Retired General Said Dealer In Used Firearms

By LAWRENCE L. KNUITSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner used his position as the Army's provost marshal general to obtain hundreds of firearms from the police departments of Chicago and Kansas City and sold many of them privately, a Senate investigator testified today.

Philip R. Manuel, a staff investigator for the Senate's investigations subcommittee, said Turner told the departments he wanted the weapons for Army training and for display in the military police museum.

Supreme Court Opens New Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opened a busy new term today with a serenity in contrast to the stiff fight in the Senate over the nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

Following tradition to the letter, the new chief justice, Warren E. Burger, in a strong but low voice declared the new term open and welcomed 93 lawyers to practice before the high court.

To Burger's extreme left was a vacant chair—the seat to which President Nixon named Haynsworth.

The 28-minute session began precisely at 1 a.m. with Burger and the seven holdover associate justices entering the court room from parted maroon curtains in back of the tall mahogany bench.

"I have the honor to announce the 1969 term of the Supreme Court is now convened," Burger said following the opening invocation.

Unlike most of his colleagues, the new chief justice looked straight ahead without bowing his head at the words: "God save this honorable court."

Then all waited patiently as the new lawyers and their sponsors came forward individually one in Kansas City were found in a five-ton cache seized by federal agents in Fayetteville, N.C. in June.

Manuel said Turner obtained a total of 400 firearms from the Chicago Police Department, 96 weapons from Kansas City and a shipment of 200 from Ft. Bliss.

Manuel said Turner came in contact with Chicago police in April and May of 1968 as commander of the U.S. regular Army troops which were sent to the city during rioting following the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

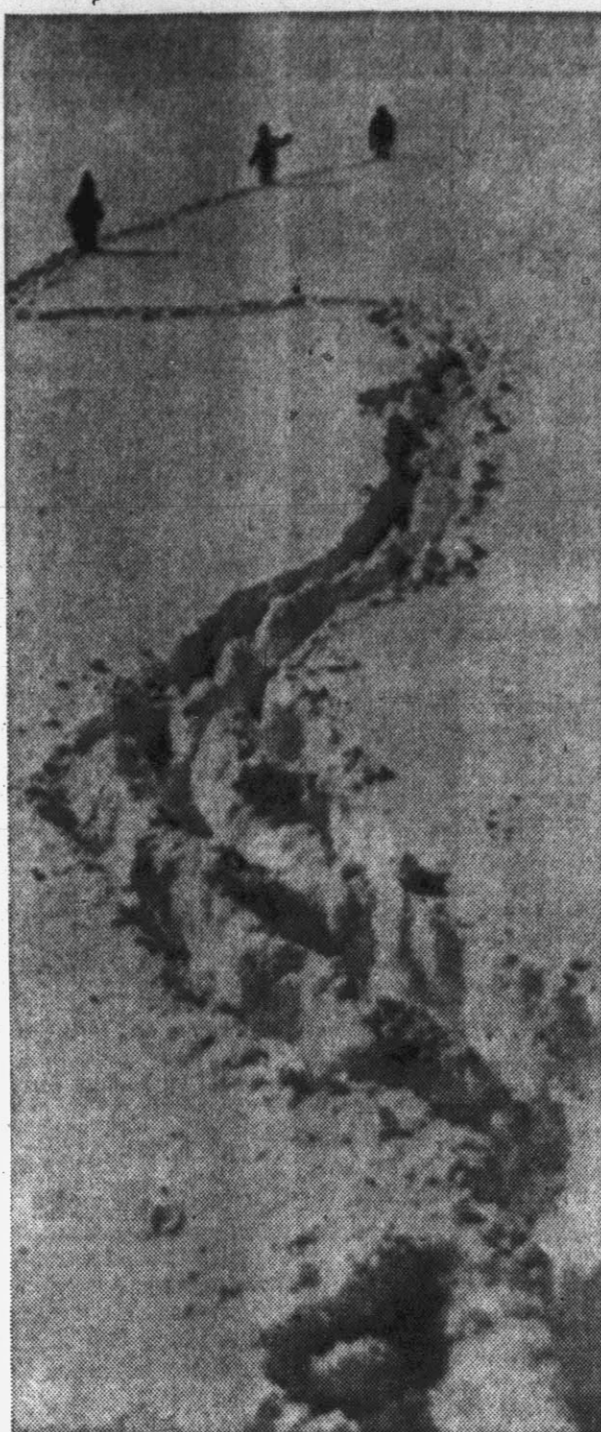

An Army spokesman said Turner was not commander of the troops in Chicago but was the representative there of the Army chief of staff.

"While in Chicago," the investigator said, "Gen. Turner obtained permission in his capacity as provost marshal general to inspect and obtain whatever weapons he wanted from all of the arms collected and confiscated by the Chicago Police Department."

He said many of the guns were found to have been sold to the Pine State Gun Shop of Fayetteville, N.C. The owner of the shop, Manuel said, is currently awaiting trial in U.S. district court for alleged violations of the Gun Control Act of 1968.

The investigator said the general did turn some of the guns into the Army but made this comment:

"Out of a total of approximately 700 weapons which are known to have been obtained by Gen. Turner under the color of his official position as provost marshal general, which he stated would be used by the Army, approximately 500 are still unaccounted for."

Long U. S. Role Said Necessary

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu said today the Vietnamese people "are determined to replace the bulk of the U.S. fighting units in 1970."

But he added that all American troops cannot be withdrawn as long as North Vietnamese forces remain in South Vietnam.

In a major policy speech to a joint session of South Vietnam's National Assembly and Senate, Thieu also said he thought that allied forces should remain in Vietnam as long as aggression threatens Southeast Asia.

As Thieu spoke in Saigon, another 1,700 U.S. Marines from the 3rd Division boarded a troopship in Da Nang to sail for the United States, part of the 35,000 American troops being withdrawn before Dec. 15. Their departure leaves 484,000 American troops in Vietnam.

"We, the Vietnamese people, are determined to replace the bulk of the U.S. fighting units in 1970," the president said in the official English translation of his speech.

"The most important thing is that the Free World and, first of all, the U.S. ally, should not let Vietnam fall into the Communists' hands. And as long as the Communist aggressors from the North still remain on the territory of the Republic of Vietnam, the allied forces cannot withdraw from the Vietnamese territory."

"As long as peace with guarantees has not yet been restored in Vietnam and a new Communist aggression is still threatening this part of the world, I think that under whatever form, the Free World forces should remain on this land."

Thieu spoke for an hour and 18 minutes, the longest public speech he has made since he came to power.

He emphasized that he remains willing to negotiate an "acceptable" peace while determined to avoid a coalition government or surrender to the Communists.

He asked for increased American military and financial assistance to enable his government to shoulder more of the burdens of the war.

September Report Is In Unemployment Makes Biggest Leap In 9 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment in September made its biggest leap in nine years and rose to its highest rate in two years, the Labor Department announced today.

The over-all unemployment rose from 3.5 per cent in August to 4 per cent in September, the largest increase since September-October 1960.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics noted that unemployment normally drops from August to September as young workers return to school—but it failed to drop this year. Unemployment was up 365,000 over the month, with two-fifths of the increase among workers in the 20 to 24 age group.

Total employment in nonfarm categories was 70.8 million in September, an increase of 300,000 over the previous months. With seasonal adjustment, payroll employment was unchanged over the month but would have shown a modest increase except for the effect of the early changeover in auto models.

Although unemployment for nonwhites remained double that of whites, nearly all of the September increase in unemployment took place among the white workers whose rate climbed from 3.2 to 3.6 per cent.

The rate for blue collar workers moved from 3.8 to 4.4 per cent, reflecting increased joblessness in blue collar categories.

A spokesman for the bureau said the nation's level of employment is at its highest in history and that the unemployment boost signifies a slowdown in the rate of employment growth—mostly in the construction and government fields.

Over the year, unemployment has risen by 350,000, reflecting an increase of 150,000 for adult women and 100,000 each for adult men and teen-agers.

The actual number of unemployed persons in September totaled about three million. The 4 per cent unemployment rate was the highest since Oct. 1967, when it reached 4.2 per cent. The trend this year began with a 3.3 per cent average in the first quarter climbing to 3.5 in the second and 3.7 in the third.

The bureau said one explanation for the sharp increase might be that the September survey was taken early in the month, perhaps before a large yet re-entered school.

One New Member

RALEIGH — Gov. Bob Scott today appointed one new member and reappointed two members to the Board of Trustees of East Carolina University.

Gov. Scott named Ashley B. Futrell of Washington, former legislator and editor of the Washington Daily News to the board to succeed William Blount of Durham, retired president of Liggett-Meyers Tobacco Company.

The governor reappointed Reginald McCoy of Laurinburg, who now serves as vice chairman of the ECU trustees, and Mrs. J. Russell Kirby of Wilson, wife of Sen. J. Russell Kirby.

The appointments are for eight year terms.

Harry Emerson Fosdick, Preacher, Teacher, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, whose liberal voice was a pillar of American Protestantism for a half-century, is dead at 91.

Dr. Fosdick died Sunday in Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville, where he was taken two weeks ago with a heart condition.

As a preacher in the pulpit and a teacher at Union Theological Seminary, Dr. Fosdick was a leading spokesman for modernism and a target of fundamentalists, who often called him a heretic.

Dr. Fosdick retired in 1946 as pastor of the interdenominational Riverside church, but wrote and spoke publicly well into his 80s.

Millions listened to his "National Vespers" radio program each Sunday afternoon from 1927 to 1946 and read such books as "The Modern Use of the Bible" and "The Meaning of Prayer."

His challenge to the fundamentalists made Dr. Fosdick a public figure.

In a 1922 sermon, "Small the Fundamentalists Win?" he challenged fundamentalists for trying "to drive out of the evangelical churches men and women of liberal opinions."

His sermon also questioned the doctrine of virgin birth, the inspiration of the Scriptures, the atonement of Jesus and the second coming of Christ.

Fundamentalism's champion, William Jennings Bryan, replied that Fosdick "believes that eyes came from light playing on a body and that ears came from the beating on the body of sound waves. He can believe these things and yet he cannot believe in miracles."

