli and Jordanian troops, hundreds of Arabs move daily across the fabled River Jordan, between the two embattled nations.

On the Israeli side, Arabs queue to have their passes checked at the border, then pile their belongings on top of buses for the short ride down the hill to the bridge.

On the other side they transfer to different buses for the journey to Amman and other points in the Arab world.

The Israeli troops are firm but helpful. They search the belongings of incoming visitors for hidden arms.

The border post is liberally laced with shelter trenches dug in the stoney ground, but the shelling doesn't usually start until the afternoon when the bridge is closed.

The bridge is within easy range of Iraqi and Jordanian guns, dug in on the high mountains across the river. The Israeli troops on guard have to cope with Arab guerrillas who infiltrate under cover of darkness to mine roads in the area.

Many of the Arabs arriving from Jordan to the Israeli-held areas come under a "Summer visitors" scheme set up last year, and operating from June to September. By last Aug. 25 a total of 16,000 Arabs had come from Jordan. Most were students visiting relatives in the occupied West Bank towns of Nablus and Ramallah. They had undergone a security screening, designed to guard against infiltration by saboteurs.

Since the six-day war in 1967, trade across the Damiya Bridge, and the Allenby Bridge 17 miles to the south, has steadily increased.

In the three months, April-June 1969, exports from the Israeli-held West Bank across the bridges totalled 14.2 million Israeli pounds ($4,057,140) and imports from Jordan were 6.2 million Israeli lire ($1,771,420).

This compares with exports of $3.8 million and imports of $971,420 for the same period last year. Agricultural products account for about 60 per cent of the amount and industrial products for the rest.

It is known that a large quantity of manufactured goods, such as refrigerators, tires and clothing, finds its way into the Arab nations via the bridges. The goods help Jordanians who were cut off from many trade sources by the closing of the Suez Canal.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, during a recent visit to the bridge, said that Israel wished to continue its "open bridges" policy.

"If the Arabs close the bridges, it is their own people who will suffer," he said.

Dayan, who often visits trouble spots to see things for himself, chatted in Arabic to Arabs waiting at the border post. He asked where they had come from, where they were going, what passports they had and how long they were staying.

He spoke with a mixed crowd: dark-suited businessmen, crinkled old women clutching squawking hens, young students, and pilgrims returning from Mecca.

The first Damiya Bridge was built by the British during their Palestine mandate, and was blown up by the Haganah, the Jewish Underground Army in 1948.

The second was bombed during the 1967 war.

The present bridge was damaged during an Israeli tank assault on an alleged sabotage base at Karameh in March 1968, and during an artillery exchange last January.

Tough Israeli troops sweat it out in 100 degree heat, and stare at the enemy positions clearly visible across the Jordan Valley.

When bus traffic stops and the bridge is closed both sides return to battle stations. The war is on again.

Adoptive Mother Is Beating All The Odds

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Juanita Cotton is single and confined to a wheelchair. Yet she has adopted one child and is in the process of adopting another.

Being an adoptive mother isn't difficult, she says, but becoming one is.

"I've been the object of every kind of prejudice—racial, religious, professional," says the 41-year-old Negro art teacher.

"But the prejudice against physically handicapped people is the most vicious. I get pretty tired of being told what I can't do because I'm handicapped. Most of the things I'm not supposed to do are things I've been doing all my life," she says.

The Children's Home Society agrees. It permitted Miss Cotton to adopt Yvonne Marie now 2, in March 1968, and currently is in the process of giving her a second Negro child.

"Through our experience with child, we feel comfortable in saying she is ready for a second," said Mrs. Malmarie Sulek, director of the agency.

Miss Cotton, an instructor at West Virginia State College in nearby Institute, has been confined to a wheelchair since the age of three when she was stricken with polio. But she used to babysit for as many as eight children at once, she says, so caring for Yvonne Marie is no problem.

"I bathe her, I feed her, I love her," she said. "I do things a little differently from the way other mothers would, but I do them."

