As Usual, Goals Untold Now 3 Russian Spaceships With 7 Cosmonauts Flying In Orbit; Platform Next?

By MICHAEL JOHNSON Associated Press Writer MOSCOW (AP) — Two veteran Soviet cosmonauts blasted into space today to chase five of their orbiting comrades in what may turn out to be the most complex earth-orbit mission yet.

Tropical Storm Kara Drifting Off Carolina

MIA I (AP) — Tropical Storm Kara reversed its direction late Sunday and early today was drifting slowly southward along the North Carolina coast some 250 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras.

The Soviet Union has not produced a major first in manned space flight since Alexei Leonov took the first space walk in March 1965. The United States does not plan to put up an orbiting platform until mid-1972.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said the storm, with top winds of 60 miles an hour, was expected to shift to the southwest during the day and then to the west tonight.

Despite the widespread expectation of space platform activity, Tass, the Soviet news agency, made no mention of this today in describing the mission of the group flight.

It said a "number of important scientific-technical tasks will be carried out," including "comprehensive simultaneous scientific students in near-terrestrial space in accordance with an extensive program; testing of the complex system of controlling a simultaneous group flight of three space ships; mutual maneuvering of ships on orbits with the aim of solving a number of problems of developing the piloted space system...

At 6 a.m. Kara was located near Latitude 33 north, Longitude 72 west. It was moving toward the south-southwest at about 7 m.p.h.

Kraft said the storm's projected course through tonight would keep it abreast of the Carolinas. Little change in size or intensity was indicated, he said.

The hurricane center cautioned small craft to remain in port from Charleston, S. C., to Ocean City, Md., and advised boaters along the northeast Florida and Georgia coasts not to venture far from shore.

Kraft said the storm had lost some of its tropical characteristics as colder air mixed into

One of the key Republican senators behind Haynsworth is Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky, a moderate who has only 10 months in the Senate.

Nixon Administration Begins A Politically Fateful Week

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is beginning what could be its most fateful week to date among increasing signs the whole capital is losing its political cool.

Among the signs of political jitters: —The administration's Supreme Court nomination is being managed in the Senate partly by a John F. Kennedy Democrat who is working just as hard to criticize the President as he was to boost the nominee.

—President Nixon, who already has withdrawn some 60,000 troops from Vietnam, will be the target of a nationwide demonstration Wednesday against his war policies.

His Patent Suit Asking $2 Billion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Who is Peter James, the man who has a $2 billion suit pending against American Telephone & Telegraph and International Business Machines, and who claims that hundreds of other companies have infringed on his patents?

The man: He is a balding, somewhat paunchy, 38-year-old father of five children, a scripture-quoting Southern Baptist, stolid and tenacious in his business affairs.

James was the ninth of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. James Tsakanikas, Greek immigrants who settled in White Plains, N.Y.

—Education and experience: Bachelor of science in economics from Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, law degree from George Washington University, engineer with International Business Machines for several years.

—The businessman: Founder and president of Photo Magnetic Systems, Inc., a publicly held company based in Beltsville, Md., which reported its first profit in the six months ended April 30—some $43,000.

—The politician: Announced candidate for the governorship of Maryland. "Having reached a significant plateau in business, I look for a new challenge." Calls himself a progressive Republican.

—The patent holder: Possessor of a basic patent—No. 3,381,276—covering a concept that permits two of the great technological advances of mankind, the computer and the telephone, to communicate with each other.

—The plaintiff: He claims that AT&T, IBM, Western Electric, Chesapeake & Potomac Electric Co. and at least 300 other firms should be paying him royalties for their telephone-computer communications devices and concepts.

"And I'm considering a $100 billion antitrust suit," James said the other day. "We're gathering the evidence now," he said, claiming that AT&T is placing obstacles in the way of his product, Comput-A-Phone.

Comput-A-Phone is a basic idea with broad implications. It is a system that enables an individual to use the touchtone telephone keyboard to put information into and take it out of electronic computers.

By using various combinations of letters and numerals, distinctive sounds are sent over telephone wires. At the other end, a translator decodes the message to make it understandable to the computer.

Salesmen can phone in their orders directly to the computer. Small companies can maintain their records on computers miles away. Housewives can order merchandise merely by pressing buttons on their telephones.

Why would our baby stop trying to walk?

Frequently babies give up because they are afraid. The bottoms of their shoes pick up wax from linoleum or hardwood floors. Since the majority of babies walk on the balls of their feet, slippery soles are dangerous and the babies seem to know it.

One remedy would be not to wax the floors. Another is to "roughen" the soles with a bottle cap. The crimped edge cuts through the wax in a hurry. Strips of adhesive tape help temporarily but the tape becomes as slippery as leather when the baby repeatedly runs into the kitchen and out on to rugs that buff the wax to a high gloss. Learning to balance the body on one tiny foot at a time is difficult enough without adding the hazard of slippery soles.

Jessen-Olive Vows Said In Saturday Ceremony

WINTERVILLE — Miss Sara Pat Olive became the bride of John Samuel Jessen on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church.

The Rev. Richard T. Davis and the Rev. Horace G. Thompson officiated at the ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Paul Braxton, organist, and Miss Anne Braxton violinist.

In the background of the church were tall woodwardia ferns flanked by spiral candelabra, nine pyramidal candelabra with bouquets of white mums. The choir rail was garlanded with silk cord and bouquets of white chrysanthemums. At the altar was a prie-dieu where the bride and bridegroom took their vows and knelt for the benediction. Pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery. The aisles were covered with white runners rolled out for the wedding party.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Graham T. Olive of Winterville and the late Mr. Olive and Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Jessen Sr. of Mount Holly. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Graham T. Olive Jr. She wore her mother's wedding gown of candlelight chintilly lace over a satin dress fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and an A-line skirt with long train made into the skirt. The gown had long sleeves which came to a point over the hand.

Her headpiece was designed with bouvardia and garnet roses with a shower of white velvet tubing trailing down the back of the gown with garnet roses attached. She carried a full cascade of bouvardia and white cattelya orchids accented with garnet roses and English ivy tied with garnet velvet.

Miss Mary Honeycutt of Gastonia was maid of honor and Mrs. Sherman Fields of Newport News, Va., sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Deans of Myrtle Beach, S. C., Mrs. Ben Wilson of Robersonville and Mrs. Philip Benfield of Pineville.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of Vintage karate and Venise lace. The empire bodice was styled with a bateau neckline and elbow length sleeves. A band of ivory Venise lace threaded with Vintage velvet ribbon finished the sleeves and defined the raised waistline and extended down the back of the A-line skirt. They wore tulle veils attached to sprays of velvet petals.

The attendants carried flowing cascade bouquets of lilac carnations, garnet miniature roses and deep hybrid orchid, tied with royal blue velvet ribbon with long streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Robert F. Jessen Jr. of Norfolk, Va., Barry J. Jessen, Richard M. Jessen, brothers of the bridegroom, and Barry Grice, all of Mount Holly.

The bride's mother selected a blue silk shantung dress with matching accessories and wore a white cattelya orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a green silk shantung ensemble with matching accessories and a white cattelya orchid.

For a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina, the bride changed into a green and white dress of linen with matching accessories. She wore the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The bride attended the Winterville schools and East Carolina University. She is employed at the First Union National Bank, Charlotte. The bridegroom attended Mount Holly schools and Lees-McRae College. He is serving in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at Winston-Salem.

Reception Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Winterville Community Building.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth with garlands of improved smilax and clusters of wedding bells. A tiered wedding cake, which was served to guests, centered the table flanked by silver candelabra.

The punch table with silver punch bowl was encircled with smilax, white grapes and love birds.

The refreshment table was garlanded with improved smilax over satin. A centerpiece of white carnations, snapdragons and garnet roses graced the center of the table with two five branched silver candelabra.

Mrs. Jack Waters Sr. of Fairmont poured punch and Mrs. Leon Couch Sr. of Goldsboro, both aunts of the bride, served cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington of Ayden, aunt and uncle of the bride, said good-byes.

Program Given By Mrs. Spilman

Mrs. J. B. Spilman Sr. presented the program at the meeting of the Sappho Book Club on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Aubrey Taylor.

Mrs. Spilman spoke on senior citizens. Mrs. D.G. Nichols assisted Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. James E. Sutton was welcomed as a new member and Mrs. Earl Brinkley as a visitor.

After a short business meeting, books were exchanged. A luncheon was served to members and guests.

'Tiny' Hoards Old Clothes

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: In the 25 years "Tiny" and I have been married, he has gained and lost the same 90 pounds at least five times.

Each time Tiny has a weight loss he is so proud, he treats himself to a new wardrobe. But he doesn't wear it long because he puts the weight back in no time.

He has two closets filled with practically brand-new suits to fit a 160-pounder, a 220-pounder, and right now he is wearing suits to fit a 250-pounder—because that's what he weighs!

When I tell him I want to give away some of those suits he's had hanging in his closet for 15 years, he blows his top. I think it's a crime to let perfectly good suits hang there when somebody could get some use out of them. The same goes for shirts and shoes. What do you think?

TINY'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: I'm with you. Call the GOODWILL INDUSTRIES and let them pick up Tiny's "outgrown" wardrobes. Their resale shops put money back into the GOODWILL organization whose policy it is to employ the handicapped, and teach them to recondition furniture, appliances, and clothing, thus becoming employable, self-respecting wage earners. Now if that isn't more important than hoarding clothes (that are going out of style anyway) I don't know what!