Dr. Fosdick, an ordained Baptist minister, was preaching then at New York's First Presbyterian Church. The General Assembly of the New York Presbytery asked him to conform to doctrine. He refused and offered his resignation but his congregation refused to accept it.

A year later the assembly asked him to become a Presbyterian minister and he stepped down from the pulpit, moving to Park Avenue Baptist Church.

He then became founding pastor of Riverside church, where John D. Rockefeller Jr. donated the tower and the 72-bell carillon, overlooking the Hudson River near Columbia University.

Dr. Fosdick believed in social activism and was a pacifist, opposing U.S. entry into World War II.

Born in Buffalo, N.Y., on May 24, 1878, Fosdick attended Col-ington; a brother, Raymond B. Fosdick, former president of the Rockefeller Foundation; a half-sister, Mrs. Ruth Fosdick Jones of Portland, Maine; two granddaughters and a great-granddaughter.

The family said a private service would be held at their home this week, with a memorial service later at Riverside Church.

Light Work Schedule For Board

Pitt County Commissioners had a light morning schedule today for their regular monthly meeting.

Before noon, the commissioners heard reports from various county agencies and departments.

Commissioners also discussed a special Glaucoma detection program being funded with $3,100 in State Department of Health funds.

Under the program, a Pitt Health Department nurse would be trained to detect glaucoma, then hold clinics in Pitt and neighboring clinics designed to detect the eye disease.

The $3,100, it was reported, is designed to pay the nurse's salary and expense for the time she would spend conducting the clinics.

Commissioners approved an $8,000 reduction in the Health Department budget, thus bringing the budget in line with reductions in state and federal funds which were made.

The board also approved a surety bond for $25,000 for Pitt County Tax Collector W. E. Smith.

Three road petitions were approved. The petitions requested that the Pines Road near Ayden and the Niblick and Country Club Hills Roads at Grifton be included in the state system.

White House Rallies Haynsworth Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has come to the defense of Supreme Court nominee Clement F. Haynsworth, and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott says he now expects "to be able to act favorably" on a confirmation vote.

"I myself believe him (Haynsworth) to be a man of honor and integrity," Scott said Sunday. "I am waiting for some further clarification on questions of judgment in investment in securities."

"I really do believe they are being cleared up and that is why I expected to be able to act favorably on the nomination," he added.

Scott was interviewed on the CBS radio-television program "Face the Nation."

In another development, a Nixon administration spokesman said there is no evidence Haynsworth "has ever been involved in any illegal, unethical, or even questionable transaction with Robert G. Baker," the former Democratic Senate secretary convicted of income tax evasion.

"Judge Haynsworth says he will testify under oath that he has had only three casual conversations with Robert G. Baker, that he has not seen or talked to Baker since 1958 and they have never engaged in any conversations on any business transaction," reported Clark R. Mollenhoff, the former newsman who now is deputy counsel to President Nixon.

His remarks were in a two-page letter and four-page memorandum sent to Republican senators who had expressed concern over Haynsworth's financial dealings while chief judge of the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

"It would be very wrong to allow unfounded allegations to deny this country his distinguished service," Nixon wrote of Haynsworth. "I intend to do all that I can to secure his confirmation."

Death By Electrocutation Is Confirmed

NEW BERN — An autopsy on the body of Joseph "Joey" Steelman Jr., 16-year-old Greenville youth, showed he died of accidental electrocution. Craven County coroner R. Clyde Smith said this morning.

Completed in New Bern this morning, the autopsy indicated the manner of Steelman's death and showed he suffered a burn about five inches long on his back. Steelman came in contact with a live guy wire, Smith said apparently the transformer on the pole to which the guy wire was connected was leaking current, adding that the wire has been tested since the fatal accident and was found to be "hot." He said the ground around the pole was saturated with water, because of heavy rains about noon Friday.

Stelman reportedly had attended a high school football game here with friends, A Rose High School sophomore, he was the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Steelman, both of whom are faculty members of East Carolina University.

Former CO Denies Assassination Role For 'Berets'

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army colonel who twice commanded Green Berets in South Vietnam emphatically denies that assassination is part of the Special Forces' assignment in the war.

"The suggestion that assassination plays any part in the mission of the Army Special Forces is absolutely false and utterly absurd," Col. Fred Ladd said in an interview.

Ladd, who headed the 5th Special Forces in Vietnam in 1962-63 and again in 1967-68, said assassination and terrorism are neither taught nor advocated in Green Beret training at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

"No soldier has a license to murder anybody," he said.

Ladd's comments came in the wake of a growing assumption in some quarters that the Green Beret murder case indicates the elite Special Forces are engaged in something more than training and organizing mountain tribesmen to fight the Viet Cong.

Ladd declined to discuss whatever details he knows about the case of the eight Special Forces men who once faced charges of murder and conspiracy in the alleged slaying of a South Vietnamese double agent.

But as other officers have lately, Ladd called attention to the fact that Col. Robert Rheault, his immediate successor in Vietnam until being accused in the case, was the only career Green Beret in the group of eight originally charged.

The rest were intelligence officers assigned to the Special Forces. Only one of them had served a previous tour in the Special Forces.

A refusal by the CIA last week to let its agents testify in scheduled courts-martial led the Army to drop charges against the men.

Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor said the CIA was "not directly involved" but it has been established from various sources that the agency discussed the "disposition" of the South Vietnamese with the Green Berets.

Ladd, now serving in the office of the deputy chief of staff of the Army, acknowledged that Special Forces have intelligence personnel but said their mission is not "clandestine" intelligence work such as behind enemy lines operations.

Their intelligence operations involve monitoring enemy infiltration across borders, plotting troop movements within countries and otherwise learning what they can about North Vietnamese and Viet Cong activities.

In two tours in Vietnam, Ladd said, he never received any instruction or order to his knowledge that came from the CIA.

"Special Forces units," he said flatly, "do not get their orders from the CIA."

Rather, assignments come through the chain of command from Army headquarters in Saigon.

It's His Name, Lady, And His Last Word

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Sometimes I suspect that in order to check on your readership, you deliberately give a stupid answer just to see how many protests you will receive. Well, I strongly protest your answer to "MRS. FUNNY-NAME," who asked her husband to change their name to something more acceptable, but he wouldn't allow it. Instead of giving her some encouragement, you sided with the husband saying, "He's the one who has the last word, so why fight it?"

I have been a school teacher, so I know how a comic or vulgar-sounding name can humiliate a child. How sad to think that a man would handicap his children thus. Please change your answer,

Abby, and encourage her husband to think of his children.

MRS. H.J.K. of L.A.

DEAR MRS. H.J.K.: Had "MR. Funnyname" asked me if he should change his name because it was a source of embarrassment to his family, I'd encourage HIM to do so. But "MRS. Funnyname" wrote to say that her husband was "proud" of his name and refused to change it (which is, of course, his right), so since he had already turned a deaf ear to his wife's pleading, I say, "skip it." Her husband DOES have the last word.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a divorcee and I want to marry her. She says she loves me, too, but she doesn't want to get married again. Her reason: If she marries, it will end her alimony checks, which are considerable.

I am not a rich man, but I could support her well enough so that she wouldn't have to go to work.

How can I get her to change her mind?

LOVES LORI

DEAR LOVES: You probably can't. And I think it's just as well. Your Lori has a cash register where her heart belongs.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the lady who signed herself "FOOLISH BUT LUCKY," and I must agree, she is both. In this case she was lucky that her neighbor knew what to do upon finding her "lost" boy unconscious in a locked and abandoned refrigerator.

Did you know there are 3,380 chapters of the American Red Cross throughout the country offering courses in first aid, FREE OF CHARGE? This course includes instruction on how to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, how to stop severe bleeding, how to treat poisoning, open wounds, broken bones, and even accident victims who are suffering from shock.

The course is only 10 hours. Everyone who drives a car, has a child, works in a factory, swims in a pool, or peels a potato should know how to give emergency first aid.

VOLUNTEER

DEAR VOLUNTEER: A 10-hour investment which could save a human life sounds like a pretty good deal to me. I urge all my readers to call their nearest Red Cross chapter and sign up for the course BEFORE an accident happens.

'Operation Santa Claus' Is Launched In Pitt

Pitt County's 1969 Operation Santa Claus Campaign officially got underway Saturday morning with a kick-off meeting for co-chairman in 14 townships.

Sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association, Operation Santa Claus is an effort to obtain gifts for patients at Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro and Caswell in Kinston so that they may enjoy Christmas as others do.

Mrs. J.R. Bowers of Bethel, overall chairman of the project, urged members to get their campaign started in their own communities as quickly as possible in order that all gifts might be in by Dec. 10.

Mrs. Joseph N. LeConte, executive director of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, said gifts may be brought to the Tetterton Building, located at 414 Washington St., or telephone the office there at 752-7448 and someone will pick up the gift. "One way to spread joy and cheer at Christmas," Mrs. Le-

Conte said, "is to participate in Operation Santa Claus."

"If not for Operation Santa Claus, many mental patients would not receive a gift at Christmas."

The gifts should be new items, Mrs. LeConte said, and should be taken to the collection points unwrapped.

Some suggestions for gifts include:

Children: teen type dolls, tea sets, clothing, jump ropes, cars, trucks, stuffed animals, basketball, football, ball and bats, puzzles, books, coloring books and crayons, musical toys, and others;

Adults: deodorant, cigarettes, pipes, smoking tobacco, chewing tobacco, powder, shaving lotion, tie clasp and pins, comb and brush sets, hair tonic, gloves, caps, socks, neckties, pocketbooks, shampoo, scarfs, hose, stationery, blouses, shirts, and other items;

Ward Use: card tables, plastic coffee mugs, metal ash trays, artificial flowers, lamps, vases, paper cup dispenser, plastic waste baskets, shower mats, pictures, scatter rugs, bedside rugs, room deodorizers, bingo prizes, books, musical instruments, plastic raincoats, umbrellas, coffee makers, ice cream freezers, popcorn poppers and fans.

Mrs. LeConte said there is a great need for large size dresses for some of the women patients. Dresses in sizes 18 to 46 are in great need, she said.