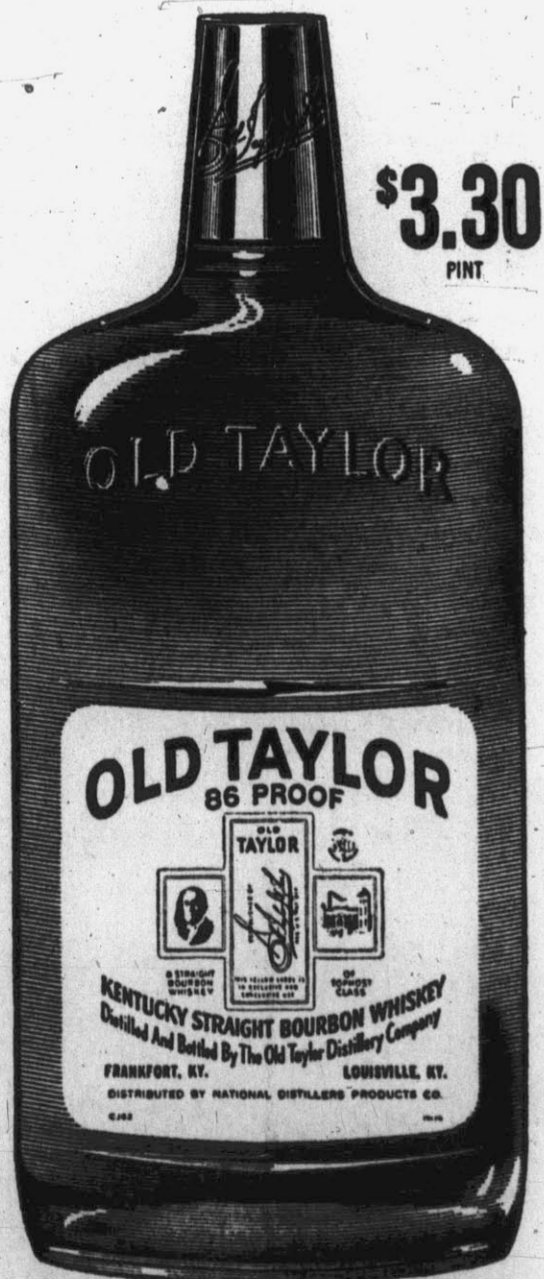

Like many working mothers, Miss Cotton retains a babysitter to take care of Yvonne Marie during the day.

Miss Cotton instructs classes in art appreciation, history of art, sculpture and related subjects. She holds two degrees from Oklahoma University.

Her application for a second child has been approved. "I want a little boy so much, but I'm going to take another girl because I think a boy really needs a father when he gets older," she added.

SHOW

One of the aristocracy: a Brahma cow.

A noble aspirant to a "best bull of the year" crown marches haughtily to the main arena.

A 10-year-old, pure white Arab stallion is congratulated by his owner on winning the coveted thoroughbreds' blue ribbon.

Long known as one of the great beef producers of the world, Argentina once a year parades its prize livestock before the admiring eyes of its own citizens and of buyers from all over the world at the Rural Exposition of Livestock, Agriculture and Industry in Buenos Aires.

It's the biggest outdoor show in the country, and a major social event of the winter season, with the President and the entire stock breeding aristocracy in attendance.

Started over a hundred years ago when Indians roamed the land and owned most of it, and the landed gentry were trying to unify the nation and safeguard their property, the Rural continues to be a glittering showcase of Argentina's wealth and natural resources.

The finest domestic animals in the land are exhibited, appraised by international judges, some from the United States, and auctioned to the highest bidder. In a country where cattle is king and the number one industry, a prize Black Angus bull can bring in as much as $170,000 and a Holland-Argentine cow, bred only here, is more than an object of curiosity; it is a source of national pride and admiration.

This year more than 2,000 head of cattle, 600 sheep, 300 horses and thousands of other farm animals and fowl were exhibited during the show, held each August on 44 specially-equipped acres in Palermo Park. To feed and house these pampered and perfumed prima donnas of the animal world, more than 150 tons of balanced cereals, 440 tons of grass and 1,200 tons of straw were used.