DEAR ABBY: This is to "FAITHFUL READER" who thinks he is possibly the oldest person ever to write to Dear Abby:

You say you will be 81 in September? Well, I was 91 in August, so stop your bragging, young fellow. I have written to Dear Abby several times over the years and listen to her on CBS radio nearly every morning.

Your story on how your mother discouraged unbidden guest When you are stewing chicken, add a small onion stuck with a few whole cloves.

reminded me of a similar experience. We had a beautiful cherry tree which bore delicious fruit. One day a city friend, learning of the cherries, exclaimed, "O, how wonderful! I am coming out to get some."

"Fine," said my wife. "we sell them to help pay off the mortgage."

The lady never came. Sincerely yours,
AN "M.D." IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

DEAR "M.D.": Thank you for your warm letter. I see by your signature that you are a doctor. You could make me give up eating apples.

DEAR ABBY: The other night my husband and I were invited to his mother's house for supper. My husband's brother and his wife were also invited and they were there when we arrived. My mother-in-law had the table set with her good china and silver.

Just as we were about to sit down, my sister-in-law got an emergency type telephone call, and she and her husband had to leave without eating.

All of a sudden the good dishes and silver disappeared, and ON went the chipped, old everyday stuff!

I felt like I'd been slapped in the face. If you had been in my place, what would your feelings have been? Sign this... "NOBODY"

DEAR NOBODY: I'd probably have felt like "disappearing" with the "good dishes and silver."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO SAINT" IN SAINT JOSEPH, MISSOURI: I'll say you're not. Your letter reminded me of the prayer St. Augustine addressed

Rolling On, But Brakes Smoking

The nation's economy now seems to be in the position of a giant truck roaring down a steep incline — the brakes are smoking but the monstrous vehicle rolls on.

Thus we have reports on unemployment taking its biggest leap in nine years, and of a corporate profit squeeze. These are supposed to show that the strict anti-inflation measures are beginning to do their work.

Still the monthly figures which show the rate of inflation, as yet, fail to give any indication of leveling off, and there is little, if any, lowering of high interest rates.

The over-all unemployment rose from 3.5 per cent in August to 4 per cent in September, the largest increase since September-October 1960.

Of course, the fact that there are more unemployed is nothing to be elated about in itself, since this involves actual people who find themselves out of jobs.

It is however, one of the unpleasant results of measures taken to slow down the economy and, sadly, it is undoubtedly something which the nation will have to live with until the inflation rate slows and monetary controls are eased.

There is little doubt that the government waited too long to begin controlling inflation. An election was coming up and no party in power likes to talk belt tightening in such a situation.

Now that the process of controlling inflation has begun to take effect, however, it is important that the measures be continued until the inflationary trend is reversed. This, too, is a delicate procedure since continuing restraints too long could result in recession. At this point, though we believe inflation is still the greater danger.

Sanford Leads The Demo Field

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

RALEIGH — The frontrunner in speculation about who may be the next Democratic party nominee for governor is Terry Sanford.

It is no secret that Sanford, governor from 1960-64, wants another term.

cond term as governor never left him. He waited and watched. He has remained active politically, but in the background.

The former Sanford political organization is intact. It was a and is a powerful force. It has wide appeal across the state.

If it should be accomplished, it would be the first second term, not consecutively, for a governor of North Carolina in many years—in fact nearly a century.

Others — The emergence of Sanford's name in political speculation about the governorship disturbs or disconcerts some other hopefuls. Mostly Democrats.

But it is felt among political sources here that some of the talk about other possible candidates may be merely a smokescreen.

One knowledgeable political source says "they are laying a smokescreen while the Sanford people are laying the groundwork."

Looking — It is premature for any forward political moves beyond next Spring's primaries. But both parties, Democrat and Republican, are looking ahead and considering just what might develop.

Possible political significance may be attached to the sudden and unexpected replacement of Ed Rankin as chairman of the State Board of Mental Health and the replacement of Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor as a member of the same board. They learned of their dismissal in a newspaper story on the day of a meeting of the board in Black Mountain. Another member, J. Garner Bagnal of Statesville, was also replaced.

Rankin served Gov. William B. Umstead and Luther Hodges as administrative assistant. Then Gov. Dan K. Moore chose Rankin to be his director of administration.

For the past year Rankin has been executive director of the N.C. Citizens Association. He was unaware that he was to be replaced in the Mental Health post. In fact he thought his term continued until 1972.

The Scott administration's appointment-maker thought otherwise.

Considering the powerful sponsorship of the "road show" idea, Stans quickly set his own public relations department to work. By Sept. 20, a follow-up order had been delivered to Tom Roeser, OMBE's director. Roeser, a Midwestern Republican activist and former public affairs director of Quaker Oats in Chicago, had not been invited to the White House meeting. Indeed, he had not even been consulted about the road show.

The order to Roeser was embarrassingly specific. It proposed that Roeser himself head the road show tour of 11 cities and take with him two or three prominent Negroes with name recognition to dress up the tour.

Suggested for this function were Jesse Owens, track superstar of the 1936 Olympics, and all-time baseball great Ernie Banks, of the Chicago Cubs, himself a black capitalist in Chicago.

The directive from Stan's office also ordered private public relations consultant Ben Stern placed in the OMBE office at Stan's personal order at a fee of $107 a day, to develop visual aids, press kits, an attractive brochure, and other press-agent gimmicks.

If the Commerce Department had actually developed a program of black capitalism, the road show would be a natural to display it in black and Mexican-American ghettos. In fact, however, Stans has rejected just about every fundamental point in a comprehensive 35-page program developed over the past three months by OMBE and handed him in late August.

The heart of this still confidential OMBE program is a Minority Enterprise Development Corp. (MEDCO), modeled along the lines of the semi-public Communications Satellite Corp., to raise money and lend it to small minority-owned businesses.

Not only has Stans failed to approve MEDCO. He also has flatly rejected a short-range plan by Roeser to allocate far more money (now elsewhere in the Federal budget) for encouraging minority enterprises. According to Congressional experts on black capitalism, Stans has systematically rejected just about every plan OMBE has come up with, often on grounds of economy.

OMBE's experience of the past three months follows the Administration's earlier failure to produce the tax-incentive plan to encourage minority businesses that had been promised by candidate Nixon last fall.

A Real Mouthful, But Potential Life-Saver

An 85-foot mobile aerial platform and water tower fire truck is a real mouthful to say, but this equipment which the City Council purchased last week could be a life saver some day.

The equipment is expensive, at $85,570, but it should prove to be an excellent piece of equipment for protecting lives and property. It can be used to take firemen and hoses high into the air to send streams of water down on a fire. Or it can be extended up a multi-story building to rescue people.

Modern fire fighting equipment is not inexpensive. However like most other fields, the use of the most modern equipment available will enable our firemen to do their jobs more efficiently.

Campaign Will Mask Failures

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Having failed to develop anything approaching a working plan promoting black capitalism, top Administration officials in and outside the White House are now plotting a massive public relations campaign to cover their failure.

This press agency, word of which has leaked to astonished Congressmen pushing the Administration to carry out its campaign pledge on black capitalism, was first developed in a secret White House session early last month. The original source of the idea was none other than President Nixon's most intimate adviser: White House counsel John Ehrlichman.

With Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans, embattled Small Business Administrator Hilary Sandoval, and other high officials sitting around the Cabinet table, Ehrlichman made his proposal. He suggested that Stans order his department to produce a "road show" demonstrating the Administration's commitment to "minority entrepreneurship" (black capitalism) and take it on a national tour.

Stans was chosen because the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE) is in his department. Its job is to develop and coordinate a government-wide program to help non-whites, who now control only 3 percent of the nation's total enterprises, get into business.

Strength For Today

ON USING THE PASSIVE TALENTS

These lines are written for those who are in or near the days when the doctor repeats the words "slow down." The lines might be worth remembering likewise for those whose days are in the future.

Sooner or later we reach the spot when we can say, "I have done that—had that experience no need to wear myself out repeating it." This does not mean putting oneself on the shelf. But it does mean knowing when to let go gracefully. In house decorating, gardening, sports, entertaining, for example, are the attendant exertions necessary? In youth and in our prime we want to take hold, push through to completion or perfection. By the time we become grandparents other satisfactions should be our lot.

These satisfactions of the sunset years have been called by someone our "passive talents" of appreciation and enjoyment. In the busy days of making a living, raising a family or doing the needed chores the passive talents may have been neglected. They don't rust or corrode, but may need some attention and coaching to unfold.

The abilities to appreciate, soak up and savor are, indeed the joys of the inactive years. No need to go about saying, "I can't carry on as I used to." Of course not, if you are full of years. Neither man nor nature expect you to. If you would add to your happiness, put it rather, "Now I can take time to think, remember—and enjoy."

Sex Education On TV

WASHINGTON—There has been a great deal of discussion concerning sex education in the schools. Actually children are getting more sex education in one week's viewing of television commercials than they'll get in four years in the classroom, and most of this TV-type sex education can become very distorted.

For example, the other evening I was watching a commercial for a 1970 automobile. The girl announcer challenged the virility of the TV viewer and wanted to know if he was man enough to drive it. If he wasn't, she said, then he obviously wasn't man enough to get her.

Well, I frankly didn't care that much about the girl because her legs were too skinny. But I could see the effect it was having on several sub-teen-agers in my living room.

It's tough enough getting through puberty, but when you have to prove your manhood by first purchasing a $4,000 sports model, you might as well throw in the towel before you start.