Area chairmen and collection points for the county include:

Mrs. James R. Smith, Ayden, Ayden High School; Mrs. Raymond Webb, Bell Arthur, Webb's Supply Company; Mrs. J. T. Dupree, Belvoir, Turner's Store; Mrs. Jimmy Fornes, Bethel, Bethel Pharmacy; Mrs. Alton Gardner, Chicod, Gardner and Travis Store;

Mrs. Lewis Lawrence, Falkland, W.W. Wooten Store; Mrs. Will H. Moore, Farmville, Mrs. Moore, 108 N. Contentnea; Mrs. Hardy Johnson, Fountain, Town Hall; Mrs. Richard Johnson, Grifton, Sam Nelson Insurance; Mrs. Otha Cozart, Greenville, Pitt County Mental Health Association Office; Mrs. Robert L. Wilson, Grimesland, Town Hall; Mrs. William H. Edwards, Pactivola, C.J. Satterthwaite Store; Mrs. Raymond Fuchs, Stokes, Stokes-Pactolus High School; Mrs. Linwood Hooks and Mrs. Pedro Boyd, Winterville, Town Hall.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A104 ♥AKJ106 ♦K10876

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♥ Pass 1NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two diamonds. No more aggressive action would be justified at this point. Partner's distribution is still an unknown factor and until a fit is found, we can't be certain how much this hand will produce.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A1072 ♥A ♦J1074 ♣Q1072

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass Pass Pass 1♥ Pass 1♣ Pass 1NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. While we prefer, wherever possible, to take the pressure off partner, we have not sufficient values in this case to do so, having only 11 points in high cards.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KJ62 ♥J75 ♦AQ94 ♣64

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass 1♣ Pass 1♥ Pass 2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four diamonds. A strong bid is in order. Partner's two heart bid constitutes a so-called "reverse" and should be based on at least 19 points. Your hand is worth 13 points in support of diamonds. A slam is therefore not remote and it is recommended that the display of strength be made below the game level.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K843 ♥54 ♦1054 ♣K1052

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♣ Pass 1♠ Pass 1♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. While this hand contains the minimum in high cards you should carry on, the partner's raise is not forcing. The club fit is the determining factor. Reverse the hearts and clubs and a doubtful situation would exist.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, opponents have 60 part score, and as South you hold:

♠K9753 ♥62 ♦A93 ♣1052

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1NT Pass Pass Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious. Since one no trump puts the enemy "out," partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You should, therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠62 ♥AK1098 ♦753 ♣K95

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♣ Pass 1♥ 1♠ 1NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free rebid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise of the no trump. With a timid partner perhaps to three no trump, with most partners a raise to two no trump would suffice.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠8 ♥QJ86 ♦A9743 ♣K105

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. This hand has splendid distribution values, and if a good suit fit can be found a slam is not at all remote. Partner's jump to two no trump does not deny possession of a four-card heart suit and the temporary bid is strongly recommended.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A84 ♥AK83 ♦AJ7 ♣QJ8

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass 2NT Pass 3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. The four-card major which you suppressed on the first round should be announced at this point. This is preferable to showing the diamond support. If the bidding progresses constructively, diamond support may be shown belatedly.

If the Shoe Fits...

BY LARRY AVERETTE

Can you be sure that a shoe fits by determining the position of the big toe?

Naturally the big toe should not touch the end of the shoe. However, there are other considerations. Many people have second or third toes longer than the big toe. These also must have adequate room. Equally important is the fit at the heel and ball of the foot. In order to fit properly, a shoe must meet the test at a number of vital points. That is why an experienced shoe fitter is essential to assure good fit and good foot health.

Members installed as members of the choir were: Terry Barnes; Polly Fornes; Betty Gipson; Gwendolyn Harrison; Kathy Harris; Paulette Hughes; Nancy Murray; Jo Anna Paul; Blanche Rayford; Diane Tetterton; and Vickie Westbrook.

Officers installed previously for the entire year are Barbara Stroud, Recorder, and Paula Hughes is the Recorder Pro-Tem.

Following the ceremony of installation, the officers and choir donned their corsages, after which the Worthy Advisor Karen Harris, recognized distinguished guests, including Mrs. Catherine Ferguson of Raleigh, Grand Deputy in North Carolina, Order of the Rainbow For Girls, and E. B. E. Moore, Master of Crown Point Lodge No. 708, A.F. & A.M., the organization sponsoring the assembly.

Also present were guests from Wayne Assembly No. 46 in Goldsboro, as well as friends and families of the Rainbow Girls.

The Worthy Advisor then made her acceptance address, at which time she announced that she had chosen the following to represent her term of office: colors, blue and green; symbol, the oak tree; flower, the forget-me-not; her motto, "Understanding One Another"; scripture, Psalm 121:2, and her project, a new altar cloth and chair covers for the stations of the bow.

She introduced her family: her father, S. Edward Harris; her mother, Mrs. Joyce Harris; her twin sister, Kathy Harris, P.W.A.; and sisters, Wendy and Lisa. She pinned a flower on each of her parents and expressed her appreciation of their love and support.

The Junior Past Worthy Advisor, Kathy Harris, was conducted to the altar where she knelt as the song "Over the Rainbow" was sung to her by Sheri Mosely, Nancy Murray, Jo Anna Paul, Paula Rogers, and Jan Smith, accompanied by Paulette Hughes on the flute and Mrs. Virginia Everett at the piano. She was then brought to the East where her mother, Mrs. Joyce Harris, presented her with her past Worthy Advisor's jewel, which was given to her by the Greenville Assembly.

The Worthy Advisor recognized the members of the advisory board: Fred H. Rogers, chairman; S. Edward Harris; Edward Hartsell; Mrs. Pearl Hartsell; Mrs. Julia Lilly; Mrs. Viola Rogers; Bryce W. Tharp; and Mrs. Jean Tharp, mother advisor, asking those who were present to stand.

Mrs. Jean Tharp, mother advisor, made a few remarks, adding her words of welcome to the guests. She also congratulated Miss Harris on her installation as Worthy Advisor and wished her and her officers a most successful term of office.

After the installing chaplain gave the benediction and attended the altar, the officers and choir had their retiring drill.

Guests were invited to a reception in the dining room immediately following the installation program. The reception table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an all white floral arrangement with ribbons in Miss Harris' colors of blue and green. Cake and punch were served to the approximately 80 guests in attendance.

The Greenville Alumnae Association of the national social sorority, Kappa Delta, held its first meeting for 1969-70, at the home of Mrs. Richard R. Gammon on Tuesday night.

Plans were made for the coming year including a workshop to make toys for the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va., a bridge social, and a party with the Gamma Sigma Chapter of Kappa Delta sorority at East Carolina University.

Mrs. Beaman reported to the association from Gamma Sigma Chapter, and plans were made for the association to work with the local chapter.

The president, Mrs. Harry Billica, welcomed the members and introduced five new members: Mrs. Walter E. Noell; Mrs. Richard Ullom; Mrs. Larry Vacek; Mrs. Julia Harris; and Mrs. Ceil Beaman.

Officers for the local Kappa Delta Alumnae Association include: Mrs. Billica, president; Mrs. Ullom, secretary; Mrs. Gammon, treasurer; Mrs. Noell, magazine chairman; and Mrs. Walker L. Allen Jr., membership chairman and editor.

Members of the Greenville Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta sorority invite any alumnae who have recently moved to this area to contact one of the officers of the association.

On Oct. 23, tribute will be paid to the founding of Kappa Delta sorority. The 72nd anniversary of the sorority will be celebrated by its 66,000 members in 115 college chapters and 368 chartered alumnae associations throughout the United States.

Kappa Delta was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., on Oct. 23, 1897, by four young women, including Julia Tyler Wilson, who was the granddaughter of John Tyler, tenth president of the United States.

The first National Panhellenic Conference sorority to select the care and aid of crippled children as its national philanthropy, Kappa Delta gives $10,000 annually toward the support of six beds at the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va. In addition to this aid, the Sorority regularly makes contributions for special projects or equipment for the hospital.

At its recent Convention in the Grand Bahama Island, this past summer, Kappa Delta presented a check for $10,000 to the hospital to cover part of the expenses in building a new outpatient clinic. Also, an additional $5,000 convention gift was given to be used at the discretion of the hospital's board of managers in any way they deem advisable.

Contributions have now totaled almost half-million dollars in aid to the Crippled Children's Hospital. Individual members contribute to the Hospital Fund by purchasing Kappa Delta Christmas seals. Members provide gifts of toys and clothing, as well, throughout the year for the children. Chapters and alumnae associations also assist crippled in their own communities.

In recognition of outstanding research in the field of orthopedics, Kappa Delta presents, annually, three Kappa Delta orthopedic awards which are administered by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. As of the 1969 Convention, these grants were increased to $1,500 each.

E. A. Warren of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. explained Savings Bonds at the general meeting of the Woman's Club on Friday afternoon.

He was introduced by Mrs. Delbert Roscoe, chairman of the Public Affairs Department. At the conclusion of his talk, a question and answer period was held.

Mrs. George Clapp, president, opened the meeting with a prayer and the Club Collect in unison. She welcomed Mrs. F. H. Goodwin of Dublin, Ga., as a guest, and Mrs. Thomas Cole, a transfer from the Sanford Woman's Club.

Mrs. Ann Phillips, chairman of International Affairs, told of plans for open house honoring foreign students and faculty of ECU on Oct. 26 from 3-5 p.m. at the club house.

Plans were completed for the food booth at the fair this week. Mrs. Clara Shackell will serve as chairman.

Mrs. Clapp announced the District 15 meeting on Oct. 21 at 10 a.m. at the First Christian Church with the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville as hostess club. All club members are requested to be present and to call Mrs. J.L. Savage for reservations for the luncheon.

Mrs. Clapp asked for volunteers to dress dolls for the Salvation Army's Christmas project.

Mrs. J.C. Galloway Jr. told of plans being formulated for a benefit bridge tournament at the club on Nov. 20.

It was announced that the Fine Arts Department will meet Oct. 14 at the club, Home Life on Oct. 21 at the club and Public Affairs on Oct. 15 at the home of Mrs. Jackie Bond.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Roscoe, Mrs. T. M. Vicars, Mrs. Joseph Johnson, Mrs. Clapp and Mrs. John Miller.

age 18 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

For FREE booklet on Government jobs, including list of positions and salaries, fill out coupon and mail at once — TODAY!