This colorful annual spectacle, dedicated to the improvement of the nation's livestock breeding standards and to its economy, is a festive event not unlike a gigantic country fair, where even the uninitiated city-bred visitor can see the people of Argentina at work and play, and fully appreciate the fruits of their labors.

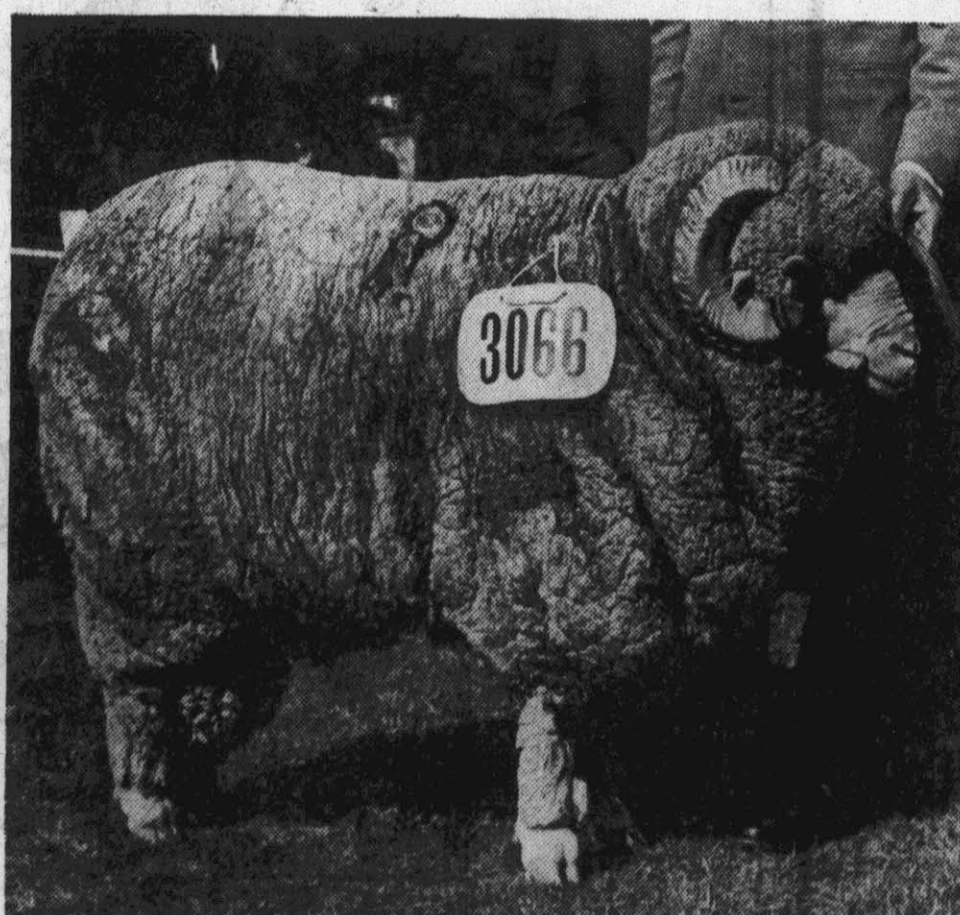

Proud owners, prospective buyers and curious crowds inspect competing animals kept in individual stalls in a huge, hangar-like barn during the show.

Gauchos and grooms make a hearty meal of Argentine beef and wine—"au naturel."

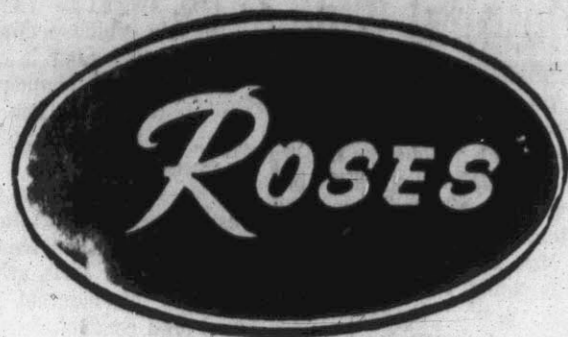

A champion merino ram, whose fine proportions are complemented by the beauty of his fleece and horns.