The next commercial showed a couple walking through high grass hand in hand. They obviously were up to no good

Other Editors Say Hands Off Stand?

(Washington Daily News)

Over North Carolina on Monday, October 6, county commissioner groups met at court houses and took up the business of the individual counties.

Insofar as we can determine most of them gave full endorsement to the proposed one percent sales tax increase to be voted upon on November 4. Insofar as we can find out no county commissioner group voted against such a proposal. A few county commissioner groups voted to adopt a hands-off policy.

Here in Beaufort county, our commissioners decided to adopt the hands-off policy. However, the very fact that the subject was brought up and discussed is of itself most wholesome. Had the commissioners just ignored that matter altogether, they might have been open to criticism. But after discussing it, they decided to take no stand either for it or against it.

Over in Martin County, our neighbors, the commissioners voted unanimously to support the extra one percent sales tax.

We feel sure that the average voter has many misgivings regarding this proposed one percent sales tax increase. Among so many voters the issue would become attractive if he could be assured that his county commissioners would reduce property taxes in the amount realized by the extra one percent sales tax.

As the matter now stands, it appears to us that the death knell has been sounded insofar as Beaufort county is concerned. Our folks are tax weary, and they just are not going to the polls and vote heavier taxes on themselves—particularly with no real cause before them calling for an expenditure.

At the same time, we must realize that towns and counties are hard pushed in our state to find needed revenues with which to carry on their business. The property tax is theirs, but property taxes have about reached the limit, bringing the total to four percent, would bring Beaufort county a predicted $370,000 while the municipalities in the county would receive around $117,000.

Frankly, we doubt that it will pass in many counties anyway. Mecklenburg county already has a four percent sales tax.

In adopting the hands-off policy here in Beaufort county, the commissioners are in reality telling the people "do what you think is best." And with that position, we can find no fault.

and were looking for a clear area to spread out their blanket. But before they got down to business, the man lit a cigarette and then handed it to the girl who took a puff and looked at the guy as if the deal had been made.

Now once again I wasn't moved by this, mainly because I have a fear of snakes. But I could see the kids watching this scene and believing that an act of love had to be preceded by both parties first smoking a cigarette.

I tried to explain to the subteenagers that this was not true and in many cases could cause unnecessary fires in bed.

A little later we hit a mouth-wash commercial. The girl was stunning, but when boys took her home they just left her at the door without kissing her good night. A girlfriend finally produced a bottle of the mouth-wash, and on the very next outing her date refused to let her leave him.

Once again I could see the subteenagers trying to figure it all out. By rights, the proper thing was for the girl to be left at the door. But the mouth-wash guaranteed nothing but trouble, and when I made the comment that it was better for a girl to have had breath than for her to get into this kind of situation I was hooted down by every-

Both Inflation And A Recession

By ELMER ROESSNER

Ray Orbin, the Cleveland Plain Dealer cartoonist, drew a cartoon showing a group of "economists" gathered while one spun a coin into the air. The underlines were, "Heads, more inflation. Tails, a recession."

If Orbin watches his own cartoon closely, he will see the coin land on edge. There will be both more inflation and a recession.

Paradoxical? Sure. But that's what is happening.

The administration's campaign against inflation is beginning to have effects.

But the principal effect is not deflation. It will be a recession of sorts. Perhaps, let's hope, not a serious one. Despite whatever recession comes, inflation will continue.

On The Recession Side

Some of the recessive effects have already started. Housing starts are dropping. They may be at an annual rate of less than a million by January. Unemployment rose to 4 per cent in September, the highest rate since October, 1967.

Retail sales rises are small, about level with the rise in prices. Consumer credit rose slightly in August, about equal to price increases, and it was the smallest rise in 19 months.

Factory orders declined in almost all industries in August, according to the Department of Commerce. The slowdown appeared to continue in September and is likely to go on for the rest of the year.

Despite the surge of fleet orders in September, new car sales will total less than last year's, according to a Commercial Credit Corp. survey. Other surveys show a lessening demand for new cars by individuals and families.

Milton Friedman, currently the "in" economist of the nation, told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee that an "unecessarily severe recession" would occur in 1970 unless tight money is made easier.

The More-Inflation Signs

With all these scary indicators of a decline, prices keep on rising.

In recent days, prices of aluminum, tires, coffee, newspaper, gas turbines and a variety of chemicals have been lines are about to seek another.

Labor unions have shown no inclination to lower demands. Many contracts provide for automatic increases as the consumer price index rises, and the rising price level indicates it surely will. These wage increases will be reflected quickly in higher prices, which in turn will bring new higher wages, meaning more and more inflation.

And so Orbin's coin will stand on edge: a recession but more inflation.

Consumers Hit Hardest In Fight On Inflation

Governmental "stop and go" monetary policies of the last four years have been painful to the whole community, but they have been especially hard on the consumer, First National City Bank declares in its monthly economic letter. While higher interest has been a burden, it says, it has also put strains on the consumer's overall financial position.

Living Cost Rise Hits Many Service Families

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Thousands of servicemen have been forced to put their families on the nation's welfare rolls because their military salaries and allowances can't cope with rising living costs.

From New Jersey to California, an Associated Press study showed, public welfare agencies are supplementing allotment checks from Vietnam, paying the rent of married draftees, or buying groceries for families whose breadwinners serve overseas.

The problem is compounded in many areas by a shortage of on-base quarters for military families. The shortage results in part from a sharp increase in the number of married men in uniform—in the Army's lower ranks, for example, the number of married men has jumped 37 per cent in three years.

The precise number of military families on welfare isn't known—their names are hidden in the bureaucratic morass of state and local welfare departments.

But Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird recently estimated that 50,000 service families could qualify for public assistance under President Nixon's proposed welfare program.

"Too many families suffer financial hardships, some of whom are forced to go on welfare to survive," said Laird, who—under congressional prodding—has ordered a nationwide survey to determine the number of military welfare cases.

The last Pentagon report, made four years ago, disclosed 20,000 military families were receiving some sort of public assistance, and that more than a third of all men—including officers—moonlighted at some time during the year to bolster their income.

The Nixon welfare plan, now before Congress, sets $3,920 a year as the poverty level for a family of four. Pentagon figures show that 1.2 million men in the armed forces' lowest three ranks receive less than that amount annually.

The Nixon proposals, however, specifically exclude servicemen from coverage. Poverty in the military, reasons a federal welfare official, should be taken care of under the military pay act, not through welfare.

Using Pentagon figures, the National Council on Hunger and Malnutrition calculates that about 200,000 military families are eligible for the Agriculture Department's food stamp program.

The Defense Department, however, bans use of food stamps in its 315 commissaries.

At an Army base near Washington, a military family service agency put together a sample budget to meet the minimum needs of a corporal with a wife and child. Despite the low prices available in commissaries and post exchange stores, the agency concluded the family "must live below the poverty level in this area."

As a result, it said, the soldier must either moonlight, babysit while his wife works nights, seek help from relatives or turn to welfare.

In a rundown trailer camp in Browns Mills, N.J., for example, a 20-year-old Air Force enlisted man lives with his wife and infant son. They tried getting by on the $265 a month in pay and allowances he earns as an airman first class at nearby McGuire Air Force Base, but couldn't make it.

New Jersey welfare officials figured he family needed $400 a month to live on, so the state gives it a $135 monthly welfare grant.

"The money would be okay if no problems came up, but once in a while you get hit with some bills and you're stuck," said the airman, who pays $115 rent for his shabby four-room trailer.

He says he'd rather live on base, but there's not enough free housing for the lower ranking men. "They tell me it's privilege to live off base," he said.

A few miles away lives a mother and eight children whose father, an Army sergeant, ramrods an infantry company in Vietnam. He sends home $400 of his $595 monthly pay and allowances.

Burlington County welfare officials, who give the family $158 a month, say the mother had been working but became sick and was forced to quit before turning to welfare.

At Ft. Dix, located in Burlington County, the Army says that 100 families are eligible for welfare. About 30 cases a month are referred to welfare agencies, says a community service officer at the base.

And Burlington County welfare director Robert Gallagher said, "We're only scratching the surface here. If other servicemen stopped moonlighting and swallowed their pride, I think they'd come in greater numbers."

New York City reports more than 300 military welfare cases. In Connecticut, welfare commissioner Bernard Shapiro says "there are no more than several dozen cases."

Virginia and California are among several states that grant welfare payments to a serviceman's wife and children when his pay and allowances are cut off, as happens when he goes AWOL or is disciplined for other reasons. The military makes no provisions for families in these cases.

The Defense Department, at the request of Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Rep. John S. Monagan, D-Conn., has asked the states how many servicemen are on their relief rolls. The study is to be disclosed this month, but it may be incomplete. Many states told the Pentagon it's impossible to come up with a figure without going through their welfare rolls, case by case, a Pentagon source said.

There have been four military pay increases since 1965, raising a private's base pay from $78 a month to $123. But there's also been a 17 per cent increase in the cost of living.

"We have a system of involuntary servitude that condemns a serviceman to a life of poverty—which we're supposed to be waging a war against," declares Rep. Alvin O'Konski, R-Wis., a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

The military pay system has long been geared to the use of large numbers of young, single men drafted into its ranks, quartered in barracks, fed, clothed, and watched over by a comparatively small cadre of older men, thus enabling them to live off a meager salary.

But the Vietnam war brought higher draft calls and the induction of more married men, many of whom have children, especially college graduates called when their student deferments expire.