You will also get full details on how you can prepare yourself for these tests. Don't delay — ACT NOW!

A Practical Plan For N.C. Jobless

It is good that North Carolina's state government is turning its attention toward helping the unemployed obtain skills which will qualify them for jobs.

Gov. Bob Scott Friday announced that the N. C. Manpower Development Commission has developed training methods designed to help the unemployed obtain jobs and those with poor jobs to obtain better ones.

Scott said the MDC will work with the community college system and the Employment Security Commission in the plans. Included is a computer service which will match the unemployed with available jobs around the state.

A community college nearby to us, Lenoir, has been selected to demonstrate how such a training program can be carried out. The Lenoir college will have an enlarged staff to train up to 100 disadvantaged individuals in a year's time, find them jobs and provide on-the-job coaching.

Now North Carolina has a practical plan for attacking the nagging problem of unemployed and unemployables. Too often we write off people who are unable to hold steady jobs without making any effort to see if they can be trained for useful work which will furnish them incomes.

North Carolina will be trying to rectify this with its planned training program. No doubt those who run the program will have much to learn, but a start is being made. It gives us hope that in the future many people who now have low incomes, or none at all, will be able to become productive citizens.

North Greene Street's Project Is Impressive

One of the most impressive new-road projects in the Greenville area is North Greene Street.

This project is now nearing completion. It is a dual lane stretch from the bridge to the Preps shirt plant, including curb and gutter.

The four lanes have now been marked off and it is a pleasant surprise to drive through this area. Not only has traffic congestion been virtually eliminated because of the four travel lanes, but the project has vastly improved the appearance of the business area along North Greene.

The improvements have not come any too soon, for in the months ahead traffic is expected to become considerably heavier as new industries begin operating north of Greenville.

The North Greene Street project is a great asset for that area.

Another Effort To Help Income

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES - Reflector Raleigh Bureau RALEIGH—The problem is that annual per capita income in North Carolina is only $2,664, ranking only 41st in the nation.

It is a problem that has been recognized—and attacked in many ways—for at least the past two decades. Some strides have been made, but the problem remains today.

During a 10 year period, 1958-1967, approximately 300,000 new jobs were created in North Carolina. It is likely that another 300,000 jobs will be opened before next year. Most of these are well-paying jobs, but the fact is that many are going unfilled.

Unemployment in the state, as recently as July, was 86,000 out of an estimated labor force of 2.3 million.

to announcements over the weekend, a new program is emerging. The governor, Bob Scott, believes that the program will help bolster and reinforce the state's industries with a "qualified, trained work force" and at the same time help raise the state's annual per capita income.

It will be the first sort of cooperative program undertaken in the nation. It is a joint undertaking which involves the Manpower Development Corporation (MDC) and the state's Department of Community Colleges, Department of Conservation and Development and Employment Security Commission.

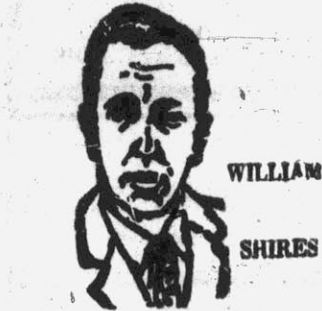

The idea is to develop training methods designed to help unemployed individuals get jobs and to help individuals with poor jobs get better jobs.

The program will be carried on through each of the involved agencies but it is to be inaugurated in the Lenoir County Community College at Kinston. Four administrators are to be recruited before the end of the year to plan and develop the program. Additional federal funding is expected to bring the total cost, or available funding, to close to $100,000.

HEARINGS — The Former Chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, William B. Aycock, will be chairman of a hearings committee to handle cases of disruption on the Chapel Hill campus.

Aycock presently is Kenan Professor of Law at UNC-CH. The hearings committee has been established in accordance with regulations prescribed by the University trustees.

Rules—Under this policy, a board of inquiry will determine and advise the chancellor whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant charging an individual with violation of policy on disruptive conduct. Then, under the trustees' policy, hearings must be held to decide whether such conduct calls for suspension or dismissal. The policy applies both to student, faculty and University employes.

WILLIAM SHIRES

The question has to be asked: Is low per capita income really the problem?

Training—No, not according to officials of the Manpower Development Corp.

Officials of this organization, headed by Luther H. Hodges Jr., think that half a million North Carolinians need remedial manpower training in order to obtain good jobs. MDC believes that most of these people are under-educated and lack the skills and training necessary to meet the demands of an influx of industry and more sophisticated types of work.

It is not enough today to pull tobacco nor operate a tractor.

According to MDC, "the problem is that a still heavily rural work force is neither motivated to seek nor trained to hold the industrial jobs coming open."

Surtax Demise At Wrong Time

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The horrifying probability, just becoming evident to the Nixon administration and still ignored by the business community, is that the 10 percent surtax will expire Jan. 1 at precisely the worst possible moment.

The unscheduled disappearance of the surtax would, if just temporarily, funnel money back into the pockets of personal and corporate taxpayers at a rate of $10 billion a year. That would be pouring buckets of fuel on an inflationary fire now roaring out of control and higher private corporate spending plans for next year combine for a most pessimistic private view here about inflation.

That private gloom contrasts vividly with the public optimism of President Nixon at his Sept. 29 press conference. In truth, the Administration's working-level officials concerned with the problem disagree profoundly with the assessment by William McCleskey Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that the inflation may be slowing down.

The disappearing surtax is one reason for their disagreement. Even if Mr. Nixon got exactly what he wanted, the 10 percent surtax would be reduced to 5 percent on Jan. 1. This reduction, equivalent to pumping five billion dollars a year back into the economy, is based on a premature appraisal by the Administration earlier this year that the inflation would surely be under control by Jan. 1. Now, Administration officials admit, even halving the surtax is exactly the opposite of what should be done.

But the situation is likely to be much worse. The extension of the surtax at the 5 percent level for another six months beginning Jan. 1 is part of the overall tax reform bill. That bill, passed by the House, is now undergoing the purgatory of the business-oriented Senate Finance Committee. Even if it clears the Finance Committee by the scheduled Oct. 31 deadline, no realist can expect final approval by Congress before the end of 1969. Thus, the surtax expires completely on New Year's Eve.

The alternative of Treasury strategists is to bring up a separate temporary extension of the 5 percent surtax — which is very nearly impossible. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate majority leader, has no intention of bringing up the surtax while the tax reform remains unpassed and vulnerable. Besides, it is doubtful a surtax extension by itself could clear the House today as relationships between the White House and the Democratic-controlled Congress steadily deteriorate.

Of course, a tax relief bill passed finally in March of 1970 might well contain a provision extending the 5 percent surtax retroactive to Jan. 1. But the damage will have been done. Besides replenishing inflationary expectations, the end of the surtax — even if transitory — will erode consumer spending through reduced payroll withholding. The money will go rushing into the economic bloodstream on the first payday of 1970.

There remains, however, one still more terrifying possibility. If the Finance Committee severely denatures the reform bill with the acquiescence of the Nixon administration, liberals may retaliate by stripping the surtax from the bill completely. At least one Democratic member who supported the surtax this summer — Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana — now opposes any extension on grounds that it is ineffective against inflation.

The danger posed to the surtax accompany defeats on all fronts in the war against inflation. Although kept quiet, Federal spending is on the climb (reducing the optimistically estimated budget surpluses). The Congressionally stamped for Social Security benefits, joined by President Nixon, is inflationary on its face. In the private sector, there is nothing in sight but higher prices and wages, higher investment in plant and equipment, and higher interest rates.

Strength For Today Why A Crystal Ball Is Needed

Good Procedure This is a TV commercial which advertises soap and which advises people to wash face up. The claim is made that better circulation and tissue tone will result if the face is rubbed up during the process of washing rather than down.

Whether this is true or not, the idea itself is a good one. Everything that draws the face down in sadness or scowling unpleasantness, is bad for the person who has the face, and bad for the people who have to look at it. Likewise, everything that causes the face to turn upward in pleasure is good for everybody concerned.

This doesn't mean that we can just smile our way through life and forget about all our problems. What it does mean is that the world needs a lot more smiling and pleasantness and that it can get along with a very little bit of angry scowling. We need not only to wash the face up but to smile the face up. Good cheer is one of the most precious things which a human being can possess.

There is a definite connection between good cheer and good health. Although good cheer is not the only requirement for sound morals, it is certainly true that good cheer and good morals usually travel together.

Wash the face up, smile it up—keep the emotional life sound, and the spiritual life in good tone by this procedure.

By Earl L. Douglass

WASHINGTON—I know no one will believe me, but you're just going to have to take my word for it. I met a college student the other day who said that all he wanted out of life was success and financial security.

He asked me not to use his name because he didn't want to embarrass his parents, so I shall call him Hiram. "Hiram," I asked him, "why did you decide to take this revolutionary attitude toward society?"

"I don't know exactly when it happened. I was like most of the rest of the students. I wanted to tear down the school, the society, the establishment. I was just another conformist, and I never questioned why I was doing all the things that were expected of me.

"Then one day I thought to myself, 'There's got to be more to life than getting hit over the head by the cops.' I looked around me and saw nothing but sheep. Every student was doing his thing because someone else had done his thing, and no one was doing or saying anything new."

"So you decided to drop out of the student movement and become a millionaire?"

"Not at first. But I met this girl. She was really way out. She wore a cashmere sweater, a plaid skirt and she had on shoes and socks. I couldn't believe anyone would dress like that. But I got to talking to her, and she started making sense.

"She said it wasn't enough to lock yourself in a building or go on a hunger strike in your dorm. If you really wanted to change the world, you had to make a lot of money, and then people wouldn't tell you what to do."

"That's radical thinking," I said.

"Then she gave me a book by Prof. Horatio Alger, and I guess no book I ever read has had more of an effect on me."

"Wasn't Prof. Alger the one who came out first with the success syndrome theory?"

"That's his. His story floored me. I mean a whole new world opened for me, and I knew no matter what the consequences were and no matter what other people thought, I was going to work hard and become rich and successful. Life finally took on some meaning for me, and for the first time I felt like a free man."

"What did you do then?"