Stock And Market Reports

Inconsistent weather continues to plague Pitt County grain buyers and harvesters. Early morning rainfall coupled with the normal heavy dew at this time of the year is making corn, wheat or oats gathering virtually impossible.

Area buyers report little activity this morning other than spot buying of grain that was harvested yesterday and brought to market early today. Prices remain unchanged. Per bushel prices reported at 11 a.m. follow:

Greenville: yellow corn, $1.15; wheat, $1.12; oats, $6.62—all holding.

Ayden: yellow corn, $1.15—holding.

Winterville: yellow corn, $1.15—holding.

Farmville: yellow corn, $1.17—holding.

Bethel: yellow corn, $1.13—holding.

EGG MARKET

RALEIGH (AP) — NCDA — North Carolina egg markets steady to slightly stronger Wednesday. Supplies adequate, demand fair to good. Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 51½ to 52; medium whites 48½ to 49½; small whites 35 to 36½.

RALEIGH (AP) — NCDA — The North Carolina hog market today was mostly steady at 13 and one-half cents. Tops of 23.75-26.25 at Wilson; 25.50-26.00 at Rocky Mount; 25.25-25.75 at Siler City and Denton; 24.75-

NEW YORK (AP) — Most stocks drifted down this afternoon toward a point that some analysts believe may be a new yearly low for the Dow Jones industrial average.

The DJI at noon slid to 803.6, off 3.83.

Declines led advances by better than 200 issues in slow trading, as brokers noted that many investors continued to sit on the sidelines waiting for a test of the 800 DJI level.

The DJI low for the year was set at 801.96 July 29. Since then the market has been fluctuating between the 800 and 840 DJI levels and has assaulted the 840 level three times in an effort to break out.

One analyst points out that "if the 800 DJI level should be broken, it could have a further adverse emotional effect on the market."

"It would no doubt bring a flurry of additional selling from discouraged investors," he added. "However, if the market holds at the 800 DJI level, bargain hunters would begin buying, and we would undoubtedly see the market emerge from the test much stronger."

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon dipped to 282.3, off .9, with industrials off 1.2, rails off .7, and utilities off .2.

Steels, rubber issues, aircrafts, electronics utilities, rails and drugs were mostly off in midday trading. Motors, metals, oils and airlines were mixed. Chemicals were mostly up.

Texaco topped the list of the Big Board's 20 most-active issues at 30¼, up ¼ on 62,900 issues in early trading.

GRAND OPENING . . . took place this morning at the new Harmony House South with Mayor Frank Wooten cutting ribbons at official opening ceremonies. Also participating were Tape-town manager Eddie Jenkins (L) and store manager Bronson Matney.

Cutting Of Ribbon Opens A New Store

Ribbon cutting ceremonies this morning highlighted the official grand opening of the new Harmony House South, now located on the corner of Fourth and Evans Streets.

Participating in the ceremonies were Mayor Frank Wooten; Eddie Jenkins, manager of the Tape-Town division; and Bronson Matney, Harmony House South manager.

In operation less than a year, Harmony House recently moved into its new location following occupancy of the 327 Evans Street facility. The original store was opened in November of 1968 and Tape Town was added in April of 1969.

According to Matney, Harmony House offers a complete line of home music, including consoles, compacts, components and eight track cassette, car and home players.

The facility introduces a new idea in home music in that the customer who buys equipment from Harmony House is entitled to buy tapes or LP's at wholesale prices.

Harmony House will employ two trained audio-hifi technicians to take care of any equipment servicing, Matney said. He added that home and commercial installations, background music and public address system would be offered at the new store.

Although the store will not carry a full line of guitars, Matney explained, some units will be available along with complete accessories for tape and phono equipment.

In addition to the hi-fi equipment available, the new store will also carry a complete line of portable black and white and color televisions, ranging from a two-inch model on up to a wide choice of sizes.

Matney said the management moved into the store about three weeks ago following complete remodeling of the interior. The store is owned by Matney and Russell Clark Jr. Jenkins manages the Tape-Town division and James McCracken is the assistant manager of Harmony House South.