Between May 1966 and February 1969, the number of married enlisted men in the Army alone rose by 140,000 to a total of 516,000. Military housing hasn't kept pace and at most posts is unavailable to men in the first four ranks.

In addition to base pay of $123 a month, a private with a wife and child who lives off base receives $90 a month in quarters allowance. With one dependent the allowance is $60, with three or more it's $105.

"A family man can get housing near a southern base for $50 a month, but in the northeast, Chicago, or San Francisco, it's well over $100 a month," Gallagher said. He favors a cost of living differential depending on the area.

At a large southern Army post, 26 soldiers applying for Army Emergency Relief loans during a five-day period last month were asked if they'd turn to public welfare if it were available to them. Ten said yes. The others answered no, mostly because, they said, of their pride.

"The Army takes care of its own, but it sends out a double message that a man should be able to take care of himself and his family," says the post's community services officer.

"There's a fear or hesitancy among the men about even seeking social services available to them from the Army." Emergency Relief and the Red Cross help servicemen with individual loans on an emergency basis. They don't help with continuing financial troubles.

A study of poverty in the Army to be published in the University of Chicago Press' Social Service Review declares that "the social fabric of the Army contributes to poverty, and no agency of the government has done more to create it."

It lays the blame on "a selective service system that inducts married men with or without children, an antiquated and inadequate military compensation system . . . and the inability of unwillingness of the Army to discharge most soldiers who are poor."

The study, by David N. Saunders, a former Army community services officer and sociologist, says that 6 to 8 per cent—or 30,000 to 40,000—of all Army families are poor and that an additional 40,000 to 50,000 subsist on marginal incomes.

Saunders says that three times in the past three years Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., asked the Defense Department to permit use of food stamps in its commissary. The Pentagon rejected the request each time, saying the benefits were neither uniform nor available in all areas; that their use would discriminate against some military personnel; and that by combining two forms of subsidization would unfairly compete with local retail stores.

The food stamp bill passed in the Senate last month would permit their use. The Pentagon says its policy is now under review. The Defense Department also is preparing a new pay proposal for next year that would lump the monthly pay and allowance system into a salary schedule and revise the retirement system in the first step towards a volunteer army.

But the Bureau of the Budget has already said that its price tag, pegged at about $4.8 billion for pay alone, is too expensive in this cost-conscious period.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ64 ♦KJ103 ♣7653

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—This hand is worth about 12 points in support of hearts, and the suggested call is a jump to three hearts. This would be an overbid in case you had not passed originally but, if partner has made a shaded bid, he need not go out.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J2 ♥QJ95 ♦Q1076 ♣KQ6

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—A response of two no trump is our choice. This is not up to the standard of a two no trump response but, in view of the previous pass, such a call may be made with 11 or 12 points. This hand contains 11, plus some slight values in the way of intermediates.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q54 ♥A109753 ♣7654

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♣ 1♥ 2♠ 3♥
4♦ 4♥ 6♣ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—In this situation, we would fear that the enemy can fulfill their slam contract and would choose to make a sacrifice bid of six hearts, but preparatory to doing so we would make a call of six diamonds so that if the enemy proceeds to seven clubs your partner will be apprised of your void in diamonds. Naturally, if doubled, it is your purpose to return to six hearts.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQJ54 ♥KQ654 ♦K2 ♣Q

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
2♥ Pass 4♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four no trump. A Blackwood call is recommended. It is not improbable in view of partner's strong bidding that he has three aces. If so, you should be willing to contract for slam. There is no real danger of getting overboard, for surely partner would not do such strong bidding without two aces.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1063 ♥A742 ♦AK64 ♣Q8

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass
2♣ Pass 2♥ Pass
3♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four clubs. Since you have better than an opening bid, you should make one more try for game and the recommended call is four clubs. It is hard to visualize a hand on which a 10-trick contract would not be safe on this sequence of bids.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K2 ♥Q102 ♦AQ104 ♣AQJ8

The bidding has proceeded:
East South

What do you bid?
A.—Our choice is for a bid of one no trump, which is preferred to the double for the reason that you have not ample preparation for the major suits. If partner chooses to bid hearts voluntarily, you will be prepared to support the suit.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠73 ♥Q85 ♦532 ♣K10764

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ 2♦ Pass Pass
2♥ 3♦ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. You have not sufficient values to justify voluntary action. Partner's hand is limited to some extent by the fact that he failed to double but merely reopened as cheaply as possible with another suit. He probably counted on you for this much when he reentered the auction.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10975 ♥K2 ♦10963 ♣Q32

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ 2♦ Pass Pass
2♥ 3♦ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Three spades. Partner must take your raise with a grain of salt inasmuch as you were unwilling to raise to two spades on the previous round. In view of your previous pass and the 2♥ in partner's suit, you may take the liberty of raising.

No Protection For Lion Tamer In St. Louis Zoo

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—In a sense there's protection for Jules Jacot at the St. Louis Zoo.

He ran away from the French Foreign Legion 61 years ago, and joined the circus. Now and again he wonders "if they're still looking for me."

If they are, they can find him six days a week in a cage with 19 lions, tigers, pumas and leopards. He's the lion tamer for the zoo now. He's also 79 years old.

Jacot was born in New York City in 1890, lived through his teen-age years in Leipzig, Germany, until he joined the French Foreign Legion at 17. He only stayed with them a year, returned to the United States and hooked up with the John H. Sparks circus in 1908 when circuses were what boys dreamed of.

His wife of 35 years is Mexican, and Jacot mastered her language. Now he even talks to his big cats in Spanish.

The job of lion tamer is far more than just walking into the lion's den. It's working with the animals seven days a week, helping feed them the 225 pounds of raw meat they eat daily. "They have to know you and you have to know them,"

Jacot says. "If you stay away, they will forget you, and we don't want that to happen."

Not long ago, one of the lions apparently forgot. Jacot stuck his head in the cat's mouth, and the mouth closed part way. His wounds patched up, Jacot was back with the cats again, tickling their bellies and riding them bareback and defying the French Foreign Legion.

Most Suspect Hairpieces Seen

LONDON (AP)—Only a fourth of the men who wear hairpieces are confident that their secret is never detected.

Nearly 65 per cent believe the toupee is spotted only occasionally. The other 10.5 per cent believe they are often found out.

These figures come from an investigation by Which, a British consumers' magazine. It questioned 196 men who use hairpieces.

Few wearers reported any embarrassment in making their first appearance with new hair. One reported: "Don't wear it if it makes you look younger than your wife: life would not be worthwhile."

one in the room. Later on, a blonde beauty was throwing herself all over a man who had been wearing a certain kind of after-shave lotion. The man had it made in the commercial. I tried to warn the young men in the room that wearing after-shave lotion was no guarantee of success when it came to blonde beauties. I pointed out that before I was married I had used the very after-shave lotion advertised and was slapped in the face six times before I decided to go home.

One of the members of the young group retorted that my experience took place before there was television. The final commercial had to do with shampoo. The young lady was shown shampooing her hair in the shower. After that it had become so silky that her eart for the evening could do nothing but run his hands through it all night long. I made the observation that running you hand through a girl's hair for any length of time was not only bad for her scalp but became very tiring.

But I couldn't seem to get the message across. In less than two hours the subteenagers had been educated to believe that if you drove a sports car, smoked cigarettes, used mouth wash and after-shave lotion, not to mention shampoo, you would achieve the final act of bliss. Are these kids in for a surprise.

The result of all this was evident at that White House staff meeting early last month. Robert J. Brown, the President's special assistant for minority affairs, reported to Stans, Ehrlichman, and the other participants that leading bankers have expressed grave doubts to him about the President's commitment to the program.

Nixon Asks Demos Shunt Partisanship And Work

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked the Democratic-controlled Congress to put aside partisanship and produce a legislative record which would make the administration and lawmakers proud.

In a message aimed at quieting the combat that has been growing between Republicans and Democrats over the pace of legislation, Nixon promised to meet Congress "more than halfway" to accomplish what needs to be done.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield praised Nixon's statement as "temperate, restrained, understanding, in good taste and good form."

But House majority leader Carl Albert spiced his comment with some peppery phrases accusing the administration of being slow to get its legislative program before Congress and of having divided views on many important issues.

The message was set for formal reading to Congress today but was released to the nation Sunday.

In it, Nixon stressed the idea of a working partnership between his administration and Congress to enact a program that will launch a new era of government reform.

"Let us resolve," he said, "to make the legislative issue of the 1970 campaign the question of who deserves the greater credit for the 91st Congress's record of accomplishment, not which of us should be held accountable because it did nothing."

Nixon acknowledged that partisans in both parties have been trying to blame each other for what the Republicans, at least, regard as the meager achievements of Congress to date.

"There may be merit in both charges," Nixon said. "neither the Democratic Congress or the Republican administration is without fault for the delay of vital legislation."

This was not the kind of message the Democrats had expected and some sharply worded replies that had been prepared had to be softened.

But the House feels it has a far more impressive record so far than the Senate and Albert declined to drop all the countercharges he had readied.

"Despite the President's comments," Albert said, "there is a greater sense of urgency in the Congress than in the administration."

Albert said much of what Nixon is recommending falls short of meeting the nation's needs, particularly in the areas of social security, education and protection of natural resources.

Albert readily accepted Nixon's challenge to let the voters decide who deserves more credit for congressional accomplishments.

With the record it has already made and will add to next year, Albert said, "the 91st Congress bids fair to be one of the really quality congresses of the century."