"I discovered through this girl that there were other students on campus who felt the way I did—not many, but there were enough. So we formed a group called the 'Students for a Successful Society.' At first we had to go underground, because the administration wouldn't acknowledge us as a legitimate campus organization. But as more and more students heard about us, the SSS kept growing. We've been able to radicalize at least 200 students who would rather be rich than do their thing."

"What are some of your activities to get more supporters?"

"We sell the Wall Street Journal on campus. We've opened a coffeehouse where you can read back copies of Fortune. We have a stock market."

Other Editors Say Losing Naval Strength

(Rocky Mount Telegram) While critics of U.S. defense continue to pressure the administration to strip down our world authority on naval power points to the steadily increasing advantage the Soviet Union is building over the U.S. in terms of naval power.

Raymond V.B. Blackman, writing in the massive annual "Jane's Fighting Ships," which he has edited for 21 years, reports that Russia is ahead in new ship construction and has built a navy "to be reckoned with."

At the same time he warns that hundreds of American warships are now so old they are becoming a liability to the Navy. "The U.S. Navy," he writes, "is the only navy of any consequence which has had recent experience of operating warships in real war conditions. So qualitatively and quantitatively the U.S. Navy ought to be first and foremost among the top navies for several years to come. All the same, prodigious though the recent shipbuilding effort has been, especially in the fields of nuclear-powered submarine construction and guided missile development, the U.S. Navy still has not overcome its block obsolescence problem."

See the trouble as Blackman sees it is the reluctance of American taxpayers about paying for the building of new ships. Thus, the Soviet Union has outpaced the United States in new construction. The Soviet navy was shown as having 1,375 new - type vessels in its total of 3,240 ships against 894 new - type ships in America's total of 3,360.

The Soviet fleet was estimated to include 65 nuclear subs, 320 diesel subs, 25 cruisers, 100 destroyers among other types. And while Blackman cites America's great postwar carriers as being fine instruments of seapower, he said that the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean is a superb fleet which "could not be sunk within minutes of the outbreak of hostilities."

Most of the U.S. aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, escorts and minesweepers, refitted or not, are a quarter of a century old. They still possess war potential, but in Blackman's view they are becoming a liability.

The point of all this is that the trend in warship construction has been going against the U.S. despite our fine record in building nuclear-powered submarines. The time will come, and relatively soon, when the Russians can boast a decisive edge in all ships designed to fight in modern war. And this will include those fine carriers we now possess.

By ELMER RTESSNER Purchasing agents must be mathematicians and prophets as well as shrewd bargainers today. All are faced with this same question: Will the price of this material advance more than the cost to money to stockpile it?

Example: A corporation has enough to a certain steel to last it through next March. If the corporation can borrow money to finance the purchase at 8 1/2 percent, will it pay it buy steel now for the second quarter of 1970?

If the buyer calculates that steel will go up more than 4 1/2 percent rise in the next six months, it is unlikely, unless the inflationary spiral turns faster. However, when a purchasing agent has inside information—or a hunch—that prices will shoot up more, he is in a position to buy.

There will be little inventory building for the rest of the year, therefore a rise in industrial unemployment and less pressure on the money market.

Over The Business Horizon Here are more look - aheads in business: Construction slowdown: Despite the fact that construction contracts, as calculated by the F. W. Dodge division of McGraw - Hill, dove sharply in August after two months of declines, the end of the construction slump is not in sight. George A. Christie, chief Dodge economist, warned that the August rise was due to a concentration of large projects and the general trend would be downward.

Filtered pot: Marijuana cigarettes with filter tips are now possible. Brown & Williamson is bringing out a filter-tipped roll-your-own cigarette maker. However, it is being brought out to build sales of B&W tobaccos, not for pot-heads.

Higher plane fares: Airlines recently won higher passenger fares. A new round is in sight. The House Ways and Means Committee is planning a series of new taxes on passengers and freight to raise $14 billion for airport expansion.

'Massive Resistance' Fear Worries Justice Dept.

By ED ROGERS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration hopes hard work, intensive "selling" and — sometimes — delays in school desegregation enforcement will avert flareups of violent resistance in the South.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard, chief of civil rights enforcement in the Justice Department, said last week the federal government is concerned about possible massive resistance that would tie up federal resources in isolated localities.

The administration's policy is to "speak softly and carry a big stick," he said. But wielding the "stick," Leonard said, ties up a lot of manpower — "bodies and people," as he put it.

Leonard, former Republican leader in the Wisconsin legislature, ran unsuccessfully against Sen. Gaylor Nelson, D-Wis., last fall. He was appointed to the high Justice Department post after the inauguration.

At a news conference Leonard defended a decision last summer to grant desegregation de-ays for 33 school districts in Mississippi.

Leonard said "hindsight" showed the decision was correct. He then revealed the hindsight came from an experience in LaFayette, La., in which 2,500 whites stormed a school board meeting.

Leonard pictured this scene — 2,500 white people standing there in a high school auditorium, one woman with a noose, demanding that the school board close the schools. Some were yelling.

Leonard, other federal attorneys and 70 U.S. marshals were tied down in the area for weeks in the aftermath of this episode.

What if the delay had been denied Mississippi?

"I frankly think you would have been faced with massive litigation efforts, school closing, massive boycotting and I believe that in the end it would have taken years and years to bring those districts back again," he said.

Leonard said if Mississippi had become the scene of the type of resistance seen in parts of Louisiana, coupled with litigation required in Georgia, Texas and Arkansas, he doubted the Civil Rights Division would have had enough manpower to handle it.

He said that if the Supreme Court were to order immediate integration across the South today, "nothing would change."

"Somebody has to enforce that order — and there just aren't the bodies and people presently available to enforce that kind of legal decision right now."

Two days later Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate that if Leonard cannot or will not enforce an order of the Supreme Court he should resign.

Young was skeptical of Leonard's claim that enforcement must depend on amassing manpower.

"That must have been dreamed up over the weekend," Young said.

It is true that Leonard had not spoken before of enforcement in terms of manpower.

When 65 of 77 "line" attorneys in his Civil Rights Division publicly dissented last month with the "Mississippi decision," Leonard argued that a school board's difficulties must be recognized.

"The administration is determined to achieve the goal through a sympathetic approach to the problems of all persons affected, through hard work, through persuasion and leadership — backed by the use of federal coercion where it is needed," he said.

He explained the Nixon policy in this way:

While the courts rightly say that community resistance is legally irrelevant, that does not excuse the government of trying to help solve "real, practical" problems the school boards face.

While the courts say the burden of complying with federal standards falls on the school boards this is at times "politically" impossible for them. That should not mean that they go to jail.

These explanations failed to mollify the dissident attorneys in Leonard's own ranks. They repeated their accusations that the government was not following its "legal mandates."

The lawyers said the administration was bowing to political pressures from the South. This complaint drew Leonard into the debate in the first place.

By the end of the week the leader of the dissidents, attorney Gary J. Greenberg, responded at Leonard's request. Leonard said Greenberg went too far when he aired the dissent in open court before the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 10.

Greenberg, as a parting shot, predicted Leonard had brought more trouble than peace for himself by his explanations and arguments.

"This rhetoric in and of itself breeds chaos," Greenberg told UPI. "Leonard almost invited the reopening of massive resistance. He seemed to make it clear that outright, avowed resistance will receive more consideration than voluntary compliance with the law. "There may be other Little Rocks."

"Hiram, I know this all sounds great. But is it possible that this success syndrome movement is just a passing fad?"

"No, it isn't. I know everyone calls us kooks and weirdos, but no one is going to push us around. We've already had inquiries from other campuses that want to set up similar chapters, and I wouldn't be surprised in the next few years to see what is now a minority movement become the strongest force in the country. After all, nothing succeeds like success."

Big Crop Challenge Ahead

The word and the modd is change. Change is in, tradition is out. The pace at which you'll be making changes: Spectacular!

Here's one way to visualize it. You'll be raising 200 bushels of corn but the corn plants and the way you plant them may not even resemble today's hybrids, or today's planters.

The next 10 years will be exciting and challenging. What will trigger these changes? Simply this: scientists are at the threshold of many new mind-stretching break-throughs—like growth regulators, built-in weather tolerance, light enrichment, intensive cropping systems and new hybrids.

In fact, it's predicted that half the technology you'll use in 1980 hasn't even been discovered yet!

Emphasis: maximum profit. With tradition and habit out, your efforts, your planning will be directed to maximizing profit. Efficiency appears to be the key. That means you'll concentrate on cost cutting, yield-increasing inputs where they'll widen the profit margin. But, high yields just for the sake of high yields will be out.

The computer will be your hired "expert" in the '70s. You'll use it to analyze all phases of your operation—planning capital allocations, inventorying land and equipment, designing cropping systems, predicting weather and yields, recommending fertilizers and pesticides, matching up varieties with planting dates. Results: A totally integrated operation designed for producing maximum profit. Organization: sign of the times. Think big, think organization, think flexibility. In the '70s you'll need all three. Here's why: You'll be managing more productive units than ever. They all have to click. You'll be buying more fertilizer, chemicals, machinery.

A few dollars saved per unit may spell the difference between profit and loss. It'll tax your skills to organize and operate a volume business efficiently.

Land: your major resource. But with a difference—you're less likely to own all your crop. Why? You'll be reserving, reinvesting funds in short-term production inputs instead. Land control will be the key. There'll be new, long-term leasing agreements to help you assemble the needed acreage.

In the past, land values have been determined by the soil's productivity. In the future, you'll be more concerned about its proximity to your operation, the availability of water, how it meshes with your total system. There'll be stiff competition for land. You'll stand a good chance of losing some to non-agricultural uses. Roads, recreational areas, increasing residential and industrial sprawl will take its toll. And expect more land use restrictions, too.

Technology: exciting, demanding. You'll be hitting the books more than ever. And no wonder: Cropping in the next decade will require you to be a serious student of plant physiology, chemistry, climatology, entomology, plant genetics and business organization.

Disillusioned VC Officer And Troops Join Militia

By JAY SHARBUTT
Associated Press Writer
TAM-KY, Vietnam (AP) —

IT'S rare when a Viet Cong captain switches loyalty to the South Vietnamese government and it's much rarer when he gets most of his company to join him. "I was tired of being disillusioned," says a man who did just that.