Contribute To Hospital Wing

The Pitt County Mental Association board approved yesterday the giving of some $500 from the association toward the building of a psychiatric wing for Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Robert Bowers of Bethel was named county chairman of this year's Operation Santa Claus campaign for Christmas gifts for needy people of the state's mental hospitals and schools for the retarded.

Miss Addie Gore was welcomed as a new board member; Dr. Frank Fuller, former assistant treasurer, took over the duties of treasurer; and Lee Moore was appointed to the position vacated by Dr. Fuller.

Mrs. Anne Davis was introduced as the new coordinator of children's services in Pitt County.

Complaint Filed Against Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nightclub which features nude dancing has filed a complaint against a lady Municipal Court judge. It accuses her of being prejudiced against unrobbed women.

The Honey Bunny nightclub asks Superior Court to restrain Judge Joan Klein from setting high bail for girls arrested on charges of indecent exposure and lewd conduct.

Donald Boss, attorney for the club, said Judge Klein has continually set bail between $675 and $1,125 for each defendant—while other judges have fixed bond at $100 to $675.

The "unreasonable bail," says Boss, causes his clients "irreparable harm" and violates their constitutional rights.

Lowest Weekly Combat Toll In Two Years Is Announced

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The lowest weekly combat toll among Americans in two years was announced today by the U.S. Command, reflecting a three-week lull on the battlefield.

An official summary said 95 Americans were killed in action during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday—a drop from 135 the previous week and the lowest weekly toll since the week when 82 Americans died.

While the American death toll decreased, South Vietnamese troop casualties rose from 297 to 306 last week. Since the week ending May 10, South Vietnamese casualties have been consistently higher than American combat deaths, which many officials say is a result of "Vietnamizing" the war.

The number of Americans wounded last week also went up to 1,315 from 1,114 the previous week, and South Vietnamese wounded from 883 to 896. The number of enemy killed declined to 2,382 from a revised total of 2,696 the previous week.

The U.S. Command said 38,823 Americans have been killed in action in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961, with 556,629 enemy claimed killed in the same period. Last week's low casualty count was coupled with U.S. intelligence reports that elements of four North Vietnamese divisions in the area around Saigon had pulled back along the Cambodian border farther than at any time since early 1968.

But a spokesman for the U.S. Command said he saw "no immediate political significance in the latest developments."

"They are posing a threat to the outlying areas," he said, "but they are not posing as great a threat to Saigon. Everything he (the enemy) says indicates he plans a continuation of campaigns punctuated by highpoints along the lines of protracted combat."

"What we anticipate is a low level of activity punctuated by highpoints. We anticipate he will not jump off any large scale offensive in the near future. He has not taken the position yet of a sustained type offensive."

Despite the low level of enemy activity, the U.S. Command spokesman said American B52 bombers are keeping up their heavy raids along the border north of Saigon.

"In the areas the B52s are hitting," he said, "the enemy is carrying on actions preparatory to jumping off on a campaign. He is moving in supplies, building his forces, gathering his forces. He doesn't gather his forces unless he is planning something."

"The fact that he doesn't move out is not that he doesn't want to. We are deterring him."

B52s also flew raids along the demilitarized zone to fill the gap left by departing U.S. troops. Some field commanders claim each Stratofortress is worth a battalion of infantrymen.

North Vietnamese troops launched three ground attacks on U.S. troops in night bivouac in scattered sections of South Vietnam early today, killing two Americans and wounding 29. Eighteen enemy soldiers were reported killed.

The biggest attack was against an armored column from the U.S. 5th Mechanized Infantry Division a half mile south of the DMZ. North Vietnamese troops opened fire with mortars, grenades and small arms, killing one American and wounding 21.

Twelve enemy troops were reported killed by the American tank guns and .50-caliber machine guns mounted on personnel carriers.

Headquarters reported 14 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. Five Americans were wounded.

Up to 50 B52 bombers unloaded 1,500 tons of explosives on North Vietnamese bases and staging areas along the DMZ and the Cambodian border in their heaviest raids in a week.