Nixon said reform is the watchword of the legislative program he wants enacted. He mentioned reforms of the draft, the welfare system, the tax code, the postal service, the electoral process and manpower programs as among his major aims.

Turner Again In Spotlight Of Graft Inquiry

Guardsmen Sent Back In Sanford

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott today sent North Carolina highway patrolmen into racially troubled Sanford today to assist local authorities at the request of Mayor Roy Stewart.

Violence erupted Sunday night in a predominantly Negro section of Sanford when police moved into the area to disperse groups of Negro and white youths.

Sporadic gunfire occurred after the crowds were broken up about 10:30 p.m., but by 1 a.m., today police said the area was relatively calm.

Sanford has been the scene of racial disturbances for several months.

Pete Thomas, Sanford Chief of Police, said persons in the crowd threw bricks, stones and bottles before they were dispersed.

The group of approximately 50 white persons broke up after being ordered to do so, Thomas said. The police chief said a group of about 40 Negroes refused to disperse and his men fired tear gas into the crowd.

Thomas said policemen received "sniper fire on several occasions" as they patrolled the area after the rock and bottle throwing incident. The police chief said no one was hit by the gun fire.

One policeman, patrolman Harry Taylor, was hit on the knee by a bottle. Thomas said Taylor was treated at a Sanford hospital and released.

One white man was arrested on a charge of discharging a firearm in the city. Thomas said his name was not available immediately.

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's wide-ranging probe into military graft turned again today to Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, the Army's former provost marshal charged with using his position to improperly obtain confiscated guns from civilian police departments.

ON SHOW — Johnnie Collins III, native of Greenville, N. C., can be seen on "The Doris Day Show" tonight at 9:30 p.m. on CBS. Collins, who just completed his first film for Twentieth Century Fox, "Along Came A Spider," with Suzanne Pleshette, will also be seen later this fall guest-starring on NBC's "The Bill Cosby Show."

Along with Turner, the Senate investigations subcommittee scheduled testimony from Chicago Police Supt. James Conlisk, who said last week the retired general had lied when claiming the guns were knowingly given to him for his personal use.

Conlisk had said Turner told him at the time he wanted the weapons for Army training and museum display and signed receipts stating they would be destroyed when no longer of use to the service.

Conlisk's remarks followed earlier testimony by Turner that Chicago Police knowingly handed the guns over to him.

"... They were going to destroy them and they gave them to me personally," Turner told the subcommittee headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chief U.S. Marshal before he was forced to resign last month in the face of the impending Senate hearings, went to Chicago last year to represent the Army chief of staff during rioting.

Also figuring in the investigation are weapons Turner said he got from the Kansas City and Fort Bliss, Tex., Police Departments.

Turner has already testified he disassembled some of the weapons for parts, destroyed others, sold "the cream of the crop" to a North Carolina gun dealer, pocketed the money and did not mention it in his 1968 income tax return.

The thrust of the Senate probe has been shifting back and forth between Turner's weapons dealings and a broader investigation of graft in the operation of non-commissioned officers clubs in the United States, Germany and Vietnam.

Thursday June Collins, an attractive booking agent who packages shows for the Army's club system in Vietnam, told the subcommittee that sergeants who managed the clubs demanded kickbacks from entertainers who were billed in their facilities.

Other witnesses have told of slot machine "skimming" practices in which club managers pocket some of the proceeds from the gambling devices.

Turner's name has cropped up in this phase of the probe for allegedly covering up charges against former Sergeant Major of the Army William O. Wooldridge, who has been linked with "skimming" and other criminal activities.

In an interview with the Washington Post Monday Gen. Harold K. Johnson, former Army Chief of Staff, said on the basis of facts before him in July, 1966, when he promoted Wooldridge to the then-new post as the Army's highest ranking enlisted man "I made the right decision and I would do it again."

Q. What causes headaches?

A. Headache is only a symptom and not a disease in itself. Pain in the head may be due to eye strain, sinusitis, tumors of the brain, stomach disorders or as is the case in the majority of cases, the pain may be due to nerve root irritation in the neck that cause changes in the blood circulation in the head.

Q. How do I know what causes my headaches?

A. The first step is to have a competent examination from your D. C. (Doctor of Chiropractic).

Q. What will the D.C. recommend after he examines me?

A. That depends on what he finds. He may advise treatment for you in his office. He may refer you to a specialist in another field if your case is one that in his opinion may respond better to some treatment other than chiropractic.

Robinson Lit Smouldering Feud With Hodges

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson's demeaning charge that the New York dugout has looked lifeless during the first two games of the World Series has ignited an open feud between the Baltimore slugger and Mets' Manager Gil Hodges. "I'm very happy Frank is watching us," Hodges said evenly but coldly in the Mets' dressing room Sunday after his underdog forces had tied the series at one victory each. "I hope he continues to watch us—who knows what will happen in right field? "I don't want to get involved with Frank Robinson but to me the Mets are normal people doing normal things on the bench." It may look like that to the mild-mannered manager of the Mets but it doesn't look like that to the outspoken outfielder of the Orioles. "I said Saturday I thought it was strange there was no enthusiasm on their bench when they got men on base in the seventh inning," Robinson said Sunday, "and there was no difference today. They got excited when they scored but there was no difference in between. "I think it is very, very strange they don't show any enthusiasm." And then he added quietly as he sat slumped in a chair in front of his locker in the Orioles' dressing room: "Tell Hodges to manage his ball club and I'll take care of right field." Robinson has taken care of right field extremely well in the first two games of the series but has done nothing at the plate, failing to collect a hit in seven trips as the Orioles won Saturday's opener 4-1, then bowed in the second game 2-1 Sunday. And as the clubs went through light workouts today in preparation for the resumption of the series Tuesday at Shea Stadium, Robinson still was bothered by a painful bruise on his left instep suffered when he fouled a ball off his foot during batting practice Sunday. It was expected that the starter Tuesday will be Gary Gentry, 13-12, for the Mets against Jim Palmer, 16-4, in the third game of this series in which the Mets have done their thing once and the Orioles still have failed to do theirs. While the Mets Sunday got the expected sharp pitching that is the key to their chances of completing their miracle season by upending the favored Orioles, Baltimore had yet to get the big hits it needs from the Big Three. That includes Frank and Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell, who have been collectively checked on two hits in 22 trips to the plate. Frank is hitless while rooks Robinson and Powell each have collected one hit—a single.

Koosman, the left-handed ace of the Mets' pitching staff, came on Sunday after the Orioles had beaten right-hander Tom Seaver in Saturday's opener and pitched no-hit ball until Paul Blair opened the seventh inning with a single. He allowed only one more run, but finally had to be relieved in the ninth when two-out walks to Frank Robinson and Powell put the Orioles in threatening position to overcome the 2-1 lead the Mets had fashioned in their half of the ninth.

Ron Taylor came on for Koosman and got Brooks Robinson to slap a grounder to third. Ed Charles grabbed the ball, saw he couldn't get a force at third and fired across the diamond to first baseman Donn Clendenon for the final out. Clendenon had put the Mets in front 1-0 with a leadoff homer in the fourth inning off Baltimore left-hander Dave McNally, but the Orioles got that back in the seventh when Blair singled, stole second and scored on a single by Brooks Robinson. It stayed that way until the top of the ninth when with two out, Charles singled, raced to third on a hit-and-run single by Jerry Grote and trotted home when Al Weis stroked the first pitch to him for a single to left. While Koosman produced the pitching the Mets need, Seaver couldn't Saturday as he allowed all four Baltimore runs before he was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning. At the same time, Mike Cuellar stopped the Mets on six hits. Don Buford got Baltimore started with a leadoff homer in the first inning and they added three more in the fourth inning when Seaver, who has been unable to run because of a pulled leg muscle, said he felt his stamina sapped. Cuellar singled in one of the runs during the fourth inning uprising, then went back to work on the mound and mastered the Mets the rest of the way in a routine game at quiet Memorial Stadium. Memorial Stadium, for the most part, was quiet through both games, neither crowd generating any of the enthusiasm and excitement that has followed the Mets throughout their amazing season—and there was an almost total absence of their

No Excuses, No Alibis For Richmond Defeat

By ED YOUNG
Associated Press Writer
Incredible Davidson quite literally was at the top of the Southern Conference football standings today and, figuratively at least, coach Homer Smith was black and blue all over. "I've been pinching myself all weekend," said Smith. "I'm scared I will wake up and find out I've been dreaming—that we really haven't played Richmond at all and that we still have to play them."

were painfully aware that what happened Saturday at Davidson's homecoming was anything but a dream. Maybe a nightmare, — a 37-7 nightmare, to be specific. But a dream, never. What happened, of course, was that Richmond's 1968 conference champs traveled to the Wildcat den firmly anticipating an easy victory, and were simply clawed to death by a 'Cat team that's still unbeaten. "We have absolutely no excuse, no alibi," said Spider coach Frank Jones. "We played a bad game against a very good team. We were not ready at all, and what happened was just what you'd expect in such a case."