Known only as Quyen, the leathery combat veteran had led his Viet Cong company in battles against both U.S. Marines and government troops.

Now, he is leading two-thirds of his company in a new campaign to gain control of his home district from the Viet Cong he once served.

Quyen was a captain and commander of the Viet Cong's C9 company one week ago when he decided to call it quits.

Steering Column Safety Hailed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Energy-absorbing steering columns are "probably the biggest advance in auto safety since the lap seat belt," a University of Michigan researcher has reported.

Anatomist Donald Huelke said a study of more than 800 fatal and nonfatal accidents over eight years has shown that the energy-absorbing column makes deaths from steering column impact rare.

He noted that this type of injury formerly was the leading cause of death and serious injury to drivers.

Huelke's research also concluded that laminated windshield glass, installed in all post-1966 American-built cars, is "a tremendous safety factor in reducing the seriousness of facial injuries."

The Communist command had made too many promises, he told surprised militiamen when he walked into the district headquarters of Thang Binh, about 30 miles south of Da Nang and surrendered.

The skeptical militiamen were convinced of Quyen's good intentions when he took them out along the coastal flats north of Tam Ky and disarmed 26 guerrilla-planted mines and booby traps.

He also delivered letters that he had written personally to relatives of men who had served in his company.

The next day, several men he had commanded arrived in Thang Binh with their rifles and joined Quyen.

They said that after Quyen defected, two political officers assigned to C9 company had disbanded the unit and ordered the men to turn in their weapons.

In a few days, 27 of the 40 men in Quyen's company had surrendered, bringing with the six rifles and a machine gun.

The Quang Tin Province chief, Col. Hong Dinh Tho, asked Quyen to bring 10 of his best men to Tam Ky. Quyen was given $170 and he and his squad had a tour of the city.

"They had been told that Tam Ky had been destroyed," Tho said. "They were very surprised to see the buildings, the cars, the electricity."

During the shopping trip, Tho bought the 11 ex-guerrillas some clothes and promised to send food to their families still back in the district.

Quyen and the 10 men were given M16 automatic rifles. "There was no propaganda," Tho said, "I just told them that if they would go back to their district and pacify it their families would be happy and prosperous."

Quyen agreed and he and his men went back to Thang Binh district, assigned under the district chief to a campaign to wipe out the remaining Viet Cong.

Tobacco

Tips

By S. J. WEEKS
Pitt County Tobacco Agent

In a recent survey it was observed in that approximately 79 percent of the farmers in Pitt County had participated in the R-6-P Program for 1969. Farmers who have not yet cut their tobacco stalks and plowed out the stubbles are missing a good opportunity to reduce disease and insect loss in their tobacco crop in 1970 and future years.

Participating in R-6-P Campaign on your farm is also a way of increasing the net income from future tobacco crops. By reducing disease and insect losses you will increase your net income. About three percent of the tobacco crop in Pitt County is lost each year because of tobacco diseases and insects.

It is possible that in some of the fields where tobacco was rented on an annual basis the stalks have not been destroyed by the person who grew the tobacco. Regardless of who grew the tobacco it will be to the landlord's advantage for the stalks to be destroyed. This practice should be profitable enough to merit the landlord hiring this important practice to be performed on his farm.

In future years this problem could be eliminated by including a clause in the rental agreement requiring the first two steps of the R-6-P program being performed within a certain period of time (7 to 10 days) following completion of harvest.

If you have not performed this important task, do so "right now" by following the procedure listed below:

1. Cut or shred stalks
2. Turn stubbles out
3. Disk thoroughly about two weeks after roots have been turned out
4. Seed winter cover crop.

HEALTH AND CHIROPRACTIC

By
Dr. W. C. Chapel,
Former President
Lincoln Chiropractic College

Q. Do insurance companies pay for the services of a chiropractor?

A. More than 500 insurance companies pay for services rendered by a D.C. (Doctor of Chiropractic). Be sure that your policy has services outside the hospital and that chiropractic is included before you purchase it.

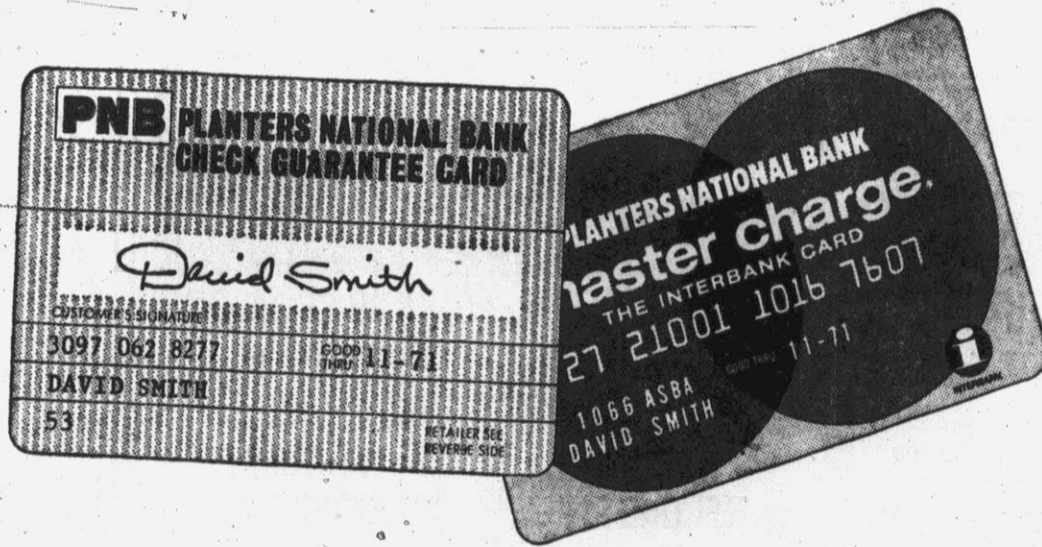

Q. How is the best way for me to purchase the kind of policy I want?

A. One of the best ways to be sure you're getting the service you want is to purchase insurance from one who lives in your community. You can be sure that your local insurance man wants you to get adequate coverage and full value for your insurance dollar.

Q. We get some tempting offers of insurance through the mails. Are these alright?

A. The purchase of insurance by mail should be carefully considered. Especially from companies that are not licensed in your state. As I stated above, it is safest to do business at home.

Met Fans, 2-up, Set For Shea Stadium Party

UNELATED LUMAN — Atlanta Braves manager Luman Harris watches grimly as his Braves go to bat in the ninth inning of the National League playoff game in Atlanta Sunday afternoon, and then slams his hand to his head as the last out of the game is made and his Braves lose to the New York Mets, 11-6. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets were back in their own backyard today, looking to wrap up their National League playoff series with the Atlanta Braves and move on to their first World Series in their almost implausible eight-year history. The Braves, on the other hand, were looking for a replacement for their unofficial mascot, Chief Noc-A-Homa, preferably someone who could throw-a-ball or catch-a-grounder after two games in which they looked like carbon copies of the old Mets. The new Mets fashioned a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five playoff series during the weekend despite ineffective pitching by aces Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman, making the most of 23 hits, five Brave errors and several mental mistakes for 9-5 and 11-6 victories. That put the amazing Mets, who stumbled through seven years of ineptness before starting their rags-to-riches story this season, one step away from the frenzy that is certain to overtake usually staid New York City if the Mets win their first pennant. Shea Stadium began filling early today with the usual Met fan—the long suffering banner-carrier who suddenly has found he can take pride in the club, and proved it by almost virtually tearing up the place the night the Mets clinched the National League East title. The exhilarated fans tore up patches of grass for trophies, took home pieces of the scoreboard as keepsakes and ripped up every base except first in a wild celebration. They probably will make sure they get that, too, if the Mets finish it off today when Gary Gentry 13-12 goes against Pat Jarvis 13-11. Today is Gentry's 23rd birthday and the 12th day after his pennant-clinching victory for the Mets in the National League East. But whether he would be around at the finish was a big question, considering the pattern of the first two games.

In the first one Saturday, the 25-game winning Seaver was tagged for eight hits, including seven homers and four doubles, in seven innings. But the Mets came through with a five-run eighth inning built on four unearned runs to win it. Then, Sunday, Koosman was chased in the fifth inning after surrendering seven hits, including a homer and two doubles. But the Mets made the most of 13 hits, three Atlanta errors, an obstruction call and an uncovered base to put another away.

Clemson Provided Weekend's Surprise, Upsetting Ga. Tech

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Clemson provided the biggest surprise of any Atlantic Coast Conference team in weekend football action, defeating favored Georgia Tech 21-10 at Atlanta, Ga.

Junior fullback Ray Yauger went on a scoring spree in the second half, scoring all three of Clemson's touchdowns. Tech led the Tigers 10-0 at halftime before Clemson came from behind to defeat Tech for the first time since 1945. Before Saturday's victory, Clemson had lost 10 consecutive games to the Yellow Jackets.

The Tigers marched 77 yards, including a 25-yard run on a draw play to Yauger, for the second touchdown, which came on a five-yard pass to Yauger. A fumble deep in Tech territory set up Clemson's final tally. Clemson's Bob Craig picked the fumble out of the air at the Yellow Jacket 18 and carried it to the six. Yauger carried twice, scoring the second time. It was Tech's first loss after two victories. The Yellow Jacket offense was obviously hurt when Tech's top two quarterbacks were injured during the game. The up and down Wake Forest team provided another surprise in the only ACC conference match of the weekend when it lost to Maryland 19-14. It was the first time this season that the Deacons had not been the underdog, but the Terps came up with an attack that proved too strong for Wake to handle.

Yauger caught two touchdown passes and scored his third TD when he crashed in from the two. Early in the third quarter the big fullback covered 38 yards in two plays to score Clemson's first touchdown. He ran 28 yards to the Tech 10. Then Clemson's sophomore quarterback Tommy Kendrick found Yauger clear for a 10-yard touchdown toss. The fans and writers didn't like the call. They said it left the fight hanging in mid-air and certainly added nothing to Benvenuti's stature.

Protest Ruling

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Bitterness lingered here today over what most sports writers viewed as a disappointing world middleweight title fight Saturday night.

Italy's Nino Benvenuti kept his crown when Neapolitan referee Tony Gilardi disqualified Fraser Scott of Seattle, Wash., in the seventh round for fighting with his head too low.