Spokesmen said about 25 percent of the air effort was concentrated a mile south of the DMZ, being vacated by the U.S. 3rd Marine Division under President Nixon's second round of U.S. troop withdrawals.

The heaviest raids were centered along the Cambodian border, from 65 miles northwest to 103 miles northeast of Saigon. In this arc, the enemy is believed to have concentrated the bulk of his forces, elements of four divisions.

Battlefield communiques listed only light and scattered contacts Wednesday.

In the biggest action, U.S. Army scouts spotted about 100 enemy soldiers in a large bunker complex along the South Vietnamese coast, 100 miles northeast of Saigon. Headquarters said the scouts called in helicopter gunships and Air Force fighter-bombers to raze the bunkers.

The scouts reported finding the bodies of 26 enemy soldiers and six bunkers were destroyed.

South Vietnamese headquarters said terrorists set off a bomb in a market place near Tay Ninh City, 55 miles northwest of Saigon. The blast killed four civilians and two soldiers and wounded 12 civilians, headquarters said. The terrorist escaped.

Red Oak Church Plant For Sale

The Red Oak Christian Church's official board hopes to sell the church on Oct. 12. Board members plan to open sealed bids at an 8 p.m.

somewhat larger. Red Oak Church was founded 98 years ago, according to Winchester. The present church building is the third the church has occupied during that time.

Winchester said construction of the new church is scheduled to begin in the near future.

"In order to get our finances straight, though," Winchester said, "we need to know what the present property is worth. We are hoping to get this figure and continue to use it for worship services until we get the new plant built, probably about 10 months."

Helicopter May Fight Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fire fighting kit that converts a helicopter into a foam-spouting rescue craft is being tested by the Army.

Ten of the unique airborne fire suppression systems have been delivered to Fort Rucker, Ala., for evaluation by the Army Aviation Test Board, the Army Aviation Center and Aero-Medical Research Labs.

The manufacturer—Textron's Bell Helicopter Co. of Fort Worth, Tex.—said that in tests last year in 70 experimental fires, the system enabled aeromedics to remove dummies from fire-engulfed wreckage in less than half a minute.

The Army has called for development of equipment of this type for crash-rescue service at sites where 100 or more aircraft landings or takeoffs occur during a 24-hour period.

A spokesman for Bell said that once at a crash scene the foam-spouting helicopter is capable of cutting a rescue path 15 feet wide and 40 feet long, through flames, in eight to 10 seconds, and maintaining the path for more than five minutes.

With the special equipment, the helicopter can extricate injured personnel in 25 to 30 seconds, and load them aboard and take off in one minute and 10 seconds, he said.

In operation, the fire suppression helicopter would accompany troop-carrying helicopters on missions, and would stay with a disabled craft all the way to the ground. On impact the fire suppression chemical would be applied to disperse any fuel vapor board meeting. The money raised through the sale of the present facilities will be used to help finance the construction of a church on a new site across U.S. 264 bypass from the present location.

According to Sam Winchester, chairman of the official board of the church, the new Red Oak Church is expected to cost about $100,000. It will be located on a two-thirds acre plot on the south side of the bypass.

The present facilities, including the church, education building and fellowship hall face U.S. 264 business, and is on a three-fourths acre lot.

The present plant includes a sanctuary, fellowship hall, and nine classrooms.

The new facilities, in addition to the sanctuary, fellowship hall and pastor's study and conference room, will include 12 classrooms.

Winchester said the new sanctuary will be about one-fourth larger than the present one, with the fellowship hall

Astronauts Fly To Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Michael Collins flew here today for a 20-hour visit on their South American goodwill tour. Tight security measures were in force because of threatened antigovernment demonstrations by striking workers.

On their way from Bogota, Colombia, Armstrong and Collins made an unscheduled stop in Brasilia, the capital of Brazil, for 90 minutes of sightseeing Wednesday.

The third Apollo 11 astronaut, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., left the party in Bogota to fly back to the United States to attend the AFL-CIO convention at Atlantic City, N.J. He will rejoin the other two in Spain.