As if the Davidson rout of Richmond weren't enough, Saturday also produced another, if somewhat less electrifying, upset — William and Mary's 21-14 dumping of The Citadel's previously unbeaten Bulldogs. The weekend developments left Davidson, now a four-game winner, atop the SC ladder with a 2-0 conference record and W&M's Indians, 2-2 over-all, just behind with a 1-0 league mark. The tie will not outlast this week, for Davidson takes its aerial circus to W&M this coming Saturday afternoon for a game that nobody ever really figured would be a key factor in the SC championship race. Two other games involving SC teams last Saturday came out less surprisingly, if unhelpfully, for conference clubs. Winless VMI, 0-4, scored its first points of the season but lost to Virginia 28-10 in Richmond's Tobacco-Festival game, and Furman, 1-2-1, was beaten at Wofford 49-7. W&M clipped The Citadel with 89 seconds remaining when John Bilbo blocked a Bulldogs punt and tackle Jim Greene picked up the loose ball at the 7-yard line and lumbered into the end zone. "We're getting better," said W&M coach Lou Holtz. "I was pleasantly surprised the way we held The Citadel's triple option in check. We really played up a heck of a defensive game."

Amazing Gordon Slade completed 32 of 43 passes, pitched for two touchdowns and scored three more for Davidson against shell-shocked Richmond which was never even in contention against the Wildcats. Although Jones made "no excuses" for his team's lopsided setback, his rival coach made one for him. Noting that a week earlier Richmond had beaten a hated enemy, Virginia Tech, Smith said he felt sure "they had what the newspapers call a letdown. The win over Tech took the wind out of 'em. They weren't at their best." Well, come to think of it, said Jones, maybe that was so. "We were still 'up' for Vir-

Elon And Lenoir Rhyme Roll On

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lenoir Rhyme and Elon, the top two teams in the Carolinas Conference, just keep rolling on along with wins Saturday. The Bears of Lenoir Rhyme defeated Appalachian 24-17 for their fourth straight win and Elon defeated Presbyterian, 24-17, for their third conference win.

The Bears held Appalachian to 74 yards rushing and intercepted four of quarterback Hal Queen's passes. Defensive back Mike Trempe picked off two of the passes as Lenoir Rhyme rolled up 227 yards rushing and 147 passing. Brian Jack, a 200-pound end, caught both of Mike McRee's touchdown passes.

Elon pulled its weekly come-from-behind-trick in the second half to down the Fighting Christians. Presbyterian had a 10-0 lead at the half but was unable to hold onto it as Elon roared back in the final stages. The win put Elon in a tie with Lenoir Rhyme for the conference lead. Both teams are 3-0 in the conference play although Elon has one loss on the non-conference slate.

Western Carolina defeated Catawba 22-16 and recorded his fourth straight victory. Western Carolina is not a member of the Carolinas Conference as it pulled out last year. Newberry came to life in the final quarter to defeat Concord (W. Va.) 25-17 for its second win of the year in the only other game Saturday involving conference team.

This Saturday's games have Appalachian at Catawba, Elon at Carson - Newman, Lenoir Rhyme at Guilford, Newberry at Wofford and Presbyterian has an open date.

Blue Devils, Gamecocks Can Cheer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Duke and South Carolina both had a good weekend in the Atlantic Coast Conference as they downed their conference opponents for important wins.

South Carolina defeated N. C. State 21-16 to remain on top of the ACC and Duke rolled over Wake Forest 27-20. It was the first victory of the season for the Blue Devils.

Duke took an early 14-0 lead over the Deacons Saturday and then saw a stubborn Wake Forest team roar back to cut it to 14-10 at the half.

The big power for the Blue Devils was Leo Hart who completed 21 of 28 passes during the afternoon.

Hart's passes in the third period enabled the Blue Devils to score in five plays and make it 20-10 and the lead proved to be too much for the Deacons.

South Carolina had to come from behind to defeat the Wolfpack Saturday night in Columbia.

The Wolfpack led the Gamecocks 3-0 at the end of the first half and then scored in the third period on a two-yard plunge by Leon Mason.

The Gamecocks quickly returned the kickoff near the mid-field stripe and with two passes from quarterback Tommy Suggs, moved to the State three-yard line. Billy Ray Rice ran the ball in for the touchdown to make the score 10-7 after the kick.

State forced to turn the ball over to the Gamecocks after failing to move with it, kicked to Jimmy Mitchell, who return it 72-yards for another touchdown.

Gamecock fullback Warren Muir scored the final TD on a run from the one-yard line.

Wake Forest is now 1-2 in the conference, with it's only win of the season over N. C. State. State is now 2-2 in league play.

The Virginia Cavaliers rolled over Virginia Military Institute, 28-10, in the 21st annual Tobacco Festival game. The Cavaliers scored three touchdowns in the first quarter Saturday to take a 21-0 lead and then were forced to fight back a pesky VMI team which would not quit.

Syracuse defeated Maryland 20-9 in what was mainly a kicking game until the fourth quarter. Neither team scored a TD until the last quarter although both teams had scored with field goals.

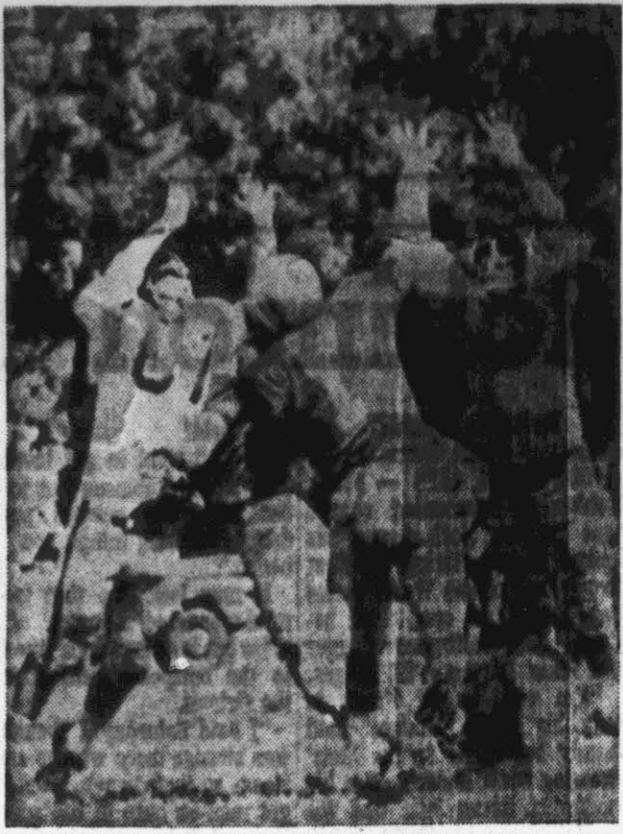

Auburn closed Clemson out 51-0 in an inter-sectional game. Sophomore quarterback Pat Sullivan was the big gun for the Auburn team.

North Carolina's stubborn defense was able to keep Air Force's offensive game bottled up for much of the afternoon Saturday, but the Cadets came up with two touchdowns in the final quarter to defeat the Tar Heels 20-10.

UNC had led 10-7 at the half, but was unable to score in the second half while Cadet quarterback Gary Baxter passed for one TD and ran for another to lead the Air Force comeback.

Next Saturday's schedule has Wake Forest at Clemson, Duke at Maryland, North Carolina at Florida, North Carolina State at Virginia and South Carolina at Virginia Tech.

Staubach Shows Dallas Some QBs Still Run

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Roger Staubach, the former Navy star who had to wait five years to start pro football, furnished something of a sensation when he ran 125 yards in order to gain 14.

Fans of the Dallas Cowboys got a big charge out of Roger Staubach's unique doings when he stepped in for injured Craig Morton to start at quarterback against Baltimore.

He made mistakes as all rookies do and they contributed to a 23-7 Baltimore victory, yet Staubach got the most mention. Though he had four passes intercepted, he turned in some of the niftiest running ever by a Cowboy player.

Staubach runs all over the field and he'll keep doing it until he can find an opening or a receiver.

On the hilarious run that almost wore down the Baltimore defenders, the high-stepping Staubach ran from the center of the field to the right sideline, then seeing he was cut off, turned and ran back across the field. But still there were fellows in close pursuit and he couldn't see daylight down the left sideline. So he turned again and ran across the field.

Near the right sideline, he noted an opening, so he took it and raced 14 yards before being brought down.

It was estimated that he ran 125 yards to get in position for his gainer. He was timed on television film and found that his run took 31 seconds.

Baltimore players said Staubach was a greater scrambler than Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants, which is some scrambling.

Baltimore players also said they hoped they never had to play against him again because they had to run more than in any previous game trying to bring him down. But they may face Staubach on Dec. 13 when the Colts visit Dallas for a league game.

Defensive line star Bubba Smith of the Colts said "I never ran so much in all my life. He's unbelievable. I've never seen anything like it."

Staubach scored the only Dallas touchdown with one of his dodging runs that had the Colts in a turmoil.

It wasn't the longest run ever made in football when Staubach did his 125-yard stint, but it may have taken the longest time.

National Football League observers recalled similar antics of George McAfee at Chicago in the forties and there have been some runs like that in college football.

Ray Evans ran over 100 yards to score in the Kansas-Missouri Game of 1946. Missouri was leading 13-0 with time running out in the first half. Evans was back to pass but before he could get the throw away the gun ended the half. However, with the ball still in play Evans ran to his left almost to the sideline, reversed and raced back to the other sideline, then went back across again to finally score.

It got Kansas back into the game and it went on to win.

But the longest run in football history is claimed by Texas A&M Victor M. (Choc) Kelley, who played at A&M in 1905-6-7, at Carlisle in 1908 and back at A&M in 1909, made the great run against Louisiana State. He went back and forth across the field four times, then sprinted 65 yards for a touchdown. The entire run was set at 267 yards. It would have been 277 had not Kelley gone 10 yards back of the line of scrimmage to begin his dazzling maneuver.