The fans and writers didn't like the call. They said it left the fight hanging in mid-air and certainly added nothing to Benvenuti's stature.

Announce Results Of Scotch Foursome

The results of the Scotch Foursome Golf Tournament held this weekend at Brook Valley Country Club have been announced. The event attracted a total of 35 area couples.

Low score honors went to Dick and Alice Evans who carded a score of 85. The first runner-up winners were Henry and Mildred Coleman who shot an 86. Second runner-up honors were awarded to Topsy and Holmes Smoot with a score of 87.

High score of the tournament was a 128, shot by Joe and Ruth Poulk. Just behind were Howard and Frances Wilson with a 127 score. Runner-ups in the high score category were Gail and June Jones with a card of 108 and Fred and Alice Hamelin. Scrapy and Joann Proctor and George and Mary Harvey, all with scores of 106.

Birdie prizes were awarded to Rhett and Joann Hunnicutt, Bill and Sherry Tripp, C.B. and Martha Moye, the Bruce Hudsons, George and Marion Martin, Lee and Martha Alcorn, and Red and Maxine Hawley.

Low putt honors went to Fred and Jane Sauve who toured the course in 32 putts. Second low were Willard and Elsie Wilson with a total of 33 putts. The most putts were taken by the Bill Ellingtons, 55.

GOOD FOR OPENERS NOTRE DAME, Ind. (AP) — Coach Ara Parseghian does well in opening games. As a head coach his teams have won 18 of 19 openers. The Notre Dame coach met with his only opening day setback in 1957 when his Northwestern Wildcats bowed to Stanford 26-6. That was the year when Northwestern did not win even one game.

Orioles Determined Not To Let Twins Recover

MINNEAPOLIS — St. Paul (AP) — Embattled Billy Martin, squeezed and pinched into a dark corner in the American League's championship playoffs, called on burly Bob Miller, a refugee from the Minnesota bullpen, to plug the dike today against the irreplaceable Baltimore Orioles. But the Orioles, holding a pat hand following their second sudden-death victory in the best of 5 series, didn't intend to let Martin's Twins off the hook.

"We've been down before and we've come back," Martin said Sunday at Baltimore after the Orioles nipped his club 1-0 in 11 innings on Curt single and the gutsy, three-hit pitching of Dave McNally. "It's been a matter of inches. Who knows? We can still tie it up and win."

The victory 24 hours after Paul Blair beat Minnesota 4-3 with a 12th inning squeeze bunt, left the Orioles one step from the World Series as the East-West playoff shifted to the Twin's park.

Game three pitted Miller, a National League castoff and one-time relief specialist, with a 5-5 regular season record, against Jim Pamernik, who topped a 16-4 comeback for the Orioles by hurling—the American Leagues only no-hitter two months ago.

Miller, a 6-foot-1 right hander stepped into the breach for the Twins' year when injuries depleted Martin's starting alignment. He won five of six decisions as a starter and hurled the West Division title clincher on Sept. 22. Palmer, a shutout winner over Sandy Koufax in the 1966 series — when he was just 20 years old — made a remarkable about-face for the runaway two-year run of arm trouble. "We're in good shape with Palmer going," Orioles' manager Earl Weaver understated. "He's our best percentage pitcher."

Virginian Wins Kinston Tourney

KINSTON, N. C. (AP)—Bobby Mitchell of Danville, Va., pocketed $1,000 by winning the second annual Falling Creek Open golf tournament Sunday with a 54-hole total of 202.

Mitchell, winner of more than $40,000 on the PGA tour, had sub-par rounds of 67-67-68. Four strokes back in second place was Gene Hamm of Durham with a four-under par 66. He won $750.

A RECORD HANDLE RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M.

(AP) — The pari-mutuel handle for the 1969 Ruidoso Downs horse race season reached an all time high of $12,586,015. The previous high handle was in 1964 when there were 62 racing dates compared to 52 in 1968. The 1964 season handle was $12,308,448. Track General Manager Richard Thompson said the 1969 wagering was up 17 per cent from 1968.

Bobby Galloway of Denver, N.C., who finished third, received $600. Veteran Tommy Bolt finished with a 69 for fifth place.

We don't have to start from scratch each year. We've been making the same basic VW for so long now, you'd think we'd be bored with the whole thing. But the fact is, we're still learning. For no matter how perfect we think one year's model is, there's always an engineer who wants to make it more perfect. You see, at the Volkswagen factory we spend 100% of our time making our car work better and 0% making it look better. Any change is an improvement. And when we do make new parts we try to make them fit older models. So there's nothing to stop a Volkswagen from running forever. (Which may explain why Volkswagens are worth so much at trade-in time.) Starting from scratch each year can get in the way of all that. Just when they've ironed out the kinks in the current model, they have to face the kinks in the next. We'll never understand all the hoopla over the "big changes" for next year's models. Weren't they proud of this year's?

Davidson's Coach Glum: 'Dreads' Richmond

By ED YOUNG
Associated Press Writer

It was 9 p.m. Sunday and, at Davidson College, the coach of one of the nation's still-unbeaten, untied football teams was having a critical look at films of his Wildcats' third victory of the season.

The score Saturday night at San Antonio, Tex., had been Davidson 17, Trinity 16. But perfectionist Homer Smith was not exactly impressed.

"No, we didn't play very well," he said. "I guess a little of everything went wrong. Our backs kept dropping the ball, and we didn't like getting the ball intercepted three times.

"I won't take anything from Trinity. They had huge, fast backs and were a good team. But we're not playing the way we've got to play to have a chance against Richmond this week. Yes, you can say I am alarmed."

But didn't the Cats do well in coming from nine points behind in the last quarter and winning, on Gordon Slade's touchdown pass and — gasp — Ed Terry's field goal with 37 seconds left in the game?

"Slade didn't have one of his better nights," said Smith, "even if he did pass for — what was it? — 238 yards. Remember the interceptions.

"The only good part was the way our defense played in the last period. They had to hold Trinity to give us a chance to score, and they cut them off without a first down the last four times they had the ball.

"No, sir, one thing after another could happen to us from now on. We're heading into a tough, five-game Southern Conference schedule, and the first game—the one with Richmond Saturday — that's the toughest."

Had Smith heard his scout's report on Richmond's 17-10 upset of rugged Virginia Tech? Not yet, said the Davidson coach—"We haven't let him talk. We're afraid he'll scare us."

The Richmond game will be the second inside the Southern Conference for Smith's Wildcats who humbled Furman 77-14 on Sept. 27 in their league debut. And the way Richmond handled VPI, Davidson has cause to worry.

The Spiders not only dominated the game at Richmond on offense, with Charlie Richards throwing to Jerry Maure for 258 yards and two touchdowns, but outclassed independent Tech at its own specialty — defense.

Most of the game, Tech was pinned deep in its own territory. The muscular Gobblers gained only 44 yards rushing against the Richmond line.

Anyone seeing the game had to come away feeling the Spiders will make it very tough for anyone to take away the SC title they won last year for the first time in history. They're now 2-1 over-all, 1-0 in SC play.

The Citadel, also unbeaten after three starts, keeps on looking like a top-drawer championship contender, too. With Tony Passander breaking offensive records right and left, coach punned winless East Carolina 31-13 Saturday in their conference start.

Other Saturday games saw Furman claim a 21-21 tie with Carson-Newman; William and Mary bow to Virginia 28-15, and winless VMI lose at 18th-ranked West Virginia 32-0, extending its scoreless streak to three games.

Passander passed for touchdowns with 17-of-26 accuracy as The Citadel's "Veer" offense bewildered East Carolina setting school career records for pass completions, 142; passes attempted, 298; touchdown passes 17; passing yardage, 2,115 yards and total offense, 2,227.

Jimmy Laycock passed for both W&M touchdowns in the loss to Virginia, whose fullback Gary Hellman carried 37 times for 148 yards and all four Cavalier TD's.

Holy Cross Grid Team 'Infected'

WORCHESTER, Mass. (AP)—Infectious hepatitis threatens to wipe out the Holy Cross football team this year.

Nineteen Crusaders, including seven starters, were in the college infirmary Sunday night and big questions were raised about the seven remaining games.

"We just can't play under these circumstances," said new head coach Bill Whitton. "We've reached the point of no return. The healthy players are emotionally upset because they are afraid they'll catch hepatitis.

College officials said the first attack of the liver ailment felled reserve defensive end Bob Cooney last Monday, with two attacks coming Tuesday, four more Friday and the remainder over the weekend. Holy Cross dropped a 38-6 game to Dartmouth Saturday.

Holy Cross Athletic Director Vincent J. Dougherty said he would wait until results are returned on blood tests on the rest of the team, but said he may ask the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association ECAC to waive the rule which prohibits freshmen from playing on varsity teams.

Cougars Lose By 117-116 Score

MADISONVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association lost an exhibition game Sunday to the Kentucky Colonels, 117-116, when a final shot was ruled late by officials.

Randy Mahaffey fired the final shot as the Cougars trailed and it went through the net

Protests failed to change the officials.

The Cougars had called for a time out with six seconds remaining to set up the shot after Louis Dampier scored on a jumper with 11 seconds showing on the official clock.

The Cougars' Doug Moe led all scorers in the contest pumping 38 points during the night and Bob Verga added 31 points in the losing effort. Hank Whitney grabbed 27 rebounds for the Cougars and scored 27 points.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Belle A. Mansfield's mark in American history is so obscure that even the Library of Congress had trouble locating her name. But this week, she will be the hero of the nation's lady lawyers.

As the Supreme Court opens its fall term today, the National Association of Women Lawyers kicks off a three-day celebration in honor of Mrs. Mansfield's admission to the bar 100 years ago.

She was the nation's first woman permitted to practice law, gaining admission to the bar in Iowa in 1869. Her practice was limited to her home state only.

"But she broke the ice," said Mrs. Maurice Abernathy of Washington, a past president of the association.

Since then, the number of woman lawyers in the United States has grown to approximately 20,000, the association says. Among them are five federal judges.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Institute of Architects, condemning "wild assertions" by the capitol architect, says the capitol's historic west front is in no imminent danger of collapse and can be restored relatively inexpensively.

The AIA statement came as a rebuttal to backers of a House-approved plan to tear down the old sandstone walls and—at an estimated $45 million cost—recreate them in marble and granite 88 feet further out.

It urged reconstruction of the old walls—the only visible portion of the original capitol—not be entrusted to the office of capitol architect J. George Stewart.

Although Stewart, a former Delaware congressman, bears the title of architect, his former profession was engineering.

Capital Footnote
 Democratic Senate Leader Mike Mansfield says the Senate—controlled by members of his party—has shown "initiative and responsibility." His defense comes in the wake of criticism by some Republicans the Senate has dragged its feet on legislation.

Administration Will Unveil Indian Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration plans to unveil this week its long-awaited Indian policy, promising continued federal protection while promoting greater freedom for American Indians to manage their own affairs.

Details were kept under tight wraps so they could be revealed first to the National Congress of American Indians, meeting this week at Albuquerque, N.M.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, speak Wednesday, while Indian Affairs Commissioner Louis R. BRuce addresses the conference Thursday. They are expected to emphasize that the administration rejects the "termination" policy expressed in a 1953 congressional resolution, which aimed at ending federal trusteeship over reservations.

They also are expected to emphasize a greater role for Indians in determining the programs that affect their lives.

Along these lines, some administration sources think the Albuquerque convention may be the platform for announcement of the creation of an Indian Advisory Committee, as pledged by Hickel in August.

It might be the occasion, as well, for announcement of plans—also promised in August—to reorganize the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Interior officials have considered a task force to draw up reorganization plans, but that step might be bypassed for more direct action. They want to simplify bureau structure and make it more flexible.

At least one high-ranking official is thinking of reducing the number of area offices, and insulating the bureau's education from raids by area directors for other purposes.

Future Indian education policy has not yet been fully developed, but an authoritative source said it would seek greater involvement of the tribes in running the federal schools on their reservations.

Specific programs in other areas of concern would be developed, he said, on a "reservation-by-reservation basis" to make them responsive to local needs and problems.

Contracting with the tribes to perform various community services now done by the government or by outsiders "is going to be a large part of it," he added.

The Interior Department was considering proposals to encourage Indian economic development on the reservations by new tax incentives and by increasing a revolving credit fund; but it has not yet decided on specific proposals.

Supporting Ben Franklin's View

BONN (UPI) — "At twenty years of age," old Benjamin Franklin declared, "the wit reigns. At thirty, the wit. And at forty, the judgment."

An analysis by the West German Federal Statistical office seems to bear out that pronouncement in the 1741 edition of Poer Richard's Almanac.

Men under 40 years of age suffer from twice as many accidents as do men over 40, say the German statisticians.

Furthermore, both men and women who live in cities have significantly more minor accidents than do those who live in rural areas, presumably demonstrating that while cities, as Sherlock Holmes once remarked, "do not present a more dreadful record of sin that does the smiling and beautiful countryside," they are more dangerous places to live.

One fourth of all injuries requiring hospital treatment result from traffic accidents, the Germans add, while one-third are from accidents at work. Fifteen per cent occur in the home.

Annual Revival To Begin Oct. 12

FARMVILLE—The annual revival at the Monk Memorial Methodist Church will begin Sunday night, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m. and will continue through Friday night.

The Rev. Dermont J. Reid, minister of the St. James United Methodist Church, Greenville, will be the guest speaker.

Charles Baucum will be the song leader with Mrs. Haywood Smith, pianist. Congregational singing and special music will be held during the services.

There will be a coffee hour on Sunday night at the church after the services in order that persons attending may have informal fellowship with the revival leaders.

Key Taylor is minister of the church.

There are 22 bones in the human skull.

Carnival Worker Shot To Death

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Authorities said a 22-year-old carnival worker from Baltimore, Md., had been in Winston-Salem for less than a day when he was shot to death Sunday night.

Charles Franklin Springs, 22, was shot five times with a pistol, police said.

Police took a man into custody for questioning but no charges had been lodged this morning.

Springs had come to the city, authorities said, to work at the Dixie Classic Fair.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — The North Carolina hog market today was steady. Tops of 25.75-26.25 at Wilson; 25.50-26.00 at Rocky Mount; 24.50-25.75 at Tarboro; 25.00-25.50 at Siler City and Denton; 24.50-25.50 at Bethel; 26.00 at Salisbury; 25.75 at Greensboro.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA) — The North Carolina poultry market today was steady. Prices at farms are mostly 12½.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted indecisively in slow trading early this afternoon.

First-hour volume of 2.06 million shares was the lightest for the period since Dec. 26, 1968.

Brokers expressed disappointment that the market had failed to follow through Friday on the brisk rally that had developed Thursday. They said investors apparently had retreated to the sidelines, in part because of uncertainties of the economic outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 Industrials at noon was up 0.79 at 809.20.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon had dipped .2 to 283.7, with industrials up .5, rails off .5, and utilities off .4.

Declines and advances of individual stocks on the New York Stock Exchange were about even.

Standard Oil of Ohio fell 3% to 93 on the indication that the Justice Department might challenge its proposed acquisition of BP Oil Corp., U.S. subsidiary of British Petroleum, as a violation of antitrust laws. British Petroleum declined ½ to 16.

A huge block of 369,700 shares of Goodyear changed hands at 27½, off 1¼.

Motors, oils and tobaccos were mostly higher. Most other groups were mixed.

Among the motors, Chrysler advanced ¾ to 37½ and General Motors was up ¼ at 72.

Price changes among the most actively traded issues on the Big Board included Natomas, up 1% at 94½; Xerox, up 1 at 98½; Fairchild Camera, up 1 at 80½; American Telephone, off at 50½; and International Telephone, up ¾ at 55½.

Airlift International, off ½ at 3, topped the most-active list on the American Stock Exchange.

Prices of the more actively traded issues included Equity Funding, up ½ at 68¼; Four Seasons Nursing, up 1% at 69¼; Deltona, up 1½ at 70¼; Marin-duque, off 3 at 25, and Home Oil A, up 1% at 38.

Many Applying For Plant Jobs

"We have had an extremely good crowd of applicants all morning," Bill Sneed, personnel director for Burroughs Wellcome, said on the first day of accepting job applications for the new pharmaceutical industry.

"Still, it hasn't been quite as good as we had hoped for," Sneed added, "but possibly as many as 200 to 250 applicants have been by so far this morning. We haven't been rushed too much yet but overall the turnout has been good."

Sneed added that the calibre of applicants has been good so far. He was unable to single out any one position yet that had been applied for more frequently than others. The director noted that applicants must be a high school graduate or hold an equivalent degree.

"I expect the good turnout to continue," he concluded. Applications will continue to be received for prospective employees at the Burroughs Wellcome training facility. On Monday and Wednesday, applicants may inquire between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. On Tuesday and Thursday, persons may apply between 9 a.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Plane Will Spot Leaf-Burners

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Residents of St. Louis county are being watched from the sky to make sure they don't burn leaves in their back yards.

The Missouri Highway Patrol and the county Division of Air Pollution Control used the patrol's spotter plane Saturday and Sunday but couldn't catch anyone violating a new law prohibiting leaf burning.

In one instance, the plane alerted a police car but the fire was out before authorities arrived. "Apparently the guy saw the plane fly over," said Donald Pescok, director of the control division.

GOODWILL MISSION

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Four destroyers on a goodwill mission became the first Japanese warships to visit this port since World War II when they steamed into the harbor Sunday.

Obituaries

Smith

Mr. Floyd Lee Smith, 39, died Sunday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of his mother, in the Black Jack community. Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Jimmy C. Williams, pastor of Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Smith was born and reared in Pitt County, in the Hudson's Crossroads community. He attended Chicod High School. For the past 19 years he had lived in Hopewell, Va. where he was employed at Allied Chemical, Inc., in the railroad division.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Patricia Rose Smith and Dorothy Lee Smith, both of Hopewell, Va.; his mother, Mrs. Mammie Ruth Smith of the Black Jack community; three brothers, Norman E. (Pee Wee) Smith of Hopewell, Va., Robert David (Bud) Smith Jr. and Jimmy C. Smith, both of the Black Jack community; and four sisters, Mrs. Louise S. Cox of Greenville, Mrs. J. B. Everett of Bethel, Mrs. Carlton J. Williams and Miss Judy Carol Smith, both of the Black Jack community.

Hooks

GRIFTON — Mrs. Mary Langley Hooks of Grifton, died at her home Friday after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at Shiloh Disciples Church, with her pastor, the Rev. Mark Chapman, officiating. Interment will follow in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Hooks was the daughter of the late Miley Langley and the widower of Green Hooks. She was born and reared in the Greenville community but had made her home in the Grifton area for the past 50 years. She was a member and past mother of Shiloh Disciples Church.

She is survived by two sons, Pete Hooks of Greenville and William Bryant Hooks of Grifton; 15 grandchildren.

The body will be at the Norcott and Company Home Chapel from 5:00 p.m. today until one hour prior to the funeral.

Carr

Mr. Tance Carr died suddenly at his home, 1307 S. Pitt St., Sunday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Seek Hoffa's Release On Bail

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Formation of a committee seeking the release on bail of imprisoned Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was announced Sunday by a union attorney.

Robert Morgan, western states chairman of the organization, said it was operating in 32 cities to raise money for bail and legal representation.

Nuclear Bomb-Proof Sub Base Said Built By China

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist China has built a "nuclear bomb proof" submarine base under a mountain and topped it off with an airfield for 100 jet fighter-bombers, it was reported here today.

A refugee who arrived from China's Kwantung Province adjoining Hong Kong said he pieced together this description of the base from workers who helped construct it.

Four tunnels have been driven deep into four adjoining mountains below sea level. These are connected to the ocean by tunneled canals deep enough to permit nonsubmerged submarines to pass into four holding pools, each of which can accommodate 10 submarines.

The refugee also said the peaks of adjoining mountains have been blasted level; and space in between them has been filled with the shattered rock. The airbase is constructed on the resulting flat table, he said. The refugee said several hundred thousand men including many soldiers worked on the project. He said many boasted that it was "nuclear bomb proof."

The refugee cannot be named because his family still is inside China. Letters from the same province also have mentioned a massive construction project.