The 27-year-old North Carolinian who tried the PGA tour in 1964-65, said he entered the tourney to gain more experience before trying the tour again.

Sam Adams of Boone, N. C., finished in a four-way tie for fourth and collected $750 for his 36-hole total of 141.

Martin Awaits Telephone Call

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Billy Martin, apparently admitting he won't return as manager of the Minnesota Twins, still waited today for the New York telephone call that would really tell him whether or not he will return as the club's 1970 skipper.

Calvin Griffith, Twins president, was to call Martin this morning to discuss the managerial position, held by Martin this past season when the Twins jumped from seventh place to the West Division title of the American League.

The Minneapolis Tribune said in today's editions that Martin won't be rehired.

"When I call Martin Monday it won't be to tell him that he will be manager of the Twins next year," Griffith said Sunday night.

Martin, when told of the Tribune quote, said:

"It's pretty clear isn't it? I have no comment. He (Griffith) led me to believe he would tell me personally. If that's his way of doing it, fine."

Sonja Henie Dies Of Leukemia; Burial To Be In Native Norway

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Sonja Henie, who put ice skating into show business and made millions, will be buried in her native Norway.

Miss Henie died Sunday night aboard an ambulance plane bringing her home from a vacation in France with her third husband, shipping magnate Nils Onstad. She was 57 and had been suffering from leukemia for nine months, but the public and most of her friends did not know.

The condition of the three-time Olympic gold medalist suddenly worsened in Paris and a doctor who was called in advised Onstad to take her home.

"We had been flying only an hour and she just slept away," the husband said.

Miss Henie kept up her skating—and her 110-pound, 5-foot-2 figure—after she stopped performing in the mid-1950s, but after her marriage to Onstad in 1956 she devoted more and more time to the outstanding collection of modern art which he had started.

In 1958, the Onstads gave Norway 250 of their paintings, housing them in the $3.5 million Høvikodden Art Center which they built outside Oslo. Miss Henie's many skating trophies have been on display in the art center since last year, and recently she announced plans to build a retirement home next to the museum.

An American citizen since 1941, Miss Henie kept a mansion in the Holmby Hills section of Los Angeles and she and Onstad also maintained an estate near Oslo and an apartment in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Her success story began with a family Christmas gift of skates in 1920, when she was a chubby 8-year-old blonde. The following year she won Oslo's junior skating championship, and three years later competed in her first Olympics—finishing last.

She won her first world figure skating championship in 1927, and new titles came in quick succession: her first Olympics gold medal in 1928, again in 1932 and 1936; the European championship every year from 1929 through 1936.

She turned professional in 1936, making a tour of the United States in an ice show. Her skill and showmanship, her flashing smile and brilliant technique, and her lavish productions of dance on ice captivated the public and packed arenas across the country.

She told interviewers that she wanted to go into the movies, "to do with skates what Fred Astaire is doing with dancing." When her show reached Hollywood, the story goes, her manager breathlessly reported that producer Darryl Zanuck was at the arena.

"What shall I do?" he asked. "Sell him a ticket," Miss Henie answered.

Zanuck offered her $10,000 a picture, but she held out for $100,000. Negotiations stall briefly, then Zanuck's aide let her know that the producer wanted to see her.

"Then let Mr. Zanuck call me," she replied. They finally got together, and her films reportedly grossed $25 million.

Miss Henie's first husband was millionaire sportsman Dan Topping, whom she divorced in 1946 after a 5½-year marriage. She married Winthrop Gardiner Jr., scion of an old New York family, in 1949. They were divorced in May 1956, and she married Onstad the next month.

Ft. Dix MPs Turn Back 5,000 'Protestors'

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — Some 5,000 demonstrators against the Vietnam war, Army justice and the treatment of racial militants swarmed on this post Sunday in a confrontation with 1,000 military policemen.

The impromptu invasion was finally repulsed with jets of tear gas which drove the racially mixed group, many coughing and wheezing, off a field near the base family housing area.

There were no arrests and, except for the effects of the gas, no reported injuries.

"We have made our point," Herb Dryer, a demonstration leader, shouted through a bullhorn to the retreating crowd. The demonstration brought together members of such varied organizations as the Catholic Peace Fellowship, the Black Panther party, the Puerto Rican Young Lords and students from Princeton, Columbia, New York and other universities in the area.

The demonstration was organized at a coffee house in nearby Wrightstown which has served as a meeting place for dissident

Ft. Dix personnel.

The protesters marched to Ft. Dix under the banner of the "Committee to Save the Ft. Dix 38"—reference to a group of servicemen accused of fomenting a riot while imprisoned in the base stockade last June.

While military police barricaded road entrances to the base, the demonstrators, mostly young and including a number of helmeted young women, veered off the highway into the empty field.

Within minutes hundreds of gas-masked MPs arrived to repel the marchers.

The two groups confronted each other at close quarters with the demonstrators inches away from the troops' bayonets. Many shouted, "We're on your side!" and "The brass lives high and GIs die!"

After repeated appeals to the demonstrators to leave, Col. Bernard Carr, post provost marshal, gave the order to fire the tear gas.

Army spokesmen said rifles carried by the MPs were not loaded, although bayonets were attached.

The Army contends that only 35 men were involved in the stockade disturbance, that only four have been sentenced so far and that investigation's still pending for only six.

Possibly Involved In Gun-Running Scheme

RALEIGH (AP) — A Fayetteville gun shop owner under indictment for possession of unregistered firearms may have been inadvertently involved in the gun-running activities of the Central Intelligence Agency, the Raleigh News and Observer said in a copyrighted story Sunday.

The story said details of the case came to light after Earl Reddick, owner of the Pine State Gun Shop in Fayetteville, was mentioned during testimony before the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations last week.

During the inquiry into Army service club scandals, the investigators were told that guns sold to Reddick by the former Provost Marshal General of the Army, Maj. Gen. Carl Turner, were part of a five-ton cache of arms destined for rebels in Haiti seized by U. S. agents June 26.

The newspaper said its information on the "cloak and dagger scheme" possibly involving the CIA was pieced together from interviews with Reddick, his lawyer Carl Barrington Jr. of Fayetteville "and others."

The story said the guns confiscated at Reddick's farm by agents of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the Treasury Department belonged to a Yonkers, N. Y. gun dealer named George Demeo.

It said the arms and military supplies were supposed to be part of a shipment to Chad in West Africa and Reddick and Demeo received orders for a clandestine delivery.

The two became suspicious, contacted "a highly placed United States official" in Washington, and were contacted by the FBI.

But the FBI pulled out of the case suddenly and Demeo received a change of delivery plans. Then, "whether out of ignorance or not," the Treasury officials made their June raid, the newspaper said.

The story said the case has caused embarrassment and "flurry" in Washington and said the details point "directly to the CIA and the gun-running that its so-called 'spooks' have engaged in for years to back up their covert schemes abroad."

Toastmasters Will Form Club

Area Governor of Toastmasters International, Richard D. Weimar of Grifton, has announced that an organizational meeting will be held at Pitt Technical Institute, Thursday, 7:30 p.m., for the purpose of organizing a Toastmasters Club in Greenville.

A toastmasters club is an organized group which provides its members with a program to begin and improve their abilities in public speaking and to develop their leadership and executive potential, Weimar said.

Toastmasters International is a non-profit organization of more than 70,000 members having over 3,500 Toastmaster Clubs in 47 countries of the free world. It was founded in 1924, and since that time, more than one million men have benefited from membership in the organization, Weimar said.

So that members may enjoy frequent opportunity to speak, each club is limited to a maximum of 40 members, he noted. There are no occupational, educational, social or religious barriers to membership in Toastmasters International, added Weimar.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire wants to "bolster congressional control over the federal budget by making objective studies available" on the costs and priorities of administration proposals.

The Wisconsin Democrat said today a staff unit should be created in the Joint Economic Committee to provide facts so Congress can determine which programs should receive the highest national priority.

As envisioned by Proxmire, the staff unit would include eight to ten highly qualified economists, statisticians and program experts.

He said Congress, "with its modest staff resources, is too often at the mercy of executive department decisions."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Control Administration today recommended federal standards be established to control radiation from electronic educational equipment.

The agency, acting after a survey of 181 high schools, said standards to limit x-rays from certain tubes used in high schools are being developed by the bureau of radiological health.

The survey found that improper use of many radiation sources available for science instruction "could pose a potential exposure problem" for students and teachers, the ECA said.

It added that a Chicago company, as a result of another survey finding, has agreed to comply with an ECA directive to stop selling three types of electronic tubes designed for use in demonstrating scientific principles.

Capital Quote
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — "There hasn't been any progress in Paris for the last two or three months and I would doubt very much that there would be any progress unless it is clear that President Nixon's policy is supported by the American public." — Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Revival Services Now In Progress

Revival services are in progress at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church and will continue through Saturday night, Oct. 18 at 7:30 each night. The Rev. J. W. Everton of Wilson is the evangelist and will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. Cedric D. Pierce Jr.

The annual homecoming services will be observed on Sunday, October 19 and will begin with Sunday School at 10 o'clock. The homecoming message will be delivered by the pastor. A picnic lunch will be served at the noon hour and will be followed by an inspirational musical program in the afternoon.

The pastor and the church membership extend a welcome to all former pastors and members, and friends to attend these services.

Black Judaists Living In Liberia Edging To Israel

By MORT ROSENBLUM

GBATALA, Liberia (AP) — A band of Negroes who chose Judaism in the Liberian jungle as refuge from American racial strife has begun slowly drifting toward Israel.

"If Elohim (God in Hebrew) wishes it, we will go," said 30-year-old Ben Ammi, their leader.

"History is repeating itself. The children of Israel are in the wilderness again, on their way home."

Their wilderness is thick bush where Ami-once Ben Carter of Chicago—and 486 followers came to settle in 1967. They set up tents in a makeshift camp east of this crossroads village.

Only about 85 of the self-named Hebrew Israelites remain, with perhaps another dozen minding three communal ice cream parlors in Liberia's seaport capital of Monrovia 100 miles south, and the Bong County seat of barnga.

There have already gone to Israel and others are scraping up the funds. A delegation asked the Israeli Embassy in Monrovia for airplane tickets a month ago but the government of Israel refused. There's a question whether Israel wants them at all. An embassy spokesman said that with their American passports they can stay three months—after that they must show they won't be burdens on the state.

Ammi's group claims descent from one of the 10 lost tribes. "They're not Jewish... but there's no reason why they couldn't come to Israel," said one Israeli official privately. "Why not?"

Transportation is likely to be the biggest problem. Although Ammi told one reporter his group's enterprises earned $40,000 in 1968, the biggest breadwinner—a band called the Soul Messengers—broke up after their instruments were seized in a legal matter.

Ammi would not discuss it, but presumably much of their profit goes to feeding the camp. Other Israelites said the camp's planting was going badly.

There was little evidence of active farming at the camp. Children, all wearing bright skullcaps, shot baskets at two improvised goals erected in a clearing. Empty muscatel bot-les lay in the weeds near a half-finished concrete block structure. Hebrew is spoken in snatches.

Most in the camp are children, who formed a two-thirds majority from the start. One woman who left angered a year ago had nine children. The American Embassy repatriated them all.

The remaining Israelites are a hardy. An inquiring white gets a stare in the Monrovia shops the minute the conversation drifts from soft ice cream. There has been some bitterness among Liberians and one Monrovia editor was outraged to find Liberian reporters were asked to pay for interviews.

Others have criticized the group for failing to integrate in Liberia, founded by freed American slaves in 1847.

One friendly Israelite, dispensing banana ice cream and hamburgers at Gbarnga, spoke in longing terms of moving to Israel.

He spends most of his time in the camp, coming up to Gbarnga on a rotation basis to run the shop. "It's a change, a relief from the boredom," he told a white newsman to whom he displayed a solid knowledge of the Black Jews (Falasha) of Ethiopia.

"I'll be going to Israel soon," he said. "Maybe if you go next spring, you'll see me there on a kibbutz. I can't get away right now."

Eisenhower Stamp On Sale

A stamp honoring the late Dwight D. Eisenhower will be placed on sale in Abeline, Kansas, on Tuesday. General sale over the rest of the country will begin Wednesday.

Abeline was the birthplace of the former president, and he is now buried there.

The vertical format of the stamp, to be the same size as the recent moon issue, is based on a photograph made by Bernice Noble of the Cleveland Press. The photo captures the grin which was President Eisenhower's trademark. Mrs. Eisenhower approved the design.

The lettering across the top of the design, "U.S. 6 cents Postage" will be in blue, while that at the bottom "Dwight D. Eisenhower" is in red. The vignette is in black.

Two more stamps are planned for issue this year. The annual Christmas stamp will be placed on sale in early November, while later in the month, a stamp honoring the Easter Seal Society will be issued.

Graham spoke to the 15th annual Massing of the Colors and Service of Remembrance in San Diego to honor the nation's soldiers killed in battle.

To Begin Buying Sweet Potatoes

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Government purchases of North Carolina sweet potato crop grade one will begin this week in an effort to eliminate the overcrowded market and resulting low prices, Congressman Walter B. Jones announced Monday.

Purchases will be made directly from the farmers and producers by the A.S.C.S. office. "I hope this arrangement will help relieve the congestion which has developed in the marketing program," Jones said.

Distribution will be to certified agencies eligible to receive surplus foods, such as the public school lunch programs, Jones said.

Around 2,000 acres of the crop are grown in the first District with around 400 in Pitt and 500 in Beaufort.

Youth To Fore In Labor Party

LONDON (AP) — Striving for a new and vigorous look in advance of the general election, Prime Minister Harold Wilson dipped into his Labor party's rank and file for younger men and made a number of changes among junior ministers Sunday.

He reorganized the upper brackets of the government a week ago.

Two ministers of state, eight Parliamentary secretaries and three Parliamentary whips were dropped, and 13 new men were brought into the government. Altogether there were 31 new appointees who averaged 38 years age. The average age of those leaving was 60.

The changes reduced the size of the government from 105 ministers to 97.

There are 13 Shriners' Crippled and Burns Hospitals throughout the United States, Rasberry said. The hospital for this area is in Columbia, S.C.

Call In Sick If Weather Fine

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday was a beautiful Indian summer day here. The second game of the World Series was on television. And 248 Long Island Railroad crewmen called in sick. Trains were delayed up to 45 minutes.

"Whenever the nice weather comes, the boys don't show up, and we've had this problem every year for a long time," said Hank Boerner, director of public relations for the LIRR.

George Clark, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, said Sunday that good weather and baseball might have contributed to the plague.

"They're out for the reasons best known to them personally," he said. "But nobody is acting in concert. There's no sinister reason behind it."

Says Vatican To Send Emissaries

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — John A. Volpe, secretary of transportation, says Pope Paul VI plans to send emissaries to Washington to keep in touch with the Nixon administration.

Volpe, here to receive a Catholic Man of Action Award Sunday from the Delaware Valley knights of Columbus, said he discussed communications between Washington and the Vatican during a recent visit to Rome.

The secretary said he told the Pope that President Nixon planned frequent visits to the Vatican by Cabinet officials.

Tremors Rock Village In Greece

IOANNINA, Greece (AP) — Earth tremors rocked this picturesque town near the Greek-Albanian border at 3 a.m. today, injuring 18 persons and damaging scores of homes and farm dwellings.

Police said falling ceilings caused most of the injuries. A quake on Sunday in the same area injured an 18-year-old boy seriously and caused damage to neighboring villages close to the Albanian border.

Textile Profit Squeeze More Like Stranglehold

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — While most businesses bask in a warm glow of prosperity, the nation's textile industry is caught in a profit squeeze that is looking more and more like a stranglehold.

While economic forecasts vary, all reflect gains in the marketplace.

But the textile industry is seeing its domestic market become inundated by foreign imports, manufactured for less and sold at higher profits abroad.

Textile men and congressmen from textile states say the only salvation is voluntary controls in agreements between foreign and domestic industry—or Congress is going to have to act.

The climate is becoming more favorable for federal controls over textile imports.

The seriousness of the economy within the industry is reflected in financial statements. West Point-Pepperell Inc., ended its fiscal year with profits down 18 per cent from last year.

Bibb Manufacturing Co. ended its fiscal year with a loss of $2. million.

Burlington Industries, the giant of the industry with 130 plants and 83,000 employees, reports net earnings per share at $2.32 through nine months of

Poison Dumped In Elbe River

LUENEBURG, Germany (AP) — Hundreds of dead fish floating on the Elbe River in West Germany may have been poisoned by an unidentified substance dumped by a sulfur refinery in East Germany, police say.

They said the poison probably had been diluted enough not to cause damage by the time it reached the Elbe from the Aland River, a tributary. But farmers were warned against watering livestock in the Elbe.

The poison was believed to have originated at a sugar plant at Aendsee, just across the East-West border.

this fiscal year, compared with $2.34 for the same period last year.

But Burlington's profits held primarily because of diversification. The corporation makes thousands of different products. But it also has acquired two furniture companies.

Textile men have called for controls of imports for years, and many of them feel that the next session of Congress is going to provide them.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stands toured Europe and Japan recently to discuss the possibility of agreements on controls of imports. But he made little, if any, progress.

There is a strong sentiment in both houses of Congress to enact legislation to provide some kind of restraint on imports.

In the present economy, the Japanese can import cotton from the United States, manufacture it and sell it back to this country cheaper than American companies can market similar products.

Some of the industry's problems are traced to Public Law 480, which provides that the United States can sell certain agricultural products to foreign countries, such as cotton, but that the money for these products cannot be brought back into this country. It has to be spent in that country.

This money usually is spent through the military or embassy services. Textile men argue that this does nothing to improve this country's balance of payments.

For nine years, imports of textiles have been greater than exports. The difference is called the balance of payments.

The balance of payments on all commodities has been at a very sharp edge for a long time and the gold reserve has been going down continuously in recent years because there have been more imports than exports.

Textile men argue that if the cotton imports were cut off completely, it would go a long way toward strengthening the nation's gold reserves.

There are nearly one million persons employed in textile manufacturing in this country, approximately half of them in the South.

The Japanese can undersell the American producers by about 1.5 cents or cents a pound and the American industry figures at the present rate, Japan will have about 25 per cent of the textile market in this country within ten years.

The industry argues that with few exceptions, foreign textiles sell in this country only because they are produced at extremely low wages abroad.

Many industry spokesmen are hopeful that foreign industry will negotiate with American industry, rather than run the risk of controls being imposed by Congress.

They feel that foreign businesses, especially Japanese, would rather talk turkey with U.S. businessmen than run the risk of killing the goose that is laying the golden egg.
